Slick Moves Closer

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—Runaway Mexican oil that is threatening Texas coastal industries and recreation continued inching toward U.S. waters today.

A Coast Guard spokesman said late Tuesday that the northern most evidence of the massive oil spill was a thin shean spotted 60 miles south of U.S. waters and about 35 miles offshore.

Richard Griggs said the surface shean "doesn't represent too much oil."

Griggs said the northern most patch of oil was 100 miles south of U.S. waters and some 20 miles offshore.

The oil is still spewing from a blown-out Mexican well from the Bay of Campeche. The well has been gushing up to a million barrels of oil a day since the June 3 blowout.

Chagra Trial Opens

AUSTIN (AP)—Jimmy Chagra, a Las Vegas gambler charged by federal authorities with managing an interstate drug operation, goes on trial today before a judge who took the case after his predecessor was gunned down in San Antonio.

Stricter than usual security was imposed on the federal courthouse. Guards planned to search briefcases and purses, and the U.S. marshal brought in extra deputies from out of town.

U.S. District Judge William Sessions, who took the case after the assassination of Judge John H. Wood Jr. May 29, earlier turned down Chagra's plea for a delay.

Couple Plead Guilty

SALEM, Mass. (AP)—A brother and sister who married after growing up in separate families pleaded guilty to an incest charge today in Essex Superior Court.

David Goddu, 22, and Victoria Pittorino, 24, who married in May, were placed on probation under the condition that they seek counseling. Their marriage is considered null by the state.

Football season actually started a month later this year than it did a few seasons back, but with temperatures in the high 90s it was difficult to work up much enthusiasm for the Hall of Fame game between the Dallas Cowboys and Oakland Raiders last Saturday --- that is, unless you had a powerful air conditioner and disregarded the 78-80-degree guidelines.

Still, those of us who report to our places of employment in the earlier hours of the morning have noticed that the season is changing rapidly. The sun is rising later and later, minute-by-minute, which means that a touch of autumn will be in the air soon.

So far, it has been a good year weather-wise. There has been moisture for the crops and ranges, Lake Thomas has been rejufenated and the landscape is green as we head into August.

The recuperative powers of this section of the country are amazing. We recall the stubborn drought of the early 50s when the arrival of August presented a landscape that was mostly light brown, or even white. Not only were the grass and weeds gone, but there was a generous coating of alkali dust on nearly everything in sight.

There were predictions that it would take this country several years to recover from this onslaught of rainless weather. Yet, when the rains came, the greenery returned as if by magic.

Today's environmentalists would have been in a state of shock if they had seen West Texas in those days. And they probably would not have believed that it was possible for recovery to come so quickly. Neither do most people around here. It doesn't take Mother Nature long to heal her wounds if given the proper treatment, and in this country, that means rain. Also, it doesn't take Mother Nature long to reclaim a piece of land if it is left undisturbed.

Getting back to the progress of the season, National Barbecue Week begins tomorrow, we are advised It is not the true beginning of a week, of course, but apparently those promoting it wanted to be sure that National Barbecue Week included a full weekend.

Farm Bureau Man Says...

Property Owners Should Determine Their Taxes

Property taxes must be determined by those people who own property, said Bill Wedemeyer, director of research and education for the Texas Farm Bureau.

Wedemeyer spoke at the Farm Bureau's annual barbecue dinner last night at the coliseum.

He said that government feeds as a parasite off the people, but that people can control it if they choose to, using the Farm Bureau as a tool.

"Government is the only monopoly in the country; there is no other. Government is a taker, it has nothing to give you," Wedemyer said.

If all the tax money in government programs in Texas were distributed, Wedemeyer said, there would be $1,600 for every man, woman and child in Texas.

The best kind of tax is no tax, he said. Wedemeyer defined inflation as the government spending more money than it takes from the taxpayer.

"Inflation is the cruelest tax in the world," he said.

He said Texans must see that taxes are uniform and equal.

Under the recently passed Senate Bill 621, which establishes a central appraisal office in each county, Wedemeyer said that the suitable tax program in each taxing district would depend on Texans' ability to cooperate with tax administrators.

Wedemeyer outlined eight basic principles of government. They included the belief and trust in God, the importance of the individual, the right of freedom and the dignity of work.

He also emphasized the importance of private ownership of property and the necessity of profit motive and free competition. Finally, Wedemeyer said the government is a protector, not a provider.

If Americans surrender authority to a centralized body, they give up their freedom, Wedemeyer said.

He stressed the key words "cooperation" and "production." "Taxes are not a gift but a redistribution of wealth. You can't live with them unless you have control over them."

Says Clements...

SALT Treaty Needs Amending

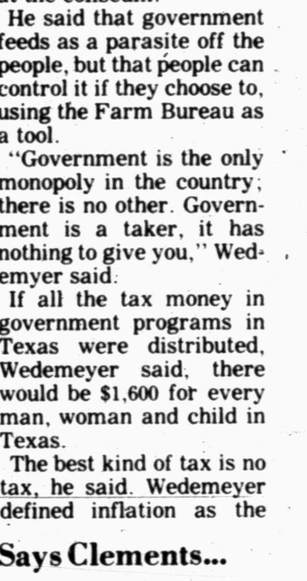

WASHINGTON (AP)—The proposed Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty accomodates the Soviet Union and should not be ratified without amendments, Texas Gov. Bill Clements told a Senate committee Tuesday.

"We are indeed the world's strongest nation with military capability only a part of the matrix," the former deputy secretary of defense testified. "But it is our military capability that is falling behind and that is what is fundamentally wrong with this SALT treaty."

Clements said he supported nuclear arms limitation treaties, but the SALT agreement as written would place the nation squarely in an underdog's role.

"We will lose credibility," he said. "This treaty will be destabilizing because our allies will question our basic strengths."

The governor said the United States' military capability has declined in the past two and a half years.

GOP Leader Says...

Chances Good For Profits Tax

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter, back from a trip to the grassroots he said gave him "a much clearer sense of what this nation is, what its problems are," asked Republican congressional leaders today to support his proposed "windfall" oil profits tax.

