Stockman's object is declining deficit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's chief budget cutter, declaring that the administration doesn't have to be right on the money with a $43.1 billion deficit in 1982, says the bottom line is just "to keep the deficit moving down."

"You don't have to hit $42 (billion) or $45 (billion)," budget director David A. Stockman said Sunday. "The larger point is the direction of the deficit has to be steadily down this coming year and in subsequent years."

Reagan had aimed at holding the fiscal 1982 deficit to $42.5 billion to stay on track toward a balanced budget in 1984. But faced with spiraling interest rates that drive up the cost of government borrowing, he raised that figure to $43.1 billion last week.

The Congressional Budget Office estimated earlier this month that the deficit for fiscal 1981, which ends Wednesday, will total $58.05 billion.

Stockman, interviewed on CBS' "Face the Nation," said Reagan is determined to keep the 1982 deficit from ballooning above $50 billion again.

Asked if he would be satisfied with $48 billion or $49 billion, he replied, "If the deficit is coming down, I feel that we have achieved our goal."

To do that, though, Stockman said all $13 billion in new 1982 spending cuts and $3 billion in tax increases proposed by Reagan last Thursday are necessary as a cushion against future bulges in the budget.

"As we move through the year, we're going to find further examples of unplanned spending, overruns, bills coming due...and so we have to have a margin of error in this," he said. "The only thing that we do know is that every month, every quarter the estimates get bigger and that if we sit on our hands and acquiesce, the problem will get out of control."

In a string of broadcast appearances over the weekend, Democrats said Reagan should roll back the 25 percent, three-year tax cut that takes effect Thursday instead of seeking deeper cuts in social programs.

Democratic Sens. Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina and Daniel Patrick Moynihan of New York said on ABC's "Issues and Answers" that Congress will not go along with the latest spending cuts anyway, partly because moderate Republicans believe Reagan is reneging on earlier promises.

"I think given the kind of fiscal situation that we face — a budget that just has enormous momentum — that we never can promise that a program will not be cut next year or the year after," Stockman said.

Hollings and Moynihan said the best way to reduce the deficit is to have smaller personal income tax cuts and to rescind some $12 billion in new tax breaks for the oil industry.

House Majority Leader James Wright of Texas, in a Democratic reply to Reagan on CBS Saturday, said the president appears "totally unaware that the one overriding cause of those expected deficits is the enormous...tax cut on which his administration insisted."

Economist John Kenneth Galbraith said the military budget also could be cut more than the $2 billion proposed by Reagan.

Stockman rejected all those arguments Sunday.

Hosing down the debris

Workers hose down what remains of a pipeline after an explosion Sunday afternoon 30 miles northeast of Stanton in Howard County. Three men, including Midlander Joe Gregg Dawson, 20, were killed and another injured in the explosion.

Midlander, 2 others die in explosion

From Staff and Wire Reports

STANTON — A 20-year-old Midland man was among three persons killed Sunday when a natural gas pipeline exploded after being accidentally struck by an oil well drill bit, sheriff's officials said.

Joe Gregg Dawson of Midland was apparently killed instantly when the pipeline exploded early Sunday afternoon. Also killed in the explosion were John Paul Hemphill, 32, and Willie Joe Waller, 41, both of Lamesa. All three were burned beyond recognition, officials said.

A 48-year-old Lamesa man, Delmer Oller, was hospitalized in Lubbock with second- and third-degree burns over 50 percent of his body, said Martin County deputy Mike Welling.

Repairs should be completed today on the pipeline, sheriff's officials said.

Four men were at the site of a proposed new oil well, on a farm about 30 miles northeast of Stanton in Howard County, when the accident occured Sunday afternoon, Welling said.

The men were starting initial drilling — known as a "rathole" — on the well.

"The drilling...site was...located directly over a Santa Fe Pipeline gas line," Welling said. "When Harris Rathole Service started the rathole, it immediately hit the pipeline and erupted into fire."

Welling said a truck driver on his way to the drilling site "saw, heard and felt the explosion and saw a body flying through the air. When he got closer, he saw a man running, picked him up and took him to the hospital in Lamesa. The man (Oller) was later transferred to a hospital in Lubbock."

The fire raged out of control for more than an hour, Welling said.

"We closed the valves at both ends of the pipeline and let the gas burn itself out," the deputy said. "We sat out there for well over an hour, watching the fire, before we could get close enough to do anything, though."

Military advisers to stay in El Salvador

By ROBERT PARRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — American military advisers will remain in El Salvador for the "forseeable future" as that country's civilian-military junta continues its war against leftist guerrillas, a Pentagon spokesman says.

Lt. Col. Jerry Grohowski said 31 non-combat U.S. advisers are now in the Central American country, compared with 56 sent there in March when the Reagan administration vowed to "draw the line" against "communist aggression" in El Salvador.

The continued U.S. military presence comes despite a Defense Department statement last March that the advisers would be brought home by September. In that statement, however, the Pentagon did leave open the possibility that "some others might be sent in."

Grohowski said the administration has lived up to its public declarations, since the advisers dispatched to El Salvador earlier this year have returned and have been replaced by other Americans.

"There have been several turnovers of advisers" as specific training duties were completed and others begun, Grohowski said in a recent interview. "The numbers fluctuate somewhat but generally there's a downward trend."

The Reagan administration also has sent 16 advisers to neighboring Honduras where they are assigned primarily to train Honduran troops to interdict military supplies heading to El Salvador, Grohowski said.

Two American military advisers in Honduras were shot and wounded last week in an attack by left-wing guerrillas on a U.S. embassy van. There have been no casualties among the U.S. advisers in El Salvador, where they are barred from joining the Salvadoran army on patrol, Grohowski said.

Last week, the Senate approved language in a $5.8 billion foreign aid bill that would require President Reagan to halt U.S. military aid to El Salvador and withdraw U.S. advisers unless he certifies that the junta has made a concerted effort to stop human rights abuses.

The Senate tacked the requirement onto the bill with the stated goal of bringing "an end to the indiscriminate torture and murder of Salvadoran citizens." The House is expected to approve similar language.

Reagan has accused leftist guerrillas of committing most of the thousands of political killings in El Salvador over the past two years, but most human rights groups blame right-wing "death squads" and government security forces for the bulk of the slayings.

The administration increased U.S. military aid to El Salvador and dispatched advisers in February after accusing Cuba and the Soviet Union of secretly supplying weapons to the insurgents — a charge both countries have denied.

Grohowski said U.S. advisers have trained Salvadorans in counter-insurgency warfare, command techniques, medical care and helicopter and truck maintenance.

He added that the Pentagon hoped eventually that the Salvadoran leaders would agree to allow such training to take place outside the country, a move which he said would end the need for U.S. advisers to be based in El Salvador.

However, in the short run — as the Salvadoran army tries to contain the guerrillas' hit-and-run attacks — administration officials said the number of advisers might actually increase.

Saudis resisting AWACS compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the Reagan administration opened its formal Capitol Hill defense of the proposed sale of AWACS radar planes to Saudi Arabia today, the Saudis made it known in advance they would veto a compromise designed to win congressional approval of the deal.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger told the Senate Armed Services Committee the planes would help protect the West's oil supply and would pose no threat to Israel.

"The destruction of the oil-gathering and loading facilities in Saudi Arabia, or their control by a hostile, power, could tip the balance of power in the world," Weinberger testified.

"Saudi oil resources are vulnerable and threatened," he added. Saudi Arabia provides 30 percent of all oil used by the 21 countries of the International Energy Agency, which includes all the major western industrialized nations.

The proposed $8.5 billion sale, Weinberger said, would successfully balance "the imperative of Israeli security with the need to respond to threats to essential resources and regional stability," he said.

But administration sources said Sunday night that the Saudis had a "highly negative" reaction to the compromise worked out among the White House, key members and Congress and a top Saudi representative. Without that compromise, which would station Americans aboard the Saudi-owned planes, congressional approval of the sale appears a dim possibility.

But the sources, who asked not to be identified, said they hoped Prince Sultan, the Saudi defense minister, could be convinced that joint manning was the only way to get the sale through Congress or, failing that, would hear a personal appeal from an American delegation.

The Washington Post, however, reported today from Taif that Saudi Arabia's royal leadership would refuse to let Americans fly in the AWACS planes beyond a necessary training period. Quoting an unidentified official in the inner circle of the Arab kingdom's royal family, the Post also said the Saudis will refuse to negotiate with a congressional fact-finding delegation.

In his Capitol Hill appearance, Weinberger said the sale would stabilize the Persian Gulf by giving the Saudis adequate air forces to deter attacks on their oil fields from Iran, Iraq and South Yemen and would increase the Saudis' ability to defend against an attack from Soviet-backed forces or the Soviet Union itself.

Weinberger tried to allay opponents' fears that the planes in Saudi hands would be a threat to Israel.

"The simple fact is that this sale will not alter the Arab-Israeli balance of power materially nor jeopardize Israel's security," he said.

Saudi use of the planes against Israel would bring prohibitive retaliation from Israeli forces, he said, "and would leave Saudi Arabia vulnerable to air attack from every direction."

President Reagan picked up support Sunday as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee released a summar of a secret staff report saying defeat "could adversely affect administration plans for the defense of the Persian Gulf region."

Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. and Weinberger go before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Thursday.

Congress has until Oct. 30 to veto the $8.5 billion sale if Reagan submits the formal proposal as planned Wednesday.

The sale includes five of the Airborne Warning and Control System radar planes, plus missiles and fuel tanks to give 62 Saudi F-15 jet fighters more firepower and longer flying range.

The House is likely to veto the sale in a vote scheduled for Oct. 13, and the administration's own count reportedly shows 63 senators against the sale unless there is joint manning.

Reagan to present crime proposals to police chiefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is calling for a new crackdown on drug trafficking, an overhaul of federal criminal laws and changes to make it tougher for some defendants to get out of jail.

Opening a week in which he also faces two key decisions on military issues, Reagan was to fly to New Orleans today to address the annual convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

The meeting provided Reagan a forum to respond for the first time to proposals from a special task force on crime, which issued 64 recommendations last August to battle violent crime.

Later in the week, the president also is scheduled to announce long-awaited defense decisions on how to deploy the MX missile system and on the design of the next long-range U.S. bomber.

Within two weeks, Reagan also will hold the fourth news conference of his eight-month-old administration, White House spokesman David Gergen said over the weekend.

Reagan spent the weekend at the Camp David, Md., presidential retreat and returned to the White House late Sunday afternoon.

In addressing recommendations of his crime task force, Reagan was not expected to endorse the panel's proposal for $2 billion in federal grants to states to build new prisons, Gergen indicated. "There is not a dicussion of a lot more money in this speech," Gergen said.

Gergen said Reagan would urge changes in bail procedures so judges have "more flexibility to hold some defendants and to raise bail standards — in order to make it more difficult for them to get back out on the streets."

Concert was boot-stomping good time

Audience was in country-music heaven

Seeing elephants in the parking lot at Chaparral Center should have given them their first clue. It didn't.

The Shriners should have been their second. Instead, one of the four said: "I didn't know the Shriners were putting this on."

After their tickets had been ripped apart and they got inside, they realized a circus was in progress at Chaparral Center. The message still wasn't received. Instead, the same voice said, "It's five till eight, how are they going to clear the people out and put our show on?"

For one, the light began to dawn. This voice said, "We better check those tickets again."

As luck and circumstance would have it, these four avid, died-in-the-boots country fans were just a bit too eager to hear Mickey Gilley, Johnny Lee and Reba McEntire. A week too eager.

The next scene saw them desperately trying to retrieve their ticket stubs. It wasn't easy — the tickets for both events were pink. But there's something to be said for perseverance, especially the kind that goes with country music and its fans. The tickets were found.

It could have been worse. They could have been a week late.

For the 4,400 country fans who made last Saturday night — not Saturday a week ago — it seemed to be a boot-stomping, hand-clapping good time.

The night's entertainment started with Reba McEntire. Fairly new on the national country music scene, Ms. McEntire has been performing almost since she was old enough to stand in the back of a pickup with her brother, Pake, and her sister, Susie, and sing at rodeos. Sometimes older sister Alice would join them, but not too often.

In a backstage interview, Ms. McEntire, the cousin of Midlander Gordon Marcum, said laughing, "That's the way I learned to sing three part harmony."

Actually a country legacy — her grandfather, John McEntire, was the world's champion steer roper in 1934 and her father, Clark McEntire, was the Rodeo Cowboys Association world champion steer roper in 1957, 1958 and 1961 — Ms. McEntire's roots go deep into country soil.

"I've been around rodeoing all my life and that's how I got into music professionally," said the Oklahoma native.

Her first paid performance occured in Cheyenne, Wyo., during the Frontier Days celebration.

"We (kids whose parents were there for the celebration) were in the hotel lobby visiting and they got Pate to sing a song. I think it was 'You Ain't Nothing But A Hound Dog.' He got a quarter for it, so I asked him to help me with 'Jesus Loves Me.' I got a nickel," Ms. McEntire said, smiling as she remembered. "That was my first paid experience."

When asked how old she was, she wasn't certain but "as far back as before grade school, we sang in hotel lobbies and from the back of pickups."

Her break came in 1974 during the R.C.A. National Finals Rodeo held in Oklahoma City. Her job — singing the National Anthem.

"A guy named Red Steagall was there. Mama asked him if there was any way he could get us into the music business. He said, 'No.'

"He thought it over and called back several months later. He said, 'Jacqueline (Reba's mother), could you bring Reba to Nashville to cut a demo? Anybody who's red-headed and can sing the National Anthem can't be all bad.'

"I couldn't have done it without him," Ms. McEntire added. "Since then I've been Red's side-kick in a way."

As far as the future goes, at 26, Ms. McEntire doesn't "have any definite plans. If it was rodeoing or ranching I'd know where I was supposed to be. I got into this with the help of the Lord and he's being steering it all the way."

She does know that "it's playing somewhere and somebody's got it written down."

After listening to her scheduled engagements this fall, it's easy to see why she feels that way. She performed Friday with Ronnie Milsap and will hopscotch across the country with T.G. Shepherd, B.J. Thomas and Alabama before joining up again with Gilley and Lee.

It was apparent during her Midland performance that vocally she's quite an entertainer. Her voice has a nice range which she knows how to utilize. She and Susie (her sister) harmonize well together.

Although her stage presence needs polishing, this was one of her first appearances in a large center. She's been used to "performing 9 to 3 a.m. to small houses for $13. Getting up there for 30 minutes and playing for a packed house," well, that's quite a difference.

With her vocal talent and personable nature, it's a matter of experience plus opportunity before she's the headliner and not the backup.

Although the audience appreciated Ms. McEntire's performance, it was Gilley and Lee that had drawn the crowd. Of the two, it was difficult to determine who was the favored one. Perhaps neither.

However, Gilley's announcement that Lee was "still single and still looking for love" certainly drew a positive response from the female fans, some of whom told him while he was singing, "We love you Johnny."

Lee responded with, "I love you, too."

For both, their big break came with the movie "Urban Cowboy," which, as Lee said, "opened country music doors to a lot of new visitors."

Each performed their familiar songs, such as Gilley's "Stand By Me," and Lee's "Hard Times," "Looking For Love" and "Prisoner of Hope." Lee also sang selections off his new album, including one he wrote, "Those Highways Run Forever."

During this concert, they seemed to be having more fun and appeared more relaxed onstage than during their Chaparral Center appearance with Eddie Rabbitt last year.

Gilley managed to plug Gilley's jeans and belt buckles when they sang "Cowboy's Ain't Easy To Love." And of course the band and both Gilley and Lee were really decked out urban cowboy style. However, there was one incongruous note onstage in the area of dress. The two girls who hummed harmony were attired in the now defunct disco style. Perhaps Gilley needs to plug his clothes closer to home.

Lee may have summed up the concert best in the title of one of his new songs — "I've Come A Long Way, But I've Got A Long Way To Go."

Fair skies expected in Basin

Temperatures are expected to rise in the afternoons with fair skies throughout the Permian Basin through Tuesday.

The high Tuesday is expected to climb into the mid-90s, with the low tonight in the low 60s, according to the National Weather Service at the Midland Regional Airport.

Southeast winds traveling today at 10-15 mph should decrease to 5-10 mph tonight, but will gust from the southwest at 15-20 mph Tuesday.

Sunday's high of 94 fell short of the 102-degree record temperature set for the day in 1977 and, as the overnight lows continue in the 60s, the recorded overnight low of 62 did not come close to the record 41-degree mark set in 1936.

Wife charged in husband's death

ODESSA — A 32-year-old Odessa man was killed at his residence Sunday afternoon, and his wife has been arrested and charged in connection with the shooting.

A spokesman with the Ector County Sheriff's Department said Alvin Warren King, 32, of 606 W. 47th St., was shot about 5:10 p.m. Sunday. Arrested and charged with first degree murder is Terri Lee King, 32, of the same address. Bond was to be set this morning.

The couple had moved to Odessa about a month ago from Pampa, said the spokesman.

The woman told officers the man "was coming at her with a knife." The spokesman said a pocket knife "that was still in his pocket" was found on the victim.

Listed as the weapon used in the shooting was a .357-caliber Magnum with .38-caliber bullets.

Money, jewelry stolen

In theft and burglary complaints to police over the weekend, Tony Rios of 312 Cloud Ave. said $463 in checks, $400 in cash, two wedding rings and two gold bracelets were taken from a strong box at his residence. Total loss was placed at $2,263.

And Sharon See of 309 S. Tyler St. reported that a $600 stereo unit and a $250 ladies watch were taken in a burglary of her residence.

Irish hunger fast will go on

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Despite two defections last week and reports that two more are imminent, supporters of the Irish nationalist hunger strikers at Maze prison say "the fast will go on."

The death fast that began March 1 has taken 10 lives but brought no change in Britain's rejection of the Irish Republican Army's demand for prisoner-of-war status for imprisoned guerrillas.

Supporters of the strike rallied in Belfast Sunday after the number of fasters was cut to six by the defection of Liam McCloskey.

McCloskey, 25, agreed to quit on his 55th day without food after his mother and brother told him they would authorize doctors to save his life once he lapsed into a coma. He was reported blind and unable to keep water down. Officials said he was taken to a private hospital.

He was the seventh Maze prisoner to leave the fast and the second defector in two days. Bernard Fox, 30, ended his 32-day fast Thursday after doctors warned him an obstructed kidney would kill him within days. One other faster has quit voluntarily and four others were removed by their families after they lost consciousness.

The Roman Catholic clergy recently has put increasing pressure on families of the strikers in an effort to end the protest. Reports here say the families of two of the remaining six strikers will pull them off the fast as soon as they slip into comas.

The British government has rejected any negotiation of the prisoners' demands as long as the strike continues.

It claims to grant their demands for special privileges would amount to political recognition that would encourage the Irish nationalist terror war to drive the British out of Northern Ireland and unite the predominantly Protestant province with the mainly Roman Catholic Irish Republic.

In a radio speech Sunday, Irish Prime Minister Garret FitzGerald repeated his proposal for a referendum "when the time is right" to change the Republic's 1936 constitution by dropping its claim to sovereignty over British-ruled Northern Ireland and the ban on divorce in the Republic.

FitzGerald believes this would end much of the opposition among Northern Ireland's million Protestants to eventual union with the Republic. But political observers in Dublin say there is little or no chance of the Irish Parliament approving the proposal, and the Catholic Church is certain to fight any proposal to lift the ban on divorce.

Protesters feel 'very good' about Diablo Canyon effort

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP) — At the end of a two-week siege of the Diablo Canyon nuclear power plant, an anti-nuclear spokesman says protesters feel "very good" about their efforts, even though the plant will soon be humming.

Protesters planned to wrap up two weeks of civil disobedience today at the plant, where 1,643 people have been arrested, most on trespassing charges.

