SHOUSE CITES OPPOSITION IN TALK TODAY

NEWSPAPER EDITORIAL QUOTED; SAYS AAA NEEDS WATCHING

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—Jouett Shouse, president of the American Liberty League, today denounced what he called "regimentation" undertaken by the New Deal.

Striking back at President Roosevelt's hint that the league places property rights above human rights, he quoted with approval a newspaper editorial saying nothing could be "sillier" than to suppose personal and property rights can conflict.

Regrets Majorities

The league's chief also expressed "regret" at the fact the next congress will be composed of overwhelming majorities and very small minorities.

"Whether it be in nation, state or city," he said in an address prepared for delivery to the Bond club, "the best government is achieved when the balance of power between the two parties is as nearly as possible equal. It is undesirable when the pendulum swings too far in either direction."

Regarded As Significant

Although Shouse emphasized he was giving only his personal opinions, his address was regarded as highly significant as pointing the future course of this organization formed by such men as Alfred E. Smith, James W. Wadsworth, John W. Davis and Irenee Du Pont to assess trends in government and fight those it brands as harmful.

Declaring again that the league is not partisan nor anti-administration and that "it will hope to work with the administration toward objectives beneficial to the country," Shouse said:

"It will not fail to uphold fundamental Americanism against subversive theories and alien doctrines."

Indicates Standpoints

Shouse's opinions on NRA and AAA, though underscored as only his views, indicated that "in many regards" NRA has served a useful purpose and that he would not "ruthlessly sacrifice everything" connected with it, he said.

"That the NRA has indulged in unwarranted excesses of attempted regulation there can be no doubt. That its policy of price-fixing is detrimental to the best interests of the great mass of the people is my firm belief. That its attempt to write codes for every little business of the

PHONE LINES CUT

MEXICO, D. F., Nov. 20 (AP) — The Mexican telephone company reported today that its communication between Monterrey and Laredo, Tex., had been cut in the early morning, apparently by a band of rebels.

BALLARD SAYS CASES SPLIT

GAME AND INCIDENT WITH REFEREE NO WAY CONNECTED

New Mexico Military Institute's announcement of severance of athletic relations with Texas Technological college and the altercation between Referee "Olb" Jackson of Amarillo and Freshman Football Coach Virgil Ballard of Tech are separate and unconnected incidents, Coach Ballard believes.

The game between the Picadors and New Mexico last week was a smooth, clean contest with no display of ill-feeling between the opposing teams," Ballard declared.

Players shook hands after the game we were invited to use the college natatorium, asked to attend a military dance that night I talked with Capt. R. R. Brown, coach of the Cadets, and he apparently had no hard feelings about the outcome of the game. He told me that his team would no longer schedule games with Texas School of Mines, El Paso, nor Amarillo Junior college."

Rulings Swayed By Crowd

Rulings of Jackson and Umpire Masters, also of Amarillo, were obviously swayed by the Roswell crowd, Ballard said, in telling of the three occasions when he went on the field, always, he said, to ask the rulings and never to question them.

New Mexico's touchdown was made after Tech defense had batted

STABILIZATION OF DOLLAR PROPOSED

DETROIT Nov. 20 (AP)—Asserting that "the paramount issue is the money question," Senator Elmer Thomas (D-Okla) and the Rev. Fr. Charles E. Coughlin will urge upon the president and congress further revaluation of the dollar and its subsequent stabilization at the 1926 level.

Senator Thomas said he and Fr Coughlin would work for ultimate dollar stabilization at 100 cents, which he said was the 1926 level.

They plan a meeting at Washington next month of representatives of farm organizations, the committee for the nation, the Sound Money League and Fr. Coughlins' National Union for Social Justice. From this meeting the program which they will present to President Roosevelt will emerge in finished form.

Bids To Be Taken On Tech Equipment

Sealed bids for construction of sidewalks and for furnishing and installation of draperies and pianos for the two dormitories at Texas Technological college will be opened at Fort Worth Thursday.

The bids will be opened in the offices of Gen. John A. Hulen, chairman of the Tech Building committee, and the contracts probably will be awarded at that time. Work is expected to start soon afterwards. The contracts must conform with the requirements of the federal administration of public works, under which the dormitories were constructed.

Sidewalks will be constructed in front of each dormitory and will link the two buildings, in addition to connecting with walks leading to the Administration and other buildings on the campus.

ARMS PLAN HITS SNAG

White House To Get 1,000-Piece China Set

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—If one of these new White House dishes is dropped it'll break up a 1,000-piece set!

That's the awful thought that ran in the minds of servants at the executive mansion today as they learned of a bit of Christmas shopping that Mrs. Roosevelt did early. It's a dinner set—1,000 pieces.

New dinner sets do not crop up around the presidential establishment every day. This one, to be delivered next month, will be the first since Mrs. Woodrow Wilson bought one some 20 years ago—and to break a cup or saucer is something of a major offense.

American-made, the China will be ivory-colored. It will be rimmed in dark blue—the first lady's favorite color—and gold, and will bear the presidential crest. Forty-eight gold stars stud the blue border.

President Roosevelt is said to be glad he doesn't have to wipe those 1,000 dishes for the first lady.

LEAGUE PLAN IS REFUSED

PARAGUAY FROWNS ON PROPOSAL TO END WAR IN CHACO

(By The Associated Press)

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Nov. 20.—A flat refusal was Paraguay's reply today to the League of Nations' latest proposal to end the war in the Chaco.

The government has officially refused to accept a report of the league's Chaco consultative committee recommending cessation of hostilities pending arbitration. The chancellory, it was understood, instructed representatives in Geneva to notify the league of the decision.

Paraguay, flushed by recent successes in the jungle war, insists that fighting be stopped only after reliable guarantees which would make its resumption impossible.

Tenant-Farmers In "Virtual Peonage"

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 20 (AP)—Lucien Koch, director of Commonwealth college, at Mena, Ark., claims that 1,400,000 tenant-farmers in the cotton fields of the south are "held in virtual peonage."

In a speech yesterday before members of the Hungry club, of Pittsburgh, Koch assailed the new deal for alleged failure "to alleviate the poverty of share-croppers" in the cotton fields.

Driven to desperation by the planters, Koch continued, 2,000 of the tenant farmers in Arkansas have formed a union to protest against continuance of the new deal cotton program.

STATE BOARD IS REVAMPING PERSONNEL

POLITICIANS REMOVED FROM LIST OF STATE RELIEF WORKERS

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Nov. 20—Without fanfare or publicity, the state board of control is recording what it considers to be marked headway in its tremendous task of eliminating dissension in the administration of state and federal relief.

The board's cardinal aim is to remove relief from politics and politicians as far as possible. Quietly but effectively the board is concentrating its efforts at troublesome points in a manner that bids fair to abolish the bickering and wrangling that has marked relief operations in the past.

Given New Hope

The hearty response the board has received in its campaign to mould a smoothly functioning and efficient organization has given relief heads new hope as they face the complex problem of caring for the state's needy thousands during the coming winter, Claude D. Teer, chairman, said.

Teer believes that when "politics" is removed from relief administration many of the problems will have been solved. Dollars spent for relief will go farther and conditions much more satisfactory to all concerned will ensue as the political influence is diminished.

Can Select Boards

Under the law giving the board of control supervision over relief the board was empowered to select county relief boards and county administrators. The state board thus far has sought only to exercise the first of these powers, selecting the county boards and then leaving appointment of an administrator to the local organization.

Laws Limiting Stature And Might Of Power Holding Companies Proposed

RECOMMENDATION TO BE MADE TO FDR BY COMMITTEE

BY J. R. BRACKETT

(Copyright, 1934, By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—An authoritative source disclosed today that laws to limit the stature and might of giant holding companies in the power business probably will be recommended to President Roosevelt by his power experts.

Regulation of holding companies—corporations which hold the shares of operating utilities and usually control those utilities—is an objective of the national power commission, appointed by the president to recommend a power policy to him.

Headed By Healy

A commission sub-committee studying this subject is headed by Robert E. Healy, who directed most of the Federal Trade commission's six-year inquiry into utilities and who is now on the securities and exchange commission.

Though a legislative program has not been drafted and the president's attitude has not been disclosed, the sub-committee was authoritatively reported to be thinking along these lines:

1. No more than one holding company should be superimposed on a group of operating companies. At present some holding companies are in turn held by other holding companies. The experts believe this pyramiding is uneconomic.