Senate GOP Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee said he told Carter at a breakfast meeting in the White House that "the chances of getting a windfall profits tax enacted are very good, indeed."

However, Baker said the president and the Republican leadership are not in agreement on the distribution of the revenue from the proposed tax on oil companies.

The Republicans advocate taxing only those profits that are not plowed back into efforts to develop new energy sources.

Baker said he thought a compromise was possible. "You don't have to have a 100 percent plowback," he told reporters.

The senator also praised Carter for making an effort to open regular communication with congressional Republicans.

The president's nine-hour trip Tuesday to the lush green hills of Kentucky also brought him campaign-like acclaim in the small, whiskey-making city of Bardstown, where he held his first U.S. "town meeting" in four months.

And before heading back to Washington, the president made a surprise trip to a tiny Indiana town struck by severe floods last week. He had declared the area a disaster area before departing Washington.

Ask Us

Q—How come gasoline prices haven't risen as fast here as in most places?

A—Presumably the distributors are following the federal guidelines in setting gasoline prices, but reports indicate that they may vary considerable over the state on a given day and prices in Snyder have been a few cents below some other areas recently. However, a wholesaler advised that another increase is expected here momentarily. So, it appears that no area can expect an advantage for very long.

JACK PRESSWOOD

BILL HARTSFIELD

Two Posts In Schools Filled

Administrative vacancies in the Snyder High School and Junior High School have been filled, subject to board ratification, Jack Gorman, assistant superintendent for personnel and administration, has announced.

Jack Presswood, 43, principal of Merkel High School for the past three years, is scheduled to be the new high school vice principal, while Bill Hartsfield, high school physical education instructor, is due to move into the vice principal's post at the junior high school.

Presswood submitted his resignation to the board at Merkel last night. He is a graduate of Abilene High School, received the bachelor of science degree at Hardin-Simmons University, the master of arts degree at Sul Ross State University and has done graduate work at Tarleton State University and at Abilene Christian University.

Before going to Merkel, Presswood taught in Odessa for five years, served as junior high principal at Comanche for three years and as high school principal at Comanche for seven years. His wife, Margaret, has been employed as an elementary school reading consultant in the Snyder system.

Hartsfield, 50, has been associated with Snyder Public Schools since 1955. He has served as a teacher and coach at both the junior high and high school levels here, having coached teams in basketball and football and served as varsity track coach at the high school.

He received the bachelor of science degree from Howard Payne University and the master of education degree from Southwest Texas State University of Houston and at Texas Tech University.

Hartsfield began his career in public education at San Angelo and taught and coached at Magnolia before coming to Snyder.

Presswood fills the vacancy created when Ray Courtney was named high school principal, while Hartsfield succeeds John Gary, who was named athletic director.

If He Will Pay The Price...

House Ready To Grant Carter Rationing Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House is ready to give President Carter the gas-rationing authority he wants, but only at a price he may be unwilling to pay - repeal of part of his month-old mandatory thermostat-setting program.

The House was meeting today to complete action on the rationing lesgislation after giving the president the latest in a long string of unwelcome energy surprises late Tuesday.

The rationing bill's floor manager, Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., says adoption of the thermostat-law rollback has added new controversy to the legislation and again put its passage in jeopardy.

And leaders are no longer as optimistic that the legislation can be placed on the president's desk by the end of the week - the start of the month-long congressional summer recess.

The apparent rationing victory the House gave the president Tuesday night was short-lived. It was followed up by a 267-152 vote to repeal the law championed by Carter requiring commercial buildings to set their thermostats at no less than 78 degrees in the summer and no more than 65 degrees in winter.

That law has been in force only since July 1, but member after member took the floor of the House - itself held at an energy-saving 78 degrees - to complain about how uncomfortable Americans have been under the law.

Under the amendment by Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie, R-Ohio, buildings could be exempt from the temperature control law if utility bills - or other documentary evidence - could be produced to show that an equivalent amount of energy had been saved through other means.

Dingell said there's no question about the White House position on the amendment - it's opposed.

"We tried to stop it but there was nothing we could do," Dingell said. It's just another example of the House approving something it didn't understand."

a huge task ahead

Writing for the Oil and Gas Suppliers Digest, William C. Douce states that the petroleum industry in this country faces three broad challenges as it attempts to meet the increasing energy needs of a vigorous, growing country - a technological challenge; a geopolitical challenge and a domestic political challenge.

Douce is president and chief operating officer of Phillips Petroleum Co.

Douce reminds his readers that the era of the oil surplus has come to an end, which creates the technological challenge.

The desirable light, sweeter crudes are in tight supply, while demands for the light products such as gasoline continue to grow.

As a result, according to Douce, refiners must turn increasingly to the more abundant heavy crudes to meet demands for lighter products.

To deal with the situation, refiners will have to put increasing emphasis on upgrading heavy crude fractions, developing superior catalysts, maximizing the yield of high octane components, removing metals and nitrogen and achieving more efficient desulfurization.

Douce says the time has come to accelerate substitute feedstocks, such as liquids from coal and oil from shale.

The oil picture involves so many more faces than it did a few years ago. Then only a handful of nations and a small group of international oil companies were involved in the production of oil.

Now we are faced with a geopolitical challenge - the challenge of international relations.

A new world order has emerged. The oil-exporting nations are asserting their national pride and are controlling the production of their reserves. They are driving hard bargains with the oil companies and with the energy-starved countries.

For the oil industry, says Douce, the essense of future relationships with oil-exporting countries lies in providing a service to them in exchange for access to their crude oil.

Obviously, our government must convince the oil-rich nations that a stable economy in the West is in the best interests of all concerned. After all, the key oil-exporting countries have significent investments in the West.

The domestic political challenge is a matter of great concern to Douce.

Some positive steps have been taken in this area recently, the writer says, foremost among them being President Carter's decision to begin the gradual removal of price controls on domestically produced crude oil.

By phasing out price controls, according to Douce, Carter acknowledged that artificially low prices on domestic crude oil has encouraged consumption and discouraged production. Controls have, in, effect, he says, made us more dependent on foreign oil.

