World Powers Admit Defeat As Parley Is Closed

Crop Prospects Boom With Rains Over Plains Area

Farmers Have Happy Smiles For Moisture

Crosby County Is Drenched By Fall Measuring 2.36 Inches In Wide Section; Ralls Is Also Visited

Cotton Looks Good

Probable Thunder Showers Are Forecast Today; Light Fall In Lubbock While Slaton Is Getting More Than Inch

CROP prospects boomed in several South Plains sections yesterday after rains and showers, and all areas had cooler weather.

Farmers, merchants, and professional men in most parts of Crosby county wore happy smiles, for rainfall there was more general. Crosbyton had 2.36 inches, the fall continued to the county line, and the east Plains also had rain. From one quarter inch to an inch of rain was reported over the south half of the Ralls trade territory, and cotton prospects seemed good.

Light Showers Here

South Plains residents still looked for general rains which will assure crop growing season in all areas. Lubbock had about one-third of an inch, while at the experiment substation east of town there was only .07 of an inch recorded.

The forecast for today called for probable thunder showers in this area.

The Lamesa area, which has suffered much because of the dry weather, still had no rain last night. The same report came from Floydada, Seagraves, and Levelland.

Railway Reports

The Fort Worth & Denver City railway office here reported rains from Quanah to Clarendon, from Wellington to Childress, and from Childress to Lubbock. The precipitation at Childress was estimated at two inches. The rain was light at Sterley and Petersburg.

Western Union reported a light shower at Brownfield, .1 of an inch in Muleshoe and heavier in some area there, one-half inch at Tahoka, .78 at Plainview.

Inch At Slaton

More than an inch of rain fell at Slaton, the Santa Fe reported. Meadow, Ropesville, O'Donnell, Post, and Justiceburg also had showers.

More than an inch of rain was had at Slide; McAdoo and Lorenzo had light showers. The precipitation was said to be heavier south of Lorenzo. Olton had a shower, and the fall was heavier northwest of that community. Wellington had .75 of an inch.

Young Factor Is Closely Guarded

CHICAGO, July 5. (AP)—Efforts were being made today to prevent the John Factor abduction from becoming a double-kidnaping.

It was learned that whenever Jerome Factor, 19-year-old son of the missing international speculator, leaves his hotel headquarters for the home of his mother, Mrs. Leonard Marcus, Factor's first wife, he is attended by two bodyguards.

Meanwhile, the strain of watchful waiting began to tell on Factor's second wife, the former Rella Cohen, who collapsed. She was ordered to remain in bed by her physician.

Young Factor said he had received but one call from anyone reputedly representing the kidnapers—a telephone message asking for $75,000—and he added he was not certain that it was not a hoax.

PLANE IS DOWN

TERRACE, B. C., July 5. — The "Jimmie Mattern rescue plane" of William Alexander, who took off from Edmonton at dawn, landed late today in a clover field here, apparently out of fuel.

Police Hunt Two Men In Slayings At Kansas City

Former North Dakota Sheriff Is Thought To Be Implicated; Crime Is Described

(By The Associated Press)

KANSAS CITY, July 5. — E. C. Reppert, director of police, announced tonight that Verne C. Miller, a former sheriff of North Dakota, and William Weissman, of Kansas City, were sought as the identified killers of four officers and their prisoner, Frank Nash, a bank robber, in front of the union station here June 17. Miller is wanted in several cities for other crimes, Reppert said.

The police head announced the massacre resulted when officers defied Miller's attempt to rescue Nash as he was being transfesred from train to motor car on his way to the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas. A nation-wide search has been instituted by the police and the United States bureau of investigation for Miller and Weissman, a brother of Solly Weissman, Kansas City gangster who was killed here a few years ago.

Reppert, in a statement detailed the results of a lengthy investigation, depicted just how the shooting occurred.

The morning of the massacre "Miller and Weisman drove to the station and parked Miller's sedan in the south parking lot opposite the east door of the station," Reppert said, "and when the government officers came across the street with Nash and they saw them all in a group and without firearms in readiness to shoot, Miller and Weisman

Slaying Of Santone Woman Is Confessed And Murder Charge Filed Against Negro Janitor

Man Says That He Called The Victim To Answer An Ad For Job And Then Struck Her With Small Lead Pipe

(By The Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, July 5. — June Woolfolk, 36, negro janitor of an apartment house, was charged today with the murder of Mrs. Alma Dell Cabble, 34, whose body, the head badly beaten, was found in one of the suites of the apartment Tuesday morning, nearly 48 hours after she had left her home to reply to a want-ad she had inserted in a newspaper.

The charge was filed after a statement made by Woolbolk to Delos Finch, assistant district attorney, and Detective Captain Aubrey Hopkins, after he had been questioned for several hours by city detectives.

Implicates Another

The negro implicated another negro, whom he said was in the apartment of Mrs. Elenita Heye with him at the time Mrs. Cabble was beaten to death during Mrs. Heye's absence in Corpus Christi over the holidays. An intensive search for the accomplice by detectives today failed to locate him or any one answering his description.

Woolfolk, who broke down under the questioning of detectives early today, led them to the tool house in the rear of the apartment house, and showed them where he had hidden a two-foot length of lead pipe, with which he said he had struck Mrs. Cabble on the back of the head.

Woolfolk declared he had beaten Mrs. Cabble but that the other negro also struck her. He said he had gone to Mrs. Heye's apartment

New Dry Party Being Proposed

(By The Associated Press)

MILWAUKEE, July 5.—Dissatisfied with the stand taken by both major political parties, the annual convention of the national Women's Christian Temperance Union today adopted a resolution proposing a third party which would attract dry voters.

The plea for the resolution was made from the floor of the convention. The members of the committee hastily assembled and later submitted the following resolution: "As the leaders of the major political parties are supporting the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, we call upon dry men and women in every state to consider sympathetically proposals for the formation of a new political party which will actively support the principles and policies of prohibition, along with other great moral issues. The times call for citizens to return to the standard of justice and honesty set by the framers of the constitution."

WTCC Pushes Display Plans

Whirlwind Campaign Will Be Staged To Secure Striking Representation For Cities In Chamber Area

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce Wednesday marshalled its forces for a whirlwind campaign to secure for each of its 173 affiliated towns a striking representation at the Chicago World's fair.

With the Texas state exhibit virtually assured, the regional chamber is pushing its original plan, announced to directors on June 7 by Vice-President Spencer A. Wells, Lubbock, who is chairman of the organization's promotional development commission.

The plan includes booklets and folders advertising member towns, oportunities for the individual towns to place their own miniature exhibits before the throngs viewing A Century of Progress, and a large relief map embracing 60 percent of the area of Texas and 50 percent of New Mexico's area, the territory served by WTCC.

El Paso Cafe Operator Is Found Guilty In Beer Case

EL PASO, July 5. (AP)—A jury in district court here late today found W. T. Effinger, El Paso cafe proprietor, guilty of possession of 3.2 per cent beer for purposes of sale and gave him a one-year suspended sentence.

Similar charges are pending against two other El Paso cafe proprietors.

Judge W. D. Howe instructed the jurors to find Effinger guilty if they believed he possessed beer for sale containing more than one per cent alcohol by volume.

Tropic Storm Moves Slowly Toward Texas

Violent Disturbance Expected To Strike Today; Warnings Are Hurried To All Persons In Its Path

Barometers Fall

Heavy Seas Are Reported Along Coast; Airplane Sets Out To Warn All Fishermen That Danger Is Pending

(By The Associated Press)

BROWNSVILLE, July 5—A violent tropical disturbance moved slowly through the Gulf of Mexico toward the lower Texas coast today, necessitating hurricane warnings to ships and instructions to persons likely to be in its path.

The government weather bureau late in the day estimated that the storm was 300 miles slightly south of east of Brownsville and was traveling slightly north of west and predicted that it would strike the mouth of the Rio Grande tomorrow forenoon. Brownsville is approximately 20 miles from the mouth of the river.

Barometers Drop

Barometer readings dropped slowly but steadily all day from Corpus Christi, 125 miles to the north, to Brownsville. In a three-hour period during mid-day, the barometer dropped from 29.96 to 29.88 at Corpus Christi and from 29.90 to 29.78 here. The weather observer said the steady drop indicated the approach of the storm. At 5:30 the barometer was 29.76.

Heavy seas, tides above normal and north winds were reported from the upper coast from Galveston to Port Arthur but barometer readings held stationary close to normal. In those sections, the gulf disturbance was believed to be "pulling" the winds toward it.

The Corpus Christi wind was measured at 15 miles an hour from the east.

Fishermen Warned

An airplane from the municipal airport there went out to warn fishermen and the meteorologist warned those persons in the lowlands to vacate by nightfall. A section at the extreme north end of Padre Island was quickly cleared.

Turner Loses In California Race

LOS ANGELES, July 5. (AP)—Col. Roscoe Turner today was disqualified by the contest committee of the 1933 national air races as winner of the 100-mile free-for-all closed course race run yesterday on the closing day of the races.

The contest committee after a meeting announced it had decided Turner cut the fourth pylon on the first lap of the race.

Disqualification of Turner gave Jimmy Wedell of New Orleans first place and the prize of $3,375. Second place went to Lee Gehlback of Detroit, whose prze was $1,875, third place to Roy Minor of Hollywood, whose winning was $1,125, and fourth place and $750 to George Hague of Los Angeles. Fifth place was won by Z. D. Granville of Springfield, Mass., who took $375.

Young Doug Is Improving; Is Removed From Hospital

NEW YORK, July 5. (AP)—Douglas Fairbanks, jr., screen actor who was stricken with pneumonia 10 days ago, was sufficiently recovered today to be removed from doctors hospital to the home of his mother, Mrs. Jack Whiting.

His physician said he expected complete recovery within a short time.

Move To Quicken Tempo Of Recovery Program Expected

WASHINGTON, July 5. (AP) — A positive move by President Roosevelt to quicken the tempo of the national recovery program is looked for soon in official circles unless industry itself moves faster in the presentation of arguments to increase wages.

The chief executive and his advisers on industrial control were represented today as determined that obstacles which have prevented other industries from following the lead of cotton textiles in drawing up codes for minimum wages and maximum hours should be removed immediately.

ALLOWABLE SET

AUSTIN, July 5. (AP)—The Texas railroad commission today issued an order setting the total field allowable for the Conroe, Texas, oil field at 72,658 barrels daily. The order will be effective at 7 a. m. Friday.

West Texans Strike Big Snag In Cotton Problem

Three Proposals Are Faced By Farmers In Co-Op Group

(By The Associated Press)

ABILENE, July 5. — After moving along smoothly since February, organization of farmers of 41 counties into the West Texas Cotton Growers association struck a snag here today. At the close of a conference held by the proposed new co-op's board of directors with C. O. Moser, representing the American Cotton Growers association, it looked as if either of these three proposals had about equal chance of adoption:

1. Going ahead unconditionally under the wing of the ACCA, allowing it to control marketing of cotton in return for financing the WTCGA.

