Second Soviet reactor may be involved

By NORMAN BLACK
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence agencies now believe that a second Soviet nuclear reactor at the Chernobyl complex either has already experienced, or is experiencing, a meltdown, administration sources said today.

The sources, who agreed to discuss the matter only if not identified, also disclosed that the first reactor to be destroyed in the disaster apparently began experiencing a "major problem" last Friday.

By Saturday, the problem had evolved into a meltdown of the reactor core, and by Sunday, apparently while trying to deal with the meltdown, a chemical explosion was touched off that ripped the reactor building apart.

The sources refused to detail how the U.S. intelligence agencies had reached their conclusions that a second reactor at the site was experiencing problems.

One official noted that there were four nuclear reactors at the complex and that the four were "twinned" in pairs in terms of their operation and link-up to large generator halls.

The official stressed that the United States had not been able to verify a second meltdown as yet, but repeatedly maintained there were "other indications" beyond just the close proximity of the two reactor buildings to suggest the second reactor was in serious trouble.

Offering the most detailed account yet of the findings by U.S. intelligence officials, the sources said it was clear that the disaster was continuing.

A fire at the first reactor is still burning, venting smoke, vapors and radiation, one source said.

There are a small number of Soviets at the site, apparently trying to contain that fire, the source continued. All four reactors at the complex are definitely shut down, the source said.

Intelligence officials have now determined "that there was probably a problem, a major problem, at this plant on Friday," the source said.

"They may have been able to evacuate people at that time. On Saturday, it developed into a meltdown."

Economist: Oil price 'settling'

By FRANK TROMBLEY
Staff Writer

ODESSA — If major players in the world oil market don't make any major mistakes, the chief economist for Caltex Petroleum Corp., Dr. Dennis J. O'Brien, doesn't expect the price of oil to drop as low as $5 a barrel.

Addressing the Permian Basin Economics Club monthly meeting at Mission Country Club Tuesday, O'Brien said that of a group of 18 economists meeting in mid-February, 16 thought the price of OPEC oil would settle in at $16 to $18 a barrel and that West Texas Intermediate and Brent crude within a couple of dollars of that price. Observing that he tries not to predict oil prices, O'Brien said a concensus of experts tends to indicate the price of oil in non-OPEC producing countries will move toward about $25 a barrel by 1990.

Concerning the short-term outlook, O'Brien said there is a sense that the market will begin to firm up by the end of the year.

O'Brien, in addition to being Caltex's chief economist, is adjunct professor of international management at the University of Texas at Dallas. Noting that Caltex is jointly owned by Chevron Corp. and Texaco Inc., O'Brien said the company operates in 50 foreign countries. Caltex produces about a million barrels of oil daily "east of Suez," he said.

Contrary to popular opinion, O'Brien said, "Crude prices do not set product prices, product prices prices set the price of crude." The growth rate of consumption, he said, will determine product prices.

Working from graphs and charts, O'Brien pointed out that other fuel sources, including nuclear, gas and coal, have been gaining in use, which results in less demand for oil.

Some countries, he noted, have been increasing production beyond their initial projections in an effort to offset decreased revenues.

Part of the problem with oil consumption in the United States, he said, concerns a decline in the manufacturing base of about 29 percent. O'Brien observed that the only new manufacturing plants built in the United States have been built by the Japanese.

O'Brien said there is still a "good deal of low cost oil to be developed," but the benefits from this low cost oil will be relatively short-lived and will lead to much higher long-term capital costs.

Fire still spreading radiation

By ROXINNE ERVASTI

MOSCOW (AP) — An inferno raging in the devastated Ukrainian atomic power plant spewed more radiation into the atmosphere today, and several European nations warned their people about the danger from what could be the world's worst nuclear disaster.

The Soviet Union acknowledged two people dead in the Chernobyl plant accident 60 miles north of Kiev, but reports from U.S. officials in Washington, a Dutch ham radio operator and an American professor in Kiev indicated a much higher toll.

Radiation spread more than 1,000 miles over much of Europe and prompted Sweden to warn against drinking contaminated rainwater and Austria to advise parents to keep infants indoors. Children lined up at health centers in Poland for medication against possible radiation poison.

Several European leaders angrily demanded that Moscow explain why it had not quickly alerted the world to the disaster, which was first detected in Scandinavia on Sunday but not confirmed by the Soviet Union until Monday. West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Gensher urged the Soviets to shut down all power plants similar to the Chernobyl facility.

Britain and Finland began arranging the evacuation of their citizens from Kiev, while the U.S. Embassy in Moscow advised Americans to leave the Ukrainian capital of 2.4 million. France asked the Soviet government to authorize French citizens in the Ukraine to leave.

The Soviet government issued a terse statement Tuesday saying two people were killed and four communities near the plant evacuated. A Soviet official visiting Washington said less than a hundred people were injured.

But a top U.S. official called the accident "the most catastrophic nuclear disaster in history" and experts warned of long-term health problems.

Dutch amateur radio operator Annis Kofman said he picked up a broadcast late Tuesday that appeared to come from near the crippled plant in which an unidentified ham radio operator said two reactors were on fire and "many hundreds dead and wounded."

U.S. intelligence sources in Washington said the complex experienced a meltdown Saturday and threatened one of the other three reactors, which were shut down after the accident.

Commissioner candidates run polite campaign

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of a six-part series looking at contested and uncontested local races in the May 3 primary.

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

The three-way race for the Republican nomination for Midland County Commissioner of Precinct 2 has the marks of a gentleman's campaign: The candidates cry out their merits, decry Midland's depressed economy, propose solutions to the continuing County Jail problems but forego any mudslinging.

McCrary

Rister

Craig

Seeking the nomination are Commissioner C. Wallace "Wally" Craig, 62, a real-estate broker who has held the post since 1983; Guy McCrary, 32, a marketing consultant; and Milton Rister, 35, a computer consultant.

"I'm a young 62," said Craig, "and I've got lots of mature experience."

"I'm running," said McCrary, "because I think change is necessary and healthy to any organization. I think it is a well-rounded perspective that I can take to that office." McCrary cited his leadership and organizational abilities among his qualifications for the $24,000-a-year job.

"I think the community wants to see a county commissioner who will make concrete proposals instead of just talking about them," said Rister.

All three candidates said they are determined to save taxpayers' dollars.

ELECTION '86

"The involvement I've had in the community and business affairs in my 26 years in Midland, through good times and bad, and my in-depth understanding of the economy as well as county problems we now face make me especially helpful in finding solutions," the commissioner said.

Mexico City shaken by early morning quake

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A major earthquake shook Mexico City and coastal states for about 65 seconds early today, sending terrified residents of areas damaged in last September's deadly quake fleeing into the streets in pajamas and bathrobes.

Initial reports from the Red Cross, police, firefighters and rescue crews indicated no major damage to buildings and no reported injuries in Mexico City.

The quake also was felt in the Pacific coast states of Guerrero, Colima and Jalisco, the government news agency Notimex said, adding police in those states reported no damage or injuries. The area includes the cities of Acapulco, Puerto Vallarta and Ciudad Guzman.

The quake was recorded at 1:07 a.m. (3:07 a.m. EDT) and set buildings swaying in downtown Mexico City and in the Roma neighborhood, one of the hardest hit during the Sept. 19 quake, in which thousands died.

The U.S. Geological Survey in Golden, Colo., said the earthquake registered 7.0 on the Richter scale and was centered along the Pacific Coast about 250 miles southwest of Mexico City.

However, the National Autonomous University of Mexico's seismological center said it measured the quake at 6.5 on the Richter scale and was centered 320 miles southwest of Mexico City in the Pacific Ocean.

The center also measured two aftershocks about an hour later registering 5.0 and 4.8.

There were similar discrepancies in Richter readings immediately after the September quake, which measured 8.1 on the Richter scale, and following an aftershock the next day that measured 7.3 on the Richter scale.

Man arrested in kidnapping of former Midland woman

From Staff Reports

BROWNWOOD — One man has been arrested in Austin in connection with the kidnapping Monday of former Midland resident Mary Johnson from her Salt Creek area home in Brown County, Sheriff Bill Donahoo reported.

Donahoo said the arrest resulted following a telephone call from Texas Rangers headquarters after he (Donahoo) relayed information about the kidnapping to Austin.

Donahoo said a contact was set up with the alleged kidnapper and the money was dropped in a secluded location. While a surveillance team watched, the accused picked up the ransom and fled the scene on foot, he added.

Donahoo said one person was in custody in Travis County Jail pending charges which are expected to be filed sometime today. Two other suspects had been arrested Tuesday, but were later released after investigators confirmed they had no part in the kidnapping.

Mrs. Johnson, wife of former Midland realtor Don Johnson, had freed herself from an abandoned farm house in Mills County about 2 p.m. Monday after being taken at gunpoint from her residence shortly before 11 a.m., Donahoo said.

The sheriff said he suspects the alleged kidnapper's motive "was to gain money." The accused reportedly asked for $500,000 ransom.

O'Brien, who has just returned from a month-long visit to the Arab Gulf countries of Bahrain, Oman and Saudi Arabia, questioned the effectiveness of U.S. embassies in some countries, which he likened to "medieval castles." Embassy people, in some instances, he said, are isolated and may not know what's going on in the countries they're assigned to.

VOTE REPUBLICAN PRIMARY

POLITICAL HATCHET JOB: Why did the Chief Justice "recuse" (UPI News, Mar. 5, 1986) when Judge Howell asked the Texas Supreme Court to let the governor appoint a special bi-partisan court to decide the Throw-Judge-Howell-Off-The-Ballot case? When one of the incumbent Democrat judges filed suit to remove his Republican opponent from the ballot, how could the Republican, Judge Howell, receive a fair hearing before this all-Democrat court?

BAR POLL LEADER: Don't be misled. There has been only one State-wide poll concerning the 1986 Supreme Court election. Judge Howell was, by far, the leading Republican candidate. Among all five Republicans, Judge Howell led by margins up to 4 to 1.

JUDGE CHARLES BEN HOWELL FOR SUPREME COURT

Court won't reinstate abortion rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, in a victory for pro-choice forces, today refused to reinstate an Illinois law regulating abortions.

By a 9-0 vote, the court dismissed for procedural reasons an attempt to revive the law.

The justices threw out an appeal by a pediatrician who objects to abortion on moral grounds. The court said only the state has legal standing to seek reinstatement of invalidated abortion regulations.

Today's ruling appears to have limited impact on the raging controversy over abortion in which the Reagan administration has asked the justices to overturn their landmark 1973 decision legalizing abortion.

A case from Pennsylvania is still pending with the court expected to announce a decision by July.

In today's case, pediatrician Eugene F. Diamond appealed a lower court ruling that had struck down provisions of the Illinois abortion law.

Justice Harry A. Blackmun, writing for the court, said Diamond lacks legal standing to "assert any constitutional rights of the unborn fetus. Only the state may invoke regulatory measures to protect that interest and only the state may invoke the power of the courts when those regulatory measures are subject to challenge."

Blackmun also said that legal standing is not conferred upon Diamond merely because he says he has a daughter of child-bearing age.

"Diamond has not shown either that his daughter is currently a minor or that she is otherwise incapable of asserting her own rights," Blackmun said. "Diamond's failure to adduce factual support renders him incapable of maintaining this appeal in his capacity as a parent."

The Illinois law required doctors who abort fetuses that might be able to live outside the womb to use the same diligence required during childbirth.

It also required doctors to tell abortion patients that certain forms of birth control, such as those that prevent implantation of a fertilized egg in the womb, cause "fetal death."

The statute also said a woman seeking an abortion must be told about unforseeable detrimental effects. The law also limited the options doctors may use in performing abortions at various stages of pregnancy.

The 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals struck down the provisions, basing its ruling on the Supreme Court's 1973 decision legalizing abortion.

In 1983, the high court reaffirmed that ruling as it struck down several state laws and local regulations that made abortions more difficult to obtain.

Although the composition of the high court has not changed since 1983, the administration urged the justices to reconsider their ruling legalizing abortion.

Even pro-choice forces have said the administration has little chance of succeeding, but the Pennsylvania case still remains to be decided.

When the court first agreed to study the Illinois abortion law, it was told the appeal was being made by state officials along with an anti-abortion doctor represented by the Chicago-based Americans United for Life Legal Defense Fund.

Actually, Illinois officials had decided not to challenge the 7th Circuit ruling that struck down provisions of the law, leaving Diamond the only defender of the statute.

White reacts to bond rating reduction

Associated Press

Democratic Gov. Mark White reacted to a reduction in some of Texas' general bonds ratings by pledging not to raise taxes.

Standard & Poor's Corp. announced Tuesday it lowered the bond ratings on more than $2 billion in debt of five Texas agencies because of the drop in oil prices and resulting reduction in state revenue. The ratings were lowered to AA+ from AAA.

"We are not going to be coerced into raising taxes or imposing an income tax by Wall Street," White said.

White's Republican opponents blamed the governor in part.

Former Gov. Bill Clements said, "Texas is in serious trouble. And Mark White, the fulltime, professional, career politician, has no solutions."

U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler, who is running in the GOP gubernatorial primary, said White should call a special session of the Legislature.

In other political news, Republican attorney general candidate John Roach said the solution to the prison overcrowding problem lies in building more prisons, rather than releasing inmates early.

He described prison overcrowding as "no doubt one of the top issues" for the 1987 Legislature.

Roach, among three GOP candidates for attorney general, said "it's time for us to quit fooling around with it and get on with the idea of building some more prisons, of turning over minimum security prisons to private enterprise, to consider the idea of medium security prisons being operated by private enterprise — although I oppose the operation of maximum security prisons by private enterprise."

Asked where he would find money to build new prisons, Roach said private enterprise "can run them cheaper than we can as state government."

He said the state budget can be cut, and that the Legislature might have to consider a tax increase.

A. Don Crowder, Democratic candidate for governor, released results of a poll that he said showed him second to White in Saturday's primary election with nobody getting a majority necessary to avoid a runoff.

Crowder said 600 registered Democrats were told April 18-26 that Andy Briscoe, White and Crowder were the "top contenders" and then they were asked how they planned to vote.

White got 34 percent, Crowder 20 percent, Brisoce 14 percent, 29 percent were undecided and 3 percent had no opinion, according to the poll.

In another development, Texas Supreme Court Candidate Charles Ben Howell has filed a $1 million libel suit against his political opponent, State District Judge Nathan Hecht.

The lawsuit — filed Monday in state district court — accuses Hecht of spreading "a continuing series of distorted, scurrilous and untrue statements."

CAMPAIGN

CRAIG RECALLED that the Midland economy in the early 1960s was "not as severe as it is now, but it was on the bottom-side of the cycle. It (the Spraberry Oil Field Boom) was over when we got here."

Craig said he would "stand up for principles from here on, but," he noted, "if somebody will show me a better way of doing it, I'm willing to do it. I'm certainly willing to change my position to get things done — particularly if it's better."

Though he cited the County Jail as the "most visible" problem, others are more critical, Craig said.

"We put the jail as the No. 1 problem, and it is the most visible, most talked about, on-going problem in Midland County. It still needs solutions.

"But the No. 1 imminent problem is taxes," Craig said. "I'm talking about the dollars that people pay."

As the budget study for fiscal year 1987 approaches, Craig said he wants to set up a budget "without increasing tax dollars" paid by property owners. "The declining property and mineral values in Midland County will cause a severe reduction in tax revenues at the present tax rate," Craig said. "It's conceivable that we could live with fewer tax dollars and certainly no increase in tax dollars... without too drastically reducing needed services."

ON THE JAIL ISSUE, Craig noted the courthouse jail is being renovated under a $3-million bond issue which the voters approved in May 1985. At the same time, the voters approved funding a study for the long-range courthouse and jail needs but rejected a $9.9-million proposal to build an $8.4-million jail apart from the courthouse.

Today, Craig said he has "no preference, personally," whether the jail is built with bond money or built by private enterprise — which ever is least expensive to the taxpayers. Either one takes tax dollars to pay for whether you call it lease payment or debt retirement."

Still, Craig said he is "convinced that the greatest savings in tax dollars will be realized by building the new jail on the county-owned seven-acre tract east of Midland." A downtown site would "add several million dollars to the cost of the project."

Craig listed achievements by the Commissioners' Court since he took office in 1983 as the opening of the Midland Centennial Branch Library, working toward a drainage channel to relieve flooding in southeast Midland, improving county roads, and increasing harmony among the commissioners and between them and the Midland City Council.

IN HIS CAMPAIGNING, McCrary said it's "healthy to have another perspective, particularly in government, when times begin to get a little bit tough."

A change in leadership would be "healthy" because "style alone gets results in more effective government."

"Leadership is both quality and process," he said, and involves "identifying the problems and developing alternative ways of solving problems."

McCrary suggested that he would be "innovative enough" to solve problems "without being bound to the shackles of tradition." Another leadership quality he cited was being "assertive enough and persistent enough in following through with options you've selected. And if you find it won't work, be gutsy enough to start all over."

More than the jail issue, McCrary said that "far and way, the most prevalent topic and most worrisome topic among the people is the economy. Those in public positions need to be conscious of the fact that people are losing their jobs left and right" due to the depressed oil economy.

"AND MANY ALREADY are overburdened with economic woes, personal debts, debts of their business. Momma lost her job last month, and Daddy is about to lose his job," McCrary said.

"I think public officials need to be sensitive to the...the worries of the economy. I think any government ought to operate under the assumption that this thing is going to get worse before it gets better. Officials and administrators are going to have to be more austere in the way they manage funds.

"So many things have been benignly neglected for so many years in the county," McCrary said. "I think the biggest challenge will be living within the revenue the county will have available. And McCrary noted that property values in the county are "going to go down" and the county tax rate will have to be adjusted to stay even."

"The county is going to have to scrub the budget. Jobs are going to have to be cut. We are going to have to be more efficient," he said.

During the next few years, some "real gut-wrenching decision-making" will be required "to deal with the economic impact on the county operation."

And McCrary zeroed in on the County Jail problems.

"We've got to quit wringing our hands over this (jail) problem. We need to get after it," he said. "The poor condition of the jail is, in my opinion, the result of neglect by the Commissioners' Court."

To remedy the problem, McCrary suggested the County Jail be reconditioned for high-risk prisoners and that an existing building be "quickly and cheaply" converted to operate as a minimum security jail to serve the county needs for the next three to five years. In the meantime, McCrary proposed that plans get underway for a regional jail to be built possibly by the private sector and operated by public officials.

RISTER, WHO earlier proposed a jail be built and operated by the private sector for the sake of efficiency and lower tax dollars, noted that sheriffs have opposed the concept because "it takes power from the sheriffs."

But despite the lingering jail problems, the jail issue is not paramount.

"Most people are telling me that the No. 1 issue is saving the taxpayers' money. It's not the jail. It's how we can save money. People are taking pay cuts, and employers are cutting employees. We've got an exodus of people leaving this city. They can't rent enough U-Haul trailers."

Rister, who lives in the Greenwood area, said taxpayers "deserve leaders who will first look for ways to avoid tax increases and still provide solutions to our problems."

"PRIVATE JAILS can operate more efficiently by cutting out the bureaucracy and functioning like a business," he said. "They provide jobs and make a profit which is turned back into the local economy. Most important, private jails save taxpayers money, both in cost of construction and in cost for housing prisoners."

The Commissioners' Court would contract with the private jail operator and the sheriff would monitor the jail's operation, Rister said.

He said his "highest priority" as commissioner would be law enforcement.

"We need to take care of the sheriff's department to make sure the law is enforced."

In addition, he ranked safety and county roads in "the same category" on his priority list. "The county roads are in bad shape." He proposed the widening of Garden City Highway (Texas 158), Cloverdale Road (Farm Road 307) and County Roads 1090 and 1120.

Rister said he "started talking issues before either of them (Craig and McCrary) did. People who vote issues are going to vote for me."

"I think it's time for new ideas. Maybe those new ideas should come from a young man."

Rister said he realizes he is the "underdog" in the campaign. "We're trying to make this a dead heat by election day. We don't have any false confidence.... We certainly hope our opponents do, and he (McCrary) certainly has reason to have it; he's a very popular person."

Thursday: Republican county treasurer's race.

"Things are fairly normal. The people were out in the street but it was because they were panicked," said Red Cross Capt. Enrique Mejia. "It was principally people panicked and nervous."

A tour of downtown and surrounding neighborhoods by Associated Press reporters showed no apparent structural damage and only scattered power outages.

But in the Roma neighborhood near downtown, where hundreds of the estimated 9,500 victims of the September earthquake died, people huddled along curbs or in grassy median strips, reluctant to go indoors despite the apparent lack of structural damage to their homes.

"A lot of people had just returned here," said Alicia Jimenez de Alvarez, standing with her husband, Vicente, who held their sleeping 4-year-old daughter, Alicia, in his arms.

Vicente Alvarez pointed to two children seated on the ground on a blanket, both in pajamas and bare feet.

"I wouldn't say those two were scared, no. They were terrified!" he said.

In the nearby Condesa neighborhood residents ran into the Mexico Park, frightened out of their homes when thin facades loosened from brickwork in last year's quake cracked and fell to the sidewalk.

But about 30 workmen fled the 15th story of the San Antonio office building which they were demolishing. They sat across the street in the Alameda Park on Juarez Avenue, about one block from an empty lot where the Hotel Regis had stood.

"We ran like crazy down the stairs to get out of there," one said. Another said debris "was falling on our heads. We'll go back in there if they say, but I don't want to."

Nearby a group of Mexican tourists visiting from Yucatan state decided to leave their hotel and catch buses home as quickly as possible.

NUCLEAR

An American professor, in a telephone interview from Kiev on the NBC-TV "Today" show, said she was told of hundreds of casualties.

Intourist guides "told us that their information indicated something like 300 casualties," said Karen Black, a language and literature professor from Bates College in Lewiston, Maine. "We were given the information that the city water supply ... has been now cut off to the city and they are using alternate water supplies."

She said Kiev appeared normal. "You would not know anything has happened at all."

Kofman quoted the Soviet ham radio operator as saying in emotional tones: "We heard heavy explosions ... you can't imagine what's happening here (with) all the death and the fire."

Kofman said the Soviet operator, whose report could not be independently verified, spoke in English to another man with a call sign peculiar to Japan.

"I'm here, 20 miles from it, and in fact I don't know what to do," Kofman quoted the Soviet ham radio operator as saying. "I don't know if our leaders know what to do because this is a real disaster. Please tell the world to help us."

"Thousands and thousands of people are moving, taking their children and cattle to the south," he quoted the radio operator as saying.

British Embassy spokesman Donald MacLaren said it was trying to evacuate about 70 British students and tourists in Kiev and another 30 from Minsk.

U.S. Embassy spokesman Jaroslav Verner said he did not know how many Americans were traveling in the Ukraine, but that the State Department issued an advisory warning people to leave Kiev. The State Department said there was no indication of American casualties.

U.S. officials said there appeared to be no way to put out the nuclear plant fire immediately. Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., vice chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, said after a CIA briefing Tuesday that radiation from the damaged plant "continues to escape at an alarming rate."

Indonesian, American diplomats tiptoe around some 'touchy' topics

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
AP White House Correspondent

BALI, Indonesia — A top Indonesian official said today President Reagan's "winds of freedom" are still blowing on the eve of his meeting with President Suharto, but the government didn't much care for the "hurricane" that led to expulsion of two Australian journalists.

"We are not against press freedom," Foreign Minister Mochtar Kusumaatmadja told a news conference on this tropical resort island. "On the other hand, we don't have to like it. I mean when a hurricane hits you, you don't have to like the hurricane."

He said he regretted the expulsion of a New York Times reporter, adding he had tried to reverse her banning but failed when she entered the country on a tourist visa, was discovered and ordered to leave.

U.S. Ambassador Paul Wolfowitz delivered an "expression of concern" to Indonesian officials after the Australians in the White House press party were ousted, but American officials indicated they considered the case closed and Reagan was unlikely to raise it when he meets with Suharto on Thursday.

Nor, the officials said, would Reagan dwell on other human rights issues such as what are known here as "mysterious killings" of suspected criminals and political repression in East Timor.

Speaking on condition he not be identified, one authoritative U.S. source said the Reagan administration believes the government has halted the summary execution of suspected crime figures and that the suppression of political opposition in Timor has eased, albeit not enough to suit the United States.

"We do talk about these things" with Indonesian officials, one American said, "but we don't want to hit it square on the nose."

Mochtar, when asked if he was concerned that his government's action, by focusing attention on human rights issues, would cast a pall over the meeting, said: "I hope it will not."

Senior U.S. officials made clear they did not want the meeting, set to discuss economic issues, to be complicated by the whirlwind caused by the reporters' case.

"Good diplomatic conduct is when an issue is dead, you put it behind you," one official said, adding that U.S. experts were recommending that Reagan not even raise the matter with Suharto.

Reagan has made "the winds of freedom" the theme for his 13-day trip to the Far East, but officials said today he would concentrate on issues of free trade and free markets during his visit here to talk to Suharto and the foreign ministers of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN), a compact of non-Communist trading partners in the region.

'Dominoes' that didn't fall to celebrate ASEAN role

By KENNETH L. WHITING

BALI, Indonesia (AP) — Foreign ministers from non-communist Southeast Asia — the dominoes that did not fall — gather Thursday to meet President Reagan and celebrate a decade of growing importance of their regional organization.

The communist takeover of Indochina in 1975 was supposed to start a whole row of dominoes toppling in chain reaction. That "falling domino principle" was espoused 32 years ago by then-President Eisenhower to demonstrate the region's strategic importance and the need for American intervention.

Foreign affairs chiefs from six of the domino countries — still erect and determinedly non-communist — gathered here to confer with Reagan during his 64-hour stopover en route to Tokyo for this year's economic summit meeting.

They are also commemorating the 10th anniversary of the first summit meeting of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations, made up of the Philippines, Thailand, Malaysia, Singapore, Indonesia and Brunei.

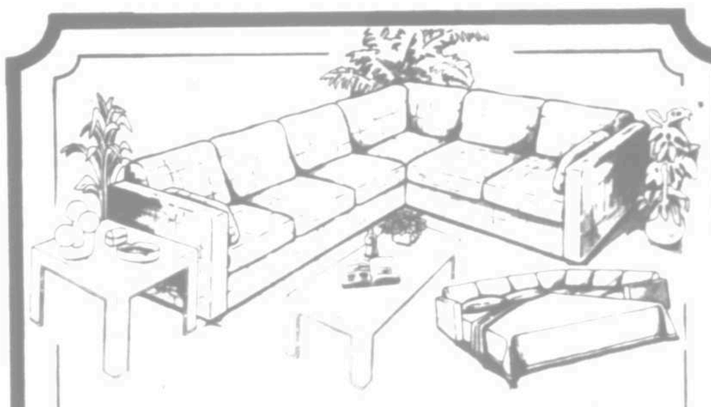

ASEAN was formed in 1967 to promote regional cultural and economic togetherness. It went along for years without a central headquarters or full-time staff, but it breathed life into dozens of specialized bodies such as the ASEAN Coconut Community and a regional chamber of commerce and industry.

It sponsored conventions of orchid growers, travel agents, soil conservationists and others. At this modest level of technical coordination and the swapping of cultural, social and economic information, ASEAN chalked up a notable string of successes.

Nixon's papers center of controversy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is being warned that a Reagan administration legal opinion, if allowed to stand, would let Richard M. Nixon choose which of his presidential papers can be released despite a 1974 law making them public property.

A legal adviser to Congress told a subcommittee Tuesday that if the head of the National Archives obeys the legal opinion drafted in the Justice Department he "will cede all discretion to former President Nixon, exactly what the statute intended not to happen."

Another warning came from three historical associations that if Justice's interpretation of the regulations stands, "For the rest of his life, Nixon would be in control of United States history between 1968 and 1974."

They urged that Congress pass a law to prevent the regulations from going into effect "as long as the interpretation of the Justice Department remains a part of the regulations."

After Nixon resigned from office on Aug. 9, 1974, at the height of the Watergate scandal, Congress enacted a statute putting his 42 million White House papers and 800 reels of tape recordings into the custody of the archivist of the United States.

Although the archivist was instructed to make them public as quickly as possible, not a single document has been released. The archives says it has 2½ million pages ready to go this summer unless Congress votes to overturn the regulations.

Steven Ross, general counsel to the House, testified before the House Government Operations information subcommittee that the legal opinion is "an unprecedented and dangerous memorandum" that would allow the administration, not Congress, to make the law concerning Nixon's documents.

And that, he said, would mean the Justice Department and the Office of Management and Budget could "make the law throughout the all-encompassing realm of regulatory review."

The memorandum, signed by Assistant Attorney General Charles J. Cooper, accompanied an OMB review of proposed regulations drawn up by the archives.

"On the eve of making the Nixon papers available to the public, there is a brand new effort that might prevent disclosure of those papers," said Rep. Glenn English, D-Okla., chairman of the subcommittee.

