The Snyder Motel Association, which has become sign conscious, has been studying the standard highway signs that direct motorists on and off the federal throughfares through this area and came up with some recommendations for the highway department. One thing they have noticed is that the name "Snyder" is missing from most of these official guideposts and they say they have complaints regularly that people driving through on US 84 are uncertain about getting on and off the highway to find Snyder motels, cafes and gasoline stations.

Based on personal experience, we think they would have the problem solved if they could get some of those blue signs used on freeways which designate exits leading to "Food, Gas, Lodging." Those are the signs we look for whenever we are traveling through unfamiliar territory and are in need of a meal, car service, or lodging for the night.

Another sign we noted in the vicinity of some towns, especially in California, pointed the way to what they called "motel row."

There are new billboard-type signs on approaches to Snyder now that welcome travelers here, and they do look sharp.

Most of the Snyder delegation attending the Texas Municipal League meeting early last week went down to Dallas in time to see the SMU-Texas Tech football game. But Councilman J.D. Hinton knew of a game he preferred over that one, being a graduate of Texas A&M. But, that A&M-Baylor game at Waco had been sold out for several days.

However, the Hintons stopped off in Stephenville and while browsing in an art gallery there found someone with one A&M-Baylor ticket for sale. Playing a hunch, Hinton bought it and he and his wife headed for Waco. At Baylor stadium there were several offers of two, three or four tickets outside the stadium. They were being snapped up right and left. Finally, a car drove by slowly and the occupants held up a single ticket. Hinton bought it and he and Mrs. Hinton went into the stadium and parted to search for their respective seats.

"We wound up on the same row, about 15 seats apart, "Hinton said. With over 50,000 seats sold, they figure they came out fairly well on a last-minute deal. And, with that kind of luck, Hinton should have had an idea by the time they got to their seats about the outcome of the game.

On the other side of the Aggie-Baylor game, the Rev. Miller Robinson, naturally a staunch Baylor backer, said he was reading about Samson, the Israelite of super strength, after seeing that game at Waco and he doubts that Samson could make A&M's third team.

History tells us that this area should expect a killing frost any day now, but the Old Farmer's Almanac offers little hope for it before the middle of the month. As we recall, the first killing frost of the season arrives here around Nov. 5 on the average. The old almanac, which predicted the recent rainy spells on the button, sees more precipitation around Nov. 11 and possibly some light snow in the northern part of the Texas-Oklahoma region Nov. 15-17. That spell could bring the frost.—WACIL McNAIR.

Texans Vote On Tuesday

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

Texas voters cast their ballots Tuesday to end one of the state's dullest political seasons in recent history.

In the governor's race, normally the main event of a Texas election, Gov. Dolph Briscoe, the Democrat front runner, has not even campaigned for the past two weeks.

Although other statewide Democratic office holders have opponents, none of them has felt insecure enough to get out and actively campaign for votes. Polite dinner and luncheon speeches made up most of their efforts.

The hottest races Tuesday apparently will be the two-man tussle for a successor to retiring Comptroller Robert S. Calvert, 82, plus about three Congressional contests and a handfull of state legislative races.

The Texas Election Bureau has estimated 2.75 million voters Tuesday and Secretary of State Mark White predicted 2.16 million.

Others, particularly Republican candidates, say voter apathy will hold the turnout to 1.5 or 1.7 million out of the estimated 5.4 million eligible.

Absentee voting ended Friday with most places reporting light turnouts.

Briscoe, 51, is seeking his second term, which will be Texas' first four-year term for governors due to a recent constitution change. He cancelled the final two weeks of his campaign to be with his critically ill mother, Mrs. Dolph Briscoe Sr., in Uvalde.

The Republican candidate for governor, Jim Granberry, 42, orthodonist and former mayor of Lubbock, has been campaigning actively for almost 18 months. In recent weeks he complained of campaign fund shortages and said he was unable to buy as much newspaper, radio and TV advertising as originally planned.

Also on the ballot in the governor's race are Ramsey Muniz, 31, Corpus Christi attorney representing the Raza Unida Party; Sam McDonnell, 51, Dallas, American Party, and Sherry Smith, 28, Houston, Socialist Workers party.

Democratic Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, 42, has made almost no campaign, mostly accepting speech invitations. He is opposed by Republican Gaylord Marshall, 39, Dallas, and Dan Fein, young Houston school teacher, Socialist Workers.

Atty. Gen. John Hill, 51, Democrat, is opposed by Republican Tom Cole, 42, Houston, and Pedro Vasquez, 25, Houston, Socialist Workers.

In the hot comptroller's race, Bob Bullock, 44, Austin, Democrat and former secretary of state and aide to Gov. Preston Smith, is opposed by Nick Rowe, 36, Austin, Republican, who spent five years in a Viet Cong prison camp. Both have been extremely active throughout the state.

Also on the ballot in the comptroller's race is Sas Scoggins, 37, Austin, Socialist Woekrs.

Treasurer Jesse James, 70, Democrat, has confined his campaign mostly to advertisements, but his Republican opponent, Bob Holt, 41, Amarillo banker, has been active throughout the state.

Another active Republican challenger, is Zack Fisher, 32 Memphis farmer and rancher, against Democrat Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, 49. White's campaign has been mostly "non-political" speeches before agriculture groups.

Scurry's Polls Open At 8 a.m.

Scurry County voters will cast ballots between the hours of 8 a.m. and 7 p.m. in the general election Tuesday.

Voting will be conducted in all of the regular polling places in the county.

Although there are no contested county and precinct races here, there are two legislative posts at stake and a post on the state board of education, in addition to the contested state offices.

The candidates for state legislative seats have conducted active campaign, all of them visiting Snyder and Scurry County several times.

Ray Farabee, a Wichita Falls attorney, is the Democratic Party Candidate, and Mrs. Mary Kirchhoff, Plainview teacher, is the Republican candidate for State Senator from the 30th District. They are seeking the post being vacated by Jack Hightower of Vernon, who is the Democratic nominee for Congressman from the 13th District.

In the race for State Representative from the 63rd District are Mike Ezzell of Snyder, the Democratic nominee, and John R. (Rich) Anderson of Borden County, the Republican nominee. They are seeking the post being vacated by Renal B. Rosson of Snyder, who did not seek re-election this year.

James M. Binion of Abilene, the Democratic incumbent, is opposed by Mary Joy Cowper of Big Spring for the State Board of Education member from the 17th District.

Hazle Rites Here Today

Funeral service has been set for 2 p.m. today at East Side Church of Christ for Mrs. Anna Alice Hazle, 80, who lived at 2706 Avenue M. She died at 2 p.m. Friday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Ted Kell will officiate and Dean Morgan will assist at the funeral service and burial will be in the Snyder Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

A native of Arkansas, Mrs. Hazle had been a resident of Scurry County since 1948. She was married on Nov. 7, 1923, at Anson to James Monroe Hazle. He preceded her in death in 1962.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Roxie Kathleen Ellington of Snyder; a son, James William Hazle of Carlsbad, N.M.; a sister, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Spurgeon of Amarillo; three brothers, J.N. Roseberry of Hamlin, C. J. Roseburry of Tahoka and Walter Roseberry of Fort Worth; four grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

SHAH PROPOSES CUT IN PRICES

Oil Talks Bear Fruit

By The Associated Press

Henry A. Kissinger's efforts to bring down the price of oil seemed to bear fruit Saturday, but the Palestinian guerrillas said Arab leaders have rejected his plans for peace in the Middle East.

After talking with the American secretary of State about oil, the Shah of Iran said in Tehran that he's proposing a 14 per cent decrease in the fixed, posted price. He said he doesn't expect the oil companies to pass along such a cut to the consumers, however.

As they talked, Yasser Abed Rabbo, head of the information department of the Palestine Liberation Organization, released in Beirut details of what he said was a peace plan proposed by Kissinger. The PLO and Arab confrontation states rejected it unanimously at their Rabat, Morocco, summit conference and expect a fifth war with Israel because of the lack of a settlement of their differences, Rabbo said.

Under the plan Rabbo outlined, Israel would leave parts of the Sinai Peninsula and the Golan Heights and return to Jordan all major cities of the occupied area west of the Jordan River except for Jerusalem. In exchange, Egypt would sign a no-war pact and the Arabs would go on record at the Rabat summit for lower oil prices, which they didn't do.

The Shah of Iran said Iran will propose a the next meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries a posted price of $10 a barrel for oil, a reduction of about $1.65 from current levels. The posted price is that set by the oil states as a base for taxation of the oil companies.

It was not immediately known how much influence the Iranian leader will have on the other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

U.S. sources said that Kissinger had hoped during his visit to Tehran to enlist the shah's support in pressing for lower oil prices. They had said that if the shah and King Faisal of Saudi Arabia together pushed for the reductions, other OPEC countries might go along.

Informed sources in Tehran said earlier in the day they expect oil prices to stay as they are, or possibly be increased by 30 to 40 cents a barrel in December.

At his news conference, the shah said he stood firm with his contention that oil prices should be linked to the prices of a cross-section of industrial products. "Once you do this," he said producing and consuming nations "will have the same destiny."

The shah said even if the posted price is reduced to $10 a barrel, he does not expect it to lower the cost of oil to the American consumer unless the profits of oil companies are held to a fixed level.

Diamond M Art Exhibit Open Today

Visitors from throughout West Texas are expected here today for the showing of Julian Robles' art at the Diamond M Museum.

The museum will be open to the public from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and visitors will have an opportunity to meet the artist during the afternoon exhibit.

Robles, who lives in Taos, N. M., has gained widespread recognition as a portrait artist, but is best-known for his sculpture and paintings of the American Indian and the American West.

"As an artist, I can appreciate their rich and varied heritage of which some of its earliest remnants can be found today in beautiful natural profusion in New Mexico," said Robles in referring to his interest in the American Indians.

This interest took him to Taos from New York, where he had gone from Texas to acquire instruction that he especially desired. He has received many awards and his paintings are included in many collections. He studied in New York City at the National Academy of Art and Design with Robert Phillip, N. A., R. A., and the Art Students League with Sidney Dickinson, N. A.

Pact Okayed For Street Projects

In a brief special meeting Friday, the Snyder City Council approved an agreement with the Texas Highway Department for construction work on Thirty-seventh Street and the Roundtop Road.

