Fulton Incorporation Contest Is Dismissed

By Carl D. Hoit

Fulton's incorporation election continues to stand, and the election for city officials will go on as scheduled April 7, following a hearing Tuesday morning in District Court.

Judge Rachel Littlejohn dismissed the suit asking that the election be set aside, following an hour and a half hearing Tuesday morning.

The case was dismissed for lack of witnesses, according to the judge, although attempts were made to introduce other matters into the hearing.

Two orders relating to the summary judgment brought into District Court will be prepared and signed by the judge. One will sever the two causes, as related by the judge in a preliminary hearing last Friday. The other will deal with her final dismissal of the election contest.

A preliminary hearing was held in Sinton Friday, March 16, with District Judge Rachel Littlejohn making the determination that the plaintiff's motion for a summary judgment was denied.

In her interlocutory orders for the trial Tuesday, March 20, she split the matter into two segments. She stated that "First, there are allegations that the incorporation procedures of the Town of Fulton were defective. . . . Second is a contest of the election itself; that the election was fraudulent. . . ."

The judge stated that "As to the first problem, I find I have no jurisdiction to hear it. The complaint is not a matter that the plaintiffs here, as individuals, have standing to file. If the validity of the incorporation of the municipality is to be challenged, it can only be done by the State and not by individual citizens. . . . Therefore, the Attorney General is the only party who could bring and prosecute this lawsuit. . . ."

She added that "One recourse for me is to dismiss that portion of the lawsuit that alleges the incorporation procedures were invalid. However, it is obvious from the attendance (at the Friday hearing), the letters and phone calls I have received, from interested citizens, that this is not the solution to the problems of the Fulton community."

In her orders for trial, Judge Littlejohn severed that part of the cause of action, making it a separate lawsuit, stating that "This will give time and opportunity to those persons who are contesting the incorporation procedure to contact the Attorney General. If he declines to join your lawsuit, it will be dismissed. You may then resort to another election to dissolve the corporation. . . ."

She concluded that the part of the lawsuit is an election dispute "under Chapter 9 of the Election Code of the State of Texas claiming the vote itself was fraudulent and illegal. . . . This is a cause which I can and will hear. . . ."

The summary judgment was brought by Clarence E. Gooding and Kenneth R. Pennell, plaintiffs/contestants, vs. J.L. Stewart and Dan Shelton, intervenors/contestees.

Judge Offers Advice To Fulton Citizens

By Carl D. Hoit

Following a preliminary hearing in Sinton Friday, March 16 on the matter of the Fulton Incorporation election suit, District Judge Rachel Littlejohn prefaced her findings in the matter with some words of advice to Fulton citizens.

In particular she was noting a great deal of interest in the matter, as evidenced by phone calls, letters and attendance at hearings.

In her "Interlocutory Orders For Trial" in setting the March 20 trial date, she said:

"Before determining legal matters, it is necessary that the parties here and citizens of Fulton understand that settling the legal issues, (as outlined), will only be the initial step in decisions for that community."

"It will require the best efforts and goodwill of all persons concerned to answer the many questions that have to be answered. Questions of autonomy of the Fulton community, provision of services such as utilities, streets, law enforcement, etc., and taxation to pay for them will require utmost patience and cooperation of all citizens."

"This court does not have authority to determine these matters. The suit before me mentions none of these facts. This court can only decide matters of law properly presented by the pleadings in this suit. . . ."

Good Advice

Judge Rachel Littlejohn offered an unusual preamble to her findings on the Fulton incorporation matter, and came up with some good advice for residents of that area.

She said, "It will require the best efforts and goodwill of all persons concerned to answer the many questions that have to be answered," and added that efforts to pay for various services "will require utmost patience and cooperation of all citizens."

We agree wholeheartedly with the judge in this quest. Much has been said and written concerning Fulton's problems, and the division among Fulton citizens has not always been pleasant to observe.

It is obvious that a small community has to work hard when all are pulling together, in order to make that community the best one possible.

Divisiveness among the citizens will in no way make for a better community. But getting together and attempting to do the best for all should be the goal of anyone who really cares.

Fulton can be a thriving community, if not a well-heeled one. The mere matter of a low tax base will make it especially important that time and effort is not wasted, but that decisions and discussion are effective and useful.

Dear Editor:

Several recent articles concerning Senate Bill 300 which places Galveston Bay under the regulatory authority of the Parks and Wildlife Department have been published up and down the coast and I'm writing to emphasize my reasons for the bill and to accurately reflect my intent.

All other bays in Texas are already under regulatory authority as to fish. Much misinformation has been distributed by the commercial fishermen's groups and individuals not related to those groups concerning regulatory authority, but the most critical bit of information is usually left out. First, the bays from Galveston Bay to the Rio Grande were put under regulatory authority some years ago. Prior to that time, they were closed by law to commercial netting except in certain limited areas. A good deal of the hue and cry against regulatory authority could better be asserted by commercial fishermen in a demand for legitimate commercial fishing rights under restricted circumstances. Instead, what is taking place today is a battle between Parks and Wildlife to enforce the laws against illegal netting and a constant illegal netting activity in our bay systems. Miles and miles of nets are taken from our closed Texas Bay waters each year and our recreational and commercial fishery is seriously damaged.

The bill which I have introduced would place no additional limitation on fishing in the waters of the mid-coast or lower coast. The waters of Galveston Bay lie in three counties, Chambers, Harris and Galveston, eighty-five to ninety percent of the Galveston County bay waters are closed to commercial netters now. In the last three weeks, 10,000 feet of illegal net have been taken from two places in Galveston Bay waters that are closed to commercial fishing in the last five years, 160,000 feet of net has been taken from those waters. I do not believe that all of Galveston Bay would be closed to commercial fishing if it were all included within a regulatory authority bill because we must produce fish for the marketplace and commercial fishermen are essential and important to our society. As it stands now, with Galveston Bay almost completely closed in Galveston County, and all of the Harris County waters closed by law, only Chambers County waters are open and Senator Parker has left those waters open by preventing regulatory authority from applying to those waters under Senate Bill 300. I personally think that is a mistake and I think if the whole bay system could be regulated by the Parks and Wildlife Authority, both the recreational and the commercial fishery would be better served.

