Q. When are the police going to start enforcing the "no left turn" at the drive-thru post office lane at Sixth and Runnels?
A. Lt. Troy Hogue of the Big Spring police department said, "If an officer is in that location and sees the violation occur, he or she will take action." The fine for making an improper turn is $40, or $60 if involved in an accident, Judge Gwen Fair said.

Congressmen assail SSC assertion

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer
West Texas congressmen quickly and strongly refuted Gov. Bill Clements' interpretation of federal criteria regarding site selection of the Superconducting Super Collider (SSC) project Tuesday.

At the same time, the governor's energy adviser admitted that cost of the site is of higher priority than urban location, according to 1985 federal guidelines.

The governor specified that proposed sites in West Texas, including Garden City, would be ruled out because federal criteria stipulated the site be located near a major metropolitan area. His remarks came during a weekly press conference in Austin. San Antonio Congressman Lamar Smith does not agree. "Perhaps the governor has misinterpreted the federal energy department's requirements, because no one — contrary to what the governor has implied — has required the site be near a major city," said Smith, a Republican representing the 21st congressional district.

The governor's energy adviser Dillard Hammett confirmed this morning that specifications published by the federal government in 1985 gave top priority to costs in determining the selection of the SSC project site. Locating the project near a major urban center was a second priority, Hammett said.

The governor was simply stating his opinion on the site selection possibilities based on 1985 criteria, Hammett said.

Congressman Smith said Clements' remarks may have undermined an important process by publicly narrowing the Texas choices for the SSC.

"The Legislature has created a nine-member commission to pick the state's best site, and the governor would better serve Texas by appointing the last three members and letting the commission pick the preferred place for the super collider," Congressman Lamar Smith said.

New final criteria will be issued April 1, and Clements must be assuming that they basically will be the same, Hammett said.

Congressmen Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford, of the 17th congressional district, said he was "disappointed" in Clements' remarks.

"In my opinion, the cost factor is a positive for West Texas and should overshadow any limiting characteristics," Stenholm said.

"It's not helpful for the governor to make off-the-cuff remarks" on a project of such importance to the entire state, he added.

Congressman Larry Combest, R-Lubbock, of the 19th District, said the Garden City proposed site is one "that deserves a tremendous amount of consideration because of the cost factor."

Former Congressman Tom Loeffler joined Stenholm and Combest in addressing Department of Energy officials last autumn about the cost effectiveness of locating the SSC project in West Texas, Combest said.

It's been estimated that locating the project in Garden City would save taxpayers nearly 1 1/2 billion dollars, Combest said.

Clements had previously announced he would appoint a new commission to research and gather information to be used in the state's bid to federal officials for

Concert standing room OK'd

If tickets for the Willie Nelson concert March 14 sell out, standing room tickets may be sold to accommodate more fans, the Howard County Junior College District board of trustees decided Tuesday.

Dorothy Garrett Coliseum will seat 6,000, with 4,500 permanent seats and the rest on the coliseum floor, according to Jan Foresyth. She is director of personnel and handles booking for the coliseum.

"The thought was that if they did not put chairs on the floor, more people could be accommodated" by standing, she said.

In past concerts, chairs were not put on the floor to allow people to dance there, she said.

Officials anticipate selling the entire 6,000 tickets now available, and probably more if the "couple thousand" standing room tickets are for sale, she said. About half the tickets are at outlets in Midland, Odessa and Lubbock, she said, and a count of those already sold out of town has not been taken.

Proceeds from the concert, and from a concert by Stevie Ray Vaughn and the Fabulous Thunderbirds, go toward renovation of Comanche Trail Park and the amphitheater.

The Vaughn-Thunderbirds concert is scheduled for Feb. 28 at the Holiday in Midland.

City Councilman Johnny Rutherford, coordinator of the effort, has said he expects the concerts to raise $100,000 to $150,000.

Prisoners at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp are providing the labor for the renovation, a factor which city officials have said saves a great deal of the renovation's total cost.

Plaques to mark historical sites

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Sometime within the next month, visitors to the downtown area will have an easier time identifying historical buildings, thanks to county historians.

The Howard County Historical Commission recently ordered 20 metal plaques to be mounted at sites of interest throughout the county, said Commission Chairman Polly Mays.

The group's initial plan calls for mounting about half of them at sites are incorporated within the Main Street Inc. proposal, Mays said.

Each plaque will feature a raised image on the top half that resembles the city's identification logo, she said.

Architect Lonnie Gary of Lubbock, who has assisted his father John Gary of Big Spring with the county courthouse annex at West Fourth and Main streets, designed the plaque, Mays said.

The plaques are expected to be received next month from Berg Studio in Lubbock, she added.

Descriptive and historical information will be researched by historical commission members, Mays said.

"We'll get information from business and court records, in addition to consulting with property owners," Mays said.

"We'd like to tie it in with the downtown renovation plan," Mays said. The historical commission will seek assistance from Downtown Coordinator Teri Quinones on site selections, Mays said.

"I think they (plaques) are a really neat idea. It could tie in with the Main Street proposal very well," Quinones said.

The Main Street Inc. proposal currently being developed by City Planner Bob Lima contains a Heritage Trail to encourage pedestrian traffic.

The path begins at the county library and continues along a designated route through the 16-block downtown area, identifying particular historical sites of interest, Quinones said.

Mays said a possibility exists the historical commission could publish brochures pertaining to the walk.

Howard County currently has 11 plaques provided and funded by the state's historical commission.

"The Texas historical markers are more prestigious, of course, but lots of counties have recently developed their own markers because of the expense and time element involved with applying to the state," Mays said.

Deadline today

Sanchez, Fraser file for council seats

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Big Spring City Councilman Henry Sanchez and school board member Dewayne Fraser have filed as candidates for re-election, as the deadline for filing draws near.

The deadline to file as Council candidates for either city for the April 4 election is 5 p.m. today. March 4 is the deadline to file for school board.

Sanchez has represented Big Spring's district 1 for one three-year term. District 1 includes the north and west areas of town.

A social activist, he is credited as being the first Hispanic elected to

City Council.

He has been vice president of the League of United Latin American Citizens, a minority rights group that a few years ago filed suit against the city and school district to bring greater minority representation to local elected bodies.

Sanchez has a track record of more than 20 years work for the neighborhoods of what is now district 1, an area populated largely by Hispanic residents. In the early 1960s he was chairman of Northside United, a group pushing for cleaning and paving the city's north side.

He is employed at Golden Plains Care Center and had been a city employee for 14 years.

Councilman Harold Hall filed Tuesday for re-election as district 3 representative. He is running against D.D. Johnston, a local contractor who was an at large candidate in 1985.

Dewayne Fraser filed this morning as a candidate for re-election to the Big Spring Independent School District board of trustees, district 3.

He has served on the school board two previous terms and was elected to a term as board president in April 1984. He is part owner of Fraser Industries.

Incumbent Billy Pineda also has filed for election to a second term on the board.

He represents district 1.

Crowe backs Contras

WASHINGTON — The nation's top military officer says the United States shouldn't stop helping the Nicaraguan rebels, even though he admits the Contras have a lot of problems.

The attempt to cut off aid was to get its first test on Capitol Hill today in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which was scheduled to vote on a measure halting U.S. financial assistance.

Adm. William Crowe Jr., chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the Senate Armed Services Committee on Tuesday that the Contra rebels have a variety of problems, but he said he's optimistic about their future in fighting the leftist Sandinista government of Nicaragua.

"I do believe that the prospects of doing something down there (in Central America), that are both to the benefit of the region and the United States, are good, if we can persevere," he said. "I think we're going in the right directions."

Polish sanctions lifted

WASHINGTON — President Reagan will lift U.S. economic sanctions against Poland in response to reforms undertaken by the East European government and appeals from Polish church and trade union leaders, administration officials say.

The decision was accelerated by a visit to Warsaw late last month by Deputy Secretary of State John C. Whitehead that extended a thaw in U.S. dealings with the once-isolated Communist country.

It followed the release last September of almost all of Poland's political prisoners. Despite the amnesty, however, opposition sources said more than 20 such prisoners were still being held. And Lech Walesa, a leader of Solidarity, had urged the United States to press for restoration of the independent trade union.

Cuomo expected to run

ALBANY, N.Y. — The big surprise in the next 10 days will be if Gov. Mario Cuomo says he's not running for president.

Some fellow Democrats say Cuomo already is talking like a candidate, even though he has said he won't decide about 1988 until the end of the month.

"As a politician, I would say clearly he's running," Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards said Tuesday after an impromptu meeting with Cuomo at the New Orleans Airport.

Cuomo was heading home after giving a speech at Tulane University, and fellow Democrat Edwards was en route to Phoenix, Ariz., to court industrial development for Louisiana.

Back home, Democrats and Republicans believe Cuomo is ready to run.

"There is no question that the governor is a candidate and is perceived as a candidate throughout the country," New York City Mayor Edward Koch said recently.

Seven-year-old Ronnie DeSillers punches the nose of Perita the Clown at his hospital bed at Miami's Children's Hospital Tuesday before going to the airport for a flight to Pittsburg where he will undergo a liver transplant, if all the conditions are met. Donations from across the country have helped Ronnie and his mother prepare for the operation, including President Reagan.

Transplant

Boy in need of liver to undergo tests

By TARA BRADLEY-STECK
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Maria DeSillers succeeded in getting her gravely ill 7-year-old son to Children's Hospital for tests, but officials warn the boy may not be eligible for a liver transplant.

"We will not listen to any negative thoughts," Ms. DeSillers said after arriving here Tuesday. "My next goal is to find a liver."

Ronnie DeSillers, whose fight for life made headlines after a portion of his medical funds were stolen, flew with his mother Tuesday from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., for tests to determine if a transplant will help him.

