

Sue's Views

BY SUE CANNON

Well, the hospital benefit style show was what I'd call a "howling success." There were enough people that either bought tickets or donated money to make a total $555 that was collected for the hospital fund. Now a few more projects like that and we'll be on our way!

And how about the good news of two Medical Doctors who will be coming to Olton each Tuesday and Thursday. Of course, for those who can't pay, there will still be a doctor provided by HEW. So, we are not cut off from the rest of the world quite as badly as we were.

How do you feel about old fashioned box suppers? You know, where the girl brings supper for two in a pretty box and they are auctioned off. There are plans for such a box supper with proceeds to be given to the hospital fund. Also tentatively planned is a community talent show. Let us hear from you if you have any ideas about how to raise money for this worthy cause.

And speaking of the hospital fund....I guess I'm really using the wrong term when I speak of "hospital" in one sense of the word. Actually the thing that the hospital board members are trying to do is secure medical facilities of some kind for Olton. What started out as plans for a hospital have been changed to plans for a working clinic with a doctor on staff at a Plainview or Lubbock Hospital so that those facilities would be available for him to use in treating his patients.

Be sure and look over the special section inserted in our paper this week. We are very proud to have the historical marker designating where the Lamb County Court House first stood. And if at all possible, be sure and come out Saturday for the dedication ceremony. It begins at 2 p. m. on the "square".

Methodists To Observe Anniversary

Anniversary observances Sunday at the First United Methodist Church will feature at least five former pastors. Dr. Dallas Denison of Brownfield, pastor from 1931-34, and the Rev. Russell McAnally of Merkel, 1956-59, will bring sermonettes at the morning worship service which begins at 11 a. m.

The Rev. Elmer Crabtree of Plainview, 1939-42, and the Rev. R. H. Campbell, 1953-56, will also be honored guests at the morning service.

The Rev. Tommy Nelson of Memphis, 1966-70, will bring special communion meditations at the 6 p. m. worship service. Also participating in that service will be Danny Amerson, ministerial student and interim pastor of the Methodist Churches at Halfway and Valley View.

Special music will feature a duet by Mrs. Owen Norfleet and Mrs. Kenneth Splawn of Levelland, a former member; solo by Don Spain and musical numbers by an OHS band ensemble and Mmes. Delmer Givens and Kenneth Burgess, organist and pianist.

A dinner of Thanksgiving will be held at noon in fellowship hall with open house fellowship at the church and parage during the afternoon. Organized with nine members in November, 1902, the al congregation has seen at members enter the ministry. "Preacher Sons" include Bob Miller, Doyle Ragle, Clifford Trotter, Carroll M. Jones, Royce Womack, David Binkley, Ralph Nance and Amerson. The Rev. Marvin Fisher of Lubbock also received his license to preach from the local congregation in November, 1935 and was a member of the Hart

The congregation has also two women become wives of Methodist ministers, the late a Womack Wyatt and Ar-Ragle Ruggier. Friends are invited to participate in any part of the celebration.

A tremendous success everywhere it has been produced, the play promises to keep its reputation with the Olton cast performance. A presentation at Hale Center is tentatively scheduled by the Olton group.

Admission is $1.25 for adults and $1 for students.

$500 Raised At Show For Hospital-Doctor Fund

High fashion and dignity of presentation marked Friday's "Trunk Showing", a special benefit performance staged in behalf of Olton's growing medical fund.

Mrs. Jess Parker, chairman, expressed satisfaction in all areas of the production, and states that the proceeds, in the amount of $555, have been presented to the fund to help secure medical services for the community.

Thirty-two models, including men and boys, presented fashions from four leading shops, Bizzell's, Kelley's, Miss Charmin' and Zakka's.

Hairstyles were created by Anita's Styleart, Debra's Hair Fashions, Peggy's Beauty Salon, Thomas Beauty Shop and The Colonial.

Joining the community effort to make the show a success were North Side Gift, Howell's Flowers, and White's Auto who furnished stage properties.

Stage backgrounds were placed by Mrs. Robert Sivley and Mrs. Don Franks. Mrs. Elmer McGill was in charge of clean-up.

Mrs. Parker gives credit to Mrs. Elza Miller and Mrs. Robert Struve for helping direct models, to Mrs. Ed Miller for expert narration; and to Mrs. Bob Duncan and her committee for the more than 100 door prizes that were given by drawing during periods of intermission. Her special appreciation goes out to the merchants who made them possible.

"We've had many compliments on the show, both from merchants and those attending," Mrs. Parker commented, "And we wish to express our gratitude to all those who in anyway contributed to its success."

Championship ★ Up For Grabs

This Friday's game will decide the county championship and probably the district championship as well. Littlefield has a tie by Morton as the only blemish to the Wildcats record for this year in district play, while Olton was defeated by Friona.

