Panhandle town meeting draws crowd

Thornberry fields questions on issues

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

PANHANDLE -- Although billed as a discussion of the Social Security system, topics ranged from Social Security to Medicare to Kosovo to the Chinese to the national debt to the United Nations at Congressman Mac Thornberry's town hall meeting here.

Some six dozen Carson County residents gathered at the Square House Museum Monday night for a town hall meeting to talk with Rep. Mac Thornberry of the 31st Congressional District.

Opening the meeting, Thornoerry focused on the Social Security system, noting that since it was put into effect in the 1930s by then President Franklin Delano Roosevelt benefits have been broadened and increased but the associated taxes have increased about 20 times. Today, Thornberry said 12.4 percent of each person's paycheck goes into the system along with 2.9 percent of the paycheck that goes to pay for Medicare, a program that Thornberry characterized as having as many if not more problems than Social Security.

Thornberry explained to his constituents that the money that goes in from payroll taxes, as it always has, goes immediately back out to pay for benefits of those drawing Social Security.

Since the 1980s, the Congressman said, there has been more money coming into the program than going out. The federal government, he said, has been borrowing the surplus funds to pay for other programs until today about half of the $730 billion fund is interest the government pays on the money it has borrowed.

"So far it has worked well," Thornberry said, "but we're about to hit a time where it is not going to work as well."

Citing the longer life expectancy of both men and women than when the program was first established and a forecast of fewer people working, Thornberry said that the system

PHS getting new elevator, tennis building

By MIRANDA G. BAILEY

Two new additions are in the works for Pampa High School.

This spring high school students and staff can plan on seeing the early construction of a new elevator that is expected to be complete before school starts next year.

In addition, by the end of March, tennis students will be enjoying the benefits of a new dressing room at the south end of the tennis courts.

Both projects were approved by the Pampa ISD Board of Education in the last three months; however, Denver Bruner, the district's facilities management director, wasn't able to give firm timelines for the projects until this last board meeting.

Bruner and John Shiver, of the Dallas-based architecture firm that remodeled the district's elementary schools, recommended that the

Boot camp teens caught in Wheeler

Two teenagers were back in custody today following almost 24-hours of freedom, after escaping from a privately-run detention facility near Canadian.

Robert Lemus, 17, of Plano and a 16-year-old juvenile from San Antonio were captured about 6:45 Monday evening on the north edge of Wheeler, officers said.

The pair escaped from Hemphill County Juvenile Boot Camp shortly before 8 Sunday night after hitting a cook, Jean Pierre Campillo, over the head with a board and taking his car, according to officials. Campillo remains in Northwest Texas Hospital in serious condition.

Officers said they received a call that two men were attempting to break into a Wheeler residence on the north edge of town. Wheeler County Commissioner Kenneth Childress arrived, followed almost immediately by Wheeler deputies Scott Morgan and Collin Jordan.

Childress shouted to the teens, "It's over, boys," and the boys sat down and the deputies then placed them under arrest.

Lemus is in Wheeler County Jail in lieu of $110,000 bond. Bond on escape charges and assault charges are $50,000 each and unautho-

ABILENE (AP) — Four teen-age girls are dead and a man remains hospitalized today following a shooting at a West Texas apartment.

Investigators are trying to determine whether the attack Monday evening is linked to a shooting Sunday in which another teen-ager was injured.

Authorities today were looking for a 19-year-old man and his 16-year-old brother, who have Tarrant County addresses, to ask them about the latest attack, according to Abilene television station KTXS.

Police responding to a call around 5 p.m. Monday found a wounded man in the driveway and the other victims — including one who might have been pregnant — inside one of the apartments, detective Jay Hatcher said.

Police had no motive and no suspects by late Monday for what Hatcher called Abilene's first quadruple homicide in recent memory.

Residents of the northside Abilene neighborhood say violence is nothing new there.

Donna Rhone, who lives a few houses away from the crime scene, said the tiny group of duplex apartments has been a problem ever since she moved to the area 13 years ago.

"If they would knock down those apartments, it would be a better area," said Ms. Rhone.

Colleagues and friends alike gathered this morning outside Columbia Medical Center's operating room to witness the unveiling of a plaque dedicated to the memory of Dr. Alfredo L. Juan, M.D.

Juan, 52, a surgeon and member of the Pampa medical community since 1980, died last month.

The dedication was part of the hospital's activities scheduled today to celebrate national "Doctors Day."

Chief of Staff Dr. Laxmichand Kamnani, M.D. and immediate past Chief of Staff Dr. Rene Grabato, M.D. presented the plaque. Hal Cree, a family friend of the Juan family, spoke on behalf of Juan's wife, Tracy.

"I look forward to bringing my children to see the memorial that honors their father," Cree read from the letter Tracy wrote.

Grabato, who also delivered the eulogy at Juan's funeral, said the plaque is being placed outside of the operating room to commemorate

Seven running for two Lefors spots

Seven candidates are vying for two spots on the Lefors School Board including one of the people currently holding the job.

The positions up for election are currently held by Roger Davenport, who is moving out of town, and Richard Harkcom who is running to retain his seat on the board.

Beside Harkcom, Russell Jackson, Roy Lott, Michael Ray, Bobby Barnes, Bobby Stephens and Ron Turpen have indicated that they want a seat with the school board.

The top two vote getters will be elected to the unpaid positions. Early voting starts April 14 and May 1 is election day.

New chamber chairman wants to sell Pampa to Pampa

Bill Bridges

Richard Stowers

Local businessman Bill Bridges was honored as the new Pampa Area Chamber of Commerce board chairman earlier this month when he took the reins from Richard Stowers at the 70th annual chamber meeting.

"As I reflect on 1998, the slogan was 'change,' ... if you're not riding on the wave of change you'll find yourself beneath it," said Stowers, who served as the 1998 chamber board chairman.

Stowers found himself riding the "wave of change" when he later turned the meeting over to Bridges of Pampa's Duncan, Fraser and Bridges Insurance Company.

"We're working on a fresh new perspective within the chamber and city," said Bridges. "Our goal is to sell Pampa to Pampa."

Before promoting the city to outsiders, he said, the chamber wants to focus on promoting the city to its citizens.

"We get so used to the way things are done that we don't see the positive things around us," said Bridges.

