BURNET COUNTY MAN NEW DIST. ATTORNEY.

Announcement was made last week-end of the appointment of Hon. Fielding H. Hammond of Burnet as District Attorney of this 33rd Judicial District, by Governor Neff.

Mr. Hammond, we understand is a cousin and law partner of George C. Christian, who recently resigned this office, and is a son of Captain Hammond, another former District Attorney of this district.

There were numerous applicants for the appointment, from the eight counties comprising the district. While those appointed and elected from that county have proven able attorneys and no doubt Mr. Hammond is well qualified for the place, it seems that Burnett County, on the extreme east end of the district, has some sort of jinx when it comes to getting appointments from the governors. For nearly 25 years that county has furnished the District Attorneys, in all instances except, one, the incumbent has been first appointed, and later elected.

Dayton Moses held the office for 14 years, when Capt. Hammond was appointed, holding the office nearly four years, when he resigned and his nephew, Geo. C. Christian, was appointed. Mr. Christian held the office five years, and following his resignation, Mr. Hammond was appointed.

Judge and Mrs. Coke R. Stevenson were in Ballinger last week-end, where Judge Stevenson had accepted an invitation to deliver an address before a meeting of the Ballinger Chamber of Commerce, Thursday evening.

W. L. Gibson and W. M. Casper, ranchmen from the east end of the county, were business visitors here Tuesday.

Sam Joseph and wife of Lockhart, and Mrs. I. Schaffer of San Antonio are guests at the Phillip Joseph home this week.

COUNTY'S LARGEST BUSINESS CONCERN PROSPERS

NOTE—This is the first of a series of articles that will appear from time to time, in this paper, about the history and development of our advertisers among the business institutions of Junction. As the Junction State Bank is the biggest business institution of the county it is not inappropriate to head the list with it.

The annual stockholders' meeting was held on January 5th with J. A. Heyman presiding. W. P. Riley, E. E. Bolt, W. R. McKee, A. L. Mudger, J. F. Burt and John L. Martin, were re-elected directors, and the officers for the last year were re-elected.

The bank paid a 5 per cent semi-annual dividend to its stockholders.

The Junction Cattle Loan Co. is a part of this institution and the officers and directors are the same. This concern also paid a 5 per cent dividend. The statement of the bank and cattle loan company as shown on the 31st of December, was by far the best in several years and reflects the prosperity of the county.

The Eagle reporter strolled into the bank recently to deposit a few checks to keep the over-draft from getting any larger. We stopped at the cashier's desk and noticed a smile of satisfaction on the cashier's face. Before we had talked a minute, we had gathered the information that the bank was out of debt. A little later we met the assistant cashier, and he appraised us of the same fact, in a manner that clearly showed he was proud of the bank's accomplishment. A day or two later, we got in ahead of several others waiting to see the president, and he too, told us of having paid the last dollar the bank owed, only a few days before. This was confidential at the time, but it is a fact that all the officers, directors and stockholders may well be proud of, and one which they are glad to make known to the public, for under the circumstances when the financial condition of the country was at its best. In the spring of 1921, this bank was carrying more than one and one-quarter millions in loans, amounting to more than $350 for each man, woman and child in the county.

The Junction State Bank was organized in 1908, from a consolidation of the First State Bank and the Kimble County State Bank. In 1914, Coke R. Stevenson resigned as cashier, and was succeeded by W. P. Riley. In 1915, Mr. Riley was elected a director, succeeding Jas. Paterson, who had recently died. Two years later, Mr. Riley was elected president. In 1920, C. T. Holekamp became identified with the bank as cashier, and H. O. Denman was made assistant cashier about a year ago. These gentlemen, with E. E. Bolt as vice-president, and John R. Martin as secretary, constitute the present official personnel.

Lawrence Johnson, the young man that greets the many customers of the bank with a smile when they want to deposit money, or refers them to the high-cups when they want to borrow, is now teller. "Koon," as he is known to his friends, has been with the bank since 1919. Cutherie Williams and Messrs Van Chief and Martin constitute the clerical force.

Between 1918 and 1921, the bank had a phenomenal growth. In March 1919, its loans were only $218,000, and deposits $165,000 to $240,000. The combined capital and surplus of the bank and loan company today are a little larger than the circumstances of the case it is an accomplishment that only business ability and hard work could bring about.

Four years is not a very long time but it's a long road to travel from the time this bank owed or had endorsed paper to the extent of $993,000, at the very time of the financial crash, to the time four years later when it did not owe a dollar, with conservative loans of more than

RESULTS OF HOLLAND'S GAME PROTECTION MOVE.