Littlefield will gain the district championship by either tying or beating Olton. Olton must defeat Littlefield this week and Dimmitt next week if they are to have a chance at the crown.

To make things more complicated, Morton will have to beat Friona while Olton beats Littlefield and Dimmitt if Olton is to win the crown outright. If Friona defeats Morton while the Mustangs win both of their remaining games, Olton and Friona will be co-champs with Friona representing the district in bi-district play.

Now back to the Littlefield Wildcats. The Cats have two and a half wins in district play. They will be out to sew up the district crown this Friday night but the word in the Mustangs corral is that they have other ideas about the crown.

Olton has won the past two years since the Wildcats dropped back into class AA from AAA.

Leading the Cats this year has been J. E. Johnson. He has been the big ground gainer for the Cats and is also the leading scorer.

Littlefield is described as just being a very good all round football team. They take advantage of all mistakes made and really sting their opponent.

Littlefield has good size and good speed also. They like to throw the ball a lot and have some good receivers to catch it for them.

Probable offensive starters for the Wildcats will be Chris Pope, Mike Hopper, Bill Hamlin, Kenny Francis, Ricky Richards, Kenny Pratt, Leon Hodge, J. E. Johnson, Pat Henderson, Terry Bryson-QB, Arthur Saula-FB, and Leonard Lewis-TB.

Savings Bonds Sales Totaled

According to a report received from County Bond Chairman C. O. Stone, sales of Series E and H United States Savings Bonds in Lamb County during September totaled $6,517. Sales for the nine-month period were $74,495 for 57 percent of the 1972 goal of $130,000.

Sales in Texas during the month were $16,357,152 compared to $15,465,128 during September 1971. The January-September sales totaled $159,190,679 with 81 percent of the sales goal of $197.5 million achieved.

Nationwide, September purchases of Series E and H Bonds amounted to $472 million -- 13.8 percent above 1971 sales of $415 million.

Dear Editor

(Editor's note: The resignation of Highway Patrolman Bill Angel, who has been stationed in Littlefield the past 12 years, has created a great amount of concern among Littlefield residents and those in surrounding communities who have had opportunity to deal with the admired and respected lawman. These letters are reprinted by request from the Littlefield Leader News.)

Dear Editor

In the last two weeks I have been asked the question what happened about my husband's resignation from the Department of Public Safety, and now since we are no longer a part of the D.P.S. I feel free to express my opinion. The D.P.S. has been our life for 19 years.

From the day my husband graduated in 1953 to the day of his resignation in 1972 I've had a great pride in his service to the State of Texas.

The day of his graduation was my first time to be in Austin. That day we visited the Capitol. I read all the names of the heroes of Texas on the statues and monuments in the Capitol grounds.

As I stood there in the bright sunlight that afternoon and saw Colonel Garrison shake the hand of each man and present a commission, I thought what a great way to serve. Some would die serving Texas, as did the men at the Alamo. Others would go through the years with little recognition for the good job they were doing.

And as I make this statement I feel that many of those good men are having pressure brought on them that should not be.

These men are evaluated each six months, not on the quality of work they have put forth, but on the number of tickets they have given. This evaluation has brought about the conflict we are now involved in.

But what evaluation can you place on a man that takes from a wrecked car a mother whose life has gone, and tries to answer the question from a small child, "Where is my mommie?"

My son, my daughter and I respectfully request the name plate of Bill Angel and the badge number 203 to be returned to us.

To all of our friends who have supported us let me express my heartfelt thanks.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Billy J. Angel

Oct. 27, 1972

Dear Editor,

I want the people of this area to know that I think Highway Patrolman Bill Angel is the finest man I've ever known.

As Justice of Peace of Precinct 4, I've handled all the traffic citations he issued. In doing this I never heard a derogatory remark made, and I've received the finest letters anyone has ever seen concerning this patrolman when receiving mail-in fines.

A man like him is a credit to the community and law enforcement, and if he is out for no more reasons than I have heard, it is a discredit to this community and the Department of Public Safety.

Very sincerely,
Stanley Doss

Dear Editor:

I've been stopped by Bill Angel in routine checks two or three times and I've never dealt with a nicer man.

I knew Bill Angel's brother, Buff, and Buff's wife, Charlene, when Buff was a highway patrolman here in Littlefield, and Buff was as fine a man as Bill.

