SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)—A killer earthquake left a wide area of central Chile in ruins today. Authorities placed the toll of dead and missing at more than 350 and said delayed reports from the hinterlands could send it even higher. It was the worst earthquake in quake-prone Chile since May, 1960, when a series of shocks killed an estimated 5,700 persons.

Sunday's quake struck during the noon hour with tremors so intense they rumbled up and down this narrow South American nation on the Pacific Ocean and across the Andes to the shores of the Atlantic in Argentina. The hardest-hit area appeared to be a valley 70 miles north of Santiago which was devastated by waters behind a shattered reservoir dam.

A wall of water crushed more than 80 crude houses made of adobe under tons of mud and debris. An estimated 300 villagers were believed buried in a mass of mud three feet thick. Elsewhere, 33 persons were known dead, including four each in Santiago and Valparaiso—Chile's two largest cities. The tremors sent hundreds of persons running into the streets in panic. In Santiago, a hysterical woman was killed when she jumped from a second-floor hospital window. Another victim was trampled to death in a stampede for the exits at Santiago's race track where a grandstand collapsed. Temblors in Valparaiso leveled the large pre-fabricated building housing the public market and destroyed hundreds of ramshackle dwellings in the slums.

The mayor of Valparaiso described the disaster as "catastrophic." Four deaths were reported at Llay-Lay, three each at Quilota, Capilla and Cerro La Campana, two each at La Lgua and Quilpe, and one each at San Felipe, Colina, Melon, Olmue and Ventanas. Three persons were killed at the popular Pacific beach resort of Vina Del Mar when a wall collapsed. The shattered dam held back the waters of El Cobre (copper) reservoir in the La Calera mining area. The village at the base of the reservoir was wiped out. Diego Avila, a La Cerla miner, said he was bicycling to a village above the reservoir when the earthquake began rumbling.

There was a tremendous noise when the dam broke open," Diego said. "Five minutes later there was nothing—only mud." Eduardo Simian, minister of mines, told newsmen as many as 400 persons may have been buried. He said it was difficult to estimate the number of villagers living in the valley.

Formal Probe of Ku Klux Klan Appears Certain

New Legal Weapons Sought

By WILLIAM THEIS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A formal congressional investigation of the Ku Klux Klan appeared almost a certainty today with lawmakers of both parties urging a prompt government crackdown on the hooded night-riders.

Republicans and Democrats joined in a chorus of support for administration efforts to find new legal weapons to curb the Klan. They urged investigations of the racist organization by both House and Senate.

Twenty-one House Republicans issued a statement during the weekend urging an immediate and exhaustive investigation and "prompt, effective congressional action... to eliminate the evil influence of the Ku Klux Klan."

Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., of the House Committee on Un-American Activities promised that his panel would meet this week to decide whether to begin a full-scale investigation of the Klan.

The House Judiciary Committee, which is now considering the President's voting rights bill, also has expressed interest in an inquiry.

The top echelon of the Justice Department, under speed-up orders from the White House, has redoubled its efforts to find legislation President Johnson wants to bring the Klan's activities "under effective control of the law."

Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach's chief aides and lawyers continued closed sessions to come up with legislation which will avoid constitutional pitfalls and enable the federal government to deal more directly with the problem of Klan violence.

Johnson, angered by the recent Alabama slaying of a white civil rights worker and mother of five, wants to submit legislation on the Klan as soon as Congress acts on his Negro voting rights bill. Senate and House leaders hope for a final vote on that measure by May 1.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., expressed confidence that Republicans would support an administration anti-Klan bill. He is a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee which may handle such legislation.

Noting that the Republican party last summer rejected his proposal for a formal repudiation of the Klan, Scott said GOP lawmakers would give strong backing to any measure bringing "Klan-inspired murder and violence" under control.

EARLY START — Leaders of the Pampa school system evaluation teams got off to an early start today as they discussed the day's schedule around the breakfast table. The out-of-town educators were visiting classrooms today and tomorrow and will make their reports Wednesday. Seated at the table from left are Jack Edmondson, Pampa superintendent of schools; Dr. Berlie Fallon, Texas Tech professor and head of the high school section; Dr. Emmitt Smith, West Texas State professor and head of the overall evaluation program; and Dr. Fred Stoker of West Texas State, leader of the elementary school evaluation section.

Evaluation of Pampa Schools Is Under Way

Some 41 professional educators, administrators and specialists began visitations to every public school classroom in the city today as part of the climax to Pampa's school evaluation program.

The committee members from colleges, secondary and elementary school levels in Texas arrived in Pampa Sunday afternoon and were guests last night of local school officials at a dinner orientation meeting in Robert E. Lee Junior High School cafeteria.

Superintendent of Schools Jack Edmondson said each committee member received a complete schedule of classes at last night's meeting.

Today, the committee members began visiting individual classrooms. The complete tour of all classrooms, from the first through the 12 grades, expected to take the visitors through tomorrow afternoon, Edmondson said.

The committee also will study a self-evaluation report that has been under way in the Pampa school system by a local evaluation committee since last September, the superintendent said.

The local self-evaluation has involved all staff members in the school system.

The committee of 41 is delving into the report of the local committee today and Tuesday and will make its own evaluation and findings on Wednesday.

The type of evaluation being conducted is in keeping with recommendations of the nation's five regional accrediting associations.

The visiting evaluation committee is headed by Dr. Emmitt Smith, director of research and program development at West Texas University.

House To Act On Two Liquor Bills

AUSTIN (UPI) — Two bills regulating alcoholic beverage sales—one liberalizing and the other curtailing—came up in the House of Representatives today.

Rep. Dick McKissack of Dallas was expected to try for passage of his bill to extend the sale of beer and wine in taverns until 2 a.m. seven days a week. Rep. DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi proposes to close liquor stores nightly at 8 p.m. instead of 10 p.m. as present law provides.

Presently beer and wine sales must stop at midnight every night but Saturday. Saturday drinking extends until 1 a.m. Sunday.

Both the McKissack and Hale bills were favorably reported out of a House committee. Beer retailers favor the McKissack bill, and liquor dealers said they were for the early closing bill.

The liquor men said most liquor store robberies took place between 8 and 10 p.m. They told the committee a uniform 8 p.m. closing law would not hamper business.

New York Greets Astronaut Team

NEW YORK (UPI)—America's first two-man space team arrived here in a drizzling rain today for a traditional ticker tape parade up Broadway to honor their historic space voyage.

Not possible for the Secret Service to provide the protection for the President and his family that the tragic event of November, 1963, has proved to be necessary.

Dillon asked for the appropriation increase Feb. 15 when he testified during a closed hearing of a House appropriations subcommittee. The hearing transcript was made public Sunday. "I am fully aware," he said, "that it is perhaps unprecedented for a cabinet officer, and particularly the secretary of the treasury, to ask for an appropriation in excess of that requested in the President's budget."

But, Dillon said, this was "a very special and indeed unique situation." He said the President felt this substantial increase in funds for the Secret Service was "so intimately connected with him that he should not personally pass upon them."

Negroes Move to Impeach Wallace

U.S. Pours Bombs on North Viet

SAIGON (UPI)—More than 40 U.S. Navy bombers poured tons of high explosives today on a North Vietnamese radar installation near Communist China. It was the second American raid on the island base in 72 hours.

Nightingale Island was bombed Friday in a raid that took American planes farther north than ever before. The island is 85 miles south of Mainland China in the Gulf of Tonkin.

Today's followup strike was launched from the U.S. aircraft carrier Coral Sea. One plane—an A4 Skyhawk jet—was shot down, but its pilot was rescued from the sea.

The North Vietnamese Communists claimed two U.S. planes were shot down and "many others" damaged.