Public-spirited citizens of five Southwestern States, workers in a campaign just closed by Holland's Magazine, have established a total of 2,948,841 acres in bird and game refuges, in which absolute protection is pledged beneficial wild life for a period of five years. The campaign itself is the most successful ever conducted by any agency within a year's time. By States, the total in sanctuaries, which are being placarded with handsome metal signs, are as follows: Texas, 2,800,403 acres; Arkansas, 28,268; Oklahoma, 18,173; Louisiana, 5,927; and New Mexico, 3,440. The sanctuaries range in size from 10 acres to 250,000. They include many ranches and farms which contain turkeys, prairie chickens, deer, and other game birds and animals, and constitute the first step towards the creation of permanent state refuges in which birds and animals will be permitted to multiply under natural conditions.

The Texas sanctuaries include some of the finest breeding grounds in America. Eight of them range from 100,000 to 250,000 acres in area, embracing portions of the famous King Ranch, the Kenedy Ranch, the Lasater Ranch, and other properties which are known throughout the country. In addition to the large refugees, boys and girls have dedicated 7,899 yards to birds, agreeing to feed them half a million and deposits of more than two-thirds what they last figure, notwithstanding there has been a considerable loss from bad notes during the past two or three years.

It has been the purpose of this bank to have ample resources on hand at all times to take care of the needs of a growing community. This it has been able to do in a satisfactory manner. It has offered to its customers a complete banking service, making the lending of money one of the means of service.

Good Investment

Uncle Sam's greatest submarine, 34 1/2 feet over all, just launched at Portsmouth. She is nearly twice the size of any other under-sea craft and can travel 21 knots an hour on the surface or 9 knots an hour under water. She is fast enough to stay with major ships during maneuvers.

in bitter winter weather and to furnish them water in summer.

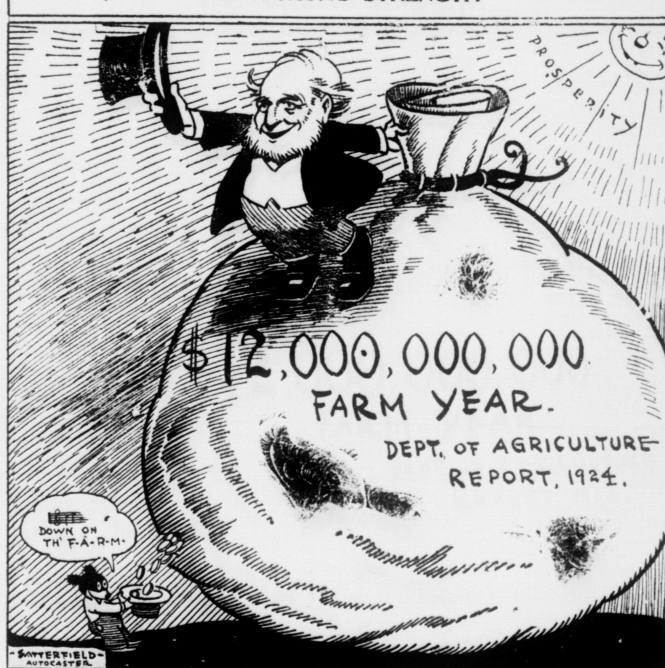

Even more remarkable than the sanctuaries are the pledges in which men, women and children bind themselves to observe the game laws and to do everything in their power to encourage birds and to keep thoughtless persons from doing them injury. Altogether, 119,421 individual pledges have been secured, largely through schools, and the principal awards in this phase of the work have been made to juniors. Barton Welfare Group, of the Mobile (Alabama) High School turned in 13,171 pledges and a $100 award was earned by Tom Currie, a Dallas, Texas, boy 11 years of age. Total cash awards in the two campaigns were $750.00, and it is hoped that the work so auspiciously started will be carried on by interested citizens until all of our finer birds and animals are guaranteed perpetuation.

The above story sent out by Holland's Magazine, which, under the management of Col. F. P. Holland, and edited by John W. Stayton, has conducted a campaign for the protection and preservation of all kinds of wild life. It will be particularly interesting to people of this section where wild life is abundant, but if not afforded more protection, will be extinct in a few more years.

A few miles up South Llano, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Wilson have one of the most desirable ranches in the county and Mrs. Wilson has joined in this movement to the extent of making a sanctuary, as mentioned above and just recently received a letter from Col. Holland, who is well known here, congratulating her and thanking her for the co-operation she is giving.

The long distance telephone call placed through the local station so far was put through the first of the week, when Mrs. Martin talked to her husband in Chicago. The call was routed through Kerrville and San Antonio, and conversation was carried on without difficulty.

THE NATION'S STRENGTH!

Sallie's Temptations

CURTIS WRIGHT LECTURES
—SALLIE JUST LOVES IT.

"I Don't guess there's any use stalling any further, so here goes for the bathing suit episode," I announced, when we had ordered luncheon and were facing each other across a table in a secluded corner.