Resources To Be Limited

2. The power resources which one holding company may control should be limited.

3. Natural gas and electric companies should be divorced. In many cases holding companies control both kinds of utilities jointly. This

COUNTY'S CROP TICKETS HERE

CERTIFICATES BEING DISTRIBUTED BY COUNTY AGENT

Fourteen hundred certificates for 2,887,255 pounds of cotton having arrived yesterday as Lubbock county's share of a 10 per cent allotment under the Bankhead act, distribution of the certificates would begin this morning, P. T. Montfort, county agent, announced.

"Farmers have only until Saturday to pool this in the national pool," he pointed out. "The pool closes November 24. We have so far pooled about 14,100,000 pounds out of the 17,962,690 pounds allotted us under the 90 per cent of the tax exempt cotton under the Bankhead bill."

Lubbock county, Mr. Montfort pointed out, now has an allotment of 45,285 bales or 21,650,155 pounds.

In Four Groups

These allotments come in four groups (1) farmers having cotton for the first time in 1933; (2) farmers having cotton for the first time in 1934; (3) farmers with a short crop because of drouth, hail or other natural causes, and (4) farmers who signed the 1934-35 voluntary agreement.

Certificates, pounds and bales alloted are:

	Certificates	Pounds	Bales
1.	214	568,120	1,189
2.	140	228,090	477
3.	1,400	2,887,255	6,040
4.	5,821	17,962,690	37,579

RFC MOVES TO GET FUNDS

"DAWES LOAN" OBJECT OF SUIT FILED IN FEDERAL COURT

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 29—The Reconstruction Finance corporation moved today to collect a part of overdue funds in the $90,000,000 "Dawes loan."

In federal court yesterday attorneys for the RFC filed suit against the 4,000 stockholders of the Central Republic Trust company seeking to determine their liability in the claimed $60,000,000 unpair balance.

Chas. G. Dawes Named

The court was asked to determine if recovery could be made of $14,000,000, the amount of the company's capital stock. Among stockholders named is Gen. Charles G. Dawes, one-time official of the company.

At the time the bill was filed Federal Judge John P. Barnes granted RFC attorneys a temporary restraining order enjoining other creditors of the stockholders from instituting similar suits pending disposal of the bill.

Only Borrowed $80,000,000

While the Central Republic was extended $90,000,000 credited by the RFC, only $80,000,000 was borrowed by the institution, a loan of $30,000,000 being obtained on June 29, 1932, and $50,000,000 on Oct. 5, 1932.

AUSTRIA SEEKS EQUALITY IN ARMAMENTS

U. S. PRESENTS BOLD PLAN TO BOTTLE UP ARMS TRADE

BY JOSEPH E. SHARKEY

Associated Press Foreign Staff

GENEVA, Nov. 20—Austria today demanded equality in armaments of a disarmament conference committee which had heard a bold proposal from the United States that the arms trade, from revolvers to battleships, should be bottled up.

Austria went before the steering committee of the conference and declared her independence was menaced. She said an armament race is now in progress and threatens the peace of Europe, and that she needs more war materials in order to defend her sovereignty.

Germany Needed

Italy announced to the committee that she believes it useless to proceed with the disarmament conference without the presence of Germany, which withdrew from the parley last year when her demands for more armaments were refused.

Austria's announcement today appeared to be in close parallel to the preceding one by her Germanic sister.

The American proposal, however, was regarded as sufficient to inspire the conference with the initiative to continue in session.

Wilson Presents Proposal

Hugh R. Wilson, United States minister to Switzerland and American delegate to the conference, proposed on behalf of his nation an international treaty providing for a rigid system of licenses and full publicity for all arms manufacture and trade. It was the most complete document on munitions which has been submitted here in the three previous years of disarmament consultations.

FRENCH BUDGET HIKED

PARIS, Nov. 20 (AP)—France increased its budget today by 800,000,000 francs (approximately $53,000,000) after hearing warnings of the danger of unpreparedness while Germany allegedly is arming to the teeth. This sum will be added to frontier organization expenses. In addition more conscripts than usual will be called for military training to give the country an augmented military force.

DEBTORS NOTIFIED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—The United States has notified foreign debtors that $154,729,976 is due this government December 15.

The notices were routine and did not mean the treasury expects to collect much of this sum. Only Finland which owes $228,538 in December, is paid up. All other nations are in default.

WALLACE TELLS GRANGE AAA FUTURE IS ONE OF "CONTROLLED EXPANSION"

(By The Associated Press)

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 20—Secretary Wallace defined the future course of agricultural adjustment today as one of "controlled expansion, rather than reduction."

Speaking before the National Grange he declared that "to permit a controlled expansion, and also to permit agriculture profitably to produce enough to tide the country over years of drouth ought to be our objective."

He warned the farm group of a prospective drive to scrap crop control, led by "sincere localists, laissez faire economists, and certain business groups interested in volume."

"Because certain surpluses have been whittled down, because farm incomes are rising, and because of the consequences of the drouth," he said, "I can forsee a powerful drive, in and out of congress, to remove any and all restrictions on agricultural production.

"I have the feeling that the various processors, handlers, dealers, and carriers may perhaps join with the more vocal

ALLRED FORCED TO FOLLOW PRACTICE OF PRESIDENTS-ELECT; GOES AWAY

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Nov. 20.—Gov.-Elect James V. Allred already has resorted to the practice well known to newly elected presidents.

To obtain relief from long conferences with hordes of job-seekers and persons who have advice without end on what the state needs in the way of new legislation, he has been forced to get clean out of the country.

Hundreds Seek Audience

Even before he was formally elected governor on Nov. 6, the waiting room of the attorney general's office daily saw considerable numbers of persons sitting about in hope of a personal interview with the next chief executive. Since then the number has increased enormously.

Not only that, but the young attorney general's mail has increased in volume until he frequently arrives at the office about 6 a. m. and does not leave until late at night, endeavoring to catch up with the rush of correspondence.

Plans Hunting Trip

This week Allred arranged a hunting trip into Mexico with a small party of friends. While he is an ardent huntsman—and fisher-

Toss Of Coin Is Deciding Factor In Woman's Fate

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 20. (AP)—Mrs. Roberta V. Strickland poised on the ledge of a 13-story building. Officer R. H. Howley hurried to the roof and approached her.

"If you come any nearer, I'll jump," she shouted.

The officer said she then took a quarter from her purse and said:

"If it's heads, I jump."

"I'll match you to see if you jump or not," Howley countered.

As Mrs. Strickland tossed her coin and her eyes wandered to it from the horror-struck crowd in the street below, the officer grabbed her and dragged her away from the ledge. She was taken to an emergency hospital for observation.

How High Will Silver Go?

THE TREASURY IS BUYING HUGE QUANTITIES OF SILVER. STERLING SILVERWARE PRICES ARE STILL LOW

Now Is the Time to Buy

Under the Silver Purchase Act of 1934, silver became part of our monetary system and the U. S. Treasury was authorized to buy huge quantities of this precious metal. As a result the price of silver has advanced and may go much higher. The chart shows the trend toward higher prices which increases the intrinsic value of sterling silverware, which is made from the same silver bullion used in the making of a silver dollar.

A TIP

We have had several tips regarding SILVER PRICES, and we are at the present expecting to receive a notice, any day, of a SHARP advance in price.

TEXAS TENDER BOARD MEMBERS TO GIVE THEIR VIEWS

DALLAS, Nov. 20 (AP)—Views of members of the Texas oil tender board and of J. Edgar Pew of Philadelphia, executive of the Sun Oil company, on the controversial question of federal legislation affecting the oil industry were scheduled for discussion today before the Cole congressional subcommittee.

Problems of the state in controlling the flow of crude from the East Texas field, from which one-fifth of the nation's daily total is produced, likely will be reviewed by tender board members. Much of the industry's unrest has been laid to excess production in East Texas.

Board Into Service

The board of East Texas business men, Tucker Royall, R. W. Fair and W. P. Moore, were pressed into service by the Texas Railroad commission to pass upon validity of crude before permitting it to enter intra-state commerce. A similar board established by the federal oil administration in the same fashion determines the legality of crude before approving its movement in interstate commerce.

Pew will be the second large oil company executive and American Petroleum institute director to appear before the committee in its Dallas series of hearings. The committee's first witness was Henry M. Dawes of Chicago, president of the Pure Oil company, which operates extensively in Texas. Dawes warned of dangers involved in new legislation affecting the industry at this time and suggested an interstate compact plan of control, with modified powers conferred on the government, in lieu of outright federal control.

Thompson Testifies

Ernest O. Thompson, junior member of the railroad commission, the state agency designated to conserve natural resources, preceded the tender board in testifying before the congressmen. Thompson flatly opposed federal control and told the committee permanent enactment of section 9-c of the NIRA, the clause which prohibited interstate movement of petroleum and products illegal under state laws, would suffice as aid to states in regulating production.

