Acquittal Ruling Is Instructed By Presiding Judge

STATE FAIL TO SHOW CONCEALMENT OF ACT

This Made Case Out Of The Court's Jurisdiction, Judge Ruled In Considering Defense Motion.

(By Associated Press)
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 16 (AP)—Ed Jackson, Indiana's governor, was a free man tonight over his own protest.
Against his will, defense attorneys won acquittal on the ground that the state had failed to prove one phase of its case—concealment of an alleged attempt to bribe former Governor Warren T. McCray in 1925.

The trial ended late today when Judge Charles M. McCabe sustained a motion that the jury be instructed to return a verdict of not guilty. The formal jury verdict took only a few minutes after the court made his ruling.

Governor Jackson wanted to continue through the case to meet the testimony presented by the prosecution—that he and others offered former Gov. McCray $10,000 in 1925 and a guarantee of immunity from conviction of charges pending against him, if he would name James E. McDonald to the vacant Marion county prosecutorship. The motion for an instructed verdict was presented immediately after the state had rested its case.

It was only out of consideration for George V. Coffin, Marion county republican chairman and Robert J. March, a local attorney who were indicted with Governor Jackson, that the governor finally permitted

The blaze was quickly extinguished with chemicals, and practically no damage was done. None of the jail inmates were injured.

CANCER CURE Forward Step in Knowledge Of Disease Made

MONTREAL, Feb. 16 (AP)—Announcement was made at McGill university today of what was termed an important forward step in the knowledge of cancer. It was said that research at the McGill pathological institute and the Royal Victoria hospital had established the presence of auxiliary nerves in cancer and malignant tumors.

This throws a new light on the problems of the nature and growth of cancer. The statement read: "For one thing, it establishes that the cancer is not an independent and self-contained growth of cells as has so far been assumed, and it points the way to a possible connection of the growth with the nervous system."

Summer and Winter Reign Side By Side With Snow In Panhandle And High Temperature In Magic Valley

A not unusual spectacle in Texas summer and winter reigned side by side Thursday and Thursday night. Amarillo in the Panhandle had three inches of snow and a minimum temperature of 22, while high temperatures obtained at Edinburg in the Rio Grande valley. There inches was blizzard, howling across the Llano Estadado, merely a gradual encroachment of the snow storm from the northwest, greatly benefitting wheat.

Snow was falling at Abilene at 7 p. m., although the temperature was 19 degrees above freezing. A snow rain fell during the day, turning to snow as the temperature declined. San Angelo had overcast skies and a slowly falling mercury column. Lubbock had 4 inches of snow and a temperature of 24 in the afternoon, with prospects of 15 or lower by morning.

Canyon, 20 miles south of Amarillo, reported snow all day with little wind and stock not suffering. The territory around Childress probably received the greatest amount of snow, where from a foot to 18 inches was piled on topsoils by midafternoon and drifting so badly in the roads that highway traffic appeared tied up for two or three days at the least. It was the heaviest fall there in several years.

Snow melted as it fell most of the day at Wichita Falls. The ground was warm and the air little colder, although the temperature was gradually dropping.

Freezing weather before morning was expected at both Fort Worth and Childress.

THREE BROWNSTONE HOUSES PLUNGE INTO Excavation for Subway In New York

Six Men Buried Under Debris But Only One Is Known Dead; Rock Used As Prop for Residences Slipped And Houses Came Hurling As Workers Fled

(By the Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Three brownstone houses of the sort fashionable in the vanishing New York of the 18th century plunged 40 feet into a subway excavation today and buried half a dozen men of the army of progress which has caused the destruction of hundreds of the old-fashioned dwellings. Only one man was known to have been killed.

Twenty workmen were tunneling under the houses at Eighth avenue and 52nd street, on the western fringe of the theatre district, cutting out space for a station of the new municipal subway now under construction. The houses had been propped up with steel and concrete and were thought perfectly safe.

One of those props rested however, on a great round rock and suddenly the rock shifted in the dirt that held it. A widening crack appeared in the dirt in which the men were digging and stones began to rattle down on the men. Screaming a warning to their fellows they ran back into the main subway excavation as the three houses came hurtling down.

At first it was believed the list of dead might reach a dozen but several hours after the collapse police announced that only one man was known for a certainty to be dead. Another man was missing and several were injured, the brother of the dead man seriously. The man known to have been killed was Jack Flynn and his brother Frank, who tried to save him, suffered a fractured skull. Carl Peterson, a carpenter, was reported missing.

Youths' Trial Lags Trial of Hickman and Hunt Slow

HALL OF JUSTICE, LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16 (AP)—Slow motion governed the Hickman-Hunt murder trial today as talesmen underwent lengthy questioning.

The attorneys, who yesterday interrogated 34 prospective jurors in rapid fire order, today dragged the questioning slowly over the now familiar paths.

Eight men and four men are tentatively in the jury box. Even the two young defendants, William Edward Hickman and Welby Hunt, appeared weary during the lengthy maneuvers in obtaining the jury which will try them for the slaying of Ivy Toms, victim of a holdup-shooting.

Earlier today Hickman's attorneys filed written notice of appeal on the youth's sentence to death for the slaying of Marian Parker.

'Unloaded Pistol' May Cause Death Of Southland Boy

Elerly Irwin, 11-Year-Old Youth Is In Critical Condition As Result Of Accidental Shooting.

Shot in the abdomen when his nine-year-old brother fired what he thought was an unloaded pistol, Elerly Irwin, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Irwin of Southland, is in a critical condition at the West Texas hospital.

Surgeons who attended the case found it necessary to remove six inches of the lower intestine to save the boy's life. His condition was characterized as very critical, with possibilities of recovery yet undetermined.

The boy was conscious when brought to the hospital about 8:30 o'clock last night. The accident happened earlier in the afternoon. Elerly had two pistols in a room of the Irwin home, and had unloaded them. His two younger brothers then took the guns and began playing with them. Later Elerly loaded one of the pistols, of 38 caliber, and his nine-year-old brother shot it, thinking it was still unloaded. When Elerly walked into the room the younger brother held the point of the pistol at his abdomen and fired.

Believe Fate Of 'Miss Doran' Pilot Is Now Fathomed

Bits of Clothing Identified As Navy Uniform; Body Is Badly Decomposed by Sea Water.

