Swisher County is joining Lamb, Hockley and Dallam counties in efforts to form underground water conservation districts under provisions of House Bill 162, according to a report by the High Plains Water Conservation and Users Association.

The announcement came following a meeting in Tulsa May 25 held under auspices of the Swisher County Farm Bureau. Speakers included Clyde Bradford of Happy, president of the Swisher County Water Users Association; Perry Bowser of Kress, member of the executive committee of the High Plains Water Conservation and Users Association; and Miss Salla Rodman of Littlefield, information director of the High Plains group.

To Hold Meetings

Starting in mid-June, the Swisher County Water Users Association will hold a series of meetings through which they hope to reach every water user and submit the proposal for a district.

Agree On Program

Fifteen members attended the Farm Bureau meeting and round-table forum. They were unanimous in expressing the opinion that a district should be formed as soon as possible.

Both Bradford and Bowser attacked the idea of state control of underground water use. They told of a fight carried on by High Plains (Continued on page five)

FOUR HURT IN HIGHWAY AUTO CRASH

Four persons were admitted to Payne-Shotwell hospital after receiving injuries in a two car head-on collision shortly after 5 p. m. Wednesday on Highway 84 near Radio Station KVOW.

The extent of the injuries sustained by the four people were not as yet known by the hospital authorities.

The showers that fell in the area around Littlefield were not enough to be measured but other towns reported good rains.

Fieldton, Anton and Whitharral all reported good rains in their vicinity and Spade reported over an inch. Heavy cloud formations and lower temperatures pointed toward the possibility of further precipitation.

Hockley County Asks For Water District

LAND—(Special)—Hockley County has asked the State Water Engineers to designate an underground reservoir for the purpose of forming an Underground Water Conservation District.

Bert Eads and Burnett Roberts of the Hockley County Farm Bureau announced that petitions bearing the signature of 87 property-owning, tax-paying voters in Hockley County have been mailed to the State Board of Water Engineers.

The petitions request formation of a district "for Hockley County and such additional territory as the board sees fit."

Boundaries of the district, under provisions of House Bill 162, must coincide with those of an underground water reservoir of subdivision thereof, as defined by the Board. The Board must hold a hearing in Hockley County before announcing the boundaries, giving land owners who wish to be included from the district an opportunity to appear.

Hockley county is the second High Plains county to take the step, to call a hearing in June at Texline Dalham County expects the Board to announce boundaries of a reservoir there. Lamb County is circulating a petition for designation of a reservoir and reportedly has about 200 signers.

THIS ARTICLE IS SOME POTATOES

The Irish potato is not a potato.

It is not Irish.

It has been blamed for both world wars, leprosy and visitations from the devil.

Its lowly bloom was once admired in the corsages of noble ladies at the French court.

The first question you'll want answered is: When is a potato not a potato? Answer: When it is not a sweet potato.

The sweet potato was discovered in the West Indies by the Spaniards. These explorers had referred to the West Indian plant as "batata," using the Indian name. The sweet potato is not related to the white potato.

When later Spanish explorers found the white potato, they confiscated the sweet potato's name, calling the former "batata" too, from which word comes our English word, potato.

So the Irish potato is not a "batata," which makes it no potato. But just try to tell the government that it doesn't own any potatoes!

Now those Spanish explorers who found the spud were not Irishmen in disguise. (Wonder if it's possible to disguise an Irishman?) And they were exploring not Ireland, but Peru—which makes sense since they were looking for riches. They were looting the Peruvians as no one ever dared loot an Irishman. A Spanish monk became inquisitive about the diet of the Indians and happened upon the white potato in 1538. He smuggled a few tubers home. So if you want to be exact, refer to the spud as the Peruvian potato.

Those, finally grew into the annual six billion bushel world potato crop of today. Potatoes have kept alive half of the population of northern Europe in periods of famine, making possible a larger population in that area. Therefore, certain historians maintain, by creating a bulging population in northern Europe that belligerently presses against its borders, the potato has caused two world wars.

The Irish began this prolificacy in the potato kingdom. A famine in the 1500's and the adaptability of the Irish soil to potato growth started the potatoes rolling, until they outnumbered even the Irishmen. Promotion of the potato in Ireland prejudiced the English against it. It was flummaged against in the pulpits as a source of devil's potion, because it was not mentioned in the Bible. Rumor spread that the potato induced leprosy.

The Scots in 1683 next took up the hoe in defense of the potato. They were not a people to pass up a food so prolific and so cheap just because the Irish were tossing unwashed potatoes into boiling pots and eating them unpeeled from dirty boards. Revolting, but who wasn't in those days? And very economical, potatoes!

