TERRELL LAYS RESPONSIBILITY OF STAMPING OUT PINK BOLL WORM ON FEDERAL GOVERNMENT; AID ASKED

By GEORGE B. TERRELL, State Agriculture Commissioner For the Associated Press AUSTIN, Feb. 17.—Since the pink boll worm is a foreign pest and reaches West Texas through federal quarantine regulations, or in spite of them, and Texas is not responsible for its entrance, I believe it is right and just for the federal government to pay all costs of non-cotton zones and quarantine regulations. Furthermore, this pest now threatens the entire cotton industry of the United States and therefore is a national problem as much as the control of the flood waters of the Mississippi river and its tributaries.

Officials for the games during the tournament will be Coach Victor Payne, basketball handler of the Texas Tech Masadors, and Pete Peterson, one of Payne's reserves of the Masador crew.

The girls' division of the county basketball play-off will also be played today and tomorrow with the following schedule:

Two Big Surprises Sprung In Tourney

ATHENS, Feb. 17.—Two surprises were sprung in the first round of the A. A. U. high school basketball meet, Thursday night. Martins Mill plastered Corsicana 39 to 31, and Eustace, a small Henderson county town drubbed Mineola 38 to 30.

The major and consolation tournament got under way at 10 a. m. Friday. Ben Wheeler and Brownsboro were eliminated from the tournament Thursday night in the only second round tilts played. This leaves eight teams each in the major and consolation tourneys.

Pairings Friday bring together Sunset and Wills Point, Athens and Eustace and Murchison and Martins Mill. Sunset and Athens are favored to meet in the finals. Approximately 1,000 saw the games Thursday night and interest was high.

Van Zandt county showed up well in the first round, three teams from that county coming out on top. Four Henderson county teams were victorious in the first round, but Athens eliminated Brownsboro Thursday night.

Waco and Gunter staged the closest game of the opening day. Semi-finals and finals in both major and consolation events will be played Saturday afternoon and night. Tournament scores:

Murchison 38, Crawford 29; Eustace 38, Mineola 30; Wills Point 26, Krum 11; Martins Mill 39, Corsicana 31; Waco 17, Gunter 15; Sunset (Dallas) 48, Rice 19; Tyler 26, Ben Wheeler 20 Athens 34, Brownsboro 15.

HUDKINS MEETS BAKER IN SCRAP FOR DUNDEE GO

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Ace Hudkins and Sammy Baker tangle in a ten round bout at Madison Square Garden tonight to determine the challenger for the welterweight crown now guarded by Joe Dundee of Baltimore.

Although the cat of Nebraska has been quoted as an 8 to 5 and a 2 to 1 favorite throughout the week quite a flurry has been occasioned with reports that he is having difficulty in making the weight limit of 147 pounds.

Baker, the soldier-boxer of Mitchell Field, concluded light training yesterday below the regulation poundage, tipping the beam at 146. On the other hand, Hudkins was said to weigh 148-3 with a pound and a half of surplus to reduce before the formal weighing exercise at the New York State Athletic commission's offices in the afternoon.

Handlers of the Wildcat say he will be down to the 147 pounds without difficulty. Should he exceed that amount, however, it will mean that he can not hope to figure in the role of challenger against Dundee but must shift his activities to the middleweights in which realm Mickey Walker is king.

He is a member of the United States ski team that will compete in the Olympic winter games at St. Moritz. His companion is very skillful in the use of sticks with his hands, and if his face isn't familiar to those hundreds who spend hours in the bunkers he is Chick Evans, who is somewhat of a golfer.

SERVICE COURT TEAM WINS TWO GAMES THURSDAY

The Super-Main and Teacher quintets continued to display their supremacy in the Lubbock City Basketball league last night by downing the Avalanche-Journal and Army teams with scores of 52 to 9 and 18 to 9 respectively.

This leaves two teams as the only undefeated combinations in the league and the most likely contenders for the first league title. They will meet each other on the court next Thursday night.

The goal shooting of Barrett, Mansell and Kerr was outstanding for the gas and oil team last night as well as their brilliant floor work and passing which bewildered the Journalists.

The Armory-Teacher contest was an even affair until the last few minutes when Morgan and Brown hit their scoring stride to place the Teachers well in the lead.

TULSA CHAMPS SCATTERED AS SEASON NEARS

PLAYERS FROM BROWNS MAY HELP OLIER TO NEW FLAG

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 17.—Although many of last year's veterans have gone to other diamonds, and only a large flock of recruits now are ready to take their places, local fans have not begun to worry yet about the chances of the Tulsa Oilers to again capture the pennant in the Western league this year.

The Oilers are owned by the St. Louis Browns, and before the season opens in April, a consignment of recruits not yet ready for the big show will be dumped back into McNulty park to fill the gaps.

Of the 1927 pennant winning team only the following are still on the Tulsa roster: Karl Black, Rolie Naylor and John Smithson, pitchers; Bill Porter and Henry Wingfield, catchers; Edward Grimes, third baseman; and Red Bennett, Floyd Patterson and Joe Munson, outfielders.

The departed players include Pete Casey, outfielder who was sold to Chattanooga; Pitchers Bolen, Blacholder and Back, and infielders Sturdy, Brannon and Kress, who went to the Browns.

