More Unleaded Needed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Carter administration is asking oil companies to "roll up their sleeves" and get on with the job of producing enough unleaded gasoline to meet demands of U.S. motorists.

Despite industry warnings that demand is beginning to outstrip supply, a top Energy Department official told Congress Tuesday he sees no reason why the manufacture of unleaded gas can't be stepped up - especially in light of a new rule allowing refiners to pass on a larger share of their costs to motorists.

Quake Hits Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A severe earthquake damaged buildings and sprayed broken glass over the streets of downtown Mexico City before dawn today. The Red Cross indicated there were injuries, but there were no immediate reports of deaths.

The Seismological Institute in Mexico City reported the quake measured 7 on the Richter scale and the epicenter was 200 miles southwest of the capital city.

Air Crash Kills 200

TOKYO (AP)-A British Trident aircraft crashed in the western outskirts of Peking killing about 200 persons, Japan's Kyodo News Service reported today from the Chinese capital.

Kyodo quoted witnesses as saying that the aircraft crashed into a factory near an airport shortly after take off.

No information was available as to how many of the victims were aboard the plane, or whether some of the dead might have been on the ground or in the factory.

Picked up from the mail:

Trying to get across the point that there are enough trees to go around for several uses, the Southern Forrest Products Association says a forester overheard this "conversation" at a recent convention of trees:

"I'm not just another pretty face," said one tree. "Sure, I enjoy an appreciative look, but my wood fiber can do some important things for people, from home framing to furniture."

"Humans are chauvinist pigs," complained another tree. "I insist on my privacy and I get it in the wilderness. But you can get too much of a good thing, you know. Sometimes I get lonely and yearn for the company of plenty of people"

"Yeah, but you can get your fill of that, too," shot back another tree. "Humans can really be noisy and messy in a recreation area. They don't always pick up their toys, either. Sometimes I'd just be content to provide some shade for the fish beside a quiet stream."

"I've got no gripes with animals," said a very old tree. "I just wish I had more variety. I get the woodpeckers and owls, while the young trees get the deer and the rabbits."

"Well, I've got a date with a chain saw next year," piped up a middle-aged tree. "I got depressed at first, wishing I could keep growing in a wilderness, or even along the edge of the Interstate. But then I took a metaphysical view. I'll still be around in the form of two-by-fours, making a nice home for some family. That'll make me feel useful."

There is legislation in the hopper at Austin to make liability insurance mandatory for Texas vehicle owners. It would require insurance companies to issue identification cards to individuals covered. The identification would list the name of the insurer, the policy number, the make and model of the vehicles insured and the policy expiration date. Drivers would be required to carry such a card while driving and would be required to present it to any law enforcement officer on demand.

And then there's the boost that Texas Christian University gave middle-agers when it hired Jim Killingsworth as its head basketball coach. Killingsworth is a mature 55. TCU did not set any precedent, however. Abe Lemons was already 50 when the University of Texas hired him three years ago, and the Longhorns haven't exactly weakened themselves under the Lemons regime.

But Final Decision Postponed...

Israelis Accept Compromises

JERUSALEM (AP)—The Israeli Cabinet today accepted President Carter's two key compromises to pave the way for an Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty, but postponed until Sunday its final decision whether to approve the treaty as a whole.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin told reporters that he telephoned Carter with the news immediately after the Cabinet session, adding that "the president was very glad to receive this information."

In Cairo, Egypt's Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil termed the Israeli Cabinet move "really a success for peace."

"I am happy that everything went to the satisfaction of the two sides," Khalil said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press. Khalil, Egypt's main peace negotiator, laughed heartily when told of the decision and said, "I think they were reasonable to have accepted."

Emerging from almost six hours of debate behind closed doors, the Cabinet ministers said the vote was 15 in favor, with one abstention. Only one minister was absent.

"The road is open to a peace treaty," said one minister, Yitzhak Modai. He said details remained to be worked out "but there will be a peace treaty."

The ministers voted to approve the Carter compromises, so that now each clause in the draft treaty has been decided upon separately.

Commerce Minister Gidon Patt said, however, that today's action did not complete the work of the Cabinet, which still needs to examine the treaty in its entirety.

The compromises were not made public, but reliable sources said they resolved Egypt's demand to station liaison officers in the Gaza Strip to supervise the progress toward Palestinian autonomy there and Israel's demand for direct oil sales from Egypt rather than through a middleman as Egypt wanted.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Butros Ghali said Egypt agreed to sell Israel oil but at world prices with no special privileges. He said the treaty would specify that negotiations for Palestinian autonomy in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank of the Jordan River must begin within a month after the treaty is signed and must end within a year.

When the negotiations conclude, Ghali said, elections would be held to establish a Palestinian authority for self-rule. Once the authority is set up, Israeli forces would withdraw.

The Israeli people received President Carter's announcement of agreement by Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat with surprise, elation and concern over the concessions the government had been forced to make.

Health Plan Hearing Set

One of a series of hearings on a proposed Health Systems Plan for a 44-county tri-region will be held Thursday night in Snyder.

The hearing here has been set for 7 p.m. in the Snyder National Bank community room.

The tri-region HSA board of directors approved the draft of the plan at a meeting Feb. 15 in Abilene. It specifies health goals and objectives for the period of 1979-84 and pinpoints objectives for the coming year. Comments by local citizens will be accepted at the hearing.

The series of hearings began Monday in Vernon and Ozona. Other cities with hearings scheduled include Wichita Falls, San Angelo, Bowie, Brady, Breckendrige, Abilene and Brownwood as well as Snyder.

Food Service Unchanged...

School Board Approves Contracts, Tax Forms

Snyder School Trustees last night approved personal property tax rendition forms, extended contracts of administrators and shelved a study on satellite food service operation.

The personal property rendition forms had been under study for several weeks, and approval last night cleared the way for mailings from the tax assessor-collector's office. The forms provide space for listing taxable personal property items in detail, such as automobiles, boats, trailers, airplanes, tractors, livestock, machinery, merchandise, etc.

Approval of contract extensions for system-wide administrators came on a split vote. Bill Eiland suggested that assistant superintendents and the athletic director, who have two-year contracts, be considered on the same basis as the tax assessor-collector, maintenance director and school food service director, who are under one-year contracts. Eiland said he made the proposal because the board is in the midst of studying possibilities of making changes throughout the system in the interest of efficiency and economy.

"I'm not after anybody," said Eiland.

However, his motion died without a second and a subsequent motion by Ted Crenwelge, which drew a second from Vera McSpadden, resulted in a 5-1 vote for extending the contracts as follows: Jack Gorman, assistant superintendent - administration and personnel, through June 30, 1981; E.D. Flynn, assistant superintendent - business, through June 30, 1981; Dr. Thomas Scannicchio, assistant superintendent-instruction, through June 30, 1981; Roy Carter, athletic director, through June 30, 1981; Ray Pev-

Williams Convicted Of Manslaughter

COLORADO CITY—Aubrey Gene Williams was found guilty this morning of voluntary manslaughter in the death of his ex-wife, Girlie Dee Williams. She had been stabbed to death last July 11 and her body found near the Buford Gin.

The seven-man, five-woman jury began its deliberations in the two-week-old trial yesterday at 3 p.m. and continued until about 10:30 p.m. The jurors returned this morning and deliberated about one hour and 45 minutes before reaching the voluntary manslaughter verdict. That verdict was delivered about 10:45 a.m.

Deliberation of the punishment phase is slated to start this afternoon, said 32nd District Court Clerk Bill Erwin.

Voluntary manslaughter, a second-degree felony, carries with it two-to-20 years prison term that can be probated.

Rivera Assessed 60-Year Sentence On Guilty Plea

Plea bargaining on a capital murder-aggravated robbery charge, David Dell Rivera pleaded guilty to the lesser offense of aggravated robbery and drew a 60-year prison term.

The guilty plea was entered yesterday afternoon in 132nd District Court to the murder-robbery charge Jan. 12 at Gibson's Discount Center in which store manager Juan Garcia was shot and killed.

Rivera, 18, who is also known as Dale Rocha Rivera, is alleged to have acted with Larry B. Williams, 20, in the hold-up and murder. Williams, investigators say, fired the bullet that killed Garcia, and Rivera allegedly demanded a sum of money later estimated to be in the $400-$450 range during the robbery.

Rivera was on probation at the time of the offense, and his probation was also revoked yesterday. That resulted in a two-year jail term that will be served concurrently with the 60-year sentence he received.

His probation was based on a Jan. 4, 1978, offense in which he was charged with vandalizing a car owned by Larry Berkley.

Rivera's case had been scheduled for presentation before the court March 19. District Attorney Pete Greene declined to discuss details of the plea bargaining.

A pre-trial hearing in the Williams case is set for Friday morning. So far, seven motions have been filed by his attorneys, Tom Chorn of Snyder and Travis Shelton of Lubbock. Those motions, and any others that may be filed, will be heard then. Williams' trial is scheduled to begin April 30.

Monday, the day that had been set aside for Rivera, will see the beginning of the Ruben Delao trial.

Delao is charged with the murder last September of Pete Silva. His first trial ended in a hung jury.

Texas Farmworkers Tell Problems To Clements

By SOLL SUSSMAN
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP)—"Want to start another one?" Gov. Bill Clements asked members of the Texas Farm Workers who had recently completed a 600-mile march from Muleshoe.

