

Deadline to File for City Office March 2

Saturday, March 2, is the deadline for candidates to file for city office, City Secretary Russell Yates reminded this week.

The city election will be on Tuesday, April 2, at the city hall.

The term of Mayor Hiram Cudd expires, as do the terms of council members Quinton Brewer and Mack Saied.

Mayor Cudd told The Wellington Leader Tuesday at noon that he will file his candidacy for re-election before the deadline.

At that time no one else had filed for the office.

Neither had anyone filed for either of the city council posts.

Bob Johnson, 30-year-old Wellington mechanic, died unexpectedly at his home about 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, February 26.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Thursday at Faith Baptist Church. The Rev. Kenneth Quaid, pastor, and the Rev. Clay Coursey, a former pastor, will officiate.

1963 Soil Fertility Program Spotlights Advances in Area

This year's soil fertility program, an annual event, is slated for Thursday, March 7, at 7:30 p.m. Dwane Scott, farm demonstration assistant of the Northwest Research Demonstration program announced this week.

Condensed into one meeting, the program will be in the district court room.

Three men who have been closely identified with the research demonstration program here will be the speakers.

The high point for local farmers and business men will be the report on the results of the local tests, given by Dr. Alex Pope, agronomist with the Texas Experiment Station at Lubbock.

Dr. Pope is due to go into considerable detail on those tests relating to soil fertility and fertilizer results in the tests.

In view of the tremendous increase in production brought about in this area as a result of experiments the past few years under the Northwest Texas Research Demonstration program, farmers from this section will be especially interested in the results of this year's experiments.

The other speakers will be Jim Valentine, area soil chemist with the Texas Extension Service, Lubbock, and Dave W. Sherrill, area irrigation specialist with the Extension Service at Lubbock.

Valentine will discuss soil testing and fertilizer methods, and Sherrill will talk on irrigation and fertility.

"Interest in soil fertility and fertilizer methods is greater than it has ever been here," Scott reminded.

"We feel that in sponsoring this meeting and others like it, Collingsworth farmers will be able to get information that will mean money in their pockets."

"We hope every farmer and business man will attend."

The soil fertility program is sponsored by the crops subcommittee of the agriculture committee of the Overall Economic Development Program.

Scott, who has been in charge of the research demonstration work here since it started, is in charge of the arrangements for the meeting.

C.W. Roberts, One of First County Settlers, Dies at 101

Collingsworth's ranking pioneer who played so great a part in the development of the county is dead at the age of 101.

C. W. Roberts died at 7:50 a.m. Sunday, February 24, in the spacious home on Arlington Street that he himself had built for his family after he was 60 years of age.

George Shadid

George Shadid Will Head Red Cross Drive

George Shadid will head the annual Red Cross fund raising drive in Collingsworth this year, and Monday he announced the opening date of the drive as Friday, March 15.

"The assistance of all workers will be required to raise the fund this year," Shadid emphasized.

The total quota has not been announced.

Workers in the various communities of the county, and those in Wellington, were being contacted, and the complete list will be announced next week, Shadid said.

In discussing the upcoming drive, Shadid pointed out the various services of the Red Cross, both those in time of disaster and the everyday services taken for granted.

One of the major local services, rendered through the home service office, is that of go-between for men in the armed forces and their families in case of emergencies.

Another service is that of giving aid to the needy, who have no other source of help.

He was the last of the 88ers, the small group that came that year to the still unorganized county, who found rolling hills covered with fine grass as far as the eye could see, and who stayed to develop it into a leading agricultural county.

Mr. Roberts' life was so interwoven with the growth of this area, that when he reminisced, it was history itself told first hand.

But Collingsworth county, that he loved so well, was not the first frontier on which he lived. As a 12-year-old boy, he had walked beside a covered wagon as it brought his family from southern Illinois to their new home at Fort Worth—a town that had only two grocery stores and two restaurants, one of which his father bought.

Charley Washington Roberts was born in Eastern Tennessee September 25, 1861. When he was still a baby, his parents moved to Illinois.

He accepted Collingsworth county sight-unseen. He decided to quit the freighting business in Fort Worth and move his wife and two small children to the new country north of Childress in 1888.

He bought his first land for $2 an acre, and later the state reduced this to $1.

Only two other families were in the entire flats when he arrived.

"I thought it was the prettiest country I ever saw. I have liked it ever since I saw it for the first time," he once said.

There were many first in Mr. Roberts' life in Collingsworth. He attended the first preaching services. He hauled the first load of lumber for the first school, Fresno, and for many years he was a trustee.

In 1890, with the organization of the county, Mr. Roberts was one of seven men chosen to pick the site for a tract of land at the present intersection of State Highway 203 and FM 1035 and named it Pearl. Then the rival town of Wellington was started and the

Two Oil Tests Under Way in, Near County

Two oil tests made news in Collingsworth trade area during the last week. One was at Dozier, the other near Dodson. A flow of 75 barrels of oil in 18 hours was reported from a well put down last week on the John Bergman farm at Dozier.

The depth of the well was reported at 2101 feet.

Frankfort Oil Company holds the oil rights on this farm, according to records on file in the county clerk's office. The gas rights are owned by El Paso Natural Gas Co.

Frank Wood Associates of Wichita Falls is the contractor and King and King, also of Wichita Falls, are the drillers, according to information available here.

Mr. Bergman said the well was plugged back 28 feet and it was to be drilled to the 2101 level again Wednesday, Feb. 27.

This is an offset to a gas well on the Bergman farm, he reported.

It is located in the south part of section 73, block 16.

Kizer Well

A 7,000-foot test is going down on the J. F. Kizer farm about three miles east of Dodson in Oklahoma and was below 1,700 feet during the week end.

This test is in the northeast one-fourth of section 19, range 26 west, township 4 north.

This well is in the Dodson trade area.

A drilling firm out of Wichita Falls is reported as putting down the well.

Final Rites Friday for Mrs. W. G. Taylor

Mrs. W. G. Taylor, who had lived here 54 years, died Thursday, February 21, in Thomas Nursing Home, after being in ill health several months.

For many years, Mrs. Taylor was associated with her husband and her son, the late Fred Taylor, in the operation of the Taylor Creamery, which during the 1920's and 1930's was one of the leading businesses of its type in this area. She was active in the business as long as it remained in operation.

Mrs. Taylor was the former Blanche Veal and was born in Roanoke, Ala., Jan. 19, 1881.

She and Mr. Taylor were married in Mangum in 1900, and later moved to Henrietta, where they remained until coming here.

Mrs. Taylor was a member of First Christian Church.