Bridges also recognized Clay Rice as the city's new full-time chamber president before Dick Stowers was named as the 1998 Citizen of the Year at the meeting's close.

board approve the lowest construction bid for the elevator project from Reynosa Construction of Amarillo.

The elevator project, which has turned out to be twice as much as first anticipated when approved by school officials, will cost a total of $218,101.

"This has cost considerably more than we had hoped," said Pat Kennedy, board secretary.

The board elected to replace the elevator to meet required disability act laws.

"Today, kids' wheelchairs alone weigh more than what the current elevator can hold," said Bruner.

By the end of April the shaft will be ready with the exception of installing the equipment, he added.

"Big, noisy jackhammer stuff will be done after hours," Bruner said.

Just about the time the elevator construction begins, a tennis team dres. ng room will be in place for students.

The building, which was originally built on site at the old Horace Mann campus, is being transported to the high school after careful investigation by Bruner and local engineers.

The firm cost of the project is $12,916 — about $4,000 less than was projected at the February board meeting. Ten thousand dollars was provided by the tennis team for the building's move.

Within the time frame put together by Bruner, the building was expected to be turned over to PHS Tennis Coach Quarles after spring break.

Lefors reunion group seeks graduates

The Lefors all school reunion for 1999 will be held July 3rd. Invitations were sent out on February 1st but due to computer problems some names have been lost.

Any Lefors graduate or anyone knowing of a Lefors graduate who has not received an invitation should contact Johnny or Mary Wariner at 835-2249 or Becky or James Hall at 835-2315.

There will be a barbecue meal catered by the Shriners that evening. The cost will be $9 for adults and $4.5 for children.

Please send reservations to Lefors Homecoming Committee, Box 463 Lefors, TX 79054.

Local Farm Bureau agents attend district banquet, receive awards

Three members of the local Texas Farm Bureau Insurance office recently attended the District I Awards Banquet in Amarillo and came home winners.

James Race, LUTCF, agency manager, Don Whitney, LUTCF, service agent and David Haynes, service agent, brought home awards for Outstanding Service for 1998.

Race brought home several awards— All Star Award, Winners Challenge, Triple Crown and Million Dollar Ring Award. He also received the Professional Agency Award for 1998 in which only 20 out of 187 agencies across the state received the coveted award for outstanding achievement.

Whitney was named All Star Award winner, Pro-Agent Holiday Winner, Round Table Winner, Triple Crown Award winner, Five Star Award winner, Winners Challenge, #10 in Texas in Annuity Sales, #2 in Texas Annuity Applications and Million Dollar Ring Award winner. He received the highest award in Texas Farm Bureau – The Master Agent Award – in which he was presented in the Eagle he is holding with pride. Out of 692 agents in Texas, only 41 agents received this award in 1998. Whitney also won the 1998 Multi-Line Award for being the top agent in District I which represents 26 counties and 52 agents.

Whitney was honored by the National Association of Life Underwriters and was presented the National Multi-Line Agent Award which is not a company award but an award bestowed nationally.

Haynes was awarded All Star Award, Pro-Agent Holiday Winner, Round Table Winner, Triple Crown Award, Five Star Award and Winners Challenge. He also received The Master Agent Award.

In addition,Haynes was honored by the National Association of Life Underwriters and was presented the National Multi-Line Agent Award, a national award.

All three agents wish to express their sincere thanks to all of their customers in the area for helping them achieve their accomplishments this past year.

Race wishes to express to his agents how much he appreciates their hard work and dedication and joins the other two agents in thanking the secretarial staff, Michell Doan and Debbie Flores, for all their efforts in making a successful year.

Century 21 area agents achieve emerald level status

BORGER — Century 21 Real Estate Corp., franchisor of the world's largest residential real estate sales organization, has recognized the achievement of Eck Spahich and Karen Wright of Century 21 Best Realty for attaining emerald level status.

Emerald level status is awarded to agents who meet minimum gross closed commissions or unit requirements during their third year of the masters program. A gold-plated lapel pin with emerald accent is awarded to the agents during the awards ceremony in addition to a personal invitation to attend a masters retreat.

"Eck and Karen are leaders and innovators in delivering powerful home choices to their clients because they know the neighborhoods they serve and lead these communities with real estate expertise," said Tim R. Wright, managing broker of Century 21 Best Realty. "Eck's and Karen's competitive intelligence, professionalism and dedication has made them valued and trusted real estate partners for our market area, and

Karen Wright

Dr. V.E. von Brunow Park dedication

About 200 people braved wet conditions and spent part of the time in the VFW building Saturday during dedication services at the Dr. V.E. von Brunow Park at 101 S. Cuyler.

The dedication is sponsored by the Gray County Historical Commission, Pampa Area Foundation for Outdoor Art, and the Pampa Park and Recreation Board. The Army National Guard presented the colors, opening the dedication services.

Following the Guard presentation, Chance Williamson gave a rendition of the "Star Spangled Banner" on the trumpet. County Judge Richard Peet dedicated the Texas Historical Marker. Unveiling the marker was Bobbie Lee Bond, step granddaughter of Dr. von Brunow, and Eloise Lane.

Thelma Bray, president of PAFOA, dedicated the bronze sculpture "Grandfather's Vision" and sculptor Gerald Sanders did the unveiling.

Mayor Bob Neslage handled the Dr. von Brunow Park dedication, followed by Rev. Robin Gantz with the benediction.

The Park landscaping has been financed by several groups, including donations of $5,000 from the McCarley Foundation; $14,000 from Cabot Corp., $7,000 from water bill donations; $1,000 from PAFOA and $500 form the Downtown Merchants Assoc. The VFW added the flag pole,a and Celanese paid for the repair of the north side of the VFW building. William McCarley designed the sidewalks, using bricks from the Brunow Building that was destroyed in a 1981 fire.

Bronzes by Sanders and memorabilia of Dr. von Brunow were displayed in an open house at the White Deer Land Museum following the dedications.

Easter pageant slated at Kenton

KENTON, Okla. — The 48th annual Kenton Easter Pageant will be Saturday and Sunday near this Oklahoma Panhandle town.

Saturday's performance is scheduled for 6 p.m. and Sunday's performance will be a 7 a.m. at the pageant grounds one and a half miles east of Kenton, according to Mertis Vail of Texhoma, Okla.

"The Saturday evening performance is timed to dramatize the moment of the crucifixion with Christ hanging from the cross between two thieves just as the sun sets over the rugged canyon wall," Vail said. "This performance of the death of Christ and the despair of the world will be followed on Sunday morning by the living hope of the resurrection as the sun rises on a great earthquake and ends with the awesome scene of the Ascension."