IS FOUND ALONG CALIFORNIA COAST

Lieutenant Vilas R. Knofe Was Pilot of Plane That Was Lost While Carrying Pedlar and Miss Doran.

(By the Associated Press)
VENTURA, Calif., Feb. 16.—The body of a man believed to be one of the missing trans-Pacific fliers was washed ashore near here today. The only possible identification was bits of clothing, identified as that of the Navy, clinging to the body which gave evidence of having been in deep salt water for some time.

The only Naval aviator unaccounted for in the Dole flight was Lieut. Vilas R. Knofe of San Diego. He was the navigator of the ill-fated Miss Doran, which carried John A. Pedlar as pilot and Miss Mildred Doran as a passenger. Pedlar and Miss Doran were from Flint, Mich.

Found in shallow water. The body was found in a bit of shallow water along the coast line near Huerfano, Calif. According to investigators, the body is that of a man about thirty years old and of athletic type.

Flesh from the arms and legs had been eaten away by deep sea fish. The salt water along the coast line never has preserved the torso. About the neck remained a band which is thought to be that of a naval aviator.

The body was removed to an undertaking establishment at Oxnard, Calif. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

How and Why

DARKENING THE PALE BROW AND LASH

A friend of mine visited a beauty shop yesterday and while waiting for her treatment, was greatly interested in the preparation being made by one of the shop's patrons for a party to which she was going that evening.

Now my friend is an expert herself in the art of general make-up but as she is blessed with dark brows and thick black lashes it is entirely unnecessary for her to improve upon Nature's job in that respect. But the lady she was watching was not so fortunate. Her eyes were blue and framed in rather scanty light brows and lashes. So light were they that her face was practically robbed of all expression.

My friend says that the beauty operator first of all used an eyebrow pencil to darken the characterless brows and that a few strokes

The Morning Avalanche Menu for the Day

BREAKFAST—Stewed dried apples, cereal, cream, salt codfish hash, hard bread, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Scalloped onions and macaroni, brown bread, and omelet sandwiches, orange custard, peanut butter, milk, tea.

DINNER—Oyster cocktails, ham baked in milk, buttered cauliflower, grapefruit salad, molasses pie, milk, coffee.

Molasses pie is unusual and very good. Just at this time of year many housekeepers find their stock of craned fruits running low, with apples becoming scarce. So molasses pie will find a welcome when "pie tinner" is short.

Molasses Pie One cup molasses, 2-3 cup granulated sugar, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons flour, 4 tablespoons melted butter, 1-2 cup nut meats, 2 tablespoons lemon juice or vinegar.

Mix and sift flour and sugar. Add to molasses with lemon juice, melted butter, eggs beaten until very light and finely cut nut meats. Turn into a pie pan lined with plain, unbaked pastry and bake thirty to forty minutes in a moderate oven or until firm to the touch. Serve cold.

of it and a little brushing soon made them things of beauty.

For the lashes, a pomade made of lamp black was brushed through with an upward movement. This was done with the utmost care so that none of the preparation would enter the eye. Then a small amount of blue cosmetic was rubbed into the lower eyelid, making an interesting shadow, and a faint line was drawn directly under the lower lashes, giving the effect of apparent thickness.

All this was done with consummate artistry and the result was beautiful to behold.

NEXT: Becoming eye glasses.

THE WOMAN'S DAY

By Allene Sumner

Aha, stark tragedy has us by the throat! All we Americans women are unhappy! So says a victim English woman, Lady Drummond Hay.

"American women are so restless and nervous," she says. "They may be happy, but the women of Europe are much more contented. It's curious that with all her luxuries and freedom the American woman is not so contented. As for ruling men if she does, it's in a curious way—by bullying them." She could learn much about ruling her husband from the women of the Orient.

Well, about all one needs say is that it's interesting to see our "wh" as others see us, and here's warning that we have several foreign sisters who would love the chance to be "unhappy" in the same way we are.

BABY BUGGIES

Why does first one baby buggy company and then another go into bankruptcy? Is it because of fewer babies, or because even babies are products of an auto age in which they ride, if they ride at all, from almost the first time they go abroad in the world? Or is it that babies no longer get wheeled any more than they get rocked to sleep?

COAL HODS

Coal hods in artistic finish "to harmonize with any room" are advertised by our town's artiest store. The coal hods may be of Swedish iron finish or plain black artistically trimmed with brass. How life and our average home standard of living have changed since the day when "the coal skuttle" was hastily snatched from its position by the "rough" oak when company rang the door bell!

DOES IT MATCH?

One finds it hard these days to think of any prosaic humble detail of a house which the commercial world has not seized upon and exploited to make money, while incidentally elevating our taste. Even the lowly match now comes in colors to match the ash tray, and the ash tray must match the draperies and the draperies must match—

The county girl championship will also be decided this week and the representatives of the four precincts of the county meet and schedule the game. HENDERSON ANSWERS PROTEST ON BROCK

In answer to the formal protest made by Floyd Blankenship, coach of the Monroe team of the Class "B" division of the eligibility of George Brock, center of the Canyon school, which were the winners of the Class "B" championship, Roy Henderson, athletic director of the Texas Interscholastic League, ruled Brock eligible to take part in basketball tournaments of this county. Mr. Henderson further stated that Brock was eligible for the Class "B" tourney and would be eligible for the Class "A" meet, which will be played here beginning with games today.

Teachers Beat McMurry In One-Sided Contest

DENTON, Feb. 16.—The North Texas Teachers college Eagles ran away with the McMurry college Indians in a whopper-jawed basketball game here Thursday night, 55 to 21. The score was 43 to 7 at the half.

Snowstorms Are Unlucky, Avers Avalanche Team

Printers Take 52-9 Drubbing from Gas Station Boys in Graceful Manner; Teachers Spank Army.

The Avalanche-Journal's basketball team is beginning to harbor a suspicion that snowstorms are unlucky for them. Because, last night while the snow swirled around the high school, the Super-Main basketball team started around them inside the gymnasium and snowed them under by a 52 to 9 count to maintain an unsullied percentage in the city basketball league.

The game was really closer than the score sounds, or that's what the Avalanche-Journal team declares. Their only ally is that the Super-Main team didn't miss but four shots at the goal during the entire game which, as anyone knows is altogether contrary to the law of averages for basketball games.

