U.S. puts new plan on arms control table

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The United States put a new arms control plan on the table at Geneva on Friday, and the Soviet Union agreed to extend the present round of arms talks by nearly a week to examine the plan before the U.S.-Soviet summit.

U.S. research into a space-based missie defense, the Strategic Defense Initiative, still appeared to be a major sticking point in the talks, however.

In Moscow, two military analysts for the official Soviet news agency Tass said Friday that President Reagan's new arms control offer appears to be little more than an "old commodity in a new wrapping."

A letter from Reagan to Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev was delivered in Moscow on Friday outlining the proposals, a senior U.S. official there said. The official, who insisted on anonymity, said there was no immediate response.

Reagan and Gorbachev are to meet in Geneva on Nov. 19-20.

The Geneva arms talks started off with two apparently fruitless rounds, but in this round, both sides proposed large cuts in offensive nuclear arsenals.

A month ago the Soviets made a proposal that included 50 percent reductions in nuclear forces capable of reaching each other's territory and a ban on space weapons.

The United States responded Friday with a proposal that Reagan said calls for "deep cuts" in offensive weapons, research on defensive systems and "no cheating."

The U.S. negotiating team, headed by Max M. Kampelman, presented the plan at a two-hour meeting Friday at the Soviet mission to the United Nations.

Details were kept secret under the confidentiality rule agreed by both sides when the talks began in March.

Chief Soviet negotiator Viktor P. Karpov said Friday before the meeting that progress on arms control before the summit would depend on the Americans.

He said the Soviets would "listen attentively" to the American proposal.

Karpov said SDI, dubbed "Star Wars," was "a main obstacle to deep reductions in nuclear weapons."

The Soviets have repeatedly called on the United States to end SDI research and agree to ban all "space strike weapons."

Reagan and other officials have said the research is of a defensive nature and will continue. On Thursday, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said that to trade away SDI would amount to "a mutual suicide pact."

The Geneva talks had been scheduled to adjourn after Friday's meeting, but the U.S. side requested an extension to give both sides time to consider the proposal before Reagan and Gorbachev meet.

The two sides agreed Friday to extend the current round until next Thursday, U.S. spokesman Terry Shroeder said. He declined comment when asked how many sessions would be held.

He said Thursday's session would be a full meeting of all six main U.S. and Soviet negotiators and their aides, as is customary at the end of a round.

Reagan said he hoped the U.S. proposal would enable the superpowers "to start moving away from ever-larger arsenals."

Netherlands OKs missiles

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — The government decided Friday to deploy 48 nuclear missiles on Dutch territory, ending six years of indecision complicated by bitter opposition from the powerful anti-nuclear movement.

The deployment of the U.S.-made cruise missiles is not scheduled to begin before 1988, however, and opposition parties vowed to reverse the decision if they win the elections next May.

In Washington, deputy White House press secretary Peter Roussel said the Reagan administration was pleased with the Dutch action. "We welcome it as a demonstration of solid alliance unity on INF (Intermediate Range Nuclear Force)," he said.

The Netherlands had been the last holdout of the five North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations set to receive a total of 572 new medium-range nuclear missiles. Friday's decision meant President Reagan will represent a united NATO at his Nov. 19-20 summit conference with Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev in Geneva.

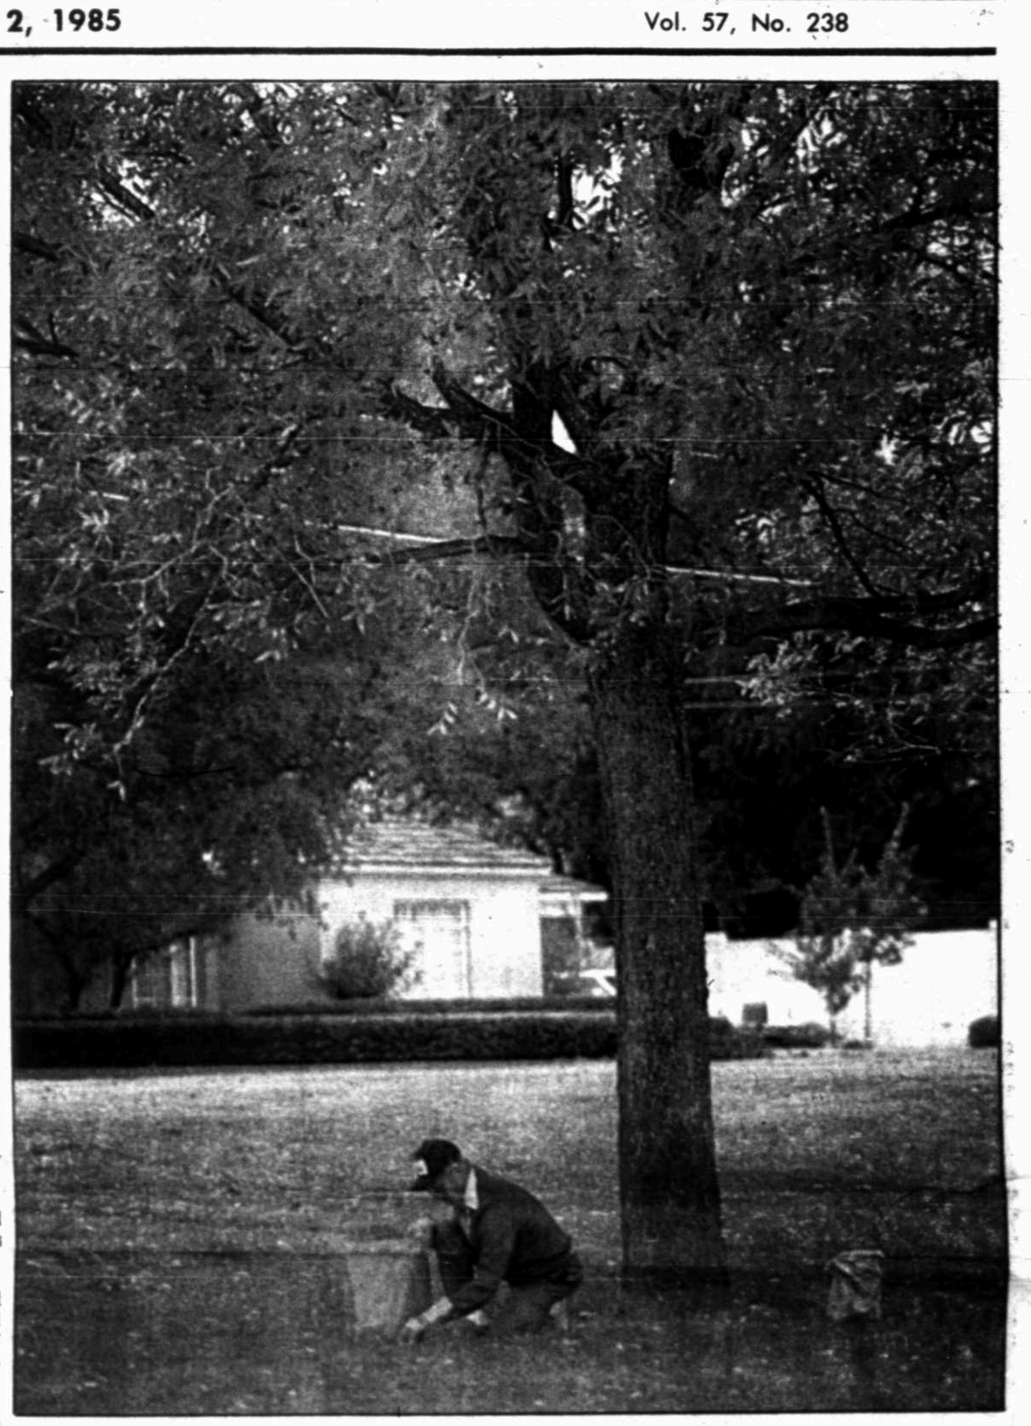

The Dutch government had announced in a policy statement on June 1, 1984, that it would agree to deploy the missiles if the Soviet SS-20 deployments totaled at least 378, the number deployed in June 1984.

NATO last week estimated SS-20 deployments at 441.

Police prepared for a weekend of angry demonstration and reported these incidents as the government announced its decision:

- A group calling itself "Operation Emergency Brake" halted at least 13 commuter trains by pulling emergency levers, and another train's electrical power was sabotaged in the city of Nijmegen. Fifty people were arrested for pulling the emergency brakes.
- A Molotov cocktail was tossed into an electric power station in Zwolle, causing some damage.
- VPRO Radio, a national station, halted its regular programming to broadcast the sound of an air raid siren.
- Several thousand school children boycotted classes in the Hague, the seat of the Dutch government.

Lawmaker: Proposal could hurt Medicaid

By GARY RASP
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm's plan to cut the federal budget deficit could cost Texas millions of dollars in Medicaid payments, state Sen. Chet Edwards said Friday.

Edwards, a Duncanville Democrat, is chairman of the Texas Sunset Advisory Commission. His remarks concerning Gramm's budget proposal, known as the Gramm-Rudman amendment, followed testimony from Department of Human Services officials at the state Capitol.

"Some of the proposals would have a dramatic impact on the state," Edwards said. "I've heard that $100 to $300 billion per biennium could be cut from the Texas Medicaid program."

Department of Human Services Commissioner Marlin Johnston said the Reagan administration has initiated a "systematic plan" to reduce federal Medicaid spending. The Gramm-Rudman plan does not bode well for Texas, he added.

"I'm not against balancing the budget," Johnston said. "I am against balancing the budget on the backs of poor people. If they're going to balance the budget, I think they ought to take some pretty good licks on defense and some other areas too."

Larry Neal, Gramm's press secretary in Washington, said it is still too early to tell what the effects of the proposed cuts will be.

"Lacking the budget information from which deficit projections will be made, it is literally impossible for any person — Democrat or Republican — to project what cuts are likely to occur and the impact of those cuts," Neal said Friday.

He said a group of House Democrats has made the only attempt to project the effects of the Gramm-Rudman plan. That effort has led to the $100 billion to $300 billion anticipated loss in Medicaid payments to Texas.

Lawyer: It's vital role of bar understood

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

Lawyers don't expect to be loved. But they want respect and understanding.

"It's not realistic to expect the general public to love the legal profession," Charlie Smith, president of the State Bar of Texas, told judges and lawyers at the Midland County Bar Association meeting at noon Friday in the Midland Hilton. "If we were loved, I don't think we really would be doing our job."

However, Smith said it is "vital" that lawyers create a better understanding of their role in a free society.

"We don't want to be loved," he said. "We just want to be understood and respected."

The State Bar, a force of more than 44,000 lawyers, is working toward that goal in trying to create a sterling image through self-regulation, ethical practices and efficient and fair representation.

"We are a unified, integrated Bar," Smith said. "We have the responsibility of self-regulation...to ensure the competency of all the lawyers in the state."

The bar's goal is to "stress and encourage professionalism and the administration of justice" and not just to "fine tune" existing programs.

"If we do not do our duty," Smith said, "the public trust will be eroded and soon (federal and state) government regulations will be taking over."

And then, he suggested, the bar could lose its autonomy.

"You have often heard that our government is a republic if we can keep it, and I'm saying to you that our profession is a profession only as long as we will keep it that way."

Smith cited means to raise the public image of the bar:

- Funding the Texas Equal-Access-to-Justice Foundation though the interest on lawyers' trust accounts.

HBF Construction, HBF Industrial sold

From Staff Reports

Larry J. Bell, president HBF Corp., has announced the sale of HBF Construction and its wholly owned subsidiary HBF Industrial to David T. Leonard, who has served as president and chief executive officer of HBF Construction since its inception in 1976. The terms of the purchase were undisclosed.

The new name for the company will be Dave Leonard Construction Co., and no personnel changes are anticipated in the sale. According to Bell, Dave Leonard Construction will continue in the same relationship to HBF Corp. as its predecessor, HBF Construction, which is that of general contractor and project manager for all HBF Corp. projects.

In addition to Midland projects, HBF has construction projects underway in Austin and San Antonio.

Analysts agree White vulnerable

By DAVID ELLIOT
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Bipartisan political analysts agree Gov. Mark White is vulnerable because of his support for education reforms, but they disagree on whether he will recover in time for the 1986 election.

"The opinions have turned a bit momentarily in opposition to the education reforms," said Democratic political consultant George Shipley. "By election time, they will be one of the governor's strong suits. He will be able to posture himself as a champion of education."

But Republican pollster David Hill said White's inflexibility on the controversial no-pass, no-play rule will hurt his chances for re-election. "He seems to think any modification in the program would violate the essence of it, and I don't think Texans are going to go along with that," Hill said.

Already, two Republican gubernatorial challengers, former Gov. Bill Clements and former U.S. Rep. Kent Hance, have criticized White's determination to maintain the current six-week disqualification period for students who flunk one or more classes. White is a Democrat.

Hill and Shipley spoke at the annual membership meeting of the Texas Association of Taxpayers, a fiscally conservative organization. Other speakers included Lubbock Sen. John Montford, Larry Temple, chairman of the Select Committee on Higher Education; Joe Christie, chairman of the Texas Commission on Economy and Efficiency in State Goverment and state Comptroller Bob Bullock. White was the featured speaker.

Montford, one of the principal architects of the water package that will appear on a Nov. 5 statewide ballot, rejected arguments that legislators had ignored environmental concerns when drafting the two proposed constitutional amendments. "I don't think the Legislature can be faulted for being environmentally sensitive," he said. "We had to strike a balance. We couldn't make everybody happy."

Bullock for the second day in a row presented a gloomy economic forecast, with revenue shortfalls in the billions and a good chance of continued oil and gas depletions. And for the second straight day, he suggested that a restructuring of state taxes might make for more sunny weather.

"Why don't each one of you search your conscience and tell me what kind of tax Texas doesn't have?" Bullock asked.

When Bullock's comment drew laughter from members of the Texas Association of Taxpayers opposed to a state income tax, he warned, "You laugh, but you don't smile."

White appoints El Paso house wife as PUC chairman

By STEVE LEVINE
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The housewife became chairwoman Friday.

Peggy Rosson, the El Paso housewife Gov. Mark White appointed to the Public Utility Commission on March 4, 1983, won the unanimous support of her two fellow commissioners Friday afternoon and became the first woman to assume the chair of a major Texas state agency. She replaces Phil Ricketts, who left the post earlier this month after his term had expired.

Ms. Rosson, known as a consumer-oriented commissioner, often found herself on the wrong end of 2-1 votes against Ricketts and commissioner Dennis Thomas. She implied that White's appointment Thursday of new commissioner Jo Campbell might reverse that trend.

"I'm going to look like a raving moderate," Ms. Rosson said. "She's a tough lady."

Ms. Campbell will dive head first into a complicated, controversial case when she joins Rosson and Thomas at PUC public hearings next week in Beaumont and Conroe over Gulf States Utilities Co.'s $112.8 million rate hike request.

"I want to be fair," Ms. Campbell said of that case. "We are here to ensure that the utilities meet their burden of proof as to the kind of charges that they can make to ratepayers, and if they don't meet that burden of proof, they don't get the rate increase."

Thomas nominated Ms. Rosson, saying the former chairwoman of the City of El Paso's Public Utility Regulation Board is the best person to lead the PUC for the next two years through such difficult issues as deregulation of the telecommunications industry and how to handle increasing electric rates that four new nuclear power plants might bring. Those plants include Gulf States' River Bend plant near St. Francisville, La., and Central Power & Light Co.'s South Texas Nuclear Project near Bay City.

"Whatever your viewpoint, the situation two years from now will not look the same," Thomas said. "She (Ms. Rosson) is a consumerist but understands both the long- and short-term meanings of that term."

White campaigned on a platform of utility reform in the 1982 gubernatorial race against then-Gov. Bill Clements. He promised to appoint a housewife to the PUC as an example that "ordinary people" could regulate utilities.

"I was a feminist long before I was a commissioner," Ms. Rosson said Friday. "The thing that makes today a truly joyous occasion to me is assuming the chairmanship of the first major state agency in the state of Texas which has a majority of its leadership vested in women."

Asked if her two-plus years on the PUC have relieved her of the housewife label, she responded, "I still don't have a maid."

ARMS

He said the Soviet offer "fell considerably short" in some areas. But he added there were also positive "seeds" for an agreement.

One element the United States objects to in the Soviet proposal is the definition of strategic forces. The Soviets would include U.S. Pershing 2 and cruise missiles deployed in Western Europe in the count, but not Soviet SS-20s.

The U.S. rockets, deployed to counter the SS-20s, can reach Soviet territory. The SS-20s deployed in Europe cannot reach the United States.

Reagan and his top advisers have argued that the Soviet proposal would give the Russians a gigantic lead in strategic, land-based systems.

Washington officials, who spoke Thursday on condition of not being identified, said the new U.S. proposal would limit both sides to 6,000 strategic — or long-range — warheads each. Of these, 4,500 could be on intercontinental ballistic missiles and 1,500 on bomber-launched, cruise-type missiles.

America and the Soviet Union each now has about 10,000 strategic warheads, including missiles on land, in submarines and on aircraft.

No more than 3,000 warheads could be on land-based systems.

This is in line with a U.S. effort to force reductions in the Soviets' 1,398 ICBMs that carry about 6,400 warheads. The United States has 1,000 land-based ICBMs carrying 2,125 warheads.

MISSILES

Britain, West Germany, Italy and Belgium already have begun the deployment of cruise or Pershing 2 missiles under the NATO decision made in 1979 to counter the Soviet Union's SS-20 missiles aimed at Western Europe.

Premier Ruud Lubbers said in a letter to Parliament, "The government has told the minister of foreign affairs to establish a treaty with the United States concerning the deployment of 48 cruise missiles on Dutch soil."

It said the deployment "and the maintenance and proper execution in the future of two nuclear tasks constitutes a balanced contribution to the nuclear deterrence of NATO."

The reference to "two nuclear tasks" reflected a trade-off with parliamentary opponents under which the Netherlands plans to withdraw from four other NATO nuclear projects involving F-16s, land mines, depth charges and the Nike Hercules ground-to-ground battlefield missile.

That would leave Holland's military with only two NATO nuclear tasks — the Lance ground-to-air missile system and nuclear artillery.

Lubbers said the government would seek discussions with NATO to end its participation in the four other nuclear projects.

Joop den Uyl, leader of the opposition Labor Party, the largest in Parliament, called the decision "a black day for all those striving for an end to the nuclear arms race.

"A final decision will be made by the electorate next May," he said of the scheduled elections.

Parliament still must approve the treaty governing the mechanics of deployment, and in his letter, Lubbers said, "The government wants to emphasize again that this decision has not ended its striving for arms control and arms reduction, but that it is guided by a wish for security and peace inside and outside the Netherlands and is still committed to reaching an arms control agreement between East and West within NATO.

"Accordingly in that case, as is also stated in the agreement with the United States, the number of missiles to be deployed or already deployed in the Netherlands can be adapted."

BAR

Funds would be used to help pay for the legal services of the poor. "The public gains, the administration of justice prevails, and the poor and disadvantaged are served...We will help fulfill our American guarantee of equal justice for everyone."

• Continuing Legal Education (CLE) program to help ensure lawyers' competency. The program, subject to a referendum by the lawyers in the State Bar, would require lawyers to accrue a minimum of 15 hours of self-study and seminar training each year or else be barred from practicing law. At present, less than 40 percent of Texas' lawyers participate in the now-optional CLE program. A mandatory CLE program would help lawyers become better practitioners and would upgrade the public's image of lawyers. Smith said it is "absolutely essential" that the measure be passed. Otherwise, Smith said he would "absolutely guarantee you" that the Texas Legislature will "do it for us."

• Disciplining lawyers for unethical practices. "The State Bar has no greater responsibility...than the handling of disciplinary matters." Smith said he's "proud" to say that he knows of no other group or profession that sets higher ethical standards or disciplines itself so rigorously as does the legal profession and, particularly, the State Bar of Texas.

"In order to hold public confidence, protect the public and improve our image," Smith said, "we must keep our profession free and clear of unethical practitioners."

Smith, a 54-year-old San Antonio lawyer, said currently that 166 suits to disbar, suspend or reprimand lawyers are pending in Texas state district courts. Half of those cases are in Harris County (Houston), which has about 13,000 lawyers. Midland has 370 lawyers, and Odessa, 177, but most of the state's lawyers are in Houston, Dallas (8,000), Fort Worth (2,200), Austin (3,500) and San Antonio (3,000).

"We are working like the devil to get those things moved and do a better job." But Smith said the State Bar has "so much difficulty" in disciplining unethical attorneys due to delays employed by the defendant attorneys. Smith noted the irony in that, since the State Bar is made up of men and women dedicated to speedy trials and equal justice.

Smith said the State Bar also is concerned about the growing number of legal clinics and discount attorneys, lawyer advertising, and paying "reasonable compensation" to state and federal judges. The compensation today is "unconscionable."

Midlander jailed for burglary of habitation

From Staff Reports

A 25-year-old Midland man remained in Midland County Jail late Friday on $125,000 bond following his arrest on charges of burglary of a habitation with the intent to commit assault, aggravated assault and injury to a child.

The man, whose name was not released, is expected to be arraigned Monday in District Court.

PLAN

"They have nothing to back it up," Neal said.

The Gramm-Rudman amendment would require Congress to adopt a budget that includes steps to gradually decrease the federal deficit until 1991, when the debt would be erased. If the spending bill does not reduce the deficit by the desired amount, the amendment calls for across-the-board cuts in all discretionary programs except Social Security.

Neal said Gramm's plan would cut $161 billion from the federal debt in fiscal 1986.

Edwards said Congress is also considering a proposal that would require states to maintain current levels of Medicaid coverage. If that provision passes, he said, Texas would have to find some way of replenishing the lost revenue.

Edwards said the combination of those two proposals "could put us in a serious bind."

The Republican-controlled Senate debated Gramm's amendment in depth before approving the measure about three weeks ago, Neal said, adding that the House leadership has developed a plan of its own.

The House proposal, known as the "take the medicine now" plan, would cut the deficit by $180 billion in fiscal 1986 — about $21 billion more than the Gramm-Rudman amendment.

Neal said it is likely that the House will approve its own version of the cut-back plan "by a small margin," and then send the measure to the Senate. He said the Senate would likley reject the House plan and send the two proposals to a conference committee to work out differences.

Trust fund has been set up for accident victim

From Staff Reports

A trust fund has been established at Texas American Bank in the name of Midlander John Deppenthaler who was critically injured Monday afternoon in an automobile accident on Loop 250. He remained in serious condition Friday at Midland Memorial Hospital.

Persons wishing to give to the trust fund should contact Mary Rawls or Paul Brown at 563-1911.

Deppenthaler is due to undergo extensive physical therapy and further surgery.

Hispanics at Kelly Air Force Base file class action discrimination suit

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Two San Antonio brothers, claiming they and hundreds of other Hispanics at Kelly Air Force Base have been victims of bigotry and racism, filed a $300 million class action discrimination lawsuit Friday against the Secretary of the Air Force.

"Those people are racists and bigots, let's face it," said Manual Munoz Jr., of his Kelly superiors who he said have denied him promotions.

Munoz said the lawsuit was filed on behalf of more than 1,000 Hispanics at Kelly with a GS rating of 9 to 15.

"We're not good enough to have the jobs" at the higher levels, Munoz said at a news conference after the suit was filed in federal court.

Michael Galvan Jr., another Hispanic Kelly worker supporting the suit, said his superiors "from the general on down" are responsible for the alleged discrimination.

"We've got to let them all know we're not wetbacks. We're Americans," he said.

The lawsuit seeks a permanent injunction barring any further alleged discrimination against Mexican males and the reassignment of affected workers to jobs they would have if the alleged discrimination did not exist.

Munoz said the suit also seeks $300 million in wages and other benefits lost because of alleged conditions at Kelly.

"We have not yet been notified of a lawsuit," said Lt. Col. Ed Cooke, Kelly spokesman.

"However, we are proud of and stand by our record of equal opportunity employment," he said.

"Nearly 61 percent of Kelly Air Force Base employees are Hispanic. It is the highest number of Hispanics employed anywhere in the federal government. Kelly Air Force Base is very conscious of and committed to equal employment opportunities for all people," Cooke said.

Munoz, 50, said he has been a supervisor at a GS11 rating at Kelly since 1969. He started working at Kelly in 1959 as a WG worker, or blue collar employee, he said.

He said he was promoted to a GS or white collar rating in 1969 while he was working at the Air Force Communications Squadron at Oklahoma City.

He since has returned to Kelly and has not been promoted, he said, claiming he was passed over eight times in 1975 for promotions.

Munoz, who said he has a bachelor's degree, said his boss has only a high school education.

"Back in the 60s, they told Mexican American males you don't have the qualifications, the training to be a supervisor. That's no longer the situation," he said.

Munoz's brother Jesus, 53, said he has worked at Kelly for 33 years and has been in a GS9 rating for 12 years.

"I have been interviewed for a GS11 at least 10 times and have been passed over every time," he said.

Manual Munoz said he did not know "what will happen to me Monday" when he returns to work.

"There's something wrong at Kelly and someone has to take the lead," he said.

Of the 16,000 civilian workers at Kelly, 9,000 are Hispanic, Manual Munoz said.

Judge: Spindletop suits should be dropped

BEAUMONT (AP) — A U.S. magistrate recommended Friday the dismissal of two lawsuits in which thousands of people claim they are entitled to royalties from the legendary Spindletop oil field.

U.S. Magistrate Earl Hines said the suit should be dropped because the claimants have waited 50 years since Texas wildcatter James Meadors disappeared to take the issue to court.

"Naturally, we're disappointed," said William T. Rossini, one of the attorneys representing plaintiffs in the case. "But we feel like we took the best opportunity that we could to push it to trial."

Rossini, of Dallas, said he had not yet seen the judge's ruling but would probably decide to appeal the case.

Five oil companies named as defendants asked Hines to make a recommendation by Friday to U.S. District Judge Joe Fisher. Fisher is now expected to make the official ruling on whether to dismiss the suits.

Fisher was in court Friday and could not be reached for comment.

The lawsuits contend the descendants of Meadors — sometimes spelled Meadows, Meddors, Medders or any of several other ways — should have been getting proceeds from Spindletop royalties since 1911, when Meadors reportedly bought an interest in the field.

Spindletop, the first salt dome oil discovery, erupted near Beaumont in 1901, spewing thousands of barrels of oil before it could be capped.

Jury to decide whether murderer-rapist should die

HOUSTON (AP) — A jury began hearing testimony Friday prior to deciding whether a 27-year-old man should die for killing a man and raping his female companion.

Jurors took only 11 minutes Thursday to convict William Robinson of capital murder for his part in the killing of a man during a June 11 robbery.

During closing arguments Thursday, prosecutor Charley Davidson told the jury that there was no question that Robinson was guilty under Texas' law of parties, which allows all participants in a crime during which someone is killed to be convicted of murder.

