MA'S DANCE PROTESTED

"God? Who's He?" Asked Boys; Charity Told Them

"All were sallow faced; they were in tattered rags and in their eyes was the dull and hopeless glow that one finds in disappointed and disillusioned old age." They are a sample of what your money goes for which you will contribute Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week to Wichita Falls' $52,000 community chest. Open your heart and give till it hurts!

BACK in an east Texas county not long ago a newly elected judge and member of his commissioners court were making a tour of the property which, by virtue of election's fate, had been entrusted to their care.

They inspected the jail and the court house, and with official dignity in every step conducted themselves over, about and into other sections of the public domain that had come under their control. In the course of their ramblings they arrived at the poor farm.

IT seemed that the preceding administration had not been as attentive in the conduct of its affairs as it might, and as a result a heritage of chaos and ruin had been left the new bosses. All the county's property bore evidence of lack of attention, but on the poor farm mismanagement and neglect had evidently wreaked its greatest havoc.

The judge was frankly amazed and righteously indignant. The leaky buildings, lack of organization, laxity of discipline and utter indifference that prevailed aroused him. But these, he found, were merely incidental to a larger social crime that had been enacted by the paid guardian of public welfare.

In one room of the main building the visitors came upon four small boys, the eldest of which had seen less than ten summers come and go. The youngest, a cotton-topped kid in shabby garb was still on the sunny side of four. The others ranged in between. All were sallow-faced; they were in tattered rags and in their eyes was the dull and hopeless glow that one finds in disappointed and disillusioned old age. The glitter and fire of youth was wholly lacking.

AN apologetic warden mumbled something and would have hurried on but the judge detained him. He wanted to know something of the history of the juvenile quartette; he wanted to know what was being done for them; how they happened to be there. The warden demurred but the judge insisted.

"Three of them boys," the keeper began, "come here about four years ago. Their daddy had just been killed and their mammy couldn't make it on her own. She hadn't been here long before that little kid was born, and she died when he come. We buried her outside there and just kept the young 'uns. They've got about as good as they deserve, I reckon. I wanted to get shed of 'em, but there wasn't no place to send 'em so I've just kept 'em."

The judge wondered what "just kept 'em" implied and asked some more questions, this time of the boys themselves. And "just kept 'em," it developed, meant simply that—"just kept 'em."

NOT one of the four had ever seen a school book. They had no more conception of the alphabet than the wildest aborigine in Africa. The three R's were as totally unknown as the fourth dimension. None of them had ever used a knife, fork or spoon at a dinner table. Their playthings were rocks and sticks they picked up on the grounds. The judge asked them if they ever said their prayers and if they knew anything about God.

"God! Who's he?"

That was the climax.

The events that followed have a place in this story only insofar as they relate to the youngsters. The renovation accomplished at that farm, it might be explained, was prompt and thorough. A warden sought a new job, but that did not atone for years of neglect and abuse that four deserving boys had suffered. The state and society still had a problem on their hands. What to do with the four, whose pictures are shown above, was a question.

* * *

THE situation described above was actually found in Texas not long ago and the details were exactly as they have been set out. Wichita county, of course, was not the offender, but Wichita county and Wichita Falls have cases just as pathetic and with the same elements of childish misery. They differ only in degree and detail. The tragedy of youthful exhuberance crushed and stunted is the same; the tragedy of youthful yearning for freedom and play denied is the same; the tragedy of youthful mentality lying dormant and undeveloped is the same.

Those four boys through a charitable agency were lifted out of the hell-hole of their early days and are now enjoying that which they were denied. The baby is receiving the lavish love of foster parents to whom he was given. The oldest boy is on a cattle ranch in western Texas; one of the others is in a state sanitarium undergoing treatment for tuberculosis contracted at the poor farm. All are in a fair way to become assets to society. They at least are being given their chances.

* * *

THE unnamed society through which these chances have indirectly come has a branch in Wichita Falls; a branch that is doing just such work in just such cases as have been described. Its activities mean salvation of body and soul for scores of homeless waifs each year and it has an enviable record of accomplishments in this line.

To do this, though, it needs money. Its expenses are heavy.

"One campaign instead of nine," is the answer. This organization shares in the community chest. The drive for $52,000 starts tomorrow. Give till it hurts.

ALL THE MAMAS STAYED AT HOME SATURDAY NIGHT

Dad And Junior Went To Father And Son Banquet

489 WERE PRESENT

College Cafeteria Scene Of Unique Gathering Of Men

Fathers and sons of Wichita Falls were given a new conception last night of what a father and a son should be when close to 500 of them, 489 to be exact, gathered together for the first of what will be made an annual event—an impressive inter-church father and son banquet. Such were the feelings of those attending the big dinner in the Junior college cafeteria that a motion to make the meeting a yearly feature of father and son week carried by a unanimous vote.

Wichita Falls did itself proud in its first attempt to bring its dads and its kids together for a large-scale felicitation fest. The city, or rather the various churches here have arranged and carried out strictly denominational banquets of such a nature in former years, but never have they combined in such a pretentious assemblage. That the initial effort was attended by such a display of enthusiasm augurs well for the future.

An Inspiring Scene.

It was a scene inspiring as it was unusual that the big dining hall at the college presented. The incongruity of the city's civic leaders banqueting with gaudy paper hats athwart their bald pates was comedy itself at first, but everybody laughed and let it go at that. The captains of industry, distinguished members of the bar, the men of affairs whose names are linked daily with the worth while activities of the community poked their neighbors in the ribs and yelped in glee at the spectacle presented by a big banker whose skypiece, it must be admitted, was designed for a brow less massive than his own, and then all joined with the victim in good natured ribaldry at the expense of some other equally well known character.

Fun and cheeriness, of course, predominated; but it was fun of a kind that would not be possible in a crowd of any other nature. A dad laughed at his boy and the boy laughed back at him—right out in public where all could see and know that life held laughing matters for that particular family. "Sharing Life" which was the theme of the evening, was given a thorough and exhaustive test with good humor as a background.

The serious side, though, had its place. That such gatherings had a purpose other than that of entertainment was called forcibly to the attention of his listeners by Judge T. L. McCulloch of Dallas, who, in the principal address of the evening pointed out that the greatest tragedies of the world today were those in which fathers and sons forget each other. Judge McCulloch ranged far in his fluent treatment of the subject "The Two Greatest Jobs on Earth," he touched on many of the things which

Fort Worth Mayor Puts Up Own Coin

FORT WORTH, Nov. 22.—(INS)—Mayor Willard Burton, "Fort Worth's philanthropic mayor," today bested his former expressions of generosity when he announced that his personal credit to the extent of $50,000 would be offered for the financing of water and sewer systems to be constructed in the city's suburbs.

Earlier in the day he declared that a city fire fighter cannot support his family, educate his children, save a little and still have a surplus to donate to charity funds and announced that he would personally supply the donations to the community chest fund for every fireman in the city, numbering over a hundred.

The mayor notified the firemen to make known the amount they wished to donate and that he would reimburse them.

Robbers Strike First in Battle With City Cops

Chicago's Campaign On Crime Fails to Halt The Thieves

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—As detective chiefs were preparing to strengthen their drive on crime by adding sixty policemen with heroic records to the detective bureau, two major robberies, a $40,000 burglary and several holdups were perpetrated here today.

At the same time Jack Cherbo, twice indicted for murder in connection with a taxicab war was found slain near Aurora, a suburb, and a superior court judge ordered immediate grand jury action against Louis Alteris, confidante of Dion O'Banion who policemen have testified was present when John Phillips, a gangster, was slain in a North Shore cabaret.

Julius Trenkler, a depositor, was shot when five men held up and robbed the Citizens' State bank of Melrose Park. He had attempted to stop the men as they were running from the building with $5,000 in currency. Trenkler was near death tonight, physicians said.

Two men forced the proprietor of an Englewood jewelry shop, E. T. Morris, diamond salesman from New York, and two employes into the back room of the shop and then escaped with Morris' sample cases. The salesman said they contained gems worth $120,000.

The burglary of the Pearlie Powell shop, on North Michigan boulevard, was discovered today by Charles Powell, manager, who reported to the police that almost the entire stock of women's and children's wearing apparel had been taken. Powell said a complete check may show the loss to be greater than $40,000.

BAPTISTS PASS RESOLUTION ON INAUGURAL BALL

Civic Righteousness Committee's Resolution Is Adopted Saturday

TO STATE BOARD

Control Managers Will Be Asked To Close Buildings To Dancers.

DALLAS, Nov. 22.—(AP)—With a vigorous protest against a proposed "all night ball" as part of the inauguration ceremonies for Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, as governor of Texas and discussion of ways and means of obtaining text books for Baptist schools not containing theories inimical to the fundamental beliefs of the denomination, the meeting here of the Baptist convention of Texas closed today. The convention adjourned tonight after a few minor committees had reported.

The convention not only protested against the proposed inaugural ball, but voted to convey their protest to the board of control and request it to refuse to use the public buildings for such purpose. It was explained that the dance would be held in the capitol building. The protest was a part of the report of the civic righteousness committee, submitted by Dr. E. G. townsend of Belton.

UP TO THE LEGISLATURE

State Board of Control Can't Do Anything for the Baptists

AUSTIN, Nov. 22.—The state board of control announced today that protests of the state Baptist convention in Dallas against use of the capitol for an inaugural ball will have to be lodged with the legislature. The legislature has sole control of the house and senate chambers during session, Chairman Cowell said.

FURNACE CRIME UNSOLVED

Prosecutor Believes Pastor's Wife's Death to Be Cleared, However

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 22.—Admission that the death of Mrs. Addie Sheatsley, 80, whose body practically cremated, was found by her husband, the Rev. C. V. Sheatsley, in the furnace of their home in the exclusive Bexley district Monday, still presents a baffling mystery, was made today by County Prosecutor John R. King.

He expressed confidence, however, that the case eventually would be solved.

The admission was made following a conference at which Mr. King reviewed the case with those who are working with him in the attempt to establish definitely how Mrs. Sheatsley came to her death and how her body came to be in the furnace. Doctor R. C. Tarbell, an alienist, was present at the conference.

CAILLAUX, GRANTED AMNESTY IN FRANCE, FEARS RETURN TO PARIS WILL MEAN HIS ASSASSINATION

Revenge In Store For Defeatist Party Which Championed With Bolo Pasha During The War; Cowardly Parliament Is In Store for That County Under Leadership of The Returned Exile To Political Stage.

By WILLIM BIRD

Special Radio Dispatch to The Record News. Copyright 1924 by The Consolidated Press Association.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—Joseph Caillaux declares he will not take advantage for some time of the amnesty voted him by parliament but will remain at his country home near Toulouse.

Friends of the former premier say he fears assassination if he goes to Paris. Caillaux receives dozens of threatening letters every week.

By ANDRE TARDIEU

Former French Commissioner To The U. S.

Special to The Record News

Amnesty granted by parliament to Joseph Caillaux brings back opportunely into French politics the greatest financial genius of his time. Andre Tardieu, in his dispatch today, hails this action as a triumph for the defeatists and predicts that the man who was exiled from Paris in 1918 for corresponding with the enemy in war times will shortly become once again the premier of France.

Copyright 1924 By The Consolidated Press Association.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—The Caillaux-Malvy amnesty measure was defeated on the grounds that forgiveness would bring appeasement. But the objects of this forgiveness did not wait 48 hours to let France know that they intended neither to forgive nor to forget. They want political revenge. And they will probably get it, because the last five years have admirably paved the way.

The Revenge is Prepared.

During these five years the writer repeatedly has proclaimed that this revenge was being prepared. It was born on the day when parliament showed the door to Georges Clemenceau, who, in order to win the war, had struck down the traitors and prophets of defeat.

The Millerand, Briand and Poincare ministries worked ardently in the same cause, first, by giving portfolios to such notorious friends of former minister of the interior Malvy and former premier Caillaux as Theodore Steeg, Paul Strauss and M. Cheron, and secondly, by showing indulgence to those of the same band who remained to be tried—Mme. Bernain de Ravisi, the late deputy Paul Meunier and Ernest Judet, to mention only the principals.

Herriot Ministry Culminated the Edifice

Premier Herriot's radical-socialist ministry completed this strange edifice by adding amnesty although the radicals kept discreetly quiet about it when they were in the minority.

Other accomplices of 1917 are now on their way toward amnesty of retrial, namely Landau, Coldski, and Marrion of the notorious newspaper bonnet rogue. The man Cottin, who shot M. Clemenceau and nearly killed him, has been liberated. And M. Poincare, who never suggested amnesty or pardon, nor even discussed either, while he was president at the time of Malvy's trial nor during his recent long premiership, arises today to declare that he always regarded Malvy as a patriot.

This tardy testimonial scarcely adds to M. Poincare's stature, but it helps both Malvy and Caillaux who now return to power.

Will they come back during the present parliament? The writer has not the slightest doubt about it. Indeed he has been predicting it for years without being believed. There were many trials for treason and defeatism during the war, but really they were all one affair. Caillaux and Malvy were linked with Bolo Pasha, Almerads, Lenoir and Judet. Some are now dead but with those exceptions, all are still together.

Caillaux-Malvy campaign runs parallel with publication of the note book of former Ambassador Georges Louis, from which Germany draws arguments of innocence. Who published it? Judet. Where? In the review published by the two notorious defeatists, Arcos and Colin. Who first announced it? The former German propaganda agent, Hartmann, who was condemned to death during the war.

Thanksgiving To Mean Something For This Family

Father And Three Small Boys To Have Dinner In Foster Home

THE MOTHER MISSING

Home And Aid Society Saves Youngsters From Ignomy

Three little blue-eyed, tow-headed boys of the type known as "gutter snipes," because the gutter is practically the only home they knew, growing up very much like Topsy, although without her optimistic view of life, were recently reported to the Texas Children's Home and Aid society.

An investigation brought out some pertinent facts. The parents were married when the mother was thirteen; the father not yet nineteen. Before the wife was eighteen she was the mother of three small boys. Without education or training of any kind in home making, things began to look very bad for the little family.

Small Earnings.

The father worked, but his earning capacity never exceeded $75 a month. The little woman did not know the value of a dollar, and spent her husband's money foolishly. The father, feeling the need of protection against a doubtful future, sent a young agent to the wife, with instructions to take out insurance on the three boys. This visit proved the undoing of his home. The man was good-looking, and suave. The woman was young, ignorant, and susceptible. She had missed all her girlhood, had missed all the brightness and joy of youth; when other girls were playing, she was nursing her babies. She could not see the harm in taking what fun out of life she could; so when the man suggested that she leave her home and babies and go with him for a good time, she consented—and the usual story followed.

The man soon deserted, and in less than six months, September, 1924, an addict of drink and drugs, she was a prisoner in the city jail, and not yet twenty years old!

Find Good Care.

The father struggled alone for a short time. When the agent of the society found him; he told her that because of his lack of education (he could neither read nor write) he was unable to secure a position paying a salary large enough to maintain himself and his three little boys. With tears running down his face he said—"I want my boys to have homes where they can get an education. I don't want them to grow up like me. It almost kills me to give them up, but I love them better than I do myself, and please, lady, don't ever tell them their mother wasn't a good woman."

The worker verified all that had been said and, although an effort was made to keep the father and the children together it was later decided to accept the children as legal wards of the society, for placement in good foster homes.

The children were given mental examination and all three proved of superior intelligence. The two youngest have found a home with childless couples in east Texas. The oldest is placed in a near-by town. All three are frequently together. The young father comes regularly to the office of the Texas Children's Home and Aid society to hear from his boys.

November 27 is going to be a red-letter day in his life, a real Thanksgiving for he has been invited to the foster home of Joe and Tommie to eat turkey dinner with his three small sons.

IBANEZ

ferious Blasco—and English editions had been published simultaneously in New York and London.

The writer is not aware whether the New York edition will have as much trouble getting circulated as the Spanish, but for the benefit of those Americans who may have been unable thus far to get a copy, he will say that it is about as thrilling a revolutionary manifesto as Aunt Bessie's bedtime talks with tots.

All Dumb-Bells But Him.

Blasco "reveals" that Don Alfonso "who carries on so" sometimes summers at Deauville and that Spanish troops have suffered heavy losses recently in Morocco, and he relates at great length the old gossip about dictator Primo's private life. He proves conclusively that there are scarcely any intelligent people in Spain except himself and Prof. Miguel Unamuno, both of whom, moreover, now are exiled in Paris and aspiring to be the Victor Hugo of a tremendous republican revolution.

But one cannot help reading between the lines that what really rankles in Blasco's ardent revolutionary breast is the fact that although abroad he is hailed as Spain's foremost writer, his reputation in his own country has not kept pace. You might compare him with Upton Sinclair who, though unglorified by exile, has a tremendous following abroad.

Imagine Upton Sinclair.

One can imagine Sinclair—if ever fortune decrees exile for him—writing a fulminating indictment of the then president and secretary of state and publishing it simultaneously in eight or nine languages including the Scandinavian. But one cannot imagine an indignant American public secretary passing copies from hand to hand until the country rose up as a single man and swept the malefactors from power.

Nor can one imagine Blasco's blast having a similar effect in Spain. The writer has traveled that joyous country both before Primo de River's dictatorship and since, and he always observed that one thing which made the Spaniards so happy was that they did not care a rap about politics. If they heard that Alfonzo was at Deauville with other "dough-villains" playing baccarat, drinking champagne and dandling dainty damsels on his knee, they most often said: "lucky dog" for these are pastimes dear to every true Spanish heart, and the king who did not indulge in them would be regarded as a suspect.

Too Bored to Read It.

If Primo and Alfonso had sufficient intelligence they would distribute Blasco's book gratis through Spain, perfectly secure in the knowledge that the Spaniards would be too bored to read it.

And even if they did read it they would scarcely be allured by the author's rhapsodical picture of the republic which he prophesies will soon exist and under which Spain will be so well and so modernly governed that no real Spainard could posisbly live there.

Of course Barcelona wants revolution or rather separation. But Barcelonians are not Spainards but Catalonians. They are nice, clean, bright, modern up-and-coming people and they are extremely fond of political activities.

CAILLAUX

whose relations with Count von Bernstorff are well remembered. Caillaux was a friend of both. Bolo was shot but Caillaux is preparing to return to power with the help of Premier Herriot, former Premier Poincare and others who imprudently forget that they will be his first victim.

How will this return be effected? The writer believes it will be through a future Painleve ministry in which M. Caillaux will be finance minister as a stepping stone to the premiership.

Besides the direct evidence placed before the high court concerning Caillaux's relations with enemy agents there are two more general and graver charges. First, he constantly counted on a French defeat. Secondly, he worked secretly—and today boasts of it—for a rapid peace.

Backed By the Radicals.

His own party, even, did not protest against his condemnation and five party congresses since 1920 neither demanded amnesty nor retrial. Yet today he is backed by the socialists and a third of the radicals. He intimidates Parliam and M. Poincare who did all in his power to bring him to justice six years ago and votes today for amnesty. So it is not difficult to predict that he will dominate internal and external policies during the present parliament.

The defeatists who so disturbed American opinion during the war, have won the first leg of their revenge. And as they trumpet their victory nobody can longer doubt what the writer repeatedly has warned—that a cowardly parliament and its intriguing chiefs are mainly responsible for today's triumph of the defeatism.

CLAIMS "FOURTEEN POINTS."

Bankrupt Cigarette Manufacturer Says He Is Real Author.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—That he was the real author of Woodrow Wilson's famous fourteen points was the assertion made today by a bankrupt cigarette manufacturer, Nicholas Coundouris, who is 80. He was the man who introduced cigarette smoking into western Europe seventy years ago and amassed a fortune of more than nine million dollars, all of which he lost in the war.

In an interview published in the Daily Graphic today he says:

"When President Wilson asked the belligerents in what way he could interfere and make peace I knew Mr. Wilson was totally inexperienced in European politics. I wrote him indications of the fourteen points on which to suggest peace and sent these to him through Mr. Lloyd George March 6, 1917.

"But as nothing ensued, I fell back on my own resources. By the expenditure of large sums of money and great danger to my own life I managed to get copies conveyed to the rulers of Germany, Bulgaria and Turkey.

"June 14, 1917, I wrote again to the president deploring the fact that he had not yet made public my fourteen points. I got no direct reply, but received through the department of state a letter dated June 25, 1917. At the same time Mr. Wilson sent emissaries to Europe to ascertain how my fourteen points met the situation.

January 5, 1918, he appropriated them, keeping the original and altering the phraseology and in all his speeches he made in support of them he frequently quoted without quotation marks from my many letters to him."

REPUBLICAN ORGANIZER

Fort Worth Record Managing Editor to Direct the Party in Texas

DALLAS, Nov. 22.—Leonard Withington, formerly managing editor of the Fort Worth Record, has accepted the position of director of organization of the republican party in Texas, to succeed Clinton S. Bailey, who has resigned to re-enter the practice of law, the headquarters committee announced today through W. E. Talbot.

Mr. Withington, described as a life long republican and active at all state conventions for the past four years, will start his duties December 1, taking over the actual management on December 31, when Mr. Bailey's resignation is effective.

No Tax Reduction Legislation In Sight for Next Session of Congress

Coolidge Seems To Be Content To Let It Rest

Demos And LaFollette's Party to Be Frowned Down By G. O. P.

THEY MAY START IT

Bills Calling For Cuts Expected to Be Put Up at Once

By HARDEN COLFAX,
Special Correspondent The Record News.

Copyright 1924 by the Consolidated Press Association.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Unless President Coolidge changes his mind between now and December 1, there will be no tax reduction legislation at the next session of congress. Congress itself will not take the initiative.

Your correspondent has been so advised by leaders of the coalition which defeated the Mellon plan at the last session, put through its own tax law, and is still in control of the holdover congress. The subject has been discussed informally here and elsewhere by leading democrats and LaFollettes. These leaders have reached the conclusion that any further reduction in taxes must spring from a white house recommendation.

Bills Will Lose.

Individual democrats or followers of LaFollette probably will introduce bills to authorize another horizontal cut in taxes, but such measures will be frowned upon by the leaders. One of the leading democratic senators characterized such measures as attempts "to get a little publicity for the authors." Another said that "in view of the mandate given the republicans election day," the direction of all legislation should be left to them.

The balance of power groups in house and senate who have followed the lead of LaFollette are not seriously considering tax reduction. They have discussed it according to a spokesman for the senate group, but concluded not to press it.

President Coolidge indicated a week ago that he would not propose another tax cut to the short session of congress. He also indicated his desire to avoid a special session but did not definitely assert that he would not call such a session. In view of the White House attitude of the improved condition of the treasury and of the general interest in further tax reduction, two distinct and somewhat conflicting impressions have resulted in Washington.

Baseless Impression.

The first of these was that congress itself would take the initiative and by joint resolution or otherwise would cut the 1924 tax rates horizontally as it did the 1923 rates. Linked with this suggestion was the definite idea that he cut would be 25 per cent. That impression it now appears is without foundation.

The second impression was that while the president would prefer not to call congress in special session next spring to reduce taxes, he, nevertheless, might decide to do this notwithstanding his inclination to give the country a rest from legislation. And that decision still lies in the lap of the gods.

More than anything else, perhaps, the state of the treasury when the present congress expires March 4 next, will determine the president's course. Coupled with that will be the effect of the present rates on national revenues. Treasury experts can give the president a good idea as to how much money the present rates will produce by examining the income tax payments of March 15 next. If those totals far exceed present expectations it is quite possible that President Coolidge may decide to give the taxpayers an immediate dividend in the form of another reduction. He could only do this by calling a special session. Were he to wait till the regular session convenes a year hence, further relief on 1924 taxes would be virtually a dead letter. As the situation crystalizes it thus becomes apparent that there will be no further tax reduction inside of a year unless a special session of congress is called next spring. And unless such a session is called, the taxpayers of the country can count definitely on paying the full schedules of the present law on their 1924 incomes. First relief, without a special session would apply to 1925 incomes and would be afforded in 1926, more than 16 months away at the earliest.

The heavy taxpayers of the country apparently are content to leave the subject in the president's keeping. There has been little agitation on their part to date, as compared with the nation-wide demand of last year, for another slicing of the income tax. They want it, as scores of them have privately advised your correspondent, but they appear to have faith in the

William Faversham And Margaret Anglin Here Dec. 3 In "Foot Loose"

Margaret Anglin, co-starring with William Faversham in "Foot Loose," a comedy drama that will appear at the Palace theatre in a matinee and night performance on Wednesday, December 3.

When Manager H. S. Ford of the Palace theatre today guaranteed T. C. Leonard, business manager for William Faversham and Margaret Anglin, two of the foremost stars of the theatrical world that this city would welcome and support their appearance here for a matinee and night performance on Wednesday, December 3, contracts were immediately signed which insures that this city will see a play of the highest order presented by a company that even Broadway cannot surpass.

Managed Galli-Curci

Mr. Leonard, who was the first business manager for Galli-Curci in this country and who has managed such stars as Walter Hampden, Leo Ditrichstein in addition to the Chicago and San Carlo Grand Operas, was seen at the Kemp hotel.

In speaking of the trans-continental tour of Mr. Faversham and Miss Anglin, he said:

"Ever since leaving New York the south and southwest have given the lie direct to reports that business is bad and that money is scarce. Miss Anglin and Mr. Faversham have been greeted everywhere by audiences that taxed the capacity of the theatres.

"It only proves that the people of this section will go to good plays when presented by good companies but that they do not care to be imposed upon by second and third rate companies masquerading under false colors as being real New York successes.

A Foremost Actress.

"Miss Anglin ever since the days of her triumph in "The Great Divide" and later in "A Woman of Bronze" as well as in her notable presentations of the ancient Greek tragedies and in Shakespearean repertoire as well, has been recognized as the foremost actress upon the stage today.

"In William Faversham we have an actor who is an actor. For a score of years the public has held him in high esteem. In "The Squaw Man," "Lord and Lady Algy," in "The Hawk" and a score of other successes, he proved his ability and versality. Faversham is known from coast to coast and in his present role in "Foot Loose" he has one of the best parts of his career.

"If every seat is not sold out for this performance of "Foot Loose," before the company arrives here it will indicate that this city does not want the best that the theatre offers."

City's System Of Parks Growing At Pleasing Speed

Community Now Demands Larger And Better Pleasure Sites

GROUNDS ARE GIVEN

Public Spirited Residents Turn Over Necessary Tracts For Use

In line with the development of the 250 acre tract of ground recently given the city by W. F. Weeks for a park site, city officials are calling attention to the fact Wichita Falls has been acquiring municipal park plots at an exceptional rate the past year. They attribute this to the fact that Wichitans generally are taking more civic interest in their community, are demanding larger park facilities and are co-operating to the end that such facilities may be obtained.

This is reflected in the numerous gifts of park grounds that have been made recently. Since the first of the year the city has been the recipient of a half-a-dozen widely scattered tracts, each of which was turned over with no strings attached other than that it be developed and maintained as a recreational or beauty spot.

Weeks Park Biggest

By far the largest and most pretentious project is that of the new park grounds south of the city which are being converted into a natural beauty spot and a public golf links. The ground, approximately 250 acres, has been given by Mr. Weeks on condition that a concrete road be constructed along one side of it, connecting present paving on the southern rim of town with the lake road. The outer terminal will be near the Northwest Texas Insane asylum grounds at Lake Wichita. Negotiations looking to the construction of this are now under way and it is confidently expected that they will eventually be brought to a successful conclusion.

Other Smaller Ones

In other parts of the city smaller, but none-the-less needed parking tracts are springing up. In Indian Heights, a new residential territory on the western edge, a fair-sized park is being laid out. Boulevards and the usual scenic attractions of the average park will be found when the project is completed.

The only park of its kind in the city, one for the use of negroes alone, has been made possible by a recent gift from J. A. Kemp and Frank Kell who have donated a 5-acre tract near the baseball grounds. This is to be improved in order that the colored population here will have a recreational spot.

Out on Grant street, in the second Floral Heights addition, residents of that territory are enjoying a new park that was acquired partly through the efforts of a community organization and partly through donation of land owners. A small plot of ground has been beautified by the women of the neighborhood and the city has installed considerable playground equipment for the youngsters. It is now one of the most attractive park sites in town and has been made so in less than a year's time.

May Get Others

Consideration is now being given to at least one and possibly two more offers of park ground. J. S. Fore, owner of considerable ground on the north side of town has offered to donate a site for a park near the river banks. His proposal is still before the council and has not been acted on one way or the other. It is also understood that a large land owner in the Floral Heights addition is considering making an offer of a big park site, but this project is as yet in the formative stage.

The park system here is growing steadily year by year and it is the hope of city officials to eventually give Wichita Falls the most extensive chain of recreation spots in Texas.

City National To Have Huge Clock On Bank Building

Big Timepiece And Chimes Being Placed For Use Of The Public

IS 12 FEET HIGH

Can Be Seen And Heard From Many Parts of Business District

A huge new electrically operated and illuminated clock is being erected by the City National bank on its building at Eighth and Scott as a matter of convenience for the public and ornamentation for one of the busiest sections of the city. Work of placing the big instrument is now under way and will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

The most distinctive feature of the clock, other than its artistic appearance and the perfection of its construction and mechanism, is the complete set of Westminster chimes with which it is equipped. These are to ring every hour and may be heard practically as far as the clock can be seen.

12 Feet High.

The clock is attached to the front of the bank building at a sufficient elevation to be plainly visible from all parts of the street. It is 12 feet, two inches in height by three feet, six inches square and is made of dark bronze with copper hoods at top and bottom. All faces of the clock are alike, the dials being surmounted by the words "City National Bank" in illuminated letters. The dials are each 30 inches in diameter. A master clock inside the main banking room controls the larger instrument on the building outside. The smaller one is a structure of glass and mahogany, has a 12-inch dial and keeps perfect time. Electrical connections insure the big clock outside keeping perfect time with the master instrument below.

Chimes to Peal.

P. P. Langford, president of the City National, in announcing the purchase of the clock from the O. B. McClintock company of Minneapolis, Minn., states that the Westminster chimes in the instrument will be so regulated as to strike on each quarter hour. At a quarter past, they will peal four times; at half past, eight times; three-quarter past, 12 times; on the hour, 16 times, followed by a striking of the full hour.

Man Awaiting Sentence Returns After All-Night Visit to His Home.

STROUDSBURG, Pa. — Clinton Diehl, East Stroudsburg business man who recently escaped from the county jail where he was awaiting sentence for a statutory offense, returned to the prison and surrendered. He told Sheriff F. A. Bonser that he had just gone out "to see the kiddies and my family."

TEMPERANCE WORKER'S WINE CONVICTS HIM

NEBRASKA CITY—A district court jury yesterday found Ben Allen, temperance advocate and former city councilman, guilty of manufacturing and possessing intoxicating elderberry juice. He was convicted in the county court several weeks ago and fined $100 and costs, but appealed the case. He will take it to the supreme court in view of a recent Maryland decision, it was announced.

Allen was arrested when officers raided his ben house and found many barrels, kegs and other receptacles full of what the defendant called vinegar. He said he was making vinegar for wholesale distribution and the large alcohol content was due to natural fermentation of fruit juices.

Rugs made in Turkey each year have had a total value of $3,000,000.

ST. JOSEPH, Nov. 22.—Divorced as a wife and now adopted as a daughter is the experience of Elizabeth Arentzen.

Mrs. Arentzen was granted a divorce in circuit court Friday from her husband, Hans Arentzen. A petition was filed before Judge W. H. Utz in the juvenile court by Arentzen asking that he be allowed to adopt his ex-wife as his daughter. The adoption was ratified and confirmed by the court.

Graham Brothers Truck Here For M'Fall Brothers

Shipment of New Machines With Better Features Is Received

The Graham Brothers Truck factory is now enjoying the most substantial business of its career and since being taken over by the Dodge Brothers interests it has moved to a point where it stands sixth in production in motor truck manufacture in America. In view of the fact that it has been in operation only four years this is regarded as a remarkable achievement.

McFall Brothers, local agents for the Dodge and Graham, have received their first shipments of new one-tone and also the one and one-half ton trucks. An inspection of the machine has revealed a number of improvements and refinements over the previous models. Interchangeable service and emergency brakes, oversized rear end assembly with positive drive, large Timken bearings, improved rear spring design, the famous Dodge motor and many other features are incorporated in the car.

The service angle is also stressed in Graham machine sales and the large and well equipped plant of McFall Brothers here is at the disposal of users of Graham trucks.

Poison Suspect's Offer to Eeat His Fruit Frees Him

San Antonio Authorities At Loss to Clear Up Death Mystery

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 22.—Following his offer to eat the contents of a package of fruit sent to Mrs. Alexandra San Miguel DeValdez at Carpenter, Texas, believed by the woman to have been poisoned, police, after a lengthy grilling, released from custody David Rosee, who admitted sending the package.

Meanwhile, Herman Nester, city chemist, is continuing a chemical analysis of the fruits and candy in the package to ascertain whether it contains poison.

Mrs. San Miguel declared that her suspicions were aroused upon receipt of the package mailed from this city several days ago because of the fact that three members of her family, two daughters and a nephew, died last August in a mysterious manner after eating meat sent by the same person who mailed the fruit.

The man questioned by police is said to have been the former husband of Zapopa San Miguel.

The Wilson county grand jury will immediately begin an investigation of the three deaths last August, according to County Attorney Patterson.

By virtue of an order of sale issued by order of a judgment decree of the 89th district court of Wichita county, Texas, by the clerk of said court, on the 8th day of November, A. D., 1924, in a certain suit No. 11003-C, wherein the State of Texas is plaintiff, and T. J. Wood, the heirs and all unknown heirs of T. J. Wood, deceased; and all persons owning or having or claiming any interest in the land or lots hereinafter described, defendants, in favor of the said plaintiff, for the sum of seventy and 70-100 dollars for state and county taxes, interest, penalty and costs, with interest on said sum at the rate of six per cent per annum from date fixed by said judgment, together with all costs of suit, that being the amount of said judgment rendered in favor of said plaintiff by the said 89th district court of Wichita county, on the 7th day of October, A. D., 1924, and to me directed and delivered as sheriff of said Wichita county, I have seized, levied upon, and will, on the first Tuesday in December, A. D., 1924, the same being the 2nd day of said month, at the court house door of said Wichita county, in the city of Wichita Falls between the hours of 2 o'clock p. m., and 4 o'clock p. m. on said day, proceed to sell for cash to the highest bidder all the right, title and interest of said defendants in and to the following described real estate, levied upon as the property of said defendants, the same lying and being situated in the county of Wichita and state of Texas, to-wit: Lots No.'s 6 and 7 in block No. 90 of the original townsite to Iowa Park, Texas, or a sufficient portion thereof to satisfy said judgment, interest, penalties and costs; subject, however, to the rights of the plaintiff for any other or further taxes on or against said property that may not be included herein, and the right of redemption, the defendants or any person having an interest therein, to redeem the said property, or their interest therein, at any time within two years from the date of sale by paying double the amount paid for said property, and subject to any other and further rights the defendants or anyone interested therein, may be entitled to, under the provisions of law. Said sale to be made by me to satisfy the above described judgment, together with interest, penalties and costs of suit, and the proceeds of said sale to be applied to the satisfaction thereof, and the remainder, if any, to be applied as the law directs.
W. W. MURPHY.
Sheriff Wichita County, Texas.
Dated at Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 8th day of November, 1924.

SHERIFF'S SALE.
THE STATE OF TEXAS,
Conty of Wichita.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a certain order of sale issued out of the honorable 78th district court of Wichita county on the 7th day of November, 1924, by A. F. Kerr, clerk of said court, for the sum of eleven hundred eighty-five and no-100 dollars, and costs of suit, under a certain judgment in favor of E. L. Rockwell in a certain cause in said court, No. 15985-B and styled E. L. Rockwell vs. Crisson Shallow Oil Producers, a copartnership, N. L. Nelson and R. U. Criswell, jointly and severally and placed in my hands for service, I, W. W. Murphy, as sheriff of Wichita county, Texas, did, on the 7th day of November 1924, levy on certain real estate situated in Wichita county Texas, described as follows, to-wit:

First: A certain oil and gas leasehold estate, and being the south 40 acres of land out of the following described 194.2 acre tract of land, the same being the south 94.2 acres out of a 194.2 acre tract of land out of the J. M. Sharpe survey in Wichita county, Texas, and bounded and described as follows:

On the north by the lands of W. W. Overby, same being the 100 acre tract heretofore leased to J. R. Pool; on the south by the lands of J. A. Terbune; on the west by the lands of L. C. Denny, and on the east by the lands of Hodge and Putnam, and being more definitely described as the south 94.2 acres of the W. W. Overby tract, in block 129 of the J. M. Sharpe survey, it being the same lease on which defendants, Crisson Shallow Oil Producers are now or have been drilling a well for oil, and the lease herein referred to and on which said laborers' lien is claimed, being the south 40 acres of the said 94.2 acre tract.

Second: The following described personal property to-wit: all the casing used in or about said well of any size whatever, and now on said lease, the power and power house, the tool house and all tools and connections belonging thereto, the Ford car, the tubing, rods, all line pipes, all pumping jacks, pumping rod lines, water well, oil tanks, water tanks, office and office furniture therein, and all other property on said lease, belonging to the said defendants whether specially enumerated or not.

And on the first Tuesday in December, 1924, the same being the 2nd day of said month, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. on the above described lease by virtue of said levy and said order of sale I will sell said above described personal property at public vendue for cash to the highest bidder, as the property of the said defendants.

And that on the first Tuesday in December, 1924, the same being the 2nd day of said month, at the court house door of Wichita county, in the city of Wichita Falls Texas, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., by virtue of said levy and said order of sale, I will sell said above described real estate at public vendue, for cash, to the highest bidder, as the property of said defendants.

And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication, in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Wichita Falls Record News, a newspaper published in Wichita county.

Witness my hand this 8th day of November, 1924.
W. W. MURPHY, Sheriff,
Wichita Co., Texas.

Busy Week Slips Past in City's Social Circles; P.-T. A., Shrine, Other Parties Bring in Notables

Announcement of Approaching Kahn Wedding One of the Outstanding Features.

Parties, conventions and entertainment for visitors have featured the week, which has by no means been dull. Wichita Falls has had the privilege of entertaining the women of every section of the state in the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations in the convention that closed Thursday. Among the distinguished guests were the visiting ladies of Shrinedom who accompanied their husbands to the ceremonial of Maskat temple. They were entertained with a dinner at the Country club and box party at the Wichita theatre Friday night.

Marriage Announcement

The week, too, brought the announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Thelma Kahn to Mr. Walter S. Abbott, December 16, when Mrs. J. T. Montgomery, assisted by Mrs. J. H. S. Bonner gave one of the most elaborate parties of the season.

Miss Kahn was honored with several showers by her friends. Mrs. Raymond Myers entertained Friday afternoon at the Wichita club in her honor and Mrs. Jonette Bonner entertained Wednesday afternoon with a miscellaneous shower for the bride-to-be.

Mrs. Cullum Entertains

Mrs. Landon Cullum entertained in honor of Mrs. T. S. McDavitt of Hope, Ark., who is a former class mate of Ward-Belmont. Other guests included a number of girl friends who were in the same class in college. Those from Vernon were Mrs. S. P. Rogers, Mrs. Irvin McCarter, Mrs. Joe Summers, and Mrs. Sylvester Munger; from Wichita Falls, Mrs. J. H. S. Bonner, Mrs. Middleton Graves, Mrs. Jim Barnard, and Mrs. C. I. Francis.

Members of district eight were entertained at the Wichita club Wednesday evening preceding the night session of th Parent-Tacher association, when Mrs. Ivan Murchison, Mrs. E. T. Bass and Mrs. T. M. Conrey arranged for the entertainment of the out-of-town delegates of the district to meet together. Mrs. J. I. Kendrick of Amarillo, district president, presided.

Little Miss Lily Graham, with her mother, Mrs. R. H. Graham, was hostess to a group of friends at the Wichita club Friday evening in honor of her twelfth birthday.

The B. O. P. class of the Floral Heights Methodist church entertained the class members with the members of the Wesley and the B. O. P. classes of the First Methodist church at the Wichita club Wednesday afternoon in a delightful party.

The Alathean class of the First Baptist church also entertained with a party at the church Thursday. Members of the Pollyanna class of the same church entertained their friends with a party Thursday evening.

Many have been busy with rehearsals for the Thanksgiving cantata to be given Tuesday evening at the First Baptist church.

The Little Theatre members held a luncheon Thursday at the Wichita club where they transacted several items of business.

On the whole, the week has been busy, and plans are centering now on Thanksgiving festivities.

BALTIMORE STUDIED BY TWENTIETH CENTURY

A study of the pioneers of Baltimore, the city in its colonial days, its early history and why it is the monumental city of America were among the topics discussed by the Twentieth Century club Friday afternoon when Mrs. I. G. Craig was hostess at the home of Mrs. E. J. Tschabold, 1609 Lucile.

Roll call was answered by giving current events from Baltimore. Mrs. F. P. Warren showed the lines established between Baltimore and Charleston. Mrs. G. C. Raley talked on "Colonial Baltimore." Mrs. E. C. McArthur gave a history of the Star Spangled Banner. Why it is the monumental city was explained by Mrs. C. H. Moffett. Mrs. R. I. Carter was leader for the afternoon.

Club members present were Mesdames S. G. Daniells, F. C. Carter, R. I. Carter, I. G. Craig, A. B. Lipscomb, C. H. Moffett, R. B. Parker, G. C. Raley, E. T. Sheegog, W. L. Scott, E. J. Tschabold, F. P. Warren. Mrs. D. A. Lundien was accepted as a new member of the club.

TRAVEL CLUB DISCUSSES ENGLISH POET NOYES.

Noyes' conception of the worth of men of science to the world and their struggles with ignorance and prejudice was discussed by Mrs. John C. McDonald at the meeting of the Travel club Friday afternoon at the Kemp public library. Mrs. McDonald showed in her paper that the poet was appreciative of the struggles that the men of science went through, and gave examples of Pasteur, Galileo and Copernicus.

Mrs. John M. Martin, leader, gave Noyes' idea of the harmony between scientific discovery and religious belief. Mrs. J. W. Akin read a paper on Galileo.

The club welcomed Mrs. McDonald into the club, who, on her first attendance as a member gave an exceptionally good paper.

Those present included Mesdames J. B. Hatchitt, Leslie Humphrey, John M. Martin, E. T. Duff, John C. McDonald, W. P. Killingsworth, Arch Dawson, T. A. Hicks, C. H. Clark, Ben G. Oneal, W. W. Cook, J. W. Akin, D. J. Carithers, Leslie Stringer, C. N. Alexander, W. W. Fraser.

MISS LILY GRAHAM HONORED AT PARTY.

Among the delightful autumn parties arranged for the younger set this season was that in honor of the twelfth birthday of little Miss Lily Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Graham, held Friday evening at the Wichita club. Assisting Mrs. Graham were Mrs. Cress Van Millican and Miss Beatrice Morgan.

Bunco was the game of the evening with a flower vase going to the girl winner of high score, and a silk handkerchief to the boy. Consoling the low score winners, a book deck of cards was presented to the girl and a novelty prize to the boy. The cut prize was a dainty box of candy.

The Thanksgiving idea was carried out in the decorations and in the refreshment course when cake and ice cream turkeys were served to little Misses Joline Wood, Mary Collier, Elizabeth Smith, Elizabeth Lee, Mary Virginia Barron, Rose Marion Art, Margaret Norwood, Margaret Kendall, Betty Sims, Hallie Broday, Lila Lee, Virgie Mae Adams, Dorothy Allison, Camille Avis, Gladys Ragland, Gladys Denham, Corinne Tucker, Lenora Walker, Katherine Weeks, Dell Hatchitt, Mary Jane Covington, Marjorie Wilhite, Jane Adams, Marion Anderson, Mizelle Hodge, Helen Avis, and Reagan Tucker. James Guest, Arch Greenwood, Mark Walker, Luther Bell, Joe Hancock, Henry Anderson, Wray Clay, Paul R. Norwood, Joe McMahan, John White, Eugene Foster, Robert Dillard, Lloyd Leggett, George Bays, Ira Phelps, Clifton and Jack Broday.

Visiting Ladies in Shrine Party Honored Here Friday With Dinner And Social At the Country Club

Mrs. Chandler and Others in Imperial Line Entertained By Wives of Wichita Nobles.

An attractive dinner party at the Country club, followed by a box party at the Wichita theater, was given Friday evening by the officers' wives of the divan of Maskat Temple in courtesy to the visiting ladies of Shrinedom: Mrs. James E. Chandler, wife of the imperial potentate, Kansas City; Mrs. Earl C. Mills, wife of the imperial marshal, Des Moines; and Mrs. W. B. Ellis, wife of a past potentate of Hella Temple.

The club was decorated in autumn leaves, making a colorful back ground for the fall flowers, carrying out a combination of shades, with yellow predominating. Trailing ferns and chrysanthemums completed the taste decorations. Plate favors for the guests were dainty corsages of roses, chrysanthemums and narcissus.

While the delicious menu was being served, Miss Vivian Bailey gave a number of violin solos with Mrs. Lucile Brooks Huff at the piano. In compliment to Mrs. Chandler, the Shrine Chanters dropped in to sing a group from their pleasing repertoire.

Mrs. B. L. Fain presided at the table as hostess for the occasion. Covers were laid for Mrs. Chandler, Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Fain, Mrs. L. G. Hawkins, Mrs. W. W. Gardner, Mrs. R. E. Shepherd, Mrs. Martin Rowe, Mrs. Guy Rogers, Mrs. Earle Jones, Mrs. Horrace Robbins, Mrs. Al Ellis, Miss Dorothy Ellis, Mrs. Frank Collier and Mrs. Walter D. Cline.

Gayest of Parties Await Washington's Newest Social Season, The Spencer Fete Initiating A Gala Period In a Gala Way During Past W eek

By JEAN JARVIS
Special Correspondent The Record-News.

Copyright, 1924, by The Consolidated Press Association.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Now that the first debutante has been made her bow to set the social season off, this year girls are busy arranging the gayest sort of parties, with "sweet charity" as a pleasantly agreeable excuse on which to hang some very good pre-holiday times.

The "bal de tete" is a case in point. In this instance the heads of all and sundry are going to be set off with some perfectly wondrous "fixin's." Sartorial history is being ransacked and the result will justify the arduous digging into dusty tomes and the adroit manipulation of fabrics, of jewel-decked silks and velvets and of needles handled by more or less experienced fingers.

