Census Day Approaches

Area residents will receive a large white envelope with blue lettering through the mail Friday.

This is a census questionnaire. It will be delivered according to address, not on the basis of name.

The United States Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census urges everyone to answer the questionnaire and return it in the pre-addressed, postage-paid envelope.

Below the address on the envelope will be a telephone number to call if help is needed in answering any questions.

With the questionnaire will be a yellow instruction guide that gives examples on how to fill it out.

The 1980 census symbol—a pencil inscribed "April 1" filling in the zero of "Census 80"—appears on the envelope with this message:

Tryouts Begin For Next Production

Auditions for "Picnic" will be held Monday and Tuesday, March 31 and April 1, at 7 p.m. at the Colorado City Playhouse, 337 Walnut Street in Colorado City.

"Picnic," by William Inge, pleases audiences with its special blend of romance, humor and drama.

The action of the play takes place in the joint back yards of two small town women. One has an invalid mother and the other has two matur-

"This envelope contains your official census form. Please fill it out and mail it back Tuesday, April 1."

April 1 is designated as the day of the official count of the U.S. population.

Every person living in each household on April 1 should be listed. Persons who moved away or died the day before should not be listed. Anyone who just moved in or a baby born on that day should be listed.

Answers should be marked with a black lead pencil, so if an error is made, it can be erased.

The questionnaire provided will be printed in two languages, English and Spanish.

Households that do not return a completed form will be contacted by Census takers, by phone or in person, to obtain the necessary information.

However, his animal magnetism has varied affects on the women and his presence soon upsets the entire group.

The cast is comprised of four men and seven women: Hal Carter, the young vagabond, in his twenties; Bomber, the paper boy, in his teens; Alan Seymore, suitor to Madge, in his twenties; Howard Bevins, a friend

SCS Programs To Undergo Changes

Soil Conservation Service is actively encouraging people to comment on the process and proposals of the Soil and Water Resources Conservation Act of 1977.

A 60 day public review period was designated beginning January 28 and ending Friday, March 28.

The future of soil and water resources depends on how wisely we use them now and in the future, SCS Director Van Mills stated.

He explained under the Act, the U.S. Department of Agriculture is developing a national program for the conservation of soil, water and related natural resources.

There are seven resource areas under consideration: soil resource quantity and quality; water quality; water supply and conservation; fish and wildlife habitat; upstream flood damages; energy conservation and production and related natural resources.

Seven solutions to problems existing in each of these seven resource areas are proposed.

Windfall Profits Tax Is Dubbed Oil Excise Tax

A Windfall Profits Tax Bill (HR 3913) is about to be signed into law.

A seminar on the proposed legislation will be held in the Abilene Civic Center Friday at 9:30 a.m.

The seminar will be held to better inform area oil and gas operators and royalty owners about the legislation.

The Independent Petroleum Association of America, with the assistance of West Central Texas Oil and Gas Association, will hold the seminar.

A presentation on all aspects of the bill will be made. Following that, there will be a question and answer period to last as long as is needed.

There will be no fee charged for the seminar and everyone is encouraged to attend.

Mitchell County independent oil operators and producers have commented on the proposed tax.

Buck Ellis of C.C. Tank Rental Company stated, "The Federal Tax levied on income on oil produced within the United States has been touted as a tax aimed at reducing profits of the large oil companies."

"Since the tax is a levy on a certain portion of the increases in the selling price of oil produced from a base level varying from around $5 to $15 per barrel up to the present selling price of $40 per barrel—it is not a tax on profits, but an Excise Tax."

Dan Barber of Barbsco commented, "The proposed tax is legally unconstitutional because it singles out and taxes one segment of society."

Jackie Joiner of Joiner Company stated, "This tax is pictured to look like it will hit the large companies. This will not be the case."

"The consumer will pay for it in the long run. The increased taxes will be passed on to the consumer by the major companies, while the independent operators can't pass it on. It is a case of the small getting smaller and the big companies getting bigger."

Ellis further commented, "A general tax increase (whether on income, sales or specifically on oil products) would be massively resisted by all concerned. It would have been a directly applied tax. The imposition of this, supposedly on oil companies, has been 'put over' with no general outcry, even though it is surely to be paid by each citizen as if it had been a direct levy."

