NEW EAGLE SCOUTS

1976 Wheat Harvest Opens with Yields Much Higher Than Expected

Harvest has started on what may well be the county's miracle crop of recent years. Yields are as much as twice what some of the growers expected in the spring. For a time it looked as if it might be the shortest crop of the decade, due to prolonged winter drought.

Spring rains have changed all of that, and with harvesting still in its early stages, reports of dryland yields averaging 30 bushels per acre have come in.

The Farmers Co-op Enterprises at Dodson reported Walter Sanderson delivered the first wheat to that facility on Tuesday, June 2.

He delivered a load to Singley Mill in Wellington the following day.

The Dodson load of about

24,000 pounds was of "real good quality," according to John Barton, manager.

Most of the wheat received there has been No. 1, although some yellow wheat has appeared. This carries a dock of about 10 cents per bushel.

The yields are averaging 22 or 23 bushels per acre at this point, Mr. Barton said.

"The crop is about twice what we expected," he reported of the Dodson area. "We thought for a while it would burn up. Very little is out so far."

Mr. Singley said he received 107,000 pounds on the first day of harvest.

His first wheat tested 63 pounds with 13.09 moisture content.

Most growers who have harvested so far are holding their wheat off the market. "We haven't bought any yet," Mr. Singley said.

Most of the grain delivered to him is averaging 15 to 20 bushels per acre, however, Mr. Singley reported that L.C. Hill had one 53 acre patch that averaged a little over 30 bushels.

Some of the wheat is still a little bit green and humidity in the air is slowing harvest in ripe fields.

He called this a "pretty fair wheat crop with good quality."

Glenn Warrick of Warrick's Inc., also emphasized the quality of this year's crop. "It seems to be better than last year," he said.

He called the harvest as "starting to get started," and it will be a week or so before cutting will be in full swing.

South of Salt Fork, yields are considerably better than last year, Mr. Warrick said, but hail damaged the crop north of the river, cutting short the expected yields in some communities.

"The market price is considerably better than anyone expected. Everyone is in pretty good spirits," he summed up. However, it was pointed out that while the price is better than last year, it fluctuates widely during one day's period and buyers are reluctant to quote a local price.

Guard Goes to Camp at Ft. Hood

Wellington National Guardsmen join other units of the 49th Armored Division at Fort Hood to begin summer training Monday, June 14. They will return Saturday, June 26.

An advanced party left Wednesday, June 9, and the remainder of the men will leave Friday, according to Sgt. James Harris.

Six men made up the advanced unit, taking two vehicles and all supplies the men will need during the two weeks they are in camp.

During the first week of training the men will stay in the cantonment area at North Fort Hood.

In addition to classes and participation in live fire exercises, along with other outdoor training assemblies, Wellington's Detachment 1 has been asked to organize and supervise a mortar range, Sgt. Harris announced.

This unit, which is Detachment 1, Support Company, 2nd Battalion of the 142nd Infantry (Mechanized), is a heavy mortar platoon and has had considerable experience with the 105 mm mortar (4.2 inch). All other units in this battalion use light mortars, the 81 mm, he explained.

"All our people are fairly familiar with the mortar, and we have been asked to set up and supervise the mortar range for those shooting the 81 mm," Harris said.

The men will have the next weekend, June 19 and 20, off, and several families from here will go to join their husbands.

On Monday morning after this leave, the Wellington men go into the field for four days of practical exercises.

During this time, they will be given numerous field problems, including work under live fire—ineffect, war games. They will return to the cantonment area Thursday and prepare Friday for the movement back to the home station, arriving in Wellington Saturday night or early Sunday.

The Battalion commander, Lt. Col. Royce Ivory of Lubbock and his staff, along with the Division commander and staff, will be among the Guardsmen at all times observing their work.

Capt. Daniel E. Catherall of Amarillo is the Support Company commander.

Making up the advanced party were 1st. Sgt. Donald R.

Settle; Supply Sgt. J.B. King; Sgt. Paul Gollighugh, Sgt. Harris, Sgt. R.L. Hunnicutt, and Sp/4 Julian Torrez.

Following Friday will be 1st. Lt. Edgar L. Bailey, platoon leader; S-Sgt. Orval Tyson; Sgt. Epivanio Castillo, Jr.; Sgt. Andy Henard, Sgt. Rick Molsenbocker, Sp/4 James H. Jones, Sp/4 Lanny McGill; Sp/4 Bobby Shurbs; and Pvt. Thomas Sterling.

For the first time this year, two men will stay behind as recruiters and during most of the two weeks of the summer camp period, they will be traveling through the area recruiting men for the unit. These are S-Sgt. John R. Henard and Sgt. Nicky Watts.

Sgt. Harris said that several men were excused from summer camp this year due to their farming operations and enrollment in summer school.

TO BOYS STATE

These two were selected by Frank King Post of the American Legion to attend Boys State on the campus of the University of Texas, Austin. Joe Baumgardner, left, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Baumgardner. Robert Cruz is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Abelino Del Bosque of Samnorwood. Both will be seniors in their schools this fall.

Softball Tourney Will Be Held June 18 to 20

Wellington will host the first of two invitational slow-pitch softball tournaments on Friday through Sunday, June 18 to 20, at the newly remodeled Marian Airpark ball field.

According to present arrangements, the tournament will be limited to 16 teams. This will include all those playing in the Wellington Slow-Pitch Softball Association, five or six from Amarillo and the remainder from surrounding towns.

The remainder of the announcements will be announced next week, as plans are finalized. This will include the time of the sessions and the playing bracket.

"If you want to see some really good softball, come out during the tournament," urged Jackie Gunnels, one of the coaches.

"We have some good teams and some from Amarillo are excellent. You won't see any better softball anywhere."

With the first half of play completed, all Wellington teams are using this week and the first part of the next week to practice for the tournament.

This event will bring several hundred players and fans into Wellington for the three days.

Forty-Year Teaching Career Ends for Mrs. Vernon Peters

After 40 years of teaching in the public schools of Texas and Western Oklahoma, Mrs. Vernon Peters retired at the end of the term this year. She was teaching first grade in the Wellington Elementary School.

In this period she has taught every grade, but most of her instruction has been to first grade students.

