Johnson Arrives In South Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson arrived in this strategic Southeast Asian nation today, bringing assurances that the United States will stand by its allies in this part of the world in the face of Communist danger.

The vice president, on a round-the-world mission for President Kennedy, came here for an on-the-spot study of Communist aggression in a guerrilla war in which an estimated 400 to 500 Vietnamese are being killed every month.

Johnson stepped from a chartered jet and took a salute from a sharp-looking honor guard of 400 Vietnamese. Strict security precautions are in force for Johnson's visit.

The vice president read a short statement pledging U.S. support for hard-pressed allies in this part of the world.

CONFERENCE
He is scheduled to hold a two-hour conference Friday morning with pro-Western President Ngo Dinh Diem.

During a stopover on Guam, Johnson said the United States will "stand up for freedom" anywhere in the world and will do all it can to help drive out disease and poverty.

"We believe in freedom not only in the United States, but everywhere," he said.

Johnson made clear the United States will stand by South Viet Nam.

"The United States is proud of the role it has been able to fill in assisting Viet Nam," he said in his airport statement. "My purpose is to explore with your leadership what is required to protect the integrity of Viet Nam and to fulfill the promise of strong foundations for a free society which has been put in place in recent years."

HURT BY REBELS

Beset by an estimated 12,000 Communist rebels, South Viet Nam is the first Asian stop for the vice president in his survey of the growing Red menace in this part of the world.

Johnson reportedly will offer $40 million more in arms aid to enable Diem to boost his 150,000 man army by another 30,000. American aid to South Viet Nam since her 1954 independence has already topped $2 billion, about one-fourth of that military.

During a stopover in Honolulu Johnson disclosed the United States will also set up a central intelligence organization—probably in Saigon—to coordinate all U.S. intelligence in Southeast Asia.

While holding a striking force in readiness, U.S. military authorities in Hawaii told Johnson that American troops should not be sent to South Viet Nam at this time.

CHIEF MISSION

Johnson's chief mission is to find out how the United States can shore up the Southeast Asian countries against Communist infiltration.

President Kennedy reportedly has given his emissary sweeping authority to make suggestions to the heads of states he meets on behalf of the administration.

The vice president's visit aroused enthusiasm among the South Vietnamese. Newspapers cheered him as an "ambassador of freedom" and declared his tour is to show that the United States is a "most reliable ally."

But one Saigon daily, Yuen Tong, warned: "We hope that the U.S. authorities, after getting a concrete idea of the real situation in this area, will no longer hesitate to act. The time is running out for us."

HIGH POINT

Johnson's talks with South Viet Nam's president will be one of the high points of his tour of six Asian countries. President Diem, 60, who took over a shaky, troubled and divided nation in 1954, has emerged as one of the Communists' most formidable Asian foes.

Johnson will remain in Saigon until Saturday morning, then fly to Manila. He will also visit the Nationalist Chinese government on Formosa, Hong Kong, Thailand, India and Pakistan, then return to Washington via Europe.

On the Wake-to-Guam leg of the flight from Honolulu, trouble developed in the hydraulic system of the vice president's Air Force 707 jet. Johnson and his wife were aboard the accompanying press plane at the time, holding an informal news conference.

When ground crews at Guam decided it would take four or five hours to make repairs, the vice president switched the rest of his party to the press plane.

Ike, Former Aides Meet In Gettysburg

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower gathered a score of former Cabinet members and top aides around him today for a discussion of world conditions and ways of strengthening the Republican party.

He was host to former associates of his presidential administration, who came in from all sections of the country.

They met with him in a brick building on the edge of the Gettysburg College campus, in which he now maintains offices.

The meeting was much like one of hundreds of Cabinet meetings that had taken place during Eisenhower's eight years in the White House.

Many of the associates of that period were seated at a U-shaped table, with Eisenhower behind a desk at the open end of the U.

On his right, the former president seated Lewis E. Strauss, who served as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission and as secretary of commerce until his nomination for the latter post was rejected. On Eisenhower's left was Charles E. Wilson, his colorful first secretary of defense.

Republican officials said they expected a statement later by Eisenhower on the results of this unique gathering of officials of a former administration.

VA Hospital Open Friday To Show Volunteer Work

The doors to the Big Spring Veteran's Administration Hospital will be thrown open Friday between 1-4 p.m. for visitors to view volunteers in action, according to V. J. Belda, manager.

"Volunteer Appreciation" is the theme of the hospital's participation in National Hospital Week and tours will be conducted through various areas where volunteers are active. Employees will conduct the tours.

Visitors will be able to compare wards which have been painted by volunteer organizations with some which are still as they once were. In the clinics, volunteers will be on duty to explain the work they do.

Several dayrooms at the hospital have been refurbished by volunteers and volunteer organizations. They will be open for show purposes, Belda said. In addition, numerous comfort and entertainment items donated by volunteers will be pointed out.

The importance of volunteer work at the hospital cannot be over-emphasized, according to Belda. Their value can be partially ascertained from the time which they give. At a recent ceremony, awards were given for up to 2,000 hours of service.

7 Absentee Votes In Senate Election

Only seven absentee ballots have been cast so far in the special U. S. Senatorial election set for May 27.

Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, said little interest is being displayed in the election. She said deadline for absentee voting expires on May 24 and all persons who plan to use this method of casting ballots should do so at once.

Gentiles Helped Jews Escape Nazis

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP)—A heroic tale of Norwegian underground fighters who saved hundreds of Jews from the Nazis was told at the Eichmann trial today by the widow of a rabbi who failed to survive the holocaust.

Henriette Samuel, whose husband had been chief rabbi for Norway's 1,700 Jews, described how the Gestapo launched its drive in 1942 to round up and deport the entire community.

A note of restrained exultation crept into her calm, low voice when she told how the Gentiles in the underground at great peril brought 850 Jews—including herself and her three children—over the border into Sweden.

HCJC Trustees To Meet Today

The monthly meeting of the Howard County Junior College board of trustees is set for 5 p.m. today in the Dora Roberts Student Union Building.

Mostly there are routine matters on the agenda, among them the stabilization of the stadium parking area, delinquent tax collections, selection of a depository, new typewriters for the business department, and the financial reports.

85 Negroes Picked Up In Odessa Rape

ODESSA (AP)—A young white girl who was raped and an intended victim picked a tentative suspect out of a lineup today after police arrested every Negro male between the ages of 17 and 20 they found on the streets.

The victim is a girl, 19, who was attacked while her sister, 15, lay terrified in the same bed.

The girl and a woman, 50, made their identification largely on the suspect's voice. He was masked during both the rape and the attempt, both early Wednesday.

Police Capt. Fred Johnson said, "I don't think it's a hot subject (suspect) personally."

The mass arrest of Negroes began at 3 p.m. Wednesday and ended at 7 a.m. today when three more were brought in.

Johnson said any further arrests will be on a selective basis—of persons fitting the women's descriptions.

Through this morning, police had arrested 85 Negroes, released all but 4—the tentative suspect and the last 3 picked up.

The house trailer where the rape attempt was made on the elder woman is four blocks from the 19-year-old's home. The attempted attack occurred about 1 a.m. and the younger victim was raped about 2:30 a.m.

Johnson said no charges were filed and all the youths arrested were booked for investigation. Some of them had records of rape, he said, and the others were known to police to be either criminals or to have hung around with criminals.

Odessa has a population of 80,000, including several thousand Negroes.

"We have just about all the Negroes of this age bracket and if the one we're looking for isn't here then he is the only one between 17 and 20 who hasn't been picked up," Johnson said.

He said officers had not arrested anyone in their home and added "if we have reason to believe he's in a house we can get the warrant to enter."

"It was a dastardly crime and it could have been worse," Johnson said. "It could have been a murder just as easily. The knife was held at the side of her throat the whole time."

"I don't want to hurt you," the 19-year-old girl quoted her attacker as saying. She said he held a knife to her throat while he forced her to undress and then raped her. Doctors confirmed she had been raped.

The victim's 15-year-old sister said she was awakened by the conversation and saw the knife in the man's hand. She said she pulled the covers over her head and pretended to be asleep until the man left.

Police said the man apparently entered the house through an unlocked door. Three other members of the family were asleep at the time and were not disturbed.

Kennedy Plans 5-Year Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today asked Congress to authorize a five-year program of federal action to combat juvenile delinquency.

Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff estimated the cost for the first year at $10 million.

Along with a special message sent to Congress, Kennedy issued an executive order establishing a special committee on "juvenile delinquency and youth crime," to coordinate federal activities and to seek new ways of fighting juvenile delinquency.

Kennedy named to the committee Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg and Ribicoff.

The attorney general was named committee chairman.

In his message to Congress, the President said there has been an increase in juvenile delinquency in both urban and rural communities.

"Juvenile delinquency and youth offenses," he said, "diminish the strength and the vitality of our nation."

The legislation he proposed would provide federal grants to any state, local or any other public or nonprofit agency for the evaluation and demonstration of techniques in fighting juvenile delinquency.

Federal grants also would be available for training and employment of experts in the field.

The proposed bill also would authorize technical assistance to state and local governments and private agencies for short-term training and instruction in technical matters related to the prevention and control of juvenile delinquency.

The President also announced the appointment of David L. Hackett as executive director of the Committee on Juvenile Delinquency and Youth Crime, effective immediately.

Hackett, 34, was a member of the U.S. Olympic hockey team in 1948 and 1952. During the presidential campaign he was director of correspondence in Kennedy's campaign team. He was president of a Montreal publishing firm.

Kennedy proposed a five-year program of action starting next July 1, the beginning of a new fiscal year.

Kennedy had said in his State of the Union message that the problem of juvenile delinquency demands "improved law enforcement and new legislative safeguards."

He also noted in his second news conference, however, that "this is a matter which goes to the responsibility of the private citizen."

The federal government cannot protect the standards of young boys and girls," he said. "The parents have to do it, in the first place. We (the government) can play only a very supplementary role and a marginal role."

On March 6, Kennedy asked Congress to give the Justice Department an extra $1.6 million to step up its drive against organized crime and racketeering and to intensify the fight on juvenile delinquency.

The White House said emphasis would be placed on vocational training, counseling and job placement for youthful offenders about to be released from federal institutions.

Senate Drones Through List Of Local Bills

AUSTIN (AP)—The Senate droned through a local and uncontested calendar of 31 Senate bills in about 40 minutes today, then turned to 73 House bills up for final action.

The House adopted a resolution letting both houses take up the Senate redistricting bill at any time.

Representatives battled most of the morning on a bill setting up stiffer educational requirements for candidates for certified public accountant examinations.

Sen. Frank Owen III, acting as president of the Senate, whipped through the calendar, taking a bill from second reading to final passage in about a minute or less.

Among the bills passed and sent to the House were measures: Providing teachers shall not be required to engage, or prohibited from engaging, in political activities during their off hours.

Authorizing independent school districts to borrow money for current maintenance expenses.

Authorizing certain counties and cities to build jails for their joint use.

The House passed on voice vote a Senate-approved bill raising education requirements for certified public accountants and raising state registration fees to $10 annually. The measure goes back to the Senate with amendments.

Rep. Maco Stewart of Galveston got permission from the House to introduce a bill arising from the recent Splash Day riots at Galveston beach. Stewart said his bill would provide that parents could be held financially responsible up to $1,000 in civil action over damage caused by their children—either individually or in the riot-type situation.

There was a possibility that Rep. Tony Koriotti of Sherman would push for final action in his bill (HB28) setting the maximum unemployment compensation at $31 a week for 30 weeks. The present ceilings are $28 and 26 weeks.

The Senate Jurisprudence Committee sent to the floor with a favorable report a bill rapped as an effort to keep up the price of beer. The bill (HB21) would require an out-of-state brewer to pay a $500 license fee to be able to sell his products in Texas. Beer manufacturers in Texas pay a $250 state license charge, a $250 county fee and $250 city fees.

West Is Ready For Laos Parley

GENEVA (AP)—The Big Three Western powers were reported ready to take their seats Friday in a conference about the future of Laos, basing the decision on word received in London today that organized fighting has ceased in the jungle kingdom.

There was no official confirmation from the United States, Britain and France that they had dropped earlier reservations to participating in the conference if a cease-fire was not certified.

But sources close to the Western delegations said that, in view of the London news from Laos, they probably would agree to sit down at the conference table with their Eastern opposites.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and President Kennedy's roving ambassador, W. Averell Harriman, already are in Geneva. So is Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. Red China's foreign minister, Chen Yi, arrived this afternoon.

Lord Home of Britain and Maurice Couve de Murville of France were due later in the day and were reported planning to meet with Rusk to express official willingness of the three to take part in the conference.

A Foreign Office spokesman in London said an assurance that organized fighting had stopped arrived there from the Polish-Indian-Canadian control commission.

The commission's job is to certify and supervise the truce ordered between Laotian government and Communist-neutralist rebels May 5.

In making his announcement, the British spokesman cited communications are very bad, and it may be that sporadic outbursts of fighting will still occur," the Briton said.

"With the fighting lines unstable, groups on both sides were left isolated from the main armies at the time of the cease-fire order May 5 and may still be involved in minor clashes."

In Vietnamese, however, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan told the pro-Western Cabinet that pro-Communist rebel artillery was still pounding his troops' positions in the Tha Thom area.

Nosavan, who is the military strong man of Premier Boun Oum's regime, said that, as a result, the government's 11-man delegation would stay out of the Geneva conference until the cease-fire was verified and probably would not leave for Switzerland for several days. Phoumi heads the delegation.