Funeral services were conducted at Kelo Chapel at 3:30 p.m. Friday, with Min. Gilbert Forrest officiating.

Pall bearers were Cicero Gully, Alvin Horton, Ollie Raburn, Carroll Blevins, Claude Killingsworth and Luther Sullivan.

Chamber of Commerce Maps Work Program

Collingsworth Chamber of Commerce came out this week with the most comprehensive work program of recent years, with some revamping in almost every department.

At least three of these geared-up departments are in lock step with the recently organized OEDP committee working under Area Redevelopment, according to N. M. Higdon, C-C manager.

These are the water resource-es, industrial development, and agriculture and livestock committees.

Almost all other committees are cooperating with the OEDP indirectly.

Jack Sanford, C-C president, announced the committees and the program of work each proposed to carry out. Many of the projects are continuations of those set up last year or even earlier.

Water Resources

The flexible work program of the Water Resources committee allows that group complete freedom in working with the Overall Economic Development committee and with the Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District.

Dan Henard is chairman. Today one of the key men in Collingsworth water development, he also is chairman of the water board and chairman of the OEDP water committee.

Working with him on the C-C water committee are J. T. Slay, also a member of the water board, Deskins Wells, editor of The Wellington Leader, George Shadid, represented Wellington on the Greenbelt Water Board, and Alvin Horton, Wellington business man.

The water committee in late 1962 helped to prepare the OEDP report which was responsible for this county's being approved by Area Redevelopment.

"Along with the OEDP water committee and the water board, the Chamber of Commerce water committee has as Mrs. Otto Buerger, a Collingsworth county resident 56 years, died in St. Joseph's Hospital at 4:45 p.m. Monday, February 25.

Her death was unexpected. Although she had been ill several weeks, she was thought to be improving and on Sunday she had driven to her farm south of town. By Monday her condition became critical.

She was married to Otto Buerger May 21, 1911 in Wellington.

Their home was nine miles south of Wellington, where both Mr. and Mrs. Buerger were active in community and farm life. Following his death, Dec. 29, 1945, she continued to manage her farm. A few years ago she moved to town.

Not in many years have there been as many crows as there are in Collingsworth this winter. Heretofore, they have been content to live in the shelterbelts and feed in the fields. This year, they moved into Wellington, to roost in the trees and feed on lawns. They are tamer, too, for never before could a photographer come this close with a normal lens. Hunters often kill from 300 to 500 per night of these wary birds.

The general fund takes the largest portion of the tax dollar, 53 cents. Other items are:

Jury fund, 4 cents.

Road and bridge sinking fund, none.

Court house and jail, general fund, 8 cents.

Courthouse bond sinking fund, 6 cents.

Road and bridge sinking fund, 9 cents.

$250 Check Pays 22 Year Old Debt to Oran Starkey

Oran Starkey probably got the best dose of medicine for a hard case of flu.

Last week, while he was sick, Starkey received a letter and check for $250. It was from a man who moved from here in April, 1941, owing him that amount.

The man explained that he had a little hard going when he first left here, but he was doing better in recent years.

He knew he owed the money, and he wanted to pay it, even after 22 years, the man wrote.

He now lives on the Plains.

Let's Visit Our Schools During Public School Week

The need for the public school never changes, but times and conditions may change or require to be changed methods and practices of public education.

This is inherent with anything that grows, for growth is the result of change.

Our Texas public schools were created 109 years ago. In 1854 the first law was passed establishing the public school.

It is a healthy thing in our democratic way of life to have intelligent understanding of the important functions of our basic institutions. This is especially true of the schools. The initiative and resourcefulness and the wisdom and leadership that our schools are inculcating in the youth of today are the answer of the problems of citizenship in the years ahead.

"Yes, 'bring me men to match my mountains.' That is the need of our times and must come from the public schools—schools that are strong in virtues required for building strong men and women.

We can be assured of this and do our part in understanding and helping the public schools to fulfill their great obligation to our times by being a participant in the annual Public Schools Week, March 4 through March 8. Schools will hold open house; accept their hospitality, and you will enjoy the experience of going back to school—if but for a day.

Lynch Ban Ruled Constitutional

AUSTIN.—A law prohibiting lynching is constitutional, says Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr.

Carr also held that Floyd R. Palmer Landscape Co., can be held to a bid of $16,161 for landscaping work around a state office building, even tho the company says it will lose money on the project.

In other opinions, Carr said: A facility caring for six or less children during the day must be licensed as a commercial boarding house.

A county which purchases gasoline for its own use must pay the state excise tax, but is not subject to the federal excise tax.

Texas buying and registering cars in other states, still must pay the 1.5 per cent tax on the purchase price if the car is operated in Texas.

New residents coming into the state, are subject to a $15 use tax, he says.

Court Rules on Safety Law

AUSTIN.—Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the State Department of Public Safety, cautioned drivers of publicly-owned vehicles that they must comply with the provisions of the state's responsibility law.

Garrison said that a recent ruling by the Waco Court of Civil Appeals confirmed the fact that the law must be complied with by drivers of publicly-owned vehicles. The safety responsibility law requires everyone involved in an accident to show his ability to pay for damages caused to others.

This can be done by purchasing a liability insurance policy; by obtaining written releases from damaged persons; or by depositing cash in the amount of damages with the Department of Public Safety.

House Committee on Insurance has approved a bill by Rep. Robert Fairchild of Center which would strengthen and stiffen the safety responsibility law. Under this bill, if anyone failed to prove financial responsibility, the DPS could take his driver's license, as well as his car license plates.

A Soil Test plus Fertilizer

... will help this area break all production records
... will help put more money
in our pockets

Our fields are making yields we thought out of reach a few years ago. There are several factors, and one of the most important is soil testing to show the nutrients a field needs, and the proper fertilizer to supply those nutrients.

Dodson Co-operative Enterprises, who handle your cotton, wheat and grain sorghum, recommend that all farmers have soil tests before beginning operations.

The test itself will be done at the soils testing laboratory of the Extension Service in Lubbock. You can get a soil container and blanks from the County Agent's office.

1. Dig a hole 6 to 8 inches deep
2. Take a half-inch slice off one side with a spade, the full depth.
3. Repeat this at 10 to 12 places over the field.
4. Mix all the dirt thoroughly in a clean bucket.
5. Take out one pint to be sent to Lubbock for testing.
6. Repeat in each field you want a soil test for.
7. A copy of the analysis will be sent you and the county agent's office

To give accurate recommendation, your county agent will need to know:

1. Kind and depth of soil.
2. Previous cropping history
3. Previous fertilizer history
4. What crop you will grow

THE WRIGHT SLANT

By Congressman Jim Wright

The House cracked down recently on overseas travel for its members.

