Use Of Rigid Crime Laws Starts Soon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Justice Department spokesman said today that federal agents would begin using sweeping new anti-crime laws immediately.

The spokesman said the department has information it has been unable to use to best advantage because of the absence of laws like the three President Kennedy signed Wednesday.

They make it a federal crime to:

—Cross state lines with or mail the proceeds of gambling, prostitution, or moonshine liquor. It is aimed at racketeers who live in one state but operate their rackets in another.

—Carry or send across state lines records, ticket slips or other data used in bookmaking, the numbers racket or betting pools or sports. The law exempts betting slips sent to Nevada, where gambling is legal, and parimutuel tickets used at tracks where gambling is legal.

—Use communications facilities such as cables, telephones, or telegraph to send gambling information across state lines. Common carriers under the jurisdiction of the Federal Communications Commission will have to withdraw service from subscribers using it for gambling.

The new laws represent the broadest anti-crime legislation passed since 1934.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, in urging passage of the bills, told Congress that gambling makes the bankroll of organized crime.

The new laws also will give the federal government more leeway in assisting local law enforcement officials.

WATERY ROUNDUP — A boat-riding cowboy uses a new method of rounding up cattle as he drops a lariat over the side and around the horns of a cow floating in a bayou in Houston. Rains in the wake of Hurricane Carla caused heavy flooding in low areas of the city and forced evacuation of livestock.

West Will Seek Formula To End Peril To World

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Western foreign ministers gathered today for a Berlin crisis conference against the background of President's Kennedy's suggestion of "serious talks" with the Russians at the United Nations next week.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and his British, French and West German counterparts were seeking a diplomatic formula to blunt the peril of nuclear war without making damaging concessions to the Soviet Union.

They also planned, while awaiting some sign of Soviet willingness to discuss an honorable settlement, to blueprint further strengthening of Allied military defenses along the Iron Curtain.

Rusk, British Foreign Secretary Lord Home and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville arranged the opening session of the three-day conference for late this afternoon. German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano will join the discussions Friday and Saturday.

Kennedy sparked a glimmer of hope for a breakthrough in the Berlin stalemate when he declared late Wednesday that the presence in New York next week of high American and Soviet officials would provide an opportunity for East-West exchanges on critical issues.

In a statement issued after conferring with Presidents Sukarno of Indonesia and Modibo Keita of Mali, Kennedy noted that Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko both would be at the opening of the U.N. General Assembly. He added:

"This will provide an opportunity for serious talks about Germany and other problems if the Soviet side proves willing. The channels of diplomacy are always open if the Soviet side proves willing."

Kennedy made no direct mention of a possible summit meeting in his statement, but privately he made it very clear to Su-

Clergymen Held In Racial Case

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — The son-in-law of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and 14 other Episcopal ministers will be tried Friday on breach of peace charges stemming from a lunchroom segregation incident.

The clergymen, part of a group of 28 ministers touring the nation on an anti - segregation "prayer pilgrimage," were lodged in two cells in city jail.

Twelve white ministers, including the Rev. Robert L. Pierson of Evanston, Ill., who is married to Rockefeller's daughter, Anne, were kept in a large cell with bunk beds. Three Negro Clergymen were held in a smaller cell.

The ministers, most of whom wore clerical collars, were intercepted by police when they tried to enter the segregated restaurant in the Trailways bus terminal.

The clergymen were told by one of two officers at the door to "move on."

"We're hungry. We are interstate passengers," replied one of the ministers. Rubbing his chin, the policeman asked: "Are you all going to move on?" The minister answered, "After we have some lunch"

Police Capt. John L. Ray, a veteran officer who has arrested scores of "freedom riders" here, was summoned to the scene. He arrested the clergymen when they again refused to leave the terminal.

In Rochester, N. Y., Rockefeller did not appear surprised by news of his son-in-law's incarceration. He has been very interested in this cause," the New York governor said. "I admire the courage and dedication of these young people to the basic precepts on which this country was founded and their dedication to the cause of making a reality out of these precepts."

Probe Scheduled Of Why American Goods Go To Reds

WASHINGTON (UPI — The chairman of a special House committee said today he planned to launch an investigation next month to learn why the government allows American businessmen to ship machines and supplies behind the Iron Curtain.