Mrs. Peters began teaching in Wellington in September 1954, but she and Mr. Peters, a farmer and rancher, continued living at their home northwest of Vinson, Oklahoma. During these 22 years, it is a conservative estimate that she drove more than 158,000 miles. It was a round trip of 40 miles each day.

The country was settling into the Great Depression when Mrs. Peters, then Freda Talkington, began teaching in a one-room school at Sulphur, Oklahoma, in 1931. The next year she and Mr. Peters were married, and she taught at Carl, Union Grove and Vinson, for a total of 18 years in Harmon County, Oklahoma.

The one, two and three-room country schools were the backbone of education in most counties of this area, and like others who began their career in that period, Mrs. Peters has many delightful memories.

She was her own janitor and fire-builder. At one school,

MRS. VERNON PETERS

Mrs. Peters remembers, a large field of corn grew alongside. During the winter that followed, corn stalks were the only kindling available. It took some work indeed to get the fire burning in the big pot-bellied stove.

Carl, northwest of Madge several miles, was a two-teacher school, and its operation continued until about 1940. There was a store at Carl and a number of families living in the area.

Union Grove, located on a corner of the Peters' land, was the last one-room school to operate in Harmon County. She taught at both.

Mrs. Peters was born at Vinson, the daughter of Mrs. Roswell Talkington and the late Mr. Talkington, and has lived there all her life.

A graduate of Vinson High School, she received a B.S. degree in Education from Southwestern Institute of Technology, now Southwestern University, at Weatherford.

Heart Attack Takes Life of Vernon Rudy

Vernon A. Rudy, 62, of 1301 East 9th Street, died of an apparent heart attack at his farm near Quail Thursday, June 3, about 7:45 p.m. He had gone there earlier to work.

He was a life-long Collingsworth County resident.

Mr. Rudy operated a garage here for many years, but more recently, he had done custom farming.

He was a member of First Baptist Church, the Masonic Lodge and Glynn Moore Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars. During World War II, he served with the Seabees in Iceland.

Vernon Andrew Rudy was the son of the late C.A. and Kate Johnson Rudy, and was born here July 22, 1913. He grew up in the Plymouth community and attended Plymouth School.

He was married to Miss Edna Harper of Wellington on

City Council Buys New Mini-Computer

Wellington City Council voted Monday night, June 7, to purchase a mini-computer which will do most, if not all, of the bookkeeping work and billing for the city.

The city will take bids on the machine, but the cost will be in the neighborhood of $21,000, it was indicated.

The action was taken after members were told of the problems with the present billing machine, the numerous breakdowns during heavy billing periods, and the difficulty in getting repair service. The machine is obsolete, the council was told by City Manager Tiny Taylor, and only one person is presently available in this area to work on these machines.

Revenue sharing money due the city was designated to pay for the machine. This action was taken when it was discovered interest could amount to as much as $11,000 if it is taken on a lease purchase agreement.

Bids will be opened July 5. The council heard L.B. Bratten, who developed the Bratten Addition to the City of Wellington. He installed water and sewer lines in the addition, which was started in the early 1960's, and has received no reimbursement from the city.

After this, a change in policy of the council now makes possible reimbursement to developers for much of the cost of installation of water and sewer lines.

Mr. Bratten had been invited to explain his private ownership of these lines in his addition, since some of the members were not familiar with the contract between him and the city when the development started.

The council next approved operation of a taxi service by Marvin Manuel should he decide to qualify for this. Operation of a taxi would require that the operator be bonded, covered by insurance, pay an occupation tax and have a chauffers license.

Councilman Wayne Cudd was approved as the city's representative before the Railroad Commission on June 21 at a hearing on application for certificate of necessity on water and sewer service.

Mr. Cudd also asked for a report on the operation of the public water meter, and the income derived from it.

Mr. Taylor reported that during the clean-up campaign,

Farmers Get New OSHA Regulations

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) has issued a Machine Guarding Standard for agriculture. The purpose is to protect farm owners and their employees from hazards associated with moving parts of farm machinery.

Beginning June 7, guards or shields must be placed on power take-off drives for tractors, swathers, cotton pickers, hay balers and all other field equipment, such as loaders, augers, grain dryers, mixers etc.

Farm employers cannot permit any employee to operate machinery around the farmstead unless the power drive is guarded.

Farm employees must be instructed in the safe operation and servicing of tractors, field implements and equipment they operate.

By September 7, 1976, farmers must equip all electric powered farmstead equipment with mechanical or electrical disconnect devices designed to prevent equipment from being inadvertently or accidentally started while it is being serviced or repaired.

Failure to take necessary safeguards could result in a citation or penalty.

H. K. Ballard Resigns Church Youth Position

H.K. Ballard has resigned as youth director at the church of Christ effective July 1, he announced this week.

He has been named youth minister of Sunset church of Christ in Fort Worth, a place he says he feels has much potential.

Mr. Ballard came here 11 months ago from White Settlement church of Christ, also in Ft. Worth.

He and his wife have two young daughters, Jennifer, four, and Sarah, who will be two on July 7.

Mr. Ballard covered the football games for The Wellington Leader during the 1975 season.

Piano Teacher Describes Home Studio Experience

Mrs. Jesse Peters, a Wellington music teacher, has had an article in the spring issue of Staff Notes, a magazine for piano teachers, published by the University Society, Inf. Midland Park, New Jersey. In "A Home Studio Experience," Mrs. Peters tells of her own studio which she has made from an old, renovated, one-room building on their farm, and which she calls The Music House. The entire room is devoted to music—a piano, music stands, benches, bookshelves, a bulletin board and draperies.

"The bulletin board has a current posting of scholarships available to high school juniors and seniors. On it also appear listings of goals and enrollment information for students who have a desire to participate in the National Piano Playing Guild Auditions, pictures of the local high school bands, student's pictures and write-ups from newspapers, farm magazines, the 4-H Club News and Future Farmers of America magazine. These posted materials and newspaper clippings prove an incentive to the students I teach," Mrs. Peters wrote.

"I also try to be present at musical events involving my students and I tell them privately what I thought of their particular performance. I'm never disappointed in a genuine effort."

Mrs. Peters encourages students of all ages to write music and she also encourages them to assemble booklets on the great composers and their music, doing the necessary research.

