Gradney sentenced to 99 years

By Wade Warren
Staff Writer

Any hopes convicted murderer Grayling Gradney had of receiving a probated sentence Wednesday were probably shattered as the nine-man, three-woman jury filed into the courtroom after deliberating his future.

As opposed to the numerous other times the jury had walked into the courtroom within touching distance, none of them glanced his way this last time.

Minutes later, District Judge Ernie Armstrong read the sentence that the jury foreman had handed him. Gradney was sentenced to 99 years in the penitentiary.

It was the maximum sentence he could have received on the charge of murder.

If the jury had chosen to do so, it could have also fined him any amount up to $10,000.

Gradney will not be eligible for parole for 30 years. At that time, he will be 67.

Gradney was convicted of the Aug. 25, 1995 death of his live-in girlfriend, 43-year-old Carolyn Carr. Testimony showed that Carr was shot in the head with a 12-gauge shotgun from close range in a bedroom of a mobile home the two shared.

He was arrested early the next day and has remained in Scurry County Jail since that time.

The trial began Monday morn-

THE SDN COLUMN

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "If things go wrong, refuse to go with them."

Nobody is immune from bloopers. Being able to laugh at one's own miscues is said to be divine, according to a collection of shortcomings collected in the book, "Once Upon A Pew."

An article about the collection of church bloopers came across our desk. Here is a sample:

One Sunday morning after the sermon a woman responded, requesting to be baptized. The preacher noticed that she looked puzzled by something on the card, so he bent over to assist.

The preacher found that he had given her, by mistake, a youth camp enrollment form. The woman was startled by the first question on the application, "Can you swim?"

In another case, a preacher was trying hard to make the point that "lack of communication" is a major cause of divorce today. In his fervor to make the point, the preacher got mixed up and concluded, "Today, marriage is the major cause of divorce."

Also, there was a song leader in a small congregation who always sang, "Time is filled with swift transgressions."

Nobody could convince him that the word was "transitions."

Some new church bulletin bloopers:

--Don't let worry kill you. Let the church help.

--Jon's dad formerly preached in Opelika and Mobile, but is now working.

--On Thursday night, there will be a potluck supper. Prayer and medication to follow.

--A church seeking a new preacher placed the following ad: Send resume by June 1. Include wife, transcripts and references.

--For those of you who have children and don't know it, we have a nursery downstairs.

--The Johnson family will attend the funeral of Susie's former husband, who died in Flint, Mich. tomorrow.

And finally, the little guy who was talking to the minister after his sermon. "You sure know more about sin than anyone I know."

Texas Rangers stars to speak at assemblies

Two members of the Texas Rangers baseball club will speak in assemblies Friday morning in Worsham Auditorium at Snyder High School.

Wendell Sollis, curriculum director for Snyder ISD, said outfielder Rusty Greer, pitcher Darren Oliver and TV announcer Tom Grieve will speak during the assemblies. Also expected here is Luis Mayoral, the Latin American liaison of the club and a visitor in Snyder over the Thanksgiving holidays. It had been hoped that outfield-designated hitter Juan Gonzalez would be able to attend but Mayoral said he was still at his home in Puerto Rico.

The assemblies are scheduled for 9:30 and 10:30 a.m. and will last about 45-minutes each.

Sollis said the Rangers will speak on the importance of an education and show a video on Ranger highlights from last year.

52nd livestock show gets underway today

The annual Scurry County Junior Livestock Show opens today with judging of the hogs in the county coliseum annex.

Hog judge Kenny Strube will begin the process at 5 o'clock. Clarence Spieker is the hog show supervisor. Some 300 hogs have been entered.

Weigh-in of the stock and naming of queen candidates were among Wednesday's activities.

The livestock show — in its 52nd year — will continue through Saturday.

The steer show will begin at 6 p.m. Friday, followed by the lamb show at 8 o'clock. Steer judge is J.D. Ragland of Dimmitt. Judging the lambs will be Billy Reagor of Ozona. Jim Robinson of Snyder is the lamb supervisor.

Some 78 lambs and 18 steers are to be judged.

The buyer's meal is set for 11:30 a.m. Saturday, to be followed by the auction at 1 p.m. Snyder's Tommy Marricle is the auctioneer.