"People here feel very good about what we did," Steve Leeds, a spokesman for the demonstrators, said Sunday. "We had a very peaceful and successful action."

Since land and sea assaults began Sept. 15, police have arrested more people than at any U.S. anti-nuclear demonstration. Deputies said 50 women and 80 men were still jailed Sunday, and Leeds said some members of the anti-nuclear coalition would remain in the area until they were released.

A steady trickle of protesters walked from their camp late Sunday, positioning themselves for today's confrontation at the new $2.3 billion plant. Protestors have been arrested for sitting in front of the entrance gates, trespassing the 735-acre plant property line and landing by sea at a restricted beach near the plant.

Spokesmen for the Abalone Alliance, the coalition of 60 anti-nuclear groups, hedged on crowd estimates, but San Luis Obispo Sheriff's deputies said between 200 and 300 protesters remained at the site.

On Sept. 21, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission granted Pacific Gas & Electric Co. a license to test Unit 1 of the reactor. PG&E says protests have not affected preparations for bringing that reactor to 1 to 5 percent of capacity, perhaps within two weeks.

The other reactor, Unit 2, is scheduled for completion late next year. Construction was disrupted off and on the past two weeks when demonstrators blocked workers' buses, but otherwise activities at the plant remained undisturbed, PG&E officials said.

A march Sunday organized by residents of Avila Beach, the community nearest the plant, drew 4,000 participants along a 1½-mile route to the main gates Sunday. Sheriff's Sgt. Ed Carroll said there were no arrests.

The town has about 350 residents.

"Sixty people broke out of the group, sat down at the gates and talked it over, but they left on their own," Carroll said. "I hope this is the last of it. Everybody's worn down."

March organizer Sandy Nunes said the walk was "a spontaneous thing. Some people were opposed to the plant before (the Alliance blockade) but there had been no show of resistance." A similar march Sept. 20 drew 5,000 people.

The changing seasons

The changing of the seasons are nearly always pleasant times, but that's particularly so here in the Permian Basin when winter becomes spring and when summer turns into autumn.

Seasonal changes are appreciated by most individuals, it seems, and why not? They serve as reminders that through the trials and tribulations of our daily lives there are greater forces at play even here on our terrestrial home.

The summer of 1981 was not an unpleasant one by any means, in terms of weather extremes. It wasn't too hot, there weren't too many violent storms yet the Permian Basin received enough rain to prevent dust bowl conditions from developing.

But with the arrival of the autumn season, the moderate heat of this summer has been chased away. Cooler temperatures are making nights more pleasant and on more than one occasion a morning has held a hint of the forthcoming chilliness. We are forewarned that the earth will retire as it has for countless years in the past.

But nature's promise of another rebirth will be recognized in the spring as the ground awakens and new life springs forth.

The changing of the seasons truly are exciting times — times of renewal and rebirth. They are pleasant times that can give us all a fresh view of life and restore our determination to succeed in the struggle of life.

Sham workers' state

The Soviet Union keeps putting the heat on Poland, this time publicizing the arrival in Warsaw of an "economics" delegation designed to relieve the doughty Poles of a fearful food shortage — if they behave.

The Russians have been huffing and puffing in trying to blow down the spirit of independence as exemplified by the free trade union, Solidarity. They staged massive military maneuvers near the Polish border, actually close by where Solidarity held a historic conference. It didn't work.

Then they had their most devoted stooge regimes in East Germany and Czechoslovakia call on "Polish comrades" to muscle Solidarity out of business lest other communist states be infected with a rallying call to independence. The Poles didn't budge. So, "volunteer" Soviet workers demanded that the duty of Poland is to preserve its disdained system.

But Pope John Paul, Polish-born and raised, issued an appeal for foreign elements to stay out of Poland and permit his countrymen, who suffered so much in war and peace, to develop unfettered. Nearly all 35 million Poles are devout Roman Catholics.

It was a dreadful mistake for Soviet strategists to invade Afghanistan where at least 85,000 troops remain bogged down. To intervene in Poland would be catastrophic. It sits in the heart of Europe and millions of ethnic Poles reside in the U.S. This country cannot be aloof.

World War II began with the German invasion of Poland 42 years ago. The Russians promptly moved in to help partition the country. Another Soviet incursion would be inexcusable.

The scenario may well be for the despised Polish Communist regime, which doesn't command three per cent national support, to summon Soviet aid and help "restore socialist order." Too many signs point in that grim direction.

A brave nation struggling to be free and, indeed, a breathless world, keeps a watching brief.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Monday, Sept. 28, the 271st day of 1981. There are 94 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On September 28, 1924, two U.S. Army planes landed in Seattle, Washington, completing the first round-the-world flight.

On this date:

In 1950, Indonesia was admitted to the United Nations.

In 1953, The Roman Catholic Primate of Poland, Cardinal Wyszynski was arrested.

In 1965, a volcano erupted 35 miles south of Manila in Philippines, killing at least 184 people.

And in 1972, Japan and China agreed to end the state of war between them and to establish diplomatic relations.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Wilson, station chief talked killing Qaddafi

WASHINGTON — A bizarre rendezvous occurred in Rome last July. The top U.S. intelligence official there met with a renegade ex-CIA agent to discuss the possible assassination of Libyan dictator Muammar Qaddafi.

Jack Anderson

The former spy was Edwin Wilson, a fugitive from American justice. He jumped bail one year ago after being indicted on charges of illegally furnishing explosives to Libya and conspiring to kill a Qaddafi political rival. He sought refuge in Tripoli, and has been living there under Qaddafi's protection.

Among the U.S. officials who met with Wilson on July 8-10 was E. Lawrence Barcella Jr., the assistant U.S. attorney who is prosecuting the Wilson case. Another was the CIA station chief in Rome, whose name I have agreed not to disclose.

The Justice Department attorney and the CIA spymaster had different reasons for wanting to talk with Wilson. Barcella was hoping to persuade Wilson to return voluntarily to the United States to clean up the government's case against him and others, either through a plea bargain or an agreement to tell what he knew. The CIA apparently hoped to enlist the cooperation of Wilson or one of his mercenaries in an assassination plot against Qaddafi, three intelligence sources told my associates Dale Van Atta and Ron McRae.

One reliable source said the peculiar meeting of Barcella and his quarry was initiated by Wilson's attorney after visiting the fugitive in Tripoli. Barcella's emergency travel request was rushed through the Justice Department bureaucracy in three days.

Meanwhile, CIA officials had been hatching a typically bizarre plan to eliminate Qaddafi. Their chosen instrument was a lethal poison that was to be injected into the desert dictator by means of a tiny dart disguised as one of the black flies that infest Libya.

The two agencies' hopes of using Wilson culminated in the Rome meetings. Barcella's role was important: He arranged for the international arrest warrant against Wilson to be lifted — temporarily and only for Italy. If the fugitive had tried to go almost anywhere else, he would have been pounced upon and extradited to the United States.

After Wilson arrived in Rome, his passport was taken from him and stamped with an expiration date of Aug. 1. This meant he was encouraged to return to the United States by that time to face federal charges — but he boasted he would use one of the dozen or more false passports he has to go elsewhere.

According to my sources, Barcella and at least four other U.S. officials huddled in London to plan their moves. One of the officials was an assistant to Barcella, another was an FBI agent and a third was an agent of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. Members of this entourage also traveled to Scotland and Switzerland to check leads in the case before going on to Rome.

When asked if he had been "carrying water" for the CIA, Barcella refused comment. In fact, he declined even to acknowledge that he had been present at any meeting with Wilson.

At any rate, the meetings reportedly lasted for two days during the second week of July. My sources say the CIA "monitored" the meetings — a spook word that could mean anything from secretly bugging the meetings to having a representative present. It was the CIA station chief's job — not Barcella's — to raise the question of an assassination attempt on Qaddafi.

There is at least a possibility that the government, despairing of snaring Wilson any other way, was trying to get him either liquidated by Qaddafi or smoked out of his Libyan refuge by compromising him with an assassination discussion. Wilson was obviously aware of this possibility: He put out a story that the Rome meetings were arranged to discuss his offer to blow the whistle on two Cuban fugitives wanted for the 1976 assassination of Chilean exile Orlando Letelier.

PARLAY-VOO JUNKETESE?: Members of Congress are traditionally touchy about their "fact-finding missions" abroad, which those of us in the envious media insist on calling "junkets." But now, at last, a realist has emerged: Rep. E. Thomas Coleman, R-Mo., of the House Post-Secondary Education Subcommittee.

"As a very visible group of Americans, Members of Congress would be well-served by knowing a second (or third) language," he wrote in a "Dear Colleague" letter. "We would certainly be in a position to make good use of it," he added.

So Coleman has asked the State Department's Foreign Service Institute to offer free language classes for Congress. The response, at least from his colleagues, has been encouraging. Soon our junketing legislators will be able to toast "Skaal!" "A la votre!" and "Nazdroviya!" with the best of them.

WATCH ON WASTE: Proposed cutbacks in Social Security benefits have become a political hot potato. An unintended cut has already been effected: Some 300,000 Supplementary Security Income checks, worth $40 million, have gone uncashed for six months or more — apparently because the intended recipients never received them.

— The Health and Human Services Department's employee counseling service recently awarded a $120,000 contract to a private firm to produce a training film for supervisory personnel at the National Institute of Alcohol and Drug Abuse. Now the institute is expected to lose about 75 percent of its personnel in budget cutbacks.

INSIDE REPORT:

Kirkland treading softly in face of intruders from left

WASHINGTON — AFL-CIO president Lane Kirkland, angry that he had been "red-baited" over communist participation in Solidarity Day, exploded when he next learned that left-wing labor leader William Winpisinger was taking his machinists union jet to Russia to accept a long-standing Soviet invitation.

Rowland Evans

Robert Novak

"Bleeping outrageous," Kirkland stormed, a few days before the Sept. 19 Solidarity demonstration against Reaganomics. Winpisinger, an AFL-CIO vice president as leader of the machinists, shelved the trip after pleas from AFL-CIO brass. But he did not accept Kirkland's reasoning that no American free labor leader has business consorting with the Soviet regime's synthetic trade unionists.

Nobody can question the anti-communist credentials of Lane Kirkland, an unrepentant Vietnam hawk to the end. But Winpisinger's aborted journey to Moscow reflects pressure from the left on Kirkland. His hesitation in flatly reading the communists out of Solidarity Day shows he does not yet enjoy the security of his predecessor and mentor, George Meany.

The rising influence of Winpisinger and his friends on the left in labor is shown by the AFL-CIO Executive Council's endorsement of SALT II last year and its statement this year of "no blank check" for the Pentagon, both running against the grain of Kirkland's record. But beyond that, the Communist Party's old dream of getting its nose under organized labor's tent is rekindled by the new AFL-CIO president's vulnerability to attacks from the left.

That vulnerability was demonstrated on CBS's "Face the Nation" Sept. 6 when Kirkland was asked about communist participation in the Sept. 19 demonstration. "We're turning no one away," Kirkland replied. The labor movement's anti-communists were stunned by this reversal of lifelong form.

So, on Sept. 16, AFL-CIO secretary-treasurer Thomas Donahue told a National Press Club audience that the communists were neither invited nor wanted. On Sept. 17, on the Braden-Buchanan program over Washington's WRC Radio, Kirkland gingerly disassociated himself from the communists' participation by saying: "We have not invited them."

But on that same program, Kirkland erred when he denied that the communist-controlled U.S. Peace Council was a listed Solidarity Day endorser; its name in fact had been accepted at AFL-CIO headquarters. Furthermore, Kirkland seemed less upset about communist participation than the fact he was being asked about it: "I've been called a hawk and a cold warrior. That's the first time I've been red-baited."

Then came the unwelcome news for Kirkland that Winpisinger, who had accepted Cuba's invitation last year, was off to Moscow. Donahue remonstrated with him. How could he visit Russia when the AFL-CIO just expressed "outrage" over the sentencing Sept. 3 to penal labor of courageous trade union organizer Anatoli Marchenko?

When we talked to Winpisinger three days after Solidarity Day, he told us he would not visit Russia if Kirkland were not given a visa to enter Poland for the second half of the Solidarity union congress. Kirkland did not leave Washington Sept. 22 as scheduled, when the Polish Embassy granted no visa. Besides, said Winpisinger, he could not fly from the U.S. because of the air traffic controllers strike.

But Winpisinger did not cite Marchenko's brutal treatment as cause for postponing his trip. Rather, he promised to bring up Marchenko "and anybody else I'm briefed about" when he gets to Russia. "I am terrifically concerned about the peace issue," he told us, adding he wanted to talk peace with Russians. His aim: end the old Meany-Kirkland policy of no truck with Soviet puppet "labor leaders."

That's one reason why Winpisinger, though infrequently mentioned in the regular press, is lionized in issue after issue of the Daily World, the New York-based communist newspaper. It applauds such positions as opposing U.S. aid for El Salvador, in direct opposition to Kirkland's AFL-CIO approval. Winpisinger's trial balloons for a new leftist party are headlined in the Daily World.

The tactic is put plainly by Al Evanoff, head of a communist-dominated hospital workers union in New York. He has written that while Kirkland is no better than Meany, there is a difference: "Kirkland ... will be more sensitive to pressures of the various (AFL-CIO) vice presidents and rank-and-file members ...." While Meany could "tell young people to shut up when they protested the Vietnam War," Evanoff added, "Kirkland doesn't have that kind of power base ... by keeping the pressure for a policy of confrontation and struggle in defense of our rights, we will make Kirkland change."

Kirkland's friends admit the communists have a point. In these early years of his presidency, Kirkland treads softly in facing the intruders from the left, never issuing an unequivocal disavowal of communist participation in Solidarity Day. If and when "Winpy" Winpisinger visits Moscow, Kirkland will have to choose between disturbing labor's superficial harmony and dishonoring the matrydom of Anatoli Marchenko.

MARK RUSSELL SAYS

As the Republican faithful gathered in Grand Rapids, Mich., for the dedication of the Gerald Ford Museum, few doubted that, were it not for the little accidents of history, they would all be assembled at Duke University.

●

Historians will determine the significance of the Gerry Ford Museum which takes its place alongside other outstanding institutions — the Rutherford B. Hayes Library and Filling Station and the Millard Fillmore Water Flume.

●

Artifacts in the museum include the stained-glass WIN button, the wax dummies of the Mayaguez crew and Gerry's first golf clubs with the notches on the driver for the victims.

●

Building the museum was a good idea. I say, if you're going to put up a monument to your own immortality, do it while you are still young enough to enjoy it.

CHARLEY REESE

Bargaining with snakes is dangerous

Let us suppose that we are having a picnic in a park. Let us suppose further that a rattlesnake appears and bites one of the participants.

Charley Reese

In the real world, the matter would be handled with dispatch. The snake would be killed. The victim would be taken to a hospital. There might be a discussion about how the snake happened to arrive at the picnic, but there would be no analysis of the snake's motives, no discussion of whether or not the victim provoked the attack, and no negotiation with the snake about giving up its fangs in return for an agreement not to wear snake boots.

In the unreal world of politics and political commentary, however, such absurdities occur every day. Secretary of State Alexander Haig, for example, wondered aloud in a speech in Berlin recently why there is a double standard. Why does a defensive act on the part of the Democracies produce demonstrations when open aggression by the Soviet Union produces only yawns.

Well, the question itself is misleading. The answer is simple. The Soviet Union has agents in the Democracies as well as ideological allies who can be activated on command. The Western Democracies have no such agents behind the Iron Curtain. The Soviet Union can turn demonstrations on and off like a lightbulb. These protestations are as phony as Yasir Arafat's desire for peace.

That accounts for the demonstrations. What accounts for the yawns is an appalling lack of courage in the Western Democracies. The general tenor of the critical commentary of Haig and President Reagan is, "My God, they're going to make the Soviets angry!"

The pervasive cowardice of Western leaders is symbolized by their constant talk of peace, as if the goal were not a victory of Western values but a mere avoidance of violence. Peace is not an unqualified virtue. The dead are at peace. So are the hopeless. So are slaves. Peace comes to a communist country when all the anti-Communists are dead, exiled or imprisoned. When Soviet leaders speak of peace, that is the kind of peace they are seeking.

There are two marks of sanity in a person these days. One is when he or she recognizes that Communism is pure, unmitigated evil. Communism is by its nature evil just as a rattlesnake is by its nature venemous. The explanation for Soviet aggression, repression, and subversion is its ideology.

The second mark of sanity in a person is the simple recognition that Communism operates a fifth column in every non-communist nation in the world. It sets up openly communist groups and also hidden communist groups which seek to infiltrate institutions and to act as agents of influence.

The automatic assumption that demonstrations against U.S. defense buildups or decisions to aid countries assaulted by communist guerrillas are legitimate expressions of democratic liberals is either stupid or itself treacherous. Like Pavlov's dogs, many Americans today are so conditioned to fear being called "McCarthyites" that they absolutely refuse to discuss even the possibility of Soviet subversion short of outright espionage.

As with a witness in a court of law, however, the listener or reader has a valid right to know the motivation of the witness since motivation is a large factor in determining credibility.

A person ideologically committed to abolition of Capitalism is not likely to be an objective critic of Capitalism and that is certainly the case of a great many prominent people in areas of religion, the environment, and so-called consumer protection.

People who value freedom had better wake up. The easiest person to defeat is the person who is not sure he's being attacked and is uncertain if his own life is worth defending.

Ground broken for new Trapp Family Lodge

STOWE, Vt. (AP) — It's only a matter of time before the hills again are alive with the sound of tourists arriving at the new Trapp Family Lodge.

Nine months ago, a fire destroyed the famous hotel and one guest perished in the blaze. The family matriarch, Maria von Trapp, who inspired the musical and film "The Sound of Music," pledged to rebuild at the site, where her family built its first home in this country after fleeing Nazi-occupied Austria more than 40 years ago.

Ground has been broken for a new $5 million hotel, and Saturday the cornerstone of the new 73-room lodge — nearly three times as big as the old one — was dedicated. The ceremony was attended by thousands of townspeople and tourists.

The Trapp family also plans to build 20 vacation time-sharing guest homes in an expansion of the resort.

Cleland

CLARKSTON, Ga. (AP) — Former Veterans Administration chief Max Cleland says the Reagan administration's proposed budget cuts will result in "sick veterans being turned away from VA hospitals."

The proposed cut in veterans' medical services "doesn't excite me," Cleland said Sunday before a speech at a suburban Atlanta church. "I'm afraid what we have here is the situation where we are asking the defenders to pay for the increased cost of defense."

The VA proposed last week that a veteran's word no longer be accepted as proof he could not afford hospital care.

The plan, subject to approval by the budget office, would require veterans to reveal their financial status, and would deny free care to patients with family incomes more than $15,000.

Cleland said older veterans would be hit hardest.

"There's more demand for medical care now, particularly from World War II veterans, than there has ever been," he said.

●

Fallaci

CHICAGO (AP) — Italian journalist Oriana Fallaci says she would have killed Libyan dictator Moammar Khadafy during a meeting with him "if I had had the guts to do it."

In an interview in the November issue of Playboy magazine, Miss Fallaci, known for spirited interviews with world leaders, said Khadafy "is clinically sick, mentally ill, a certifiable idiot," and described her encounter with him as "truly scary."

"He is a murderer," she said.

Miss Fallaci also called Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and the late Shah of Iran "opposite faces of the same coin," described Palestine Liberation Organization leader Yasser Arafat as a "phony" and said former U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger was "amoral." Asked about Kissinger's role in the Vietnam War, Miss Fallaci said: "Kissinger is beyond morality. The word would make him laugh."

●

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Ray Blanton, the former governor of Tennessee and a convicted felon, is nearly broke, according to his friends, and that is why he put many of his personal and political mementos on the auction block.