"Want to march from here to California to see Governor Jerry Brown?" a high-spirited Clements said Tuesday as he circulated among about 15 farm workers in his reception area.

He was pointedly informed that Texas union members have indeed traveled, if not marched, to California to help with the United Farm Workers' lettuce strike.

Clements and five union representatives then retired for a private half-hour conversation, and they emerged apparently satisfied.

"We had a very good conversation and everyone, literally everyone, participated," the governor said. "I don't know of any work that is harder than agricultural work."

Union President Antonio Orendain said, "He (Clements) was friendly and positive to hear our problems."

Clements said the talk included topics he had discussed previously: "less than a fair wage, living conditions, undocumented workers and of course education for children."

He promised to visit House Speaker Bill Clayton to see if an agricultural labor bill as any chance of reaching the House floor.

The proposal to extend collective bargaining laws to farm workers is presently mired in the House Committee on Agriculture and Livestock.

Its chairman, Rep. Forrest Green of Corsicana, has said it has "an uphill battle to even get out of committee."

Clements said, "As governor I have very little control over one of those comittees. ...I have said on other occasions that I am opposed to unions for agricultural workers in Texas. Nevertheless, I am sympathetic with the problems."

Inventories Down 1% In Feedlots

WASHINGTON (AP)—Feedlot cattle inventories in major beef states totaled 8.21 million head on March 1, down 1 percent from a year ago, says the Agriculture Department.

Severe weather last month and the recent record high prices of lighter-weight feeder cattle have been factors in the slowdown, officials said.

The monthly report, issued Tuesday, covered seven states that normally supply about 75 percent of the nation's beef.

Placements of new cattle in feedlots last month were estimated at 1.31 million head, a 14 percent drop from February 1978, the report said.

Marketings of feedlot cattle last month were shown at 1.65 million head, a decline of 2 percent from a year earlier.

The report showed these states increased their March 1 feedlot inventories from a year ago:

Arizona, 428,000 head on March 1, up 16 percent from a year earlier; California, 646,000 and 12 percent; Colorado, 970,000 and 3 percent; and Nebraska, 1,670,000 and 2 percent.

Declines were reported in Iowa, 1,480,000 head on March 1, down 9 percent from a year earlier; Kansas, 1,290,000 and 3 percent; and Texas, 1,730,000 and 3 percent.

Say 2 Federal Employees...

Texans Could Save By Buying Generic Drugs

AUSTIN (AP)—Major federal agencies such as the Defense Department and Veterans Administration already buy lower cost generic drugs - something Texans cannot do - as a way to save money, says federal administrator Gene Knapp.

Another federal employee, lawyer Dayle Berke of the Federal Trade Commission, said Texans could save as much as $21.9 million a year through the substitution of generic versions of 60 popular brand name drugs.

Librium, for example, is the brand name of a drug and costs $9.31 per 100 at some Austin stores, while the generic equivalent is chloradiazepoxide hydrochloride and costs $4.60 per 100.

Knapp, associate director of the Food and Drug Administration told a Senate committee Tuesday:

"The American consumer can be assured that our drug supply is of the highest quality in the world and that drugs will do what they are supposed to in the human body."

He said the FDA has compiled a list of approximately 5,000 approved drug products.

Ms. Berke reviewed a "model act" the federal agency has proposed for states such as Texas which do not permit pharmacists to substitute lower cost generic drugs.

She said only 10 states do not allow such substitutions.

A Texas bill based on the model act is before the human resources committee, but chairman Chet Brooks, the sponsor, said more testimony would be heard Wednesday before taking any vote.

A physician would have the option, under the model law, to prescribe a brand name drug or its generic equivalent. To prescribe the brand name, however, the doctor would be required to write "medically necessary" or similar words on the prescription.

Sen. Bill Patman, D-Ganado, asked if the provision was designed as a "nuisance," and Ms. Berke replied, "That's not the idea. The idea is that the physician would be required to make a two-second conscious decision to impose an increased price on a patient for some medical purpose."

Permitting lower-priced generic drugs, she said, would allow patients to "shop and choose among pharmacies."

"Prescription drugs now cost American consumers over $9 billion a year," Ms. Berke said. "A considerable portion of this expenditure could be saved if pharmacists were not unnecessarily restricted in their ability to substitute lower cost generic equivalents for expensive brand-name drug products."

Under the model act, a pharmacist's selection of drug substitutes would be limited to products determined by the Federal Drug Administration or appropriate state agency "to be therapeutically equivalent."

The model act also requires that the product be lower in cost than the brand prescribed, Ms. Berke said, "but does not require that the pharmacist pass on all the wholesale cost savings to the consumer."

Decide Legislators...

Tax Breaks Should Also Extend To Corporations Not Just Family Farmers

AUSTIN (AP)—Corporations that own agricultural land should get the same tax break as family farmers and ranchers, the House has decided.

Three decisions Tuesday on corporately owned land laid to rest one of the major issues surrounding House action on a bill implementing the 1978 Tax Relief Amendment.

In a long afternoon marked by action on 21 amendments, the House:

—Voted 70-64 against an amendment that would have excluded corporations from a provision taxing agricultural land on its crop and livestock raising potential instead of its value as real estate.

—Rejected, 80-56, a similar amendment that would have denied the special treatment not only to corporations but also to partnerships and joint stock companies.

—Refused, 72-60, to force corporations to disclose their land holdings to the secretary of state.

"If we're going to help the corporate farmers and ranchers of this state, let's at least find out who we're helping," said Rep. Ronald Coleman, D-El Paso.

"This is another type of paper shuffling and record keeping imposed on people doing legitimate business in this state," replied Rep. Bob Davis, R-Irving, sponsor of the tax relief bill.

According to a computer printout, farmers and ranchers will save $58.9 million annually in property taxes because of the agricultural productivity treatment of their land.

Rep. Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, was one who tried to eliminate corporations from the agricultural value tax break.

He said he had found "there is considerable concern over anything that would encourage the purchase of land for agricultural pursuits by persons who are not now in that endeavor."

Rep. Bennie Bock II, D-New Braunfels, replied the question was not who was growing crops and raising livestock but keeping land in production.

Rep. Froy Salinas, D-Lubbock, failed 111-19 to impose 1978 market values as a floor on taxation of agricultural land.

"That would tell the farmers, 'We really didn't want to help you, so King's X,' " Davis said.

"I am concerned about the taxpayers, the homeowners, who have been carrying the burden for years and years," Salinas said.

The bill would tax agricultural property by dividing a five-year average estimated "net to land" by a "capitalization rate." The rate would be 10 percent, or the Houston Federal Land Bank interest rate on crop loans plus 2½ percent, whichever is greater. So if an acre of land was capable of earning a $30 yearly profit, and the capitalization rate was 10 percent, its taxable value would be $300.

The Tax Relief Amendment automatically exempted $5,000 of the market value of owner-occupied homes from school taxes. The implementation bill adds another $10,000 exemption for the elderly and the disabled and freezes property taxes of persons 65 and over for their lifetimes.

Also in the bill is a provision exempting two cars per family from property taxes, starting in 1980.

This Angel Pie Is Devilishly Delicious

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

If your psyche needs some massaging after a strenuous winter, soothe it with a rich chilled pie. This angel pie will have you singing its praises with its filling of pecans, German chocolate, cream and dark rum.

ANGEL PIE

2 egg whites
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon cream of tartar
½ cup sugar
1 cup chopped pecans
1½ teaspoons vanilla, divided
4 ounces German chocolate, melted
¼ cup Bacardi dark rum
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Beat egg whites until foamy in a small mixing bowl. Add salt and cream of tartar. Gradually add sugar and continue beating until very stiff peaks form. Fold in pecans and ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Spoon into a lightly buttered 8-inch pie plate. Gently spread up sides and across bottom to cover plate. Build up sides at least ½-inch above edge of plate.

Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes until baked and dry. Cool on wire rack.

To make filling, blend chocolate, rum, 1 teaspoon vanilla and heavy cream. Gently fold together until no streaks remain. Pile into meringue shell. Chill at least 4 hours. Makes 8 servings.

The color black absorbs and holds heat, which is why light-colored clothing is most popular in hot weather.

Spouse Support

Women who are happiest in dual-career marriages have only modest career ambitions, according to a University of Texas study.

Both men and women felt least conflict among roles when their spouses gave them support for their activities, when they had favorable self-concept and when they were committed to their jobs, explains Dorthy Taylor, a family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Here is an excellent hand from Easley Blackwood's delightful book on play. It shows the late John Crawford, one of the greatest players of all time, in action.

East won the first trick with the king of diamonds and shifted to the queen of clubs. John was looking at one loser in each suit unless he could drop a singleton king. East was marked with both major-suit kings for his opening bid.

Easley points out that Johnny worked out a line of play that would give East a chance to make a mistake and let him make his contract.

He took his ace of clubs immediately, ruffed his six of diamonds and played ace and a small spade. East was in with the king and wasted no time thinking. He cashed his ace of diamonds!

East assumed that John would ruff in dummy, but East was wrong. John discarded dummy's last club.

East had gotten himself caught in an end play at trick six.

If he led a heart he would take care of John's heart loser for him, so East led a fourth diamond. This allowed John to discard a heart and take a ruffing finesse against East's king to get his 10 tricks.

If East had stopped to think he could have led a low diamond instead of the ace, but all defenders are not perfect and East had gone wrong.

