David Belasco
Is Critically Ill

White Haired Dean of Theater
Unable to Attend Premier
First Time in 51 Years

NEW YORK, Nov. 18. (AP) — For the first time in the 51 years he has been producing plays in New York, David Belasco missed one of his own premieres tonight.

Instead of hovering in the wings as the curtain ascended on "Tonight or Never," the Belasco production which opened tonight at the theater which bears his name, the white haired dean of the theater lay critically ill with lobar pneumonia in his hotel room.

An evening bulletin by Dr. Jerome Wagner, his physician, and Dr. Evan Evans, specialist, said Mr. Belasco's condition was "still serious" at 4:30 p. m., despite a respite during the day, and cited a temperature of 103 degrees.

The producer was brought back last night from Baltimore, where his new play had been having a pre-Broadway showing, and was believed to be desperately ill, but he rallied early today and was reported to have a good chance to recover despite his 76 years.

Spur's Case To Be Aired Today

Eligibility Controversy Will Come Up This Morning When Executive Committee Meets at Tech College

The executive committee of class A district two, of the state interscholastic league, will meet at 10 o'clock this morning at Texas Technological college to reopen the Spur eligibility case. The Morning Avalanche was informed by a staff member at Ralls, Tuesday night.

Acting upon additional information received by the executive committee, A. B. Sanders, chairman, called the meeting. It was believed at Ralls that the crux of the controversy would be the ages of Brodie Puckett and Jimmy Hahn, members of the Spur football team.

Roy Henderson, secretary of the state interscholastic league, suggested reopening of the case.

Members of the second district class B executive committee, in addition to Chairman Sanders, are: V. E. Rogers, of Lamesa; F. O. Jones, of Littlefield; Gene Taylor, of Spur; W. A. Patten, of Pecos; W. D. Buggers, of Lockney, and W. Carter, of Olton.

Pioneer Of Ralls Dies On Tuesday

RALLS, Nov. 18. (Special) — Mrs. Lucy Travis, 59, wife of R. R. Travis and a pioneer of Crosby county, died at her home here at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. Her health had been poor for several years.

Funeral rites will be conducted at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Christian church here. Burial will be in a Ralls cemetery.

Mrs. Travis had lived in Crosby county 25 years, having come here from Bell county, and had resided in Ralls since the town was founded in 1911. When in Bell county, Mr. and Mrs. Travis first settled at Old Emma, then the county seat.

Survivors, in addition to the widower, include: A son, Oliver W. Travis, of Raton, N. M.; two daughters, Mrs. J. Edd McLaughlin of Ralls, and Mrs. Flora Hulthof of Raton, N. M.; four brothers, Bob, Porter and Wade Bullock, all of Rogers, and L. B. Bullock of Morris, and three sisters, Mrs. I. F. Bradley of Bowie, Mrs. N. H. Hilliard of Raton, and Mrs. Will Bradley, of Raton.

A grandson, Oliver Travis, Jr., also survived.

Lottery Suspects Await Action of Grand Jury

Bonds Reduced From $5000 to $1000 Tuesday

Six Persons Are Charged with Using Mails for Conduct of Alleged Marriage Lottery; One Witness Is Heard

Five From Lubbock

Method of Operation Outlined by Assistant Attorney General; Lawyers Clash Over Difference in Policies

FORT WORTH, Nov. 18. — Six persons charged in connection with using the mails for the conduct of an alleged marriage lottery today were bound over to await action by the federal grand jury. Their bonds were reduced from $5,000 each to $1,000 each.

Defendants were W. G. Hutton, A. W. Hutton, Miss M. O. Robinson, R. C. Parrish, D. S. Turner, all of Lubbock, and M. D. Gardner, all connected with the Lone Star Matrimonial Mutual association.

Only one witness, T. D. Dawkins, postoffice inspector, He identified an exhibit produced by the government consisting of a policy of the association, application for membership and notice of payment of assessment.

Dawkins testified that officers of the association had informed him that the U. S. mails were being used. He also identified letters that had been mailed in Fort Worth.

The defense did not deny that the mails were used in conduct of the business. The government introduced several bank checks for payment of assessments, which Dawkins also identified. These had been marked insufficient funds.

In his argument for the government, Charles Riley, special assistant to attorney general, outlined the method of operation of the association. Payment on a policy, he said, is contingent on collection through assessments of other members of the class. The amount paid to a person getting married, he said, depended on the period of time in which he was married, as specified in the contract. He said the contract sets out a maximum amount.

Presbyterian Boys To Attend Banquet

Boys of the First Presbyterian church Sunday school will be guests of Men of the Church at a dinner and program beginning at 7 o'clock tonight at the church in recognition of national father-and-son week.

J. H. Murdoch will be in charge of the program. Principal speakers will be Miss Mary De Bardeleben, who will speak on "A Religious Education Program for the Community," and M. L. Peters, whose subject will be "Religious Education in the Local Sunday School."

Special music will be provided. A period of games for the boys will be supervised by E. N. Clapp.

George Deane, president of Men of the Church, will preside.

Acid Flavor Of Apples And Oranges Found In Tobacco Leaves By Science

BY HOWARD W. BLANKSLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 18. (AP) — Science finds in tobacco leaves the acid flavor of apples and oranges.

Not just a trace, but plenty of the malic acid of apples and citric acid of oranges are present in every cigar.

Instead of being new brands sought for advertisement, these are the findings of pure science in incidental developments in a study of tobacco leaves at the Connecticut agricultural experiment station, undertaken to learn the manner in which green leaves manufacture plant food.

The latest discovery, one which shows an unexpected and surprising ability of young tobacco plants to produce nicotine, was made public today.

Divorced Woman Slays Former Mate at Iraan

IRAAN, Tex., Nov. 18. — A revolver flashed three times today in the supposed message of jealousy in heart of a divorced woman, and her husband lay dead by the side of his bride.

Claude James Henderson, pumper on the lease of the Phillips Petroleum corporation, is dead and his divorced wife, Avia Henderson, was held without bail as the result of the fatal shooting while he was asleep with his two week bride at his side at 2 o'clock this morning.

She was arrested by Justice of the Peace D. H. Mitchell in a "doghouse" below the hill where the shooting occurred in a company camp. In her effects was found a letter addressed to a brother.

Henderson was shot twice through the breast and once through the chin.

Mrs. Henderson is said to have left Fort Worth yesterday morning and to have been steadily the 23 miles with few stops. She was hysterical after the arrest and was taken to Fort Stockton by Sheriff W. P. Rooney and placed in jail.

Mrs. Henderson, the recent bride, was with the intruding woman and was bruised in the attempt to protect her husband.

The slayer is said to have entered the home on the lease by the Phillips Petroleum corporation, and was found in the kitchen door, to have turned on the light in a room where another couple slept and then to have passed to the room where Henderson was sleeping. He rolled to the floor and died 10 minutes after he was shot.

Henderson and the accused woman lived together here on the Phillips lease for more than a year but were separated last August. A divorce was obtained and two weeks ago Henderson married again. The accused woman told the justice court this morning that Henderson would not give what was due her and that she could not stand it. She has a 15-year-old son by a former marriage.

After the shooting she attempted to leave the field but she could not climb the hill and she sought refuge elsewhere.

Twenty Planes Search Mountains for Two Men, Woman in Missing Plane

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., Nov. 18. — Twenty airplanes swept in widening circles today above the rugged Tehachapi mountains, hunting a missing Pacific Air Transport plane and its three occupants.

The mail and passenger plane, bound from San Diego to Oakland, made its last radio report while fighting fog and fierce winds above the 8,000 foot peaks soon after midnight.

Woman in Plane
A lone young woman, Miss D. Markow, San Diego, rode the night mail plane with Pilot F. A. Donaldson and his mechanic, George Rogers. She had purchased a ticket at San Diego for Portland, Ore.

