Builder Of Queer "Gull" Plane Killed In First Flight

FATAL CRASH ENDS INITIAL EXPERIMENTS

Leonard W. Bonney, 52, Meets Death With Invention

CRASH OVER LAKE

Unidentified Plane Falls Into Water And Explodes

CURTISS FIELD, L. I., May 4. (UP)—Leonard W. Bonney, designer and builder of a peculiar type of airplane equipped with a special radial motor and wings fashioned after a bird, was killed late today when he attempted a test flight with the plane.

Today was said to be the first time Bonney ever attempted to fly the plane, which went into a nose dive and crashed to the ground.

The "Bonney Gull" had been here about two years and on many occasions during that time Bonney had taken the plane out for short "ground hops" to familiarize himself with the handling of the controls.

His plane had attracted much attention because of its extraordinary construction. On the ground the plane had the appearance of a huge bird. Its wings were long and tapered.

Bonney, who was 52 years of age, was a pioneer commercial pilot and had been experimenting with his curious plane since it was damaged a year ago in an attempted take-off.

Today he announced to a few spectators he would take the "Gull" up for a flight.

The plane was rolled on the field and Bonney jumped into the cockpit. He had climbed to a height of about 80 feet and had headed the plane toward a golf course, a short distance from the flying field.

Then watchers say the plane suddenly fell nose-downward to the ground. It crashed and Bonney was thrown 50 feet clear of the plane.

Selecman Attacks Al On Dry Stand

S. M. U. President Delivers Stinging Denunciation at Methodist World Conference Session

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 4. (US)—An unexpected stinging denunciation of Governor Al Smith as the presidential nominee of the Democratic party, by the Rev. Dr. C. P. Selecman, president of S. M. U. Dallas, Texas, created a sensational furore in the Methodist general conference today.

Bearing greetings from the Methodist church of the south, Dr. Selecman spoke of the hope of unification of the two ecclesiastical bodies and said:

Speech Applauded

"We will also join with you in support of our flag, and of our constitution, and against the vicious propaganda going on amongst us of the south in the attempted nomination of a man who stands for the nullification of the constitution on the Eighteenth amendment, and who if he succeeds will make the phrase 'solid south' become merely a memory of the past."

Delegates jumped to their feet, and broke into cheers and vociferous applause.

More excitement prevailed as the Rev. Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism, read the resolutions on temperance. Enemies of prohibition were declared "to have defied the government and to advocate sedition and anarchy in the nullification of the constitution." Both political parties were called upon to write into their platforms a demand for law enforcement and to nominate only men who will guarantee strict enforcement.

The resolutions also called for a commission of five Methodist bishop who will "personally convey this to the platform committee of each party."

No More Silence

"The church can no longer be lulled into silence," it was urged, "or inactivity by evasive promises, indecisive declarations or uncertain candidates for political office."

Bishop Francis J. McConnell, Pittsburgh, Pa., will preside at the church trial of Bishop Anton Bast, Copenhagen, Denmark. The trial will begin tomorrow behind closed doors at the Ararat temple. Seventeen ministers will compose the ecclesiastical jury.

15,000 GREET 'IRON HORSE'

First Train Rolls Into Throckmorton

By FRANK HALL
Staff Correspondent

THROCKMORTON, Texas, May 4.—The first iron horse—the 10-coach Cisco & Northeastern train—arrived in Throckmorton Friday morning and tonight this little West Texas town of some 1500 persons was linked with the outside world by rail for the first time in history.

The railroad and home coming celebration was pronounced the greatest event in Throckmorton's history and between 10,000 and 15,000 people from miles around gathered here to welcome the first official train to run over the new 39-mile extension of the C. & N. E. road from Breckenridge.

With J. Q. Prickett, engineer, at the throttle, the train arrived here shortly after 10 o'clock and the dream which many of the old pioneers had held for two score years was at last realized.

Right-of-Way Thronged

Shrieking of the train's whistle and clanging of the bell, mingled with shouts of cowboys and cowgirls from the nearby ranches marked the arrival of the train. The right-of-way was crowded for nearly a mile and so dense was the crowd that the parade which followed had trouble in forming and starting its route to the business section of the town.

Celebrating the occasion with the ranchmen, pioneers, railroad and business men, were Kiowa and Comanche Indians, the latter erstwhile inhabitants of Throckmorton, where the government once maintained a reservation for the red men.

Speeches delivered by Lieutenant Governor Barry Miller, who was a passenger on the Cisco-Breckenridge special, and gubernatorial and senatorial candidates, featured the morning's program after the parade was concluded.

Mr. Miller was the principal speaker of the day. The one candidate for governor to address the crowd was Louis Wardlaw of Fort Worth. Four United States senatorial candidates, Col. Alvin Owsley, Congressmen Tom Blanton and Tom Connally and Mrs. Minnie Cunningham made short talks.

Other Speakers

Other speakers included Col. R. Q. Lee of Cisco, who is credited by citizens of Throckmorton as being the originator of the rail extension from Breckenridge to this city; Dave Tandy, Fort Worth; J. B. Payne, vice president of the Texas and Pacific railroad; Ollie Webb, assistant to the president of the same road; R. W. Haynie, Abilene, president, and Homer D. Wade, general manager, of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce; Judge A. H. Carrigan, Wichita Falls, and Col. R. L. Penick of Stamford.

A rodeo, live wolf chase, cowboy sweepstakes races and an old fiddlers contest were featurse on the program. Pages of history were turned back when the Indians killed two buffaloes with their arrows, using the same tactics employed years ago when the animals roamed by the thousands upon the broad prairies of Texas.

A special train brought a delegation of about 150 from Fort Worth. Many of the surrounding towns "closed doors" for the day and attended the celebration in a body.

Rat Terriers Found Alive After Being Entombed 14 Days

AUSTIN, May 4. (AP)—"Bobby" and "Fat," two little rat terriers owned by C. F. Bach, here, today were recovering from an experience that few human beings could withstand.

They were buried alive for 14 days when they became stuck fast in a rat hole near Bach's home. Only through a lucky accident were they discovered.

Bach said they disappeared two weeks ago. They were believed stolen. Nothing was heard of them until yesterday when W. P. Connelly, who lives near Bach and conducts a floral establishment, decided to exterminate some of the rabbits which had been gnawing on his plants.

He took a shovel and went across the road into the adjoining woods, found what was either a rat or rabbit hole, and started to dig. He heard a squeak and dug further. Finally, 10 feet from the beginning of the hole, and two feet under ground, he found "Fat." The dog's leg was caught fast in a root and "Bobby" was imprisoned farther down the tunnel.

WIDOW ASKS MERCY FOR ACCUSED MAN

"May God Forgive You As I Do," Says Mrs. Zimmerman

MURDER BILL VOTED

Woman Asks State To Drop Plea For Death Penalty

"I forgive you, boy."

With tears streaming down her cheeks Mrs. Theodore Zimmerman Friday morning in the district attorney's office heard Jack Nagie's plea that she forgive him for the part he had in her husband's death on April 13.

"May God as freely and as willingly forgive you the sin as I forgive you," she told Nagie.

Allred Arranges Meeting.

"Mrs. Zimmerman," the frank blue-eyed youth who is accused of Mr. Zimmerman's murder had begged the storekeeper's widow, "won't you forgive me the evil I have done? I am ready to pay the penalty, whatever it may be. But I do want to know that you, despite what I have done, forgive me. It will make me feel better to know that."

A meeting between Mrs. Zimmerman and Nagie, 24, pipe line worker who was indicted by a grand jury Friday for the murder of Mr. Zimmerman was arranged by District Attorney Ben Allred at the request of both parties.

The widow and the accused slayer of her husband met in the district attorney's office. There was no accusation from the woman. There was no defiance from the boy.

"I don't want them to give you the death penalty," the mother confided. "Mr. Zimmerman would not have wanted that, either."

Her kindness was more than Nagie could stand. For the first time since reaching Wichita Falls he broke down. All the remorse and regrets which he had been holding, flooded his face.

"I didn't want to shoot him," he cried.

Earlier in the morning Mrs. Zimmerman had asked District Attorney Allred not to ask for the death penalty.

Indictment Voted.

The prosecutors, however, indicated that unless present plans were changed they would seek the maximum, the state's "life for a life."

The grand jury which indicted Nagie Friday morning adjourned about 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon without returning any other bills. The trial date, which the prosecutors have asked be made as early as possible, had not been set Friday night.

Nagie has not obtained counsel, but friends from Lindsay who visited him Thursday afternoon told him his relatives would be here Saturday, he said.

Meanwhile the accused man is being held in the county jail without bond by orders of Judge W. W. Cook.

Naval Seaplane Breaks Record Endurance Flight

PHILADELPHIA, May 4. (AP) Making an unannounced flight at the Philadelphia navy yard, the PN-2, a naval seaplane, has broken the world's endurance record for C-2 type planes.

Piloted by Lieutenants Arthur Gavin and Zeus Souck, the plane at 9 o'clock eastern standard time had been in the air 29 hours and six minutes, a half hour longer than the old record made by Lieutenant C. H. Schildhouer in a PN-9 plane two years ago.

Commander Ralph D. Wyerbacher, head of the aircraft factory at the navy yard, who has been in constant communication with PN-2 through a blinker system, said the seaplane was expected to remain aloft until midnight.

FOREIGNERS IN GRAVE DANGER

Chinese Nationalists Loot City of Kaishek

LONDON, May 4. (US)—Foreign residents of Tsinan, which is overrun by 30,000 soldiers of the Chinese nationalist army, who are apparently out of control of their commanders, were being subjected to artillery fire tonight, according to the Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Express.

SHANGHAI, May 4. (US)—Fear that foreigners may have suffered heavily in the looting of Tsinan by Chinese Nationalist troops was heightened tonight by reports from the fighting zone that General Chiang Kaishek, commander of the Nationalist army, had declared the city under martial law. This action bears out reports that the Nationalist general has been unable to control his troops by ordinary discipline. There are at least 30,000 troops in the city.

Three thousand Japanese troops are in the city.

The Japanese government has ordered 5,000 additional infantry to Tsinan from Tsing-Tao, and three destroyers are en route to Chinese waters to reinforce other Japanese ships now in Chinese ports.

In the fighting between the Japanese and Nationalists, which began yesterday and continued through the night, hundreds of Chinese were killed and injured. Japanese casualties were six dead and 33 wounded.

PEKING, May 4.—The United States ministry here failed today in efforts to communicate with the American consulate in Tsinan where there has been heavy fighting between Chinese Nationalists and Japanese troops. Efforts to learn from American commercial firms the fate of Americans in the district also failed. The latest advices were that fighting between the Chinese and Japanese is continuing.

Severe Storms Delay Start of Last Lap of Italia's Flight to North Pole

LONDON, May 4. (US)—A severe electrical storm raging over northern Norway has frustrated plans of Commander Nobile to hasten his polar expedition.

The dirigible Italia, in which he expects to fly over the north pole, was struck by lightning this afternoon at Vadsoe, Norway, where it had stopped to refuel before proceeding to Kings Bay, Spitzbergen. The dispatch said the envelope of the dirigible was torn by the bolt, but did not indicate whether the damage would delay the flight seriously.

Simultaneously came reports from Kings Bay that a heavy storm there made it impossible for the Italia to be moored in the specially built hangar while it took on supplies for the polar trip.

Nobile arrived at Vadsoe this morning and expected to leave tonight on the 800-mile trip to Kings Bay. However, before the Italia was damaged by lightning at Vadsoe, Nobile received word from Kings Bay that snow was falling there and a wind of gale proportions had damaged the hangar. He was advised to postpone the flight.

The Italia left Stolp, Germany, at 3:23 a. m. Thursday, and arrived at Vadsoe at 9:10 this morning, requiring nearly 26 hours for the 1100-mile journey. Headwinds slowed the ship down and it got off its course twice last night when Nobile lost his bearings over the Gulf of Bothnia.

$5000 LOSS IN THEATER FIRE

Mission Loses Stage Equipment

A $5000 fire "stopped the show" at the Mission shortly after 6 o'clock Friday evening just as Jack Perrin was starting to thrill the audience in "Thunderbolt's Tracks," the feature picture.

No one was on the stage at the time the fire started as Burt Southern's Vanities company and the stage crew had finished the afternoon performance. Cause of the fire is unknown.

The small audience of supper hour movie fans was watching the early portion of the feature film when a red glow suddenly showed through the silver screen to the right near the entrance to the stage property room. It spread rapidly and the audience moved quietly to the rear of the auditorium to watch the blaze. Spectators remained until driven out by smoke.

