MANGUM C-C TO OPPOSE TEXAS DAM PROJECT

★ ★ ★ Even If We Don't

Editor's Note: The following news story is reprinted verbatim from the August 4 issue of The Mangum County News published in Mangum, Okla. It was carried under an editorial column streamer as the main story in that issue. It shows the intense desire of the Oklahomans to control and own all of the water of the tributaries of Red River. The article is reproduced in full for your information and consideration.

Mangum chamber of commerce officials Monday protested the plans of Wellington, Texas, to develop a dam on the Salt Fork River 10 miles northeast of the Texas city, pointing out that Mangum survived the area in 1946 and 1956 and with the view of establishing a dam for irrigation and flood control.

Ripley Harris, chamber of commerce president, is preparing to wire Senators Robert Kerr and Mike Monroney, as well as Rep. Toby Morris, expressing opposition to the Texas proposal.

At the second democratic primary August 23, Collingsworth county citizens will vote on a $12,500 bond issue to finance the proposed Salt Fork Dam survey. The amount includes $5,000 for the topographical mapping with the federal government matching the amount.

Collingsworth county has organized a water control and improvement district with John Coleman as president. The proposed dam would impound 70,000 acre feet of water for flood control and irrigation.

The chamber of commerce viewpoint is that the Texas survey involving federal funds is unnecessary because the Mangum survey is complete to all practical purposes and congress is in a position to authorize an appropriation for carrying out the project.

According to the second survey made here two years ago by the reclamation bureau, the $20 million Mangum project would be located seven miles upstream and would irrigated 57,000 acres in Jackson and Greer county.

For Kid Baseball

First Pickup in Newspaper Drive Due Monday Evening

The first town-wide old newspaper drive for the benefit of Wellington's kid baseball teams will be Monday night, August 25, beginning at 7 p. m., Mrs. John Coleman has announced.

At that time all city residents are asked to gather old newspapers, bundle them, and have them on their porches or steps ready for the youngsters who will do the pick-up work.

"We are hoping each person in Wellington will help in saving the newspapers for this cause," Mrs. Coleman said. The sounding of the Fire Department siren for the regular meeting will also be the signal for the drive to start.

This week Mrs. Coleman announced that Mrs. Gorman Owens and Mrs. Wayne Cudd have been named directors of the Old Newspaper drive. Street captains also were named, and each of these will be in charge of securing boys and transportation to pick up the paper on her street. Only newspapers can be used. These women are:

Haskell Street, Mrs. Herman Harris; Graham, Mrs. Cudd and Mrs. Owen James; Floydada, Mrs. Buddy Carter; El Paso, Mrs. Owens; South Dalhart, Mrs. Dick Sweet; North Dalhart, Mrs. Royce Daves; Childress, Mrs. L. B. Bratten;

Bowie, Mrs. Eli Wolf; Amarillo, Mrs. Ham Holton, Mrs. J.C. Yeary; West Avenue, south end, Mrs. Woody Wood; East Avenue from 15th to 10th Streets, Mrs. Herbert Duncan; East Avenue, north, Mrs. Daves; Arlington, Mrs. Millard Brown; Belton, Mrs. Louis Allred; Dallas, Mrs. Charles Cason Jr., Ennis, Mrs. Jack Needham;

Fort Worth, Mrs. Doug Bergval; Galveston, Mrs. Loren Thompson; Holston, Mrs. Dan Henard; and Wellington down town, Mrs. Frances Roberts.

The paper will be stored in the old GI shop building on the school ground until it is delivered to Bestwall Gypsum Company, Acme, which uses it in the manufacture of wall board.

It was pointed out that this drive does not in any way replace the sponsors of Pony League, Little League, or Peeewe teams, but it is additional money to be used for their benefit. The immediate aim is lighting a field for night playing.

Mayor Hiram Cudd has volunteered to donate trucks to haul the paper to Acme.

Thomas Officer in Newly Formed Bank

Trusten Thomas who began his banking career at the City State Bank in Wellington, has been named note and exchange teller of the First National Bank of Grants, New Mexico's newest financial institution. He also will handle loans.

The bank opened for business Monday, in a new building completed in only 40 days.

Thomas for several years was agricultural officer of City State, before moving to Henryetta, Oklahoma, approximately 18 months ago to manage ranch properties for James Doneghy. When plans for the new bank got under way, Thomas and his family returned here, and he divided his time between Wellington and Grants. Mrs. Thomas and the children will move there within a short time.

President of the bank is Dytton W. Dunaway, a former bank official at Henryetta, Okla., while Carl H. Bender, executive vice president is the former vice president of the First National Bank of Albuquerque, N. M.

Robert Beale, cashier, who with Thomas will handle loans, is a former Oklahoma City banker.

The bank has two United States Senators on its board of directors, Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma and Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico.

The new fireproof building is of steel and masonry, 50 by 120 feet with a 15-foot driveway for drive-in banking facilities. The 188-car parking lot will be lighted for night use. Both the exterior and interior utilizes pastel shades of turquoise and pink in the color scheme. Fixtures and desks are custom made, and the building is completely air conditioned.

County Budget Adopted; Salary Increase Proposed

The Commissioners Court Saturday, August 16, gave a three to one approval of the 1959 county budget, based on an assessed valuation estimated at $10,250,000 and a tax levy of $127.525.

Commissioner Pat O'Hair voted against the budget.

After it was adopted, County Judge R. L. Templeton refused to sign the budget on the grounds that funds made available for salary raises were not legal, since they were not contained in the budget as presented at the time of the public hearing August 11. A note giving his reasons for this action was filed as part of the commissioners court proceedings.

The budget hearing was set for Monday, August 11, but postponed until August 14 after Judge Templeton became ill during the meeting. The court met again Saturday, August 16, and adopted the budget.

The funds set up for salary increases would allow $600 across the board increase for all elected officials except Constable Bruce Hite.

"I think it is a good budget, but I think raising salaries for each individual office was not in compliance with the law. They are imposing on the next court and also the salary raises were not in the budget at the time the budget was advertised to be heard, but were put in Saturday, the day the budget was approved," Judge Templeton said in a statement to The Leader.

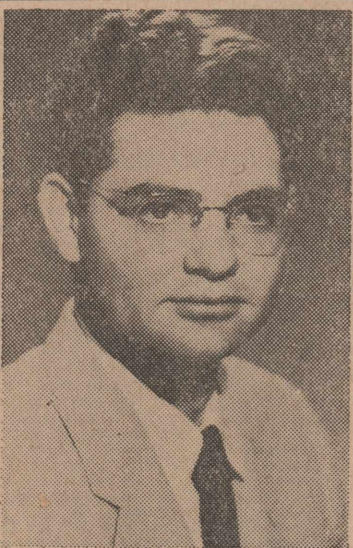

"I will approve the budget if they (the Commissioners Court) will get an attorney general's opinion that they can legally make the fundamental changes in the budget after the hearing. Without an attorney general's opinion I can't sign it. Why have a hearing if you just put a dummy budget up there and change it after everybody goes home?"

Before the salary increase go into effect, the new commissioners court will have to pass an order after January 1, 1959.

Changes were made in a number of funds within the budget, and in the road and bridge fund one new item was created, $21,109 as a fund to meet unforeseen emergencies.

Expenses in the court house and jail fund were estimated at $9,710; the road and bridge, 109,271.50; the general fund, $45,202.50; and the officer salary fund, $56,010.

Total outstanding bonds and time warrant debt as of January 1, 1959, was set at $157,000.

Voters Ballot on Water District, Two Other Elections Saturday

Collingsworth county voters Saturday, August 23, will vote on three separate issues, with the election to determine the confirmation of the Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District by far the most important point at stake.

The other two elections, all voted on at the same time, will be a proposed issuance of $12,500 in bonds, with a tax levy to be assessed one year only, with which to finance preliminary exploratory work for water development in the entire county; and the second primary election.

The latter is one of the lightest the county has faced in recent years. Only one county office is involved, county judge, with Wayne Cudd and Judge C. C. Bishop as candidates. The only other race on the ballot is that of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, Place 1 with J. Edwin Smith of Houston and Robert W. Hamilton, El Paso, as candidates.

Three separate ballots will be used in the three elections.

Any qualified voter may vote in the confirmation election and the second primary.

Any qualified tax paying voter may ballot in the preliminary bond election.

Confirmation Election

The confirmation election, if approved, does one thing only. It gives legal status to the Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District.

That body, set up by the commissioners court on July 18, is independent of the court, and is governed by five temporary directors: John Coleman, president; Morris Wells, vice president; Gus Gooch, secretary-treasurer; G. L. Roberts and Louis Patterson. If the confirmation election passes, permanent directors will be elected early in 1959.