Aboard the donated corporate jet for the two-hour flight, Ronnie's mood shifted from excitement about his first plane ride and the possibility of seeing his first snow to concern about finding a donor liver, his mother said.

"He said, 'I'm worried that they won't be able to find a liver for me.' But the doctors told him they would and not to worry about it," Ms. DeSillers said.

Ronnie will undergo about five days of tests, said hospital spokeswoman Lynn McMahon.

"There are some liver conditions that cannot be corrected or reversed through liver transplants," she said. "The surgeons want to make sure that his condition can be corrected through this surgery."

The boy was born with liver ducts too small to expel fluids. The condition has led to cirrhosis, and the liver is failing. Florida doctors estimate he has about six months to live without a transplant.

Ronnie was relatively unknown outside Florida until last week, when $4,000 raised by classmates to help pay his expenses was stolen. The money was part of $89,000 raised for the boy.

After news reports publicized Ronnie's need for $300,000 to $500,000, there was an outpouring of donations and pledges totaling an estimated $400,000.

"I always knew I would get here. It was just a matter of time," said Ms. DeSillers, a 31-year-old single mother who lost her health insurance 4½ years ago when she lost her job.

Before the theft was discovered, President Reagan telephoned Ronnie to wish him well and pledged $1,000.

The search for a suitable liver for the 38-pound youth will be difficult, McMahon said.

Train crash kills 46

SAO PAULO, Brazil — Crews today cleared away the mangled cars of two commuter trains that collided in a Sao Paulo suburb, killing at least 46 people and injuring about 100 others.

A spokesman for the federal railroad system, Joao Carlos Goncalves Tavares da Costa, said late Tuesday that rescue teams believed all the bodies had been found.

He said 46 people were killed, 86 were hospitalized with injuries and 25 were treated and released. Fire officials this morning said 12 of the injured had died, bringing the number dead to 58, but Tavares said his figures remained the same.

Railroad officials estimated that a total of more than 1,000 people were on the two six-car trains when the collision occurred at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday just outside the station in the impoverished suburb of Itaquera.

Irish voter turnout high

DUBLIN, Ireland — Voters turned out in large numbers for a general election dominated by economic problems, then settled back while a lengthy ballot count began today to determine whether Prime Minister Garret FitzGerald lost as predicted.

Opinion polls consistently put challenger and former Prime Minister Charles Haughey well ahead, and the question was whether he would command the strong parliamentary majority needed to tackle record national debt and unemployment.

Vote-counting began at 9 a.m. Counting is by hand, so early unofficial trends were expected from the computer of Radio Telefis Eireann, the state radio and television station.

If Haughey has a landslide, it will be known within hours. Otherwise it may not be known until early Thursday who is to govern Ireland for the next five years.

RTE said an estimated 75 percent of the 2.4 million eligible voters cast ballots, compared with 72.8 percent in the previous election in 1982.

Premier tells riot story

ALMA ATA, U.S.S.R. — The premier of the Soviet Republic of Kazakhstan said today that two people died and 200 required medical care because of December riots in this Central Asian capital.

Nursultan Nazarbaev also said as many as 3,000 people, several times the number previously reported, took part in the nationalist demonstrations.

He said about 100 people were detained and three have been sentenced to prison or labor camp for participating in the Dec. 17-18 riots. Twenty-eight people remain under investigation, he said.

Nazarbaev's account gave a fuller picture of the riots than previous descriptions by Soviet officials, who had acknowledged only one death and said the rioters numbered several hundred.

1986 TAX FILING TIPS
It's tax return filing time once again. Check these often-overlooked deductions, credits, and tax breaks to be sure you do not miss any on your return.
* Choose the best filing status for your situation. Usually that means filing a joint return if you're married, but in some circumstances, separate returns can save you money.
* Make your 1986 IRA contribution and take your deduction for it. The new rules on IRAs don't affect 1986 returns.
* Consider electing out of installment treatment on long-term capital gains sales. You may save money by paying taxes on all the gain under 1986 rules that still have the long-term capital gains deduction.
* If you had more than one job in 1986, watch for overpaid social security tax.
* Don't overlook income averaging if your income jumped in 1986. It's still available for your 1986 return.
* Get the most out of this final year for the sales tax deduction. If you made large purchases, you can deduct the tax paid on these items in addition to the amount allowed in the IRS tables.
* You can exclude $200 of dividend income on a joint return, $100 on a single return.
* If both you and your spouse work, don't miss the marriage penalty deduction that allows you to take a deduction of 10% of the lower earning spouse's income up to a maximum deduction of $3,000.
* Dig out the details on all 1986 charitable contributions. They're 100% deductible this year even if you don't itemize.
* Don't miss any credits. Some examples: political contributions credit, dependent care credit, credit for the elderly.
If you were an early filer and realize now that you've missed something on your return, remember that you can file an amended return for up to three years. You should consider doing so if the dollars involved warrant it.

Unwanted enter porous border

The extent to which the U.S.-Mexican border has become a magnet for illegal entry into this country is illustrated by a recent report. Along the San Diego sector alone, agents last year apprehended undocumented aliens from 67 countries.

Of the 1.6 million illegal migrants stopped by border agents in 1986, nearly 50,000 were from countries other than Mexico. That's a 33 percent increase over the previous year's total, and double the 1982 level. And the official numbers amount to only a fraction of those who enter the United States illegally without ever being stopped.

The sharp rise in what the Immigration and Naturalization Service calls OTMs ("other than Mexico") is due primarily to two factors. The first is the porous nature of the 1,900-mile frontier separating the United States from Mexico.

The boost in border-patrol manpower contained in last year's immigration-reform bill will bring only a marginal improvement, at best, in policing the border.

The second reason for the increase, according to immigration experts, is a growing awareness around the globe that although it is difficult to enter the United States legally, it is very easy to enter Mexico legally.

This is because of Mexico's scant entry requirements. Thus, a Middle Eastern terrorist might legally enter Mexico on a commercial airline flight and then readily slip across the U.S. border undetected.

American officials have expressed growing concern about the number of citizens from Middle Eastern countries who cross the U.S. border illegally by way of Mexico.

The ease with which international terrorists might use Mexico as a staging area for attacks in this country is a concern shared by Mexico City.

Accordingly, the Mexican government has taken steps to scrutinize more closely visa requests from Iranians, Lebanese, Libyans and other North Africans.

Gaining control over the southern border is, nonetheless, chiefly an American responsibility. The risks of failing to do so are entirely American.

Mobile meals needs volunteers

To the editor:
Here is a plea from the Howard County Council on Aging Board. The main activity of the council is the delivery of between 70 and 80 mobile meals daily to deserving people in Big Spring. This program for Big Spring is funded by the Dora Roberts Foundation. No federal or state controls are involved. We do receive assistance from the county. These meals are delivered by volunteers at no cost to those receiving them. Often the mobile meals the volunteers deliver are the only meals received five days weekly by the recipients. We need more volunteers to deliver.

If anyone can contribute about two hours weekly it would be appreciated. A gasoline allowance is available and you are insured while making deliveries. If you can spare a cheery good morning, a welcome hug, a pat on the back, and hand those deserving this wholesome meal, you will feel better for it. Many of these Big Spring citizens don't see anybody all day except the volunteers. If you can spare an hour or two one day per week, call the office director, Imogene Smith at 263-4016 or myself at 2603-2043.

Urges support of Lady Steers talent

For the first time in the history of Big Spring High School the Lady Steers have won the District Championship in basketball. Their first playoff game will be Thursday night in Lubbock at Coronado High School where they will face Canyon, who is ranked no. 2 in the state. The game will start at 7:30 p.m. This very dedicated group of young ladies has represented our community well. They have shown time after time that not only do they have great basketball ability, they also possess great poise and character. They are worthy of our support.

There will be a $2 charge for riding the bus and everyone is encouraged to sign up for this trip by calling or going by the High School. We are also planning to show our support by "sending the girls off" at 3:30 p.m. Thursday. They will be leaving from the East parking lot of the High School. Let's show these young ladies that we appreciate them. They have worked many long hard hours to get where they are today. The very least we can do is let them know that they have our support. Be there to send them off and then follow them to Lubbock to share their victory.

Disinformation campaign unfolds with investigation

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — As the bizarre plottings of the Iranamuck conspirators were unfolding on the nation's front pages, we cast an ill-considered slur on the competence of certain White House aides.

We described their handling of the media as "amateurish." On reflection, we feel an apology is due.

What we forgot in the heat of the moment was their near total success in convincing the media that President Reagan was tough on terrorists — when, in fact, he was secretly siding up to the most abominable terrorist of them all, Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini.

Although their dealings with the Khomeini hierarchy had a Maxwell Smart quality, the Reagan proconsuls were deadly efficient in portraying the president as the scourge of terrorism. But they focused media attention errantly on Libya's Moammar Gadhafi, whom Reagan called "this mad dog of the Middle East."

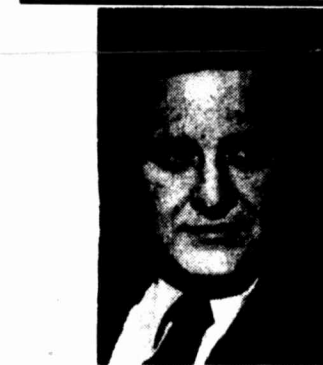

The president's rhetoric positively bristled with righteous outrage. "Stage-supported terrorism is a form of warfare, and you can't sit by and let somebody else declare war on you and pretend that you're still at peace," he thundered. The pundits of the press, with few strays, swallowed every word.