The pageant cast is composed of area farmers, ranchers, housewives, students, businessmen and professional people, Vail said. Some are third and fourth generation participants.

Meals will be served at nearby Camp Billy Joe following each performance. Saturday supper costs $4.50 for adults and $2.50 for children under 12. Sunday breakfast costs will be $3.50 for adults and $2.00 for children.

Camper hookups are available at Kenton and Lake Etling, Vail said. There are also five dorm accomodations at Camp Billy Joe.

Settlement should go to the states

More often than not, the federal government's motto seems to be: "What's mine is mine, and what's yours is mine." A case in point is the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services bid to get its hands on money the various states have won in lawsuits against the tobacco companies. Texas alone will receive $17.3 billion in this tobacco settlement.

Uncle Sam has been eyeing those settlement funds. The federal government is now claiming that the states "owe" HHS for the Medicaid services it provides state residents. (The cost of state Medicaid programs is shared between the states and the federal government.)

Those claims are spurious. The states initiated the tobacco lawsuits, beginning in 1989, and never received help of any kind from the federal government in pursuing them. Only after the tobacco companies settled with the states did the federal government announce it would attempt to seize a portion of the proceeds.

The lawsuits upon which these settlements are based were initiated by the states, on many different grounds, and the cases involved a wide variety of issues beyond health-care costs.

These settlements belong to the states and should be used for the benefit of our states' residents — not to help a federal bureaucracy balance its books.

Federal Medicaid law entitles the federal government to a certain share of funds that states recover in situations such as when a hospital is discovered overcharging Medicaid for a particular health service, or when someone receives care paid for by Medicaid when he or she is covered by private insurance. The law was never intended to be used in situations such as the tobacco litigation.

After learning of the administration's intentions, I introduced a bill to stop the federal government from seizing these funds. My legislation is written to ensure that every dollar obtained by the states stays with the states. It enjoys the overwhelming support of state officials in Texas and elsewhere. In fact, all 50 state governors support my legislation and the National Governors Association has called it their number one federal priority.

Many states, Texas included, are using their settlements to achieve responsible, health-conscious goals, and the administration's grab puts such initiatives at risk. And individual Texas counties have a big stake in the tobacco settlement funds. They are in line to receive more than $2 billion, starting with a lump sum payment of $300 million this year. Many of our counties are hard-pressed to fund and maintain their public hospitals. These funds will help make sure that the health-care safety net for all Texans is preserved.

The states didn't get help from Washington when they decided to pursue the tobacco settlements. It's plain wrong for Washington to now claim 57 percent of Texas' $17 billion — robbing our counties and state health-care programs. I will fight to stop that from happening.

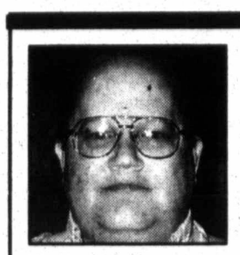
Be careful what you quote



Jeff West

Pampa News staff

Ah, spring. When a young man's fancy turns to love (pretty much the same stuff he was thinking about in the dead of winter). Have you noticed that poets don't have to make sense?

I used to think of myself in the category of young man, until a couple of years ago when I made the mistake of saying to my mother, I want to live fast and die young and she said, "It's too late for that." Motherly support isn't what it used to be apparently.

But now that I don't fit into that category I've noticed that while my opportunities seemed to have disappeared, along with my hair, and what little charm I may have possessed, my fancy remains.

There's the more contemporary saying that love is like a bus, if you miss one chance another will come along in 15 minutes. Then I realized that there are no public buses running in this town. And they're not making any new ones here either.

It just goes to show you can't rely on old sayings (or old buses for that matter). Because it seems that you can pull an old saying, like a verse of scripture, to prove almost any side of an argument.

For instance, he who hesitates is lost but haste makes waste. And absence makes the heart grow fonder but out of sight is out of mind. You get the picture. The quotes sound better if you can attribute them to Lincoln, Benjamin Franklin or Mark Twain.

Lincoln and Franklin may not like it but Mark Twain can't complain; he apparently attributed all sorts of quotes to people who probably didn't say them.

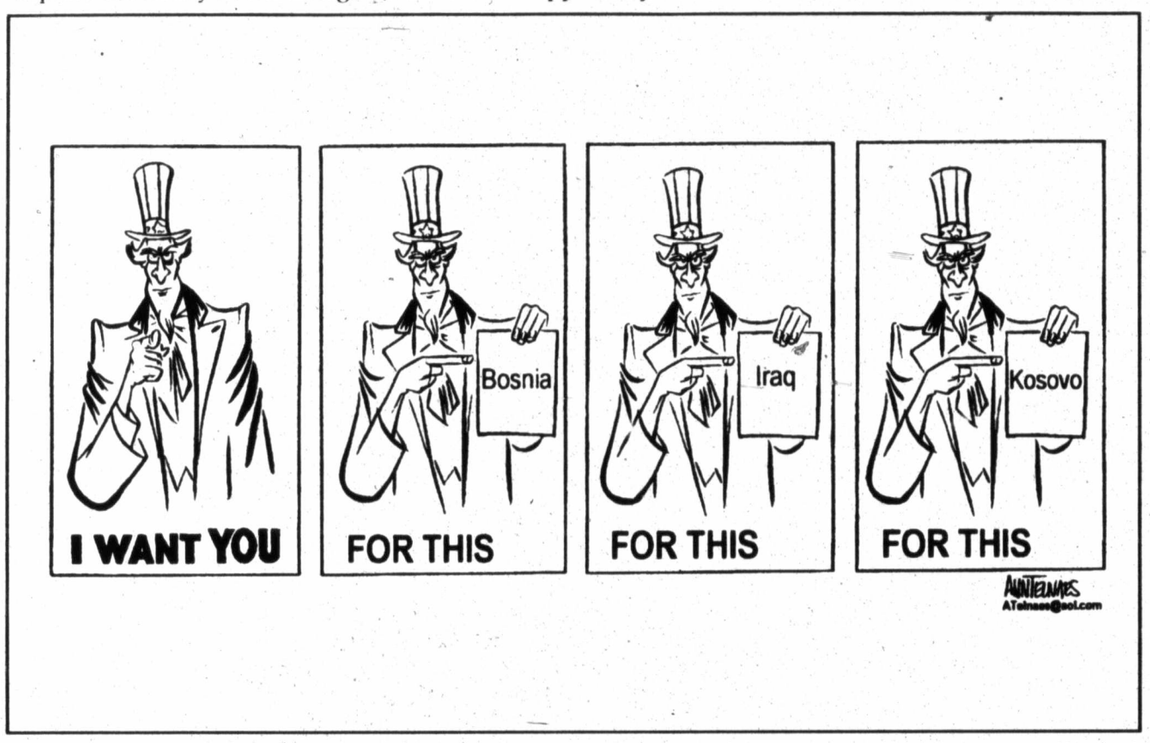
I used the quote, "There are lies, 'dadgum' lies (this is a family paper), and statistics," and credited Benjamin Disraeli, a British prime minister in the last century. Apparently Disraeli never said it. The first time it's ever mentioned is in a book by Mark Twain.

