Tuning Up

Bill Thomason, left, and B. F. Logan are getting ready for the old Fiddler's Contest, one of the features of the annual Old Settler's Reunion for Howard and Glasscock Counties. Several hundred were participating in the program this morning.

Cool Wind, Hot Fiddlin' Mark Old Settlers Meeting

By KAY LOVELAND

With a brisk south wind blowing to reduce the heat of a bright sun and old-time fiddlin' music filling the air from the loud speaker at the newly constructed pavilion in City Park, several hundred "old settlers" from Howard and Glasscock counties congregated today for the 37th annual reunion.

Jess Slaughter, president of the reunion, estimated that at 11:30 today 600 to 700 long-time residents had already gathered at the enlarged pavilion, and he was expecting upwards of 1,500 people to register by 1 p.m.

Cooks were busy preparing 2,000 pounds of beef and 300 pounds of goat as well as large kettles of "son-of-a-gun soup" for the crowd.

Hundreds already registered milled through the crowd greeting old friends, clasping hands and slapping backs, while others found seats on benches, chairs and stools in the shade of the pavilion or spread their blankets under the green boughs of trees in the surrounding area.

With registration continuing, it was not possible to tell who would be named the oldest old-timer present. W. M. Spears, 86, a retired farmer at Coahoma was sure to be among the older settlers. He came to Howard County in 1890 and has lived on the same farm for 71 years while raising 11 children. Among others who arrived in Howard or Glasscock counties before the turn of the century were E. R. Allen, 1891; Alvin Bates, 1898; W. E. Carnrike, 1899; Grover Coates, 1899.

Not only were the young-in-heart present, however, but a sizeable flock of the young-in-years were also on hand. Youngsters in the bottle stage rested quietly in mothers' arms, paying little attention to the activity around them. Those a little older, peeked curiously at many of the oldsters in their straw Stetsons and cowboy boots or gathered in one corner of the pavilion to listen to practice sessions for the old fiddlers' contest. Many of them carried cotton candy with them as they investigated their surroundings.

After the barbecue at noon the fiddlers' contest was set for 2 p.m. Once the contest concludes, dancing will begin on the pavilion for those ready to trip the light fantastic — and many seemed ready to start early this morning —while other groups will probably gather to talk over old times and events since they last met. At 8 p.m. this evening, the regularly scheduled dance will climax the events of the day.

This year all events were held in the park due to the enlarged facilities, in contrast to previous years when the dance has been held elsewhere.

The association depends to a large extent on donations to finance the annual reunion. This year, according to Joe Hayden, finance committee chairman, donations were a little slower coming in than in other years.

Donations which were received just ahead of the reunion and which have not been acknowledged include:

E. W. Lomax, $20; H. H. Hurt, $10; Toby's Drive-In, $7.50; Freddie Watts and Ed R. Allen, $2 each; Mr. and Mrs. Dee Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Crenshaw, W. T. Wise, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Jones, Earl Reid, Coahoma, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Buckner, Clayton Bates, Alvin Bates and Mr. and Mrs. Nat Shick, $5 donations each.

Rusk Expects Cuban Reply On Airliner

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk expects a reply from Cuba today or Saturday to the U.S. request for return of the Eastern Air Lines plane which was hijacked and flown to Havana with its passengers and crew last Monday.

All aboard the aircraft have been returned to the United States except the hijacker. He took refuge with the Castro government.

Rusk told a news conference Thursday that the request for return of the plane had been made to the government at Havana through the Swiss Embassy, Switzerland being the nation which has represented U.S. interests in Cuba since this country broke relations last January.

Rusk said he was aware of news dispatches from Cuba quoting Prime Minister Fidel Castro as saying that he would return the stolen aircraft only if the U.S. government "promises from now on to return every plane hijacked from Cuba."

To this Rusk replied that in the United States the executive branch of the government cannot interfere with judicial procedures when a Cuban plane has been attached by court order in a case involving a claim for payment by an American citizen of debts owed by Cuba.

What the State Department can do, however, is notify the court in which a case is pending of a claim made by Cuba that the aircraft in dispute comes under "sovereign immunity" because it is owned by the Cuban government. In such a case the court may rule that the airplane is not subject to sale for settlement of any debt.

Rusk said that 25 Cuban aircraft have been involved in such cases since 1959. He said that 18 of those were hijacked and seven others were seized by the authorities here under court order. Of the 25, he said, 14 have been returned to Cuba while some others have been sold under orders of the court.

Draft Board Gets Reaction

LAMESA (SC)—Reaction to the Berlin crisis has been greater in Dawson County than it was when the Korean conflict started, according to activity at the Selective Service System office here.

Mrs. L. F. Petty, manager of the office which serves Dawson, Borden and Gaines counties, indicated that many inquiries have been directed to the board regarding draft status since a defense buildup was asked by President John F. Kennedy.

Most of the persons who have called at the local office were of 1-A status or reservists and many wanted to correct existing records, such as listing new children since their last visit to the draft board.

Mrs. Petty expects the draft call for the three-county area to be increased. The local office has notification to call five times as many for physical examinations. Currently 20 are set for physicals and three for induction.

More Road Money Due

Howard County is scheduled to receive $27,162.41 from the state for use on its lateral road program. This is slightly more than was received from the state last year for this fund. The allocation in 1960 was $25,884.41.

The Howard County Commissioners Court Friday received a letter advising them that the money was to be allocated, subject to legislative appropriation, and that a motion was needed by the board to clear the way for the transmission of the funds to the county. The motion was made and adopted and copies dispatched to the state.

Police Force Loses Patrolman

The Big Spring Police Department will be losing two patrolmen soon, one permanently and the other for a two-week tour with the U. S. Air Force.

Larry W. Gorum, 507 Runnels, has resigned effective Aug. 10, 1961. He will be returning to Louisiana to work. The 23-year-old patrolman was born at Glenmora, La. He is a member of the Masonic Lodge.

J. B. Hall, Coahoma, will leave for two weeks of active duty with the Air Force Reserve beginning July 31. He joined the police Oct. 29, 1957 and is now with the radio patrol.

Nolan Bonds

SWEETWATER (AP) — Nolan County taxpayers are to vote Aug. 19 on two $375,000 bond issues for improvements at Simmons Memorial Hospital.

House Approves Water Board Bill

PSYCHOLOGY IN POLITICS

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Somebody has been putting "For Sale" signs on the lawn at 2900 Grand Ave. in Des Moines. That's the governor's mansion.

Custodian C. E. Carey complained to police about it, and said that in about a week he had removed several such signs, including one which said: "Sinner Repent."

Powell Asks AF To Oust Texas Officer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Adam C. Powell, D-N.Y., a Negro, Thursday demanded removal of a personnel officer in National Guard headquarters on the ground he discriminates against Negroes.

Powell made the demand at a news conference. He said he is asking dismissal of the officer, Maj. Herman R. Haygood, a regular Air Force officer from Texas; from the National Guard set-up. Haygood is a former Big Spring resident.

Among other things, Powell said, Haygood is said to have compared a Negro subordinate to an orangutan, a type of ape.

Powell also urged prompt action to end what he called "the atrocious, disgraceful situation in the National Guard, where there is a not one Negro officer in the headquarters bureau."

The charge against Haygood was based on an investigation conducted at Powell's request by James E. Brannigan, an investigator of the Education and Labor Committee, which Powell leads.

Brannigan said James A. Colbert Jr., chief of the publications and supply section of the guard's personnel bureau under Haygood's predecessor, had been downgraded, reprimanded and assigned laboring tasks since the arrival of Haygood as chief three years ago.

Senate Okays Spottswood

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite spirited Southern opposition, the Senate has approved appointment of a Negro integrationist to the Commission on Civil Rights.

The Negro, Spottswood W. Robinson III, won confirmation in the Senate Thursday on a 73-17 roll call vote. Robinson is dean of the Howard University Law School here. He has represented the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in civil rights litigation.

Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., said that appointing Robinson "is like taking a man out of the counsel's box and putting him in the judge's seat."

The Senate also confirmed, by voice vote, two other nominations by President Kennedy—Irwin N. Griswold, dean of the Harvard Law School, as a commission member, and Berl I. Bernhard as staff director.

The commission investigates reports of civil rights violations. It has no police or judicial powers, but makes periodic reports to the President and Congress.

Besides opposing Robinson's nomination, several Southerners demanded that the commission, which meets only on call, be abolished.

The commission, created in 1957, will die Nov. 8 unless its life is extended. Legislation to keep it going has been introduced but is tied up in a Senate Judiciary subcommittee headed by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C.

Jeff Chandler Will Is Probated

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The will of screen actor Jeff Chandler, leaving a gross estate of $600,000 in trust for two daughters, has been admitted to probate.

Superior Court Judge Clarke E. Stephens admitted the document Thursday. It was signed June 9, 1959. The daughters, Jamie, 14, and Dana, 11, were born to him and his former wife, Marjorie Hoschelle Chandler, an actress.

The actor died June 17. He was 48.

CRMWD Bill Meets With No Opponents

AUSTIN—Rep. David Read of Big Spring presented his bill to broaden the powers of the Colorado River Municipal Water District to the House Conservation and Reclamation Committee Thursday and met with no opposition.

The bill went to a subcommittee with an indication of speedy action.

Rep. Read said the proposal would allow the district to make rules regarding disposal of salt water in the Colorado River watershed above Coke County and to gather and sell salt water for oilfield repressuring.

Rep. Renal Rosson of Snyder also got two bills sent to a subcommittee.

Rep. Rosson explained his bills to be a validating act for the District and one to amend formation of the water district powers giving it authority to annex new areas.

Sens. Fran Owen of El Paso and David Ratliff of Stamford are handling the Colorado River Municipal Water District bill in the Senate. It has already been voted out of Senate committee and awaits floor action.

County Looks At New Budget

Howard County Commissioners Court and Lee Porter, county auditor, Thursday afternoon took their first look at the initial draft of the county's budget for 1962.

The first talks were strictly informal. None of the figures suggested are frozen and all are subject to revision.

Tentatively, Porter suggested that the tax levy be changed slightly to provide for additional money in the jury fund and slightly less in the general fund.

It is probable that the tax levy total for the ensuing year will be $1.07, instead of $1.02 as it was this year.

The additional five cents is made necessary to provide for the retirement of the recently approved road bond issue of the current year.

Numerous sessions on the budget are in sight between now and early September, when final hearings are to be held.

Injured Dallas Woman Dies

DALLAS (AP)—An East Dallas woman died Thursday night 10 hours after she was brought unconscious to a hospital with head injuries.

Peace Justice W. E. Richburg ordered an autopsy to fix the cause of death of Mrs. Evelyn C. Cox, 42. Police said a man brought Mrs. Cox to the hospital and told them she had bumped her head Wednesday night on the dash board of a braking auto.

Re-Organization Changes Name

AUSTIN (AP) — The House passed 108-2 and sent to the Senate today a bill reorganizing the Board of Water Engineers and changing its name to the Texas Water Commission.

The state's tax troubles were being mulled over by five senators.

The water board reorganization bill separates the purely engineering tasks from such quasi-judicial jobs as granting water rights. It gives the chief engineer power to administer all technical programs and to act as commission executive.

Rep. Franklin Spears of San Antonio, the author, said the reorganization is along lines recommended by the governor's coordinating water committee. He said it makes no substantial changes in operating rules, but merely writes them into the statute books so they cannot be changed at the whim of future boards.

House members passed on voice vote a bill underwriting five days of paid sick leave for teachers in school districts having no sick leave program. The program would begin Sept. 1, 1963, with the state paying $1.6 million of the $2 million annual cost.

Spears, the author also of this bill, said in districts without paid sick leave a teacher must pay a substitute out of her own pocket to take over his classes.

Other legislation on the House calendar includes a bill giving Latin American students lower tuition at state schools.

The five senators hashing over the state's revenue problems are the subcommittee named by Sen. Wardlow Lane to study the House-passed tax bill. They are to report back to the full Senate State Affairs Committee—probably after making drastic changes in the measure.

"I'm referring it to the same subcommittee (as in the regular session) for them to bring back as early as possible," Lane said at the close of the committee's second full afternoon of hearings.

Along with the bill the subcommittee was given a proposed substitute embodying the governor's tax program.

As when the House sent over its tax bills of the regular session, Lane named himself and Sens. Dorsey Hardeman, Bruce Reagan, Tom Creighton and Jep Fuller as his tax writing subcommittee.

NOT THE SAME

The bill is not expected to look anywhere near the same when it comes back to the full committee. Many legislators believe Lane will propose, and the Senate pass, roughly the same tax bill as senators approved in the regular session. This the House rejected by a 72-72 tie vote.

The House tax committee was expected to approve today three bills enacting economy measures to make up the difference between proposed new spending and the new money needed to finance it.

As orignally drawn by Rep. Charles Ballman, the bills would make about $97 million available for spending in the next two years. He said the measures probably would be pared down by the committee.

Ballman said the aim of the tax committee is to save about $50 million through economy measures that can be passed quickly to the Senate to fill the tax bill gap.

LOBBY ISSUE

House State Affairs Committee action placed on the House calendar a controversial bill aimed at tighter restrictions on lobbying.

The measure (HB 21) requires lobbyists to make monthly spending reports during sessions of the Legislature and twice yearly reports when the lawmakers are out of session. The reports would include detailed accounts of items of $25 or more. Legislators receiving retainers also would have to report the names of persons and groups paying the retainers.

The House Education Committee favorably reported for debate a bill changing the law on creating kindergartens in public schools. Present law requires a petition of 25 persons with children under school age. The bill approved Thursday (HB 56) would authorize a school board, upon petition of 5 per cent of the qualified voters in a school district, to call an election to determine whether a kindergarten should be established.

REVENUE

The tax bill before the Senate sub-group is estimated to produce from $254 million to $328 million, mostly from a 2 per cent sales tax on construction materials, utility sales, power and motor driven objects, restaurant meals and items of $5 or more.

A long line of witnesses blasted the bill in testimony before the Senate State Affairs Committee. Most of the opposition was aimed at two articles of the bill: The tax on dedicated gas reserves and the sales tax.

E. H. Foster, attorney for Phillips Petroleum Co., said he believed the gas tax provision unconstitutional, "and therefore won't raise a single cent for the state."

A Sears Roebuck Co. representative, Allan Griswood of Dallas, said the $5 exemption in the sales tax would make it hard for department stores to collect.

David Lack of Victoria, representing Lack Stores, said the $5 exemption would not save consumers any money because stores would have to increase the price of goods to cover costs of collecting the tax.

Traffic Light Hit, No Damage

A traffic light at Fifth and Gregg was not damaged when it was struck at 4:35 a.m. today by a truck loaded with hay, according to Roy Rogan, city electrician.

"The cable was twisted and lower than it should be, but the light was not hurt," he said.

It was repaired and put at the proper height.

U.S. Holding Wide Reserves Of Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy administration was reported today to be holding in reserve a wide range of military and diplomatic actions which may be taken by the United States and its European allies as the Berlin crisis develops.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk will try in Paris next week to get firm agreements with allied foreign ministers on a succession of steps designed in part, at least, to give the Western powers some initiative in dealing with the Soviet Union on the Berlin problem.

The foreign ministers meeting involving the United States, Britain, France and West Germany begins Aug. 5. It may lead to a Western summit conference of President Kennedy, French President Charles de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

TO SUMMIT

Ultimately if East-West negotiations over Berlin produce any progress toward ending the crisis, diplomatic exchanges could lead to a summit conference with Soviet Premier Khrushchev. At the present, however, that is more a possibility in the background of official thinking than a serious long-range prospect.

Administration informants said Kennedy's Berlin action program laid before the nation Tuesday night was only a starter. They said that what Kennedy and Rusk contemplate is a series of steps which will be put into effect as the maneuvering between the Western powers and the Soviet Union over the future of Berlin takes its shape in coming months.

Possible future moves on the military side include sending reinforcements to NATO defenses in Europe and speeding up the mobilization of U.S. strength if circumstances seem to require.

PROPOSALS

On the diplomatic side, concern in the State Department and the White House now is centered on the development of specific proposals which the Western powers can make to the Soviet Union for a way out of the Berlin crisis.

Rusk refused at a news conference Thursday to give any indication of what form these proposals might take. But in reply to a series of questions he would not rule out any possibility. The questions raised such matters as removing "irritants" to the Soviet Union in the operations of the Western powers in West Berlin.

Rusk declined to specify even what "irritants" the West might be willing to negotiate with the Soviet Union. In the past, however, the Western powers have expressed willingness to curtail propaganda activities in Berlin, to put a ceiling on Western troop strength in West Berlin (it is around 11,000 men) and to give assurance that the troops would not be provided with atomic weapons. The Soviet Union has shown little interest in such proposed concessions.

Rusk told his news conference: "We expect that negotiations will in fact at some stage take place and that we and our allies will try on our side to find opportunities for a peaceful adjustment of the situation which could be very dangerous."

If the Soviets are concerned about the rearmament of Western Germany, he said, the fact is that this rearmament has taken place in Germany as a part of the Western community. And the attitude of the Western community and of Western Germany "is not to provoke a war over matters which can be settled by peaceful means."