BULL LAKE PHILOSOPHER DOUBTS THAT THE COMING OF TELEVISION WILL IMPROVE HIS FARMING MUCH

Editor's note: The Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Bull Lake no doubt is misinterpreting another newspaper article, as the following letter will reveal.

Dear editor:

I was wandering around out here the other afternoon debating whether to rest or to work a little in my mind. I don't rush into anything, whether it's work or loafing, without thinking about it and turning it over in his mind and considering all the angles and the consequences. I ain't never forgotten the time I got in a hurry and planted three-quarters of an acre or more than my allotment called for one year and had to plow it up, that taught me a lesson. I get mad now just think about the effort I wasted, as I say, I was out here debating over whether to work and by the time I got my mind made up the afternoon was so far gone there wouldn't be much point in starting a job then anyway and I got up from where I'd been thinking since noon and picked up a newspaper which I'd been notified for several days where it was caught in a bush and took it home and read it.

According to an article in it by an expert, television is gonna revolutionize farm life. Is gonna make better farmers out of all us. "The farmer with a television set is going to be a better farmer than he was before," the expert predicted. Ain't that sort of exaggeration the power of television? Personally, while I don't want to be arguin with an expert, it will take more than television to make a better farmer out of me and several others I ain't namin'.

While I would like mighty well to have a television set and aim to get one soon as the government increases its payments for the bonus today their profit standard is high to go on record right now as saying I ain't intend to farm no better, even if I had a set in every room.

Television improving my farmin' is about like woman suffrage improving the politicians. It's good to talk about but it don't ever produce no tangible results.

And while I ain't sayin' positively, I got an idea there will be a good many editors and bankers and teachers and grocerymen that television ain't gonna affect no more than it does me.

All these new gadgets ain't what they're cracked up to be. I've had a radio now for twenty years and if I've got one blade less Johnson grass than when I started, I can't tell it.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

PANTOMIME . . . Holly Brooks fakes a song as recorder makes the music in Cleveland night club. It's a stunt to avoid cabaret tax.

Potatoes were beginning to assert themselves, but they were making trouble for their sponsors. If you think the potato is proving embarrassing to certain politicians today, consider the fix men of affairs of former days were in when they messed with the spud.

Thomas William Coke of Norfolk set out some potatoes and begged his neighbors to do likewise. He offered free land upon which neighbors and his tenants would be allowed to grow the spud. All of Norfolk felt insulted. He made no progress at all until he grew an especially large variety of potato and proved that potatoes wouldn't poison pigs. Then the people started eating them in abundance. Their effect upon hogs seemed a pretty fair test for their effect upon humans. (Draw no conclusions; the hogs didn't.)

King Frederick William of Prussia in the 17th century ordered his people to plant potatoes and doubled his bodyguard. Soon the spud became a main dish with the Prussians who thrived upon them and produced more cannon fodder than ever before.

Down in France, the kings were having trouble finding enough to feed the people after the nobles got through imposing their levies upon the countryside. Potatoes didn't exactly suit the French palate, so the French court conceived a huge promotion stunt for the spud.

Antoine Auguste Parmentier, French apothecary and former prisoner of war who had lived and thrived for three months on German potatoes, convinced Louis XVI to "let 'em eat potatoes." Louis slyly placed a potato blossom in his button hole before his entire court, okaying the spud. To sell the idea to the people, who followed the court news like moderns follow Hollywood antics, all the noble ladies began wearing corsages made of potato blossoms.

The promotion wound up in a big dinner with all the food and brandy and liquors derived from spuds. Benjamin Franklin was there, and public relations reported that he smacked his lips several times over the potato brandy.

Favor by Franklin didn't hurt the potato's prospect back in America, but it really was the seaman, discovering the ease with which potatoes could be kept aboard ship, who transplanted the food to America. Then the Irish and Scotch immigrants, homesick for food with a familiar taste, began to plant potatoes here. So valuable did the potato become that it became a medium of exchange in some localities and rents and other debts were paid in potatoes.

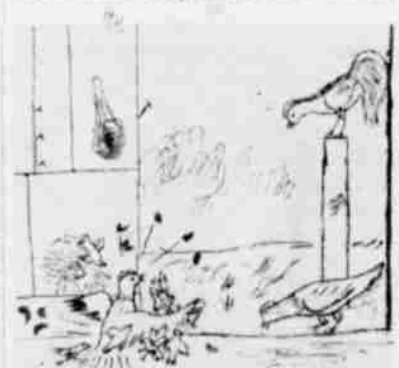

The Irish called them Irish potatoes and the Scotch called them Scotch potatoes, and you know who won.

So we have Irish potatoes, billions of bushels of them.

Flappy

By FAITH HELEN FAUST

Flappy was a chicken who was very lazy. She wouldn't lay eggs and she wouldn't scratch for worms. An she did was sleep all day.

