FIRE AND WIND

Wellington Volunteer Firemen rip a tin roof off of Gerold Britten's residence at 309 East Avenue Tuesday to fight a fire burning in roof timbers. From left are Tommy Hudson, Gary Lemons and Jerry Hamby. Firemen received their first call about 11 a.m., and then were called back to the scene in the afternoon after high winds caused the fire to re-ignite. Fire chief Danny Gray was admitted to the hospital for treatment for smoke inhalation.

Memphis Girl Dies in Crash

A 16-year-old Memphis girl died and another Memphis girl, also 16, was injured in a two-car collision which occurred 6.5 miles west of Wellington on Highway FM 1056 about 6:10 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 17, according to DPS trooper John James, investigating officer.

The accident victim was DeEdra Kay Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Evans of Memphis. She was a high school junior, and a Memphis Cyclone cheerleader.

Justice of the Peace Kathy Mote rendered a finding that death was due to injuries in the crash after the car left the roadway and not to the fire which followed. The finding was based in part on information from those who were first to arrive at the scene and attempted to rescue Miss Evans, according to Miss Mote.

Linda Michelle Branigan, identified as driver of the car, was thrown from the vehicle. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Branigan of Memphis.

Miss Branigan was brought to Collingsworth General Hospital by ambulance and a hospital spokesman said Wednesday morning that her condition is good and she is improving. She is being treated for fractured ribs and other internal injuries.

Patrolman James reported that the Memphis car was westbound when it crossed over into the eastbound lane and sideswiped a car carrying Mr. and Mrs. Steve Owens of Wellington. It then went off the north side of the roadway, skidded back across the roadway into the south bar ditch. It went airborne across a gulley, striking an embankment. It went over the embankment and turned over one time, stopping in a field, where it caught on fire.

According to James, those who were first on the scene, Jimmy Patterson, Ricky Brown and Calvin Lockhart, tried to rescue Miss Evans, before the fire broke out, but she was pinned inside the vehicle.

Neither Mr. Owens, 81, identified as driver of the eastbound car, nor his wife, Martha was injured. Owens pulled his car over to the right and stopped, said James.

James said that both Mr. and Mrs. Owens were wearing seat belts. Investigation showed that neither girl had her seat belt fastened.

Assisting in the investigation were DPS Trooper Kevin King of Shamrock, Sheriff John Rainey, Deputies Richard Keller, Mike Pena and N.E. Childers and Bill Lindsey.

Funeral services for Miss Evans were conducted at 5 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 19, in First Baptist Church,

City to Search For Industry

The city council has moved into a search for industry to be located or relocated here, Mayor Ralph Owens announced following the council's regular meeting Monday, Nov. 18.

The council approved the appointment of City Manager Glen Taylor to head the work.

Taylor will spend two or three days each month, every month, away from Wellington searching out industrial prospects.

"Do not expect a new industry in the first month or the second month, but if we keep on hunting, we'll find one," Taylor said.

Mayor Owens proposed the industrial search near the end of the Monday night meeting and credited councilman Lyndon Crelia with helping lay the groundwork.

The other councilmen agreed to the plan with little discussion.

"We already have a man on our payroll (Taylor) who is capable of searching out industry and we should utilize his knowledge and expertise," said the Mayor.

Taylor will use his own judgement in where he looks for an industry to bring to Wellington.

"We're not going to turn down anything we can get, but we're looking more for small industries, who may employ 10 or less people, more than we are for a 100-employee plant," Owens continued.

Taylor has built a reputation over the years for his expertise in preparing grant and other funding applications and successfully carrying them through the various governmental channels.

He was responsible for construction of the building now occupied by Wellington Industries, Inc., and within the last few weeks, for the new building housing Arrowhead Products.

"Tiny through his contact is not only able to find industry business, he can take care of securing financing or he can move in and get its people settled," said Owens.

"We are not trying to step in ahead of the programs of the Industrial Board, we want to work with them, or the Chamber of Commerce. But the council believes that we must do something to help our little town, and do it now."

Council members present were Sam McGill, Milburn Derryberry, Willie Gragson and Gary Brewer. Owens, Taylor and City Secretary Nell McKinney were present.