Making Money, Too.

To add to the sum total of the proceeds of the "bal de tete" a group of particularly gifted girls are going to busy themselves making head dresses and disposing of them for a good round price.

The fete at which Violet Spencer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Benning Spencer, initialed the social season was a gala one, indeed. All Washington was there bowing and smiling, a glad omen of the gay time to come. Miss Spencer was received into Washington society one of the most charming debutantes for many years, in her Vionnet frock of white georgette, carrying orchids. She had Helen Maryc and Louise Ireland and some other entirely diverting "sister buds" to share the glory with her. Mrs. "Joe" Leiter and Mrs. John Wilkins, both about as promising sponsors as any forward-looking debutante could pick out, were among those who assisted the very attractive Mrs. Spencer, who was all in silvery gray satin.

Miss Spencer Louise Ireland and Helen Marye (you know she's said to be really engaged to a most engaging young Italian nobleman) have all spent the greater part of the last year in Europe.

All this week, Mrs. Coolidge has been very much to the fore. She has had a nice little tea party for the women of the cabinet circle and in addition to the other groups she received counsel of Bryn Mawr which held a three-day conference here this week. To this group was none other than Mrs. Fred K. Manning who as Helen Herron Taft, made her debut in the White House. I heard that Mrs. Coolidge was much at home with the Bryn Mawr crowd and that she looked very chic and attractive in a very smart little outfit showing a perfectly good hip-length "regularly tailored type" coat, with narrow revers and long narrow sleeves and a straight hanging skirt of the same soft black wool fabric. Her blouse was white—a soft silk effect, also tailored.

Await Mrs. Butler.

Nowadays everybody's getting a bit excited to know what manner of woman Mrs. William M. Butler is. The wife of the junior senator from Massachusetts, Mrs. Butler is going to be a tot at the White House.

Newcomers bound to "fit in" naturally are Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Douglas Robinson. Mr. Robinson succeeding his cousin, Theodore Roosevelt Junior, as assistant secretary of the navy. He is a Harvard man after the Roosevelt tradition and also rather after the same tradition he's literary to a degree. Just after he got his degree at college he married another Roosevelt—Helen, daughter of James Roosevelt of Hyde Park and grand daughter of Mrs. William Astor.

True to the tradition of the G. O. P. clans are gathering and those who know "whats what" predict a brilliantly interesting four years with the Coolidges in the White House and the G. O. P. cohorts in town with "lots of money" and the will to spend it.

CAMP FIRE PLAY PRESENTED NEXT WEEK.

Good progress has been made within the last few days in preparation of the Camp Fire play, "The Call of Wobelo," to be held at the church hall, 1509 Ninth street, on Friday, November 28, at 8 o'clock, according to Miss M. Marguerite White, director.

"The Call of Wobelo' is a three-act comedy drama which tells the interesting story of the delights and adventures of the camping trip taken by a group of Camp Fire Girls," Miss White state. "Besides the entertainment and dramatic qualities contained in the play, it contains the true spirit of Camp Fire, based upon the creed of Wobelo, which means work, health and love, which every real Camp Fire girl strives to make her guide. The play was written by Lindsay Barbee, who has a number of stage successes to her credit.

"The cast will be made of the following:

Ellen Ferris, guardian of the camp.....Mrs. Newson
Mrs. Vale, camp mother.....
.....Mrs. A. W. Ayers
Blue Bird (Owaissa) her young daughter.....
.....Mary Genevieve Osenbeck
Wah-wah-taysee (Firefly) an Indian maiden....Mrs. M. E. Ratican
Sylvia (Wayaka-See beauty) a camp misfit.....Miss Mabel Gwinn
Amy (Kee-Wee-Rainbow maid) a torch bearer.....Miss Jean Fisk
Marian (Disyadi-Moon maid) a fire maker.....Miss Viola Chewning
Emily (Minehaha-Laughing Water) a wood gatherer.....
.....Miss Dora Jeanet Nix
Constance (Gaoh-Spirit of the Wind) a wood gatherer.....
.....Miss Mary Ruddy
Dorothy (To-He-Ha Humming Bird) a wood gatherer.....
.....Miss Catherine Ruddy

"The scene is laid in a forest near a summer camp. The girls declare that Sylvia is a camp misfit and strive through the play to teach her to know and love the great "Out of doors." Much interest is centered around the thrilling scene of Amy's ghost, which she sees for three successive nights and for which they all keep watch. The charms of the mysterious Indian maiden, the comical maneuvers of Constance, the clever pranks of the bewitching little bluebird combine to make this story unusually interesting.

Tickets may be obtained from members of the cast as well as at Camp Fire headquarters, at the First M. E. church at Tenth and Lamar.

The proceeds will be used for Christmas charity work in the Camp Fire organization.

DECEMBER BRIDE-ELECT INSPIRES LOVELY PARTIES.

A delightful round of social events has been inspired by the announcement of the approaching wedding, December 16, of Miss Thelma Kahn to Walter S. Abbott.

One of the prettiest of the week was a surprise shower given by Mrs. Jouette Bonner, who entertained the Thursday Bridge club at her home, and invited members of the Unity club and the junior members of the house party for the wedding reception to call at 4 o'clock for tea.

The Bonner home was prettily decorated in pink chrysanthemums and the shower feature was carried out attractively by the hostess at the refreshment hour, when she wheeled before the bride-to-be a tea cart daintily decorated in pink and laden with lovely gifts.

Mrs. J. L. Jackson, Sr., presided at the tea table, and a dainty refreshment plate was served to the honoree and to the following guests: The junior members of the wedding reception house party including Misses Katherine Moore, Adele Marcus, Gracie D. Shamburger, Lillian Fain, Sadie Adickes, Mrs. Paul Scott and Mrs. E. T. Harding. Club members were Mesdames Jim Barnard, Jouette Bonner, Stayton Bonner, L. H. Cullum, Fred Elbert, Elizabeth Erwin, Chas. I. Frances, J. L. Jackson, Jr., W. U. McCutchen, Alf Miller, Raymond Myers, Jack Speegle, Leslie Stringer, Harry White, Henry Welch, O. L. Anderson, Margaret Haynes; Misses Agnes Reid, Annette Walsh, Edith Berney, Sybil Kell and Florence Sammons.

Women's Golf Honors.

Miss Thelma Kahn, member of the Woman's Golf association of the Country club, December bride-elect, was honored at the weekly luncheon Thursday with an attractively arranged miscellaneous shower, in clever burlesque.

At the sound of the weddin- march, played by Mrs. O. B. Kiel, the party entered the dining room. The bride was seated in her chair which was marked with red and green bells and a white hoop. The table was decorated with a miniature wedding party, the members in golf attire, and the bride carrying a golf bag filled with flowers for her bouquet.

The nuptial song was sung by Mrs. D. G. Whitney with Mrs. Fred Couper at the piano. Mrs. Leslie Stringer dressed as a caddy brought in the gifts in a caddy bag. Special gifts were contributed by Mrs. Couper, Mrs. A. R. Dillard, Mrs. O. B. Kiel, and the "leap year loving cup," (a tin cup) was presented by Mrs. H. P. Weldon and Mrs. J. B. Matchitt.

A handsome wall plaque was the gift of the association to the bride-to-be.

The guests at the club included Miss Kahn, honoree, her mother, Mrs. A. Kahn, Miss Katherine Moore, Miss Irene Taylor, Miss Adele Marcus, Mesdames Leslie Stringer, Guy Thomas, Bud Marriott, J. B. Hatchitt, Fred Couper, J. H. Fletcher, J. A. Fisher, A. W. Fisher, McCrory, C. S. Wyatt, D. G. Whitney, E. T. Sheegog.

FLORAL HEIGHTS B. O. P. ENTERTAINS.

The Wichita club, decorated in a color scheme of purple and gold formed a pretty autumn setting for a tea given Wednesday afternoon by the B. O. P. class of the Floral Heights M. E. church honoring their sister B. O. P. class at the First M. E. church, and the Wesley Girls' class of that church.

Tall baskets of golden Japanese plume chrysanthemums tied with purple tulle featured the scheme of the class colors and filled the room in lovely profusion.

An enjoyable musical program included violin solos by Miss Vivian Bailey, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Lucile Brooks Huff, solos by Mrs. C. T. Bully, accompanied by Mrs. D. L. Fritz, and a reading by Mrs. Hal Yeager. Mrs. Frita gave piano selections all during the afternoon.

Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Dan Hardy and Mrs. S. A. Barnes. Centered with a bowl of narcissus on a dainty madiera cloth surrounded by gold tapers in silver sticks tied with purple tulle, the table was attractive, and the refreshment plate consisted of sandwiches, tea, pumpkin pie, almonds and mints.

In the dining room were also Mesdames J. B. Nail, Frank Shackelford, Pat Jarrett, W. E. Carleton, P. S. Richardson, Jasper Ferguson, Joe Stokes, Jr., Paul Conner, C. C. Parfet, Paul Hathorn, Chas. Reggan, John Morrison, John Barker, James Elliot and Miss Vera Hale.

Mrs. A. C. Camp, a member of the original B. O. P. class from which the two sister classes were formed, headed the receiving line. Mrs. Milton Johnson, teacher of the class, was followed by Mrs. Hal Yeager, president of the class, and the following members: Mesdames Lewis De Mont, Chas. Clok, Clyde Murph, S. S. Skidmore, Fay Hardeman, Whit Smith, Dan Blackburn, R. L. Mathis, Harry Brassell, Houston Cowden, Ben Corder, Brevard Long, Percy Newell, E. R. Archambeau, Homer Jasper, H. G. BAPTIST CHOIR GIVES THANKSGIVING CANTATA.

The First Baptist church chorus choir, under the direction of R. Vaughn Ray, will present "Hymn of Praise," a Thanksgiving cantata, at the church Tuesday evening. The choir, which has the reputation of presenting some of the finest chorus work in the city, is noted for its worthwhile concerts. Singers will be attired in Puritan costumes, and it is announced that although no admission is charged, a free will offering will be taken for the music fund of the church.

Soloists represent some of the finest musical talent in the city, and include Miss Adele Ray, coloratura soprano, who has been well received by Wichita Falls audiences in her appearances this season; William Young, baritone, who is recognized as one of the leading singers of the state; Mrs. Ray M. Wilbite, soprano; Miss Martha Peters, soprano, and J. L. Jackson, bass. Selections in the cantata featured by the soloists are numbers of singular beauty, and the concert is said to be the best given by the choir so far.

Mrs. F. R. Collard, organist, whose ability and talent are well known in the city, will present three solos in addition to her work as accompanist.

Miss Mildred L. Pecaut, graduate from the Curry School of Expression, Boston, and last year head of the expression department at Simmons college, Abilene, Texas, recently established a studio in this city and will appear on the program in a group of three readings by Joyce Kilmer.

The program follows:

Reading: Miss Mildred L. Pecaut, "Main Street," "The House With Nobody in It," "Trees" (Joyce Kilmer).

Prelude (organ): "Pilgrims Chorus" (Tannhauser—by Wagner)—Mrs. F. R. Collard.

CLUB ORGANIZED FOR LITTLE GIRLS.

A group of little girls met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. A. Faver of 1712 Taylor street, and organized a "just 'Fore Christmas Club."

The eight charter members planned to bring to each meeting some bit of fancy work, sewing, or painting for their Christmas gifts, and after the holidays to change the name of the club and readjust its purpose.

Miss Nancy Faver was elected president of the club, Velta Camp vice president; Joan Irwin, secretary, and Marguerite Sheldon, treasurer. It was planned to allow each member to bring a guest at the next meeting at the home of Mrs. J. T. Camp, 2311 Tenth street, and many good times for the approaching holiday season were planned.

Following the business session, a social hour featured a program of dances and readings, and a dainty refreshment plate was served to little Misses Lois Corbin, Roberta Corbin, Reba Jo Curd, Juanita Patton, Joan Irwin, Marguerite Sheldon, Velta Camp, and Nancy Faver.

EAT AND GET THIN

If you are overfat and averse to physical exertion, if you are fond of eating and still want to reduce your excess flesh, go to your druggist and get a box of Marmola Prescription Tablets. These tablets, compounded in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription, contains the exact ingredients necessary to produce a normal, healthy reduction of excess weight. Take one tablet after each meal and at bed time and you will begin to lose your fat steadily and easily. Continue the treatment until your weight is what you desire—until your figure is slender and attractive again. You don't need to try starvation diets or weakening exercises. Go on eating what you like. Leave exercising to the athletes. Just take your little tablet faithfully, and without a doubt your flabby flesh will quickly disappear. Your figure will become slender and shapely just as you have always wanted it to be. Thousands of men and women each year regain healthy, slender figures this way. Why don't you? Marmola Prescription Tablets are so pleasant and easy to take that anyone who is suffering the embarrassment and discomfort of overweight owes it to himself to try them. All drug stores the world over sell Marmola Prescription Tablets for one dollar a box. 600 Gallons of Soft Water for your Family Washing

More than 600 gallons of soft, sparkling water play over your clothes every time you send them to us for laundering.

This use of velvety water in liberal quantities is one of the reasons why we are able to wash your things through and through with thoroughness.

When we wash your table linen, for example, we first give it a soaking in lukewarm water; next a washing in hot water and creamy suds; then more gentle sousing, followed by several rinses and finally a bath in bluing to bring out all the pure whiteness of the cloth.

Have you a method that compares with this? It is the most advanced of washing processes — a guarantee to you of complete clothes cleanliness and purity.

All our methods — down to a perfect ironing and punctual delivery, are equally modern.

SULPHUR CLEARS SKIN RIGHT UP

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation begins at once to soothe irritated skin and heal eruptions, such as rash, pimples and ringworm.

It seldom fails to remove the torment and disfigurement, and you do not have to wait for relief from embarrassment. Improvement quickly shows. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.—Adv.

Potash and Perlmutter

DISCUSS TAX PUBLICITY

By MONTAGUE GLASS

"Well, Mawruss, I seen in the papers this morning where Max Immerglick paid last year an income tax pretty near ten thousand dollars," Abe Potash remarked the other day, "and it certainly was news to me that Max makes such a lot of money."

"Max says it was also news to the Bella Hirshkind home for Indignant Females, three orphan asylums, a niece of his wife's that they ain't heard from in ten years and six assorted hospitals," Morris Perlmutter replied, "because the newspapers weren't hardly on the newsstands before Max's telephone begun to ring and the touching began."

Big Mailing Lists.

"At that, Mawruss, Max ain't such a generous giver-up," Abe declared. "Last year he only came across with ten dollars for the I. O. M. A. Home, and him already a past Master of Unity and Fellowship Lodge 125."

"Nobody never paid a much bigger income tax than people expected, by being a generous giver-up,—except to the United States Government," Morris said, "so if the honorable treasurees of homes, orphan asylums and hospitals regard this here catalogue of big income tax payers which was printed in the papers the other day as a sucker list, y'understand, they should ought to pick out the names of people which paid a much smaller income tax than people expected, upon the principle that they might give to charity some of the money they are holding out on the Government."

"But what good does the publication of such lists do?" Abe inquired.

"Well, for one thing, Abe, it's going to stimulate the sale of postage stamps," Morris replied, "which I betyer that every name on that list would net the ..ew York Post Office alone a hundred dollars worth of two cent stamps until the time the next income tax list is made public. The chances is, Abe, that Max Immerglick would be invited by mail to take everything expensive that a big income tax payer is supposed to be crazy for, from round-the World trips on 40,000 ton ocean steamers to treasury stock in Texas oil corporations and if Max would only save and index all the first and second class mail he is going to receive during the next year, he would have a complete catalogde of everything that no human being, whether he pays income tax or not, ought to invest his money in, under any circumstances whatsoever."

"Then in that way, Mawruss, the publication of them income tax lists ain't going to be such a bad thing for income tax payers," Abe remarked.

"But on the other hand, Abe," Morris continued, "if Max Immerglick would have been operated on for appendicitis the day before them lists appeared, it would have stood him in several thousand dollers less than if it had happened on the day after. Also, Mawruss, it would be a whole lot better for anybody whose name appeared on that list to stall off going to his dentist until the notoriety has died down, because doctors and dentists both have an idea that they have a second lien on the assets of a big income tax payers subject only to the income tax itself."

Other Interesting Details

"Then again, Abe," Morris went on, "I wouldn't be a bit surprised if a whole lot of wills were changed on the day after that list appeared, and people who were going to inherit millions of dollars, got cut off with a lock of the will maker's hair as a penalty for not investing their assets in tax free securities. In fact, when it comes, to relations rich and poor, them people whose names appeared of that income tax list, are going to get it coming and going,—and their finances will suffer worse by what is coming form rich relations than by what is going to poor relations. They can always refuse to give up to poor relations, but they won't be consulted about what they'll have to give up from rich relations, and the consequences will be, Abe, that the United States Government by publishing them lists, is going to do itself out of a lot of inheritance taxes in the next few years."

"Well, Mawruss, I may be hard to amuse, but when it comes to reading the liste of big income tax payers in a newspaper," Abe declared. "I would just as liave that the space was given up to a couple of good comic strips or anyhow a murder."

"Maybe next year the newspapers wouldn't stop with figures of what people paid, but would also print details of what they deducted," Morris said, "and if Congress would amend the Income Tax Law so as to make millionaires tell just how much money they spent follishly, Abe, the 1925 income tax publicity would be real snappy reading for the non-payers of income tax. If the next Congress, for instance, could pass a new Income Tax Law in which millionaires were obliged to state in their income tax returns the amount of alimony they were paying, the names and addresses of the co-respondent or co-respondents, the number of cases of Scotch they bought, their waist measurements and weight on the first day of the fiscal year, together with their blood pressure and blood count, Abe, this should ought to certainly satisfy the curiosity of non-payers of income tax and make the paying of income tax a little more unpopular than it is at present,—if that is possible.

Snappy Stuff

"But the idea of Congress is to make the payment of big income taxes popular with people who don't have to pay them, Mawruss," Abe said, "and this I suppose, is the reason why Congress allowed the printing of their names. After all, Mawruss, a man has only one vote whether he pays a hundred thousand dollars income tax or no income tax, y'understand, Congress should worry how much the income tax payers suffer from this here publicity, just so long as it makes good reading for the masses. In fact, Mawruss, it mightn't be a bad idea if Congress passed a law directing that the Income tax lists be printed with illustrations by Rube Goldberg and Clare Briggs, and give the non-payers of income tax a hearty laugh."

"It might even be," Abe continued, "that if the publication of income tax returns for 1925 is authorized with full particulars of alimony, counsel fee and chatody of the children, Mawruss, the 1925 happy married lives, might be published by the newspapers as special Sunday Supplements, upon payment of a moderate fee to the Government, making good the money garnered in the Veterans' Bureau."

"There's something in what you say," Mawrus admitted, "but if the Government does allow the publication of such snappy income tax returns, Abe, they should ought to be careful to copyright them in the name of Mr. Mellon."

"Why so?" Abe asked.

"Because," Morris concluded, "there'd be a fortune in the moving picture rights."

Mystery Girl in Chicago Believed to Have Been Identified.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—"Identification of the 10-year-old girl found unconscious in the union station a few days ago and who claimed she could not remember her name and residence, as Evelyn Schroeder of Milwaukee was made today.

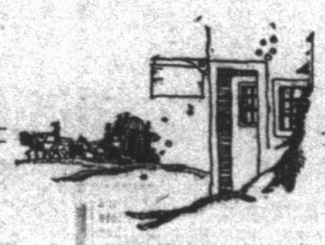

She was held at the county hospital at the request of the Milwaukee police that established her identity, detectives said here. It was not known why she was wanted in Milwaukee.

MANDAMUS IN WILLACY.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Nov. 22.—The commissioners' court of Willacy county must canvass the returns from the November 4 election, declare the results and issue certificates to the successful candidates, District Judge W. B. Hopkins decided here today in granting a writ of mandamus filed by R. H. Teller, et al.

The commissioners had refused to canvass returns from three of the county's four boxes, alleging that the ballot boxes had reached the county judge irregularly. These boxes gave the regular Democratic nominees a victory on unofficial returns with the exception of the candidate for county attorney. The fourth box which was counted gave the independent candidates a majority.

Mrs. G. H. Avery of Frankston, Texas, who was house guest of her sister, Mrs. W. P. Thurmon during the P.-T. A. convention has returned to her home.

UNITED WELFARE CAMPAIGN BEGINS TOMORROW

Special Announcement

Beginning Monday We Will Have on Display for a Limited Time Only

The Book of Knowledge

The Children's Encyclopedia

Many of our patrons have been inquiring about the Book of Knowledge and for their convenience we have made arrangements with the publishers to exhibit this great international work at our store.

What is Curiosity Teaching Him?

THIS boy's teacher will tell you that she can always count on him for clear and intelligent answers. He has The Book of Knowledge in his home and it has given him a long start in the race for knowledge. As we all know, learning begins with the natural curiosity of childhood. Can you think of any subject about which your children have not asked you a dozen questions?

Where does the wind begin?
Why can't we see in the dark?
Where do thoughts come from?
Why are tears salt?

The more they ask, the better, but be sure they have a way of getting the right answers for themselves, because if curiosity is discouraged the bright boy or girl may become stupid or indifferent. Over a million parents have already given their children

The BOOK of KNOWLEDGE

They have done so because it is the simplest and most natural method of turning the child's normal curiosity into valuable knowledge. It answers in plain and simple language the questions children ask. It is so captivating that the child absorbs the profound truths and great facts of the world of knowledge without effort while reading it for pleasure and looking at its thousands of pictures.

10,000 Wonderful Pictures

ITS 10,000 paintings, drawings, photographs and diagrams give the child a brilliant picture gallery of what the world is doing, and the lessons learned through the eye in this way are never forgotten. The 16 great departments of The Book of Knowledge—Nature, Science, History, Biography, Art, Poetry, Literature, etc.—contain the important knowledge of the world told so that children easily understand, and so cleverly written that learning is made the delight it ought to be.

Worth Inquiring About

What would The Book of Knowledge do for your boy and girl? The booklet of sample pages, which is here offered free to every parent, will enable you to see for yourself how it not only delights the children but at the same time helps them in their studies. Every reader of this newspaper is welcome to a copy free and without obligation. Merely mail the coupon today.

CATHOLIC CHURCH.
1501 Ninth St.

Morning services: Communion 6:15, 7 and 8 a. m. Communion mass and communion of Altar society, Catholic Daughters of America and other ladies of the parish at 8 a. m. At this mass the junior Sacred Heart choir will sing the following hymns: "Mary Immaculate" by Mariano, "Sacred Heart I Consecrate My Heart and Soul." "Jesus the Very Thought of Thee." Notre Dame and "Hail Holy Queen, Enthroned Above." Roman. High mass at 10 a. m. At both services the pastor will outline the united welfare campaign and the community chest and will urge upon the members the importance and necessity of their liberal contribution to this worthy cause. The members and visitors are requested to bring their Bibles and we will read the epistle of St. Paul to the Collossians 1, 9-14, and the Gospel Matt. 24, 15-35. In this passage Jesus tells of the destruction of Jerusalem and foretells the end of the world and the last judgment and the terrible things that will proceed and accompany this judgment. The sermon will be on "The Delay of Conversion" on the text: "Today if you shall hear His voice, harden not your hearts," Psalm 95, 8. This will be an appeal to all to attend the revival or mission which will begin at 7:30 a. m. next Sunday, November 30. The revival leaflets, setting forth the time of the various services and the subjects of the sermons, will be distributed today at all services, and we ask the members and visitors to profit by these leaflets and to give them the widest possible distribution. We crave the opportunity to serve members and friends with information and enlightenment concerning the doctrines and teachings of our church. In this connection we wish to state that no collections will be taken up during the mission at any of the services on week days except the 8th of December.

Afternoon services: Sunday school for the children at 3 p. m. and everybody at 7:30 p. m. An urgent appeal is made to all the members, old and young, to attend the Bible study and Christian doctrine as embodied in Sunday school, at 7:30 p. m. A cordial invitation to all.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.—Adv.

Uncle Bill's Money

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE.

Like most cautious people, I have always been afraid of gambling. Particularly has stock market gambling given me the shivers. Often I get all worked up over a newspaper story about somebody who was an office boy in Wall Street day before yesterday and today has seven automobiles and a string of race horses, all acquired because he knew a good thing when he saw it and had the nerve to put his money down on it. But the next day I see another story about a former broker selling his seat on the exchange to pay off the mortgage on his farm, and going to work in a garage to get enough money to feed the stock over the winter, and then I get cautious again.

Still it is hard to see your neighbors suddenly begin to build palatial villas, and go to Miami or Pebble Beach for the winter and join golf clubs, and learn that they did it all on the proceeds of a successful little flyer, while you are plodding along on the same old pay check, and wondering if you can afford new copper leaders on the house this fall before the roof drip washes the rest of your lawn into the yard next door.

But I swore I would never take any chances unless somebody left me some money, which of course was a consummation never to be expected. But it happened, just the same. One day I got a letter from a lawyer in Hong Kong, telling me that my Uncle Bill, who had gone over there to grow up with the country, had made me his residuary legatee, and had died before he thought it over and regretted it. The lawyer was the business kind of lawyer who believes in clearing up and getting through with it, so he sent the money along with the letter.

What Chance Has He?

The Misses and I talked it over for putting the money into the fund for the children's education. But I pointed out that you could never get rich by being cautious, and named over a lot of fellows I knew who could afford to join trout fishing clubs and play the races now and then, and all because they had the zip to take a chance. She was still doubtful, but finally she agreed that, inasmuch as this money was unexpected, and so to speak a windfall, we would be nothing out if we lost it, and rich if we didn't. So when I went to town on the train the next morning I talked it over with some of the men who knew about finances.

They were all brokers, and didn't seem to be afraid of taking chances, each of them urging me very strongly to give them my account, and let them put me on their mailing list so I could get the right information about the market.

Judson, the first man I talked to, strongly advised railroads. He told me how much the line I was travelling on had cleared last year, and how much more if would make if the government would only let it raise its rates, and how much more it was sure to make anyway if the election turned out right, as it was certain to do.

"Just go into a few good stocks, and keep on them no matter if there is a little drop for a while," he said. "You'll be bound to win in the end, and if you have the fighting spirit you'll win big."

I thanked him, and feeling fortune already in my grip went into the next car and talked with Robinson.

The Missis must have said a word or two about our legacy, for Robinson knew about it. Robinson's wife plays bridge at our house once in a while.

"I hear you're rich," he said, as I came up. "Congratulations."

"Oh, not exactly rich," I said, modestly, "but an uncle of mine left me a little something the other day. I was thinking of investing a little."

"Atta boy!" said Robinson, "put it into good industrials. You can clean up now if you've got any gumption."

"But I was thinking of railroads," I said.

"Railroads!" Robinson hissed the final "s." "You ought to know better than that. The bugaboo of government ownership got the railroads scared stiff. They don't dare step out and grab any new territory for fear Uncle Sam will take it away from them. And besides that, the wise insiders know that all the passenger traffic and most of the freight business will be carried by airplanes sooner or later. Lay off railroads and buy industrials. I'll put you on our mailing list, and be over tonight to give you some godo reliable information."

I was much obliged, and told him so. When I thought of how close I had come to losing Uncle Bill's money I shuddered. In the next car I found Tomlinson, who had also heard of my inheritance.

"I was going to drop you a line today," said Tomlinson, "about the oil business. You know how John D. and Harry Sinclair started—poor boys, both of them, and look at them now. Oil did that for them, and it will do the same for any shrewd man like yourself who has a little courage and the money to back it. I'll put you on our mailing list and send one of my vice-presidents around to talk things over with you this afternoon."

"But I had my mind set on industrials."

"What kind of industrials?"

"Why manufacturing, I suppose."

"Well, oil is an industrial, and a live one. New fields opening all the time. You'll get about four percent on the concerns you probably have in mind, and they'll stay right where they are forever. What you want is a bet, a good sure bet where you get long odds and cop. You might as well put that money in a savings bank as to buy stock in these old fogey firms that have to call a directors meeting before they can hire a new janitor to a factory building."

His talk impressed me. What I wanted after all was a good safe bet, with long odds. After all I was going to gamble, and why not gamble right while I was about it? I thanked him and went into the next car, where I found Duncan, who to my surprise, hadn't heard of Uncle Bill's money.

I thought I would talk the thing over with Duncan a little, and began by asking his advice about investments. I told him what I had considered.

He pooh-poohed all of them. "Buy anything that is going up," he said, and buy it on a margain. That's the way to get it in bundles. Come to see me this afternoon, and I will put your account to work. In a week you'll be one of our new millionaires."

But somehow by that time I had ceased to want to be a millionaire. If, as Duncan said, all the other fellows were wrong, why couldn't he be wrong too? Anyway there would be more money to educate the children if we put the money into the savings bank, and what right had I to be recreant to the faith that Uncle Bill had reposed in me and squander his money plunging in the street.

MAKES FAT PEOPLE SLIM

New York Physician Perfects Harmless Method Of Reducing Weight

The loss of as much as a pound of excess fat a day with no harmful results is the record made by many patients of Dr. R. Newman, a licensed practising physician of 286 Fifth avenue, New York, who announces that he has perfected a treatment which has quickly rid fat people of excess weight. What is more remarkable is the doctor's statement that he has successfully treated thousands of patients for fat reduction without change of diet or unnecessary exercise. It is also said that fat people who suffer from chronic rheumatism, gout, asthma and high blood pressure obtain great relief from the reduction of their superfluous flesh. Realizing that this sounds too good to be true, the doctor has offered to send without charge to anyone who will write him, a free trial treatment to prove his claims, as well as his "Pay-when reduced" plan. If you want to rid yourself of superfluous fat, write him today, addressing Dr. R. Newman, 286 Fifth avenue, New York City, Dept. B42.—Adv.

Official Washington Mourns The Passing of Veteran Journalist; Gus Karger's Peer Hard to Find

Importance of Scribes in Capital Shown in Death of Noted Writer.

By ROBERT T. SMALL.
Special Correspondent The Record News.
Copyright, 1924, The Consolidated Press Association.

Gus Karger in life and in death illustrated anew the important relationship the Washington correspondent bears to the government and to the people of the government. Mr. Karger, for twenty years correspondent of the Cincinnati Times-Star had had an intimate association with the public men of his day. He had known the presidents from Roosevelt down in Washington and he had known McKinley well before he came to the capital. Karger was one of the correspondents in whom everyone reposed confidence. His advice was sought by cabinet officers and other high officials and more than often acted upon.

A Unique Prediction.

There is no place in all the world where the newspapermen and his "news sources" meet on such terms of equality as Washington. In a smaller way the same conditions prevail at various state capitals; but in Washington where the corps of correspondents is counted in the hundreds and where the ramification of government spread so far and so wide, there is a relationship which is unique to say the least.

Paying tribute to Gus Karger and through him to the corps whose finer traditions he always fought to maintain were not alone the president of the United States and the chief justice of the supreme court but many other dignitaries of government. Joining Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Taft, at the funeral services held in Washington were the speaker of the house, Mr. Gillette, virtually all of the senators who were in the capital at the time; William M. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee; John Hays Hammond, the noted mining engineer, and a varied host of others.

Three Veterans Go.

Within but a little more than the space of a year three veterans of the correspondents' corps in Washington have passed away. The first to go was Eddie Hood, of the Associated Press. Then followed Matt Tighe, of the Hearst service, and lastly the much loved Gus Karger. It seems as if again the old rule of three has worked its inexorable fate.

All three of these correspondents personally were mourned by Mr. Taft. He had known them as cabinet officer, as president, as private citizen, as a contributor to the papers himself, and lastly as chief justice. Although cloistered by his present high judicial position, Mr. Taft never has lost interest in the newspapermen. His long service in Washington has thrown him in close contact with the profession from time to time and the esteem in which he has held its members speaks worlds for the ethics of journalism as practiced in the heart of the nation.

Mrs. Florence Kling Harding suffered a keen disappointment just before her death. She lost her vote in the presidential election. Either due to the approach of her fatal illness or oversight she neglected to register. This was discovered after the books were closed. The widow of President Harding was much chagrined. An appeal was made to the secretary of state of Ohio for a special dispensation but after considering the matter at some length, that official came to the conclusion there was no loophole in the law of which advantage could be taken. Only those who knew Mrs. Harding's deep interest in politics can appreciate how this dilemma hurt her.

He Wanted Work.

C. C. Hamlin of Colorado Springs, republican national committeeman from the Pikes Peak state, who was a White House caller during the past week in Washington is the owner of two papers in his home town—all the papers in fact that the town boasts. He also is a great friend of Dr. Hubert Work, secretary of the interior and also of Colorado.

At the close of the national campaign Dr. Work was in Colorado springs and went to Mr. Hamlin's newspaper offices to see him. The national committeeman and editor was out. When he came in he was told of the visit and immediately left to look up the cabinet officer.

Mr. Hamlin had scarcely left his office when one of the heads of department stuck his head in the door. "Where's the boss?" he asked.

"Out looking for Work," replied an assistant without blinking an eye.

"Oh my Lord" exclaimed the inquirer, "what will he do with it when he finds it."

The private secretary to secretary Mellon of the treasury, is Mr. Sixsmith. A great many persons have wondered at the derivation of the name. To at least one Washington correspondent there no longer is any mystery connected with it.

George Holmes, playing in the newspapermen's fall golf tournament at the congressional country club, started the first hole with a six, then the second and third and so on down the line.

"I know how that guy got his name," quoth George. "I'm getting to be a Six-smith myself."

GOING TO BE WET ABROAD

Thick British Winter Is Assured By Latest November Signs.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—November's lowering skies and the increasingly thick "peasouper" fog are heralding the advent of a wet British winter. They also herald the opening of London's banqueting season which this year, whether due to the influence of the return of the conservative government, or the loosening up of the purse strings of the middle "upper crusters" promises to be the heaviest since the war.

The lord mayor's spread at historic Guild Hall on armistice eve set the ball rolling and for the next few months there is a long list of big and little, public and private dinners, at which the solid burgesses and aristocrats and everybody in between will attempt to dispel the British meteorogical gloom with good old British prime ribs and huge tankards of British beer and light wines from France. The lord mayor, whose annual affair started things going, is likely to be the chief sufferer if he attends all the affairs at which his presence is requested.

Beginning with the Guild Hall spread, his honor hasn't a night free for more than a month, what with calls to attend and feasts of his own guild—the worshipful company of Vintners—and a dozen other worshipful companies, including the Mercers, Leather Sellers, Tallow Candlers, Weavers and every other craft.

Nearly every territorial or regular army regiment, brigade division and corps is planning reunion dinners during the winter months. The navy men are following suit and even the political organizations which, despite the recent elections still think it necessary to carry on propaganda, are planning feasts for the faithful.

SUE ON LOCOMOTIVES

Baldwin Company Has Claim Of $2,500,000 Against Rumania.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Negotiations between the Baldwin Locomotive Company and the Rumanian Government over the former's $2,500,000 claim for locomotives delivered to Rumania in 1919-1920 apparently have come to a definite break. The locomotive company, according to Bucharest dispatches today, has retained counsel and is preparing to sue.

The Baldwin claim was among those held by American commercial interests against the Rumanian government, and which formed the subject of diplomatic negotiations before the recent return to the United States of Minister Jay. The Baldwin Company some months ago received a payment of about $300,000, which was applied against interest in arrears, but is said to have refused an offer of certain Rumanian bonds in payment of the debt.

Rates for electricity are so high at Harbin, Manchuria, that many residents are considering installing individual lighting sets.

LADDIE'S BROTHER A HOBO

Relative of Former White House Pup in Pound Here.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. —Jerry the Airedale, blood brother to Laddie Boy, former pampered pet of the White House, has fallen upon evil days.

Even his relationship to the first dog of the land during President Harding's administration, availed him nothing and he languishes in the dog pound here while the Woman's S. P. C. A., 916 Spruce street, is trying to find a home for him.

His master, William F. Burke, recently moved to an apartment in the city from Barrington, N. J. Jerry came along but they were met with the ukase: "No dogs allowed." The dog pound, haven for homeless dogs, followed.

Jerry is the son of Gingerbread who sired Laddie Boy.

"Latin Temperament Is A Thing to Be Reckoned On In Mexico, Scribe Finds

By ROBERT E. LEPLEY.
(Copyright, 1924, by the Consolidated Press Association.)

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 22.—The so-called "latin temperament" is not peculiar to opera stars and handsome actors. This has nowhere been better proved than by the convention of the Mexican confederation of labor, now in session across the Rio Grande from El Paso at Juarez, Mexico.

"Cia convencion de la crom"—in other words, it is a labor meeting—and this sign blazes forth in illuminated red letters over the platform in the little adobe Juarez theater. A huge man of muscle, breaking asunder the chains that bind his brawny arms, is painted on a stage—set in the background against which labor delegates, officials and journalists gather when the meeting is called.

No One Interested.

Literature concerning the proletariat is offered for sale in the lobby. Mexican boys, with baskets of fried pies, wander among the delegates but no one is interested. A thousand men from all over Mexico, some wearing torn or grease-stained overalls, some dapper and immaculate, some wearing gay red shirts and bright ties, congregate in the theater and listen intently to the speakers.

The adobe walls of the building are scratched and battered, and here and there a bullet hole reminds the delegates of a visit once paid to the city by the late Pancho Villa, during the revolution days.

Dark haired women wearing bright red gowns and hats sit here and there with their delegate husbands or friends. Occasionally a prominent delegate joins the group on the platform. His colleagues do not express their pleasure at seeing him by handshaking, they embrace him tightly, arms thrown heartily about his shoulders.

Stormy applause, uproarious shouts greet Juan Rico, chairman of the convention, when he makes a particularly eloquent or appealing remark.

No Aye, Aye Business.

"Ding-ding-ding" persistently rings the small silver bell demanding order. There is no "aye-aye" business for the Mexicans. Now there is a sea of arms and hands stretched straight up in the air as a vote is taken. As the arms extend upward to vote against communism being imparted into the labor movement, many a pistol or large dirk in the back pocket is revealed.

About the long table on the platform ten or twelve representatives of the Mexican press, most of them young men of "university" appearance sit writing busily—not the hasty longhand notes of the American reporter, but shorthand written swiftly in notebooks.

"Why are all the speakers so silvery-tongued?" questioned an American listening to the flowery, ear-ringing Spanish phrases that rang out in the crowd as a delegate wearing overalls and a pair of rubber boots objected to some step being taken in regard to the farm labor. He sadly commented on the vanishing eloquence among American statesmen, where Patrick Henrys and other spellbinders thrive no longer. American politicians or government leaders nowadays speak in plain, businesslike language understandable to even the most "coumon people."

You would not catch an American saying—

"This is the first time, the first time, the first time"—he'd say it once with a period, and let it go at that. But a clever Mexican speaker knows that to say "El Primero, El Primero, El Primero" with its melodious alliteration, gets over better.

The reason, according to Mexican delegates is not only the "latin temperament" and love for high sounding phrases, but the fact that in Mexico the Babbitt has not yet evolved.

No Fancy Phrases.

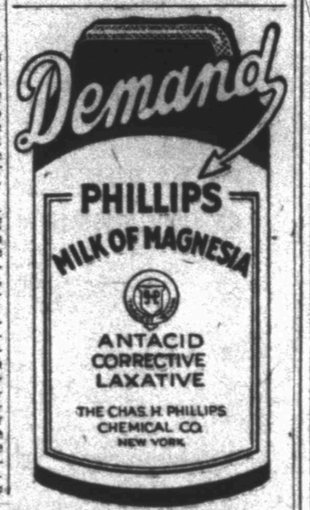

"There is no such thing as a Mexican Babbitt," said a delegate. "The curtness of business has not become a virtue in political circles. There are no Kiwanians or Rotarians among us."

"Mexicans have great regard for high sounding beautiful words. And every Mexican is a potential orator."

Juan Rico, suave and masterful in his use of Spanish, and master of several other languages as well, arouses enthusiasm when he describes the attack made upon Deputy Luis Morones in Mexico City as a direct attack on the organized labor of Mexico.

Jos W. Kelly, representative of the Mexican labor confederation in America and representing the American Federation of Labor in Mexico comes in for applause. Kelly is Spanish-Irish and claims that the Irish counteracts his "latin temperament."

An intense interest in the labor movement is felt by all Mexican workers from the peon to the most prosperous, according to Kelly. "Many of these delegates have walked more than a score of miles to reach a railroad station to come to this convention," he explained. "Last year one man without shoes and wearing only a pair of overalls walked 150 miles in order to attend the labor conference."

"Lame Duck" Session of Congress Presents Little Prospect of Any Constructive Action, Is Belief

Republicans To Be Too Busy Dealing With The Insurgent Elements.

DEMOS TO BE DEMOS

They Plan to Cut Loose From LaFollette And Let G. O. P. Take Control.

By ROBERT T. SMALL.
Special Correspondent the Record-News.
(Copyright, 1924, by the Consolidated Press Association.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—One week from Monday the "lame duck" or left over congress gets under way for its short and final term. No one can venture a forecast at this time as to what congress will do. There is a very general impression that it will do little or nothing and that by its indolence it may force President Coolidge to call an extra session of the congress elected this month along about the middle of April or the first of May.

There is no way of telling as yet what the mood of the coming session will be. If the Republican insurgents of senate and house still are in a recalcitrant frame of mind and if the Democrats continue to fraternize with them, the administration is to all intents and purposes "hog-tied" and can accomplish little or nothing.

Dems to Cut Away.

However, there is a growing disposition on the part of the Democrats to cut away from all further alliance with the "enemy." There are not a few Democrats who feel that a good bit of the lambasting they received at the last election was due to the bad company they had been keeping. The hope of victory through an announcement of the administration proved a will-o'-the-wisp. There is a fixed agreement already among the democrats to be Democrats in the next congress—the one that succeeds the lame duck session—and consequently there is a growing sentiment to put this agreement into effect at once.

The Democrats are to be content with playing the role of a minority party, instead of trying to become a majority through a coalition with the discontented elements of the grand old party.

The Democrats, while maintaining their position as "liberals" will avoid all responsibility for government when the newly elected congress is called in session. They will not be either a silent or a sullen minority. They will talk freely, as of yore, and will attempt to point out to the country the frailties and misguided purposes of their political opposites but they will make no strenuous effort to frustrate the will of the majority.

Both Republican and Democratic caucuses are to be held during the coming week in an effort to map out a program for the short session which, beginning December 1, must end March 4. The Republicans in all the importance of their newly gained victories at the polls, are by far the more active and have the most to do. Aside from electing a senate leader to fill the shoes of the lamented Cabot Lodge, they are confronted with various important committee vacancies.

Must Deal With Bob.

By no means the smallest task of the Republicans is to formulate a policy for dealing with the so-called La-Follette group, including the leader at this group himself. Although some of the G. O. P. stalwarts are in favor of "throwing them out" the more level heads are inclined to an olive branch attitude until such time as the insurgents show themselves to be unregenerate. Among the old line conservatives the opinion is expressed that perhaps the "radicals" will be tamer now that the election went so heavily against them; that they will come into the fold and go along as Republicans in spirit and action as well as in name.

Meantime men of liberal faith in both of the old parties are casting about to see what their position is to be. They acknowledge the breadth and length of the recent conservative victory at the polls, but they do not believe that the spirit of liberalism is America is dead.

There is little for the liberals to do at the moment, however, but to wait for the swing of the pendulum. Political winds do not blow always in one direction. This is as true of the old world as it is of the new. For this very reason some of the more far-seeing men of the Republican party instead of exulting over the new position of power are feeling a sense of keen responsibility and are anxious that the conservatives may not go so far along the conservative trail as to bring a quick reaction from the people.

The opening skirmishes of the new congress will be full of interest and significance. Some of Mr. Coolidge's advisers are suggesting that he pay but little attention to the coming session; that he withhold his own legislative program until the new congress meets with its power to carry out his will. Whether the president will accept their advice remains to be seen.

In any event he is not going to pay a personal visit to this lame duck session. He is going to send his message down to be read by the clerks of senate and house.

FOOD RATIONS IN FRANCE

Deputy Urges War Measures to Reduce Living Costs.

PARIS, Nov. —A return to war measures as a means of combatting the high cost of living in France was advocated by the Socialist deputy, Leon Betoulle, at today's session of the chamber of deputies, which included an extended discussion on this problem, which is nearest the hearts of the masses of French people.

M. Betoulle proposed the re-establishment of departmental bureaus for the regulation of wheat, coal and sugar production and consumption, and empower requisition and price fixing.

Statistics cited indicated that food prices continued to rise steadily this year and Minister of Agriculture Queille attributed this partly to speculation and partly to the decrease in production of some commodities. He admitted beef was purchased for 5 francs a kilo and was priced at 20 francs when it reached the consumer.

PARENTS LEAVE TO SEE HER.

Milwaukee Clue Believed to Have Solved Forgotten Memory Case.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 22.—Mr. and Mrs. William Schroeder left for Chicago today to establish whether an unidentified girl found unconscious in the union station is their daughter, Evelyn.

According to Mr. Schroeder, his daughter Evelyn left home several days ago after he had scolded her. The description of the girl is that of Evelyn, Mr. Schroeder said.

Local police were notified that the girl had left home and have been looking for her to return here to her parents.

CHEAPEST RADIO OUTFIT

New Invention in Germany Is Retailing For But 60 Cents.

BERLIN, Nov. —The latest in radio is a receiving set retailed at about sixty cents exclusive of the headpiece and antenna. The instrument is so small that it may be carried in a vest pocket. This is the cheapest radio outfit yet to make its appearance. It is nothing more than a little piece of wood, with some coils of wire and a few screws.

The sixty-cent affair is attracting much attention. Purchasers assert that the apparatus works splendidly being a masterpiece technicality, and that with care it will function indefinitely. Dealers assert that the manufacture of the midget radio costs only about 15 or 20 cents.

Murder Mystery Of Dead Lad In K.C. Is Baffling

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 22.—A gray herring bone overcoat with the sleeves recently altered is being sought by police today as the lone clue in the mystery of the shooting here yesterday of Duckner Sasse, 20, whose body was found by a truckman in a brush pile in Swope Park with an unfired .22 caliber revolver clutched in his hand. The wound in the spine and shoulder which had caused the boy's death had been made by a .32 or .38 caliber revolver.