As a band parent on school band trips, she often encouraged these boys and girls who are never her piano students. She also performs at public functions, and she is the organist for Our Mother of Mercy Catholic Church.

Mrs. Peters has taught more than 400 private students over a period of 16 years, and says she has been "rewarded beyond this world's power to do so. Music fills me with great joy and especially when it is the music of my student that is being performed."

A graduate of the Wisconsin College of Music, Racine and Milwaukee, Wis., she is listed in the International Who's Who in Music, published at Cambridge, England.

Hunter Safety Education Course Now Available

AUSTIN—Hunter education has come a long way since its beginnings in Albany, N.Y., in 1949, when that state's conservation department organized the first agency-sponsored hunter firearm training program.

Today, every state in the nation is doing something to further safe hunting, and most states are working towards standardizing hunter education to reduce hunting and firearm accidents and promote resource conservation.

In 23 states, it is mandatory that certain people complete a certified hunter safety course before they can purchase a hunting license, while in 37 states, hunter safety training consists of a voluntary safety training course. The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department has one such voluntary program.

Classes for the spring and summer are being organized now; for more information contact the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas 78701, or a local department office or game warden.

Dr. Childs Directs Ohio Choral Group

ATHENS, Ohio—A former Wellington resident, Dr. Francine Childs, is the faculty adviser for Ohio University's Gospel Voices of Faith, a choral ensemble which recently completed a tour of the South, including appearances in Dallas, Houston and Austin.

An associate professor of Afro-American Studies at the university, Dr. Childs said 38 members of the group made the week-long tour "to sing praises to God and uplift Christian unity through song. "Young people feel their songs are a chance to have a conversation with God," she explained. "Their music is a spiritual outlet to express emotions, fears and anxieties. Through singing, they tend to forget the frustration in the world about them."

The group originated in the fall of 1974 when a half dozen members of the Mt. Zion Baptist Church in Athens decided to form a choir. The number of members has grown to about 80, and every Sunday the church rocks with the sounds of the Gospel Voices, she said.

RABIES

Rabies commonly called hydrophobia is an acute viral disease which invades the central nervous system. The virus is transmitted from animal to animal naturally through bites which break the skin and introduce the virus-bearing saliva. Rabies can also enter through fresh previously existing wounds, however, this is rare.

Clinical signs generally show up in 10-50 days after exposure, but this may also be much later up to several months. The infection takes place by the virus containing saliva being deposited in or near a nerve where it travels up to the spinal cord and brain producing one of the two following forms:

PARALYTIC FORM: This type causes a paralysis of the jaw muscles with an excessive salivation and inability to swallow. The lower jaw drops open and is unable to be closed by the animal. Care should be taken by the owners not to examine the mouth of cattle or dogs for foreign objects when this sign is seen. The animals are generally unable to bite but the infected saliva is present. The paralysis rapidly spreads to other parts of the body and a coma and death occurs in a matter of hours.

FURIOUS FORM: This is the classical "mad dog" which is irrational and aggressively vicious. This animal appears nervous and noise will excite him to attack. Such animals lose all fear of man and natural enemies, wander aimlessly biting anything in their path that moves. These animals may live up to 10 days before the progressive paralysis kills them. Cats and bobcats attack suddenly biting and scratching viciously. Cattle and horses bellow or nicker wildly and attack man and other animals.

Vaccination of animals is the only control or prevention of the disease. This must be done yearly in most cases to produce a good protection for both man and the animal.

Persons bitten by a dog, cat or other animal should cleanse the wound thoroughly with soap and water then consult a physician immediately. The animal should be isolated and quarantined for 10 days then vaccinated if it has not been within the last year.

Watson Attends Jail Administration Meet

Bob Watson, director of the 100th Judicial District Probation Program, attended the recent Fifth Annual Conference on Jail Administration in Huntsville.

The conference is to familiarize and update law enforcement officers on advances in the field of corrections.

Mr. Watson, along with Collingsworth County Sheriff John Rainey, is currently working on a project to expand the county jail and build a juvenile detention wing to serve the counties of Wheeler, Collingsworth, Donley and Hall.

The work presently is on the application for a grant to make a feasibility study.

At the time the jail was built, juvenile offenders could be housed with adults and a separate wing was not necessary.

The jail remains an excellent maximum security facility, but under present Texas law, juveniles must be housed separately from adults. The proposed juvenile wing is to meet these requirements.

The Huntsville conference was sponsored by Continuing Education in the Institute of Contemporary Corrections and the Behavioral Sciences of Sam Houston State University. Dr. George G. Killinger is director.

The conference was held at the Goree Recreational Unit of the Texas Department of Corrections (the women's prison unit) near Huntsville.

Depression-Era Photographs at Amarillo Center

A new Bicentennial exhibition entitled American Images: Documentary Photographs by the Farm Security Administration 1935-1942, will open at the Amarillo Art Center June 9. Over 125 photographs will be included in the show which will run through June 27. The exhibit seeks to provide a broad and thorough view of Depression-era America. It is an effort to demonstrate how the Farm Security Administration (FSA) photographers, under the direction of project chief Roy E. Stryker, documented American life and culture between 1935-42.

"Rather than serving only as a mere pathology of the period, the exhibit also examines the virtues of Depression-era America. It represents an effort to reveal the state of life during that troubled and introspective time.

The photographs were selected from among the 70,000 FSA file prints in the public domain at the Library of Congress. The exhibit selections are intended both as social history and as art. They are arranged thematically, covering almost every phase of American life.

Works by virtually all of the FSA photographers are included in the exhibit. Russell Lee, Dorothea Lange, Walker Evans, Ben Shahn, Arthur Rothstein, John Vachon, Marion Post Wolcott, Carl Mydans, Jack Delano, John Collier, Jr., and Sheldon Dick are featured.

The exhibit was made possible through a grant by the National Endowment of the Humanities.

The Amarillo Art Center, located at 2200 S. Van Buren, is open free of charge to the public from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Tuesday through Friday and from 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. It is also open Wednesday night from 7:00 to 9:30.

Mrs. Ratliff Visits In Fort Worth Area

Mrs. Lois Ratliff had as guests Memorial Day her daughter and grandson, Mrs. Jim Griffin and Erick of Amarillo and a granddaughter, Babette Ratliff, of Shallowater.