Others from East Texas and a group from the Panhandle gas field, where excessive wastage has been charged, also were on the committee's schedule before conclusion of its Texas series.

Plans of the committee were for adjournment Thursday, after which it will proceed to California, stopping en route for a one-day inspection tour of the Panhandle.

SHOUSE CHARGES

country was absurd and ridiculous there is small question."

Criticize AAA

Of the AAA, Shouse said:

I am not one of those who is unconscious of, or unsympathetic with the agricultural problem. I recognize the ills with which agriculture has been afflicted. I recognize the desirability of restoring the buying power of farmers. I recognize the necessity to attempt to achieve a price for farm products that will justify their production.

The Farm Board experiments of the Hoover administration did not succeed. I am unable to see that the regimentation of production undertaken by the present administration will succeed. Nor is it either justifiable or ultimately beneficial. Moreover, in the experimentation that has been undertaken in this connection there is a grave challenge to constitutional liberty."

Asks For Bankhead Repeal

Congress "should watch with jealous eye any attempt to extend AAA authority," he said, and he called for repeal of the Bankhead act which provides for drastic control of cotton production.

On personal and property rights, Shouse said:

"Suggestion has been made in some important quarters that the American Liberty League places too great a stress upon property rights. I can offer no better answer than does the Houston, Texas, Chronicle. It calls attention to the question of a critic of the league who said: 'But what will you do when personal and property rights conflict?' And then the Chronicle goes on to comment:

What Can Be Sillier?

"'What could be sillier? Rights can't conflict. That, it seems, should be axiomatic. Nor is there any such thing as property rights. A building has no rights, a piece of ground has no rights. Some person has a personal right in the ownership of the building or land. It is as much a personal right as his right to vote or to enjoy freedom unless conflicted for some crime.'

"To this thought the Charleston, South Carolina, News and Courier adds: 'If the Liberty League shall serve as a defense against a government menacing private property, threatening to seize the savings of the provident, intimating that the diligent and the capable shall under compulsion support the incompetent and unwilling to work, then the debt paying and industrious people of the villages and country-side in South Carolina will be as responsive to its plans as will be the millionaires of New York.'

"These are two of the outstanding Democratic newspapers of the south. In the same connection, an important Democratic newspaper of the southwest, the Oklahoma City Oklahoman, asks the following question: 'If this is not a radical administration and if it is strictly constitutional, why should its most loquacious friends burst into a frenzy when certain men proclaim a determined war in defense of the organic law? If the administration is loyal to the constitution it has sworn to protect and if it is altogether free from the taint of marxian philosophy, why should it not rejoice when prominent men prepare to defend the constitution?"

DAILY MARKETS

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20 (AP)—Cotton opened somewhat firmer today and fairly active with Liverpool cables about as due to a shade better than due. First trades showed gains of 3 to 4 points with December at 12.33, March at 12.44 and May at 12.41.

Further liquidation of December developed in the early trading and as a result that month slipped off 5 points to 12.28, or one point below the previous close. The latter positions eased off 2 to 3 points with March at 12.41, and May at 12.39, or net unchanged to one point up compared with yesterday's close.

There was moderate trading during the morning with a slow easing off of prices, due partly to further Dec. liquidation in advance of the first notice day, Saturday, Nov. 24.

Late in the morning Dec. traded down to 12.26, off 7 points from the early highs and 3 points under yesterday's close. March eased to 12.39 and May to 12.36, down 5 points from the highs and 2 points under yesterday's close.

Oct. dropped 7 points to 12.01 or 5 points net down compared with the previous close. Near noon the market was a shade steadier, but at or near the lows.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, 1 to 3 higher on trade and foreign buying and steady Liverpool cables. Dec. 12.29, Jan. 12.34; Mch. 12.40; May 12.29; July 12.36; Oct. 12.04.

There was a little southern selling at the opening but offerings from that source were light and prices held steady during early trading. The buying from this source tapered off shortly after the call, but there appeared to be comparatively little cotton for sales and the market at the end of the first half hour was 2 to 3 points net higher with December selling at 12.29 and March at 12.40. There was further switching from December to later months with the trade buying the near position.

The buying tapered off after the close of Liverpool and the market eased later in the morning under continued near month liquidation and scattered selling which seemed to be coming partly through Wall Street houses. December sold off to 12.25 and March to 12.36 with the general market showing net declines of about 2 to 4 points at midday.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Nov. 20 (AP)—Showing independent strength, corn prices clung to the highest level of the season early today, despite profit-taking, as some holders sought to take advantage of a six-cent gain in ten days. Demand for cash corn was a stimulating factor. Wheat displayed early weakness, but held fairly steady in sympathy with corn.

Opening 1-8 lower to 3-8 higher, May 85 5-8@7-8, corn later held near the initial range. Wheat was unchanged to 5-8 lower, May 99 1-2@3-4, and subsequently dropped further.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (AP)—Financial markets were inclined to drop today without especial pressure being exerted against any particular category.

Stocks milled about uncertainly although the trend generally was moderately lower. While there were scattered firm specialties and selling appeared to have dried up in the depressed utilities. The backwardness of the rails tended to restrain operators for the advance. Trading activity was considerably under that of the preceding session.

Bonds were dull and mixed. As in the equity division, various loans attracted followings at higher levels, but the list, on the whole, showed little inclination to resume the upward movement. U. S. government securities were easier. Wheat and rye yielded a cent or so a bushel. Cotton was barely steady. Foreign exchanges continued to hold to a restricted range.

Shares of International Business Machines were up a point at a new high for the year. Noranda Mines was off as much at a new 1934 low. American Telephone got back another point of its recent losses.

Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey and North American were down only fractionally, as were U. S. Steel, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck and U. S. Smelting. The rails, including Santa Fe, Delaware & Hudson, N. Y. Central and Union Pacific, were down around a point or more.

Brigadier General Osborne Wood Weds

SANTA FE, N. M., Nov. 20 (AP)—Brigadier General Osborne C. Wood, 36, adjutant general of New Mexico, and Elizabeth Hawkins, 27, were married here Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Dana Johnson by Justice John C. Watson of the state supreme court.

Johnson, for whom General Wood had officiated previously in a similar capacity, acted as best man.

STATEMENT PUT INTO PATE TRIAL

A statement by Carlos Pate, 21, indicted for abortion, was submitted in evidence by the prosecution in 99th district court this morning.

Defense counsel took it for examination to determine whether or not they wished to enter objections. Judge Clark M. Mullican was to decide after convenement at 1 o'clock this afternoon whether the statement should be admitted.

Testimony got under way this morning. Miss Winnie Holloway, 21, and Dr. Olan Key testified. The testimony did not vary appreciably from that in the trial of Mrs. Gladys Cobb, who was dealt a 2-year term for performing an abortion upon Miss Holloway.

A jury to try the case was completed late Monday afternoon. Prosecutors are Daniel A. Blair, district attorney, and Burton S. Burks, assistant district attorney. Pate is represented in the courtroom by George Dupree and J. E. Vickers.

man—the need for a rest prompted the vacation. He asked that the published detail on the location of the hunt be confined to "northen Mexico," in order, among other things, that any possible reception at the border might be forestalled.

"Yes, I'm having plenty to do," Allred confided to newspapermen, "but it's all right. I asked for it."

Presidents Went Away

It was recalled that immediately after his election as president, Herbert Hoover took a trip to South America. Franklin D. Roosevelt had recourse to a yacht cruise in the Atlantic. Other presidents have resorted to somewhat similar avenues of escape.

The few days following the inauguration of Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson two years ago saw extraordinary numbers of office-seekers in the governor's ante-chamber. The room was filled and the throngs overflowed into the great entrance hall of the capitol. Finally, former Gov. James E. Ferguson addressed the crowd, saying it was impossible to give jobs to all those asking them and calling for a general dispersal.

During a session of the legislature, the governor's waiting room always is crowded. To the regular attendance of persons seeking clemencies and having various business to transact with the governor are added members of the legislature seeking conferences on legislative matters. Legislators usually are given right of way, when possible, but at times they, too, have to await their turns.

TECH-NMMI CASE

down a Institute pass on the Picador's 1-yard marker.

The Tech backs leaped high in the air to slap down the high, lazy lob. There were bodily contacts. The officials ruled the toss complete on Tech's 1-yard line because of interference.

Decisions Sloppy

Another time the officials attempted to give the ball to New Mexico while it was in Tech's possession. New Mexico had punted. The Tech safety man speared the ball safely. A Tech player clipped a New Mexican in mid-field. Jackson said he thought Tech had fumbled and gave the ball to New Mexico, but reversed his decision when Ballard went on the field. On another occasion the ball was wrested from Tech Halfback Ted Wilson's possession after the whistle had blown, Ballard said. The officials ruled that Wilson fumbled.