"The only issue is, what role did Mr. Robinson play?" Davidson said.

Robinson admitted to police he helped rob the couple and rape the 30-year-old woman. Excerpts of his confession admitted into evidence did not mention the killing of Steven Michael Creasey, 26.

But Robinson did admit he took a .38-caliber pistol identified as the murder weapon to his sister's house and that he and two other men were looking for someone to rob when they went out on the evening of the attack.

The 30-year-old woman testified she and Creasey had been to a grocery store shortly after midnight June 11 when they were confronted by a man with a gun.

She said the gunman made them lie on the ground and robbed them. She said a second man came up behind her and dragged her to a car, where a driver was waiting.

Shortly after she was thrown in the car, she said, she heard the shot that killed Creasey. He died June 12.

The woman testified that as the men drove, they took turns raping her in the back seat. She was unable to identify Robinson as one of her abductors because the men pulled her shirt over her head, she said.

Defense attorney Wes Hocker argued prosecutors sought to prove their case "with mirrors" because they had no eyewitness identification of his client.

Michael Glen Dennard, 28, also is charged with capital murder in the case. A third man, Jessie Ray Oliver, 30, was shot to death days after the crime.

Police say Oliver had planned to confess his part in the crime.

Water For Texas' Future

There's no doubt about it: Texans are running out of water. West Texas has been hit the hardest. Repeated droughts have devastated farmers and ranchers and hurt economies in cities and towns throughout our area.

Here in West Texas, depletion of our aquifers threatens to leave us without the water we need for irrigation, industry and home consumption.

Without water, West Texas will return to the desert. Sixty-five percent of the state's irrigation occurs in West Texas—and 80% of this water is now drying up.

On Tuesday, November 5, West Texans will have a chance to help approve a comprehensive, long-range water plan for Texas—by voting "Yes" on Proposition 1 and 2.

Your "Yes" vote will bring desperately-needed help to West Texas, creating bonds for new reservoirs, water conservation programs and projects for water supply, wastewater treatment, desalinization and flood control.

Best of all, the plan requires no new taxes.
Don't let any other part of the state decide the future of West Texas! Vote "Yes" for Propositions 1 and 2. The choice is yours!

Jury dedalocked in FBI agent's trial

NATION

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jurors in the Richard W. Miller spy trial said Friday they are unable to agree on a unanimous verdict on any of the seven charges against the only FBI agent ever tried for espionage.

But U.S. District Judge David Kenyon instructed the jurors to take the weekend off and Monday to try again to break their deadlock.

"After careful consideration of the evidence, and all of the testimony, the jury is unable to reach a unanimous verdict on any of the counts," said the note to Kenyon signed by all 12 members of the panel.

Since Oct. 18, the jury has spent about 56 hours over 11 days conferring behind closed doors and listening to repetitions of testimony. They also assessed testimony from about 100 witnesses as well as massive amounts of documentary and electronic evidence.

Miller, 48, is charged with passing classified documents to the Soviet Union in exchange for promises of $65,000 in cash and gold.

The note came as a surprise, moments after Kenyon announced he had received another communication from the jurors asking to go home early and return Monday to deliberate further.

Kenyon recessed court, went into his chamber and returned seconds later to announce, "We have just received a note for the jury."

He revealed the jury's decision and recessed court briefly. Kenyon brought the jurors back into court and instructed them to relax over the weeked before trying again for a verdict. He then dismissed them.

"We all know you've been working diligently and we know this is probably difficult for all of you," Kenyon told the six women and six men. "Obviously, it's important to all of the parties here that a decision is made."

Kenyon said the jury should "forget about it for the weekend or think about it...whatever will bring you peace of mind, and then come back in and commence your deliberations on Monday."

He added, "My heart goes out to you. The decision is not always easy, but we do appreciate your efforts."

Friday morning, the jurors had sent a note asking for a legal definition of state of mind. Kenyon replied with a note saying: "Dear members of the jury: State of mind is simply what a person is thinking when a person says or does or does not say or do something."

Before the jury's announcement, Kenyon angrily summoned attorneys to his courtroom to express outrage at news reports that said he appeared to have been worried the jurors might deadlock.

"I would be perfectly willing at this time to swear it never entered my mind of a deadlock at this point in the deliberations," he said.

Kenyon singled out a Los Angeles Times report headlined, "Possible Jury Deadlock In Miller's Spy Trial Raised Publicly by Judge," although others, including The Associated Press, published similar reports after Thursday's hearing.

He said the only reason he was concerned was because jurors might see that story.

"This isn't some little rinky-dink newspaper in some rinky-dink town," Kenyon said. "This is read by thousands of people."

He quoted a portion of the article that said attorneys and the judge were nervous about a possible deadlock.

"The only people I've seen nervous around here, bless your souls, are the news media," he told about a dozen reporters in court for the hearing.

Times Deputy Managing Editor Noel Greenwood said, "We believe our story is a fair account of the proceedings. But we intend to report the judge's statement in tomorrow's paper."

Pendelton calls for end of affirmative action

PARK CITY, Utah (AP) — Clarence M. Pendleton Jr., chairman of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, said Friday that President Reagan will move soon to weaken affirmative action regulations but probably will not abolish them.

Pendleton told the 4th Annual Education Law Seminar that he believes blacks would be better off if Reagan eliminated the federal government's role in enforcing affirmative action rules.

"(Affirmative action) was given to us by white folks as white man's magic. He decided we could be better off by dividing us up and saying, 'This is the way you make progress,'" said Pendleton, who is black.

Reagan likely will sign a controversial executive order in the near future reinstating President Lyndon Johnson's 1965 affirmative action executive order, he said.

The action would abolish mandatory affirmative action quotas and other regulations, leaving it up to corporations and individuals to chose their own standards.

Pendleton told the gathering here he favors wiping affirmative action laws off the books, but acknowledged that court decisions bolstering the practice stand in the way.

"There's no reason disadvantaged people can't be advantaged. Government policy certainly hasn't advantaged them," he said. "Remember, the great war on poverty was won by poverty."

The major problem created by programs designed to increase hiring of women and minorities, Pendleton said, is it makes for "new victims and gives benefits to those who've never been discriminated against."

Court: Man in car stuck in mud guilty of drunken driving

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A man who guzzled beer after his car got stuck in a mudhole is guilty of drunken driving, even though the car could not move, the Alaska Court of Appeals ruled Friday.

The appeals court said state laws on drunken driving do not require that a vehicle be capable of moving, just that a person be in "actual physical control" of the vehicle.

According to the opinion, Calvin Lathan, 29, drank a few beers at a Fairbanks bar the night of Sept. 29, 1984. The Fairbanks resident then drove to a liquor store and bought a 12-pack of beer.

He apparently had not yet consumed enough to be legally drunk, which requires having a blood-alcohol content of .10 perecent, the court said.

As Lathan drove down a back road, the car's left front wheel got stuck in a mudhole along the road's edge. Lathan spent 30 to 90 minutes out in the cold rain, trying unsuccessfully to get his car out of the mud.

Cold, wet and muddy, Lathan finally gave up and got back into his car. Sitting behind the wheel, he started the car, turned on the heater and started downing beers.

He had emptied seven or eight of the 12-ounce cans by 5 a.m., when a state trooper came by and found Lathan asleep, the car's motor running.

Lathan was taken to the trooper station, where a test showed a blood-alcohol content of .209 percent. A tow-truck could not get the car out of the mud, and workers removed it from the mire with a winch.

Lathan pleaded not guilty to driving while intoxicated, and his first district court trial ended with a hung jury. In a second trial, Lathan waived his right to a jury, and District Judge Christopher Zimmerman found him guilty.

In upholding Zimmerman's ruling, the appeals court rejected arguments of Lathan's defense attorney, who said the Legislature could not have intended to punish such conduct because it poses no danger.

Bit part propelled truck driver into role of sheriff on 'Dallas'

TERRELL, Texas (AP) — When a 36-year-old Terrell truck driver took a bit part in a locally made movie it propelled him into an acting career.

Ten years later, Harlan Jordan still lives in Terrell, but he's a working character actor for Texas-produced movies, television shows and commercials.

There have been more productions in one month in Texas this year than in all of 1975, said Jordan, who was in Longview to tape a commercial.

Jordan said he knows of only two movies made in Texas in 1975, but in 1985 approximately 40 movies will be made in the state.

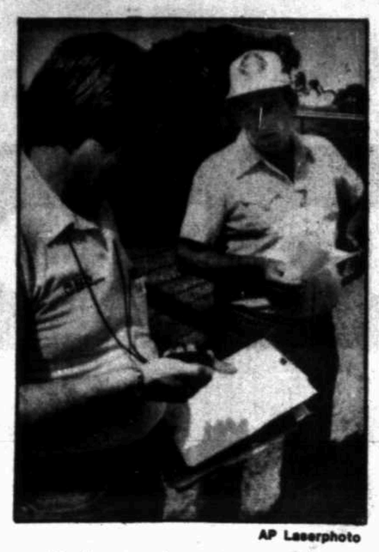

Jordan, who plays a sheriff in CBS' "Dallas" this fall, says, "That's a good indication. Another growing market is commercials.

"I don't think we will ever replace Hollywood. Hollywood is going to be the movie place, but it is picking up here."

Jordan said in the last 10 years more actors have moved to Texas. Although it increases his competition, it gives producers a better labor force and increases the chances of more movies being made in the state, he said.

Jordan has worked in television and radio commercials, industrial films and movies and appeared in magazine and newspaper ads.

At one time, Jordan was the voice behind both KXAS TV's Action News and the Channel 8 News in the Dallas-Fort Worth area. He is the narrator for the state's industrial film, "Texas — Live the Legend."

AP Laserphoto

Harlen Jordan of Terrell, right, talks to Barry Hanson of KLTV. Jordan, who plays a sheriff on CBS' "Dallas" series this season, says a part in a locally produced movie propelled him from a truck driver to a part-time actor.

Jordan played the bartender in "Tender Mercies," a deputy in "Stormin' Home," and a sheriff in both "Voyeur" and "Five Days From Home."

He says he gets to play law officers and truck drivers a lot because of his large frame. Jordan does stand tall at 6-foot-2 inches, and, at about 220 pounds, he's not a lightweight.

But Jordan said he didn't start out to be an actor, he just fell into the part.

"I fell into it by accident in Terrell. I got involved with the community theater there. When they came to interview actors for "Drive-In," a few of us went down. I'm the only one who got a role. I played a truck driver, which is what I had done for 15 years," he said.

The movie's director introduced Jordan to an agent and he began free-lancing as an actor.

"Mostly I play small parts. That's what you get here. If you want to get bigger parts you have to go to Hollywood. But, I'm not the Hollywood type. I wasn't born an actor," he said.

To keep from becoming a starving actor, Jordan raises hogs and chickens and has a garden, he said. "This is one actor who ain't going to starve."

Jordan said he's fortunate he began his career at 36 since the competition is so stiff among younger actors.

Still a bachelor, Jordan said being an actor hasn't helped his bankroll much.

"I'm sure not a rich man, but I'm doing better than most (actors)."

Senators have to get down to business before holiday recess

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was Christmas in October. Or rather, it was a pointed reminder from Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole that Christmas is coming and that the Senate has miles to go before it celebrates.

Dole gathered a cluster of youthful pages in the meeting room of the Senate Republican conference last week and launched them into a chorus of "Jingle Bells."

He said he hoped senators got the point.

It is the time of year when most senators want to get out of town as soon as possible, preferably well before Thanksgiving.

And other senators, exploiting that impatience, erect legislative "Christmas trees," adorning selected items of must-pass money bills with a sparkling assortment of wish-list amendments.

Dole's assistant, Sen. Alan K. Simpson, R-Wyo., calls it the "Christmas Crunch."

And he says it reminds him of the annual and inevitable ritual dance of Wyoming's "rather fascinating bird called a sage chicken."

"It plumps itself up and struts and goes through what would be best called a primitive mating dance," Simpson said.

"It is rather fascinating to watch," he told the Senate. "It is annual. It comes without question."

Apparently, as the sage chicken goes, so goes the Senate.

"The Christmas crunch is something we say will never happen again," Simpson said. "We say that we are going to get out on Oct. 1, then we say Oct. 15, then we say Nov. 1, then we say Nov. 15, then we say Thanksgiving, then we say 'maybe' Dec. 1."

With a pile of unfinished legislative business, the current session is on a collision course with Christmas itself, said Simpson.

And one of the reasons, he said, is that throughout the year senators are forever slipping away on Mondays and Fridays, making theirs a three-day work week.

According to Simpson, someone once asked a famous bandleader what had been the most frequent request he had received over the years. It was, he replied, "Where is the restroom?"

In the Senate, said Simpson, "the most frequent request I have had is 'When do we get out of here?' Or, 'Do we get Friday off?' Or, 'Do we get Monday off?'"

As assistant majority leader, or whip, the senator's prime duty is to keep the Senate running and Republican troops mustered for action.

But sometimes, the senator sighed, "I think that whip is about as rigid as an elongated noodle."

They mine coal in West Virginia.

And last week, Senate Minority leader Robert C. Byrd, who represents that state, got a piece of it.

It was two feet long, 15 inches high and weighed 110 pounds.

The block of coal had been crafted into the shape of a coal burning locomotive by Danville, W. Va., sculptor James E. Stewart and was the gift of the Association of American Railroads.

British Methodist minister brings thanks from 'green, pleasant land'

By JEFF LISSON

SHERMAN (AP) — Two hundred and fifty years ago, John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, came to the British colony of Georgia as a missionary. Recently, the current minister of Wesley's Chapel in London paid a visit to Texas to reinforce ties between American Methodism and its English roots.

The Rev. Ronald Gibbins, 65th successor to John Wesley as leader of Wesley's Chapel, founded in 1778, visited Sherman and Paris.

"In coming, one wants to say, in part, 'thank you' " to American Methodists for contributing 52 percent of the money needed to restore Wesley's Chapel in 1978," said Gibbins. "One wants to tell American Methodists about Wesley's Chapel, and to meet with them, speak with them, and ask for continued help," he said.

"The visit is designed to keep us in touch with our roots, and it would be interesting for Methodists in Texas to be in contact with our historical past," said the Rev. John Rentfro, district superintendent of the United Methodist Church's Sherman-McKinney district, and Gibbins' host.

Born in the East End of London, Gibbins was a boy cadet in the Royal Air Force. He suffered extensive burns in an air crash while in active service, and became a minister after witnessing the devastation of World War II.

Gibbins graduated from Wesley College in Bristol, England, and was ordained in 1949. He also holds degrees in theology and sociology from London University, with a post-graduate degree in education. He is the author of several books.

Texas, the doctor of ministry explained, is experiencing rapid growth in Methodist membership. "The strength of Methodism worldwide is in the U.S., particularly in the South and more especially in Texas," Gibbins explained. Of the estimated 50 million Methodists in the world, more than 15 million are in this country.

In addition, Methodists in the U.S. comprise a greater percentage of the population than in Great Britain, where there are about 750,000 Methodists. "The American church is much stronger than the British church in numbers and wealth," Gibbins said.

There also are other differences between the U.S. and English branches of the church. "The American church is more aggressive in their organization and thrust," the visitor said. "There are also differences in the polity of the church," or the church hierarchy, such as the American church's use of bishops and council of bishops.

"The religion is essentially pragmatic and dynamic. It moves and adjusts, which is what happened when the U.S. church was formed," said Gibbins' wife, Olive, a former theology professor.

Beauty of transitional November lies in eyes of chilly beholders

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID

WASHINGTON (AP) — Enjoyed by some for crisp autumn weather, disliked by others who find it chilly and drear, November's transition from fall to winter is getting under way.

Winter won't be official until December, of course, but the frosts are at hand in many areas in November, the color of leaves is fading from the trees and bitter winds begin to arrive from the north.

Although the year's eleventh month arrived Friday, the name November is based on the Latin word for nine; since it was the ninth month for Romans, who celebrated the New Year in March.

The approach of winter very well could have become known as the month Tiber, with the Roman Senate offering to rename it after Tiberius, as they had renamed July and August after Julius and Augustus before him.

But Tiberius rejected the idea, so severe weather still sweeps across America in November.

Even though winter isn't here yet, in Medieval times, St. Clements' Day, Nov. 23, was considered the start of winter. And perhaps they were correct.

Early in the month, the tradition of Indian summer intervenes, but by the end of November, much of the nation sees winterlike storms bounding across the countryside as the speed of weather increases with cold air.

Both America and Europe have a tradition of a warm spell at this time of year.

Called Indian Summer in the United States, one tradition is that it is any period of unusual warmth following the first frost of the year. Others insist that specific dates in early November apply.

Since this warm period often occurs around All Saints Day, Nov. 1, it is known as All Saints Rest in Scandinavia, where the cold weather often gets an early start.

More commonly in France and England, however, it is associated with St. Martin's Day on Nov. 11, and is known as St. Martin's Summer.

According to folklore, on a cold November morning, Martin, Bishop of Tours, gave half his cloak to a shivering beggar.

West Texas preacher outlives most of congregation

SWEETWATER (AP) — The Rev. F.K. Williams recently celebrated 45 years as pastor of the Mt. Rose Baptist Church. But the road he took to get there was a long one, unimagined by many in his congregation.

The reason much of the 78-year-old Williams' life may be a mystery to most Mt. Rose members — he simply outlasted them.

"We had about 200 members when I got here, and about 150 now. But I think there are only four members here now who were here when I got here," he said in a recent conversation at his small, neat home on Tom Green Street in this West Texas town of 13,000. "The older ones die, their children all move off when they get out of school or get married."

Williams first came to Sweetwater in October 1940. The small all-black church was in a 24-foot-by 24-foot frame building. The 33-year-old minister had served black Baptist churches in Sylvester, McCaulley, Roby and Rotan — two at a time.

Williams came to West Texas when he was 15, escaping with the help of a white man from what he says was a virtual state of slavery in South Central Texas.

He had learned to drive at the age of 12 because a white traveling salesman who befriended him got drunk and needed someone to drive him from one town to another. Williams himself sampled some of the stuff the salesman drank — perhaps the only time in his life he has ever been incapacitated in that way, he says.

WILLIAMS WAS born Feb. 3, 1907, near Bryan in Brazos County, the ninth child and first son of the family. His mother died in childbirth and his father couldn't take care of him, so "They gave me to my aunt; my mother's oldest sister," he said.

The aunt moved to near Livingston in Polk County and went to work for Harry Robertson, a white farmer, as a housekeeper. She had two children by Robertson while working for him, said Williams.

The years with Robertson, potentially fraught with the stuff from which soap operas are made, is instead a very pleasant memory, said Williams. "He gave me my first books, my first clothes, first everything. He taught me I had to earn whatever I got. I mean, if you wanted a quarter or something from him, he would hand you a broom and make you earn it...I didn't even know I was black until I was 7; there wasn't any of that black-white stuff there.

"He gave me some advice I have never forgotten: 'Never beg. Never steal, and don't borrow too much.'

"I guess, if anyone is responsible for making me what I am, it's that man," he said of Robertson.

It didn't last long, however. Williams' aunt died "before I really got to know her, and I was given to her husband. I guess you would say my uncle-in-law. We stayed together just the two of us, until 1926, when he passed away."

Williams was 19 years old, and shortly afterward began his preaching career.

But by then Williams had already put away a normal lifetime of memories, some good and some not so good.

A so-called bootlegging incident when he was 7 wasn't much, he said. It mostly involved selling beer to thirsty farmhands before their saloon opened for the day. "Mr. Robertson gave us (Williams and his two cousins by Robertson) three kegs of beer and told us to sell it. We did."

AS FOR learning to drive, Williams said the salesman got drunk one day between Navasota and Dime Box on his rounds, and taught the 12-year-old Williams to drive the new 1919 model-T.

"Funny thing," said Williams, "he talked to his car just like it was a horse-and-carriage. A policeman stopped us, took him to jail and told me to move on."

Williams ended up back in Brazos County when he was 14 and ran smack into a relic from the Civil War that had ended 66 years before — de facto, if not legal, economic enslavement of blacks.

As Williams explains it, blacks settled as sharecroppers on farms and ranches owned by white landowners. He says the landowners ran "commissaries," or company stores for the tenants — mostly illiterate and unschooled in such things — which meant that the blacks were more or less forced to buy what they needed from the stores.

"At the end of the month, they took out of your pay what they said you owed the store, whether you did or not," Williams said.

It was hard for a black to ever get even economically, and hard for him to ever get away from the farm. The landlord wanted the blacks to stay ignorant, to never know that life elsewhere could be better, he said. "Anyone from outside that tried to come down there and take blacks out might end up dead."

The going rate of pay on those farms was $1.25 a day, he said.

Williams was befriended by Bob Pool, who was white. Pool took Williams, then 14, back to Polk County for a year on a promise of a wage of $40 a month plus keep.

POOL HAD known that life for a black was much better elsewhere, and thus was taking a great chance — perhaps even risking his life, Williams said — on taking the young black man elsewhere.

But Pool also knew that life for a black was very good in West Texas, that he was free to come and go as he pleased.

Men charged for smashing holy statue

WORLD

PORTLAOISE, Ireland (AP) — Three men were arraigned Friday on vandalism charges, accused of smashing a statue of the Virgin Mary as three Roman Catholic nuns and about 30 worshipers watched in horror.

The statue has attracted hundreds of thousands of pilgrims since last July when two women claimed to have seen it sway gently. Others later said they had seen the statue's hands and feet move.

Police had to restrain a crowd gathered outside the courthouse as the three accused men walked inside holding Bibles. Two of them read Bibles while waiting for their cases to be called.

The three, Roderick Murphy, 36, Robert Draper, 33, and Anthony Fowler, 24, were arraigned on charges of causing malicious damage in connection with Thursday's attack at a roadside grotto near the village of Ballinspittle. They were released on bail equivalent to $960 each, pending a further hearing.

Murphy was described in court as a truck driver, Fowler as a cleaner and Draper as a "Christian preacher." They did not mention their religious denomination and were not available for comment after the arraignment.

The trio was arrested a few hours after three men smashed the head, halo and hands of a life-size concrete statue of the Virgin Mary with a hammer, ax and iron bar.

During the attack, one of the worshipers shouted, "You must be Satan to do something like this!" One of the vandals shouted back, "You are worse to be adoring false gods."

Since the reports of movement, the local Roman Catholic bishop urged caution about the claims. A scientist said the movements were optical illusions caused by the statue's gray background and glare from the illuminated halo.

At Ballinspittle, the village's grotto committee said the statue would be repaired within days and that prayer — which has gone on virtually around the clock since the first claim of movement — should continue at the site.

The chairman of the grotto committee, Stephen Nolan, said: "People from all over the country have been telephoning here all night to convey their sorrow. This will not stop worshipers coming to Ballinspittle."

Senate panel says Marcos government needs to make changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Increasing civil unrest and a growing communist insurgency will force change in the government of the Philippines within the next three years unless President Ferdinand Marcos makes major reforms, a new assessment concluded Friday.

The prediction by the Senate Intelligence Committee was the most pessimistic forecast yet about the future of the Philippines, a key U.S. Pacific ally and the home of the two biggest American military bases outside the United States.

In the two years since opposition leader Benigno Aquino was assassinated as he stepped off a plane on his return to Manila from the United States, U.S. officials have become increasingly concerned about Marcos' future.

Last month, President Reagan sent Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., as a personal envoy to Manila to deliver a message to Marcos that the United States wanted reform.

Earlier this week, top State Department and Pentagon officials told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the former U.S. colony is headed toward "civil war on a massive scale" unless Marcos makes drastic changes.

Sen. David Durenberger, R-Minn., chairman of the Intelligence Committee, told a news conference Friday that "I am hopeful Marcos will step aside."

But the ailing Marcos, who has ruled since 1965, has shown no signs that he plans to do so and is out of touch with the seriousness of the threat to his government, Durenberger said.

"All we're getting from him is a public relations barrage," Durenberger said.

Durenberger said he doesn't know what should be done, but that "I'm not suggesting" the United States should use covert action to destabilize Marcos' government or should take other steps to ensure Marcos' successor is friendly to the United States.

The communists, who fight under the name New Peoples Army (NPA), control or are contesting areas inhabited by 10 million of the 53 million people in the Philippines, the report said.

"In the two years since the Aquino assassination, the NPA has expanded so rapidly that it now poses a credible threat to the survival of the Philippine government," it said.

"From a total force of a few thousand armed guerrillas in 1970, the NPA has grown to probably over 15,000 regulars and a somewhat larger number of part-time irregulars," the study concluded.

The response by the Philippine military "has been inept" because the military is led by Marcos' cronies and has been guilty of a wide range of abuses, according to the report.

"The recent rapid growth" of the insurgents "is attributable to the communists' skillful exploitation of a growing catalogue of popular grievances against the Marcos regime," it said.

"Government policies have tended to increase rural poverty and worsen income distribution," it noted, "Most Filipinos blame official corruption for much of their government's poor performance."

"Abuses perpetuated by the corrupt officers and undisciplined personnel and a general breakdown of peace and order have severely shaken respect for the military and the police."

The communist movement is indigenous and there is no evidence it has been supplied with weapons or money by the Soviet Union, the report said, but "Soviet attention to events in the Philippines is certainly on the rise."

WEATHER SUMMARY

Conditions forecast for 8 p.m. Saturday

Rains in store for Midland

From Staff and Wire Reports

Midland should be in store for a rainy day as the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal calls for partly cloudy skies with a 40 percent chance of showers.

Today's high should be near 60. Winds will be from the east at 10 to 20 mph. The low tonight will be in the low 30s.

On Sunday, forecasters call for fair skies with a high in the low 60s.

Friday's high of 62 was 25 degrees below the record set in 1952. The morning low of 43 was 16 degrees above the record set in 1966.

STATE

Showers and a few thunderstorms spread across much of the western two-thirds of Texas Friday as a cold front settled in, bringing mostly cloudy skies to the entire state.

Skies were expected to clear and nighttime temperatures drop over the weekend, the National Weather Service said.

North of Friday's front, winds continued out of the north and northwest, while east and southeast winds prevailed over parts of South Texas and the coast.

Temperatures were mostly in the 40s and 50s over North and West Texas while readings in the 60s and 70s were common elsewhere, and a few readings reached the 80s over parts of South Texas. Extremes ranged from 42 degrees in the Guadalupe Mountains to 89 at McAllen.

The forecast for North Texas was mostly cloudy on Saturday with a chance of rain mainly east and decreasing cloudiness overnight. Temperatures should range from about 60 on Saturday to the upper 30s, with highs Sunday from 62 to 66.

NATION

Cloudy skies and rain covered most of the nation Friday, with heavy rain and street flooding reported in southwestern Indiana.

Colorado recorded up to 10 inches of snow, while New England enjoyed a sunny day.

