Two Persons Killed In Highway Mishap

Two men were dead and the wife of one of the victims was in critical condition today following a one-car accident about 17 miles west of Snyder this morning.

The accident apparently occurred shortly before 8 a.m. and during full daylight but under rain-laden clouds that limited visibility.

The area near the scene was well soaked with rain that, in all likelihood, was in progress at the time of the multi-death accident.

Fatally injured in the tragedy—which occurred within a few hundred yards of another fatal accident a week ago Saturday—were, according to tentative identification, Clarence G. Raley, about 55, operator of the Mesa Motel at Lamesa, and F. A. Nat, of Port Arthur, Tex.

Mrs. Beatrice Raley, about 54, was undergoing surgery in Cogdell Memorial Hospital shortly before noon. She was reported suffering from lung, chest and other injuries.

A canine victim of the fatality was the Raleys' pet Chihuahua, Brownie. It was found dead nearby the totally demolished, upset 1956 Chevrolet.

According to available information, the Raleys had left Lamesa this morning, driven to Snyder and picked up Nat, Mrs. Raley's uncle, reportedly a retired mail man.

The trio was returning to Lamesa when apparently the vehicle went out of control, careened off the left side of the road shortly after it passed over the bridge just east of the Gavitt Creek bridge (where the Oct. 3 fatal accident occurred), went down an embankment, crossed the ditch adjacent and came to rest on its top with the rear end riding a fence and the front end inside a mesquite-laden area. The car did not catch fire.

Possessions of the occupants, as well as parts of the car, were strewn for dozens of yards before the car stopped, indicating it probably rolled over one or more times.

Shoes, luggage, false teeth, spectacles, floor mats, a hat, a coin purse, billfolds, the dead dog—still wearing its red leather collar—were among items scattered about.

Blood had soaked a large portion of the head-lining of the car. Seats were torn loose and at least one tire, on the rear, was deflated. It may have triggered the accident.

Both men were thrown from the car. One victim was found near the passenger side of the overturned car, the other several yards away near the embankment.

Mrs. Raley was still in the car when help arrived.

Assistance was rendered by an unidentified truck driver who remained at the scene of the accident only a short time and then went on west.

Two Bell Funeral Home ambulances responded to the emergency. It was reported both men were still breathing, but unconscious. However, they were dead upon arrival.

It could not immediately be learned with which victim Mrs. Raley was brought to Snyder.

A daughter and son-in-law of Mrs. Raley sped from Big Spring upon being notified of the accident. They were Mr. and Mrs. David Henkell, 5ri Nolan, Big Spring. They were at the side of Mrs. Raley when she was wheeled to the operating room this morning. Henkell provided much of the information for this story.

Also summoned to the site was Borden County Sheriff Sid Reeder, who remained until the arrival of a Texas Highway Patrol officer, and assisted with the investigation.

The location of the accident was about one mile inside the Borden county line.

Henkell said another daughter, Mrs. Virginia Bentley, of Ohio, also survives the Raleys. A granddaughter of Mrs. Bentley, resides with the Raleys in Lamesa.

State highway maintenance workers stayed at the scene flagging traffic until the car was taken away by a wrecker.

WHERE TWO PERISHED—This 1956 Chevrolet plunged off the highway 17 miles west of Snyder on U. S. 180 this morning, resulting in fatal injuries to Clarence G. Raley of Lamesa and F. A. Nat of Port Arthur. Mrs. Beatrice Raley suffered injuries which were believed to be critical. (Staff photo by Chan Scrogin)

Explorer VII 'Gyroscope' Into Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States put into orbit today a new "gyroscope" satellite expected to answer many questions about space and weather.

The satellite, named Explorer VII, was put aloft with a powerful Juno II rocket fired here at 11:31 a.m. EDT.

In Washington, the National Space Agency announced at 1:22 p.m. that "Explorer VII is in orbit."

The satellite had completed one complete orbit around the earth shortly before the announcement, an agency spokesman said.

Weighing 91½ pounds, the satellite's main goal is to study cosmic radiation, knowledge of which is a key to space travel by man.

The 76-foot rocket rose ponderously from its launching pad. It accelerated rapidly and, after about 40 seconds, arched high in the sky and headed toward the northeast, spurting a brilliant tail of fire. A minute later it vanished in a cloud bank.

If all went right, all four stages would ignite in about 13 minutes, sending the payload into space at speed of 18,000 mile an hour.

It was the second space shot of the day from the cape. Earlier, a B47 bomber launched a 37-foot bold Orion missile, aiming it at a point 10 miles in front of the explorer VI "paddle wheel" satellite. At the time the satellite was at 160 miles altitude in the low point of its orbit and traveling at 26,000 miles an hour.

There was no immediate detail on the outcome beyond a description of the launching as "successful."

Further reports awaited study of telemetry signals from the missile and a comparison of those data with radar readings on its flight.

The launching was carried out over the Atlantic missile range by a B47 bomber from Patrick Air Force Base at 5 a. m.

No attempt was made to intercept or knock down the satellite, but only to pass near it in order to check the accuracy of the guidance system.

The missile was built by the Martin Co. as part of an Air Force contract to demonstrate the feasibility of firing ballistic missiles from aircraft.

The B47 fired the two-stage, 37-foot missile from beneath its wing while flying a few miles southeast of the Cape at an altitude of 35,000 feet.

At the moment of launch, the Paddle Wheel satellite was traveling north of here at its maximum speed of 26,000 miles an hour, at a height of about 160 miles, the low point on its highly elliptical orbit.

The missile was supposed to pass about 10 miles in front of Explorer VI.

Since the exact orbital position of the satellite was known, an accurate measurement of the miss distance is possible.

PET DIES IN CRASH—Brownie, the pet Chihuahua belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Raley, was killed when the Raley car went out of control and crashed on U. S. 180 west of Snyder this morning. Mr. Raley and his wife's uncle, F. A. Nat of Port Arthur, were fatally injured in the accident.

Poland Clings To Lead In U. N. Vote

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Poland clung to her lead today in a stubborn contest with Western-supported Turkey for a seat in the U.N. Security Council.

There was little change as the secret balloting went into its second day in the 82-nation General Assembly, but Poland's lead was trimmed slightly.

The vote on the 14th ballot was Poland 43 and Turkey 36, with two abstaining and one absent. On two ballots Monday, Poland polled 48 votes. A two-thirds majority of those present and voting is required for election.

The election of Poland to the economic and social council Monday failed to produce the major switch which some western diplomats expected. These delegates had believed that many countries would not feel like supporting Poland for seats in two major U.N. councils.

In an attempt to head off any such switch, the Soviet Union issued a statement urging Poland's supporters to stand firm.

"The election of Poland to the economic and social council by no means can or must mean that Poland cannot be simultaneously admitted to the Security Council," the Soviet delegation said.

On the 15th ballot Poland received 44 and Turkey 34.

In the voting for the Security Council seat that Japan gives up Jan. 1, Poland led the U.S.-backed Turks on all the first 13 ballots but failed to get the two-thirds majority necessary for election.

The vote on the final ballot was 46-34. Poland's highest total was 48 votes on the seventh ballot, six short of a win. Turkey's high score was 38, or 16 short.

After the 13th ballot, Argentina proposed that the Assembly halt the Security Council vote and take up the elections for the Economic and Social Council. Spotting the purpose of this, the Soviet Union attempted to hold up the ECOSOC votes, but was defeated 34-22 with 25 nations abstaining.

The United States has contended ever since Poland became a candidate for the two councils that she should not hold both seats at once and supported her for ECOSOC. Because of the strong American backing for the Turks, the Poles' showing in the Security Council race constituted a threat to American prestige.

In the secret balloting the Poles had the support of the nine-nation Soviet bloc, Yugoslavia, India and a number of other Asian or African nations, and almost half of the Latin-American bloc.

Youth Recaptured In 'Big Thicket'

HOUSTON (AP)—William Poten, 19, was arrested Monday night after spending 27 hours in the big thicket area near Conroe.

Poten said his diet included only five peanuts and a sip of water as he eluded sheriff's deputies and hounds.

Poten escaped Sunday as he was being returned to Houston from Weatherford where he was arrested Saturday on a Harris County auto theft warrant.

Hounds finally tracked Poten down.

Attack On Amendment Is Failure

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court refused Monday to consider arguments by a group of Texans seeking to have the 14th Amendment to the Constitution invalidated.

The amendment was adopted after the Civil War and was cited in the 1954 decision outlawing racial segregation in public schools.

Dan Moody, former governor, filed the attack. He appealed on behalf of Mrs. M. B. Buford and others who sought payment of 46 Texian loan bearer bonds issued by Texas in 1862. The $1,000 bonds, with 8 per cent interest, were payable to bearer July 1, 1877.

Texas refused to pay on the ground the bonds were void under Section 4 of the 14th Amendment. It prohibits any state from assuming or paying any debt or obligation incurred in aid of rebellion against the United States.

Moody said "Section One of the amendment has been so twisted and tortured by decisions involving economic, personal and governmental conflicts of all kinds that there is great uncertainty as to its meaning.

"We need a new 14th Amendment. The present amendment has outlived its usefulness.

"Furthermore it was never validly and lawfully adopted and it has the undying hatred of approximately a fourth of the people of the United States, who regard it as an expression of tyranny."

Light Rains Spreading In North Texas

By The Associated Press

Light to heavy rains developed in North Central and North Texas Tuesday and began to fan out toward West Texas.

The rains fell ahead of a cold front pushing southeastward and during the morning stretched from Vernon to Lamesa.

Gainesville in North Texas had heavy rain. A thunderstorm dropped 1.40 inches from 6 to 8 a.m. and rain continued.

Weatherford reported 1.10 inches before dawn, and about a half inch fell at Fort Worth.

Thundershowers developed into the South Plains and southward into the Pecos Valley and Big Bend Country. Drizzle fell in the Panhandle.

Back of the front, in the Panhandle, temperatures dropped to the 50s, ranged in the 60s along the front's edge, and elsewhere over the state were in the upper 60s and lower 70s.

Skies were mostly cloudy over the state except along the shower line extending from Cooper to Mineral Wells to San Angelo.

Forecasts indicated much the same kind of weather for the state through Wednesday with the front dropping temperatures about 10 degrees from Monday and Tuesday's maximums.

Dawn temperatures ranged from 52 at Dalhart to 78 at Palacios and Galveston after maximums Monday ranging from 79 at Lubbock to 95 at Alice.

Thunderstorms and showers fell along the Texas coast Monday and inland to Laredo on the Mexico-Texas border. A tornado touched down briefly in Corpus Christi and caused an estimated $5,000 damage. Blinding rain fell with the twister.

Other tornadoes danced in a thunderstorm that struck Texas City but the vicious winds never dropped to the ground.

South Ahead Of Schedule, Says Faubus

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Despite racial problems, Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas said today, industrial development of the South is nearly a year ahead of a schedule outlined to the Southern governors conference in 1955.

As chairman of the conference committee on industrial development, Faubus presented the annual report of the Southern Assn. of Science and Industry, an organization to promote technical and economic progress of the South.

The first SASI report was requested by the conference in 1953 and has been a regular part of the annual meeting since.