Everyone has heard the quote, "Never give a sucker an even break," supposedly a quote from P.T. Barnum. I read something a while back that said the word sucker was not used in the same way it's used today. And even if that was his philosophy, he would never have expressed it that way.

Of course Disraeli and Barnum may have said those things. I have had some folks deny making quotations I've attributed to them. Sometimes I may have not heard what they said clearly. Often they may not have thought about what they said as carefully as they would have liked.

I tend to not pay a lot of attention now to a single quote thrown out, true or not. Everyone has a little contradictory nature in them so that a statement made under one set of circumstances may seem inflammatory under another. You just need to pay attention to what they do or did, not a single quote that may or may not be true.

Be good to one another and be good to yourselves.



Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, March 30, the 89th day of 1999. There are 276 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On March 30, 1981, President Reagan was shot and seriously injured outside a Washington, D.C., hotel by John W. Hinckley Jr. Also wounded were White House press secretary James Brady, a Secret Service agent and a District of Columbia police officer.

On this date:

In 1822, Florida became a U.S. territory.

In 1842, Dr. Crawford W. Long of Georgia first used ether as an anesthetic during a minor operation.

In 1867, U.S. Secretary of State William H. Seward reached agreement with Russia to purchase the territory of Alaska for $7.2 million, a deal roundly ridiculed as "Seward's Folly."

In 1870, Texas was readmitted to the Union.

You can't fight human nature

Do you remember the TV commercial featuring an attractive male construction worker stripping to the waist and enjoying a Coke while being ogled from above by a gaggle of appreciative women?

I have no idea whether the commercial was successfully peddling its product, but I do detect in it an over-eager political correctness. While it is becoming almost impossible to depict women as sex objects — after a prolonged hullabaloo and a threatened lawsuit, Old Milwaukee beer pulled an ad featuring the "Swedish bikini team" — it is somehow daring and a little exciting to depict men as such.

I note this not to raise moral objections to the Coke commercial but merely as evidence of the unreality that surrounds sexual topics in this politicized age. What you have in the women-ogling-man commercial is not a portrayal of anything found in real life but someone's idea about how things ought to be.

While women are not indifferent to the physical attractiveness of men, they tend not to ogle (Playgirl, originally aimed at women to duplicate the appeal of Playboy, was purchased almost exclusively by homosexual men). In fact, men often complain that women are more interested in a man's money, status and power than in his beautiful wavy hair.

Men are different. They are highly visually oriented, and while most men value qualities in women beyond looks, it is a rare male who does not enjoy the simple pleasure of gazing at a pretty lady.

The feminists would have you believe that being ogled is one of the great afflictions of the female sex, which is preposterous. Being leered at is offensive, but being noticed and appreciated is downright pleasurable for most women. It is what keeps the multibillion-dollar cosmetics industry going, to say nothing of the apparel business and the weight-loss, hair-styling and fitness salons of America.

On a long car trip recently, we were listening to a tape of "South Pacific." One of the classic songs of that musical would not be written today out of deference to the sensibilities of feminists, and that is a great loss. "There is Nothing Like a Dame" is a funny, saucy tribute to men's desire for women. Nothing else, the sailors lament, has "the soft and wavy frame like the silhouette of a dame." The singers are appreciative of every aspect of femininity while acknowledging their own less-than-gentlemanly appetites ("We feel hungry as the wolf felt when he met Red Riding Hood/What don't we feel? We don't feel good.").

Today, that song would amount to sexual harassment.

The doctrine of sexual harassment is the feminist response to the loss of sexual mores the feminists themselves helped abandon. They cheerfully joined the sexual revolutionaries of the '60s, throwing overboard the so-called double standard in matters sexual. But as the National Association of Scholars noted in a full-page advertisement in Commentary magazine, sexual harassment is a pernicious concept.

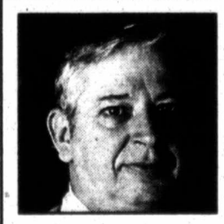
It is pernicious because it fails of definition, relying on subjective feelings rather than describable behavior. Careers have been damaged or even derailed because the alleged "victim" of sexual harassment said she "felt uncomfortable." At one major public university, official documents state that "sexual harassment can be as blatant as a rape or as subtle as a look. Harassment ... often consists of a callous insensitivity to the experience of women."

Is rape — a crime recognized as heinous by all societies throughout history — now just a subset of sexual harassment? And what is this nonsense about the "experience of women"? How is the "experience" of Tonya Harding like that of Princess Di? How is the "experience" of Jeane Kirkpatrick like that of Barbra Streisand?

As the NAS contends, defining sexual harassment so broadly as to include mental attitudes amounts to an assault on academic freedom and an exercise not in civility but in brainwashing.

The joyless feminists of the academy are engaged in a losing struggle against human nature. Men like to appreciate women, and women like to be appreciated. After all, "there is nothing you can name that is anything like a dame."

What feminism has cost women



Charley Reese

Syndicated columnist

Feminism has been a disaster for American women. The bad consequences flow from the feminists' fundamental error of confusing a political concept with biology.

The political concept is that women should be equal to men in the eyes of the law. Like all political concepts, that is simply a matter of arbitrary agreement or disagreement. Most Americans, at least, agree — including me.

But equality before the law does not translate into a biological sameness, and that is where feminism hits the rocks. Men and women are not the same, and the differences are more than just anatomical.