They left Tuesday, June 1, for a week's vacation in the Fort Worth area. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cook, toured the museums, the planetarium and Six Flags.

Mrs. Ratliff's grandchildren are each nine years old. She gives each grandchild a week's vacation when they reach nine.

Babette is spending this week with her grandmother and is attending Vacation Bible School.

Forced Livestock Sales May Delay Paying Taxes

COLLEGE STATION--Livestock producers who were forced to sell breeding or dairy animals due to drought conditions during the winter and early spring may delay paying taxes on any profit.

According to an economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, such a forced sale is an involuntary conversion, and any taxes on gains need not be paid if the producer replaces the stock within 24 months from the close of the tax year in which the animals were sold.

If the producer fails to make such replacement, he must file an amended return with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) for the year of the sale and pay the tax, points out Dr. Wayne Hayenga.

In the year of the sale, the producer must furnish the IRS evidence of drought, the amount of profit from the sale, and the number of animals sold as well as the number he would have sold under normal conditions.

As evidence of drought, the IRS accepts records of below-normal rainfall and poor grazing, newspaper clippings of U.S. Weather Bureau reports, and reports from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Losses from involuntary conversion are deductible in the year they are sustained.

Hayenga urges producers to check the Farmers Tax Guide before reporting forced sales of breeding or dairy stock. A copy may be obtained from the IRS or any county Extension office.

Five Orientation Sessions for WT Freshmen Set

WTSU--To ease beginning freshmen qualms about the first days in college, West Texas State University is offering five summer orientation sessions on June 11 and 18 and July 2, 16 and 26.

The one-day sessions, open to all students who have been tentatively admitted to WTSU, will answer questions about degree and course selection, careers, student services, registration and financial aid. A student's parents are encouraged to attend.

"We already have a third more students registering for orientation than we did last year," says Dr. Kenneth Waugh, director of the Testing, Academic and Career Counseling Center. "We have had to turn down quite a few people for the final two sessions in past years, so we hope that people who are interested this year will get their registrations in soon."

The freshmen will be able to pre-register for their fall classes, which will give them a greater course selection. They will be billed by mail later in the summer.

Students will also have the option of coming to WTSU the day before orientation to take advanced credit examinations which will allow them to earn college credit without attending classes. Dormitory space will be available, and activities have been planned by the student life staff for that evening.

Orientation will open with a general session at 8:30 a.m. in the WTSU Student Activities Center, which will be followed by four special sessions, lunch and the afternoon registration period. Session one will cover registration procedures and academic requirements. Session two will acquaint the freshmen with student services available on campus, identify academic problems they may encounter and offer

Investment Program Offers Tax Saving

Dallas, Texas--North Texas workers not covered by pension programs have less than four months in which to set up their own individual retirement program if they want to save on their 1975 income taxes.

A.W. McCanless, district director of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) in North Texas, said today that any employee under age 70 who has not participated in a retirement program during the year can set up a retirement program. Those who are eligible can contribute 15 percent of their annual earnings, to a maximum of $1500, into the program and deduct this amount from their income for tax purposes.

Mr. McCanless stressed that there is no time limit for setting up a retirement program. Those who choose not to set up their programs this year, he said, will still have the same opportunity in years to come. However, the the worker's income only in the year in which it is actually put into a retirement account.

For this reason, persons should not delay if they are planning ultimately to set up a retirement program.

North Texas residents who would like additional information can contact their nearest IRS office, or call 800-492-4830 toll-free. The IRS can provide a free brochure on individual retirement savings programs as well as forms to open programs at banks and other qualified financial institutions.

Two Scouts Receive Eagle Award at Court of Honor

Two Wellington youths, Jimmy Morgan and Charles (Chuck) Darter, became Eagle Scouts in the Awards ceremony near the end of the Court of Honor Friday, June 4. The Eagle is the highest earned Award a Boy Scout can receive.

These two brought to 12 the number of Wellington boys who have received the Eagle Award since 1960.

Eagle Scout Bill Spillman conducted the ceremony.

Altogether, 18 Scouts received advancement awards.

The Reverend Charles Finley, pastor of First Christian Church, where the ceremony was held, was master of ceremonies and spoke briefly.

After reminding of the need today, as always, of a great example, Rev. Finley told the Scouts and their parents:

"Those who attain and strive and learn, when they are young and when they are old, are the leaders. They are never quitters."

The purpose of the court of honor, he said, is to give recognition to those who have gone the second mile.

In closing, he advised the scouts to "Stay With It, Grow With It, and when you are older, Lead With It."

Sandy Parsons, Jr., who did much to keep scouting alive in Wellington for more than 25 years, presented Life Scout awards to four, Tim DeVoss, Craig Darter, Neal Van Pelt and John Birkey. This is the rank next to Eagle.

And just below this, Star Scout Awards went to Gary Isaacs and Jerry Henry. Tom Anderson, minister of the church of Christ, made the presentation.

Charles Darter made the Tenderfoot Award presentation to Wade Williams, Channey Wood and Darryl Vernon. A boy must have earned two skill badges and one merit badge. Next higher awards, Second Class—known as the Hiking rank—went to Harold Scott, Eddie Langford, Ben White and Jody Coleman. These boys, who cook, prepare

Langfords Leads First Half of League Play

Langford's Conoco slow-pitch softball team emerged as winner of the first half of season's play, as that period ended Sunday, June 6. The team posted a 7-1 record.

In a three-way tie for second place were Martin Seed, Calvary Baptist Church of Childress and the Childress

A's.

The next action at Marian Airpark Ball Park will be the big three-day tournament Friday through Sunday, June 18, 19 and 20.

The second half of the summer season will begin Monday, June 21, according to Jackie Gunnels, who with Mike Pounds has coached Langford's.

Competition is going to be a lot harder during the second half, he predicted. All teams are shaping up and crowds have been good. Players are acting as umpires.

Although many people who come to the games sit in their cars, a majority use the newly rebuilt seats.

Only one makeup game was scheduled and it was played Monday night, June 7 between Mote's Garage and Childress A's.

Several of the teams in the Wellington league will play in the Clarendon Softball tournament this weekend.

Other than this, all teams will devote their time to practice for the upcoming Wellington Invitational Tournament.