Douce also states that, no matter how the windfall tax question is settled, rebuilding America's base will be a monumental undertaking, one in which the technological, geopolitical and domestic challenges must constantly intersect.

cyrogenics exciting

Cryogenics is the science and technological application of very low temperatures, near the range of absolute zero, which is minus 459 degrees Fahrenheit. Such temperatures are best achieved and maintained through the use of liquid helium.

The science of cryogenics has been emerging from academic precincts to important discoveries and significant applications in the business and industrial world.

For instance, certain substances at such extremely low temperatures become superconductors of electricity, offering no resistance at all. This field has been expanding rapidly.

A possibility is cyclotrons or other nuclear accelerators of vest-pocket size and of little weight. Hugely improved electro-magnets make possible the conversion of heat into electricity by a process more efficient and more practical than any previously known.

There are other possibilities in cryogenics too complex for mere laymen to understand, and the science is in its infancy. There will be many unpredictable benefits in years to come, with many potential applications in the energy field.

PHOENIX, ARIZ.—One hundred sixteen degrees ... I live in the Sun Belt.

It's a section of the United States that is so named because the area escapes severe winters and has an abundance of sunshine.

We are having an abundance of sunshine now. To spell it out for you, I haven't been able to cross my legs at the knee since the last of May.

For some time I have felt that those of us who live in this part of the country are misunderstood and much maligned. We have the worst of all worlds.

When the East and Mideast are suffering through the brutal winters, no one is interested that we are having good weather. It's depressing and considered bad taste to talk about it. When we are suffering through agonizing heat waves and droughts, no one cares.

During the snowstorms last year in the East our papers were filled with stories of sacrifice, hardship, and devastation. During our summer, we get an occasional page-one picture of a blonde with three ounces of clothing on her back) (none on her front) frying an egg on the side. No one looks at the egg.

Have you ever heard anyone ask Johnny Carson, "How HOT was it?" Absolutely not.

Elections are won and lost over the ability to clear roads after a snowstorm, but have you ever heard of a mayor being defeated because she couldn't handle "sweat"?

If any of you has an ounce of charity for your fellow person, you will indulge me while I share with you an Arizona summer.

It's where a woman puts on a pair of oven mitts so she can touch her steering wheel.

It's where you go to a Little League game and have it called "due to lightness."

It's where a bride watches her wedding ring melt and wonders if she's still married.

Where deodorant ads are considered fiction.

Where you cultivate fat friends so you'll always be around shade.

A reader just sent me a clipping on things that are "in" and "chic." According to the story, "sweating profusely" is definitely "in."

No one should be allowed to have this much "style."

a bad omen

NEW YORK (AP)—The big, 3.8 percent decline in second-quarter productivity, or output per hour of work, is an omen of more bad news to come. Of continued inflation, of layoffs, to name two likelihoods.

The inflation we have come to expect; the layoffs will be something new in the miserable sequence of events that attend an economy trying to regain some of its lost equilibrium.

Among the immediate signs of a downturn is a fall in productivity, said Courtenay Slater, Commerce Department chief economist last Monday. Then comes the slightly delayed reaction: the layoffs

There is an explanation for this. When sales begin to slow, for example, many companies are caught with a full complement of workers. Unwilling to believe the slowdown is permanent, they retain them.

A common reaction at this point is to disbelieve. The executive office lays plans to spur lagging sales through promotion and advertising campaigns. It's already happening with cars.

But at the same time, they must cut production. As a consequence, the ratio of man-hours to production changes; less product is made in relation to the hours worked. Productivitiy measurements drop.

Industry reacts by cutting overtime. The downturn continues and marginal workers lose their jobs. In all industries, the unskilled and part-timers go first. Production line workers follow very quickly.

In the past, white collar workers were the last to get their pink slips, but that may have changed. Companies now recognize better than ever that administrative and executive staffs can hide lots of fat.

As the cutbacks continue, the productivity decline slows. By the time it is understood that business will be poor for a period of months, maybe many months, industry will have gone on a cost-cutting binge.

At the same time, prices and interest rates will have fallen or the rates of increase will have slowed. Customers become tempted again, and sales build. Workers trickle back to jobs. Recovery is under way.

At this early point in the recovery the rate of productivity builds quickly. Generally, many of the most skilled and efficient - the most highly productive - are rehired first. And they are in a working mood. As less productive workers are added, the strains on productivity reappear. Less efficient production puts upward pressure on prices that, if not contained, leads to a wage-price inflation spiral.

The message is there:

When productivity falls very sharply it usually means the economy's growth is slowing - or is right on the verge of doing so - and that industry will react with cutbacks, especially in the work force.

The White House expects the rate - 5.5 percent in June--to rise to 6.9 percent in the final quarter of 1980. The Congressional Budget office anticipates 7.2 percent by late 1980. And some private sector forecasters believe 8 percent by election time is probable.

Based on the relatively optimistic White House estimates, 7 million would be unemployed by the November 1980 election, or 1.3 million more than in this past June.

A horsepower is the power needed to lift 33,000 pounds a distance of one foot in one minute.

Bridegrooms are being gypped.

Perhaps the least understood and most mistreated member of the wedding party, the bridegroom plays a minor role in what should be one of the biggest performances of his life.

It starts with costume. The traditional bride parades down the aisle in a costly gown, beaming upon all her admirers.

Meanwhile the groom waits up front, clad in a tailored, but rather dull, tuxedo or suit. The bride carries an expensive, fragrant bouquet, while her husband boasts only a small, insignificant boutonniere.

As the newly wed couple leave the church, all eyes are on the radiant bride, not the dowdy bridegroom.

The reception is more of the same. "bride's table" sports a fancy cake, a hugh white concoction of sugar flowers and delicately balanced tiers. The groom's table holds only a rather ordinary chocolate cake or other run-of-the-mill pastry.

The groom's abuse doesn't just involved the wedding, either. How many husbands-to-be ever have showers given in their honor? I bet there's a lot of men out there who could use new lingerie, cooking utensils or blankets and sheets.

After enduring an engagement when he's forgotten and a wedding ceremony in which he's unimportant, the groom faces the final insult: a gaily decorated "just married" car smeared with shoe polish and strung with silly cans that make more noise than a malfunctioning muffler.