Given the abuse we received for saying otherwise, we might be excused now for rubbing their noses in the print. Here is the autopsy of a disinformation campaign:

We learned in December 1985 that the White House had opened back channels to Iran. When we began poking into the story, a top Pentagon official telephoned urgently and asked for an off-the-record meeting.

He pleaded with us not to run the story because it would "endanger the lives of the hostages."

We held up the story. But it became obvious to us that the

Jack Anderson

White House was deliberately setting up Gadhafi as a scapegoat to divert attention from its appeasement of Khomeini. The more Reagan turned up the heat on Gadhafi, the more we insisted he was assailing the wrong terrorist. "The most remorseless perpetrator of terrorist actions aimed at Americans is not Libyan dictator Moammar Gadhafi," we wrote, "but the messianic mullah of Iran. ... Khomeini is our public enemy No. 1."

We thought the story so important that we wrote a dozen columns in December 1985 and January 1986 describing Khomeini's terrorist operations. We accused him of "waging an undeclared war on the United States."

We called the terrorists he had recruited and trained "the New Savages." We cited intercepted communications as evidence that Khomeini was behind the bombings, hijackings and hostage-taking that have plagued Americans in the Middle East.

The American casualty count in Iran's undeclared war, we reported, had reached 264. One was a high U.S. official, William Buckley, who was kidnapped off the streets of Beirut and savagely tortured until he died.

The Senate Intelligence Committee has reported that the White House learned of Buckley's terrible death "in late 1985."

We reported the story in grim detail on Dec. 13, 1985, despite the emphatic denials of White House and State Department spokespersons. One staff member of the National Security Council literally screamed at Dale Van Atta on the telephone for printing the story.

If we continued such reports, the staffer warned, the White House would portray us publicly as irresponsible, even traitorous. Other White House aides conveyed the same message.

Then we spoke to a Washington Post staffer who said Buckley might still be alive, according to his "CIA sources." We not only ignored the White House threats and stuck to our story, we repeated it.

The Post thereafter deleted all references to Buckley until it ran its own front-page account of Buckley's death almost a year later — on Nov. 25, 1986. The U.S. government's acknowledgement finally came on Jan. 20, in a speech by Vice President George Bush.

In all this dismal record, there is one bright spot. We thought the president, unlike his aides, would not lie about his Iran overtures. He agreed to see Van Atta on Feb. 4, 1986.

Without hesitation, he acknowledged that Buckley was dead and indicated that the White House had opened negotiations with Iran. He asked only that we not quote him until the hostages were safe.

But on April 23, Reagan declared: "No one can kill Americans and brag about it." By this time, 264 Americans had been killed by Iran-sponsored terrorists.

Jack Anderson's investigative report from Washington is distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

Billy Graham

Religious belief grows amid atheism

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Recently I saw one of your television specials about a trip you took to a Communist country. I was impressed by the crowds that turned out, but I wondered why you even went to such countries, since people there aren't allowed to believe in God, I always thought. Why waste your time on them? Mrs. S.W.

DEAR MRS. S.W.: Some churches are permitted to operate (with restrictions) in every country in Eastern Europe (except the little country of Albania, where they are completely banned).

Religious belief is discouraged, since the Communist Party promotes atheism, but there are still large numbers of believers in many of those countries.

In the Soviet Union, for example, 50 million people still identify themselves with the Russian Orthodox Church (which will celebrate its 1000th anniversary in 1988).

In fact, in several of the countries, religious belief is clearly increasing, in spite of constant atheistic propaganda.

It is true that believers have often had a very difficult time in the past, and there still are tensions and problems — as both church and government officials have admitted to me during my visits in that part of the world.

Churches or congregations which refuse to abide by some of the government's regulations especially have a difficult time, since the authorities consider them as lawbreakers. A person who is a believer also will find that some jobs and opportunities are closed to him, since they are open only to members of the Communist Party.

(Less than 10 percent of the people belong to the Party in those countries). In every country I have visited in Eastern Europe, I have sensed a deep spiritual hunger on the part of many people — including large numbers of young people. Pray for believers in that part of the world, and pray that God will continue to bring many to Himself.

Ambitious Gramm will make history

By STEPHEN CHAPMAN

It is a frigid morning in Washington and Phil Gramm has donned a windbreaker to ward off the chill in his Senate office, but he is having no trouble warming to his subject, which is the difficulty of getting his colleagues to contain federal spending at a time of large deficits.

Referring to the deficit target for 1988, he says, "You go out on the campaign trail, and you say (here Gramm assumes a pose of immense pride) 'I voted for a $108 billion deficit,' and your opponent says (here Gramm, his voice screeching, feigns shock and outrage), 'He voted for a $108 billion deficit!' You know the expression, 'no guts, no glory'? Now, there's no glory even with guts."

The junior senator from Texas, a Republican, seldom identifies a problem without proposing a solution. "I want to give everybody a chance to vote for a balanced budget," Gramm says.

One way is to offer a budget covering four years instead of one, with accounts balanced in the last year. Members would still have to take the heat that comes with spending reductions, but at the same time — not four years later — they would get a credit for eliminating the deficit.

That approach may sound outlandish, but so did a certain proposal for balancing the budget, prodding Congress with the threat of automatic cuts, that has since been enacted into a law by members. Gramm has translated controversial ideas into compelling legislation.

Most members of Congress labor in obscurity, at least outside their districts. A few gain fame not as lawmakers but as laws: Smoot-Hawley, Norris-LaGuardia, Taft-Hartley.

In his six years in the House and two in the Senate, this former economics professor has pushed through three major bills bearing his name. Gramm-Latta I and II reallocated federal spending along the lines requested by President Reagan, and Gramm-Rudman imposed deficit firm constraints on the deficit.

Gramm is a rebuttal to the bromide that to get along in Congress you have to go along. His brashness affronts the chubby ways of the Senate, but his every willingness to defy tradition has made him impossible to ignore.

With his eyeglasses, thinning gray hair and thick Texas drawl, Gramm doesn't come across as a natural media star, but his skill at taking his case to the public has enabled him to bypass the old routes to power.

If many of his colleagues dislike him, it is partly for the same reason that they pay attention to him: He puts them in painful positions where voting with him is the least unattractive option.

Gramm-Rudman, which deprived both Democrats and Republicans of the luxury of lamenting the deficit while doing nothing to reduce it, illustrates that approach. Given the choice of gaining popularity or influence, Gramm chooses the latter.

But he doesn't mind embarrassing members to make a point. In 1985, when the Senate was debating a bill to reduce textile imports, Gramm noted that his colleagues said they didn't want protectionism, only "fair trade."

So he suggested granting open access to any country which was open to American goods — which would have exempted Hong Kong, a major textile exporter, from the restrictions. His amendment lost, but it served his purpose.

Gramm is the rare senator who, when his principles clash with his political interests, sticks to his principles. His devotion to free-trade extends to opposing an oil import fee, which would be greeted like the Second Coming in the depressed Texas oil industry.

Achievements have not produced contentment in Gramm. He produces legislative ideas the way other senators produce press releases, all reflecting his view that the world's main problem is not insufficient government.

One of his next projects is to promote trade by lowering U.S. import barriers in exchange for similar action elsewhere, and by applying pressure to the recalcitrant.

If the Japanese keep out American goods, he says, the U.S. should penalize them not by keeping out Japanese goods (which would impoverish American consumers), but by removing barriers to the imports of their keenest rivals, like South Korea (which would enrich American consumers).

Rest assured, these are not the last trade proposals Gramm will make. "I feel more strongly about the trade issue than I do about the deficit," he declares emphatically, which will be ominous news to congressional protectionists.

But then, it's hard to find any subject on which Gramm doesn't harbor strong feelings. That is one of his differences with most of his colleagues, and one reason he will make more history than friends.

Mary Holloman, right, presents Conrad Alexander, director of the Veterans Administration Medical Center, with the Boss of the Year plaque Monday night. He was selected as Boss of the Year by the Cactus Chapter of the ABWA — American Business Women's Association.

Menopausal treatments differ

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a 61-year-old female. For 12 years, I have been taking estrogen for bone protection and to avoid hot flashes. Now, my doctor says I have been on these a long time and wants me to have a biopsy of my uterus just to be certain I have no cancer there. From what I have heard of the procedure, it is dreadful, so I refused.

Now, the doctor wants me to take a different pill that would give me periods again. I see no reason to start that all over again. It seems to be going against nature. I am so confused. Please help me. — Mrs. J.L.

The question of prescribing estrogen (female hormone) for menopausal women still raises lively arguments among doctors. Each view, pro and con, has its adherents, who offer sound reasoning. Estrogens are given, as you say, to protect bones and to avoid some of the unpleasantness many women experience at menopause.

Cancer of the uterus is a slightly greater risk among women who have had long-term estrogen therapy. Twelve years is a long time, and your doctor's desire for a uterus biopsy makes sense. More on that later.

Now your doctor wants you to take another pill (progesterone) in conjunction with your estrogen. That combination does make women have periods again. The do not look down on patients who want second opinions. See the booklet, "Make Menopause Easier," for related material. Other readers may order by writing me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and one dollar.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Please write about the advantages of colonic irrigations, or high enemas, as they are called. How do you administer them? — S.C.

This is like asking me to give you the proper way to beat your dog. I find no redeeming virtue in colonic irrigation, no more than I find in beating your dog.

You don't have to resort to these enemas, which I know have a sort of cult following. They can harm you. They can injure your bowel. They can interfere with normal muscle movement in the colon.

So I'm not going to give you instructions. You're harkening to a bygone era, when it was popular to "cleanse" the intestinal tract of "poisonous" waste. That theory went the way of high-button shoes. The way to promote proper evacuation, if that is your concern, is to go the high-fiber route with bran and other roughage foods.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

reason for that is to reduce the risk of cancer. When you have your periods, your uterine lining is sloughed off, as you know.