Rep. A. Paul Kitchen told a reporter he intended to get started "just as soon as it is physically possible."

The North Carolina Democrat said House leadership had informed him he would be named chairman, but that formal announcement was being withheld until the other four members of the committee were selected.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges were known to be unenthusiastic about the prospect of a congressional committee looking into the government's licensing of American goods for shipment to Communist bloc nations.

But a number of House members are concerned about the quantity and quality of equipment and supplies being exported from the United States to Russia and its satellites.

Last week, the House voted to create the committee to investigate this trading. Kitchen said he planned to go before the administration committee Tuesday to ask for investigating funds.

During a recent five - week period, licenses for goods valued at $8.8 million were approved by the Commerce Department for shipment to Soviet bloc nations and another $2.5 million for Yugoslavia.

Canadian Front Cools Off State

By United Press International

A Canadian cold front knifed deep into the state today, leaving behind crisp, fall - like weather and touching off showers in the Rio Grande and Pecos valleys.

Skies were clear and temperatures cooler today across all of Texas except along the Gulf Coast and the valley regions. Thundershowers were reported in the Rio Grande Valley from El Paso to Brownsville.

Dalhart had an overnight low of 44 and Brownsville 72.

Winds were easterly in the western portion of Texas and northerly over the rest of the state.

Fair temperatures and clear skies were forecast for most of the state. South Central and extreme Southwestern Texas had thundershowers forecast.

Official U.S. Weather Bureau rainfall recordings for the 24 hours ended at 6 a.m. included: El Paso .06, Presidio .19, Laredo 2.33, Brownsville 5.12, San Antonio .38, Houston .31, Beaumont .36, Texarkana .05, McAllen 1.87, Lufkin .47, Harlingen 1.24, Tyler .03 and Sherman .03.

Doubt Expressed U.S. Can Aid Pair Held By Commies

BERLIN (UPI)—U. S. authorities held out little hope today of helping two Americans held by the Communists on charges of trying to smuggle an East German girl to the West.

The East German Interior Ministry identified the Americans as Victor Searles Pankey and Gilbert Page Ferry, both 20, of California. The ministry said both were caught trying to smuggle the East Berlin girl through the Friedrichstrasse crossing point in the trunk of their car.

The East Germans at the same time announced the arrests of a Briton, Bernard Joseph Colett, 30, of Birmingham, and a Dutchman, Henri Johannes Petrus Marie Pierrot, 56, of Leyden, on similar charges.

U. S. officials knew nothing more about the Americans. The East German news agency ADN said all four had been turned over to East Berlin courts, but did not say when or where trials would be held or what the exact charges were.

The United States cannot deal directly with East Germany authorities because there are no diplomatic channels between the two. The Communists would interpret any such moves as recognition of their regime.

Evacuees Find Village Gone

PORT O'CONNOR, Tex. (UPI) — This tiny coastal community suffered the highest percentage of damage of any city or town in the path of Hurricane Carla.

Port O'Connor does not have a building left standing in its business district. It had a population of 1,000 before the storm.

Nearby Port Alto, a weekend resort village with several hundred homes and cottages, reportedly had only three structures standing. Olivia, another fishing resort in the area, was flattened.

Evacuees returning home could only stand and look. Only foundations remained where their houses had been.

Returning Refugees Find More Victims Of Storm

GALVESTON, Tex. UPI —Refugees returned to battered and flooded homes along the Gulf Coast today and were urged to take shots to prevent an outbreak of typhoid.

Even as they streamed back, searchers were finding more victims of Hurricane Carla.

The death toll was expected to reach 31. Bodies of 28 persons had been found.

The U.S. Navy lent its services to the many relief workers in the area. Two ships were standing off the coast and others were due in the storm-hit areas later today.

A search party Wednesday found eight more victims of Carla's fury.

The dead were identified as R. W. Dunn, 52; four adopted children, Walter Allen, 10, Wallace Royce, 9, Carl Theodore, 5, and Viola Eunice, 4; Joseph John Drvar, 54, uncle of the Dunn children; Floyd Gaylon Ham, 14, and Bobby Joe Ham, 11, Drvar's step-sons.

Robert Dunn, 15, clung to the roof of the house when it collapsed and drifted away on flood waters. He made it to dry ground.

Missing were Mrs. Drvar, 52; Mrs. Dunn, 50; and Ted Allen Ham, 15.