A parachute flare, indicating Donaldson had sought an emergency landing place in the thick of a murky, gale-torn night, was the only clue to the fate of himself and his passengers. It was spotted through binoculars by a searching airplane pilot, far down the side of Liebre mountain. Donaldson had but two flares.

Liebre mountain skirts Poso canyon, 25 miles southeast of Lebec on the mountainous ridge route high above the desert. If I can't get more altitude I'll come back to Burbank.

To turn right, as the location of the spent flare indicated he had, would take the storm battered plane into a waste of rugged mountains and canyons, or else out into the wide antelope valley section of the Mohave desert. A thorough aerial search in the light revealed no trace of the single motorized Boeing biplane.

After leaving Burbank at 11:30 last night, Donaldson talked frequently with United Airport. His last word, at 2:07 a. m., was: Still over fog, 8,000 feet.

Texas To Gain 3 Congressmen Under Census

Representation of 32 States In House of Representatives Affected By Reapportionment Figures Given Out

Wide Changes Seen

Twenty-Seven States To Lose And Eleven To Gain Unless Congress Changes Existing Law Before March 4

BY CECIL B. DICKSON
WASHINGTON, Nov. 18. (AP) —

The representation of 32 states in the house of representatives will be affected by reapportionment figures announced today by President Hoover unless congress changes existing law by March 4.

Twenty-one states lose 27 seats. Eleven gain, including California, with 9, Michigan 4, Texas 3 and New York, New Jersey and Ohio with two each. Connecticut, Florida, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Washington gain one each.

World Change Strength
The new reapportionment will result in wide changes in political strength, the electoral college and state delegations to national political conventions. Cities, where the anti-prohibitionists are strong, will have greater power, and some of the agricultural states in which prohibitionists find much of their strength will lose.

Already there are indications that opponents of prohibition will attempt at the short session to bring the question of the method of division to the house floor. Numerous issues will be involved, ranging from prohibition to the continuous battle between representatives of industrial states and those of farming regions.

Based On Census
The reapportionment figures were determined by the secretary of commerce on the basis of the 1930 census, with the population placed at 122,092,455.

Missouri loses three members: Georgia, Iowa, Kentucky and Pennsylvania lose two each, and Alabama, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, North Dakota, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Wyoming and Utah gain one each.

Lubbock Youth Is Accidentally Shot

The 13-year-old son of Charles Calhoun, 2216 Twentieth street, was shot accidentally by a companion, Hyson Eoff, Tuesday night.

The boy's condition was not considered serious.

Calhoun, Eoff and another boy were playing at a small lake near the 2300 block of Twentieth street when a 22 rifle carried by Eoff was accidentally discharged. The bullet struck Calhoun in the right leg, going under the knee cap and emerging from the other side.

The boy was taken to his home where a physician treated him. The shooting was investigated by the sheriff's department.

WCTU Delegates Pledge Themselves Not To Vote For Any Wet Candidate

HOUSTON, Nov. 18. — Nearly 400 women delegates to the annual convention of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, pledged themselves this afternoon not to vote for any wet political candidate and warned their parties to nominate only dries. At about the same time they rejected their officers and adopted the remainder of a platform, on which the ensuing year's work will be based, calling, among other things, for a widespread "educational" campaign in public schools in behalf of the 16th amendment.

Mrs. Ella A. Boole of Brooklyn was kept in the president's chair for her sixth term. The other members of her administration, all chosen again, were: Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith of Des Moines, Ia., vice-president; Mrs. Anna Marden De To of Evanston, Ill., corresponding secretary; Mrs. Margaret C. Munna of Evanston, Ill., treasurer; Mrs. Sara H. Hoge of Lincoln, Va., recording secretary; Mrs. Nellie C. Burger of Springfield, Mo., assistant recording secretary.

After the union's general prohibition platform, which declared opposition to "any and all political parties adopting a repeal or modification plank," was adopted, the declarations from the women of republican and democratic affiliations were read, and the delegates swept to their feet, and upon the direction of the officials, thrust up their right hands high above their heads and said, in unison: "We'll see this thing through."

One Dead and Four Injured In Explosion

Tank Blast in Oil Field at Corsicana Takes Toll of One Life; Others Expected to Recover from Injuries

CORSICANA, Nov. 18. — One man was killed and four others badly burned when a new battery of run tanks exploded on the Magnolia St. George lease in the Mildred oil field near here today.

John H. Moss, 38, died while being taken to a hospital at Mexico.

The injured: W. L. Hutchinson, burned about his head and body; E. L. Gunter, burned on face and shoulders; R. T. Holey, burned on the lower part of his body; Kilt Carson, minor burns.

A. L. Wilson, Jr., welder for the Pure Oil company, was cutting into a pipe line removed from the tanks when the blast occurred. He was not injured. He said he believed gas from the filling tanks in some way came in contact with the flame of the torch he was using.

Moss, Holey, Gunter and Carson all were employees of the Pure company. Hutchinson was working for the Magnolia Petroleum company.

The battery of 200-barrel run tanks had been completed recently and were placed in service for the first time today.

Physicians said the injured men probably would recover.

Moss lived in Mexico and is survived by his widow and five children.

ATTENDANCE URGED

S. M. N. Marrs Speaker at San Angelo P. T. A. Conab

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 18. (AP) — Speaking to a crowd of more than 800 at a session of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers associations here tonight, S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of schools, charged that approximately $6,750,000 of the state per capita money this year "will be wasted."

He indicated that 1,500,000 school children during the next year will receive $17.50 each or a total of about $26,250,000, and that one-fourth the amount would be wasted through non-attendance of eligible pupils.

To remedy such conditions he urged full attendance, with teachers, parents, trustees and probation officers cooperating in sending delinquent, especially Mexicans and negroes, to school. He said: "I stood 34th in public education in the nation."

Sixty Alleged Leaders Held By Government

Establishment of Republic Object of Communistic Movement, Officials Announce; Plan Is Frustrated

Rioting Continues

Country Torn by Week of Labor Demonstrations and Strikes; Observers Believe Revolution Perilously Near

(By Associated Press)
MADRID, Nov. 18. — The government tonight discovered a plot which it says was designed by communist agitators to overthrow the monarchy, and arrested 60 alleged leaders.

Officials charged the arrested movement had as its object establishment of a republic, with communists working with certain republican elements.

It was believed the plot wholly was broken up by speedy arrest of the leaders.

MADRID, Nov. 18. — The capital seemed to set back and catch its breath tonight after nearly a week of labor riots and general strikes which some believed had brought the country perilously near to revolution.

At Barcelona, where the disorders struck as Madrid's troubles began to abate, street fighting was still going on today. At Alicante, far to the south of Barcelona, disorders broke out today for the first time. There was continuing trouble at Valencia, but Granada and Oviedo, were quiet.

Trouble Not Over
The trouble appeared to be by no means over, but in all quarters there was a belief that from now on, if it continues, the disturbance will be strictly a labor problem without political ramifications.

In all the cities to which the strike extended—even at Barcelona—workers were returning to their jobs. There appeared to be no danger of food shortage, but police and soldiers were ready to take a hand at several points in case new rioting should break out.

Normally Returning
People were in the streets of Madrid and Barcelona again; trolley cars and taxicabs were running, some with armed guards; cafes reopened, and normalcy was returning.

But in the hospitals here and at Barcelona were several hundred wounded, both strikers and police. It was impossible to get definite estimates of the number of casualties, but at Barcelona five were known to have been killed, and it was feared one policeman would die of his injuries. At Alicante the first outbreak of violence this morning left three wounded, one a boy of five.

Lubbock's Building Total For 1930 Skyrockets Over Million-And-Half Mark Here Yesterday

Permit for Reconstruction of Temple Ellis Structure Is For $250,000 To Give Big Increase To Valuations

Lubbock's 1930 building valuations skyrocketed above the million-and-a-half dollar mark Tuesday with issuance of a permit to J. J. Clements, contractor, for reconstruction of the Temple Ellis building, Broadway and Texas avenue, at an estimated cost of $250,000.