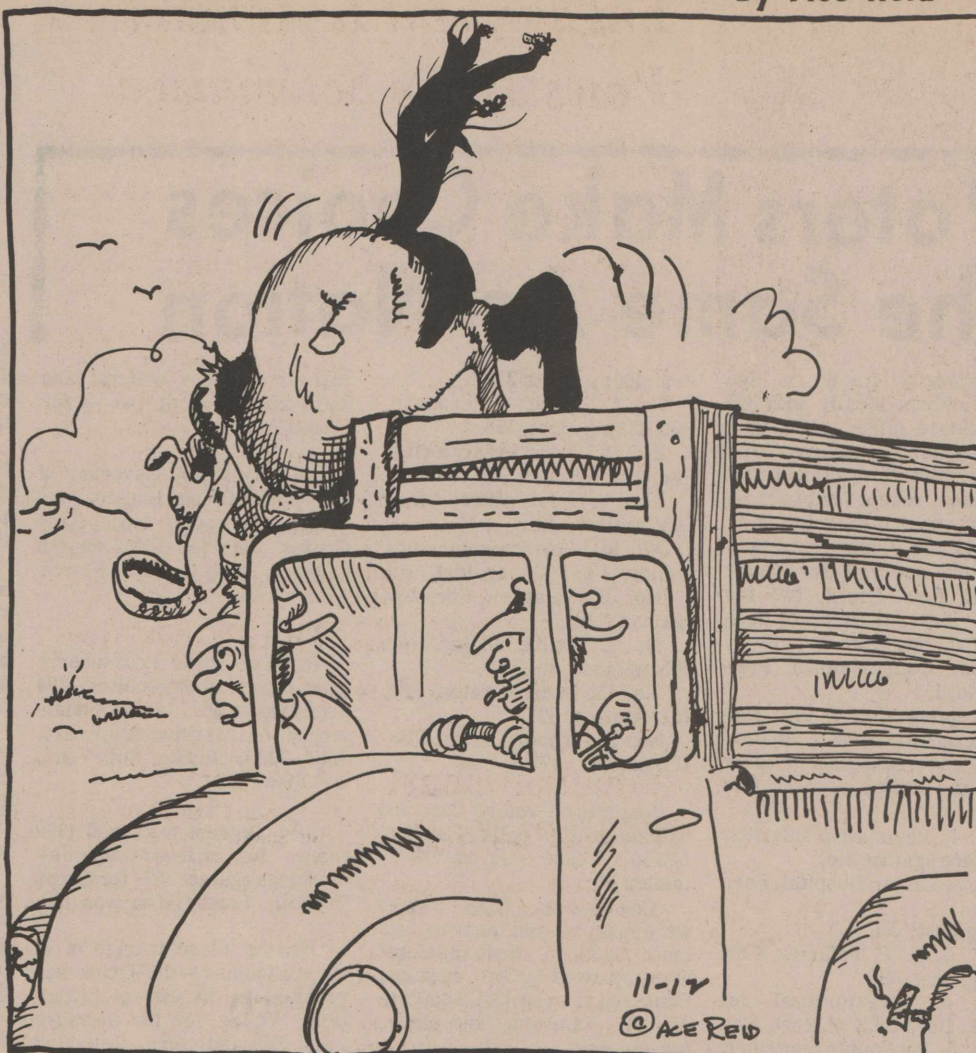

I've even visited with Bill Angel's father and mother in their home in Breckenridge, and they were the finest people I've ever known.

Perhaps the Department of Public Safety just doesn't want gentlemen with the qualities of Bill Angel in its department.

Sincerely,
Carroll Blackwell

Everything But The Kitchen Sink

BY MOZELLE TROTTER

History unfolding! This is going to be a great weekend for Oltonites who like to "remember when." A historical marker commemorating the site of Lamb County's first courthouse is going to be held Saturday afternoon and Methodists are celebrating anniversaries Sunday.

Seems to me that the older I get the more interesting history becomes. It's been fun digging out Methodist history in preparation for our celebration. One thing certain, Olton Methodists have been poor record keepers. The only history we had was of the "I think it was -" variety.

My search has revealed that our ancestry dates back to the days when Olton and Lamb County were raw and new but bright with promise.

Today folks are tempted to skip worship services for a few hours extra sleep Sunday mornings - in those early days they put forth supreme efforts to get together to worship.

(If you don't think it was supreme effort, picture yourself getting the family fed and bathed and dressed and traveling by wagon for several miles to get where Sunday School was being held.)

So much valuable history is thrown away every day. What we think is trivial today will be historically important tomorrow.

Digging into history taught me something else. Always, but always, label pictures and old mementos. After a few years the best rememberers forget, and (provided that you didn't label them) see if you find a picture that includes someone you can't remember. Betcha there is.

Anyway, there's a great weekend in store. Be sure and attend the ceremonies Saturday and stop by and visit the Methodists at open house Sunday afternoon. Before we know it, this week will be history!

TORRI THOMPSON & BRYNEA ALLCORN

Cook Of The Week

Cooking is fun, basketball is the greatest and happiness is being next-door neighbors - so it goes with our Cooks of the week, Brynea Allcorn and Torri Thompson.