Whether feminists like it or not, nature has programmed women to be mothers. This requires a male, not only for his sperm, but also to provide security for the female during pregnancy and for the children during early infancy. That, at least, is the natural order of things.

Unfortunately, the male is not biologically programmed to be a father or to make any kind of commitment to the female once the male itch is satisfied. All of that commitment, that respect, that sense of obligation, came from culture and in our case, specifically Christian-based culture.

So what feminists did, as a result of confusing equality with sameness, was to free the American male from his cultural bonds. What they couldn't do was to free the American female from her biology.

So ask the question, "Who benefits from feminism?"

True, women are slightly better off in terms of cash-paying jobs and opportunities to work for cash. There are all sorts of dull and boring or dirty and dangerous jobs open to them. But materialism is far too narrow a gauge to measure human happiness. One look at the lives of the rich will tell you that. While the absence of money can be painful, the presence of money cannot guarantee happiness.

The sexual promiscuity feminism unleashed is all to the advantage of the male. It's much easier for the male to get his itch scratched and to do it without incurring any economic or emotional commitments and without incurring any social or legal penalties. Women get more of the negatives — abortion, children to raise by themselves, diseases and loneliness.

Nor will women ever succeed beyond some tokenism in the so-called man's world for the basic biological reason that males will always be more aggressive and ruthless, whether it's on the streets or in the office suites. If women want to play as if they were men, then men will treat them no better than they treat each other, which is to say, the stronger will whip the weaker, the faster will outrun the slower.

Feminist fantasy abounds in Washington and Hollywood, on TV shows and in TV ads. But the reality is the only power any woman will ever have over a man is her sex appeal, and that fades from the male point of view rapidly with aging.

It took nearly two millennia for Christianity and Western Civilization to convince men they should make a commitment based on more than sex to women, and it took less than a few decades for feminism to undo it.

It's certainly true today, as bitter women and anxious parents will tell you, that there are fewer good men left, and for that you can thank the feminists. The few are those who retained the values of a traditional upbringing.

What the feminist leaders were and are is stupid. For the sake of a wrong idea they tossed away the social and legal advantages women already had in Western society. Unfortunately, many young American women won't realize what's been lost until they face their late 30s.

It won't be a pleasant discovery.

WTAMU to sponsor job fair

CANYON — More than 100 school district representatives from four different states are expected to attend the 22nd annual West Texas A&M University Teacher Job Fair sponsored by the Office of Career and Counseling Services. The fair will be from 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Monday, April 19 in the Virgil Henson Activities Center.

One out of six students enrolled at WTAMU are education majors. The Teacher Job Fair is a network that encourages all education majors to look for full-time jobs or internships, make contacts with prospective employers and gather career information.

Representatives from Texas, New Mexico, Kansas and Nevada will be on campus to talk with students about employment in their districts. Representatives include superintendents, principals and school district recruiters.

The job fair is open, at no charge, to the community and to WTAMU students. Job seekers should dress professionally and bring multiple copies of their resumes and transcripts.

School districts interested in attending the job fair should contact Storey at WTAMU's Career and Counseling Services at (806) 651-2345.

DR. JUAN

Juan's contributions to surgical care in Pampa.

He added, "We dedicate this in his memory so he won't be forgotten ... and of course we miss him."

Juan maintained a private practice in Pampa for 18 years, until becoming affiliated with the Family Medicine Center in 1996.

He served as chief of surgery from 1986-88 and was a member of the Columbia Medical Center of Pampa Board of Trustees from 1990-92. Juan was also a diplomat of the American Board of Surgery and was a fellow of the International College of Surgeons. He was a member of St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church in addition to being a member of the Frank Keim Knights of Columbus.

Hal Cree, a personal friend of the Juan family, read a prepared statement on behalf of Dr. Alfredo L. Juan's wife, Tracy, who was unable to attend a Tuesday morning ceremony honoring Juan. She wrote that she was "heartened" by the memorial for her husband's behalf.

PANHANDLE

will face problems within the next decade if changes are not made.

"When the program was first introduced," he said, "the life expectancy of a man was 63 year of age. Today, that life expectancy is about 75 years."

The life expectancy of a woman was about 66 years when the program was first established. The life expectancy of women is now about 80 years.

Thornberry noted the costs of the program were more widely spread a half century ago. In 1950, the payroll taxes of 16 workers paid for benefits of those drawing from the system. By the year 2030, two workers will be paying the benefits of each person on Social Security.

Thornberry noted the costs of the program were more widely spread a half century ago. In 1950, the payroll taxes of 16 workers paid for benefits of those drawing from the system. By the year 2030, two workers will be paying the benefits of each person on Social Security.

"There are fewer kids," Thornberry said. "There are fewer people working and more people living longer."

There are a number of things that will need to be changed if the system is to stay solvent through the next century.

One change Thornberry said Congress made last week to the system is that in the budget the House of Representatives and the Senate passed on Thursday, as of Oct. 1, each dollar collected for the Social Security program will have to be used for the Social Security program. Until and prior to that time, the money could be used for other programs.

President Clinton had proposed taking 62 percent of the projected budget surplus this year and setting it aside for the Social Security Trust Fund.

Thornberry said the plan received only two votes on the floor of the House. Even other members of the President's own party agreed that all the funds collected for the program should be used for the program.

"That is just the first step," Thornberry said. "It doesn't solve all the problems."

Still, Thornberry said that projections indicate the trust fund will reach a shortfall about 2012 when the tax money collected will no longer cover what is being paid out. If the trust fund collects the IOUs from the federal government, Thornberry said, it can last until 2027 before there is a shortfall.

"The problem is how to pay back those IOUs," Thornberry said.

The income tax part of the budget will have to be used to pay back the Social Security part of the budget, he said.

While the President has proposed putting part of the trust fund into the stock market, Thornberry said that's fine now when the market is going up. He also said it worries him that the federal government would also be the largestsingle investor in the stock market under the President's plan. He indicated that the market might then be driven by politics rather than by economic forces.

In Congress, eight Senators and six Representatives have come forward proposing their own plans.

Thornberry said he has not endorsed any of them, but he said that now is a time when changes might be made.

"I think we've got a better shot at doing it now than at any other time," Thornberry said.

(Other topics, including Kosovo, will be in a story tomorrow.)

rized use of a motor vehicle charges resulted in an additional $10,000 bond. The juvenile was returned to the boot camp where Les Brown, facility manager said he is in isolated detention.