Scenery Destroyed

The stage scenery stacked against the walls was damaged, and the hanging scenery all was destroyed as was the screen. Costumes and equipment of the afternoon's show were destroyed.

The dressing rooms upstairs were only slightly damaged. Some of the personal belongings of employes were destroyed and damaged.

The piano and organ in the orchestra pit were damaged slightly by water, and the auditorium of the theater escaped with damage from smoke and water.

A. L. Stubblefield, traffic officer, saved from probable destruction the $250 violin belonging to Miss Rachel Parker of the Mission orchestra. The intrument had been left on top of the piano after the afternoon show. With clothes around his face, he faced the heaviest part of the fire to make his way into the orchestra pit to save the valued instrument.

Hotel Guests Frightened

Jimmy Johnson was on the door at the theater when he first saw the blaze through the screen and reported it to Mrs. J. A. Conner who was on duty in the box office. At the same time, Humpy Green, motion picture operator who was in charge of the projection room, reported the fire.

Guests of the Mission hotel, next door to the theater, were frightened out of their rooms by the smoke.

The Mission theater building is owned by V. E. Stampfil and Mrs. R. H. Roberts. It is operated by the Dent Theaters, Inc., of which T. B. Noble, Jr., is the Wichita Falls manager. Charles Moorehead is the manager of the Mission.

Walsh's Withdrawal Is Considered Help To Republicans

WASHINGTON, May 4. (US)—Yielding to the "logic of events," Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, today withdrew as a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination in favor of Governor Al Smith of New York.

When informed of Senator Walsh's statement, Senator James A. Reed, democratic candidate for the nomination, issued a fiery statement declaring that he would continue to fight.

By FRANK GRAHAM
The Record News Staff

Instruction or uninstruction of delegates will be the paramount question which Democrats of Wichita county and the state of Texas will decide at their precinct conventions Saturday afternoon.

YOUR PRECINCT

The eyes of the United States will be turned Texas-ward as they have not been in the past. Texas' vote for Al Smith would all but guarantee the New Yorker the necessary two-thirds majority for the democratic nomination. Should Texas citizens Saturday elect delegates to the county conventions uninstructed as to candidate but instructed as to platform, then Al Smith's nomination would be practically assured, according to the views of political observers.

A Possibility

But should Texans decide not to swing on the Smith band wagon which has been clamoring down the political track with ever gaining momentum, there might be some faint chance of stopping the New Yorker. Should the voters, instead, instruct their precinct delegates to the county conventions to vote against Al Smith at all times, there is a possibility, remote and improbable, that the New York governor may be stopped at the Houston convention.

Saturday the people individually have their final opportunity to make known their wishes in regards to the presidential nominee. After that representatives must speak for most of them.

Despite announcements of state political leaders that the fissures between three factions of the party have been bridged, observers declare that bitter fights over instruction against Al Smith and uninstruction as to candidate of the delegates to the county conventions will be fought in thousands of precincts over Texas Saturday.

In Wichita county the battle is expected to be particularly hot.

Hot Fight Here

Here, several months ago, the so-called "Constitutionals," fighting for absolute instruction against the Empire state man, had their inception. Here, too, plans for a campaign for uninstruction of delegates as to candidate were born.

Three choices, then, will be left to the democrats of Wichita county. Whatever their choice, they must support the nominee of the party or break a party pledge.

Qualified white democratic voters at precinct conventions at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon can se-

Cabinet Member Finds Old Steel Mill Crony in Capital Elevator

WASHINGTON, May 4. (UP)—Two men rode an elevator in the National Press building.

One was tall, with the wrinkles of a long, well-lived life creasing his tanned face, and wore the brass-buttoned uniform of an elevator operator. The other was portly and distinguished looking, with a fringe of grey hair protruding from under the crown of his polished derby hat. He was wearing evening clothes, white tie and a flimsy silk scarf which whipped in the breeze of the elevator shaft.

"Is that you, Jim Davis?" the man in the uniform asked.

"Yes," the other answer cautiously.

"Don't you remember me?" the first continued. "We used to work back-to-back in the steel mills at Birmingham more than 30 years ago. I was a puddler, too."

"Is that you, 'Alabama Joe?'"

"Yep, it's me. I heard you were around Washington. You're the secretary of labor, aren't you?"

James J. Davis, of the president's cabinet, nodded.

"Do you remember old George Wheeler?"

"Yes, he got fat—"

"And he died—"

The secretary of labor and the elevator operator stood recalling memories of three decades ago, of sweating men, of white-hot running metal, of strikes and incidents in the eighties. Elevator rings went unheeded by one and an important dinner waited on the other.

"Well, I have to go," the labor secretary remarked, "but I want to talk to you again. Come around and see me at the office."

"Old 'J. J. J.,'" the elevator operator—Joseph H. "Alabama Joe" Carter—remarked as the robust figure of the cabinet officer swung through the corridor. "The first time I've seen him in more than 30 years. He's a good guy."

Wichita Falls Man Wins $8490 Verdict In Triple Appeal in Insurance Case

Charles Fricker of Wichita Falls Friday was given a verdict awarding him $8,490 damages for total disability resulting from two accidents suffered while in the employ of the American Refining company. The verdict was reached in a three-cornered trial in 89th district court where two insurance companies sought to show that the other was liable for the full extent of damages and Mr. Fricker showed total disability.

Mr. Fricker was injured in an accident on May 28, 1924. At that time a heavy barrel of material crushed his leg. He was away from work for several days, testimony developed, but was believed to have been cured. However the first injury left a knot on Mr. Fricker's knee which bothered him occasionally. At that time employer's liability of the American Refining company was handled by the Texas Employers Insurance association.

On May 20, 1927, Mr. Fricker was again injured. While he was trying to move a concrete block, the testimony showed, an iron bar slipped and struck him on the knee which previously had been injured. Infection set in and on the following August surgeons found it necessary to amputate his leg at the knee. At this time Mr. Fricker was insured with the Association Indemnity corporation.

The Texas Workmen's compensation bureau ordered that the insurance companies, jointly, pay Mr. Fricker for loss of his leg. Three appeals to the court resulted.

Mr. Fricker appealed from the award, claiming total disability.

The Texas Employers Insurance association appealed, claiming that the injury of 1924 had been completely healed and that the Associated Indemnity corporation was liable for the full extent of damages.

The Associated Indemnity corporation, on the other hand, held that Texas Employers Insurance association was liable, claiming that the first injury alone would have resulted in the inflammation and subsequent amputation and total disability.

After about two hours deliberation the jury Friday brought in a verdict finding each insurance company liable for $4,245 and Mr. Fricker totally disabled.

The suit opened in the 89th district court Thursday morning. Judge P. A. Martin, presiding, declared that several issues involved were without legal precedent.

The Associated Indemnity corporation was represented by Touchstone and Price of Dallas; the Texas Employers Insurance association by Boone and Duff of Wichita Falls; and Mr. Frickers by Hicks and Williams of Wichita Falls.

Chief Justice and Accusing Lawyer Come to Blows in High Court Probe

PORTLAND, Ore., May 4. (AP)—A near riot and a fist fight today disrupted the opening hearing of an investigation of the Oregon state supreme court.

John T. Rand, chief justice of the supreme court, and George Joseph, attorney whose charges resulted in the investigation, were the combatants.

The justice and the lawyer swung wildly at each other after Judge Rand called Joseph a liar and Joseph replied that the judge was the "biggest liar I know of."

Cries for the sheriff arose, Joseph stumbled and fell and members of the special investigating committee mingled with deputy sheriffs in an effort to restore order.

The united efforts of a dozen men quelled the disturbance.

Rand and Joseph were before the committee as witnesses.

The altercation arose from a charge by Joseph that Judge Rand had purchased an option on an eastern Oregon mine which he knew soon would be involved in litigation.

Man Badly Wounded In Battle With Cops

TULSA, Okla., May 4. (UP)—Charles Fray, 37, Tulsa, was in a hospital seriously wounded as the result of a gun battle with officers who attempted to arrest him in connection with the murders of Fray's divorced wife and his wife. He is said to have confessed to the slaying of his wife because she refused to permit him to see his former wife.

Russian General's Son Deported From U. S.

LOS ANGELES, May 4. (US)—Found to have illegally entered the United States from Mexico, Dmitri Dragomaroff, son of a czarish general of Cassocks, started on his way back to Russia today. He will sail from New York next week.

The United States exported to the Far East last year products having three times the value of those shipped 18 years ago.

TINKLE, TINKLE

City Cash Register Waits Fees From Street Salesmen

If the tinkle of the ice cream wagon bell greets the ears of Wichitans or if the night call of the hot tamale vendor steams its way through the ether, it must be backed up by a city license, according to a warning issued Friday by W. R. Hyer, city tax collector.

"With the advent of vegetable peddlers, ice cream wagons and all manner of similar things which spring weather brings out, we have the annual job of checking up for licenses," Mr. Hyer said.

"As is our custom, we first ask for their cooperation in obtaining the licenses. In the past the big majority have been willing to get their licenses on time, and we appreciate it. We hope that this year will be no exception."

FUTURE WARS DEMONSTRATED

100 Planes Take Part In Army Maneuvers

LANGLEY FIELD, Va., May 4. (US)—War of the future as visualized by this day's terrific aerial bombardment will largely be destruction from the skies.

Score of planes bombarding and blasting away with machine guns at 2000 targets and diving and twisting a mile above the earth in the throes of aerial combat gave thrilling proof of what will happen when next the war drums roll their call to arms.

100 Planes Used

In this greatest aerial sham battle staged by Uncle Sam since the world war, more than 100 planes participated. High chiefs of the army, senators and representatives of congress and foreign air attaches watched the spectacular maneuvers.

The climax came this afternoon when the army air corps' new attack planes swept across a long line of targets representing infantry and artillery in marching formation.

These death spitting speed planes are the most deadly instruments of war yet conceived. Two machine guns are concealed under the motor hood, their muzzles shooting a stream through the propeller. A machine gun is built in each wing, only the business end protruding like the nozzle of a hose. Two more machine guns are operated by a gunner from the rear cockpit.

Like a Reaper

The pilots of these planes dove over targets at 125 miles an hour and 100 feet above the ground and turned on the deadly blast. The withering fire, supplemented by a rain of small shrapnel bombs, cut down the targets like a reaper in a wheat field.

These planes, of which the air corps now has 25, came from Fort Crockett, near Galveston, Texas. Major Frank D. Lackland was in command.

Meanwhile an army observation balloon moored a half mile above the earth was shot down in flames by three planes who dived upon the helpless "sausage" and let loose with incendiary bullets. It was destroyed in less than one

Spectacular Fight

Twenty-five bombardment planes in close formation under Major Hugh J. Knerr of Langley field were attacked by 25 pursuit planes, the crack group from Selfridge field, Michigan, under Major Lanphier. This was the most spectacular aerial battle of the day. Following this, four planes laid a smoke screen across the field at 150 miles an hour, darting but 50 feet above the ground. They blanketed the whole field in a protection against enemy attack.

INDICTMENT IN EMBEZZLEMENT

Houston Man Held in Los Angeles Jail

HOUSTON, May 4. (INS)—William B. Goodrich, Houston Telephone company official, now held in jail at Los Angeles, today was indicted by the Harris county grand jury on charges of embezzling $10,000 from Louis C. Phelps, local attorney.

Goodrich has been missing from his home for 10 days when the report of his arrest by Los Angeles officers was received.

Although the grand jury is expected to investigate Goodrich's accounts for the telephone company, involving more than $500,000, W. G. Winters, manager of the local telephone office, declared that a check of his accounts show them to be in perfect condition.

Mechanics Speed Up Work On Hart Plane

12 Workmen Injured In Gas Main Explosion

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, May 4. (UP)—Twelve men were injured, three seriously today, when a subterranean gas main on which they were making repairs exploded. A friction spark apparently ignited the gas.

Safe and Sane Relief for Pain

Capudine is the logical agent to relieve pain and high nerve strain because it gives relief by soothing the nerves—not by deadening or doping them. It contains no opiates.

A Boxing Record

NEW YORK.—The worlds long distance boxing record was revealed by Charles Alexander Mason and Carl Hollander, upon their return from Southampton on the steamship Lapland. They had boarded the Majestic at New York to say good-bye to some friends. There was still time to spare so they started a sparring bout in the ship's gymnasium. They were still boxing when the ship pulled anchor. Later, they reached the deck in time to wave farewell to the twinkling lights of Manhattan. At Southampton, because they had no passports, they could not get ashore and were transferred to the Lapland for the return "bout."