In other business, the council set the city's annual Christmas party for its employees as Monday, Dec. 9.

Taylor told the council that because wet weather had delayed resurfacing the tennis courts for so long, this work will be postponed until after spring.

Hospital Board to Interview Physician

Collingsworth General Hospital Board will interview within the next few weeks a physician who has expressed an interest in opening a practice in Wellington.

The board has reviewed several physicians' resumes during the past 3 months, but this is the first physician who has been asked to come to Wellington for an interview.

The board is seeking a new physician to open a practice in Wellington after Dr. Carter Holcomb retires next month.

Earlier this year the board hired the professional physician search firm Professional Practice Management, Inc. to screen resumes and recruit a physician for the hospital district. The physician who will be interviewed was referred by the firm.

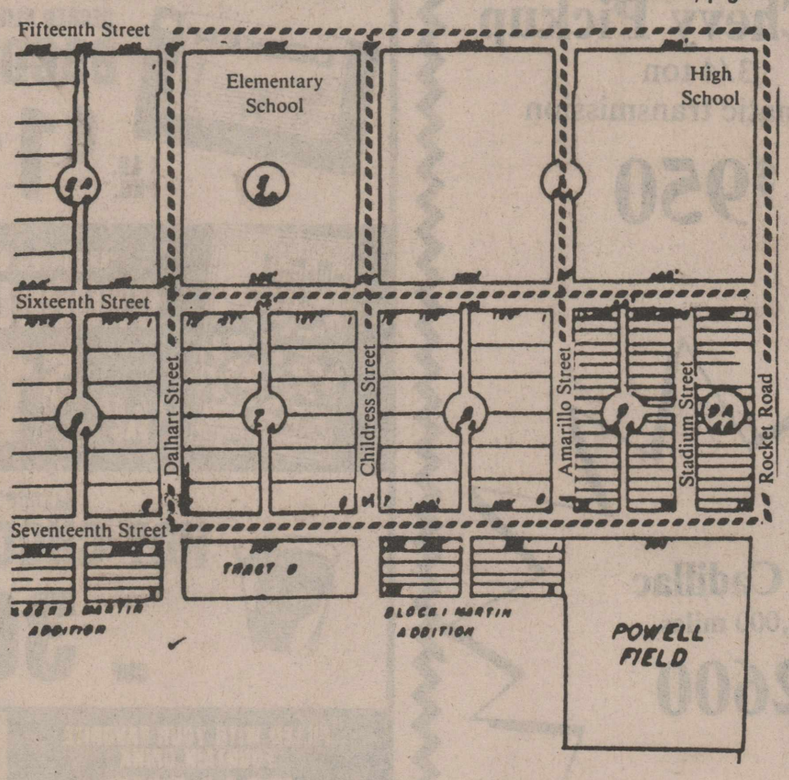

In other action at regular board meeting Tuesday, Nov. 19 the board reviewed and approved a contract to buy Wellington Clinic building and equipment from Dr. Carter Holcomb for a total fee of $90,000 to be paid over the next four years.

The board also heard a report on renovation projects at the hospital. The Hospital Auxiliary has recently completed remodeling work in the lab, and remodeling of the nurses station is complete except for painting. Work is expected to begin soon on the business office, the hospital's next renovation project.

Hospital administrator Perry Foster reported to the board on his recent testimony for the Texas Hospital Association before a hearing of the Texas Department of Health in Austin. Foster said rules for transferring patients to another hospital which have been proposed by the Health Department add heavy burdens of paperwork for small hospitals. He said that small hospitals' office staffs are on duty only during regular business hours, and that the new rules might require additional office personnel to be on duty at night.

The board also reviewed a renewal of a contract for respiratory services at the hospital, and approved turning over past due accounts to either a collection agency or for filing in small claims court.

Present were board members Loretta Wright, Bill Patrick, Corky Bowen, Emory Ewing, Dr. J.M. Orr, Yates Parker and Robert Owens.

The streets within the zone will be marked by speed zone signs. These are:

Space heaters can add warmth and comfort to your home--if they are well-constructed, legal, and used carefully. Otherwise, there is great danger of fire.

