DAVIDSON'S VARI-COLORED VARIGATED CIRCULAR GIVES VALUES

Out yesterday, was Davidson Bros. & Co's circular of many "hues", to many "yous", which bears an important message to each recipient, —that of Value, Value, Value!

Headed with a "We're Kicking Off With a Great November Sale" this circular gives a story of value on its every page, and this is store-wide, and not in a few departments.

There are values for every member of the family, and the values start with the smallest and go on to the eldest, and with it carries many items for the household.

Entries Continue for Amateur Night; Closes Wed.

Entries for the Elmer Club Amateur night to be staged at the City Auditorium continue to come in, and latest reports are that a bit of "color" has at last been added to the program, which will carry the "customers" over the entire route of amateur acts, from quartets to, —well, we've got to keep something from you.

Arrangements are being made for a big night, and the high school girls will be put with the "pasteboards" soon to be certain that the financial end of this No.

Included in the tentative program for this big night will be "Football Boys On Parade" (in Uniform); a family group of singers, cowboy songs, keyed up a guitar, piano's popular songs, one-man-band, quartet with religious and popular songs, Hawaiian guitars, and Tap dancing and singing, a la Harlem.

Talk about a bill of entertainment! The Pan-American, Billy Rice's Casa Manana, Cleveland's big show, —none of these will have anything on this show for variety, fun, good acts, music or what have you.

And capping it all, it's all built up for the benefit of the Hornet club, which body and soul is behind the local high school athletic teams, football, basketball, and whatever they play and what's furthermore Hornet's homes are not all in the city limits, but represent nearly every section of the county, and this all is expected to draw a capacity crowd on the night of November 12.

Kirkpatrick belittled his own team mates even more than he did the Killeen boys by galloping easily down the field for a touchdown in the first three minutes of play in the game which ended with a score of 26-13. Culberson and Williams cleared the way but they were not even noticed by the on lookers. Before the quarter was over White, Williams and Oldam had paved another highway over which Kirkpatrick drove to town.

The second quarter seemed to be a resting spell. The Hornets ceased their buzzing and the Killeen players showed some good blocking and tackling as they held their end of the game up throughout the quarter. Their good playing continued during the third quarter in which Bishop, of Killeen, astounded everyone by passing successfully to Arnold and Levy for 7 points.

During the fourth quarter the Hornets swarmed again. Duncan Kirkpatrick made 13 points, then passed to Jackson for a final point making the score 26-7. The Junior Hornets then simply wilted away in front of Bishop, Levy, Arnold and Furgis who forced their way across the goal line for another 6 points.

FFA ELECT CLUB SWEET- HEART

Mildred Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curt Moore of Slater, was elected club "Sweet-heart" by the Future Farmers of America at the Gatesville High School Tuesday. The candidates were so evenly matched that the farmers had to have a runoff before they could reach an agreement.

SIGNALS!

We've got Signals! Signals on the gridiron, train signals, and TRAFFIC SIGNALS.

The whole idea (this from the City Hall) that we are not recognizing these traffic signals. We town folks.

No kick has been registered about those living outside the city limits, or those traveling men who "make" the city. It's us very own town folks!

Now, without threatening, those that do the saying, say everyone is going to observe these traffic signals. And, if they are not recognized, a way will be found to persuade.

cars, but the "Jaywalkers" and "lightwalkers" who seem to think the lights are made "For Cars Only".

This is the substance of a gentle warning which comes from the City Hall.

Red Cross Observes Nursing Anniversary

1937 Marks 25th Year Of Public Health Nursing In Rural Areas

"Prior to inauguration of the Red Cross Town and Country nursing service in 1912, no national effort was made to bring nursing skill to the rural sickbed," James L. Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations for the American Red Cross, said today in commenting on the silver anniversary of Red Cross public health nursing.