Now, about the biopsy. I said the biopsy seems a reasonable idea, especially if you have other risk factors such as obesity, high blood pressure, no history of pregnancy, or a family history of uterine cancer.

The biopsy is done by inserting a long thin needle into the uterus and withdrawing a tiny sample of tissue. Is it uncomfortable? Yes. Women have described it as equal to bad menstrual cramping (for the two or three minutes it takes). The pain is not described as intolerable or anything like that. I suggest you follow your doctor's program.

If a second opinion would ease your mind, why not get it. Doctors

Club notes

Health care is food club's topic

Naomi Hunt, county extension agent, presented "Cut the Cost — Keep the Care" to the Food Service Club Association of Big Spring.

Hunt shared information about staying healthy by eating correctly and getting plenty of exercise, according to a release from the association.

She gave tips on how to control stress, how to shop for a doctor, controlling the cost of drugs and how to choose a good insurance policy.

Hunt explained how the insurance will pay the difference between Medicare and what you should pay; also that one policy is good enough if the right one is chosen.

The club voted to donate a pound of coffee each month to the Veterans Administration Medical Center. The volunteer committee will have coffee available for out-patients coming for treatment.

Lupe Dominguez is in charge of the volunteer services at the VA.

Ray Lawlis gave the invocation. There were 22 members present.

Melba Camp won the door prize. Marcy School was the host.

Grandparents are born with first grandchild

From GRANDPARENTS
A Meredith Magazine

Along with every first grandchild new grandparents are born. But to have a fulfilling experience at this time, says Grandparents magazine, requires thoughtful preparation for the new grandparental role long before the baby comes.

The fabric of a three-generation family will be determined to a great degree by how grandparents relate to the young parents during those terribly important months before and after the child's birth.

To begin with, a person must come to grips with the idea of becoming a grandparent — a difficult task, especially for the prospective grandfather. They may be good-natured kidding around his office or shop, like, "Hey, you don't look old enough to be married to a grandmother," and he'll notice that many women now regard him differently, no longer chummy as before but with the distant respect reserved for the grandparental generation.

Psychologists have found this sudden switch can be quite a blow to the ego of even the best of family men and sometimes their wives as well.

But, at the same time, there slowly comes a subtle sense of the wondrous continuity of life. Memories spring to mind — of their own grandparents, of their parents as grandparents, of their being grandchildren.

It's easy for some to forget at such a time that the prospective parents are most important, and all too many grandparents yield to the temptation to take over and run the show.

Experts agree that, under normal circumstances, this is the worst thing to do.

Instead, new grandparents should pamper the mother, hug and pat the father.

Pet nutrition goes too far

By COUNTRY LIVING
A Hearst Magazine

The American concern with nutrition has carried over to the pet population — sometimes with unhappy, unhealthy results. Nutritional boosters are now being advertised for pets and, according to an article in the February issue of Country Living, the ads imply that pet owners who really care will splurge on everything from chewy treats fortified with vitamins to elixirs made from wheat-germ oil and brewer's yeast. People who take vitamins and other supplements themselves are also giving them to their pets. "Sales are way up on these products," said Dr. Sudan Donoghue, head of the nutrition clinic for the School of Veterinary Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania. "People tend to do for pets what they do for themselves."

They may not be doing the pet a favor. "In general, supplements are not a good idea," Donoghue said. "If a dog or cat is eating a food labeled 'complete and balanced,' it's already getting all the vitamins and minerals it needs. If you add more, you may imbalance the diet."

She pointed out that people have many opportunities to fill up on foods that do not provide adequate nutrition, while most dogs and cats eat commercially prepared food formulated to include nutrients.

"Since they're getting the basics, supplements may be harmful," she said. "Nutrients such as Vitamin A or selenium, for example, are toxic at high levels."

Even so-called natural nutrition boosters such as brewer's yeast, cod liver oil and kelp may cause problems and lead to unbalanced diets. Cod liver oil, for instance, is high in vitamins A and D, but has no E. Kelp is a good source of iodine, but that's about all.

High-flying couple make plans for wedding airlift

DEAR ABBY: My fiancé (I'll call him Arni) and I are getting married soon. We've been dating for three years — Arni's 23 and I'm 21. His family is in Rhode Island and mine is in North Carolina. I'm a Presbyterian and Arni is a Roman Catholic. We'd like to get married in a Catholic church in Rhode Island with my pastor officiating and his priest assisting. Is this possible? I prefer to get married in a Presbyterian church here in North Carolina, but the church is too small, and Arni's family is too large.

I would like to charter a plane to fly all our friends and relatives from North Carolina to Rhode Island and back. It's only an hour and 13 minutes each way. I think the expense of the chartered plane should be Arni's and mine. We'd need a plane that seats about 60. Arni thinks we should write the North Carolina people and ask them to chip in about $5 — or whatever they can afford — toward chartering the plane, and forget the wedding presents because their "presence" is all we really want. (It's true; I designed and built our home six months ago and we have everything we need — and then some!)

Is Arni's suggestion proper or not? What do you think of our idea of flying everyone to Rhode Island? IN LOVE IN MATTHEWS, N.C.

DEAR IN LOVE: The idea of flying your wedding guests from North Carolina to Rhode Island sounds great, but since you have everything you need — and then some — don't ask your guests to finance the chartered flight in lieu of wedding gifts. Pay for it yourselves, or let them get there on their own power.

However, asking a Roman Catholic priest to "assist" in a marriage ceremony in his church is out of order. If you want to be married in a church, first consult the Rhode Island priest and the North Carolina minister.

DEAR ABBY: I am a faithful reader of your column in the Utica Observer-Dispatch, and I hope you won't think me petty, but I think you owe dentists an apology. In a recent column you made a reference to "all of the doctors and dentists."

Abby, don't you know that all dentists are doctors? They are doctors of dentistry — a profession equally as prestigious as physicians who are doctors of medicine.

My husband is a first-class dentist, and it rankles me when people say "doctors" and "dentists," as though dentists were not doctors.

Please print this, but withhold my name, or my husband would have a fit.

DENTIST'S WIFE, UTICA, N.Y.
DEAR WIFE: Thank you for setting me straight. One day I may be in Utica and require the services of a first-class dentist to extract my foot from my mouth.

(For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (30 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61064.)

A friend from the past?

BILL MYERS
Funeral Director

Many people wonder about that when they look at Bill Myers' picture. They associate his face with a caring attitude . . . with personal feelings for them . . . though they're not sure they've met one of the owners of Myers & Smith.

But yes, they have . . . and he was a friend when, as an area funeral director, Bill served many families in this community, for many years. (He's still a funeral director but now, of course, a co-owner of Myers & Smith Funeral Home and Chapel.) Bill Myers remembers these families, too . . . and the caring times they shared in the past.

Senate to settle White nominations

AUSTIN — It is up to Texas senators to decide if former Gov. Mark White broke the law when he appointed Ronald Luna, secretary of the state Democratic Party, to serve another term as a member of the Texas Employment Commission.

The decision will be made by the 31-member Senate on Thursday. Gov. Bill Clements said Tuesday he would not interfere with the vote.

The Senate Nominations Committee voted 6-0 Tuesday not to make a recommendation on Luna's nomination.

"We'll discuss it on the floor and then vote it up or down," said Sen. Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches, who made the motion.

Gubernatorial nominations must receive a two-third vote of senators present to be confirmed.

Clements told a news conference Tuesday he would not oppose Luna's nomination, or any other last-minute appointments by the former governor White, a Democrat, after being defeated by the Republican on Nov. 4.

Mexico still has mislaid rockets

FORT BLISS — Mexican authorities still have 23 live rockets belonging to this West Texas military facility that were mistakenly sold to a businessman as scrap lumber, a spokesman said.

The rockets were confiscated by the Mexican army's 26th Infantry Battalion in Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, across the Rio Grande from El Paso, more than three weeks ago. The United States has requested they be returned.

"My last conversation south of the border was with the U.S. Consulate General's office" in Juarez, Lt. Col. James Lawson said Tuesday. "At that time (the message) was 'Don't hold your breath.'"

The 23 rockets were inside wooden crates sold to a Juarez lumberyard owner Jan. 22. The man discovered the rockets at his business the following Monday and notified officials at Fort Bliss, which is in the outskirts of El Paso.

A 24th rocket was found among other wooden crates the Mexican businessman had left behind at Fort Bliss to be picked up later. Fort Bliss routinely auctions materials such as scrap lumber, Lawson has said.

A Juarez newspaper reported Sunday that Mexican President Miguel de la Madrid was to issue a decision today on the rockets.

State files water system lawsuit

HOLIDAY LAKES — Low water pressure and having to purchase bottled water because of dirty tap water are a few of the complaints citizens of this small community have been airing for years.

But only now does it appear something concrete is about to be done.

Assistant Texas Attorney General Ginny Agnew said Monday the state has filed a lawsuit against the owner of Lakeside Water System on behalf of the Texas Health Department and hopes to bring the matter to trial in a few months.

Doug Gana says when he turns the water on all the way he gets a trickle of water; hardly enough pressure to take a shower.

Sheila Brown, another resident of this community six miles west of Angleton, throws her arms in the air and complains about being forced to buy her bottled drinking water because her tap water is too foul-smelling to cook or drink.

Ms. Agnew said the state wants to get a permanent injunction against the owner requiring him to bring the system up to state regulations, and we will ask the court to grant civil penalties and fines for past violations.

Beginning in 1973, the state health department started receiving complaints and citing Lakeside for health violations, said Mark Lowry, regional engineer with the department's Rosenberg office.

"For about six years — until 1979 — we tried to obtain voluntary compliance from the company," he said. "Then when we felt like we weren't getting anywhere, we turned it over to the attorney general's office."