Curtis Wright looked at me with an unwavering gaze and then said with a deliberateness that was impressive:

"I've been thinking, Sallie, about the whole thing, and I've decided that it's none of my business, I believe, however, that you understand the interest that prompted me to ask for an explanation."

"Then you don't want me to tell you?" I eagerly inquired. "You may suit yourself entirely," he replied coolly; "you owe me no account of your behavior. When I tried to force one it was because—"

My heart pounded. "I'm glad you did," I interrupted, "and I'll tell you, because I'm not ashamed of what happened. Ted Billings was tight. He met me in the sand dunes. He forced his carresses upon me, and in getting away from him he stripped my bathing suit from my body. There now, I've told you," I gasped breathlessly as I finished the graphic story. "You see, there's nothing to it," I ended, hopefully, searching his eyes for a sign of approval.

His expression was non-committal and followed a long silence.

"Well, what's the matter?" I asked lightly. "Do you think I'm a ruined woman?"

"Don't, Sallie, don't," he begged in a solemn manner; "I can't bear to hear you talk like that. I don't think you realize that the way you girls talk is far below the conversation of the average demimonde."

Another pause.

"And," he continued, "do you really believe that you can pass through such an experience and still feel that there's 'nothing to it'?" he quoted.

"Well, he wasn't responsible. He didn't know what he was doing."

His eyes snapped like sparks from a fire.

"Don't defend him, Sallie; for don't you see—can't you see that by condoning such a performance you put yourself in the position where he has a right to believe that you were not even offended?"

He was making me see the ugliness of the situation.

"I didn't mean to ever speak to him again," I stammered, truly I didn't!

"And yet you couldn't stay home for one evening. You sacrificed your self-respect for a few dances and the excitement of a party—"

"I didn't know he was going," I defended.

"And I don't suppose you knew he was going to get an invitation to your party. And I don't suppose you minded dancing with him and having him touch you."

"Oh, don't, please don't!" I pleaded.

"I see it all now. It really rotten of me to go on being nice to him as if nothing had happened. It was so much easier not to make a fuss about it," I explained lamely.

"A noble line of thought to follow," he averred, and his voice held bitter sarcasm.

"It wasn't my fault that he was so horrid," I suggested.

"It was—just exactly that," he interrupted. "You told me the first night I met you that you had let him kiss you, and you thought it devilish funny. You drink with him so much that you don't even know what you're doing, and you bring yourself to the level where—" he paused, searching for the right word—"a man can't tell what you're expecting of him."

"No one thinks anything of drinking now-a-days, and you know it," I retorted.

"You're right. We men have had to accept these things because even our mothers and sisters drink cocktails and smoke in public. But let me tell you this, Sallie, men have one cylinder brains when it comes to women, and while smoking and drinking are not in themselves vicious, a man subconsciously measures a girl by these same petty vices. By subscribing to them she throws an atmosphere of recklessness about her. But then—" he flung out his hands in a disconsolate fashion.

"Why should I presume to lecture YOU about such matters? In discussing morals, one runs the risk of making themselves vastly unpopular." He was trying to affect an imperious manner.

"Oh, but I want you to," I cried in enthusiasm. "I've never had anyone tell me the things YOU have, and—I just love it!" (To be continued.)

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES.

January 18th was a good day in spite of the cold weather. In the morning we had a special Sunday School program, when a love offering of $35.00 was given for the starving orphans in Russia, and the near East.

At the R. Y. P. U., Mrs. Joe Turner read a wonderfully interesting paper on "Life as it is Today in Old Mexico," told from actual experience.

The evening service was very small in attendance, but Brother Kelley did his best, and the promise in Is. 55:11, reads, "My word shall not return unto Me Void." One time Jesus preached to an audience of one.

We are disappointed that Brother T. V. Herndon is not coming as was advertised. Nevertheless, we launch our 1925 program next Sunday. Morning service at 11 a. m., when our pastor will take as his subject, "This is David's Spoil." A very special invitation to young people at the evening hour when Brother E. L. Kelley will talk to them on "The Valley of an Ideal Prov. 29:18. Older folks will be welcome, especially if they have young hearts. We need everybody, always.

SECOR HOSPITAL HAS FOURTEENTH BIRTHDAY.

Fourteen years ago the Kerrville Sanitarium-Hospital (The Secor Hospital) was established to provide the Hill Country and Southwest Texas with facilities for modern diagnosis and treatment more complete than anything in the State at that time. During these fourteen years of unusual success the facilities have been improved and increased to keep pace with the rapid advancement of medical science, and today this institution still stands in the first rank.

The very latest in X-ray, physiotherapy and high pressure sterilizers have recently been installed, the buildings renewed outside and in, so that the most efficient service can be provided in a clean modern building away from the noise and dirt of the large city.

For fourteen years the chief surgeon, his associate and the first assistant have worked together in all major operations. For seven years the same specially trained physician has given the anesthetics and not one anesthetic fatality has occurred in this hospital.

