City, Navigation District Extend Water Lines

At the regular meeting of the City Council, members agreed to pay half the cost of changing 3325 feet of waterline now being built by the Navigation District from 4-inch to 6-inch pipe.

The line ties on the southernmost extension by the present city lines and runs to the Navigation District's new harbor, the Cove. Originally, the entire cost of the line was to be borne by the Navigation District, but after property owners in the south end of town asked whether they would be able to draw water from it, they were told that the 4-inch line planned by the District was too small and that the District could not enlarge the line without participation by the city.

The six-inch line, which is the minimum size recommended, will furnish water to residents in the south end of town that have been using their own wells, and will make water available to lot owners between the city limits and the harbor.

Chester Johnson told Navigation Commissioners Ted Atwood and Raymond Owens, who were at the meeting, that he and some other property owners would like to negotiate with the District on adding funds to those available to extend the six inch line another three blocks beyond the city limits.

In other action on the council, approved the purchases of an addressograph for the city hall.

Mrs. Vera Kelsay has been hired on a six week's trial basis to replace Mrs. Jeanie Fay McLead, who resigned recently, to move to the Houston area. Mrs. Kelsay will deal with water and sewer accounts.

Crash Injures Four At Aransas Pass

ARANSAS PASS — Four persons, including two state highway patrolmen, were injured here Friday night when a patrol car and another vehicle collided.

Highway Patrolmen Richard D. Berens, 22, and Glenn Brothers, 29, both stationed at Rockport, were in the patrol car.

Crowover said the accident occurred at 7:05 p.m.

Crowover said Mrs. Loper, 65, was in a serious condition, although her condition was not fully determined. He said she possibly suffered broken ribs and her husband reportedly received facial cuts.

Crowover said Berens received cuts on the upper part of his body and Brothers had a pelvic injury, although his condition was not determined.

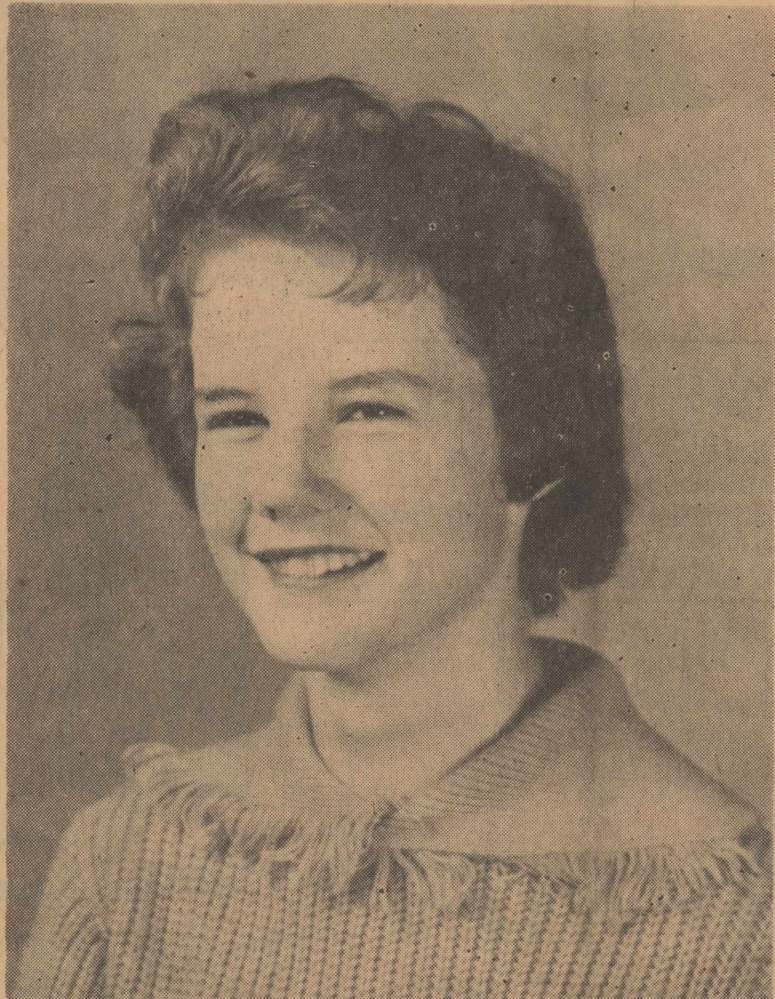

All but Loper remained in the hospital Friday night.