2. Returning to the fold of the Texas Cotton Cooperative association, but under a larger measure of independence than formerly enjoyed.

3. Completng organization of the new co-op with assistance of the ACCA, but not closely tied up to it.

To Settle Issues

To settle these issues, the directors appointed a committee of four to go to Dallas for conference tomorrow with the TCCA board, which, today, sent John T. Orr here from Dallas to plead against secession by the West Texas group. The committee was given fullest authority. Members are T. E. Alvis, president of the WTCGA; S. E. Clark, secretary; Clyde Daniel, organization manager; and B. Walter of Rule, a director.

The group left late today, accompanied by Moser.

Strong Objections

As soon as the conference began today the monkey wrenches began to be thrown. Strong objection was voiced by several speakers to the stipulation by the American Cotton Growers association that the new co-op extend guarantees against loss in handling cotton in return for ACCA's financing of the program. The ACCA proposes to do the entire job of marketing, leaving to the regional group the assembling of cotton and membership relations.

There also was much talk about the technical manager whom ACCA proposes to appoint, but with the approval of the West Texas board of directors.

Bit Of Excitement Marks The Departure Of Squadron From Londonderry; Mussolini Is Anxious For Safety

(By The Associated Press)

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland, July 5.—A bit of excitement today marked the departure of the 24 Italian seaplanes under the command of General Italo Balbo, air minister, for Reykjavik, Iceland, en route to the Century of Progress exposition in Chicago.

The squadron took off on the 930-mile flight at 12:40 p. m. (6:40 a. m. eastern standard time.)

Rome Is Advised

After waiting at the last minute at Troy Hall, his headquarters, studying weather reports, the general informed authorities at Rome of his intention to start.

He then rushed at high speed to Culmore Point by automobile. A telephone call from the Italian embassy in London reached the point for Balbo just after he had put off in a speedboat for his seaplane, the lead ship of the squadron.

Royal air forces officers at length decided not to disturb the squadron leader, but hardly had the planes left when another unexpected call came, this time from the office of

London Clubs Are Buzzing Over Duke's Dress Exploit

LONDON, July 5. (AP)—London's clubs were buzzing today over the exploit of the 62-year-old Duke of Marlborough, who appeared at a Grand Druid's banquet last night clad in white linen trousers, a soft collar and shirt.

In the course of a speech the duke, ninth holder of the historic title, congratulated himself on his costume. He said kindly that he noticed others present properly attired in evening dress were mopping themselves and undergoing the agony—in the prevailing heat wave—of hard collars.

Unusual Mishap May Cost Sight

Vision of his right eye impaired and possibly lost, the Rev. H. T. Harris of Spur was in Lubbock sanitarium last night as a result of the explosion of a glass jar of canned chicken in his smokehouse.

The Rev. Mr. Harris, who lives six miles north of Spur, was in the storeroom re - arranging canned foods yesterday morning at 1 o'clock. He moved a jar of chicken which had been canned last winter. While he was working about eight feet away, the glass jar exploded. Only one fragment of the glass struck him, and that in the right eye. After emergency treatment in Spur, he reached Lubbock about 3 o'clock.

Cotton Drive Goes Forward Over Country

Campaign For Reduction Is To Close Saturday Night But May Be Extended; Figures On States Given

(By The Associated Press)

ATLANTA, Ga., July 5. — The campaign to obtain pledges from growers for the cotton acreage reduction program went forward with renewed vigor today.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace hopes to remove from production about ten million acres if a sufficient number of growers respond and sign pledges. The agricultural department hopes to eliminate up to four million bales of the Potential cotton crops of this year.

Closes Saturday

The campaign closes Saturday night but may be extended.

The latest available reports from Mississippi show more than 750,000 acres of 1,209,000 quota pledged, but daily reports of pledges now are being withheld under orders from Washington.

Reports from Alabama were that 283,880 acres had been pledged in that state. Large planters were joining the county agents to put over the campaign and the newspapers editorially were urging cooperation.

Arkansas Figures

The latest official cotton figures for Arkansas gave 151,000 acres pledged up to last Monday, but it was unofficially estimated later that acreage signed up in that state had reached 225,000 acres. The campaign is being pushed vigorously.

Workers in Georgia reported that 37,000 contracts had been signed to eliminate 260,000 acres.

The latest report from North Carolina showed 4,438 growers cultivating 66,323 acres had agreed to retire 22,594 acres.

Women To Attempt New Speed Record

LOS ANGELES, July 5. (AP) — Amelia Earhart, trans-Atlantic flier, and Ruth Nichols, New York society aviatrix, prepared tonight for attempts tomorrow to establish a new transcontinental speed record for women.

"I plan to hop off shortly after midnight, if weather conditions continue favorable," said Miss Earhart, "and will make one stop, at Wichita, Kas. I think I can make better time by stopping once to refuel."

Details of Miss Nichols' plans were not available but it was said she expects to leave about dawn.

Produce Dealer Is Killed As Truck Strikes An Auto

VICTORIA, July 5 (AP) — W. H. Watson, about 55, a produce dealer from Sandy Point, was killed today when his truck collided with an automobile as he was en route from Galveston to Stockdale for a load of watermelons.

R. D. Speights of San Antonio, asleep in a trailer to the truck, escaped with minor injuries.

Nations Agree To Suspension Until More Propitious Time; Recess To Be For Two Months

Final Decision Comes In A Midnight Meeting Of Gold Bloc Nations; Americans Believe Way Is Still Open For Good Progress But Acquiesce; Great Britain Holds Neutral

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 6.—(Thursday)—Great powers of the old and new world agreed early today to suspend the world economic conference until a more propitious time.

Thus, this historic assemblage, called together in an effort to improve economic conditions throughout the world, admitted itself defeated by a violent collision of the monetary policies of the gold countries led by France and of the non-gold countries headed by the United States.

Decision At Midnight Meeting

The final decision came in a midnight meeting of the gold bloc nations where it was decided the American stand, as reiterated by the United States delegation last evening after cable and telephone communication with President Roosevelt, only emphasized the differences, which, temporarily at least, were irreconcilable.

While Americans expressed a firm conviction in the declaration addressed to the secretary general of the League of Nations that the way was still open for the conference to continue with its labors, they informally expressed willingness to acquiesce to a recess. This was tentatively set for two months' duration.

Britain Is Neutral

The gold countries evidently were concerned over their inability to win over Great Britain, which skilfully maintained a neutral attitude while showing distinct leanings toward the United States, and a statement issued from the yellow metal camp left wide a loop-hole for resumption of the conference.

The gold bloc's declaration said the American statement "will facilitate recalling of the conference" and permit it to resume later "in an atmosphere of sympathy."

Preparations were complete for presentation of the recess resolution to the steering committee meeting today. The committee is reassembling after a two-day postponement secured by Cordell Hull, secretary of state and head of the American delegation, when an adjournment move was imminent Tuesday.

Predict Acceptance

Leading delegations flatly predicted the adjournment resolution would be accepted, leaving only a few technical committees to complete their duties.

The United States, in an official statement handed by the American delegation to the secretary-general of the League of Nations, which sponsored the parley, expressed the firm conviction that the way was as clear as ever for the great world congress to pursue the mighty objective for which it convened 24 days ago. Its delegation, however, was prepared to agree to a recess.

Problems Present

"We can see, therefore, that the great problems which justify the assembling of nations are as present today and as deserving of exploration as was the case a few weeks ago," declared the American statement.

"And we find it difficult," it continued, "to conceive that the view which it has been our obvious duty to take on the minor issues of temporary stabilization can in any way diminish the advisability of such discussion."

The world parley has been a deadlock over President Roosevelt's refusal to engage in stabilization of currencies, which France and other members of the European gold bloc contend is essential before progress can be made in the assemblage.

Crude Oil Prices Move Up To New 1933 Top Wednesday

TULSA, July 5. (AP) — Crude oil prices moved suddenly upward today to a new 1933 midcontinent top of 85 cents a barrel and were joined immediately by climbing refinery markets.

Several crude purchasers announced increases today, and other companies indicated they would agree to the changes in the next 24 to 48 hours. There was virtually no resistance to the advance.

Suicide Verdict Returned In Death Of Santone Woman

SAN ANTONIO, July 5. (AP) — A suicide verdict was returned today in the death of Mrs. Amanda Power, 50, a nurse, who was found at Mission burial park, a bullet wound in her left temple. An automatic pistol was found beside her body. The woman had placed flowers on her mother's grave before she was found dead by the cemetery employes.

Roosevelt Is Silent After Session Ends

President Still Holding Hope Of Ultimate Success; His Position Against Immediate Stabilization Final

FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 5. — Still holding hope of ultimate success for the London economic conference, President Roosevelt received in silence tonight the decision reported from abroad to suspend the parley.

His position against the demands of the European gold bloc for immediate stabilization of currencies is final.

Stabilization Favored

The chief executive, at the same time, hopes for ultimate stabilization of the world's monetary system, but he is convinced this can not be brought about until each nation was stabilized its own currency in relations to its own domestic purchasing power.

Mr. Roosevelt maintained close touch with the rapidly shaping events in London. Lifting the telphone on his desk during the day, he talked with Chairman Hull of the American delegation concerning the impasse reached at the parley.

No Immediate Word

It has been the conviction of the president that the conference which carries the hopes of the world would go ahead to other problems which he considered of more importance than temporary monetary stabilization.

News from London tonight of the decision to temporarily suspend the parley, possibly for two months, brought no immediate word from the White house, from where Mr. Roosevelt has made his position very clearly known to other powers gathered at London.

Code Of Ethics To Be Outlined

Newspaper and commercial printing plant operators of the South Plains will meet at Hotel Hilton at 11 o'clock this morning to consider a code of ethics for the industry, in compliance with provisions of the national industry recovery act.

Walter Thatcher of Plainview and Homer Steen of Floydada are chairmen of this senatorial district. Wages, working hours, and other matters pertaining to the industry will be discussed in the meeting.

Leading printers and publishers of the state attended a meeting recently in Dallas. Thatcher and Steen were named co-chairmen of this district at that meeting.

Between 50 and 60 persons are expected to attend the region-wide meeting here.

Negro Confesses Burglary Of Residence At Plainview

John Brown, negro of Pasadena, Calif., confessed to County Attorney Vaughn E. Wilson yesterday that he burglarized a Plainview residence Tuesday night and took an Airline radio.

The negro, arrested by Cleve Cobb, special Santa Fe officer, had the radio in his possession when he was removed from a freight train in the Santa Fe railway yards here [illegible] day night. Brown was tr[illegible] to Plainview.

Tech And Town Women Attend Club Meetings Wednesday Afternoo

The Woman's Angle

DR. BLANCHE BEAN WILSON
Avalanche Woman's Editor

If you didn't go picnicking on the 4th of July evening, you must have missed having a nice lonesome time in your neighborhood. The parks were full.