W. Averell Harriman, President Kennedy's ambassador at large, arrived in Geneva with a prediction that the awaited official news will be coming along soon. He cited the presence of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, who heads up the Communist side of the conference, to which 14 nations were invited.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, arriving Wednesday night, said he would take part in the conference "only if information from Laos permits it." Harriman is to replace Rusk as head of the U.S. delegation when the secretary returns to Washington, perhaps next week.

TB And Hitler In Medical News

By The Associated Press
Hope for the yearning childless, a different viewpoint on the best treatment for tuberculosis and a new toll for the blind figure in medical news, along with a psychoanalysis of Adolf Hitler.

Hope
Can a childless couple still have hope after the woman passes her 50th birthday?

Medical statistics covering 30 million live births in the 1949-1958 decade show the birth of a first child to a woman over 50 occurs slightly more often than the birth of quadruplets to women of all childbearing ages.

Women 40-44 in New York City are three times as likely to give birth to a live child as they are to suffer death in an accident. The live birth to a woman 45-49 years old is more frequent than the birth of triplets.

The incidence of twins and triplets to mothers over 40 appears to be the same as the average for the entire childbearing age.

Electronic Cane

Two researchers have developed an electronic cane for the blind.

The device, which is being field tested, can be carried like a small brief case. It shoots out pulses of infrared light. When the beam strikes an object up to 10 feet away, it is reflected back to a photoelectric cell in the cane and triggers a buzzer.

The user then can press a button which cuts the range of the beam to five feet. This gives a rough estimate of the distance of the object.

The instrument was designed by J. Malvern Benjamin Jr., an engineer for Biophysical Electronics, Inc., New Hope, Pa., and T. A. Benham, a physicist at Haverford College.

Bed Rest For TB?

Some doctors in London question the advisability of strict bed rest for pulmonary tuberculosis patients receiving antituberculous drugs.

A report on 62 London TB patients treated with such drugs was carried in "What's New," a publication of Abbott Laboratories.

Some of the patients were put in bed to stay. The others remained in bed only if they felt ill. They were allowed to do what they wished, short of becoming breathless or fatigued.

The groups were assessed after six months and one year. No difference was found in the rate of recovery. Patients in the rest group were off work twice as long as those in the unrestricted group.

The doctors who conducted the tests said long periods of bed rest should not be prescribed until proof of its value in treatment is shown.

Hitler Analyzed

A New York psychiatrist who made a detailed study of the behavior of Adolf Hitler has coined a new name for his mental classification—psychotic character.

Dr. Norbert Brunberg of the Albert Einstein College of Medicine said: "Hitler manifested such accurate perception and skillful manipulation of political and group psychological realities that he achieved great successes, earning him the designation, political genius."

"On the other hand, he revealed psychotic features such as irrational hates and paranoid ideas. It would therefore seem that he belonged to a group of borderline cases that includes individuals who are neither totally and irreversibly psychotic, nor always and in all respects functioning relatively normal."

He said cases of this kind can be classified as psychotic character.

'Liberal' Red Attacks Tactics Against Church

WARSAW (AP) — Some of the basic theories and tactics in communism's fight against religion are being publicly disputed by Leszek Kolakowski, outspoken leader of Poland's "liberal" Communist philosophers.

Writing in the weekly Argument, Kolakowski makes his bitter attack on Communist thinking since his harsh anti-Stalin criticism in 1957.

"It is not true," Kolakowski wrote, "that religion survives simply because of ignorance and backwardness in a civilization and that with increased urbanization and spreading of education it will wither away by itself."

He complained that Poland's Reds, to combat religion, are distributing atheistic propaganda of "astounding stupidity."

Catholicism when opposed politically "in certain respects grows in strength," Kolakowski continued. "It creates considerably better intellectuals and a considerably more valuable cultural production."

Communist authorities "in a way, did the church a favor" when they deprived the clergy of its wealth and political influence, he said, because the church is associated with privileged classes no longer holds water.

Faculty Asks Desegregation

AUSTIN (AP)—The general faculty of the University of Texas has adopted a resolution calling for campus racial desegregation "with all deliberate speed."

The faculty vote was 46 - 25 for the resolution which was aimed at admitting Negro students to extracurricular activities at the university, the largest institution of higher education in the South. Classes already are integrated.

"A great university is not limited to formal instruction," said assistant sociology professor Dr. Richard Colvard, in submitting the measure. "but includes dormitory bull sessions, the playing field and the concert hall."

Some dormitories for men at the school are integrated. No women's dormitories are integrated. Negroes are barred from participation in intercollegiate athletics and several years ago a Negro student was removed from the lead of a stage production.

She was playing opposite a white male student in a romantic opera.

Dr. Colvard said a university is a place where "scholars, teachers and students seek together for truth and the meaning of truth."

Professor Phil Ferguson of civil engineering said he was against the resolution simply because he believes the university is desegregating "as fast as the university and the community are ready to accommodate."

The director of the school of journalism, Dr. DeWitt C. Reddick said he agreed with Ferguson but that he felt it was time to show faculty approval for desegregation.

FAITH AND WORKS

By T. R. Parke, preacher
Church of Christ, 3704 Highway 38
P. O. Box 1382

Of Rahab's escape (Josh. 2 and 6) it is said in one place that she was saved by faith, and in another place, by works.

"By faith the harlot Rahab perished not with them that believed not, when she had received the spies with peace." Heb. 11:31.

We see here her salvation is attributed to faith; but not faith alone. It was not the moment she believed. It was "when she had received the spies with peace." Now let us notice James 2:25.

"Likewise also was not Rahab the harlot justified by works, when she had received the messengers."

So, her salvation is contributed to both faith and works. So is our salvation from sin. Salvation is impossible apart from faith (Heb. 11:6; Rom. 5:1, etc.). Yet our souls are purified "in obeying the truth" (Jas. 1:22; II Thess. 1:8; Heb. 5:9). We are saved by the works of obedience; not the works of merit.

Welcome to our mid-week preaching service tonight at 7:30. —adv.

Humble Announces A New Product Name Of 'Enco'

Humble Oil & Refining Company today is unveiling its new Enco trademark to motorists of Texas and the Southwest. Announcement of the new brand name was made last week.

Enco comes from the company's slogan, "America's Leading Energy Company," adopted after the merger last year of domestic affiliates of Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) into the new Humble Oil & Refining Company.

The new trademark will identify Humble gasolines, motor oils and other products throughout the West, Middle West and Southwest. Except in Texas, Enco will also be used in the oval sign identifying service stations selling Humble products. In Texas, service stations will continue to be identified by an oval Humble sign.

By replacing 12 different brand names and four different service station identification signs established before the merger, Enco is expected to end a confusion of brand names among the company's customers as they travel from state to state.

Wife Slashed In Courtroom

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—A Negro slashed his wife's throat and stabbed her twice in the back with a butcher knife in a crowded courtroom.

Police said they are holding William R. McFadden, 33, on a contempt of court charge pending investigation of the stabbing.

McFadden was in court Wednesday on a charge of attempting to kill his common-law wife, Earlene Johnson, 22, with a screwdriver Saturday night.

He sat behind her, witnesses said, and attempted to persuade her to drop the charges.

When she refused, McFadden whipped out a six-inch butcher knife, slashed her throat and then stabbed her twice in the back. She was reported in fair condition at a St. Petersburg hospital.

County Still Looking For Food Building

Howard County Commissioners Court is continuing its search for a suitable warehouse in which to set up operation of the surplus commodity program for Howard County.

Ed Carpenter, county judge, said that one building, located on the north side near to the Lamesa highway has been found which may fit the needs of the program.

The commissioners found many available buildings but location of some made them unsuitable and the rental was too high on many others.

The commissioners propose to go ahead with plans to activate the program even though the city has announced it will have no part in the enterprise. Apparently the county has no intention of waiting to see if the city has any warehouse building it would make available. A. K. Steinheimer, city manager, told the court that he would "look into the availability of buildings."

Mrs. Ruby Phillips, county welfare officer, is compiling a list of the families in the county who will be eligible to participate in the program. The list is being made up, she said, from the files in her office. ## Rivals Put Stress On Conservatism

By MARSHALL COMERER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Rival candidates for the U.S. Senate in the May 27 run-off election are underlining their conservatism.

Sen. William A. Blakley told a rally in Victoria Wednesday night: "I am a Democrat and have always been a Democrat, but I am a conservative too."

"I am a conservative because I want to conserve the things that have made this great state what it is and the things that have made the Democratic party great."

"I have only one boss and one mandate and that is the people of Texas."

He said that John G. Tower, his Republican opponent, has claimed he is the most conservative candidate but he said Tower has not explained in what way he is most conservative.

Tower told a luncheon meeting of the Dallas Junior Chamber of Commerce Wednesday that Blakley is what he called an inconsistent New Frontier conservative.

He said that Blakley had supported President Kennedy in the general election last November and asked "where was Bill Blakley when the Democratic platform was being drawn?"

Tower recalled that he had fought liberal planks in the Republican platform at the Chicago convention.

He said a Republican victory would "serve notice that the people are cognizant of the social manifestations of the New Frontier and are going to fight it."

A true conservative, he said, is not a mossbacked stick-in-the-mud who wants to go back to the horse and buggy days.

"If we are going to turn the tide against socialism, we must elect men who will vote their conscience and not for political expediency," he said.

After his speech, Tower was asked in a question from the audience why he was accepting the personal aid of U.S. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., in his campaign instead of that of former Vice President Richard Nixon.

Tower replied that he and Goldwater were "like-minded people" and that Goldwater was the recognized leader of conservatism regardless of party.

He said he believed Nixon would be more effective as an administration critic on the national level without engaging in a Texas campaign.

Blakley campaigned Wednesday in Freeport, Lake Jackson, Angleton, Bay City, Wharton, El Campo, Ganado and Edna before going to Victoria. At Freeport, he shook hands with workers leaving the big Dow Chemical Co. plant.

Sen. Blakley To Start Caravan From Big Spring

Senator William A. Blakley will start a 100-mile motorcade through West Texas from Big Spring Friday with hand-shaking stops at most of the cities between here and Abilene.

The candidate's tour of West Texas will begin at San Angelo, where he will arrive early in the morning by plane. Hosts there have planned a noon luncheon and their report Congressman Jim Wright will be on hand.

Rep. Wright, who ran second on the ticket in Howard County and third in the state in the first round, will accompany the senator here and on the entire caravan trip.

Blakley, serving an interim appointment in the U. S. Senate, is campaigning against John Tower, GOP candidate who was in Big Spring earlier this week. The pair topped the special election ticket that had about 70 candidates in the race. They will settle the issue finally in a May 27 special runoff election.

A reception to which everyone is invited, will be held at 2:30 p.m. in Room No. 1 at the Settles.

From San Angelo, Blakley will fly to Big Spring, expected here about 2:30 p.m. A local delegation, including Mrs. Martin Binder, Frank Hardesty and Douglas

Firemen Whip Rural Blaze

Three grass fires and an oil separator fire kept the Big Spring fire department on the run from 4:05 p.m. Wednesday until 6:15 a.m. and after Thursday.

The oil separator fire, early Thursday, was three miles east of Foran on the Fred Hyer-Clay B lease. The attendants told firemen that when he awoke the whole separator was on fire. The cause was not immediately determined, but a leaky valve was given as the probable cause. Damage was said to be minor. Hyer praised the speed and effectiveness of the fire unit from Central Station in making the 20-mile run.

Three grass fires were extinguished. The first at 4:05 p.m. Wednesday at 18th and Donley, was caused by children playing with matches. Two other grass fires, at 1200 E. 2nd, and at 2nd and Union, were extinguished, but the causes were not known.

County Pays For ROW

Howard County Commissioners Court has instructed the payment of $7,370 to Truman Jones and associates for .84 acre of land which the city of Big Spring bought from the owners as a part of West FM 700 right-of-way.

At the same meeting, the county commissioners adopted a resolution asserting that the county would buy no more FM 700 right-of-way for any land which may be bought until such time as the State Highway Department has definitely designated the route the road is to follow.

The city negotiated the purchase of the .84 acre of land but the payment for the land comes out of funds provided by a bond issue voted by the county.

Second Dog Warden Hired

A second animal warden was put on the job Wednesday by the police department in order to have a man on duty from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. The first warden will be on duty from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m., and the second from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m.

"There are so many calls coming in that one man cannot possibly handle them," Chief Jay Banks said. "It takes a man some time to do his work at the pound, and in most instances, dogs can disappear by the time he can answer the call. With two men we can do some patrolling and locate some loose and stray dogs on our own, and at the same time answer calls more promptly."

The new employee, who will serve temporarily through the rush season, is Sam Fuller.

Banks urged owners to keep a close watch on their animals and not to let them run loose or make nuisances, as they will be picked up.

"At this time of year we have to be extra cautious to prevent an outbreak of rabies, and owners can be a big help by keeping a close watch on their animals," he said.

Martinez Pays $200 Fine After Jury Reduces Charge

Gilbert Martinez, indicted for assault with intent to commit murder, was found guilty of aggravated assault by a 12th District Court jury at 1 a.m. Thursday. His punishment was fixed at a fine of $200.

The jury, which had deliberated the case for about four hours, evidently believed the defense contention that Martinez made no effort to hit Ruben Torres, the victim in the case, when he fired five shots on April 5.

The gunplay climaxed nearly three years of ill-feeling between the two Latin-Americans. They had engaged in several fights, over the period the feud had prevailed, Martinez testified. The cause of the disagreement was a woman, he said.

He recited that on the occasion when the gun was used, he fired two shots in the ground and three in the air as Torres fled the scene. Defense witnesses testified that Martinez was an expert shot with a pistol and could have hit the victim easily had he intended to do so.