Sand Lot youngsters are many Sand lot youngsters who will come to Tulsa March 5 for tryouts include: Pitchers, Clyde Kinsey, Elbert Shillings and Morris Young, all of Muskogee; Wilbur Faltz, Edgar Hawthorne, Roland Siles, Frank Neiswonger, Red Gaither, Randy Caldwell, Carroll Jones, Grady Bailey and Claude Fleming from Tulsa and elsewhere; catchers, Joe Mayes, Joel Etheridge and Charles Huntington; infielders, Ted Gailick, Otis Butler, Howard Chandler, Wes Jenkins, Ray Radcliffe, Howard Meyers, Cyril Anderson, Howard Robinson, John Dietrick and William Smith.

Little is known of the quality of this wealth of raw material. More recruits that will gather early in March is expected to bring the total number of bush leaguers up to forty or more, and Berghammer will have a difficult time whipping a team into shape before the end of the month, when the Oilers open the exhibition series.

The exhibition games are on March 27, 28 and 29 with the Kansas City Blues; April 2, 3 and 4 with the St. Louis Browns, and April 6, 7 and 8 with the St. Paul club of the American association. Other exhibition games are to be scheduled.

High School Boys Are In Cubs' Camp

CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—Two Chicago high school ball players joined Chicago's Cubs in their first day of spring training yesterday at Catalina Island, Calif. and their play so impressed Manager Joe McCarthy that he let the youngsters chase fungoes in the outfield. They were Jack Calvey, 18, and Dan Haley, 19, who had traveled west by bus, sleeping nights in the bus to economize on their meagre savings.

If McCarthy judges them worthy of attention, he will endeavor to place them with some minor league club. Both aspire to be infielders. Aside from the appearance of the two stowaways, the features of the opening day's training was McCarthy's quick refusal to let Catcher Gabby Hartnett take a few swings at some curve ball offerings of Joe Bush, batting practice was barred, McCarthy announced firmly.

Demonstrations Of Harmony Shown To Democratic Party

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—As the nation's voters cast... demonstrations of harmony and... in the New Year... at the ballot boxes.

The Democratic party's 1924 nominee, John W. Davis, points to past and present European executives to support his plea that... in the White House... speaking at Columbia, S. C., last night before the convention of the state bar association.

Mr. Davis reminded that gentle England had in 1848 a Jewish prime minister, Protestant Canada a Catholic Premier in Laurier and Catholic France a Protestant President in Doumergue.

"I'd be ashamed," he said, "to believe that the spirit of intolerance is left in America... I have named." He did not mention present candidates in his speech but earlier had said that Gov. Smith of New York, Democratic candidate, would be "highly acceptable" to him.

Catholic, Jew and Protestant gathered at a good-will dinner in Richmond last night to hear outstanding figures of their creeds plead for religious tolerance. Speakers included: Catholic, Louisiana; Protestant, Virginia; Jew, New York; Protestant, Massachusetts; Rabbi Louis D. Mendonza of Norfolk, for the Jews; The Rev. Peter Almsie, pastor of Christian Temple, Baltimore, father of the good-will idea and a leader of the Christian unity movement; also spoke: Judge Thomas C. Coker, who said that each creed judge the other by its best rather than its worst while Rabbi Mendonza called for "loyalty to man—unlabeled man the dream of Jefferson and Wilson."

Chicago will see the reputation for turbulence in politics as well as other fields offered the concrete example of practical political harmony. There Anson J. Cernak, president of the Cook county board, withdrew from the race for governor to become a candidate for United States senate. The idea was to make Cernak a running mate for Justice Floyd E. Thompson, candidate for governor, instead of splitting the party.

The Republicans now are building up two states in the Small Thompson-Crowe group and the faction of Senator Charles S. Deneen and Democratic leaders see in Cernak's move an omen of victory for the party.

More counsel for the Democratic party to accept the challenge of the new and not assist fall a victim to its own folly and blither about non-essentials came from Representative Finis Garrett, of Tennessee, speaking at Indianapolis before the Indiana Democratic Editorial association.

Senator Reed Democrat Missouri is to be the first candidate of either party to take the stump. The picturesque campaigner will leave Washington Saturday to prevent himself to voters in at least five states: all of them in the east. He will give a speech in Dallas on Feb. 20, the senator will speak at Topeka, Denver, Albuquerque, Phoenix, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Salt Lake City and Omaha.

The New York situation continues to interest Republican leaders who are deeply curious concerning how the state's big bloc of convention votes will be split up when the split-up does come if the delegation goes to Kansas City unfrustrated.

Friends of Senator Fairbanks of Kansas, an announced candidate, are cooperating with New York's Republican national committeeman, Charles D. Hilles, and the state

WOOL TRADING

BOSTON, Feb. 17 (AP)—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say: The wool market is still rising. Both in the local market and in the foreign markets prices are against the buyer by par to five per cent for the week. Fine wools in this market offer the greatest opportunity for business men, wool being well nigh exhausted.

