'The killing of Dora Bloch'

Uganda minister defects

LONDON (AP) — Henry Kyemba, Uganda's minister of health and a close friend of President Idi Amin for 20 years, has defected and has asked to remain in Britain, a Home Office spokesman said Saturday night.

The disclosure followed publication by the London Sunday Times of articles in which Kyemba is quoted as saying he would not dispute estimates that more than 100,000 persons had been slain in Uganda since Amin came to power in a coup in 1971.

Among those Kyemba is quoted as identifying as murder victims were Dora Bloch, the Israeli-British grandmother who disappeared in Uganda after the Israeli raid on Entebbe airport last July, and Ugandan Anglican Archbishop Janani Luwum. Amin has said Luwum was killed in an automobile crash with two cabinet ministers last February while attempting to escape arrest.

"Mrs. Bloch had been murdered to satisfy the president's (Amin's) lust for vengeance," Kyemba is quoted by the Sunday Times as saying.

As for Archbishop Luwum and the two cabinet members, Kyemba is quoted by writer Russell Miller as saying: "All three were shot at close range."

In a first person account as told to Miller, Kyemba discusses reports of massacres in Uganda, with estimates of the numbers killed ranging over the years from various sources from 50,000 to 300,000.

MRS. DORA BLOCH

PRESIDENT IDI AMIN

"I would not even attempt to dispute the figures in the recent report by the International Commission of Jurists which indicated that more than 100,000 people have been murdered in Uganda since Gen. Amin came to power in 1971," Kyemba said.

"It is probably correct, although of course no one knows what the exact figure is and it is very difficult even to estimate it. Even Amin does not know how many people he has ordered to be executed."

He described conditions in Uganda as "very grave," adding:

"If I can help bring Amin's atrocities to an end sooner by telling the world what is happening in Uganda, then hundreds of lives will be saved because people are being murdered there every day. The country is littered with bodies."

After the the Home Office disclosure that Kyemba had defected, a spokesman for the British Foreign Office said, "We know he (Kyemba) is here and we will be interested in anything he says that throws light on events in Uganda." Britain broke relations with Uganda after the disappearance of Mrs. Bloch. The British have let it be known they do not want Amin to come to Britain as Uganda's representative to the Commonwealth Conference in London next week.

The Sunday Times said Kyemba had headed the Ugandan delegation to the World Health Organization conference in Geneva and defected from there.

"I knew it was only a question of time before I was due to be killed," the newspaper quoted the 37-year-old official as saying. "I was determined to escape before it was too late, and I wanted to ensure that what I knew about what is happening in Uganda would not die with me."

Inside, it devoted one and a half pages to a first person account "By Henry Kyemba as told to Russell Miller," under the headline, "The Killing of Dora Bloch" across seven columns.

According to the copyrighted accounts, news reached Kyemba in Geneva that Amin had heard rumors he planned to defect and members of Kyemba's family were arrested.

TIGHT SECURITY — A South Moluccan woman returning to her home near the school in Bovensmilde, Netherlands where terrorists are holding hostages is subjected to a body search by a police woman while other policemen search under the hood of a car. All South Moluccans returning to their quarters near the school are required to be searched before they can enter the restricted area.

Hostages reported in good condition

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Two South Moluccan mediators who boarded a hijacked train Saturday reported they got assurances from South Moluccan terrorists that 55 hostages were "in fairly good condition."

Mediators Josina Soumokil and Dr. Hassan Tan spent about six hours on the train talking with the terrorists in an attempt to end the 12-day-old siege. They then went to the siege center in Assen and reported to Dutch authorities, said Toos Faber, a justice ministry spokeswoman.

Justice Ministry spokesman Wim van Leeuwen said a report of what the mediators said was rushed to the Hague where Prime Minister Joop den Uyl and other ministers were in emergency session.

He told reporters the mediators walked through the section of the train where the hostages were held but did not speak to them.

Mrs. Faber said there was no decision on when the next meeting would take place. Referring to the two intermediaries as "contact persons," she said Tan relayed the report on the condition of the hostages.

Mrs. Faber quoted Tan as saying the terrorists reported they were giving the best of care to a 23-year-old woman who is seven months pregnant. They told Tan she had been given her own compartment on the train.

There was no indication if the mediators had made any progress toward ending the siege that began May 23 when one band of armed Moluccans seized the train while another group seized a school house at Bovensmilde on the outskirts of Assen. Four Moluccans continued to hold four teachers hostage at the school, but they were not directly involved in the negotations.

The terrorists ordered two extra meals sent aboard the train for the mediators. They dined on meatballs, potatoes and peas with the 7 to 10 young terrorists and their hostages.

"There are no indications whatsoever on what went on or what was talked about during the last six hours," Mrs. Faber said.

'Bambi' unmasked

By JAMES WERRELL

"Why that's not Bambi. That's Sugar," remarked Jack Whitaker, after reading last Sunday's cover story in the Herald's Leisure magazine.

The story told of a tired, hungry and wounded deer who had been nursed and cared for by Ed and Eva McCain, caretakers at Moss Creek Lake, for the last month. The deer had been brought to the McCains by Game Warden Curtis Thomason.

"That deer had been stolen from my property over two months ago," said Whitaker. "I thought I had seen the last of her."

In 1973 Whitaker received a special permit to keep deer on his property on Route 2. The property includes 40 acres of land surrounded by a seven-and-half foot tall fence.

He received his first deer from the Abilene Zoo when the deer population there became too crowded. One of the three was the deer cared for by the McCains (Bambi or Sugar, take your pick). She was a yearling doe at the time.

About two months ago, the deer mysteriously disappeared.

"And deer don't get lost. I am sure that someone led her off," said Whitaker. "I learned from the warden (Thomason) that she had been hobbled when he found her."

Whitaker had thought Sugar was gone forever until 10 p.m. Thursday when he happened to notice the story in Leisure.

"He read that story and knew it was Sugar. But he didn't want to bother anyone at 10 o'clock, so he didn't call then. And he didn't sleep a wink either," laughed Mrs. Whitaker.

Whitaker was up bright and early Friday, though, and rushed out to see his deer at the McCains. He walked onto the property, whistled for Sugar, and was immediately recognized by his old friend.

Though the McCains and the deer had become good friends too, they were glad that Sugar had found her original home.

"I led Sugar back to our place, and whistled for the other deer (Whitaker has five in all, and two are Sugar's fawns.) When they saw Sugar, they all ran towards each other and then reared up in the air and ran around like a bunch of excited puppies," said Whitaker.

So everyone is happy; the McCains, the Whitakers, and especially a deer named Sugar (or Bambi, or something like that).

Patient injured when hit by car

A 39-year-old patient of the psychiatric ward of the Big Spring State Hospital was hospitalized Saturday after she stepped in front of a car which was traveling South on Highway 87.

She is in good condition at Malone-Hogan Hospital after being rushed there in the State Hospital ambulance.

The mishap occurred about ¼ of a mile north of Big Spring in the South bound lane of Highway 87 at about 11 a.m.

According to reports the mental patient had attempted unsuccessfully to step in front of two other cars before being struck by a vehicle driven by Mrs. Carla Young of New Braunfels.

Herald reporter collects national writing award

Marj Carpenter, area news reporter and feature writer for The Herald, added a prize jewel to her string of writing awards Saturday night when she won a first place in the National Press Women's Association's annual convention at Biloxi, Miss.

Ms. Carpenter's entry, her account in a major fire which occurred at Cosden refinery here in 1976, was entered in a division reserved for newspapers with circulation of 40,000 and less.

Ms. Carpenter's account of the fire had previously captured first place in Texas Press Women's competition and had been projected by that organization for consideration in national competition. At the state level, the Big Spring reporter had also won a second place in column-writing and third in feature series.

She was the only entry from District 2 of the Texas Press Women to place in the national contest. Her story reaped the highest number of points from the judges of any category in national competition.

Ms. Carpenter received her award in person, having flown to Biloxi Friday. Her winning story was on display at contest headquarters in Biloxi.

MARJ CARPENTER

Ms. Carpenter is well known for her column, "Ridin' Fence," which appears six days weekly in The Herald. She joined the Herald staff about five years ago, she has won numerous awards on regional and state levels.

Rioting erupts in Chicago park

CHICAGO (AP) — Two persons were shot to death and at least 49 injured Saturday as a massive disturbance erupted in a West Side park after a demonstration for Puerto Rican independence, authorities said.

At least 23 police officers were injured as police sealed off Humbolt Park, the Deputy Police Superintendent's office said.

Authorities said at least 26 civilians were treated for injuries at local hospitals and several were admitted.

Police command headquarters said nine persons, including the two dead men, were shot. Others were injured by thrown rocks and bottles, police said.

It was not immediately clear what touched off the disturbances, although police said, at one point, they may have started in a dispute between rival gangs. That, however, could not be verified by those at the scene.

About 3,000 persons gathered on the western edge of the park immediately after the shootings, authorities said. Late Saturday night, Police Superintendent James Rochford said the disturbance was "burning itself out," but he described the scene as still "very volatile."

Groups of Puerto Ricans, mostly youths, were throwing rocks and bricks, and setting cars on fire, officials said.

Hearts 'n flowers

Better odds

with Tommy Hart

I notice recent public opinion polls mirror the fact that the American people are taking a more benign attitude toward Richard Nixon since his television interviews with David Frost.

That's not surprising. Americans are hooked on flawed people. What's more, they're willing to reward them handsomely. In other times, if an unscrupulous person failed, he retreated into disgrace. Today, a transgression is often an investment. A fall can carry a greater guarantee than success. The more sordid the indelicate act, the better odds it offers for marketing.

The public is fascinated by the individual who dares to break the rules. Maybe people identity with failures because they see in such individuals some of their own characteristics.

Whatever the reason, the intrepid ones can bare their souls, live off the proceeds and even gain handsomely in public esteem.

Action/reaction: Fewer teachers?

Q. Is it true our schools aren't going to have any fewer teachers even though plans are to close five elementary schools? How can we ever reduce the cost of our education systems if we don't reduce our instructor staff accordingly?

A. Teachers in the local system were recommended for reappointment as early as March, as per custom. Department Supt. Emmett McKenzie said, "We anticipate that over the summer some will resign. Teachers have been given the opportunity to see what choices they will have under the new arrangement. Should the normal attrition not take place we would likely start the season slightly overstaffed. The number in excess of that needed would be placed on a regular substitute basis. Rather than employ substitute teachers, as has been the case in the past, we would use these teachers as substitutes. No, none of the teachers will wind up as school bus drivers, unless they ask for such assignment."

Offbeat: Austin to file tax suits

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — City officials expect to file 45,000 lawsuits this year to collect back taxes — five times as many as last year.

Most of the suits apparently will be aimed at back property taxes, many of them on automobiles, boats and airplanes.

Asst. City Attorney Mike Mulcahy said many people don't realize that not getting a tax bill doesn't relieve them of the obligation to pay, if the money is owed to the city.

Milford raps Carter

DALLAS (AP) — Rep. Dale Milford, D-Tex., lashed out Saturday at the Carter Administration's decision to deny the sale of Texas-produced A7 attack planes to Pakistan.

In a statement released by his Washington office, Milford said the decision appears to have been based on "a desire to avoid offending the new government in India," rather than on the defense needs of Pakistan.

Milford claimed Texas congressmen were not consulted by the Carter Administration before the decision.

"I am deeply disturbed by some things this decision and the way it was made tell me about the Carter Administration," said Milford. "It raises in me a real fear that foreign policy is being conducted. . .by whim and by fancy, without due regard for real situations in the real world."

Galveston water shortage

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Galveston Island, surrounded by the Gulf of Mexico, is facing a water shortage brought on by a broken water line and scorching summer weather.

One of the two water lines that link Galveston, with a population of about 65,000, with the Texas mainland has been broken since March and city officials have asked residents to voluntarily reduce their consumption of fresh water.

Acting City Manager Steve Huffman said Friday that unusually hot, dry weather has increased water usage by 25 per cent since May.

Island residents face mandatory restrictions if they don't comply with the city's request to stop watering lawns, washing cars or filling swimming pools, he added.

The average daily usage has increased to 15 million gallons per day. The maximum amount that can be delivered to the island in the only functioning water line is between 15.5 and 17 million gallons.

The city can store 32 million gallons for emergencies, such as fires, but only 27 million gallons are now in reserve, Huffman said.

Even with the second line, which is expected to be out for another two months, the island could only pump 18.5 million gallons daily.

Sheriff plays Tom Sawyer

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas County commissioners turned down Sheriff Carl Thomas' request to paint the county jail, so the sheriff did what Tom Sawyer did — he got some help from his friends.

Thomas asked the public Thursday to donate 960 gallons of paint for the jail and by Friday night he had received promises for more than 600 gallons.

Thomas made the appeal on the contention that the commissioners court refused to give him $5,000 to buy paint brushes and paint.

But embarrassed commissioners said Friday after Thomas made the public appeal that Thomas had not been turned down flat. County Judge John Whittington and Commissioner Roy Orr said the sheriff only had been asked to see if he had money in his budget for paint before they dipped into other accounts for the funds.

Commissioner Jim Tyson said he was "embarrassed" that the sheriff had appealed to the public for help. He said he had planned to use money from his own county road and bridge district to buy the paint if the court had not given Thomas the money.

"The sheriff also needs some new carpeting for his office and I hope we don't have to go through this on that," Tyson said.

Commissioner resigns

WELLS, Tex. (AP) — A Texas Parks and Wildlife commissioner, whose term expired Feb. 1, said he resigned Saturday because Gov. Dolph Briscoe has yet to appoint anyone to fill a new six-year term.

"I don't care who he appoints, I just think that these appointments should be filled when they come up," said Jack Stone, who served on the sixmember commission for six years, three as chairman. "It's nothing personal between me and the governor."

Nixon discusses presidential powers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, expanding on his televised comments about presidential power, says a president must have the ability "to go beyond the strict letter of existing law" in times of emergency.

He likens presidential responsibility to interpret the written law to that of judges and says it would be disastrous to limit the president "merely to the mechanical function of executing the precise letter of the law written in other times and for other circumstances."

Presidents must have latitude "for adapting the statutory laws to the laws of necessity and to the laws of reason," the former president said in a lengthy written statement he submitted to the Washington Star. The newspaper planned to publish the statement Sunday with Nixon's byline, together with an analysis by a Star reporter.

Nixon writes that his views are "not the way they have been represented by columnists and cartoonists on the basis of fragments of one conversation" with interviewer David Frost last month.

The former president, asked by Frost why he had authorized burglaries, wiretapping and other illegal actions against anti-war dissenters, replied that "when the president does it, that means that it is not illegal."

The quotation was widely interpreted and criticized as a claim that the president is above the law.

Nixon wrote the Star:

"First, I do not believe and would not argue that a president is above the law. Of course, he is not. The question is what is the law and how is it to be applied with respect to the president in fulfilling the duties of his office.

"Precedents over the years have sanctioned some degree of latitude in the use by presidents of emergency measures to meet emergency situations. I believe such latitude is necessary, and at times vital.

"My insistence that this latitude does not place presidents above the law is not a semantic quibble. To me, it is a vital distinction which goes to the heart of our constitutional system."

Nixon says the law is not a precision instrument; that all the circumstances in which the laws might be applied cannot be forseen by those who write them.

"Therefore," he writes, "those charged with executing them need some measure of latitude, some room for the exercise of judgment, for prudent response, for protecting the public interest — for adapting the statutory laws to the laws of necessity and to the rule of reason."

Nixon's theme is that a president must find flexibility in existing law because "in dealing with a major threat to the public safety, a president who let himself be paralyzed by the strict letter of the law would violate his oath; that would not be faithful execution..."

On his theme of flexibility, Nixon writes:

"Dicretionary power in administering or executing the laws is not unique to the president.

"Prosecutors sometimes elect not to enforce a particular statute, when the surrounding circumstances persuade them that to do so would result in an injustice rather than justice, or when it would compromise other national interests — for example, by revealing intelligence sources."

Nixon does not suggest that out-of-date laws can be remedied by amendment or new legislation.

The former president had told Frost that seeking laws to legalize the intrusions into privacy he ordered would have raised a public outcry and alerted targets of investigations.

The argument centers in the middle ground "between the concepts of autocrat and automaton", Nixon says. "There is no way in which these powers can be codified satisfactorily."

Nixon says it would be absurd "to maintain that anything at all — anything without limit — which a president might order thereby became legal... but it would be equally absurd to maintain that there is no area of discretion in which a president can take emergency actions to meet emergency situations, and by his sanction, protect subordinate officers against legal penalties."

A president, Nixon says, "is not an autocrat. He does not rule by fiat. His powers are not unlimited."

He concedes the nature of power is that it will sometimes be abused by the executive, the legislature and by the courts "but the exercise of power is not necessarily the abuse of power even when that exercise results in a technical breach of statutory limits."

Nixon said the Huston plan of burglaries, wiretapping and other forms of surveillance was targeted at an organized, clandestine campaign of violence. He said he approved the plan, despite a warning that it was illegal, because "combatting (violence) was a federal responsibility."

He warned against tying a president's hands in such situations, saying "we have to place some faith in his judgment. We have to give him room for maneuver. We have to weigh the potential for abuse if we allow him to act, against the potential for disaster if we do not allow him to act."

Judge's rape remarks trigger petitions

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A state senator said Saturday he has filed a complaint with the Wisconsin Judicial Commission against a judge who said during a rape case that permissiveness and women's revealing clothing were to blame for the sexual arousal of some young men.

The action by state Sen. Timothy Cullen — which could lead to censure but not removal from the bench — came as reaction continued to mount to the remarks by Dane County Judge Archie Simonson.

State Rep. David Clarenbach said he may initiate impeachment proceedings. A coalition of women's groups said 7,000 of the required 21,000 persons have signed petitions in three days demanding a recall election. The city council and county board have passed resolutions condemning the judge and the courthouse has been picketed by placard-carrying women wearing everything from bathrobes and nun's habits to bikini swimsuits.

Simonson, meanwhile, went on vacation Friday and refused further public comment on the rape case or his remarks.

However, his attorney, Richard Cates of Madison, said the judge has decided to release edited transcripts of the case. Those transcripts will vindicate the judge and head off efforts to remove him from office, said Cates.

"I think Judge Simonson has a very significant story to tell, and I think the basis for that story lies in the transcripts," Cates said.

He said he did not know when the transcript would be released.

The judge's comments were made two weeks ago while hearing a case in which a 15-year-old boy pleaded no contest to the sexual assault of a girl at Madison High School. Simonson ordered the youth to spend a year under court supervision in his parents' home.

"Should we punish a boy who reacts normally to it?" Simonson said, referring to what he called the permissive attitude of the Madison community and the sexually stimulating clothing worn by many young women.

The 16-year-old rape victim was wearing blue jeans and a blouse over a turtleneck sweater, but the judge later said his comments were of a general nature rather than about the specific case before him.

Sen. Cullen said he hoped the nine-member Wisconsin Judicial Commission, set up in 1971 to oversee the state judicial code of ethics, would censure the judge for the remarks. He said censure would not remove him from office, "but the consequences for Simonson if the Judicial Commission did censure him would be pretty devastating."

George Alderson, the commission's executive secretary, said he has received letters about Simonson, but nothing will be done about any complaints until the next meeting in August.

The state court administrator's office said Friday that no judge in Wisconsin has ever been removed by either recall or impeachment.

Burglars add machine

Someone pried the lock off of the north service door of the West-Tex Roofing Co., 1811 Scurry, and stole a typewriter and an adding machine sometime between 5 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. Saturday.

According to reports, the burglars now have in their possession a $150 typewriter, and a ten-key adding machine. I.D. officer David Spillman took tests for finger prints, but at this time there are no definite suspects to the burglary.

Benford E. Billard, 2412 Runnels, parked his 1973 Ford Pickup truck, in front of his residence Friday at about 9:30 p.m., and when he awoke at 8:45 a.m. Saturday the truck was gone.

According to reports, the pickup was worth around $3000.

Vandals struck three different places Friday night or early Saturday morning.

At Bell's TV Service, 308 S. Gregg, the vandals spread manure all over the front display windows, the front door, and into the air conditioner where they added a few eggs for good measure.

Mrs. Mabel Kountz, 202 Washington, reported that vandals had spray painted the "yield" sign on her block a dark brown along with a fire hydrant, and the sidewalk.

M.W. Bats No. 83 O.K. Trailer Park, reported to police that someone had gotten into the back seat of his car and tore it up.

According to reports the damage amounted to about $100.

At 10:50 p.m. Friday, cars driven by Lisa Jo Loudamy, 1302 Baylor, and Lloyd Scott Walterbaugh, 1608 Runnels, collided on the 1300 block of Runnels.

Led Zeppelin rock concert called off

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Tampa officials called off a Led Zeppelin rock concert for the second night Saturday in the wake of a rock-throwing disturbance that injured 35 fans and 17 policemen.

"It's the safest thing to do. Tension is high. We don't want violence to break out again," a police officer said.

The disturbance broke out Friday night after rain and lightning forced the rock band off the stage. The concert was rescheduled for Saturday night and concert goers were told to show their ticket stubs at the gate.

But many people had already thrown away their ticket stubs in the huge Tampa stadium, and about 4,000 enraged fans in the crowd of 70,000 screamed and threw bottles and rocks.

Tampa authorities, police and concert promoters met the next day and decided to cancel the show and offer refunds for tickets.

"The announcement said 'postponed indefinitely.' I take that to mean canceled," said Officer Jay Stenger.

The injuries ranged from cuts and scratches to broken legs and head injuries. Only four persons remained in hospitals Saturday, and they were reported in satisfactory condition. The injured police officers were treated and released.

The scheduled three-hour concert was called off just five minutes into the performance. "With all their electrical equipment, they couldn't stay on the stage with the lightning," Stenger said.

But an angry 32-year-old fan from West Palm Beach said the tickets read "rain or shine."

"There were so many people you couldn't move," he said. "I was just trying to get away."

"I guess everybody got rowdy because they wanted the concert," a 17-year-old Tampa girl sobbed as she was waiting for treatment at a hospital. "But the cops didn't give us a warning. They just waded in. I ended up in the bottom of the crowd and a cop kicked me in the head."

The problem didn't end when the stadium was cleared. There were 26 traffic accidents within a one-mile radius of the stadium and 13 more people were injured,

One pedestrian was knocked out of his sandals by an unidentified vehicle, police said. But he was immediately scooped up and placed in a loaded ambulance moving away from the stadium.

Police said that 19 adults and several juveniles were arrested on charges ranging from trespassing to aggravated battery.

L. R. REED

STERLING CITY — Lee Rotan Reed, 79, mayor of Seterling City and a well-known area rancher, died Friday afternoon in Methodist hospital in Lubbock.

Services are scheduled for 3 p.m., today in the Sterling City Church of Christ, with burial in the Sterling City Cemetery under the direction of Ross Funeral Home.

Mr. Reed was born Feb. 26, 1898, in Sterling City and attended public schools in Kellis and Sterling City. He graduated from Texas A&M in 1920., He married Helen Ruth Garrett June 5, 1939, in San Angelo. She preceded him in death June 8, 1969.

Mr. Reed was a teacher and a coach at Sterling High School from 1923 until 1925. Following the death of his father, Neal Reed, in 1925, he entered the ranching business with his brother, Bill Reed.

The two men owned and operated ranches in Howard, Sterling, Glasscock, Mitchell, Hudspeth, Kent and Childress counties. Later, Chesley McDonald and Danny Stewart entered the partnership with the Reed brothers and the four operated the ranch holdings until 1972, when the holdings were divided.

In 1960, Mr. Reed was elected mayor of Sterling City in a special election, a position he held until his death. He served as a city councilman and mayor pro tem before becoming mayor.

He was a former director of the North Concho Soil Conservation District and was a member of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association, the Southwestern Ranchers Association, the West Texas A&M Club and the Aggie Club. He was a member of the Church of Christ.

Mr. Reed selected bulls for the Concho Hereford Association sales for a number of years. In 1971, the organization's silver anniversary was dedicated to him.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Danny Stewart, Sterling City; two grandchildren, Reed Stewart and Rene Stewart, both of Sterling City and several nieces and nephews.

Clinton infant

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. P.M. Clinton, yet unnamed, Ackerly, died at 1 a.m., Friday in a local hospital.

Graveside services will be Tuesday in Trinity Memorial Park with the Rev. Guy Waite, pastor of the E. Fourth Street Baptist Church officiating.

Survivors, in addition to his parents, include a brother, Milton Clinton, Ackerly; his maternal grandfather, A.J. Patton, Nacona; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Joyce Blackburn, San Angelo; paternal grandmother, Mrs. Sally Clinton, Midkiff; several aunts, uncles and counsins.

A. G. Chilton

Alfred G. Chilton, 56, died at 1 p.m., Saturday in a Big Spring nursing home.

Services are pending at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Survivors include a son, Randy Chilton, San Angelo; a daughter, Joyce Shaver, Arlington, and a sister.

Mrs. Slim Lane

Mrs. Slim (Laura Louise) Lane, 73, 207 N. Benton, died at noon Friday in a local hospital.

Services will be at 2 p.m., Monday in River-Welch Funeral Home Chapel, with Dr. Jimmy Law, pastor of College Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will occur in Trinity Memorial Park.

She was preceded in death by her husband Jan. 2, 1977. Mr. and Mrs. Lane moved to Big Spring from San Angelo in 1935. They operated restaurant and package stores. After Mr. Hale's death, she operated Lane's Liquor Store at 207 N. Benton.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. David Hill, Big Spring, and Mrs. John Porter, Plano; a brother, W.R. Mosley, Durant, Okla.; three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Ace Gillette, Bill Hinkle, Sam Anderson, Bud Green, Jack Berry, Foy Dunlap, Bruce Henshaw and Bob Knight.

Mrs. Jackson

Mrs. Gladys Prescott Jackson, 51, died at 6:45 a.m., Saturday in San Angelo.

Services will be at 4 p.m., Monday in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel, with Eugene Cardinal, minister of the 11th and Birdwell Church of Christ, officiating. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

Mrs. Jackson was born Aug. 7, 1925, in Hemphill, Tex. She had resided in the Forsan community from 1943 until 1965. She married Manuel Jackson Oct. 23, 1969, in Big Spring. She had lived in San Angelo the past 16 months after moving from Fairbanks, Alaska.

She was a member of the Church of Christ.

She is survived by her husband, of San Angelo; a son, Donald Prescott, Casa Grande, Ariz.; two daughters, Mrs. Preston (Glenda) Myrick, Big Spring, and Mrs. Joe (Nona) Henderson, Sand Springs, Tex.; five grandchildren; six brothers and three sisters.

She was preceded in death by three brothers and a sister.

James Fields

James Kenneth Fields, 41, died as the result of a gunshot wound at 6:45 p.m., Friday at his home, 3225 Duke.

Justice of the Peace, Gus Ochotorena, ruled suicide.

Services will be at 10 a.m., Monday in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel with Dr. Claude N. Craven, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, officiating.

Burial will occur in Trinity Memorial Park.

Mr. Fields was born Oct. 19, 1935, in Big Cedar, Okla. He moved to Big Spring from Oklahoma in 1948. He served in the U.S. Marine Corps during the Korean conflict. He married Jean Duncan Aug. 24, 1962, in Lamesa. He worked at Webb AFB for several years before becoming disabled in 1964. He then began his education toward a career in accounting and business administration, receiving a diploma in both.

He was a member of the Baptist Church.

Pallbearers will be Wilton Carver, Weldon Wood, Tommy Hubbard, O.D. O'Daniel Jr., Jerrald Walker and Carol Walker.

Penny for your thoughts

The Southland Corporation plans to collect 400 million pennies ($4 million) through its 6,200 7-Eleven Stores, including those in Big Spring, for the Muscular Dystrophy Association's 1977 Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon, according to Jere W. Thompson, the firm's president.