I would also like to add that shrimp have traditionally been excluded from the regulatory authority legislation and it was never my intention to include shrimp under regulatory authority since they are traditionally treated as a different species for law and regulation purposes. Oysters are included and I believe should be included for a variety of reasons for the good of the public.

I hope this letter explains the controversy here and I certainly invite correspondence from my constituents on the subject.

Schwartz Helps Clear Lake Taxation

AUSTIN—State Senator A.R. "Babe" Schwartz of Galveston and Senator Chet Brooks of Houston introduced legislation March 14 which they stated might hopefully present "a realistic and workable" solution to the problem of double taxation in the Clear Lake City area.

The two bills expanded power of the Clear Lake City Water Authority to include road services, solid waste disposal, parks and recreation, water, sewer, and drainage. The Authority has also been granted the power to contract through the City of Houston to secure a portion of ad valorem taxes corresponding to services to be provided by the Authority.

Schwartz and Brooks said the legislation would eliminate the "intolerable" double taxation in Clear Lake City. In addition, he said, the Clear Lake residents would gain local control over most major city services except police.

The legislation is an alternative to proposals to disannex Clear Lake City, a proposal which Schwartz and Brooks agree would be virtually impossible to pass in the Senate.

"Both the City of Houston and the Texas Municipal League are totally committed to vigorously oppose any legislation to disannex Clear Lake," the Senators explained and, further, "legislation providing for disannexing the Clear Lake area from Houston faces insurmountable odds in the Senate and the House unless the City of Houston agrees to it."

The legislation proposed by the Senator is similar to the measures proposed by the Houston City Council, a fact which Schwartz indicated would make his proposed legislation more "realistic and workable." than the proposal to disannex Clear Lake from the City of Houston. Although the recent straw vote failed to approve an agreement recently, it is hoped that a reasonable compromise can be achieved.

Stamp Program

Changed March 1

Major reforms in the Food Stamp Program became effective March 1, 1979 according to Department of Human Resources Commissioner Jerome Chapman. The new program rules tighten eligibility requirements, impose stricter penalties for fraud, simplify program administration and improve services to households, particularly the elderly and disabled.

The reforms implement the Food Stamp Act of 1977. One major provision of the new Act, elimination of the requirement that households purchase their food stamps, went into effect on December 1, 1978.

According to Commissioner Chapman, the reforms will remove nearly one million persons from the program nationwide, by lowering net income eligibility limits to the poverty level, currently $6,500 for a household of four. Under the old rules, the net income limit for a household of four was $7,680—over $1,000 higher than the new limit.

Additionally, a complicated series of eight itemized deductions from gross income will be replaced by three standardized deductions—a $65 standard deduction for all households, a 20 per cent deduction from earned income and a combined deduction of up to $80 for child care and/or excess shelter expenses. These simplified deductions will prevent higher income households from qualifying and are expected to reduce errors in the certification process.

The new rules also tighten student eligibility requirements and eliminate any households owning a luxury car, by counting the value of non-income producing vehicles in excess of $4,500 towards a household's allowable assets. The assets limits, which had not changed since 1971, will increase slightly from $1,500 to $1,750, except for households of two or more persons, one of whom is over 60, for whom the limit remains $3,000.

The new rules will be applied to all households which are applying and reapplying for food stamps beginning March 1. Additionally, households currently participating which will not come up for review prior to July 1, 1979, will have their cases converted by desk reviews.

Other provisions of the new rules contain tougher penalties for fraud, giving states the authority to disqualify individuals found guilty of fraud in an administrative hearing, and enabling the courts to order the disqualification of individuals found guilty of civil or criminal fraud. The old Food Stamp Act lacked these provisions.

Commissioner Chapman noted that while the new rules tighten program administration, they will also improve services to households.

The Department is operating a toll-free hotline to provide information about the program changes. The toll-free number, 1-800-252-9330, operates Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Fashion Show Stylish

By Sarah Durdin
Fashions that "make women look nice and men look twice" was the idea behind the Rockport Business and Professional Women's style show.

The show was held Saturday, March 17, in the VFW Hall to raise money for a $500 scholarship. The 1979 recipient of the scholarship will be named at the April meeting of the group.

Featuring a St. Patrick's Day theme for the decorations, the members and guests enjoyed a ham dinner that included green beans, scalloped potatoes and salad, with a generous wedge of cake for dessert.

Laura Ogle, the 1978 recipient of the scholarship started off the style show, as Lola L. Bonner introduced each model and described what she was wearing.

Also modeling fashions were Terry Moore, Barbara Kramer, Donna Kay Hill, Gladys Wagner, Kay Christian, Deana Kramer, Marianne Gould, Melanie Stephes, Laura McPherson, Reta Sydow and Dianne Eller.

Providing music while the models changed outfits were Marsha Land, Anabel Harris and Bobby Jackson. Marianne Gould accompanied Mrs. Harris and Mr. Jackson on the organ.

All fashions modeled were provided by Kitty's of Rockport.

Charles and Judy Watts

Watts Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Their 50th wedding anniversary was celebrated by Charles and Judy Watts of Palm Harbor with a reception given for them by friends and neighbors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Richards, 152 Palm Drive, Saturday, March 17.

Approximately 75 friends of the Watts, a number of them from out of town, participated in the celebration. Host was Milburn DeSpain, assisted by Rose Wright, Rosalynn McEvoy, Ora Monzingo, Liz Kaiser and Marian Tuttle, hostesses.

The Watts' son, John, of San Diego, California, and Charles Watts' brother, J.T. Watts and his wife from Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, were among the out of town guests. Also, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Willis, Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. C.A. Butridge, Longview; Mrs. R.V. Leachman, Sr., Dallas; Mrs. Fred Varner, Sherman, and her daughter, Mrs. Betsy Lou Caraway, Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Brown, Corpus Christi; Mr. and Mrs. Theil Sharpe, Brownsville, and Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Bobbitt, Corpus Christi.

The Watts have lived in Palm Harbor since his retirement in 1969 after 40 years with Southwestern Life Insurance Co., in Dallas.

Born in Divernon, Illinois, Charles Watts attended college and several business schools. He spent three and a half years in the Army during World War II, most of it in North Africa and Italy.