About 110 million pounds of wool are estimated to have been placed under contract in the range states of the west prices are fully maintained throughout the west. Manufacturers are making slight advances already on medium wool goods, initial openings of which were made about three weeks ago. Foreign markets are rising. Mohair is firm but not very active here, there being little available in the market. Small lots have been taken on the goat's back in Texas. Wool quotations: Texas fine 12 months (selected) 1.15 to 1.20; fine 8 months 1.10 to 1.15. Mohairs: Good original bag Texas spring 61 to 62; Texas kid 81 to 83.

CHICAGO TRADING

CHICAGO, Feb. 17 (AP)—Influenced by snow storm making crop conditions more favorable for domestic winter wheat, values averaged lower in the wheat market early today. Besides, confirmation of reported big purchases of Canadian wheat for Russia remained lacking. After a start at 3-5c decline to a shade advance, wheat underwent a moderate general setback. Corn, oats, and provisions were also easier, corn opening unchanged to 1-2, 3-5c, and subsequently keeping near to the initial figures.

a few days later as already announced. Dr. C. L. Marlatt, chairman of the federal horticultural board, R. E. McDonald, state entomologist, and others officially connected with this work will attend this public meeting on the 25th, as well as the official hearings to begin on the 27th. The pink boll worm commission may establish a non-cotton zone in which no cotton is planted for a period of two or three years, or it may provide for a regulated zone in which cotton is grown under the supervision of the state department of agriculture, with certain restrictions in regard to handling the cotton, cotton seed and by-products. The greatest difficulty in deciding whether to establish a non-cotton zone is to find out all the counties that are infested. We know that certain counties are infested, but other adjacent counties may be infested and the infestation not yet discovered. This makes it extremely difficult to know what is best to do, but I am frank to say that regulated zones in which cotton is grown are temporary makeshifts and will never stamp out the pest.

Non-Cotton Zones. If it were not for the large amount of money necessary to pay losses by establishing non-cotton zones, the situation would be more easily and safely handled. The non-cotton zone is the only known means of stamping out this pest. The pest came from Mexico, and should it be stamped out in West Texas, the area near the Rio Grande river would be reinfested as soon as we began planting cotton on this side. This makes the problem extremely difficult to handle. It might be economy for the federal government to pay Mexico for the small amount of cotton grown near the river on the Mexican side to prevent reinfestation from that source. It is very evident that some arrangements should be made between the two governments to eliminate this constant source of danger on our border. Responsibility Placed. I am sure that the federal horticultural board recognizes the fact that the federal government ought to pay the bill and would be willing to assure all costs if congress would make the necessary appropriations. I want the state to exercise all constitutional rights, but I think the cost of stamping out this pest is a federal proposition for the reason that Texas was in no way responsible for its entrance into Texas, and it threatens a great national industry. Of course we would work in harmony with the horticultural board in maintaining internal quarantines as we have in the past, and our relations with the board have been very friendly and their co-operation with us has been one hundred per cent.

CALLAWAY CASE

information, however, was not official. Afternoon Testimony in Short. Yesterday afternoon's testimony found the defendant recalled to the stand and Miss Mattie Beth Harper, Dallas student and former George M. Hunt, school teacher, also summoned back for additional testimony. Rev. W. A. Bowen, pastor of the First Baptist church, and W. A. Dolan, Temple, Santa Fe freight agent, were called as character witnesses. When both testified that the general reputation of the defendant was "good" and when Senator W. H. Bledsoe, chief of defense counsel, announced that a number of other Temple and Lubbock business men were ready to give similar testimony, State's Prosecutor Durwood H. Bradley admitted the good reputation of the man on trial, thus shortening the testimony. Chief of Police John Lemond, former Police Chief T. E. May, Sheriff H. L. Johnston and Chief Deputy Vernice L. Ford were summoned and all testified that the reputation of the complaining witness was "bad." The state had closed its side of the case before noon and the defense unexpectedly announced its closing shortly after 2:30 p. m. Arguments Close at 6:30 Thursday. After Judge Pharr drew up his charge and defense counsel made its objections, final arguments were given by the jury. Mr. Bradley, Mr. Bledsoe, Mr. Crenshaw and Mr. Bradley spoke in order, closing at 6:40 p. m. Thursday morning's 200 spectators were augmented during the afternoon session and by the time the court withdrew to prepare the charge every seat in the lower floor and balcony of the court room was filled and other spectators stood about the room. The defendant's wife sat at his side throughout the afternoon session. Closing arguments of rival attorneys included the state's attack on the testimony of the defendant and the defense assault upon the testimony of the complaining witness. Defense attorneys said following the verdict that their appeal would be based upon three objections to the charge, which, in the opinion of the defense lawyers, are "reversible errors."

statement that Tom Kelly, the dead woman's husband, recently furnished information in a robbery for which the husband of Mrs. Davis is sought. The women denied all knowledge of the crime and insisted that they be given an immediate preliminary hearing. The hearing, the sheriff said, will await a report by state chemists in Atlanta, to whom the viscera of Mrs. Kelly has been sent for examination.

Mail Poison Plot Is Fatal To Two

ALEDO, Ill., Feb. 17 (AP)—Postal authorities working on a "mail poison plot" case which was responsible for the deaths of two Aledo residents followed a trail today which led them toward Los Angeles or Long Beach, Calif. Investigation indicated the plot may have had its inception 18 months ago with the organization of an anti-chicken thief society in which one of the victims, Mrs. Curtis Lowry, 40, had been active. Maurice Baker, 33, a farmer, the other victim, died on the same date as Mrs. Lowry, February 2, after having taken a sample "in" medicine sent through the mail.