"We are asking the help of our employes, franchises and the nearly five million customers who shop each day in our 7-Eleven Stores to collect pennies for Jerry Lewis and his kids in this special campaign," Thompson said. "Our theme is 'Your Penny Can Be The Cure Penny.' We believe that there are literally billions of unwanted pennies, just lying around gathering dust, that could be the ones that finally help locate a cure for muscular dystrophy."

The do-it-yourselfer can add a little dash to his home with a minimum investment of time and money. When you think of decorating your walls — think of mirror tiles. They come in plate glass and in a gold-veined design. The tiles are usually one-foot square and are equipped with adhesive corner backings. They're packed in boxes of a dozen with simple instructions for installation. All you have to do is lay them out first in some rough plan spiced with imagination. This can be a family project for some old-fashioned Sunday "togetherness."

Plan your do-it-yourself remodeling job with the help of qualified personnel from HARRIS LUMBER & HARDWARE, E. 4th at Birdwell Lane! We are always happy to help you select the proper materials for your building or repair needs, and advise you on the correct procedures. If we don't have what you need, our special order department will get it for you. Stop in for painting supplies, finished paneling, mouldings, vinyl tile, power tools — everything you need to do the job! Call HARRIS LUMBER at 267-8206. We are open daily from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., and on Saturdays until 4 p.m. Ample parking is available.

"Every major civilization has eventually destroyed its wildlife, and civilization is fast overtaking East Africa," is a quote from Harold Hayes' new book, "The Last Place on Earth."

Hayes, a former editor of Esquire magazine, was writing in particular about the Serengeti Plain of Tasmania, last place on earth where mammalian wildlife still gathers in Pleistocene-like numbers.

Environmentalists are battling to save it. A man obsessed with the idea of salvaging the plain and its animals is Dr. Bernhard Grzimek, who crusades against encroachment while encouraging Africans to take pride in their parks.

The danger to African parks comes from exploding populations and domesticated cattle. Where wild herds, feeding the internal workings of the ecosystem, keep the grasses green, the cattle controlled by human owners overgraze the land and kill off the grass.

Hayes says loss of the Serengheti would be a 'social crime' because the knowledge to be gained from the ecosystem can eventually be used for man's benefit.

The world's most affluent people probably live in Dusseldorf, Germany. Dusseldorf is the richest city in a rich country. Its wealth is built on the industrial empires of the nearby Ruhr district. Three hundred nine-four of its 680,000 people make more than $400,000 a year.

Sixty to 70 per cent of the city was leveled in World War II by enemy bombardment but today it is a modern metropolls where a man's pair of shoes sells for up to $100 and the demand is big for them.

Dusseldorf is also the headquarters of the seven-million member German labor union federation, an organization with a lot of muscle.

It is said that anyone in Dusseldorf who wants a job can have one.

Walter Stroup, whose dodge and magnificent obsession is insurance, says the signals relayed by television and radio during storm alerts only serve to confuse him.

"What is the difference between tornado watch and tornado alert?" he asks.

Walter would improve upon the system by referring to an unstable weather condition as a "yellow alert" and a situation with funnel clouds in the area a "red alert." It could, points out Stroup, be compared with traffic signals where the color "red," if not respected, could mean disaster.

Weather

Hot sun lures many to water

By The Associated Press

Clear skies and a scorching June sun lured many Texans to swimming pools and lakes Saturday and brought dozens of shark fishermen to North Padre Island in search of a horde of sharks that has been roaming near shore since Wednesday.

While most of Texas was splashed with sunshine, Houston and the Beaumont-Port Arthur area sweltered under stagnant, smoke-filled air that was trapped by a weak high pressure ridge.

The blanket of air had dissipated by Saturday afternoon.

Temperatures soared into the mid and high 90s over most of the state. Dallas reported a 98 degree reading late Saturday afternoon, while Abilene posted a 92 and Wichita Falls had a 96.

The thousands of sharks had been taking advantage of the warm, clear Gulf water since Wednesday, feeding on shrimp and other morsels. The fishermen and crowds of curiosity seekers basked in the continued hot, clear weather near the coast Saturday.

FORECAST

EXTENDED FORECAST

WEST TEXAS: No significant threat of precipitation Tuesday through Thursday. Continued hot afternoons most sections. Highs mid 90s to near 100 except near 105 Big Bend valleys. Lows in the 60s and low 70s.

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecast for today calls for rain in the Pacific Northwest, rain or showers in the Great Lakes area, and an area of showers in the Southwest. Showers are also predicted in Florida.

Elections cost $114 million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidential elections last year cost almost $114 million. Uncle Sam provided most of it, small donors much of the rest and the "fat cats" of former times were pretty much out of it because of the new election finance laws.

These are the conclusions from an analysis of 1976 presidential campaign finances released Saturday by the Federal Election Commission and covering 23 candidates.

There were 13 Democrats who qualified for matching federal funds in the presidential primaries by first raising $100,000 in private contributions consisting of at least $5,000 in each of 20 states in amounts of no more than $250 per donor.

These 13 candidates received a total of $39.6 million from all sources. The Presidential Election Campaign Fund, financed by the taxpayers, supplied 37 per cent of it, or $14.5 million.

Only two Republicans qualified for matching funds in the primaries. President Gerald R. Ford and Ronald Reagan raised $28.3 million between them, including $9.7 million put up by the U.S. treasury.

Public and private funds raised by the 15 major party candidates in the primaries totaled $67,867,624, the FEC said.

In a marked departure from past practice, 51.3 per cent of the money raised by major party presidential candidates from private sources was given by donors of $100 or less.

At the other end of the scale was the mere 1 per cent of Republican primary money contributed from non-party political committees, the so-called special interest groups. The Democratic receipts from these groups totaled only 2 per cent.

These new aspects of campaign financing reflect the post-Watergate election reform laws which prohibit a donor from giving more than $1,000 to a presidential candidate. Although non-party committees could give up to $5,000 each, few did.

Political finance experts also attribute the change to the publicity spotlight put on presidential races by Watergate and other 1972 election scandals. They say the combination drove the special-interest money out of presidential elections and into congressional races.

It has been estimated that such groups gave more than $22 million to congressional candidates last year, almost double their 1974 total.

In addition to the 1976 Democratic and Republican presidential nominees on the general election ballot, there were eight third-party or independent candidates in at least 10 states and they reported raising $2.1 million, all from private sources.

The 10 general election candidates received $46,118,867 for their races from public and private sources, raising the grand total for the 1976 presidential derby to $113,986,491.

Stanton City Council to view audit report

STANTON — The Stanton city council faces a fairly long agenda when it meets at 7:30 p.m., here Tuesday.

The 1976-77 fiscal audit will be presented by Terry McWhorter of Bolinger, Segars, Gilbert and Moss.

City engineers will offer a status report on the sewer project and a proposal for the construction of new lines in West Stanton. Members of the Chamber of Commerce will meet with the countil concerning the availability of city-owned lots as a site for the new chamber headquarters.

City personnel will be discussed and a date for the meeting and the appointment of members to the board of equalization will be set.

Action will be taken on a resolution authorizing the mayor to sign a lease agreement with Martin County. The council will also move toward an ordinance appointing the Airport Board as the Airport Zoning Board.

Consideration will also be given about writing off delinquent utility bills for the past two years. Late charges may also be exacted against past due utility bills.

The council will also authorize the mayor to sign the inter-local agreement between the city and the Texas Municipal League for workman's compensation insurance and open bids for various urban renewal lots.

Six Flags operating

ARLINGTON — Six Flags Over Texas has begun daily operation after the most successful spring season in the theme park's 17-year history.

Some 406,500 persons visited Texas' number one tourist attraction on weekends from March 12 through May 16, breaking last year's record of 399,000.

Also, the record for the largest attendance on a single day was set Saturday, May 14, when a total of 41,047 came to the park, beating the previous high of 40,842 set on May 19, 1973.

General Manager Dan Howells attributed the record attendance, in large part, to a $2 million capital construction program carried out during the winter months.

He said, "The new Spinnaker ride and our Pirate Puppet Show have proven to be two of the most successful attractions added to the park in the last few years."

The theme park will be open daily through Labor Day and resumes weekend operation through the end of November.

During the summer season, Six Flags will extend its operating hours and provide special entertainment in the evening.

Six Flags officials expect to pass at least one more attendance milestone in the coming month. The 30 millionth guest is expected to arrive in June.

Can Hamby cure burglary epidemic?

RICK HAMBY

Clap, clap, clap.

The applause, which can be heard almost everywhere in Big Spring, is for District Attorney Rick Hamby's statement last week that his office is going to be very tough in prosecution of burglars.

In case you missed it, Hamby said:

"We are serving notice to any potential burglars that violating the sanctity of the home in Howard, Glasscock, and Martin Counties will no longer be considered with any leniency in this office, regardless of age or prior record."

HAMBY FELT the only way to check the rising burglary rate which has seen a 50 per cent increase from last year's already high mark is to take a firm stance.

The citizens of Howard County welcome his remarks. The crime rate is a nationwide problem and certainly this region is better off than some metropolitan areas. Yet, something must be done to curb the rise in crime which last year made one out of every five adult Texans a victim.

Both citizens and law enforcement officers will be overjoyed to see vigorous prosecution of crime. People realize that a district attorney's job is not necessarily to win every case, but simply to present the evidence to the court, to seek justice.

Now if only the juries will stand equally firm when they decide a defendant is guilty. Too many people decry the crime rate on the streets, but when they are seated in a jury box and convict, they show surprising lenience.

HOWARD COUNTY, like any other, has the volume of crime that its citizens will tolerate. If Big Spring is willing to endure a higher crime rate, it will have it.

But when citizens get concerned about crime enough to support vigorous apprehension and prosecution, the number of crimes can be reduced.

With burglary rings, two or three key arrests and convictions can go a very long way towards clearing up the problem.

So let's support the Big Spring Police Dept., the Howard County Sheriff's Office and the District Attorney's Office in their efforts to break the burglary epidemic.

Class of '69

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — Under the title of "Where Are they Now?" I have researched the Class of '69 at Molotov Cocktail Tech. Here is what happened to some of the graduates.

Rip Calitrope was the first student to graduate from Molotov as a complete illiterate. He could neither read nor write after four years of college, but the faculty and president decided to give him his diploma anyway just to get rid of him. Rip is now teaching freshman English, history and creative writing at Forest Lawn High School. He doesn't see many of his classmates from 1969. "I'd like to write to them," he told me. "But you know how it is."

NANCY BEANSTRAP was cheerleader and homecoming queen of the Class of '69. She was voted the most popular girl in her class. She now is a member of the "Church of the Heavenly Laser" and sells carnations at Chicago's O'Hare Airport. Nancy, who now uses the name "Eternal Light," has been deprogrammed six times but keeps returning to O'Hare Airport to find her "True Beam." She says she's at peace with herself except when she pins a carnation on someone and he refuses to give a donation to her church.

Malcom Sumner, who spent a total of 675 days in jail out of his four years in college for protesting the pollution of the air and water around Molotov City, is now a lawyer representing the U.S. Rust Steel Company. A specialist in environmental law, Sumner has successfully defended U.S. Rust in its battle with the government to prevent the discharging of poisonous waste into the Coldstream River. Malcom, who has all his suits tailored in London, regrets his college protest days which he blames on youthful ebullience. He accused EPA and the environmentalists of overreacting to pollution.

"PEOPLE EITHER want steel or clean water. They can't have both," he said. Asked if he regretted spending so many days in jail, Malcom said, "No. The authorities did the right thing. We're a law-and-order society, and any time a rotten college kid takes the law into his own hands he should be put in the slammer."

Sarah Goldstream, who ran out on the field naked during the Molotov-Singleton U. football game (which was covered on nationwide television) to protest sex discrimination in sports at the university, is now married to a CPA and lives in Fairlawn Village.

She has three small children, drives a station wagon, plays tennis three times a week and is vice president of her Junior League. She said she was too busy to talk to me because she had to pick up her children from dancing school and take them to their piano lessons. When I brought up the famous football incident she just pursed her lips and said, "I think a woman's place is in the home."

MICHAEL KAHME, who threw himself on top of Henry Kissinger's limousine to protest the war in Vietnam, is now a captain in the U.S. Marines. "I'm a 30-year man," he said proudly. "Civilians don't understand that the Soviets only deal from strength.

"My outfit was all set to go to Angola, but some bureaucrat in the Pentagon scratched it. If we don't stop the Commies in Angola, we'll be fighting them on the beaches of Far Rockaway."

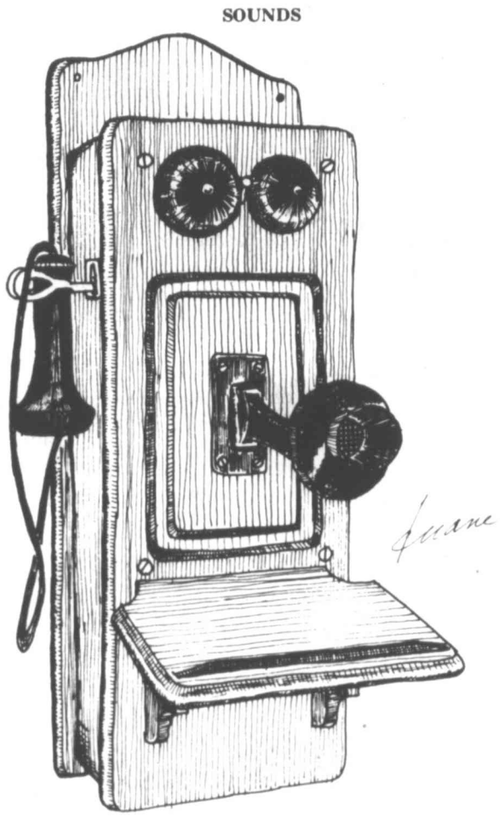

I asked how an antiwar fanatic was able to change into a gung-ho Marine.

REMEMBERING...

By BILL BROOKS

SOUNDS

Think how long it has been. Remember? Remember when the last time was that you heard the windmill creaking in the night, or the sound of crickets or maybe bull frogs down by the pond? Or do you recall the tiny sound water made as it trickled down through the rocks, ferns and moss in the spring branch?

I have listed some other sounds that I remember. As I wrote I could almost hear them clearly as if it were another time and they were really happening. As you read, please think of these sounds and, yes, others that have special meaning to you. Remember . . .? A horse pulling a wagon down the road in front of the house; field hands singing as they hoed in the cotton patch; the sound a full cotton sack made as it was pulled along between the rows of cotton; the sound the garden gate made when the wind blew or when you opened it; the "PLUNK" when you dropped a rock into the cistern; a whippoorwill's call in the late evening; wind in the trees or a train whistle a long way off?

Maybe you remember the sound made by the first squirt of milk from the cow into an empty milk bucket, or other sounds like the "pop-pop-pop" of the big green "Popping Johnnie" tractor like we had when I was a kid; a rooster's crow in the morning; bacon frying in the skillet; the first cry of your first child; rain on a tin roof; Mary Ellen's song leading at church when the pianist didn't show up; the mystery shows on the radio a long time ago; a porch swing; the crackle of a campfire; the "cheep, cheep" of baby birds in a nest when they thought you were their mother; the big bell that hung in front of the school.

I remember the sound of the hammer striking the anvil in Dad's shop, a lost calf bawling for its mother, a churn as it sloshed, sloshed, making butter. There were other sounds like stropping a straight razor; chopping wood, pigs eating slop; a cow bell up the trail aways; the whinning of a new puppy the first night we had him, a tea kettle singing on the stove, a victrola winding down, a telephone ringing two shorts and a long on a party line.

Some sounds I shall never forget are the rustle of mother's starched apron as she readied Sunday dinner, the floor board that creaked when you stepped on it a certain way, the music box Grandmother kept on her dresser and the first shovel full of dirt on my Grandpa's coffin.

Cost of pregnancy soaring

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter, who was married recently, is now pregnant. My husband is so thrilled at becoming a grandfather he wants to pay all of her expenses to have the baby. I'm just wondering what that would be nowadays? — Mrs. H.L.

Are you and dad sitting down? It might come as a shock to him, but the cost of having babies has shot up just like everything else.

I read a report recently of a study conducted at the University of Chicago Lying-in Hospital. How's $1,200 for starters?

That includes the flat fee for prenatal care, delivery, and postnatal care, also costs for use of the delivery room, anesthesia, nursery costs, and incidentals. That's an average cost. Figure on even higher costs in large urban medial centers as opposed to small community hospitals. Also, figure on longer hospital stays in some areas, such as New England, where stays longer than the average three days are the practice.

The higher costs in larger hospitals in part reflects the higher level of care available, all of which has to be supported. Staffs to man facilities such as laboratories for amniocentesis must be paid. (Amniocentesis is the technique of examining fetal sac aminiotic fluid for potential birth defects.)

You might also tell your husband that the $1,200 can be only a beginning. If he plans to get into the postnatal act, you can add more for things such as baby cribs, diapers, and special equipment such as maternity dresses and gasoline costs for getting to and from the doctor's office. Add another $1,000.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have to go in every now and then for a prostate examination. I hate it because of the fact the doctor has to use his finger for this. Isn't there some other way? — Mr. O.R.

I'm afraid not. The rectum is about the only natural access to the gland, which lies close to the anal opening. Ultra sound is becoming popular for getting a clear picture of the prostate gland, but that might not be practical or necessary for routine checking of the kind you're getting.

Besides, I suspect that there may be more to the regular visits than merely investigation of the gland. Therapeutic prostate massage is probably the chief reason. This is discussed in greater detail in my booklet, "The Pesky Prostate." Send 25 cents and a stamped self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald to cover costs of printing and handling.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have an acne problem, not really bad but still enough so that I want to cover up the spots. Will cosmetics make it worse? I am 15. — Miss R.O.

They can, especially oil-based ones. It's the old vicious circle. You want to get rid of your acne, and you want to mask it in the process.

You can't have it both ways. Supercleanliness of the face is the most important part of control. At 15 there's time ahead for nature to run its course, but don't gamble with a lot of facial junk and tempt the fates.

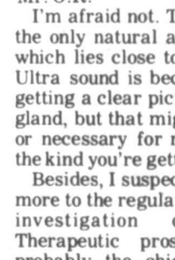

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a widow a few years past menopause. I am consdering remarriage, but I know it would be difficult for me to be a wife because of severe vaginal dryness and irritation. Isn't there an estrogen cream to help alleviate the condition? — Mrs. L.K.

Yes. Ask your doctor to prescribe for you — whether you get married or not. Such dryness can be an invitation to infection.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please print a correction of the statement that the intrauterine device (IUD) is effective in "preventing pregnancy." It doesn't. With the IUD the woman ovulates and conceives, but the fertilized egg doesn't attach itself to the womb. It is an abortive form of birth control, not a contraceptive. — Mrs. I.M.,

It's not a contraceptive, and I don't believe I said that. The IUD prevents implantation of the egg. It is what is known as an abortifacient," to use the precise medical terminology. It still prevents pregnancy.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have been thinking a lot about God lately, and I would really like to know how to be saved. — T.R.M.

DEAR T.R.M.: Thank God for your spiritual hunger, for that is really the first step in coming to Christ. Spiritual complacency is the greatest enemy for many people.

There are four great facts from the Bible that you need to know. First, the Bible says that God loves you. He created you, and He takes care of you every day, even when you are not aware of it. He loves you even when you do not love Him, and His love means that He wants you to come into a personal relationship with Him and be saved.

Second, the Bible tells us that we have all sinned against God, we do not deserve his goodness. We only deserve hell, the essence of which is separation from God. "For the wages of sin is death" the Bible says (Romans 6:23). "But your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hid his face from you, that he will not hear" (Isaiah 59:2). Our greatest need is to be forgiven and reconciled to God.

Third, the Bible tells us that Christ has made it possible for us to be forgiven and saved. We can never be saved by our good works, because "whoever keeps the whole law, and yet stumbles at just one point, is guilty of breaking all of it" (James 2:10, New International Version). But God sent His Son, Jesus Christ, into the world to die for our sins. Sin had to be punished, and Christ took the punishment you and I deserved by dying on the cross in our place. "But God commendeth is love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us" (Romans 5:8). God loves you that much!

Finally, the Bible says we must respond to God's offer of salvation by receiving Jesus Christ as our personal Lord and Saviour. All you need to do is invite Him into your life, and He will forgive you and cleanse you. I pray you will do that right now.

Cracking down

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Bert Lance, the conservative Georgia banker turned budget director, is trying to force the Pentagon to stop spending more money than it receives.

In a May 16, 1977, confidential memo, Lance urged President Carter to put pressure on the brass hats to shape up. "It is not strictly necessary for you to become involved in this question," Lance wrote. "However . . . an expression of presidential concern would certainly help to focus the high-level attention necessary to resolve the matter."

Although Lance also sent a letter to Defense Secretary Harold Brown about the matter, the budget chief felt faster results could be obtained with a note from the oval office. Therefore, he attached a memo which Carter "might want to send to Secretary Brown on this subject."

"I WANT TO emphasize my own concern," says the suggested presidential message, "that this situation be brought under control as rapidly as possible . . . It is imperative that we be certain that the dollars available are being effectively managed and utilized."

Lance cited several examples of the Pentagon's spending excesses. The Army had spent $21 million more than was appropriated for electronic equipment; the Army Engineers had spent $219,000 too much for certain projects; and the Defense Department's research division went $11,000 over its budget for data processors.

These violations of law were caused by "misunderstanding" or "failure to comply with" regulations. However, "disciplinary action consisted of an oral admonishment and verbal reprimands," Lance reported.

But, he added, "this particular case is only the latest in a series of violations which demonstrates the existence of severe financial management problems within the Department of Defense, and the Army in particular.

"Since 1963, there have been 245 violations" of law by the Pentagon, costing the taxpayers $319 million. "This represents 78 per cent of the total government violations reported during this period — a disproportionately high percentage."

Footnote: An Army spokesman said an internal committee has recommended tighter accounting procedures to insure that such overspending does not occur in the future. Lance's memo, however, says "it is too early to judge their effectiveness."

POLITICAL CROSSFIRE — Rep. Paul "Pete" McCloskey, R-Calif., the earnest Republican who challenged Richard Nixon in 1972, has always voted for a Consumer Protection Agency in the past. But now, against the urging of his own staff, he has switched his vote.

In a letter to white House consumer adviser Esther Peterson, McCloskey said he was "willing to see the bill reported out of committee." But he now maintains this was not a commitment to vote for the bill. The apparent turnabout has drawn a blast from consumer advocate Ralph Nader.

"McCloskey is a double-crosser," the combative Nader told us. "Until the day of the vote, I thought he'd support it. He's like a shark who's found a way to get attention. It's all part of his turning to the right."

THE ANNOYED McCLOSKEY responded with some counterfire. "Ralph goes for a conspiracy theory," he told us, "that anyone who votes against him is in the grip of Big Business. If Ralph had called me a double-crosser to my face, I probably would have hit him right in the mouth."

McCloskey conceded, however, that he has changed his view on the consumer agency. He explained that he wanted to eliminate unnecessary consumer offices elsewhere in the government in exchange for creating a new $15 million agency. At the committee session, he offered one amendment after another to weaken the bill.

"Gossip is the art of saying nothing in a way that leaves practically nothing unsaid," to quote the later Walter Winchell. So now comes columnist Doris Lilly's astounding story on Joan Crawford in the current People magazine. It's Miss Lilly's theory that the star took her own life — and, on the exact 22nd anniversary (May 10th) of her marriage to the late Alfred Steele.

The fight between Gladys Knight's husband, Barry Hankerson and her manager of 15 years, Sid Seidenberg, resulted in more than ethnic jibes being tossed. It ended the long singing-managing partnership!

The line-up for tickets to that big Broadway hit musical is nothing compared to the queue of creditors waiting for the show's director to pay them back.

Mia Farrow will take over the role Shelley Duvall was reluctant about in Robert Altman's upcoming "The Wedding." . . . Bug-eyed comic Marty Feldman is said to have a hit in his "The Last Remake of Beau Geste" with Ann-Margret. So now he is planning a film of Beckett's stage hit "Waiting for Godot," hoping to lure Red Skeleton out of retirement.

Driver of car killed, 10 bus passengers hurt

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — A car and a Dallas-bound bus collided head-on Saturday morning on Texas 31 near this East Texas city, killing the driver of the car and injuring 10 bus passengers.

Officers said seven of the bus passengers were hospitalized in good condition and another three were treated and released.

Down to the wire in Chicago

SPECIAL ELECTION — Republican Dennis Block, left, and Democratic Acting Mayor Michael A. Bilandic are opposing each other in next Tuesday's special election to choose successor to the late Richard J. Daley as mayor. Block, 29, has backing of Chicago Republican Party while Bilandic, 54, has backing of Daley's old "machine."

CHICAGO (AP) — Republican Dennis Block, whose party hasn't held the mayor's office here in 50 years, says it will be "the upset of the century" if he defeats acting Mayor Michael A. Bilandic in Tuesday's special election to succeed the late Richard J. Daley.

Bilandic, 54, was a little-known Democrat on the City Council until six months ago. But after a short round of infighting that followed Daley's death on Dec. 20, 1976, Bilandic moved up from alderman to acting mayor.

State law required the special election within six months to fill the two years remaining in Daley's term.

Chicago's financial establishment, urged on by A. Robert Abboud, chairman of the First National Bank, now touts Bilandic as the best man to steer the city. Meanwhile, out in the precincts, Daley's old machine — tuned to perfection during his 21 years in office — is lining up the votes.

Block, a 29-year-old lawyer and the sole Republican on the 50-member City Council, declares woefully: "There is no Republican party in Chicago." In fact, Republicans rarely enter the office on the fifth floor of City Hall except when invited to ceremonial occasions.

Block has the best wishes of Gov. James R. Thompson and two checks from Thompson's campaign fund totalling $30,000. He has another hefty contribution from GOP backer W. Clement Stone, an insurance millionaire. But Bilandic's coffers are far fuller.

Thompson tapped Block for the race after bigger GOP names politely declined. Former Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie sniffed the political winds but, after a poll showed him trailing Bilandic, sent his regrets.

Fearing the nomination would go by default to Lar "America First" Daly, who campaigns in an Uncle Sam hat and advocates shooting drug pushers on sight, the GOP persuaded Block to enter the race.

But Block now says he is upset about the favorable comments from Thompson concerning Bilandic.

Bilandic, Thompson said recently, "has been doing a good, workmanlike job as mayor."

A Democratic worker said: "Thompson wants to be president so much that he doesn't want to make any enemies in either party in his home state."

"It doesn't make me too happy to hear those words," says Block, who expressed the hope on primary night April 19 of getting 40 per cent of the vote in the special election. He now says he would be happy with 20 per cent.

Issues, as well as interest, have been scarce in the campaign.

Saracho's plea is answered

In response to the brief filed by Don Richard, assistant District Attorney, District Judge Ralph filed an order denying a new trial to Jose Antonio Saracho. Saracho was sentenced to 99 years in connection with a sexual abuse incident.

Saracho's appeal brief and Richard's reply will now be forwarded to the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Torture charges made

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — An opposition leader just released from jail accused the government of Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto on Saturday of torturing opposition demonstrators detained during Pakistan's bloody political crisis.

Retired Air Marshal Asghar Khan also said many of the protesters were still being held despite the government's agreement to free them.

Khan, speaking in Rawalpindi, near this capital city, gave no specific examples of torture and did not say how many opposition supporters were still in jail.

The opposition coalition, the Pakistan National Alliance (PNA), estimates that 35,000 persons have been arrested in three months of violent antigovernment protests.

Khan and other top opposition leaders were released from jail Friday as Bhutto opened negotiations with the PNA on ending the political turmoil. An estimated 300 persons were killed in the nationwide agitation.

The PNA launched a campaign of street demonstrations after the March 7 national elections, claiming that the vote was rigged to keep Bhutto's Pakistan People's party (PPP) in power.