Judy Watts was born in San Angelo, Texas, and received a Bachelor of Science degree from Texas Women's University in Denton. She taught school and worked for a Dallas attorney before joining Civil Service with the U.S. Treasury Department.

During their 10 years in Palm Harbor both Watts' have been involved in many community programs. Judy has been an active member of Aransas County Women's Republican Club and of the Palm Harbor Bridge Club.

Charles has been a leader in the Palm Harbor Property Owners Association since its inception, having served as its first secretary-treasurer, president of the association in 1975 and as a member of the board of directors several times.

From the first he has been active in projects designed to improve the appearance of Palm Harbor, among them an attractive entrance for the water-side residential development. For this he also provided a major share of the physical effort involved. Friends say Charles Watts is one of those rare individuals who not only thinks up community improvement projects, but also sees that they are carried out, often through his own efforts.

Initiated

Wharton County Junior College scholar Teresa Gould of Rockport was among 38 scholars recently initiated into the Zeta Xi Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa national junior college honor fraternity. Initiates have maintained a grade point average of at least 3.7 over 15 semester hours in one semester and an overall grade point average of 3.5 on a 4.0 scale.

He is the son of J. Hugh Goodrich of Rockport, and is a sophomore at Ripon.

The production involved a cast and crew of some 40 Ripon students. Renowned set designer Ming Cho Lee, a graduate-school classmate of Edmund Roney at UCLA, was on the campus as a guest professor of drama during the first performances. Roney, a former Broadway performer and chairman of the department, co-directed the performances.

Tourist Association

Our covered dish supper on Wednesday, March 14, was a great success despite a smaller than usual crowd. Those who did attend enjoyed the baked ham courtesy of Alfred Edge Realty and the entertainment following the meal took the form of a Womanless Wedding.

On Wednesday, March 21, we will be having an old-time movie evening following the supper and the Tourist Association will be providing baked ham for the main course. Those attending are asked to bring a covered dish to accompany that basic menu.

For the last covered dish supper of this winter season, on March 28, we will be adopting the theme of a Western barbecue. There will still be the same admission policy as usual, 50 cents per person with tickets and $1 per person without a ticket, but the Tourist Association will be providing all the food. J.C. and Lois Gurley will be cooking barbecued beef and the other members of the association will be cooking the trimmings and following the meal there will be dancing to western music. This evening should provide a very enjoyable finale to our winter programs.

Our last game night will be on Monday, March 26. Doors open at 6:30 p.m. and the first game is called at 7:30 p.m. The game nights are open to the public as well as our winter visitors.

AARP News

The winners at game afternoon on Thursday, March 15 were Janice Little and Paul Magnuson at bridge; Helen Scharnick and Marty Day at canasta. The finale was won by Evelyn Randolph. There were 10 tables of bridge and four tables of canasta. Hostess for this game afternoon was Mrs. Leona Kelam and the guests were served homemade cookies, punch and coffee. Prizes were awarded to the winners.

The next game afternoon is Thursday, March 22 at 1 p.m. Make a special effort to attend these game afternoons. Not only will you have fun, but you will also be assisting AARP Chapter 1536 in achieving its goals.

The AARP business meeting Wednesday, March 14 was attended by 47 members and 10 visitors. The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Genevieve Ohrling, second vice-president in the absence of Mrs. Margaret Gill, president.

Chief of Police James Craigmile presented a movie "On Guard Bunco" at the March 14 meeting. It was very informative, advising and warning the elderly against the bunco artist who operates very smoothly and efficiently. There were four specific cases covered.

The members of AARP Chapter 1536 will meet again on Wednesday, March 28 at 11 a.m. for a short business session and a covered dish luncheon. If you wish to participate, there will be bridge and canasta after the luncheon.

There is an AARP dance on Wednesday, March 21 at 7 p.m. Mrs. Genevieve Ohrling, dance chairperson announced that 196 persons attended the last dance on March 7. Try to top this record at the March 21 dance.

The pancake brunch held on Sunday, February 18 was a great success. After expenses, we will be able to present the Aransas County Public Library with a check in the amount of $650.

There is a bus trip to Austin, Texas, available on April 11 at the cost of $14.50 per person. The bus will leave Rockport at 6:30 a.m. from the courthouse and will return at 8 p.m. the same day. Tickets can be purchased at the Chamber of Commerce office. This trip should be interesting to all the members of AARP as there will be available committee meetings and debates concerning the Generic Drug Bills.

All activities of AARP Chapter 1536, i.e., meetings, dances, game afternoons, luncheons, etc., will be held at the Paws and Taws Building, Fulton Beach Road unless otherwise stated.

Speaking Of Sports

By DAN BERGER
Copley News Service

Robin Yount, the Milwaukee Brewers' fine shortstop, would like to clear one thing up right now: He never had any intention of quitting baseball and trying to make the pro golf tour.

It's funny how rumors begin, and this one started with a strained foot tendon.

"I hurt my foot and I couldn't run," said the 23-year-old Yount, "but I wanted to get some exercise, so I went out to the golf course. I enjoy golf, but I guess someone saw me out there and the next day there was an article in the paper. But it never quoted me."

Last April 2, Yount was placed on the 15-day disabled list by the Brewers so he could rest the foot. The following day, in a copyrighted story by Mike Gonring in the Milwaukee Journal, "reliable sources" were quoted as saying Yount, who at the time was having contract problems with the Brewers, wanted to try to make the PGA tour if his demands weren't met.

Yount's brother, Larry, a former minor league pitcher, declined to comment on the story and Yount himself was not quoted either.

Eventually, the wire services picked up the story — without further elaboration — and suddenly Yount was a budding PGA star.

So how is Yount's golf game these days?

"Brutal," he said. "But it's repairable."

He once was a fine golfer, winning a number of junior tournaments between the time he was 10 and 15 in the Los Angeles area. Did he ever consider the pro golf tour?

"Not really, because it's so tough to make it in two professional sports. You'd be competing against a group of guys who dedicated their lives to golf. It'd take an exceptional athlete to make it in more than one sport."