Martinez paid off the fine immediately and was released from further custody.

Fred B. Connell, charged with DWI second offense, pleaded guilty on Wednesday afternoon to the charge against him. Judge Ralph Caton sentenced him to serve 60 days in the county jail.

Light Crowd Attends Study

An unimpressive attendance marked the second and final session of a citizen's study of the University of Texas held Wednesday night at the Howard County Junior College.

The first session held a week ago drew 10 local businessmen and last night's session had nine attending. About 50 persons representing a cross-section of leading Big Spring businessmen were invited to attend the study.

Ed C. Gullion, director of the study, represented the university at the session. He was unable to attend the first session when his plane was grounded in Austin.

"Most of the men were interested in financing of our public educational institutions, especially for their area," according to Ben F. Johnson Jr., academic dean at Howard County Junior College.

He pointed out that funds seemed to be available for housing if that were needed, but that one of the major problems facing our public education system is paying an adequate salary to attract quality teachers.

Although attendance was small for both sessions, Gullion pointed out that more concrete benefits would be gained from questionnaires the men were asked to fill out. Each person invited was given a booklet outlining future plans of the university as it fits into the system of public education in the state.

The study here was one of several being conducted throughout the state.

Sgt. McKee and his wife, Frances, are from Greenville, Miss. Their daughter, Irene, is attending Mississippi State College. They live at 186B Turner, Webb Village, with their son John Jr., age 3.

12 Sarah Hyman, pumped 18.52 barrels of 29.3 gravity oil with 81 per cent water on initial potential in the Howard-Glasscock field. Another Side To Soliciting

To the Editor:

A few weeks ago you printed a letter from a lady about all the telephone soliciting going on here in Big Spring. While I agree with her, there is far too much of it here, I have a complaint of my own to women who are called. I, like a few more women, have taken a job delivering coupon books to make extra money to help out at home. We use our family cars and pay for our own gasoline. We get a small fee for each book delivered, but we do not get paid when the purchaser decides she doesn't want the book after telling the solicitor to send the book out. Frequently they are not at home, or maybe don't have the money, so come back tomorrow. When it is taken back, perhaps several times, she decides she doesn't want it. I took one back four times and the lady decided not to take it. It would be very easy for these to say in the first place that they did not want to buy, but those who do ought to be at home and ready to accept delivery. Otherwise, those of us who have to call back several times without results end up paying for the privilege of working rather than being able to help.

Rearing Blind, Deaf Child Own Reward, Woman Finds

By LEONARD VICTOR
Long Island Daily Press Writer
 BALDWIN, N.Y. (AP) — Deaf and blind — locked away from sight and sound—the frail 7-year-old boy was a wild animal in diapers when they took him to Justice Purvis.
 "My son couldn't talk, weighed just 25 pounds and had to be fed from a bottle when I got him," she said.
 "There was no way to ask or tell him anything."
 How do you teach a little boy who can't see, hear — and who hasn't learned to talk—even the simplest things like using the bathroom?
 Justice Purvis found out.
 There are four rules for the wonderful people like her who serve as foster parents: Wash the child, feed it, dress it and—most important—love it!
 To these Mrs. Purvis added a fifth rule: Become a specialist in the child's affliction, learn the treatment and work hard at applying it.
 She researched the treatment and teaching of the blind-deaf, from the rescue of Helen Keller to today's most modern methods. She's still studying, learning, searching for new material even though her four years of endless labor with her blind-deaf boy have produced dramatic results.
 Today, "her boy" is at the Perkins Institute in Massachusetts, a good student who is making tremendous progress at the famous school for the blind.
 "Now, when he's home on holidays and for the summer, he dresses and feeds himself, reads my lips with his fingers, gets around the house and plays in the yard," she said in her gentle voice.
 The miracle she created with that boy is only one of the reasons she's been chosen by the Nassau County (N.Y.) Family Service Association as the county's first "Foster Mother of the Year."

Gets 99 Years For Rape Attempt

FORT WORTH (AP)—A jury convicted and sentenced Curtis Priest Jr., 34, the maximum sentence of 99 years for the attempted rape of a pretty, 19-year-old secretary in a church April 12.
 Priest, who admitted attacks on other women, assaulted the secretary in the basement of the South Side church where she works. The victim was rescued by the church custodian, Ben Collier, 64, a Negro, who heard her cries.

and her husband until his death — were always willing to take those foster children with extreme handicaps—the ones no one else wanted.
 Twenty-two lucky children have come to the Purvis home in the past 25 years.
 Nearly all had the emotional problems caused by the upsets and rejections that made them foster children. Many had physical handicaps.
 Many of her boys and girls—she calls all of them "her children" just like her own five girls—are grown now. They all come home regularly to "mother."
 Mrs. Purvis has a total of 19 grandchildren now, and she won't say how many are her two married daughters' and how many her foster daughters'.
 She has this advice for other foster parents:
 "Don't slap. Look below the surface and find out what's troubling youngsters. Never forget that when they came to you they were bitter, resentful, rejected.
 Stand still and let them run around you. Put your motor in second gear and keep it there.
 Never take away a child's treasures. Respect his junk!
 "And above all, love them, love them, love them.
 "There's no child you can't help with love."

RIGHT HOUSE IS FOUND

MIAMI, FLA. (AP)—The tax assessors office admitted Charles E. Shawver had a point in protesting a $3,200 assessment for a house on his wife's Hialeah Heights lot.
 There's no house there.
 Officials found the house—right where it has always been—on a neighbor's lot. So they moved the assessment next door to the property of V. D. Dugger.

Franchise Taxes Slice Deficit

AUSTIN (AP)—May 1 franchise tax payments cut more than $30 million from the general revenue fund deficit, the state treasurer reports.
 The deficit was $99,985,073 April 24, the last time the treasurer sent out a call for checks written on the fund. At the close of business Wednesday it was $69,641,535, just shy of the $63 million figure predicted for Aug. 31 when the state closes its books on 1961.
 State Treasurer Jesse James notified banks to send in for payment general revenue warrants through No. 221,237, dated Jan. 13. The call includes checks totaling $36,483,868.
 Revenue into the fund since April 24 totaled $30,508,733. Drafts from general revenue totaled $0,163,576.

300 Expected To Attend Boy Scout Camporee Here

Some 300 Scouts in the Lone Star District, including Howard, Glasscock and Sterling counties, are expected at the Spring Camporee at the Jamboree Grounds south of Big Spring this weekend. The boys will begin gathering at the grounds after school Friday and the camporee will close at 5 p.m. Saturday.
 Bill McRee, Scout executive, said the plans seem to be going well, under the general chairmanship of Dr. Clyde Thomas, and early indications are that the camp will be well attended. D. D. Johnston is in charge of plans and physical arrangements. Frosty Robertson and Carl Campbell are also working in other capacities for the camporee.
 "We have no way of actually knowing how many boys will be present," McRee said, "but two troops from Glasscock County, one from Sterling City, along with Coahoma, Sand Springs and Big Spring troops, the attendance should be good. We will have no advanced registration."
 The obstacle course will be set up Saturday afternoon and the physical fitness tests in which boys participate will get their attention. The camp fire stunts Saturday, night will also get lots of attention.
 The contests, set up for Saturday afternoon, generally will deal with 10 events on which the boys will be judged. These will be use of the compass, fire building with flint and steel, knots, map making, tent pitching, observation, nature study, Scout Law relay, signalling and others.
 Saturday morning the activities will include mostly cleaning up, camp inspection and demonstrations of Scouting skills.

Rituals Read For Sorority Group

Rituals for pledge and the jeweled pin were given at a dinner of Mu Kappa Chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority Wednesday evening at Cosden Country Club.

Members met in the Blue Room where Mrs. Roy McMullen read the pledge ceremony for Mrs. Bernie Cole and Mrs. Seth Macy. The jeweled pin ritual was given Sue Smart.

Tables for the dinner were decorated in the traditional colors, blue and yellow, of the sorority. Mrs. Roy Gammon was in charge of arrangements for the affair.

ROUND TOWN

With LUCILLE PICKLE

When the faculty of Cedar Crest School met for a social hour at the FLOYD PARSONS home Wednesday afternoon, the group presented their principal, MRS. H. H. RUTHERFORD, with a very special gift. It was a porcelain figurine fashioned after Gainsborough's famous painting of "Pinkie." The thing that makes it so special is that it was painted and processed by one of the faculty members, MRS. V. L. PERKINS, who also has a figurine of "Blue Boy" among many works of porcelain she has finished.

HAROLD HAYNIE, president of the graduating class of 1952 of Big Spring High, is anxious to have a reunion of his class and has asked local members to attempt to get all the names and addresses possible. Haynie lives at 203 Zephyr in Plainview and has contacted most of the class officers. Locally MRS. ROY J. HESTER, Box 1454, AM 4-2014, and MRS. BOB SIMPSON, AM 4-5475, are working to get the names of feminine members of the class who have married. They have asked that parents of members call them information they have on the addresses of these class members if they have married or live out of the city. Questionnaires have been printed and will be sent to the class members when the names and addresses are received. The president would like to know when the majority would like to have a reunion.

MRS. L. M. GERSTNER and her sons, Paul, Danny and Vern Allen, are here for a month from their home in Warrensburg, Mo., while Sgt. Gerstner is receiving a treatment on his eyes in the Scott

AFB Hospital in St. Louis, Mo. Mrs. Gerstner, the former Mary Beth Jenkins, will be at the home of her parents, MR. AND MRS. L. D. JENKINS.

Sunday the Jenkins family had a small size family reunion when the JAMES L. JENKINS and their children, Jerry Ray and Tamara Lynn, came over from Andrews. The Paul Jenkins family, who lives here, joined them for the day.

BPO Does Plan Help For Welfare

Donations to two agencies were made Wednesday evening by BPODoes at the meeting in the Elks Hall. Grand Lodge Student Loan Fund will receive five dollars; $10.00 will go to the Crippled Children's Fund.

Plans were made for a mother-daughter supper to be held during the period after May 15; date and place are to be announced.

Butternut Squash

Butternut squash is available all year round so take advantage of this good vegetable. Pare the squash, halve it and remove seeds and stringy portion in the bulbous end. Dice and cook in a small amount of salted water just until tender. Season with butter and a suspicion of nutmeg or mace.

Williamsses To Mark Silver Anniversary

An open house will be held from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m., Sunday at 1005 N. Gregg honoring Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Williams for their 25th wedding anniversary which will be May 18.

All friends of the Williamsses are invited to attend. Hostesses will be Mrs. Jesse McElreath of Lubbock and Clydette, daughters; Bonita and Donna Croft of Fort Worth; Carolyn Key of Eastland and Mrs. Noble Welch.

Following the silver anniversary tradition, a floral arrangement tied with silver ribbon will decorate the table, which will be covered with a lace cloth over pale green.

Out of town guests are expected to attend from Fort Worth, Dallas, Cisco, Eastland, Rising Star, Lamesa, Lubbock, Post, Floydada, Midland, Monahans, Santa Ana, Calif., and Hollywood, N.M.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams met at a Baptist revival in the community of Nimrod, near Cisco. They were married after a courtship of a year on May 18, 1936, by the Rev. G. W. Thomas of Ranger. The couple made their home in Ranger for three months and then moved to Cisco where they lived for three years on a ranch. From Cisco the couple moved to Grandfalls where he was employed with an oil company.

In 1941 their first child, Darlene, now Mrs. McElreath, was born. Clydette, a ninth grade student at Rannels Junior High School, was born in 1945. The Williamsses moved to Big Spring in 1949 from Monahans.

Williams is assistant manager of Phillips 66 Truck Terminal and his wife is a sales clerk for the C. R. Anthony Company. They are members of Westside Baptist Church.

Mother Can Rest Sunday When Family Takes Over Her Chores

The tables will be turned Sunday and an industrious mother can take a rest for a change while her children and husband do the chores. Mrs. J. W. Dickens, 624 McEwen, will deserve a rest from her busy schedule as mother, housewife and clubwoman.

Other than caring for two vivacious sons, Pink, 8, and Wayne, 5, cooking and cleaning, Mrs. Dickens is an officer in practically every club she has joined. These include the Spoolado Fara, Epistol Sigma Alpha, Parent-Teacher's Association and the Planters Garden Club. She also teaches a Sunday School class at the First Methodist Church.

The fact that Mrs. Dickens holds three college degrees, all earned in a four year period, is further proof of her industriousness. At Texas Woman's University she received a BA, BS and a masters degree with majors in foreign language and business.

If the kids and dad prepare Sunday's meal, you can bet they will make an Angel Delight Salad, one of mother's favorites and simple enough for the men to make.

ANGEL DELIGHT

The boys can make most of this by themselves, but dad will be handy for assistance and advice.

- 1 box or pkg. cream cheese (creamed)
- 1 cup crushed pineapple
- 1 box marshmallows, quartered
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 1/2 cup pecans
- Dash salt
- 1 cup whipped cream, folded.

Chill the salad and serve on lettuce.

Just about anybody can fix baked beans, if they can open the pork and beans can. Dad may be called on to open the can, but the rest can be left up to the boys, including eating the finished product. Eight-year-old Pink can cut-out his father when it comes to Savory Baked Beans.

SAVORY BAKED BEANS

With her busy schedule, Mrs. Dickens likes this simple recipe because it takes a short time to

Early Gift

Wayne admires the gift his older brother, Pink, has made for their mother, Mrs. J. W. Dickens, 624 McEwen. Like many other mothers, Mrs. Dickens hopes to take it easy Sunday and let dad and the kids do the work.

prepare and it is the children's favorite.