"I recall no penalties for roughness except the one for the clipping," Ballard said. "But it was evident after watching the game only a few minutes that the Jackson and Masters were attempting to please the crowd. Under such circumstances I felt justified in calling the officials' attention to their unfairness after the crowd had left. I did not wish to see my boys baffled in a game by poor officiating after all the hard drills which they underwent in preparation for that game."

ARMS PARLEY

meeting. Arthur Henderson of Great Britain, president of the conference, was authorized to convoke a meeting, probably in January, which will discuss the United States' proposal and other questions.

Accepts Inspection

The United States' suggestion accepts the inspection by an international committee on American soil as to whether the United States is living up to the manufacture and treaties in arms, if other nations are willing to do the same.

Capt. Anthony Eden, British under-secretary for foreign affairs, characterized the American project as interesting. Both Great Britain and France were understood to be "sympathetic" to it.

The delegates of Spain and Sweden said they approved.

Maxim Litvinoff, Russian foreign commissar, demanded that the disarmament conference be liquidated and transformed into a permanent peace conference, but he did not insist on his proposal after Henderson assured him that it would be given every consideration.

Wilson's suggestion would create a permanent disarmament commission at Geneva. The commission would be given automatic powers to investigate private or public manufacture and sale of arms and to keep the world regularly informed as to what was going on behind the scenes.

PITTSBURGH MAYOR IN RACE FOR PRESIDENT; SEEKS AID OF LONG

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 20 (AP)—Mayor William M. McNair is out for president in 1936, appealing to U. S. Senator Huey Long of Louisiana for support.

McNair explained that since the "Kingfish" has announced he will run for president on a third party ticket, he should not be interested in Democratic delegates at the party's national convention.

In a letter to Long, McNair said:

"Might I venture to ask you that I be allowed to use the delegates from the state of Louisiana and whatever other states you might now control to advance my cause in the coming national convention?"

The mayor told interviewers that "the Democratic party has wandered far astray . . . and somebody ought to come out as a candidate on that ticket pledged to return that party to Jeffersonian principles."

"DAWES LOAN"

The suit alleged $7,022,000 was still unpaid on the first loan and $52,000,000, including interest, was due on the second.

John L. Hopkins, an attorney for the RFC, said he understood the state auditor might be asked to take over the Central Republic for liquidation. William C. Freeman, vice president in active charge of the institution, said that while the bill asked for a receiver who would handle money that might be collected from the stockholders, it did not necessarily mean a receivership for the bank.

Figures Are Given

"We have received in this county through our participation in the 10 per cent of the state allowable under the Bankhead bill for tax exemption cotton 7,706 bales," Mr. Montfort pointed out. "That is more than we put into the bill.

"Personally, I would like to see every farmer who gets an allotment under the Bankhead bill's 10 per cent, put all his certificates in the national pool. He will get more out of it through the pool, in my opinion, than in any other way."

Preparing Report

The Federal Trade commission, which is preparing a utilities report for congress, is seriously considering recommending that holding companies be licensed. Then they would not be permitted to operate in interstate commerce without a federal license. Such a plan might be used to attain objectives like those outlined above.

Healy's associates represented him as being convinced the trade commission has proved the uneconomic nature of holding companies as now constituted and the necessity of government supervision.

"We don't want any person who is a politician, who is connected with a political machine or a defeated candidate for public office on these boards," Teer said. "Likewise we do not want persons who have axes to grind or something to sell, either materials or services, to the relief organization."

OBERHOLTZER AND LUCE MAKE TALKS

As a part of local observance of National Safety week, Supt. Kenneth E. Oberholtzer of Lubbock public schools and C. E. Luce, police recorder, are addressing school children upon the safety program. Today they are to speak at Central Ward, Wednesday at K. Carter, and Thursday at junior and senior high schools.

Safety patrols in junior high and ward schools have been installed, Superintendent Oberholtzer said.

Patrols have from 6 to 14 members. The groups are sponsored and controlled by the school system. Each school has a captain and a lieutenant is stationed at each crossing, with a number of helpers.

Patrol members are pupils who make good grades and who are recognized by teachers and students as leaders of their groups.

They are on duty at noon and after school, they are distinguished by a white belt, green badges, and a red wand. Motorists are urged to obey their signals, so that school children may cross streets in safety.

Rain Slows Posses In Hunt For Pair

WACO, Nov. 20 (AP)—Steady rains slowed down posses in their search for two fugitive killers and kidnapers, believed to be afoot today in the brushy section between Hillsboro and Coolidge.

Officers awaited a letup in heavy downpours to hunt for Joe Averett and Roy Curry, Hubbard youths charged with the slaying of James Malcolm Stewart, 25, of Katy, an amateur actor. His body was found near here Saturday noon.

Four persons were kidnaped, including a rural mail carrier, in the youths' attempts to flee the vicinity. All were released after their automobiles had been used.

PROBE OF CAR THEFTS HELD

CARS RECOVERED AND ONE MAN TAKEN TO SAN ANTONIO

Investigation of automobile thievery on the Plains and in the Rio Grande valley continued here today.

A 1929 Chevrolet sedan was by A. J. Nordyke of Lubbock and Muleshoe, and reported stolen here Monday afternoon, was found here, police said.

Car Stolen At Ralls

A 1934 Chevrolet coupe was stolen Monday night at Ralls, police were informed. W. K. Harden of Ralls owned it.

Highway Patrolman Lee Miller and a Bexar county deputy sheriff came here this morning to transfer J. A. McLaren, 51 and one-eyed, to San Antonio in connection with theft of automobiles in that area. McLaren, arrested in Littlefield with three other men, had been brought here and then returned to Littlefield. This morning he entered Lubbock city jail again.

Police, Monday, determined ownership of two stolen automobiles recovered several days earlier at Littlefield. One, a 1933 Ford V-8 coupe, had been taken from a parking lot in Corpus Christi about a month ago. The owner came for it Monday. The other, a 1933 Chevrolet sedan, had been stolen in San Antonio, Oct. 13.

Numbers Are Removed

Serial numbers were found on the tappet-cover of the Chevrolet—they had been flattened or removed with acid on other parts—to establish its origin.

An Austin officer was to come here for custody of a man arrested about 9 p. m. Sunday in the 2400-block Seventh street, where a stolen automobile was recovered, Sheriff Tom Abel said.

"We must play with the cards that are dealt," he said. "Agriculture cannot survive in a capitalistic society as a philanthropic enterprise. If the cry of those who bid our farmers think of all those hungry Chinamen were heeded, hundreds of thousands of American farm families would be destroyed."

No one who believes in the profit system, he added "and who grants industry the right to control its production, can fairly deny agriculture the same right."

That Girl on Broadway says our judicial procedure cannot be said to be broken down as long as we can send men to the penitentiary as fast as Governor Ferguson can turn 'em out.

It would have been an interesting election the early part of this month if the Republican party hadn't been kidnaped.

WELL, it seems by the morning paper that there was some sort of unpleasantness over at Roswell the other day when the Tech freshmen took the MMMI team into camp.

That is regrettable but it is well for Lubbock and Tech folk to remember that the story explaining the situation came out of Roswell and doubtless made Tech Coach Ballard look a little worse than it might.

Then, too, competitive athletics often make the blood hot and one can expect a little difficulty to crop out occasionally.

Whether true or false, the story has been nosed hereabouts that a Texas team playing in New Mexico often has to spot the opposing side a couple or three lengths of the gridiron in the way of penalties.

Personally, The Plainsman has never seen a game over there and cannot vouch for the truth of the yarn.

If the institutions can't get along, the thing to do is not match any more games between them, at least until things can be patched up.

FOOTBALL can be a great good will builder and often is. But once in a while it can make for bad blood between teams, individuals and institutions, as can be witnessed by the frequent 'breaking off or relations' between elevens.

To the credit of the game, however, most of the teams get together again and better sportsmanship results.

The MMMI-Tech rookus appears to this column to be a tempest in a teapot and The Plainsman would like to see it smoothed over in fairness to all concerned.

There's no point in having the situation otherwise, particularly between neighbors.

INSTITUTION of Safety patrols in the vicinity of Lubbock schools this week points out all over again that in the past year or two our school officials, policemen and students have become more and more conscious of the dangers which lurk in our streets.

It is commendable to note that all of us are paying more attention to traffic threats and it cannot help but safeguard school children.

We may thankfully note that there has not been a fatal accident in connection with a school youngster in many months and it is to be hoped that there will never be another.

Watching traffic and setting up Safety patrols are worth every effort that is put into them by interested parties.