The original building, owned by T. H. Ellis who is erecting the new structure, was gutted by fire which began the night of August 22 and lasted until well after daybreak. Six stories will replace the original 4-story building. Completion is expected about June 1, 1931. Preliminary work has been underway several weeks.

Plans call for a structure fire-proof throughout, materials used being brick, concrete and steel. The building is 124 feet 11 3/4 inches by 75 feet 1 1/2 inches.

With issuance of the permit to construct the new Temple Ellis building, building permit valuations for the year totaled $1,581,978. A total of 240 permits had been issued.

Dawson Pioneers Celebrate Golden Wedding Recently

LAMESA, Nov. 18. (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Gaines, Dawson county residents, recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Gaines have been residents of West Texas for nearly forty years. In 1891 they came from Somerville county, Texas to Motley county, a year after that county was organized.

In 1902 he filed on four sections of land in Dawson county, and came here to improve same. Equipment and supplies for his ranch were transported in wagons from Big Spring, the nearest railway point at that time. He moved to the town of Lamesa in 1904, when the village consisted of only about a dozen houses.

His residence was the first house in the new village to have a coat of paint applied, and created quite a sensation at that time. Mr. and Mrs. Gaines are the parents of nine children, seven of whom and their families were present at the celebration. Those attending were Mrs. E. G. Saker, Mrs. C. C. Cootin, and Clarence Gaines, all of Lamesa. Two sons, R. O. Gaines of New Mexico, and Ed Gaines of Priddy, were not present.

SNYDER, Nov. 18. (Special)—Ben Davis, better known as "Uncle Ben" and Mrs. Davis celebrated their 64th wedding anniversary here. The couple were married November 13, 1866. Five sons and two daughters helped in the celebration. They are: H. L. T. Cornelius and Oscar Davis, living in Snyder, Isiah at Godley and Jeff at Floydland and Mrs. T. H. Shull and Mrs. H. S. Hart, also of Snyder.

GRADE BOOKS DUE

All old students who have not returned their grade books to the registrar's office are urged to do so at once, according to E. L. Doherty, college registrar.

Students not returning these books will be charged one dollar for new ones.

DINNER PLANNED

A Thanksgiving menu will be served to members of the Tech Alumni association when they gather here on Thanksgiving day for the annual homecoming. The dinner will be held in the Hilton hotel and will be followed that night by a dance in the Hilton ballroom given in honor of the graduates and ex-students.

A special section of the football stadium is being reserved for the alumni and ex-students who are sending in their reservations for the game.

Invitations have been sent out by J. W. Jackson, president of the alumni association, to all graduate and ex-students. Graduates of the college number approximately 450 while ex-students number several thousand.

TO PRESENT PLAY

"Lead, Kindly Light" is the title of the play of C. J. Atchinson, Tech senior, which is to be presented at the First Baptist church on Wednesday night November 26. The play was presented last Sunday night and at the request of the pastor, Rev. R. C. Campbell, it will be presented again.

The local color is brought into the play when one of the characters returning from college, sings the song, "Texas" written by Professor W. R. Waghorne, head of the college music department.

The play will be featured in the auditorium of the First Baptist church beginning at 8 o'clock.

TO START PRACTICE

Several men are expected to report to O. C. Corry, coach of the college tennis team, within the next few days. Among the veteran players to return this year and who will be ready for practice soon are Raymond Pfluger, Frank Emison and Homer Roberts. Pfluger is captain of this year's team and was a letterman on last year's squad. Emison also is a letterman.

Among the prospects available for the freshman team are C. L. Dunliven, Wright, Beale, Baird and O'Hair.

TRANSFERRED TO GEORGIA

Clyde Williams, graduate of 1930 from the Tech engineering school, has been transferred from Akron, Ohio, to the Goodyear mills at Rockmart, Georgia.

Williams will do efficiency work in the mills.

TO HOLD TRIAL TONIGHT

A prominent member of the pre-law club, organization on the campus of pre-law students, will face the high court of justice in the pre-law court in a special session tonight. The trial will be held in room 302 of the administration building and all students are invited to attend. The defendant is charged with embezzlement of $3.27 1-2 of the money belonging to the club.

Judge Alvis Ellis, of the pre-law court, will preside over the court while Bob Taylor will act as prosecutor.

cutting attorney, Ross Ayers is sheriff, but will be away during the trial.

TO WORK HERE

Alta Rollins, Seminole, former student in the college has accepted a position in the office of Dr. M. F. Swart, local optometrist.

DEBATE SPONSORED

"Resolved: Democracy Breeds War," will be the question debated today at a meeting of the International Relations club which meets in room 302 at 11 o'clock.

H. Y. Price, Jr., and Alvis Ellis will present the affirmative while Wayne Castleberry and Bill Sewell will defend the negative.

The International Relations club is composed of students interested in world peace. Professor M. E. Ogdon, member of the government department, is sponsor of the organization.

START DISCUSSION

Dr. J. O. Ellsworth, head of the department of economics in the agricultural school, will speak today before the members of the freshman "Y" cabinet in room 310 at 5 o'clock.

"Problems of Personal Philosophy" will be the subject of the address. The speech today will be the first of a series of discussions on this subject.

FIREPLACE BUILT

A brick fireplace recently was built east of the home economic building and will be used by the home economic club for marshmallow roasts and taffy pulls. The fireplace also will be available for use by any other organization.

TO DISCUSS PICNIC

Discussion of the pre-med picnic will be the main purpose of the pre-med meeting for tonight in the auditorium of the chemistry building. Plans also are being made for the club to sponsor a dance for next term.

Murray Ballenger, Lubbock, is president of the club.

SHOT TO DEATH

MCAMEY, Nov. 18. (AP) — Bill Henderson, 30, was shot to death in his room at Iraan early today, according to a message received here. Officers were looking for a person who it was believed did the shooting.

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHER E. BEAN
Avantage Woman's Editor

LUBBOCK probably will be chosen for the 1931 meeting of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs. No other town has ever been selected and practically every one at the convention in Houston last week seemed to want to come to Lubbock, according to Mrs. C. M. Ballenger, who was one of Lubbock's delegates at the meeting.

Of course, the place is not to be selected until next January when the state board of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs meets for an annual session.

At any rate, Lubbock received some good publicity down at Houston. Mrs. Ballenger thinks that the club women of Texas know more about the town and Texas than they did before. The pamphlets sent down by the Chamber of Commerce for distribution were very appropriate, we thought, she said upon her return. "We don't often have a chance to get in touch with the women of the state and tell them about our town," she continued.

Mrs. Ballenger was accompanied to Houston by Mrs. O. K. Peters, who was also representing a study club here, and by Mrs. W. B. Price, who is recording secretary for the state association. The three of them talked to the various women who attended the convention, telling them of the advantages of Lubbock as a convention site for next year. This was in addition to the official invitation which was extended.

"We found only two or three women who didn't favor this city as a meeting place," Mrs. Ballenger said today. One of these women said that she was not going to attend the convention next year, anyway, and another said that she didn't want to come to Lubbock because she liked to be in a place large enough to afford hotels for convention sessions. Immediately, the Lubbock delegates explained to her that Lubbock has grown up within the last few years.

NEW COLORS
Mongolian blue and Manchurian red are among the new colors for evening, a fashion notice from Paris states. The blue which Paris calls Mongolian is an intense turquoise. Manchurian red is a shade which corresponds to dark coral.

THEY'RE DOING THINGS
LUBBOCK women are continuing to do things. The other night I read a story in the Ghost Story magazine that had been written by Mrs. T. R. Frideaux, who lives at 2408 13th street. It was "The Conjuror's Bag," I believe, and it was a good story. It was written in the first person and about the time I was beginning to think that Mrs. Frideaux must have led more of a romantic life than I had thought, she told me that the story was purely fiction, except that she did teach school one winter in such a community as she described in the story.