A voter may vote for confirmation and against the bonds.

If the district is approved in the confirmation election, it cannot issue any bonds or levy any taxes. It cannot bind the property owners to any type of levy or to any expense. The district can hold the water rights of all Collingsworth county waters which it may seek to develop, and prevent their going to Oklahoma. Once that state gets control of the water rights, Collingsworth county can never again possess them.

Confirmation of the district, the directors point out, will give the district, which covers the entire county, an opportunity to study water development and to make arrangements for the development project that would be most practical.

The $12,500 preliminary bonds have been proposed to make a detailed study of the water resources of the entire district, hiring qualified water engineers for the work. It proposes detailed maps and securing cost estimates, to give a complete picture of all feasible projects for the county.

Develop Collingsworth County Through Water Resources

Voters Saturday will mark two ballots that thinking men believe will decide the future of Collingsworth county. One seeks to confirm the Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District. The other asks that $12,500 in bonds be authorized, with the tax levy to pay off these bonds running one year only.

Unless Collingsworth county can reverse the trend, it is fairly certain the population will continue to drop. Good crop years will bring only a measure of business prosperity. At present, a dam on Salt Fork, backing up a lake of approximately 44,000 acre feet of water offers what appears to be the best possibility for checking the trend, through the development of recreation and industry.

Bumper to bumper traffic at Lugert every week end should give us an idea of what can be done in the way of commercialized water recreation. The granite hills of Quartz Mountain Park once were no more inviting than the white bluffs of Salt Fork. At the same time people of the plains that stretch across mid-America became acutely conscious of water for agriculture and industry, they developed an awareness of water for recreation. The notion of a pair of water skis for sale in a Wellington store would have been good for a laugh a few years ago.

Water sports on inland lakes have become highly developed in other sections, and the trend is in Collingsworth. It will become more sophisticated and more commercialized. All this means more people, more equipment, and more money in the cash registers where these sports can be had.

A few lessons from those areas where water recreation is highly developed industry could be an eye-opener.

Water engineers assure us there will be plenty of water for industrial use. It is a truth that industry goes where there is plenty of water, and it might as well be on Salt Fork. For the first time in our long appeal for industry, we have something concrete to offer.

The election Saturday calls for one thing—that we back up the planners who seek to develop Collingsworth through the development of its water resources. These men believe this may be the last chance we will have. The board of directors of the water district consists of men who are sound but bold in their thinking, conservative yet progressive in action, men who have made signal successes in their own businesses or professions. We will do well to give them our backing by voting for the water district they represent.

Age of the Half-Done Job

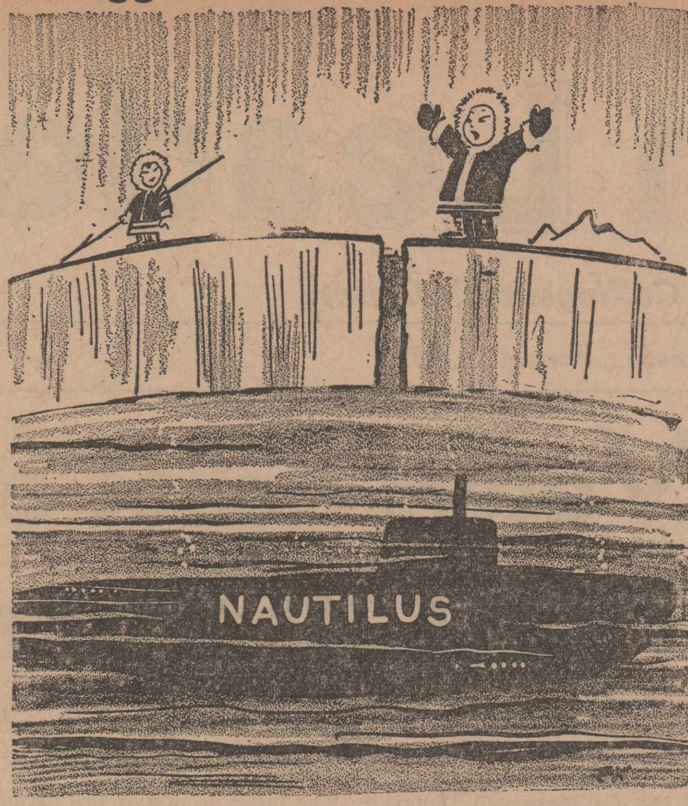

About the time the House was passing a bill to extend unemployment compensation, and the President was saying (again) that the recession is past its worst point, the National Sales Convention (also in Washington) was being told off by Charles Brower, president of BBDO. He said he was "skeptical" about a depression in which prices keep going up, and in which people have money but just won't let loose of it. In fact he questioned whether the present doldrums are economic at all:

"I think people are just bored with us—with you and me—with the things we sell and the way we sell them. . . . For this, in America, is the great era of the goof-off, the age of the half-done job. The land from coast to coast is populated with laundrymen who won't iron shirts, with waiters who won't serve, with carpenters who will come around some day, maybe, with executives whose minds are on the golf course, with teachers who demand a single salary schedule so that achievement can not be rewarded, nor poor work punished, with students who take cinch courses because the hard ones make them think. . . . and the salesman who won't sell is only a part of this overall mess.

"I think—and I hope to God it's true, that our people are becoming sick of this goofing off. Maybe we are gradually beginning to realize that history is repeating itself. The Russians are doing a wonderful job as the Barbarians in our modern historical drama. But we are outdoing them in our superlative imitation of Rome. We may lack a few of the refinements of Rome's final decadence, but we do have the two-hour lunch, the three-day week and the all-day coffee break. And if you want to, you can buy for $275 a jeweled pill-box, with a built-in musical alarm that remind you (but not too harshly) that it's time to take your tranquilizer."

And just in case his words might be too soon forgotten: "We have got to work, or a stronger nation will put us to work."—Wellington (Ohio) Enterprise.

★ REPORT

Dear Editor:

I see where the word from Paris is that high heels are going out of style, but my women expert neighbor says this time the fashion decrees are going to get crossed up. On account of high heels is what makes most women and cowboys feel tall and superior, and they will be mighty slow to swap that feeling for the flat-heel sag.

He says the girls may let fashion ridicule their physical shapes with sacks and low bows, but they won't readily give up their high heels for looking down on us men.

I note that the Commerce Department has put out at public expense a high class book which gives the life story of Secretary Weeks.

Some argument at coffee time here this morning as to how much of an impact this classy volume will have of the nation's commerce.

But my sunshine neighbor says it's a fine thing that us taxpayers can thus leave to posterity the great inspiration of The Sinclair Weeks Story, along with our debts.

I see where Congress figures to give our ex-Presidents a $25,000-a-year pension, which shows the lawmakers believe in keeping up with the times.

You take today's youth and when he interviews a career, he first looks about the pension, and prefers a now-pension disguised as a job.

My up-to-date neighbor says Congress no doubt figures that unless a juicy pension goes with the job, there may get to be a shortage of youngsters interested in growing up to be President in this extended palms age.

I see where Uncle Sam has promised the new higher postage rates will get us better mail service some day.

My expectant neighbor says it may work out that way, too, now that postoffice workers won't be worried any more about losing their jobs if the system goes broke and has to close up.

Says the last big drive for improved postal service got our mail boxes painted red, white and blue and this time maybe we will get pretty stars on them.

I note that the boys in Washington are busy fumbling around for some dignified way to get the Marines back out of Lebanon.

This is sort of like the dilemma they got impaled into down at Little Rock, and which getting back out of was about as eventful as turning loose of a discontented wildcat.

My left-handed philosopher neighbor says maybe the Lebanon shift wasn't really the best way to get Sherman Adams off the front pages.

I see where a Senator Aiken wants Congress to study about making the four-day work week legal, so as to forestall any future recessions.

My rear-collared neighbor says this actually may be a trap to get more work out of people like him who don't ever intentionally do as much as four full days of work in any week.

But he says if less work per week will keep our economy booming, he is in favor of going whole-hog by abolishing work altogether and just surrendering ourselves to total prosperity.

The Communists' Economic Warfare

International Communism, ruled by Khrushchev & Company from Moscow's Kremlin, is using Red China agricultural production and her raw materials as economic weapons to break down and topple Japan into the Red's expanding world empire. Some facts on this economic warfare were gathered recently by Dr. J. D. Bales, of the Harding College Faculty, while he was in Hong Kong, Tokyo, and other centers of information in Asia. He has just returned to Searcy, and I have interviewed him.

Q. What is the economic problem in Japan? A. Japan's population is rising; soon she will have a population of 100,000,000. She must import nearly 100 per cent of the raw materials to supply her industries. Approximately 45 per cent of her food requirements must be imported. Thus trade is essential.