Sasse was identified last night by the name "H. P. Duncker" on a St. Louis tailor's label in his coat. The coat had been given to him by his uncle, H. P. Duncker, vice-president of the Torlicht Duncker carpet company of St. Louis.

In the meantime, the parents of the boy, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Sasse, are keeping the news of his death from his brother, Jerome, student at the University of California, so as not to spoil the boy's holiday when his university plays Leland Stanford today in the "big game." Duncker Sasse was to have entered the University of California next fall.

Identification of the body only deepened the mystery. So far as his friends knew he did not have an enemy in the world. He had few girl friends.

The boy was given to taking long walks alone at night. Six weeks ago a policeman found him walking at night along the same highway near which his body was found yesterday with a flashlight and took him home. Police say his father appeared annoyed that the boy was taken charge of by the officer.

The worn class ring on his finger and a handkerchief with the initial "A" his parents believe were picked up by him on his rambles. They did not remember seeing the articles before. Nor can they account for the revolver in his hand. When he kissed his mother goodbye Thursday night he was especially affectionate.

"Duncker was such a good boy. He hadn't an enemy in the world," she wept today. Mrs. Sasse is prostrated.

S. M. U. AFTER DANCERS.

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 22.—"S. M. U. does not countenence dancing much less sponsor any such affairs as official S. M. U. After-game dance," President C. C. Seleoman of that institution declared today answering protests from the parents of numerous students that reports of "wild dance parties" had come to their ears on the conclusion of the weekly football clashes. President Seleoman indicated that measures would be taken to curb the "dance promoters."

Being Beautifully Dumb An Expensive Matter On Gotham's Busy Avenues

By JANE COMPTON.
Special Correspondent The Record News.
Copyright 1924 by the Consolidated Press Association.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—How to be beautiful though dumb.

That problem has resulted in the establishment of new jobs in this town. For the first time in history barber shops have hostesses. These directors of hirsute traffic suggest type of hair dressing, smooth away the embarrassment which many women feel in seeking a male barber's advice as to coiffures, and assist patrons in spending their money.

This development was inaugurated by a department store which for years maintained its place of business on Sixth avenue and was somewhat removed from the Fifth avenue trade. Now the concern has a Fifth avenue shop and has hired hostesses for its barber shop to make patrons feel at home in the new surroundings.

Hard to Spend.

Strange it is, but true, that many of the newer comers to this country find more difficulty in spending their money than in getting it. New York is full of newly rich people of foreign birth. With increasing prosperity the women of these families have found that the old standards of attractiveness which appealed to men in other countries are obsolete here and they are determined to live up to improved conditions. Hence the bob, the barber and the hostess.

The hostess of the present day shops are counted on to help them. Most of the hostesses employed by the smart shops today are of certain age. But all are shining examples of preservation. Young women are not sought but a woman of fifty who still has attractive hair, although it may be white, a fresh skin and a figure can usually obtain such a position. Her chances are enhanced if she speaks one or more foreign languages. For the cashiers of the women's barber shops cash more checks signed with "his mark" than any institution, except dealers in foreign exchange.

The hostesses frequently find opportunity to turn customers to other departments.

She Got Caught.

"I got to go wi' de coat" a recent arrival from Czecho-Slovakia explained to one of the hostesses today. She circled pridefully in a fur garment that certainly did not cost less than $1500. Before she left the store, she had had a shingle bob, a manicure, a facial massage and had been restrained from becoming a blond only by the tactful explanation that she could not be a blond and have a permanent wave at the same time. In addition she had bought a rubber-reducing girdle for $45, an afternoon frock for $185, a sport hat to fit the bob for $54, a pair of elastic ankle reducers for $9 and a pin seal envelope bag for $60. All of which she paid for from a roll of bills almost as fat as the calf against which it nestled. When importuned to open a charge account she explained she could not do so, since neither she nor her husband could read or write.

In the men's shops a barber who will not talk is at a premium; but in the women's hair dressing establishments a barber who cannot talk interestingly has but a brief time between himself and separation from the payroll. The real trick of their trade is to do expensive work and then undo it. That is, they put a $40 permanent wave in a client's hair and then, week by week, they cut two or three dollars of wave as the hair grows in, until another ripple is necessary.

As in the cabarets, most of the hostesses are graduates of the theatrical profession but the women's barbers come from every possible walk of life. One of the leading "artists of the bob" played the tuba in a jazz orchestra. An attack of appendicitis left him unable to "um pah" without strain on the abdominal muscles, so he became a hair dresser. Beside him works an ex-cowpuncher who gained initial experience from rapping curry combs on the side of a box stall. An An ex-circus clown and a theatrical wig maker complete the force in this particular shop.

The so-called exclusive shops for women's clothing just off Fifth avenue also have taken the hostess to their payrolls. To earn the weekly salary check it is necessary for these women not only to wear clothes well but to talk them well. One shop is so exclusive that it sells nothing for cash. Before one may buy a sample of its products, it is necessary to establish an account of $1500. For many years this shop has never sold a model for less than $250 but recently it has established a department on an upper floor where those who do not feel equal to purchase at that rate occasionally can buy a dress as low as $90. That, however, is the irreducible minimum, as the hostess will tell you.

Forty-nine Students Wouldn't Fight in Any War They Declare.

COLUMBIA, Mo.—Forty-nine students of the University of Missouri have stated they will not take part in any future war, offensive or defensive, right or wrong.

"I am unalterably opposed to war and will never take part in the fighting of any future conflict," was the wording of the statement. Of the forty-nine, twenty-six were girls and twenty-three were men students.

In connection with the Armistice day programs questionnaires were given out at the meetings of the students' religious organizations "in order to get a reliable expression of the attitude of the student body in regard to war."

Is "Opposed to Christianity."

A tabulation of totals returned to the Students' Religious Union office to date follows:

Question 1. I believe that war is opposed to the principles of Christianity and hence that the church should have no further part in war, no matter what the cause. Yes, 149; no, 81; noncommittal, 22.

Question 2. I favor the immediate entry of the United States into the League of Nations. Yes, 167; no, 52; noncommittal, 25.

Question 3. I am opposed to military training in our colleges and universities. Yes, 82; no, 142; noncommittal, 17.

Question 4. I believe that future wars are inevitable and hence favor a program of military preparedness. Yes, 94; no, 131; noncommittal, 25.

Question 5. I will never fight in a war of offense, but if it were necessary I would enter a conflict of defense. Yes, 168; no, 40; noncommittal, 40.

Question 6. I am unalterably opposed to war and will never take part in the fighting of any future conflict. Yes, 49; no, 143; noncommittal, 59.

CREAM QUICKLY CHECKS A COLD

If the children are feverish, fretful from a head cold or catarrh with nostrils clogged and head all stuffed up, just apply a little pure, antiseptic cream into the nostril. It penetrates through every air passage, soothing and healing, swollen, inflamed membrane and they obtain instant relief.

Try this. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Nothing clears the head so quickly. Count fifty. All the stuffiness, dryness, struggling for breath will be gone. This is so much better than drugging children that every mother should use Ely's Cream Balm.—Adv.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Drink Water Freely and Often If Back Hurts Or Bladder Bothers

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and whe.. the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Adv.

A Million Thanksgiving Dinners will be Cooked on an A-B

Thanksgiving will have a double significance in nearly a million American homes which today find pride in the possession of an A-B Gas Range.

To them will come the added satisfaction in setting about the preparation of their Thanksgiving feast with the knowledge that every part will come out just exactly as planned.

This measure of confidence is made possible by the extraordinary points of the A-B Gas Range—the triple-insulation of the rust-proof oven, which retains the minimum of heat with the minimum of gas consumption and insures an even distribution of the temperature throughout the oven, which make for thorough and even results.

ETHYLIZED GASOLINE

For one year and nine months ethylized gasoline has been on sale. It is now being distributed through about 20,000 filling stations covering one-third of the territory of the United States.

About 200,000,000 gallons have been used by more than 1,000,000 motorists with complete safety and satisfaction.

Recently a distressing accident occurred at an experimental plant, where a new process for the manufacture of tetraethyl lead, one of the constituents used in ethylizing gasoline, was under development. Tetraethyl lead is a poison, as are many raw materials which enter into the manufacture of harmless compounds. Ethylized gasoline consists of 1300 parts of ordinary gasoline containing less than one part of tetraethyl lead.

This statement is issued to make plain the all-important difference between tetraethyl lead, the raw material, and ethylized gasoline, the commercial product.

Ethylized gasoline is more than an improved fuel, giving smoothness to the motor and eliminating knocks; it is a scientific discovery which, in its ultimate development, will contribute largely to the conservation of the world's supply of gasoline.

Exhaustive tests have been conducted which have established the safety of ethylized gasoline when used as a motor fuel. These tests have been confirmed by the United States Bureau of Mines, which is making additional studies to determine whether any possible injury can result from continued contact when used for other than motor purposes. Scientific data based on these studies will be submitted to any health commissioner or other public health official upon request.

America's Last Big Grizzly Bear to Die In Western Holiday Hunt

"Old Mule Ears" To Meet Doom By Blazing Rifles

California Cattlemen Up In Arms Over His Depredations

Gory And Bloodthirsty 'Bar' To Be Object of Two-Day Mountain Search

By LEE OVERMAN.
Special Correspondent the Record News.
(Copyright, 1924, by the Consolidated Press Association.)

GIANT FOREST, Cal., Nov. 22.—The last stand of what may prove to be the last huge cattle and sheep killing American grizzly bear probably will be staged somewhere in the rugged mountain regions to the north of this little mountain hamlet a day or two before Christmas.

On Dec. 20 a hundred or more cattle ranchers and cowboys from as many miles around, augmented very probably by twice as many volunteer big game hunters from nearby cities, will start a drive, with "Old Mule Ears," cattle and sheep slaying grizzly, as their much sought prey.

Two-day Drive.

The drive is expected to last two days and will be in the shape of a great encircling cordon with riflemen a hundred yards apart at the start. The far-thrown ring of hunters will gradually close in toward Moro Rick, a gigantic shoulder of granite which juts out of the side of Mineral King peak, where "Old Mule Ears" is believed to have his favorite retreat after his many marauding expeditions against nearby ranches.

Hunters will be augmented by scores of dogs—in fact by every hunting canine that can be recruited for the big bear drive—and should the combined effort of men and dogs be successful their trophy is expected to be portions of "bar meat" cut from one of the largest grizzlies ever slain in the far west.

"Old Mule Ears," who gets his name from the abnormal size of his hearing members, and who is described by the only two men who have ever obtained a closeup view of him as "being as big as a horse and having ears like a mule's has been a thorn in the side of cattle and sheep ranchers of this district for more than three years. In that interval he is credited with killing seventy head of cattle and twice as many sheep.

Crafty as Well.

That he is as crafty as he is predatory is attested by the fact that only two men have ever been able to get close enough to him to note his size and chief characteristics and that in the three years he has been raiding nearby ranches he has not only evaded skilled hunters scores of times but cleverly baited traps as well.

The ferocity of "Old Mule Ears" if local tales are to be given credence are as outstanding as his great size and wonderful cunning. A year ago ranchers here imported two experienced grizzly hunters from Northern Colorado to hunt down the monarch of Mineral King peak. The hunters set out with twelve dogs. After two weeks of following "Old Mule Ears" cold trails through mountain tickets they came back empty handed—and without any dogs.

Once, the hunters reported, the dogs cornered the big grizzly in a blind canyon. When the hunters came up they found five of the dogs dead and the other three so badly clawed that they could never be induced to take "Old Mule Ears'" trail again. The hunters did not even catch a fleeting glimpse of the bear who had wrought such havoc. From their description of his footprints which they found, however, they declared that he must be "even bigger'n a hoss."

Describing "Old Mule Ears" Alfred Hengst, a Three Rivers cattleman, who with Edward Morninstar, a cowboy, are the only humans hereabouts who ever set eyes on him, says:

"I was only fifty feet from him when he came out of a patch of brush. He just stopped and looked me over careful. Then my horse bolted and we went away from there. He must a'weighed 1,400 pounds—big as a good big horse—and he had ears as big as any mule. His fur was all spotted with snow."

Old Mule Ears is the only grizzly bear reported in five years in Northern California and Nevada districts, where formerly there were many grizzlies. Some years ago a big silver tip grizzly weighing 1,200 pounds, which like "Old Mule Ears" had a a gory record of slain cattle and sheep was killed near the California-Nevada line following such an organized hunt as will be staged here in a few weeks.

Because districts in Colorado, Wyoming and Montana which once were infested by grizzlies have long since been cleaned out and because no other grizzly has been reported from Northern California or Nevada for so long a time, ranchers here believe that the Christmas holiday hunt for "Old Mule Ears," if it is successful, will mark the passing of America's last big grizzly bear.

Ring Gets Dope On Europe's New Pastime

By RING LARDNER

To the editor:

During my stay in Europe which by this time pretty near everybody knows I was there or it ain't my fault, why I looked over the different games which they are playing there now to amuse themself and it struck me like a bolt from the blue that the American and Canadian public might be interested in hearing a few details in regards to the great new national game of Europe, England and the continent.

This game is called Gwaffle in all languages and if a discreet combination of golf, tennis, billiards, checkers, soccer football, horse-racing, baseball and bridge. It can't be played except by a party of at least five hundred all of who must be stopping at the same hotel and have their evening clothes on or prove that they have got same.

Everybody has to put on their soccer costumes which is composed of a few scanty garments

The game starts like parchesi, that is, you have got to shake a fiver or you can't come out. After you get out, the next move is like checkers, namely you can only move one space at a time unless you have got a king. And you must always move ahead which makes it different than football, where I have noticed lots of men going in the other direction.

The Source of the Name

The idear of the game is to keep remembering which game you play next. The third tier in this game of Gwaffle is something very similar to what we call our bridge whist. The player who has moved nearest the goal in the checker game asks for a pack of cards and it is his first bid and the other players are not allowed even to look at him, leave alone speak. Whatever he bids, that is the established bid and you can't overbid him.

Then they suddenly break into the horse-racing game and bring out the dice and they shake them three times and when they get through shaking whoever loses says that is a horse on you and the opponent gets mad. That usually starts a fight such as we have in our country except that whoever wins don't get paid nothing or the looser either.

The next part of the game is virtually the same as we call our soccer football and the difficult part is that everybody has to go back to their room and put on their soccer costumes, which is composed of a few scanty garments. This usually takes a long while especially in cold climates like England, France, Germany, South Africa and other countrys. At this junction they generally switch to a crap game and the next question is whose dice are they going to use. This is the derivation of the word Gwaffle which technically means you can't use my dice except at your own risk.

The party that loses at this game is obliged to go from where ever they are to Philadelphia and watch a city series between the two Philadelphia ball clubs.

Next comes the switch into tennis which makes the game versatile because you have got to do all your talking in whatever language the country is played in. Like for instance, suppose you was playing Gwaffle in Slovenia, why instead of saying are you ready, you would say, "Effie vovel" which means virtually the same thing. But I suppose I could explain it more better by describing the tennis part of Gwaffle match which I played in Drojudia with the Princess Kapon of Hajach as my partner and our opponents in the badly mixed doubles was the Persian Crown Prince Jai Alai, and his morganatic wife, Caroline Morgan. It was my first serve and I shot over what I thought was an ace. Mrs. Morgan missed it.

"Wasn't that an ace?" I asked her.

"Oh, no," she laughed. "We are playing with deuces wild."

After that neither of us spoke to the other one.

The first set went to 10 games all I said to the prince, we certainly have gone to the deuce a lot of times.

"So have you," was his reply.

When the tennis was over they started the dog racing part of the game which discourages a good player because in the first place we hadn't broughten our dogs along and in the second place they don't allow no foreign dogs to take part in the event. After about three days of this my partner and I walked out on the whole event but suddenly an official came up and says you are Americans and outght to win at baseball which is the only event left.

The loser is obliged to go to Philadelphia and watch a city series between the two ball clubs.

Just then Umpires Klem and O'Day came up and says the game was called on acct. of darkness. All and all we was both discouraged, but all the same Gwaffle is a great game and should ought to be took up by Americanos, or as we call them, Americans.

RED PEPPERS QUICKLY ENDS CHEST COLDS

Ease your tight, aching chest. Stop the pain. Break up the congestion. Feel a bad cold loosen up in just a short time.

"Red Pepper Rub" is the cold remedy that brings quickest relief. It cannot hurt you and it certainly seems to end the tightness and drive the congestion and soreness right out.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers, and when heat penetrates right down into colds, congestion, aching muscles and sore, stiff joints relief comes at once.

The moment you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes the congested spot is warmed through and through. When you are suffering from a cold, rheumatism, backache, stiff neck or sore muscles, just get a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, at any drug store. You will have the quickest relief known.—Adv.

(Germany's parliamentary elections are only two weeks away yet they are attracting little interest among the people. Maximilian Harden predicts that President Ebert will retain his office through an alliance with the nationalists but says that neither he nor his assistants in the government are doing anything to advance the cause of the republic.)

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—The German government, which has set Dec. 7 as the next election day, is still lacking in attractive slogans to stimulate enthusiasm.

These would not be difficult to find if an endeavor were made to give a straightforward and conclusive answer to the question of whether the German people wish to turn away definitely from a military monarchy and settle down to the noblest aims of civilized humanity as a democratic state restricted in its sovereign power only by self determination and the right of other nations.

Nothing Given Out.

Nothing positive is to be obtained from theoretical disputes and vague phraseology. The imagination of the masses reacts only to nourishing food and strong tonics.

The role President Ebert will play in the elections is being greatly exaggerated. This wretched socialist turncoat who has clung to power for six years without ever having been elected by the people is so desperately afraid of losing his office that he has made a political alliance with General von Zeckt in the hope of mollifying the nationalists whom he fears and who despise him.

His much talked of "manifesto" has not appeared at this writing, having been delayed by the president's cowardice.

Two letters, which were published recently, show more plainly than the sharpest criticism the fruit about the personality and qualities of character of the last kaiser. When in August, 1905, Chancellor Buelow tendered his resignation because the kaiser, without his knowledge, had meedled in international politics, Wilhelm wrote:

"To be treated thus by my best and most intimate friend has been such a blow that I fear a serious nerve attack. For your sake and because the fatherland demanded it, I landed in Tangier and despite the fact that my lame arm prevents my being a good rider, I rode a strange horse courageously among the Spanish to benefit your policy.

"Now you want to throw me over because the situation is too serious. But I really never deserved that. You are a hundred times more valuable to me and to the fatherland than all the treaties in the world.

"The day after your resignation, the kaiser will no longer live. Think of my poor wife and children."

In the whining tones of a hysterical woman, the Imperator-Rex who, before a frightened and trembling world played the part of the most mighty war lord and daring rider, demanded gratitude for having ridden the horse which was broken in for the Sultan of Morocco through streets guarded by crowds of policemen.

"Kicked Him Out."

Three years later he dismissed this same Buelow-like a lackey and boasted later "here, on this spot, I kicked the scoundrel out."

After his defeat in the world war, a vain, morally blind psychopath, he fled to Holland because he "no longer felt safe" at his headquarters.

Since then the republican government has sent him almost forty million gold marks and eighty-five furniture vans laden with jewels, gold, silver and other valuables, and has granted him the possession of dozens of castles and country and town residences.

Since January, 1924, it has paid him besides, 50,000 gold marks monthly. This was not enough for his insatiable appetite. He demanded also an estate of 400,000 acres—which caused the agreement to be frustrated.

The government should show this Wilhelm to the people. In the towns where every child is underfed and where workmen must labor a whole week for thirty or forty marks, the government should put to the people the question of whether they want a return to the monarchial institution which made such misery possible or whether they will shape their own destiny by building up a new democratic republic.

Instead it is trying to influence the elections through Paris. If France does not claim a 26 per cent tax on imports, or, if France in return for concessions in the Franco-German commercial agreement, promises to evacuate the Rhine zone by January, 1925, it is hoped that the elections will be favorable to the government which brought such a state to pass. And with this as election propaganda, it is likely that President Ebert will probably continue in his office for the seventh year.

Only those people who are properly influenced about the past can speak a decisive word about the future.

FAHY DENIES ALL CHARGES.

Postal Inspector Accused of Train Robbery Takes Stand in Own Defense.

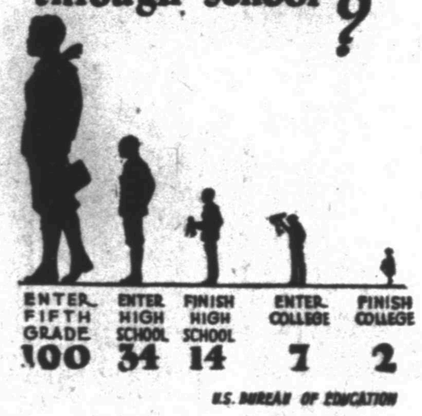

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—William J. Fahy, postoffice inspector, today took the witness stand in the trial of himself, James Murray and Walter McComb, charged with conspiracy in connection with the $2,000,000 mail train robbery at Rondout, Ill., last June 12, and denied all charges.

Fahy declared he never saw Brent Glasscock, chief of the robber band, until Glasscock was arraigned in court recently after his arrest in Battle Creek, Mich.

The former inspector testified that he first saw Willis Newton after Willis was arrested in connection with the robbery.

"Drive Your Own" Idea in Motor Car World Coming To Be One Of Industry's Prominent Features

Time Honored "Livery Stable" Staging a Comeback With Auto.

BY JOHN COSBY.
Special Correspondent The Record News.
Copyright 1924 by the Consolidated Press Association.

DETROIT, Nov. 22.—The livery stable, that grand old American institution is staging a comeback. The only difference is that it now rents out gas burners instead of hay burners.

The coming of the automobile sent the horse into oblivion as the motive force of pleasure vehicles, and with him passed the old fashioned "livery" which allowed families to rent a rig for a Sunday afternoon drive, traveling men to reach out of the way customers, and youthful swains in shiny new buggies to call for their "best girls" in style.

He Finds It Pays.

Taxicabs partly filled the place of the hired rig and rented "private" cars with chauffeurs did their bit. But something was lacking—privacy. The idea occurred to a large dealer, who had a big stock of used cars on his hands, that a drive-yourself motor livery might pay. It did, far more handsomely than he had dreamed.

The idea is spreading rapidly. Today in scores of cities there are auto liveries where the man who does not feel like maintaining a car for the occasional use he has for it can rent a car and drive it himself. The auto liveries quickly discovered however, that just as in the old days only the shiniest of buggies and the smartest of nags could be rented, only snappy automobile jobs will pay their way.

One manufacturing concern has leaped at this opportunity and now is manufacturing a line of cars especially designed for rent to those who do not desire to maintain a car continuously but still like to drive themselves on occasions. It is working day and night to meet the demand.

Paul H. Gerser, an executive of the company, explains this trend by saying that when "overhead" of individual ownership becomes too high, some method of apportioning expenses among many different customers necessarily follows.

Is Apartment Idea.

"Apartment houses and hotels solved the high ground rent problem," he said. "When an advantageously located piece of real estate grows too costly for occupancy by one individual, a skyscraper is erected and shared by hundreds.

"Relatively few people can afford to maintain a private golf course, but by clubbing together several hundred can enjoy the ancient and royal game at a cost within reason.

"In exactly the same way the drive-yourself car has come into existance. The only return the motorist gets on his investment is miles and when his requirements are relatively limited he discovers they reach a staggering cost."

But it isn't the relatively hard-up either alone who is going in for livery stable motors. The cost of keeping up an automobile for limited use is agitating scores of motor owners, and some of them are giving up their cars. Others are giving them up because the congestion in city streets has robbed driving of most of its pleasure. The executives of large automobile manufacturing companies told the writer today that they no longer operated cars themselves.

One sales manager declared that while his wife drove far more expertly than he did himself, he was reluctant to have her operate a car in crowded city traffic. He added that he himself came to his office each day in a street car and that the expense of maintaining a car was not warranted by the use he and his family could get out of it.

SCHWAB'S ADVICE TO YOUTH

Invest in Industry He Tells the Young Men of the Country.

AKRON, Ohio, Nov. 22.—Invest in industry.

This advice was given last night to the youth of the country by Charles M. Schwab, steel magnate, in an address here.

"You will have prosperity and success in the years to come greater than in the years gone by," Mr. Schwab said.

"My advice to the young man of today is 'don't be afraid to invest in industry.' If I had my life to live over again I would choose to start now, for the future offers greater promise than the past.

"Whatever your position let it be that of simple democracy."

ONCE SAILED FOR A KING

Now An Unkept Crew Unable to Employ Counsel in Court.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—The crew of the adventure boat Gulla, said at one time to have been the pleasure craft of a Spanish king, appeared penniless and unkempt before United States District Judge Patridge yesterday and told him they were unable to employ counsel to defend them against a liquor smuggling charge, an aftermath of the sensational scuttling of the ship on the high seas.

The Gulla was scuttled and her crew set adrift in small boats after she had run short of fuel with a supposed cargo of liquor on board. She was supposed to have sailed from Panama.

HONOR AND LAW SEEK HIM

Escapes Charge of Kidnaping And Likewise a Medal of Honor.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22. — Los Angeles police are seeking Clayton Pollan, former army captain, in connection with the kidnaping of his daughter from her legal guardian and the war department is searching for the captain to bestow upon him the Medal of Honor awarded for service in France during the world war.

This information was contained in a reply from Washington to the police appeal for information as to the whereabouts of Pollan.

The complaining witness is Mrs. Elsie Shoested, his sister-in-law, who was awarded legal custody of the baby after the child had been "loaned" to her by Mrs. Pollan when she was not in position to care for the infant.

MOLTEN METAL BURNS HIM

Police Seek Proprietor of Explosion In San Jose Factory.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Nov. 22.—County authorities were attempting today to locate persons responsible for an explosion which destroyed a cupola in the Joshua Henry Iron Works at Sunnyvale, 10 miles from here, yesterday and placed a worker in a stream of molten metal released by the disturbance. The worker was badly burned.

F. J. Behneman, president of the company, said the explosion was part of a campaign of intimidation to keep workers from his plant which is operated on the "American plan."

CROSSES FOR WAR DEAD

Pershing Recommendations Accepted by Weeks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Secretary Weeks accepted today recommendations made by the battle monument commission, headed by General Pershing, for the erection of stone crosses over the graves of American soldiers dead in France.

The approved designs call for the expenditure of $548,550 for this work and specify that the markers follow the design of the wooden crosses now being used. The graves of soldiers of the Jewish faith will be distinguished by a star of David, the design of which has not yet been decided upon.

RECOMMEND NEW BUILDINGS

Almost 4 Million Dollars in Structures Urged by Board of Control.

AUSTIN, Nov. 22.—The state board of control has recommended expenditure of $3,813,500 for new buildings at educational and eleemosynary institutions during the next two years in the biennium budget which has just been completed.

The largest recommendation to the legislature is $14,007,357 for educational purposes. Other budget estimates are as follows:

Judiciary $3,282,539; state department, $5,438,827; eleemosynary $7,888,260.

The building recommendations are divided $1,533,000 for eleemosynary institutions and $2,380,500 for educational institutions.

WIFE, PEACEMAKER, SHOT

Faces Fight for Her Life Following A Wound by Her Husband.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 22.—Shot by her own husband as she tried to take a weapon away from the man who was firing at him, Mrs. Ira Briscoe, wife of a Frio county rancher, is making a desperate battle for life at Baylor hospital here as the culmination of a gun fight at her ranch home yesterday in which Dr. A. J. Bailey, San Antonio veterinarian, was killed and Ira Briscoe was shot in the chest.

HERRIN ARMED AGAIN.

Klan and Anti-Klan Clash Menaces Federal Court Trial.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Nov. 21.—A clash between scores of Williamson county ku klux klansmen and their opponents was feared here today when it became known that the opposing factions were massing their forces at two hotels near the federal building where a number of Williamson county liquor cases are being tried.

More than a hundred Marion and Herrin klansmen, most of them heavily armed were reported concentrated at the St. Elmo hotel, several blocks from the federal building where a gun fight was averted two days ago only by the drawn guns of federal officers. The klansmen are said to be awaiting the arrival of S. Glenn Young, klan raider.

Two blocks from the St. Elmo, more than a hundred anti-klansmen, most of them friends of the defendants in the liquor cases, it was said, were gathered, also armed.

YOUTH KILLS BOY BANDIT

Three Youths Involved in Series of Hold-ups in Houston.

HOUSTON, Nov. 22.—Two youths are held in jail today in connection with the police inquiry into the recent "hijackings" following the shooting to death last night of one young man, an alleged bandit. The two have confessed to participating in a dozen holdups.

Jim Shown, 19-year-old high school football star, shot and killed Ernest Shoquist, 17, last night when, he told authorities, the latter made an attempt to hold him up.

Immediately police began a round up of suspected youthful gangsters and soon had six in custody.

Confessions were soon received from two. They implicated Shoquist in at least one robbery.

Evolutionists At Baptist Sessions Lose Their Fight

Report of Resolutions Committee Refuses To Uphold

DALLAS, Nov. 22—Aggressive opponents of evolution as pertaining to the Baptist schools of Texas were voted down again today at the annual meeting of the Baptist general convention when the report of the resolutions committee was adopted.

The committee recommended that a resolution submitted by the Rev. Dale Crowley of Texas City regarding doctrinal statements to be signed by all instructors in Texas Baptist schools be no adopted. In part the report said:

"In view of the fact that if the convention desires to provide a creedal statement to be signed by the teachers in our schools it would seem to be wise that such statement be prepared by a representative, non-partisan committee rather than by an individual who might be suspected of partisan bias."

Rev. Mr. Crowley for several months has been one of the leaders in the fight to prove that evolution is being taught in Baylor university and according to his own statement, before the convention, he was suspended from the institution because of his stand.

FISH BITES OFF HIS ARM

Professor At-University of Porto Rico Succumbs to Injury.

SAN JUAN, P. R., Nov. 22.—W. Russell Winslow of Carthage, Ind., professor at the University of Porto Rico, died last night a few hours after having been attacked while sea bathing by a fish which bit off one of his arms. Professor Winslow was rescued by John Harradine of New York, a former aviator, who with two others subsequently gave blood for a transfusion operation in an unsuccessful attempt to save the educator's life.

JACKIE COOGAN WELCOMED

Kid of the Screens Back in Los Angles After World Tour.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22.—Jackie Coogan, diminutive screen star whose advent in Geneva recently caused the League of Nations to stop work and crane its neck, returned to Los Angeles yesterday from a four months trip abroad. He was greeted at the station by a group of city officials who accompanied him to the city hall for an official word of welcome from Mayor George E. Cryer.

The Fable of the Bread-Winner

Elam was the main Whizzer in a huddle of Bungalows bounded on the North by a gleaming Cemetery, on the East by a limping Subdivision, on the South by a deserted Creamery, and on the West by an expanse of Stubble. Claudine was the other two-thirds of the Specialty. She was a snappy little Trick and it was a dull hour of the Day or Night when she couldn't frame up a new General Order for the Bread-winner.

The Marriage came off during the third summer of her twenty-seventh year. She had accepted Elam about a week before he proposed to her, thus simplifying the Ordeal. While the Wafer on the License was still warm, she put on her spangled Suit, moved to the center of the Ring and cracked the whip.

After that Elam continued to be a Hellion around the Office, but in his private Quarters he was merely Otto, the Trained Seal. Claudine could make him Bark, play the Cymbols, or go back to the Blue Bench.

There is one Elam in every Settlement.

All the wise Paper-Hangers and the fly Guitar Players had him marked up as a Noodle, but somehow, every time the winning Numbers were hung out, he would be found in Line, waiting to Cash. Elam was not bright enough to do anything except garner the Gold Certificates.

Elam Becomes a Loud Noise.

Elam had no Ear for Music, and, coming out of the Opera House, never could remember the name of the Play or which one of the Troupers was the Hero. Baseball had not come into his life whatsoever. A cultured Steno, who knew about George Moore and H. G. Wells, had to do his Spelling for him at 14 Bucks per. The Cerebellum of Elam was probably about the dimensions of a Malaga Grape.

Sizing him by his Looks, one would have opined that Nature meant him for a Ticket-Taker in a suburban Cinema Palace. Elam was a mental Gnat and a spiritual Microbe, but the Geezer knew how to annex the Kale.

When Providence is directing the Hand-Outs, she very often slips some Squarehead the canny Gift of corralling the Cash, but holds out all of the desirable Attributes supposed to distinguish Man from what you see in the Cages at the Zoo.

After Elam's Dad had earned his Shaft in the Cemetery, Elam became the Loud Noise around a dinky Manufacturing Plant down by the Yards.

The Cracker Barrel Coterie and all the Old Ladies who had become muscle-bound from wielding the Sledge predicted that Elam would put the Organization into the Ditch, wrong side up.

The Well-Wishers, the Brotherly Lovers, and the total membership of the Helping Hand Society sat back waiting for Elam to be dug out of the Debris, so they could collect Witness Fees at the Autopsy.

The Junior earned their abiding Dislike by putting one across. He made the Fossils sit up in their padded Rocking Chairs and pay some attention to the Idiot Child. He began to Bat 450 and Field 998.

After the dusty Workmen had manufactured the Product, and the Salesmen had unloaded it, and the Collectors had brought in the Coin, then Elam had to sit at a Mahogany Desk with a Picture of Claudia in front of him, and figure how much of the hard-earned Mazuma would be doled out to his greedy Employes. Sometimes he would be compelled to fork over nearly half of the Gross, whereupon his Heart would ache and he would become morose.

Claudine Gets Restless.

In a few Years he had a lot of new Buildings with Skylights and improved Machinery and all sorts of humane Appliances to enable the Working Force to increase the Output.

As the Bank Account expanded and the Happy Couple found themselves going up, Claudine began to scan the Horizon and act restless-like. She said the Home Town was Impossible. It certainly did seem contrary to Reason.

Any Woman with a salaried husband could butt into Society if she sang in a Choir or owned an Ice Cream Freezer.

Claudine was for migrating to some high-toned Community beyond the Rising Sun, where she could sit in Marble Halls and compare Jewelry with proud Duenpas of her own Station.

Seeing Claudine at the corner of 8th and Cebtral, waiting for the Open Car, one would not have suspected that she harbored Intentions on the Court Circles of Europe. One would merely have guessed that she was on her way to the Drug Store to purchase much Camphor.

But she had taken a peek at the Palm Rooms and the powdered Lackeys and the Tea Diet at the Plaza, and she was panting inwardly. She wanted to hang a silver Bell around her Neck and go galloping with the white-faced Thoroughbreds. It was no good trying to work up Speed on a half-mile track in the Prairie Loam.

Once in a while Claudine made a bold Sashay to start something devilish, but the Fillies trained on the Farm did not seem gaited for the Grand Circuit.

Nothing but Local Talent.

As for the Servant Problem, it was something ferocious. City Help could not be lured to the Tall Grass, and all the Locals had been schooled at the Railway Eating-House.

Elam and Claudine had a Cook named Gusta, born somewhere near the Arctic Circle in Europe. Her Fried Chicken drowned in thick Gravy came under the head of Regular Food. She could turn out Waffles as long as there was a Customer in sight. The Biscuit on which she specialized were light as Down. The things she fixed to Eat were Fine and Dandy but she never had heard of a Menu or Alligator Pears. When you took her away from regular Chow and made her tackle something Casserole or En Tasse, she blew.

Also there was a Maid who should have belonged to the Stevedores' Union. She could pack Victuals in from the Buttery and slam them down on the Table, a la Commercial Hotel, but when it came to building up an intricate Design with an ingrowing Napkin, three Spoons, four Knives, five Forks and all the long-stemmed Glasses, to say nothing of an artful pyramiding of Cut Flowers around the Candelabra, then she was simply a female Blacksmith.

Claudine would throw a Dinner once in a while, just to Subdue the Wife and Daughter of the National Bank, but the Crew would nearly always crab the Entertainment.

All during the nine Courses she had to yelp more Orders than the Foreman of a Street Gang. A Megaphone would have helped some.

The Hostess who wishes to look and carry on like a Duchess certainly finds it vexing when pop-eyed Lizzie leans against all of the principal Guests in turn and then endeavors to shoot the Rector in the Neck with a Plate of Salad.

They Pull a Bluff.

After one of these sad Affairs, at which the Rummies had bulled up the whole Program, Claudine came to the front with an Ultimatum. She said she was going to can the awful Birthplace and spend the remainder of her Natural among the real Rowdy-Dows.

"Right-o, Babe!" spoke up Elam. "Today I have put the Works into a new Combine which makes me a Janitor so far as the Plant is concerned, but boosts me into the Charley Schwab division when it comes to Collateral. I have ten million Iron Boys and most of it is Turkey. I am foot-loose and free as a Robin. Let us beat it to the Big Show. It is about time that the vast Territory lying toward the East should be aroused from its Lethargy. Go as far as you like."

The two were foxy. For monetary and real-estate Reasons they did not give it out cold that they were deserting the dear old Dump. They planned to have Gusta remain as a Caretaker, but it was merely a Bluff.

When the Taxi followed a Watson-Load of Trunks to the Depot Claudine leaned out and said: "Fare thee well, O you Main Street! This is the Parting of the Ways for Little Sunshine."

After that every Stranger who came to town was shown the Home of the Multimillionaire and when he asked if they were still living in the magnificent two-story Structure, the reply would be, "Oh, yes, they are living here but they never come back."

Moral: The only ones who have to are those who can.

Building blocks that are being made of sawdust and lime are said to be fire, sound and water-proof.

A salmon forty-five inches long and weighting forty-four pounds was caught recently off the coast of Scotland.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

Nash Running On Double Schedule To Meet Demand

November Production to Set Another Record At Kenosha Plant

ARE FAR OVERSOLD

Officials Believe Nation Is In Mood to Buy With Election Over

November will set another new Nash sales record, according to every indication in the first half of the month. Continued demand for the new Nash series of cars, which has left the factory oversold ever since the announcement August 1, will make this the greatest November in the history of the Nash Motors company and a very close second, in point of sales, to the month of October which had the greatest business ever recorded by Nash.

Day and Night.

At a time when the automobile industry as a whole is passing through the normally "low period" of the year, plants of the Nash Motors company are literally working night and day. Night shifts were put on at the advanced six factory in Kenosha within a few days after the announcement of the new line; two weeks later the Milwaukee plant, where the special six is built, also put on a night shift, and about the same time the plant of the Seaman Body corporation, which builds Nash enclosed bodies exclusively, was operating night and day.

Many of the departments in the Seaman plant run not only night and day but Sunday as well; this is not true of the entire plant but is an indication of the unusual efforts that are being made by Nash Motors to meet the demand which greeted the announcement of its new line of cars. With the election over business in general has turned the corner and according to those who have given the situation close study there is every indication of a prosperous year throughout 1925.

A MILLIONAIRE IN PRISON

Herbert H. Bigelow, Manufacturer, Serves Time In Leavenworth.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Nov. —Herbert H. Bigelow, millionaire, one of the largest manufacturers of calendars, placards and other printed matter in the United States, is now directing his huge business from a cell in a federal penitentiary here.

Bigelow is one of the 188 trusty prisoners confined at the penitentiary. He was received last August to serve a sentence of two years on conviction of having made a false return in his income tax report. Upon his reception at the prison he was assigned to the electrical shop and within a short time was made an outside trusty. No privileges not accorded other trusty prisoners are given Bigelow.

Somewhere back in the years, Bigelow, prison officials believe, must have made a study of electricity. They do not believe that in the short months he has been employed as the assistant electrician he could have gained the knowledge of his work which he possesses. He is rated as a good electrician and apparently is deeply interested in the work.

Prison Record Spotless

One day is very much like another with the millionaire assistant prison electrician. Beyond the restrictions which the prison throws about him, Bigelow might easily imagine himself employed by any first-class electrical shop in St. Paul.

Many persons come to see him, and his mail is, perhaps, the heaviest at the prison. Twice each week he receives visits from heads of various departments of his vast enterprise, and with these he crowds hours into the time alloted in which to talk over and give directions for the conduct of his business affairs. His hours when not employed are devoted mostly to answering his huge correspondence, relative to his business affairs.

So far his record in the prison has been spotless. He has violated no rule. He is accepting his punishment in a philosophical way and makes no complaint. In the eye of prison officials he is the type of ideal prisoner.

It'll Be a Merry Christmas

The human side of the prison also holds deep and fascinating interest for the St. Paul manufacturer. For years the responsible head of a large body of men in his employ, he has studied conditions at the prison and used his positon as an emnloyer of labor to help his fellow prisoners.

And this coming Christmas there will be no empty stockings in the prison. Bigelow will see to that.

31 IN A PULPIT

Rev. Dr. Zimmerman, Methodist, Follows Example Baptist Worker.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—In lieu of a sermon last night in the First Methodist Episcopal church, Gloucester, the pastor, the Rev. Dr. W. Earle Zimmerman, gave a fine performance of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Many in the congregation were of the opinion that though the pastor did not use makeup or props, his reading placed him on a par as an actor with the Rev. T. Keith Cherry, pastor of the First Baptist church, who, the previous Sunday evening gave an excellent interpretation of "The Covered Wagon," with the pulpit set to represent the prairie schooner and many props to add to the verisimilitude.

Dr. Zimmerman's congregation, which "packed the house," was held spellbound by his delineation of the dual character. Special incidental music was a feature of the performance.

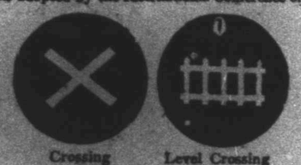

Both pastors have turned actors to lure into pews non-churchgoers who have been showing more interest in motoring, movies and jazz than in unworldly things. Fighting pep with pep, as it were, they have advertised their Sunday activities in newspapers and on movie-house screens and have issued plenty of "paper."

HIGHWAY SIGNS IN ENGLAND

The following are two signs employed on highways on the British Isles.

For caution (dangerous corners, cross-roads, or precipitous places) a hollow red sign (3) with equilateral triangle is used.

1. For 10 miles or lower limit of speed, a white ring with plate below giving the limit in figures.

2. For prohibition — which means stop abroad—a solid red disc.

All other notices in England are placed on (4) diamond shaped boards. These signs are placed on the near side of the road facing the driver, 50 yards from danger spot.

VISIBLE TO NAKED EYE

German Scientist Reports Further Progress in Making Metal.

BERLIN, Nov. — Prof. Adolph Miethe, who recently converted an enormous amount of mercury into a tiny fleck of gold, told the correspondent tonight further experiments have produced globules of the precious metal visible to the naked eye. He will publish his findings soon in scientific journals and divulge the exact details of his experiments.

Professor Miethe said his experiments are still in the primitive stage, but he is now in a position to produce as much gold as he desires, though the process is too costly to be profitable. He believes eventually it will be cheapened, but sees no prospect of this in the immediate future.

The first scientist to produce synthetic rubies and sapphires, Professor Miethe is now engaged in the manufacture of emeralds, but says they are still impure.

FLOGGING HIT RECORD

Publicity On Prisoners' Treatment Brings Out New Facts.

HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. —The number of floggings legally administered in the Texas penitentiary system during the present year has broken all records, according to prison commissioner Walker Sayle. Mr. Sayle said here today that 174 men have been whipped since January 1. There are about 3,800 men in the penitentiary and on the farms, he said.

This number includes three men flogged on the Bheset Blakley prison farm last week. The men whipped last week are said to have been guilty of insubordination.

Abolition of the dark cell, formerly a favorite punishment for obdurate prisoners, is responsible for the increase in whippings, Commissioner Sayle said.

The "horse" a four inch beam on which prisoners were compelled to sit for three hours without moving, was abolished by the prison authorities about two month ago, on the recommendation of physicians, Mr. Sayle said. It was considered injurious to the convicts by the doctors." A barrel now is used in the place of the "horse". The prisoner is forced to stand on the barrel for three hours, or until he promises to "do the right thing."

Whippings, legalized by Texas statute, are given only under a written order from the prison commissioners and under the supervision of a prison physician.

A movement is said to be under way to petition the next legislature for the abolition of all corporal punishment in the prison system.

DUCKS DIE BY THOUSANDS

Mistake Reservoirs For Lakes and Unable to Rise.

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. — The drought in Louisiana is resulting in the death of thousands of wild ducks in a most unusual manner.

North Louisiana is dotted with great earthern tanks to store crude oil from the Arkansas and Louisiana fields, and with most of the small lakes and marshes dry and minor streams little more than brooks, ducks arriving from the north are mistaking the oil tanks for water and alighting in them. They never rise again, for the thick oil permeates their feathers, making it impossible for them to fly.

QUEER APPROPRIATIONS

France Is Asked For Money To Teach Peasants Bookkeeping.

PARIS, Nov. —The appropriations which the government asks for this year reveal a fact that most French people have either ignored or forgotten that former members of the chamber of deputies receive a pension. A little over a million francs is asked for that purpose, while an additional sum of about 700,000 francs is wanted for the relief of needy former deputies and their families. One of the most curious items in the budget is an appropriation for teaching bookkeeping to the peasants in order to help them figure out the taxes.

Public Demands Good Bodies In Modern Machine

Paige and Jewett Cars Go To Forefront In This Respect

Well built bodies and sturdy chasses are fast coming to be appreciated now that more people every year are buying cars with the expectation of getting two or three seasons of service from them, instead of trading each year. This is the statement of H. M. Jewett, president of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car company.

"The man, who buys largely on the basis of a low price, may say he doesn't worry about what happens to the job after he trades it in," says Mr. Jewett. "But he should remember that used car buyers are getting more canny every day and the old law of supply and demand will make it harder every year for him to get what he thinks is a fair price for a used car of this kind.

"Just watch the man who can see past the end of his nose—the buyer who knows that a real motor car, like a good suit of clothes, may cost more but will wear better, look better and give complete satisfaction. He chooses a car with a husky, sweet-running motor, a staunch chassis, soundly built body and with durable upholstery.

"Such a buyer knows that, if he elects to drive his car several years, it will give him the best and most economical service. And he also knows it will command a better resale price."

HARVARD BURR SCHOLARSHIP

Recipient In All His Studies Has Received One Low Grade

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. — The Francis H. Burr scholarship at Harvard, in memory of Francis H. Burr, captain of the 1908 Harvard football team, for the senior who combines as nearly as possible Burr's qualities of character, leadership, scholarship and athletic ability, has been awarded to Henry Traugott Dunker, 25, of Davenport, Iowa, president of the Student Council at Harvard, veteran football player, captain of the track team and Phi Beta Kappa man. In all his college studies Dunker has received only one grade lower than "A," that being a honor grade of "B".