In a sweeping and unprecedented action, the House clamped the lid on availability of so-called counterpart funds provided that in no case should per diem expenses of Congressmen exceed those of ordinary government workers, and required that every penny of official reimbursable expenditure must be itemized and publicly accounted for.

Thus did the overwhelming majority show its disgust and disdain for the abuses committed by a small minority of its members—abuses which have cast adverse reflections upon the entire legislative branch of our government.

Junketeering is an ugly word—it has been made so by the relatively few Congressmen and Senators who have abused the privilege of going abroad on study and inspection trips.

These trips, when used as they should be used, fulfill a vital congressional function.

They enable this country's elected representatives to take first-hand looks at the foreign projects and programs, both military and civilian, on which our tax dollars are being spent.

Since Congress is responsible for appropriating public money for these programs, its members obviously need to know how well the programs are working, which ones are the most productive, whether the taxpayer is getting his dollar's worth, and where economies can be made and U.S. aims in the world better served.

These things are best learned on the ground where they are happening. And Congress should not be wholly dependent upon the State Department and the military for its information. But unfortunately a small percentage of the members of Congress have misused their travel privilege. Under the guise of "official business", some few have studied everything from saki consumption in Tokyo to the bikini market on the French Riviera.

Not only have such joy-riding trips failed to serve any useful legislative purpose, but a few Congressmen have actually performed in such a way as to hurt rather than help our international relations.

Game-Fish Budget Trimmed

The current Game and Fish Commission ran into trouble in the Legislative Budget Board. Commission's executive secretary, Howard Dodgen, requested that during 1963 it be allowed to spend the $9,199,000 it will have available.

But the budget board recommended a biennial appropriation of $3,662,000 less than the agency requested.

mon Market, once again is showing the egocentric and chauvinistic colors which marked his early career.

His present aim seems clear—the emergence of a major third force in the world, with de Gaulle at its head.

To achieve this, he appears perfectly willing to turn his back on his own country's principal benefactors and run the risk of scuttling the hard-won political and economic unity of the Free World.

Instead of wanting the mutual economic benefits of free trade to be shared widely among the Democratic nations of the Atlantic community, de Gaulle wants to tear down the walls of short-sighted protectionism which once separated the "inner six" of Western Europe only to erect in their place one huge wall around them all just a bigger medieval castle with de Gaulle as the Grand Duke.

Padre Island Park Approved

A noisy but brief flurry attended final House passage of Rep. Menton J. Murray's bill in the Texas legislature to make a National Seashore of Padre Island. But the Harlingen representative's bill passed by a 126-19 vote.

A slightly different version of this proposal, one by Sen. Bruce Reagan of Corpus Christi, already had passed the Senate.

It is expected that the first bill to get committee approval by the other chamber will go to a joint conference committee.

Some coastal legislators were hoping the matter will be settled in time for April consideration by Congress, where appropriations must be made to finance the purchase of privately owned land on the island.

Here at the bedside of Pete Jones, who is seriously ill, have been Mr. and Mrs. Jack Buse and family of Friona, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Birchfield of Pampa, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Golden of Pampa, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Jones and daughter of Amarillo. Mrs. Birchfield remained to help care for her father.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hammons this week end were their son, Larry, and Miss Joyce Bartel. Both are students in Southwestern State College at Weatherford, Okla.

C-C Work Program

its first goal the dams on Salt Fork, Buck Creek and Elm Creek, and ultimately the development of all the waters of Collingsworth," Henard declared.

Industrial Development

The second committee to coordinate its work with OEDP is the industrial committee. With the county's approval by ARA, Collingsworth for the first time has available long-term money at low interest rates plus other advantages that would be attractive to new industries and those seeking expansion, Higdon pointed out.

Henry Sullivan, probably the county's best-posted man on the needs of industry seeking locations in small towns, heads this committee. He is chairman of the county OEDP executive committee, of the temporary Collingsworth Industrial Development Inc., and he is a member of the State Board of Industrial Development. He has headed the C-C industrial committee several years.

Working with him are Paul Spillman, another key figure in ARA, Eddie Slay, Morris Sullivan, and Alvin Horton.

Besides the OEDP co-ordination, the industrial committee will encourage the development of home industries, continue its support of the State Board of Industrial Development, and continue to seek adaptable industry for the county. Like community leaders everywhere, it wants all industry but especially that industry based on agriculture and livestock.

Agriculture-Livestock

Co-ordination of the agriculture and livestock committee with OEDP gives C-C something concrete to work with, since the promotion of feed lots has been one of the major aims in past years. This will be a key project this year, along with continued work to expand the hog and cattle industry.

Zook Thomas, banker-farmer, heads the committee, and members are Carl Wischkaemper of Quail, Wood Coleman of Dozier, Orville Vaughan of Dodson, George Sparkman, Velman Warrick and Jones Singley.

Other work on which the committee will concentrate during the year includes: support of the county fair, rodeo and Youth Project show; work toward a more diversified operation in county farming; improvement of the livestock exhibition barn; and lend assistance to the crop experimentation committee.

The OEDP agricultural committee program with which the C-C committee co-ordinates, operates with the following subdivisions: livestock, including cattle and hog feeding; irrigation, crop experimentation; youth, including FFA, 4-H and FHA; vocational agriculture, finance, co-ordinating the service agencies; home economics; and soil and water conservation.

Civic Improvement

Mrs. John Coleman is chairman of the civic improvement committee; Mrs. James Sullivan and Jake Leach are co-chairmen.

Heading its work program is sponsorship of a senior citizens home. Another new project is the promotion of golf in the city.

Other work projects are: promotion of rodent control by approved methods; new motel promotion; assist Little League, and alert citizens to the dangers of bottles which have contained agricultural defoliant, etc.

Community Beautification

Mrs. E. H. Harwell heads the committee that has as its new project encouraging better

"housekeeping" of salvage yards.

Other 1963 projects are: sponsor beautification of the entrances to the city and other areas within the town; sponsor a clean-up campaign; lighting of highway 83 through town; encourage grass planting on vacant lots, and assist the Garden Club in its Cemetery Plan.

Highway and Transportation

Heading the highway and transportation committee this year is Wayne Cudd, a partner of Cudd Brothers and a past president of the Texas Motor Transportation Association—the big state organization of motor freight operators and commercial truck haulers. Lynn Carter is assisting him.

The major new project of this committee aims at paving at least one runway of Marian Airport and lighting the runways.

The committee will again push for a four-lane U.S. highway 83 through Wellington, a joint project of the city and county. Acquisition of the right of way is still holding up this job, on which the Highway Department has agreed to help. It will put down the pavement if the city and county will acquire the right of way and put in curb and gutter.