Without Cash Nothing Card Not Any Good

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP)- And now, for those who appreciate the value of nothing: the Nothing Card.

It is honored everywhere, comes with a lifetime guarantee, a portrait of Millard Fillmore and is good for absolutely nothing.

"Take this card and enough cash into any store and you can buy whatever you want," sayd Bryan Sennett.

Sennett, along with B.J. Clark and Jan Kieser, are founders of the Nothing Co., which is licensed to sell Nothing Cards.

"We're a basic honest American corporation," said Ms. Clark. "We have nothing to offer."

Millard Fillmore was a natural for the front, Ms. Clark explained. Besides being the only president to accomplish absolutely nothing, she said, "He even ran on the Know-Nothing ticket."

Each card really is something: embossed with the owner's name, a space on the back for the owner's signature and a number that's all your own.

But the card doesn't cost "nothing." The charge is $5.

Leaders Debate Military Draft

By TERENCE HUNT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)- The Army's top military and civilian leaders are sparring over whether to bring back the draft and let Uncle Sam call up as many as 100,000 recruits each year for mandatory training and standby duty.

The dispute erupted Tuesday after a surprise call by Gen. Bernard W. Rogers, the Army's chief of staff, for immediately instituting a limited version of the draft.

He proposed a lottery system for picking recruits and said the country must be willing to prosecute draft evaders.

Uniformed leaders of the Air Force, Navy and Marines, although not specifically endorsing Rogers' proposal, predicted that a draft is likely, if not inevitable. They were unanimous in urging renewal of a system requiring young people to register for possible service.

Within two hours of Rogers' recommendation, made to a congressional subcommittee, his civilian boss distributed a statement saying the general's plan clashes with official Army policy.

Army Secretary Clifford Alexander said, "To enact a draft, I believe, would be unnecessary, unfair and counter-productive to the best interests of the Army." He said there is no need now for a draft of any kind - including the one proposed by Rogers.

The disagreement between the two Pentagon officials probably will spread to Congress, where the debate so far has focused on plans for military registration - which would fall short of a draft.

Registration bills have been proposed in both houses of Congress, and legislation for a limited draft is pending in the House.

Rogers, the Army's top person in uniform, made his proposal to the Senate Armed Services manpower subcommittee, which is investigating widely acknowledged problems in mobilizing the nation's military for an emergency.

Although active duty forces have fallen short of their recruiting goals this year, the biggest problem is in the reserves, and particularly the individual ready reserve - the manpower pool chiefly for use as replacements for wartime battlefield casualties.

Rogers said the individual ready reserve is 500,000 people short of its 700,000 authorized strength.

Complaints Led To Lead Wall

OTTAWA (AP)—Members of the New Democratic and Conservative parties used to be able to eavesdrop on each other through the thin wall between their offices in the former Metropolitan Life building after the government took it over.

After the two opposition parties complained, the Liberal government installed a sound-proof lead wall at a cost of $10,000 to the taxpayers.

Old Documents Make Fertilizer

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)— If you tiptoe through the tulips at the American Embassy, you will step on the remains of classified documents and maybe even a discarded draft of a peace treaty.

The embassy's gardeners for nearly a year have been fertilizing the flowers with thoroughly pulverized documents that are no longer needed in the files.

"The ink and the carbon paper make excellent fertilizer," said Lee Cook, building and grounds supervisor. He estimated several hundred dollars have been saved since he switched from camel and donkey manure.

Capt. Ronald Amundsen announced in 1912 that he had discovered the South Pole on Dec. 14, 1911.

To Help Elderly Pay Bills...

Utility Officials Favor Proposal

AUSTIN (AP)-Sen. Bill Patman has some support in the utility industry for his proposal to help the elderly and disabled pay home heating and cooling bills.

"Irrespective of all these private relief programs, there still is a desperate need to provide more assistance to the blind, disabled and older people on fixed incomes," Dan Crowley, executive vice president of Southern Union Gas Co., said Tuesday in support of Patman.

Crowley and Lowry Carpenter, executive vice president of the Texas LP Gas Association, were among witnesses before the Senate Finance Committee.

The committee considered a constitutional amendment allowing for a program to give some 250,000 persons between $10 and $20 monthly for utility bills. The constitution currently prohibits direct state grants to individuals except as matching funds for Medicaid programs.

Patman, D-Ganado, already has won approval from another Senate committee for the program's enabling legislation.

The finance committee postponed a vote on the measure for lack of quorum. Chairman Grant Jones, D-Abilene, said it probably would be considered Thrusday.

Patman's bills would dedicate 1 cent of the 7½-cent natural gas severance tax to a fund for utility bill relief. The tax generates $517 million annually and the proposal would take $65 million a year.

The constitutional change would be put to the voters in November and again five years later to be sure the program is effective, Patman said.

TAKE TOP HONORS--Snyder High School's senior FFA grass judging team took top honors in contests at San Angelo. Shown with the trophy are Lonnie Blackard, Jimmy James and Rodney Glass. Not pictured is Eddie Cumbie. Glass was high individual and won a gold watch, while James was second high, Cumbie was 4th and Blackard was 5th. (SDN Staff Photos)

Says RRC Chairman...

Lost Pipeline Tragic

AUSTIN (AP)-The scrapping of a proposed $1 billion oil pipeline that would have stretched from California to Texas has been termed "tragic, most tragic," by the chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission.

The Standard Oil Co. Ohio announced Tuesday it is abandoning the project that would have pumped 500,00 barrels of Alaskan crude daily through Texas and into America's heartland.

"We were counting on construction of the pipeline to allow Alaskan oil to enter the pipeline arteries of the United States," said Railroad Commission Chairman John Poerner.

Sohio Chairman Alton W. Whitehouse made the announcement in Cleveland just one day after Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger told a Senate Energy Committee hearing in Washington that he believed the pipeline was needed by the nation.

"The project-killing delays were endless government permit procedures, pending and threatened litigation, and the prospective unavailability of two natural gas lines which Sohio proposed to convert to the oil pipeline," said White house.

Making Third Straight Bid In NJCAA Tourney...

Westerners Battle Panola JC Tonight In Waco

WACO--Tonight's the night. The Western Texas College Westerners, for the third time in three years, enter the National Junior College Athletic Association's National Basketball Tournament.

The Westerners, champions of Region 5, will battle Panola Junior College, Region 14 title holder, at 7:30 in the McLennan Community College Gym.

It is the first time for Panola to make the trip. The Carthage-based junior college comes into the game with a record of 30 wins - five losses, under the direction of Coach Andy Russo.

Both teams have a lot of youth. Panola will start three freshmen and a sophomore, while WTC plans to switch in and out a total of 10 or 11 players - six of them first-year men.

The Westerners, 31-3, have made themselves known for their depth, quick defense and hard-running offense.

Panola meanwhile, though also known to be agile, defensively, is less endowed depth-wise, and will probably try to control tonight's game with deliberate actions.

Panola features two of the best forwards in the country in freshman Andre Ewing and sophomore Aroid Neal. Called a "pair of jumping jacks" by one Texas Eastern Conference coach, the 6-5 pair pose as Panola's primary scoring threats and are quick to the boards.

Cherokee Rhone, a 6-7 freshman, fills a lot of space with his 230-pound frame, while Joe Larkins, 5-11 freshman, and Roberson Turner, 6-2 sophomore, fill the guard spots.

Prime back-up material includes 5-10 freshman Kelvin Valentine, 6-6 freshman Clarence Hill, and 6-5 freshman Kenneth Wallace.

WTC Coach Nolan Richardson knows no starters ("It's who's on the floor when the game's over that counts."), but fans will probably see 6-5 freshman Paul Pressey and 6-9 freshman Greg Stewart out early. Michael Smith, 6-4, and a defensive leader, will be in there too, as will 6-5 co-captain Joe Mendoza, and the other co-captain, 5-10 Dwight Williams. All three are sophomores.

Melvin Partidge, a 6-5 sophomore, will also be up for a starting position, and four other Westerners are sure to see action a number of times during the game.

Bill Patterson (6-4), Ronald Portee (6-0), Freddie Davis (6-1), and David Brown (6-6), all freshmen, make up the foursome, and 6-7 sophomore John Gifford and 6-7 freshman Scott Russell are likely candiates, too.

Franklin Bennett, 6-1 freshman, is sidelined with an ankle injury.

Western Texas College has entered the National Tournament four times in the past five years. The Westerners, under former Coach Mike Mitchell, won the national championship in 1975 and took sixth in 1977.

Under Coach Richardson, only in his second year as a junior college coach, the school took 11th place in 1978. Tonight's game of course begins the fourth campaign.

The victor tonight will advance to the tournament site in Hutchinson, Kan.

For Panola, entering the tournament is a new experience. The far-East Texas college - noted for its strong women's teams - has won the men's division for the first time this year, and capped that by winning the Region 14 crown and upsetting No. 1 ranked Navarro Junior College along the way.

Both Richardson and Panola's Russo studied under famed coach Don Haskins, making tonight's contest more of a challenge, while a somewhat friendly one even so.

Duke To Be Famer

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) —Movie star John Wayne will be inducted into the National Sports Writers and Sportscasters Hall of Fame next month at the group's annual meeting.

Wayne's son, Patrick, will accept the award for his ailing father, and comedian Bob Hope will preside over the ceremonies April 9, in Keppel Auditorium on the Catawba College campus.