In a plea for an increased membership during the coming Red Cross annual Roll Call held from November 11th to the 25th, Mr. Fieser pointed out that Red Cross rural nursing rounds out 25 years of continuous service this year. "It is essential activities such as this which the American people support through membership," he said.

In 1910 Lillian Wald, then head resident of the Henry Street Settlement in New York City, proposed that the American Red Cross pioneer in the field of rural nursing. Public health nurses were active in urban districts but no similar provision had been made to guard the health of the rural dweller. Miss Wald felt that the Red Cross was best qualified for the undertaking through its long experience in converting humanitarian ideals into practical accomplishment.

Two years later the first Red Cross rural nurse set forth upon her rounds in a county in Massachusetts. Jacob Schiff, member of the Red Cross Board of Incorporators, and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid each contributed funds to start the project. Special courses of training for nurses resulted in young women who thoroughly knew the mechanics of this new job.

By 1918 there were 100 rural nursing services conducted by Red Cross chapters; and 18 months later the number of services had skyrocketed to 2,000, as the signing of the Armistice released a flood of War nurses for peace-time duty.

"Reorganization and consolidation eventually cut the number of public health nurses serving under the Red Cross flag," Mr. Fieser stated. "But as a group their efficiency increased."

Mr. Fieser called attention to a study of Red Cross public health nursing accomplishments since the service was begun. "Statistics show that in all nearly 3,000 services were established by the Red Cross," he said. "During the past 15 years 6,800 public health nurses were assigned to chapters, and a total of 18,000,000 visits were made to or in behalf of patients."

"Each year during the past 11, more than 440,000 rural school children have been found to have physical defects. Each year 189,000 of these children were helped through treatment."

At the present time there are 655

RIPLEY FINDS DR. BAILEY HERE IN GATESVILLE TEXAS

In one of Wednesday's dailies Dr. Ralph Bailey of Gatesville is written up by one Robert L. Ripley in his cartoon, "Believe It Or Not".

Besides picturing a picture of Dr. Bailey, which evidently was drawn by someone who has never seen him, the cartoon says: "Dr. Ralph Bailey, Gatesville, Texas has attended 7 generations of the same family".

Mr. Ripley needn't stop with Dr. Bailey because there are many other strange things here that could be used in his world famous cartoon.

About to call the boys hereabouts "lilies" but someone said they actually had a chair on the standpipe, which stopped all that.

It's copied, but it's true: "In the town where merchants do not advertise, there is no parking problem."

It's also "clipped": It takes 1500 nuts to hold an automobile together, but one nut can scatter it all over the landscape.

And then there's the "Gatesville" merchant who buys groceries off a peddler in a nice looking truck. The local merchant sells his wares here.

Americanism: Asking the city to install traffic lights at strategic points, and then driving thru them.

And this is National Apple Week, Oct. 30 to Nov. 6 with one of the newest dance craze from Harlem "The Big Apple". Washington state should adopt this as their state dance, and the music that goes with it as their state song.

Gatesville B & P W Club Have Social Meeting

The Gatesville B & P W club held its regular social meeting of the month Tuesday night in the Home Ec. Dept. in the new gym building with banquet served by Miss Lively and the Home Economic girls. The program for the evening was a master chart compiled from the Club members report, carrying out the year program of "Our Town's Business".

Miss Sidney Gibson, chairman of the legislative committee was in charge of the meeting. Master chart was discussed in regard to who owned the different business houses of our town with whom the club members traded. Two readings given by Miss Diltz, local expression teacher was enjoyed by the club. Mrs. Turk Brown, president, announced the new books purchased by Club had been received and placed in the County-City Library. Some 38 new books have been purchased by the club for the library, which is one of the Club projects for the year. The Club president also announced the Red Cross Membership campaign would begin November 11th, lasting thru Nov. 25th, the club is sponsoring this membership drive and members of the club will sell membership cards and receive contributions for the Red Cross during this drive.

An invitation received from the Temple B and P W club to attend the district No. 3 conference Nov. 20th and 21st, was announced. Discussion of new membership applications was discussed by Miss Maude Alice Painter, chairman of the membership committee.