Man charged with taking base radio

DALLAS — A man charged with stealing a radio from Dallas Naval Air Station has been released on his own recognizance by a federal magistrate.

U.S. Magistrate William F. Sanderson on Tuesday said he would refer the case of Todd Mitchell Meredith, 19, of Duncanville to a federal grand jury after Meredith waived his right to a preliminary hearing.

Meredith is charged with stealing a two-way radio worth about $1,800.

He had been held without bond since Wednesday when he was arrested after applying for a job at the air station. A pilot became suspicious because Meredith remained at the station two hours after filling out the employment application.

A Navy investigator claimed in an affidavit that aviation items found in a voluntary search of Meredith's home were obtained illegally and could have been used in espionage. Meredith's family and friends, however, told The Dallas Morning News that Meredith was just overzealous in trying to obtain aviation collectibles.

The affidavit, filed by naval investigator Douglass B. Johnson, accuses Meredith of being "in possession of numerous unauthorized photographs of aircraft and NAS Dallas facilities" and a "classified confidential code word list," some of which were allegedly taken months earlier.

Cancer society offers discount

AUSTIN — The American Cancer Society is trying to attract 30,000 Texas women in for breast cancer screening by allaying their fears about the exam and offering it at discount rates.

"We want screening mammography to become the Pap test of the '80s," said Dr. George Peters of Dallas, a breast surgeon at Baylor University Medical Center.

More than 260 screening facilities and hospitals across the state will participate in the project by offering mammograms for $50 or less for women with no history of breast cancer. The screenings will be offered later this month and in March.

Fraternity charged with hazing

AUSTIN (AP) — The dean of students, investigating a student's claim she was blindfolded for 12 hours, ridiculed and humiliated, has told business fraternity Alpha Kappa Psi it violated university regulations against hazing, a lawyer for the organization said.

The fraternity disagrees with the finding and has asked for a hearing, attorney Michael Maguire said Tuesday.

Glenn Maloney, assistant dean of students, completed his investigation Feb. 9 but met with fraternity representatives to see if they accepted or rejected his findings.

"His findings reflect that he found the fraternity in violation of University regulations concerning hazing," the Daily Texan, the university's student newspaper.

"All he's done so far is find facts, and I disagree with the facts," Michael Maguire, the fraternity's attorney, said.

Lady Coyotes romp 49-25

'Stangs hustle by cold Steers

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

ODESSA — Borden County's game plan against Sanderson was simple — if one thing doesn't work, try another.

With that strategy, the Lady Coyotes whipped the Eaglettes 49-25 in Class A bi-district action Tuesday night at Odessa Sports Center.

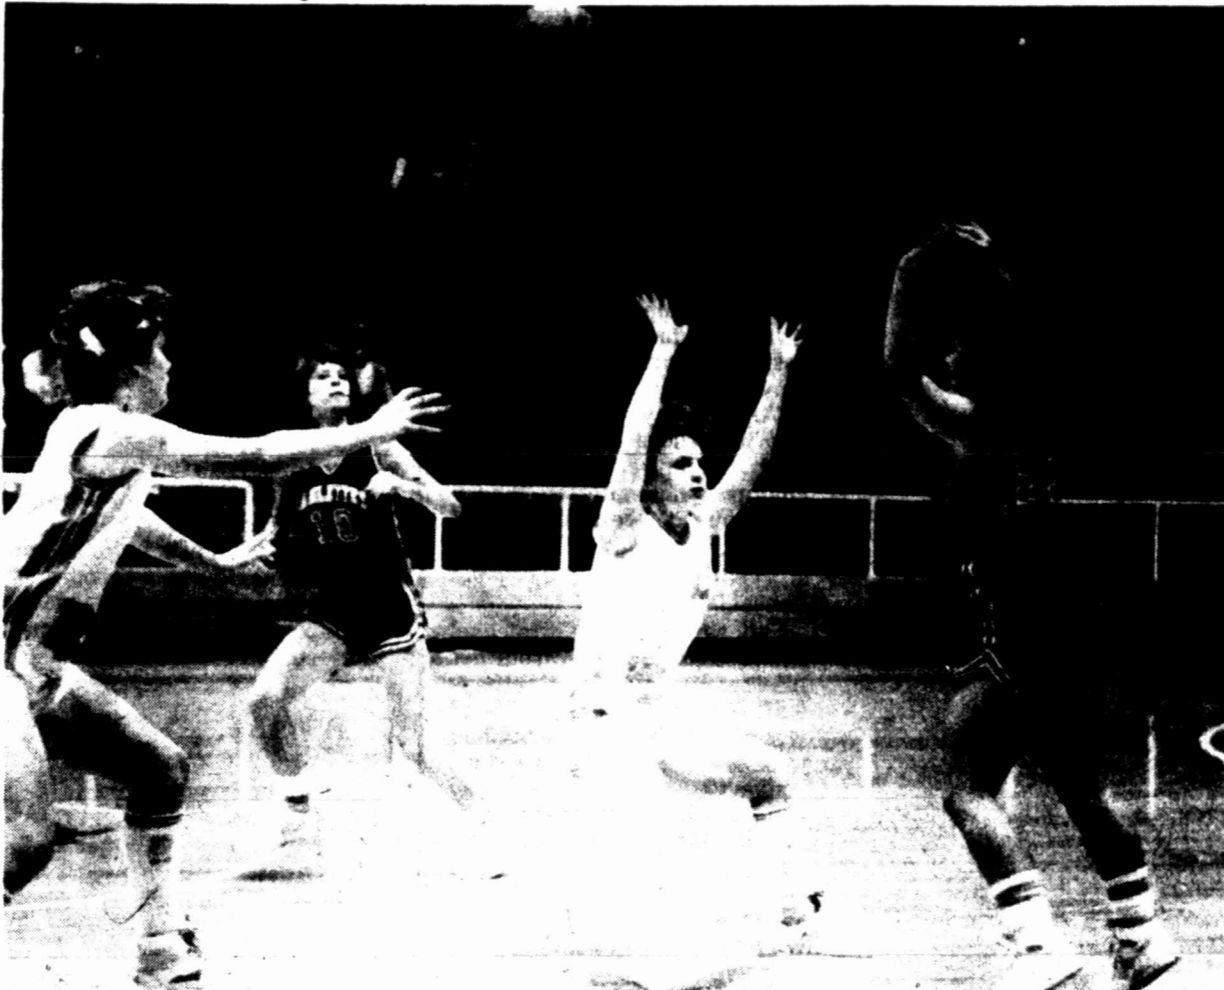

The Lady Coyotes' leading scorer Kelli Williams couldn't find her shooting touch against the Sanderson zone and the Lady Coyotes had to resort to other tactics. Namely, they went inside to post player Elana Himes, who responded with a banner game.

The 5-10 sophomore came through with a 27-point, 12-rebound performance against the shorter Eaglettes. Although she started out slowly, missing her first three shots, she finished strong as she made her final six shots of the game.

When coach Bill May pulled her from the game with two minutes remaining, the Lady Coyotes held a commanding 49-23 lead. The sophomore transfer from Coahoma ended the night hitting 13 of 19 field goals and blocking five shots.

Meanwhile, Williams had a miserable shooting night from the floor. In fact she didn't make a field goal in 12 tries and scored on two free throws.

But when Borden County found out it could get the ball inside to Himes, the Lady Coyotes didn't need the outside touch of Williams. She did shine in other ways, with six assists and four steals. She and sophomore forward Lisha Sternadel were the main reasons Sanderson committed 24 turnovers. Sternadel had a game-high eight steals.

The first half ended in a tight football score, with Borden County leading 13-12.

The first half was a scoring duel between Himes and Sanderson post player Carrie Rhode. Both players scored eight points to lead their teams. Sanderson stayed in the game by outrebounding Borden County 17-12, and the fact the Lady Coyotes shot 30 percent from the floor.

"Our shots just wouldn't fall in the first half," said May. "I wasn't unhappy with our defense, holding them to 12 points is good. I think maybe we were too relaxed in the first half and we came out and played with more intensity in the Lady Coyotes page 2B

SWEETWATER — The Big Spring Steers were "outrebounded and outthrustled," according to Coach Boyce Paxton, and the result was that they lost 64-53 to the Sweetwater Mustangs.

"It was an embarrassing loss and a needless one. A few players have not worked hard since the Lamesa game, and I am considering the possibility of moving up some JV players for the Andrews game. This was the lowest output since early in the season," said a disappointed Paxton.

He did say, however, that Shawn Shellman played well defensively and Brian Mayfield played good offensively. Mayfield scored 26 points, grabbed 18 rebounds and blocked eight shots.

Paxton also praised his bench.

The Mustangs outrebounded the Steers 52-46, and made 43 percent of their shots as compared to 37 percent by the Steers.

Charles Young, who had been averaging near 20 points a game, missed all 11 of his shots and didn't score. Cedric Banks, also averaging in double figures, scored just two.

The Steers dropped to 18-12 overall and 10-5 in district.

In the J.V. game, the Steers lost 57-40.

Friday night, at Andrews, will be their last game of the season. Also last night, Bernard Williams scored 36 points as Andrews destroyed Lamesa 90-63.

The Lady Steers have a job to do

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

For the Big Spring Lady Steers it will be a trip into history — for the Canyon Eagles, it will be something they are accustomed to doing annually.

The two teams will meet Thursday night at 7:30 at Lubbock Coronado High School gym in 4A bi-district basketball playoff action.

It will be the Lady Steers' first trip to post-season play, while the Eagles have been to the state playoffs six consecutive times.