The chief surgeon has his apartments in a wing of the hospital building and for ten months of the year is within call day or night, to handle emergencies and see that the patients secure the service essential to their recovery.

A chartered, accredited training school for nurses has been conducted since 1913. The few nurses who have been able to meet the high standards of this institution and receive its regular diploma admitting them to the R. N. degree, have received full recognition wherever they go, even in the largest hospitals of New York City. For every one who graduates ten are dismissed as unsatisfactory. The superintendent of nurses is a graduate of London, England, hospital. She is registered in Canada, Michigan and Texas, and is well able to handle the nursing problems of any hospital. Her presence in the hospital day and night, as well as that of the chief surgeon, gives a guarantee of personal supervision seldom found in any hospital.

The chief surgeon has been granted the highest surgical degree conferred in America, attesting his special training and accomplishments and he spares no effort to keep this hospital up to the standards set by the American College of Surgeons for the largest city hospitals. In fact, the combination of complete equipment and specially trained staff, with a climate of superior therapeutic value, has produced results that have given this institution a wide reputation. More than fifteen different cities were represented by its surgical patients in 1924. Quantity, however, has never been desired—quality is the aim.

Fee splitting or payment of commissions to the family doctor for sending patients is regarded as dishonest, and so is not indulged in by any staff member, and this has caused some of the neighboring physicians to misrepresent the hospital in an effort to justify their own unethical practices.

An examination of the records of this hospital during the past fourteen years, shows an extremely low mortality in spite of the fact that some of the most serious and most complicated cases have been treated. It is known for its clean, open and above-board policy, with a square deal and efficient service to all. It has been a recognized fact that the Hill Country is provided with a hospital service second to none in the State. Today the Secor Hospital is in a position to render even more efficient service than ever before and to give the Hill Country just reason to be proud of its accomplishments.

THINGS UNUSUAL

By T. T. MAXEY

THE CHICAGO STOCK YARDS

The Union Stock yards in Chicago handle so much stock that when one saunters about the yards, it seems as though all the farmers in the country had decided to ship all their stock to Chicago at the same time, and that it all arrived on the day you were there.

Established in 1865, these yards have grown to be the largest in America, if not in the world. The great bulk of our live stock, especially hogs, is raised in the states between the Allegheny and the Rocky mountains. Railroad construction was converging toward and expanding from the city at the southern end of Lake Michigan. Chicago, therefore, was the logical location for America's greatest live stock mart.

Naturally, the production of live stock has increased many fold during the last 57 years. This fact, plus the scope of the territory from which these yards draw patronage, accounts for the condition mentioned in the first paragraph, and the staggering figures which follow.

These yards today contain about 10,000 pens and cover an area of about 320 acres.

In 1905, 618 cattle, 17,704 hogs, and 1,433 sheep were received. The average number of head of stock handled daily during a recent five-year period was: Cattle, 10,980; calves, 2,583; hogs, 28,753; sheep, 14,805; horses, 212; a total of 55,044 head or 986 cars every 24 hours—an average of 39 cars per hour, day and night.

The receipts of stock vary widely between seasons and because of market fluctuations. The largest receipts recorded on any one day, according to recently compiled statistics, were: Cattle, 40,128, on November 16, 1908; calves, 9,526, on March 25, 1920; hogs, 90,044, on November 29, 1918; sheep, 11,392, on October 16, 1911; horses, 3,228, on January 11, 1904.

The greatest aggregate value of all stock received during any one year was in 1918 when this total reached the astounding figure of $904,715,357, an average of $2,478,972 week days and Sunday, too, throughout the year. During that year, 8,789,922 cattle, 657,707 calves, 8,014,190 hogs, 4,629,738 sheep, and 87,820 horses were received—an average of 3,273 head of live stock every hour, day and night, for the entire year.

Easy Way to Break Severest Cough

No matter how long you have had a persistent, weakening cough—no matter how many remedies you have tried without success—you can usually get relief instantly, and often relieve the entire cough condition in 24 hours, by a very simple method. The method is based on a remarkable prescription known as DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY FOR COUGHS. You simply take one teaspoonful and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing it, without following with water. The prescription has a double action. It not only soothes and heals soreness and irritation, but it quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. The prompt relief seems almost magical, and the quickness with which the whole cough condition disappears is often simply amazing. There is nothing better for coughs, chest colds, bronchitis, bronchial asthma, hoarseness, and almost every throat irritation. Economical, too, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. E. H. Gary, head of the biggest industrial organization in the world, and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., representing what is probably still the biggest fortune in the world, had breakfast with President Coolidge at the White House. They discussed law enforcement and the findings of a citizens' committee of one thousand.