"The Justice Department Office of Legal Counsel has issued an opinion stating that a sitting president should support any executive privilege claim made by his predecessor," English said. "In other words, President Reagan should automatically honor any claim of executive privilege made by former President Nixon."

WORLD IN BRIEF

Golden Temple raided

AMRITSAR, India (AP) — Paramilitary troops and commandos raided the Golden Temple today to capture Sikh radicals and secessionists who proclaimed a separate nation, the United News of India reported.

Shots reportedly were heard immediately after the security forces entered the temple complex, the Sikh religion's holiest shrine.

A curfew was imposed around the temple and the public was ordered out.

In June 1984, the Indian army stormed the Golden Temple to rout Sikh militants who were using the temple as a base of operations for attacks on Hindus. At least 1,200 people were killed in the army assault, mostly Sikhs.

The temple was later returned to Sikh control.

On Tuesday, Sikh militants inside the temple held a news conference and declared "the beginning of the battle" for an independent Sikh nation of Khalistan in Punjab state.

Indian factory on fire

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A hydrogen leak triggered an explosion and fire at a heavy water factory in eastern India, the United News of India reported today. It said serious damage was reported but no casualties.

The news agency, quoting unidentified plant sources, said the explosion occurred Tuesday night at the facility at Talchar in Orissa state, 220 miles southwest of Calcutta.

It took three hours for firefighters to bring the blaze under control, United News of India said. It said plant workers apparently escaped safely.

Norway coalition ousted

OSLO, Norway (AP) — The coalition government and Prime Minister Kaare Willoch were ousted early today after being defeated in a vote of confidence by the Storting, Norway's parliament.

Willoch, 67, said he would recommend that King Olav V ask the main opposition leader, Gro Harlem Brundtland, to form a new government. She leads the Labor Party and was toppled as prime minister by Willoch five years ago.

The loss of confidence vote by a 79-78 margin made Willoch's minority government the first Norwegian government to fall from power without an election in 23 years.

Willoch had asked for the vote on introduction of a proposed gas tax of 21 cents per gallon to help Norway out of the economic doldrums caused by the drop in oil prices. Norway is one of the world's leading independent oil producers.

Habib ends Latin tour

MEXICO CITY (AP) — U.S. special envoy Philip Habib closed a 12-nation Latin American tour with a meeting with Mexican President Miguel de la Madrid, who urged the United States to renew talks with Nicaragua to help ensure peace in Central America.

In Costa Rica, Habib's previous stop on the tour, Foreign Minister Carlos Jose Gutierrez said the signing of a Central American peace treaty being drawn up by the Contadora group of nations would strengthen U.S. ties with Latin America.

Sikh enters guilty plea

DUNCAN, British Columbia (AP) — A Sikh leader pleaded guilty Tuesday to charges stemming from the investigation into the bombing of an Air-India plane that killed 329 people and an explosion at a Tokyo airport the same day.

Inderjit Singh Reyat, 34, pleaded guilty in provincial court to unlawful possession of an explosive substance and possession of an unregistered restricted weapon.

Fire sweeps L.A. library

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fire tore through the landmark, 60-year-old downtown library Tuesday, consuming thousands of books, collapsing parts of the building's interior and forcing the evacuation of about 400 patrons and employees.

At least 35 firefighters were injured as more than 250 battled the blaze in the three-story building, which contains more than 2 million books, periodicals and photographs.

Historic murals, photographs and U.S. patents were destroyed along with tens of thousands of volumes, some of them rare and irreplaceable, said library director Betty Gaye.

The fire in the neo-classical building, which is listed on National Register of Historical Places, burned about 7½ hours before being extinguished Tuesday evening. There were no reported injuries to the public or employees.

The value of the library's collection was estimated four years ago at $69 million, Ms. Gay said, adding that it included the nation's third-largest municipal book collection.

Fire Chief Donald Manning called the blaze "very treacherous — the worst fire to contain I've seen in my 31 years" as a firefighter.

The cause of the fire was not immediately known, city fire Inspector Ed Reed said. There were no reported injuries to the public or employees.

Councilman Gilbert Lindsay, who went to the scene, said the library would probably have to be rebuilt.

Mayor Tom Bradley cut short a trip to San Diego and returned to Los Angeles to survey the damage. He called the fire "a real tragedy. This magnificent building is something we have tried to save and bring up to new standards.

Flames started in the sixth tier of the building's eight-tier central book stacks, long a concern of fire-prevention officers, and pushed their way into the attic. Tier six corresponds with the second floor.

The fire began before 11 a.m. and part of the third floor collapsed about two hours later.

Library spokesman Bob Reagan said a full evaluation would have to wait, "but the potential is that one of the great libraries of the free world has been seriously damaged."

The fire snarled traffic in the busy downtown area, and construction work on surrounding sites came to a halt. Onlookers gathered to snap pictures.

The library, designed by architect Bertram Grosvenor Goodhue and dedicated July 15, 1926, was declared a historic cultural monument by the Los Angeles Cultural Heritage Board in 1967.

School rejects 'boring' books: Twain, Dickens

KINGSTON, Mass. (AP) — A school board has thrown out a summer reading program including the work of Mark Twain, John Steinbeck and Charles Dickens because of fears their books would bore students.

The Silver Lake School Committee voted Monday night to drop the program, which included Dickens' "A Tale of Two Cities."

© 1986, Los Angeles Times Syndicate

Thursday, May 1, 1986

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Forget someone who has a negative attitude and get on with your life. You need to avoid people who go around with chips on their shoulders. You are better at managing money than you think. Stick to what has worked for you in the past. As privacy becomes more important to you, you may think about changing residences. Do nothing in haste. An older person may be less difficult to approach than anticipated.

CELEBRITY BIRTHDATES: WW II General Mark Clark, TV host Jack Paar, actor Glenn Ford, singer Kate Smith, San Diego pitcher Roy Lee Jackson, Rita Coolidge, Judy Collins, author Joseph Heller.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Job hunters improve their chances for finding work. Your concern for a family member is justified. Follow your intuition. Others expect you to have the right answers.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Some who are afraid of you also have great respect for your knowledge. An overheard remark could lead to a rewarding, new relationship. A sports activity gives you a second chance.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Don't make concessions. You can be in the driver's seat if you stick to your guns. A business decision will eventually work to your advantage. Invest time and money in a child's education.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Those who are nearing graduation should not worry too much about the future. Do your best and you will find the opportunities you seek. A financial situation improves and so does romance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A good time to remodel or decorate your surroundings. Teachers, artists and writers receive welcome news. An emotional upset will be short-lived. An exciting romance lies just around the corner.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Refuse to let someone be cruel to you for one moment longer. Move in a new direction. Financial pressures subside. Travel for business, not pleasure. Postpone a vacation trip.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Protect your valuables while traveling. Let people know about your special skills. You cannot land the job you want by hiding your light under a bushel. Open new lines of communication at work.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Travel plans can be reactivated now. Take loved ones to visit places you remember fondly. Heartening new developments at work lift your spirits. Plan a special celebration.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Stop trying to appease your relatives or in-laws and they will eventually come around. You are lucky in love! Be a little daring where your work is concerned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Watch out for work associates who try to take advantage of you. Some unfair criticism could come your way. Those who really know you recognize how very special you are.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Entertaining at home can be especially fun now. Work habits change as new technology is adopted. Those who are flexible will come out on top. Be open to suggestions.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Devote your attention to the practical side of things today. Success may come through another person's efforts. Happy romance is within your grasp. Travel enjoys highly favorable influences.

Counting the tricks that are available to one side or the other is not as difficult a task as you might think. And it is of prime importance in deciding how to play the hand, or how to conduct the defense.

With his best values outside his long suit, we are not sure we would recommend a preemptive opening bid with the South hand—it contains too much in the way of defense. To open with a preempt, you should have almost all your values in the suit itself and, vulnerable, the suit quality should be good. We can't fault East for electing to make a balancing double, or West's decision to convert to penalties; switch the ace of spades and king of hearts, and the defense would have been simple.

From West's lead of the six of hearts, it was obvious declarer held the king. The ace of spades in dummy was a blow to the defense, since it seemed likely that declarer could get six tricks in that suit. Give declarer one of the minor-suit aces and his trick total would be up to eight. Therefore, it was essential to prevent declarer from scoring a club trick. That would be accomplished only if declarer held a singleton club.

Having arrived at that conclusion, East's line of defense was easy to determine. He rose with the ace of hearts at trick one and shifted to a trump. No matter how declarer elected to play the hand, he was doomed. The table's ace of spades, the only entry to the clubs, was removed before the suit could be established. Left to play from his own hand, declarer could not avoid losing one spade, two hearts, a diamond and a club for down one.

Stamp honors Duke Ellington

NEW YORK (AP) — Musicians Buck Clayton, Sy Oliver and Morton Gould were among the 500 people attending a ceremony unveiling a 22-cent postage stamp honoring Duke Ellington on what would have been his 87th birthday.

Those at Tuesday's ceremony heard the Ellington Bank, conducted by Ellington's son Mercer, play "The 22 Cent Stomp."

Duke Ellington, who died in 1974, composed "The 3 Cent Stomp" in 1943. Mercer Ellington introduced his father's retitled tune by saying, "Of course the rates have gone up. And so did the tempo."

Among Ellington's more than 900 compositions are such standards as "Satin Doll," "It Don't Mean a Thing if it Ain't Got That Swing" and "Mood Indigo."

Taylor

NEW YORK (AP) — Fashion designer Calvin Klein and actress Elizabeth Taylor were the hosts at a star-studded cocktail party to raise money for AIDS research.

"AIDS knows no prejudice. It strikes men, women and children. But with your help, we will win," said Miss Taylor.

Klein

Ryan White, the 14-year-old Kokomo, Ind., hemophiliac who is afflicted with the deadly acquired immune deficiency syndrome, was among those at Tuesday night's party, which was expected to raise at least $500,000.

Also attending were comedian David Brenner, Yoko Ono and her son Sean Lennon, actresses Brooke Shields and Dina Merrill, singers Peter Allen and Grace Jones, and fashion designers Mary McFadden, Donna Karan, Jackie Rogers, Willi Smith and Jeffrey Banks.

"It makes me feel pretty good that everybody would turn out tonight to help AIDS research," said Ryan, who recently won a court order allowing him to return to school after being barred because of his disease.

NEW YORK (AP) — Soprano Montserrat Caballe, violinists Isaac Stern and Itzhak Perlman and the New York Philharmonic helped its conductor, Zubin Mehta, celebrate his 50th birthday.

The concert Tuesday night at Avery Fisher Hall included works by Vivaldi, Dvorak, Donizetti, Richard Strauss and, of course, a round of "Happy Birthday."

After the concert, televised by PBS, Nancy Mehta gave a birthday party for a smaller group of her husband's friends.

O'Toole

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Several hundred actors, including Peter O'Toole, are prepared to defy a ban by their union, Equity, on performing in South Africa, the union's former president said today.

Derek Bond, who resigned as Equity president because of the April 11 ban, said a protest letter signed by hundreds of leading performers was delivered to the union's London headquarters.

The letter said that although those who signed it abhorred apartheid and pledged never to perform before racially segregated audiences they "reject utterly the right of Equity to issue an instruction to its members not to perform in South Africa."

"We give due notice that, in the right professional circumstances, we would disregard such an instruction," the letter continued.

WASHINGTON (LAT) — There may have been a coolness when she was alive, but the British royal family turned out Tuesday for the proper, brief funeral service for the Duchess of Windsor. The twice-divorced Baltimore socialite had been an embarrassment to the royal family ever since her romance with King Edward VIII shocked the nation 50 years ago and she was not welcome in the royal presence.

But it was all proper Tuesday. Her 30-minute funeral with no eulogies and no direct references to the 89-year-old former Wallis Warfield Spencer Simpson was attended by Queen Elizabeth, Prince Philip, Prince Charles and Princess Diana, Princess Anne and the Queen Mother as well as Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, opposition leader Neil Kinnock, U.S. Ambassador Charles Price and the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough.

WASHINGTON (LAT) — Comedian Bob Newhart was in town Monday to speak at the U.S. Chamber of Commerce's annual national meeting in the Washington Hilton. Doing one of his phone call skits, this one between President Reagan and deposed President Ferdinand Marcos, he said, "Ferdinand, can you turn down the music? Do you have to play 'Brother Can You Spare a Dime?' " Then he added, "No, Nancy never told the press about the 3,000 shoes."

Volunteer spirit

The Bright Side

Christmas in April, Midland's noted volunteer housing repair project for the elderly or handicapped, is over for another year. In a manner of speaking, only.

That's because the work of the Christmas in April organization and many of the volunteers didn't end Saturday evening when many of those involved in the big one-day fixup project hung up their hammers and put away their gloves for another year. For people like Bobby Trimble, the motivator behind the program who in 1982 received a Presidential citation for his volunteer efforts; Vic Rogers, who has served on the Christmas in April board for years and who was named recently as the April recipient of the Trimble Service Award; and countless others who do not receive as much public recognition for their efforts, the drive to help others does not end after one day of service. It is a part of their very lives.

Those Midlanders who have been active in the Christmas in April program for a few years come to the realization that a one-time fixup for a person's home really is just the beginning. The work continues over a period of years. Without adequate maintenance, which many of the elderly or handicapped residents are unable to give, the home soon deteriorates to its previous condition or worse.

In many instances, of course, all the needed repairs cannot be made to a home in one day or even a period of weekends. So in a very real sense, Christmas in April is a year-round project.

It is that way officially, too, because while the one major workday is held on the last Saturday in April each year, the work actually continues throughout the year.

That means contributions are needed to keep the flow of supplies going for the volunteers who continue to work as repairs are needed. The contributions are just as vital to the Christmas in April program as are the volunteers who donate their time and talents.

It's a great program of which Midland can be proud. It's a great program because of the people — the Bobby Trimbles and Vic Rogerses and the thousands of others who make Christian charity meaningful in Midland.

Thanks to all who helped this year! Without you, it wouldn't have been possible.

CIA okayed Israeli arms sales to Iran

WASHINGTON — Israel has denied any involvement with the illicit arms ring arrested last week in the attempted sale of $2 billion worth of arms to Iran, though a retired Israeli general was among those indicted.

Jack Anderson

But suspicion of Israel comes easily. For years the Israelis have been selling arms secretly to Iran, generally with the tacit approval of the CIA.

The timing of the indictments was significant, coming just as the Reagan administration has begun a secret "tilt" toward Iran after six years of mutual hostility. Proponents of a U.S.-Iranian detente wanted the United States to supply arms to Iran directly, if covertly, and take credit for the friendly overture. The main arguments for a rapprochement, as we reported earlier, were to assure a U.S. presence in post-Khomeini Iran and to save the billions of dollars now being spent to protect against Iranian-inspired terrorism against Americans.

Last year, according to high-level sources, the National Security Council asked the Israeli Defense Ministry and Mossad, the secret service, to cut off the flow of U.S. weapons to Iran. Israel reluctantly slowed down its lucrative arms trade with Iran.

When the United States and Iran broke off relations following the seizure of American hostages at the Tehran embassy in 1979, the Iranian military was faced with the serious problem of finding replacement parts for U.S. weapons supplied to the shah. The Iranians began shopping elsewhere — and Israel soon became their most reliable supplier.

Politically, Israel knew it had nothing to lose by helping Iran in the war against Iraq. That Arab country would never be a friend of Israel. Other reasons for dealing with the Ayatollah Khomeini were to make money, to get Iranian oil, to protect the 50,000 Jews living in Iran and to establish some links with Iranian military officers that might be useful in a post-Khomeini situation.

Through it all, the Israeli government has denied arms deals with Khomeini — and has kept the CIA informed of the deals. For example, the Mossad told the CIA that Israel's first sale to Iran at the inception of the Khomeini regime was for $300,000 worth of spare tires for American-made F-4 fighters.

Israel kept the transactions modest during the nearly 15 months the American hostages were being held. Then it went big time. In 1981, the sales amounted to $50 million at least, and our intelligence sources estimate that Israel has provided more than $250 million worth of arms and ammunition to Iran in the last five years.

Now the Reagan administration is considering restoring the old arms pipeline to Iran. As one White House official delicately put it, the administration's mood is to "regularize" the arms flow, instead of going through Israel.

For their part, the Iranians are likely to welcome a covert arms program from the United States directly, to avoid paying markups of as much as 2,000 percent for U.S.-made spare parts.

One reason for the U.S. shift away from support of Iraq in the Persian Gulf war is that, like Israel, the United States hopes to solidify relations with "reasonable" military leaders in Tehran. Khomeini has tried his best to decrease the influence of the military, many of whom worked for the shah. The administration figures if it can shore up the Iranian military in its internal rivalry with the Revolutionary Guards, it will put the United States in a better position after Khomeini dies.

A BRIDGE TOO MUCH: Travelers on interstate highways in Kansas and Missouri can stop wondering about the huge concrete-and-steel bridges that lead nowhere or span non-existent roads. Government auditors have concluded that the bridges are the result of simple, old-fashioned bad planning. Five useless or overbuilt bridge projects in the two states cost the taxpayers $21.4 million, according to the Transportation Department's inspector general. The $1.01 million bridge over Interstate 435 in Clay County, Mo., for example, was finished two years ago, but still has no road connected to either end. The inspector general recommended more vigilance by highway planners.

UNDER THE DOME: The budget pinch is beginning to hurt on Capitol Hill. Members of Congress have been told to stop handing out free documents to constituents when they can be purchased in government bookstores. The Congressional Record will no longer be sent to members' homes (forcing them to buy charcoal starter and mulch like everyone else). And probably worst of all is the suggestion that members save money by turning off the hot air. "Withholding extraneous, non-legislative matter from the (Congressional) Record could save a great deal of money," a recent memo noted.

MINI-EDITORIAL: With a guile not seen since the planning of the Pearl Harbor attack, the United States is plotting to reduce the U.S.-Japanese trade deficit — by exporting American lawyers to Japan. Incredibly, the Japanese government seems to have been taken in by the scheme; a bill was introduced in the Diet to allow U.S. law firms to practice in Japan. We're not sure exactly how it's supposed to work but apparently the idea is to keep the Japanese so busy with suits, countersuits, motions, depositions and writs that they won't have time to make so many cars and TV sets. Is this any way to treat an ally?

Comment disappointing

With reference to the recent Midland College Board of Trustees' race in which Steve Kiser defeated Dr. Al G. Langford, I was extremely disappointed in Dr. Langford's comments concerning the election.

According to your April 6, 1986, report on the election, Dr. Langford made the following comments concerning his defeat:

"The minds of the people of Midland are very short in terms of the contributions I made to Midland College. However, I do read their mandate. I no longer will be fooling with Midland College."

I had thought that Dr. Langford would be above what appears to be "sour grapes". Steve Kiser will be an excellent trustee for the college.

I have lived in Midland since 1959 and am having some difficulty in recalling any "great contributions" that Dr. Langford made to Midland College. Since he is no longer willing to "be fooling with Midland College" it reassures me that I cast my vote for the proper trustee. In fact, in view of his attitude to not "fool around" with Midland College anymore perhaps the Langford Center should be renamed. I would suggest "Reagan Legg" Center since Mr. Legg has in fact made many contributions to Midland College.

Qualifications lacking

Matt Blair claims that he is qualified to be Midland County Judge. Even after a visit from one of his campaigners this week, I fail to see that he has any pertinent qualifications or experience.

It is my understanding that Matt Blair was an employee of the F.D.I.C. I would prefer qualifications other than Mr. Blair's experience as a lawyer working for the F.D.I.C. Hasn't the F.D.I.C. had enough impact on many Midlanders' lives already?

Support for Craig

I have been a supporter of Commissioner C. Wallace "Wally" Craig for the past three years and will continue to support him in the coming election on May 3.

There will be unresolved issues carried over into most elections. It does not necessarily necessitate a change in officials to get a new perspective on an issue.

Mr. Craig has shown concern and dedication to his duties as a commissioner. I believe Mr. Craig is capable of making mature and experienced decisions based on his knowledge of the issues.

I wholeheartedly support Commissioner Craig.

Experience preferred

Reference is made to the Reporter-Telegram's recommendation to Midland County voters.

I will vote for Judge Bill Ahders and Commissioner C. Wallace "Wally" Craig. Both men are mature, experienced and dedicated. Being in office they know all the facts and are more capable of making better decisions based on facts and experience.

Cuomo not offering voters 'tranquilizers'

WASHINGTON — When the governor of New York criticizes the president of the United States and his policies as sharply as Mario Cuomo did before the American Newspaper Publishers Association in San Francisco the other day, you have to think he's in a great hurry to leave Albany and replace Ronald Reagan in the White House.

James Reston

That's only half right, he told me in his Manhattan office. He's going to seek another term as governor, he said, and see what happens later when other candidates run through the state presidential primary elections.

Wrong decision, says Robert Strauss, the former Democratic national chairman, who knows a thing or two about the mysteries of politics. It's a long weary journey from now to the nominating conventions of 1988, he adds, but you have to run for it and not merely speak for it, no matter how well you speak.

Maybe so, says the governor. It's a gamble, but he'll take his chances. For he has a different view about the mood of the voters, or at least what their mood is likely to be two years from now when Reagan is no longer on the ticket and the people begin to think about policy instead of personality.

He concedes that the president is now "the most powerful political force in the country," but he does not believe in "a conservative Reagan Revolution."

"Everybody wants to feel good," Cuomo said, "but after a while, if the kids can't afford to go to college or buy a house, or keep the farm, or get a job, they won't feel so good." He rejects the notion, popular with some Democratic leaders, that his party should abandon its liberal philosophy and move to the right. If the people are really in a conservative mood, in favor of more billions for defense at the expense of the poor and the middle class, then, he says, they'll vote for Republican conservatism and not some bogus Democratic substitute. Corrections, yes, but capitulation to Reaganomics, No!

He made this point clear in his speech to the publishers in San Francisco, as he did at the last Democratic presidential nominating convention in that city. There's something about that beautiful city on the hill that seems to send him off.

He talked about the "despair" of the poor that is threatening the tranquility of the whole nation, and he kept insisting that this was not a question of "moral responsibility" but of the self-interest of all our people.

He accused the Reagan administration of "squandering" billions of dollars on defense while lacking a sense of "compassion" for the people who were left behind.

"We cannot," he insisted, "watch the numbers of our poor grow, our middle class shrink, their dreams wither, and think that the loss in productivity, the burden on our resources, the increased violence and disorientation will not threaten us all."

No governor of New York has talked in such terms about an administration in Washington since Franklin Roosevelt condemned Herbert Hoover during the economic depression and presidential election of 1932.

Did Cuomo go too far too soon in the campaign? Was he right to decide on another four-year term as governor, which he could not complete if he really got into the presidential race in 1988?

His party is divided on these points. New York's Sen. Pat Moynihan, unlike Strauss, believes that Cuomo is right to try for another term as governor.

Others think he is wrong to attack the president at the height of Reagan's popularity, and to believe that the conservative cycle in our politics has run its course.

But Cuomo does not agree. At the least, he says, the conservative era is waning, as it did in the 20s and again in the 60s, just as the New Deal and the Fair Deal faded as the people tired of the status quo.

By 1988, he believes, when the Democratic opposition is not Ronald Reagan but George Bush or Bob Dole or Jack Kemp, the people will wonder why the budget deficits are at a record high and how it can be that after spending a trillion dollars on defense, the Reagan administration still argues that we're in many ways behind the Russians.

Cuomo was well aware that he was making a tough anti-Republican speech in San Francisco to an audience of newspaper publishers who are not famous for supporting the Democratic Party. But he is not likely to change his theme, or weep on his pillow if after the primaries his party does not summon him to the rescue. Too many people are hurting, he thinks. They are crying for food, and jobs and houses, and President Reagan has given them tranquilizers.

ART BUCHWALD

When oil price falls again, think of bankers!

When the price of oil was $33 a barrel, a tribunal of energy experts told me it was my fault.

They called me on the carpet and said, "Shame on you. You are consuming too much gasoline and making us hostage to the OPEC nations. If you continue down this slothful path you will dry up the world oil reserves by the year 2000."

Art Buchwald

"What do you want me to do?" I asked them.

The members of the tribunal looked down sternly and said, "Buy a smaller car. Use it only for essential trips. Stop joy riding. Keep the heat in the house at 60 degrees. Replace oil heaters with coal. Cut out air conditioning. Use mass transportation as often as you can. Drive 55 miles per hour, and have your engine cleaned by Mr. Goodwrench."

"If I do all that will the price of oil go down?"

"No. The price of oil will never go down in your lifetime or ours. All we want you to do is keep it from rising any higher."

"Why will it continue to soar?" I asked one of the wise men.

"Because the OPEC nations will make sure petroleum is always in short supply so they can drive up the price."

"Can anyone break this stranglehold?"

"Not in your time, boychick," he said. "Expect to pay $50 a barrel and be grateful they will sell it to you. Now get out of here and conserve every cup of oil you can."

I did as I was instructed. I sold the big car and bought a foreign midget. I insulated the house. Instead of gas or oil I burned wood in my stoves. The kids, without any prodding from me, sold their snowmobiles and began riding the bus.

Then for no reason the price of oil dropped — first by a few pennies, then by nickels and dimes, and finally by big petro-bucks.

The tribunal of oil wise men called me in. I thought they were going to congratulate me for my conservation. But they were angry.

"You've made fools of us. We predicted the price of oil would go up, but it has gone down."

"I had nothing to do with it."

"Hah! Your conservation methods have caused an oil glut. More oil is being produced than is being sold, and there is anarchy in the marketplace."

"One person can't cause an oil glut."

"Not you alone, but everyone like you who cut back on consumption. Because of a lot of cheap people, oil may hit $5 a barrel."

"You told me OPEC would never let that happen."

"They double-crossed each other by drilling more oil than they had agreed to. This forced everyone to open up their spigots and start a price war. The consumer is now in charge."

"Anything wrong with that?"

"The first rule of any business is to never let the consumer be in charge."

"So tell me, wise ones, how do I make the oil nations well?"

"Double your consumption of lighter fluid. Buy a diesel motorboat. Give each one of your kids a Porsche. Use heating oil to barbecue your steaks. Replace your electric lights with gas ones. Take an Exxon executive to lunch. Can you do it?"

"I guess so. But I sort of enjoy paying 70 cents for gasoline. It hasn't shaken me up as much as I thought it would."

"Don't think of yourself. Think of all the banks that have made loans to the petroleum industry. Remember, every time the price of oil drops 50 cents a barrel, a bank executive gets sick to his stomach."

NATION in brief

NASA readies remains

DOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Del. (AP) — The remains of the seven astronauts killed in the Challenger explosion have been brought to the mortuary here to be readied for their final resting places.

Nearly 150 civilian and military personnel, including a six-man color guard, watched silently Tuesday as the seven coffins were placed in silver hearses and taken to the mortuary.

Seven astronauts served as escorts for their fallen comrades.

Bishops reject deterrence

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP) — United Methodist bishops, leaders of the nation's third-largest denomination, condemned nuclear arms in the strongest stand yet taken on the issue by a major religious body.

About 100 bishops from across the country on Tuesday unanimously rejected the U.S. policy of deterrence and called for a verifiable nuclear freeze and the ultimate dismantling of atomic weapons.

After two hours of discussion during their semi-annual meeting, the bishops adopted a 31,500-word teaching document that took two years to prepare. They then stood and applauded for two minutes.

Aeroflot resumes flights

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. and Soviet officials hailed the resumption of direct commercial air service between the United States and Soviet Union as a major step in thawing relations between the two countries.

Aeroflot Flight 317 from Moscow arrived Tuesday at Washington Dulles International Airport with 71 passengers, including Michail Timofeev, Soviet deputy minister for civil aviation, who said the flights were "an important step for Soviet-American relations as a whole."

The Aeroflot jet left Dulles for the return to Moscow about two hours after arriving. Pan American World Airways, meanwhile, inaugurated its service with a New York-to-Moscow flight which left Monday night and arrived Tuesday. Aeroflot will begin serving New York on Sunday.

Fire kills 92,000 chickens

CHESTNUT MOUNTAIN, Ga. (AP) — Ninety-two thousand chickens were killed in a fire that caused $600,000 damage at a commercial chicken house in north Georgia, officials said.

Crystal Farms Inc. President Russ Lind said the blaze began about 10:30 a.m. and destroyed one of eight chicken houses in the egg production area of the farm near Chestnut Mountain.

Winds fed the blaze which destroyed the 50-by-650-foot structure, firemen said, but the gusts also blew the fire away from the seven other buildings, which were not damaged.

County forecasts

Midland, Ector, Glasscock, Upton, Reagan, Crane, Gaines, Andrews, Dawson, Borden, Martin and Howard counties: Tonight partly cloudy. Low in the upper 50s. Northeast winds 10 to 15 mph. Thursday sunny and cooler. High near 80. East wind 10 to 20 mph.