The projects involved are in the federal urban program and Friday's final approval by the council clears the way for the highway department to proceed with engineering. The Thirty-seventh Street project will involve revamping of the approach to College Avenue from the west and other improvements between College Avenue and Austin Avenue.

The Roundtop Road project will include widening of the road from Cogdell Center to the Western Texas College campus. Both projects were approved as federal urban program projects earlier by the highway department.

In other business at the special session, the council rejected all bids for side-load sanitation containers and instructed the city manager to call for new bids; and accepted the bid of Wilson Motors, local Ford dealer, for the purchase of three automobiles for the police department. The police car bids had specified engines with four-barrel carburetors and at the regular meeting Oct. 8, the tabulation showed that the bid of Mal Donelson Chevrolet was the only one meeting this specification. Subsequently, however, the city was advised that delivery could not be made on engines with the four-barrel carburetors. Since Wilson Motors had the lowest bid for vehicles with two-barrel carburetors, $11,195.50 for three cars, it was accepted Friday.

OUR FOOD OR THEIRS?

World Hunger Puts America On Spot

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The question has come to this: our food or theirs?

This week the representatives of 130 nations meet in Rome to debate how to increase a critically short food supply, how to apportion what food exists.

The scant supplies and the rising demand have left many of the world's poor on the brink of starvation and boosted the price of food for rich and poor alike.

The policy that the United States carries to the World Food Conference, starting Tuesday (Nov. 5) and lasting until Nov. 16, may not please the rest of the world. But it holds more promise for the American housewife than it did a few months ago.

Because of world demand for American food, President Ford has abruptly altered at least the mechanics of the "free market" concept of the Nixon administration.

On Oct. 4, the White House stopped the shipment of 3.2 million tons of corn and wheat to the Soviet Union, and three days later ordered that any big export deals in the future receive federal approval first. The Soviet order later was reduced to 2.2 million tons until the 1975 harvest.

The explanation the President reportedly gave to grain dealers was "political problems" with the Congress and the people: problems that result from the 17 per cent rise in retail food prices in the past year.

If so, then the voice of the American consumer finally is being heard more than three feet away from the supermarket counter.

If so, does it foretell changes in U.S. agricultural policy and priorities?

And if that answer is yes, then what about Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz, who proclaims the free market policy as his own and who claims credit for getting the federal govyrnment out of the grain storage business?

The tug of war goes on — between domestic needs and foreign needs, between the affluent of other nations bidding for America's food stocks and the hungry of other nations with no money to bid; between American farmers who want to keep prices up and American housewivs demanding lower prices.

Only a few years ago, the U.S. government stockpiled millions of tons of grain under the subsidy system. Those stockpiles were a buffer against high supermarket prices and abnormal foreign demand. When famine hit India, Africa, Latin America or Asia, the federal grain surplus provided relief, often free. When the affluent nations purchased grain abroad, the order usually was filled from the U.S. surplus, and the American housewife didn't notice. There was more than enough to keep her prices from rising.

Today, the situation is different.

Hunger Girdles The Globe

ROME (AP) — Experts say the statistics on hunger are often misleading, but they agree that a belt of hunger girdles the globe strapping a half billion people with continuous misery.

These are the people United Nations specialists say are permanently hungry, and also often suffer from the ravages of vitamin deficiency: blindness, infection, intestinal diseases.

They are unable to lead a normal life or be productive members of society. And at least two out of every five are children.

In many of the hardest hit nations there is a treadmill pattern to hunger which leaves millions with no escape, experts say. Most farmers in these nations still till their land by hand. And because they are hungry they don't have enough energy for their work and produce less food.

For example, in the United States where most farming is mechanized, the average food intake is 3,300 calories a day — 26 per cent above the recommended minimum. In Bangladesh the average daily intake is 1,840 calories — 20 per cent below the minimum recommended for that country.

"It's a vicious circle, condemning people eternally to hunger," said an Indian specialist at the U. N. Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO).

U.N. experts say vitamin-A deficiency is a major cause of blindness in India, Indonesia, Bangladesh, Vietnam, the Philippines, northeast Brazil and El Salvador.

Agnew's Resignation Missing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spiro T. Agnew's 14-word letter of resignation as vice president is missing, prompting a government search for the misplaced or stolen document.

State Department spokesman John King, disclosing the matter Friday, told reporters that both the department and the National Archives have only copies of the Oct. 10, 1973 letter.

Officials said the discovery was made after James B. Rhoads, archives director, requested the original letter from the State Department while acknowledging receipt of Richard M. Nixon's letter of resignation as president.

The Agnew and Nixon letter were addressed to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, as provided by law.

King said several federal agencies were questioning everyone who may have had access to the Agnew letter. He acknowledged the possibility that the letter, which could have great monetary value, may have been stolen.

The letter read: The Honorable Henry A. Kissinger
The Secretary of State
Washington, D.C. 20520
Dear Mr. Secretary:

I hereby resign the office of Vice President of the United States, effective immediately.

Sincerely,
-s-Spiro Agnew

Ford Orders Layoffs

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. has ordered indefinite layoffs for 775 workers and temporary furloughs for about 12,000 others in an effort to boost sagging profits.

As of Monday, Ford said 7,000 of its 179,000 workers will be on indefinite layoffs.

General Motors and Chrysler recently ordered similar layoffs.

Ford Vice President Donald Bastian said Friday that small car assembly plants at Dearborn, Mich.; Metuchen, N.J.; and San Jose, Calif., will suspend production for a week beginning Monday because of slack sales.

The temporary layoffs will affect 4,950 workers at Dearborn; 3,450 at Metuchen and 3,250 at San Jose. In addition, the Rawsonville, Mich., parts plant will lay off 250 hourly employes and the Utica, Mich., trim plant will lay off another 225 for the week.

Burleson Has ACA Backing

WASHINGTON, D. C.—United States 17th District Congressman Omar Burleson was endorsed for re-election today by ACA (Americans for Constitutional Action). The nonpartisan National organization, head-quartered here, said it was endorsing Congressman Burleson becuase of his consistent voting record for constitutional principles.

Charles A. McManus, President of ACA, stated, "Omar Burleson is best judged by his performance during the 28 years in which he has served in the House. His legislative record gives factual eveidence of his valuable and unselfish service to our Nation."

Americans for Constitutional Action (ACA) periodically rates all Members of Congress on issues which are of major National importance and adherence to constitutional principles. ACA's President stated, "If every member of Congress voted as Congressman Burleson, there would be little or no Federal debt, inflation would not be a problem, our National military strength would not be in question, and Americans would be paying lower taxes."

Mr. McManus cited Congressman Burleson's voting record as outstanding. "He puts the interest of the United States first and works continually for the preservation of constitutional government."

The endorsement by ACA brings to the Congressman the support of highly distinguished citizens, Democrats, Republicans and Independents, who are Members of ACA's Board of Trustees.

Police Hunting Cyanide Source

PASADENA, Tex. (AP) — Ronald O'Bryan and a neighbor accompanied five children on a trick-or-treat tour Halloween night. He wishes now they had not gone.

Among the children on the visit to the suburban Bowling Green subdivision, termed by police as "a real nice neighborhood with lots of new houses," were O'Bryan's son, Timothy, 8, and daughter, Elizabeth, 5.

When the O'Bryan family returned to their nearby Deer Park home Timothy became ill. He died shortly thereafter in a hospital.

Police Lt. E. L. Goad said Friday an autopsy showed Timothy died from cyanide contained in candy he received while trick-or-treating.

Police made a door to door search in the area and Goad called on parents in the Houston suburbs of Pasadena and Deer Park to confiscate any trick-or-treat candy their children received. He also asked any persons who collected candy in the neighborhood to bring it to the police station.

Goad said late Friday night no arrests had been made.

Goad said chemical tests by the Harris County medical examiner's office revealed the cyanide granules found in the candy eaten by Timothy. He said the boy ate only one type of candy, a powdered sweet contained in a 22-inch long tube.

He said cyanide also was found in two other containers of the same kind of candy given the children accompanying Timothy. However, neither his sister nor the other children on the tour displayed any symptoms of illness.

O'Bryan, trying to control his sorrow as he revealed details of the tragedy, said they returned home about 8 p.m.

"Because of all the excitement, we let the kids stay up until 9 p.m., an hour past their bed time," said O'Bryan, an optometrist.

"Then we put them in bed and Tim wanted one more bite of candy. It seems like it wasn't long before he was up and complaining his stomach hurt and he didn't feel good. He was bent over vomiting and I was holding him when he just went limp. It's so disheartening to think there wasn't more we could do.

"I never even really thought that it might have been a case of poisoned candy until the police told me about the cyanide. My boy was real active. He was a live wire. I was thinking it might be almost anything. But the idea it was poison didn't seem to be realistic then."

O'Bryan accompanied police as they tried to identify the house where the child might have received the candy but he was not able to point it out.

"It's just so difficult to be certain," he said. "There wasn't any reason to really notice where we were," he said.

"We thought we were so careful.

Broken Needle Found In Treat

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Austin police said Saturday they were investigating a report that a broken sewing machine needle was inserted in a treat handed out to a child Halloween night.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jalufka, of northeast Austin, said they found the piece of a needle in a piece of bubble gum given their 10-year-old son, Danny.

The discovery was made after the boy returned home and he could not remember where he got the gum. He was not injured.

Homicide Lt. Colon Jordan said charges of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon, a felony, would be filed if officers find the person who planted the needle in the gum.

Info On Political Science Jobs

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

Dear Joyce: I have read a column of yours on opportunities for political science majors other than law school. Would appreciate a reprint of that column or any other information, suggestions or address you might have. – M.R., Burlington, Wash.

I can't recall the column you mention but political science has limited direct application except for use as a pre-law major, or government service or teaching. Info on jobs working for the federal government can be obtained through Federal Job Information Centers – check with your college placement office. For a copy of "Guide to Career Opportunities in City Hall," send a stamped, self-addressed return envelope to Nation's Cities Magazine, 1612 K St. NW, Washington, D.C. 20006.