Crowover said investigation of the accident is not complete. He said the patrol car, going north on Highway 35, hit the right side of the Loper auto.

J. F. Clobberdants, the only charter member of the local lodge still active, and Lawrence McLeister, both of Rockport, and Marvin Bexley, who helped institute the lodge here, were recipients of the honor.

Cliff Barber was in charge of the meeting, and many long-time Oddfellows from surrounding towns, as well as Rebekah's from here and other cities in the district witnessed the ceremony.

Among them were Gil Naylor, District Deputy Grand Master and leader and advisor of the Junior Lodge at Ingleside; J. W. Parker of Corpus Christi who joined the order in 1921; B. R. Merrill of Sinton, who has been an Oddfellow for 45 years; and C. R. Stephens, of Aransas Pass, a 30-year member.

Mrs. J. F. Clobberdants of Rockport was oldest in point of service, having joined the Rebekahs in 1911.

In the ceremony, Kent presented the jewels to Mrs. Bexley and Mrs. McLeister to pin on their husbands, and to Jim Ben Clobberdants to present to his father. Young Clobberdants, also an Oddfellow, is home on leave from the Armed Forces in Germany, having arrived just before Christmas, and expects to return about the fifteenth of January.

He prepared the barbecued chicken for the dinner that preceded the presentation ceremonies.

Approximately 100 Oddfellows and Rebekahs were present from Sinton, Ingleside, Corpus Christi, Aransas Pass and Rockport.

In other action, they awarded the contract for the county's oil and gasoline to the Gulf Oil Company, transferred escrow funds, and allocated $1,000 each to the Rockport and Fulton Volunteer Fire Departments for purchase of fire fighting equipment.

The Cemetery Association was also voted $500 for maintenance.

A letter from the Veteran's Administration was read by Judge John D. Wendell, stating that $47,673 had been paid in Federal benefits to veterans in Aransas County, during 1959.

The commissioners also decided to have photostatic copies made of plat records in the County Clerk's office and accepted an easement from the Texas and New Orleans Railroad Company covering a crossing south of Rockport, leading to the new harbor at the Cove.

In addition, they authorized Judge Wendell to obtain bids on 1230 fence posts and 32 spools of barbed wire.

County holidays for 1960 were also set, and consist of the following:

Memorial Day, Fourth of July, Labor Day, Veterans' Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

C of C Commends Council, Navigation Board on Lights

The Chamber of Commerce, in a letter addressed to the City Council and another to the Navigation District Commissioners, complimented both of them on their efforts to provide a white way along Loop 70, the Highway 35 business route through Rockport, and Rockport's new beach, constructed last year as a part of the Navigation District's long range program.

Twenty-nine mercury vapor lights now light the beach drive from one end to the other, and 33 more have been installed along the traffic interchange and divided highway at the northern edge of Rockport.

The letter to the Navigation Board said: "The Board of Directors would like to take this opportunity to commend the Navigation District in requesting and getting the new vapor lights on the beach road.

"This is a beautiful project and the lights add much to it in making our people aware of its beauty at night.

"Thank you for the splendid job you are doing."

A similar letter was sent to the council, both were signed by Chamber of Commerce President Jack McCready.

School Board Hears Superintendent Gray

Approves Purchase Of New Bus For 1960-1961 School Year and Tractor For Maintenance Work In District

At the regular meeting of the Aransas County Independent School Board, Superintendent J. D. Gray told Board members that work has started on demolishing the old gymnasium at Rockport Elementary School, at the site where a concrete block and steel cafeteria is to be built later.

In other business, the Board instructed the superintendent to file an application with the Federal government for financial assistance in connection with education of pupils from the Rockport Air Force Base, where the 813th Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron is stationed.

A text book committee was also approved for the district, consisting of Mrs. Charlyne Hunt and Mrs. Otis Gilley on elementary art; Mrs. Shirley Browning, Mrs. Golda James, Mrs. Albert Griffith and Mrs. Hunt on elementary spelling.