The raid was the 14th against the Communist north since Feb. 7 when the United States began its policy of regular aerial assaults.

Substantial Damage — "There was substantial damage to our primary objective," said Cmdr. Henry P. Glindeman, the pilot in command of the mission. He also led Friday's attack.

Glindeman flew his F4 Phantom jet to Saigon and described today's mission at a press briefing.

Glindeman said the primary target was a half-acre radar site which was part of North Viet Nam's aircraft detection net.

"Higher authority thought we should go back and attack it again," he said. Glindeman said his planes also bombed "communications and other military installations" on the island, using 250-pound and 10-pound general purpose bombs, napalm, jellied gasoline and rockets.

Bach Long Vy Island is about midway between the coast of North Viet Nam and the Communist Chinese island of Hainan. It is 225 miles northeast of the border between North and South Viet Nam.

Examiners Okay Proposed Merger Of Big Railroads

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) examiners today recommended approval of the proposed merger of the New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroads. The combined network would form the biggest rail line in the nation.

The report said that as a condition of the merger, the new rail network must include the freight—but not passenger—services of the bankrupt New Haven Railroad.

The examiners recommended that the new Pennsylvania Railroad not be required to take over the New Haven's money-losing passenger operations "unless a plan is provided to offset the present operating deficits on a sound economic basis."

A Pennsy-Central consolidation, if approved finally by the full ICC would form a network of 19,600 miles of track in the United States and parts of Canada. The combined line would have total assets of more than $5 billion.

The full commission might take more than a year to render a final verdict following review of the examiners' decision and expected appeals of groups objecting to the corporate marriage.

The long awaited report in the case, which has been pending before the commission for three years, was filed by examiners Jerome K. Lyle and Henry C. Darmstedter.

In their report, the examiners said: "It is our belief that the overall benefits to be derived from consummation of the proposed merger clearly outweigh any injury... which has not and cannot be protected through the imposition of conditions."

Integration Leaders Resume Voter Drive

By NICHOLAS C. CHRISS
SELMA, Ala. (UPI) — Integration leaders vowed today to resume their violence-marked voter registration drive in Alabama with a campaign spear-headed by white clergymen and a move by Negroes to impeach Gov. George C. Wallace.

The Rev. James Bevel, a top aide to Dr. Martin Luther King, announced Sunday night organized action would start today towards sending a number of out-of-state white clergymen with Negroes in segregated rural areas to push voter registration.

At the same time, Bevel called for a move to begin in about two weeks to impeach Wallace. He said that if Negroes concentrate "impeachment proceedings could be taken up against Wallace."

Bevel, who also announced that a highway memorial service would be held Tuesday for Mrs. Viola Gregg Luizzo—the first white woman to die in the civil rights movement—did not spell out details of the impeachment movement.

A state prosecutor announced that a grand jury would consider "whatever evidence the state has" against four Ku Klux Klansmen arrested by federal authorities in Mrs. Luizzo's death, at a regular session on April 19.

King declared in San Francisco Sunday that the 10-week-old civil rights movement would continue in Alabama until Negro demands were met. He also called for a massive economic boycott against the state to force Gov. George C. Wallace to end the "reign of terror" in the state.

In discussing plans to send teams into rural Alabama, Bevel said that "we'll begin the first step of our program by or" (See WALLACE, Page 3)

King Seeks Massive Boycott of Alabama

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. appealed Sunday for a massive economic boycott against Alabama to end the "reign of terror" in that southern state.

The Negro leader said he was "thinking in terms of a 10-day boycott," but said others could follow if Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace does not take steps to improve conditions.

King made the appeal during a television interview and added that he hoped such action could begin within two weeks. He appeared on "Meet The Press—NBC."

He said he planned to: —Ask organized labor to refuse to transport or use Alabama products. —Appeal to consumers in "America and throughout the world" to refuse to buy Alabama goods. —Ask the secretary of the Treasury to withdraw all federal funds on deposit in Alabama banks.

—Ask federal agencies to "withdraw support for a society that refuses to protect life and the right to vote" under the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

Officials Say Negroes Would Suffer the Most
MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Two of Alabama's highest elected officials said they feel Negroes would be the hardest hit by Dr. Martin Luther King's proposed massive economic boycott of Alabama.

King said Sunday that a boycott could force the state to meet Negro integration demands and force Gov. George C. Wallace to end "this reign of terror" in Alabama. Wallace was not available for comment. But both Alabama Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers and Lt. Gov. James Allen said that King's proposal would make Alabama Negroes suffer more than anyone else.

Allen called King's proposal "short-sighted." He said such a boycott would create "reverse reaction from what would be expected... since colored people in Alabama constitute about one-third of the population. King ought to be interested in providing jobs for all Alabamians—white and colored alike."

Flowers said King's demand would be "wrong and unjust." "A great many people would suffer that were not to blame" if King's demands were met "and probably the greatest suffering would be among the Negroes of this state."

Dillon Asks for $12.7 Million to Protect President

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon wants Congress to overrule President Johnson and vote $4 million more than the Chief Executive asked for his own protection.

Dillon, in an action he said was "perhaps unprecedented," told a House appropriations subcommittee the $8.7 million requested by Johnson for the Secret Service next fiscal year "was nowhere near sufficient to meet the obvious need." He urged that it be raised to $12.7 million.

The secretary said the additional funds would be used to hire 183 more Secret Service agents plus 76 administration clerical employees, and to buy armored vehicles, radios and protective gear.

"I wish to emphasize," Dillon said, "that without these additional resources it will simply not be possible for the Secret Service to provide the protection for the President and his family that the tragic event of November, 1963, has proved to be necessary."

Dillon asked for the appropriation increase Feb. 15 when he testified during a closed hearing of a House appropriations subcommittee. The hearing transcript was made public Sunday. "I am fully aware," he said, "that it is perhaps unprecedented for a cabinet officer, and particularly the secretary of the treasury, to ask for an appropriation in excess of that requested in the President's budget."

Dear Abby....

Repeat Request on Ethics of 'Tattling'

DEAR ABBY: I have been reading your column ever since I can remember, and now I am a freshman at Columbia University. When I was in high school I recall having read something in your column about students who "ratted" on one another, and how you felt about tattling. It made more sense to me than anything I have ever read on that subject. If you can locate that letter, please print it again. These are times when the question of "informing" on classmates who cheat is timely. Thank you.

DEAR DAVID: With the help of an efficient secretary, I located the letter. It was first printed on November 14, 1961, and here it is:

DEAR ABBY: In our class at school we got into a big discussion about "tattling" and we would like to know how you feel about this subject. Thank you.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS DEAR STUDENTS: For some reason, teachers, and even parents, teach young people that it is "moral" or downright disgraceful for one child to tell someone in authority that another child has disobeyed, misbehaved or even broken the law. Is it any wonder we have hoodlums and vandals who court it a virtue not to "sneak"?

This is not to be confused with running to Mama or the teacher with, "Johnny hit me!" If children are to grow up with a sense of civic duty, they cannot be taught that it is "noble" to remain silent when they know who has destroyed public property or committed other serious anti-social acts. It is their parents who must pay for such deeds. Also, it is unfair that a guilty child should "get by" unpunished; the next time he will try something a little bolder. I think it's time we adults reviewed our attitude on "tattling."

DEAR ABBY: I understand that you live in California, so maybe you can tell me why they have more psychiatrists than plumbers in Beverly Hills.

DEAR CURIOUS: Their sinks are okay, but their heads are clogged up.

DEAR ABBY: Is it impolite to ask for a recipe? A friend of mine recently attended a dinner party (all friends) and asked the hostess for her recipe for a dessert which she found delicious. The hostess replied, "I never give out my recipes." Was the hostess right in refusing? Or was my friend wrong for asking?