Wayne is being honored because of his patriotism, contributions to the entertainment world and outstanding football career at the University of Southern California, according to Dr. Ed McKenzie of Salisbury, NSSA president.

Wayne is the first inductee in the latter category because no winner was named last year.

Tigers Dish Out First Big Spring Defeat; 5-3

BIG SPRING--Mitch Mackey got credit for hurling Snyder's fifth straight win here yesterday as the Snyder Tigers edged previously undefeated Big Spring in extra innings, 5-3.

The senior pitcher was on the mound only one inning - the ninth - but it was the stanza that broke the Steers, and Mackey played a big part in it.

At the top of the inning, the score tied 3-3, Bobby Degrate singled and Richard Crayton walked. Mackey came up with his second double of the afternoon to knock in the go-ahead runs; then held Big Spring off from the mound at the bottom of the inning.

Sophomore hurler Tony Degrate pitched the first seven rounds for the Tigers, and though Big Spring notched three runs in the first inning, the young hurler kept them at bay the next six innings, aided by good, no-error fielding. Mark Davis pitched the eighth stanza.

Snyder went on top 1-0 in the first inning as Crayton and Mackey both slapped doubles. Sid Everton drew a walk and Mackey made it to third, but Big Spring pitcher Myers got the next two batters out to close off the surge.

Big Spring opened strong in the bottom half of the set, as Y. Rubio singled, Manley walked and Myers singled. Gomez then walked and T. Rubio singled to account for the artiliary which brought in the three runs.

Snyder tied the score in the third set. Crayton walked and Everton and Scott Crenwelge grabbed back-to-back doubles before the Steers could expire the inning. The score stayed at 3-3 until Mackey's ninth-inning double brought in Degrate and Crayton.

The victory gives Snyder a 5-3 record for the season. The Tigers will compete in the Monahans Tournament beginning Thursday.

Duffers Grab 4th For WTC

AUSTIN--Western Texas College moved up a notch here Tuesday to finish in fourth place at the Bevo Intercollegiate Golf Tournament hosted by the University of Texas.

The two-day 36-hole tourney was played at Lakeway - near here - on Live Oak Golf Course (par 72)

The Westerners, which had fired a 316 score for fifth place on Monday, rallied with a 310 on the final day and came in fourth overall.

McLennan Community College (Waco) won the meet with a 609, followed by Texas A&M junior varsity, 612; Texas Christian University JV, 623; WTC's 626, and Weatherford's 631. Eight teams entered the competition.

WTC golfers Britt Lindsey and Billy Sitton led for the Westerners with a total score of 153 for 36 holes and both tied for seventh place out of 40 golfers.

"We did not play consistant golf," commented Coach Bob O'Day. "We had too many high rounds the first 18 holes, and played better the final round. Live Oak Golf Course is a very difficult course, and strong winds both days caused the scores to be high. Only 19 out of 40 players broke an average of 80 and most of these rounds were in the high 70s. A score of 77 was a good round."

Next action for WTC will be the 4th Western Conference Tournament in conjunction with the Great Plains Tournament at Huber Country Club near Borger, March 23-24.

Farda Resigns Coaching Post

COLORADO CITY—Colorado City Independent School District Board of Trustees has accepted the resignation of head football coach and athletic director Mike Farda.

Farda, who led Colorado City to district football championships in 1977 and 1978, has accepted the head coaching position at Moore High School in Moore, Okla.

Moore, with an enrollment of over 4,000, is the largest high school in the state.

The resignation, effective March 26, came after the board had re-newed Farda's contract for two years.

Colorado City has not yet named a successor to the posts.

Tanner Wins First Round

WASHINGTON (AP)-Fourth-seeded Roscoe Tanner eliminated Deon Joubert of South Africa 6-2, 6-3 in the first round of the $125,000 Washington men's pro tennis tournament.

As NIT Rounds Continue...

Weary 'Bama To Try Aggies

NEW YORK (AP)-C.M. Newton and his boys are tired. Lee Rose, on the other hand, is sick and tired.

Newton is the coach of Alabama's basketball team, a tired Crimson Tide that was hoping for relief from the National Invitation Tournament but got, instead, an invitation to play one more game before next Monday's semifinals in New York's Madison Square Garden.

"We're very tired and obviously we would rather have gotten a bye," Newton said. "And our next choice would have been to play in Birmingham or Tuscaloosa."

Instead, in one of Thursday night's quarter-finals to whittle the NIT field to four teams, Alabama will play Texas A&M in Houston. In the other game, Old Dominion will play Purdue in West Lafayette, Ind.

Two other teams, Indiana and Ohio State, had their names picked out of a hat Tuesday and drew byes to the semifinals. They'll play each other after the winners of the quarter-finals face each other.

The ideas that Indiana and Ohio State can sit back and relax for nearly a week doesn't sit well with Rose, Purdue's coach.

"Can someone please explain to me the advantages of being the Big Ten champion?" he muttered after the 15th-ranked Boilermakers, the only ranked team still in the NIT field, heard their fate.

Actually, Purdue shared the Big Ten title with Michigan State and Iowa, both of whom were invited to play in the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament, while Purdue was passed over.

"And now," Rose said, "the Big Ten's fourth-and fifth-place teams (Ohio State and Indiana) get byes and we don't."

The Boilermakers, an 84-70 second-round winner over Dayton, have to start thinking about Old Dominion, which edged Clemson 61-59 in double overtime Monday night. Apparently Rose doesn't know much about Purdue's next opposition, except that "I do know it's a run-and-gun ball club."

Purdue won its second-round game on the strength of center Joe Barry Carroll's 25 points. Alabama nosed out Virginia 90-88 thanks to Reginald "Mule" King's 43 points. In the other second-round games, Texas A&M turned back Nevada-Reno 67-64, Ohio State defeated Maryland 79-72 and Indiana beat Alcorn State 72-69.

Super Bowl Site Set

HONOLULU - The Silverdome at Pontiac, Mich., became the first northern Super Bowl site when the National Football League voted its championship game for 1982 to the home of the Detroit Lions.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle announced that Super Bowl XV would be held in New Orleans in 1981, and Super Bowl XVII will be in 1983 at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, also the site of the 1980 game.

Bonds Comes Out Swinging

By The Associated Press

Bobby Bonds, who reported to the Cleveland Indians only last week, seems to be making up for lost time.

The slugging outfielder, who was reluctant to join the Indians after being traded for the fifth time in six years, had three hits and three runs batted in - including the tying and winning hits - Tuesday as the Indians beat the Milwaukee Brewers 10-9 in 12-innings.

And, says Cleveland's Len Barker, "You ain't seen nothing yet."

The 32-year-old Bonds is being used as a designated hitter while he catches up with the rest of the club in conditioning. He cracked a two-out, 10th-inning single to tie the game 9-9 and added a 420-foot homer to win the game in the 12th.

That capped the day for the Indians, who trailed 8-1 after five innings but pulled even on Paul Dade's two-out single in the ninth.

"Those first few innings were like a circus," said Cleveland Manager Jeff Torborg. "I didn't like that, but winning makes you feel better."

So did the hitting by Bonds, who will be the Indians' right fielder on opening day.

"He's still getting his timing down and it's going to take just a bit longer," said Torborg.

"He's awesome. He hit a high fly to center in the third inning and came back to the bench shaking his head. He said, 'I should have hit that one out,' but he doesn't quite have his timing yet."

And watch out when he gets it, says Barker.

"There's no question he can do it all," says Barker, a pitcher who - like Bonds - was traded to Cleveland this winter.

"Just wait."

The New York Yankees are still waiting for their first pre-season victory. They dropped a 10-inning, 3-2 decision to the Texas Rangers and are 0-6 - the only team still winless in major league baseball.

In the other games, the San Francisco Giants outscored the Chicago Cubs 12-9, the California Angels whipped the Seattle Mariners 11-3, the San Diego Padres bested the Oakland A's 6-4, the Chicago White Sox trimmed the Kansas City Royals 5-4, and the Toronto Blue Jays topped the Minnesota Twins 4-1.

Elsewhere, the Montreal Expos edged the Boston Red Sox 5-4 in 10 innings, the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Cincinnati Reds 3-1, the St. Louis Cardinals nipped the Philadelphia Phillies 7-6, the Detroit Tigers beat the Houston Astros 3-2 and 11 innings and the Atlanta Braves beat the Baltimore Orioles 4-2.

New Taiwan Policy Hints Of Support

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Carter has won Senate and House approval of his new Taiwan policy, but with compromise language hinting that the United States might come to Taiwan's aid if Peking tries to take the island by force.

The Senate approved a bill implementing Carter's new policy 90-6 Tuesday and the House approved a similar measure 345-5. A single bill must now be worked out for Congress' final approval. That could come next week at the earliest.

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures No 2 were mostly lower at midday dealings today.

The average price for strict low middling 1 1-16 inch spot cotton declined 33 points to 58.43 cents a pound Tuesday for the ten leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

School Board

eler, tax assessor-collector, through June 30, 1980; Bill Sealy, maintenance director, through June 30, 1980; Charles Ketchum, food service director, through June 30, 1980.

Before making his motion, Crenwelge asked whether the board and administration would have the right to change job descriptions of administrators if they should desire in the future. Supt. Bill J. Hood assured him that they would.