Underselling Japan

Q. Where does she trade? A. Her normal trade area is Southeast Asia. America would be a good market but for some disadvantages. Distance is one. And Japan's low wage scales (11c an hour in industry) has led the U. S. to maintain pretty stiff tariffs on goods from her textile industries and other items.

Q. How are the Communist Masters using China in this situation? A. The Communist bosses have issued orders that Chinese goods shall be sold 15 per cent below the price of any Japanese goods offered anywhere in Southeast Asia. Right now in Hong Kong, towels made in Red China are being sold 15 per cent cheaper than the same quality towels made in Japan. The Communists are thus driving Japanese goods off the market so as to create collapse in Japan and enable the Communists to have a better psychological market in Japan for their deceptive promises.

Q. How can China (and Russia) sell goods so cheaply? A. They have slave labor and do not have to conduct business on a sound economic basis. Of course slave labor has a very low productivity, but in various areas of production it can be used, at least for a time, to wage economic warfare, especially when there are millions of slaves.

Drug Warfare

Q. What is Red China's principal market? A. The Communist bosses have earmarked 80% of China's trade for Red Russia and her satellites, amounting to about $1.5 billion a year. The remaining 20 per cent is left to be competed for by such countries as England, Germany and Japan. So Japan cannot help herself very much through trade with Red China. Nevertheless Red China wants to keep Japan depending upon her market. A primary reason for this is that Red China wants to keep and expand her trade mission to Japan — so a larger number of subversive agents can be implanted.

Q. We hear a lot about Red China's opium-smuggling; is Japan receiving any of this? A. Yes, a great deal. According to reliable sources whom I contacted, Red China is smuggling into Japan more than $75 million worth of opium each year. The proceeds from this are largely kept in Japan, among the Communist leaders, to finance strikes and otherwise create strife and turmoil in Japan. Strikes rise the cost of production and lower the standard of living. And the opium demoralizes those who use it, weakening the nation.

Our Freedom at Stake

Q. Then the Reds are making headway with their designs on Japan? A. Yes, they are. I'm told that the Communist strength within Japan has grown tremendously in the last few years; they are creating turmoil, directly and indirectly. The ultimate objective, of course, is to bring Japan into the Red bloc. Our bases in Japan would then vanish, and Japan and her industrial potential would be arraigned against us along with the expanding Soviet system.

(Dr. Bales, continuing:) When

I lunched in Taipei with Dr. Tong, Free China's ambassador to America, he observed that what is happening in Japan comes under the Communist definition of "peaceful co-existence." "It is," he said, "one phase of the implementation of the Communist plan to conquer and dominate the world." And with Dr. Tong, I say: If we are to survive in freedom, the still-free peoples of the world must awaken, unite, and begin to treat world Communism as the evil, monstrous thing that it is.

NEWS LETTER from Congressman WALTER ROGERS

The Mad Rush

The last two weeks of Congress are like outside rows of corn — they should never be planted. But, no one has been able to solve the problem to do away with the outside rows of corn or the last two weeks of Congress. The only way that I can think of would be to pass a resolution the last thing before final adjournment cancelling and voiding everything which has been done for the previous two weeks. This would probably work for one or two years until someone conceived the idea of recessing two weeks before final adjournment.

Much constructive legislation is passed in the last two weeks of a session of Congress, but so much attention must be paid to the major bills with all of their complexities that it is an opportune time for innocent looking measures to be pushed through without sufficient debate. Many of these measures have money authorizations included that can add up to a rather stupendous sum. On one day during the last two weeks, the Senate passed 123 measures, treating matters all the way from the Virgin Islands to the Hawaiian Islands, Alaska and Guam, territory speaking, and all the way from a bill dealing with a church to another bill having to do with jail-type confinement, spiritually speaking. The House of Representatives had several very similar days.

The committees grind to a virtual standstill during the early part of these last two weeks, because it is obvious that it would be futile to report bills that would have little chance of coming before the Congress. When a committee reports a bill, it is necessary to take it before the Committee on Rules in order to get clearance for consideration of the bill by the full House of Representatives. The Rules Committee acts as somewhat of a traffic cop with regard to legislative matters, saying what may come before the Congress and what may not. Even without the bills which are reported by the committees during the last days, there is always a log jam of bills that have been reported earlier in the session which have not been acted on by the Rules Committee. Therefore, the pressure on the Rules Committee during the last few days becomes tremendous. It would be humanly impossible for that committee to so much as consider a small part of the requests made for hearings. Several highly controversial measures had not been reported out of their respective committees in time for the Rules Committee to act upon them prior to the final drive for adjournment. The chairmen of these committees were, therefore, expecting to get authorization to present the bills to the Congress for a vote during this last two weeks period. However, chaos seemed to be the order of the day when the Chairman of the Rules Committee turned up missing.

He is the only one who can call a meeting of that committee and, therefore, his presence was highly essential. There was much conjecture concerning his whereabouts. On Member suggested he might be on the Submarine, Skate, underneath the North Pole. However, he turned up in good shape on Thursday morning and matters began to proceed in order. These several bills that were in controversy were the Housing Bill, the TVA Bill, the Minerals Stabilization Bill, and the Distressed Areas Re-development Bill. All of these involved big sums of money, and each of them should have been thoroughly and completely debated before the House. It is my fond hope that some day measures of this magnitude can be reached early in the session so that ample time may be had for full development. A full-dress debate in both the House and the Senate of such measures would certainly provide much better laws, and in my opinion, open the door to a better solution of some of the problems under consideration.

The farm bill that was passed hurriedly on last Thursday was a compromise bill. It will answer only a few of the problems that I think should be in the agricultural segment of our economy. Until we do face up to our problem and begin to provide solutions to the agricultural difficulties, we can expect the continued migration of farm families into the cities and the resulting increase in unemployment and social problems. I feel that the 86th Congress, which convenes in January, should go into this problem immediately and work out fair and sound legislation as early as possible so that ample time will be available within which to act.

Coon Cocke of Oklahoma City, formerly of Wellington, was here early this week visiting relatives and friends. He, Mr. and Mrs. Moon Royal and Philip Cobb, then left for Colorado for a week of fishing.

The Rev. J. F. Michael performed the double ring ceremony. Decorating the chancel rail was a straight bank of cathedral tapers in white wrought iron candelabra, with spiral candelabra on either side. Miss Frankie Sue Campbell, the organist, gave a program of traditional wedding music and accompanied Miss Judy Johnson of Austin as she sang "Because", "When I'm With You", and "The Lord's Prayer".

Mr. Drake gave his daughter in marriage.

Her wedding gown was of peau de soie and reemebroidered lace. A wide band of the lace fell the entire length of the dress at front. The bodice featured a scoop neckline outlined with the lace and long sleeves that tapered to petal points over the hands. The bouffant skirt, full at the sides and back, rounded into a chapel train, and a spray of large white organza roses accented the skirt with a bustle effect. Her headress was a tiny calot of alencon lace and peau de soie, from which floated full length layers of white silk illusion.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Longino Observe Fiftieth Anniversary on Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Longino will observe their fiftieth wedding anniversary Saturday, August 23 — a half century spent completely in Wellington. Due to Mr. Longino's illness, there will be no celebration, and the couple, their daughter, Mrs. Lola Lee Roark, and her children will spend the day quietly, joined by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Riggs, Mrs. Longino's sister and brother-in-law, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Dobbs, his sister and brother-in-law.

Mr. Longino is known throughout the Panhandle as the first rural mail carrier west of Quanah in the Texas Panhandle. Mrs. Longino, the former Edith Myers, is the daughter of the late Judge and Mrs. P. W. Myers, among the first settlers of the county.

Mr. Longino began carrying the mail February 1, 1908, and he recalls that neither he nor the postmaster knew much about the requirements. This let them in for a lot of grief from authorities who occasionally visited Wellington.

During that period, he made the route in a buggy, and always carried a lantern, which he lighted about the time he got to Grassburg.

From the rich memories of his life as one of the earliest mail carriers, he recalls that he has doctored babies, herded stock and fixed fences for people on his route when they got in a tight. But the people were good to him, too, he adds. The gave him watermelons and frying chickens and other home raised foods.

"If I had my life to live over, I guess I'd want to be a mail carrier on Route 1," he once declared.

Mr. Longino retired as carrier 15 years ago, after 25 years service — service prolonged beyond the usual 30 years because of war conditions. During the period, it is estimated he traveled the equivalent of more than ten times the distance around the world.

Mrs. Longino has been a quiet inspiration to her husband as she cared for their home and family.