Yount, however, may be one athlete who could make it in a second sport. At 6 foot 1 and 190 pounds, he's got the wiry power in his swing that reminds some of a superior amateur golfer. On a driving range with this reporter, he smashed a half-dozen golf balls straight down the range, one bounce to a chain link fence.

In addition, he played wide receiver one year in high school (Taft High in Woodland Hills, north of Los Angeles) and was an avid motocross rider between ages 14 and 17.

"That was the hardest sport I've ever participated in," he said. "I won a race or two when I was doing it seriously, and I still play around with motorcycles, but not for competition anymore."

It's just as well. Yount is a fine fielding shortstop who in the last couple of years has proved he can hit. (He batted .288 with 49 RBIs in 1977 and last year hit .293 with nine homers and 73 RBIs.)

Juvenile Officer Grant

AUSTIN—Governor William P. Clements, Jr. has approved a criminal justice grant affecting Aransas County.

It is in the amount of $15,613 to provide salary, travel, equipment and supplies for a juvenile law enforcement officer in the Aransas Pass police department.

This local grant was among 124 approved by Governor Clements statewide from Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) funds under the Crime Control Act of 1976.

Tax Break For Elderly

AUSTIN—Everybody likes to get a tax break and at age 65 that's exactly what you get.

Actually, there are several tax breaks for persons 65 and over. The first concerns the requirement to file a tax return: Single people 65 and over are not required to file at all unless their income for 1978 was $3,700 or more. For married couples filing joint returns the limit is $6,200 if both are at least 65.

Bear in mind, though, that the only way to get a refund is by filing. So if you had any tax withheld from money you received in 1978 you should file anyway to claim your refund.

For older Americans who are required to file, there are still some good news. One is the extra $750 exemption, over and above the regular $750 personal exemption to which each taxpayer is entitled. A married couple filing a joint return where both spouses are 65 or over can claim four exemptions for a total of $3,000. These extra exemptions are built into the tax table so it is not necessary to make any additional computations to take credit for them.

Note: For federal income tax purposes, a taxpayer is 65 on the day before his or her 65th birthday. Since a person's filing status is determined by their situation on the last day of the tax year, a taxpayer whose 65th birthday falls on January 1, 1979, can file as if he or she were 65 during 1978. Obviously this does not apply to many people, but if you are one of them it's a nice piece of information to have.

At retirement, which often begins at 65, many people sell their house and move to something a little smaller and easier to maintain.

To ease the bite on the profit which almost always results from the sale of a home, any gain from this type of sale occurring before July 27, 1978, is tax exempt if the adjusted selling price is not more than $35,000. When the selling price exceeds $35,000, at least part of the gain will still be nontaxable.

Another way for older Americans to reduce their taxes is the Tax Credit for the Elderly. While many persons over 65 may not consider themselves "elderly," the fact remains that the credit can reduce their income taxes by as much as $375 for singles and $562.50 for married couples. Because it is a credit and not a deduction, this amount is subtracted directly from the taxes owed.

Much of the income received in retirement years, including social security payments, is free of federal income tax. Railroad retirement benefits are nontaxable, as are payments from a general welfare fund, such as payments for blindness.

For retirees receiving taxable pensions, Form W-4P provides for withholding at the source of the payments. This can help the retiree avoid having to pay estimated tax payments during the year.

The IRS has a number of free publications of interest to older Americans: Publication 17, "Your Federal Income Tax"; Publication 523, "Tax Information on Selling or Purchasing Your Home"; Publication 524, "Tax Credit for the Elderly"; and Publication 554, "Tax Benefits for Older Americans."

State Of The Region

By Juliet K. Wenger
Coastal Bend
Council of Governments

The Coastal Bend is fortunate to be one of the few regions in the state with a Family Debt Counseling Service. This means families can without cost, obtain assistance in getting out of debt when they have overextended themselves financially, or in planning so they can avoid a heavier than reasonable debt load.

The office of Family Debt Counseling is in Corpus Christi but it serves the entire region and is being used by families from all Coastal Bend counties. This is not a government agency, but is supported by United Way, foundations, and private subscription. No fees are charged.

Some families make only one visit. They come in, discuss their income and their obligations, and counselors help them to work out a budget which can get them back to solvency. In other instances, the counselors may work with the family for months, helping them extricate themselves from involved financial situations in which they are entrapped.

Dave Melton is executive director of the agency. He strongly encourages anyone who is unable to meet bills on time to get in touch with creditors and discuss the situation with them.

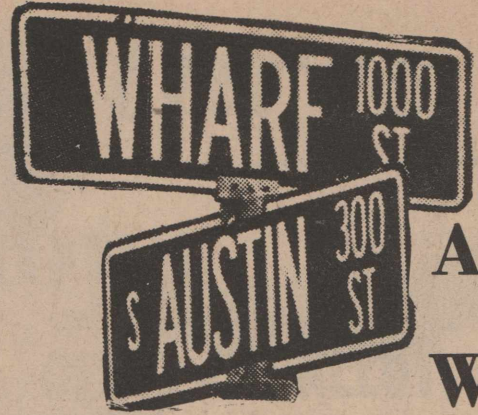

Most of the counselors available are volunteers. Melton would like to find more people in communities throughout the region who would be willing to volunteer. They will receive training that is often helpful to them in handling their own financial affairs as well as in counseling others.

Melton says that in this time of inflation it is difficult to stay within the standards that have been thought safe in the past for the amount of debt incurred as related to amount of income. Many families in financial trouble are there because house payments are taking up too much of their money. Melton suggests seeking advice when you are considering purchase of a home instead of waiting until you have fallen behind in payments.

Melton does not discourage the use of credit, in fact, finds that it is a necessity today. It is abuse of credit that is to be avoided. He says many people never put down in writing their obligations and their basic expenses so that they can see what they must spend to meet current obligations. He suggests establishing priorities for any further expenditures.

He does not find many people are deadbeats, but that most of them want to pay off their debts. Those whom with his agency works fall into all age groups and are in every income bracket.

The volunteers advise families on establishing and protecting credit rating. Today, a married woman can go to the Credit Bureau and request that her own credit rating be established so that it will exist in her name if she finds herself in need of that in the future.