Principals and assistant principals also had their contracts extended, all of them through June 30, 1981. On the vote on this group, Bill Voss joined Eiland in advocating one-year contracts, resulting in approval by a 4-2 vote.

Principals whose contracts were extended include Horrace Bostick, high school; Jim Stehley, junior high school; Frank Miller, West Elementary; Jim Erwin, North Elementary; Joel Griffin, Stanfield Elementary; Bob Travis, East Elementary; Geraldine Parker, Northeast Elementary, and Charles Anderson, Central Elementary.

Assistant principals are Ray Courtney and Fred Beard at the high school, and John Gary at the junior high school.

Ketchum presented a report on studies he made on a possible satellite feeding operation for the school system. Such a system would involve preparing the food for the school lunch and breakfast programs in a central kitchen and then transporting it to the various schools. This system came under study several weeks ago when some inquiries were made concerning the possibility of contracting for food service in the schools. Private contractors who responded to inquiries indicated that they would employ a satellite system.

Ketchum's study indicated that a satellite program might be possible to save around $60,000 per year in labor management costs. However, renovations of facilities and acquisition of equipment to transport the food to the various schools would require larger outlays, which would require several years to amortize.

The board voted unanimously to table the report indefinitely.

The school district's textbook committee recommendations for 1979 adoptions were approved, and a board of tax equalization for the school district was appointed. On the equalization board are Haskell Beard, Jerry Springer and Kenneth Wilson. Date for a board of equlization board hearing on oil and industrial properties was set for July 31.

Resignations formally accepted by the board include Rosalinda H. Tovar, special education aide at junior high; Dana Jones, industrial arts at high school; Mary Coronado, kindergarten aide at Central.

New employes approved are Lowell Marble, industrial arts at high school, and Nickie Beverra, kindergarten aide at Central. Jack Gorman, assistant superintendent administration and personnel, said the administration did not plan to refill the special education aide's position at the junior high school.

Jones' Fan Commits Suicide

MODESTO, Calif. (AP)- Mike Prokes, the former TV reporter who spoke for Jim Jones during the halcyon days of the Peoples Temple, has followed his leader into death, shooting himself in the head moments after defending the Jonestown suicides at a news conference.

"I've got no martyr complex," he said after reading a five-page defense of the cult Tuesday night. "But I refuse to let my black brothers and sisters die in vain."

Appointment Of Schnapp Rejected By Sub-Panel

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)-A Senate subcommittee has rejected a mental health appointee portrayed by some parents as a threat to the state school system which, one said, is "the envy of the nation."

However, Family District Judge Criss Cole and other parents defended William Schnapp's appointment Tuesday, describing him as a knowledgeable man who cares deeply about mentally handicapped persons.

The nominations subcommittee voted 4-3 not to recommend Schnapp's appointment to the State Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

The 31-member Senate, however, still must decide whether to confirm Schnapp.

The subcommittee approved Dallas bank executive William Daves Jr. as a member of the State Board of Insurance on a 6-0 vote but declined to approve or reject the appointment of W.B. "Monk" Edwards as a Houston district judge.

Edwards' appointment was merely forwarded to the Senate without any recommendation.

"Mr. Schnapp is obviously a fine person, a very dedicated person and has done a lot of work in mental health and mental retardation...but he is too controversial to be effective," said Sen. Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches.

Blake questioned the ability of Schnapp, former executive director of the Houston Association of Retarded Citizens, to handle hundreds of millions of dollars in mental health funds.

Schnapp was criticized by several parents last week for purportedly advocating the closing of state schools for the mentally retarded in favor of community centers, accusations he said were erroneous.

Cole said, "Nothing could be further from the truth." He said Schnapp had even worked to get a relative admitted to a state school.

"He is dedicated to the problems of human beings," said Cole. "It would be a shame to deprive some of our citizens of the benefit of his knowledge and insight into their problems."

Gay Rutherford of Conroe said Schnapp became controversial because parents who thought their children were being abused at state schools went to him with their complaints. "How can anybody criticize a man for caring about a mentally handicapped child being abused."

Mrs. Rutherford said her son is deaf, blind, severely retarded and requires 24-hour care. With tears in her eyes, she said, "If I thought for one moment Bill Schnapp would be detrimental to my son, or anyone like him, I wouldn't be here today."

R.E. Threadgill of Dallas represented himself, his wife and three other mothers in opposing Schnapp.

The Threadgill's have a son, 33, who is retarded and has been in the Denton State School for 17 years. Threadgill described himself as a retired paint company executive who has agricultural interests in Texas, Louisiana and South America.

Threadgill raised the issue of Schnapp's financial capabilities, saying, "He has not shown the overall business acumen to make decisions involving millions as millions of dollars."

He said the Houston Association of Retarded Citizens had a "complete collapse" while Schnapp was executive director.

"I don't think we need him," Threadgill said. "We are very fearful as parents of him roaming freely throughout the state school system with the disruptions he could create."

"In general," Threadgill said, "he (Schnapp) is a disruptive influence when all things do not go his way."

He said Texas "offers the finest statewide school system for the retarded in the USA...our schools are the envy of the nation."

Blake's motion not to recommended Schnapp carried with the support of Sens. Chet Brooks of Pasadena, Bill Braecklein of Dallas and Glenn Kothmann of San Antonio.

Voting against the motion were Sens. Peyton McKnight of Tyler, Ed Howard of Texarkana and Betty Andujar of Fort Worth.

Edwards, a former Gulf Oil lawyer, testified last week he delivered a sealed envelope from Washington lobbyist Claude Wild of Gulf to ex-Gov. Preston Smith. Edwards said he assumed the envelope contained cash, but he did nothing wrong.

Edwards said he gave the envelope to Smith as he was driving Smith from the University of Houston to his hotel.

McKnight said Smith told him Edwards handed an envelope to Doug Toole, who was with Smith at the university. The envelope contained $300,000 Smith said, and Smith said he assumed it was a personal campaign contribution from Edwards.

Smith said he was not governor at the time.

"That does not conflict with my recollection," said Edwards.

Brooks asked Edwards if he had contacted judges or lobbyists to support his appointment, and Edwards said he had not. Brooks said 25 to 30 lobbyists had contacted him "on your behalf."

Edwards said he was "not unaware" of the contacts, "but I certainly didn't instigate them."

Houston Sen. Jack Ogg, D-Houston, acknowledged six persons, including two judges, had called him and asked what should be done to push along Edwards' appointment. Ogg said, "I told them it was best left alone."

"No lobbyist called me," said Braecklein.

"Nor me, senator," said Howard.

Daves, 53, chief executive officer of the Swiss Avenue State Bank, formerly was an executive for three insurance companies. Brooks asked Daves if he could maintain an "arm's length relationship with the insurance industry itself."

"Yes sir, I feel I can," replied Daves, 53.

He said he had no financial interests in insurance companies.

Tuition Grant Hike Approved

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)-Increasing tuition grants to students in church colleges violates the constitutional guarantee of separation of church and state, the Texas Senate was told Tuesday.

Senators replied by approving 25-6 and sending to the House a bill that would remove the $600 ceiling that the state can give to students in private and church colleges.

"What you are doing is subsidizing people who have elected to afford $3,000 tuition in private colleges," said Sen. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, at the end of an hour-and-a-half minifilibuster against the measure.

"You are subsidizing the churches at the expense of the taxpayers," said Schwartz.

A bill by Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, would remove the $600 limit on tuition grants to non-state college students. Under Jones' bill the state tuition grants to students in private and church colleges could be up to 50 percent of what a fulltime student at a state college pays.

Amendments made Tuesday would require that students receiving the grants must also be paying tuition at least equal to the regular tuition required at a state college or university. Students must take at least one-half a full course load and part-time students would be paid only on a pro-rata basis.

"I'm against the state regulating churches and I'm against churches asking taxpayers for subsidization of church colleges," protested Schwartz.

He failed in an attempt to make the bill self-destruct in 1985 without further legislative authorization.

Schwartz claimed the bill would cost Texas $50 million the next two years.

"This is not an appropriation bill, it is an authorization bill," Jones said. "The price tag is what the legislature appropriates for it. It never has been fully funded."

"You know these colleges are going to ask for 100 percent funding under this formula," Schwartz argued.

"I have made no commitment on a dollar figure," Jones said.

"There is a threat in this bill," Schwartz said, "because the governor has already said he wants a 180 percent increase for church colleges."

Gov. Bill Clements, a former trustee for Southern Methodist University, has proposed that the $600 limit be raised to $900 per student.

Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, said "it does not make sense to me that we are asked to take the ceiling off grants for church colleges before we even see how much we are going to spend on our state colleges."

Tire Rules To Aid Buyers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The head of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration says new tire regulations will enable consumers to be "better equipped to compare quality and price among competing brands."

Joan Claybrook, the NHTSA administrator, said Monday the system for grading passenger car tires will be extended next year to radial tires. The system requires that tires be rated on their expected tread wear, traction and temperature resistance. Regulations for non-radial tires go into effect later this year.

No Smoking Can Be Bad Policy

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP)-Smoking may be bad for your health, but making it a crime to smoke at virtually all public meeting is bad public policy, Gov. Joseph Brennan said in using his veto power for the first time.