The couple has four daughters, Mrs. Jim Stacey of Amarillo, Mrs. Nelson Jacobs of Tulsa, Mrs. Steve Walter of Akron, Ohio, and Mrs. Roark. There are nine grandchildren.

Of the families who received mail on Route 1 when Mr. Longino began as carrier, only two remain, Mrs. T. J. Lewis and Mrs. W. S. White, both of the Kelley community.

Refreshments were served to Meses. Chas. Slay, Chester Hunter, Earl Keller, E. M. Hix, R. W. Brantley, Walter Franks, Jess Cook, Jim Light, Bess Owen, J. T. Slay, John Henard, John Harper, Woodrow Wood, Roy Bounds, J. C. Whisenant, and these visitors, Mrs. Lawrence Warrick, Renee Fast, and Mondessa Stall.

Miss Patricia Dale Judd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Judd, was married to Jerry Allday at eight o'clock Friday evening, August 15, in the home of her parents. Judge Raymond Horton performed the double ring ceremony.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Dick Cheatham of Garland, and the grandson of Wallace O'Rear and the late Mrs. O'Rear.

Only relatives and close friends attended the wedding.

Decorations included an arrangement of white carnations, with three call lighted tapers on either side. Recordings of traditional wedding music were used.

The bride's dress was of white lace over taffeta, made with a rounded neckline, and without sleeves. A blue satin cummerbund accented the waistline and the sheath skirt was street length. Her hat was of white lace with sequin accents and her corsage of blue carnations.

Miss Sandra Wooldridge was maid of honor. She wore a pink crystalline hat with a scalloped neckline and full skirt. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Ronald Judd was best man.

Lighting the candles were Miss Barbara Denley and Miss Charlotte Mayhugh, while Dickie and Donnie Judd, brothers of the bride, were ring bearers.

A reception followed the ceremony. The bride's table was laid with a white cloth, centered with an arrangement of white carnations with lighted tapers at either side. Appointments were of crystal.

Miss Denley and Miss Mayhugh served the cake and punch and Carolyn Lockhart was at the guest register.

Upon returning from their wedding trip to Dallas and Garland, the couple will be at home in the Killingsworth apartments. The bride completed her sophomore year.

Mrs. Harbin met the guests and presented them to Miss Belew, her mother Mrs. Arthur Belew; and Mrs. Bill Langford, mother of the prospective bridegroom.

The table was laid with a white net cloth over blue linen. A miniature bride in surroundings of white carnations and wedding bells was the centerpiece. Hamilton Choice of Lawyers for Court Position

The leading candidate for Place One Supreme Court in the first primary has issued a statement urging all voters to take a personal interest in the run-off election to be held Saturday.

Robert W. Hamilton, who led the ticket by more than 160,000 votes in the first primary, said: "Each voter should decide for himself which candidate is best qualified, then be sure to take time to vote on Saturday, remembering that the Supreme Court has a greater potential effect upon our rights as individuals than any other office in our state or nation. Texas is one of the states which allows its citizens the privilege of voting upon members of its Supreme Court and each Texas voter should express his preference in this election even though in some cases this will be the only race on the ballot."

Hamilton is a veteran jurist now serving as Chief Justice 8th Court of Civil Appeals, just one step in rank below the Supreme Court post for which he is a candidate. He has 31 years experience in general practice, as county and district attorney, district judge, and including five years as Chief Appeals Justice.

Justice Hamilton was selected as the preferred candidate of Texas lawyers in a secret vote conducted by the State Bar and he led the field of three candidates with a total 476,799 votes in the first primary, less than seven percent short of a majority, which would have given him a victory without a runoff.

Mrs. Leland Bonneau and children, Linda, Charles, and Pete of Hale Center, visited last week with her mother, Mrs. Lottie Brock.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Thompson and Patti of Lubbock were weekend guests of her mother, Mrs. Bessie Hicks, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Thompson.

In the County Judge's Race

The Issues Are Serious

Wayne Cudd has been too modest in his references to his business ability and his sound judgment. As a matter of fact, he has demonstrated both to a superior degree, showing that he knows how to please those for whom he works, and to get full value for the money he handles. He has built from scratch a state-wide trucking business, operating profitably and rendering economical service to his customers, by hard work (including plenty of actual manual labor with fork and shovel) and by conservative and progressive business management.

In contrast, Wayne Cudd's opponent has subsisted on one sort of public employment or another for many years. A useful career, but not one likely to develop sound business judgment as do the hard knocks of competitive business.

Wayne Cudd is a young man, in the prime of his useful life—available to serve Collingsworth county at a time when our area is on a downward economic trend and we need, enthusiasm, clear thinking, progressive foresight and physical vigor in our county leader to work toward reversing that trend.

Wayne Cudd's opponent has served on the public payroll in various capacities for many years. His good intentions are not in question but, rather, his adaptability to changing times.

Wayne Cudd's experience in money management has been gained through the successful handling of HIS OWN funds.

Wayne Cudd's opponent has for many years been identified with county and other taxing-unit programs involving somebody else's money, and where the effects of mismanagement are much less personal and far less educational.

Wayne Cudd believes in conducting county business according to law, as determined by the statutes, and interpreted by competent and successful lawyers.

Wayne Cudd's opponent has preferred not to reply to the auditor's report alleging illegal handling of county funds during his term of office as county judge, but has brushed this report aside as unimportant. Since when has disregard of the law on the part of a public official been unimportant? He has, furthermore, stated openly and in print that he will conduct the office in the same manner as before if he is elected again.

Wayne Cudd does not have a law license. Specifically, he is not a misfit lawyer. Many of Texas' most efficient County Judges are not lawyers, but are men who can read the law intelligently, and who have plenty of reliable sources of advice when required on the more intricate legal problems.

Wayne Cudd's opposition has said that his opponent is better qualified for the office because he is licensed as a lawyer. But, as in other lines of work, there are many different degrees of capability to be found among lawyers. Usually, those least competent are least inclined to seek and accept legal advice from successful members of the bar.

Wayne Cudd has run a clean race. "Clean" in that he has not stooped to smear his opponent's private life, and has criticized only where he could support his criticism with facts.

Wayne Cudd's opponent has cried out for a "clean" race, yet has condoned the spreading of twisted lies about Wayne Cudd's private life.

Wayne Cudd believes that the county finances, through the efforts of the Citizens' Committee and the Commissioners' Court, are in an improving condition. It will be his aim to continue to seek further improvement, under sound legal principles and practices.

Wayne Cudd is a man who has learned by necessity to work with others through the calm talking-out of problems, give and take but without compromise where moral, legal and public welfare principles are involved, and reasonable consideration for the opinions and ideas of others. He has had no experience in offices and small-bore bureaucratic positions where the weight of his authority made it unnecessary to listen to wise counsel.

Wayne Cudd is well-known and respected in Austin. He has spent many months in the capital city in daily contact with officials and lawmakers. His acquaintance in Austin can insure maximum state road programs for Collingsworth county and otherwise safeguard the county's interests at the State level.

The selection of a County Judge is not just a matter of giving a well-liked personal friend a good job into which he can retire; it's a matter of hard-headed thinking about what is best for the county, its future, and our future as citizens.

Ask yourself this question before you vote next Saturday:

Which of the two candidates for County Judge would you hire to manage a $300,000-a-year business of your own? The county's business is big business, and it is YOUR business.

—Political advertisement paid for by supporters of Wayne Cudd for County Judge

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON AT THE GENERAL ELECTION ON NOVEMBER 4, 1958.

SJR #3—Number Nine on the Ballot.

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON AT AN ELECTION TO BE HELD ON NOVEMBER 4, 1958.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 1 proposing an amendment to Article IX of the Constitution of the State of Texas, by adding thereto a new section to be known as Section 5, to provide that the Legislature may authorize the creation of a Hospital District coextensive with the incorporated limits of the City of Amarillo, Texas; authorizing the County of Potter to render financial aid to and participate in the operation of such Hospital District; authorizing the Commissioners' Court of said county to levy and collect taxes on property outside the incorporated limits of such city; further authorizing the creation of a Hospital District for Wichita County, Texas, and authorizing the County of Wichita County to render financial aid to and participate in the operation of such Hospital District; and further providing that any enabling Acts shall not be invalid because of their anticipatory character.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Article IX of the Constitution of the State of Texas be, and the same is hereby amended by adding thereto another section to be designated as Section 5, which shall read as follows:

"Section 5 (a) The Legislature may by law authorize the creation of two hospital districts, one to be coextensive with and have the same boundaries as the incorporated limits of Amarillo, as they may hereafter be lawfully extended, and the other to be coextensive with Wichita County.