Rusk said he was "very much encouraged" by the response that has been received from allied governments since Kennedy's program was put before them.

He added: "We believe that NATO can and will act with unity and with increased strength in this situation."

Sam Anderson Given 1-Year School Contract

Sam M. Anderson was given a one year contract Thursday evening as superintendent of the Big Spring Independent School District. With the contract, trustees agreed by a 3-2 vote to pay him $13,500 plus any raise approved by the Legislature during the special session. He will not be an active candidate for the post for a longer period.

The action came after the board had considered a dozen other proposals and made several other offers. Although the meeting stretched over nine hours and Anderson's status in the system took up most of the time, trustees were actually in agreement on most points.

The six members (Dan Krausse was out of town on business) were agreed that other applicants should be considered for the job, but disagreed on when applications should be requested.

One group, including Harold Talbot, Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper, and O. S. Womack, favored a one year contract for Anderson with a review in January or February regarding his continued employment as superintendent. Trustees normally consider contracts in February and a new decision regarding other applicants would be made at that time.

This is similar to what was finally agreed upon, with the exception that applications will be accepted starting today and Anderson is not an active candidate.

The other side, including Johnnie Johnson and Wendal Parks, wanted to begin receiving applications immediately with Anderson retained as "interim superintendent" until a permanent appointment is made. They pointed out that Anderson would be a prime candidate.

All 12 motions involved some part of each of these opposing views. A few motions failed to get a second; some ended in a 3-3 tie when Clyde McMahon, president, cast his vote with one side or the other; and Anderson turned down two offers that listed $12,000 and $11,524 as the salary.

The final agreement tracked an alternative proposal suggested by Anderson when the trustees appeared hopelessly deadlocked about 1:30 a.m. today.

Prior to the open discussion, McMahon told the trustees that some 10 applicants had sent in letters asking consideration for the job. He said several applicants had visited him and that he had numerous telephone calls from teachers and local residents boosting Anderson's candidacy.

Other trustees said they had similar contacts and calls. McMahon also read a letter from Krausse who asked that his proxy vote be cast favoring a one year contract, if this matter was proposed. The proxy was not used.

The final agreement does not rule out Anderson as permanent superintendent, but he will not be actively seeking it. Trustees may still decide in his favor, after interviewing various applicants. Otherwise, Anderson will revert to assistant superintendent-curriculum at his previous salary, when the one year contract is up next June 30.

The superintendent's post became open when Floyd W. Parsons accepted a similar position in Little Rock, Ark. He takes up his new job about Aug. 15, but has been retained by the local district in an advisory position at a teacher's salary until Feb. 1.

Bath Tub Slaughter Case Results In Theft Charges

The bath tub in a tourist motel cabin was utilized as a make-shift slaughter house to dress and prepare a stolen hog, two stolen turkeys and two stolen chickens last Sunday, according to county officers.

They said that charges of stealing a hog have been filed against Herbert A. Moore, 43, and that two other men who had a part in the episode have been questioned. No charges have been filed against these men, according to Bobby West, investigator for the district attorney.

According to Fern Cox, deputy sheriff, the pig, turkeys and hens were stolen from the farm of W. D. Placker, near the Cabot Carbon Black plant.

The pig was killed at the scene of the theft, hauled to the tourist court, dumped into the bath tub and slaughtered. The same process was used on the poultry.

Officers discovered the theft and the development before they could establish owner of the loot.

West pointed out that the state law makes theft of a pig punishable by imprisonment up to 10 years and theft of a turkey or chickens carries a penalty of up to three years.

Library Work

A $12,300 grant for work on the library at Webb AFB will be available Jan. 1, 1962, base officials have announced. The money comes from the base non-appropriated welfare funds. The library will be completely renovated, with new, flexible shelving, acoustical ceiling, and other structural changes.

Gagarin In Havana

Yuri Gagarin smilingly chats with Raul Castro, Fidel's younger brother and minister of the armed forces, during a reception by President Osvaldo Dorticos in Havana, honoring the Russian spaceman. Gagarin came to Havana to attend the July 26 celebrations.

Admen Deny Portrait In Popular Fiction

NEW YORK (AP)—Are advertising men lecherous, treacherous, bawdy villains—ingrates who sip martinis with shapely blondes while the supper grows cold on the family stove over in suburbia?

"No, no, no," the man in the gry flannel suit screams back. "If you think so you've been reading too many novels. We love our wives."

Madison Avenue made known its feeling in an article called "Do Ad Men Make Good Mates?" in the trade organ "Printers' Ink."

The article said 90 per cent of 383 advertising men surveyed felt their marriages were happy.

So modest were the replies, in fact, that only 10 per cent claimed they were excellent husbands. More than 70 per cent said they were good mates and 18 per cent called themselves fair partners.

More significant, perhaps, was the 31 per cent who indicated wistfully that they would like to be better mates.

A large number found their wives, warm and considerate.

"My wife is afraid that job demands, such as customer entertainment, are likely to make me an alcoholic."

One member of what may very well be one of the world's most self-analytic businesses hinted maybe his own mate took those stories about advertising men too literally.

He reported he and his wife had a problem over her "suspicions of infidelity associated with travel and job hours."

Then really getting down to the heart of the matter—really running up the flag and saluting, so to speak—one adman confessed maybe things weren't all good, good, good for ad wives.

"We tend to marry more intelligent, better-educated women, confine them to a suburban Alcatraz to a life of penal servitude and then wonder why they are not deliriously happy."

Ex-Con Who Aided State Killed In Gangland Style

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—An ex-convict who testified against three men convicted of a bizarre burglary was killed in gangland style Thursday by an explosion which ripped through his auto when he turned on the ignition.

Police later questioned and today released two of the convicted men and a shapely woman night-club owner awaiting trial.

Police Capt. David Brown said Lillian Reis, 33, owner of the Celebrity Room, Ralph Staino Jr. 27, and John C. Berkery, 30, were questioned and released after accounting for all of their activities Thursday and Wednesday night.

The three voluntarily surrendered for questioning Thursday night some six hours after ex-convict Richard Blaney was killed outside his home on his 27th birthday when his automobile was ripped by an explosion as he turned on the ignition. Last August, Richard's brother, Vincent, 27, who had been expected to be a prosecution witness in the burglary case, was slain in gangland-style.

Brown said Mrs. Reis, an attractive divorcee who at one time danced in chorus lines, Staino, who at one time managed her night club, and Berkery denied any connection with the slaying of Richard Blaney.

Police Thursday night were trying to find for questioning Robert H. Poulson, 25, a third man convicted in the burglary in Pottsville, in northeastern Pennsylvania, which authorities claim netted nearly a half million dollars in cash. John Rich, a wealthy coal operator whose home was burglarized, has maintained only $20,000 in cash and jewelry was taken.

Immediately after the explosion Thursday police questioned Richard Blaney's wife, Joanna, 24, and residents of the neighborhood. Police said they shed little light on the slaying.

Fallout Shelter Legality Mulled

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Is it illegal to build bomb or fallout shelters in Louisville or Jefferson County?

Planning and zoning chief Charles Walte told radio station WHAS he doesn't know if bomb shelters are legal, because there is no provision for them in present planning and zoning regulations.

The Jefferson County Planning and Zoning Commission will consider the problem at a meeting Monday morning.

Baptists Schedule Revival Next Week

A week-long revival at East Fourth Baptist Church will begin Monday morning at 10 a.m. Conducting the revival will bt Dr. John P. Newport, professor of Philosophy of Religion at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth.

Dr. Newport, who was born in Missouri in 1917, holds the Bachelor of Arts degree from William Jewell College, Mo., the Master of Theology and the Doctor of Theology degrees from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., and the Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Edinburgh, Scotland.

In addition, he has studied at the Universities of Basel and Zurich in Switzerland, Tulane University, Union Theological Seminary in New York City, Columbia University and the University of Tulsa. During 1956-59 he was a post-doctoral visiting scholar at Harvard University under a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation.

He has been minister of churches in Kentucky, Mississippi, and Tulsa, Okla., as well as professor and Director of Graduate Studies in Religion at Baylor University, and associate professor of New Testament and Philosophy of Religion at New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary.

During the summer of 1955, Dr. Newport conducted a group of 31 people on a study trip to Egypt, Lebanon, Syria, Jordan, Israel, Greece and Western Europe.

DR. JOHN P. NEWPORT

The father of two sons and a daughter, he has spoken to youth and college groups in most of the southern and southwestern states, and was field work director for Boston University School of Theology in 1958-59.

A special feature of the evangelistic services here will be the observance of Sunday school at night. At 7:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday all departments of the Sunday school will meet before going to the auditorium for the evening service, which begins at 7:50 p.m.

A guest supper on Friday evening will be an added feature. It will precede the evening service.

For those wishing to remain after services each evening, Dr. Newport will show a series of slides. They are entitled, "John the Baptist and the Dead Sea Scrolls;" "The Birth and Early Life of Christ;" "The Later Ministry and Crucifixion of Christ;" "The Resurrection and Ascension of Christ;" "The New Testament Church Through the Ages;" "Paul's Early Life and Conversion;" "The Missionary Journey of Paul;" "Paul's Last Journey and Challenge."

Services will be held daily at 10 a.m. and 8 p.m.

Dr. A. G. JEFFERSON

BISHOP IVAN L. HOLT

Methodists Plan Laymen's Retreat Aug. 4 In Canyon

A Methodist laymen's retreat will be held at Ceta Canyon Methodist Camp near Canyon, Aug. 4-6. About 600 men are expected to attend.

Program leaders will include Bishop Ivan Lee Holt, St. Louis, Mo.; Dr. A. G. Jefferson, Lynchburg, Va.; Dr. Marvin L. Boyd, Lubbock; Rev. Ross T. Welch, Devine; and Oliver Bush, McMurry College.

Bishop Holt has been a Bishop in the Methodist Church since 1938. He served several Methodist churches as pastor, and has served as president of the Council of Bishops, president of the World Methodist Council, president of the Federal Council of Churches, and as supervising Bishop of Methodist work in South America.

Dr. Jefferson is the lay leader of the Virginia Conference and a member of the General Board of Lay Activities. He is a delegate to the General Conference, a leader in his own Official Board, and the teacher of a Men's Bible Class. He is a Director of the National Guild of Prescription Opticians, and "Man of the Year" in 1955-1956.

Rev. Welch is pastor of First Methodist Church at Devine. He is a native Texan, has served as Chaplain in the U. S. Navy, school teacher, past CROP chairman and member of the State Executive Committee since 1952.

Bush is manager of the Book Store at McMurry College. He has been a song leader at laymen's retreats since 1949.

The program begins Friday afternoon, Aug. 4, with registration, and ends Sunday noon, Aug. 6. The first meal will be served Friday evening. No preregistration is necessary.

INHERITED SIN?

By T. H. Tarbet, preacher
Church of Christ, West Highway 80
P.O. Box 1385.

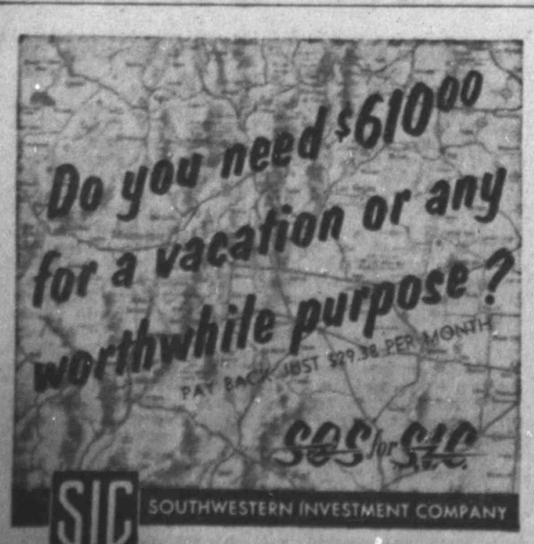

Many creed books assert that all are born sinners because they are of Adam's race. The Bible nowhere declares this. Not in Psalms 51:5 (which speaks of the mother doing something in sin; not the child). Not in Rom. 5:12 (which states that the reason death passed upon all men, is all have sinned). Nowhere does the Bible teach that babies and small children are guilty of Adam's sin, or of any sin.

Rather the Scriptures say that the kingdom of heaven is made up of people who are like little children. "But Jesus said, Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven" (Mat. 19:14).

Don't be afraid that some little child may have died a sinner and thus been lost.

Not being lost, Infants and small children do not need baptism. Write us for free tract on "Why Infant Baptism". No obligation to you.

Plan to be with us Sunday. Attend the adult Bible class while your children are in their classes at 9:30 a.m. Worship is 10:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. —Adv.

Adair Family

The Rev. Marcus Adair of Canyon will conduct a revival next week at the Apostolic Faith Chapel, beginning Sunday. Services nightly will begin at 7:30 p.m. Subjects include religion's failure, Daniel's image, and the destiny of Russia. These sermons will be grouped around the revival theme, "The Return of Christ." Rev. Adair has been active in church work since 1937 and has visited 38 foreign countries. He is currently working on a church project to build a student center for religious education at West Texas State College.

'Flying Tricycle'

This is the agriculture gyroplane research vehicle, dubbed the flying tricycle, during a demonstration at Bedwordshire, England. The craft is aimed toward an economical crop-spraying service for small acreage farming. It can fly at 45 miles an hour as low as 18 inches over the ground while spray flows from either side of the craft.

A Blonde Named Marcia? Why, She's A Space Expert

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Guess who's worried about solar winds? A blonde named Marcia, that's who.

Ranger I—an unmanned space explorer—is poised to blast off from Cape Canaveral.

One of the instrument assemblies aboard is called an electrostatic analyzer. One of its jobs is to prob solar winds.

That's where Marcia Neugebauer comes in.

"I'm a co-experimenter with the electrostatic analyzer," says Marcia, 28. She looks like a well-scrubbed, freckle-faced college freshman. But she's a senior scientist who is among the key personnel responsible for Ranger's cor achinery.

Marcia works at the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory here. She is in charge of coordinating the various experiments being performed by instruments on Ranger.

"I'm the only one that worries about the scientific aspects all together," she said.

She said it's up to her division —the division of the space sciences at JPL — to determine where the scientific instruments are placed in the spacecraft and how often a reading is taken from each.

Marcia received a bachelor of arts degree in physics from Cornell University in 1954 and master of science degree, also in physics, from the University of Illinois two years later.

She is married to Dr. Gerry Neugebauer, 28, JPL project scientist for Mariner B, a proposed 1964 unmanned expedition to Mars. The couple, who met at Cornell and have been married for five years, live in Altadena.

Marcia said she and her husband do not work on the same projects.

"They try to keep us separated; it's a matter of policy," she said.

There are only seven other women scientists or engineers working among the 852 men at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

Honest Citizen Sends In Nickels

HOUSTON (AP)—The City of Houston is $1.15 richer today because a man felt parking meters should not pay dividends.

New York Man Dies In Mishap

BEAUMONT (AP) — Irving Schultz of New York City died in a Beaumont hospital Thursday shortly after his car plunged into a drainage ditch.

His wife, Helen, and their daughter, Lenore, 17, suffered serious head injuries. The accident happened on the Fannett highway five miles west of Beaumont.

Cuban Key Word Today Has To Do With Fats

By JACK BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HAVANA (AP)—The key word in Cuba today is "manteca." Translated from the Spanish it means lard, or fats.

Manteca—or lack of it — has presented Fidel Castro's revolutionary regime with a sticky problem. For the first time in its 2½-year history, the regime has had to impose rationing.

Families are restricted to one pound of lard and one pound of cooking oil monthly for each person above the age of one year. This is going to hurt. Cubans normally consume an extraordinarily large amount of fat.

The government places the blame on "American economic aggression" for the present embarrassing situation, claiming the United States is maintaining an unannounced embargo against exports of lard to Cuba. The United States has traditionally been the sole supplier of Cuba, selling this country 98,000 tons a year.

Shipments of lard from the United States have ceased or practically ceased. Some, however, suspect that Cuba's dollar shortage may have as much to do with this as any real or imagined embargo.

Shortages have been cropping up all over the place in Cuba in the last several months, as the U.S. embargo on most exports sinks in. But none has caused such consternation as the lard shortage.

Cuban people like their food fried, so they use a lot of fat—many times the one pound monthly now to be alloted. They also like to douse certain foods, for instance rice and salads, with vegetable oil.

The government says the shortage will be over in 18 months. It is feverishly building up the country's pig stocks, mostly by imports from Canada.

U.S. Issues Ethical Code

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has issued a code of conduct for government employes from Cabinet officers down. It forbids them to use their jobs for private gain.

The code, ratified by the Civil Service Commission and released Wednesday, follows up President Kennedy's April 27 message to Congress in which he asked for a streamlining of conflict of interest laws.

The code prohibits gifts, payments and loans to federal civilian employes where "a reasonable question of conflict with his public duties and responsibilities" is raised.

This conflict, says the code, "is of concern whether it is real or only apparent."