The Arkansas governor cited the Point Clear, Ala., conference of 1955 at which SASI predicted Southern states would add an average of 1,000 important new plants each year in the 1956-1965 period — a total which he said some had considered fantastic at that time.

But, he said, records show 1,059 plants in the first year, 1,314 the next, 1,424 the third, and that at least 1,000 apparently are assured this year, with 651 reported to date.

Nostalgic Ike Is Back Home

ABILENE, Kan. (AP) — President Eisenhower returned to his old home town today with a nostalgic look at the past and a warning for the potentially explosive world of the future.

"The world must learn to work together," Eisenhower said, "or finally it will not work at all."

This was a sort of pre-birthday party for the President. He will be 69 Wednesday.

And today he came back to Abilene, the town in which he grew up, to take part in ground breaking ceremonies for the Eisenhower Presidential library.

This will be the final resting place for Eisenhower's military and presidential papers.

Employment Dips Slightly

WASHINGTON (AP) — National employment fell off seasonally by 849,000 to 66,374,000 in September. This drop was expected because of the return of temporarily employed students to school.

Unemployment fell by 196,000 to 3,230,000—also primarily due to the job seeking youngsters leaving the labor market to resume classes.

The idle figure—being still over three million—raised the prospect that Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell may have to eat his hat on the Labor Department building steps.

Mitchell has pledged to do just that if the October idle figure was above three million.

Seymour Wolfbein, deputy assistant secretary of labor, said that with the steel strike still continuing the unemployment total for October probably will exceed three million.

Wolfbein said that layoffs due to the steel strike had topped 225,000 in early October, in addition to the 500,000 striking steel workers.

He said that the rate of layoffs due to the steel strike, formerly 10,000 a week, now has stepped up to 25,000 a week and may jump to 50,000 soon.

Wolfbein told a news conference that the wage-loss to steel strikers and others laid off because of the steel strike has mounted to 863 million dollars through the first week of October. He said the hardest hit states in order, are Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana.

The decline in both employment and unemployment in September although seasonally expected because of the return of students to school from the labor market, was accentuated by the steel strike effects.

September employment, at 66,347,000 was 1,718,000 higher than a year ago. Unemployment at 3,230,000 was 881,000 less than a year ago.

McDonald Would Meet Steel Heads

WASHINGTON (AP) — Steelworkers Union President David J. McDonald today invited heads of the four biggest steel companies to meet with him immediately to hammer out a settlement of the 91-day strike.

The invitation—McDonald called it a "challenge"—was issued during his testimony to President Eisenhower's fact-finding board which will advise the President on Friday whether the strike is a national emergency justifying a Taft-Hartley injunction to open the mills for an 80-day cooling off period.

McDonald told the board the union has been trying since April to get direct negotiations with chief executive officers of the major steel companies. He said those officers always participated in bargaining in past disputes.

"I personally would like to sit down with these men of responsibility — primarily Roger Blough, A. B. Homer, Avery Adams and Charles White —and really talk out the issues in an attempt to settle the dispute," McDonald said.

"Let us go to work, while this board proceeds with its fact-finding investigation," he said.

"I challenge these men to appear.

"The chief executive officers of the steel companies are the responsible people and the decision is theirs. I would like to meet with them right now."

Blough is board chairman of U.S. Steel. Homer heads Bethlehem, White heads Republic, and Adams heads Jones & Laughlin Steel Co.

Union negotiators have talked with the steel companies coordinating committee. The committee represents 12 major companies, and is headed by R. Conrad Cooper as chief negotiator. Cooper is executive vice-president of U. S. Steel.

McDonald's challenge came after George W. Taylor, chairman of the fact-finding board, told union witnesses that the board could not consider the direct issue of whether the Taft-Hartley law would be a proper remedy for the steel crisis.

Taylor told McDonald and the union counsel, Arthur J. Goldberg, that "your failure, and the failure of the companies, to settle this dispute presents a serious problem for the country."

"The issue raised by the failure of collective bargaining in this case is a far greater issue than the issues which remain unsettled between you and the steel companies," Taylor continued.

McDonald interjected that the union has been trying to achieve settlement since April 10, but has not been able to bargain directly with those in the industry who have decision-making power.

Nine-Area Annexation Plan Screened Again By Council

By CHAN SCROGIN

Monday night's meeting of the Snyder city council was not unlike a baseball game.

The council was playing another nine-area game in its effort to win the annexation series.

Some of the area went one-two-three, others more slowly as each player pondered decisions he knew he had to field.

The "crowd" was small.

The score... six to three.

Next scheduled game—Monday night, Oct. 19, same stadium, same time, same opponent.

When it was all over, however, it was apparent that the council was doing everything within reason to appease both the forces of good and progressive government and those who were being affected by the city's annexation program.

The council "hewed the line" on policy and made no exceptions where the benefit to the majority over-rode the inconvenience of a few.

In area one, council agreed to extend the annexation line only to the south side of the railroad tracks which formed a major portion of the north boundary, rather than to the north side of the railroad right-of-way, since it was obvious the city would have no purpose of annexing the right-of-way except for tax purposes.

It was brought out that the city would not have to service this right-of-way and that it would approximately double the railroad's taxes on this portion.

It was also agreed that the final reading, and effective date of annexation, would be so scheduled that it would fall on December 28 1959, thus permitting Roy Lashaway to conduct his fireworks business for the Christmas season outside the city limits.

It was agreed to leave area two as originally drawn despite the fact its boundaries would include about 90 per cent of the Cleghorn farm home which fronts about 100 feet from the center of the road. The boundary goes back to the 150-foot mark.

Much the same situation was faced in area three and involved the Laird Jones home. However, council retained already-drawn boundaries.

Area four was the longest "inning" in the annexation game last night. Discussed, passed temporarily and then returned to for disposition, it was finally agreed that the "neck" extending north of Haines street would be "chopped off" from the original drawing. Cost of providing utility services especially sewer, governed the council's decision.

Voting to delete the neck was split. The matter could still swing the other way when the council meets next Monday with last night's absent member—Steve Birdwell—present.

Area five was taken in as originally drawn.

Area six was discussed, passed then returned to. In the final discussion Monday night, it was decided that the entire originally-drawn area would not be annexed.

The "square" portion east of Ave. E will still be annexed but on the west side of Ave. E only a strip 150 feet wide will be annexed, rather than the full, extended area.

Area seven next came up for consideration. It was agreed that a minor boundary change would be made to include all, rather than a portion, of the McCrary property. This was done at the request of McCrary made a week ago at council meeting.

Council then agreed to hear a request made by Warlick Carr, of the Lubbock firm of Key and Carr, in behalf of the developers of Bassridge addition.

Carr said that it was his opinion, and that of his clients, Mr. and Mrs. Prentis Bass, that the city should reimburse them for all or a portion of the $7,200 the Basses have invested in sewer lines that have been installed in accordance with city specifications.

He pointed out that they had spent some $46,000 on paving, curbing, water, etc., which they realized they would be unable to recover, but that the sewer line was another item.

Mayor Harold Bennett told Carr that council had already expressed

More Arguments On Tidelands Are Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Supreme Court called for further argument today in its effort to determine whether the government or Texas and four other Gulf Coast states can lay legal claim to submerged land beyond the three-mile limit.

Monday, U. S. Solicitor General Lee Rankin spelled out several times the government position that the U.S. line is three miles seaward and "no state boundary can extend one foot or even one inch beyond the national boundary."

To this Louisiana Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion replied:

"If no state territorial boundary may exist outside a national boundary and if the Congress has approved state boundaries existing beyond three miles, it necessarily follows that Congress approved a national boundary for [illegible] Submerged Lands Act in fixing historic state boundaries as the measure of the grant (to states)."

What Congress meant in the act is at issue in the case. The two sides disagree on that as they disagree on virtually all other of the many knotty legal points involved.

Rankin is carrying the government's argument in the 13 hours of presentation being allowed by the court.

Although Texas and Louisiana have the most at stake in the case, the position they take is supported by Florida, Alabama and Mississippi.

Chief Justice Warren (Calif.) and Justice Clark (Tex.) have disqualified themselves because of prior interest in the case.

State spokesmen possibly through Thursday will present questions of pertinence to their respective states. In each case, Rankin will be given time to answer.

Ownership of the oil-rich offshore areas said states should have title out to three miles and that they also should have the right to present claims to a wider area.

Subsequently the government filed the present suit asking it be declared entitled to resources of the submerged lands beyond the three mile mark.

They also cite that Congress in the 1953 Submerged Lands Act recognized claims of the Gulf Coast states to submerged lands beyond three miles.

Plastic Sphere For Space Is Due Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—A huge aluminum-coated plastic sphere designed to serve as either an earth satellite or a moon probe is to be tested soon.

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration declined today to pinpoint the date set for the testing beyond saying it will be before the end of the year.

The sphere, details of which were made public several months ago, is undergoing tests at NASA's Langley research center near Newport News, Va.

Researchers are hopeful that the sphere, which measures 100 feet in diameter when inflated, can be utilized as a communications satellite to relay radio signals from one point on earth to other parts of the world.

Decline Is Noted In Vegetable Yield

AUSTIN (AP)—A 30 per cent decline in fall vegetable production in Texas is indicated, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said today.

Lighter plantings of carrots and lettuce in the northwest account for the decrease. The increases in planting of snap beans, eggplant and peppers in South Texas only partially offset the drastic reduction of carrots in the Panhandle.

A small acreage of the 1960 onion crop has been seeded in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and Coastal Bend areas. Seed beds for transplanted crops are in good condition.

VIC Group To Tulia Session

A member of the Snyder High School Vocational Industrial Club (chapter 115) was elected to office over the weekend at a district meeting in Tulia, giving the local chapter two district officers.

Douglas Brunson of Snyder was named district sergeant-at-arms, while Carroll Cox was elected district vice president in the spring meeting of 1959.

The purpose of the meeting was to elect officers, to elect a district sweetheart, to initiate new members into the club and to have a training period for new officers.

Esther Ann Firestone, Snyder's candidate for district sweetheart, was one of five finalists, but was defeated by Kay Keen of Lubbock.

Plans were discussed for attending the spring district meeting in El Paso in March.

itself that the Basses were entitled to no reimbursement but that if Carr and City Attorney Woody Parks cared to confer on the problem later, it was quite satisfactory. Parks agreed to discuss the issue.

Snyder Attorney Renal Rosson last week presented a similar argument to council for consideration. It was at that time that council's opinion on reimbursement was expressed.

Both areas eight and nine were agreed to be annexed as presented last week.

Before embarking on the annexation problem last night, council agreed to accept the resignation of Zoning Board of Adjustment member Gene Thompson. Recommended to succeed him was Mark McLaughlin.

Council accepted the recommendation.

Several budget transfers were also approved in which funds allotted to various categories, but not used up, were transferred to other categories which were running short.

Council set next Monday Oct. 19, as its next official meeting time. It was expected that the annexation areas would get their first reading at that time following their revision.

Parks said last night that when any of the boundaries are altered, it is necessary to make another first reading.

There will be a public hearing on the annexations before the final reading, tentatively set for Dec. 28, 1959.

Painter To Face Charge

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP) — Gawexsey Smith, 29, a California painter who left church Sunday to confess a bank holdup, has been charged with bank robbery and abducting a hostage.

The charges were filed here Monday by U. S. Atty. Harry G. Fender.