JUST CURIOUS DEAR JUST: It is not "impolite" to ask for a recipe. Most cooks are complimented when their guests inquire. Those who refuse to give out their recipes (professional chefs excepted) are selfish. After all, but for the generosity of others, THEY would not have a collection of recipes themselves.

The last two meetings of the 4-H Unit I foods group have been spent in preparation for the Favorite Foods Show which was held March 20 at the courthouse Annex.

At the first meeting Phyllis Atwood and Cathy Wilkie, junior leaders, exhibited their tables for the girls. Each table included a place setting for one, a centerpiece, and standing cards of a days menu and a recipe of the food prepared. Miss Wilkie reviewed the girls on nutrition from the Standard Food Guide, and Miss Atwood gave suggestions for proper table settings.

At the second meeting each junior girl exhibited her own table setting as she will use in the Favorite Foods Show. Cathy Wilkie and Phyllis Atwood, and adult leader, Mrs. Mildred Prince gave each girl helpful suggestions on how to improve her table. The girls were also reviewed on their nutrition and given a short oral quiz on the Unit I food course which was just completed.

Those present were Viola Parsley, Kathy Parsley, Susan Higginbotham, Angela Winegert, Brenda Richter, Cindy Richter, Diane Nicholl, Sharon Newman, Cathy Dial, Jenny Lee, Debra Eaton, Marva Rowen; junior leaders, Cathy Wilkie and Phyllis Atwood and adult leader Mrs. Mildred Prince.

A colorful meal of individual meatloaf, baked potato, green beans, orangeade, and peach delight was prepared by eight 4-H girls at a recent meeting of the Unit I foods group. The meeting was held at Southwestern Public Service Company. Preceding the meal, Phyllis Atwood gave a discussion on the importance of fruits and vegetables in the daily diet.

Present were Angela Winegert, Viola Parsley, Kathy Parsley, Susan Higginbotham, Brenda Richter, Cindy Richter, Sharon Newman, Diane Nicholl, junior leaders, Phyllis Atwood and Cathy Wilkie; and a adult leader, Mrs. Mildred Prince.

At a recent meeting Brenda Winters learned to make a salad, banana milk shake and bear track cookies. Brenda is enrolled in Favorite Food Unit I and Unit I Sewing. She is under the direction of junior leader, Phyllis Atwood and adult leader, Mrs. Ted Atwood.

Junior 4-H girl Brenda Winters was instructed on the Favorite Food Show by her junior leader, Phyllis Atwood and adult leader, Mrs. Ted Atwood. Brenda has been practicing on her favorite food. She has prepared the menu which must be turned in for judging by March 12. She has also been practicing how to set the table for after-school snack. At this meeting she also hemmed more on her tea-towel.

Mrs. Gage Robertson Jr., met recently with the members of the Top O' Texas 4-H Club's plant identification project. These girls have seen a film on how to identify plants.

A test on 21 plants was given to the girls by Mrs. Robertson, with a possible score of 210. The scores ranged from a perfect 210 to 180.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening when you want to explode and make some very drastic changes because you feel you are too tied down to conditions that you do not like at all and are willing to show your best points only in such changes. However, take yourself in hand and conscientiously continue to fulfill promises made by you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)—Stop holding on to that anxiety—let it go and elevate your level of consciousness. Be happy. There is much to do around you. Get busy and be more practical in the future.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 22)—It may be that you are giving too much power to some person or thing that is not good for you. Quietly make changes. Some new acquaintance should be cultivated who is right for you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Don't permit others to interfere in any important duties you may have before you, and labor so that higher-ups are pleased instead of critical. Eliminate mistakes. This can also be in accounting.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)—Far-away pastures may seem greener, but more work in own field brings forth far better fruit. Be wise and know where you make your mistakes in operation. Put new system to work later.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Since you can now understand your errors in dealing with others, make the proper preparations. Be exact. Wife or husband kin are all very demanding—give what is right and just.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—While you are not entirely satisfied with some situation or individual, consider the good part thereof and take it easy. Be sure to keep own promises. Then prestige increases.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Much trouble can come if you do not come through with your promises to others or get work done on time. Be conscientious. Don't be subservient to some emotional attachment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—If you are strong and put aside temptations, you can get that important work out with alacrity. Keep that purse well hidden. Avoid any past extravagances that could grow.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—New ideas occur to you on how best to carry on with basic matters, but be sure you do not spend too much money. Carry through with promises to kin, also. Be loyal.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Getting out to shop and do other errands is more important at this time than you think. Be precise with everyone. Follow through with the schedule you have made, since it is wise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—It behooves you to study well all factors of any deal that requires further laying out of monies. Bide your time before doing so. Show others that you are very practical.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)—A feeling of imposition may be permeating your soul, but consider that you committed yourself to certain promises, so keep them. Get personal affairs handled with wisdom. Be enthusiastic.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, on the surface there is a sober and diligent worker here, but subconsciousness reveals an inner desire to have adventure and change in the life, so do not be surprised if your progeny early begins to eliminate conditions and persons that are no longer of use in his or her ideas, pursuits. Fine chart for the professional person with an exciting hobby on the side. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

The Doctor Says

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If you keep your child home all summer, plan to keep him occupied. This does not mean letting him sit in front of the TV several hours a day. If there are friends his own age in the neighborhood, you won't have much of a problem. Otherwise summer school, even though he grumbles about it, may be a good idea.

For the child ahead of his class many summer schools now have stimulating programs to bring out hidden talents. And for the child who has a hard time keeping up with his class, remedial summer school should give him a chance to catch up and to get a better foundation for the school year ahead.

The other possibility is a summer, or a part of it, away from home. This may take the form of summer camp, a trip to his grandparents' home or an exchange visit for a week or two with an out-of-town friend.

If you plan to send your child to a camp for the first time, you should investigate the camp's health and safety provisions. If possible, talk with the camp director or one of the counselors. If swimming is featured, make sure qualified instructors and life guards are assigned to the waterfront.

All children are homesick the first few days at camp. This is because they are placed in unaccustomed surroundings with strangers. The homesickness is worse when there is no planned activity, but how long it lasts depends on how fast your child makes new friends.

An only child who has spent most of his life with adults has a harder time adjusting to camp than others because he must suddenly share the center of the stage with a group of other children he never saw before.

Flowers Add Spring Note to Costumes

DELIGHTFUL LOOK FOR SPRING — Smart beige and white bowler plus fresh white flowers at the neckline. Flowers should be worn stem down for natural effect.

As far back as ancient Greece, flowers have been worn to accent ladies' fashions. The Greeks adorned themselves with garlands, and women ever since have been wise to the romantic effect of flowers. Empress Josephine of France selected the rose as her official flower, and bouquets played a courtly role in the reign of Louis XIV.

In spring of 1965, flowers are still delightful viewers and smart gals are still wearing them to compliment their fashions. This season's new styles lend themselves especially well to floral accessories; their look is young and vital, their effect like a breath of fresh air.

A round collar looks even more charming, for instance, when pinned with miniature carnations in a soft spring shade. And high-standing pockets on suits or blazers take on new freshness with a trio of yellow daisies tucked inside.

Practically any of the new styles can be shown to better advantage with spring blossoms. And, if you're looking for a springtime gift, a tiny nosegay or corsage is always welcome.

Supreme Court Rules On Right to Close Business

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court unanimously decided today that an employer has the right to close his entire business for any reason he pleases but said he cannot shut down just part of his operation for anti-union purposes.

The unanimous decision came in the case of the Darlington (S.C.) Manufacturing Co., which closed its mill in 1956 after a majority of the workers voted to be represented by the Textile Workers Union (AFL-CIO). Some 500 people in the town of about 6,000 population lost their jobs.

The case, which has been before the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) and the courts for about eight years, is one of the best known in recent labor history.