The time has come for bridegrooms to rebel, to organize and draw up a list of rights. Number one on the list might be "flashier wedding attire." Other possibilities could include a demand for coed bridal showers.

With women finally acquiring more equal status with men, it's only fair that the male population should ask for a bigger part in their marriage ceremonies.

donald f. graff

What with the politically traumatic reshuffling of administration personnel and policy priorities of recent weeks, a once-hot issue seems to have gotten lost in the Washington shuffle.

That is the states-initiated proposal for a constitutional amendment requiring the federal government to balance its budget every fiscal year. No more debt-increasing, inflation-feeding deficits.

Remember that one? Around the turn of the year it loomed as one of the larger features on the political horizon, a cloud as big as a budget-cutter's fist that had both White House and Congress in a bit of a sweat.

That was, of course, before the realization that there really is an energy crisis (whether of supply or distribution) got all of us into a much heavier sweat. The gasoline line began to look suspiciously like a permanent new feature of the national lifestyle, congressional hoppers overflowed with proposals for crash development of synthetic fuels and Jimmy Carter descended from the mount with a sermon and the financial equivalent of war, a $142 billion energy plan to deliver us from OPEC bondage by 1990.

It is pure coincidence but curiously appropriate that these should be the developments to divert attention from the budget balancing campaign.

What has the constitutional amendment proposal got to do with the energy crisis? Plenty, if under present circumstances only in an academic sense, since the latter provides a good illustration of the flaws of the former.

A Congress with many minds of its own on the subject has still to act on the Carter plan. But even if the administration should get roughly what it wants in the way of legislation, that is no guarantee that the attack on the energy shortage will work out as planned.

The cost of achieving energy independence is supposed to be met by the proposed windfall profit tax on the oil companies. The yield from such a recycling of corporate dollars, however, can be only a guess at this point. And skeptical analysts, supported by the nation's previous experience with crash federal problem-solving efforts, foresee cost overruns that could raise the pricetag to $200 billion or more.

It should surprise no one, least of all the budget planners, if in the end a considerable-to-major portion of the funding of an energy program had to be come directly from the Treasury. And that, short of slashing such big spenders as defense to the bone or resorting to confiscatory taxation, could only mean continuing and increasing budget deficits.

And that would be impossible under the proposed amendment.

There is a strong case for a tighter rein on federal spending in general and on deficits in particular. Spending, absorbing an increasing share of the national product, can retard economic growth. Deficits too easily become standard budgeting procedure, fueling - an appropriate word in the present context - inflation.

But a constitutionally binding requirement to balance the budget would raise more problems than it would solve, depriving the government of the fiscal flexibility necessary to meet emergency situations such as we presently face with energy.

The framers of the Constitution, not noted as spendthrifts, chose not to limit the federal authority in this area. Of course, they could not foresee in detail how the nation they founded would develop, what its budget practices and energy demands would be two centuries later. What they could not foresee, they did not provide for.

That they did not attempt to do so testifies not to any lack of imagination of willingness to address a problem, but to their wisdom.

Oriental Steak Offers Change For Hot Weather Appetites

Hot weather tends to smother appetites and provide more interesting diversions than food. To lure the family to the table for a nourishing dinner, prepare a main dish of oriental flavor. A braised beef blade steak will stimulate appetites explains Reba Staggs, meat expert for the National Livestock and Meat Board, especially when seasoned with soy sauce, bead molasses, onion, bamboo shoots, celery and pimento.

Oriental Blade Steak

1 beef blade steak, cut 1 inch thick
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 teaspoon bead molasses
2 medium-sized onions, sliced
1 beef bouillon cube
½ cup hot water
1 can (5 oz.) bamboo shoots, drained
¼ cup sliced celery
¼ cup chopped pimento
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons cold water

Brown steak in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add salt, soy sauce, bead molasses and onion. Dissolve bouillon in hot water. Add to meat. Cover tightly and cook over low heat 1½ hours. Add bamboo shoots and celery. Cover tightly and continue cooking 30 minutes or until meat is tender. Remove meat to heated platter. Add pimento to cooking liquid. Mix cornstarch and cold water and add to cooking liquid to thicken, stirring constantly until clear. 3 to 4 servings.

Broiled Beef Burgers Sport Several Surprises

True enjoyment of summer includes broiling beefburgers on the porch or patio. Patties broil to the same juicy and delicious doneness whether a hibachi or larger grill is used.

For a special burger treat to celebrate summer and delight the family, hide a cube of caraway seed cheese in the center of each patty, suggests Reba Staggs, home economist for the National Livestock and Meat Board. For additional flavor appeal, burgers are brushed with a tangy catsup sauce.

Caraway Beef Patties

Shred 2 slices of rye bread and mix with one-third cup water. Combine with 1½ pounds ground beef, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper and 1 beaten egg. Shape mixture into 12 thin patties using about ¼ cup mixture for each.

Cut in half each of 3 slices (4 x 7-inches) caraway seed cheese and arrange the 6 slices in a stack. Make 3 cuts through cheese to make pieces about 2 inches square. Place a stack of 4 cheese squares on each of 6 patties. Top with remaining patties and press edges together. Combine one-third cup catsup, 1 teaspoon soy sauce, prepared mustard and lemon juice.

To broil outdoors, place patties on grill 3 inches from heat. Broil 3 minutes, turn, brush with catsup mixture and broil second side 3 minutes. Turn, brush with mixture, broil 3 minutes, turn and broil until patties are done. 6 servings.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

The bidding was optimistic. South had a reasonable opening bid. West should be commended for not overcalling two hearts because of his limited high-card points, dull distribution and unfavorable vulnerability. North felt it was his duty to bid two clubs with 10 high-card points, South jumped to three spades despite his minimum opening bid and game was reached.

After the king of hearts won the first trick, West realized he had to switch because partner played a low heart and he, West, did not want to establish dummy's queen of hearts. He switched to a diamond at trick two.

Declarer won East's king of diamonds with his ace and led the king of spades, which was won by West's ace. West continued diamonds, which South won. South then drew two rounds of trump and finessed clubs, the queen losing to the king.