Mayor Ed Tarrant ordered the island city of Port Aransas and Mustang Island quarantined. He said anyone leaving or entering the area will be given typhoid shots.

The Galveston County Medical Association said facilities for giving typhoid shots will be established all through the county. An inoculation center was set up for Texas City and Lamarque.

Floods were still a threat. Nine Texas rivers rose and some surged into lowlands.

Cities still closed to an estimated 400,000 refugees were Texas City, Sabine Pass, High Island, Bolivar, Gilchrist, Groves, Port Acres, Matagorda and Freeport.

The Department of Public Safety declared 19 cities along the coast open to refugees. Galveston was among those cleared for return.

More GM Plant Disputes Ended

DETROIT (UPI) —The United Auto Workers and General Motors hoped new pressure by the federal government would lead to new settlements of local plant disputes that closed nearly 100 GM factories and idled a quarter-million workers.

Agreements reported during the night brought to 53 the number of plants represented by the UAW and the International Union of Electrical Workers that have reached accord on local problems.

Many of them, however, still had not re-opened.

As of today, there were about 250,000 workers on strike at about 90 GM plants. And other plants not on strike were being closed anyway because of the widespread walkout that crippled the world's biggest auto maker last Monday.

GM, which said not a car had been produced this week, laid off a total of 10,000 workers today. Another 75,000 were still working but faced layoffs if full agreement is not reached soon.

Sen. Tower Almost Got Work Offer

GALVESTON (UPI) — A short man wearing a khaki shirt, old pants, rubber boots and an old felt hat walked into Civil Defense headquarters here and asked if he could help out in the hurricane relief work.

Ray Houston, head of Galveston's Civil Defense communications center, looked him over and asked who he was.

"I'm Sen. John Tower," the volunteer answered.

"Oh, I'm sorry. I was all set to put you to work out in the dump cleaning up debris," Houston said.

Tower was making a personal tour of the area hit by Hurricane Carla.

Gen. Clay Soon Going To Berlin

NEW YORK (UPI)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay leaves for Berlin this weekend as President Kennedy's personal representative, gravely concerned that Russia and the West have reached "the point of least return" over the isolated German city.

The 64-year-old Clay, commander of American troops in Berlin during the Berlin Airlift, says he "presumes" negotiations will begin before a showdown is reached.

But he is prepared to recommend use of force if necessary to defend Berlin's freedom.

Clay is severing all his business relations to take his new post. He will stay there as long as he is wanted. This time he will not be in uniform but his reports and recommendations to President Kennedy will deal both with military and political aspects of the Berlin picture.

"We have reached a situation which is more tense than it ever has been," Clay said. "We have not reached the crisis yet—but we are very close to it. I would say that we have reached the point of least return."

Red Claims Strenuous Era Faced

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky said today Russia must prepare for a "strenuous, difficult and exceptionally fierce war."

The top Soviet military chief accused the West of plotting war against Russia, and said the Kremlin was forced to resume nuclear testing and strengthen Soviet defenses because of the "military preparations" by the United States and its NATO Allies.

The United States has detected nine Soviet nuclear explosions since Russia resumed testing Sept. 1. This week the Soviet Union announced it was about to begin a new series of tests of long-range rockets by firing them into the Central Pacific.

Contending that the next war would be the "decisive armed clash between two opposing social systems," Malinovsky said that Russia was capable of delivering "to any point on earth" nuclear bombs with destructive power equivalent to millions of tons of TNT.

The defense minister's words, published in the Communist party newspaper Pravda, constituted the second such statement by a top Soviet official in as many days. Wednesday, Marshal Kirill S. Moskalenko, chief of the Soviet rocket command, said the Soviet armed forces had intercontinental ballistics missiles capable of carrying megaton nuclear warheads to any point of the world.

Neither Moskalenko nor Malinovsky specifically referred to the 100-megaton warhead that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has said Russia is developing. Such a warhead would have the explosive power of 100 million tons of TNT.

Malinovsky urged Russia's citizens and servicemen to gird for the war he said the West was preparing.

"The use of the means of mass destruction and massive blows will impart to this war an aspect of unprecedented devastation," he said. "We must prepare our armed forces for such a strenuous difficult and exceptionally fierce war."