Those three men make an interesting breakfast combination. Gary became head of the great steel concern when he was past fifty; Rockefeller, Jr., born to own and manage the world's greatest fortune, is removed by nearly one generation from a little farm in the hills along the Hudson, and Calvin Coolidge in one generation is promoted from a farm in Vermont to the White House.

Apparently, "careers are still open to talent," as Napoleon put it, here in America.

A curiosity interesting to women is thus announced, "Twins Born in Different Years." One, Thomas Daniel, was born in 1924, his brother, James, was born in 1925, two hours and fifty-five minutes after his older brother.

Sugar companies, oil and railroad companies are organizing great mergers, bigger and bigger industrial units are coming. In the end, perhaps, single units will include entire industries.

No need to worry about it. The bigger the better, if the public gets its share of the savings. If the public is not intelligent enough to watch and regulate one big concern, it won't be able to watch and control the secret inside deals of a dozen little concerns.

Very expensive is the overhead in wasteful competition, and the public pays the entire bill always.

Inez Hardin, the Mississippi girl chosen as the healthiest girl in the country, is described as a bundle of sunshine. Health and sunshine go together.

The young girl is a bundle of common sense also, and says "I'll marry when I'm thirty. Not until then." Some healthy boy may change her mind, but she would be wise to stick to her plan.

Healthy mothers have their best babies after thirty, and in fact after thirty-five. Plato knew it, more than 2,000 years ago.

One often finds someone along life's pathway that does a good turn for you, that makes you know the world is still a good place to live in. Last Sunday night as The Eagle Editor was returning from Dublin, a wheel ran off the car a few miles this side of Mason. Catching a ride into Mason, we found that all the garages were closed. We telephoned L. F. Eckert of the Ford Garage. He had gone to bed, but after learning our predicament, he came to the garage and, because he did not have the wheel we needed in stock, he loaned us one, and would have furnished a mechanic to do the work, but his entire force was either sick with flu or out of town, so he kindly drove us to the place where we had broken down, and withstanding the fact that he too, was almost sick with cold, helped us make the change, and we were able to get home that night.

An accommodation of this kind is certainly appreciated, and we can recommend the Eckert Garage to our friends with assurance that they will always get the best of service should they need it, when in or around the Mason country.

A young woman who was reared in an Eastern Kansas town read in a poultry journal that poultry raising was remunerative, so she decided to try it. She purchased a hen and set her on thirteen eggs. She wrote a poultry journal that poultry raising was much to her liking and wondered how long the hen should remain on the eggs. The paper wrote back: "Three weeks for chickens and four weeks for ducks." Later she wrote to the poultry journal as follows: "Many thanks for your advice about the setting hen. She remained on the nest three weeks and at the end of that time there were no chickens hatched. As I did not care for ducks, I took her off the nest and sold the eggs."—Voice Republican.

Popular subscriptions are praiseworthy at times. But the dickens of it is that the fellows who do not subscribe derive as much benefit as the ones who do, often more.—Comfort news.

RENDERING GREATER PUBLIC SERVICE.

Summarizing the progress that has been made in radio development, General James G. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation of America, in a recent statement said:

"Transoceanic broadcasting—in short, the realization of international broadcasting—for purposes of entertainment is not yet in regular operation, but proposals for increasing the power of sending stations so that programs from London, Paris, and Berlin may be easier heard in America, are being carefully considered. When such a plan is put into practice the value of broadcasting will be greatly increased and one more link of friendship and understanding will be forged between the old world and the new.

"Radio sets now are bought ready-made, just as one buys an automobile, a camera or a bicycle. One reason for this is the fact that radio is now universal in its appeal. Outwardly, at least, the modern radio receiver is no longer a complicated device requiring the assistance of an expert operator. It is, instead, an instrument with control so simple that the veriest novice can operate it at first sight.

"We are developing radio in the direction of service to be rendered, messages to be carried, voices to be heard, in ways not now possible by existing means—in short, to make the lot of mankind easier and more simple."

WANT CORRESPONDENTS

The Eagle desires a regular correspondent in the following communities: Bear Creek, Cedar Hill, Gentry, Segovia, Noxville, and Yates. We shall be glad to hear from any person in any of these communities who will send us the news each week. While we do not pay for this correspondence, we shall be glad to furnish subscription to the paper, stationery, stamps, etc., for the work, and will, in addition, furnish the with social stationery for his or her own use. There ought to be some one in each of these communities who wants to see their community represented, and is public spirited enough to help in advertising their neighborhood.

Write The Eagle or call at the office for details and instructions.

LAF-A-LOT PARTY.

One of the most attractive parties of the past week was the bridge party given by Mrs. Lee J. Corkill at the beautiful home of Mrs. Joe Turner, in honor of the Laf-a-Lot Club.

The large living room and dining room were beautifully decorated in valentine decorations. Masses of red hearts hung from the beams, while green candles burning in silver holders dotted the rooms. Upon the long mantel and arches were many bowls of ferns and narcissus. The scene of Oriental splendor was presented as the rooms were filled with subdued lights and the odor of burning incense.