Sterling, Coke, Irion and Tom Green counties: Tonight mostly cloudy with a slight chance of thunderstorms. Low in lower 60s. Chance of rain 20 percent. South wind 10 to 20 mph. Thursday clearing. High in the upper 70s. Northeast winds 10 to 20 mph.

Slight cooling trend expected

From Staff and Wire Reports

On Thursday, area residents can expect sunny skies and slightly cooler temperatures, according to the forecasters at the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport. The high is predicted to be near 80.

Tonight, the Midland-Odessa area will be under partly cloudy skies with a low in the upper 50s and winds out of the northeast at 10-15 mph. Thursday winds will shift to the east increasing to 10-20 mph.

Tuesday's high of 91 was four degrees below the record high set in 1947. This morning's low was 23 degrees above the record low of 41 set in 1960.

STATE

Warm, moist tropical air spread northward across Texas from the Gulf of Mexico, triggering showers and thunderstorms across a vast area of the state.

And forecasts called for more of the same tonight, with the showers and thunderstorms to end from the west slowly tonight and Thursday.

Showers and patches of light rain stretched at dawn from near College Station southward to Palacios along the Texas coast. Other showers were reported over the coastal bend southward to the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Some thunderstorms were reported early today over the Trans Pecos, the Edwards Plateau and western sections of North Texas.

Skies were partly cloudy to cloudy over the entire state.

Forecasts called for partly cloudy to cloudy skies tonight and Thursday with a chance of scattered showers and thunderstorms over the entire state. Some locally heavy rains were possible over central and east portions of the state through tonight.

Forecasts called for decreasing cloudiness from the west tonight and Thursday. Lows tonight will again be mostly in the 60s and 70s except in the mountains of Southwest Texas where readings will be in the 50s. Highs Thursday will again be in the 80s and 90s.

NATION

A warm front stretching from Illinois to South Dakota triggered showers and thunderstorms today from the western Great Lakes and upper Mississippi Valley to the northern Plains.

Showers and thunderstorms also were scattered across Texas, while rain was scattered across New York and New England, and rain and snow showers fell over the northern Rockies.

Fair skies prevailed from the Ohio Valley across the central Appalachians to the southern Atlantic Coast and from Arizona and much of New Mexico across California and the Pacific Northwest.

THE JAIL ISSUE

WHEN A NEW JAIL IS BUILT

WALLY CRAIG'S SOLUTION IS....

ONE JAIL that meets the "Texas Commission on Jail Standards" requirements----NO COUNTRY CLUB----NO FRILLS----just ONE SECURE JAIL.

ONE jail built on the large, inexpensive County owned site at the least possible cost to the taxpayer.

ONE jail means ONE SET OF JAILERS....MORE SAVINGS

ONE jail that can be expanded (if ever needed) at the least cost to the taxpayers....additional SAVINGS.

Atlanta's furious rally comes up short

Associated Press

Atlanta's furious second-half rally from an 18-point deficit fell short against the Boston Celtics, while Philadelphia successfully came back from 16 points behind to defeat Milwaukee Tuesday night as the NBA playoffs continued.

Larry Bird scored 36 points, including eight as Boston scored the last 10 points of the game, as the Celtics checked the Atlanta comeback enroute to a 119-108 victory and a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven series.

Charles Barkley scored 31 points and Maurice Cheeks added 27 as the 76ers rallied to beat the Bucks 118-112 in the opener of the other Eastern Conference semifinal.

RALPH SAMPSON scored 27 points and Lewis Lloyd 13 of his 23 points in the pivotal third quarter, and Houston went on to beat Denver 119-101 for a 2-0 lead in the Western Conference playoffs.

The Los Angeles Lakers, leading 1-0, play host to Dallas in the second game of that series Wednesday night.

Boston, which now has won 35 straight home games, appeared to be on the way to an easy victory as it built an 87-69 lead in the third period. However, Atlanta started rallying when a basket by Dennis Johnson was nullified and Celtics guard Danny Ainge was ejected with 3:54 remaining in the quarter.

The Hawks then came close to a startling upset as they roared back to a 109-108 deficit with four minutes left.

However, Bird, who scored 22 points in the first half, took charge as the Celtics hit 10 consecutive points the rest of the way.

Kevin McHale had 22 points for Boston, while Kevin Willis led the Hawks with 23 points, Randy Wittman had 21 and NBA scoring champion Dominique Wilkins 19.

IN MILWAUKEE, the Bucks played without injured all-star guard Sidney Moncrief, while the 76ers had centers Moses Malone and Bob McAdoo on the sideline with injuries.

The 76ers, who trailed 60-44 in the second quarter, grabbed a 97-96 lead with nine minutes left in the game when Barkley put in a rebound. The Bucks rallied to lead 101-97, but Philadelphia outscored Milwaukee 16-7 for a 113-108 margin with 51 seconds left.

Two free throws each by Barkley and Clemon Johnson clinched the outcome.

Terry Cummings led the Bucks with 23 points and Paul Pressey added 20. Sedale Threatt added 22 for the 76ers.

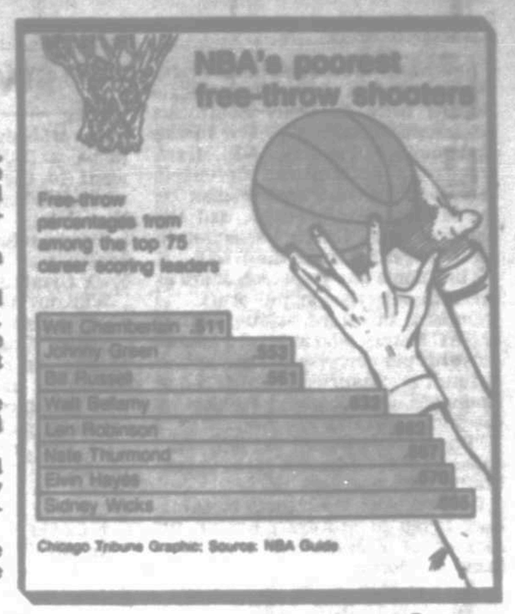

At Houston, the Rockets used the third quarter as the turning point of the game, just as they did in the first contest when they rallied for a 126-119 victory.

Houston took a 53-43 lead at halftime, then outscored the Nuggets 8-0 to start the third quarter. Calvin Natt scored Denver's first points 2:35 into the period.

By the end of the third period, the Rockets were in solid control. They held off a late long-distance shooting show by the Nuggets, who hit three three-pointers over the closing minutes.

Rookie Blair Rasmussen scored 14 of his 18 points in the second half to lead the Nuggets scoring, while Lafayette Lever added 16.

TENNIS

INDIANAPOLIS — Top-seeded Steffi Graf ran her winning streak to 11 consecutive matches, defeating Mary Joe Fernandez 6-3, 6-1 in second-round women's singles play in the U.S. Open Clay Courts. No.2 seed Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria swept past Adriana Villagran of Argentina 6-1, 6-1, and No.5 Terry Phelps of Larchmont, N.Y., beat Tine Scheuer-Larsen of Denmark 6-2, 6-2 in second-round play.

GOLF

OXNARD, Calif. — Kelley Markette of Victoria, Tex., birdied the last two holes to cap a round of 1-under-par 71 and take the first-round lead in the Futures Golf Tour's $14,000 River Ridge Classic. Kerri Clark of Las Vegas, Nev., was alone in second place with an even-par 72 at the 6,100-yard River Ridge Golf Club. Five players were tied for third at 73.

SOCCER

LUTON, England — Luton Town of the First Division of the English League unveiled its plans to prevent fan hooliganism by banning fans of visiting soccer teams to its home ground next season. All fans who want to watch Luton's games will first have to buy a club membership card costing one pound ($1.54). The cards, incorporating a magnetic code, will have to be passed through a security scanner in a computer-controlled system at each entrance turnstile.

CYCLING

OVIEDO, Spain — Eddy Planckaert of Belgium won the seventh stage of the Tour of Spain cycling race, while Robert Millar of Scotland kept the yellow jersey as overall leader.

Even fans attack Angels in El Paso

From Staff Reports

EL PASO— El Paso's Diablos made it two in a row over the Midland Angels, coming up with two runs in the ninth inning for a 7-6 Texas League win at Dudley Field Tuesday night.

Not all the action was on the field as the El Paso Diablos took a 7-6 Texas League baseball victory over the Midland Angels.

Some of the Angels had some action after the game was over as they went into the box seats behind their dugout to settle a score with some hecklers who had been giving them a rough time.

Although no punches were thrown, several folding chairs were turned over as security officials rushed to the scene. One little girl in the second row, obviously frightened by the incident, left several minutes later in tears.

Midland manager Joe Maddon said a few of the fans behind the Angel dugout directed "vile language" toward his players throughout the game. He said Midland always receives verbal abuse from El Paso fans, but Tuesday's crowd was a bit more unruly.

Maddon said the hecklers may have had "a few too many beers."

El Paso Diablo general manager Rick Parr said he saw "animosity" brewing between Midland players and Diablo fans during the game. Although he did not excuse the fans' behavior, he said "players are going to get some abuse, and they must learn to control their temper."

DWAYNE Buice, who got the final out of the eighth inning, was the victim as Joe Gibbons opened the ninth with a double, followed quickly by Bill Bates' run-scoring double and Bob Nandin's single to win it.

Midland had taken a 6-4 lead in the seventh when Mike Madrii reached first on an error, Raul Tovar walked and Billie Merrifield belted his third home run of the season over the left field fence.

Midland scored two in the first when Mark McLemore singled, Tovar doubled and Merrifield's infield grounder plated the run.

In the sixth, Merrifield walked, Glenn Walker singled, King walked and Merrifield scored on a double play grounder.

In tonight's third game of the five-game series, Phil Venturino, 2-1, will start for Midland while Don Murphy, 1-0, goes for the Diablos.

Catcher David Heath, who reinjured the thigh hurt in the Beaumont brawl last week, was forced to retire from the game after reinjuring himself.

IN OTHER Texas League games Tuesday night, Beaumont defeated San Antonio, 1-0, Jackson edged Shreveport, 4-2, and Arkansas defeated Tulsa, 7-3.

Jason Felice drove in three runs for the Jackson Mets in their 4-2 victory over the Shreveport Captains.

Mavericks just whet hungry Laker appetite

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Magic Johnson says the Los Angeles Lakers are hungry, and they have to stay hungry.

"We know what we've got to go through," the Lakers' guard said as Los Angeles prepared for tonight's second meeting with Dallas in the NBA playoffs.

"You can't relax, you need the attitude, 'Hey, this team can beat us,' and you go out and do the job."

Thus far in the playoffs, the defending NBA champions have done the job. After sweeping their opening-round series with three lopsided wins over San Antonio, they began the second round with a 130-116 victory over Dallas last Sunday.

After tonight's contest, the Western Conference semifinal series shifts to Texas for games Friday night and Sunday afternoon.

"Going into (the Mavericks') Reunion Arena up 2-0 is what we want," said Lakers Coach Pat Riley. "Game 2 is very important, a must win for us."

Riley cautioned, however, "I'm sure Dallas is going to be highly efficient and much more prepared for the second game."

Mavericks

The Mavericks apparently checked their "guns" at the door of the Forum on Sunday. They shot just 44.3 percent from the field and their top three scorers — Mark Aguirre, Rolando Blackman and Sam Perkins — were a combined 13 of 44 from the floor and had a total of just 33 points.

"We're going to have to shoot better; heck, I took 17 shots and only made a couple of them." said Perkins, who actually made four of his field goal attempts and had eight points.

Aguirre, who missed nine of 13 field goal attempts and had 14 points, said: "I feel that I have to do a lot more damage than in Game 1. But it really depends on how the Lakers play me. If they play me one-on-one, I'll be happy. If they don't, then I'll have to come up with some assists."

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar led the Lakers with 28 points in the opener. Byron Scott had 24 points and James Worthy 23 for Los Angeles.

Lions' Sims may retire

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Detroit Lions running back Billy Sims says it would take a miracle for him to return to the National Football League playing field, and that he probably will retire.

"You've got to go home sometime. Even my boys are tackling me now. It's time to hang it up," Sims said Tuesday at the Silverdome on a visit from his Texas home.

Sims, 30, severely injured his right knee in the eighth game of the 1984 season and despite strenuous rehabilitation, said his knee still hurts when he runs and that he cannot cut and run at full speed.

"It really hasn't gotten any better, and it hasn't gotten any worse. If it's like it is now in July ... I'll know what my decision will be," he said.

"It's slim and none that I'll ever play again. A miracle would have to happen by July," said Sims.

MC teams enjoy another banner sports year

By TED BATTLES

It was the eleventh annual Midland College All-Sports banquet and set a record for brevity, largely because someone mentioned that former MC star Spud Webb was taking on the Boston Celtics on TV.

As it turned out, that's what it amounted to.

Still, there was time to recognize the exploits of Chaparral teams in what was one of the most successful years in MC annals.

The men's basketball team reeled off 33 straight wins, "Something no other MC team has done," marveled Coach Jerry Stone. The men's and women's tennis teams, with the nationals still ahead, won the Region V tournament, the men beating No. 1 ranked McLennan College in the process. And Coach Delnor Poss' golfers won the Fall Western Junior College Conference title, but, with the loss of team's two leading golfers, couldn't make it a spring sweep.

MC finished 33-1, its lone loss to eventual National champion San Jacinto.

Ricky Grace walked off with Most Valuable Player honors, which has become a habit of late. He also was the MVP at the NJCC All-Star game in Midland a few weeks ago and followed that up by winning the MVP at the Hall of Fame game in Waco. In that one Grace sank the basket that sent the game into overtime and then dropped in the game-winner.

The University of Oklahoma-bound sophomore, Midland College's fifth NJCAA All-America in the last six years, wasn't around to hear the applause. He was back in the dorm recovering from a nose broken in the game at Waco.

Other individual awards went to 6-6 Eddie Frazier, the Fighting Chaparal, Mookie Blaylock, Best Defensive Player; Lincoln Minor and Bruce Nix, the Most Improve Player co-award.

Coach Joe Williams' men, 18-3 for the season, were led by Eric Ling, Fighting Chaparral; Herve Rousseau, Most Improved, and Jean Remy Roussel, the Outstanding Player award.

The No. 1 ranked women, also had a remarkable winning streak, 22 in a row before a final match loss. They were led by Helene LeBeller and Sarah Swan, the MVP winners; Natahsa Koprivica, Most Improved. Swan also was winner of the Fighting Chaparral award.

Glenn Collins was the Fighting Chaparral award winner for the golf team while Raymond Cole was named all conference and Leon van Rensburg made all-region.

Also honored were Tony and Tommy Ramos, honored with Associate Coaches plaques in recognition for contributions above and beyond, and student manager Chris Pepper.

Basketball— Daron Blaylock, Craig Curry, Todd Duncan, Eddie Frazier, Ricky Grace, Derrick Lewis, Lincoln Minor, Bruce Nix, Mike Smith, Tony Wright.

Golf— Raymond Cole, Glenn Collins, Tracy Hayden, Leon Van Rensburg, Gordon Wessels.

Tennis— Emil Bijkveld, Eric Lings, Herve Rousseau, Jean Remy Roussel, Richard Turner, Joe Wannow, Paige Carpenter, Natasha Koprivica, Helen LeBeller, Monika Margorek, Charlsen Prahn, Helen Schildknecht, Sara Swan.

Cheerleaders— Michael Beene, Jane Bolteridge, Jeanette Bolteridge, Dennis Cass, Manuel Heredia, Pam Johns, Mary Alice Ochotorena, Chas Price, Donna Schaefer.

Draft promises much, delivers little

The National Football League draft. It promises so much and delivers so little.

Consider the number of players pulled out of the college talent barrel and the excitement and anticipation of being one of the chosen. To be picked is to become an instant BMC.

The anticipation of yesterday or today's draft will not wane until the draftee comes face-to-face with the grim reality of a Dan Hampton or Otis Wilson late this summer on some virtually deserted small college campus far from the roar of the crowd.

Disappointments, you can be sure, will outnumber success stories, but a handful per team who make it change the face of the pro football world, if not right away, then eventually.

THE DRAFTEE is the path to success and this year's guarantee would appear to be Auburn's Bo Jackson. Is there anyone around who wouldn't have drafted him No. 1?

They say Bo is the best thing to come along since pasteurized milk, or at least Orange Juice.

The word is he can't miss, unless he choses baseball or the assured anonymity of the USFL. Remember? Once upon a time there was a Herschel Walker, who quit the University of Georgia before his senior year and became a memory.

Everybody knows what Bo will do, but perhaps more interesting is to guess who the rookie crops' Bill Bates, Phil Simms or Dan Marino will be.

MARINO? He was one of the projected No. 1 draft picks after his brilliant junior season. Pitt failed to live up to expectations in his senior year and Marino caught most of the blame, apparently deservedly so. He just didn't have that good a year.

Miami's Dolphins finally "took a chance" and, lo and behold, hit the jackpot.

Most likely candidate for the Marino role in this year's crop is Ohio State running back Keith Byars. He and Jackson were the Heisman favorites going into the 1985 season and because of Ohio State's football tradition and location that commanded maximum media attention, Keith probably had the inside track.

Byars never shook the injuries that began in his junior year and was never a contender for the Heisman.

Despite his potential, he became a high-risk pick in the draft and was ignored for less glamorous linemen until the Eagles decided to take a chance.

Byars could be this season's Marino, but right now his future looks as uncertain as that of the Detroit Lions' Billy Sims, or one of those middle round draft picks.

OF COURSE, sometimes a player is picked and the team that drafted him simply never finds the right spot for him.

The Dallas Cowboys' draft picks have come under criticism in recent years, not always because they didn't make good picks, but in at least one case because they didn't know what to do with him.

Still, Todd Christiansen, discarded by Dallas, is one of the prime reasons the Raiders won the Super Bowl a couple of years ago. The Raiders made an all-pro of Christiansen by making a running back a tight end, who became one of the NFL's surest and most reliable receivers.

SMU's Jones, Dupard only first round picks

Associated Press

Southern Methodist University teammates Rod Jones and Reggie Dupard were the only Southwest Conference products picked in the first round of Tuesday's NFL draft.

Jones, a hard-hitting defensive back who was the anchor man on the Mustangs' relay team, had the honor of being the first selection in the first round from the SWC.

The Tampa Bay Bucs took Jones as the 20th selection in the draft.

Dupard, the third leading rusher in SWC history who averaged almost six yards per carry, was taken by the defending American Conference champion New England Patriots as the 20th player in the draft.

"I'm stunned I went so high," said Jones. "I feel I'll have a great opportunity with the Bucs."

Dupard was the third running back taken in the draft behind Bo Jackson of Auburn and John Williams of Florida.

"It felt good going in the first round," said Dupard. "That's what I was hoping for."

Four SWC players went in the second round including the celebrated Kenneth Davis of Texas Christian, who missed all but one game last year because he admitted taking cash payments from a Horned Frog booster.

Green Bay took the TCU running back, who averaged 7.6 yards per carry and scored 15 touchdowns two years ago when he was an Associated Press first team All-America.

"I'm pleased Green Bay gave me an opportunity," said Davis. "I've been working out hard and I'm in great shape."

Other second round SWC selections included Anthony Toney, a fullback who helped lead Texas A&M to the Cotton Bowl, and teammate offensive lineman Doug Williams, a 300-pound tackle. Toney went to the Philadelphia Eagles while Williams was selected by the New Jets.

Strong safety Greg Lasker of Arkansas was selected by the New York Giants in the second round.

Eagles' Coach Buddy Ryan said "Toney can really help us. We like the tough, hard way he runs."

In the third round, the St. Louis Cardinals picked center Gene "The Coke Machine" Chilton of the University of Texas, the Jets named linebacker Tim Crawford of Texas Tech, and Miami went for Houston defensive tackle T.J. Turner.

Another Texan to go in the third round was defensive back Tim McKyer of Texas-Arlington to San Francisco.

Texas Tech's All-SWC defensive back Carl Carter was a fourth round choice by the St. Louis Cardinals.

Joe Phillips, an SMU defensive lineman, went to Minnesota and linebacker Ty Allert of Texas was a San Diego selection.

Texas A&M's Matt Darwin joined the rare distinction of being picked in a second NFL draft. The Aggie center was a fifth round pick by Dallas last year but refused to sign.

Four SWC players were taken in the fifth round, and all were Arkansas Razorbacks. Linebacker Nick Miller went to the Cleveland Browns, defensive back Kevin Wyatt to Miami, running back Bobby Joe Edmonds to the Seattle Seahawks, and linebacker Ravin Caldwell to the Washington Redskins.

Cowboys pull a fast one

By DENNE H. FREEMAN

IRVING (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys hoodwinked a division rival in a last-minute first-round trade in the NFL draft Tuesday to land coveted wide receiver Mike Sherrard, the leading pass grabber in UCLA history.

The Cowboys also nabbed another "impact" offensive player in the second round off a trade pick obtained from Indianapolis for quarterback Gary Hogeboom, taking fleet tailback Darryl Clack of Arizona State.

"Both of them are fast and can score from anywhere on the field and that's the kind of impact players we wanted this year," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry.

The Cowboys traded up in the first round so the New York Giants wouldn't have a shot at Sherrard, called by Dallas personnel director Gil Brandt "the fastest player in the draft."

"We were afraid the Giants would take him so we had to do something," Landry said. "He was exactly what we wanted."

The 6-1 Sherrard, who has been timed in the 40-yard dash in 4.23, confirmed the Giants were after him.

"It seemed the way the draft was going that the Giants were going to pick me," he said. "They had shown a lot of interest."

The Cowboys have been frustrated in the past by getting nosed out on players with game-breaking potential in the first round.

"Finally, something worked out right," said Club President Tex Schramm. "Sherrard was our main targets."

Sherrard will move to flanker and team with veteran Mike Renfro while Karl Powe will move over to split end with Tony Hill.

"He (Sherrard) has great hands, he's fast, and is a big target," said Landry. "I don't think this pick is a gamble. He has a chance to help us right away. His speed really excites us."

The Cowboys traded their 20th pick in the first round for San Francisco's 18th pick so they could get ahead of the Giants. Dallas gave the 49ers their fifth-round pick for the privilege.

Sherrard will be given Drew Pearson's old No. 88.

"I thought that number would have been retired," Sherrard said. "I think that's just great. Drew and Pittsburgh's Lynn Swann have always been my favorites."

The Cowboys decided to draft Sherrard upon Pearson's recommendation.

"Drew came out twice to see me work out," said Sherrard, who averaged almost 16 yards per catch for the Bruins.

Sherrard missed several games with a broken collarbone last year.

"Last year it was a big disappointment when we didn't get Eddie Brown, but this is equal to what we missed last time," Landry said. "He should be able to start for us. He's got everything you want."

Landry was equally enthusiastic about the 6-foot, 210-pound Clack.

"Clack is big and fast," Landry said. "He broke a leg his senior year and missed six weeks but he came back to finish strong."

Clack averaged five yards per rush and almost 12 yards per pass reception.

"He is excellent at catching the ball coming out of the backfield," said Brandt. "He's just great at running routes."

Clack will back up veteran Tony Dorsett.

Fry elated three Hawkeyes go in first round

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Iowa Coach Hayden Fry said Tuesday it's fantastic that three of his players were selected in the first round of the National Football League draft.

All-American quarterback Chuck Long, running back Ronnie Harmon and offensive tackle Mike Haight, a talented trio who helped the Hawkeyes to a 10-2 record and the 1985 Big Ten Conference championship, all were chosen in the first round of Tuesday's draft.

Long was selected by the Detroit Lions, Harmon by the Buffalo Bills and Haight by the New York Jets. Long and Harmon had been projected as first-round picks, but Haight wasn't expected to go any higher than the second round.

No other school had three first-round picks. Auburn, Florida and Southern Methodist each had two players selected in the opening round.

"The one word I'd select on three Hawks being chosen in the first round is fantastic," said Fry, who has been at Iowa for seven seasons. "I think that's just a great compliment to the state, the University of Iowa and our program. It will help us recruit."

Fry said having three first-round picks is an indication of how far the Iowa program has come since its dark days in the 1960s and '70s. Iowa had endured 17 straight non-winning seasons when Fry took the job, and that streak hit 19 before he got the Hawkeyes pointed in the right direction.

Iowa has won at least eight games in each of the past five seasons and has gone to a bowl game in each of those years.

"I was thinking back to seven years ago when we didn't win half our games, and now we have two players selected in the first 16," Fry said.

Long was the 12th player chosen overall, Harmon the 16th and Haight the 22nd.

BASEBAL— Minnesota Twins center fielder Kirby Puckett, who leads the major leagues with seven home runs, has been named American League Player of the Week for April 21-27. Puckett hit four of his seven homers during that period and had 12 hits in 26 at-bats for a .462 average...

Philadelphia infielder Mike Schmidt, whose 10 runs batted in included three game-winners, has been named National League Player of the Week after going 8-for-24...

Roland Hemond, former White Sox GM, is ending his 16-year association with the club to work for Commissioner Peter Ueberroth. Hemond, 56, will become Ueberroth's consultant for special projects, beginning May 16...

HOCKEY— University of Denver Coach Ralph Backstrom was named Division I Coach of the Year by the American Hockey Coaches Association. Last season, DU won the WCHA Hockey Association championship and a trip to the NCAA Final Four tournament...

FOOTBALL— Attorney General Michael Bowers refused to comment on a report that Jan Kemp's lawyers have proposed a $1 million settlement of the former University of Georgia instructor's lawsuit. The Atlanta Journal quoted sources as saying that attorney Hue Henry, representing Kemp, gave Bowers an offer Monday and that negotiations continued Tuesday...

GOLF— Mac O'Grady, facing fines and suspension from the PGA Tour, called on Commissioner Deane Beman to disassociate himself from the appeals process. "He's serving as judge, jury and executioner," O'Grady said and charged the commissioner was "biased and prejudiced" in the matter. "Like a federal judge in a case in which he's involved, he should disqualify himself," said O'Grady, who faces $5,000 in fines, a six-week suspension and a one-year probation for "conduct unbecoming a professional golfer."...

Leafs meet Blues

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Maple Leafs and the St. Louis Blues face off for three bruising hours of trench warfare Wednesday night in a battle both NHL clubs want desperately to win.

The teams are tied 3-3 and the winner of the seventh game of the best-of-seven Norris Division final playoffs in St. Louis will gain the Stanley Cup semifinals.

The Leafs haven't made it that far since 1978. The Blues are 14 years removed from their most recent semifinal encounter, way back in 1972.

The Leafs forced Game 7 with a 5-3 victory Monday night.

"The Leafs were fighting for their lives and now there are two teams fighting for their lives," says St. Louis Coach Jacques Demers. "We don't want to play golf and they don't want to play golf.

"It's a funny way of saying it, but that's the way we look at it."

There is no mystery what it will take to win as far as Leafs forward Brad Smith is concerned.

"The team that's going to win is the team that wins the battles along the boards and in between the two blue lines," says Smith. "It's going to be war out there and by war I mean winning the battles along the boards and getting the puck in their end.

"We've been in the trenches all year long and come out of them. I just hope we can keep it up for Game 7."

Canadiens eliminate Whalers in overtime

MONTREAL (AP) — Claude Lemieux flipped a backhander into the net 5:55 into overtime Tuesday night to give Montreal a 2-1 victory over the Hartford Whalers in the seventh and deciding game of the Adams Division final and advance the Canadiens to the semifinals of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Lemieux picked up a loose puck behind the Whalers net, whipped around in front, and scored his sixth goal of the playoffs that sent the Montreal Forum into instant pandemonium as the Canadiens piled on the 20-year-old forward in front of the Hartford net.

The Canadiens now meet the New York Rangers, upset winners of two series already, for the Wales Conference championship. The first game of the best-of-7 series is set for the Forum Thursday night.

Taking a drop pass from Dean Evason, Babych ripped a slap shot from the blue line that beat Canadiens goaltender Patrick Roy high to his glove hand at 17:12.

Two minutes later, the Canadiens lost the services of rookie Stephane Richer, who left the game with an injured right knee. He was removed from the ice on a stretcher and taken to a hospital for further examinations.

Mike McPhee's second goal of the playoffs, a shorthanded goal with 1:13 remaining in the first period, had given the Canadiens the early lead.

Baseball Notes

STAT

Seattle batters had gone 99 innings without two consecutive hits and the Mariners' offense averaged nearly nine strikeouts per game through 19 contests.

STREAKS

In 200 major-league at-bats Minnesota's Alejandro Sanchez had not walked. Kansas City shortstops Argenis Salazar and Buddy Biancalana were a combined 6-for-48 (.125) with no RBIs through 17 games.

SWINGS

In 1985 San Francisco's Chili Davis hit 12 of his 13 homers batting left-handed. This season Davis had hit three, all right-handed.

"Unless the Mets are going to win 130 games, we're still in it." — St. Louis Cardinals' left-hander John Tudor describing the race in the NL East.

Suspense finally ends

HOUSTON (AP) — Until 2½ weeks ago, each time Jim Everett looked into the future, he saw himself with a different National Football League team.