Be sure to choose a heater that's been approved by Underwriters' Laboratories or another recognized testing lab. Shop for one with a "tip over" device that will shut it off automatically in case of emergency.

And once you choose the right heater, be sure to follow the manufacturer's instructions exactly. Use only the fuel recommended for your heater.

Who will use the heater? If an older person has physical limitations, make certain that he or she understands how to operate it, and is able to do so. Young children should not be permitted to operate these heaters.

Inspect and clean heaters regularly, according to instructions. Keep flammable materials away from them.

FmHA Spells Out Farmers Loan Servicing Alternatives

TEMPLE - The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) has issued new regulations which spell out, in detail, the various loan servicing alternatives which may be available to farmers who are having economic difficulty, according to Texas FmHA state director J. Lynn Futch.

"All borrowers are expected to pay back their loans according to a planned repayment schedule," Futch said. "However, when that is impossible, we want borrowers to be aware of what kind of assistance may be available and under what conditions."

The servicing alternatives available to eligible borrowers include a deferral of a portion of payments for five years, reamortizing payments over a longer period of time, restructuring the debt, or subordinating FmHA's lien positon on security to another lender.

The regulations spell out how FmHA determines eligibility for various loan servicing alternatives and under what circumstances FmHA would propose to take steps to resolve delinquency or other problems.

Borrower's appeal rights are detailed as well as FmHA's agreement to continue the release of sales proceeds until final loan servicing has been determined.

The new procedures were developed to give FmHA borrowers with delinquent and problem loans clear, consistent and predictable guidelines on how their accounts will be serviced by the agency," Futch said.

Windbreak Trees for Conservation on Sale

BY SALT FORK SWCD

Tree windbreaks greatly improve living conditions on the Rolling Plains, and if properly designed and maintained, they will protect life and property for more than 50 years. Windbreaks will help cut heating costs for your home in the winter and also provide soil erosion protection and crop protection from high winds. In addition, a good tree windbreak will provide shelter for livestock, supply food and cover for wildlife, screen areas from excessive noise levels, hide unsightly views, and enhance the natural beauty of an area.

This year the Salt Fork Soil and Water Conservation District will have available three varieties of pecans: Cheyenne, Shoshoni, and Wichita. All other windbreak trees will come from the Texas Forest Service in Lubbock and are of West Texas root stock which are highly adaptable to our region and climate. Species available and prices are as follows:

Conifers/Pines - Afganistan Pine, Arizona Cypress, Austrian Pine, Ponderosa Pine, Eastern Redcedar, Scotch Pine; Hardwoods: Caragana, Desert Willow, Honeylocust, Pecan(s), Russian Olive, Green Ash

Prices for Conifers are $40.00 per box of 30 trees in individual soil cups. Hardwoods will be sold in bare root form at $40.00 per 100 trees or $20.00 per 50 trees sold in bundles of 50.

All three varieties of pecans will be $12.50 per tree. Also available will be drip irrigation systems to supply water to trees in an efficient and cost saving manner. The 1985 Tree Windbreak Program is sponsored by the Salt Fork Soil and Water Conservation District and orders can be made at the Wellington Soil Conservation Service Field Office located at 802 Ninth Street in Wellington, or call 447-2330 for more information.

Soil Conservation Service personnel will assist in placing orders, design, establishment, and in all aspects of planting and maintaining a successful tree windbreak.

Tessie Burba Honored for Texas Rehabilitation Work

The Texas Rehabilitaton Commission today awarded Tessie Burba a certificate of appreciation for her outstanding contributions to the disabled people of Collingsworth and Wheeler counties.