In the dining room was a table laid in exquisite embroidery ferns and narcissus, and in the center was a large bowl of red punch which was served throughout the afternoon.

Mesdames C. M. Wolf, Joe Turner, and Misses Tottie Martin, Dorothy Mudge and Clara Fritz assisted the hostess in serving a salad course of peach salad, ham sandwiches, olives and coffee.

Mrs. Coke R. Stevenson was awarded the guest prize, which was a pair of silk chiffon hose, and the club prize, a box of candy, was awarded to Misses Tottie Martin and Clara Fritz.

About thirty guests were present.

MAD DOG SCARE.

A large dog belonging to Mrs. Martin, who has been visiting at the Kountz ranch became vicious one day last week and bit or attempted to bite people around the house. Nothing was thought of it at the time, but after two or three days the dog began to have fits and for several days has been acting as if affected with rabies. In order to determine whether the dog was mad, it was taken to Austin Wednesday to be examined at the Pasteur Institute.

While this dog has not been allowed to mingle with other dogs, so far as known, it would be well for people owning dogs to keep a close watch on them for a few days, as it is possible that a mad dog may be in the country and others may become affected.

Silent Places

By Grace E. Hall

God, keep some silent places for us still,
Apart from those where man forever goes;
Some altars lit by sunset on the hill,
Or alcoves in the canyon wall, where glows
The crystal drop of moisture on the fern,
While ancient firs bend tenderly above,
For souls of men must sometimes deeply yearn
For silence such as this, to sense Thy love.

God, save them for us still, lest we forget—
These altars built eternities ago;
Mankind is prone to ruin, without regret,
Thy handiwork—oh, let it not be so!
The fret of all his petty self is seen
In masonry of towers and walls and piers,
But peace is in Thy murmuring forests green,
Thy peace, that shall abide throughout the years.

The clash and clang and roar of what he makes Strikes to the nerves 'til man himself rebels;
But all Thy woodland minstrelsy awakes
Our better thoughts, and worship true compels;
Oh! may the towers of tall pines on the crest
Be temple signals, pointing out the way,
And in Thy silent places let us rest
A little while, sometimes, yea, rest and pray.

STATE RAILROAD NO LONGER TAX EATER.

Houston, Jan. 16.—Echoes of attacks made during the gubernatorial campaign last summer on Lynch Davidson's restoration of the Texas State Railroad are sounded in the semi-annual report of the road's board of managers to the Governor and the Legislature which was filed Thursday.

The board of managers is composed of Lynch Davidson of Houston, Chairman; J. A. Glen of Beaumont; and E. C. Durham of Diboll, members.

Specifically answering charges "made by politicians" that the board had "sold off the State Railroad's rails and equipment and left nothing but the right of way and road bed," the report declares that the property still is doing business at the old stand, from Rusk to Palestine.

All of the road's equipment still is on hand, the report avers except a locomotive, and several box and flat cars unfit for interchange service, which were sold.

In reply to asserted charges that the State does not own the new 80-pound rail with which the board has relaid the road, the report attaches a certified copy of a ruling by the Federal Bureau of Good Roads, from whom the rail was procured, showing that the rail is the property of the State of Texas.

The report estimates that $300,000 has been saved to the State during the board's administration, through stoppage of the annual losses which the road was costing the State before board took it over. By the same token it is calculated that $400,000 will have been saved by the time the present operating contract with the Southern Pacific Line expires in November, 1926.

It is asserted that the rehabilitation of the road has increased its value from practically nothing, to $1,000,000.

Recommendation is made that legislation be enacted transferring title to the rail from Texas Highway department to the State Railroad, to facilitate future negotiations for the sale of the road.

The board advises against the State's operation of the road, and recommends its sale at the first advantageous opportunity. The constantly improving physical condition of the property is correspondingly bettering the opportunity of its sale, according to the report.

There originally was appropriated $75,000 for the road's rebuilding, the report says, and no subsequent appropriations have been made. The cost of rebuilding the railroad with the new 80-pound rail was paid by the board out of its own funds. After almost four years' management, the board now has on hand in cash $9,086.60 more than was appropriated for rehabilitating the road, and the property is completely rebuilt and is a first class railroad according to the report signed by Chairman Lynch Davidson and the other two members of the board.

Clean Child's Bowels

"California Fig Syrup" is Dependable Laxative for Sick Children

If your little one is out-of-sorts, won't play, seems sick, languid, not natural—suspect the bowels. A teaspoonful of delicious "California Fig Syrup" given anytime sweetens the stomach and soon moves the sour fermentations, gases, poisons and indigestible matter right out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers depend upon this gentle, harmless laxative. It never cramps or overacts. Contains no narcotics or soothing drugs. Say "California" to your druggist and avoid counterfeits. Insist upon genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages plainly printed on bottle.