Club members attending the meeting were: Sidney Gibson, Ernestine Durham, Louise Hall, Pauline Garner, Thelma McGilvery, Mary Oldham, Aubra Young, Bess Holmes, Maude Alice Painter, Leona Powell, Mabel Gardner, Mrs. Pearl White, Minnie Lou Witt, Truie Pearl McGilvery, Mamie Sue Halbrook and Mrs. Turk Brown. Guest attending, Miss Diltz, Mrs. Warley Ola Mae Parks, and Miss Duerer.

Business meeting of the club will be Tuesday night Nov. 16th, at 7:15 o'clock in the City Library.

Miss Lois Welch Weds David Corrigan

It was 9:00 on Sunday morning that Miss Lois Welch became the bride of David Corrigan in a simple, yet lovely wedding. The single ring ceremony was read by a cousin of the bride, Rev. Mr. J. B. Swindall of McDade.

The bride was attractively attired in a green alpaca crepe dress; on the skirt were two large quilted pockets. Her beret was of Brown Velvet, she carried a brown swede bag, brown gloves and her shoes were of Brown swede.

Only the immediate family were present, except Robt. Steakley of Odessa.

Mrs. Corrigan is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Welch. Since graduation from Gatesville High School she has been employed as Dr. T. M. Hall's assistant, and will continue her work there.

Mr. Corrigan formerly of Hamilton, has made his home in this city for the past several years, and now is a valuable employee at Meek's Cafe. A popular young couple, Mr. and Mrs. Corrigan are active in both church and social affairs.

Miss Costaline Griffie Complimented on Birthday

Mrs. Garland Bland was hostess to a delightful affair, honoring her sister Miss Costaline Griffie on her eighteenth birthday Sunday.

Following the birthday dinner the guest were entertained in various ways and pictures were taken.

Those enjoying the day with Miss Griffie were: Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Griffie and sons Walter and Austin of Arnett; Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Miles; Miss Gracie Rogers, Irene Thompson, Pauline Russell, Edith and Syble Anderson; Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Williams and son Alton; Dave Lee; Wieford and Dalton Morgan; Mrs. Walter Keener and son; Mrs. Bland and children.

The honoree received many lovely gifts, and at conclusion of the afternoon the guest left, all wishing her many more happy birthdays.

Misses Oldham and Sutton Entertain Monday Club

At the home of Mrs. Richard Dickie Misses Mary Oldham and Laura Sutton were hostess to the regular meeting of the Monday Bridge Club.

In carrying out the Armistice idea miniature flags centered each table where the guest were seated. Boquets of cespins and chrysanthemums adorned the room.

High score winners for the evening were Miss Jewel Witcher and Loucille Eanes; and Mrs. Bailey received the guest prize.

A salad course and orange drink were served to the following members: Misses Maude Alice Painter, Aurora Young, Mary Brown, Ola Mae Parks, Pauline Garner, Sydney Gibson, Bess Holmes, Louise Carl, Jewel Witcher, Loucille Eanes, Lois Scott, Lois Grantham, Louise Hall, Ernestine Durham, Mamie Sue Halbrook, Truie Pearl and Thelma McGilvery, and the two guests, Miss Anna Lou Pressley of McKinney and Mrs. Bailey, Curry.

Miss Ruth Jones of Gatesville Is Wed to Leo Domstead

Miss Ruth Jones of Gatesville and Leo Domstead of McAllen were united in marriage at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Domstead in McAllen at 6:30 p. m. Saturday, R. M. Domstead is a brother of the groom.

The Rev. Lawrence, pastor of the McAllen Church of Christ officiated, at the single ring ceremony, solemnized in a setting made pretty with arrangements of white roses and maidens hair fern.

Following the rites, a reception was held at which the wedding cake topped with a tiny bride and groom, was served with punch to those present. The delicious refreshments were served from a beautifully lace laid table centered with the cake, which was flanked on either side by tall white tapers.