Dunker last year held an honorary John Harvard scholarship, his work being of "very high academic distinction." He has been active in social service work and for two years one of three undergraduate members on the committee on regulation of athletic sports.

GAINED IN VOLUBILITY

Women Now Dominate Conversation At London Dinners, Writer Says

The women of the last generation were, as Miss Mayor, that observant novelist points out, "incapable of discussion. They were as inarticulate as the uneducated, though often almost erudite." Certainly those women were better read than most girls are nowadays; they knew several modern languages, painted tolerably in water-colors, played Beethoven and read their Robert Browning. But the mass of upper middle-class women did not talk well.

They bored their partners at dinner. The late Sir Victor Horsly used to declare to young women that only as the twentieth century dawned did he begin to enjoy dining out. Before that time it was considered "not quite nice" for women to air their opinions at the dinner table. Like children, they were there to be seen, not heard.

How many of us can remember a mother in pink silk flounces who accused some feminine guest at a dinner party of having "talked for effect?" To later Victorian society as to "dress for effect." Neither was a crime in later Victorian society as to "dress for effect." Neither was in the best taste. "My dear, eat your dinner and do not talk so much", was the parting advice handed out, later on, when the daughters took their mother's pace at London dinner parties. How odd it would sound now, when most of the talk issues from feminine lips, and the men sit round, amused and listening!

The chief drawback of conversing with the young nowadays is that they all talk at once and seldom listen for a reply. It is something of an achievement to get a word in edgeways, and even then you may be pround if it is taken up and argued about before it is dismissed for good.

WINS BY ONE VOTE

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. —Out of more than 1,200,000 votes cast, Judge B. M. Willoughby, Republican, has been re-elected to the State Supreme Court for the First district over George K. Denton, his Democratic opponent, by one vote, according to official tabulations by the State Canvassing Board.

The vote was:
Willoughby, 601,861.
Denton, 601,860.

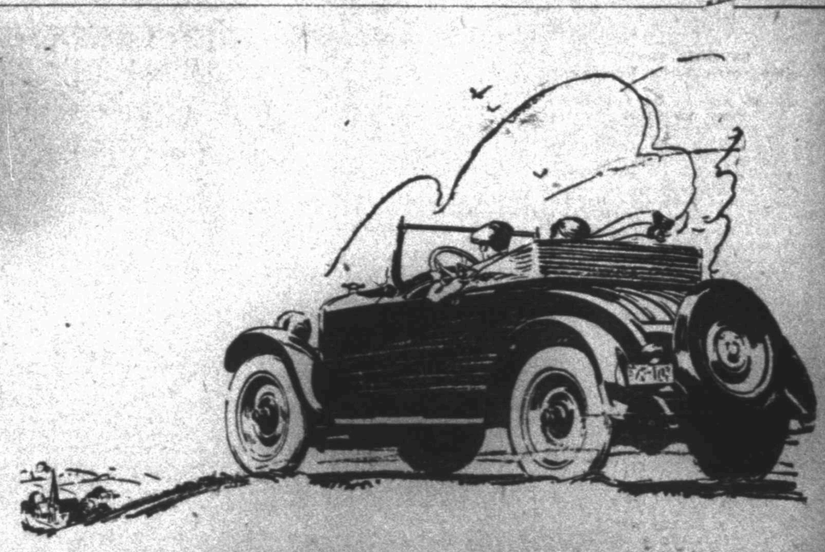

PRIMA DONNAS GIVE WAY

American Woman Conductor, Now In Berlin, Has Novel Ideas.

BERLIN, Nov. —The Tetrazinis, Destinns and Leo Slezaks will have to sit modestly in the orchestra pit, singing their parts as though they were solo flutes or bassons, while the Pickfords, Talmadges and Valentinos will act on the stage, when the new opera by Ethel Leginska, New York pianist, composer and orchestra conductor, is produced.

Miss Leginska, who within the past two months has surprised prejudiced critics by conducting world-famed orchestras in Munich, London, Paris and Berlin, in a manner acknowledged to be superior to many males, insists that the fact that a prima donna is gifted with an unusual voice does not necessarily make her a good actress.

"Why should a big fat man be exhibited on the stage, throwing out his hands dramatically in the stilted fashion of bygone time, just because he sings well? I want good actors on the stage for my opera and good singers in the pit to make a perfect ensemble with the orchestra."

All America Has Taken The Chrysler To Its Heart

The Chrysler Six sells itself every time it exhibits its dashing appearance on road or highway. The contrast between it and other cars is so marked that the desire to own one is bred then and there. But that desire is as nothing compared to the delight induced later on. If its only charm were the charm of appearance, the attraction would soon wear off. But the Chrysler is just as unusually attractive as it looks. One after another it reveals these unusual qualities even before it gets under way. Just to sit in the car and look about reveals first a quality all Americans love—compactness, conservation of space, neatness, artistry and a complete elimination of unnecessary elements. You look up from the cradling comfort of the Chrysler as you pass other cars and almost laugh. You see needless height, needless bulk, needless weight, needless length as you never saw them before. Your motor is as compact as the car itself—a jewelled watch with the busiest, most alert, most effective flow of power you ever experienced. Your whole motoring world is changed for you—delightfully changed, economically changed, efficiently changed. That the American people have taken the Chrysler to their hearts is no surprise at all—it is a very natural, logical thing. They are almost extravagantly enthusiastic about the Chrysler because the Chrysler has shown them delights in motoring they have never known before.

Marmon Meets Demand For New Quality Machine

Sedan and 4-Door Brougham Coupe Taken Up Eagerly By Public

Country wide interest has been aroused in the new Marmon standard sedan and the four-door Brougham-Coupe, both of which are featured by the Nordyke & Marmon company at only $130 more than the price of the open models, according to reports which have been received at the factory from Marmon dealers. The Marmon company is the first manufacturer of high grade automobiles to make a large reduction in the differential between the price of open and enclosed type cars.

The sedan and the brougham coupe are two of the most attractive of the ten models, comprising the series 74 line, introduced by the Nordyke & Marmon company. Neither of these models is to be confused with the justly popular coach type of automobile body construction. Representing the artistic work of the best tailors in motordom, they represent a departure from the conventional type of construction.

The sedan is luxuriously appointed and equipped. It is, by virtue of quantity production that the factory is enabled to sell the car for only $130 more than the price of the open type models, according to H. H. Brooks, sales manager, the sedan has four doors and seats five passengers comfortably. It is Marmon's answer to the new demand for unchallenged quality at moderate prices.

Built by the Dauphin of France, the son of Louis XIV, the ancient French house that for years has been the country home of Count de Levis Mirepoix at Cherre Perrine, has been destroyed by fire of unknown origin, much to the regret of the French people. It was one of the finest examples of French architecture. Four panels of Gobelin tapestries were saved by firemen. There were valued at 4,000,000 francs, but furniture of rare design, valued at more than 8,000,000 francs, were destroyed.

Take Your Car On Tour If You Can Pay 50 Cents A Gallon for Gasoline

Take your own car with you on your trip abroad, is the advice of William Lister of Evanston, assistant attorney general of Illinois, after completing a 3,000 mile trip through England, Scotland and part of the European continent.

Mr. Lister, driving an Oakland six which he took over with him, was enthusiastic over the joy of touring in his own car and suggested that trips through England and Scotland especially should be made in a motor car—your own motor car.

"One may rent a car there," he explains, "but I am sure it is much better to have your own car with which you are entirely familiar. My motor trip in the highlands of Scotland was a delightful experience. On one occasion we made a trip in one day which normally, by train and bus, would consume three days. And while traveling through the lonely glens and over the heather-clad hills, we made frequent halts which the use of the motor car as a conveyance conveniently permitted.

"Our Oakland was delivered to the steamship wahrf in Montreal the evening before sailing. This was the last we saw of the car until it was unloaded on the pier in Glasgow, equipped with British license plates and membership in the automobile association. This is part of the steamship service."

Mr. Lister gives an interesting account of the activities of the British automobile association. He said that one of the unique services rendered by the association was the employment of scouts to ride the highways to render aid to motorists belonging to the organization.

"The Automobile Association of Great Britain is a splendid organization," he explained. "The most conspicuous evidence of contact between the association and its members is the motorcycle and bicycle scouts, who patrol the highways. This association maintains telephone booths along the highways, and garage agents. It also publishes a list of accredited hotels. Among the facilities in these hotels, toilet cabinets are provided for members of the association in which can be found needed articles, including towels, comb and brush, etc. Each member is furnished with a key with which to open the telephone booths and toilet cabinets.

"The association scout, as a rule, is kind and accommodating, and whenever a member of the association passes him on the highway, if he is dismounted, he immediately brings himself to attention and salutes. While riding he is also required to salute the members as they pass. The scouts carry a first-aid kit and a small repair equipment. The highways in Scotland and England are very good and are macadabized. Gasoline sells at 50 cents per gallon. In London I saw quite a few Oaklands and also on the continent.

OLDS TO BUILD COACHES

All Closed Models to Be Produced In Housing Plant.

Eighty per cent of the entire production of the Olds Motor Works during the coming two months, December and January—will be coach models, according to the schedule just adopted by factory officials. This is the first time in the history of Oldsmobile that nearly all efforts have been concentrated on a closed body model and is truely indicative of the demand of the public for comfortable transportation.

Fisher Bodies.

Facilities at the Fisher Body Corporation plant, which adjoins and is connected with the shops of the Olds Motor Works at Lansing, Mich., are being rapidly expanded to permit the greatly increased production of coaches. This expansion will enable the plant to turn out more than twice as many coach bodies per day as it has been producing.

The Oldsmobile coach was announced a little over a month ago—on September 28th, to be exact. Latest available figures up to and including October 18th—a period of 20 days—show that 1,540 cars of this type were produced. This was about one-half the entire production of closed cars for the same period.

Hupp To Build "8 In Line" Machine By First of Year

New Creation of Long Established Concern Eagerly Awaited

First authentic information from the Hupp Motor Car corporation concerning its long rumored eight-cylinder car is contained in a factory announcement poster which is making its appearance in Hupmobile show rooms. The poster is signed by Charles D. Hasting, president and general manager of the corporation.

It is attracting considerable attention among automobile owners and from other dealers because it clearly defines the company's future policy relative to the new car and the present Hupmobile as well.

Though the new car, an eight-in-line, has been under experimentation and test since November last, it will not be announced nor ready for distribution until January, 1925.

"We could bring the new car out sooner," Mr. Hastings said, "but our recognized policy is that every major change we make must withstand at least a year's test before being placed on the market. It is only through such precaution that the owner can be safeguarded against performance mistakes that any factory should eliminate before placing an automobile in production."

The new eight will be larger and higher priced than the cars of four cylinders that the company has been manufacturing since inception in 1909. It will not in any way supersede the present car, it is officially stated. Rather, the announcement points out, it is being built for a different market and to round out the company's line. Officials expect the present Hupmobile to continue to constitute the bulk of the company's sales.

Buick And S. P. Flyer In Cahoots

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22—An opportunity of comparing two of the highest types of transportation was afforded recently at Exposition park, when the new Sunset Limited train was run out there for exhibition purposes and a new 1925 Buick master seven-passenger sedan was placed beside it.

Equipped with every modern device for the convenience and comfort of its passengers, the new Limited is one of the fastest transcontinental trains put into service by the Southern Pacific.

Leaving here at 9 o'clock in the morning it is now possible to make New Orleans on the evening of the third day, slightly less than three days and two nights on the train. The running time is 56 hours and 35 minutes for the 2,008 miles, through one of the most scenic sections of the country.

Built of steel construction throughout the Limited caters to every whim of the traveler. There are a maid, barber and valet to serve passengers. Two cars are fitted with bathrooms, while other new features in railway service make the transcontinental flyer a speeding hotel.

When the new service to the southern Gulf metropolis was inaugurated appropriate exercises were held at the departure of the train.

Mrs. Stein from early life had been an inveterate user of tobacco, being particularly fond of a good cigar.

New Maxwell In Great Demand By Motor Public

Its Debut In Auto World Creates Tremendous Sensation

DETROIT, Nov. 22.—Officials of the Maxwell Motor corporation are declaring today that the nation-wide reception being accorded Walter P. Chrysler's latest creation, the new good Maxwell, is the greatest and most enthusiastic ever given a Maxwell product. It is even more enthusiastic than the reception given the first good Maxwell three years ago.

Thousands upon thousands of persons—the motoring public, automobile distributors and dealers, automobile factory representatives and factory executives from practically every motor car company, together with hundreds of newspaper and automobile trade publication men—have swarmed to the Maxwell-Chrysler show rooms throughout the country to see the line of cars that publicity proclaims to be without a peer among four cylinder motor cars in the world, and from which, he adds, results have been achieved which surpass those hitherto attained from any four cylinder car.

"The tremendous and outspoken enthusiasm with which the public has greeted the new Maxwell permits us to arrive at but one conclusion," J. E. Fields, vice president in charge of sales, said yesterday, "and that is that the new car is making just as profound a sensation as did the Chrysler itself. The reception being accorded it reminds me of that given the Chrysler last winter, when that car created the beginning of a demand that we have never been able to meet.

"Our engineers and manufacturing executives say that this new car represents just as outstanding accomplishments in the field of fours as does the Chrysler in that of sixes."

When Galli Curci made her debut in London in October the rush for seats was so great that $5 tickets brought $25.

Brakes On Efficiency Down-Grade

Tests made in Washington, D. C., by the bureau of standards on 180 automobiles to determine the general braking ability of motor cars revealed a considerably lower average deceleration performance than the braking record widely published in the past two years.

The average stopping distance from 20 miles per hour for service brakes in tests at the national capitol, for instance, was found to be 45 feet and for hand brakes 78 feet. This performance is said to be 21 per cent less than the present accepted safety standards.

Similar tests with 50 cars in Baltimore produced no better results, namely, 44 feet as the general average for service brakes and 65 feet for hand brakes.

Lack of permanency of brake adjustments, characteristic of systems where brake drums are mounted on wheels is, in the opinion of Franklin engineers, the chief factor interfering with uniform braking efficiency.

DINGLEY GAINS PROMOTION.

Ex-Racing Driver Becomes Manager of Marmon Service Department.

Bert Dingley, who is well known in the automotive industry, is now service manager of the Nordyke & Marmon company, according to an announcement made by G. M. Williams, president of the Mahmon company. Dingley has been identified with the marmon organization for several yers but for the lst six months has been district sales manager with the Franklin Automobile company.

Dingley is well known as one of the old-time racing drivers but gave up that game after a serious accident on the west coast, and in 1919 went with the Nordyke & Marmon company as district sales representative on the Pacific coast. In 1920 he became identified with the production department in the inspection end.

Jackson Secures Agency for Duplex Trucks in City

Veteran Garage Man To Sell Famous Machine In This Territory

J. Lewis Jackson of Wichita Falls announces that he has secured the agency for the Duplex truck, manufactured at Lansing, Michigan. This is a new venture for Mr. Jackson, who has been in the garage and heavy hauling business here since 1919. He is well known in automotive circles in this community.

The Duplex truck capacity is 1, 1½, 2, 2½ and 3 ton, rear drive trucks and busses and also the famous Duplex 3½ ton four wheel drive.

The success of Duplex is based on it's dependability: merit alone was made the name respected wherever motor truck performance is the subject of discussion. The careful buyer, who considers an unbroken point of contact with his customers in the same ctaegory with the rest of his efforts to get and control business, will appreciate the Duplex reasons for building up to a standard and not down to a price.

A number of these trucks are now on display on the floor of the J. Lewis Jackson garage at 701 Lee street.

TIRE ABUSE IS COSTLY

Croft Warns Against Improper Treatment of Casings.

There are two ways of mistreating a tire, one neglect and the other downright misuse. To get proper mileage on the investment involved it is necessary to give a tire occasional attention, especially important being the requirement that the inflation be kept up to the prescribed figure.

"But it is equally important," says Roy Croft of the Wichita Garage, dealer in United States tires, "that abuse be avoided. How can a tire give a good account of itself if it is bumped and scraped and hammered? Even the best tires will look like poor ones under such treatment, for they simply cannot stand up under it."

Flint Makes Long Record Run And Doesn't Boast

Travels 6,327 Miles With Its Hood Sealed; Driven By Salesman

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 22.—Six thousand and twenty seven miles with sealed hood. That is the record made by a Flint six "55" standard touring car that recently traversed the long distance from Seattle, Wash., to Flint, Mich., and return without raising the hood. The only motor attention required by the car on the long trip was occasional change of oil, which was accomplished by a tube thrust through the hood.

The car was driven by a Seattle automobile salesman who had won the trip from his employers by holding highest place in a sales contest, and decided to share his reward with a party of friends.

The car was sealed before departure from Seattle and the hood remained fastened throughout the trip. The average speed was 30 and 3-10 miles an hour for the entire 6,327 miles, despite the hundreds of miles of gumbo through which the car ploughed its way. The trip was almost a non-stop run, the quartet of travelers driving in shifts of three hours apiece, completing the distance in 197 hours of actual driving time.

The greatest achievement of this run is that it proves that the Flint six is free from the necessity for minor motor adustments that many motors are subject to on the road. Not a wrench was touched to the car from the time that it left Seattle until its return. The remarkable feature of this trip is that the car was not driven by especially trained professional drivers as so many cars have been while making records, but by salesmen, who made the trip for pleasure and to visit the great plant of the Flint Motor company at Flint, Michigan.

Because this record was made by sheer sportsmanship and the standard mechanical excellence of the car, and is not claimed to be official in any way, it has more than the usual weight with those familiar with the driving conditions under which it was made.

BATTERY NEEDS ATTENTION.

Take Care Of It in Winter, Is Warning From Expert.

"When you put your car up for the winter, if you are one of the many who do, remember that your battery will need attention during the cold months if it is to operate next spring." That is the warning that Mr. Paulk of the Wichita Falls Battery company, Willard storage battery dealer, is issuing to his customers.

Mr. Paulk explains that as long as there is acid in a storage battery, there is chemical action on the plates, whether the battery is in use or not. "If the battery stands idle for several months the electrolyte, as the acid in a battery is called, will deposit a layer of sulphate on the plates and perhaps ruin them," he says.

REO OFFERS NEW CAR.

Closed Car Model at Open Car Price Is Their Boast.

Almost exactly coincident with the celebration of the twentieth anniversary of its organization the Reo Motor Car company of Lansing has just announced the production of a new model five-passenger sedan to be sold at a factory list price equal to that of the firm's balloon-tired touring car.

In the words of the factory announcement this new model is "to meet an insistent and growing demand for a full-sized closed car embodying all essential features that have popularized this type of automobile, yet so designed and produced that it may be sold at the price of an open model." The new model has been named the twentieth anniversary sedan, and, in anticipation of a great popular demand, the big Lansing plant expects soon to be turning out from 50 to 60 a day with prospects of a further increase in output after the first of the year.

AN ASTRONOMICAL MIRROR

Largest of Its Kind in World Is to Be Constructed In Paris.

PARIS, Nov.—Largest astronomical mirror in the world is to be constructed in the vaulted chamber of the Paris observatory where Jean Picard and Phillipe La Haire, famous astronomers of the days of Louis XIV, carried out their important experiments in determining the measurement of the earth and the planets.

Professor George Willis Ritchey of Yerkes observatory, who has just received the Janssen gold medal from the academy of science, is in charge of the construction. The mirror, when completed, will measure six meters or nearly twenty feet in diameter.

Astronomy is at present halted only by inability to make reflectors of greater dimensions so that when the Ritchey mirror is completed vast strides may be made similar to those brought about by the development or perfection of apparatus in other branches of science.

Up to the present larger mirrors have been found impracticable as a slight change in temperature has been sufficient to spoil them, owing to the fact that the surface of the glass is affected more rapidly than the internal mass.

To overcome this Professor Ritchey's mirror is to be constructed of glass stuck together by a special preparation of his making and arranged in such a manner as to leave air channels below the surface and throughout the thickness of the mirror. Thus changes of temperature will affect all parts equally.

At first mirrors of ordinary dimensions are to be constructed and from these Professor Ritchey will proceed step by step until his reaches the six meter reflector which he hopes to do within four years.

DEATH ENDS NUN'S RESPITE

Innisfail Goff Now Will Go Back to Her Convent

NEW YORK—Within a few days Innisfail Goff will renounce, for the second time in her life, her name and all contact with the hurrying world.

The death on November 9 of her father, ex-Supreme Court Justice John W. Goff, ended the respite which was granted her a year ago by the order of Ursuline nuns, of which she is a member.

Now she is awaiting instructions from Rome to lay off the conventional clothing, which she has worn while in her father's house, to resume the black robes, the name of Sister Ines Hildegarde and the life of penitential seclusion with which the last 20 years had made her familiar.

It was an almost unprecedented dispensation which permitted Sister Ines to leave the cloisters of the Ursuline convent in Rome and return to the world. The Ursuline order is one of the sternest in the Roman Catholic church and her vows, taken in the Bedford Park chapel in the Bronx, when she was a tall, beautiful girl of 20, bound her irrevocably to the iron discipline of the sisterhood.

When it became apparent a year ago that Justice Goff was nearing death Sister Ines asked for permission to leave the convent and live with her father until he died. The unusual quest was granted.

WOMAN LASHES EX-HUBBY

SAPULPA, Okla., Nov. 21.—J. C. Howell, local furniture dealer, was attacked and beaten with a horse whip on one of the main streets here today by a woman said to be his recently divorced wife.

According to spectators, Howell was talking to a group of men when a woman approached him. She beckoned to him and he left them. As he approached she pulled a "black snake" whip from under her cloak, and lashed him across the face. He then grappled with her but she fought her way free. Howell ran around the corner and into a nearby drug store.

"You'll be arrested if you continue this," he is reported to have said.

"I don't care. I'm going to finish the job," the woman replied.

She followed Howell into the drug store. He escaped through the back door.

No reason for the attack could be found, according to police who made an investigation. No charges will be filed, they said.

GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Nov. 21.—Leonard Reid, son of the late Sir William Reid, founder and one time head of the Reid-Newfoundland railroad, was found guilty by a jury in the supreme court here today of manslaughter, based on the death of six men in an accident last September when the automobile which Reid was driving hit a group of world war veterans and then turned over in a ditch, killing four of the occupants. The victims included two veteran officers of the war and two officers of H. M. S. Constance.

Reid was sentenced to 12 months imprisonment.

Rollin Designs New Spring For Better Machine

Long Series of Tests Brings Improved Equipment For the Car

"New standards of performance hitherto not attained in cars at any price, is the goal toward which Rollin engineers are constantly working," states R. T. Hodkins, vice president of the Rollin Motors Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

"New refinements of springs and a new development in steering gears have just been incorporated in the design of the Rollin, making it one of the easiest steering and one of the most comfortable riding cars on the entire market, regardless of price.

"The new development in the Rollin springs is the introduction of two additional leaves, both of which are of different metal composition than the balance of the leaves, thus giving to this car very unusual shockabsorbing qualities.

"Rollin White, designer of the Rollin, and an engineer with an enviable reputation for creative ability of a high order, is never satisfied.

"We reminded him of the old saying about it taking two men to paint a picture—one man to paint it and the other to club off the artist after he had finished.

"But he went ahead with experiments. We heard he had tested 50 different springs—then 100—then 150, and finally at the 238th, he said he had again improved the Rollin springs so that the resulting performance was as great an advantage as the original design.

"He had tried 238 different springs—different steels, and various combinations of leaves, before reaching this high state of perfection.

"The Rollin wheel-base is 112 inches but this transverse rear spring, as far as results go, increases the wheel-base 7 inches.

"SHE KNEW BISMARK"

Widow Scrubwoman In Reichstag Building For 30 Years.

BERLIN, Nov. —"She knew Bismark," is an expression applied by parliamentarians to Frau Anna Possien, a widow, aged 68, who is the oldest scrub woman in the reichstag building. She has served there continuously for 34 years. She is one of the four widows who have been employed in that capacity for more than 30 years.

Frau Possien's service began during the last year of Bismark's chancellorship. The post-revolution parliament is not so pleasant to work for as was the reichstag in the good old days, in the opinion of Frau Possien.

"Then," she declares, "we received a gift of fifteen marks at Christmas, but now we get nothing. Also we got to know the members of reichstag better and we knew just how they desired things arranged. In the old days the members permitted us to gather up the old newspapers and other printed matter and sell them. This gave us a considerable extra income. Now the government claims all the old papers and sells them itself."

Know what's underneath the paint before you buy

YOU wouldn't think of buying a house without first knowing how it is built and the quality of materials used. In selecting a piece of furniture you are sure to find out whether it is solid wood or veneer.

Yet many people who exercise care in most purchases buy automobiles without even lifting the hood or knowing about the hidden qualities of body and chassis construction that really determine one's satisfaction with a closed car.

• • •

We want you to know about the unseen qualities of the new Studebaker Standard Six Sedan.

Down underneath its superb body finish is a sturdy framework of carefully selected ash, glued together and fastened in place by screws—not nailed. Ash is scarce and expensive, but Studebaker uses it because it best combines proper weight and strength.

Upholstery is genuine mohair of high quality. Various grades of mohair look much alike—the big difference is in the quality.

Beneath this mohair covering are many nests of cushion springs, padded with heavy burlap, upholstery cotton and curled hair. Almost any car seems comfortable on the showroom floor, but it's quality such as this that makes the Studebaker Standard Six remain comfortable after years of service.

The same standards of excellence are maintained throughout the body and chassis. In the engine, for example, the crankshaft is completely machined on all surfaces, a practice that results in the smooth, quiet, vibrationless performance that characterizes all Studebaker cars.

• • •

Judged solely on what your eye can see—in beauty of line and finish and exterior refinements—the Studebaker Standard Six Sedan will command your instant approval.

But go deeper than that. Compare its hidden, vital qualities—its design, materials and workmanship—with cars selling for hundreds of dollars more.

Studebaker never compromises—never uses a substitute for genuine quality. Studebaker has been building quality vehicles for 72 years.

Come in and let us tell you the "inside story" of the Studebaker Standard Six Sedan.

FOLKS ARE FOLKS! By FANNIE HURST

Copyright, 1924, by
The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

The World's Highest Paid Short Story Writer

Author of "Lummox"
"Humoresque"

My friend is tired.

For twenty years she has been in the thick of things in America, and now she wants rest AND REPOSE.

And the young woman who owned the house in France, Well, she had a dream, too. A dream of America with its NOISE, its TURMOIL. Its youth-giving ACTIVITY.

MY friend is tired.

She has that look of PERPETUAL HEADACHE which comes from overstrain, and, now that we are travelling together, comes down to breakfast with little oyster shells under her eyes from not having slept.

She is pretty nearly on the edge of that vague and terrifying territory known as nervous-breakdown. Too much excitement. Too much struggle. TOO MUCH SUCCESS.

She has sold out her interior-decorating establishment, the largest and most successful one in America, and now here she is, travelling abroad, in search of some garden spot in Europe, far away from the maddening scenes and the maddening crowds and the maddening struggle, where she can settle down for the rest of her days in peace and contentment.

America has been kind to her, but at the same time, she claims, it has cracked her bones and eaten her. The LAND OF OPPORTUNITY gave to her bountifully and TOOK FROM HER.

The twenty years that it took to build her success were well and good while they lasted, and success went to the swift, but all those twenty years were sapping her, insidiously. Draining her vitality. Snapping her nerves.

And so here my friend is, with almost a terror of the thought of those twenty years. Eager to be away from the scene of them, to be quiet, without tension; here she is with a desire for the more leisurely pace of European life. Searching for some spot which shall encompass all the beauty and the peace and THE SECLUSION SHE HAS MISSED. To setfle there, to live there, to dream there, to feel herself at loose tension and to learn to live the leisurely pace of some lovely, old-world country-side.

Easier said than done.

The habits of a lifetime of a nervous, alert, successful American business woman, are not easily changed. And yet the desire, coupled with the fact of the threat of nervous breakdown, has such hold of my friend that for weeks we have been motoring along the byways of Europe, inspecting every chateau or villa we see advertised for sale, looking up the available houses in every attractive spot we reach.

And they are many. English countryside has the green gleam to it of an emerald. Italy can stagger you with the voluptuous beauty of castle crag and villa-cowering-under-roses. Spain, which strangely enough is a pale country, the color of the silver side of poplar, has its beauty spots, too; and yet every one who has ever searched for habitat knows the DIFFICULTIES.

That gleam of English countryside is the color of emerald, but the nights are damp!

That Italian villa cowering under roses has typhoid in its drinking water!

Life in Spain might be alluring except that it is impossible to find a cook who will not literally boil every bite you eat in oil.

And so it goes—every new beauty spot we approach raising our hopes only to dash them. House-hunting is the same the world over. So is almost everything else, for that matter, and most of all, human nature!

FOLKS ARE FOLKS.

* * * * * * * * *

At last! We came upon it motoring from Paris to a spot we heard of in Les Andeleys, Normandy. It wasn't on our list; we just careened suddenly into it, turning a corner of one of those lacy, poplar-lined roads of France, where travel is such a delight because the trees follow the roads so faithfully, making your travel through a TUNNEL OF WAVING GREEN.

"Repose" was the name of it, painted on a bit of rough board and half concealed by the clamor of primroses over the garden-gate. And there, stuck at right angles to it, in new paint on a bit of pine board, "Villa—a vendre." Villa, for sale!

It wasn't exactly a villa, though, and it wasn't a chateau and certainly not a castle on a crag. Just a long, low, rambling affair, the kind of house that is added to generation after generation, as the family enlarges and children are born. Some of its roofage was straw-thatched. Some of more modern shingles. But all of it grown over with moss and turf, because the trees around Repose stand about the house to keep off too much beat of sun and the flaming garden around Repose stands between it and the possibility of a bit of glare from the open road beyond the garden gate.

REPOSE!

This home, which awaited my friend beyond that unexpected careen in the road, stands DRENCHED IN IT.

It stands directly between two villages, which are eight miles apart. The bells on the cows can be heard at twilight each of those four miles away. Thrushes and skylarks sing in the days and nightingales warble them out. A fountain almost concealed by a blaze of hollyhock and peonies has a tiny sound to it which in that quiet is almost a noise. There is a lily pond with a boat on it that no one ever rides in. Good clear water is drawn up from a well, on a chain which groans outlandishly. When it rains at night the drops fall silently into the mossy roofs.

Repose. In all of France, in all of Europe, there is not a fairer spot. Artists have found it out. For miles along this particular countryside their homes are dotted here and there. Ten miles from my friend dwells Claude Monet, dean of the impressionistic school of painting, in another such garden as the one I describe.

It gives life the patine of unreality to feel that here is where I am to leave my friend, who for twenty years has dwelt in the bang of the New York subway, the scream of the motor siren, roar of the elevated and the crash of American life. By the turn of a finger, so to speak, and the payment of a few thousand of the many dollars she has amassed, presto, here is her life transferred to the dreaming beauty of this spot called Repose.

No wonder that as we careened around that corner, my friend's face lit up with the first thrill of interest she had been able to muster in months.

Repose—there among the poplars and the roses. Repose, there to the trilling of skylarks and the tink of a fountain.

Repose, there in the very country where Claude Monet learned his new secrets of color and combination of beauty and of form.

And there on the gate-post, that sign. For Sale. Who would be willing to SELL PARADISE!

Madame Tourneur, who owned Repose, was willing!

We found her in her garden, seated beside the lily-pond, reading, of all books in the world in that place and setting, Susan Lenox, by David Graham Phillipps.

She was young and with the dull prettiness of a lantern not lit, and gave us tea and talked a fair English and walked us through undreamed of groves that stretched behind the house and showed us great kitchens that smelled of fresh cream, and long cool corridors and high-ceilinged bed rooms with furniture that would have delighted an antiquarian's heart.

The tea and strawberries and cream were served in a rose arbor and by the time the tinkle of cowbells from four miles away announced nine-o'clock-twilight, the deal between my friend and Madame Tourneur needed only the official gesture of the laws of France to complete it.

Repose practically belonged, then, to my friend.

There were no oyster shells of fatigue under her eyes that evening and strangely enough Madame Tourneur was suddenly almost pretty. A LANTERN THAT HAD BEEN LIGHTED!

"But why—oh why"—then cried my friend, whose thrills and excitement had carried her beyond cognizance of these details, "why and how, you poor dear, did you ever make up your mind to part with this? From what you tell me, you are already a well-to-do widow. What is your reason?"

There was a sudden quality of rejuvenation in Madame Tourneur. SHE SHONE.

"I want to go to America," she cried. "I have dreamed of it for ten years. While my husband lived it was impossible. But now—I have been in a cage all my life. I want to go to America, where there is life and excitement. I want to get into business there for myself. I want to be out in the world. Not a nonentity, sitting here beside a lily pond. I want success from my own efforts—I want to keep young by being in the fray. I want to struggle. All my life I have only sat beside lily ponds—"

And now, who can deny that FOLKS ARE FOLKS?

Yale Grabs Second Straight "Big Three" Crown By Drubbing Harvard

BLUE TIDAL WAVE SURGES FROM BEHIND IN SEA OF MUD TO FIGHT AHEAD OF 6-POINT CRIMSON LEAD

Outplayed in First Half, Bulldog Charges Back in Second With Terrific Driving Power

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 22.—A blue tidal wave gathering fury as it rolled on, surged through the Yale bowl this afternoon, submerged the gallant crimson defenders and swept on to smashing victory.

Out of the morasses of the Eli gridiron, churned into a sea of muck and mire by a torrential downpour throughout the game that beat down upon a vast but bedraggled crowd of 74,000 banked upon the slopes of the bowl, Yale's mighty football machine rose to new heights of glory by conquering Harvard, 19 to 6, and capturing the "big three" crown for the second successive year.

Beaten back, outplayed and held scoreless in the first half of this mud battle, in which Harvard showed surprising strength and scored twice on field goals through the brilliant kicking of Erwin Gehrke, Cleveland halfback, who was the crimson's outstanding hero, Yale rallied in the second half and half-slid, half smashed its way to triumph in one of the greatest exhibitions of driving power under seemingly insurmountable odds ever witnessed.

The lineup and summary:

Yale (19)		Po.	Harvard (6)
Bingham		L.C.	Dean
Joss		L.T.	Coady
Starbuck		L.G.	Dunker
Lovejoy (c)		C.	Greenough(c)
Root		R.G.	Theopold
Butterworth		R.T.	Linder
Luman		R.E.	Beal
Bench		Q.B.	Stafford
Pond		L.H.B.	Gehrke
Allen		R.H.B.	Miller
Cottle		F.B.	Maher

Score by periods:
Yale 0; 0; 13; 6—19.
Harvard 6; 0; 0; 0—6.

Yale scoring: touchdown, Pond, Kline, 2.
Point after touchdown, Scott.
Harvard scoring: field goal, Gehrke.
Goal from placement, Gehrke.
Yale substitutes: Falling for Cottle, Scott for Falling, Kline for Allen.
Officials: referee—E. J. Quigley, St. Mary's. Umpire—T. J. Thorpe, Columbia. Linesman—F. W. Murphy, Brown. Field judge—E. J. O'Brien, Tufts. Time of periods 15 minutes each.

PLAY BY PLAY.

Yale won the toss and kicked off. Gehrke ran the ball back 8 yards from the 7-yard line and Harvard punted on the first line up to Yale's 35-yard line. After one four-yard smash Yale punted and Harvard promptly returned the punt with a 60-yard boot by Gehrke. Bench ran the ball back to Yale's 35-yard line.

Another exchange of punts, Miller of Harvard fumbled and Dick Luman recovered the ball for Yale on Harvard's 37-yard line. Two smashes gave Yale 10 yards.

After one first down Yale was unable to progress further and Allen tried a field goal from the 28-yard line, but failed. Harvard put the ball in play on its own 20-yard line. Gehrke punted and Bench of Yale fumbled, Miller of Harvard recovering the ball at Yale's 38-yard line. In two plays Gehrke gained nine yards.

In several more plays Gehrke, whose home is in Cleveland, and who was supposed to be a cripple, earned a first down on Yale's 16-yard line.

A field goal for Harvard soon followed. The goal was made by Gehrke after the Crimson offense had been checked at Yale's 10-yard line.

The first goal was a place kick from the 19-yard line with Stafford holding the ball.

Harvard Boots Field Goals.

Yale kicked off and Gehrke ran the ball back 20 yards to the 23-yard line. A punt by Gehrke went nearly 70 yards and forced Yale to punt from behind its own goal line. Stafford of Harvard made a fair catch and a second placement kick from Yale's 21-yard line followed with Gehrke doing the booting.

Another field goal for the Crimson came soon after the kick off, making the score Harvard 6; Yale 0.

At the end of the first period after the third kick off, Yale had the ball on its own 29-yard line. Jack Failing, substitute for Cottle, ran the kick-off back 25 yards. Score: Harvard 6; Yale 0.

Soon after the second period Yale got the ball on Harvard's 34-yard line on a poor punt by Gehrke. Yale made a change of backs, hoping for a score.

Yale could not gain, however, and Scott, whose home is in St. Louis and who was a substitute for Jack Failing, unsuccessfully tried a field goal.

Gherke placed a punt against the wind and the ball rolled to Yale's 36-yard line. Pond tore through the Harvard line for 14 yards and a first down at midfield. It was longest scrimmage gain so far.

Yale now had the advantage of the wind, while Harvard had that help in the first period. From his own 20-yard line Gehrke punted to the Crimson's 47-yard line and Scott's kick was almost blocked, but the ball went to the Crimson at its own 20-yard line.

Yale Threatens.

Gehrke's punt went only 20 yards and after two unsuccessful forward passes a toss from Pond to Scott gave Yale first down on Harvard's 22-yard line. Pond smashed 10 yards, eluding everybody but Stafford. Kline, substitute for Allen, added three yards.

On fourth down with two yards to go Yale was just that distance from a touchdown and was penalized five yards for off side.

Yale tried to make the distance by a forward pass and Harvard took the ball on downs. Score end second period: Harvard 6; Yale 0.

Harvard kicked off to start the third period. Yale was unable to gain from its own 20-yard line and punted and Stafford of Harvard fumbled at midfield, Luman getting the ball for Yale. Pond gained five yards and Kline added 15. Two more smashes gave Yale first down on Harvard's 25-yard line.

A couple of smashes by Kline gave Yale first down three yards away from a touchdown. Yale evened the score by crossing the line.

The touchdown was made by "Ducky" Pond. Scott added a point by a place kick and Yale went into the lead, 7 to 6.

Eli Goes Over Again.

"Bunny" Bunell of Scranton, substitute Yale quarterback, ran Harvard's kick-off to Yale's 35-yard line from the goal line. Yale soon punted and Stafford fumbled on his own 35-yard line. Gill, substitute left end, recovered the ball for Yale and ran to Harvard's 13-yard line. Yale soon made a second touchdown.

The touchdown was made by W. S. Kline of Dubois, Pa. The attempt to extra point was missed, making the score: Yale 13; Harvard 6.

Harvard kicked off and Kline ran the ball back 22 yards to his 23-yard line. With the wind behind Yale punted to Harvard's 18-yard line. The gridiron was now under water.

After a five-yard smash by Gehrke, Harvard punted and Kline fumbled, Dunker recovering for Harvard at mid-field.

As the third period ended with the score Yale 13 and Harvard 6, Harvard had progressed five yards in three plays and Hammond punted on the first play of the last quarter.

Harvard now had the aid of the strong wind. Hammond's punt went over the goal line and Yale put the ball in play from its own 20-yard line. Pond plunged ahead 10 yards.

Pond Flashes.

Another smash by Pond gave Yale first down on its own 45-yard line, Gehrke alone stopping the Yale back. Pond immediately twisted ahead eight more yards.

In several more plays Pond made a first down on Harvard's 33-yard line. Yale had made a concerted advance of 36 yards and had gained five yards by a penalty on Harvard.

Kline circled end for 18 yards and in a couple more plays Yale had the ball at Harvard's 10-yard line.

Soon came Yale's third touchdown.

The touchdown was made by Kline in four plays from the 10-yard line. Scott failed to make the extra point and the score stood Yale 19 and Harvard 6.

It took Yale 106 plays to advance 75 yards for this touchdown.

The kick-off was run back by Bunnell 14 yards to his own 22-yard line. Yale put in a lot of substitutes, including Allen Wadsworth, son of Senator Wadsworth of New York.

The drenched Yale partisans were singing the undertaker song in a heavy rain as the hungry Bulldog sought a still larger score.

Milling around in the mud and dark Harvard forced Yale to punt and the game ended with Harvard trying vainly to score by forward passes.

Chicago Sews Up Championship Of West Conference

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—With three victories and three ties but no defeats, the University of Chicago tonight stands winner of the western conference championship for the 1924 football season. The champions had but one chance to score in their scoreless tie game today with Wisconsin, but could not cross the Badger's 16-yard mark. Ohio State and Illinois also played tie games with Chicago and the University of Missouri, in the first game of the season at Stagg Field, defeated Chicago 3 to 0 in a non-conference game.

The Minnesota upset of last Saturday knocked Illinois out of the undefeated class and the Illini tied for the season with Iowa in second place. Michigan through today's defeat by Iowa, went into fourth place.

Wisconsin for the first time, failed to win a conference game and ranks last.

The conference standing for 1924 follows:

Team	Won	Lost	Tied
Chicago	3	0	3
Illinois	3	1	1
Iowa	3	1	1
Michigan	4	2	0
Purdue	2	2	0
Minnesota	1	2	1
Ohio	1	3	2
Northwestern	1	3	0
Wisconsin	0	2	2

Illinois Defeats Ohio State 7 to 0

ILLINOIS STADIUM, CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Illinois triumphed over Ohio State 7 to 0 in the final game of the big ten season in Illinois Memorial stadium here today.

Illinois, without the services of the famous "Red" Grange, crashed over with a touchdown in the first period, Gallivan carrying the ball. Britton added the final point by kicking goal.

Illinois and Iowa tied for second place in the conference race, with one defeat and one tie each, both winning their closing games today. Chicago was defeated in its first game of the season by Missouri, a leader in the Missouri Valley conference, 3 to 0, but this defeat does not affect the conference rating. Illinois and Ohio were the other teams, besides Wisconsin, which played tie games with Chicago.

TEXAS FROSH BEATEN

AUSTIN, Nov. 22.—With Stalliter, varsity second string back starring the Ragnots, an eleven made up of former Texas university stars, and second string Longhorns players triumphed over the strong freshman eleven, 12 to 7. Clyde Littlefield, Tom Dennis and Edwin Bluestein, all former varsity stars, took part in the game.

Electra Downs Coyote Eleven In Tough Struggle

Hammond Plunges Tigers To Close 20 to 16 Victory

CURTAIN GETS LOOSE

Contest Featured By Long Runs of Rowdy And Thomas

By CECIL O'HARA

In a game featured by a sensational 80-yard run for touchdown through the entire Electra team by "Rowdy" Curtin, the consistent line-bucking gains of Hammond for Electra, and some pretty passing by the Lawson-Jenkins combination, Electra High defeated Wichita Falls Saturday afternoon, for the first time in three years, when the Tigers barely nosed out the Coyotes by the slim margin of 20 to 16, at Athletic park.

Wichita Falls scored first, early in the first period, when Hammond, kicking from far back of his own goal line, failed to boot the pigskin in the right direction, the ball going out of bounds before it reached the playing field, thus giving the Red and Black a safety for two points. The credit for this score, also, is largely due to Curtin, for the rowdy one had made a beautiful punt of 35 yards that went out of bounds one foot from the Electra goal.

There were no further tallies in the first quarter, but the Tiger gained the lead early in the second canto. Starting this period with the ball in Electra's possession on her own 45-yard line, Hammon and Thomas carried the ball straight down the field, the former gaining 30 of the 55 yards by smashing the line, while the fleet-footed boy wonder garnered the remainder in two end runs, one for 20 yards and the other for five. Hayes failed to kick for the extra point.

Curtain Gets Loose.

The Jungaleers' lead was short-lived, for on the next play, after Electra had booted over the home team's goal on the kickoff, Curtin took the ball on a fake punt formation, and raced almost the entire length of the field for a touchdown. Jenkins' toe gave the Coyotes the extra point, and the count was 9 to 6 for the home team. Then came the break that probably cost Wichita Falls the game. Lawson sent the oval past the Tiger goal on the kickoff. A 5-yard penalty and a like loss by Thomas placed the ball on the visitors' 10-yard marker, from where Hammond punted to mid-field, where Lawson took the ball on a fair catch. The Red and Black decided to exercise their right at free kick, Curtin punting 30 yards to Thomas. The wing-footed midget raced 40 yards, and would have scored a touchdown but for a wonderful diving-tackle by Lawson. Hammond, Thomas and Sargent again battered their way across the home goal and a Coyote off-side gave Electra the extra point. Score: Electra, 13; Wichita, 9.

Fumbles Cause Score

Fumbles by Wichita Falls were mainly responsible for the next, and final Electra counter. Jenkins took the kick-off in the shadow of his own goal, and ran it back 35 yards, only to lose the ball when tackled. Electra had more luck with her muffs, for, when the Coyote line had temporarily stopped the plunging, Hammond, he fumbled into the hands of one of his own men for a 9-yard gain and first down. Before the half ended, the Electra quarterback had again rammed his way to a touchdown, and Hayes was successful in the try for the extra point, the score being 20 to 9 in the Tigers' favor, with the ball in play in position of the Coyote in midfield when the whistle sounded the half-way mark of the game.

Coyotes Score Again

The second half started with Hammond going as strong as ever, and he had pushed the ball from his own 15-yard line to the home team's 28, when Jenkins intercepted a pass and ran 40 yards before he was downed. Curtin snatched 20-yards through left guard, and Lawson went the remaining 10 around Electra's right end for a touchdown. Jenkins again kicked goal, and brought the score to within four points of the Tiger total.

There was no further scoring, but the work of Jenkins and Lawson, coupled with some beautiful interference, placed the oval on the visitors' 7-yard line, only to lose the ball when Jenkins fumbled, on second down and goal to go. The ball thereafter remained in Electra's possession until near the game's end.

With but a few seconds remaining, the oval went over on downs, near the home goal, but the Coyotes lost it on a fumble just as the game ended.

Electra made 21 first downs to 10 for the Coyotes, and Hammond outkicked Curtin, the averages being 41 and 34, respectively. The Red and Black was most successful at the aerial game, gaining 60 yards in this manner, against 12 for the visitors. Electra was penalized a total of 20 yards, twice the distance lost by Wichita by penalty.