Furthermore, members of the Avalanche-Journal team declare that Mansell, Barrett, and Kerr of the gas station boys had been barred from competition, they (the Journalists) would have stood a fair chance of winning. Barrett made a measly 30 points, and the best Kerr and Mansell could collect was 12 apiece.

Perfect passing and splendid floor work were featured by the Super-Main quint. Their well-oiled passing machine had the Journalists bewildered. Barrett was dead shot near the goal and Kerr and Mansell were about as bad, as good depending on the point of view. On the other hand, the Journalists couldn't decide just where on the backboard the goal was located.

TEACHERS CONTINUE WINNING STREAK

George Brown's high school Teachers continued to keep a clean percentage slate in the Lubbock city league by defeating the Artillerymen of the 131 F. A. last night in the high school gymnasium with a count of 25 to 9.

The boys of Uncle Sam's payroll kept a close pace with the Teachers during the first half and matters rocked along on even terms until Brown and Morgan, mainstays of the Pedagogue defense and offense began rolling in field hoops.

A new man broke in with the Teachers last night in the person of Victor Payne, coach of the Texas Tech Matadors. Payne's defensive work added much to the strength of the Teachers as the new fellow agreed in a very creditable game from the floor.

The Teachers and Super-Main teams are the only ones undefeated in the city loop and it is nearing the time when these two teams are scheduled to meet.

Only One Title, and That Unofficial, Brought Back By American Skaters At Geneva.

(By the Associated Press)

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 16.—In the midst of the open season on protests, chief features so far in the Olympic winter sports program, America's speed skaters set out for home today with only one title—add that unofficial in the dufile bags. Hundreds of Olympic athletes, but few officials, bade the American representatives an enthusiastic Godspeed as the delegation pulled out for Paris.

At this winter playground avalanches of soft snow tumbled down from the mountains and ice skating rinks resembled swimming pools under a warm sun and balmy breeze.

Irvine Jaffee, New York flier who scored the fastest time in the 10,000 meter event only to see the race cancelled because of soft ice and unseasonable weather, was object of the special attention of one delegation of Swiss athletes, who carried a banner inscribed: "Jaffee winner of the 10,000 metres race. Long live America."

Despite the protests of Gustavus Kirby, American Olympic representative, the international skating federation stuck to its ruling that the race must be run again. Kirby was stymied by the decision, since no skaters are left in St. Moritz. Most of the Scandinavian delegations departed for home yesterday.

Protests again became the order of the day as Canada hoped to bring the center of the hockey limelight. The Dominion team, an overwhelming favorite, cast an eye at the swimming pool labeled the hockey rink, and refused point-blank to meet Sweden this afternoon.

Attempt To Test Legality Fails

Higher Court Refuses To Rule On Complaint That Charges Violating Betting Laws At Races.

(By the Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 16.—An attempt to test the legality of the so-called "contributors" or certificate plan of operating horse races in Texas fell short of its mark Wednesday when the court of criminal appeals refused to rule on the sufficiency of complaints charging Jack Jarvis with violation of anti-betting laws. Jarvis had appealed through habeas corpus proceedings for relief from charges filed in connection with his operation of a horse race at Brady some months ago on the certificate plan to test its legality. He maintained that he system did not constitute a violation of anti-betting laws as he was charged.

The appellate court, in an opinion by Judge F. L. Hawkins, held in effect that Jarvis' only right of review lies in an appeal from a lower court trial.

OUR GOD IS GREAT: Great is the Lord and greatly to be praised; and his greatness is unsearchable.—Psalm 145:2. PRAYER: The Lord reigneth, let the earth rejoice.

MR. HOOVER'S CANDIDACY AND THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION

By his letter to Thad H. Brown of Ohio in which he formally consents to enter the state's presidential preference primary, against Senator Willis — Herbert Hoover advances himself from a receptive-to-an-awarded-candidate-for-president. That brief, striking document in effect brings on the 1928 campaign. Apparently no prophet is needed to foretell the republican nominee. Regardless of whether his supporters scotch the favorite-son movement—the only concerted opposition thus far to develop—it will be difficult, if not impossible, to defeat Mr. Hoover at Kansas City. When President Coolidge gave out his "I do not choose" statement at Rapid City last August, Hoover's name immediately suggested itself to the public mind as the probable successor. His candidacy has loomed ever since; sentiment for him has crystallized and grown in volume. Mr. Hoover was a presidential possibility long previously, however. His versatility and almost magical aptitude for getting things done captivated the popular fancy back in war days. There was a considerable Hoover movement, even among democrats, in 1920. He was more in favor by 1924, and but for the inevitability of Mr. Coolidge doubtless would have been formidable that year. Now, with Mr. Coolidge out of it—and the formal announcement of the Hoover candidacy will put a quietus on the last talk of "drafting" the president—there appears hardly any question as to what the outcome will be. Mr. Hoover is the logical heir to the administration. Charles E. Hughes might have been had he remained in the Cabinet. But the secretary of commerce has been the president's mainstay for the past seven years. Whenever a difficult situation has arisen—whether a coal or a railroad strike or a Mississippi flood—Mr. Hoover has stepped into the breach and has served efficiently, indeed. Public confidence in his powers is virtually country-wide. A worth while, outstanding effect of Mr. Hoover's formal candidacy now is that it serves notice on the democrats that they must put their best foot forward at Houston in June. If they earnestly seek the victory they must nominate a strong man—a leader of the Hoover type, whose high ideals and world outlook are combined with proved ability. He must be a citizen whose devotion to the Constitution and the laws, including the Eighteenth Amendment, are above question—such a man as would command the confidence of the nation generally. And the democracy has men of this character.