An embossed briefcase, state-seal cufflinks and personalized hard hats — used at groundbreakings — were sold as more than 200 people jammed a warehouse Saturday to bid on Blanton's goods. The total amount realized from the sale was not immediately available.

Harris

DETROIT (AP) — Actor Richard Harris, 47, has been moved from cardiac care to a regular room at Henry Ford Hospital and will remain there "at least" through today and could be back onstage this week, spokeswoman Patty McCarthy said.

Harris was admitted Friday night after he complained of chest pains during the intermission of "Camelot" at the Masonic Temple theater. His understudy, William Parry, replaced him in the musical's lead role of King Arthur.

His condition was described as good and Ms. McCarthy said doctors were awaiting test results, but she did not give further details.

'Miss Gay' crowned

A 28-year-old Detroit man was crowned Miss Gay America Saturday night in the 10th annual pageant for men who wear women's clothing. Jennifer Fox, hugging his mother following the pageant, was crowned by 1980 winner Lady Shaw of Dallas. Judges in the pageant, held this year at the Dallas Convention Center, evaluate how well each contestant "makes the transformation from looking, acting, dressing and thinking like a male to the looking like a female," said Norman Jones, owner of Norman Kristie Inc., which sponsored the contest.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Carcinogens found in smoke

Dear Dr. Solomon: Is there anything specific in cigarette smoke that may cause lung cancer? — Miss S.I., Rye, N.Y.

Dear Miss S.I.: A number of chemical agents have been found that are capable of causing cancer; and a number of others (known as co-carcinogens) which assist the action of cancer-causing chemicals. Skin cancer has been produced experimentally in animals with chemicals found in cigarette smoke.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My father used to suffer from kidney stones, and I'm wondering if it runs in the family. Is the condition inherited? — Joe, Waynesboro, Va.

Dear Joe: There does not appear to be a genetic factor in the development of kidney stones, at least according to Dr. David N. Churchill and his associates at Memorial University of Newfoundland Faculty of Medicine.

On the basis of a questionnaire, Dr. Churchill found that almost 40 percent of the people with kidney stones whom he identified had first-degree relatives who also had the condition. On the other hand, only 20 percent of those who did not have kidney stones had first-degree relatives who did.

Dear Dr. Solomon: On the advice of my pediatrician, I have been taking my 10-year-old son to a counselor for the past two months. My son tells me all he does is sit there because he has nothing to say. Do you see any point to continuing the treatment? — Mrs. D.P., Hutchinson, Kan. Dear Mrs. P.: Silence on the part of a child early in treatment is no reason to terminate the treatment; in fact, it's a form of therapy. Many such children eventually do respond. What I'm wondering is whether you have the opportunity to speak with the therapist or a social worker so that you can raise these concerns. The mother of a 10-year-old child should not be excluded from the treatment process.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Lately when I come home from work at night, my wife starts telling me about the terrible things our 9-year-old son did during the day — he can't sit still, he fights, he's too active, he can't concentrate, etc. Personally, I don't see this. I work hard all day and when I come home I just want to relax.

If my son needs help, I want him to get it. But I don't know whether he needs the help or my wife. Do you have any suggestions? — Steve, Modesto, Calif.

Dear Steve: It is possible, of course, that your son is behaving like any normal 9-year-old boy, and that your wife simply has a low tolerance for such activity. It is also possible, however, that your son is hyperactive and might profit from treatment.

Rather than let the situation deteriorate, why not make an appointment with your pediatrician to see your son? Regardless of the findings, you and your wife will at least be in a better position to decide on what action is indicated — treatment for your son, counseling for your wife, or some greater involvement on your part in the family's daily activities.

Alamo YMCA registering for fall swimming classes

Alamo YMCA is taking registration for fall swimming classes now in progress. Classes will run in four week sessions meeting two times each week.

The Y youth program will include the following classes: progressive swim, 6 and older, on Tuesday and Thursday at 3:45 p.m. for beginner and at 4:45 p.m. for advanced beginner, intermediate and advanced; pre-school program, 3-5, on Monday and Wednesday or Tuesday and Thursday at 9 a.m. and 9:45 p.m. and Monday and Wednesday at 12:45 p.m. for beginner and advanced beginner; parents and tots, 3 months - 3 years, on Tuesday and Thursday at 6:30-7 p.m. for beginner (children enrolled in this program must be accompanied by a parent).

Adult swimming classes include levels of beginner through advanced. There will be some emphasis place on exercise in and out of the water. Individualized attention will be given to those who have absolutely no knowledge of swimming.

Adult swimming classes will meet on Tuesday and Thursday from 7:15 to 8:15 p.m. The evening swimming lessons are for men and women who wish to learn how to swim and those who already know how, but would like to improve their strokes and build endurance.

It is not necessary to be a member of the Y to participate in any of the swimming classes, use the pool for lap or open swim or rent the pool for a splash party. However, there is an admittance fee for non-members. The nursery will be open during all swimming classes. Church groups, organizations and school activities are welcome to the pool whenver times are available.

The Alamo Y welcomes all Midland youth to be a part of the swim team. Practice time will be at 6-7 p.m. Monday and Wednesday and at 10-11:30 a.m. Saturday. A Y membership is required to be on the swim team.

The over 50 group will meet at 11 a.m. on Monday and Wenesday for water relaxation and enjoyment. There will be a certified guard on duty at all times.

Enrollment record set

ODESSA — Fall enrollment at The University of Texas of the Permian Basin reached a record high as 1,640 students registered for the current fall semester.

Director of Admissions Robert Warmann said the new enrollment record is about 4 percent above last fall's figure of 1,581 and exceeds the previous record of 1,601 in 1979 by some 39 students.

He noted a breakdown in the enrollment figures shows the number of part-time students at 1,138 and full-time students at 502 with the average course load standing at eight hours per student. Warmann attributes much of the increase in enrollment to the increasing needs of business and industry in the Permian Basin.

"The largest increases occurred in the master of business administration and earth sciences programs. Many of these are students who already work in business and industry and are taking classes part time," he said.

Enrollment at UTPB is open to junior, senior and graduate students who have completed at least two years of college-level work at a community or other university.

Solidarity's compromise called unforgiveable mistake

AP Laserphoto

Polish labor leader Lech Walesa, left, speaks with Gen. Boruta-Spichowicz after the general addressed the second day's session of the Solidarity congress in Gdansk, Poland, Sunday. Walesa defended Solidarity leaders in a denunciation of the internal feuding over a new compromise lawon workers' rights.

By THOMAS W. NETTER
Associated Press Writer

GDANSK, Poland (AP) — Solidarity leader Lech Walesa's angry defense of a proposed compromise with the government on the new worker-management law failed to silence critics at the union's congress.

Andrzej Gwiazda, the independent labor federation's second in command, told the congress session Sunday the resolution drafted by Walesa and three other Solidarity leaders for approval by the congress was "an unforgivable mistake."

"The people who made the decision forgot that they are representing 10 million workers," he declared.

Delegate Edward Nowak said the compromise resolution was "a disaster for the union and the whole society." Jan Rulewski, a member of Solidarity's presidium, said: "Agreeing to a compromise in this situation doesn't make sense."

Only four of the 11 presidium members attended the meeting last Tuesday at which they agreed on a resolution calling for the government to continue to appoint the managers of industries and businesses but with the union to have a veto.

This was in line with a worker-management law adopted Friday by the Sejm, the Polish parliament. But the first part of the Solidarity congress two weeks ago adopted a resolution calling for the workers to name their managers and make production decisions. The resolution demanded a national referendum to choose between that plan and the government's plan for limited worker-management.

The watered-down resolution was drafted after a harsh Soviet attack on Solidarity and a government warning implying that the union was courting Soviet occupation of Poland.

Congress sources said Walesa might threaten to resign if the congress did not approve the compromise.

"Don't treat me as a stupid guy who is led around by our experts!" Walesa shouted to his critics, referring to reports that dissident leader Jacek Kuron convinced him and his associates to modify the union's demands.

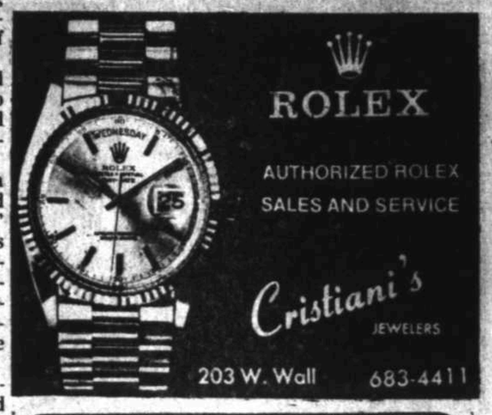

"We have got self-management now and we will be able to choose our own (factory) directors," he asserted. "If anyone wants to try not to give me the director I want, let him."

The law passed Friday provides for consultation with the workers before the appointment of managers of most factories. But certain defense industries and public utilities are excluded.

Walesa was interrupted several times by applause. But more than half the 890 delegates voted for a resolution demanding an explanation of why seven of the 11 presidium members were absent from the meeting at which the compromise resolution was drafted.

Bush urges governors to have faith in economic programs

By MARC CHARNEY
Associated Press Writer

DORADO, Puerto Rico (AP) — Vice President George Bush urged southern governors today to have faith in President Reagan's economic program despite growing criticism. He pointed to oil decontrol as an example of a Reagan program that proved skeptics wrong.

"We understand the concern," Bush said in remarks prepared for delivery to the opening of the annual meeting of the Southern Governors Association. "We're willing and we're eager to listen to it...but frankly we think some of the criticism we've heard is all out of proportion to the reality.

"Those who have already jumped all over the president's program for not having worked neglect to point out that it hasn't even gone into effect yet."

Bush noted that "when the president signed the executive order last January to decontrol the price of crude oil, a lot of people were convinced that all it was going to do was drive the price of oil throught the roof...

"But what's happened? In July, the price of gas was the same as it was in February. The world markets are awash in oil. And when OPEC held its meetings, it's no longer able to push through those enormous price hikes of oil."

Bush said U.S. oil production has risen by 217,000 barrels per day since August, 1980, and that oil imports have declined from 6.6 million barrels a day to 5.5 million barrels.

"The energy producers in your states were able to sink more wells, find more oil, create more revenue," he added, touching a theme the southern governors are stressing at this meeting.

Ten governors of southern states, plus those from Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, are expected to attend the three-day conference at the luxurious Cerromar Beach hotel in Dorado, on the coast about 25 miles west of San Juan. Much of the agenda focuses on ways to develop and profit from the southern energy resources, including coal, oil and natural gas.

Bush also said U.S. inflation has declined from 12.4 percent to 9.6 percent on an annual basis since January, which he called "a good start."

"Inflation is the greatest economic enemy at large," he said, "and until the deficits are reduced, interest rates are going to remain high, and so will inflation.

"Contrary to rumor, Uncle Sam hasn't turned into Uncle Scrooge. He's alive and well and coping."

William P. Osborne, executive director of the group, said the governors of Delaware, Arkansas, Florida, Louisiana, Missouri, North Carolina, Virginia, Texas, South Carolina and Mississippi would represent the southern states at the conference.

In addition to energy, the governors are expected to focus on Haitian migration to Florida, radioactive waste management and President Reagan's budget cuts.

Prosecutor said retrial of Layton depends on appeals

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Prosecutors are deciding whether to retry former Peoples Temple member Larry Layton after jurors deadlocked on murder-conspiracy charges against him, forcing a mistrial.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Alan Sobol, who called the first of two deadlock announcements "a bolt out of the blue," says successful appeals of evidentiary rulings would increase the likelihood of a retrial.

"Conspiracy is pretty difficult to prove or disprove, as is aiding and abetting," jury foreman Godfrey Powers told the Associated Press on Sunday. "When you're trying to assess a conspiracy count, you almost have to put yourself in the mind of the defendant, and it's a very difficult thing to do."

Jurors first announced the deadlock Friday, then confirmed they were unable to reach verdicts after another attempt Saturday.

The vote, according to Powers, was 11-1 for acquittal on two charges of conspiring to murder Rep. Leo Ryan, D-Calif., and American diplomat Richard Dwyer, and 7-5 to convict on the counts of aiding and abetting the attacks on them during a Nov. 18, 1978 airstrip ambush outside the cult's Jonestown, Guyana settlement.

Ryan, two journalists and a cult defector were killed and Dwyer was wounded. Hours later, the Rev. Jim Jones led 912 cult members in a mass murder-suicide.

"This case should have never been tried," defense lawyer Tony Tamburello said Saturday after federal Judge Robert Peckham declared the mistrial that ended 44 hours of deliberations over eight days.

Saying the prosecution's three-week presentation was weak, Layton's lawyers rested their case without presenting a defense.

The final deadlock stunned government lawyers, who said they would decide this week whether to try Layton again. A hearing was set for Thursday to consider prosecution motions on the matter.

Tamburello said he would ask bail for Layton, who "was not responsible for killing Leo Ryan or the attempted murder of Mr. Dwyer. A lot of people involved in Jonestown got out alive, and nothing has been done to them. It's appalling."

The prosecutors claim Layton plotted with Jones to kill Ryan just before Layton boarded a truck for the Port Kaituma airstrip.

Powers, who described Layton as "poker-faced" throughout the trial, said jurors "pretty well agreed he was not a leader. He was more of a follower. He was close to Jim Jones, but as to whether he was part of the so-called hierarchy, we didn't think so."

Tamburello, who celebrated the mistrial with champagne at his San Francisco offices Saturday night, said he and Assistant U.S. Public Defender Frank Bell would mount Layton's next defense, if need be.

Meeting determines relations

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — A meeting today between Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko could determine whether U.S.-Soviet relations can be improved, U.S. officials say.

Among other things, Haig and Gromyko at their second meeting will try to define the scope of the arms control talks between the two superpowers opening Nov. 30 in Geneva, a U.S. official who didn't want to be identified reported.

Haig and Gromyko met for the first time Wednesday in the highest-level contact so far between the Reagan administration and the Soviet leadership.

Although they agreed on a date to begin the arms negotiations, the U.S. official said differences clearly remained over the scope of the talks. The United States wants to focus at the start on medium-range U.S. and Soviet nuclear missiles in Europe, while the Soviets want to include other nuclear weapons, such as nuclear-armed U.S. aircraft in Europe.

DEATHS

Fred B. Tyler

Services for longtime community leader and Texas Chamber of Commerce official Fred B. Tyler, 61, of Midland were to be at 1 p.m. today at the First Presbyterian Church with Dr. Robert B. Smith and Dr. Ray Riddle officiating. Burial was to be in the Resthaven North Mausoleum, directed by Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home.

Tyler died Saturday at the family's lake home in Granite Shoals near Burnet after suffering an apparent heart attack.

Born in Brookline, Mass., Aug. 28, 1920, Tyler was a B-17 bomber pilot in the U.S. Army Air Corps during World War II and spent most of his adult life in chamber of commerce work across the country, coming to the Midland chamber as executive vice president in 1965.

He went to Choate Preparatory School near Boston and was a graduate of Nichols College in Dudley, Mass. He attended several U.S. Chamber of Commerce institutes, including those at Yale University, Syracuse University, Texas Christian University and the University of Colorado in Boulder.

His work history includes having been a staff member of the Cincinnati, Ohio, Chamber of Commerce; the Butler, Pa., Chamber of Commerce; the Orange, N.J., Chamber of Commerce; and the Lockport, N.Y., Chamber of Commerce, where he served 10 years as its executive vice president.

He was industrial manager for the Cincinnati Chamber; president of Pennsylvania State Chamber Managers; and president of the West Texas Chamber Managers, which is now known as the Texas Chamber of Commerce Executive Association. At the time of death he was president of the TCCEA, having been elected to that post in July of this year.

Tyler was certified as an industrial developer in 1971 by the American Industrial Development Council. He received Manager of the Year award for outstanding leadership in 1975 and also garnered a 25-year service award from the TCCEA.

He was a member of the Midland Rotary Club and the First Presbyterian Church of Midland.

Survivors include his wife, Marjorie Tyler of Midland; two daughters, Nancy Coles of Troy, Mich., and Marcia Smith of Enid, Okla.; two brothers, Philip Tyler of Nakonis, Fla., and Roger B. Tyler of Walnut Creek, Calif.; four grandchildren and a number of nieces and nephews.

Pallbearers were to be Grant Billingsley, Winston Barclay, George Baumgartner, Jack Mogle, Rocky Ford, Joe Kloesel, Charles Priddy and John Logan of Lubbock.

Honorary pallbearers were to be Grady Elder of San Angelo, Don Hileman of Amarillo, Doug Henson, Bill Collyns, Harold Halsey, Bill Ortloff, Art Roberts of Odessa, Glen Davis of Corpus Christi, Harrell Feldt, all Chamber of Commerce executives of Texas and all past presidents of the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

The family requests that memorials be directed to the Fred Tyler Memorial Deacon's Fund of the First Presbyterian Church of Midland.

Jim Salners is new president of MCT board

By GEORGIA TEMPLE
Staff Writer

Jim Salners was named the new president of the Board of Governors of Midland Community Theatre at the theater's annual meeting held Sunday at the Yucca Theatre.

Salners, who was vice-president in charge of production, replaced William Morrow, who has completed his term.

Salners spoke of the future to the members and interested parties present. However, in speaking of the future, he first recounted the past year.

"Last September when we met we needed $1.2 to pay off the theater (Theatre Midland)," move to the Yucca, replenish the endowment fund and keep the operating budget in balance. "The money was raised, thanks to Bill Morrow," Salners added.

This year, he said, "Our money problems are a lot easier, but we still have a lot to do."

His major goals for 1981-82 are encouraging involvement in MCT, increasing volunteers and raising memberships.

He wants MCT to develop "one of the finest theater programs for students in the country from first grade through the second year of college."

He elaborated on the fine job volunteers have done at MCT, explaining that it takes 63 production volunteers (not counting those onstage) to put on an average show. When compared with a professional theater, the minimum financial contribution these 63 volunteers make per average show (a musical is almost twice as expensive) is approximately $16,000.

The financial contribution made by those onstage, according to Salners, amounted to $9,250. His figure was based on minimum wage for enough thespians for an average production.

When both figures are multiplied by five, which was the amount of season shows in Theatre I, the yearly figure was a little over $125,000. This does not include Theatre II, the Summer Mummers or events sponsored by the theater's auxiliary group, Act IX.

Last year's membership brought in 34 percent ($158,000) of the operating income, Salners said. It needs to bring in 50 percent, he said, adding that the projected operating expense for 1981 is approximately $500,000.

MCT is "the most inexpensive form of entertainment per show in town," Salners said.

Other business attended to included announcing the 1982 season, reports from various committees and the bestowing of the annual Hamhock Award.

Recommendations for the 1981 Theatre I season are, in order of performance, "Peter Pan," "Sly Fox," "Whose Life Is It Anyway?" "Jesus Christ Superstar," "Deathtrap" and "Barefoot In The Park."

Planned for Theatre II are, also in order of performance, "Tally's Folly," "School For Scandal" and another play to be selected later. This may be an original script, a Pulitizer Prize winner or the newest play from Broadway or London.

A change in membership requirements went into effect for the new season. As committee member Mike McLaren explained, "A single membership will no longer be restricted to singles."

A single membership, depending upon whether it is restriced or not, will cost from $20 to $30. The regular family rate for an unrestricted membership will be $50.

The Hamhock of the Year Award, which is given to the backstage volunteer who has contributed the most during the past season, went to John Moffitt. The award was presented by Mary Lou Cassidy, who said beforeannouncing the winner, "He has been in every moving musical done since 1963, chaired the bar" and had the dubious honor of mopping up the lobby at the Yucca when the plumbing broke.

In accepting the honor Moffitt said, "I've enjoyed every moment down here. That's beautiful (referring to the trophy). Thank you very much."