At the start of talks both sides called a truce, with Bhutto promising to release all demonstrators and PNA leaders jailed for violating a ban on demonstrations and the PNA calling off its street campaign.

The PNA is demanding dissolution of the National Assembly, new elections supervised by the army and the courts and Bhutto's ouster. However, political observers believe the opposition will not insist on the last demand if new elections are agreed to.

In his first public statement since his release, Khan charged the government with "continuing acts of repression against the opposition workers still in jail."

He said the government had released only PNA supporters arrested for violating the ban on public gatherings but was still holding a large number arrested under other charges.

U.S. vitamin data lacking

NUTLEY, N.J. (AP) — Most Americans know vitamins are important, but a majority lack facts on specific vitamin needs, according to a recent nationwide survey.

The survey, conducted by Response Analysis Corp., shows that 71 per cent of the population believed that smoking robs the body of vitamins, but only 12 per cent realized that smoking may reduce blood levels of vitamin C. And though 47 per cent were of the opinion that women on birth control pills need more vitamins, only 6 per cent knew that these women especially need higher levels of vitamin B6.

Risking all-out race war?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration has quietly advised South Africa and Rhodesia to yield power to their black majorities or risk all-out race war.

"The days of white supremacy in Southern Africa are numbered," was the burden of the American warnings as related by diplomats familiar with the exchanges. "And, if racial conflict should develop, don't count on us to rescue you."

Predictably, reactions of the prime ministers of subcontinental Africa's last two bastions of white rule were defiant, though in different ways.

According to diplomatic assessments, their reactions seemed to dim prospects for peaceful settlements which the United States and Britain are trying to promote in Rhodesia, Namibia (formerly South West Africa) and the Republic of South Africa itself.

"We'll go on doing things our way," South Africa's John Vorster told Vice President Walter B. Mondale, in so many words, when they met in Vienna last month. "We don't interfere in your affairs, and it's not for you to intervene in ours."

Rhodesia's Ian D. Smith responded with a display of military force against neighboring Mozambique, which provides sanctuary for black Rhodesian guerrillas.

Smith sent a strong ground force, with air support, deep into Mozambique territory in a week-long operation, due to end this weekend, to destroy the guerrillas and their camps. Four base camps were hit, 32 blacks killed and caches of Soviet-supplied arms were captured, according to reports.

"It was a defensive exercise," Smith later explained. "There was nothing aggressive about it."

Rhodesia's Security Minister Roger Hawkins announced Friday that another cross-border raid would be mounted, if needed. He also announced an extension of the military draft for all Rhodesians, whites, blacks, Asians and mixed-blood persons, clearly anticipating an escalation of fighting.

The U.S. and British governments were not the only ones dismayed by the Rhodesian raid. South Africa, too, was concerned, according to authorities here.

Vorster's men do not conceal their view that the Smith government's repeated rejections of settlement opportunities have become an embarrassment. It's through South Africa that landlocked Rhodesia gets vital supplies, including fuels and arms.

Vorster, according to diplomatic dispatches to Washington, was sorely disappointed by what he took to be a demonstration of Mondale's — and America's — pro-black bias.

Getting ready for gay rights vote

MIAMI (AP) — More than 5,000 Dade County residents will get a telephone call Sunday urging them to vote for a controversial homosexual rights law.

More than 350,000 persons got a letter last week asking them to vote against the ordinance, which prohibits discrimination in housing or employment because of a person's sexual preference.

Similiar laws are on the books in about 40 communities around the nation, but since county commissioners passed their version here last January, it has become the focus of a national campaign by both sides of the gay rights issue.

That campaign ends Tuesday when voters decide in a special election whether to keep the law or abolish it.

On one side is Anita Bryant, a former runner-up in the Miss America contest, a singer, and lately a spokeswoman for Florida orange juice, who says homosexuality is an abomination. Her Save Our Children, Inc., put the issue on the ballot by gathering 50,000 signatures protesting the law — 40,000 more than the election code says are needed to force a referendum.

Her crusade gained powerful support this week when the archbishop of the Roman Catholic diocese in Miami asked pastors to read a letter from the pulpit Sunday advising parishioners to vote against the law.

On the other side are gay rights organizations, backed by heterosexuals who oppose sexual discrimination. Supporters who have campaigned in favor of the law include actor Ed Asner, (Lou Grant of the Mary Tyler Moore show), former U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark and San Francisco Sheriff Richard Hongisto.

The gay coalition has 50 persons staffing a telephone bank eight hours a day to call registered voters. Supported by the Democratic party, which provided voting lists, the coalition has targeted 126 of approximately 400 precincts and is calling all voters in those areas. The county, with a population of more than 1,539,000, has 712,000 registered voters.

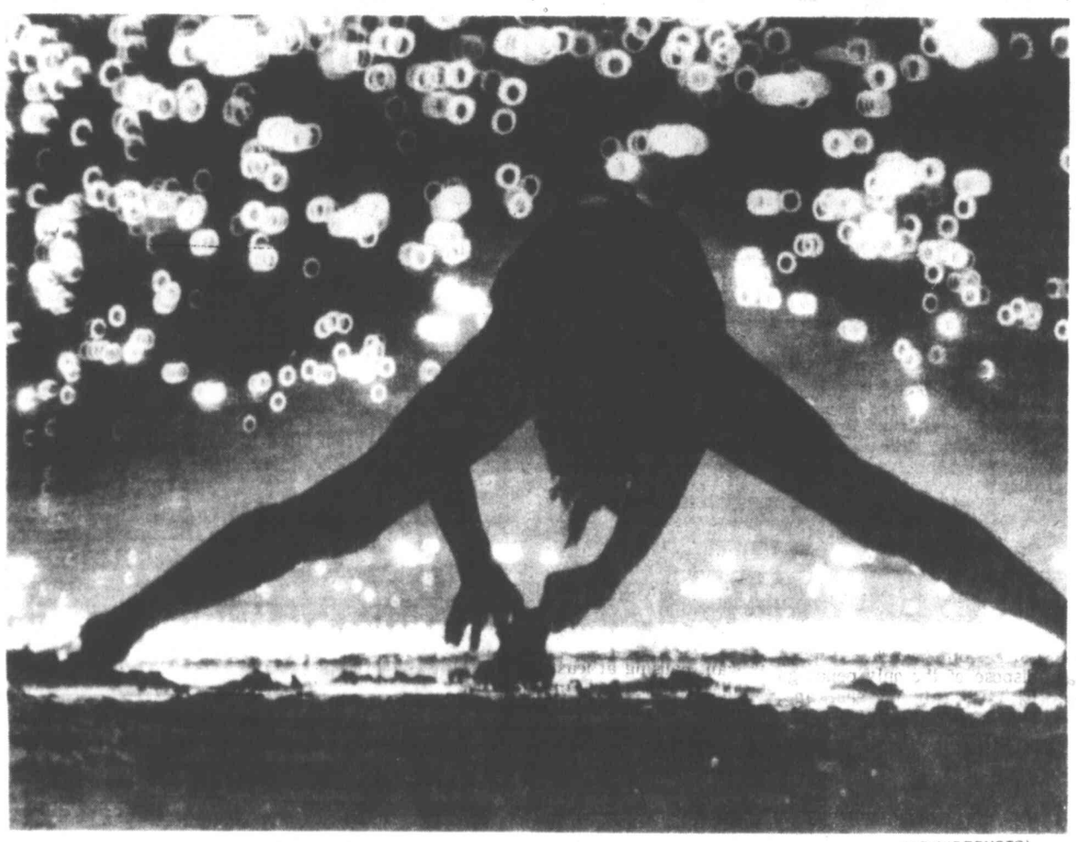

Supporters of the law have even chartered planes to fly advertising streamers along South Florida beaches. They bear the message: "Tell Anita You're Against Discrimination."

"This is an issue of human rights — not just homosexual rights," says Jack Campbell, a businessman who heads the gay rights coalition.

"The pro-homosexual ordinance is an open invitation to recruit our children," counters Save Our Children advertising brochures

That argument was criticized by several prominent psychiatrists Friday at a news conference sponsored by the gay coalition. "Homosexuality has nothing to do with child molesting," they said in a statement issued by Dr. John Spiegel, past president of the American Psychiatric Association.

Both sides predict victory, but whatever the outcome, the issue appears unlikely to fade away. Both sides have also vowed to continue the fight on other levels, including Congress, where a pending bill would do on a national level what the ordinance does in Dade County.

Airport shooting

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — An attorney for a Houston, Tex., man arrested after a shooting incident Friday at Memphis International Airport says his client was warned not to come to Memphis.

Samuel A. Cammarata, 47, was charged with assault with intent to murder and carrying a pistol within the city limits after he fired gunshots during a scuffle and chase through the airport, police said.

Cammarata, president of Professional Management International, an entertainment booking agency in Houston, told police he fired at the two men after they attacked him in an airport coffee shop.

The men were not hit, but a woman bystander, Mrs. Esther Morris of Lee's Summit, Mo., was slightly injured when a stray bullet fragment struck her left elbow. She was treated at the airport and required no hospitalization.

Police said Jack Gail, 33, of Wheeling, Ill., and Dante Grassi, 34, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., were charged with assault and battery in the incident.

Cammarata was freed on $2,000 bond, while Gail and Grassi were released on $250 bond. All three men are to appear in City Court Monday.

A fourth man, identified as Martin House of Memphis, was arrested Friday along with Gail and Grassi, but was released without charge.

Cammarata was the owner of Casino Records, Inc., until last April when he sold his interest in the Memphis recording company.

Cammarata's attorney, James "Tim" Schaeffer, said his client was due to testify Friday in a Chancery Court hearing regarding a $25,000 lien he held against the company. The hearing was continued until July 22.

"A threat was received by him not to come to Memphis for the hearing," Schaeffer said. "He came anyway and found this reception committee."

Before Cammarata left Houston he told the FBI about the alleged threat and was advised to contact the FBI here when he arrived, the lawyer said.

CONVICTED — Spectators look on as the Rev. Claudius I. Vermilye Jr., center, returns to a Winchester courtroom Friday. The Episcopal priest, who ran a home for wayward boys, was convicted Friday night of committing homosexual acts with the young residents and of filming the acts as the boys engaged in orgies. The Rev. Mr. Vermilye, 48, was sentenced to serve 25 to 40 years in a penitentiary.

Cattle to hit bottom in '83?

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Wray Finney warned Friday that the cattle industry, recovering from a three-year slump, will probably hit bottom again by 1983.

However, Finney, president of the American National Cattlemen's Association, said: "I don't think we should ever eliminate them (the cycles). I think if you take away the risk, you take away the profit. But I sure think we can learn to live with them a lot better than we have in the past."

Finney was addressing about 100 state bankers and cattlemen Friday at a seminar sponsored by the Oklahoma Cattlemen's Association.

He said cattlemen, regardless of size, must learn all aspects of market operations.

"Like the dinosaur of old, the hip-pocket cattleman is a thing of the past," Finney said. "He just can't survive, as I see it."

He said two of the most critical problems facing the industry are "survival of the free market system" and battling opponents of beef products in the American diet.

Finney urged cattlemen to vote for the beef referendum, a $30 million to $40 million per year program paid for by cattlemen to promote research, education and market development.

Texas Cowboy Reunion at Stamford July 1-4

STAMFORD — The 47th annual Texas Cowboy Reunion at Stamford will be held July 1, 2 and 4, according to Eugene Swenson, president of the organization. Since July 3 is on Sunday, there will not be a scheduled show because of the old custom of the cowboys to "lay by" on Sundays. However, there will be lots of activity around the arena during the day.

The Texas Cowboy Reunion is still considered the largest amateur rodeo in the world, judged on the basis of the number of contestants which grows each year. These contestants are mostly working cowboys on the large and small spreads from all over Texas, also from New Mexico and Oklahoma.

Many rodeo events have had their origin at the Stamford show, such as wild cow milking, barrel racing and cutting horse contests, these in addition to the regular events of bull riding, calf roping, saddle and bareback bronc riding.

Other officers of the organization besides Swenson are Carl Swenson, vice president, Mrs. Lee Walker, secretary and John R. Rice, treasurer.

Ticket sales chairman is James H. West. There will be a night show each evening and a matinee on July 4. The opening day parade will be at 4 p.m. Friday, July 1.

Toll-free 'hotline' established by BDT

The Texas Beef Development Taskforce (BDT) has established a toll-free "hotline" to answer questions from cattle producers about the beef referendum.

Registration for the long-awaited referendum is taking place june 6-17 at nearly 2,000 county ASCS offices across the nation. Cattle producers who wish to vote must register before the June 17 deadline. Actual voting will take place back at the ASCS offices between July 5-15.

"Beef producers who have a question about the program can call 1-800-682-4106 weekdays between the hours of 8 a.m. and 8 p.m.," says Texas BDT Chairman J.D. Sartwelle of Sealy.

The referendum, if approved by two-thirds of the cattle producers voting, would authorize the first nationwide self-help program for the beef industry. Using the value-added system, each cattle producer would contribute 3-10th of 1 per cent (30 cents per $100) of the value of each animal sold. This rate would raise $30 million to $40 million per year for beef research, education and promotion, says Sartwelle.

Passionate plant keepers

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — Three-fourths of all house plants owners "enjoy caring for them," while the remaining one quarter did not, according to a survey conducted by Phillips products.

The survey found that most people keeping plants have a "nurturing" or caring "protective attitude" toward their plants.

Wool, mohair judging test

SAN ANGELO — Dozens of boys and girls from West Central Texas will compete here June 10 in the State 4-H Wool and Mohair Judging Contest.

Site of the annual event is Angelo State University's M.I.R. Center about 100 miles north of the city, and about 1 mile off Hwy. 87.

It is from the big group here June 10 that officials will select those senior teams to represent Texas in the National 4-H Wool Judging Contest. The national competition is part of the 40th annual Sonora Wood and Mohair Show, June 14-15-16.

The judging at the M.I.R. Center will begin at 9 a.m. in both the Junior and Senior Divisions, said Dr. George A. Ahlschwede, state sheep and goat specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension.

Stewart earns Baylor degree

The 76th annual commencement featured an address by Dr. John H. Knowles, president of the Rockefeller Foundation and one of the country's outstanding clinician-administrators.

Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle J. Stewart of 504 Washington Blvd., Big Spring, will continue his medical training with a residency in internal medicine at Case Western Reserve University Hospitals.

It's adjourned, hurray

CHECKING DISCO EQUIPMENT
Youth Center worker Kelly Zant

By SCOTT CARPENTER
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Just why in the world is everyone except Dolph Briscoe and Billy Wayne Clayton saying this was the worst legislative session ever?

It's probably because the session went just about the way Gov. Briscoe and Speaker Clayton wanted — highway construction got first call on state money, then it was operation of state government and funding of public school education.

The session also was conducted in the style of Briscoe and Clayton. The two would sit back and let things happen — which usually meant a deadlock would occur — then they would rush in at the last minute with their solution. The leges would take the solution like a dose of castor oil, since time had run out for any more feuding.

That was the way Clayton handled the massive $16 billion appropriations bill. He let his committee members who wrote the document pack it with their own pet spending projects.

When the measure got before the House though, the precious "committee system" which is said to "do no wrong" was attacked by Clayton's own chairman. Rep. Bill Presnal of Bryan came up with amendments proposing massive cuts in the spending approved by his committee.

The House naturally went along, feeling that if Presnal felt the spending was a boondoggle it certainly must be. Of course the real appropriations bill writing was done by the House and Senate conferees. The Senate conferees worked to keep the bill the way the Senate wanted. The House conferees worked under the direction of Clayton.

On the two final major issues of the session, it was Briscoe who rode in to save the day.

House and Senate conferees were hopelessly deadlocked on the medical malpractice issue and on the question of financing public school education.

Late Sunday evening, only a day before the legislature was to adjourn, Briscoe and staff set up shop in Clayton's office and hammered out compromise proposals that were to be acceptable to conferees and to the House and Senate on a take-this-or-nothing basis.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby doesn't escape blame for the way the session went either. His Senate rules that require a measure to be approved by a two-thirds vote before it can be considered certainly differ from what most of us were taught majority rule was all about.

About the best thing that can be said about the 1977 legislative session is that it's adjourned.

There ought to be a special award to give the Texas Aeronautics Commission.

In the greatest tradition of "protect those you regulate" that surrounds bureaucratic state agencies, the TAC has put out a magazine extolling the virtues of the airlines that it licenses.

That includes pictures of the operating managers of each and a script that reads like an advertisement.

The TAC law does call for it to promote aviation in the state, which it apparently takes to mean the airlines it licenses and not the competing federally licensed ones that carry most of the passengers.

Staff named to combat school vacation blues

During the summer months, mothers all over the country will be hearing the familiar "Ah Mom, I don't have anything to do," from bored kids. At Webb AFB, Joyce E. Yancey and her staff at the youth center will be out in full force trying to combat the school vacation blues. Activities have been planned for the Webb dependents to keep them constructively occupied throughout the summer.

Besides the classes advertized in the summer brochure, the youth center has scheduled one and two day events. These events will be advertized on the monthly youth calendar delivered to base housing and in the Prairie Pilot. Such events will include bicycle trips, scavenger hunts, frizbee golf and overnight trips. Cookouts and several disco dances are in the planning.

The staff this summer will include Vonnie Pekar, Cindy MacDonald, Shella Mann and Amn. Steven Treatment. There are also several volunteers helping with the classes. This has enabled the youth center to offer such a diversified program.

Summer registration was an overwhelming success with some classes filling up the first day. To accommodate those who registered and those on waiting lists, the youth center had to split the classes into two or more sessions.

A special membership rate of $2 has been established for the summer months for Webb dependents 6 to 18 years of age. Webb dependents are encouraged to participate in the Summer Fun Program.

Tuesday, summer hours began at the youth center. Those hours are: Monday 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Tuesday through Friday 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., Saturday 6 p.m. to 10 p.m., and closed on Sundays.

Vera returns from cruise

Navy Electrician's Mate Fireman Alfonso F. Vera of 706 NW Eighth St., Big Spring, has returned from an extended deployment in the Western Pacific.

He is serving as a crew member aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Halsey, homeported in San Diego. While deployed, his ship operated as a unit of the U.S. Seventh Fleet.

During the six-month cruise, he and his fellow shipmates conducted gunnery, antisubmarine and antiair exercises in the Sea of Japan, and the Philippine and East China Seas. Additionally, his ship participated in joint training operations with the Republic of Korea and the Japanese Maritime Self-Defense Force.

He and his fellow crewmembers had the opportunity to visit Japan, Hong Kong, and the Republic of Korea. While in the Republic of the Philippines, Halsey crewmembers participated in various civic action projects, rebuilding schools and donating to a project which resulted in scholarships for 13 Philippine students.

The Halsey is 533 feet in length, dispaces 7,800 tons fully loaded and carries a crew of 396 officers and enlisted men. She is outfitted with guns, missile launchers, torpedo tubes and an antisubmarine rocket launcher.

A 1972 graduate of Big Spring High School, he joined the Navy in May 1975.

Recruiting activities commander selected

ALBUQUERQUE — Lt. Col. Nicolas R. Vay has assumed command of Army recruiting activities in New Mexico and the West Texas area from Amarillo to El Paso.

Vay was welcomed to the recruiting command by outgoing commander Lt. Col. William B. Bonnett during the June 2 change of command ceremony at the Albuquerque headquarters. Lt. Col. Bonnett was congratulated for his two years of recruiting success by visiting deputy regional commander Colonel Charles O. Arnecke.

Vay, commissioned as an officer at the United States Military Academy in 1961, spent the last two years as a battalion commander with the 7th Special Forces Group at Fort Bragg, N.C., having served earlier with the same unit in the Dominican Republic.

The Hungarian-born officer, who has completed the Army's Advanced Infantry, Airborne, and Ranger Schools, has held various leadership positions in infantry and elite special forces units. As a combat officer in Vietnam, he served with both the 5th Special Forces Group and 25th Infantry Division. His decorations include the Bronze Star, with two oak leaf clusters, Meritorious Service Medal, Air Medal, and Purple Heart.

Vay, a distinguished graduate of the Navy's Command and General Staff College, holds a masters degree in electrical engineering from the Georgia Institute of Technology. The recruiting commander also served as an associate professor at West Point in the electrical engineering department.

Sgt. Alvarez in England

SUFFOLK, England — U.S. Air Force Technical Sergeant George Alvarez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roman Alvarez of 254 McDavitt Blvd., Brownsville, has arrived for duty at Lakenheath RAF Station, England.

Sgt. Alvarez, an aircraft maintenance technician with a unit of the United States Air Forces in Europe, previously served at Nellis AFB, Nev.

The sergeant is a 1959 graduate of Brownsville High School and attended Arlington (Tex.) State College. His wife, Belen, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ferrio of 807 N. Seventh St., Big Spring.

Airman Lewis in exercise

ADANA, Turkey — Senior Airman Dalton W. Lewis, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. H.W. Lewis of 1219 E. 17th, Big Spring, recently participated in "Shahbaz '77", a Central Treaty Organization air defense exercise held in the Middle East.

The exercise involved elements of U.S. Air Forces in Europe, the Strategic Air Command, Military Airlift Command and the U.S. Navy.

Tested were the air defense capabilities of Iran, Pakisan and Turkey which gave the aircrews the opportunity to work together.

The airman, a 1973 graduate of Big Spring High School, attended Texas Christian University, Fort Worth.

Randy Matteson joins Air Force

Randy Matteson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Matteson of 4210 Calvin, Big Spring, entered the United States Air Force Delayed Enlistment Program May 31, according to Sgt. Art Clark, Air Force Recruiter in Big Spring.

Airman Matteson selected the Navigational Electronics area for job training and will attend a six-week Basic Military Training Course at Lackland AFB, San Antonio, Tex., beginning in Nov. 7. Sgt. Clark said the Air Force still have openings for qualified young men and women. His office is located at 111 E. 3rd St. Phone 267-1721.

Harris draws Guam duty

AGANA, Guam — U.S. Air Force Master Sergeant Weldon L. Harris, son of Mrs. Vivian V. Harris of 443 Pine, Colorado City, has arrived for duty at Andersen AFB, Guam.

Sgt. Harris, an aircraft accessory systems superintendent with a unit of the Strategic Air Command, previously served at Hill AFB, Utah.

The sergeant attended Colorado High School.

Navy Ensign Richard T. Hatfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hatfield of Big Spring, has completed the Officer Indoctrination School at the Naval Education and Training Center, Newport, R.I.

The six-week course is designed to prepare newly-commissioned officers for duty in the Navy staff field corresponding to their civilian profession.

In the first five weeks, studies included Naval history and traditions, personnel administration, military law, close order drill and other general military subjects structured to acquaint the students with an officer's duties and responsibilities.

During the final week, their studies were concentrated on the application of their civilian professions within the Navy. He joined the Navy in March 1977.

Coastal disease

BLACKSBURG, Va.(AP) — As many as 80 per cent of Americans living along the coast from Virginia to Texas show evidence of infection by a tuberculosis-like disease, say researchers at Virginia Tech.

The National Institute of Health has given the school $120,323 to finance a two-year study of the lung disease to try to find its source.

Tech researchers say the disease is caused by organisms known as atypical Mycobacteria that are resistant to commonly-used drugs, so the infection is serious than classical tuberculosis.

Unlike TB, the infection is not spread from one person to another, said Joseph O. Falkinham III, assistant professor of biology at the university.

Energy

Conoco improves its efficiency

MIDLAND — Through insulation of equipment, improved operating and maintenance practices, and new investments, the Midland production division of Continental Oil Company (Conoco) has improved its energy efficiency by 57 per cent over the past three years.

According to John E. Whitman, manager, the Midland-based division in 1976 saved an amount of energy equal to 138,000 barrels of oil, compared to 1973 operations. That is equivalent to the annual home heating needs of a city of 18,000 people.

He said the division has spent more than $800,000 since 1973 to improve energy efficiency, but it pays off: "The energy we've saved was equal to $1.8 million in 1976."

Among the division's energy-saving actions were insulation of 39 vessels, installation of vapor recovery equipment, reduction of oil heater temperatures, and improved efficiency of pumping wells through resizing of pumping units and motors, counterbalancing of pumping units, and installation of timers.

The division covers 127 West Texas counties, operates 2,644 oil, gas and service wells and produces about 40,000 barrels of crude daily and 62 million cubic feet of gas daily.

El Paso Natural Gas Co. files rate settlement plan

HOUSTON — The El Paso Company announced that its natural gas transmission subsidiary, El Paso Natural Gas Co., with agreement of its principal customers, FPC Staff and other parties, has submitted a rate settlement proposal to the FPC relating to rates scheduled to become effective June 1, 1977.

The rates scheduled to go into effect June 1 would have produced increased revenues of approximately $153.2 million over the next 12 months. The settlement proposal would reduce that increase by approximately $57.7 million and would dispose of the only pending El Paso rate increase application.

The FPC Tuesday, May 24, approved an earlier proposal covering rates for the period Aug. 1, 1976 to May 31, 1977.

Fina promotes Lee Solomon

DALLAS — Lee H. Solomon has been named manager of corporate planning, a newly-created position with American Petrofina, Inc. with headquarters in Dallas.

A Michigan native, he received a B.S. degree in chemical engineering from the University of Michigan in 1957. Before joining Fina on May 1, 1977, he was executive vice president of Energy Cooperative, Inc. in Chicago. Prior to that, he was a partner in Turner, Mason and Solomon and earlier a consultant for Purvin & Gertz, Inc., both in Dallas.

Solomon is a member of American Institute of Chemical Engineers, American Petroleum Institute, National and Texas Society of Petroleum Engineers, American Management Association and National Petroleum Refiners Association.

Alcoholism seminar scheduled Friday

The Big Spring State Hospital alcoholism program will conduct the 26th alcoholism seminar Friday, in the auditorium at the hospital.

These monthly seminars are made possible through a grant with the Texas Commission on Alcoholism and are held in conjunction with the Big Spring VA Hospital and Howard College. The theme for this workshop will be "Alcoholism From A Behavioral Perspective". The consultant for this day-long meeting will be Clarence Hartman. Hartman is a psychologist from the VA Hospital in Salt Lake City, Utah. He has a Ph.D in psychology and over 25 years porfessional activity in a variety of program and consultive activities.

Registration begins at 8:00 a.m. with the general session starting at 8: a.m. and adjournament at 4:00 p.m. A registration fee of $1 will be charged with an additional charge of $1 for those wishing to receive Continuing Education units from Howard College. (The persons wishing to receive credit for attendance will be expected to remain the entire day.)

ABILENE — Dr. Edwin L. Skiles has indicated to the college board of trustees that he will remain as president until his successor is chosen. Skiles had previously announced he would retire June 15, when he attains his 65th birthday.

Tune in tsunami

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new early warning system is being used at the University of Hawaii to detect and locate possible tidal waves, or tsunamis.

Under the new system, funded by the National Science Foundation, the earthquakes that generate tsunamis can be detected by a radio, says National Geographic.

Though tsunamis are popularly called tidal waves, they have nothing to do with the tide or with ordinary waves. Geographic points out. Tsunamis are a series of seismic sea waves that travel at more than 600 miles an hour in very deep water. At sea, they are detected only by very sensitive instruments.

In the past 150 years, 85 tsunamis have struck Hawaii, causing at least 383 fatalities. The last major tsunami that hit the islands slammed a 35-foot wall of water into the Hilo waterfront in 1960.

'Many arrests' in Baltic states

MOSCOW (AP) — Andrei D. Sakharov, the dissident nuclear physicist, claims Soviet authorities are involved in a new crackdown on human right activists in wide areas of the country, with "many arrests" being made in the once-independent Baltic states.

"In Moscow and in the provinces, a strong new wave of repressions is under way," the Nobel Peace Prize winner said in an interview with The Associated Press. "We know for the most part what is happening in Moscow and the area nearby. The majority of those who are left from the Helsinki Group are either arrested or under strong pressure."