Those attending the ceremony were: Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Domstead, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Parsons, Miss Jeanne Bales, Mrs. R. C. Bales, Jack Parsons, Ralph Carl Domstead and Charles Lynn Jones. —McAllen Paper

Miss Fern Cooper spent the week end with her parents Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Cooper at Copperas Cove.

M. Millard of Waco; Mr. and Mrs. John Priest of Hamilton; and Miss Hilma Dreyer of Waco.

TUESDAY MARKED THE PASSING OF MRS. J. M. WATSON

Mrs. J. M. Watson was born in Montgomery County, Alabama, August 7th, 1869. She was christened in infancy, and joined the Church at a early age. Always she was proud of her heritage and the part she took in church work.

In 1899 she was married to J. M. Watson, and in 1893 they moved to Texas on the King Ranch. It was here that she assisted in organizing the church and also the Eastern Star Chapter. Before moving to Coryell county they lived in Oklahoma and helped organize the First M. E. Church at Ardmore. It was in 1905 that they moved to Coryell County, where she has lived most of the time since.

During the last seventeen years Mrs. Watson's activities have been limited, as her health was poor, but it was just three months ago that she became confined to her bed, and was moved to a Temple Sanitarium, where she passed away Tuesday at 2:20 p. m.

Mrs. Watson was preceded in death by her husband, who died in 1928, and also two sons, K. B. and Mrs. Martin Davis are her remaining children; and one grandchild survive, Miss Ermin Davis.

Funeral services, conducted by Rev. M. M. Chunn, were held at the First Methodist Church, at 2:30; interment followed in the City Cemetery with Scott Funeral Directors in Charge.

"DEAD END" POWERFUL DRAMA OF LIFE IN A CITY STREET

Twenty-four hours of throbbing life in a city street, paved with riches and poverty, comedy and tragedy, romance and heartaches, thunders across the screen in Samuel Goldwyn's production of "Dead End", which begins a 3 day engagement at the Regal Theatre on Sat. nite 10:30 Sunday and Monday.

Sylvia; Sidney and Joel McCrea are starred at the head of a great cast in this powerful human story based on the stage hit by Sidney Kingsley as produced by Norman Bel Geddon, which set records in its Broadway run and then was cheered from Coast to Coast.

Miss Sidney has her greatest role as Drina, the girl who valiantly fought a losing battle to keep her little brother Tommy from the gangster's fate ahead of him and to raise them high out of the slums.

Great Cast

McCrea is seen as Dave, the poor architect who loved who dreamed of tearing down all the tenements in the world and loved the beautiful Kay, played by Wendy Barrie, who had found a way out of the slums into penthouse luxury.

Humphrey Bogart plays "Baby Face Martin", the killer, drawn back from his gangland haunts to the slum where he was spawned by an irresistible yearning to see his mother and his boyhood sweetheart, Francy, once more—who faced the cold steel of the G-men's bullets, all to find that his mother hated the very sight of him and that Francy had taken life the easiest way.

Miss Jessie Fauntleroy, has returned to her home here after a very enjoyable visit with relatives in Kentucky.

Turkey Growers Attention!

As this week marks the opening of the Turkey Season of 1937, we wish to call your attention to some very important facts:

Did You Know---

1. We are the only turkey buyers in Coryell County who dress our turkeys at home.
2. That each car of turkeys dressed at our plant in Gatesville means $400.00 paid to your sons or husbands for labor.
3. That over a full deal this amounts to approximately $5,000.00. Our boys and our county needs this money, so think before you sell your turkeys, and let's keep our money at home.

WORLD COMMENT

Joe Burns

II. FORMULA FOR PEACE

In the preceding article the writer presented a series of proposals which if applied by a compromising world would alleviate the tension now prevalent in international diplomacy and probably obviate the possibility of another war in this century. The proposals were based upon a reapportionment of the natural resources of the world.