Twelve persons in Aledo, including the two victims and state's attorney James A. Allen, were the only ones so far as is known who received poison capsules. None, except Mrs. Lowry and Baker, used the medicine. Following their deaths, state's attorney Allen ordered an investigation and examination of the vital organs of the deceased, and the contents of the capsules. I. V. Kinney, postoffice inspector, of Rock Island, Ill., was assigned to the case. It is he who traced the mailing of the medicine to Kansas City and while there picked up clues which led him to believe the plotters had gone to California.

Austrian Streams Steadily On Rise

VIENNA, Feb. 17 (AP)—Fears are felt throughout Austria over the steady rising of the Danube and other large streams throughout the country. Due to the unprecedented winter weather great accumulations of snow are melting in the mountains swelling thousands of streams and causing larger rivers to overflow banks. Hundreds of homes, sawmills and barns are submerged but so far no loss of life has been reported. The entire plain between the Danube and the Rhine is a vast torrent of rushing water.

BODY OF AGED MAN FOUND IN LOFT OF BARN

OWN SON HELD BUT HE DENIES CONNECTION WITH SLAYING

(By the Associated Press)
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Feb. 17.—Thomas Kiecal, 74, father of Stanley Ketchel, whose sensational career in the prize ring was cut short by an assassin, has met a similar fate.

Kiecal's body, with the throat slashed, was found in a barn loft at the family home yesterday. John Kiecal, a son, in whose possession a bloodstained knife was found, was held.

Probable Motive Cited
The killing, occurring nearly 17 years after Stanley was shot to death at Conway, Mo., is believed by authorities to have had its motive in a dispute over land left by the former middleweight champion, which since has multiplied in value. Stanley, who adopted the ring name of "Ketchel," bequeathed to his mother parcels of resort land along the Pine Island lake district near here.

Man Denies Slaying
John, arrested several miles from the scene of the slaying, denied connection with the killing, but refused to answer questions, police said. He would give no account of his movements nor explain the blood-stained knife. A cap, which was picked up near the spot where the body was found, was identified by Arthur Kiecal as the property

THE JAZZ SINGER

Novelized by Arline De Haas
Taken from the scenario 'The Jazz Singer' starring Al Jolson. Copyright, 1927, By Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS
Cantor Rabinowitz has trained his son, Jakie, to sing the Hebrew songs of the synagogue. On the eve of the day of atonement he finds Jakie singing ragtime in a 'beer garden.' He whips the child and Jakie runs off. Ten years pass. Jakie, now Jack Robin, a jazz singer, down on his luck, meets Buster Billings, a monologist, in a San Francisco vaudeville booking office. Buster introduces him to Mary Dale, a dancer whom Jack admires. Mary hears Jack sing and wants to help him. She arranges an audition for him with Berg, the manager of her act, and Berg hires him.

"We leave on the Sunset Limited tomorrow night," Berg told him. "At 6:15. Get into the car at 8:05 Sunday morning. We play the Orpheum there. You'd better be at the theater about 10 and arrange this number with the orchestra. I'll be there to give you your spot in the act."

"Thank you, Mr. Berg," Jack hurried back stage to find Mary. "Miss Dale," he called, pounding excitedly on Mary's dressing room door. "Miss Dale, it's Jack Robin. Can I see you a moment?"

Mary opened the door a few inches, pulling her dressing gown about her.

"What did he say?" she questioned eagerly—almost as eagerly as Jack himself felt.

"He said he liked my voice and I had a good number and he's going to wire New York, and I'm going to Los Angeles with you to try out a song Sunday mat, and—"

"Not so fast. You have me all muddled," Mary laughed. "You say he's going to take you along to Los Angeles?"

"Yes, and he says that if the manager there reports favorably and it's O. K. with the New York office, he'll take me on."

"Congratulations," Mary exclaimed. "That means Berg is sold, and you'll be with us. If you'll wait I'll be dressed in a few minutes and we can talk." She shut the door.

Jack paced the floor, a song on his lips and happiness flowering in his heart.

CHAPTER VII
The ten years that had wrought the changes in Jakie Rabinowitz of the Ghetto and turned him into Jack Robin, a "black face" songster, had failed to take much impression on the Orchard street synagogue and the home of Cantor Rabinowitz. The Cantor and his wife had aged—that seemed to be about all. The lines were a little deeper in their faces; their hair was just a little more gray; their step was a little less steady. The sorrow in their hearts, of which they seldom spoke now, had engraved itself a little deeper with each passing year.

True, the children who had been children with Jakie had grown into men. But each year brought new recruits to the Cantor's choir. Each year saw a few changes in the faces of the boys of the school. The Cantor noticed little differences, however. They all sang as loudly as ever, with the exception of one or two. And the Cantor continued teaching his age-old chants and prayers. Even now, seated at a table in his home, he was instructing a favorite pupil.

"No, no, no! Didn't I tell you how you should sing it?" The Cantor interrupted the boy's song nervously. "Sing it with a sigh, with a sigh—do you understand! You are praying to God. Nu, try again."