East returned a heart which was ruffed by South, who then played his remaining trump and damond winners. When he led his last winner in a three-card ending, North was down to the heart queen and the ace-nine of clubs. West was forced to pitch a club in front of the dummy in order to save his heart ace, and declarer threw the now useless queen of hearts away.

Declarer led a club at trick 12 and West played low. Declarer knew that West's remaining card was the ace of hearts and that a finesse for the jack of clubs could not possibly succeed. He therefore played the ace of clubs and made the contract when the jack dropped.

North-South's aggressive bidding was vindicated by expert card play, helped by the knowledge that West had shown the ace of hearts at trick one.

Lawns contribute much to a better environment, contends a landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Plants not only provide beauty but also help remove many undesirable products in the air. They use up carbon dioxide while giving off pure oxygen. In addition plants serve as a cooling system by releasing water and absorbing much less of the sun's heat than buildings and pavement.

Dear Abby

Daddy Won't Buy Her Bottom Line

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: As the father of an intelligent, well-developed 17-year-old daughter, I would like your opinion on a matter that troubles me.

Lisa wear short shorts that are just about as short as shorts can get. To be even more specific, a good portion of her shapely rear end is exposed to public view. It wouldn't be quite so offensive at the beach; but when she walks around the shopping center in high heels with half her behind showing, I must object. My wife agrees with me.

I voiced my disapproval to Lisa, and she informed me that it's the accepted mode of dress these days for her generation, and furthermore, my prudishness amazed her.

What do you say, Abby? Sign me . . .

OUT OF WORDS

DEAR OUT: Inform Lisa that it may be the accepted mode of dress these days for her generation, but her Southern exposure is offensive to yours. And to please show a little more consideration—and a little less cheek.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to a letter from JOHN who complained because his name is synonymous with a toilet, a hooker's customer, and a "Dear John" letter saying, "It's all over, so get lost."

Well, my name is Mary. And my name, too, has been abused. For example, "Lazy Mary, won't you get up," "Mary, Mary, quite contrary," "Bloody Mary," and don't forget that suggestion that "we all make Mary."

Yes, I know there is a song stating that "Mary" is a grand old name, but that doesn't help.

Sign me . . .

"RATHER BE SUSIE" IN OREGON

DEAR ABBY: I'm 33, married to a wonderful man, and we have two fine children. So what's my problem?

I eloped at 16 and never had a wedding, which is the one big regret in my life.

My husband and I are going to Las Vegas for a vacation soon and I understand there are places where couples can get married in a church-like setting. I am told they have beautiful chapels, filled with flowers, and they even have someone to perform the ceremony. Furthermore, you can rent a lovely wedding gown and tux, and have regular wedding pictures taken.

I want to know if you think I'm crazy to want a really beautiful wedding, Abby. My dream is to have a picture of myself as a bride in a real wedding gown.

I am embarrassed and ashamed to ask my husband what he thinks of my secret wish, but if you reply I will show him your letter, unless you think the whole idea is completely nuts. Sign me . . .

SENTIMENTAL IN TEXAS

DEAR SENTIMENTAL: I don't think the idea is nuts. It's lovely. Since you are already married, why not have your marriage vows renewed in that lovely Vegas chapel. Five will get you 10 that your husband will agree to it. I hope so.

CONFIDENTIAL TO F.S. IN ARLINGTON, VA.: True, a new broom sweeps clean. But the old broom knows where the dirt is.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Jury Selection In Davis Trial Still Underway

FORT WORTH (AP)—Prosecutors were prepared today to resume questioning of 65 prospective jurors that remain in the murder conspiracy trial of millionaire Cullen Davis.

The panel of 65 was seated Tuesday after State District Judge Gordon Gray dismissed 10 more prospects who said they had formed an opinion in the case. Monday, he dismissed 30 persons who said their feelings as the Davis' guilt or innocence would influence their verdict.

Gray said he hoped 32 "qualified" jurors could be found among the remaining 65 prospects, but conceded it would take at least a week to do so.

Prosecutors completed individual examinations of six prospects on Tuesday. Three were excused for cause.

After the state ends its questioning, the defense, led by Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, will conduct its interrogation.

Once the 32 are agreed upon, prosecutors and defense attorneys will "strike" 10 each. The surviving 12 will form the jury for a trial some say could extend until Christmas.

Fort Worth industrialist Davis, 45, is accused of masterminding a summertime 1978 murder-for-hire scheme involving his divorce judge, Joe Eidson.

Eidson, who was not harmed, masqueraded as the victim of a contract killer as part of an FBI scenario that led to Davis' arrest Aug. 20.

The case was transferred to Houston last fall and then back to Fort Worth after the Houston jury deadlocked 8-4 for conviction and mistrial was declared Jan. 22.

The defense contends Davis was framed by his ex-wife Priscilla and others.

Chief prosecutor Jack Strickland addressed the panel of 65 Tuesday afternoon and then launched into individual questioning of the prospective jurors.

He told the group the indictment against Davis alleges both solicitation and conspiracy to commit capital murder, first degree felonies punishable by a maximum sentence of life in prison.

Haynes objected vehemently when Strickland said the indictment alleged Davis conspired to "assassinate Joe Eidson, to have him killed for money."

Haynes argued against use of the word "assassinate," but was overruled.

Later, Haynes succeeded in blocking Strickland from discussing the Houston trial.

Ira Boosters Pick Saturday For Workday

The Ira Booster Club will hold a workday Saturday for the construction of new bleachers at the Ira football field. Work will begin at 8 a.m.

"Anyone who can weld, run a cement mixer, push a wheelbarrow or help carry materials come help us in this project," said Mrs. Gary Fox.

The ladies plan to see that everyone has plenty to eat and drink at lunch and all through the day, she said.

"Everyone interested in the Ira community who can donate some time Saturday is urged to attend," she said.

In 1975, an average of 11.2 cigarettes a day were produced for every person in the United States over the age of 18, reports the U.S. Federal Trade Commission.

Money Coming By Mail To Old Lady Shoplifter

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP)—One man sent a $700 check; another mailed $100 in cash. Some sent a $1 bill with no return address. Several mailed checks for $15.04 - the exact value of the food destitute 91-year-old Mattie Schultz was jailed for stealing last week.