Already friends, the two eighth graders have become even closer since moving to their new homes on Highway 70 late in the summer. Brynea is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Allcorn, Torri's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Thompson.

Weekends are extra special to the two for that is when they find time to cook. Their mothers encourage their interest in the arts of homemaking and on a recent Sunday afternoon the two baked cookies, made pop corn balls and pulled taffy.

Interested in all sports, Brynea and Torri are members of the "Mini-Fillies" - the eighth grade girls basketball team.

Both young ladies are active in the youth program of the First Baptist Church. They sing in the Chapel Choir and are vitally interested in the young peoples sharing group which meets once each week. The group, unrestricted by creed, color or class, met this week in Torri's home with 60 young people in attendance.

Brynea is also interested in the VIVA movement, a national student organization which supplies bracelets engraved with the names of servicemen who are missing in action or prisoners of war, "Voices In Vital America" is a non-profit, non-political organization dedicated to the fact that progress and freedom can only be achieved and maintained by rational and responsible action.

In addition to their other activities, Brynea and Torri are members of the Cadet Band and the OJHS choir.

Brynea has two brothers, Bryan, a sophomore, and Brad,

'Managing Time' Is Topic Of Study At HD Meeting

Mrs. Melvin Souter was hostess Tuesday afternoon for the regular meeting of the Olton Home Demonstration Club.

Mrs. Lester Kennedy presided. Roll call was statements on "When I do most of my thinking and planning." Mrs. Ross Carty gave devotional thoughts.

"Managing Your Time" was the topic of a program presented by Mrs. Lynn Bowerman, Lamb County Extension Agent.

"Every day has 24 hours," Mrs. Bowerman said. "And that's 6760 hours per year. How you use that time determines the kind of person you are, the kind of life you live and the contributions you make to people and the world around you."

Mrs. Bowerman stressed that time should be as carefully spent as money. "Use it for important and satisfying activities."

There are three basic ways to use time, she said. In work, such as making a home or earning a living; maintenance, the activities to sustain life, such as sleeping, eating, bathing and caring for health; and freetime, that which remains.

Mrs. Bowerman also reported that federal affirmation action now assures all women eligibility as members of a Home Demonstration Club, regardless of race, creed or color.

In support of this stand, Home Demonstration Clubs are now sending special invitation cards for new members.

Refreshments were served to guests, Mmes. V. J. Carlisle, Bessie Cowart, V. J. Trusty and Leona Martin and members, Mmes. Kennedy, Carty, O. T. Crosby, Callie Miller, Billy Pittillo and V. O. Harrod.

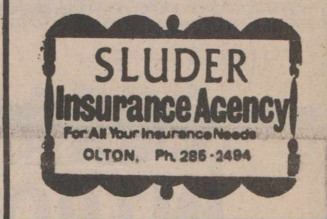

Club members will honor their families with a Thanksgiving dinner Thursday evening, Nov. 16 in the ORC clubhouse. A Christmas party is planned for Dec. 12 in the home of Mrs. Miller.

Next regular meeting of the club is Nov. 21 in the home of Mrs. Lee Simmons.

Lynn Bowerman Writes

Lamb County Extension Agent

Are you having company next week or next month? Do you like to have something cooked ahead of time and have time to visit with your guests? Put your versatile freezer to use.

For tiptop quality and economical use of freezer space, plan your freezing and use of precooked main dishes so that they will be in the freezer no longer than 2 or 3 months. However, most of these foods if properly packaged and stored will not suffer serious quality loss if kept up to 6 months. After 6 months' storage, quality often declines rapidly, but the food is still safe to eat.

In general, prepare the food as you would if it were to be served right away. Do not overcook. Some ingredients in main dishes that must be reheated for serving are better if slightly under-done for freezing. If cooked well-done before freezing, foods such as vegetables and macaroni are likely to be too soft when reheated. They also may have a warmed-over taste. Soups and sauces thickened with ordinary wheat flour may tend to separate or curdle on thawing. Frozen gravies, sauces and soups may be somewhat thicker after thawing than when freshly prepared, but suitable liquid can be added to give the desired consistency. Commercially frozen soups, sauces and gravies are often made with waxy rice flour, which results in a smoother product. If waxy rice flour is available, it is a good idea to use it. However, soups, sauces, and gravies made with ordinary flour can be satisfactory if they are quick-frozen and stored at 0 degrees for only 2 to 3 months. Stirring during reheating helps to overcome separation, too.

Crumb or cheese toppings are best added when the food is reheated for serving. Pastry crusts frozen unbaked are more tender and flaky and have a fresher flavor than those baked and then frozen. Most pies are better frozen uncooked, and baked immediately after removal from freezer.