Vol. 1 of "The Occupational Thesaurus," is a job guide handbook for majors in political science, as well as anthropology, economics, history, languages, math, psychology and sociology. (Published by Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa. in 1971; sold through Lehigh's Placement Office.) A review of the political science section shows a broad spectrum of occupational areas political science majors have entered, ranging from advertising and banking to personnel and transportation.

There must have been interest in the political scene for you to have majored in political science. Have you tried to get a job on a politician's staff, or considered running for elective office yourself?

Dear Joyce: Can you please inform me where I might seek training in "hair removal" or electrolysis? – R.S., Morton Grove, Ill.

Vocational schools offer electrolysis; many of these are operated by equipment manufacturers. Some of the larger hair removal firms train their own technicians and pay them a salary while they learn. You can get a copy of the 4-page occupational brief, "Electrologist," number 168, for 35 cents from Chronicle Guidance Publications, Moravia, N.Y. 13118. The brief describes particulars of the occupation plus professional associations you can contact for guidance, such as the Electrologists' Association of Illinois, Box 3866, Merchandise Mart, Chicago, Ill. 60654. The best opportunities for electrologists exist in medium-sized cities and towns where income is high enough to support a practice. Most electrologists practice in big cities and suburbs. Some work for others, some are self-employed.

Dear Joyce: I am interested in horse grooming as a profession and would like to know if there are schools for this or if this is a profession you learn by experience? – C.F., Indian Orchard, Mass.

Grooming is an entry level job, not a profession. You learn on the job, although you should have experience with horses before you apply. There are schools for horse studies which can prepare you for higher level positions. If interested, write to the American Horse Council, 1776 K St. NW, Washington, D.C. 20006. Enclose a stamped, return envelope. I also suggest you trot to your nearest library and read "Careers Working With Horses," an article in the August 1974 issue of Changing Times magazine.

Building Down 42% In Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Residential construction in Texas plummeted 42 per cent from August to September, the Bureau of Business Research reports.

The index of building authorizations stood at 142.5 in August and fell to 82.8—its lowest September level in eight years.

Net withdrawals from federally insured savings and loan associations totaled $1.2 billion nationally in August, the fifth straight month that withdrawals have exceeded deposits.

And preliminary estimates show another $1 billion was withdrawn in September. But the same estimates show a net deposit of $800 million in October.

Savings and loan associations are primary sources for construction loans.

The cost of a typical new home increased 38 per cent from 1969 to 1974, rising from $27,900 to $38,600, the bureau said.

Increased oil and gas exploration accounted for exceptions to the decrease in residential construction in Midland and Odessa, and increased refinery capacity accounted for exceptions in Galveston, Texas City, Beaumont, Port Arthur and Orange.

The number of new duplexes authorized in Midland increased 3,300 per cent in the first nine months of this year, compared with the same period a year ago.

The boom in new housing starts in 1971-73 severely depleted building materials. Because of the depression in the housing industry, materials are back up to normal levels but are in less demand. This means, the bureau said, those who supply materials most essential in the early phases of construction—gypsum, cement, lumber and plywood—are hardest hit by the depression.

Poor Harvests Will Reduce Reserves

WASHINGTON (AP) — Poor harvests in the United States, the Soviet Union and elsewhere will reduce the world wheat reserve to 48.8 million metric tons, the smallest amount on record, by the time new crops are ready next year, the Agriculture Department reports.

The department's Foreign Agricultural Service, which began compiling such data 15 years ago, also said Friday that total grain supplies will be some 916 million tons, down 17.4 million from its prediction five weeks ago.

Nearly all of the decline in total supplies resulted from reduced harvests of livestock feed grain, including corn. The United States slipped by almost 8 million tons and the Soviet Union 5 million, USDA said.

Poor Harvests Cut Wheat Reserve

NEW YORK (AP) — Price rises in sugar have been caused by a spiraling increase in demand for sugar that far exceeds available supply, according to experts at the Sugar Assn.

The reasons for this escalating demand include: 1) Sharply increased consumption of the carbohydrate in the newly emerging countries, which formerly were relatively small consumers of sugar; 2) heavier consumption of sugar in Russia, China and Japan; 3) speculation in the commodity by cash-rich Mid-East nations; 4) weather problems that have put a crimp in sugar crops and further shortened supply.

The United States consumes far more sugar than it produces. Therefore, vast quantities of raw sugar must be imported at prices established in worldwide commodity markets to supply the much-wanted commodity. One of the stable factors in the situation is that consumption of sugar in the U.S. has remained virtually unchanged over many decades at about 100 pounds per person annually.

Mills Eying Inflation Proposals

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said Friday that the House Ways and Means Committee is looking at many proposals to deal with inflation.

He said some were designed to give greater equity in the tax system, others were designed to be incentives to move the nation's economy away from inflation and recession.

"Most importantly, the condition of the economy requires immediate and positive action," Mills said. "We intend to supply that action, and now."

Mills chairman of the committee, made the remarks to the Arkansas Home Builders Association convention.

The tax revision proposals pending consideration in the committee are "far more sound" than President Ford's proposed five per cent income tax surcharge, Mills said.

He said the committee's legislation would give about $2 billion in tax relief to persons in the low-income and moderate-income levels. Mills said this would be offset by reducing tax preferences without making an across-the-board tax increase.

Slow Mail Costs City $476

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Officials say the city lost $476 because it took four days for a letter mailed at the downtown post office to be delivered across the street to City Hall.

The letter was a $1,701.50 bid by Checker Cab Co. for the purchase of five used city-owned cars.

Because the letter had not arrived, a bid of $1,225.50 by the Vance Auto Salvage Co. was accepted.

L.B. Smith, director of mail processing, said the letter should have arrived the day after it was postmarked. He speculated it was sent by a letter-sorting machine to the wrong city.

Vote Set On Gender Clauses

By BILL STALL
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Californians will vote Tuesday on whether to revise the state Constitution to remove many of its references to gender.

Critics say that as the document is now worded it discriminates against women.

For instance, they ask why the governor should be referred to as "he" or "him"?

Under Proposition 11, put on the ballot by overwhelming vote of the legislature, the governor would be called "the governor."

Assemblymen would be "members of the Assembly." Congressmen would be "representatives in Congress." Workmen's compensation would be "workers' compensation."

Chairmen no longer would be chairmen. But to the relief of many, they would not be called chairpersons. "Presiding officer" would be the wording.

In all, 100 changes are proposed in eight of the 34 sections to make the 70,000-word constitution neuter.

The measure has not been a burning issue in the campaign.

Proponents of the amendment, including Anita Miller of the Commission on the Status of Women, argue that "it recognizes that both men and women have an equal opportunity to participate in the political process."

Opponents contend the proposed amendment is frivolous.

The California State Chamber of Commerce says the proposal is psychological and has no legal effect.

"It does not confer any additional benefit on any woman that she does not already possess," the chamber said.

"Absurd," said law student Timothy D. Weinland, who wrote the official argument against the proposition in the ballot pamphlet that goes to all registered voters.

"We are already burdened by too many meaningless banalities coming from the government," he said.

Even if Proposition 11 is adopted, references to judges would remain as "he" or "his," despite the fact that California has a number of female judges.

BALL HAWK—Snyder High School's Dennis Young (41) returns the football in the fourth quarter of the Tiger-Panther contest in Tiger Stadium Friday night after making an interception. Snyder defenders have swiped 13 enemy aerials this season and Young has grabbed six of them. Coming up to assist the Tiger safety is rover back Bernie Weems (40). An unidentified Panther dives for Young's ankles. Snyder won the crucial 3-AAA contest, 30-7, and remains the only undefeated team in district play. (Photo by Paul Gilbert).

TIGERS RIP DUNBAR 30-7

The fighting Snyder Tigers broke open a close giridiron battle with the Lubbock Dunbar Panthers in the second half here Friday night with a quick-hitting offense and a tenacious defense to score a 30-7 triumph in the 3-AAA showdown and become the only unbeaten team in district play.

Snyder scored on its first possession in the initial period, but the stubborn Panthers tied it up early in the second frame. The Tigers went back ahead by 6 points later in the period, then fought off a rally by Dunbar just before halftime to preserve the lead. In the third quarter, the Tigers applied the coup de grace, scoring 14 points, and adding three in the final stanza.

The successful goal line stand late in the second quarter took the momentum away from Dunbar and the Panthers never recovered after that. With Snyder leading 13-7, the Panthers had driven from their 34 to a first and goal at the Tiger 4 and were threatening to take the lead. Big play in the march was a 24-yard aerial, Michael Henderson to wingback Terry Johnson. Henderson, running backs Mel High and Eddie Brown had alternated carries for the other yardage.

Operating then from the 4, Dunbar called on Brown on first down, and he plowed for two to the 2. On second down the Panthers apparently tied the score on a short burst by High, but a 5 yard penalty nullified the touchdown and pushed the fired up Panthers back to the 7. On the next try Henderson, a dangerous runner on the rollout option, swept right end to the 3, and Dunbar called its last time out with 16 seconds showing on the clock.

Facing third and goal from the three, Henderson dialed his own number again, but Snyder's linebacker, Roy Lee Carter, shot through the gap on a stunt and knocked the 185-pounder off his feet for a nine yard loss at the 12 and time ran out. It was a great defensive play and surely must have stunned the Dunbar team. Snyder took command of the game in the second half.

The Tigers got their first touchdown following a short Dunbar punt by driving 52 yards on 12 carries with fullback Rickey Howell blasting over right guard from the four for the TD. Dane Witherspoon's extra point kick made it 7-0.

Howell carried the ball nine times in this drive with tailback Tim Flynn contributing two yards and quarterback Win Bunch adding three. Bunch's gain kept the drive alive on a fourth and one situation at the 17.

Dunbar end Mike McGraw recovered a fumble at the Snyder 48 early in the second quarter and the Panthers spanned the distance to the goal in two plays. High, the district's leading ball carrier, was stopped for no gain. Then Henderson faded back and fired a perfect strike to split end Victor Washington who made the reception behind the safety at the 20. He had clear sailing to the goal. Robert White's extra point kick tied it up at 7-7 with 9:09 remaining in the period.

Snyder took the ensuing kickoff and marched 70 yards to take the lead again in 9 plays. Bunch scored the touchdown on a 1 yard keeper with 5:03 remaining. Halfback Bernie Weems tried to run on a fake kick on the extra point play but was stopped short of the goal as the Tigers held a slim 6 point lead. Flynn, Howell and Bunch all carried in the march, and the big play was a 30 yard run by Bunch around right end on what appeared to be a busted play.