- 1 16 or 18 oz. can pork and beans
- 2 tbsp. brown sugar
- 1/4 tsp. dry mustard
- 1/4 cup catsup
- 2 slices bacon, cut in 1 inch pieces.

Combine ingredients, bake covered in a greased casserole in moderate oven at 350 degrees for approximately 30 minutes. Serves four.

Well now, Mother's Day just wouldn't be complete without something along the candy line and Mrs. Dickens' boys know just what to make, graham cracker cookies.

GRAHAM CRACKER COOKIES

According to Mrs. Dickens, these taste more like caramel candy than they do cookies.

- 1 cup evaporated milk
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 stick margarine

Bring to a boil and cook 5 minutes. Add 2 cups crushed graham crackers and 1 cup nuts. Drop on wax paper. Takes approximately 15 minutes.

Following all these instructions, dad and the boys can't help but make Mrs. Dickens' day, the first one spent at home by the family, enjoyable. Of course, Mrs. Dickens must be wise to do the cooking if she wants a really enjoyable Mother's Day.

West Coast Cafe Inspires Recipe

Inspired by a famous West Coast restaurant's way with vegetables.

CALIFORNIA BROCCOLI

- 1 bunch (about 1 1/2 lbs.) broccoli
- 4 strips bacon
- 1 medium onion and 1 clove garlic (put through fine knife of food chopper)
- 2 tbsps. butter or margarine
- 2 tbsps. flour
- 1 cup milk
- Salt and pepper

Wash and trim broccoli; divide any large stalks lengthwise so all stalks will be of even size. Cook, covered, in small amount of boiling salted water until tender-crisp; remove bacon leaving drippings in skillet. Put cooked broccoli and bacon through food chopper.

Add chopped onion and garlic to bacon drippings in skillet and saute; remove mixture with slotted spoon and add to broccoli-bacon. (Discard bacon drippings.)

In a saucepan melt butter over low heat; stir in flour. Add milk; cook and stir constantly over low heat until thickened. Add broccoli mixture and salt and pepper to taste; bring to a slow boil. Makes 4 servings.

Early Cookbook

From an early American cookbook: "Few people know how to keep the flavor of sweet margarine; the best of all herbs for broth, and stuffing. It should be gathered in bud or blossom, and dried in a tin-kitchen at a moderate distance from the fire; when dry it should be immediately rubbed, sifted, and corked up in a bottle carefully."

Chocolate Pudding, Delicious Dessert

There are few desserts more delicious or more certain of success than a light, delightful steamed pudding. Here is a steamed pudding with the deep, dark chocolate flavor that only unsweetened chocolate gives, and a melt-in-the-mouth delicacy of texture.

Serve it warm with a fluffy sauce or hard sauce. Practical as well as pretty, this pudding may also be held over for a day or so... it's almost as good served cold as warm.

STEAMED CHOCOLATE PUDDING

- 1/2 cup butter
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 tbsps. double-acting baking powder
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1-3 cup milk
- 1 or 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
- 1/4 cup light raisins, optional
- 1/4 cup chopped pecans, optional

Fluffy Sauce
Soften butter, add sugar and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and vanilla. Beat until well blended. Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt.

Add alternately with milk, to butter mixture. Beat until well blended. Then add melted chocolate and blend well. Fold in raisins and pecans.

Spoon batter into glass baking cups, filling about two-thirds full. Cover lightly with aluminum foil and steam in a steamer about 30 minutes. (Or use a large saucepan or roasting pan and place cups on a rack in about 1/2 to 1 inch

FANCY SPRING CHOPS

Pork Chops With A Touch Of Spring

Double thick pork chops stuffed with a savory blue cheese dressing might become an entree you will rely on often this spring for company dinners. With pork attractively priced in most markets, it's possible once again to prepare one generously sized, juicy chop per person.

A special stuffing of crumbled blue cheese, mushrooms, and a hint of onion tossed with bread crumbs transforms pork chops into a gourmet food fit for the most discriminating guests. Though only a relatively small amount of the blue-marbled cheese is required, its delicate pungency lends the final taste of elegance to the popular meat.

For a special meal, buy one chop per person and have it cut 1 to 1 1/2 inches thick with a pocket slit in the side. Then prepare this well seasoned dressing:

BLUE CHEESE STUFFED PORK CHOPS

- 6 double thick pork loin chops, with pockets cut
- 3 tbsps. butter
- 1 tsp. minced onion
- 1/4 cup finely sliced mushrooms
- 1/4 cup crumbled blue cheese, (about 3 ounces)
- 1/4 cup fine dry bread crumbs
- Dash salt

Melt butter in skillet. Add onion and mushrooms. Cook 5 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in blue cheese, bread crumbs and fleck of salt. Stuff pockets in each chop with dressing. Secure with picks. Bake at 325 degrees for one hour or until meat is nicely browned and cooked through.

Peanut Butter Is Popular Dish

Peanut butter and bread together are a universal favorite. They are also among the items most likely to be found in the average kitchen cupboard, since they are a flavor combination and nutrition story which can't be beaten.

Combined with other kitchen cupboard items, they help insure the popularity of summer picnic sandwiches.

Among the most wanted are these easy-to-put-together pairs and trios: Peanut butter with chopped ham and onion, or chili sauce, or bacon, or sliced tomatoes, or pickles (any kind), or bananas and bacon, or jelly, or marshmallow fluff. Try these on rye, white or whole wheat bread.

If you have more time, the Peanut Butter Cheese Filling recipe for use with either bread or as a filling for hard rolls, will send your sandwich stock right up to the top.

PEANUT BUTTER FILLING

- 1/2 cup peanut butter
- 1/2 cup creamed cottage cheese
- 2 tbsps. chopped black olives
- 1/2 cup finely diced celery
- 1 tsp. finely chopped onion
- 2 tbsps. chili sauce
- 1 tsp. milk
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. steak sauce

Combine all ingredients and mix until blended. Use between slices of bread or for filling hard rolls. Makes 1 1/2 cups or enough filling for 8 sandwiches.

Spring Salad Time Again

It's spring salad time again. And one of the joys of preparing salads is that this is one phase of your cooking efforts where imagination brings impressive results. Vegetables, fruits, dairy foods, poultry, meats, fishfoods—they all belong in delightful salads.

Spring is recognized as the salad season because salad ingredients, fresh from the garden, appear in abundance. That's true now. Southwest fields and gardens are pouring forth their bounty for your eating pleasure.

This spring, salad ingredients to supplement vegetable greens also are in good supply, suggests the Agricultural Marketing Service. Colorful canned peaches, for example, go well in combination with an attractive bed of green lettuce. Add a dab of cottage cheese and top with bright red strawberries and you have a salad that will draw applause from any group.

Stuffed prunes or fruit cocktail also make interesting salads when combined with the wide selection of salad greens.

Springtime and fresh green cabbage belong together in salad fare. And there's a lot of cabbage rolling out of southern fields these days.

Smooth cream cheese and snappy cabbage are natural partners. To prepare a creamy cole slaw, mash a 3-ounce package of cream cheese and stir in 1/4 cup evaporated milk. Season with 1/4 cup vinegar, salt and pepper. While chilling the dressing, mix 3 cups shredded cabbage, and 1 cup each of shredded carrots and finely chopped celery. Add the dressing and blend thoroughly.

Stewed Raisins

Some recipes call for stewed or plumped raisins. To plump raisins, rinse them and place above boiling water in the top of a double boiler. Cover, steam for one hour or until meat is nicely browned and cooked through, and cool before using.

DEAR ABBY

Be Thankful To Look Down

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that can't be cured by diet, exercise or prayer. I am a six-foot, three-inch tall woman!

Almost every miserable day of my life, idiotic people make me feel like a creature from another planet. No matter where I go I am gawked at, and talked about as though I were a freak.

Friends tell me to have a sense of humor about the whole thing but, believe me, this is not so easily laughed off. I am just about fed up. How can I live with a situation like this, short of cutting my legs off?

MISS EMPIRE STATE BUILDING

DEAR MISS: Walk tall and keep your chin up. Be grateful for your six feet, three inches of healthy, normally functioning body. There are millions of people who would swap places with you tomorrow. Prayer might be the answer. Get on your knees and thank the good Lord for your blessings.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with a girl for over a year. I am very much in love with her and have been thinking about asking her to marry me. We are both 23.

During my childhood my parents had me treated for an emotional disorder. I see no point in mentioning this to my girl friend. My roommate says he thinks it is important for the girl to know this before we are married. Do you agree?

ARIZONA

DEAR ARIZONA: Yes. Tell her.

DEAR ABBY: When I married Betty she knew how much money I earned but said, "Don't worry, we will manage." Well, here is how she has been "managing": When she wants some new clothes or something for our apartment that she knows I can't afford to buy, she gets her mother to buy it for her. I wouldn't mind if her mother bought her gifts for her anniversary and birthday, but she is always giving her something. Her mother can well afford it, but I have my pride.

Am I wrong in objecting to my wife's having things that I did not buy for her? HAVE MY PRIDE

DEAR HAVE: I think you are overly sensitive. These gifts (in a way) are for you, too, so why not relax and enjoy them instead of resenting your mother-in-law's generosity?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "BETTER LATE THAN NEVER": That's what Noah said to the zebra which understood that passengers were supposed to arrive in alphabetical order. What's your excuse?

Yes, Abby will answer your letter personally if you write to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif., and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

No Price Rise

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department said today the absence of any price rise this spring has proved disappointing to lamb feeders. A livestock report said profits in lamb feeding during the past winter were down from last year, although above returns in 1958. Feed prices were lower, but prices of lambs dropped more.

Electric Rate Increase In Effect Now

An increased rate on electric power already is in effect in Big Spring, in the wake of final action on an ordinance, taken Tuesday by the City Commission.

Texas Electric Service Company put a new rate schedule into effect immediately, and this will be reflected in bills coming out after a month's use of electricity.

TESCO officials have stressed that under the new rates, the maximum increase of any residential customer's bill will be 32 cents per month.

The commercial rate, while not spelled out in detail, is expected to result in somewhat larger increases.

The company has done away with the "demand" rate for residential users, and in some cases, has incentives for lower rates. These include:

Electric water heating (water heater must be at least 30 gallons capacity and supply all the hot water requirements of the residence); and electric household heating in winter months (November through April) for customers who have at least two kw of permanently installed electric heat—excluding bathroom and portable heaters—and at least two tons of electrically-generated air conditioning.

Par In For Beating In Colonial Meet

Local Boy Fourth

Alabama's Don Anderson is currently ranked fourth in the 120-yard high hurdles in the latest SEC track statistics released April 29. The 21-year-old junior from Big Spring, Tex., has been clocked at :14.7 this spring. Anderson transferred to Alabama from Howard Co. Jr. College in Big Spring where he had won two letters running track.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

Dean Pryor, coach at Coffeyville, Kansas, will serve as referee of the 1961 National JC track and field meet, which will be held here May 19-20.

Dean masterminded Coffeyville's surge to the team championship in 1960 and his team will be a threat again this year. Starter of the meet will again be Joe Bailey Chesney, who once was the greatest sprinter in Texas. Joe Bailey started every ABC Relay that was ever staged here, even before the service club started inviting college teams and Big Spring High School was using a dirt track.

One of the most interesting fighters now in business, Kenny Lane, will appear in an Odessa ring against Manuel Gonzales the night of May 16. Kenny is a slick southpaw who is quick enough to keep most anyone off balance. He's fought the best in the world in his time. Joe Brews, the lightweight champion, beat him but not by much. Lane wants another shot at the crown.

The University of Illinois has a freshman trackster from New Orleans named Jim Warren who has broad jumped 26 feet, without experience or even knowing the number of steps or learning the proper take-off foot. He's also been clocked in 9.7 in the 100.

His coach, Lee Johnson, says he's the most natural athlete he's ever seen. Johnson will play halfback for the Illinois football team next fall, if he can stay eligible.

When HJJC's Eugene Franklin ran that sensational 14.2 in the high hurdles in the Western JC Conference meet at Amarillo last week, he was clearing high school barriers. Amarillo College, host of the meet, didn't have any college hurdles.

Carroll Keilers, the 6-foot-1 basketball center for San Angelo High School the past season, has signed a letter-of-intent at Rice University.

He was signed by Johnnie Frankie, the Rice coach, who is working hard to give the Owls a winner in the next two years. Frankie does much of his recruiting out of the state.

Keilers didn't start playing basketball until his sophomore year in high school. He also plays in the San Angelo band.

Floyd Patterson's next boxing opponent is likely to be Dick Richardson, a relatively unknown Welshman, who rules as the European heavyweight boxing champion.

Patterson is being criticized for refusing to meet Eddie Machen or Henry Cooper this year. What isn't generally known, however, is that Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, offered Machen a fight in 1957 and Cooper the same opportunity two years later and both refused.

According to D'Amato, Machen's handlers were acting on orders from the International Boxing Club, which was trying to freeze out Patterson. With Cooper, it was simply a matter of wanting more money for such a fight. Cooper had just beaten Brian London and was considered a "hot property."

After the turn of events, D'Amato stated emphatically that neither Machen nor Cooper would ever get another chance.

Diulio Loi Still Welter Champion

MILAN (AP) — Diulio Loi, a rugged little Italian who said he fought this one "for beauty and not the purse," pondered retirement from 13 years of fighting today after retaining his world junior welterweight title with a 15-round decision over Carlos Ortiz of New York.