A superficial count of cars in Mackenzie park and an estimate that there were five people there for each car late in the afternoon brought the total to a thousand people in the park at one time. There were people under every tree and in the shade of the cliffs on the west edge of the park. Under the grove of trees on the south bank of the lake, cars and people abounded. Children were playing their wading pool and a few people were taking a dip in the lake. Some of those who were there were even cooking their supper, in spite of the heat.

There must have been another thousand in City park—perhaps more, for crowds and people were banked around the Tumble N pool in addition to the picnickers who were scattered throughout the park. Reports from Buffalo Springs were that there was a large crowd there—these three places in addition to the community picnics, rodeos and other gatherings.

The Fourth of July was an outdoor day for many people here.

Incidentally, the flies and the ants were enjoying the celebration to the fullest extent. One colony of black ants got a winter's supply of food from our picnic table. They worked furiously during the meal and we worked just as furiously trying to hold things on the table. A good time was had by all.

RECKLESS DRIVING

PRESS reports of Wednesday were that the holiday death list had reached 185 by that time—a heavy price to pay in celebrating our independence. And of that number 82 deaths were caused in motor car mishaps "with many more injured."

It is no wonder there were 82 deaths in car mishaps. One wonders that there were not more, judging by the driving that was done here and the driving that is done elsewhere. There are too many people who drive without thinking.

A fire department call to the southwest part of town late Tuesday evening sent fire engines racing to that part of town and sent a stream of cars out at the same time. From a porch on Nineteenth street where we were sitting, we had a good opportunity to watch the cars and wonder when some accident would occur. As the fire engine passed us, someone in a small car was attempting to pass it. As the two machines passed from our view the smaller vehicle had drawn alongside the fire engine and was starting on around. Whether or not the foolhardy driver accomplished his purpose we do not know.

Such things as that draw a toll in life and, frequently, the innocent one is the victim. There was a death here several years ago because a car got in the way of the fire truck. For a time after that people were more careful.

The run of a fire truck should not be a race. The truck is attempting to reach the fire before it has made headway. The best thing the citizens of the town can do is to get out of the way. Crowds are not wanted or needed at fires. Sooner or later there is almost certain to be another death caused in such an accident if driving continues as it did on Nineteenth street late Tuesday evening.

Automobiles are a necessity of our modern life. However, there are too many people who do not realize that they have a responsibility in driving.

The run down Nineteetnth street Tuesday evening was typical. There are lots of people who get a peculiar thrill out of racing down a street in the wake of a fire engine. There probably are others who get more of a thrill out of passing the truck, but they are interfering with the progress of the fire fighters and creating a great hazard to life—which is our most precious possession.

Mrs. Julia Ann Spikes Is Buried In Emma Cemetery

Mrs. Julia Ann Spikes, 90, pioneer Plains woman who died early Tuesday, was buried in Emma cemetery in Crosby county yesterday afternoon, following rites conducted at 3 o'clock at the Temple H. Ellis home at 2006 Main street by the Rev. Dr. W. K. Johnson and the Rev. Norman Anderson, Presbyterian ministers.

Survivors are six sons and daughters, Mrs. Temple H. Ellis, Jeff Spikes of Crosby county, Fred Spikes of Lubbock, Mrs. J. A. Paschall and S. L. Spikes of La Crescenta, Calif., and W. E. Spikes of Huntington Beach, Calif.

Name Selected By Tech Group

Maids And Matrons To Be The Name Of Social Club Made Up Of Tech Graduates And Wives Of Graduates

Meetings of social clubs drew a number of Tech and town women to parties on Wednesday afternoon.

Women graduate students and wives of graduate students, who are attending Texas Technological college this summer, chose a name for their organization Wednesday afternoon when they met at Seaman hall. It will be known as the Maids and Matrons club and has been shortened to MaM.

Mesdames Doris Scranton Lynn, G. S. Dowell and J. B. Spear were hostesses to the club. A program was given. Mrs. Frances Tolbert read. About 20 women were present.

The club is to meet Tuesday afternoon, July 17, with Miss Anna Cecil Evans in the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Evans, 2309 Sixteenth street.

Mrs. Butler Entertains

Mrs. M. C. Butler, 2405 Broadway, was hostess to the London Bridge club in the afternoon.

Mrs. Russell Smith scored high in the games.

Mesdames J. B. Hobbs of Dallas and C. R. Woolsey were special guests.

L'Aiquillee club members met in the home of Mrs. R. M. McCollom, 1508 Avenue K, as the guests of Mrs. William Von Wolff and attended a picture show. After the show the group returned to Mrs. McCollom's home, where refreshments were served.

Those in the party were Mesdames Laura Dillon, A. L. Bettes, McCollom, T. W. Keys, Dee Puckett, Earl Ellison, V. O. Jennings, J. W. Philips and Miss Ina Mae McCollom.

Sorority Meets

Members of the Kappa Gamma sorority are to swim early Sunday morning and later have breakfast at the Earnest Wisdom home, according to plans made Wednesday at a luncheon at the Hilton hotel. There were 17 at the affair.

The members are meeting at 7 o'clock Sunday morning at the Hilton and will go from there to Tumble N pool for a swim before having breakfast at the Wisdom home.

Personals

Miss Mozelle Huffstutler of Abilene is the guest of Miss Ines Davis, 2206 Thirteenth street.

PILES

Suffer no more! Here's real relief at last for all forms of Piles—Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Protruding. Pazo Ointment does all the things necessary, in the manner necessary. First, it soothes—relieves the soreness and inflammation. Second, it heals—repairs the torn tissue. Third, it absorbs—dries up excess mucus and reduces the swollen blood vessels which are Piles.

In other words, Pazo doesn't merely relieve—it tends to correct the condition of Piles as a whole.

The method of application makes it doubly effective. Special Pile Pipe attached to tube enables you to apply ointment high up in the rectum where it will reach all affected parts. Remember any Pazo is the only thing that ever gave them real relief. Therefore say it saved them the need of an operation. Get Pazo today and suffer no longer.

AUSTIN, July 5. (AP)—Dan Moody has not lost his appeal to those aligned with the forces of prohibition, although he has been out of the public eye since his retirement from office in 1931.

Moody was applauded warmly when he attempted to slip quietly into a seat on the speaker's stand at the recent prohibition convention. The applause was re-doubled when he made the speech nominating W. A. Keeling, former Texas attorney general, as permanent chairman of the convention.

The former governor apparently had lost none of his stump-speaking ability since retiring from public office. He made one of his customary sharp attacks on the repealists that was well received.

Moody, who has refrained from public appearance in politics except to campaign against James E. Ferguson, likely will speak frequently this summer in favor of retention of the eighteenth amendment. He is being counted on strongly by prohibition leaders in the campaign.

The former governor has always been an adherent of the dry cause. He was offered the permanent chairmanship of the prohibition convention, but declined to even consider it, although expressing a willingness to participate in the campaign.

W. A. Keeling, selected as permanent chairman, is one of the staunchest prohibitionists in the state. While an assistant attorney general he prosecuted the famous brewery cases at Sulphur Springs which resulted in imposition of heavy fines on several brewing companies and forfeiture of their charters.

He later was elected attorney general.

Keeling made the most rousing speech, perhaps, delivered at the prohibition convention. He became thoroughly warmed on his subject, but ended his talk abruptly to allow the business of the convention to proceed.

Tech Professor Speaker To Club

Dr. R. C. Goodwin, head of the department of chemistry in Texas Technological college, yesterday told members of the Rotary club at Hotel Lubbock that agriculture and industrial chemistry must get together.

Dr. Goodwin spoke on "The Relationship of Industrial Chemistry to Agriculture" and gave some interesting information on the industry and what could be done on the South Plains. He declared artichokes and dahlias could be grown to a great advantage and yield greater profits than cotton in this area. Sugar is secured from the roots of the plants.

He decried the burning of waste cotton material at gins in this section, stating that interests of the east came down here and bought the ashes to be used for fertilizer. He said the farmers of this section must begin to put back into the soil and not take out so much.

Preceding his talk, Mrs. Joe Hilton sang two numbers. She was accompanied at the piano by W. W. Rix and Roger Eaton and Fred Fairly with violins.

Fred Haile of Spur, I. R. Witt of Post, Andy Bills of Littlefield and Rev. Norman Anderson of College Station were out-of-town visitors at the luncheon.

sets of people are interested in telephone service

THREE SETS OF PEOPLE are interested in telephone service.

There is the public. It uses and pays for the service.

There are the employees. They operate the plant and deliver the service.

There are the million owners. Their savings provide the telephone plant.

Three sets of people interested . . . but that interest is identical. Deny a fair deal to one, and all three suffer.

Take from the public the courteous, dependable, speedy service that is its due, or make this service so costly that it is beyond the reach of the average citizen. Understanding and good will are lost . . . the cornerstone of all successful public service.

Take from the workers their reasonable wage and their enthusiasm in the job. What becomes of loyalty and morale which lie at the very foundation of good telephone service?

Take from the owners their sense of safety and the wages for their savings. Quickly the source dries up from which must come the money to build telephone plant sure to be needed as conditions improve. What kind of service could a starved telephone company render?

Three interests, but they merge into one. That's what we mean when we talk about Bell System policy . . . the best possible service at the lowest possible cost consistent with financial safety.

Two Killers Being Sought

Former North Dakota Sheriff Is Believed To Be Implicated In Slayings; Crime Is Detailed After Probe

decided to take Nash at the station. Miller was armed with a machine gun and Weisman carried two 45 automatic pistols.

"Miller covered the group and said they wanted Nash. Detective Grooms (Police Detective W. J. Grooms, Kansas City, was one of the four killed) pulled his gun and started shooting, the first shot striking Miller in the left arm, causing a slight flesh wound. Then Miller opened up with the machine gun, with the results as are already known. Nash was shot accidentally in the burst of fire."

Although an intensive search was instituted immediately after the shooting, Reppert said the two killers were able to evade capture while remaining in the city for two more days.

Until Reppert made his announcement tonight, it had remained unclear whether the shooting was the result of an attempt to rescue Nash or to kill him. Reports circulated as to the possible identity of the killers included one that it had been done by Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, notorious Oklahoma outlaw and killer.

Reppert said tracing of long distance telephone calls brought the first tangible clues. Calls were traced from Hot Springs, Ark., where Nash was arrested, and from Joplin, Mo., known to have been headquarters for some members of Nash's gang.

One such call, according to Reppert, was made from a residence at Joplin to the home of N. E. McFarland in Kansas City.

"On further investigation, it was found that this residence had been rented by Mr. McFarland on April 10 to one V. C. Moore," the police head said.

"A thorough check of V. C. Moore revealed the fact that he was in reality, one Verne C. Miller, who was a close friend of Nash."

It was at the rented house that Weisman called on Miller, Reppert asserted. McFarland was absolved by police of any connection with the crime. He aided in the investigation.