In this article I shall amplify the formula for peace presented in these two articles by discussing the need for the creation of an international peace machinery capable of enforcing the decisions of a majority of the world powers.

In the preceding article I stated that my peace formula could only be applied if three conditions were existent, namely, a determination on the part of the peoples of the world living under democratic governments to ban war forever from the earth; a willingness to undergo economic loss (which, I might add, would in any event be trivial compared with the cost of a prolonged and worldwide war) in order to achieve this purpose; an adequate reflection of the views of the democratic peoples in the actions of their governments.

The initiative in any move or movement to insure world peace is, I believe, in the hands of the democratic government and the peoples which they represent. Likewise, after concessions which I believe necessary to any lasting peace are made, the maintenance of the status quo is in the hands of the democratic states until such times as national aggrandizement shall be abandoned by the states currently characterized as "bad boys".

The fundamental principles of the League of Nations were not unsound. They were projected upon a world which was not ready or willing to abandon war as a national policy. They were released at a time when national rivalries and tariff barriers set up insuperable obstacles toward the realization of Woodrow Wilson's dream.

I propose international peace machinery which would be in a position to effect more effective sanctions against belligerent and recalcitrant powers than are moral reprisals, namely, economic sanctions. Economic sanctions are only effective when participated in by all world powers, and that includes the dear old U. S. A.

If any state or combination of states knew that it would be subjected to immediate, complete and unbroken economic isolation when it embarked upon an offensive war or a war of aggression, that state would not embark upon that war. Upon those states which are today threatening the peace of the world, such an action would mean ruin and defeat within three months. Germany, you will recall, was not isolated in 1914-18 but had intercourse with Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria, Turkey, and half of European Russia in the latter stages of the war.

Such a policy would mean the complete abandonment of the neutrality policy of the United States. Such action would probably evoke opposition on the part of the traditional American pacifists and other groups now demanding invocation of the neutrality act against Japan. But let us look at the proposal in this light. Concurrence in any such economic boycott, enforced and supervised by a central body of representatives meeting at Geneva or The Hague, and contingent upon a majority of the world's inhabitants to undergo economic loss in order to achieve their objective, would align the United States with every world power of any consequence against only one state or at most against three. This would involve little risk of incurring against this Nation reprisals of the nature inflicted by Germany twenty years ago.

There is no logical reason why the statesmen of the world can not today effect a solution of their problems and controversies over a conference table. With the threat of economic sanctions which might be applied to any aggressive state remaining at the disposal of a world assembly, all problems would be settled and there would be no recourse to arm.

Frankly, your correspondent is not pessimistic about the chance of world peace. The time is coming when the Christian peoples of the world will unite under a peace banner that will sweep all before it. Aggression is

Twelve thousand eighty-three bales, to fifteen thousand eight hundred fifty-two, is the way the cotton statistics stack up at this time. The larger figure is the one up to October 18, of this year, as compared to the smaller for the same date last year.

This means, there are 3,769 more bales ginned this time this year than there were the same time last year.

W. R. Goodson, Special Agent for the Department of Commerce Bureau of the Census, is the statistician.

On the defensive and the forces arrayed against it are overwhelming.

Hornets Will "Calm" Mt. Calm Tonite at Local Lighted "Bowl"

Going into the seventh start of the nearing-to-the-close season, the 1937 edition of the Gatesville High School Hornets will take on Mt. Calm High School this evening at the local "bowl", with five wins to their credit, and unfortunately one loss.

With all hands on deck, barring possibly Hinsley, and the majority of the others with a few rough spots to be ironed out, the Hornets are due to come out on the big end of the scoring when the final blast of the whistle is sounded tonight.

Mt. Calm, so far during the season, hasn't done anything outstanding, and has played up to the pre-season dope, as being one of the weaker sisters of this Mid-Tex High School B Class Conference.