The vote by boxes was: Railroad Commissioner: North Box, Newton 19; Sadler 4; South Box, Newton 56, Sadler 6; Absentee: Newton 5, Sadler 0.

Judge, Court of Criminal Appeals: North Box: Phillips 18, Dally 5; South box, Phillips 17, Dally 42; absentee, Phillips 2, Dally 3.

Statewide, Newton defeated Sadler by a substantial margin, but Phillips was leader over Dally.

Dr. Kirby New Dean At Drew University

Longtime Methodists will be interested in the announcement that Dr. James E. Kirby, Jr., who lived here as a child, has been named dean of the Theological School at Drew University, Madison, New Jersey.

Dr. Kirby, 42, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Edmund Kirby, retired, and was here about 5 years while his father was pastor of First United Methodist Church.

The new dean at Drew graduated cum laude from McMurry College, Abilene, and holds degrees from Perkins School of Theology, SMU, and Ph.D. from the Graduate School at Drew University. He also studied at Florida State University and Cambridge University, England.

He comes to his new post as dean at Drew, where he will also be a professor of church history, from Oklahoma State University in Stillwater, where he was director of the School of Humanistic Studies. He spent the summer of 1964 with the Drew-McCormick Archeological Expedition to ancient Schechem. In the summer of 1970 he served in East Africa with a joint project of the Office of International Education and the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

He has been a fellow of the Institute for Ecumenical and Cultural research at St. John's University, Minn., and a visiting professor with the World Campus Afloat of Chapman (Cal.) College.

Dr. Kirby and his wife,

Patty, have two sons, David Patrick, 16, and Patrick Boothe, 9.

Drew University's Theological School was founded in 1866 on the centenary of American Methodism. Noted internationally for distinguished scholarship and an ecumenical character, its alumni include 25 bishops of the United Methodist Church and 25 chief executives of institutions of higher learning. It is located on a 150 acres forested campus one hour west of New York City.

Dr. Kirby served as pastor of Roby United Methodist Church from 1958 to 1960.

Improved methods of home canning make it more enjoyable for the homemaker to preserve foods. Foods spoil because of the action of yeasts, molds, bacteria and enzymes. In canning, the homemaker stops this action by processing food, either by the boiling water bath or steam pressure canning and protecting it with an airtight seal. The method of processing, the time and the temperature vary with different kinds of foods.

Methods for canning fruits or vegetables which are considered unsafe and are not recommended include:
--open kettle canning.
--oven canning.
--intermittent sterilization.
--acidification of low-acid vegetables.

Home canning jars can last 10 years or more if used and stored properly. Use standard home canning jars which have the name of the manufacturer on the side of the jar. These are mechanically shock-resistant to withstand minor bumps against other jars and the pressure required to process low acid fruits, vegetables and meats.

Packers jars, such as empty mayonnaise or pickle jars should not be used in home canning. Do not put these jars in the pressure canner because they are designed for one-time packing. Use these "One-timers" for other uses such as storing dried foods. For canning, use only standard-make jars imprinted with the manufacturer's name. Check tops of jars for cracks, chips, and dents. Discard those with defects that would prevent an airtight seal.

In packing jars, be careful not to let objects such as knives and spatulas strike the bottom or scratch the sides of the jar. This weakens the jars and may cause breakage when the jars are under pressure.

Remove jars from the water bath or pressure canner using jar lifters. This prevents burns and reduces the danger of breakage. Cool jars away from drafts to prevent breakage from cool air drafts.

Remove the lid by sticking an ice pick in the center of the jar lid and lifting up. This releases the pressure for easy removal and also prevents nicking the lip of the jar.

Nicks on the lip of the jar can prevent the lid from sealing. Once used, the jars should be stored undisturbed for next year's canning.

For more information on home canning contact the County Extension Office located in the Courthouse for the bulletin B-194 "Home Canning—Fruits and Vegetables." The bulletin was revised August, 1975, and is available free of charge. Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Income Tax Refunds Are Still Available

COLLEGE STATION-- Federal income tax refunds may still be available to some consumers, even though the April 15 deadline for filing a tax return has passed, Lynn Bourland, a family resource management specialist, says. "Those not required to file a federal income tax return may still be entitled to a refund and earned-income credit refunds range in amounts up to $400. The Internal Revenue Service expected three million returns for this type of refund and have received only 300,000," she said.

Miss Bourland is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Consumers who meet these requirements should file now, she said.

--Individual or couple, must have at least one dependent child who is a student or under age 19 and living at home.

--Earned income or adjusted gross income for 1975 must have been less than $8,000.

--Gross income does not include Social Security benefits or the portion of pension benefits that is a refund of the original retirement investment.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Pipins, Stephanie and Renee of Arlington were weekend guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D.C. Thomason.

#1--continued from Page 1B including citizenship in community and first aid. "These will always be better men because they have been First Class Scouts," Judge Thomas said.

Lee DeVoss, assistant Scoutmaster, presented the merit badges and told the parents there are more than 100 merit badges to challenge a boy's interest. Scoutmaster Glenn McLain assisted in the ceremony.

Boys receiving these were Harold Scott, 7; Tim DeVoss and Jeff Langford, 5; Neal Van Pelt, four; Craig Darter, Gary Isaacs, Eddie Langford, John Birkey and Jerry Henry, three each; Chuck Darter and Sidney Herring, two; Jimmy Morgan, David Conant, Channey Wood, Johnny Mote, Brent Long and Ben White, one.

Immediately after the Eagle ceremony, Mr. Parsons presented the Eagle Bronze Palm Awards to Morgan and Darter.

He then gave special awards to summer campers: three years, Jerry Henry and Jimmy Morgan; two years: Craig Darter, Neal Van Pelt, Jerry Lee, Tim DeVoss, Jeff Langford, Chuck Darter and John Birkey; and one-year summer campers: David Conant, Jody Coleman, Harold Scott, Sidney Herring, Gary Isaacs and Ben White.

The unit scout committee was introduced, and includes Mr. Parsons, Sam Adams, James Herring, Harvey Isaacs, Ted McLain, and Mr. DeVoss.

The New York City school system has enough crayons on hand to last 84 years and enough chalk to last 20 years. It could be that this indicates why the Big Apple is in its current financial mess. Chances are that the school system would never have known about the crayon and chalk surplus but for the work of a group of volunteer businessmen that has been solving some of New York City's problems.