"I almost went crazy seeing myself with different teams," said Everett, who worked out for 20 NFL teams. "Finally, I just decided to relax and let it happen instead of seeing myself in a different color uniform every day."

The Houston Oilers narrowed Everett's uniform choices down to Columbia blue and white Tuesday by making him the third pick in the first round of the NFL draft.

The Oilers have assigned No. 12 to Everett, and the only loose end remaining is a contract agreement among Everett; his agent, Marv Demoff; and the Oilers.

Everett, who led the nation in total offense with an average of 326.3 yards per game, now must turn to what likely will be a quarterback controversy over who will be the Oiler starter.

Everett will be competing against Warren Moon, starting the third year of a $5.5 million, 5-year contract.

"I'm not anxious to sit on the bench, but I know I've got a lot to learn," Everett said. "With the quarterbacks there now, they have a lot of experience and I could learn from them."

Everett at least has experience in such matters. He started two games in 1983 in place of starter Steve Campbell, now with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

"If that's what it comes to I've lived through one here at Purdue, playing behind Scott Campbell," Everett said. "I lived through that. I know things could be worse but I'll just have to wait and see what happens."

Everett was a two-year starter for Purdue and his selection by the Oilers keeps alive a tradition of Purdue quarterbacks advancing to the pros.

He ranks third behind Campbell and Mark Hermann as the Boilermakers' all-time total offense leader.

Moon, 29, starting his third season with the Oilers, endured 46 of the team's 58 quarterback sacks last season. He completed 15 touchdown passes and threw 19 interceptions.

Oiler scout C.O. Brocato studied Everett prior to the draft and thinks he could be an immediate starter.

"I think he could start for us," Brocato said. "If Moon doesn't come through like he's supposed to for us, I'd give this guy aack.

"He's (Everett) got better feet than Chuck," Brocato said. "Everett is the

Everett completed 23 touchdown passes for 3,651 yards on 285 of 450 attempts last season.

Associated Press

The pitcher's best friend at Fenway Park is the strikeout pitch. On Tuesday night Red Sox right-hander Roger Clemens had a lot of friends as he fanned a major-league record 20 Seattle batters.

The 20 strikeouts broke the previous record of 19 accomplished by Tom Seaver of the New York Mets in 1970, Nolan Ryan of the California Angels in 1974 and Steve Carlton of the St. Louis Cardinals in 1969.

Washington's Tom Cheney struck out 21 in 16 innings against Baltimore in 1962.

Clemens, 4-0, allowed three hits and walked none. He has struck out 37 batters in his last three games.

Clemens got the record by striking out Phil Bradely after fanning Spike Owen in the ninth.

"I was trying to keep it close, trying to battle a guy that's throwing a good game against us," Clemens said.

The Red Sox won the game when Dwight Evans hit a three-run homer in the seventh inning off Mariner starter Mike Moore.

Clemens tied an American League league record when he struck out eight consecutive batters from the fourth to sixth innings. Spike Owen broke up the string when he flied to center to end the sixth.

The record is also shared by Ryan, twice, with the California Angels in 1972 and 1973, and Ron Davis with the New York Yankees in 1981. Seaver holds the major-league mark with 10 consecutive strikeouts in 1970.

Clemens' 20 strikeouts broke the previous team record set by Bill Monbouquette at Washington on May 12, 1961. The 20 also broke the Fenway Park mark set by Chicago's Jack Harshman with 15 in July 1954.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Angels 4, Blue Jays 3

At Toronto, Rick Burleson raced home from second on a fielder's choice ground out in the ninth inning to give California a victory over the Blue Jays.

With one out, Burleson singled to center and moved to second when Ruppert Jones was awarded first base after being interfered with by Toronto catcher Jeff Hearron. Wally Joyner then bounced into what appeared to be an inning- ending double play, but was ruled safe at first after pitcher Mark Eichhorn had taken the relay throw.

Tigers 2, Royals 1

At Detroit, Mike Laga's seventh-inning home run was the difference in a pitcher's duel between Detroit's Frank Tanana and Dennis Leonard of Kansas City.

Laga's two-out, bases-empty homer — his third of the season — into the second deck in right field was only the second hit off Leonard, 2-2.

Orioles 8, White Sox 1

At Chicago, Cal Ripken's two-run homer following Lee Lacy's two-run double in the seventh inning led right-hander Scott McGregor and Baltimore over Chicago.

McGregor, 2-2, limited the White Sox to four hits. He did not allow a runner to reach third base, struck out four and walked none. He retired 11 consecutive batters at one stretch, starting with one out in third inning.

Yankees 14, Twins 11

At New York, Rickey Henderson singled and then hit a three-run homer, capping a nine-run explosion in seventh inning that led New York past Minnesota.

The Yankees trailed 6-5 entering the seventh, but bunched four singles, three bases-loaded walks, an error and Henderson's homer for their rally against four Minnesota relievers.

Indians 6, Rangers 5

At Arlington, Texas, Julio Franco doubled home Andy Allanson in the ninth inning as Cleveland rallied from a three-run deficit in the final two innings to defeat Texas.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Mets 10, Braves 5

The New York Mets found yet another hero enroute to their 10th consecutive victory.

Bruce Berenyi replaced starter Ron Darling with Atlanta leading 5-2 after four innings and pitched 1 1-3 innings of hitless relief.

The Mets rallied on Darryl Strawberry's three-run homer in the top of the sixth and went on to a 10-5 victory over the Braves on Tuesday. The home run gave Berenyi his first triumph since April 12, 1985.

Expos 7, Reds 4

At Cincinnati, Andre Dawson's sixth home run launched a four-homer barrage in the fourth inning against Mario Soto that lifted Montreal to a victory over struggling Cincinnati.

Dawson, Hubie Brooks and Tim Wallach hit solo homers to mount the long-ball assault, and Mike Fitzgerald's two-run homer completed the binge that tied the Montreal club record for homers in an inning. Fitzgerald also had an RBI single for Montreal's sixth run in the fifth.

Phillies 12, Astros 4

At Philadelphia, Mike Schmidt's three-run homer and a two-run shot by Luis Aguayo highlighted a six-run first inning and Philadelphia went on to defeat Houston.

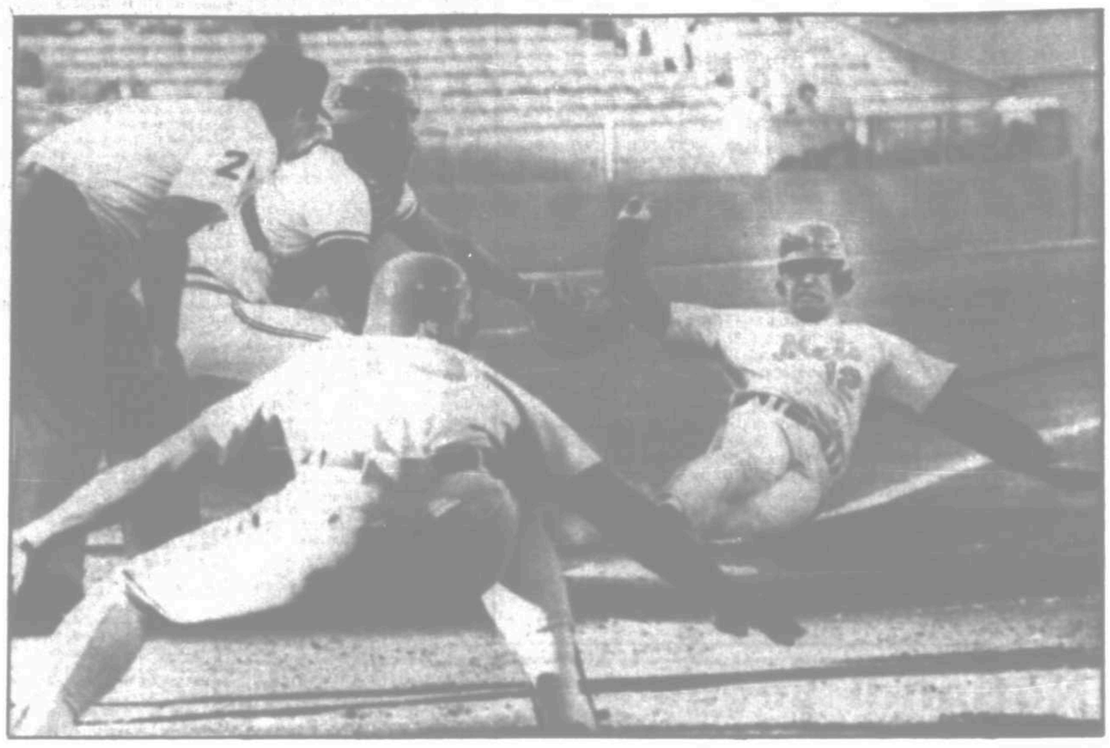

Shane Rawley, who went 6 1-3 innings and was tagged for 12 hits, gained his third victory against one loss, while loser Nolan Ryan, 3-3, lasted only one inning. Kent Tekulve pitched the final 2 2-3 innings for the Phillies.

Padres 5, Cubs 4

At San Diego, Terry Kennedy hit a three-run homer with one out in the bottom of the ninth inning to lift San Diego over Chicago. Kennedy drove a 2-1 pitch off reliever Ray Fontenot into the right-field bleachers to cap a four-run Padres rally in the final inning.

Giants 2, Cardinals 0

At San Francisco, Mike LaCoss, starting his first major-league game in two years, pitched three-hit ball for 7 1-3 innings and Greg Minton saved San Francisco's victory over St. Louis. Minton retired the last five batters in order for his third save.

Greg Olson also had an RBI double for the Mets.

Shreveport's two runs came in the fifth inning, on a triple by Mike Jones that drove in Darren McCue and a single by Angel Escovar that drove in Jones.

Kyle Hartshorn, 1-0, was the winning pitcher. The loser was Keith Silver, 1-1.

Joe Bitker pitched a complete game, the first one logged by the Beaumont Golden Gators this season, as Beaumont took a 1-0 victory over the San Antonio Dodgers.

Bitker gave up seven hits, walked two and struck out seven to bring his season record to 3-2.

It was Bitker's hitting that produced the only run of the game. He opened the sixth inning with a single up the middle, stolen second on a hit-and-run play in which the batter missed the ball, and moved to third on a grounder by Joey Cora.

Eric Varoza's grounder to second brought Bitker home with the game's only run.

Bill Brennan, 0-1, was the losing pitcher although he deserved a better fate. He retired 15 of the first 17 Beaumont batters to face him.

BOWLING BEAT

Rodriquez 723 sets bowling pace

By RANDY ISENBERG

Leo Rodriquez paced league bowlers at Dellwood Lanes with a 256 game and a 723 series while Sherry Fleming led the women with a 214-595.

Loren Trenhaile used games of 208 and 224 to lead Fairmont bowlers with a 623 series for the men while Gloria Truesdale rolled games of 209 and 223 to for 568 series.

High individual games at Fairmont were rolled by Jay Fever, 234 and Earl Phelps rolled a 244 game. Leslie Gann and Nadene Glenn had high games for the women at 254.

For Bill Thomas, it was a night of consistency, rolling three 200s for a triplicate patch and 600 series.

Betsy and Don Lett finished second for $180 followed by: Joe Bejil-Diego Maldonado, $130; Gary Price-Kevin Davidson, $110; Debbie Bryant-George Overton, $65; Betsy Lett-Henry Brem, $55; Mike Burns-Bob Burns, $45; Steve Parnell-Becky Sites, $45; David Rose-Mitch Mitchell, $40; Betsy Lett-George Overton, $40 and Terry and Ty Bowling, $40.

The next tournament, a singles event, will be held at Fairmont Park May 2-4.

An automatic spot in the state qualifying rounds of the Seagrams Bowling Proprietors Association of American U.S. Open will be awarded to the high average men and women at Fairmont Park and Dellwood Lanes. The 1987 opens will carry a $500,000 total prize fund for the men and $250,000 for women. Rabbit squad qualifying will be conducted throughout the summer at both houses.

Bowlers joining summer leagues at Dellwood and Fairmont Park are eligible to win a trip for two to St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands.

Two trips will be given away, one at each center, and 14 additional prizes will be awarded. The trip packages include air fare and first class hotel accomadations.

Bowlers will again have the opportunity to win a year's free bowling in the Most Over Average tournament.

One final note: Dellwood Lanes and Junior Achievement will be conducting a bowl-a-thon on May 17. Information can be obtained by contacting Dellwood Lanes or the Junior Achievement office.

Owners present stand

NEW YORK (AP) — A group consisting of the leadership of Major League Baseball and the commissioner's office presented management's side of a drug-testing plan, Don Fehr, the executive director of the players' union said.

Among those testifying to the players' panel on Tuesday was American League President Dr. Bobby Brown and Ed Durso, an excutive vice president in the commissioner's office.

The union's stand is that any drug abuse program for baseball should be negotiated through the players' association.

Last fall, the club owners withdrew from a drug abuse program that included limited testing.

And to date, the two sides have not reached an agreement on a drug plan.

Fehr said the hearing was the third this month and at least two more could take place. He said he was hopeful a decision on a drug plan for major-league players could be reached "in a couple of weeks."

A drug-testing program sent to major league players by baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth earlier this month called for no more than four tests a year between March and October for four separate substances.

Fehr called the plan "essentially the same that's been effect in the minor leagues."

Canadiens eliminate Whalers in overtime

MONTREAL (AP) — Claude Lemieux flipped a backhander into the net 5:55 into overtime Tuesday night to give Montreal a 2-1 victory over the Hartford Whalers in the seventh and deciding game of the Adams Division final and advance the Canadiens to the semifinals of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Lemieux picked up a loose puck behind the Whalers net, whipped around in front, and scored his sixth goal of the playoffs that sent the Montreal Forum into instant pandemonium as the Canadiens piled on the 20-year-old forward in front of the Hartford net.

The Canadiens now meet the New York Rangers, upset winners of two series already, for the Wales Conference championship. The first game of the best-of-7 series is set for the Forum Thursday night.

Taking a drop pass from Dean Evason, Babych ripped a slap shot from the blue line that beat Canadiens goaltender Patrick Roy high to his glove hand at 17:12.

Mike McPhee's second goal of the playoffs, a shorthanded goal with 1:13 remaining in the first period, had given the Canadiens the early lead.

Baseball Notes

STAT

Seattle batters had gone 99 innings without two consecutive hits and the Mariners' offense averaged nearly nine strikeouts per game through 19 contests.

STREAKS

In 200 major-league at-bats Minnesota's Alejandro Sanchez had not walked. Kansas City shortstops Argenis Salazar and Buddy Biancalana were a combined 6-for-48 (.125) with no RBIs through 17 games.

SWINGS

In 1985 San Francisco's Chili Davis hit 12 of his 13 homers batting left-handed. This season Davis had hit three, all right-handed.

SPEAKING

"Unless the Mets are going to win 130 games, we're still in it." — St. Louis Cardinals' left-hander John Tudor describing the race in the NL East.

Suspense finally ends

HOUSTON (AP) — Until 2½ weeks ago, each time Jim Everett looked into the future, he saw himself with a different National Football League team.

"I almost went crazy seeing myself with different teams," said Everett, who worked out for 20 NFL teams. "Finally, I just decided to relax and let it happen instead of seeing myself in a different color uniform every day."

The Houston Oilers narrowed Everett's uniform choices down to Columbia blue and white Tuesday by making him the third pick in the first round of the NFL draft.

The Oilers have assigned No. 12 to Everett, and the only loose end remaining is a contract agreement among Everett; his agent, Marv Demoff; and the Oilers.

Everett, who led the nation in total offense with an average of 326.3 yards per game, now must turn to what likely will be a quarterback

Houston Oilers

controversy over who will be the Oiler starter.

Everett will be competing against Warren Moon, starting the third year of a $5.5 million, 5-year contract.

"I'm not anxious to sit on the bench, but I know I've got a lot to learn," Everett said. "With the quarterbacks there now, they have a lot of experience and I could learn from them."

Everett at least has experience in such matters. He started two games in 1983 in place of starter Steve Campbell, now with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

"If that's what it comes to I've lived through one here at Purdue, playing behind Scott Campbell," Everett said. "I lived through that. I know things could be worse but I'll just have to wait and see what happens."

Everett was a two-year starter for Purdue and his selection by the Oilers keeps alive a tradition of Purdue quarterbacks advancing to the pros.

He ranks third behind Campbell and Mark Hermann as the Boilermakers' all-time total offense leader.

Moon, 29, starting his third season with the Oilers, endured 46 of the team's 58 quarterback sacks last season. He completed 15 touchdown passes and threw 19 interceptions.

Oiler scout C.O. Brocato studied Everett prior to the draft and thinks he could be an immediate starter.

"I think he could start for us," Brocato said. "If Moon doesn't come through like he's supposed to for us, I'd give this guy aack.

"He's (Everett) got better feet than Chuck," Brocato said. "Everett is the

Everett completed 23 touchdown passes for 3,651 yards on 285 of 460 attempts last season.

Associated Press

The pitcher's best friend at Fenway Park is the strikeout pitch. On Tuesday night Red Sox right-hander Roger Clemens had a lot of friends as he fanned a major-league record 20 Seattle batters.

The 20 strikeouts broke the previous record of 19 accomplished by Tom Seaver of the New York Mets in 1970, Nolan Ryan of the California Angels in 1974 and Steve Carlton of the St. Louis Cardinals in 1969.

Washington's Tom Cheney struck out 21 in 16 innings against Baltimore in 1962.

Clemens, 4-0, allowed three hits and walked none. He has struck out 37 batters in his last three games.

Clemens got the record by striking out Phil Bradely after fanning Spike Owen in the ninth.

"I was trying to keep it close, trying to battle a guy that's throwing a good game against us," Clemens said.

The Red Sox won the game when Dwight Evans hit a three-run homer in the seventh inning off Mariner starter Mike Moore.

Clemens tied an American League league record when he struck out eight consecutive batters from the fourth to sixth innings. Spike Owen broke up the string when he flied to center to end the sixth.

The record is also shared by Ryan, twice, with the California Angels in 1972 and 1973, and Ron Davis with the New York Yankees in 1981. Seaver holds the major-league mark with 10 consecutive strikeouts in 1970.

Clemens' 20 strikeouts broke the previous team record set by Bill Monbouquette at Washington on May 12, 1961. The 20 also broke the Fenway Park mark set by Chicago's Jack Harshman with 15 in July 1954.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Angels 4, Blue Jays 3

At Toronto, Rick Burleson raced home from second on a fielder's choice ground out in the ninth inning to give California a victory over the Blue Jays.

With one out, Burleson singled to center and moved to second when Ruppert Jones was awarded first base after being interfered with by Toronto catcher Jeff Hearron. Wally Joyner then bounced into what appeared to be an inning- ending double play, but was ruled safe at first after pitcher Mark Eichhorn had taken the relay throw.

Tigers 2, Royals 1

At Detroit, Mike Laga's seventh-inning home run was the difference in a pitcher's duel between Detroit's Frank Tanana and Dennis Leonard of Kansas City.

Laga's two-out, bases-empty homer — his third of the season — into the second deck in right field was only the second hit off Leonard, 2-2.

Orioles 8, White Sox 1

At Chicago, Cal Ripken's two-run homer following Lee Lacy's two-run double in the seventh inning led right-hander Scott McGregor and Baltimore over Chicago.

McGregor, 2-2, limited the White Sox to four hits. He did not allow a runner to reach third base, struck out four and walked none. He retired 11 consecutive batters at one stretch, starting with one out in third inning.

Yankees 14, Twins 11

At New York, Rickey Henderson singled and then hit a three-run homer, capping a nine-run explosion in seventh inning that led New York past Minnesota.

The Yankees trailed 6-5 entering the seventh, but bunched four singles, three bases-loaded walks, an error and Henderson's homer for their rally against four Minnesota relievers.

Indians 6, Rangers 5

At Arlington, Texas, Julio Franco doubled home Andy Allanson in the ninth inning as Cleveland rallied from a three-run deficit in the final two innings to defeat Texas.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Mets 10, Braves 5

The New York Mets found yet another hero enroute to their 10th consecutive victory.

Bruce Berenyi replaced starter Ron Darling with Atlanta leading 5-2 after four innings and pitched 1 1-3 innings of hitless relief.

The Mets rallied on Darryl Strawberry's three-run homer in the top of the sixth and went on to a 10-5 victory over the Braves on Tuesday. The home run gave Berenyi his first triumph since April 12, 1985.

Expos 7, Reds 4

At Cincinnati, Andre Dawson's sixth home run launched a four-homer barrage in the fourth inning against Mario Soto that lifted Montreal to a victory over struggling Cincinnati.

Dawson, Hubie Brooks and Tim Wallach hit solo homers to mount the long-ball assault, and Mike Fitzgerald's two-run homer completed the binge that tied the Montreal club record for homers in an inning. Fitzgerald also had an RBI single for Montreal's sixth run in the fifth.

Phillies 12, Astros 4

At Philadelphia, Mike Schmidt's three-run homer and a two-run shot by Luis Aguayo highlighted a six-run first inning and Philadelphia went on to defeat Houston.

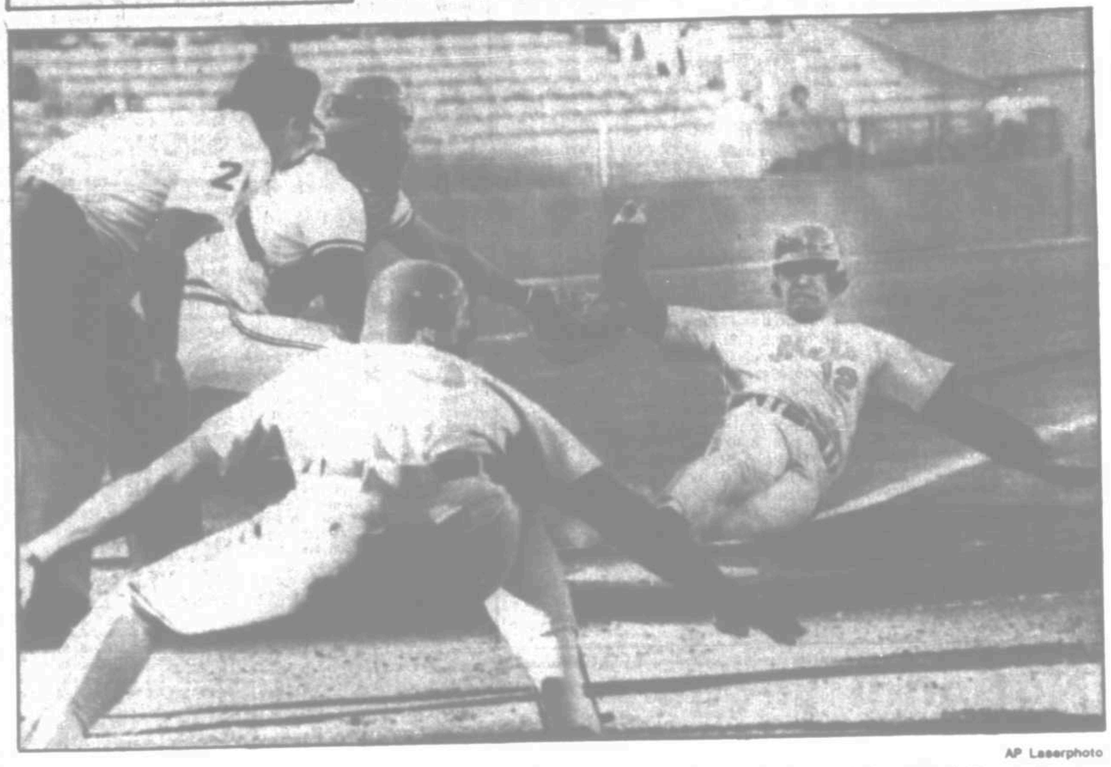

Shane Rawley, who went 6 1-3 innings and was tagged for 12 hits, gained his third victory against one loss, while loser Nolan Ryan, 3-3, lasted only one inning. Kent Tekulve pitched the final 2 2-3 innings for the Phillies.

Padres 5, Cubs 4

At San Diego, Terry Kennedy hit a three-run homer with one out in the bottom of the ninth inning to lift San Diego over Chicago. Kennedy drove a 2-1 pitch off reliever Ray Fontenot into the right-field bleachers to cap a four-run Padres rally in the final inning.

Giants 2, Cardinals 0

At San Francisco, Mike LaCoss, starting his first major-league game in two years, pitched three-hit ball for 7 1-3 innings and Greg Minton saved San Francisco's victory over St. Louis. Minton retired the last five batters in order for his third save.

Greg Olson also had an RBI double for the Mets.

Shreveport's two runs came in the fifth inning, on a triple by Mike Jones that drove in Darren McCue and a single by Angel Escovar that drove in Jones.

Joe Bitker pitched a complete game, the first one logged by the Beaumont Golden Gators this season, as Beaumont took a 1-0 victory over the San Antonio Dodgers.

Bitker gave up seven hits, walked two and struck out seven to bring his season record to 3-2.

It was Bitker's hitting that produced the only run of the game. He opened the sixth inning with a single up the middle, stolen second on a hit-and-run play in which the batter missed the ball, and moved to third on a grounder by Joey Cora.

Eric Varoza's grounder to second brought Bitker home with the game's only run.

Bill Brennan, 0-1, was the losing pitcher although he deserved a better fate. He retired 15 of the first 17 Beaumont batters to face him.

BOWLING BEAT

Rodriquez 723 sets bowling pace

By RANDY ISENBERG

Leo Rodriquez paced league bowlers at Dellwood Lanes with a 256 game and a 723 series while Sherry Fleming led the women with a 214-595.

Loren Trenhaile used games of 208 and 224 to lead Fairmont bowlers with a 623 series for the men while Gloria Truesdale rolled games of 209 and 223 to for 568 series.

High individual games at Fairmont were rolled by Jay Fever, 234 and Earl Phelps rolled a 244 game. Leslie Gann and Nadene Glenn had high games for the women at 254.

For Bill Thomas, it was a night of consistency, rolling three 200s for a triplicate patch and 600 series.

Betsy and Don Lett finished second for $180 followed by: Joe Bejil-Diego Maldonado, $130; Gary Price-Kevin Davidson, $110; Debbie Bryant-George Overton, $65; Betsy Lett-Henry Brem, $55; Mike Burns-Bob Burns, $45; Steve Parnell-Becky Sites, $45; David Rose-Mitch Mitchell, $40; Betsy Lett-George Overton, $40 and Terry and Ty Bowling, $40.

The next tournament, a singles event, will be held at Fairmont Park May 2-4.

An automatic spot in the state qualifying rounds of the seagrams Bowling Proprietors Association of American U.S. Open will be awarded to the high average men and women at Fairmont Park and Dellwood Lanes. The 1987 opens will carry a $500,000 total prize fund for the men and $250,000 for women. Rabbit squad qualifying will be conducted throughout the summer at both houses.

Bowlers joining summer leagues at Dellwood and Fairmont Park are eigible to win a trip for two to St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands.

Two trips will be given away, one at each center, and 14 additional prizes will be awarded. The trip packages include air fare and first class hotel accomadations.

Bowlers will again have the opportunity to win a year's free bowling in the Most Over Average tournament.

One final note: Dellwood Lanes and Junior Achievement will be conducting a bowl-a-thon on May 17. Information can be obtained by contacting Dellwood Lanes or the Junior Achievement office.

Owners present stand

NEW YORK (AP) — A group consisting of the leadership of Major League Baseball and the commissioner's office presented management's side of a drug-testing plan, Don Fehr, the executive director of the players' union said.

Among those testifying to the players' panel on Tuesday was American League President Dr. Bobby Brown and Ed Durso, an excutive vice president in the commissioner's office.

The union's stand is that any drug abuse program for baseball should be negotiated through the players' association.

Last fall, the club owners withdrew from a drug abuse program that included limited testing.

And to date, the two sides have not reached an agreement on a drug plan.

Fehr said the hearing was the third this month and at least two more could take place. He said he was hopeful a decision on a drug plan for major-league players could be reached "in a couple of weeks."

A drug-testing program sent to major league players by baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth earlier this month called for no more than four tests a year between March and October for four separate substances.

Dollar gains

LONDON (AP) — The dollar rose against most major European currencies in early trading today. Gold prices were mixed.

In Tokyo, where trading ends before Europe's business day begins, the dollar rebounded from its latest record post-World War II low to close at 168.10 yen. That was up 0.85 yen from Monday's close. Japanese markets were shut for a holiday on Tuesday.

The dollar has set post-war record lows against the yen on four of the last seven trading days amid prospects for lower U.S. interest rates and pessimism among traders about U.S. economic outlook.

Later, in London, the dollar was quoted at 168.42 yen.

-2.1860 West German marks, up from 2.1685

-1.8310 Swiss francs, up from 1.8155

-6.9635 French francs, up from 6.9075

-1,497.00 Italian lire, up from 1,488.00

-1.3772 Canadian dollars, down from 1.3812.