Austin At Wharf

IT APPEARS EVIDENT THERE WILL BE A PEACE treaty between Egypt and Israel. Credit for the initial effort, more than a year ago belongs to Egypt's Sadat; for pressing it to finality, Jimmy Carter. The question now: What does it all mean?

Leaders in the treaty countries suddenly seem delighted to the point of being wildly joyful, a circumstance that raises a few questions. The same elation seems to be shared by our own national leaders. Perhaps before this column appears we will have more complete information as to the content of the treaty. As of now I am disturbed on several counts; first and foremost, there appears to be nothing in it which will satisfy the Palestinians, and that as already demonstrated means anger in the rest of the Arab world. In perfect truth I feel obliged to write as I have so often before; I can see no solution to the Israel-Palestinian question. Certainly events of the past week have done nothing to improve it. Several times we have seen pictures of Israel bandits descending upon West Bank communities, forcing protesting shopkeepers to open their doors. The Israel civilians, armed, have taken the law into their own hands, while Jewish police stood by, watched and did nothing. None of this is new, but the circumstance is one of which we in the United States have become aware only in the past year or so. How then will the treaty between Israel and Egypt affect events, the hearts and minds of the Palestinians, people upon whom the Israelis look with undisguised contempt?

ONE WONDERS, YET REMEMBERING, WE DO not know all that the treaty contains - but are Egypt and Israel to become two armed camps, backed by the United States? Are those armed camps to be so strong as to keep the Arab world at heel? And if so, for how long can a circumstance of that sort last? Certainly not forever. By the same token, who can expect Russia to stand idly by? No she will play the game at which she is best, creating discontent, revolution. I have little fear that Russia will directly mount and herself participate in armed conflict in that part of the world. She would indeed be foolish to force a third World War which no one can win.

On lesser counts we are told that our country will guarantee Israel's oil supply. How can we do that and at what sacrifice? That declaration is manna to millions who still refuse to believe that the shortage is some sort of a faked job between our government and the big oil companies. In that respect I've an idea we'll be getting our comeuppance sooner than we think.

ANOTHER CONCERN. PRESIDENT CARTER is estimating that the treaty will cost our nation in the neighborhood of $5 billion. There I'll not dispute his word, but did you ever know anything to come out of Washington that didn't cost twice the estimate? Just what this will mean to the already unhappy taxpayer remains to be seen. Yet for one, if it could really bring peace among the nations of the Middle East, I'd be willing to suffer the sacrifices. At this point however, I see no visible hope.

JIMMY CARTER DESERVES FULL MARKS FOR his determined efforts. They will probably bring him the Nobel Peace Prize, and well deserved. That will be a plus for him if he seeks reelection. Or will it? When the American voter gets down to the line he essentially bases his judgement on domestic issues, perhaps demonstrating that for all his outward sophistication he remains the insular type he has always been.

ASK ANY WOMAN AND SHE'll tell you she's delighted when her husband does the grocery shopping, and not because of the wearisome store traffic. Instead, while she has beforehand scanned the ads for specials and carefully made a shopping list to fit her budget, all that goes by the deep six when hubby mans the grocery cart. If it's canned peas on the list she has given him, he buys frozen. And he delights in the section that offers imports and exotic food. Why not? One lives but once. Well, he's done it. Her conscience is clear.

In the past couple of years I have done a fair share of the family grocery shopping. When I can hit the joint when traffic's not heavy I can rather enjoy myself. Yet I haven't the faintest idea as to what many items cost.

For example, a few days ago I was sent for a single loaf of bread. It was 72 cents, as I recall. I was shocked. Vaguely, I'd reasoned that the old dime loaf might have risen to two bits—but 72 cents, no! Curious, wondering if I should be embarrassed, I slyly quizzed a number of male counterparts. All of them were in my same boat. The only thing they had in common with economy-minded wives was the price of beer. On that subject they sounded exactly like a couple of housewives comparing notes after a shopping trip. How many times did I hear: "I buy whatever's on special; all tastes the same anyway when it's cold." That even from guys known to offer their guests the better brands of Scotch.

Anyhow, back to bread. I blew my stack. It's homemade bread in this household now, and super bread it is. After the first loaf I said: "Now why don't you figure what it cost?"

"Of course," was the reply, "just tell me what each of those items cost when you bought them and I can figure it out. You know I used only a portion of the flour, milk, honey, all the ingredients you bought." That stopped me. — ahab

Q. Would you send me all the information you can. My social security number is 536-03-7289. How much can I draw? Do you go by the number as I have been married several times? I will be 65 in March and have been told I should contact Social Security three months before. — L.M.G.

A. All of your questions can be answered if you call the number listed under Social Security in the white pages of your telephone directory.

In your case, you should call as soon as possible. You might be eligible to receive benefits on any one of your former husbands' accounts if marriage ended by death or if you were married ten years prior to divorce.

Q. I am 34 years old and have 36 quarters. I will return to my native country, but will leave my savings in a bank in the U.S.

Can I pay Social Security on the interest from my bank account? If not, is it possible to contribute as a self-employed person, or as an employee working for someone else while I am living outside the U.S. I will retain my U.S. citizenship. — A.A.

A. Interest earned from a savings account cannot be reported for Social Security purposes.

Work outside the United States is excluded from Social Security coverage unless performed by a U.S. citizen for an American employer, or for an American corporation's foreign subsidiary for which coverage has been arranged. Work on or in connection with an American vessel or aircraft may be covered under certain circumstances.

Strawberry season - it's the berries

By MARJORIE RICE
Copley News Service

There's hardly a more traditional use for strawberries than in a shortcake. You can use any recipe for the cake including one from a packaged biscuit mix, or use prepared sponge cake.

This substitutes a sweetened cream cheese topping for the more traditional sweetened whipped cream. If you're watching calories or fat, you could substitute plain yogurt, sweetened to taste.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

2 cups unsifted flour
One-third cup sugar
1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup butter
3/4 cup milk
2 eggs, slightly beaten
3-oz. package cream cheese, softened
3 tbsps. cream, unwhipped
3 tbsps. confectioners' sugar
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
Sliced, hulled strawberries (sweetened to taste)
Clean, hull and slice berries. Sprinkle on sugar, if you like. Refrigerate, covered, until ready to use. Pre-heat oven to 375 degrees. Combine flour, one-third cup sugar, baking powder (this really uses 1 tablespoon) and salt.