On his way back to his seat, Moffitt was stopped by a friend who wanted to see the trophy. Moffitt said when he showed it to him, "Well, that's an Oscar, or one like it."

Canadian court to rule in battle over constitution

OTTAWA (AP) — The Canadian Supreme Court rules today on a key issue in Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's battle with the provinces over a Canadian constitution. But more political wrangling is likely no matter how the court rules.

At issue is whether the federal government can ask the British Parliament to transfer the constitution to Canada with amendments affecting provincial powers if all 10 provinces do not approve the changes.

Both sides agree there is no law that requires provincial consent for constitutional change. But eight provinces claim there is an unwritten convention developed over the years that requires Ottawa to seek provincial consent. No constitutional changes have ever been made without such provincial agreement.

The ruling by the nine justices, six of them appointed by Trudeau, comes almost five months after the high court heard arguments by the federal government and eight provinces. Two others, Ontario and New Brunswick, support the federal plan.

While most Canadians will have a chance to watch Chief Justice Bora Laskin deliver the historic decision in a nationally broadcast session, Trudeau will hear it only second hand. He is visiting South Korea on a trip his office said was impossible to cancel.

The court battle is a high point in a political squabble that has been brewing for years between successive Ottawa governments and the provincial regimes over a Canadian constitution.

Canada's only existing constitution is the British North America Act, a document drafted by the British Parliament.

Trudeau wants the act brought home, or patriated, to Canada as the Canada Act, a move requiring the consent of the British Parliament. He also wants it amended by the British Parliament to include a sweeping charter of human and civil rights binding on the federal and provincial governments.

Trudeau also said he would impose a formula for amending the new constitution which most provincial governments said they would not accept.

The extension of a package of federal rights laws over the provinces drew battle cries from the eight provincial governments.

Last October, Trudeau announced that after 56 years of fruitless attempts to gain provincial agreement on a constitutional agreement, the federal government was going on alone.

Following the disaster exercise, Texas State Guard members stand at ease as they listen to a critique of the day's training.

Midland maneuvers

What might have seemed a typical Sunday afternoon to most Midlanders was in fact the backdrop to a simulated disaster exercise for the Texas State Guard.

About 40 members of the TSG, Midland civil defense and military observers underwent a mock hazardous material spill in northeast Midland. The exercise, from 1 to 5 p.m., was part of the TSG's yearly training exercises in a disaster situation. The simulated spill was designed to enable the volunteers from Midland. Big Spring, Andrews and Monahans to enhance their training and test their reaction to emergency situations.

Major A.G. Adair, commander of the 403rd Military Police Battalion of the Texas State Guard, headed the procedure which began in the Midland National Guard Armory on Lamesa Road.

There was an almost eerie atmosphere inside the armory as Adair briefed the guard about the simulated exercise.

As he explained the situation, one might have thought that the pretense had become a true horror that could possibly happen in the West Texas area where countless materials are necessary in the petroleum industry.

Major A.G. Adair, left, discusses strategy at a checkpoint. Company leaders reported all actions to Adair in the search and rescue operation.

"A railroad tank car loaded with Nitrogen Tetroxide, a poisonious gas, has de-railed and is on its side," Adair began. "The spill of approximately 200 square feet is on the ground."

It was assumed that Midlanders in this area were in grave danger. Crowds were thought to be gathering at the site and the possibilty of an explosion from escaping fumes set the scene for the TSG to begin their duties.

The military forces were titled companies A, B, C, and E. Midland Civil Defense Director Bob Edgerton directed operations from an Emergency Operations Center. He called out the Department of Public Safety units, Midland County Sheriff, Police Department, Fire Deparment and Emergency Medical Service units and requested communications services from Midland Amateur Radio club.

The drill began.

The companies, garbed in drab-green military fatigues and decked with caps and combat boots, set out to control traffic and crowds at all intersections in a perimeter around the assumed spill.

Residents in the area watched curiously as the TSG stationed assigned checkpoints to seal off the area surrounding Lee Freshman High School. Although public movement was not interfered with directly, the guard's manuevers caused on-lookers to gawk from their vehicles as they creeped along Pecan, Oak, North Tyler, Hemlock, North Benton and Lincoln streets, watching what appeared to be an invasion of military personnel.

The first phase of the exercise was to secure the area, set up a first aid station and perform a search and rescue procedure. Codes names of zebra, antelope, beaver and such sounded over the high band and CB radios from various locations and reports of "area secured" and "search and rescue operation accomplished" crackled through the air waves.

Every 15 minutes the communications headquarters, stationed at the armory, announced the radio conversations were part of a simulated disaster exercise.

The sight of the guard directing traffic, holding walkie-talkies, became routine. And then the first simulated incident occurred.

"Abandoned car at Lincoln and Hemlock — possible gas leakage could cause explosion," a voice blared over the car radio.

Adair quickly sped to the scene to check the intersection.

"Abandoned car is old accident — no danger present," he replied in an official voice.

Adair explained in an actual situation the occupants in this area would be advised to evacuate to the first aid station which was stationed at Tolbert Park on Butternut Lane. He added the area, by this time, would have been throughouly searched and persons brought to the aid station would have been transported to the hospital.

"We couldn't force anyone to leave their homes," he added, "but we could prevent them from entering the sealed area."

Once again, the situation calmed. Then, an actual incident occurred. One of the company's radio failed. Adair alerted central communications and proceeded to give aid to the company.

"Again, if this had been the real thing, the radio equipment would be replaced or repaired immediately," Adair commented.

The time was approaching 3:15 p.m. The exercise had been running smoothly with little effort or decision- making, but Adair had planned a surprise episode that would test the guard's ability to make quick decisions.

Each company had a packet of material with maps, information and a sealed envelope. The envelope had instructions typed on it: "open only on command." Adair issued the order to open the envelope to all units. In the meantime, he ignited a smoke bomb on the grounds of Lee school. The orders in the envelope stated, "You are on your own. Command and train your personnnel along the following lines: CD 1 has warned that tank is expected to rupture."

The orders were designed to have each company take alternative action and evacuate the population one block further. The first aid station would also relocate to Hickory and North Tyler. The orders were carried out quickly and smoothly.

The setting was becoming increasingly life-like. What would happen next?

"We've got a victim down, apparent smoke inhalation — repeat location of first aid station," a voice squawked.

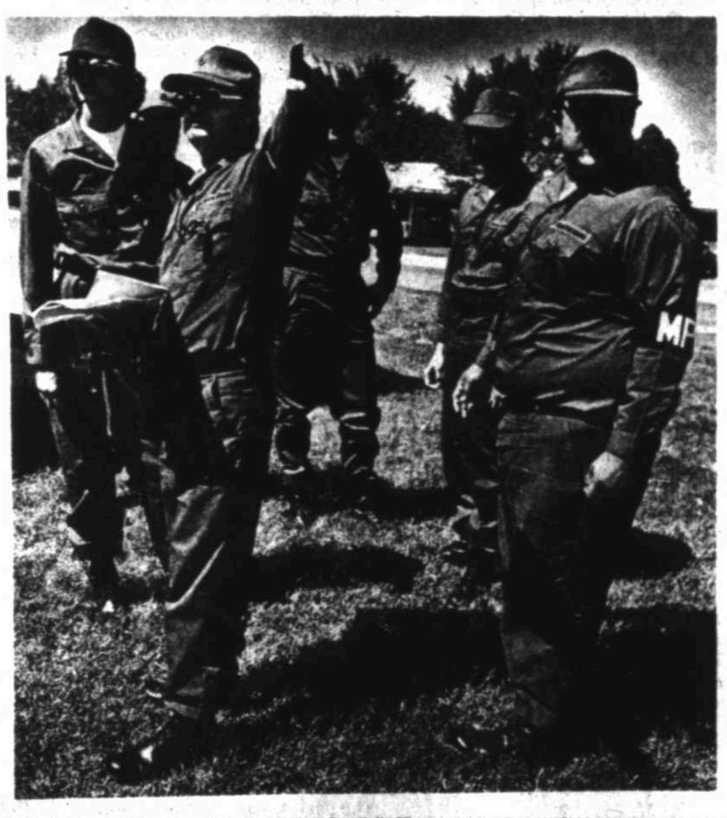

"Another victim down," screamed another voice.

Search and rescue procedures began; the victims were located and transported to the first aid station.

With all companies in their new designated areas, the mission was accomplished. The simulation was ordered to a halt and all personnel were instructed to return to the armory.

By this time the near-four hours of training in heat of the day, left the TSG withered and limp, but they promptly came to attention as Brig. Gen. Roland B. Harris, deputy commander of TSG, critiqued the overall operation. He termed the exercise a success, with warm compliments to the participants.

General Roland Harris, deputy commander of the TSG, in light shirt, discusses additional orders with Company E, while Major A.G. Adair, at right in photo above, listens to plan the next step in a search and rescue operation. At right, members of Company B plan their tactics to seal off an area of northeast Midland. Each company was stationed at checkpoints for crowd and traffic control. Phil Dolbow of Midland, below, a "victim" of smoke inhalation, is carried to a van used an an ambulance. Companies were instructed to search for and rescue casualties and immediately transport them to the first aid station.

The 20-member committee has set up activities running from Friday through Sunday, Oct. 4, welcoming parents to the campus.

Major activities will include a reception for parents hosted by TCU Chancellor William E. Tucker and faculty members, a special reception for parents who are TCU alumni and a Saturday afternoon barbecue, pep rally and parade preceding the evening football game with the University of Arkansas.

Theme for the weekend is "Somewhere Over the Rainbow...Follow the Yellow Brick Road to TCU."

...MRS. A. L. GIFFORD, 1801 Ward, has attained Life Master rank, highest awarded by ACBL, reports Richard L. Goldberg, executive secretary of the American Contract Bridge League, who said the award has been won by only 32,000 among the millions who play bridge. The rank was established in 1935.

Goldberg explained that Life Master rank is awarded players who accumulate 300 master point awards for success in bridge play, with at least 50 won in demanding regional or continentally ranked championship competitions. The number of points awarded winners is related to the size and caliber of the competitive field.

Each new Life Master is presented with a Gold Card to symbolize the highest rank recognized by the ACBL, the organization which establishes rules of play and ethical standards for bridge and sponsors tournaments and play throughout North America...

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Shush squeaky shoes

DEAR HELOISE:

Please help! What can take the squeak out of shoes? It's hard to throw away shoes that squeak, especially if they are practically new. — An Indianapolis Fan

+ + +

Nothing like letting the world know you're coming long before you get there, right?

Well, try dusting a little powder in your shoes before you wear them, and then again when you've taken them off, to help absorb moisture. Many times, it's the moisture that is causing the leather to revolt.

If that doesn't quiet them down, place a couple of thumbtacks on each side of the metal arch support on the sole of the shoe.

Still no luck? The third try is always the winner,.. so now it's time to take them to a shoe repairman. He'll remove the heel or sole of the shoe (whichever is causing the squeak) and glue a piece of fabric between the two pieces of leather to keep them from binding and causing the squeak.

Sure hope this quiets things down at your house. — Heloise

GIFT WRAPPING

Dear Heloise: I keep gift wrap on hand rather than buying for each occasion, so I never seem to have a matching enclosure card.

My solution is to always have rubber cement and plain white file cards in the house.

Choose a design from one of the scraps of paper after wrapping the gift, such as "Happy Birthday" or a prominent flower or character.

Cut around it leaving a margin. Glue it to the card with rubber cement. Any smears will rub right off.

Fold the card in half, or cut around the design and write your personal note on the back or inside. — Diane Lagow

RECIPES

Dear Heloise: As a novice cook, I'm always cutting interesting recipes from newspapers, but I never know how to keep them in good shape.

Gluing them onto cards was messy and occasionally the printing on the back side showed through.

Using your hint to cover recipe cards with clear adhesive-backed plastic gave me the idea of covering the clippings the same way.

By placing a torn-out recipe between two sticky sheets, I had a durable recipe card that wipes clean. I just trim it down to size.

Neat! — Judy Robinson

MESSY MADE NEAT

Dear Heloise: If you hate the mess of buttering a pan, place your hand in a plastic sandwich bag (like a glove) holding the butter on the outside of the bag.

Butter the pan and, when you're through, just pull the piece of butter inside the bag, turning the bag inside out.

Store in the refrigerator until needed again. — Rebecca Watkins

TESTING 1, 2, 3

Dear Heloise: I've found it best to test the warmth of baby's bottle on the inside of the elbow rather than the wrist.

The wrist is not sensitive enough to accurately determine the warmth of the bottle as hands are in and out of hot water several times a day, what with dishwashing, etc.

It might be a little more of a bother to roll up your sleeve, but it's worth it to insure the safety of that little one. — Beverly Craig

Hey all you clever moms, send your favorite raising-baby hint to Heloise, P.O. Box 32000, San Antonio, Tx. 78216. She can't answer your letter personally but, sure as that dimpled darlin' is the apple of your eye, she'll share the best tips received with her readers.

DEAR ABBY

She has it all, but needs more

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please help me. My laundry basket, piled high with unironed clothes, is staring me in the face. Dishes for the last two days are still unwashed and sitting in my sink. My apartment needs a good cleaning. I am overweight, yet I continue to stuff myself with more ice cream, cookies and sweets than I really want. I'm so depressed I could cry! I'm 26, divorced and raising my 8-year-old son myself. I have a good secretarial job, a nice car and a nice apartment. So why do I lack motivation and feel like (bleep) most of the time?

My friends would never understand; they think I have everything I could possibly want. My parents stopped listening to me years ago. Why is it that the only guys I like are either committed to somebody else or they don't like me? Why do I just want to stay in bed all day when the weekend comes? Why do I go out and buy new clothes when I'm feeling down?

I'm a terrific friend. I'm always doing something for others, but never do anything for myself. Maybe it's because I was raised by a mother who found fault with everything I did and a father who told me I would never amount to anything. Abby, am I going crazy or what? I've considered getting professional help, but I can't afford it. I've even considered committing suicide, but my son needs me. Thanks for listening. — TIRED OF LIVING AT 26

DEAR TIRED: Your letter is a classic cry for help. First, please see your PHYSICIAN. Your lack of motivation, feelings of depression and frequent binging on sweets are symptoms of poor physical health. If you are physically fit, you should definitely seek psychotherapy. Don't say you can't afford it. You can't afford NOT to have it.

Your local mental health clinic exists for people who are "tired of living and feel like (bleep)." And it charges only what one can afford to pay. Please don't wait another day. You sound like a generous, warmhearted, intelligent woman with some deep-rooted festering problems to resolve. Please get the help you need, then write again and tell me of your progress. I care.

DEAR ABBY: A few years ago, I read that pigs make good pets. They're supposed to be cleaner, smarter and more easily trained than dogs. I also heard they're gentle with children and make good watchdogs. (Watchpigs?)

Can you confirm this? Anything you can tell me about pigs as pets will be appreciated. We have a nice house with a large backyard. — ROB IN AURORA, ONTARIO

DEAR ROB: I am advised that pigs make wonderful pets. They are highly intelligent, easy to train and, believe it or not, among the cleanest animals around! They're gentle with children and quite lovable. ("Miss Piggy" has done a great deal for the pig's image.)

However, little pigs grow to be big hogs, so if you're considering acquiring one as a pet, first find out if it's kosher to keep one where you live.

DEAR ABBY: My husband had surgery recently, and while he was still out of it, some relatives he rarely sees came to the hospital to visit him.

Abby, please tell your readers that the last thing a person needs or wants when he's had surgery is company!

I've had surgery, and I know what it's like to have some idiot come in, sit by your bed and talk to you all afternoon because of the mistaken notion that you need "cheering up."

I have even seen rooms with "No Visitors" signs on the doors, but little groups of people "sneak in" for a few minutes because they think they are "special."

All a patient needs is to be left alone. — HAD MY SAY IN N.Y.

DEAR HAD: Your letter will do more for some post-surgical patients than a "No Visitors" sign. Thanks for writing.

To Murray Hudson, everybody counts

By DAVID TOMLIN
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBIA, SC. (AP) — To Mrray B. Hudson, everybody counts for something, and most people count for several things. Once for being born. Aain for getting married. Most of all for dying.

"The dead teach the living," translates Hudson from the Latin mxim that summarizesmuch of what he does.

Hudson is director of the state Office of Vital Records and Public Heath Statistics. He's the state's head hed counter.

With his 48 minions and a roomful of computer hardware, Hudson methodically ticks off and stores away the documentary evidence oflife's agonies and ecstacies.

He counts births, marriages, stillbirths, divorces, annulments, abotions and deaths.

But counting is only the beginning of Hudson's job. He holds a master's degree in public health, and a major purpose of his office is to use the raw data it collects to help improve the qality of life in the sate.

"This is the bookkeeping of public health," Hudson says. "These statistics measure the effectiveness of pubic health programs. They help answer the question, 'What's the score? What do we do next?'"

For example, who died of heart attacks lat year? Where did they live? What kind of work did they do? Who were their parents? Did they have other health problems?

Hudson's office can field questions like these, and it can help other state agencies or researchers develop ways to use computers to interpret and learn from the answers.

"That's part of our purpose," he says. "Notto sit on the data but to see that it's used for the public good. For example, it's inconceivable to think how a maternity and child care program could operate without a vital statistics program."

Tha ort of prgram is important to South Carolina, Hudson points out, because of the state's high infant death rate. More than 20percent of all his office's statistical projects in the past fiscal year were in this area.

Other programs to promote nutrition or immunization or to control high blood pressure or diabetes look to Hudson's office for help in determining how they should proceed orhow well they're working.

But Hudson is also proud of the more routine servies his ofice provides, like quick production of birth and death certificates.

"South Carolina is renowned for the best birth certification system in the nation," he says.

Lose Weight And Never Feel Hungry With...

Safe Diet Pill...

Reports Nation's Largest News Magazine

Company Will Pay You $5.00 To Lose Weight And Test Pill.

By Robert E. Willner, M.D.

DATELINE MIAMI—"An exciting new way to quickly lose weight" has just been announced.

This new diet pill may very well prove to be the most important weight loss news of the century. In fact, it may be the fastest way to lose weight permanently without dangerous drugs or chemicals that has ever been developed.

Testing so far has produced staggering results—and it is totally possible for an extremely overweight person to lose as much as 2 pounds of fat and fluid everyday for the first week. It may even produce up to a 5 pound weight loss in just the first 48 hours! After the first week it should allow a continuous weight loss of as much as 12 pounds every two weeks thereafter. If necessary, a very overweight person could easily drop 55, 75, or even 100 pounds and more. Of course, weight loss will vary from one individual to the next. If you only need to lose a few pounds; you also can greatly benefit.

In the first 24 to 48 hours you should be able to measure a sizeable difference in your waistline and in how your clothes fit you. Even if you faithfully did hundreds of sit-ups every morning or jogged 10 miles per day you still would not lose more weight and inches. You may lose as much as 4 or even 6 inches off your waistline in the first week. If you are a woman, you can lose a total dress size in only a few short days.

The announcement of this fantastic diet pill was made in one of the nation's largest news magazines. The story went on to say, "An amazing new natural food supplement, helps you shed pounds fast by taking away your desire to eat" . . . "it contains a substance that acts on the brain's appetite center to switch off your hunger pangs" . . . "this new diet pill has been tested and found to be absolutely 'safe' by the Federal Food and Drug Administration."

You simply take three of these amazing diet pills three times a day before each meal and follow a specially selected diet program that allows you to eat a wide selection of tasty foods which are specially designed to maintain a high level of fat burn-off. The program will be based upon your own particular physiological needs and goal. The program that you will go on will be determined by your present size and the amount of weight that you want to lose. We will determine your specific program by the answers you give us on the questionnaire at right.