In London, the dollar also rose against the British pound, which was quoted at $1.5460, cheaper than $1.5523 late Tuesday.

Markets in The Netherlands were closed for a holiday to celebrate the birthday of Queen Beatrix.

Gold opened in London at a bid price of $344.25 a troy ounce, compared with late Tuesday's $345. At mid-morning, the city's five major bullion dealers fixed a recommended price of $344.75.

Silver was quoted in London today at a bid price of $5.06 a troy ounce, down from late Tuesday's $5.07.

FHA reaches credit limit, suspends new applications

NEW YORK (AP) — Low-income and first-time homebuyers will bear the brunt of the halt in applications for Federal Housing Administration-guaranteed mortgages, according to industry analysts.

But any actual halt in FHA mortgages, which account for 12 percent to 15 percent of the market, may not come for some time if lenders continue issuing mortgages under FHA standards in hopes Congress will remedy the situation.

The FHA on Tuesday told lenders to stop taking applications for its government-insured mortgage loans at the close of business because the agency had reached its $57.4 billion credit limit.

Legislation to extend the ceiling to $74.4 billion was approved Tuesday by the Senate. A House bill last week extends it to $95 billion. The Senate version now must go back to the House.

"We're going to go ahead and take applications, and we're going to expect the Congress to act responsibly," said James Wooten, president of The Lomas & Nettleton Co., one of the nation's major mortgage bankers.

FHA mortgages, which are limited to $89,900, generally can be issued for up to 95 percent of a home's value, compared with a typical 90 percent for conventional mortgages. That means a credit-worthy applicant must come up with only a 5 percent down payment, rather than 10 percent.

In addition, FHA loans generally are offered at interest rates about half a percentage point lower than conventional mortgages, and are more lenient in determining how large a percentage of a homebuyer's income can apply to house payments.

As a result, FHA loans are sought by first-time homebuyers, who may have trouble scraping enough cash together for more than a 5 percent down payment, and to low-income homebuyers, whose salaries might not meet the stricter underwriting requirements of a conventional mortgage.

"The chances of getting a 95 percent loan on conventional basis are pretty slim today," said Warren Dunn, a spokesman for the Mortgage Bankers Association of America.

"They now have the option of trying to tap Mom and Dad or someone else for gifts or something that allows them to meet the higher down payment," Dunn said. "Or they have the option of waiting."

Wooten said funding of mortgages approved by the FHA or by individually authorized lenders by the close of business Tuesday would not be delayed. He also said that many lenders have told him they planned to continue processing applications already received, and funding loans they expected to win FHA approval.

Because the lack of FHA insurance increases the risk on mortgages to low-income lenders, the interest rate for such loans would be higher than an FHA mortgage, he added.

Pipeline delayed for federal impact study

By STEVE LEVINE
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Construction of the controversial All American Pipeline will stop for at least 11 months while a federal agency studies the environmental impact of the planned pipeline route.

Parties to a federal lawsuit challenging the pipeline announced the out-of-court agreement Wednesday. The settlement means All American Pipeline Co., a subsidiary of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., must stop work on the last leg of the 1,750-mile crude oil pipeline until the U.S. Bureau of Land Management completes its work.

That last leg runs 450 miles from McCamey to the Gulf Coast, but opposition has focused on a 7.2-mile stretch in Hays County just south of Austin.

The state, three counties and a coalition of Central Texas residents have filed a series of suits in attempts to prevent the pipe from crossing the Edwards Acquifer, a vast underground lake that provides drinking water to more than 1 million Texans. Opponents rejected All American's claims that they would build in special protections to stop the 30-inch, hot-oil pipe from bursting over the acquifer.

"This order is not a final victory, but it does mean we have won the first round," state Sen. Gonzalo Barrientos of Austin said. "Now the people of Central Texas have the chance to make their best case in a fair forum to convince the federal government that the Goodyear pipeline should not be built through our water supply."

All American public information officials did not return repeated phone calls Tuesday from their Santa Barbara, Calif., offices.

The Bureau of Land Management will prepare a supplemental environmental impact statement on the McCamey-to-Gulf-Coast leg of the pipeline. All American will pay for the research. The study will consider alternative routes and could result in special acquifer protection measures, a new route or outright denial of the project.

"We're pleased with this tentative settlement," said Attorney General Jim Mattox, whose office filed the federal suits. "We got exactly what we asked for — further studies to ensure that our Central Texas environment and water supply are protected."

New home sales jump 27.4 percent in March

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sales of new homes shot up by 27.4 percent in March to the highest annual rate on record, the government reported Tuesday.

The Commerce Department said new single-family homes were sold at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 903,000 units last month.

This is the highest sales rate since the government began publishing monthly sales data in 1963. It surpassed the old record of 872,000 units set in October 1978.

The 27.4 percent increase in sales was the biggest monthly advance since a 31 percent rise in April 1963.

The new report continued to provide evidence that the housing industry is one segment of the U.S. economy that is booming as construction and sales have surged.

The boom is attributed to the sharp declines in mortgage interest rates of recent months. Fixed-rate mortgages have dropped below 10 percent in many places for the first time this decade.

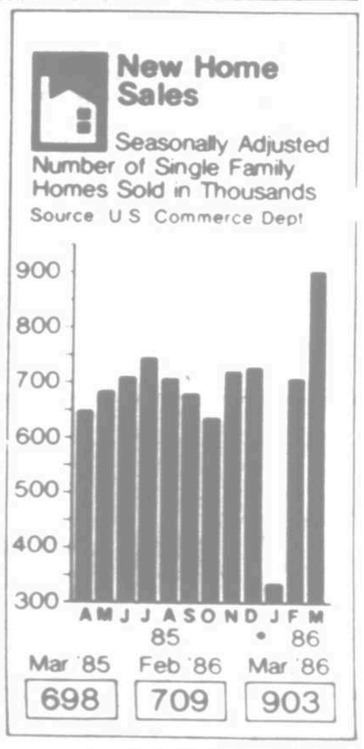

The low mortgage rates have fueled the big rise in sales as well as prompting many homeowners to refinance their current mortgages at the lower rates.

The big sales increase in March came as home prices were holding fairly steady. The average sales price rose 3.6 percent to $110,400 but the median price actually fell by 1.2 percent to $88,300. The median price means half the homes sold for more and half for less.

The big jump in sales was led by a 28.1 percent increase in the Northeast, which put sales in this region at an annual rate of 164,000, the highest on record.

Sales rose 39.2 percent in the South to an annual rate of 419,000, the highest level since December 1983.

Sales rose 16.9 percent in the West to an annual rate of 235,000, the highest level since September 1979.

IPAA head says U.S. could lose domestic production

By JOHN PAUL PITTS
Business/Oil Editor

NASHVILLE — Sources say a confrontation over a crude oil import fee is expected to arise today at the mid-year meeting of the Independent Petroleum Association of America (IPAA). The IPAA has opposed such a tax to stabilize oil prices but rapidly deteriorating conditions continue to put pressure on the 17,000-member oil and gas association to shift its position.

At a news conference Tuesday, IPAA chairman Raymond Hefner made no mention of the import tax, but said the U.S. was dangerously close to losing its domestic oil production capability and called for Congress and the Administration to enact a long-term energy policy.

"We are close to becoming dangerously dependent on foreign oil, because the Saudis have huge reserves that are less costly to produce," said Hefner. He said that wells in the U.S. cost ten times as much to operate because Saudi Arabia produces 10 million barrels per day from 550 wells while the U.S. produces only 9 million from 600,000 wells. "That amounts to 18,000 barrels per day for a Saudi well and 15 barrels per day for an average U.S. well," he said.

Hefner warned that many of these low producing wells were in danger of being plugged because of the 50 percent drop in oil prices since the first of the year — a drop caused by increased Saudi production.

Explaining that the number of rigs drilling for oil and gas had shrunk from 4,500 in 1981 to 855 this year, the association head said the U.S. would be 50 percent dependent on foreign crude oil by 1990.

World Oil strongly supports import fee

From Staff Reports

World Oil magazine is taking a stand — in favor of import fees on crude oil and products brought into the United States. The magazine is the first and only industry journal to take such a position. Others have publicly opposed the fees.

In making their editorial statement advocating the fee, which appears in the May issue, World Oil's editors say their aim is to preserve national security by maintaining a strong domestic oil industry. If conditions continue as they are without the fee, they are convinced it will only take a few years before declining U.S. production and increased consumption put the country back into the position of being at the mercy of OPEC. And when that happens, the price of oil will skyrocket, making the price shocks of the 1970s look like hiccups.

World Oil says it is taking its stand to urge the rest of the industry to form a united front to press for the fee, which is the only way the goal can be accomplished. If the 'can't do' attitude of many in the oil business can be eliminated and alliances formed with other non-oil forces (and there are several) it is quite possible that Congress can be persuaded to enact the necessary legislation, the editors say.

However, the quickest strategy would be to convince President Reagan of the dire necessity of the fee, which he can impose with the stroke of a pen.

The most important benefit of a fee would be to establish a floor price for domestic oil that would eliminate uncertainty and allow producers to make reasonable plans and attract outside investment. As envisioned by the magazine staff, a sliding scale fee with no exceptions would be imposed to maintain the price of imported oil at a certain level (a figure of $22 per barrel has been mentioned). This would cause domestic oil to sell at the same price. The fee would come into effect any time the world price of crude oil falls below $22 and come to an end should prices rise above that level. Product fees would be set proportionally higher to bring import prices up to the level of products refined from $222 domestic oil.

Texaco wholesalers file brief in support of appeal

By ALLEN HOWLAND
Business/Oil Writer

Fourteen hundred independent Texaco wholesalers around the country have rallied to the support of their supplier, Texaco Inc., in its appeal to reverse the Harris County District Court decision in favor of Pennzoil Co. The National Association of Texaco Wholesalers (NATW) filed an amicus curiae (friend of the court) brief in support of Texaco's position in the ongoing legal dispute surrounding the takeover of Getty Oil Co.

On April 23, Texaco Inc. filed its 120-plus page appeal in the Court of Appeals for the First Supreme Judicial District of Texas seeking to overturn the $11.12 billion judgment entered in the case.

The NATW brief does not intend to address the merits of the case, only to focus interest on issues of concern to the wholesalers whose livelihood is threatened by the judgment. The NATW is a non-profit organization unaffiliated with Texaco Inc., whose members market more than 50 percent of branded Texaco gasoline sold in the country. Approximately 200 distributorships and 2500 service stations in Texas are represented by the NATW brief.

The brief states that if the Pennzoil judgment prevails, Texaco could be forced to sell off assets, which in turn would strip Texaco distributors of their franchises because asset sales do not carry franchise rights with them. Having lost those franchise rights "a depressingly high percentage of distributors would be doomed to rapid economic extinction," the brief continues.

Phillips announces decline in earnings, cut in workforce

HOUSTON (AP) — Declining oil prices are a major factor in Phillips Petroleum Co.'s decision to trim as many as 2,500 employees from the payroll by July 1, the company's chairman said.

And the oil price slump also has affected the company's 1986 first quarter earnings, which were $96 million, or 39 cents a share, a $17 million decline from net income posted in the same quarter last year, said C.J. Silas, chairman and chief executive officer.

In addition, the company slashed its quarterly dividend from 25 cents a share to 15 cents.

First-quarter earning in 1985 were $113 million, or 25 cents a share, Silas said Tuesday at the company's annual stockholders meeting.

Total revenues were $3.11 billion for the first quarter, and $3.97 billion for the same period in 1985.

Seminar on board membership scheduled

By MELLA McEWEN

The Leadership Midland Alumni Association, Midland Chamber of Commerce, Midland College and the Midland Reporter-Telegram are sponsoring a Community Board Symposium on May 10 at Midland College.

Midland is becoming known for its level of volunteer support, and this half-day seminar is designed to train Midlanders for responsible volunteer boardmanship. The sponsors have developed six workshops dealing with fundraising, planning techniques, board mechanics, running a meeting, marketing the organization and interpersonal relationships. Each participant in the symposium will have the opportunity to attend three of the workshops.

Space is being reserved on a first-come first serve basis. To be one of the 100 participants, send $15 payable to Community Board Workshop, P.O. Box 10175, Midland, TX, 79702.

The 1986 Midland Chamber of Commerce Marketing Directory & Buyers Guide is now available to non-Chamber members for $25 each.

Divided into two sections, the reference guide is handy for both consumers and salesmen. The front of the book lists all Chamber members alphabetically, including the name of the business, primary contact person, street and mailing address, phone numbers, employment range, and categorical listings describing the type of business. The back of the directory lists members, with phone numbers, under their type of business. The center of the book, on black-edged pages, holds an index of business categories represented by Chamber members.

EXPLORATION HIGHLIGHTS

Ector producer pumps 247 barrels

From Staff Reports

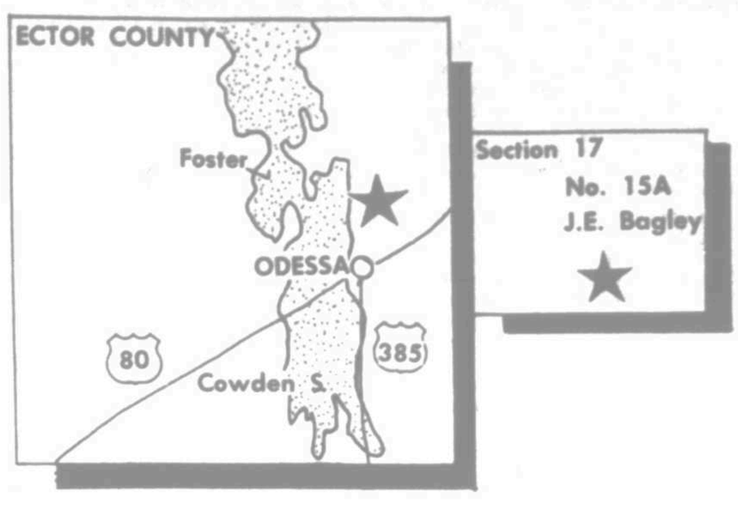

SUN EXPLORATION & PRODUCTION CO. has added to Canyon production in the Cowden South field of Ector County with completion of the No. 15A J.E. Bagley.

On potential test, the well pumped 247 barrels of 37.4 gravitby crude, 310 Mcfd and 142 barrels of water from perforations 8,846 to 9,004 ft. The interval was acidized with 5,000 gallons of 15 percent NeFe acid. Gas-oil ratiio is 1,255:1.

The well was drilled to 9,050 ft., where 5 1/2 inch casing was set, the well was plugged back to 9,040 ft.

Formation tops, on ground elevation of 2,920.9 ft., include the Dewey Lake at 1,368 ft., Rustler at 1,658, Salado at 1,807, Tansill at 2,704, Yates at 2,828, Seven Rivers at 3,042, Queen at 3,350, Grayburg at 4,192, Glorieta at 5,008, Cisco at 8,148, and Canyon at 8,845 ft. Pay was topped at 8,845 ft.

Location is 885 ft. from west and 610 ft. from south lines of Section 17, Block 42, T-2-S, T&P survey, 1.5 miles northwest of Odessa.

Howard field gains 240 barrel producer

The Howard-Glasscock (Wolfcamp) field of Howard County gained a Wolfcamp producer as A.K. GUTHRIE OPERATING CO. completed the No. 2 John Cole in the field.

Guthrie finaled the well to flow 240 barrels of 39 gravity crude, 266 Mcfd and no water on a 12/64 inch choke from perforations 7,305 to 7,329 ft. The interval was acidized with 3,000 gallons of acid. Gas-oil ratio is 1,108:1.

The well was drilled to a total depth of 8,000 ft. with 5 1/2 inch casing was set at 7,996 ft.

The well topped the San Andres at 1,975 ft. and the Wolfcamp at 7,219 ft. on ground elevation of f2,395 ft. Pay was topped at 7,305 ft.

Location is 783.5 ft. from south and 467 ft. from east lines of Section 95, Block 29, W&NW survey, eight miles west of Forsan.

Strawn discovery flows 44 barrels oil

Reagan County gained a Strawn discovery located a half-mile south of Ellenburger production in the county's Red House field.

UNION OIL CO. OF CALIFORNIA, Midland, completed the No. 4 Hughes "A" to flow 44 barrels of 51.9 gravity crude and five barrels of water on a 27/64 inch inch choke, natural production. Production is from perforations 9,368 to 9,392 ft. Gas-oil ratio is 10,000:1.

Unocal drilled the well to a total depth of 10,470 ft. and was plugged back to 10,090 ft. with 5 1/2 inch casing set at 10,220 ft.

On ground elevation of 2,506 ft., formation tops include the Strawn at 9,354 ft., Woodford at 9,696, Devonian at 9,714, Silurian at 10,070, Fusselman at 10,090, Sylvan at 10,130, and the Ellenburger at 10,174 ft.

Transco reports net loss

Houston (SWN) — Transco Exploration Partners, Ltd. (TXP) reported a loss of $258.6 million, or $3.87 per unit, for the first quarter of 1986, which includes a non-cash charge of $247.3 million, or $3.70 per unit, to reduce the book value of TXP's oil and gas properties.

TXP's first quarter 1986 results compare to net income of $6.0 million, or $0.10 per unit, for the same period in 1985. Revenues for the quarter were $83.1 million and funds provided from operations were $46.4 million, compared to $102.9 million in revenues and $68.8 million in funds provided from operations for the prior-year's first quarter.

John H. Lollar, president and chief operating officer of Transco Exploration Co., managing general partner of TXP, stated that first quarter 1986 results reflect the impact of lower oil and gas prices, offset, in part, by higher oil and gas sales volumes. He emphasized that despite the sharp decline in prices and the resulting impact on revenues, TXP expects to continue to make quarterly distributions to unitholders totaling $2.36 per unit with respect to 1986.

TXP's proved reserves as of March 31, 1986, were estimated to be 563 billion cubic feet of natural gas and 25.5 million barrels of liquids (oil, condensate and plant products). Lollar explained that TXP, like most other independent oil and gas operators, utilizes full-cost accounting, which requires TXP to limit its net capitalized costs of oil and gas properties to the sum of the present value of estimated future net revenues of proved properties and the lower of cost or fair value of unproved properties. He said that the recent sharp decline in energy prices had resulted in reductions in estimated future net revenues, requiring the 18% adjustment to the book value of TXP's oil and gas properties.

Lollar observed that this calculation and resulting charge to earnings does not necessarily reflect a permanent impairment of the value of TXP's oil and gas reserves, but instead, reflects the current depressed level of oil and natural gas prices. He noted that the charge will not affect any tax deductions and credits available to TXP unitholders.

According to Lollar, TXP has reduced its capital requirements for the remainder of 1986 through a reduction in capital spending plans and additional cost containment measures. He added that TXP's capital resources, including Transco Energy Company's continued investment of quarterly cash distributions it receives in new TXP units, will permit TXP to continue an active exploration and development program and maintain its cash distributions to unitholders at current levels with respect to 1986.

OIL & GAS DIGEST

Tenneco reports first quarter income increase

HOUSTON (AP) — Tenneco Inc. changed its method of accounting for oil and gas operations during the first quarter to report a net income of $124 million, or 73 cents per share.

The profit compares with the net loss of $54 million, or 48 cents per share, the company posted for the period last year.

Tenneco also reported that net sales and operating revenues for the first three months of the year were $3.9 billion, up from $3.7 billion a year ago.

Officials said the Houston-based company changed its method of accounting for oil and gas operations from the "full-cost" method to the "successful efforts" method in light of deteriorating oil and gas prices.

The cumulative effect of the change was to reduce prior years' earnings and retained earnings, as of Dec. 31, 1985, by $988 million. Before the accounting change, net income for the first quarter of 1985 was $63 million and earnings per share were 34 cents per share.

"Tenneco, like others in the oil and gas industry, has been negatively impacted by the recent serious decline in energy prices," said James L. Ketelsen, chairman and CEO. "Our diversification, however, has enabled us to more than offset these lower energy prices with strong performances in a number of our non-energy operations."

American Oil & Gas completes merger

HOUSTON (SWN) American Oil & Gas Corp. announced that it completed its merger with Carcon Corp., a closely held Houston-based company. Under the revised terms of the merger, the company issued 2.2 million shares of common stock and $3.15 million of preferred stock for the business and assets of Carcon, which included Carcon's $8 million cash. David M. Carmichael and William P. Conner have become the company's chairman of the board and CEO and senior vice president and CFO, respectively, and Carmichael and Conner and Thad T. Hutcheson, Jr., have become directors of the company.

The company also announced the resignations of former president George S. Loch and directors Richard A. Zartler, John T. McGuire, Byron W. Cain, and Albert F. Richmond, Jr.

Further, the company announced that it has written down and reclassified in excess of $8 million of assets resulting in a loss of approximately $9,400,000 on revenues of approximately $107 million in 1985. These write-downs were principally because of the precipitous decline in oil and gas prices during the first quarter of 1986.

American Oil and Gas Corp. is an intrastate natural gas gathering, transmission, and distribution company. In addition, the company engages in well servicing and oil and gas operations.

Noble president praises cost containment

TULSA — (SWN) Noble Drilling Corp. president and CEO James C. Day told shareholders at the annual meeting that the oil drilling contractor recorded positive cash flow in the first quarter of 1986, despite plummeting oil prices.

"In the first quarter of 1986," he said, "while oil prices were dropping at a breathtaking rate, our rig utilization rate was also dropping. It averaged 35 percent for the quarter.

"Nevertheless, we were able to maintain a positive cash flow for the period, which obviously was difficult to achieve. However, I think this accomplishment is a good example of how effective our cost containment efforts have been." Noble Drilling reported a loss of $16,531,000 in 1985, and anticipates reporting a loss for the first quarter of 1986.

Day also noted that "Last year, we substantially improved our cash position - from $1,952,000 in 1984 to $10,928,000 in 1985."dp

The company's cost containment efforts have included reducing the workforce from 1,240 people in 1984 to 861 at the end of 1985, consolidating divisions and closing offices and mothballing several land rigs. It is also negotiating to place rigs in the international market, and is aggressively pursuing the use of its rigs on oil and gas wells in which it participates.

Day said that the company's two deep water jackup rigs should record a 50 percent utilization rate over the course of 1986. Three of the seven platform rigs should continue on present contracts through the third quarter of 1986, and two of the four barges should continue working for the balance of the year.

Lear retains DLJ to evaluate alternatives

DALLAS (SWN) Lear Petroleum Corp. announced that Donaldson, Lufkin and Jenrette Securities Corp. (DLJ) has been retained to evaluate and recommend alternatives available to the company including the possibility of the sale, merger or similar transaction involving all or substantially all of the business, assets or stock of Lear Petroleum Corp., or any similar transaction involving Producer's Gas Co., Lear Petroleum Partners, L.P. or any other subsidiary of Lear Petroleum Corp.

J.T. Williams, president and CEO, said, "While Lear's cash flow projections remain more than adequate to meet capital expenditures and principal repayments on Lear's debt, the Board felt that it would be appropriate to determine clearly the alternatives available to the company, which will be accomplished by the DLJ assignment. This endeavor is a further attempt by the board to optimize the value of the company for shareholders."

Lear Petroleum Corp.'s subsidiary, Producer's Gas Co. owns and operates natural gas transmission lines and processing plants in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas, Lear Petroleum Partners, L.P., in which Lear owns a 95 percent interest and acts as Special General Partner, explores for and produces crude oil and natural gas primarily in Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

Southdown declares common stock dividend

HOUSTON (SWN) The Board of Directors of Southdown, Inc. declared a dividend on its common stock.

A quarterly dividend of $.25 per share on the company's common stock will be paid on June 3, 1986, to stockholders of record on May 20, 1986.

Headquartered in Houston, Southdown engages through subsidiaries in oil and gas operations and in cement production and marketing.

FOCUS on BUSINESS

A new innovation in automobile marketing saves both seller and buyer time and money by offering auto auctions via television satellite.

Satellite auction

A revolutionary concept in automobile marketing becomes a reality on May 1 when licensed car dealers nationwide bid on the same cars at the same time via a communications satellite.

It will be the nation's first satellite video automobile auction, an event that will enable buyers to view, then bid on cars located in several locations without leaving the comfort of their office or home.

The space-age auction is a concept developed by Satellite Auto Auction Co. of Amarillo and will feature late model rental and lease cars being sold by leading automobile rental and lease companies.

The innovative satellite marketing concept was designed to benefit both buyers and sellers. According to the National Automobile Auction Association, three million cars were sold through some 135 U.S. auto auctions in 1985. In nearly every case, the seller had to spend the time and money to transport his vehicles to the auction. The buyer had to take time away from his office to go to the auction in order to increase his inventory.

When the auction begins, each sale vehicle will appear on the television monitor with an audio description of the car. If a buyer wishes to bid, he telephones the auction headquarters and his bid is relayed to the auctioneer.

Texas growth

Continued population growth in Texas, coupled with efforts to diversify the economy are creating unusual challenges for Southwestern Bell Telephone. The company added one telephone line almost every 35 seconds of every business day in 1985.

"Our state has dynamic telecommunications requirements," said James R. Adams, president of the company's Texas Division. The phone company added 216,000 telephone lines in the state last year, bringing total Southwestern Bell Telephone-served lines to 6.2 million.

Along with that kind of growth comes massive operating expenses. Total operating expenses, construction expenditures and tax payments last year for the phone company exceeded $4.5 billion in Texas. "That's more than $12 million a day, 365 days a year," he said.

In additions to the 216,000 new lines during 1985, Southwestern Bell Telephone in Texas installed 2.8 million miles of wire and cut into service nine new switching offices.

Texas optimism

Texas business executives are retaining some optimism about improving conditions within the next twelve months. Responding to a quarterly sampling conducted by the Texas Association of Business, just over 55 percent predict that sales at their own places of business will increase inside of twelve months. A clear plurality of those polled, some 48.1 percent, say that profits will increase by this time next year. Slightly over a quarter say that they expect to expand employment in that time period.

However, predictions for the second quarter of 1986 reflected an increasingly glum outlook. Half those polled expect static employment, while 37.1 percent predict additional layoffs and just 12.9 percent plan new hires during April, May or June. By a narrow plurality, those respondents expecting profit downturns (35.6 percent) exceeded those who believe profits will increase (34.9 percent) in the next three months. The remaining 29.5 percent see no change in their profitability. Sales are predicted to continue upward in the second quarter by 36.8 percent of the executives, while 33.9 percent expect flat sales and 29.3 percent actually anticipate sales declines.

Businesses responding to the survey represent a broad base of types of businesses within the state.

Steelmakers report losses

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The nation's largest steelmaker reported first-quarter losses of $249 million, while the No. 3 steelmaker said it lost $92 million.

Third-ranked Bethlehem also said Tuesday that nine top officers gave up newly won, lucrative contracts that had been criticized by employees who have been asked to make wage and benefit sacrifices.

In addition, Bethlehem Chief Executive Walter F. Williams said the company would sell its non-steel operations, and Chairman Donald H. Trautlein said he will retire May 31.

Bethlehem's quarterly loss, which came on sales of $1.2 billion, pushed its deficit above $2 billion for the past 17 quarters. Bethlehem lost $62.1 million on sales of $1.2 billion in 1985's first quarter.

U.S. Steel said its loss was brought about by a $351 million writedown of the value of petroleum reserves at its Marathon Oil Corp. subsidiary. Tumbling oil prices forced the recalculation of the book value of the oil.

The quarterly loss came on sales of $4.7 billion. U.S. Steel earned $185 million, or 63 per share, on sales of $5 billion in 1985's first quarter.

Bethlehem, meanwhile, agreed to sell its Kusan Inc. plastics and building products subsidiary to the units' managers for $163 million, giving the steelmaker a $50 million gain.

"We will also dispose of those steel-related businesses that have unfavorable business prospects," Williams said.

Bethlehem's financial problems make diversification outside steel impossible, "in fact, we will be strained to attain our primary goals in the steel business," he said.

Bethlehem's employment contracts, or golden parachutes, "were terminated at the request of these officers," said Bethlehem spokesman Art Roth.

The United Steelworkers union, negotiating a replacement for a contract that expires July 31, was offended after a proxy statement said the nine top officers last year were offered opulent benefits should they ever lose control of the company.

The same proxy showed that in 1985, while Trautlein asked 30,000 union members to agree to lower labor costs, he was awarded an 11 percent raise that boosted his cash compensation to $542,000.

The golden parachutes would have provided three years' pay in cash, one year's health and life insurance coverage and payment of all legal fees the officers might incur in fighting their ouster.

Roth said he did not know whether the officers terminated the contracts to ease relations with the union during negotiations. Williams told shareholders that improved labor relations was a main objective over the next few years.

Williams, who replaced Trautlein as chief executive earlier this year, said the company would lose money again in the second quarter, but not as much as in the first quarter.