TEXAS CROPS ARE BACKWARD

Cotton Especially Has Bearish Outlook

AUSTIN, Texas, May 4.—Geo. B. Terrell, commissioner of agriculture, issued a general crop survey today which shows that practically all crops, and especially cotton are backward. The report follows:

"We have sent out no questionnaires to our regular correspondents this month upon which to base official reports, and will make no regular report of acreage and conditions of crops before June 15th, when plantings will be finished.

"This report is based upon a limited number of private reports and general weather conditions.

Wheat and Oats.

"The acreage of wheat and oats is supposed to show a very slight increase over last year and the general condition is poor, indicating a light yield. The crop is late and backward because of cold weather, and insufficient rain in the main grain belt. Good rains soon and warm weather would improve the condition.

Corn and Grain Sorghums

"Corn acreage is probably not increased and the condition is poor as much corn was damaged by recent frosts, and will be later than usual in sections wehe frosts prevailed. Texas ought to grow more corn.

"The planting of grain sorghums will continue until late in June, and no correct estimate of acreage can be made but plenty of this feed will be planted in sections where it can be grown. Texas will raise enough feed of this kind, if seasons are favorable.

Vegetable Crops.

"The movement of winter vegetables in the lower Rio Grande valley, and in the winter garden district has been large and prices on some of these crops have been satisfactory, but too low for profit on other crops. The most of these crops are now off the market, but onions are just now in a good way of moving, and the prices while not as good as expected, will justify the growing.

Tomato and Peach Crop.

"The tomato acreage was considerably increased, but the late frosts damaged the crop considerably after the plants were transferred from the cold frames to the fields. The damage was probably as much as 25 per cent, and this will offset the increased acreage, and the total production may be less than last year. It is too early to tell whether the prices will be satisfactory. The crop will be later than last year, unless the seasons are very favorable during May.

"The peach crop is safe so far, and a very good crop is expected, on orchards that have been well cared for.

"The cattle, sheep and goat industry is prosperous, and the prices of cattle, wool and mohair are good, and the business seems to be in a very healthy and prosperous condition though rains are needed to improve the range.

Outlook for Cotton.

"The planting of cotton will continue until sometime in June, and it is impossible to estimate the acreage at this time. Indications are that the acreage will be slightly increased because of backward seasons, and the failure of some other crops.

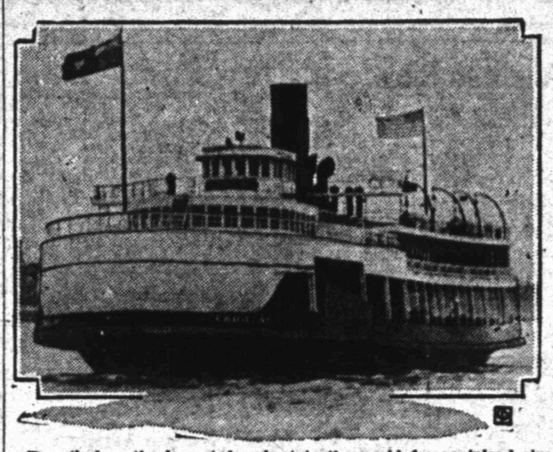

A considerable acreage of cotton was killed by late frosts, and these crops had to be planted again. The state prison farms had a good deal of cotton killed. These late plantings will make the production more uncertain.

"Reports from Georgia, Alabama, and some other states, indicate serious damage to the cotton crop by heavy rains, and floods, which shold reduce acreage to some extent, but the use of fertilizer for cotton in those states has been increased, which will probably offset the losses from other causes.

"Considering the cotton outlook as a whole, it seems that the acreage and production may be slightly increased over last year, and we can stand an increased production of two million bales without any reduction in present prices, because the future position of cotton is strong. Cotton has now reached 21c per pound and it may go higher, but we should not lose our senses because of this and plant all the unplanted land in cotton and break the price below the cost of production.

"Wheat is now almost two dollars per bushel and corn is more than one dollar and the outlook for prices is very favorable. Let us hold to our present strategic position and reap a rich harvest this fall."

FAMILY ASKED ABOUT FRAUD

Panola County Farmer And Sons Quizzed

TYLER, May 4. (INS)—The government today continued to present its testimony in the trial of O. R. Davis, former merchant and farmer of Clayton, Panola county, his four sons and a daughter, all of whom are charged with conspiracy to violate the national bankrupt act, and with concealing assets from R. P. Dorough, trustee of the bankrupt estate.

Great interest is being shown throughout this section in the case, which is being heard before Federal Judge W. L. Estes. Seventy-five witnesses have been subpoenaed by the government from various parts of the United States.

Davis' petition for bankruptcy was filed Nov. 3, 1927, and the indictments were returned at the January term of the U. S. district court here. Gentry, Gray and Gentry, of Tyler, are attorneys for the defendants, and United States District Attorney Randolph Bryant of Sherman, and Claude Light, special agent of the department of justice, are representing the government.

Orange Field School Destroyed by Fire

ORANGE, Texas, May 4. (AP)—The Orange Field school building and its contents valued at $25,000 was destroyed early today by fire of unknown origin. Insurance covered $10,500 of the loss.

Great Dane Throws Fear Into Citizens

MILWAUKEE, May 4. (INS)—It wasn't a tiger after all. And it wasn't an elephant nor a hippopotamus which frightened a residential district of Milwaukee earlier today.

It was a dog.

While police were rushing frantically, albeit cautiously, in search of the beast which had been described of prehistoric proportions, Edward Schroeder complained to gun squads his great dane was missing.

Later police found the "tiger" placidly gnawing at a bone provided by Herbert J. McQuine, school janitor, who had found the animal roaming the streets.

Young Wichita Falls

Jim is a quiet young man but he does manage a hearty "hello" every time he hears the telephone ring. Oh, no, not into the receiver, but what difference does that make?

Jim is really James Taliaferro (pronounced Tolliver) Montgomery which is enough name to do him for some time to come. He is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Allan D. Montgomery, 1301 Buchanan street.

He is not Jimmy even to his friends. He is the proud possessor of a pair of handsome dark eyes and sandy hair (no, not red hair.)

Jim is particularly fond of books and papers, which might mean that he is soon to be a newspaper man or author, or it may mean that he is going to be a real live man and keep himself informed on all questions of interest.

School - College Notes

Erratic ringing of the bells of the Junior college gave the signal Friday morning for the fire drill, the first one held this year. It was as an aid in keeping the insurance rates of the city low that the drill was made. In a very short time 1750 students were spread out on the campus at one time, a situation that rarely occurs.

CLASS PICNIC.

Members of the two Junior college zoology classes went for a spring frolic Friday afternoon down on the Wichita river to the west of the town. Picnic lunches were taken and enjoyed as were also games.

RUMMAGE SALE.

College students of both classes are cooperating to make the rummage sale sponsored by the annual staff a success. It is being held at 504 Indiana, there the business management has asked al persons capable of helping to call.

ARCHERY CLUB.

Dues for the Archery club were decided on Friday morning. Unlike most of the scholastic clubs the Archery club is planning to maintain the organization throughout the summer and go directly into the work next year under the leadership of Ed Sutton as president and E. S. Bolton as sponsor.

GIRLS CLUB PROGRAM.

Miss Martha Ellen Hines, chairman of the Girls club program committee, had charge of the program of the club Friday morning. Mary Tancred opened the meeting with a devotional. Miss Tancred is an ex-student of the high school and Junior college and ex-president of the Girls club. Imogene Willis gave a reading. A piano solo was played by Dorothy McCloud.

Ramblin'

with Marie Theresa

A CHAIR of American history is soon to be established in a London university, in an effort to further that spirit of understanding and unity of thought and purpose which should exist between these two nations which have sprung from a common root.

If to understand all is to forgive all, as the French say, then this step will be another step toward the ideal of world citizenship which has been the inspiration of many a conference and the despair of many a world patriot.

When the English read up on our past and come to a point of understanding our present, then, maybe they will cease to treat America like a rebel child who has never quite grown up.

LOCAL workers in Parent-Teacher service will be interested in knowing that the national congress of P.-T. A. which has just recently convened in Cleveland, urged the enlargement of Parent-Teacher work in every city, village and town, to react to the benefit of youth in America for generations to come.

For the first time the organization had before it a concrete plan for organizing parents, teachers and home life in the rural sections of the country, for the purpose of improving school and social conditions of the children there. These plans resulted from the holding of the first rural life conference in connection with the convention, prior to its opening.

ANOTHER relic from the age of chivalry. When the women of Kentucky acquired equal suffrage, they drew jury service as responsibiity along with the new privilege of casting the ballot. But not all the courts in Kentucky are equipped for mixed juries, according to Representative Virgil Eversole of Harlan, Ky., who introduced a bill in the legislature making jury service optional for women. The measure whereby women merely have to tell the court that they "do not choose to serve," has just become a law.

Predicament—He Loved Twins

Because he loved both of them, Meredith and Virginia Howard, vaudeville twins, Xavier T. LeRoy, son of a Canadian lumber king, has taken himself off from his home in Montreal to seek gold in the latest rush in Manitoba, Canada. At Montreal the three, shown above, decided to call it off.

E. L. SCOTT
Exclusive Central Press Dispatch and Record News

OTTAWA, Canada, May 4.—"If there are twins, be sure to fall in love with only one of them." That's how Xavier T. LeRoy, of Montreal, son of the Canadian millionaire lumber king, feels about it. Admitting his failure at love-making with twins, in three different countries, LeRoy has announced that he has finished with the Cupid stuff forever, and has departed with a crew of prospectors to follow the lure of gold in Manitoba, scene of Canada's latest "rush."

LeRoy's story, as he himself tells it, dates back to the autumn of 1927, when, visiting friends at Dayton, Ohio, he met Miss Virginia Howard, appearing with her twin sister at a Dayton theater. It was a case of love at first sight.

Later on he met Miss Meredith Howard, the twin sister, and fell violently in love with her.

The show moved on. LeRoy followed, in love with one of the twins first, then off with this and in love with the other. The attraction covered the United States—so did LeRoy.

Then it moved to Cuba. LeRoy was right along. Back to the United States—and by this time the twins were hoping that the French Canadian Romeo would make up his mind.

Parents Step In

The attraction moved to Canada—LeRoy's native heath. Then storm clouds loomed, and temperamental differences cropped up. If LeRoy became engaged to one of the twins he faced court action from the other and vice versa.

LeRoy's parents talked about tightening up on the weekly allowance. The girls talked about their careers—Broadway and the Follies.

Friends of the youth's were going out to seek gold in Manitoba. Would he join them? He did.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helps Her So Much

Cleveland, Ohio.—"I sure recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any woman in the condition I was in. I was so weak and run-down that I could hardly stand up. I could not eat and was full of misery. A friend living on Arcade Avenue told me about this medicine and after taking ten bottles my weakness and nervousness are all gone. I feel like living again. I am still taking it until I feel strong like before. You may use this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. Elizabeth Toso, 14913 Hale Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

WEAK, NERVOUS, SICKLY, PAIN IN BACK AND SIDES

"For some time, I had been having an awful time with pains in my back and sides," says Mrs. Robert Creasy, of Quin, Mo. "This awful hurting would come on me, and I could find nothing to ease the pain. "My head would ache until I felt as if it would split open.

"I was very weak and nervous. It looked like the least little thing would upset me. I was cross with the children, and I had no patience for anything. Often, when I would get up in the morning, I would have to go back to bed, I was so weak. I dragged through my work, but it took all my strength to do it.

"I tried many remedies, but nothing did me any good until I started taking Cardui. I had read how Cardui had helped others, and so I wanted to try it, myself. I took it for several months, regularly. At the end of that time, I was in good health, and have been so ever since. I gained in weight, my appetite was good, and I was able to do all my housework without it hurting me."

Dorothy Dix Advice To Women—A Daily Feature

WIVES NEED MOST ADVICE

Feminine Partner Has To "Hold" Her Mate

Why Wives Need Advice on Holding Their Husbands More Than Husbands Require the Reverse Information—Pathetic Problem of the Only Child Whose Parents Quarrel Over Him—Dealing With a Deadbeat Brother.

Dear Miss Dix—Why is it that the wife has the job of holding the husband instead of the husband trying just as hard to hold his wife? Why not tell the men a few things about how to keep a wife's love instead of always picking on the woman? —A WOMAN.