"If such district or districts are created, they may be authorized to levy a tax not to exceed Seventy-five Cents (75¢) on the One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) valuation of taxable property within the district; provided, however, no tax may be levied until approved by a majority vote of the participating resident qualified property taxpayers voters who have duly rendered their property for taxation. The maximum rate of tax may be changed at subsequent elections so long as obligations are not incurred, and not to exceed the maximum limit of Seventy-five Cents (75¢) per $100.00 valuation, and no election shall be required by subsequent changes in the boundaries of the City of Amarillo.

"If such tax is authorized, no political subdivision or municipality within or having the same boundaries as the district may levy a tax for medical or hospital care for needy individuals, nor shall they maintain or erect hospital facilities, but the district shall by resolution assume all such responsibilities and shall assume all of the liabilities and obligations (including bonds and warrants) for the maintenance or municipalities or both. The maximum tax rate submitted shall be sufficient to discharge such obligations, liabilities and responsibilities, and to maintain and operate the hospital system, and the Legislature may authorize the district to issue tax bonds for the purpose of the purchase, construction, acquisition, repair or renovation of improvements and initially equipping the same, and such bonds shall be payable from said Seventy-five Cents (75¢) tax. The Legislature shall provide for transfer of title to properties to the district.

"(b) The Legislature may by law permit the County of Potter (in which the City of Amarillo is partially located) to render financial aid to that district by paying the balance of the expenses of operating and maintaining the system and paying a part of the debts of the district (whether assumed or created by the district) and may authorize the levy of a tax not to exceed Ten Cents (10¢) per One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) valuation (in addition to other taxes permitted by this Constitution) upon all property within the county but without the City of Amarillo at the time such levy is made for such purposes. If such tax is authorized, the district shall by resolution assume the responsibilities, obligations, and liabilities of the county in the manner and to the extent hereinabove provided for political subdivisions having boundaries coextensive with the district, and the county shall not thereafter levy taxes (other than herein provided) for hospital purposes nor for providing hospital care for needy individuals of the county.

"(c) The Legislature may by law authorize the creation of a hospital district within Jefferson County, the boundaries of which shall include only the area comprising the Jefferson County Drainage District No. 7 and the Port Arthur Independent School District, as such boundaries existed on the first day of January, 1957, with the power to issue bonds for the sole purpose of paying the principal and the construction and initial equipping of a hospital system, and with the power to levy a tax not to exceed Seventy-five Cents (75¢) on the One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) valuation of property therein for the purpose of paying the principal and interest on such bonds.

"The creation of such hospital district shall not be final until approved at an election by a majority of the resident property taxpayers voting at said election who have duly rendered their property for taxation upon the tax rolls of either said Drainage or said School District, nor shall such bonds be issued or such tax be levied until so approved by such voters.

"The district shall not have the power to levy any tax for maintenance or operation of the hospital or facilities, but shall contract with other political subdivisions of the state or private individuals, associations, or corporations for such purposes.

"If the district hereinabove authorized is finally created, no other hospital district may be created embracing any part of the territory within its boundaries, but the Legislature by law may authorize the creation of a hospital district incorporating therein the remainder of Jefferson County, having the powers and duties and with the limitations presently provided by Article IX, Section 4, of the Constitution of Texas, except that such district shall be confirmed at an election wherein the resident qualified property taxpayers voters who have duly rendered their property within such proposed district for taxation on the county rolls, shall be authorized to vote. A majority of those participating in the election voting in favor of the district shall be necessary for its confirmation and for bonds to be issued.

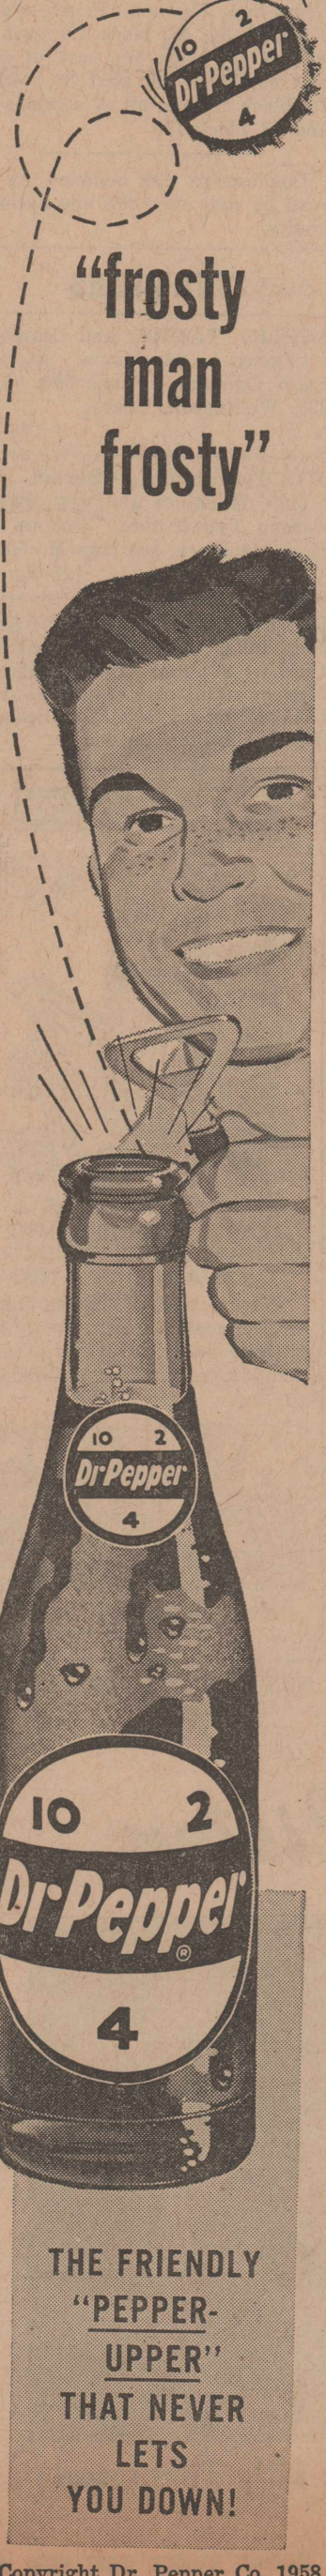

"(d) Should the Legislature enact enabling laws in anticipation of the adoption of this amendment, such Acts shall not be invalid because of their anticipatory character."

Section 2. The foregoing constitutional amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this state at the general election to be held the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1958, at which election all ballots shall have printed thereon:

"FOR the constitutional amendment authorizing the Legislature to create a Hospital District coextensive with the incorporated limits of the City of Amarillo, Texas, and authorizing Potter County to lend financial aid to and participate in the operation of said Hospital District, and further authorizing the Legislature to create a county-wide Hospital District in Wichita County, Texas, and Hospital Districts in Jefferson County, Texas."

"AGAINST the constitutional amendment authorizing the Legislature to create a Hospital District coextensive with the incorporated limits of the City of Amarillo, Texas, and authorizing Potter County to lend financial aid to and participate in the operation of said Hospital District, and further authorizing the Legislature to create a county-wide Hospital District in Wichita County, Texas, and Hospital Districts in Jefferson County, Texas."

Sec. 3. The Governor shall issue the necessary proclamation for said election and have the same published as required by the constitution and laws of this state.

24 Enroll in Human Relations Course Here

Twenty-four Wellington business and professional men and women signed up for the course in Human Relations sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce August 11 through 14.

Miss Mary Frances Bouden of the extension department of the University of Texas was the instructor.

Four key points were brought out in the series of lessons, aimed at employers.

Treat people as individuals, the speaker urged. Learn the workers' background, interest, ambitions, problems. Adapt methods of handling to the individual and the circumstances.

Make the best use of each worker's abilities, was the second key point. Let each worker know his job and why or what he is doing. Look for abilities not being used.

Provide job satisfaction—create job interest through showing the job value to the individual and to the organization. Tell workers in advance about changes that will affect them and why if possible.

Plan and work together, she urged as the final main point. Say and act "We" instead of "Me". Give credit and praise where due, the speaker urged.

Enrolled for the course were Mrs. John Coleman, Louise Fuleher, Mrs. Donnitia Blain, John Forbis, L. B. Bratten, Jack Sanford, George McNabb, Mrs. James Sullivan, George Thomas, Miss Edith Johnson, George Shadid, Mrs. Lucian Bearden, Mrs. Louise Templeton, Ralph R. Cole, Harold Watkins, Dee Burba and Mrs. Jimmie Kelso.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Winton received word of the death of his uncle, Robert Winton, of Bowie, killed in a car-train accident. He had visited here a number of times.

Mrs. Beatrice Jenkins and her sister, Mrs. Beulah Tucker of Austin are in Fort Worth this week visiting another sister, Mrs. Rebecca Knowles.

Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Anglin are visiting their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Anglin and children, Billy, Glenda and Randy, in Las Cruces, N. M. Anglin is in construction work there, and the family only recently has moved into their new home. Before going to New Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. Anglin visited a daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Vandivere and children, Stanley, Marcella, Beverly Ann and Danny, in Borger.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Savage, Mrs. Homer Ingram and Azalea visited in Amarillo Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John D. Ingram and boys, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Wayne Ingram and new baby, Steven Wayne.

Frank Orr flew from Gilroy, Calif., to attend the funeral of his grandfather, J. W. Orr. He also visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. K. Orr of Vinson.

California Girl Improves After Meningitis Attack

Lisa Bowden, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dillon Bowden of Pasadena, Calif., is improved following treatment for spinal meningitis in a Fort Worth hospital, Mrs. Bowden's mother, Mrs. Willie Smith, said this week. She is now able to sit up part time.

The little girl had a sore throat when she and her mother left Pasadena to visit in Wellington, and after arriving here she developed meningitis, Mrs. Smith explained. After hospitalization here, she was taken to Fort Worth.

Bowden flew here from Pasadena to be with his wife and daughter. They have an older son, Dennis, 5.

Personal

Robert Brewer, who left Wellington 36 years ago and had not seen the town since, has made this his headquarters in recent weeks while he visited with relatives. Now a Fort Myers, Fla., contractor, he was accompanied by his wife and son, Edgar Brewer. Here they were guests of a brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Brewer and Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Vaughan, also of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vaughan. Going to Pampa they visited Millard Brewer, another brother, and at Amarillo Mr. and Mrs. Robert Strong and family. A sister, Mrs. L. Bratten and Mrs. B. Bratten were visited at Hollis; Mrs. N. B. Coughran and daughter, Mrs. Bill Bickerstaff and three children of Abilene came here to visit the Florida family. En route home, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Brewer accompanied them to Texarkana, to visit their other brother, Coy Brewer. All of these are the children and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Will Brewer, who came here early in the century.

Visitors at Raton over the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sullivan; Mr. and Mrs. Elvis Crawley; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Holton and family; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Woods and their daughters, Mrs. Bill Enlow and boys and Miss Joyce Woods; Bernice Welch, and Leo Wyrick. Mr. and Mrs. Chester Fires returned recently from a short vacation at Santa Fe, N. M. After a few days here, they went to Sherman to visit last week end with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Vaughan, Joanne and Dick.

New Farm Repair and Building Loan Available

A new type of loan is available through the Farmers Home Administration, to landowners wishing to improve their property, Alton R. Pyburn, county supervisor, announced.

Known as Title V loans, this new plan comes under section 502 of the Housing Act of 1949, Pyburn said. It will enable farmers to get home loans to install modern kitchens, install baths, remodel or repair the entire house, build a new home, put in a water system, or build or repair barns, sheds or other outbuildings.

The security required is a first or second lien on the real estate. Terms are 4 per cent simple interest, payable only on what is actually owned, with up to 33 years to pay, Pyburn said.

To be eligible, a farmer must produce at least $400 worth of farm products based on 1944 prices, Pyburn explained.

Also, a man can work in town, but be eligible for a Title V loan. A landowner may repair or build a house on a farm for a tenant. The work can be done by the family or by contract, and the family selects their own plans, although FHA has plans available where they are requested.

Loans are passed on by the county loan committee, made up of Wayne Reynolds, Bert Starkey and J. I. Morgan.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Graham have returned from several weeks visit in south and west Texas. They first went to Harlingen to visit their son and family Mr. and Mrs. George Graham, Cynthia and Martha. Mrs. George Graham had undergone major surgery, but is recovering rapidly and will be able to return to her work as a teacher in Harlingen by the opening of the school term. Graham is district claims manager for Texas Employers Casualty Co. The Wellington couple then came to Corpus Christi to visit another son, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Graham, and their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bryan and daughter, Mrs. Stuart Utley, also of Corpus Christi. Monday of last week they went to Pecos to visit Mrs. Cleve Graham's brother, Mr. and Mrs. John Hagar, who lived here prior to 1935, and their three sons, Earl, Joe and James and their families.

State Capital NEWS

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN, Tex.—Everyone wants harmony at the State Democratic Convention Sept. 9 in San Antonio. Gov. Price Daniel, U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough, National Committeeman Byron Skelton, and Speaker Sam Raburn — all say they want harmony.

Even National Committeewoman Mrs. R. D. Randolph, who has tirelessly needed Governor Daniel and the state committee for two years, more or less joined in by predicting "a spirit of good will" among delegates.

Despite all the expressions of good intent, harmony among Texas Democrats is hard to come by. Like a huge household of relatives and in-laws, the party always has many clashing personalities and viewpoints under one roof. In the past, there've been rump conventions and separate rival delegations to the national convention.

It is the hope of avoiding this in 1960 that lies behind the cementing efforts. Many leaders contend that unified Texas delegation could have a key role in naming the next presidential nominee.

All the above-mentioned leaders are presently agreed on one issue—support of the party nominees. Point on which they part is whether the governor should have a veto over the state committee members selected by vote of district delegations.

Governor Daniel, following the practice of past governors, bumped some of the district-selected committee members in 1956 and submitted people more in line with his program.

Mrs. Randolph and Senator Yarborough, now joined by Raburn, insist the governor has no right to do this.

But Governor Daniel has not promised he wouldn't. He said he felt no district should propose a committee member who is "dedicated to the sabotage of . . . duly elected officers of the party." This almost certainly refers to members of the Democrats of Texas (DOT), an ultra-liberal group that has heckled and hindered the governor and other official party leaders at every turn for the past two years.

Delegates from each of the 31 senatorial districts are allowed two state committee members—a man and a woman. It is estimated that perhaps six of these districts may be controlled by anti-Daniel forces. Therein lies the possibility for discord. If any of these districts proposes a DOTer for the state committee, the governor is not likely to "harmonize".

High Hopes

Mr. Wilson went to Washington, his saddlebags full of multi-million-dollar hopes for Texas school children.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson personally delivered the Texas brief in the upcoming U. S. Supreme Court case on Texas tidelands. At issue is whether the state or federal government owns submerged lands between the points 3 miles out and 10.5 miles out.

Wilson carried the arguments for Texas ownership in 40-year-old saddlebags that belonged to a heroic Texas Ranger. He declares optimistically that the case is jinxed — in Texas' favor — because the brief is dated August 13, trial is set for Oct. 13, oral arguments will last 13 hours and 13 people worked on the research.

More seriously, he noted that Texas had spent "a big sum of money" marshalling its facts, that a bevy of top-notch legal minds from over the state, nation and two foreign countries had spent some 2,000 hours on the 400-page brief.

"We feel like we have an overwhelming case," he said. "We feel like we will win it."

Exploration indicates that the 7.5-mile band of disputed land is exceptionally rich in oil and gas. If Texas is successful in holding its claim, revenue from these resources would go into the Permanent School Fund.

Place In The Sun

Texas Republicans have served notice they will demand an even break at getting their candidates in the favored position on the general election ballot.

Desired place in the first column on the left. GOP leaders say people automatically begin reading in this column, and some never go any further.

Republicans hope to work things out on the local level with some sort of coin-tossing arrangement. But they say they'll go to court, if necessary.

Cities Win Out

Cities and utility companies won the first round of a court battle to determine who pays the cost of re-locating utilities for new interstate highways.

An Austin district court ruled that the cost can be paid from federal-state highway funds, as provided in a law passed by the last legislature. State Highway Department is challenging the constitutionality of this law.