Cut in butter until crumbly. Combine milk and eggs. Make a well in dry ingredients and pour in milk mixture all at once. Stir until all dry particles are moistened; do not overmix.

Spread dough in greased 9-inch or 8-inch baking pan. Bake 25 to 30 minutes, until golden brown. Split and fill with fruit and topping. Or cut into wedges and split, then fill.

To make individual shortcakes, drop dough by rounded tablespoons 2 inches apart on greased baking sheet. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 to 20 minutes, or until golden brown.

To make topping, combine cream cheese, cream and sugar. Blend in nutmeg. Use to top shortcake, or other fruits. (The grated rind of a lemon, or orange may be substituted for the nutmeg. Or substitute 1/2 teaspoon cardamom, and substitute brown sugar for confectioners' sugar.)

This creamy rice pudding is a light, nutritious summer dessert. It goes under the broiler for a few minutes, to give a browned top, then is spooned into pretty goblets.

BURNT STRAWBERRY CREAM

3 cups cooked rice
3 cups milk
One-third cup sugar
1/4 tsp. salt
2 pkgs. (3 ozs. each) cream cheese, softened

1 1/2 tps. vanilla
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
2 pints fresh strawberries, hulled, sliced and sprinkled with a little sugar

One-third cup brown sugar
Combine rice, milk, sugar and salt in a saucepan. Cook over medium heat until thick and creamy, about 30 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove from heat and add cream cheese and vanilla. Stir until cheese is dissolved. Chill. Fold in whipped cream. Chill thoroughly.

Arrange berries over the bottom of a 7 1/2 by 12 by 2-inch baking dish. Spoon pudding over berries. Sprinkle with brown sugar. Place under broiler for one or two minutes, or just until sugar melts. Spoon into serving dishes, or serve in baking dish, topped with a little extra whipped cream and garnished with a berry. Serve immediately. Makes eight servings.

Note: A 16-ounce package of frozen, sweetened strawberries (thawed and drained) may be used.

This Creme de Strawberry Pie is a luscious combination of cream, strawberries, brandy and creme de cacao (you'll find it in liquor departments of most stores).

CREME DE STRAWBERRY PIE

2 tps. unflavored gelatin
5 tbsps. cold water
Sugar
Dash salt
2 eggs, separated
1 tsp. brandy
5 tbsps. white creme de cacao

1 cup heavy cream
Graham cracker cocoa pie crust, baked (recipe follows)
1 pint fresh strawberries, hulled, halved and sweetened to taste
Sprinkle gelatin over cold water in a large saucepan. Add 3 tablespoons sugar, the salt and egg yolks. Beat until blended. Heat gelatin mixture over low heat, while stirring, until gelatin dissolves and mixture thickens. Do not let it boil.

Remove from heat and stir in brandy and 4 tablespoons of creme de cacao. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Beat egg whites until stiff. Gradually beat in 3 tablespoons sugar and beat until stiff and glossy. Fold into thickened filling mixture.

Whip 1/2 cup of the heavy cream; fold into filling mixture. Turn into cooled, prepared pie crust. Chill four hours, or until set.

At serving time, whip remaining cream with reserved 1 tablespoon creme de cacao. Garnish pie with strawberry halves and large rosettes (made with pastry bag) or spoonfuls of whipped cream.

Graham Cracker Cocoa Pie Crust: Mix 1 and two-thirds cups graham cracker crumbs, 2 tablespoons un-sweetened cocoa and 1/4 cup sugar in bowl. Work in one-third cup softened butter with pastry blender or fingers. Sprinkle 1 tablespoon water over mixture and toss until moistened. Press into 9-inch pie plate and bake 8 to 10 minutes at 375 degrees. Cool thoroughly before filling.

Cucumber Buttermilk

2 medium cucumbers
2 cups buttermilk
1/4 to 1 tsp. salt

Pare cucumbers and cut in half lengthwise; with a sturdy spoon, scoop out seeds and discard. Cut cucumbers into chunks; puree them along with the buttermilk in an electric blender. Stir in salt. Serve at once or chill. Makes four servings.

Tee Time

"Fore" is the word as Melanie Stephes gets ready to tee off in a comfortable golf skirt set. The skirt is a blue wrap-around with a rounded hem, and the blouse is white with matching blue trim.

Skirt And Blouse

Looking cool and crisp, Gladys Wagner models a skirt and blouse combination. The white skirt wraps around with soft gathers at the waist, setting off the fullness of the red and blue plaid peasant blouse.

Coral Pantsuit

Diana Eller shows off her coral pantsuit that looks right at work or at play. The straight legged pants complement the loose jacket which is tied at the waist with a matching belt.

Romantic Sundress

Laura McPherson models a romantic sundress that can do double duty during moonlight beach strolls. The dress is gathered at the waist and shoulders with string ties, and the skirt is a series of flounces.

Style Show Shows Off Latest Fashions

Pilot Photos and Text By Sarah L. Durdin

Fashion, food, and fun was the idea at the Rockport Business and Professional Women's Style Show March 17.

The club members started off the evening with a buffet dinner, after which the ladies presented their forecast for spring fashions.

Dresses seem to be the thing to wear this year. From sundresses for day and night, to crisp skirt and blouse combinations, the forecast says legs are back in style. And to show off slim ankles, the shoe to wear has a medium sized heel with delicate straps.

Pantsuits haven't gone away completely though, but the general look has been relaxed. Pant legs are slimmer this year, usually complemented by the fullness of a loose fitting blouse or soft jacket. The tops can then be worn belted or not, as the wearer chooses.

For play, shorts and matching tops are still the favorite, with tennis outfits combining the traditional white with vivid colors. In swimwear the one-piece maillot is making a strong comeback, with high cut legs and criss-cross straps in the back.

Lacy sleepwear is the message on how to have sweet dreams. Matching gown and robe sets seem most popular, especially if they're trimmed in soft lace or matching ruffles.

Overall, the look to look for is one of femininity without being overly sweet — charming without being artificial.