A removal hearing is scheduled today in San Francisco. U. S. Commissioner Harold Jewett set Smith's bail at $25,000 at an arraignment.

Smith told officers in Redwood City, Calif., Sunday that he robbed the Webbers Falls, Okla., bank of $2,694 last Feb. 3. He said he used the money to pay medical bills for his wife and children.

Redwood City officers said Smith told them his wife urged he attend church Sunday. He did, and during services turned to a man beside him and said "I want to confess a bank robbery."

Lopez Mateos Is Happy Over Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mexico's President Adolfo Lopez Mateos flew out of Washington today with a prediction that his talks with President Eisenhower during a state visit will further improve already-cordial relations.

In an airport statement as he set out for a brief U. S. tour and a call in Canada, the Mexican executive also paid high personal tribute to Eisenhower and expressed his appreciation for the welcome given him during his four-day stay here.

In the parting statement, Lopez Mateos described the hospitality extended to him here as "an unforgettable proof of the esteem which exists for my country in this great country."

He said that when Eisenhower visited him in Acapulco, Mexico, earlier this year, "I had the opportunity to appreciate the gifts which have made him one of the most beloved and respected figures in world politics."

"After our meetings in Washington and on the Gettysburg farm I confirmed my view that there are combined in him as in few statesmen, qualities of the public man and the common man, full of dignity, of simplicity, and guided by a noble concern for human destinies which in large part weigh upon his shoulders," he added.

On Texas' first scrimmage play against Maryland, Fullback Jack Collins went 86 yards.

FOR HOBGOBLIN treats use cut-out bread and sandwich fillings for jack-o-lantern sandwiches and pound cake plus frosting for black cat cakes.

For Little And Big Hobglobins

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Newsfeatures Food Editor

HERE'S HOW tricks become treats! With little trouble, you can hatch a batch of jack-o-lantern sandwiches and black cat cakes for parties on All Hallows Eve. All ages and all hands will go for them.

For jack-o-lantern sandwiches, slice a round loaf of Boston brown bread. Spread cream or cream-style cottage cheese over half the slices. With tiny cookie cutters or a small sharp knife, cut holes in the remaining slices to resemble eyes and mouths; place these cut-out slices over the cheese-spread slices.

To decorate the sandwiches, put a piece of semi-sweet chocolate in each of the cut-out eyes and small pieces of nuts (for teeth) in the cut-oud mouths. If you add a dab of cheese at the top or bottom of the jack-o-lanterns you can affix some shredded coconut for hair or whiskers.

To fancy up the plain cheese filling, you may wish to add finely chopped dates; and if grown-ups are to be the eaters, a little finely chopped ginger (the crystallized or preserved-in-syrup sort) may also be mixed in.

For 10 howling pussies, use the following recipe.

BLACK CAT CAKES

INGREDIENTS: 1 bakers' loaf pound cake, 1 cup confectioners' sugar, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, 4 teaspoons (about) milk, ¼ teaspoon orange extract, ¼ teaspoon grated orange rind, yellow and red food coloring, 10 thin round chocolate-mint patties, 3 squares (¾-inch each) sweet cooking chocolate (from a ¼-pound package).

METHOD: Cut pound cake into 10 equal slices. Blend sugar and butter; add enough milk to make spreading consistency. Mix in orange extract and rind. Add enough food coloring to make yellow-orange. Spread over top and sides of cake slices; put mint patties in place for bodies. Melt chocolate over hot water; dip a toothpick in chocolate and paint on heads, ears and tails of cats.

Altrurian Club Hears Art Program

The Altrurian Club met Friday afternoon at the Martha Ann Woman's Club. Mrs. R. L. Gray was program chairman, assisted by Mrs. Frank H. Butler.

Mrs. Gray spoke to the group on art, bringing out some of the Fine Arts such as painting, music, literature, architecture, landscap-

Useful arts as various crafts, weaving, dying, printing, interior decorating and etc. How harmony, proportion, balance, rhythm and emphasis have to be considered in every form of art, designing and building.

"Art can be a part of our daily lives in that it helps us to do more beautifully the simple things in life, as well as the more unusual," Mrs. Gray added.

Mrs. Butler spoke on the different aspects of Japanese Art. "Present day Japanese art is mainly of two types, western style done in oils, with native art in block-ink and wood block prints.

"Artistic ability seems to be a basic attribute of the Japanese and this characteristic is reflected in their every day lives. They do not have the color elements that we in America do, therefore their color application is not strong."

Mrs. Butler showed one of her drawings done with lithograph pencil along with a most interesting collection of precious stones, including moon stone, opal, garnet and others which she used in making costume jewelry which was on display.

Mrs. Lillian Jones, art teacher, gave an informative talk on art work being done in the high school, showing bulletins made by the students learning the use of primary colors, color texture and rhythm. She also showed color slides of work done by the students.

Refreshments was served to 23 member and the guest by Mrs. Gray the hostess.

Rude Guest May Prove Weekend Pest

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

IF YOU WANT to be a popular weekend guest, give a little of yourself to the hostess.

Some friends are likely to invite you to their home for weekends or school vacations. And young people are likely to forget that there are older people in the home. The same rules of courtesy that should apply in your own home, come into play anywhere. The trouble is young people forget their manners at home, and when they are visiting are likely to antagonize the mother of their friends. Here are some questions to test your Visit Quotient.

HOW DO YOU GREET YOUR HOSTESS? Do you act like you are happy you accepted the invitation or do you slink into the house shyly behind your school friend, mumble, something unintelligible and slink to the room you have been given?

ABOUT MEALS: Do you offer to lend a hand in the kitchen? Set the table? Help to remove dishes from the table? Help with dish washing? Drying?

EVENING AT HOME: Do you ask whether the family objects to loud record playing at betime? Do you retire from the living room without explaining that you are going to your room. Do you offer to help with service if there are other guests and you have been invited to join them after dinner.

EVENING OUT: IF you go out on a date and you shouldn't, unless your school chum hostess is invited also; do you get home at the hour that is agreeable to your friend and her mother, or do you try to persuade your friend to make it later, or do you tell her mother that you are permitted later hours. You should abide by the rules in the household.

BATHROOM MANNERS: Even if you have a bath to yourself, don't dawdle or clutter it up with your beauty preparations. Remove hair from your comb and dispose of it. If powder spills on the sink remove it as soon as possible. Keep the top on the tube of toothpaste, especially if you are sharing the bathroom. Little nuisances add up.

WHAT TO BRING: It's a good idea not to arrive with a truckload of gear and garments. A small house may not have closet room for all those extras, especially if your are spending a couple of weeks. Check with your friend and find out what kind of clothes you will be wearing, how many date dresses to bring, whether you should bring other equipment such as skis, ice skates.

Did You Know?

Did you know that you can use cream, along with oil, in a French-type salad dressing? Or you may use all cream with the vinegar and seasonings.

Legion Aux. Magazine Campaign

Mrs. Mary Franks, president of the auxiliary said, all of the auxiliary share of the proceeds would be used to purchase hospital beds, wheel chairs and crutches. These items are available from the post to any one who needs them.

The Snyder Legion Post has for several years maintained as a part of its community service program lending of facilities needed by anyone, regardless of whether they are veterans, needed in recuperation from illness or injury at home.

E. L. Hicks is the representative conducting the subscription sales for the American Legion Auxiliary. The campaign has been approved by Earl Abercrombie, sheriff. Each representative will carry proper identification which Hicks insists that prospective customers verify.

Cadillac

The Fifty-fifth . . . and the Finest!

It was shortly after the turn of the century that the first Cadillac car—"the automobile built to the highest standards it is possible to enforce on the production of a motor car"—made its appearance.

Every year since—save for a period when Cadillac devoted its energies to the national defense—a new interpretation of this unique goal has been presented to the world's motorists.

The superlative motor car illustrated above is the fifty-fifth in this unprecedented succession of distinguished automotive creations.

And it is, far and away, the finest and the noblest Cadillac of them all!

Never before has Cadillac artistry created such elegance of form and line. It has a commanding presence that is uniquely Cadillac.

Never before has Cadillac engineering produced so abundantly. The car is smooth and quiet to a degree that challenges belief.

Never before has Cadillac craftsmanship provided such interior luxury. And the complement of conveniences has never been more satisfying.

No matter how many of the fifty-five Cadillacs you may have owned and enjoyed over the years—you still have a wonderful experience ahead of you in this latest "car of cars."

We suggest you see and drive it very soon. And we hope you will come expecting great things.

Brown's Bid For Martyrdom Spurred North-South Rift

By JOHN LUNDQUIST

HARPERS FERRY, W. Va. (AP)—The bizarre Harpers Ferry raid was nearly 24 hours old. John Brown and his exhausted band awaited fate inside their fort.

Of the 19 men who had marched on the federal arsenal in Harpers Ferry the night of Sunday, Oct. 16, 1859, only Brown and four others remained unwounded at dawn Tuesday. The dramatic blow at slavery had brought no slave insurrection, no support — only entrapment or death for Brown and his men.

At the first light, Col. Robert E. Lee, commanding the forces out to capture the raiders, sent Lt. J.E.B. Stuart to the heavy wooden doors of the besieged fire engine house to demand surrender.

Brown declined, unless he and his band were permitted to retreat with their hostages.

Stuart, who remembered the bearded, fierce-eyed Brown as the man who had given us so much trouble in the antislavery fights in Kansas, wouldn't hear of it. A dozen Marines using sledge hammers and a heavy ladder as a battering ram stormed the stronghold. Two Marines were wounded, one fatally. Their comrades bayoneted two of Brown's men to death.

The storming party's leader, Lt. Israel Green, aimed a sword thrust at Brown, but the weapon bent on Brown's belt buckle. Green then beat him to the ground with the sword hilt.

The raid was over. Of Brown's 22 followers, 10 were killed, 7 escaped, and 5 were taken prisoner. Two fugitives, captured in southern Pennsylvania within a week, were returned, tried and hanged like the other prisoners.

Now, in defeat, Brown began to fashion another type of attack—something which some contemporary Southerners had foreseen when they warned against making a martyr of the old abolitionist.

In the crowded courtroom at Charles Town, Brown bore himself with dignity and skill as the state's prosecutors presented a case of murder and treason against Virginia. Was Brown deranged, as many claimed? He rebuffed efforts to enter a plea of insanity. Through much of the trial he lay, grim and silent, on his stretcher, for his wounds still bothered him. Sometimes he protested a point.

On Nov. 2 Judge Richard Parker sentenced him to be hanged one month later. By this death, Brown himself said, he could be of greater service to the antislavery cause than by his life.

Fed by Brown's heroic and touching letters of peaceful resignation and unshaken conviction, sympathy in the north swelled. Proportionately, the South's disgust intensified.

The last days passed quickly for the condemned man. He was ready, he declared. His life had been varied, full and frequently violent. He had uprooted his family time and again as he went from trade to trade, place to place—tanner, shepherd, farmer, surveyor, cattle dealer, real estate speculator and wool merchant.

His hatred of slavery, grown to consuming passion, dated from early youth. But not until 1856 had he actively fought against the institution. A Bible-reading, Bible-quoting patriarch, Brown took up what he considered the sword of righteousness after following his sons to Kansas. There he led a company of raiders in wild skirmishing against proslavery forces moving in from Missouri.