Also Carl Snyder and Pat Smith on 7th and 8th grade science; Calvin Gilpin, trigonometry; and Mrs. Garvin Mitchell, journalism.

Motions by Board Member Charles Roe, Jr., that Superintendent Gray be authorized to requisition a 72 passenger bus for the 1960-61 school year, and to purchase a Ford tractor with mower, disc, and blade attachments for maintenance, were passed unanimously.

Gray, in a general discussion of school affairs, stated that he was considering recommending a full time cafeteria director and dietitian.

If enrollment during 1959-60 continues at its present high level, he added, the average daily attendance will earn—under the foundation plan and at no cost to the district—a needed guidance counselor.

However, the superintendent said, the District's greatest need at this time is an expanded and strengthened elementary program. This can best be accomplished by securing a good director of instruction for elementary schools in the ACISD.

Gray also reported that the city of Rockport is in process of installing two street light on Live Oak Street at Rockport Elementary School.

A HISTORY

Rockport, Fulton,
St. Mary's, Lamar
and El Copano
By
Mrs. Will W. Wood

The last remaining families included John H. Wood, Jeremiah O. Driscoll, Welder, Dugat, William Brightman, John Gray, Foster Edwin Peets, Charles F. Leisnering, Maton, Dorsett, Carpenter, Frank B. Rooke, Jirou, Kelley, William Tedford, Foss, Folsom, Richter, Linney and McRae. The Williams, Armstrongs and Tacketts moved to the village during its last days. Practically all of the small farms on Quo Warranto Bayou and at Mission Lake were abandoned before 1895.

The business district dwindled to the John H. Wood & Sons store, John Gray store, William Tedford store, Richter gin, John Foss blacksmith shop and the wooden school building. In the course of time, the Welders and Rooke built new homes on their ranches, the Dugats and Richters moved to San Antonio, and Peets and Tedfords to Rockport, the Leisnerings, Kelleys, Carpenters and Linneys to Refugio.

The modern town of Bayside is located about two miles down the bay.

Other of the residents moved later to Woodsboro, which was named in honor of the Wood family, and especially for Tobias De-Cantillon Wood, one of Major Wood's sons.

Mexican Cattle Depredations
Great wars leave in their wake periods of social unrest and lawlessness. This coastal area did not escape this wave of lawlessness. From 1867 until 1876, when President Porfirio Diaz ended his turbulent career, General Juan Nepuencio Cartina, the Red Robber of the Rio Grande, and his bandits ranged as far east as the San Antonio river, driving back to Mexico tens of thousands of Texas cattle found in this area. There was hardly a cattleman in the coastal area that did not suffer losses at the hand of Cortina. The depredations of Cartina and his lesser lights were the basis of millions of dollars of claims which were filed with the United States Government by citizens of the frontier counties.

Following the civil war, there was a period of several years when the ranges abounded with cattle, for which there was no market. Finding it to be unprofitable to drive off cattle from this section of Texas into Mexico, the thieves conceived the idea of killing and skinning cattle on the ranges and taking the hides into Mexico, where there was ready cash for them. In his memoirs, Judge W. L. Lea stated that the American peace officers on the border were strongly suspected of working in cahoots with the robbers. According to Judge Lea, the heaviest losers in this area were the Woods, Aldretes, Teales, Driscolls, Welders, O'Connors, Dugats and Martins.

The wholesale skinning of cattle by outlaws inspired the cattlemen to follow a similar procedure, inasmuch as they could not sell the cattle but could sell the hides. For several years, the local cattlemen went out on the prairies and killed their own cattle for hides; then the hide and tallow packeries sprang up, as has been explained in connection with the story of Rockport.

These cattle claims pended against the government from 1879 until 1940, when a treaty was concluded between the United States and Mexico, whereby Mexico agreed to pay $40,000 and the United States appropriated $533,685 to settle the claims. 450 original claims were made, out of which the vast majority were disallowed in view of the fact that the government would not accept any claims where the claimant could not show American citizenship. Original claims totaled $53,878,940. The largest was that of Major John H. Wood, who asked $1,850,000 for cattle destroyed in the raids.