Queen of the livestock show will be crowned on Saturday, prior to the sale. Candidates are:

—Dana Stribling, representing Scurry County 4-H Club. A seventh grader, she has been active in 4-H for five years. She shows pigs and commercial heifers. She is the daughter of Janet and Jimmy Stribling.

—Donnis McHaney, representing Hermleigh FFA. A senior, she has been active in FFA for 10 years, shows lambs, and is the daughter of Diane McHaney and the late Donald Ray McHaney.

—Celeigh Sterling, representing Ira FFA. She is a fifth grader and has been active in FFA for three years. She shows pigs and lambs, and is the daughter of Pat and Kirby Sterling.

—Monica Roberson, representing Snyder FFA. She is a senior, has been active in FFA for four years, shows pigs, and is the daughter of Penny and Jim Bob Roberson.

The girls compete for the title by selling tickets for a chance at a $200 gift certificate from Bar-H-Bar Family Outfitters. The tickets are $2 each and will be sold through Friday.

Riley Tatum, a seventh grader at Snyder Junior High School, is the reigning queen.

DCOS approves contracts

Decides to defer action on taxable bond issue for now

Development Corporation of Snyder board members approved several contracts Wednesday but deferred action on a $1 million taxable bond issue until later in the year.

The board also discussed an upcoming visit to Lorber Industries in California, and approved bills and previous minutes.

Most of Wednesday's business was centered around the industrial park, Sntx Park I, located near the northeast corner of highways U.S. 84 and 180.

Board members determined that although some amount of taxable bonds will be necessary for park development later in the year, enough monies are available now to fund the current stage of the project. As work at the park progresses, the board will consider again the need for a taxable bond issue.

The board discussed an upcoming trip to California to meet with Lorber Industries executives, who last year announced plans to locate a Lortex Mills, Inc plant at the 313-acre park, with an initial investment of $15 million. The primary purpose of the visit is to coordinate development of the park with construction of the plant. Lorber has indicated a wish to build a tourism center and daycare facility at the site, as well as offices and three plants, which would be phased in over a period of time.

Exact dates for the trip to California have not been determined.

The board approved several contracts and/or bids. Among them were:

—A contract with Grimmett Brothers to oversee and coordinate county equipment and personnel for the construction of roads at the park for $300 a day;

—A culvert construction

Chamber board grants motel tax fund requests

Three requests for hotel/motel tax funds were granted Wednesday by Snyder Chamber of Commerce board.

Greg Gafford requested $1,000 to aid in the 10th Annual West Texas Taekwondo Tournament set for Feb. 3. The event, to be held in the county coliseum, is expected to draw 500 competitors.

The board approved a request for $1,700 for the Second Annual Iron Curtain Baseball Tournament, to be held March 13-16. Ten teams are expected to compete, with some coming from New Mexico and Oklahoma.

Of the $1,700, some $500 will be used to advertise the event, said Joel Hooks, president of the Senior Little League Association.

The board also approved a request for $500 from the chamber to promote the Legends of Western Swing Musical Festival to be held in the coliseum June 26-29.

Chamber staff member Mary Westmoreland told the board that the next major event to be held in the coliseum will be two performances of the Ford's Magic Theater on Jan. 24.

Other upcoming coliseum events include WTC basketball games on Jan. 22, 29, and Feb. 1, 12, 22, 29; Jehovah's Witness meeting on Feb. 17, Gatti Circus on Feb. 20; and the Anxiety 4th Hereford Breeders Sale on Feb. 24-26.

Snyder Daily News was named the business of the month for January.

Bob Phillips

Phillips to speak at banquet

Bob Phillips, popular producer and star of the "Texas Country Reporter" television show, will be the featured speaker for the annual Snyder Chamber of Commerce Banquet, set for March 19.

Theme for the banquet will be Land of the White Buffalo.

Phillips has spent more than 20 years on the road, providing tales of ordinary people doing extraordinary things, and of Texas and history and landscape. He is the author of the book, "52 Offbeat Texas Stops."

The banquet will be held at 7 p.m. in Scurry County Coliseum and will feature a meal and annual chamber awards.

Tickets, $12.50 each, may be reserved by calling the chamber of commerce at 573-3558.

BCD elects new officers

In a brief business session Wednesday afternoon, new members of the Board of County Development were recognized and officers elected for the coming year.

Tim Riggan will serve as president, Mark McCormick as vice president and Terry Hefner will be secretary.

Out-going members Max von Roeder and Pete Hester were recognized for the time they spent on the board.