Moey, a lean Ghetto child of about ten years of age, looked seriously out of great dark eyes at his preceptor, an old, olive skinned face, at his preceptor.

"Yes, sir," he nodded, and once more took up the wailing strain of the chant, his little head bobbing seriously and his mouth opening wide.

"No, Moey, no!" The Cantor called his scholar to a halt. "Do you understand what it means, then words you are singing? What means 'Vaanee Sefeeleose'?"

"It means 'I, my prayer'."

"Good! And who does it mean, 'Ain Bissan Eshim'?"

"When are you ready, O God?"

"Hm-hm-hm! A smart boy, you are, Moey. Nu, what means it, 'Berov Chadecho Aneni Be-emes Yishecho'?"

Moey hesitated, his head down-cast, tracing the flowered patterns of the rug with an embarrassed toe. "I—I don't know," he admitted.

"Don't I tell you you should learn that! A smart boy like you what has the most beautiful voice in the choir! Never will you learn to sing until you know what means the words. Nu, Moey, listen. It means 'I offer my prayer to you when you are ready, O God, with your multitudes of benedictions—answer me, O God, with truth, and help me, Nu, again sing.'"

Once more the childish voice prayed the words. But the Cantor shook his head impatiently.

"Stop! Stop!" he cried, pressing his hands to his tired head. "Oh, I wish my Jakie was here. He could show you how to sing it. The words he understood when he was a little boy yet. And such a voice—like an angel!" The Cantor stared dreamily into space, forgetful of his pupil.

"He ran away from home, didn't your Jakie?"

"Who said—Where did you heard that?" The Cantor looked up, startled from his reverie of the past.

"Gee, all the boys in the choir know that," Moey responded. "Why did he run away?" the child persisted.

The Cantor stared, unseeing. "I ain't got any boy," he said at last.

"But Mike Lefkowitz says your boy is a singer in a theater way out west—in Pittsburgh or Buffalo," Moey insisted.

"I ain't got any boy." The Cantor rose. "I ain't got any boy," he repeated listlessly. "So, is finished the lesson for today." He pulled himself together with an effort. "Come back tomorrow."

The boy nodded, staring at the Cantor, and silently took his cap and left the house. At the sound of the shutting door, Mrs. Rabinowitz peered into the living room.

"Is he gone, Moey?" she questioned, looking round the room. The Cantor looked up and mumbled an acquiescence.

"He is a good boy," Mrs. Rabinowitz sighed.

"Yes, Sara," the Cantor agreed. "It's a pleasure to hear him singing in the choir. And his papa, Oloy Hasholem, was a rabbi. Maybe from Moey I can make yet a cantor. Yes, from him I will make a great cantor."

"It seems like yesterday our Jakie was standing so and you was learning him to sing," Mrs. Rabinowitz sighed.

"Sara!" The Cantor faced about angrily. "I ask you already a thousand times you shouldn't speak his name in my house."

"But papa, I heard you from the kitchen," Mrs. Rabinowitz defended herself. "You spoke it yourself to Moey."

"Well, Moey and me was singing, and—well, I made a mistake."

"A mistake! A papa should speak from his only son one time in ten years and it's a mistake!"

"It ain't good, Sara, that we should think too much about that boy. He don't think about us. God knows if he's maybe in jail."

"How can you speak like this from your only child, Jakie's a good boy and he ain't in jail. In the last letter he says—"

"I don't want to know from his letters," the Cantor interrupted bitterly.

"But he's got a steady job now."

"Oh, oi, maybe you could forget what he done. I can't." The Cantor paced the floor nervously. "The day of atonement it was. A crowd of synagogue. So proud he was! Everybody waiting to hear the Cantor's son sing 'Kol Nidre.' And he runs away. Oh, we is mir!"

"Yossee, please! I feel lonely for our Jakie."

"And you think I don't?" The Cantor turned and faced his wife. "Don't speak no more," he commanded.

"Is so, papa, I won't. But Jakie has a good job. He is making money yet."

"Money! Money! Is that all he should care for? A little less money and more God is better."

"Yossee, please," Mrs. Rabinowitz laid a restraining hand on her husband's arm. "You shouldn't excite yourself. Go lay down and take a rest. I won't talk no more of Jakie. Please to go."

"All right, Sara," the Cantor patted his wife's shoulder wearily. "I'll go now and lay down and maybe I'll feel better." He moved slowly toward the bed room and closed the door behind him.

Are You Nervous, Run Down, Weak?

To have pep and ambition, and the ability to do a big day's work and feel like a two year old at night, you must eat three good meals a day, rest your food and properly digest it. If you are a nervous, run-down, weak man, take a spoonful of Tanlac three times a day before meals.

Dr. John Robertson, of 222 Spring St., Little Rock, Ark., says: "I couldn't eat anything, couldn't sleep, and working was almost an impossibility. But after 3 bottles of Tanlac I could eat a bull's horn and sleep like a log!"

Tanlac is wonderful for indigestion, gas, constipation, nervousness, dizziness and headaches. It brings back lost appetite, helps you digest your food, and gain strength and weight. It contains no mineral drugs; it is made of roots, herbs and berries, nature's own medicines for the sick. The cost is less than 5 cents a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist and give it a thorough trial. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

THE PLAINSMAN Says: That Girl on Broadway says all play and no work makes Dad a poor man.