More than 4 inches of rain fell since Tuesday across western Kentucky and at Evansville, Ind., where flooding was reported in streets and low-lying areas. Nearly 2 inches fell in 24 hours at Wausau and Madison, Wis.

Rain also was widespread from the upper half of the Mississippi Valley across the Ohio and Tennessee valleys to the Carolinas, the Virginias and Maryland. Showers and thunderstorms lingered over the Florida Peninsula and along the coast of the Carolinas.

Permian's big last half subdues Bulldogs

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

One day after Holloween, Midland High had the trick but Odessa Permian got the treat, being a 27-10 playoff-clinching 27-10 District 4-5A victory at Memorial Stadium.

Trailing 14-0, the Bulldogs pulled off the biggest play from scrimmage on a play called swinging gate, to fool the Panthers for 43-yard gain.

After running a one-yard keeper on first-and-10 at the Bulldog 34, MHS quarterback Matt Marcum bent down near the ball and, while the rest of the team was huddled up on the line of scrimmage to his left, he center-snapped the ball to Jake Madrid.

Madrid, who had been held to only five yards on four carries in the first quarter, took off down field and was only kept out of the end zone by Permian linebacker Danny Servance, who hauled down the MHS halfback at the Permian 22.

The trick play not only worked for a big game, but kept the rattled Panther defense off guard for the next play as Madrid took a handoff from Marcum and scored. Bobby Williams' PAT made it 14-7 and the Bulldogs were in the hunt.

"The young men worked on that play this week in practice and did a heck of a job on it," said Bulldog head coach Doug McCutchen. "At that point, we needed something to get us going.

"It was the first time we've called that play all year. We've used it on two-point conversions, but never in the middle of the field."

Marcum, who was grinning from ear-to-ear when asked about the play, added, "I thought we were going to score on it. Jake made a nice run."

Madrid was a little doubtful about the play, but it worked out better than he expected.

"I didn't think it would work," admitted Madrid. "I didn't think anybody could put a trick play by them but we did. When Mark threw the ball to me I saw that guy (Servance) head for the corner of the field."

AS CUSTOM has dictated for years, the Panthers got mad when they gave up the touchdown and immediately started a drive down field. After 11 plays and 64 yards, Permian's Woody Bryant picked up enough yards for a first down only to fumble the ball away. Bulldog James Campbell fell on it to end the drive at the 11.

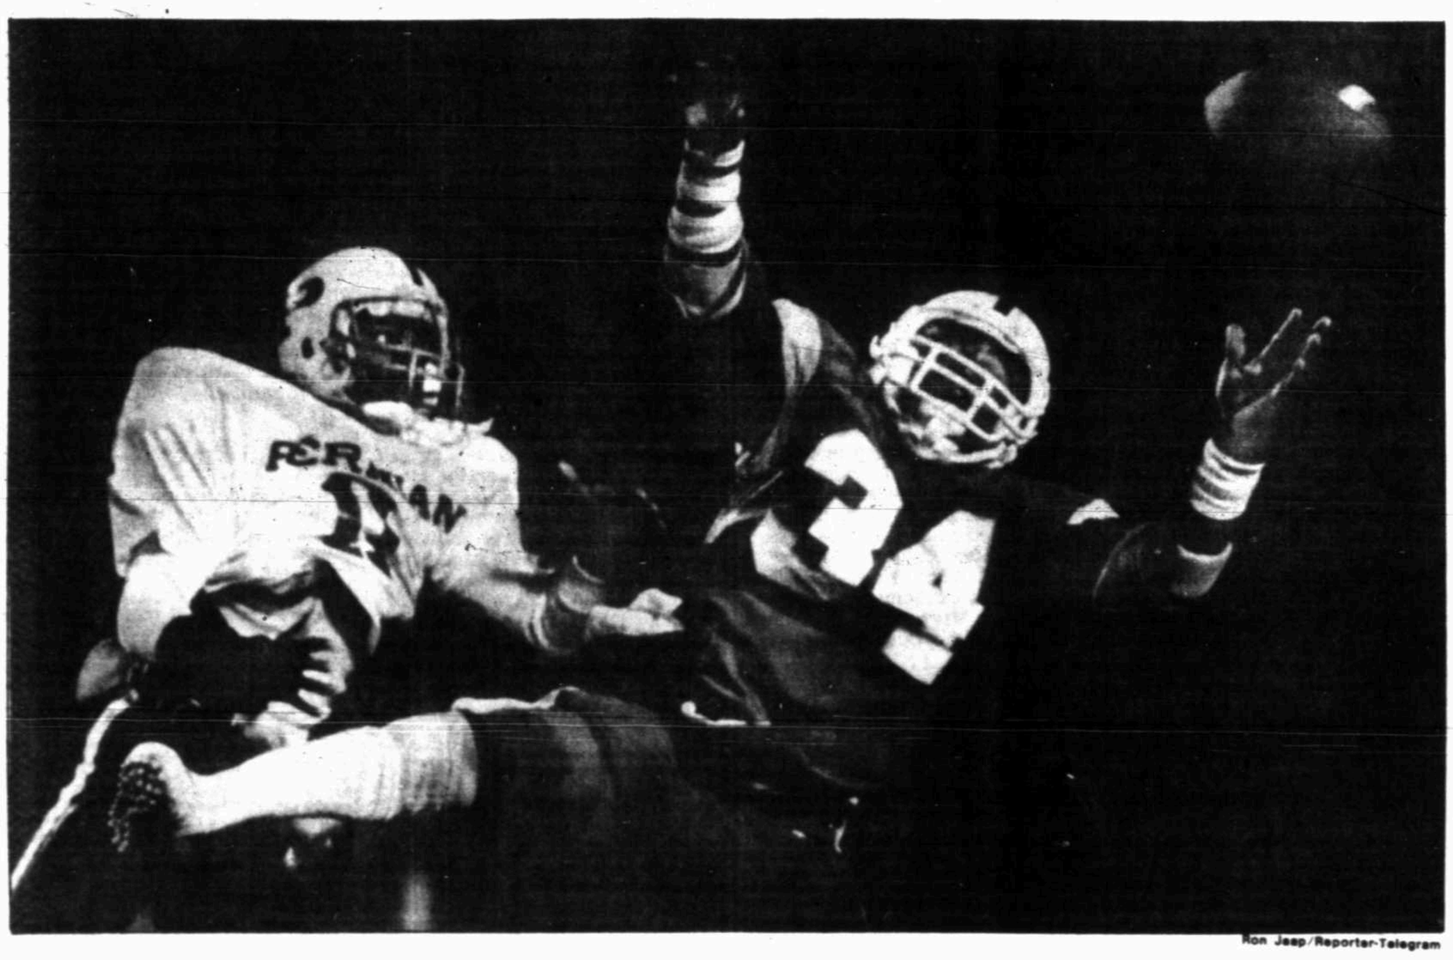

The Bulldogs were fired up and with the help of back-to-back 15-yard penalties, moved to first-and-goal on the Permian eight only to come up empty. Marcum took the blame for failing to produce points on the drive.

On third and five, the senior quarterback had tight end Bobby Williams wide open in the end zone and short-hopped the pass. On the next play, Madrid was stopped for no gain.

"On that drive, Bobby was wide open in the end zone, it's my fault. I threw a BAD PASS. I threw it into the ground," said Marcum.

The Bulldogs were still riding high at that point and held Permian on the Panthers' next possession, getting the ball back on their own 30 after a 41-yard Steve Hill punt.

Reagan buries Rangers, 40-15

By ERIC SCHURER
Sports Writer

After watching his Reagan County Owls dominate Greenwood in a pivotal 8-2A contest, coach Ronnie Reeger might be tempted to ask for one more chance at district-leading McCamey.

Rather than push his luck however, Reeger would probably be satisfied with a playoff spot. Friday's 40-15 whipping of Greenwood went a long way toward that end as the Owls close in on the runner-up spot behind McCamey, the 8-2A champ after a 16-0 win over Eldorado.

"It was just a great game for us," Reeger admitted.

It was especially a great game for senior fullback Tim Tatum. Tatum, a bruising 195-pounder, ran for five touchdowns and 124 yards to cap his finest night as an Owl.

"Our linemen just blew 'em out," Tatum said. "Most of the touchdowns came in short yardage situations, just busting up the middle. After I got past the line, there was nobody in the secondary. We had to win this game, though, it was a big one."

A BIG one, yes. The Owls now are in control of their own destiny and a win next week against Wall will wrap up the all-important playoff spot. The Rangers fell to 2-2, 6-3, and are virtually eliminated from the playoff race.

Stanton	1	3	0	43	81	.250
Wall	1	3	0	36	78	.250

Friday's Games

Reagan County 40, Greenwood 15; Wall 15, Stanton 10; McCamey 16, Eldorado 0.

The Owls, now 3-1, 6-3 and looking nothing like the team that lost to McCamey three weeks ago, rolled up 263 yards on the ground off the normally stingy Rangers' defense and controlled the ball for 24 first downs. To go with Tatum's big night, sophomore tailback James West ran for 83 yards and quarterback Scott Lipsey added 49.

"I don't think the game was as easy as the score shows — we're pretty bruised up," Reeger said. "But we're as healthy as we've been with our offensive line and backfield as we've been in a while. And this was our first game without a turnover all year."

Rebs beat OHS to gain playoff berth

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

ODESSA — Midland Lee linebacker Jay Roach has made many key tackles in District 4-5A play during the 1985 season, but one he made here Friday night against the Odessa High Bronchos put the Rebels back in the state playoffs for the third consecutive year.

Roach tackled Broncho running back Gary Powell for a loss on a two-point conversion attempt with only 1:19 left in the game to save Lee's 7-6 playoff clinching victory.

The win gives Lee a 7-2 record on the season and a district mark of 5-1 for sole possession of second place. Since OHS fell to 3-3 in district play, Lee automatically advances to the state playoffs even if the Rebels lose to Midland High next weekend at Memorial Stadium. Lee's 12-7 victory over San Angelo gives the Rebels the tie-breaker against the Bobcats, who can still finish at 5-2 in district play.

But Lee had trouble putting its name in the playoff bracket in this one and it finally took Roach to put his arms around the problem.

Leading 7-0 with 3:52 left in the game and Odessa High on its own 11-yard line, Lee looked to be safe and home. But the pesky Bronchos marched the 89 yards to close the gap to 7-6 when OHS pulled off a running back to quarterback pass for a 10-yard TD with 1:19 left to play. Powell hit quarterback Shawn Gillham for the score with Kevin Witt draped around him.

OHS, needing a victory to stay in the playoff hunt, had to go for two points and Roach did the job on a sweep by Powell, tossing him for a loss.

"We changed defenses during the time out because we knew they tend to run the option play wide under these conditions. We wanted to stop it before it got around the corner," said a relieved Lee head football coach Jack Tayrien.

Roach added, "We changed to an 80 defense with four linebackers. Their backs were looking to the side they were running and the one on my side looked my way and I knew it was coming to my side. I just went after it and was able to make the play. It was a great feeling and I'm so happy.

"This will be the second year in a row for me in the playoffs and that's great. A lot of players on this team have been to the playoffs two years. We also became the first class at Lee to be in the playoffs all three years we were in school. It's really been fun and I'm looking forward to another playoff trip."

Lee's lone touchdown came much like Odessa's. The Rebels marched 98 yards in 11 clock racing plays to put seven on the boards with only 30 seconds left in the first half.

It took three key plays in the drive to pull off the long drive. First, OHS' Mike Jones was called for roughing the kicker on a fourth and three play that gave Lee a big first down. Then tiny Kirk Thurman broke open a 43-yard gainer two plays later to send Lee to the Broncho 31. And finally, quarterback Rodney Johnson dialed key target Dexter Traylor for a 19-yard TD with 30 seconds left in the half. Terry Baxter's PAT proved to be the winning edge.

"I'm elated to get out of there alive," said Tayrien. "It doesn't make any difference to me how we get in the playoffs — we're there.

"I think the wet field had a lot to do with the way the game went. There were a lot of turnovers by both teams and you have to give Odessa High a lot of credit. I was really impressed with them. They were ready to play."

Outside the two last ditch, clock running touchdowns, the game was a lot like two hens scratching at each other without anything but scars to show for it. Lee recovered four OHS fumbles and the Rebs lost two fumbles of their own.

One Lee fumble was a tough break, costing the Rebels a touchdown. Sophomore running back Joe Woodard was blitzed at the five-yard line, coughed up the ball and lost it in the end zone where OHS was given possession on its own 20-yard line.

"I was really pleased with the way our defense played. They bent some, but they didn't break and they were there when we needed them most. Jay may a great play on the two-point conversion attempt," said Tayrien.

Witt, Chris Kenney, DeJuan Norris and Ronald Pertile all came up with fumble recoveries for Lee to halt dangerous OHS drives.

Rodney Sims led the Lee rushing attack with 77 yards while Ed Lewis led OHS with 47. Powell keyed the OHS TD drive in more ways than tossing the score to his quarterback. He also completed passes of 18 and 12 yards in the drive. His 50 yards passing was more than the 33 posted by OHS quarterback Gillham.

The Rebels' Traylor continues to be the big play man for Lee. He has caught six TD passes this year and they all seem to come when Lee needs them most. He caught the two that defeated San Angelo and that is Lee's playoff margin at this point.

Lee plays Midland High's Bulldogs next weekend in a playoff tuneup. The Rebels will meet either Amarillo Palo Duro or Amarillo High in the bi-district round of the playoffs. Those two teams, unbeaten in District 3-5A play, meet at 2 p.m. today in Amarillo to decide that championship.

Several Lee coaches, headed by Earl Miller, were on their way to Amarillo late Friday night to scout that game.

TED BATTLES

Notre Dame's Gerry strikes back

Notre Dame's Gerry Faust may yet save his job with another strong finish, although it has been a scant three weeks since there was pressure for him to announce his resignation in the event of "two more losses."

The Irish responded by handing long-time traditional rival Army, ranked in the Top 20, its first defeat of the season and then beating longtime tormentor, USC, 37-3.

Faust's record against the Trojans is enough to give Notre Dame administrators "cause". Even Ara Parseghian and Dan Devine, both of whom coached the Irish to national titles, were given fits by the Trojans. And if memory serves, it was USC, with a last minute victory, that deprived Notre Dame a national title in Ara's very first year at South Bend.

However, while two losses may a career end, two wins do not necessarily a career save. In Faust's case, there are still a lot of Redwoods before the end of the woods....Navy this week, Mississippi, Penn State, LSU and Miami...win all of those and Faust would be back in the New Year's Day bowl scene.

The SWC...

SMU minus one over A&M- Aggies are really a temptation in this one since the Mustangs expended a lot of anger and emotion last week. But it's still hard to pick against a team that so completely demolished Texas.

Rice plus 21 over Arkansas- After customary deafening din at Fayetteville and Little Rock, the Razorbacks may not be able to adapt to the eerie silence of Rice Stadium.

Texas minus 15 over Texas Tech- If it were at Lubbock instead of Austin, I'd take the points, but the Horns are home and have something to prove.

TCU plus 10 over Houston- They say Bill Yeoman is in trouble at Houston. I hat to hear that. His Cotton Bowl appearance record doesn't deserve it and he's a class act all the way, win or lose.

The others...

Ohio State plus 1 1/2 over Iowa- One of these days I'm going to realize the folly of picking against Hayden's Hawkeyes. But the Big 10, overrated for many years, is so tough this season that's it's hard to see anyone surviving without at least one blackeye.

Navy plus 13 1/2 over Notre Dame- Irish may be rolling, but that's too many points.

Michigan minus 5 over Illinois- Wolverines more consistent.

Oklahoma State minus seven over Colorado- Buffs at home, but suffer letdown after good effort against Nebraska.

Auburn minus 2 1/2 over Florida- Wasn't Florida tied by Rutgers?

Florida State minus one over Miami- Who thinks up these games? Even pick 'em, this one should be outlawed.

Oklahoma minus 11 over Kansas- Jayhawks lose second in a row.

Tennessee minus 10 over Rutgers- The Scarlet Knights are usually tough on these SEC schools. This may be a bad pick, besides didn't someone pick Rutgers to win the national championship?

West Virginia plus three over Virginia- Internal strife at the MRT. This one should make Ron Jaap happy and Robin Jackson sad...still, I'll be rooting for the Cavaliers. Now they're both mad at me.

UTEP plus four over New Mexico- If you are smart, you'll go the other way. Miners' celebration of victory over BYU will still be going on when they take the field for pregame warmups.

The pros....

Dallas minus four over St. Louis- Another risky pick. The Cardinals are better than their record in recent weeks, but if anything is needed to make team play up to its the Cowboys.

Green Bay plus seven over Chicago- It's not that I'm not convinced, it's just that these two teams met two weeks ago and how much enthusiasm can Bears must for the rematch?

Browns plus four over Steelers- It's so close, the points look good.

Eagles plus 10 over 49ers- 49ers looked great last week, which means this week....

Seahawks minus one over Raiders- It's a Seattle and Oakland played Monday night....

Get Tough...

LEXINGTON, Va. — Gary Fallon, football coach at Washington and Lee, has some positive ideas on how college football should be governed.

"I believe all coaches should be given a license to coach in NCAA football," he said. "But if they break the rules, their license should be suspended. Also any athlete who is proved guilty of breaking NCAA rules should lose one year of eligibility."

Big Spring 15, AHS 13

From Staff Reports

ABILENE — After knocking Odessa High last to gain their first District 4-5A victory in 15 games, the Big Spring Steers added a 15-13 come-from-behind victory over Abilene High here Friday to make it two-in-a-row.

After giving up a 13-yard run to Gerald Bailey, the Steers came back with a 5-yard scoring run by Phillip Matthews to cut the margin to 7-6. Collin Carroll's kick was blocked.

Bailey stretched the lead to 13-6 with a 63-yard touchdown pass from Michael Keith, but Melvin Davis missed the extra point.

The second half was all Big Spring.

Carroll pulled the Steers to within one in the third quarter with a one-yard TD run but again could get the extra point. However, he made up for the two misses with a 22-yard field goal in the fourth quarter for the 15-13 victory.

The win improves Big Spring to 2-4 in 4-5A play while Abilene High falls to 1-0-1.

Bobcats 42, Cooper 8

From Staff Reports

SAN ANGELO — The San Angelo Bobcats saw their 1985 playoff hopes go out the window Friday night despite destroying Abilene Cooper, 42-8, in District 4-5A action.

The Cougars, who needed Midland Lee to lose to Odessa High to have any hope of a playoff berth, were eliminated when the Rebels held on for a 7-6 victory over the Bronchos.

At 4-2 in 4-5A play, the Bobcats could still tie Lee with a victory over Big Spring Friday and a Lee loss to Midland High, but the two teams would then be tied for second place berth but Lee, by virtue over a 12-7 win over San Angelo in the 4-5A opener, owns the tie-breaker.

Against Cooper, six different Bobcats scored touchdowns from as far back as a 69-yard run by Don Hall and from as close as Doug Bonds one-yarder.

Cooper falls to 1-5 in 4-5A play, 1-8 overall while San Angelo is 4-2, 6-2.

White Sox consider move

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago White Sox chairman Jerry Reinsdorf says the team will consider moving to another city if plans for a new stadium are not approved in the next six months.

"Basically, we must get out of Comiskey Park, not because it's not a good place to see a game, but because maintenance costs are relentless and capital items keep piling up," he said Thursday. "It's just brutally expensive."

Reinsdorf said the club could either move to a new stadium proposed by the city, build its own park in west suburban Addison or move to a city looking for a team.

Reinsdorf said he did not expect the team to move to another city.

He said the team has to know within the next six months if a new stadium is to be built in Chicago. If a new stadium is not to be built, Reinsdorf said the White Sox will "look at cities that want a team. If we don't hurry this along, all the good cities will be gone."

The White Sox say they are limited in the number of choice seats they can sell at Comiskey Park because many are blocked by posts.

Ballinger 7, Crane 7

BALLINGER— Crane and Ballinger each scored in the third period in battling to a 7-7 stalemate in the big showdown game of District 7-3A Friday night.

The tie left both teams undefeated in district play with Crane at 3-0-1 and Ballinger at 3-0-1. Both teams boast identical 7-1-1 records for the year.

Crane hosts Colorado City in its final game next Friday while Ballinger faces Coahoma.

Ballinger drew first blood with 9:51 left in the third period when fullback Terry Strambler punched in from the one and Cary Lee kicked the point.

Crane retaliated with 7:19 left in the period on a 28-yard pass from Quarterback Able Sena to wingback Carl Claunch. Rod Wilson then toed the all-important extra point.

So in less than three minuets, all the fireworks were over. Ballinger, however, had a sizeable edge in statistics. The Bearcats made 18 first downs to nine and rolled up 211 yards to 158 rushing. In the air, it was about even with Crane gaining 57 yards to 56. Ballinger completed only five of 18 passes while Crane was four-for-nine.

Sonora 21, C-City 13

From Staff Reports

COLORADO CITY — Sonora knocked Colorado City out of the state 3A playoffs here Friday night with a 21-13 upset win over the Wolves.

C-City fell to 2-2 in District 7-3A play and out of playoff contention. The victory boosted Crane into the playoffs after Crane tied Ballinger by a 7-7 score Friday night in Ballinger.

Colorado City could have faced Crane in a key game next week with a victory and could have earned a playoff berth with a win over the Golden Cranes, but couldn't get past upset minded Sonora, which got 78 and two-yard touchdowns from halfback Steve Love for a 14-7 halftime lead.

Sonora upped its lead to 21-7 in the third period when fullback David Martinez scored from 15 yards out. Both of C-City's touchdowns came from Sammy Rivera on runs of 94 and one yard.

Spurs defeat Dallas Mavs

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Mike Mitchell scored 24 points and Alvin Robertson added 22 to pace the San Antonio Spurs to a 116-107 National Basketball Association victory over the Dallas Mavericks Friday night.

The Mavericks had earlier cut the lead to 90-85 on a dunk by rookie guard Detlef Schrempf, who scored 12 points.

Dallas was led by guard Rolando Blackman, who tallied a game-high 29 points. San Antonio's victory evened its record at 2-2. Dallas dropped to 1-2 with its loss.

Pistons 124, Pacers 116

PONTIAC, Mich. — Isiah Thomas poured in 11 of his game-high 29 points in the fourth quarter as the Detroit Pistons overcame a 20-point deficit in the second half.

Thomas canned a three-point play to tie the contest, 100-100, with 7:27 left in the game. Detroit outscored Indiana 18-8 over the next six minutes before three-point baskets by Kellogg and Terence Stansbury and a Kellogg tip-in pulled the Pacers to within 119-116 with 1:26 left.

Detroit center Bill Laimbeer added 21 points, while forward Earl Cureton had 18 and John Long scored 17 off the bench.

Kellogg led the Pacers with 25 points before fouling out in the last minute, while Williams had 23 — 18 in the first half. Vern Fleming had 17 and Stansbury 15.

Nets 106, 76ers 102

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Buck Williams scored eight of his 27 points in a span of less than four minutes in the fourth quarter to carry the New Jersey Nets over the Philadelphia 76ers.

The 76ers trailed 89-86 when Williams, who also had 13 rebounds, got a three-point play for a six-point New Jersey lead with 8:05 left. Williams added a free throw at the 6:23 mark, but three staight Philadelphia baskets, two by rookie Terry Catledge, cut the deficit to 93-92.

Julius Erving led the 76ers with 22 points while Charles Barkley added 20 and Moses Malone 17. Micheal Ray Richardson scored 20 for New Jersey. carried the Nets to a 62-53 halftime margin.

Celtics 109, Hawks 105

BOSTON — Bill Walton, filling in for slumpridden Robert Parish, put Boston in front with a three-point play with less than two minutes remaining and the Celtics withstood a 40-point performance by Dominique Wilkins.

Larry Bird scored 25 points, Kevin McHale 22 and Danny Ainge 18 in leading the Celtics to their third consecutive victory since an opening upset by New Jersey.

Dennis Johnson scored 16 points and Walton 14 points, most of them down the stretch, as Boston rallied from a five-point deficit in the final 2½ minutes.

Jazz 121, Suns 110

SALT LAKE CITY — Pace Mannion scored 10 of his 13 points in the final quarter as the Utah Jazz held off a Phoenix rally.

Thurl Bailey scored 18 points for Utah while Stockton and rookie Karl Malone finished with 11 each as Utah improved its Midwest Division record to 2-2.

The Suns, now 0-4 in the Pacific Division, were led by Walter Davis' 29 points. Adams finished with 18, Mike Sanders 16 and Jay Humphries 15.

Sabres win, 2-0

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — Rookie goaltender Daren Puppa made his National Hockey League debut a spectacular one Friday night by kicking out all 38 Edmonton shots — three on Wayne Gretzky breakaways — to lead the Buffalo Sabres over the Oilers 2-0.

The shutout was the first against the Oilers since February 1984 when they were beaten 11-0 in Hartford. Edmonton had not been shut out at home since March 1981 when the New York Islanders recorded a 5-0 victory.

Capitals 5, Islanders 3

LANDOVER, Md. — Doug Jarvis scored on a spectacular diving shot to ignite a three-goal Washington surge in the final 4:25 of the second period as the Capitals defeated the New York Islanders 5-3 in a game Friday night.

The victory gave the Caps a 5-1-2 record since they lost their first three games of the season. It also enabled them to break a tie with the New York Rangers and take over second place in the Patrick Division, two points behind Philadelphia.

Jarvis, under heavy pressure from Ken Morrow, poked the puck past goalie Kelly Hrudey at 15:35, converting Gary Sampson's pass as he hit the ice to the left of the crease.

Alan Haworth upped Washington's lead to 3-1 at 18:10 when Hrudey stopped his slapshot from near the blue line, only to have the puck go over his left shoulder and into the net.

With two seconds left in the period, Bob Gould rebounded his own shot and scored to make it 4-1.

BULLDOGS

After an incomplete pass, Marcum gave the ball to Madrid on a draw play that went for 31 yards and then took a quarterback keeper 15 yards for first down at the Permian 39 with seven seconds left on the clock. Williams came in and kicked a 41-yard field goal for a 14-10 halftime score.

THE BULLDOG defense remained stingy in the second half, unwilling to let Permian jump out to a big lead despite allowing the Panthers to reach the MHS 13 on Permian's first possession in each of the final two quarters.

Permian kicker Woody Bryant came in on both occasions to boot 30-yard field goals for a 20-10 lead. In the final frame, Panther Brian Lauterbach caught a one-yard Jason Harrington pass for a touchdown and Bryant added the extra point to cap the scoring.

"I think our defense played extremely well, giving up only two field goals when Permian was inside our 20, keeping them out of the end zone," said McCutchen.