A search of the house disclosed blood-soaked rags, believed by officers to have been used by Miller to bandage his wound. The officers also found a keg of roofing nails such as are strewn by criminals on highways to puncture the tires of pursuing motor cars.

Tropic Storm

Ten persons left and instructions were issued to all other communities that no one should remain in exposed places.

The barometric drop at Corpus Christi continued late in the day, falling to 29.87.

Would Strike Island

There is no appreciable amount of property along the coast toward Corpus Christi and the storm would strike first the long Padre Island, a sandy waste. Most towns of consequence are situated 10 to 25 miles inland from the gulf and the principal damage expected was loss of cotton now rapidly opening and the blowing of fruit from citrus trees.

Padre Island is approximately 100 miles long and only several miles wide, bending westward in the middle to follow the Texas coastline proper closely.

The city of Port Isabel, almost north of the mouth of the Rio Grande and northeast of Brownsville, likely would be the first community struck if the storm continues its present course. It is three and one-half miles from the gulf proper across Laguna Madre and is situated on high ground.

State Highway Force Mobilized At Corpus

CORPUS CHRISTI, July 5. (AP) — Lieut. Lee Miller of the state highway patrol was mobilizing a force of eight patrolmen from nearby points tonight to go to Brownsville and assist authorities there if the tropical disturbance in the Gulf of Mexico strikes there. The patrolmen were to meet here around 8 o'clock tonight and leave for Brownsville around midnight.

Display Plans

sistant manager, Maury Hopkins, Stamford, briefly outlined the plan to make West Texas a part of the great fair.

"Having just returned from Chicago I am impressed with the necessity of West Texas' being represented on the midway", Wells said, "and in employing the term 'West Texas' I mean to include every city and section of that territory. Our plan, the combination of the literature and the vast relief map, offers to every one of our 173 cities the same opportunity for advertisement and promotion, regardless of population".

The relief map, constructed by engineering students at Texas Technological college here, is rapidly nearing completion. It is 13 feet high, a like size wide and shows all cities, transportation lines and denotes production of various sections, setting forth farming, ranching, oil producing and mining areas.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, July 5 (AP)—The cotton market developed an easier tone today. After an opening gain of 9 to 10 points on higher sterling and good Liverpool cables, the market turned easier on the prospect for rains in the west due to the tropical storm, easier stocks and a reaction in wheat. Net declines for the day amounted to 24 to 25 points.

The opening was disappointing as Liverpool came in higher than due and sterling advanced. Before noon, October dropped to 10.28 and December to 10.56 down 30 to 32 points from the opening highs and 21 to 22 points below the previous close.

The market rallied slightly in the early afternoon on shorts covering but later turned easy again and October reacted to 10.26 and December to 10.53 down 41 to 44 points from the early highs. In the final trading the market rallied with stocks and on shorts covering recovering 8 to 9 points from the lows. October closed at 10.35 down 25 points net for the day and December at 10.52, down 24 points net.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 10 to 11 penny points down.

Port receipts 5,856, for week 30,454, for season 8,663,640, last season 9,999,635. Exports 18,808, for week 86,484, for season 7,802,631, last season 8,253,496. Port stock 3,385,694, last year 3,560,358. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans Galveston and Houston 124,979, last year 72,313. Spot sales at southern markets 12,661, last year 1,767.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP)—Cotton sold off after an early advance today, closing about $1 a bale lower.

After selling up to 10.75 at the opening, October broke to 10.32 or about 42 points from the early high and closed at 10.38. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 17 to 23 points.

The opening was unchanged to 16 points higher on trade and commission house buying which was evidently encouraged by the early decline in the dollar, relatively steady Liverpool cables and reiterated reports of improving general business conditions.

July sold up to 10.42 and December to 10.92 on the initial demand, but the advance met heavy realizing and scattered selling.

Offerings increased later on reports that the tropical storm was headed toward the Texas coast, claims of slow progress with the acreage reduction campaign, and the reactions in the grain and stock markets. July sold off to 10.04 and December to 10.50 but closing quotations were 4 to 8 points up from the lowest covering.

Liverpool cables said some continental selling and realizing had ben absorbed by trade calling. Exports today 19,535 making 7,934,073 so far this season. Port receipts 5,856. U. S. port stocks 3,420,918.

Grains

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, July 5 (AP) — Good demand was reported today for the cash grain on sale at Fort Worth. Estimated receipts for the two day period were: Wheat 187 cars; corn 11; oats 29; barley 2 and sorghum 6.

Prices ranged as follows, basis carloads on track at Fort Worth, freight paid to destination:

Delivered Texas gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points— wheat No. 1 hard 110 3-4@1.11 3-4. Barley No. 2 nominally 66@66; No. 3 nominally 64@66. Sorghums No. 2 milo per 100 pounds 1-70@75; No. 3 milo 1.65@70; No. 2 kafir per 100 pounds 1.60@65; No. 3 kaffir 1.58@63.

Delivered Texas common points or group three—Corn No. 2 mixed 74@75; No. 3 white 76@77; No. 3 yellow 75@76.

Delivered Texas common points— Oats No. 2 red 52 1-2@53; No. 3 red 51 1-2@52.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, July 5 (AP)—Corn in the lead, all deliveries of all grains today outdid recent high-price records, corn soaring more than four cents a bushel.

Millions of dollars damage which the new corn crop, especially in Illinois and Iowa, has suffered from chinch bugs, the most destructive insect pest known to American agriculture, was largely responsible for upturns of values. In addition to corn crop uncertainty, with the critical period of growth ahead and unfavorable weather, the market was also stimulated by Washington plans for sharp curtailment of corn acreage.

Big profit-taking sales on advances, however, led to late setbacks in prices, more than wiping out gains made by wheat and oats.

Corn closed flurried, 2 1-8@3 1-8 above Monday's finish, wheat 5-8@1 1-4 down, oats 1 1-4@1 7-8 off, and provisions showing a rise of 2 cents to 25 cents.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—July 92 7-8, 100 7-8; Sept. 95 7-8@96, 102 5-8@3-4; Dec. 98 3-4@7-8, 105 7-8@106; May 103, 110 1-4. Corn—July 56, bids; Sept. 60 1-2@3-4, 66 @66 3-8; Dec. 65 1-4, 70 3-8@3-4; May 70 1-2, 77.

Livestock

KANSAS CITY REPORT

KANSAS CITY, July 5 (AP)—Liberal postholiday runs of cattle at several of the midwestern markets prompted an uneven decline on beef steers and yearlings. Fed steers and yearling were 25 or more lower at most markets with many in first hands at a late hour that carried bids which were 50 under Monday. Chicago scored 7.00 on strictly choice 1239 lb steers but at most centers comparatively few fed steers or yearlings exceeded the 6.00 mark.

Hog trade was moderately active with most points on a firm to 5 higher basis and others steady to 10 lower. The day's extreme top of 4.65 was paid on early rounds at Chicago.

Fat lambs were firm to 25 higher while yearling and sheep prices showed little change. Choice Idaho lambs in Chicago cleared up to 7.85. Bulk of fat lambs at the river markets sold around 7.00-30.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, July 5 (AP)—Cattle slow. Hogs 5 to 10c higher; packer top 4.25.

Estimated receipts Cattle 1,400; calves 500; hogs 1200; sheep 2000.

Steers, package lots, 6.00; fat cows 2.50-75; butcher sorts 2.00; fed yearlings 5.40; heavy calves 4.00; stock steer calves 4.25.

Spring lambs 6.00; shorn yearling wethers 4.00-25.

Fifteen Per Cent Pay Cut To Continue Until Jan. 1

WASHINGTON, July 5. (AP)—The 15 per cent pay cut for federal employes will continue at least until January 1.

This was ordered today by President Roosevelt under authority vested in him by the economy act. The 15 per cent slash, based on living costs, has been in effect since April 1.

A survey indicates that 1,155,000 persons entered Miami, Fla., during the year ended March 15 last.

Stocks

WALL STREET REPORT

By JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP)—Most financial markets drifted inconclusively today as governments endeavored to keep breath in the London conference.

Stocks were generally lower until a late flourish by rails boosted that group and helped others reduce earlier losses. Wheat sagged about a cent a bushel, but corn reached the best levels in more than three years. Cotton was rather heavy and bonds had a somewhat irregular market, although their average made a new high.

Dollar exchange began the day weakly but eventually hardened. Perhaps our currency's rally against sterling prompted profit-taking in stocks after midday's inflationary spree; at one time shares, including rails, showed losses of 1 to 5 points under active realizing. By closing time carriers had become strong, although neither industrials, as a whole, nor utilities were able to finish even with final prices of the previous session. Trading in all markets was brisk, stock sales totaling 5,922,010 shares.

Confession

Sunday afternoon during her absence, and found another negro there whom he had known for some time. He said he called a telephone number and asked for "the lady who wanted a job."

When Mrs. Cabble came to the telephone he told her to come to the apartment, he said.

Woolfolk then went into the tool house and obtained the pipe. Shortly after he returned to the apartment, the door bell rang and he opened it and let Mrs. Cabble in. She asked if the person who wanted to employ a woman were in and he replied in the affirmative.

Other Negro Appears

As she started to enter the other negro appeared in the kitchen door and Mrs. Cabble stopped, frightened, and he struck her on the back of the head with the pipe, Woolfolk said. She fell to her knees, but struggled to rise, and the other negro took the pipe and struck her on the head also, Woolfolk said. Her hat then fell off and the other negro then struck her on the head with an empty quart milk bottle as she fell to the floor. He dragged the body into the dining room.

Woolfolk said he left the apartment and took the pipe back to the tool shed and returned to his quarters in the rear of the apartment where he lived with his wife.

Picture Shows Condition in Textile Industry—

When this expectant mother was unable to go to work in a hosiery mill near Chattanooga, Tenn., the company installed a looping machine in her home. By working eight or ten hours a day she is able to earn 75 cents to $1.25, less the cost of electric current and 33 1-3 per cent discount for mending imperfect hose. One of the woman's three children, all under ten, looks on as she labors in her combination work-room-living room-bedroom. The woman supports her family with her earnings, her husband having been unemployed for three years. The mother-in-law of the woman works in the hosiery mill. She said her earnings never exceeded 30 cents daily.

"Dashing" Is The Word For General Italo Balbo; He Heads Huge Flight From Italy To Century Of Progress

BY MELVIN E. COLEMAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

"DASHING" is the word for General Italo Balbo, head of the spectacular attempt to fly 24 Italian sea planes from Italy, via the Arctic, to Chicago's waterfront.

There is an aura about him of the plumed hat, doublet and hose, jack boots and flashing rapiers of renaissance times.

"Balbo would have been a 'gay blade' had he lived then," said one of his friends.

The youthful general—he is just a month past 37—took to Mussolini's fascism early. At 26 he was one of the famous "quadrumvirate" which led the "march on Rome" marking the triumph of the party.