THE PLAINSMAN

Says:

Well, folks, The Plainsman has gone and done it. After serving a four year term in a high school and following that up with a similar hitch at college without yielding to the temptation, he has finally fallen from grace and attended a DEBATE. Yessir, a real, sure enough debate, of the great educational institutions, namely Baylor university and the Texas Technological college.

Before you grow too harsh in your criticism, The Plainsman wants to offer an alibi for stumbling from the straight and narrow path. He really didn't intend to go to the debate at all—but the weather was bad last night and his little sister-in-law had to go to get a credit in public speaking so The Plainsman wound up in the arena corner, while four young orators, whose average age would figure about one decade, discussed international relations.

The Plainsman has always had a speaking feeling that he was more or less of an uncouth roughneck at heart. Now he is sure of it. Yet his attendance at the debate proved one thing to him and that is, despite the fact of some of our most learned professors that the college of the nation are laying too much stress upon athletics and that something should be done about it, for forensics are not likely to ever displace football, basketball and other home-breaking pastimes in the hearts of the collegians.

Now, you folks who are debate addicts, don't get mad at The Plainsman because he fails to respond to the gentle art of public discomfitment. It takes all kinds of folks to make up a world, and everyone to their own taste as the old lady said when she kissed the cow.

You'll probably wonder what the point is in all this discussion and the perpetrator of this column is willing to admit that he's just mad because he had to desert home and leave his wife and children last night when he didn't want to go anywhere. It's not that he is irrevocably opposed to debating—he's probably felt the same way if he'd been forced, against his will, to attend any other kind of a function. You folks who enjoy debates—and who advance really sensible reasons for liking them, and who further can point out that debating is really good training for the youthful minds of speakers and listeners alike—before you blame The Plainsman in a rage, just put yourself in The Plainsman's place. How would you like to have been forced out in the snow and cold last night when you preferred to stay at home? You'd probably want to blow a little steam, wouldn't you?

That Man on Avenue Q says no man can be criticized for talking—providing he says something while he's doing it.

The Plainsman is of the opinion that the trial of law suits where testimony is likely to be of a delicate nature, should be behind closed doors. Third-seekers, he believes, should be barred from such cases and attendance should be limited to officials, jurors, essential witnesses, members of families of principals involved, lawyers trying the case, and a representative of the press. The latter should be required to attend so that the facts of the case, so presented, are so unimpeachable to the most youthful or inexperienced reader may be given to the public. In other words, curiosity seekers—buzards who feast upon salacious testimony—should be kept on the outside.

As a representative of the Lubbock newspapers, The Plainsman recently attended the trial of a case, the testimony of which was certainly of a delicate nature. The trial got under way at nine o'clock in the morning on a cold and disagreeably day. Yet some two hundred thrill-seekers were on hand when the courtroom doors were opened and before the trial was completed every seat was filled and a number of spectators were turned about the walls.

It so happened that none of the principals of the case were particularly widely known and since that was the case, it is only logical to believe that the majority of the spectators present came to hear testimony for the mere thrill that there was in it. And, frankly, some of the testimony in the case was of a nature that no one was particularly benefited in spirit or mind by hearing it.

The Plainsman is of the opinion that most of us stumble over enough sordid conditions in a lifetime without searching for additional one on which to feed a curiosity. Co-operation from the courts in removing as much of it as possible from the

Mistakes Of 1924 Must Be Wiped Away If Democrats Are To Make Any Headway, Senator Harrison Tells Dutcher

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—The old woman who waddles through City Hall Square in the late hours of the afternoon, balancing upon her head a great bundle of rags and papers. Just as the setting sun begins to carve its last oblique angles about the towering Wall Street skyscrapers, you will see her slowly trudging along, her bulky body bent under the weight of her load. A second bundle of rags and papers loads down her hands. As she tottles she mumbles to herself something that is half a chant and half a monologue. It is no language known to the human ear.

The sleek, immaculately dressed young men of the "Street" sweep by her. In the late afternoon rush they jostle her. And the bundle, so well balanced upon her head, sways precariously but does not fall. She disappears finally under the City Hall arch, her shuffling steps carrying her in the direction of the tawdry lanes of tenement life that lie beyond. In the fantastic patterns of light and shadow she becomes a startling symbol of poverty that creeps past unnoticed in the midst of wealth and power.

These strange, courteous merchants who crowd the narrow lanes just back of Chinatown. Each one carries his wares in his hand or in his pocket. Each tries to trade upon the other, or upon some passing vagrant from the Bowery. The merchandise in which they deal is nothing short of incredible. Here is an old fellow in a skull cap and a mammoth beard bulging over his chest and he is holding out an ancient pair of suspenders from which elasticity is fast parting. Here is a younger man with two well-worn belts over an arm.

Here is one with a pair of patched overalls, another with a well-worn coat. Another with an old alarm clock. Here you will find ancient watch chains, cheap wrist watches, made-over shoes and battered hats. As though trapped in some mad passageway that will about each of the mazy and re-passing in a street circle. From a distance the little crowd resembles a throng gathered to watch a fight.