That Man on Avenue Q says Bilbo, of Mississippi, ran for the Senate in order to have a place to park his car and it might be added that perhaps Mississippians voted for him so's to have a place to park Mr. Bilbo.

REGARDLESS of political lines, the charges of Republican Senator Borah that there is much waste in the national relief setup should be run down to the last penny.

No good American, whatever be his political affiliations, will want a continuation of waste—if there is waste—and it can be added that if there are no irregularities in the setup it is a great wonder.

The relief organization is too widespread and covers too much territory for the complete elimination of waste but that fact should not deter officials in working for a further elimination.

NO person is thoroughly mean as long as he maintains in his makeup some sympathy for his fellow man in distress.

One of the most laudable traits of mankind is that one which brings forth what we call sometimes "the milk of human kindness."

And as long as we have some of that theoretical substance for our neighbors we can't be entirely bad.

Perhaps you have never realized it, but heart disease is responsible for almost as many—if not more—deaths than the automobile and certainly more than any other disease.

It is because we moderns are living too rapidly and the old blood pump just can't stand up to the strain.

We can take our choice between living rapidly or living longer—but most of us seem to be taking the choice of living faster.

HERE AND THERE: Remember when Lubbock was young and the folks used to say "We've got Bacon and Beans, Poseys and Greens and Tubbs to put them in and Penneys to buy them with" . . . It was, of course, a play on names of pioneer citizens . . . Speaking of remembering, is there anyone in Lubbock who has a copy of the Alaskan slapstick poem which begins: "Oh the North Countree is a wild countree and it mothers a bloody brood. It's icy arms hold hidden charms for the wicked, the sinful and lewd?" The Plainsman would like to have a copy.

Huey Long says he's going on a trip and that he's going so far West it'll take a ten dollar-bill to send him a postcard . . . That'll probably be all right with his political enemies and the other folks in Louisiana who must be getting a shade tired of the monkey business.

Thoughts while strolling: How impressive the new stars' building at M-G-M looks, and pretty! White and modernistic, encircled by tall trees and shaded walks . . . like a new painting in a mellow old gallery. The interiors are lovely, every convenience, a million gadgets for efficiency. Comfortable enough to live in permanently.

A white-robed figure hurrying in the shadow of a sound stage. Ah, Garbo, slipping almost unnoticed through a door to the "Painted Veil" set. How little-girl-like she is, shy as a hermit crab! It's sad so few understand her.

What does it matter whether she's this or that as a personality? Isn't it enough that we can peer into the universe through her eyes? Why can't people accept that and stop being curious about her, personally? Wonder what she really thinks about it all!

Hard Working Director

My friend, W. S. Van Dyke. How tall and strong he looks as he walks, or rather swings, along. The most athletic figure on the lot, and the most versatile director. Imagine doing both "Eskimo" and "The Thin Man!"

Strange about Van, the exterior of a cowpuncher with the sensitiveness of a violinist. If you look closely you'll see he has the long fingers of a musician. Met his mother on the set the other day, a charming woman, she looks like Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It's a pleasure having Van for a director. He races with exhaustion and always wins. If "Forsaking All Others" is as good as it was fun to make, we'll all be happy.

Tribute to Clark Gable

There goes Clark Gable tearing by in his classy roadster. There would be a fishing pole hanging on the side. This is our sixth picture together. Clark hasn't changed a whit. As kind and considerate as the first day we met. Only more fun, now that he's lost his shyness. He's that rare combination, a good actor and a good fellow, and my friend.

Illusion of the Ballet

So "The Night Is Young" has begun shooting. How lovely Evelyn Laye is. And how ludicrous Eddie Horton looks in those sideburns. Now, there's my idea of a comedian.

Ah, a dancing story. Girls and girls in ballet costumes. They stand bright and airy in the sun, as they file out the great open stage door between shots, for a breath of fresh air.

How beautiful many of them are, and their legs so slim in their white stockings. There's a nice feeling of illusion about a ballet scene, somehow penetrates the heart of the theater. I like dancing pictures, anyway.

German Importation

And Mady Christians, the German star, hurrying toward the dining room. The unmistakable aura of the Continental about her, something in her bearing, the delicate way she moves. She's a grand actress and M-G-M is fortunate to have her under contract. We're looking forward to her production of that potent story, "Wicked Woman."

Attraction of the Studio

Funny you never grow tired of a studio. It's much smaller than a small town. I spend most of my waking hours here, yet it never palls. Always exciting. Always something new and colorful.

What is glamour, anyway? Whatever it is, there's plenty of it around here.

Apropos, there's Madge Evans rushing into the make-up room, all smiles. What a gay gal she is. No affection. Just hard work and smiles. There's a success formula for you.

Humor in Movies

Back on the set. Billie Burke, sitting smiling at Charlie Butterworth's anecdotes. Two good people, two of the best. Took me days to control bursts of laughter in the middle of scenes with Charlie. Such droll, excruciating humor. With hardly a change of expression, maybe just an awkward gesture, he sends you into stitches.

Ah, here's Clark again, wanting to know if I read the story in the New Yorker about the lady who asked her colored maid, "Did you seed the grapefruit?", and she replied, "Yassum, ah seed it!"

TODAY'S JOURNAL EDITORIAL

IF WE JUST HAD THIS MACHINE!

We of the South Plains might be better able to face our current problems with more hope if we could only make more use of the ingenious time machine described in H. G. Wells famous novel.

This was a machine, as you remember, by which one could rove about in time as an automobile enables one to rove about in space. You could go either forward or backward—back to ancient Rome or forward to the millennium, whichever you chose.

If we could get hold of such a machine, and spin back through a few generations, we might discover that our difficulties today are only reprints of difficulties which assailed other men in times past.

A writer in the "Business Conditions Weekly," of New York, recently set out to collect a few of the doleful outcries which former depressions have drawn from discouraged men.

As far back as the time of St. Augustine, 1700 years ago, he finds a writer complaining that agriculture was decaying, purchasing power was dwindling, taxes were soaring, and commerce was collapsing; the conclusion drawn, of course, was that the world was going to the dogs for good.

He finds a distinguished French physician in 1832 voicing similar complaints, lamenting the turmoil and confusion of the times—he had seen a post chaise rattling along at five miles an hour, and he said that "this madness of speed is wearing out men"—and he felt that his newly-born son faced a life which could bring him neither prosperity nor happiness.

He finds an American editor in 1857 describing the "universal commercial prostration and panic" about him, and remarking that "it is a gloomy moment in history . . . never has the future seemed so incalculable."

In 1886 a U. S. official speaks of the depression, doubts that any revival can come up to the level of the preceding 50 years, and concludes plaintively that "the day of large profits is probably past."

It is really worth our while to mull over the dismal Jeremiads from the past. To be sure, it doesn't make our present problems any less difficult; but it may help us to see that a troubled time such as the present is never quite as dark and hopeless as the people who are living through it often suppose.

Historians 50 years hence will probably find some of our current fears just as quaintly humorous as those of former days seem to us now.

Dutcher's News And Views OF WASHINGTON

Dutcher

(Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Between elections and the opening of Congress, your nation's capital is enjoying one of its so-called crime waves.

It's a rather weak effort—the kind of crime wave where people call mass meetings of indignant citizens and nobody comes except a few officials anxious to call names or defend themselves.

But there's been some slight clamor for ousting the police chief, who is known as "Duck Legs," and the gamblers have been seriously inconvenienced. Also, the capital is finding out what became of its many ex-bootleggers who couldn't be crowded into the legitimate liquor business.

The crime wave really didn't consist of much except the murder of a newspaper vendor whom gunmen mistook for a gambling house operator.

It was revealed that nearly all the surplus bootleggers had gone into the gambling racket and that resultant overcrowding had led to bitter strife.

So the police have raided many of the gambling joints and the bookies and "numbers game" operators are leading miserable lives. Some of the small-time boys, according to a direct tip I get from the underworld, have now been driven back to bootlegging, because it's temporarily much safer. There must be a moral somewhere in this.

The Clew of the Forgotten Murder

by CARLETON KENDRAKE ©1934 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

When CHARLES MORDEN, reporter for The Blade, is found dead DAN BLEEKER, publisher, employs SIDNEY GRIFF, famous criminologist, to solve the murder.

Morden had been investigating the affairs of FRANK B. CATHAY, wealthy and prominent, following the arest of an impostor claiming to be Cathay and accompanied by a girl called MARY BRIGGS.

The day following Morden's death Cathay dies of poisoning.

Griff learns that Morden visited the apartment of ALICE LORTON who has reported to police the disappearance of her roommate, ESTHER ORDWAY. He accuses Alice of being involved in Morden's murder but does not succeed in breaking down her story.