THE WORLD COURT

The world court controversy, which provided considerable campaign "thunder" in 1924, threatens to be thrown once more into congress on the eve of the presidential campaign. Senator Frederick Gillett of Massachusetts last week presented a resolution in the senate, the purpose of which is to bring about further exchange between this government and the signatory powers as to adjustment of differences over the reservations which were imposed by the senate in adopting the world court resolution. The resolution recites the fact that the senate of January 27, 1926, by a vote of 76 to 17, gave its advice and consent to the adherence of the United States to the permanent court of international justice on certain conditions and with certain reservations; also their replies referred to "such further exchange of views as the government of the United States may think useful," and providing as follows: "That the senate of the United States respectfully suggests to the president the advisability of further exchange of views with the signatory states in order to establish whether the differences between the United States and the signatory states can be satisfactorily adjusted." Senator Gillett states he has not lost faith in the possibility that the United States may become a member of the world court upon the terms laid down by the senate, and that his resolution is intended as a step toward that end. He does not interpret the replies received from member nations as a refusal of our terms. It is true they merely countered with a suggestion of further parleys, of which none have been had, and the Massachusetts senator believes it the duty of this country to initiate them. "I believe that the president and the state department will appreciate an expression of opinion from the senate," Senator Gillett said, in discussing the advisability of pursuing further negotiations. "The executive branch may very properly have deferred doing so in the absence of an expression of the senate's views. I have no notion that the senate will modify in the slightest the reservations already adopted. I do not seek that. I do believe that most of the members of the court desire our affiliation even with the reservations which we have imposed and that in the end we will be admitted upon that basis." That the reopening of the world court controversy at this time has large political possibilities was the belief expressed by several members of the senate, and it may result in efforts to commit presidential candidates as to where they stand on the court question. Political leaders express the opinion that the people of the United States would welcome an opportunity to secure membership in the court upon the basis of the reservations imposed by the senate, and that the state department should continue parleys with that object in view.

"AGGRESSORS"

It seems safe enough for the United States "to renounce war as an instrument of public policy," and to seek to adjust our international disputes by "mediation, arbitration and conciliation," as the resolution recites. But in any way to obligate ourselves to go farther and pledge our aid for the castigation of any other nation that may not be disposed to settle its disputes according to the theory of the Capper resolution, is likely to get us into some unpleasant situations. Such a nation would, under the resolution, be classed as "an aggressor nation," and make itself subject to discipline by those nations subscribing to such an international agreement for the outlawing of war among themselves, as seems to be contemplated by the Capper resolution. It may be a highly commendable thing to father and lead a movement for international peace. But it is questionable policy to tie ourselves up in an agreement to join in whipping any recalcitrant nation or nations that may prefer to fight instead of arbitrate. It is doubtful if that is exactly what Senator Capper contemplates. To avoid the very undesirable possibility of the resolution, as some critics view it in its entirety, of involving us in participation in foreign diplomatic arguments, and entanglements not contemplated in the present equipment and policy of our State Department, it is well to urge Congress to give the resolution very careful consideration.

DRUNKEN DRIVERS

A young man, rendered irresponsible by liquor, dashes along the Old Troy pike in a motor car at night, taking the wrong side of the road. A car comes from the opposite direction and of course, is struck. One person is killed and four others injured. There we have a sort of incident that occurs with terrifying regularity, making sane and honest people wonder if it is going to be necessary, in self-preservation, to abandon the highways to the madmen who infest them. The perpetrator of this offense stands charged with manslaughter. If convicted he will be put for a limited number of years behind the power to imperil the lives of innocent people on the public highways. Under the law he also can be charged with driving a car while intoxicated. This would subject him to a fine and a short imprisonment, together with denial for one year of the right to drive a motor car. We are inclined to believe that the last penalty should be increased to 100 years. The man who takes to the public roads in a motor car with head and hand reeling from liquor should be prevented, if it be humanly possible, from ever sitting at the wheel of a motor car again. It should be "capital" punishment for him. The man who will drive drunk once cannot be trusted to keep sober when he drives again.

MORE ABOUT THE FARMER

The official forecast of the Department of Agriculture foretells a "better year" for the farmers in 1928 than they enjoyed last year. The average dirt farmer is but mildly interested in this kind of dope, although it is conceivable that they may serve a useful purpose somewhere. Business leaders in many parts of the country are talking about the reported "prosperity" that exists in the nation. This may be true of the stocks and bonds and industrial corporations and big enterprises but when it gets to the man behind the plow he can tell them a different story. There is one settled fact in the mind of most of the farmers in Lubbock county today, and that is that while the country was in a wave of prosperity the agriculturists actually had to take punishment. Nor is the outlook better if we turn from individual farmers and look at the condition which has become serious through the farm territories and unless something breaks the spell of the present luck there will be havoc on our farms.

OUT OUR WAY—

By Williams

SO THINK WE

We think the main trouble with the ring of many of the candidates for state and national offices is that they are wringing wet, and this is something that is going to have to be given very close attention, if we are to avoid trouble with the liquor element in this nation in the future.

We think possibly the next fox trot will be called Hickman.

We think that from the report of some of the shoppers who have come back from the eastern markets that about all that is getting longer about the evening dresses are the shoulder straps.

We think that conservative values on rents and real estate are about the best town builders there are, and on the other hand it is always detrimental to get these two high.

We think that good schools are about the best asset that any town has, and we are confident that this is one reason that Lubbock just keeps on growing without any boom or undue boasting. Our schools are A-1 as far as we can find out, and people are coming here every year to take advantage of the splendid facilities.

We think when a city gets too big to keep boosting its a mighty good time for about three fourths of the people to be looking for some other place to live, for it will be a dead one in a very short time.

We think that Col. Lindy may not care much for society, but there is one thing certain he is a high flier, and moves in the upper circles as no other man has.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that there will be several hundred voters in this county, who will not be voters because they failed to pay their poll tax.

It is reported Lindy arrived back in the United States safe and sound and within a few minutes of scheduled time. Lindy is a high flier, and he seems to have plenty of luck. We congratulate him, and hope he will always be as successful.

It is reported that the Chinese flappers are about to break up the revolution over in China. Now that is just too bad. The flapper should be more loyal to their country. China cannot get along with out revolutions, but they did get along for several hundred years without flappers.

It is reported that the jail is now crowded to the limit with alleged bootleggers and the courthouse is filled with stiffs. The sheriff's department has been doing a wholesale business the past few days along this line.

It is reported that up Amarillo way things have livened up a bit, and amid the snow and the steel signs of spring come creeping in. Two flat tires were reported there in one day, and only a very few feet apart, and only a few minutes between, and neither had anything to do with the other. Boys will be boys even if some of them are slightly oversize.

It is reported that the first life sentence ever imposed on a man or woman in Hall county was imposed a few days ago when a jury sentenced a man to life imprisonment for the death of another man. This is a fine record for Hall, if it is just because they never needed to send a man to the penitentiary, but if they have just been letting them run wild it is not such a good recommendation.