Under the code, a government worker may not engage in teaching, lecturing, writing or any other outside employment "which might reasonably result in a conflict of interest, or an apparent conflict of interest."

Also banned are gifts, favors, or gratuities, which could affect an employe's impartiality.

The code does not prohibit government workers from holding outside jobs—in fact, teaching, writing and lecturing are to be encouraged—as long as the work does not adversely affect government duties or reflect discredit on the government.

Nudist Tells Why He Doffs Clothes

SYCAMORE HOLLOW, Kan. (AP)—Paul Arnold and his wife are stopping at Sycamore Hollow on their vacation because they find it comfortable and relaxing to go without clothes and enjoy renewing acquaintances with old friends who do.

"We also think it's a wholesome and healthy way to bring up children," said Arnold, 30, a graduate student from Lansing, Mich.

"Since nudism became an organized activity in this country around 1920 or 1930, there hasn't been a case of sexual delinquency among us. The divorce rates are significantly lower, too."

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold and their 2-year-old son are at the annual convention of the Midwest Sunbathing Association. They will be at San Bernardino, Calif., next week for the national convention and plan to visit Berkeley, where he was born and reared.

At Sycamore Hollow they put up a tent, set up a camp stove, stowed groceries in an ice chest and plunged into the business of registering delegates — Mrs. Arnold is secretary-treasurer of the association and he is a director.

About 400 persons are at the convention and at least a third of them were tied up Thursday in business sessions — hearing committee reports and wrestling with the $2,000 budget for next year. Most were nude.

Those not in business sessions attended to camp chores, swam in the new pool, hiked or competed in the tennis, volleyball, badminton, table tennis and shuffleboard tournaments.

Thursday night it was cool in Sycamore Hollow and Arnold said "many are fully clothed. We don't make a fetish of nudity."

About 150 delegates are housed in tents, the camp's six cabins are full and the others stay overnight at hotels and motels in and around nearby Lawrence.

"We're a fair cross-section," Arnold said. "A wholesome attitude toward the human body is an important aspect of mental health. The aura of secrecy and excitement surrounding the body disappears in a social group in the nude. A pretty girl is still a pretty girl—but no more so."

Another Man Arrested In Newsom Case

Another of the Negroes allegedly implicated in the theft of $380 from the Newsom Food Store cash register on July 11 is in the Howard County jail. He was returned to Howard County Wednesday by Sheriff Miller Harris who took custody of the man in Waco.

Meantime, the first Negro picked up in connection with the case in El Paso and returned here earlier this month, posted $2,500 appearance bond and $1,000 fugitive bond Thursday and was released from jail.

He is George Curry and officers said he has made verbal statements admitting his own part and the part of his associates in the theft. However, he has refused to make a written statement.

Joe Lewis Taylor, 20, whose home is in Waco was returned here today by Harris He has been charged with theft over $50 —the same charge filed against Curry and two other Negroes. The others are not in custody.

The two Negroes and their companions snatched $380 from the food store cash register after distracting the checker's attention. All fled from the store and drove away in a car.

The Volkswagen is the big one.
We know the Volkswagen Truck is 3 feet shorter than a half-ton.
We also know that it's 1,600 pounds lighter than a half-ton.
But we still say it's bigger because it holds way more: 1,830 pounds compared to 1,000. (And you get 170 usable cubic feet in the VW, too.)
Maybe you've wondered why in the world you need 4,000 pounds of truck to move 1,000 pounds of cargo.
Volkswagen engineers wondered, too.
(They also wondered about the times you had to use the same 4,000 pounds of truck to deliver only 10 pounds of cargo.)
So they built a truck that weighs only about half as much as a half-ton—but carries almost twice as much.
Incredible?
We can hardly get over it ourselves.

A Devotional for Today

Samuel took a stone, and set it between Mizpeh and Shen, and called the name of it Ebenezer, saying, Hitherto hath the Lord helped us. (I Samuel 7:12.)
PRAYER: Heavenly Father, we bring Thee our thanks this day for lives of wonderful men like Samuel. May we always try to be like them in faith, and witness to Thy love for all mankind. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

Admiral Rickover Takes 'Em On

There is the story about a small town pugilist who was such a success that he enlarged his sphere. He advertised the fact that he could lick anybody in the county. He did. Then he advertised the fact that he could lick anybody in the state. He didn't.

"I guess I jest finally bit off more than I could chew," he said, after meeting more than his match.

This may be apropos in the case of Vice Admiral H. G. Rickover. He took on the Navy and overrode opposition to build the first nuclear submarine in record time. He took on the teaching profession of America with sweeping indictments of softness in curriculum content, in discipline, in teacher standards. There are some who contend that he and the teachers fought to a draw.

Recently Rickover suggested that the best thing that could happen to the Navy would be to retire about 20,000 officers, mainly those handling administrative assignments. Now he has suggested that the Air Force's Strategic Air Command be combined with the Navy and the Air Force's space and general missile effort be turned over to the Army. The chorus of outraged Air Force comment is being heard, although Navy admirals and Army generals are likely to cultivate a deep silence punctuated by an occasional wicked smile.

It would be a pity if Rickover has finally bitten off more than he can chew. America needs Rickover and more like him, men who are willing to speak their piece, to point out weaknesses and suggest constructive remedies. But the speaking needs to stay within the sphere of reality.

Making Fitness Enjoyable

America's most noted touch football enthusiast told his press conference last week that he would like to see every school in the country provide "a minimum of 15 minutes of vigorous activity every day" for all students.

This presidential backing for the recommendations of the National Council on Youth Fitness focuses attention on a serious national problem, one that has been exaggeratively titled "the flabby American."

There are, certainly, plenty of examples of physical flab to be found. But these are effect, not cause. Careful analysis should lead investigators to the conclusion that the real remedy lies not in pushing muscles-for-muscles' sake but in reviving youths' mental zest for sport and fitness.

One of the youth fitness council's basic recommendations involves having educators single out the physically "underdeveloped" pupil for special attention. Tests to evaluate progress are urged.

Every teacher knows that students who need sports work the most usually have the greatest distaste for it. In large measure this is due to their feeling that they start from a handicapped position, compared to more practiced athletes. Their ability to find enjoyment in controlling their bodies and developing playing skills is suppressed by this feeling of being athletic dunces.

Schools adopting the new fitness program would do well, therefore, to make sure that their approach is one of measuring the "underdeveloped" student against his own record, not against the class stars. In fact, grades and honors really ought to be given not only to winners but to pupils in a class who show the most improvement over their original capability.

Deadlock Over The School Aid Bill

WASHINGTON— In the dark ages when Henry Wallace was being ridiculed for allegedly proposing to give a quart of milk to every Hottentot, no one could have imagined the present situation. It now seems likely that the massive foreign aid bill with its extended foreign loan provisions will pass the Congress while aid to American education to relieve overcrowded classrooms and underpaid teachers here at home will be throttled.

THERE IS ONE slender chance to save the Administration's $2.5-billion-a-year education bill from strangulation in the House Rules Committee. That is by the procedure known as "calendar Wednesday" under which any bill may be brought up on the floor regardless of its status in committee.

But this is a tricky procedure. The measure so called up must be disposed of in that session of the House and devices for killing time, such as repeated quorum calls, are many and varied. With shrewd strategists like Howard W. Smith chairman of the Rules Committee, and Republican leader Charles Halleck at work, the chances for passage in a session of a few hours are not good.

THE LEADERSHIP does have, however, a carrot which, if it is used with enough resourcefulness, might turn the trick. Wrapped up in the big aid-to-education package, one of three education bills Chairman Smith has bottled up in his committee, is $300 million for "impacted areas." This phrase out of government gobbledygook means those areas where defense installations or heavy defense industrial spending have put an undue burden on local school systems.

Ten years ago, when it was impossible to get a general aid to education bill through the House, this was an out. More than two billion dollars have been appropriated by the "impacted areas" route and 319 Congressional districts benefit from it. That adds up to sizable chunk of votes in the House.

THE LEADERSHIP today must say—and mean it— that if the House blocks or votes down general aid to education, then there will be no aid to impacted areas. The conservatives, who are happy enough to vote year after year for the impacted-area bonus, count on a resigned willingness at the frayed and weary end of the session to see the carrot separated from the stick. So it comes down to the will of the leadership.

John McCormack of Massachusetts, who has been Majority Leader nearly twice as long as any of his predecessors, is indignant at reports printed in this space and widely elsewhere that he may have contributed to the outcome in the Rules Committee. He says he did not at any time try to influence either of the two Rules Committee members, James J. Delaney of New York or Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. of Massachusetts, whose votes, added to those of Republicans and conservative Democrats, comprised the first committee roadblock. It was Delaney's vote that gave Chairman Smith an eight to seven majority for bottling up all education bills.

IN HIS YEARS in the House, having refused opportunities to move to the Senate or to the governorship of his state, McCormack has become intimately familiar with the habits and peculiarities of an institution that jealously resents the implication of an "upper chamber"—the Senate, that is. He now has a singular opportunity to show that the democratic process—majority vote by the members of the House—cannot be thwarted by procedural tactics.

The struggle over aid to education will not come until after the foreign aid bill has been acted on. President Kennedy has done a superb job in lining up support for what he has considered from the start to be the key measure in his whole program. He has personally talked with every member, both Democrat and Republican, of the committees that must approve the bill and the appropriations for it.

THIS IS A striking example of the kind of concentration that the President can bring to bear. Foreign aid with long-term financing is given a much better chance in the House today than anyone would have believed possible a month ago.

Whether when the time comes—and timing is all important—Kennedy can apply the same concentration to the school aid bill is a significant question. One view in the House is that he cannot, since he is himself a Catholic and his church has so actively opposed aid to education that does not include parochial schools. Religious feeling has been deeply inflamed on both sides of the issue.

THIS IS NOT THE view of the President's principal lieutenants. They profess to believe that at the proper moment, with a sufficient sternness of purpose and the same kind of intense effort as has been applied on foreign aid, the education measure will come to a vote and get a narrow majority in the House. That would be a triumph of no mean proportions.

In the upper echelon of the Kennedy administration, it is felt that while defeat would be a grave blow to the nation, it would not necessarily have an adverse effect on the Democratic party. But, there are many Democrats in the House who must come up for re-election next year with quite another view of the matter.

Kennedy's Monkey Gets Bigger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential problems ride John F. Kennedy's back like a monkey gorging itself on a fresh supply of calories every day.

Kennedy knew he would have problems, but didn't realize how quickly they would build up.

While he was still a candidate, asking for the problems, he told the National Press Club Jan. 14, 1960:

"We will need in the 60s a president. . . willing and able to summon his constituency to its finest hours, to alert the people to our dangers and opportunities, to demand of them the sacrifices that will be necessary."

The word "sacrifices" is a permanent part of his vocabulary. He used it later in his inaugural address and again in his TV talk last Tuesday night.

ON THAT day in 1960 he also said:

"The time has come. . . again" for the "moral" leadership of a Wilson, Lincoln, Truman, Franklin D. Roosevelt who "led the people as well as the government (and) fought for great ideals as well as bills."

But Tuesday night after only six months in office he said:

"When I ran for the presidency. . . . I knew that this country faced serious challenges, but I could not realize nor could any man realize who does not bear the burdens of this office how heavy and constant would be those burdens."

His burdens are not the same as the early presidents—theirs were mostly administrative, political and domestic—when the United States was isolated and remote from Europe. Yet Alexis de Tocqueville could see when that would change:

"IT IS CHIEFLY in its foreign relations that the executive power of a nation finds occasion to exert its skill and its strength. If the existence of the union were perpetually threatened . . . the exective government would assume an increased importance in proportion to the measures expected of it and to those which it could execute."

Those days came when America was no longer isolated and the presidency, under Wilson and Roosevelt, assumed increasing importance as the existence of the Union was threatened in two world wars.

But while Kennedy's problems are similar to theirs in a very real sense they are extremely different. Now the existence of the Union, as De Tocqueville anticipated, is "perpetually threatened" by communism.

Where Wilson and Roosevelt had the burden of fighting a war, Kennedy must not only be ready for it but, through whatever skill he has, try to prevent it without losing in troubled peace either suddenly or bit by bit by attrition.

IT WAS PUT another way by James MacGregor Burns, biographer of both Roosevelt and Kennedy, in making a distinction between their problems.

He said: "It was enough for Roosevelt to cope with crises but it will be essential for Kennedy to head them off."

But it isn't clear what's bothering Kennedy, why his problems now seem greater than he anticipated. In the engine of government he needs to be an expert administrative engineer.

A Slapping Good Time

NEW YORK (AP)—Anne Bancroft has been struck in the face more than 2,800 times in the name of art.

Film audiences gasped years ago when actress Mae Clarke played a role in which Jimmy Cagney pushed a grapefruit in her face.

A grapefruit in the face would be merely cool and refreshing to Miss Bancroft.

As Annie Sullivan, teacher of deaf, mute and blind Helen Keller in "The Miracle Worker," she was slapped hard—or hit in the face with a plastic doll—four times a performance by her undisciplined young charge whom she gradually brings to love and learning.

Anne played the stage role through 700 performances and won her second Broadway Tony award. The first was for "Two for the Seesaw."

She and Patty Duke, who plays Helen Keller as a child, are again costarred in the screen version of "The Miracle Worker," a picture that probably won't leave a dry eye.

The other day I talked with Miss Bancroft during a luncheon break on the set. Her head was ringing.

They had just finished shooting one of the slapping sequences, and Anne had been bopped in the face—and bopped hard to insure realism—some 15 times.

"It's all in the business," she said matter of factly, "but sometimes you hate to do it over and over again—if it isn't your fault."

She said she had a headache but Anne, a dedicated actress if ever there was one, declined to take any aspirin. She said it might affect her performance in the scenes to be taken that afternoon.

Anne, 30, whose first public performance was an impromptu dance as a child before a captive audience of eight street workers in her native Bronx, was signed early by Hollywood. She appeared in a dozen or more films, all of which now she is willing to forget.

But it was her two starring appearances on Broadway that won her fame and recognition as one of the best of the current crop of young dramatic actresses. She is also one of the best-liked by other performers, who regard her as a real pro who worked hard to develop her natural talent.

"I have hundreds and hundreds of problems," she said cheerfully, "but no real plans ahead.

"I don't see how one can plan ahead in this business. "I take singing lessons when I'm not busy working. I just want to do good stuff, whether its musicals or dramas."

Babies Can Easily Be Taught To Eat Solid Foods

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: After reading the remarks of 'foster mother' on feeding babies, I though perhaps the way I teach my children might be of help.

"When they are fussy and hungry between their three-hour bottle feedings I give them baby cereals, starting at about three to four weeks. Rice cereal seems easier for them to start with.

"I make a large hole in a nipple by snipping the very end off so the hole will be about the size of the head of a corsage pin. Or the hole can be enlarged with a hot darning needle. The hole should be large enough to let the cereal flow easily but not so large that it flows out. This gives them more sucking, which some babies seem to desire.

"I start out with two tablespoons of dry cereal and add two ounces of formula. Then I increase the amount of cereal gradually.

"At four months I start giving vegetables and fruits in the cereal for day feedings, and meat and cereal and formula for the evening feeding. At seven to eight months when they enjoy eating from a spoon I switch to it.

"Once they are enjoying the spoon, I start on chopped food from the table mixed with some strained food, and start finger foods. They are off baby foods at 12 to 15 months.

"I started my first baby on strained foods at three months, poking it down him with a spoon. Most of the food wound up on baby, bib and me, as he was not ready for a spoon. The food was wasted and he was still hungry. I kept him on strained foods until he was 15 months old because I thought he needed a lot of teeth to eat chopped foods. I found out later that babies can eat chopped food without teeth. I couldn't get him to eat from the table until he was two, and at six he is still fussy about eating.

"The other three children east what is on the table and enjoy it—even broccoli and asparagus, which they tasted and learned to eat at seven months.—Mrs. W. G., mother of four pre-school children."

Above letter makes a great deal of sense; I caution only that it isn't a "rule" for feeding babies. Babies are individuals. Some start a bit sooner than others. They have their foibles, even as you and I.

Vary the feeding pattern to suit your own needs. But it is true that babies take easily to semi-solid foods early, if it is made simple and natural for them.

Making an issue of the food is usually a mistake. Finding a way to introduce it gradually and with no fuss is the right way. The details aren't important, but the basic idea is.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has been told by his doctor that he has hemorrhoids. He has been bleeding for three years, but he has no pain. Can you have hemorrhoids without pain?—Mrs. L. M."

Yes, they can be painless, or without any sensation at all. But they're still there. The bleeding is a weakening condition, so even while there is no pain, there is good reason for having them removed.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Some years ago milk cures were popular. Why were they abandoned? —J. N."

Because they were "cures" that didn't cure anything. Milk is a wonderful food, but it isn't a medicine.