Doctors report Cathay's death was suicide. Griff does not believe this. He tells Bleeker that the key witness—if she can be located — will be the mysterious MRS. BLANCHE MALONE for whom CARL RACINE, detective employed by MRS. CATHAY, is searching.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVII

Bleeker's tone of bewilderment matched his expression. "But who is Mrs. Blanche Malone?" he demanded. "What has she got to do with the case? Why is Mrs. Cathay so anxious to get in touch with her?"

Griff's smile was enigmatical. "Bleeker," he said, "I'm not going to help you. You've got to figure the thing out for yourself. The facts are in your possession just the same as they're in mine."

"No," Bleeker said irritably, "there's something you know that I don't—this big fact that you were talking about."

Griff shook his head. "You know it," he said, "the same as I do."

"Why won't you tell me?"

"Because we, both of us, overlooked an important bet. If you think it out for yourself you'll feel a lot better than if you let me tell you. I think you'll figure it out for yourself."

"For a man who's supposed to be in my employ," Bleeker said, "you certainly seem to give a minimum of co-operation. How about this Thomas Decker? Why don't you give me an opportunity to run his story? You promised me that I'd get a break there."

"No, I didn't," Griff said slowly. "I promised you that I'd think it over, but I'm going to give you a break."

"Yes," Bleeker remarked sarcastically, "I presume you'll let me use my own mind to think out where he is."

"Bleeker," Griff said, "if I take

Rid Your System of Malaria!

Shivering with chills one moment and burning with fever the next—that's one of the effects of Malaria. Unless checked, the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, calls for two things. First, destroying the infection in the blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tasteless quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood. Chills and fever soon stop and you are restored to health and comfort. For half a century Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been sure relief for Malaria. It is just as useful, too, as a general tonic for old and young. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle at any drug store. Now two sizes—50c and $1. The $1 size contains 2½ times as much as the 50c size and gives you 25% more for your money.—Adv.

Twenty-One Teams Still Undefeated In Schoolboy Race

THIS WEEK-END WILL DECIDE NUMBER OF TITLES

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Twenty-one teams remain undefeated in the Texas Interscholastic league's class A football race. With the district races drawing to a close, practically all pre-season favorites are in front and look like sure things for the bi-district games.

Amarillo and Pampa are undefeated in district one. Pampa takes on a tough assignment Friday in the Lubbock Westerners. Amarillo will remain idle until Thanksgiving.

Breckenridge and Ranger, two of the most powerful teams in the league, are pacing district two with unmarred records. Ranger is favored to win over Brownwood Friday. Breckenridge is idle until Turkey day.

Big Spring A Surprise

The Big Spring team, a surprise of this season, is clinging to first place in district three with two wins and no defeats. The leader plays McCamey Friday in what looms as Big Spring's third district victory.

El Paso High needs one victory to cinch the district four crown and will go after that win Friday against Austin High of El Paso.

Vernon conquered Quanah last week to take command of district five. The Lions have three wins and no defeats. No games will be played in this district until Thanksgiving.

Scots Conceded Win

The pace-setting Dallas Highland Park aggregation takes on Sherman Friday in the only district six game. The Highlanders are strong favorites to breeze through to the championship.

The game of games will be Saturday afternoon at Fort Worth where two Panthervile teams, Polytechnic and Masonic Home, will clash for the district seven championship. Both are undefeated and boast five championship wins. The game is regarded as a toss-up.

The deadlock between Dallas Tech and Dallas Forest in district eight may be smashed this week. Forest takes on a strong Dallas Woodrow Wilson team while Tech remains idle.

Greenville Already Winner

Greenville, 1933 state champion, has clinched the title in district nine.

The Longview Loboes play Gladewater Friday in the only district ten game. Tyler leads this district. The race will be in the doubtful column until the final games are played.

The tie between Athens and Henderson for top spot in district eleven will be smashed Friday when these teams battle at Athens. The winner will practically clinch the district championship.

Corsicana Has Edge

Corsicana has the inside track in district twelve and appears to be ready for bi-district competition.

Houston Jeff Davis, coasting four wins and no defeats, is pacing the district thirteen race and appears to be "in." The leader does not play this week.

Port Arthur and Beaumont, tied for first place in district fourteen with three wins and no defeats, clash Thanksgiving to settle the district race.

San Antonio Jefferson in district fifteen and Corpus Christi in district sixteen are leading and are almost sure to come under the wire winners in their respective races.

MATADORS TO BE READY FRIDAY

THREE STAR BACKS TO BE IN SHAPE FOR NORTH DAKOTANS

When the Matadors face the hefty Bisons of North Dakota State college here Friday afternoon they will be in better physical trim than they were last week against De Paul.

Three stellar backs, D. M. McElroy, Jim Neill and "Double Ugg" Curfman have recovered from injuries and will be available to throw against North Dakota. Most missed in the Raider ranks will be husky Gaines Davis out with a bad leg, relic of the Blue Demon contest.

Two teams of burlies are working out on Matador field this week. The Bisons took the field yesterday in their first regular workout at 2:30 o'clock. The Matadors drilled after the invaders left.

Semi-crippled after last Friday night's tough battle with the Goldbugs of Oklahoma City university at Oklahoma City, the Bisons' workout yesterday was light, but today the session is to be heavier. None of the squad was injured that he cannot play here Friday.

Kickoff Is Feature

Sturgeon, 282-pound tackle does most of the booting for the team, but Gove, fullback, was doing nicely in this department yesterday. Gove's punting in the O.C.U. game was one of the game's features. A rangy lad, weighing 195 pounds, Gove is also a line plunger and backer and an effective blocker.

But the standout in the Bison secondary is little Fritz Hanson, famed "Fargo Express", who made a lot of All-American check lists last year, was the highest scorer in the North Central conference. Hanson beat O. C. U. Friday with a 97-yard scamper for touchdown.

Reeves, 180-pound quarterback, is a field general of the sort most suitable for the Notre Dame system.

Other backfield men are Gertes and Schranz.

The North Dakota forwards average around 200 pounds. House, a guard, is the lightest lineman. Tackle Sturgeon the heaviest.

Fridays' game will be nightcap contest on the home grounds for 14 sturdy Techmen.

Max Baer Ordered To Bed In Mexico

MEXICO, D. F., Nov. 20 (AP) — Max Baer, suffering from an infection in both arms, has been ordered by a physician to remain in bed under the care of a trained nurse.

GAME TO BE TRANSFERRED

DALLAS, Nov. 20 (AP)—Miss Gylma Orr, president of the Dallas Rams football club of the American professional football league, said last night after a long distance conversation with Sam W. Godwin, league president, of Memphis, that the scheduled game here Sunday between the Rams and the Kansas City Blues likely would be transferred to Kansas City or Little Rock, Ark.

Grid Film To Be Shown To Matador Club Members

Texas Tech's athletic department is to be host to members of the Matador club, local athletic booster organization, and their wives, Wednesday night. Films of outstanding college games this season are to be shown in the auditorium of the engineering building. The "show" is to start at 8 o'clock.

Some of this season's games to be reviewed on the screen tomorrow night are the Stanford-Northwestern, the Fordham-Boston college and the Texas-Oklahoma contests. Parts of the Navy-Princeton, Stanford-Army and Rice-S. M. U. games also will be shown.

BLIZZARDS OF '88 RECALLED BY 'PA' CORBIN; YALE HAD GREAT TEAM THEN

(By The Associated Press)

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 20—To Yale men, the year 1888 produced two blizzards—the one in March and "Pa" Corbin's great team of "iron men" which stormed through a thirteen-game schedule undefeated, untied, and unscored upon.

Corbin, who makes his home here, paid tribute today to Coach Ducky Pond's present Yale team and only after hailing the triumph over Princeton as "one of the greatest victories Yale has ever scored" was "Pa" willing to talk about his '88 team.

Didn't Substitute

"Without bragging," said Corbin, "we didn't think anything of playing football twice a week or even on consecutive days. We played through our thirteen-game schedule without making a substitution in nine of the games.

"In the other four contests we had to make one replacement in each of the games, twice because of injuries and the other two times because of one of our men violating a major rule. We scored 698 points while holding our opponents scoreless."

The regular team that year lined up with William C. Wurtenberg, quarterback; Lee McClung and William P. Graves, halfbacks; William T. Bull, fullback; Alonzo Stagg, now coaching at Pacific college, and Frederic C. Wallace, ends; George W. Woodruff and Charles O. Gill, tackles; W. W. (Pudge) Heffelfinger and William C. Rhodes, guards and Corbin, center.