Answer: Well, the reason why I hand out more advice to women about how to hold their husbands than I do to men about how to hold their wives is: First, because it is more important to a wife to keep her husband than it is for a husband to keep his wife, and, secondly, because it is a lot harder thing to do. Holding a husband is a ticklish job and one about which every woman needs all the information she can possibly get.

To a woman marriage means not only the satisfying of her mating instinct and her heart's desire for love and companionship but her career as well. When she marries, she nearly always gives up whatever gainful occupation she was following or that she might have followed if she had not married, and she devotes her time, her energy, her intelligence, her ambitions to the making of a home. Therefore, it is important to her to make her marriage a success from every angle, financial as well as sentimental.

To do this she has to keep her husband interested, to keep him pleased and retain his affections. For if he gets tired of her or bored with her and falls in love with another woman and the marriage ends in divorce, it means not only the breaking of her heart but the breaking up of her home, the loss of all that she has worked for.

If this occurs, as it so often does after the lapse of a number of years, when she is middle-aged, it is utterly disastrous. She is too old then to start life afresh, too old to compete with young girls, too old to acquire the expert skill in any trade or profession that would enable her to support herself comfortably, too softened by domesticity to be able to fight her way in the commercial world. No women are more pitiful than the elderly women who have lost their homes and husbands and who are turned out from the divorce court bewildered and helpless as cage-bred animals who are thrown out in the wild to fend for themselves.

Wives have to make more effort to keep their husbands than husbands do to keep their wives because husbands are more apt to slip than wives are. Certainly the average woman is as good looking as the average man and she takes more pains to keep herself attractive. Also she is just as chummy and interesting, and there is more reason why husbands should weary of their wives than why women should not tire of their husbands.

Mr. Jones at 40 has lost his boyish figure just as often as Mrs. J. has become a stylish stout, and Mrs. J.s grizzled gray hair is no harder on the eyes than Mr. J.s bald spot. Nor is Mrs. J.s gossip about the neighbors any less a peppy line of conversation than Mr. J.s resume of the grocery business and what he said to the boss and what the boss said to him.

Nevertheless, and all this being true as herein set forth, Mrs. J. does, as a general thing, satisfy herself with her matrimonial bargain, such as it is, and doesn't often let her thoughts go straying after handsome young sheiks. Whereas, only too often, alas, Mr. J. finds that domesticity palls upon him and he kids himself into thinking that he is too young for his wife and strays off after the flappers.

One man satisfies most women, but, as Mr. Howell once observed, after 2,000 years and more of Christianity men are still imperfectly monogamous. Also men have many more temptations than women have. After a woman is past her youth-and-beauty time no man seeks to wean her away from her allegiance to her husband, but the older a man gets and the more money he makes the more the vamps are after him. A poor young man is as safe as an anchorite in his cell. It is the middle-aged man with a fat bank account who is in danger.

Therefore, it behooves every wife who wants to keep her husband to be up and doing. There is never place between the altar and the grave where she can sit down and take a long breath and feel that she can rest from her labors of keeping her husband fascinated and thinking she is IT.

Of course, there is no real reason why it isn't as much up to the husband to help make matrimony a grand, sweet song as it is to the wife. The only thing is that men won't do it. If there is any adaptation to do, the wife has to do it. If there is anybody to be a ray of sunshine in the house, she has to be it. There is no justice in it. But it just happens that way in life.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a boy of 12 who finds himself in a difficult position. My home life is not a happy one, as my father and mother quarrel continually. I love them both and do not know, nor do I wish to know, who is in the wrong. When I side with my father, my mother gets mad, and when I agree with my mother, my father is hurt. How can I be neutral? I am an only child and both my parents love me, but they make me very miserable.

—PUZZLED BOY.

Answer: You have my sympathy, you poor little victim of selfish and high-tempered parents. Perhaps they do not realize what a crime they are committing in tearing you to pieces between them and bringing you up in an atmosphere of strife that is just as poisonous to you spiritually as it would be to you physically if you had to breathe continually some noxious gas.

Situated as you are, you are bound to grow up mentally warped and with your nerves shattered, for the psychiatrists tell us now that the children of quarreling parents are peculiarly liable to nervous breakdowns at middle life. One famous authority goes so far as to say that he has never known a man or a woman reared in a peaceful, quiet home who had a nervous breakdown.

I can think of no more pitiful figure than a poor little child of 12 trying to keep neutral between warring parents, listening to the complaints of each against each other, having each appeal to him for sympathy.

My advice, to you, son, is to ask your parents to send you off to school. Tell them that they are not only ruining your happiness but jeopardizing your whole life, and that if they will not keep the peace, they must send you away so that you will not be involved in their quarrels. —DOROTHY DIX.

MODISH MITZI By Jay V. Jay

They are going to meet Jack who is coming home from military school to visit the Goofer. To judge by the care that Mitzi is taking in putting on her draped turban you'd think that she was about to meet a rival of the Goofer's. "Turbans are so suitable for the tailored street dress," she remarks.

"Oh, yes, Marie, do come to the station with us to meet Jack," says the Goofer, sort of off hand, as though he hadn't been planning this all along. Marie has dressed for the hoped for invitation—wearing a most engaging frock with a pleated collar and a hat with irregular brim.

You will notice that a turban providing it is as smart as this becomes a tailored suit as well as a tailored silk dress. You will notice that there are as many types of hats as there are of clothes. You will notice that Jack is not looking at Mitzi but past her to where Marie is.

"Of course, there is room enough for them!" The Goofer and Mitzi needn't worry about it—nor about anything for they—Jack and Marie are getting on famously. Before they get home—if the Goofer will go the long way—Jack will have her all dated up. Marie is going to have heart affairs of her own to look out for.

POLITICAL CAPERINGS.

A close observation of politicians and their caperings in Texas is an interesting study. Boss Thomas B. Love has let it be known that he looks upon Senator Thomas J. Walsh as the one outstanding aspirant for the democratic presidential nomination. In addition to this, he lets it be known that before death called him away, R. Harper Kirby sent out 250,000 copies of a resolution for the pros to adopt at the precinct convention primaries, May 5. These resolutions called for instruction against Reed, Smith, Ritchie and all others who are suspected of being a bit moist or who favor a modification of the Volstead act. Boss Love tells his followers the way out of it is to adopt these resolutions wherever possible. Four years ago Boss Love placed the KKK brand on William Gibbs McAdoo against the earnest protest of many leaders of the Texas democracy. He lost. Now he has picked the K. C. or Senator Walsh as the man of the hour for the furtherance of the Love program. A most dexterous politician is the man who can carry the KKK flag in one campaign and four years later pick a K. C. banner as his standard. Walsh is a very devout Roman Catholic. There is another humorous side to the picture. Six years ago Former Congressman Robert L. Henry went up and down the byways and highways extolling the virtues of the fiery cross and all that the Ku Klux Klan represented. Now Henry is the president of the Smith-for-President club of Harris county and is challenging all comers to joint debate the reason why Governor Smith should not be the presidential nominee of the party of Thomas Jefferson. Politics is a queer game. In one campaign a politician battles for issues and candidates and tells it to the world that the republics will go to the devil unless his side wins. Two or four years later he is mingling with the crowd and fighting for the issues that he opposed in the not remote past. Perhaps it is a grand thing that most men are born without memories and that consistency is what a noted republican politician defined it to be, "The only virtue of d—d fools."

How Is Your Garden?

What kind of a garden
Have you, in your heart?
Could you show in the world
Without hiding a part?

Have you dug out the weeds,
And watered the flowers?
Do you work in the rose-beds
In your leisure hours?

Are there odious corners,
Which you don't want seen?
Have you flowers now dying
That you could keep green?

Try weeding your garden,
And keeping it clean.
Then you won't feel hurt
If it ever gets seen.

—John Self Elliott.

One-Minute Sermon

Thus saith the Lord: Refrain thy voice from weeping, and thine eyes from tears: for thy work shall be rewarded, saith the Lord; and they shall come again from the land of the enemy.

And there is hope in thine end, said the Lord, that thy children shall come again to their own border.—Jeremiah, xxxi, 16-17.

Only Voters Need Apply.

ACCORDING to a San Antonio newspaper laborers engaged in construction contracted for by that city, must be bona fide residents of San Antonio and holders of a poll tax receipt "qualifying him to vote in all elections." To make it effective the city commission adopted an ordinance covering all the ground. Are the contractors on public works bound to bow to a city ordinance?

A Vote For Sinclair.

HARRY F. SINCLAIR received one vote for president on the democratic ticket in Columbia county, according to the official vote candidacies. A jury of 12 vindicated Sinclair and removed the taint from his money. His horses have been officially recognized on the Maryland race track. Funny old world.

Big Wigwam for Indians.

COL. JESSE H. JONES makes the announcement that the Houston convention hall will seat close to 14,000 persons, with standing room for 5000 more. If it had a capacity for seating 100,000 the crush on the outside would be just the same.

Organized Labor Hits Watson.

TWELVE national leaders of twelve national labor organizations in a joint letter addressed to the organized republican wage workers of Indiana urge their Hoosier brothers to vote for the Hoover delegates on May 18 and drive Foxy Jim Watson from the presidential field. All the big chiefs of the labor organizations let it be known that they consider Hoover the best pick in the entire field of republican candidates for organized labor on the republican side of the fence. Indiana is a great railway center. Railway employes in the Hoosier state are strongly organized. If they follow the advice of the twelve national presidents they may make it interesting for Foxy Jim. If Watson goes down May 18 in the Indiana fight his face will disappear from the republican presidential picture gallery.

Attend Your Precinct Mass Convention.

ALL DEMOCRATS and Republicans in Texas should participate in their respective precinct mass conventions Saturday afternoon. These precinct conventions offer the Texas voter his only chance to register any choice in the selection of a president and the adoption of a platform of principles and policies for Texas' vote in the November election can already be registered for the democratic nominee whoever he may be.

Delegates to county conventions are to be selected in these precinct mass conventions. Resolutions for the guidance of these delegates will doubtless be offered. The action of the voters may have far-reaching effects in both political parties.

Attend your precinct mass convention Saturday and take the initial step—and in the case of Texas' voters, the only step that will really count—in the selection of a president and the adoption of a platform.

Senator Walsh Withdraws.

SENATOR T. J. WALSH of Montana has withdrawn as a candidate for the democratic nomination for the presidency. In announcing his withdrawal Senator Walsh pointed to the result of the California primary as showing clearly that the Democrats desire Governor Smith as their candidate. He said that like action in other states demonstrated the futility of advancing the claims of any other candidate to party leadership in the coming campaign.

Senator Walsh has performed a great service to the country in uncovering corruption in high places. He more than any other man has awakened the country to some sense of the dishonor that has been brought upon it and to a sense of the duty to adhere to honesty and to preserve honor. The country owes a great debt to Senator Walsh. But the candidacy of Senator Walsh for the presidency was a negative rather than a positive one in that it was being used as opposition to Governor Smith, who has already captured the imagination of the country. Senator Walsh had the pledged support of only one state—his own—but his candidacy would have been used as a rallying point to whatever opposition there was to Smith. Senator Walsh, we believe, has correctly interpreted the results of the primary in California and the Smith strength in other states as indicating that the party desires Governor Smith as its candidate.

We believe he is doing a service to his party and honor to himself in withdrawing his candidacy so that the nomination of Smith at Houston will come promptly and with acclaim.

RESULTS OF THE MEMPHIS REVIVAL

It will be impossible to measure the results of the cooperative revival which has just been brought to a close. The number of conversions and reclamations is possibly known to the various churches who participated. Also, it is not unlikely that the ministers of our city know pretty well who, among their church members, have signified their intentions of quitting cards, dancing and other pleasures condemned by the evangelist.

NO PLACE FOR A CAUTIOUS MAN

Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of reptiles at the New York zoo, returned recently from a trip to Honduras. In Honduras he and his party investigated snakes. They found snakes there so poisonous as to make the American rattlesnake seem innocuous; snakes which, when only a few hours old, can kill a man in a few minutes. And they handled these snakes; captured them, made pets of them, extracted their venom for future analysis, spent all their time studying them.

Flying an airplane has its risks. But we'd rather do that than go poking around tropical jungles after eight-foot snakes that are more deadly—and numerous—than the cobras of India.

When ready to serve, add a generous sprinkling of chopped parsley and a teaspoonful of whipped cream to each plate.

Thin strips of Melba toast may be used if desired.

Questions and Answers

Question—W. J. K. writes: "Thanks for your interesting subjects which I read daily in the paper. Will you please tell me if you approve of my habit of taking one teaspoonful of Epsom salts in water every morning? Will this aid in reducing? What is your opinion of Epsom salts?"