Those were hectic years in Italy with street fights between "blackshirts" and "reds" of varying hue punctuating the struggle. Balbo sailed into the frays with a smile and came out with a smile. He didn't like violence, however, and he therefore devised the "castor oil treatment" for fascism's enemies. He figured it made them helpless without doing permanent physical harm.

In 1924 he challenged Gen. Peppino Garibaldi, descendant of Italy's "liberator," to a duel because of remarks he made about the fascist militia. Seconds were named but a court of honor decided against the actual combat.

In November, 1926, when an assassin fired at Mussolini in Bologna, it was Balbo who snatched the smoking pistol and prevented another shot.

He is a specialist in mass flights. He commanded the impressive Italian squadron which flew from Rome to London and thence to Berlin in 1928. In December, 1930, and January, 1931, he led a squadron of seaplanes to the west coast of Africa and thence across the Atlantic to Brazil.

Film Actress And Writer Named In Income Tax Liens

LOS ANGELES, July 5. (AP) — Helen Twelvetrees, film actress, and Nacio Herb Brown, song writer, were named today in income tax liens filed in federal court.

The government charged Miss Twelvetrees still owes $1,056.04 on her 1932 earnings and Brown $3,465.28 on his 1931 income.

Testimony Is Concluded In The Murder Trial Of Woman

DECATUR, July 5 (AP)—Testimony was concluded today at the murder trial of Mrs. Ida Hunsucker, accused in connection with the shooting of Deputy Sheriff Joe Brown at Rhome last January 27, after the defendant had testified she had no pistol and did not know how to shoot one.

Deputy Brown, who besides being an officer, also operated a barber shop, was slain in his shop after he had arrested Mrs. Hunsucker, her son, Glen Hunsucker, and John (Perch Mouth) Stanton, for alleged theft of a barrel of oil. Rhome is in Wise county.

VENICE SAVES GONDOLAS

VENICE, Italy (AP) — Motorboat competition has forced the city to enact protective legislation for Venice's picturesque gondolas.

Regulations coordinating the two methods of transportation were passed following a protest meeting by gondoliers. Henceforth each form of conveyance will have its definite part of the traffic to handle.

The gondoliers pointed out that horse-drawn carriages are protected against taxicab competition in the land cities. Their vessels are important to Venice's romantic atmosphere, they added.

RHYMING HARD ON HAIR

CAITEBURY, England (AP)—Take it from John Masefield, poet laureate, that rhymsters, instead of being long-haired, are "almost always bald."

"Poets whom you have met," he said at the Canterbury cathedral festival of music and drama, "are almost always bald when they get to about 40.

"They go bald trying to find rhymes in this language which has so few rhymes."

YES! YES! GO ON!

MADRAS (AP) — The name of a new station on a branch railway in South India will be Adikalapuram - cum - Veerapandiyanpatnam if the suggestion of the authorities concerned is adopted.

Two villages, Adikalapuram and Veerapandiyanpatnam, are equidistant from this station so each claimed that its name should be used. One was taken and the station has been rigorously boycotted by the disappointed villagers every since.

As a compromise a suggestion has been made that the names of both villages be given to the station.

'Fear Of Fear' Waning; Happier Capital Reflects Better National Feeling

Hope And Enthusiasm Is Revived Again In Washington Over Administration's Work

By BYRON PRICE
(Chief Of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

WASHINGTON, July 5. (AP)—The only thing we have to fear is fear itself," said President Roosevelt in his inaugural address. Since then many things have taken place, but the question still uppermost in Washington is to what degree fear has been expelled from the national philosophy and replaced by returning confidence.

No one ever believed the depression could be ended merely by the writing of laws. All along it has been recognized that the really vital element was that intangible thing called "public psychology."

How far has the government been able to go in reviving the spirit of the people themselves, reawakening and revitalizing national life, and encouraging society to resume confidently the management of its own affairs?

Markers Of Progress

If statistics alone are consulted, it would appear that much progress has been made.

Markets are rising—which means that more people are willing to buy at higher prices. Such recognized indices of activity as car loading and steel production are increasing. Building construction, always basic, is on the upgrade. Federation of labor figures show unemployment decreasing.

There is a non-statiscal side of the picture, however, which many regard as even more important. From widely separated sources comes word of a better feeling, of a new urge toward recovery.

Washington itself is a reawakened capital. There is activity, hope and enthusiasm today where there was weariness bordering on despair a year ago. In gayer atmosphere, hundreds of thousands of Americans are gathering at Chicago for a world's fair celebration which at one time promised to be a dismal failure.

A bonus army has marched to the Potomac, but the incident was singularly devoid of rancor or tragic consequences. Farm and food riots are fewer. The great railroads have cancelled wage reduction proposals.

Focused On Washington

Whatever it may mean in terms of a new national awakening, newspaper editors report to The Associated Press that not in many years have readers been so interested in what their federal government is doing.

And, surely, something has happened to the colleges, which in former years celebrated the June commencement season with many a dry academic lecture. Read a collection of commencement headlines from The New York Times for two days of this June, and note the emphasis on public affairs:

"Liberty is for all, says Dr. Barbour." "Brain trust held liberating force." "Perils of control stated at Smith." "M'Conaught lauds Roosevelt daring." "Williams honors Justice Roberts." "Assails nationalism as foe of education."

These evidences of a revitalized civic consequence and a quickening national pulse may not be conclusive, but at least they are impressive.

The World's Fair Wonders

FOR those who wish to combine pleasure and education in their 1933 vacation jaunt, the World's fair at Chicago offers an unusual opportunity.

Coupled with the pleasures of a visit to a great city, A Century of Progress commands not only the interest but also the respect of the entire world.

In no sense "an ordinary fair" the exposition sets forth, as has never been done before, the wonders of this modern age. It is a panorama of the march of man from prehistoric time until today.

Probably as many as 150 Lubbock and South Plains people have already visited the fair.

By the time the curtain rolls down on that major event of the year, this city and section likely will send several thousand citizens through the great archways along lake Michigan, bounded on the other sides by Grant park and Michigan avenue. At least, it is to be hoped that many persons from these environs will take advantage of the opportunities presented.

From personal inspection and experience, the editor of the Morning Avalanche unhesitatingly recommends to readers a visit to Chicago and A Century of Progress this summer.

Attendance at the fair is almost mandatory for those who can afford to spend the essential time and money on the trip.

FOREIGN TRADE GAINS

Although encouraging improvement of American foreign trade during the first quarter of the present year is shown in figures compiled by the United States chamber of commerce, there are some significant features that will bear studying.

Most of the improvement was in trade with Latin America and other smaller countries. Exports to countries with which in normal times the United States has its greatest trade showed sharp declines. Exports to the United Kingdom dropped 32 per cent, while those to Germany were off 25 per cent. Trade with Russia fell off 59 per cent. Other declines were: The Netherlands, 20 per cent; Spain, 13; Denmark, 38; Switzerland, 35; Japan, 48; China, 47; India, 54; Dutch East Indies, 45.

The increases registered ranged from 1 per cent for Argentine to 70 per cent for Poland and Danzig, "a greater gain than at any time since 1929," according to the chamber's review. Other increases included: Brazil, 7 per cent; Colombia, 29; Venezuela, 14; Dutch West Indies, 64; Dominican Republic, 10; Guatemala, 3; Costa Rica, 7; Salvador, 21; Italy, 3 and Egypt, 11.

American imports during the same period showed a decided upturn, "the increase ranging from 4 per cent for The Netherlands to 304 per cent for Salvador." Imports from China increased 6 per cent and those from Russia 9 per cent.

The figures seem to show that notwithstanding so-called tariff barriers, which the London economic conference is seeking to eliminate, world trade is beginning to move. This may indicate that tariffs have not been as important a factor in the world slump as they are blamed with having been.

What caused the falling off in exports to world markets that formerly took large quantities of American goods is a question that might engage the attention of experts. Some of these nations, but not all of them, are countries which owe the United States war debts.

NEW WEATHER FORECASTING

Because of the prominence of those connected with the movement, announcement that a group of scientists have found a new weather-forecasting system which has proved to be 96.1 per cent correct arouses more than ordinary interest.

Among those credited with contributing to the discovery is Dr. Robert A. Milliken, internationally known for his scientific achievements.

The new system, it was said, makes possible the forecasting of weather conditions in all parts of the country by from 24 to 48 hours. The method now in use by the federal service is rated at only about 65 per cent satisfactory. The new plan makes use of cold and warm air masses. By studying the movements of these, the observers are able to make forecasts.

Such an improvement in method as that claimed for the new system would prove a tremendously important development. The government weather bureau has made much advancement in the quality of service it gives, but a large degree of uncertainty still surrounds its predictions.

"It is man's greatest misfortune that experience cannot be inherited." And the stock salesman's fortune.

Republics are ungrateful. There isn't a single bronze statue of old General Hokum.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

TUESDAY was doubly an Independence Day. It marked the beginning of the end of child labor.

When the cotton textile industry submitted a recovery code including a stipulation that employment should be limited to those 16 years old and over, the Roosevelt administration scored a great moral victory.

For years organizations and individuals have fought unavailingly to keep small children out of mills and factories and sweat shops. Grasping taskmasters continued to hire them for a pittance and work them long hours of drudgery.

Now, the industry that offended most comes forward with voluntary abolition of the practice.

The concession is all the more impressive in that General Hugh Johnson and his aides have accomplished by agreement what the Supreme Court of the United States said could NOT be done by law.

"NIRA"—as the industry has nicknamed the National Industrial Recovery Act—already has justified her existence.

SNIPING: There is reason to believe that much of the unfavorable news recently concerning General Johnson and the Industrial Recovery administration is propaganda.

Industrialist with private axes to grind have been sniping at the setup.

Washington representatives of this and that interest have been circulating among newspapermen of late. It is they who are whispering Johnson has been hamstrung by the president. It was they who promoted the story that Secreteries Roper and Ickes have the final say.

More is behind the proposed code of the retail dry goods group than appears on the surface.

This announced formula—as yet unpresented officially—is rated as the thin opening wedge whereby opposition interests hope to undermine NIRA for campaign purposes.

The joker lies in the proposed 48-hour week. Such a working span shows apparently direct opposition to the Act's purpose.

Department store owners say they must work their employees eight hours a day and six days a week. If the Recovery administration concurs it will have established a precedent that will make short-hour agreements difficult in other industries.

Many of the biggest department stores are owned by banking money. They have had a thin time these two past years. There is a fine lot of figures to show they need to keep expenses down. Others are in the black only by the closest kind of management.

Is it possible that word has been passed quietly to these harassed ones to test the effectiveness of industrial control? G.O.P. leaders have been whispering the Act has flaws that will produce splendid material for next year's congressional campaign.

DYNAMITE: The London conference is sitting on a first-class cache of dynamite.

A spark in the wrong direction may set war drums beating in central Europe. Everything depends on what happens when and if France goes off the gold standard, and how the elections in Austria come out.

When Caesar said all Gaul was divided in three parts he was speaking for the book. Today it's still Paris and environs against the north and south of France.