The opinion, by Justice John M. Harlan, sent the case back to the board for more hearings.

The NLRB found Darlington had violated federal labor law by threatening employees and closing the plant for anti-union reasons. It attributed the same violations to Deering Milliken, Inc., a parent corporation which was the exclusive sales agent for 27 Milliken mills along the Atlantic Seaboard.

The board held the whole system constituted a single employer, commonly controlled by the Milliken family.

However, the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, decided that an employer had a right to close all or part of a business, no matter what the reason.

The appeals court did not decide whether Darlington was an entity in itself or part of the Milliken complex.

any "peace movements." Seen As Support

The action was seen as a move toward Buddhist support for the civilian government of Premier Phan Huy Quat and his policy of keeping the pressure on the Communist Viet Cong.

A spokesman for the National Buddhist Center said a communique addressed to 50,000 young Buddhists warned them not to be taken in by pacifist propaganda.

The Buddhist leadership has played a major role in several of the political upheavals which have hampered the war effort against the Communists in the past 17 months.

One of the current peace movements was launched several weeks ago by Thich Quang Lien, a Buddhist priest associated with the National Center. His superiors have now asked him to withdraw from that effort, known as "the struggle movement for peace and the people's happiness."

Thich Quang Lien has been seeking some sort of settlement with the Communists to stop what he called "a fratricidal war."

In military developments during the weekend, a freak accident at a U.S. Army special forces camp 240 miles northeast of Saigon claimed more South Vietnamese casualties than the Communists inflicted during all of last week.

Fourteen persons were killed and 74 others wounded including a U.S. Army enlisted man, when a bolt of lightning set off 40 land mines around the camp.

The accident happened Saturday night. The mines, placed as defense against Communist infiltrators, exploded chain-reaction style when the lightning struck an electrically operated detonating device.

Women and children were among the casualties.

Deadline Nears On License Tags

Motorists have only four days in which to purchase 1965 auto tags, the county tax office reminded today. The deadline for displaying 1965 tags is midnight Thursday.

Bill Steger, deputy tax collector, explained that residents may drive all day Thursday with 1964 tags, but at midnight Thursday all motor vehicles must bear 1965 tags.

The tax office in the Gray County Court House expects the biggest rush of tag buyers this week.

To help accommodate the rush, the tax office will remain open during the noon hour until Thursday, Steger said.

Mainly - - About People - - Tulsa Company To Build Post Office at Miami

MIAMI (SpI) — Postmaster Gene Hodges stated Saturday that a contract has been awarded to The Royal Corporation of Tulsa, Okla., to build the new post office building in Miami and lease it to the Post Office Department for a basic period of 10 years, with options to renew the lease for an additional 20 years.

The announcement of the award to the successful bidder advances the new building closer to the construction stage. When fully operational, postal officials said, the additional space and more modern equipment will in the long run more than offset the extra cost involved in producing more efficient handling of the mail.

The new Miami Post Office, which will be located on the northwest corner of Miami and Vienna Sts., will contain over 1,200 square feet of floor space, adequate parking and maneuvering area for patron and postal parking, and is expected to be completed and ready for occupancy by the latter part of 1965.

The Post Office Department's capital investment is limited substantially to postal equipment. The building will remain under private ownership, with the owner paying local real estate taxes.

Three Fires Cause Only Minor Damage
Minor damage was reported as the result of three fire calls made by the Pampa Fire Department late yesterday and today.

The first call came at 4 p.m. yesterday from neighbors who reported a small trash fire at Tyng and Miami. The blaze was quickly extinguished and no damage resulted.

At 9:40 p.m. Sunday, a shop in the dash wiring on a 1961 model automobile caused a small fire. The auto, parked at 601 E. Browning, was owned by Shelby Earl Frazier and the smoldering blaze was extinguished with only light damage under the dash occurring.

A short in the wiring of a heating unit also caused slight smoke damage to the home of Dr. Malcolm R. Brown, 2919 Charles at 2 a.m. today.

Harvesters Host Dumas, Mobeetie Visits Shocks

Pampa's unbeaten Harvesters are hosts (weather permitting) to the Dumas Demons at 4 p.m. in today's only action involving a District 3-AAAA club.

Dumas (2-4) of District 1-AAA will be aiming to avenge a pair of losses, 0-1 and 1-8, against Pampa.

Carl Harnsberger (0-0) will take the mound today. The Pampa Shockers play three tilts this week, hosting Mobeetie tomorrow at 4 p.m., with Jerry Largin the probable starting pitcher.

The Harvesters (6-0) were the only 3-AAAA club sitting out Saturday's action. Pampa edged Borger, 9-8, Friday on Ricky Maynard's three home runs in a non-conference meeting of loop foes.

District 3-AAAA teams fared 13-3 in Saturday's play with Amarillo's four teams and Borger sweeping doubleheaders. Plainview, Monterey and Lubbock split twin-bills.

Palo Duro, having its season opener delayed eight days by cold weather, started with 2-1 and 9-4 wins over Portales. Amarillo bounced back from Friday's season-opening 4-18 drubbing by Dumas to down Clovis twice, 12-8 and 13-4.

Tascosa also displayed plenty of offense to boost its record to 5-1 with 13-1 and 11-9 triumphs over previously-unbeaten Hereford. Caprock leveled its record at 3-3 by downing Dumas season mark read 2-2.

Borger's Bulldogs treated a pair of visiting Oklahoma clubs rudely, defeating Mangum, 17-0, and Granite, 4-0 to make their season mark read 2-2.

Plainview stands 4-3-1, losing Saturday's opener to AAA Lamesa, 1-0 before winning the nightcap, 4-1.

Monterey absorbed its second loss in nine outings to Odessa, 3-5, but walloped the Bronchoes, 18-1, in the second clash.

Fast-improving Lubbock owns the district's only losing mark, 4-6-1. The Westerners' Gary Washington shut out Odessa Permian, 1-0, in Saturday's first game but Permian rallied with three runs in the seventh inning to win the nightcap, 4-2.

PHIL SMITH leads hitters

Dick Hart Wins In Playoff

WILMINGTON, N.C. (UPI)—Young Dick Hart, winner of the 17th annual Azalea Open golf tournament in a record-breaking sudden death playoff, aimed at bigger money and better things today with the hope his last-second decisions will pay off again.

Hart, 28, squeaked past Phil Rodgers on the 8th hole of the playoff Sunday, getting a par after both missed the green. Hart entered the tournament only two minutes before the deadline.

After his victory, which meant $3,850 to go with his $1,300 in bonus money, Hart decided to enter the $65,000 Greater Greensboro Open (GGO) the final tournament on the winter tour before the Masters at Augusta. This time, though, it was seven minutes before cut-off.

The GGO, starting Thursday in Greensboro, N.C., has attracted about all the major golfers on the tour, with only Jack Nicklaus and ailing Ken Venturi planning to miss the tournament.

For Hart, the Azalea was his first victory ever on the PGA tour, although he has been a regular on the winter tour for six seasons.

Another rookie shortstop, Darrel Harrelson of the New York Mets organization, made a strong impression on the "old perliesser" Casey Stengel Sunday. Harrelson, who was discharged from the Army just last week, slammed two doubles, drove in one run and scored another to spark the Mets to a 6-2 victory over the Milwaukee Braves. Harrelson is currently listed on the Mets' farm club roster with Buffalo of the International League.

A couple of welcome newcomers, catcher John Romano and outfielder Danny Cater, paced the Chicago White Sox to a 5-3 triumph over the Detroit Tigers. Romano, who played for Cleveland last season, and Cater, who came to the Sox from Philadelphia, each drove in a pair of runs to help the White Sox to their fourth consecutive exhibition circuit victory.