Answer—The Epsom salts treatment which you are using will induce much bile elimination and frequent bowel movements. This will aid in reducing but, of course, it is not advisable to carry on such treatment indefinitely.

Question—Mrs. H. G. asks: "With what foods may we combine non-starchy vegetables?"

Answer—Non-starchy vegetables may be combined with any other article of food. But remember, when combining with the carbohydrates, or starches, no proteins should be used. Combine with either protein or starch, but never with both at the same time. I will be glad to send you an article on food combinations.

Question—R. S. writes: "I have been troubled with eczema on my face and arms for some time. What diet or treatment do you advise?"

Answer—All you need to do is to combine your foods properly so that you will not have an over-acid stomach. Also, the skin may be peeled off with the sunburn produced from the use of the ultra-violet light. A few days' fasting is usually enough to make any skin eruption disappear, but the steady diet of well balanced meals is necessary to a permanent cure.

DINNER STORIES

No Music

"There's the piano," she said. "Please play something."

He rose to his full graceful height, pushed back his long black hair, and adjusted his cuffs. He sat before the piano. Something was amiss. He searched. How he hunted! He turned despairingly.

"Gloria," he groaned, "where is the slot?"

Poor Chap!

Jack: "So she turned you down, eh?"

George: "Yes, I always was unlucky at love. Why, if I had been Adam, I'll bet Eve would have remained an old maid."

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE

FLATIRON BUILDING

NEW YORK, May 4.—Broadway is never without its big spender. The gentleman who fills the role, currently, is Frederick Perry, visiting owner of American-patronized resorts in Cuba.

Like the famous Diamond Jim Brady, he thinks it's lots of fun being a sucker if you can afford it. The way he is flinging money around is the talk of Times Square.

Leaving Texas Guinan's club the other morning, he distributed $500 bills to a solo singer, the orchestra leader and the headwaiter, and specie of other eye-popping denominations to lesser owners of itching palms.

Deems Taylor, composer of the most successful American opera, "The King's Henchman," is in Paris composing another, but he isn't living off of the royalties of his music. A hundred or two dollars each time the Metropolitan produces "The King's Henchman," which is infrequently, is all that he receives for adding an American to the list of enduring operatic composers, although every performance of the piece is crowded.

On the other hand, Billy Rose, who isn't 30 yet, has made as much as $75,000 a year from his songs, which include "Barney Google," "Don't Bring Lulu," "You've Gotta See Mamma Every Night Or You Can't See Mamma at All," and a score of others. Rose specializes on novelty songs. He started writing them while private secretary to Bernard Baruch, the financier. Now he's a financier himself.

The buds are bursting on trees in 139th street, between Seventh and Eighth avenues, where there is more overhanging foliage than in any other Manhattan block. The conventions regulating residence in this block are very strict. Children are not permitted to be noisy. Newspaper-hawkers, peddlers, solicitors and such are barred. Persons are not allowed to move in the daytime. Deliveries must be made by rear alleys. Dwellers must not lean out of their windows. Music and loud talking are banned after midnight. Only doctors or lawyers may have designations on their houses, and other signs, and stores and shops are prohibited.

This block is better known as Striver's Row ("You have to strive to get there, and you have to strive to stay there"). It is the Park avenue of Harlem's negro aristocracy.

Harry Hershfield reports that a merchant in Rivington street keeps record of all impending weddings, and after the honeymoons are over goes around and buys up the duplicates at his own price!

THE STORY THUS FAR

Spotswoode had gone out with the "Canary" the evening of the murder. When he left, he asked Jessup, on the switchboard, to call a cab. "Then," said Jessup, "we heard Miss Odell scream. We ran to her door and she called through it that everything was all right." But the next morning she was found strangled. Cleaver, known to be an intimate of the girl, is questioned but provides an alibi. He mentions Dr. Linquist, who orders Markham out of his house when the latter questions him as to his whereabouts the evening of the murder.

CHAPTER XIX

Vance shook his head in a mock discouragement.

"Really, y' know, Markham, old thing," he added, "you should study the cranial indications of your fellow men more carefully. Did you, by any chance, note the gentleman's wide rectangular forehead, his irregular eyebrows, and pale luminous eyes, and his outstanding ears with their thin upper rims, their pointed tragi and split lobes? A clever devil, this Ambroise—but a moral imbecile. Beware of those pseudopyriform faces, Markham; leave their Apollonian Greek suggestiveness to misunderstood women."

"I wonder what he really knows?" grumbled Markham irritably.

"Oh, he knows something—rest assured of that! And if only we knew it, too, we'd be considerably further along in the investigation. Furthermore, the information he is hiding is somewhat unpleasantly connected with himself. His euphoria is a bit shaken. He frightfully overdid the grand manner; his valedict'ry fulmination was the true expression of his feeling toward us."

"Yes," agreed Markham. "That question about last night acted like a petard. What prompted you to suggest my asking it?"

"A number of things—his gratuitous and obviously mendacious statement that he had just read of the murder; his wholly insincere homily on the sacredness of professional confidences; the cautious and Pecksniffan confession of his fatherly regard for the girl; his elaborate struggle to remember when he had last seen her—this particularly, I think, made me suspicious; and then, the psychopathic indicants of his physiognomy."

"Well," admitted Markham, "the question had its effect . . . I feel that I shall see this fashionable M. D. again."

"You will," iterated Vance. "We took him unawares. But when he has had time to ponder the matter and concoct an appealin' tale, he'll become downright garrulous. Anyhow, the evening is over, and you can meditate on buttercups till the morrow."

But the evening was not quite over as far as the Odell case was concerned. We had been back in the lounge-room of the club but a short time when a man walked by the corner in which we sat, and bowed with formal courtesy to Markham. Markham, to my surprise, rose and greeted him, at the same time indicating a chair.

"There's something further I wanted to ask you, Mr. Spotswoode," he said, "if you can spare a moment."

At the mention of the name I regarded the man closely, for, I confess, I was not a little curious about the anonymous escort who had taken the girl to dinner and the theater the night before. Spotswoode was a typical New England aristocrat, inflexible, slow in his movements, reserved, and quietly but modishly dressed. His hair and mustache were slightly gray—which, no doubt, enhanced the pinkness of his complexion. He was just under six feet tall, and well proportioned, but a trifle angular.

Markham introduced him to Vance and me, and briefly explained that we were working with him on the case, and that he had thought it best to take us fully into his confidence.

Spotswoode gave him a dubious look, but immediately bowed his acceptance of the decision.

"I'm in your hands, Mr. Markham," he replied, in a well-bred but somewhat high-pitched voice, "and I concur, of course, with whatever you think advisable." He turned to Vance with an apologetic smile. "I'm in a rather unpleasant position, and naturally feel a little sensitive about it."

"I'm something of an antinomian," Vance pleasantly informed him. "At any rate, I'm not a moralist; so my attitude in the matter is quite academic."

Spotswoode laughed softly.

"I wish my family held a similar point of view; but I'm afraid they would not be so tolerant of my foibles."

"It's only fair to tell you, Mr. Spotswoode," interposed Markham, "that there is a bare possibility I may have to call you as a witness."

The man looked up quickly, his face clouding over, but he made no comment.

"The fact is," continued Markham, "we are about to make an arrest, and your testimony may be needed to establish the time of Miss Odell's return to her apartment, and also to substantiate the fact that there was presumably some one in her rooms after you had left. Her screams and calls for help, which you heard, may prove vital evidence in obtaining a conviction."

Spotswoode seemed rather appalled at the thought of his relations with the girl becoming public, and for several minutes he sat with averted eyes.

"I see your point," he acknowledged at length. "But it would be a terrible thing for me if the fact of my delinquencies became known."

"That contingency may be entirely avoided," Markham encouraged him. "I promise you that you will not be called upon unless it is absolutely necessary . . . And now, what I especially wanted to ask you is this: do you happen to know a Doctor Lindquist who, I understand, was Miss Odell's personal physician?"

Spotswoode was frankly puzzled. "I never heard the name," he answered. "In fact, Miss Odell never mentioned any doctor to me."

"And did you ever hear her mention the name of Skeel . . . . or refer to any one as Tony?"

"Never." His answer was emphatic.

Markham lapsed into a disappointed silence. Spotswoode, too, was silent; he sat as if in a revery.

"You know, Mr. Markham," he said, after several minutes, "I ought to be ashamed to admit it, but the truth is I cared a good deal for the girl. I suppose you've kept her apartment intact. . . ." He hesitated, and a look almost of appeal came into his eyes. "I'd like to see it again if I could."

Markham regarded him sympathetically, but finally shook his head.

"It wouldn't do. You'd be sure to be recognized by the operator—or there might be a reporter about—and then I'd be unable to keep you out of the case."

The man appeared disappointed, but did not protest; and for several minutes no one spoke. Then Vance raised himself slightly in his chair.

"I say, Mr. Spotswoode, do you happen to remember anything unusual occurring last night during the half-hour you remained with Miss Odell after the theater?"

"Unusual?" The man's manner was eloquent of his astonishment. "To the contrary. We chatted a while, and then, as she seemed tired, I said good night and came away, making a luncheon appointment with her for today."

"And yet, it now seems fairly certain that some other man was hiding in the apartment when you were there."

"There's little doubt on that point," agreed Spotswoode, with the suggestion of a shudder. "And her screams would seem to indicate that he came forth from hiding a few minutes after I went."

"And you had no suspicion of the fact when you heard her call for help?"

"I did at first—naturally. But when she assured me that nothing was the matter, and told me to go home, I attributed her screams to a nightmare.

"I knew she had been tired, and I had left her in the wicker chair near the door, from where her screams seemed to come; so I naturally concluded she had dozed off and called out in her sleep . . . If only I hadn't taken so much for granted!"

"It's a harrowin' situation," Vance was silent for a while; then he asked: "Did you, by any chance, notice the door of the living-room closet? Was it open or closed?"

Spotswoode frowned, as if attempting to visualize the picture; but the result was a failure.

"I suppose it was closed. I probably would have noticed it if it had been open."

"Then you couldn't say if the key was in the lock or not?"

"Good Lord, no! I don't even know if it ever had a key."

The case was discussed for another half-hour; then Spotswoode excused himself and left us.

"Funny thing," ruminated Markham, "how a man of his upbringing could be so attracted by the empty-headed, butterfly type."

"I'd say it was quite natural," returned Vance . . . . "You're such an incorrigible moralist, Markham."

Measuring out . . . each delicious tablespoonful

It wasn't so long ago that people used to remark on the fact that Wesson Oil makes such a delicious French Dressing.

Now it's taken for granted. . . Watch your hostess as she mixes her dressing when the salad is served—as she tilts that lovely crystal cruet you've always admired and measures out so charmingly each tablespoonful of pure rich oil.

Of course she uses Wesson Oil! . . . Who indeed doesn't, these days?

For here is an unusually choice salad oil. Pure. Wholesome. And deliciously good to eat. . . Made from the finest oil obtainable and refined over and over again until it has that clear, pale straw color that tells the story of its own goodness.

And such an exquisite delicacy of flavor! Flavor that blends perfectly with all the other ingredients that go to make a really piquant French Dressing. . .

By the way, have you tried Wesson Oil for frying and for cake making? It makes food taste much better and it's very convenient to use.

By FRITZ KREISLER

Kreisler does not make automobiles—he makes music. He is a composer of violin and piano selections, has written several operetta scores and is conceded to be the world's foremost violinist.

"Music hath charms." Her beauty's up-to-date.
At Kreisler's touch she starts to scintillate,
Although his art aims not the mob to please.
You'll find no kitten on our Fritz's keys.

Kreisler was born in Vienna fifty-three years ago. At the age of 7 he appeared in his first concert. At the age of 10 he won first prize and a gold medal at the Vienna Conservatory. When he was 13 he made his first tour of this country as a child prodigy giving concerts with Moritz Rosenthal, the pianist. He has later toured the United States several times in concert.

Mr. Kreisler owns one of the most valuable violins in the world, the Josef Guarnerius del Gesu of 1737.

Here is a story he told me that he's laughed over.

"At a village concert in England an ambitious vocalist rendered 'Kathleen Mavourneen' with few aspirates. One line he achieved as follows:

"'The 'orn of the 'unter is 'eard on the 'ill.'

"Later, a squire, who was the chairman, took the soloist aside and, after complimenting him on his voice said:

FRITZ KREISLER

"'But you know, George, you ought to make an effort to sound your aitches.'