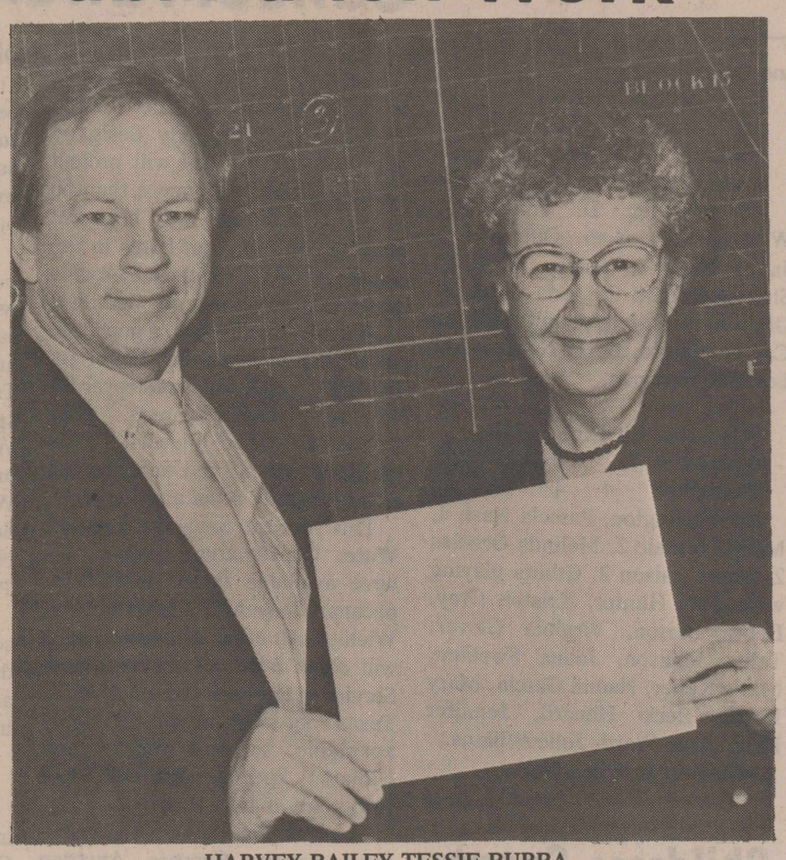

Texas Rehabilitation Commission Counselor Harvey Bailey made the presentation to Mrs. Burba, who is Center Coordinator for Panhandle Community Services (formerly Texas Panhandle Community Action Corporation).

Tessie Burba started work as Coordinator of the Collingsworth County Community Action Center on March 15, 1972. During the past thirteen years she has worked in eleven of the eastern Texas Panhandle Counties.

The Community Action Center, with the assistance of TSTI, established Adult Vocation Training Courses in Bookkeeping, Typing, Auto Mechanics, etc, in counties in this area.

The Community Action Center started Adult Basic Education classes with volunteer teachers. This led to a GED Testing Service with Louis Graham as tester. From this pilot program, money became available and Region XVI Service Center became responsible for these programs. Many people through the years have been able to receive their GED and go on for further training.

Training of youth and adults has long been a priority for all Community Action Programs. Texas Rehabilitation Commission has assisted many young people and adults in getting training both in vocational programs and academic college degrees. Many people with medical problems in this area have been referred and served by Texas Rehabilitation Commission.

HARVEY BAILEY-TESSIE BURBA

Through the Collingsworth County Community Action Center, Tessie Burba directs services in Collingsworth and Wheeler Counties. Some of the programs are: Home Delivered Meals Program, Rental Assistance Programs, Weatherization, Utilities Assistance, Information and Referral, Used Clothing Room, Panhandle Transit, Immunization Clinic, Referrals for family care and primary care for the elderly and disabled, Referrals to Jobs Training Partnership Act, and assistance in filling out food stamp applications and other forms.

Until just recently, she was also director of a Title XX Day Care Program.

Mrs. Burba and her husband Dee Burba have lived in Wellington for the past 27 years, moving from Pampa. They have five children, three of whom received educational assistance from Texas Rehabilitation Commission. Their children are: Carol Gibbons, of Hanover, Md., Rebekah Blevins of Lela, Texas, Betty Norwood of Amarillo, Robert Burba of Irving, Texas and Richard Burba of Fort Worth, Texas.

Mrs. Burba is also a member of the Collingsworth Volunteer Ambulance Service and is a Registered Emergency Medical Technician.

The Texas Rehabilitation Commission (TRC), with field offices across Texas, helps disabled people find and keep good jobs.

The services provided to disabled Texans through the Vocational Rehabilitation Division include counseling and guidance; medical, psychological and vocational evaluation; job training; medical treatment; job placement; and assistive devices such as artificial limbs, hearing aids of wheelchairs.

The Extended Rehabilitation Services program offers work and residential living to people considered too severely disabled for regular vocational rehabilitation services.