The C-C highway committee also will promote more farm to market roads, promote the designation of 366 through Wellington as a shorter route from the South Plains to Interstate 40 (US 66) and the Oklahoma City area. Improvement of Lucky Corner facilities for safety will be urged.

Retail-Wholesale Development

Billy Hatch heads the retail and wholesale development committee, with Buster Hughes and Sam Adams as members.

Encouragement of store front improvement will be a major project this year. Other work will be to sponsor a contest with prizes for the best sales person in the county; continue control of solicitation, encourage dollar days and Trades Days and to sponsor a sales training course again this year, as offered through the Texas Education Service.

Public Relations

In the field of public relations, the new-come Welcome program and the promotion of better inter-community relations will be continued.

This committee is headed by Richard Bailey as chairman and Billy Joe Thogmartin as member.

Membership

Fred A. Saied is chairman of the membership committee and Charles Allen is the member. Their responsibility will be to organize a membership drive, encourage members to attend regular board meetings, and sponsor membership in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

County Fair

Dr. Chas. B. Jones again is superintendent of the county fair and ex-officio chairman of the Fair committee. He will name those who assist him.

The five-point program includes encouraging the art, flower and hobby show, agricultural and livestock exhibits, home economics exhibits, commercial exhibits and horse show participation.

An executive committee of three past presidents serves in an advisory capacity. They are Bobo Castleberry, the immediate past president, L. B. Bratten and C. T. Hubbard.

Mrs. Elva Davis and Miss Thava Davis of Hedley visited in the home of their daughter and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Wilson this past week end.

FFA President Tells What Training Means

(Part of this material was contained in talks made by Jerry Clark, president of the Texas Association of Future Farmers, when he visited the chapters in this county and spoke before the Wellington Rotary Club earlier this year.)

By JERRY CLARK, Pres.
Texas Assn., FFA

Next to my church work, the organization of the Future Farmers of America has made the most satisfying and useful contribution thus far to affect my life. As I reflect on my years spent in the FFA and all that I have enjoyed and gained, it seems as though it was there just to fill my particular needs.

History, present day relations, and logic prove that I am not the only boy to feel this way about our organization.

I came into the FFA as a young boy wanting to do what was right and best, just as many other boys have in the past and I hope, will in the future. Certainly I was open and ready for the sound directives and inspiring challenges of this great farm boy organization.

Now, as an older member, I look back and see that truly I was receiving the most basic training and growing in the purest of Christian and American virtues. I will always be gratefully indebted to this program interwoven with our Agricultural education in America.

Training and experience in leadership ability, cooperative activities, patriotic activity, scholarship, and over-all good citizenship are the things which I needed and desired and found in the FFA organization.

These and many others have been the challenging field of opportunity to enter my mind and heart.

Our organization seeks not only to make the member aware of opportunity, but also to give him ways and means for utilizing this opportunity, thus helping it to become experience, which is the greatest teacher.

We, as Future Farmers believe in and love our organization. We will: "practice brotherhood, honor rural opportunities and responsibilities, and develop those qualities of leadership which a Future Farmer should possess."

Improvement in Instruction Is Required for Accreditation

The local community has the responsibility of offering a good instructional program to the students in its schools. Minimum standards are set by the state, and it is the responsibility of the state to give leadership to local schools in improving the program.

To provide leadership, the State Board of Education has approved revisions in the principles and standards used for accrediting elementary and secondary schools. Revisions were made after a two-year study of the curriculum by local schools and a state-wide committee of school people and lay citizens.

The revised principles and standards became effective in Sept. 1962, and local schools are implementing the standards which have been available for study since Nov. 1961.

Local schools use the principles and standards to evaluate programs of instruction, to determine the extent to which the standards are being met, and to locate areas for improvement. The staff of the Texas Education Agency uses the standards for the evaluation of the local school when making accreditation visits.

When visiting schools, parents and other citizens may be interested in discussing with school personnel the effect of the revised standards on:

1. Course offerings.
2. School objectives.
3. School board policies.
4. Seventh and eighth grade requirements.
5. Graduation requirements.
6. Preparation of staff.
7. Teaching methods.
8. Guidance services.
9. Special services (school lunch, transportation, and other services).
10. Instructional materials.
11. The activity program.
12. The school plant.

USDA Works at Keeping Plant Pests Away

COLLEGE STATION.—Plant quarantine inspectors of the U. S. Department of Agriculture stopped an inbound plant pest at U.S. ports of entry once every 16 minutes during the 1962 fiscal year. Among the intercepted pests were some of the world's most damaging insects and plant diseases.

A total of 33,033 pests of quarantine significance — foreign insects, mites, snails, nematodes, and plant diseases — were found in passenger baggage, ships' stores, mail and cargo by inspectors of USDA's Agricultural Research Service during the year that ended last June 30.

The number of plant pest interceptions was up 29% from the previous year and accompanied an overall increase in foreign travel and plant quarantine inspection activities, ARS inspectors said.

Among the most damaging pests found were the Khapra beetle, a major pest of stored grain; golden nematode, enemy of tomato and potato crops, and the Mediterranean land snail, a threat to many plants.

Three dangerous diseases of citrus, not found in this country, were intercepted 949 times during the year. They were citrus canker, black spot of citrus, and sweet orange scab.

Traffic across the Mexican border continued to increase, as it has in each of the past 15 years. More than 24,700,000 cars and trucks entered the US from Mexico—up a half million from the year before. Recent improvements on the Pan American Highway have made travel possible from tropical areas of Central America where several damaging plant pests, including the Mediterranean fruit fly, are known to exist.

The inspectors said that most of the plant pests and unauthorized plant material arrived in passenger baggage. ARS inspectors, cooperating with the US Bureau of Customs inspectors examined more than 23½ million pieces of baggage during the year. Other inspections were also up. Keeping potential insect and plant disease pests out of the U.S. is just one of the many services rendered by the USDA, which aids all Americans.

Industry Aids Pollution Work A Retention

ROCKPORT.—Industries in South Texas are vitally interested in anti-pollution work and are setting aside substantial sums of money for revamping present waste disposal systems.

Roy W. Spears, regional chemist of the Game and Fish Commission, says that great strides have been made in the past year even though water pollution still exists and is still dangerous.

"Industry, especially the oil industry, is becoming increasingly aware of its responsibility to the public," said Spears, "and in many cases has either completely remodeled their waste disposal systems or is in the process of doing so. Although the new pollution law, which went into effect last November, is bound to be a contributing factor in this," Spears continued, "I believe the main reason is that industry knows clean water is the life blood of our state and that proper steps must be taken now before it is too late."