The Helsinki Group was formed in Moscow a year ago to monitor Soviet compliance with the human rights provisions of the 1975 Helsinki Conference and branches have been set up in the Ukraine, in Latvia and in Soviet Georgia. In the last four months its members are said to have been subject to arrests, searches and interrogations.

Of the 14 persons who joined the Moscow branch, four are free and active.

"We know that in the Ukraine, four members of the Helsinki Group have been arrested and that in Georgia two have been arrested," Sakharov added.

"Beyond the people we know about, the campaign of harassment and repression is spreading to people about whom we know very little," Sakharov said. "There are many arrests in the Baltic states. People who spent 25 years in labor camps are being arrested again."

The Baltic states — Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia — were independent nations before World War II, when they were annexed by the Soviet Union. They are known to be the seat of active dissident movements.

But because of the remoteness of these and other regions and restrictions on travel and publicity, underground activities in such areas often are unknown to dissident leaders such as Sakharov — and impossible for Western reporters to check.

In the interview given before Saturday's publication of the draft of a new Soviet constitution, Sakharov said Moscow's dissident community was stunned by the charge of treason made public last week against Anatoly Shcharansky, one of the most energetic of the activists.

"This news for us is very threatening," said Sakharov, sitting on a bed in his apartment.

HERO OF THE HUTCH — A lucky guinea pig gets held by Mrs. Rosalynn Carter as Gen. Rafael Hoyos Rubio looks on during Mrs. Carter's visit Saturday to the University of La Molina just outside Lima. La Molina is an agricultural study center and the guinea pigs are being studied as a possible source of protein in underdeveloped countries. After the visit, Mrs. Carter went to the resort of La Granja Azul for a weekend rest.

Rosalynn Carter is enjoying her first tour as U.S. diplomat

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Rosalynn Carter said Saturday she discussed Peruvian arms purchases "extensively" with President Francisco Morales Bermudez, who has bought large amounts of Soviet weapons.

America's first lady said some important understandings had been reached but she could not reveal details of Friday's meeting until she talked with her husband in Washington.

"We did discuss armaments in detail," Mrs. Carter told a news conference. She said she was "very pleased with what he (Morales Bermudez) said."

Talking with reporters at the International Potato Center in La Molina 10 miles east of the capital, Mrs. Carter described U.S.-Peruvian relations as a "close friendship." She said the Peruvian leader gave her a copy of the government's plan that calls for a return to civilian rule by 1980. "Jimmy would be very interested to read it," she said.

Mrs. Carter spent 30 minutes touring the 250-acre agricultural research complex where she saw guinea pigs, an irrigation project and varieties of Peru's native potatoes. At one point, she stopped to pick up a fat guinea pig, and thought of her 9-year-old daughter Amy. "Wouldn't Amy like this," she said.

"This is so interesting to me because we have an experimental station in Plains, Ga., for peanuts and corn," she said. But Mrs. Carter did no have time to see any of Peru's 200 varieties of peanuts.

Mrs. Carter said she came to Peru to listen, to questions leaders about U.S. policies and to "do all we can" to demonstrate the Carter administration's interest in human rights.

She said she was taking back "some very good proposals, some very good suggestions" that Morales Bermudez made on how peace and security can be achieved in the area. There were some "misconceptions" about Peru's position on arms, she added.

Peru acknowledged late last year it had acquired new Soviet weapons, and sources said they included 36 fighter-bombers plus tanks. U.S. intelligence sources have said there are about 75 Russian military advisers in Peru and additional Soviet technicians are expected.

Morales Bermudez has said the purchases were made "to renew obsolete equipment," and that Moscow gave better financial terms than American, French and British suppliers.

Mrs. Carter, halfway through her first diplomatic mission as first lady, has been swapping blunt talk with Caribbean and Latin American leaders.

"Almost in every case when we start talking with these people," Mrs. Carter said of the 20 hours she has spent with presidents and prime ministers, "they will say, 'I don't know exactly how to say it.' I'll say, 'Listen, you can be blunt ...' and after that, they're blunt."

Mrs. Carter planned to spend the rest of the weekend relaxing at a hilltop chalet before continuing on to Brazil, Colombia and Venezuela.

In a toast at a formal dinner Friday night, Peruvian President Francisco Morales Bermudez said Mrs. Carter's trip means "greater ties of understanding" with the United States.

U.S.-Peru relations plummeted under the leftist regime of Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado, who expropriated U.S. oil and mining holdings. But since Gen. Morales Bermudez took over in 1975, Peru has sought to win back American investment and to take a more moderate stance.

"I will tell Jimmy that the ties of friendship with Peru are very strong," Mrs. Carter told Morales Bermudez after three hours of talks Friday.

Sharks hooking curious Texans

NORTH PADRE ISLAND, Tex. (AP) — The spectre of shark hordes in a feeding frenzy close to beaches is apparently a lot worse than the reality of the scene.

The sharks — numbering 2,000 at the height of their activity — drew tourists to this South Texas resort area, but scared tourists away from the resort area of South Padre Island, some 130 miles away.

"What we might lose from people who have fear of sharks we're going to pick up from sightseers," said Bob Conwell, executive vice president of the nearby Corpus Christi Area Convention and Tourist Bureau.

At the opposite end of the island, Ralph Thompson, executive vice president of the South Padre Tourist Bureau, said, "People are calling by the dozens asking us about the sharks and the hotels on the island are reporting scores of cancellations.

"The beaches will be crowded like never before," said John Fels, manager of a North Padre beachfront hotel where the sharks appeared.

"We have millions of dollars invested invested in the tourist business and it's really hurting us," countered Thompson.

The hammerhead and sand sharks moved into the North Padre area Wednesday. They ranged from six to 10 feet in length and some were reported as close to shore as 20 feet.

Marine biologists said the sharks were feeding on shrimp and crabs, which were chased out of nearby bays by schools of mullet.

As the word spread, the hunting sharks became the hunted sharks when fishermen answered the casting call and began reeling in the predators.

Veteran fishermen and scientists alike said they could not recall such a spectacle in Texas.

The group feeding continued, marine biologists said, because of the clear and calm weather that prevailed through the weekend.

By late Saturday, the sharks had again dispersed into deep water, but they had performed that disappearing act since Wednesday, only to reappear in the same general area.

A Padre Island National Seashore ranger said the shark fishermen could be seen as late as 11 p.m., picking off their prey from boats and from piers. "There are a lot of shark fishermen in this part of the country," the ranger said.

For at least three days, there were a lot of sharks in this part of the country, too.

People feel intensely about food. Sydney Smith once proclaimed to a lady: "Madam, I have been looking for a person who disliked gravy all my life; let us swear eternal friendship." On another occasion, Mr. Smith said that "soup and fish explain half of the emotions of life"; and Mark Twain, thinking along similar savory lines, said "nothing helps scenery like ham and eggs." The Chinese have made eating an art, appreciating it, like true art connoisseurs, for its every aspect. The writer Lin Yutang, observed: "We (Chinese) eat food for its texture, the elastic or crisp affect it has on our teeth, as well as for fragrance, flavor and color."

Beverly Hills Supper Club fire horrors recalled

By NORM CLARKE

SOUTHGATE, Ky. (AP) — Bernie Doctor wanted a Memorial Day weekend to remember.

He and his wife relished good entertainment. A favorite spot was the Beverly Hills Supper Club, a sprawling nightclub offering the biggest names in show business and fine food.

Since developing a heart condition, the state engineering clerk held a new appreciation for the good things in life — and life itself. He and his wife, Rose, had a fondness for singer John Davidson, top-billed performer at the club last Saturday, the final show of an 11-night engagement.

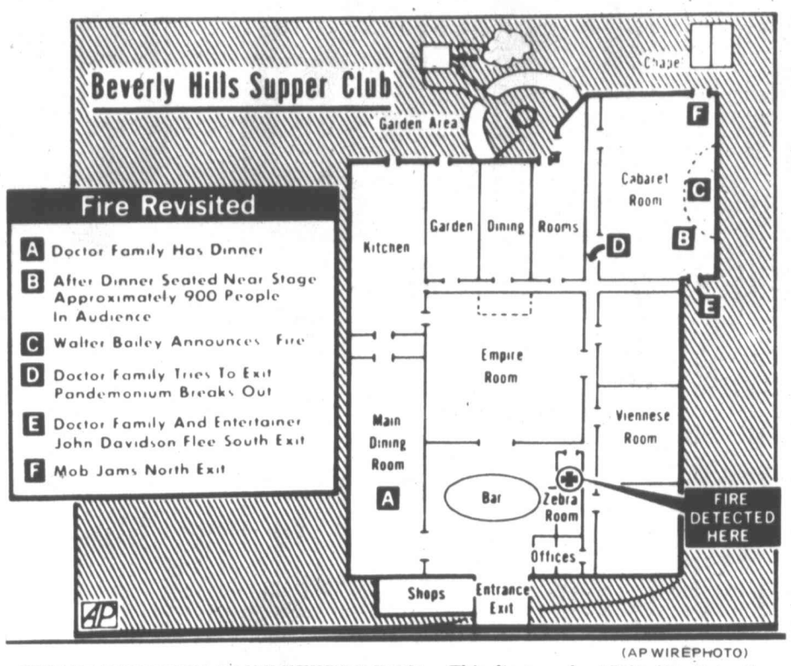

Doctor, 59, Rose, 56, and Aunt Tess Schlonsky, 75, had made reservations days earlier for dinner and the show. They drove from Columbus to the narrow, quarter-mile drive to the top of the bluff where the club overlooks a valley opposite a cemetery. A flurry of activity at the front door indicated a growing crowd.

"We arrived about 5:30 p.m., had our car parked and went in to wash up," Doctor recalls.

Freshened, the trio found a table in the bar inside the main entrance. They delayed cocktails and began a 25-minute wait for a table in the dining room.

Doctor scanned the ala carte menu and, concerned about a weight problem, selected fish. The women ate calf's liver. Then, sipping $3 cocktails, they chatted and relaxed.

Less than four hours later the nightclub was engulfed in flames. Doctor and the two women scrambled through dense smoke and flames to save their lives. But at least 161 others died.

SITE OF MEMORIAL DAY WEEKEND FIRE — This diagram by AP Staff Artists of the Beverly Hills Supper Club in Southgate, Ky., is for use as desired with Norm Clarke's recounting of the fire that swept the club the night of May 28.

A three-man investigating team from Atlanta reported to Kentucky officials last week that the fire began around 7 p.m. from a short circuit in a power cord of a decorative water pump near the club's Zebra Room and burned unnoticed inside a wall for more than an hour. An aide to Kentucky Gov. Julian Carroll said the state would not issue any official report on the cause until further investigation was completed.

Meanwhile, by 5:45 p.m. the paved parking lot outside was filling quickly.

Fred Cianciola, a musician in the 24-piece house orchestra, arrived in his tuxedo, delicately removing his Vuillaume violin from the car. The 80-year-old instrument, valued at over $5,000, has been an obsession in the middle-aged Cincinnati man's life. An even rarer model was destroyed by vandals years back.

Busboy Walter Bailey, 18, already was busy. The night before was busy enough, Bailey thought, but it seemed to be busier this night.

Bailey, five days out of high school, had worked at the club for more than a year, helping support his widowed mother and three younger brothers still living at home. But he was souring on the $1.20-an-hour job. "They don't tell you anything. They just put you out there to work."

He was one of 300 employes at the entertainment palace, serving more than 4,500 customers some nights. During its 40 years, the club claimed to be "The Showplace of the Nation." In its heyday, casinos whirred and feather-costumed showgirls pranced Parisian style.

The aura ebbed in 1952 when coonskin-capped Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee cracked down on gambling.

With betting gone, the nightclub — Southgate's major industry — withered. It was revived in the 1960s by Richard Schilling, a local nightclub king. Fire of unknown origin ravaged the club in 1970, and Schilling rebuilt immediately, doubling the size, including a chapel and reception rooms. There were no deaths in the earlier fire.

The swank complex became a labyrinth of assorted rooms to accommodate big and small parties. Its crown jewel was the Cabaret Room.

The Doctors and Aunt Tess hurried through their meal. Bernie was miffed that his fish was fried rather than broiled. It wasn't good for him. They moved to the Cabaret where seats cost $8.50.

It was 7:05. Early, he thought. But Doctor was shocked when he found the room jammed. His seats were 10 feet from the right side of the stage.

"We were sitting like sardines. It was a shame the way they packed us in there. I had to fidget around just to get my butt comfortable," he said.

Up the corridor in the Zebra Room, Larry Hall and Margaret Seifert celebrated after their wedding in the chapel. The cool air turned hot and sticky as the reception wore on.

Finally, the groom's father, Oran Hall, recalls, "My wife said she was so hot she would have to leave. We started to sweat. It got so hot we asked the waitress to see if the air conditioner was off. She never came back."

The heat was too much for the partygoers. They left. The door was closed.

The Atlanta investigators said the Zebra Room was cool on one side and hot on the side where the fire was moving up a steel I-beam behind heavily plastered walls. They said the beam acted as a chimney and the fire eventually reached the club's attic space, where it spread to above the Cabaret Room.

In the Cabaret, meanwhile, Doctor sipped a $1.30 soft drink at his table and remembers whistling to himself. "It was the craziest thing," he said. "I remember thinking 'My God. What would happen if there was a fire.'"

It was past 8:30. Stragglers were filling the few remaining seats. The audience of 900 grew impatient.

One floor below a waitress smelled smoke. She called for help. It was 8:45.

Walter Bailey, a tray in his hand, watched the comedians in the Cabaret who started the performance minutes earlier. The waitress dashed over to him in the darkened theatre with a whispered message.

He rushed to the corridor where thick, black smoke billowed from beneath the Zebra Room. A queasy feeling built in Bailey's stomach. He raced to the Cabaret. It was 9:02.

County dispatcher Howard Froelicher was reading the paper when the telephone rang. Fire at Beverly Hills Supper Club!

He pressed a button on the plastic communications console before him. Sirens wailed, alerting the volunteer fire fighters in this community of 3,500.

Gripped in sweat, Bailey was back in the Cabaret. He went to the woman in charge.

"I asked her if I could go to the stage and tell everybody to get out. She didn't say anything, so I did it anyway," Bailey said.

He walked on as the comedy team watched curiously. He took a microphone. "He talked calmly, but he was shaking," one comic said.

Bailey tried to disguise the urgency of his mission. He pointed to the exits. He never said fire — until the end.

"Some guys were laughing," Bailey said. "They thought I was part of the act." He wasn't. Fire trucks were leaving the engine house.

Doctor remembers hearing a near-chant spread through the room when Bailey was finished: "Everyone was saying, 'Don't panic. Walk slowly.'" Bailey led a large group toward the rear exit.

Doctor started to leave: "We were walking and laughing. But the minute we got into the hallway, all hell broke loose."

Raging flames from the Zebra Room slipped through the air-conditioning into the Cabaret, igniting the decorated ceiling. Pandemonium broke. The two groups became mobs lurching toward exits.

The hot blasts incinerated the room within minutes. Flames danced on cushioned chairs. Elegant evening gowns ignited. Temperatures soared to more than 1,000 degrees.

Cincinnati Fire Capt. Peter Sabino, that night a patron, scrambled out an exit.

"I ran over and they suddenly quit coming out," Sabino said. "I heard screaming. I looked in and saw a double door. This is where the nightmare hit me.

"All I saw was arms and heads stacked up like cordwood. Some were waving."

Bailey watched in horror. He rushed to the door and tugged at shirt sleeves, ties and arms to free more people. Sabino started mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. Fire fighters began to arrive.

Davidson, warned by a drummer, fled the south exit, holding the door for violinist Cianciola, the last band member to escape. He and others carried their instruments.

Harold Penwell earned a Silver Star in Vietnam for saving 14 lives. When the stampede for the exit began, he pulled his mother forward. She popped out of the building, choking for air. He watched his wife escape. Then he turned to help others. In seconds he was dead.

A wrong turn in a darkened hall meant death. A woman stopped to catch her breath, felt a chair, and sat down. Firemen found her body the next day — upright in the chair. She suffocated.

Bernie Doctor was twisted around backwards in the milling mob when he reached the exit. He tumbled down the steep stairs, hitting the ground hard as he rolled down the grassy hillside.

He screamed for Rose and Aunt Tess. They answered. He saw Davidson weeping nearby.

He clutched his chest in fear. His heart was thumping dangerously. Fumbling, he reached inside his scorched suit, found a tablet tin and popped a nitroglycerin pill under his tongue.

He reached to his throat for his Star of David. "I grabbed it and kissed it. I thanked God many times."

LIVED THROUGH THE FLAMES — What started out as a good time for everyone on Memorial Day weekend ended in horror as at least 161 persons died in a fire that consumed the Beverly Hills Supper Club in Southgate, Ky., the night of May 28. Some of the persons involved in the fire rescue and others who witnessed the tragedy are shown here. From left are Howard Froelicher, Walter Bailey, Bernie Doctor, entertainer John Davidson, and Fire Captain Peter Sabino.

Downtown Lions Club installs new officers

New officers of the Downtown Lions Club were installed by District 2A-1 Governor Russell DeVore at a ladies night affair Thursday evening in the Howard College community room.

David Crews, production manager for KOSA-TV in Odessa, projected a narrated slide projection of his hiking trip across Switzerland, and his climbing of the Matterhorn.

M.A. Barber was installed as president of the club, along with vice president Morris Rhodes, Verl I. Green and Ernie Boyd. Other new officers were Jerry Phillips, secretary-treasurer; Dub Martin, Liontamer; Dave Morrison and Wayne Henry, tailtwisters; Vic Keyes and John Latham, directors.

Gary Bradbury, who will retire at the end of June as president, was presented with a plaque and past-president's pin. Special citations were presented to Morris Rhodes for the Lions Service Day project; Cleo Carlisle, queen's contest; Wayne Henry, Salvation Army Christmas project, also heading the light bulb sale; John Latham, the mop and broom sale. Bradbury reported that the club had given $100 to the high school scoreboard fund, and had participated in the Town Meeting project; had replaced equipment, as well as increasing the traditional blind, sight conservation crippled children's and diabetic children's camps, and boosting YMCA youth memberships to five.

$850,000 job in Lamesa

LAMESA — Ground will be broken here about Aug. 1 for a 9,000-square foot Lamesa Federal Savings and Loan building. Estimated cost is $850,000.

The structure will be built on the half block facing South First Street bordered by Houston Avenue on the east and F Avenue on the west.

Lamesa Federal has also opened a branch office in Seminole. That office employs four people and will be formally dedicated next Saturday.

Post goes to Midlander

AUSTIN — Steve Bickerstaff, 31, appointed to head the Texas Attorney General's State and County Affairs division, is a native of Midland.

Bickerstaff served as Attorney General John Hill's legislative liaison during the 65th session.

Odessa reporter fired after exposure incident

ODESSA — Reporter Robert C. Borden lost his job with the Odessa American here Friday, after he had been released on $45,000 bond after charges of burglary and indecent exposure with a minor had been lodged against him.

Editor Olin Ashley dismissed Borden. Ashley said two other reporters who had also been arrested in recent days would be retained on the staff. They are Robert Luckett, who was charged with driving while intoxicated and operating a motor vehicle without a license, and John Moulder. The latter paid a fine for public drunkenness.

District Attorney John Green, with whom Ashley and members of the American staff have been feuding, notified wire services of the arrests. He said there was no connection between the arrests and his long-standing conflict with the newspaper.

Green said, however, that this week's developments intensified the controversy between his office and the American.

Ashley was moved to say:

"It's obvious I have no evidence that this is part of Green's fight against the newspaper. If I did have I'd let it be known.

"To suggest such a link would be to suggest that the Odessa Police Department is in Mr. Green's hip pocket. I don't suggest that because I don't believe it. I have too much respect for the police."

The newspaper, following up stories printed in Dallas of Green's relationships with a former Big Spring car dealer, Joe Hicks, reported that Green had flown to Las Vegas in 1972 as Hicks' guests. Hicks' checkered past was exposed — he had been in the state penitentiary and is now serving a life term in the Texas correctional system.

Relations between Green and the newspaper rapidly deteriorated, with the result that Green barred Odessa American reporters from his office.

After a series of clashes with the newspaper in recent months, Green went before the Ector county grand jury to gain an indictment against City Editor John Sliney on a charge of trying to bribe Jimmy Edwards, a candidate for county attorney last year. Edwards said tape recordings of conversations involving the bribe offer to him have been turned over to the Texas Rangers.

Green went the extra mile. He also filed a $3.5 million libel suit against the American, naming publisher Lyle DeBolt and Ashley as defendants.

Businessmen earn top pay

NEW YORK (AP) — American businessmen earn up to 40 per cent more than executives with comparable jobs in Europe, according to a recent survey by the American Management Assoications, a nonprofit educational organization.

The study, which polled close to 12,000 directors of 2,000 major corporations, was compiled to gauge the relative incomes of Western businessmen. Results show that American executives are the best paid, with their counterparts in Belgium, Switzerland and West Germany running a distant second.

The survey notes that corporate directors with the lowest salaries work in countries suffering the greatest hardships from inflation — Britain and Italy.

Chief executives of American companies with sales equivalent to $20 million earn an average of $88,000 a year, of which more than half may be bonus payments, the study says. Their counterparts in Europe earn from $38,000 to $60,000 yearly.

Aged coach is discovered

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — The coach used by Austrian Empress Maria Theresa and her husband to travel to Brno in 1745 was recently found in the Brno old town monastery.

After the vehicle is restored, it will be placed on exhibit in a musuem of 17th- to 19th-century vehicles that is being established in the Castle Milotice.

'Keep it up, keep it up'

Comical mating calls

ALAMO, Tex. (AP) — The serence, semi-tropical setting of the Santa Ana National Wildlife Refuge is shatttered in the early morning and late afternoon when chachalacas begin their comical mating calls.

"You don't need an alarm clock with them around," said Ray Rauch, the Santa Ana manager, pointing to a massive Texas Ebony where three chachalacas were perched.

The chachalaca is a gray-brown bird with a small head and a long, white-tipped tail. The noisy game birds range between a quail and turkey in size, averaging about three pounds when grown.

"Keep it up, keep it up, keep it up," calls the female.

Twenty-nine species of mammals have been identifed at Santa Ana and 450 species of plants are bunched in the 1,980-acre flora and fauna paradise.

"Santa Ana is the largest remaining tract of natural vegetation along the Rio Grande," noted Rausch. "This is the way the entire Rio Grande Valley looked before the farmers and ranchers got a hold of it."

Five national champion trees — so designated as being the oldest of their species in the country — grace the refuge highlighted by a Texas Ebony rated at more than 400-years old.

The refuge is bordered on the south by eight miles of the meandering Rio Grande.

"One of our walking paths is named "Wetback Trail," because it runs directly north and was probably used by illegal aliens," noted Rauch.

The chachalacas' chattering cascades through the green jungle. "They sound like a bunch of apes in the trees," says Rauch.

"Keep it up, keep it up."

Rodeo books Moe Bandy

The star for the opening night of the Big Spring annual Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo on June 22 will be Moe Bandy, according to an announcement this week by rodeo officials.

Bandy was just a kid when he slapped on his spurs and settled in for a rough ride in the music business.

He's no longer a kid but he has "come to stay." In one recent country western publication, he stated, "It took me a long time to break nationally but I fell kinda like I was going to school. I learned a lot."

MOE BANDY

Moe laughs now, calling himself an "11-year-overnight-success" and he remembers the rugged road he left behind.

That road was in Texas where he and his band, the Mavericks played at dances and weddings.

"I had a day job as a sheet metal worker and would play at night," he recalled.

On a hunting trip, Moe met Ray Baker and Moe persuaded him to listen to a few tapes. Baker has produced Moe's records ever since.

In 1973, he teamed up to record, "I Just Started Hatin' Cheatin' Songs Today."

Recently Moe signed with Columbia Records who plan to re-release most of his material.

"My style was the same all the time," Moe stated. "They just took a long time findin' me."

Traffic deaths

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas traffic accidents have killed 1,191 persons so far this year, compared with 1,163 at this time in 1976, the Department of Public Safety reported Friday.

Fatal accidents this year total 1,052, compared with 1,009, for the same period a year ago.

Directors of CRMWD meet Tuesday

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District face a busy session Tuesday when they meet at the district headquarters in Big Spring.

Among items facing directors at the 10:30 a.m. session are naming of standing committees; discussion of renewal of the Monsanto water sales contract; reports from the Insurance and Personnel committees as well as the Long Range Planning Committee and the rate committee.

The insurance committee, comprised of Clyde McMahon, Big Spring, H.G. Cargile, Snyder, and R.S. Yorgesen, Snyder, will meet at 9:30 a.m. as will the personnel committee consisting of H.S. (Duke) Samson, Odessa, R.S. Yorgesen, Snyder, and John L. Taylor, Big Spring.

Okie still leading rodeo winner

DENVER, Colo. — Reigning world champion all around cowboy Tom Ferguson took another all around award at the annual Forum Championship rodeo in Inglewood, Calif., over the weekend.

Pro rodeo's top cowboy placed second in both calf roping and steer wrestling for a total of $1,995, and received a $500 bonus for being the big winner in two events.

Ferguson's brother, Larry, 27, also of Miami, is second all around standings with $21,444.

Among first place event winners at the rodeo, which ran four days, winding up on Sunday, was Bob Marshall of Chowchilla, Calif., the PRCA's steer wrestling director and 1973 world champion in the event. Marshall won $1,495 for 7.6 seconds work — the total time it took him to catch and wrestle down two steers. He had the fastest time of the contest, winning first in the second go-round with 3.0 seconds.

Other winners included Californians Ken Luman of Madera and Sonny Cowden of Merced, who took first in team roping for $1,127 apiece. Toots Boyd of Hemet, Calif., won $1,122 in bull riding; Larry Cohorn of Las Cruces, N.M., took $1,020 in calf roping; and Hugh Chambliss of Denver, the PRCA's rodeo administrator, won $830 for first in saddle bronc riding.

DIVISION LEADERS:
ALL AROUND COWBOY — Tom Ferguson, Miami, Okla. $23, 676.
BAREBACK BRONC RIDING — Joe Alexander, Cora, Wyo., $17,388.
GRA BARREL RACING — Connie Combs, Comanche, Okla., $7,836.

YOU CAN'T GO HOME AGAIN! — Especially when the catcher is waiting for you with the ball. During Saturday morning's National Pee Wee League game between the Sparks and the Angels, Sparks catcher Cris Peterson and Angels baserunner Joe Bingham provided a little excitement for the fans. Seems like Joe tried to score from third on a passed ball, and just missed by a horsehair. The Angels won the game and now lead their league with a record of 9-1-1.

Sun Devils win NCAA track meet

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Sprinter Herman Frazier and unheralded high jumper Kyle Arney led Arizona State over the long-distance and field men of Texas El Paso and Washington State Saturday to give the Sun Devils the title in the NCAA outdoor track and field championships.

Frazier won the 400-meter dash and anchored the 400-meter and 1,600-meter relay teams, which finished second. Arney, whose previous best high jump was 7-4, captured the event at 7-6 and missed three attempts at a world record height of 7-7½.

Arizona State won by the surprisingly large margin of 64 to 50 for second place Texas El Paso. Southern Cal, the defending champion was third with 48, followed by Washington State with 46.

Frazier's victory in the 400-meter dash cut Texas-El Paso's lead to 44-38, then freshman Tony Darden finished second in the 200-meter dash to pick up eight points and put the Sun Devils on top.

But with just two events left, the high jump and the 1,600-meter relay, the Sun Devils found themselves in a tie with Washington State and UTEP. All had 46 points.

Washington State had moved up on a one-two finish in the 5,000 meters by Kenyans Joshua Kimeto and Samson Kimombwa, who won the 10,000 meters Friday, and a fourthplace finish in the triple jump by NCAA indoor champion Ian Campbell.