In one action item, the board voted to spend $700 to help defray the printing cost of a booklet prepared on the Price Daniel off-site work program to be used for advertising and business recruitment.

New board members David Koonce, owner of K.A.R.S., an automotive repair shop, and David Kattes, a professor at Western Texas, were introduced.

Dallas police are looking for masked serial rapist, robber

DALLAS (AP) — Police said they are searching for a man with an East Texas accent driving a dark-colored pickup who has raped, then robbed at least six women in their east Dallas County homes since March.

In each case, the knife-wielding man wore a mask or blindfolded his victim, bound them and took their automatic-teller-machine cards.

Four of the attacks were in east Dallas, and the other two are believed to have occurred in the Dallas County suburbs of Mesquite and south Garland.

"The descriptions of the suspects are very similar," Dallas police spokesman Ed Spencer said Wednesday. "We've been in communication with both police departments."

The most recent incident occurred Monday night, when a 29-year-old woman was confronted in her North Dallas home by the man, who spoke with a pronounced drawl.

"She had gone to the grocery store and had gone into her kitchen from the garage," Spencer said, adding that it is unclear if the rapist was already in the home or followed her inside through the garage.

The man confronted the woman with a knife, tied her up and sexually assaulted her for more than an hour. He then left with her credit and ATM cards.

The attack is the first by the man since Nov. 30, when he surprised a 38-year-old woman in her northeast Dallas home, police said.

A determined manhunt has been launched but has been hindered by poor photographs taken by ATM cameras.

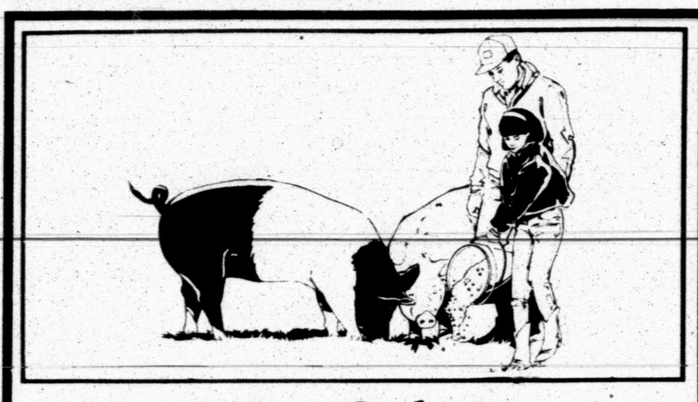

Police describe the suspect as a 25- to 35-year-old white man, weighing 140 to 160 pounds and standing between 5 feet, 4 inches and 5 feet, 9 inches tall. His pickup truck is described as a 1991 or 1992 Ford Ranger SLT of medium or dark color. It has a regular cab with a split bench seat, a radar detector below the rear view mirror and manual windows and door locks.

The truck description came from the first offense in March. A $10,000 reward is offered in that case, Spencer said.

Emigration

Emigration from crowded European centers soared in the first decade of this century. Nine million migrated to the United States, and millions went to Siberia, Canada, Argentina, South Africa and Algeria. In the century before 1914, 70 million Europeans emigrated. In Asia, several million Chinese, Indians and Japanese migrated to Southeast Asia.

Keeping up with spinal stenosis

DEAR DR. GOTT: I suffer from spinal stenosis, diagnosed about 10 years ago, which was verified by a second opinion. I suffer from fatigue in the lower legs after most exercise. Have there been any surgical or medical advances that might offer me some relief?

DEAR READER: Spinal stenosis means that an area of firm tissue — such as a slipped disc or a calcium deposit — is pressing on your spinal canal and irritating the nerves that exit from the spinal cord. Rather than causing fatigue, this condition more often leads to pain, numbness and weakness of the legs.

The affliction is diagnosed by an MRI test or by special X-rays.

Some forms of spinal stenosis resolve without treatment. Others may respond to physical therapy. Still others, notably calcium "spurs," require surgical relief.

You should ask your orthopedist or neurosurgeon about appropriate therapy for your condition. For example, special exercises and rehabilitation techniques might solve your problem, without the need for surgery.

Also, because of your painless fatigue, the doctors might wish to check your circulation (with ultrasound or X-rays), to make sure that a deficient blood supply (resulting from arteriosclerotic blockages) is not causing your problem.

To answer your specific question, there have been no new treatments in the past 10 years for spinal stenosis. Rather, the traditional therapy has been refined and improved.