Lady Steers coach C.E. Carmichael says a big key is how well his girls hold up under playoff pressure. "We must play under control and not let the excitement and emotion get to us," he said. "They (Canyon) are used to this. With the exception of Paige Clawson, our players have never played in a bi-district basketball game before. But that's no excuse. We must handle everything that comes with playing in a bi-district game." The Eagles, who have been a long-time power in Texas girls' basketball, are coached by Joe Lombard, who established quite a dynasty at Nazareth before coming to Canyon two seasons ago.

At Nazareth, Lombard won six state Class A state championships in seven years while compiling a amazing 240-16 record. Counting the two seasons at Canyon, Lombard has recorded a 294-23 record, giving him an impressive 93 percent winning percentage in nine seasons.

The Eagles come into the game ranked third in the state, behind district foe Levelland and McKinney. The only blemishes on Canyon's 28-2 record were losses to Levelland in district play.

The Eagles defeated No. 1 Levelland 53-46 in a tournament early this season but Levelland won the district encounters 48-35 and 50-28 — the most recent win coming Friday. It was the worst defeat Lombard has ever suffered in his career.

He worries how the big loss will affect his team.

"I don't think we were mentally prepared for the game Friday night," he said. "I think we might have hurt our confidence to get beat like that. I'm not sure how we'll react. Now we'll see what we're made of."

The 25-4 Lady Steers should be a stern test for the Eagles. The Lady Steers, ranked ninth in the state, have played two common foes of the Eagles. Big Spring was defeated in tournament play by Lubbock Coronado 56-44 and Abernathy 59-49. Canyon defeated Coronado in a blowout and beat Abernathy by 10 points.

The Eagles like to play pressing man-to-man defense and take high percentage shots on offense. Their two top players are 5-8 post Tami Williams, who averages 10 points and seven rebounds, and 5-7 wing

Two Hawks dismissed

This past weekend, two Howard College Hawks basketball players, Kevin Bradsher and Sam Williams, were dismissed from the team and left school, according to Hawks' Coach Larry Brown.

Bradsher, averaging 24 points per game, and Williams, averaging over 10 points a game, were both sophomores.

Brown said the two were removed from the team for disciplinary reasons stemming from an incident late Friday night.

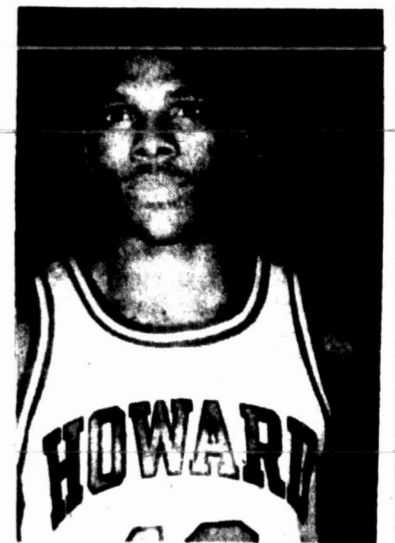

"It was serious and they broke team rules, and we have to live with that. They knew the consequences so there was never any question," Brown said.

Brown said the two were not allowed to practice over the weekend, and that he spent "a lot of sleepless hours" considering his decision. He said he had "no doubt" that he made the right decision.

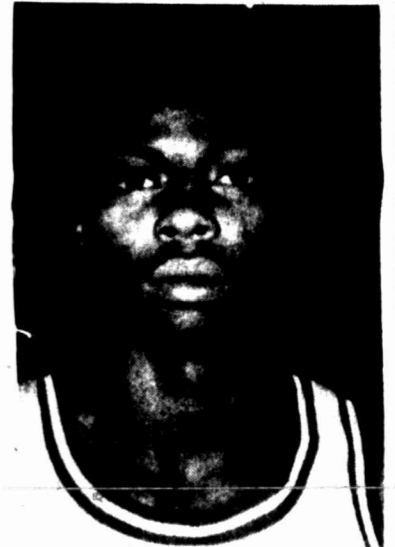

The two players were not kicked out of school, Brown said. "Basically, what happened, is I just sent them home," he explained.

"With somebody like Kevin, who I love like a son, it was real hard to do," Brown said. Bradsher had played on two state championship teams at Bryan High School, where Brown coached.

Bradsher, contacted at his home in Bryan, declined to comment on the dismissal.

Hawks' nest

The "Miracle Midgets" are for real. The Howard College Hawks basketball team showed the people of Big Spring what desire, courage, pride and heart are all about. The effort was outstanding and the victory over Midland College was well deserved. When you play as hard as you can together as a team — good things happen.

It was a total team effort but the play of Mitchell Porter and Myron Wright inside was the difference in the game. Matt Brown and Rod Martin came off the bench to play very well in a pressure game.

Our backs were up against the wall after an extremely disappointing 71-70 loss at N.M.M.I. But the test of character is how you react to adversity. This group of young men met the challenge straight on.

The problem of dismissing our two leading scorers from the team is very distressing for me, as their coach. I was very close to one, in particular, and loved him as a son. We must do what's right and be able to justify it from within.

The matter was serious and had to be dealt with. I hope to help them mature in some way. As educators, we have an opportunity to prepare students for the real world. Sometimes we win, sometimes we lose, but we NEVER stop caring.

The players that represent Howard College will be good citizens on and off the court. Really, this is what counts in the long run. The wins will come, Hawk's Nest!

LARRY BROWN

But most importantly, Hawks Basketball stands for pride, dedication, integrity — and hopefully always a class act.

Thank you for the continued support at our games. We beat Midland (fans, cheerleaders, players, and everyone else involved.) Our cheerleaders have done an outstanding job this year and are to be commended.

We are now 7-6 in conference. That is 1/2 game ahead of Odessa (6-6) for the coveted fourth place and a spot in regionals. Our team is preparing to beat South Plains here on Thursday night. We believe — how about you? Please come out to our last home game of the year. You'll get your money's worth because it's never dull around the Hawk's Nest!

Hawks hosting South Plains

The Howard College Hawks and Hawk-Queens will play in important Western Junior College Athletic Conference clashes Thursday night when they host teams from South Plains.

The Queens start at 6 p.m. and the Hawks follow at eight.

Double OT buzzer-beater stops Forsan

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

FORSAN — It's double overtime, you're team's down by one, and there's nine seconds left. Your team shoots an air ball, rebounds, misses, and this time tips it in. A celebration ensues.

The clock says :01, but the referee says put two more seconds back on the clock. You don't like it, but there's still no way your team's going to lose.

The other team starts from under your basket, passes in, their player races down the court, lunges, shoots. The ball rockets against the backboard, and in, like a knife in your soul.

That's what happened Tuesday night to the Forsan Buffaloes. The Iraan Braves got the 58-57 decision, and four Forsan seniors — Brant Nichols, Lance Soles, Lee Morris and Rodney Grantham — ended their high school basketball careers.

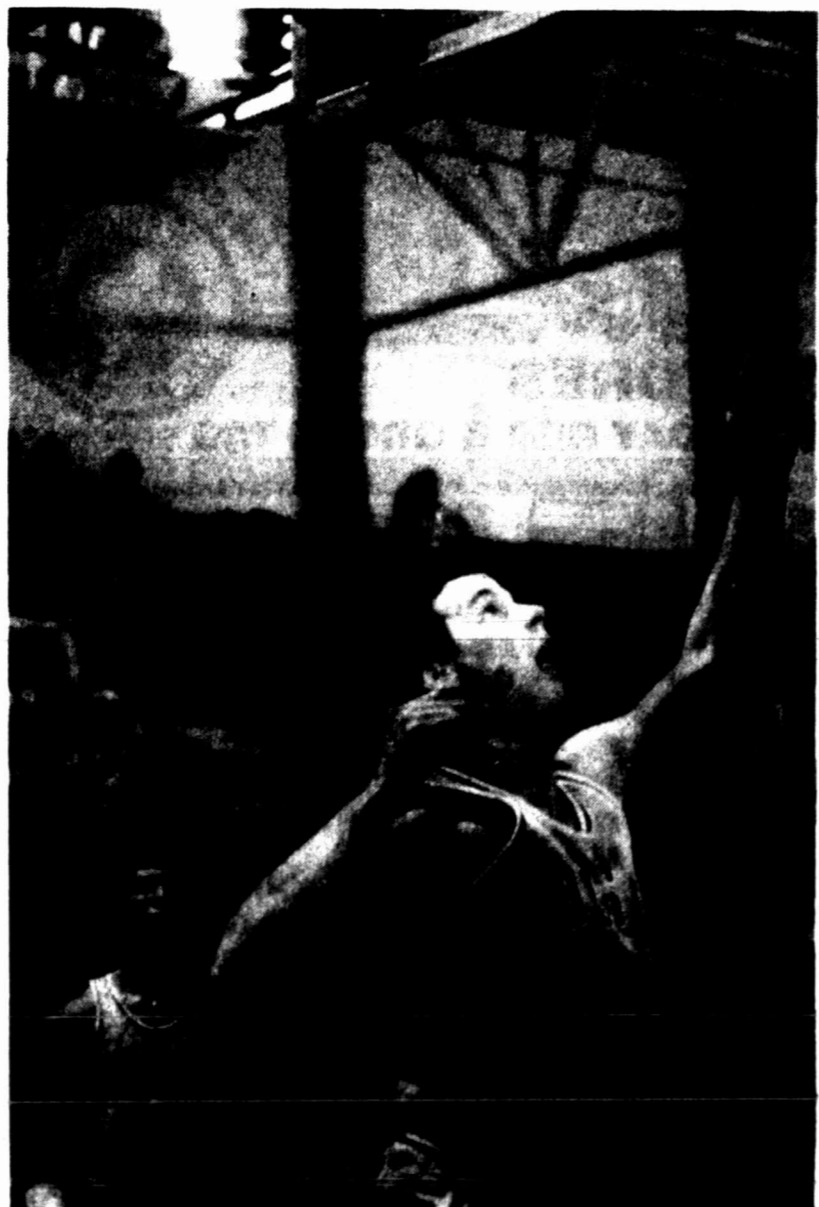

Forsan had been in a tie with Stanton for a playoff spot, but when Stanton beat Big Lake 70-53 last night, they clinched the spot in lieu of Forsan's loss.