While I am writing Mrs. J. V. Connor comes in for a talk with me. She is a representative of a business girls' society, the Epsilon Sigma Alpha, with whom I was connected last year, and she tells me of her experiences during the last few months. Since it is the subject in which I am immediately interested, I ask if she is doing any writing now. She is doing a little when she has time—some features and articles and she has a short story that is to be published soon.

Mrs. Frideaux told me of an Indian short story that she has written that is to be published. It is "The Holder of the Lost Mesa" and has a setting in New Mexico.

A paper has come to my desk from Houston in which there is a picture of Mrs. Ballenger and a group of other leaders in the Texas Federation of Women's clubs.

Mrs. James H. Goodman has received some recognition, also, but in a different way. Two cats which she sent to the National Cat. Dog and Pine Stock show at Wichita, Kas., won ribbons. One of them, a silver queen Persian, receiving the purple ribbon in that class and two blue ribbons on points.

Raising cats is a hobby with Mrs. Goodman and she sent her animals to the stock show in Wichita with little thought of winning any recognition. Her cat is known as Kat Castle and is at her home out on 19th street.

A lot of Lubbock women are doing things outside the realm of house keeping or holding down a job in some office—even though they may be doing one of these things, too. For most women club work is a hobby. Mrs. Goodman raises cats for a hobby; Mrs. Chester Hubbard paints on a hobby; Mrs. Frideaux writes between dishwashings and parties and clubs and church work, and they are having a lot of fun doing these things.

Two Study Clubs In Programs Yesterday Afternoon In Lubbock

Daleth Delphian, New Era Clubs In Regular Meetings Here On Tuesday Afternoon

Mrs. Ed. T. O'Sullivan Is In Charge of Daleth Lesson Which Is Held On Hilton Mezzanine Floor

"The Umbrian School and Vatican Treasures" was the subject for discussion when members of the Daleth Delphian chapter met Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the mezzanine floor of the Hilton hotel. The president, Mrs. Otis Copeland, presided.

Mrs. Ed. T. O'Sullivan, who was in charge of the program conducted a parliamentary drill at the opening of the meeting. Talks were made by Mesdames G. H. Ater, C. M. Chandler, Marvin Stovall, Harry Hall, Mary E. Parks, Lee Ragland, Joe Baldridge and J. C. Orr. Alex McDonald and C. E. Maedgen.

There were 17 women in attendance.

Mrs. Conner Talks
Members of the New Era Study club met in business session at the home of Mrs. J. W. Rodgers, 1919 Broadway, Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. J. V. Conner made a talk on the Texas Federation of Women's clubs.

The next meetings will be held in the home of Mrs. J. W. Story, Jr., at 2310 Main street.

There were ten women in attendance at Tuesday's meeting.

Attack Victim Growing Worse
Rising temperature, continued loss of strength mark decline in condition of James Ewins of Littlefield

A rising temperature and continued loss of strength Tuesday marked decline in the condition of four-year-old James Ewins, of Littlefield, critically injured there shortly before noon Saturday by a leopard which leaped upon him.

A son of J. D. Ewins, Littlefield tailor, the child was taken to Lubbock sanitarium after receiving emergency treatment. Hospital attendants Tuesday reported that his condition had become worse.

Wounds Inflicted.
Claws and teeth of the leopard, which had been permitted unusual freedom, inflicted severe scalp wounds, and other injuries. A man who pulled the jungle cat from the boy received a lacerated hand.

Immediately following the leopard's attack upon the boy, as he entered a drug store, the animal was caged and its owner placed in the Littlefield city jail to await additional investigation. The owner, still was in jail Tuesday.

A leopard, believed to have been the same one which leaped upon the Ewins child, attacked Elmore Vowell, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Vowell, of Colorado, there on the afternoon of October 27.

Owner Pays Bill.
Although the child was injured, wounds inflicted by the cat did not prove serious. Costs of three days' medical care for the child were paid by the leopard's owner.

That fact coupled with slight extent of the child's injuries was said to have led Mr. Vowell to refrain from court action.

The girl was attacked on the grounds occupied by the T. J. F. well shows while the leopard, the animal was caged and its owner placed in the Littlefield city jail to await additional investigation. The owner, still was in jail Tuesday.

Bar Association Votes Pro Repeal
CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—P.—The American Bar Association announced today that a sub-committee which had polled approximately 75 per cent of the membership tabulated a vote of 13,779 in favor of repealing the Eighteenth amendment and 6,340 against repeal.

These figures formally will be announced in a statement by Charles A. Boston, president of the association, which will appear in the December issue of the American Bar Association Journal.

The result of an earlier vote to determine whether a referendum should be conducted, showed 14,732 in favor and 5,625 opposed.

Of about 1,175,000 acres of trees to be planted under the Forestry Commission's plans, Scotland is to have about a third, or 390,000 acres.

Another Trial Judge Talks

WE MAY take the opinions of Texas trial judges who express themselves—and where may the jury look for a more concise opinion?—we may well believe that the prime factor in the break down of effectuality in the courts and the laws of our country rests with the average citizen himself.

According to trial judges, the average citizen, with misconception of the cardinal principles of American government, will do almost anything to keep from serving on a trial jury. The work is unpleasant to him in the first place. In the second place it keeps him from his work, and in some instances causes him financial loss. He prefers to live his own life, unmolested for his duties as a citizen and the debt he owes to contribute to civilization and the perpetration of all laws.

The average citizen, the trial judges further set forth, also has a habit of classifying laws. If he, personally, condones a law he has little, if any, compunction in helping enforce it. He has no help, but if he disallows a law he will feel no hesitation in informing the court that, if placed on a jury, he would vote against conviction, even though guilt in the case might be plainly proved.

Judge C. A. Phippen, of Dallas, presiding in the famous Sherman riot cases given venue change yesterday from Dallas to Austin, is the latest trial judge to note the peculiar workings of the prospective juror's mind. After several talesmen had frankly informed him that they would not, as jurors, vote for conviction in the riot cases no matter how the proof went, Judge Phippen made some observations of his own.

"Let me show you," he said in part, "what such action will lead to. It opens the flood gates to every individual. The majesty of the law falls. The dignity of the law falls. You are going to set yourself up as bigger than the law."

Judge Phippen's remarks are original in themselves but the thought behind them is nothing new. The same theory has been advanced by the two district judges sitting in Lubbock. It has doubtless been voiced by many other trial judges who look with alarm upon the conditions which are now prevailing in every nook and corner of the land.

In that alarm the judges are far-seeing. In their opinions they are undoubtedly correct. When individuals begin setting their own opinions higher than the laws of the land there is danger ahead. If the condition becomes too prevalent all law will fall and we will live, as some of us should want to live—in a state of anarchy.

Jurors have one important duty. That is to listen, to reason and to weigh the facts presented at any criminal trial, then, on the basis of the testimony and their deductions, decide upon the guilt or innocence of the defendant.

It does not come within their province to say whether a law is right or wrong; whether the alleged crime was or was not justified. The juror's duty is to decide upon guilt or innocence, regardless of his own personal opinions, upon evidence submitted in the trial and as directed by the charges of the court.

It is to be hoped that citizens everywhere will hearken to the counsel of trial judges when that counsel is such as offered by Judge Phippen, of Dallas, and others who see the handwriting upon the wall. In laws, and the carrying out of the laws, is our nation's and our world's one hope for civilization, peace, prosperity and happiness.

Practical Health Problems

SUGAR PLAYS BIG PART IN GIVING BABY ENERGY

By DR. MORRIS FISHER, Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygieia, the Health Magazine.

Many forms of sugar are used in the feeding of infants, including milk sugar, cane sugar, maltose, dextrose and starch.