FOE DOE—The gun doesn't frighten this doe, as she knows hunter Howard Manwiler will not shoot it. She lives on a Evans City, Pa., farm of her owner, Mark Rutledge.

Dr. Shadid Has Surgery

Miss Marie Shadid and Miss Rose Shadid have returned from Oklahoma City where they spent four days at the bedside of their uncle, Dr. M. Shadid, in Mercy Hospital.

Dr. Shadid, 78, underwent the amputation of his right leg above the knee.

Diabetes was responsible for the condition that made amputation necessary, his nieces said.

Cold Weather Doesn't Bother Gulf Coast Fish

ROCKPORT.—Saltwater fish may have become acclimated to cold weather this winter thru the gradual buildup of frigid weather, according to Ernest Simmons, coastal fisheries supervisor of Region V, Game and Fish Commission.

The two recent spells of freezing weather on the lower coast have not produced any significant fish kills. Although many fish were stunned by the cold and swam slowly near the surface where they could be scooped up in dip nets, most of them apparently recovered.

Some fingerling redfish in the upper Laguna Madre were killed as were many other small fish, but the majority of our large fish suffered no lasting ill effects.

Biologists had refrained from commenting on the two freezes until Baffin Bay could be thoroughly checked for the possibility of a kill of large trout which had sunk to the bottom. Constant checks of this area have revealed no such kill thus far.

Although temperatures dropped almost as low this year as they did during the terrific fish kill of 1951, and the lessor kill of 1962, the low temperatures were of much shorter duration. Biologists believe that the gradual cooling of the water this year and the short periods of extreme cold are what have prevented a fish kill of major proportions so far this year.

Simmons said, "We've been lucky so far, but winter is not over yet and we could still be hurt by an extended period of extremely cold weather."

LOOKING AHEAD

by Dr. George S. Benson

TAXES—TO CUT OR NOT TO CUT

With the New Year and a new Congress, a major concern of everyone will be taxes. A great deal will be said and written about tax rates and tax reforms.

The President has had a tax cut on his agenda for a long time, having promised it "to get the economy moving," and he is not likely to drop it one year before 1964.

It is just possible that many along the New Frontier envision a facilitated movement toward the voting booths, as a result of tax cuts. At least this displeases very few, and even major business organizations are favoring a cut, some with qualifications.

Taxes are too high, as everybody knows. Regardless of what bracket he's in, 20 per cent or 91 per cent, the American taxpayer is fed up with taxes. He may not realize that his neighbors in other industrialized economies of the West (most of which are recipients of our aid) pay far less to their governments in personal income taxes than he pays to his.

But he is aware that "seed" money, instead of being invested, to create jobs, is being siphoned off to pay for government spending that almost never is cut back voluntarily. His urge to make more is undiminished, when taxes skim it off.

Texas Is Enough Says Official

AUSTIN.—Legislators' proposals to add such slogans as "Lone Star State" and "Texas Has Everything" to auto license plates haven't found favor with Dewitt Greer, chief engineer for the State Highway Department.

"T-E-X-A-S is the only slogan this state needs," Greer pointed out to the House Appropriations Committee. He added that more wording on car tags just means additional expense.

"All law enforcement officers tell you," Greer explained, "that the readability of the rest of the plate is lessened if you crowd in slogans."

Clarence Darrow Bolan, 19, and Lavanna Kay Bryant, 17, Feb. 25.

The late Franklin D. Roosevelt's hobby was stamp collecting.

American Joe Doakes knows too that profits have been so stigmatized and penalized by the squeeze between taxes and production costs (chiefly labor costs which are so often the really big costs in production of goods), that the goose that lays golden eggs is suffocating.

What we actually have come to is a sort of unofficial control of profits by a government that sanctions nearly every sort of wage increase.

These things are truly making it impossible for the economy to move ahead and grow as rapidly as it should.

The gross product of corporations has more than doubled in the past 14 years. This would seem like a good showing, except that costs keep on shooting skyward; taxes and wages. Compensation to employees, while the output doubled, continued taking 64 per cent of the total product. Taxes and other costs increased, but the amount of profits decreased.

This loss of over 1/4 in profits helps explain the balky conditions of the economy. Our public policies are far from realistic.

Mr. Mills Is Right

Advocates of a tax cut consider it the magic that will get the nation moving. The theory is that increased spending by consumers, increasing plant investment, and more jobs could follow.

But these prospects hardly can be in sight if we encourage additional union demands to siphon away profits. Neither individuals nor corporations will want to put tax savings into unprofitable ventures. Confidence in the prospects of the future will be required, and this is where the federal government has played a negative role for many months.

Another factor is government spending. Congressman Wilbur Mills shows great wisdom when he insists that we talk about getting control over expenditures, if we are going to keep on spending faster than our tax system can produce revenue.

We cannot, he says, go cutting taxes without any regard for the deficit that is being created. Congressman Mills rightly insists on looking toward reforms, which may be slow in coming, rather than toward a tax cut that would pile up more public debt.

Pay for Spending

The budget deficit for the current year is officially estimated at $7.8 billion, but such estimates are notably on the short side. No one would be surprised to see it run to $10 billion. If taxes are cut, a budget deficit for the year beginning July 1 could run above $15 billion!

This is the real problem that prevents concerned legislators like Congressman Mills from favoring a tax cut: the federal budget and resultant debt that keeps perpetually rising, year after year.

President Kennedy speaks of wanting to reduce burdens on private income and on investment initiative.

He told the Economic Club of New York that accumulated evidence showed our tax system exerting "too heavy a drag on growth" and that the government's most useful role would not be "to rush into a program of excessive increases in public expenditures but to expand the incentives and opportunities for private expenditures."

Nobody can disagree with this. Yet, when the Congress settles down to business, the spenders will be there applying the pressure. If we spend, we must be prepared to pay.

Norwood Future Homemakers Pick King and Queen at Annual Party

The Samnorwood FHA sponsored its annual Sweetheart Party February 14 in the gym foyer.

Bill Wischkaemper and Joyce Alexander were chosen Sweethearts. They approached their throne on a white carpet rolled out by Sharon and Shirley Mayberry. Their attendants were Nancy Hill and Mike Wischkaemper, who carried boxes of candy for the King and Queen. Polly Clark and Neal Lowry, the 1962 sweethearts, crowned the 1963 royalty.

Each candidate couple entered through the archway that was decorated with red hearts and red streamers. In the center of the arch were love birds swinging in a large heart cage. The guests were registered by Bonnie Lisle at a table featuring a large red heart and FHA red roses.