UTEP had caught up on Arnold Grimes' fifth place finish in the triple jump.

Then USC won the 1,600-meter relay and Arizona State's team of Clifton McKenzie, Rick Walker, Gerald Burl and Frazier came in second to add eight points.

Meanwhile, in the high jump, UTEP's Greg Joy, a Canadian silver medalist in the 1976 Olympics, had gone out at 7-3 to take fourth and Franklin Jacobs of Fairleigh-Dickinson bowed out at 7-5 to take second. Assured of a team and individual victory, Arne then took three cracks at the world record, but didn't come close.

Carner garners LPGA top score

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP) — JoAnne Carner shot a four-under-par 68 Saturday to take a commanding six-stroke lead with a 210 after three rounds of the Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament here.

The 38-year-old from Lake Worth, Fla., had three birdies as she moved to an almost insurmountable lead over Pat Bradley, the defending champion from Westford, Mass.

Miss Bradley, with a double bogie on the 16th on Saturday, wound up with a 73 for her 216. She was one stroke ahead of pony-tailed jane Blalock of Highland Beach, Fla.

Miss Blalock, who had an eagle on the par-four, 344-yard sixth hole of the Wykagyl Country Club course, posted a 71 to go with her 146 after two rounds.

Kathy McMullen of Holmes Beach, Fla., also had a 71 and was one stroke ahead of Judy Rankin with a 218. Chako Higuchi, Laura Baugh, Sandra Palmer and Sandra Spuzich were bunched at 220.

Blazermania sweeps Northwest

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Portland Trail Blazers are one game away from writing the final chapter in their Cinderella season. The National Basketball Association championship is within their grasp.

"We finally did what we had to do—we beat them on the road," said Blazers forward Bobby Gross, whose 25 points played a big part in Portland's 110-104 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers Friday night. It gave the Blazers a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven NBA playoff finals.

"Now it's in our laps," Gross said. "We've got them on our home court. It's up to us to finish them off."

At Memorial Coliseum, before the screaming thousands who have made Blazermania the password in the Pacific Northwest, the Trail Blazers are a mighty tough outfit. They've won their last 17 in a row at home, 44 of 50 over-all.

And after losing the first two games of this series at Philadelphia, the Blazers returned home and posted 129-107 and 130-98 romps.

"We're not going out to Portland just to see the rain," promised Sixers Coach Gene Shue, whose club has now lost three in a row for the first time this season.

"You've got to be positive, to go out there and play 100 per cent and let the chips fall where they may," added Philadelphia guard Doug Collins. "Those fans will be crazy out there. They'll be sky high. We can't let them get off to a fast start or else it will be too much to overcome."

Neither team got off to much of a start Friday night. It was 53-52 Portland early in the third quarter, anybody's game, when the Blazers took command. Gross and reserve guard Dave Twardzik led them on a 17-2 burst and, by the end of the third period, it was 85-66.

Philadelphia, sparked by reserve forward Joe Bryant, staged a fourth-quarter comeback to made the final score close.

So the Blazers, an expansion team which suffered through six losing seasons before putting it together in their first year under Coach Jack Ramsay, can become the first team ever to lose the first two games of the NBA finals and them come back to win four in a row—if they can beat the Sixers again Sunday (CBS, 3 p.m., EDT).

"We expect a war on Sunday," said Ramsay, taking the cautious approach. "We will have to play our best. If we do that, we'll win. Anything less won't be enough."

Should Philadelphia win, the championship of the 1976-77 NBA season which began nearly eight months ago and in which the Sixers and Blazers have now played 100 regularseason and playoff games apiece, would be decided in a seventh game of the playoff finals at Philadelphia Wednesday night starting at 9 p.m., EDT.

BIRDIE DANCE — Golfer Tom Weiskopf does a little dance as his putt drops for a birdie on the 6th green during Saturday's third round of the Kemper Open being played at the Quail Hollow Country Club in Charlotte. Weiskepf was 9-under-par after the third round and was tied for the lead.

Andretti captures Grand Prix pole

ZOLDER, Belgium (AP) — Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., put his JPS-Lotus on the pole position for Sunday's Belgian Grand Prix with a qualifying time Saturday which pulverized the lap record and the hopes of the opposition.

He was 1.3 seconds under the lap record. And more importantly, he was about 1.5 seconds faster than anyone else around the 2.648-mile track, covering the twisting course at 110 miles an hour.

"The secret is the fantastic design and preparation of the car by the Lotus team," Andretti said. "It's a pleasure to drive."

Andretti's other pole position this year, in the Spanish Grand Prix, saw him dominate right to the finishing flag for his second straight victory. He also won at Long Beach, Calif.

Alongside him on the front row of the grid here was Britain's John Watson in the Brabham-Alfa Romeo. Third fastest and strategically behind Andretti was the other Lotus, driven by young Swede Gunnar Nilsson.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Joni Jai of Beaumont, Tex., who owns two stock cars and soon will add a third to her fleet, says a woman's place at the race track is in the owner's lounge and not behind the wheel of a race car.

Mrs. Jai, who has two cars entered in Sunday's Texas 500 stock car race at Texas World Speedway, said Janet Guthrie, the first woman to qualify for the Indianapolis 500, should not be allowed to race against men.

"She should have better sense that to put 32 men in danger on a race track because they've all got mothers," Mrs. Jai said. "There's not a man on the track that wouldn't go into a wall before he'd run a woman into the wall.

"Any psychiatrist will tell you the first thing a man thinks of when he sees a woman is 'mother.' You have to have split second timing on the track and a man would do anything to avoid hitting a woman."

Mrs. Jai's husband Ken will drive the newest car in the Jai fleet, a Camero that Butch Hartman drove to the USAC stock car division championship last season.

The other, also a Camero, will be driven by Wayne Rutherford, brother of 1976 Indianapolis 500 winner Johnny Rutherford. Rutherford was a last minute entry as the driver when Roger McCluskey withdrew.

Rutherford, 29, of Fort Worth, said he was just passing through College Station to watch Saturday's qualifying when A. J. Foyt told him the Hai's needed a driver.

"I was driving a friend's Rolls Royce back to Fort Worth to put a sun roof on it," Rutherford said. "We were just going to watch the qualifying. Now here I am driving in this thing.

"I've got A.J.'s fire suit, Roy Jones' tennis shoes and somebody else's helmet."

Mrs. Jai says she's planning to purchase a third car next month and she's already got the promise of the car—from A. J. Foyt.

"A. J.'s the greatest and he's honest and whoever says he's not will have to match me dollar for dollar," Mrs. Jai said. "He says come July 4 he'll sell me that Chevelle so we'll really be into it then."

Snodgrass leads Texas amateurs

KERRVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Terry Snodgrass of Arlington soared to a four-over-par 76 Saturday, but maintained his two-stroke lead after three rounds of the Texas Amateur golf championship.

Snodgrass, a 19-year-old member of the University of Houston golf team, posted a 54-hole score of 218, two over par at the 6,900-yard Riverhill Country Club. Mike Muckleroy of Baytown also fired a 76 Saturday and remained in second at 220.

The final round of the fourday meet is slated Sunday.

Kirk Branum, 19, of Austin, was in third at 221. He fired an even-par 72 Saturday, moving up from a fifth-place tie.

Bob Cornett of Dallas also shot a 72 and was in fourth at 222.

The two golfers who were tied for third at the halfway point Friday both dropped in the standings. Houston's Doug Dixon dropped to fifth after posting a 77 Saturday and John Horne of Plainview slipped to a 79 and seventh place.

Weiskopf, Rogers, Burns, tie for Kemper Open lead

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Tom Weiskopf, who has won this tournament two times, and Bill Rogers and George Burns, who haven't won at all, moved into a three-way tie for the lead Saturday after three rounds of the $250,000 Kemper Open Golf tournament.

Weiskopf, a non-winner for two years but admittedly "pumped up, excited" about his chances here, could have had the lead alone but for a missed five-foot eagle putt on the par five fifth hole.

He had to settle for a three-under-par 69 and a 207 total, nine under par on the winterdamaged, 7,160-yard Quail Hollow Country Club course.

The lanky, talkative Rogers, who said "this is my best position ever," shot a 68 in the hot, humid, hazy weather and the hard-luck Burns, who's been in position to win so often—and every time let it get away—barged into contention with a six-under-par 66.

"I've got a new mental attitude," said Burns, who could have won three times this year and fell victim to poor lastround play each time. "I'm tired of getting all churned up about the way I'm playing. I'm gonna play the game the way it is, relax and enjoy and have the good life. I'll take what comes."

One stroke back of the leading threesome at 208 were former U.S. Open champion Lou Graham, clowning Chi Chi Rodriguez, Doug Tewell and George Archer, who led or shared the lead through the first two rounds of this chase for a $50,000 first prize.

Tewell had a third round 68, Graham 69, Archer and Rodriguez 71s.

Joe knows the score: Nobody wants Seaver

Joe Torre, newest Mets' manager, has this recurring dream. Tom Seaver rushes into his office and says, congratulations, Joe, I'm sure things are gonna be different now — and just to prove it, he goes out and pitches a no-hitter.

Right in back of Tom Terrific comes Dave Kingman. He shakes Joe Torre's hand and says, Skip, when I heard the news I went upstairs and signed for three years — and Sky went out and hit four home runs for Tom Seaver, and caught four balls in the outfield.

Life may be but a dream; it isn't that one, however. Tom Seaver was asked if the appointment of Torre, a likeable person, might affect his wishes to be traded. "I'm glad for Joe," he said, "but my argument is with the front office, not with the manager."

Kingman, the million-dollar holdout, was asked the same thing. "That's something I have to think about," he said.

Joe Torre, is his waking time, is no dreamer. Asked if he would trade Seaver, he said, "I can't answer that."

"Can't or won't" was the coy parry.

I have sad news for Tom Seaver. Nobody wants him. Oh, they'll take him, for nothing or next to it, but they won't give anything worthwhile for him. Tom Terrific has no market.

This sounds proposterous, I know. A three-time Cy Young winner. A four-time 20-game winner. A strikeout recordholder. A sure Hall of Famer. You would think ballclubs should be knocking down the Mets' doors to make an offer for Tom Seaver. They're not.

One club was asked about its interest in him. "Let's talk about Matlack," was the reply.

"We're not going to trade Matlack," says Don Grant. "If we trade Matlack, we still have the headache."

That's what he has become. Tom Terrifc has become Tom Headache.

"He has destroyed his market," says Don Grant.

Not Seaver. The Lords of Baseball, they destroyed the market. They made concessions, one after the other, to the players' union until they lost control of their game. Now, Tom Seaver can say to them, because of his tenure, I don't want to be traded to Houston, or San Diego, or Atlanta, or Chicago. I want to be traded to Los Angeles, or Cincinnati, or Philadelphia, or Pittsburgh.

Now, you would think that's enough marketplace to get true value, wouldn't you? Take Cincinnati. They need pitching. They have more bats than the Louisville Slugger people. Surely they would give up a couple of good hitters for a Tom Terrific. One hitter?

YOUNG IDEAS

By DICK YOUNG

How about George Foster? No way. Ken Griffey? No,

Would you believe that? The Reds have refused to give up one regular outfielder for the best pitcher in the league.

Just give us one of your top five players, the Mets asked: Cey, Russell, Monday, Garvey, Lopes. The answer was no.

I have seen the Philly offer for Seaver. The Pirate offer. I have sworn not to use names. I'll tell you this. You wouldn't believe them. Seaver wouldn't believe them.

Why? Why is there no sense of true value when the Mets talk trade about Tom Seaver?

I can think of two reasons. One, the Mets are dealing from weakness. They are trying to unload a problem to a confined market. The restricted market is created by the player's dictates.

Secondly, Seaver is a troublemaker. Any player who publicly calls his employer a maniac and apologizes the next day is a pop-off troublemaker. The owner who deals for Tom Seaver becomes his employer, and nobody is anxious to have that type of man working for him. Talent does not give a young man the license to be rude, arrogant, insubordinate.

In discussing Tom Seaver, and his problems, we must never mix up the two Tom Seavers. One is the pitcher, who is tremendous. The other, the person, is less than tremendous.

This pertains throughout sports. There is Bud Harrelson, the .200 hitter, and there is Bud Harrelson, the fine person. Sometimes they come together, the talent and the person, and you have a Stan Musial, a Catfish Hunter, a Joe Morgan, a Rod Carew, a Johnny Bench.

As great a talent as is Tom Seaver, he has become an irreparably destructive force on the Mets. In his undisciplined rage at the front office, he put down his teammates. They were not worthy of playing behind him, he said. He, Tom Seaver, deserved better than them.

Maybe so, but that was not for him to say. That was a terrible thing for him to say, just as some day, when the smoke has gone from his arm, and he is out there trying to wring the last $300,000 from some clubowner, a spoiled young player will say, why don't they get rid of that has been?

Gottfried makes finals

PARIS (AP) — Brian Gottfried of the United States and Guillermo Vilas of Argentina gained the singles final of the French Open Tennis Championships today.

Gottfried defeated an injured Phil Dent of Australia 7-5, 6-3, 7-5. Vilas won a one-sided baseline duel against Raul Ramirez of Mexico 6-2, 6-0, 6-3.

The final, for a first prize of $38,000, is set for Sunday. Gottfried is aiming to be the first American to win to the tournament since Tony Trabert in 1955.

Dent had an injection for a strained wrist before the match. He said afterwards it began to hurt him during the second set.

"I started to feel it when I hit top spin forehands," Dent said, "so I used that shot only when I had to. But I don't think it had any bearing on the result. Brian played very well."

Gottfried did not lose a service game in the first two sets. But he dropped service three times in the third, and two of them ended with double faults.

The second time that happened was when Gottfried was serving for the match at 5-4.

Gottfried served again for the match two games later, and this time had no accidents.

The first set went with with service until a long argument over a line call in the 12th game. Dent, serving at 5-6 and trailing 15-30, had a smash called out and refused to accept the decision.

The tournament referee was called to the court and confirmed the call, but Dent continued to argue and eventually the point was ordered replayed. The delay lasted seven minutes.

Dent won the point the second time with the crowd shouting and whistling. But Gottfried then hit two fine backhands and broke service for the first time to take the set.

Earlier John McEnroe and Mary Carillo, members of the same tennis club in New York, became the first American pair to win the mixed doubles title for 24 years.

They came from behind in both sets to defeat Ivan Molina of Colombia and Florenta Mihai of Romania 7-6, 6-3 in the final on the center court of Roland Garros Stadium.

McEnroe, 18, and his dark-haired partner, 20, both left-handers, were playing together for the first time. The last Americans to win the title were Vic Seixas and Doris Hart.

Trail Driver given chance

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. — The first handicap confrontation of the season comes up on Sunday with such heavyweights as Trail Driver, Tracy Dias and Princely Song slated to tear into one another at 6½ furlongs.

The lure is added money of $7,500, and the battleground is the Mescalero-Apache Handicap. First of 12 races gets off the ground at an early-starting 1 p.m.

Howell, Williams et al

There are 41 tournaments on the tour this summer, and Howell has assured himself of a spot in the Tournament of Champions to be held at the Big Spring Country Club on August 2. All 41 winners meet there to decide the Junior Tour champion.

Comanche Trail Golf Course will also be on the agenda for the tour, with the local tourney to be held July 12.

In the Sweetwater inaugural, Chris competed in the 14-15 year-old division, carding a 75 to beat the field by five strokes. Chris was a freshman letterman on the Big Spring High School varsity golf team this year, and will be kept busy all summer, participating in the various Junior Tour events, and taking his place in the State qualifying tourney at Lubbock in July and the Junior World championships in June.

Now Vida Blue is suing Charliey Finley.

Finley, the votalile owner of the Athletics, is charged with fraud, bad faith, undue influence and breach of the convenant of good fatih in a suit filed by attorney Richard F. Sequeira on Blue's behalf.

The charges are the outgrowth of negotiations involving the pitcher's contract and his aborted sale to the Yankees last year.

In the suit, filed in Alameda County Superior Court, Blue charged that he was misled by Finley regarding his worth as a major league pitcher. The Oakland left-hander, an 18-game winner last season, asks $1.5 million in special damages and also seeks general punitive damages.

Sequeira said he was asking the court to declare null and void the contract signed by Blue with Finley June 15, 1976.

Blue alleges he signed a one-year contract for$80,000 in 1975 and on June 15, 1976, signed a three-year pact providing for a salary of $140,000 in 1976, the same amount in 1977 and $205,000 in 1978.

However, the suit charges, Finley knew the market value for Blue's services for those three years was $1,985,000. Finley fraudulently represented Boue's worth as $485,000 during contract negotiations, the pitcher charges, while the owner at the same time was talking trade with the Yankees.

Willie Williams, one of Big Spring's best athletes from past years, is back in town today after trying out for the Cincinnati Reds in Ft. Worth last Thursday. Willie also tried out for the Phillies in Paris, Tex. on May 28.

WILLIE WILLIAMS

CHRIS HOWELL

Because of injuries, Willie has decided to try to make the grade in the major leagues rather than professional football, where his coach at Austin College feels he could find a spot.

If he can't break into the majors, however, Williams is going to return to AC, where he received his bachelor's degree this year, and work toward his master's degree.

Williams earned 12 letters in his four-year career at Austin College. Only two other athletes in Kangaroo history had accomplished that feat. He played baseball, basketball, football and ran track.

He also became the first three-time winner of the Pete Cawthorn Award which goes to the athlete who best exemplifies the former Kangaroo's great leadership and character both on and off the playing field.

And Williams was named to the NAIA All-America football team, the first Austin College player to gain that honor since Bo Miller in 1960.

Williams graduated in the top 10 per cent of his class while at Big Spring, and took his degree this year in physical education and sociology.

"The nicest thing about going to Austin College," Williams said, "is that I got my degree and that has made my mother very proud. She always spurred me on in high school and has a scrapbook of everything written about me. Mama is my biggest fan and I am very happy I have been able to do these things for the school and my family."

Williams was overlooked in the recent pro football draft, but he expects more attention in the upcoming baseball draft. "I'd like to be drafted by one of the big league baseball teams, and I've talked with scouts from both Cincinnati and the Texas Rangers, and I am convinced I can make it to the majors if I get the opportunity."

Austin College's annual all-sports banquet last month resembled a Willie Williams testimonial. In addition to the coveted Pete Cawthorn Award, Willie received the Gene Babb award for being the outstanding football player, the hustle award for basketball, and a special recognition for being named All-American.

"Willie Williams is class," said AC grid coach Larry Kramer at the banquet. "He leaves behind a history that any successor will be hard-pressed to match. He's a special person to all of us."

He was a special person while at BSHS as well.

Blazers smoke 76ers trail

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Portland Trail Blazers, expansion ragamuffins who suffered through six losing seasons, are just one game away from the National Basketball Association championship in their first year under Coach Jack Ramsay.

They'll try to wrap it up Sunday (CBS, 3 p.m., EDT) on their home floor, where they have been virtually unbeatable this year, winning their last 17 in a row and 44 of 50 through the regular season and playoffs. And they'll have the added support of the vocal legions who have made Blazermania a phenomenon in the Pacific Northwest.

The Blazers produced something less than their best Friday night but nonetheless moved within one victory of the NBA crown, beating the Philadelphia 76ers 110-104 to take a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven playoff finals.

It was a strange game that ran in spurts and produced an unlikely hero—Bobby Gross, Portland's unassuming 6-foot-6 forward who came into the series as "the other guy," the unknown whose job it would be to try and stop the brilliant Julius Erving of Philadelphia.

Gross helped the Blazers take the lead at the start, contributing eight points, two assists and a steal as Portland jumped out to a 16-9 advantage while Philadelphia was missing 11 of its first 14 shots.

The rest of the first half was miserable basketball which Ramsay described as "not an artistic masterpiece." Neither team could get anything going, and although the Sixers hit only 29 per cent of their shots from the field, they trailed by just 45-41.

It was 53-44 before Philadelphia ran off four straight baskets, the last two by slumping George McGinnis, to pull within one at 53-52 with 8:03 to go in the third period.

Gross spearheaded a Portland explosion which produced 32 points over the next eight minutes. He scored 11 of his team-high 25 points in the third quarter, which ended with Portland in command 85-66.

The Blazers increased the lead to 22 points in the fourth quarter, reminiscent of the 129-107 and 130-98 routs they enjoyed in the last two games in Portland after dropping the first two games of the series here.

But then Sixers Coach Gene Shue looked down his bench and spotted Joe "Jellybean" Bryant, a talented but erratic 6-9 forward who has been crying for more playing time. With Bryant in the line-up, the Sixers suddenly came alive.

Bryant's 23-foot jumper cut it to 101-96 with 3:26 to go, plenty of time for the explosive Sixers. But this time Lucas applied the clincher, hitting a bank shot and then relaying a pass from Dave Twardzik to Lionel Hollins for a layup and a secure nine-point lead.

Gross and Lucas were just two of the more noticeable heroes on the Blazers, who once again used their balance and team game to offset a magnificent solo effort by Erving, who had 37 points.

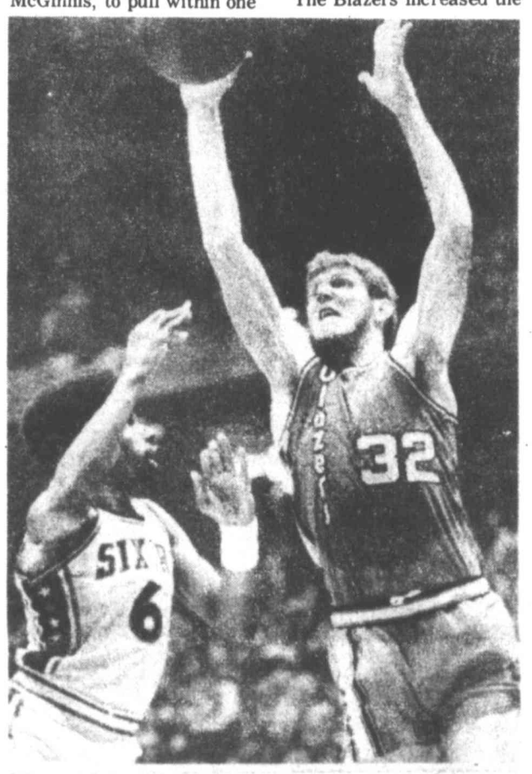

Hollins had 14 points and Johnny Davis 11 points and eight assists, while Twardzik came off the bench to tally 16.

And then there was Bill Walton, once again the dominating presence in the middle with 14 points and 24 rebounds, helping Portland to a 59-47 advantage off the boards.

WELCOME HOME, BILL — Bill Walton of the Trail Blazers is surrounded by well-wishers as he and his teammates arrived in Portland early Saturday after defeating the Philadelphia 76ers 110-104 in the fifth game of their NBA championship series, Friday night in Philadelphia. Portland now leads the best of seven series three games to two. Sixth game will be Sunday in Portland.

SCORES OVER ERVING — Portland Trail Blazers' Bill Walton pushes a shot over the head of 76er's Julius Erving Friday night during fifth game of NBA Championship series. Walton led his team in rebounds as Blazers won, 110-104. Erving was 76ers' high man with 37 points. Blazers now lead the Sixers, three games to two, in the best of seven series.

Torre now four of 5

NEW YORK (AP) — Nino Espinosa and Skip Lockwood combined to blank Philadelphia on seven hits and Jerry Grote drove in both runs as the New York Mets won their fourth game in five starts for new Manager Joe Torre with a 2-0 decision over the Phillies Saturday.

Mike Vail, who went 4-for-4, beat out an infield hit to third base, sending Kingman to third. Grote then punched a single to right-center, scoring Kingman.

In the sixth, after John Milner flied out, Carlton hit Kingman with a pitch, then threw wildly trying to pick him off at first, allowing Kingman to advance to second. Vail topped a ground ball to third, which Philadelphia third baseman Mike Schmist could not play bare-handed. Grote then singled to center to score Kingman.

Summer tennis begins Monday

The Big Spring Schools Summer Tennis Program will begin Monday with a "come-and-go" registration at the High School Tennis Courts from 9 a.m. until 11 a.m. Regular class instruction will begin the following day with beginners instruction from 9 a.m. until 10 a.m. and advanced class to follow from 10:15 until 11:30.

The classes will run five days a week for a six-weeks period of June 7-July 15. The cost for the class is $2 per youth. Instructors will be Mrs. Deanna Adams, junior high tennis coach, and Miss Vicky Murphy who has just completed two years at Schreiner tinstitute in Kerrville on a tennis scholarship.

The only equipment needed for the tennis class is a tennis racquet and a pair of rubber-soled shoes. In addition to excellent instruction, transportation will be provided for competent players to surrounding tournaments towards the end of the summer instruction, plus tournaments will be held in both the beginner and advanced classes with trophies awarded to the winners.

Prep letters not binding

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — New Mexico State University basketball Coach Ken Hayes said Saturday the school won't process national letters of intent signed by Marshall, Tex., prepsters Roshern Amie and Anthony Burns.

After signing the letters, the players said they did not ralize the import of the letters, and said they didn't want to attend NMSU.

A player who signs a national letter of intent cannot compete at another major college for two years.

Hayes said the decision not to process the letters will allow Roshern and Amie to go where they wish without penalty.

SCREAMING — Portland Trail Blazers' coach, Jack Ransay, screams at his team late in game Friday night against the 76ers at Philadelphia. Portland led the Sixers most of the game, but became worried in final moments. Blazers won, 110-104, and lead in the best of seven series, three games to two.

Carp results

By Danny Reagan

Couldn't get aholt of the Tidwell's at Lake Thomas this week (I think they're just about as busy as a shad in a school of white bass), but Ed McCain at Moss Creek had a few comments about the fishing out his way.

"Slow." A mass of humanity was at the lake last Memorial weekend, but the fishermen have been scarce throughout the week.

However, a few bass in the three-to-four pound category are showing up, and the oldest walleye in the lake are "crowding three pounds", according to McCain.

The biggest catfish taken out last week was a 10-pounder. Minnows and shrimp still seem to work the best for the bass and cats, while just about any shiny spinner will do for the walleye.

Colorado City

Popular Colorado City angler B.B. Hardee didn't win the Cee City Jaycee Carp Fishing Tournament last week. But dang it, you just can't blame the guy.

He had a terrible time. First thing, two bags of carp he had tied on the dock after the first day came loose during the night last Friday when a wind storm caused the rope to rub against the boards until the friction won, and 50 pounds of carp went the way of Rhett Butler.

Then, Sunday morning, B.B. was switching one of his more expensive rigs from one hand to another when a carp hit the line and pulled it out of his grasp into the water.

He followed it into the water but coulnd't find it. He later found the rig in shallow water with a 2½ pound carp on it.

Even though he didn't win the tourney, he did catch a carp with only one row of scales to earn him the strangest catch award.

Over 70 fishermen particiated in the tourney, catching more than 1,200 pounds of fish. Tim Edwards of Cee City won the event with 20 fish weighing in at 103 lbs. 5 ozs. Ronnie Conner caught the biggest fish of the tourney, a 19 lb. 6 oz. fighter.

FISHER PARK

Mark and May Hilton from Odessa caught 28 white bass weighing from 1½ to 1¾ lb. also one black bass at 3½ lb. Mr. and Mrs. James Miles and Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Hopson from Jal, New Mexico caught 12 white bass weighing 2¼ lb. each and one 1-lb. channel cat. Preston and Janice Kelley from Seminole caught over 100 lbs. of fish in a five-day outing. Tom Crouth caught a lot of bass, from 2 to 6 lb. each. The fisherman at Fisher Park are using spinner bait, jigs, and top water plus with spinners on them.

LOUIE'S LAKESIDE LODGE

Lots of small crappie and channel cat have been caught. Don Henderson from Lubbock caught a lot of carp over the weekend. Mrs. Carlile caught two channel cat wieging 5 lb. each.