IMPORT FEE

If imposed, an import fee would immediately begin to:

- increase domestic exploration and development, which this year could fall to less than half of recent levels that were only adequate to maintain relatively constant oil and gas reserves. A decline in drilling will result in an immediate decrease in reserves.
- maintain U.S. production rates that this year could fall by a million barrels per day due to the shutdown of uneconomic wells, less drilling and normal decline rates. Without the fee, national output in 1990 could slip to as low as 4.9 million barrels a day compared to the 8.9 million barrels a day averaged earlier this year.
- halt rising U.S. consumption that has already jumped 4 percent in the first quarter of 1986 and could be up by a million barrels a day for the year. Longer range estimates of rising consumption range from a 2 million barrel per day increase by 1990 projected by one oil company to a 3.66 to 5.5 million barrel per day rise over the same interval projected by the federal government.
- limit imports, which obviously would have to make up the production shortfall and consumption increase. Even the federal government, through a Library of Congress report, is aware that imports could reach 11.24 to 14.31 million barrels daily in 1990, or at least two to three times the 1985 rate.

If an import fee is not imposed the following will result:

- Producers, particularly small independents will suffer first. In addition, total major oil company after-tax income is projected to decline 77 percent from $7.9 billion in 1985 to $1.8 billion this year at a $15 per barrel oil price. Majors have already responded to the price collapse with drastic budget cuts that range to 50 percent. More cuts are expected.
- Service and manufacturing firms, including drilling, servicing and construction contractors will be the first bankruptcy victims of the price squeeze. Since 1982, this industry segment has shrunk yearly and a climate of extended lower oil prices will further devastate it and essentially destroy the infrastructure of the producing business — something that cannot be replaced overnight.
- Jobs by the hundred thousands have already been lost and will be permanently eliminated. Since last January, nearly one-half million people have been put out of work in the exploration, drilling and production sector and hundreds of thousands more are at risk. Additional layoffs are being announced almost daily. The Joint Economic Committee of the Congress estimates each capital-intensive job in exploration and production supports five jobs in other industries.
- U.S. banks will be severely damaged and more will fail as $60 billion in high-risk loans made to domestic companies become non-performing.

Short of an extension of the war in the Middle East, an import fee is the only solution that would immediately raise domestic oil prices and, more importantly, eliminate price uncertainty.

U.S. consumers are currently on a binge, lapping up 70-cent per gallon gasoline produced from $15 per barrel oil. But when the party's over and they begin to sober up, the possibility of $70 per barrel oil and its resulting $3.50 per gallon gasoline will make the hangover even more painful, the editors predict.

WHOLESALERS

Although Texaco might be able to absorb the impact of reorganization necessary as a result of the multi-billion judgment, many of the wholesalers and retailers dependent on the company will not be able to survive in any form, the brief claims. "Major refiner franchises are far more difficult to obtain today than in the past because of mergers, geographic withdrawals and full representation of all other brands in most markets," the jobbers' argument contends. NATW members in Texas and other oil producing states are the most vulnerable to the impact of the judgment, but the ripple effect will be felt by those who do no business in Texas and rely upon the national economy and all states' responsibility to respect both federal laws and the statutes of other states in governing transactions.

"America will again fall into the clutches of the foreign oil cartel as it did in the 1970s when we experienced a decade of oil embargoes, gasoline lines and soaring fuel prices," said Hefner. "This is why IPAA has been advocating a strong domestic oil industry through fair and equitable treatment of domestic producers who must compete the government-owned oil companies in Saudi Arabia, Libya, Great Britain, Mexico, Iran and many other countries.

He called for a new energy policy that would not change with each new administration or Congress.

Officials upbeat about sale of offshore leases

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Government offficals maintained an optimistic outlook towards today's scheduled sale of offshore oil leases, despite the grim economic conditions gripping the oil insudtry.

"It's not going to be the usual busy Central Gulf sale — we know that — but it's not going to be all that gloomy either," said Rogers Pearcy head of the Interor Department's mineral management office here.

Because of declining oil prices, the sale has drawn just a handful of bids, but Pearcy said it will be far from a disaster.

He said most of the major oil companies delivered sealed bids for the sale. In all, 71 companies offered 129 bids on 114 submerged tracts scattered across the central Gulf of Mexico, he said.

He estimated between $100 million and $200 million will be offered for five years of drilling rights on the tracts, which average about 5,000 acres of seabottom. The money goes directly to the federal treasury.

"There'll be quite a few one-bid tracts," he said.

"It's not a good sale, but not a bad sale," Pearcy said.

"We didn't know what to expect with all the news coming out of the oil business being bad."

This is the fourth areawide sale in the central Gulf, where all unleased acreage is up for bid. The first sale in 1983 brought high bids of $3.5 billion for 656 blocks.

Since then, drilling has all but stopped as the price of oil dropped 60 percent since December.

This sale was originally scheduled April 16, but was postponed while officials assessed industry interest.

As in the past, this sale is scheduled in the Superdome.

Computer corporation increases quarterly earnings by 80 percent

HOUSTON (AP) — Compaq Computer Corp. officials say the company's new portable computer helped boost its earnings for the first three months of the year by 80 percent to $8.3 million, from the $4.6 million posted during the same period last year.

Earnings per share for the period also rose from 17 cents per share to 27 cents a share, the company reported Monday.

"Our growth was good in the U.S. marketplace as well as internationally. Compaq's growth rate is particularly impressive when compared to overall market activity during this time," said Rod Canion, president and chief executive officer of the company, a leading maker of personal computers including its new Compaq Portable II.

Sales for the first three months were up 48 percent to $144 million, compared with $97 million in 1985.

"Our year-to-year quarterly income and sales increased substantially," said Rod Canion, president and chief executive officer of the company,

Americans in Kiev worried about disaster

Associated Press

A woman whose daughter is among a group of students visiting Kiev, 60 miles from a damaged nuclear power plant that has spread radioactive fallout to West Europe, says she had been apprehensive about the trip because of terrorism.

A Maine college professor in Kiev with a group of students said everything appeared normal in the Soviet city, but a Washington student there said that while he was safe and hoped to remain, "I'm getting worried."

The Soviet Union characterized the accident in Chernobyl as a disaster and reported two deaths and the evacuations of four settlements near Chernobyl, north of Kiev, a city of 2.4 million people. Fallout has reached Belgium.

"I'm not sure I believe it," said Loretta Stelter, whose 17-year-old daughter, Linda, is among eight Massapequa (N.Y.) High School students and 10 adults visiting the Soviet Union. "I'm not going to be happy until I speak to my daughter by phone."

Mrs. Stelter said she allowed he daughter to go on the 13-day trip despite anxiety about international terrorism following the U.S. raid on Libya.

"What we're afraid of is terrorism and what we get instead is a stinking nuclear accident," Mrs. Stelter said.

The group left April 23 and was to return Sunday. A second group — about 30 people from high schools in the Long Island, N.Y., communities of Garden City and Rosyln — was in Kiev on similar tours.

Relatives of those in the group were contacted Tuesday by Michael Holownia, New York district manager for Finnair, which helped organize the tours.

"The information we received via Finland was that both groups had arrived in Kiev and both groups were proceeding on their sightseeing itinerary...and there was no immediate danger," he said, adding that the tours would continue as scheduled.

Karen Black, a language and literature professor from Bates College in Lewiston, Maine, said today in a telephone interview on NBC's "Today" show that her group's Intourist guides had informed them of the accident.

The group's plans were changed at one point "because we were going to one place that I gather would have been more or less in the path or in the direction of the evacuation."

However, "out on the streets, everything is very normal. You would not know anything has happened at all," she said.

Dominick DiFranco, whose 17-year-old daughter, Linda, was among the Massapequa group, said he has heard there have been no problems for the visitors.

"One of the parents on the trip called home and said everything was fine and they're having a ball," he said. "They said they visited a school and it was 60 or 70 degrees. We are a little concerned not knowing exactly what's happening."

Also in Kiev, the Soviet Union's third largest city, was Michael Moss, a 20-year-old University of Washington junior who is studying Slavic languages.

Moss, one of 86 American and English students in the Soviet Union under the auspices of the London-based Progressive Tours, called his parents Tuesday to assure them he was not in any danger, said his mother, Juliette Moss of Orinda, Calif.

Professor says guide reported 300 casualties

NEW YORK (AP) — A college professor visiting Kiev with a group of students said today that her guides had reported 300 casualties in the nuclear plant accident and the city was relying on alternate water supplies.

However, there were no signs in Kiev of anything out of the ordinary, said Karen Black, a professor of language and literature at Bates College in Lewiston, Maine.

Interviewed by telephone on NBC-TV's "Today" show, Ms. Black said her group of 16 students had learned Tuesday from its Intourist guides of the accident in Chernobyl, 60 miles to the north.

"They told us there had been a nuclear power plant accident. They told us where it was and that their information indicated something like 300 casualties," she said.

"They said that the area was being evacuated, that Kiev itself was in no danger and the events of our first day here were moved around slightly because we were going to one place that I gather would have been more or less in the path or in the direction of the evacuation. So we did something else instead."

Later, she said, "we were given the information that the city water supply, which, as you know, is right next to where the accident was, the reservoir, has been now cut off to the city and they are using alternate water supplies. Once again, that's from Intourist information and, at the moment, I see no reason to doubt it."

On the streets of the city, "everything is very normal. You would not know anything has happened at all. There is some knowledge of this incident among the general population.... We've been in touch with the Embassy, but at the moment we're all fine."

She said her group would go on to Armenia, as scheduled, on Thursday. The students were "concerned but, certainly, nobody's panicky."

"I think we'll all be sort of glad to get out of the area tomorrow, which is a pity because it's a very nice city," said Ms. Black.

World has many nuclear power plants

Associated Press

From Argentina to Yugoslavia and from Taiwan to South Africa, nuclear reactors are a growing energy option around the world, despite public worries which have curtailed atomic plant development in a few nations.

The United States has more reactors than any other country, the 100th licensed last month at Perry, Ohio. But only about 15 percent of U.S. power comes from nuclear facilities, while France relies on them for nearly two-thirds of its electricity.

The International Atomic Energy Agency counted 374 reactors in licensed use worldwide at the end of 1985 — a year in which 32 reactors, including eight in the United States, were connected to power grids.

The Vienna-based United Nations agency calculated that the reactors supplied about one-sixth of the world's energy.

The Soviet Union, whose giant Chernobyl plant near Kiev was the site of an accident that has spread radiation through the atmosphere to Scandinavia, gets about 10 percent of its power from nuclear plants, Western diplomats estimate.

In all, 26 countries on five continents have commercial nuclear power plants, the IAEA said.

Anti-nuclear sentiments in the United States, heightened by the reactor accident in 1979 at the Three Mile Island power station in Pennsylvania, have combined with the costly, drawn-out U.S. licensing process to slow plant development. No new plants have been ordered in a period when other nations have expanded their nuclear commitment.

Many other countries have central decision-making bodies with little public involvement. France, with central decision-making and a nationwide utility that uses a standard reactor design, got 64.8 percent of its electricity from nuclear plants in 1985, the IAEA said.

Taiwan got 59 percent from reactors, Belgium 57.8 percent, Sweden 42.3 percent, Switzerland 39.8 percent, Bulgaria 31.6 percent, West Germany 31.2 percent and Japan 25 percent, the agency said.

Environmentalists have voiced worries about reactors' safety, concerns that may intensify in the wake of the Soviet accident. Sweden and Denmark quickly called on the Soviet Union to explain what happened at the stricken plant, Swedish Energy Minister Birgitta Dahl saying Monday, "We must demand higher safety standards in the Soviet Union."

Although Sweden is among the nuclear leaders, it has chosen to drop out. In a 1980 referendum, Swedes voted to phase out their 12 reactors early in the next century. Austrians voted in 1978 not to turn on their only reactor, and the Danish Parliament last year shelved plans to build nuclear plants.

President Corazon Aquino of the Philippines has announced plans to scuttle operations of that nation's only nuclear plant.

In Britain, a Gallup poll last month showed declining support for what the British government calls "the nuclear opportunity." Only 24 percent of respondents favored more nuclear plants, down from 39 percent a decade ago.

Another deterrent to the expansion of commercial nuclear power has been concern about nuclear weapons proliferation.

Israel can't get anyone to sell it a reactor. Israel bombed Iraq's reactor in 1981 before it was completed, destroying what Jerusalem said could have become a source of nuclear weapons to be used against Israel.

The European Common Market registered 27 percent nuclear power in 1985 and projects 40 percent by 1995. "The main objective of this strategy is to reduce the dependence of Europe on external energy supplies," says a Common Market study.

The Soviet Union has been among the nations planning substantial expansions of their nuclear programs.

The strategic advantage of nuclear power is that uranium to fuel the reactors is imported from diverse sources and not from the same countries supplying oil and natural gas.

France and Britain have commercial nuclear reprocessing plants — an option the United States declined to take up in the late 1970s, partly out of concern that the plutonium output from such plants could be hijacked for nuclear weapons.

The United States also has not gone into plutonium-using fast breeder reactors on a scale comparable to Europe. Such plants can produce much more of the energy potential in nuclear fission than current reactors.

Foreign ministers urge Soviet Union to shut down reactors

VENICE, Italy (AP) — West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher today urged the Soviet Union to shut down all nuclear power stations similar to its crippled Chernobyl reactor.

Genscher made the statement at the end of a two-day meeting of foreign and defense ministers of the seven-nation Western European Union.

The ministers assailed the Soviet Union for failing to warn its neighbors about the disaster at the nuclear plant in the Ukraine, which sent a cloud of radioactive dust over Europe.

"We expressed deep concern at the Soviets' failure of giving early warning or intimation — a serious lapse in European good-neighborliness," British Foreign Secretary Sir Geoffrey Howe told reporters.

"The Soviet Union has an obligation and duty to the international community to give the fullest possible explanation of what happened and why," he said.

Genscher, who raised the issue at the closing session on St. Giorgio Island on the Grand Canal, said the Soviets should disclose the location of similar nuclear plants and shut them down immediately until the cause of the Chernobyl accident is known.

Genscher's statement was also issued in Bonn, the West German capital.

In the statement, he asked the Soviets to inform other nations about the cause of the nuclear plant disaster, and to allow an inspection at the site by the Vienna-based International Atomic Energy Agency.

"I consider it necessary that all interested states be comprehensively informed of the causes of the catastrophe," Genscher said in the statement. "The International Atomic Energy Agency should have the right to inform itself at the scene over the cause and effect (of the accident)," he said. "Expert teams should be informed at the site as soon as posible."

The West German foreign minister said it was necessary "for the Soviet Union to inform (others) where nuclear plants of the same type are located. Until the causes of the catastrophe are known, the nuclear plants of the same type should be taken out of service."

INVESTOR'S GUIDE

Refinancing home loan might save you money if rates remain low

By BILL DOYLE

Q. I have a 15-year, 13.25 percent mortgage on my home. I feel it would be to my advantage to shop around for the lowest rate on a home equity loan and pay off my present mortgage. If I obtain a 10 percent home equity loan, wouldn't I come out ahead?

Doyle

A. Certainly, if you get a home equity loan at that rate or lower and IF the interest stays low over the life of the loan. That's a mighty big "if." Most such loans have floating rates that rise and fall with interest rates in the marketplace. If rates go up in the future, you'll pay higher interest. Also, many lenders offer home equity loans with low fixed interest for initial periods, such as three or six months. After that, the rates float — usually higher.

Get complete details of all home equity loans before you sign up. Especially, check out how the interest rate will be calculated. After the initial period, banks, savings and loan associations and other lenders usually set the rate on such loans a few percentage points above the prevailing prime rate or the six-month Treasury bill rate.

Besides savings interest in future years, another advantage of the plan you are considering could be a big savings right off the bat.

Many home equity loans can be obtained without any "up front" charge. And, if there is no prepayment penalty on your present mortgage, you could swing the entire home refinancing, without any costs. In most home refinancing deals, the costs run into thousands of dollars.

There's a rough rule of thumb that it pays to refinance a home when you can obtain a new mortgage with an interest rate at least two percentage points below the rate on your present mortgage and if you plan to continue living in the home for at least two more years.

In such a refinancing, however, you have to measure your savings in mortgage interest against the refinancing costs, which can include various fees and "points" on the new mortgage.

* * *

Q. In regards to buying or selling a home, what are points and what do they do? Are points based on the selling price, the mortgage amount, or what? Who pays the points, the buyer or the seller?

A. A point is 1 percent of a mortgage.

Let's say you buy a $75,000 house and obtain a $50,000 mortgage, on which you are charged two points. Each point in this example is $500. So, the mortgage lender provides $49,000. But you pay interest on the full $50,000.

Because you pay interest on the mortgage's face amount but have the use of less money, points increase your true interest cost. In this example, if the mortgage rate is 10 percent, your interest cost is 10.2 percent.

In a nutshell, points are used by lenders to collect higher interest. The more points charged, the higher your interest cost — the "annual percentage rate" — APR, for short. Always make sure you know the APR before doing any borrowing. When points are charged, they usually are paid by the home buyer. In some cases, they are paid by the seller. When that happens, the home's selling price might be raised to offset the cost of the points. But, if the seller is anxious to unload, he or she might swallow hard and absorb the points.

BUSINESS MIRROR

America developing severe labor shortage

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A labor shortage is developing.

While that in itself is a startling realization, it becomes more so when contrasted with doleful forecasts two decades ago that some workers might be forced to share a declining number of jobs.

Rather than two people sharing one job, however, the prospect now is that two jobs might be forced to compete for one prospective employee.

Already, companies that rely heavily on labor are experiencing problems. Fast-food outlets are advertising heavily for workers, and some suburban businesses are forced to bus employees from inner city areas.

Additional implications are likely to develop, including opportunities for retirees to earn extra money, and a reduction in the poverty rate because of the abundance of unskilled jobs.

The unusual situation — not unseen but not fully appreciated until recent months — has its origins in a birth rate that has plunged from more than 3.5 percent in the late 1950s to under 2 percent in the early 1980s.

Since 1980 the number of Americans 16 years and over has risen at a rate of only 1.3 percent a year, compared with 2 percent a decade earlier. And the decline is expected to continue to just under 1 percent later in this decade.

While the unusual situation wasn't unforeseen, the impact wasn't fully appreciated until recently.

Analyzing the impact, Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. explains that up to now there has been slack in labor markets.

Further consequences are likely.

— While younger workers are likely to be the most profoundly affected, retirees are likely to be hired in growing numbers for a variety of low-skill service jobs.

— Automation in retail outlets could be spurred. Checkout counters requiring no personnel are considered a possibility for supermarkets.

— In Morgan's view, described in its Morgan Economic Quarterly, immigration legislation could be affected. "Special attention will need to be given to the fact that the economy will have a ready capacity to absorb workers — indeed, will need supplementary workers," it says.

— With a surplus of jobs requiring little skill, legislators might be more inclined to insist on work for welfare recipients.

— The poverty level, which some studies suggest is rising, might be reduced.

There are negatives in the situation. There is, for example, the likelihood of pressure on consumer prices, and a severe challenge to the military and to companies with high-labor products.

But overall, the development indicates greater opportunities, especially for those who need them most.

seasonal menu BLOOMS for spring

Danish cheeses, including varieties of Creamy Havarti, mild Fontina, and Blue Cheese are the perfect antecedent to a festive springtime dinner.

Festive occasions pop up in springtime as naturally as daffodils. Whether it's a family celebration, special event, or a spring gala, here's a menu that is colorful, takes advantage of seasonal foods and offers do-ahead convenience.

Start with an assortment of Danish cheeses like Creamy Havarti,or a flavored version such as dill, herb and spice, or mustard seed. Add a mild Fontina cheese and a wedge of blue. Serve them with an assortment of crackers and fruit, and let guests help themselves.

Although California ripe pitted olives, right off the shelf, make handy party food, here's a new way to serve them. Stuff colossal whole pitted California ripe olives with curried cream cheese and a tuna salad spiked with cilantro (fresh coriander). The filling can be made a day ahead and the olives even stuffed, just be sure to cover and refrigerate.

Roast turkey is an economical and appropriate choice for the main dish. Roasting it unstuffed shortens the cooking time and brushing it with a delicate Tarragon Sauce adds flavor and produces juicier meat. Make the sauce while the bird roasts, and brush it on the turkey during the last 45 minutes of roasting. Corn starch as a thickener for the sauce lets the true tarragon flavor come through.

Avid asparagus fans anxiously await the early May debut of delicious Michigan asparagus. The crop continues through mid-June providing asparagus lovers with six weeks of superb enjoyment. Blanch the fresh spears and toss with California ripe olive slices, crumbled Danish Blue Cheese and a vinegar and corn oil dressing.

For dessert, spring strawberries and kiwi fruit star in a custard tart. The custard base is smooth as a spring breeze and the fruit sparkles under a corn starch thickened translucent glaze. Happy Spring!

Java Olives

4 ounces cream cheese
1/2 teaspoon curry powder, or to taste
1-1/2 to 2 tablespoons finely chopped chutney
48 whole pitted colossal California ripe olives

Blend together cream cheese and curry powder. Add chutney and mix until well blended. Spoon mixture into a pastry bag fitted with a star tip. Slice off bottom of olives so they will stand. Pipe filling into center of olives. Makes 4 dozen.

Olives Nelson

1 can (7 oz.) tuna, drained, finely flaked
6 tablespoons real mayonnaise
1 small green onion, finely chopped
1 tablespoon chopped fresh cilantro
3/4 teaspoon hot red chili pepper flakes
3/4 teaspoon lemon juice
Pepper to taste
48 whole pitted colossal California ripe olives

Mix tuna with mayonnaise, green onion, cilantro, chili pepper flakes, lemon juice and pepper. Slice off bottom of olives so they will stand. If desired, make a deep X-cut from top of olive almost to bottom. Stuff each olive with tuna mixture. Makes about 4 dozen.

Tarragon Sauce For Turkey

2/3 cup butter or margarine
1 tablespoon chopped fresh tarragon (or 1 teaspoon dried tarragon)
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 cups turkey or chicken broth
1/4 cup corn starch
1/2 cup dry white wine or broth

In small saucepan, melt butter or margarine over low heat. Stir in tarragon, salt and pepper. Remove turkey from oven 45 minutes before projected done time. Brush well with sauce. Return to oven and continue roasting, brushing frequently with sauce, 45 minutes or until turkey tests done. Remove from pan. Pour pan drippings from roasting pan into large measuring cup. Let set until fat rises to top and then spoon fat off. Add broth to juices to measure 4 cups. Return to roasting pan and bring to simmer over low heat, stirring to incorporate brown bits from bottom of pan. Stir together corn starch and wine until smooth. Stir into juices in roasting pan. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Makes about 4 cups.

Asparagus Tips

CALORIE COUNTER'S FRIEND – In addition to its delicate, delicious flavor, asparagus is an excellent low-calorie vegetable. One cup of fresh large green spears, boiled and drained, has just 36 calories.

NUTRITION BONUS – Asparagus, whether fresh, frozen or canned, provides bonus nutrients. It is an excellent source of vitamins A and C. It is also a good source for the minerals potassium and phosphorus and contains some iron. It's very low in sodium, which makes it an ideal vegetable for those on a low-sodium diet.

MORE FOR YOUR MONEY – Inch for inch and pound for pound, you get lots for your money with Michigan asparagus. It's picked by hand and snapped off above the ground. Nearly all of what you buy, you cook and eat. Trim away only about 1/4-inch of the stem end of each spear before cooking.

For additional information on asparagus, please write: Michigan Asparagus Advisory Board, P.O. Box 30285, Lansing, MI 48909.

Asparagus With Tangy Sauce

1-1/2 pounds fresh asparagus spears or 2 packages (10 oz. each) frozen asparagus spears
1/2 cup dairy sour cream
1/2 cup real mayonnaise
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon prepared mustard

Cook asparagus in boiling water until tender; drain. Place in serving dish. While cooking asparagus, combine remaining ingredients in small saucepan. Heat over low heat, stirring frequently, until thoroughly heated. Pour over hot asparagus or serve as a sauce in a dish. Garnish with chopped pimento if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Asparagus & Olives Vinaigrette With Danish Blue Cheese

2 pounds fresh Michigan asparagus, trimmed
2/3 cup thinly sliced California ripe olives
1/2 cup corn oil
1/2 cup white wine vinegar
1/2 cup (2 oz.) Danish Blue Cheese, crumbled
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper

In large skillet in small amount of boiling water, cook asparagus 5 minutes or until tender-crisp. Drain. Arrange asparagus and olives in shallow dish. Into a small jar with tight fitting lid, add corn oil, vinegar, cheese, salt and pepper. Cover; shake well. Pour over asparagus. Cover; refrigerate several hours or overnight. Just before serving, remove from marinade. If desired, serve on lettuce-lined plates. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Strawberry-Kiwi Custard Tart

1/4 cup sugar
2 tablespoons corn starch
1/16 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Tart Shell (recipe follows)
1 pint strawberries, hulled, halved
2 kiwis, peeled, sliced
Strawberry Glaze (recipe follows)

In 1-quart saucepan, stir together sugar, corn starch and salt. Gradually stir in milk until smooth. Stir in egg yolk. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium-low heat and boil 1 minute. Remove from heat; stir in vanilla. Turn into small bowl. Cover surface with waxed paper or plastic wrap. Refrigerate about 1 hour or until cool. Spread in bottom of tart shell. Refrigerate 1 hour. Arrange strawberries and kiwis on filling. Spoon Strawberry Glaze evenly over fruit. Refrigerate at least 1 hour or until ready to serve. Makes 8 servings.

Tart Shell: In medium bowl, stir together 1 cup unsifted flour, 1 tablespoon sugar and 1/8 teaspoon salt. With pastry blender or two knives, cut in 1/3 cup butter or margarine until coarse crumbs form. In small bowl, stir together 1 egg yolk and 3 tablespoons ice water. With a fork, stir into flour mixture until well mixed. With hands, form into ball. On lightly floured surface, roll out pastry to 12-inch circle. Place in 9 x 1-inch tart pan with removable bottom. Press pastry to fill bottom and sides of pan. Pierce bottom with fork. Line with waxed paper. Fill with dried beans or rice. Bake in 400°F oven 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove beans or rice and waxed paper. Return to oven and bake 5 minutes longer. Cool on wire rack. Makes 1 (9-inch) tart shell.

Strawberry Glaze: In small saucepan, stir together 1 teaspoon corn starch and 1 tablespoon sugar. Gradually stir in 1/4 cup water until smooth. Stir in 2 tablespoons crushed fresh strawberries (from 1 pint fresh strawberries, halved). Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Strain. Cool. Makes about 1/4 cup.

Turkey

If turkey is frozen, thaw, following time and directions given. Remove thawed turkey from plastic wrap and neck and giblets from body cavities and prepare turkey broth. Place turkey breast-side up on rack in shallow open roasting pan. Place a "tent" of foil loosely over turkey to prevent over-browning. Foil may be removed during the last 45 minutes for a final browning.

Approximate Roasting Time for Unstuffed Turkey in 325°F Oven.

Weight	Time
8 to 12 lbs.	3 to 4 hours
12 to 16 lbs.	3-1/2 to 4-1/2 hours
16 to 20 lbs.	4 to 5 hours
20 to 24 lbs.	4-1/2 to 5-1/2 hours

Turkey is done when meat thermometer inserted into the thickest part of thigh, next to body, registers 180°F to 185°F. Thermometer should not touch bone. For easier carving, let turkey stand at room temperature for 20 to 30 minutes.

DEAR ABBY

Blood test may help solve paternity puzzle

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a beautiful 1-year-old baby girl and I am not sure who her father is. There are only two possibilities of paternity. One I am engaged to. He is willing to cooperate in finding out who my daughter's father is. The other man is around, and says he will cooperate only if it is absolutely necessary, for he is now married.

I have heard that there is a blood test that can positively determine paternity. If so, please tell me where these men would have to go to take this test, who else would have to participate, and how much it costs. — WAITING TO HEAR

DEAR WAITING: According to the Long Beach (Calif.) Memorial Hospital (Paternity Lab), the test is called HLA, and it involves the mother, the possible fathers and the child. It must be ordered by a physician, and the approximate cost is $150.

It is 99.9 percent accurate. (No test claims to be 100 percent accurate, so this comes closest.)

Have your fiance take the test. If he is found to be the child's father, the other man is off the hook. However, if your fiance is not the father, that means the other man is, in which case he may want to take the test because of the legal implications.

DEAR ABBY: You often publish complaints from folks who are miffed because their gifts were not appropriately acknowledged. But you've never given equal space to the other side.

My shelves and closets are overflowing with an accumulation of neckties, watches, cuff links, silly T-shirts I'll never wear, books I'll never read and gadgets I'll never use. And if I get one more pewter ashtray, I'm going to give it to my dog and ask him to bury it. One day some archeologist will probably dig it up and write a dissertation on the rituals and artifacts of primitive homo yuppians.