"The linemen had a super night. They controlled the line of scrimmage" said Marcum. "Kenny (DeLaGarza) had a heck of a night and the defense played some super series. They held Permian twice inside the 20."

Madrid, who led all rushers with 137 yards, also had good word for the offensive linemen, saying, "Those weasels blocked up front again. That was the key."

Overall, McCutchen was pleased with his team's performance despite the loss.

"The only way we might have had a better effort is if we were still in the district race," said McCutchen. "I think the kids lined up to win the ball game. They gave a great effort."

The victory gives Permian a playoff berth with a 5-0-1 4-5A record, 9-0-1 overall while Midland High falls to 2-4, 4-5. However, the Panthers have to wait one more week before clinching their record sixth consecutive title. With only a half-game lead over Midland Lee, a 7-6 winner of Odessa High Friday, Permian has to either beat OHS next Friday or hope for Midland High to knock off Lee.

Either way, both Permian and Lee are heading to the playoffs. It's just a matter of who is No. 1 and who is No. 2.

PERMIAN OPENED the scoring in the first quarter with a pair of touchdown drives. Harrington, who had one of the best days a quarterback could ask for, hit wide receiver Greg Anderson for a 17-yard TD pass to cap a five-play, 51-yard drive.

Two possessions later, Marcus Lott made it 13-0 with a one-yard run to end a 10-play, 71-yard drive. Bryant kicked both extra points for the 14-0 score.

Overall, Harrington completed 15-of-17 passes for 174 yards, two touchdowns and no interceptions. Anderson hauled in three catches for 62 yards and a TD while Lauterbach caught four passes for 67 yards and a TD. Lauterbach had only two catches all season going into the game.

For Midland High, Marcum hit 13-of-25 for 149 yards and no interceptions. Madrid covered his 137 yards on 15 carries.

RANGERS

Tatum and the Owls set the tone for the game in the first quarter when, after stopping Greenwood on three downs, they marched 57 yards on 12 plays for the first score — a two-yard leap by Tatum. The point after was blocked for a 6-0 early lead.

THE RANGERS bounced back quickly, however, on a quarterback sneak by Chad Longley with 2:21 left in the opening quarter. The Greenwood drive was set up by a 55-yard kickoff return by Steve Popham.

The Owls then began to take control, capitalizing on a Greenwood fumble deep in their own zone to score their second touchdown. This one was a 14-yard run by Tatum who added a two-point conversion as well, to take a 14-7 lead at the half.

Reagan County came out in the second half and chewed up another 45-yard drive with another Tatum TD on the end of it for the eventual game-winner. Tatum added two more six-pointers sandwiched around the Rangers' final score, a 22-yard Longley to Bobby Clark touchdown pass. Reagan County added a final score by recovering a fumbled punt in the end zone with 14 seconds left in the game.

"They took away some things on us, like the pitch sweep to James West, so went to other things that seemed to work pretty well," Reeger said.

The victory brings Reagan County nearly full circle from where they began the district season, a tough 15-7 loss to district champion McCamey.

TABBED AS the preseason favorites, the Owls had trouble getting untracked early, mainly because Reeger was forced to call on sophomore Lipsey to run the offense when three-year starter Bobby Gunnels was hurt. Against the Badgers Lipsey was ineffective and the running game managed just 36 yards.

A pair of big wins over Eldorado and Stanton jacked the sophomore's confidence level up tenfold, and it shows on the field.

"Scott just has so much more experience under his belt now," Reeger said. "He has more confidence in himself and the team has more confidence in him and it all just spills over onto the field."

With Lipsey in control Friday, Greenwood barely had a chance.

"He's really been doing a good job," Tatum added.

Andrews 18, Lobos 18

MONAHANS— Andrews threw cold water on Monahans' bid for a playoff berth by holding the Lobos to an 18-18 tie in a District 2-4A football game Friday night.

David Criswell crashed in from three yards out in the fourth period to tie the score. Earlier Criswell had given Andrews a 6-0 first period lead on a 14-yard run.

Monahans pulled ahead 12-6 in the second period, but Rodney Buck went in on a 22-yard pass from Danny Neighbors to square matters at intermission.

The tie gives Monahans a 3-1-1 record in district while Andrews is 2-2-1 . Monahans is now 5-1-2 for the season while the Mustangs are 3-4-1.

Monahans finishes its season with games at Snyder and Lake View while Andrews winds up with Lake View and Snyder.

Sweetwater 40, Lamesa 0

SWEETWATER— Sweetwater continued to flatten all opposition, rolling over Lamesa, 40-0, here Friday night with an awesome offensive display that isn't reflected in the score.

The Mustangs went 5-0 in District 2-4A, jumping to a 14-0 first period edge and holding a 27-0 advantage at half.

Sweetwater's lone defeat in nine games came at the hands of Abilene early in the season.

The winners amassed 401 yards rushing and 122 passing for a 31-3 edge in first downs.

Chris Davis went in from the one for the first score and Andre Walker also struck from a yard away in the first quarter. Arusus Smith from six yards out and again from five made it 27-0 at half.

The game's longest scoring run came in the fourth period when Patrick Goodman rambled in from 23 yards out.

Sweetwater plays at Pecos next week while Lamesa is at Fort Stockton.

Pecos 8, Fort Stockton 3

FORT STOCKTOn- Pecos pushed over a fourth period touchdown to defeat Fort Stockton, 8-3, in a tight District 2-4A football game here Friday night.

By virtue of the win, the Eagles raised their district record to 3-2 and retained an outside shot at a playoff berth. For the season, Pecos is 4-2.

Fort Stockton has yet to win in five league games and is only 2-6 for the season, but the Panthers gave Pecos all it could handle and for a while seemed on the verge of an upset win.

Ramon Valeriano gave Fort Stockton a 3-0 lead in the second period on a 29-yard field goal.

Pecos went ahead on Lance Windham's nine yard run and then Quarterback Gary Beadle passed to Javier Solis for the two-pointer.

Statistically, it was close with Pecos holding a 9-7 first down edge and a 158-140 rushing advantage. Pecos accounted for the only 10 yards gained passing in the game.

Pecos faces Sweetwater next week and finishes against Lamesa. Fort Stockton winds up with Lamesa and Sweetwater.

Lake View 7, Snyder 0

SAN ANGELO— Lake View's Chiefs kept their Class 4A playoff hopes alive by defeating Snyder 7-0 here Friday night in a District 2-4A football game.

The lone touchdown came with 1:37 left in the half on a four-yard run by tailback Randy Young. Ricky Green kicked the point and that's the way it stood.

Snyder was a study in frustration, rolling up 214 yards to 144 rushing and making 15 first downs to 13 for the Chiefs. However, the Tigers lost four of five fumbles.

The win gives Lake View a 4-1 district record and makes the Chiefs 5-3 for th year going into next weeks game against at Andrews.

Snyder slipped to 2-3 in conference and 4-4 for the season. Snyder is at Monahans next week.

McCamey 16, Eldorado 0

McCAMEY— McCamey clinched a berth in the state Class AA playoffs by defeating stubborn Eldorad, 16-0, in chilling 40 degree temperatures and a game-long drizzle here Friday night.

The win gives McCamey a 4-0 District 8-2A record with only Stanton left on the schedule.

It was a defensive battle all the way with quarterback Nandy Zarate giving the 8-1 Badgers a 3-0 lead with a 26-yard field goal with 6:54 left in the first period.

That's the way it remained until the final period when tailback Adam Arana scored twice. The first came with 11:18 left in the game on a 54-yard pass from Quarterback Rob Adams. Zarate kicked the extra point.

Two minutes and four seconds later Arana again scored on a four-yard run to give McCamey its final margin.

Eldorado's district record is 1-3 and the Eagles are 3-5 for the season with Greenwood next week the final game of the season.

McCamey's league wins have come over Reagan County, Wall and Greenwood. The Badgers lone loss this season was at the hands of Iraan, 37-7, in the season's opener.

WALL— The Hawks went 99 ½ yards in the final minutes of the game, the final 86 on a bomb from Randy Krupala to Randy Gully, to stop Stanton 15-10 and earn their first win of the season.

Wall, now 1-3, 1-8, took over on downs after stopping the Buffs on the ½ yard line with under two minutes to play before starting the game-winning drive. The Hawks converted a two-point play and Krupala then took an intentional safety with three seconds to play to run out the clock.

Stanton, now 1-3 and 3-6, was leading 8-7 before the lightning-bomb struck. The Buffs had taken the lead on a 90-yard kickoff return by Mark Gonzalez and a two-point conversion from quarterback Kevin Glaspie to Salvador Reyna. Reyna caught six passes for 76 yards on the night.

Stanton will close out the season next week in a home date with district champion McCamey.

Bruins, Garden sold

BOSTON (AP) — After two days of doubt, agreement was reached Friday on the sale of the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League and Boston Garden to Boston-area investors for a reported $45 million, the principal spokesman for the purchasing group said.

"What happened was we came to — as everybody said — high noon," said Jasmes F. Brennan, speaking for the new owners. "We made a decision, and our investment group bought the Garden and the Bruins.

Ragged Dolphins, are they real?

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Football Writer

Are the Miami Dolphins for real? The Miami Dolphins who have lost two of their last three games and barely got by winless Tampa Bay? The Miami Dolphins who, according to Coach Don Shula, are "doing the things losers do."

The Dolphins take their swiss cheese defense — fifth worst statistically in the National Football League — to Foxboro, Mass., Sunday to play the New England Patriots. If they lose, they fall to — gasp! — third place in the AFC East behind the Pats and the Jets.

As for the offense ... says Shula:

"Teams are playing us the same way every week. They play us loose and hope we make mistakes, and we've been making the mistakes."

The oddsmakers say it's a pick 'em. The Pats have been playing well the last few weeks. But third place? The Dolphins? No more mistakes. MIAMI.

Jets (minus 3½) at Indianapolis.

The Colts are 3-1 in the Hoosier Dome, 0-4 on the road, which may tell you something about Dome teams — they are a combined 13-5 at home, 6-16 on the road. The closest Indianapolis came to a road win was against the Jets. COLTS.

Philadelphia (plus 10) at San Francisco

The 49ers have played two good games this season, both of them in Los Angeles. Throw out Philadelphia's first two games, losses by 21 and 11 points, and the high-priced spread looks like margarine. EAGLES.

Raiders (plus 1) at Seattle.

The Seahawks beat the Raiders twice last year in the Kingdome — see indoor stadiums, above. On the other hand, these Seahawks have lost as many in half a season as those Seahawks did in a full one. RAIDERS.

Dallas (minus 4) at St. Louis (Monday night.)

If the troubled Cards couldn't beat the other Texas guys, what are they going to do against this bunch? Even cutting Neil O'Donoghue doesn't help. COWBOYS.

Pro Picks

Chicago (minus 7½) at Green Bay.

It was just two weeks ago that The Refrigerator turned George Cumby into a bowling pin on national television. This time, he may try out his act on Jim Zorn, who replaces Lynn Dickey. BEARS.

Cleveland (plus 4) at Pittsburgh

You want mediocrity, we'll give you mediocrity. After Sunday, all four teams in the AFC Central could be 4-5. But maybe not. BROWNS.

Detroit (plus 3½) at Minnesota.

Speaking of domes, the Lions are 4-0 in theirs, which is not the dome where the game is being played. VIKINGS.

Tampa Bay (plus 12) at the Giants

The Bucs always find ways to lose, though usually not by 12 points. But they may have peaked after losing to the Bears, Rams and Dolphins by a combined 15 points and going up 14-0 in a 32-14 loss to the Patriots. GIANTS.

Eating habits of U.S. gridders shocks Aussies

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — The huge appetites of American college football players have stunned organizers of the first Australia Bowl, to be played in Melbourne Dec. 7.

The promoters of the Western Athletic Conference game between Wyoming and Texas-El Paso had arranged to pay about $4.20 per day for the players' breakfasts.

But then the college officials told hotels here what the players would want to eat.

The breakfast allowance was then more than doubled to $9.80, said Barry Shawyer, general manager of the Frontline Communications promotions company.

"We just didn't believe that people could eat as much as these footballers apparently can," Shawyer said Wednesday at a news conference to discuss preparations for the game, the first between two American teams in Australia.

Australians enjoy the American game, and National Football League games are televised nationally here.

There also is a seven-team amateur league in Sydney, which boasts teams with names like the Bondi Raiders and the Eastern Suburbs Buccaneers.

The promoters plan to spend $840,000 to bring in 450 players, officials, coaches and marching band members from Wyoming and UTEP, but Shawyer is convinced the Australia Bowl will be profitable right away.

Future Australia Bowl games already are planned for Perth in 1986, Brisbane in 1987 and Sydney in 1988.

This year's game will be held at the 80,000-seat VFL Park in Melbourne. More than 13,000 tickets have been sold thus far.

Shawyer plans a full-scale exhibition of American show business for the halftime show, which will feature the Southern California marching band and a lavish display of fireworks. Don McLean, who sang the hit "American Pie," will give a postgame concert in the stadium.

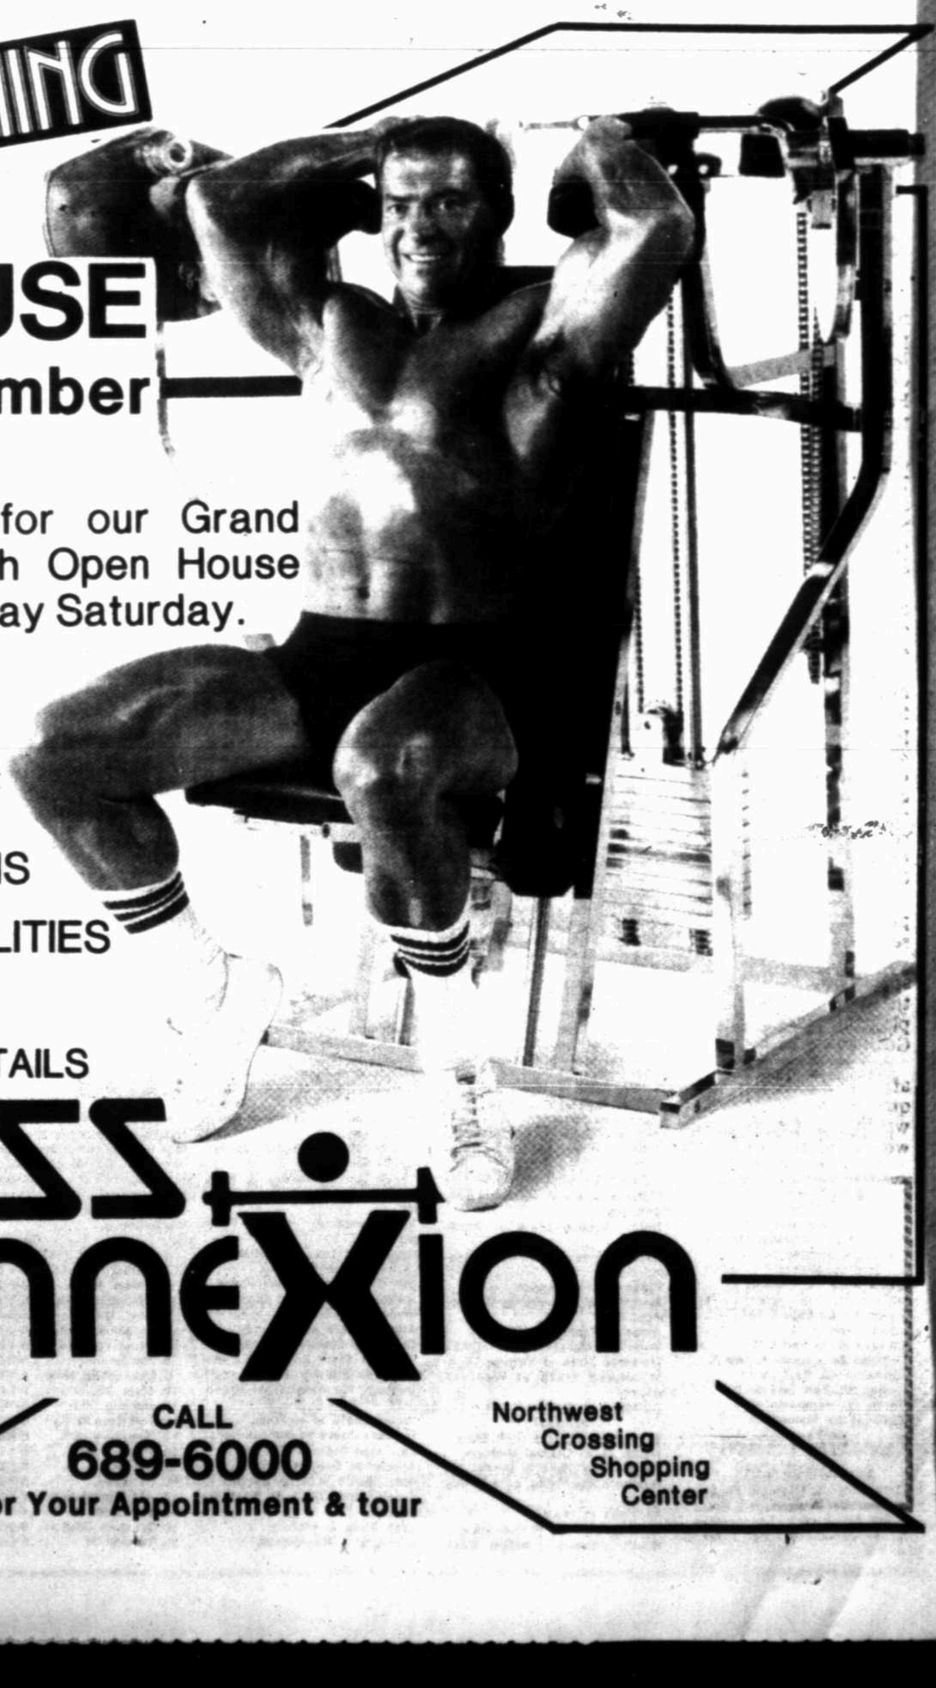

"The idea of the game is to show Australian sporting fans what American razzmatazz is all about," Shawyer said. "They see it on television, but never in the flesh. I'm confident we can produce a spectacular which will successfully combine sport and entertainment."

The Australians won't be seeing the best America has to offer. Both clubs have 1-6 records, though UTEP's victory was a major upset over Brigham Young.

Shawyer is negotiating with ESPN, the American cable television sports and entertain network, and WTBS, a cable TVC station, to televised the game beamed back to the United States.

Players and officials from both colleges will hold an all-day coaching clinic in Sydney two days after the game.

"American football is showing dramatic growth here, and we are very excited about the clinic," said Bob Stewart, president of the New South Wales Gridiron Football League, which boasts more than 400 players.

Ags, SMU finally settle for 6:47 p.m. ESPN kickoff

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

With Baylor, the Southwest Conference front-runner idle this week, the big game is Southern Methodist against Texas A&M.

The winner will remain in the pursuit of the Bears, although Coach Grant Teaff's surprising Bruins have beaten both the Aggies and Mustangs.

SMU rules a one-point favorite, but it's not so much the probable winner of this game that has the fans stirred up as to when they'll kick off.

The original kickoff was 2 p.m., but the game was selected for a regional TV and a noon start decreed. ESPN then decided to give the Ponies and Ags national exposure, so kickoff was scheduled for 6:47 p.m. today and prospects are good that this kickoff time will stand up.

SWC

SMU is 4-2-0, with losses to Arizona and Baylor, while A&M is 5-2-0, the defeats coming at the hands of Alabama and Baylor.

Texas (4-2-0), coming off a 44-14 pistol-whipping at the hands of SMU, hosts Texas Tech (3-4) at 1 p.m. The Raiders have had a week off to recover from the 29-27 loss to Rice, one of four games in which the Raiders have seen the decision dragged out until the final minute of play.

The Longhorns, dumped out of the Top 20 by last week's defeat, are 15 point favorites.

Arkansas (6-1) and Rice (3-4) meet at 2 p.m. in Rice Stadium with the Razorbacks, coming off a 57-27 sandbagging of Houston, a 21-point pick. Rice had a two-game SWC winning streak going before losing to A&M, 43-28, last week.

Houston and TCU, both in the throes of disappointing seasons, go into today's date at Fort Worth each feeling that, at last, "here is someone we can beat."

The Cougars are favored by 10.

ELSEWHERE, the TIAA title could ride on today's return meeting between Sul Ross and Austin College in Sherman. The Kangaroos won the first meeting. Abilene Christian (4-1-2 and 1-0) hosts Angelo State (4-3 and 0-1) at 7:30 p.m.in Shotwell Stadium in a Lone Star Conference game.

West Texas State (4-3-1 and 2-1-1) faces Drake (4-5 and 1-3) in a 1 p.m. Missouri Valley Conference kick off in Des Moines. WTSU needs a win to stay in the MVC running where Tulsa leads at 2-0 and Wichita is 2-1.

And out in El Paso, UTEP, conqueror of last year's national champion BYU Cougars, 23-16, last week, hosts New Mexico with a 7 p.m. MST kickoff. The Miners haven't won two WAC games in a row since 1974 when, under Midland Schools Athletic Director Gil Bartosh, UTEP beat Arizona State and Wyoming during a three-game win streak.

Pirates to sell park

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh plans to sell Three Rivers Stadium to an unidentified group of New York investors for $125 million to raise money for the proposed sale of the Pirates baseball team, Mayor Richard Caliguiri said Friday.

The sale of the 58,429-seat, open-air stadium, which opened in July 1970, would provide the city's share of the estimated $50 million needed to buy and operate the financially ailing National League franchise during the next five years.

A group of private and corporate investors, led by U.S. Steel Corp. and Westinghouse Electric Corp., plans to raise $25 million to buy the team with an additional $25 million loan from the city.

The sale of the stadium would generate a down payment of $20 million to $25 million for the city, Caliguiri said.

The Pittsburgh investors recently reached a purchase agreement with the Pirates' current owners, the John Galbreath family of Columbus, Ohio, and Warner Communications Inc. of New York. The current owners claim the franchise lost $6 million in 1984 and predicted it would lose $10 million this year.

Caliguiri said the sale of the stadium would keep the Pirates in the city at an annual cost to taxpayers of $852,000, the cost of leasing the stadium back from its new owners. The mayor said he has asked Allegheny County to pay half of the leasing costs.

"We have explored every possible legal option available to the city. Our plan is, by far, the least expensive" way of keeping the Pirates in Pittsburgh, Caliguiri said.

The City Council, which must approve the sale, plans a public hearing Nov. 15.

Hawkeyes, Tigers, Seminoles get nods in big ones

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Football Writer

This weekend's college football schedule lists three games between members of AP's Top Twenty. And if the recent baseball season is any indication, you've got to like No. 1 Iowa over No. 8 Ohio State, No. 6 Auburn over No. 2 Florida and No. 10 Florida State over No. 11 Miami, Fla.

Iowa, Auburn and Florida State all have a Kansas City connection and it remains to be seen if the Royals' success last weekend will rub off on the football teams this weekend.

Iowa (favored by 1½) at Ohio State: Royals catcher Jim Sundberg was a member of the 1971 Iowa baseball team that won the Big Ten championship. . . Iowa 24-21.

Florida at Auburn (by 2): KC pitcher Joe Beckwith set Southeastern Conference records for victories (31) and innings pitched (338) in his four-year career at Auburn. In the 1976 opener, he pitched a no-hitter against the University of Houston, the first no-hitter by an Auburn pitcher in 28 years. In addition, his father, Bill, is the school's ticket manager . . . Auburn 21-17.

Miami at Florida State (by 1½): Royals Manager Dick Howser was an All-American shortstop at Florida State and helped the Seminoles reach the College World Series in 1957. As a sophomore in 1956, he set the school record with a .422 batting average. In 1979, he coached FSU to a 43-16 record and a berth in the NCAA Eastern Regional . . . Florida State 35-31.

The Royals' connection may be as good as any other way of forecasting football games. Last week's prediction record was 37 right, 12 wrong and one tie for a percentage of .755; for the year, 287-111-10—.721. Against the point spread, last week's score was 21-19-1—.525; for the year, 141-151-5—.483.

Boston College at No. 3 Penn State (by 14): Joe Paterno used to play stickball on the streets of Brooklyn . . . Penn State 24-14.

No. 4 Michigan (by 5½) at Illinois: The Illini get a chance to scramble the Big Ten race, meeting Michigan and Iowa on consecutive Saturdays. Upset Special of the Week . . . Illinois 21-14.

No. 5 Nebraska (by 33) at Kansas State: NCAA President Jack Davis of Oregon State says that when he taught at Nebraska the joke was that "whenever Oklahoma went on probation, Kansas State had to drop another sport" . . . Nebraska 38-7.

San Diego State at No. 7 Air Force (by 18): Royals pitcher Bud Black was 7-1 as a senior at San Diego State and fanned 16 against New Mexico . . . Air Force 31-17.

Kansas at No. 9 Oklahoma (by 11): Royals pitcher Danny Jackson attended OU for a year and was 6-2 . . . Oklahoma 27-17.

No. 12 Oklahoma State (by 7) at Colorado: OSU's Pete Incaviglia was college baseball's top slugger last season . . . Oklahoma State 24-14.

No. 14 Arkansas (by 21) at Rice: They'll be hog-wild in the Ozarks if the Razorbacks go to the Cotton Bowl . . . Arkansas 38-14.

No. 16 LSU (by 7) at Mississippi: It's lost some of the glamor but still one of the nation's premier rivalries . . . LSU 27-13.

Wyoming at No. 17 Brigham Young (by 28): Despite their stunning loss to Texas-El Paso, last weekend wasn't a total loss for the Cougars — alumnus Dane Iorg delivered a two-run pinch single to win Game 6 of the World Series for the Royals . . . BYU 45-14.

Tulane at No. 18 Georgia (by 21½): Any resemblance between Tulane and Hurricane Juan is purely coincidental . . . Georgia 35-7.

Rutgers at No. 19 Tennessee (by 11): The Vols were upset by the Scarlet Knights in Knoxville a few years ago. Not this time . . . Tennessee 30-10.

No. 20 Southern Methodist (by 1) at Texas A&M: The Mustangs may have spent all their wrath on Texas last week . . . Texas A&M 24-17.

Other games:

East — Army (by 22½) 38, Holy Cross 14; Temple 28, Delaware 21; Pitt (by 5) 24, Syracuse 17.

South — Alabama (by 12) 24, Mississippi State 14; Clemson (by 15) 28, Wake Forest 14; Georgia Tech (by 13) 24, Duke 14; Kentucky 42, East Tennessee State 0; Louisville 35, Central Florida 7; Maryland (by 13) 28, North Carolina 10; South Carolina (by 14½) 34, North Carolina State 14; Southern Mississippi (by 11) 28, East Carolina 7; Virginia (by 3) 21, West Virginia 14; Virginia Tech (by 5) 24, Memphis State 14.