"How dare you get in my nest!" shrieked Reddy.

Flappy wandered sleepily over to another soft-looking nest with eggs in it. Flappy fell asleep in it and woke up to find the eggs had hatched.

Flappy stood there wondering how she could teach these young chickens the way to scratch in the right place for food, because she didn't know herself.

At that moment the farmer came in to catch a chicken for dinner. "Oh, Flappy! When did you lay the eggs to hatch those chicks," he said. He found a chicken and went out.

Flappy decided to let the little chicks find out for themselves how to scratch. She went back to sleep. The chicks stood around and waited for her to get them something to eat. Finally they grew impatient and jumped on her. They dragged Flappy into the yard. Flappy had to get them something to eat or they would jump on her some more.

So she scratched for something to eat by watching how the other chickens did it. She found that looking for her own food was very much easier than making other hens bring it to her. It tasted better too.

Flappy learned not to depend on the other fellow. She isn't lazy at all now.

Johnny Cardinal Appointed New Assistant Coach At Sudan High

New assistant coach of the Sudan Hornets for the 1950-51 season will be Johnny Cardinal, spring graduate of West Texas State College.

The 21 years old physical education major is a graduate of Floydada High School in 1943 where he lettered two years in football as both back and end. Cardinal also received two basketball letters with the Whirlwinds as a guard.

In 1943 Cardinal went into the Navy where he served three years in the Pacific Theatre of Operations. Upon his return from the navy, he enrolled in West Texas State the fall semester of 1946.

During his freshman year he played only intramural football at the college but his performances were so outstanding that he was invited by Coach Frank Kimbrough to workout in the varsity's spring drills.

His performances with the varsity were good enough for him to stick and earn three letters with the team at an end position. His specialty was playing the defensive spot.

This year Cardinal has been president of the T-Club organization formed of letter winners in West Texas State athletics. He has also coached for three years in the college's extensive intramural program.

Cardinal married Kathleen Grady of Clarendon in 1948.

He will receive his BS in physical education with a history minor and will complete all but 9 hours of his work on the Master's degree.

Crosbytown Boosters Stop Here To Advertise Rodeo June 8, 9, 10

Twelve carloads of Crosbytown boosters hit Littlefield at noon Tuesday to advertise the Crosbytown Rodeo scheduled for June 8, 9, and 10.

Accompanied by dance music and sirens the group stopped their auto caravan in the center of Phelps Avenue between Fourth and Fifth streets where they entertained with music and talks.

Jack Arthur, mayor of Crosbytown, invited Littlefield residents to attend the three night rodeo.

Tillman Reeves, secretary-treasurer of the rodeo association, after hearing from Morley B. Drake, publisher of the Lamb County Leader, extended an invitation to that group to take part in the rodeo parade.

The rodeo and celebration of the town's birthday will feature square dancing every night and a free barbecue Thursday afternoon, June 8. There will be a parade on each of the three rodeo days.

After dancing and singing on Phelps avenue, the group ate lunch here before moving on.

R. C. Wood, president of the rodeo association was one of the boosters present. Producer of the rodeo is Bobbie Edmonds of the Lone Star Ranch Rodeo.

number of amusing and entertaining specialty acts.

OBSTACLE JUMPING

Paul and Marie St. Croy of Red Bluff, Calif. are bringing their team of matched white horses to perform in obstacle jumping, trick riding and roping. This act has appeared in top rodeos all over the nation, including those at Madison Square Garden, Walla Walla, Wash., and Cheyenne, Wyo.

Weaver and Juanita Gray will take part in the rodeo with trick roping and also will feature Juanita Gray's bucking horse, Baby Mine. Baby Mine is reputed to be the only bucking horse in the rodeo business.

Additional acts will be Skippy the Wonder Dog and a top national comedy act in the rodeo field.

ARRAY OF TALENT

Smith feels that they have lined up an array of talent and entertainment which will guarantee a fine rodeo.

"We know we have the best rodeo producers in the country," Smith said regarding producers Buck and Tommy Steiner.

Advance tickets will go on sale in local banks in the near future, according to Ernest Connell, ticket chairman. Ticket headquarters will be in Alvin Webb's office. In printing the tickets, arrangements were made to have rain checks for any of the three nights.

In the near future the Jaycees will go on a booster trip advertising the rodeo. Chairman Buck Ross and Fritz Dierling plan to have a chartered bus and 30 to 40 cars. They are going to take along a band and plenty of specialty acts.

farmers in which two-state control bills were defeated in the Texas Legislature, and of passage in 1949 of a farmer-sponsored "local option" bill. Recently, they reported, the Texas Water Code Committee has heard attacks on the present law and suggestions that a state agency similar to the Railroad Commission be set up to control drilling and pumping of irrigation wells.