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If troubled with fissures, fistulas, itching and other rectal problems, write to Dr. Molner in care of the Herald requesting a copy of his booklet, "The Real Cure For Hemorrhoids," enclosing a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Private Race

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Peace Justice Lucien A. Morin fined Chester Berardi $50 for "holding a speed contest" on a county road. Police said Berardi, 18, told them he arrived at the Monroe County Fairgrounds too late to register for drag strip races, so he decided to have his own race later. His opponent escaped.

Around The Rim

Hold That Temper

Recently, our paper carried a quotation with which I would like to take issue.

In essence, the quotation held that a violent temper is not an evil thing; that a man who is as comfortable as an old shoe has about as much worth.

THIS REMINDS me of a mother and daughter I knew once, many years ago. Having read a book or two of psychology and a few articles on mental health in a woman's magazine, they assumed themselves to be experts on the subject. They came up with the notion that one simply must get rid of his excess nervous energies, his frustrations, his resentments.

This is fine as far as it goes, but these two girls never thought of chucking rocks at a fence post, or whacking the very bejeezis out of a golf ball—instead, they flew at each other. "Clears the air," they said.

THEY BOTH are now candidates for a mental institution.

Actually, a violent temper is a sure sign of immaturity, and sometimes of mental illness. A person with a violent temper has never learned self control, has never learned to cope effectively with his problems.

Those who would defend a violent temper probably are attempting to justify a similar weakness in themselves.

As for the old shoe philosophy, whoever was responsible for that quotation apparently hasn't lived long enough or been in enough senseless squabbles to appreciate the value of emotional comfort—or, for that matter, the value of physical comfort.

IMMATURE PEOPLE seek out those with whom life is one long, senseless squabble; a result, no doubt, of the nonsensical romanticisms peddled by Hollywood and the fiction in women's magazines.

Those who have grown up prefer that their companions (including husbands and wives) be comfortable to be with.

ACTUALLY, I suspect that there may have been a deeper meaning to the quotation than the interpretation less adult people might put on it.

It could mean, not that a person should be hard to get along with, but that his peaceful nature should be balanced against an independent spirit which does not allow itself to be sorely abused.

In other words, be a kind, considerate, peaceful human being—but never be a slave.

Inez Robb

'The Wind In The Willows'

By RICHARD STARNES
(For Inez Robb, who is on vacation)

On Christmas Day, 1941, advance elements of the British Eighth Army probing toward Tobruck came upon two gaunt, living skeletons wandering in the desert. The men turned out to be the remains of a commando raiding party which had been landed behind enemy lines 36 days earlier.

ONE OF THE survivors was Col. Robert Laycock, of the Royal Horse Guards, who was leader of the commandos, and the other was a Sergeant Terry. Their group's mission, which included invading and shooting up Rommel's headquarters, had been a limited success (although Rommel himself escaped them), but it had been bought at a fearful price.

Laycock and Terry had endured unimaginable hardship; most of the rest of the commandos were dead or captured. The account of the raid is a rousing war story, of course, but what especially endeared it to me are the first words uttered by Sergeant Terry when he was delivered from starvation and death in the desert.

"SAFE AT LAST!" he cried. "And now, thank God, I shan't have to hear any more of that bloody Mr. Toad."

He spoke of the wonderful Mr. Toad, a leading character in Kenneth Grahame's gentle classic, "The Wind in the Willows." Colonel Laycock had taken along a copy of the book on the raid and had read aloud from it to the long-suffering sergeant during their endless days in the desert. "The Wind in the Willows" has delighted children and adults alike for more than 50 years, but it is clear that Sergeant Terry, subsisting on a diet of raw entrails of long-dead goats, was in no mood for whimsy.

I CAME ACROSS the story of Sergeant Terry's travail in a fine new history of the British commando operations, "The Watery Maze," by Bernard Fergusson. It is a splendid tale of the combined operations that grew from such frail beginnings as Laycock's raid to the tremendous assault on the beaches of Normandy.

As fascinating as I found the commando story, the reference to the priceless Toad set me off on a search of the children's bookcases for an old friend I had forgotten too long.

READING IT AGAIN on a dismally hot summer night which was oppressive with human idiocy and the grim portents of war, I came to realize why an officer leading a suicidal mission would carry a copy along with him. And I understood again why the British keep winning wars and the Germans keep losing them. A German officer who carries "The Wind in the Willows" into battle with him would be turned over to a psychiatrist at once.

A. A. Milne, who wrote the play, "Toad of Toad Hall," from the book, was a great advocate of "The Wind in the Willows." He summed it up very deftly, as follows:

"ONE DOES NOT argue about "The Wind in the Willows." The young man gives it to the girl with whom he is in love, and if she does not like it, asks her to return his letters. The older man tries it on his nephew, and alters his will accordingly. The book is a test of character. We can't criticize it, because it is criticizing us . . . When you sit down to it, don't be so ridiculous as to suppose that you are sitting in judgment on my taste, or on the art of Kenneth Grahame. You are merely sitting in judgment on yourself. You may be worthy; I don't know. But it is you who are on trial."

Each Nation Has Its Problems

IN EUROPE—What a different perspective each of the Western European countries seems to have nowadays, in contrast to that of the United States!

While President Kennedy has delivered, over a nationwide network of radio and television in America, a message that is certain to have a worldwide significance, it is not a lessening of that evaluation to note that Britain is preoccupied with her economic troubles, or that France is concerned over the bloodshed in Tunisia, or that West Germany is in the midst of a domestic election campaign with international overtones.

PERHAPS THE balanced perspective is to be found in a country like Denmark, where memories of the Nazi occupation during World War II have not vanished, and where there is today a curious fatalism about the future. As one Danish official puts it: "We would worry ourselves into a condition of real distress if we didn't train ourselves to take calmly the ups and downs of international controversy."

Naturally, what affects the British people this very week or month, rather than what might happen on the Berlin issue later on, is of paramount concern to them, "Austerity" is being put into effect as a policy by the British government. This means higher taxes on cigarettes, on gasoline, on beer, on whisky, and on tea, cocoa and sugar, as well as on kitchen equipment and electrical goods. The idea is to cut down on the consumer-goods supply and force the production of more goods for export. Along with this is projected a "temporary freeze" on dividends and wages. The interest rate at the banks has just gone up from 5 to 7 per cent.

IT'S HARD, therefore, for Britons to focus attention on the words of Mr. Kennedy's address itself, fateful as they may prove to be in the future. All this is part of the drive in Britain toward some solution of her economic difficulties. Also, when discontent of this kind arises, there is always a chance of a general election and a change in the party in power.

CERTAINLY, AS Nikita Khrushchev surveys the scene, he must assume that the Western Alliance is far from the strong instrument of political power that it is cracked up to be. But, if there is one thing that would solidify the Alliance overnight, it would be Mr. Khrushchev's misreading of the passing scene in Western Europe. For only in free countries do they publicly discuss their internal troubles. The Soviet Union has plenty of troubles, too. It is not so easy, even for a dictator, to manage the affairs of 200,000,000 people.

President Kennedy's speech, of course, had been heralded in advance as of transcendent importance. The American President is still a new personality to Europeans, but his words carry the prestige of the government of the United States.

LOOKING BACK a few weeks, it now seems to have been a wise move for Mr. Kennedy to have gone to Vienna to meet Premier Khrushchev. That meeting has taken the edge off the idea that a personal conversation "at the summit" can ease tension or settle any fundamental issues. There isn't the pressure now for "summit" conferences as a cure-all. On the contrary, the feeling today among officials of the various governments in Western Europe is that President Kennedy has cleared the air for the kind of policies that he has just proclaimed.

Because the speech was really of more direct concern to the American people than to Europeans—for defense budgets and military preparations undertaken by the United States are not subjects with which the people here are very familiar—the main point conveyed was the sense of determination and firmness on the part of the American government in insisting on the maintenance of Allied rights in West Berlin. This had been consistently forecast in the newspapers in Europe for several days, so it didn't come as a surprise.

WHAT WORRIES ALL these countries really is the possibility that American increases in expense for military purposes will have to be followed by similar additions to already strained budgets in this part of the world. To a nation like Britain, which is struggling to keep her money from being devalued further, this presents a serious threat to financial stability.

The mobilizing of force—whether it be limited in military scope, or economic—carries with it a degree of discomfort and a measure of disruption of normal life that may take time for these people, as well as for their partners in the United States, to absorb. But, as an alternative to nuclear war, it will be accepted stoically as an alternative to nuclear war, it will be accepted stoically as an inevitable, though painful, sacrifice.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Problems Solved For Many Readers

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — (Editor's Note: Miss Lane invites your letter but regrets that a personal reply cannot always be given. From time to time, she will answer beauty problems in the Hollywood Beauty column. When writing for information regarding a product mentioned by an actress, please send a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No money is required for information but each leaflet is 10 cents unless otherwise specified. If you would like your question and answer to appear in this column write: Questions and Answers, Lydia Lane, P.O. Box 1111, Los Angeles 53, Calif.

Q.—I have heard that many movie stars have their hairlines raised. How do they do this? I would look and feel better if I could do something about my hair which grows down so far it almost touches my eyebrows. I am 22 and a brunet. (Georgine W., Akron)

A—Electrolysis or hot wax treatments are the two most popular ways of raising the hairline. Connie Francis prefers electrolysis. She is brunet and about your age. But if you cannot afford this, try hot wax treatments. Consult a good professional beautician who specializes in this.

Q—I cook for my three boys and my husband. They are all big eaters. Do you think it is wrong if I don't eat with them? I'm trying to lose weight and I can't diet and see all that food on the table without eating it. This is a real problem for me because I have gained 10 pounds and I know my family is not proud of me the way I look. (Mrs. Mc. A., Nashville)

A—Ann Blythe had a similar problem and she says, "I learned to eat very slowly. I would count the number of times I would chew everything. I would make conversation in between bites. I would nibble on low-calorie snacks—celery, carrots, etc., and I discovered that my appetite was satisfied with much less." You could try this so that you are with your family at mealtime while still staying with your diet. Or you could go on a formula diet during the day and have one meal at night.

* * *

Q—I know I can't be the only person in the world who is overweight and weak-willed. I start diets and feel so hungry and frustrated I break them. Is there any advice you can give me to help me? (Carolyn of White Plains, N. Y.)

A—This is how Gisele MacKenzie met a similar problem. "All week I counted calories, telling myself that on Saturday night I could have anything I wanted. So when I craved something, I didn't feel I was saying good-bye to it forever, but I just waited until Saturday night. Often I didn't want it then, but I didn't feel sorry for myself. I cut down every way I could. I am a great coffee drinker, with eight or 10 cups a day, but I learned to drink it black, and I gave up a lot of calories by eliminating sugar and cream. I had my salt cut to the minimum and drank no liquids during meals. It was a slow diet—but a sure one—and I lost weight."

* * *

Q—I am high-strung and nervous and often say things I don't mean just because I am overtired. I have to learn to relax or I won't have a friend left in the world. I am greatly concerned about this. Please tell me what I can do. (Loretta, Wash., D. C.)

A—Shirley Temple runs a large home, is a conscientious mother and has her NBC-TV show. "I would never have time to devote to a career," she confessed, "if I hadn't learned how to make the most of my energy. You have to sleep well if you want to bounce out of bed with pep, and you can't do this if you go to bed exhausted. I've learned from my children to 'flop' when I'm tired. A big Washington executive told me that he could never accomplish all he does without cat naps. He can drop off to sleep in a minute. A 10-minute nap revives him and he's ready for more work.

"The trick to having energy is to stop as soon as you get a fatigue signal. Many adults have to learn to recognize tensions so they can relax."

* * *

Q—I am 15 and not bad looking but I am so shy when I go out on a date, I don't open my mouth. I know that is why I am not popular. What can I do? I'm desperate. (L. C. D., Oakland, Calif.)

A — Natalie Wood admits, "I once was so at loss for conversation that I read street signs. I overcame my conversational block by reading a newspaper before I went out on a date. Having something to say about what is happening in the world give you confidence. And just being able to open a conversation puts you at ease, and then finding things to talk about comes easy. And you must remember, the boy you are with may be as shy as you, so you'll be helping him if you talk first."

GISELE MACKENZIE'S DIET

Gisele MacKenzie met her overweight problem with this special diet now offered to Hollywood Beauty readers. If you've tried many diets with no luck, this unusual method may be just what you need. First Lady's Popularity Is Like Movie Queen's

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP)— Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, just turning 32, has won the acclaim of a movie queen in just six months as America's First Lady.

But there are few who know what Mrs. Kennedy is really like, what she thinks, or how she views her White House role.

A sympathetic and admiring coterie of White House press aides are her spokesmen and Mrs. Kennedy remains silent behind their news handouts.

Mainly because she is young and beautiful, Mrs. Kennedy, who'll observe her 32nd birthday today, has captured the imagination of people at home and abroad.

Some observers feel she has gained such sudden popularity because there is, at the moment, no outstanding glamorous figure on the public scene, either in Hollywood or among the world's royalty.

Already, she has the fan mail so typical of movie fame. And the White House last month issued an "official photograph," selected by Mrs. Kennedy, for distribution to her admirers around the world.

Mrs. Kennedy obviously is warming to her role after what seemed like an initial attempt to duck it. The big change came when she embarked on official state visits abroad with the President and was so enthusiastically received.

Now, she is considered such an asset as a goodwill ambassador that the President reportedly plans to include her on future trips abroad.

Mrs. Kennedy has proved her crowd-drawing appeal abroad, but so far she has made no comparable public appearance as First Lady in this country which would show the reactions of Americans.

Because she speaks three foreign languages—French, Italian and Spanish—and has shown a great interest in art and culture, Mrs. Kennedy struck a responsive chord in the four capitals of Europe she visited last month and earlier in Canada.

People in high places, who met her socially abroad—from French President Charles de Gaulle to Soviet Premier Khrushchev—are now listed among her fans.

Her White House mail averages nearly 5,000 letters a week. The letter writers want to trade recipes, seek advice on family and education problems and design Mrs. Kennedy's clothes. Also there are outpourings of music, poetry and paintings in her honor.

There are those who decry the fact that her major interest so far has been the refurnishing of the White House and a drive to collect fine historic pieces for display in the presidential mansion. Some public interest in the problems of people might be added, they suggested.

Others complain that there is too much written about Mrs. Kennedy's clothes and hairdo. But her fashions, including the famous pillbox hat, are fast becoming a fad.

She is the first First Lady to appoint a press secretary and she frequently lets writers know when she disapproves of what they have said about her and her children.

Her chief complaints have been that the press has invaded the privacy of her 3-year-old daughter by writing about Caroline's doings.

Mrs. Kennedy refuses to submit to any interviews or to hold news conferences. But she made an appeal for privacy for her children in a nationwide television interview with a commentator the Kennedys know well.

Miss Pond Is Given Coke Party

A group of Prissy Pond's school friends gathered Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Jack Woodall for a Coke and talk party; Mrs. Ted O. Groebl was cohostess for the hospitality.

Recipes were presented to Miss Pond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pond, 1611 Runnels, bride-elect of Terry Scott Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Jones of Lubbock. The couple will be married in the First Baptist Church, Aug. 5.

A gift from the hostesses was a cook book.

The table, from which Cokes were served from ice in a punch bowl, held an arrangement of tritoma shading from yellow to orange; serving appointments were in corresponding colors.

About 30 were included on the invitation list.

Couple Will Live Near Lenorah

Mr. and Mrs. Carrol M. Green will make a home near Lenorah following their marriage Sunday afternoon in the home of T. H. Tarbet, minister of the Highway 80 Church of Christ.

The bride is the former Doris Compton, daughter of Mrs. K. R. Britt, 508 San Antonio. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Green of Lenorah.

For her wedding, the bride chose a white suit and wore a white orchid corsage. She was attended by Doris Ernest of Coahoma, who wore a pink batiste frock with a pink carnation corsage.

Best man was Billy Ray Badgett.

The new Mrs. Green, who has attended Big Spring High School, will continue her studies and will be a mid-term graduate in 1962.

Green, a graduate of Stanton High School, is a farmer near Lenorah.

An informal reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the refreshment table was centered with carnations and stephanotis. Mrs. F. D. Curry, sister of the bride, assisted with the serving.

Duplicate Players Fill 12 Tables

Duplicate bridge players at the Officers' Club, Webb AFB, filled 12 tables Thursday evening for the weekly games.

Winners in north-south position included Mrs. Dan Greenwood and Mrs. B. F. Yeargin, first; Mrs. Doug Orme and Mrs. R. R. McEwen, second; Mrs. James Collins and Maj. T. S. Wei, third; Mrs. Bill Emerson and Mrs. John Yates, fourth.

In east - west position, Mrs. George McGann and Mrs. D. W. Wall were first; Mrs. P. E. Lee and Mrs. William E. Harris, second; Mrs. E. L. Powell and Mrs. Elmo Wasson, third; Mrs. Glenn Riley and Mrs. Arlis Ratliff, both of Garden City, fourth.

Private Returns To Fort Lewis

Private 1.C. Leo Williams recently completed a two week visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Williams of Knott, and returned to Fort Lewis, Wash.

The Williamses also had their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Petty of Roswell, N. M., as weekend guests.

Mrs. Petty is enrolled at Eastern New Mexico University where she is doing graduate work in education.