Midwest — Ball State 21, Eastern Michigan 20; Central Michigan 20, Miami, O. 14; Missouri (pick 'em) 17, Iowa State 14; Kent State 28, Ohio U. 14; Michigan State (by 2) 21, Minnesota 17; Bowling Green 28, Northern Illinois 14; Notre Dame (by 13½) 31, Navy 13; Purdue (by 20½) 41, Northwestern 20; Western Michigan 20, Toledo 17; Tulsa 28, Wichita State 17; Wisconsin (by 7) 27, Indiana 17.

Southwest — Texas (by 15) 24, Texas Tech 20; Texas-El Paso 28, New Mexico (by 4) 21; Houston (by 10) 28, Texas Christian 27.

Ex-Marquette basketballer arrested again

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — Former National Basketball Association player Bernard Toone, a member of Marquette University's 1977 national championship team, was arrested Friday for the second time in less than a year, White Plains police said.

The 6-foot-7 forward, who played one season with the Philadelphia 76ers, was arrested at 2:55 p.m. for allegedly stealing a radio from a 1985 Saab in a municipal parking structure at Martine Avenue and Conroy Street, said Lt. Thomas Watson.

Toone, 29, of Yonkers, was charged with third-degree grand larceny and ordered held in lieu of $1,500 bail, Watson said.

On May 23, Toone and another man were arrested at a Yonkers fast food restaurant in a rental car reported stolen in Tarrytown on April 26. Toone, who was charged with possession of a stolen car, plea bargained and pleaded guilty to a lesser charge because he had no previous record, said Paul Scharf, Yonkers branch chief of the Westchester County District Attorney's office.

He was sentenced to three years probation and 100 hours community service.

A local hero who frequently speaks to youth groups, Toone was the state's most valuable high school player in 1975 when he played for Gorton High School in Yonkers.

One of the nation's most sought after players, he enrolled at Marquette and in his sophomore year was the top reserve on the team that won the NCAA championship.

U.S., EC agree on steel shipment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States reached agreement Friday with the European Community on a pact that holds the line on surging Common Market steel shipments that have undermined the administration's import relief plan.

The agreement, which will run through September 1989, extends and broadens a 1982 arrangement that expires at the end of this year. The earlier pact barred the 10-nation Common Market from capturing more than 5.4 percent of the American steel market.

While the EC's market share was increased to 5.5 percent this time, the new pact was praised by the Reagan administration because it covers additional steel products such as stainless steel, wire rope and wire strand. In all, individual import ceilings are provided for 33 major steel product categories.

"This is a major accomplishment for the president's steel program, as well as a major step forward for trade relations between the U.S. and the EC," said U.S. Trade Representative Clayton Yeutter. "The scope, duration and levels of the agreement will preserve the integrity of the president's steel program," he said.

The agreement must still be approved by the EC Council of Ministers in Brussels, Belgium. "I know they have been talking with the member states during the negotiations, but it still must formally be approved," said EC spokeswoman Ella Krucoff.

The agreement silenced, at least for now, administration criticism of the EC that intensified Thursday when it was announced that imports from the 10 nations increased more than 50 percent in September.

Despite the 1982 agreement, the EC held 6.6 percent of the U.S. steel market during the first nine months of 1985. Those figures had prompted American steelmakers to call for unilateral action by the U.S. government, including the filing of anti-dumping cases, if no satisfactory settlement were reached.

Donald Trautlein, chairman of the American Iron and Steel Institute, an industry group, said the final agreement fell short of his expectations.

STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE℠

HOW TO USE STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE

1. Call the StockQuote Hotline number listed below. A computer voice will answer and ask you for the Account Code.
2. Enter the Account Code, then depress the star key (*) on your telephone. The computer will then ask you to enter your Stock Code.
3. Enter the Stock Code for the stock you wish quoted, the computer will quote the Ticker Symbol; Current Price and Net Change from the previous day's close.
4. After the stock is quoted, the computer will ask you to enter another Stock Code. You have two options:

A. You may request the quote for another stock simply by repeating Step 3, or...
B. You may request additional information on the stock just quoted by once more depressing the star key (*) in which case the computer will respond with the Price, Net Change, Volume, High and Low. The computer will then ask you to enter another Stock Code (repeat Step 3).

You may enter up to 10 requests per call.

STOCK CODES

All Stock Codes are based on industry standard Ticker Symbols provided by your broker or available from any Standard & Poor's Stock Ticker Guide. Codes are made up of a series of two-digit numbers, each representing one of the letters in the Ticker Symbol.

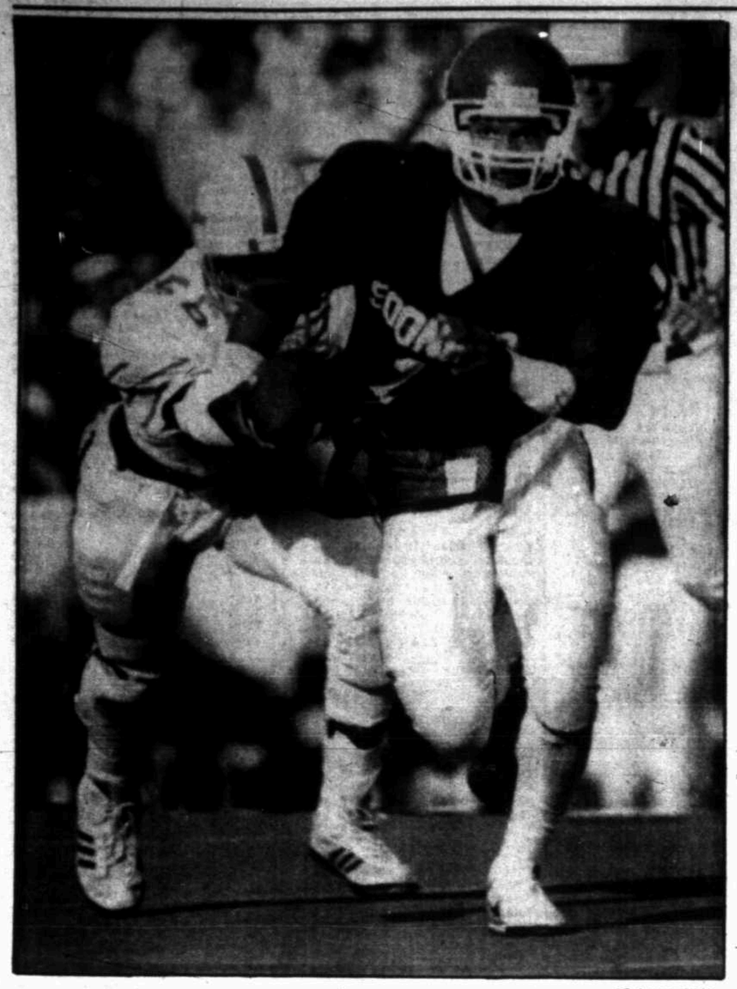

To determine the two-digit code for any letter of a Ticker Symbol, remember: The first key to be depressed is always the one on which the letter appears. The second key is always a "1," "2" or "3" indicating that letter's position on its own key (first, second or third position). EXAMPLE: "IBM"="43 22 61"; "BX"= "22 92." Remember to depress the star key (*) after entering each code.

ADDITIONAL ASSISTANCE

Call the StockQuote customer service number (915) 682-5311 (Monday thru Friday 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.) for additional information or to report any problem with the service.

Iowa, Florida risk ratings on road

Oklahoma quarterback Eric Mitchel is caught from behind. Mitchel ran for 135 yards and two tochdowns against Iowa State, but the going may be tougher against Kansas today at Norman.

College Football

The nation's top two teams are on the road Saturday, visiting places that aren't exactly on the list of top 10 places to enjoy a warm reception during the college football season.

Top-rated Iowa is at Columbus, Ohio, for a Big Ten Conference shootout with eighth-ranked Ohio State. And No. 2 Florida will be at No. 6 Auburn.

One other game pairing members of AP's Top Twenty 10th-ranked Florida State entertains No. 11 Miami, Fla.

No. 3 Penn State is home against Boston College, No. 4 Michigan visits Illinois, fifth-ranked Nebraska is at Kansas State, No. 7 Air Force entertains San Diego State, and ninth-ranked Oklahoma is home against Kansas.

In the Second Ten, No. 12 Oklahoma State is at Colorado, No. 14 Arkansas at Rice, No. 16 Louisiana State at Mississippi, Wyoming at No. 17 Brigham Young, Tulane at No. 18 Georgia, Rutgers at No. 19 Tennessee, and No. 20 Southern Methodist at Texas A&M for a night game. Baylor and UCLA, ranked 13th and 15th, respectively, are idle.

The Iowa-Ohio State game matches potent offenses led by quarterbacks who rank first (Iowa's Chuck Long) and fifth (Ohio State's Jim Karsatos) nationally in passing efficiency. Iowa leads the nation with an average of 40.3 points per game, Ohio State is tied for eighth at 33.4.

"They have the potential to score a lot more points than some other teams we've played," Iowa Coach Hayden Fry said of the Buckeyes, who will be without star tailback Keith Byars. "We may give up 21 or 28 points and our defense will have played one heck of a game because they've been scoring in the high 30s and 40s.

"It seems they are perfectly content with just trying to outscore the other teams, which they've done with the exception of Illinois. They really enjoy moving the football."

Byars, who missed the first five games of the season after suffering a broken bone in his foot during a preseason workout, was hurt again in last week's 23-19 victory at Minnesota. The new injury also is to the right foot but is not related to the previous problem.

"He did not practice; he is not going to play," Coach Earle Bruce said Thursday.

John Wooldridge is expected to start in place of Byars, although Wooldridge has been sidelined with bruised ribs. "He'll be ready," Bruce promised.

Meanwhile, Ohio State's defense has surrendered yardage in bunches but leads the nation in turnover margin — 11 interceptions and seven fumbles, while the offense has not fumbled the ball away and has thrown four interceptions.

Iowa has not beaten Ohio State in Columbus since 1959 and lost to the Buckeyes 45-26 last season. Ohio State has the nation's longest home field winning streak at 19.

FLORIDA is trying to become the third team to win the national championship while on probation. The first, ironically, was Auburn in 1957.

The Gators own the nation's longest unbeaten streak at 17 games (15-0-2), as well as a 10-game Southeastern Conference unbeaten streak, although they are not eligible for the 1985 title. Tailback Neal Anderson, the school's career rushing leader, is nursing a bruised knee, while Auburn's Bo Jackson, the nation's top rusher with 1,402 yards in seven games, is healthy.

"We know you can't stop a dominating player like Bo Jackson," said Florida's Galen Hall, the first coach in SEC history to go unbeaten through his first 15 games (14-0-1). "You just hope to play well enough on defense to slow him down, and not too many teams have even managed to do that.

"Auburn's football team is not just Bo Jackson, however, and they can beat you in many different ways."

Alonzo Johnson, Florida's star linebacker, calls the game "another step that's in our way toward the quest for the national championship. To stop Bo, we have to make him run sideline-to-sideline, not just north and south. That's going to be a key to the game."

Despite's Jackson yardage, Auburn's Pat Dye said he is "still concerned about our productivity offensively. We're not playing up to our standard on offense right now."

"We're about to line up against a team with probably the best defense in the conference, maybe even the country. Defensively, they have more speed than any team we'll play against this season. Florida has got to be as good as any team in the country. They don't have any weaknesses."

One player who isn't unhappy with Auburn's No. 6 ranking is Jackson.

"Right now, I think it is better for us than being No. 1," he said. "Everybody wants to beat Iowa right now, and they are certainly under a lot of pressure."

MIAMI-Florida State could be a high-scoring game, since the Hurricanes are averaging 37.6 points per game and the Seminoles 31.6.

Noting that the State of Florida's three Division I-A schools are all ranked among the top 11 teams nationally, Florida State Coach Bobby Bowden said, "You can talk about your Big Eight or your Big Ten, but — The 'Big Florida' ain't bad."

Miami's Vinny Testaverde has completed 128 of 205 passes for 2,000 yards and 14 touchdowns. He has been intercepted 13 times, six during a 27-15 victory over East Carolina.

Meanwhile, Florida State freshman Chip Ferguson will be getting his first starting assignment. Ferguson has appeared in five games, completing 23 of 37 passes for 314 yards and five TDs

Strangely, history favors the visiting team. Miami is 7-1 at Tallahassee, Florida State 12-8 at Miami, and the visiting team has won the last four times. Bowden calls it "the home-field disadvantage," but Miami's Jimmy Johnson says, "It just so happened to be that the visitor was the best team in each of those games."

Although Penn State recorded its 600th victory and first shutout since 1983 by blanking West Virginia 27-0 last week, linebacker Rogers Alexander is concerned about the Nittany Lions' defense despite 11 fumble recoveries and seven interceptions.

Chief's Crown Breeder's pick

NEW YORK (AP) — Many of the best horses in the world plus princes and captains of industry will be on hand Saturday for Breeders' Cup Day at Aqueduct, the working man's track.

A total of 82 horses from North America and Europe will contest seven races worth a total of of $10 million, with several championships on the line.

The equine stars include Chief's Crown, who could win the 3-year-old championship and Horse of the Year with a victory in the $3 million Classic; Pebbles, a brilliant English filly, and Lashkari, an English-bred gelding who will be trying to repeat his 1984 win in the $2 million Turf.

Lending color and prestige to the occasion will be such personalities of the turf as jockeys Bill Shoemaker and Lester Piggott, trainers Woody Stephens, D. Wayne Lukas and Maurice Zilber and owners Robert Sangster, Paul Melfon, Sheikh Mohammed al-Maktoum of Dubai and Prince Kahled Abdulla of Saudi Arabia.

Then there are the Aga Khan and Lord Derby, whose family gave its name to the famed Epsom Derby.

As it did with last year's inaugural Breeders' Cup series at Hollywood Park, NBC will televise all seven races. The telecast will run from 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Since Vanlandingham, winner of the 1½-mile Jockey Club Gold Cup, wasn't nominated for the 1¼-mile, $3 million Classic, Anthony had to supplement his colt for a fee that is 12 percent of the purse — $360,000.

Vanlandingham will meet seven rivals, including Chief's Crown, who won the Breeder's Cup Juvenile last year and who will be finishing his career.

While the 1¼-mile Classic will be an all North American affair — seven U.S-bred horses and Canadian-bred Imperial Choice — there will be several European stars on the scene.

Committed, a Virginia-bred mare, who has done all of her racing in Europe, is a leading contender for the six-furlong, $1 million Sprint.

Billy headed for Japan

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Martin, former manager of the New York Yankees, could end up managing a Japanese baseball team, his agent said Friday.

But several major league teams also have inquired about Martin, and he is considering an offer from New York owner George Steinbrenner to become a "lifetime Yankee," judge Eddie Sapir said.

"After today, I'm going to get off the phone and get out there and explore all these various opportunities — weigh them and see which one is most attractive to Billy," Sapir said in a telephone interview from his office in New Orleans. "I would imagine in three or four weeks we'll make a decision, if not sooner."

He would not name the major league teams.

"We've got several options," Sapir said.

Since Martin was fired Sunday, Sapir said he had received letters from "some people who do a lot of business with the Japanese in the areas of sports and entertainment."

"Those people, while in Japan, were asked to discuss with me whether Billy would have any interest at all in exploring managing in Japan," Sapir said.

He added that sending Martin to Japan could be quite possible, "if we knew the thing would be right."

"He liked Japan," Sapir said, adding that Martin, a former second baseman, had played in exhibition games in the Orient before retiring as a player and was proud of having taught Japanese players how to break up a double play. "Certainly Billy is interested in me exploring it."

Sapir said Martin had only expected this term as Yankees manager — his fourth at the helm — to last only a year or two, since Steinbrenner had asked him to groom Lou Piniella as his successor.

"He did everything they asked of him," Sapir said. "Since his successor was the person we were told going in ... he was very happy for Lou. Lou was one of Billy's players and one of his coaches, and he groomed and taught Lou.

"Billy informed me that he was going to write a letter to Lou and express how proud he was and how well he wants Lou to do."

PKA gives ESPN viewers kick

An AP Sports Analysis
By BARRY WILNER

TV Sports

From the beginning, ESPN has prided itself on offering varied forms of sports entertainment. From the glamour events (college football and basketball) to the less popular (hockey, golf) to the downright cultish (Australian Rules Football), ESPN has discovered an audience is ready and willing to tune in.

The one constant among the cable sports network's offerings has been PKA karate. ESPN currently is in negotiations with the Professional Karate Association on a new contract and, judging from the demographics, PKA will remain a part of ESPN's programming.

"What is important to look at is the quality of audience," says Joe Corley, a former PKA middleweight champion and now a vice president with PKA. "You may not get that many people watching, say, tennis, but you know you're reaching the high-scale viewer. That's what we do."

CORLEY HAS the numbers to prove it.

"From late 1982 through mid-1984, comparing tennis on ESPN and PKA, we reached 86 percent more viewers in the 18-49 range in households with earnings above $30,000, which advertisers claim are the most desirable of all viewers.

"Against other mass appeal sports on ESPN, such as auto racing and NFL Films, we drew 78 percent more (viewers) than auto racing and 46 percent more than NFL Films in the same category."

As further proof of PKA's audience, Corley cites the case of Treco Products, Inc., which manufactures one product — a power-stretching machine. Its founder, Ted Ehrenfried, "has literally built a company around PKA on ESPN."

"Back about a year ago, I contacted Joe Corley and says I wanted to give a shot on TV to sell my power stretcher," says Ehrenfried. "Everybody says you can't sell a $300 item on TV in direct mail response but I says I would like to give it a try.

"Joe says, 'We have some spots we own on the PKA events on ESPN and we can do a deal where we sell a couple of those spots to you on the next 10 shows.'

"When ran the thing on ESPN, it was amazing what happened for us. We were making about 100 machines a month and then, after the advertising, it tripled, then it doubled again. We actually increased business in excess of 500 percent."

SO THE MOST attractive viewers seem to be there and advertisers are happy with PKA. What's next?

For one, there won't be an exclusivity deal with ESPN, which has shuttled PKA around in its schedule.

"I don't think ESPN was looking for exclusivity from here on out," says Corley. "And our object is to see the sport on the air as much as we can."

That means more contact with the networks — all of ESPN's PKA coverage is taped, while the only live fights televised have been on NBC — as well as other cable networks. Commercial Satellite News has signed an agreement to show what Corley calls "classic PKA fights," something akin to ESPN's Super-Bouts. Corley says negotiations with other cable outlets have been held.

"It's desirable to offer the sport to many outlets," he notes, "but e want to make sure we maintain a consistent quality level of fights. A problem I have with boxing is that there are more holes to fill than boxers to plug into the holes. We won't dig the bottom of the barrels. There is a finite point beyond which you do not want to have too much programming."

Steve Bornstein, ESPN's vice president for programming, is involved with negotiating a new package with PKA.

"It has performed, relative to other programming we have, as well as the prime time average, and we are pleased in its performance over the six years," says Bornstein. "In the last year, it's experienced a slight decline and we don't know why."

One reason could be that, in the last year, ESPN has shuttled PKA programming around in its schedule, making it harder to find.

"But we are still interested in it, it's a good sport," says Bornstein. There is a segment of audience which really enjoys it ... it's certainly a staple of our programming."

The PKA folks hope it remains so, especially since none of the over-the-air networks have shown more than an occasional interest in a particular fight.

Chaps open season against Jacksonville Baptist

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

Midland College embarks on the long road, that hopefully will lead back to Hutchinson, Kan., in March, at 7:30 p.m. today in the Langford Chaparral Center.

Jacksonville Baptist will provide the opposition and MC Coach Jerry Stone is concerned.

"I don't know anything about them, except that they are a good team. It's so tough to get anybody in here for a game."

Jacksonville played Howard College in Big Spring Friday night, which is one reason Stone booked the Baptists as an opening game foe. It made for a nice two-game West Texas tour for Jacksonville and enabled MC to open against a foe other than someone's JV, which sometimes is the unavoidable case.

Stone and Assistant Coach Reggie Franklin had an opportunity to scout JBC against Howard Friday night. And tonight's game shapes up as match up between Jacksonville's speed and MC's size and marksmanship.

JACKSONVILLE may be an unknown quantity for Stone, but so, for that matter, is his 1985-86 Chaparral squad. With only four returnees, this team shapes a revival of New Faces.

For Tony Wright, Eddie Frazier, Ricky Grace and Derrick Lewis, it's back to Square One after a 31-6 record that took MC to within two games of the national championship last year. If you consider the fact that MC lost in the semifinals to Dixie, the team that eventually won it, the Chaps were only one away.

Wright and Frazier both played a lot of summer basketball and for Wright, 6-6 1/2 and 215, it paid off in a trimmer waist line.

"I played on a team from New York in a tournament in Miami and back home I played in a summer league and attended clinics with Patrick (Ewing) and Bernard (King)."

Wright, who shot 56.2 per cent from the field last year, also got to see a lot of the Mets and Yankees, "The Yankees more often than the Mets."

Frazier, 6-6 1/2 220 from Dorcester, Mass., also played a lot of summer basketball and is anxious to get started.

Looking ahead, Frazier notes, "If we get that far, at least we won't have to play Laredo or someone in a playoff game to get to the national tournament."

ALTHOUGH he doesn't qualify as a returnee, Chase Brown, Deland, Fla., is a veteran of WJCAC competition. Last year he played at NMMI and won a lot of fans with his intense play in Tuesday's Meet the Chaps scrimmage.

More typical of MC's newcomers is 6-7 Craig "Curtis" Curry, the freshman from Altoona, Pa., up in mountainous Horseshoe Curve country.

"It's a big change from Altoona," Curry admits, "I think I'll like it. And I do have a cousin in San Antonio, Johnny Moore, who plays for the Spurs. I've already been down to visit him."

Curry, a two-time All-Stater in Pennsylvania, played on a team that went 27-0 before losing in the Western Pennsylvania finals last year.

Curry has his sights set on Maryland after MC.

AFTER TONIGHT'S opener, MC will host its annual Chaparral Classic Thursday through next Saturday, and will then go on the road for a game against Seward, Kan., and the Garden City, Kan., Classic the following weekend.

"The thing that bothers me about the schedule," says Stone, "Is that 13-day layoff between Garden City and the Odessa College tournament Nov. 28-30"

The OC tournament replaces the Amarillo College tournament. AC dropped its program last year. As a result, this year's WJCAC schedule will be 16 instead of 18 games.

League plays will open Dec. 2 against, South Plains College at Chap Center. Two other regularly scheduled tournaments on this year's schedule are at Phoenix Jan. 2-4, where the Chaps could have another run in with national champion Dixie, and the Howard College Classic Jan. 9-10.

Isiah Thomas says offers hit $50,000

Associated Press

Isiah Thomas of the Detroit Pistons says when he was being sought by colleges as a basketball prospect he was offered $50,000, a car and a home for his mother by an assistant coach at a midwestern school.

Thomas, who declined to name the school, said he did not accept the offer nor others that were made during his senior year at St. Joseph's High School in Westchester, Ill.

"I was offered a lot of money," said Thomas, who eventually went to Indiana University where he became an All America.

He said he refused all offers because "my mother told me, 'Never sell yourself, because then you always owe somebody something.'

"I didn't want these people coming to me with their hands out after I got out of school," he said.

"I got offered the $50,000, car and home by an assistant coach from one school," he told the Detroit Free Press during a trip Wednesday to Philadelphia. "Then I received a letter, just like the assistant said I would, from a booster who said, 'If we can do anything for you, feel free to ask.'"

Thomas is the latest former college athlete, including 26 who played basketball for the University of Kentucky, to tell of offers of improper gifts from recruiters and boosters.

Bobby Knight, who coached Thomas at Indiana said the school is not susceptible to such situations because "our alumni are scared to death of me."

Knight, speaking in Vincennes, Ind., said of the alumni, "I've got them in a position where I don't utilize them. I don't expect them to contribute to basketball; we pay our own way.

"If we need an extra $50,000, then I'll help to negotiate a better television contract.

"Obviously, I can't control every single thing that happens. That's impossible. But I do think I can set the tone. I can say, 'Hey, this isn't going to happen and I won't allow it to happen.'"

Thomas said several schools entered a "bidding war," increasing their offers for his services in the apparent belief they weren't paying enough to win him.

Meanwhile, Charles Barkley of the Philadelphia 76ers, who was quoted earlier this week as saying he was offered money by Auburn boosters to stay at school for his senior year, said a reporter apparently misunderstood him. The Philadelphia Daily News reported that Barkley said in an interview that Auburn boosters regularly came by to shake his hand "and put money in it" and that he thought "nothing was wrong with it."

He also was quoted as saying that one college offered him $20,000 while trying to recruit him out of high school.

Not so, Barkley told the Birmingham News in a telephone interview.

He said the reporter "might have gotten his facts from when he were talking about other players receiving money."

The Philadelphia Daily News said it stood by its story.

Basketball players are not the only athletes mentioned in stories of improper recruiting.

Denkinger escape furor

WATERLOO, Iowa (AP) — Don Denkinger, the American League umpire who made the controversial call in the sixth game of the World Series, got away from the furor Friday by going to the Iowa-Ohio State football game.

"There has been a lot of mail and plenty of phone calls, some of it anonymous and not very nice," said Denkinger's wife, Gayle.

"But there has been a lot of marvelous support, from friends and neighbors and from people we don't even know. The commissioner has been supportive, along with the American League and the other umpires," she said.

"And at times like this, it helps."

Denkinger earlier this week said he "called it from the heart" when he ruled that Jorge Orta of the Kansas City Royals was safe at first base after hitting a ground ball in the ninth inning. The Royals went on to score two runs, win the game and stay alive to win the Series with an 11-0 victory in the seventh game.

"The game is still played by human beings and officiated by human beings," said Denkinger in an interview from his home.

"Everyone else said he should have been out. I was using my best judgment at that point, and I called it from the heart."

Television replays appeared to show that Orta was out, and Commissioner Peter Ueberroth conceded Thursday that the call was bad.

Denkinger was also in the midst of a flap in the final game as he ejected Cardinal manager Whitey Herzog and pitcher Joaquin Andujar.

Andujar was ejected after he objected to ball-and-strike calls Denkinger was making.

Nine teams back in USFL

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — At least nine of the 14 teams in the United States Football League will be around when the league resumes play in the fall of 1986, Commissioner Harry Usher said Friday after a club owners' meeting.

"Frankly, all signals are go," Usher told reporters, adding that another team or two may make the schedule in time for the league's first fall season. "We're delighted with the outcome of this meeting. The USFL is here to stay."

Usher said the nine clubs that have met the league's financial requirements for 1986 are the Birmingham Stallions, Jacksonville Bulls, Orlando Renegades, Tampa Bay Bandits, Baltimore Stars, Memphis Showboats, Arizona Outlaws, New Jersey Generals and the Denver franchise, which is being moved to Portland, Ore.