Dr. Harold Bursell, a top weight control specialist says this diet pill "is an exciting new way to quickly and safely lose weight. If you take it before a meal, you can eat as much as you want and still lose weight."

Dr. Raymond Calloway, Professor of Botany, University of Maryland, says "It's chock full of all the nutrients necessary to maintain good health."

Dr. Robert Picker, a specialist in micro-molecular medicine in Berkeley, California, says it "keeps your blood sugar at the proper level—so you don't get hunger pangs."

Dr. Lloyd Horton says, "I've used it on several hundred patients in the last three months: it really works, it's so perfect, it's unbelievable! When a patient goes on this, the first thing he notices is that he doesn't crave sweets. That's what happened with every single patient." I myself have used it and lost 21 pounds."

Overseas, top obesity expert Tomokichi Sakai, Professor of Physiology at the University of Eastern Japan, says he's had "dramatic" weight losses among 200 of his patients. He goes on to report "everyone lost weight..." For instance, "one woman who weighed 175 pounds now weighs 130–45 pounds melted away"...it's "an exciting approach to weight loss."

We are now conducting a nationwide test through this and other specially selected newspapers to determine just how effective this safe, new, natural diet pill is when used in the home. Once we have all the data collected, the product will then be made available in stores nationwide. This is where you can help us.

You see, a number of tests have already been conducted and the results have been tremendous, but the testing thus far has been confined to closely monitored groups. We want to know just how effective this new diet pill, that we call 'Naturalean 1000', is when used by people in their own home environment without professional supervision.

If you will help us with our testing, we will either give you a free 10-day supply of 'Naturalean 1000' or pay you five dollars. If you wish to participate in the test (and it is totally optional) simply check the box on the questionnaire for that purpose and with your order we will send you a survey that contains a list of questions and answers as well as space for comments for each day's results that you experience with the pills.

At the end of your test period, simply return the filled out survey to us and we will either send you a free 10-day supply of 'Naturalean 1000' or $5.00, whichever you prefer.

If you do not want to participate in the test, you may still order. Just don't check the test box on the questionnaire. Simply fill out the rest of the questionnaire and order as much or as little of 'Naturalean 1000' as you need.

Can you imagine how it must feel to drop up to 2 pounds a day and shrink your waistline up to 3 inches the first week? Well, new it's totally possible. This program and diet pill make it possible even for people who have been hopelessly overweight all of their lives, including those who need to lose 30 to 50 or 80 pounds or more.

If you want to lose weight and carve inches off your body here are results that are possible. (These figures, of course, represent overall weight loss and not spot reduction.)

- 9 inches off waistline
- 7 inches off hips
- 5 inches off buttocks
- 3 inches off stomach
- 5 inches off thighs

The amount of inches that you lose will, of course, depend upon how overweight you are to begin with.

Remember—you don't have to wait weeks for this fabulous diet program to work. It starts instantly! You can actually see the results in just a few days. This may well be the most effective fat-burning method ever developed. It is a 100% natural ingredient diet pill and a specially designed diet program that when used together produces what may prove to be the strongest, most effective and safest fat-burning method ever devised.

If you would like to participate in the test, simply fill out the questionnaire and send it to us with your order as indicated below. Check the test box on the questionnaire to receive the survey and it will come along with your order.

As soon as you receive your program, start it. Whether you participate in the test or not; if you don't lose up to 5 pounds in the first 48 hours and up to 12 pounds in the first week, if you are not 100% satisfied - for any reason whatsoever, - and do not agree that this is the most fantastic method to lose weight that you could ever hope to find, then simply send back the empty container. You may even keep the program for your trouble. We will then quickly and quietly return your entire payment to you. That's how confident we are that you will be totally happy. Only we can lose financially and you can only lose weight. You may, if you wish, even postdate your check by 30 days. The price is just $18.95 for a full 20-day supply. A 30-day supply is only $24.95 (a $5.00 savings), and finally, a 60-day supply is only $35.95 (this is a 30% savings). Whatever quantity you order you will of course also receive your specially designed diet program.

Go ahead and order a supply of 'Naturalean 1000'. Order as much or as little as you need. You can't lose money, only weight. Send in your check (which you may postdate up to 30 days) a money order or credit card number. Send in your order today and you will be losing weight before you know it. Orders are shipped within 72 hours after we receive them.

If you wish to receive your diet program even faster, simply use our toll-free number 1-800-453-9000. When the operator answers give her your name, address, credit card number, and the answers to questions 1-7. This is important to properly select the specific diet program that your individual needs require. Then tell her if you wish to participate in the test. Remember this is completely optional. Also for our records tell her you are ordering from department 125. Operators are standing by now to take your order.

Sincerely,

Robert E. Willner, M.D.

Unions help failing firms survive by accepting wage concessions

By MERRILL HARTSON
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — American union members, worried about pricing their bosses out of business and themselves out of jobs, increasingly are swallowing pay cuts or wage freezes.

Wayne Horvitz, former director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, says the combination of increasing business woes and the desire for job security is causing the unusual round of wage concessions.

"I think there's probably more of a long-term trend here than we give it credit for," he said.

The latest to accept a wage cut was the 20,000-person workforce of Pan American World Airways, which is struggling to stay solvent. Autoworkers and Teamsters are likely to accept lesser contracts in order to help their industries stay competitive.

"We call it the Chrysler syndrome, and we view it as a very serious threat," says Thomas Russow of the United Food and Commercial Workers. "There's got to be some assurances that if these concessions are made, we have some kind of job security.

"Unfortunately," he says, "everyone seems to be jumping on the bandwagon."

The trend is sure to please the Reagan administration, which believes that big wage settlements hinder the fight to tame inflation.

Since the auto and trucking contracts are the largest to be negotiated in 1982, wage concessions are sure to dominate the year's labor contracts.

Auto companies want the United Auto Workers to moderate its wage demands to help the Big Three manufacturers compete with the Japanese, which enjoy lower labor costs.

Nearly 120,000 truckers have been laid off because of rising non-union competition among freight haulers arising from deregulation of the industry.

The national trucking contracts do not expire until March 31, but Teamsters leaders have agreed to early negotiations on a new pact which be drawn to avoid further competitive erosion among the unionized firms.

No one expects the large auto and trucking contracts to cut as deeply as the new agreement Pan Am forged with its employes — a 10 percent pay cut. Airline spokesman James A. Arey said the wage concessions, which run through 1982, are expected to save Pan Am $200 million. Employes hope this will help Pan Am stay afloat.

The Pan Am situation is far from unique.

Members of more than a dozen unionized employees of Consolidated Rail Corp. have approved wage concessions in the range of $200 million to save the federally subsidized Conrail.

Leaders of the United Rubber Workers approved a concession in a contract involving employees at Goodyear Tire & Rubber's Topeka, Kan., plant, in which union members will work weekends without premium pay.

Several unions at the Philadelphia Bulletin accepted major contract concessions with management to pump new revenue into the afternoon newspaper, which is striving to remain afloat. And a new pact between Pulitzer Publishing Co. and 11 production and editorial unions at the St. Louis Post Dispatch includes an 18-month wage freeze.

Douglas Fraser, president of the UAW, expects his union "will seek a guaranteed right of employment" in its new contract with General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co., which have said they expect concessions similar to those the union granted to Chrysler Corp.

"I don't see it as being widespread," said John Zalusky of the AFL-CIO's economic research department. "If employees are sincerely convinced that a firm is in trouble ... workers will do that to protect their jobs." He said "management militancy" is responsible for part of the trend.

Ed Snyder, a spokesman for Ford, said, "I think the general consensus at Ford, if not the total auto industry, is that as profitability fell, wages did not fall. I think everyone realizes that this is not a cyclical thing we're going through."

Many miners jobless — after whirlpool

DELCAMBRE, La. (AP) — A tall man could wade across Lake Pieigneur before the bottom fell out; now the water is 1,300 feet deep. Once, the area produced 1.5 million tons of salt a year; now it yields 60,000 tons.

The courts are considering who's to blame, who should pay. But for most folks hereabouts, the geography changed Nov. 20, 1980, but not much else.

On that day, 1½-square-mile Lake Peigneur drained away in a powerful whirlpool. It was like pulling the plug in a bathtub, except that this drain rapidly enlarged.

The bottom fell out when an 80-foot-high shaft of the Diamond Crystal Salt Company mine beneath it collapsed. A Texaco oil drilling rig was in the lake, and either drilled into the shaft 1,300 feet below the surface or drilled near it and the shaft fell in.

Astonishly, there were no deaths. Crewmen left the rigs when it became clear something serious had happened below. And 60 miners rode slow elevators to safety from the 1,200-foot level.

Sea water rushed in along the Delcambre Canal from the Gulf of Mexico, refilling the lake. The adjacent fresh water marsh got saltier, and folks worried Jefferson Island — a mountain of salt in the marsh honeycombed by salt mine shafts — would fall in. It didn't.

There were some casualties: A nearby botanical garden closed because 70 acres of it was under water; two oil rigs and some barges were lost; Diamond Crystal can't get as much salt from the ground.

Two-hundred or so former salt miners are still out of work, and lawyer Ted Haik says many of them are likely to remain so.

Chester Archangel is one. He says he's lucky to be alive, and accepts that he's retired, ready or not, because he's 63. "Hardly a day passes that I don't think about the accident, because I think about how easily we could have been drowned," he said. "We just dropped everything. We had a long way to go to get out."

Pete Juneau of the state Department of Wildlife and Fisheries says people over-reacted to the collapse. "It locally and temporarily affected the area. The only difference now is that you have a big hole in the lake. In less than a month, those fish that were sucked into the hole were replenished by other fish in the marsh."

He says the added salt from seawater may cause problems in the fresh-water marsh. But he says salt levels are up all along the coast because of lack of rain.

Live Oak Gardens, the botanical attraction, is suing Diamond Crystal and Texaco, and now requires any visitors to release it from responsibilty for injuries.

TO THE REAL AND TRUE OWNERS OF PROPERTY ABUTTING UPON THE HEREINAFTER DESCRIBED AND DEFINED PORTIONS OF STREETS, AVENUES, AND/OR ALLEYS IN THE CITY OF MIDLAND, TEXAS, AND TO ALL OWNING OR CLAIMING ANY SUCH ABUTTING PROPERTY, OR ANY INTEREST THEREIN; AND TO ALL INTEREST IN ANY OF THE PROCEEDINGS, CONTRACT OR OTHER MATTERS HEREINAFTER MENTIONED

Notice is hereby given to the real and true owners of property abutting upon the hereinafter named streets, avenues, and/or alleys within the limits defined, in the City of Midland, Texas, and to all persons owning or claiming any interest therein, and to all railroads and all other claiming, or interested in, any of said property, or in any of the proceedings, contracts and matters herein mentioned, that:

The City of Midland, Texas, acting through its City Council by duly enacted Ordinance No. 5859 has determined the necessity for, and has ordered the permanent improvement of portions of various streets, avenues and/or alleys in the City of Midland, described and defined in the City Engineer's schedule of cost estimated, hereinafter set out in this notice, by raising, grading, filling, widening, permanently paving, or repaving same by the construction, reconstruction, repairing or realigning concrete curbs and gutters in the manner and where the City Engineer determined that adequate curbs and gutters are not now installed on proper grade and line, and by construction of such drains and incidentals and appurtenances as deemed necessary by said Engineer; said permanent paving to consists of an adequate asphaltic wearing surface upon a substantial caliche base, both of such type, construction, materials and thickness and is deemed adequate and proper by said City Engineer, all of such improvements to be constructed according to such specifications and standards as the City Engineer deems adequate and suitable, and to be constructed in the manner and as provided for in plans and specifications and the contract agreement, covering the construction of said improvements, now on file in the office of the City Secretary.

That said City Council, by said ordinance, has further determined the necessity of levying assessments for a portion of the costs of the construction of said improvements against the properties abutting upon said streets, avenues, and/or alleys within the limits of said improvements units hereinafter defined, and against the real and true owners thereof, and has adopted the proposed apportionment if costs hereinafter set out between the City and said abutting properties and their owners; that the portion with the Front Foot Rule or Plan, and said City Council has further adopted the following proposed rates, and estimates of said costs in reference to each of said streets, avenues, and/or alleys within the limits defined, and as set out in the following schedule to wit:

Each portion of said streets, avenues, and/or alleys as designated by unit number constitutes a separate and independent unit of said improvements and shall be improved, and the improvements constructed therein, separately and independent from each and every other improvement unit and assessments to be levied for said improvements in each unit shall be altogether separate, distinct and independent of sand from the assessments to be levied in every other improvement unit; and, in making and levying assessments against property abutting upon one of said unit, no matter or circumstance in connection with any other of said units shall be considered, or have any effect upon the other, all as fully, and to the extent, as if separate proceedings and contract had been had and executed with reference to the improvements to be made in each of said units.

A hearing will be given and held by and before the City Council of the City of Midland, Texas, in the Council Chamber of the City Hall in the City of Midland, Texas, on the 12th day of October, 1981, at 3:00 o'clock, P.M., to the real and true owners, whether named or correctly named in the assessment proceedings or not, of all property abutting upon said streets, avenues, and/or alley within the limits to be improved, and to all lien holders or other persons owning or claiming any such abutting property, or any interest therein, and to all railways occupying any portion of said streets, avenues, and/or alleys within any improvement unit as above defined, and to all others interested in any of the proceedings, contracts, or matters and things herein mentioned, or incident or relating thereto or the contract for the construction of improvements herein referred to.

At said time and place, all such persons, firms corporations railways and estates, and their agents and attorneys, shall have the right to appear and to be heard and offer testimony as to the said assessments, and as to the amount thereof proposed to be assessed against abutting property and the real and true owners thereof, and as to the lien and charge of personal liability to secure payment of said assessment, the special benefits to accure to each such abutting property and the owner or owners there by virtue of said improvements, if any, or concerning any error, invalidity, irregularity or deficiency in any proceedings or contract in reference to said improvements and said proposed amendments, and concerning any other matters or thing as to which a hearing is constitutional prerequisite to the validity of said assessment, proceedings and improvements and on which the owner or owners are entitled to a hearing under the constitution and laws of the State of Texas and the proceedings of said City Council.

Following such hearing, such assessments will be levied against each and every parcel of property abutting upon said streets, avenues and/or alleys within the limits above defined, and the real and true owners' thereof, for that portion of the cost of said improvements determined by said City Council to be assessed against such abutting properties, and the real and true owners thereof, and against railways occupying any portion of said units, and said assessments shall be and constitute first and prior liens upon said abutting properties, from the date said improvements were ordered by said City Council and a personal liability and charge against the real and true owners thereof, as of said date, whether such property be described or correctly described, or such real and true owners to be named, or correctly named, in such proceedings, or not and no error or mistake or discrepancy in the names of such owner or owners, or in describing said property in any of said proceedings with reference to said improvements, shall invalidate any assessment or certificate issued in evidence thereof; but, nevertheless, each parcel of property abutting upon said streets, avenues, and/or alleys and the real and true owner or owners thereof and each railroad, shall be charged with and be liable for said assessment, which shall be valid whether or not such owner or owners be named or correctly named, or such property be described or correctly described, and as provided for under Article 1105-b of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, as amended, herefore adopted by said City Council as the law under which such improvements, proceedings and assessments are being constructed, performed and levied.

DONE by order of the City Council of the City of Midland, Texas, this 14th day of September, 1981.

J.W. McCullough, City Secretary

15 Help Wanted

MECHANIC

For over 40 years, The Western Company has been providing the kind of service to the energy industry that has earned us the nickname..."The Pacesetter". In order to maintain our leadership role, we need hardworking, dependable, promotable people.

Right now, we have an opening for an experienced mechanic to maintain our well servicing equipment. You must have at least 2 years experience in diesel, auto or agriculture mechanics, or have a certificate of completion from a trade school. You should also have your own tools and be able to pass a physical exam.

Western has excellent salaries and benefits including a complete dental plan. If you would like to become a "Pacesetter" then we urge you to come by the Holiday Inn located at 3001 E. Highway 80 in Odessa on Tuesday, September 29, at 7 p.m. to see our representative Jerry Sims. An equal opportunity employer, m/f.

WESTERN Pacesetters

THE WESTERN COMPANY OF NORTH AMERICA

When you're the best at what you do... You're a Pacesetter.

GEOPHYSICISTS

Aramco will be interviewing in Midland/Odessa on Monday and Tuesday, September 28th and 29th.

Aramco needs outstanding people on the energy frontier. We're offering outstanding incentives to get them: up to 40% pay premium, 40 days' paid vacation every year, and a chance to work with the latest of seismic techniques with the world's largest oil-producing company.

Our geophysical department is expanding its Research, Interpretation and Data Processing groups with openings in both Croydon, England, and Dhahran, Saudi Arabia.

These groups will consolidate in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, in 1982 at the new Exploration & Petroleum Engineering Center (EXPEC).

The EXPEC Complex will provide researchers and explorationists with the newest computer and support systems, personnel, facilities needed to tackle Aramco's difficult and challenging geophysical problems.

Processing Geophysicists

Processing Analysts. Requires 3 to 5 years' experience for work within a seismic processing team. You'll be responsible for parameter selection and quality control of results.

Senior Processing Geophysicists. 5 to 10 years' experience required. You'll lead a processing team, and be responsible for analysis of seismic problems and processing solutions.

Geophysical Processing Supervisors. You'll need over 10 years' experience, including responsible supervisory work in seismic processing. You'll be responsible for integrating/coordinating the work of several processing teams.

Interpretation Geophysicists

General requirements include a degree in geophysics, or an equivalent combination of related degrees and experience.

Candidates should have a strong technical and geological orientation, plus good knowledge of seismic data acquisition, and the basic principles and techniques of processing.

Seismic Interpreters. Requires 3 to 5 years' major oil company type experience, with a capability to assume responsibility for independent analyses.

Senior Seismic Interpreters. Need 5 to 8 years' responsible independent interpretation experience, utilizing all types of exploratory data. You should be proficient in applying the most recently developed interpretational and seismic data quality enhancement technology.

Senior Geophysicists—Interpretation Supervisors. Requires at least 8 years' experience in same areas as Senior Seismic Interpreters (above), but with supervisory experience. You should have demonstrated capability to supervise technical and imaginative geological/geophysical interpreters.

Senior Geophysical Specialists. We need experts in seismic velocity measurement and analyses; seismic-stratigraphic interpretation; or data base analysis and mapping technology and application.

Research and Development Geophysicists

We seek geophysicists, physicists, electrical engineers and computer scientists with proven competence in one or more of the following: elastic wave propagation, wave equation methods, signal and image processing, forward and inverse modeling and interactive graphics.

You'll work on development and implementation of an integrated system of seismic data acquisition, data processing and interpretation designed to solve the most difficult and complex geophysical problems. There is close cooperation of geological, geophysical and R&D functions, with early field testing of newly developed R&D technology.

Candidates should have an advanced degree in geophysics, physics, or related discipline, with at least 3 years' relevant work experience.

Competitive compensation and benefits

Aramco pays a competitive base salary and a cost-of-living differential that equalizes living expenses between Saudi Arabia and the United States. In addition, Aramco pays an expatriate premium of 40 percent on the first $30,000 of base salary and a 20 percent premium on the next $20,000. And there is an outstanding combination of benefits: long vacations, comfortable housing, abundant recreation and an excellent school system.

Saudi Arabia bonus and new voluntary "bachelor" status for married employees

Newly hired North Americans for Aramco in Saudi Arabia receive a special bonus. It equals 10 percent of your annual base salary, up to $5,000.

All of the attractive compensation and benefits are available for married employees who may want to work overseas on a temporary "bachelor" status for the first year. This program includes three free repatriation trips by air during this one-year period, and the option to request family status during that same year.

To set up an interview call our 24-hour line today: (713) 750-6965. If you wish, call toll-free: 1-800-231-7511 between 7 A.M. and 4 P.M. Central Time. Ask to speak with Jon Calloway.