Shower Is Given For Mrs. Chapman

KNOTT (SC)—The James Jeffcoat home was the scene of a coming event shower given recently for Mrs. Alton Chapman.

Joining Mrs. Jeffcoat were Mrs. T. M. Robinson, Mrs. Gene Haston, Mrs. P. E. Little, Mrs. Vernon King, Mrs. Porter Motley, Mrs. Larry Shaw, Mrs. L. G. Harrell, Mrs. V. L. Jones and Mrs. Herman Jeffcoat.

A corsage of baby socks was presented to Mrs. Chapman, and refreshments followed the pink and blue color scheme with a cake frosted with blue and white icing.

Mrs. Bobby Roman assisted in displaying gifts to the 20 guests included in the party.

McGregors Host Family Reunion

KNOTT (SC)—Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McGregor were hosts for a recent family reunion, with his mother, Mrs. J. J. McGregor, and his sister, Lilly, of Big Spring, as guests; also present were another sister, Mrs. K. R. Davis, Kenny and Tersy of Brownsville; Mr. and Mrs. Morris Burns of College, Ariz., and the John McGregor.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter Motley are vacationing in Tyler, Marlin and other spots in Texas; they plan to return home about the end of August.

In Arkansas for a visit are the F. O. Shorteses; they will visit their son, Johnny, in Oregon before they come home.

Donna Jeffcoat has returned to her home in Seminole after spending a week with her grandparents, the Herman Jeffcoats, and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Williams and Carolyn are visiting in Holt.

Texas Woman Preserves History Of XIT Ranch

AUSTIN — Mrs. Cordia Sloan Duke, 84, of Dalhart is a literary counterpart of Grandma Moses, the late-blooming primitive artist.

Her first book, co-authored with Dr. Joe B. Frantz, will be published by the University of Texas Press, and she is hard at work on two other books.

"6,000 Miles of Fence: Life on the XIT Ranch of Texas" will appear just before the XIT reunion and rodeo, scheduled Aug. 3-5 in Dalhart. Festivities marking the book's publication will be held in Dalhart and Amarillo.

Mrs. Duke is the widow of R. L. (Bob) Duke, the last XIT general manager to run cattle. As the wife of a rising young ranch hand, she began in 1907 to keep a notebook and pencil in her apron pocket, and to record interesting details of ranch life that caught her attention. She later drew from reticent ranch hands their reminiscences of the largest fenced ranch in the world.

She invited Dr. Frantz, University of Texas History Department chairman, to become her literary collaborator after reading "The American Cowboy: The Myth and the Reality," of which he was co-author. Although "6,000 Miles of Fence" had its nucleus in Mrs. Duke's diary, it is made largely from word sketches Mrs. Duke coaxed from working cowmen who had been associated with the XIT.

"Mrs. Duke and I wish to let the XIT cowboy tell the story of his workaday world as he saw it, stripped of the false heroics imposed by countless Hollywood and TV scenarios and many more thousands of 'Western' storytellers," Dr. Frantz explains in the preface. "In the main our function has been to moderate, to announce the next speaker and then to get out of the way."

The book is the first to be published by the University Press in the M. K. Brown Range Life Series, established by Montagu K. Brown of Pampa. Brown is a Panhandle pioneer who has long been interested in preserving the record of his region and the men who made it.

Mrs. Duke will give half the royalties from the book's sale to Boys' Ranch at Tascosa.

Her other two books? She is preparing for publication the diary she has kept for almost 60 years. And she is writing an account of her experiences operating a wildlife preserve near Buffalo Springs for the U.S. Interior Department in the 1920's, after her husband's death.

Dr. O'Brien Delivers Final Sermons As Pastor Sunday

Sunday will mark the end of Dr. P. D. O'Brien's 20-year pastorate at the First Baptist Church as he delivers his final sermons.

During the past week special observances have been held each night in recognition of his service, and tonight following 7:30 services at the church, the Big Spring Pastor's Association will honor Dr. and Mrs. O'Brien with a reception at Howard County Junior College Student Union Building from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m.

In addition to regularly scheduled programs, there will be an ordination service at 4 p.m. when new deacons will be brought into office.

During the evening service at the First Baptist Church, the association will present Dr. O'Brien with a certificate of appreciation. The public is invited to attend both the service and the reception.

Speaking at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday morning will be the Rev. William D. Leonard, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Leonard, 2310 Roberts Drive.

A revival with Dr. John P. Newport as evangelist will begin at East Fourth Baptist Church Monday morning. Dr. Newport is currently professor of Philosophy of Religion at the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth.

There will also be a revival at Apostolic Faith Chapel July 30-Aug. 9. The Rev. Marcus Adair is evangelist.

Revivals continue at Northside Baptist Church and Galveston Church of God through the coming week.

Youth Activities Week at Wesley Methodist will begin Sunday evening when young people conduct the evening worship service. Other activities will continue each night during the week.

Fellow Minister Writes In Tribute To Dr. O'Brien

As Dr. P. D. O'Brien ends his pastorate of the First Baptist Church this week, his senior colleague among local ministers Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, has written a tribute.

Dr. Lloyd is in Winnepeg, Canada, on vacation, and from there has sent The Herald the following letter:

"I had coveted the privilege of attending worship at the First Baptist Church on the occasion of Dr. P. D. O'Brien's final service as pastor. I regret that I am on vacation in Canada when that time arrives on July 30.

"I had asked my friend Dick to let me say a few words at this service and he had agreed. In lieu of this personal appearance, I wonder if you would permit me to say a word or two through your paper about the talented servant of God and his 20 years of ministry in our community.

"For 13 years, Dr. O'Brien and I have been companions in the ministry. We have joked with and about each other in wholesome fashion. It is my weighed opinion that we are losing the leadership of a great man of God. He has always been on the right side. He has been for the good of the city. He has given of his time in community service. His mark can be left upon many men and women and upon the community as a whole. It is a rare that you find a man of such strong convictions and of such a liberal, sympathetic understanding and spirit of cooperation.

"His message has been positive and not negative. His life has been an example and a source of strength.

"We have one thing to be grateful for: That in his retirement from the First Baptist Church we still have him as citizen, neighbor, friend and servant for Christ."

In sincerity,
R. GAGE LLOYD

Strange Doings

NEW YORK (AP) — Across the United States, scores of individuals every year claim to be Christ. Others report conversations with God. Still others tell of flights to Venus and meeting St. Matthew, Mark, Luke or John.

These are among the unorthodox religious affairs described by Richard Mathison, former religion editor of the Los Angeles Times, in a new book, "Faiths, Cults and Sects of America," published by Bobbs - Merrill Co.

Thomas, the Realist

HOW A DISCIPLE WITH DOUBTS IS LED TO A FIRM FAITH

Scripture—John 11:5-16; 14:3-6; 20:24-29; Acts 1:13.

By N. SPEER JONES

THE reference from Acts in this lesson can be dismissed briefly, as it tells us only one thing about Thomas—that the former doubter is continuing his discipleship with full fervor—a fact which must surely be concluded from the episode in John 20.

Everything else we know of Thomas comes from the three brief passages cited from John. We are introduced to him in 11:16.

The meaning of Didymus is "twin." It is just possible that the psychological complexities of being a twin have contributed to Thomas' skeptical nature.

When the disciples utter some remonstrance about Christ's returning to Judaea, since that is where He was so recently stoned, He gives a very enigmatic reply.

One interpretation is that because He walks in the daylight of the Lord's way, or does God's bidding, stones or other dangers cannot hurt Him during His alloted time on earth (12 hours). Only he who is not Godlike need fear danger, "because there is no light in him."

Notice that Christ says that He is glad for the disciples' sakes that He did not get to Bethany in time to save Lazarus, because now He will have the opportunity to give them proof of His holiness by raising Lazarus. This would indicate that Thomas had not been the only doubtful one heretofore.

More unique than doubt in Thomas' nature were pessimism and cynicism. Three times Christ states that He will go to Judaea, and two of these times (verses 7 and 15) indicate that His disciples shall accompany Him. Is Thomas so courageous, then, when he volunteers that they will go?

Yes and no; for it seems as if he has been brooding quietly over their peril and has assumed the worst—death. Despite this gloomy conclusion he is willing to follow Christ.

When the time comes, all Christ's disciples, including Thomas, desert Him in the face of death. (Matthew 26:56).

Thomas' gloomy disposition reveals itself again in John 14: 3-6. Christ has previously told His disciples that He is "the way" to the place He is going —Heaven. He reminds them of this, but indirectly.

Thomas' rejoinder could be translated, in today's terminology, "How should WE know?" in an all-too-familiar tone of lazy criticism—"an excuse for ignorance," as A. B. Bruce terms it ("Peloubet's Select Notes"). Christ, instead of being angry, explains fully and directly what He means—He is the way to God, the way to life itself.

In chapter 20 we see that Thomas is the only one missing, other than Judas, from the meeting of the disciples on Easter Sunday.

Why?

Probably, as J. D. Jones suggests ("Peloubet's Select Notes"), because he has retreated into an isolated and almost prideful grief—not only over Christ's death but over his own embarrassed disappointment at having partaken in an apparently ill-fated cause. Around his sensitivity, Thomas had built a hard shell, and could not even share his grief.

GOLDEN TEXT

"Blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed.—John 20:29.

The disciples, however, full of joy of the Holy Spirit, seek him out in the intervening week to tell him of Christ's rising. Thomas, unwilling to "be taken in again," says, in effect, that they really have to prove it to him.

The fact that he mentions Christ's wounds indicates how deeply he felt, within his shell, the awful experience of the crucifixion.

However, as is often the case with such cynics, Thomas, when once his wellspring of love and faith has been reached, drops all his barriers and breaks forth with an unsurpassed expression of his steadfast faith—"My Lord and my God."

According to tradition, Thomas' remaining years were devoted to successful mission work in the Far East, perhaps in India.

"CHURCH GOVERNMENT-ORGANIZATION"
"Christ is the head of the body the church"—Col. 1:18. God has given Him to be the head over all things to the church which is His body,—Eph. 1:22-23; All authority, religiously speaking is in Christ; the New Testament Apostles, Evangelists and teachers who both spoke and wrote the (27) books of the New Testament were inspired of God, hence the superiority of the New Testament (And the whole 66 books of the Bible) above all else written. These men received power and authority from Christ, He is the head!
Elders are over the local congregations. Acts 14:23 says they "Ordained them elders in every church," (Each congregation had elders, this was and is plural): 1 Tim. chapter 3: and Titus chapter 1: give the qualifications for this work, for this office. It is a "must" throughout, an elder is not perfect but must have some and sufficient of each relative qualification to meet God's divine approval. Six words describe the elders of the church; these (6) words contain three ideas of their work: Elders are presbyters. Shepherds are Pastors. Overseers are Bishops. Evangelists, ministers or preachers are BY NO MEANS he same work or office. Modern men untaught, unschooled and unlearned in the Bible think and speak of preachers as pastors. Due to the failure of people to care sufficiently to study God's word this mistake has come about. A preacher of the Gospel, a minister, the one who heralds, speaks the Word, the evangelist is not an elder or pastor because of this fact of his being a preacher. If you want to be Biblically, and scripturally correct before God do not speak of a preacher as a Pastor. We cannot follow the Truth and place preachers in the place of Pastors, or elders. Nor can we exalt one man as a Bishop as though a Bishop were something different from an elder, nor can we have just one. It is always elders—plural in the Bible. Pastor system or Papal system or presiding Bishop neither and none of these can be found in the Holy Bible, let us respect the truth.
Elbert R. Garretson, minister.

The Lutherans
Hear God speak through the Holy Scriptures.
And they believe it because the Holy Scriptures are the divinely inspired record of God's love toward man, particularly as it took place in the person of Jesus Christ.
The Old Testament prepared the way for God's action in Christ and the New Testament proclaims, continually, that action of God.
In our day, the retelling of God's action, through the words of Scripture, which is done by the church, is God actually speaking through the Holy Scriptures.

Something to think about . . . If there are intelligent creatures on some other planet, your son and mine may one day meet them!

What sort of people would you hope these "Martians" to be?

Believers in God . . . or atheists?

Men and women with spiritual ideals . . . or materialists of the Kremlin vintage?

Warm-hearted, friendly, with a Christian sense of values . . . or ruthless, indifferent, dedicated only to self?

WOULDN'T IT BE HEARTENING to find on that planet a world of churches . . . of faith . . . of folks at worship and at work for the Truth revealed to them by God?

Something to think about . . . Next Sunday! In this world! Which isn't yet all we want Mars to be!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and ready your Bible daily.

French, Tunisian Delegates Called

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold today summoned the French and Tunisian delegates for separate talks on the Tunisian crisis in advance of Security Council debate.

Hammarskjold, who returned Thursday night from Tunis, also conferred with other key delegates, including U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost and Britain's Sir Patrick Dean.

His meeting with French delegate Armand Berard was his first personal contact with a French official since he flew to Tunisia last Sunday to try his hand at settling the French-Tunisian dispute over Bizerte.

He sought to confer in Paris with President Charles de Gaulle and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, but received a brushoff. Couve de Murville told him pointedly his views were pro-Tunisiana.

Hammarskjold was expected to open the council session with a report on his disappointing mission.

Meanwhile, a block of Asian and African nations pressed the council to back Tunisian demands that France pull her troops out of Tunisia and give up the huge naval base at Bizerte.

Yugoslavia joined 36 of the 46 Asian-African nations in the U.N. in a letter to the council president, Leopoldo Benites of Ecuador, demanding that France, as a first step, obey the council's call to withdraw her troops to the positions they held before last week's fighting.

The council was urged further to acknowledge Tunisia's right "not to tolerate the presence of foreign forces or foreign military bases" and to call for quick negotiations.

Hammarskjold returned Thursday night from a flying visit to Tunisia that Tunisian officials said did little to bring a solution to the explosive crisis.

French military authorities in Tunisia refused to even see the secretary-general and the French government declined to invite him to Paris for talks. Hammarskjold made his trip on the invitation of Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba, and the French treated it as a private mission.

The United States supported the council resolution last Saturday calling for a cease-fire in Tunisia and for both sides to withdraw to pre-battle positions. The Tunisians complained because Washington did not pressure the French to give up the Bizerte base immediately. And France's cold shoulder to Hammarskjold embarrassed the Americans further in view of their long record of support for the secretary-general as a peacemaker and mediator.

Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, chief U.S. delegate to the U.N., already has scheduled talks in Paris this weekend with President Charles de Gaulle and other French officials. An American source said they were not originally set up to deal with the Tunisian situation but that dispute now appears certain to be discussed.

The French agreed to the cease-fire after seizing the city of Bizerte, three miles beyond the sprawling Bizerte naval-air base, but clung to their gains in defiance of the council's pullback order. The French are demanding assurances their lines of communication to the base—particularly the water channel which runs through the city of Bizerte—be guaranteed before they pull their troops back into the base.

Jewelers Sight Business Upswing

Business is definitely on the upswing, says Jay Lebcowitz, manager of Zale's Jewelers, who has returned from the company's semi-annual managers meeting in New York.

Over 200 Zale managers and company executives attended the six - day management sessions. They heard President Ben A. Lipshy report a steady upswing in company sales that is encouraging to management as the heavy fall selling season fast approaches.

"We believe the national economy has broken out of its doldrums and that people are in a buying mood again," said Lebcowitz. "All of our own plans and purchases are predicated upon the biggest fall selling season in history."

Trash Fires

Two minor trash fires were extinguished by firemen Thursday and no damage was reported in either fire. One fire, caused by burning fence rows, was at White's Dairy, Silver Heels Addition, and the other at 1306 Birdwell Lane. Cause of the fire on Birdwell was unknown.

Lays It On The Line

President Kennedy tells the nation in a televised broadcast from the White House that the U.S. intends to go on a diplomatic offensive in seeking a solution to the Berlin crisis. He also said he would ask Congress for more than $3 billion for military expansion to meet the Communist threat in Berlin and throughout the world.

Committee Discusses New Ordinance For Tow Service

Provisions of the proposed tow-in, storage, and impounding of vehicles ordinance, under police orders, were discussed at a meeting of City Manager A. K. Steinheimer, City Attorney, John Burgess, Police Chief Jay Banks, Patrolmen Claude I. Morris Jr. and Robert E. Dugan, and representative of wrecker and tow-in services Thursday.

Steinheimer said that an ordinance would be prepared, for review by the committee and presentation to the city commission, setting up the provisions.

"It was agreed that the main points set up by the commission at the July 11 meeting would be incorporated," Steinheimer said. "We will establish a Class A and B service. One will be for simple tow-in jobs, and the other for handling any kind of job necessary when a wrecker is called for by police.

"We will assure those whose cars have been wrecked, towed-in, or impounded, that the vehicles will be placed in a building, fenced area, or guarded area; that they will be insured, and that standard fees will be charged, with the city having no financial involvement," he said.

Calls for the services will be on a rotation basis, probably on a 30-call set-up. In case of a three or more car accident, and if one service handles all cars, the calls will be based on the three cars.