A cousin of mine and I have an ideal arrangement. Every year he sends me two $20 bills for Christmas, and I send him the same. Then we both write a note saying, "Thank you for the most thoughtful gift I have ever received. I'll never have to wash it, repair it, feed it, wind it or frame it." Sign me ... ENOUGH ALREADY

DEAR ENOUGH: Nice arrangement you have with your cousin, but there is no excuse for failing to acknowledge a gift — however useless. How about giving those white elephants away? One man's leftovers are another man's banquet.

DEAR ABBY: I just finished reading the letter from the woman who was helping her mother-in-law clean out her attic when they came across some souvenirs her father-in-law (now deceased) had brought home from World War II. One was a hand grenade — still intact.

She asked if it would be safe to keep around since after 40 years it had not exploded. You were right to tell her to call the police immediately and have the bomb squad come and remove it.

We live on some land that was formerly a military training center during World War II. This area was used for target practice. Not long ago, three children were playing behind their home when they found an unexploded shell. Not recognizing its danger, they used the sharp point for digging. The shell exploded, killing two children and seriously wounding the third.

The military now inspects this area regularly, and they keep finding live ammunition. We have learned that due to erosion and soil movement, shells and grenades surface even after the most careful search. We've also learned that unexploded shells are not less dangerous as the years pass, but more dangerous because they can explode with changes in atmospheric pressure, temperature or subtle movement.

I pray that your reader follows your advice. Old munitions are not safe anywhere. Just because they haven't exploded yet doesn't mean they never will. — PATRICIA A. SAUNDERS, SAN DIEGO

Restaurants grow own herbs, vegetables

Los Angeles Times-
Washington Post News Service

Whereas packaged foods continue to rely on increasing amounts of biochemical ingredients, the restaurant industry is being enticed to experiment with growing its own herbs and vegetables alongside the cutting board.

A Chicago-based company has made it possible to grow the likes of parsley, basil and oregano right in the kitchen with the Green Acre Hydroponic system, which grows plants in a nutrient solution without soil.

Those restaurateurs concerned about only the freshest ingredients can simply attach the self-contained hydroponic unit into the building's water supply and then plug it into the nearest socket.

The recently available unit has the capability of growing 540 plants at one time, according to Restaurant & Institutions magazine. Granted, at that rate the herbs or vegetables being produced within the system would have to be on the small side because the unit is rather compact.

It measures 6 feet high, 2 feet wide and 5 feet long. But the sight of only 100 hearty plants in today's industrial restaurant kitchen is bound to lift the spirits of even the most curmudgeonly chef.

A bright sunny window in the kitchen is not a requirement because Green Acre is equipped with its own lighting and is capable of adjusting the amount of exposure the plants receive throughout the day, its manufacturer, Hydroponic Technologies, says.

Another benefit is that there is a minimal amount of maintenance needed to operate the unit, except for seeding the plants and then harvesting before use.

The magazine reported that an herb could be plucked from the system and be in the pesto sauce within five seconds.

WHAT'S COOKING

Chef came to Midland from Rome

By ELIZABETH EDWIN
Lifestyle Writer

The saying goes, "When in Rome, do as the Romans do." But since Rome is a little too far away for most of us, Claudio Brugalossi has brought what the Romans do to Midland, at least in the culinary arts.

Brugalossi is the owner and chef of Claudio's Ristorante in Plaza Center and his knowledge of Italian cuisine started when he was 14 years old working in his family's restaurant in Rome, La Sans Souci. By working with his mother and father, Brugalossi learned every aspect of the restaurant business from the ground up, but he spent most of his time in the kitchen learning the family recipes.

Brugalossi's reason for bringing his family secrets to the Midland were two-fold: his wife and a chance at a partnership in a restaurant.

His wife Sherry is from Chicago and was on vacation in Rome. While she was there she dined at La Sans Souci, liked the food and service and came back many times. There she met Brugalossi and they were married on a beach in Florida.

Then Brugalossi had the opportunity to come to Midland as a partner in the restaurant Bella Roma. He then became the sole owner of Claudio's where Mrs. Brugalossi is hostess.

Brugalossi studied at various restaurants in the United States and Europe to learn his craft. He said his mentor is Chef Marcello who he studied with in Italy and has worked with in the United States.

For his first cooking assignment, Brugalossi said, "He handed me a bag of potatoes to peel and a bag of onions to cut." And the result of his first endeavor, "My hands were all cut up. I had cuts everywhere."

Obviously, Brugalossi has come a long way from peeling a bag of potatoes. Marcello and Brugalossi won second overall in Nestle's Special International Cooking Festival competing against entries from 18 countries.

One of the most important things he learned from Marcello was to always use top quality ingredients.

"You can be the best cook in the world, but if you do not use the best ingredient then the food will not be the best it can be," Brugalossi said.

To ensure to quality of his own restaurant, Brugalossi spends 12 to 13 hours a day in the restaurant overseeing everything from the buying and checking of orders to preparing menu items along with his assistant chef, Lee Florence. He orders Shiitake and Enoki mushrooms from California and grows many of his own spices.

"I would rather enhance to flavor of the food being prepared than to cover it up with gravy or sauce," Brugalossi said.

And that is exactly how Brugalossi prepares the food at Claudio's.

"I don't try to compromise too much toward American taste, then it would not be Italian. Our food is very light, not with heavy tomato sauces," Brugalossi said. "Many of our customers go to Italy and like the food when they are there. Why should I do what is already being done here with heavy sauces? Mine is light."

Kent Porter/Reporter-Telegram

Claudio Brugalossi

Brugalossi learned to speak English when he was 21 years old. He also speaks his native tongue and learned to speak French from working in a Paris restaurant during the summer breaks from school. He also learned the Spanish language "out of necessity" while living in the United States.

For the future, Brugalossi simply wants to make his restaurant a success and is continually making improvements to achieve it. The restaurant boasts a fine menu of Italian food and an extensive wine list.

Brugalossi has even increased his menu to include 12 different salads because a large percentage of his lunch consists of women and "many of them like to watch their weight or are on diets."

There are also plans to remodel a room for private parties that will have a fountain in the center and a piano bar. It will be called the La Fontana Room at Claudio's.

After spending the day preparing food, Brugalossi doesn't like to cook at home but says he is often persuaded by his wife to do so. Many of his recipes are his own special concoctions.

He chose to share a specialty he and Florence created called Red Snapper "La Perouse," named so because Brugalossi was born in Perugia, Italy, — the heart of Italy, Brugalossi pointed out.

RED SNAPPER "LA PEROUSE"
4 red snapper fillets
4 romaine lettuce leaves
10 ounces dry white wine
2 carrots
2 leeks
2 celery stalks (tender)
6 ounces clam juice
1 cup whipping cream
salt and white pepper to taste

Sauce: Prepare 2 carrots, 2 inside stalks of celery and the white part of 2 leeks julienne (very finely chopped).

In a heavy-bottomed saucepan add 1 cup of whipping cream, 6 ounces of clam juice, and 6 ounces of white wine. Over a medium heat reduce to ⅓ the original quantity. When mixture is almost reduced add julienne vegetables and cook for about 30 seconds. (Do not allow vegetables to overcook; they should remain crispy.)

Prepare the sauce prior to the fillets and set aside.

Fillets: Lightly flour red snapper fillets and saute in butter allowing to cook about 2 minutes on each side or until golden brown. Remove the grease from the pan and sprinkle with about 4 ounces of white wine and let wine reduce. Remove fillets from pan and set aside.

Place a teaspoon of baking soda in a pot of boiling water and blanch lettuce leaves for 30 seconds. Blot leaves dry and wrap fillets in leaves. Place on plate and pour sauce over fillets.

Salt and white pepper to taste. Serves 4.

Cookbook gives recipes for gourmet grapefruit

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) — "It's the Top Florida Grapefruit Diet" is the brainchild of two food service professionals who lead healthy, active lives.

Blake Swihart, a graduate of the Culinary Institute of America, joined registered dietician and New York food publicist Deborah Faul to dream up a diet for the 1980s.

They sought to overcome what they saw as the biggest problem with existing diets — boring, repetitive food choices that virtually assured people would give up before reaching their goals.

A booklet showing just how much variety the two brought to grapefruit can be obtained free by writing It's the Tops Florida Grapefruit Diet, Box C, Lakeland, Fla. 33802.

PESTO PISA
2 Florida grapefruits
1 cup fresh basil leaves
¼ cup Florida grapefruit juice
1 teaspoon olive oil
⅛ clove garlic
¼ teaspoon salt
1 medium size red bell pepper, julienned
Curly leaf lettuce
4 teaspoon roasted pine nuts

Cut each grapefruit in half. Remove sections and place into a bowl. Remove all membrane from grapefruit shells. Turn shells upside down to drain.

In blender container, combine basil leaves, grapefruit juice, oil, garlic and salt. Process until smooth. Pour over grapefruit. Toss to coat and stir in red pepper. Cover and chill until serving time.

To serve, line grapefruit shells with lettuce leaves. Spoon grapefruit mixture into shells. Sprinkle each serving with toasted pine nuts. Makes 4 servings.

THE BUTCHER

Pastrami home-cured

By MERLE ELLIS

Pushed into a corner, I would have to confess that the best pastrami that I have ever tasted was at the Carnegie Deli on 7th Avenue, just off Columbus Circle in New York. I hate to admit that. New Yorkers sometimes tend to be so pompous. Many of them think that nothing of any superlative worth exists west of New Jersey. When it comes to pastrami, they may be right.

In many markets and delicatessens around the country, I find "pastrami" made from all manner of meat cuts. Some I've seen is made from the brisket of beef, some from the "bottom round" or "eye-of-round." There is even pastrami, some say, made from turkey meat. Can you believe that? Nobody from New York would call that pastrami.

The cut of meat that is called for in the classic, traditional, real, honest-to-New York Deli-delicious pastrami is a part of the flank of the beef animal. Not that part of the flank that is called flank steak. That is a thin, oblong muscle that treated right is perfect for "London Broil" and stir fry dishes, but not for pastrami.

THE PART of the flank used for pastrami might best be described as the tail of the T-bone. It's the belly portion of the beef carcass, below the short loin, sometimes left on the T-bone and Porterhouse steaks when they are cut. Maybe that's why we so seldom see the flank used for pastrami. Butchers can make more money selling it at steak prices.

The idea of making my own pastrami had honestly not occurred to me until several months ago when a friend, Joyce Goldstein, who is chef and owner of the justly popular "Square One" restaurant in San Francisco, called and said: "I'd like to offer a really good New York-style pastrami at the restaurant; do you have a recipe I could experiment with?" At the time, I didn't have, but times change. Recently, I had the privilege of spending some time with one of the most highly respected food technologists in the country, Dr. A. Wade Brant, Emeritus Food Technologist, University of California, Davis, and author of "The Sausage Maker's Handbook." I asked Dr. Brant if he had a recipe for home-cured pastrami. "I think I might be able to help you out," he said. A few days later I received the following:

HOME-CURED PASTRAMI
1 4½ to 5 lb. slab of beef flank
⅓ cup salt
2 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon sodium nitrate (see note)
1 teaspoon ground ginger
1 tablespoon coriander seeds
¼ cup peppercorns, cracked
4-5 cloves garlic, minced

Trim the meat of any excessive outside fat, but don't trim the fat all away. Leave at least a ¼-inch covering. Pat the meat dry with a clean cloth or paper towel.

Combine salt, sugar, sodium nitrate and ginger in a mixing bowl. Put the coriander seeds and peppercorns in a heavy plastic bag (Ziploc bags work well) and crush them using a mallet or the bottom of a heavy skillet. Add to the other ingredients in the bowl. Add the minced garlic, blend all together thoroughly.

Rub the mixed ingredients well into the meat on all sides. Put the meat into a heavy plastic bag and seal. Place the bag in a large tray and refrigerate. Turn the bag over once a day. Let the meat cure for eight days.

Remove the meat from the bag, and drain off the liquid. Save the solid seasonings and discard the liquid. Pat the seasonings back into the meat. Using a large needle, run a string through the meat at two corners and tie the ends of each string together to form two loops. Hang the meat in a cool, dry drafty place. An electric fan can be used to circulate the air. Let the meat dry for 24 hours. It's important that the surface of the meat be well-dried to receive the smoke properly.

Hang the meat in a smoker and smoke for 3 to 3-½ hours at 150-160 degrees.

Let cool and refrigerate.

To serve, slice as thinly as possible across the grain of the meat.

Note: Sodium nitrate or "Saltpeter:" It's an interesting, if somewhat sad commentary on our times that saltpeter (sodium or potassium nitrate), once available in any drugstore in the country, is now a little hard to find. Any druggist can and probably will order it for you but few are apt to have it on hand. "I don't like to carry it," my local druggist told me. "It's one of the things people use to make explosives."

A more modern product that works well, if not better, than saltpeter is "Complete Cure with Sugar" made by Heller and Co. Simply substitute 1 cup (8 oz.) "Complete Cure" for the salt, sugar and sodium nitrate in the above recipe and adjust the curing time according to the thickness of the meat - one day in the cure for each ¼ inch of thickness.

If you have any problem finding B. Heller's "Complete Cure with Sugar" in your local butcher's supply store, I'll be happy to send you some of mine. For a 1 lb. bag, send $1.50 plus $1.00 for postage and handling. Please send check or money order to Butcher Supplies, P.O. Box 907, Tiburon, CA 94920.

Snails slither overseas as escargots enter America

NEW YORK (UPI) — Escargots, those marvelous morsels of gastronomy long cherished by the French, have finally inched their way to America.

Like many other French classics, escargots arrived in Gaul with Caesar's legions. The ancient Romans had a passion for exotic delicacies. The French, knowing a good thing when they tasted one, added escargots to their own repertoire.

Escargots are the land-based cousins of other culinary winners — clams and oysters. Of the two basic types, the Helix (European land snail) is the gastronome's choice. It is imported in tins from France.

CASSOLETTES D'ESCARGOTS
½ stick butter
2 cloves garlic, chopped
2 shallots, minced
2 tbsp. chopped parsley
1 pound button mushrooms, trimmed
36 large Helix escargots, drained
1 cup Alsace Riesling
1 cup heavy cream
1 tbsp. flour
Salt and pepper to taste
Dash of nutmeg
6 slices toasted French baquette

In large saucepan, heat butter and saute garlic, shallots, parsley and mushrooms for 5 minutes. Stir in escargots and wine. Cover and simmer for 15 minutes.

Mix cream and flour until smooth, pour into saucepan and stir until thickened. Simmer, stirring occasionally, for 10 minutes. Season to taste with salt, pepper and nutmeg.

Meat loaf 'exquisite'

By ROSE DOSTI
Los Angeles Times-
Washington Post News Service

A great meat loaf comes from 72 Market Street, a restaurant in Venice, Calif. We happen to have the recipe for this exquisite meat loaf, which, says chef Leonard Schwartz, was a result of years of experience, not just experiment. The loaf is served with spinach and mashed potatoes.

MEAT LOAF 72 MARKET STREET
¾ cup minced green onion
½ cup minced celery
½ cup minced carrot
¼ cup minced green pepper
¼ cup minced sweet red pepper
2 teaspoons minced garlic
3 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 teaspoon black pepper
½ teaspoon white pepper
½ teaspoon ground cumin
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
½ cup half and half
½ cup catsup
1½ pounds lean ground beef
½ pound lean ground pork
3 eggs, beaten
Sauce (recipe follows)

Saute onion, green onion, celery, carrot, green pepper, red pepper and garlic in butter until vegetables are soft and liquid is absorbed. Cool and reserve.

Combine salt, cayenne, black pepper, white pepper, cumin and nutmeg and add to vegetable mix ture. Stir in half and half, catsup, beef, pork, eggs and bread crumbs. Mix well.

Form into loaf and place on greased baking sheet or 9- by 5-inch loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees 45 to 50 minutes. Let stand 10 minutes before slicing. Pour off excess fat. Slice and serve with Gravy. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Sauce:
4 shallots, minced
2 tablespoons butter
1 sprig thyme
1 bay leaf
Dash crushed black pepper
1 cup dry white wine
1 cup veal or beef stock
1 cup chicken stock
Salt, pepper

Add beef stock and chicken stock and simmer over high heat until reduced by ⅓ or ½. Stir in remaining 1 tablespoon butter and season to taste with salt and pepper. Stir until butter melts and sauce blends in. Discard bay leaf. Serve with meat loaf. Makes 1 cup.

Asparagus among 'first edible signs of spring'

By ANTONIA ALLEGRA
Copley News Service

ASPARAGUS AND LOBSTER WITH GREEN AND WHITE PASTA

1½ lbs. fettucini or linguini, half spinach pasta and half white pasta
12 ozs. asparagus tips
2 lbs. lobster meat (tail and claws)
12 ozs. White Butter Sauce (recipe follows)
2 ozs. fresh herbs

Boil lobster 10 minutes per pound. Reserve. Remove meat from claws and tailand cut it into bite-size pieces. Make butter sauce (see below). Add ⅓ of herbs to sauce. Blanch asparagus, saving tips. Boil pasta, testing with a fork for doneness.

In a separate pan, gently saute lobster and asparagus in White Butter Sauce until it reaches serving temperature. Arrange drained pasta on 4 plates; toss in the lobster and asparagus mixture and remaining herbs. Serve with optional grated Parmesan cheese.

White Butter Sauce:
3 shallots
⅓ cup white wine vinegar
2 cups dry white wine
1 lb. softened butter
15-20 black peppercorns

Copley News Service

Watch a native American as he uses his fork to gently cut off the tip of the vertical vegetable's stalk. Carefully, he will guide the fork's cargo to a waiting bowl of hot melted butter and then guide the green shoot into his waiting mouth. The tipless stalks will remain on his plate, like logs on a quiet riverbed, until the plate is removed for the next course.

A European will grasp the tender asparagus spears with his fingers and alternate delicately dipping it into the accompanying sauce with biting off inches of the vegetable until it is completely eaten.

Chop shallots and place them in saucepan (not aluminum) with wine and vinegr. Add peppercorns. Let cook over heat until mixture is reduced to a glaze; remove from heat. Slowly whisk in small pieces of butter, one piece at a time. The sauce will emulsify. When all butter is used, strain and keep warm, but do not allow mixture to boil.

STIR-FRIED ASPARAGUS WITH SNOW PEAS

⅓ lb. snow peas, ends removed
3 tbsps. rich chicken broth
1 tbsp. soy sauce
2 tsps. lemon juice
1 tbsp. peanut oil
1 tsp. sesame oil

Heat peanut oil in pan over high heat, drop in asparagus, snow peas and sti-fry a couple of minutes until well coated and shiny. Mix broth, soy sauce and lemon juice together. Pour over vegetables in pan, cover, leaving heat on high. Stir a couple of times. When moisture seems to be gone — about 4 minutes — turn heat off. Put vegetables in serving dish. Sprinkle with sesame oil. Serve hot. Makes 4 servings.

SALMON SALAD

1 lb. fresh asparagus steamed and cut in 1-inch pieces or 1 (15-oz.) can asparagus, drained, juice reserved, cut in 1-inch pieces
1 (16-oz.) can red (coho) salmon, drained, reserve juice
1 (6-oz.) can marinated artichoke hearts, sliced
6 green onions, chopped
4 salad cucumbers or 2 larger size, peeled, cut lengthwise in 4 and sliced
1 (6-oz.) can jumbo olives, drained
1 red pepper, roasted, peeled, cut into strips
3 young carrots, sliced thinly
4 radishes, sliced
1 oz. (or more, as desired) Feta cheese
2 fresh Italian tomatoes, sliced in rounds
2 small heads different lettuces

In sauce pot, heat juices of canned salmon (and asparagus) and 2 to 4 tablepoons water to boiling. Boil until reduced to about 3 tablespoons. Set aside. Beat in 1 teaspoon lemon juice, Place 1 tablespoonful of this "dressing" into bottom of salad mixing bowl. In the same bowl, toss onion, artichoke hearts, carrots, cucumbers, red peppers, radishes. Add salmon, cheese, breaking both in chunks over top of 1 head of lettuce, shredded. Toss gently. With a small fork, taste salad, if not salty enough sprinkle with a little more "dressing" and toss again, gently.

Separate second head of lettuce and layer at the bottom of 6 salad bowls. Heap salad into bowl on top of lettuce. Place onto individual plates. Randomly garnish with olives, asparagus and tomato rounds. If desired, add a second very light sprinkling of crumbled Feta over top.

Vegetable pureed for spring soup

Associated Press

ASPARAGUS SOUP

1 pound fresh asparagus
½ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped scallions
13¾-ounce can chicken broth
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
1 cup half and half

Break off asparagus stalks as far down as they snap easily; wash spears; cut into 1-inch pieces. In a medium covered saucepan simmer asparagus, celery, scallions, ½ cup of the chicken broth and salt until just tender — about 10 minutes. In a food processor puree asparagus mixture until smooth. Make a white sauce using the butter, flour and remaining chicken broth. Stir in asparagus puree, milk and half and half. Reheat. Makes 6 cups.

"After the other new restaurants started up, we didn't really know if we would survive."

In June of 1981 amidst the West Texas oil boom, The Wall Street Bar & Grill opened to an overflow crowd for lunch that to date has not decreased. But there has always been a challenge to this small, quaint Midland restaurant to attract an evening dining crowd to its downtown location, especially on weekday nights.

Gradually, the dinner business began to grow until the boom ended. Then it decreased rapidly.

Wall Street co-owners Mike McMahan and Paul Downs, analyzed their situation and recommitted themselves to their original business philosophy: serve excellent food; have a good variety; provide fast and friendly service; price the menu items reasonably and work hard everyday to do things right.

This philosophy served them well. Now, their business at lunch and dinner is better than ever. Even better than it was in boom times.

"We're very thankful that people in Midland and Odessa have responded so well to our efforts. It makes all of us feel extremely good everyday".

Mike McMahan Paul Downs
Co-Owners, Wall Street Bar & Grill

Faced with a tough situation, these two young men called upon their solid restaurant training and their determination to adhere to their original business philosophy no matter how many hours a day it required to weather the down times and come out on top.

Most parents against MISD redistricting plan

By JULIE HILLRICHS
Staff Writer

A standing room only crowd locked horns with the Midland school board Tuesday night at San Jacinto Junior High School as they presented their opinions on the first proposed change in high school boundaries since 1975.

The capacity crowd exceeding 575 citizens, most of them past and present Lee High School parents, generally disapproved of the Midland Independent School District staff plan to change boundaries to balance Midland and Lee High Schools.

"I am appalled and horrified at what I see as greed and politics involved in this," Sally Papasan, 513 S. Bentwood, said.

Wearing a confederate scarf around her collar, Ms. Papasan angrily told the crowd: "The trustees had several proposals to choose from, yet they have chosen a proposal most detrimental to Lee High School. I think they delight in bringing Lee High School to it's knees."

Mark Gibson, 501 Del Mar, noted that Lee High School has built a great tradition since it opened its doors in 1961. "I'd hate to see that tradition destroyed," he said.

Michael Weis, 2805 Marmon, said he firmly believes the board is moving much too fast on an issue affecting hundreds of students. He asked trustees to wait until the current local economic conditions stabilize before making a final decision.

The staff plan, approved by the board last week, balances within four students the black, Hispanic, rural and total enrollment as well as student ability and achievement, MISD Superintendent Dr. Joseph P. Baressi Jr. said. About 3,000 of the 10,820 youth currently in the sixth grade and below will be affected by the change.

School officials believe the plan to move a vast number of prospective Lee High School students residing in the city limits and rural areas would eliminate enrollment disparities now possible under the present boundaries. Assuming the staff's predictions are correct, 5,412 students currently in kindergarten through sixth grade would be assigned to Lee High School compared to 5,408 at Midland High School by the 1996-97 school year under the plan.

Forest Allen, 3228 W. Shandon, reflected on the Lee High School athletic successes over the years and accused the board of making a "deliberate attempt to gut Lee High School. We've built a great football team and every time we try to win, ya'll are taking it away from us."

While the majority of those persons who spoke Tuesday disapproved of the proposal, others commended the board, saying the redistricting would result in a greater balance between the two high schools.

"I support the proposed boundary change," said Kay Sowders, 2902 Goddard Place. "This plan shows common sense."

Marcia Fairchild, 1604 Winfield, told opposing members of the audience that the neighborhood concept was banned by the federal government and that Midlanders will have to grow accustomed to it.

She said she finds it hard to argue with the school board's decision to balance the schools by redrawing the boundary lines. "My children are proud to be Midland Bulldogs, but the thing they're most proud of is that they're Midlanders," she said.

Trustees said they will take into consideration the statements presented during public hearing. A final decision on the proposed change is expected at the regular board meeting at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the MISD board room, 702 N. N St.

Conference informed about Silver-Haired Legislature

By RON GILMORE
Staff Writer

ODESSA — Hundreds of senior citizens were expected to participate today in wrap-up activities of the four-day Fifth Annual Joint Conference on Aging, held at the Holiday Inn.

The conference, a joint project of the American Association of Retired Persons, the Texas Association of Area Agencies on Aging, the Texas Association of Senior Centers, the Texas Department on Aging and the Texas Association of Nutrition and Aging Services Programs, included a variety of activities ranging from workshops on nutrition and Medicare to updates on Alzheimer's disease research.

One large group assembled Tuesday afternoon to hear the latest developments of a soon-to-be reality — the Texas Silver-Haired Legislature.

"This is the birth process of a new era in the state of Texas," said Dan Roberts, a spokesman for Sen. Hugh Parmer, D-Fort Worth, who sponsored the bill which led to the senior legislature's formation.

The Silver-Haired Legislature, consisting of 116 members elected by a group of delegates, is in the development stages. Members will be elected May 30 with the first session to be held in September.

The special group, formed as a result of Senate Concurrent Resolution 37, was signed into law April 11, 1985. From that act, a state steering committee made up of 17 representatives from across the state was formed to develop the project.

The group's goal, according to Texas Department on Aging spokeswoman Paula Johnson, is to "provide to the state Legislature three to five major priority bills...for consideration."

"The Silver-Haired Legislature was designed to put you to work for the regularly elected Legislature in order to have some advice from the senior members of our state," echoed Roberts. He said he hopes the senior citizens would go beyond merely addressing senior issues.

"I hope the Silver-Haired Legislature will get down to bare necessities and tell us how to fund the state in general," he said.

Roberts, however, cautioned the group — many of them delegates — that the picture was not a rosy one for gaining easy Legislature approval of senior-suggested legislation.

"It is his (Parmer's) belief that seniors in Texas have many things to offer our state and our legislators. There is a great deal of experience and resources that can be tapped," said Roberts. "However, if you're a candidate or elected Legislator, don't be mistaken that you'll have the opportunity to go to Austin in September to present the Legislature with a list of needs and wants regarding the garnering of state monies not currently being spent and expect the Legislature to say 'this is very good,' and pass it wholeheartedly. Our state is in one of the most difficult times for any extra programs. Legislators must take a very somber, serious approach to this session."

Almanac editor: Misconceptions exist about Texas' image

By RAMONA NYE
Staff Writer

He's been the Texas Almanac editor for four years, but Mike Kingston says he does not yet know the state like the back of his hand.

"Whenever a question comes up I go back to the almanac like everyone else," Kingston said.

While he doesn't claim to know everything about the state, Kingston is brimming with historical anecdotes and facts. The original intention of the almanac, which was first printed in 1857, was to educate residents about their new state, Kingston said.

However, historical misconceptions about the state abound, he said.

For example, the image of Texans as rugged individuals never seeking help outside of the community is not substantiated when one looks at the state's history.

Requests for outside aid date back to 1886 when a drought hit the area between West Texas and Stephens County south of Fort Worth. The drought was so disabling the state asked for $10,000 from Congress, but the proposal failed. The state also received help from Congress in the form of troops to fight Indians, Kingston said.

Another widely held misconception is that Texas is a wealthy state, Kingston said.

Texas has achieved the national average per capita income only once. This occurred in the '70s during the last oil boom, Kingston said.

The state's Spanish heritage has also been overlooked, he said.

For example, the cheer familiar to any high school student, "Two bits, four bits, six bits a dollar. Let's all stand and holler," is describing the Spanish colonial monetary system, he said.

Women also had more rights under Spanish colonial rule than English rule. Under the Spanish government, women could own and inherit property, but they lost these rights when Texas became a state and adopted English Common Law.

Along with learning a little history in the almanac through its special Sesquicentennial section in the 1986-87 publication, readers can learn about the demographics of their counties, the state's environment, recreation areas, science, business and industry, agriculture and government in the biennial publication.

Since 1984 the almanac has featured special sections examining different parts of the state. In 1984-85 the state's borderlands were featured, and the recent biennial edition examines the history of the state through its Sesquicentennial section. In the 1988-89 edition the Gulf Coast will be featured and the 1990-91 edition will contain a special section on West Texas.

Odessa's MCH expects results of inspection

By FRANK TROMBLEY
Staff Writer

ODESSA — Medical Center Hospital administrators today expect to learn if alleged deficiencies that could deprive the county-owned hospital of Medicare funding eligibility have been corrected. MCH attorney Fred Davis said Tuesday a four member Texas Department of Health survey team should complete its inspection of the hospital sometime today, then hold "an exit conference" with administrative staff members and issue "some kind of a summary."