Barber stated, "Oil has become a political football. People need to stop and ask themselves just who constitutes oil industry. They would likely find the answer is just plain folks who purchase and own stocks, stocks that are purchased hopefully to make a profit."

Joiner said, "This will not reduce prices any, instead we will just be sending more to Washington with not much coming back."

"Everything I make here goes back into the local economy, but everything we send overseas or to Washington we never get back. If we are going to have a tax, let's keep it local."

Ellis noted, "The imposition of any tax on See OIL Page 6

Hospital Board Considers New Phone Dimension Plan

Root Memorial Hospital may have a new Southwestern Bell Telephone Dimension System in the near future.

The system is a software-driven, micro-processor which incorporates fewer moving parts than the old manual PBX currently used by the hospital.

Using the new system, contact with key personnel within the hospital and staff members outside the facilities can be affected automatically.

Southwestern Bell Representative Don Nichols addressed the Mitchell County Hospital Board of Directors during Tuesday evening's meeting to present the proposed new system.

Installation of the system would cost an estimated $15,020. The monthly base billing would cost about $1,408, as compared to the current cost of $1,150.

The current system included 102 phones and extensions.

Nichols estimated installation time to be about 20 weeks. Board members decided to ask for bids on the new system.

Bids were opened during the meeting for building materials to be used by the district throughout the year. Higginbotham Lumber Company placed the only bid and it was awarded to that company.

Bids were also opened for the video system for the x-ray machine. Siemens Company of Arlington placed the only bid. It was in the amount of $29,800. Board members awarded the company that bid.

The board voted to award a plaque to Past President of the Board Murrell Blassingame in honor of his years of service. See BIDS Page 2

Virginia Whitley

Chamber Hires A New Secretary

Virginia Whitley will be the new face of the Chamber of Commerce Office.

Mrs. Whitley, a former employee of Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service, will take over all clerical duties in the chamber office.

Her other duties will include acting as receptionist, mail-outs and tourist requests.

Patricia Denson, who has functioned in that capacity, will now be free to assist Chamber Manager Starr Greenblatt in coordinating the many committee in-Management seminar in Austin where he was instructed in the concept of Civil Defense.

Preparedness, Mason noted, includes having a family or business plan, so that in the event of a tornado, members know where to go, what to do and where to meet afterwards.

The family plan should include such things as keeping a flashlight or candles, portable radio, jug of water, warm clothing such as sweaters or jackets, a blanket and a first aid kit in one spot, easily accessible, to be carried to shelter.

The family should agree in advance on a location where they can meet if they are separated at the time of the storm. (Phone lines will most likely be out of commission for the immediate time period following the storm.)

Mason noted there are many do's-and-don'ts everyone should follow when a tornado is anticipated. The foremost don't is to use the telephone, instead turn on a radio or television to a local station. If lines are flooded with calls, emergency communication is hindered.

The fire siren will be blown as a warning only when a tornado is spotted on the ground within 12 miles of town, Mason said.

Mason explained there were many representatives from the recently devastated city of Wichita Falls participating in the Civil Defense seminar.

"The main thing that impressed me about the Wichita Falls representatives, was their total belief that the single reason more lives were not lost during their tornado was because of their intensive tornado drill program which involved the entire population of their town," Mason said.

The citizens were prepared; they had been instructed to stay inside and not try to run the storm. The Wichita Falls representatives stated that 65 percent of the persons killed in the tornado died because they were in the open trying to run from the storm, Mason said.

There are a few new concepts in tornado preparedness. For example, many studies have proven that taking time to open windows is a waste of time because the first strong winds blow them out anyway, Mason noted.

A person should take cover immediately once the siren is sounded. A tornado traveling on the ground moves about 30 to 50 miles per hour, Mason noted. This allows about 15 minutes before the actual strike.

The most thing to remember is not to panic but to plan. If a person is inside a building that has a basement or crawl space, that is the safest place to seek cover. See SPRING Page 2

Juarez Pleads Guilty

Ismael Juarez, Jr., 19, of Big Spring, was sentenced to 33 years in the state penitentiary after pleading guilty Tuesday afternoon to charges of aggravated robbery.

Juarez was scheduled to be tried in Mitchell County because of a change of venue. A Mitchell County jury was impaneled and the case was set to be heard by Judge James Gregg of 118th District (Big Spring) with Big Spring District Attorney Rick Hamby, assisted by Assistant D.A. Don Richard acting as prosecuting attorneys.