Thus far a task force has dug into New York's court system, human resources department, middle income housing projects and public school system. The result in savings to the city is estimated at $80 million.

State and local governments have turned to business men to serve as full-time consul-itants and have hired professional consulting firms in the past, but the idea of mobilizing a small group of executives is relatively new. A volunteer task force of businessmen can make tremendous strides in solving complex management problems in government as well as business.

Corporations, facing ever-rising tax bills and anti-business sentiment have a lot at stake in the program. If well-documented tax savings can be pointed out to tax payers, then the thousands of volunteer man-hours are worth the time and money it costs the corporations. A task force in Pennsylvania came up with 412 recommendations that would save the state $370 million annually. A Colorado task force came up with a unique "sunset law" which requires certain state agencies to go out of existence unless they are periodically renewed by the state legislature. A Massachusetts task force was instrumental in getting an "open budget act" passed which forces legislators to be completely open about the state's fiscal matters, instead of sweeping deficits under the rug.

The volunteer task forces can tackle just about any problem in government from simple cost-cutting to delicate policy issues. There are just three rules essential to being effective. Those are the support for the task force must be as strong during the investigation as it was at the beginning, volunteers must understand how bureaucracy works, the bureaucracy under study must be willing to yield.

Rep. Hightower Seeks Control Of Bureaucracy

Congressman Jack Hightower has introduced a bill that would mandate accountability by the federal bureaucracy.

The bill, which could be characterized as a "sunset bill," would eliminate within five years of its enactment certain federal regulatory agencies or significant major functions of those agencies which the President and the Congress determine to have outlived their usefulness.

Thereafter the remaining agencies, their successors or new regulatory agencies would be evaluated at least once every seven years by the President and the Congress and subjected to the same test of usefulness. They would automatically be terminated unless the President and Congress agreed that their

If an agency were eliminated, the bill would authorize the orderly transfer of such functions, power and duties that had been determined to be essential to the President or to a successor agency designated by him. Such a transfer plan submitted by the President.

Hightower said that long before he was elected to Congress he recognized the fact that regulatory agencies had become a form of government unto themselves. "Before my election I said they should be subjected to intensive congressional review every 10 years," he said. "Having witnessed firsthand some of their actions during the past 17 months, I have become convinced that 10 years would be too lenient."

The Congressman said rules and regulations promulgated by regulatory agencies touch virtually every aspect of our lives. "Supposedly each agency was established to satisfy a critical need," he said, "but their growth in recent years has been phenomenal and they seem to create needs to justify their existence."

Enthusiastic Workers Needed for 25th Ex-Students Reunion

This is going to be a summer of big events in Wellington—bicentennial observances, golf and softball tournaments, and other activities.

But for many, the biggest will be the 1976 Wellington Ex-Students reunion which is on the calendar for Saturday, August 14.

This is the 25th anniversary of the Ex-Students reunions, and a number of special things are being planned.

Mrs. Calvin Mitchel—Patsy Harper—who put on the highly successful reunion last year, is again president of the association.

Work is already underway, and she says that the big need right now is to secure new addresses of ex-students who have moved and addresses that the association has never had. The Post Office now forwards mail to a new address for only a one-year period, and because of this, the ex-students must keep their mailing list up to date.

There are other things.

Enthusiasm on the part of every ex-student still living in the Wellington area is a must if this is to be a big major celebration many people hope for.

Many who live away from here have let it be known they are eager to come home. They say—and this cannot be emphasized too strongly—that they want to see, not only friends who have moved away, but especially those who have remained in Collingsworth County. They want you at the reunion!

There will be many things to do, and if you are looking for something to occupy your time this summer, Patsy Mitchell can use you.

This, the bicentennial year and the 25th anniversary year for the reunion should be one of the largest and best in its history.

A Fine Code for All of Us

A cadet will not lie, cheat or steal or tolerate those who do. So reads a portion of the honor code at the United States Military Academy at West Point.

Recently, this honor code has been under close scrutiny because of alleged cheating involving a take-home engineering examination. Some say it is too strict, that it is old-fashioned.

Out of the scandal, which has seen several cadets resign from the academy rather than be booted out by their peers who sit on the honor committee, there now is a chance that a congressional investigation of the honor system will be undertaken.

The honor code at West Point is not unique to the military academy. To be sure, each service academy has much the same wording in its own honor codes. More than a few private colleges and universities have a form of the honor code in force.

It is a difficult task to adhere to the precepts involved in such a code. But, contrary to critics' charges, cadets do not preoccupy themselves looking for a fellow cadet to snitch on.

The deeper meanings of the honor code are not easy to spell out for a congressional investigation.

West Point has a long history of training military leaders for this country. As on other occasions, the Point will survive this most recent test of the honor code and both will continue to move forward with progress and pride.

If more Americans were to live their daily lives by such a strict code, we might not have the scandals that mar our national life.

Considering those breakdowns in moral conduct, we would do well to support a code of personal honor, not destroy it.

Storm Toll High

Recent storms in Texas did more than $7 million worth of damage, according to Texas insurance industry estimates.

Heavy damage was recorded in Dallas, Graham, Mineral Wells and Olney. Estimates did not include damage from Central Texas and Hill Country storms.

State Insurance Board Chairman Joe Christie said the insurance industry is trying to handle storm claims promptly.

Bank Study Out

Total reorganization of the State Banking Department, better-paid bank examiners and changes in examination procedures were recommended by a recent management study.

The study concluded the department is not keeping pace with requirements for examining each state bank three times every two years. One bank was found not to have been checked in 14 months and 100 to have been skipped for eight months.

Courts Speak

Court of Criminal Appeals reversed a Fort Worth kidnapping conviction because prosecutors suppressed the fact an accomplice witness was involved in plea bargaining.

Texas Supreme Court heard oral arguments over whether deposed District Judge O.P. Carrillo can be removed from the bench through Judicial Qualifications Commission action for misconduct not related to his judicial duties.

A 53rd District Court jury awarded $10,000 damages to an Austin black man who charged two Austin police officers used excessive force in arresting him for allegedly violating their order. Lawyers for the policemen say they will appeal.