Also, Texas' five independent living centers receive major financial support from TRC, which allows the centers to help disabled people overcome obstalces preventing them from living as independently as possible.

For more information, contact the TRC office, 121 S. Gillespie, Pampa, Texas, 79065 at (806) 665-0755.

FmHA Observes 50th Anniversary in 1985

(AMARILLO) - The Farmers Home Administration is observing its 50th anniversary this year, still providing financial assistance to farmers and other rural residents and communities unable to obtain credit from other sources at affordable rates and terms.

Philip C. Madeley, Assistant District Director, said that a total of six loans totaling $4,426,800.00 have been made in the Amarillo District comprising the North 20 counties of the Texas Panhandle this year. Of the total, four were rural rental housing loans totaling $2,611,800.00 for 128 rental units, and two were community loans totaling $1,815,000.00 for one water and sewer project.

Farmers Home is the rural credit agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Its predecessor agency, the Rural Rehabilitation Administration, was created by Presidential Executive Order in 1935. The Farm Security Administration succeeded that agency in 1937 and was renamed the Farmers Home Administration by a 1946 Act of Congress.

Don't Let Your Energy Dollars Escape This Winter

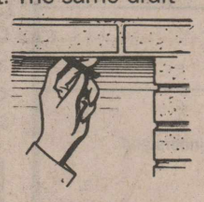

Increase Your Energy Savings By Following These Conservative Tips:

SET THERMOSTAT AT 68°
Set your thermostat at 68 degrees or lower. Turn it down at night and use an electric blanket. Turn it down even lower when you leave home for an extended period of time. Every degree you lower your thermostat will help to increase your energy savings.

OPEN DRAPES & BLINDS
Keep drapes and blinds open during the day so the sun's energy can help warm your home. Be sure to close them on cloudy days and at night so they can help insulate your home against the cold.

KEEP DAMPER CLOSED
Tightly close the damper in your fireplace when you're not using it. The same draft that is needed to help make a fire burn could circulate through your fireplace and pull warm air out of your home.

CHANGE FILTER REGULARLY
Check the filter in your heating unit regularly. Cleaning or replacing a dirty filter will often make a difference in your system's performance. Also, make sure air vents aren't blocked by furniture or drapes.

Lydia Group Hears Program on Facing Crises in One's Life

Mrs. A.V. Lowrie was hostess when the Lydia Group of United Methodist Women met in the church fellowship hall Monday, Nov. 18.

Mrs. Fred Covey, chairperson, directed the meeting and members discussed their duties for the community Christmas dinner to be held Saturday, Dec. 7.

Mrs. Chester Fires had the opening prayer and Mrs. Covey brought a devotional on Thanksgiving, written by Billy Graham. Mrs. Lowry presented the program, "Life Crises".

She mentioned that there are many crises that each has to face, health, material crises, death, and destructions, and each of these crises bring on different reactions in one's life. First is denial that one is having all this trouble, then anger, blame the crisis on someone else--anyone but oneself, depression. After that, she said, comes a time of trying to bargain with God.

Then, she said, finally comes acceptance, and that is when the need for dependence on God to help carry the burden is realized.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. J.A. Graham, Mrs. Fires, Mrs. C.R. DeArmond, Mrs. E.F. Bartlett, Mrs. Covey, Mrs. Art Kane, Mrs. J.B. Killian, Mrs. Bob Hightower and the hostess, Mrs. Lowrie.

Adults Need Calcium, Too

Parents who tell their children to "drink your milk so you can have strong bones," should be telling themselves the same thing.

Adults who don't consume the recommended two servings of dairy products each day may not be getting enough calcium, says Dr. Alice Hunt, a nutritionist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

This lack of calcium can lead to serious health problems for people as they age, she says. For example, osteoporosis is a painful and crippling bone disease that occurs when bones become so thin and brittle they break very easily. It most often affects post-menopausal women with a history of calcium deficiency, explains Hunt.

Lack of calcium can also cause loss of the bone that supports your teeth, says the nutritionist. This may speed up peridontal disease which leads to a loss of teeth.

Hypertension, or high blood pressure, which may lead to heart attacks or stokes, has also been associated with lack of calcium, says Hunt.