Paris produces men for the general staff, bankers and manufacturers of war munitions. The other two parts produce the men who become cannot fodder in time of war.

The present French government is conservative socialist. Not itching for a scrap at the moment and more to the liking of the provinces.

When France sheds the gold standard—and she probably will—an election is almost inevitable.

If the right should come in, anything might happen. The militarists and industrialists claim to have heard rumblings from Germany that, in two more years of grace she can whip France. They are counting with propaganda that they could invade the Rhine within the next six months and flatten Germany for all time.

The peasants wouldn't care much for war now or later. But war undeniably makes cannon factories rich and lets generals play at their favorite sport.

NAZIS: Over in Austria the existing regime is battling the Nazis unto death. For its principal support the Austrian government has the Catholic church.

If the Nazis can win the forthcoming election—and there are indications this will happen—a highly potent situation will be created.

The Austrian is essentially a Teuton. If he votes Hitler, look out for the mobilization of a Nazi army under German officers.

All aimed against France.

It is considerations such as these that are giving the London delegates nightmares.

Action in or out of the conference ostensibly dealing with pure economics might be the match that would again kindle Europe an ugly red.

That is the reason you read of so many secret conferences between delegations and individuals. That is what shapes so many of the Roosevelt decisions.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

INDEPENDENCE DAY was just about that for these United States.

Inside New York hears that the London crisis has reached a point where face-saving motions will be scrapped in favor of realism. That means the nations will simply go their separate ways.

The European gold bloc will probably do what it can to make us uncomfortable but it cannot get far without British cooperation.

And Britain will remain on the fence.

STABILIZATION: We are likely to make one minor concession to the gold bloc which won't affect our price-rise program and may make France and her friends a little happier. That would be cooperation to check wild currency gyrations due purely to speculation.

The New York Federal Reserve bank could easily pour cold water down speculative necks by offsetting their maneuvers in the exchange market. It stands ready to act the minute the government gives the word.

The point is that rapid-fire ups and downs help nobody. We don't want to impede inflation psychology by anchoring the dollar but we'd just as soon it didn't give an imitation of a roller-coaster. Therefore, we wouldn't be sacrificing anything by smoothing the bounces.

Also we would have a harder time keeping the dollar down where the administration wants it. That is another reason we are willing to edge over a little.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BARRETT COLVIN, back in New York after four years, finds himself much attracted by 20-year-old ELINOR STAFFORD. Barrett is 35, wealthy and has made a name for himself as an archeologist. Elinor's mother, LIDA STAFFORD, is beautiful and, because she wants attention for herself, has forced her daughter to wear unbecoming clothes and keep in the background. Lida schemes constantly to keep in the good graces of her husband's wealthy aunt, MISS ELLA SEXTON, in order to inherit a share of the Sexton fortune.

Barrett's half-sister, MARCIA RADNOR, tells him she is terrified for fear her husband will learn of an unfortunate episode in her past. Years before Barrett shielded Marcia when a youthful flirtation ended disastrously. Marcia had a son whom Barrett adopted. The boy is nine years old now and his tutor, HAROLD DEXTER, has threatened Marcia with blackmail. She declares that if her husband learns the truth he will never forgive her.

Barrett goes to visit nin-year-old GERALD, his ward. He has decided to discharge the tutor and find a new home for the boy. He calls on Miss Ella Sexton who tells him she can not decide to whom to leave her money. Barrett refuses to advise her. As he is leaving he meets Lida Stafford, Elinor's mother.

CHAPTER VIII

Sunday morning Higgins appeared with a card upon which was engraved the name, "Mr. Harold Dexter."

"Show the young man in, Higgins," said Barrett as he laid the card on the tray from which he'd taken it. He waited, standing, chin hardening. A moment and Harold Dexter appeared in the doorway; a bottle-shouldered young man whose pallor was increased by dark, horn-rimmed glasses. There was an oily, nervous smile on his weak face.

"And what can I do for you, Mr. Dexter?" Barrett asked without prefacing greeting.

"I want a chance to talk with you, Mr. Colvin."

"You have it."

"May I sit down?"

"Certainly."

Harold Detxer settled hmself in a chair. Barrett, waiting, wondered how he could ever have been deceived by the young man for a moment. Dexter was not sufficiently strong even to be a successful criminal.

The newcomer moistened his lips. "I didn't like my dismissal, Mr. Colvin," he began.

"I don't like you or you would not have had your dismissal," Barrett responded with equal frankness.

"Why don't you like me, Mr. Colvin?"

"Because, for one thing, you're a liar. You told my sister I hadn't paid your salary. You know you were paid well and on the dot."

"I should have been paid well! It isn't everyone who'll take charge of a child whose parentage is unknown. I had in my keeping the honor of your family, Mr. Colvin. One is sometimes compensated for such trusts—"

"Yes, if one is a blackmailer. You know blackmail is a prison offense?" Barrett questioned levelly.

For a moment Dexter shrank. Then he smiled. "I will deal with your sister, Mrs. Radnor, if you don't wish to deal with me."

Barrett's face changed. A surge of blood seemed to swell it and harden it.

"Or with Mr. Radnor," Dextor went on, menacingly.

"On what terms?" Barrett asked. His voice, he realized, was not betraying his anger.

"On terms Mr. Radnor should decide when he learns the truth. I know the story, Mr. Colvin. I have taken pains to look it up! I will say that you managed the affair very well. Very well indeed—"

"You will spare me your comments if you don't wish to be knocked down!" Barrett said hoarsely. No cloaking his anger now. His hands, wet-palmed, were clenched. Every inch of his more than six feet of hard-muscled, sparse being was tensely strained; aching to strike and strike hard.

"Lon More's death was fortunate," the other drawled, smiling. "Not so fortunate as yours would be," Barrett heard himself say.

Dexter's voice continued. "Say $10,000 for the moment, Mr. Colvin?"

"Ah, so it is blackmail!" Now was the time to tackle this thing once and for all. "So it's blackmail," Barrett repeated. "I've reminded you that's a prison offense. The police will act quite promptly, I'm sure. I understand they are rather anxious to talk to you—"

The other man's surprise was obvious. His oily face whitened.

"What?" he exclaimed.

"We can settle this very promptly!" Barrett continued. He moved toward the telephone. "Blackmail and one or two other little affairs, Mr. Dexter. Oh, yes, while you've been looking up my private history I've been looking up yours. Yes, I think the police will be glad to see you."

Bluff—all of it bluff, but it was working. Dexter was on his feet now.

"Look here, Mr. Colvin, you're not going to call the police, are you?"

"I certainly am."

"But think of your family, your sister—"

"There is nothing about this affair that can affect my sister. I have been threatened with blackmail and you will suffer the consequences. Aside from this crime you have just attempted I will give the police the other information that has come to me recently. I'm not sure of the sentence but it's certain to be a long one, Mr. Dexter. Ten years, I imagine—"

Barrett had taken a chance, was fighting fire with fire and seemed to be winning. The creature before him had become suddenly transformed. He trembled and his eyes were distorted.

"Don't do it, Mr. Colvin!" he cried. "Don't telephone the police. I didn't mean to harm you. It's just that—I wanted the money. If you'll let me get away I swear I won't make any trouble."

Colvin smiled. His hand was on the telephone. "I'm quite sure of it," he said steadily. "Because, you see, you can't. The tale you proposed to carry to Mr. Radnor would only cause him to do the same thing I am doing—notify the authorities.

"Don't, Mr. Colvin! Give me another chance. I'll never bother you again!"

"And why should I believe that?"

"I swear it! I swear to God, Mr. Colvin—!"

Fifteen minutes later Barnett was alone. He stood at the window, staring down at the street. He hoped he had done the right thing but how could he be sure? Was Marcia really safe? Her baby was to be born in January. Perhaps it would have been better to pay the $10,000. If Dexter should find out that his threats were all a bluff—! No, Barrett wouldn't consider that possibility. It was simply borrowing trouble. And he couldn't hand over the money, couldn't knuckle under to a scoundrel like that!

There was nothing to do now but hope and pray that the fear he had put into Dexter would endure at least until Marcia was well again. Later if there were trouble she must face it.

He telephoned to tell her he had seen Dexter. The matter had been settled and there was nothing more for her to worry about. He prayed as he said it that the words were true.

An hour later a note arrived from Miss Ella Sexton. The note read, "My great-niece, Miss Elinor Stafford, is to take tea with me this afternoon at four. I would be charmed to have you drop in at that hour if it suits your convenience."

The day dragged. On the stroke of four Barrett crossed the street to be admitted by Craven. Elinor Stafford was already there and Ba... found his heart quickening a... turned toward her. "Are you?" she answered, pleased.

"I wish you would, Barrett," put in Miss Ella. "I don't like to have her abroad alone as the dusk fall... In my day such a thing was u... heard-of."

Major League All-Stars Tangle Today; Hagen Leads In British Open

Dream Of Fans Comes True As Stars Collect

Capacity Crowd Assured For "Battle Of Century" Today At Comiskey Park; Connie Mack And John McGraw Up

BY PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, July 5. —Baseball's dream comes true tomorrow.

Out at Comiskey Park, scene of many of baseball's greatest triumphs and tragedies, the mightest array of sluggers ever assembled unpack their war clubs for an afternoon's bombardment that may still the diamond's most persistent argument—the superiority of the American and National leagues.

Eighteen stars, handpicked for every position, will represent each major league in the dream game that promises to be a nightmare for either the pitchers or sluggers or both. Marshalling the all-star forces will be the fiery John McGraw, drawn out of retirement to lead the National Leaguers, and the stately Connie Mack, one of the greatest master minds baseball has ever known.

50,000 Fans Ready

Forty nine thousand spectators, promised a clear, cool day, already had their precious pasteboards to insure a capacity throng at the White Sox battleground by game time, 12:30 p. m. central standard time.

Charity was a certain winner as all net profits were to be turned over to the Association of Professional Baseball Players of America, an organization formed eight years ago to care for old and disabled players and umpires.

As the zero hour neared for the big battle between such American sluggers as Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Al Simmons, Jimmie Foxx and Joe Gronin and the National League big berthas like "Chuck" Klein, Paul Waner, Frankie Frisch, and Lefty O'Doul, nothing was definite in the respective lineups except that the aforementioned power houses would swing into action. The pitching selections had every one guessing, but at a late hour the best guess was that Bill Hallahan, ace southpaw of the St. Louis Cardinals, would oppose General Alvin Crowder of Washington at the start.