Milk sugar, which is the sugar that occurs naturally in mother's milk, in the milk of the cow and in that of the goat, has few advantages over other sugars. Milk sugar is not as sweet as cane sugar, which may be an advantage, since the infant does not become used to sweetness.

More than other sugars, the milk sugar tends to produce acidity in the excretions and with the possibility of irritation of the skin. In most babies, milk sugar seems to be more laxative than other sugars. Cane sugar, which is the ordinary sugar used on the table by the rest of the family, has the same value in nutrition as does milk sugar. It is somewhat more quickly digested, but it is not as laxative and may be fed with safety in larger amounts, particularly to infants that have digestive disturbances. It is, as has been mentioned, somewhat sweeter than the milk sugar.

Many of the infant foods contain maltose and dextrose, because of special qualities which these sugars are believed to possess. Dextrose is not fermented by most of the bacteria found in the intestine, but it is converted to maltose by the ferments that are normally present in the intestine. In infants that have diarrhea, it is customary to use dextrose because it is not likely to lead to fermentation.

Dextrose can be given in larger amounts than other sugars and is, therefore, widely used in infant feeding. Mixtures of maltose and dextrose vary from 50 per cent maltose and 50 per cent dextrose to 60 per cent maltose and 40 per cent dextrose. Maltose is quickly converted in the intestine into the sugar known as dextrose or glucose, in which form it is rapidly absorbed; in fact, dextrose is the most quickly absorbed of all sugars.

Because of its quick absorption and the fact that fairly large amounts may be added to the food of the infant without the danger of fermentation, mixtures of maltose, dextrose and dextrin are commonly used in infant foods.

There are, of course, many other forms of sugar that can be supplied to infants in order to provide them with energy. All of the fruits contain sugars, chiefly dextrose, but this does not possess any special advantage over other forms of sugar. Whenever an excessive amount of sugar is fed to an infant, fermentation, with the formation of gas, takes place and the infant is likely to develop diarrhea.

Prohibition Showdown Seen

By CHARLES F. STEWART, Central Press Staff Writer

ASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Perhaps the last election brought prohibition modification no nearer than it was before.

Though the wets made some gains, indications are that they still will be outvoted two or more to one in the Seventy-second congress. It is to be true, as the drys say that the landslide year, 1928, gave them an abnormal representation. It also may be true, as the drys say further, that congressional sessions of 1931 and 1932 will find them numerically stronger on Capitol Hill than they were when the Eighteenth amendment was submitted to the states and the Volstead law was enacted.

Nevertheless, it does appear that the last election brought a national show-down on the question of prohibition modification decidedly nearer than it previously had seemed to be.

What the show-down will reveal, if and when it takes place, is a different matter.

PROBABLY not even the most whole-hearted dry will dispute that the northern Democratic party was predominantly wetish throughout the recent campaign.

Quite likely he will dispute, however, that the northern Democrats' wetness was the reason for such victories as they scored; he will be likelier to account for these victories on grounds of economic conditions or other causes entirely distinct from the wet-and-dry issue. For all that, he can hardly escape admitting that a lot of people will attribute northern Democratic successes at the polls to northern Democratic wetness.

If the result was not a Democratic landslide, it was not far from it.

IN NEW YORK a Democratic wet won over a Republican not-quite-so-wet by a record majority—and not because the latter had a dry Republican rival to cripple him, either, for his dry rival's vote was negligible. In Illinois a Democratic wet won over a Republican puseyfoot by a well-nigh incredible majority, considering Illinois' normal Republicanism. In Massachusetts a Democratic wet won over a dry Republican, giving the Bay State two Democratic senators simultaneously for the first time in its history.

In Ohio a Democratic wet won over a dry Republican by a trumping majority—and although it is a fact that a dry running mate won with the former, there at least is an arguable case for the wets that their man dragged his dry partner to victory with him.

Despite his dry Republican opponent's howls that the state is founding a veritable dynasty, Maryland overwhelmingly voted a fourth term to its dry Democratic governor, Albert C. Ritchie.

OUT OF THE whole list of northern states in which Democratic wet hopes were entertained there were only two wet disappointments—in Delaware and by the narrowest of margins, in Minnesota.

Wet Democrats were beaten, to be sure, in Rhode Island and New Jersey, but by wet Republicans. Even in Pennsylvania which has not given a Democratic majority in 40 years and where favorable Republican margins normally run high into the hundreds of thousands, the dry Republican gubernatorial candidate defeated his wet Democratic competitor by a very small margin—for the Keystone State.

WITH THIS showing to point to, it is reasonable to expect the wet northern Democrats to arrive at their party's 1932 national convention in any mood to accept a dry presidential nominee—or so much as to accept a compromise—on platform or standard bearer.

If not, will the southern Democrats rebel—and split the party wide open?

Maybe—but the southern Democrats like federal patronage as well as any other politicians, and they can get it only by winning nationally.

Ah, yes; who knows whether the northern Democrats are sure of them—when it comes to the test of a national election? Still, 1930's vote is certain to set the southern Democrats a-cowering.

TO CONTINUE theorizing, suppose the northern Democrats do commit their party to a wet program in 1932, and instead of disintegrating, as in 1928, it holds together.

That surely would mean a really clean-cut wet-and-dry show-down—if it be taken for granted that the G. O. P. would stay on the water wagon.

But would the G. O. P. do it—in such a situation? Will not the behavior of New York, Illinois, Ohio and several other electorally highly significant states prove to have thrown an awful scare into the G. O. P. on the wet-and-dry issue?

THE G. O. P. had the nerve to stay muddling dry in 1928 in the face of Al Smith's wetness.

But the Democrats obviously were split that year, not only on wet-and-dryness, but on still madder questions. Moreover, New York, Illinois and Ohio had not then expressed themselves so conclusively as on last November 4.

There has been a tendency in various state-wide fights lately for both major parties to come out wet—as in New York, New Jersey, and Rhode Island.

Should this tendency begin to manifest itself, on both sides of the fence, on a national scale, the drys would have to do some serious thinking. There are hints that some of them have been cogitating the outlook already.

Clifford Pinchot, for instance, shows symptoms of presidential aspiration.

The Democrats, as a solid party, assuredly never will nominate him; for one thing, he is not a Democrat. It is safe betting that the Republicans, as a solid party, never will go to such an extreme of dryness.

But how about Governor-Elect Pinchot on a third party dry ticket? This would mean a clean-cut wet-and-dry show-down anyway.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON
KERN, FAMOUS GERMAN ARCHITECT: The Cathedral of St. Basil, outside of the Kremlin in Moscow, is one of the strangest specimens of architecture in existence. It is a veritable "nightmare of stone," having 20 multicolored and gilded domes, and towers of grotesque shapes and sizes. It was erected at the order of Czar Ivan the Terrible in 1554, to commemorate the capture of Kazan. After its completion the Czar ordered the architect's eyes put out to prevent the construction of a similar church in any part of the world. Reference: "The Grange Encyclopedia," volume 24, page 390.
COUNT DE SADE: Count de Sade (1740-1814) spent almost 30 years of his life behind the bars in prisons and insane asylums. When he was confined in the Bastille he was able to procure writing materials for the first time. During five of his prison years he wrote the incredible number of 450 volumes. Those books made his name a byword for criminal immorality. Between 1784 and 1789 he wrote at the rate of about 90 volumes a year. He is described by a contemporary as "one of the handsomest men" of the 18th century. Reference: "Belloni's 'Comte de Sade'."

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Adventure enters the life of CELIA MITCHELL, 17, when she learns the father she has supposed dead is alive and wealthy. She leaves her unpretentious home in Baltimore to live in New York with her father, JOHN MITCHELL, and her aristocratic grand mother.

MARGARET ROGERS, Celia's mother, is now a widow, having divorced Mitchell and remarried later. BARNEY SHIELDS, young newspaper photographer, is in love with the girl and before leaving Baltimore Celia promised to be loyal to his love.