DEAR DR. GOTT: For years my husband cut salt out of his diet. After two strokes in the last five years that caused memory loss and loss of balance, he went to the doctor, who told him his sodium level was low. He's begun using salt again and has improved a lot. His balance is much better and he is more active. Are there many people who have cut out salt but have not had their sodium intake checked?

DEAR READER: I'll bet that the majority of people on low-salt diets (because of hypertension or heart disorders) rarely have their blood sodium levels checked. In most cases, this is acceptable because Americans consume too much salt, as a rule. Also, balanced diets (without added salt) provide more than enough sodium for normal metabolism.

In your husband's case, which is extremely unusual, I'm not sure which came first: the stroke or the low sodium. Brain damage (from stroke or trauma) can lead to low sodium. Conversely, a sodium deficiency might have set the stage for a stroke.

At any rate, I'm glad he is recovering successfully. Thank you for writing and reminding my readers that periodic blood tests are appropriate for adults who have chronic diseases, such as stroke or hypertension.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Stroke." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

Twisters spawned in West Texas

By The Associated Press

In the wake of deadly straight-line winds in West Texas, several twisters left destruction of their own today in northern parts of the state.

Roofs were torn off buildings in Burleson Wednesday night and an apartment complex was evacuated as the storm moved through, triggering electric transformer fires in the town just south of Fort Worth.

And witnesses said a tornado hit a building and flipped over an 18-wheeler in Lancaster, located in southern Dallas County.

"I've been hit twice in the past 19 months, but in different locations," said Lancaster businessman Richard Scaney.

He said the twister leveled about one-quarter of his building, containing a law office and a retail clothing outlet, located along Interstate 35.

The winds blew clothing a block away, overturned a tractor-trailer rig on the freeway's access road and toppled power lines.

Scaney estimated damage at about $500,000.

Mrs. Dryden presents theatre history

Mrs. Ellie Dryden told Xi Alpha Alpha Theta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi members the history of the Ritz Theatre and its being "a dream coming true" for she and Mike Thornton.

She said that a dream for a community playhouse began with a conversation she had with Mike Thornton in October of 1991. Soon after, Janeen and Glenn Patterson gave the Ritz building to the Ritz Community Threatre Group. Having talented community people perform in live threatre productions became a reality. Mrs. Patterson is the daughter of N.R. Clements who owned the Ritz Theatre when it was a movie house from 1949 to 1972.

Community threatre productions began in 1993 to help raise money for renovation of the building. Mrs. Dryden, a retired Snyder ISD junior high drama teacher, directed many of the plays along with other volunteer directors in Snyder.

The first production in the building was during the 1995 White Buffalo Celebration.

In addition, Mrs. Patterson told of childhood memories she had of going to movies at the Ritz.

Musical entertainment for sorority members was "4 Given," a quartet including Matt Cross, David Trevey, Wayne Know and James Hanks. This group also appeared in the White Buffalo Celebration and later in "Forever Plaid." Judy Brown accompanied the group.

Mickey Baird presided at the business session where the social chairmen, Patricia Warren and Marie Boone, announced the next social will be a Super Bowl party in the home of Brenda and Byron Hedges on Jan. 28.

The next regular BSP meeting will be held Jan. 30. Carolyn Limmer will present the program, "The Power of Color."

The cliche play

By Phillip Alder

Is it a cliche to say that the world is full of cliches? Maybe — but what is the meaning of "mind your p's and q's" and how does it apply to today's deal?

North and South had a bidding misunderstanding, but they still reached a reasonable contract. Because a two-heart rebid would have been natural and forcing, North's three hearts was a splinter bid. It showed good support for clubs with at most one heart. With wasted values in hearts, South now tried to get into three no-trump with his three-spade cue-bid. But North took this as a cue-bid showing interest in a club slam. (Finding the right game should take precedence over a slam hunt.) With only one ace and so much in spades, North settled for five clubs.

Declarer won the first trick with dummy's spade king, played a heart to his ace and finessed the club jack, losing to East's singleton ace. What should happen from here?

The critical moment has arrived. Only one card from East's hand defeats the contract: the spade queen. Declarer is locked in the dummy, unable to get back to hand to pick up West's club queen. When he tries a low diamond, East rushes in with the ace and plays another spade, West overruffing South to defeat the contract.