Steinheimer said that in no case will the owner of a car involved be deprived of the privilege of asking for the services of a wrecker of his own choice.

Liner Enters Guilty Plea

Paul S. Liner Jr., under indictment for failure to stop and render aid following a car accident, pleaded guilty to the charge before Judge Ralph Caton in 118th District Court on Friday morning.

Gil Jones, district attorney, told the court that he was recommending $250 fine and 30 days in jail as punishment for the defendant largely because "his attorneys (R. H. Weaver and John Richard Coffee) believe that Liner will straighten up and live right."

The court held sentence in abeyance until Monday to permit Liner to raise the $250 for the fine. He testified he would have to borrow the money from his mother. Jones warned the youth that he must repay the debt. Liner said he is on the "extra board" as a T&P switchman. He works 10 to 15 days a month, he said.

The indictment stemmed from a collision on South Gregg Street last Nov. 18. Billy Welch was in a pickup waiting for the signal light to change. Liner's car rammed into the rear of the pickup, swerved to one side and sped away.

Welch, who was a witness, testified he was injured and had to be hospitalized for several days.

Group Named For Appraisal

Hack Wright, Frog Koger and Emmett Grantham have agreed to serve as special commission to appraise the remaining tracts of land adjacent to US 87 which are needed for right-of-way.

Ed Carpenter, county judge, said that the trio has qualified for the assignment and will begin work in a few days.

They are to be asked to set values and determine damages to all tracts as yet unsigned along US 87 from the city limits to Fairview. The only exception will be the land of the Big Spring State Hospital.

There are 10 tracts of land involved. Efforts to reach an agreement with the owners have failed and condemnation proceedings have been initiated to clear title so the state can proceed with its plans to rebuild US 87 into a 4-lane highway. The county commissioners are charged with obtaining the needed right-of-way for the project.

Gym Circus Closes Program

A gym circus and parents' night will be held at the YMCA today beginning at 7:30 p.m. The circus will climax the Y's summer program.

To begin the activities, a grand march will be held. Featured events will be on the trampoline, in baton twirling, tumbling, wrestling, ballet and tap. Ringmaster will be R. G. Robinson, and all participants will wear circus-type costumes.

The public is invited to attend.

Car Returned To Parking Spot

Police were faced with the job of disposing of a car which they found in the middle of the street at 5:38 a.m. today. Fortunately, they knew where it belonged so they just rolled it back on the lot.

The small foreign car belonged to the Harmonson Foreign Motors, 911 W. 4th. Further investigation showed that a door of the building was also open at the time. Continuing their public service work, they locked it before leaving.

Frank Grimes, Noted Abilene Editor, Dies

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—Frank Grimes, 69, editor of the Abilene Reporter-News since 1919, died at 4:30 a.m. today at Hendrick Memorial Hospital. Death was from pneumonia.

He had been associated with the Abilene Reporter-News since Dec. 14, 1914, when he came to Abilene to be city editor. He continued his position on the newspaper until death, but for almost a year he had been away from his desk.

The scholarly Grimes was in McKnight State Sanitorium near San Angelo from Aug. 12, 1960, until this June for treatment of tuberculosis.

The fight against TB he won. His case was arrested and he and Mrs. Grimes were able to return to their home. For a month he was up and about town and was able to resume part of his writing. Then he was stricken with bronchitis and he entered the hospital for treatment July 20. His condition steadily worsened.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Saturday at St. Paul Methodist Church here with Dr. E. D. Landreth of Lamesa officiating. Burial will be in Elmwood Memorial Park by the grave of his son, Capt. Rudyard K. Grimes, a hero of Bataan in World War II.

Surviving are his widow, the former Miss Edith Lovey of Roby; two daughters, Mary Xantha Grimes, a member of the staff of the University of Denver where she is working on her doctorate, and Mrs. Robert Barnhart of San Antonio; a brother, L. A. Grimes of Abilene; a sister, Mrs. Ode Kidd of Martha, Okla.; and three stepchildren, Maj. Gen. William O. Senter of Washington, D.C., Glynn Harris of Beaumont, and Mrs. Milton Gips of Kwajalein Island.

Grimes was a long, lean man whose interests stretched across Abilene, all West Texas and to the governments in Washington and Austin.

The editorials which he presented daily to readers of the Abilene Reporter-News informed, chided, amused and guided.

He was a wry, whimsical writer who could clear out the underbrush of complex problems to get to the truth.

Grimes was the product of three generations of Methodist preachers and more generations of Americans. He was a member of St. Paul Methodist Church and a member of Sons of the American Revolution.

A native of Texas, he was born Oct. 13, 1891, in Bell County. His father was one of Bedford Forrest's cavalrymen. As a boy, Grimes lived at Copperas Cove and briefly in Pinkney, Tenn.

As a young man, he had what he once described as "assorted and fleeting" experiences. He started work as a printer's devil in 1905 at Belton. He worked on the Aspermont Star in 1912 with the late Col. Dick McCarty, who later published the Albany News.

He was city editor of the Temple Telegram in 1913-14 and editor of the Brenham Banner-Press in 1914 before coming to Abilene.

As a gangling 23-year-old, he ambled into the cubbyhole office of the old Abilene Daily Reporter on a winter day in 1914 to join the newspaper and the town.

Grimes' life was a strange story of contrast. He had little formal education—he quit school in the eighth grade because he "was bored." His magnificent education was acquired in decades of reading and studying. He was a master of history, of literature, of the mechanics of language.

Olympics Set At Y Saturday

The YMCA Little Olympics scheduled Saturday from 5 to 8 p.m. in Memorial Stadium, will climax the summer's activities in six fun clubs. Admission to the events will be free.

Participants in the fun clubs from Lakeview, Kate Morrison, Washington-Boydstun, Marcy, College Heights-Park Hill and Cedar Crest-Airport will take part in track and field events. Included activities will be two dashes, broad jump, softball throw, shuttle relay, pull-ups an bicycle relay.

Ribbons will be awarded for first, second and third place winners in all events, and there will be three age divisions, 9 through 12, 15 year olds, and 16 through 18.

Joe Leach is meet director; Delnor Poss, R. E. Dodson, and John Dibrell are finish judges; Harold Bentley is starter. Recorders are Doylene Wadkins and Anne Homan.

Workers Read Berlin Speech Reports

Construction workers in West Berlin take a break from work to read reports of President Kennedy's speech on West Berlin. The newspaper the workers are reading, Bild Zietung, has a headline which says, "Kennedy: Be Prepared to Fight for West Berlin."

Marathon Meeting Fails To Change School Budget

The 1961-62 budget for the Big Spring Independent School District remained untouched Thursday night despite a nine-hour marathon of discussion at Cosden Country Club.

Originally the meeting was slated as a budget session but it was 2 a.m. before any decision was made on how long Sam Anderson would be superintendent to fill the position vacated by the resignation of Floyd Parsons. And the trustees called it quits for the day. The meeting began at 5:30 p.m. Thursday.

Another meeting has been scheduled for 6 p.m. Tuesday at Coker's Restaurant. After the evening meal, the group will retire to the administration office to consider the budget.

George Rice, Distributive Education teacher at the high school and president of the Classroom Teachers Association, spoke for teachers desiring to go under Social Security at the meeting Thursday.

He recommended that trustees approve putting teachers under the system. As basis for this, Rice said a poll of teachers in October, 1960, indicated that 255 were for it and 133 against. At that time they were asked if they wanted Social Security or not.

Rice said Social Security would be a benefit in recruiting teachers and would upgrade the type of maintenance employes the school can obtain. It would also provide retirement benefits for teachers and other employes on an equal footing with industry in the area.

Even if the recommendation was approved by trustees, it would not become effective for 90 days. It would have to be approved in an official referendum conducted by Social Security personnel. It could, however, be made retroactive to Sept. 1, 1961.

The 1961 public relations brochure has been printed and is ready for distribution. Board members agreed to speak at meetings of local service clubs to answer questions about it and its contents. The brochure will be distributed by mailing and dissemination at various meetings.

Construction of portable classrooms is proceeding well and the buildings will be ready for occupancy by Aug. 15, Parsons said. The six under construction at Goliad Junior High are almost completed.

The buildings will have a sand color exterior and a light blue-green covered with clear varnish on the inside.

A performance bond on the portable buildings has not yet been filed but Parsons assured trustees that it was being drawn up. At a previous meeting Parsons had said he believed the matter had been taken care of but investigation showed it had not.

Work at Lakeview is progressing slower, but the walls are coming up, he said.

The policy of not lending school equipment, such as chairs, received approval by trustees.

A request for 100 chairs to be used at the Old Settlers' Reunion today was disapproved. Trustees unanimously voted to stay with the policy established several years ago.

Burglars Nabbed Before They Enter Warehouse

A 50-year-old man and two 15-year-old boys from Sweetwater were arrested by police at 11:47 p.m. Thursday for investigation of attempted burglary.

They were reported seen trying to enter the Schlitz Distributing Co. warehouse, 309 E. 1st, by N. Teel, 208 Harding, who told police he yelled at them and they ran away and drove off. The subjects were taken into custody at Fourth and State. No entry was made into the warehouse.

Oscar Galindo, a Webb AFB airman, told police Thursday that five tires and wheels had been stolen from his car and had been replaced by four others.

He said the car had been left at a service station at Northwest Fourth and Gregg for repairs about the first of February. Upon returning to pick it up Thursday he discovered the theft.

Four gum machines were taken from Nichols Automatic Laundry, 200 N. Gregg. The owner could not be sure of the money taken and could give no other information.

Banks Slated For TML Talk

Jay Banks, police chief, will speak on Police Department rules and regulations at the 49th Annual Texas Municipal League Conference being held in San Antonio beginning Oct. 29, 1961.

Upon arrival in Big Spring, Banks instituted a system of such rules and regulations. At this time many other police agencies are interested in similar projects for their offices.

Banks will speak at 4 p.m., Oct. 30. About 60 police chiefs are expected to be present.

Saturday Services For Mrs. Walters

Funeral services for Mrs. Dora Lee Walters, 73, who died Wednesday morning in Albuquerque, N. M., will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Nalley - Pickle chapel.

Conducting the service will be the Rev. Elra Phillips, Lubbock, and interment will be in city cemetery. The remains were to arrive here this afternoon and lie in state until service time.

Theft Charged

Charges of car theft have been filed against Orville H. Thomas, 23, of 309 Galveston. He is being held in the county jail in lieu of $1,500 bond.

New Trial Arguments Due

HOUSTON (AP) — Arguments for a new trial for Lewis Douglas Ashley and Carolyn Lima were scheduled today by Judge Miron Love.

The couple drew death sentences May 24 for the Feb. 4 guntorch slaying of Fred Tones, a real estate dealer.

Ashley, 23, was baptised Thursday in the Harris County jail by the Rev. Hardee Weathers, pastor of the Oaklawn Assembly of God Church.

"I now have five Bibles in my cell and a new outlook on life," said Ashley, a female impersonator.

"I'm a changed person," he said. "I have repented. I pray every night after the lights have been turned out in my cell. And don't call me a female impersonator any more. I have reformed."

Ashley and the Lima woman were arrested by FBI agents in New York.

They testified in their May trial that Tones was shot during a fight that developed during a sex party in Tones' office. Tones' nude and charred body was found in a drainage ditch Feb. 4.

Civilians Watch 36th In Action

NORTH FT. HOOD (AP) — Groups of civilians from over the state watched troopers of the 36th Infantry Division engage in mock battles Thursday in this scrub oak area.

They included former Mayor Edwin Kuykendall and Postmaster Dan Quill of San Antonio, publisher Craig Woodson of the Brownwood Bulletin and Houston councilman Bill Swanson.

Maj. Gen. Carl Phinney, division commander, invited the civilians to spend the night and see how their home town soldier boys were doing.

Phinney told the visitors mobilization rumors "have not interrupted our training."

Other visitors included Garvin Beauchamp, Lynn Lee, Walter Woodrum and E. M. Hamilton of Abilene and E. B. Henley Jr. and Jack Broad of Brownwood.

MEN IN SERVICE

Lt. and Mrs. Darrell R. McGee are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. McGee, 419 Edwards Blvd., who recently moved to Big Spring. They came here from Wichita Falls.

Lt. McGee is on a delay en route to Fort Hood. He and his family have spent the past 2½ years at Fort Wainwright, Alaska. He joined the Army in 1953 and in 1957 received a commission upon completion of Officer Candidate School at Fort Benning, Ga.

* * * *

Cadet Everett M. Bailey Jr., whose parents live in Forsan, is receiving six weeks of training at the Army Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) summer camp at Fort Hood. The training is scheduled to be concluded this week.

During the training Cadet Bailey is receiving practical experience and instruction in tactical, technical and administrative subjects, with special emphasis placed on the duties of a second lieutenant. The 21-year-old cadet is a 1958 graduate of Forsan High School and a student at A&M College of Texas in College Station.

OIL REPORT

Project Strikes San Andres Pay

A Garza County prospector struck pay in the San Andres a half-mile east of the Dorward (Glorieta) field. The discoverer is J. E. Blakey Jr. No. 1 A. D. Justice, four miles southwest of Justiceburg.

Two wildcats and two field sites were also staked in the area and a completion was logged in the Snyder field in Howard County.

Garza County gained a wildcat location. J. Paul Karcher and Associates No. 1-A Post-Montgomery, three miles south of Post, is projected to 3,900 feet. It is 1½ miles northeast of the Garza field and will test the Glorieta.

The other explorer is Midwest Oil Corp. No. 1 L. C. Drum, an 8,373-foot Ellenburger project, 16 miles northeast of Gail in Borden County. It is three miles northeast of the Myrtle, West (Ellenburger) field.

In Dawson County, Tidewater No. 2-B Everett Turner, in the Welch field, is due to bottom at 5,000 feet. Ard Drilling Co. No. 4 S. B. Jones is projected to 12,100 feet in the Wells (Devonian) field.

Humble No. 12 M. M. Edwards pumped 47 barrels of oil on initial potential in the Snyder field in Howard County.

Borden

Midwest Oil Corp. No. 1 L. C. Drum is projected to 8,375 feet to test the Ellenburger. The wildcat spots C NW NE, section 467-97, H&TC survey, 16 miles northeast of Gail and three miles northeast of the Myrtle, West (Ellenburger) field.

Dawson

American Trading No. 1 Kent CSL is making hole in red shale below 230 feet. The prospector is C NW NE, labor 2-264, Kent CSL survey.

Sinclair No. 1 Kent CSL is drilling below 12,678 feet in lime and shale. The site is C SW SW, labor 19-265, Kent CSL survey.

Tidewater No. 2-B Everett Turner, spotting C NW NW, section 17-C38, PSL survey, is set to bottom at 5,000 feet in the Welch field. Location is two miles northwest of Welch.

Ard Drilling Co. No. 4 S. B. Jones is projected to 12,100 feet in the Wells (Devonian) field nine miles west of Lamesa. The site is 2,096 feet from the north and 2,310 feet from the west lines of league 2, Taylor CSL survey.

Garza

Conoco No. 6 Thuett is still shut in. Drillsite is 1,011 feet from the north and 974 feet from the west lines of survey 3, Scrap File 8,370.

J. E. Blakey Jr. No. 1 A. D. Justice is a San Andres discoverer which pumped 83.82 barrels of 35.8 gravity oil, with 20 per cent water, on initial potential. The oiler bottomed at 2,102 feet, 5½ inch casing was set at 2,003 feet, an open hole section is between 2,003-102 feet and the gas-oil ratio was nil. It was acidized with 1,000 gallons and fraced with 20,000 gallons. Location is one-half mile east of the Dorward (Glorieta) field and four miles southwest of Justiceburg, spotting C SE SE NE, section 3-6, H&GN survey.

Shell No. 1 Bird is digging below 7,978 feet. Location is C NW NW, section 23-8, H&GN survey.

J. Paul Karcher and Associates No. 1-A Post-Montgomery is contracted to 3,900 feet 1½ miles northeast of the Garza field to test the Glorieta. The venture is 330 feet from the north and 1,693 feet from the west lines of section 1218, TTRR survey, three miles north of Post.

Howard

Humble No. 12 M. M. Edwards pumped 47 barrels of oil with 19 per cent water on initial potential in the Snyder field 11 miles southeast of Coahoma. The gravity was 29.7, gas-oil ratio was 141-1 and the project was fraced with 10,000 gallons. It bottomed at 2,708 feet and 2⅞ inch casing set at 2,705 feet was perforated between 2,572-613 feet. The well spots C SE NW SW, section 32-30-1s, T&P survey.

Smith's Cop Meet Opener By 3-0 Tab

E. C. Smith Construction of Big Spring and Personality Homes of San Angelo have won first round games in the District 6 ASA Softball tournament, top two teams of which play in the State Meet at Brownwood next month.

The tournament opened here last night at the City Park and continues through Saturday night. Smith's opposes Personality Homes at 9 o'clock this evening in the feature game. Charley's Package Store, 3-1 loser to Personality Homes, squares off with Webb AFB, 3-0 victim of Smith's, at 7:30 p.m. in a game that will drop the loser from title consideration.