LAKEVIEW CAMP

Some nice crappie have been caught on the Fisharama. Steve McMahon from Snyder caught six bass weighing up to 5½ lb. The channel cat have been biting at the hot water outlet.

COOPER'S COVE

Most of the traffic this weekend was skiing, swimming and camping. There were a lot of people out. Two winners in the Carp Contest were Doris Yarbough, (7th place) and Ricky Stahl, (12th place).

STATE PARK

Lake Spence

Wildcat Fish A Rama — Albert Meeks and sons of Paint Rock, 90 channel catfish to 3 lbs.; Charles Fouch and family of Fort Stockton, 5½ lb. striper; Roy and James Hood, Robert Lee, eight channel cat to 3 lbs., seven stripers to 6½ lbs.; West and Marie Thomas, Robert Lee, two stripers to 5½-lbs.; Don Hensley, Merkel, two stripers to 5½-lbs.; Bobby Brown, Cotton Bradshaw of Lubbock, 15-lb. yellow catfish; Virgil Jones, three stripers to 5½-lbs.

Triangle Grocery and Bait — Fidel Ruiz, Midland, and Matiar Ruiz, Midland, 26-lb. yellow catfish, and five channel cat to 5 lbs.; George Ferguson, Robert Lee, 5-lb. striper.

Y.J.'s Marina — Richard Long, Robert Lee, three stripers to 7½ lbs., Gene Roberts, Carlsbad, N.M., 4½-lb. striper; Orville Smith, Pecos, two stripers to 6 lbs.

16.8 million walleye stocked

AUSTIN — Twelve Texas lakes received 16.8 million walleye as Parks and Wildlife Department fish hatchery workers have completed stockings of the predator fish for 1977.

Majority of walleye stocked this year were fry as they are easier and cheaper to produce and transport to lakes, requiring only a minimum of hatchery space and leaving ponds free for production of other species.

Of the 16.8 million total walleye stocked, only 15,750 were larger fingerling fish which require more time and feeding to produce.

Lakes receiving walleye fry included: Buchanan, 4.8 million; Stamford, 1.3 million; Mackenzie, 180,000; Brownwood, 1.5 million; Travis, 3.7 million; Moss, 341,000; Moss Creek Reservoir, 30,000 (in Mar.); Sweetwater, 122,000; Amistad, 2.1 million; Cedar Creek Reservoir, one million; and Falcon, 1.7 million.

The 15,750 fingerlings were stocked in Alcoa Reservoir.

Walleye production was short of expectations this year because out-of-state sources were unable to supply Texas with sufficient numbers of walleye eggs.

The department had hoped to receive eggs from both New Mexico and Nebraska this year, but only New Mexico was able to supply some 4.5 million eggs.

As in past years, Lake Meredith in the Panhandle was the major Texas source of eggs for the walleye production program. Some 12 million larvae were produced from Meredieth broodfish.

Adult broodfish from Lakes O.C. Fisher, Twin Buttes, Fort Phantom Hill and Diversion supplied the balance.

The 1977 stocking brings the total number of walleye stocked to 143 million since 1970.

The 15,570 fingerlings which went into Alcoa Reservoir were part of the Parks and Wildlife Department's inland fisheries research program of predator diversity.

Program director Nick Carter said Alcoa will have walleye, flounder, northern pike an hybrid striped bass stocked in addition to the already present native largemouth bass and catfish.

Feldner ready for Texas 500

HOUSTON (AP) — Paul Feldner says getting acquainted with his new car during the offseason has helped him gain the lead in the United States Auto Club (USAC) stock car division going into Sunday's Texas 500 at Texas World Speedway.

Feldner bought his 429 cubic inch Doge from fellow driver Butch Hartman last year but it took most of the season to get it in working order.

"Butch had his way of driving it and had it set up a certain way," Feldner said. "We changed the handling around to fit our needs and it's worked out well."

Feldner won the first race of the USAC stock car circuit and finished second to Ramo Stott, Keokuk, Iowa in the Indiana Classic prior to the Indianapolis 500.

While Feldner has the lead going into the race, native son A. J. Foyt, who won an unprecedented fourth Indianapolis 500 Sunday, has the spotlight.

Although Foyt was not present for Friday's practice at TWS's two-mile oval, plans have been made for A. J. Foyt day Sunday.

Foyt, the defending champion in the Texas 500, along with Stott, Sal Tovella, Bay Darnell and Roger McCluskey, are expected to be prime contenders in the 500-mile race.

Feldner's powerful "hemi" engine again will be running against Stott's smaller block Plymouth Volare, which edged Feldner by two car lengths in the Indiana Classic 100.

"I misjudged that little car," Feldner said. "If I'd had about two more laps I could have caught him."

Break on licenses

AUSTIN — Recent action by the 65th Texas Legislature increases sport fishing license fees for both residents and nonresidents and makes those licenses purchased after June 1, 1977, valid through Aug. 31, 1978.

Those bought prior to June 1 will expire one year from date of purchase.

As of Sept. 1, 1977, fees for resident sportfishing licenses will go up from $4.25 to $4.50, an those for nonresidents will increase to $10.50.

Now, both fishing, hunting and the combination fishing and hunting licenses will be valid from Sept. 1 of one year through Aug. 31 of the following year.

License sales officials at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department say anyone who buys a fishing license in June 1977 will be allowed to fish for 15 months at the old price of $4.25.

Sales of fishing licenses have lagged during the past two years, possibly because of the one-year-from-date-of-purchase regulation.

In many instances, according to P&WD game wardens, fishermen buy a license and without thinking consider it valid until the end of August, when actually it was valid for a year from date of purchase.

Bass Clubbers meet

Several topics of discussion were introduced, including officers for next year, a Gibson's sponsored pro-am tournament, and June's tourney.

Nominees for officers are: Johnny War, president; Ed Hall, vice president and tournament director; Jerry Hughes, second vice president; Charles McCamant, secretary-treasurer, reporter; and Ken Sprinkle, program chairman.

The next club meeting is July 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the Kentwood OAA Center. At that time, members will vote for the officers and discuss further the pro-am tourney.

The June tournament is at Twin Buttes on June 11, 12, southwest of San Angelo. The best way to get there is to take 87 to Angelo, turn west at Cactus to intersect 67 and the headquarters of the tourney will be by the creek.

Fishing times for the tourney will be Saturday: daylight until 6 p.m., and Sunday: daylight until 3 p.m.

More males drowning

AUSTIN — More males drown than females.

During 1976 in Texas the ratio of male to female drownings was more than six to one, according to figures kept by water safety officials at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Of the 503 drownings recorded by the P&WD for that year, 436 were male and only 67 were female.

The trend starts early. Sixty children less than five years of age drowned — 41 boys and 19 girls. Between the ages of six and 10, 33 boys and five girls died in water mishaps.

More people betwee 16 and 20 drown than at any other age. In 1976 133 such victims were males. One of the two girls in that age group who drowned died in a bathrub, the other in a vehicle accident.

A total of 52 deaths was recorded among persons over 50 years of age — 40 males and 12 females.

Mike Ditka in Merkel

MERKEL — Mike Ditka, assistant coach for the Dallas Cowboys, will speak on prospects for the upcoming season at an informal coffee open to the public Monday, 7 p.m., at Merkel Country Club.

Pecos wins region over Snyder

SNYDER — Super prospect Linvel Mosby cranked out a five-hit shutout Friday, despite a sore arm, and led his Pecos team to a 2-0 win over Snyder in the Class AAA Regional Championship series.

Mosby, who has now pitched 42 consecutive innings of shutout baseball (which includes three no-hitters in his last five starts), will be taking Pecos to next week's state championship tourney in Austin. Pecos blanked Snyder 2-0 in the best-of-three series.

The defensive battle was highlighted by two quick runs off of Snyder hurler Ricky Beard in the top of the first frame. After that, both Beard and Mosby held their respective enemy batters at bay.

Mosby, who is expected to be drafted in one of the top rounds of next week's annual baseball selections, was hampered by a tight arm Friday. The heat, however, enabled him to loosen up and advance his record to 10-1.

Snyder managed to find Mosby's range briefly for one hit in the last three innings, and the Tigers even had runners on second and third with no men out in the sixth inning. A hit by Snyder catcher Tracy Witherspoone, a walk and wild pitch helped that situation before Mosby retired the side.

In the seventh inning, Mosby iced the win by whiffing one batter and forcing the last two to pop out to center field. The six-foot ace struck out nine batters for the day.

The consensus was that the only real trouble Snyder experienced Friday was containing the Eagles in the early going. The game was very well-played. Both teams had five hits each, and only one error was committed during the contest.

Cowboys name asst. PR man

George Heddleston has been named assistant public relations director of the Dallas Cowboys, it was announced today by Cowboys P.R. director Doug Todd.

Hedleston, 29, leaves Capital University in Columbus, Ohio, where for the past four years he has been direccor of public relations for the school as well as sports information director.

Prior to joining Capital in August of 1973, Heddleston was sports information director at Mount Union College in Alliance, Ohio, and sports editor of the Alliance Review. He is a graduate of Mount Union and a native of East Liverpool, Ohio.

NMJC signs Indianan

HOBBS, N.M. — Head basketball coach Ron Black at New Mexico Junior College has announced the signing of 6-6 forward Mark Smith from Marion, Indiana.

Smith was the top player this past year from one of the nation's finest high school basketball programs. Marion teams that Mark played on won state championships in basketball-crazy Indiana in 1975 and 1976 and this year they advanced all the way to the semi-state tournament before being derailed.

Smith averaged 12.1 points and 9 rebounds per game this past year and used his excellent quickness to come up with four steals per game.

Smith was an all-sectional, all-regional, and all-semi-state choice this past season. He was selected to an all-star team picked by Sertoma International and was an all-tourney choice in the Huntington Tipoff Tournament.

Bluegill is America's favorite fish?

Some sport fishermen scorn it as too little or too tame. Others call it a "bulldog with fins" or a "pygmy powerhouse"—as feisty a fish, ounce for ounce, as any found in American waters. But however it's described, the humble bluegill is probably America's favorite fish, according to the current (June-July) issue of National Wildlife magazine.

This tiny, colorful species of sunfish may lack the snob appeal of pike, bass and trout, "but it outshines them all in numbers caught, pounds eaten, and hours of enjoyment," the bimonthly publication of the National Wildlife Federation reports. Among young and old, expert and neophyte, cane pole and flyrod fishermen alike, the bluegill is "a sport fish for all people."

The reasons for its popularity are many, says National Wildlife Field Editor George Harrison, who writes that he has "fished for bluegills all my life and can report they are scrappy."

One reason is the fact that the bluegill is the first fish ever caught by millions of Americans. Another is that, once hooked, "this small fry among gamefish... turns its flat side toward the fisherman and swims off at right angles to the pull of the line"—a maneuver that will bend "even a fairly stiff fishing rod." A third reason is that bluegills (Lepomis macrochirus) are plentiful; they are caught under different names (sunny, sunfish, shellcracker, perch, pond perch, bream and brim) in thousands of ponds and lakes across the country.

But perhaps the best reason, according to author Harrison, is the fact that bluegills, with their firm, white, and flaky flesh, are good eating—"the best tasting of all fishes" when filleted and cooked right.

To test their popularity, Harrison conducted a survey of state officials for National Wildlife. He found that 29 state fish managers ranked the bluegill among the top five in popularity as a species to catch and eat and that 15 rated it first or second—placing it ahead of such battlers as trout and bass.

As an example of a state whose citizens "are crazy about bluegills," the magazine cites Alabama, where on 17 state-owned lakes 158,089 anglers caught 380,865 bluegills weighing a total of 108,166 pounds in a single year.

Alabama has responded by scientifically propagating and stocking every year nearly five million "bream," as Alabamians call their favorite panfish. Not surprisingly, Alabama holds the world's record for big bluegill—a four-pound, 12-ounce male monster caught in Ketona Lake in 1950. In a species where anything over a pound is considered a trophy, the National Wildlife survey showed that record bluegills in 45 other states averaged only two pounds, five ounces.

The bluegills rate of growth depends upon the food available, the temperature of the water, and the number of competing fish in a pond. They start out eating tiny microscopic plants and animals and then become indiscriminate eaters—hitting such bait as earthworms, crickets, grasshoppers, moths, spiders, trout flies, imitation bugs, spinners, plastic worms, houseflies, frozen or even canned shrimp, mealworms, and grubs.

The bluegill's omnivorous appetite "affords everyone an opportunity to catch it," Charles Kelley, Alabama's director of game and fish, has observed, "and with all the action you could want."

Aqua blue streaks on its gill flap apparently inspired the bluegill's name. Other physical characteristics include purplish-black "ears" (operacular flaps) extending from each gill cover and an irregular black-fish spot located at the back of the top fin. It also has a relatively short head and small, pugged mouth.

Bluegills were originally native to the Mississippi, Great Lakes, and Eastern Seaboard waterways. They may now be caught from New York to California and Hawaii and from mid-Canada to Mexico. And they have been introduced in Africa, Europe, and South America.

Speaking from first-hand experience, Harrison reports that "bluegill fishing is at its best when the fish are on their spawning beds. During this early summer period, they are in the shallows and will strike at almost anything that hits the water." This practice, he argues, is not unsportsmanlike because bluegills "are among the most prolific of all freshwater fish."

Overpopulation and stunting become serious problems when there are too many bluegills in a body of water. It is nearly impossible, according to fish managers, to fish out all bluegills from a pond or lake. Limits and seasons are thus quite liberal, and some states don't impose either.

In order to keep bluegills in a pond from becoming so stunted that none grow to more than five inches long, the predator largemouth bass is often introduced in order to keep down the number of bluegills. The result is a greater number of large, catchable fish of both species.

Interviewing bluegill anglers, Harrison found that many go for the small sportfish as a means of obtaining relief from tension.

"Everytime I need a break from the pressures of my job, I take my kids to a farm pond to fish for bluegills," Frank Black, a stockbroker, told him.

"My doctor says that pond fishing is good for my high blood pressure," said Ollie Donald, an 82-year-old great-grandmother. "I just sit here and look into the water and don't think about my troubles."

Rangers ride ol' Paint '18'

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Milwaukee calls them "chinky" hits, but Texas Ranger Manager Frank Lucchesi says they all look pretty colossal to him.

All 18 of them.

But then, most everything looks stupendous for the beleagured field general after the Rangers scuttled four Brewer pitchers for 18 hits and a 15-8 victory Friday night.

"I feel pretty good tonight — for a change," said Lucchesi, whose slumping Rangers dropped eight of 11 games before winning their last two.

Lucchesi exchanged sharp words with executive vice president Eddie Robinson during a grim doubleheader setback to the expansion Seattle Mariners earlier in the week, and rumors surfaced that his job was in jeopardy.

"We haven't had a laugher for quite a while," he said of Friday night's rout. "It was something the team needed and it was something I needed, to be quite honest with you.

Asked if he felt the "bad times" were over, Juan Beniquez, who drove in three runs with a double and a single, said:

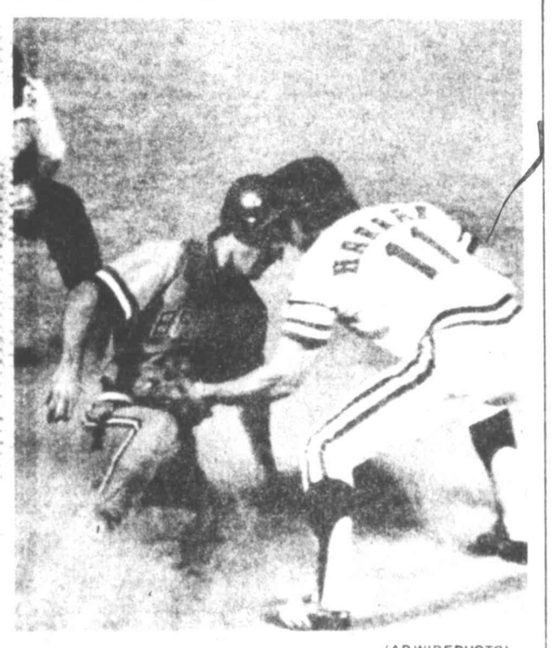

"I believe the team is now thinking better. Things were going bad. We were down. But we scored a lot of runs and got some good relief pitching. When the relievers pitch well, we win."

Steve Hargan, 2-3, the winner who took over from starter Mike Marshall with one out in the fourth inning, said a meeting with Lucchesi Wednesday provided a psychological lift.

"This is probably the best outing I've had since I've been here," said Hargan, who surrendered six hits in his five and 2-3 inning stint.

Bert Campaneris, who knocked in three runs with two doubles and a single, his best performance of the year, said:

"Maybe this is the end of the slump. Something like this makes everybody happy. We have a good team and we just got to keep it going."

NOT IN TIME — Milwaukee Brewers' designated hitter, Bob Sheldon, is tagged out at third base by Texas Ranger third baseman, Toby Harrah, in the fourth inning of play. The action occurred as Brewers' Charlie Moore hit into center field for a single. The Texas Rangers went on to win the contest 15-8.

Norman confuses Astros very much

CINCINNATI (AP) — "I walked eight batters," that's not me, lamented pitcher Fred Norman despite the two-hit shutout he threw at the Houston Astros on Friday night.

"I know I only gave up two hits. It brings the club up and that's what's important," Norman, 5-2, said after the 4-0 victory, Cincinnati's first in five games with the Astros this season. It was Norman's first complete game.

"He confuses the hitters because they try to outguess him," said catcher Johnny Bench who hit a two-run homer. "They think they have him pegged but then the bottom drops out on the next pitch."

"I knew we were in trouble when I saw Norman was the pitcher," said Houston batting coach Deacon Jones. "His style always gives our hitters trouble."

Reds Manager Sparky Anderson, commenting on Norman's variety of pitches, said, "Freddie is one of the premier pitchers in the game, if he doesn't try to get too fine."

Anderson noted Norman's career record has low hits per inning "but he has a bad base on balls record."

The victory evened Cincinnati's record at 24-24 and Anderson was elated by the twohit performance of two-time Most Valuable Player Joe Morgan.

"Let me tell you, the Reds are moving now because the little man is starting to turn it on," said Anderson

"Yes, it's coming around," said Morgan. "Before I was killing the rallies but now I'm keeping them going."

The Astros and Reds meet tonight in the third of a four game series. The Astros won Thursday night.

SLIDING TO AN OUT — Houston Astros first baseman Bob Watson slides into the bag to make the putout on Cincinnati Reds batter Dan Driessen in the fifth inning of a game in Cincinnati Friday night. Watson had fielded the grounder from Driessen and waved off Astros pitcher Joe Niekro before making the leap for the bag.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, JUNE 5, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Negative aspects are in effect so be on your guard. Do not feel that you are being imposed upon. Later, conditions improve and you are able to make good decisions that lead to advancement.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Do some constructive thinking and get yourself out of the depression you are in. Meet with good friends who are able to bolster your spirits.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Friends can be disappointing now, but this is short-lived. Be careful not to offend them and run the risk of damaging good relationships.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Not a good time to see bigwigs at this time, so save for a better time. Avoid a troublesome situation that can mean nothing but trouble.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Spend some time for meditation and attending services of your choice. Good time to go to new places and see new faces.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Spend some time finishing chores that you have been putting off for too long. Later, new ideas come to you so make the most of them.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are anxious to get out to new places and meet new people, so get an early start. Don't rely too much on your intuition right now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get at those chores that are apt to be boring but are necessary. Attend a group affair later with good results following. Improve health habits.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Spend some time for meditation and then look into a venture that appeals to you. Study plans and data well before pursuing them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Take care you do nothing that will irk family ties. Later, do some entertaining. Give some extra thought on a plan you have in mind.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Attend services of your choice and then meet with good friends for some recreation. Bring cheer to others and be happy yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You lack ambition right now, but the mood soon passes. Use good practical sense where money is concerned. Watch you don't overspend.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get out of that pessimistic mood you are in by going out and meeting with friends. Talk over good ideas you have.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she will need bolstering up by cheerful and happy surroundings in order to combat the negativity here. Give proper spiritual training early. Some musical talent here, too.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, JUNE 6, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A frustrated feeling could result because of lack of communications early in the day. By night you are under excellent aspects to gain your desired objectives.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be tactful with others who are in a tense mood. Make good use of that fine talent you have and take no financial chances at this time.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Do nothing that could disturb a higher up where career matters are concerned. Do something thoughtful for your mate.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A day to look into new projects that could prove beneficial in the future. Sidestep a situation that could lead to trouble.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Figure out an improved way to handle your obligations. Take time to improve your wardrobe as well as your appearance.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Come to a better understanding with associates and you can be more successful. Express happiness with the one you love.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't neglect to handle routine duties. Plan time for improving your health with right treatments. Become more animated.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Eliminate any obstacles in the path of your progress. A creative plan needs more study before you put it in operation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Carry through with whatever you have in mind that will improve your relationship with co-workers. Consult business expert.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make long-range plans that could produce greater abundance in the days ahead. Strive for happiness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You may be in a better financial position than you realize, so be sure to go over your accounts carefully. Be wise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Problems could arise that seem difficult to solve but if your are objective, you can get rid of them. Think constructively.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Rid yourself of whatever is keeping you from gaining your finest wishes. You can increase happiness with mate at this time.

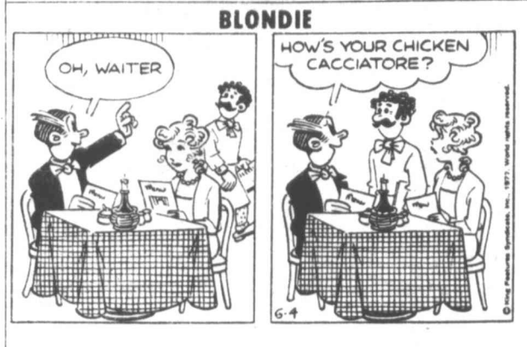

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she could have unwarranted problems, so be understanding and give the finest education you can afford. There could be much success in this chart, particularly where outside work is concerned. Don't neglect religious training.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Printing methods behind newspaper industry

Your billion-dollar Congress criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional printing costs are topping $100 million this year because of a rising tide of documents, an antiquated printing plant and outdated typesetting methods.

Congress was criticized by a senatorial commission last year for poor management of its printing, and it is behind the newspaper industry and several state legislatures in adopting new technology that could save taxpayers an estimated $15 million to $25 million a year.

Its printing is done in an eight-story building complex, some of it built in 1901, which is full of production bottlenecks.

Congressional printing costs have risen 1,000 per cent in 20 years, nine times faster than the cost of living. It is an estimated $101 million this year, one-tenth of the $1 billion legislative branch budget.

A chief cause is the increasing appetite of Congress for printed matter. Printing of bills, resolutions and amendments rose 23 per cent from 1970 to last year.

Among the items which the last Congress ordered to be printed were 3,500 copies of "Prayers of the Chaplain of the Senate," which cost $4.77 per copy; 2,200 copies of "Unveiling of Portrait of Hon. J.A. Haley" at $2.64 per copy, and 5,200 copies of "Proceedings of 47th Meeting of American Instructors of the Deaf" at $9.09 per copy.

Attempts to limit volume have been largely unsuccessful. Often the same articles are printed twice in the Congressional Record, the daily report of Senate and House proceedings. It costs $320 per page to print the Record.

For many newspapers and state legislatures the answer to rising printing costs has been automation, and the Commission on the Operation of the Senate last year said Congress might save taxpayers $15 million a year or more if it speeds up its own efforts in this area.

Top officials at the Government Printing Office say they have automated much of the work they do for the executive branch and are beginning to move on congressional work.

"You can only move so fast," says GPO boss Thomas McCormick.

Automation commonly uses a video editing machine, essentially a typewriter keyboard that produces words on a television screen and stores them in a computer. The labor costs, delays and typographical errors of old-fashioned typesetting are eliminated because the computer can produce copy that is transformed into printing plates through photographic processes.

Twenty-eight state legislatures already draft bills on computers, according to the National Conference of State Legislatures. Congress uses typewriters.

Congress still relies mainly on molten-metal typesetting machines, some of them 37 years old. But since 1970 the nation's daily newspapers scrapped 82 per cent of their hot-metal machines for more modern equipment, according to the American Newspaper Publisher Association.

But it was not until April 28 of this year that the Joint Committee on Printing set up a small staff task force to study ways of using editing machines for drafting and printing bills, hearings and reports.

Denver Dickerson, staff director of the committee, says "to move any faster at this point would cause chaos and be counter-productive."

The Government Printing Office has taken large strides toward automating its own printing operations. It is entering all federal laws and regulations on computer memories to simplify the yearly task of printing updated compilations. It is installing new computers that can produce a page of photoready copy from magnetic tape in five seconds.

GPO has nearly completed automation of the Federal Register, the daily publication of new and proposed federal regulations. It projects that the costs per page, after rising every year for more than a decade, will go down 11 per cent next year.

But there is yet no move to automate the Congressional Record, whose costs per page are projected to go up 8 per cent next year to $347.

While GPO has been automating the back end of many printing operations, Congress has done relatively little to automate the front by typing bills, transcripts, reports and other documents on computers. So GPO must retype nearly all Congressional copy on typesetting machines at a labor cost of more than $10 an hour.

Senate commission consultant Albert J. Abrams, in a report made public earlier this year, estimated that $15 million to $25 million could be saved through automated printing. GPO boss McCormick estimates potential savings at 15 per cent to 20 per cent when automation is completed, which he says will be in 1980 or 1982.

His timetable may be optimistic given the track record of Congress so far. GPO has been trying since 1954 to get congessional approval for a new, modern printing plant to replace the present relic.

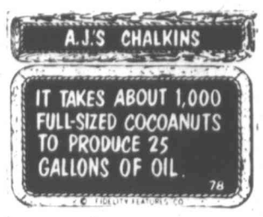

Congress vetoed two proposed sites, one of them to make way for a federally assisted "new town" that was never built and the second because of complaints by the District of Columbia government that it would move jobs away from black city residents and into predominately white suburban Maryland.

Commission consultant Abrams said $200,000 a year could be saved by printing bills on newsprint paper used in many state legislatures rather than on the doubly expensive book-grade paper preferred by Congress. He also suggested using narrower margins, smaller type and less white space between lines on congressional bills, thus getting more words on eacn page.

But John J. Boyle, the GPO's chief of operations, says newsprint would jam his presses and cost more in extra labor costs than it saves in cheaper material. And McComick says he doubts that congressmen would tolerate smaller type on bills.

White gets $4,000 FFA scholarship

BILLY BOB WHITE

Billy Bob White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ray White, won one of 25 top Future Farmers of America scholarship awards presented in Texas annually by the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo Association.

White was interviewed among the finalists in Waco and received a $4,000 scholarship to attend the college of his choice in Texas, with the stipulation that he study agriculture.

He plans to major in business agriculture and finance at Texas A&M.

He was 25th in the senior class at Big Spring High School with an average of 92 plus.

He had been very active in FFA work and had served as chapter president for three consecutive years. He was a state convention delegate two years and attended area conventions on three occasions. He was awarded the outstanding chapter farmer award, was named to the leadership award two years and was outstanding Greenhand when he started out in his field.

He was among three youths from the West Texas area selected to be interviewed. He was accompanied to the interview by Ed Seay, agriculture teacher.

Retired federal employes to meet in Kentwood Center

The National Association of Retired Federal Employes will meet in the Kentwood Older Adult Center, 2805 Lynn Drive, at 9:30 a.m., Thursday.

A 30-minute social hour, directed by Leona Ebersole, will be followed by a program honoring charter members and past presidents. Joe P. Gordon will be in charge of the program.

Kenneth Horne of Lubbock, district representative for the organization, will be presented, too.

A covered dish, picnic luncheon will follow the business program. All members and prospective members are being urged to attend.