The team defeated Wesleyan, 76-0; Rutgers, 65-0; Penn, 34-0; Wesleyan, 46-0; Amherst, 39-0; Williams, 30-0; M. I. T., 68-0; Stevens, 69-0; Penn, 58-0; Crescent A. C., 28-0; Amherst, 70-0; Wesleyan, 105-0; Princeton, 10-0.

About The Same

"Football today is much the same as when I played the game, the fundamentals are identical — blocking, kicking, tackling—although some of the tackling I have seen lately isn't so good," asserted "Pa."

"They don't try for field goals as much as they did in '88, but maybe that's because they only count 3 points now instead of the 5 in my time."

SHORTSTOPPER
by COLLIER PARRIS
Title Copyright 1933

COACH C. C. (Call-me-Casey) Finnegan is rather a large, distinguished gentleman with hair the color Pete Cawthon says his will be if he has to play Simmons any more.

Finnegan is head master of the Bison footballers from Fargo, North Dakota. The Bison plays Texas Tech's Matador here Friday afternoon next. Coach Finnegan thinks it will be a good game; that Tech probably will win, but that the Matadors will not need a workout after the game is over.

A very friendly fellow is Coach Finnegan, who doesn't seem to take winning and losing as seriously as he takes the game itself and the young men in his charge. He seems to have a sort of fatherly attitude toward his boys, and they're a nice looking, well behaved squad, at that.

HOUSE

If they all are like Fritz Hanson, triple-threat back, and House, a guard, they'll do. We met House and Hanson in person yesterday. House was taking a stroll down town yesterday morning, met up with one of the boys from the office, asked to be shown the hotspots of Lubbock and was promptly escorted to this office. He's a very nice guy, intelligent, talkative and probably an "A" student in English and sociology. And we hear that he plays a good game in the line, too.

Hanson is the ace ground gainer, the scoring threat of the North Dakota State team. He took the ball on the Bison goal line Friday night at Oklahoma City and carried it over the Oklahoma City university goal line without stopping. The score pulled the Bison out of the hole and made victory possible. For his 100-yard sprint he was dubbed the "Fargo Express" by the Oklahoma paper sports writer. He has a habit of breaking through for long uns like that. He's little—weighs only 143 pounds—but he can carry the mail.

COACH FINNEGAN was telling us that Ed Cochrane, sports editor of the Kansas City Journal-Post and a nationally known football and fight referee, was calling the game at O. C. the other night. After the contest, Cochrane cornered Coach Finnegan and asked numerous questions regarding the little Hanson boy. Cochrane, in addition to being a popular scribe and official, is a member of the Collier's magazine and the Grantland Rice All-American football selection board, and he jotted the name of Hanson down as one to remember. Hanson won't make the all-American team, but he'll probably be on the honor roll, up high. He made the Associated Press honor roll last year.

In their workout yesterday, even without shoulder-and hippads, the Bison looked pretty husky. The line will average better than 195 pounds, what with the presence of the well-built, 282-pound Sturgeon, left tackle. The lightest lineman weighs 165 pounds. Others are better than 184 pounds each. The Bison backfield will average 178 pounds, which means that the Matadors will be just about evenly matched in tonnage.

ONCE MORE let us charge you not to get the North Dakota State Bison confused with the University of North Dakota Nodaks, or Sioux. The Nodaks toured Texas last year, dropped a 6 to 19 game at T. C. U. The Bison defeated North Dakota U. this year, 7 to 0, to finish second in the North Central conference.

There was an error of 55 cents in yesterday's column. A reserved seat ticket to the Tech-North Dakota State game will cost you $1.65, including tax. The unreserved seats in the east stands are $1.10, tax paid. When the college adds that 55 cents to the price, it means that they expect a feature game. Only the Texas, Baylor, De Paul and North Dakota State games have been that high.

RESERVED seat tickets for the Lubbock-Pampa game are on sale at the J. & J. store now. They're going pretty fast at a buck apiece, but not nearly so fast as they'd go if Lubbock had beat Amarillo, so maybe we should not feel so badly toward them. The special train rate to Pampa Friday is $3.55, round trip.

It is not hard for most fans to decide which game they want to see this week-end, but a number will be torn between a sense of duty and a desire to see a couple of college teams tangle on the home field, and Pampa will claim several of our citizens on that day. About the only way Lubbock can win now is to "get something on" Pampa and Amarillo, call in the district exec. committee and get 'em kicked out. Littlefield and Ralls got Levelland out of the Class B race that way, and now are probably trying to get something on each other, since they're tied for the lead in their part of the district.

LOCALS DRILL IN TACKLING FOR PAMPA

COACHES PUT ON STIFF WORKOUT MONDAY FOR GAME

Multiple tackling of the enemy was urged the Lubbock High school Westerners yesterday by their coaching staff.

A tackling drill, with one man attempting to bear the ball in spite of the efforts of two gridmen to nail him, took up almost an hour of the workout.

The lead tackler was supposed to hit the ball-carrier low, while the second followed through with a swoop for a punishing headlock.

Were Charging Heavily

Charging such as they will have to do when they meet the Pampa High school Harvesters at Pampa Friday, the Westerners meted out considerable punishment to the charging machine yesterday.

Digging in to the booming chant of Assistant Coach Berl Huffman's voice, the backs and the forwards took turns heaving at the heavy sled with thwacking cracks of shoulder pads.

One, Two, Three, Four

Coach Huffman rode the top of the sled and called the signals: "One, two, three, four—left shoulder, charge; one, two, three, four—right shoulder, charge." Then 22 feet would dig in the hard sod, 11 shoulders would smack against the canvas pads on the boards, and, creaking reluctantly, the sled would move a few yards in clouds of dirt rising from the track.

Tickets for the game are now on sale at J. and J. Sporting Goods store. A heavy delegation of Lubbock fandom is expected to follow the Westerners to Pampa Friday in a special train. A round trip rate of $3.55 has been announced by Santa Fe officials. The train will leave here at 8 o'clock Friday morning, is to arrive in Pampa at 12 noon.

The Lubbock squad, 25 strong, is to leave Thursday.

KOPECKY TO MEET PURDIN ON MAT

Panther Joe Kopecky, surly, clever, middle-aged Bohemian, wrestles with "Gentleman" Jack Purdin of Florida in the main event at the mat show Wednesday night.

A supreme trickster is the shamming Kopecky whose most effective device is to feign a horrible fatigue and then, suddenly, slap an emphatic tie-hold on the opposing gladiator.

Joe Is Showman

No darling of mat clients, but an excellent showman is Panther Joe. In the ring he chews tobacco, sometimes splattering amber juice into the eyes of the enemy with startling results.

Hairy, muscular "Rough-house" Costello, who claims to be a Spaniard from Boston but apparently never learned Spanish in New England or any place else, engages cock-eyed Gene La Belle, the rumbling Frenchman, in the 20-minute time limit bout that starts the ear-twirling.

Slippery Cyclone Joe Burns will rebound for a while like a circus tumbler from the round-house slugs of old Ernie Arthur. Then the swift Tennessee youth will crawl aboard the Canadian for a triumph in the semi-final battle. That is only a prediction.

Diamond Moguls In Annual Bargaining

BUSY BARGAINING IS IN PROSPECT FOR MAJOR CLUBS

(By The Associated Press)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 20—In the same hotel lobbies, where horse players revel and argue each Kentucky Derby eve, sauntered the shrewdest David Harums of baseball today in quest of deals to bolster their clubs.

With the meeting of the minor leagues a day off, everything was in the rumor stage, but every major league club had a representative on the job, indicating a busy week in the player mart. Unlike other years, when most of the David Harums said they were "only looking around," all admitted they were anxious to turn in a few deals.

Five Clubs In Limelight

In the center of the major league group were emissaries of the New York Yankees, Chicago Cubs, Brooklyn Dodgers and Washington Senators, with the World's championship St. Louis Cardinals a little reticent for a change pending negotiations of the club's possible sale to Lew Wentz, Oklahoma oil millionaire. Some of the rumors of impending deals involving their clubs were:

That the St. Louis Cardinals had Pepper Martin, "the Wild Hoss of the Osage," on the market for the best offer, possibly for Woody English of the Chicago Cubs.

Sens Ready To Trade

That the Washington Senators were ready to trade Heinie Manush and Buddy Myer to the Yankees if they can get two or three fine looking young prospects in return.

That the Cubs would get Van Lingle Mungo, Brooklyn pitcher, if they can give Manager Casey Stengel someone he wants. The Cubs also were known to be after Carl Hubbell, Giant pitching star, but those close to Manager Bill Terry said there wasn't a chance for that one.