They approach their customers with a furtive whisper in the air. At the same time they hold out their wares with a well-worn Now and then they exchange glances over the dullness of business and try to strike a bargain among each other. Now and then a new delegation arrives and disappears into one of the many slapping, looking-outfitting stores that line the side streets. These are the most primitive of Manhattan's merchants. Their means of barter is not unlike the ancient street methods of the Orient. This is their particular bazaar, and it is come the far-side and down-and-outs of the city.

From this curbstone business the merchants generally graduate to the dignity and affluence of a push cart business. The next step is a little store over on the East Side, with some push-carts on the side in case business is bad. Many a Manhattan merchant prince has built his success over such a route. With Our West TEXAS BY JAMES L. DOW Contemporaries

When one stops to think of it, there is little conversation worthy of the name these days. During business hours, business is king, or murder trials and risqué jokes are heard over the coffee cup when the business man takes a few minutes off. Nearly everyone talks about the same thing. "Have you heard...?" is a recurring phrase. In social life you must jabber "small talk" or, if a serious subject comes up, you must either take the popular viewpoint, do up the subject in a few cutting phrases, and nod vigorously, self-satisfied, and be "different."

Those who complain that we have lost the art of conversation are sadly mistaken if they think people can't talk intelligently. The trouble is there are no listeners now as there were in the old days. Take the art of listening we have lost, and it undoubtedly is due to the fact that in this day everybody takes newspapers and magazines, and each citizen is so well informed that he wishes to do a great deal of talking. Even when others in the company have the floor, he is not listening, but is turning over in his mind the things he will say when it is his turn to talk.

There is a lot of truth in what the Post says. The trouble is, strangely enough, that the good talker is usually a good listener, and poor talkers are usually poor listeners.—Pampa News. This is a wonderful age in many respects. Wonderful in many ways. It is wonderful for the general attention given to speakers and it is wonderful for the lack of something to say when a fellow gets on the platform. We do not know just which side of this question is to blame for the failure of the other.

In the general run of conversation it is very true that there is little attention given, and as a rule when public speakers appear it is hard to get the attention of the congregation unless the speaker has an unusually attractive message, and is an attractive speaker. This is probably caused by people having so much business in their minds that they cannot thoroughly dismiss it from their thoughts while the speaker is undertaking to put his message over.

GERMAN BIRTH RATE DROPS In the schools of Berlin are only 53,000 children as compared with 76,000 before the World War, and the birth rate is less than half that of 15 years ago. This was the declaration of the Ober-Bürgermeister of Berlin, speaking recently in the Prussian Council of State. He attributed the decrease in the birth-rate principally to the insufficient number of houses.

A dry rider in Illinois got one to 14 years for killing a man. A Michigan man got life for having a pint of gin. It's just as Ezra Meeker says, the world is getting better and better, day by day.

That girl who is going to marry the man she shot in Paris last fall, it seems to us, got the cart before the horse.

French savants foresee a trip to the moon possible in three and a half hours. We'd rather not be bothered.

The Democrats must exercise enough common sense to refuse to accept those controversial differences which the Republican party always stuns but is ever alert and smart enough to hand to us. Then we can't do that, we might as well break up the two big parties and form them along new lines. But the Democratic party has too great a mission to allow itself to be swerved from its course through minor differences. It is the only interest through and by which the rank and file of the American people—and that includes the laboring man, the farmer, the clerk and the honest business man—can get a square deal. The Republican party, with its ancient street methods of the Orient, is its particular bazaar, and it is come the far-side and down-and-outs of the city.

From this curbstone business the merchants generally graduate to the dignity and affluence of a push cart business. The next step is a little store over on the East Side, with some push-carts on the side in case business is bad. Many a Manhattan merchant prince has built his success over such a route. NOTABLES ARE TO BE INVITED FOR GAS MEET

MANY GOVERNORS AND UTILITIES HEADS TO GET INVITATIONS

DALLAS, Feb. 17.—Governors and utility commissioners of five southwestern states are to be invited to attend the natural gas convention of the United States in Dallas May 7, 8, 9 and 10. The convention is the annual gathering of the natural gas department of the American Gas Association and will attract delegates and others interested in the gas industry from all over the United States and Canada.

Mark of Respect The invitation to the southwestern governors and commissioners has been decided on as a mark of respect to the heads of the states producing the greatest amount of natural gas, according to Henry C. Morris of Dallas, manager of the Dallas Gas company, who is chairman of the arrangements committee. The five states whose officials will receive invitations are Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Kansas and Texas.

Production Increase The attention of the state executives will be called to the fact that the greatest increase in production of natural gas in the last year has been in the southwest, Mr. Morris said. It is stated by gas men that the rapid development of natural gas transmission, especially the laying of long lines in Texas, had been the outstanding public utility development of the year in this section.

The latest in gas ranges, refrigerators, appliances of all kinds and gas machinery will be displayed as an exhibit to be held in conjunction with the convention.

Safe and Sane Relief for Pain

Capudine is the logical agent to relieve pain and high nerve strain because it gives relief by soothing the nerves—not by deadening or doping them. It contains no opiates. Being liquid, Capudine acts very much quicker than tablets and powders. Highly effective for headaches, neuritis, rheumatic pains, periodic pains. At all drug stores, 30c and 60c sizes. (adv.)