Under the proposed ban, which the governor vetoed Monday, smokers who kept puffing at public meetings after a warning could have been fined up to $50? Brennan said he may issue an executive order banning smoking at state-level meetings, but felt that imposing the ban on localities was not a good idea. Legislative sponsors said they would try to override the veto.

Plan To Pipe Alaskan Oil To Texas Dropped

CLEVELAND (AP)- Standard Oil Co. of Ohio on Tuesday abandoned its effort to build a pipeline to move Alaskan oil east from California to Midland, Texas, blaming regulatory delays it said it could no longer accept.

"The project-killing delays were endless government permit procedures, pending and threatened litigation, and the prospective unavailability of two natural gas lines which Sohio proposed to convert to the oil pipeline," said Chairman Alton W. Whitehouse in announcing the decision.

The project involves shipping some 500,000 barrels a day of oil from the Alaska pipeline from Long Beach, Calif., to a national pipeline distribution center in Midland.

The project would use 670 miles of an existing pipeline and also require the construction of 250 miles of new pipeline and a tanker unloading terminal at Long Beach.

However, environmental and other citizen groups opposed to the project have challenged it on grounds that the terminal and pipeline would add more air pollution to an area which already has some of the poorest-quality air in the nation.

Energy Secretary James Schlesinger said Monday he viewed the project as essential to begin moving the surplus of Alaska oil now accumulating on the West Coast.

Under the plan, the oil shipped to Midland, would then be piped to the East and Midwest through the existing network of oil pipelines stretching from Texas and Louisiana to the Rest of the nation.

Two other pipeline proposals still are under consideration.

New Textbooks In Six Subjects Due

AUSTIN -- The State Board of Education will call for new textbooks in six high school subjects for use in Texas public schools beginning September 1, 1980.

The 1979 textbook proclamation, approved by the Board, will carry an estimated price tag of $6,821,669.

Additional costs, including readoption of current textbooks, additional purchases of books now in use, Braille and large type books, and freight will boost estimated 1980-81 costs to $23,415,491, or $7.82 per student.

The next text materials are scheduled for six high school subjects, including beginning typewriting, advanced typewriting, health education, computer mathematics, civil government, and automotive trades. There are no elementary subjects on the list.

Materials to be submitted by national publishers will be reviewed by the new State textbook Committee throughout the summer. The 15-member committee, all professional administrators and teachers now serving in Texas public schools, will be appointed by the board at its April 14 meeting.

All books submitted for the Texas adoption will be reviewed by members of the State Textbook Committee and their advisors from the schools throughout the summer. At the same time, sample copies will be available for review by interested citizens at each of the state's 20 regional education service centers.

Lonely Gorilla Gives Up Chase

SAN DIEGO (AP)-The heralded pairing of Abe and Bouba has yet to produce the patter of little gorilla feet at San Diego Zoo. It seems Abe is suffering from a broken heart - and perhaps a swollen kisser.

Abe, a 23-year-old lowland gorilla, was flown here last month from Cheyenne Mountain Zoological Park in Colorado Springs with the hope that he and Bouba, a barren 30-year-old San Diego Zoo veteran, would mate.

Abe, however, was torn away from Bathsheba, his girlfriend of 20 years, and now spends his time staring forlornly into space.

"There's no doubt about it, Abe loved Bathsheba," William Aragon, general curator of the Colorado zoo, said in a telephone interview Monday. Bathsheba is lonely, too, Aragon said.

Meanwhile, at their first meeting last week, Bouba slugged Abe in the face and, according to Abe's keeper, Harold Mitchell, "he has given up the chase game entirely."

"He's tired of playing games with Bouba, who is still acting cocky," Mitchell said.

Garlic won't help

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Will garlic correct high blood pressure? What are the symptoms of high blood pressure? What can cause the top of your head to feel as though there were a weight on top of it and as if it were tight?

DEAR READER — No, garlic will not correct high blood pressure. I'm continually amazed at all of the fantasy around garlic. As a matter of fact, one of our early health food promoters, Adolphus Hohensee, urged the use of garlic to treat low blood pressure. He also urged people to put a piece of garlic in their rectum each night.

Don't expect any health benefits from garlic other than its ability to keep people away from you, when you have garlic on your breath. That might help protect you from contagious diseases you might get from oversocializing at close proximity.

High blood pressure may not cause any symptoms at all. That's why it's necessary for people to have regular blood pressure checks to find problems of this sort. I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-8, Blood Pressure, to give you more information on what affects it and how it affects you. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You'll need a medical examination to find out what causes your complaint about your head. It may simply be tight muscles. Remember, your scalp, back of your head and neck all have muscles in that area that can get tight and tense, particularly if you are tight and tense.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Several months ago I noticed some lumps under my arms. Since I have been doing a lot of hoeing and digging in my yard, I thought perhaps I had overdone that. Also, I have quite an allergy, runny nose, sneezing, itching eyes, etc. I had a complete physical and the doctor didn't seem to be concerned about the lumps in my arm. He did some blood tests which were normal. I was uneasy about the lumps so a month later I had more tests done and they, too, were normal. The doctor just said to hang loose.

Anyway, I've heard that some lumps are normal in that area. Is that correct?

Otherwise, I am a healthy 58-year-old woman. Please give me your opinion of the lumps.

DEAR READER — You've done the most important thing by seeing a doctor to let him examine the lumps. The only way anyone can really determine whether a lump is important or not is to examine it. Those that are suspicious or larger sometimes need to be removed and examined under a microscope to be certain.

You can develop lumps under the arms that don't have any medical importance. Doing a blood test was helpful to your doctor in deciding that the lumps weren't a serious problem.

The lymph glands sometimes cause such lumps. They are literally a barrier against infection to the rest of your body. If you get an infection in your finger, the lymph glands filter the lymph that comes from your arm and traps the bacteria so that they don't invade the rest of your bloodstream and infect your whole body. In the process of trapping infectious organisms, the glands get swollen and sometimes tender.

U.S. Judge Dies

PITTSBURGH (AP)-Senior U.S. District Judge Herbert P. Sorg, who invoked the Taft-Hartley Act in 1959 to halt a 100-day nationwide strike by Steelworkers, died Sunday at his home in suburban Mt. Lebanon. He was 67.

Adolf Hitler and his Nazi party assumed power in Germany in 1933.

Prairie Dog Town Marks 15th Year

By DOROTHY COX

The month of March ushers in the 15th year that Towle Park's Prairie Dog Town has been in existence. There was a time when the prairie dog was as much a part of West Texas as the buffalo, but man, with his carbon disulphide - commonly called hi-life, all but extinguished the grass and crop-eating mammals by poisoning them.

As an effort to help preserve the prairie dogs from extinction, several were procured from the Mackenzie Park in Lubbock and released in an acre-sized plot of ground which had been fenced with solid concrete blocks.

The transported "dogs" went to work and masterfully laid out for themselves a new "town". Digging straight down several feet, they then branched out horizontally, forming an underground network of tunnels and chambers.

The ground soon became pocked with holes. The bare, round hillocks around each hole, which would serve as protection from the inflow of rain, looked like craters on the moon in the otherwise grass-covered ground.

According to Jimmy Dyess, Towle Park Superintendent, there are now about 30 prairie dogs in the town. "Sometimes, they dig under the fence and get outside, but most of the time they stay within bounds," Dyess said.

There is a good turf of bermuda grass in the town now for the dogs to eat, but there have been times, Dyess said, when scrap lettuce, orange peels and the like, had to be brought in to feed them. The grass has to be re-sowed every two or three years and is watered and mowed regularly so that the dogs will have plenty to eat.

The Prairie Dog Town has been advantageous in that not only has it helped preserve the dogs, but has been both an enjoyable and educational source as well. Scarcely can you drive through the park but what you see cars parked along the fence and its occupants busy watching the chestnut-colored dogs at play in their sprightly manner.

If undisturbed, the prairie dogs will sit on their haunches and eat, holding the food in their forepaws, nibbling lady-like; and will play, running and pushing at each other, and sometimes for the sheer joy of it, they'll take a frolicsome leap into the air.

The residents of the entire town sometimes sit at the entrances of their burrows and bark, puppy-like, at each passerby. But if danger threatens, a single piercing alarm whistle from a sentry will send them scurrying to their burrows in one great plunge.

March not only ushers in the Prairie Dog Town's 15 year, it also marks the date when the females bare their young. "It won't be long now," Jimmy Dyess said, "until the baby dogs will be coming out of their holes."

There's one good thing about living within the concrete block fence — the little newborn prairie dogs have protection from the March winds.

Spider Larvae Discovered In Easter Baskets

DETROIT (AP)-Spider larvae were found in some Easter baskets imported from Taiwan, forcing K mart Corp. to order store managers to burn 650,000 baskets, the company says.

Spokeswoman Ann Wolff said Monday that the larvae were discovered when a shipment was unpacked Thursday in a K mart store she would not identify. The empty baskets were still in stockrooms in the company's other 1,393 stores, Miss Wolff said, and none had been sold. When the larvae were reported, K mart officials ordered a spot check at other stores. "We found a few problems and we decided not to take a chance," Miss Wolff said.

Don't Bring the Bride A Gift-Wrapped Burden

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I was disappointed in your advice to carry no wedding gifts to the reception. You said gifts should be sent to the bride's home before the wedding or to the couple's home afterwards so as not to be a problem for the bride's mother, who already had enough on her mind.

You also said it was a pain in the neck to have to haul a carload of wedding presents home. Boy, I should have had such a pain in the neck!