"I never trained so hard for a fight before," Loi grinned after building a big lead over the 24-year-old Puerto Rican-born ex-champ, then surviving a last round knockdown to nail an undisputed, unanimous decision in their "rubber" match.

"I didn't want this victory for the purse. I badly needed it to end my career in beauty—with a triumph."

Then, referring to the war of words that dated back to Loi's split decision in their second meeting last September, he said:

"Maybe this will teach Ortiz not to talk so much before a fight."

Ford Breaks Hogan Mark

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—The $40,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament opens today with Arnold Palmer favored and with prospects of the most furious onslaught on par in the event's 15 years.

The touring golfers showed the 7,641-yard Colonial Country Club course could be had Wednesday when they posted 15 sub-par rounds, headed by Doug Ford's record-smashing 6-under-par 64. Palmer didn't play the course but he remained a 6-1 favorite for the $7,000 first money although he never has finished higher than 12th in his six years of participation here.

Ford, who hasn't won a tournament in more than a year and isn't even included in the top 25 money winners, cracked the competitive course record of 65 set by Ben Hogan in 1946 and since tied three times, once by Palmer. Al Geiberger, Bill Collins and Deane Beman, the National Amateur champion, had 67's and seven players, including Don January, who had a hole-in-one, posted 68's. January was getting his spot on his first year at Palm Springs, Calif., last February and it brought him $50,000 there. Here he only won $100.75 for being one of the low scorers in a pro-amateur.

Ford won top money of $630 for being low pro on a team and for having low score of the day. A field of 57, the largest Colonial ever had, moves out today in the opening round. It includes the winner of every tournament for the past year except the Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas last weekend when Sam Snead took top money. Snead is passing up this tournament because of club duties in West Virginia.

Julius Boros, the defending champion, had a par 70 in his pro-amateur round Wednesday. Gary Player, the young man from South Africa who leads the money-winners with $48,328.54, did not turn in a card. But he is ranked second in the odds, being an 8-1 choice behind Palmer's 6-1.

Coan Is Lost

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—The Kansas Jayhawks lost football star Bert Coan for the 1961 season Wednesday. The halfback from Pasadena, Tex., broke both bones in his right leg in scrimmage.

8 Sophs Run In Feature At Sunland

EL PASO—It's Getaway Week at Sunland Park as the successful 1961 spring racing season heads into its final three days of action.

Friday's headliner, The Women's Southwestern Golf Association Handicap, is for three-year-olds and has attracted a star field of eight sophomores going six furlongs for a purse of $2,500.

Little Juan, who appears to have the inside track on being voted the best three-year-old of the meet, is the highlight of the field at 122 pounds and will be spotting his seven rivals from seven to 17 pounds.

The flashy colt who carries the gold and red silks of owner Dixie Denny of Phoenix, Ariz., was the upset winner of the Sunland Derby three weeks ago and bankrolled $4,300 in his lone start here.

Trained by the astute horseman Paul Oliver, Little Juan defeated Royal Lineage in the Derby at a time "Lineage" appeared invincible.

Four fillies will oppose the mighty "Juan" with Road To Reno considered to have the biggest chance among the distaffers. She comes off a win in which she reversed her loss by Scare Me earlier in the season. One of the most honest horses on the grounds, Road To Reno has never been worse than second in three tries this season. She was voted Sunland's best juvenile filly in her two-year-old year and is considered a good bet to be voted the meeting's best three-year-old filly.

Another miss who has displayed good form is R. S. LeSage's Testa. A two-time winner here, trainer Herb Claggett has given Ken Coppernoll the mount. The swift daughter of Endeavour 2nd is lightly weighted at 110 pounds.

Another filly given a big chance is Red Chalk who defeated the well regarded Pavo Pardo last week but lost a nose decision to Laughing Eyes. She holds a win over the Sunland oval and can always be counted on for a game effort. Jot Wilson will do the riding for trainer Lacy Cole.

Expendables Whacked From Major Rosters

By The Associated Press

About two dozen major league expendables—rookies who failed to win regular berths and old-timers whose talents weren't badly needed—went to join minor league clubs today as the big league season, passed the cutdown date.

As of today, only 25 players may be carried on major league rosters until after Aug. 31, when the limit goes up to 40 until the opening of the next season. The 18 major clubs have been option-ing, selling and trading their surplus for several days and there was a final flurry Wednesday night just before the deadline.

The Washington Senators and Chicago White Sox, who opened the season a day earlier than the others, had to make the cut Tuesday, since the limit is 30 days from the opening.

The White Sox then picked up Wes Covington from Milwaukee and had to make another cut. The Boston Red Sox and Chicago Cubs got down to the 25 man limit the same day.

Here's how the others trimmed their rosters:

National League
St. Louis Cardinals—Traded outfielder Bob Nieman to Cleveland for Joe Morgan; assigned Morgan and George Crowe, pinch hitter, to San Juan, International League.

San Francisco Giants—Optioned rookie second baseman Ernie Bowman and outfielder Bob Farrow to Tacoma, Pacific Coast League.

Los Angeles Dodgers—Removed relief pitcher Ed Palmquist from roster.

Pittsburgh Pirates—Sold pitcher Tom Cheney to Columbus, IL.

Philadelphia Phillies—Optioned infielder Bob Sadowski to Buffalo, IL.

Milwaukee Braves—Sent outfielder Wes Covington to Chicago White Sox on waivers; optioned rookie catcher Phil Roof to Yakima, Northwest League.

Cincinnati Reds—Unconditionally released veteran infielder Willie Jones; sold pitcher Claude Osteen and outfielder Harry Anderson to Indianapolis, American Association; obtained first baseman Dick Gernert from Detroit.

Chicago Cubs—Reached limit earlier in week.

American League
Minnesota Twins—Unconditionally released outfielder Pete Whisenant.

Cleveland Indians—Optioned pitcher Don Schaefer to Salt Lake City, PCL.

Los Angeles Angels—Sent pitcher Ray Semproch to Toronto, IL; sold first baseman Julio Becquer to Buffalo, IL.

Baltimore Orioles—Optioned catcher Frank Zupo to Rochester, IL; cut one other player withheld announcement of his name until today.

New York Yankees—Sold pitcher Ted Wiaeand and optioned outfielder Jack Reed, both to Richmond, IL.

Detroit Tigers—Traded first baseman-outfielder Dick Gernert to Cincinnati for infielder Jim Baumer and cash; optioned Baumer, veteran catcher Harry Child and rookie pitcher Joe Grzenda to Denver, American Association; Kansas City Athletics—Optioned Leo Posada, outfielder, to Shreveport, Southern Association.

Boston—Reached limit earlier in week.

Philadelphia Phillies—Optioned infielder Bob Sadowski to Buffalo, IL.

Milwaukee Braves—Sent outfielder Wes Covington to Chicago White Sox on waivers; optioned rookie catcher Phil Roof to Yakima, Northwest League.

Deadline Nears For Meet Entry

Area public links golfers have only 20 days in which to file entry for the 1961 Section Round of the 36th annual Amateur Public Links championship.

Sectional play will take place at the Municipal course here on June 19. It was held in Midland last year.

Those desiring to compete in the local meet can contact John M. Pipes, Big Spring. Entry fee is $5. Of that amount, $3 is applied by the Sectional qualifying chairman toward expenses of players representing the Section in the national tournament.

The 36th annual national tournament takes place at the Rackham Golf Course, Royal Oak (Detroit), Michigan, starting July 10 and continuing through July 15.

Play here will be over 36 holes and the front nine holes at the Muni, which will be closed until later this month, will be used.

Fisher Seeking Third Net Title

HOUSTON (AP)—Rennie Fisher opened his bid today to become the first player since Sammy Gammalva to win the Southwest Conference tennis singles championship three times.

Fisher, a Rice University senior, was among the tennis favorites as annual spring tournaments to determine individual championships in tennis and golf got under way.

FCC Chief Pounds At TV's Content

WASHINGTON (AP)—The television industry and the Federal Communications Commission today squared away for a new sort of suspenseful TV quiz which might be titled, "What comes next?"

That was the big question as delegates scattered from the 20th annual convention of the National Association of Broadcasters, which produced a major governmental assault on television program content.

In two convention appearances, Newton N. Minow, 35, the new commission chairman, hammered away at the theme of better programming for the American public and shook the big stick of FCC's power to deny license renewals for broadcasting stations.

The FCC grants license renewals on a showing that a station has been operated "in the public interest."

The commission never has refused a renewal for a TV station on the basis of program content. However, using a relatively new power granted by Congress last year, it recently has put some radio outlets on "short term licenses," that is, for less than the usual three years, pending further observation of the stations' operations.

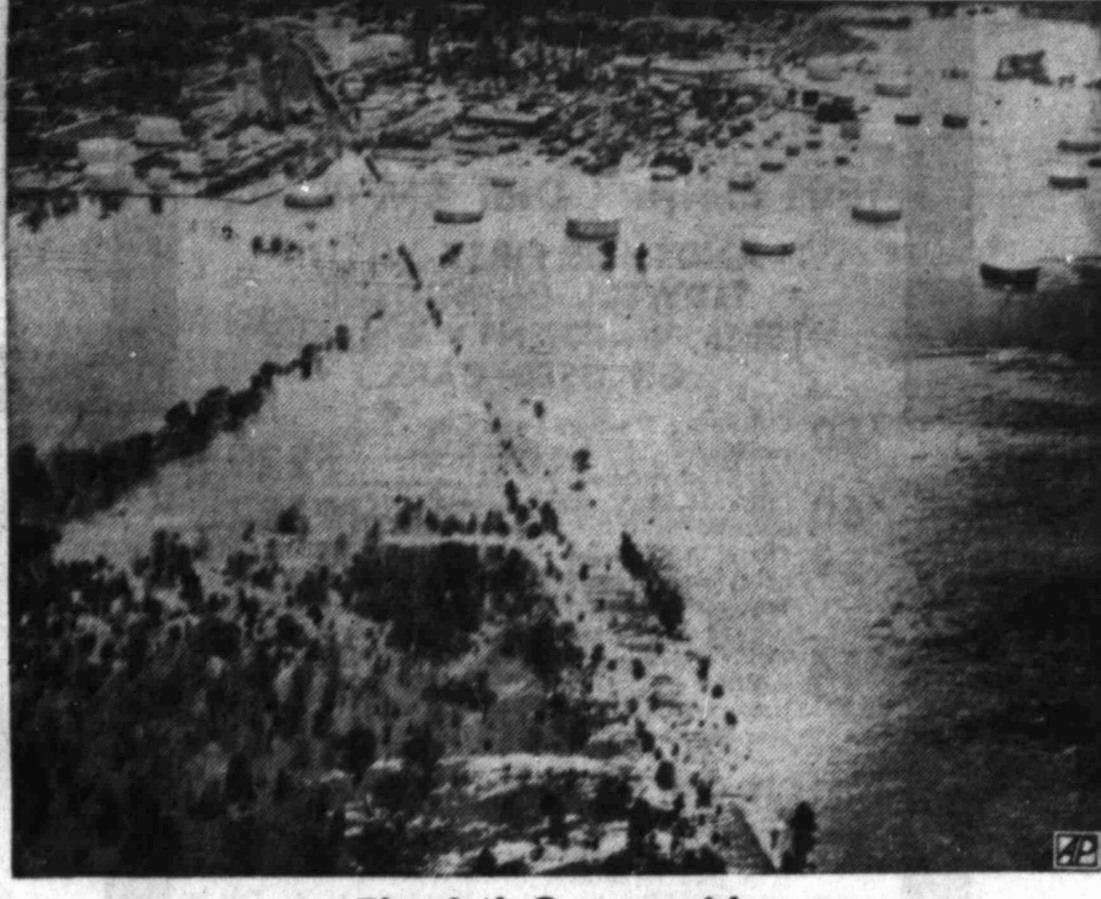

Speaking as FCC's head man and also as a "television viewer and the husband and father of other television viewers," Minow said a great many TV programs are "eminently worthwhile."

But he condemned what he described as "a procession of game shows, violence, audience participation shows, formula comedies about totally unbelievable families, blood and thunder, mayhem, sadism, murder, western badmen, western good men, private eyes, gangsters more violence, and cartoons."

"And, endlessly, commercials—many screaming, cajoling, and offending," he said. "And most of all, boredom."

His listeners in the TV field appeared aghast at his description of what most industry leaders consider a very good product. But nearly all elected not to jump into a personal dispute with the FCC chairman, and so reserved comment.

One industry source, which asked for anonymity, put it this way: "Broadcasters are naturally reluctant to talk back to one who holds over them the powers of economic life and death."

Flooded Countryside

Flood waters of the Verdigris River spread over a wide area at Coffeyville, Kan., lapping around the Co-operative Oil Refinery and its tank farm. One unit of the refinery was shut down. Tracks of the Santa Fe railroad, running diagonally across the picture from lower right to upper left, are under water. Several hundred families were evacuated from their homes.

Uvalde County Takes Lead In Water Recharging Program

By R. G. JORDAN
San Antonio Express Staff
Written for The Associated Press

UVALDE (AP)—Uvalde County has taken the lead in insuring a water supply from the Edwards underground formation.

The county long ago initiated a recharge program which has attracted wide attention.

Credit for starting the program goes to the late Frank Getzen-daner, for many years an oil company geologist who was regarded as one of the foremost underground water authorities in the state.

Getzen-daner's first recharge step was taken at an outcropping of the Edwards limestone formation about two miles north of this city.

He observed the mouth of a small cave in the bed of the Leona River into which water flows when the normally dry stream is on the rise after rains.

With assistance from the City of Uvalde, he installed a steel grate over the cave opening which prevented debris from going into the cave.