Then came Dunbar's bid to take the lead and the magnificent Tiger goal line stand.

The Tigers took the kickoff opening the second half and marched 87 yards in 12 plays with Howell getting the touchdown on a one yard burst over left guard with 6:32 remaining in the period. Witherspoon's extra point kick made it 20-7. Bunch, Flynn, David Mayes and Howell all contributed yardage in the march but the big plays were a 29 yard sweep by Bunch and a 15 yard run by Flynn.

On their next possession, the Tigers drove 57 yards to pay dirt in four plays aided by a 15 yard penalty. The penalty set up first and 10 at the Dunbar 43. On the next play, Bunch pitched out to Welton Cobb and the big tailback lofted an aerial downfield and Kenny Thompson made a leaping catch at the 25. Flynn charged for 5 to the 20, then Howell shook loose for 11 to the 9. Flynn Flynn took a pitchout to the left and easily sprinted the remaining distance to the goal. Witherspoon's kick made it 27-7 with 2:50 remaining.

The Tigers threatened again in the third quarter, marching from the Panthers 48 to the 9 in 5 plays, but a 15 yard penalty spoiled the TD bid. Big play in the march was a 25 yard run around right end by Bunch.

In the fourth quarter following an interception by Danny Brumley, the Tigers drove from their 46 to the Dunbar 18 with Steve Green directing the drive. He, Howell, Flynn and Mayes all contributed yardage in the march, but the big gainer was a 15 yard burst by Flynn behind good blocking by Roger Williams.

Dunbar stiffened, and the Tigers went for the field goal on fourth down. With Weems holding the ball at the 25, Witherspoon's kick was true to the mark as Snyder posted its final 30-7 advantage with 6:58 remaining.

Dunbar got its 1st down of the second half with 6:31 remaining in thr fourth period, and the Panthers drove on down to the Tiger 31, but an interception by Dennis Young halted the march.

It was another great team effort by the Tigers. There was crisp blocking along the offensive line with Bobby Wall, Roger Williams, Jerry Derrick, Felton Stephens, Tim Sonnier, David Marjar, and Charles Hammond all doing a good job of moving out the defenders.

The Tiger defense was led by Roy Lee Carter, but everyone looked good with nose guard George Willis, safety Dennis Young, rover Bernie Weems, tackles Tim Sonnier and Greg Gary and ends Mike Freeman and David Mayes all turning in superb efforts. Jacky Simpson got to see some action at right end, and he did a creditable job while he was in.

Welton Cobb carried the ball only four times on offense, but he did a good job on defense from his linebacker post. Flynn was the leading ball carier with 119 yards on 19 carries. Bunch contributed 102 paces on 9 rushes, and Howell contributed 88yards on 18 carries. Dunbar's heralded High was held to only 47 yards on 13 carries.

The Tigers can clinch a tie for the district crown with a victory at Sweetwarer next Friday night.

Food Stamp Program Is Serving 13.5 Million

EDITOR'S NOTE — The federal food stamp program had its origins 35 years ago in an experiment to supply farm surpluses to the poor. Today, 13.5 million people pay for groceries with food stamps and millions more might soon be doing so.

By DON KENDALL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal food stamp program, in fattening the poor man's diet, costs the American consumer twice — first in taxes to pay for the program, and again in higher food prices brought on by higher demand.

In an inflated, contracting economy, the question is bound to arise: what price generosity? And arise just when more buys less, even for the poor.

The food stamp program is still a baby. But is growing rapidly. Today it costs the nation $3.9 billion annually, 22 times more than it did in 1967, and it serves 13.5 million people, five times as many as in 1967.

The Department of Agriculture is spending $6 billion annually today — two-thirds of its budget — on food stamps and other free food programs from school lunches to richer diets for pregnant women of low income.

The food stamps alone account for 2.5 per cent of the $160 billion all Americans spend on food each year — enough to increase the cost of everyone's food because of the higher demand at the market place.

Dr. Alden Manchester, a food consumption analyst in the Department of Agriculture's Economic Research Service, says that of a 15 per cent food price increase expected this year, "maybe one or two percentage points" are due to the extra spending power afforded by food stamps.

That means that a family which spent $100 monthly on food last year is spending $115 monthly today. And food stamps are the reason for $1 or $2 of the inflation.

"It's a minor cost," says Manchester. "But nobody's going to argue that food stamps don't have something do to do with it."

Nevertheless, without a food stamp program the alternative for many Americans might be hunger and malnutrition.

Food stamps are now so woven into the fabric of American life — like welfare, social security and medicare — that many Americans depend on them.

Oddly enough they even benefit the American farmer — as an indirect and slight subsidy for his products.

Even now there are political pressures building to expand food stamps. Suits are pending against 17 states and the Department of Agriculture, arguing that they must obey a Congressional mandate to reach out and enroll more poor people in the program.

One organization pressing the suits estimates that there may be up to 50 million people eligible for food stamps — roughly one out of every four Americans.

Many people on food stamps find them inadequate, even with a recent 4 per cent cost-of-living boost. Indeed, the adequacy of the program was a focus of the Symbionese Liberation Army's propaganda ransom for Patty Hearst.

The SLA demanded $70 worth of meats, vegetables and dairy products for every poor person in California.

Not surprisingly, thousands of people lined up to collect the bounty.

Today, in San Francisco, some food stamp recipients still criticize the program. Noley Scott, 59, is unemployed, disabled with a broken back, and collects less than $300 a month in disability, welfare and social security payments.

He qualified for $37 in food stamps each month, but says it buys only $22 worth of groceries at today's inflated prices.

"I've tried getting more, tried talking to my social worker," he says, "but it's hell."

On the other hand, there's Alice French, 20, an expectant mother, who shops on San Francisco's Market Street. She says her allotment of food stamps — under $100 a month — is more than adequate for herself and her husband.

"We've been doing okay. We don't eat an awful lot, so my husband and I are kind of oblivious to the whole food price problem. I don't eat meats or fish, so I buy lots of vegetables, whatever happens to be on sale or in season.

"When the baby's born in December, we'll qualify for an increase in stamps. But I don't know if we'll really need it. We usually have a surplus at the end of every month now."

Any social program centrally based has its inequities. Food stamps are not unique.

Hugo Menendez is an assistant manager of a Safeway supermarket on Market Street where shoppers bring their orange, maroon and blue food stamps.

Mostly, says Menendez, the stamps are helpful, "but sometimes the wrong ones get the stamps ... Especially the younger people shouldn't get them. They're not sick. They should have jobs."

The food stamp program had its origins 35 years ago as an experiment in Rochester, N.Y. Poor people, the New Deal of Franklin Roosevelt decided, should have the option of getting surplus farm products at grocery stores rather than at welfare offices.

So, on a spring day in 1939, the poor of Rochester began what today is a program that helps feed seven out of every 100 Americans.

True, the modern program began with President Kennedy's first executive order the day after his inauguration in 1961. After three years of pilot experiments, Congress sent the food stamp plan to President Johnson and it became a law of the land on Aug. 31, 1964.

Ten years later, every county in the U.S. has enrolled.

A huge federal bureaucracy works with state and local welfare officials to screen the millions of people seeking food stamp relief. The greatest concentration is in California, where 1.3 million get food stamps. New York and Texas have 1.1 million people apiece on stamps and Illinois is next with 826,000.

There is a wide range of eligibility. The booklet describing qualifications is 125 pages long.

Enrollment Up In Arkansas Colleges

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Enrollment at Arkansas' colleges and universities rebounded this year after dipping last year below 1972 levels. The Department of Higher Education counted 868 more students this year than last year. There are 39,344 students enrolled in the state's higher education institutions this year, compared with 38,406 last year.

Junior Editors' Quiz on THE SAMURAI

QUESTION: Who were the Samurai?

* * *

ANSWER: The Samurai were an aristocratic warrior class, a dominant group in Japan during the feudal era. These knights of feudal Japan came into prominence in the 12th century. They wore two swords and had the right to cut down any commoner who displeased them. They were loyal to their overloads, the daimios or feudal nobles. They followed Bushido, a military code of conduct which stressed loyalty and self-sacrifice, an indifference to pain or death for one's superiors and one's honor.

The feudal system was abolished in 1871 and the Samurai class was abolished. However, members of the Samurai formed a military caste and became military leaders. Former Samurai, as statesmen, soldiers and businessmen, were the leaders in the development of modern Japan.

Pokes Host Cardinals

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

A couple of old quarterbacks get a chance to show what they've got in starting roles with new teams Sunday—and one or two others may have to sit out the action because they haven't quite got it.

John Hadl, acquired by Green Bay from Los Angeles Oct. 22, could get the starting nod over Jack Concannon when the Packers host the Washington Redskins.

And Craig Morton, who spent several years riding the Dallas bench behind Roger Staubach before the Cowboys dealt him to New York at about the same time as Hadl switched teams, will be calling the signals for the Giants when they begin play against the Chiefs in Kansas City.

Sonny Jurgensen, who has been quarterbacking Washington for the past few weeks, may have to give way to Billy Kilmer if his ailing legs don't hold out.

Mike Phipps wasn't very effective last week calling Cleveland's signals. So Brian Sipe took over, scored two touchdowns and rallied the Browns to a 23-21 squeaker over Denver. And on Sunday, it'll be Sipe on the field and Phipps on the bench when Cleveland visits San Diego.

In Sunday's other games, the St. Louis Cardinals try to remain the lone unbeaten National Football League team when they invade Dallas, Buffalo is at New England in an American Conference East showdown, Oakland hopes to widen its AFC West edge with a victory over Denver, Pittsburgh hosts Philadelphia, Minnesota is at Chicago, Detroit hosts New Orleans, Miami takes on Atlanta, Cincinnati is at Baltimore and Houston is at the New York Jets.

On Monday night, Los Angeles goes against the 49ers in San Francisco.

Hadl saw no action last Sunday in the Packers' 19-17 loss to Detroit and Green Bay Coach Dan Devine says he won't make up his mind until game time whether he'll go with Hadl or Concannon, who completed 17 of 30 passes for 237 yards in the losing effort.