"'Can't be did, sir,' replied George, triumphantly, 'there ain't nothing beyond G in moosic.'"

Manual Training Class Adds to Club Fund

Special to The Record News.

ROCHESTER, Texas, May 4.—At a meeting of the community club of O'Brien, four miles north of here, several articles of furniture made by the manual training class of the club were sold, the proceeds going to the club fund. J. P. West, president of the club, made the principal address of the program.

Announcement was made that the O'Brien club scored 117 points on its exhibit at the county school fair recently held at Haskell. This score was in advance of the nearest competitor in class B exhibits by more than a hundred points, and within seventeen points of the class A champions. Loving cups for the victors were presented at the meeting.

SCHOOL PLAY SUCCESSFUL

ELECTRA, Texas, May 4.—The three-act comedy, "The Deacon's Entanglement," presented by the pupils of the Enterprise school on Wednesday night was a decided success. $31.50 was realized from the venture, which will be applied on the piano fund.

STEIN BESTS STEENGRAFE AND CATS TIE SPUDDERS FOR LEAD

FITZ' HOMER IS UNAVAILING

Champions' Misplays Cost Waco's 3 to 2 Win

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

Looks as if about all a left-hander has to do to beat the Spudders is to throw his glove into the diamond, a gesture in baseball like Teddy tossing his hat into the political ring. It isn't giving away any secret that the champions are impotent against southpaw chucking. Yesterday was no exception and another of those pesky portsiders trimmed the Williamsmen out at the lot.

Stein was the villain in yesterday's pastime and he defeated our nine 3 to 2 to give the Waco Cubs the final of the series.

It was a sad day for the Spudders all around. The hated rivals, the Houston Buffs and Fort Worth Cats each gained a full game on the Spudders. And Milt Steengrafe against was the victim in losing a ball game by one run.

Fitz Third Homer

Howard Fitzgerald hit a home run in the first inning, a mighty clout over the right field wall, his second in two days and third of the season. But there was no comrade on base, though the Spudders had two other knocks, one a double, and a base on balls in that round.

Two more knocks were unproductive of run-getting in the second and thereafter, with the exception of the seventh when two base hits were bunched for a run. Mr. Lefty Stein was master of all he surveyed.

Faulty support aided the Cats in winning, all of the Cubs' three tallies being made with the help of misplays. They shelled 10 hits off Steengrafe but Milt was effective in the pinches and with creditable support would have won the ball game. Steengrafe, however failed to run to first on a missed third strike that MIGHT have scored a run. But that's only conjecture. Anyhow—

The Cubs accorded Stein very excellent aid, their one error not counting in the tallying, while two double plays helped turn back the home nine.

The day's play enable Fort Worth to tie the Spudders for the league lead.

Cubs Win in Fourth, Fifth

Fitzgerald's homer put the Spudders ahead in the first but the Cubs scored two runs in the fourth. Pratt singled to left. Brown was safe on a hit to deep short. Swenson threw wild to first on Shires' bunt, filling the bases. Hooten lifted to Fitzgerald, Howard making a perfect throw home, holding Pratt at third. Wolgamot skied deep to Fitzgerald, Pratt scoring. Brown scored and Shires went to second on a double steal, Cobb throwing high over second.

The enemy counted another in the fifth, which was to prove enough to win. Mallonee singled to right after one was out. Benton booted Blackerby's hard grounder, Mallonee going to third. Pratt's sacrifice fly to Fitzgerald scored Mallonee.

Wichita Falls scored the final run in the seventh. Benton singled to left with one out and tallied on Turgeon's double to the same territory.

Notes of the Game

George Payne probably will oppose the San Antonio Bears today in the opener of a three-day series at Athletic park.

It is the first appearance here this campaign of Frak Gibson's dangerous San Tone club and also will be the last series at home for the Spudders for two weeks.

More than 2,000 viewed the pastime yesterday, despite the cold weather.

Jimmy Battle, a third baseman with Little Rock Southern association club last year and recently a Chicago White Sox, will report to the Waco Cubs today at Fort Worth.

Swenson made a corking stop and throw of Windle's harsh grounder far to his left in the fifth.

Blackerby crashed into the fence in trying to field Turgeon's foul in the seventh. George escaped injury.

Indians Compete In State Meet Monday

FORT WORTH, May 4. (AP)—Athletes from eight colleges will gather in Fort Worth Monday for the annual track and field meet of Texas Junior colleges. The meet will be held at T. C. U., Athletic Director L. C. Wright of T. C. U. having offered the use of the stadium and athletic field to the visitors. The following schools will be represented by track teams:

North Texas Agricultural of Arlington, John Tarleton of Stephenville, Wichita Falls Junior, Hillsboro Junior, Paris Junior, Wesley of Greenville, Texarkana Junior and Gainesville Junior.

One For the Book

Cy Williams, grand old slugger of the Philadelphia Nationals, has a good one told on him.

Williams is noted for his happy habit of conserving his energy and never wasting any effort. Perhaps that is why he is still a feared warrior with the club, long past the age when ball players are supposed to be very dangerous to the opposition.

Cy is also able to slough of the worries that are apt to wear out a nervous player.

About four years ago the Phillies were playing a series in Boston. Some one, historically minded, decided that a sight-seeing trip through the historic New England metropolis would be in order.

Williams joined the party. The trip included a visit to Bunker Hill, where the "redcoats" were checked; to the scene of the famous Boston Tea Party, and to other leading points of history and culture in the Hub.

The players were wide-eyed at what they had seen—sights cherished by all Americans.

When the bus returned to the hotel Williams was found dozing serenely in a rear seat. He had slept through it all.

"Well," Williams said unblushingly, "I couldn't help it—it was such a perfect day for a nap."

Ritt's Ritticisms

BY BILL RITT

Something must be done about our track athletes and the way they dress during spring tryouts. They all try for a record but the only thing most of them catch is a cold.

Football players may die for their dear old alma mater, but the cinder squad risks double pneumonia.

Linen trunks never turned back a spring breeze and you can't keep warm by adding an extra pair of cleats to your shoes.

Once there was an athlete who froze for a week before the coach gave him a chance to do his stuff. And then he was too stiff to run.

A college track star is a fellow able to shiver in several languages and still call it sport. He gives a first-class imitation of Gilda Gray without, however, the pay.

And what is the reward the quivering athlete receives for six weeks of freezing? He is given a nice, heavy sweater about the middle of June—when it's too warm to wear it.

Jack and Estelle Co-Star On Stage

Dempsey and Wife To Be Highest Paid Actors

NEW YORK, May 4. (UP)—Jack Dempsey signed a contract today to fight again—not in the prize ring but in a dramatic play entitled "The Big Fight."

The former heavyweight champion and his wife, Estelle Taylor, will play the leading roles in the play, written by Max Marcin and Milton Herbert Gropper, which will be produced this fall by Sam Harris and Albert Lewis under the personal supervision of David Belasco.

Salary Exceeds Jolson's

Dempsey and his wife, it is said, will receive the highest salary ever paid to anyone on the stage. The highest previous figure is understood to have been $12,000 paid to Al Jolson.

Dempsey will fight two rounds in the play, and the contract calls for him to be in the best possible physical condition.

Play Opens in Fall

Jack will do his acting under the same financial arrangement he did his fighting—a guarantee and a percentage—figuring that he will be able to pack them into a theater just like he did a prize fight arena.

The play will go into rehearsal the last week in August and probably will open at one of the biggest theaters on Broadway in September.

DAILY DOPE

By LARRY DAILEY

THE WACO CUBS lack much of the powerful team that was runner-up in 1927 to the Spudders. Indeed, the club led by Del Pratt, on their showing in their first series here will do well to finish fourth if that high. Lack of punch and pitching loom as the chief defects of the Cubs.

◇ ◇ ◇

Ace Elliott has been the only consistent winner this spring and such chucking will demand a flock of runs, which the batters can't furnish. Wolgamot is a capable catcher. Shires is an excellent all-around first baseman. Pratt is not hitting but Del, who led the loop in macing last campaign, doubtless will again be dangerous at bat when warm weather sets in. The supplanting of Brown at third base by a satisfactory player will complete a very good infield, with Wayne Windle ranking as a capable shortstop.

◇ ◇ ◇

GEORGE BLACKERBY, the local youth who batted at a terrific clip last campaign, has again started macing to indicate he will clout around .350. Blackerby, with the possible exception of Pratt, is the Cubs' leading slugger. He is, in fact, a potential big leaguer and may go up after this season, his second in organized baseball. Johnson is rated as a very good outfielder and fair hitter. Mallonee and Hooten are ball players, nothing more or less.

◇ ◇ ◇

A COUPLE of hard hitters, one or two fair clouters and others of batting weakness won't provide a direful attack. And with such pitching as it is indicated the Cubs will have they needs must score a lot of runs to win many ball games.

A FAN has written my contemporary, the estimable Mr. Parker, protesting, and with good reason, the squawking of their wares by pop, cigar, peanuts, etc., vendors. One sitting in the grandstand hears the following batteries announced by Red Phillips:

"Battreez for the home club, peanuts and popcorn; for the visitors, chewing gum and cigars."

Captain Smith of the longhorn team went 24 feet, 3½ inches in the broad jump. The conference record is 23 feet, four inches, which was excelled also by Sheppard of Texas, who took second place Friday.

Hargis of Texas put the shot 46 feet and 9 inches, three inches better than Baldwin's conference record.

Electra Looms Track Winners

Finals of State Scholastic Meet Today

AUSTIN, May 4. (AP)—Final tests in skill, wit, and athletic prowess will be held Saturday, third and last day of the Texas university inter-scholastic league, by survivors of the 1200 to 1300 contestants participating in Friday's elimination contests for 560 schools throughout the state.

Qualifying heats in the track and field competition hampered by cold rain and a heavy track, promised little in the way of new records in the Saturday afternoon final meet, but the sun came out late Friday and the story may be different. Electra high school, which won the meet last year, qualified enough men to enhance its chances of winning again. Greenville high also showed up good in the qualifying rounds, but these two aggregations will meet some stiff competition from the big city high schools, such as Brackenridge high of San Antonio, San Jacinto of Houston, Oak Cliff of Dallas and Fort Worth central.

Davis of Freeport and Goddard of Waco stood as likely candidates for the dash events.

As the result of a hectic day of elimination Austin will meet El Paso Saturday afternoon for the state boys' doubles tennis title. In the girls' doubles, Columbus will play Mabank for the title.

'Punch Drunkeness' Is Mental Ill And Not Physical, Says Old-Timer

Larry McGrath, Former Boxer and Now Referee, Asserts That Absorbing Socks On Chin Not Always Harmful

By DAMON RUNYON
Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service

NEW YORK, May 4.—I offer you this morning, with his text, "Punch Drunkenness," none other than Mr. Larry McGrath, an old-time boxer in these parts, and more recently a well-known referee on the Pacific coast.

Mr. Larry McGrath is now back in New York, his hair silvered by going without a hat in California, rather than by the years that have skipped over his knob. He was one of Jimmy McLarnin's seconds in James' battle with Sid Terris at Madison Square garden, and is suspected of complicity in the flaming green robe that James wore on that auspicious occasion.

Well, anyway, it seems that Mr. McGrath has been giving this matter of punch drunkenness some thought, and he has come to the conclusion that it isn't altogether the smacks the boys receive in the ring that makes them go tippity-toe along the strasses, with their noggins nodding.

McGrath's Evidence.

He brings forward as evidence, among others, his pal, Mr. Tom Kennedy, formerly of New York, now of Hollywood and the cinema. I wish Mr. McGrath had picked another subject, for it chances that I know Mr. Kennedy quite well. It is quite true that he is not punch drunk, as Mr. McGrath asserts, but McGrath overlooks the fact that Mr. Kennedy wound up his pugilistic career quite muscle bound.

It was not due to his efforts in the ring, however, or to any of the evils attendant thereon. Mr. Kennedy has admitted to me in confidence that he got that way chinning himself on the horrizontal bar at Mr. Dowling's in the good old days.

Mr. Kennedy is now quite a fellow in the cinema. He depicts such characters as northwestern mounted coppers, and always gets his man, or else.

He has what appears to be a slight nervous affliction of the right hand, but I believe this is nothing more than a habit which is reminiscent of the days when he was managed by Mr. Dapper Dan McKetrick. It came from trying to get first grab at the dough-re-mi, ahead of Mr. McKetrick.

Bank Roll Not Proof.