About 75 percent of the calcium in the American food supply comes from dairy products, so the obvious way to increase calcium is to eat more foods from this category, says the nutritionist.

Even if you don't find it very "adult" to drink a glass of milk with meals or you don't like the taste of milk, there are many ways to add calcium to your diet with dairy products, Hunt explains.

In addition to eating a well-balanced diet that includes foods from all the food groups, Hunt suggests the following for adults who want to add calcium to their diets:

*Drink cocoa instead of coffee or tea.

*Add cheese to sandwiches.

*Snack on cheese and crackers.

*Use milk instead of water to prepare canned soups.

*Add nonfat dry milk to soups, stews and casseroles.

* Use milk and cheese in casseroles.

*Add grated cheese to Mexican and Italian foods like tacos, lasagna, and ravioli.

*Add cheese to your salads.

*Eat yogurt with meals or as a snack.

*Choose calcium rich dessets such as ice cream, frozen yogurt, cheese with fruit, custards and puddings made with milk.

If you're worried about the calories, stick to the non-fat or low-fat dairy products widely available in the supermarkets, says the nutritionist.

Mildew Can Be Removed

COLLEGE STATION - You may have to endure the summer heat and humidity, but you don't have to live with the unsightly mildew growth it produces on the exterior of your house.

"Mildew most often grows on areas of the outside walls that receive little sunlight," says Dr. Perry Owens, a housing specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

Ideal places for mildew are the north side of the house, carport and porch ceilings, and areas behind trees or shrubs where air movement is restricted, she explains.

Mildew is usually black, Owens says, but some forms may be green, red or other colors.

The specialist suggests a cleaning solution of one quart liquid chlorine bleach, one-third cup of powdered laundry detergent and three quarts of warm water. Use the solution with a farily soft brush to scrub affected areas and then rinse well with clear water.

Another way of applying the solution is to use a garden sprayer for the solution, a long-handle brush for scrubbing and the full-force of a water hose to rinse.

Because this cleaning solution is strong, she advises wearing rubber gloves and protective clothing to avoid contact with the skin. Shrubs and grass should also be covered with plastic sheets.

"If you're going to paint the clean surface, allow it to dry thoroughly and paint immediately before re-contamination occurs," Owens says.

Progress on a new combined school/county library hit at least a temporary snag last week when the Collingsworth County Commissioners Court turned down an operating agreement proposed by the Library Planning Committee.

The proposal, which was the result of several months of work by the committee, called for the school district to pay for the librarian's salary and for a library aide's salary, and it asked the county to provide the federally funded Green Thumb workers who serve as county librarians (at a cost of about $1,000 per year to the county.)

The proposal also called for the county and the school to split the janitorial duties, and for the county to provide some additional help during summer months.

The proposal called for all other costs, such as books, electric bills, and maintenance supplies to be paid 75 percent by the school and 25 percent by the county. The committee estimated the county's share of these expenses at $7,100, although that was a rough estimate that could be high or low.

The committee asked the Commissioners Court to agree to this arrangement in principle so that planning and fund-raising for the new building can proceed. The proposal does not ask for any expenditures from this year's budget. The proposal does ask the commissioners to plan for library expenditures in next year's budget, even though expenditures won't begin until the new library actually opens.

The proposal does not call for any county funds to be used for construction. A grant which the county received for $100,000 earlier this year for the purpose of constructing a new library and $150,000 that the school district set aside in last year's budget will be combined with private donations and private foundation grants to pay for construction.

The four commissioners, Dudley Coleman, Dan Langford, Joe Frank Knoll and Bill Lowe, turned down the committee proposal and voted unanimously last week to spend a maximum of $2,000 per year on the library, including salaries and expenses, a sum which is only a few hundred dollars higher than the county is currently spending.

There are several arguments against the proposal.

One was that higher expenditures might cause taxes to be raised. Let's go on the high side and say that operation of the new library would cost the county $10,000 per year. Out of a total budget of almost one and one third million dollars per year, that amount is not a make or break item. If taxes must go up, it will not be because of library expense.