Contributions for Mrs. Schultz are pouring in from across the nation. A total of $2,300 was received Monday and Lorraine Wernert, president of the senior citizens group coordinating the fund, estimated Tuesday that the total would reach $7,000.

An Illinois man scrawled on a scrap of paper, "I hope this helps. No one should have to steal to survive in the U.S.A." The note was clipped to a $700 check.

"God bless you," wrote an unidentified woman who mailed a $1 bill.

The national attention, however, has done more than generate contributions. It's also soiled San Antonio's image, said Mayor Lila Cockrell, who has launched an investigation into why Night Magistrate Mary Elizabeth Ladd forced Mrs. Schultz to spend a night in jail.

"Since this case has been brought out so much in the media, not only locally, but across the country, I felt a responsibility to inquire about it," said the mayor, "I think it is most unfortunate. The city of San Antonio is not an uncaring city.

Mrs. Cockrell said she would report to city council members in Thursday's executive session. Ms. Ladd, 28, often at odds with other city and county judicial officials, is appointed by the council.

Mrs. Schultz was "resting comfortably" Tuesday in a hospital, where she was admitted last Friday for exhaustion brought on by her sudden celebrity status.

"The excitement was just too much for her. She is thrilled and shocked by all the help. It's something she didn't expect," said Rev. Bob Pugh, who has regular contact with Mrs. Schultz.

Officials at the supermarket have dropped the misdemeanor theft charges, which carried a maximum penalty of six months in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Mrs. Schultz had been bilked out of her $5,000 life savings by con artists in 1973. She said she lived on $238 per month in pensions. Texas Department of Human Resources officials said, however, that Mrs. Schultz had on several occasions refused aid.

Mrs.Schultz was arrested and booked the morning of July 24 after taking $15.04 worth of sausages, ham and butter. But she was forced to spend the day in jail before Ms. Ladd came on duty at 8 p.m.

Although the woman qualified for a personal recognizance bond, Ms. Ladd refused to release her and set a $400 bond Mrs. Schultz couldn't pay.

Mrs. Schultz, who records show had no prior arrest record, was released the next morning by a justice of the peace on a personal recognizance bond.

IN EXHIBIT—"The Shell Hunters," a transparent watercolor by Ivan McDougal, is among the paintings making up a new featured exhibit in the Scurry County Museum. This painting won the Robert Reed Memorial Award and a $600 award in the Texas Watercolor Society's annual exhibition this spring.

Watercolor Society's Exhibit Showing Here

Thirty paintings from the 30th annual exhibition of the Texas Watercolor Society make up a colorful exhibit which will be featured in the Scurry County Museum at Western Texas College through Aug. 20.

Each of the paintings in the exhibit was a prize winner in the Watercolor Society's exhibition, held at the McNay Art Institute in San Antonio from April 29-May 27. Valfred Thelin, painter and lecturer from Ogunquit, Maine, was juror for the show.

From the Scurry County Museum, the show will go to Wichita Falls for exhibit from Sept. 1-25, then to Lubbock for a show sponsored by the Lubbock Art Association from Oct. 1-25. The Baylor University art department will host the display from Nov. 1-25 when it will move to Ardmore, Okla., for display in the Goddard Center for Visual and Performing Arts. Shows in Monroe, La., Gasveston, Corpus Christi and McAllen are scheduled from Jan. 1-April 25, 1980.

Artists whose works are included in the show include C. Warren Cullar of Bertram, a former member of the Western Texas College faculty, and Ted Rose of Abilene. Cullar's painting, titled "San Miguel," won the Alice R. Dinn Memorial award and a $500 cash prize. Like most of the other paintings in the exhibit, it is for sale and is priced at $325. Cullar will be holding a one-man show in the Scurry County Museum in October.

In his juror's statement, Thelin said, "After my first look at the work, I was very pleased with the cross section of concepts, ranging from sincere objective to sensitive non-objective painting. There were no inhibitions in moving from what is called Realistic to what is called Abstract. I found relevance in both the interpretation and personal conviction given within the work entered, for what is the only real thing in a painting is the image itself, next the abstract fusing with an individual's idea. With this in mind, the standard of the show is set, in many ways by itself...

"This show has a high standard, with strong prize winners, as well as powerful overall tone. All who view this exhibition will benefit by seeing the watercolor medium as a prominent vehicle of artistic expression..."

Pills vs. food

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would appreciate your comments on my use of 23 capsules and tablets of assorted vitamins and minerals. I'm attaching a list.

I'm in my 60s and have taken these pills for over three years. My health is perfect and I feel great. My nails, skin and hair are in better condition than they've been in years. The pills assist in keeping my weight normal as I consume them in place of eating meals. I eat one meal a day and substitute the pills for breakfast and lunch. They satisfy my appetite and cause no elimination and stomach problems.

Now one of my friends is a great admirer of yours and he's always warning me about this practice. Once during a heated discussion he revealed the supremacy in which he holds you by saying, "If Dr. Lamb knew what you were doing, he would roll over in his grave." We both laughed when we realized how far from reality we had strayed, but would you be kind enough to tell us what you really think?

DEAR READER — It's always dangerous to get in the middle of a heated discussion. I'm willing to go a long way to help my readers, but not to the extent of rolling over in my grave — at least not yet.

I've looked through the long list of items you're taking and they're not greatly different than some other people use who get caught up in a vitamin and mineral supplement craze. One of the dangers of such a program is substituting artificial nutrition for natural nutrition. To illustrate, you're taking one potassium tablet that your list says provides 83 milligrams of potassium. Did you know that one good orange will give you around 300 milligrams of potassium. Some people think oranges taste better than a potassium pill anyway.

I'm not even sure that you're getting a completely balanced diet inasmuch as I don't know what you eat for your evening meal, but not eating either breakfast or lunch must mean that you don't have a lot of variety to your diet. I would also wonder if you're getting enough complete good quality protein in your diet.

A 25,000 unit vitamin A pill is at the borderline of a daily toxic intake. You can get by with it for long periods of time but eventually in many individuals this can cause changes affecting the bones and the hair which you are apparently proud of. If you're eating anything like a normal diet at all, you'll also be getting vitamin A from other important food sources.