There, too, he acquired the blackest mark against his name in the killing of five innocent men at Osawatomie in May 1856 during one of his forays. Their chief offense was living in proslavery territory. Brown denied killing any of the victims, but as leader of the party, which included four of his sons, he certainly shared the guilt.

All this was far behind him on Dec. 2 when they drove old John Brown to his execution, seated on his coffin in a horse-drawn cart. Thousands of troops were deployed around Harpers Ferry to prevent any last - minute attempt to free him. At an open field near Charles Town Brown mounted the scaffold.

He shook the hands of authorities near him, said a calm goodby and, after a white hood was slipped over his head, stepped onto the trapdoor.

The sheriff asked Brown if he wanted to give a signal with a dropped handkerchief. No, said Brown, "just don't keep me waiting too long."

The trap door was sprung. After a few moments of silence, Col. J.T.L. Preston intoned: "So perish all such enemies of Virginia. All such enemies of the union. All such foes of the human race."

John Brown had perished, but it was not the end.

Next Sekend there will be an elaborately planned centennial observance of John Brown's raid at Harpers Ferry. Sponsors are careful not to call it a "celebration." While Brown struck a blow to free the slaves, he also helped kindle fires of animosity that time has not completely dimmed.

In the Civil War that came 18 months later, Harpers Ferry changed hands several times and its armory was burned to the ground. It was taken from Virginia when West Virginia was formed.

Long ago the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad filled in the stretch of land near where Brown made his fort. Armory buildings stood to raise the modern station above flood level.

The Department of Interior is restoring 28 buildings and digging up some of the arsenal remains as part of Harpers Ferry National Monument program. Many of the old shops and houses still stand on Shenandoah street, reminders of a haunting, grim past. The engine house fort of John Brown has been moved to higher ground and now is a museum and souvenir shop. A white obelisk eight feet high marks the original location.

The museum sells Harpers Ferry banners, little cannon made in Japan and flimsy swords for junior Confederates, flags, Confederate caps and pictures of Gen. Robert E. Lee. But no memorials to the famed abolitionist. Brown is buried at North Elba, N.Y.

Confident Van Doren Now Faces New Quiz

By ARTHUR EVERETT

NEW YORK (AP) — Charles Van Doren, at the height of his popularity as a television quiz show winner, was described as a self-confident young man. Now a House investigating committee wants to know whether that confidence stemmed from answers provided him in advance.

A subpoena has been issued for his appearances in Washington. Committee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) said: "Mr. Van Doren has purposely avoided service."

Van Doren publicly has denied he was involved in the admitted trickery that took place on NBC's defunct "Twenty-One" show. But thus far he has not appeared before the committee—either by invitation or command.

Van Doren, 33, gained fame in TV giveaway circles during a 14-week isolation booth stint in 1956-57 on "Twenty-One."

He won $129,000 before he was defeated in the quiz game March 11, 1957, by a lawyer, Vivienne Nearing. Van Doren was unable to name Baudouin as King of Belgium.

It was estimated that after taxes Van Doren would be able to keep about $30,000 of his winnings. But six weeks after he went off the air, he married and thus, through a joint tax return, was able to keep from $50,000 to $55,000. He denied that the tax savings motivated his marriage. Fifteen months later he and his wife Geraldine had a baby girl.

Van Doren is the son of Mark Van Doren, the writer and teacher. His mother is a former newspaperwoman. The younger Van Doren attributed his wide range of knowledge to the fact that "in my family we were always in the habit of looking things up when we didn't know the answer."

He took his bachelor's degree at St. John's and a masters in mathematics at Columbia University. Van Doren turned to literature for his Ph. D., intending to write fiction. In pursuit of his goal, he became a $4,200-a-year English instructor at Columbia.

A month after his TV appearances ended, Van Doren signed a $50,000 contract with NBC as a consultant on public affairs and educational programing. For the next 2½ years he worked on various NBC shows, including "Today."

In the summer of 1958, authorities began to receive complaints that various TV shows — among them "Twenty-One" — had been rigged, that performers not only were supplied questions or answers in advance, but actually were rehearsed on how to answer them. The subsequent investigation sounded the death knell of big money TV giveaways.

At the outset of the scandal, Van Doren denied he ever had received any help.

"I have heard rumors of irregularities on quiz shows," he said, "but I never heard any proof. Most of the shows are absolutely on the up and up."

But as the probe shifted from the district attorney's office in New York to the House investigating group in Washington, Chairman Harris said it was an undisputed fact that more than half of the "Twenty-One" shows were fixed.

Harris suggested that under the circumstances Van Doren tell his story before the committee.

Instead, Van Doren dropped out of sight, dodging reporters. Columbia gave him a leave of absence from his English classroom. His reticence led NBC to suspend him last week from his network job pending the outcome of the Washington probe.

At that time, Harris said, he expects testimony from Van Doren, who once complained: "It's silly and distressing to think that people don't have more faith in quiz shows."

Ike Receives Three Gifts

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower was served a triple order of gifts Monday night when he went out to dinner with White House newsmen.

Eisenhower and President Adolfo Lopez Mateos of Mexico were guests at the annual stag dinner of the White House Correspondents Assn. in a Washington hotel.

Eisenhower, who will be 69 Wednesday, received:

From the White House reporters: a duplicate of "Calamity Jane," the famous putter Bobby Jones used to win many golf tournaments. Jones made the presentation.

From Lopez Mateos: a large bronze bust of Eisenhower by the famous Mexican sculptor, Escobedo.

From Mexican newsmen here with Lopez Mateos: a leather golf bag inscribed "We also like Ike."

The gift-receiving sequence for the President started at noon when a frisky baby elephant arrived on the White House grounds. Named Dzimbo, the elephant is 14 months old and weighs 440 pounds.

Dzimbo was a gift of the French Community of African Republics. After personally feeding him a carrot, the President turned the elephant over to the Washington National Zoo.

Truman Due To Run Into Demo Battle

By CLAYTON HICKERSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Former President Harry S. Truman, due here Saturday for a Democratic Party rally in his honor, will run smack into a terrific fight embroiling his beloved Democrats.

This is no assumption that Truman, the old "give 'em hell" campaigner of 1948, will be embarrassed. Greater events than an intra-party fight in Texas have failed to ruffle the exterior of the man from Independence. And nobody loves a fight better than Harry.

But the fighting, on statewide and local levels, may be embarrassing to those Democrats who would like to present a united front at the 1960 nominating convention, observers believe.

This comes about because it becomes plainer with each passing day that Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson is available for a "Draft Lyndon" campaign to snag the party's presidential nomination. It is extremely difficult to fan up a draft when everybody is busy with political throat cutting.

The throat cutting, a mild term for political mayhem, began in the State Democratic Convention in Dallas in 1956 when labor leaders within the party, miffed at Senator Johnson, refused to go along with his candidate for national committeewoman, Mrs. Lloyd Bentsen of McAllen.

The labor men, with considerable liberal backing, threatened to turn the Dallas convention into chaos.

It was either Mrs. R. D. (Frankie) Randolph of Houston or chaos. Johnson was forced to yield. And gravel-voiced, tart - tongue Mrs. Randolph has been a thorn in his side ever since.

First thing out of the box, Mrs. Randolph, no political novice, formed the Democrats of Texas (DPT) organization when she disagreed with the make-up of the State Democratic Executive Committee, which she said contained too many old backers of former Gov. Allan Shivers "and his ilk."

The DOT was replete with such liberal Democrats as Dist. Judge Jim Sewell of Corsicana and Creekmore Fath of Austin, a national committee employe during the Truman administrations.

Senator Johnson and his "moderates" stayed away from the DOT meetings in big numbers. Sen. Ralph Yarborough (D-Tex), insisting that he was no prefix Democrat, attended the meetings.

When Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler saw fit to criticize the "congressional leadership of the party," meaning Johnson and Rayburn, Mrs. Randolph refused comment. National Committeeman Byron Skelton of Temple raked the chairman over the coals.

There has been considerable talk that Mrs. Randolph must be removed before Senator Johnson can go to the national convention with solid Texas backing. Recently the talk has been that Johnson again has agreed to let Mrs. Randolph stay in her seat as a sop to Texas labor, not too happy over the recently passed national labor legislation.

And more recently—since the last meeting of the National Democratic Committee—Mrs. Randolph has been strangely quiet. She's scheduled, the newspapers say, to sit on the speaker's platform Saturday with Rayburn, Johnson, Yarborough, Skelton, and State Chairman Ed Connally of Abilene.

But what happens?

The Dallas conservative element of the party is all torn up about the whole thing. An outspoken conservative member of the county committee quit Monday in what he called "a declaration of independence from the lustful leadership of both major parties."

He was Ed C. Schwille who liberals dislike because he openly supported Republican Rep. Bruce Alger of Dallas for election over Democratic candidates.

Democratic Chairman Ed Drake of Dallas called Saturday's Truman rally "a day-long DOT convention."

He wrote Connally that the rally is sponsored "by the ultra-liberal, ADA-CIO fringe" of the party. He charges sponsors of being guilty of distortion in claiming it to be a unity meeting sponsored by the official party.

Drake also charged that money raised at the rally would go "to defeat Democratic officials in this area who will not follow the liberals' orders."

"Like Paul Butler," Drake told Connally, "They expect us to knuckle under or get out of the party."

And Dan Patton Jr., Dallas man heading the rally, countered with:

"Only in Dallas could one find the incredible situation wherein the county chairman of a political party would attack the top state leaders of his party for attending a rally honoring a former President of the United States."

Hagler On Trial Again

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)— David Fred Hagler of Fort Worth went on trial Monday on charges of swindling an Oklahoma City couple on a food club operation.

Hagler, acquitted of a torch slaying near Sulphur, Okla., in 1956, is charged with fraud in obtaining $201 from E. L. and Dorthy Drane who obtained goods from his Oklahoma Wholesale Food Distributing Co.

Drane said he was assured that by paying $78 membership fee he would be able to secure meats at wholesale prices from Hagler's firm.

Works Overtime Thinking Up Lies

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Harry Oliver, 71¾ years old, is working overtime these days thinking up lies for the next issue of his newspaper, the Desert Rat Scrap Book.

This publication, issued four times a year, has two slogans. "Price 10 cents—only one lousy thin dime," and "Only newspaper in America you can open in the wind."

The latter refers to the fact that the scrap book is printed on one big piece of paper, folded four times. Its content consists of philosophy, wit and facts.

Oliver says his memory produces the jokes, his imagination produces the facts. The philosophy comes from everywhere — and nowhere.

Oliver's house, called Fort Oliver, is far out on the desert. He says the buzzards come back every year like the swallows come back to Capistrano.

Its front yard is full of rusty relics, including Oliver's 17-year-old dog, Whiskers. Whiskers is getting deaf. Oliver bought him a hearing aid, but Whiskers ate it. He thought it was a peanut.

"Now he keeps hearing his stomach rumble and thinks it's thunder," Oliver explains. "He goes in the house to get out of the rain."

Rain on the desert? Well, a six-inch rain means the drops are six inches apart, Oliver explains.

Oliver too has whiskers. They're white, like his hair. He is 71¾ years old because "after you pass 70 you count your age like children. You put in the quarters and the halves."