WHITE COLLAR EDUCATION IS TERMED WRONG

ECONOMIC STRUCTURE IS THREATENED, STATE EDUCATOR SAYS

(By Associated Press)
HOUSTON, Feb. 17.—A warning that America would soon lose its supremacy in industrial fields if the practice is not halted of educating youths into "white collar" positions was sounded Thursday by S. N. Hunsdon, vocational training director of the state department of education.

He was addressing the forty-fourth annual convention here of the International Association of Master Painters and Decorators of the United States and Canada.

Deplores Situation
Mr. Hunsdon deplored the fact that ninety per cent of young American men and women today were equipped only for "white collar" occupations while this field offered employment to only ten per cent of that number.

"We cannot keep America in the vanguard of world civilization," declared Mr. Hunsdon, "if we continue to turn out men and women fitted for doing non-professional work or non-manual labor. Few are being trained today to meet the demands of organized labor along vocational lines, coming with an increased population.

Economic Structure
The soundness of our whole economic structure depends upon the man who works with his hands. World markets of the future will depend upon the nation whose workers are most efficient and skillful. If America cannot come up to this standard, she will find it hard to hold her own home market in the face of aggressive competition furnished by rehabilitated Europe."

William Ward Watkins, Houston architect, predicted that another decade will find increased skill in all the building arts where color plays a part.

She was a sister of Lynn P. Talley, governor of the federal reserve bank of Dallas, who was called to her bedside Thursday morning.

In addition to her brother, Mrs. Mitchell is survived by her husband and three daughters. Haman of Fort Worth. Funeral services will be held at Temple Friday afternoon.

Littlefield Sees Bright Prospects

LITTLEFIELD, Feb. 17 (Special)—With a building program of $40,000 under way, new farmers moving into the trade territory and others improving their places, Littlefield and Lamb county under a blanket of snow, is looking at the world through rose colored glasses. The snow, which swept over the territory yesterday and the night before, will be of great value to the farmers who have wheat planted and to others who have been hoping for moisture to break their lands.

Porcupine Quill Is Fatal To Man

HAZELTON B. C., Feb. 17 (AP)—A battle with a porcupine many years ago resulted in the death yesterday of Ernest Loring, former government telegraph lineman. One of a number of quills which entered Loring's flesh, worked its way through his body until it pierced his lungs bringing on a lingering and fatal illness.

JACKSON GETS CLEAR BILL IN INDIANA TRIAL

GOVERNOR CLEARED IN CONSPIRACY CHARGE ON INSTRUCTIONS

(By the Associated Press)
INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 17.—Ed Jackson, unseparated today resumed his duties as governor. He was acquitted yesterday of the charge that he concealed an attempt to bribe former Governor Warden T. McCray in 1923 to name James E. McDonald as Marion county prosecutor. A jury returned a directed verdict of not guilty.

Defense Pleas Upheld
Special Judge Charles M. McCabe ordered the acquittal when he sustained a defense motion which contended the state failed to prove that Jackson, Robert I. Marsh, local attorney, and George V. Coffin, Marion county republican chairman, had concealed the alleged bribery by keeping McCray, then governor, in fear. The statute of limitations of two years, therefore, applied in the case. The indictment was returned last fall.

It was over Governor Jackson's protest that his attorneys filed the motion for acquittal. The governor said he wanted to put his witnesses on the stand to refute statements of prosecution witnesses including former governor McCray that he personally had put the alleged bribe before McCray. In a statement the attorneys said Jackson was prevailed upon to do their bidding because of Coffin and Marsh who are scheduled to be tried later.

To Make Evidence Public
The governor, however, will make public his evidence as soon as the Marsh and Coffin cases have been disposed of, the statement said. Defense attorneys believed the Jackson evidence "will convince fair-minded persons that the charge of any wrong doing or criminal act on his part is wholly without foundation in fact."

Prosecutor William H. Remy said he was not prepared to say whether the state would appeal from the Judge's decision or what would be done with the cases of Marsh and Coffin. Judge McCabe in his final decision vigorously condemned the Ku Klux Klan, fear of whose power the state charged, kept McCray from revealing the alleged offer of $10,000 and immunity from embezzlement charges then pending against him if he would appoint McDonald prosecutor.

Passenger Planes For Route Erected
CHICAGO, Feb. 17 (AP)—Completion of plans for transcontinental airplane service at fares virtually the same as those charged by railroads, was announced today by officials of the Yellow Bus system. Operation is to start early next summer.

The planes are to be tri-motored and will carry 12 passengers. The announcement said that traveling time between New York and Chicago would be reduced one-half, with cost approximately the same as would be paid by rail.

New Mexico Bank Is Horseman's Victim

TUCUMCARI, N. M., Feb. 17 (AP)—The first bandit on horseback to hold up a bank in New Mexico in years, galloped away with $3,000 in cash from the First National bank at Naravisa, 50 miles northeast of here at noon yesterday.

Swinging from his saddle at the bank door, the masked bandit covered Cashier Mrs. Blanche Watts with his six-gun. She resisted and he struck her down with the gun and dragged her into the vault where he obtained $3,000 and securities of undetermined value.

He then mounted his horse and fled to the sand hills south of Naravisa. The alarm was not given until Mrs. Watts recovered consciousness 20 minutes later.