But speaking of punch drunkenness, which Mr. Kennedy hasn't, I am not so sure that Mr. McGrath's arguments, as exposed below, that a guy who manages to lay up his pennies must necessarily be o. k. mentally, holds water. I know a number of former gladiators who have plenty of cash on hand, but who are none the less slightly jabjotty in spots.

I name no names. You may not lightly cal a man slap-slappy in the public prints, and hope to escape John Civil Law. However, it is my belief that fully 90 per cent of the ex-gladiators who are accounted daffy are that way not as a direct result of the sluggings they got in the ring, but from disease, domestic disasters, or financial troubles.

Possibly if they hadn't been fighters they might have escaped the impediment in their mental processes, but that is merely a matter of conjecture. They might conceivably have blown their toppers, as we say at the club, had they been plumbers, or undertakers.

But I am tresspassing upon Mr. McGrath's time, and notions.

Here he is:

McGrath's Version.

"The many stories printed recently of boxers becoming 'punch drunk' has made me sit up and take notice. This is my version:

"To begin with I am thoroughly convinced that it is not caused by punches either in the ring or training encounters. If that is so there should be another name for it.

"If a person develops a complex on any one particular subject they eliminate from their mind or thoughts everything else. For instance, we take the bird with a religion complex. He becomes fanatical and in time is mentally unbalanced. The same applies to any one who becomes over-interested in a certain subject, be it religion or some other.

"The boxer who becomes 'punch drunk' is one that eats, sleeps and talks fights. He becomes a fanatic, the mind weakens until it is unbalanced. In the business world it is different. A man comes in contact with many people who readily discuss topics of the day. Which is a welcome relief. The boxer afflicted does not take advantage of such an opportunity if it should present itself. His conversation is limited to fights and fighters.

Healthy and Wealthy.

"Jim, Jeffries, Tom Sharkey and Jack Dempsey took many hard punches in their time. Could anybody say these men are 'punch drunk'? They have fine health and are pretty good business men. There are too many others to recall. But this one I will recall. He was, I believe, the first light-heavyweight champion of the world. He bears the mark of many hard thumps received in the prize ring. He accumulated a fortune, possibly a million dollars. And he had to compete with the intelligents, too. His name is Jack Root.

Still another is Tom Kennedy, a heavyweight of the "white hope" days. He got some good wallopings. Just the other day Tom moved into his new $40,000 home in Hollywood, Calif. If punches affected the mind Kennedy would not have accomplished what he did in a financial way.

"One more I would like to mention is Tommy Ryan, ex-middleweight champion, who is a successful business man, and still going strong in the real estate game in Culver City, Calif. He is said to be a very wealthy man.

Would Ban Rabbit Punch.

"There is one blow used in the ring which I think is more destructive than all others put together. And it is a foul in every sense of the word. That is the well known RABBIT PUNCH.

"The punch, which is delivered to the back of the neck, seems to hurt the spine, which in turn, has a sort of paralytic effect on the legs. There is no reason why the officials of the boxing game should not stop this deadly foul blow. The ruling against the rabbit punch should be just as drastic as that against a blow struck below the belt."

HEENEY TELLS OF WILD ROW

Tom Relates Escapade When He Was Younger

NEW YORK, May 4. (UP)—Tom Heeney, the man who fought his way to a match for the heavyweight championship of the world, never has been heard to boast of his prowess in the ring.

But let Tom get started telling about what a rough and tumble fighter he used to be, and spinning yarns about hair raising adventures in out of the way places and with outlandish companions, and the ruddy New Zealander gives his tongue free rein.

On the roof of Madison Square Garden, Tom began playfully to talk of some of the scrapes he's been in before he reached the stage when fighting paid him thousands of dollars a minute.

It started with talk of Tom's hands, which are covered with scars. The hands are tough as far as the knuckles which will be beating upon Tunney go, but they bear traces of innumerable cuts.

"How did you get them?" Heeney was asked.

Was "Bit Rougher"

"Bottles," he replied with a grin, "I used to be a bit rough when I was younger."

Whereupon Tom sprang a yarn of Johannesburg, and his triumph over six negroes, and of how he nearly lost the hands which now may make him a million dollars.

"We were having a bit of a party," said Tom. "And we ran out of whiskey. It happens, even outside the United States, you know.

"I didn't know the chaps I was with very well. They were South Africans and I was a New Zealander. One of them said he would take me to a place where we could get some whiskey. I was taken into a little private room where two bottles of whiskey were supplied, and then I noticed that everyone around was colored. He had taken me to a negro place, and it wasn't always healthy for a white man in those days.

"To make matters worse, five or six negroes crowded about the doorway to our room, asking me what I was doing there. I looked to the fellow that had taken me there to tell them, and one look at him was enough to tell me what was up. I had about 56 quid on me, and he had brought me along to get knocked on the head.

The Row Starts

"I slammed the door in the faces of the negroes, who were armed with iron bars and clubs, and backed into a corner, holding a bottle of whiskey in each hand. As they broke down the door, I swung first right and then left and broke the bottles over the heads of two of the negroes. They went down and the rest stopped a second.

"I still had the jagged necks of the bottles in my hands and I went for them, slashing and striking without being too finnicky about who got hurt. They hit me about the shoulders and body but fortunately, I didn't forget to duck and made a break for safety with a whole head.

Tom Makes Escape

"I was free of them and lit out, and when I start running there's nobody can catch me, but I didn't know the way and the next thing I knew I was running down a blind alley with the negroes yelling after me.

"At the end of the alley there was a window, and I didn't stop to say 'how do y'do.' I went right through, panes, sash and all.

"There was a man and his wife in the room asleep and maybe she didn't howl when she woke up and saw me there. They let me stay in there until the negroes went away to murder somebody else."

Two Democratic Factions in Wichita County Express Their Confidence

The two extreme factions in the democratic party in Wichita county Friday night expressed themselves confident of victory.

"Every aim of the Constitutional Dry Democratic club will be overwhelmingly endorsed by the voters of Texas when they gather in precinct conventions Saturday," declared B. D. Sartin, local leader of the constitutionals.

"In Wichita county," he continued, "we will carry at least 35 precincts out of the 39. It is possible that one of the Electra precincts may go for Al Smith and there is a chance that the 21st precinct in Wichita Falls may go for uninstruction of candidates. I'll give the 'uninstructed bunch' and the other Al Smith crowd more precincts for good measure."

The opposite view was taken by Judge A. H. Britain, leader in a movement here for instruction of delegates for Al Smith.

"It's all over but the shouting now," he declared. "Texans tomorrow will overwhelmingly instruct their delegates to county conventions to support Al Smith.

"Senator Walsh had so little support that his withdrawal means but little. It will help Smith at the conventions tomorrow, however.

"The opponents of Smith have lost heart after the many defeats their cause has suffered throughout the country. They haven't anything left to fight with if they wanted to fight. But they don't."

Charles I. Francis, state leader in the campaign for uninstruction, had little to say and would make no predictions.

"I hope Wichita county sends an uninstructed delegation to Beaumont," he said.

PARTIES HOLD CONVENTIONS

Precinct Meetings Held Over State

lect delegates to the county convention who favor Al Smith. They can select delegates who will oppose the New Yorker to the last ditch. Or they can select delegates in whose judgment they have sufficient confidence not to bind them with instructions.

Instruction for a prohibition enforcement plank in the national platform over the entire state is a foregone conclusion.

Even the "Consitutionals", most confident prophets of them all, have conceded the possibility that three precincts in the county will go either for Al Smith or for uninstruction.

That faction which favors the instruction for Governor Al Smith, quietly pursuing its way, promises nothing, claims nothing, but predicts, that "a surprise is in store for somebody."

Those favoring uninstruction of the delegates as to candidates remained reticent and uncommunicative.

Pledge Decision

In addition to selection of delegates to the county conventions Texas citizens Saturday will make known their desires in regard to the pledge. The pledge, time honored oath of fealty to party principles, has been a storm center since the state democratic executive committee voted to make it a prerequisite to participation in the precinct conventions.

Beginning as a whirlwind, the clamor and clatter against it has assumed cyclonic proportions.

Tom Love, returning from each conflict defeated but aggressive, has cautioned his followers, the "Constitutionalists," to sign the pledge but disregard it, according to press reports.

Statements attributed to Dan Moody which implied unchanging opposition to Governor Smith, even though the New Yorker were nominated at the Houston convention, were vehemently denied by Texas' governor Thursday night.

G. O. P. Jubilant

Meanwhile republicans of Wichita county also will be in precint conventions at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. O. R. Hartt, republican county chairman, is predicting that a large number of Democrats, confronted by the pledge, will forsake their conventions and join the Republicans in endorsing the candidacy of Herbert Hoover.

Republican party leaders were jubilant Friday over the withdrawal of Thomas J. Walsh as a democratic candidate.

"The opposition to Al Smith in the democratic party having collapsed through the withdrawal of Senator Walsh," said Orville Bullington of Wichita Falls, state vice chairman of the republican party in Texas, "the only way Texas voters can prevent the yoke of Tammany Hall from being placed on the neck of the sons and daughters of the Alamo is by voting the republican ticket.

"The republican party in Texas is overwhelmingly for Herbert Hoover. A small faction of the party is making a desperate effort to defeat instructions of the Texas delegates for Hoover.

No Pledge

"There is no brass collar pledge in the republican precinct conventions Saturday. All we ask is that voters enter them in good faith and with the honest intent to vote for the nominee. We ask no one to violate his conscience.

"Inasmuch as Tammany has secured death grip on the democratic party, we would welcome those former Democrats who are going to follow their conscience and vote for Hoover for president in November, to join the Texas republican party and help nominate Hoover tomorrow."

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—An early advance in the cotton market today was followed by declines, but after selling off from 20.90 to 20.44, July rallied from the lowest, closing at 20.61. The general market closed steady, net 3 points lower to 1 point higher.

The opening was steady at an advance of 3 to 11 points. Active months showed net advances of 19 to 20 points in early trading. This upturn was accompanied by reports of covering or rebuying, influenced by relatively firm Liverpool cables, while there also was said to be some foreign trade buying here to fix prices.

May advanced to about the 21-cent level on this early buying movement, and there was some bullish comment on prospects for frost in parts of Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle together with the outlook for showers in the eastern belt.

The higher prices brought in a renewal of realizing or liquidation, but after showing losses of about 3 to 8 points, the midday market stiffened up again, May selling at 21.05 and October at 20.81, or about 22 to 30 points net higher on active months. Demand tapered off later, and there seemed to be some selling during early afternoon on the weather details showing light showers but more general rains in the southwest.

Some stop orders were uncovered as prices worked lower, the decline extending to 20.70 for May and 20.36 for October or about 13 to 19 points net lower and about 138 to 142 points below the high prices touched on the advance early this week. Offerings became lighter at these figures, however, and closing prices showed rallies of 12 to 17 points from the lowest on covering.

Exports today 15,508 bales, making 6,529,239 so far this season. Port receipts 22,100. U. S. port stocks 1,454,292.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 4. (AP)—Prices were without a definite trend on today's erratic cotton market, quotations at one time soaring 23 points above yesterday's close and at another dropping 22 points below. The general market closed steady, net unchanged to 2 points down.

A report circulated that the government's figures on boll weevil emergency had been released, which later was proved unfounded, caused a sharp rally during the morning hours, although this gain soon was lost on heavy liquidation by speculative long interests and favorable weather reports. At the peak, July sold at 20.65, 23 points up, but before the decline from this point had been checked, was quoted at 20.20, down 45 points from the high, and closed at 20.42 or net unchanged for the day.

Early trades showed gains of from 4 to 12 points on better Liverpool cables than due. July traded at 20.60, October 20.35 and December 20.29, 15 to 20 points above yesterday's close.

Reactionary influences took possession of the market on the appearance of the weather map showing favorable weather prevailing for the new crop and a favorable outlook. July dropped to 20.29, October to 20.05 and December 20.04, down 25 to 31 points from the day's highs.

Toward mid-session the market rallied on the unfounded report that the government had released statistics on a heavy emergence of weevils, peak prices being reached in the movement with July at 20.65, October 20.41 and December 20.37. Liberal liquidation followed when it was ascertained that the report had not been issued with the market easing off 21 to 24 points under the previous close. The market rallied after this selling pressure was relieved, closing practically unchanged from yesterday's close.

Grain

By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE
Universal Service

CHICAGO, May 4.—Wheat furnished the trade with a twister today that strained to the breaking point nerves already frazzled by its cruelty to bulls since Monday. Early in the session it went down without a parachute for more than 4 cents, struck a rock bottom and started to climb back up. At the close it was only ½ lower to ¾ higher than the day before.