It is reported that an eagle flies faster when they are going away from the nest than they do coming back—that is possibly the reason that our dollars go so fast and come back so slow.

OPINIONS

THE DAIRY COW

Three and a third billion dollars is what the dairy industry contributed to the value of farm production in 1926. This is over a quarter of the total value of farm production, and the dairy industry is the biggest and most profitable branch of the farm business.

The dairy cow is on top with a production greater in value than that of the combined corn, cotton, rice and barley crops. She supplies practically half the total value of all animals and animal products, and her products are nearly equal to the total value of all the grain crops. The farm value of her milk production exceeds that of all the gold dollars coined since 1886, and is also in excess of the value of all automobiles and trucks manufactured last year as well as greater than the total output of the steel industry. These are the values of the dairy cow's products at the farm. They are not their whole-sale value in the markets of the world. Consumers paid some five and a half billion dollars for these products.

Not only is the value of dairy products in excess of the value of any manufactured product, but the quantity of milk produced is stupendous. If the dairy industry were transported in express cars, it would fill solidly twenty-three tracks between the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans. The one hundred and twenty-one billion pounds of milk produced in 1926 is difficult to comprehend even when stated in express cars. It would fill a third billion 10-gallon cans that, placed side by side, would circle the globe fifteen times in passing from Chicago across the United States, over the Pacific ocean, through Japan, Asia, Europe, over the Atlantic, and then back to Chicago—a highway of milk sixteen feet wide and two feet deep.

YOUR HEALTH

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

More and more as the value of the vitamins in the diet of human beings is being realized, new sources of these valuable elements are being sought. Experiments made some years ago indicated that watercress is an excellent source of vitamin A. The animal body can store both vitamin A and vitamin D, and the supply of these vitamins is stopped the animal continues to grow and thrive until its reserve of these vitamins is exhausted. Then it must be fed additional vitamin or it will cease growth and die.

Vitamin D is found largely in cod liver oil and its place may be taken by rays of ultraviolet. Vitamin A is found in butter and in cod liver oil. Experiments just announced by Drs. Katherine H. Coward and F. Eggleston of the department of physiology and biochemistry of the University of London indicate that there is a seasonal variation in the growth promoting properties of the watercress. Watercress is richer in vitamin D during the summer than it is in winter. The same is true of watercress. Summer watercress is a remarkably rich source of vitamin A and contains a goodly amount of vitamin D.

MITCHELL COUNTY FARMERS TAKE UP TERRACING WORK

Community terracing schools are being held throughout Mitchell county by County Agent W. S. Foster and farmers are becoming greatly interested in this work.

Already several thousand acres of land have been terraced in Mitchell county but 50,000 acres more should be terraced, according to a survey completed by Foster.

Farmers in the county who are now terracing lands are Thos. Riden, Ray Bassham, D. P. Drake, Fred Brown, Wiley Walker, J. B. Moore, D. R. Lefevre, B. F. Davis, J. W. Walker, N. V. Easterwood, J. A. SLATON MAN SAYS IT PAYS TO DIVERSIFY

"It pays to diversify; that's my experience," says G. N. Gentry, Slaton farmer living five miles northwest of the city in the Poney community.

Gentry does not farm on a big scale, but he makes more clear profit than many farmers who cultivate much larger tracts of land. He has a 100-acre farm. His record for 1927 follows:

Forty acres in cotton produced 22 bales, valued at $2,200. Forty acres in feedstuff, 17 acres in milo and within a few minutes of scheduled time. Lindy is a high flier, and he seems to have plenty of luck. We congratulate him, and hope he will always be as successful.

Eight or nine tons of maize were sold, bringing $150. An equal amount of maize was kept for feeding purposes on his farm. Besides, he has 100 bushels of corn and 4,700 bushels of sorghum. The Slaton crop was used for grazing during the year. The wheat crop, planted last fall, now needs rain. The yield of peas was very bountiful some being sold and plenty left for home use.

Gentry keeps two Jersey cows, two good hogs and a flock of 75 hens. The hogs furnish the family's meat supply and eggs and cream or butter are sold regularly. Produce sales pay an average of half the grocery bill the whole year through, Gentry says.

Convinced that it pays well to practice diversification, Gentry will follow the plan again in 1928, he says. His farm products in 1927 had a total value of $3,500.

This farmer is a fair example of what diversification is doing throughout the Slaton territory.

TOO MUCH INSANITY

The insanity defense is becoming more and more popular among criminal lawyers. So popular is it becoming that an insanity plea gross out of almost every violent crime.

W. C. T. U. TO GALVESTON

DALLAS, Feb. 16. (AP)—Galveston was awarded the 1928 convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Texas. It was decided at a meeting of the executive board here Thursday. The dates are October 5-12.

Fashions In The Kitchen

The annual spring dress-up campaign will not be complete this year without the doling up of the kitchen, or rather, the securing of new kitchen implements, for, says a manufacturer of kitchen utensils, the latter is the lesser of the two evils. Man prefers feminine tyranny to famine. As a matter of fact, he has grown accustomed to the former. His curtailed liberty causes him no pang; only the pangs of hunger can afflict him.

But cynical husbands are of the opinion that they will have to submit ere long to the ladies even on that score, contending the "bridge" and golf and canning factories and delicatessens are proving too powerful enemies of the old three "squares" per day.

Time was when the complexion of a sauce pan or a skillet did not matter, but fashion uproots age-old customs and conventions in a facile and abrupt manner, hence one may expect to hear discriminating restaurant patrons demanding their food cooked in utensils the color of which matches the shade of the diners' hair, eyes or his costume. Color is an essential factor of beauty and its employment in cooking utensils, not only will add charm to the kitchen and inspiration to the cook but it will increase the deliciousness of the food and give it an appealing personality. At least rosters for the coded toned culinary accessories so colored.

Meanwhile there are the old pots and pans which have done excellent service and which bear indications of enduring for a long time yet. What is to be done with them? Are they to go the way of the old dining room sideboard, the older cupboard? Are they to be relegated to the scrap heap like the the walls in days gone by, or like the highly colored "Home sweet Home" wall motto which long since has been used for kindling?