Charley's scored in the first inning of its game with Personality Homes but John Rowaldt was airtight, after that.

Ken Williams, on the mound for Charley's, did not give up a hit but defensive lapses on the part of Charley's betrayed him.

Ted Gross had put Charley's ahead in the first when he singled, moved to second on Ralph Murphree's single, advanced on Tito Arencibia's sacrifice and pounded home on a wild pitch.

Williams kept San Angelo away from the plate until the fifth, when Morrie Robinson, trying to bunt, reached first on a bobble. Will Farris walked, Al Menchaca followed with a bunt and both runners sprinted home when the ball was thrown away. A passed ball then enabled Menchaca himself to dash home.

Williams fanned 13 and walked only one while Rowaldt whiffed seven and did not pass a batter.

Ted Gross, Murphree, Gene Gross, C. C. Black, Gerold Cox and Williams banged out hits for Charley's.

Billy Paul Thomas who pitched all but the final inning, received credit for the mound victory for E. C. Smith's club.

Smith's picked up its first run in the fourth when Joe Sharpnack was struck by a pitched ball, Marion Tredaway sacrificed Sharpnack to second and Thomas drove a hit to right, enabling Sharpnack to scoot home.

In the fifth, the Contractors added two more runs. James Hollis singled. Pete Cook sacrificed him to second, Jack Morrison got an infield single but Hollis was retired on an attempted steal of third, Morrison going to second on the play.

Buck Drake singled to center to score Morrison and moved up on an error. He later scored on another error, which gave Sharpnack a life.

Thomas gave up only two hits in the six innings he worked. He fanned ten and walked two. Spec Franklin mopped up on the mound for the winners.

Jack Long, the losing flinger, gave up six safeties, struck out four and surrendered three walks.

No one in the game collected more than one hit.

Yankee Star Injured

Roger Maris of the New York Yankees (right), shown here with pitcher Bill Stafford after he had hit his 40th home run in a recent game, was injured sliding into second base Thursday night but he says he'll return to action again tonight. Maris is 22 games ahead of Babe Ruth's pace when Babe set the major league record by hitting 60 in 1927.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

"We may not be able to develop any Ben Hogan or Arnold Palmer," Jerry Green, golf pro at the Big Spring Country Club, said recently, "but we want to build some future golfers."

Jerry, and his brother, Wendy, are serious about the classes they've started for the small fry. They had 27 youngsters out for their first lesson several weeks ago and the registration has remained fairly constant.

Next Wednesday, they'll stage a nine-hole tournament for the young players and sit back and see what benefits have derived from the lessons they've given.

The Green boys are also offering golf lessons to the wives of members of the Country Club, with good results. As many as 30 fems have taken advantage of the proffered lessons. Interest among the women in golf has been sadly down in recent years but it appears to again be on the upswing.

The Big Spring Country Club, by the way, will be the scene of a West Texas Pro-Am Aug. 17.

Such a meeting was held here in May and a record turnout resulted. Many of the players were attracted to the course through curiosity, having never before played the local layout.

The Texas Western College athletic office was deluged with coaches wanting Harold Davis' basketball job, when Harold announced plans to quit and return to Big Spring to make his residence.

Harold answered some of the inquiries himself before departing El Paso.

The college had hoped to withhold the announcement on Davis' resignation and announce that a new coach had been hired at the same time but it didn't work out that way. Don Haskins of Dumas was eventually named to the position.

Davis regretted leaving the coaching field, where he had made many friends, but felt the offer made him by George McAlister was too good to turn down. Besides, Davis always regarded Big Spring as his home. He has a multitude of friends here.

When Whitey Ford, the ace of the New York Yankee pitching staff, attended a tryout school staged by the Brooklyn Dodgers in the late 1940's, he was cut off the squad the very first day.

Those 20 home runs slugged by Gene Lamb when he was a Little Leaguer here several years ago still stand as a record for that class of ball.

Gary Rogers, who pursued his chores in the American Little League this season, drove out 14.

David Glover, the Abilene lad who won the discus throwing championship in the 2-AAAA meet staged here last spring and later wound up as the state titlist, is bound for Texas A & M.

He's accepted a one-half scholarship in track and another in basketball at the College Station school.

Phil George, the San Angelo cage mentor, had hoped to land Glover for his school. As a cager for Nat Gleaton, Glover scored 403 points his senior year, second only to a teammate, Texas Tech-bound Kirby Pugh.

This spring, Glover was named outstanding athlete in Abilene High School, the first time some one other than a footballer had earned such an accolade.

Arroyo Earning His Keep As Yanks' Relief Hurler

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Luis Arroyo probably won't get a vote when they pick the most valuable player in the American League but where would the New York Yankees be without him?

The senor from Puerto Rico was not at his best Thursday night when he made his 40th appearance in 98 games (including one tie) but he finally got the job done.

Ralph Terry, making his first start since July 15 after a bout with shoulder trouble, had the Chicago club eating out of his hand with a three-hit shutout and one out in the ninth. Two hits in a row prompted Manager Ralph Houk to call for Arroyo. Luis walked in one run and let two more score on Camilo Carreon's single before he got pinch hitter Sherm Lollar to bounce into a game-ending double play for a 4-3 victory.

As a result of this decision, the Yanks opened a full game lead on the idle Detroit Tigers.

Baltimore completed a four-game series sweep over Boston with an 8-5 decision behind Chuck Estrada. The Orioles blasted loose with six runs in the seventh inning, rapping three Boston pitchers for four doubles and a single and collecting three walks, to overcome a 5-2 deficit.

Harmon Killebrew's 31st home run put Minnesota out front to stay en route to a 5-2 victory over Washington. Don Lee made the lead stick with a neat four-hitter.

Bobby Del Greco earned his keep in Kansas City with an eighth-inning home run that beat Cleveland's Mudcat Grant 2-1. Reliever Gerry Staley was the winner.

The Yanks' Roger Maris, who leads the majors with 40 homers, and catcher Elston Howard, hitting .362, were injured. Maris aggravated a pulled leg muscle while sliding out a double. Howard was cut on the side of the head when hit by the backlash of Floyd Robinson's bat. Both think they will be able to play tonight against Baltimore.

Dean To Appear In Texas Game

HOUSTON (AP)—A three-inning game by former stars of the Houston Buffs in the Texas League and American Association will be part of ceremonies Monday night marking Houston's last season in the minor leagues.

Among former Buff stars expected are Dizzy Dean, Harry Brecheen and Tex Carleton.

BILL RICHARDSON

Richardson Is West Mentor

Bill Richardson, who starts his second season as head football coach at Garden City High School this fall, has been named assistant to Raymond Etheridge of Harrold, who will coach the West eight-man all-stars in the annual all-star football game at Huntsville a week from tomorrow.

The school was founded in Big Spring in 1946 and conducted here for several years. At that time, the American Business Club was sponsor.

The game is one of three all-star contests highlighting the 15th annual Six and Eight-Man Football Association Coaches school, which starts on the Sam Houston State College campus Thursday and continues for three days.

Jack Asbill and Don McDonald, both of Sterling City; Carroll Ramsey, Gail; and William Conger, Forsan, will be among the players playing for the West in the game.

Bob Stratton and Jerry Whitaker, both of High Island High School, will coach the East in the eight-man game.

Rickey Wright, Water Valley; Mike Holcomb, Flower Grove; and Dunnell Eubanks, Ira, are among the West players who will play in the Six-Man game, which will be unreeled Friday night.

Sam Mayo of Three Way and Charlie Eagler of Buna will coach the West stars in that contest. The East squad will be handled by Numan Ward of Normangee and Lee Snider of Oakwood.

Harold McGehee of Mertzon will coach the West in the all-star basketball game, scheduled for 8 p.m. Thursday. W. O. Hatfield of Medina will be the East's coach.

Performing for the West will be David Oats, Loop; and Leamon Tankersley of Mertzon.

Rebel Cause Is Favorite In Ruidoso Derby Sprint

RUIDOSO, N. M.—The annual running of the Ruidoso Derby, with a total purse to exceed $21,000 draws twin billing with the KROD Radio and TV Allowance, a thoroughbred event at 6½ furlongs, on Sunday's fine card at the Downs.

The Derby, which this year will carry the richest purse in history, will find the co-favorites, Rebel Cause and Diamond Charge, so closely matched that it would seem almost impossible to choose between the two.

Rebel Cause, property of Dale Robertson, television and motion picture actor, was sired by Top Deck and out of Bankette and boasts one of the finest racing records in Quarter Horse history.

With his winnings totaling more than $63,000, of his 21 lifetime starts, he has scored a total of ten wins, six seconds and two thirds.

He holds the distinction of having beaten every horse that had previously defeated him. Under the capable conditioning of one of the best quarter horse trainers in America, Gene Chambless, and the veteran quarter horse rider, Henry Moore, named to the riding assignment, he must draw strong consideration.

The other half of the favorites role must go to the hard hitting Diamond Charge, owned by J. D. Askew, of Fayetteville, Ark.

Under the training of L. G. Culver, who conditioned last year's quarter horse star, Vandy's Flash.

Nominations:

FIRST (7½ furl.)—Estralock, Lynitre, Archie Did, Regal Countess, Trucker, Dalmatic, Janie McGee, Wide Angle, Mr. P. A., Shertist Duke; also Ole Chap, Running Texan, Suntige, Spankie V.

SECOND (6 furl.)—Pursuance, Jacerry, Orens Pride, Sturgeon, C. C. Gray Soldier, Donald Sea, San Patricio, Miz Denny, Mach One; also Dooley L., Col. Blond, Dawn Wind, Pink Cork.

THIRD (350 yards)—Hay Meadow, Red Pepper Dee, Mine Gal, Desecho, Lou Van, Squaw Ann, Do Win, Chicada Dial, Flicks Wagon, Pal's Chico; also Lady Jag, Sra Socorro, Badger Buck, Hank Wampes.

FOURTH (400 yards)—Idle Time, Direct Gates, Tm Boots, Mr. Casbee, Tex Per cent, Bar Mike, Bright Horus, Top Tilie, David Cox, Ruby Rush, also Miss Sassy Gill, Reger's Hornet, Twin Pipes.

FIFTH (400 yards)—Golden Boy Whiz, Apple Lee, Wise Duchess, Mays Pilgrim, Roda Creel, Miss Teen, Clover Leaf, Bum Bar, Custus Sandy, Billie Bar Be; also Hy Mary, Mary Sunshine, No Comment, Hy Adventure.

SIXTH (5½ furl.)—Berwyn, Mr. Teegee B., Jim Lea, Firm Eye, Jexler, Western Music, Fair Sol, Blue Stage, Nell's Allbhal.

Art Wall Leads PGA, Palmer Is Far Back

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Lanky Art Wall, so used to trouble and playing so well he can't be bothered by conditions irking most of the other pros, takes a one-stroke lead and a bundle of regained confidence into the second round of the PGA golf championship today.

The way this veteran of aches and pains manhandled the par 35-35 — 70, 6,722-yard Olympia Field Country Club course with his brilliant 3-under-par 33-34—67 on Thursday, the Palmers, Players and the rest may be looking up to him the rest of the way.

While many of the huge field of 166 grumbled over the "flying grass" of the North Course fairways they claim nullifies any consistent control of approach shots, Wall calmly set about keeping himself trim for the rest of the weekend rumble that is scheduled to end Sunday.

"When things are going good for you, everything goes good," said Wall, who finally has regained 100 per cent health after a series of illnesses and injuries since he won the Masters championship and was golf's top money-winner in 1959.

The 6-foot-1, 175-pound pro from Pocono Manor, Pa., has played only in bits and dashes while he recovered from—in order, a twisted right knee, a kidney ailment, a torn rib cartilage, and a damaged groin muscle.

Wall, who laughed agreement when someone suggested his 67 was probably his best played round since his sizzling last day 66 won the 1959 Masters, finished late in the day and wrested the first-round lead from defending champion Jay Hebert of Lafayette, La., and chunky Ernie Vossler of Oklahoma City. They had 68's.

Little Jerry Barber and former champion Doug Ford were at 69 with Bill Heinlein, 50, club pro from Carmel, Ind., playing in his 18th PGA. Among the others still far from out of it were such as Doug Sanders and Bob Rosburg in a group at 70, national open champion Gene Littler in a group of 10 at 71, Player, three-time champion Sam Snead, Ken Venturi, Mike Souchak and Tommy Bolt in a huge contingent at 72, and a grim, disappointed Arnie Palmer in another bunch at 73.

Palmer, Rosburg and Player called Olympia's "flying grass" fairways the worst they had ever played.

"They're ridiculous," said Palmer, who needs the PGA title to complete a four-way slam of the British Open, U.S. Open and Masters championships within the last 16 months.

AFTER SOME DEBATE

Athletic Dept. Gets An Auto

Purchase of a station wagon for the athletic department was approved Thursday night by trustees of the Big Spring Independent School District at a special meeting held at Cosden Country Club.

Essentially the same terms were offered by Shasta Ford Sales, Inc. for the car as were offered previously except that a $250 credit will not be received because the car is not for driver education. The car will cost $2,810.22. This will be charged to the athletic budget and the car will be purchased outright.

At the end of one year's use, the car will be traded in with the school paying the difference between cash received for the used car and a new car purchase on the same basis. The maximum which this difference could be is $175, according to the repurchase agreement.

Shasta Ford Sales, Inc. will be responsible for all repairs and adjustments on the car while the school will pay for gasoline, oil, tires and adequate insurance. Should a 1961 model be unavailable, a similar plan will be offered on a 1962 car.

There was little discussion of the purchase since the consensus was that it would be more economical than continuing to pay travel allowances. A portion of the cost of the car will thereby be paid out of each year's savings.

Contingent on purchase of the vehicle are the amounts to be spent for a car allowance, travel and coaching schools expense of the athletic director. Tentative figures approved when the budget was approved were $240, $900 and $600 respectively. These will be altered as trustees see fit upon approval of the budget.

The car is a nine passenger station wagon with an eight cylinder engine, automatic transmission, power steering, heater, radio, tinted glass, air-conditioner and safety equipment items—safety belt for the front seat and a padded panel and sun visors.

Wide-Open Race Seen By Coach

TEMPLE, Tex. (AP)—Any one of six teams might win the Southwest Conference football crown this year, predicts John Bridgers, head coach and athletic director at Baylor University.

He said the race will be between Baylor, Texas, Rice, Arkansas, Texas A&M and Texas Christian.

Bridgers made his predictions before a Temple civic club.

Speaking of Baylor, he said "You'll have to include us in the list. The boys who carried us as sophomore are now seniors. In them we have the fastest back field in the country."

He was speaking of Ronnie Bull who runs 100 yards in 9.7 seconds; Ronnie Goodwin, 10 seconds, and Tommie Minter and Don Adams who have done it in 9.6.

Webb Will Get Bowling Center

Some $7,967 of a $20,000 grant at Webb AFB, taken from base non-appropriated welfare funds, has been earmarked for a new six-lane bowling center there.

The $7,967 item is one-third of the estimated cost of the new alleys. The other two-thirds of the cost will be met from fees paid by bowlers patronizing the establishment.

The new alleys will meet standards set by the American Bowling Congress. Not only will new lanes be installed, but approaches, pin decks, gutters and ball returns will be provided.

Fleckman Leads Junior Tourney

LAKE JACKSON, Tex. (AP)—The State Jaycee Junior Golf Tournament moved into the final round today with Marty Fleckman of Port Arthur sporting a narrow two stroke lead.

Fleckman fired a two under par 70 in the first round Thursday to go two strikes ahead of Bob Leftwich of Houston and Sandy Hanes of Jacksonville.

All-BS Final Is Assured

ANDREWS—It will be an all-Big Spring final in the Little League District tournament here Saturday night.

That fact was assured Thursday evening when the Big Spring Internationals turned back Goldsmith, 5-3, and the Big Spring Nationals decisioned the Andrews Nationals, 2-1.

The results put the Internationals in the semifinals against the Big Spring Americans and send the Big Spring Nationals all the way to the Saturday night finals.

Winner of the meet becomes eligible to take part in the Sectional tournament starting in Big Spring next Thursday night.

The Internationals and the Americans clash at 7:30 p.m. today in the Andrews American League park.

Jack Ellis, the Internationals' catcher, turned in two key plays at home plate in the third inning to repel Goldsmith runners, at a time Goldsmith was threatening to take the lead in last night's game.

He retired two runners, one on a sensational throw by Duane Murphree.

The Internationals later scored what proved to be the winning runs in the fifth on a double by Ellis, a single by Tommy Viruet and a one-baser by Mike Peterson.

Jimmy Carruthers was the winning pitcher. He gave up four hits to the Goldsmith team, two of which were off the bat of the losing pitcher, Larry Anderson.

Viruet and Peterson each collected two hits for the Internationals. Ellis and Peterson each tallied twice for the Internationals while Viruet crossed the plate once.

Sammy Mims fashioned the mound win for the Big Spring Nationals, surrendering only three hits to Andrews. He helped his own cause with a fourth-empty home run with the sacks deserted.