Quick cooling of the food immediately after it is cooked stops the cooking and so helps keep the natural flavor, color and texture of the food. It also retards or prevents the growth of bacteria that may cause spoilage.

To cool, set uncovered pan of food in iced or very cold water; change the water to keep it cold. Or set pan on ice. Or put the uncovered pan of food in a cold place.

As soon as the food is cool, put it promptly into freezer containers of moisture-vapor-proof or moisture-vapor-resistant packaging material. Pack the food tightly into the container to reduce the amount of air in the package.

Some prepared foods, like meat pies and casserole dishes, may be frozen in the containers in which they are baked, ready for reheating at time of using.

Ordinary waxed papers, household aluminum foil, and unwaxed or lightly waxed cartons used for cottage cheese and ice cream are not sufficiently moisture-vapor-resistant for foods to be frozen and held more than a few days.

Heavy duty aluminum foil is one of the best wrappers for cakes or pies. Use the "drug store" wrap, to make them air tight. Some iced cakes should be quickly frozen before wrapping, then quickly wrapped and returned to the freezer.

Most precooked frozen foods can be reheated either in the oven or on top of the range. Reheating in the oven takes little of the cook's attention and usually keeps the texture of the food better. Generally it is better to reheat frozen cooked main dishes without thawing. If you thaw food completely before reheating, it is usually best to thaw in the refrigerator. Thawing at room temperature is not recommended. Once food is thawed, use it immediately.

Favorites for freezing are casseroles, stews, meat loaves, desserts, and frozen fruit salads. What could be nicer than putting your meal in the oven or thawing your desserts and sitting down to visit with your guests? All it takes is a little advance planning.

Our daughter came in from the florist the other afternoon and laid a spray of lilies across the pages of the family Bible. I couldn't believe my eyes—for it was harvest time, not Easter.

I put them in a vase on the dining room table, and at dinner that night we exclaimed over their sweet fragrance. But, to me, it was vaguely disturbing—Easter lilies in New England in November—the leaves drifting to the ground in the yard outside, and a symbol of the Resurrection blooming, all at the same time.

And why not? What is the Resurrection but rebirth . . . a new beginning? Even in the fall of the year, even in the autumn of our lives, is it ever too late to begin again? Even if one has not been going to church, is it too late to start again? These were the questions I asked myself. I found the answers when I went back to church last Sunday.

DPS Intensifies Efforts To Stop Highway Litter

An intensified effort to prevent littering on the highways of Texas was announced today by Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Speir said DPS patrolmen in all uniformed services have been ordered to watch closely for motorists or other persons throwing litter on the highways or rights-of-way, and to take appropriate enforcement action.

State law prohibits the dumping or depositing of refuse, garbage, rubbish or junk on public streets, roads or highways. It is also unlawful to dump any sort of waste on rights-of-way, beaches, parking areas, or in inland streams or coastal waters.

The law makes drivers responsible for any refuse or garbage falling from their vehicles. Fines for littering offenses may be as high as $200, and minimum fines of $25 are provided in some instances.

Speir said the DPS made 841 littering arrests in 1971 as compared to 225 in 1960. Total pollution oriented arrests by the Department of Public Safety last year totaled almost 7,000 including such offenses as loose material, material spillage and faulty mufflers and exhaust emission systems.

Lamb County's First Ledger Turns Back Pages Of Time

Yellowed pages of Lamb County's first finance ledger bring alive the yesterdays when the county was in its infancy.

Recorded in 1908, the new county received $9,408.86 from the State Treasurer for "taxes accumulated while county un-organized."

Debits in the old ledger for September 1908 included two dollars each to J. H. Cowart, W. D. Wicker, Edd Kiser, F. F. Brown and Elmer McGill for "services holding election."

In February 1909, The Herald Publishing Company was paid $7.50 for election ballots and express charges for the ballots was one dollar.

Other expenses recorded in February, 1909 included "stove, $14; coal, $4.50; part payment on court house, $1,000 and bounty on coyote scalps (to W. W. Rigway and L. B. Horner), $25."

Coyote scalps were still being brought in later that year with J. H. Pendley receiving $47.50 for 95 coyote scalps and Walter Sullivan $1.50 for scalps in March, 1909.

Fulton Lumber Company was paid $1500 in March 1909 and W. E. Fitzgerald was paid $1,033.46 for "final payment on court house."

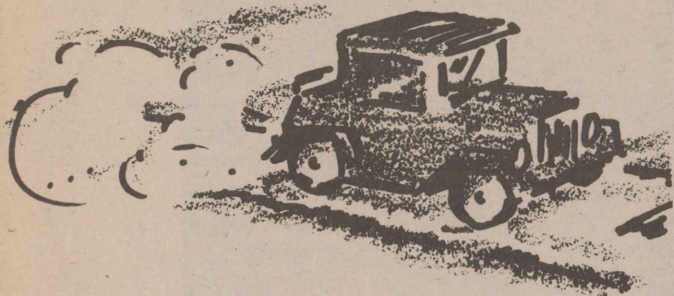

In May, 1909, C. W. McClung received 75 cents for "work on the court house" and an additional 75 cents for "filing down vault door."