Patrick Abeyta of Lubbock acted as defense attorney in the case.

Loraine Plans Rabies Clinic

Loraine will hold a rabies vaccination clinic Sunday from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the Fire Station.

The clinic was arranged after a skunk was confirmed to have rabies within the city limits.

Police Chief Bobby Sparks has prepared a severe dog ordinance which he will present to the Loraine City Council during the next regular meeting April 8.

The ordinance includes regulations stating any dog not under control by leash, chain, cord or other suitable device attached to a collar or harness, or not securely confined within an enclosure will be considered to be running free and may be disposed of on sight by

ASCS Awaiting Cotton Yields

Cotton producers have seen the largest harvest ever witnessed in Mitchell County this year.

Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service Director Don Stewart announced 65 percent of cotton yields have been reported.

Buford Co-Op Gin is still in the process of ginning and estimates about 240 bales still on the yard.

The total bale figure has passed the 87,000 bale mark for cotton grown in Mitchell County.

Stewart indicated all producers should report their yields to the ASCS Office since that figure is used in determining disaster payment for 1980.

This year's yield will be averaged with the two previous year's yields to obtain a projected yield for 1980 on which disaster payments are based.

Stewart indicated final planting dates for 1980 crops have been set with corn, May 15; cotton, June 10; grain sorghum, June 10 and wheat, December 15.

These are the last dates producers will be expected to plant crops under the prevented See ASCS Page 2 ing to USDA standards. This would be done over a 20 year period.

Bonus benefits would be paid to farmers and ranchers who voluntarily solve conservation problems on their land. Bonuses could take the form of higher support payments, cost sharing or favorable interest rates on loans. Farmers and ranchers would receive annual payments for reducing erosion, conserving water and applying other conservation measures.

Local opinions on soil and water conservation objectives and strategies are important, Mills commented.

Form letters are available to be completed and mailed to RCA in the ASCS Office which apply to the RCA proposals.

Area producers are encouraged to take part in formation of these conservation programs by written or oral communication with RCA.

day, Juarez plead guilty to charges of murder stemming from a separate incident than the one set for Mitchell County, in a Big Spring court. He was sentenced to 33 years in the penitentiary for that crime.

Juarez was first arraigned on the aggravated robbery charges in 1976. He was certified and tried as an adult at that time. He was found guilty and sentenced to prison, according to Richard.

Bids for property insurance coverage were opened during the meeting. Bob Ratliff Insurance submitted the only bid.

The board voted to accept his bid for three

After that time a ruling was handed down by a higher court stating all juveniles must be given an examining trial or waive the right to it prior to indictment. This ruling caused the release of Juarez from prison and a second set of charges were filed. Juarez was again arraigned and bond was posted.

While awaiting trial on those charges, Juarez was involved in an incident February 21, 1980 from which the year coverage on hospital district owned buildings in the amount of $26,193 with a $1,000 deductible rather than a $100 deductible and save $3,590 on the three year premium. An additional $77 premium with no deductible was accepted for a small separate murder charges stemming.

The sentences are to run concurrently (at the same time) making parole possible when one-third of the sentences (11 years) have been served. However, according to Assistant D.A. Richard, in addition to the 33 year sentences a finding of use of a deadly weapon was declared in both cases.

This, he explained, will be taken into consideration at the time a parole is considered.

Stewart noted March 20 was the final date to remove grazing cattle from small grain if a producer wishes to participate in programs.

An emergency feed program is currently underway through the ASCS Office. Producers are reminded to report feed tickets by May 30. They must also report any increase or decrease in livestock numbers.

should seek other cover, even a culvert. Persons in vehicles should leave that vehicle and seek cover, Mason said.

In the event a tornado strikes the city, Mason suggested persons whose homes are destroyed should stay in that vicinity. Emergency crews and law enforcement officials will be trying to locate disaster areas and injured persons almost immediately following the storm.

Mason noted if a person is injured and it is not necessary to move that person immediately, it is better to wait for professional help to avoid the possibility of complicating the injury.

Local shelters will be established for victims and volunteer workers will be dispensed to contact victims.

An emergency operations center will be located in the police department and members of governmental entities, civic group leaders and department heads will direct rescue efforts from that center.

Mason suggested each civic group, local organization and the downtown business area should all have individual disaster plans which can be implemented during the time of emergency.