Besides Whiskers, Oliver has two bob-tail cats, Dot and Comma. "They're supposed to help me punctuate," he says. Right now he's trying to teach Whiskers to bark in italics.

Oliver invented the mule-cussing contest and the lazy dog contest. The best cussed-out mule and the laziest dog get the prizes.

Whether you like Oliver's paper or not, it only costs one lousy thin dime.

New Windows To Fill Hole From Blast

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Three stained-glass windows featuring a red, white and blue motif now fill the gaping hole blasted in a wall of an Atlanta Jewish temple a year ago.

Rabbi Jacob M. Rothschild, head of the Hebrew Benevolent Congregation, said he considered the new windows "symbolize the basic faith of the people."

Rothschild made the statement Monday on the first anniversary of the bombing of the house of worship. About 50 sticks of dynamite caused $100,000 damage to the structure but no one was injured.

A building program was under way at the time of the blast and "we simply carried on with it," Rothschild said. The damage has been repaired and additional classrooms and an auditorium are being added.

The explosion Oct. 12, 1958, touched off an intensive manhunt and led to the posting of rewards totaling more than $25,000.

George Bright, was tried twice on a charge of conspiring to dynamite the temple. The first jury was unable to reach a verdict, the second acquitted him.

Three other Atlanta men remain to be tried in the case.

SS Chief Has A Fan

WASHINGTON (AP) — If President Eisenhower ever visits a certain small city in Kentucky, Secret Service Chief U. E. Baughman will scan the faces of all bystanders with special care.

Baughman has few clues with which to spot the person he'll be seeking. He knows only that he should look for a small boy wearing a big smile.

The Secret Service chief's interest in the boy was aroused by this letter to Baughman:

"You may not be reading this letter but who every is I want to tell them that I am sixth grade boy who is very impressed with there job and duties.

"I have just finest reading a book about some of your duties. I won't to tell you how much I appreciated your never ending job of protecting the President, guarding against counterveiting, and forging checks and other such end less jobs.

"If you every come to my town escorting the President you might see a boy with a big smile on his face cheering with the crowd. That boy will be me. I will be cheering for you the men who protect the President as well as the president."

Baughman wrote the youngster a note of thanks.

The Secret Service asked that the letter-writer not be identified, partly because his teacher might take him to task for his spelling.

Reunion Is Finally Held, But Too Late

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — The family reunion that Frank Sandoval had been wanting so long was held Monday.

The 11 children of the 61-year-old city worker were here for his funeral. He died last week in an auto accident.

Mishap Proves Fatal

VICTORIA (AP)— Juan Lopez, 75, died Monday of injuries suffered Saturday night when he was hit by an auto. His death was the first from traffic here in nearly two years.

Battle Off Of Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Gov. John S. Battle of Virginia has resigned from the Civil Rights Commission, which recently issued a controversial report on Negro voting rights, education and housing.

Battle was the only dissenter on the six-man commission in its recommendation for federal voting registrars where necessary to assure Negroes and other minority groups the right to vote.

He was joined by two other Southern members in objecting to another commission proposal. The three Northern members proposed a constitutional amendment to prevent voting discrimination, assuring the right to vote to any citizen who meets his state's age and residence requirements and who is not legally confined at the time of registration or election.

Battle said he felt present laws were adequate in both cases.

In a letter of resignation, accepted by President Eisenhower Monday, Battle said he wanted to return to law practice in Charlottesville, Va.

Candy Barr Loses Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Strip teaser Candy Barr lost her last chance Monday to escape a 15-year Texas prison term for narcotics possession. The Supreme Court refused to hear her appeal.

The actress was convicted in Dallas in February of 1957 under her real name, Juanita Dale Phillips.

There is no further appeal. Candy must now go to Texas' Goree Prison Farm for women near Huntsville.

Candy for years has claimed she is 23 years old and she doesn't look any older. She is one of the highest paid in her profession, something like $2,000 per week in New Orleans, Las Vegas, and Hollywood.

With good behavior and luck, the baby-faced blonde can get out of Goree in six years or so.

More Prosecution Witnesses Called

CHELSEA, Vt. (AP)—The state called more prosecution witnesses today in the murder trial of Robert O. Welch, 45, charged with what the state contends was a vigilante slaying.

The state contends Orville A. Gibson, 47, prosperous dairy farmer, was killed as punishment for beating his farmhand, Eri Martin, 57, for spilling two cans of milk on Christmas Day, 1957.

Gibson disappeared from his cow barn early on the morning of New Year's Eve of 1957. His trussed body was found in the Connecticut River several miles away three months later. The medical examiner's report said he died of asphyxiation.

Only Welch is on trial. Frank W. Carpenter, 44, and also a dairyman, was indicted on a charge of murder along with Welch but the court ordered a separate trial.

Both Welch and Carpenter are free on bail of $40,000 each arranged by Walter B. Renfrew, 71, a retired farmer and former state legislator of Newbury.

Welch still is holding his job as janitor of the Newbury Grade School, doing his work early in the morning and in the evening after the daily court session. Carpenter has been attending the trial as a spectator.

While both are free, the jury of eight men and four women is locked up. An additional man and another woman are alternates.

Renfrew testified Monday he heard about the Martin beating the day after it happened. He said he discussed the incident with several friends and told them Gibson "should be punished for what he did to the hired man."

He said he made the suggestion to two of his friends that Gibson "should get a little tar and feathers" as punishment.

Gibson was described as weighing 190 pounds; Martin weighs scarcely 125.

Martin testified Gibson knocked him down "and used his knee" when the milk spilled. He said one eye was blackened, three or four ribs were broken and he suffered a kidney injury.

Between You And Me

By JERRY JACKSON

Intersectionally, the Southwest Conference has been doing itself proud through the first four weeks of play, and stands assured of finishing well over the .500 mark regardless of how it stacks up through the remaining weeks of the season. This factor has become the mode, heritage, and very essence of conference competition in years past, ultimately boiling down to the realization that the SWC members not only delight in knocking off the majority of the outside opposition, but are also the world's worst when it comes to putting the skids under each other. Brotherly love in reverse.

How long has it been since the conference could boast a national champion? Several eons and gobs of moons ago, that's how long. The reason for this, of course, is that the conference is of such an even caliber that any member can waylay any other member at just about any given time. "Anything can happen..and usually does" has come to be the motto and creed of this topsy-turvy group of schools as far as athletics are concerned, football in particular.

Aggies Had High Hopes In '57

TEXAS A&M had its grid eye fixed on a national championship back in 1957, as the Aggies waltzed through their first eight opponents, giving up a measly four touchdowns during the span, while piling up 21 of their own. And sure enough they managed to climb to the top rung of the ladder nationally following their eighth victory of that season, which was also their eighteenth game in a row without defeat.

But Rice and Texas, in that order, snuffed out the Cadet visions of grandeur in fine fashion, the Owls coming out on top by 7-6, while the Longhorns took the rest of the wind out of the Aggies' sagging sails by a 9-7 count. The line drawn between champ and chump is thin, thin, thin. The Ags can verify it.

SWC Batting Almost .750

BUT WHAT ABOUT this season? Well, conference teams have romped and stomped to a great degree thus far, and in the process have collectively compiled a not-to-be-lightly - regarded 15-5-1 record against foreigners. Leading the happy parade is the University of Texas, who has had pretty much its own way with Nebraska, Maryland and California, and was extended by only Oklahoma before winning, 19-12.

The worst showing has been by Rice, the perennial conference slow-starter. They have lost to LSU and Duke, and only this past Saturday managed to come from behind to tie Florida.

Surprising Texas A&M has lifted several eyebrows in their conquests over Michigan State, Mississippi Southern and Houston, while Arkansas and Texas Tech also sport unblemished intersectional records.

The Hogs have downed Tulsa and Oklahoma State and are also leading the young conference race with two victories, while Tech has taken a liking to Tulsa and Oregon State.

The remaining members, to wit: Baylor, SMU and TCU are all 1-1. The Bears and Froggies have both been victims of mighty LSU, while Baylor has cut Colorado down to size and TCU slipped by Kansas. The Mustangs were squeezed out in their opener by presently undefeated Georgia Tech, but bounced back to whip Navy the following week.

In that only seven more games are on tap against outside opponents, the picture is especially rosy at this stage of the season. But look out for that wacky conference chase!!

Sprint Star Out At ETS After Squabble

COMMERCE (AP) — Sidney Garton will do no more running for East Texas State College.

The sprint star, who is considered a top prospect for the Olympics, had his athletic scholarship taken away from him in a dispute with Coach Delmer Brown over training.

Yesterday, he talked with Brown and the coach said there would be no change in the situation.

The runner, who had done 220 yards in 19.7 and 100 yards in 9.3 in wind - aided races, denied that several colleges were trying to lure him away. But he did say he wanted to go to some other college although he will remain at East Texas State until mid-term at his own expense.

He said he couldn't afford to stay any longer without a scholarship.

Garton said he would go to any college where he could run on a scholarship. He said he still wanted to make the Olympic team.

Don Kellett Mentioned As NFL Head

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Carroll Rosenbloom, majority owner of the Baltimore Colt, said today that his general manager, Don Kellett, "would be the best man for the job of National Football League commissioner if none of the older statesmen is available."

Rosenbloom said that by older statesmen he meant veterans of the league such as George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears, and Geroge Preston Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins.

Both Halas and Marshall have said they don't want the job.

It was pointed out to Rosenbloom that by process of elimination this possibly would make Kellett, 50, a frontrunner among several others for the post vacated Sunday by the sudden death of Bert Bell.

Rosenbloom said only: "He (Kellett) is a good man and would do a fine job. He's well-equipped and I wouldn't want to lose him but I'll do what's best for the league. Personally I would like to see the post go to a young man like Kellett.

"Actually, we haven't given any thought to a successor. It will take a lot of thinking. But first we've got to put a great man to rest."

Rosenbloom said that the owners probably would get together informally today and meet formally Wednesday after Bell's funeral to discuss a new commissioner.

In Baltimore Kellett said he considered it "a great honor" to be mentioned for the post.

Rosenbloom said that he and Kellett never had discussed the possibility of the general manager being named commissioner.

Loose Barge Spreads Fear

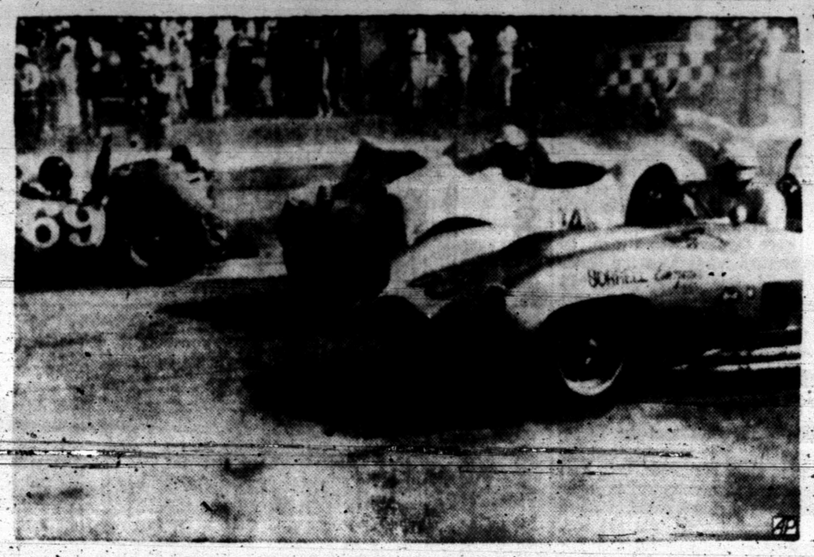

MONTREAL (AP)—A drifting bargeload of dynamite spread terror along Montreal's busy shipping lanes for nearly nine hours Monday and halted traffic on the St. Lawrence Seaway.