F. F. Brown was paid $99.88 for "building coal house and fence." Four dollars was spent on postage in September, 1909.

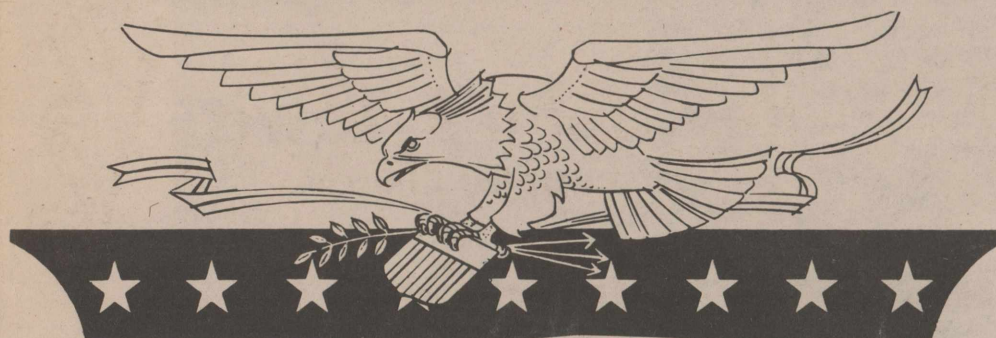

Revenue collected in 1913 included six entries for "fines" ranging from $1 to $19.50 for a grand total of $43.75.

Bounty paid by the State Comptroller for "wolf scalps" and "Wild animal bounty" was recorded in entries of $8.90, $39.75, $51.00 and $205.50.

Of interest to today's tax payers are entries in August, 1911 and 1912 for five dollars "occupation tax" paid by C. M. Watson whose occupation is recorded as "two horse peddler."

Excerpts From Early Records

Lamb, one of the baby counties of the Panhandle, was created August 21, 1897, but actually began its official existence in 1908, when the first commissioners' court was organized.

The first grand jury to be convened, Oct. 4, 1909, was in session two days and adjourned without reporting any indictment.

Lamb County had four inhabitants in 1890, 31 in 1900, but really began to grow in 1920, jumping in population during the 10 years up to 1930 from 1,175 to 17,452, a figure revealed by the census.

Excerpts from some of the county records are printed below:

JULY 8, 1908--Be it remembered that on this 8th day of July, 1908, there came on and was holden a session of the Honorable Commissioners' Court of Lamb County, Texas at the school house thereof in the town of Olton. Present and presiding: Hon. H. R. Miller, county Judge; J. A. Hooper, commissioner of Precinct No. 1; Claude E. Halsell, commissioner of Precinct No. 2; G. M. Arnett, commissioner of Precinct No. 3; Herb Dickerson, sheriff; and J. H. Cowart, clerk, pro-tem. The following business was had.

It is ordered by the Court that the school house in the town of Olton, Lamb County, Texas, be used as the temporary court house until other provisions are made.

AUGUST 25, 1908: On motion made and duly seconded it is ordered by the court that the bank building in the town of Olton in Lamb County, Texas be and the same is hereby designated as the county clerk's office....

AUGUST 11, 1910--The Honorable Commissioners' Court appointed J. A. Hooper as agent for said court to make and enter into contract with some reliable person to plow the courthouse yard at Olton and also to make a contract with some reliable persons to take care of the windmill in said courthouse yard.

AUGUST 12, 1913--On this day the court proceeded to appoint Walter Sullivan commissioner of Precinct No. 4 as agent for this court to purchase chain and posts for a hitchrack in front of the courthouse yard and also as agent for this court to purchase coal for the supply of the courthouse.

SOMETIME, 1914--...it is therefore decreed that Lamb County shall pay a bounty of $25 on grown Lobo wolves and a bounty of $5 on Lobo pups. It is further order that this county shall pay a bounty of $2 on grown coyote wolves and 50 cents on coyote pups. The said bounty will expire June 1, 1914.

Hoopers

Here In 1906

Mr. and Mrs. James Adam Hooper moved from Hale County to Lamb County in 1906.

An interesting fact about Hooper is that he was named after a distant relative of John Adams, who was a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

There were nine children in the Hooper family. Four of these, Nellie Nora, Nubert, Theodicia and Judson, were born in Lamb County.

County Is Named For G. W. Lamb

Lamb County, which was formed in 1903, was named after a young second lieutenant who fell in the first charge at the Battle of San Jacinto.