Needless to say, Coach Worley has given the boys the works this week, although resting those who are slightly injured, so that the Hornets may continue on the plus side of the ledger for the remainder of this successful season.

It is reliably reported that every member of the team will be in for the scene of battle, with the possible exception of Hinsley. White Davis, and one are two of the others including Big Bruising Voss, have been "making the sick list" for a few days, but Dr. Worley has them back at the grind now, and the fans can expect the Hornet machine to shine tonight.

With Hamilton and McGregor the two remaining games to be played, and the two, always preferred by the fans, Worley is likely to get a safe margin tonight (?), yank the whole first string, and let the 2's finish the game, so as not to have any injuries for the two final stanzas.

Tonite, therefore fans, you're likely to see every Hornet in a suit in action, and it's a darned good night to see what we will have for next year,—provided they can run up a safe margin shortly after the kick-off.

The fairs of England carry on traditions of recreation and joviality that have their origin in the Middle ages.

MRS. W. D. CARROL CELEBRATES EIGHTY-SIXTH BIRTHDAY

Sunday, October 31, a number of relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mrs. W. D. Carrol to celebrate her 86th birthday. Mrs. Carrol is one of few real pioneers who have left in this country. She and her husband, W. D. Carrol, preempted the land where she has made her home for more than half a century. She has seen the Indians on the mountains back of her home several times at the noon hour.

In the front yard, under trees that Mrs. Carrol had seen grow from small sprouts into trees, large enough to shade her family, was a long table loaded with everything good to eat, which everyone enjoyed. She had with her this time to celebrate her birthday her two sisters, Mrs. Bob Chatam of Waco and Mrs. Tom Etkin of Hubbard. It was the first time the three sisters had been together in twelve years. SPORTS

How it looks this week, via the Football route: Hornets 27, Mt. Calm 6. McGregor 7, Mart 19.

Southwestern Conference
Baylor 13, Texas 7.
TCU 21, Centenary 12.
Arkansas 19, Rice, 12.
A. & M. 20 SMU 13.

Mid-football season rolls around with all sports writers "gone haywire", and due to the absence of "ourn" if the above unthought guesses on the week-end games are a bit "screwy", well, they're good for a mere novice—if it don't rain!

Gatesville Hi Hornets should "Calm, Mt. Calm" without any too much trouble, since Mt. Calm lost to Valley Mills by a small score, which this season, my dears, is no indication of "nothin". Hinsley is the only regular who will probably be out of the game, and he's nursing a bad ankle. Worley needs both his foot and his arm, cause he's right good at bootin' and hurls a mean football.

In the Hornet Camp, we imagine the Worleyites are hoping they don't have to extend themselves, so that they can reserve what ever hot-shots they have for the traditional Hamilton and McGregor games, which with fatherly advice, we think are going to be two large assignments for Worley & Co. at two successive coming periods in the near future.

Now, getting collegiate, Jennings's Brown Bears are not the retiring type, neither do they have a braggadocio air about them. They are hard at it, and have been, confining mind, body and soul to the task ahead of them, and its some size, spelled T E X A S.

Due to this mental condition and the possibility of a real nice reward ahead, if they make an undefeated season, these Bears are going to take Texas, for the score above barring mud. Then a goose-egg a piece would be more likely.

TCU, the Conference Goliath, will take Centenary to camp, by whatever score they care to, which will be small because they're going to rest after the bear game. It was a whopper to them. This will be difficult to predict.

Rice is host to Arkansas, but with two tree-top-tall ends, and a good passer, Arkansas will pluck the Owls.

Stock in SMU is due to fall again, when the Aggies take them to camp, when "taps" closes the game at College Station this week.

Young Eyes need this better light

I. E. S. Better Sight Lamps Give 3 to 5 Times More Light Than Ordinary Lamps

A father whose own daughter was harming her eyes under poor light started the train of action that brings you the I. E. S. Better Sight Lamp.