If you prefer, send your résumé in full confidence or write for more information to: Aramco Services Company, Dept. MRT0928TE15B, P.O. Box 53607, Houston, Texas 77052.

Dallas Cowboys finally put end to scary silence

AP Laserphoto

Tony Dorsett (33) of the Dallas Cowboys can't elude the arms of New York Giant Curtis McGriff Sunday. Dorsett gained 70 yards, ending his string of 100 yards per game at three. The Cowboys still won the game, 18-10.

Pokes win, but Giants beat spread

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

IRVING — Football is considered to be the national religion of Texas and heading into the fourth period here Sunday, it certainly seemed as much.

It had been so quiet for three periods in cavernous Texas Stadium, one kept hoping someone would say a prayer, sing a hymn or preach a sermon, anything to end the scary silence that can be created by 63,449 hushed worshippers.

It was 10-3 going into the final 15 minutes, thanks a beautifully executed two-minute drill by the Dallas Cowboys at the end of the first half. That and Dallas' defensive pressure that turned what started out as a day of promise for third year quarterback Phil Simms into a second half nightmare.

What productive action there was seemed to come in a fitful fourth period flurry. A 20-yard field goal by Rafael Septein, a safety resulting when Ed "Too Tall" Jones stripped Sims of the ball in search of a sack, and another field goal by Septein to complete the "rout" with 4:31 left roused the crowd from its hot afternoon slumber.

THE GIANTS beat the point spread (10½) with a desperation race with the clock that produced a touchdown 56 secons from the end as Simms finally hit Johnny Perkins, the Abilene Christian wide receiver, for the final 20 yards to reduce the final margin to 18-10 Dallas.

The biggest cheer of the day, however, was reserved for tackle Randy White, who was ejected from the premises after brawling with New York center Ernie Hughes with less than 10 seconds to go.

And if fans were beginning to wonder whether Dallas could win if Tony Dorsett didn't get his 100 yards rushing, it was discovered they could. Although the Cowboys are 22-1 in Tony's 100-yard efforts, Sunday the Giants held him to 70 yards on 22 carries as the New York linebackers proved they were everything their admirers claimed them to be. However, Tony did add another 33 yards on three receptions.

It wasn't the kind of win Dallas expected, but Coach Tom Landry wasn't complaining. "It was a defensive game. It started slow, but picked up. We were not as sharp as usual. Fortunately, we made the key plays we had to make them to win. We kept the pressure on Simms and that was the key to the game. We just didn't bounce back from our game Monday with New England."

AS FOR Dallas' failure to run with its usual aplomb against the Giants, Landry reasoned, "Offense is blocking and running. Unless you can do both hard, the defense will neutralize you. And the Giants neutralized us today."

It was 3-3 on Septein's 37-yard field goal at the end of a 55-yard drive in the first period and a 43-yarder by Joe Danelo for the Giants in the second period.

And in a way, Dallas was lucky it was no worse. Both sides battled poor field position in the first half, but the Giants, thanks to Simms, did a better job of it. Starting first period possessions on their 14, 16 and five, New York drove to the Dallas 17, 39 and to their own 43 only to be thrwarted by a missed 36-yard field goal, and holding penalties and an interception.

Dallas started on its own 14 with 1:59 left in the half and White was faced with a third and eight when he hit tight end Doug Cosbie for 22, Drew Pearson for 21 and Butch Johnson for 41, all successively, and the touchdown with 1:09 still left in the half.

WHITE RELATED, the touchdown pass to Johnson was designed to go to Pearson, "but the safety split with Drew. Johnson was running a flat pattern across the field and quickly made the adjustment, going down field. I threw to an area and Butch ran under it."

White said the Cowboys moved the ball well enough. "We just couldn't score."

In the fourth period with first and goal at the five after a 39-yard completion to Tony Hill, the Cowboys were forced to settle for a field goal. "We ran a sweep to the strong side and then ran a sweep to the weak side," White said shaking his head. "They were in the right place to stop us both times. I don't know whether they guessed right or we were tipping our plays."

WHITE ADMITTED he had trouble picking up receivers all afternoon because the Giants "were blitzing one more linebacker than we expected all day. Lawrence Taylor, the weakside backer, is so strong, we couldn't stop him. I was consistently aware of him and instead of stepping up into the pocket, I was scrambling. As a result, I was picking up receivers late."

For a team that had just gone 4-0 with the win, the Cowboys were doing a lot of explaining and apologizing. Of course, that 4-0 is against opposition that is 3-13. "I don't think we would have beaten a real good team today," White said. "We may be 4-0, but we know we must be better than we were today to beat a team like Philadelphia.

But like Landry said, the Cowboys came up with big plays. In the first period Mike Downs made a diving interception to stop the Giants at the Dallas 30, Dennis Thurmond picked off another in the fourth period and returned it 27 yards to set up the final field goal and the Cowboys came up with four sacks, two by White, for 27 yards in losses, and forced three fumbles...And White, 14 of 27 for 204 yards really wasn't all that awful. Simms was 18 of 35 for 285 yards but completed 10 of 20 for 175 in the first half when the Giants kept coming up empty-handed.

Upright Morton demolishes Chargers

By The Associated Press

While some of his big-name counterparts spent much of the day in a horizontal position, Craig Morton was staying upright and giving the San Diego Chargers the treatment they usually dish out.

The 38-year-old quarterback threw four touchdown passes for the second week in a row Sunday as the Denver Broncos raced to a 35-0 lead and then coasted to a 42-24 victory over the previously unbeaten Chargers. Morton completed a club-record 17 of 18 passes for 308 yards and engineered the Broncos to a whopping 453 yards in total offense.

Meanwhile, San Diego's National Football League-leading attack, led by Dan Fouts, gained 349 yards, but Denver's Orange Crush defense sacked him five times and intercepted three of his passes.

In fact, Sunday was a rough afternoon for several NFL quarterbacks.

Detroit compiled six sacks in a 16-0 victory over Super Bowl champion Oakland and Jim Plunkett; the New York Jets got their first victory, 33-17, over the Houston Oilers with seven sacks of Ken Stabler (eight overall), and the Minnesota Vikings dumped Green Bay QBs Lynn Dickey and David Whitehurst eight times in a 30-13 romp.

"This is one of the best games I've ever played," said Morton. "We had a couple of long drives, and we were lucky enough to get a couple of breaks. You have to be happy any time you score 42 points on San Diego."

"Craig did a good job, and he also had great protection," said Denver Coach Dan Reeves. "If you give him enough time, he can do a super job."

While Reeves was pleased with the protection given Morton, who is not known for his mobility, San Diego Coach Don Coryell said the Denver defense "played very, very well. I have the utmost respect for (Denver defensive coordinator) Joe Collier."

Morton threw TD passes of 93 and 21 yards to wide receiver Steve Watson, a 19-yarder to tight end Riley Odoms and a 2-yarder to reserve tight end Jim Wright. When Morton left the game with 8:52 left in the third quarter, the Broncos had a 35-0 lead.

Fouts then came alive and flipped two touchdown passes to John Cappelletti and scored another TD himself.

The victories by Denver and Kansas City left them tied with San Diego in the AFC West, all with 3-1 records.

Lions 16, Raiders 0

Oakland was shut out for the first time since 1966 and Detroit got three field goals from Eddie Murray and a key turnover on a kickoff.

Murray gave the Lions a 6-0 lead with a 39-yard field goal with 7:21 left in the game and Luther Bradley recovered a fumble on Oakland's 3 on the ensuing kickoff. On the first play, Billy Sims clinched the victory with a 3-yard TD.

The Lions' Silver Rush defense, in addition to its six sacks for 57 yards, held the defending champion Raiders to 131 total yards.

"I thought it was an outstanding defensive performance and the players and coaches deserve a lot of credit," said Detroit Coach Monte Clark. "We had as good a special teams performance as I've ever seen here or anywhere. And we did it against the world champions, which makes it all the more meaningful."

Vikings 30, Packers 13

Tommy Kramer threw two touchdown passes and the Minnesota defense recovered two fumbles in addition to the eight sacks of Dickey and Whitehurst.

The Packers took a 10-0 lead, but the Vikings scored 20 points in the second quarter, highlighted by Randy Holloway's 45-yard run for a touchdown with a fumble recovery.

Bengals 27, Bills 24

Surprising Cincinnati won its third game as Ken Anderson fired three touchdown passes and Jim Breech booted the game-winning 28-yard field goal with 5:27 to play in overtime.

Anderson rallied the Bengals from a 21-10 deficit to a 24-21 lead, but Buffalo's Nick Mike-Mayer kicked a 40-yard field goal with one second left in regulation play to force the extra period.

Steelers 27, Patriots 21

In the day's other overtime game, Terry Bradshaw threw a 24-yard scoring pass to Lynn Swann 3:19 after regulation time ended.

Winless New England tied the score at 21 with 24 seconds left when Matt Cavanaugh threw a 12-yard touchdown pass to Stanley Morgan.

Browns 26, Falcons 17

Cleveland knocked Atlanta from the unbeaten ranks as Brian Sipe ran for a touchdown and passed for two more in the first half to erase a 10-0 deficit.

Sipe hit 21 of 34 passes for 215 yards while Mike Pruitt rushed for 98 yards and two touchdowns.

Dolphins 31, Colts 28

Baltimore outgained Miami 514 yards to 428, but the Dolphins improved their record to 4-0 when Uwe von Schamann kicked a 28-yard field goal with 1:02 remaining.

David Woodley passed for two touchdowns and rookie Andra Franklin ran for two more for the Dolphins.

Bert Jones, booed before the game by the hometown fans, turned the jeers to cheers with 357 yards passing and three TD tosses.

Eagles 36, Redskins 13

Running back Louie Giammona, Coach Dick Vermeil's nephew, replaced injured starter Wilbert Montgomery in style, catching a touchdown pass and running for another score as Philadelphia also stayed unbeaten, scoring 22 points in the final quarter against Washington.

"I'm very proud of Louie as a player and a nephew," said Vermeil. "And anybody who wants to say it's nepotism can forget it."

Chiefs 20, Seahawks 14

Bill Kenney directed Kansas City to a 20-0 lead in the second quarter and the Chiefs held on to beat the Seahawks.

Kenney completed 16 of 25 passes for 239 yards and ran for one touchdown, while Seattle quarterback Jim Zorn hit 31 of 47 passes for 308 yards, including a string of 14 completions in a row.

49ers 21, Saints 14

San Francisco took the lead 14-7 on Joe Montana's 60-yard TD pass to Freddie Solomon in the third period and held on to beat New Orleans.

The Saints moved inside San Francisco's 30-yard line six times without collecting any points. A 26-yard pass interception return for a touchdown by Ronnie Lott gave the 49ers a 21-7 lead in the fourth quarter.

Buccaneers 20, Cardinals 10

James Owens broke four tackles as he raced 2 yards around right end for the go-ahead touchdown with 2:41 left as Tampa Bay came from behind to defeat St. Louis.

Jerry Eckwood iced the victory when he sprinted 31 yards for another Bucs' score less than a minute later.

Respectful Jets shock Oilers

NEW YORK (AP) — The numbers notwithstanding, Ken Stabler gets plenty of respect.

The Houston Oilers' immobile quarterback was swamped by the New York Jets' secondary Sunday — sacked seven times for 66 yards, intercepted twice (one leading to a touchdown) and victimized by two fumbles as well, each leading to a score. The result was a 33-17 pounding.

Defensive end Mark Gastineau had four sacks during the rout, two of them on the quarterback nicknamed Snake. "When I get back there," he said, "I know it's Stabler and I have a lot of respect for him. I'm not gonna let him go. But I'm not gonna try and bury him, either. I feel sorry for him. I put him down to the ground as easily as I could."

STABLER, SACKED eight times last week in a loss to Miami, now has been trapped 18 times in four games. He suggested it was the fault of the Oilers' coaching staff.

"I'm trying to please this guy. I'm trying to please that guy," he said without elaborating. "I'm trying to do this, trying to do that. All I know is, I'm up to my elbows in alligators ... You can't blame the offensive line, can't blame the defensive line, can't blame the passing game or the running game," he said of Sunday's loss, which dropped Houston to 2-2. "It's not that any one thing broke down. Everything broke down."

Stabler completed 10 of 20 passes for 138 yards before coming out of the game midway in the fourth quarter. His counterpart, Richard Todd, had a dazzling day as he directed the Jets to their first victory in four games. Todd completed 25 of 39 passes for 312 yards and three touchdowns — one yard to Kevin Long in the first period and 28 and 39 yards to Wesley Walker (the second on a flea flicker) 1:34 apart in the second quarter.

BUT TODD wanted no part of anybody after the game. The New York quarterback, criticized by the local media during the team's three losses, snapped that he wasn't talking to anyone, and he stalked out of the locker room.

The Jets' other scores came on Long's 2-yard run, Pat Leahy's 41-yard field goal and a safety when Stabler fumbled a snap into his own end zone and guard-turned-center David Carter fell on it. The Oilers scored on Earl Campbell's 3-yard run, a short toss from Stabler to Kenny Burrough that wound up as a 70-yard pass play and Toni Fritsch's 38-yard field goal.

"They were hungry. We weren't," Oilers' Coach Eddie Biles said of the Jets. "They executed and we didn't. They'd taken plenty of abuse and they'd made up their minds they were better than that. I guess they proved it to a lot of people — especially to us."

Pastorini doesn't worry Armstrong

CHICAGO (AP) — Coach Neill Armstrong admits he may be wrong, but he doesn't believe his Bears will have to worry about Dan Pastorini when Chicago plays host to the Los Angeles Rams tonight in the National Football League.

The Rams and Bears, both with 1-2 records, are expected to meet before 64,000 in addition to a national television audience.

Both teams finally made the win column last week when the Rams came from behind for a 35-23 victory over Green Bay and the Bears rallied for a 28-17 triumph against Tampa Bay.

Quarterback Pat Haden left the Green Bay game in the second quarter with a rib cage injury and was relieved by Jeff Rutledge, whose 30-yard touchdown pass to Drew Hill finally put the Rams ahead 21-16.

Haden has been working out since Wednesday and if he is unable to play, Rutledge will be his backup despite the fact the Rams signed Pastorini, veteran quarterback formerly with Oakland and Houston, on Friday.

Armstrong does not expect Pastorini to play for various reasons.

"It would be awful hard to play him unless they just put him in and tell the receivers to run go-patterns," Armstrong said. "I may live to eat my words, but I don't think he's our concern."

Some veteran Bears wouldn't mind seeing Rutledge again. He started for the Rams in 1978 when Haden and Vince Ferragamo both were injured. Ferragamo has since left the team to play in Canada.

Rutledge helped the Rams to leads of 16-0 and 23-14 before the Bears rallied for a 27-23 victory after picking off two of his passes.

But Rutledge and an aroused defense were instrumental in Los Angeles' victory over Green Bay following losses to Houston and New Orleans.

"We played with intensity, that's the important thing," Rams Coach Ray Malavasi said. "We still turned the ball over, and it put a litle bit more pressure on our defense, but I still thought we played an outstanding game."

The Bears also had been seeking an emotional lift after initial losses to Green Bay and San Francisco.

Prior to the Tampa Bay game, the players held a meeting among themselves, and later in the week, they requested and received a meeting with owner George Halas, the pro football pioneer who coached the team to its last championship in 1963.

Dick Williams predicted Nolan Ryan's no-hitter

HOUSTON (AP) — Former Montreal manager Dick Williams made a prediction more than a month ago: "It's only a matter of time before Nolan Ryan gets another no-hitter."

Williams, whose Expos escaped no-hit bids by Ryan on Aug. 19 and Sept. 4, became an accurate prophet Saturday when Ryan thrilled 32,115 Astrodome fans with his fifth career no-hitter in a 5-0 victory over Los Angeles.

"When Ryan's curve ball is working he is untouchable," Williams had said after one of Ryan's earlier pitching gems. "The way he looked today, it's only a matter of time."

Los Angeles manager Tommy Lasorda could only agree after the Dodgers became the victims for Ryan's record-breaking no-hitter.

"The outstanding breaking ball he had was what really did us in," Lasorda said. "When Nolan Ryan gets his breaking ball over the plate to go along with his tremendous fast ball, he's just awesome."

"It's really hard to imagine a guy pitching five no-hitters. I saw two of Sandy's (Koufax) and I'd compare them with what I saw today. Sandy could overpower and dominate hitters just like Ryan did."

Ryan now holds the major league record for career no-hitters, which he formerly shared with Koufax. Ryan set a major league record of 383 strikeouts in one season in 1973, breaking Koufax's record of 382.

"I'm the only one since Koufax to have a chance at this record but I don't compare myself to him," Ryan said.

Minnesota's Butch Wynegar plows under Texas Ranger catcher Jim Sundberg to score from first base on a double by Gary Ward Sunday as the Twins kept their second half hopes alive with a victory.

Edmonds, Garza take Benefit crown

Green Tree Country Club tennis pro Derek Edmonds and Odessa Racquet Club pro Rosie Garza won the Midland Mixed Doubles Benefit tennis tournament Sunday with a 6-4, 4-6, 6-4 win over former Midland Racquet Club pro Jim Hill and former UTPB standout Linda Mitchell of Odessa.

Proceeds from the tournament benefit the Midland Junior Tennis Association. The tournament was sponsored by the Midland National Bank.

Edmonds and Garza reached the finals with a 6-2, 6-3 win over Bill and Freda Harris while Hill and Mitchell got into the finals with a 6-1, 6-0 victory over Barry King and Karen Mannheimer.

Edmonds and Garza were the top seeds in the tournament while Hill and Mitchell were the No. 2 seeds. The final three-set match was a fitting climax to the no surprise tournament. Sixty-four doubles teams played in the tournament.

Hatalsky ends five years of PGA Tour frustrations

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — It was a career high for Morris Hatalsky, and a season-ending low for Jack Nicklaus and Ray Floyd.

"Who would have thought," Hatalsky shouted, "that a skinny little Jewish boy from San Diego would win the golf tournament?"

His front-running, two-stroke victory — his first on the tour after five long years of frustration — in the Hall of Fame Classic left Hatalsky, 29, counting up the things that will be, while Nicklaus and Floyd had time to consider what might have been.

"This is all of it," said Hatalsky.

Hatalsky led by at least two shots all the way and won it by that margin with a 275 total, 9-under-par on the famed No. 2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club. He started counting off the pluses.

"Most of all, there's no more qualifying," said Hatalsky, who had faced the trauma of the Monday morning qualifying rounds throughout his career.

"And I get to play in the Masters. And I get to play in the Tournament of Champions back near my hometown, San Diego.

"I guess all the work and faith finally paid off. This is very nice, very, very sweet.

"What a great world it is!"

Nicklaus and Floyd were not quite so pleased, however.

Nicklaus, who had hoped to break a year-long winless string in his final start of the season, took himself out of it almost immediately. From a position five shots back and very much in the hunt, he bogeyed two of the first three holes, played the front in 40 and finished with a 75 that left him at 284.

Trojan tailback Marcus Allen hurtles through the air as Oklahoma's Darrell Songy and Dwight Drane make the stop. USC won the battle for the No. 1 ranking among college football powers.

Iowa has Trojans checking schedule

By The Associated Press

For the first time this season, the nation's No. 1-ranked college football team averted defeat, but the top-rated Southern California Trojans may be double-checking the schedule to make sure they don't have to play the giant-killing Iowa Hawkeyes.

Well, Southern Cal and Iowa could pick up in the Rose Bowl, although you can get pretty good odds on that possibility. More likely, though, the Hawkeyes will have to settle for Saturday's 20-7 trouncing of another Los Angeles team, sixth-ranked UCLA. It came just two weeks after they shocked Nebraska, ranked No. 7 at the time, 10-7.