Home runs by Jackie Brandt and Jerry Adair powered the Baltimore Orioles to a 4-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. Roberto Clemente, the National League batting champ who has been recuperating from a case of malaria, joined the Buc Sunday for batting practice and later said he still feels weak.

Tom Reynolds slugged a 10th inning homer to provide the victory margin as the Kansas City Athletics whipped the St. Louis Cardinals 10-8. Reynolds only received credit for a single, however, since he passed another base runner, Ken Suarez, who held up fearing Reynolds' blast would be caught.

Sluggo Frank Robinson tagged a three-run homer off Jim Bouton in the first inning and the Cincinnati Reds went on to defeat the New York Yankees 4-2. It was Robinson's third spring homer.

Pampa Race Men Winners

The second yearling race was flown Saturday, from Frederick, Okla. a 150-mile flight. The weather was perfect and the birds averaged approximately 53 miles an hour. There were nine lots competing with a total of 59 birds.

Lloyd Gooch of Pampa won first and third with a speed of 1495.80 and 1479.05 yds. per min.

Bob Baird, Pampa, took second and sixth with 1479.09 and 1451.32 yds. per min.; J. E. Cantrell, Pampa had fourth, seventh and eighth places with speeds of 1469.38, 1438.33 and 1427.12.

Herbert Hyatt, Pampa, won fifth with 1454.50; Gordon Miller, Pampa, took ninth with 1404.44; and A. J. Tipton, Borger, won tenth with a speed of 1370.25 yds. per min.

The next race will be a 200 mile flight, Saturday, April 3, from Waurika, Okla.

Wilt Leads 76ers Past Cincinnati

By United Press International

The Philadelphia 76ers bought Wilt Chamberlain to help them win the National Basketball Association playoffs; now they're out to prove they can do it without the big guy.

When Philadelphia purchased Chamberlain from San Francisco earlier this season, 76er Coach Dolph Schayes boldly predicted that this team was ready to dethrone the perennial champion Boston Celtics in the playoffs.

The 76ers moved into position to prove their challenge when they defeated the Cincinnati Royals, 108-94, at Cincinnati Sunday afternoon. The victory gave Philadelphia a 2-1 edge over the Royals in their best-of-five elimination to determine the challenger for Boston in the Eastern Division playoffs.

Chamberlain was held to just six field goals and 17 points, although he did contribute 15 rebounds and six assists. Still it was Hal Greer who carried the heavy scoring burden usually assumed by Chamberlain as he poured in 30 points. Guard Al Bianchi added 21 points to the 76er cause.

Randy Moves Up In Weights Toward Summit

CORPUS CHRISTI (UPI)—Randy Matson, the 250-pound Texas A&M teen-age menace to the world's shot put record, looked forward today to next weekend's Texas Relays after posting a new national collegiate mark in his specialty.

The 6-foot, 6½-inch Matson bettered the 66-foot mark by three-fourths of an inch in winning the Corpus Christi Relays even last Saturday night. That erased the old NCAA mark of 65-10½ set by Dallas Long in 1962.

Matson, who moved to the forefront with the retirement of Long, still hasn't seriously threatened Long's world mark of 67-10 set in 1964, but he does own the unofficial world indoor record of 66-2½ and has pushed the 16-pound shot as far as 66-3½ this season. He also had a 66-3-1-4 outdoors effort in winning an Olympic silver medal.

Matson will be the star attraction at the Texas Relays, which start at Austin next Friday.

The Pampa youngster also continued to show improvement in his discus throwing by getting off a heave of 186 feet 11 inches.

Both were among the 10 records set in the six-team meet.

Among the others were a 3:10.5 clocking in the mile relay by Rice University, 13.9 and 52.9 times in the 120-yard high hurdles and 440-yard low hurdles by Rice's Bobby May, and 4:10.2 in the mile by team champion Abilene Christian's Charles Christmas.

Baseball to Choose New Commissioner

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UPI)—Major league club owners today began a long, tedious process of selecting a commissioner of baseball to succeed Ford Frick.

It may be October, when Frick finally steps down, before they settle on their new boss.

"There's no chance in the world anything concrete will be done today," Frick said. "After all they asked me to stay on until after the World Series so they would have plenty of time to agree upon the new commissioner."

Candidates outside baseball are expected to include Milton Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins University and younger brother of former President Dwight Eisenhower; Supreme Court Justice Byron (Whizzer) White; Sen. Phil Hart, Democrat of Michigan; and Jim McShane, head of the U.S. Marshall's office. However, both White and McShane have let it be known that they are not interested.

Frick, like other baseball men, said he had no idea who the new commissioner might be. But there is one thing certain—the new man will have the same power as Kenesaw Mountain Landis, the first commissioner. Under a "detrimental to baseball clause," Landis ruled the game with an iron fist, but the club owners denied similar authority to his successors after his death.

Gets Greater Power

As one of his last official acts, Frick prevailed on the club owners to give his successor the same power Landis had.

Frick predicted the 20 clubs would nominate at least "50 and perhaps 60 candidates."

"The identity of the nominees will not be revealed," Frick said, "for it would not be fair to them."

Each club was given the right to nominate as many candidates as it desired but up until today's meeting time, Frick said that "only 10 or 12 clubs" had sent in envelopes with their list of candidates. But the other clubs will submit them at today's meeting.

"I would guess," Frick said, "that they will appoint a screening committee to go over the list of candidates. After all, they will want to find out if a man is available before offering him the job."

"Also, the chances are the man they finally will select already has a good job and he can't be expected to give up that job for a new one without proper notice and arrangements."

Although no terms have been set, the chances are when the club owners agree on Frick's successor they will offer him a five year contract at $50,000 per year. Frick's last contract called for $63,000 per year.

The betting now is that William Shea, a 48-year-old lawyer who was instrumental in getting National League baseball back in New York after the city lost the Dodgers and Giants, has the inside track.

Once, Joe Cronin, the president of the American League, was considered a sure-fire bet to succeed Frick. But it is reported he lost a lot of his support over the way he handled two matters last season—the attempt by Charles O. Finley to move the Athletics out of Kansas City last spring and the sale of the majority stock in the New York Yankees to the Columbia Broadcasting System last fall.

It was considered certain that both Shea and Cronin will be among the nominees. Others who are expected to be named as possible candidates from

Glover, Gregory Amarillo Battery

AMARILLO — Returning All-Western Junior College Conference pitcher Jerry Glover will be on the mound at 1 p.m. today when the Amarillo College Badgers open their 1965 baseball campaign against Sayre, Okla.

John Knightstep, who had an 0-2 mark last season, is coach Bob Carter's choice to hurl the second game of today's doubleheader, to be played on AC's diamond at 24th and Jackson.

Glover, former Pampa High School star, compiled a 9-2 mound mark last season as he helped Amarillo win the WJCC crown with a 17-3 league record. Overall, Amarillo won 20 and lost six in 1964.

The Badgers were cut down by a strong Blinn College team in a playoff to determine this area's representative in the national tournament in Grand Junction, Colo.

Catching Glover in the first game against Sayre will be his old Pampa batterymate, Larry Gregory. Larry Jasper of Amarillo will catch Knightstep in the second game.

The rest of the Badger lineup will have team captain Dean Reding at first base, Danny Gray and Robert Pitts as the short-stop-second base combination. Terry Simpson at third base with Raymond Cherry in left field, Sammy Gast in center and Robin Byrd in right.

Coach Bob Carter noted that his team had been victimized to such an extent by bad weather that he hadn't made definite decisions as to the positions to be played by his three outfielders or Gray and Pitts as yet.

In the second game of the doubleheader, Glover will play third base. He hit so well last year that he is considered too valuable to take out of the lineup when he isn't pitching.