Note that a low spade from East at trick four isn't good enough. South wins the trick with his 10, finesses West out of the club queen and concedes a trick to the diamond ace.

Now you know what the expression "mind your p's and q's" means. It stands for "mind your promotions and queens"!

Fire destroys ballet masters country home

SHERMAN, Conn. (AP) — Fire has destroyed the country home of ballet master Peter Martins and his wife, Darci Kistler.

The couple were home when the fire broke out, and both received minor burns.

Martins and Kistler said a candle may have started the fire, according to Christopher Ramsey, a spokesman for the New York City Ballet where Martins is ballet master in chief and Kistler is a principal dancer.

The fire broke out Monday night and spread quickly. When firefighters arrived, flames were shooting out of the skylights and windows.

"It's pretty much a total loss," fire Chief Michael Crawford said.

The house was built on a lakeside cliff in Sherman, a border town that is a favorite getaway for New York City residents.

Charges dropped

AIKEN, S.C. (AP) — A day after James Brown buried his wife, police announced they were dropping a domestic violence charge against the soul singer after deciding they could not prosecute.

"Mr. Brown has suffered terribly as the result of the death of his wife," Sheriff's Lt. Michael Frank said Wednesday.

Brown, 62, was charged on Oct. 31 after his wife, Adrienne, accused him of beating her. The singer denied hitting her and said she had a drug problem.

Mrs. Brown recanted her allegation the following week.

The exact cause of her death Jan. 6 isn't yet known; coroner's officials said she showed early signs of heart disease.

Tech, Rice & Houston win in SWC action

WACO (AP) — It took a perfect fullcourt pass from Tony Battie to Jason Sasser for Texas Tech to break Baylor's full-court trap in the final half-minute and stay atop the Southwest Conference basketball standings.

Sasser went up for an uncontested layup with 15 seconds remaining and followed with a pair of free throws a few seconds later as the No. 25 Red Raiders won, 75-69, Wednesday night.

Off to its best start ever, Tech (13-1, 3-0 SWC) just made it into the national rankings for the first time in several years.

In other SWC games, Houston edged Texas Christian, 89-86 and Rice defeated Southern Methodist 69-51.

In the first half, the Bears could find no solution to stop the Red Raiders. They tried zone and man-to-man defenses, but Tech burned both of them.

After Tech scored its early points inside, Carr came off the bench to hit three treys to open up a 25-14 lead. The Bears cut the lead to 37-27, but Tech hit the final three baskets of the first half to take a 16-point lead.

But after trailing 43-27 at the half, the Bears kept chipping away. They rattled off eight straight points to pull to within 71-69, on Damond Mannon's 10-footer with 23 seconds to play.

The Bears called a timeout and came back with a full-court trap. Brian Skinner and Roddrick Miller had Battie pinned in the left corner, but Tech's 6-11 center spotted Sasser streaking past midcourt and hit him in stride for a layup.

Battie was 6-7 when Dickey recruited him out of Dallas South Oak Cliff High School, Now, in his sophomore year, Battie is 6-11 and though he's only 220 pounds, he has become a key reason the Red Raiders lead the SWC in rebounding margin. He leads the team with 8.8 rebounds per game and adds 7.9 points.

"Tony just made a great pass out of the corner. They had all their players in the halfcourt, and Tony found me," said Sasser, who led Tech with 22 points and 10 rebounds.

"One of the keys for a good basketball team is to find a way to win," Tech coach James Dickey said.

Almost bankrupt

Duchess of York's debts rise to $4.5 million

LONDON (AP) — With no more handouts from the queen, the big-spending Duchess of York owes her bank $4.5 million — three times the sum first thought — and might go bankrupt, news reports said today.

Prince Andrew's separated wife, who is due in New York Saturday for a charity bash — and, perhaps, some shopping — was initially reported to have run up a 1 million-pound overdraft, about $1.5 million.

But today, The Sun quoted unidentified royal sources as saying her overdraft with bankers Coutts and Co. is three times higher, about $4.5 million. Interest charges are $2,623 a day.

Another London tabloid, the Daily Mail, today also put her overdraft at $4.5 million and both papers raised the prospect of her declaring bankruptcy.

The Sun said Coutts has considered several ways of reducing her debt. They have also agreed not to bounce her checks and to pay her staff payroll, which totals $10,640 a week.

Her mother-in-law, Queen Elizabeth II, has refused to bail her out again.