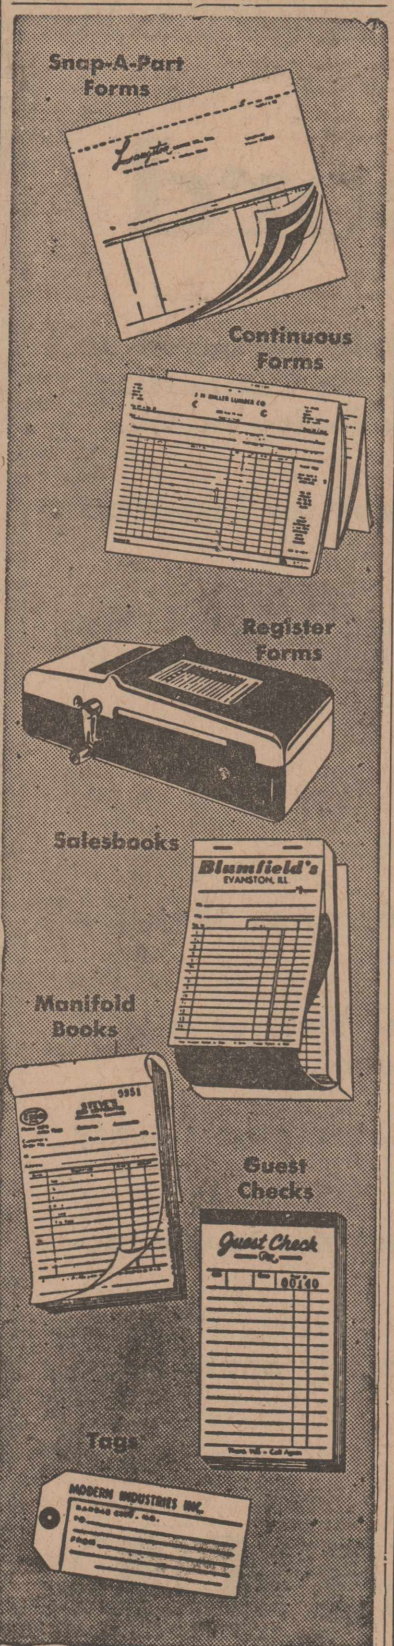

Ultimate decision will, of course, be made by the Supreme Court. Some estimate the re-location costs could run as high as $100,000,000.

Parole Staff Complete

Board of Pardons and Paroles has announced the appointment of 10 new parole supervisors, rounding out the 40-man statewide staff.

Adult parole staff was authorized by the last Legislature to allow for release of prisoners who show promise of "going straight". About 3,000 persons are now on parole in Texas, and more are expected to be released as the new supervisors go to work.

Latest appointees to the parole staff are Louis Bramblett of Dallas, Julian Chafin of Sherman, Cecil Smith of Jourdan, Walter Williford of Houston, Massey Herrera of Corpus Christi, Thomas Casso of El Paso, Herbert Gnepper of Lubbock, Alfredo Garcia of Austin, Terry Cromwell of Fort

Wellington Leader

Worth, and Charles Davis of Goldthwaite.

College Fund Seekers

Members of governing boards of state colleges have formed a committee to urge additional appropriations for the colleges.

Jointly the college directors feel they need about $13,000,000 a year more, mostly for faculty salaries.

Herman Heep, Austin oilman and member of the Texas A&M Board, is chairman of the committee. Said Heep, "It is time we point out that Texas, ranking low among the states in its support of higher education, is getting about what it is paying for."

George Jones, who recently underwent surgery in St. Joseph's Hospital, was released August 8 and is convalescing at his home west of town.

CLEAN POLITICS... or CLEAN GOVERNMENT?

My opponent has asked for "Clean" Politics. I am keeping my politics clean and offering you a chance to have Clean County Government at the same time. I have not put out anything but FACTS from the records.

I mailed to each poll tax holder a copy of the Auditor's Comment on the 1942 Audit. I didn't put my name on it because I wanted you to READ the comments. (My friends wouldn't need to read what it said, and the opposition would have called it politics and thrown it down if my name had been on it.) I mailed this report in plenty of time so it could not be called "last minute". I sent my opponent a copy of this, and he has not bothered to deny one word of it. He tries to imply that the Auditor was not bonded. (He and the Commissioners' Court hired the Auditor.) He says the Auditor was just mad at him. (You should be mad, too.) I believe you recognize the difference between SMOOTH talk and HARD facts.

In an ad "Let's Reason Together" my opponent shows a decrease in county indebtedness during his four years administration as $16,285.91. He fails to mention that there was $23,000.00 unregistered script warrants and right-of-way debts made in his administration which had to be paid off by the 1943 Court on Feb. 8, 1943. These are some of the reasons I ask you to go to the County Clerk's office and see for yourself.

Your vote indicated you wanted a change in County Administration. I know you wanted a change for the better. The present judge admits I am best qualified to handle the business of the County, but says he cannot support me because I am not a lawyer. Would you hire a lawyer to run your farm or business?

Those who know me KNOW that NOBODY tells me how to run my business, and that NO OTHER COUNTY OFFICIAL (including the county attorney) will dictate the policies if you elect me your Judge. Much has been rumored to that effect, and you all know there is NO TRUTH in it.

I am a heavy taxpayer in this County. We spend above $7,000.00 per year for truck and trailer licenses alone. Our PROPERTY TAX is in addition to that figure.

I believe in progress. We cannot stand still. We either go forward or backward. We should do all in our power to improve the economic, physical and scholastic welfare of our County.

The office of County Judge requires a man who has a fair knowledge of the law. I have that knowledge, and can read the law from the library which is available.

I ask you to consider Principles when casting your vote. Do not be misled by gossip. FACE THE FACTS!

The Election Next Saturday May Well Be Our Last Chance to Save Our Precious Water Rights on Salt Fork

Next Saturday the people of Collingsworth County will go to the polls to vote on one of the most important issues that has ever confronted our County since it was organized.

The issue at present is: Shall we protect our precious water rights on Salt Fork, or shall we let them go to Oklahoma by default?

On the front page of this issue of The Wellington Leader is a reproduction of the main news story in The Greer County News published on August 4.

We urge you to read it word for word and then think about its implications. It portrays more clearly than any information we have yet been able to collect how greatly our energetic political neighbors to the east value the importance of water.

It also shows that the people of Greer and Jackson Counties firmly believe that all the waters of Salt Fork even though some of them may originate as far away as Carson and Armstrong Counties, not to mention Donley, already belong to the Oklahomans.

The Oklahomans know the value of water and they intend to get it and keep it if they can, and once they get it there will be no chance of ever getting it back. Now is the time to act to hold our water rights. Other questions must and will be decided later.

Water is the only thing that can bring increased population to this immediate Southeastern area of the Panhandle. And increased population is of the utmost importance to the continuation of the schools in Samnorwood, Quail, Dodson and Wellington under the present school laws.

Water is also an absolute essential for the establishment of industries which can keep more of our able young people at home.

Are you willing, for a mess of pottage, to sell FOREVER to the shrewd and powerful politicians of Oklahoma the most valuable of all the resources we possess, our water rights?

For the good of our people and especially FOR THE GOOD OF OUR CHILDREN we urge you to vote FOR on both ballots concerning the Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District next Saturday.

(Paid for by Citizens of Collingsworth County who sincerely have the interest of the entire county at heart.)

I am sorry that I "wore out my welcome" with the voters, for there were parts of my job I really enjoyed, but I bear no hard feelings for I know from experience that things like that always work out for the best.

I want to close with this little Quotable Quote which applies so aptly to my present situation:

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

If you want to know the real attitude of the Oklahomans about Texas water turn back to the front page and read every word of the story that is reprinted from The Greer County News. The Oklahomans were not even willing to wait to see if we created a water district. They started bombarding their congressmen and senators with telegrams two weeks before the time of election.

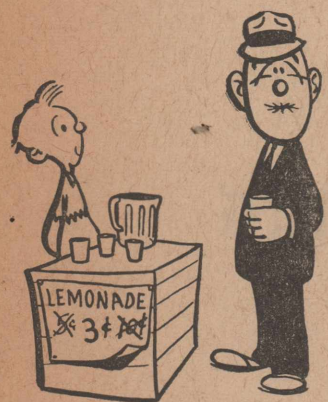

Our senators and congressmen can undoubtedly cope with the Oklahomans when the time comes if we make it possible for them to get in the fight. But first we must create the district before we can ask help from either Austin or Washington. Our next move is to get the people to the polls next Saturday.

One good looking lady sent me a verbal bawling out via my wife right after the first primary. It seems that in other years she had been depending on this column to comment on the candidates for The Supreme Court of Texas. There were two good men running in the first primary; but now there is only one who is actually qualified for this post. He is Judge Robert Hamilton. Not only is he endorsed by 9 out of 10 lawyers in the entire state and has a long and distinguished record of service. However if your political leaning is to candidates endorsed by the AFL-CIO pac then you should cast your vote for his opponent named Edwin Smith.

The Wellington area may be hit hard this year by lack of transportation. All of our grain elevators are on the Katy tracks as well as the cotton compress. This line was abandoned on August 1. Last week Warlick got an order to ship out seventeen cars of wheat, but they could not get them on the Denver tracks. No arrangements have been made for the Denver operating over the Katy. Work is under way to try to find a solution. It could cause a glut of farm commodities unless an outlet can be found soon.

When the Interstate Commerce Commission granted the application of the M-K-T Ry. last February, it was thought that the services in Wellington would go on uninterrupted via the Fort Worth and Denver. The ICC order specified that uninterrupted service be continued by the Katy to Wellington industries until the service could be taken over by the Denver. No service has been rendered to the industries on the old Katy tracks since July 31. This includes both of our giant elevators, the cotton compress and most of the gas distributing agencies. The trouble is that the two railroads have not reached an agreement on the purchase of trackage.