Mitchell asks EVELYN PARSONS, beautiful widow, to introduce the girl to young people. Mrs. Parsons agrees, considering Celia a means to win Mitchell's affection though she is jealous and at once begins scheming to get rid of the girl. She introduces Celia to TODD JORDAN, fascinating but of dubious character, and does all she can to encourage this match.

LISI DUNCAN, socially prominent, becomes Celia's loyal friend. Mitchell learns Jordan is paying his daughter, attention, and forbids her to see him. Celia offends her grandmother and the elderly Mrs. Mitchell feigns illness and departs for a rest. The girl goes to Mrs. Parsons' Long Island home for a lengthy visit. Jordan calls there frequently.

Mrs. Parsons lunches with Mitchell and he tells her he has investigated Jordan's past and that the young man is a gambler. She does not pass this news on to Celia.

Next day Celia, Lisi and Jordan attend the race and there Celia encounters Barney Shields. Shields is employed by a New York picture service. She meets him next day and they have dinner together. Shields asks her if she still cares for him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY. Chapter XXXIX. Barney Shields' firm gaze held the girl. She could not look away. In the depths of Barney's grey eyes Celia could read intensity and a challenge that was frightening. She could not evade. It would hurt, but there was no other way. She had to tell Barney the truth!

"He was waiting for her answer. 'I know that I promised—' she began.

"You mean there is someone?" Shields' voice was sharp, explosive. "Barney—I—yes, there is."

Neither of them spoke. Shields was looking down at the table now. Very steadily. Celia watched him, afraid of what she would see when he lifted his head. She was miserable with the knowledge that she had caused suffering and could do nothing to relieve it.

"I'm sorry," she said in a low voice, "but I had to be honest with you."

He was looking at her now. The table seemed to have widened. Barney's manner was composed, but the laughing light in his eyes had faded. "Well—that's that! Thank you for telling me, Celia."

A waiter placed food before them. Celia felt as though she could not swallow a mouthful. It was soup thick with vegetables and savory. She took a spoonful and found it appetizing.

"Are you engaged?" Shields asked steadily.

"No. That is—not really. You see, father doesn't approve of Tod. I mean he doesn't really know him. He'll feel differently just as soon as he gets over his prejudice. I'm sure of that."

A rush of compassion swept over Celia.

"Barney, I can't stand it to have you talk like that. We've been friends so long! Oh, I've felt miserable because I promised to wait for you and then—well, you see you didn't write and I met Tod."

"There's something about him. I don't know. At first I tried to pre- judge him. I didn't like him. Then I went swimming and almost drowned and he saved my life. He's been wonderful. I still like you a lot, Barney."

but Tod's different. Do you see how it is?

"I see all right."

"The young man's eyes were averted."

"If that's the way you feel about it you can count on me," he said. "Who is this—Tod, if I may inquire?"

"Tod Jordan's his full name."

"Got lots of dough?"

"No. That is, well, I suppose so. He doesn't have an office or anything like that."

"Just does parlor tricks, huh?"

"Barney, do you think that's nice?"

The young man smiled a twisted smile. "Sorry," he said. "No. I guess it wasn't very. Of course, all that stuff's out of my class."

"If you're trying to hurt my feelings—"

"Oh, see here, Celia, you know

"Hamlet" Will Be Presented By Ben Greet

First Quarto Version of William Shakespeare's Play On Program At Tech College Gymnasium Friday Night

The first quarto version of William Shakespeare's play "Hamlet" will be presented by Sir Philip Ben Greet and his company of English players at 8:15 o'clock Friday night in Texas Technological college gymnasium.

Sir Philip Ben Greet's company was credited last season with presenting the first quarto version of "Hamlet" in the United States for the first time. Columbia, Brown, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Indiana were among the universities, and Brooklyn, Boston, Richmond, San Francisco, Portland and Seattle among the cities which acclaimed the English Shakespearean company.

The company carries its own stage properties, making possible a presentation superior to those of organizations which would be forced to use only the facilities offered at the college gymnasium. Ben Greet is an international figure, recognized as one of the outstanding producers and actors of the stage. His popularity is largely due to the possession of a charming personality and a winning smile. For 30 years he has been presenting Shakespeare and the classics to the public. The annals of his career was reached a year ago last June when His Majesty, King George V, conferred the honor of Knighthood upon him for his splendid public service.

Only Two Copies Found. It was not until 1823 that existence of the first quarto version of Hamlet was discovered. Only two copies have been found, and the other in the possession of Henry Huntington, of California. The first quarto was printed in 1619. It is but half the length of the second quarto or the edition of 1624. There is none of the actual drama omitted from the first quarto. The writing is direct and to the point. Because of this fact and the quicker action it is a much more satisfactory acting version.

Lubbock Shriners To Attend Confab

One of the largest representations attending the fall Shrine ceremonial at Khiva temple in Amarillo today is expected to be the Lubbock delegation, attaches of the local Shrine organization have indicated.

Final plans for attending the session were outlined at a meeting of a committee here Saturday. The Lubbock Shrine club will lead a parade in Amarillo in connection with the Khiva temple rites. Special stunts have been planned for the occasion.

Potentate Pink L. Parrish, of Khiva temple, and C. E. Hunt, president of the local club, met with Dr. M. F. Swart, Lonnie Montgomery and Neal Wright Saturday to formulate the club's plans.

"We want to urge every Shriner possible to make the trip to Amarillo Wednesday," Senator Parrish has said. "We are very anxious for the local club to make a good showing at the ceremonial."

The largest conference in the history of the press group appears probable, it was said Tuesday. Texas Managing Editors association is composed of news executives of the state's largest papers, all of which are members of the Associated Press.

Local Papers Host.
Host papers for the meeting are the Lubbock Morning Avalanche and the Lubbock Daily Journal, and Charles A. Guy, editor of the papers, will be in charge of arrangements.

Business programs have been arranged for mornings and afternoons of both days of the assembly and scheduled social affairs rapidly are taking form, it was announced Tuesday.

The latter part of the program will include banquets and luncheons at the Lubbock and Hilton hotels, an inspection of the textile engineering plant at Texas Technological college.

Evidencing interest in Lubbock and the South Plains, which was first shown by the organization's decision to meet here prior to halting the two-day sessions, a number of the editors will arrive here one and two days before the meeting begins, in order to better view Lubbock and the surrounding section.

Forty To Be Here
Attendance of 40 thirty-five news executives and Associated Press chieftains is practically assured. After the Lubbock meeting has been closed the organization will hold two one day meetings each year, devoted of social features and held in some centrally located city. Decision to come to Lubbock was made after the association had decided to disperse with two-day meetings, so many individuals desiring to visit this part of the state before turning to the centrally located conference.

Discussion of improved wire service will take up the major portion of the business sessions but an added feature will be displayed in the demonstration of a voting machine, of the type used so successfully in Ft. Worth during the recent elections. The voting machine tabulates each vote as it is cast and the total may be ascertained at any hour of election day merely by glancing at the figures listed.

C. C. To Help
The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce will aid the Avalanche-Journal publications in entertaining the visiting newspapermen and final arrangements will be made today. The Hotel Lubbock is convention headquarters and the opening session has been set for 10 o'clock Sunday morning.

Reservations Listed
Reservations have already been made by J. M. Tentative promises to attend have been received from Martin Anderson, Harlingen Star; T. Paul Barron, Midland Reporter-Telegram; Fred Jones, Beaumont Enterprise and Journal; Gene A. Howe, Amarillo Globe and News; James Leach, Houston Post-Dispatch, and C. M. Shelby, Dallas Associated Press night editor.

A number of the editors will be accompanied by their wives and registrations for the ladies include Mrs. James R. Record, Ft. Worth; Mrs. W. Max Bentley, Abilene; Mrs. Silas B. Ragdale, Galveston; Mrs. Dean C. Chenoweth, San Angelo and Mrs. George W. Cottingham, Houston. Special social features will be offered for entertainment of the visiting ladies.