With a watchman and 8,000 pounds of high explosive aboard but no engine, the barge broke loose from its moorings at Beauharnois.

Gusty winds and choppy currents moved it around Lake St. Louis before it hit a sand bar near St. Bernard's Island. It was finally tied down.

Traffic had been halted across the Canadian Pacific Railway bridge between Montreal Island and Caughnawaga, on the south shore of the St. Lwrence River.

The dynamite is for use on a construction job.

Tigers Jump Into Top 10

DALLAS (AP)—Abilene, Breckenridge, Stamford and Stinnett top the four divisions of Texas schoolboy football in the Dallas News' weekly poll.

Abilene took over the Class AAAA No. 1 spot last week when it beat San Antonio Alamo Heights 42-0. Wichita Falls, which had been tied with Abilene for the top, fell to second place.

Breckenridge was holding its lead in Class AAA, Stamford in Class AA and Stinnett in Class A.

The top ten by classes:

AAAA: Abilene, Wichita Falls, Corpus Christi Ray, Highland Park, Amarillo Tascosa, Galena Park, Arlington, Longview, Amarillo, San Angelo.

AAA: Breckenridge, Nederland, Levelland, Bay City, Cleburne, Brenham, San Marcos, Brownwood, Phillips, Snyder.

A: Stinnett, Plains, White Deer, George West, Burnet, Crowell, Bishop, Mason, Liberty-Eylau; Anahuac, Gruver and Sundown tied for tenth.

Owls' Neely Surprised At Showing

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Rice Coach Jess Neely was as surprised as everyone else Saturday night when his halfbacks went on a rampage against undefeated Florida.

The five halfbacks had managed to gain only a net of 15 yards in earlier games against Duke and national champion Louisiana State, games the Owls lost. But they gained 159 yards as Rice surprised the Gators with a 13-13 tie.

"You wouldn't know they were the same boys," Neely said.

He also was pleased with a couple of sophomore fullbacks, Roland Jackson and Lonnie Caddell.

"I don't know when we've had that many backs run that way since I've been here," said Neely, who is in his twentieth year as head coach at Rice.

"Every back we put in ran like a wild man," he added. "I hope they're still that way Saturday against Southern Methodist."

The halfbacks accounted for 159 of Rice's net rushing yardage. In the season opener against LSU they left the game with only a net of three yards. Against Duke it was 12.

Two of the halfbacks—Bob Wayt and Johnny Stephenson are sophomores. Billy Bucek and Gordon Speer are seniors, while Max Webb is a junior.

Webb, a 183-pounder, had 46 yards in 10 carries, while Bucek, a kicking specialist, had 40 in 8. Speer, a speedster who specializes in long-distance field goal attempts, had 36 in 4. Stephenson, a 146-pounder, gained 26 in 6 carries. Wayt, who sat on the bench last season without getting in a game, gained 11 yards in 5 carries.

The sophomore fullbacks, Jackson and Caddell, accounted for the other 97 yards.

Jackson, a 199-pounder from Ruston, La., gained 51 yards in 10 attempts. Caddell, a 189-pounder from Dallas, had 46 in 8.

Bald Eagle Added To International Field

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—Harry F. Guggenheim's Bald Eagle joined Round Table today as a potential United States starter in the $100,000 Washington D. C. International at Laurel Nov. 11.

Travis Kerr, owner of Round Table, plans the International as the last race for his 5-year-old.

The addition of Bald Eagle brings the potential field for the mile and half grass race to seven. The foreign field so far includes New Zealand's Up and Coming, France's Midnight Sun, Australia's Vogel, England's Nagami and Mexico's Lea-B.

The prospective first entry from Japan, Kuripero, was scratched because of a leg injury Monday.

TCU And Texas Lead Freshman Gridders

Texas and Texas Christian lead the Southwest Conference freshman football race moving into its second week.

The little Longhorns whipped Baylor 25-14 and Texas Christian edged Texas A&M 14-13 in the only games last week that matched member teams.

Texas Tech lost to the North Texas State freshmen 20-12 and Arkansas took a 23-3 thumping from the Arkansas varsity B team.

Four games are scheduled this week. Thursday night Texas A&M and Baylor play at College Station while Texas Tech engages Hardin-Simmons B at Abilene. Friday afternoon Rice and Southern Methodist open the season at Dallas. Texas Christian plays the North Texas State freshmen at Denton Friday night.

QB Clubbers Meet Tonight

Regular Tuesday night meeting of the Quarterback Club will be held tonight at 7:30 in the High School Cafeteria. All local coaches whose teams were in action this past week will give reports on how their respective teams performed in those games.

Other highlights of the meeting will be the showing of the Snyder-Breckenridge game film and scouting reports on this Friday's opponent, Levelland.

Hog-Steer Marathon Is Anticipated In Ozarks

By The Associated Press

The main reason for Texas' fine football team is speed. They're saying the same about Arkansas. So when these two teams meet Saturday night at Little Rock in the battle of the Southwest Conference's unbeaten it might resemble a track meet.

The Texas-Arkansas struggle was the major topic Monday as the conference teams opened training for the games that are coming up—Texas A&M vs. Texas Christian at Fort Worth, Southern Methodist vs. Rice at Houston, Baylor vs. Texas Tech at Waco and that melee that's scheduled in the Ozarks.

Coach Darrell Royal of Texas was trying to get his boys down out of the clouds over their 19-12 triumph over bitter foe Oklahoma. He said he was uneasy about the Arkansas game and put emphasis on defense against the Razorback speed and heads-up play demonstrated in the 23-7 victory over Baylor last week.

Texas isn't expected to have any injuries and Arkansas thought it also would be at full strength.

Quarterback Jim Monroe is due to be fully recovered from shoulder and hip bruises and linebacker Barry Switzer is expected to return to full duty.

Rice was rounding into its best physical condition of the season as the winless Owls looked toward their first conference game. Only guard Gerald Gusler, who may be through for the season because of a knee injury, will be missing.

A crowd of better than 50,000 is anticipated.

Southern Methodist may have to meet Rice without its dependable No. 2 quarterback and defensive star, Ken Lowe. Lowe had strained ligaments in his knee and was wearing a cast Monday.

Otherwise SMU should be in top condition.

Texas Christian and Texas &AM had players on the ailing list but all are expected to be ready by Saturday when the Frogs and Cadets clash in the only day game on the schedule. Charley Milstead, the great Aggie quarterback, had a knee hurt but the only A&M player on the doubtful list was end Ralph Smith, who had an injured shoulder.

Texas Christian was glad to learn that guard Roy Lee Rambo, who at first was thought to have an incapacitating shoulder injury, would be all right. End Bubba Mayer, who suffered an ankle sprain against Texas Tech, was the most doubtful.

Coach John Bridgers was making some changes at Baylor. The most prominent was sending sophomore Bobby Ply to first team quarterback replacing Ronnie Stanley, who had started all three of the Bears' games to date. Halfbacks Ronnie Bull and Bill Prestidge had injuries but were expected to be able to play Saturday night.

Texas Tech's list of available players was cut to 35 when it was found guard Jere Don Mohon, a starter all season, probably would be out for a week with a hip injury. Joe Moss, Tech scout, warned of Baylor's end play and backfield speed.

Spikes Leads In SWC Ground Gains

By The Associated Press

A look at the statistics will verify the assertion made before the season started that the Southwest Conference has probably its finest crop of sophomores in history.

While old heads like Don Meredith of Southern Methodist and Jack Spikes of Texas Christian sophomores are sprinkled liberally through all of the classes. They lead three of them.

Meredith is far ahead in passing with 30 completions in 48 throws for 395 yards. Spikes tops the ground - gainers with 271 yards on 52 runs.

In second place in both categories are sophomores. Jesse McGuire, the wild - running Texas Aggie, is runnerup in rushing with 230 yards on 35 tries. Ronnie Stanley of Baylor is second in passing with 29 completions in 48 attempts for 222 yards.

Soph Ronnie Bull of Baylor leads in punt returns with a 21-yard average and in pass-receiving with seven catches for 6 yards. Bull also is fifth in rushing with 179 yards on 19 runs.

Jack Collins, the Texas sophomore star, tops the punters with a 49.1 yards average and he also is the leading scorer with 24 points. Collins ranks fourth in ball - carrying with 218 yards.

Meredith leads the way in total offense with 411 yards on 74 plays followed by veteran Charley Milstead of Texas A&M with 378 on 82.

Texas leads in team total offense by a wide margin, averaging 328.8 yards per game. Texas Christian has the best defensive record. The Frogs have held the opposition to 191 yards per outing.

Longhorns Third In Nation

By The Associated Press

Louisiana State pulled farther away from Northwestern today in the race for the season's college football honors but, looking back, saw not just one but three teams dogging its tail.

Close behind LSU and Northwestern, still 1-2 in the weekly Associated Press poll, came Texas and Georgia Tech, both making threatening gestures at the top position.

Also, while LSU drew 83 of the 139 votes cast by sports writers and broadcasters, the voting showed there was no clear-cut opinion on the No. 1 team. Eleven teams, the largest number in recent memory, shared first place nominations.

The poll pace-setters, who had only a 23-point bulge over Northwestern a week ago, went 217 ahead this week on the strength of their 27-3 rout of Miami (Fla.). Northwestern squeaked past Minnesota 6-0.

On the basis of 10 points for a first place vote, nine for second, etc., Louisiana State had 1,223 points compared with 1,006 for the runnerup team from the Big Ten. But both Texas and Georgia Tech showed growing strength.

Texas, which handed Oklahoma its second setback 19-12, took over third place from Georgia Tech, which dropped to fourth despite a 14-7 decision over tough Tennessee.

Syracuse and Penn State climbed into the upper bracket with impressive triumps over the two Eastern service elevens. Syracuse walloped Navy 32-6 and Penn State upset Army 17-11.

The top ten, with first place votes in parentheses:

		Points
1.	Louisiana State (83)	1,225
2.	Northwestern (10)	1,006
3.	Texas (10)	968

Braves Leave Midland

MILWAUKEE (AP)— The Milwaukee Braves are pulling out of the Sophomore League.

The National League club announced Monday that it was discontinuing its working agreement with Midland Tex., and shifting it to Davenport, Iowa, of the Midwest League.

Farm director John Mullen said Jack Quinn, who served as business manager at Midland the past two seasons, would move to Davenport.

Decision Awaited On Ring Investigation

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York State Athletic Commission is expected to announce its decision today in its lengthy investigation of the promotional aspects of the Ingemar Johansson-Floyd Patterson heavy weight title bout last June.