J. IN PASO ROBLES

DEAR J.: Although the mail has been running 2 to 1 in your favor and against me, here's one for my side:

DEAR ABBY: Let me add a loud "Amen" to your opinion that taking wedding gifts to the reception is very inconsiderate. I recently married off a daughter, and of the gifts that were brought to the reception, many mysteriously disappeared—having been either lost or stolen. Some were broken when I got them home, and many cards were lost and mixed up.

Abby, please keep repeating your advice to send the wedding gifts to the bride before the wedding, or to the couple afterward.

POST-MARITAL HEADACHE

DEAR ABBY: I was jogging the other morning and when I came to an intersection (not a particularly busy one) a passing motorist leaned out his window and yelled, "Hey, you jerk, get off the street! What are you trying to prove?"

I ignored him and kept right on jogging.

Abby, this wasn't the first time I've been insulted by a hostile motorist. Other joggers tell me they've had the same experience.

What do you think motivates these people to put down joggers?

KEEPING FIT IN SAN MATEO

DEAR KEEPING: Jealousy, probably.

DEAR ABBY: On Valentine's Day the gentleman I've been dating gave me a bottle of perfume in my favorite fragrance. He also took me to dinner and presented me with a beautiful orchid corsage. Then he spoiled it all by handing me a $100 GIFT CERTIFICATE!

I tried not to show my shock and disappointment, but I still haven't been able to bring myself to cash it. Should I drop him?

INSULTED IN ELMHURST

DEAR INSULTED: I can't see any reason that you should be shocked, disappointed, or insulted. But if you decide to drop this gentleman, let me know where you drop him. I know several women in Elmhurst who would love to meet him.

Poetry Eases Paving Woes

BERLIN, Vt. (AP)-Some impromptu poetry brought quick relief from paving problems for an anonymous central Vermont motorist.

Taking a cue from the Burma-Shave signs that once graced the nation's highways, the poet - identified only as "Need-a-Pave" - tacked this bit of doggerel on trees along ice-covered Vine Street in Berlin:

"This is the bottom of Hazzard Hill.

"Try and climb it if you will.

"And if your wheels slide off the track.

"Floor that sucker and don't look back."

A short while later, a town highway truck appeared on the scene to sand and grade the roadway.

Lawmakers Fume Over $3.6 Million Damages Attributed To Tractorcade

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-Most of the tractors that churned up the grassy Mall here last month are gone but tempers are still frayed as the bills for repairs and other costs come to light.

Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., normally a low-key advocate of many farm causes, reacted sharply Tuesday after hearing new official estimates that the month-long protests by American Agriculture demonstrators will cost taxpayers around $3.6 million.

Butch Neel of Windom, Kan., speaking for the farmers who brought 1,950 farm vehicles here Feb. 5, flatly denied any blame for damage.

"If there is any blame, it must rest with Congress and the Carter administration for allowing agriculture in America to get into such a position" that the farmers must drive across country in tractors to dramatize financial problems, he said.

"You have hurt the cause of farmers," shot back Leahy.

The exchange was at a hearing of an Appropriations subcommittee, of which Leahy is chariman, that handles the District of Columbia budget. He had asked city and federal park officials to testify on costs of the demonstration.

Neel had asked to be allowed to rebut the damage figures, Leahy said.

Most police forces have returned to normal patrols now, even though a symbolic four dozen tractors are being allowed to remain parked on a street near the Capitol, the officials said.

Neel said that blaming the farmers for the damaged turf, destroyed benches and toppled trees and lampposts, after the police penned them in the area, was like inviting a guest to your home and locking the door.

"Then if he spills a drink on your couch, you not only suggest that he should pay for a complete set of new furniture but should pay for new carpets, having the house repainted, repairing the gutters, and so forth," he said.

"That's a nice analogy that doesn't really fit this situation, does it, Mr. Neel?" Leahy interrupted.

When Leahy suggested that congressional hearings were a better forum to make their case, Neel said, "We didn't get enough attention that way last year" when only 40 or 50 tractors were brought.

"You must be aware of the kind of feedback we've had nationally. We've been inundated with criticism for our support of farmers generally. Do you think you've accomplished anything?...I don't," Leahy said.

Neel said regular pedestrian traffic and mowers have done more damage to the 29 acres of grass than the tractors and suggested Leahy look at it. "I did, on Sunday, and I disagree with you," he replied.

Washington Mayor Marion Barry said the net cost to his agencies was $2.57 million even though total spending was twice that, not counting physical strain on police officers from a month of 12-hour, seven-day shifts.

The city can recover those costs from the federal government under the terms of its home-rule charter. Barry said that most of the expense could have been shifted right away by calling up the National Guard, as the Capitol architect and the House and Senate sergeants-at-arms suggested.

"But I didn't want to escalate the situation, as if we were under siege. We weren't," Barry said.

The pen of buses used to confine tractors to the Mall cost more than $333,000 before it was dismantled, said Police Chief Burtell Jefferson.

Jack Fish, director of the National Capital Parks region of the National Park Service, testified that overtime and other expenses for about 250 park police officers totaled $50,000.

His maintenance superintendent Monday submitted an estimate of costs to repair the Mall that totaled $745,000, less than half the initial official estimates of up to $2 million. About $300,000 was included for resodding.

But Fish said he toured the area Monday afternoon "and I think our final cost will be a little under $500,000."

He said that he would accept offers from southern Maryland and Warrenton, Va., farmers to prepare the grassy areas for reseeding and new sod and tentative offers from Idaho to supply the seed.

britain's footsteps

We don't have a crystal ball to show us our future, but for the past several years Britain has provided a good look at the way we have been heading.

As a mirror of the future, Britain has provided a reliable pictured of our coming economic woes. The scenes may not be exact in all cases, for Americans do not react to the same things in the same degree as the British.

The government of Britain has for years encouraged a flow of power to labor unions. Today it is reaping the rewards. In 1975 inflation soared to 27 percent and since then the unions have restrained their wage demands - until now. The government held back on letting the money printing presses run out of control, and inflation dropped to 8.4 percent.

It appears that the honeymoon is now over, and the present truck strike is having wide ramifications in the lives of all Britons. A story in the Wall Street Journal quotes a member of the Conservative Party as giving a view of a typical Briton's day: "He gets up in the morning and the odds are that he won't get his favorite newspaper. He sets off for the office, but the trains aren't running. His car probably doesn't have any fuel and the street lights will be out. If he has an accident, the striking ambulance drivers won't help him."

If he should make it to the hospital, "he'll find that picketed and if he wants to talk it over with a social worker, he will find them on strike, too. When he goes home to relax in front of the telly, his favorite program will be off because of a strike."

The Journal states that there may be an element of partisan exaggeration in the saga of woes, but Britons are finding it uncomfortably close to the truth. It might be added that food supplies are getting short in some areas.

The current spate of strikes may bring down the Labor government. Regardless of the partisan politics involved, inflation is bound to soar, and the major reaction is the opinion in both parties that labor union power must be curbed. Truckers are asking for a 22 percent hike in wages, and public employees in school, medical and garbage collection are asking for a 40 percent increase.

Britain was able to hold back its inflation rise for a few short years by "voluntary" controls. It now appears that its voluntary fence, set up to control inflation, has broken down all along the line and officials now talk of stringent sanctions.

It may well be worth watching to see how soon the printing presses will be cranked up again and the march toward economic chaos resumes.

The British are a bit ahead of us in socialism, but we are fast catching up.

gleaming joggers

Not everything that gleams in the night is a distant moon or planetary ring.

Back here on earth it could be a jogger.

A brief business item informs that a New Jersey firm is marketing an illuminated body belt. To be strapped over chest and back, it is fitted with battery-powered minature colored lights.

Thus decked out in pulsating lights, joggers out for evening runs are clearly and safely visible in the traffic flow, not to mention possible traffic stoppers. The glow belts are also suggested as useful accessories for cyclists, hikers, skaters and disco dancers.

In other words, anyone interested in being literally light on the feet.

my turn

Cheap does not always a bargain make. I had an opportunity to experience this first-hand over the weekend.

When my husband informed me that he was going to the Lower Rio Grande Valley portion of Texas on business, I hinted strongly that I would like to go, as it would be in all probability, the only vacation I will get.

I enjoyed visiting McAllen and Reynosa, Mex. for a couple of days and all week I had visions of loading up on fresh fruits and vegetables at less than retail prices.

Roadside fruit stands are plentiful in the valley area and I knew all one had to do was stop and partake of the excellent bargains. I guess the tourista spirit overcame me as I bought grapefruit, tomatoes and watermelon.

After the long drive home, I could hardly wait to sample my bargains. Hurriedly I opened the bag, sliced open one of the fruit--you guessed it--I had fallen for the "fresh fruit stand" attendant's super sales pitch. Not one piece of fruit in the bag was edible. The freshly cut fruit looked more like sawdust than the scrumptious juicy fruit I was expecting and certainly unlike other fruit we've eaten coming from the valley. It was evident the fruit had been in cold storage for some time. I love grapefruit, but the watermelon was really my favorite, my prized possession.

Bad deal again. The watermelon had probably been partners with the grapefruit in the same cold storage box.

But the tomatoes were excellent. One out of three can't be all that bad, I pleaded, trying to defend myself. Everyone is entitled to be a tourista at least once. However, once is enough. From now on it's back to the supermarket for me.