Washington Coach George Allen, however, is very clear about who he wants in the starting slot. It's Jurgensen, despite the quarterback's bruised left thigh and sprained right knee.

"The way it is now, this is the biggest game all season," said Allen, whose 'Skins trail the Cards by three games in the National Conference East. "He'll play unless he's not effective at all."

St. Louis has been the underdog in five of its seven games this year—and is the five-point underdog against the Cowboys, who have never lost to the Cards in Texas Stadium.

Dallas is fighting for its life. A 3-4 record has the team four games out of first place and one behind Washington and Philadelphia.

The Patriots, knocked from the unbeaten ranks by the Bills two weeks ago, rebounded with a victory over the Vikings last Sunday and are slight favorites to avenge their loss to Buffalo.

The Broncos need a victory over Oakland to stay within shooting distance of first place in the AFC West. The Raiders have strung together six straight victories and own a 2½-game lead over Denver, 3-31.

Philadelphia also needs a victory to stay in playoff contention. The Eagles, 4-3, are tied with Washington three games back of the Cards. Pittsburgh is 1½ games ahead of Cincinnati in the AFC Central race and has been revived by the return to full strength of running back Franco Harris and the return to quarterback of Terry Bradshaw, who had lost his job to Joe Gilliam in the preseason.

The Bears could close within one game of first in the NFC Central—and hand Minnesota a third straight loss for the first time since 1968. Chicago came close to upending the Vikes earlier this year before losing 11-7.

John North would like nothing more than a victory over Detroit. It would not only lift the Saints to 4-4 but would enable him to do it against his former team. North was an assistant coach with the Lions for eight seasons before going to New Orleans.

Don Nottingham is expected to start for the Dolphins against Atlanta since running back Larry Csonka's ankle is still bothering him. Nottingham took over for Csonka a week ago against Baltimore and rushed for 102 yards.

Paul Brown of Cincinnati is looking for his 200th coaching victory and the Bengals hope they can hold onto the ball long enough against Baltimore to get it for him. They fumbled it away five times in last Sunday's 34-21 loss to Houston.

CAPTAINS—Marilyn Payton, left, and June Sterling have been elected captains of the new women's basketball team, The Dusters, at Western Texas College in Snyder.

Dusters Elect Team Captains

The Dusters, women's basketball team at Western Texas College, has elected captains for the 1974-75 season.

They are June Sterling, a 5'4" sophomore from Coahoma, and Marilyn Payton, a 5'11" freshman from Lubbock.

Miss Sterling is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.M. Sterling and is a 1973 graduate of Coahoma High School where she was an all-district performer at guard. She participated in the intra-mural program at WTC last year and has been one of the team leaders as the college initiated its women's program. She serves as a floor counselor in the WTC dormitory.

Miss Payton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zack Payton of Route 6, Lubbock, and a 1974 graduate of Copper High School. She made the all-district team four years and the all-regional team one year while playing basketball at Cooper, and averaged 30 points per game during her senior year.

"Marilyn has adapted extremely well to the college game and appears to be one of the better players in addition to showing leadership qualities," Coach Sid Simpson said. At WTC, she is active in the Baptist Student Union and other campus organizations.

The Dusters will open their season on Nov. 14 when they meet the women's team from West State university at 6 p.m. in the Scurry County Coliseum.

Lady Golfers Plan Meeting

The Snyder Women's Golf Association announces that the last meeting of the year will be held Tuesday, Nov. 5, at the Snyder Country Club.

There will be a presentation of awards at the noon luncheon. All members were urged to attend. The golf pairings will be taken care of in the pro shop beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Simpson To Speak At Alpine

Dr. Sid Simpson, Athletic Director at Western Texas College, will be among the speakers at the First Annual Big Bend Girls' Basketball Clinic Nov. 22-23 in Alpine.

Dr. Simpson also served as coach of the WTC women's basketball team, and he will be speaking on the value of participating in girls' athletics. The WTC basketball team, The Dusters, will play the Leopardettes from Temple Junior College in a game scheduled at 7:30 p.m. on Nov. 23.

Frances Garmon, Temple coach, is also to appear on the program, and the Leopardettes will be demonstrating the use of weight machines in training programs. Wanda Bender, Alpine High School coach, will present students from Alpine in mass drills and will outline briefly her system of physical conditioning for athletes on a schedule of 8½ minutes per day.

Charles Skeen, Follett High School coach, will describe the Follett wing offense and speak on Developing the Post Player.

Three games are scheduled on Nov. 23 starting at 3 p.m. Fort Davis will meet Iraan in the opening game, followed by Alpine versus Follett. Little Dribblers Girls Basketball teams from Levelland will play from 6-7 p.m., with the WTC Dusters playing the Temple Leopardettes at 7:30 p.m.

Trevino In Famed Hall

DALLAS (AP) — Two-time U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino has been elected to the Texas Sports Hall of Fame along with 1968 Olympic gold medalist Randy Matson and former Baltimore great Raymond Berry.

Also named by a 20-man Texas Sports Writers Association committee was the late Bill "Jitterbug" Henderson, the most versatile athlete ever to represent Texas A&M, who won 11 varsity letters in five sports.

The four will be enshrined in the Texas Sports Hall of Fame at the annual luncheon here Dec. 31.

This luncheon, long a highlight of Cotton Bowl week, is co-sponsored by the Texas Sports Writers Association, which governs the hall of fame, and the Salesmanship Club of Dallas.

Trevino's rise from a $35-a-week golf hustler began when he scored a shocking victory in the 1968 U.S. Open.

Three years later, the Mexican-Americans average monthly golf income had exploded to $35,000. Since joining the tour in 1967, he has established himself as one of the game's giants, twice winning the U.S. Open, twice taking the British Open and winner of 18 tour victories. He has banked more than $1,270,000 in golf purses.

HEALTH TIP from DEAN

The problem of weight control is basically to bring energy intake (food) into balance with energy output (activity). If a person consumes more calories than he uses in his daily activity, the excess will be stored as increased weight. Nutritionists say, "We have our choice in today's affluent society of remaining slightly hungry during most of our lives, or of getting sufficient exercise to use up the calories we enjoy." A balanced diet, with minimum starches and fats, plus plenty of exercise, should keep weight fairly constant.

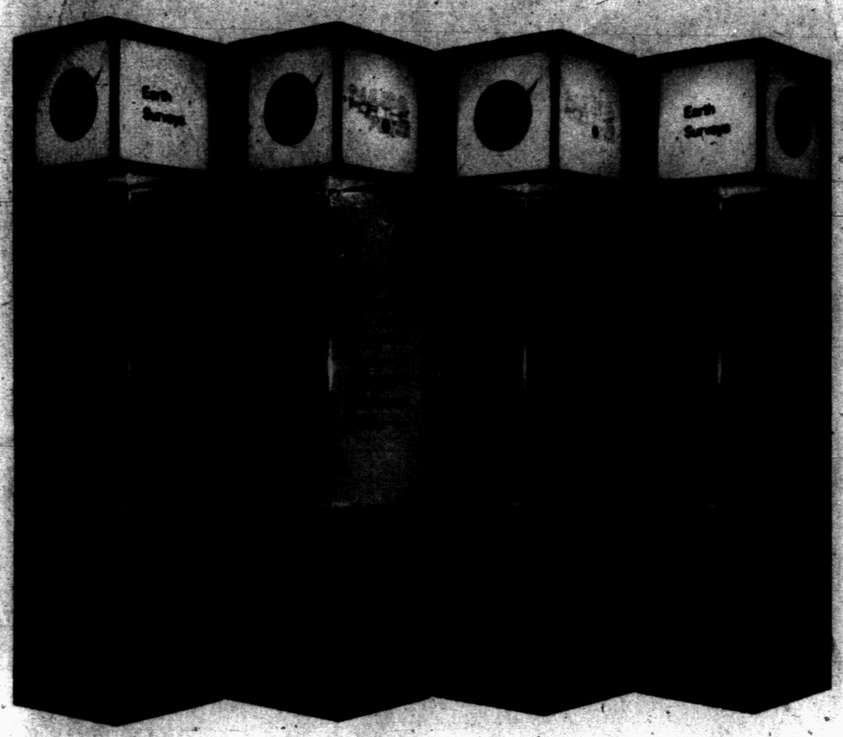
THE SNYDER DAILY NEWS

SECTION B. NOVEMBER 3, 1974



NASA EXHIBIT—This exhibit from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Houston is now in the lobby of the Museum Building at Western Texas College and will remain through Nov. 26. The display describes portions of the NASA role in Earth Resources and how these programs benefit mankind. It describes how knowledge gained from investigating our planet through the use of remote sensors is applied in disciplines like mapping, geology, water management, agriculture and forestry. There is no admission charge and the public is invited to see the exhibit from 8-12 noon and 1-5 p.m. Monday through Thursday. The Museum closes at 4 p.m. on Fridays.

Phone Executive Dismissed

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — An internal audit by Southwestern Bell officials here has resulted in the dismissal of a company executive suspended at the start of the probe.

C. L. Todd, vice president and general manager of the San Antonio area for Southwestern Bell said Friday the company's audit showed "isolated instances of poor judgment and improper conduct," but that no significant sums of company money were found missing.

He said disciplinary action has been and will be taken as a result of the probe.

Todd said the dismissed manager held a position on the headquarters staff here, but declined to name him.

"I do not intend to reveal his name," Todd said. "To do so would, by inferrence, link him in the minds of some people to many rumors and allegations that have been spread widely in the past two weeks."

A Bell vice president in Dallas, T. O. Gravitt was found dead Oct. 17 in the garage of his Dallas home. The Dallas County medical examiner ruled the death suicide by carbon monoxide poisoning.

Todd stressed that the probe was "the result of a self-policing action."

"We have uncovered and are correcting instances of wrongdoing in our own organization. We will continue our investigation in order to satisfy ourselves, our customers, and our shareowners that any possible wrongdoing has been corrected," Todd said.

Memory Is Subject Of Phone Man's Program

Memory is a forgetful art that can play fickle tricks on humans.

Human memory can scan 100,000 or more items in less than a second – and forget a telephone number in less than a minute.

What's involved is long-term and short-term memory. It's also the subject of a fascinating, mind-boggling presentation by Roy Wickerham, Southwestern Bell's well-traveled science demonstrator.