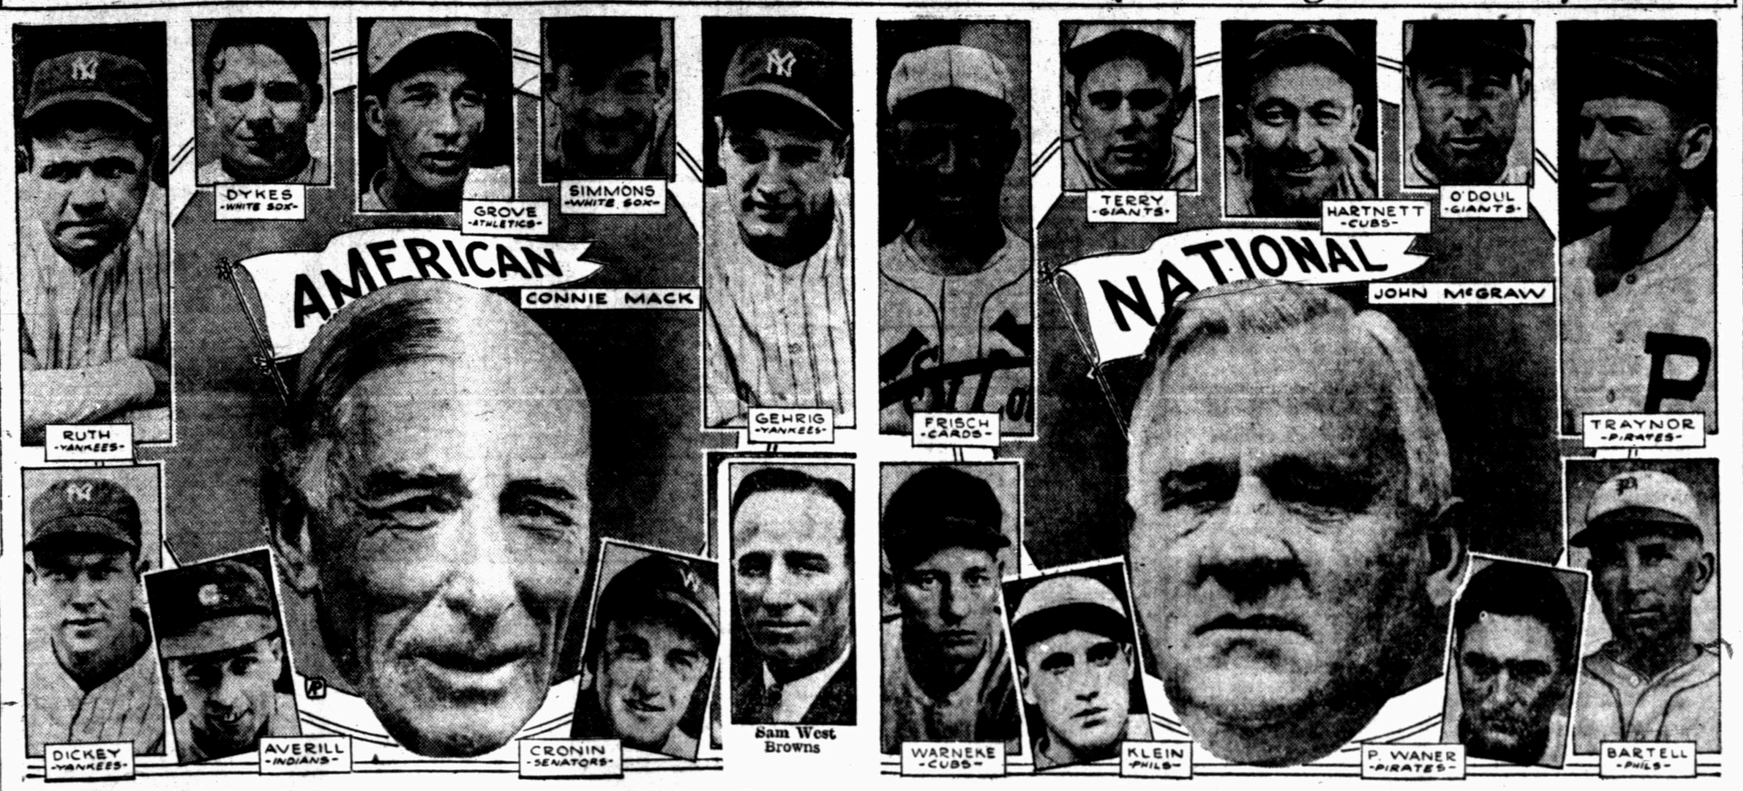

Two Outfield Left

The National Leaguers had two sets of outfielders, left and right handed hitters, ready for action. The southpaw hitters were Klein, Paul Waner and Lefty O'Doul with Chick Hafey, Pepper Martin and Biff Berger swinging from the right side. The infield presented batters from both sides. In the American League outfield ranks were two right handed swatters, Al Simmons and Ben Chapman and "Lefties" Earl Averill, Sam West and Babe Ruth, Gehrig, Gehringer and Dickey were American league infielders ready to swing from the port side.

Both managers, together with League Presidents Will Harridge and John Heydler were excited but confident over the game.

"I think we'll win but you can never tell about a game like this," they replied in unison.

Ready For Baseball's "Battle Of The Century Of Progress" Today

THE greatest array of diamond talent ever assembled will be seen in action today at Chicago, when the National League All-Stars, led by John McGraw, clash with a similar group from the American League, with Connie Mack at the throttle. The two teams, above, were selected by popular vote in big league cities, but the rival managers were permitted to name as many more to serve as replacements, bringing each squad up to 18 players.

IN MANY respects the game today promises to be more glamorous than the annual world series, bringing together, as it does, the outstanding stars of the rival circuits in a single, short test of power. The American leaguers have been established slight favorites because of their tremendous slugging power and the dazzling speed of their starting pitcher, Lefty Grove, but McGraw's beauties figure to give them a grent battle."

OF THOSE chosen to play in the big game, Al Simmons, White Sox outfielder, came closest to being a unanimous choice of the fans. Al received 346,291 votes, compared to 342,283 cast for Chuck Klein of the Phillies, outstanding choice in the National League. Others who rated high were Gabby Hartnett, Cubs' catcher, 338,653; Joe Cronin, Washington shortstop, 337,766; Lefty Grove, A's pitcher, 327,242, and Babe Ruth, 320,518.

Old Master Is Five Under At End First Day

Ed Dudley Scores A 31 Going Out But Comes In With 39; Haig Is Two Ahead Nearest Rival At St. Andrews

By FRANK H. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 5. —Walter Hagen, grand old warrior of American golf, jumped into the lead today with a brilliant 68, five under par, in the first round of the British Open golf championship as 22 of the 117 challengers for Gene Sarazen's title found St. Andrews so ideal, for low scoring that all shot par golf or better.

Hagen's mark, stirring aftermath of the record breaking 67 William "Pat" Nolan, Irish professional, turned in yesterday to clinch the qualifying medal, withstood every attempt to shake it down as the big field, accustomed now to the sun scorched fairways and blisteringly fast greens of the "old course," tore through the first eighteen holes of the 72-hole championship play.

Hagen Is Idol Again

Man after man, among them half a dozen of Hagen's compatriots, blew up on critical holes in the home stretch trying to catch the American Ryder Cup team captain who four times in the past eleven years— in 1922, 1924, 1928 and 1929—has captured the highest prize in British golf. As a result Hagen tonight has risen again to his familiar place, favorite again for the title no Briton has won in ten years.

Hagen's 68 gave him a lead of two strokes on the closest of the field, three strokes on the medalist, Nolan, and two other British professionals, Herbert Jolly and Fred Robertson; four strokes on the defending champion, Gene Sarazen; and five strokes on the Englishman still considered strongest of the defending forces, Henry Cotton, now a professional at Waterloo, Belgium.

Nolan's sub par 71 today was just scores, and with the baked terrain changing ordinary par four holes into a drive and pitch anything around perfect figures caused little excitement.

Three men, for instance shot 70's, Thomas R. Fernie, of St. Anne's; Cyril Tolley, burly English amateur; and Ed Dudley, Concordville, Pa., professional who had the most trying experience of the day.

Dudley Scores a 31

Dudley took the first nine holes apart with a 31, a single stroke under Hagen's effort going out and five strokes under par, only to skid back in 39, two over par, with the Royal eyes of the Prince of Wales upon him. Dudley had two eagles on his blazing first nine, sinking a 100-yard mashie niblick shot for a three on the seventh.

Sarazen, Joe Kirkwood, and George T. Dunlap, jr., doughty New York amateur who went to the semi-

Vines Conquers Cochet Again And Enters Wimbledon Finals

Lanky American Victorious In Match With French Ace For Third Time; Helen Jacobs Is Eliminated

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 5. (AP)—The new and the old kings of the tennis courts, Ellsworth Vines, jr., and Henri Cochet, met today for the third time and for the third time Vines won, smashing through the once invincible ace to a 6-2, 8-6, 3-6, 6-1 triumph in the semi-finals of the Wimbledon tennis championships.

The tall, rubberlegged American youngster, towering a head over the little Frenchman, dominated the play throughout and at the end Cochet, apparently convinced he at last had met his master, warmly congratulated Vines.

Meets Australian Champ

Vines will defend his title, which he won last year on his first appearance on the famous London courts, against Jack Crawford Saturday, the Australian champion defeating Jiro Satoh, of Japan, 6-3, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4 in the other semi-final.

The victory of Vines was the feature of a day which saw Elizabeth Ryan, the former Californian, advance both in mixed doubles and women's doubles and the elimination of Helen Jacobs, the United States champion, and Mrs. Dorothy Andrus Burke in women's doubles.

Miss Ryan first paired with Mme. Rene Mathieu, ranking French star, to defeat Katherine Stammers, of England, and Jedwiga Jedzrejowska, Polish champion, 6-1, 6-2, and then with Enrique Maier, the Spanish titleholder, to win from Suan Noel of England, and R. Nunoi, the Japanese champion, in mixed doubles, 6-2, 8-6.

Miss Jacobs and her Australian partner, Don Turnbull, were removed from the mixed play 6-1, 1-6, 6-2, by R. Miki, of Japan, and Dorothy Round, of England, lost to the veteran English pair of Kitty McKane Godfree and Mrs. L. R. C. Michell, 6-3, 9-7.

All four doubles matches were in the fourth round.

Texas Tech Tennis Tourney Slated To Start On Friday

A tennis tournament open to all Texas Tech men and women is scredu1ed to get under way Friday afternoon at the college courts, Byron Terrell, tournament manager, said last night.

One meeting already has been held, and enough interest shown to promise a good summer tournament, Terrell said. All desiring to enter the tournament are asked to meet at the courts Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The joust may run through Sunday and Monday. A small entry fee will be charged, and winners will receive suitable trophies.

Lee Defeats Raines, 3 And 2, To Win Abilene's Tournament

(By The Associated Press)

ABILENE, July 4. — Jack Lee, lightweight youngster from Orange, yesterday became the champion of the Abilene Country club invitation tournament, by tawing the measure of Budley Raines, Abilene, 3 and 2 in a scheduled 36-hole final.

Leading 2 up through 33, Lee finished the match with a remarkable shot on the 34th. He hooked his drive deep into the rough, and missed the green with his second, but a short pitch almost holed out and was a cineh four. It took Raines three shots to make the green, and his conventional two putts lost the hole and match.