I don't think you can expect any major health benefits from such items as super ginseng, garlic oil capsules, juniper berries, natural bee pollen and yucca herbal food, but I don't expect that they're going to cause you any harm either.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 4-6, Balanced Diet, Recommended Daily Dietary Allowances. This will give you the basic information on what the National Academy of Sciences thinks your diet should provide. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents by check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. You may be able to check the information in this issue against labels and other information you have on the pills you're taking and the foods in your diet to determine whether or not you might have a deficiency.

Says Former California Prison Official...
Texas Prisons Better Than Most

HOUSTON (AP)—Despite inmate and Justice Department claims that Texas prison conditions are oppressive, a former California prison official says the state's prison system is far superior to those in most other states.

Lewis H. Fudge, senior institutional planner when he retired in 1977, said the Texas Department of Corrections does a far better job with about one-fourth of the $200 million budgeted for California's prisons.

Comparing Texas' system with others, he said, "is like comparing General Motors Corp. with a local department of welfare."

"To visit the Texas Department of Corrections is a privilege. It restores one's belief that prisons can be operated in an effective manner which benefit the public, the staff and the inmates," Fudge said.

Fudge testified in U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice's court, which is in the tenth month of a class-action lawsuit filed against TDC by several prison inmates.

The inmates claim the prisons are severely overcrowded and inmates are deprived of adequate medical care, brutalized by other prisoners and by guards, subjected to homosexual terrorism and often denied access to attorneys and the courts.

During the trial, one federal witness said the TDC "is probably the best example of slavery remaining in this country."

In a pretrial brief, the Justice Department said conditions at the Texas prisons are "so oppressive as to produce deprivation psychosis and to drive some of its residents to attempt suicide, some unfortunately successful."

But Fudge contended, "The trend of the Texas Department of Corrections is quite different from other units in other areas. It appears to be self-supporting and the prison personnel is the best I have ever seen.

"The Texas system is one without obvious tension or harassment. It is a businesslike operation like a well-run factory on the outside."

He said "idleness is the biggest problem in prisons and this apparently has been eliminated in the Texas prison system."

Fudge toured the Texas prison system in 1973 and 1976 while doing planning work for the California department.

He also visited prisons in Illinois, Oklahoma and North Carolina.

France adopted its first republican constitution in 1793.

Trade May Affect Outcome, Though

Rangers Alive, Sack Cats 11-3

ARLINGTON (AP)—The Texas Rangers routed the Detroit Tigers 11-3 Tuesday night, but the game might end up in the Detroit win column yet.

Sparky Anderson, manager of the Tigers, says there was a Yankee in Ranger garb on the field and he's considering asking for a Ranger forfeit of the game.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn voided a Monday trade that sent Rivers to the Rangers for four minor league players, but Rivers played for Texas against Detroit both Monday and Tuesday. He had two singles in the Rangers' 16-hit attack against four Detroit pitchers Tuesday.

"They should never have put that player on the field. If you know about it before the game, how do you play him," an angry Anderson said.

A substitute 1-for-1 trade of Rivers for Ranger outfielder Oscar Gamble was approved Tuesday afternoon. Although Gamble was scratched from the lineup just before the game and held out of the contest, Ranger officials negotiated during the game trying to work some other alternative.

"Since nothing had been settled, neither Rivers or Gamble should have played," said Anderson, who went onto the field in the eighth inning to complain to plate umpire Greg Kosc the Rangers were playing an illegal player.

Al Oliver got a double and two singles to account for three of the Rangers' hits. Nelson Norman got a double and a single, John Ellis two singles, Buddy Bell a single and a double and Richie Zisk two doubles, extending his hitting streak to 13 games.

Norman, Ellis, Dave Roberts and Pat Putnam had two RBI apiece.

But the Rangers were slow in putting away Tuesday's game for Doc Medich, 5-4. Norman singled in the third, moved to third on Rivers' second single and scored on Bell's sacrifice fly. That made it 1-0.

In the fourth, the dam burst for Dan Petry, 3-2. Zisk doubled, Putnam singled him home, John Grubb doubled, Jim Sundberg was walked intentionally to load the bases and Roberts smashed a double that scored Putnam and Grubb and made it 4-0.

The Rangers then sent nine men to the plate in the fifth, padding the lead to 9-0 on five hits. They tacked on their final two runs in the sixth, when the Tigers' third pitcher, Steve Baker, gave up a double, two singles and two walks before finally getting the third out with the bases loaded.

Kuhn Rejects Deal; Gamble To Yanks

ARLINGTON (AP)—Texas Ranger outfielder Oscar Gamble was headed for the New York Yankees today to satisfy Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's rejection of a swap announced Monday of four Ranger minor league players for outfielder Mickey Rivers.

"I'm disappointed it happened in the middle of the season. I had just bought a house here," said the 29-year-old Gamble, who had hit eight home runs and six doubles for Texas this season, mostly in the role of a designated hitter.

Gamble, the Rangers' leading hitter with a .335 average, was scratched from the starting lineup shortly before Tuesday night's Texas-Detroit game, Manager Pat Corrales told him he'd been traded to the Yankees for Rivers.

Ranger officials said Monday's trade would have stood if they had kept secret the names of the minor leaguers, who were to stay in the Texas farm system until the end of the season.

"We were directed to find an alternate way to complete the deal," said Eddie Robinson, executive vice president of the Rangers.

Buffs Drop Lead, Game At Tourney

KILLEEN—Snyder's Buffs let go of a 5-0 lead late Tuesday evening to experience their first loss in Texas Teenage League State Tournament play here.

The Buffs, which had built the lead in the first two innings of a delayed contest, fell to Big Spring, 8-6. Earlier in the day, Snyder had gotten past a strong Cameron squad, 3-1.

Provided the schedule held up, Snyder was to play the winner of a Clifton-Farmer's Branch game at 4 p.m. today. Last night, the Buffs were graphed to begin play at 8:30, but problems with the lights forced the batter's-up signal to wait until hours later. The contest did not actually conclude until early this morning.