When it was proposed to buy a new mirror for the Town Hall at Brackley, England, three women members of the town council objected that it would be a waste of money.

Thanksgiving Proclamation Issued By Mayor Clements; Observance Is Asked

The customary Thanksgiving proclamation was issued Tuesday from the office of Mayor J. J. Clements, calling upon citizens of Lubbock to observe the day as one of universal thanksgiving to God.

Mayor Clements' proclamation follows:

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION
By The Mayor of The City of Lubbock:

"Our forefathers endured the hardships and privations of a primitive life. They were surrounded by dangers and were blessed with few comforts. Nevertheless, they bequeathed to us a custom of devoting one day in each year to universal thanksgiving to the Almighty God for the blessings of life and for the means to sustain it. "Our City has many causes for thanksgiving. We have been blessed with distinctive evidence of divine favor. We have grown from a striving village into a thriving metropolis. We have made gains in the prevention of disease and consequently have been blessed with good health. Educational advantages of our city have greatly aided in the upbringing of our future citizens. On every hand we have felt the influence of a divine power, instilling a feeling of security and of faith.

"Now, Therefore I, J. J. Clements, Mayor of the City of Lubbock, do hereby designate Thursday, November 27, 1930, as a day of thanksgiving, and do enjoin the people of Lubbock to so observe it, calling upon you to remember that many of our people are in need and suffering from causes beyond their control, and suggesting that a proper celebration of the day should include that we make sure that every person in the community, young and old, shall have cause to give thanks for the neighborly sentiments of our people.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the seal of the City of Lubbock, Texas, on this 18th day of November in the year of our Lord 1930.

(Signed) J. J. CLEMENTS.
(Seal) Mayor, City of Lubbock.

DETROIT, Nov. 18. (AP)—The federal government tonight held indictments against 14 alleged members of airplane smuggling syndicates believed responsible for the dumping of scores of aliens and thousands of cases of Canadian liquor within the United States during the past year. Twelve airplanes have been seized.

CUT PASSENGER RATES

Two Cents a Mile Allowed on Texas-Mexico Line

AUSTIN, Nov. 18. (AP)—Opening its November docket here, the state railroad commission today granted a cut in passenger rates to the Texas-Mexican railway and took under advisement applications of two other rail lines for train and station discontinuances.

The Texas-Mexican was authorized to publish rates of two cents a mile as passenger fare on all stations on its route, from Laredo to Corpus Christi. The reduction was in line with that recently granted the Texas and Pacific railway to try the two cent fare on its Fort Worth-Big Spring line as an experiment, in "wing to build up passenger traffic.

STATE RESTS CASE

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 18. (AP)—The state rested in the W. L. Oliver murder trial here today after the purported dying statement of Lehman Ray Bailey, 17, had been admitted to the record over defense objections. Oliver is charged with the death of young Bailey, his stepson, at Menard last March. Ten character witnesses for the defense testified in quick order before court was recessed until in the morning. Included were several peace officers, and banker and the superintendent of schools at Menard.

Lubbock County Rural Schools To Be Awarded $17,940 In Aid From State School Allotment

Total Is Maximum Amount Permitted And Largest Ever Received By Schools Here State Inspector Says

Lubbock county rural schools will be awarded $17,940 from the state aid allotment, the maximum amount permitted, it was announced here Tuesday by G. L. Huckaby, state inspector, following a tour of schools in the county.

Amounts averaging $800 and $900 will be given to each school in the county, the total award being the largest ever received by Lubbock county schools, Mr. Huckaby said.

Mr. Huckaby declared Lubbock county schools were in unusually good condition physically and above the average financially in comparison to those of other areas of Texas. He was sent to this section earlier than usual at the request for early visitations by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

"Lubbock county schools are larger than any of those I have visited thus far," Mr. Huckaby declared. He also stated that they were better organized than most of those he had visited.

"Owing to the high property valuations of the West Texas lands, the schools do not get the limit," Mr. Huckaby said, explaining that local taxes made up for the amount not given by the state. This time, allowance is being made for the delinquent taxes in the districts and larger amounts of state aid given.

MORE COPIES SOLD

AUSTIN, Nov. 18. (Special) — More copies of the Cactus yearbook of the University of Texas, have been sold to date than in any previous year, according to Burt Dyke, business manager of the Texas Student Publications. The sale of the yearbook usually reaches 3,000 for the year, and the report to date shows 2,035 sold.

New Aid Brought Much Joy To Both

'Argotane Has Been A Great Benefit To My Wife And I And We Both Feel Fine,' Says Abilene Man

Mr. W. M. Wheeler, a well known local man a farmer living in rural route three is enthusiastic in his praise of Argotane the new medicine because he and his wife have received benefits and relief from troubles of years standing.

"It's true," he continued "both my wife and I have been bothered with stomach trouble for quite awhile. It seemed that none of the food we ate digested properly, invariably after meals gas would form and we would experience severe stomach pains and cramps in the pit of our stomach. We took a lot of medicine but just couldn't get to place where we could eat what we wanted to without suffering terribly from gas formation on the stomach and would have a full bloated up feeling. I had a bad case of constipation.

"Argotane was advertised so highly we decided to try it. Well we certainly are greatly improved in every respect since taking Argotane. We both have a fine appetite now and we aren't bothered with cramping or pains afterwards. My wife isn't bothered with gas forming anymore in fact, it has done both of us more good than anything we have ever taken and we feel better than we have in several months. Argotane is a wonderful medicine and has been a great benefit to both of us.

Genuine Argotane may be purchased in Lubbock at the Bowen's Drug Store. Adv.

Continuance Given In Hankins Trial

AMARILLO, Nov. 18. (Special) — A week's continuance in the case of C. Bailey Hankins, Levelland minister-carpenter, charged with forgery, was granted here Monday.

Hankins is charged with forging a $200 check against Dr. J. E. Nunn, of Amarillo. Defense attorneys indicated that they desired a sanity examination and to investigate reports that Hankins formerly had been judged insane.

Although the defense originally was reported to have planned entering a plea of guilty and asking for a suspended sentence, the later development indicated that a plea of insanity would be made in Hankins' defense.

Dr. Nunn, who had been Hankins' benefactor, is directing defense plans.

CHILD SOUGHT

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 18. (P) — The six-year-old son of Sanchez Martinez of Somerset was the object of search here today. LARA LOU BROOKMAN
AUTHOR OF "THE GIRL WHO WENT AWAY"
© 1930 THE NEA SERVICE, INC.

I didn't mean anything like that! Don't take it that way. Honestly, I'm sorry."

"All right then."

Neither had done more than taste the soup. It was moved and followed by a huge mound of spaghetti with sauce and bowl of cheese.

"You're supposed to do it this way," Shields explained, wrapping the spaghetti about his fork. This diversion interrupted the conversation. Presently the young man asked:

"You dare a lot for this fellow Jordan, do you? His voice was low, almost husky."

Celia nodded her head.

There was no more talk on the subject. Celia asked about her mother, but Barney had little news to give. He had seen Mrs. Rogers a couple of times after the girl's departure. He had called to say goodbye before coming to New York.

There had been no answer to his knock. When Celia inquired about her mother's health he answered that Mrs. Rogers looked "about the same as usual."

It was not altogether satisfactory.

"I wish I could see her," the girl said. "You know how she is. If anything was the matter she'd never let anyone know."

Shields tried to be comforting. He inquired about the places Celia went and how she spent her time.

"Ritzy, all right," he concluded. "Well, you won't have much time to waste on a guy like me."

"Don't say that, Barney. I want to see you often."

"Oh, it's probably just as well if you don't expect your pretty busy with your fellow Jordan taking you to parties and teas. Anyhow, I'll take me a while to—well, sort of work things out."