Three S. M. U. Stars To Be Out Of Game

DALLAS, Nov. 20 (AP) — Three Southern Methodist players Robert Wilson, sparkling halfback, Spain, a tackle and Raborn, center, will likely see the Baylor game next Saturday from the sidelines, Coach Ray Morrison said Monday when the trio failed to respond quickly to treatment for injuries received in the bruising Arkansas game last week.

Rain kept the Mustang squad under the shelter of the stadium Monday, with light drills and setting up exercises the order of the day.

Arthur Johnson, center whose foot was disabled in the Texas game two weeks ago, will probably be ready for the Baylor tilt, Morrison said. "Jackrabbit" Smith and Meyers will share Wilson's place, or will replace Spain at the tackle post and Bradford and Johnson will fill in at center.

NOTRE DAME CAN TAKE THE ARMY IF——?

By BOB CAVAGNARO
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (AP)—Just as a year ago, when they sprang a 13-12 surprise victory, Notre Dame's nomads will go against the Army next Saturday in the Yankee stadium in the role of "underdogs," but the Hoosiers are fully capable of taking the Cadets again if their linemen can avoid the goal-line jitters.

That's the opinion of Tom Conley, Notre Dame scout, who wasted an afternoon last Saturday watching Army reserves run over and around the Citadel Cadets from Charleston, S. C. He came east to watch the Soldier's stars, Texas Jack Buckler and Joe Stancook, but they didn't play.

Saw Them Lose To Illini

Conley saw the Army lose a "heart-breaker" to Illinois a few weeks ago on a muddy field and his own belief is that had the game been played on a dry turf, affording security of foot, the Army would have won by at least two touchdowns.

"We've drawn our conclusions about the Army team from that game," Conley said. "What are they? Army has a fine team and we'll have to be at our best to hold the Cadets and win. I couldn't pick the winner. I think Army rules the favorite, but I know our fellows will be ready just as they were last year. Considering that we've got a new coaching regime and most of our linemen are green, we've done pretty well."

Win or lose their remaining games with Army and Southern California, Conley said the Ramblers are well set for the 1935 campaign. Only four of the first 22 players will be lost through graduation, he said.

The Clew of the Forgotten Murder

by CARLETON KENDRAKE ©1934 NEA Service, Inc.

you to him will you promise me that you won't publish anything about it unless I say you can?"

"No, I'll publish anything."

"Then I can't take you to him."

"Then I'll find him by myself."

"Go ahead."

There was a moment of silence.

"If," Bleeker said, "I had given you the promise would you have taken me to him?"

"Yes."

"Why would you do that and not let me publish what I discovered?"

"Because I don't know what we're going to discover. I know what I think we're going to discover. If I'm right, there's no reason why you can't publish it. It's only in case I should be wrong that I wouldn't want the thing made public."

"Has Decker told you anything more than he told the police?"

"No."

"That's straight?"

"Absolutely."

"Why are you so anxious to keep him hidden then?"

* * *

"Because," Griff remarked, "I think that he lied both to the police and to me. I think that he got a better look at the murderer than he says he did."

"Why don't you cross-examine him a little bit and find out?"

"That's what I intend to do now."

"And you're going to give me an opportunity to sit in on it?"

"Yes."

Bleeker sighed. "Oh, well," he said, "I'll give you my word. Come on. Let's go and find him."

Griff nodded, extended his index finger and pushed an electric bell button. A minute or so later a door opened and a man clad in livery bowed somewhat obsequiously.

"Was there something you wanted, sir?" he asked.

Griff nodded to Bleeker. "My valet," he said.

Bleeker said rather impatiently, "I'm not a detective myself, but even I deduced as much."

Griff smiled.

"You see," he said, "as soon as the police knew that I was keeping Thomas Decker concealed they tried to locate Decker by checking over all of the hotels and rooming houses, paying particular attention to anyone who had registered on the night of the murder. I anticipated this move on their part. Therefore, I put Decker in a place where they would hardly expect to find him, yet where he would be instantly accessible if I should desire to consult with him."

Bleeker's eyes suddenly widened. He opened his mouth to speak, but before he could say a word Griff nodded and said to the man who posed as his valet, "Come in, Decker, and sit down. I want you to talk with this man."

* * *

The man in livery hesitated for a moment, then took four swift steps, sat down abruptly in a chair, said nervously, "You've let the cat out of the bag now. Why did you do it?"

Griff's tone was not unkindly.

"Decker," he said, "you told me and you told the police that you couldn't be certain of the identity of the man who drove that gray Cadillac car."

"That's right," Decker said, "I couldn't."

"Then," Griff said, "your testimony wouldn't have helped the police in the least."

"That's what I told them," Decker said, "I explained that to the officer."

"And," Griff continued, "since your testimony couldn't have hurt anyone, no one would harm you to keep you from giving that testimony."

Decker moistened his lips with his tongue, swallowed and said nothing.

"Therefore," Bleeker said, "you must know something that you're keeping back."

Decker stared at Dan Bleeker, then turned to Griff.

"Damn it," he said, "I hired you to protect me. What's the idea of putting me on the grill in front of a witness?"

"Because I think you're getting off on the wrong foot," Griff said slowly.

He took a picture from his inside coat pocket, the photograph of a man's face—a man with wide cheek bones, sullen eyes, a rather high forehead and a slightly crooked nose.

"Look at it," he said.

Decker took the photograph and studied it.

"Ever see him before?" asked Griff.

"No, who is he?"

"That," said Griff, "is the latest authentic photograph of Philip C. Lampson, sometimes known as 'Cincinnati Red'."

Decker stared at the picture with wide open eyes. "You're trying to trap me in some way," he said.

Griff took a folded newspaper clipping from his pocket. "Look at it for yourself," he said. "The newspaper clipping shows Lampson's photograph. You can compare the two."

Decker looked from one to the other. Slowly a look of relief came over his face.

"That wasn't the man," he said, "who was driving the gray Cadillac car."

Griff nodded. "I thought so," he said. "Now, let's have the truth, Decker."

"The man tried to keep me from seeing his face," Decker said, "but a gust of wind blew back his hat and there was enough light for me to see him plainly. I'd know him if I saw him again. I don't know as I could describe him. He's sort of big-featured. I can't tell it exactly, but it isn't this man. The eyes weren't so wide apart and he didn't have those big cheek bones."

Griff nodded to Bleeker.

"Get your newspaper on the telephone," he said. "Your reporters can 'discover' Decker. I don't care where they discover him, just so it isn't here. Shown a photograph of Lampson, Decker states positively that Lampson was not the driver of the car."

"And then you're going to let me out where the Lampson gang can get me?" Decker asked.

"Be your age," Griff retorted sharply. "Lampson would put a bodyguard around you to see that nothing happened to you. You're his best life insurance."

"But I thought sure it was Lampson," Decker said.

"That's what the police thought," Griff replied. "Why didn't you tell me the truth?"

"I don't know, I was afraid, I guess."

Bleeker picked up the phone called The Blade. While he was talking Sidney Griff opened the drawer of his desk and took out an automatic.

"Carry a gun?" he asked casually of Bleeker.

Bleeker slipped the receiver back on its hook.

"No," he said eyeing the automatic with frowning distaste, "and

NEW PASSAGE IN ANTARCTIC FOUND

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, Nov. 20 (AP)—(By Mackay Radio-Delayed) — Long-sought evidence confirming the existence of the theoretical transcontinental passage dividing Antarctic, has been found by Admiral Richard E. Byrd in a flight of discovery.

In the opinion of the explorer, it was probably the most important flight he has made. It meant to him the capture of a geographical prize on the first exploration attempt of the season.

The discovery is likely to compel a radical revision of existing idea of Antarctica's structure if it does not actually break the continent into two parts.

Byrd believes the discovery clearly identifies the extensive land masses to the eastward as insular groups isolated by water passages.

In the flight Byrd was accompanied by his crew of four, Chief Pilot Harold I. June, William Bowlin, Kenneth L. Rawson and Radio Operator Clay Bailey.

VAN HORN, Nov. 20 (AP)—Metz Bishop of San Angelo dropped dead while hunting on a ranch near Kenty Sunday. A coroner said death was due to a heart attack.

I don't want to. I don't believe in carrying weapons."

"Put this in your pocket," Griff said.

Griff and Bleeker call on a friend of Alice Lorton's in the next installment.

Very Much Improved After Taking Cardui

"I have suffered a great deal from cramping," writes Mrs. W. A. Sewell, Sr., of Waco, Texas. "I would chill and have to go to bed for about three days at a time. I would have a dull, tired, sleepy feeling. A friend told me to try Cardui, thinking it would help me—and it did. I am very much improved and do not spend the time in bed. I certainly can recommend Cardui to other sufferers."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.