Snyder scored two runs in the first inning and three in the second to go up 5-0 against Big Spring. But in the bottom of the stanza, pitcher Brent Roemisch walked five straight batters to put the opponent on the board. A bases-loaded triple ran in three more runs, and Big Spring had cut the advantage to 5-4.

Gressett, winning pitcher in the afternoon game, hiked the mound in the fifth inning, but Big Spring battered the all-star for four runs on two hits to go ahead 8-5. Snyder scored its final run in the fourth period.

Buff hurlers allowed only three hits for the entire game, but eight walks and couple of errors pumped up the Big Spring rally.

Snyder collected 11 hits. Roemisch and Davis Rios were both 2 for 3 from the plate; Curtis Gafford and John Wilson were 2 for 4; Gary Edmaiston was 1 for 2; and Barry Davis and Gressett were 1 for 3 each. Rios, who smashed a double and a triple, had one RBI while Wilson came up with three and Roemisch had two.

In the afternoon contest with Cameron, Snyder got its 3-1 victory by scoring a run in the second, fifth and sixth innings. The Buffs garnered two hits, a single each from Roemisch and Edmiaston.

Wilson scored Snyder's first two runs with the help of David Gee. Wilson got on base, stole second and third, and scored when Cameron tried to pick off Gee at first base. He later scored from third on a sacrifice fly hit by Gee.

Gressett allowed three hits, walked eight and struck out two in his seven-inning stint as winning pitcher. DelaRosa, losing pitcher, walked eight, fanned five and allowed two hits.

Gressett took the loss in the evening contest, while Olaque was the winning hurler.

Festival Awards Golds Tuesday

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—On a light day at the National Sports Festival, Justin Wheating, the former English national team member from the North Jersey Field Hockey Club, scored two goals to lead the East to a 5-1 rout of the West for the gold medal.

The South trimmed the Midwest 2-1 for the bronze.

In women's field hockey, Charlene Morett had one goal and one assist to lead the East to a 4-0 shutout of the West for the gold. The South claimed the bronze with a 3-2 decision over the Midwest.

In roller skating, Chris Snyder won the 500-meter spint gold medal with a time of 1:00.4. Mary Hohl, with a time of 1:03.2, collected the women's 500-meter sprint gold medal.

Kenon The Latest

Have Freedom, Will Vamoose

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Larry Kenon, seeking an $800,000 per year contract, says it's very unlikely he'll be back with the San Antonio Spurs next season and is believed to be headed for the Los Angeles Lakers.

If he leaves, it'll mean the National Basketball Association Central Division champion Spurs have lost all four of their players who became free agents.

Forward Allan Bristow has already signed with Utah, veteran guard Louie Dampier says he won't be back with the team and veteran 6-foot-11 forward-center Coby Dietrick said Tuesday he's signing with Chicago.

"The Spurs and I are a long ways apart," Kenon, 26, told The San Antonio Express. "At this point, I would say there is a small chance that I would be a part of the Spurs this year."

"I feel I am the best all around forward in the game and I expect to be paid so," added Kenon.

Chris Edwards led all hitters with two home runs for the winners. Tony Ramirez scored two runs, while Alls, Mike Ramirez, Sonny Cobb and Tony Ramirez scored one each, and Edwards added another run for the winning squad. McCoy Eyes Boxing Medal

MOSCOW (AP)—The U.S. men's basketball team beat Estonia 73-65 and the American women's team lost to the Russian Federal Republic 112-88 at The Spartacade Games.

In boxing, middleweight Andre McCoy, the last remaining American in the event, took a big step toward a medal when he took a close decision over Eduard Mkrtchaynan of Soviet Armenia.

McCoy boxes in the group finals Thursday, and a victory would insure him a spot in the gold medal bout Saturday against the Soviet national champion from the other group.

TEC Schedules Regular Visits

A representative of Texas Employment Commission from the Sweetwater Office will be in Snyder every other Thursday from 9 a.m. to noon beginning Aug. 9, to accept applications for work and claims for unemployment insurance. Location of service will be at 2605 Avenue M in the Senior Citizens Center-County Office Building.

This service to Snyder has been precipitated by the increase in unemployment insurance claims being filed from the Snyder area. A total of around 60 persons are currently filing claims from Scurry County and the unemployment rate for the county is up to 3.8 percent as of May, 1979.

Anna K. Carman, Office Manager for Texas Employment Commission in Sweetwater, said that this service to Snyder applicants has been initiated in cooperation with the county judge and county commissioners, who are furnishing office space for TEC. It is felt it will be a real service to persons out of work to have the option to file claims in Snyder. It will also save on gas consumption to send one car to Snyder instead of 60 cars to Sweetwater, she noted.

The itinerant service office in Snyder will not have a telephone listing, so it will be necessary for applicants to visit the office for service.

It was noted that The Texas Employment Commission is primarily in the business of placing people in jobs. Unemployment Insurance is just meant to be a help until a job can be found for a person who is "out of work through no fault of his own." Employers are urged to list all variety of job openings with TEC in Sweetwater, so the office will have jobs to refer applicants to. Job orders can be placed by calling 235-8418, or mail details of jobs available, to TEC, Box 228, Sweetwater, 79556.

TEC is an agency of the State of Texas, and there is never any charge to applicants or employers for any TEC service.

Letters On Sign Stolen

A man of letters--or perhaps a man with letters not his--is being sought by police.

In a theft complaint filed Tuesday morning by Jo Kesner, 72 plastic sign letters were reportedly stolen from a signboard in front of the Walls plant in East Snyder.

Value of the missing letters was pegged at $52. They were reportedly taken sometime between July 28 and July 30.

In other complaints filed yesterday, Ruth Orona, 2007 Ave. N, told police a broken windshield on a vehicle at her residence will cost about $200 to replace. The criminal mischief was reported at 10:25 a.m.

Two minor traffic accidents were also investigated.

The first occurred in the 600 block of 30th St. at 11:30 a.m. and involved a 1970 Oldsmobile driven by Charles Wells and a 1970 Chevrolet pickup driven by David Peralez.

The next traffic accident was at 2:30 p.m. in the 3000 block of College Ave. There, a 1973 Chevrolet driven by Sam Glover and a 1977 Mercury driven by Gussie Marie Gary collided.