This pilot project soon disclosed that after a rise in the stream, the water tables in the city wells—where the Edwards formation was several hundred feet deep—would begin to rise.

The Uvalde flood control advisory committee was formed in 1951 with Grady Mahaffey as chairman. County commissioners granted the committee half of the 30 cents per $100 on property valuation tax levied for roads and flood control.

From that time until 1958, when the Edwards Underground Water District was organized, the committee spent $100,000 on recharging Edwards formation water supplies and $50,000 on a dam across the Sabinal River at nearby Utopia as a combination recharge and recreation project.

The committee built recharge dams on the Leona, Dry Frio, Indian and Sabinal streams. At each of the dams, one or more wells, 13 to 20 inches in diameter, were drilled to an average of 200 feet.

When the streams rise, the dams hold floodwaters in check ground water authorities in the state.

At the outset, flat steel grates were installed, but pressure from water and debris were so great that pyramid or inverted V-shaped grates were built above the openings.

The one which draws perhaps the most attention is a vast underground cavern on the Mason Ranch on Indian Creek about 20 miles northwest of Uvalde.

The amount of water which this cavern will take is almost inconceivable.

About a year ago, members of the National Speleological Society began exploring the cavern. Since that time they have penetrated about four miles.

"They reported," rancher Fred Mason said, "that the farther they go the larger the cavern becomes and the stronger the water flows."

Recharge, officials of the water district say, is an absolute necessity if a future water supply for San Antonio and its area is to be assured.

State To Join Jobless Drive

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Price Daniel has announced Texas will join in a nationwide campaign to reduce unemployment under the slogan "when they work, you profit. Hire now."

Daniel said "reports from a majority of the major cities in Texas indicate that the job picture is brightening considerably. Unemployment is on its seasonal downturn, and the momentum of improvement is gaining daily."

"Our employment staff estimates that there are many thousands of instances where our employers in business and industry have need for additional personnel, but for one reason or another have not crystallized their decision to hire these needed workers now. Men at work represent buying power and buying power maintains Texas business and industry," Daniel said.

The governor said the "hire now" campaign, directed by the Texas Employment Commission "will make an immediate improvement in our unemployment situation."

Court Upholds Right To Sell House To Negroes

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Supreme Court has refused to overrule a decision permitting the sale of a house to Negroes in a well-to-do Dallas residential area. A Civil Appeals Court order had lifted a trial court's temporary injunction against the showing of a $60,000 house for sale to Negroes in Cedar Crest Country Club Estates addition in Dallas.

T. Tucker Jr. and some neighbors got a temporary restraining order against another neighbor in the same block, C. J. Harrison, who put up a "For Sale" sign and the signs of two Negro brokers and began showing his brick house to Negroes in 1959.

Tucker claimed that on weekends Harrison would show his home to as many as 12 Negroes. Tucker claimed the attempts at selling to Negroes was a violation of the restrictive covenants, not selling property in the area to anyone except Caucasians, that a sale would cause a "tremendous depreciation" of the value of their property, 10-35 per cent, and that Harrison was violating public policy since, by destroying property values, he would decrease revenues for the taxing authorities.

The appeals court rejected the "balancing of equities" doctrine used by the trial court and dissolved the injunction as to showing and selling property to Negroes.

Alger Consistent In His Opposition

By TEX EASLEY
AP Special Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—Texas' lone Republican in Congress, Rep. Bruce Alger of Dallas, makes no bones of his opposition to legislation favored by the Kennedy administration.

"I'm not negative," the 42-year-old Alger asserts. "I'm for limited government and I'm positive about that."

His votes this session have been against the administration position on all measures passes by the House extension of the Social Security act, increased minimum wages, aid to depressed areas, foreign aid, continuation of a law which permits sale of surplus crops for foreign currencies, legislation creating additional federal judgeships, a bill authorizing water pollution control funds, and another appropriating $600 million for Latin-American aid.

"I haven't changed," he said. "I was just as critical of all these programs when Mr. Eisenhower was president. I'm nothing if not consistent."

Alger thinks a majority of his constituents share his views. He observes that his victory last November was the most decisive of any since his original election in 1954. The margin then was 52 per cent, last year 57 per cent.

He also observes that his district, with almost a million population, is one of the most populous in the nation. It is the largest in Texas, since Harris County (Houston) was divided into two districts several years ago. By ways of contrast, Alger adds, Speaker Sam Rayburn's district, which adjoins his, has only a quarter as many constituents.

Rayburn and Alger couldn't be more far apart on the issues before Congress. There also is a distinct personal coolness between the two—a situation that developed when Alger entered Congress.

Alger, at a news conference before taking his oath of office, commented to the effect that Rayburn would put the Democratic party ahead of the country.

Rayburn plainly resented the remark that Alger agrees that the Speaker's feelings concerning him have probably made a difference in his relations with other members of the Texas delegation.

Alger, a star athlete at Princeton University, keeps trim by playing handball regularly in the House gymnasium. Occasionally Reps. Olin Teague of Bryan and Albert Thomas of Houston, also

Wire Worms Could Be Killing Coahoma Roses

By BRUCE FRAZIER

O. D. O'Daniel Sr. of Coahoma writes: "What can I do about my roses?" He said that they are planted in a raised bed that is tilled up from the ground and filled with sand and soil from an old tank bed. They are the floribunda type and were sprayed when his other roses were sprayed. He gave them rose food but still they blister and turn brown or turn yellow, and the foliage is dying.

This could be caused by a number of things. One cause could be nematodes. These are little wire worms that attack the roots of roses and many other varieties of plants. They cause lumps to grow on the roots of the plants and the roses would be affected so as to appear to be sick. The control of these pests is dangerous to the plants, and there is not much to do but start over where the nematodes are in the soil.

In a recent conference in Texas Tech College, one of the instructors suggested that plain table sugar be spread in the soil. The sugar is spread dry and left in the soil for several weeks without watering it. I am not recommending this method as it is new, and I have not tried it. It would be harmful to any plants growing in the area, so it must be done on beds that are not planted at the moment, and later watered well before planting flowers.

Back to the rose problem, there could be another problem from the soil. Often the soil from a tank bottom will seal and keep moisture too well. Roses prefer moist soil, but at the same time well drained. This is not impossible. It means that there should be both moisture and air and no excess of moisture around the roots of roses.

There is another possibility. These roses are in a bed that is enclosed in concrete tile. It is just possible that some of the excess cement was left in the bottom of the bed. Some plants do not like the alkali from the cement and will burn. It could be the water is alkaline and the plants are reacting to this. Some varieties of roses tolerate more lime and alkali than others. To treat this possibility one could dig in peat moss around the roots of the roses and perhaps this would correct the problem. If you do dig around them and add peat moss, remember to look for the root knots that would indicate nematodes.

Automation Giving Insights Into Mysteries Of The Sea

GALVESTON (AP)—Automation is giving faster and more accurate insights into mysteries of the sea. Paradoxically, the sea is not giving up its mysteries at any great rate of speed.

This is the feeling of the director of the Texas A&M College Marine Laboratory here, one of the state's most active centers endeavoring to determine whether the sea is exploitable as another food source.

He is Albert Collier who directs projects which make up basic parts in the total picture of a possible expanded food source for mankind.

Although research at the A&M laboratory shows promise, Collier and several of his colleagues are mindful of more and more public interest in marine science as another food frontier.

Recent developments in automation such as the Thermistor Chain, and in scores of automatic computers, are helping studies.

The Thermistor Chain, now standard equipment on the laboratory's research vessel, the Hidalgo, takes temperatures of sea water at closely spaced intervals down to 900 feet. The information is fed through an IBM "teletype" like machine giving a permanent useful record for many fundamental studies such as tracing surface currents.

This is the kind of research which could not have been possible under manual manipulations.

Nature itself proposed the major problems against man's automation and engineering advances. Although the ocean areas are vast, Collier describes only three general situations in which marine environment is such that productivity is possible.

Almost all fishing either in the Gulf of Mexico or any other water area on Earth is confined to shallow coastal waters and estuaries. These are the areas where chemical enrichment and maximum light intensity are coupled to produce sea life suitable for man's use.

Next in productivity are the so-called banks, those areas of ocean bottom which rise above the general level of the surrounding sea floor. These irregularities provide increased surface for the growth of small and large forage organisms and they create a certain amount of turbulence in the flow of ocean water over them. When such areas are shallow enough to receive sufficient sunlight to drive the photo-synthetic process, the productivity is greater than in the surrounding areas.

Finally, there is the area in which the hydrodynamic situation causes the richer waters from the depths to rise within the range of sunlight. The classic example of this is the divergence of masses of water along the equatorial current system in the Pacific. In the divergence, the deeper waters are brought to the surface and a productive tuna fishery is the result. The Campeche Bank offers another case of fine fishing from surface irregularity.

Research at the A&M laboratory has shown such promise in the investigations of basic research to determine feasibility of productivity from the sea that the National Science Foundation has given a $50,000 grant, matched by the college, for a $100,000 expansion program beginning in May.

All of this laboratory's studies are on marine organisms placed in controlled environmental conditions. The reason these synthetic conditions are used, Collier said, is to assure controls which would not be possible under the variable condition of the natural setting.

The marine organisms are placed in synthetic sea water, containing the known chemicals of the sea, in amounts desired. Physical conditions of temperatures, light and food also are controlled experimentally.

This basic method has already produced some records of interest in oceanography. One was Collier's study of the oxygen requirement of the oyster.

Mushrooms Marveled Ancient Egyptians

HEAVENLY HORS D'OEUVRES

In ancient Egypt, mushrooms were regarded as a divine food because they appeared overnight as if by magic. They remained a chance seasonal delicacy which only the wealthy could afford until 300 years ago when the French discovered how to cultivate them. This gave mushroom cookery its real start to fame. Today, the leadership in cultivating, as well as processing and canning of mushrooms belongs to the United States.

The cultivated mushrooms of today, available the year around and within the means of everyone, is the result of highly organized and scientific indoor growing. Sown and tended carefully in temperature and moisture-controlled darkened rooms, the mushrooms are processed and canned within hours after reaching the desired size. The white variety is the most popular in this country. These are processed and canned as buttons, and also as sliced buttons and stems and pieces.

Now a new saucy-type mushroom delight is being introduced on the national market. Known as "Mushrooms a la Brandywine," it consists of paper-thin slices of white mushrooms, canned in their own flavorful, thickened essence. They are instantly ready to heat and serve "as is" with eggs, fish, or meat or cheese.

Mushrooms a la Brandywine can be used to make excellent hot hors d'oeuvres, too. As an example, here's a newly developed recipe which combines medium-sharp aged natural cheddar cheese and packaged pastry mix to make a fitting shell and case for the new mushrooms.

The mushrooms a la Brandywine can be spooned directly from the can onto the tiny cheese pastry shells. Easy to make and bake, the quick hot hors d'oeuvres are at their best when served piping hot. Here are the directions for making, baking and garnishing:

HOT HORS D'OEUVRES
(Makes about 30 shells—2 1/2 inch in diameter.)
2 sticks (one 9-oz. pkg.) pie crust mix
1/4 cup finely shredded Cheddar cheese
3 tbsps. boiling water
2 1/2 cups (two 7-oz. cans) mushrooms a la Brandywine

Crumble pie crust mix into a small bowl. Add shredded cheese and boiling water. Stir with a fork until dough loses stickiness, forms a ball and completely cleans sides of bowl.

With fingers, press small amount of dough into each tart shell-pan. Spoon one tablespoon of mushroom mixture into each shell. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) 10 to 12 minutes. Remove from oven. Remove from shell pans.

If desired, garnish with a dab of sour cream and top with pim-lento and green pepper cutouts. A small cookie cutter does nicely for this purpose. Serve hot.

SAUCY MUSHROOMS IN CHEESE PASTRY CASES
(Makes about 40 pastry cases—2 inch size.)

Mix pastry as above. Roll out dough on lightly floured board. Cut into desired shapes using a two-inch cookie cutter. Cut two identical pieces for each case. Place a teaspoonful of mushroom mixture in center of pastry shape. Cover with identical shape. Press edges of pastry together with tines of fork.

Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 10-12 minutes or until pastry is golden brown.

Divinity Fudge

Called "fluff" or "feather" candy during its heyday in the 1920's, divinity fudge is making a comeback and candy fanciers still go wild over this sweet.

Fudge Of Flappers Makes Comeback

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Now that the 1920's have inspired this spring's dress styles, how about reviving the candy that the flapper era ushered into home kitchens?

Divinity! While flappers were learning to do the Charleston, their mothers were probably learning how to heat up a batch of this luscious fudge. According to our culinary sleuthing, recipes for Divinity Fudge didn't begin to appear in our cook books until after World War I.

Probably the offspring of aged nougat candy, our guess is that Divinity was sold in candy shops before home cooks ferreted out the secrets of its making. By 1929 Divinity was in its heyday, and was known also as "fluff" or "feather" candy.

A 1929 candy cook book gives

Perennial Favorites

Since not every picnic party warrants something as sophisticated as turkey here's another appetizing suggestion.

Here are those two hardy perennials, hot dogs and hamburgers served with classic potato salad and a big tray of iced raw vegetables. Though they may seem a bit common for that picnic party, we suggest that you sample the basting sauces first. Then make up your mind, remembering that just as everybody loves a picnic, everybody loves a hamburger, too, especially one that's crisp and brown on the outside and juicy and tender within. And, of course, it must be tucked between a warm toasted hamburger bun.