The New Jersey franchise is being merged with the old Houston Gamblers and will remain in New Jersey, Usher said.

Under the league's rules, club owners had to post a $500,000 letter of credit with the USFL and be prepared to put up another $1 million in credit by March 1.

Falls claims his age led to TSN dismissal

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit News Sports Editor Joe Falls, a columnist for The Sporting News for more than 20 years, claims in a lawsuit that the newspaper fired him because he is too old, his lawyer said Friday.

Falls, 57, filed suit Thursday in U.S. District Court in Detroit seeking his job back, injunctions against alleged defamatory statements by The Sporting News' editor and president, and damages exceeding $10,000, his Detroit attorney, Deborah Gordon, said Friday.

"Obviously I feel very sad that Joe feels compelled to take this action after a long and happy relationship with The Sporting News," Tom Barnidge, editor of the newspaper, said Friday.

Barnidge declined to comment further and referred questions to James Imbriaco, a New York attorney for Times Mirror Co., which owns The Sporting News. Imbriaco was not in his office Friday and couldn't be reached for comment, said his secretary, Phylis Bressler.

Falls was not at the News Friday, said a man who answered the telephone in the sports department but did not give his name. No one answered the telephone at Falls' Detroit-area home.

According to his suit, Falls was notified in June that The Sporting News would drop the weekly column he had been writing since 1963.

Falls said he also received a letter from a Sporting News reader which contained a letter Barnidge had written the reader about Falls.

Barnidge allegedly said Falls' column was ended because editors "felt it was time to make a change, with more energetic columnists who attended more events and are closer to today's sports scene," the suit said.

The suit also charges that Richard Waters, president and chief executive officer of The Sporting News, was quoted in USA Today Sept. 17 as saying Falls and two other columnists "seemed to have reached maturity and are on the downswing," and that they should be "giving way to some of the up-and-coming young writers who we think deserve a chance."

'Cheers' home away from home for viewers

ENTERTAINMENT

By ROBERT P. LAURENCE
Copley News Service

The best television shows, the ones we look forward to and recall fondly, offer the viewer a home.

For although we speak of allowing the characters into our homes, we are also visiting them.

The programs create warm, inviting places we're happy to enter once a week, places where we feel comfortable.

Often, those places really are homes; living rooms, along with police squad rooms, must be the most common sets in the Hollywood studios.

Sometimes they're bars or restaurants. As far back as "Duffy's Tavern" and down through the years to "Archie Bunker's Place," eating and drinking establishments have been a TV staple.

They're natural gathering places, where people sit around and talk, and where anyone at all might walk through the door at any moment.

Now there's "Cheers," a Boston saloon where, as its theme song says, "everybody knows your name."

It's a homey place, an easy, cozy place, a very pleasant place to visit. It's even a real place or very much like a real place. The gang at "Cheers" is nice, and it doesn't take long before you feel you know them pretty well.

Besides, they are a very funny bunch of people. They have returned to the small screen for their fourth season on NBC.

The bar owner is Sam (Ted Danson), an ex-jock, very confident around the ladies except when he runs into one with an IQ over 80. The waitress is Diane (Shelley Long), who is smart, but not when it comes to figuring out what to do with her own life.

She and Sam have been involved in the past, but she has lately been engaged to a more intellectual gent named Frasier (Kelsey Grammer).

AMONG THE patrons, Cliff the mail carrier (John Ratzenberger) thinks he knows everything but doesn't, and Norm the accountant (George Wendt) just sort of hangs around. Carla (Rhea Perlman), the other waitress, is still having babies without benefit of wedlock.

"Cheers" is the first original TV creation for Les and Glen Charles, who began their careers 10 years ago at MTM, helping to write for "Phyllis." Then they produced the original "Bob Newhart Show" and later "Taxi." A distinguished record, which has culminated in "Cheers."

They still write most of the episodes, and their pal and co-executive producer Jim Burrows directs.

Actor Nicholas Colasanto died last spring, leaving a gap in the role of Coach, the amiably dim-witted bartender. He has been replaced by actor Woody Harrelson in the role of young bartender Woody Boyd, a friend of Coach.

Colasanto's death, Charles admitted from his Los Angeles office, created a problem for "Cheers." How to acknowledge a real death within the context of a continuing program?

"It's very hard to know in a case like that how much to deal with it, without going overboard," he said. "You want to pay homage to the character and the actor, but you don't want it to look in any way like you're exploiting it or trying to get something out of it.

"What we've opted for is underplaying it as much as possible. We'd rather be accused of that."

In its inception, "Cheers" was supposed to be a sports bar, an idea with only vestigial remains in the show today.

"We sold it on the idea of it being like the Lite Beer commercials," Charles recalled. "Once we added the romantic element, that helped even more to sell the concept."

THAT "romantic element," of course, consisted primarily of Sam's constant but fruitless pursuit of Diane and her reluctant attraction to Sam. Like the rest of the actors in "Cheers," Ted Danson and Shelley Long, as Sam and Diane, seem to fit their roles with utter and natural comfort.

But in the show's second season the two did get together, and the show suffered from the loss of that romantic tension.

"It definitely lost something that apparently a lot of people thought was important to the series," agreed Charles. "We thought we were still doing good shows and investigating a relationship. But the overwhelming reaction seemed to be that people liked them a lot better apart. I don't know what that says about the state of romance in this country."

Regardless of what happens later, though, "Sam and Diane just have some basic personality differences that will always cause friction and stories and jokes."

The series will continue to take advantage of its setting of a Boston bar to introduce new characters.

"That's one of the reasons we chose a bar in the first place," Charles said. "Having worked on some other shows, we saw how difficult it can be in too isolated a set. We went for the bar real fast.

"Also, it's not just a place where people come. It's a place where they come at some real important times in their lives. There's built-in drama, built-in stories."

BOSTON WAS little-used as a site for TV shows at the time, although now "St. Elsewhere" and "Spenser: For Hire" are both set there. Besides, East Coast pubs are real neighborhood hangouts.

"We knew immediately that it was an East Coast show because of that very thing," Charles said. "We wanted a bar that was a social center, where people came and saw their friends day after day. There aren't bars with regulars in LA, or very few. The crowds go from the hot new restaurant to the hot new bar to the next one."

The show is shot in Los Angeles, except for a few exterior stock shots on the streets of Boston.

'North and South' miniseries plunges along with necklines

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "North and South," ABC's 12-hour miniseries that is not about the Civil War, is up-and-down entertainment that plunges more often than it soars and winds up being forgettable, unsatisfying television.

The production by David L. Wolper ("Roots," "The Thorn Birds"), based on the John Jakes best-seller, covers the period from 1842 to the brink of war through the stories of two West Point roommates — one Yankee, one Rebel — and their extended families.

The pace is brisk and there is an occasional revealing glimpse into the lifestyles of the rich and shackled on both sides of the Mason-Dixon Line. But the more frequent and telling look really is a leer, and it focuses, through overhead camera shots, repeatedly on plunging necklines and the tight-bodiced fashions of the times.

If the broadcast paid as much attention to story lines as it does to cleavage content, "North and South" might have been worth watching. Instead, it presents the Marvel Comics-True Confessions version of American history.

The six-part miniseries begins Sunday night, with additional two-hour installments slated for Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Saturday and the following Sunday, which is not really a finale since the actual warfare and the dangling plots and conflicts will pick up next spring with the 12-hour "North and South: Book II."

That means a 24-hour commitment from viewers in a world of multiple video choices, and Wolper acknowledges that if "North and South" fails, the already filmed "North and South: Book II" will be renamed "Love and War," the actual title of Jakes' second book.

ABC is so concerned that viewers might switch to the competition during the six nights of "North and South" that it's offering a 900 phone number for viewers to catch up on the previous night's highlights. The one-minute recaps should easily do the job.

The miniseries starts with some promise as it focuses on the friendship of the two cadets. Their story is much more appealing when they're teen-agers than when they become 1850s Yuppies. As their bonds are challenged by frictions between the North and South over slavery and states rights, classy soap opera quickly becomes hokey, campy melodrama in the manner of "Dynasty."

Orry Main (Patrick Swayze) is the young gentleman from South Carolina. He grew up on a plantation steeped in the tradition and economic necessity of slavery. Slaves were property but entitled to benevolent treatment, according to the Mains.

With the first cleavage shot, Orry falls for a Southern belle played by Lesley-Anne Down. But their steamy love is full of obstacles, particularly her eventual marriage to a wife-beating tyrant played to a dastardly turn by David Carradine.

To its credit, "North and South" does not paint either the pro- or anti-slavery viewpoint as all good or all evil. Neither side had a lock on prejudice and ignorance.

Vietnamese American aids others with his library, language skills

By ROCH THORNTON
Associated Press Writer

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Cong Dinh Phan was well employed when he saw an ad in the paper last year for a poorly paid, part-time job as a foreign language assistant at the Multnomah County Public Library. He applied immediately.

The ensuing collaboration between Phan, 51, and the library's Barbara Kahl, 34, has resulted in a collection of 1,942 volumes, about 300 audio tapes and nearly a dozen periodicals. All are in the languages of Southeast Asia.

One reason the native of Vietnam took the job was because it gave him the chance to use his master's degree in library science from Syracuse University.

"The main thing is I am very happy because I have a chance to help the Vietnamese in the area to have books written in Vietnamese to read, especially for the old people," Phan said.

A Southeast Asian influx to the Portland area began in 1975 after the fall of Saigon.

"We didn't have those language groups living here before and we weren't at all prepared for the demand," said Kahl, who heads the literature and history department. "We started acquiring some things and we added to our collection. We had approximately 200 volumes in Vietnamese before this project started, but it wasn't enough by any means."

The Southeast Asian books and materials, a legacy of the library's federally funded Language Enrichment and Acquisition Project, are checked out at a rate of 2,280 a month at the central library. There are an estimated 11,250 Southeast Asian refugees in Multnomah County.

"We don't have enough books for all the readers, the demand is so high," Phan said.

The Southeast Asian collection is also in demand at four of the county's 14 branch libraries. Each of the four has 75 books from the central library that are rotated every three months.

The most popular books are fiction, particularly what Phan calls "kung fu" novels, many translated from Chinese. He compared them to the cowboy novels popular in the United States.

"Often the story implies some kind of moral or ethical lesson," Phan said, and features good guys, bad guys and lots of fighting.

"Also, my students need textbooks," Phan said. "We have textbooks written in Vietnamese about math, geometry, algebra, physics and chemistry.

"These are all written in Vietnamese so our students can have a chance to improve their knowledge of subjects by reading the Vietnamese version. Especially when they first come to the United States, their English is not so good for reading."

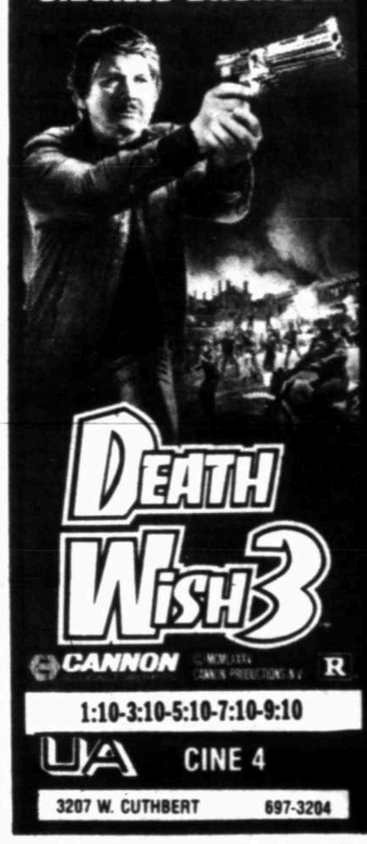

Phan has been a social studies teacher at Madison High School in Portland since he and his family fled South Vietnam in April 1975. Before then he taught English at a military academy in South Vietnam.

Ninety percent of the books are in Vietnamese. However, the collection also includes about 200 volumes and 68 titles in Cambodian and a handful of books in Laotian.

"It's been very frustrating trying to get Laotian books," Kahl said, "but we've been very fortunate in the Cambodian books we've purchased."

Most of the Cambodian books were bought from a woman who imported a shipment from Thailand, although Phan and Kahl now have found a business in France that sells Cambodian books. A few Vietnamese books were donated but most came from publishers in the United States and Taiwan.

The Joyous Heart

Only from the carefree heart of a child could come such happiness.

Or could it? Is it necessary to lose childhood's happy laughter? Must we feel depressed and burdened with the yoke of adult cares?

Certainly not! The God-given gifts of joy and happiness are possessions we can and must retain throughout all our years. But how can we keep this wonderful spirit?

Here is a formula that is very simple: attend the church of your choice regularly. In God's house you will learn to accept life's burdens — and soon they will be ever so much lighter. His Peace will fill your heart. Here, in fellowship with others, you will receive the needed peace and understanding to reclaim and sustain the merry heart.

TV evangelists' draw big audiences

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — A nationwide survey finds that TV evangelists are watched in 40 percent of U.S. households with television sets at least once a month, a much bigger audience than had been expected.

It was termed comparable to top-rated prime time shows.

The A.C. Nielsen Co. report, commissioned by the Christian Broadcasting Network, indicates that TV evangelists have not exaggerated the size of their audiences as much as had been believed, says Jeffery K. Hadden, a University of Virginia professor and president of the Society for the Scientific Study of Religion.

According to the study, more than 33 million households, 40.2 percent of all homes in the United States, watched at least one of 10 television preachers for at least six minutes once a month.

Nielsen spokesman William Behanna said that by comparison, most top-rated network prime time shows also reach about 40 percent of U.S. viewers.

The survey's results, Hadden said, indicate that television evangelists, not President Reagan, are behind the nation's current swing back to a more conservative lifestyle, and that conservative Christians are "coming out of the closet."

The study's findings were reported at the annual convention of the Society for the Scientific Study of Religion and the Religious Research Association being held in Savannah.

The Nielsen Co. survey was commissioned by CBN, headquartered in Virginia Beach, Va., because of the debate over the size of the audiences attracted to religious programs.

According to Behanna, the survey marks the first time the viewership of the religious programs was analyzed with the same methods used for the network ratings.

The top-ranked show was CBN's flagship program, "The 700 Club," hosted by the Rev. M.G. "Pat" Robertson. Robertson has said he may seek the Republican nomination for the presidency in 1988. The show reaches 4.4 million people, or 19 percent of American viewers, once a month.

"Jimmy Swaggert" was second in popularity. Other top-ranked programs, not listed in order of audience size, were Jerry Falwell's "The Old Time Gospel Hour," "Rex Humbard," Oral Roberts' "Expect a Miracle," Robert Shuller's "Hour of Power," Jim Bakker's "PTL Club," "Kenneth Copeland," "Day of Discovery," and another Swaggert program, "A Study In The Word."

First Methodist offering films on teen-agers

First United Methodist Church, Main Street at Illinois Avenue, will offer a class featuring Dr. Ross Campbell's film series "How to Really Love Your Teen-ager" in Room 103.

Beginning this week, the series will be shown on five Wednesday nights. The dates are Wednesday, Nov. 13 and 20 and Dec. 4 and 11. Hours are from 6:15 to 7:15 p.m.

Each film will be followed by a discussion led by Joan Weir, director of the church's ministry with children.

Topics include "The basics: Communicating Unconditional Love," "Teenage Anger: Helping Teens Toward Maturity," "Other Problem Areas: Depression, Guilt, Envy and Barriers in Communication" and "Discipline: Moving Teens from Parental Control to Self-Control."

The film series is based on Campbell's book "How to Really Love Your Teen-ager," published by Victor Books, a division of Scripture Press. This child-rearing handbook received the Gold Medallion Award from Evangelical Christian Publishers Association, 1982. Ross is a psychiatrist, author and lecturer.

This class is presented by First UMC as a part of the Wednesday Night Live series. Other classes offered for these five Wednesday nights are Advent Bible Study, led by the Rev. Charles Lutrick; Ribbon and Fabric Knitting, led by Janet Smith; Economical, Nutritious Time Saving Food Preparations, led by Marion Pharr, County Extension Office; and Photography Tips, led by Brian Hendershot.

Activities are also planned for youth and child care is available. Registration fee is $3 per person or $5 per family. A family style meal is served from 5:15 to 6 p.m. for those who wish to participate.

Trinity pastor addresses Christian view of death

"What is the Christian View of Death?" will be the question addressed by the Rev. Al Moreau's Sunday sermon at Trinity Presbyterian Church. Background Scripture reading is II Corinthians 4:16-5:10.

Since this is the Sunday closest to All Saint's Day, Nov. 1, prayers of thanksgiving and remembrance will be offered for the members of the congregation who have died during the past 12 months.

Moreau's class, "What do Presbyterians Believe?" will continue Sunday and Nov. 10 and will deal specifically with the theology of the Presbyterian Church. The course is being held at 9:30 a.m. in the church parlor.

In addition, the Wednesday Night Program this week features Elizabeth Ferguson in her one-woman play "Amma, the Child Catcher."

"The play follows the life of Amy Carmichael, a missionary to India from 1884-1951, who rescued countless Indian children from the temple of prostitution and brought time to know our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ," says a spokesman for the church.

Mrs. Ferguson is a member of Highland Park Presbyterian Church, Dallas, and wrote and presented this play as a gift to the women of her church at missions season.

The Adult Fellowship for November will be a Mexican Potluck Dinner with Truth or Consequences Game at 7 p.m. Nov. 16. Call the church office, 682-2514, for more information.

Local Presbyterians gather to honor 'reformed heritage'

Dr. Jack Stotts

Midland Presbyterians will gather for "A Celebration of our Reformed Heritage" Nov. 4, a date celebrated in many Protestant churches as Reformation Sunday. Guest speaker will be the Rev. Dr. Jack L. Stotts, president of the Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Austin.

Worship Sunday night will be at First Presbyterian Church at 7:30 p.m. when Stotts will be speaking on "The Reformed Genius." A Study Hour will gather at 9:30 a.m. Monday at Trinity Presbyterian Church to hear Stotts speak on "To Confess Our Faith: A Reformed Requirement." Then, at Grace Presbyterian Church at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Stotts will speak on "The Reformation Heritage: From Poverty to Wealth."

Stotts, a native Texan, is a graduate of Trinity University, San Antonio, McCormick Seminary, Chicago, and the Yale University Divinity School. He earned his doctorate degree in Christian ethics at Yale Divinity School.

Before coming to the Austin seminary this summer, he was president of McCormick Seminary.

When the Presbyterian churches reunited in 1983, Stotts was named chairperson of the Special Committee to write a brief statement of reformed faith. He is the author of "Believing, Deciding and Acting" and "Shalom, the Search for a Peaceable City."

Sacred music workshop set for Nov. 9

The Rev. Roger Deschner will present an open workshop entitled "Understanding the Wesleys' Spirituality through their Hymns" and an open forum on the current revision of the United Methodist Hymnal at 8 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 9, in the Fellowship Hall of First United Methodist Church, Main Street at Illinois Avenue.

Deschner is head of the Sacred Music Program at Perkins School of Theology, Southern Methodist University, Dallas. The sessions are designed to relate to church members, Sunday School teachers, pastors, musicians, Christian educators, youth workers and any other interested parties.

Deschner, who has been the head of the Sacred Music Program at SMU since 1975, is also currently serving as the Secretary to the United Methodist Hymnal Revision Committee. It is the committee's goal to have its work complete to present to the General Conference in 1988.

Prior to his tenure at SMU, Deschner was minister of music at First United Methodist Church, Houston, Methodist's largest congregation.

He is a native Texan and a graduate of the Yale University Institute of Sacred Music.

Child care will be provided. Those attending are asked to bring a sack lunch.

Meet J. Robert Anderson, philanthropist.

He's not a millionaire. In fact, he's not even rich. But he gives.

Most of the giving in this country doesn't come from the wealthy. Almost half of it comes from people who earn less than $20,000 a year. Everyday, ordinary people. Like the guy down the street. Or your next-door neighbor. Or 100 million others who, every year, give unselfishly just to help people.

And while those who give may sometimes go unnoticed, their contributions don't. Because in this country, when a lot of people give, it adds up to a lot.

It helps fund important research. It helps run community church programs. It helps support local charities. It helps people out.

There are so many things in this country that could use your hand. Your time, your talents, your money. What you give isn't so important. That you do give is.

Because you don't have to be rich to be a philanthropist. You just have to care.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Sunday, November 3, 1985

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: A gentle nudge from someone influential could do your career a world of good. Go ahead and ask a friend for a favor. Your self-confidence and highly developed sense of responsibility make you an excellent administrator. Subordinates know you will give them a fair shake. Be careful to treat your colleagues with respect. You cannot afford to make enemies while climbing to the top. Family support helps you reach a long-sought goal. CELEBRITY BIRTHDATES: actor Charles Bronson, congressman Phil Crane (R-Ill.), Karl Michaelson of "Gimme a Break," Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis, actor-dancer Ken Berry, boxing's Larry Holmes.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Curb your temper or you could lose out on a wonderful opportunity. Surround yourself with people who think positive. Many social obligations can be repaid with one big party.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A project involving children will prove richly rewarding. You find a special sermon or book very inspiring. A decision you make today will affect your life for years to come. Celebrate!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A puzzle will be solved when you open new lines of communication. Household repairs may require a professional's expertise. Be careful not to get in over your head. Errors could prove costly.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Have faith in yourself and others will follow your lead. Concentrate on developing untapped talents. A step-by-step plan is essential if you are to reach a long-sought goal.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Romance could have you riding an emotional roller coaster. Keep your wits about you! Impulsive ultimatums and promises should be avoided. End family arguments over money by setting up a budget.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A delayed check or gift finally arrives. The future looks much brighter. A child tells an interesting story. Be smart enough to grasp its meaning. Influential friends prove very helpful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Retirement is easiest for those who approach it in a positive way. Look at it as a beginning, not an end. Celebrate the arrival of a child or old friend.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your energy level rises when you get more rest. Relax with a good book. A subtle hint saves you both time and money. Joining a club or fraternal organization gives you new contacts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Students find romance especially rewarding now. Exercise greater self-discipline where homework is concerned. Falling behind would be a big mistake. The coming week will be very busy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Those who work outside the home might want to spend time in the kitchen today. Bread or cookie baking brings back childhood memories. Call a relative or old friend and reminisce.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The key to a happy retirement is staying active and interested. Guard your health the same way you guard your privacy. Reading is great entertainment when you find the right book.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Get together with your neighbors and organize a community clean-up or beautification campaign. Although fund-raising activities will cut into your time, the results will be worth the sacrifice.

Fairchild: Despite AIDS scare, on-screen kissing here to stay

Fairchild

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Morgan Fairchild says despite the fear of AIDS that prompted the Screen Actors Guild to propose kissing guidelines, cinema and television smooching is here to stay.

"Acting is the only profession in the world short of prostitution that requires kissing as part of the business," Miss Fairchild said Thursday. "I mean, romance and romantic scenes are very much part and parcel of what we're selling here...So, there's no way those types of scene are going to be eliminated."

The blond actress, currently appearing on CBS-TV's "Falcon Crest," said she approves of the SAG proposal that would give actors advance information about open-mouth kissing scenes before they take a role.

But she said the issue isn't that pressing for her or for TV.

"I've never gone in for those big open-mouth kissing scenes, and anyway, they don't come up that much on television."

The usually fatal acquired immune deficiency syndrome, which cripples the body's immune system, is most likely to strike homosexuals, abusers of injectable drugs and hemophiliacs.

The virus is transmitted by sexual contact, the sharing of contaminated needles by intravenous drug abusers, and transfusions of blood and blood products.

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Fans of the rock group Foreigner would be thrilled if lead singer Lou Gramm had his way. Gramm says his band is too sheltered and should spend time talking with fans after shows.

"It's cool for them. It's cool for you," Gramm said. "Kids in general, we represent something to them. We're not angels. We're like them, but just a little bit older. They want to talk to you. They want a little advice.

"There is an awareness today (among teen-agers) which is a good thing. They are less stoned. Getting high is one thing. Wrecked beyond comprehension is something else. Now, kids aren't being so stupid. I'm glad."

Gramm, the lone American in the British band, said, "Kids grow up too fast nowadays. Maybe they are forced to. Maybe it's parents or the world, but I tell kids that their worst problems just aren't that bad. Have a little patience with your life and stay a kid as long as you can."

Foreigner was in Arizona for a concert Thursday as part of its "Agent Provocateur" 1985 world tour.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — Virginia Park is still Virginia Park, after singer Tina Turner declined the mayor's invitation to come to town to have the park renamed for her.

"We did not rename it after we were snubbed by Ms. Turner," Kelvin Ellis, executive assistant to the mayor, said Friday.

"It is unfortunate that Tina Turner has chosen to ignore the segment of the population which was most instrumental in her climb to the top of the entertainment industry," Mayor Carl E. Officer said in a statement Thursday. "The black community worked for Tina Turner and supported her during the times when the white population ignored her."

Lindsay Scott, general manager of Ms. Turner's management company, said the entertainer did not have time while in St. Louis recently to accept Officer's invitation.

He said Ms. Turner was in St. Louis for four hours for a concert, part of a 10-month tour to 90 cities. East St. Louis is a predominantly black city across the Mississippi River from St. Louis.

"Tina is very aware of her black roots," Scott said. "But if she met with everyone who wanted to meet with her, it would have killed her in six months."

Ms. Turner moved to the St. Louis area as a teenager and performed in clubs for years before moving to Los Angeles.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Actor and producer Ralph Waite, who portrayed John Walton for nine years in the CBS series "The Waltons," says he hopes to play a sanctuary movement leader in a television docudrama.

Waite said a script should be ready for network review later this month.

If the program is made, Waite's company, Waite Jaffe Productions, would pay for rights to the story to the sanctuary movement to be distributed to Central American refugees in El Salvador, Guatemala and North America.

Eleven members of the movement are currently on trial in federal court, charged with conspiracy to smuggle illegal aliens from Central America into this country.

Waite said he wants to portray one of the defendants, the Rev. John M. Fife, considered a founder of the movement.

"I'm someone who feels both professionally and personally that it's a very personal story," said Waite, 57, who spent much of the week as a spectator at the trial here.

Like Fife, Waite was ordained as a Presbyterian minister.

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Demonstrators chanting "British troops out of Ireland" tried to disrupt the arrival Friday of the prince and princess of Wales at the world premiere of the movie "Burke and Wills."

The 50 demonstrators dispersed peacefully minutes after Charles and Diana moved into the theater foyer. Outside, about 4,000 admirers gathered to cheer the royal couple and entertainment personalities.

The chants of the demonstrators, from a group called Australian Aid for Ireland, were overwhelmed by a welcoming band, which struck up a rousing rendition of the film's theme.