Meanwhile, in a rare regular-season matchup of the No. 1-2 teams, Southern Cal erased a 10-point deficit in the final 6:37 and pulled out a 28-24 triumph over runnerup Oklahoma when John Mazur flipped a 7-yard touchdown pass to Fred Cornwell with two seconds left on the clock.

After a 7-7 halftime standoff, Iowa freshman Tom Nichol kicked second-half field goals of 35 and 43 yards and defensive tackle Mark Bortz recovered a UCLA fumble in the end zone for a touchdown to give Hayden Fry his 100th career coaching triumph.

"This is old No. 100 for John Hayden," crowed Fry, who is in his 20th season as a head coach. "They gave me the game ball. I don't have a great won-loss record (100-103-4), so I enjoy these three or four times more than those guys with winning percentages of .600 or .700."

Southern Cal's John Robinson is up there in the .800s but you can bet that Fry didn't enjoy his victory over UCLA any more than J.R. enjoyed the Trojans' last-gasp triumph over Oklahoma.

Robinson said that after the team's traditional pregame prayer, tailback Marcus Allen said, "Lord, if you help us, we will not blink the rest of the season." quipped Robinson, "I added, 'Amen; we're No. 1.'"

They almost weren't. But Allen, who carries the ball almost as often as he blinks, rushed 40 times for 208 yards and two touchdowns, equaled an NCAA record with his third straight 200-yard performance and has gained 602 yards in that stretch.

There is sure to be some No. 1 sounds this week from third-ranked Penn State, which rallied for a 30-24 winner over No. 15 Nebraska, and fourth-rated Texas, which held off No. 14 Miami (Fla.) 14-7.

Fifth-ranked Pitt and No. 19 Clemson were idle but two other members of The Associated Press Top Twenty were upset. Purdue scored a touchdown and 2-point conversion with 19 seconds left to nip No. 13 Notre Dame 15-14 and No. 18 Arizona State bowed to Washington State 24-21 on Kevin Morris' 29-yard field goal with 5:18 remaining.

Elsewhere, seventh-ranked Michigan fended off Navy 21-16, No. 8 Ohio State turned back Stanford 24-19, ninth-rated North Carolina buried Boston College 56-14 and No. 10 Alabama whipped Vanderbilt 28-7.

In the Second Ten, 11th-ranked Brigham Young swamped Colorado 41-20, No. 12 Mississippi State trimmed Florida 28-7, No. 16 Washington beat Oregon 17-3, No.17 Georgia blanked South Carolina 24-0 and No. 20 Southern Methodist defeated Texas Christian 20-7.

Like Southern Cal, Penn State got a sensational game from its tailback. Curt Warner carried 28 times for 238 yards against Nebraska. He didn't score, but a 56-yard run set up Brian Franco's fifth field goal, a Penn State record. The boots covered 29, 48, 39 20 and 32 yards. Nebraska's 1-2 record is its poorest start since Tom Osborne took over as head coach in 1972.

And also like USC, Penn State pulled it out in the final period, starting with Joel Coles' 2-yard run.

"I said at the beginning of the season that Warner was quicker, stronger and faster and that he was one of the best backs in the country. I think he proved that," said Nittany Lions Coach Joe Paterno.

Astrodome thought keeps Teaff from enjoying win

By The Associated Press

Grant Teaff could hardly enjoy Baylor's Southwest Conference opening victory over Texas Tech knowing what was ahead for his defending champions.

"I've never won in the Astrodome," Teaff said late Saturday night after his Bears wore down the scrapping Texas Tech Red Raiders 28-15 in Waco. "I have some personal goals left and one of them is to win in that place. Houston has always beaten us in the fourth quarter there."

The Baylor-Houston confrontation highlights an outbreak of SWC action that includes Arkansas at Texas Christian and Texas A&M at Texas Tech. Rice hosts Tulane in an attempt to bolster the SWC's excellent 15-2 record against outside competition.

IN OTHER games Saturday night other than the Tech-Baylor rouser before 42,000 Parents Day fans in Waco, Southern Methodist defeated Texas Christian 20-9, No. 4-ranked Texas flattened No. 14-ranked Miami 14-7, Texas A&M crushed Louisiana Tech 43-7, Arkansas outlasted Mississippi 27-13, Houston mauled Utah State 35-7, and Houston handled Utah State 35-7.

"The Cougars have a better defense than they had last year," Teaff said. "This is always a real physical game. And if I know Coach (Bill) Yeoman he will have that new quarterback ready."

Teaff was being prophetic because sophomore quarterback Lionel Wilson ran for two touchdowns and passed for another in a sparkling debut for regular Audrey McMillian, who suffered a shoulder separation and is out for the year.

WILSON PASSED and rushed for more than 100 yards to become only the second quarterback in Cougar history to accomplish both feats in one game.

Baylor's Walter Abercrombie rushed for 154 yards and teammate Dennis Gentry gained 114 yards in the Baylor victory in which the Bears posted more than 500 yards offense. Gentry is now the second leading ball carrier in Bear history behind Abercrombie.

SMU Coach Ron Meyer said of the victory by his 20th-ranked Mustangs: "I'm as happy with this win as I was with the victory over Texas last year. It took the same kind of effort."

Sophomore quarterback Lance McIlhenny was the key for SMU, rushing 13 times for 80 yards and completing 6 of 13 passes for 125 yards. He sustained five drives with big plays at critical points.

"Lance just keeps getting better and better," said Meyer.

Of Arkansas' victory over Ole Miss, Rebel Coach Steve Sloan said: "The Razorbacks are the best team we've met this year ... They make the big plays."

AN 87-YARD interception return for a touchdown by Danny Walters turned the game around for Arkansas.

Texas Coach Fred Akers praised his men in the trenches, saying, "Our defense was magnificent again. It responded when it had to."

Miami Coach Howard Schnellenberger wasn't all that impressed with the Longhorns, snapping "Texas is no better than any other football team we've faced ... The breaks just went against us."

Coming October 1: A tax break for saving at Commercial Bank!

TAX-FREE interest on All Savers' Certificates

If you're in a 30% tax bracket or better, it's to your advantage to participate in the new All Savers' Certificates. Beginning October 1, the All Savers' Certificates offer a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to receive tax-free interest on a fully insured bank certificate of deposit. The program expires December 31, 1982, and the maximum tax-free interest is limited to $1,000 for individuals and $2,000 for couples filing joint returns.

All Savers' Certificates are issued in minimums of $500 for one-year periods, and earn interest equivalent to 70% of the current investment yield on 52-week U.S. Treasury bills. And the equivalent taxable yield is much higher, depending on your tax bracket.

Find Your Equivalent Taxable Yield

Joint Taxable Income	Tax Bracket	Equivalent Taxable Yield
$24,600 - 29,900	32%	18.54%
29,900 - 35,200	37%	20.02%
35,200 - 45,800	43%	22.12%
45,800 - 60,000	49%	24.73%
60,000 - 85,600	54%	27.41%

Examples above assume an All Savers' Certificate rate of 12.61%. Actual rates may be higher or lower. Figures are based on 1981 tax tables.

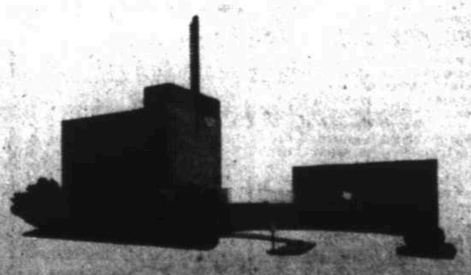

There's a catch

The All Savers' Certificate rate on October 1 will be 12.61%, but don't make your deposit then. By waiting until October 2, when new rates will be determined, you will have a choice of selecting 12.61% or the new rate, depending on which is higher.

Tax exemption is lost if the account is closed before the end of a year, and there is a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal.

Texas School for the Deaf football coach Billy Snowden uses sign language to give last-minute advice to his Rangers. TSD recently broke a 32-game losing streak.

Deaf team shows glimmer of hope

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — There is, at long last, a glimmer of hope for the Rangers of Billy Snowden, a high school coach who washes uniforms, kills ants and tries to get four quarters of football out of about 25 deaf kids.

No, the Texas School for the Deaf has not gone from three straight 0-10 years to district champs, but the Rangers have won a game this year and have avoided the 82-0 embarassments of recent years.

"We haven't worked out the kinks yet," Snowden said before Saturday's homecoming game against St. Stephens of Austin. "We've got the ability now, but it's going to take some time."

Some of the ability showed Saturday. TSD dropped a 21-13 decision, but dominated the statistics. Seven fumbles turned what could have been its second win into its third loss.

"If we'd hold the ball we wouldn't have any problem," Snowden said and signed to his team at halftime.

An enthusiastic crowd filled the bleachers for homecoming. The Rangers were on a one-game win streak after beating San Marcos Academy 7-0 last week, breaking a 32-game loss streak (including 23 shutouts). TSD was outscored 1,273-104 during the streak.

Part of the problem is that the University Interscholastic League counts all students at the school, including multiply handicapped kids who cannot play football, when it picks a district for TSD.

This season opened with a 26-16 loss to the Austin Travis junior varsity and an 8-0 loss to Dripping Springs. Then came the magic game at San Marcos.

"School board members were on the field with tears in their eyes," one Ranger fan recalled.

Many of the players wear hearing aids, but not during the game. It's silent football. Play starts, as Snowden said, when the quarterback "gooses the center." The other offensive players key on that and take off when the ball is snapped.

"The biggest disadvantage is that you can't yell at them on the field," said Snowden, who has coached here since 1961.

TSD had some good teams in the mid-70s, when it first joined the University Interscholastic League. The Rangers went 9-1 in their second season of Class 2A (now 3A) football and were co-champs of their district.

The bottom fell out in 1978, when the three-year loss skein began. Snowden blames it on HB 94-112, the law that requires public schools to have facilities for deaf students. The law cut TSD enrollment.

Large school districts set up programs for the deaf, enabling students in their area to stay at home. Snowden still thinks TSD is a good place for deaf kids. There's a better social life for them at the Austin campus, he said.

In the two hours before kickoff, Snowden and his assistants handed out uniforms, fresh from the washing machine and dryer, and made final preparations. On the field, Snowden picked up a sack of insecticide and led a search-and-destroy mission for anthills.

Luck brings Waltrip a victory

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Darrell Waltrip was quick to admit that if luck had been equal, Harry Gant would have won the Old Dominion 500 Grand National stock car race instead of him.

"I'd rather be lucky than good any day. It just seems that the longer I race, the luckier I get," Waltrip said Sunday after he breezed to a 7.8-second victory over Gant that boosted his lead in the Winston Cup point standings to 43 over Bobby Allison.

Gant, meanwhile, is puzzled. His string of 10 runner-up finishes without a victory in his Grand National career and minor bad luck are things he can't figure out.

"This has really got me down. I cut cut a tire on pit road. It looks like I'm never going to win," Gant said.

Driving the Junior Johnson-prepared Buick, Waltrip averaged only 70.089 mph in a race slowed 11 times for 72 laps by caution flags but earned a $29,275 paycheck. Gant's Buick was the only car in the same lap with Waltrip's Buick.

While Gant has been having just enough tough luck to keep him winless, it has been just the oposite for Waltrip.

In the last nine races he has four firsts, four seconds and a third. That streak also had carried him from a 340-point deficit in the point race to the 43-point advantage over Allison, who finished 10th on Sunday.

Following the top two were youngster Mark Martin in a Pontiac, Neil Bonnett in a Ford and Joe Millikan in a Pontiac. They were all three laps off the pace.

For most of the race, it looked like Gant's day. In the early stages, he could run high or low — just about anywhere he wanted to. By the 400th lap around the .525-mile oval, Gant had built a 6.9-second lead over Waltrip.

Ten laps later the record crowd of 37,000 watched as Gant scooted by Martin down the backstretch to leave only Waltrip in the same lap.

Roberto Duran eyes shot at Sugar Ray

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Roberto Duran says he will fight another 10-rounder before meeting Wilfred Benitez early next year for the World Boxing Council junior middleweight crown, but admits his only mission in boxing is to meet Sugar Ray Leonard again.

"I'm going to look for him (Leonard) wherever he goes," Duran said through an interpreter after pounding out a lopsided 10-round decision over Luigi Minchillo on Saturday.

Duran is seemingly obsessed with meeting Leonard for what would be their third bout and earlier this week the Panamanian fighter said Leonard is the only reason he is fighting again.

"I'm continuing fighting only so I can fight Sugar Ray Leonard again," Duran said. "I came back into the ring and boxing to fight him and not anyone else."

But fight others he must and Duran looked impressive against Minchillo in winning for the second straight time since he followed the Leonard debacle with a nine-month layoff.

"This time I was stronger and faster than the last fight (a 10-round decision over Nino Gonzales)," Duran said. "Gradually I'm fighting and I've been fighting better."

Although he suffered a cut under his right eye in an apparent butt by Minchillo in the third round, Duran dominated the fight, scoring at will with combinations against the game but outclassed Italian.

"The cut didn't really bother me because I'm accustomed to that," he said. "It only hurt at the beginning when I was bleeding. Then it bothered me slightly."

Seven wildcats planned

Seven ventures have been planned by area oil operators in the Permian Basin.

CROSBY VENTURE

Gunn Oil Co., Wichita Falls, will drill the 5,500-foot wildcat No. 1 C.B. Parker, five miles northwest of Crosbyton.

The location is 467 feet from the north, and 660 feet from the west line of section 1, block 2, B&B survey, abstract 11.

Apparently, there has been little exploration in the vicinity.

GLASSOCK WILDCAT

Wood & Locker Inc., Midland, will sink the wildcat No. 2 Zant, to 11,500 feet, 17 miles northwest of Garden City.

The operators will test the Spraberry at 8,600 feet, and the Bialock Lake (Wolfcamp) at 10,000.

The drillsite is about one-mile south-southeast of the Phillips No. 1 Berry, abandoned May 10, 1952 at 11,476 feet. Wells in the vicinity are as shallow as 210 feet.

The project spots 660 feet from the north, and 1,980 feet from the west line of section 38, block 36, T-2-S, T&PRR survey.

HOWARD PAIR

Exxon Corp., Midland, will drill the No. 1 S. Weldron, a 10,700-foot wildcat, 7 1/2 miles southwest of Big Spring.

The stake is driven 660 feet from the north, and 1,980 feet from the east line of section 13, block 34, T-1-S, T&PRR survey.

The nearest well of comparable depth, it appears, is more than two miles to the southwest of the drillsite. The project is located two miles west-northwest from the West Moore Unit.

****

Turner Properties, Big Spring, will drill the 9,600-foot wildcat No. 1 Mary Wade Hays, 5 miles east of Big Spring.

The location is 467 feet from the north and west lines of section 29, block 31, T-1-S T&PRR survey.

The drillsite is 4/5 of a mile west of Williamson & Barnes' No. 1 Wade, abandoned June 20, 1959 at 9,595 feet.

SCURRY PROSPECTOR

I.M.C. Exploration Co., Shreveport, will drill the No. 1 Harkrider, a 7,800-foot wildcat, 1 mile northeast of Ira.

It's staked 760 feet from the north, and 660 feet from the east line of section 134, block 97, H&TC survey.

The drillsite is 1,500 feet northeast of Butte's No. 1 Layne, abandoned August 24, 1967.

TERRELL ATTEMPT

Resources Investment Corp., Midland, will drill the 10,500-foot wildcat, No. 1-14 Childress, 25 miles southwest of Sheffield.

The location is 1,298 feet from the south, and 10,671 feet from the west line of section 14, block 1, I&GN survey.

The drillsite, it appears, is more than four miles from the nearest well of comparable depth.

UPTON EXPLORER

Kimbark Oil & Gas, Denver, will drill the No. 1 University 31-3, a 7,700-foot wildcat, seven miles east of Rankin.

The location is 1,500 feet south of Highway 67, and 1 2/3 miles south of Cities Service No. 1-AP, abandoned Aug. 4, 1952 at 7,440 feet.

The stake is 1,300 feet from the south and east lines of section 31, block 3, ULS survey.

U.S., Canada feuding over energy

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Canada are in a public quarrel over what the Reagan administration regards as Canada's "narrowly nationalistic" efforts to cut back American ownership of the Canadian oil industry.

While most other aspects of relations between the two North American neighbors remain good, pressure is building in Congress for retaliatory measures certain to set off repercussions in Canada.

Canadian Ambassador Peter M. Towe aired his nation's position last week, telling reporters the two countries are in "a dangerous period of creeping confrontation." He said they need "to cool it" before matters get out of hand.

"I do believe that responsible leaders recognize the importance of avoiding actions or words that would lead us down a slippery slope towards retaliation and counter retaliation," Towe said.

"I say with no sense of smugness that it is not in the U.S. national interest to take measures or to threaten to take measures which would weaken your best friend politically or economically," he said.

"I think there is clear sentiment in the United States in favor of some form of retaliation," he said. "And that sentiment becomes stronger every time someone makes exagerated allegations about unfair, unjust and un-American Canadian policies."

Towe's remarks were bracketed by a pair of speeches by two senior State Department officials, both warning Canada of the possibly harmful effects of its policies.

Myer Rashish, undersecretary for economic affairs, said "irreparable damage" might be done to the relationship between the two countries if Canada does not show more "flexibility." He said the relationship is "sliding dangerously toward crisis."

Warning that "small irritants can become serious problems," Rashish said such problems "can seriously threaten our common objectives in this North American community."

Robert Hormats, the assistant secretary of state for economic and business affairs, expressed surprise and dismay "that a major developed country, provider and host for so much international investment, would adopt such nationalistic and shortsighted policies."

He complained about Canadian policies requiring U.S. and other foreign companies wishing to invest in the country to pledge to employ mostly Canadians, buy from Canadian suppliers, use Canadian advertsing and public relations firms or even to move certain manufacturing operations from the United States to Canada.

Canadian Press quoted a member of the Trudeau government, who asked not to be identified, as saying Ottawa is "privately furious" over such statements which he said "reflect a traditional U.S. insensitivity to Canadian policies and Canadian requirements."

Although Canadians have for years been sensitive about heavy American investmen in their country, the situation began to take on its present dimensions in the 1980 Canadian political campaign.

In a successful race for a new term as prime minister, Pierre Trudeau outlined a national energy program aimed at reducing the present 72 percent foreign share of Canadian oil earnings to no more than 50 percent by 1990.

The program is aimed mostly at American interests which control 80 percent of the foreign share of oil earnings in Canada.

Some American critics of the Trudeau policy say Canadian oil never would have been developed without the financial aid of American multinational oil firms because Canadian banks declined to make the necessary capital available. Others contend Canadian oil was made viable by Canadian government policy making possible a healthy profit.

Among the provisions of the Trudeau plan, some of which remain to be voted into law, is a call for replacement of oil depletion allowances for petroleum development on federal land with a program of incentive grants tied to the degree of an oil company's Canadian ownership.

Those with less than 50 percent Canadian ownership are left out entirely.

Reagan administration officials say the good faith investment of Americans in such companies will be unfairly eroded.

Canada also is requiring oil companies on government land to use Canadian suppliers and to hire a Canadian employees.

A U.S. official, asking not to be identified by name, said that although this restriction has been modified somewhat, "there appear to be a number of hidden disincentives for dealing with non-Canadian suppliers."

As pressures for retaliation build, some U.S. officials warn that countermeasures could boomerang if they are too harsh.

Investors lose millions in oil scams

DALLAS (AP) — Since domestic oil prices were deregulated beginning in late 1979, there has been a huge boom in the oil industry, bringing instant prosperity to oilfield workers, independent oilmen, equipment suppliers — and swindlers.