Proponents of the state-control bills argue that House Bill 162, which provides for the creation of locally-controlled independent water districts, is unworkable. Bowser said. He declared that organization of one or more water districts would prove this charge to be untrue.

Both Bradford and Bowser agreed that some of regulation is desirable, to insure proper spacing of new wells, to prevent waste and to carry out a re-charge program. Water districts, they pointed out, have authority to carry out such a program under the present law.

Miss Rodman explained provisions of the present law in regard to forming districts and told of progress in Dallam, Hockley and Lamb counties towards organizing districts.

economic and social significance of the American Oil Industry.

To map out plans for the coming year, community Chairmen for the Plains area held two meetings during the month of May. Community leaders from that part of the Plains area north of Tulsa, Texas, met May 12, in Amarillo. A similar meeting for the South Plains area was held May 16, at Lubbock.

To aid the people of the Littlefield community in learning about the industry which plays such a vital role in all of our lives, Mr. Christian will have a wealth of information at his disposal. This information includes printed literature which gives important facts about the activities of the Oil Industry in America. He also has a valuable interesting material which can very easily be adapted to public service radio programs or to service and luncheon club programs.

Among the OHC material which has been very popular with schools, clubs, and many other groups is a sound film, "The Last Ten Feet," which tells the story of Oil and the Oil Industry in an interesting manner.

Christian will be very glad to secure this film for any organization in his community that would care to use it.

Miss Johnnie Muriel Evans To Present Pupils In Recital

Miss Johnnie Muriel Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Evans, will present her High School graduation piano recital at the Methodist Church at 4:00 p. m. Sunday, June 4.

Miss Evans is a 1950 graduate of Littlefield High School. She has taken a prominent part in student activities, having been Choral Club accompanist and serving as accompanist for many miscellaneous occasions. In addition, she is organist of the Methodist Church, and pianist for the Rotary club.

PIANS MUSICAL CAREER

In the National Piano Playing Auditions, June 5 to 7 in Littlefield, Miss Evans will be an applicant for the High School Diploma. She plans to prepare for a musical career by continuing her studies at North Texas State College at Denton.

The program will follow the conventional concert repertoire including classic selections by Bach. Two Part Inventions Numbers 4 and 10 will represent the great contrapuntal master. From the works of Mozart she has chosen his Fantasia in D minor which will be followed by Beethoven's Sonata in G minor, first and second movements.

Miss Evans' Chopin group will consist of the Prelude in B minor better known as the Raindrop Prelude, and the ever popular and nostalgic Nocturne in E flat.

Two American composers will be spotlighted in the modern group. Edward MacDowell's "Witch's Dance" is the first and John McKreys (who is one of our finest living composers) is represented by "Arabesque."

From the pen of Debussy, Miss Evans will play "Reverie" made famous in recent years by a popular song called "Moon Love."

RECEPTION FOLLOWING

STUDENT OF MRS. KEITHLEY

For the past two years Miss Evans has been a student of Mrs. J. W. Keithley and is well known to Littlefield music-lovers through her recital and radio appearances on former occasions.

Reminiscences

20 Years Ago

By Cecile

Hi Neighbors:

Yep it's me again, after a lazy spell, will try to get down to work again.

How many of you remember? A number of Littlefield people went to Amherst to hear Rev. Joe Grizzle dedicate the new Baptist church.

R-R

Mrs. W. C. Street was wondering what had become of the old fashion housewife who could hold six or eight clothes pins in her mouth while hanging out the family wash.

R-R

Jess Elms is known as a champion for the rights of the cotton growers, but that he is interested in the welfare of other farmers is proven when he recently suggested that a "good way" to reduce the wheat surplus would be for Congress to pass a law making it illegal to cut holes in doughnuts.

R-R

To J. H. Harrell goes the honor of delivering the first load of wheat to Market. He took 64 bushels to an elevator at Muleshoe and received $1.00 per bushel.

R-R

Most women are shy about their age—about ten years. The First National Bank of this city installed the first unit of 66 safety deposit boxes this week.

R-R

Lums Chapel Church was dedicated Sunday. Rev. Kemp delivered the sermon.

R-R

There is one consolation we can have about the old family bus at least the license plate is good for twelve months.

R-R

No wonder this country is getting "warped" says Lory of the Grand Drug store, being dry on one side and wet on the other.

R-R

E. J. Seely, local manager of the Foxworth-Galbraith lumber company and his wife went to Lubbock Saturday, where they attended the meeting of all company managers over the South Plains. The managers were taken out to the country club by the officers of the company and royally entertained.

R-R

More than one girl has found that dish water not only makes a wedding ring lose its lustre, but its fascination as well.

R-R

Well folks this will have to be 30 for this week. Sure hope some of you missed me a little—my column.