Rieck's Goat Coat
Easily Put on—Allows Free
Movement

JAMES PRENTICE SAYS:

Bois d'Arc Ranch, Nov. 21, 1924.
Capt. H. W. Rieck,
Roosevelt, Texas.
Dear Captain Rieck:
I have used your Goat Coats after two shearings, and have found them to give absolute protection during the coldest and heaviest of rains.
My ranch is very brushy, yet the coats
don't seem to get entangled in the brush.
The dread of a "die up" with all goat-men have after shearing, can be entirely removed by having his goats wear these coats for thirty days after shearing.
Yours very truly,
(Signed) James Prentice.

THE TOWN MEETING COMES TO FAIRFAX.

(By J. P. Hoffman in Dearborn Independent.)

The Northville Commercial Club met once a year to elect officers and then carefully tucked in the covers and sleeps peacefully for twelve months.

However, in every community, no matter how isolated, there are some who cling hopelessly to the optimistic hope of a revival of interest in civic welfare.

So in Northville a group of men met recently on their own initiative and appointed a committee to visit the neighboring town of Fairfax to get pointers
on instilling pep into an expiring body politic.

Reasons enough were evident
for choosing Fairfax as the object of study. Fairfax has a State-wide reputation as the town that puts its community celebrations across in Class A style, and that gets first page space in the city press without a murder case as the subject.

Fairfax is the town where the banker's wife plays bridge
with the switchman's spouse, and the only qualification for singing in the choir is ability to sing.

Fairfax has a Chautauqua, a baseball team, golf links, public play grounds, rest rooms and boosters; but it has no Chautauqua Association, no Baseball Association, no Golf Association, no Playground Association and no Boosters' Association. It has the Fairfax Club.

By a fortunate coincidence,
the Northville committee arrived in Fairfax on the regular club meeting night. And the committee promptly got its first enlightening shock.

Instead of holding its meetings in the director's room at the rear of the state bank, the Fairfax Club met in the city auditorium and the s.r.o. sign was hung out at 7:55. The committee got seats in the twenty-second row and wondered if President Coolidge was to be the guest of honor that night.

He wasn't. It was an average meeting lasting one hour
and a quarter and no person talked longer than 3 minutes.

Long before adjournment the members of the Northville committee were sitting perilously near the front edge of their seats with their mouths open and their pulse rate nearing one hundred twenty. Shock followed shock.

Visions of the annual meeting of the Northville Commercial Club rose in their minds to be swept aside by the actual facts of the present meeting.
But there was nothing spectacular. Northville committeemen were the most excited persons in the auditorium.

A few minutes before the meeting adjourned, a gentleman
rose and in a three-minute talk called attention to the fact that next month would mark the semi-centennial of the incorporation of Fairfax as a village,
and he proposed that the event
be celebrated fittingly. The proposal met with favor and President Freeman named Dr. Pilby, Farmer Graham and Editor
Denton as a committee to carry out the wishes of the club. And then the Northville committee received more shocks.

Dr. Pilby did not rise to remark that he was old in years and had traveled every road in the country a thousand times,
and had seen more storks than any other man living, and that his professional practice required
all of his time and energy
day and night, and that, therefore he begged to be excused.
No. He rose and said, "Thank you, Mr. President."

Farmer Graham did not remind the audience that his Shorthorn bull had tossed him
over the fence two years ago and that the bones in his left leg had never been properly assembled and that, as a result, he could not get about well and therefore begged to be excused.
He rose and said, "Thank you,
Mr. President."

Editor Denton did not mention the price of print paper nor the typesetters' strike nor the multifarious duties of a country

editor, nor the lack of appreciation of his editorial efforts. He, too, rose and said, "Thank you,
Mr. President."

The Northville committee came back for the semi-centennial celebration and found that the event did credit to Fairfax and was a benefit to the community. Every one of the numerous visitors was made to feel at home and welcome, and decided to come again. Merchants made new customers and the town new boosters.

When the Northville committee went into conference to set down its observations and formulate conclusions, there was but little difference in opinions.
Facts were self-evident.

Where Uncle Sam counted 3,000 people in Fairfax, he also found 4,000 in Northville.
He also found twenty-one associations in Northville, nineteen churches, fifteen clubs, four locals, and the town on the toboggan.

Every second man in Northville is either the president, or first, second, third or fourth vice-president of something.
Everybody is a colonel or general but nobody is in the ranks.
Everybody is willing to give orders but there is no one left to execute them.

Northville paved a few of its streets last year and, on January first when the taxes fell due,
the collective groans of the taxpayers brought an emergency relief train of nurses from headquarters.

There is no use of Northville kidnaping Freeman—it has Jones. No use talking Pilby, Graham and Denton—it has Medby, Brown and Byit.