Lonnie Clanton accounted for the other Nationals' run with a leadoff round tripper in the second.

TEXAS LAWMEN
NOAH SMITHWICK
the "Peaceful" Ranger
"With the courage of his convictions . . ."

In 1827, a peace-loving blacksmith of 19 years drifted into Texas. He soon found anything but peace. As a skilled gunsmith and armorer, Noah was on hand to prepare the fighting hardware for the Texas revolutionary battle of Concepción, and to participate with enthusiasm. Later he was one of the San Jacinto combatants who pursued the retreating Mexicans far south of the Rio Grande. After that he joined the Texas Rangers for a very active two years of frontier duty, leaving the service in 1838 when the force was disbanded temporarily. Then, as a justice of the peace at Webber's Prairie, a Lieutenant of Texas Militia, armorer at Fort Croghan, life continued in a fairly unpeaceful way — until 1861. Because he opposed secession so strongly, Smithwick shook the dust of Texas for California. History does not record his later years, but he found time to record a great deal of history — his highly colorful reminiscences of early days in the Lone Star State.

Texas never could have become a great state without the courage and devotion to duty of her lawmen — nor without the commerce and industry that have provided prosperity and the good life. The brewing industry, too, has had a part in this development. Providing payrolls and the pleasure of moderate beverages, revenue and relaxation — "beer belongs." The United States Brewers Association is constantly at work with brewers, wholesalers, retailers and local authorities to assure the sale of beer and ale under pleasant, orderly and law-abiding conditions.

DEAR ABBY

Try To Enjoy Country Life

DEAR ABBY: When we bought this house in the country, the real estate dealer said it was a "fashionable surburban district."

The people next door to us must think they are living 100 miles from nowhere. Every morning, when the husband is running for the bus, his wife yells after him what to bring home from the store. And at midnight their 6-year-old boy is still up playing with his guns.

I was criticized for keeping my screen door latched. I was told that people who live in the suburbs "trust" each other. Yet I can't leave the milk money in the milk bottles because somebody always gets it before my milkman. Have you any advice for a disgusted suburbanite?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: Tell your neighbors to keep the noise down. Pay the milkman by the month. Lock your door and enjoy the country—or else, move back to the city!

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter eloped hastily, and we have succeeded in getting her marriage annulled. The whole thing was a nightmare, and we do not care to talk about it. What should we tell people who ask for the details?

DEAR PARENTS: Don't tell them anything. Your friends won't ask you, and your enemies won't believe you anyway.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have a little boy four years old. I've taught him to ask me when he wants candy, chewing gum, etc. (I have seen so many children go into the drawers and help themselves without asking permission.) It has gotten so that my son now asks my permission for everything. Such as, "May I take off my sweater?" Or, "Should I ride my trike or play with my dump-truck?" Do you think I have been too strict about insisting that he ask for my permission? Will my strictness cause him to be unable to decide anything for himself?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: You were wise to have trained your son to ask for permission for any "goodies" he wanted, by you should have told him WHY he must have your permission to eat sweets. When he seeks approal on a decision that is of no consequence, explain that he may do as he wishes. He'll soon learn what requires permission and what doesn't.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: What, exactly, does it mean when a girl wears a boy's school ring on the third finger of her right hand?

INQUISITIVE

DEAR INQUISITIVE: It means she has him wrapped around her finger.

* * *

What's bothering you? For a personal reply, write to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. include a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Youth Placed On Probation

The 16-year-old youth who stole $1,500 from the Newsom Food store safe on July 3, told Judge Ed Carpenter in juvenile court Thursday that he regretted his act and that he "had learned his lesson."

The boy, who will be 17 in October, was placed on probation to his mother and father. They accompanied him to court.

The youth was warned that he could have been prosecuted and sent to prison had he been three months older.

The $1,500 was taken from the store safe by the boy who was an employe of the store. He was tracked by his lavish expenditure of money on his automobile and, when confronted by a lie detector test, broke down and confessed the crime. He led officers to a barn where the remainder of the money—$866—was buried.

The boy and his parents assured Carpenter the balance of the money would be repaid to Don Newsom, owner of the store.

Graduation Set In Bigger Area

Graduating exercises for pilots at Webb AFB, normally held in the Base Chapel, have been moved to the auditorium at the Academics Building for the Aug. 4 ceremonies at which 53 members of Class 62-A will receive their wings.

Reason for the move was the scheduled arrival of approximately 200 Explorer Scouts at Webb for the annual Explorer Field Meet. These young men have been invited by the Base Commander, Col. Donald W. Eisenhart, to attend the graduation exercises. The field meet has been set for the following Saturday, and the Explorer Scouts will participate.

Lt. James W. Hurt, one of the flying instructors at Webb, has been named as liaison officer, and will assist in the coordination of the activities.

Enter Farm Bureau Contest

Three contestants in Howard County Farm Bureau Contest are, from left, Cleta Newsom, Glenda Haney and Janie Jeffcoat.

10 Girls Have Now Signed Up For Farm Bureau Contest

Ten girls have entered the Howard County Farm Bureau queen contest.

Signed thus far are Glenda Haney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Haney; Judy Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Brooks, Coahoma; Janie Jeffcoat, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Jeffcoat, Knott; Cleta Newsom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Newsom, Elbow; Jeninne Hodnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hodnett, Vincent;

Gwen Proctor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Proctor, Gail Route.

Also, Sue Lockhart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lockhart, Gail Route; Dorothy Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Covie Williams, Ackerly; Sue Dement, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Dement, Knott; and Sandra Baker, daughter of Mrs. Dena Baker and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Robinson.

The contest is set for 8 p.m. Aug. 5 in the Howard County Junior College Auditorium. Jo Anne Forrest will be emcee for the show, which will carry out a cotton theme.

In conjunction with the contest, a parade of future contestants, ages 3 to 15, will be held. Emcee for the parade will be Ed Cumbie of Bronte.

Registration for the contest is still open to all girls between 16 and 21 who come from farm families in Howard County.

Judges To Pick Beauty Titlists

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Judges at the International Beauty Congress, dazzled all week by lovely faces and shapely figures, face their roughest task tonight—picking the winner.

Besides the honor, the girl chosen as Miss International Beauty receives a $10,000 cash prize.

For many of the 52 contestants, the final night of the annual beauty pageant will be an anticlimax. Thirty-seven of the girls, eliminated in Thursday night's semifinals, will view the proceedings from the sidelines.

The 15 semifinalists still very much in the running, are:

Miss Brazil, Vera Marie Brauner; Miss Canada, Edna MacVicar; Miss Ceylon, Kamala Athauda; Miss China; Dolly Ma; Miss Finland, Marja Ryona; Miss Germany, Renate Moller; Miss Holland, Stanny van Baer; Miss Iceland, Sigrun Ragnarsdottir; Miss Ireland, Irene Ruth Kane; Miss Israel, Dalia Lion; Miss Malaya, Helen Tan Hong Lean; Miss Norway, Aase - Marie Schmedling; Miss Panama, Angela Alove; Miss Spain, Carmen Cervera; and Miss Paraguay, Gladys Fernandez.

Uruguay's entrant, Monica Moor-Davie, 22, was voted the title of Miss Friendship.

Judge Indicted On Bribery Counts

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Municipal Judge Lynn W. Johnston, 42, of Downey has been indicted by the county grand jury. He is accused of offering leniency to four young women in prison in return for intimacies.

The jury indicted Johnston on Thursday on four counts of bribery. If convicted, he could be disbarred and sentenced to a prison term of 1 to 40 years.

Johnston, married and the father of three children, was arrested July 20 after registering at a beach motel. Police acted on a tip from Miss Vida Dolphus, 26, of Anaheim, who awaited sentence by Johnston on a bad check charge.

Three other women, all in their 20s, made similar accusations against the judge. He has been in office since 1957.

Vacation School Slated By Church

Vacation Church School at the First Christian Church will begin Monday and continue through Friday, Aug. 4. Classes will be held from 8:30 to 11 a.m. each morning. "Personal and Group Relations" has been chosen as the theme of the week.

Age groups will be divided into kindergarten, four- and five-year-olds; six-year-old preschoolers; primary, first, second and third graders; junior, fourth, fifth and sixth graders.

Dow Co. Sued In Road Crash

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP)—A $278,778 damage suit has been filed by five relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Hal B. Sanson of Midland, who were injured fatally in a car-truck crash April 2.

The action is against Dow Chemical Co. and Thomas Edward Moore of Midland, a Dow employe named as driver of one of the vehicles involved in the crash 5 miles northwest of Midland.

Those bringing the suit are Wanda Nell Sanson, who was injured in the accident, and Carl N. Sanson and L. C. Neatherlin, all of Midland, and Mrs. Patty Jean Sanson Chandler and her husband, Clarence Chandler Jr. of Floydada.

Yuri Leaves For Brazil

HAVANA (AP) — Yuri Gagarin left for Brazil today after a four-day visit that dramatized the Soviet Union's support for Fidel Castro's revolution. Castro and his Cabinet saw him off at the airport.

The boyish, smiling 27-year-old Soviet astronaut closed out his official appearances here Thursday night with a television show at Havana University. He sidestepped political questions from a panel of professors, students and Cuban newsmen.

However, in an allusion to the United States, he said his space flight "cooled the hot heads of some persons who think only in terms of war."

Gagarin came to Havana to help Castro celebrate the eighth anniversary of the start of the 26th of July Movement. He remained on the platform for seven hours Wednesday as Castro announced plans for a Communist-style single "united party of the Socialist revolution."

The exertions of keeping up with Castro in the unaccustomed Havana heat obviously tired Gagarin.

Today, Castro sent a message to the people of the Communist world in connection with the anniversary.

"We want to thank all our brothers who are helping us so much for showing immense solidarity with the Cuban revolution," the message said. "The Cuban people are alert against North American (U.S.) imperialism, and thanks to the solidarity of all Socialist countries, the Cuban revolution will succeed over any attempted aggression."

Iraq Charges 'Espionage'

DAMASCUS (AP) — Abdul Karim Altai, Iraqi Consul General, charged today three British soldiers seized inside Iraq's southern border were "carrying out espionage" on orders of the British command in Kuwait.

Altai said in a statement that a preliminary investigation had shown the Britons carried maps "of the utmost importance."

Baghdad Radio said earlier this week the three would be tried by an Iraqi court martial but did not disclose the charges against them.

The soldiers, members of a British force sent to Kuwait after Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem threatened to annex the oil-rich sheikdom, disappeared Sunday while on a patrol mission in an armored car.

They are the only prisoners reported take so far along the tense border. The soldiers said they were ordered to reconnoiter the Safwan-Kuwait highway and they strayed across the unmarked frontier.

Iraqi officials said maps, arms and ammunition were found in the armored car. The British Embassy in Baghdad, contending the border crossing was by mistake, has been trying unsuccessfully to get the trio released.

AT&T Planning To Orbit Communications Satellites

WASHINGTON (AP)—A cooperative agreement for development and testing of communications satellites next year was announced today.

The agreement was signed by Dr. Robert C. Cannas Jr., associate administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and Frederick R. Kappel, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Under terms of the agreement, AT&T will design and build two to four satellites at its own expense.

The company will reimburse NASA for the costs of the Thor-Delta launching vehicles, launching and tracking facilities, and Cape Canaveral, Fla., launch-crew services and range facilities.

AT&T will report to NASA the results of the experiments and other information bearing on the communications satellite programs.

NASA said that all the experimental data and project results would be made available to the world scientific community. President Kennedy has invited other nations to cooperate in developing a worldwide satellite communications system.

The satellites will be spherical in shape and will weigh 125 pounds each. They will be launched into orbits ranging in altitudes of 600 and 3,000 miles.

Experiments in television, two-way telephone, radio and telegraph transmissions will be conducted between AT&T stations at Rumford, Maine, and Holmdel, N.J., by way of the satellites.

Signals will be beamed to the satellites on a frequency of 6390 megacycles, and the satellites will transmit to ground stations on 4170 megacycles.

Airman Drowns

Outside Directors Take Over Chrysler

DETROIT (AP) — Outside directors—men who hold no management positions with the company—have taken control of the Chrysler Corp. for the first time since the late Walter Chrysler founded the auto firm in 1925.

Following a meeting in New York Thursday the corporation announced the resignation of L. L. (Tex) Colbert as chairman, president, chief executive officer, chief operating officer and director.

The directors installed Lynn A. Townsend as president and abolished the rest of Colbert's jobs, even to reducing the number of board members by one—to 17.

For Colbert they created a new post—chairman of the board of Chrysler of Canada, Ltd. This will enable him to keep his stock options (45,000 shares at $52.49 a share, slightly above the present market price) and to remain eligible for his Chrysler pension ($92,250 a year when he retires nine years hence.)

The action came exactly one year after Chrysler disclosed it had fired its previous president, William C. Newberg, because he owned half interests in two companies whose sole business was making parts for Chrysler. Newberg had been Colbert's personal choice and close friend.

Newberg was dismissed June 30, 1960, but it was not until July 29 that the corporation spelled out the reason.

After Newberg, Chrysler tried without success to lure top men from other auto companies as president with Colbert to remain as board chairman.

Meanwhile lawsuits against Colbert and the directors by dissident stockholders complaining of the management began to pile up.

Last fall a committee of the outside directors set out to find a new man. Townsend, a financial expert who only joined the company in 1957, was told early this week he was their choice.

Townsend's elevation came concurrently with the company's announcement it had made a $6.2 million profit in the second quarter of 1961. Chrysler lost $21.9 million in the first quarter.

Townsend, 42, who became administrative vice president last December, has been the chief architect of a drastic cost-cutting program at Chrysler.

Both Colbert and Townsend refused to elaborate on the meeting in New York. So did George H. Love of Pittsburgh, who became chairman of the new executive committee of the corporation. In addition to Love its members are R. E. McNeill of New York, Neil McElroy of Cincinnati, L. F. McCollum of Houston and Townsend.

When the Chrysler board meets Love will preside. He said he will resign as chairman of M. A. Hannah Co. and as director of National Steel Corp. to devote more time to Chrysler.

From its inception until the past April, Chrysler's board has been dominated by company employes and controlled by the president or board chairman who had the power to fire such employes.

In April the board offered a revised slate of directors to the annual meeting which for the first time put the balance of power with directors not working for Chrysler.

C-City, TESCO Agree On Water, Electric Rates

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The city council and Texas Electric Service Co. officials hammered out a new agreement on electric rates and water rates, in a special meeting Wednesday evening.

The new contract gives the company a 50 year franchise, increases electric rates, sets new usage rates on city water, and turns over the company's Lake Champion to the city for policing. It replaces the old contract which had 16 years to go.

City Manager Earl Keaton reported on the meeting Thursday afternoon. Company officials included Beeman Fisher of Fort Worth, president of the company; A. L. McSpadden, manager of the local TESCO office; and Burl Hulsey. The meeting was not previously announced.

Colorado City will continue to purchase water from TESCO at five cents per 1,000 gallons, if demands remain the same. If usage should fall, an increase in the guaranteed minimum from $12,000 to $20,000 would raise costs. The bill in 1960 was $24,343.

If usage should increase to more than 730 million gallons per year, the rate would jump from five cents to about 11 cents per thousand gallons. The city used 432 million gallons in 1960.

Company officials estimate the electric rate increase will cost the homeowner about 32 cents or more per month. Commercial users will pay increases of $20 or more per month.

The city will purchase Lake Champion, with the exception of the company's area and TESCO reserved the right to restrict a larger area of the lake and shoreline, if necessary. The city will have a park site near the dam of between 20 and 25 acres.

Washing Machine Takes Boy's Leg

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Daniel Hughes, 5, lost his left leg Thursday after his foot got caught in the family washing machine.

The boy was playing alone in the basement when his parents, John and Patricia, heard him scream. The father freed the boy. At Nazareth Hospital it was decided that the leg had to be removed below the knee.

The Hughes have seven other children.

Small Tornado, More Rain Storms Hit South Texas

By The Associated Press

South Texas had cloudy skies again Friday after another day of scattered thundershowers and a small tornado.

The twister hit Farris Schlinke's farm 6 miles north of Cuero and ripped apart outbuildings and uprooted trees. No one was injured. Cuero itself was raked by a thunderstorm.

Heavy rain fell again in areas of the Lower Rio Grande Valley, delaying the cotton harvest.

Gary Crosby Gives Up Canine

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Singer Gary Crosby has given up one of his four dogs.

Neighbors complained that his canine brood was "a detriment to the neighborhood and a nuisance."

A zoning restriction in Crosby's suburban Encino neighborhood prohibits issuance of a kennel permit, required for persons with more than three dogs.

Texas' GOP Senator Is Against Negro Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — In his maiden speech to the Senate Thursday, John Tower opposed the nomination of Spottswood Robinson III, a Negro, to the Civil Rights Commission.

The Senate confirmed the nomination 73-17, with Tower being the only Republican voting no. Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., voted yes.

Discrimination

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexico has charged that the United States and Canada are discriminating against her in wood products importation.