"With oil priced at $35 a barrel everybody and his ... dog is getting into the oil business," said Kenneth Hooper of the Texas Securities Board office in Lubbock. "We're getting everything from blatant con jobs to novices who are getting their experience on somebody else's money."

Investors are so eager to put their money into drilling operations they often do not check investment opportunities as closely as they should, authorities say.

Oil scams are so popular with con men in Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana that state agencies must spend much of their time policing the drilling business, frequently deferring other fields of investigation.

Dallas County Assistant District Attorney Steve Khoury said he sees a "proliferation of oil field fraud. Within the past 18 months it has become pervasive."

State and federal regulators say three of the most common schemes involve selling shares in wells that do not exist, selling pieces of drilling ventures with no plans to strike oil and overselling interests in wells.

"I know a lot of it goes undetected because so many of these investors have no knowledge of the oil industry," Khoury said.

Promoters operate under a Securities and Exchange Commission rule that permits a maximum of 35 investors to join a venture under a "private placement offering" without registering with the SEC.

The rule, first implemented in 1978 to help independent oil companies raise money, exempts smaller ventures from the registration required of publicly offered drilling programs. Regulators say Rule 146 amounts to a loophole for unscrupulous promoters.

"The problem is that information sent out, which we never see, is frequently and substantially defective in that it doesn't tell the investor very much about the offering and doesn't tell him very much about the people making the offering," said Chris Brown, assistant administrator of the SEC enforcement division in Fort Worth.

Many swindlers do not bother to file an application for the exemption anyway, Brown said. They simply start soliciting money from investors.

Mike Armstrong of the Dallas security board office said many promoters buy leases in old oil fields where wells might produce two or three barrels a day. But because the promoter actually has drilled a well, he is insulated from accusations of fraud.

A General Accounting Office report to Congress said $350 million nationwide is a conservative estimate of investor losses.

SEC investigators in a five-state regional office in Fort Worth and state securities boards in Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana are working together to combat the fraud.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Tuesday, September 29, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Singing cowboy Gene Autry celebrates this birthday with you. He now occupies his time buying million-dollar ballplayers for his California Angels and operating successful broadcasting and hotel properties. Those born on this date are good-natured, quick thinking and able to inspire others. Although you may feel restless at times, the year ahead will be a productive one. Business, finance and romance all enjoy favorable influences. Singles are apt to find that their romantic attachments are exciting but fleeting. Choose you companions with care. Your best friends reciprocate your warmth and share your absorption in the pursuit of learning.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Tackle paperwork early in the day. Trust your instincts. A financial drain may continue, but a solution is near. Simmer down or a quarrel could develop between you and romantic partner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You may want to try your hand at crafts, gardening or cooking. Go to it! A new project provides a welcome break in routine. A social function can affect business prospects.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): If you have been feeling restless lately, look for ways to change your lifestyle. Mate will be supportive and may offer an unusual idea. A financial windfall is possible!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Concentrate on projects you can handle alone. Make an appearance at professional meetings and social gatherings where you can meet influential people.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): The workload is heavier now but you reap new rewards. Step up your social acitivites. Romance is just around the corner!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Seek ways to make useful economies. Consider all of the options available to you and discuss the various possibilities with mate or partner. Travel requires special care.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A tender message will perk up your spirits. Stick to tried-and-true methods at work. A secret wish moves closer to becoming reality, thanks to a longtime friend.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Influential person is cooperative. Stick to routine tasks early in the day. Your hunches pay off. A stroke of good luck is featured. Correspondence contains important news.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You may end up giving away something that you would prefer to keep for yourself. Changes in your ideas and plans may surprise even you! Settle outstanding financial obligations.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You are more realistic than most people and should eventually attain your goals. The search for perfection requires hard work and constant study.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Work is unusually challenging now. Take things one at a time. Be open-minded regarding a young person's proposals, but do not surrender your principles.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Travel is fun, but the cost may be a bit unsettling. You may not like what a friend has to say, but it could be the truth. Consider mate's feelings.

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠8 ♡6 ◇AKJ5 ♣AKJ8752
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ◇	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—This is no time to dilly-dally. You can assume that partner has the queen of diamonds, so all you are interested in is how many aces he has. Bid four no trump and end in either five, six or seven diamonds, depending on whether partner has no ace, one or two.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q109874 ♡6 ◇KQ10762
Your right-hand opponent opens the bidding with one heart. What action do you take?

A.—This may seem unorthodox, but we suggest that you overcall with two diamonds. With such a distributional freak, there should be a lot more bidding on this hand, and you should try to get in your two suits as cheaply as possible. By first overcalling in diamonds and then competing in spades at whatever level the bidding is at when it comes round to you again, you will actually save a level, although your partner may not realize that your suits are equal in length.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK872 ♡KJ ◇73 ♣9872
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♡	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner's heart rebid in this sequence almost always promises a six-card suit, so you really have pretty good support. We like three hearts. The only alternative is a bid of three clubs in an attempt to reach three no trump. But if partner takes a preference to three spades, you won't know what to do—to correct to four hearts now will suggest a much stronger hand and possibly a singleton diamond.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KJ82 ♡K976 ◇K ♣AKJ9
Your partner opens the bidding with one spade. What do you respond?

A.—In our experience, the best way to describe this type of hand is to flash the slam signal at once. A jump shift is called for, and the obvious suit in which to jump is clubs. We can't think of any bid other than three clubs.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠J8 ♡AKQ62 ◇K63 ♣A83
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	1 ♠	2 ◇	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Now that partner has responded freely at the three-level, you want to be in game. A raise to three diamonds doesn't do your hand justice, and a jump rebid in hearts on a five-card suit is against our religion. The most viable option is to make a waiting bid of three clubs—partner's next bid should clear up his holding.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A83 ♡J65 ◇AQ107 ♣1092
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	1 ♠	2 ◇	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	?

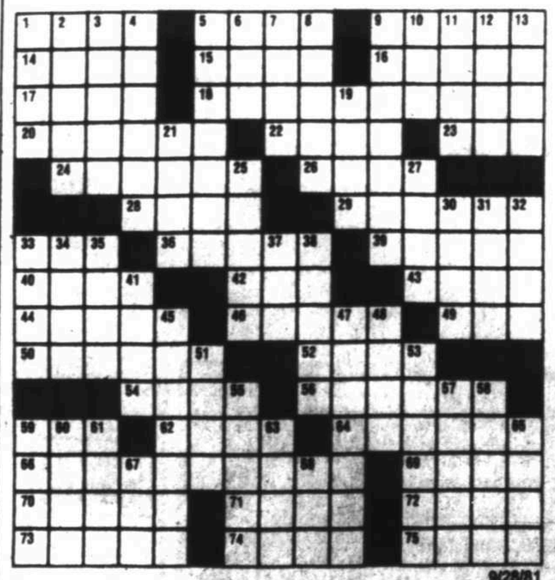

What do you bid now?

A.—To be sure, you hold a very find supporting hand and slam could easily be in the cards. But you have already shown a decent hand by bidding freely at the two-level, and your square distribution is a liability. Raise to four hearts. For slam to be a good bet, partner must make the next move. What we dislike about a spade cue-bid is that it suggests a more unbalanced hand.

Five arrested

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Four Texas men and a Shreveport man were in custody here today following their arrest for theft in what police described as a theft ring specializing in oilfield trucks and equipment.

Bossier City police and Caddo Parish officers said they recovered an estimated $500,000 worth of stolen equipment when they arrested the men.

The equipment was stolen in Texas and was to have been sold through Shreveport to drilling companies in Texas, police said.

The men were identified as J.D. Jackson, 33, of Shreveport, and four San Antonio, Texas, men identified as Scott Edge, 21; Randy Dean Davis, 17; Troy M. Hatfield, 18; and Chris Arnett, 24.

"They're wanted by agencies all over Texas" said Bossier City detective Mac Plummer.

Stock market gains

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices recovered some of their deep opening losses in heavy trading today but still were off over a broad range following one of the worst one-day price drops on London and Tokyo markets.

Blue-chip issues reversed their declines almost as quickly as they fell. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which immediately dropped more than 14 points after the opening bell, was off only 3.99 points at 820.02 after two hours of trading.

Although declines led advances 5 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange, the margin narrowed substantially from the 23-1 edge earlier in the session.

Big Board volume was 28.67 million shares compared with 20.70 million in the same period Friday.

Prices were under pressure at the opening from several fronts. Investors are concerned the federal budget deficit will not soon be brought under control, allowing interest rates to fall. A high level of margin, or credit calls, has helped push prices lower because as stock prices fall, traders who bought shares on credit either must provide more cash or sell their shares.

In addition, predictions by market analyst Joseph Granville that markets worldwide this week would suffer extreme losses was credited with helping the price slide overseas, which carried into New York trading.

But prices began to stabilize amid some bargain hunting and a reduction of Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Co.'s prime lending rate to 19 percent from 19.5 percent, analysts noted.

However, the prime rate cut was seen as having little effect on bond prices, many of which tumbled to new lows at the opening.

NYSE decliners included Mobil ¼ to 24¾, Sony ¾ to 15¼ and Storage Technology ⅜ to 31½. Exxon, which had been off ⅜, later was up ⅛ to 30¼.

LTV fell ¼ to 13¾. Grumman said today its board had rejected LTV's offer to merge and had filed an anti-trust suit against LTV.

The market value index at the American Stock Exchange was off 4.12 points to 272.64.

The NYSE's composite index was down 0.48 to 64.48.

Chamber to meet in Abilene

ABILENE — The Mid-Year Meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has been set for Oct. 16-18, in Abilene. Water Resource Development, National Issues and the "Texas 2000" program will be among topics addressed during the regional chamber's regular fall program.

Speakers appearing on the program will include Congressman Charles Stenholm, representing the 17th District of Texas; State Senator Grant Jones of Abilene, Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee; House Speaker Bill Clayton; Louis Beecherl Jr., chairman of the Texas Water Development Board; Dr. Herbert Grubb, director of planning, Texas Department of Water Resources; and Ray Hutchison of Dallas, attorney and legislative consultant.

WTCC President Burvin Hines of Arlington stated that information on the proposed Water Fund Constitutional Amendment to go before Texas voters in November would be presented. A question and answer panel will give WTCC members present an opportunity to become better informed on this important issue.

The WTCC is the state's largest regional chamber of commerce serving 132 West Texas counties.

Registration will open at noon Friday, Oct. 16, at the Kiva Inn. Friday afternoon activities will include a golf tournament, West Texas 2000 Committee Meetings and an evening reception.

Saturday's agenda will get under way with program sessions beginning at 8 a.m. The afternoon schedule includes a meeting of the WTCC Board and an address on national issues.

The meeting will conclude with the Annual WTCC Century Club Breakfast, Sunday morning, Oct. 18.

Contact WTCC, P.O. Box 1561, Abilene, Texas, 79604 or call (915) 677-4325 for reservations.

BUSINESS MIRROR

Granville is dropping international bombshells

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Watch out, world. Joseph Granville has gone international.

The controversial market forecaster, who stood Wall Street on its ear last January with a "sell everything" recommendation, dropped a similar bombshell over Britain last week.

Granville, interviewed on a radio program broadcast in London on Wednesday, forecast a steep drop in British share prices, catching the ear of many traders just before they headed for their offices in the City.

That day prices on the London Stock Exchange posted their second largest decline on record, and Thursday they lost more ground. Within 48 hours, the market dropped by some $10 billion.

As with Granville's U.S. sell recommendation early this year, there seemed to be an element of self-fulfilling prophecy in the whole affair.

The moment he predicted a decline, the hordes of his followers known as "Granville groupies" apparently made it a reality by inundating the market with sell orders.

"I regret fires, I don't set them," Granville maintained in an interview with Press Association, Britain's domestic news agency. But he also acknowledged, "I added a bit of fuel to the flames."

At the same time, Granville made his views clear on the bear market in U.S. securities by predicting that the Dow Jones industrial average, now in the 800s, could fall to between 550 and 650 by the end of next year.

In a few hours of trading on the day he said that, the average tumbled more than 15 points, before recovering to finish the session with a loss of 4.76.

For several months early this year, Granville appeared to be very far out on a tenuous limb with his January prediction of a market decline. Although the Dow Jones industrials fell 23.80 on Jan. 7, the day after he switched from bullish to bearish, they were back up by late April to an eight-year high.

Since then, however, they have taken a precipitous drop, bearing out the substance of his forecast if not its timing. Granville, at least, is chalking it up as another correct call.

"True to the documentation of my theory, the news is fast catching up with the sell signal of eight months ago," he declared in his Sept. 19 market letter.

And Granville's "shows and appearances" seem to be as flamboyant as ever. A recent gathering in Memphis, Tenn., opened with a performance by a belly dancer to dramatize the fact that, in Granville's words, "this market in 1981 went belly up."

INVESTORS GUIDE

Savers Certificates benefit taxpayers

BY BILL DOYLE

Q. Help! This is urgent. We must find out if the new tax-free "All Savers Certificates" will benefit us. For 1981, we estimate my salary will be $22,162, my wife will earn $5,440 and we will get $6,723 in interest — mostly from savings certificates — at total of $34,325. My wife will put $816 — 15 percent of her salary — into her Individual Retirement Account (IRA).

When two of our present certificates mature in a few months, should we put the money into All Savers Certificates?

A. The quick answer is "probably, yes," with some words of caution. As a married couple filing a joint income tax return, you'll be able to get $2,000 of tax-free interest from the new All Savers Certificates issued by banks and savings and loan associations. So, you should put only enough money into those certificates to receive $2,000 interest.

The maximum interest on the one-year All Savers Certificates will be 70 percent of the rate on 52-week U.S. Treasury bills. That makes those certificates suitable only for people in income tax brackets 30 percent or higher. Anyone in a tax bracket below 30 percent can buy 52-week Treasury bills, collect higher interest, and, after paying taxes, end up with more money.

Low bracket taxpayers can do even better with higher-yielding investments, such as 182-day and 30-month savings certificates and money market mutual funds.

From the information you provide, you are most likely in a tax bracket higher than 30 percent. For 1981, the 30 percent bite starts on "taxable income" above $24,600. Taxable income is after all adjustments to income, deductions and exemptions. It's doubtful those items will reduce your taxable income to the $25,000 area.

Next year, however, just might be a different story. Under the new federal tax law, you'll be in the 30 percent bracket with taxable income of more than $29,000. I'm assuming you will take advantage of the new rules, allowing both you and your wife to put $2,000 into IRAs, beginning in 1982. That will cut your taxable income by $4,000 and might put you in an income tax bracket below 30 percent.

Many people are faced with the question you asked. To get the answer each family must first add up all the income it is required to report on its tax return. From that total subtract all its adjustments to income — including IRA contributions — deductions and exemptions. Then check if the resulting taxable income number puts them in a 30 percent or higher tax bracket.

Q. I have an idea on how to get more than $1,000 in tax-free interest from the new All Savers Certificates. I'll buy a big enough certificate this year to get $1,000 interest. When the certificate matures next year, I'll buy another one — maybe at a different bank. I'll get $2,000 of tax-free interest over a two-year period. What say you?

A. Nice try. But, if the Internal Revenue Service computers are programmed correctly, your idea won't work. The new tax rules allow banks and savings and loan associations to issue Small Saver Certificates with one-year maturities from Oct. 1, 1981, through Dec. 31, 1982. But each taxpayer is allowed to receive no more than $1,000 — $2,000 for joint tax returns — of tax-free interest from those certificates.

If you claim more than $1,000 on an individual return or $2,000 on a joint return — even on returns for different years — the revenooers' computers are supposed to go "till" and catch you.

New tax law takes effect

AUSTIN — State Comptroller Bob Bullock's office is reminding Texans that a new state inheritance tax law took effect this month and will apply to estates of those who died on or after Sept. 1, 1981.

The Comptroller's office reported the new law will save Texas taxpayers at least $20 million in death taxes the first year.

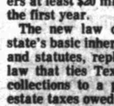

The new law did away with the state's basic inheritance tax schedule and statutes, replacing them with a law that ties Texas inheritance tax collections to a part of the federal estate taxes owed.

For example, under the old state law if the federal tax due was $5,000, the "federal credit" would be $500 and the state inheritance $700, resulting in the Internal Revenue Service collecting $4,500 and Texas $700.

Under the new law, Texas would now collect the "federal credit" of $500 and the IRS would collect $4,500, using the $5,000 example.

In effect, the new law allows persons who owe federal estate taxes to deduct from the amount due the federal government any inheritance tax paid to the state.

Much credit belongs to Legislative Council

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas senators and representatives can brag about their achievments in Austin but much of the credit belongs to a seldom heard-of state agency — the Texas Legislative Council.

Although a lawmaker proudly tells his voters that such-and-such bill is "his bill," the council actually writes about 85 percent of the proposes new laws and law changes introduced, according to Executive Director Robert I. Kelly.

By the time both houses have made their respective amendments and substitutions, the council handles almost 95 percent of all legislation that passes through the Legislature.

Kelly performs an additional function by acting as parliamentarian of the House, settling the many parliamentary disputes that arise.

The council has a payroll of about 120 persons at all times, including many veteran and well-qualified lawyers, some of them former legislators.

During legislative sessions the council staff increases to about 200, mostly by addition of typists and printers who work a double shift to keep up with the constant and tremendous flow of paperwork.

"No matter what we do the volume of paper keeps growing," said Kelly, who is completing his first term with the Legislature. He took the place of Robert Johnson, a former legislator from Dallas who operated the council for many years. Before that, Kelly was an assistant to Johnson and assistant House parliamentarian for 10 years.

"There is a 10 to 12 percent increase in the number of billls and resolutions every time the Legislature meets," said Kelly. "That has been true for the last 10 years. And there is no sign it will decrease."

In addition to helping legislators with proposed legislation during sessions, the council conducts its own studies and research efforts between sessions.

The council also works closely with the Texas Legislative Budget Board, which makes interim studies and recommendations on state spending.

There are three major divisions in the council.

— The Legal Division does research, drafting of bills and provides legal advice for legislators. During a legislative session the legal division also reviews and checks all bills that pass eather house to catch errors and be sure the proposals are in correct form.

— The Research Division helps individual legislators and committees in drafting resolutions. This includes a survey of other states' laws and programs, library research and the preparation of formal memorandum. After the session, the division propares summaries of work done and other information about legislation passed during the session.It also prepares the analyses of proposed constitutional changes that will be on the next ballot.

— The Legislative Information System of Texas (LIST) is a big computer system that records and retains all information the council considers necessary to its work. The computer operates a text processing system for typing bills, resolutions, reports and correspondence, along with the daily House and Senate journals.

Call it the Moral Minority...

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The Moral Majority is definitely in the minority in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, according to a survey conducted by two professors with the University of Texas at Arlington.

The survey, conducted by students and supervised by sociologists Anson Shupe Jr. and Bill Stacey, covered 771 households in 10 cities in the metropolitan area, seeking opinions on the conservative religious group that was founded by evangelist Jerry Falwell.

"We were interested to see if Jerry Falwell had the level of support he claims," said Shupe.

Of those surveyed, Shupe said, 111 people — 14 percent — said they support the Moral Majority. But 220 people — 28.5 percent — said they did not support the religious organization and 389 people — almost half — said they were indifferent to the Moral Majority.

"The thing we really expected was a much larger level of support in the area, which is the heart of the Bible Belt," Shupe said.

Stacey and Shupe said they considered their survey an "acid test" of Falwell's support. "If you can't find it here, it's doubtful that you can find it in the North," they wrote in the report of their findings.

Falwell has used the religious organization as a platform to publicize his views on such political issues as the Equal Rights Amendment and abortion, both of which he opposes.

The UTA survey, however, showed no solidarity on those issues, even among individuals who back Falwell's group.

Of the 111 people who said they supported the Moral Majority, 34 percent said they support the ERA and 34 percent said they do not agree that abortion is a sin.