They had dessert and black coffee, and after they had finished Shields took the girl in a cab to the station. It was early, but she was anxious to reach Larchwood before there was any possibility that Mrs. Parsons would be there.

"When am I going to see you again?" she asked as they stood together on the train platform.

"Hard to tell. We have rather irregular schedules, you know. I'll be out at the races the rest of this week, I guess. The young man's indifference was a pose obvious even to Celia."

"You might telephone."

"Thanks, I'll try to."

She said goodbye, thanked him for dinner and entered the car. By the time she had found a seat and looked out of the window Shields had vanished. Celia rode to her station, feeling that she had done the cruellest act of her life. It hurt her to remember Barney's face with his mouth such a straight, firm line and the smile gone from his eyes. Barney wasn't like that. She got off the train, signaled a cab and arrived at Larchwood before eight o'clock. Mrs. Parsons was still absent.

Celia went upstairs to her room, changed her dress for one of rose net made with the quaint puff sleeves and full skirt that gave her an old-fashioned charm. She put on her mother's locket because it made Margaret Rogers seem nearer to her. After that she went down to wait for Evelyn.

She moved the radio dials until the symphonic melody of a night club orchestra floated into the room. That was better! Life-action—shut! laughter! That was what she needed. Celia wished Jordan would come and take her somewhere. She wanted to dance, to hear Jordan make love to her and forget that down deep in her heart something was hurting. It couldn't be that she loved Barney, of course. Barney had never affected her with that hypnotic spell she felt when Jordan took her in his arm. She had been a child without the faintest notion of what love meant when she promised to wait for Barney. She was in to make his fortune.

Jordan telephoned at nine o'clock and at the sound of his voice Celia forgot that she had been unhappy. He had met friends and was unable to get away for the evening. He said, but would come to take her after the next afternoon. Jordan added something that made the girl's cheeks flush. As she put down the telephone she was ringing softly.

A little later Evelyn arrived home. She made hasty apologies. The bridge tournament had been a disappointment because she and her partner had lost. Mrs. Parsons was an expert player and unable to accept losses at cards with good grace.

"Was there any message from your father?" she asked Celia.

"Not while I've been here."

"Hm! I thought he might drive down for dinner tomorrow evening. Perhaps we'll hear from him in the morning."

Mitchell did not call or arrive at Larchwood next evening. Two days later Mrs. Parsons made an announcement at the luncheon table.

"I think I lose the house early this season," she said. "The intense heat is over, and really until all these legal affairs are arranged it would be much more convenient to be in town."

Celia looked up, startled.

"You mean you're going to leave Larchwood?"

"Yes, next Monday. That's the fourth of September. Time to be realizing that fall is almost here."

The girl's face was downcast.

"Then I suppose I'm to go back to Grammerly Square," she said slowly.

"Nothing of the sort! Your grandmother, as you won't be in town for a month. It wouldn't do at all for you to go back there. Besides, I've plenty of room in the apartment. I thought you'd like it. You'll see a great deal more of your father, I think that makes everything all right."

"Sweet child! You didn't want to leave me, did you?"

"No, I didn't."

Mrs. Parsons looked pleased. She took care to repeat this incident the next time she met John Mitchell. And Mitchell hearing it, seemed impressed.

"Celia's awfully fond of you, Evelyn," he said. "I've noticed that myself. And why shouldn't she be? You're almost a mother to her!"

Evelyn eyed him from under lowered lids.

"I only wish I could do more," she said quietly.

The following week saw Mrs. Parsons and Celia installed in the up-town apartment. The girl dreaded leaving Larchwood, but after she was back in the city she found life far different than in her grandmother's dreary mansion.

Mrs. Parsons had many engagements. Celia was allowed to entertain herself as she chose, and there was no dearth of amusements. Tod Jordan became even more attentive. He took Celia on long drives, stopping usually at some country place for dinner. Evenings they saw plays or danced.

Mrs. Parsons began ordering her fall wardrobe. Early selection, she said, was important. At Mitchell's request she took Celia shopping and helped the girl select several costumes.

During the first week in the city Celia sent a note to Barney Shields giving him her new address, and asking him to call. She received no answer.

Celia was melancholy for a day or two and then determined to put Barney out of her mind. She was hurrying along Madison avenue one afternoon only a few blocks from Evelyn Parsons' apartment when she recognized a tweed suit ahead.

The young man wearing the suit was buying a newspaper.

The girl paused beside him.

"How do you do, Mr. Shields?"

"Celia!" The broad grin Barney flashed at her was like old times. "I've been wanting to see you."

"I don't want to walk home with you."

DO YOU HAVE EMPLOYMENT

For Someone?

Whether it be only two hours work, or a permanent position. Any kind of odd jobs about your home... perhaps the yard needs cleaning, the roof needs repairing... or the house needs repainting. Give the other fellow a job.

Every dollar that is expended in wages between now and January 1st will not only tend to increase the volume of retail buying but will greatly assist many Lubbock families in the procurement of actual necessities.

During November, the AVALANCHE-JOURNAL WANT-AD DEPARTMENT will strive to obtain 1,000 days of employment for the unemployed. If you have a job for one day or thirty, phone the AVALANCHE-JOURNAL WANT-AD DEPARTMENT.

Give details and your ad will be inserted FREE OF CHARGE. In both morning and evening editions, for two days, providing the ad is not over three lines (count six words to line).

Turkeys Are Being Shipped

Thousands of Birds Leaving
Plainview Area for Market
Centers of East; Four Carloads Leave Past Week

PLAINVIEW, Nov. 18. (Special) Turkeys by the thousands are being received daily in Plainview and the local dressing plants are in full swing, picking and dressing the Plains-grown birds which will be shipped east for the Thanksgiving market.

Picking started early in the week in the plants of the Plainview Poultry and Egg company and the Pliman Egg corporation. These two companies are handling the output here. More than 300 people are employed in the picking. Men, women and children are engaged. After picking the turkeys are laid out on trays and placed in refrigeration at a temperature which makes the inside of the dressed birds 40 degrees.

Four carloads of dressed turkeys were shipped from Plainview this week in freight refrigerated cars. After this week they will have to go by express to the eastern markets. Ten cars will be moved by Thanksgiving day. In addition to the dressed turkeys, the Staked Plains Growers association shipped two carloads of live turkeys.

The farmers are receiving 15c for the turkeys sold locally. It is estimated that the Thanksgiving crop will bring $40,000.00 to the farmers of this immediate section.

PLAN EVENING CLASSES

Lamb County Teachers Are to Aid Farm Boys in Work

LITTLEFIELD, Nov. 18. (Special) Vocational agriculture teachers of Lamb county are planning a series of evening classes this winter.

At a recent meeting here the four teachers of the county went over plans to assist their work among the farm boys of the county. It was decided to seek more publicity in the local newspapers of the county and also to work for increased enrollment among the boys not in classes.

Evening classes for adults, at which practical farm methods are to be discussed, are also a part of the general program.

Members of the schools, working under the Smith-Hughes vocational act, are: J. E. Smith, Amherst; R. A. Box, Littlefield; E. T. Kerr, Olton; and R. E. Duckworth, Gudan.

INSTALL HAMMER MILL

Lubbock Grain, Feed Company
Makes Improvement

Carrying out plans to make their plant the largest of its kind in the southwest, the Lubbock Grain and Feed company has just installed one of the largest types of hammer mills used for grinding forage crops such as maize, hogear, kafir and other grains in bundles. The additional mill and improvements were installed at cost of $3,000.

Carload shipments of ground maize will be made from the plant in the near future. Sacking of bulk feed is one of the plant's specialties. Willis Perreau is manager of the concern.

SEVEN DAYS SCHEDULE

HALE CENTER, Nov. 18. (Special) The Ritz theater here has begun its seven days a week schedule, with four changes of programs each week. For the summer the theater did not operate on Tuesdays and there were three changes of program.