Darlene Rainey, Polly Clark, Mary Shields, LaDonna Ross, and Wanda White had charge of the entertainment.

Barbara Hill gave a relaxer, "Lookin' for a Feller."

The four phases of love were presented by Kay Purkey and Jackie Tate, freshmen representing the six year olds; Nancy Alexander and Sue Dwight, sophomores representing the eleven year olds; Joyce Alexander and Gail Bradley, juniors, representing the fifteen year olds; Darlene Rainey and Wanda White, seniors, representing the mature teenagers.

The table was laid with a white lace tablecloth over red. The centerpiece was a beautiful red heart with streamers with small candy hearts on the end of each.

Refreshments of heart-shaped sandwiches, decorated squares of cake, nuts, mints, and red punch were served.

Guests registered were Darlene Rainey, Mike Wischkaemper, Gail Bradley, Alvin Lisle, Gary Hiett, Jerry Latham, Dale Darrow, Bettie Sanderson, Sharon Mayberry, James Biter, Sue North, Bill Lisle, Carolyn Pullum,

Bonnie Lisle, Linda Ward, Nancy Alexander, Kaye Purkey, Jo Nell Breeding, Wayne Lindley, Lloyd Stice, Rita Beasley, Shirley Mayberry, Ray Floyd, Dean Tate, Barbara Hill, Jackie Tate, Don Bodine, Miss Sue Ward, bride-elect of Carl Kilman, was honoree at a bridal shower Saturday, Feb. 9 in the Homemaking Cottage at the Quail high school.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mmes. Gene Hanah, C. E. Roberts, Robert Proctor, Leo Thomas, Gabe Wright, C. A. Wilbur, Ray Null, Jerry DePauw, my Martindale, Enice Stice, Ken Baxter,

LaDonna Ross, Douglas Wright, Nancy Hill, Charles Floyd, Johnny Ross, Ronnie Hunt, Sue Dwight, Mr. and Mrs. Selba Rainey, Mary King, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hill, Polly Clark, Neal Lowry, Mary Shields, Tom McCormich, Mmes. Alfred Patterson, John Henry Ward, E. C. Blevins, and Horace Holliman.

Mrs. Ray Null received the guests and presented them to Miss Ward, her mother, Mrs. Raymond Ward, and the mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. Glen Kilmer.

The serving table was laid with a white cloth and appointed with crystal. The centerpiece was a large red heart holding a miniature bride and groom, banked by white carnations and candles.

Misses Margie White and Jackie DePauw presided at the serving table and Miss Margie DePauw registered the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. James Richardson, Karen and Linda, were in Plainview Friday and Saturday, to attend the wedding of her sister, Miss Sharon Williams. The two girls were in the wedding party.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bowen of Plainview visited with relatives here Saturday night and Sunday.

Club Has Round Table Discussion

In a round table discussion, the Quail Friendship club members shared their favorite homemaking ideas Thursday afternoon, Feb. 21 in the Quail homemaking cottage.

Mrs. T. B. Johnson, program chairman, conducted the discussion. Tips proving popular with the group were: keep a bobbin filled with nylon thread to use when gathering; the thread slips more easily and is almost impossible to break. Plastic ice trays make good earring containers; each section holds one pair, so selection is easy.

The club collect was led by Mrs. Roy Peggram.

1963 yearbooks were distributed by Mrs. Johnson, chairman of the calendar committee. Members of her committee assisting in preparing the books were Mmes. Monty Mitchell, Ira Morgan, J. R. Godbey and Bill Clay.

Mrs. Robert Johnson was introduced as a new member.

Following the business session, refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. John Bishop.

After reigning 50 years, Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands abdicated in 1948; Juliana became Queen.

Cottonin Narrow Rows Shows Promise

COLLEGE STATION.—What could prove to be a major breakthrough in more efficient cotton production has been demonstrated at the Lubbock sub-station of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

The new production technique is narrow-row planting and the use of chemicals for weed control.

Elmer Hudspeth Jr. of the USDA Agricultural Research Service, stationed at the Lubbock station planted cotton, under irrigation, in 9-inch rows and applied a pre-emergence herbicide for weed control. He harvested more than two bales from the one-acre plot without a single cultivation. A check planted in the usual 40-inch rows produced from one and a half to one and three-quarters bales an acre.

Further tests will determine whether narrow-row planting of irrigated cotton can help farmers cut production cost by increasing yields and eliminating cultivation.

Hudspeth said weeds didn't have a chance in the narrow-row plots. The herbicide controlled their early growth and the plant shading took care of later growth.

The narrow-row planting was done with a grain drill. Hudspeth grew more than 200,000 plants on the acre compared with about 30,000 in 40-inch rows. Each plant produced only three or four bolls, but the dense planting helped to raise the total yield. The closely spaced plants were short with few branches and thin stems, and were more ideally adapted to stripper harvesting than the normal spaced plantings.

Both the narrow and wide-row plots were sprinkler irrigated three times with three inches of water. The water activated the herbicide and aided seed germination. Both received the same fertilizer treatment—80 pounds of nitrogen and 40 pounds of phosphorus per acre applied before planting. A stripper harvester was used on both plots.

Hudspeth said close plantings may not work in humid areas of the cotton belt where boll rot is a problem. Quality tests, he added, are being made on the cotton harvested from the narrow-row planting and will be announced later.

County Supts. May Be Out

A heavy majority of the Texas House of Representatives favors ousting county school superintendents in 86 counties. They voted to cut off state aid to them. Aim is to force voters to say "yes" or "no" on whether they want to keep them at county tax expense, after their present terms run out in 1966.

If this proposal gets thru as it now stands in the House, the state saving will be more than $1,000,000.

Counties affected are those with no more than two rural school districts under the county official's supervision.

Program Pushed

'63 BEEF CONSUMPTION TO REACH ALL-TIME HIGH

A three pronged drive to increase consumption of beef will be described by John Armstrong of Kingsville, Texas, in one of the major addresses at the 86th annual convention of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association in San Antonio March 18-20.

Armstrong is chairman of the newly created Beef Industry Council of the National Livestock and Meat Board, an active rancher and is well known in beef cattle circles.

Efforts to increase consumption of beef hinges on a well rounded program consisting of research, education and promotion. Beef consumption this year is expected to reach an all-time high, with per capita consumption estimated at 90 lbs. by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The Beef Industry Council of the NLMB resulted from a merger of the National Beef Council and the National Livestock and Meat Board at Fort Worth in January.