"These are matters which the Duchess of York must discuss and resolve with her bankers and other financial advisers," a palace spokesman said Wednesday on customary anonymity.

The palace noted that the queen had already met the duchess' debts on several previous occasions. The Daily Mail said these were six-figure payments, including one in April 1994 after Coutts ordered the duchess to find $760,000 in 14 days.

In addition, the Daily Mail said, the queen is believed to have cleared Sarah's debts in 1992 when she and Andrew separated.

Sarah, 36, and Andrew, 35, married in July 1986. They have two children — Princess Beatrice, 7, and Princess Eugenie, 5.

The duchess says she's cutting back on her expenses. Neither she, the palace nor Coutts will say how much she owes.

The Times of London described the Duchess's shopping prowess as legendary. On a recent New York trip, the paper said she spent $4,560 on shoes in 30 minutes.

The Times said she spent $15,200 on clothes on one month last year, runs up phone bills said to total $6,080 every three months and shells out $273 each time she has her hair cut.

It said she pays an estimated $9,120 a month for her rented mansion west of London and employs a butler, driver, cook, nanny, housekeeper, dresser and three office assistants. She has a penchant for exotic foreign trips and luxury hotels.

The Daily Mail estimated her expenses last year as $988,000 and her income — from Andrew, book ventures and other sources — at $342,000.

The New York-based charity Chances for Children, founded by the duchess in 1993, said she will attend a $500-a-plate fundraising dinner for the organization Saturday.

A spokeswoman for the organization said the duchess would be paying her own way and staying in New York for a few days as part of a trans-Atlantic trip, "carrying out her own business, seeing friends and I suppose shopping."

Kidnapped Arlington girl's body found floating in creek

ARLINGTON (AP) — A 9-year-old girl abducted Saturday while riding her bike has been found dead, floating face down in a creek, her throat cut.

Amber Hagerman was last seen as she was dragged, fighting and screaming, from her bicycle by a man who drove a dark-colored pickup truck. The brown-haired, blue-eyed third-grader, a Girl Scout, had been playing near her grandparents' home.

The body was found late Wednesday by a man walking his dog. The area, about eight miles from where Amber disappeared, was quickly cordoned off by police.

The identity of the body was confirmed through fingerprints, and an autopsy was being performed, the medical examiner's office said. The preliminary finding of cause of death was the cut wound to the neck, said Tom Gaylor, an investigator in the office. He didn't know whether the child had been raped.

Amber's father, Richard Hagerman, had said earlier he did not want to believe that the body was his daughter's.

"I'm not believing it until I find out for sure. I'm not. I'm not going to do it," he said.

Police spokesman Dee Anderson said they have not determined if the body was dumped at the site or farther upstream. It was found only a short time after a line of strong thunderstorms moved through the area and might have been moved by rushing water, he said.

"We are all a little numb," Anderson said. "We certainly didn't want this outcome. I'm not going to say we are shocked or amazed, but we are really disappointed."

Erratic blood pressure sends actor to hospital

MOUNT KISCO, N.Y. (AP) — Christopher Reeve was taken by ambulance to a hospital for treatment of what the actor described Wednesday as a bout of erratic blood pressure related to his paralysis.

Reeve

"My blood pressure has been stabilized and I am in no danger," Reeve said in a statement issued by the Northern Westchester Medical Center. "I look forward to going home shortly to resume my program of breathing and exercise."

Reeve said he expected to be hospitalized for a few days or a week.

The ambulance was dispatched Tuesday to Reeve's Pound Ridge home in response to a call to 911. That was "the most efficient and quickest way," hospital president Donald Davis said, adding, "I don't think it reflected that he was in any danger."

Reeve's statement, read by Davis at a news conference, said constipation caused his blood pressure to become erratic. He said the condition was called autonomic dysreflexia, and quadriplegics could get it from something as simple as an ingrown toenail, or clothing or shoelaces that are too tight.

"If left untreated," the condition "can lead to a heart attack or a stroke."

Dr. Marca Sipski, medical director of the Kessler Institute for Rehabilitation in West Orange, N.J., which treated Reeve after he fell from a horse last spring, said patients there are educated about the condition.

"It can be a potentially life threatening problem but it's generally not as long as it's properly treated," said Sipski. "When the constipation resolves the problem goes away."