League Meeting Called Tonight At Hotel Here

Member teams of the South Plains Baseball League are requested to send delegates to an official league meeting here tonight at Hotel Lubbock.

All managers are requested to be present by League President Dutch Leuenberger, managers to send official delegates in event they cannot attend. The meeting will be held at Hotel Lubbock, beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

Matters of importance are to come up, Leuenberger said, and Tahoka will be formally recognized as the first half champion.

Enochs Wins To Start Last Half

ENOCHS, July 5 (Special) — Enochs defeated Levelland, 11 to 6, Tuesday afternoon at Monument Lake to win the first game of the second half of the South Plains Baseball league season. In winning, Enochs joined Lubbock, Slaton and Amherst in a tie for first place.

The game was played before a large crowd of Independence Day observers at Monument Lake grounds. Enochs found Pitcher Hampton for 15 hits, and took advantage of half a dozen errors to count their large score.

Moore pitched a 6-hit game for Enochs.

The score:

Levelland	000 000 204	6	6 6
Enochs	311 011 04x	11	15 1

Hampton and Green; Moore and McCormick.

Bucs Lose To Missions In See-Saw Texas Loop Game

SAN ANTONIO, July 5. (AP)—Galveston today spotted San Antonio four runs in the first frame, then came back to take a 5-4 lead, and twice tied the score, but eventually lost to the Missions, 9-7. Chief Moore went the route for the Bucs while Hal Wiltse, trying to pitch with two days rest, was finally routed when the Bucs tied the score at 7-7 with none out in the seventh. Tom Conland pitched out of the hole working the last three frames, holding the Pirates hitless while his mates collected a pair of runs in the eighth.

GOLF

By ART KRENZ

BREATHING HAS A LOT TO DO WITH GOLF

Few golfers realize that breathing has much to do with golf. Only a trained athlete can walk up to his ball in an exciting match without breathing rather hard.

Better golf shots can be made if one is breathing normally. If the walk up to your ball has been brisk, stand around until you are breathing easy, but use the time to good advantage by studying the next shot, or the one following that.

The 12th hole at our country club has been a hoodoo to all members.

It has an out-of-bounds to the right and a river to the left. The tee is situated on the side of a hill, some 100 feet higher than the fairway.

It is true these are mental hazards. But I believe the walk from No. 11 green to No. 12 tee, which is quite a distance and up-hill, is the direct cause of most tee shots leaving the straight and narrow. I have seen players come up to this tee breathing heavily and attempt to make a drive. The result is that improper breathing has robbed them of two or three strokes.

Even when putting it is necessary to be breathing normally. Lack of breath causes tension in the stroke and grip. Study and line your putt until your breathing is back to normal.

John McDiarmid Sets Hectic Pace In National Net Joust

CHICAGO, July 5. (AP)—Headed by lanky John McDiarmid of Fort Worth, five players gained the quarter final round of the National clay court singles at the town and tennis club today.

Grant, seeded second only to young Frankie Parker of Milwaukee, found the T.C.U. star able to match his renowned steadiness, and in addition found McDiarmid's cannonball serve difficult to handle. The scores were 6-4, 6-4.

The bottom bracket was all set for the quarter-finals tomorrow, Parker leading a parade of four straight-set victors. He put a quick end to the glory that was George Ball's when he defeated the El Paso, star, surprise winner over Jay Cohn on Tuesday, by 6-0, 6-0 scores.

Berkeley Bell of Austin, Tex., earned the bracket opposite Parker by trouncing young Milton Ruehl of Milwaukee, 6-3, 6-1.

Willie MaGuire has started his twenty-first year as golf professional at the Houston, Tex., Country club.

TARZAN OF THE APES No. 28

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

It was a well-laden Tarzan who dropped into the midst of Kerchak's tribe. With swelling chest he narrated the glories of his adventures and exhibited the spoils of conquest. Kerchak was jealous of this strange member of his tribe. He sought some excuse to wreak his hatred upon Tarzan.

A month Tarzan practiced with his bow and arrows. During this time he further investigated the cabin, and found the metal box containing his father's diary, some photographs, and a diamond locket. This took his fancy. He placed it about his neck, in imitation of the black men he had visited.

When his arrows were gone, Tarzan renewed the supply, repeating his former pranks while the natives were enjoying a cannibal feast. They were filled with fear at this new manifestation of some unseen, unearthly evil power. Returning homeward, Tarzan encountered Sabor, the lioness, and sent an arrow into her.

Removing the great pelt, he hastened to the tribe, who gathered to see this new proof of his wondrous prowess. Only Kerchak hung back—nursing his hatred and rage. Suddenly something snapped in Kerchaks brain. He sprang biting and killing among the assembly. "Come down, Tarzan," he cried, "come and fight!"

Breathlessly the tribe watched as Kerchak, roaring, charged the relatively puny figure. Tarzan tore loose his knife and drove it into Kerchak—below the heart! They struggled long. Then the great body shuddered, stiffened—sank limply. Kerchak was dead. Thus came the young Lord Greystoke into the KINGSHIP OF THE APES.

Contracts Are In Hand Here

Two Hundred Cotton Contracts In Hands Of County Agent Wednesday; First Report To Be Made Today

Two hundred cotton contracts were in the hands of O. G. Tumlinson, county agent, for checking last night and the county control committee probably will inspect them today, the agent said. He planned to work over the papers in his office last night.

First reports on the number of contracts and acreages to be plowed under, probably will be made to College Station today, Mr. Tumlinson said. "I want to have every contract correct as far as I can make it possible," he added, "I do not want any to be returned here for correction. That is the reason why I am not rushing reports."

Mr. Tumlinson reported he was out of contracts and still was having calls for the papers. He anticipates an increase in the number of acres plowed under.

Judge C. A. Leddy Resigns From Appeals Commission

ADSTIN, July 5 (AP)—Resignation of Judge C. A. Leddy as a member of the supreme court commission of appeals was announced today. The resignation will become effective September 1. Judge Leddy planned to resume the practice of law in Houston.

Judge Leedy was appointed to the commission of appeals by former Governor Dan Moody and was reappointed by the supreme court when the law was changed to vest appointment of the commission in the supreme court.

Counties In Midland Area Plan To Form A New Unit

MIDLAND, July 5—Ten counties in the Midland area will form a new Interscholastic League district, according to present plans of the Texas Interscholastic league officials. The officers met with Superintendent W. W. Lackey here to map out the new organization.

Counties in the proposed new district are: Ector, Martin, Upton, Reagan, Loving, Crane, Glasscock, Andrews, Winkler and Midland. Heretofore, these counties have sent their school winners to San Angelo. With Midland as headquarters for the new district, much travel expense and time will be saved, it was pointed out.

County Welfare Boards Are Appointed In 143 Counties

AUSTIN, July 5 (AP)—Lawrence Westbrook, director of the Texas rehabilitation and relief commission, today announced the commission had appointed county boards of welfare and employment in 143 counties.

The names of the appointees were certified to the respective county commissioners' courts and must be approved before they can become effective.

Westbrook reported that political sub-divisions had submitted 1,843 project surveys proposing an aggregate expenditure of $394,000,000 since the state-wide survey started June 12.

Applications have been completed on 43 projects on which work is ready to begin as soon as approved by the federal administrator and funds are made available.

Prior to appointment of the county committee, relief work in the sub-division was carried out under direction of volunteer directors and workers.

Teachers Are Told Time Is Coming To Be Well Educated

CHICAGO, July 5 (AP)—Teachers attending the annual convention of the National Education association today were told that the time was coming when "they must be educated individuals."

The statement was made by one of their own number, H. L. Donovan, president of the Eastern Kentucky State Teachers college at Richmond, Ky. He said he foresaw the dawn of a new age in which "we will think in terms of human values, rather than in terms of vast stores of material possessions for a few favored members of society who can not consume them."

In speaking of present educational standards he said "it would not be exaggeration to say that at least 25 per cent of the elementary teachers of our nation are half educated persons."

Among requirements he listed for future teachers of the lowest rank were four years of training at a college that provides a laboratory such as a model school in connection.

New All-Time Marriage Low Is Set During The Hard Times Year Of '32

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—A new all-time marriage low of only 7.87 marriages for each 1000 of population was set in the hard times year of 1932.

For the first time in 21 years, the number of marriages in this country fell below the million mark. There were only 981,759 in the year, a 7.5 per cent decrease from the year before.

Whether the figure will increase this year may never be known, Since there is doubt as to continuation of the marriage and divorce statistics service because of another threatened economy cut.

Annual marriage rate statistics date back to 1887 and in all that time the rate has never before fallen below 8.5 per cent per 1000.

Miss Alice Hagan, keeper of the marriage and divorce statistics, said it was safe to claim the 1932 rate was an all-time low since the trend was for the marriage rates to get higher the farther back one goes into the earlier, incomplete records.

Here's how the marriage rate went down from 1929 to 1932: 10.14; 9.15; 8.54; 7.87.

"Hard times hit even the Nevada marriage market," said Miss Hagan.

The divorce rate was on the upward climb the entire time from 1887 until the stock market crash of 1929. It has fallen since then, however, 4.9 per cent in 1930, 4.1 per cent in 1931, and 4.1 per cent in the 1932 statistics announced today.

There were 160,329 divorces granted in the United States in 1932 as compared to 183,664 in 1931.

Some of the state-by-state marriage statistics follow:

Only ten states of the 48, Missouri, South Dakota, Nebraska, West Virginia, Mississippi, Arkansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arizona, and Utah, showed slight increases. All ten adjoining states with new and stricter marriage laws.

Rhode Island and Arkansas were the only two states where the divorces increased. Rhode Island reported 730 divorces in 1932 as against 674 in 1931, a 8.3 per cent increase. Arkansas had a newly enacted, more liberal divorce law. The greatest decrease was in the District of Columbia, 34.9 per cent.

In the United States as a whole, there were 6.1 marriages to each divorce in 1932, as against 5.8 in 1931.

Lends car for test—

Gulf-lube cuts oil costs 28½%

MR. AND MRS. LOU MOORE, Ambassador Hotel, Indianapolis—owned one of the six cars borrowed for this daring test. Gulf-lube cut this car's oil consumption 28.3%, as compared with all other oils tested.

New motor oil amazes AAA Officials*

IN 6 borrowed cars, representatives of the Contest Board of the AAA tested 4 of America's leading brands of 25c oils : : :

And, when the 4-day run on the famous Indianapolis Speedway was over, Gulf-lube had beaten every oil in every car!

To the amazement of the Officials, the average of all the figures proved this : : : Gulf-lube went 28½% farther than its competitors before a quart of oil had to be added—a clear-cut saving of over one-fourth!

Switch to Gulf-lube and start saving 2 ways! First, you'll use less oil. Second, you'll pay less for repairs—for the oil that gives higher mileage is a better buy. Prove it! Get Gulf-lube at any Gulf station. © 1933, GULF REFINING CO., PITTSBURGH, PA.