Any group, organization or club desiring preparedness instruction may contact city hall.

An organizational weather spotters seminar is scheduled to be conducted Monday at 7 p.m. in the Civic Center. Dave Harmon of the National Weather Services will be assisting with the seminar.

Changes Due In Telephone System

Dramatic changes are in store for telephone customers during the 1980s, predicts Doyle E. Rogers, Southwestern Bell's vice president for Texas.

"New phones, new systems, new services, new uses lie ahead," Rogers said as he reviewed the 1970s and looked ahead to the new decade.

"Southwestern Bell is attuned to the coming changes, but our primary concern is still providing quality, day-to-day phone service for our customers in Texas," he emphasized.

Not many actresses are known for their adventuresome spirit. Most prefer to work in Hollywood with all the comforts of a major studio. But not Mia Farrow, who plays Jason Robard's daughter in Hurricane, an HBO feature this month. Filmed on the remote South Pacific island of Bora Bora, the assignment sounded like the opportunity of a lifetime. Says Mia, "I didn't even ask my agent if there was electricity on the island. I just grabbed my copy of the script and caught the next plane out."

Everyone kept saying that I looked like the leading man type, so I decided to give it a try. Says Chevy Chase, who stars in Foul Play (another HBO feature this month). And it turned out to be fun. Better than summer camp. But actually, I'm a writer, and acting itself means very little to me. You're simply a pawn of whomever wrote your material. Acting is fun only when I can use it to express an opinion. Still, making love to Goldie Hawn (Chevy's co-star in Foul Play) had its rewards, and I have to be an actor to get to do that. I'll be an actor.

John Belushi achieved instant movie stardom with the release of the outrageous comedy National Lampoon's Animal House (a Home Box Office feature this month). Says Belushi, "I'm not abandoning TV or anything. My goal is finding a good script and a good director, wherever they are. I was offered movies before Saturday Night Live, but nothing proposed was as exciting as the show. On Animal House, I was in heaven."

What does it take to be a professional comic? Says Gabe Kaplan, star of Fast Break (on HBO this month). "What it takes is a funny way of looking at things and the ability to get that insight across to an audience. In a social situation, I'm not at all amusing. I'm the last guy in the world you'd choose to live up a party." Gabe's shyness has had its drawbacks. "People don't necessarily expect you to walk into their homes and be hilariously funny. But they do expect you to be entertaining and when you're not—which I'm not—they think you don't like them. It's a little like asking a dentist to come over for cocktails and fix a root canal."

While King of the Gypsies (also on HBO this month) marks his first starring screen role, actor Judd Hirsch is already an accomplished player in theatre and television. At the same time he was filming Gypsies, he appeared nightly on Broadway in the Neil Simon hit Chapter Two. Before that, Hirsch starred in the network action-adventure series Delvecchio and in the Emmy Award-winning TV classic The Law. Says Hirsch, "I don't like it when people tell me I'm going to get into star-tripping or be temperamental because I've done television or I'm better known." He's confused by the rush of TV series deals and movie properties that he laughs, "are straining my agent's eyes. I don't do big cars, big houses or big egos. I'm an actor. All I need are good parts."

HBO Specials this month include: Standing Room Only: Lisa: An Evening with Lisa Minelli—70 minutes of this dazzling superstar in concert; On Location: David Brenner—the sassy Philadelphia in all his comic glory; Days of Thorns and Laughter—an informative, humorous look at the heartaches, headaches and highlights of movie-making in its earliest days; Georgious, Baby; Beautiful: An Insider's Look at the Modeling Industry—the ruthless, demanding, rewarding world of high fashion; Time Was: The 60's—part of an exclusive series with host Dick Cavett; Hollywood—all the news from America's entertainment capital with host David Sheehan; HBO Sneak Preview—HBO's monthly highlights starring Stiller and Meara; and Circus—a behind-the-scenes look at the American circus.

anything other than profits of any supplier of goods and services must be passed on to the user. This occurs not only at the gasoline pump, but in power costs, food costs, heating costs, water usage and every facet of modern life in this country.

Barber commented, "This thing is economically wrong because 15 percent of the funds will go to the poor, 15 percent will go to subsidize other forms of energy and the remainder will go to the Federal Government."

"The Department of Energy, which was formed to regulate and supervise the oil industry, has spent more money on operations than the combined net profits of all oil producers."