As I said a number of people

Be Sure of What You Get . . .

Although the price may catch your eye, the product may leave something to be desired when you use it.

This can be as true of cut rate property insurance as it is of sour lemonade. YOU GET ONLY WHAT YOU PAY FOR.

Be doubly sure when you insure. For a few cents more, buy your protection from an independent local agent who understands your needs, is an expert on all coverages, and gives you superior service.

are working on the problem, but the time for getting our grain rolling is just about here. The Leader will have a full story on the situation next week and I hope the news story can sound a more optimistic note than this column. There was some talk and correspondence about a Mr. A. W. Hawks buying the right of way clear to Altus, but that is pretty vague at the present time. Better news next week, I hope.

People should make the most of our splendid fruit crop this year. The peaches are the most delectable we have had in twenty years and they are abundant. If you are starting out on a trip to the mountains you ought to take along a bushel and give them away just to advertise the sort of peaches we grow in Collingsworth county.

My wife and I were invited with other members of the National Editorial Association to be guests of the Belgium Government at the Brussels Fair. This was a study mission of the tariff practices that Western Europe has in operation. It concerns the lowering and equalizing of tariff barriers between such countries as Germany, France, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Italy and others, so that they will have no difference in tariffs as in the states of The United States.

The trip also included side tours to Paris and London and it could have been made for less than half the cost that would have accrued to anybody taking the same kind of trip on their own. We sent in our reservation early in June. It is a dream you have in your subconscious mind all your lifetime — a vision of the far away and the long ago. Louise and I missed it this time. We will try again unless the Communist blow the world to hell.

FENCE LINE COMPARISON

This fence line comparison in Salt Fork Soil Conservation shows the lack of palatable plants, a thinning ground cover, and overgrazing, indicating a range on the downgrade. At the right of the fence, the replacement of good forage plants and moderate grazing indicate a range that is improving. The latter pasture in good condition is on the Oscar Laycock ranch in the north part of the district.

In Salt Fork SCD

Slow Regrowth of Ranges a Problem

Slow regrowth of ranges following heavy grazing has been attributed principally to the reduction in leaf surface with which the grass manufacturers food, J. C. Yeary, of Soil Conservation Service reminded ranchers of Salt Fork Soil Conservation District this week.

It has been found also that another important factor is the inability of overgrazed plants to absorb moisture as compared to ungrazed or moderately grazed plants. Root systems of plants with tops removed are unable to absorb enough water form the soil to prevent wilting.

In sandy loam soils, such as are predominate in the Salt Fork SCD, only half the moisture available to growing plants is available to those plants which are closely grazed, Yeary said. This is true even during a wet year.

Ample evidence is seen in the general range conditions in Salt Fork District.

"Those ranges which have been greatly overstocked and overgrazed have not made the recovery this year in comparison to the ranges which have been properly stocked and moderately grazed," Yeary commented.

Several points the rancher can use to judge the condition of his own grass was given by Yeary.

Signs of deteriorating range: 1. Weakened vitality of principal forage plants; pale unnatural color of herbage; reduced height of growth and reduced volume of crop.

2. Close grazing of inferior forage plants. Damage to less palatable plants and serious damage to palatable plants.

3. Thinning ground cover of vegetation; dying out of disintegrating turfs; overbrowsing of palatable shrubs; eventually thinning out of shrubs; absence of good browse reproduction.

4. Replacement of good forage plants with poor ones; an abundance of young inferior plants, especially current grass seedlings; lack of vigor or actual thinning of good forage plants, indicates invasion. This is halted if there is a stand of vigorous good forage plants and relative scarcity or absence of young plants of inferior quality.

5. Accelerating erosion; distinct increase in number of recent gullies; failure of vegetation to reclaim very small gullies resulting from past abuse.

Excellent evidence that a previously depleted range is improving include:

1. Thickening of stand of good forage.

2. Reclaiming of gullies by vegetation.

3. An average of about 50 percent on a volume basis of the available crop of palatable herbage and 25 percent of the flower stalks left at the end of grazing season.

4. Palatable plants in vigorous condition, as shown by color, general appearance and bright growth, very good density, absence of dead turfs of thinning sod.

5. Absence of young growth of unpalatable plants.

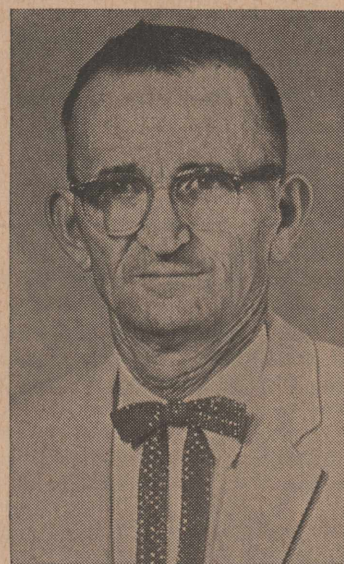

6. Gullies or arroyos stabilized by vegetation; absence of formation of gullies and absence of noticeable sheet erosion.

Access to Water

Many states now require a salt water fishing license. Some have had such a license law for a long time. Texas joined the ranks in 1957. Here a license is now required for all fishermen outside their home counties, and for all persons fishing with a rod and reel wherever they fish, if they are between the ages of 17 and 65.

As a result of this license law there is a great deal of exploratory work going on along the Texas coast. The Game and Fish Commission plans to provide several passes through coastal islands and peninsulas, to improve marine fishing conditions.

While the state is doing this, there also is much to be done by the individual counties in providing access to water. There is no better fishing to be found anywhere than off the Texas coast. In many places, however, it is hard to get to because the shoreline has been commercialized or industrialized.

Some counties and the municipal governments in some towns provide free launching ramps. From Port Arthur to Port Isabel, however, there is need for many more than now exist.

Of course the need for launching ramps is evident on every inland body of water, too. Most of the ramps on our lakes and streams are inadequate and in some instances unsafe. With thousands of additional boats this year, many owners will find it difficult to reach a good launching ramp. It will be a question of who gets there first.

If you have such a situation in your locality, how about talking it over with the Chamber of Commerce and get the business men of the city behind the movement. They can be a big help. Point out to them that the more accessible you make the lakes and rivers the more visitors (and customers) your town will have.

ARTIFICIAL WORMS—Catching fish with artificial lures is of course even more fascinating than live bait. To satisfy this type of fisherman David A. DeLong of DeLong Lures in Cleveland, Ohio, has produced not only some excellent imitations of the little wigglers, but also has incorporated taste.

Speaking of his very life-like eels and worms, DeLong says "fish them deep and slowly. Let them go as near the bottom as possible and in retrieving do not hurry them."

The special odor which DeLong fuses into the plastic does not attract any more fish, but says the inventor, "when a fish hits it he seems to like the taste and smell and holds it without spitting the hook."

NEW SPORTS CENTER — A fellow over in Big-D has set about to prove it is possible to get all your coons up the same tree. This time it is in a sports center, where there'll be everything.

Angus Wynn and associates are spending $3,000,000 on this sports center as a part of the development near Arlington, where a few hundred million more will be checked out of the bank.

This sports center will be located on 275 acres. It will have everything from a little perch hook to the heaviest tackle made, and from a 6 foot pram to an angling cruiser.

It will have a lake for fishing practice, protected rifle range, skeet range and a place to ski.

The sports center will be a clearing house also for information about hunting and fishing all over the world.

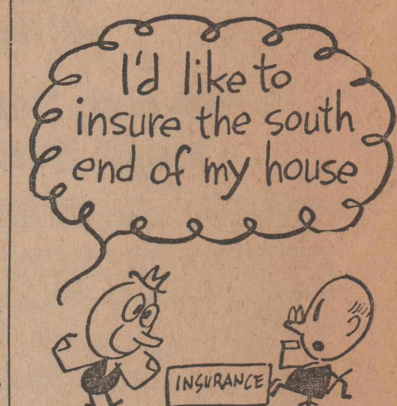

This gigantic air conditioned store will be 242 x 410 feet, the largest sporting goods store under one roof in the world. All of it is supposed to be ready with a year.

Is he kidding?

No, nobody ever asks us to insure only one end of his house against fire, windstorm, etc.

But, in effect, many people DO carry insurance on only fraction of their property.

We mean, they carry only a percentage — perhaps 40% or 50% or 60% — of as much insurance as they should.

They insured their property when property was worth much less. Insurance should be carried not on original cost, but on present replacement costs, less depreciation. (This depreciation is normally very little for well maintained property.)