There is some discussion among prosecutors and peace officers about certifying the juvenile as an adult, to face the same charges as Lemus.

Brown said the Canadian facility has been open almost exactly four years and this is the first incident of its kind involving young people working in the kitchen.

Wheeler County has third fatality in 10-day period

A Shamrock man became the third fatality in 10 days in Wheeler County when he was involved in a one-car accident.

Cecil Howard Wright III, 44, was driving on county road "S-B" about two miles west of Shamrock around 12:30 yesterday afternoon when the accident happened, said DPS Trooper Johnny Carter

His 1979 Grand Prix apparently veered to the right and he over corrected sending the vehicle into the ditch on the south side of the road.

The Pontiac flipped end-over-end once ejecting Wright who was not wearing a seat belt, the trooper said.

The victim was not wearing a seat belt and was ejected from the car that flipped end-over-end, the trooper said.

Justice of the Peace Art Taylor pronounced Wright dead at the scene.

Prior to Wright's death, two teenagers were killed recently in separate accidents.

Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation sets meeting

CANYON — The Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation, parent organization of the musical drama "TEXAS," announced that its annual meeting will be held at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday, April 14 at the Hazel Kelley Wilson Alumni Banquet Hall at West Texas A&M University in Canyon.

All TPHF members, and anyone interested in joining the foundation, are urged to attend the luncheon meeting which will feature Garet von Netzer of the Amarillo Globe News. Von Netzer will outline the newspaper's Celebrate 2000 campaign which has allotted $50,000 to "TEXAS" for renovation of the musical drama's side stages for the 2000 season.

Blaine Bertrand, newly appointed general manager of "TEXAS," will speak to the membership. Bertrand replaced Patty Bryant who recently retired.

Amarillo artist Jack Sorenson will unveil an original Palo Duro Canyon painting that he is donating to TPHF for use in a fund-raising project.

Members and those who wish to join TPHF should call (806) 655-2181 to RSVP for the meeting by April 7. Cost for the meal is $12.

"TEXAS" is the official play for the State of Texas. The 1999 season of the outdoor drama will run June 9-Aug. 21 in Palo Duro Canyon State Park near Amarillo. Call (806) 655-2181 for ticket information.

Amarillo Botanical Gardens luncheon

AMARILLO — Amarillo Botanical Gardens will host a "Catch the Colors – It's Spring!" luncheon from 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. Monday, April 12. Entertainment will be provided by vocalists Millicent Otwell and Tim Lewis.

Otwell, a Tulia native, was scheduled to be Lawrence Welk's "Champagne Lady" when Welk suffered a stroke and the show did not move forward. While studying music at Texas Tech University, Otwell performed several leading roles in university opera productions. She is the wife of Roger Otwell, who, along with his twin brother David, were regulars on the Welk show.

Lewis, a seasoned writer, has published 15 plays and two novels along with numerous songs, poetry and articles. He is an active performer on stage as well. He holds a degree in vocal performance from Sam Houston State University and has done graduate work in theater arts at the University of Texas and Texas history at West Texas A&M.

For reservations, call (806) 352-6513 before April 7. Cost of the luncheon is $20 per person. Seating is limited and reservations will be taken on a first-come first-serve basis.

Hard-Won Respect Now Exists Between Students and Principal

Abigail Van Buren

SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

DEAR ABBY: I have been the principal of an elementary school for four years, and for the most part have been able to keep my cool except during those noisy lunch hours in the cafeteria.

Every January, our school takes part in a "Bound for Literacy" promotion to encourage reading. The promotion is usually capped off by (who else?) the principal kissing a pig, eating worms or some other bit of nonsense to honor the students attaining a reading goal. This year, my husband and daughter — a fifth-grader at the school — suggested a stunt to literally "tie in" with the promotion's name. I agreed to spend a lunch hour (two sessions) bound and gagged in a chair in the cafeteria if the student body read a total of 2,000 books. Of course, I knew they would reach that goal, so I had to gear myself for the noise I'd have to contend with on the appointed day. It would be a deafening racket.

Friday, Jan. 29, was the big day. Just before lunch, several PTA mothers armed with a bundle of jump ropes bound me securely, taped my mouth and hoisted me into a chair on a raised platform in the cafeteria. Then the children filed in. Of course, they giggled and waved — but to my astonishment, the kids in both sessions were so quiet you could hear a spoon drop. I was amazed! One of the older children later told me, "We didn't want to take advantage of you while you were all tied up."

The following Monday, the noise levels returned to normal in the cafeteria. I have no desire to spend lunch hours bound and gagged — but I have acquired a new tolerance for lunchtime noise, and I have definitely gained added respect for my pupils.

BOUND FOR LITERACY,
ABINGTON, PA.

DEAR "BOUND": After the "sacrifice" you made, I'm sure the respect is reciprocated. Not only are your students' strides toward literacy laudable, their exhibition of fair play is admirable. My congratulations to them.

DEAR ABBY: I have never written to you, but for a number of decades I have frequently read and enjoyed your column. I have even quoted you to patients occasionally. I am now a retired psychiatrist.

I am sufficiently appalled by your answer to "Devastated in New York" — the woman with the cheating fiance — to write to you. Heaven help her if she does "proceed with caution" as you advised. She is almost sure to become an abused wife, emotionally if no other way.

My answer would be much more along the lines of: "Trust? Are you serious? This man has lied to you not once but innumerable times over the last year and a half. (Since you say you 'recently discovered' his liaison, I assume he didn't come to you to present this as a problem.) People who habitually lie don't stop. Count yourself exceedingly lucky to have made this discovery now and not later. Any love you feel is left over from the romantic time during which you thought you had a relationship. You will get over it. He is a loser. Do not hesitate to lose him."

I hope you publish some "second thoughts" on your answer.

HERTA SILZER, M.D.,
BERKELEY, CALIF.

DEAR DR. SILZER: Not only have I had second thoughts about my answer, but I also realize it did not convey what the young woman needed to hear.

Your answer is better than mine, and I hope "Devastated in New York" sees it.

BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★★ Dig into your mental resources for great ideas. You come up with the cute name, the interesting solution, the great suggestion. Extremes mark this period, and there are simply too many options. Opportunities knock on your door. Be selective about which path you take. Tonight: Go along with a partner's request.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★ Evaluate choices carefully. Work offers many different options and plans. Take another direction, following your instincts. One-to-one relating helps you gain a perspective. Your physical energy is subject to change; stay on top of what is happening. Tonight: Pace yourself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★★ Open your heart. Seek out loved ones and children. You might enjoy a family gathering. Your personality naturally draws others. Let your sense of humor come forth. Love and money contain an element of the unexpected; you've pulled the wild card! Tonight: Having a good time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★ Allow others to give you more feedback. You feel secure and may want to enhance your financial and emotional well-being. Your abilities to rise above a situation and to be efficient as well as a hard worker make you successful. Tonight: Consider some home decorating ideas.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★★ You love excitement, and you'll get plenty! Creativity, energy and happiness result from your clever way of communicating and your inimitable style. Pressure comes from your own expectations, not another's requests. It's quite all right to say "no"! Tonight: Hang out.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★ Indulge yourself. Lighten up and go with the unexpected. Intuition concerning a boss is right on. Anchor in and handle a financial matter with your natural aplomb. You see ways to make money that others don't grasp. Work with a partner, and you'll gain. Tonight: Go for togetherness.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★★ You are personality plus, but another might have a different point of view. Listen to feedback, trust your judgment and be observant. Communication helps you gain another perspective. A partner has his own opinion, but he still listens! Tonight: Where the action is.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★ Saying little gets you more than active participation. As a result, you gain information. Your sense of humor allows others to open up. Financial rewards come from using your strong intuition. Energy is high; tackle work and errands. Tonight: Do your own thing.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★★★ Friends come through in a big way. Think before accepting an offer; there are long-term implications. Others respond positively to your energy. Extremes mark decisions. Perhaps you have too many choices! Tonight: Surrounded by buddies and laughter.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★ You feel pressured; the right direction seems obscured. Keep your nose to the grindstone, despite all the distractions. Trust your intuition with the boss, at work and around those whom you look up to. Only positive results will come from a domestic matter. Tonight: In the limelight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★★ You might be overwhelmed by what is going on. Others bombard you with ideas and suggestions. Listen carefully to information, but don't buy into what you hear until you confirm it. Unexpected news concerning money and/or love might surprise you. Tonight: Look to the long term.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★★★ Close relating brings unusual surprises on the homefront. Your perspective could change radically as a result. Pressure builds; you see others in a different light. Insights gained through events and conversations are stunning. Tonight: Fulfill another's desires.

PAMPA — Pampa opens the District 3-4A baseball season against Amarillo Caprock at 4:30 p.m. today at Harvester Field.

Pampa's 9-9 record is the best non-district mark among the six district teams, but the Harvesters will be looking to snap a two-game losing streak.

Caprock finished non-district play with a 5-7 record.

"Caprock's not playing very good right now, but they have some talented players. They've got several seniors on the team," said Pampa head coach Dennis Doughty.

Doughty looks for the three playoff spots to be up for grabs.

"Everyone gets a new start now," Doughty said. "It should be an interesting race."

PAMPA — Pampa Kids and Youth Club will still be accepting registration forms on Saturday, Apr. 3, from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the MPAC center (located between the high school football and baseball fields.)

There will be no try-outs or draft. Registration fee is only $20 and scholarships are available.

Also, the club will be introducing CO-ED softball for ages 13-15 and 16-18. Players will form their own teams.

To keep costs down, Kids Club is accepting any good baseball and softball equipment or charitable contributions.

For more information, please contact Sonny or Tinde Haskins at 669-7762 or 669-6732.

GOLF

PAMPA — Hidden Hills public golf course had a three-man scramble last weekend to raise funds for a cart trail.

Results are as follows:

Love Flight

First flight: Howard Musgrave, John Darby and Jeff Henderson 62.

Second flight: Phil Grant, Jim Brashears and Larry Andrus 64.

Third flight: Jerry Steed, Buster Kelley and Tim Whipkey 64.

Fourth flight: Ron Loter, Bill Hammer and Jerry Stephens 68.

Woods Flight

First flight: Jerry South, Lee Garcia and Larry Etchison 67.

Second flight: Larry Schneider, Glen Downs and Leroy Morris 67.

Third place: Loyd Stephens, Dale Haynes and Bob Brandon 68.

Fourth place: Bill Harwood, Harvey Malone and Carl Johnson 70.

Buster Kelly had a hole in one Friday on the No. 15, 169-yard hole. He used an 8-iron for his second hole in one. Witnesses were Jerry Steed, Brenda Kelley and Scott Harrellson.

Pampa teams tied for district golf lead

AMARILLO — Both the Pampa boys and girls golf teams are tied with Borger after the first round of play Monday in the District 3-4A Tournament.

Pampa coach Frank McCullough was pleased with the first-round performance of both his teams, especially the boys.

"The last two or three years our boys dug themselves a hole starting out and they had to try and dig themselves out. A couple of our guys didn't play well or we could have been in the lead, but I'm satisfied where we are," said McCullough.

Nathan Banner's 2-under-par 70 paced the Harvesters for the medalist lead.

Pampa's Alison Piersall has the medalist lead in the girls' division with a 76.

The second round of the district tournament will be played April 8 at Pheasant Trails in Dumas.

Longhorns are leaving

AUSTIN (AP) — With Major Applewhite firmly holding the starting quarterback spot and the Cincinnati Reds promising a call up to the major leagues this season, Adam Dunn said Monday he is leaving the Texas football team to pursue his pro baseball career.

Junior fullback Josh Spoerl and sophomore tailback Eric Tasby also said they are leaving and plan to transfer to other schools.

Dunn, a second-round draft choice by the Reds in 1998, said the team guaranteed he would be called up to major-league club by Sept. 1.

"This was an extremely difficult decision because I love football and I really enjoyed my time at Texas, but the Reds offered me an opportunity I could not refuse," Dunn said. "You don't get many guarantees in life and the Reds have offered me one."

Reds officials did not return phone calls Monday.

Dunn's future at quarterback appeared greatly limited once the Longhorns signed USA Today high school offensive player of the year Chris Simms, who is expected to assume the No. 2 role behind Applewhite.

A redshirt freshman, Dunn had even moved to tight end for part of spring practice before moving back to quarterback for the annual Orange and White intrasquad scrimmage on Saturday.

UConn claims crown

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Now everyone knows what Jim Calhoun knew all along. Connecticut had nothing to fear.

It was apparent in the UConn coach's eyes as he walked on the court for his first national championship game. It was proved beyond all doubt when Ricky Moore did what most great players need the ball to do.