The program is supported by volunteer producer contributions and Armstrong will explain methods in which beef producers may participate.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hunsaker of Lubbock spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. Gibbs Glenn. Mrs. Glenn returned home with them for a visit.

If the Weatherford representative's bill passes, some of the six members of the Parks Board and nine members of the Game and Fish Commission will lose their posts, since the composite commission would be limited to three members. So some legislators are torn between loyalty to local appointees and a desire to "streamline" the state government.

Mrs. Wayne Cudd, Jan and Jim Lindsey, were in Plainview Saturday to attend the wedding of Miss Sharon Williams and Gerold Ray. Miss Williams is Mrs. James Richardson's sister and has visited here many times.

Don Roy Raburn of Farmers Branch spent the week end in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Raburn.

Class B Winners

ROCKETTES DEFEAT LAKEVIEW, LOSE LAST GAME TO CLAUDE

Wellington Rockettes played two post-season games last week as they prepared for their up-coming bi-district play-off with Gruver.

The Rockettes won the first game, Tuesday, Feb. 19, from Lakeview 57 to 47, but lost the second 58-35 to Claude girls—the 1962 Class B state champions.

Both these teams, playing in Class B again this year, are winners of their districts.

In the Lakeview forwards, the Rockettes came up against some of the best they have met this year, and the entire team boasted both height and weight.

"The girls showed good ball handling ability and the defense was working real well," Coach James Stavenhagen said.

Wellington let 21-14 at the end of the first quarter, 29-27 at the half-way mark, and 47-36 at the third.

Betty Courtney was high pointer with 31, Jan Glenn made 9 points and Jane Orr 8.

High pointer for Lakeview was Sandy Verden, with 22 and Karen Clement made 15.

Claude-Wellington

In Claude, the Rockettes met one of the strongest teams of any class in the Panhandle.

Coached by F. G. Crawford, the team had an all-state guard, an all-state honorable mention guard, and two honorable mention all-state forwards.

The 58-37 score was the worst defeat the Rockettes have suffered this year.

Jane Orr played the best game offensively, as the Rockettes high-scoring Betty Courtney was walled off by a six-foot guard. Carol Blain and Vicki Glenn turned in a good job on defense, Coach Stavenhagen said.

"Their defense was real tough. We have been averaging about 44 shots per game, but we were able to get only 26 this time," the coach said.

Claude ran off from the Rockettes during the first quarter, that ended 24-9. Wellington girls got their feet on the ground in the second and played a better ball game for the remainder of the night. The score at the half was 36 to 17.

Texas Growth Demands Many More Services

To meet the minimum needs of population growth, local governments in Texas will be required by 1970 to add these additional services: 31 million new gallons of water per day, 12 thousand new classrooms, more than 8 thousand new hospital beds, 1.5 million new library books, and more than 12 thousand new acres of local government-owned land.

Over this same interval, local governments must add more than 2,600 new policemen, and more than 3,000 new firemen, as well as at least 12,400 other city employees.

The annual operating costs of public schools will increase by $93 million. The yearly municipal payrolls will increase $46.5 million. Operating costs for public safety will increase more than $22 million.

and 45 to 23 at three-quarter time.

Game high scorer was Nancy Hundley of Claude with 33 points, Betty Courtney made 14, Jane Orr 9 and Jan Glenn 5.

THE WELLINGTON (TEXAS) LEADER Thursday, February 28, 1963

Committees Busy —For and Against

AUSTIN.—Senate and House committees have accomplished quite a bit—either by positive or negative action—to settle some legislative issues.

They have given a green light to raise the age ceiling from 14 to 16 on the state's program of aid to dependent children (an effort to keep the needy children in school).

They have given a friendly reception to the bill by Rep. W. H. Miller of Houston to require seat belt anchors in all new cars sold in Texas.

They have given a cool reception to a series of Senate-proposed constitutional amendments and bills designed to revise—and eventually eliminate—the state property tax, and leave it to local units of government.

They have approved a Senate bill to set up a new school for mentally-retarded children in Corpus Christi. Another bill to create a similar school somewhere west of the 100th meridian in West Texas is set for a Senate committee hearing on March 20.

Budget Hearings Proceed at Capitol

AUSTIN.—In two quiet rooms in the Capitol and one in the Sam Houston State Office Building, budget hearings are grinding toward an end by the Senate Finance and House Appropriations committees, and by Governor Connally's budget staff.

These groups have the most influence on how the state's $3,000,000,000 income will be spent in the two years starting Sept. 1.

Their figuring will determine whether the hearings by the House Revenue and Tax committee eventually will turn into serious consideration of bills for sales tax revision.

It's very likely that the first bill to increase taxes will be one revising the exemption on outer clothing under $10, and other items, to raise sales tax revenue by $10,000,000 a year.

Because there had been no mention, in the contract, of a cornerstone for the Texas State Capitol, Gus Wilke, the contractor, paid for it out of his own pocket.

School Districts Determine Own Needs

Each school district in Texas determines its school plant needs and what its financial resources are since classrooms are locally planned and locally financed. Local boards and administrators have met the problem of providing school housing for the expanding enrollment and have remodeled old buildings and constructed new modern plants with the facilities necessary to serve them.

There is a definite trend toward air conditioning buildings and at least four school districts are building compact "windowless" climate-controlled buildings.

Better use has been made of some classrooms by division into two or three units so constructed that the group can be handled by one teacher. This has been used most extensively in a group of schools participating in the Texas Small Schools Project. These schools with limited enrollments are experimenting with a wider offering of courses, and students are making use of electronic equipment in studying modern foreign languages, English, mathematics or other courses for which special material is available.

These and other facilities do not replace teachers nor necessarily lessen the teaching load, but it is believed that a judicious use of the new equipment frees the teacher for more personalized work with each pupil while at the same time permitting them to proceed in work at a pace suited to their individual abilities, slow, average, or superior.

To evaluate the new instructional aids accurately and intelligently, parents and school personnel need to become familiar with what is being used and how. Administrators and teachers are available during school visitation periods to explain new teaching techniques and the new developments in teaching aids.

Questions for consideration are:

1. Is good use being made of visual aids, maps, charts, models, and other supplies needed for pupils to do effective work?
2. Have teachers in the school had the opportunity to view any of the teaching demonstrations now being presented over the state?
3. What consideration has been given to the use of the new electronic aids to teaching in your schools?

Cotton Root Rot Kills Trees, Shrubs

COLLEGE STATION.—Cotton root rot is one of the most common plant diseases in Texas. Except for the Panhandle and High Plains, the disease is found throughout the state, says Harlan Smith, extension plant pathologist. It is very common in heavy alkaline soils.