One Threat of Triple Theatre

Elmer Layden, full back and triple threat man, is one of the kingpins in the "Fighting Irish" team of Notre Dame. Layden punts, passes, and carries the ball in brilliant style. He was the main reason for the Army defeat and yesterday led the Micks to victory over Northwestern.

Sooners Defeat Washington, 7-0

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 22.—The Oklahoma Sooners won their second Missouri Valley conference game of the season here today by defeating Washington university, 7 to 0, after the two teams had battled on about even terms up to the last few minutes of the game. It was the last conference game of the season on schedule here.

The credit for the victory goes principally to Ruppert, left halfback, and Bristow, substituting for Slough as quarterback, after he had been replaced in the third period by Neal in the fullback position.

DANIEL BAKER WINS FROM BUFFALO, 3-0

CANYON, Texas, Nov. 22.—Daniel Baker's Hill Billies defeated the West Texas Buffaloes here this afternoon, 3 to 0. In the last quarter the Hill Billies made a fair catch of a punt and put the ball in play by a place kick. First attempt was unsuccessful, but a Buffalo was off side and on the second attempt a field goal was made.

The outstanding players for the Hill Billies were Brock and Alford; for the Buffaloes the mighty Russum, playing his last game, stood above the field.

Wisconsin Holds Chicago To Tie

CHICAGO, Nov. 22. — The University of Chicago eleven by a desperate fight kept its 1924 record free of defeat, although held to a scoreless tie by a highly keyed up Wisconsin team. The result gave the Maroons the championship of the big ten. Wisconsin won what its supporters considered a moral victory, stopping the Chicago attack and uncovering formations that sparkled with fake punts and forward pass formations from which the ball was run, thrown or kicked to the frequent confusion of the Chicago defense.

The champions had a real chance to score only once and that came early in the third period when Harry Thomas recovered a Wisconsin fumble on the Badgers' 16-yard mark. But at that stage the Chicago attack went wrong and the Maroons lost the ball on downs.

Illini Vanquished Ohio State, 7-0

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 22.—With "Red" Grange sitting on the sidelines nursing his dislocated shoulder, Illinois convinced its admirers that it was not entirely a one-man team today by vanquishing Ohio State, 7 to 0, in the final game of the western conference championship season.

The Illini crashed over with a touchdown in the first period with Ray Gallivan, a sophomore quarterback, carrying the ball.

Varsity Eleven Optimistic Over Coming A&M Tilt

Longhorns Prepared To Play Game Of Lives

AUSTIN, Nov. 22. — Inspiration drawn from the crowd of 35,000, the largest crowd to witness a gridiron struggle in the south, and from the fact that the Longhorns will be formally dedicating the varsity memorial stadium, will make the Texas university eleven formidable antagonists for the Texas Aggies Thanksgiving day, in the opinion of Coach E. J. Stewart.

The cheerfulness of the coach has been transmitted to his players and to the student body; and, whereas following the decisive defeat handed Texas by the Baylor Bears the Longhorns were conceded no chance to win over the Aggies, the feeling now prevails that Coach Stewart's men will play the game of their lives against the Aggies.

Texas grid performers went through a spirited workout this afternoon on the stadium gridiron. Indications are that the Longhorns will be able to place close to their strongest combination against the farmers. Coach Stewart has hinted he will start about the following lineup:

Ends, Allen and Penney; tackles, Pfannkuche and Sprague; guards, Berry and Dayvault; center, Thompson; quarter back, Wright; half backs, Slover and Foster; full back, Captain Marley.

Most of the local grid followers are satisfied that Baylor will have a clear claim to the southwest conference championship after this Turkey day game against the Rice Owls at Houston. Texas university athletic authorities have indicated clearly they will vote to award the championship to Baylor in the event the Bears triumph over the Owls, even though the S. M. U. Mustangs should defeat the Oklahoma Aggies Thanksgiving day. They point out that Baylor, with four conference victories and one tie, would have a much stronger claim to the championship than the Mustangs with three conference victories and three ties.

Oklahoma Aggies Defeat Arkansas

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 22.—Arkansas university's eleven was eliminated as a championship contender in the southwestern conference today when it lost to the Oklahoma Aggies, 20 to 0.

The victory avenged the 13-0 defeat the Aggies suffered at the hands of the Razorbacks last Thanksgiving day.

The Aggies scored first in the second period. Mason, Walker and G. Lookabaugh carried the ball from mid-field to the 16-yard line. Lookabaugh passed to Mitchell who dropped the ball a moment later when tackled by Berry. Conner of the Aggies fell on the ball as it bounded over the goal line. Walker kicked goal.

The touchdown was repeated in the third period. Boazman kicked off for Arkansas. Because of a rush by Morrison, Boazman booted straight up, as the ball came down, G. Lookabaugh, traveling at full speed, snatched it and raced 50 yards down the side line. Walker again kicked goal.

The third touchdown also came as the result of a fooled kick. Captain Wahl of the Aggies smothered a punt attempted by Bagby. E. M. Lookabaugh, Aggie center, fell on the ball on the visitors' 12-yard line. A pass, Peery to Mason, put the ball across. Walker missed goal.

Oak Cliff Stops Sherman, 21-10

DALLAS, Nov. 22.—Oak Cliff high school of Dallas defeated the Sherman high school eleven, 21 to 10, in a hard fought game here today that was thrilling throughout.

Neither team was able to score in the first period. In the second period Oak Cliff made the first touchdown after kicking the ball to Sherman's 35-yard line followed by a pass which carried the ball over the Leopard's line. Neither team could score in the third period, but as it ended Sherman had placed the ball on Oak Cliff's 10-yard line. Both teams made points in the last period. Oak Cliff made two touchdowns and added two points by kicking the goal. Sherman scored with a touchdown and a field goal.

Lynch, Hopper, Lumpkin and Allen were the outstanding players for Oak Cliff, while Hume, Welch, Tackett and Lasiter starred for Sherman.

Players Opposed To Raising Limit Of Club Rosters

Athletes Too Much At Mercy of Owners, Belief

By GEORGE CHADWICK
Special Correspondent of Record News
Copyright 1924 by the Consolidated Press Association.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22. — Bitter opposition has developed among ball players to the proposal put forward by the New York Americans for consideration at the major league meetings in December, that the player limit be extended to 50 players, instead of 40, in the spring season and also in the fall season.

Youngsters Stand No Chance.

The ball players contend that with such a surplus of players a youngster taken in by a major league club can be used in two successive years to pay up baseball debts. He may be good for something, but he may not get a chance to show what he can do. The same thing can happen now with the player limit at 40, but if the limit goes up to 50, the players say 25 players will be at the mercy of every major league club, to be sent here and there and never to have any settled baseball future until they have been at least two years at the disposal of a big league club.

The player limit has been a matter of controversy for some time. There are some who think that the greater the number of players under control of the major clubs the less chance that the majors have of failing for lack of reserve strength.

Cause Loose Management.

Others hold exactly the contrary. They argue that the adding of players to those already under the jurisdiction of the major league clubs simply adds to the looseness of management and the growing disposition to guess upon the constant placing of players on the field, rather than to develop them and increase their efficiency so they may be relied upon.

The old guard of baseball almost without exception declares that the game would be better played and more acceptable to the spectators if the player limit was not to exceed 25 the year round.

The newer element in baseball, and that element which is both old and new and which holds to the theory that the game has become a show business is for the control of all the players possible in order that the younger men may be used for trading purposes or be developed into regulars as the manager sees fit. It is evident that only a part of a squad of forty or fifty men can be used in a championship race, if a manager wishes to be successful so there must be a certain proportion that never will get much benefit because they happen to be connected for the time being with a major league club. Fifty per cent probably will go over board annually.

ARMY CAPTURES CUP.

Coolidge Trophy Goes to Doughboy Football Victors.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The president's cup, recently put up by President Coolidge for the football championship of the enlisted men of the army and the navy, went to the army today when the all-infanter team at Fort Benning, Ga., defeated the eleven of the Atlantic scouting fleet here, 12 to 6. The cup will be fought for annually by the football teams of the two branches of the fighting service.

Vernon Moleskinners Plunge to Grid Championship of North Texas

Lions Run Over Pampa Machine By 39-0 Score

Ryan And Williams Gain Nearly At Will Through Harvesters

GILHAUSEN RUNS WILD

Victors Probably Tangle With Dallas-Highland Park Winners

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Nov. 22.—Vernon high school, victor over Pampa this afternoon and thereby bi-champions of north Texas in the University of Texas interscholastic league football race, probably will play the winner of the Oak Cliff-Highland Park game scheduled early next week, according to Roy B. Henderson, league secretary here tonight. It is impossible to tell definitely at this time just what team Vernon will be pitted against next, said Henderson.

VERNON, Tex., Nov. 22.—Vernon's championship aspiring Lions tore into Pampa this afternoon wit h a vengeance, and flashing a brilliant running and plunging attack which coult not be stopped, decisively drubbed the Harvesters by a 39 to 0 score.

Gilhausen and Ryan gained almost at will through and around the Pampa forwards. Williams, at right half, gathered quite a bit of territory for the victorious Lions, also. But Gilhausen, with a number of brilliant dashes, was easily the outstanding player in the game.

Vernon started with a rush in the opening period and was never headed off by the desperately battling Pampa stalwarts. The Harvesters received the initial kick-off and punted right back again. The Lions broke through to within three yards of the goal on a series of plunges and end runs, but fumbled in the shadow of the goal. Pampa punted again and Williams returned ten yards from the 30-yard line. Walker was thrown for a loss, and then a try was made for goal from the field. The kick failed, but Vernon recovered the ball on Pampa's 20-yard line. From there plunges off tackle by Walker and Gilhausen put the oval across for the first touchdown. Ryan kicked for the extra point.

Pass Nets Touchdown.

The second touchdown came in the second quarter on a pretty pass, Walker to Gilhausen. After a bit of seesaw play and exchange of punts Vernon was downed with the ball on its own 41-yard line. The Lions were penalized on the first play from scrimmage for offside. Walker then received and hurled the pigskin 30 yards into the waiting arms of Gilhausen who raced the remaining distance to the goal line. Try for goal after touchdown failed. This brought the score up to 13 to 0 Vernon.

The remainder of the first half was scoreless, but the Lions ran rampant in the third quarter, getting away for a trio of touchdowns. Vernon stopped by the stiffening Pampa line, and forced to punt. Pampa kicked back from its 15-yard line to Ryan who returned five. Gilhausen then slipped around the Harvesters' right wing for 15 yards, and was downed on Pampa's 20-yard line. A series of plunges abetted by a five-yard penalty for offside put the ball three yards from the goal from where Ryan broke over for the touchdown. Attempted goal from placement was blocked when half the Pampa line shifted through.

Score on Fumbles.

Pampa received the the kick-off on its ten-yard line, and ran it back ten yards more and then fumbled. Robinson of Vernon recovered the ball. Two plunges and then a run by Williams for ten yards put the oval five yards from the goal. Ryan broke through the line for the touchdown. Try for goal failed, bringing the score to 25 to 0 Vernon.

Vernon's next score came as result of a rapid march from Pampa's 45-yard line. Williams ran around Pampa's left terminal 25 yards. On the next play Vernon was penalized for offside. Plunges by Ryan, Williams and Gilhausen put the ball over with Gilhausen tabulating the marker. Ryan booted goal from placement. Score 32 to 0 Vernon.

The final Vernon touchdown came in the middle of the fourth quarter when Cooper recovered a Pampa fumble on the ten-yard line and ran the remainder of the distance to the goal. Ryan placekicked for the extra point. Score 39 to 0 Vernon.

Shortly before the game ended Pampa got away for its only first down of the contest on a long forward pass, Stewart to Knox, who ran 38 yards after receiving the ball for a gain of 43 yards. The lineups:

Vernon.	Po.	Pampa
Reid	Left tackle	Brown
Robinson	Center	Wilson
Norwood	Right guard	Gampe
Zachary	Right tackle	Barnard
Cooper	Right end	Stone
Ryan	Quarterback	Stewart (c)
Williams	Right half	Phillips
Walker (c)	Fullback	Whatley

Score by quarters:
Vernon 7; 6; 19; 7—39.

ONLY ONE INELIGIBLE

T. I. A. A. Finds Grady of Howard Payne Not Eligible.

ABILENE, Texas, Nov. 22.—Only one football player of the T. I. A. A. has been declared ineligible this season, according to A. E. Chandler of Simmons, president of the organization. That was Fred Grady, who was declared ineligible immediately after the Howard Payne-Centenary contest.

No protest was filed against Grady, President Chandler said, Howard Payne merely presenting the facts in the case and asking him to pass upon it. Grady was a transfer from the University of Pennsylvania and had played on the freshman team there. He had played in part of only two games at Howard Payne this season.

ALL AMERICAN FOOTBALL ELEVEN

Center—Gaston B. Means. Especially good at charging; some of his charges made the whole country sit up and take notice last season.

Right guard—Head of the board of censors; breaks up more good plays than any other man in the country.

Right tackle—Theodore Roosevelt, Jr. Seems to be willing to tackle anything.

Right end—Senator LaFollette. Has proven his ability to lead the interference.

Quarterback—Traffic cop of the city of Venice, Italy. Lots of experience in handling punts.

Right halfback—Harry M. Daugherty. Good at passing; especially at passing the buck.

Left halfback—Mickey Walker. His ability to straight-arm an opponent gives him the place.

Fullback—Gov. Al Smith of New York. Experienced at running in a wet field.

Roper May Not Quit Princeton As Grid Coach

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 20.—Bill Roper has changed his mind—at least, he isn't so definite as he was a year ago that the 1924 football season would be his last as head coach of the Princeton team.

After seeing his Orange and Black eleven go down before the plunging Blue machine in Palmer Stadium, Roper said that he was undecided whether he would be back to guide the Princeton destinies again in 1925 or not.

"First of all, I don't know whether they will want me," he said, "and if they do I am not decided. I announced last year that this would be my last season here, but since then I have given the matter little thought, and much will depend on the future. I may be back if they want me, and then again I may be unable to return because of business reasons.

"As to the game, of course I don't like to be beaten by any team, but it was a good Yale team that won Saturday and there is nothing for Princeton to be ashamed of. I don't believe that Yale had as many brilliant individuals as it did a year ago, but it was a good, strong team nevertheless. Princeton's defense was strong, but the offense could get nowhere against Yale."

And then he added the line that he always speaks after a game, no matter what the score—"The result speaks for itself."

Roper appeared disappointed but not downcast. He smiled in the face of disaster just as he smiled a week ago when his efforts had been rewarded with victory. He takes the games as they come, worrying, perhaps, beforehand, but smiling, always smiling, afterward.

The Princeton players, learning from their master, also smiled in the face of defeat, but their smiles were not as convincing as that of their coach. For they are still young, and youth takes defeat hard.

Ten wearers of the Orange and Black played their last game for Princeton. Those who will be lost by the Princeton squad through graduation next June and who performed Saturday are: Captain Buzz Stout, end; Ralph Hills, guard; R. B. Dinsmore, quarterback; S. J. Legendre, end; W. S. Henderson, halfback; T. W. Drews, tackle; A. F. Haward, guard; R. W. Brattle, tackle; C. W. Caldwell, Jr., back, and S. M. Tillson, end.

Four other members of the squad will be lost by graduation, although they were not used in Saturday's game. They are Shackleford, Hull, Meland and Barry.

Municipal Club Shows Profit

The Wichita Falls Municipal golf club is more than holding its own in a financial way report by W. E. McBroom, city clerk, shows. In fact the organization is working at a profit, and has not been forced to draw on the city for funds. It is estimated that for 1924 the club will be enabled to produce $1,000 profit.

Four-thousand golfers have used the course since January 1, 12,000 matches in ten months for an average of three games per person. This is an increase of 25 per cent over 1923 to show at present a surplus in the vicinity of $500 over all expenses.

The Report.

Revenue:
Greens fees paid by members	$1,655.75
Green fees paid by non-members	2,421.35
Total revenue received by city	$4,077.10
Expense:
Labor	$1,968.00
Oil, sand and greens supplies	286.32
Miscellaneous, supplies and material	630.78
Feed for team	300.00
Office supplies	32.54
Total expense	$3,217.64
Surplus from operation	$ 859.46

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—Ed Garvey, the former Notre Dame football star who gave up an established law practice to try his hand at the boxing game got away to a poor start in his initial attempt to reach the goal that means millions to a pugilist — the world's heavyweight championship crown.

The fact is that Garvey's football reputation has done him a great deal of harm. His type is a rarity in the boxing game and he was, as a consequence, heralded altogether too deliriously for his own good. Far better for him had he come out of the wilds as an unknown; for then, with little expected of him his natural ability would have been credited for what it worth and more time given him development.

As it was Garvey went into action knowing he was expected to produce like a champion and in trying to live up to the nice things predicted about him he did not show as well as he otherwise might have done.

Just a Novice.

Garvey should keep firmly in mind that in the ring game he stands in about the same position as a high school player shoved into a varsity line-up and asked to cope with seasoned players. In other words, he has got to take his time and proceed carefully.

As it happened in the heavyweight show at which he appeared in the garden the other night, Garvey's opponent was more crude than Garvey was. This was fortunate for the former football star. As it was in his over anxiety to show at his best and put over a finishing punch in jig time, he detracted from his real ability.

The up and up on Garvey is this: With proper schooling and the edge of newness worn off he looks like a good prospect. He has a world of speed in his solid under-pinnings; he has a first rate idea of the value of a left hand jab, and he packs a punch in his right hand.

When Garvey learns how to walk into his opponent with a proper defense and forgets the fulsome praise written about him he will go far in his chosen profession—unless he gets mixed up with some of the wrong characters in the game and self respect compels him to give it all up as something he does not care to touch.

Champ May Battle.

It might not be surprising if Jack Dempsey were asked to go out to San Francisco—where he got his start—and inaugurate the new boxing activities in that city. There is talk all over California of Dempsey visiting some particular spot, but if there is any such a thing as gratitude in the soul of a boxer Dempsey will yield to the desires of Tommy Simpson, the Oakland promoter, the man who gave the champion his first chance.

Dempsey would have come at a reasonable price, but with an apponent promising no great difficulty for him friends of Simpson feel he could induce the titleholder to show in the city across the bay.

As things stand at present the nearest approach to a Christmas holiday match is announced by Simpson, who is angling for a ten-round bout between Jimmy Duffy (Hyman Gold of Oakland) and Lew Tendler. Tendler and others have always claimed that Gold quit on a foul when the two met in New York. But the Californian denies that and wants a chance to show that Tendler is the last fighter who can make him quit.

KIERSEY VICTORY IN FOURTH FLIGHT FINAL

Charles Keirsey of the Municipal Golf club defeated T. T. Reese of the Country club Saturday in the final round of the fourth flight in the first annual all-city golf tournament, 4 and 2. This match winds up the play in the tournament, but officials of both clubs are planning various and other forms of competition for the winter.

The championship of the tournament was won by Morris Norton two weeks ago.

No Liquid Pep At A&M-Texas Game

AUSTIN, Nov. 22.—The enthusiasm at the A. & M. Texas Thanksgiving game, when the Texas memorial stadium will be dedicated, will be football enthusiasm, and not liquor hilarity. University authorities have arranged with Adjutant General T. D. Barton for a group of rangers to be stationed at the stadium, to exclude every person intoxicated, or showing the effect of liquor. When the crowd has been seated, the rangers will mingle with the spectators, and eject from the stadium any person who is "obstreperous," boistrous or drunk.

Londos Downs Burt Willoughby

BURKBURNETT, Nov. 22.—Billy Londos, 147-pound wrestler of Burkburnett, displayed the cleverest grappling ever witnessed in this section last night when he beat Burt Willoughby, 145-pounds, of Dallas, in straight falls. The first fall came after 25 minutes and ten seconds of wrestling, the second in 12 minutes and 15 seconds.

This was the first of a series of wrestling and boxing programs to be staged by the Burkburnett American

Firpo Like Ship Without Rudder, Avers Edgren

By ROBERT EDGREN.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Luis Firpo is like a ship without a rudder. The Argentine is anxious to regain lost prestige, but doesn't know just how to go about it. He is merely floundering from one poor match to another. What Firpo needs is competent handling. Luis thinks he can manage himself. But Nelson thought that way for a time, but discovered he couldn't successfully be both fighter and manager.

Almost from the first day he arrived Firpo has been chary of American managers. Perhaps the South American giant was scared by the flock of nimble gentleman who greeted him on the pier and wanted to manage his affairs for a paltry consideration—50 per cent of the earnings.

Doubts Tex Now.

The South American didn't take kindly to our method of doing business and didn't enthuse much more over the Yankee idea of training. Jimmy DeForest did his best for a time but Firpo insisted on eating whenever and whatever he liked and Jimmy was not re-engaged.

Tex Rickard was one of the few the Argentine listened to. But even Tex began to lose influence with the South American. The rift between the two became quite noticeable after Firpo lost to Harry Wills in Jersey City.

This was a critical time for Luis. He wanted to fight his way back into popular favor, but didn't know just how to go about it and was too proud to ask. A word from Rickard would have been invaluable, but Luis insisted on doing his own match making and a bout was finally arranged with Charlie Weinert. It is my belief that Tex cautioned against a bout with Weinert, but Firpo refused to heed the tip.

Sad Figure.

The Wild Bull evidently figured he had already defeated Weinert and a second bout ought to be easier than the first. Luis miscued as badly as the young man who tried to push back the ocean tides. He caught Weinert in one of his occasional flashes of real form and Charlie took seven of the 12 rounds.

Now the Argentine is rather a sad figure. He must start all over again and without competent handling the South American will probably encounter some more unexpected upsets.

Aggies Hard At It Preparing For Longhorn Clash

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 22.—The Aggies are priming themselves for the grand finale of the football season which they will celebrate in their annual Thanksgiving class with the Longhorns on Clark field Thursday, November 27. It is not only the outstanding event of the football season but the ultimate in all the athletic relations of the Aggies in their entire academic year.

Secret Practice.

While the yell leaders work with the student body Head Coach D. X. Bible, Line Coach Claude Rothgeb, and Assistant Coaches Frank Anderson and John Pierce have the football team under tutelage on Kyle Field behind closed gates from 4 o'clock in the afternoon to 6 o'clock at night. While little is known of the form of this practice there is evidence that it is strenuous and concentrated upon certain points. The reserves have been dismissed and have turned in their uniforms and the freshmen have the exclusive privilege of taking the position of defenders against the offending varsity teams.

Four Special Trains.

Four special trains will take most of the student body of the college and officials to Austin for the game. The trains will leave here at 6:30 in the morning and arrive in Austin about 11 o'clock. For the first time the cadet corps of the college will parade before the game. Immediately after they detrain they will form in military order and march in company front up Congress avenue led by the Aggie band.

For the first time in the late history of this memorable game there are still available plenty of tickets in the main grandstand one week in advance of the date. This is true because of the mammoth stadium which is being completed by the university.

Simpson And Monte Win Out

AMARILLO, Nov. 22. — Johnny Simpson of San Antonio, knocked out Speedy Snow of California, here in the sixth round of a scheduled 10-round bout last night. Harry Durbin, also of San Antonio, lost to Wildcat Monte of Amarillo in the third round of a scheduled 8-rounder. Both boxers went to the floor once before the kayo, each taking a count of nine.

CANDY KID WINS

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 22.—Candy Kid, owned by H. P. Whitney, running the futurity course in the mud, won the Breeders' Futurity of the Kentucky association here today with $5,000 added. H. P. Headley's Almadet was second and Anderson and Kendle's Annihilator third. The time was 1:12 1-5. The futurity was worth approximately $25,000

Trammel Leads Legion Fisticuff Card This Week

Double Windup Features With Simpson And Guest Billed

Many Wichita Falls fight fans have called for a match between Duke Trammel, Fort Worth slugger, and Johnny Simpson of San Antonio. With this the ultimate object in view the American legion has arranged an elimination program for Thursday night. Sid Young of Tulsa will meet Trammel and Jimmy Guest of Houston has been billed with Simpson. Both matches are to be over the ten-pound route. It is understood that the winners of the two bouts will be matched posibly next week or at a later date. Should both Trammel and Simpson be returned victors they will have automatically lined themselves up for a clash.

All the principals of the double windup are well known to local fandom with exception of Young. This lad comes, however, rated as a good boy, and one who should force Trammel to the limit.

Cop Bentley of Electra is slated to meet Earl Griffin of Wichita Falls in a four-rounder. There is to be an added attraction in the form of a darktown battle royal.

16 Clubs Remain In Interscholastic League Scramble

AUSTIN, Nov. 22.—Sixteen high school teams remain in the running for the interscholastic league football championship of Texas as the result of games played today. These 16 are:

Vernon, Oak Cliff (Dallas), Highland Park (Dallas), Marshall, Humble, Jasper, Clebume, Lampasas, Cisco, Stephenville, Waco, Temple, Sabinal, Beaumont, Robstown, and Belton.

The final championship game will be played December 20.

At the start of the season there were 316 teams contending. The first games were played the last Saturday in September.

According to Roy Henderson of the University of Texas, interscholastic league manager, this has been one of the most successful seasons since the football contests were started, four years ago.

Abilene won the championship last year, defeating Waco for the finals. Abilene was defeated by Cisco early in the season.

The competition from now on is expected to be very keen, according to Henderson, as there are more good teams in the race than ever before. Every game until the end will be a banner attraction of championship calibre, he said.

This is the first year the schools have been divided into two classes for competition and it has proved satisfactory to the large as well as the small schools. The large schools of 350 pupils or over were put in class A and the smaller schools in class B.

The two classes have now merged and are contending for a single championship.

Scores of today's games follow: Big Springs 50, Sweetwater 0; Oak Cliff 21, Sherman 10; Waco 24, Marlin 0; Cameron 72, Georgetown 0; Belton 7, Caldwell 0; Brownwood 27, Coleman 0; Clifton 20, Hamilton 0; Commerce 22, Greenville 7; LaGrange 21, Hallettsville 0; Donna 0, Weslaco 0; Vernon 39, Pampa 0.

Notre Dame Wins By Only 7 Points

GRANT PARK STADIUM, CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Entering the game an overwhelming favorite, Notre Dame university football team met a worthy foe in Northwestern university's eleven and won their game 13 to 6. Coach Rockne's famous back field did not have things its own way and was stopped or held to small gains.

Ralph Baker stopped the visitor's attack almost single handed. His punts outdistanced those by Layden of Notre Dame by fully 20 yards and he threaded his way through the opposing line for substantial gains that averaged 15 to 20 yards.

Stuhldreher and Layden scored Notre Dame's two touchdowns, both of which resulted from forward pass plays. Layden made a sensational dash for the goal line in the third quarter when he intercepted a pass on the 40-yard line.

Baker scored all of Northwestern's tallies.

It was Notre Dame's forward passing that gained the most downs. The game was played on a muddy field.

Loyola Loses To Georgetown

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 22.—Scoring three touchdowns in the last half Georgetown university of Washington, defeated Loyola here today, 25 to 0, in the first inter-sectional contest. The Wolves played a great defensive game in the first half, holding Georgetown safe in the first period, but the Hill Toppers came back strong, scoring a touchdown in the second period, adding the second in the third with an added point, and registering two more in the final quarter.

Loyola resorted to punting after they were unable either to hold or gain against the Hill Toppers' superior line. Winding was the individual star, his toe being responsible for Georgetown's failure to amass a larger score. After the initial period Loyola was outclassed on both the offensive and defensive. The Georgetown backs dashed around the end and crashed through the Loyola line for gain after gain and incidentally registered fourteen first downs, eleven of which came in the last ha

RICE FROSH BEAT WEST TEXAS 111-0

HOUSTON, Nov. 22. — The powerful Rice freshmen established what is believed to be a season's record for Texas when they defeated West Texas Military academy of San Antonio, 111 to 0, here this afternoon. The Green Owls were using their lateral passes with great effect.

Comparing Ty And Babe An Interesting Task

Cobb's 5 Best Years Show He Beat Ruth Over Bam's Last 5

Babe Ruth will be officially crowned the American league batting champion when the league averages are announced in a few weeks. Although Ruth has been recognized as the greatest slugger of all time, it was not until this season that he was able to capture the batting crown.

In 1923, Ruth tried hard, but near the finish of the race, Harry Heilmann, who was trailing not very far behind, passed him and finished ten points in the lead.

This year Ruth set out to win the batting championship. He started the season with that end in view. Before, he had always tried to knock the ball out of the lot; this year he varied his efforts. Most of the time he tried to hit the ball through, rather than over the infield. When he had the infielders playing well back he took advantage of the situation often and bunted.

Pitching to Ruth has been the most difficut problem of American league pitchers for five years. He is the most powerful threat in baseball, the greatest weapon on attack. Ruth, in the language of the sport, has them coming and going. Until this year he did not take full advantage of the fact.

Babe Won't Stay "Put."

No team has successfully combatted Ruth at bat. He may be stopped for awhile since he goes into slumps probably oftener than the average player, but sooner or later "the Ruth crushed to earth will rise again."

Pitchers claimed to have found a delivery that stops Ruth. Sometimes it did, but not for long. Sooner or later, Ruth solved it.

Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland Americans, and who was for several years a teammate of Ruth, says:

"Ruth will hit any ball that he can see. That is certain. Then the only way to pitch to him is to feed him the kind of ball he is least likely to see and that is a ball pitched over the inside corner of the plate just above the knees. Sooner or later, he will see that delivery, but it is the one he is least likely to see."

Cobb of Different Type.

Comparing Ruth and Cobb is a popular pastime. There probably never were two players in the big leagues who less resembled one another in type than Cobb and Ruth. Cobb was never the slugger that Ruth is and Ruth was never the scientific batter and base runner that Cobb was. As far as hitting is concerned you can compare the best consecutive five seasons from the record of each player:

TY COBB.

Year.	AB.	R.	H.	SB.	Pct.
1910	590	106	196	65	.385
1911	591	147	248	83	.420
1912	553	119	227	61	.419
1913	428	70	167	52	.390
1914	345	69	127	35	.368
Totals	2,426	511	965	296	.395

BABE RUTH.

Year.	AB.	R.	H.	HR.	Pct.
1920	458	158	172	54	.376
1921	540	177	204	59	.378
1922	406	94	128	35	.315
1923	522	151	205	41	.393
1924	528	143	200	46	.379
Totals	2,454	723	909	235	.368

In batting, Cobb is 27 points ahead of Ruth, comparing them on the best consecutive five seasons of their careers. Cobb is considered as a base runner and Ruth is not, while Ruth's home run record is included and Cobb's is ignored. Ruth never stole more than 17 bases in a season and Cobb never made more than 12 home runs in a year.

Cobb stole 32 bases last season and that is his best record since 1921, when he stole the same number.

Austin College Tames Tulsa

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 22.—Tulsa university Golden Hurricane was tempered here today by the Austin college Kangaroos. A touchdown and field goal accounted for nine points for Austin. Tulsa failed to score.

Austin attempted three passes and completed one; Tulsa completed two but three attempts were intercepted by the Kangaroos. The locals were badly crippled at the close of the game. Austin used many substitutes but no players were removed because of injuries. Tulsa made nine first downs to the visitors' six.

On three occasions, Austin's goal was menaced and each time a fumble put the ball in the defenders' hands. Smith, Austin end, recovered the ball on a Tulsa fumble and ran 80 yards for a touchdown. Cooper, Austin half back, kicked a field goal from the 43-yard line.

LONGHORN SETS RECORD IN CROSS COUNTRY VICTORY

AUSTIN, Nov. 22.—Esquival of Texas university set a new conference record on the cross country run here this afternoon when he beat Royal of Texas A. & M. by a few inches, finishing the four-miles in 19 minutes, 57 1-2 seconds. The previous record was 20 minutes, 47 seconds. Texas won first place, A. & M. second, Oklahoma A. & M. third, S. M. U., fourth and Rice fifth.

Colorado Geats Aggies.

BOULDER, Colo., Nov. 22.—The University of Colorado smothered Colorado Agricultural college here today, 36 to 0, and won its second successive Rocky Mountain conference football championship. The Aggies held Colorado to a touchdown and two drop kicks in the first half, but their defense crumbled in the final period and Colorado backs gained at will.

Southwest Conference Winds Up Grid Season With Turkey Day Clashes

Title Hinges On Play of S.M.U. And Bear Club

Both Baylor and Mustangs Enter Final Games Undefeated

TEXAS BATTLES A.&M.

Greatest Interest Centers Steers' Fight With Ancient Rival

The Southwest conference turns into the final contests of the current season Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, when all eight elevens of the organization clash in games, two of which will decide the conference championship for 1924.

There was but one conference tilt the past week, that of the Arkansas Razorbacks with the Oklahoma Aggies Saturday which had no bearing on the championship marathon. The Baylor Bears, already claimants of the title played St. Edwards Friday in Waco, a non-conference affair, and a conditioner for the Bruins.

The spotlight as far as conference honors are concerned turns Thursday to Houston and Dallas where the two championship aspiring elevens grapple in the final titular tests. The undefeated Southern Methodist university Mustangs battle the Oklahoma Aggies in Dallas, and the equally unbeaten Baylor aggregation squares off with the Rice Owls.

Tough Games For Title Teams.

Should the Bears and Mustangs survive these final games the championship should automatically go to Baylor, although Baylor and S. M. U. battled to a 7-7 draw in Dallas Saturday before last. This, however, is the only tie besmirking the Baylor record whereas S. M. U. broke even with Texas A. & M. and Arkansas university beside the tie with Baylor. In the season of 1923 the championship was awarded the undefeated Mustangs because they had played through and won against a stiffer conference schedule although Texas university was also unbeaten in or out of the conference but had tied with Baylor.

Both the title aspiring teams may find the going rough for the Oklahoma club and the Owls stack up as rather mean opponents for any conference team to go against. The rest of the conference is out of the running unless by some unheralded slip-up on the dope both the Bears and Mustangs should happen to be turned back. In that case there will be four teams, should A. & M. beat Texas, with one loss each registered against them, but the Bears on a percentage basis still would be the doubtful champs.

Interest Centers On Austin.

Although the title hinges on these two games real football interest of Texas centers on Austin and the varsity stadium where Texas university and the Texas Aggies hook up in their annual classic. The Longhorns are rated by far the underdogs in this game, but statistics have shown themselves to mean absolutely nothing in contests of other years when these two ancient and bitter rivals came together.

Plans are underway down at Austin to receive the greatest crowd of football enthusiasts to ever attend a Texas grid tilt. All the old grads and ex-students are making arrangements to be on hand. And doubtless there will be no harder fought game that day anywhere over the nation.

Doc Stewart has had his Orange and White squad working behind closed gates the past week, and this will continue right up to the hour of the game. In that span of days many things can happen to put Texas university on a par with the now highly touted A. & M. gridsters.

Down at College Station Dana X. Bible, long called the wizard of southwest conference football, is rushing his red jersied athletes of A. & M. through the same process and behind barred doors, also.

Dope points to A. & M. as the probable victor, but when the referee's strating whistle is tooted doubtless all pre-game calculations will again be smashed to wee fragments as has been the wont of these two teams year in and year out. A close score with either team on the upper end is about the best prognostication the wiseacres can make until the game is over and the curtains have been drawn on another mighty A. & M.-Texas struggle.

WHERE IS DOLAN'S SUIT?

Cozy Has Left His New York Apartment, But No Forwarding Address.

If Attorney William J. Fallon intends to bring action against Commissioner Landis, Ban Johnson and John A. Heydler, constituting the Advisory Council of the American and National leagues, in behalf of Cozy Dolan, late coach of the New York Giants, for damages to reputation and a share in the recent World's series moneys, he is becoming decidedly tardy.

Fallon threatened three weeks ago, that he would "put Landis over the jumps." He was appearing, he said, for a man who had been terribly wronged by another man who had exceeded his authority as an "iron ruler" over baseball.

Dolan was brought to the office of Fallon in New York, and told his story of Jimmy O'Connell's confession to 20 or 30 newspaper men. He put over his tale, and his denials were emphatic. Fallon had said before the session started that if Dolan's story was not convincing to the newspaper men's jury he wouldn't take the case. Perhaps it wasn't convincing. For more than three weeks now the public has been waiting for the filing of an action by Fallon asking for at least $100,000 damages in behalf of Dolan from Landis and the other members of the Advisory Council. Ban Johnson, included, although he had nothing to do with it, not that he didn't want to.

And in the meantime, Dolan has disappeared. His apartment at No. 3800 Broadway, New York, is vacant. The furniture has been removed. Mr. and Mrs. Dolan have left for either the south or west, persons in charge of the apartment house are sure. They left no forwarding address for mail. Cozy's home is in Oshkosh, Wis., but telegraphic inquiries failed to locate the Dolans there.

509,000 SEE 14 BIG GAMES

Michigan-Ohio State Contest Drew Largest Football Crowd

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Interest in football throughout the nation is indicated in statistics compiled here tonight, showing that 509,000 spectators viewed the 14 major contests played Saturday.

The Michigan-Ohio State game at Columbus drew the biggest attendance, 68,000 jamming into the Ohio stadium.

The seven leading contests in the east drew 269,000 fans, while the seven leading games in the south, mid-west and west attracted 240,000.

The Yale-Princeton clash topped the eastern attendance with 58,000, and 52,000 saw the Pennsylvania-Penn State game in the rain.

Griff Plans Trade With Browns For Pitcher Shocker

St. Louis Slabman Needed Since Departure Of Johnson

AWAIT BALL MEETING

Washington Mogul Attempts To Get Army-Navy 1925 Game

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 22.—It is now the time of year for claiming the American League pennant, but only two clubs have made their prophecies, and the Washingtons are not one of them, as that is not their long suit.

In strengthening for next year, the Senators have done at least as well as any other club.

After it was announced that Urban Shocker was on the market, President Griffith was asked if he would make an offer for him. Griff said he would see Manager Sisler at the league meeting and might make a bid for the player if the price was not too high.

Since Walter Johnson has gone through with the purchase of the Oakland club, Shocker would be a mighty handy piece of baseball equipment to have around. When Fielder Jones was manager of the Browns he told the writer that Shocker showed him more than any pitcher he ever saw. Fielder was always a little inclined to see his own star through a magnifying glass and his opponents' through a microscope, but his views on any baseball proposition carry great weight, and don't forget that he managed a team that had Ed Walsh, Nick Altrock, Doc White and Frank Smith on its pitching staff.

Shocker would fit in well — and where wouldn't he, for that matter? A change of scene that was agreeable to him would enable him to equal or approximate his best previous work.

Well Taken Care Of.

There has been considerable fuss in ill-informed quarters about an alleged clash between President Griffith and Manager Harris about the latter's salary for 1925. There was never the slightest ground for such a report.

Harris signed a two-year contract last spring. If anybody ever knew just how much it called for he has not told. President Griffith once told the writer that Harris was one of his high-priced players and that he had nearly doubled his salary when he made him team pilot. The guess, based on this, was that Bucky was getting $15,000, a good salary for an experimental pilot.

When Stanley called Griff's attention to the fact that his achievements entitled him to more money in spite of his holdover contract, Griffith was quick to see the point, and if the raise was to $18,000, which figure was mentioned in one of the phony stories, Harris is certainly getting no more than is coming to him.

Griff is proud of his young manager, whom he has been training for the position for years, and the relations of the two are more like those of father and son than those that usually exist between associates in sport or business. The new contract for 1925 was signed soon after the world's series, and before the reports of friction started, and the fairy tales made no hit with the manager of the world's champions.

Wants to Keep Park Busy.

President Griffith is busy just now trying to get the football game between the N. S. Naval Academy and U. S. Military Academy for Washington in 1925. That may seem to be looking far ahead, but it is a question that probably will be settled soon. Griff would like to get the big Army-Navy event every other year. There are many who argue that the game should be played at the National Capital every year.

Griffith has promised to increase the seating capacity of his stadium to at least 60,000 if he can get the Army-Navy game. This is certainly the logical place for it in the years when Navy has the choice of the location. Baltimore is the only other available city near Annapolis, and more than 100 midshipmen live in Washington, as compared with very few in the Maryland metropolis, besides which this is Army and Navy headquarters. The chances are that Griff will land this plum soon, and not improbably next year.

Work is now being started on the double decking of the right field pavillion at Griffith Stadium. This, it is claimed, will increase the seating accommodations by 2,500, which would give the park an honest-to-goodness capacity of 33,000, exclusive of temporary seats. The number is sometimes stated much higher, but this is about right. It is believed that the improvement will make the local plant the largest except the two in New York and Braves Field in Boston.

BEANS COST $4,000

NEW YORK, Nov. —A plate of beef and beans cost Isidore Personick $4,000 today. Personick, a jeweler, placed a suitcase containing jewelry valued at $40,000, beside him in a restaurant and devoted his attention to the beans. His appetite was so good that the jewelry faded from his thoughts until the beans were nearly consumed. Then he reached mechanically for the bag, as if to reassure himself.

It was missing. No one has succeeded in tracing the grip or its contents.

Grimes Believes Player Who Delivers Deserves Increase

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Nov. 22.—While it is still a long time before spring, there is some fear in the air that the Brooklyn club will encounter some difficulty signing two of its star pitchers for the 1925 campaign. Neither Arthur (Dazzy) Vance, premier hurler of the National league, nor Burleigh Grimes, has appended his signature to a Brooklyn document and this has caused much uneasiness here. It is not that they fear he will not be in line when the players assemble for training at Clearwater next spring, but because they want to know all is well between the star flinger and the owners of the Dodgers.

This is the first time since he became a member of the club that Vance was not under contract before he left for his home after the season ended. He was satisfied with the terms offered him when he joined the Dodgers in 1922 after he made a good showing with the New Orleans club.

A few days before the 1922 campaign came to a finish, Charley Ebbets, president and part owner of the Brooklyn club, called the big blond right-hander into his private office at Ebbets Field and tendered him a contract. Vance gazed immediately at the figure. He considered it a reasonable one and he signed without hesitation. He was one of the first to report at the training camp in the spring of 1923.

But Not So This Fall.

So well did Dazzy perform in 1923 that the same procedure as in the previous year was taken by Ebbets. In the last week of the 1923 campaign Vance was again offered a contract and once more he signed without any difficulty. The amount was a good one and as he said he saw no reason why he should object.

But this time it is different. Whether Vance was called into the private chamber of Colonel Ebbets a few days before the season ended and was offered a contract is not known. There have been some rumors to the effect that this was done, but that the contract was not one that Vance liked.

There is no doubt everything will be straightened out. The Dodgers could hardly get anywhere without the services of a pitcher for whom any club would be willing to pay $150,000. Vance is worth all of this. He is the best drawing card the Dodgers have had in years. His fame has created widespread interest throughout the country. His achievement of striking out batters in the fashion he does, has set the nation talking just as much about him as they did when Babe Ruth established his home run record.

Vance is a master in his profession. He had the best season of his major league career during the past campaign. Yet, while he was gaining this distinction, he was learning. He made every game act as sort of a way to educate himself further in the profession he is in. He paid strict attention to the weaknesses of the batters; watched every move of the opposing team, and, in general, he learned something every time he went to the slab.

Has Good "Think Tank."

This experience should be of great benefit to him when the 1925 season begins, he will know better how to pitch to the various batters who gave him any trouble at all in the past. Dazzy does not forget. He is of the type who remembers what kind of a ball a batter can hit and the kind he can't touch. He draws a mental picture of the better and his weakness and keeps this in his mind throughout the idle winter.

There is one way, however, to encourage Vance and this is to have perfect harmony between him and the Ebbets-McKeever forces. As long as there is no trouble getting Dazzy's signature to a contract he can be counted upon to do his utmost. When the time comes for talking real turkey, there is no doubt that Vance's demands, if there is need of them, will be more than lightly considered by the owners of the Dodgers.

As for Grimes, he has always been a chronic late signer. He was one of the first to report last spring at the training camp because he was under contract. He had signed a two-year contract which expired this year. Now will come the difficult part of getting him to attach his John Hancock to another contract. It is agreed that such a task is by no means an easy one.

Grimes had a good year. He had some tough luck at times, but everything considered, he did very good. He is now drawing one of the highest salaries paid by the Brooklyn club. Whether he will be given an increase remains to be seen. There is no doubt that if he is not given a boost, he will bolt.

Sort of Rates Himself.

Burleigh believes in a player receiving justice. If he has a good season, he insists that he should be given more pay the coming season inasmuch as there is no chance for a raise during the campaign. As long as the player does have a good season, Burleigh is correct in this opinion, but it is tough for the owners when the player does not do as well after he gets the increase.

One thing can be said for Grimes, however, and this is that each time he has been given an increase, he has come through with some good performances. He is one of the hardest workers on the club. He was in there fighting from the first day he reported at the training camp until the last game of the season.

Baseball's Greatest Sunfielder Passes As Burns Hits Trail

By NORMAN E. BROWN,

George Burns, veteran outfielder of the Giants and Cinci Reds, probably will be managing a minor league club when the 1925 baseball season whirls around. He has had many flattering offers since he stepped out of big time recently.

When Burns drew his ten-year unconditional release from the Cincinnati Reds this winter there departed from the big show the greatest sunfielder who ever defied Old Sol to pick a baseball out of the clouds.

More than that his departure marked the start down the long trail to the end one of the most popular and gentlemanly ball players the game has known.

Wherefore his passing deserves comment.

He asserted his ability as a sun fielder almost from the day he broke into the lineup of the Giants as a regular in 1913 until he was moved to center field in midseason 1921, at the time Emil Meusel joined the club from the Phillies via the trade route.

The figures aren't available but men who followed the New York team around the circuit the years Burns played the sun garden will tell you that he missed very few through losing them in the sun.

Ask any umpire who ever worked in a game and the umps will tell you that the former Giant star always differentiated between "fight" as a determination to give his all to his team and "fight" as misdirected in tirades of abuse against the officials. Burns never had trouble with the arbiters. Not that he cared little regarding the outcome of decision but he realized the futility of debate and appreciated the efforts of the umps to perform their duties fairly and above board.

George started his baseball career as a catcher with his home town club in Utica, N. Y., in 1909. In the middle of the 1910 campaign he was converted into an outfielder. The following year found him going so good that the Giants bought him.