"I wanted to shock the world," said Moore, whose defensive stop on Trajan Langdon in the final seconds gave Calhoun and the Huskies the national title with a stunning 77-74 victory over Duke.

It was the moment Calhoun and his former and current players have been thirsting for all these years. It was the upset that almost no one believed could happen.

Everyone except Calhoun and his supremely confident players seemed to believe the game was a mere prelude to the Blue Devils' coronation as one of the best college teams ever. Instead, it was UConn (34-2), a team touched by tragedy and chased by memories of shots and games that went against them too many times late in March.

No more.

"The kids knew better," said Calhoun, who finally got the prize he's chased for 27 years. "They knew they were going to win. They were going to beat the best, and they did beat the best. As of this moment, we're the best team in the country."

Calhoun can finally say that because he had a pudgy little point guard with no shame in his game, the most tenacious defender in America and the perfect game plan to beat the team everyone thought was invincible.

"I'm no better a coach than I was three weeks ago, and no worse," Calhoun said. "Everybody thought I had to do something. I didn't have to do anything. All I had to do was be true to my kids and coach the best I could and that's what I've done."

UConn could finally celebrate when Khalid El-Amin dribbled past Elton Brand for a daring jump shot in the final minute, and Moore forced Langdon to travel with 5.4 seconds left.

Richard Hamilton, the most outstanding player of the Final Four, capped a tremendous tournament with 27 points, and Moore added 13 points. UConn's tireless defense double-teamed Brand, the player of the year, every time he touched the ball. Brand had 15 points and 13 rebounds, but never got a chance to take over the game.

"They were just fighting every possession every time I touched it," Brand said.

For Duke and coach Mike Krzyzewski, all the talk about their place in history — on Tobacco Road and across the land — must be put on hold. The Blue Devils (37-2) saw their 32-game winning streak stopped.

Fraschilla new Lobos' coach

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The New Mexico basketball team says it's behind new head coach Fran Fraschilla, and point guard John Robinson says reports of his departure have been blown not only out of proportion — but out of the water.

"I'm not going anywhere," said Robinson, who last week told a Houston television station he was considering transferring because Lobo ex-coach Dave Bliss was gone to Texas.

Now, says Robinson, "I'm not going to leave. I was thinking about it, but now we got Coach Fraschilla. I'm not going anywhere.

"We're all starting new. I just can't wait for the first day."

Says Robinson: "It's going to be refreshing."

Juniors Roland Hannah and Damion Walker said they, too, are eager to get started with Fraschilla, who was signed Saturday to replace Bliss, now at Baylor.

Fraschilla, 40, is meet Tuesday with UNM president William Gordon and with the Lobo players at the annual team banquet.

Lobo junior Lamont Long said Fraschilla's appointment won't stop him from entering the NBA Draft in June, but Fraschilla said Long would do well to stick around for a year.

"If he stays," the new coach said, "I will enhance his draft status."

Long said Sunday that he hasn't budged on his decision to make himself eligible for the draft.

"It really doesn't matter who the coach is," he said.

Mavericks fall to SuperSonics

DALLAS (AP) — Seattle SuperSonics coach Paul Westphal didn't take any chances with the Dallas Mavericks.

When a 21-point lead dwindled to 14 midway through the fourth quarter Monday night, Westphal sent his starters back into the game.

They quickly pushed the lead back to 21 and then coasted to a 109-101 victory over the Mavericks behind 20 points each from Detlef Schrempf and Gary Payton.

"That was not an insurmountable lead," said Westphal, whose team is off to a disappointing 15-13 start. "I put the starters back in and we were able to get the lead back up."

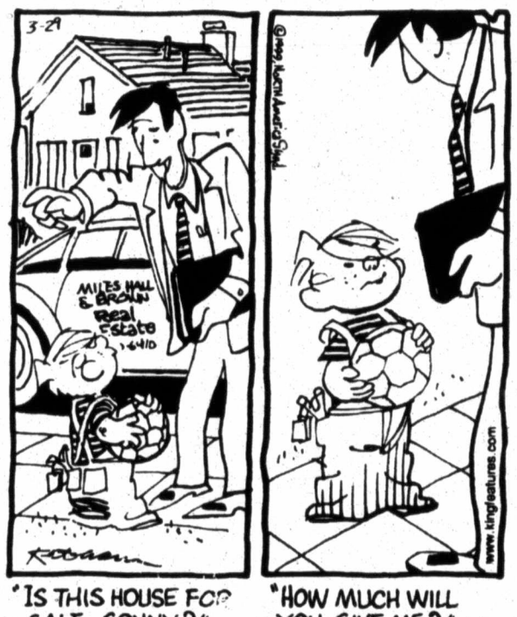
Bad finishes haven't been the Sonics' only problem this season. Slow starts also have plagued them.

That's why they were determined to open the game with energy against the fading Mavericks.

The Sonics raced to a 15-4 lead, making seven of their first 10 shots, while the Mavericks started 2-for-14 from the field.

"The way we've been playing, there's no easy game," said Schrempf, who was 7-of-10 from the field and 2-of-2 from 3-point range. "Our goal was not to have a slow start, to set an aggressive tone early. We've been getting behind by 10, and it's an uphill battle. We're learning that we can't just turn it on and turn it off."

Billy Owens added 15 points, John Crotty 11 and Dale Ellis 10 for the SuperSonics.



"IS THIS HOUSE FOR SALE, SONNY?" "HOW MUCH WILL YOU GIVE ME?"

OPERATIONS ANALYST

Seaboard Farms, Inc., a division of Seaboard Corporation is a fully integrated producer and marketer of pork and pork products. Located in the Oklahoma Panhandle, Southwest Kansas and Northeast Colorado, Seaboard has become an industry leader in the pork business.

We are seeking a dynamic individual to join our company in the role of Operations Analyst. This position will provide expertise in design and implementation of large system change and interventions aimed at strategic and short term objectives.

All candidates should possess good organizational skills with the ability to coordinate and manage multiple tasks simultaneously, strong verbal and written communication skills, and be self directed, independent, and able to work in a team environment.

Qualified candidates must possess a BS in Accounting/Finance or related field.

Seaboard offers excellent salary and benefits package, including relocations assistance.

Send resume to: Charlene Ferguson, P. O. Box 1207 Guymon, OK 73942.