AG Opinions

Texas Railroad Commission is not authorized or required to issue certificates of convenience and necessity to gas utilities under the Public Utility Regulatory Act., Atty. Gen. John Hill stated.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

Teachers employed by Texas Youth Council have vacation rights of state employees and cannot transfer sick leave benefits from other districts.

Cities can contract with a private organization for restoring, operating and maintaining historic homes for public benefit.

Whether a natural gas pipeline or a gas utility is a common carrier subject to Railroad Commission regulation depends on whether it holds itself out as available to transport gas to all who desire its services.

Portions of an El Paso Special Commission on Crime report evaluating identifiable employees are exempt from required public disclosure.

Handbook Published

Eighty per cent of Texas' population is now classified as urban, according to the updated Handbook of Governments in Texas. The Handbook is a compilation of information on functions, government organization and finances of Texas' 254 counties and 192 home-rule cities.

Texas now has 13 home rule cities over 100,000, 15 with 50,000 to 100,000 and 164 under 50,000. Eighteen counties have more than 100,000 population and 153 more than 10,000.

Texas cities spend the largest percentage of their funds (26 per cent) on utilities, 11.1 per cent on sewerage and sanitation, 10.2 per cent on police protection and 9.5 per cent on highways. Counties spend the most (30.9 per cent) on highways. General county operations take 13.5 per cent, hospitals 13.3 per cent and police protection 6.6 per cent.

Short Snorts

Millions of dollars in crops were lost due to recent storms which slammed the state.

The Railroad Commission called a July 12 hearing on Southern Union Gas Company's application to abandon service July 26 to rural unincorporated areas in the Panhandle formerly served by Western Gas Service.

Applications to drill oil and gas tests in Texas totaled 7,328 through May, an increase from 6,447 for the January-May period in 1975.

IT'S HIGH TIME WE TOOK LIFE A LITTLE SLOWER.

On the highways, slower speeds save lives, save energy. For example, traffic deaths were down by 9400 in 1975, as compared to 1973, when speed limits were higher than 55.

And we could save eight and a half million gallons of gasoline a day if everybody slowed down.

The point is, the 55 mph speed limit isn't something to take or leave lightly. It's vitally important. To all of us.

IT'S NOT JUST A GOOD IDEA. IT'S THE LAW.

Oil Production for Year 26,770 Barrels

DALLAS--The downward trend in crude oil production in the nation's No. 1 energy state continued in 1975 for the third consecutive year, despite another 12 months of production at the maximum effective recovery rate in nearly all Texas fields.

Graveside Rites Held Wednesday For Rube McClain

Graveside services for a former Wellington man, Rube McClain, 67, of Canyon, were held Wednesday, June 9, at 2:30 p.m. at Fairview Cemetery.

He died Monday, June 7, in Canyon.

Services were held at 10:00 a.m. Wednesday at Schooler-Gordon Chapel in Canyon, with the Rev. Billy Thompson, pastor of the Pentacostal Church, officiating.

Kelso Funeral Home was in charge of Wellington arrangements.

Mr. McClain was born in Pauls Valley, Oklahoma. He lived here 26 years, and during most of that time was an employee of Singley Mill and Elevator. He moved from here to Tulsa, and to Canyon in 1956.

He was a Baptist and had retired from the seed and feed business.

In 1929, Mr. McClain married Agnie Calaway. She died in 1937. In 1943, he married Etha Holloway.

Survivors are his widow; 8 sons: Rube M. McClain of Carlsbad, N.M., Willis H. McClain of Cheyenne, Wyoming, Billy Jack McClain, Earnest McClain, and Alvin McClain of Canyon, Danny McClain and Frank McClain of Amarillo, and Johnny McClain of the Republic of Panama; three daughters, Mrs. Don Rogers and Mrs. Bob Dobbins of Amarillo and Miss Leta McClain of Austin; two sisters, Mrs. Ann Lee Stewart of Cushing, Oklahoma, and Mrs. Jesse Hale of Marlow, Oklahoma; and two brothers, Ira Graham of Mansfield, Okla., and Jack Graham of Tishomingo, Okla. There are 11 grandchildren.

Collingsworth County, which has had recorded production since 1936, last year produced 26,770 barrels of oil at the rate of 73 per day. Production in 1975 boosted Collingsworth County's production total through the end of the year to 944,522 barrels.

Although the 1975 output of just over 1.2-billion barrels pushed the state's all-time cumulative production to more than 40-billion barrels, it was the lowest annual production since 1971 and more than 40.6 million barrels short of the 1974 production level.

The difference between 1975 crude oil production and the peak year of 1972 was more than 79.3 million barrels.

Statistics compiled by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association also show that despite the continuing decline in Texas crude oil production last year, the state once again set the pace among U.S. oil producing states, accounting for 40-percent of total U.S. production.

"This continued decline in the production of Texas key natural resource begs an end to federal price controls and other bureaucratic restraints," said the Association's president, Jack S. Blanton, an independent oil company executive in Houston. "Texas oil producers need a free market and every possible economic incentive to both generate and attract the capital necessary to continue to explore for oil, to drill wildcat and developmental wells, and to initiate costly secondary and tertiary recovery projects."

In 1975, 30 counties produced more than 10-million barrels of crude oil, with Henderson dropping below that figure and off the list compiled last year.

The top six, all with production in excess of 52-million barrels, retain generally the same order as last year, although Hockley County has moved from seventh to fifth and Andrews County dropped a notch to sixth.

The list includes: Scurry, 91.6 million barrels; Yoakum, 82.8 million barrels; Ector, 69.2 million barrels; Gaines, 60.8 million barrels; Hockley, 52.6 million barrels; and Andrews, 52.4 million barrels.

Gregg County, the first Texas county to produce more than two-billion barrels of crude oil in the history of recorded production, remains the all-time leader with a cumulative production total through 1975 of more than 2.5 billion barrels. Ector County also went over two-billion barrels of total production last year.

Men's Progressive Group Observes First Anniversary

Members of the Men's Progressive Organization observed the first anniversary of the club with a banquet Friday, June 4.

A highlight of the evening came when Mayor Billy Hatch presented an award to Howard Powell in memory of his son, the late Joe Leonard Powell, who was one of those responsible for the organization of the men's Progressive Organization.