Reeve was in an intensive care unit, but Davis said that is "not a reflection of his condition." He said the hospital prefers to keep respirator-dependent patients in a central location.

Reeve, best-known for his movie roles as Superman, had been able to breathe on his own for about 90 minutes this week, his longest period without a respirator since the accident.

Reeve, 43, went home from Kessler on Dec. 13. He was thrown on May 27 during a jumping competition in Culpeper, Va., injuring his neck and spinal cord.

Trouble Comes in Singles When Making Invitation List

DEAR ABBY: I sent my wedding invitations several weeks ago. This is the policy I followed: If a guest was married, engaged or living with someone, I invited the couple. If the guest was single but had dated someone for a long time, I invited both. About one-quarter of my guest list was made up of single, unattached adults who received invitations for themselves alone. I consulted several etiquette books, and not one said I was required to provide "and guest" invitations for singles. (Some authors clearly stated that it's presumptuous for a single guest to expect to bring a date.)

I've been planning this wedding for over a year, and my friends seemed enthusiastic about attending. Yesterday, however, I received "regrets" from three women who had previously accepted. "Alice" had only recently started seeing someone. "Betty" had just ended a relationship, and "Carla" is married, but a close friend of both Alice and Betty. I can only surmise that Alice was offended because she couldn't bring a date, and decided not to come — so Betty and Carla declined also.

If they had a problem with the invitations, they should have spoken to me. I feel they have ended their relationships with me. Am I overreacting?

HURT IN PITTSBURGH

DEAR HURT: I don't think so. Evidently Betty and Carla feel closer to Alice than they do to you. Be happy that you didn't invest more time and energy in cultivating these three insensitive women. A friend you can't count on is no friend at all. Celebrate without them.

DEAR ABBY: Recently you recommended Toastmasters International for adults who are shy and afraid to speak in public. Have you never heard of International Training in Communication? We were founded as a women-only club 51 years ago under the name of International Toastmistresses Clubs. At that time, Toastmasters was for men only. Both clubs were later forced to become co-ed. When that happened, the women flocked to join the men, although both clubs offered the same benefits.

So, since that term would not come to be called "mistresses," in 1985, we changed our name to International Training in Communication, retaining the initials ITC.

I have been a member of ITC for more than 25 years. It has worked wonders for me because I can now stand up and speak when necessary without shaking knees. We learn far more than speechmaking. We gain overall self-improvement skills. The benefits are too numerous to recite.

To locate an ITC club in your area, call the Chamber of Commerce. Our clubs are located in every free country in the world! Please mention us, along with Toastmasters. Thank you.

MARIECE HERRING,
FORT WALTON BEACH, FLA.

DEAR MARIECE: A toast to you for alerting readers to International Training in Communication.

DEAR ABBY: The lighthearted trick, "I remember your name, but I can't think of your face," which causes the forgotten one to blurt out his name — then laugh — reminds me of a faux pas I made during a trip to Hawaii.

While writing postcards to the folks back home, I wrote the usual, "The scenery is beautiful, wish you were here," but I inadvertently wrote to my secretary, "The scenery is here, wish you were beautiful."

Luckily, she forgave me.

Phil Donahue decides to call it quits

NEW YORK (AP) — Phil Donahue, who pioneered the audience- and issue-driven talk show, only to see his ratings yield to lowbrow imitators and trashy topics, is calling it quits.

"Donahue," a Peabody and 20-time national Emmy Award winner seen in more than 45 countries, will continue through the end of this season, his syndicator, Multimedia Entertainment Inc., announced Wednesday.

"Phil Donahue essentially started this company and began an entire industry in daytime syndication," said Multimedia President Bob Turner.

Door of TWA jet pops open in flight

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Tethered at the waist, a cockpit crew member pulled a hatch closed and secured it with rope after a stairwell on a TWA jet popped open during flight. None of the 72 people aboard was injured.

The Boeing 727 was cruising at 35,000 feet, en route Tuesday night from St. Louis and about 100 miles from the San Antonio International Airport when a cockpit light indicated a rear stairway under the tail was open. The crew discovered it had dropped about 2 feet, officials said.

A bulkhead door between the stairway and the passenger compartment prevented the cabin from losing air pressure.

The captain flew the plane to 13,000 feet to permit a crew member to reach a handle behind the door, TWA spokesman John McDonald said Wednesday.

When the crew member pulled the stairs shut, he was secured with rope and possibly seat belt extension straps to keep him from being swept out.