That is the problem now confronting the fastidious housewife. Should the new fashion decree concern shapes and weights of rolling pins instead of more coloring husbands might also be concerned;

VACATION HOURS

When hours of work-a-day seem long And hard when weary August days

The plea is being used so universally that it is becoming one of the outstanding menaces to our court system.

It is a generally recognized fact that alienists can be found to testify that any one on trial has symptoms of insanity. It is puzzling fact to the layman that a large number of learned alienists are always found who will go into courts and testify that in their opinion the defendant is afflicted with some form of insanity, and an equally large number of the jury state in their testimony that the defendant shows no trace of insanity.

Of course such conflicting testimony from scientific men is confusing to the laymen who make up the jury. These alienists are supposed to be telling the truth, and naturally it is confusing to hear them offer contradictory testimony.

The Hickman trial offers the latest outstanding instance of conflicting testimony of alienists. Here the defendant has pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity, and upon the outcome of his sanity trial rests the disposition of one of the most outstanding criminal cases of recent years. The men and women who compose the jury have heard alienists for the state testify that Hickman shows no traces of insanity, while the defense alienists testify that the defendant is suffering from a form of insanity. An experiment was performed on the defendant in court, and the defense alienists saw the results as indicating without doubt that the defendant is insane to a degree and the state alienists saw the reverse. What attitude can the laymen take when scientific men are allowed to come into the court and offer such testimony. Yet the outcome of the Hickman case apparently rests solely on the sanity of the jury as to this insanity.

Such instances illustrate a need for some steps toward improving the methods of determining a man's sanity. Obviously the jury in the Hickman trial has not been assisted by the testimony of the alienists. The members of the jury have been bewildered, no doubt, are probably less certain of Hickman's mental status than they were the day the hearing opened.

If the insanity plea is to continue to influence the decisions of jurors on the present scale, state's attorneys should take steps to help the laymen jurors determine the defendant's sanity. A state sanity board, with members whose integrity could not be questioned, might solve the question. Certainly the present method which permits a flood of conflicting testimony to be heard by persons who are attempting to determine the mental status of a defendant could be improved upon.—Vernon Record.

Small Items Of Real Interest

The Lubbock fire department has not made a call since February 2, at 9 o'clock in the morning, it was revealed yesterday. However, members of the department were taking nothing for granted. They have heavy chains on the wheels of their trucks, guarding against a possible call down the ice-encased streets.

Roads in all directions yesterday were extremely slippery and treacherous but practically all of them were passable. Despite the fact that a number of accidents were feared a tall to sanitariums late last night showed none of a serious nature had been reported.

Ladders came into their own as improvised sleds yesterday as the snow and ice gave Lubbock one of its infrequent tastes of winter sports. The ladders made perfect sleds.

his attorneys to make the bid for freedom today, it was said in a statement tonight. Marsh and Coffin were granted separate trials. Prosecutor William H. Remy said he had not determined what course he would pursue with regard to their cases.

Judge McCabe after pondering for more than four hours over the motion for acquittal, made it clear to the jury that the governor's discharge was solely on the ground that there had been any positive act of concealment of the alleged crime which would cause a cessation of operation of the statute of limitations.

Trial on a charge of commission of the alleged offense itself could not be held because the indictment was returned nearly two years after the statute of limitations had run its course. Judge McCabe pointed out. The state had failed to declare to void the statute because it did not prove the act of concealment.

A sensational attack on the Ku Klux Klan in which he referred to "the slings and daggers of that organization" was made by Judge McCabe just before he gave his decision.

Calloway Case

with her in his car, drove southwest of the city, about two miles and then described the details of the alleged attack. So exact was her testimony that it was subject to attack by defense counsel members, Senator W. H. Bledsoe and Charles C. Crenshaw, in their later arguments before the jury.

Teachers called to the defendant's attention to the child and from school, and later of taking the number of the car which he drove and tracing the number to its owner.

Following this testimony the defendant was called to the stand, the state having unexpectedly closed its case shortly before eleven o'clock. In a rapid and straightforward manner, so prompt at times that it seemed almost blurted, Calloway answered questions asked at him by his own lawyers, and by Prosecutor Bradley. His testimony included a denial of the charge, a denial that he had ever made improper advances to the child; a denial that he had ever given her money or that he had offered to support her in schooling after the case was filed. At one point in his testimony he said point blank that the testimony of the complaining witness was "untrue" and his testi-

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creosolium, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creosolium is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and kills the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creosolium contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creosolium is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, whooping cough and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (ads.)

State Admits Good Character

Following the noon recess the defendant again called to the stand after Miss Harper had again testified. The defense placed Rev. W. A. Bowen, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, and W. A. Dolan, of Temple, Santa Fe freight agent there, on the stand. Both of these witnesses testified that Calloway's reputation was regarded generally as good. After Senator W. A. Bledsoe told the court that a number of other witnesses, several of them from Temple and others from Lubbock, were ready to testify to the good general reputation of the defendant, Mr. Bradley, for the state, granted the good reputation and the trial was shortened by the other character witnesses not being used.

Sheriff H. L. Johnston, Deputy Sheriff Vernice L. Ford, Chief of Police John Lemond and former Police Chief Toby E. May were called by the defense and all four testified that they knew the general reputation of the complaining witness and that it was "bad." Two of them said the child's mother had appealed to them to aid in managing her because "she could not be depended upon."

After this testimony the defense abruptly closed its case at 2:15 o'clock.

Charge Is Prepared

Slightly more than two hours were consumed as Judge Pharr drew up his charge to the jury and the defense counsel submitted its objections thereto. Closing arguments began with Prosecutor Bradley speaking to the jury at 5:15. Immediately after Judge Pharr had read his charge to the jury, Senator Bledsoe and Mr. Crenshaw in succession, brought out defense arguments to the jurors and Mr. Bradley ended his closing speech at 8:00 p. m. last night.

In the closing arguments of counsel, the defense, by innuendo, attacked the testimony of the complaining witness and credited an older sister with causing the charges to be filed. Calloway, on the stand this morning, took a bombshell into the camp of the state when he testified that Harold Jones, a laundryman, had approached him and, after telling him that he represented the older sister, had stated that the case could be settled out of court upon a financial basis. Calloway testified that he told Jones that he was "not guilty" and that the case was in the hands of his lawyers. Neither Jones or the girl's older sister were called on the witness stand by either the prosecution or the defense and the child's father, a restaurant employe, was not with other members of the family in the courtroom.