Reding and Gray were all-conference choices as well as Glover last year.

After meeting Sayre today, the Badgers play the AC alumni Saturday before wading into conference warfare next week.

Texas Racers Top Ferraris

SEBRING, Fla. (UPI)—Black clouds swept over the scented orange groves, answering the bellow of the cars with peels of thunder, and in the driving rain that came at dusk a champion died.

It happened in a puddle of water on a lonely bend where there was no one to mourn, and the new champions flashed by with a scream of triumph.

In the distance, the lightning flashed and from the west a sudden wind whipped across the bleak landscape, where the streaking cars roared a defiant, discordant funeral march. It was a scene fit for the death of a king. It was Ferrari's last stand—the finest and hardest running of the 12-hours of Sebring.

When it ended Saturday, the first crown was placed on the most astonishing success story in the annals of modern racing. For at last an American driver had won a great international race in an American car.

American cars dominated the race.

The checkered flag also crowned the drive and vision of a 28-year-old Texas oil millionaire named Jim Hall, who designed, built and drove a radical sports car called the Chaparral to victory.

Hall, his partner, Hap Sharp, and their co-drivers Ronnie Hissom and Bruce Jennings, entered two cars. When Sharp's car began to fail midway in the race, they concentrated on the other car which took the lead around noon when Dave Gurney's Lotus-Ford broke. Hall carried most of the load.

He drove the Chaparral through broiling heat, through a torrential rain and into the black night with flame belching from the organ-like stack of carburetor intakes behind his head.

Hall and Sharp drove their cars at incredible speeds with Sharp finally raising the lap record to a bit more than 104 mph—four mph better than the old record.

Ken Miles and Bruce McLaren pushed Shelby's Ford prototype into second place behind the Chaparral and first place in the prototype class.

Togetherness Poses Problems

It stands to reason that "The Great Society" — into which we are to progress like so many wiggling larvae from the worm to the butterfly stage — will involve some changes. And Publisher Ernest Joiner of the Sebastopol (Calif.) Times speculates on another area in which discrimination becomes illegal with the dawn of July 1. Under the heading "Togetherness," he writes:

"Those of you who have had occasion to travel in the South are aware that, traditionally, separate public restrooms are set aside for white men, white women, colored men, and colored women. This arrangement served very well until the Civil Rights Act came along last year and upset the tradition.

"Now, the four restrooms have shrunk to two, labeled simply, 'men' and 'women.' But on July 1, a Federal law takes effect which makes it illegal to discriminate between the sexes, and that brings us back to the restroom rhabar.

"Under the new law, women and women of any color be entitled to use the same restrooms? Couldn't a woman demand her legal right to use the men's room? And couldn't a man stand on the Public Accommodations section of the Civil Rights Act and use the ladies' lounge?"

"Something tells us that even the ladies who are so anxious to beat down the barriers between the sexes, will insist upon hanging onto their 'separate but equal' powder-room facilities. Whether or not the new emancipation proclamation will overdo the 'togetherness concept' may well, in the end, be decided by the Supreme Court."

However the "togetherness" aspects may turn out, we understand that it will also be illegal to state in a 'help-wanted' ad whether you seek a man or woman worker, and some publishers are now barring a qualification from such advertising. And certainly an employer is discriminating against ignorance (which should command our sympathy) if he chooses a job applicant with experience in the work he wants done! But, would it be fair to have the job-seekers roll dice for the job? Some people DO have more luck with the bones than others. Page the Supreme Court!

Job for Parents Only

All too often, something-for-nothing is worth just what it costs. But local savings and loan association members of The Savings and Loan Foundation have a booklet for parents that is free for the asking and worth more than its weight in forbidden gold.

If you are slightly skeptical, consider for a moment what it might have meant to you if someone had told your parents that you should have an allowance at the age of four or five — suggesting how much, and how it should be increased — as you grew older! And all this based on the unequivocal declaration that: "The child should be allowed to spend his money as he pleases."

But this soundly-based, authoritative guide — "What You Should Tell Your Child About Money," should mean even more now to most of today's parents. In these topsy-turvy days when we are confused no end about our national prosperity and our national poverty at the same time, the continuing problem of guiding a youngster's attitude toward money and developing his competence in handling it involve considerably more than the question of how much you should give him.

Good News for Stenos

There seems to be no end to the things the amazing laser can do, from delicate eye surgery to flashing messages to the moon.

Now another possible use has been suggested by Arthur Schawlow of Stanford University, co-inventor of the method for producing an intense beam of light. He has discovered that the laser will erase typewriter mistakes. The light actually vaporizes the ink without harming the paper.

Conceivably, a laser key could be built right into a typewriter. "All it requires," say Schawlow, "is some engineering to bring down the cost."

A laser eraser may not be the boon to mankind that some of the other laser applications are, but 20 million struggling stenographers wouldn't turn it down.

Babies' Dads are Younger

American dads are getting younger and younger. That is, they're becoming dads at an earlier age than previous generations.

An analysis by the Institute of Life Insurance of vital statistics from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare reveals that younger men are fathering more and more babies. At the same time, older men are fathering fewer.

In 1940, for example, the average number of births per 1,000 men aged 15 to 19 was 7.5. In 1962 that figure had almost tripled to 21.

But for each 1,000 men in the 35-49 age bracket, the figure was 19.7 in 1940 to only 15 in 1962.

Neglect in Viet Hurts War on Reds

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It might be well to look at a South Vietnamese hamlet and see why we're not winning despite excellent paper programs and millions in economic aid.

Here are excerpts from a revealing confidential report made a short time back by a Vietnamese inspection team.

Phu Thoi hamlet (fictitious name), 741 population, 35 radios, 156 school children, nine miles from Saigon, does not have a hamlet council or local governing committee. Security and defense are in the hands of a local militia.

"No one (in the hamlet) knows the provincial chief's name nor his face. As to the district chief, the people stated they have heard about him, but no one has seen him nor do they know his name." A government representative lives in the hamlet — at least his family does. But he rarely comes to see the hamlet or his family. So there is virtually no local government or security.

"Some three weeks ago at about 10 p.m., the Viet Cong came and knocked at doors and asked the people to show their family registers. Those who complied had their registers torn up by the VC. The VC remained in the hamlet until 3 a.m. and they cut the fence and pulled out pickets before leaving. The VC did not make propaganda; they only told the people to inform the (government) of their deeds."

"U.S. officials make much of the agricultural and veterinary credit system aimed at helping the country people help themselves improve their living. They boast of the establishment of hamlet clinics and the well-digging program. They talk a great deal about the corn-and-pig program under which farmers are loaned pigs or money to get pigs, given instruction and aid to develop a pig population and add to their incomes. But the report continues:

"The hamlet has no health station. Representatives of such services as agriculture, veterinary and agricultural credit have never come."

"Water is the most critical problem. The people must go to another hamlet to get drinkable water."

"People have heard about the (U.S.-sponsored) pig-and-corn program for some time, but it has not yet been carried out. They believe that only families having landed property can take part."

"They ask: 'Is government agricultural credit money only available to proerty owners? Is there any way which would permit (ordinary farmers) to borrow money from this service?'"

"Fertilizer, however, has been received by some families. The inspection team reports the most urgent requests of the people to their local government are—

—'Dig a well to provide drinking water.'
—'Repair bridge in hamlet.'
—'Build a health station.'
—'Maintain security for the hamlet's people.'

Information cadres have never operated in the hamlet. (In this vacuum the active Communist propagandists have made hay.)

Below is a partial list of Phu Thoi hamlet youths who have followed the VC.

Nguyen Van Mam, born 1927, joined the VC in 1956. Nguyen Van Nghia and Tran Van Duc, born 1942, dodged the draft in 1961 to follow the VC. Tran Van Ty and Tran Van Tay born 1945, taken by the VC right in the hamlet in 1964.