The commission already has suspended Patterson's manager, Cus d'Amato, for failure to appear at a hearing as requested; and suspended the promoter's licenses of Bill Rosensohn and Rosensohn Enterprises, Inc., now controlled by attorney Vincent Velella and Irving Kahn, president of Teleprompter, Inc.

The Rights Of Women

THE CORPUS CHRISTI TIMES

The judge said he couldn't find any criminal intent, and how could he possibly? The lady hadn't made much of a change on her driver's license.

In a Long Island traffic court Judge Harold F. Strohson scratched his head over what young Mrs. Joan F. O'Connor had done—which was to scratch out "brunet" and write instead "blonde," in the appropriate space.

She told him she figured she had a duty to change that hair color in her description to fit the new color she had. She also told him she had got a psychological lift out of the whole thing, altering the record and all. So the judge let her go.

After all, the change resulted from a feminine desire to be, as women say, "all new and different." Mrs. O'Connor was falsifying the color of her hair, sure, is that wrong? She could make no secret of it. Women are always improving on nature anyway. Every lipstick ever manufactured was designed for that purpose.

Color of a woman's hair, or even the presence of hair (on a man) must be assessed as among the least positive aids to identification. Agents of the law had better place their real dependence upon the more immutable color of eyes and skin, and upon height, weight and sex.

For that matter, why should any official bother to ask a woman to state hair color. In the case of female criminals, wouldn't they get a new "rinse"—the word "dye" is not being used any more — at the earliest moment; to put the law off the trail?

Krush Impatient After His Tour

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

The Soviet Union's Communists will make conservative capitalists of themselves yet if they don't watch out.

And if the Soviet Marxists turn into old-fashioned Tories, Nikita Khrushchev's gambling will have played a large part in the transformation.

From reading the Soviet press lately, one gets the idea Khrushchev learned something from his tour of the United States. Indications are that he didn't like what he learned.

Since his return to his own stamping ground, the No. 1 Soviet Communist has been nagging, badgering, prodding and cajoling his Communists to get on with the job of accomplishing the improbable: Catching up with the over-all U.S. economy.

Strange items appear in the Soviet newspapers, where nothing is printed by accident. A likely conclusion is that the items are part of a deliberate drive to put pressure on the Soviet bureaucracy—to build a fire under it.

Moscow dispatches tell of a letter to a Communist newspaper from a worker who said he was fed up with Sputniks and airliners and anxious for the regime to come down to earth and produce shoes.

The newspaper professed to be peeved by the outburst. It said the letter writer's fellow workers were angry with him for it. But then it went on to quote some of them as saying they also wanted better clothing, furniture, shoes and television sets.

This example is one of many such popping up since Khrushchev returned from America. He himself, added steam to the campaign. In Vladivostok, he cheerfully chided the bureaucrats for rushing goods to the stores in time for his visit. He demanded a more sensible approach to problems of supplying the consumer public.

For some time, a key phrase in Khrushchev's program has been "material self-interest." Its obvious appeal to the acquisitive spirit sounds odd for a regime professing to be "building communism."

Last week Soviets for the first time began buying consumer goods on the installment plan, something they learned from Americans. Now the papers tell them to learn more from Americans—how to produce more goods per man, how to raise food output.

Possibly such things as material self-interest and installment buying are intended to be temporary, as stimulants to labor productivity. But in the background is an unmistakable note of impatience.

Khrushchev has seen a number of non-Communist countries, and he has just seen the United States. He would be unlikely to confess it publicly, but there is a good chance he was annoyed by the obvious superiority of the American consumer economy.

The Soviet Premier seems willing to take on added risks in an attempt to get his own consumer economy show on the road. Behind his activity is a persistent public pressure for more consumer goods, by now fairly obvious to outside observers.

In spreading a doctrine of material self-interest, Khrushchev takes a chance of making the Soviet consumer more and more property-conscious. For the sake of world peace, this should be all to the good.

The better off the Soviet public is, the less it will be inclined to risk its gains for the glory of a mistry doctine. Historically it has been demonstrated that well-fed, well-clothed, property-owning people tend to be conservative, from a desire to keep what they have acquired.

Treasury Finds New Rate Popular

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Just how magic is 5 per cent? And will it become a pattern for U.S. Treasury borrowing or is it just a one-shot deal?

The Treasury has an answer to the first, if just for the time being. Right now investors, big and little, like 5 per cent. The Treasury's offering of 5 per cent notes was oversubscribed 5½ times.

The so-called small investor, anyone putting up $10,000 or less, got the full amount of his subscription, bove that the investors were apportioned according to their status as savers or lenders.

To the second question, the answer undoubtedly is: That depends. The Treasury doubtless will follow the money market pattern prevailing when it needs to borrow again. And as much as it would like to place its securities in the hands of individual investors, your chances, if you missed the first offer, of getting 5 per cent again sometime in the future is obscure.

The appeal of 5 per cent on a government-backed fairly short-term loan is obvious at the moment. The Treasury raked in early one billion from individual investors. To its point of view that's all to the good.

But that many of them simply switched from other forms of savings yielding less isn't an unmixed blessing. A sizable lot turned in U.S. savings bonds to get up the required cash to back their subscriptions.

This was taking money out of one of the Treasury's pockets to put it in the other. Many of them will have to pay income taxe on the accrued interest on the bonds they sold. But the Treasury will be paying higher interest on that part of the federal debt that was switched.

The Treasury may think twice before it makes the same offer again, unless it can tap new savings rather than old.

One of the reasons for the Treasury offering was to strengthen the price of older securities, both government and corporate. As their price goes up they conform more closely to the yield that the new Treasury issue provides.

Some hope that this 30-year high for Treasury rates will become a ceiling and halt the slow and steady rise of interest charges that has plagued would-be borrowers wanting to build schools or buy homes.

But the immediate effect of the new Treasury issue seems to have been to lift the interest on the Treasury's shortest term offering, the 91-day bills, to a record 4.262 per cent.

The Treasury's pressure on the short-term money market will continue this week as it offers two billion dollars of 245-day tax anticipation bills. After that, the money lenders here expect the pressure to relax for a time and interest rates to be governed by the supply and demand in non-government circles.

Police In Britain Don't Want Guns

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"I think I speak for all my colleagues when I say we don't want to be armed," said Constable Norman Niblo of the City of London.

Constable Niblo also feels, despite a postwar growth of violence, the British public doesn't want its police to carry guns as a daily duty.

"If we do, every petty little crook will start carrying a gun. People will be hurt," he said.

Constable Niblo, a 6-foot-2, heavy-bodied man — weight 18 stone or 252 pounds — has never used a gun in nearly a quarter century as a British policeman.

The big, good-natured, 46-year-old officer is here on a good will visit to the United States. His face and form are familiar to thousands of tourists who have visited his beat, the ancient, mile-square financial heart of the British Commonwealth.

"The traffic here is fantastic," said Niblo, after a sight of Times Square. The mid-London area he and some 700 other fellow officers patrol has fantastic traffic problems of its own. Its residential population at night is about 5,000—its workday population rises to 750,000.

A student of the historical lore of his city and his craft, Niblo brought with him a number of souvenirs of police work in London a century ago. It was in this period that the police, nicknamed "Charlies" during the reign of Charles II, came to be known as "Peelers" or "Bobbies," after Sir Robert Peel, pioneer of modern police systems.

The policeman of that time wore a high top hat and looked more like a society figure. He had no whistle. He carried a large wooden ratchet, which he whirred to summon aid. It made an infernal din. He also carried his own gas light, anchored to his belt.

Oddly, the truncheon of that day is longer and more slender, but less formidable, than the compact club Niblo carries in his daily duty, but says he has never had to use on a man in 24 years.

A mild-speaking man, he has a quiet pride in his ability to handle ordinary police problems with the authority of his voice and hands. By this he means the usual thing—trouble at a bar, a minor disturbance of the peace.

Among the constable's rewards for keeping the peace is a boot allowance of three or four shillings—42 to 56 cents—a week. He also has available, without cost to him the services of a chiropodist, although he has never had any major foot trouble himself.

"Violence is growing a bit in the metropolitan area, including attacks on police," he said regretfully when questioned. "Most of the increase is among young people."

Houston Man To Face Fraud Count

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Bryan Kyger Jr., 39, who says he had amnesia for three years, is headed back to Houston to face mail fraud charges. He is accused of using the mails to sell securities in 1956 and failing to deliver to buyers. He was arrested here Sept. 26.

Conspiracy Smashed In Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—The Venezuelan government says it has rounded up 40 followers of deposed President Marcos Perez Jimenez who were plotting to assassinate President Romulo Betancourt and three other officials.

More arrests are expected.

Ramon Velazquez, the president's secretary, said the conspiracy was smashed after the plotters carried out a series of minor bombings in Caracas.

He said the group planned to assassinate Betancourt, Vice President Raul Leoni, Adm. Carlos Larrazabal, the navy chief, and Gen. Carlos Luis Araque, commander of the National Police.

Police said the ringleader was Luis Educardo Chataing, government comptroller under Perez Jimenez. The ex-dictator now is in exile in Miami, Fla.

Chataing and several others accused in the plot are being sought.

Officials reported several of the men arrested said Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, dictator of the Dominican Republic, had promised to further the conspiracy by simulating an invasion of Venezuela.

Another phase of the plot reportedly was the escape Sunday of former Gen. Nestor Prato from jail in Maracaibo. Prato, a leading supporter of Perez Jimenez, was awaiting trial on charges of buse of power.

The bombings began Friday with four small explosions in various parts of Caracas. There were others Sunday at a warehouse owned by Eugencio Mendoza, a leading industrialist; and in front of the home of the brother-in-law of Miguel Angel Caprile, a newspaper publisher. A bomb exploded Monday at the studios of the Cultura radio station.

Victim Of Palsey In New World

HAYS, Kan. (AP)—New worlds are opening up for Charles (Skeeter) Rayburn. At 22, he has found a medium of expression for the first time.

It took many hours of work by the staff at Hadley Memorial Hospital and an electronics expert to give Skeeter something resembling the power of speech.

His benefactors produced a unique typewriter which can be operated with a nod of the head.

Skeeter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Rayburn Sr., Great Bend, Kan., has been afflicted with cerebral palsy since birth. He cannot speak or use his arms or legs. He has only some control over movements of his head.

His keen mind, good health, and a happy disposition encouraged the hospital staff to seek a way for Skeeter to express his thoughts.

Mrs. Rayburn had developed her own system of handling the alphabet in teaching Skeeter through the eight grades of elementary education. But it was slow and laborious.

At the hospital, attendants rigged a headband with a stylus so Skeeter could use an electric typewriter. But he couldn't touch the keys accurately.

A special keyboard was made with keys the size of a silver dollar.

Then a Hays electronics expert, L. A. Strapp, spent many hours fitting the over-sized keyboard with electrical wiring.

Skeeter tried it with his headband. Slow he typed the alphabet. Then he triumphantly wrote, "Now is the time for all good men and true to come to the aid of their party."

Skeeter is practicing eagerly. He has enrolled in a correspondence course in English grammar, and he feels he is on his way.

He has named the machine "M-G," for "miracle gadget."

Man Is Held In Slayings

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—A 48-year-old handyman has been arrested for questioning about the savage knife slayings of a suburban Webster Groves woman and her brother Monday.

Fester Bridges of St. Louis, was picked up here Monday night on a request from suburban Webster Groves police. He was booked as a fugitive from Webster Groves under suspicion of homicide.