Charles and Diana apppeared unperturbed by the first protest since their arrival Sunday. They are visiting Australia for the 150th birthday celebrations of Victoria state.

They leave Nov. 8 for a brief visit to the United States.

MOSCOW — Yelena Bonner, wife of exiled Nobel Peace Prize laureate Andrei Sakharov, has sent a telegram to a friend in Moscow saying she will not leave the Soviet Union until the end of November, sources here said Friday.

The telegram, received by a friend of the couple Friday, came from Gorki, a city east of here where Bonner, 62, has been restricted with Sakharov since last August when she was tried and sentenced to internal exile on charges of anti-Soviet slander.

According to sources, the telegram read: "I have received permission to leave. I shall leave at the end of November. I am taking precautions for Andrei so he can survive the winter alone."

Catholic sister growing rosaries in garden

LITTLE FALLS, Minn. (AP) — Sister Jeremia Trutwin has said thousands of prayers on the rosary since she became a member of the Franciscan Order 52 years ago. She says the same prayers said by other Roman Catholics, but her rosary is different.

She makes her rosaries from beads grown in her garden.

Sister Jeremia says she has always been interested in gardening. When a friend showed her a rosary made from tiny, cream-colored beads, she decided to try her luck. She planted her first Job's-tears 28 years ago and has been growing them ever since.

South of St. Francis Convent in the complex's huge garden, Sister Jeremia's 32 plants flourish next to flowers of every size and description and vegetables that will fill the sisters' freezer for the winter.

Job's-tears looks strikingly similar to the corn standing in neighboring rows except that Mother Nature has replaced the corn's cobs with Job's-tears' smooth, round beads.

As the seeds ripen, Sister Jeremia plucks them from the plants and strings them into rosaries.

She knows her way around the garden like an expert. She entered the convent in Little Falls in 1933 and has vivid memories of picking row upon row of green beans during her early years of training. Cows, chickens and even pigs were raised by the sister and the students who came to Little Falls to attend St. Francis High School during the 1930s and 1940s.

Now 75, Sister Jeremia is still an enthusiastic gardener, but she stays away from the bean patch as much as she can, she said. These days it is beads, not beans, that she gathers.

"I don't know how many rosaries I've made over the years," she said as she demonstrated how to twist the fine, piano-grade wire on which the beads are strung. "I guess maybe I've made hundreds, maybe thousands."

The beads have a natural soft spot on each end, and Sister Jeremia's nimble fingers make the task of pushing the thin wire through it look simple.

"If I had to drill a hole in each bead, I wouldn't be making rosaries," she said with a smile.

Once the bead is pierced, she carefully snips the wire and with the aid of needle-nosed pliers, makes a tiny loop on each end. A total of 59 beads goes into each rosary, each bead representing a specific prayer.

"Most Catholics say the rosary," said Sister Jeremia. "I usually say it three times a day. It helps us to be reconciled, and restores our union with God."

She says that some people like her handiwork; others don't care for the "primitive" look of the handmade strings of beads.

It usually takes about two hours, from start to finish, to complete one rosary, she said. "But I usually don't get much of a chance to make them at one sitting."

Sister Jeremia returned to Little Falls three years ago after 37 years as the housekeeper for Bishop Barthololome in St. Cloud. She says she isn't ready to retire yet; she keeps a busy schedule working in the convent's laundry and greenhouse. Her free time is spent reading, crocheting and, of course, stringing beads.

First Presbyterian organist to present recital

Tony Norris, organist for First Presbyterian Church, will present a Centennial Organ Recital in the sanctuary of First Presbyterian, 800 W. Texas Ave., at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 10.

Norris attended Illinois Wesleyan University, Bloomington, Ill., where, for two years, he majored in sacred music and studied organ with Dr. David M. Gehrenbeck. After transferring to the Indiana University School of Music, Bloomington, Ind., in 1978, Norris completed his bachelor of music degree in organ performance in 1982. His organ professor was Dr. Oswald G. Ragatz, now retired. While at IU, Norris also studied carillon with Linda Walker and received the honor of performing on a recital given at the 1981 National Congress of the Guild of Carillonneurs in North America, held in Rochester, Minn.

Last fall he began work toward a masters degree in organ performance, which he completed in August. His teacher was concert artist Dr. Marilyn Keiser.

He also received an associate instructorship to play weekly carillon recitals and teach carillon students. Other performing opportunities have included solo organ recitals in Indianapolis and Bloomington and accompanying choral performances of Benjamin Britten's "Festival te Deum" and "Rejoice in the Lamb."

Norris is a member of the American Guild of Orghanists, Royal School of Church Music in America, the Guild of Carillonneurs in North America, Presbyterian Association of Musicians, Choristers Guild, Hymn Society of America, Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, a professional fraternity for musicians, and the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers.

The free performance is open to the public.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Evangelist guest speaker at Greenwood Baptist

Jay Breland

Evangelist Jay Breland will be the guest speaker for the "Reach Out and Touch" revival services at Greenwood Baptist Church, Highway 307 near Greenwood Schools, at 7 p.m. today through Wednesday.

Breland received his education at Dallas Baptist University, East Texas State University, Creswell Bible Institute and Southwestern Seminary. He served with the U.S. Marine Corps and is a Vietnam veteran. He serves the U.S. Army Reserve as a chaplain with the rank of major.

Bill Funderburk, who serves as minister of music at Immanuel Baptist Church, Odessa, will be directing the music. Funderburk received his education at Hardin-Simmons University, Eastern Kentucky University and Southwestern Seminary. While he has served as minister of music in Odessa for over 3 years, his previous past experience includes working as an arranger and song writer in Nashville.

Dewey Family to appear

The Dewey Family will appear at Midland's First Assembly of God Church, 100 W. Wadley Ave., at 6 p.m. Sunday.

"The Deweys have become famous for their ability to play over 30 musical instruments for the enjoyment of the crowds that come to their concerts," says a spokesman for the Deweys. "There is an intensity of excitement that builds when all the instruments are on the stage and the Deweys begin their ministry."

The Dewey family members are regular telethon guests for Paul Crouch at TBN in Southern California. Recently, the Deweys have been the special guest of Jim Bakker on the PTL Program, and CONTACT, the television program which airs five times per week on PTL satellite and three times per week on Pat Robertson's CBN satellite network.

Each week the Deweys open the Sing Out America program, televised from Nashville, Tenn., and viewed in over 23 million homes.

Jimmy Swaggart recorded their No. 1 gospel song "Heaven's Sounding Sweeter all the Time." LTD Record Company, Nashville, publishes the Deweys' music, choir books and other materials which are available to interested parties.

The public is invited to attend.

Women go to White House

A special invitation to a briefing at both the White House and the Pentagon, Washington, D.C., has been extended to Midlanders Ina Adcock and Dorothy Crawford as members of the United Foursquare Women. The briefings will be held Wednesday and Thursday.

The briefings are part of a prayer convention to be held in Washington, D.C., Tuesday through Nov. 9 by this organization.

Keynote speakers for the evening sessions are Carolyn Sundseth, assistant director, Office of the Public Liasion, the White House; Mark Siljander, member of Congress, Michigan; San Ericsson, attorney, Christian Legal Society; Dee Jepsen, author of "Beyond Equal Rights" and wife of Sen. Roger Jepsen, Iowa; and Elayne Bennett, wife of William Bennett, secretary, Department of Education.

The UFW is a nonprofit service organization of the International Church of the Foursquare Gospel and provides help for women involved in ministering to the needs of the local community as well as those in foreign countries.

Ms. Adcock and Ms. Crawford are members of the Foursquare Church of Midland.

Church presents musical

The Adult Choir of Hollowell United Methodist Church will be featured in "Expressing from the Soul," a religious musical program, at 4 p.m. Sunday in the church's sanctuary, 400 S. Marshall St.

Guest musicians will include members from St. Paul CME Church and Milton Jones. All participants will join in the finale, which includes famous and popular Negro spirituals with a special musical tribute to Ethiopia, "We Are the World."

Soloists from the Hollowell Choir will be Bertha Littlejohn, Margie Titus, Carneil Jackson, Clarence Rankin, Kenneth Littlejohn, Clara Mode, Carolyn Lott, Barbara Yarbrough and L.S. Littlejohn.

Narrator is Shirley Roberts. Mamie Williams, church organist, will direct the musical. She will be assisted by Stancel Gibbs.

A Zodiac Tea Reception, featuring 12 decorated tables representing the 12 months of the year, will be held following the program. The musical and tea are open to the public.

A donation to the tea will help support the efforts of the Hollowell choir toward the purchase of musical instruments.

Goodwill hosts speaker

Rev. Degrate

The Rev. L.H. Degrate will be speaking at Goodwill Baptist Church, 1508 S. Main St., at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Degrate is the chairman of the educational board of the West Texas Baptist District Association and vice president of the West Texas Baptist District Association, Sunday School Congress of Christian Education. He works through the association as a field worker helping students with scholarship awards to Bishop College, Dallas.

He also works in fund-raising campaigns for youth delegates to attend district and state workshops, conducts youth workshops and evangelistic services in Texas, New Mexico, Kansas, Oklahoma and California.

The pastor of Goodwill Baptist, the Rev. M.A. Brown, invites the public to attend.

Nazarenes offer services

Special services being held at the First Church of the Nazarene, Wall Avenue at F Street, end Sunday. The Rev. Brance Moyer of San Antonio is the speaker and singer for the services.

Moyer is a registered evangelist and song evangelist on the San Antonio District of the Church of the Nazarene. The Midland church is a part of this district.

A 1966 graduate of Bethany Nazarene College, Moyer has pastored churches in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

The pastor of First Church of the Nazarene, the Rev. Harold L. Quarles, invites the public to attend.

Moyer will also be directing the church choir in special music.

Sunday's revival services will be preceeded by a children's musical, "Down by the Creek" by Dottie Rambo. The musical will be presented at 10:45 a.m. in celebration of Rally Day.

FBC plans ski retreat

First Baptist Church is planning a Family Ski Retreat to Crested Butte, Colo., Dec. 26-30.

The church has 75 reservations at Oar Bucket Lodge. Those going are responsible for their own transportation, paying for their own equipment and for their lift tickets.

Cost of the rooms is $54 for four persons in a room and $44 for two persons in a room. Breakfast meals are $3.50 and dinner $7.

Those interested in going on this trip need to call First Baptist Church Activities Building, 682-7669. A Family Bible Study will be conducted nightly.

First Baptist Church is also planning an Adult Ski Retreat Feb. 2-8 to Colorado.

Last basketball meeting set

The final basketball meeting for church league play will be held at noon Nov. 14 in the Fellowship Hall of First Baptist Church.

Teams being offered include High School Boys, Adult Men, and, if there is enough interest, Adult Women and High School Girls. Deadline for signing up is the morning of Nov. 18.

Reservations for the Nov. 14 luncheon need to be made by Nov. 6. Cost of lunch is $3. For more information call 682-7669.

Iglesia Bautista Betel, 1311 W. Florida St., is holding a revival Friday through Nov. 10. Guest speaker is evangelist Sam Medina of Lubbock.

Theme is "Paz en Jesucristo." Service times are 7:30 p.m. Friday and Nov. 9 and 9:45 a.m. Nov. 10.

Medina is a member of Iglesia Arnet Benson. Music will be provided by singer David Guiterrez, also of Iglesia Arnet Benson, Lubbock.

Services will be held in Spanish. The public is invited to attend.

Asbury to hold festival

Asbury United Methodist Church is holding its sixth annual Fall Festival Arts and Crafts Fair from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Nov. 16.

Handmade crafts of all kinds will be on display and for sale. Homemade chili, homemade ice cream, nachos, hot dogs, sandwiches and drinks will be sold by Asbury UMC members. Door prizes will be given.

Church presents lecture

First Church of Christ Scientist is presenting Olga M. Chafee of Pasadena in a free lecture at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in Theatre One at Theatre Midland, 2000 W. Wadley Ave.

The lecture is titled "Changing Times: Unchanging God." Mrs. Chafee is a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship.

Child care will be provided.

The public is invited to attend.

UMC to present musical

The Continental Singers and Orchestra will present a new musical program "Together We Will Stand" at 7 p.m. Thursday at St. Paul United Methodist Church.

The group appearing in Midland is one of 18 that will perform in all 50 states as well as 15 foreign countries in 1985.

The public is invited to attend the performance.

STATE IN BRIEF

Mattox: $1.9 million in suits filed for overweight trucks

AUSTIN (AP) — In the past year, truckers and shippers have paid $1.9 million in civil penalties for putting overweight trucks on Texas highways, Attorney General Jim Mattox said Friday.

In remarks to a conference of state highway officials, Mattox said other states could benefit from starting a program similar to that begun by Texas last November.

"As far as we know, this program is the only one of its kind in the United States," Mattox said.

Seventy-eight lawsuits have been filed, with 66 being settled and the companies paying fines. There also were 15 cases settled without suits being filed, Mattox said.

The program, seeking civil fines and injunctions against truckers and shippers, was begun after state officials learned that overweight trucks could do more than $260 million in damage to Texas roads over the next 20 years. Criminal penalties weren't enough, Mattox said.

Promotion helps beef sales

AUSTIN (AP) — The recent "Taste of Texas" beef promotion increased consumer sales of Texas beef by as much as 35 percent over a year ago, the Texas Department of Agriculture announced Friday.

Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower said the two-month promotion, done with the cooperation of five of the state's largest supermarket chains, has helped both consumers and ranchers.

"Prior to this special 'crisis' promotion, our feedlots were overflowing with excess beef, causing cattle prices to plummet to the lowest level in seven years," Hightower said.

Safeway, Kroger, HEB, Tom Thumb Page and Piggly Wiggly stores joined the promotion. Collectively, the five chains have more than 500 stores in Texas.

Child abuse to be studied

AUSTIN (AP) — The growing problems of child abuse will be examined in the State Bar of Texas' third media law conference later this month.

Representatives of the news media, law enforcement agencies, the medical and legal professions, judges and social agencies will attend the two-day conference scheduled for San Antonio Nov. 15-16.

The session will explore to what extent the public has a right to know about the sexually abused child.

Teen says he won't run under Confederate flag

GRAND PRAIRIE (AP) — A 15-year-old sophomore says he's been banned from playing high school football in this Dallas suburb because he refuses to play ball under the Confederate flag.

Fred Coleman Jr., who started the year on South Grand Prairie's junior varsity football team, said he was asked to take a spot on the Warriors' varsity roster two weeks into the semester after an older player was injured.

But the black student said he now has been banned from playing on either squad because he won't play varsity football as long as the school maintains the 10-year-old tradition of having players run onto the field behind the Confederate flag.

Head coach Eddie Patton disagreed, saying Coleman cannot play because he is qualified to play varsity football but has declined to play with the team.

"If you're not playing with the varsity team (and are qualified) you shouldn't be playing junior varsity," Patton said.

A community meeting was called for Friday night to consider what can be done about Coleman's situation, said Lee Alcorn, president of the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Alcorn said the meeting was called after he received several complaints about the flag tradition.

Fred Coleman Sr., the student's father, said the "only people that honor that flag is the Ku Klux Klan. We're asking the taxpayers to support a racist idea."

The elder Coleman said when he complained about the flag to Patton, school district athletic director Don Murphy, and school superintendent Hobbs Williams, they all answered, "It's a tradition."

Controller says he saw lightning before crash

IRVING (AP) — An air traffic controller guiding Delta Air Lines Flight 191 when it crashed testified Friday that he had seen lightning and "a wall of rain" just before the accident, but did not tell anyone about it.

Gene Skipworth, a supervisor manning local control radar when Flight 191 crashed Aug. 2, conceded during National Transportation Safety Board hearings that federal policies require him to report thunderstorms to pilots approaching them.

"I saw lightning, yes," he said. "But I do not know that it was a thunderstorm. Unless I'm sadly mistaken, seeing one flash of lightning does not mean it was a thunderstorm."

He said thunder must be heard first, and said he would have heard it if it were in the Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport's vicinity. But he said he did not.

It was Skipworth who issued the futile "go around" command to Flight 191 as the Lockheed emerged from the bank of clouds in what he said appeared to be level flight shortly after 6 p.m.

"It just didn't look right to me," he said. "The nose is usually up slightly. It was instinct. I said 'go around.'"

But the command came too late. Delta 191 had already touched down in a plowed field north of the airport before Skipworth saw it, and it then clipped some cars on Texas Highway 114.

"After the 'go around' I saw fire in the left wing and the plane made a sharp left turn, wing down, nose down, bounced into water tanks and exploded," he said.

As a result, 137 people died.

In later testimony Friday, the final day of four days of NTSB hearings, Skipworth's supervisor said a controller returning from a break told him he had seen lightning in the storm cell Delta would fly through minutes later.

Joe Conners, an area supervisor, said he ordered the tower be put on emergency power backup — a move he described as routine when lightning is reported in the area — but did not tell anyone else about it.

"The only thing I thought it was was heavy rain," Skipworth said of the storm. "There was no indication of wind shear," a sharp burst of wind that investigators say played a part in the jet's carsh.

Roger Kennedy, another supervisory air traffic control specialist in the D-FW tower, said he relieved Skipworth immediately after the crash because "he had just seen a major accident and wasn't suited to working anymore. It was a human factor."

Ten to 15 minutes before the crash, Skipworth had issued "go around" commands to two other aircraft — not, he said, because of winds, but because the runways hadn't been cleared of other craft.

Mentally ill jail inmate may go free

HOUSTON (AP) — A mentally ill jail inmate released by mistake may go free because because extradition laws won't allow the man to be returned to Texas from Michigan, Harris County authorities say.

Joseph G. Mura, 27, was found innocent by reason of insanity on Sept. 11 after being charged with attempted murder in the multiple stabbing of a Houston taxi driver, court records show.

State District Judge Joe Kegans, however, ruled that Muha be confined in Rusk State Hospital under court supervision. The inmate, however, was released from the Harris County Jail on Sept. 11, jail records show.

Muha was apprehended Oct. 16 in Michigan on a warrant from Harris County. But Assistant District Attorney Norma Davenport said Muha cannot be returned to Texas because of a quirk in extradition laws.

"If Texas doesn't want him, we're cutting him loose," said Lt. Hank Pfeilstucker of the Macomb County (Mich.) Sheriff's Department.

"I don't know who pulled the booboo...but someone has caused a real mess," Ms. Davenport said.

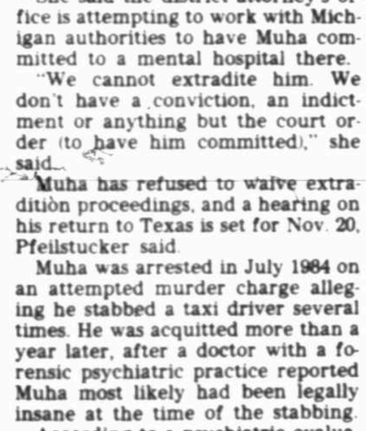

She said the district attorney's office is attempting to work with Michigan authorities to have Muha committed to a mental hospital there.

"We cannot extradite him. We don't have a conviction, an indictment or anything but the court order (to have him committed)," she said.

Muha has refused to waive extradition proceedings, and a hearing on his return to Texas is set for Nov. 20, Pfeilstucker said.

Muha was arrested in July 1984 on an attempted murder charge alleging he stabbed a taxi driver several times. He was acquitted more than a year later, after a doctor with a forensic psychiatric practice reported Muha most likely had been legally insane at the time of the stabbing.

According to a psychiatric evaluation, Muha contended he feared for his life because he thought the cab driver was making sexual advances towards him.

Cassadaga builds on communication — with the spirit world

EDITOR'S NOTE: In the moss-draped hamlet of Cassadaga, Fla., communion with the dead is a cottage industry and spirits are taken seriously the year around.

By GREG MYRE
Associated Press Writer

CASSADAGA, Fla. — The evening mist hangs a soft halo over Spirit Pond in the last days of October, and some folks around this Central Florida village think that's the ideal time to talk with the dead.

The spirits appear in visions, in voices, and in the candle's gentle flame, Cassadagans say, and no one raises an eyebrow if you mention you've just spoken with your husband — who died 20 years ago.

The outsider sees only an aging, silent town with empty streets draped in Spanish moss, but the vibrations from those who have "passed over" to the spirit world fill the air with magic, the townsfolk say.

"This place has a special aura," says the Rev. Darleen Misskelley, one of Cassadaga's 30 mediums. "You feel something here that goes beyond the five physical senses."

Ms. Misskelley is one of about 75 members of the Cassadaga Spiritualist Camp, the group that comprises the heart and soul of this tiny hamlet. The Spiritualists believe in communication between "this and the spirit world by the means of mediumship." They claim the powers of prophecy, clairvoyance, healing, levitation, visions, the gift of tongues and revelations.

"People should be skeptical and they should ask questions," says Pheobe-Rose Bergin, 58, who considers herself a medium, a Spiritualist and a Catholic. "But those that don't want to delve into the psychic side of existence are in a sense spiritual illiterates."

"SEANCES, ASTROLOGY, TAROT cards are all valid ways to get in touch with the spirit world," adds Mrs. Berbin, whose husband died last year. "Every so often my husband will turn a light on in the house to get my attention. It's just his way of saying, 'Hey, I'm still here.'"

Spiritualists have been drawn to this sleepy backwater since 1875 when George Colby led his followers from upstate New York under the guidance of three spirits named The Philosopher, The Unknown and Seneca, so the legend goes.

The town now numbers some 300 residents, including those who live on the grounds of the Spiritualist Camp, a 35-acre tract consisting of a sandstone church, a meeting hall, and several dozen high-peaked, white-clapboard, gingerbread homes reminiscent of rural New England.

Most of the camp residents are elderly women who venture out infrequently, lending a ghost-town quality to Cassadaga, even at high noon. Shingles advertising "medium" hang outside about two dozen of the homes.

The residents call their village tranquil. Some outsiders call it "Spooksville."

The rumors of witches and warlocks and demons running amok is a strong lure to students from Stetson University in nearby De Land. Fraternities sometimes drop off pledges in Cassadaga's cemetery and three years ago several students dug up a grave and removed a skull.

IN PAST YEARS, the Volusia County Sheriff's Department has found witchcraft paraphernalia in the cemetery and occasionally bikers hold court there.

Cassadagans have tried to discourage tales of specters and the supernatural, but the myths seem to have a life of their own. And at least some of the local residents revel in Cassadaga's reputation.

When Rick Shaefer was a teenager growing up in nearby Sanford, he loaded up his car with friends and beer and went joy-riding through Cassadaga on Halloween.

"We were just looking for fun — and witches," says Shaefer, a 34-year-old ex-police officer.

Three years ago, Shaefer came to Cassadaga for the first time since his youth. He was depressed, he says, having just broken up with a girlfriend and nothing in his life seemed quite right. He agreed to a reading by a medium.

"She told me everything about my ex-girlfriend, her name, her family, what she was like," Shaefer says. "I was in awe. She told me the girl wasn't the one for me. All I could think of was Jim Jones and the cults, but this seemed so genuine."

For the past eight months, Shaefer and his wife Sharon have lived on the main street in Cassadaga. He is training to be a medium.

"I never realized I had these abilities until I came to Cassadaga. But you feel different here, it has a very special history."

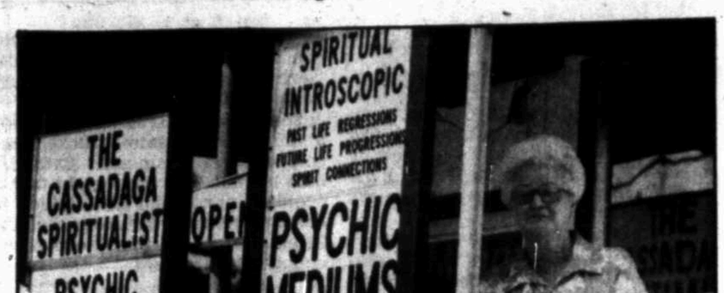

Much of that history rests in the Cassadaga cemetery, which sits alongside Kicklighter Road, a dirt and gravel strip that runs through the woods.

CASSADAGA'S FOUNDER, GEORGE Colby, is buried here in the sandy soil that's now ruled by red ants. The weeds are overgrown, waist high almost, and the Spanish moss hangs so low that the two almost touch. Broken beer bottles are as common as flowers.

On this particular day, three young girls are riding their horse through the graveyard, stopping to play on the top of an elaborate above-ground coffin known as the "Devil's Chair."

Off to one corner of the field, untouched by grave robbers and free of weeds, moss, horses, and children is the tomb of Laura H. Iverson, 1854-1925. On her headstone is an inscription the locals say Spiritualists understand best. It reads:

"There is no death, tis but a birth
"Into a heaven most rare.
"Tis but the passing from this world
"Of earthly pain and care.
"A beautiful transitting,
"The life, the soul, the breath
"When passing into a spirit realm
"Is what the world calls death."

Foreign petal pushers snatch profits of U.S. posey growers

EDITOR'S NOTE: Flowers now can be delivered to the United States from most parts of the world less than 24 hours after they're picked, and at lower costs. That has domestic producers worried. Consider the rose. At least one out of every four sold in the United States last year came from another country and the numbers of imports are growing.

By TARA BRADLEY-STECK
Associated Press Writer

GIBSONIA, Pa. — Imported or grown domestically, a rose is a rose and smells as sweet. And that's the thorn pricking the domestic flower industry, which claims blooming imports are undercutting their billion-dollar business.

"There are greenhouse companies that are going broke around the country, one by one, because of imports," says rose grower Steve Slatton. "It's one of our major concerns."

Slatton manages Pittsburgh Cut Flowers, one of the country's largest rose growers, producing about 5½ million rose blossoms a year from 250,000 bushes. The buds flourish under greenhouses terracing rolling hills about 20 miles north of Pittsburgh.

For most of its 120-plus years, the business "has been very stable," Slatton says. "And it still is yet. It's just that there are ominous clouds hanging around."

Aggressive competition from cheaper, foreign imports — once confined to products like steel, shoes and electronics — is forcing growers to trim their budgets and scrutinize future plans.

"It's funny to think flowers can be brought over here from another country and still be affordable," says Patti Schuldenfrei, managing editor of Florists' Review.

But flowers can be delivered to the United States from most parts of the world less than 24 hours after they're picked and at lower costs than those produced here, she said.

Imports of cut flowers are now at a record high level, comprising more than 30 percent of all cut flowers and topping $214 million in value in 1984, says Stephen Burket, industry analyst for the International Trade Commission.

DOMESTIC GROWERS HAVE asked for protection from flower dumping by countries that subsidize their industries, but the ITC has ruled imports are not yet harming U.S. growers.

Rose baron Steve Slatton, manager of Pittsburgh Cut Flowers in Gibsonia, Pa., poses in one of his company's huge greenhouses with long-stem roses, part of the domestic flower industry which is being hurt by cheaper foreign-imported flowers.