FRANKFURTERS WITH MUSTARD SAUCE

12 frankfurters
1-3 cup lemon juice
1-3 cup salad oil
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. dry mustard
1/4 tsp. pepper
1 tsp. sugar
2 tbsps. flour
1/4 cup water
1 cup chopped mustard pickles

Split frankfurters without cutting through and place in a shallow dish. Make a marinade of lemon juice, oil, salt, mustard, pepper and sugar by combining the ingredients in a jar and shaking well. Pour marinade over frankfurters and let them stand for at least 1 hour.

Drain marinade from frankfurters into a saucepan. Blend in flour and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Slowly add water; stir. Simmer 10 to 15 minutes. Add chopped pickles and cook 3 minutes longer.

Place frankfurters on grill and broil until lightly browned and tender. Spoon sauce over frankfurters while broiling. Serve on toasted buns with additional sauce. Yield: 6 servings.

BARBECUED HAMBURGERS

1/4 cup salad oil
2 tbsps. minced onion
1-3 cup finely chopped celery
1 tsp. brown sugar
2 tbsps. granulated sugar
1 tsp. dry mustard
1 tsp. paprika
1/2 tsp. chili powder
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
2 tbsps. catsup
Few drops hot sauce
2 tbsps. Worcestershire sauce
1-3 cup lemon juice
1 small clove garlic, minced
1/4 cup water

Heat oil in saucepan and saute onion and celery until golden brown. Add brown and granulated sugars and stir rapidly for 1 minute. Add remaining ingredients and simmer for 15 minutes. For barbecued hamburgers, baste hamburgers with sauce as they cook over grill or under broiler. Serve on toasted buns with additional sauce. Yield: Sauce for 6 large hamburgers.

CHOCOLATE DIVINITY

2 1/2 cups sugar
1 cup light corn syrup
1/4 cup water
1/4 tsp. salt
2 egg whites
2 squares (2 ozs.) unsweetened chocolate
1 tsp. vanilla
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts or pecans (if desired)

In a medium-sized saucepan (about 2 quarts) mix together the sugar, corn syrup, water and salt. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil.

Reduce heat; cook without stirring to 248 degrees (on a candy thermometer) or until 1 teaspoon of the syrup dropped into 1 cup ice-cold water forms a firm ball that does not flatten. Just before syrup reaches 248 degrees, beat egg whites until stiff but not dry.

Pour about 1/4 of the syrup very slowly over the beaten egg whites, beating constantly until blended. Meanwhile cook the remainder of the syrup to 272 degrees or until 1 teaspoon dropped into 1 cup ice-cold water separates into threads that are hard but not brittle.

Add syrup, about 1 tablespoon at a time, to the first mixture, beating well after each addition and using either a wooden spoon or an electric mixer. If mixture becomes too thick for mixer, continue beating with a wooden spoon.

Continue beating 5 minutes after last addition of syrup. Add melted chocolate and vanilla. Beat until mixture begins to lose its gloss and holds its shape when dropped from a spoon—about 5 minutes more.

If nuts are used, mix them in at the end of this beating period. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto waxed paper. Makes about 1 1/4 pounds.

SNOWY DIVINITY: Omit chocolate; after last addition of syrup, continue beating until mixture holds shape.

Texas Can Depend Upon Blakley

Big Spring will again be host, if only for a brief period, on Friday to Senator William A. Blakley, the tall Texan who seeks to serve a full term in the U. S. Senate. Texans vote May 27 to determine the successor to Lyndon Johnson in the Senate.

The Herald trusts Senator Blakley will receive a warm welcome here, just as any candidate should. It also hopes that a strong expression of support will be forthcoming, because this newspaper thinks the services of Bill Blakley can be very vital to Texas in the next few years.

The state can have pride in the manner in which he has conducted himself as an interim member of the Senate. He has spoken out promptly, vigorously, and with reason on issues he deemed important, and has won high praise from some of the Senate's most influential members.

He was one of the principal speakers to retain Senate rules regarding free debate, chiding those who would trade the filibuster for a gag rule. He spoke out against a Kennedy appointment, whom Senator Blakley learned had lent his name to organizations identified as Communist-front groups.

He has chosen a sound position on many of the vital issues before the country today. A blockade of Cuba is one of these, and this may be the best weapon the United States could choose against Castro today. A businesslike approach to aiding education is another, with a plan to let states control their schools, but share in federal remittances according to income taxes paid.

In a brief span, Senator Blakley has demonstrated the kind of statesman he would be on a full-time basis. We think this is the kind of representation Texas wants and should have. Texans ought to respond for Blakley at the polls on May 27.

The Safer Course

A group of newspaper editors, headed by Felix McKnight, executive editor of the Dallas Times Herald and president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, had a long conference with President Kennedy Tuesday and reported that the President assured them that the administration intends to continue its policy of free access to the news and that no form of restriction is contemplated or suggested.

This was an aftermath of an address by the President recently when he suggested to the American Newspaper Publishers Association that the press impose some form of self-censorship in the face of the Communist threat to the nation's security.

McKnight put his finger on the crux of self-censorship where security is concerned. "Any responsible editor faces that same news judgment every day," he said. It is entirely possible that in the competitive press some members of the press over-step the bounds of prudence in security matters, but very, very seldom. Most of the leaks of consequence have come through technical journals and magazines. There have even been cases where the Defense Department was sitting on top secret information (or what it called top secret) while the same basic information was available in journals or even comic books.

The danger that radio, television, newspaper and other reporters will weaken security is negligible, especially when weighed against the essentiality of a free government. Any sort of censorship, voluntary or otherwise, is an open invitation to cover up internal snafu and ineptitude in the name of security.

David Lawrence Shepard's Feat Known To The World

WASHINGTON—For the first time in the history of the world a man has gone up into outer space who was watched by millions of people both before he ascended and when he came down to earth.

This is, however, only one of a series of "firsts."

FOR THE FIRST TIME, a man in capsule was able to control and guide his flight while in the air. The Soviet astronaut who orbited the earth was just an inanimate passenger.

For the first time, a man who flew into space was photographed as he entered the capsule before he ascended and immediately after he came down. The Soviet astronaut, on the other hand, was not photographed by anyone except government representatives. No free press was present afterward to make its own record or freely to interrogate the astronaut.

FOR THE FIRST TIME, a nation sent a man into outer space and paid for the project out of a small fraction of its tax receipts. No class of human society was deprived of anything by reason of that expense—and no hardship was imposed upon the people. The enormous sums spent to send Soviet satellites aloft have been taken from a people deprived of the necessities of life. All this was ordered merely to advance the propaganda of totalitarian rulers.

America is rightfully emphasizing to the world that its achievement was in the open where nothing was hidden. To this day the true facts about the flight of Major Gagarin of Russia are still unavailable either to the press or to the international scientific organization which must eventually pass judgment on the validity of the claims.

COMMANDER Alan B. Shepard Jr., who made the great flight for the United States, captivated Washington. He is a credit to his country in general and to the United States Navy in particular. He handled himself with modesty, tact and skill not only in his public appearances at the White House and at the Capitol but in the press conference that was televised to the nation.

Here was an example of a Naval officer trained, of course, for the physical hardships he might have to endure. But where did the training come from that enabled him to take in his stride the adulation and applause that were showered upon him? American manhood—the product of a free environment and the heritage of sturdy American parents—can be given the real credit. For the risks were great and a steady-nerved young man took them bravely for the cause of science and the advancement of man's knowledge.

UNDoubtedly there has been a spirit of competition aroused ever since the Russian Sputnik circled the earth. The Soviet press and radio played up the Gagarin flight, and there was a big celebration in Moscow, too, as Premier Khrushchev made speeches and bestowed the accolade on the Russian astronaut.

While doubts still persist as to what Gagarin really did—perhaps he also only went up and down at a given place in the air—the disposition of officialdom here is to credit him with his claim. But at the same time there is a natural pride here that America did everything in the open and made all facts available immediately to the public. Meanwhile, the Soviet people have been given skimpy accounts of Shepard's feat, which is being deliberately played down inside the Soviet Union by orders of the Moscow government.

WHY SHOULD the Kremlin be afraid to concede the significance of Shepard's flight? Because it is important to the Communists to make the Soviet people feel that their sacrifices must be continued and their hardships borne in the interest of a patriotic spirit. The rulers of Russia rely heavily on patriotism to help them to excuse their failure to provide food and decent living quarters for the millions who are enslaved.

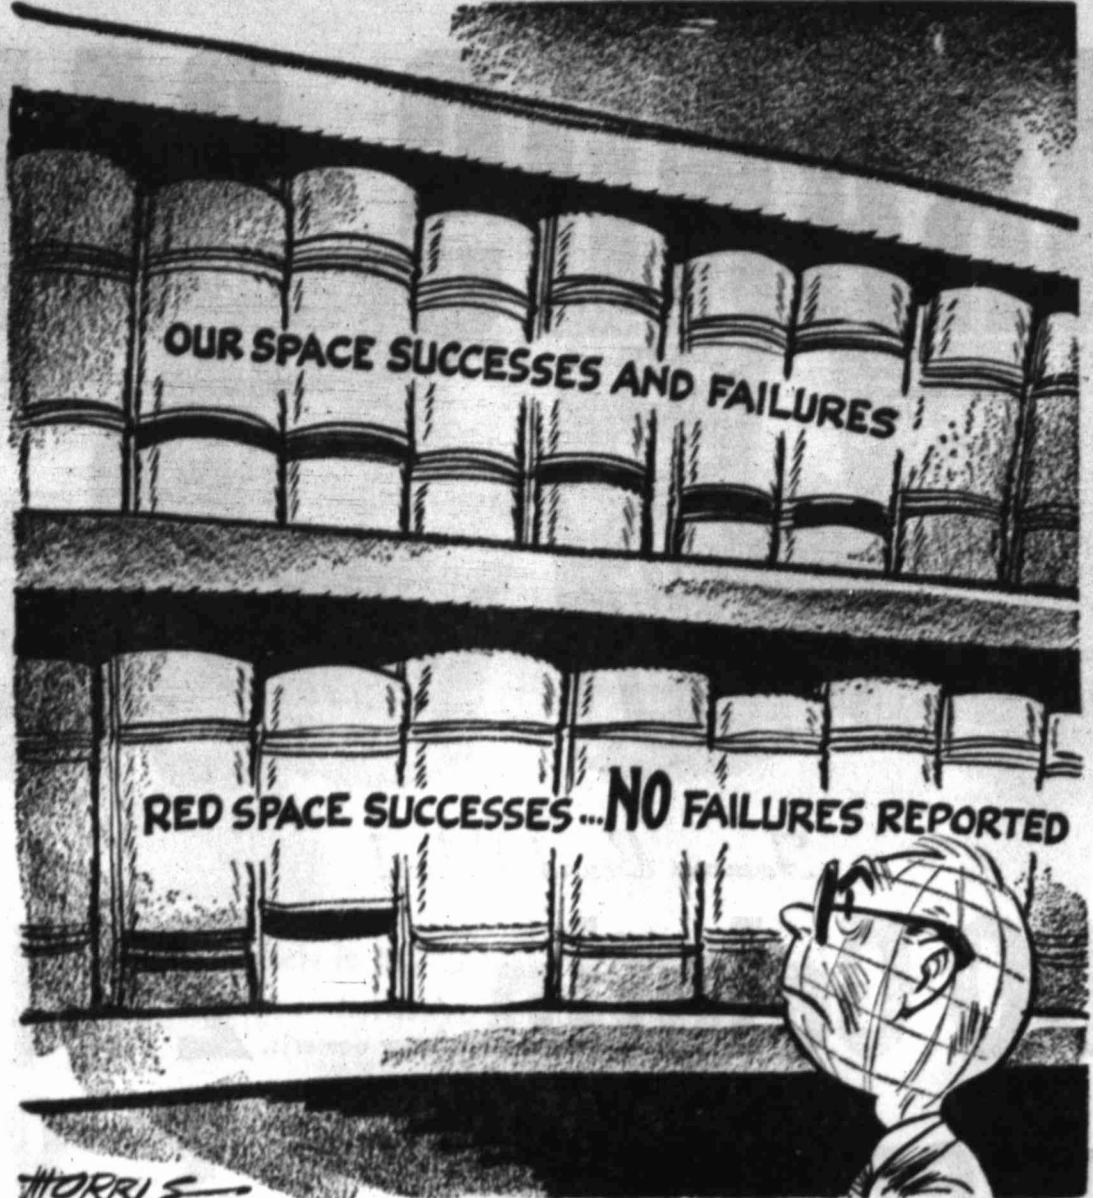

IT HAS BEEN of incalculable value to the prestige of American democracy in the free world to demonstrate the virtues of freedom to the smaller nations just emerging from bondage. For years to come the exploit of Alan Shepard will be remembered not only because of the bravery of a man who ventured into the vast unknown of outer space but for his dedication to the cause of science for which he was ready to risk his life.

COMMANDER Shepard will remain a national hero because of what he has accomplished, but everlasting credit will also go to the scientists, engineers and devoted leaders in our government who, with cautious and faithful adherence to scientific research, refused to be stampeded prematurely into a manned flight and ordered it only after many experiments, including failures, had shown them it could be done with a reasonable chance of success. How many lives the Russians lost in their experiments may never be known.

AS FOR A MANNED flight in orbit around the earth by the United States, this will come in due time. Already this country has 21 satellites circling the globe, while the Soviets have only one. A trip 115 miles up and then 302 miles across the ocean through space is an indication that at the proper time the United States will make the flight around the earth with an astronaut who will keep the world informed with his own voice, as did Commander Shepard—the first of all firsts. He talked and sent messages from the realm of outer space, and all the world knew it simultaneously—a truly great "first."