Police said Bridges, a Negro who had been using the alias of Peter Eel, had worked for the Haas family as an odd jobs man.

The bodies of Alice Haas, 52, and her brother, Cecil W. Giles, 56, were found by Mrs. Haas' stepson, David Haas, 9, when he returned from selling tickets to a Cub Scout event.

Police Chief Ovid Yadon of Webster Groves said a neighbor of the Haas family related seeing Bridges talking to the victims just before their bodies were found.

Bridges denied being anywhere in the neighborhood.

Boy, 13, Held In Shooting

BECKLEY, W. Va. (AP)—Alvin W. Atwood was shot to death Sunday and his 13-year-old son told police he did it because his father was beating his mother.

State police Cpl. C.G. McClain said Atwood, 48, a coal miner at nearby Mead, was felled by three blasts from the shotgun held by his son David.

The boy was charged with murder.

"I figured what he was going to do," McClain quoted the boy, "and that's the reason I got the gun—to keep him from hurting mommy.

"I came out of the bedroom with the gun and shot him. He started coming at me and I hit him over the head with the gun a couple of times.

"Then he said, 'You killed me, son,' and I didn't want to see him suffer or anything and I shot him again."

Home Warning Device Plans Are Outlined

HOUSTON (AP) — Walter P. Halstead of Minneapolis, president of the U.S. Civil Defense Council, outlined Monday an inexpensive home warning device to sound alerts in bombing attacks.

Halstead said the device will cost about five dollars.

He said studies are being made with electric companies as to the best way of making the device available to the public.

Halstead was here for today's opening of the council's national conference.

golden
CHICKEN EL DORADO

1 2½ to 3 lb. broiler-fryer
1 1½ cups Kellogg's Corn Flakes or 1½ cups Kellogg's Corn Flake Crumbs
¼ cup finely chopped onions
½ cup finely chopped celery
2 cups butter
2 tsp. salt
½ tsp. poultry seasoning
½ cup stock or water
Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap
6 canned California Cling Peach Halves

1. Prepare chicken for roasting.
2. Melt butter in saucepan, add onions and celery, cook until about tender but not browned. Stir in seasonings and stock. Add Corn Flake Crumbs (or crushed Corn Flakes) tossing lightly.
3. Stuff and truss chicken; place in center of 24-inch length of Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap. Brush generously with syrup drained from peaches. Bring ends of foil together over chicken; make double fold. Make double fold on either end. Place in shallow roasting pan.
4. Roast in hot oven (450°) about 1 hour or 20 minutes per pound. Open foil and flatten in pan. Place drained peaches, cup side up, on foil around chicken and baste with pan drippings. Roast about 20 minutes longer or until chicken is golden brown and peaches are heated. Serve chicken on heated platter with peaches as garnish.

THE NEWEST RAMBLER—Shown is the new 1960 compact luxury car, Ambassador V-8, by Rambler, which features new exterior and interior styling. The Ambassador is offered in a four-door Super and Custom sedan, station wagon and a new three-seat station wagon, and Custom hardtop sedan and station wagon. It is powered by a 250 h. p. V-8 engine, which operates efficiently and economically on regular grade gasoline. Ease of handling and parking, performance and overall economy of operation are characteristic of the Ambassador line.

New Rambler Cars Going On Display

Paced by its compact luxury automobile, Ambassador V-8 American Motors Corp. will display its 1960 models throughout the nation tomorrow.

The showing of new Ramblers in Snyder will be at Dupree Motors, 2211 Avenue S.

According to Roy Abernethy, vice president of automotive distribution and marketing, the Ambassador will be displayed in Rambler dealer showrooms throughout the country tomorrow simultaneously with the Rambler Six, Rebel V-8 and the American.

"The crisp exterior styling, coupled with functional interior design, makes the Ambassador the most distinctive luxury car in the compact car field," Abernethy said. "Ease of handling and parking, efficient V-8 performance, and overall economy of operation are characteristic of this outstanding passenger car."

The Ambassador V-8, built on a 117-inch wheelbase, is available in a Super and Custom four-door sedan station wagon and the new three-seat station wagon, and Custom hardtop sedan and hardtop station wagon.

The mbassador's styling is highlighted by many functional styling details, with an overall simplicity of line prominently evident from every angle, Abernethy said.

The new models have a two-piece, die-cast grille, with a finely textured rectangular pattern, which extends across the entire width of the car. The grille is set off by a massive upper chrome bar which extends upward into the opening below the hood. The opening carries the name "Ambassador" spelled out in bold chrome letters.

An entirely new "compound wrap-around" windshield which extends into the roof is featured on the Ambassador models. The windshield, which has an area of 1,372 square inches (a 24 per cent increase over last year), is slanted at a greater angle to reduce wind resistance.

New split-type front and rear bumpers blend into the new styling of the car. The bumper guards extend downward to protect the sheet metal below the bumpers. License plates are housed in a protective recess between the split bumpers. Parking and directional lights are located below the bumpers in a recessed position.

The front fenders blend harmoniously into the hood and grille. The low, broad hood affords maximum forward visibility. Ornaments are mounted on each of the front fenders.

Dual headlights, mounted high in the fenders for greater efficiency under all conditions, are standard equipment on all Ambassador models.

For improved ease of entry into the front seat, the front corner posts have been moved 3-½ inches forward at the base.

Without affecting entrance height the new roof panels have been lowered for a sleeker appearance. The roof highlights a beveled edge for greater attractiveness.

Daily Crude Flow Rises

TULSA (AP)— Oklahoma was mainly responsible for an 11,140-barrel increase in daily average production of crude oil to 6,843,500 barrels during the week ended Oct. 10, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

The state gained 10,750 to 495,850 barrels.

The journal estimated 1959 production at 1,996,668,000 barrels compared to 1,871,801,640 a year ago.

Increases were reported for Arkansas, up 4,800 barrels to 52,500; and Louisiana, 50 to 1,019,500. Colorado was off 900 to 126,000.

Production was unchanged in Texas, 2,485,600 barrels; and New Mexico, 292,400.

Both Twins Are Better

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Both the separated Stubblefield Siamese twins were a bit better today, but their conditions still are critical.

"I'd like to be able to say they've got it made, but I can't," said a University of Oregon Medical School Hospital spokesman.

"Jeanett's quiet today, and she's breathing a little bit better all the time," he said.

"They (the doctors) are finding it easier to keep secretions and mucous from clogging her bronchial tubes."

Saturday Jeanett dipped to the lowest ebb since surgeon separated the 3½-months-old babies last Tuesday.

Denett continued to progress slowly. She takes about four ounces of formula every three hours.

The girls are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. James Stubblefield, who live on a Parma, Idaho, sugar beet farm. They were born June 29.

Expert Studying Alcoholic Traits

By RALPH DIGHTON

LOS ANGELES (AP)—If you're skinny, bushy-haired and thirstier than other people seem to be — Watch out.

You could be a potential alcoholic.

This advice comes from Dr. Earle M. Marsh, a San Francisco gynecologist who has a medical hobby: chronic alcoholism.

"I don't mean that all people who fit this description should automatically quit drinking," says Dr. Marsh. "But surveys have turned up several physical factors in the search for the true cause of alcoholism."

Dr. Marsh, here to speak at the annual assembly of the California Academy of General Practice, said in an interview that there is less baldness and less obesity among alcoholics than among healthy persons.

"Also, their body fluids are out of balance and they seem to need great quantities of liquid," he added.

"We know that alcoholism is not an emotional disease, although it does lead to many emotional problems. There is a mysterious physical X-factor which some people have and others haven't.

"The alcoholic may be something like the diabetic. In that instance, the X-factor was found in the pancreas. The day may come when we can give an alcoholic an injection of some sort and he will be able to drink all he wants."

The danger in alcoholism, Dr. Marsh said, lies in the fact that the heavy drinker builds up a tolerance to alcohol. It takes more and more to satisfy him. Eventually, immense quantities of liquor lead to illness and death.

"So far we have found no cure except to quit drinking," he said.

In his talk today, Dr. Marsh will warn his fellow physicians against advising alcoholics to "try to taper off."

"The worst thing they can do is to tell their patients to stick with [illegible] wine or beer," he said. "For such patients that's dynamite. Alcoholics can take tremendous quantities of booze, but the tiniest amount destroys their inhibitions and their will to resist the next drink."

Full New Styling Marks '60 Mercury

DETROIT (AP) — Reduced prices and virtually complete new styling mark the 1960 Mercury line which goes on sale Thursday.

Mercury prices have been dropped as much as $156 in the least expensive Monterey series, by $30 in the middle Montclair series and by as much as $142 in the top Park Lane series.

A new coneave grille with the dual headlights wide apart, plus a huge wrap-around bumper gives a new look to the front end. Side paneling also has been changed and the tail lights have been moved from the fin tips to a much lower area and are slanted outward.

Scientists To Plan More Collaboration

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP) — Chairman John McCone of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission says further collaboration will be planned between Soviet and American scientists working on peaceful uses of atomic energy.

McCone is here with five American scientists inspecting Soviet atomic plants. A Soviet delegation will tour U.S. plants in November.

The AEC chief said that after the visits a further step in collaboration in research will be planned. He added, however, that no formal agreement for an exchange agreement seems in the works.

Accompanying McCone are Dr. Alvin Wineberg, director of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory; Dr. Lyman Spitzer, director of thermonuclear research at Princeton University; Kenneth Pitzer, dean of chemistry at the University of California in Berkeley; John Williams, a member of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, and Frank R. Pittman, director of the AEC's reactor development division.

Highlight of the U.S. delegation's tour so far, McCone said, was a four-hour cruise on the atomic icebreaker Lenin. McCone said the ship performed well but is not yet running at full power. Only two of three reactors in the ship were used during the cruise.

There are an estimated 4,250,000 golfers playing regularly in the United States.

Truck Purchased For Use In Park

Advertising for bids for the purchase of a two-ton dump truck to be used for park use has been authorized by the Scurry county commissioners court.

Action on the matter was taken during the afternoon session of their regular weekly meeting Monday.

The court also authorized the park superintendent to assume upkeep of the Boys' Club grounds. The park superintendent was granted authority to receive informal bids for painting the Boys Club building.

Other action at the one-day meeting included acceptance by the architectural and engineering firm Haynes and Kirby, of Lubbock of the contract to make an inspection of the condition of the Scurry county courthouse.

Both heads of the firm, and their representative Grady Elder, were present. They said they would have company personnel in Snyder this week to begin the job.

They will make recommendations as to the condition of the structure, possible alterations and the need for a new courthouse.

They are to provide plans covering both recommended alterations and a new courthouse.

Only in the event the county votes a bond issue to build a new couthouse will the firm be paid the stipulated five per cent of the amount of the bond issue.

All county commissioners were present.

Mother To See Her Quads For First Time

BALTIMORE (AP)— Lorraine Graves, who has eight other children, is going to see her quadruplets for the first time today.

The 30-year-old mother from Annapolis is due to view the three daughters and a son at Johns Hopkins Hospital where they were born Saturday. They are Kim Marie, Karen May, Katherine Mary and Kevin Mark.

Mrs. Graves said there is no significance to the first initials of "K.M." for all.