This hamlet is typical in one way or another of the majority of hamlets in South Viet Nam. If we are to win this war, it is clear that more effort must be put into getting out to the hamlets to insure that farm people learn how to help themselves. Help-yourself plans that lie in Saigon are no help in defeating the Viet Cong in the country.

Currency Comptroller Saxon To Be Ousted — If He Can't Be Pressured Into Quitting

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Currency Comptroller James Saxon is definitely slated for the ax, but the big question is when and how.

President Johnson is trying hard to high pressure the stormy-controversial bank regulator into "resigning." But so far without results.

The embattled bank regulator is standing pat, and flatly refusing to quit "under fire."

Under the National Banking Act, Saxon can be axed — on one condition.

This is an unusual provision that requires the President to officially explain to Congress why the comptroller of the currency is being ousted before the expiration of his five-year term.

Saxon, appointed by President Kennedy in November 1961, has more than 18 months to serve. For some still unclear reason, President Johnson apparently is reluctant to dismiss him — much as he wants to get rid of him.

Instead, the heat is being put on Saxon to voluntarily depart. White House aides, administration officials, congressional leaders and others are putting out the word the President strongly disapproves of Saxon, wants to replace him, and if he doesn't leave on his own volition, will bluntly remove him.

So far, this barrage of backstage hints has been shrugged off by Saxon. How long he will be able to withstand this potent squeeze is a toss-up.

Indications point to rough weather ahead for the former Chicago banker.

The Senate Investigating Committee, headed by Senator John McClellan, D-Ark., which already has made headlines with jarring disclosures concerning the affairs of several insolvent Western Banks, is credited with preparing to uncork more such revelations.

On the House side, Representative Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the Banking Committee, is set to launch still another probe of Saxon's activities. Long a caustic banker critic, Patman's investigation is not likely to help Saxon.

EARLIER CRACKDOWN — President Johnson's disapproval of the turbulent Comptroller of the Currency is not new. Last fall Johnson indirectly attempted to crack down on Saxon.

Treasury Secretary Dillon was directed to sternly notify Saxon that he was to "cooperate" with other government agencies, particularly the Federal Reserve and Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. For months he had been acrimoniously feuding with them.

The President's letter on this to Dillon was so emphatic that most Treasury officials viewed it as the prelude to Saxon's ouster.

Around the World

By ROBERT MORRIS

The American Security Council Probably more than ever before, what is popularly known as the consensus is proving formidable in shaping events. Armies of pollsters and opinion samplers are now an integral part of any legislative or executive decisionmaking. Even some of our churchmen, educators and businessmen thoroughly test the temperature of the waters before taking a public plunge.

Some of us do not like this trend because it blunts the absolutes of right and wrong and dims the eternal verities. A dwindling few resist the consensus and hold fast to their ideals. Others listen to the tones of the consensus, blend themselves into it, but try to direct it toward their own concepts of rectitude and justice.

This dilemma of holding fast to our ideals in lonely solitude or of plunging into the main current and trying to give them practical direction is dividing many good people who should otherwise be united in the espousal of high purpose.

Actually, a good combination would be achieved if there were a conscious division of forces between all people of high purpose with some pointing the way to the peaks and others working in the mainstream toward salvaging the vestiges of our heritage.

The Communists have certainly utilized this alignment of forces. I have watched some of the more important secret Communists here (often decorated with respectable awards, and even moving in such sensitive arenas as churches and church schools) successfully pushing the great consensus toward Soviet purposes. Still other operatives, often expendable, have been assigned to conspicuously promulgating the orthodoxy of their dogma or sparking demonstrations and disorders.

The Communists are united in purpose and move in tandem; those who espouse human liberty, unfortunately, are not only divided, but too often are denouncing each other as "co-prisoners" or "extremists."

Fortunately, there are forces that try to bridge this unnecessary gulf. One such force is the American Security Council, and particularly its Washington Report. Here is a group that addresses itself to the most sensitive and important issues in terms of absolutes, and yet stays in the vital center of influence, pushing the consensus in the desired direction.

In recent weeks this organization has put onto Main Street the elements of such important issues as the value of the Free Chinese forces in the Far East crisis, the dangers of fanciful and unrealistic disarmament, the folly of some of the recommendations of consultants to our Disarmament Agency and the Defense Department, and the enormity of the Soviet espionage apparatus stalking the United States.

The American Security Council is coming to grips with vital issues and yet filling a necessary role in influencing the great consensus.

Thus, it is performing a role that some of our government, church and educational organizations should be performing.

Present practices may be assessed as an experiment in a new type of government and by the people. Demonstrations, mass meetings, civil disobedience, "in"-non-violent protests and riots are replacing the voice of the people.

Government has assumed the duty of affording these many groups privileges over the quiet, well-read, peaceful citizens. These protesting minorities seem to be trying to prove that the majority are only apathetic and always wrong. The U.S. in extending foreign aid throughout the world is influential in the formation of policies of nations so aided.

It may be held that the U.S. must take adequate steps to protect demonstrators who are stoning, burning and defacing embassies, libraries, aid stations and other institutions incidental to our interests there.

It may be questioned if the U.S. Legislative bodies, Judicial Department and Executive Department are entitled to resist their critics who are likewise inclined to demonstrate.

Economics in One Lesson

The reader of today's newspaper may be highly bewildered by all of the strange and unrealistic economic policies being promoted today. But it is often difficult to put into words the reasoning that demonstrates the fallacy in a new economic scheme.

When one gets through examining the arguments behind union demands, tariffs, inflation, public works, etc., there is so much to remember that it's easy to get lost. What is required is a basic economic rule that can be applied to each situation to understand what is involved.

Henry Hazlitt provided that rule nearly 20 years ago in his classic short book, "Economics in One Lesson." (A paperback edition is available from MacFadden Publications, 205 E. 42nd St., New York 17, N. Y.; 50 cents.)

Rule Posed
Hazlitt poses his basic rule: The art of economics consists in looking not merely at the immediate but at the longer effects of any act or policy; it consists in tracing the consequences of that policy not merely for one group but for all groups.

The alert reader will note that this is not a positive rule that can provide a positive answer to every economic question. It is instead a basic rule for refuting fallacies. Proper application of the rule trains the reader to recognize that every time the politician attempts to "help" one person or group, he does so by taking away from someone else.

Hazlitt starts with the famous "broken window" fallacy. When a hoodlum throws a brick through a storekeeper's window, the bystanders cheer — because this will give employment to a glazier. But applying the basic rule, one must note that the money the storekeeper will now spend on a new pane of glass was already earmarked for a new suit. So the glazier's gain is the tailor's loss; and we must add to that the storekeeper's loss — instead of having both a window and a suit; he winds up with only a window.

Rule Applied
In the field of international trade, Hazlitt applies the rule to the question of tariff. Sure, those in a particular industry gain when their product is protected from foreign competition by a high tariff. But what about the consumer? He loses by having to deal with less than the most efficient producer of that product. As a result, he pays more for less. And if we don't buy foreign products with dollars, what will the foreigners use to purchase our products? So every import prevented means a corresponding export has been prevented. One American producer loses in order to "protect" another American producer; and the consumer loses to boot.

In every case, the economic fallacy is promoted by calling attention to those who gain from the act. Those who lose are not seen, and is the consequences to them are overlooked.

As the author says, the art of economics consists in looking not merely at the immediate but at the longer effects of any act or policy; it consists in tracing the consequences of that policy not merely for one group but for all groups.

Today's smile: A little boy answered the telephone and his father's boss asked: "When will your father's leg be well so that he can come back to work?" The lad replied: "Not for a long time." The boss wondered why, and the lad responded: "Cause compensation's set in."