Jimmie Barber introduced the guests and James A. Thomas, the president, gave the history of the organization. He reminded the group that it was first organized through the influence of the late W.R. Franks. After his death, activity lagged, then came the reorganization through the efforts of Joe Leonard Powell.

He pointed to the group's civic accomplishments. With the help of the City of Wellington and the Volunteer Fire Department, an intensive clean-up campaign was conducted, and a number of old and uninhabitable houses removed. A few minutes later, Mayor Hatch said that out of town people often ask how the city can look so good, and he stressed it was through the work of people like members of the Men's Progressive Organization. Should the application for the block grant be approved, more work can be done.

Lynn Wolf, minister of Ft. Worth Street Church of Christ, was the guest speaker, discussing "Black History."

He defined them as "a race of people who have made as much progress as anyone, any time."

Later he reminded they are the oldest minority group in the country, except for the Indians.

There were Black people with the first explorers, especially those in the southwest, Mr. Wolf said.

There were Blacks at Jamestown. Most Blacks came to the United States as slaves. They numbered 800,000 in 1800. Today, there are more than 20,000,000 in the United States.

Group Here for Rudy Service

A large crowd of friends and relatives were here to attend the services of Vernon Rudy Saturday, June 5.

They included Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Rudy and children of Lewisville; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Rudy and children of Arlington, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rudy and son of Ft. Worth;

Linda Brown of Arlington; Mrs. Sue Sutton of Del Rio, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Durr of Kerrick, Mrs. Adelle Tinney of Sulphur, Oklahoma, Kent Tinney of Kansas; Mr. and Mrs. Luster McClain of McLean, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Young and Rose Dale Bentley of Amarillo, Mrs. Sue Moody and daughter of Smithfield, Glen Moody and son of Lewisville,

Gail Drake and daughter of Ft. Worth, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Catherall and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Terry and daughter of Childress, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Catherall and daughter of Burkburnett, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Catherall and son of Ranger, Danny Catherall of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. Junior Mitchell and children of Woodward, Okla., and

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Lancaster of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lee Maxwell of Houston, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Pipins of Arlington, Mr. and Mrs. Vester McClain of McLean, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Johnson of Moore, Oklahoma, Mrs. Bonnie Duncan of Canyon, Mrs. Ann Nations of Idalou, and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Statham of Childress.

There were among the slaves skilled laborers, and there were also freedmen-who were what the name implies.

The period following emancipation, 1865-1876, made freedom for the Blacks a reality and gave them the voting privilege. The period of the New South, 1876-1914, saw the Negro move into the business class, with Booker T. Washington the most influential of all Negro leaders.

Between the two world wars, 1914-1945, the greatest change in the Negro in the U.S. came, the time when many moved north. One-half million Negroes served in World War I; there were a million in World War II. Between 1950 and 1960, 1.5 million Blacks left the South. The last period in Black History, since 1954, concerns desegregation.

"We make progress by looking at things positively. We need clubs such as this," Mr. Wolf said in closing.

Mr. Barber, at the end of the meeting, told the members "You can help the community by helping yourselves," and again, he urged "Chase around and catch opportunity, to improve the community."

Guests included wives of the members, also Mayor Hatch, City Manager Glenn Taylor, Danny Gray representing the Wellington Volunteer Fire Department, and Miss Virginia Robey of The Wellington Leader.

Officers were introduced and include James A. Thomas, president; Jimmie L. Barber, vice-president; Robert W. Powell, secretary; Horace Powell, treasurer; and Willie J. McKinnon, sergeant at arms.

Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel

New Director Named for Texas Ag Extension

COLLEGE STATION—Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel has been named director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System's public service agency which provides agricultural, homemaking, 4-H and consumer assistance to thousands of Texans throughout the state.

Pfannstiel's appointment was made Tuesday by the Texas A&M University System Board of Regents, subject to concurrence of the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture. The appointment is effective June 1.

The 2,000-employee service, which operates offices in all but two of Texas' 254 counties, is a joint county-state-federal program which has traditionally served farmers, ranchers and residents of rural communities and is becoming increasingly popular with urban dwellers.

"We have searched throughout the nation to confirm what we thought was the case all along: that we already have in our ranks the best person for this key position," pointed out Board of Regents Chairman Clyde H.

Outside of school, she sang in the youth choir of First Baptist Church, belonged to Ko Shari and was in "Man & Land & Love." She plans to attend Hardin-Simmons University at Abilene.

Through the Society of Distinguished American High School Students, Lana is eligible for its program of renewable scholarships and for a travel-study program for members in Europe this summer.

Lana's membership in the society was sponsored by her church.

Select Cattle For Growth

An animal scientist for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station says to consider lifetime growth patterns for weight and other factors in beef cattle selection programs.

Such measures as weight at weaning, post-weaning average daily gain and yearling weight are commonly used.

Since selection for weight at one age will affect weights at other ages, cattlemen should consider the lifetime growth

He succeeds Dr. H.O. Kunkel, Texas A&M's dean of agriculture, who has served as the Extension Service's acting director since February when Dr. John E. Hutchison retired as director of the largest state Extension Service in the nation.

"Dr. Pfannstiel is undoubtedly one of the most qualified administrative officers in the nation's entire Cooperative Extension Service," Deal Kunkel noted. "He has been eagerly sought by several

CITY STATE BANK

One of the things happening among some of the country's top economists today is a move back to basics under the complicated sounding title, "microeconomics." Applying some of the principles of the "new" approach does prove useful in understanding some of the old economic cliches such as "spend money at home." Let's look at a town through a "micro" view. Call the town Supersmall... only five people: Aaron, Bertha, Charles, Dorothy and Edith. Economically the town is stable until Aaron receives ten dollars as a Christmas gift. He buys groceries sold by Bertha, who buys a new dress made by Dorothy, who buys a new battery for a car from Charles, who buys a special home-cooked meal from Edith, who puts the money in her savings account, which will be used by the bank for a loan to Aaron, who will buy from Charles... etc... etc. At any point, if one of the people involved in the chain had spent the money out of town, all other economic benefits would have been lost. As things stand, the ten dollars could easily improve the economy of Supersmall by ten to twenty times the original value. Even though super-simplified, the "micro" look at a town's economy is very accurate. Think about it the next time you buy.