Smith points out that about 80% of the wild and cultivated plants are susceptible in varying degrees to the disease. The fungus may live in some native trees and shrubs without killing them, he adds.

Small flowers, shrubs and trees die suddenly after the first wilting symptoms appear. Large shrubs and trees may die more slowly. Smith says the bark of affected roots is decayed and brownish. Woolly, buff, or brownish, fungal strands are present on the surface of the damaged roots.

The whole root system decays, he adds. Bark is rotted off the harder wood of the root, and the roots slip out of

County Building Hike Approved

AUSTIN.—A bill by Rep. Vernon Beckham of Denison, designed to solve a local problem, may prove helpful for rural counties.

It would allow county commissioners courts to spend up to $200,000 for county buildings outside the county seats. Present law limits this expenditure to $150,000.

Bill was passed by the House 143-0.

County seat of Grayson county is Sherman. But Denison—in the same county—is almost as big and busy. Therefore an adjunct county courthouse building is under construction there. Building and property costs have risen so that the Denison courthouse can't be finished until the increase is authorized.

Texas to Be "Vacation State"?

AUSTIN.—A lady legislator believes the slogan "Vacation State" will bring Texas a bundle of tourist dollars.

Rep. Myra Banfield of Rosenberg wants that slogan placed on all future Texas license plates.

She has introduced such a resolution in the House, asking that the Texas Highway Department order it done.

"Personally, I believe that tourism can bring more money into our state than any industry," she says.

MORE HIGHWAYS

Texas again led the nation in 1962 as the foremost interstate highway builder, with 3,000 miles of highway construction contracts awarded during the year.

The first of these will be held at the school cafeteria at Dodson on Tuesday.

The Wellington workshop for beginning students will be on Wednesday, March 6, at the home demonstration agent's office.

The Fresno workshop will be Thursday, March 7, with the place to be named, and the last will be an advanced workshop at Wellington Friday, March 8, also in the home demonstration agent's office.

There is no fee for attending the workshops but those interested should contact Mrs. Barjenbruch before the first meeting.

There will be a yeast breads workshop during April, with the time and places to be announced later, she said.

Mrs. W. H. Craven, Area Ranch Woman Dies

Mrs. W. H. Craven, owner of the TV Ranch about 15 miles south of Wellington, died unexpectedly at her ranch home Monday morning, Feb. 25. She had lived there since 1929.

Mrs. Craven was born Ellen Elizabeth Sager in Boone county, Illinois, March 4, 1874. She came as the bride of William Henry Craven to the Southeast Panhandle in 1901.

At that time he was manager of the Shoe Bar and Shoe Nail ranches in Childress and Hall county.

On occasion, she accompanied him to the cow camps, or went on cattle drives with her husband in a buckboard.

A gracious woman, Mrs. Craven brought with her to the frontier the social graces and traditions of her home in Illinois.

These remained a part of her life as a Panhandle ranch woman.

Her home was known for its hospitality, and the cowboys and cowmen always found a welcome there.

From 1910 to 1916, she lived at the Shoe Bar headquarters, west of Memphis.

Mrs. Craven was an early member of the Presbyterian Churches in Childress and in Memphis, and she helped organize the Merry Wives, the first social club in Childress county.

Mrs. Craven was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Colonial Dames.

From 1916 to 1929, Mrs. Craven, with her husband and daughter, lived in Eastern Oregon. Upon their return, they settled on the TV Ranch.

Mrs. Craven died in 1951. Surviving Mrs. Craven are her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Bugbee of the Tumbling T Ranch near Goodnight, and a brother, Emory H. Sager of Childress; Mrs. George Sager of Wellington is a sister-in-law.

Puerto Rican Airman Here

A guest of Mr. and Mrs. Danny Garcia and children during the week end was Airman 3/c Candido Mercado, who recently was transferred to Amarillo Air Force Base. His home is Fajardo, Puerto Rico.

Mercado's wife and Garcia are cousins, but this is the first time the men have met. He expects to bring his wife to Amarillo later.

He was stationed at San Antonio before coming to Amarillo. This is his first time to be in Texas, a state he expected to find all oil wells and Cadillacs, he said. He attended school in New York.

Man Hurt as Car Flips

Quick action of Leo Popwell and a visitor in his home, Dexter Cochran of Kress, saved a Wellington man more serious injury when his car overturned Sunday about 1:15 p.m. pinning him beneath it.

Virgil Shaw was treated in St. Joseph's Hospital for painful injuries received in the accident, which occurred on a dirt road six miles south of town in front of the Popwell home, Sheriff John Rainey reported.

Fire Destroys Two Houses on Sunday

Two houses were gutted in separate fires Sunday, Feb. 24. Police Chief Troy Marsh reported.

Fire broke out shortly after noon in the old rock house on the Horace Small place eight miles north of Wellington.

This is one of the oldest structures in that part of the county and was part of a half dugout, built into the side of a hill.

Small, at the farm when the fire broke out, notified the Wellington Fire Department but by the time the rural unit could reach the scene, only the rock walls were standing.

Later Sunday, fire gutted the home of Garfield Riley at 502 Dallas Street. Marsh said the fire appeared to have started in the attic, apparently from a broken flue. The house was heated by a wood-burning stove.

The entire contents were destroyed, he said. Riley, his three sons, and another Negro, Babe Ruth, lived at the house.

C. W. Roberts

county's first town became only a memory.

Mr. Roberts knew this when it was Indian country. He had contact with these men as they came through on hunting parties, but realist that he was, he did not take part in the famous Indian scare of early county history. He reasoned that the Comanches' trek across the prairies was still another hunting trip.

After a number of years in the Fresno area, Mr. Roberts moved to the Lillie area, where he lived until he moved into Wellington.

Through the years he added to his land holdings, until he was one of the major landowners of the county. Then, he disposed of much of his land and concentrated on Wellington property.

Mr. Roberts was always a builder, not only in the physical sense, but also a builder of community strength and progress. It was the level-headed strength of such as this sturdy pioneer, and others like him, that set the conservative course from which this county has not deviated.

His physical strength and stamina and his keen mental alertness remained with him until the end of his life. He drove his car until after his ninetieth birthday, and even after that supervised repairs of his property.

He had been a devoted member of the Methodist Church since early in life and long was active in First Methodist Church here.

Mr. Roberts was married to Miss Lula E. Matkin in Fort Worth June 3, 1884. She died February 21, 1940.

On September 12, 1943, he was married to her youngest sister, Mrs. Alma Solomon of Fort Worth.

Funeral services for Mr. Roberts were conducted at 2 p.m. Tuesday in First Methodist Church. Officiating were the pastor, the Rev. Davis Edens,