Union members vote to oust fire chief

HOUSTON (AP) — If a Houston fire fighters union has its way, Joe Perino will be ousted as fire chief in Texas' largest city.

The Professional Fire Fighters Association, which represents 2,080 of the city's 2,300 firemen, has voted overwhelmingly for the removal of Perino.

Union President Lester Tyra said late Wednesday that a poll of fire fighters showed 1,407 against Perino and 97 in support.

Earlier in the week, the Houston Fire Officers Association, which represents 71 senior officers, called for Perino's resignation.

Tyra said the firemen "want a leader and an administrator who can bring this department to the No. 1 position in the nation."

Perino, 44, was named chief in February 1976 by Mayor Fred Hofheinz. Only Hofheinz can remove him.

Perino was not avaialable for comment.

The union president said Perino "is incompetent and his ability to administer this department is zero.

"His plan for reorganization of the department is something he just threw together. Some fire stations were missing entirely from his plan. Some positions outlined couldn't possibly be filled with the department's present manpower. It would also cost a tremendous amount of money," he said.

Asked who would be acceptable to the union as a chief, Tyra said, "We are not in the process of selecting fire chiefs. I think these men would like a fire fighter for their chief. An older, experienced fire fighter, someone who has grass-roots support."

Tyra said Perino had been in the department for 21 years, "but never before as a full-time administrator. He only obtained the rank of senior captain, who is someone in charge of a ladder truck."

Poor football coach, good tax assessor move around a lot

Forgettable quotes in legislature

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Senators have gone home but some of their memorable words linger on.

Sen. Tati Santiesteban, for example, once asked the nominations subcommittee to excuse a constituent who could not appear for questioning by the subcommittee on his appointment to a state board.

"He's a personal friend of mine, and his heart and his head are co-mingled," said Santiesteban.

"I beg your pardon?" said Sen. Bill Braecklein, a puzzled expression his face.

"It makes sense," responded Santiesteban.

It does?

At another nominations hearing, Sen. Walter Mengden said of Fred Hartman, who had been appointed to the air control board, "He knows the atmosphere of air control."

Hmmm.

There was the time, too, that Sen. A.R. "Babe" Schwartz sought to explain why he wanted an entry in the Senate journal changed. "I didn't want nothing. I wanted nothing — there's a difference."

On another occasion, Schwartz accused Sen. Kent Hance of "staying up all night learning how to mumble a bill through."

Asked if she would really like to be governor, Sen. Betty Andujar punctuated her honorary day as governor with this remark, "Well, I suppose one would rise to whatever occasion that might arise."

Sen. Bill Moore displayed his reasoning power when he explained to the Senate why he preferred the old 70 mile-an-hour speed limit to 55 m.p.h. "You go to sleep driving 55 miles per hour," said Moore.

Can't-argue-with-that political advice came from Sen. Carl Parker, who protested a $100 million amendment to the highway funding bill: "You hear in the legislative halls that you don't want to get crossways with the governor. Well, let me tell you something — the governor doesn't vote in your district."

That same proposal aroused Sen. Lloyd Doggett to oratorical heights. "It seems appropriate," said Doggett, "that we change the state flower from the bluebonnet to a concrete overleaf."

Schwartz, who spewed more words-per-minute than any legislator, gave a description of the bicameral system of government that will never be found in a textbook. "The only difference in the Senate and the House — except the caliber of the people — is the filibuster rule. Without it, the Senate would be just a small House."

He evaluated the House this way: "There are 150 folks over there and some are fairly intelligent." No names, please.

A "straight-man" response brought the biggest guffaw of the session as Schwartz asked Sen. Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls, the sponsor of the medical malpractice bill, "What is the average income of the GPs (general physicians) in your area?" The unsmiling Farabee replied, "Oh, I don't know — $10,000."

Occasionally, a witness before a Senate committee would delight senators with verbal skills. C.W. Whitford of the state comptroller's office offered this observation. "You'll find out a poor football coach and a good tax assessor move around a lot — there's no way around it."

Sen. A.M. Aikin always turns his back to the press table in speaking to the Senate from his front row seat, but he could be heard the day he quoted Hance on a bill to spend state money on textbooks for church schools — "That's the greatest victory for the Catholics since they won the Cotton Bowl."

A prayer opens the Senate session each day, and the most popular one was also the shortest. The Rev. Gerald Mann of the University Baptist Church in Austin prayed, "Remember, happiness is giving each other a piece of our hearts rather than a piece of our minds."

It's back to good old days in the yearbook industry

DALLAS (AP) — Proms, sports, parties, dances and other carefree activities are making a comeback as high school students shift from the mood of protest of recent years to the Fonz-like years of an earlier era, according to yearbook publishers.

"Yearbook editors seem to have the same spirit of the good old days you see when you watch the Fonz," said Randolph B. Martson, president of Taylor Publishing Co.

A record 12 million yearbooks are expected to be sold in the United States this year, bringing the industry $132 million in revenue.

"The books we are printing are more traditional, more colorful, and more fun than they were a few years ago," Martson said.

A few years ago, in the midst of the Vietnam War and other political problems, students became involved in protest marches, and voiced strong political opinions that carried over into their institutions' yearbooks.

Sales of yearbooks dropped in high schools and colleges, Martson said.

"Most kids wanted to buy a traditional yearbook, and when it wasn't available, they didn't buy any yearbook at all," he stated.

Now editors are going back to the traditional style of recording all the fun school events of a past year.

"The students now are much more business-minded," he said. "They realize that a good yearbook means good sales."

During the era of protest, the company ran into trouble with some schools when it refused to print what it considered obscenities or nudes. A leading medical school even threatened to sue because Taylor wouldn't print pictures of a nude female corpse in a series of erotic poses.

The emphasis now is on quality, not sensationalism, he added.

A typical yearbook is 144 pages long and costs $11. The cost is offset in part by advertising sold by the yearbook editors and by fund-raising events such as car washes and bake sales.

"When there was a lot of political protest going on because of Vietnam and Watergate, I had to appoint a censor to make sure we didn't print any real objectionable material," Martson said. "But times have changed because I haven't seen him on official business now for two years."

'Special interests' defeated proposal by Texas nurses?

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — "Special interests that are powerful, rich and entrenched" defeated a proposal by the Texas Nurses Association to license professional nurses in Texas, the association president said Friday.

President Ruth Stewart of San Antonio identified those interests as the Texas Hospital Association, Dallas Hospital Council, Texas Medical Association and Texas Nursing Home Association.

The failure of the recent legislature to revise the 53-year-old Nursing Practice Act "is one of the most shameful legacies" of the legislature, Ms. Stewart said.

The primary reason for the proposed revision, Ms. Stewart told a news conference, was to "to close a loophole that enables hospitals to employ nurses who are not licensed in the state of Texas."

"Tragically, the health care patients of Texas will be denied any reform of those practices because our good faith efforts were no match for the political power of the hospital-medical industrial complex consisting of the Texas Hospital Association, the Dallas Hospital Council, the Texas Medical Association and the Texas Nursing Home Association," Ms. Stewart said.

The bill cleared a Senate committee but was never voted on on the floor. It was not heard in House committee.

Ms. Stewart said opponents claimed the bill would force hospitals to close, because hospitalization costs would rise tremendously.

"One of the most ironic and galling aspects of the endeavor toward nursing reform by this legislature was the enormous time and attention given by this body to medical malpractice day after day, week after week," she said. "Texans were treated to this marathon spectacle on medical malpractice while the bigger problem — the quality of health care delivered to the consumer, principally by nurses — was ignored."

She said the nurses association planned to form a political action committee to donate money to legislators' campaigns. "We have only begun to fight," she said. "We expect to be around for a long time. And some of the folks who were so callous this time about the public interest may not be around next time."

SEPTIC TANK-CESSPOOL CLOGGING CAN NOW BE PREVENTED!

FAIRFIELD, N. J. — An amazing bacterial discovery that prevents clogging of septic tanks and cesspools with a single, safe, easy-to-use yearly treatment, has been developed by FX-Lab, Fairfield, N. J.

Sluggish systems and drainfields can also be restored to normal by fast acting bacterial cultures.

These proven FX bacterial organisms, known as FX-4 for septic tanks, FX-7 for cesspools, and FX-11 for sluggish septic tanks and cesspools are now available locally.

Available also is a free booklet, "The Story of Willie Bacteria, or How To Take Care of Your Septic Tank or Cesspool," from:

Take away love

Robert Browning

June is the time many couples finalize their love by marriage. Long has the tradition been in this country for couples to have a June wedding.

The spring flowers are in full bloom, and, usually, so is love. What a perfect time to fully express such joy.

Planning for the ceremony includes deciding upon a time, date, place for the ceremony and official to conduct the rite. Attendants must be selected, and outfits for them and for the bride and bridegroom just be decided upon.

Invitations come in many different forms, and prove to be another step in wedding preparation.

Then there are the showers, teas, and luncheons, followed by personal thanks and thank-you notes.

The ceremony itself marks the end to the pre-planning, and the beginning of a life together.

Miss Belle Schwarzenbach weds David G. Wallace

The Episcopal Church of Holy Mount in Ruidoso, N.M. was the site of the wedding of Miss Belle Schwarzenbach and David G. Wallace Saturday evening.

Parents of the couple are Dr. and Mrs. H.F. Schwarzenbach, 810 W. 14th, Big Spring, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Wallace, 35 Ellis Dr., Basking Ridge, N.J.

Father Delbert Achuff officiated during the ceremony. The couple was married before an altar decorated with two brass vases of spring flowers and two seven branched candelabra holding tapers.

Ms. Jane Deyo, Ruidoso, provided music at the organ. Miss Anne Kilgore, Lamesa, was vocalist.

The bride was attired in a formal-length gown of peau de soie in shades of candleight. The gown featured a Victorian neckline and long, tapered sleeves. The bodice was formed of English net. Appliques of Alencon lace accented the bodice, sleeves and chapel-length train. The gride wore a finger-tip veil of matching lace and seed pearls.

Robert Bristol, Basking Ridge, N.J., was best man. Ushers included James R. Wallace, Ralph S. Wallace and Hugh T. Wallace, brothers of the bridegroom.

Miss Fran Schwarzenbach and Miss Angie Schwarzenbach, Harlingen, nieces of the bride, were flower girls. They were attired in floor-length ivory dresses. Each carried a basket of spring flowers tied with blue and ivory ribbons.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and New Mexico State University in Las Cruces, N.M. The bridegroom is a graduate of Ridge High School, and the United States Air Force Academy. He graduated from pilot training at Webb Air Force Base.

The couple will take a delayed wedding trip upon arrival in London, England. They will make their home in Huntingdon, England, where the bridegroom will be stationed at Alconbury Air Force Base.

A reception honoring the couple was held at Cree Meadows Country Club in Ruidoso following the ceremony. An arch of greenery decked with fresh flowers was the focal point of the reception room. Pots of mums were scattered about the room. Royal Mosteller provided music at the piano during the reception.

The bride's table was draped in an ivory re-embroidered cloth featuring a three-tiered wedding cake iced in a design of flowers. Silver appointments were used.

The bridegroom's table was draped with a natural burlap cloth. The spice cake was adorned with yellow and tangerine baby mums. A matching floral bouquet accented the table. Brass and copper serving pieces completed the setting.

Air travelers can avoid being

Last year, more than 16,000 consumer complaints were filed with the Civil Aeronautics Board concering lost luggage, unhonored reservations and other air travel problems.

—Check in on time. Airlines vary on deadlines before departure time, so ask when making the reservation.

—Don't be a "no show." Be sure to cancel reservations if your plans change and you are unable to take the flight on which you reserved space.

Unless the airlines gets you to your destination within two hours of the original schedule, you are entitled to a refund of your ticket price or passage on the next available flight to your destination and compensation equal to the ticket price up to $200.

You are not obliged to accept the compensation (called denied boarding compensation). If you object the compensation, you may seek redress through the civil courts if you desire. Denied boarding compensation does not apply, however, to any intrastate air carriers (those operating within one state only) or to any charter flights.

On the other hand, if you accept the compensation, the case is closed and you have no further recourse.

If you decide not to go through with the trip — after you have been bumped — then you only get a refund of the ticket price.

Reconfirm your return reservation if you are flying to a popular resort area — or abroad. Failure to reconfirm — normally 62 hours before departure — can, and often does, result in cancellation of your reservations.

If you fail to reconfirm, you are not eligible for denied boarding compensation. Label every piece of checked luggage, inside and out. For the passenger who does not want his name and address visible, concealed labels are available from some carriers. Lock your luggage. Don't overpack. Usually air carriers will not pay for damage to overstuffed luggage that breaks. Report missing luggage immediately. Failure to report missing baggage before leaving the airport may result in denial of your claim. Discuss compensation for missing luggage with the responsible airlines.

Any problem not received with an individual airlines can be reported in writing to the Office of the Consumer Advocate, Civil Aeronautics Board, Washington, D.C. 20428.

Sacred Heart Cathedral site of ceremony

Miss Ann Hoelscher and Harold Hoelscher were married Saturday afternoon in the Sacred Heart Cathedral in San Angelo. The Rev. Jim Chaumont officiated during the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Elo Hoelscher, Rt. 2, Miles, Texas and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hoelscher, St. Lawrence Rt., Garden City, respectively.

Mrs. Floyd Frerich was organist. Mrs. Joe Vancil was vocalist.

The bride was attired in a gown made of chiffon over bridal satin. It featured an empire bodice of lace and a V-neckline. Full circle sleeves and a full circle skirt trimmed in lace with a detachable chapel-length train trimmed in lace adorned the gown. The bodice was beaded with pearls and sequins.

Miss Annie Blackwell, San Angelo, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Gail Schwertner, Mrs. James Ripple, both of Wall; Miss Karla Halfmann, Miss Janet Hoelscher, both of St. Lawrence; Mrs. Cecil Book, Eola; and Miss Gina Hoelscher, El Indio.

David Hoelscher, St. Lawrence, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsmen included Mark Frysak, St. Lawrence; James Ripple; Tommy Hoelscher, Miles, Larry Hoelscher, San Angelo, both brothers of the bride; Allen Gully, Wall; and Carl Hoelscher, brother of the bridegroom.

MRS. HAROLD HOELSCHER

Following a wedding trip to San Antonio, the couple will reside in St. Lawrence.

The bride is a graduate of Wall High School and holds an associate degree in nursing from Angelo State University.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Garden City High School and is engaged in farming in St. Lawrence.

Miss Schwarzenbach and Wallace were married Saturday evening.

The Texas African Violet Club, which met June 2 at the Dora Roberts Community Center, discussed upcoming improvements on the Center and its plans for the coming year.

Mrs. Paul Guy, member of the club and treasurer for the Big Spring Club of Alliance lead the discussion at the meeting in which Mrs. A.C. Moore presided.

Plans for the center, according to Mrs. Guy, will include the purchase of new equipment and a fee of $25 per year for each club who wishes to use the center's facilities.

Mrs. Cass Hill was hostess at the meeting which included a plant sale. Proceeds went to the club's treasury.

The members voted not to have any further meetings in July and August. The next meeting, which will include a picnic, will be in September at the home of Mrs. Thelma Montgomery, 805 Aylford.

DATE SET — Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Guess Jr., 4018 Vicky, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Ellen, to Randy Kevin Walls, son of Mr. and Mrs T.J. Walls, Box 555, Forsan. The couple will be married during a private ceremony Aug. 11 in the Forsan Baptist Church with the Rev. Clinkscales officiating.

Miss Mari Kate Bradshaw weds Edward Rees Dabbs

Miss Mari Kate Bradshaw and Edward Rees Dabbs were married in the First Presbyterian Church Saturday evening with the Rev. W.F. Henning Jr. officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr and Mrs. Robert Dean Bradshaw and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Whitefield Dabbs III.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with an arch featuring yellow carnations and ribbons. Two baskets of carnations and white gladiolus and a memory candle stood on the left side of the arch.

The bride wore a gown featuring an A-line skirt with a deep ruffle. Formed of white organza, the gown featured three-tiered caplet sleeves and was trimmed in Venise lace. The bodice was covered with daisy appliques. The bridal hat was covered with organza layers and lace, with a two-tiered veil in back, formed of French illusion.

MRS. EDWARD REES DABBS

The father of the bridegroom, Eugene Dabbs, was best man. Ushers included Furman Dabbs and Gene Dabbs.

Following a wedding trip to points along the East Coast, the couple will reside at Langly Air Force Base, Virginia.

The bride is a graduate of Texas Tech University. The bridegroom is a graduate of the Citadel.

A reception honoring the couple was held in the fellowship hall of the church following the ceremony. White lace and linen covered the tables. Crystal and silver appointment were used. A three-tiered cake and fresh flowers centered the table.

Methodist Church site of Jones, Mouton Rite

Miss Glynna Diane Jones and Andrew Paul Mouton were married Saturday evening in the First United Methodist Church with Dr. J. Weldon Butler officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harrol G. Jones, 1504 Dayton Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Mouton, Kerrville.

The church was decorated with baskets of white gladiolus and snowshoe chrysanthemums. Palms of emerald foliage were illuminated by tapers held in a seven-branched candelabrum.

The bride was attired in an ivory organza gown designed by Illissa. Fashioned with a Queen Anne decolletage, the fitted bodice was completely appliqued with re-embroidered Alencon lace and tiny bridal pearls. The lace extended over the shoulders of the tapered sleeves, which ended in a deep band of the lace and closed with French buttons and loops. From the empire waistline, the semi A-line skirt fell to slipper length. A deep border of the re-embroidered Alencon lace edged the skirt and chapel-length train.

Charles Parham provided music at the organ. Mrs. Charles Parham was vocalist, as was Mrs. Carl Bradley, Mrs. Wade Bledsoe, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dawes, Clif Chapman, Bill Adams and Ken Sprinkle.

Mrs. Randy Hahn, Dallas, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She was attired in a floor-length water color print organza in shades of green and white. The gown featured short puffed sleeves.

Bridesmaids were Miss Anne Talbot, Austin; Miss Paula Green, Houston; Mrs. Harry Jones, Tampa, Fla.; and Mrs. Douglas Starnes, Richardson. They were attired in gowns matching the one worn by the matron of honor. They carried bouquets of spring flowers.

Warren Jones, brother of the bride, served as usher, as did Jim Dardnne, Larry Neahusan, both of Houston; and Jerry Crouch, Mason.

Following a wedding trip to Las Vegas, Nev., the couple will reside at 2601 North A St., Midland.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School, Southern Methodist University and the University of Houston Law School. She is employed by Lanny Hamby Law Offices, Big Spring.

The bridegroom graduated from Jesuit High School in Houston, Southwestern University, Georgetown; and the University of Houston Law School.

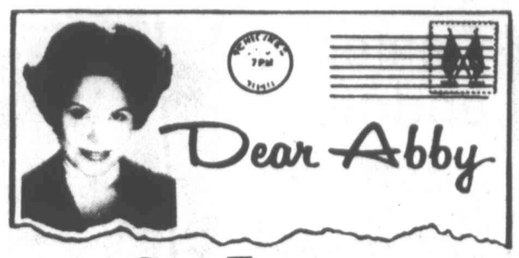

A reception honoring the couple was held in the Big Spring Country Club following the ceremony. The refreshment table was set with a traditional tiered wedding cake topped with flowers.

Miss Ellen Gossett, San Angelo, registered guests.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mouton and Mrs. Lillian Grafton, Kerrville; Mrs. Ward Mixson, Fredericksburg; Mrs. Ethel Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. Sid Ledet, Mrs. Inez Franklin, Victor Makris, Tim Mitchell, Ms. Mickey Marcum, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McBride, Christofer McBride, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perricone, Bonita Perricone and Mr. and Mrs. Jay Simpson, all of Houston.

Others were Mrs. Hazel Biggs, LaMarque, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Kuhlman, Mason; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mathis, Angelton, Mr. and Mrs. Al Forsiepi, Galveston; Dr. and Mrs. Robert Stripling Jr., Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Scarbrough, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Dr. and Mrs. Milton Talbot, Austin; and Henry Genswider, Arlington.

A bridal luncheon was given in the home of Mrs. Hayes Stripling Sr. The event was co-hostessed by Mrs. Hayes Stripling Jr. and Mrs. Robert Stripling.

Hold Out For A Better Offer

DEAR ABBY: I am a 24-year-old woman who has had enough bad experiences with men to fill a book. I've always had a good figure and a pretty face, and I never had any trouble getting dates. The trouble is I want to get married, but none of the guys I've gone with has wanted to marry me. They all want affairs, but not marriage.

I have had two abortions and have promised myself that I will not go to bed with another man unless he marries me first.

Sex never gave me much pleasure. I just gave in to please the guy.

I'm going with a man now who keeps trying to get me into bed, but I'm holding out. He promised that if he gets me pregnant he will marry me.

Now I'm wondering if maybe that isn't the way to get him to marry me. I'd really like to marry him.

I'm so mixed up I don't know what to do. Can you help me?

WANTS MARRIAGE

DEAR WANTS: With regard to the man in your life: His promise to marry you if he gets you pregnant is about as worthless as he is.

Stick to your decision. You're beginning to get it together. Don't permit yourself to be used.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been having an affair right in front of my face for more than two years. His "mistress" is a bit out of the ordinary. It's a set of golf clubs.

I married a golf nut. When he's not working or eating, he has an imaginary golf club in his hands, which he continually swings back and forth. His practice area ranges from my parents' home to our bedroom.

JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: I wonder if you know how lucky you are. If you aren't already a golfer, I urge you to develop an interest in the sport. Take lessons from a pro, keep your head down and keep your eye on your husband.

DEAR ABBY: Did you know that some people actually can hardly wait to get the newspaper to read the divorce column.

I think I will gag if I hear once more, "Oh, did you see in the newspaper that so and so is divorcing her husband?"

Abby, is there any good reason for publishing the names of those who have received divorce decrees? Personally, I think it's an invasion of one's privacy.

GAGGING

DEAR GAGGING: Laws in every state require the registration of births, deaths, divorces and marriages. This is for both the public's information and protection. In areas where this "public record" is not too extensive, newspapers publish it as a service to their readers. A public record, mandated by law, can hardly be considered an "invasion of privacy." But if you think it is, why not challenge the law?

DEAR ABBY: When I first heard about topless swimsuits for girls, I thought it was just a lot of talk, but yesterday I actually saw one for sale in a store!

If women would consider wearing a topless swimsuit in public, we have reached a new low in our civilization—even lower than the decadence that preceded the fall of the Roman empire.

Topless swimsuits! Have we lost all sense of decency? Who cares if we are bombed back to the Stone Age? What's left to save?

MOTHER OF GIRLS

DEAR MOTHER: The bottoms.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

Miss Knight, Meek married in evening ceremony

Miss Ruth Nell Knight and Raymond A. Meek were married Friday evening in the St. Paul Presbyterian Church with the Rev. W.F. Henning Jr. officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Knight and Mr. and Mrs. J. Dale Ditto.

Mrs. Kathleen Tedesco served as organist.

The couple will reside in Midland.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and attended Texas Tech University in Lubbock. She is employed with the Midland Parks and Recreation Department.

The bridegroom is also a graduate of Big Spring High School and is employed with the Midland Fire Department.

Out-of-town guests included Sgt. and Mrs. Scott Knight and Lisa Marie Knight from Washington; Sgt. and Mrs. John Ridgeway, Jennifer Ridgeway, Mathew Ridgeway and Mark Ridgeway from Illinois; Mr. and Mrs. Gregg Knight, Grapevine; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Carmack, and Mrs. Diane Oppecher, Oakland, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hackworth, California; and Mrs. Ollie Knight, Santo.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES W. SHAW

Shaws celebrate anniversary today

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Shaw are celebrating their 30th wedding anniversary today with a reception in the Texas Electric Reddy Room.

Hosting the event are the couple's children, Miss Kathy Shaw, Nashville, Tenn., James Shaw and Joey Shaw, College Station.

Shaw is the son of the late James E. Shaw and Mrs. Nora Shaw. His mother will attend the event from Colorado City.

Mrs. Shaw, the former Dorothy Kay West, is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clarence K. West.

The couple was married on June 14, 1947 in McCamey. They have been in Big Spring since 1959.

Shaw is employed by Exxon as a pumper-gauger. Mrs. Shaw works in the purchasng department of Malone-Hogan Hospital. The couple also owns a catering service.

Out-of-town guests expected at the event include Mr. and Mrs. Bill Loyd, Muleshoe; Mr. and Mrs. John West, Wink; and Mr. and Mrs. Jess Pharis, Colorado City.

Baptist Temple Church site of ceremony

The wedding vows of Miss Jana Lynn Porter and Randal Harley Childs were exchanged Saturday evening in the Baptist Temple Church with William Hatler officiating.

The couple was wed before a column arch adorned with boxwood foliage and gypsophila, which centered the altar. Columns held arrangements of yellow and white daisies and gypsophilia arranged around a three branched candelabrum holding crystal chimneys and yellow tapers. Spiral candelabra flanked the altar. The eternal candelabrum held the large memory candle and two tapered candles were placed in front of the bride's mother's pew.

The bride wore a pearl white Quiana French empire wedding gown with accents of point-de-Paris lace. The molded bodice featured a high wedding band neckline with a garland of forget-me-not flowerets with seed pearl centers. Clusters of appliqued floweret medallions surrounded the "key-hole" accent of the molded bodice. Long slender tapered candlestick sleeves were enriched with forget-me-not appliqued medallions and formed peaks on her hands. From the lace encircled empire bodice drifted the fluid A-line skirt, with fullness gathered to the back to form a deep chapel-length train.

Jerry L. Phillips Sr., Jerry L. Phillips Jr., and Curtis Harbin were ushers. Brian Poitevint was ring bearer. Miss Patty Garner, sister of the bridegroom, served as candlelighter. She was dressed in a yellow crystallene gown. Miss Gina McWhirter and Miss Shannon Phillips were flower girls.

Following a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M., the couple will reside at Rt. 2, Box 247, Big Spring.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and is employed as a deputy in the county clerk's office. The bridegroom is a graduate of Big Spring High School and is employed by Gamco Industries as a foreman.

A reception honoring the couple followed the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. The table was covered with a tiered net cloth of white and featured crystal and silver appointments. A three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with white daisies and wedding bells.

Serving were Miss Jill Walker, Miss Tammy Thomas, Miss Suzanne Orr, Miss Teri McWhirter, and Mrs. Jerry L. Phillips.

Others in the houseparty were Mrs. Peggy McWhirter, Mr. and Mrs. George Walker, Dr. and Mrs. Don McGonagill, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Ray, Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Arnold and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Ruiz.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Bennie T. Porter, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Young, Coleman; Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Slate, San Angelo; Mr. and Mrs. George Lowe, Hermleigh; Mrs. Marguerite Garner, New Berlin, Illinois; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry L. Phillips, Jerry Lane Phillips, Mandy Phillips and Shannon Phillips, Woodward, Okla.; and Mrs. Helen Stowe, Carlsbad, N.M.

Club meets Thursday

The Prospector's Club will meet Thursday, June 9, at 7:30 p.m. at the club house at 606 East 3rd Street, according to Ms. Edith P. Foster, publicity chairman. Ed Kissinger of the Big Spring Police Department will speak on crime prevention.

There will be a cash attendance prize.

Party honors couple

Miss Enrigueta Maya and Joe Ostrenga were honored with a backyard dinner engagement party May 28 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernesto De La Paz III.

Hostesses for the event included Mrs. Marie McClure, Mrs. Ruth Salazar, Mrs. Molly Tenney, Mrs. Alysia Perez and Mrs. Estella De La Paz.

Approximately 30 guests attended the party. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Miguel O. Mata, the bride-to-be's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Grathowl, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brown, Mrs. Polly Settles, Mrs. Molly Della Camora, Mrs. Laura Bickford and Bill Sneed.

The couple will be married June 4 at St. Thomas Catholic Church. The Rev. Frank Andrews will officiate.