Both teams started slowly, with Forsan winning the opening quarter 13-6. When Soles made a power move to the basket and scored to start quarter two, the Buffaloes led by eight.

The Braves, led by Chewy Ulate and Juan Flores, rallied against the suddenly cold Buffaloes to take a 30-29 lead at halftime.

With Forsan leading 33-32 early in the third quarter, Morris, the Buffaloes' 6-5 center, went down with a twisted ankle. Forsan junior Brandy Bryan responded by canning a jumper, two foul shots and a spinning layup to keep the Buffaloes alive, but two Ulate free throws put the Braves up 45-43 going into the last quarter.

With Forsan trailing 47-43, Morris returned, but he was obviously in pain. When the Braves' Sean McMullen hit a short jumper with 5:23 remaining, Iraan took their biggest lead of the night at 53-45. Bryan made a great drive to the buzzer. Bryan, guarded closely, shot an air ball, but Nichols rebounded and missed. Nichols, like on a tram-poline, bounced right back up and

Playoffs old hat for this girl

Lady Steers' Clawson a veteran of two playoff teams

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

It will be the first ever post-season basketball appearance for the Big Lady Steers. One of the big questions is: will the Lady Steers, without playoff experience, keep their composure in such a pressure game?

To Paige Clawson, playoff pressure is nothing new.

Clawson, a transfer from May, is making her third straight playoff appearance. The 5-6 junior has come on to give Big Spring what it has badly needed — a "complete guard."

Whatever it takes, Clawson will do it to get the job done. Her court savvy and abilities allows her to dominate a game at times, whether its scoring, rebounding, dishing out assists or playing air-tight defense.

But you'd might expect that from an all-stater. Clawson has survived a well-traveled high school career. She's been at three different high schools in three years, Cross Plains, where present Lady Steers coach C.E. Carmichael was coaching at the time, May and Big Spring.

Clawson has been a winner everywhere she's been.

At Cross Plains, where she lived for 10 years, she began as a freshman for Carmichael. The Class A school won district and was beaten in bi-district. Clawson was one of the few freshmen in the Big Country area to have the distinction of making the all-district team.

The next year her father, Doyle who's in the oil business as well as coaching, got a coaching job at May and the family moved 20 miles down the road. Clawson recalls the time with a smile creeping across her face. "When I was at Cross Plains, May was our district rivals. Now all of a sudden, Cross Plains was our district rival. It was a pretty heated rivalry."

"But we ended up beating

Big Spring Lady Steer Paige Clawson does what she's done so many times this season — she blows by a defender.

them and winning district," she laughed.

It was simply a banner year for Clawson. She made the all-district team and was named the district's Most Valuable Player. Her biggest award, however, was being named to the Texas Sportswriters All-State Second Team.

After one year at May, Doyle Clawson, following his oil business, uprooted his family again and moved 130 miles west to Big Spring. And it was coach and player back together again.

"It's been a big plus for us to have Paige playing guard for us. I knew she would be a good player because she's played a lot of basketball in her life," said Carmichael. Her parents always made sure she had a ride to the gym and to the summer leagues," he said.

"Counting the summer leagues she's played in, I bet she's started in over 100 games in her career, and it shows."

"She has so much experience, she's very smart and doesn't let the referees or other players bother her. The only thing she has to watch is that she sometimes gets too upset with herself, because she demands so much."

The 5-6 lefty is reaping more success at Big Spring. Her all-around play is one of the obvious reasons the Lady Steers are ranked number nine in the state and sporting a 25-4 record going into Thursday's bi-district clash with number two Canyon.

Clawson averages 12 points and six rebounds per game. She throws in four steals and six assists, indicating her all-around play.

Clawson says when she first saw the rest of her teammates play, she knew the team was championship material. "I really thought we would win district," she said. "This team is much better than the one I played on at May."

She says coach Carmichael hasn't changed much from her freshman year, except perhaps a little less demanding. "When I was at Cross Plains, the bus had to be quiet on road trips and we couldn't even have a radio. Now he lets us listen to tape players. I guess that might be because in Cross Plains all of our games were 10-20 miles away, while here some are over 100 miles. We have to do something," she laughed.

Clawson says the Lady Steers respect Canyon, but don't stand in awe of them. "You have to give them credit, they are good, but we're going to get after them. Pair the players up, talent on talent, and we have a chance. We just can't get nervous and forget how to play."

"That happened to me my freshman year in bi-district. I went out there and it was like I was in shock. I didn't know what to expect. After that I told myself I wasn't ever going to do that again."

Sounds like an experienced player.

Booster bus to Lubbock

Big Spring Lady Steers will be in bi-district basketball playoff action Thursday when they travel to Lubbock to take on Canyon at 7:30 p.m. at Lubbock Coronado High School Gym.

The Lady Steers, 25-4, are ranked number 10 in the state while Canyon, runner-up in District 1-4A, is ranked second in the state and sports a 28-2 record.

The Sports Booster Club is sponsoring a bus to the game. There will be a $2 charge, and you can sign up by calling the high school.

Also, the boosters are encouraging everyone to come to the high school at 3:30 p.m. Thursday to "send off" the Lady Steers.

Stanton clinches playoff spot

The Stanton Buffaloes boys basketball team defeated Big Lake 70-53 Tuesday night, and along with Forsan's loss to Iraan, that clinched a district co-championship.

Stan Young led the Buffaloes with 22 points. Tuesday night Stanton will play Ozona in Rankin at 7 p.m. for the championship. Win or lose, Stanton is assured of a playoff spot.

second half."

Borden County came out smoking in the third quarter. Dominating the boards, Himes scored the first three buckets and the lead was 19-12 with 5:42 remaining. The onslaught continued as Kate Phinizy sank a free throw, Sternadel scored inside on a drive, and Tammy Johnson and Himes scored on offensive rebounds. The rout was on and the Borden County lead was 24-12 with 3:48 left in the quarter.

Two big reasons for Borden County's second half success were rebounding and effective shooting. The Lady Coyotes outrebounded Sanderson 22-8 and shot 57 percent from the floor in the period.

"Our young kids really came through for us," said May. His team will play the winner of the Ft. Davis-Dell City contest. "I felt like we had them outsized, so we tried to get the ball inside and Elana Himes had a very good game."

The Lady Coyotes are now 23-4 overall. Sanderson ends the season with a 12-8 mark.

Bullets blast Lakers on 13th try in L.A.

By The Associated Press
Thirteen proved to be a lucky number for the Washington Bullets.

That's how many consecutive games the Bullets had lost at the Forum in Inglewood, Calif., since Jan. 25, 1976, until they beat the Los Angeles Lakers 114-99 Tuesday night.

"It was the right time to catch them," Washington Coach Kevin Loughery said, referring to the Lakers' victory on Sunday over the Boston Celtics in a battle of the teams with the two best records in the NBA. "They had an emotional game on Sunday and seemed a little flat tonight."

Elsewhere, Atlanta held off Detroit 107-103 and San Antonio defeated Denver 131-126 in overtime.

Moses Malone scored 20 of his 27 points and grabbed 14 of his 19 rebounds in the second half as Washington won for the seventh time in its last nine games, including 4-1 on the current road trip. They trail second-place Philadelphia by one game in the Atlantic Division.

The Bullets trailed 77-67 with five minutes left in the third quarter but tied the game 80-80 with a 13-3 burst. It was still tied early in the fourth quarter when a 13-0 run gave Washington a 101-88 lead.

The Lakers scored the next six points but 101-94 was as close as they could get. Los Angeles lost only their third game at home this season against 22 victories and were held under 100 points for only the third time all season.

"I get fired up to play against Kareem (Abdul-Jabbar) because he's the best," Malone said. "I just hope I can keep playing right along with him until I'm 39 or 40."

Abdul-Jabbar, who turns 40 in April, had 17 points and six rebounds.

Jeff Malone added 19 points for the Bullets and Jay Vincent came off the bench to score 16. James Worthy led the Lakers with 21 points while Earvin "Magic" Johnson and Byron Scott added 20 apiece, although Johnson shot only 7-for-18.

"We wanted to slow the pace down to try to keep Magic from penetrating as much as possible," Moses Malone said. "When he does that they're a tough team to beat. The turning point tonight was when our second unit came in and turned a big deficit into a lead (near the end of the third quarter). After that, the front-liners came in and kept it going. The rest that we got really helped us."

Lakers Coach Pat Riley agreed his team looked somewhat flat.

"Although our spirit was very high in practice yesterday and today, we just didn't apply any of that in the game," he said. "I'm sensing some of that 'coasting' that I saw last season about this time, and it's something we have to stop."

Hawks 107, Pistons 103
Dominique Wilkins says the Hawks can see the light at the top of the Central Division. Wilkins' 35 points helped them snap a two-game losing streak and move within one-half game of Detroit's Central Division leaders.

"In our darkest moment we didn't give up," Wilkins said. "We kept our confidence that we were going to win this game."

Detroit led 91-84 with 7:38 left but the Hawks tied it three times before Glenn Rivers put them ahead to stay 102-101 with 1:38 to go. Randy Wittman hit two free throws, Kevin Willis made one and Wilkins sank two to close out Atlanta's scoring.

The Hawks and Pistons, who have split four games so far this season, play again in Detroit on Saturday.