Another argument is that many groups and organizations come to the county asking for funding for this program or that and they cannot all be funded. That's true and the commissioners have to make tough decisions about how to spend limited resources, but what we are talking about is priorities. A library is an asset that can be used by the very youngest of our citizens and the very oldest. It's a highly visible symbol that the community wants to progress and to attempt to attract new businesses and people to our area. It's hard to imagine where we might get more bang for our buck in the area of community development.

Another argument is that the sum of, say, $10,000 per year is just too much money for a poor county to spend on a library. Well, it is a lot of money. But in comparison to other public expenditures here, it's not high. The City of Wellington, for example, spent about $3,200 more than it took in last summer to operate a public swimming pool. The commissioners' own 20 percent travel raise last year and their five percent salary raise last year and additional five percent salary raise this year total for all four commissioners $3,642 per year in additional expenditures. That makes the total for all four commissioners' salary and travel, including the increases, about $30,000 per year.

I'm not quibbling with the City of Wellington for spending money to provide one of the few recreation opportunities in the county for young people. And I'm not quibbling with the commissioners salaries, which are among the lowest in the state. What I'd like to point out is that $10,000 to operate a public library for 4,000 people for a year is not out of line for our county.

$10,000 per year is $833 per month or about 20 cents per month per person in the county. That seems to me to be a reasonable expenditure, and I hope the commissioners will reconsider the Library Planning Committee's proposal.

---Henry Wells

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—The Texas Public Utility Commission has had its share of troubles this year, catching flack not only for high rates in Southeast Texas but also for questionable and excessive expenses by the panel and staff.

Last week the PUC got its eye blacked again after legislators learned one commissioner used thousands of dollars in computer time, secretarial services and taxpayer-paid research to earn a Ph.D from the University of Texas.

The governor and the PUC chairman defended Commissioner Dennis Thomas, saying his dissertation on developing a method to audit utility cooperatives will benefit ratepayers.

But the state senator who authored the state employees training act said he doubted if lawmakers intended to authorize thousands in state funds for research on advanced degrees.

Other officials questioned the use, too, especially of PUC staff.

State-Time Thesis

State records show Thomas prepared his dissertation using $2,800 in state computer time and got PUC to pay $400 for his tuition and $1,176 for a part-time researcher.

He also had PUC secretaries type and copy his 375-page thesis.

Governor Mark White, who appointed Thomas to the PUC in 1984, defended him, saying there was benefit to the ratepayers and no abuse of state money.

Cub Scouts

Cub Scouts of Den 7, Pack 431, began their scouting year, September 30, 1985, and have met each Monday, from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m., in the home of their Den Leader, Mrs. George Porter. Their Den Dad is George Porter.

Scouts are Justin Colwell, Clay Porter and Ramey Wauer, third graders in Wellington Elementary School.

Each den meeting is opened with the scouts taking turns on leading the Pledge of Allegiance, giving the Cub Scout Promise, saying the Law of the Pack, telling what Webelos mean, showing the Cub Scout sign, the Cub Scout handshake, giving the Cub Scout motto and the Cub Scout salute.

This is Clay's second year in the Cub Scout program and is classified as a Wolf Cub Scout. Justin and Ramey have completed their seven tracks to be a Bobcat Cub Scout. These latter two have been working on their progress toward ranks on the Wolf trail. They work on different achievements each week.

The Scouts enjoyed a Halloween costume party, October 30. They played the Pumpkin Patch game and received treat bags as favors. Costumes were judged, with each one receiving a blue ribbon.

A Jack-O-Lantern cake, presented to the group by Justin, was served with witch's brew punch.

Each den meeting is closed with the living circle ceremony or the Cub Scout prayer in Indian sign language.

FARMERS AND RANCHERS

Farmers and Ranchers, have your creditors been "Sweet Talking" you into voluntary liquidations by playing on your guilt feelings? Many creditors are pressuring to remove their "Shaky" patrons by applying pressures (psychological) to try to "Talk" you into throwing in the towel and putting you in a mental state which encourages you to give in. Are you or are you not a good manager to operate your business profitably in decent economic times? Of course you are, so why not do something to save your operation? Don't allow these people to "Sell you down the river" without consulting the experts who know how to help you save your assets. Call AGRA-FINANCIAL CONSULTANTS, INC.