Although the big track meets still attract sizable crowds there is little sustained public interest in foot racing today. The last public idol we can recall was Paavo Nurmi, the Flying Finn, who came here in 1925. In one month, appearing nearly every night against the best competition, he set 16 world's records at distances from three-fourths of a mile to three miles. None stand today, but in his time Nurmi was unbeatable.

Thoughts while shaving: In their efforts to make the Philadelphia Convention of the Performing Arts the world's best concert auditorium, the architects and sound engineers studied and analyzed 60 halls in 20 countries before they drew a single plan... One of the newer businesses to develop since World War II is records management and disposal. A half-dozen firms now specialize in filing and storing company paper work, letters, vouchers, etc. It costs more for big businesses, especially since American office workers produce enough documents to fill 60 million file drawers every year... When samples of the substance we know as rubber were given to the British scientist, Priestley, he discovered he could erase pencil marks by rubbing it over them. He christened the substance rubber and the name stuck... According to the Census Bureau nearly 10 per cent of the 180 million persons in the U.S. are 65 or over, which is one of the reasons we hear so much now about care for the elderly... Last year 104,000 persons were killed in accidents, more than half of them in automobile crash-ups. So drive carefully and be careful... Military hospitals are not new. The Romans established them for their soldiers in various parts of the Empire. But we don't know if any of Caesar's legionnaires received disability pensions when they were discharged... The Wooster (Ohio) RECORD headlined a story: "Generally Speaking — Battered Kiwanians Give Lots Of Dough." No doubt someone buttered up the battered Kiwanians.

Country Editor speaking: "A lot of those things that history repeats weren't worth doing the first time."

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

You never can tell when an idea will hit the jackpot. Some years ago a fellow invented a toy called "Silly Putty," and marketed it as the "world's most useless substance." It caught on and he's still selling 3 million units a year at $1 each... Joe Trahey, an authority on pipes and pipe smoking, tells us that metal gadgets are never used in good pipes since they cause the pipe to smoke hot and wet. He adds they don't filter the smoke or permit free air circulation... Just to show you how things have changed in these United States, there were 4500 trains carrying mail daily in 1950, and today there are only 1150. Airplanes and trucks do most of the hauling now.

Today's smile: A little boy answered the telephone and his father's boss asked: "When will your father's leg be well so that he can come back to work?" The lad replied: "Not for a long time." The boss wondered why, and the lad responded: "Cause compensation's set in."

Population Running Unchecked

By MYRON FEINSILBER
United Press International
The world's population is a million a week, 65 million a year.

It will double in 35 years, then double again in even less time. This is beginning to scare the leaders of mankind. Unchecked population nullifies progress. Egypt's Aswan Dam will be a proud engineering marvel when it is completed. It will increase Egypt's agricultural output by 45 per cent. But by the time it is completed, Egypt's population will also have grown by 45 per cent.

Demographers — students of population trends — consider themselves engaged in an enterprise more critical than any which has ever occupied man. They want to find the way to check population growth, and time is running short.

Consider numbers alone. Half a million years ago, there were perhaps 100,000 people on earth. Ages passed before the 250 million level was reached at the time of Christ's birth. Sixteen centuries passed before population reached 500 million. But only 200 years were required to reach one billion, by 1850. In the 115 years since then, to today, it has gone to 3.3 billion. In the next 35 years, it will reach 7 billion.

In 1900, the world was adding 40,000 souls a day. Now it is adding 180,000 a day—125 every minute.

This is comparable to adding each year to the world's population all the people of Denmark, Finland, Norway, Sweden, Austria, Greece, Chile and Canada.

40 Per Cent Teenaged
Forty per cent of those alive today are under 15 years of age. In 10 years, they will be parents.

Fifteen years from now, there will be 10 million more Chinese, 50 million more Russians, 48 million more Americans. The number of Mexicans will have grown from 40 million to 70 million.

And these figures may be conservative. Census information is haphazard in many lands. Where new censuses are taken, they usually reveal far more people than had been estimated.

Nigerian officials had estimated their population at no more than 37 million. A census in 1963 shocked them—it showed the estimate was too low by 19 million.

It is easy to talk of populations, hard to realize they represent individual persons, two-thirds of whom are hungry and wretched, but all of whom entertain some hope for a better life.

Where will all the world's new people live? In a new book, "The Silent Explosion," just published by Beacon Press, author Philip Appleman asks if Calcutta is to become "the city of the future."

"When you walk the streets of Calcutta," he writes, "you see gaunt and half-naked men bathing at public water taps; women huddling over little piles of manure, patting it into cakes for fuel; children competing with dogs for refuse; hundreds of thousands of homeless people living in the streets, shoving in the streets, having their teeth pulled in the streets and leeching in the streets."

That is the picture of overpopulation. Historic ally, a population growth tapers off when a nation becomes industrial. People have fewer children when they find it economically desirable to do so. Because they want better housing and they want their children educated, they spread their resources over a smaller family.

A16 1st add xx smaller family
But in many poor lands, the desire is for large families. The tenant farmers and sharecroppers of Brazil want sons to help farm. In peasant societies, fertility is worshipped and childlessness is considered a calamity. Children represent old age security for their parents. And there is little reason not to have them; it doesn't make any difference.

Babies Become Adults
The old idea that a family must have lots of babies in order for one or two to survive into adulthood is long in disappearing. The fact that modern medicine, public health practices and pesticides have drastically curbed infant mortality and lengthened life-span takes long in reflecting itself in family size.

There is no evidence that people curb the size of their families when they are hungry; the reverse may be true. Says Professor Marston Bates in "The Prevalence of People": "when people do not need to think about their hunger, they learn to think more carefully about the future and they are less apt, blindly and miserably, to reproduce themselves, careless of how these new generations will find the means of subsistence."

The greatest population growth occurs in the nations least able to sustain it. Europe has brought its population growth rate down to one per cent per year — a rate at which a population takes 70 years to double. The U.S. rate is 1.6 per cent. US population, 192 million by mid-1964, will reach 360 million by the end of this century.

Until this century the world rate has been 1 per cent. Now it is 2 per cent, producing a doubled population every 35 years. Asia's annual growth rate is 2.5 per cent; so is Africa's. Latin America's is a zooming 2.9 per cent, a rate at which one million people become 19 million in a century.

Europe's decelerated rate of growth is a cultural phenomenon. It results from millions of couples individually deciding to limit the size of their families.

They do so through birth control. Anthropologists know of no society in which sexual intercourse is engaged in solely for procreation. (Some primitive societies have no idea that conception results from intercourse.)

Population control is old. The ancient Greeks in their city-states practiced infanticide and, abhorrent as it seems to the modern world, this practice throughout history has served to limit populations.

Abortions and Birth Control induced abortion, too, has been widespread for centuries. The evidence indicates that in societies where abortion is banned it remains far more prevalent than authorities might profess to believe. In Chile a survey showed that one-fourth of all women had abortions.

Until recently, contraceptive devices have been troublesome, of dubious efficiency and expensive. The birth control pill, while effective, is costly and complicated because it must be taken under a rigid schedule.

Continence and the rhythm method, calling for abstinence from sex during periods when the woman is able to become pregnant, are the only birth control practices approved by the Catholic church. The rhythm method works well when employed by highly-motivated couples who are able to understand the menstrual cycle and to keep precise calculations. This is difficult for uneducated people.

The Catholic viewpoint is undergoing what Pope Paul VI calls "a study as broad and deep as possible."

The evidence indicates that many Catholics have parted from their church's doctrine in this area. Italy, 99.8 per cent Catholic, has a .6 per cent growth rate, one of the lowest in the world. Catholic Spain and Portugal have rates nearly as low. Surveys indicate that many American Catholics use contraceptives.