Burns was not a heavy hitter with Utica. Going up to the big show he still failed to hit at a .300 gait until his second full season, 1914. Twice since then he has hit .300 but his average is around .285, a dangerous and timely hitter.

In the world's series of 1921 against the Yankees he soared to the heights at bat, collecting 11 hits in 33 times at bat in the eight games played.

When Burns was sent by the Giants to Cincinnati with Mike Gonzales and a lump of cash for Heinie Groh in the winter of 1921-22 he was the dean of the New York crew in point of service and his passing drew many kind words from New York writers and fans.

Muddy Ruel Caught In 149 Games Past Season

Gone to join the myth of Santa Claus, is that old notion in baseball that a catcher must have a good deal of relief in his work, that he can't stand up there behind the plate and receive pitching of all the varieties that a twirling staff will toss, day after day. Catchers in these days, judging from the amount of work they do, are expected to be in the game with about as much regularity as an ordinary infielder or outfielder.

Veteran fans will recall, when the rule was adopted that the catcher must stand close behind the plate all through the game, that there was no criticism that no catcher could survive that sort of gaff, that the hospitals would be filled with crippled catchers, careers of backstops would be shortened, and that the clubs to protect themselves would have to carry catching staffs as large as pitching staffs, or near that.

All that has gone to join the increasing store of bunk that "It can't be done." Things that it was positively declared "can't be done" in other days are now done as an ordinary part of life's efforts and if not done the unfortunate who fails in the doing is shunted to the sidelines.

The official record books carry the information that the most games caught in a season are credited to Ray Schalk of the Chicago White Sox. That takes account of major league performances only. The Schalk record is 151 games, caught in the season of 1920. In the National league, George Gibson, then with the Pittsburgh Pirates, caught 150 games in 1909, and 140 of them were in a row.

One Mark Dates to 1888.

There is no record given of the most games caught in a season in the minors. It may have been held by Henry Cote, who is credited with having caught 155 games consecutively in 1888, when playing with the Grand Rapids team of the Interstate league.

"May have been held," let it be noted, for the record, if it was such, for total games caught in a season was tied by Art Koehler of the Sacramento team of the Pacific Coast league in 1923, when he caught 155 games in a schedule that ran over 200 games. With such long season as played in the Coast circuit it may be that some catchers out there have exceeded Koehler's record.

There is a probability that a record that can not be disputed for any league was made the past season by Ernest Krueger of the Indianapolis team of the American Association. The unofficial records credit Krueger with having played in 164 games of the association's 168-game schedule. That he did not actually catch as many as he is credited with playing in is indicated by the fact that his understudy, Miller, is credited with having been in nearly 40 games as pinch hitter or relief catcher.

Whether or not Krueger has made a new record for durability for catchers in a season must wait until the fielding records, game by game, are compiled.

The durability record for continuous seasons, as every well-read fan probably knows, is held by Ray Schalk, who has caught more than fifteen hundred games in the thirteen years he has been with the White Sox, to say nothing of 100 games or so he caught during his three years' stay in the minors before he joined the Chicago team, after having been turned down by the New York Giants as "too delicate" to ever make a big league catcher.

Size Makes No Difference.

Listings of catchers indicate that passing with the idea that catchers can not stand up behind the plate day in and day out also has gone the notion that a catcher must be a big fellow to endure a backstop's work. Many of the catchers whose names will be found in the tabulations below are little fellows comparatively, or at least of what might be called slight build.

Whether a catcher be big or little is a matter that gets no very serious consideration these days from the scout looking for backstop material. The first question asked probably is: "Has he brains?" and the next: "Can he throw?" For these are the essentials most considered in catchers now.

It was back in 1901, that the rule makers decided catchers "Must remain continuously under the bat"—and the wiseacres shook their heads and said, "It can't be done." Since then season upon season has seen catchers in more games, until, as is stated, in 1924, Ernest Krueger probably has set a new record for number of games caught in a season.

Nor for the figures showing what catchers who like hard work, or are forced by circumstances to assume it, did in the past season, as taken from unofficial records. The games given are "games played in," let it be remembered, should approximate closely the games actually caught in whole or in part. Here are the facts:

CARDINAL CAMP QUIET

Reports Still Emanate From Gotham Selling Rogers Hornsby

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 22.—There has been little stirring around the camp of the Cardinals. Branch Rickey is still hearing reports that he is to sell Rogers Hornsby. Most of these emanate from New York and as usual are news to the Cardinal boss.

The reports grow out of the fact that Hornsby's three year contract is up and that he will demand more money than the St. Louis club could, or would care to pay. We have Rickey's word for it that the great second baseman will be on hand again next season at Sportsman's park and that more can one ask than one's word?

The major league reserve list reveals that Max Flack, the veteran outfielder, has been placed on the ineligible list. This was due to his refusal to report to Oakland late last summer. Rickey declares the placing of his name on the list was not an unfriendly action, simply being in line with consistent procedure of O. B.

That reminds us that the Cardinals have not been doing favors for the Pacific Coast league for the love of it. It will be interesting to see what has been smoked up, especially since Ewing has sold the franchise to Walt Johnson and Weiss. Rickey sent Flowers and Bratcher to the Oaks late last summer.

CHANGES AT BEAUMONT.

A. F. Townsend Succeeds J. D. Roberts Who Resigned as President.

BEAUMONT, Nov. 22.—A. F. Townsend, general manager of the Eastern Texas Electric company, here has been elected president of the Beaumont Baseball club at the annual meeting of the stockholders.

Townsend succeeds J. D. Roberts, who resigned his presidency at the end of last season, after serving two years.

Other officers elected included A. R. Ruby Jett of the Neches Electric Supply company, vice president; H. W. Gardner, vice president of the Texas National bank, treasurer, and R. E. Richardson of the Hall & Richardson firm of accountants, secretary.

The stockholders of the club first met and elected a board of directors, after which the board met and elected officers from its own membership. The directors are A. F. Townsend, A. B. Marks, Joe Rosenthal, A. R. Jett, R. L. Kennedy, H. H. Ziller, E. E. Plumly, H. W. Gardner and J. D. Roberts.

The newly elected board of directors and officers will serve one year.

No other business was taken up by the stockholders or directors.

A RAT WEEK IN LONDON

Consistent Drive Against Rodents Made Throughout Biggest City.

LONDON, Nov.—Rats which infest old London houses, office buildings, restaurants, sewers and subways—and cost the city a million pounds annually in damage—had a hard time of it during "rat week" just ended.

It was estimated that more than 3,000,000 rodents met death at the hands of professional rat catchers, school boys and girls and private citizens who hunted the pests out with every conceivable means. One vermin chasing company alone was reported to have accounted for 800,000 rats.

The press took up the campaign and one enthusiastic writer asserted he had seen on moonlight nights whole companies of rats frolicking through Piccadilly. One hospital manager declared he had discovered tight rope walking brown coats entering the hospital along electric light wires stretched from the roof across the street.

London sanitation officials do not want the war on the rodents to end with the mere annihilation of 3,000,000 and they urge that the campaign be kept up until the body of London's last rat is given a place in the city museum.

TAKEN TO MOVIES TWICE

"One Of Those Times Was To See "Over Hill To Poorhouse."

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 18.—Testifying against her husband, whom she accused of intoxication, Mrs. William Smith told Magistrate Grelis today that Smith had taken her to the movies only twice in 21 years of married life.

"And one of those times was to see 'Over the Hill to the Poorhouse,' the wife added. She said she had been on a railroad train only once.

"When he works he makes $35 a week, but he gives me only $12," she said.

The husband, 52, was sentenced to five days in the House of Correction.

Wallie Pipp Due To Pass From Yankees Soon

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Will the winter, now upon us, be the one in which Wallie "Pickling" Pipp finally leaves the New York Yankees to spread his elongated form around first base for some other big league club?

The chances are fair that it will.

The reason is that, for the first time since rumors that the Yankees would get rid of Pipp, the bosses now have a man on the club list who might be able to fill his shoes.

That brother is Henry L. Cullop.

Be it said right, before this typewriter rattles any more, that this is not the famous lefthanded wildman Nicholas Cullop. Of course everyone calls this young first baseman "Nick" for the same reason that every man named Young is called "Cy" no matter how rotten he is.

Cullop is neither a pitcher nor a wild man. If the original Nick had taken baseball as seriously as this young man has the former would now be perched, figuratively, in baseball's hall of fame instead of roaming around the minors.

Cullop has been the property of the Yankee team since 1923 but was with Omaha, his previous owners, last season. He was pitching when Huggins asked his bosses to sign him. Then Huggins stipulated that Cullop be played at first base last season where his terrific hitting could be developed and used to advantage while it was being developed.

Evidently Mr. Cullop, aided by the powers that be in Omaha, developed it considerably. At least he socked out 40 home runs during the season and his batting average ranked well over .300.

Cullop hails from the ball fields of the Dakotas. He started his career with Madison, S. D., to be exact, in 1920. That fall Minneapolis bought him. The next season the Millers let him go to St. Joseph and that club sent him to Tulsa for Karl Adams. When Tulsa sent him back to St. Joe young Cullop began to wonder if he ever would land a berth permanent enough to warrant taking his extra shirt and socks out of his suit case.

Cullop's next move was to Des Moines and late in 1922 he found himself "right back where he started from" in Minneapolis.

The season of 1923 found him with Omaha, where he finally advanced into his own.

Cullop will be given plenty of opportunity to show his stuff when the former champions trek into St. Petersburg, Fla., next spring. Huggins realizes that his team, as it stood last season, cannot set a pennant winning pace next season. Several men will be in changes he plans, including Whitey Witt, Waite Hoyt and possibly Pipp.

Spectators at Harvard-Princeton game are still knocking the failure of the Crimson officials to number the players. Why bother about numbers when the players never get anywhere?

That Little Leak May Cost Much

¶ Quite frequently gas service men are called upon to inspect appliances and piping because the gas bill seems too high. Usually they find a leak either in the appliance or in the pipes. A very small leak will cause the meter to pile up a higher charge.

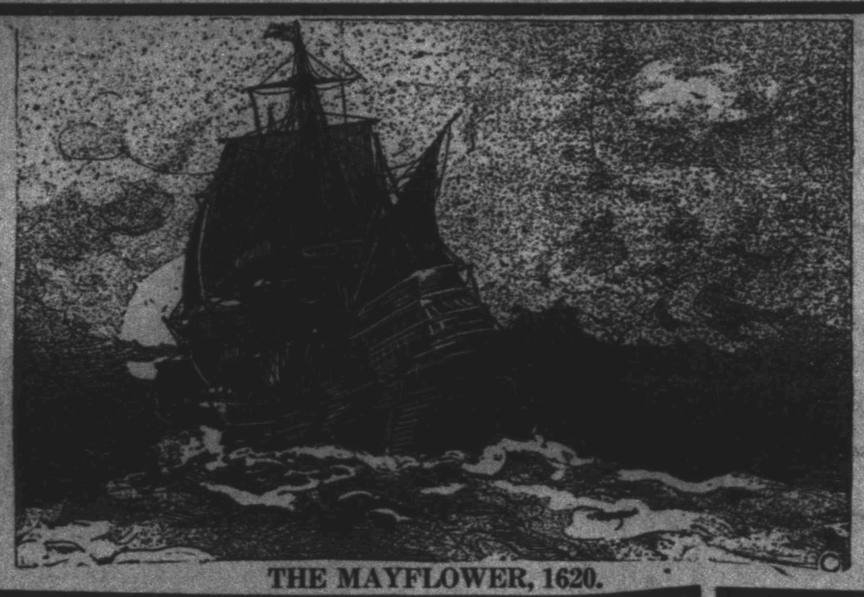

¶ It is not unusual to find these leaks right at the appliance itself where the gas is drawn into the flues and escapes without being noticed. A recent case showed three valves of a kitchen range leaking, so that even when the range was not being used the meter kept running.

¶ Leaks in pipes usually occur at couplings. Sometimes the amount is almost unnoticeable at any time, but in the course of every minute of a month, it may amount to dollars.

¶ A good way to locate these leaks is to make a strong soapsuds and with a paint brush apply it over the pipes. If the gas bubbles through you have found the leak.

¶ May we caution you again never to look for a leak with fire? The consequences may be disastrous. But do take a little time now, before the demand for gas gets heavy in the fall, to look over your appliances and pipes. Be sure they are in order. Sometimes a little attention will save you a considerable amount in money as well as avoid the danger of fire or explosion.

Profit Taking On Exchange Fails To Stop Advance

Trading Assumes More Moderate Proportions, However

MUCH BEAR SELLING

Activity Still Maintained At Rate of 2 Million Shares

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Withstanding the pressure of profit taking and bear selling the stock market today continued its upward sweep on the crest of a late rally, which broke up an early reaction and lifted a score or more issues to the year's peak prices. Trading assumed more moderate proportions but activity still was maintained at the rate of 2,000,000 shares a day, total sales in the two hour period running close to a million shares.

Vigorous bullish demonstrations which turned the course of the market upward in the last hour again taxed the machinery of the stock exchange and the final sale was not recorded until 12 minutes after the usual closing time.

Reactionary tendencies which had nominated the market at the outset of trading today were abruptly checked when buying orders for the Rock Island shares began pouring into the market in tremendous volume. Spurting up four points to a new top price at 50 the road's common stock led a number of railroad shares in a spirited recovery.

Industrial issues, which had borne the brunt of heavy selling in the first hour were buoyed up by the rally in rails and net gains of one to four points replaced losses of one to six points which had been general throughout the list in the early trading.

ORIENT RATES ARE REVISED.

Bureau of Finance Makes Recommendations to the I. C. C.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—A revised basis for the division of joint rates and fares on traffic interchanged between the Kansas City, Mexico & Kansas City, Mexico & Orient Railway company of Texas and their connections was recommended to the interstate commerce commission today in a tentative report by the commission's bureau of finance.

For Equitable Division.

The recommendation was that the equitable division of joint rates accruing to the Orient since September 15, 1922, on traffic originating on its lines should not be less than the present basis, plus a specified percentage varying for various immediate connecting lines. This system also was recommended for the future.

It was recommended that these bases should prevail except in cases where the division accruing to the Orient is greater than that to its connections in which case the Orient should receive divisions not less than those at present, plus the same specified percentages accruing to its connections.

On traffic for which the Orient is an immediate carrier, the added percentages would be one-half of those prescribed.

The percentages recommended for the Orient's various connections were as follows:

Percentages Recommended.

The Abilene & Southern 10 per cent; Santa Fe, 16 per cent; Rock Island, 14 per cent; Fort Worth & Denver, 20; Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio, 16; Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe, 20; Midland Valley, 14; Missouri, Kansas, Texas of Texas, 14; Missouri Pacific, 14; St. Louis, San Francisco, 14, and Texas & Pacific, 14 per cent.

Records, the bureau reported, do not support the conclusion that the divisions of interstate joint freight rates on traffic interchanged with the Clinton and Oklahoma Western or the Wichita Falls & Northwestern have been or will be unjust, unreasonable or inequitable. The examiner recommended that if any of the prescribed divisions operate unjustly the situation may be called to the attention of the commission.

Today's action is the result of the commission's reopening of the case after the supreme court had sustained court action against the commission's original decision on the joint rates.

Case Was Reheard.

Under the original decision the new rate division basis was to become effective September 15, 1922, but enforcement of the order was temporarily enjoined and upon trial the injunction was made permanent.

The rehearing of the case began on July 30. Evidence was submitted by the Orient to show that it has constantly operated at a great deficit. It contended that it was entitled to a proportionately greater share in the division of joint rates because of the proportionately greater cost to the road of handling the interchanged traffic.

NEFF ON A PARK TOUR

AUSTIN Texas, Nov. 22.—A park tour that will carry the governor of Texas from the Oklahoma line to the Mexican boundary and bring him into contact with the governors of three American and two Mexican states is to start from Dallas November 29.

The tour was announced here today by D. E. Colp of San Antonio, chairman of the state park board. It is the most ambitious of the many trips the governor has taken to secure park sites for the state.

Members of the highway commission and Miss Hallie Maude Neff, the governor's daughter, will be in the party. Starting from Dallas November 29, they will go to Tyler, then to Marshall, where they expect to meet the governor of Louisiana and the park highway commissioners of the state. They will consider the famous Caddo lake for a park. They will then go to Texarkana where the expect to meet Governor McRae of Arkansas.

New Boston, Clarksville, Paris, Sherman and Gainesville will then be visited. December 2 they are scheduled to meet the governor of Oklahoma. The party will then turn south to Laredo, stopping on the way at Fort Worth, Austin, San Antonio and other cities. Conferences with Mexican governors are scheduled December 6.

Major Golfers Migrate South Coming Winter

British Professional Team Squares Off With Americans

HAGEN SEEKS REVENGE

Farrell And Cruikshank Play Exhibition Matches

BY RAY M'CARTHY.
Copyright 1924 by the Consolidated Press Association.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Golfers in this clime who are about to be driven indoors by Old Man Winter, are preparing to follow the swallows southward.

The professionals are on the wing already. Next week England's foremost golf team, George Duncan and Abe Mitchell, will arrive in this country for a tour of these southern states and California. This famous British pair have toured the east and middle west twice previously, but they have never been as far south as Florida nor as far west as California.

Duncan and Mitchell will open the season's competitive activities in Florida on Sunday, December 7, when they meet Johnny Farrell and Bobby Cruikshank in a match of 36 holes on the Palmocela course at Tampa. On the following Sunday, December 14, the Britons will play Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen, America's leading home-bred professionals, in what should be one of the stellar matches of the year. Hagen will be seeking revenge in this contest. The Britons defeated Hagen, with MacDonald Smith as his partner, in England last June.

Through the months of January, February and March there will be a number of professional tournaments at St. Augustine, Tampa, St. Petersburg, Miami, Lake Land, and at some of the other Florida resorts.

After a series of exhibition matches in Florida, Duncan and Mitchell will journey to California in January. They will return to Florida late in February to participate in several of the tournaments.

In addition to these tournaments there will be a number of events for amateurs and for women. If present plans of some of the resort promoters materalize, there will be a sort of golfing tour for the leading women players. In these competitions, Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, national champion; Miss Bernice Wall, Miss Glenna Collett, Miss Dorothy Klotz, Miss Dorothy Higbie, Miss Elizabeth Gordon, Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow, Miss Caleb Fox and others are expected to appear.

Florida Gets Call.

The woods will be full of professional golfers in Florida this winter. The promoters of some of the developments in Florida are throwing up bunkers faster than mole hills, all in the hope of attracting winter tourists and holding them. But they are wise enough to know that golf courses are useless unless there is somebody to play on them, so there is keen rivalry among them to get the best professionals to come down and start the thing off for them.

Most Golfers Fall Down on Greens

Barnes, Hagen, and Cruikshank Should Be Studied.

For those who make golf the ruling passion of their lives the styles, opinions and advise of three of the leading golfers of the country on putting is of interest. Many a player far from the dub class finds his way onto the green in two or three only to fiddle around the cup for three or four more strokes because of his inability to putt. The friendly advice he receives is well meant but of little value.

The three golfers studied are Walter Hagen, Jim Barnes, and Bobby Cruikshank.

Hagen in putting from a distance of 10 to 15 feet plays well off the foot with the leg carrying most of the weight. The club goes through low along the ground and there is no body movement until after the ball has been hit.

The British champion's putting stroke is a masterpiece of rhythm, of ease and supreme confidence. In going for the hole Hagen strikes through on a direct line without allowing the putting blade to turn in or to be pushed out. He claims it is a mistake to think about any details at all until you are ready to putt—then the sole idea should be about sending the ball on its proper route to the cup.

Hagen's right hand has about two-thirds control in the putting stroke, the left being used simply to steady the club and help hold it on the line.

As he settles into his stance Hagen measures with his eye the line in the hole and then starts the blade of his putter back as straight as possible from the ball. The blade may come just a trifle to the inside, but very little. His main point seems to be never to hurry the backswing, to keep it at even speed, to make it a matter of rhythm and not to go back too far.

Cruikshank, who is one of the most consistent putters in the country, sets his weight well forward on the left foot with the left heel bearing much of his weight. He declares that the player must keep his body absolutely steady in making the putting stroke. If the body sways, the center of the stroke is altered and almost invariably that means trouble. Another fundamental is a smooth, steady stroke, both backward and forward, without jerk or hitch, the club going back low along the turf. The player who lifts the club very much will find it impossible to make the stroke smoothly.

If the ball is more than eight or 10 feet from the hole Cruikshank says the club must be brought back inside the line of play. For very short putts the club may be brought straight from the ball, but for putts of 10 feet or over it is awkward to try to take the club straight back and the alternative is to bring it back inside the line and not outside.

According to Barnes, the matter of a putting stance is one of personal choice. "You can assume any position you like so long as you don't sway your body and do keep your head still." Long Jim believes that a good putter—the man who goes for the cup with confidence—will putt well with either an aluminum putter or the cleek type. Select a club that feels right and then put in a lot of time with practice, is Barnes' advice.

A composite of the principles outlined by these three masters of golf on the putting stroke is as follows: Keep the head and body absolutely still; start the club back evenly and with an unhurried stroke. Grip firmly, but without any feeling of pressure.

Beauty

A Gleamy Mass of Hair

35c "Danderine" does Wonders for Any Girl's Hair

Girls! Try this! When combing and dressing your hair, just moisten your hair-brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair. The effect is startling! You can do your hair up immediately and it will appear twice as thick and heavy—a mass of gleamy hair, sparkling with life and possessing that incomparable softness, freshness and luxuriance.

While beautifying the hair "Danderine" is also toning and stimulating each single hair to grow thick, long and strong. Hair stops falling out and dandruff disappears. Get a bottle of "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter and just see how healthy and youthful your hair appears after this delightful, refreshing dressing.—Adv.

Connery Getting Decidedly Clubby In Brown Office

Yank Scout After Shocker And Williams, Is Belief

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 22.—There is a weather-beaten, moss-covered old saying that "where there's fire there's smoke," so the frequent visits of Bob Connery, silver-tongued road representative of the New York Yankees to the sanctum of the St. Louis Browns, may have some significance after all. It has been intimated that the Browns are not after any of Jake Ruppert's financiers, but it would seem that Connery's jaunts to Sportsman's Park carry interest other than of a social nature.

True, Connery lives in St. Louis, but he is known to be working on some deals for the Yankees. It seems that the New York club would like to get Kenny Williams to hit home runs along with Babe Ruth and then, too, there's Urb Shocker whose services are being nibbled for all along the line. So, you see, there are bound to be suspicions as to what Connery has been talking about with Messrs. Sisler and Frisch.

Of course the first need of the Browns is pitchers, notwithstanding that Shocker, the crack right-hander of the team, is destined to go. Naturally the management is going to insist on pitching strength whenever the trading of Shocker is discussed. Just who the Yanks could give Sisler in the event Shock would be turned over to them is problematical, particularly so because it has been said that the Browns have given the "go by" to Hoyt as possible swapping grounds.

Likewise it is difficult to imagine who the New York agent has hung on the wire if it is true that the Yankees would like to have Ken Williams.

Sox Get Into It, Too.

A story has come out of Chicago to the effect that the Sox are ready to make an offer for a trade with the Browns, Johnny Mostil being mentioned as the bait. It is presumed in local quarters that the White Sox also have their eye on Shocker. Then, too, there is Clark Griffith in Washington, who has lost Walter Johnson. Clark is also ready to angle for Shocker. This puts three clubs indirectly in the field for the pitcher.

While officials of the Browns are willing to admit that there are several switches pending, it is declared that none of them have gone further than conversation and rumors. Some time ago it was learned that the club would use one or all of four men, Shocker, Williams, Severeid and possibly McManus, in a deal or a number of deals if the proper incentives were given.

It is figured here that there isn't much likelihood of any of the proposed trades being effected, finally, until the meeting in New York. At that time Sisler will confer with several magnates who have been making "leads." Clark Griffith is one of these.

Emphasis cannot be laid too strongly, however, on the fact that the Browns are after pitchers. That is the spot that pulled them down last season and that is the spot which must look brighter even if some of the veteran hitters must go over the boards and younger men, such as Durst and Bennett put in their places. That leaves the trading possibilities wide open.

Lots of Them, But—

At present the club has 15 pitchers under contract, this number including nine who were carried last season, three who were recalled and three kids picked up on the lots. The recalled heavers are Blaeholder and Bayne, who were optioned to Tulsa last season and Payne, who was with Danville in the Three-I league. The newcomers are Lassley, who hails from the mines of Montana, Barnhart, a semi-pro product from Missouri, and Beck, a kid from Illinois.

The so-called regulars and regulars of 1924 are Vangilder, Shocker, Davis, Pruett, Kolp, Grant, Lyons, Danforth and Wingard.

MAY ASK ABOUT THE KLAN

Oklahoma Court Rules Negro, Catholic and Jew Have That Right

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 22.—A Jew, a Catholic or a negro, when on trial, must be permitted to question prospective jurors with regard to affiliations with the ku klux klan, according to an opinion rendered today by the criminal court of appeals.

Because District Judge R. B. Wheeler of Muskogee, would not permit attorneys for Alex Johnson, negro, to question prospective jurors on this point, Johnson's conviction on a charge of larceny of livestock was ordered set aside by the appeals court and the case re-tried.

Pointing out that the right to trial by an impartial jury, is one of the cardinal guarantees of the constitution, Associated Justice E. S. Besser, who wrote the opinion, held that such a trial is impossible, 'where a jury is composed of partisans with fixed preconceived notions of what should be done with the accused on account of his race or religious belief."

3 Killed When Airplane Falls

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 22—Three men were killed when an airplane crashed down to the street at Greenfield., Ill., 60 miles northeast of here late this afternoon. The dead were reported to be:

George Walker, a newspaper man of Jerseyville, Ill.; H. G. Tilley and Ole Hagen, the latter being of this city.

FAHY DENIES CONSPIRACY.

Postal Inspector Declares He Knew None of Rondout Robbers.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—William J. Fahy, former postal inspector, on trial with James Murray and Walter McComb for complicity in the $2,000,000 Rondout mail robbery, denied from the witness stand today that he had participated in the holdup or had shared in any conspiracy connected with the robbery.

He said he did not know Brent Glasscock, leader of the robber band, who previously had testified that Fahy had furnished information upon which the band worked. Upon cross examination he asserted he had become acquainted with Murray only for the purpose of attempting to gain information to be used as evidence against the mail robbers. The four Newton brothers and Herbert Holliday he met after the robbery for the first time and then in pursuance of his duties, he said.

Counsel for Fahy opened his defense by putting several character witnesses on the stand. This procedure the government cut short by threatening to have others testify as to Fahy's reputation from an opposite angle.

Army Not Happy Over Tied Game With Columbia

West Point Had Expected Victory In Columbia Contest

NAVY DROPS ANOTHER

Midshipmen Beat by Long Run In Last Tilt Before Army

BALTIMORE, Nov. 22—Neither the Army nor Navy football teams showed satisfactory ability in last week's game, the final contests before they battle in the Stadium here. Army was held to a 14 to 14 tie by Columbia, the spotty defense of the West Point team failing to hold off the eleven from Morningside Heights, as it had failed before to bar other machines from rolling across its sacred line.

The tie verdict was anything but satisfactory to the West Pointers, and the coaches began immediately to rectify the faults noticed during the game.

Harry Wilson Saves Day.

It was really the work of Harry Wilson, who entered the game in the second quarter, that saved Army's bacon. Not until the former Penn State luminary crouched behind the West Point line did the offensive get down to brass tacks.

The defensive strength of the Army team was too erratic to hold a 14 to 7 lead, and the determined Columbia host, headed by Captain Koppisch, crossed the soldiers on the final touchdown, scoring the points that deadlocked the game when Pease carried the ball through center from the 14-yard line, after a feint at the left side of the Army line.

Long Run Whips Navy.

Navy has some satisfaction in the fact that only a beautiful run by Blaisdell in the final period enabled Bucknell, favored to win, to gain the verdict by a 6 to 0 count. The Midshipmen made frequent gains, but the necessary punch, which has been lacking in the backfield all season, was still absent when scoring opportunities were presented.

Navy at one time had the ball on Bucknell's one-foot line, but the Pennsylvanians managed to prevent the score by a valiant stand. The punch will have to be found in the next two weeks if the Army is not to have an easy job in the great service classic.

New York Cotton

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—A further decline of 15 pr 16 points in the cotton market early today was followed by rallies on trade buying and covering. January contracts sold up from 23.72 to 23.98 and closed at 23.88. The general market closed net 5 points lower to 15 points higher. December was relatively easy, the entire day as a result of liquidation in advance of possible notice on Monday and cloed 69 point under March, compared with a difference of 54 points at the close of the previous day.

The market opened steady at a decline of 5 to 16 points under continued selling which developed after publication of the government crop report and ginning figures yesterday. December eased off to 23.29 and March to 24.03 in the first few minutes. There was considerable trade buying at the decline and the market firmed up during the forenoon on covering.

Offerings of December were absorbed by trade buying against sales of later deliveries at the wider differences, but the near month liquidation continued. After selling up to 23.72, December eased off again, closing at 23.61. This had rather an unsettling effect on the general tone of the market and March eased off from 24.35 to 24.30 at the close. The selling of December was accompanied by rumors that a fair number of notices would be issues on Monday, although spot houses were said to have been good buyers of December against sales of later deliveries during the past few days.

Liverpool cables reported a very quiet market with prices lower under continental and London selling, but with trade calling in sufficient volume to give the market a steady undertone.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 179,483 bales, against 117,775 last year.

New York Cotton Letter

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Overnight reflection of the government figures was to convince the trade that the crop is likely to prove in excess of the estimate put out yesterday. The mills have been good buyers recently and still have buying orders on way down from the moment the specter of 13 million bales or more crop is squarely before the eyes of the average trader and it may require a period of digestion before speculation can be induced to come in on a broad scale. General improvement in the textile division, leaves no doubt that conditions are improving.

Monday being first notice day on December, rather large tenders are expected. Long liquidation may cause a temporary setback in the face of large notices, if they are posted.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 22.—The cotton market today was fairly active and after easing off during the first hour owing to lower cables than due and to increased crop opinions, rallied in the second hour, recovering all the earlier loss and establishing net gains over yesterday's close of 9 to 13 points, most of which was retained to the close, which showed a small net gain for the day.

At the start the market eased off 11 points on all active months of the disappointing cables and continued to decline to 19 points down compared with yesterday's close. While prices reacted slightly near the end on realizing the close was steady, showing net gains for the day of 5 to 8 points.

The earlier recession was due in large measure to increasing crop ideas due to the government crop estimate and ginning's report issued on Friday, and was also helped by fears that a large volume of notices for December delivery on contracts may be issued here and in New York on Monday which will be the first notice day in both markets for December.

Exports for the day totalled 23,310, of which New Orleans cleared 20,011 bales.

New Orleans Cotton Letter

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 22.—Cotton slipped a little during the first hour on liberal realizing in anticipation of large tenders Monday but came back strong in the last hour on buying and covering that developed as a result of the market's absorbing power.

Closing sales were 8 to 10 points net higher. Much of the strength was due to trade and spot houses buying and refusal of spot holders to sell at the decline. Spot holders appear to be putting up a firm front and local spot houses admit that spots have been hard to purchase in any quantities. The tenders here and in New York may be smaller than expected.

Indications are that the market will do better as soon as the first notices are out of the way.

GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Export buying of a big scale carried the wheat market briskly upward today with prices closing strong, 2¼c to 4¼c net higher, December 1.53⅞ to 1.54 and May 1.61⅝ to 1.61¾. Corn finished at 1¼ to 2c gain, oats showing ¼ to ⅝c advance and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a rise of 27c.

Sudden dearth of rural offerings of corn to arrive gave independent strength to the corn market and did a good deal also to make oats values firmer.

In the provision market the upward tendency of grain more than counterbalanced the fact that receipts of hogs here this week were next to the largest on record.

STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Heavy buying of Rock Island shares abruptly checked reactionary tendencies in today's stock market and brought about a laterally which carried volume of realizing sales, the market at the same time with stood a concerted bear selling attack directed against leading issues, which forced general recessions of 1 to 3 points in the first hour of trading. These losses were recovered before the close and prices of all classes of stocks again head upward.

Although the pace of trading moderated somewhat today, total sales in the two-hour session ran close to a million shares and the sudden burst of activity in the final few minutes delayed the stock ticker by 12 minutes.

On buying credited to banking interests closely affiliated with the Southern Pacific company, Rock Island common soared 4 points to 50, carrying with it to net top prices, the road's two preferred issues. The buoyancy of these shares stimulated renewed accumulation of other lower priced railroad issues. St. Paul preferred mounting 2¾ points to 30 and the common touched 17¾, both within a fraction of the year's best levels. Substantial gains also were recorded by Missouri Pacific preferred, New Haven, St. Louis-Southwestern, Colorado and Southern and Pittsburgh and West Virginia, the last three setting new high marks.

Influenced by the recovery in rail shares, numerous industrials resumed their advance which had been checked in the first hour. Early losses of 1 to 3 points in American Can, Dupont, Peoples Gas, Otis Elevator and Century Ribbon were substantially reduced or cancelled and slight net gains were general throughout the industrial list at the close.

One of the best demonstrations of strength was given by the Wilson Packing company issues, which responded to reports of progress in reorganization plans. The company's preferred stock rallied 8¾ points and the common closed 2¾ net higher.

Moderate advances in sterling and French francs marked trading in the foreign exchange market.

WIFE TO GET A MILLION.

Husband Signs Agreement After Suit For Separate Maintenance.

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 22.—R. T. Daniel, millionaire property owner of Tulsa and Dallas, signed today an agreement giving his wife one million dollars in property in Tulsa.

Mrs. Daniel recently sued her husband for separate maintenance and division of property.

The property settlement included the 10-story Daniel building in Tulsa and the Alexander hotel. The settlement is yet to be approved in court.

Mr. Daniel lives in Dallas. Mrs. Daniel and her two children live here.

DEER ESCAPE, HEAD FOR HOME, 700 MILES AWAY

PARIS, Ky.—Relief is expressed here today that two deer, part of the herd sold into Pennsylvania several months ago by Mrs. Catesby Woodford of Raceland farm, near here, have made their way back to their old home. The distance is about 700 miles. If the deer did maks such a journey, their way would lie through the mountains and forests of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and eastern Kentucky. John Sturgeon, a painter, while working near the old baseball park in the Paris suburbs yesterday afternoon, saw two deer running through the park and says they jumped the highest fence with ease. Mrs. Oliver Mann, living in the vicinity, also saw the animals, which ran off in the direction of Raceland farm, where it is supposed they are now in the forests.

Paul Fountain.

ARKANSAS YOUTH EVANGELIST AT 11

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Ark., Nov. 19.—Paul Fountain, 11, of this place, is believed to be the youngest licensed enangelist in the United States. In the last year he has had more than 200 conversions, one-third of them adults.

Although under-sized for his age, and two years ahead of his age in school studies, the "little minister" is unusually healthy, keeping so by physical exercise of all kinds. He is particularly fond of tennis and basket ball, is something of a greased pole skinner, and is a champion swimmer.

KAISER THREATENED SUICIDE

Wrote Von Buelow He Would Kill Himself if Chancellor Resigned.

BERLIN.—A story of how former Emperor William once threatened to commit suicide is revealed in a book written by Theodore Wolff, editor of the Tageblatt, dealing with Germany's policy during the chancellorship of Von Buelow.

Emperor William had in 1905 induced Emperor Nicholas of Russia to sign a treaty of alliance which pledged Germany to aid Russia in Europe, but not in Asia. Von Buelow disapproved of the treaty and orally tendered his resignation. Thereupon William wrote Von Buelow a pathetic letter, in which he said the chancellor's resignation gave him such a shock that he had collapsed and he feared he would have a serious nervous illness.

Says He Risked Life for Him.

In the letter the kaiser reminded Von Buelow that to please him he had ridden in Tangier on a strange horse, notwithstanding his crippled left arm, and that the horse had nearly killed him.

"I rode among the Spanish anarchists," said the letter, "because you wanted me to and because your policy would benefit by it, and now after I have done all this you wish to leave me. . . . If you now disavow your policy I should be made to look ridiculous, which I cannot survive."

Cites Threat of Suicide.

Then comes a postscript saying:

"The morning after the receipt of your resignation you will not find your kaiser alive. Think of my poor wife and children."

Von Buelow, according to Wolff, finally withdrew his resignation and the writer declares his reward came three years later, when the kaiser dismissed him with the remark: 'I have chased the scoundrel away."

Health Restored By Radium

The wonderful curative power of Radium has been known for years. However, the benefits of this precious health-giving substance have in the past been only within the means of wealth.

Since the invention of Degnen's Radio-Active Solar Pad, any man or woman, poor or rich, can afford this treatment which offers so much relief from suffering and disease.

Degnen's Radio-Active Solar Pad is worn next to the body day and night. It pours a constant stream of radio-active energy into the system while you work, play or sleep, helping to build up weakened nerves and tissues to a strong, healthy condition. It creates a vigorous circulation of blood, thus removing congestion, which is the real cause of most diseases.

To prove just what this remarkable treatment can do for you, we will send our appliance on trial with the understanding that we will not charge you a cent if it fails to give satisfactory results. This offer is open to any person who has pain of any kind, nerve weakness, high blood pressure, stomach, kidney or liver complaint, bladder trouble, or disease of the lungs or heart.

No matter what your ailment or how long you have had it, we will gladly let you try the applince at our risk. Write today for free literature giving complete information. Radium Appliance Co., 252 Bradbury Bldg., Los Angeles, Calif.—Adv.

Healthy Condition of Railroads Has Featured Sensational Stock Trading

By BYRON SELLER
Special Correspondent The Record-News
Copyright, 1924, By the Consolidated Press Association

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Investment interest this week has again been centered on railroad securities for the most part in the low priced class, and under active buying these obligations have enjoyed sharp advances. This was partly due to the general speculative enthusiasm and partly to concrete developments in the railroad field.

Two Factors in Market

Of these developments two stand out: One, the offering and sale to the public of common stock of three carriers and the other, and the announcement that the New Haven has completed its plan for the refunding of its European loan which matures next April. It has been a long time since railroads were able to interest investors in their stock to the extent of becoming partners in the business. The reasons for this are well known. Railroad credit for years has been at low ebb under the influence of adverse government regulation, actual and prospective, and of unsatisfactory earnings. These obstacles seem now to have been cleared away, and sentiment is so favorable that common stock can be marketed on a satisfactory price basis. If this condition continues and there is no reason to believe that it will not, the railroads will be able to rectify their capital structures and restore proper balance between funded debt and stock. Much more of this kind of financing is expected in the near future.

The other matter, that of the refunding operation which the New Haven now expects to carry to a successful conclusion, is also striking testimony of improved conditions. The difficulty under which the New Haven has operated for so many years, and the pessimism as to its future now seem to be things of the past. The effect of the announcement was not confined to the securities of the road in question. The St. Paul has an equally important refunding problem to solve and holders of St. Paul securities are encouraged to believe that their troubles are perhaps similarly coming to an end. It is remarkable what a change a few weeks have brough about in the outlook of these two roads. As to the others there is continued talk about initial dividend declarations by some roads and increased rates by others. Some of these reports will come true and some will not. But in the main the stage is set for railroad prosperity and for the enhancement in market price of railroad securities.

A High Grade Investment

Turning to the high grade investment railroad obligations the general market has been only barely steady. The public view is that this class of bonds is high enough and that the yield is now down to where it is no longer attractive. At the same time it must be admitted that there has been remarkably little selling of these high grade investment issues. And some large blocks of these so-called gilt edge bonds have been placed privately this week at prices to yield the purchaser under 5 per cent which would indicate that there are some investors left who do not expect any material decline in quotations for this grade of security.

All that of course, depends upon the money market outlook and as to that there has been little change during the week.

Speculative Wall street has been discussing the possibility that the directors of the different federal reserve banks will raise the rediscount rate if speculation appears to be getting out of bounds. No action along this line was taken this week nor, in the opinion of those best influenced is any likely in the immediate future. A better grade to the long range outlook for money will be the action of the secretary of the treasury in connection with the government financing in December. Some authorities expect that the secretary will offer a long term bond issue thus taking advantage of the present low money rate. So far he has confined himself to short term offerings and so his judgment has been justified by the event.

While speculation for the rise has been going on rail securities, foreign government and industrial obligations have been either neglected or inclined to sag. French bonds in particular have been heavy. Under these conditions it will be interesting to note the reception accorded the new French loan. A new element enters into this new French offering and that is the uncertainty as to French finances. At any rate the outstanding French dollar loans dealt in on the New York exchange have been selling down to a parity with the yield it was expected the new issue would bring. Other foreign bonds have been affected adversely to a slight extent.

Europe Is Improved

Meanwhile, taking Europe as a whole, conditions have certainly improved. The foreign exchange market is sufficient proof of this. Countries whose exchange is now practically at par include Holland, Switzerland and Sweden. It has been suggested that the dollar bonds of these countries will not be attractive purchases for citizens of the borrowing nation because of their tax exemption feature at home. This may be an important factor in the foreign bond group soon.

Decrease in Bank Clearings Shown In Wichita Falls For First Time In Several Weeks, Statement Shows

For the first time in several weeks, bank clearings of the Wichita Falls banks have shown a decrease. A decrease of $204,442.11 for the week ending November 22 is shown over the week ending November 15.

The clearing house association issued the following statement Saturday:

Monday	$ 431,453.97
Tuesday	761,121.56
Wednesday	532,968.82
Thursday	431,571.34
Friday	414,937.81
Saturday	364,599.35
Total	$2,936,652.85
Last week	3,141,094.96
Decrease	$ 204,442.11

OLD HOME TOWN

Joe E. Ward of the engineering firm of Montgomery and Ward has just returned from Brownsfield where he let a water works contract for that city.

M. M. Cook of the firm of Montgomery and Ward of this city has returned from Quanah where he inspected a 2,000 acre irrigation project.

J. B. Upchurch of the engineering firm of Montgomery and Ward is in Olney inspecting paving work over which this firm has management.

Plans for the state convention of Christian Endeavor to be held in this city in June, 1925, are being made by the executive council in session here Saturday and today. The council includes E. S. Hupperts, field secretary of Dallas; A. A. Hyde, president, Sherman; Miss Florence Richardson, Sherman, assistant secretary; S. B. Porter, finance chairman, Fort Worth; Miss Hally Hutchinson, office secretary, Dallas; Miss Virginia White, leadership training, Greenville; Miss Lillian Reitz, department of Mexican work, San Antonio; the district presidents, R. Graham Keeville, Abilene; Miss Sophia Jaschke, Beaumont; Miss Felicia Hurlbut, Brownwood; Miss Myrtle Shelton, Bowie, president of the Wichita district; Ray Patrick Henry of San Antonio; Jack B. Dale, Electra, state vice-president.

M. J. Albert, formerly with J. W. Reeves, real estate man of Dallas, has effected a connection with Stehlik Baber, local realtors and will be engaged in handling city properties for the firm.

Akiyaha Camp Fire enjoyed a outing with Mrs. Ballard, guardian, Saturday at 6 o'clock, driving to the Old Wichita river for camp. Those gathered around the fire and preparing the meal included Misses Edgalee and Louise Gilliam, Lucile Ballard, Alva Ruth Walker, Vally Fern Lowery, Gladys Mackechney, Vera Cain, Ruth Sloan, Mr. and Mrs. Ballard.

Kamahen-ka, literary society of the Junior college, was reorganized when a number of representative students of the college met and made plans for the year. Officers are: Jerry Vincent, president; W. D. Nelson, vice-president; Thelma Cain, secretary, John Friley, treasurer; Theodore Allen, attorney; Joe Johnston, yell leader; Genevieve Hancock, critic; Helen Knotts, reporter; Riley Rawls, sergeant at arms; R. O. Johnson, professor sponsor.

A record somewhat out of the ordinary has been established in the U. S. district court that has just completed trial of criminal cases here, an inspection of bond forfeitures has revealed. In checking over his papers, J. A. Lantz, U. S. commissioner for this district, has found that only three bonds were forfeited last week, and in two of these cases the defendants were brought into court the day following and the forfeitures set aside by Judge William H. Atwell.

First Baptist Church circle meeting Monday. No. 1 with Mrs. J. T. Brooks, 1006 Tenth at 2 p. m., No. 3 with Mrs. W. L. Snoddy, Brook Manor at 2:30, No. 4 with Mrs. W. M. Dameron, 1319 Twelfth, at 3 p. m., No. 5 with Mrs. Dave Sheppard, 1613 Thirteenth, at 2:45, No. 6 with Mrs. W. W. McCarty, 1823 Eleventh, at 3 p. m., No. 7 with Mrs. A. B. Maples, 1102 Taylor, at 3 p. m., No. 8 with Mrs. R. A. King, 1400 Hilden, at 3 p. m.

Called back into special session by Judge Guy Rogers of the 78th district court, the grand jury of the 30th district court, which has been in recess since late last summer, will convene at 9 o'clock Monday morning to take up investigation of criminal matters in the county. It is not expected that the work of the body will require more than two or three days. A number of men are now in jail, charged with criminal offenses, and it is for the purpose of investigating these that the jury has been called.

With several disputed matters to come up, the usual round of paving questions and other routine business, the city council is faced with a comparatively busy session at its regular weekly meeting Monday night. Another hearing may be held on the anti-peddling ordinance which has been passed on two readings and it is also possible that further action will be taken on the jewelry auction ordinance.

Members of the T. E. L. class of the First Baptist church will entertain at luncheon at the Wichita club Tuesday at 1 o'clock. Reservations must be in by Monday noon, by calling 6031 or 2592.

Fourteen bales of long staple cotton, similar to that which has been on display in the First National bank for the past few weeks, were ginned yesterday at the Reeves gin on Indiana avenue following shipments of the cotton from the Hodges farm where they have been grown by James Greer. The bales will be sent to New Orleans for sale at once. The cotton is a special variety grown here by Mr. Greer under irrigation.

The Pieria club will meet Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Mrs. A. C. Dulaney, 1613 Eleventh.

Ladies of the Sacred Heart Altra society will hold a bazaar Friday and Saturday, November 28 and 29, at 912 Indiana Avenue. They will have beautiful handsome articles, aprons, children's clothes, hand dressed dolls, and food articles. The public is invited.

The Episcopal Guild will hold the annual fair Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in the downtown district with wares in regulation booths. Hand dressed dolls, foods and other articles wil be sold. One of the unique booths is the Merchant's display which is comparable to Aladdin's lamp.