Billiard wizard, Minnesota Fats, is dead

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Minnesota Fats, the boastful billiard wizard who could shoot pool with either hand, stuffed $100 bills in his chest pocket and was portrayed in the movie "The Hustler," died today, a day before his birthday.

Fats, whose exact age was unknown, died of congestive heart failure.

"He was the world's greatest," Theresa Bell Wanderone said in announcing his death.

"Now he's finally in heaven shooting it out again with (Willie) Mosconi. He always said, 'St. Peter, rack 'em up.'"

Mosconi, Minnesota Fats' legendary rival, died in 1991 at age 80.

Fats' age was a matter of dispute. Associates said he was born Jan. 19, 1900, but a 1966 biography, "Bank Shot," listed his date of birth as Jan. 19, 1913.

"No one on this Earth knows how old I am," he said in a 1988 interview with The Associated Press.

Fats, whose real name was Rudolf Wanderone Jr., was portrayed by Jackie Gleason in the 1961 movie that starred Paul Newman. He was born in New York City and played pool all his life in various parts of the country.

Fats, who once weighed 245 pounds, was known earlier in his pool days as New York Fats, but became known as Minnesota Fats because of Gleason's character in the movie.

In the movie, the character Minnesota Fats was a dapper, deadeye pool player challenged by a younger player (Newman) out to win his respect.

The movie "The Color of Money," starring Newman and Tom Cruise, was a sequel to "The Hustler" in the mid-1980s.

Wanderone said in the 1988 interview that the original movie "didn't mean nothin' to me."

"I'm known clean around the Earth. It meant something to Gleason and them people.

contract with Knight Construction, Inc., at a cost of $70,000;

—A Freese & Nichols contract for engineering services in the amount of $55,700, with the stipulation that services which were provided to the city be billed to the city.

—And, a bid of $750 from Doyle Kellner to move a fence.

Board members considered options to relocate TU Electric power lines and Snyder Cablevision cable lines at the entrance to the park. Among the options were to raise them, bury 300 feet of them or bury 650 feet of them. The board chose the latter option.

The board also authorized board president Roy Baze and DCOS Executive Director Doug Hutchinson to make decisions for expenditures for construction work at the park. This will help expedite construction and prevent having to call the entire board together each time an expenditure needs to be made. The board will review the expenditures each month.

Board members also approved an application to the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas for the holding of securities in joint safekeeping, a technical requirement by Snyder National Bank.

All board members were present Wednesday, to include Baze, John Fagin, Bill Seale, Roy McQueen and Jack Gorman.

Convicted murderer sentenced

ing with Gradney's 10-year-old son, Richard, testifying that he and his father had examined the murder weapon early on the day Carr was killed. Richard Gradney said he and his father had handled the gun extensively before putting it back in a closet where it was kept.

A Department of Public Safety lab expert testified later however, that after extensive testing, no fingerprints had been found on the gun. Special Prosecuter Ricky Smith of Dawson County accused Gradney of wiping the prints off after the shooting.

Trial testimony indicated that the night of the crime and early into the next morning, Gradney told Snyder police at least two different versions of the shooting, including that Carr had shot herself. In a signed statement, however, he told police Carr had swung the gun at him following an argument and it went off after striking his right arm.

Wednesday morning, Gradney read from a statement he said he written in his jail cell the night before, which contained another version of the shooting.

He said he felt he had grabbed another part of the gun after Carr had swung the gun at him.

"After hearing the expert witness testify (Tuesday), I am now convinced that part of my hand may have accidently hit the trigger," read Gradney.

Friends and relatives of the victim and Gradney were in the courtroom when the sentence was returned Wednesday. Most of them broke into tears.

Gradney's outward appearance did not change as Judge Armstrong read the verdict.

Richard Gradney was escorted quickly out of the courtroom by his mother and Grayling Gradney's ex-wife, Richie.

Perhaps the most poignant moment of the trial occurred Wednesday morning as young Richard testified on his dad's behalf in the sentencing phase of the trial.

Responding to a question from defense attorney Erika Copeland on what he would like to see the jury do, Richard struggled through tears and cried, "I am trying to get my dad probation."

Prosecuters chose not to question Richard but while he was on the witness stand, co-state's attorney Andrea Handley told him, "You are about the bravest 10-year-old boy I've ever met."

"Good luck to you, young man," said Handley.