Big Crowd On Hand

Despite the inclement weather which continued throughout the day, a crowd of 200 spectators were in the courtroom when the case was called and that number was augmented until the afternoon session every seat in the courtroom and its balcony was filled, and others stood about the walls of the room. Mrs. Calloway sat at her husband's side throughout the afternoon session.

Turning to the concrete problem of preventing the employment of violence, Mr. Hughes proposed that the American countries improve their mutual relations and avoid war by the establishment of an international commission patrolled on the lines of the American-Canadian boundary commission by the conclusion of pecuniary claims conventions as extensive in scope as possible, and finally by establishing firmly the principle of arbitration for the settlement of international differences.

Action Seen For Farm Relief; New Interest Aroused

Revised McNary - Haugen Bill Sent to Senate by House Agricultural Committee; Is Optimistic.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The farm relief issue was catapulted into the Senate today, when its agriculture committee ordered a favorable report of the revised McNary-Haugen bill after only two hours consideration.

Still carrying the equalization fee provision opposed by President Coolidge in vetoing the McNary-Haugen measure last year, the new bill does meet any of the objections of the President, in the opinion of Senator McNary, Republican, Oregon, its author.

It was shot into the Senate while the house agricultural committee was wrangling along on its fifth week of hearings over an almost identical measure sponsored by Representative Haugen, Republican, Iowa, but there was no indication from Chairman McNary, of the agriculture committee, or from Senate leaders as to how early it would be pressed to a vote.

Farm Leaders Hopeful
Senate farm leaders had hoped the house committee would act first on farm relief but the McNary-Haugen opposition there retarded it. Turning to the senate committee, advocates of the bill won a quick battle. Without previous hearings, time was taken only to permit authors of other farm measures to explain their bills. Members of the committee present voted unanimously to put the new McNary measure up to the senate.

Informed of this action, Chairman Haugen of the house committee, notified McNary of his support for the McNary-Haugen bill, and senate leaders still are hopeful of having the house make the first move on the floor.

New Proposed Heard
Meanwhile the house committee, which has before it the proposal of the National Grange for the export debenture plan of relief and the equalization fee method sponsored by the American Farm Bureau Federation, heard a new proposition today from B. F. Yoakum, former secretary railroad executive. He proposed to turn the marketing problem over to farm commodity organizations working under federal charters.

As for the bill approved by the senate committee, Chairman McNary not only expressed confidence that his proposal would meet senate approval but that it would win White House favor. He explained that while it still provides for the levying of the equalization fee on farm commodities as a means of raising funds to market surplus crops, it would not be resorted to except in cases of emergencies. While the bill received unanimous approval in committee today, some committee members reserved to offer amendments there and it is predicted that an effort will be made to eliminate the provision for an equalization fee.

LAND ROW UNSETTLED

Supreme Court Not To Reconsider Issue

AUSTIN, Feb. 16. (AP)—Backing its original decision, the supreme court Wednesday declined to reconsider the question as to what is proper disposition of lands recovered in the historic "Capitol Syndicate" land suit.

The court originally held that the state should retain all mineral rights in leasing the land when it denied R. E. Stallcup, of El Paso, a mandamus against Land Commissioner J. T. Robinson to issue him drilling permits under a law allowing the state only part of minerals.

Wednesday, the court refused rehearing.

RIGHT CHALLENGED

Colorado Guard Has No Authority to Arrest

DENVER, Feb. 16. (AP)—The right of the Colorado National Guard to make arrests under the authority of an insurrection proclamation issued by Governor W. H. Adams, which does not declare martial law, has been denied by Judge J. Foster Symes in United States district court. He ordered the release of Frank Palmer, Paul Seidler, W. H. Nesbit and Mike Del Soglio, alleged coal strike leaders, who have been held in the "military jail at Greeley."

The state gave notice of appeal and Judge Symes fixed the bond of each of the four at $1,500.

LACE FROCKS

Lace frocks are imperative in spring wardrobes. Warm colors, particularly deep pinks and purples, are very good. They usually have light foundations.

Chest Colds Need Direct Treatment

IT IS an obstinate cold indeed that can resist the direct, double action of Vicks. Rubbed on the chest, it acts two ways at once:

- (1) Direct to air passages with its healing vapors released by body heat;
- (2) Like a poultice, it "draws out" the soreness.

STOLE FOR CHILDREN
Father Wounded by Officers While Taking Milk

DALLAS, Feb. 16. (AP)—W. L. Ayers, 20 years old and the father of four children, the youngest 16 days old, was in a hospital here Wednesday night with shotgun wounds in leg and wrist and a charge of misdemeanor theft involving three bottles of milk against him. He took the milk because his family was hungry, he said in a statement at the district attorney's office.

Ayers was struck early Wednesday by buckshot from a sawed-off shotgun in the hands of plain-clothes men set to guard a grocery where it was said that several bottles of milk had been taken from a rack beside the store every morning for a month.

room facing the main door of the rotunda; and beside him sat a tall, heavy-set, bronzed man of about forty, alert but ill at ease.

"Traffic Officer Phipps arrived from Boonton a little while ago," said Markham, by way of introduction. "Clever is expected at any moment now. He has an appointment here at half past five."

Vance drew up a chair. "I do hope he's a punctual beggar."

"So do I," returned Markham viciously.

Less than ten minutes later Cleaver entered the rotunda from the street, paused at the desk, and sauntered into the lounge-room. There was no escaping the observation point Markham had chosen; and as he walked by he passed and exchanged greetings. Markham detained him a moment with a few casual questions, and Cleaver passed on.

"That the man you ticketed, officer?" asked Markham, turning to Phipps.

Phipps was scowling perplexedly. "It looks something like him, sir, there's a kind of resemblance. But it ain't him." He shook his head. "No sir, it ain't him. The fellow I hung a summons on was stouter than this gent, and wasn't as tall."

"You're positive?"

"Yes, sir—no mistake. The guy I tagged tried to argue with me, and then he tried to slip me a five to forget it. I had my headlight on him full."

Phipps was dismissed with a substantial fee. Vance sighed. "My worthless existence is to be prolonged. Sad but you must try to bear it. I say, Markham, what does Pop Cleaver's brother look like?"