Ellis further stated, "To compound this problem further, it's not the big oil companies being hampered by this tax—recall the statement made earlier that this tax applies to production of oil within this country and does not apply to oil imported from any foreign country."

"The oil importers are mainly the big companies. The small companies are limited to drilling and producing in this country and the tax is imposed on the selling price of their oil. This reduces the money they have available for more drilling and producing in this country."

In addition, the excise levy makes the low capacity wells become money losers more quickly and candidates for abandonment. The latter would not be a factor if this were a tax on profits.

Barber stated, "The tax could conceivably make it economically unfeasible for the small operator to drill for oil. The cost of production has risen as much as the price of oil. The little one and one-half barrel a day stripper wells we make cost as much to drill comparatively as the big ones."

Add the 30 percent tax to that and there is no profit."

Joiner stated, "The tax will cause a substantial slowdown in new drilling. With current market prices, the small operator, like myself, makes enough profit out of 800 barrels to drill a new well. With the tax, that would be cut at least in half."

Ellis said, "If the domestic industry is pinched back more and more by lack of funds, greater volumes of oil must be imported to supply the energy needs of the country. As the importing by the large companies increases, their income increases."

"This income is split by the source country of the oil and the large companies. Since this is a profit to the large oil companies, it must be spent abroad or have income tax paid on it to the U.S."

"To avoid paying income taxes more wells are drilled outside the U.S."

"The net results is more oil production to import that gains more money to be spent abroad."

"It is obvious from this that it is far from being a tax on the profits of Exxon, Texaco, Shell or Gulf. It succeeds in gaining billions for the Federal Government and increases money spent in foreign lands at the expense of the citizens of this country."

Barber suggests, "The most ideal solution would be to completely deregulate the industry, allowing the forces of the market place, high potential for profits, existing tax structure (which rewards exploration with a 50 percent immediate tax write-off for drilling costs) and the existing income taxation on 50 percent of corporate profits not reinvested, to operate together to maximize exploration."

"Failing this optimum solution he suggests, legally, morally and economically it would be, in my opinion, far better to de-control oil and gas and tax the 'windfall profits' 100 percent unless the producer reinvests these profits in further exploration."

"If the government were going to get 100 percent of the profits, the oilman would be forced to reinvest those profits in the ground or lose them to the federal government."

Joiner stated, "Controls only breed higher prices. We have the resources to be independent of foreign oil. Regulations keep production down, which keeps the price up. It's supply and demand."

All three oilmen suggested the public should voice their opinions to congressmen.

Take Caution When Flying Kites Warns B.B. Hardee

Kite flying season is here again, and Texas Electric Service Co. urges young kite flyers to follow a few simple rules for their own safety.

B.B. Hardee, TESCO manager, warns them of the danger of flying kites in the vicinity of electric power lines.

"If your kite should get caught in electric wires, call Texas Electric Service Co.," Hardee says, "and someone will be sent to get it down for you."

Hardee also recommends the following safety rules for kite flying:

—Always use dry string, not wire, anything metallic or any string with metallic threads.

—Always use kites made of wood and paper, not wire or metal.

—Don't fly your kite on rainy days.

—Always avoid busy streets and highways while flying your kite.

—Don't pull on the string or climb a power pole to loosen a kite snagged in electric wires.

—Always fly your kite far from electric or power lines.

—Always fly your kite away from TV and radio antennas.

—Posters containing these safety rules have been distributed by the company to all schools," Hardee said.

"Young people following these rules will get more fun out of flying kites and at the same time will keep from getting hurt or losing their kites."

She also recited a poem about her guardian angel.

She concluded her presentation with the story of the birth of John the Baptist being dynamically connected with "evangel," a term meaning gospel, the good news of God's salvation in Jesus Christ.

Mrs. Smith gave the program "Through Children's Eyes." She began with children feeling very little in the adult world, giving examples through skits.

She concluded her presentation with the statement that children learn approval through their values, by helping build respect through their abilities.

Strawberry shortcake, coffee and ice tea were served by the hostess to the members and guests attending.

The next meeting is set for April 14 in the home of Mrs. Benita Smith at 11:30 a.m.

Census

Why will the 1980 Census ask if people have complete plumbing facilities? The lack of indoor plumbing is a good indicator of substandard housing and helps identify areas that need governmental assistance.