Aransas County Day In Austin April 11

Aransas County residents will have a chance to visit with the 66th Texas Legislature on April 11 during Aransas County Day in Austin.

While in Austin, the group will observe the House of Representatives during the morning session, at which they will be introduced as special guests.

Aransas residents will have a choice of eating lunch at the Capitol dining room or choosing one of the many Austin restaurants near the Capitol building.

After lunch, Representative Leroy Wieting will host a coffee before the afternoon session resumes. Also present will be other representatives that Aransas residents can meet and talk with.

The bus will leave at 6:30 a.m. April 11 and will arrive in Austin at approximately 10:30 a.m. Aransas residents will go directly to the House's morning session. On the return trip the bus will leave Austin at 4 p.m. and arrive back at 8 p.m. in Rockport.

Roundtrip tickets are $14.50 and can be purchased at the Chamber of Commerce office from 8 a.m. until noon and 1-5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Deadline for ticket purchases is April 5, with approximately 30 spaces left.

There's always a good reason to get friends together and have a party — and if you don't have one, you can make one up. How about celebrating someone's un-birthday, National Pickle Week (whenever that is) or your cat having kittens. And it needn't be an elaborate affair, just good friends getting together for good talk and snacks. Today's recipes can be made ahead, so the hostess can enjoy the party, too, and not be stuck in the kitchen.

These pizza-inspired sandwiches rely on bottled sauce, but you can substitute your own. Any toppings that appeal may be used instead of, or in addition to, the mushrooms and bell peppers.

HEROIC PIZZA

- 2 cans (6 to 8 ozs. each) sliced mushrooms, or 1 lb. fresh
- 1 lb. sweet Italian sausage, thinly sliced
- 4 tbsps. butter
- 2 bell peppers, sliced
- 1 1/2 oz. jar spaghetti sauce (or 2 cups homemade sauce)
- 1 tsp. oregano, crumbled
- 2 loaves (6 ozs. each) Italian bread, 15 inches long
- 8 ozs. mozzarella cheese, thinly sliced

Rinse, pat dry and slice fresh mushrooms (makes about 5 cups) or drain canned mushrooms set aside. In a large skillet brown sausage well remove and set aside. In the same skillet, melt butter.

Add reserved mushrooms saute for 3 minutes. Add bell peppers saute for 2 more minutes. Remove half the mushrooms and bell peppers, set aside and keep warm for garnish.

To skillet, add spaghetti sauce and oregano. Bring to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, for 5 minutes. Stir in sausage. (Can be refrigerated at this point.) Slice breads in half lengthwise. Remove some bread from each half to form a slight hollow down the center.

Spoon spaghetti sauce mixture into hollows. Top with cheese. Place breads in shallow baking pan and bake in preheated 375-degree oven until hot and cheese melts (about 10 minutes). Garnish with reserved mushrooms and peppers. Makes four large servings.

Tangy vegetables are always popular, especially with the dieting crowd. These are made well in advance, and served at room temperature.

The Primrose Path:1912

Hugo deVries, the Dutch botanist who originated a means of studying evolution in plants by an experimental method which came to be called "mutation," visited Texas in 1912. A professor at the University of Amsterdam since 1881, he was among the dozen scholars from around the world who were invited to participate in the dedicatory ceremonies of the newly established Rice Institute in Houston.

DeVries' experiments had been conducted largely with a species of wildflower known to botanists as Oenothera and to laymen as primrose, sundrop or—incorrectly—buttercup. For his mutations deVries had made extensive use of a variety named Oenothera lamarckiana, first grown in Europe from seeds reported to have been taken from plants native to Texas. One of his chief projects during his American visit was to try to locate and collect seeds and specimens of the plant in its native habitat.

To his consternation, deVries was unable to discover Oenothera lamarckiana either wild or in gardens in the state. The variety, distinguished by a relatively large-blossomed yellow flower, appeared to have vanished from Texas—if, indeed, it had ever grown here.

In a memoir of his travels and activities in America, "San Texas near Florida (from Texas to Florida)," published in Amsterdam in 1913, deVries described an experiment which he had conducted in Central Texas. His account of the venture, translated from the Dutch, appears below.

"The Oenothera lamarckiana, or Lamarck's evening primrose, is native to Texas. At least, this was the report concerning the seed from which the plant was raised about the middle of the previous century. Where this seed was grown, and whether it originated from wild plants rather than from a garden, are not known. There have been virtually no efforts to rediscover the Oenothera in Texas, but around the cities where plant collectors live they are not to be found. Nor are other, related species, I thought, therefore, that it was desirable to try to make the species indigenous to Texas again; and, moreover, the fact that no species grew here with which they could cross-pollinate was very favorable.

"Consequently I, in consultation with Professor M. Davis of Philadelphia and Mr. H.H. Bartlett of Washington, sowed in a few places some seeds of my own cultivation of O. lamarckiana, which I knew to be of pure origin. I chose for the purpose the edges of corn and cotton fields, or the broad weedy margins of roads, as the chief species of this group are to be found growing by preference, if not exclusively in such places.

"On an automobile ride near Austin I had the opportunity to sow seed in a group of five sites located near each other at the edges of fields along the road. One was on the road to Upper Georgetown: a second was nearby, where this road crosses a railway; the third was on the corner where Mr. Metz's farm joins the Old County Poor Farm; and the other two locations were on either side of the railway tracks (Fiskville Road or Lower Georgetown Road). On our return we passed a farm which is called The Oaks, because it has one of those clumps of evergreen oaks which are found scattered here and there in the black prairie region.

"In San Marcos I had had an opportunity to sow seed in a cornfield at the springs of the San Marcos River, and in San Antonio along the road near Mission San Jose.

"As the chances are slight, however, that this seed not only will germinate, but also will become the source of enduring growing places, I tried to inspire interest in this problem in several colleagues. For this purpose I placed into their hands samples of the seed, with the request that they sow them and use the harvested seed of the resulting plants for a further distribution in this area. In this matter I found a kind audience and received promises of cooperation from Professor

J.M. Kuehne of the University of Texas in Austin, who also had assisted me in my sowing; from Professor W.S. Stanfield of the State Normal School in San Marcos; from Professor Bernard Mackenson, teacher at the high school in San Antonio and author of a book about the kinds of trees in the area of that city; and from Mr. Huezinger of the same city.