But in Northville, when President Jones appoints Medby,
Brown and Byit on a committee
do they rise and say, "Thank you, Mr. President"? They do not. They rise and inquire,
"Who is the chairman?" If Medby is so honored, Brown and Byit resign. If Brown is designated as head, Medby and Byit won't serve. If Byit is chairman, Medby and Brown can't spare the time to act.

Northville has no baseball team because everybody wants to pitch. It has no band because everybody insists on being cornet soloist.

The nineteen ministers generally preach about the heathens of Siam or the lost tribes of Israel because both topics are safe.

Northville has civic anemia,
but civic anemia is a result and not a cause. Civic anemia exists only where public spirit is absent. Northville lacks public spirit, Fairfax has it. That's the difference. That's the essential difference between any I've town and any dead one. And size makes no difference.

THE DEMAGOGUE.

There are persons who constantly clamor. They complain of oppression, speculation, and pernicious influence of accumulated wealth. They cry out loudly against all banks and corporations and all means by which small capitalists become united in order to produce important and beneficial results. They carry on mad hostility against all established institutions. They would choke the fountain of industry and dry all streams. In a country of unbounded liberty,
they clamor against oppression.
In a country of perfect equality,
they would move heaven and earth against privilege and monopoly. In a country where prosperity is more evenly divided than anywhere else they rend
the air shouting about agrarian doctrines. In a country where wages of labor are high beyond parallel, they would teach the laborer that he is but an oppressed slave.

The foregoing might have been written for us today but it wasn't. Daniel Webster uttered it in the U. S. Senate in 1830. It stands as a fair appraisal of all the hollow sounds that issue from perverted soap boxes—sound that put discord in the ear, discontent in the mind and malice in the heart.
A soap box is no sounding board
for harmony.—Fredericksburg Standard.

THIS WEEK'S CROSS WORD PUZZLE.

One of our readers who wants to arrange a cross-word puzzle, asks us to explain more fully what is meant by "no interlocked units." No doubt such explanation will be welcomed by other readers as well.

As an example, this week's puzzle, below, as arranged by Lillian Middleditch, is an excellent design. It will be observed that the black spaces are so arranged in the design that no word or group of words is locked off from the other words or groups of words throughout the puzzle. In other words, the solver of the puzzle may as well start at the lower right hand corner as at the upper left hand corner, or No. 1. An arrangement of this kind permits a wide approach to the correct solution, as there are keys available all over the puzzle.

Miss Middleditch's puzzle is filled with simple words, but still containing enough "twisters" to make its working very interesting. Work it now, then save it until next week when the correct answer will be published.

Horizontal—1. Article. 3. A cough (Prov. Eng.) 5. Extra explanation (abbr.) 7. For some reason. 8. A body of individuals guarded as one. 9. A liquid. 13. To wager. 15. A form of crochet. 16. An epoch. 18. Pronoun. 20. A parent. 21. A hardwood tree. 22. Form of verb "To have." 23. Opposed to left (abbr.) 25. The nominative plural of the second personal pronoun. 26. Girl's name. 28. A lazy, immoral fellow. 30. A falsehood. 32. In the metric system. 34. A dwelling place. 35. Resting on. 37. Form of verb "to be." 38. A subject. 39. Observe.

Vertical—1. Since. 2. Part of the neck. 3. To cut with an axe. 4. Turkey (abbr.) 5. Wharf. 6. A thoroughfare (abbr.) 10. A preposition. 11. A girl's cap. 12. And (Latin). 13. Color. 14. Anything that is spiny. 16. Frame on which artists place pictures. 17. Pertaining to the axis. 19. To consume food. 20. A month of the year. 24. Unless. 27. A minute particle of matter. 28. To have existence. 29. Myself. 31. person loved and honored to adoration. 32. To come together (past) 33. To repent of. 34. An exclamation. 36. Negative.

J. R. Smith, for the past year or more, proprietor of the Suden Service Garage at London, has disposed of his lease to take a course in auto repair work.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Delano returned last week-end from the Rio Grande Valley where they had spent several weeks. They left just before the Holidays and on account of the bad weather remained longer than they had at first intended.

Dr. Luehrs' wife and 12-year-old son arrived last week. As soon as the furniture arrives, the Doctor expects to move to the Knetach residence. They are staying at the Becker Hotel at present.

Answer to last week's Puzzle.

Running Like a Clock!

You have heard it said, "The old boat is running like a clock" and usually it is. However, unless it has been changed regularly, all bolts tightened, adjustments made, and average precaution taken to keep mechanism in first class condition, the car may be even then piling up damages to parts which eventually are going to be expensive.

The automobile owner who realizes the full value on his investment is the owner who brings his car regularly to our garage for inspection and such necessary repairs and adjustments as are necessary. He not only reduces his repair bills to a minimum, but actually saves money during the life of his car.