It is the first lamp ever designed to protect eyesight. Every lighting feature of it is specified by the Illuminating Engineering Society. In over 2,000,000 homes it is giving relief to tired eyes.

An opal glass diffusing bowl softens light, prevents glare. Opening at top throws some light to ceiling, eliminating eye-straining contrasts of light and dark. Wide shade spreads light evenly over broad area. Special white shade lining reflects more light than most shades.

You actually get from 3 to 5 times more light than from ordinary lamps . . . yet the difference in operating cost is only a cent or two an evening. Order one or more of these sight-saving I. E. S. lamps for your home today!

Samuel Goldwyn PRESENTS DEAD END

The play that thrilled the nation becomes an even greater film, starring SYLVIA SIDNEY and JOEL McCREA, with Humphrey Bogart.
... Released through United Artists ...

Fictionized by VIRGINIA WARREN HASTINGS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Philip Griswald's father is furious when he hears of the attack on his son. He catches Tommy and is about to call a cop when Tommy slashes his wrist with a knife and runs. Drina and Dave, who see this, are horrified. Griswald reports the incident to Mulligan and demands that the boy be caught and punished. Meanwhile, "Baby Face" Martin awaits the arrival of Francey, his childhood sweetheart. She comes. She tells him the truth — she has become a woman of the streets. Martin gives her some money and turns from her in disgust.

Chapter Five

"Baby Face" Martin sat in Pas-cagli's sullenly staring at his drink. Twice in one day he had taken a beating. From his old lady. From Francey. And Hunk was getting nervous, wanted to clear out. Well, he wasn't going to go empty-handed. Martin decided grimly. He'd take something with him to remember Dead End by. Suddenly an idea struck him. Those kids on the wharf — they had beaten up that rich kid and stolen his watch. Well, there was no reason he couldn't be taken farther away. Hunk whispered urgently.

"No. No. We're too hot. Kidnaping ain't our game."

"Shut up," said Martin shortly.

"Go get Whitey. See what he knows about that swanky apartment house. Hurry up, get going."

Out in the street Dave stood watching Kay's terrace. There was a party in progress — a farewell party. The lights blazed, music drifted down and couples in evening dress were sitting about on the terrace laughing and drinking. Dave watched the scene unhappily for a few moments and turned towards the sandhopper. Drina was there.

"Not a sign of Tommy," he said dejectedly.

"I know. I've been all over." Drina's voice shook and she looked haggard.

"Where did he learn about things like knives, Dave? He's not a bad kid. I've tried so hard ever since he was little to tell him what was right. I wanted everything for him, nothing for myself. I tried to bring him up decent."

Dave said impatiently, "Oh, what chance have they got against all this? They got to fight for a place to play, fight for a little extra something to eat, fight for everything. They get used to fighting. Enemies of society, it says in the papers. Why not? What have they got to be friendly about?"

A fresh blast of music from Kay's terrace drew their attention.

"Come out of the light, Drina," said Dave. "People like us are in their way. Come where it's dark. That's where we belong."

He tried to draw her into the shadows, but she would not let him.

"No. That's not where I belong. You go over there. Stand where she can't see you and be ashamed. She's made you ashamed. Stop telling me nothing can be helped. Stop telling me not to try. You used to feel like trying, too. You used to say you were going to tear all this fifth down and build a decent world where people could live decent and be decent. Go on and get her and forget all this! And if you can forget it, it's all you were good for in the first place."

She was plainly crying now. He wanted to comfort her, but she was hurt and angry and ran from him through the door of her tenement house. To her surprise Tommy was there, sitting in the darkened room. He looked resentful and miserable.

"What did you do it for, Tommy?" she asked.

"Aw, I didn't mean to hurt him that way, but he was twisting my arm and calling the cops and I saw red —"

"But a knife — Tommy, they'll send you to jail!"

"Yeah, but they got to get me first. I got to run away, Drina."