"Should we succeed in this attempt to make the Oenothera lamarckiana as much indigenous to Texas as it has become in Hilversum, then its chance for an enduring continued existence would hereby be considerably increased. By the same means, one would later have the opportunity to study the production of mutations in natural conditions."

Apparently deVries' experiment failed. Botanists, nurserymen, and amateur plant collectors in the area are unfamiliar with Oenothera lamarckiana, though encyclopedias tell of its growth in more northern states.

Travelers, on Interstate Highway 35 during wildflower season may wish, however, to pay reverence to the man who attempted, though unsuccessfully, to add another splendor to the beauties of the Texas rside.

Jesus said, (John 14:12), "Verily, verily I say unto you, he that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do, because I go to the Father." This promise is to you and me, "he that believeth on me," Praise The Lord! Now, what are the works? Look at John 6:28 & 29.

v28 Then said they unto him, What shall we do, that we might work the works of God?" v29 Note the answer of Jesus, "Jesus answered and said unto them, This is the work of God, that ye believe on him who he hath sent."

"Our work is to believe! We can never believe God for too much. Mark 11:23 "For verily I say unto you, That whosoever shall say unto this mountain, Be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea; and shall not doubt in his heart, but shall believe that those things which he saith shall come to pass, he shall have whatsoever he saith."

Sophomores Study Crime Prevention

For the second year, crime prevention has been worked into various curriculum areas at Rockport-Fulton high school. On the sophomore level, the two-week study was worked into the English II classes.

With the help of the Aransas County Sheriff's department, the Coastal Bend Council of Governments, and the Corpus Christi Drug Abuse Council, the students received information on the prevention of crime both at the local level and at the individual level.

Through the efforts of Sheriff Bob Hewes, films were secured from the Council of Governments in Corpus Christi which pointed out ways to safeguard homes, protect against con artists, and people who might have intent to fraud in mind.

In particular, the films pointed out how important the people are in the prevention or solving of crimes. Cities and neighborhoods which let it be known that their place is nowhere to be involved in a crime, because of neighborhood action groups and a potent law enforcement force, are the areas where crime percentages and statistics have drastically dropped. In order to do this, it was pointed out that education of the public and action by the majority of the citizens are necessary to accomplish this.

In cooperation with the history department, students were shown how the law works in various criminal cases. Instruction was also given as to the process juveniles would be put through should they be arrested, and perhaps sentenced.

Personal safety and home safety against robberies were also discussed. A survey was taken at the end of the unit to see if students felt they had increased their knowledge of crime prevention, and the overwhelming majority indicated that they had.

The unit was taught by Mr. Bob Crawford, Mr. David Rice and Mrs. Laurie Hatfield.

Berta Crawford, a counselor for the Corpus Christi Drug Abuse Council, met with Rockport-Fulton high school sophomores during a crime prevention unit taught in English classes.

Healthful Hints

Most Often-Asked Questions On Nutrition

Q. I'm told that brewer's yeast will help me have more energy. I tried some of the powdered kind, but it tasted so bad that I couldn't get it down. Couldn't I just take the tablets, and how many?

A. Bad news for you, I'm afraid! Unfortunately it takes approximately 90 tablets of yeast to equal the vitamin, mineral and protein content of one heaping tablespoon of powdered yeast. (The exact amount, of course, depends on the exact analysis of the various formulas of yeast now available.) Since nutritionists recommend from 2 to 4 heaping tablespoons daily, that would mean swallowing 180 to 360 tablets daily!

Experiment a little with the way you mix it. It is usually mixed with milk or juice in a blender (unless it is the less-concentrated "instant" yeast that will stir easily into liquid). Even if you are mixing it with milk in order to make it even higher in protein and other nutrients, you could try adding papaya juice concentrate, frozen concentrated orange juice or any of your favorite juices in a concentrated form. You might also add honey or blackstrap molasses to give it a sweet taste and use some vanilla extract (or your favorite flavoring). Tossing different types of fruit into the blender with it can be helpful—banana, strawberries, peaches, etc.

Hang in there, and work with it! You'll get used to the taste and love the way you feel!

Q. My sister keeps nagging at me to stop drinking so much coffee. She says that the large amount of coffee that I drink causes me to be nervous and jittery. Is coffee really that bad for you?

A. An excess of coffee can cause increased nervous symptoms, as well as aggravating heart and artery disorders and irritating the lining of the stomach. It can also create inositol and biotin (B vitamins) deficiencies, prevent iron from being properly utilized, and cause other vitamins to be pumped through and out of the body before they can be properly absorbed.

Many people are having great success switching to herbal teas or coffee substitutes.

Until next week, folks stay happy and healthy! It's a beautiful world!

Sheriff's Report

Sheriff's deputies investigated three thefts, a threat, and a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Charlotte Plummer reported on March 7 that several Social Security checks were missing. The checks had been on a file cabinet that was to be moved to a new residence. Later the checks were found in a flower bed at the new residence, and the investigation was discontinued.

Mrs. Robert Hattenbach, South Burton, reported on March 9 that another woman had threatened her with what seemed to be a gun. When deputies interviewed the woman, she told them that what Mrs. Hattenbach thought was a gun was actually a toy.

Deputies charged Wilbert William Henning Jr. with driving while intoxicated on March 10.

Patricia Bauknight reported a theft at her residence, 113 Driftwood Drive, on March 10. Assorted grocery items in two sacks, valued at $32.69, were taken from her car as she took other grocery sacks into the house.

Permit Applications

The Rockport Shrimp Cooperative has filed a permit application with the Department of the Army, Corps of Engineers, for work in Aransas Bay in the Rockport Turning Basin. The applicant proposes to construct replacement and new bulkheads and fill areas behind the bulkheads. Approximately 365 feet of concrete bulkheads would be constructed at the applicant's facility to prevent further erosion. Approximately 1,038 cubic yards of select material would be hauled from land to be placed behind the bulkheads. Comments on this application must be submitted to the District Engineer, P.O. Box 1229, Galveston, Texas 77553, on or before April 16.