TO WED — Mr. and Mrs. Melba Thompson Jr., Lubbock, announce the engagement of their daughter, Janet Paula, to Thomas Lane Griffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. T.L. Griffin II, Gail. The couple plans to be married July 23 in the Woodrow Baptist Church.

Miss Karla Holman weds Donnie Cockrell Saturday

Miss Karla Holman and Donnie Cockrell exchanged wedding vows Saturday evening in the 14th and Main St. Church of Christ with Jack McCall officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Holman, Rt. 1, and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Cockrell, Sterling City Rt.

The couple stood before a heart-shaped arch with green and white carnations accenting it. A heart-shaped candelabrum, a spiral candelabrum and three large baskets of flowers completed the altar decorations.

The bride was attired in a sheer woven nylon gown trimmed with Chantilly lace. The gown featured an empire waist and stand-up collar, long slim sleeves and snap cuffs. Lace appliques and iridescent sequins highlighted the bouffant skirt. The gown also featured an attached ruffle-edged train.

Maid of honor was Miss Carmen Holman, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Miss Debbie Cockrell, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Jeanne Hays and Miss Lynda Franklin.

Ushers were Steve Wallis and Andy Gastin.

Miss Connie Pointer, Odessa, was flower girl.

Serving were Mrs. Dwain McGuire, Mrs. Marvin Holman, Mrs. Robert Holman, Mrs. Gina Woolverton and Mrs. Carlton Black.

MRS. EARNEST OLIVER SMITH JR.

Miss Jana Gilmore weds Earnest Smith

The Midway Baptist Church was the setting of the wedding of Miss Jana Lilleen Gilmore to Earnest Oliver Smith Jr. Saturday evening.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Gilmore, 506 S. Ave., Coahoma, and Mr. and Mrs. Earnest O. Smith, 1312 Mesa Ave., Big Spring.

The Rev. Bill Smythe and the Rev. Sandy Sandlin performed the ceremony in front of an altar centered with a heart-shaped arch and flanked by a seven-branched candelabrum. An arrangement of white and blue carnations and trinity candles were cnetered beneath the arch.

The bride wore a gown featuring an empire waistline. A daisy clustered panel with an overlay of silk organza accented the gown. The hem of the gathered skirt was lined with a lace flounce, and lace adorned the high neck, front panel and long sleeves of the gown. Her finger-tip veil fell from a daisy cluster headpiece.

Miss Cindy Gilmore and Miss Christy Shannon were flower girls.

Following a wedding trip to Carlsbad, N.M., the couple will reside at 105 Reynolds St., Coahoma.

A reception honoring the couple was held in the Fellowship Hall following the ceremony. Serving were Mrs. Kenneth Furlong, Miss Patsy Furlong, Mrs. W.C. Seal, Miss Peggy Seal, Mrs. Gene Smith and Mrs. Button Moore.

Miss Swindell is honoree

A 1977 graduate of Big Spring High School, Elizabeth Swindell, was honored recently with a luncheon in the home of Mrs. Robert Hill, 1419 Sycamore.

The comic strip characters Snoopy and Woodstock were used as the centerpiece. Favors for the guests were made of crocheted miniature graduation caps.

Other officers are Bobby Addy, vice president; Toni Hale, secretary; Sammie Don Buchanan, treasurer; Melanie Walker, reporter; Austin Hale and Bart Griffith, parliamentarians; and Toni Hale, rodeo queen contestant.

Forsan report

Band members attend contest

Five members of the Forsan High School Band attended the annual Texas State Solo and Ensemble contest in Austin May 29-30.

The Forsan students were among 11,000 attending the contest. To qualify, a student must earn a superior rating at regional contests.

Students attending the event were Beth Boeker, who performed a piano solo, and Steve Cowley, who performed a solo on the alto saxophone. Both received an excellent rating.

Others were Kimbra Neel, Stella Holguin, and Melissa Frank, flute trio, who received an average rating. Miss Neel also performed a twirling solo and received an average rating.

Accompanying the students were Mike Neel, Forsan band director, Mrs. Neel, Kent Neel and Mrs. Sharon Cregar, a piano accompanist.

Mr. and Mrs. C.V. Wash attended the Blue Grass Festival at Glenn Rose over Memorial Day weekend. They were met by Mrs. Wash's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. S.C. Crumley, of Lancaster.

They also met Mr. and Mrs. Jack Currie and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mills, Houston; and Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Taylor, Richland Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kountz, San Angelo, were recent guests of Mrs. H.H. Story.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Tyler and Bryce Tyler, Irving, were weekend guests of Mrs. L.B. McElrath. The Tylers also visited the J.L. Overtons while here.

J.M. Craig, who has been ill for some time, has gone to Robert Lee to spend a few days with his son and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Craig.

G.L. Monroney will be returning home from the Veteran's Administration Hospital in Alburqueque, N.M. later this week.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Crowley and family were Mrs. Mary Erich, Galt, Calif., and Miss Debbie Webb, Westbrook.

Body flowers season's fashion vogue

NEW YORK — Corsages are back in vogue, but fashion designers are decreeing that the flowers should be worn on various parts of the body rather than just the traditional place on the shoulder.

That is why the flower world now refers to corsages as "body flowers." Top designers for Florists' Transworld Delivery, the inter-city floral-delivery cooperative, have fashioned many new "body flower" creations for the new FTD Selection Guide which came out in May. This is the illustrated catalog which makes it possible for the same flower arrangement chosen in New York to be delivered in Los Angeles.

Fashion designer Geoffrey Beene is believed to be the principal inspiration behind the "body flowers" revival. Two years ago, he abandoned jewelry accessories in a new collection in favor of flowers.

"You might call it a back-to-nature yen," Beene said, explaining: "To me, a flower is nature's most perfect creation."

Famed designers Adolfo and Marc Bohan agree that flowers, rather than jewelry, complement the new soft, silky fabrics, dripping sleeves, deep necklines and offshoulder tops. In recent collections, Bohan decked a model's head with a Caesar-like wreath of irises, and had pink flowers dangling from a ribbon at the throat of another model.

Flowers are being worn in many new ways, including around the neck and tucked into a waistline or into a piled-up hairdo or chignon at the back of the neck.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED — Mrs. Vada Myers announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Marie, to Richard Griffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Griffin. Miss Myers is also the daughter of the late Jack D. (Sonny) Myers. Miss Myers will be a 1977 graduate of Quanah High School and plans to attend Vernon Junior College this fall. Griffin is a 1972 graduate of Quanah High School and is presently employed at Georgia-Pacific Corp. The wedding date is set for July 30, 1977. They will make their home in Quanah. Miss Myers is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Myers, Big Spring.

Mrs. Hoffman honoree at recent shower

Mrs. James Hoffman was the honoree at a baby shower May 24 in the home of Mrs. Jeanie Mabry.

Attendants honored

The bridal attendants of Miss Debbie Fryrear were honored with a salad supper Thursday night in the Midway Baptist Church parsonage. Mrs. Sandy Sandlin served as hostess.

Tables were centered with a love-bird and a miniature pot of daisies atop a heart-shaped doily.

Miss Fryear presented her attendants with gifts following the supper.

Mrs. Bill Fryear, mother of the honoree, was a special guest.

Miss Fryrear and Keith Stone will marry June 10 at Midway Baptist Church.

Strawberry Macaroon Compote

Strawberries are in season now, so what better time to enjoy a delicious compote tasting of the delicious fruit. Here's a recipe everyone will like:

STRAWBERRY MACAROON COMPOTE

1 qt. strawberries
3 tbsps. granulated sugar
4 egg yolks
1-3rd c. confectioners sugar
¼ c. butter or margarine, melted
2 tsps. vanilla
1½ c. macaroon crumbs

Set aside 4 strawberries for garnish, if desired. Stem and slice remaining berries; sprinkle with granulated sugar, and let stand 15 minutes. Beat egg yolks until very thick and light in color. Add confectioners sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Stir in butter and vanilla. Fold in whipped topping. Spoon half the berries into a serving bowl. Top with half the macaroon crumbs and half the egg mixture. Repeat layers. Garnish with reserved berries and additional whipped topping, if desired. Chill. Makes about 6 cups or 10 servings.

June picked

In a move to further fund the Kidney Foundation, the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge IOOF of Texas, J.O. Duncan, has designated May and June as "Kidney Foundation Month".

Duncan has requested Odd Fellow and Rebekah members in Texas to urge their friends and relatives to sign a Kidney Foundation donor pledge card.

The Kidney's Foundation's film called the "Gift of Life" will be shown in the local Odd Fellows Lodge, 9th Street and San Antonio, June 7.

A banquet honoring the United Nations Delegate from Big Spring High School, Ray Abelar, will be at 8 p.m. The 20-minute film will follow.

The public is invited. Kidney donor cards will be available.

Rainbow advisor installed at ceremony Saturday

MISS KENDA BORN

Miss Kenda Born, daughter of Mrs. Sue Born, 2609 Larry Dr., and the late Kenneth Born, was installed as worthy advisor of the Order of Rainbows, Big Spring Assembly 60, during a ceremony Saturday evening in the Masonic Temple, 221½ Main St.

Mrs. W.C. Fryar, mother adisor, introduced the installing officers. They were Miss Beverly Beil, installing officer; Miss Leilani Thomas, installing marshall; Miss Susan Smith, installing chaplain; Miss Emily Boyd, installing recorder; and Miss Phyllis Hart, installing musician.

Serving with Miss Born will be Miss Capy Tatum, worthy associate advisor; Miss Robin Von Rosenburg, charity; Miss Cindy Roberts, hope, Miss Gaylene Bruton, faith; Miss Dana Hodnett, love; Miss Loretta Langford, religion; and Miss Debbi McKinney, nature.

Others are Miss Susan Thomas, immortality; Miss Laura Green, fidelity; Miss Jean Alice Knox, patriotism; Miss Rhonda Beene, service; Miss Corrine Loftis, recorder; Miss Sabrina Thomas, treasurer; Miss Cheryl Welander, chaplain; Miss Linda Moss, drill leader; Miss Liz Ruiz, confidential observer; Miss Leanna Tolle, outer observer; Miss Darleen Thomas, musician; and Miss Angie Loftis, choir director.

Miss Born dedicated her term to her mother, Mrs. Born, and to her great-grandmother, Mrs. Anna Mae Vastine. She chose nature as her theme, and Psalms 121: 1, 2 as her scripture. Her motto will be "Study nature as the contenance of God." Her colors are green and yellow, and her flower is the yellow rose.

Miss Sherri Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jones Sr., registered guests for the installation. The benediction was given by Mrs. Margret Miller, Miss Born's grandmother. Claude C. Miller, Miss Born's grandfather, was a special guest at the installation.

A reception was held in the banquet room of the Masonic Temple following the ceremony. The advisory board members served from a table covered with yellow and an overlay of white eyelet. The centerpiece was an arrangement of artificial yellow roses and carnations.

The Assembly will attend church with Miss Born at Wesley United Methodist. They will meet in the foyer of the church at 10:45 a.m. today.

Tournament is conducted

Mrs. Madeline Atkins and Mrs. Eileen Womack tied for points during the Pitch and Gimme Tournament May 31, sponsored by the Women's Golf Association of the Big Spring Country Club.

Mrs. Peggy Marshall provided a picnic lunch at noon.

Team one, consisting of Mrs. Atkins, Mrs. Norma Griffin, Mrs. Bernice Jordan and Mrs. Flo Hallam won low net over team two, which consisted of Mrs. Nell Jones, Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. Womack and Mrs. Julie Shirey.

A business meeting is slated for the group at 9 a.m. Tuesday for all members. A nine-hole flight tournament for beginning players is scheduled following the meeting. Regular 18-hole golf will also follow the meeting.

Ladies of the Women's Golf Association will be hostesses at an Open House at the new Pro Shop from Sunday 7-9 p.m. All Country Club members are invited.

Son born to Clucks

Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Cluck announce the birth of a son, Ryan Scott, who was born at 6:04 p.m. May 30.

The baby weighed 5 pounds, 13 ounces at birth. He was born in the Glenview Hospital in Fort Worth.

Miss Jana Kim Crawley weds Richard Barraza

Miss Jana Kim Crawley and Richard M. Barraza were married Friday evening in the Birdwell Lane Baptist Church with the Rev. Jack Collier, officiating.

Grandparents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. W.R. Crownover, 1816 Benton. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. M.A. Barraza, 2002 Alabama.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with two spiral candelabrums holding yellow candles. A basket of yellow gladiolus centered the altar. Daisies and spider mums flanked by flat palms completed the decorations.

The bride chose a formal-length gown of candlelight voile with a sweetheart neckline featuring midriff lacing and long full sleeves. The bodice and deep lace-edged button cuffs had an overlay of antique lace with sash tied waist. The full-gathered skirt was trimmed with a band of matching scalloped lace at the waist and above a deep flounce that fell into a brush train.

Miss Gayle Glenn was maid of honor. Matrons of honor were Mrs. John Bryans and Mrs. David Ramsey, sister of the bride.

Bridesmaids were Miss Jamie Armstrong, sister of the bride; and Miss Theresa Barraza, sister of the bridegroom. They wore matching gowns of green silk with green and yellow floral chiffon overlay. The lace trim was accented with yellow flowers clusters. They wore green picture hats tied with green floral chiffon streamers.

Allan Born was best man. Groomsmen included Alfonso Narbaiz, Ackerly, uncle of the bridegroom; Maxey Brashears, Brent Burrow, and Wayne Gressett.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and attended Howard College. She is employed by Howard College as secretary to the Director of Nursing.

The bridegroom also graduated from Big Spring High School and attended Howard College. He is employed by Caldwell Electric.

Manolito in Odessa for 'Rainmaker'

With the glowing smile on his striking Latin face that has become almost a trademark, television and film actor, Henry Darrow arrived this week to begin rehearsals for the Mansion Dinner Theatre's June 7 production of "The Rainmaker."

Darrow flew to Odessa almost immediately after his return from Hawaii where he guest starred in a new fall episode of "Hawaii Five-o." That's a typical entrance for the busy Puerto Rican actor who sprang to the attention of America as Manolito Sebastian in "The High Chaparral" which enjoyed a highly successful four-year run on NBC in 1967. Since Chapparal left the air in 1971, Darrow has also appeared in several major supporting roles such as Lt. Manny Quinlan in David Jansen's "Harry-O" in 1975 and Alex in the 1973 version of "The New Dick Van Dyke Show" and his own series pilot "Hernandez" shot in Houston.

"Before Chapparal," the actor remembers, "I bummed around Southern California and the live stage circuit." 'Bumming around' is a rather modest statement considering Darrow spent those early years in places like the Pasadena Playhouse and Theatre-By-The Sea in repertory with roles like Orlando in "As You Like It," Mercutio in "Romeo & Juliet," Edmun in "King Lear," Iago (with William Marshall) in "Othello" and Buckingham in "Richard III," to name a few. From playing Shakespeare to Ray Bradbury . . . from recording his own musical special for NBC to international tours, Henry Darrow is at home as a trooper. "Acting is my life. It's all that I ever really wanted to do, and I'm proud to say that I've done it." Darrow smiles with that magic twinkle in his eye that prompts you to check the cookie jar. "Like anything else, acting is a job. Of course, it's not nine to five and it's not always very steady, but it's as rewarding as anything I can think of."

"It's nice to return to the stage," he continues. "There's something good about returning to the beginning . . .getting a new grasp on those elements that were there at the start. Frankly, I wouldn't want to literally return to those early years of long hours and very low pay, but the chance to perform for an audience again is something I know will be personally rewarding."

Darrow is looking forward to being in Texas again, too, having recently finished the lead role in a film shot entirely in Kerrville. "It's nice to be in touch with the roots of America . . . here in Texas as well as around the country. I sincerely hope this venture is successful so I get the chance to play the dinner circuit all over."

William's touch added to Lubbock

Roger Williams, world renowned pianist and recording star, known as "MR. PIANO", will be featured with the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra at the first Summer Pops on June 10, in the Memorial Civic Center. The Friday Evening all pop's concert will be patterned after Arthur Fiedler's Boston Pops. The evening will begin at 7:00 p.m. with box suppers and beverages being served to those at the reserved table seating. Upper floor seating will be general admission with serve-yourself beverages available. The concert will begin at 8:30 p.m.

Decorations for this gala evening will be centered around a "Gay Nineties" theme. The concert a la Boston Pops is co-sponsored by the Symphony Board and the Lubbock Symphony Guild. Ed Langston is chairman for the Symphony Board and Mrs. Jack Strong assumes the share of responsibilities assigned to the Guild.

"MR. PIANO" gives an electrifying performance in his concert and night club appearances. His technique has been praised by musicians and music critics the world over, but the public loves his ability to communicate on an emotional level on record and in person. Roger Williams conjures up love and nostalgia and hope and fun on a piano. He seems to merge with his piano and every favorite song is the result of a kind of blending of man and instrument. It is a totally emotional piano that Roger Williams puts on!

Library reference has additions

By REBECCA TAYLOR

Recent arrivals in the Reference Shelf of the Howard County Library include the "1977 Hotel and Motel Red Book," the official directory of the American Hotel and Motel Association. This handbook includes information on condominiums and resorts as well as data on convention facilities of various cities.

The establishments are listed alphabetically under the state and city. Each listing gives facilities available, price range, address and phone number, and a list of the standard credit cards accepted.

Also new to the collection is the "Rand McNally Atlas of the Body and Mind." It is a fascinating, well illustrated and readable tour through the human body and brain. One of the areas discussed is the difference in function inbetween the right and left halves of the brain. One side functions in matters of logic and the other functions creatively. Did you ever recognize a face but fail to recall the name of the person. One side of the brain furnishes recognition, but the other side provides identification. (Come and look at the book to find out which is which.)

6 RMS RIV VU — Paul Friedman (Fred McWhorter) and Ann Miller (Donna McWhorter) try to figure a way out of the apartment in which they are locked in 6 RMS RIV VU, the upcoming Colorado City Playhouse production at the Opera House. The comedy will be presented in Colorado City June 6-11. Reservations can be made by phoning 728-3491 in Colorado City.

Rock band search fires up Ector Co.

Ector County Coliseum will be the site of a Friday, June 24, regional contest from which two groups will be chosen to represent the Midland-Odessa area in the frist annual Texas Top Rock Search, it was announced today. Statewide winners will be named at the finals, July 9-10 at Six Flags Over Texas in Arlington.

Radio station KOZA will stage the local elimination in cooperation with 7-Eleven Stores, sponsors of the statewide event to benefit asipiring musicians and the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Proceeds from audience donations or admission charges will go to MDA which last year received more than $3 million from another 7-Eleven campaign which featured Comedian Jerry Lewis.

Applications and Texas Top Rock Search rules are available through the June 11 closing date at 7-Eleven Stores.

In addition to local prizes, major opportunities to showcase their talents will go to the top three bands chosen at Six Flags in July from among 22 competing from throughout the state. First place awards include a week's disco engagement aboard the M-S Sunward II on a Bahama cruise and a 30-minute appearance on the Nightflight TV network show. The runner-up will get a 15-minute Nightflight date and $1,000 in cash, while the third place band will receive recording time to cut a demo tape at Sound Techniques, Inc., in Dallas.

TEAMWORK — Cameraman, trainer, director, actor, all work together to make great movies. And in this case, the actor is leading a dog's life in "For the Love of Benji", the latest in the Benji family films and the newest box office bonanza. The film, set in Greece, features fantastic scenery as well as the talents of the ragamuffin hero. It started Friday at the Ritz.

Pianist and strings appear at Roundtop

Pianist Sylvia Rabinof will make her first appearance at the Festival-Institute at Round Top on Friday, June 10, at 8:15 p.m. Mrs. Rabinof will perform "Mes Jolies" from "Chants Polonaises" by Chopin, "Three Ecossaises, opus 72" by Chopin, "Two Etudes" by Scarlatti, and a series of original improvisations by Mrs. Rabinof. She will be joined by pianist James Dick for duo-piano performances of "Sicilienne" by Bach, "Kaleidoscope" by John Corigliano, and "Variations on a Theme of Haydn" by Brahms.

Now in its seventh season, the Festival-Institute takes place on Festival Hill in Round Top, Texas. Round Top, the smallest incorporated town in Texas, is located off U.S. 290 on Highway 237, highway between Houston and Austin.

On Saturday, June 11 at 8:15 p.m., Young-Uck Kim, violinist, and Yo-Mo Ma, cellist, are appearing at Round Top for the first time.

Advertisers skeptical

Sweepstakes bait

By RHONDA SEEGAL
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Magazine publishers are giving away millions of dollars and hope readers will reciprocate by sending some subscription money their way.

The giveaways — some as large as $150,000 in one contest — are a part of the magazine sweepstakes business.

The sweepstakes' brightly colored sales pitches invite Americans to compete for prizes merely by licking an envelope and mailing it in. They can play the game even without ordering anything.

Reader's Digest, which has given away 801,636 prizes worth $12.45 million since 1962, claims sweepstakes are "the most efficient and economical promotions we can find.

"They enable us to tell our story to the maximum number of people in a minimum number of mailings," the magazine said. However, it would not disclose other figures about its promotions.

Reader's Digest giveaways run four times a year with a 12-month rate of $4.97, $2 less than the regular subscription price and $3.43 below the single copy cost. Publishers Clearing House, a major direct mail subscription agency, says it negotiates discount subscription rates with magazines on a publication-by-publication basis.

But advertisers are skeptical of the cut-rate prices because they make it difficult to determine why readers are buying the publication.

"We are more skeptical about the value of someone who is motivated to become a subscriber for other than simply 'I want that magazine and I'm going to go out and lay out my money,'" said Jules Fine, executive vice president of Ogilvy & Mather Inc.

While the sweepstakes may not tell much about the readers, advertisers believe they can reveal a lot about the magazine.

"If they are doing it because they need to sustain their circulation, then it tends to be a harbinger of worse things to come," notes Joe Ostrow, senior vice president of Young & Rubicam, the nation's largest advertising agency.

"What I suspect is that (a magazine) participates because it's having trouble filling its circulation rate base through the traditional ways," says Robert B. MacDonald, director of media for Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn Inc., another advertising giant. "They are unable to get the more profitable kinds of subscriptions and people they attract under normal methods," he said.

"We're in the business of selling magazines. There are a lot of people who would like to know about our mailing lists, but we won't sell them to anybody," said a spokesman for Publishers Clearing House.

Advertisers worry that a magazine may be losing its relationship with readers if it has to use sweepstakes.

Carter admits horse thieves in his family

Jimmy Carter says so. But he's not saying who they were. Or how many.

His aides say it's a family secret.

Carter was presented Friday with his family tree, traced by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon). Geneologies are important to the Mormon religion.

It's no secret that the President's great-great grandfather shot a man. Or that the President's grandfather was shot to death. But the President, maybe as a joke, added a touch of mystery to his roots when he told church officials:

"We've uncovered some embarrassing ancestors in the not-too-distant-past. (There were) some horse thieves and some people killed on Saturday night. One of my relatives, unfortunately, was even in the newspaper business."

If the horse thieves are a joke, the White House press office is going along. It refers questioners to published accounts of violence in Carter's family. But it says the identities of the horse thieves are secrets only the President can reveal.

The Atlanta Journal and Constitution give the following accounts:

Wiley Carter, the President's great-great-grandfather, was acquitted of an 1841 murder charge in Warren County, Ga. He was accused of shooting a man named Usry, whose first name was not recorded, in a dispute over a slave.

Alton's father, William Archibald "Billy" Carter, the President's grandfather, was shot to death in Early County, Ga., in 1903. Alton, then 15, says his father got into a dispute with a man to whom he had rented a store.

When the man moved out, he took a desk that the elder Carter claimed was his. "They got to arguing and fussing and then that fellow up and shot him ... " says Alton.

There were three mistrials and the assailant was finally turned loose.

As for the newsman, Carter apparently was referring to Don Carter, a first cousin, who is vice president of the Knight-Ridder newspaper chain. Carter lives in Miami, Fla.

Ridin' fence

with Marj Carpenter

Some have it. Some don't. Some houses sit around for years and years without anything interesting occurring in them.

Others seem to remain interesting no matter who lives in them. When I was doing the series on the old homes in Big Spring in 1976, there was one home that had held a well-known artist, a sheriff and an admiral. Other homes just had some interesting people.

At Stanton, the most interesting private residence in town has to be the Millhollon House, sometimes referred to as the Midnight Cowboy House.

Everytime I think interest in the house has die out, somebody revives it. This week, Don Tollison resigned as mayor of Stanton because he had moved outside the city limits. It's against a state law for a mayor to reside outside the city.

When I started asking where he had moved I discovered that he is the new owner of the Millhollon House.

During the filming of Midnight Cowboy, with some of the scenes filmed here in Big Spring, there were also scenes filmed in Stanton at that old home which is located on Old Highway 80 just as you drive into town, from the east.

A woman named June Gibbs wrote a letter from Dinero this week and said she had read a recent fence column about Stanton. She asked who now owns the Millhollon house and what ever happened to a fund set up by one of the owners for needy school children.

The fund, as it turns out, was willed by Mrs. John Ed Millhollon and is still intact at Stanton First National Bank where it annually goes to deserving college students on low interests loans as set up by Mrs. Millhollon. That will was fought in court, but held firm for the couple who loved children and had none of their own.

John Ed Millhollon, who was an early president of the bank, married Nettie Bell on May 7, 1885 and they eventually settled in Martin County and built that house. They were known as Uncle Ed and Aunt Net.

He was born in Denton County in 1866 and worked early on his father's ranch. In 1888 he acquired a few cattle and land to run them on near Brady. From there he moved to Glasscock County at the head of the Concho. Soon his cattle began to range north into what is now Martin County.

In the meantime, the Millhollons had a home in Big Spring. They finally established their headquarters near Stanton. They started with nine sections that grew in 25 sections. He was active in Masonic and Shrine work and was an early commissioner.

Millhollon at one time was reported to have hired a young man who gave his name as Howard. He moved away and after his death, his son opened a letter that told of some of the people who had been kind to him. The man was reported to have been Jesse James. Frank James was reported to have visited him once when he was working for Ed Millhollon.

It's quite a house — among the owners have been Mike Hull, Sam and Villa Wilkinson, Norman Wright, and now Don Tollison.

That house has spirit. It's seen Jesse James, many a couple dancing and having a good time, scenes made on the front porch for "The Midnight Cowboy," been decorated with a historic medallion and now caused a mayor to resign.

I like that house. It's got character. And it's got the oldest fence around — one of those stacked up sideways in the early days. I don't see many like it — when I'm out ridin' fence.

Air crash prediction

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Thursday, astrologer Jack Gillen told thousands of South Texas radio talk show listeners that there would be "an unusual air disaster" on Friday, June 3, near Paris, France.

On Friday, an American jet fighter crashed and burned before thousands of spectators at Le Bourget airport on the opening day of the Paris Air Show.

Gillen said Friday he knew the air show was opening and had tried to stop it. He had made the same prediction in a book published in 1975.

The Orlando, Fla., astrologer was a guest Thursday on "The Allan Dale Show" on WOAI Radio in San Antonio.

Gillen had predicted also that Friday's crash in Paris would involve a plane that "could be carrying military personnel."

The pilot killed in Friday's crash, Howard W. Nelson, was a civilian employed by Fairchild, developer of the A10 aircraft.

Gillen, on Friday, said the position of the planets created magnetic activity levels on the earth that made the entire area around Paris "extremely dangerous" all day.

Gillen claims to have predicted 37 previous air crashes, including the one near Paris in 1974 which killed more than 300 people.

He said he has been questioned previously by the FBI concerning his advance knowledge of some crashes.

Among Gillen's other predictions?

A hurricane will strike the Texas coast at Brownsville on Aug. 30 This year.

He explained that planetary conditions will be conducive towards creation of low pressure areas in the Gulf of Mexico at that time.