"That's it," nodded Markham. "I've met his brother in a street and stouter. This thing is getting beyond me. I think I'll have it out with Cleaver now."

He started to rise, but Vance forced him back into his seat.

"Don't be impetuous. Cultivate patience. Cleaver's not going to do a bunk; and there are one or two preliminary steps strongly indicated. Marnix and Lindquist still seduce my curiosity."

Markham clung to his point. "Neither Marnix nor Lindquist is here now, and Cleaver himself I want to know why he lied to me about that summons."

"I can tell you that," said Vance. "He wanted you to think he was in the wilds of New Jersey at midnight Monday—Simple, what?"

"The inference is a credit to your intelligence. But I hope you don't seriously think that Cleaver is guilty. It's possible he knows something; but I certainly cannot picture him as a stranger."

"And why?"

"He's not the type. It's inconceivable—every if there were evidence against him."

"Ah, the psychological judgment. You eliminate Cleaver because you don't think his nature harmonizes with the situation. I say, doesn't that come perilously near being an a posteriori hypothesis—or a metaphysical deduction?"

"However, I don't entirely agree with you in your application of the theory to Cleaver. That fish-eyed gambler has unsuspected potentialities for evil. But with the theory itself I am wholly in accord. And behold, my dear Markham; you yourself apply psychology in its abecedarian implications, yet ridicule my application of it in its higher developments. Consistency may be the hobgoblin of little minds, you know, but it's none the less a precious jewel. How about a cup of tea?"

He sought the Palm Room, and sat down at a table near the entrance. Vance ordered coffee, but Markham and I took black coffee. A very capable four-piece orchestra was playing and we sat restfully in comfortable chairs without speaking. Markham was tired and dispirited, and Vance was busy with the problem that had absorbed him continuously since Tuesday morning. Never before had I seen him so preoccupied.

"I had seen there, you know, half an hour when Spotswode strolled in. He stopped and spoke, and Markham asked him to join us. He, too, appeared depressed, and his eyes showed signs of worry."

"I hardly dare ask you, Mr. Markham," he said diffidently, after he had ordered a ginger ale, "but how do my chances stand now of being called as a witness?"

"That late is certainly no nearer than when I last saw you," Markham replied. "In fact, nothing has happened to change the situation materially."

"And the man you had under suspicion?"

"He's still under suspicion, but no arrest has been made. We're hoping, however, that something will break before long."

"And I suppose you still want me to remain in the city?"

"If you can arrange it—yes." Spotswode was silent for a time; then he said: "I don't want to appear to shirk any responsibility—and perhaps it may seem wholly selfish, for me even to suggest it—but, in any event, wouldn't the testimony of the telephone operator as to the hour of Miss Odell's return and her calls for help be sufficient to establish the facts, without my corroborations?"

"I have thought of that, of course and if it is at all possible to prepare the case for the prosecution without summoning you to appear, I assure you it will be done. At the moment, I can see no necessity of your being called as a witness. But one never knows what may turn up. If the defense hinges on a question of exact time, and the operator's testimony is questioned or disqualified for any reason, you may be required to come forward. Otherwise not."

Spotswode sipped his ginger ale. A little of his depression seemed to have departed.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

THE STORY THUS FAR

The jewel case in the apartment of the murdered Margaret Odell had been opened with a steel chisel after a futile battering with a poker. This leads Vance to the theory that Steel did not commit the murder, even though his finger-prints were found, but was "helped" in the "chisel" deed while the "girl" was strangled by someone else. Vance traces a picture to Alys La Fosse, who informs him that Louis Marnix was in her apartment from ten-thirty of the evening of the murder until two in the morning. Vance also learns something that makes him question Cleaver's alibi.

CHAPTER XXIX

"What about the summons for speeding?" Markham asked.

"That's for you to explain," said Vance. "But if you'll take my advice you'll send for this Boonton ratchpole, and let him have a look at Pop. If he says Cleaver is the man he ticketed, I'll humbly do away with myself."

"Well! That makes it worth trying. I'll have the officer at the Stuyvesant Club this afternoon, and I'll point out Cleaver to him. . . . What other staggering revelations have you in store?"

"Marnix will bear looking into." Markham put down his knife and fork and leaned back.

"I've overcome! Such Himalayan sagacity! With that evidence against him, he should be arrested at once. . . . Vance, my dear old friend, are you feeling quite normal? No dizzy spells lately? No shooting pains in the head? Knee-jerks all right?"

"Furthermore, Doctor Lindquist was widely infatuated with the Canary and insanely jealous. Recently threatened to take a pistol and hold a little program of his own."

"That's better," Markham set up. "Where did you get this information?"

"Oh! That's my secret." Markham was annoyed.

"Why so mysterious?"

"Needs must, old chap. Gave my word, and all that sort of thing. And I'm a bit quixotic, don't you know—too much Cervantes in my youth." He spoke lightly, but Markham knew him too well to push the question.

In less than five minutes after we had returned to the district attorney's office Heath came in.

"I got something else on Marnix, sir, though you might want to add it to the report I turned in yesterday. Burke secured a picture of him, and showed it to the phone operators at Odell's house. Both of 'em recognized it. He's been there several times, but it wasn't the Canary he called on. It was the woman in Apartment 2. She's named Frisbee, and used to be one of Marnix's fur models. He's been to see her several times during the past six months and has taken her out once or twice, but he hasn't called on her for a month or more. . . . Any good?"

"Can't tell," Markham shot Vance an inquisitive look. "But thanks for the information, Sergeant."

"By the bye," said Vance dulcetly, when Heath had left us. "I'm feeling top-hole. No pains in the head, no dizzy spells. Knee-jerks perfect."

"Delighted. Still, I can't charge a man with murder because he calls on his fur model." "You're so hasty! Why should you charge him with murder?" Vance rose and yawned. "Come Van, I'd rather like to gaze on Perneb's tomb at the Metropolitan this afternoon. Could you bear it?"

At the door he paused. "I say, Markham, what about the Boonton balliff?"

Markham rang for Swacker. "I'll see to it at once. Drop in at the club at five, if you feel like it. I'll have the officer there, as Cleaver is sure to come in before dinner."

When Vance and I returned to the club late that afternoon, Markham was stationed in the lounge-