Spurs 131, Nuggets 126
Alvin Robertson, the NBA's leader in steals, converted one of his patented thefts into a tie-breaking layup with 49 seconds to play in overtime. Robertson got a hand on a Bill Hanzlik pass intended for Darrell Walker, then beat Hanzlik to the ball and drove from mid-court for a slam that put the Spurs ahead 126-124.

The Ames' Jayhawk Jinx continues

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Call it a hex, call it a jinx, call it just plain bad luck. Whatever it is, it continues to keep Kansas Coach Larry Brown from winning at Iowa State.

Brown has made four visits to Iowa State's Hilton Coliseum and each time, his Kansas Jayhawk basketball team has left a loser. Iowa State defeated the 15th-ranked Kansas 95-86 on Tuesday night — only three days after the Cyclones had lost to lowly Colorado.

"I don't think it's a tough place to play," Brown said when asked about his troubles in Ames. "They've played well against us. I don't think we've lost to bad teams. They would have beaten a lot of teams tonight."

In the only other Top 20 game, No. 19 Providence beat Seton Hall 91-87.

A crowd of 14,233 saw Jeff Grayer score 26 points and Tom Schafer pitch in 25 to help Iowa

State snap a three-game losing streak and win for only the second time in the last eight games.

It was reminiscent of last season, when a fast-breaking, free-wheeling Iowa State team was 13-0 at home en route to a school-record 22 victories and a spot in the final 16 of the NCAA tournament.

"My guys really played super. That's the first time I've seen 'em play like they did last year," said Iowa State Coach Johnny Orr, whose team overcame a 30-point effort by Kansas' Danny Manning.

"They really had intensity; they really went after it. It was a great win on our part. If we could just get that going every game like that, we could beat anybody."

The trouble is, Iowa State always hasn't played that way and that's why the Cyclones are 12-12 now and only 4-7 in the Big Eight Conference.

But Orr said he knew long before the game that his team was ready on Tuesday.

"They hadn't won up here and we felt we could beat 'em," he said. "You've just got to be around our guys to know how that is. In practice, we really went at it and did a good job. Today in shooting practice everybody was calm and tonight in the locker room, they were ready to go."

"You knew they were going to go; you just didn't know if they were going to be good enough to do it. But you knew they were going to play well and play hard."

The Cyclones ran off eight straight points to take a 12-9 lead five minutes into the game and they never trailed after that.

Iowa State continually beat Kansas down the floor and rebounded well under its own basket, scoring 20 points after grabbing offensive rebounds or tipping in missed shots.

The Cyclones led 46-38 at halftime, and with Grayer and Schafer combining for 16 of their team's 18 points during one stretch, increased the lead to 84-65 with 6:11 left.

"I have a lot of respect for Iowa State and Coach Orr and I understand what they've been going through," Brown said. "At the same time, I would have liked to come in here and feel we played as hard as we could have. We never talk to the kids about winning and losing, only about playing hard and we didn't play hard enough tonight."

Kansas still leads the Big Eight, but just barely. The Jayhawks are 8-3 in the conference — half a game ahead of Oklahoma and Missouri, both of whom play tonight. The Jayhawks are 19-7 overall.

Kansas made a run at the end, cutting Iowa State's lead to 86-75 on reserve Jeff Gueldner's 3-point basket with 3:13 left and getting it down to 91-84 on a 3-pointer by Mark Turgeon with 30 seconds.

Amy Cladorn, averaging 14 points per game.

"They are so well schooled in the fundamentals," said Carmichael of Canyon. "They have been winning since the seventh grade and have had good coaching all the way up."

"One of the main keys is for our guards Paige Clawson and Katrina Thompson to get the ball down the court against their press. We must avoid having two to three turnovers in a row. That's what Canyon does: they keep the pressure on you, get you to make consecutive turnovers and then turn the game into a blowout."

Lombard says the key for his team is stopping Clawson and foward Teresa Pruitt. Clawson averages 12 points per game, while Pruitt averages 23 points and 12 rebounds per outing.

BUZZER BEATER

tipped in his missed shot. Iraan called time, and Forsan celebrated.

The clock said :01, but the ref said :03 was what it should read. That proved to be enough time for Flores to hit the game winner.

"That part bothers me (the two seconds)," said Forsan coach R.L. Coates. "Because the officiating should be official. But the kid made a terrific shot. We thought we had him defended," said Coates.

He added, however, that he saw a second on the clock when Flores lofted his shot, and that the added seconds "didn't make a tremendous difference one way or another."

He did say that he would miss his seniors. Of his top six players, only Bryan and Nichols will return.

"I have all the praise in the world for those kids. I wish I had them all back," Coates said.

Forsan finishes at 15-12 overall and 8-5 in district.

SUN COUNTRY'S TIPS TO SELLING A HOME IN A DOWN MARKET
Tip #2
A seller must realize that his home is in competition with many other homes and it is an agent's responsibility to help the seller understand that his or her home is literally in a race with other homes for that buyers attention, interest, desire and money. The seller and agent must also realize that the "competition" comes from those houses that are selling, not those that are still on the market.

Hawks pound upstart Chaps

Juan Rodriguez slaps three homers in 'history making game'

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

The Vernon Chapparals came into Big Spring Saturday with an 0-0 record. That included this year, last year, and all the years between Abner Doubleday and 1987.

Now that the Chaps have discovered baseball, they've also tasted defeat. The host Howard College Hawks hit five home runs to win the opener 12-7, and outscored the Chaps 13-2 in the caper before the game was halted by the 10-run rule.

The wind howled at Jack Barber Field, and the umpire had to halt action once as Vernon pitcher Dwayne Browning chased his hat. In addition to hats and hair, Howard hit baseballs were flying as well, Juan Rodriguez's in particular.

The big freshman from New York blasted three homers in his first three at bats, dashing any hopes the Chaps may have had for first time glory.

"They didn't respect me. They shouldn't have been throwing me fast balls," Rodriguez said.

His first homer stopped rolling about 500-feet from home plate, and his third round-tripper was something of a shot too. The big slugger did concede that homer number two might have been a pop out without the wind.

The Hawks led 4-0 after one inning, but the Chaps rebounded with the first two runs of their history in the second. Let the record say that Mark Pfaff, at approximately 2 p.m., scored the Chaps first ever run on a fielder's choice from a sharply hit grounder by teammate Ricky Castenada.

The Hawks' Thad Weber led off the second inning with a homer, and moments later Rodriguez hit number two. Howard College led 7-2 after two innings.

Howard Landry, a sophomore from Louisiana, settled down after the second, and surrendered just one more Vernon run in the next three innings. Ted Hebert, in relief, gave up the last four Chap runs. Landry struck out six and Hebert fanned three.

The Hawks capped their scoring with four runs in the fourth. Rodriguez homered, Randy Deal went to first after being hit by a pitch, and Frank Medina came to the plate. The San Antonio native rocked a pitch to left center that cleared the fence. Three batters later, Thad Weber slammed a double to score Chad Baker, who had walked.

The Hawks finished with 14 hits and Landry got the win. The Chaps had nine hits, including a history making two-run homer by Johnny Almandarez. Browning, and we hate to belabor the issue, suffered the history making loss.

In the second game, Mark Hutchinson gave up four hits and two runs to get the win. Mike Nariaz suffered the loss for Vernon. The game was halted in the bottom of the fifth when the Hawks built a 13-2 lead and the 10-run rule took effect.

Rodriguez and Medina cooled off in the second game, but Ernesto Castro and Joel Chimelis provided plenty of fire power. Castro went two for four, including two rbi's and three runs. Chimelis added two runs batted in and two runs scored.

Hawks' coach Bill Griffin was glad to have finally started the season.

"It was our first game. We made some mistakes, but overall I was pleased. We have had some excellent weather and they had progressed to where they needed to play somebody," Griffin said.

The Hawks and Chaps play again today, with the opener starting at 1 p.m. Weber and Castro will start for Howard.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

We're the Paint Problem Solvers

TAKE A LOOK — Bring your plans for a home improvement project to Industrial Park Hardware, 613 Warehouse Road, and put together all the supplies you need from their complete stock.

Well planned projects begin at Industrial Park Hardware

With today's changing lifestyles and tastes, people are spending more time and money on home remodeling.

If it's handled as a do-it-yourself project, you can save some of that time and money by shopping for all your supplies at one place — Industrial Park Hardware, an independently-owned Trustworthy Hardware Store.

Industrial Park Hardware handles a full line of electrical and plumbing supplies, paint, nuts, bolts, screws, specialty hardware, hardwood plywood, hardwood lumber and Alcoa building products.

The store handles Trustworthy Paint in a full line of finishes.

Because of its association with Bob's Custom Woodwork, the store can offer furniture or woodwork refinishing; cabinet lumber not available anywhere else in this area; and special trims for cabinets and paneling.

Industrial Park Hardware stocks plywood in 1/8-, 1/4- and 3/4-inch thicknesses in ash, oak, birch, whitewood and mahogany.

The firm has stripping products and veneers for the do-it-yourselfers. Specialty hardware includes a line of standard pulls, catches and shelf standards; hard-to-find hardware for furniture repair, trunks, chests and other antique pieces; drawer guides and slides.

For kitchen organization, Kitchen Aid's line of lazy susans, sink pull outs and cookbook racks are available.

The store also is distributor of Alcoa Building Products, including siding, roofing, trims, soffit and fascia, aluminum, cedar shake roofing, carport and patio covers — all of which eliminate costly painting.

Store hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at your authorized Trustworthy Hardware Store, Industrial Park Hardware, located at 613 Warehouse Road. The store is owned and operated by Jan and Bob Noyes, whose years of experience can provide you with a lot of good advice on your projects.