George A. Lamb was born in 1814 and died in 1836 on the famous Battlefield near San Jacinto. The 22-year-old man never knew his name had been chosen for the name of one of the top cotton producing counties in Texas.

FIRST DEATH

First death in Lamb County, after the county was organized, was that of Charlie Keenan on Jan. 5, 1912. Only a few days prior to his death had the H. R. Miller family marked off a plot of ground on their land and donated it to the town for a cemetery.

Judge Edd Burrus Was Early Settler

A speaker at Lions Club here in 1950 was Judge Edd Burrus, (deceased 1958), who was 79 years old at the time.

In his talk, he recalled memories of his life in and near Olton.

Burrus told the club how he sometimes got the vehement label of "Damn Nester" from area ranchers as he broke out the first land in the county and together with relatives, fenced seven sections of state school land on which he had filed title.

Only about 10 square miles of the land, with alternate sections owned by the state and Slaughter ranch, were opened for settlers during the first year for filing in 1899.

It was in this same year that Judge Burrus built his home, and then, at the turn of the century, moved with his wife to the land he purchased from the state.

The price was an exorbitant $1 per acre--$16 down and 40 years to pay. Burrus told how one former Yellowhouse ranch hand took the entire 40 years to retire the debt against his property.

The Olton townsite was bald prairie at this time except for a Slaughter windmill which stood near the site of the present square.

It was in 1903 that Judge Burrus produced the first bale of cotton in Lamb County, only to turn the cows in on the remaining crop after he hauled the bale to Lockney to be ginned.

Burrus was asked how long before he grew his next bale, and he replied:

"About 40 years."

He had sold the cotton, not waiting to have it ginned, for about three cents per pound.

Harvesting in those days was a far cry from the mechanization which has invaded the plains area today. The principal crops of Kafir corn and maize were harvested with a slide with a knife attached.

Burrus once told how the farmer rode on the horse-drawn slide and gathered the stalks in his arms, a method also resorted to by other farmers during the latter years of growth here when "fodder" was too short to be gathered with a conventional row binder.

Loco weeds caused a great deal of trouble during the first years Burrus was here.

He related how in 1901 he spent 40 days digging and gathering into bags the loco weeds which grew on his land. The pile he made from them in front of his house took two days to burn.

The judge lost 10 head of cattle and two horses from the weeds. Other residents sustained similar losses.

Judge Burrus was not here long without neighboring settlers.

He had been at his place, which was about four miles southwest of the present townsite, only about three months when H. R. Miller, the county's first judge, moved here.

Other early county officers included George Galloway, first county clerk; Luther Williams, first tax assessor; Herbert Dickerson, first sheriff and tax collector.

Besides the office of county judge, Burrus also served as tax assessor for Lamb County at one time.

He is reported to have told a story about an incident during this time when he owned an early model Buick automobile he was just learning to drive. The story was concerned with how he was unable to stop the car when a Slaughter ranch steer ran in front of him.

There is speculation as to whether the judge added the county's first automobile accident to his long list of other firsts.

However, accidents were probably not uncommon at this time, since settlers were building fences so rapidly that a traveler might find fences across roads that he had traveled just the day before.

LAMB COUNTY'S NEW COURTHOUSE BUILDING -- The newly constructed brick building housed the county records until the county seat was moved to Littlefield. (Photo courtesy of Lindsey Dennis).

County Created In 1876!

Lamb County was created in 1876 and named after Lt. George A. Lamb, a hero of San Jacinto. In 1891, there were only seven votes cast in the territory and everything---food, clothing and fuel---was hauled by mule train from Amarillo.

Prominent names in the making and developing of Lamb County around the turn of the century were Charlie Keenan, Doc Powell, C. W. McClung, H. R. Miller, George Galloway, W. D. Wicker, Harry Baughn, Soash, Slaughter, Doughthit, Dickenson, Schreier and Williams.

In the western part of the county was the "Mashed O" or Yellowhouse Ranch, owned by Halsell. The late Will Rogers worked on this ranch and is said to have visited there many times.

In the southern part was the Spade ranch, owned by a Mr. Ellwood and bossed by George Arnett.

In the southwest part was the LFD ranch, owned by White and Littlefield and managed by Phelps White.

At this time, the government allowed a settler to file on two sections and have two sections for grazing. A payment of a dollar per acre was required for 40 years at three percent interest.

Settlers were also required to put some improvements on the land.

Land that could be filed on was on alternating sections with the other sections owned by C. C. Slaughter.

This sometimes proved a difficulty for small settlers in putting up fencing for Slaughter had line camps set up along his ranches during the summer months.

Slaughter owned several ranches in West Texas, but he lived in Dallas and only personally made the rounds of his ranches during the summer months.