"Don't talk so crazy, Tommy. What are you going to eat? Where are you going to sleep? How are you going to get along? You're only a kid."

Drina turned from him to the window. Her mind was reeling, but she must think, think of some way to get Tommy out of this mess. Fortunately, they didn't know his name. She decided that they must run away together — somewhere — perhaps to the country. Presently she saw that Tommy had fallen asleep with his head on the table. She leaned over and kissed his dark curly head.

"I got nobody in the world but you," she whispered. "Nobody at all."

Meanwhile Dave was out in the street. For some time, in the shadows of the sandhopper, he had watched Martin and Hunk and another man standing in front of the East River Apartments. They were talking in whispers and he could not hear what they said, but from their furtive gestures he knew something was up. As he walked towards them the man he did not know passed him and went up the street.

Dave addressed Martin. "You made enough trouble around here — you taught the kid to use the knife — well, don't do any more tricks. I'm taking a guess. And I don't like it. Get out before I tell the cops you're here."

Neither Martin nor Hunk moved. As Dave turned to go, Hunk drew a revolver. But before he could shoot Martin had drawn a knife and with a swift, well-calculated lunge had thrust it into Dave's back. Hunk moved in and clipped the reeling body under the chin; it hurtled back over the edge of the wharf into the water. The two men stood rigid as the splash subsided.

They began a cautious, deliberate walk towards the alley leading to the warehouse, but their escape was delayed by the doorman of the East River Apartments, who engaged them in a few minutes' idle conversation. Once safe within the darkness of the alley, they broke into a run. As they approached the end of the alley, the shadow of a figure loomed up ahead of them. It was black and dripping, and presently they saw that it was Dave Connell. Hunk drew his gun, but before he could shoot, Dave had hit Martin a terrific blow and he fell back against the wall. A short, swift, breathless battle followed between Dave and Hunk for possession of the gun. Dave forced the gun down on Hunk's head. As it cracked down with great force, and as Hunk's grip on it loosened, the gun went off. The report was sharp and startling in the quiet street.

Martin had heard the gun go off and had picked himself up. Losing no time, he made for the warehouse. Dave, with Hunk's gun, started in pursuit. Martin turned once to fire at Dave, who avoided the bullet by flattening himself against the wall of the alley.

The street was coming to life. There was the sound of many running footsteps. A police whistle blew shrilly again and again. Martin entered the warehouse and made his way to the roof through the skylight. The heavily-breathing figure of Dave came up not far behind him. From the roof Martin reconnoitered. He could see policemen and plain clothes men blocking off the street; a crowd had collected. He made a quick, daring decision and leaped from the edge of the roof to the ladder suspended between the roof of a nearby tenement and the fire escape. As he landed and started to climb the ladder, Dave fired twice. Martin's body went limp and fell into the street.

Dave could never remember clearly afterwards exactly what happened. The crowd pushing and milling about; the shrieking siren of the ambulance; Mrs. Martin's scream from the third story window of the tenement house; policemen and plain clothes men trying to maintain order; Dave saw it all as if in a dream. Over and over again he heard "Baby Face" Martin, "Baby Face" Martin. One of the plain clothes men congratulated him and called him a hero. He persuaded him to go to the hospital and have his wound dressed. Fortunately it was only a minor laceration. Suddenly he awoke to what the man was saying.

"Go and get yourself fixed up pretty so you can spend your reward money."

Dave realized that he had earned a five thousand dollar reward.

John Brown has "a cold"

John Brown is a man you know. He guards against all things that might endanger his health and well being. He never steps on the soap in the bath tub. He is careful to observe all traffic laws. If he cuts his finger he immediately protects it against infection. John Brown is usually a careful man. — But today John Brown has a cold that threatens his future health.

Like many others who catch cold during the winter season, John Brown overlooked the dangers of a sudden change of temperature. Last night he went from his warm and cozy living room to answer the telephone in the UNHEATED, adjoining room. Today John Brown, careful in all other things, has a cold.