Corn was erratic, but that market showed such surprising strength in the face of the weakness in wheat that to sell it, no matter how it acted temporarily, seemed dangerous. The July future never broke more than ¼ under the close of Thursday.

At the end corn ranged from ⅝ to ¾ higher; oats were ¼ to ⅜ better; rye was up 1¾ to 2¾.

All the grains looked at the finish as if they would respond sharply with higher prices today on any decided influx of buying.

The commission houses have been swept almost bare of longs. The manager of one big house told me there was not a long grain account in wheat left on its books.

William Byrnes, old timer in the flour and feed business, told me that the oats situation is as tight as he ever saw it.

The action of the corn market today was the best in many a day. Although erratic, its seesawing went on well above the low for the session. Any stimulating news might make it very strong. After the close the tip was out to buy corn.

Small Loot Taken In Asher Bank Robbery

SHAWNEE, Okla., May 4. (UP)—Robbers obtained $145 in cash by chiseling into the vault of the Canadian Valley State bank of Asher, this county, employes discovered today when opening the bank for business. The burglars did not gain access to the strong box.

About a year ago the bank was held up by a group of bandits who shot down Bailey Browden, drug clerk and vigilante, when he rushed out to the street to give battle. Browder died later in a Shawnee hospital.

Buying Spreads Throughout Stock List as Rediscount Rate Is Held at 4 Per Cent in New York

BY BROADEN WALL
Universal Service Financial Expert

NEW YORK, May 4. (US)—General Motors held the spotlight today in the strongest market enjoyed for over a fortnight. The steady demand for that Morgan-DuPont-First National motor ace together with presistent strength of Can and other standard industrials wiped out nervousness of the speculative community and buying spread throughout the list.

Even steel broke out of the doldrums and joined the upward march. Utilities vied with the industrials for leadership with Public Service of New Jersey and North American enjoying best demand. Rails were firm but rather quiet with Texas & Pacific scoring the best advance.

Tractions were the only group to sell off as the effect of profit-taking was enhanced by some short selling due to belief that there might be quite a delay in putting the Interborough's 7-cent fare into effect. Traction interests stood aside as it is their desire that no attention be attracted to "Wall street" while the question is being settled.

Call money held at 5 per cent and appeared in good supply. Sterling rallied slightly in a generally quiet and steady foreign exchange market. Cotton was in heavy supply after early advance and closed net lower, while the grain market steadied.

Maintenance of the rediscount rate here at 4 per cent was most mentioned by market mentors as the reason for the more aggressive buying of stocks. If that were correct then buyers are acting on erroneous belief as a lower rate here than in other districts is more bearish on speculative securities than bullish, as it tends to keep money away from this center. Oil stocks generally were quiet but firm, with Richfield breaking away from the group in renewed advance as group operations were resumed. Those close to Arthur Cutten advised of report that he would be offered a directorship on the Sinclair board.

CORN PRODUCTS REFINING CO.
5-Year Record

The Corn Products Refining company is the leading factor in the manufacture of starch, glucose, corn oil and syrup. It sells in bulk and also under its own well-known brands. The company is the largest consumer of corn in the country, having a grinding capacity of 45,000,000 bushels a year. The refineries are equipped to convert about one-half of this corn into glucose. Purchases have averaged about 40,000,000 bushels a year.

Operating plants are located at Chicago, Pekin, Ill., North Kansas City, Mo., and Edgewater, N. J. Plants are also maintained in France and Germany to supply foreign demand. The company has a new product called "Zuma," which was successfully introduced in the west some time ago and the concern is preparing a sales campaign in eastern territory. Zuma is a liquid chocolate compound using corn syrup.

Net income which totaled $11,558,000 in 1926, showed a 60 per cent increase over the previous year, and was the best in six years. A moderate decline was experienced in 1927 when net amounted to $10,600,000 approximately. This was equivalent to $42.40 a share on the preferred, and $3.50 a share on the common. A material advance in prices was announced in January. In the first three months of this year earnings were between 30 and 40 per cent in excess of those for the corresponding period of 1927.

Funded debt totals $2,380,500. Capital stock outstanding includes $25,000,000 in 7 per cent cumulative preferred of $100 par, and $63,250,000 in common stock of $25 par.

Dividends are being paid regularly on the preferred at 7 per cent and on the common at $2 a share per annum, with extras. On December 23 the directors declared an extra dividend of 75c a share.

As of January 1, 1928, total current assets were $57,206,413; current liabilities $6,225,391; net working capital $50,981,022, and book value of the common stock $31.03 a share.

Livestock

TEXAS LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, May 4. (AP)—Friday on the Fort Worth livestock market was featured by one of the largest runs of sheep in recent months, 3800 head. But demand was insufficient to care for that many and at noon it looked as though most of them would go to other markets.

Cattle sold about unchanged from Thursday's values, hogs strong to five cents higher, but sheep values cut a quarter in the bidding and few sold early.

Choice heavy steers brought $13.50 in the early trade based on well finished cattle averaging 1350 pounds, three cars of which were in the yards. Choice fat yearlings at $12.75, were the top in that class. Few fat cows sold and these ran around $9.25 down to $7.75 and lower. Plain butcher cows $7.00 with sorts on down to $5.00. A lot of good heavy calves sold at $10.00 and others of less quality on down to $7.00.

Packers got the big end of the butcher hogs at unchanged prices but were after choice hogs at an advance. Car lots choice to medium weights made a top of $9.70 and 170 to 220 pounders brought $9.40@9.65. Most desirable truck hogs $8.75@9.25. Packing sows and hogs steady.

Three decks of plain shorn feeder lambs brought $10.25 and part of a deck of good wooled feeder lambs brought $15.00, both about steady.

Curb

Leading Issues on New York Market

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—Maintenance of the federal reserve bank rediscount rate at 4 per cent, easy money conditions generally and favorable trade news caused increased buying on the curb market today and prices improved. The demand was chiefly for the lower-priced shares, with industrial specialties and utilities showing the best gains. Mines were rather neglected and oils inactive.

Bancitaly recovered much of its recently lost ground, advancing more than 3 points. Some motor and accessory shares also were strong, among them Auburn Auto, Bendix, Motor Products, Marvel Carbureter, which is prominently mentioned in connection with a merger, and Wire Wheel. A feature was the sudden buying of railroad shares, Virginia Railway climbing 5 points almost to the year's peak and Pittsburgh & Lake Erie gaining about 3. Other strong spots included the Artificial Silk issues, American Brown Boveris Founders, Columbia Graphophone, Meisner Brothers, Singer, Woodworth and U. S. Dairy A. Consolidated Copper Mines and Newmont continued to gain.

The utilities showed advances of 1 to 6 points, with United Gas Improvement up 5¼; Middle West Utilities up 5, and American Gas and Electric, leading the way.

Vacuum was outstanding in the oil group, gaining 2 points. Penn. Mex. Fuel failed to overcome its recent heaviness.

DEEP OIL FOUND IN RUNNELS

Showing of Oil and Gas Below 3475 Feet

Special to The Record News.

BALLINGER, Texas, May 4.—Operators here late today declared that oil in paying quantities may be found in Runnels county at a depth of between 3,450 and 3,500 feet, following the strike of gas and oil at a depth of from 3,475 to 3,487 feet in the Robert Watchorn, et al No. 1 J. L. King, section 159, Thos. T. Williamson survey.

The oil show was touched this afternoon while the gas flow has increased from 2,000,000 cubic feet per day to 6,000,000 cubic feet.

The oil, encountered in a sand at 3487 feet, has not been tested but operators declare it is of high gravity. The sand was only topped and geologists declared it looked favorable for a good well.

A large crowd was at the well this afternoon and tonight. With the gas, operators declared this show is much more favorable than showings at 2296 feet and 3330 feet.

This well is five miles north of Ballinger and two miles southwest of the McMillan producers of the Vacuum Oil company.

PRODUCTION EXTENDED

Production in the southeast part of Wilbarger county received an extension of one-half mile to the northeast of Greyback pool by the completion of Fain & McGaha No. S-2 W. T. Waggoner, located in section 24, block 4, H. T. C. R. R. survey. The well in addition to extending the pay is showing up as one of the best brought in from this area, and in the first 24 hours flowed at the rate of [illegible] barrels from the sand at 2296-2[illegible]8 feet.

Wikins Returned Here by Sheriff

Joe Wilkins, whose bond of $5000 was forfeited several months ago when he failed to appear for trial, was returned to Wichita Falls Friday by Sheriff W. G. Bralley.

Wilkins, Sheriff Bralley said, was captured as the result of letters mailed to all parts of the country by the sheriff's department in which he was described and a reward of $100 was offered for his capture.

Wilkins was arrested without a struggle by two deputy sheriffs in Memphis, Tenn., and Mr. Bralley was advised. When arrested Wilkins was working as a window washer and was using the name Thomas Alfred Bell. When arrested he did not attempt to deny his identity.

Wilkins is charged with the murder of Everett Horn at a local rooming house last fall.

A public Majority service will be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock by Hope Charter Order of DeMolay at the Faith lodge rooms on Scott avenue, it has been announced by Joe Guzenheim, scribe.

The service, which is the first of its nature that the Wichita Falls chapter has ever attempted, is designed for those members who have reached the age of 21 years and who automatically drop from the ranks of the order. A special program has been arranged to which the public is invited.

The service will be for Lowell Nichols, Harry Cohen, P. R. Jordon, J. W. Whitelaw, Homer Doke and J. R. Martin. Any other ex-DeMolays who have attained their majority and who are desirous of receiving the service are requested to be on hand at the meeting Monday evening. Burt Southern's Vanities was scheduled to move to Amarillo after the Sunday performances, but until the extent of the damage to the company equipment is fully known, the immediate future is uncertain.

◇ ◇ ◇

Wichita Falls is losing one of its most popular showmen as P. W. Cloud, manager of the Olympic theater, is leaving to re-enter business for himself. Mr. Cloud has built up a host of friends here. Fred Sims will take his place.

◇ ◇ ◇

As the last embers of the fire were smouldering at the Mission theater Friday evening, Manager Hans Smith of the Majestic sprung the season's worst. He said, "Now, Mr. Newspaper Reporter, can't you arrange to put the name of the current show at the Majestic in the story of the Mission fire?" He was assured it would be there, perhaps, and so here it is. The show is George Sidney's latest starring film, "We Americans." Patsy Ruth Miller is the feminine part of the show. "We Americans" is announced as being a worth while picture that has made a big hit in New York.

CITY BUDGET TO FIT TAXES

Fairtrace at Work On Economy Program

Airplane ideas of expenditure probably won't rule in the city government of Wichita Falls this year if well founded rumors in the municipal auditorium are to be believed.

City Manager George D. Fairtrace is hard at work finding out things about the city, and he is hooking up his findings with a gradual growing idea on the future city budget. Just what form the budget will take is not announced, but all predictions are that it will be one in keeping with the tax income and the present financial condition of the city.

Commissioner heads of departments have been in conference with Mr. Fairtrace in the past few days, and they have been working over the budget.

The budget is not expected to be ready for action by the council for a week or ten days, however, according to announcements made Friday.

New Directory Of C-C Members Issued

The new membership directory and by-laws of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce was received from the printer Friday and is now being placed in the mails to the members.

The chief feature is a classified business directory of members that may be used when names of firms in any particular line of business are unknown.

The book covers 60 pages and includes a condensed 22-year review of the city as reflected in statistics on population, scholastics, postal receipts, assessed valuation, telephones, bank deposits, bank clearings and building permits.

Bond Places In State Meet

Wichita Speakers Make Good Showing

Louis Bond won third place in senior boys declamation, high school division, at the state meet of the Texas Interscholastic league Friday night at Austin, according to word received from Miss Juanita Kinsey, coach.

Howard Martin and Lawrence Bash were eliminated in the fourth round on the affirmative side of the debate question, "Resolved, That Congress Should Enact Farm Relief Legislation Embodying the Principles of the Haugen-McNary Bill," by Abilene, two to one. They won in the first debate over the Port Arthur debaters, in the second over the Laredo boys, and in the third over the boys team from Amarillo.

Although the high school contestants were not able to bring back any first places, Miss Kinsey expressed the opinion that they did well to go as far as they did in the large field of contestants.

The four contestants are returning to Wichita Falls and Miss Kinsey left on the night train for Jacksonville, where the Junior college orators, Pansy Mills and William Cason, are to participate in the state junior college meet Saturday night.