An open meeting of the Fine Arts club of Junior college will be held Tuesday afternoon from 3:30 to 4:30. Mrs. A. H. Britain, sponsor from the Musicians club to the Fine Arts club, has arranged a program from the Musicians as follows: Piano solo, Mrs. Harwood Stacy; violin, Miss Vivian Bailey; contralto, Mrs. Luella B. Thompson; soprano, Mrs. Lois Parker. Shumake Baber, president of the Fine Arts club, invited the friends of both organizations to attend the meeting. It is also anounced that early in December the college club will give a burlesque of the opera, "Martha."

Mrs. J. F. Friberg and son J. F., Jr., left for Memphis, Tenn., to spend the holidays with Mrs. Friberg's sister, Mrs. L. M. Stratton.

N. K. Shamlian has recently opened his New Studio at 916 Scott street. Mr. Shamlian operated the Van Dyke Studio for a number of years and was forced to suspend business about two months ago on account of fire.

Trial of civil matters was started yesterday in U. S. district court before Judge William H. Atwell. It is probable that the balance of this term of court will be devoted to the law and equity dockets, although pleas of guilty in a few criminal cases may be accepted by the court.

Although Cuba is an agricultural country, its prosperity is dependent on success of two crops—sugar and tobacco.

LEGAL NOTICE

SHERIFF'S SALE
THE STATE OF TEXAS,
County of Wichita.
Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a certain order of sale issued out of the honorable 89th district court of Wichita county, on the 5th day of November, 1924, by A. F. Kerr, clerk of said court for the sum of five thousand five hundred forty-five and 35-100 dollars, and costs of suit, under a certain judgement, in favor of R. A. Haines in a certain cause in said court, No. 16068-C and styled R. A. Haines, plaintiff vs. Mrs. Beulah C. Viets, a feme sole and Arthur James Viets, Jr., and N. O. Monroe, administrator of the estate of A. J. Viets, deceased defendants, and placed in my hands for service, I, W. W. Murphy as sheriff of Wichita county, Texas, did, on the 5th day of November, 1924, levy on certain real estate, situated in Wichita county, Texas, described as follows, to-wit: Lot No. 1 in block three of the Southland addition to the city of Wichita Falls, according to the map or plat of said addition of record in the deed records of Wichita county, and levied on as the property of Mrs. Beulah C. Viets, a feme sole, and Arthur James Viets, Jr., and N. O. Monroe, administrator of the estate of A. J. Viets, deceased; and that on the first Tuesday in December, 1924, the same being the 2nd day of said month, at the court house door, of Wichita county, in the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., by virtue of said levy and said order of sale I will sell said above described real estate at public vendue, for cash, to the highest bidder, as the property of said defendants.
And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication, in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Wichita Falls Record News, a newspaper published in Wichita county.
Witness my hand, this 8th day of November, 1924.
W. W. MURPHY,
Sheriff Wichita County, Texas.

Wichitans Urged To See Farms Of Irrigated Areas

Splendid Examples In Easy Reach Of a Sunday Drive

COTTON AND BERRIES

Excellent Results Are Being Obtained By Farmers In

Citizens who have not seen any of the results of irrigation in the vicinity of Wichita Falls are urged to spend a part of Sunday afternoon in an inspection tour of the irrigated farms near the city, according to announcement of the chamber of commerce.

It is stated that many Wichitans are indifferent or skeptical in regard to the success of irrigation here because they have never seen what can be accomplished with the proper amount of water in this section.

A number of farms near here offer splendid examples of irrigated cotton, truck, crops, berries and fruit, it is pointed out and a visit to any of these places is enough to convince anyone that the argicultural future of this section is bound to be a big success.

See the Berry Place.

One of the most interesting farms in this vicinity, according to those who are familiar with this section, is the P. A. Berry place a short distance out on the Petrolia road. This is reached by driving out the pavement on Seventh street to the ball park and continuing out the gravel road past Holliday creek. Mr. Berry's farm, as well as a number of other small places near, has several acres in berries, fruit and truck, it is stated, grown under irrigation.

A fine example of irrigated cotton can be found on the Tom Fields place on the left hand side of the Lake road past the Fair grounds. This place has a poultry farm sign in front and is easily located it is stated.

Grows Berries Also

Mr. Fields not only has cotton which has made around two bales to the acre but has blackberries, strawberries, rapes, figs, and several varieties of truck which are real eye-openers to those who have not yet realized what irrigation will do here.

There are a number of other small irrigated farms between the city and Lake Wichita it is stated, which are very successful, including the well known Downing places where irrigated truck crops have been successfully grown for years.

OPPOSE CURB GAS PUMPS.

Realty Board Takes Up Fight Against Downtown Stations.

An unequivocal stand against curb filling stations in the downtown section was taken Saturday noon by the Wichita Falls realty board when it passed resolutions asking the city council to cease granting permits for such stations. The resolutions also ask that the council use every effort to bring about the removal of the stations now in use.

It was pointed out that the gas pumps decreased the value of property in their neighborhood and increased parking problems by taking up room that is badly needed. A suggestion was made that owners of property in the business district refuse to lease their land or to renew present leases if curb stations were to be installed.

Plans of the chamber of commerce to conduct an "irrigation educational" program were endorsed by the board, which also listened to a report from its own publicity committee stating that the board had supplied the chamber with information regarding the project and the farm lands included in it.

MOVIE OF A HUPMOBILE

Motor Sales Company Announces Showing of Film November 25

The Motor Sales company announce that on next Tuesday November 25 a moving picture of the Hupmobile factory showing the making of a Hupmobile will be shown in their show room at 611 Ohio Ave. This picture will show the manufacturing of every part that goes into the Hup, the assimulation of all the parts and the complete building of the Hupmobile, requiring about one hour to show the entire production. A feature of this picture is the painting and finishing or this car.

All models are finished in beige or ton Duco—a finish made by the well-known Du Pont interests, and said to be superior to any other because it improves with age. Hupmobile is one of the first in the industry to adopt this coating.

It was demonstrated by the Du Ponts, through a long period of experimentation, that Duco withstands the rigors of any climate and weather conditions from one extreme to another, and improves in appearance under the most ordinary care.

The beige or tan finish is particularly suited to conditions, because this color successfully resists the effects of the sun's rays. Experiments have shown that it positively does not change in color nor does it crack, even though exposed to fogs through a long period. Destructive alkali, it is declared, has no effect upon it.

WARN MERCHANTS AGAIN

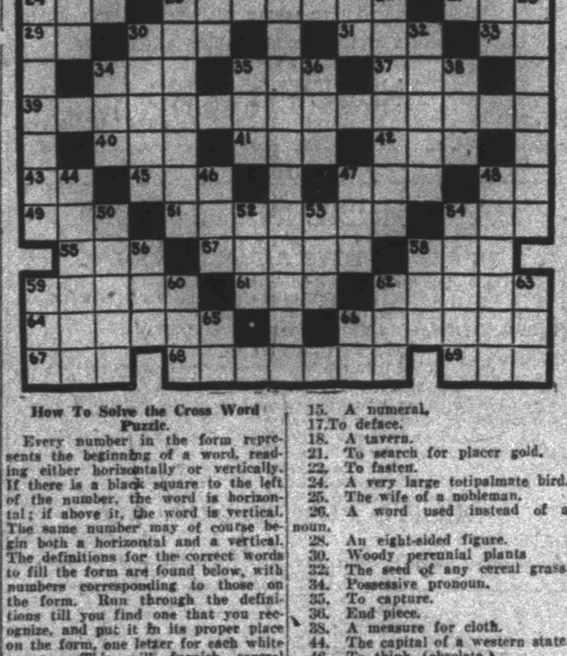

Urged to Communicate With C. of C. Before Advertising in Magazines

Business men are urged again, for their own protection, to call the chamber of commerce before taking an advertisement in any of the out-of-town magazines which are continually putting on campaigns here.

It has come to the attention of the committee that certain magazines which recently carried special Wichita Falls sections are again seeking advertisements from the local business men and making misleading statements in regard to the previous section, it is stated.

In some instances these publications are legitimate with a regular subscription list; in such cases the merchant must judge as to the value of the medium, as all that the chamber can do is to determine whether or not the concern is a regular publication, but often there are other matters which come in for consideration which the bureau is in a position to give the business man, if he will call the office, according to the chairman of the committee.

Try Your Brain On This One

How To Solve the Cross Word Puzzle.

Every number in the form represents the beginning of a word, reading either horizontally or vertically. If there is a black square to the left of the number, the word is horizontal; if above it, the word is vertical. The same number may of course begin both a horizontal and a vertical. The definitions for the correct words to fill the form are found below, with numbers corresponding to those on the form. Run through the definitions till you find one that you recognize, and put it in its proper place on the form, one letter for each white square. This will furnish several cross clues to the words linking with it at right angles. Continue in this manner till the form is completely filled. If you have solved the puzzle correctly it should read both horizontally and vertically with words corresponding to the definitions.

SAW THEM COME AND GO.

Doorman of 10 Downing Street Is Being Retired.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Robert Lloyd, the gray-haired doorman who has ushered the great and the near-great in and out of the door of 10 Downing street for many years, is being retired for old age.

He is 67, and his head is full of memories and impressions of most of the figures who get into Europe's spotlight in the days before, in and after the World war. It was in the war days, when the vigorous Lloyd George occupied the prime minister's house, the doorman of No. 10 found the most exciting hours of his life.

Of all the prime ministers for whom he has opened the door, he liked Bonar Law best.

"I revered him," he said.

"When Mr. Lloyd George was prime minister we were on hot cinders all the time. I was constanly lining up fieldmarshals, generals, admirals, ambassadors and other distinguished visitors.

"Marshall Joffre was always good humored. Marshal Foch seemed kindly but was always in a hurry. General Smuts was charming. He always shook hands with me. I recall Signor Musselini arriving too. He burst into the vestibule and, shaking me cordially by the hand, expressed his pleasure at meeting 'ngland's prime minister.' I had to tell him he had hold of the wrong man.

"The first time tre prince of Wales came to lunch, he dashed in with: 'Hello, porter! Where do I put my coat? Here, leave it on your chair will you?' The duke of York was more serious.

"The way in which De Valera, Michael Collins and Arthur Griffith arrived with guards on their taxi-cab was quite new."

United Welfare Teams All Set For Big Drive Monday To Fill Up Wichita Falls' Community Chest With $52,000 For 1925

First Meeting Of All Workers To Be Held Monday

DISTRICTS NAMED

Speakers In Campaign Have Already Addressed Meetings

Monday a hundred Wichita Falls citizens will leave their own affairs and give their time to the United Welfare campaign which asks for $52,000 this year to care for the needs of the city's poor and unfortunate.

This amount will be divided between the nine organizations which are included in the chest, these being the Red Cross, Salvation Army, Y. W. C. A., Day Nursery, Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Welfare Board including the Travelers' Aid, Texas Children's Home and Aid society and the Negro Charities.

The campaign committee met with the team captains Saturday at noon at the Wichita club, at which time final plans were made for the campaign, and team members assigned to different groups.

First Meeting Monday.

The first meeting of all workers will be held Monday, in conjunction with the Kiwanis club at the Kemp hotel at noon at which time supplies and instructions will be given, it is stated.

The first report will be made at the University club Tuesday at noon, the third report at a joint meeting of the Lions and Optimists on Wednesday and the final wind-up of the campaign will be at the Business Council luncheon, on Friday at noon at the Kemp hotel, it is announced.

A number of citizens have served during the past week as speakers, announcing the campaign and its purpose and importance of luncheon clubs, picture shows, theaters, churches, Union Labor meetings, clubs and missionary societies.

It is believed that practically all of the big business concerns will be able to disphay 100 per cent cards which are to be given to all places where all employes contribute.

The following assignment of workers and territory was made at Saturday's meeting:

Districts of Campaign.

District No. 1—Wholesale section East of R. R., Barwise street and elevator mills: E. S. Goodner, captain; B. D. Sartin, C. C. Kirby, B. G. Ripley.

J. W. HUTSON IS DEAD.

Aged Man Dies Saturday Morning at Home of Daughter Here.

J. W. Hutson, aged 76, died at 5:30 Saturday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. R. Robinson, 1814 Eleventh street, after an extended period of failing health.

He is survived by five daughters who, in addition to Mrs. Robinson are Mrs. J. E. Pinney of Lubbock, Mrs. A. M. Sowell of Manhattan, Kan., Mrs. H. B. Cole of Dickens and Mrs. T. M. Green of Dickens. He also leaves a son, Ed Hutson of Dickens, and a nephew, Earnest Hutson of Childress.

The body was sent last night by the Hines Undertaking company to Spur from where it will be taken to Dickens for burial.

STEEL BARGE GOES DOWN

Five Masted Boat Hermitage Sinks South of Charleston Saturday

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 22.—The five masted steel barge Hermitage sank today at 6 p. m., approximately 155 miles south of Charleston, according to a radio report received by the United States coast guard cutter Yamacraw from the United States shipping board tug Barrington which went to the rescue.

The information received at Savannah does not indicate any loss of life.

The disaster occurred in latitude 30:06 north, longtitude 79.43 west, which is about 100 miles east of St. Augustine, Fla., the entire crew of the barge being taken off by the Barryton. The Hermitage sailed from Galveston on Nov. 12, with a cargo of sulfur, and was bound, it is thought, for a north Atlantic port. No definite information was received as to the cause of the disaster the message stating "cargo shifted or was wet on one side from leak."

The Barryton reported tonight that she had aboard the engineer of the Hermitage who is critically ill with a serious case of gangrene.

The tug is proceeding north and will probably attempt to put in at Charleston or Savannah.

PRAISE FOR HER HUSBAND

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Chicago ministers have only high praise for the Rev. C. V. Sheatsley, pastor of Christ church in Bexley, Ohio, who with his sons was questioned in connection with the death of his wife.

"A wonderful man and a splendid minister," said Dr. J. F. Siebert, general secretary of home missions and church extension work of the United Lutheran church.

Murder of Governor General of Sudan Gives England Grave Problem

May Retract All Concessions To Egyptian Rulers

Stack's Assassination In Cario Creates Sensation

BALDWIN WILL ACT

Premier of New Government Plans Drastic Measures Against Pasha

(Less than a month in office, the Baldwin government is faced with the momentous problem of reversing Great Britain's Egyptian policy. The British people have been profoundly stirred by the assassination of Major General Stack in Cairo and A. G. Gardiner says in his dispatch today that the government may be forced to take action.)

LONDON, Nov. 22.—A profound sensation was created in all circles by the assassination of Major General Sir Lee Stack, governor general of Sudan and Sirdar of the Egyptian army.

Lee Stack was a man of the highest character and was universally popular. He had arranged to leave Cairo for the Sudan on the day previous to the murder but he delayed his departure in order to attend a complimentary dinner to the Hon. Herbert H. Asquith, who is on a visit to Egypt and the Sudan. After the crime, he was brought to the house where Mr. Asquith was lunching—and there he died.

Serious Situation.

As a result of the tragedy, the new British government is confronted with a most serious situation. It is impossible to disassociate the event from political propaganda and the fact that Zaghloul Pasha has made the Sirdar a special object of criticism, gravely complicates the British position.

The Egyptian premier immediately made a demonstration of horror and indignation at the crime, but all the criminals escaped and the problem for the government is what measure to take to assert its authority. Much pressure is being exercised on the government to induce it to retrace its steps in surrendering the governmen of Egypt. That policy was carried through in the face of great opposition and unhappily has been attended by the most unsatisfactory results.

The great scheme of reforms which the Earl of Cromer had accomplished in Egypt is fast falling into decay owing to the corrupt and inefficient native administration. But the most serious fact is the rapid decline which is taking place in the cotton growing industry of the Nile, which, next to the financial reforms, was the most conspicuous achievement of the Cromer regime.

But the relapse of the country into its former condition was not unexpected. What has created concern is the extravagant claims put forward especially in regard to the restoration of the Sudan to Egypt. No British government could yield in this vital matter. Egypt has no historic claim to the Sudan. Its attempt to rule that country is one of the most ghastly stories on record.

Security Accomplished.

The English rule has brought security and prosperity to the country and the Sudanese people would not tolerate a return to the Egyptians for whom they have the utmost hatred and contempt. The Sudan, in the last generation, has become settled and extraordinary successful and mahdism is practically extinct. Whatever religious faticism remains does not turn to Egypt for support and the whole country would resist being handed over to the rule which it loathes.

Zoghloul Pasha knows this but the nationalist movement, intoxicated by the withdrawal of the British from Egypt, has committed him to a claim in regard to the Sudan which is neither just nor practicable.

The murder of the Sirdar brings the matter to a crisis and the government may be compelled to take drastic steps to protect the security of its administration in the Sudan. Egypt's right to misgovern itself has been conceded but Egypt's right to misgovern its enighbor will not be conceded. And if Egypt cannot control its assassins they will be controlled in other ways.

The danger is that the crime in Cairo will arouse such feeling that the government will be tempted to delay if not to reverse its policy of withdrawal.

Public interest is centered in the astonishing conspiracy being disclosed in the law courts in which an unnamed eastern prince while on a visit to London, felt under the snares of a woman and became the victim of a colossal blackmail plot. The prince's aide de camp is in the conspiracy and the prince, to escape publicity, paid 150,000 pounds sterling, which was divided among the gang of scoundrels. Now the husband of the woman is claiming the whole sum from the bank on the ground that the money was taken out in respect of a forged check. The bank's defense is that the husband was in the conspiracy.

The secrecy preserved in regard to the identity of the prince adds flavor to the sensation. The judge explains that the name is not disclosed owing to serious considerations of public policy. And the public is asking whether this fact will prevent the prosecution of the scoundrels for their criminal offense.

British Note To Egyptians Asks Heavy Indemnity

CAIRO, Nov. 22.—A British note handed to Zaglioul Pasha, Egyptian premier, today demanded a "proper apology" in connection with the killing of Major General Sir Lee Stack, the sirdar, and an indemnity of 500,000 pounds.

The note demands the prohibition of political demonstrations and withdrawal of Egyptian officers and units from the Sudan, the Sudanese troops to come under the control of the Sudan government proper.

NEW MEXICO BREAKS AWAY.

By Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald

Three Rivers Fall is a leading citizen of New Mexico. H. O. Bursum is his political ally and bosom friend. New Mexico rolled up a small majority for the Coolidge electors. New Mexico defeated Bursum for the senate, sending there in his stead Samuel M. Brattan, a justice of the supreme court and prominent in the democratic politics of the Spanish-American commonwealth.

New Mexico is the home of district judge David J. Leahy. Leahy is the judge who sent Carl Magee, a independent editor, to jail for a year for contempt of his court. Leahy is a republican and Magee is a democrat. Governor James Hinkle, a former Texan, granted a full pardon to the editor who continued to fight Leahy in his hammer and tongs fashion.

Now the judge is a has been. He was defeated by a democrat, a Spanish-American, a friend of the editor who was jailed for contempt and an enemy of Three Rivers Fall.

By the way Three Rivers Fall is confident that a jury in the federal court will vindicate him after all the evidence in the case has been heard. He admits that he borrowed $100,000 from Edward L. Doheny but is of the opinion that it is not a crime for a statesman to borrow money if the aforesaid statesman can find a willing lender.

Most men according to Three Rivers Fall are borrowers and it is necessary for most borrowers to go to their friends when they are in need of cash as a man would be a fool to go to an enemy. It was not a good year for oil statesmen.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana was re-elected while Theodore Roosevelt was defeated for office by the voters of New York. In the closing days of the campaign Senator Robert M. LaFollette declared unless the people elected him president gold and oil would control the legislation of the United States.

The Wisconsin senator hasn't chirped since the result of the balloting was made known. Has he resigned or is he still of the opinion that gold and oil control the government?

HONEST JOHN BURKE.

Honest John Burke of North Dakota is a supreme court justice-elect. He was one of the five winners elected by the voters of North Dakota on November 4 and although a democrat he went over the top by a heavy majority.

Honest John has a record. Three times the democrats of North Dakota elected him governor of that state. Woodrow Wilson made him treasurer of the United States government. Honest John served 8 years.

When he joined a Wall Street brokerage firm. His firm went to the wall. Honest John paid over his personal fortune to the creditors and made the journey from New York to North Dakota in a flivver. He was penniless.

Now he is to be one of the high court judges of his native state. It pays in the long run to be an honest man.

What Today Means to You

SAGITTARIUS.

Today's planetary aspects are excellent until sunset, and particularly favor all Sunday interests. In the evening the conditions become somewhat doubtful, and counsel self-control, as there is a marked tendency to querulousness and argument. All disputation must be avoided, and a feeling of nervousness, attributable to the variable vibrations, must be overcome by strength of purpose, if untoward consequences are to be avoided. Resort should be had to light reading, or recreations of a not too strenuous nature.

A child born today will, given normal care and vigilance, have a healthy childhood, and will develop into good physical maturity. It will be fair-minded, charitable, kind and modest. No matter how capable it may be, or how sure of success, it will never be self-assertive, and push itself to the foreground. It must be trained to concentrate, to be more aggressive and to acquire more self-confidence. It will be very affectionate, but quite undemonstrative, and every effort should be made to teach this child the advantage of being really natural.

If today is your birthday, you are forceful, venturesome to the verge of recklessness, and very positive in your manner. You lack calm judgment, and mature deliberation is, with you, an unknown quantity. You rush to conclusions, and force issues with a speed and a determination that often causes your friends consternation, and does you, very frequently, more harm than good. You are so imbued with the correctness of your own opinions that you consider yourself infallible, and all those that do not agree with your very positively expressed ideas are, in your estimation, hopelessly lacking in perspicacity and intelligence. You are upright, but very exacting.

Your love is rugged and vigorous, and the home is the only place where difference of opinion is respected by you. If a man, you are easily dominated by your wife, and, in her eyes, you are just a man, without any pretensions to infallibility. If a woman, you are very subservient to your husband, and lose, in his presence, that air of superiority that you always seem to assume for the benefit of others.

Successful people born on this date are: Franklin Pierce, 14th president of the United States; William Dennison, statesman; Josiah D. Whitney, geologist and educator; John W. Ellis, jurist and once governor of N. C.; Fanny Ward, actress; G. B. McClellan, ex-mayor of New York.

TWO FACES AND WHAT THEY MEAN.

Edyth Johnson, writing in the Daily Oklahoman of recent date, bespeaks her analytical mind with regard to the physical features of the two recently elected women governors—Mrs. Ross of Wyoming and Mrs. Ferguson of Texas. Miss Johnson inaugurates her rather unique dissertation with the query: "If you had to live under the rule of one of the two women whose likeness appear in this column, which would you select?" Whereupon she has this to say:

At a glance, you discern a striking contrast of types. You need not be a physiognomist to know that Mrs. Ross' way of handling the duties of her office will not be Mrs. Ferguson's way. It does not take a keen analyst of character to detect the idealism of Mrs. Ross and the materialism of Mrs. Ferguson. Mrs. Ross is true to type when she accepts with humility the responsibility of finishing the task left by her late husband, one of the best governors Wyoming has had. Mrs. Ferguson, likewise, runs true to form, when she decides to run down the throats of Texans the disgraceful record of her husband, the impeached Governor Jim.

If Mrs. Ross makes any mistake during her administration, it will be for the reason that a fine woman of the highest impulses is unable to detect the nefarious schemes of tricky politicians. In her sincerity she may not be able to discern the insincerity of others, unlike herself.

The structure of Mrs. Ross' face shows balance of the intelectual and emotional natures. Despite the fact that her motives always are pure, she is a pretty keen judge of men. The shape of her mouth, her nose and her chin indicates that she combines practical common-sense with sentiment, sympathy, friendliness and faith.

Her long, straight nose and wide mouth show determination without stubbornness. She has the eye of a woman of high spirit, and not much escapes them. Deliberation is indicated by her well-developed chin and her calm, poised expression. She is capable of enduring devotion either to a person or to a cause.

Her whole aspect is one of fineness. If one could see her in action, one would discover rhythm in her movements. She probably has a beautiful accent and a well-modulated voice. She likes people and she is successful in dealing with them because of her intuition, her kindness and her tact.

There is hard consistency about the face of "Ma" Ferguson. Where Mrs. Ross has a chin showing determination, Mrs. Ferguson has a jowl showing stubbornness. The length of line from the point of her chin to the crown of her head shows a domineering disposition. She is a terrific fighter who gives no quarter. She loves power for its own sake and whether it be exercised by means of official position or the possession of the coin of the realm. The same characteristics are indicated by her large, bony nose, high at the bridge.

While Mrs. Ferguson loves to command, she will not be a good executive because she always will want to thrust aside her subordinates and do the work herself, partly because she believes that she can do it better, and partly because she is filled with distrust.

Mrs. Ferguson has no feeling except for her own, as shown by the hard expression of her eyes. Ideals, to her way of thinking, are for idealists, not for practical men and women of affairs.

Men and women differ markedly in texture, observable in skin, hair, features, hands and feet. The skins is the oldest of the sense organs, and it bears the impress of thought and feeling. Mrs. Ferguson is thick-skinned physically because she is thick-skinned mentally. Over obstacles and opponents alike she runs rough-shod, and there is no appeal to the finer feeling that supposedly resides in the feminine organism.

She would not be unhappy in grimy, unpleasant surroundings. Her idea of beauty is diamonds, not sapphires or pearls. She likes the obvious thing, and she has no appreciation of illusive charm.

She is too egotistical ever to be sensitive. When she grows old, she will bore everybody to death telling about how she justified Governor Jim's record and "made 'em like it," and how she ruled Texas with an iron hand.

THE PRESIDENT'S OPPORTUNITY.

The next six months will present to President Coolidge his greatest opportunity and furnish to him his greatest test. His real inauguration in March will bring to him the chance to select a cabinet of his own and surround himself with associates of his own choosing. It will also bring to him a measure of authority he has never yet enjoyed and place him in a position of augmented influence over congress.

Such is the gist of recent southern editorial comment.

The present cabinet was inherited from the Harding administration and was in no sense of the Coolidge choosing. No doubt he was more reluctant in pressing for obedience and cooperation than he would have been if the cabinet had been of his personal choice and selection. Moreover, several of the cabinet heads were under a cloud of public disfavor. But after March 4 the cabinet will be in the strictest sense a Coolidge cabinet. No matter whether he retains the present officials or appoints a body entirely new, it will be a new cabinet, responsible to him alone.

Congress, too, will be more respectful towards the president. The present congress failed to transfer allegiance from Mr. Harding to his successor. It looked towards the White House occupant as a promoted vice-president. But a decisive change has been wrought by the election. No congressman however refractory can easily ignore the magnitude of the Coolidge majority. Once Mr. Coolidge is president in his own right his message will be treated with far greater consideration than they have heretofore received.

On the other hand the test of the president's capacity to govern will be all the greater. He will have no Harding cabinet or unfriendly congress alibi. No failure he may register, can be excused on the ground that he did not appoint Daugherty, that congress is to blame for his failures. The country has given him the whip hand with no restrictions and the country has a right to expect the president to make the most of his opportunities.

They have a new machine to sign checks with at Washington, but the old political machine is still used at times.

Correct this sentence: "She's a thrifty little body," said the mother, "and really prefers cotton stockings."

Letters of a Japanese School Boy

HOW THANKFUL ARE YOU

To Editor Record-News who pay his Incum Tax quarterly so he can never stop worrying

Dearest Sir:—

Last Wedsdy a. m. morning while I were in backyard hanging out dish-clothes for dry up, who come eloping around house but a very enlarged Japanese resembling a pair of married baloons walking beside themselves. I made my eyes inteligent & saw who it was. Hon Jumbo Fatomato, Japanese blunder-weight puggalist. I fell down on my low stummach to be visited by such highness.

"How you do, Hno. Jumbo Fatomato? I ask to know reverteudly.

"O so So & even less," he report with sl like a leak in Zeppelin. "I am full of curses.) Where is my hope gone? Sayre of yore I come to America expecting to fight Sir Jno Dempsey. But when this Sir Jno see my biceps, bivalves & other hitting muscels he decide to draw the color line.

Then Hon. Texas Richard approach me with $$ in both eyes. He say he would make me rich as Firpo. All I need do was be knocked down 2ce by Hon. Hairy Wills and I get 10000000$. Yet, when Hon. Wills look at me with cross word expression he say he could not bear to fight me."

"What were trouble of him?" I ask to know.

"He draw the color line also," mone Hon. Jumbo. "A last! A lass! I cannot punch-fight in America because too powerful. I are now so out of practice that lame chipmunks chase me brutally. I are so poor that flies will not bite me. & where O where shall I obtain my 9 meals a day? I can think up nothing to do but go to work. I are so far outside of luck that I could not hit it with a breau & arrow. & yet next Thusdy are Thanksgiving Day."

I look to him with Andrew Melons expression, thinking how much money he wish borru.

His Owner's Voice

"This year." I negotiate, "have broken both the legs of my spirit. I have put my money on a French race-horse $ N. Y. Giants. I voted 3 times and when finished I found I had picked out the wrong President. I took my last 5$ to the Yell-Harvard football game & came back with nithing but tonsolitis. If I had 1$ for every hole in my shoe I would be rich enough to live 101 yrs in Germany. How can I think up something thankful between now & Thusdy, I ask to know?"

"Togo!!!" This voice come from top-stairs where I look up to window and observe the head & hair of Mrs C. W. Quackmire, my owner.

"Togo!!!" (have your printer print this 2ce) "What you doing down there, talking jabberish to that big Bloater?"

"Mrs. Madam," I pronounce, "this are my dangerous punching friend, Hon. Jumbo Fatomato. He have arrived here for tell me how he make 2$ less than O last year.'

'Are he speaking confidentially or mearly for Incum Tax Dept?' she require peevly.

"O sweethearted Mrs. Ladyship!" holla Jumbo Fatomato with big size. "I are so poor I must sell the fillins from my teeth to buy fingernaps for my ill wife. My luck is harder than a boiled doorknob. My wealth is zero.'

"Congratulations!" yall Mrs. C. W. Quackmire. "You should talegraf the news to Hon. Andrew Melons, care Treasury Dept., Wash, D. C., and maybe he will put your name in the paper amidst other badly broken millionaires. How much cash-money you pay last yr for Incum Tax?"

No Blushes in John D.'s Figures

"That are another of my unfortunates!" say Jumbo Fatomato with sadly weeping. "That brutal U. S. Govt Collection Agency chase me around corners entire last year to obtain 7$ & 06c for money I did not make because couldn't."

"You very fashionable rich man!" holla Mrs C. W. Quackmire with sweedly smiling. "How stylish you must feel to get your name printed on that List by following arrangement:

Jno. D. Rockefeller jr 7,433,160.14
Jno. D. Rockefeller sr 124,206.47
Jumbo Fatomato 7.08."

"How could I get into such high companionship? require Jumbo. "That printing would make me look pretty minus. Should I let the World (planet and newspaper) know that I make 7000000$ less than that Rockefeller child? This would make be ashamed.'

"Jno. D. Rockefeller sr make 7000000$ less than his brite little son," narrate Mrs. Quackmire, "yet we do not see any Blushes in those figures. This great Standard Oiler are not age. Next year perhapsly his Incum Tax return will show 04c or less. Yet he will be brave. This noble example teach up something, Jumbo Fatomao. We should not be proud about our money. When signing checks we should not let our right hand know what our left hand are doing. Also remember thus. We must not show timid fear about the Future. When old age arrive amidst delicious poverty yet we sholl not strave. He can go & live with our son John who are doing well in business."

"The rich are getting poorer and the poor richer every day," I report with Bapson expression.

Only $2 Per Flivver

W. Quackmire now is the time fo

"Undoubtlessly," narrate Mrs C. W. Quackmire. "Unfil that Fattal List Wall Street were filled with too much cash. Now we see otherwisely. Where have money flew to?"

"Bootleggers, as usual," I suggest.

"Possibly," renig Mrs. Quackmire. "But how could Hon. LaFolette be so crule to speak about Money Power when Hon. Fannie Brice, a acteress, got incum total 1346$ 43c and Hugo Stinnes jr, a Berlin Billionaire, could afford to pay mearly 144$ 36c? Something very curio have happen to Wealth, Jumbo Fatomato. If you believe it, see that List. Even Sir Henry Ford do not make slightly ever 2000000$ last yr from manufacturing 1000000 flivving-machines. This give him poor profit of 2$ per flivv."

"That are 98c too much," grubble Jumbo Fatomato. "No, Mrs. C. W. Quackmire, although I thank you so many for your morning lecture from that top-up window I canot see what in Hal those sweet statistics does to make Thinksgiving more thankful in my deserted stummick. I do not seem to get any nurishment out of the money I did not pay Mr. Melons."

"Some persons is hard to satisfy," she dib. "Wm. K. Vanderbilt jr., also a poor boy, pay U. S. Treasurer 4.25$, yet he did not cumplain about it. How you think this Govt can get rick enough to elect another President & start another Oil Scandal and have a War, perhapsly, and Public Ownership and other calamities unless each citizen of all colors pay tax or go to jail."

"Why should poor man be asked all time to make rich man happy?" reject Fatomato with swell mussels.

No More Vulgar Boasting

"I shall tell you difference between rich & poor," report Mrs C. W. Quackmire. "Poor man pay incum tax with kick & scream. Rich man pay it silently by hireing a lawyer while saying nothing till published in paper. When Cornelium Vanderbilt jr rack & scrape last to raze 3100$ for pay Mr. Melons did he make weep and large howell about it? No. He were quiet. He got no time for cheap publicity. He pay his bills & keep bravely on building a railroad out of what he got left. This, O baseless Japanese, are to remember.

"And now, Japanese schoolboys," concode Mrs C. W. Quackmire in window, "before I finish my lecture I wish tell you some more wisedum. Next Thusdy are Thanksgiving and lots of poeple will get brain-ache attempting to think something to be thankful for. I will tell what. We ought to be darnly thankful we are living in a Country where rich men are not boastful like formerly. They do not go round swagging & bragging about their money. That time are passed off.

"Of formerly it were fasion for vulgar rich gentleman to give invite to parties so he could show all world the 1800000000$ stummachacher what he had just presented to his daughter Brilliantine and the new solid silver furnace in the cellar, price 186000$ & the 22 English butlers bought practically new from the Prince of Wales. When setting down to dinner it were cushtomary for Hon. Host to exclaim, 'For this little Blow Off I are paying 2ce as much as it cost to support publick schools of Altoona, East Et Louis and San Diego during years 1901-4 exclusive. I are the rich Mr. Goldenbricker. Do not be afraid of burning up the table cloth. It only cost 2000000$ & 66c."

"But now what change have came over home of power & greatness? Rich persons does not mention either money or licker for fearful that U. S. Revenue might be hiding under table. Maybe they have raised their 22 butlers to 44 & put golden doors on the solid silver furnace. Nobody should speak of those things when belonging to person paying 880$ incum tax. Hon Host when setting down to dinner say, 'Let us enjoy this food if possible because we know we cannot afford it.'"

Jumbo's Hymn of Thanksgiving

"Such thought while eating must make indigestion very nervus," report Jumbo Fatomato.

"It do indeedly," she betray. "Hospitals is filled with sick millionaires who got that way from the stuff they think and the stuff they drink during meals. Rich persons cannot enjoy Thanksgiving any more. They are so busy thinking how to press a $1 down so Mr Melons will think it are a nickle that food cannot be swallowed pleasantly. Therefore all the turkey go to the poor who can afford it."

"Thanks so muchly, Mrs. Madam, for that sweetish sermon," dictate Jumbo Fatomato, standing there like 1 doz barrels. "After what you say I shall now go somewhere and commit a crime before Thanksgiving when best food are found in all jails."

Therefore he go lummering off while whistling this song like a radio full of Shakspere:

'Im thankful for the wind & fogg,
Im thankful for the Rain,
With songs of praise I greet the days
Which bring me nought but pain,
'& with a perfect howell of Love
I bust my harp in two While praising the Department of Infernal REV E NEW! !"

I think that this Jumbo are losing his suspenders and his mind.

Hoping you are the same

Yours truly,

HASHIMURA TOGO.

ELEPHANTS ON RAMPAGE.

Three Youthful Vaudeville Performers Break Out of Garage.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. —Three baby elephants, part of a vaudeville act at a local theatre, today scored such a smashing hit in private life that their owner, Don Darrah, of New York, was held in $300 bail pending repairs to certain parts of the north-east section of Philadelphia.

The trio, confined at night in a garage, took offense early today at sounds from a balky motor car. They snapped their chains and sallied forth, with the car owner leading the procession at a hot pace.

Fragrant whiffs of breakfast being prepared by Mrs. Anna Dunmore, in her kitchen halted the elephant section of the parade, and one of the trio uprooted the Dunmore fence. Mrs. Dunmore glanced out her window and then, with three young Dunmores, sought the roof. The elephants entered through the back door, taking it with them.

Babe, one of the runaways, burned his trunk on the stove, seized that article by its underpinning and upset it. The other elephants wrecked the icebox and splintered the furniture. Babe then headed an exodus from the Dunmore home.

Police meanwhile summoned Darrah, who returned his charges to the theatre yard, where they were fastened to heavy stakes. But shortly after noon they once more broke loose and for a brief period they roamed about until rounded up again and securely anchored.

A DISEASE OF CHAUFFEURS.

New Ailment Strikes Taxi Drivers In Parisian Traffic.

PARIS, Nov. —Parisian chauffeurs, who are often accused of giving heart-disease to those obliged to cross the streets, are suffering from some new form of nervous malady for which the doctors are finding difficulty in prescribing treatment.

Traffic conditions are held responsible for the outbreak, especially the strain imposed on the drivers by the ever-recurring blockading of traffic.

KELLOGG DINNERS BRILLIANT

American Ambassador And His Wife Making A Hit In London Town.

LONDON, Nov. —Among the most brilliant and interesting week end dinners in diplomatic London are those given by Mrs. Kellogg, wife of the American ambassador. Society chroniclers say that those Friday and Saturday dinners given by the ambassador's wife last season were much sought after and the announcement that they will be continued this year, has given much satisfaction.

It is said that Mrs. Kellogg quickly recognized the fact that Friday and Saturday were the only days on which hostesses could count on members of parliament accepting invitations and that Saturday was the only evening on which journalists could conveniently dine out. Consequently these parties are said by many to be more intellectually brilliant than any given in London.

SAY WITNESSES SCARED

Government Enforcement Agents On Trial For Booze Conspiracy.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. —Intimidation of government witnesses was charged as the second day of the trial of six government agents accused of having sold liquor procured in raids, opened here today in United States district court. R. R. Brewster, special counsel for the government, repeated charges that his witnesses had been so tampered with it might be difficult to get them to testify.

Those on trial are Arthur L. Curran, former enforcement officer of the Kansas City district, Elton Apt, Harvey Storms, Manning Wilcox, Ray Kirk and Isaac Martin, former agents.

Government witnesses told on the stand how the agents had a list of "good boys", owners of drug stores and others who were to be handled carefully in liquor cases. Brewster said that in some raids the liquor owners were simply notified to appear at the enforcement office later and were told there what lawyer to employ. The enforcement officers, he said, then split the fees with the attorneys.

So great has become the practice of sending mail without sufficient postage attached that it is a serious problem for postal authorities to cope with.

The Married Life of Helen And Warren

By MABEL HERBERT VERNER.

"Nothing doing! Full up!" Warren swung back into the taxi.

"Dear, let me try at the next place," Helen peered down the crowded Rue Caumartin.

"Go to it!" elevating his feet on a suitcase. "If you can jolly a room out of one of these French clerks—you can do more'n I can."

"Paris is always full. We have this trouble every year—yet you just won't wire for rooms!"

"Now if you travel with me—you got to take chances. We can always sleep on a park bench," with his most exasperating grin.

The driver, accustomed to piloting room-searching Americans, looked back enquiringly as they now approached the next hotel.

"Grande-Bretagne? Never heard of it." Warren nodded for him to stop. "That's right, get on your war paint," as Helen hastily powered her nose. "You'll need it to tackle one of those blase birds."

"This street's so noisy, shall I ask for a room in the back?" climbing out over the bags and his unyielding knees.

"Take what you can get," Warren flung after her. "Darned lucky to get in."

Through a dim passage, and Helen entered a glass-roofed lounge.

Wicker chairs and tables, potted plants, and red and green rugs—the usual European small-hotel lounge.

At one end was the "office." Desk, switchboard, mail boxes, and key rack.

Assuming her most appealing, helpless-feminity air, Helen approached the desk. A young Frenchman with patent leather hair and a button mustache was in charge.

"I'd like a double room with bath. A quiet one—not on the street," was her artless request, as he appraised her trim, American smartness.

Unresponsive to her ingratiating smile, he turned to that formidable book—reservations for those wise enough to write or wire ahead.

"The name, please?" His English was excellent.

"Oh, I—we're no reservation. We just landed at Harve this morning, and ——"

"We are quite full, Madame," he closed the book with cold finality.

"Oh, I'm so sorry! I—we've always wanted to stop at this hotel—it's so central. Some friends stayed here and like it so much," fabricating recklessly. "We're here every year, and if you only could take care of us now——"

Thawing slightly, he again opened the book and studied the reservations.

"If there's running water," hopefully, "we could do without a bath."

"A bath is quite impossible. Nothing this morning but a single room."

"Couldn't you give us that—and move us later in the day?" eagerly.

"Very well," relenting. "I'll see what I can do this afternoon."

"About what time? After lunch? Oh, thank you so much," rewarding him with a radiant smile.

Agiow with her victory, Helen hurried back to the waiting taxi.

"Pulled it off, did you?" grinned Warren, as the tip-alert porter began dragging out their bags. "What'd he give you? The bridal suite?"

"Only a single room. But he'll fix us up after lunch."

"Darned nuisance having to move. Couldn't he cought up something now?"

"He couldn't give us what he didn't have. There's a long list of reservations—I saw it. And you'd been to five places," nettled by his ingratitude.

Their two steamer trunks and four bags carried in, Warren registered and filled out the usual police blank.

Up in the open cage-like lift, and they followed the boy down the red carpeted corridor to a small, dark, low-ceiling room.

A single bed, a bowl-and-pitcher washstand, one chair, and the inevitable oak wardrobe.

"Don't bring the trunks up—no room for 'em here," instructed Warren, as the boy deposited their bags. Then, at his blank look, "No grade baggage?"

"Oui, oui, Monsieur," pocketing the generous tip.

"Now if we've got to move—no sense unpacking here," as Helen opened the suitcase. "Just leave the stuff—and we' go out for lunch."

"Why, we have to wash up! Oh, I left our soap on the steamer," getting out their toothbrushes. "And of course there's none here," glancing at the soap dish, always empty in French hotels. "I'll get some today. We can use your shaving cream now. Dear, lift this—it's so heavy."

"Say when," as he filled the bowl from the cumbersome pitcher.

"That's plenty," soaping her hands with his shaving cream. "Dear, I'm so thirsty, I wonder if we can drink this water?"

"Not in Paris! Don't want to drink water here, anyway. We'll tank up at lunch. Hustle now," glancing at his watch. "Quarter of twelve, my tum-tum's a shouting vacuum! No nourishment since that six-thirty breakfast on the steamer."

A hurried freshening up, and they started out, locking the reluctant door with the ponderous, tag-weighted key.

"No use punching that bell," as Helen pressed the elevator button.

"I forget these French lifts only take you up," starting down the three flights. "Dear, I suppose we ought to lunch here. They'll give us a better room if they think we're going to eat here."

"Now I'll not be held down to any hotel in Paris. Lamped a place on the way from the station that looked mighty good. That's where we're headed for!"

As they passed out, Helen hoped guiltily that the clerk, busy at the telephone, did not see them.

Outside in the gay, crowded, sunlit street, Warren swung ahead with the brisk intentness that always marked his quests for food; while Helen followed with loitering glances at the alluring shop windows.

Small fancy shops, beads, handbags, laces, lingerie, perfumes—all the Parisian frivolities to clutter the trunks of gullible tourists.

"I think it's just 'round this corner. Yes, here we are—'L'Athenee.'"

Outside tables!" glowed Helen. Oh, dear, I love it!"

"Knew this'd make a hit with you," as they took one of the sidewalk tables "Plenty of outdoor places over in the Latin Quarter, but mighty few around here. And I've a hunch this'e a good beanery. If it is, we'll hit it hard this trip."

All the open-air tables now taken, those inside were fast filling up. White-aproned waiters scurried by with bottles of wine, baskets of bread, and silver-domed dishes. The clink of china and glasses mingled with the sirens of passing taxies. A typical Parisian restaurant at the festive dejeuner hour.

"Now here's where we cut loose!" gloated Warren, taking up the usual faint, purple-inked menu. "We'll start off with Foie gras and tomatoes. That Celeste Potage—whatever that is. Then what? Look over these entrees."

"Dear, I don't want any meat. I'll have Petits pois and Tomato Provinciale."

"No vegetarian lunch for me! Want something that'll stick to my ribs. I'll have some Raie au beurre noir, then that Chateaubrian with truffles, and potatoes au gratin."

"Oh, not all those rich things—you won't enjoy your dinner."

"Now never mind about dinner. We're having lunch now. What d'you want to drink?" studying the wine list. "Poutet-Canet, 1917? That was a good year."

"Oh, we don't have to have a vintage wine," demurred Helen.

"Now no scrimping on this feed! How 'bout an appetizer? Dubonnet or Byrrh?"

"Byrrh's better—it's not so sweet. Dear, isn't he cunning? Look how fat!" throwing some crumbs to a greedy corpulent sparrow.

But Warren was now giving their order to the ruddy, genial proprietor.

"Dear, there's a saddle shop across the street. One of those riding whips might be a good thing to take Lawrence. Oh, I love this!" as two more sparrows joined her bread line. "Why can't we have outdoor restaurants in New York?"

"Hugh, they'd pinch 'em for blocking the sidewalks. Here they put out tables any old place. If there's no room to walk—they take to the street. Your Frenchman makes everything secondary to eating—mighty sensible idea, too."

The Portage Celeste proved to be a delectable cream soup with mushrooms.

The Raie, the Chateaubrian, Helen's favorite Tomato Provinciale, and the petits pois cooked in lettuce juice, were equally delicious.

"Dear, give her something," as a shriveled old match-woman shuffled by.

"Merci, Monsieur, Merci!" when Warren flung her a coin.