Wickerham is in town to talk about new developments in communications technology and how today's scientists are working to meet tomorrow's service needs.

His popular science show, "Little Things Mean a Lot," will be presented to the members of the Snyder Rotary Club on Nov. 7.

In the show, Wickerman demonstrates some of the studies now being conducted at Bell Laboratories on human memory and how it relates to work being performed on designing memory systems for applications in telephone switching equipment. Members of the audience will have an opportunity to test their own memory in several experiments.

In concert with the title of the show, Wickerham will also demonstrate how solid-state technology – tiny transitors harbored in infinitesimal integrated circuits – has improved the quality of telecommunications, diversified its services, as well as helped keep costs down.

He discusses such innovations as the transistor, the solar cell, millimeter waveguide and fiber optics – all of which came out of Bell Labs research and development.

POOCH WITH A PURPOSE—Roy Wickerham, Southwestern Bell's science demonstrator, "chata" with a toy dog built by the Telephone Pioneers to encourage children with speech difficulties to converse. The "talking dog" is a part of Wickerham's current science show illustrating how advances in communications technology have helped serve society's needs.

One entertaining feature of the show is a talking stuffed dog.

"Thanks to today's compact electronic devices, stuffed animals can be made to talk," explained Bill Gilliland, Southwestern Bell manager in Snyder.

"Therapists working with handicapped children who have difficulties in talking with adults or other children who have toys like this an ideal way to overcome these problems," he said.

Such talking animals are made available by the Telephone Pioneers of America, a service organization made up of telephone people.

The talking dog along with audio-visual aids are used by Wickerman in the show to tell how the transistor – and the solid-state technology it spawned – is being applied by the Bell System to meet a variety of society's needs.

Wickerham, who makes 300 personal appearances each year before organizations in South and West Texas for Southwestern Bell, has made several visits to Bell Labs research facilities in New Jersey to stay abreast of new developments in communications technology. The result of his latest trip is his new show, "Little Things Mean a Lot."

DO IT YOURSELF—Mrs. Hugh Lowry is shown by a room divider she rebuilt after a home remodeling project. She points to a molded cornucopia which she painted and then mounted on a burlap-covered plywood panel. She cut the three lower shelves using an encyclopedia as a T-square to get the corners straight, then glued on quarter round to give rounded edges. Every room in the Lowry home displays Mrs. Lowry's handwork.

Hobby Saves A Lot Of Objects From Discard

"Don't throw it away" has become a way of life with me," says Mrs. Hugh Lowry. Her hobby is re-doing objects that otherwise would be discarded and she will be displaying some of her creations at the RSVP coffee Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock in the Museum Building at Western Texas College.

All RSVP members and prospective members are invited to attend the coffee and stay for table games after Mrs. Lowry's presentation.

Under Mrs. Lowry's imaginative coaxing, decorative and useful items for her home grow from such routine discards as coffee pots, a flour sifter with no screen, an unused meat grinder, and costume jewelry.

"Ideas come to me many times when I'm doing routine chores such as cleaning the kitchen or ironing," she says, and then she can hardly wait to get through with her work and get to her hobby of re-doing. She keeps a "cache" of things that would ordinarily go into the trash and thus acquires raw materials at little or no cost for new projects.

One of the planters in the Lowry's living room was made from a set of Four Seasons paintings. When she grew tired of them as wall decoration, she took them down and joined the frames side-to-side into a square. Presto, an unusual cover for an ordinary clay pot.

A formica circle cut out of a dressing table top to allow the installation of a lavoratory became a platform for a large pot plant. Casters attached to the underside make it portable.

A large ornamental pitcher took on the look of expensive pewter when Mrs. Lowry applied aluminum foil and an antique finish.

"Everyone needs a hobby," says Mrs. Lowry. Time is too precious to waste being bored with nothing to do."

What would happen if Mrs. Lowry ran out of space to display her hobby creations? It hasn't happened yet. "I usually make things with the idea of replacing them when I find something that pleases me more," she said. So yesterday's picture becomes part of a plaque and the frame becomes the frame for a new painting or shadow box. There's no end to the uses you can find for things if you keep Mrs. Lowry's motto in mind and "don't throw it away."

Tailors Are Vanishing Breed In Vienna

By WERNER VOLLMANN
Associated Press Writer

VIENNA (AP) — Tailors are a vanishing breed in Vienna, where Archdukes and other nobility were once counted among the best-dressed of the world.

Only a generation ago suits and dresses were worn for years, and in many cases were handed down to sons and daughters. This is no longer the case.

Aduard Kastner, chairman of Vienna's dwindling tailors' guild, said that in today's throw-it-away society suits and dresses are worn for a fairly short time, partly for reasons of fashion.

Ready-made clothes are the answer to this trend.

Kastner said only 18 boys in Vienna out of a population of 1.7 million have started as tailor apprentices in the past three years.

The number of tailor shops has also drastically declined. Vienna had 16,922 such shops in 1925, but only 3,949 in 1963 and only 1,712 a year ago.

The trend was somewhat similar in the rural provinces.

The young especially like to shop in large department stores. Ready-made clothes can be altered to fit reasonably well in a short time while a tailor needs about 35 hours to make an overcoat.

Reflecting the changing times, young boys clamor for apprenticeships as car mechanics.

"This is a trend which has been going on for quite a few years," said Dr. Hedwig Weihs of the District Employment Service.

Forty-seven per cent of the boys taking up apprenticeship go into the metal-working branch. Retail trade apprenticeships are second on the list of preferred jobs, but here only 11 per cent applied.

Another trend is toward white collar jobs.

An employe in Austria can be either a white collar worker; a skilled worker or a laborer. Skilled workers and laborers (Arbeiter) often make more money than white collar workers (Angestellte), but tend to feel inferior nevertheless.

As a result, a number of firms offer white collar status to workers in order to fill vacancies. In some cases it may mean social advantages such as longer holidays, more sick benefits, etc., despite the fact that strong unions often more than compensated for this, giving workers a better income.

The only advantage "thus seems the status symbol.

The Working Group of Social Research — a group close to Austria's ruling Socialists — after an inquiry said "manual skilled labor encountered a great loss of prestige."

QUOTABLE WOMEN

By The Associated Press

Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"It's certainly not the glamourous, exciting life that most people think it is. It's a lonely life. It's not a free life — but it's a good life." Margaret Trudeau, wife of Canada's prime minister, discussing the problems that sent her to the hospital last month for psychiatric care.

"First they said they were going to save us from China, and then they were the ones who became completely pro-Chinese." Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, in an interview before talks with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, visiting to mend U.S.-India relations.

"I hadn't been on a bicycle in 40 years. People who recognized me couldn't believe it, Olivia deHavilland riding around on a bike in a mink and pearls." Olivia deHavilland, 58, speaking of a bicycle ride her 18-year-old daughter Giselle persuaded her to take in Williamsburg, Va.

"Isn't this marvelous? We just hope this will raise enough money so we can lay down a financial base for the organization and establish a bail bond fund." Margo St. James, leader of Coyote, an organization of prostitutes, speaking at the first annual Hookers Ball in San Francisco.

"You saved me six years of my life. I hope for the same solidarity for my husband and my brothers." Sylva Iosifovna Zalmanson, allowed to emigrate to Israel after serving four years of a 10-year hijacking sentence in a Soviet labor camp, speaking to a crowd at a New York airport.

Attendance Down

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP) — The Mississippi River Festivet attendance for the seven-week season, which ended on Aug. 28, was 148,968. This figure was 60,000 short of last season's attendance. Festival officials attribute the reduced attendance to several evenings of bad weather and an unusual number of competing concerts in the area.

For a short wedding trip to Dallas, the bride wore a pink, double-knit dress with black accessories.

British Army Captain Now Gourmet Cook

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When Maurice Moore-Betty served as Field Marshal Sir Bernard Montgomery's aide during World War II, he occasionally took time out to whip up a meal for his boss. The hobby became a career and today he runs a cooking school in New York City and has written four food books.

"I always had an interest in the kitchen," said Moore-Betty as we sat in the spacious living room of his home, a former carriage house in upper Manhattan. "And I firmly believed that food, to be good does not have to be extravagent or fancy."

During the Allied thrust through Normandy, Capt. Moore-Betty would use his off-duty time to shoot rabbits and fowl escaped from the barnyards of France. Soon troops in the area were saying, "If you want a good meal, join Moore-Betty's outfit."

After the war, Moore-Betty was lunching in one of London's top restaurants and a whim prompted him to ask the manager if he could get a job in the kitchen.

"He imagined I had over-indulged in wine, but he introduced me to the chef," Moore-Betty recalled. "I worked for him for a year learning to prepare everything from hors d'oeuvres to sauces and desserts. Most important, the chef did me the honor of letting me use his library. I learned in one year what usually takes seven or eight."

So well did he master the culinary art that no less a master than author-lecturer James Beard came away deeply impressed from a dinner party at Moore-Betty's house. "There was no visible display of dinner being prepared, no air of unease," said Beard.

Moore-Betty's cooking classes concentrate on simple but often elegant food. Typical dishes are poached salmon, cucumber salad and Potatoes Boulangere, a delicious dish of paper-thin potato slices, onions and butter baked in a casserole.

Some of Moore-Betty's dishes are designed for those who watch their calories and avoid too much spice. Like the lemon roast chicken he served me during our interview.

One 3 lb. roasting chicken
Juice of one lemon
Coarse salt
Freshly ground black pepper
One clove garlic

Wipe inside of chicken with damp cloth and sprinkle generously with salt. Peel garlic, cut and rub on inside of chicken. Dust with pepper. Rub tablespoon of salt into chicken skin and follow up with cut garlic clove. Truss or tie chicken for oven and stand on rack in roasting pan. Pour half the lemon juice inside chicken and remainder over it. Dust with a little more salt and pepper. Cook in preheated 400-degree oven 1 hour without basting and do not open oven door till finished.

Editor Learns That Toughness Counts

By SANDRA GITTENS

NEW YORK (AP) — "I have a phrase I like to use, which is the multipersonal woman. I don't believe that either you or I or any woman out there is just one woman any more," says Lenore Hershey, editor of the Ladies' Home Journal.