Davis said the survey team, headed by Juanita Carrell, TDH director of Medicare licensing and certification, is not expected to reveal what its recommendation will be to the federal Health Care Financing Administration in Dallas, but he expressed the belief the exit conference should give an indication as to what the recommendation will be.

On April 16, MCH Administrator Sam Glenney was notified that the federal agency had initiated proceedings to cancel the hospital's certification for Medicare payments because of alleged deficiencies in four areas found by an earlier survey team.

Men shot in separate incidents

From Staff Reports

Two 20-year-old Midland men were hospitalized with gunshot wounds Tuesday following separate eastside incidents, but police think both shootings may have involved self-defense.

Thomas Stewart, 1912 E. Hudson, was shot once in his left side at 1902 E. Pecan St. about 2:57 p.m. He was listed in stable condition this morning in the critical-care unit at Midland Memorial Hospital, according to a hospital spokeswoman.

A 16-year-old youth was taken into custody several hours later, after his mother brought him down to the police station. But police reports indicate Stewart may have been chasing the youth down the street after hitting him with a hammer. The investigation was continuing this morning, reports said.

Another shooting at about 8 p.m. in the 100 block of Dormard may also have involved self-defense, reports said.

Terry McGowan, 102 S. Lamesa, was shot once in the rear. He was listed in satisfactory condition this morning, the MMH spokeswoman said.

Police reports indicate McGowan was shot after an argument with a man he suspected of having burglarized his car. Detectives have talked with a 19-year-old suspect, but no arrests have been made, reports said.

Peck on a pig's cheek

Kathy Thornton kissed a pig Tuesday afternoon as part of a fund raiser for the Midland Division of the American Heart Association sponsored by the Lutheran Home-Permian Basin. People at the home voted with cash contributions for the administrator they'd most like to see smooch a swine. Ms. Thornton, activities director, "won" the election with $22.08. "The best date I ever had," she joked after giving the cute pig a peck on the jowl.

Officer retires after 27 years on police force

By MARK LEWIS
Staff Writer

Joe Miles

Oil prices being what they are these days, many oil-patch employees are probably pondering alternative careers. Some may follow the path of Joe Miles, who left Tidelands Oil for the Midland Police Department in 1958.

"The oil industry had one of their famous periodic recessions," says Inspector Miles, who is retiring today after more than 27 years. "I thought police work might be a little more stable way of making a living."

Born in Fisher County, Miles went into the Army Air Corps right out of high school in 1942, and wound up assigned to the 13th Air Force — "The Forgotten Air Force."

While most Air Corps units concentrated on bombing Nazi Germany and left the Pacific to carrier-based Navy pilots, the 13th, flying "whatever was flyable," provided ground support for the Solomons campaign.

"Our detachment was at Guadalcanal," where the threat of malaria proved more of a threat than did Japanese fighter planes, according to Miles.

From Staff Reports

A 21-year-old Midland man was being held in county jail this morning on charges that he kidnapped a 15-year-old girl from an Odessa dance Saturday, took her to a rural Midland trailer house and raped her repeatedly, according to Midland Sheriff's Office reports.

Martin Elias Portillo, 805½ S. Weatherford, was arrested Tuesday on a warrant charging him with sexual assault of a child. A warrant for kidnapping was expected to be issued today in Ector County.

According to reports, Portillo and a 15-year-old Midland girl shared several dances Saturday night at the Pan American Ballroom, 2215 E. Murphy in Odessa. He later allegedly kidnapped her from the parking lot and took her to his friend's trailer house on County Road 124 in rural Midland County, where he allegedly raped her several times, according to Sheriff's Office reports.

Sunday morning, he dropped her off at the home of one of her friends, reports said.

In other Sheriff's Office reports, Charlie Patterson of Halbert Signs, 18 Berry Road, reported a burglary in which more than $7,000 worth of property was taken.

A $3,000 mobile phone, a $3,000 temperature recorder and a $800 typewriter were among the items missing after the burglary, which occurred sometime between Friday and Tuesday, reports said.

Absentee voting totals 2,155

From Staff Reports

Absentee voting in the Republican Party and Democratic Party primary elections totaled 2,155 when absentee voting closed Tuesday afternoon, Midland County Elections Administrator Bettye Calvert said today.

The absentee vote count includes 1,791 votes in the Republican Party primary elections and 364 votes in the Democratic Party primary elections. The breakdown takes in 1,705 in-person Republican votes and 86 mail-out ballots, and 350 in-person Democratic votes and 14 mail-out ballots.

The absentee-vote turnout exceeded the 1,704 votes cast in both party primary elections in the 1984 presidential-election year, Ms. Calvert noted.

"We should have a heavier turnout (of voters) than '84," she said of Saturday's primary elections. She cited the voters' apparently keen interest in the home-front, statewide, and congressional races.

On Tuesday, the last of 11 days of absentee voting, 843 voted. The tally included 709 who cast ballots in the Republican primary and 134 who voted in the Democratic Party's primary elections. She said a line of voters "snaked out the door" on Tuesday.

MILES

After the war, Miles wound up in Kentucky, where he enrolled at Murray State Teachers College on the G.I. Bill.

"I met my wife there, and we got married," and Miles couldn't afford to be a student any more.

He left college and joined the Kentucky State Police, and after a flirtation with the oil business brought him back to West Texas, he settled permanently in law enforcement.

Although he never finished at Murray State, Miles did eventually go into teaching — as police inspector, officer training was one of his responsibilities.

"In today's police force, training is so important because the court decisions change every day," he says. "And you get new technology."

But basic police techniques remain much as they were when he joined the department.

"Your methods of operation are generally about the same," he says. "We've got better equipment, maybe," but Miles feels police officers may be "depending too much on computers nowadays."

"It's not going to catch the criminal for you — you've still got to do that yourself," he says.

Miles says he enjoyed training officers at first, but eventually, "It got old — and I realized I never would have made a public-school teacher."

Contributing to his decreasing enthusiasm were his students, who he described as better educated but "not generally as dedicated" as when he was a young officer.

"They don't last as long," he says.

Today's officers "tend to feel that the rest of society doesn't want anything to do with them," he says. On the job, "They're going to associate mainly with people who aren't the cream of society. They become cynical."

As training officer, Miles urged young officers to combat this built-in morale problem by joining civic organizations and clubs so they can associate with people who aren't necessarily criminals or crime victims.

The inspector is being lured into retirement by the tax advantages of being 62 years old: "I found out I can take home more from my pension than from my paycheck."

Though he leaves today, Miles' influence on the department will be visible for years to come: He designed the new shoulder patches and masterminded the change from brown to blue uniforms and from brown cars to white cars with blue stripes and decals.

As a retiree, he'll be spending more time with his family (he and his wife, Lorraine, have two children and three grandchildren in Midland) and on such hobbies as photography and historical research.

"I'm looking forward to it," he says, but he has no regrets about going into police work.

"I can't think of anything else I'd rather have been doing."

Odessa mayor takes oath

By FRANK TROMBLEY
Staff Writer

ODESSA — The city council chamber on the 5th floor of city hall was jammed with supporters Tuesday morning as Don Carter and Jaime Rodriguez took their oaths of office as mayor and District 1 Councilman respectively.

Mayor Carter's first action was to take "personal privilege" and recognize those who helped him in his campaign.

In addition to having his supporters stand for recognition, Carter congratulated the news media for coverage of, what he termed, "a clean campaign."

Carter said he welcomed the opportunity to serve the people of Odessa and looked forward to "trying to make this a better place to live" over the next two years. The new mayor also said he would hold a breakfast meeting this morning with Midland Mayor-elect Carroll Thomas, who was on hand as Deputy City Secretary Cindy Weir administered the oath of office to Carter and Rodriguez.

Carter and Thomas have both pledged to work together in an effort to help Midland and Odessa find solutions to the economic problems of both cities.

In Saturday's runoff election, Carter garnered 53 percent of the votes cast to defeat Lorraine Bonner. Rodriguez defeated one-time City Council member Margaret Burton by taking nearly 58 percent of the ballots cast.

Outgoing Mayor John Minor declined comment as he cleaned out his office on the 5th floor of the Odessa City Hall.

MCH

Medicare funding represents about 38.5 percent of the hospital's annual revenues. Loss of the approximately $1.5 million per month would seriously jeopardize the operation of the hospital, according to Ector County Fiscal Services Director Tom Pace.

Concerning the second survey, Davis said the TDH team indicated complaints involving the hospital's pharmacy have been resolved, that the pharmacy "is no longer deficient, that it is in compliance."

As to a report that media representatives and MCH attorneys were not allowed to accompany the survey team during its inspection, Davis said it was true, reporters were not allowed on the tour for reasons of "patient confidentiality." But, Davis said, he was allowed to accompany survey team members. He noted that team members split up, inspecting different areas, but he was free to go with team members wherever they went.

"I was not excluded from anything and I was treated very courteously," Davis said.

He described the inspection by the TDH survey team as "very open and above board." There was nothing at all secretive, Davis said.

County to get aid for security

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — After President Reagan warned earlier this year that nearby Harlingen was within driving distance of Nicaragua, Cameron County Sheriff Alex Perez wrote to him in search of ways to beef up local security.

The letter paid off with information about a federal block grant program.

'Texas Symbols' at Odessa museum

From Staff Reports

ODESSA — The Presidential Museum's second annual photography competition and exhibition yielded over 80 entries which may be viewed through Saturday. This year's theme was "Texas Symbols," which proved to be popular with area photographers as 45 entered from throughout the Permian basin.

Judge was Howard Taylor, director of the San Angelo Museum of Fine Art. He awarded first place, $150, to Cindy Sims of Odessa; second place, $75, to Arturo Hernandez of Odessa; and third place, $50, to Joe Smith of Midland. Because of the high quality of the entries, two honorable mentions, $25, were awarded. They went to Mary Millican of Midland and Mary Alice Neilson of Fort Stockton.

The Texas Symbols Exhibition consists of all the entries in the competition as well as an invitational section featuring the color work of Steve Goff, professor of photography at Odessa College, and B. Kent Moss, photography instructor at Midland College.

The Presidential Museum, 622 N. Lee St., is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. There is no admission charge.

Trinity School to hold Mayfair

From Staff Reports

Trinity School will sponsor its 13th annual Mayfair from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday at 3500 W. Wadley.

Artists from across the U.S. will exhibit a variety of arts and crafts including dolls, watercolor paintings, Mexican dresses, woodwork, stoneware and stained glass. Each artist will donate a piece of artwork to be auctioned during a silent auction at the conclusion of the fair.

Odessan suffers fatal injuries in cycle wreck

From Staff Reports

ODESSA — A 20-year-old man suffered fatal injuries late Tuesday night when he apparently lost control of his motorcycle in the 1800-block of North Whittaker.

Police spokesman Frank Beam said Todd Wright Wicks, 1303-A Belmont, was pronounced dead at Medical Center Hospital about 12:40 a.m. today.

Beam said Wicks was headed north on Whittaker when his motorcycle struck the west curb and he lost control. He was thrown from the motorcycle and suffered fatal head injuries. Wicks was not wearing a helmet at the time of the accident, he said.

Ex-NASA official: Space race heating up

HOUSTON (AP) — The race to commercialize space is fast becoming an international competition involving the United States, European countries, Russia and Japan, a former NASA official said.

Kenneth S. Pedersen, a research professor at Georgetown University and director of international affairs at National Aeronautics Space Administration from 1979 to 1985, talked about commercializing space at the Houston Space and Telecomm Symposium that began Monday.

Pedersen said Ariane, the French space organization, soon will challenge U.S. leadership in placing communication satellites in orbit, capturing at least half of that market.

"The Japanese are not far behind," he said. "They are building their own launch facility, and by the 1990s they will be a major force in the commerical launch market."

"For the United States, the ability to dominate space commercialization has been seriously diminished," Pedersen said.

Pedersen also said he sees important implications in recent Russian decisions to televise space launches.

"The Russians are actively wooing international partners to undertake space activity," he said. "They recently set up a civilian space agency. I believe this is a very key sign they intend to move ambitiously to compete with the U.S. for the world's space commercialization basis."

Don't let 'em mess with your furnace!

Winter may be the last thing on your mind when your air conditioner is broken.

But if you replace your air conditioner with an electric heat pump, they have to hook it up to your furnace. That's because a heat pump is so inefficient in our West Texas winter, it won't keep your house warm.

So along with a heat pump, you get all this stuff stuck on your furnace:

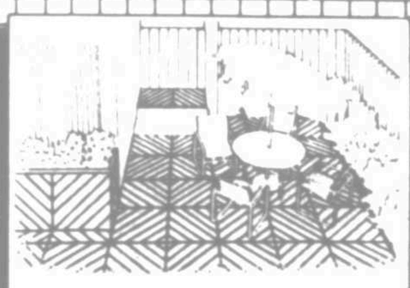

- a non-cycling reverse valve
- a defroster control unit
- a thermostatic expansion valve
- an outdoor thermostat

Now how can your furnace work better with all that on it? So if you need a new air conditioner, get a new air conditioner. And leave your reliable gas furnace alone.

NON-ELECTRONIC HEARING AID
THE INNOVAID
NOW AVAILABLE IN WEST TEXAS!

THE INNOVAID

A SCIENTIFIC BREAKTHROUGH FOR MILD HEARING LOSS

Millions of Americans have a mild to moderate hearing loss. This does not mean the person with this type of hearing loss cannot hear. In fact, they can hear, but have difficulty understanding conversation clearly. The INNOVAID was DESIGNED BY A STANFORD UNIVERSITY EAR SURGEON to provide improved hearing for people with a mild to moderate hearing loss.

Today, thousands of satisfied users are enjoying life more because of the improvement in their hearing provided by this clinically tested hearing aid.

AND COST ½ THE PRICE OF OTHER AIDS

The INNOVAID accoustic hearing aid is different from electronic hearing aids. There are no batteries or volume control. The inconspicuous INNOVAID provides selective amplification tuned to the exact hearing requirements of each individual.

The beauty of the INNOVAID is that it can be popped into the ear when the situation requires a "boost" in hearing ability, and it can be removed when it is no longer needed. It's as simple as putting on a pair of reading glasses.

Willie Nelson plans FarmAid II

By STEVE LEVINE
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Saying it "belongs in Texas," country music star Willie Nelson and state Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower Tuesday announced that Austin will host a Fourth-of-July benefit concert for farmers.

Although lawyers are still working out some details, Hightower and Nelson said FarmAid II will take place at the University of Texas' Memorial Stadium. The all-star lineup should include Nelson, John Cougar Mellencamp, Neil Young, Huey Lewis, TV star Don Johnson, Johnny Cash, Kris Kristofferson, George Jones, Merle Haggard, Waylon Jennings and Emmylou Harris.

Nelson arranged the FarmAid I benefit in Champaign, Ill., Sept. 22, 1985. With 58 pop and country acts, that 14-hour concert raised about $9 million. The money has financed farm crisis hotlines — including one in Texas — marketing projects, legal assistance for farmers and a soon-to-be-announced seed program.

"FarmAid II we hope to be much bigger than FarmAid I," Nelson told reporters at a Memorial Stadium press conference. Nelson said he has no fundraising goal for the second benefit, saying, "$100 billion would be nice."

He called the agriculture situation "fairly dismal just about everywhere you go," and said he hopes the concerts will "call attention to the problems so the congressional people in Washington can figure out something long range."

Hightower said the Department of Agriculture's sponsorship of the event allowed Nelson to bring the show to the state-owned stadium. No state money will be spent on the concert.

"Willie Nelson not only is a superstar in the music world, but in the last couple of years we found him to be a true friend of the family farmer and rancher," Hightower said. "FarmAid has been one of the few bright spots in the continuing struggle to do something to keep America growing."

Nelson announced earlier this year that he wanted to combine a second benefit with his annual July 4 "picnic" and hold the event in Memorial Stadium. Hightower said he intervened with the UT board of regents when he heard they refused to give Nelson permission to use the stadium. The regents banned musical events at the stadium after a 1974 ZZ Top concert brought considerable damage to the field's artificial turf.

"Because of the considerable importance of this event, I asked them to reconsider," Hightower said. The FarmAid organizers will provide liability insurance and special protection for the turf, including a cover of plywood and "some exotic material that doesn't burn."

Attorneys for both sides are still negotiating over smaller items such as ticket sales, but a Hightower aide said he expects them to reach a final agreement soon.

The $20-tickets, expected to be available statewide, could go on sale within two weeks. The stadium seats hold 76,000 and Nelson estimated another 10,000 to 12,000 could fit on the field.

Loeffler predicts he will force Clements into election runoff

Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Refusing to criticize his Republican opponents, GOP gubernatorial hopeful Tom Loeffler Tuesday predicted he will force former Gov. Bill Clements into a runoff primary following Saturday's elections.

Loeffler would not forecast a specific percentage outcome, but he said he and former Congressman Kent Hance would combine to keep Clements from winning a clear majority Saturday. He predicted Hance would finish third and probably support him in a runoff against Clements.

In a race where no candidate wins more than 50 percent of the vote, state law requires the top two finishers to face each other in a runoff election. Any runoffs will take place June 7.

Asked several times to explain why he is the better candidate, Loeffler refused to attack Hance or Clements.

"I'm not going to speak in terms of political negatives, but to offer the people of Texas what I have and the abilities I have," he told reporters at a Capitol press conference. He repeatedly stressed his solid conservative credentials and leadership abilities, saying only he could defeat Democratic Gov. Mark White in November.

Loeffler also declined to elaborate on a rumor that his fear of acquiring the disease AIDS led him to wear shower caps on his feet while bathing in a San Francisco hotel several weeks ago.

"I went to San Francisco to speak to a budget meeting," he said. "I will tell you that I walked outside the hotel that I was in, and the people that I was around are not the kind of people that I associate with nor that I would lend any legislative credence to as far as rights that they wish in the legislative process."

Asked specifically about the shower caps, Loeffler said, "I'll leave that to your speculation."

In other political news, Democratic gubernatorial candidate A. Don Crowder released results of a poll of 600 Democratic primary voters that showed strong support for his top two platform planks — a state lottery and legalizing parimutuel wagering on horse races.

The telephone poll, conducted last week, showed Gov. Mark White with support from 34 percent of the respondents, Crowder with 20 percent, Dallas businessman Andrew Briscoe with 14 percent and 29 percent undecided. The poll is accurate to within four percentage points.

The leadership of the Texas State Employees Association urged its members to support Crowder in Saturday's primary but stopped short of endorsing the Dallas lawyer. TPEA Executive Director Gary Hughes said he would vote for Crowder as part of the group's "Out with White in '86" campaign slogan.

STATE IN BRIEF

Vidor man sentenced to die

BEAUMONT (AP) — A 25-year-old Vidor man was sentenced to die Tuesday after being convicted of capital murder in the death of a Beaumont car dealership finance manager.

It took a 10-man, two-woman jury an hour to decide the fate of David Ray Harris. The jury last week convicted Harris in the Sept. 1 shooting death of 30-year-old Mark Mays. Testimony indicated Harris shot Mays as he attempted to kidnap his girlfriend, Roxanne Lockard, 26.

Evidence showed Mays and Ms. Lockard were asleep in Mays' Beaumont apartment early Sept. 1, when Harris, armed with a .38-caliber revolver, entered through an unlocked door.

Ex-official: LCRA wasn't wrong

AUSTIN (AP) — A former manager of the Lower Colorado River Authority says that he saw nothing improper about agency officials accepting favors from private companies doing business with the river authority.

Elof Soderberg, who recently was criticized for not making LCRA employees aware of possible conflicts of interest, said accepting travel and entertainment from contractors is normal practice for both private and public utility companies, but he denied that favors granted agency officials had any influence on LCRA practices involving the contractors.

The comments by Soderberg,, who retired in this month after 4½ years as general manager, were in response to a report issued last week that found mismanagement, theft, sexual improprieties and disregard for possible conflicts of interest during his tenure.

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White announced Tuesday that $15,000 in emergency funds will be made available to victims of the tornado that struck Sweetwater on April 19.

White said the grant will pay for temporary shelter, food and medical assistance. Applications can be filed with People for Progress, Inc., 301 West Arkansas in Sweetwater.

Clements, Hance go deeper into debt

AUSTIN (AP) — Former Gov. Bill Clements, looking to avoid a costly runoff, has borrowed $775,000 in the closing weeks of his campaign, his latest campaign finance report disclosed Monday.

Former U.S. Rep. Kent Hance, one of Clements' two Republican challengers, also went deeper into debt. Hance reported that he has borrowed $200,000, raising his total loans for the campaign to nearly $2.2 million.

Nancy Dorn, press secretary for U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler, the other GOP gubernatorial candidate, said Loeffler's report would show he had raised $619,102, including $319,000 in loans, during the March 25 through April 23 filing period. She said it was mailed from San Antonio on Monday.

She said Loeffler had $174,943 on hand as of April 23 but predicted that all of that will be spent before Saturday's primary elections.

Democratic Gov. Mark White, seeking a second four-year term, raised $608,887 during the last reporting period and spent $1,095,504, his latest disclosure showed, raising his total contributions for the year to nearly $5 million.

Altogether, White has reported loans of $66,000, and campaign manager Dwayne Holman said "by the time all the bills are in, we'll have spent real close to $1.5 million" in the primary.

Clements collected nearly $1.2 million, including the $755,000 in loans, and spent about $1.3 million during the latest four-week period.

That boosts his total contributions to just under $2.5 million, including just over $1 million in loans. So far, he has spent nearly $2.5 million, his records show.

Willie Nelson plans FarmAid II

By STEVE LEVINE
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Saying it "belongs in Texas," country music star Willie Nelson and state Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower Tuesday announced that Austin will host a Fourth-of-July benefit concert for farmers.

Although lawyers are still working out some details, Hightower and Nelson said FarmAid II will take place at the University of Texas' Memorial Stadium. The all-star lineup should include Nelson, John Cougar Mellencamp, Neil Young, Huey Lewis, TV star Don Johnson, Johnny Cash, Kris Kristofferson, George Jones, Merle Haggard, Waylon Jennings and Emmylou Harris.

Nelson arranged the FarmAid I benefit in Champaign, Ill., Sept. 22, 1985. With 58 pop and country acts, that 14-hour concert raised about $9 million. The money has financed farm crisis hotlines — including one in Texas — marketing projects, legal assistance for farmers and a soon-to-be-announced seed program.

"FarmAid II we hope to be much bigger than FarmAid I," Nelson told reporters at a Memorial Stadium press conference. Nelson said he has no fundraising goal for the second benefit, saying, "$100 billion would be nice."

He called the agriculture situation "fairly dismal just about everywhere you go," and said he hopes the concerts will "call attention to the problems so the congressional people in Washington can figure out something long range."

Hightower said the Department of Agriculture's sponsorship of the event allowed Nelson to bring the show to the state-owned stadium. No state money will be spent on the concert.

"Willie Nelson not only is a superstar in the music world, but in the last couple of years we found him to be a true friend of the family farmer and rancher," Hightower said. "FarmAid has been one of the few bright spots in the continuing struggle to do something to keep America growing."

Nelson announced earlier this year that he wanted to combine a second benefit with his annual July 4 "picnic" and hold the event in Memorial Stadium. Hightower said he intervened with the UT board of regents when he heard they refused to give Nelson permission to use the stadium. The regents banned musical events at the stadium after a 1974 ZZ Top concert brought considerable damage to the field's artificial turf.

"Because of the considerable importance of this event, I asked them to reconsider," Hightower said. The FarmAid organizers will provide liability insurance and special protection for the turf, including a cover of plywood and "some exotic material that doesn't burn."

Attorneys for both sides are still negotiating over smaller items such as ticket sales, but a Hightower aide said he expects them to reach a final agreement soon.

The $20-tickets, expected to be available statewide, could go on sale within two weeks. The stadium seats hold 76,000 and Nelson estimated another 10,000 to 12,000 could fit on the field.

Loeffler predicts he will force Clements into election runoff

Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Refusing to criticize his Republican opponents, GOP gubernatorial hopeful Tom Loeffler Tuesday predicted he will force former Gov. Bill Clements into a runoff primary following Saturday's elections.

Loeffler would not forecast a specific percentage outcome, but he said he and former Congressman Kent Hance would combine to keep Clements from winning a clear majority Saturday. He predicted Hance would finish third and probably support him in a runoff against Clements.

In a race where no candidate wins more than 50 percent of the vote, state law requires the top two finishers to face each other in a runoff election. Any runoffs will take place June 7.

Asked several times to explain why he is the better candidate, Loeffler refused to attack Hance or Clements.

"I'm not going to speak in terms of political negatives, but to offer the people of Texas what I have and the abilities I have," he told reporters at a Capitol press conference. He repeatedly stressed his solid conservative credentials and leadership abilities, saying only he could defeat Democratic Gov. Mark White in November.

Loeffler also declined to elaborate on a rumor that his fear of acquiring the disease AIDS led him to wear shower caps on his feet while bathing in a San Francisco hotel several weeks ago.

"I went to San Francisco to speak to a budget meeting," he said. "I will tell you that I walked outside the hotel that I was in, and the people that I was around are not the kind of people that I associate with nor that I would lend any legislative credence to as far as rights that they wish in the legislative process."

Asked specifically about the shower caps, Loeffler said, "I'll leave that to your speculation."

In other political news, Democratic gubernatorial candidate A. Don Crowder released results of a poll of 600 Democratic primary voters that showed strong support for his top two platform planks — a state lottery and legalizing parimutuel wagering on horse races.

The telephone poll, conducted last week, showed Gov. Mark White with support from 34 percent of the respondents, Crowder with 20 percent, Dallas businessman Andrew Briscoe with 14 percent and 29 percent undecided. The poll is accurate to within four percentage points.

The leadership of the Texas State Employees Association urged its members to support Crowder in Saturday's primary but stopped short of endorsing the Dallas lawyer. TPEA Executive Director Gary Hughes said he would vote for Crowder as part of the group's "Out with White in '86" campaign slogan.

STATE IN BRIEF

Vidor man sentenced to die

BEAUMONT (AP) — A 25-year-old Vidor man was sentenced to die Tuesday after being convicted of capital murder in the death of a Beaumont car dealership finance manager.

It took a 10-man, two-woman jury an hour to decide the fate of David Ray Harris. The jury last week convicted Harris in the Sept. 1 shooting death of 30-year-old Mark Mays. Testimony indicated Harris shot Mays as he attempted to kidnap his girlfriend, Roxanne Lockard, 26.

Evidence showed Mays and Ms. Lockard were asleep in Mays' Beaumont apartment early Sept. 1, when Harris, armed with a .38-caliber revolver, entered through an unlocked door.

Ex-official: LCRA wasn't wrong

AUSTIN (AP) — A former manager of the Lower Colorado River Authority says that he saw nothing improper about agency officials accepting favors from private companies doing business with the river authority.

Elof Soderberg, who recently was criticized for not making LCRA employees aware of possible conflicts of interest, said accepting travel and entertainment from contractors is normal practice for both private and public utility companies, but he denied that favors granted agency officials had any influence on LCRA practices involving the contractors.

The comments by Soderberg,, who retired in this month after 4½ years as general manager, were in response to a report issued last week that found mismanagement, theft, sexual improprieties and disregard for possible conflicts of interest during his tenure.

Tornado victims can get funds

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White announced Tuesday that $15,000 in emergency funds will be made available to victims of the tornado that struck Sweetwater on April 19.

White said the grant will pay for temporary shelter, food and medical assistance. Applications can be filed with People for Progress, Inc., 301 West Arkansas in Sweetwater.

Clements, Hance go deeper into debt

AUSTIN (AP) — Former Gov. Bill Clements, looking to avoid a costly runoff, has borrowed $775,000 in the closing weeks of his campaign, his latest campaign finance report disclosed Monday.

Former U.S. Rep. Kent Hance, one of Clements' two Republican challengers, also went deeper into debt. Hance reported that he has borrowed $200,000, raising his total loans for the campaign to nearly $2.2 million.

Nancy Dorn, press secretary for U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler, the other GOP gubernatorial candidate, said Loeffler's report would show he had raised $619,102, including $319,000 in loans, during the March 25 through April 23 filing period. She said it was mailed from San Antonio on Monday.

She said Loeffler had $174,943 on hand as of April 23 but predicted that all of that will be spent before Saturday's primary elections.

Democratic Gov. Mark White, seeking a second four-year term, raised $808,887 during the last reporting period and spent $1,095,504, his latest disclosure showed, raising his total contributions for the year to nearly $5 million.

Altogether, White has reported loans of $66,000, and campaign manager Dwayne Holman said "by the time all the bills are in, we'll have spent real close to $1.5 million" in the primary.

Clements collected nearly $1.2 million, including the $755,000 in loans, and spent about $1.3 million during the latest four-week period.

That boosts his total contributions to just under $2.5 million, including just over $1 million in loans. So far, he has spent nearly $2.5 million, his records show.