He was reported to make the trip in a big, richly adorned carriage drawn by six white horses.

His two sons, Don and Charlie, were active managers of the ranches.

The first house constructed in the county was built here about Jan. 1, 1900 with lumber brought from Estelline, by E. N. Burrus.

Olton Oldest In Lamb

Mrs. Burrus came from Floydada and drove the wagon carrying food and bedding. The trip from Floydada to Olton took three days.

In the early 1900s, excursions were brought down from the north by train and then out to Olton by carriage as prospectors. The tours were arranged by Slaughter and big tents were set up here for eating and sleeping by the prospectors.

At this time, mail was sent to Hale Center and the pioneers would take turns in picking up the mail for the whole countryside and bringing it back home.

Later, it was brought from Hereford, Dimmitt and from Hart.

Then a petition was signed and each settler had the privilege of sending in a name for a post office.

The A. B. "Doc" Powells sent in the name of their infant son, Olton, and this name was selected.

About 1902 or 1903, the first post office was started in the Powell's home, which was about five miles north of Olton's present Main Street.

It was then moved to the Tom Keenan home and then to the home of T. F. Brown.

Brown also operated a general store in his home and later decided to move the store and the post office to Olton. It took about a month to move the house five miles by steam tractors.

Mail was carried on a horse and buggy or on horseback and brought to Olton Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and to Springlake on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The first school was eight miles north of Olton with Miss Grace Galloway as the first teacher in "Burro College."

The school was named this in honor of a burro that froze to death by the side of the school during a blizzard.

The school was later moved and called Struve School before being moved to its present location.

Lamb County was organized in 1908 with about 21 legal voters in the county. Land speculators from the north and others were willing to sign the petition.

Springlake sought to dispute the making of Olton County seat but Olton had two committeemen and Springlake only one.

The first cotton crop was planted in the county in 1904 by E. N. Burrus, who purchased the seed at Lockney and planted his crop at Olton.

The first Sunday School was held in the homes of the settlers, each taking a turn. Many times, it was held in the afternoon. Later, church was held in the school and the families would take their dinner and spend the day.

The first church was built in the north half of Block 87. It was a community church and each denomination had charge of services in turn.

Circuit preachers came and it was sometimes difficult for them to tell who were members of their congregation and who were not.

The steeple was blown off the church building in a cyclone in 1928. The church was rebuilt and later purchased by the Nazarene Church. The bell in the steeple went to the Methodist Church.

Olton Dickenson 1st Olton Baby

Herbert F. Dickenson, the first sheriff of Lamb County (1908-1912), and his wife, Daisy, had the first baby born in the town of Olton in 1908, the year Olton was organized.

They named their son Olton. Another son, Jimmie N., was born in 1910 and both were born on the old Dickenson homestead one mile north of Olton.

The Dickensons who came to Texas from Sedalia, Mo., in 1898, lived in a half dugout about seven miles north of Olton and freighted supplies from Canyon.

In 1903, they moved to the homestead a mile north of town.

Dickenson served on the school board from 1914 until his death in 1916. Mrs. Dickenson lived in Olton until 1943, moving to California, where she died in 1946.

Luther Williams Helped To Build First Church

The Luther Williams came to Lamb County in August of 1902 before the county was organized. A windmill was the only thing on the site where Olton now is located.

They bought a section of land five miles northwest of Olton for $1700 and lived there 19 years.

There were about a dozen families here then. They went to Hart about once a month for their mail. They went to Plainview for their supplies and the nearest phone was at Running Water.

If a doctor was needed, someone would go on horseback to phone for one from Plainview.

When their son, Bud, was born, the snow was 18 inches deep and still falling.

It was impossible to get a doctor, so a neighbor hitched a span of mules to a hack and went for a midwife 10 miles away. It took him all night.

When the county was organized in 1908, Williams was elected tax assessor. He served two terms.

Williams, along with J. H. Cowart, H. R. Miller, Herb Dickenson and Jim Hooper hauled the lumber, free of charge, to build the first church in Olton, Union Church. Union Sunday School was organized in the spring of 1903.

The Williams had four children, Thelma, Bud, Jim and Curtis.

D.C. Yauger Was 1st JP

Mr. and Mrs. David C. Yauger and four children, Elsie, Lester, Blair and Fleta, came to Lamb County in 1908 from Hereford.

Mr. and Mrs. Yauger helped to organize the first Sunday School, both serving as superintendent three years each in the early days. They also sponsored the Methodist and Baptist Union Church.

D. C. Yauger was Lamb County's first justice of the peace, appointed by Judge H. R. Miller.

Yauger retired from farming in 1917 and moved to Olton to operate the hotel for two years. He died July 4, 1922 in Plainview.

Mrs. Yauger served as president of the Red Cross for the county in 1917-18.