Mrs. Hershey says she thoroughly enjoys her new job, but claims she's been living through a year of heavy responsibility since taking it over. Describing herself as a "creative woman by nature, a writer and editor," she says she's had to learn that "if you can't stand the heat, then you'd better get out of the 'office'.

"Meaning, it's taken me a full year to learn how to ride with the daily crises of dealing with people and with pure business management.

"I've been in this business a long time but nobody has ever bothered to train me on the business aspect. I had to learn on the job. It's very difficult."

Training consisted of learning how to deal with men as well as with women who were reporting to her. Patience, forbearance and tact are some of the other things she's had to learn. "But," she says, "I think, first of all, you've got to accept the fact that if you want the job you've got to accept the problems that are involved with it. If you want the big job, it isn't all beer and skittles; it's a lot of great difficulties. And, above all, you have got to learn to trust in your own decisions. It's executive knowhow. It's toughness in its best sense, yet tough without overcompensating. And I think a lot of women are going to have to learn this lesson."

Her learning experiences have been manifest in important areas.

Claiming this to be the most financially successful year the magazine has had in 91 years, Mrs. Hershey also reports an increase in advertising. One of which she is particularly proud is that of an automobile manufacturer. With Detroit often overlooking women in their advertising, she says the Journal went out to open communications with them. As a result, she says, hers is the first women's magazine to get advertising from Detroit.

"One of the reasons we got it was because a group of us went there and talked to them about communicating with women.

"They have traditionally been male-orientated. They felt men were the ones who made decisions on buying cars. So we went out and did a movie with 10 automotive dealers. They said that now up to 20 per cent of their customers are women. We played that in Detroit along with other proof that women are using and buying cars and showed that even when the man is involved in the decision making, women these days are oftentimes playing into that decision. So I think Detroit is finally recognizing our slogan, 'Never underestimate the power of a woman.'

"I feel the slogan is more meaningful today than it ever was," she says.

Violinist Will Teach

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — James Buswell, born in Ft. Wayne, who made his first public appearance as a violinist at 7, is now at 27 becoming an artist-teacher at the Indiana University School of Music.

He will continue to give concerts.

Buswell and his wife, Sara, are parents of a son, Joshua, nearly 3. He advises violin pupils to listen to singers as much as they can. "It's not possible for violinists to imitate singers' bad habits," he says, "and they can certainly benefit from their good ones."

Mrs. Donaldson Presents Program

Members of the Altrurian Club held their regular meeting at the Martha Ann Woman's Club. Miss Evelyn Boone, vice president, presided. Mrs. T.W. Pollard led in prayer and meditation.

Excerpts from a book by Eve Ball was presented by Mrs. Earl Donaldson. Barbara Jones, known to family and friends as Ma'am was a mother of ten children in the wild days of Lincoln County. Ma'am epitomized the lives and demanding roles played by the pioneer woman. Ma'am Jones was mother, homemaker, nurse, storekeeper and teacher. She could handle a cook fire, a needle, a bandage, a rifle or a square dance with equal competence. The only book for some time was the Bible they possessed.

PRUSSIC ACID POISONING

Now is the time of year when we must keep in mind the danger of prussic acid poisoning if we have livestock grazing on green cultivated grasses. All grasses are not subject to prussic acid forming when hit by a frost or freeze, but most of the cultivated sorghums sudans, and sudan hybrids are.

Johnsongrass, sudan, sudan hybrids and other sorghum type plants are especially toxic immediately after a frost or freeze.

This prussic poisoning is a condition which prevents oxygen in the blood from reaching the tissues and thus may cause death due to suffocation. Symptoms are muscle twitching and suffocation and the animal has his head turned toward his flank. The blood is a bright red color. Animals are usually affected within 10 - 15 minutes after eating the toxic material and rarely survive more than one or two hours.

If you suspect your animal has prussic acid poisoning call your veterinarian immediately.

The green tissue of the plants usually contain the higher concentration of prussic acid.

The best cure is prevention. If the news broadcast indicate possibilities of frost, remove your livestock the evening before. Keep them out until the plant has dried completely. New growth on plants are especially toxic, but can be safely grazed within 7 - 10 days. Older leaves may dry out in 2-5 days depending on sunlight.

Prussic acid poisoning is dangerous, it will become prevalent at the first frost and producers should be prepared to take the necessary precautions to protect their livestock.

GRASS TETANY

Along the line we are talking, we want to mention the possibilities of grass tetany or sometimes called wheat pasture poisoning. This has not been a real problem in our area, due probably to the small amount of small grain grazing in normal years. However conditions and acreage indicate that this year we will have more grazing than average.

Grass tetany is a term most often used to describe a condition in cattle that is the result of low blood magnesium.

Cattle most susceptible to grass tetany are early lactating cows or cows in the last two months of pregnancy. A lactating cow that has a calf under one month of age seems to be the animal most often affected. This problem usually does not develop until the animal has been on the small grain pasture for forty five days or more.

There are several aids in preventing grass tetany. By providing access to some type dry hay aids in lessening the chances of grass tetany. There is some indication that animals having access to native pasture along with small grain grazing will help. Also the feeding of a mineral supplement containing magnesium oxide will help greatly if consumption is good. There are commercially prepared supplements available with the magnesium oxide.

A mineral mix containing one part salt, one part dry molasses, one part magnesium oxide and one part steamed bone meal or di-calcium phosphate has been used successfully for preventing grass tetany.

If you graze small grain, be aware of this problem.

Much Talk At Food Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz's conference on food marketing has produced two days of discussion, including claims that all the talk was useless.

Dawson Ahalt, the Agriculture Department economist who coordinated the conference, said after the conference ended Friday:

"What I think came out of it was the whole issue ... of rigidities that do contribute to higher costs once farm products leave the farm gate. The conference reflected the fact that they are mainly government regulations, and that includes both some of the remaining farm programs as well as all the regulatory things.

"And steps do have to be taken to eliminate those programs. That's not easy to do. Consumers say let's stop talking about them and let's get rid of them. You can't do that, because they have enormous constituencies built up around them," Ahalt added.

However, many participants disagreed, including Ellen Zawel, president of the National Consumers Congress.

Conservationists At State Session

Four local conservation leaders were in San Antonio last week to attend the 34th annual statewide meeting of Texas Soil and Water Conservation District Directors.

W. L. Wilson, Jr., and Walter Stirl, directors of the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District, Herman Hundsnurcher, a former director and Erwin A. Pavlik, district conservationist for the Snyder Field Office, Soil Conservation attended from the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District. Mrs. Wilson also attended.

Senator John Tower addressed the conservationists at a banquet on Wednesday evening. Others appearing on the program for the annual state meeting included Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, Congressman Abraham "Chick" Kazen, Jr., and State Representative Bill Clayton. Key items on the agenda were Land Use Planning and other serious problems facing the American farmers and ranchers.

Dee Brune of Sealy was re-elected President and Kenneth Kuykendall, Cherokee was re-elected Vice-President. Charles Wood, Lubbock, is serving the Association as Secretary-Treasurer. Other members of the associations board of director are W. S. Gibbs, Huntsville, and Doyle Hutcheson, Weatherford.

There are 194 Soil and Water Conservation Districts in Texas covering 99 percent of the State. These districts are governed by 970 directors who by state law must own agricultural land within the district. The locally run conservation districts sponsor a wide range of conservation activities. Technical help from professional conservationists is furnished by the Soil Conservation Service.

Saddle Pads May Be Contaminated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Between 5,000 and 10,000 saddle pads sold nationwide since last January may be contaminated with potentially lethal anthrax spores, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission says.

The pads, manufactured by the Perforated Pad Co., Woonsocket, R.I., were woven from imported goat and yak hair. Anthrax is an acute bacterial disease which can be fatal to humans and animals if untreated.

UAW VP Killed

DETROIT (AP) — Nelson Jack Edwards, 51, the first black man to become a vice president of the United Auto Workers and a longtime worker in the civil rights field, was wounded fatally by a stray bullet as he tried to break up a tavern argument Friday night.

Detroit police said Edwards, struck in the head and on the left wrist by bullets, died two hours later at Ford Hospital.

They said preliminary investigation indicated two men got into an argument and that Edwards was hit as he tried to play the peacemaker's role.

Edwards, a native of Montgomery, Ala., was a close friend of the late UAW President Walter Reuther and went to Birmingham, Ala., in 1963 at Reuther's request to aid in the civil rights fight.

Edward's association with the auto industry began in 1937 when he came to Detroit from the South. He became a UAW international representative in 1948 and in 1962 he was elected to the 26-man international executive board.

Most Are Speeding

AUSTIN (AP) — More than 60 per cent of all vehicles are exceeding the 55 mile an hour speed limit on Texas highways, the director of the Department of Public Safety says.

Col. Wilson E. Speir said the DPS has received numerous complaints about speeding trucks. He said many truckers are using citizens' band radios illegally to warn each other about the location of highway patrol units.

Speir urged Texans "to make a greater effort to observe the 55 mile speed limit."

The highway patrol issued 432,657 speeding tickets during the first eight months of this year, compared with 202,890 for the same period in 1973, he said.

And this is close to "what may be maximum volume" for the 1,447 patrolmen, he said.

So far this year, Texas highway accidents have killed 2,399 persons, compared with 3,011 for the same period last year. Fatal accidents this year total 2,068, compared with 2,480 at this time in 1973.

The death rate is down 20 per cent, and the fatal accident rate is down 17 per cent.

Texans Vote [illegible]sday On Two-Third[illegible] House

By JIM BRIGANCE
Associated Press Writer

Texans vote on two-thirds of their U.S. House delegation Tuesday while the other third of the incumbents face no opposition in the state's 24 congressional districts.

The House races have been run under the unspoken memories of Watergate with many poll-watchers betting Republicans challenging Democratic incumbents may be left in the shade of that political period. GOP officeholders, however, have the fact of their already being in the House working in their favor.

There are a few contests where campaigning has been heavy, among them the 5th District, the 21st District, and in the 1st District where incumbent Wright Patman's age could be a factor with voters. Too, the Texarkana Democrat missed every quorum call and vote in the last week before Congress took its pre-election recess and this has been made a campaign issue.