On second thought, maybe the weekend was too short, I just didn't have enough time to shop around. The McAllen area is a great place to visit.

at wits end

by erma bombeck

I am in the process of covering an old trunk. The other evening, I was loading staples into my staple gun when my husband said, "I don't want to interfere with your project, but I do want to warn you that if you point that staple gun into your eye and squeeze the trigger, you could hurt yourself."

"You've ruined my surprise," I said dryly.

"You don't have to be testy about it," he said. "I was only trying to help."

"You are always doing that," I charged.

"Doing what?"

"Assuming that I am going to do something stupid to hurt myself."

"I assume nothing of the kind. I just know that women are not used to the hazards of things mechanical, electrical, or that have sharp edges."

Men are so naive. Women live in danger every moment of their day. Why, I have cut off the bottom of a Christmas tree using a serrated bread knife.

Opened a No. 2 can of kidney beans at Girl Scout camp with an axe.

I've shaved my legs with a double-eged blade that took the hems out of draperies, paint off the windows, and gum out of the dog's whiskers.

I've rescued a piece of bread on fire in a toaster with a paring knife while the toaster was plugged in behind the refrigerator. Would a man have the courage to separate frozen pork chops with a screw driver and a mallet?

I've pried open paint-can lids with the handles of ice teaspoons and cut the kids' hair with embroidery scissors. I've stirred paint with ballpoint pens and driven nails into wires hidden in the walls.

I've clipped hedges during the rain, plucked a sweater with a label reading "DRY CLEAN ONLY" out of the washer during the spin cycle, and forced ice cubes out of a tray with a steak knife.

I've painted myself into a closet, chased a naked toddler over a wet tile floor, and stored thumbtacks in my mouth.

I've even stapled my fingernail to the lining of a trunk, but it's too soon to talk about it.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., is moving from the toughest physical battle of his life to what may be his most gruelling political fight.

The 23-year Senate veteran, who was released recently from a federal hospital treating him for alcoholism, faces a Senate trial on charges that he improperly handled personal and political financial dealings.

Long one of the Senate's most skillful insiders, he will have a tough time proving his innocence before the Senate and Georgia's voters. He is making re-election plans for 1980 despite statewide polls that show him trailing Gov. George D. Busbee.

The Senate itself is on trial as it awaits what could be one of its toughest internal battles in years when its Ethics Committee considers the evidence in April. If it recommends that the Senate punish Talmadge for his offenses, there could be a major impact on the nation's farm and healthcare policies -- areas where the Georgia lawmaker wields considerable power.

Talmadge's problems stem from the bitter divorce from his ex-wife Betty. Lengthy legal proceedings revealed the Senator made highly questionable use of money from constituents and may have violated federal banking and election laws as well as Senate rules by failing to disclose gifts and property holdings.

His main accuser is Daniel Minchew, his one-time top staff aide who later became chairman of the International Trade Commission. Minchew is under Justice Department investigation for his handling of Talmadge's funds from 1972 to 1974.

Following review of Minchew's testimony as well as the divorce records, the Ethics Committee voted 4-1 in December to accept a staff recommendation for a formal hearing. The inquiry is the most serious charge of wrongdoing against a senator since Thomas J. Dodd of Connecticut was censured in 1967 for misuse of political funds.

The committee's trial-like proceeding was postponed until April because of Talmadge's intensive treatment for alcohol abuse. His apparent return to good health set the wheels in motion for final Senate action that could come by summer.

Although several senators have been the target of investigation for official misbehavior in recent years, none has suffered the fate of the four House members censured by their colleagues and five others who have lost important chairmanships since 1975.

The two most recent examples are Reps. Charles C. Diggs Jr., D-Mich., who was chairman of the District of Columbia Committee, and Daniel J. Flood, D-Pa., who chaired the Appropriations Subcommittee controlling the budgets of the Labor and HEW Departments.

If the Senate determines Talmadge violated its rules, it will face the question of whether he should retain his position as chairman of the Agriculture Committee and the Finance Subcommittee on Health. His probable replacements -- Sens. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., -- are more liberal and more likely to support President Carter's policies.

Carter and Attorney General Griffin B. Bell may play an important role in the Senate drama by their decision on whether to indict Minchew for his alleged offenses. Justice Department investigators are known to be considering some action; their bosses certainly are aware that an indictment could undermine Minchew's effectiveness as a witness against Talmadge.

However, Carter has never been close politically to the senior Georgia senator and there is some reason to believe that the president would breathe a sigh of relief if Talmadge goes down before the 1980 campaign heats up.

Whatever the result, the Senate is preparing for a bitter and acrimonious battle.

Luxury Treatment

HOME DESIGN
By Larry Farnsworth

So many luxurious features have been imaginatively included in this design that it looses all resemblance to the usual, more prosaic rectangular house which provides luxurious living comfort along with practical efficiency.

Note the specific ways in which this has been accomplished. The double doors of the main entrance are recessed for additional distinction and the entry beyond them is a decorator's dream, thanks largely to the attractive curve of the step which leads down to the big, delightfully comfortable sunken living room.

The huge family room, dining area and kitchen monopolize the back of the house most pleasantly, providing plenty of space for all types of activities and, through open planning, seeming even more spacious an area than it already is. Note that huge fireplace with its interesting conversation pad designed inducement for hours of happy fireside relaxation. Note, too, the sliding doors at the back of this area.

The big kitchen portion of this living center deluxe combines a large U-shaped counter, cabinet and appliance area with a straight line section for a very great amount of working and storage space. Beyond this practical kitchen a big utility room offers lots of storage closet space and laundry facilities too. And it has a door to the back of the property.

Two bedrooms are at the far right of the house, along with a good sized bath and plenty of closets. At the other end of the house the master bedroom has complete privacy. Note that it has two huge walk-in closets, plus an extra big bath with a corner tub, a double lavatory and an additional closet.

The basement option plan staircase has a revised utility arrangement.

State-Wide Program Of TEA...

Local Schools Participate In Tests

The Texas Education Agency will test 78,850 elementary and secondary students April 3 - May 11 in order to assess statewide achievement in economic and career education.

Snyder Public Schools will be involved in these tests, although the grades and the schools to be tested here have not been determined.

Dr. Thomas Scannicchio, assistant superintendent, instruction, said that TEA had requested rosters of classes from various local schools, and the state agency will select those to be tested.

Results of the tests, Phase II of the Texas Assessment Project, will be presented to the State Board of Education by January, 1980, according to Dr. M.L. Brockette, commissioner of education.

"We are continuing the Texas Assessment Project in order to meet the spirit of Senate Concurrent Resolutions 29 and 30 and Senate Bill 1 passed by the 65th Texas Legislature," Brockette points out.

"The results of these tests, like the earlier assessment, will provide information for regional and statewide planning as we work toward a more effective system of public education."

First elements of the Texas Assessment Project -- tests in reading, writing, mathematics, and citizenship -- were administered to some 94,000 public school students last spring. Results were presented to the State Board of Education in October and November.

Under the Phase II schedule, the following groups of students will be tested in two key areas: Economic education -- 22,450 fifth graders and 28,650 11th graders. Career education -- 14,625 eighth graders and 13,150 11th graders.

The economic education tests are designed to assess student learning in basic economics, the free enterprise system, and consumer education, according to Dorothy Davidson, Texas Education Agency associate commissioner for general education.

The economic education tests will be based on instruments developed by the Florida Department of Education.

"While we were able to use the Florida tests as a base, we revised some test items in order to make them more relevant to the Texas curriculum," Davidson explains.

The career education test packages will include a revision of instruments developed by the Texas Education Agency and used statewide on a smaller scale in 1975. The test items will point toward career education categories of student objectives published by the Texas Education Agency in 1973.

These include: planning a career, getting and holding a job, responsibilities to the job, and the relationships between education and careers.

"These tests will continue our efforts to assess the achievement of Texas students in learning areas which will enable them to function as adult citizens in our society," Brockette says.

Instruction in economic education, including the free enterprise system, must be offered by Texas school districts. While career education is not mandated by law, it is a priority of the State Board of Education as well as a topic of high interest to the Texas Legislature, the Governor's Office, and the general public, Brockette adds.

The Phase II tests will, for the first time, gather information about school program characteristics believed to be keys to student learning.

"We will ask the schools for a limited amount of information about curriculum and instruction, teacher inservice, use of citizen advisory groups, school board policy statements, and other factors," Brockette explains.

Information gained from these program-oriented questions to school principals -- as well as the student test results -- will be compiled on a regional and statewide basis.

"We believe they will give us the information necessary to help plan improvements in public education throughout Texas," Brockette adds.

Phase II, like the earlier assessment, will not report any findings on individual schools, school districts, teachers, or students.

Results will be analyzed in relation to the ethnicity and sex of students, type and size of school districts, and home factors such as family economic status and language spoken in the home.

Worker Dies At Nuclear Station

FORKED RIVER, N.J. (AP)-Gusty winds blew over three 63-foot steel foundation forms at a nuclear generating station turbine house, killing a construction worker and injuring two others.

The columns were bundles of steel reinforcing rods used to form the base of a turbine building under construction at Jersey Central Power & Light Co's Forked River station, said Sandy Levin, supervisor of site engineering. No nuclear material was involved in Monday's accident, said Edwin Sherratt, a utility spokesman.