"What's that Johnnie having? By Jove, snails! What d'you call 'em in French? Escargots—isn't it? Didn't see 'em on here,' he took up the menu.

"I'm glad you didn't—they're much too rich. Last year they made you ill."

"Never mind last year. We come here tomorrow for snails! Now what?" still gloating over the card. "Hello, we're in luck! Fraises des bois! Didn't know they were in season. Garcon! Two—duo Fraises des bois and duo Creme l'Isijny."

"Not for me," protested Helen. "Fraises des bois? I don't know what they are."

"Well, take my tip—whenever you see 'em, nail 'em! Don't pass 'em up."

"Fraises des bois?" mused Helen. "Bois means woods. Something from the woods. What ARE they? Oh, strawberries!" as the waiter brought the red berries heaped on green leaves. "But how small—they're not like our strawberries."

"These are wild. Just taste 'em. Never get that flavor in a cultivated berry. Hold on, you want some of this on 'em," spooning the thick Creme d'Isijny from the tiny brown jar. "Now try that. Great, eh? Thought you'd fall for it. Guess I can spot the humdingers on these French chow bills!"

"You're wonderful! You always know what to order," gratifying his egotism as a food connoisseur. "It's delicious—but this rich cream after all——"

"Oh, tune off! We're traveling now—we can stand rich stuff. Now enjoy this, grub! You don't get wild strawberries and Creme d'Isijny every day."

Black coffee, in tall slender glasses, and Triple Sec rounded off their luncheon.

"Now here's where we take a taxi—see how the town looks this year."

"Oh, no, dear, let's go back and see if he's got that room. We ought to get settled and unpacked before we start out."

"Not much! I'm not doing any unpacking after that lunch," he lit a cigar.

"But we must see about the room. He might give it to someone else."

"Hugh, we're there now—he's got to take care of us. Come on, we'll take this speed-eater," raising his cane at an approaching taxi. "We'll stop at the Casino and get tickets for tonight. What's that? Now don't worry 'bout that room. If it's gone—you vamp another one out of him. Now here's where we take it easy. I've got to get busy tomorrow—but we're going to bum around today!"

DON'T HANG UP PICTURES

German Architect Says That This Custom Is Not Sanitary.

BERLIN, Nov. 18.—The hanging of pictures on walls is as bad a custom as some of the practices of barbarian times and should be abolished in civilized countries. This is the opinion of Bruno Taut, an architect who has started a movement to improve home life and to make life more comfortable for everybody, particularly the house wife.

Writing in a trade magazine, Taut asserts that the United States is far ahead of other countries so far as "homes" apartments are concerned, especially in the matter of conveniences. Taut wants architects to cooperate with women in an endeavor to bring about numerous home reforms.

Picture hanging should be abolished according to Taut, first because pictures are dust catchers and therefore unsanitary and, second, because dusting is a tedious task, requiring thousands of steps and arm movements each week, which get on the nerves of the house wife. To leave picture frames undusted, Taut contends, makes matters even worse. He declares that wall paper should be selected with the idea of soothing the nerves and that proper wall paper is a home will make pictures unnecessary.

FATHER-SON

go into a father's relationship to his son; he sounded a warning for those who have not established as close a relationship as they might, and he concluded with a challenge to the fathers to "know their sons."

Greatest Tragedy In World.

"The greatest tragedy in the world," the speaker declared, "is that of a father who wakes up too late and tries to establish himself in the affections of his children and finds that he cannot do it. I plead with you fathers; do not allow your sons and daughters to drift away from you because they interfere with your business; you cannot afford to do it."

Judge McCulloch in the course of his address paid tribute to President Coolidge, who, in his radio speech the night before the election, closed remarks which were heard by millions throughout the nation with the simple statement of "good night, father." The speaker said this was one of the finest things he had ever heard of a man doing—a simple reminder of the affection and love he bore for one who in years gone by had worked and suffered for him.

In the only other address by a father, Judge William H. Atwell, also of Dallas, gave a toast to the sons which were characterized as "the finest bouquet it is man's privilege to possess." Judge Atwell stressed the joy a son should bring to his father and stressed also the poignant grief that a misstep by that son produced. The speaker urged his younger hearers to so live that their fathers would have cause for pride in the images of themselves which they saw reproduced in their boys.

The Kids There, Too.

Not one whit less prominent than their dads were the youngsters themselves. Clustered like satellites around their sires they were probably the chief attractions of the night. As might have been expected, it was the kids whose welfare was looked after first, and unfortunate indeed was the predicament of that still fortune dad who had to keep three or four of his lusty off-spring quiet while the ice cream was being served.

The boys had their full part on the program, and carried off their share with distinction. They started the fireworks early in the evening when R. E. Shepherd enlisted their aid in the rendition of a more or less well-known melody bespeaking the termination of excessive showers.

"Now let's have some solos," Shep proposed after he had romped through a verse or two of "It Ain't Gonna Rain No More."

By actual count seven juvenile volunteers in various parts of the room submitted verses that ranged all the way from politics to love scenes. The "song fest," by the way, was a howling success and a succession of howls, or rather music, that the collective 500 produced at the earnest entreaties of Mr. Shepherd. With J. S. Pittman at the piano a number of popular airs were reeled off as the meeting got under way and more were supplied at the conclusion.

In these as in other parts of the program, the treble notes, not yet succeeded by the masculine base of later years, were much in evidence.

Four toasts were forthcoming from the sons, the first of which was given by Ford Chauncey in his toast "To the Fathers."

"I propose a toast to the best pals boys ever had," young Chauncey began, and after a glowing tribute to the dads he brought the sons to their feet to drink a real toast to their elders.

Couper Jr., Speaks.

In his toast "To the Schools," Fred Couper, Jr., also paid homage to the fathers. He remarked on the great Junior college building in which the meeting was being held; he recalled that only through taxes and bond issues which his and the other fathers financed was such a building possible, and he went into some detail on the fine school system which the fathers of Wichita Falls supported.

A unique touch was provided by Sam Basham in his toast "To Our Country," when, with but a few preliminary remarks, he recited Longfellow's poem "The Builders."

"Sail on, sail on, thou ship of state. Sail on, thou nation strong and great—" he began, and then carried the poem through to its conclusion.

Emmet Bankinglet, the only other speaker of the evening, gave his toast to the church and stressed the importance of that institution in the lives of all fathers and their sons.

Special musical numbers of the evening were supplied by the Hi Y quartet, Yancey Cummings, Ralph Lindsay, Shumake Baber and Carlton Brown who got riotous applause with their peppery songs; J. S. Pittman whose medley of popular airs, coaxed from the piano, took his audience by storm; and Rev. Leslie Miller, whose vocal numbers "Leetle Baptiste" and "The Owl" struck responsive chords.

Cline Misses It.

The Shrine quartet completely befuddled Walter Cline, the genial toastmaster of the night, when it failed to function because of the absence of one member. Mr. Cline had just concluded a modest recounting of the way he had trained "his boys" to their high state of efficiency, and announced that the quartet would sing, when one of the four broke the news that the quartet was only a trio. The missing member was unable to arrive before the meeting broke up and Mr. Cline expressed deep concern that he had been made out a prevaricator before such a distinguished gathering.

Much of the success of the evening was due Mrs. P. A. Welty and her efficient staff of helpers who prepared the chicken pie dinner served. To the Camp Fire Girls, also, under the direction of Miss Glenice Fisk, their executive, Mr. Cline on behalf of the diners expressed sincere appreciation. Seventy-five girls waited on the tables.

The meeting lasted some two hours and a half and was surcharged with that spirit of fellowship and understanding between father and son that the affair was designed to develop.

The nearly 500 drifted out and went home when it was all over, impressed, but themselves impressive in the demonstration of mutual good will they had given.

CATTLE EPIDEMIC GONE

Boog-Scott Says Texas Practically Safe of Hoof-Mouth Disease.

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 22.—Texas is practically safe now from the foot and mouth disease, J. Boog-Scott, chairman of the live stock commission informed Governor Neff today. It has been 37 days since any serious outbreak has occurred and affected areas are considered safe after twenty-one days. It is thought their quarantines against shipments of livestock and other products from Texas.

Police Balked In Furnace Crime

Mrs. Addie Sheatsley, her husband, the Rev. C. V. Sheatsley, and their four children (left to right), Alice, now 10; Clarence, 16; Elizabeth, 14, and Milton, 20.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22.—Murder or suicide?

So far police have been balked in their efforts to solve the mystery of the death of Mrs. Addie Sheatsley, 50, in the furnace of the Sheatsley home in Bexley, a suburb. The charred body was found within the furnace, with the door, 14 inches square, closed.

Her husband, the Rev. C. V. Sheatsley, pastor of Christ Lutheran church for eight years, is at a loss for an explanation of the crime, either on a murder or on a suicide theory.

"I really cannot make up my mind that Mrs. Sheatsley killed herself," he said.

"Knowing her as I do, it does not seem that she could do it. She dreaded pain. Yet, I can think of no motive for foul play."

When three of the four Sheatsley children came home from school at 3:30 in the afternoon, they noticed that a peculiar odor prevaded the house. They looked into the furnace and thought they saw some rabbit skins burning. This, to them, explained the source of the odor.

An hour later, when Rev. Mr. Sheatsley returned home from Columbus, he told investigators, he, too, noticed the odor. When he investigated the furnace, he made the grewsome discovery.

"The children spoke about the odor in the house and Alice said she had seen some skins burning in paper in the furnace. She thought they were rabbit skins. When the youngsters asked about supper, Elizabeth and I started for the grocery.

"Returning, I went toward the back door and as I turned the corner of the house, the odor became more striking. I laid down my packages and went into the basement.

"The furnace door was closed. I opened it and looked in. What I saw was just bones. Then I saw bits of jewelry, a wedding ring, a bead or two. I didn't know what to think. I hurried upstairs and called the neighbors."

Yankee Jazz Bands And Broadway Blues Giving Gay Paree a Big Kick

By JESSIE HENDERSON,
Special Correspondent The Record-News.
Copyright, 1924, The Consolidated Press Association.

(So this is Paris. Henderson, making her first voyage of discovery to Europe, has arrived at the gay capitol of France. Apparently she began on her arrival seeking out all the bright places. In all the years Miss Henderson has been writing her popular dispatch "Seven Days in Lil' Old N'Yor\" she has never produced anything more entertaining than this, her first dispatch wirelessed from the other side.)

PARIS, Nov. 22.—If you shout "hulle Bill" on any crowded street in this town, half the natives will turn out to be Americans. And if you shout it anywhere near Mont Martre the entire population will fall on your neck with questions about the home folks.

There are more Americans in Mont Martre at present than in, for example, Greenwich village.

There are many reasons, some blond, some brunette, why the man from home scarcely waits to get into his hotel before he is out again hailing a taxi and demanding in execrable French, to be driven to the steep, stony streets of the Greenwich village of Paris. For Mont Martre now is more Greenwich village than the Latin quarter, just as Greenwich village is now more Coney Island than artistic.

Ask the average American tourist where the Louvre or the Opera is located and he waves a vague hand. Ask him about Zelli's or Leperroquet, and, with shrill cries, he flings you into a taxi and takes you thither. From which fact it may easily be deduced that the average American is not here for the purpose of comparing Monaliza with anything from Rembrandt. It is deplorable how soon he learns to pronounce Mont Martre and how long it takes him to learn to say Notre Dame or the equivalent of public library.

Ye Old Yankees.

Of course the average American has heard about the flirty Parisienne in Mont Martre and the cabarets and the delicious old French songs which they can be induced to sing. He reaches Mont Martre with the light anticipation in big eyes and spends the entire evening hunting for a Parisien or a French song. Mont Martre is about as full of Parisiennes as Broadway. But it is full of bright little American boys and girls all singing bright little American coon songs.

The rage of Paris at the moment is a ditty about "Hard-Hearted Hanna, the Vamp of Savannah." You will see stony business men listening with tears in their eyes when along about 3 in the morning an American jazz band starts up and an American entertainer flings forth the first notes of some Kentucky, New Orleans or Louisville blues.

There is one chap from Hoboken who sings southern songs with so true and sympathetic an accent that his work arouses as much patriotism as if he played the national anthem. With their eyes glued on the far distance unsentimental Americans listen, blow their noses, clear their throats and forget they have come three thousand miles for the sake of hearing what they can hear at far less expenditure of money, time and effort any time around Broadway or even Main street.

Nearly every cabaret has its colored orchestra or at least its American trap drummer. And it is a fact worth noting that the American negro picks up the French tongue with amazing speed and accuracy. Apparently his ear is so attuned to rhythm and cadence that learning French is no effort. In a month he speaks rather well, while the white American is still floundering on verbs and exceptions.

Nothing Serious.

It is not, as has been indicated, the serious student of artlor sociology who puts Mont Martre on the map and keeps it there. But yet there is always a surprise for the new arival in the realization of how thoroughly the American in Mont Martre refuses to take things seriously. The other evening a certain cabaret was giving a Hula Hula dance which included a snake charming act. The snake was obviously alive and almost too lively for the lady who wore it. However, she finished her remarkable dance and then in a prankish moment, untwined the snake from around her waist and put him on the floor. At a corner table sat several Americans, one chubby and childlike. The dancers' snake started across the floor at a fair pace, heading for the chubby American. At home the man would have leaped on the table or out of the window. But what would you? Wasn't this Paris? Above all wasn't this Mont Martre? The dancer, a bit frightened, pursued her pet but before she could catch it by the tail, it reached the table. Here it reared its wicked head high above the dishes and the chubby man found himself looking into the cold, little eyes of an eight-foot python.

Did the chubby man scream and flee. He did not. As the serpent run out its tongue at him he reciprocated with an ancient, lamentable gesture of defiance which brought down the house.

Americans don't even take snakes seriously in Mont Martre. But perhaps the chubby man did not think he really saw it.

India is taking to automobiles and the number of cheap cars being shipped there from other countries is increasing rapidly.

Camp Fire Growth Surest Index To Its Worth Here

Organization's Expansion In Year's Time Is Fine Testimonial

Is your daughter a Camp Fire Girl?

Camp Fire teaches a girl to live a night, with her windows open. She washes her teeth and takes a cold bath and setting-ups in the morning. She cleans up her room and her dresser drawers. She takes care of little children. She hikes out and cooks over a fire, she even sleeps out in cold weather if she be seasoned. She swims and makes beaded bands, she learns the cuts of meats in a butcher shop and studies the habits of wild things. She serves at banquets or parties for her church, or adopts a little child, with the other girls of her group, to dress and care for, or carries flowers to shut-ins or the hospital.

89 At Camp.

Eighty-nine girls attended summer camp at Craterville Park, Oklahoma, during the two-week period in July. A well balanced, wholesome camping program of fun and work was carried out.

There was a councillor—adult leader—for every five girls. A camp nurse was on duty the entire time, with a fully equipped "hospital" for any emergency. All hiking, swimming and other activity was carefully directed and supervised. Water regulations provided life guards over deep and shallow water, and nearly every girl advanced one grade in swimming. Special emphasis is laid on life saving and water first aid.

Wichita Falls has had an executive office since November of last year. In that one year the growth and development of the organization has been the surest index of its worth to the community. There were 125 girls enrolled in Camp Fire and Blue Birds (the junior work) then, and there are more than 350 now. Beside Wichita Falls, Burkburnett, Iowa Park and Vernon have organized and belong to the Wichita Falls office. Wichita Falls is one of three Texas cities to boast an executive, the others being Ft. Worth and Dallas.

Part of the work of the executive office is to give a training course each year to prepare women for leadership. Last year's course was held in February with a graduating class of 29. This year it will probably be held in February or March. Beside women who are or wish to become guardians, many mothers take the work to better understand what Camp Fire is trying to do for their daughters, and to understand and help the leaders. Arrangements have been made to bring the Dallas executive for part of the instruction.

Miss Fisk Executive.

Miss Glenore Fisk, executive, a young woman of considerable training and experience in general Camp Fire work and summer camp direction, considers Camp Fire in its beginning of usefulness and accomplishment in Wichita Falls. Miss Fisk organized the first group of the present guardians' association in the First M. E. church more than 3 years ago, and has since brought the organization to its present status, receiving recognition as executive a year ago. Previous to that time, she spent a year at S. M. U., Dallas, teaching a training course for guardians in connection with the physical education department. Miss Fisk has received recognition from national headquarters for her abilities and meritorious service.

Japan, the land of rice, expects to buy that food from other countries in order to have enough to supply its people this season.

HE DOES NOT COME ALONE!

This week one of a hundred volunteer workers will call upon you at your place of business.

This man will come without companions, yet he does not come alone. With him, unseen, unheard, but none the less there, are several hundred men, women and children who are awaiting the answer to the question he asks you.

There will be children—orphans and cripples and youngsters to be started on the right road in life. There will be mothers and grandmothers—the poor, the weak, the old, the unfortunate.

The decision which must be yours when these unfortunates, through their representatives, call to see you is a decision such as none other to be met throughout the year. It is a decision which means to them the difference between comfort and privation, between warmth and cold, between happiness and misery. It is a decision which means to you how much of unselfishness, of sympathy, of understanding you have.

When the Community worker calls to see you, look behind him to the small army of waiting unfortunates. Forget for a moment that you are facing a man like yourself—a man with work to do and ability to do it—and imagine that before you stand those whom he would have you benefit. Do that and you cannot fail to do your duty by them.

One campaign instead of nine——You can afford to give liberally!

Detroit Boasts Large Army Of Young Pitchers

Cobb Believes His Staff Of 1925 Will Excel 1924 Corps

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 22.—Ty Cobb, interviewed in Asheville, N. C., is quoted as saying that he will have a much better pitching staff next summer. Cobb does not mention any names but the natural assumption is that he expects help from some of the new pitchers. There will be quite a number of these when the Tigers assemble at Augusta in the spring. One of whom much is expected is Jess Doyle, a right-hander, who was purchased from Toronto of the International league. Doyle is a seasoned minor league pitcher. He played on the Pacific Coast before he went to Toronto and he has had at least one trial in the major leagues—that with the Yankees a few years ago.

Doyle has a strong booster in Dan Howley, the Toronto manager, who used to help Cobb direct the destines of the Tigers. Howley thinks that Doyle is ready for the big leagues and will have little difficulty in making good. The opinion is shared by Frank O'Rourke, who was Doyle's teammate at Toronto before he joined Detroit late last season.

Another pitcher who promises much is Leslie Beck, who is coming on from Lincoln, Neb. Beck had a good season in the Western league and forcefully impressed Detroit scouts who watched him work. Like Doyle, he is a right-hander.

Cole May Not Be Back

If all of the left-handed pitchers on the Detroit reserve list come to camp, the Tigers will probably set a world's record in that respect. When the team finished last season. Four left-handers were doing more or less regular duty—Earl Whitehill, Edwin Wells, Dutch Leonard and Bert Cole. With the exception of Cole, who had a disappointing season, it is probable that all of them will return. No official disposition has been made of Cole but the impression has gained ground that he will not be back. Still, he is eligible and can not be left off the list until the club owners take some definite action.

In addition to this quartet it is likely that Seraphin John Good will return for another chance. Good is said to have done well with Birmingham in the Sothern association, where he was sent under optional agreement and to be worthy of another trial. Indeed, he probably would have made good last spring had he not been troubled by a serious injury.

Good came to the Tigers originally from Bay City, where in 1923 he helped pitch that team to a Mint league pennant. After his sale to Detroit, Good was given an unusual amount of work. Bay City was in the pennant fight almost to the last day and Good had to carry the pitching burden.

In one game Good said he made a dive for a bunted ball. As he did he felt something in his back snap. In the following winter Good was treated and while he improved to some extent, he did not fully recover. After he joined the Tigers an X-ray was taken of Good's injury and showed that he was suffering from a misplaced vertebrae.

Besides these left-handers Cobb intends to have about a dozen right-handers in Georgia late in February, including Doyle and Beck. Six of them were with the club at the close of the 1924 campaign—Rip Collins, Kenneth Holloway, George Dauss, Lil Stoner, Herman Pillette and Sylvester Johnson will be ordered back, but confirmation is lacking. There is hardly any doubt about the others.

Another Chance for Ludolph

Bill Ludolph, who came here from Bay City, along with Good, will be recalled from Vernon of the Pacific Coast league. Ludolph was sent to Vernon near the middle of last season. Prior to that he had done very little pitching for the Tigers. Others to return are George Selby Smith, Samuel Braxton Gibson and Rufus Rivers Clark. Neither Smith nor Gibson has ever appeared at Navin Field, but Clark has had several opportunities to pitch there. He is a tall, strong fellow, built something on the order of Rip Collins. Which is to say he has the physique of a successful major league pitcher.

Another youngster with the Tigers last spring who is expected to receive another trial is Hap Collard. He came over to Augusta before the Tigers left for the north. Collard helped Johnny Nee win the South Atlantic league pennant and if all reports on him are reliable, he is entitled to further consideration from the Bengal bosses.

It is certain then that the Tigers will not lack for numbers in the pitching problem. The quantity is there and there is reason to believe that Cobb's confidence in its quality is not misplaced.

ELECTION DEPRIVES HIM OF "TOPPER" HE WORE 20 YEARS

G. Polk Cline, pioneer Kansas lawyer and politician, doesn't feel like the same man since the election. He misses his hat. He had worn a high silk hat for 20 years when he made the vow that if his daughter, Nellie, was defeated in her race for congress, he would never wear it again. She lost by a few votes. Cline is seen wearing the hat just before he discarded it forever.

AIDS THEM IN CHARITY.

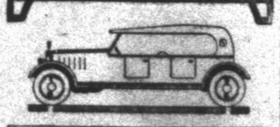

Ft. Worth Mayor Will Pay Firemen's Contributions to the Chest.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 22.—Declaring that a city fire fighter cannot support his family, educate his children, save a little and still have a surplus to donate to charity funds, Mayor Willard Burton, Fort Worth's newly appointed philanthropic city head, has announced that he would personally supply the donations to the community chest fund for every fireman in the city, numbering over a hundred.

The mayor notified the firemen to make known the amount they wished to donate and that he would reimburse them.

CATCH CARP 100 YEARS OLD; WEIGHT 30 POUNDS

KIRCHBARKEN, Schleswig-Holstein, Nov.—A German carp estimated to be more than 100 years old has been caught in a canal here. It was three feet long and weighted 30 pounds. Fishermen here say the largest carp they ever heard of before weighed only 20 pounds. The "centenarian," caught in a net, after being taken to town in a tank and examined by scientists, was set free in the canal where it had been taken, the fishermen believing this would bring them good luck.

LESSON NO. 7

LIGHTING THE BEDROOMS

There are three or four different purposes for which we may need lighting in a bedroom. At times we need a soft flood of light all over the room; when dressing, we need proper lighting of the mirror; a boudoir lamp on a small table near the head of the bed, or a bracket lamp on the bed itself serves as a night light; and if the room be a large one, there may be need for a floor lamp beside a comfortable chair for reading.

THE CEILING FIXTURE

The fixture that is selected for the center of the ceiling should provide enough general lighting all over the room for ordinary use of the room. To protect the eyes, it must be shaded in such a way that the eyes of a person lying in bed cannot be strained by the bulb which furnishes the light. If a shade is used which is open at the bottom, the opening should be narrow. A total of from 50 to 100 watts will give plenty of light in this fixture.

LIGHTING THE MIRROR

We see objects by the light that falls on them and is reflected to the eye. Thus, when we look in a mirror, and see a reflection of our face, what has happened is this: the light falls upon our face which reflects a part of the light to the mirror; the mirror, in turn, reflects a part of the light back to our eye, and we have seen an image of our own face.

Now it is easy to understand why it is more important to light the face itself instead of lighting the mirror. To do this, the bulb or light source ought to be in front of the face. And since the face is not a flat surface it can be best lighted from two directions, so that the light from one side will light up the shadows cast from the features of the face by the light from the other side.

The best lighting, then, is from two bracket fixtures on the walls, one at each side of the mirror. These fixtures are just at the level of the eye, and the light from them will cause eye-strain unless we are careful to have them well shaded for protection against glare. The bulbs in these bracket fixtures may be from 25 to 50 watts.

In some rooms where there is not enough wall space at each side of the mirror on which to put bracket fixtures, we may use a pair of portable candlesticks on the dresser itself, or a special sort of bracket which is made to fasten at each side of the mirror itself. Or we may have a single fixture hung from the ceiling over the center of the dresser, the bottom of which is just above the head of a person using the mirror.

If portable candlesticks are used, or if bracket fixtures are fastened to the mirror, we must not forget a convenience outlet, which may well be of the double or duplex type mounted in the wall 36 inches above the floor. This also makes it easy to attach a curling iron or other appliance. A convenience outlet will also be needed near the head of the bed for a boudoir lamp in which a 25-watt bulb will give plenty of light.

SERVANTS' ROOMS

Good lighting for servants' rooms may be provided from a ceiling fixture in which a 50-watt bulb is used with a suitable shade and a bracket fixture on the wall with a shaded 25 or 50-watt bulb. If the room is very small, the ceiling fixture may not be needed, and a pair of bracket fixtures may be used.

A small portable table lamp will do much to make the room more comfortable, but it is not essential. Whether it is used or not, a convenience outlet may be needed for electric appliances

Archer County Production Reaches New Peak—39,820 Barrels a Day

OLNEY DISTRICT MONOPOLIZES ARCHER COUNTY ACTIVITY AND SHOWS LARGE PRODUCING AREA

But Three Completions in Carey Pool During Past Week; These Lack Spectacular Show of Week Before.

By EDWIN HILL.
RECORD NEWS STAFF.

OLNEY, Nov. 22.—With over 200 producing wells in the Olney area, an almost innumerable number of wildcat tests drilling and new locations being made almost daily, this section is experiencing a period of rapid development seldom equalled in this part of the state. The fact that a number of new and prolific pools have been opened up in the Olney area within the last two months lends encouragement to the belief that a vast empire of virgin territory stretching across north Young county holds some wonderful possibilities for the wildcatter and as a result derricks are beginning to dot the skyline on all sides of the town and development work has already spread out with surprising rapidity.

Carey Pool.

The past week, following a period replete with exceptional completions, the best that have ever been brought in in this part of the country, was unusually quiet in this sector of the district with but three completions reported, one of these for a failure and the other two for nice producers, though not up to the standard of the week before.

Texas Company's No. 2, Jeske, offsetting to the west its gusher No. 1, Jeske, in block 6, Thomas McCoy survey, showed further the edge of the pool there, being dry at past 1,160 feet.

Petroleum Producers No. 1, Pollei, made better than a 400-barrel well, sand 1,108-1,120 feet. Maer-Stanliforth-Shaw-Rathke No. 2, Pollei, offsetting this well to the east made a 200-barrel well at almost the same sand.

Thirteen wells are producing in this pool now and 14 rigs are running, more than half of which are due on the sand the first part of this week.

Panhandle-Knight-Hines Pool.

In the Knight-Hines pool the Panhandle-Consolidated have completed their No. 6-B, Ragle after drilling 17 feet of sand topped at 1,070 feet. This well shows to be much better than their No. 5 to the south. The same combination's No. 4-E, Ragle was brought in about the middle of the week for a flowing well with an estimated flush production of 500-barrels. This is one location west of their Ragle No. 1-E.

In the south of the field, on the Bearden lease, the National Supply company has finished the power plant which it had under construction. This was erected for the Panhandle Refining company and Knight and Hines for the pumping of their wells on the Bearden lease.

Panhandle-Knight-Hines No. 6 Bearden is drilling at 725 feet. This is three locations west of the northeast corner of this lease.

Litchfield Pool.

In the newly discovered Litchfield pool activities are spreading out around the discovery well and this area is promised some rapid development. The outcome of the tests which will soon be under way will be closely watched as there is considerable speculation as to the trend of the sand.

Litchfield, Murchison and Fain have made a location 300 feet north of the discovery while Litchfield has derrick up for his No. 2 a location south.

The Kentucky Oil company has make a location for a test in the southwest corner of the Kilcrease land, survey 1809, just north of the well.

The Simms Oil company has made a location on the Carpenter land, survey 237, offsetting the discovery to the west.

Murchison and Fain are laying a two-inch water line from the Knight-Hines pool to this area which will solve the water problem for awhile here.

Harmel Pool.

Three good wells have been added the past week in the Harmel pool including the Petroleum Producers No. 3 Rodgers which shows to be good for 200 barrels from the sand at 1,267-81 feet.

The Mutual Oil company's No. 1 Harmel in the southwest quarter of survey 2401 is showing up for one of the best of this field's completions, being rated as good for 400-barrels. This well constitutes an easterly extension of the pool. It has been offset, in three directions, north, northwest, and west by Murchison-Fain-Golding and Marland Oil company of Texas.

The latest and one of the most promising tests to reach the sand in this pool is that of Masterman, Gatewood et al on the Rodgers which picked up the sand at 1,258 feet and after drilling 12 feet of sand promises to make a 400-barreler.

Wildcats.

The Roxana Petroleum company and Knight and Hines have spudded and are drilling on their No. 1 Logan, survey 407, five miles west of Olney. Location is in southeast corner of survey.

In survey 242, Colley land, two miles east of north, Knight and Hines are drilling around 300 feet after being delayed by laying a water line.

Four miles south of Olney and a mile north of the Knight and Hines Colley test, Reed and McFarlane have derrick up for a test on the L. D. Clark land. Location is 250 feet south and 150 feet east of the center of south line of survey 209.

Knight and Hines are ready to spud their test on the Pengle land, survey 261, southeast of Olney.

The R. C. Reed Campbell No. 1, survey 231, just outside the city limits is drilling around 600 feet.

Wynne and Staley have derrick up in survey 155, J. K. Thomas land, about half a mile south of the city limits.

In survey 161, two miles southwest of Olney, Polk Anderson is drilling around 300 feet. This is a cable tool test using a Keystone machine.

On the H. N. Tucker land, survey 120, Burns and Maxson have derrick up and are moving in tools for a rotary test, location being near center of survey. This is six miles southwest.

Throckmorton County.

Much activity is being shown in the area around the town of Elbert in Throckmorton county where a number of locations have been made and several tests have started within the last few days. It seems to be generally conceded that this section of Throckmorton county is due to be thoroughly tested out and many operators are looking with favor on this area. Among the drilling tests and locations the following are to be recorded for the section around Elbert.

Masterman and Gatewood, W. R. Rodgers land, J. Poitevant survey, abstract 242, four miles north of Elbert, location.

Comac company, center of S. B. L. survey 2152, abstract 562, Mitchel land, location.

Deets et al, Rodgers land, survey 2108, abstract 318, one mile north of Elbert. Location.

Clark, Cowden et al, McCarson land, survey 2192, abstract 602, three miles west of Elbert. Spudded.

Texas Company, Smythe land, survey 3020 abstract 742, five miles west of Elbert. Drilling. Cable tools.

Chas. Pfile et al, survey 790, abstract 316, three miles southwest of Elbert. Location.

Wagee and Goldston, Travis county school land, abstract 254 southeast corner. Location.

Cranfil Brothers, Dewton land, survey 3028, abstract 750. Location.

Sheerin-McCamey-Lucey No. 1, Richardson, section 83, South Vernon was drilling ahead last night at a reported depth of 2,041 feet in sand and lime showing some oil and no gas. It was intended to take a few more feet and set a liner. Casing is set at 1,967 feet.

Prince Brothers No. 1, Zipperele, section 84, was preparing to drill ahead last night after bailing dry in a sand, with the bottom of the hole given as 1,969 feet.

Cromwell Still Leads Oklahoma In Oil Activity

Tulsa-Okmulgee Shows Second Largest Number Of Operations

The total number of operations in Oklahoma for the past week exceeded those of the previous by the total of nine, according to the current issues of The Oil Weekly. The largest increase was noticed in the number of new locations, with 20 new locations more than the last week. The only other department to show a increase was the number of shutdown wells which reported three more shutdown wells.

Wewoka-Cromwell district continued to lead the state in the number of total operations per district when it reported 359 total operations, 21 of these were new locations, 47 new rigs, 223 drilling wells, 47 shutdown wells, and 21 completions. This district leads in all divisions, passing Tulsa-Okmulgee district in shutdown wells for the first time.

Tulsa-Okmulgee district ranked second in the total operations when it reported 196 for a total, 98 drilling wells helping to swell its total.

Following is the comparative summary as compiled by The Oil Weekly:

Texas Saline Dome Pools Show Fall-Off Over Week Before

HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. 22.—Daily average heavy oil production from the saline dome pools of coastal Texas and Louisiana dropped 3,250 barrels during the week just ended, while the pools of south Texas gained 980 barrels. Heavy oil totalled 83,556 barrels, compared with 86,925 the week before. The Big Creek field in Fort Bend county registered a loss of 2,700 barrels daily. The other heavy oil pools showed but normal gains and losses. Daily average production, as estimated by a major pipe line company, follows by pools:

REFINERS STATISTICS.

Western Petroleum Refiners' Association Says Not Running Capacity.

Of the 2,510,510 barrels refining capacity in the United States the first of this year, but 60.8 per cent is being utilized at present, says the bulletin of the Western Petroleum Refiners' association.

Refining capacity in the United States has increased from 1,295,000 barrels January 1, 1919, to present figures, an increase of 93.9 per cent. Refining capacity is now about 750,000 barrels larger than the daily average production.

Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas refinery capacity has gone to 747,525 barrels from 280,682 in 1919, 166.8 per cent increase, but runs to stills the last year have averaged by 395,014 barrels, 52.8 per cent of capacity.

Oklahoma-Kansas capacity has risen from 320,200 barrels in 1919 to 510,150 barrels, 59 per cent increase, with but 13.4 per cent utilized, 192,572 barrels being the average daily crude run the last year.

RED RIVER TAXES.

Believe That Collection Will Involve Intricate Investigations.

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 22.—U. S. supreme court has granted the state of Texas authority to prepare a statement showing the amount of gross production oil tax and ad valorem tax due it from the receiver in the Red River boundary case, and an auditor has been assigned to determine the amount of this tax, but a final order from the court will be necessary after the amount is computed, before the tax money can be paid into the state treasury, the Texas attorney general was informed Thursday.

Some of the oil companies having wells along the Red river in the vicinity of the disputed area, as well as under the receivership, have paid to Texas part of the gross production tax on oil out of the receivership area, it was learned, and intricate investigations will be required to ascertain the quantity of oil on which the tax is yet to be paid.

The state will collect probably $1,000,000 oil tax and ad valorem state taxes for the entire period of the receivership, it has been roughly estimated.

INCREASES 11,000 BBLS. OVER FIGURE OF TWO MONTHS AGO; IS HIGHEST IN HISTORY OF COUNTY

Rapid Drilling of Offset Wells And Inside Locations In New Olney Areas Placing Much Flush Crude On Market

By A. HALLMAN
Record News Oil Editor

Archer county reached its peak production during the week ending last Monday morning according to compilation of pipeline run figures, showing a daily average for the seven days of 39,820 barrels, approximately 3,000 barrels a day better than the former peak of 36,000 barrels and some 7,280 barrels better than the daily average of the week before. The figure is also 11,000 barrels a day better than the figure of two months ago, when the county walked along at between 28,000 and 29,000 barrels a day for several weeks.

The increase is in the main due to the inclusion of the output of such big wells in the southern part of the county as have lately been completed in the Carey pool, and more accurate figures on the Panhandle-Knight-Hines pool, these two pools probably producing together, at least a third of all the oil in the county or more.

Rapid development of areas which are comparatively new is the outstanding feature of Archer activity now. A well is hardly in before every available nearby location has a derrick and a rig on it. The result is shown in the rapidly increasing production and number of producing wells being completed. Three weeks ago it seems to have been the general impression among operators that a rise in posted crude prices would probably catch development started at that time during the flush period. The three weeks have passed with no change in prices, and if anything the prospect further away.

National production figures showed an increase during the past week, and if 7,000 barrel-a-day increases are reported a few more times from a district which ordinarily produces only about four percent of the national output these increases in prices can hardly be looked for, and the flush production of south Archer's new pools will probably go for $1.25 a barrel to major purchasers.

Despite this bearish viewpoint pipeline companies are showing unusual willingness to take on new connections; Humble has had no trouble getting oil for their new Archer line, and will probably have as little in Wilbarger county when their new combination six and four-inch gets there. Gulf is building a new line to South Archer county, Texhoma has made some nice extensions of late to their Swastika system, and the Texas Pipeline company is known to be considering a line of their own to that district. Crude is not going begging and spot prices run ten to fifteen cents higher than posted prices as a rule.

Refined markets during the past week in the main continued a steady improvement, fuel oil, unusually good at the beginning of the week slumping off toward the end, prices ranging from $1.07 to $1.10. Gasoline, navy, went strong with a good domestic demand, price reported around 7½c, with 64-66 reaching 10c. Refiners report an unusually brisk domestic demand despite continued unsettled weather.

A total of 48 new locations were made during the week, this showing a decrease, six, over the number, 54, of the week before. The week's locations were divided among the counties as follows: Archer county 34, Wichita county 4, Clay county 1, Wilbarger county 5, and Young county 6. Of the new locations shown for Archer county about 25 represent new activity for south Archer.

The territory just north of Archer City is probably attracting more attention at present than practically any other section of the northern part of the county.

The Gulf and Oil Investment company have both completed wells here for a probable production of better than 100 barrels a piece, from sand at around 1,104 feet. The Lincoln et al well, between these two, after showing just as well for a while is now producing a large quantity of water with the oil. The three are located in blocks 4 and 5, Oil Investment company fee, John Richards survey, about four miles northwest of Archer City.

Oil Investment company is drilling on a well just south of their producer, this to be their No. 2, fee, while Gulf has three rigs running, No.'s 2, 3 and 4, No. 2 to the north of the producer and the other two to the south. No. 2 was last reported as setting casing on the sand at 1,108 feet. Gulf has a four-inch pipeline to the district.

East of the pool on block 120, 1,470 feet north and 1,170 feet west of the southeast corner of the block, Texhoma Oil and Refining company is rigging up for a test, and should get going by the first of the week. Midway between this and the pool proper Lincoln et al are drilling near the surface on their No. 1, Young and Langford, 1,722 feet west and 150 feet south of the northeast corner of block 127.

If the water content in the production of these wells does not become too great as in the wells in the deeper sand on the Pease estate, just to the west, this territory should receive some real play in the next few months.

In the southwest end of the Parrish district Wirt Franklin is drilling at about 1,300 feet on No. 1, Parrish, southeast corner of the southwest quarter of section 26, H&TCRR survey, abstract 1197, Gulf is offsetting this well to the south. Atlantic has not yet made their No. 6 location.

There were several completions with no extensions of note in the Parrish-White district just to the north, with the Magnolia purchase of the Kentucky et al 40 acres in section 26 the only happening of real note here. Murchison and Fain are offsetting the Jetter well on the White land, east of the Parrish-White district to the west but are not yet down.

Waite Phillips is drilling on his fourth well, not yet down.

Wichita County

With the exception of the usual activity south of Fowlkes Station and a new flurry at Beaver Creek where W. H. Hammon et al have completed a nice well from a 450-foot stratum, Wichita county has been as quiet as in months. Offsetting the Hammon et al well to the south Shappel Oil company is moving in a spudder for their No. 1, McCarty, Eaves survey, to make a shallow well. Hammon et al should be down on their No. 3, a location east and 50 feet south of their No. 2, which is 50 feet north of the old No. 1 dry and abandoned at around 1,800 feet after passing 50 feet of the shallow sand below 400 feet.

Shappel Oil company abandoned their No. 1, Sisk, block 21, Denton county school lands, total depth 2,500 feet. Kentucky Oil corporation's No. 3, Kemp, their third attempt to make a well in a semi-shallow sand here, block 6, Denton county school lands, was abandoned with a total depth of 1,339 feet after testing two sands above showing salt water.

North of Wichita Falls, Clopton and Stones No. 1, Rathgeber, N. Debrinski survey, was abandoned at 2,016 feet.

Texas Pipeline To South Vernon Runs First Oil

Connections Made With Bridwell-Heydrick Leases

The Texas Pipeline company had everything ready late yesterday afternoon and expected to turn the first oil from South Vernon into their new 6-inch line from Electra to that district sometime last night.

Connections had been made with the Bridwell-Heydrick-Dill and Stephens leases, and oil was to be run from their tanks.

This line makes the third to reach South Vernon, Waggoner Refining company completing the first, a 4-inch carrier, a week or so ago, and Sinclair Pipeline company getting the next within a week later, also a 4-inch carrier. Both of these lines have run oil regularly since their completion, Sinclair taking some from both the South Vernon Oil company's Stephens lease and the Winnipeg Oil company's Bond et al lease. The Texas Pipeline company's line is a 6-inch affair, the largest so far to enter the field.

It is about 20 miles long, with their pumping station located on section 66, Castleburg fee, about two miles southeast of the field proper.

The fourth line, that of the Humble Pipeline company is still two or three weeks away from completion. Humble took the hardest job with their 52-mile line from Swastika to South Vernon. This line is a combination 6-inch and 4-inch affair, and will make the fourth to enter the new field.

Europe's Markets Are Big Factor In Texas Crude Price

So Says Tulsa Operator After Returning From Tour Of European Fields

KEEP PRICE DOWN

American Ability To Hold Trade Depends on Low Price Level

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 22.—European production and European consumption as factors in the future of the American petroleum industry are little considered in the main by operators of the mid-continent, who are prone to look at the rest of the world askance, taking California as bad medicine and hoping for better prices when Tonkawa falls and Cromwells is better defined.

B. J. Arbon, Tulsa operator, has just returned to the states after making a survey of the European oil situation, which took him to most of the European fields, and his outlook for general conditions as the result of having first-hand information from European is far different from most mid-continent operators who have not taken the situation across the pond into consideration.

Arbon says that in his opinion the large exporting oil companies of the United States are anxious to hold prices of crude and refined products down as much as possible because they are looking forward to a much larger export business in Europe, due to the increased use of the automobile there and other internal combustion engines, and if the price is raised too high European companies will grab off this business.

Potential Fields

He says the potentiality of producing fields in Russia, Persia, Roumania, Sumatra, and Burma can hardly be realized. "They will be developed and will throw their large production on the market as soon as the prices increase materially—possibly when the price of mid-continent crude reaches $1.50 a barrel, and when they do the Russian Oil Trust, Anglo-Persian Oil company, Royal Dutch and other firms will start grabbing American business away from American firms.

"Only through extremely low prices for gasoline and other products have American companies been able to obtain European business," he says. "Three hundred and seventy-five end point gasoline in cans may be purchased in England for 24 cents an imperial gallon and the fact that the imperial gallon is one-fifth bigger than the gallon in this country means that gasoline can be bought in England as cheap as it can be in Tulsa. Foreign countries cannot compete with this price, so they are sitting tight waiting for the producing situation in America to right itself and raise prices.

Fuel Oil Basis

"I confidently believe that this is what Walter C. T. Eagle, president of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey had in mind when he stated a few weeks ago that the price of oil would be dependent upon the price of fuel oil.

"If one knew how many 55,000-barrel tanks had been erected at Southampton to house fuel oil for the Cunard and White Star Lines and other interests he would realize how anxious the American companies are to hold this fuel oil business. It can only be done by holding down the price.

"Another thing we must keep in mind is that European oil fields are now being developed with the most modern equipment, and this means that they will be developed twice as domestic fields when once the big drilling commences. All the antiquated equipment has been cast aside. The modern stuff has been copied from American tools."

OIL STOCKS DECLINE.

U. S. G. S. Reports Show Crop of 2,400,000 Barrels.

The visible supply of both crude and refined oil products was reduced nearly 2,400,000 barrels in September, reports the United States Geological Survey and Bureau of Mines.

Total supply of all petroleum Sept. 1 was 522,082,972 barrels and on Sept. 30 had dropped to 519,694,537 barrels, 2,397,535-barrel decrease.

Gasoline stocks dropped 1,938,451 barrels, from 31,214,782 to 29,276,331. Total domestic crude increased 2,156,322 barrels, from 394,745,063 to 396,901,385.

A decrease of 2,108 barrels daily average crude oil rung from leases was noted from 1,990,451 in August to 1,987,833 in September.

MORE WILDCATTING FOR THOCKMORTON

Wildcatting that is promising to assume a boom stage is taking shape in the territory surrounding the little town of Elbert, Throckmorton county, with approximately ten or more wells starting and due to drilling within a few weeks.

Throckmorton county has attracted the attention of operators many times in the past few years but never quite to the extent that developments of the past summer in the Panhandle-Larkin well and the Humble Oil and Refining company's producer in the eastern part of the county produced.

Texas company has a cable tools test going down in block 2030, TE&LCO survey, this to be a deep test and starting with a twenty-inch hole. E. C. Reed is making a location in the vicinity of the J. M. Davis ranch, four and one-half miles southeast of Elbert. Charles Phile of Oklahoma City and associates of Lawton and Ardmore are making a location in block 799. Davis Hart company is starting up in block 1, J. Paitevent survey, while Cranfill Brothers have made a tentative location in block 3028.

One of the first wells to actually get started is on block 2192, J. L. McCarson farm, taken over by F. M. Luginbyhl of Chickasha and associates E. P. Kilgore of Oklahoma City and Clark and Cowden of Duncan, Oklahoma. These operators have a number of wildcat pools to their credit.

Acreage blocked up in this section of the county as a rule is not proving very hard to dispose of, the big companies always showing a willingness to protect themselves on locations.

Fifty Drilling Tests In Four Quarters of Northeast Extension

Special to the Record News.

WETUMKA, Nov. 22.—The northeast extension to the Wetumka pool continues to promise a pool of major proportions within the next few weeks. Eighteen producing wells within the extension area are flowing around 14,000 barrels a day with fifty wells drilling in the four sections that may be hazily included in the extension.

Independent Oil and Gas company's No. 2 in the southwest of the northwest of the northeast of 2-9-9, Wetumka pool, drilled nine feet of sand found at 3,334 feet, and is flowing 1,200 barrels.

Prairie Oil and Gas company's new well in the southwest of the north half of the southwest of 35-10-9 guaged 4,124 barerls Thursday. Kingwood Oil company's well in the southwest of 35-10-9 flowed 2,795 barerls on Thursday's guage.

The Wetumka sector proper includes the Gilcrease, Papoose and Slick City pools in northwestern Hughes and southwestern Okfuskee counties. Fancy prices are being offered for acreage thereabouts, one quarter-section there having gone recently for $200,000 in cash and $50,000 in oil, and others reported at still higher prices.