These incumbent Democrats will be sent back to Washington unopposed: Charles Wilson, Lufkin; John Young, Corpus Christi; Eligio de la Garza, Mission; Richard C. White, El Paso; Omar Burleson, Anson; George Mahon, Lubbock; Henry B. Gonzalez, San Antonio; and Abraham Kazen Jr., Laredo.

All Republican incumbents face a Democratic opponents.

Despite Patman's age, he's 81, few courthouse observers feel he will have any trouble with Republican Jim Farris. But there are those who say that if anyone could beat Patman, it would be Farris, 33-year-old former mayor of Paris who was himself once a Democrat.

"I really believe 1974 is the year a good, well-organized campaign can unseat Wright Patman," Farris said in a recent campaign appearance.

Patman's supporters point to his record as a longtime opponent of high interest rates. He is chairman of the House Banking Committee. Farris is a bank director in Paris.

Hospital Suit Filed

BORGER, Tex. (AP) — A civil suit writ of mandamus has been filed against officials of the North Plains Hospital and Hutchinson County alleging more than 16 violations of state law in the management of the county hospital here.

The suit was filed Friday in 84th District Court in Stinnett. No hearing date has been set.

The suit names as defendants Hutchinson County Judge Norman Coffee, County Auditor J.B. Hunt, hospital administrator Earl Wiggins, county commissioners and members of the hospital board.

The suit was filed on behalf of 16 members of the North Plains Hospital Employes Association who resigned Aug. 27 during a dispute with hospital management over wages and working conditions. Fifty-four employes resigned during the dispute.

CELEBRITIES ON THE COUCH

By Dick Maurice

The first "Dolly," Carol Channing retains the wide-eyed innocent look of a young girl. A real pro, she knew by the age of 9, she wanted to be a comedienne. From Cellar clubs to Broadway and films, Carol's wish came true. A tall (5'8") Christian Scientist, Carol is now happily married to her 3rd mate Charles Lowe, a TV producer-writer. This adorable creature knows no limits. That's why the whole world loves her!

MAURICE: Would you tell my readers what made you decide to do the musical "Lorelei" again?

CHANNING: Well many people asked me to do a revival and I didn't want to do a revival. Julie Stein came up with the idea that Lorelei is my age now looking back over the "20's" and that got things started and everybody was eager to work on it. We toured one whole year, getting it exactly they way we wanted it before we brought it into New York City.

MAURICE: Your climb to reach the top was not an overnight success, was it?

CHANNING: Years ago, Marge Champion insisted that Gower Champion look at me for a little review called "Lend An Ear". He had already cast it but was able to find a spot for me. By the time it got to New York, I had one of the lead parts. Josh Logan was responsible for that. Anita Loos came to see "Lend An Ear" and pointed to me and said 'there's our Lorelei.' Julie Stein promptly sat down at the piano and wrote my battle hymn of the republic, "Diamonds Are A Girl's Best Friend."

MAURICE: Is it true that you got fired from Macy's years ago?

CHANNING: Yes-I sold blueberry muffins and the people were complaining that their muffins had holes in them. You see I would take the blueberries out of them and eat them. You know, getting fired is an ego defeating thing, no matter what department. I can't bear now to have anyone fired. I'd rather work and work with them.

MAURICE: How would you describe yourself?

CHANNING: I have never looked at myself. I think it's a very dangerous thing for performers to do. I play characters. Especially on television or on talk shows, once you see yourself, the whole thing is gone. Then you start playing at something that you're posing as. Then it's not true and then nobody likes you. I don't like people who see themselves as a specific type of person and then have to adjust themselves and act like that person.

MAURICE: What do you think of performers who come out for various causes and movements?

CHANNING: I know that when I do it everybody knows that I don't know anything about it beyond the fact that I know this person, this politician, I met him and his family and I trust him. Beyond that I should know more about his political attitude but I do not. It goes just as deep as that. I simply trust him as a man. I know that he cares about my family and that is the only reason I back him. If I were to run for a political office myself, no one should ever listen to me because a performer is in the business of making unbelievable things believable. There are some actors who are well informed, however.

MAURICE: What's more important - laughter or applause?

CHANNING: Laughter! Much, much more! Applause is automatic. Applause is almost courtesy. They have to trust you all the way before they will laugh. They have to believe you. Applause is cheap. That's nothing. As soon as people laugh, they're caught - they are hooked and are relating to the situation.

MAURICE: I understand that you are into natural foods.

CHANNING: Well I have an allergy to the sprays and insecticides put on regular foods. That's all it amounts to. I can eat anything under the sun as long as it's organic.

MAURICE: Does your height bother you?

CHANNING: It never has. Tall people should stand up straight and think they are cute and little. I think when we get out of school, nobody notices anything. All we notice is how each other's minds are or how warm or cold we are to one another. We notice each other's natures rather than each other's sizes.

Dallas Opera Opens Season

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Civic Opera opened its 80th season Friday night with one of the most successful productions in its history despite the recent death of its director Lawrence Kelly.

Turkish-born Leyla Gencer appeared at short notice in place of Beverly Sills in the title role of Donizetti's rarely performed Lucrezia Borgia after Sills was forced to withdraw during rehearsals and undergo surgery for a malignancy.

It was Gencer's second Dallas appearance; she played Madame Butterfly here in 1964.

But the triumph of the evening was possibly that of a handsome Spanish tenor, Jose Carreras, who was making his Dallas debut as Gennaro. He is booked to sing at the Metropolitan next spring. Both he and Gencer were cheered during repeated curtain calls as were mezzo soprano Tatiana Troyanos and baritone Matteo Manuegerra who played the other leading roles.

The new production, which will later go to New York, Washington, and Los Angeles, was staged by Tito Capobianco of Buenos Aires, Nicola Rescigno conducted.

SCHEHERAZADE—It's as graceful as ballet and as expressive as jazz says Scheherazade (Sue Miller) of belly dancing. She will be giving a demonstration of belly dancing at 7:30 Thursday night in the WTC Fine Arts Theatre.

Belly Dancing Course Is Set

Exercising gets a real new twist when you do it Sue Miller's way. This form of exercise is better known as belly dancing, and Ms. Miller will be teaching a course in belly dancing at Western Texas College starting Nov. 12.

A demonstration session is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Fine Arts Theatre at WTC, and is open to the public without charge. Students may sign up for the course at that time, or may call the Community Services office at extension 237 at the college. Cost will be $29 per person, with the class meeting one hour per week for six weeks.

A second session will be arranged starting on Wednesday morning, Nov. 13, if there is sufficient demand.

Ms. Miller conducts a dance studio in Lubbock, and is known professionally as Scheherazade She first began to study belly dancing while living in Dallas and began teaching it shortly after moving to Lubbock. She has just finished a course at New Mexico Junior College in Hobbs where 190 students were enrolled.

Belly dancing is primarily geared for building muscle tone, Ms. Miller explains, utilizing basic body movements. The emphasis on standing erect also improves posture. Some of her most enthusiastic students are women in the over 40 age group. "It gives them a sense of life, joy and vitality," Ms. Miller added.

Cost Of Pipeline Revised

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — In 1969 a gallon of regular gasoline cost 48 cents in Anchorage, and oilmen were planning a $900 million pipeline from the rich North Slope oil fields.

Today, regular gasoline costs 62 cents a gallon here, and oilmen have been presented with a new $5.98 billion price tag for the 798-mile steel tube which won't begin carrying oil south for at least 2½ years.

A vice president of Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., a consortium for eight oil firms which is building the trans-Alaska pipeline, blamed worldwide inflation and escalating salaries for the revised cost.

The company said Friday the new total includes $5.56 billion for the project and more than $420 million for "certain contingencies" which were not specified.

None of that includes the cost of building the huge tankers which will receive the 1.2 million barrels of oil to be pumped daily from the North Slope to a marine terminal in Valdez.

Dear Abby

New Granny requests prayer for parents

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: Please reprint "A PARENT'S PRAYER." I have just become a grandmother and want to give it to my daughter. Thank you. NEW GRANNY

DEAR GRANNY: With pleasure. It was written by Gary C. Myers, founder of Highlights for Children, a fine, wholesome and educational monthly magazine which I recommend highly.

A PARENT'S PRAYER

O heavenly Father, make me a better parent. Teach me to understand my children, to listen patiently to what they have to say, and to answer all their questions kindly. Keep me from interrupting them or contradicting them. Make me as courteous to them as I would have them be to me. Forbid that I should ever laugh at their mistakes, or resort to shame or ridicule when they displease me. May I never punish them for my own selfish satisfaction or to show my power.

Let me not tempt my child to lie or steal. And guide me hour by hour that I may demonstrate by all I say and do that honesty produces happiness.

Reduce, I pray, the meanness in me. And when I am out of sorts, help me, O Lord, to hold my tongue.

May I ever be mindful that my children are children and I should not expect of them the judgment of adults.

Let me not rob them of the opportunity to wait on themselves and to make decisions.

Bless me with the bigness to grant them all their reasonable requests, and the courage to deny them privileges I know will do them harm.

Make me fair and just and kind. And fit me, O Lord, to be loved and respected and imitated by my children. Amen.

DEAR ABBY: You advised women who were flat-chested and wanted silicone implants to consult their family doctors about which plastic surgeon to go to, so that's what I did. Well, I thought my doctor was going to throw me out of his office! He said I was "crazy and vain" and the way he carried on was enough to send me away in tears. I can't tell you how hurt I was. It had taken me three years to get up the courage to ask him.

I had talked it over with my husband, and he agreed that if I wanted to have silicone implants it was all right with him. Do you know of any reliable plastic surgeon in my area I could go to? If not, how can I find one?

FLAT IN N.J.

DEAR FLAT: Contact your County Medical Association, and ask for a list of their board accredited plastic surgeons.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No: 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hundreds Offer Nixon Blood

REHOBOTH, Mass. (AP) — Hundreds of people all over the country want to donate blood to former President Richard Nixon, according to one of his staunchest supporters.

Rabbi Baruch Korff said Friday his Washington office and his home here have been deluged by callers, some of whom were "apologetic for not being able to contribute to the President Nixon Justice Fund," which the rabbi founded to pay Nixon's legal expenses.

There have been 200 calls to the Washington office of the Committee for Fairness to the Presidency, according to Korff, and so many to his home that "my wife feels the phone should be unlisted."