AP Laserphoto

"If the cases so far, the domestic industry has not been able to demonstrate that the injury they're suffering is caused in substantial part by imports," Burket says. "Domestic production, if it has done anything, has held its ground."

People are buying more flowers, experts say, but the proportion of the market for domestic growers is shrinking because imports are filling the demand.

Lilli Ann Breshnahan, director of of the New York-based Flower Council of Holland, claims the U.S. market is far from being saturated. She said U.S. growers could compete more effectively if they'd cooperate with importers in advertising flowers and be more creative in what they grow.

"Let's face it. When you think of Dutch flowers being grown in Europe, at higher labor costs than in the U.S., and they're flown over here, so the freight has to be added on, it would seem to me that a U.S. grower who's on the ball would be able to compete very easily," she said.

"I JUST THINK the growers who are looking toward the future and are progressive have seen that if you expand the market, there's more than enough to go around."

Colombia is the top-ranking petal pusher among the foreign competitors, supplying 58 percent of all cut flowers imported domestically in 1984, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Mexico and Guatemala last year supplied 19 percent and 6 percent, respectively.

Domestic growers claim those countries have a natural advantage because they don't have to pay high heating bills and standard U.S. labor costs.

"We have an enormous investment in greenhouses here. It costs a fortune to operate," Slatton said, rattling off the figures — 100,000 gallons of water per day, 6,300 tons of coal a year.

"In South America, there's no heating problem. They go into the mountains until they find a microclimate with stable temperatures, humidity and sunlight," he said. "Labor runs from $25 to 435 a week per person."

Holland has none of the South American advantages. But advanced technology, aggressive marketing and a cooperative system among growers helped the Netherlands control 11 percent of the market for all imported cut flowers last year and practically corner the market in bulb flowers like tulips, freesia, iris and lilies, according to the USDA.

"TWO YEARS AGO, florists were afraid to touch these flowers because they thought they were too exotic," Bresnahan says. "Now they'll tell you they can't do without them."

The imports have affected not just a few varieties of flowers, but an entire bouquet.

Pittsburgh Cut Flowers, which now grows mostly roses, had to phase out its production of chrysanthemums and carnations in the early 60s "when imports became too many," Slatton said.

Now, about 70 percent of all standard carnations and 68 percent of all pompon mums purchased in the United States are imported, according to the UAD.

Roses, once considered too delicate to transport long distances, are being imported in amazing numbers, thanks to new technology that enables roses to withstand being out of water for a time.

About 40.4 million roses were imported in 1984, almost 10 times more than the 4.2 million imported in 1975, according to government figures. Currently, more than one out of every four roses bought in this country are grown elsewhere.

Roses Inc., a trade group of rose growers, claims the figures are much higher. The group said more than 129 million roses were imported in 1984 and 78.5 million roses were imported for the first five months of 1985.

AND THAT HAS Slatton worried.

"The steel industry found that when imports got to be about 25 percent, things crumbled," Slatton said. "There seems to be a certain percentage of the market when things begin to collapse."

Imports may be cheaper, but Slatton claims his flowers are better because they're fresher and hardier.

"The things we do here no importer can come close to approaching," he said.

Botha: Security forces exempt from suits

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — President P.W. Botha decreed on Friday that security forces throughout South Africa were exempt from lawsuits arising from their handling of anti-apartheid riots and interrogations of suspects.

The decree coincided with new violence directed against whites. In Johannesburg, an explosion thought to have been caused by a bomb blew out windows in an office building. One woman was hospitalized for shock, but no other injuries were reported.

Botha's declaration, which appeared in the weekly Government Gazette of decisions and rulings, means that to a large extent, police and the army are now above the law.

Police and soldiers have been repeatedly accused of provoking rioters, shooting wantonly and torturing detainees.

Should anyone challenge the actions of a soldier or policeman, the Gazette said, "It shall be presumed — until the contrary is proved — that such act was advised, commanded, ordered, directed or performed by him in good faith."

The Johannesburg explosion occurred while hundreds of police and soldiers were staking out the city, on guard for more black riots in white areas. A white woman required hospital treatment for shock after the explosion at the Franwell Building blew out windows and buckled interior walls, police said.

Late Friday, Cape Town residents said traffic on a major highway leading south from the city came to a halt when a gasoline bomb was hurled off a bridge onto the road, which was crowded with white commuters.

No one was injured, according to residents, but the bomb that exploded on Eastern Boulevard marked one more time that violence was aimed at whites.

A woman who saw the Johannesburg office building explosion said, "There was a flash and then what sounded like more thunder."

The blast came during a heavy, thunder-punctuated hailstorm that snarled commuter traffic.

"Damage to the building is quite extensive," said police spokesman Col. Fred Bull at the scene, about two blocks east of Johannesburg City Hall.

He said an explosive device, which he refused to immediately characterize as a bomb, was planted outside an elevator door on the third floor. The nearest office was the Institute of Bankers of South Africa, but it was not known if that was the target. No one claimed responsibility.

Most explosions are the work of the black African National Congress, the main guerrilla organization trying to topple the government by force.

For the second day, police reported no new deaths in nationwide unrest that has killed about 800 people, nearly all blacks, since Sept. 3, 1984. Of those killed, two-thirds died from police gunfire and a third were killed by other blacks. Most of the blacks killed by fellow black were suspected of collaborating with the white minority government.

Through apartheid, or racial segregation, 5 million whites govern 24 million blacks.

Rioters and the African National Congress say their strategic goal is that white areas not escape the violence that has ravaged black communities.

Jackson compares South Africa government to Hitler's regime

LONDON (AP) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson on Friday compared South Africa's government with Adolf Hitler's Third Reich and said economic sanctions were needed to force a political settlement instead of "a blood settlement."

Jackson said Britain and the United States — South Africa's major trading partners — could force the white-minority government to dismantle apartheid and negotiate with black leaders simply by imposing "a full trade embargo now."

"South Africa cannot exist without the Western democratic allies supplying it with capital," the visiting Baptist minister told a news conference.

Apartheid is the legal system of segregation under which 5 million whites deny the vote to 24 million blacks in South Africa.

"Every moral and ethical imperative that drove us to say no to the Third Reich must drive us to say no to (South African President P.W.) Botha and the Third Reich," Jackson said.

The American black minister was in London to take part in an anti-apartheid march Saturday.

Speaking to reporters at Heathrow Airport, Jackson appealed to Britons to urge Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher to drop her opposition to economic embargo goes against South Africa.

"Take the profit out of that system and thereby motivate a political settlement as opposed to a blood settlement — what would be a very ugly, long and enduring civil war."

Latvians protest alleged plans to use Soviet mission for summit

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Latvian exiles Friday protested reported plans to use the Soviet mission here for this month's superpower summit, noting that the complex is still registered as property of the former independent Latvian government.

Latvia is one of three Baltic republics annexed by the Soviet Union under a 1939 deal with Nazi Germany.

The World Federation of Free Latvians noted in a news release that the United States never has recognized Moscow's sovereignty over Latvia.

"Acceptance of the Soviet mission as a site does not jibe with the policy of non-recognition," said federation spokesman Julijs Kadelis.

Both the United States and the Soviet Union have maintained official silence on where President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev will meet. But technical preparations suggest one of the sites will be the Soviet mission to the United Nations here.

Kadelis said his Rockville, Md.-based federation planned to contact the Reagan administration before the Nov. 19-20 summit to point out what he called the "paradox" created by using the mission.

A spokesman for the American Latvian Association, a chapter of the World Federation based at the same address, said his group planned to send a telegram to Reagan urging him not to meet with Gorbachev at the site.

"We feel it would be inappropriate for the president to have a meeting with the Soviets on what is technically free Latvian territory," said Ojars Kalnins, the group's spokesman.

The mission, surrounded by an iron fence, is a sprawling complex. It includes a century-old villa and several modern buildings constructed in the 1970s on ground listed in the Geneva real estate register as property of the Latvian government, which bought it before World War II.

The villa served then as independent Latvia's legation to the defunct League of Nations, the forerunner of the United Nations.

The Swiss Foreign Ministry said the Soviets sought last year to have the entry in the real estate register changed. The ministry said this was rejected because "Switzerland never recognized the annexation of the three Baltic states by the Soviet Union."

Ministry spokesman Stephan Nellen said the Swiss government decided in 1946 to assume trusteeship over Swiss property of the three Baltic states — Latvia, Lithuania, and Esthonia — until "the restoration of their capacity to act under international law or until a succession state takes legal shape."

In 1948, Nellen said, the government decided to let the Soviet Union use the ground "upon the express understanding that this in no way implies a recognition of the annexation."

The Soviets pay no rent for the property but pay for maintenance and repair. They erected new buildings at the site, including offices, a hotel, and a movie theater.

New Zealand is the only Western or Western-aligned country to formally recognize Moscow's sovereignty over the Baltic republics. In Washington, independent Latvia still has a legation headed by a charge d'affaires.

Latvian exiles have been increasingly active in recent years in pointing out alleged human rights violations in Latvia.

WORLD IN BRIEF

One-candidate president election held in Tanzania

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — Ali Hassan Mwinyi, successor to retiring President Julius Nyerere, received 92.3 percent of the 5.2 million votes cast in the one-candidate presidential election, the government announced Friday.

The showing may help Mwinyi step out of the shadow of Nyerere, who in 24 years as Tanzania's only post-independence leader has established himself as an international statesman and a near idol to his people.

Mwinyi, 60, former president of the semiautonomous islands of Zanzibar and Pemba, was assured of victory since the voters were only allowed to vote "yes" or "no" to his candidacy.

Adam Sapi Mkwawa, chairman of the electoral commission, said Mwinyi won 4.8 million "yes" votes against 215,626 "no" votes in the Sunday balloting. He said 188,259 of the votes were invalid.

Election officials said 6.9 million of he country's 20 million peopic were registered to vote.

Mwinyi was a popular leader on Zanzibar during his 18 months as president.

Jews threaten to halt play

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Jewish groups that swarmed onstage to prevent the opening of a play they consider anti-Semitic said they would seize the stage again Monday to halt the rescheduled premiere.

About 25 Jewish ticket holders occupied the stage of a city-owned playhouse Thursday evening, forcing theater officials to cancel the opening of "Der Muell, Die Stadt und der Tod" (Garbage, The City and Death), by Rainer Werner Fassbinder.

After a 2½-hour standoff between protesters and the actors, theater officials said the premiere would be postponed until Monday evening.

But Michel Friedmann, a spokesman for Frankfurt's Jewish community, said Friday the protesters had obtained tickets for future performances and would again attempt to block the play in the theater's 190-seat auditorium.

Thursday night's cancellation came after weeks of fierce public and media debate between advocates of free speech and critics who said the late Fassbinder's play would revive German anti-Semitism.

The play, set in Frankfurt in the early 1970s, is about a Jewish land speculator who buys old residential housing, demolishes it and sells at an inflated profit to developers who erect highrise buildings.

Pemex refinery to be closed

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The government oil monopoly Pemex says it will dismantle its Azcapotzalco refinery in the northwestern section of the capital within the next five years and replace it with oil storage facilities.

The announcement Thursday follows years of attacks on the installation by environmentalists and area residents who say its presence poses a danger for them.

Runaway bird proves he's 'real macaw'

MASSAPEQUA PARK, N.Y. (AP) — Alex is quite the bird, a real macaw. Just ask his owners and their neighbors who trailed him for four weeks, tried to coax him from trees, fretted while the tropical bird rode out a hurricane and wept when he finally came home.

The 6-year-old South American macaw with red body feathers and blue, green and purple wings returned last week, a month after he flew the coop when 13-year-old Dean Cassis accidentally left a door open.

"We just cried, we beat the odds, we persevered and we caught him. It became such a special time for us," said Dean's mother, Pat Cassis. "There was this special bond between us, this bond between man and animal."

The bond was such that George Cassis, who bought the macaw for $800 in Florida, took to sleeping out in his car wherever Alex spent his nights. Cassis, 41, is a self-employed real estate broker who virtually gave up work while he trailed the bird trying to bring it back home.

"George would pull up in his car and sometimes fall asleep leaning back looking up in the tree for Alex," Mrs. Cassis said.

The bird's distinctive cry helped track him down.

"He makes a real lot of noise, so we were able to keep up with him for a couple days," Mrs. Cassis said.

Alex, with a 4-foot wingspan, was sighted in the neighboring communities of Bellmore and Massapequa; he also roosted for two weeks in a Wantagh hickory tree. The large, white-beaked bird kept his own schedule, stopping to eat pears, apples and acorns from trees.

When Alex was in sight, he was out of reach in trees, ignoring repeated pleas to come down. The family even brought along Alex's cage to entice him, but he refused to fly into it.

Sightings were reported more frequently after the family ran newspaper ads, put up posters and canvassed neighborhoods in a six-mile radius.

Meanwhile, nature intervened Sept. 27 in the form of Hurricane Gloria with winds of up to 100 mph. But Alex weathered the storm.

On Oct. 7, he seemed to take up permanent roost in one tree, then took off before Cassis could enlist game and fire officials to bring him down. Later, Cassis tried climbing another tree to retrieve Alex, but the bird flew away.

On Oct. 17, Alex appeared in a neighborhood tree, wounded and apparently unable to fly.

Cassis rescued him and whisked him to the veterinarian's office, where the doctor discovered the bird had been shot in the chest with a BB pellet.

"We didn't think he would live," Mrs. Cassis said. But four days later, Alex came home to a happy family, his wings clipped and chest healing.

The family has paid tribute to friends they made along Alex's trail by presenting them with one of his feathers.

"We just thought it was appropriate," Mrs. Cassis said. "We all did this together, and we couldn't be happier with the outcome."

George Cassis poses with his pet macaw, Alex, at their home in Massapequa Park. The six-year-old South American macaw returned a month after flying the coop.

Children learn to 'make it myself'

CHICAGO (AP) — What do you get when you mix a couple of teachers, add a dash of parent know-how and top it off with a bunch of children volunteers?

A 179-page cookbook that caters to the palates of 3- to 6-year-olds.

"I Made It Myself: A Cookbook For Young Children," is a step-by-step illustrated guide published by the University of Illinois Children's Center.

Its goal, says Center spokeswoman Nancy Fineberg, is to encourage children to learn by doing.

"Young kids love to do things by themselves," she said in a telephone interview Monday. "And with this, they can really do it themselves."

In the first pages, children find recipes for basic creations ranging from toast to banana bits to frozen yogurt on a stick. Later, more challenging dishes are presented — little pizzas, Mexican-style quesadillas and vegetable soup.

A unique thing about the cookbook, Mrs. Fineberg said, is that it puts only one step of each recipe per page. A one-sentence explanation is also offered to keep parents involvement to a minimum.

"The children can do best when they can figure the things out by themselves," she said. "They'll feel better."

For safety reasons, however, the book instructs children to seek adult supervision when plugging in electrical appliances or turning on the stove.

Work on the cookbook, which was published this year, began more than 10 years ago, when parents, teachers and U of I Children's Center staffers decided to create something that would help develop childrens' ability to learn.

They found that cooking was an excellent way to develop children's knowledge of objects, as well as logical-mathematical and social knowledge, Mrs. Fineberg said.

NATION IN BRIEF

Budget director says he can identify with fiscal situation

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House Budget Director James C. Miller III, who oversees nearly $1 trillion a year in government spending, said Friday he can identify with the federal fiscal situation.

"Last Sunday, I went to the local drugstore to purchase some toothpaste, some mouthwash, some shampoo — some people wonder why I bother — and some deodorant," the balding official told the National Press Club.

"When the sales clerk totaled the bill, it came to more than I had in my pocket," Miller said. "So I had to put some things back on the shelves."

He used that story to make his point that the government must have the discipline to put some things back on the shelf in these days of budget deficits. But, did the nation's budget director really get caught short on a checkout line?

"All my personal stories are true," Miller said. "I never make them up." He didn't say which items were returned.

Tear gas released in park

BUENA PARK, Calif. (AP) — A military tear gas canister was released in the Haunted House attraction at Knott's Berry Farm on Halloween, spewing fumes into the air that caused injuries to 60 people, officials said Friday.

Two men in their early 20s were seen fleeing after the 11 p.m. Thursday incident, police Officer Terry Branum said. No arrests had been made.

Most of the parkgoers were treated at Knott's for minor eye and lung irritation and nausea, Branum said. About 10 people were taken to a hospital for treatment and released, he said.

A few others suffered scrapes and bruises during the scramble to escape the gas, Branum added.

The canister was either placed in the ride or tossed in, he said.

Head of Angels charged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of a Hells Angels motorcycle club in California has been charged with drug trafficking at his limousine service, the Justice Department said Friday.

It said a federal grand jury returned a sealed indictment Oct. 23 against Douglas Chester Schultz, 32, head of a Hells Angels club in San Diego. The indictment was unsealed late Thursday.

The indictment asked that the limousine service property, including 14 automobiles and a bus, be forfeited to the government "because the property was used in drug trafficking violations," the department said.

Soviet task force in gulf

WASHINGTON (AP) — A small task force of Soviet ships that has been visiting Cuba since late September got underway earlier this week and is now conducting maneuvers in the Gulf of Mexico, Navy sources said Friday.

The task force, led by a guided-missile destroyer, left Havana on Tuesday without any accompanying Cuban vessels, said one source, who asked not to be identified.

Besides the destroyer, the group includes a guided-missile frigate and a diesel submarine.

The Navy, while refusing to officially discuss the Soviet group's movements, did announce that reporters would be allowed to accompany an aerial surveillance mission that will depart from Jacksonville, Fla., on Saturday.

According to the Navy, this latest deployment of Soviet ships is the 25th to visit the Gulf or Caribbean Sea since 1969.

Alleged spy flight protested

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of Cubans demonstrated outside the U.S. Interests Section in Havana Friday to protest what the Cuban government claimed was a U.S. spy flight over the island Thursday, the Cuban news agency Prensa Latina reported.

In Washington, U.S. officials said the protest was peaceful and lasted about two hours. The demonstrators numbered about 10,000 during the peak of the protest, said the officials, who asked not to be identified.

The demonstration began a few hours after the Cuban Foreign Ministry disclosed the alleged flight, Prensa Latina said. The agency report was picked up by a U.S. government monitoring service.

U.S. officials refused to confirm or deny Cuba's claim of a spy flight.

Salvor: Bell proves wreck pirate ship

CHATHAM, Mass. (AP) — A treasure hunter says he has recovered a bell that proves a wreck off Cape Cod is that of the pirate ship, Whidah, which sank in 1717 with a booty valued at $8 million to $12 million.

Barry Clifford and his crew have recovered seven cannons, several thousand coins, nine navigational sets, a casket of East Indian jewels and various other artifacts, including forks, spoons and a bottle top, since discovering the wreck in 1982.

But the experts said Clifford needed something with the ship's name on it to prove he had found what is believed to be the only pirate ship salavaged in these waters.

Corrosion was chipped away from the 18-inch bronze bell, brought up on Oct. 7, to show the legend: "The Whydah Gally 1716."

"There was no doubt in my mind that this was the Whidah," Clifford said Thursday. "This is the one thing needed to put any doubt to rest."

He said English words had a variety of spellings in the early 18th century, accounting for the difference in spelling.

"It would seem to me that this is the type of identification that we have been waiting for — not waiting, but hoping for," said Joseph A. Sinnott, director of the state Board of Underwater Archaeological Resources.

AP Laserphoto

Salvor Barry Clifford examines the bell recovered from a wreck site off Cape Cod.

"I don't think you could logically hope for more, short of the quarterboard," he added. "I don't think you could get anything better than the bell. That should do it."

Under state law, Clifford's business, Maritime Explorations, must pay the state one-quarter of the value of any treasure sold.

The state archaeology board licensed the salvage operation and supervises the work, sending artifacts to be treated chemically and lodging valuables in a bank vault for examination and classification.

Named after an African slave port, the Whidah was a slave ship owned by the Royal African Co. of England and was on its maiden voyage in 1716 when the pirate, Samuel "Black" Bellamy seized it in the Carribean.

Bellamy and most of his crew died when the ship sank in a great storm Feb. 17, 1717, off the outer forearm of Cape Cod. Historical accounts of the wreck told of bags of booty from plundering forays in the Caribbean.

Clifford, 40, a former high school history teacher and real estate dealer, said he was a boy when an uncle inflamed his imagination with stories about Bellamy and the Whidah.

Clifford said the treasure-and-archaeology project might take six to 10 more years to complete and that he hopes to set up a museum for the haul.

"All I can say is, we haven't even started," Clifford said.

The wreck is under 20 feet of water, 700 yards offshore, under the notoriously shifting sands of Cape Cod waters.

Reagan was prepared to use force to aid sailor

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan warned the Soviet Union he was prepared to use force to get a Soviet seaman off his freighter after the sailor tried to jump ship in Louisiana, a White House official said Friday.

"The president authorized the use of force to get the sailor off the ship if that was necessary" and Soviet officials were informed of that, said the official, who spoke on condition he not be identified.

The official said Reagan's threat was issued during a standoff over the fate of Miroslav Medvid, a Ukrainian seaman who jumped ship twice last week and was returned to his vessel by U.S. Border Patrol officers who apparently mistook him for a runaway.

Medvid eventually was turned over to U.S. officials, who interviewed him twice in a protected environment, concluded he did not wish to defect and returned him to his ship again. The vessel, the Marshal Koniev, weighed anchor Friday and set out for Reserve, La., to take on grain bound for the Soviet Union.

The Coast Guard was prepared to move in to free Medvid after authorities learned he may have been seeking political asylum in the United States when he dove into the Mississippi as the freighter lay at anchor off New Orleans last week, the source said. Asked how close the Coast Guard came to taking action against the ship or its officers, the official said, "We just didn't have to make that decision."

He added it wasn't clear that Reagan's threat led to Medvid's release, saying, "It wasn't a cause-and-effect relationship; I think there were other factors."

The official said he was disclosing Reagan's decision to present an element of the confusing incident that "was part of the scenario" but had not been previously disclosed.

The administration has come under fire from some conservatives for its handling of the incident. But asked earlier Friday about one published report suggesting the United States returned the sailor to his ship "so as not to muddy the waters" with the Soviets in the days leading to the Geneva summit, White House spokesman Larry Speakes replied: "Wrong."

Speakes also said the United States now considers "the matter closed." But he confirmed that Reagan asked Attorney General Edwin Meese III for a report on why the Border Patrol ignored indications Medvid wanted to defect and insisted on returning the sailor to his ship.

On Thursday, Irene Padoch, an interpreter asked by the Immigration and Naturalization Service to interview Medvid late in the evening of Oct. 24, said Border Patrol agents ignored her post-interview statement that Medvid had indicated he wanted to defect.

A Justice Department official said Meese summoned Commissioner of Immigration Alan C. Nelson to his office on Monday and ordered him to conduct an internal probe of the handling of the Medvid case by the Border Patrol, which is part of the INS.

Arson fire in Las Vegas motel kill two people, injures others

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A fire started by an arsonist raced through a downtown motel at daybreak Friday, killing two people, injuring 18 and forcing guests to flee in their nightclothes, officials said.

A 17-year-old girl passing on her way to school was credited with saving several lives by pulling people out of the building before she was felled by smoke inhalation.

Some occupants of the two-story Midtowner Motel, many of them elderly, jumped from second-floor windows to escape the flames and heavy smoke from a blaze that apparently began in the lobby and swept through an inside hallway.

"It is an arson," said Jim Martin, a Fire Department dispatcher. "It started in the ground floor hallway with a can of flammable liquid that turned into an incendiary device."

Police Lt. John Conner had said "if it is arson, then we've got two murders."

Police were investigating reports that a woman was kicked out of her room at the motel the night before after a heated dispute over a large hole burned in her rug, Conner said.

The motel had been owned by lawyer Robert Cohen, who reportedly sold the Midtowner effective at midnight Thursday. Two people died July 5 at the Crest Motel, also owned by Cohen and across the street from the Midtowner, when carbon monoxide leaked into rooms from a faulty water heater.

The body of a man was found near a downstairs exit at the Midtowner and a woman was found dead in an upstairs room, said Fire Department Deputy Chief George Judd. Their identities were not released pending notification of relatives.

Two of those injured were admitted to local hospitals in fair condition while the others, including heroine Lena Barker, were treated and released.

"We just pulled people out as fast as we could," said Ms. Barker, a high school senior. "One lady wouldn't leave her room because she wanted to gather her clothes. I had to go in there and throw her clothes out and then throw her out, too."

Guests, some clad only in pajamas and others without shoes, stood shivering in the early morning cold. The fire at the 45-unit motel was reported at 6:19 a.m. and extinguished quickly.

GM QUALITY SERVICE PARTS
Keep that great GM feeling with genuine GM parts.

The '86 model year is off to a great start at ROGERS FORD
with 8.8% Plus
ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE

Ford offers 8.8% APR financing Plus on selected new 1986 trucks as well as selected new 1986 and '85 cars!

It's 8.8% Plus because you have more than one way to go.
First, get 8.8 APR financing for 48 months or 10.9 APR financing for 60 months on new 1985 and '86 Tempos ('86 Tempo available in November) and Escorts with manual transaxles. Just order or take delivery from stock by November 22. Plus, get the same low rates on 1986 Ford Bronco IIs and Rangers with automatic or manual transmissions. Just take delivery from stock by November 22, 1985. We will arrange financing through Ford Credit for qualified buyers. See us for qualification details, price and terms. Limit one. Dealer contribution may affect customer savings.

	Base Price	Down Payment	Amount Financed	Monthly Payment
1986 Ford Escort
8.8% APR (48-Month)	$6,052*	$600	$5,452	$136.15
10.9% APR (60-Month)	$6,052*	$600	$5,452	$118.26

*Manufacturer's suggested Retail Price excluding title, taxes, license and destination charges.

Second, we can now offer Red Carpet Lease plans with attractive lease terms for all 1985 and '86 cars and trucks. You could drive away in a brand new Thunderbird for as little as $218.47 per month. Just take delivery by December 31, 1985. As shown in this example:

	48-Monthly Lease Payments	Refundable Security Deposit	Total Amt. Due at Lease Inception	Total of Monthly Payments	MSRP
1986 Thunderbird	$218.47*	$225	$443.47	$10,486.56	$11,452

*Includes freight and delivery charges. Does not include use/sales tax and license fees. Lease payment is based on the manufacturer's suggested retail price. Payments shown and total amount due may vary depending on the options you choose. Total mileage allowed during the lease period is 15,000 miles per year. Mileage penalty of .06 cents per mile over 60,000 miles at lease end. Lessee is responsible for excess wear and tear. Lessee has no obligation to purchase the vehicle at lease end but may arrange to purchase vehicle at a negotiated price with the dealer at lease inception. See us for qualification details, price and terms. First month's payment and refundable security deposit are due in advance. Dealer contribution may affect customer savings.