FICTION STRANGER THAN TRUTH

James Marlow Security And Propaganda

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara seems to be getting his concern for security confused with propaganda.

McNamara, a civilian head of the armed forces, is wrestling with the same dual responsibility which beset his predecessors in the Eisenhower administration: How to keep the country as fully informed as possible without revealing vital military secrets to the Russians.

But a defense secretary also has a third responsibility: Not to kid the public.

LAST APRIL McNamara, behind closed doors, testified before the Senate Armed Services Committee. He spoke in great detail on defense problems from a prepared statement.

His security experts in the Pentagon made public some parts of only the fact they were able to graduate from high school or are members of a winning team in the factory bowling league.

But there are other signs it's a pretty safe bet a gal is married if—

Whenever she leaves home after dark, she is trailed, two paces behind, by a tired-looking man who looks as if his feet hurt him.

In reading a magazine she merely glances at an article titled, "America's 12 richest bachelors," then turns to one about "What's wrong with our schools?"

When she's dining out, she tells

Then when he appeared before the committee he made additional statements under questioning. Wednesday the committee released some of those statements.

They showed McNamara expressed shock that his security experts had released so much of his original testimony.

"It seems to me," he said, "that we were releasing far more (information) than would have been appropriate, considering the damaging effect on our security from the release of the information that was proposed."

BUT, IN tracking down his security experts' reasons for releasing parts of his testimony which he thought should be kept secret, McNamara said he found that many of the items previously had been discussed in public.

"Why," McNamara asked the committee, "should we tell Russia that the Zeus (anti-missile missile system) development may not be satisfactory?"

Then the defense secretary added: "What we ought to be saying is that we have the most perfect anti-ICBM system that the human mind will ever devise."

If McNamara did put out such word—a complete exaggeration if only because McNamara can't tell what the human mind will devise—the Russians might be misled but so would the American public.

IF McNAMARA feels it's all right to feed such propaganda to the public on Zeus, then it seems fair to ask: Does he feel the same about other parts of American defenses which he may actually and privately consider inadequate?

There's no doubt he has an intense problem in trying to inform the public without revealing priceless information to the Russians, but other secretaries of defense before him contended with the same dilemma.

He got a lot of sympathy from the senators on the Armed Services Committee. Each defense secretary in turn has solutions that are a little different.

For example: At the time Thomas S. Gates Jr. was sworn in as secretary of defense on Dec. 2, 1959, there had been a standing policy for years that the defense secretary should be sole spokesman for the military establishment.

Under this policy the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force seldom spoke out except when they were well away from Washington. Immediately on taking office Gates said this policy would be reversed.

He said he would encourage the secretaries to hold news conferences and answer questions. This writer has been told McNamara intends to follow Gates' system.

Hal Boyle How To Tell A Wife

NEW YORK (AP)—It is getting harder to tell the married girls from the single girls.

There was a time when it was easier. All you had to do was glance at a certain finger of her left hand, if she wore a gold band on it, there was no doubt about it. She was married.

But customs change. So do rings. Many of the married women in America's 20 million-plus feminine work force don't wear their wedding rings on the job.

And many single girls wear rings which give them the air of matrimony but actually celebrate only the fact they were able to graduate from high school or are members of a winning team in the factory bowling league.

But there are other signs it's a pretty safe bet a gal is married if—

Whenever she leaves home after dark, she is trailed, two paces behind, by a tired-looking man who looks as if his feet hurt him.

In reading a magazine she merely glances at an article titled, "America's 12 richest bachelors," then turns to one about "What's wrong with our schools?"

When she's dining out, she tells the man with her, "I'll take this, and you'll take that. It's better for your stomach."

She always kicks off her shoes in a movie house.

She can't name the latest matinee show, but she can take a vacuum cleaner apart and put it together again in 15 minutes.

You look in her refrigerator and see eight bottles of milk and six cans of beer.

At a party you ask her to dance, a look of incredulous surprise sweeps over her face.

At a cocktail shindig, she keeps yanking at the same male elbow while yelping, "Remember what you promised. You said we'd go home after you had two."

She yawns when the talk turns to politics, but brightens up immediately if someone mentions a new recipe.

She tells the same man every morning five days a week, "Let's yank at the same male elbow while yelping. Remember what you promised. You said we'd go home after you had two."

When someone asks her what she does, she hangs her head, sighs, and says deprecatingly, "Me? Oh, I'm just a housewife."

But she wouldn't trade her job for any other career in the world.

To Your Good Health High-Fat Diet And Heart Disease

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
 "Dear Dr. Molner: Several months ago my husband suffered a coronary thrombosis (heart attack). He says his doctor never mentioned anything about diet. . . .
 "I have heard that some foods may increase the possibility of another attack. Is this true? If so, where can I obtain a diet that might lessen the danger?
 "There is a theory—and a reasonable one at that—I concede—that the high fat in our propens part of the world contributes to the amount of fatty glop that gradually accumulates in the arteries and (like rust or lime in a water pipe) gradually reduces the size of the inside of the pipe.
 "When the arteries are thus narrowed, there is more chance of a thrombosis (clot, or the like) reaching a narrowed place and sticking there.
 "If such a thing happens in the coronary (or heart) arteries, then you have a coronary thrombosis. Obviously, it can, and does, occur elsewhere if the body at times, but not with such drastic consequences.
 "One of the riddles of medical research is this question: If a high-fat diet is the single cause of this trouble, then why aren't Eskimos, with their tremendously high-fat diets, frequent victims?
 "A diet low in solid fats may—or may not—become a significant factor over a period of years. But you can be certain that obesity is, and will continue to be, an important and dangerous factor every day that it exists.

 "For the person who has had a heart attack, getting down to normal weight is the first rule. Also the second, third and fourth, as far as I can see, on the basis of my experience and information.
 "If weight is down to normal, then you can feel reasonably sure that your diet is satisfactory.
 "Dear Dr. Molner: Would the prolonged use of cortisone for arthritis cause loss of a person's hair?—H. B.
 "It may cause an increase in hair, especially around the face. I'm not familiar with LOSS of hair from it.
 "Dear Dr. Molner: In both of my armpits I have some things that I believe are known as skin tags. Should they be removed?
 "—G. M.
 "Skin tags, or papillomas, are an innocent thickening of the outer layer of skin. No need to remove them, if they occur on face or neck and mar one's appearance, they are easily removed, however.

Crow Matriculates

WASHINGTON, N. J. (AP)—Blackie is a popular student at Washington High School, even if he does steal pencils.

Blackie is a crow, the pet of 15-year-old Kenneth Lewis. Kenneth adopted the bird last summer, and when the vacation was over Blackie returned to classes with Kenneth. He even attended football practice sessions with his young master.

Kenneth said he has taught Blackie to say "Hello," and how to talk to his name.

Around The Rim Is There Honor Among Owners?

As a parting shot at the stray dog problem, word has been received that rabies has already been detected in the Dawson County area, primarily though non-domestic animals. But it has spread to domestic animals.

On the local scene, no rabies cases have been reported as yet.

Police officers, who now have, indirectly, command of the dog problem, report the dog warden is working a 10 hour day in an effort to answer all complaints concerning stray animals. Still, he has his hands full making all of the many calls received daily from complaining residents.

"Although we get complaints, residents do not want to file formal charges against offending dog owners," one officer said. "They ask us to talk to the owner, but then dismiss it."

AS A RESULT, the dog warden picks up strays and holds them for a time until called for by the owner. If the owner does not call for them, the animal is destroyed. A look at the statistics indicates Big Spring has an enormous dog population.

Basically, the problem goes back to the dog owner. It is up to him to keep his animals corralled. If the owner doesn't, neighbors are empowered to call police who will assist in seeing that charges are filed in a formal complaint.

Although many owners, apparently, are not reluctant to allow their dogs to run loose, neighbors of these owners are most reluctant to file charges, even though the animal is a nuisance.

That is where the matter stands, insofar as enforcement is concerned. Police are powerless to enforce the ordinance against stray dogs unless there are witnesses for the prosecution. And if neighbors are loath to file a case originally, the police feel they also would be opposed to testifying in court.

SO THE DOG problem would seem to be up to the individual dog owner. We can call it a matter of honor among owners.

The city ordinance requires that dogs be properly penned or otherwise under the control of the owner at all times. If owners keep their dogs properly under control, then the only dogs roaming city streets will be unowned or stray dogs.

The dog warden will catch these soon enough and the dog problem will be over. But, of course, this plan requires the cooperation of all dog owners.

IT'S KINDA LIKE driving a car. The careful driver is not a problem; it's the one who breaks the law, who kills someone and makes insurance rates higher. Everyone pays for the few who treat laws lightly.

Meanwhile, the rabies season is upon us and school will soon be out with children playing outside more than ever. It's up to the dog owners, whether these children will be safe or in danger of being bitten by a rabid animal.

Curios, Tequila And Food In Nogales

NOGALES, Mexico — Word that the United States Government may drastically cut the dollar value of goods and souvenirs a returning tourist may bring back into the U. S. A. is depressing news to merchants south of the border.

"By now before Uncle Sam lowers boom," coaxes a shop owner holding up a matching silver belt, bracelet, necklace and earrings.

"TAKE IT NOW while you can legal" advises a salesgirl in a linen shop specializing in bright embroideries.

"Maybe soon you have to drink it here instead of home" warns a liquor dealer who obviously believes that two gallons in the hand are worth one in Mexico.

At the moment, with the top customs allowance still set at $500, I do not see how any tourist could spend that much in Nogales unless he bought the shop, lock, stock and tequila. In fact, I do not see how anyone could squander $100 here unless he arrived in a truck. That is, always barring the Taxco silver, and even it is very expensive by American standards.

nearby Arizona. Nogales is famous for more than bargain-basement gin and handkerchiefs.

Out here in these great open spaces where roads run straight for mile after mile, no Arizona thinks twice before he jumps into his car and heads for Nogales and the Cavern Cafe. Few small towns anywhere in the world can boast such an immaculate, gourmet restaurant, specializing in all kinds of wild game in season, from mallard ducks and boar to doves and quails.

THE CAVERN, as its name suggests, is a cave hollowed out of a solid rock cliff that rises a block back of the main drag. In the long ago, before tourism came to sweeten life in Nogales, the cave was used for many years as the town jail. That much is certain. But whether Geronimo kept his prisoners there, as legend now says, is something else again.

No matter how hot the streets of Nogales, the Cavern is an always cool retreat, without aid of manmade air-conditioning, and a very large one, too. Tourists, their arches aching and their arms bulging with pottery, tin candlesticks, fringed leather jackets and huge glass water jugs, begin to retreat to the Cavern as early as 12 noon.

AMONG THE Cavern's most famous dishes is its "fresh Guaymas Green Turtle soup." This is no thin, pallid liquid such as sophisticates identify as green turtle soup, but a rich, thick brew that will hold either a spoon or a man upright. Delicious, too! Some quick-freeze magnum should coax the Cavern to put this soup on the market as a solace and boon to man in a wicked world.

Two Sides Of That 'GNP' Image

WASHINGTON — You could say that last autumn Candidate John Kennedy indicated the American economy under Eisenhower as being sluggish, wasteful and inadequate to the challenges of the 1960's.

YOU MAY say today that the Kennedy administration is now in the process of trying to convict the American economy of these campaign charges. Treasury Secretary Dillon and Labor Secretary Goldberg have been before the House Ways and Means Committee in the roles of prosecutors. Other Cabinet officers will follow. Thus far the star witness against the Eisenhower-type economy (as much free enterprise and as little government intervention as possible) is an ugly-named monster called Gross National Product. Here is Dillon calling upon this witness:

couple whose labor improves the property and community.

THERE ARE several ways to characterize this first year of the Kennedy administration and of the 87th Congress. One way would be to say the administration and majority party are tearing down the American image, while the Republican minority is trying to build up.

For the Democrats to look good, America must look bad. Unless the New Frontier reveals our sores, it cannot cure them. Unless it exaggerates our misery, it cannot claim to have pulled off political miracles.

FOR THEIR PART, the Republicans are always in danger of appearing to be stand-pat and smug in the face of obvious imperfections. Only the best of Republican spokesmen manage to depict America as we all know her to be. The country is not hurting for schools and hospitals, as the worst of the Democrats say—but, as the best of the Republicans say, we can and should improve the quality of teaching and medical care. Our jobs are not disappearing, as the calamity-howlers say, but are migrating to new industries.

The true picture of America, then, is of a nation which has accomplished all that good materialism can give. We must now improve, refine and distribute our blessings. But this is a difficult thing to express in the language of political pleading.

Alaska Builds Roads

JUNEAU, Alaska (U.S.—Alaska highway work under contract for this summer or on which bids have been asked over 300 miles of roads and 12 bridges.

In all, 31 federal highway aid projects are involved and the total cost approximates $14 million. T. D. Sherard, director of the state highways division, said.

BUT REPUBLICANS say that GNP does not include, nor does it measure many important activities. For example:

If a man stays home on Saturday and improves his mind with reading, this does not appear in the GNP. Nor does GNP reflect the work that a housewife does, such as home-laundrying or driving the children to and from school. Nor does the GNP give credit to the home-owning

ALL THIS is alarming — but we should remember that we are not hearing, as yet, much of the other side of the case. How good a witness to our economic health is this GNP? Who is this strange slanderer anyhow?

Well, two Republican Senators, Butler and Bush, with three Republican Representatives, Curtis, Kilburn and Widnall, have been chipping away at the GNP character. GNP is an aggregate of economic activities. It is supposed to be the sum of all enterprises which add something to the American economy.