Lonely Boy, Parents And Home Gone In Flood, Finds Haven

ANGLETON, Tex. (UPI) — Fifteen-year-old Robert Dunn slept in a bed Wednesday night for the first time since Sunday.

But he didn't sleep at home because he had no home and his family wasn't there because they were all dead or missing in the floodwaters left by Hurricane Carla.

Robert wandered up to a house Wednesday on Farm to Market Road 523 near Angleton. Hungry, cut and bruised, he told of how winds and flood had destroyed his home near Angleton and killed most of his family.

He and 11 other members of his immediate family and a related family had decided to ride out the hurricane in Robert's home.

Suddenly a deluge "that must have been a tidal wave" covered their house and their car, he said.

"Somehow we made it to the attic. All the food we had was a loaf of bread between us. My share was two slices. But two of the younger children were crying because they were so hungry, and I divided my share among them. I didn't feel hungry anyway."

The teen-ager said the water got so high the family went onto the roof and spent the night there. A wall of the house had caved in.

Later they went back into the attic and another big wave hit. They decided to head for the roof again and he was the first one out.

"I tried to reach down and help two of the children up, but something seemed to pull them away from me. The last time I saw my parents, mother and dad were holding hands and she was crying."

It was the last time anybody saw Robert's parents — or his four brothers and sisters, an uncle, an aunt, and three cousins. The bodies of eight of them were found and the rest were missing.

Robert spent all day Monday and Monday night on the roof. It broke away and floated into a rice field and hung on a fence. When the water went down, Robert walked, then found a rowboat. He spent Tuesday night in it.

Wednesday morning, Robert's ordeal ended when he found a house. He was given food and the sheriff was notified.

He spent the night at the home of a Brazoria County employe.

Coast Oil Plants Hope To Resume Operations Soon

HOUSTON (UPI) — The giant coastal oil industry, stunned but not flattened by Hurricane Carla's knockout punch, surveyed its damages and has prepared for full operations again.

Most of the big plants in the sprawling oil and petrochemical complex escaped serious damage.

A survey by United Press International yesterday showed the hardest hit plants to be the Dow Chemical plant at Freeport, where most of the installation was under water, the wind-damaged Plymouth oil plant at Texas City, and the Monsanto Chemical Co. petrochemical plant at Texas City, also partially flooded.

A Dow official said when levees at Freeport broke, the plant, which employes 6,000 persons, had to be shut down. Flood waters poured in and damage was expected to be "great."

Monsanto's plant sits on high ground overlooking Galveston Bay. Its concrete block office provided shelter for 125 employes and 280 members of Monsanto families.

Monsanto public relations representative Tom C. Ford said, "we had some damage...but we'll be operating again as soon as water, electricity and gas service is restored.

Plymouth Oil's Republic division said its plant at Texas City received "extensive damage," mostly from high winds. A two-week delay was expected before the plant could begin operating again at 40,000 barrels a day.

Gulf Oil Co. said its Port Arthur Refinery came through the storm in "good shape," and Humble Oil & Refining Co. reported its Baytown refinery getting ready to operate again after sustaining minor damage.

Texaco's Port Arthur plant suffered minor wind and water damage.

Navy To Summon More Reservists

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy has announced that an additional 1,957 individual naval air reservists will be recalled to active duty beginning in October.

The action will bring to 78,457 the total reservists of all services recalled to duty since the Berlin crisis. The first call on Aug. 25 affected 76,500 men.

The Navy said the additional individuals are needed to bring to full strength reserve squadrons involved in the Aug. 25 call. Five patrol squadrons flying P-2-V Neptune planes and 13 squadrons flying antisubmarine aircraft were ordered to duty at that time.

The individuals will be given at least 30 days notice," the announcement said. It added: "Reporting dates will be phased throughout October."

Priority in the call-up will be given to reservists who did not serve in either world war II or the Korean War, the Navy said. Those who served in both wars would be last called, "in so far as military requirements permit."

Salt Water Bill Given Approval

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has approved a compromise bill authorizing a six-year, $75 million expanded program of federal research on making salt water drinkable. The compromise, worked out by House-Senate conferees, now goes to the House for final action.

Negroes Declared In Need Of Help

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Civil Rights Commission said Saturday that southern Negroes must have more help from Congress to avoid an agonizingly long and expensive delay in achieving voting rights.

It told President Kennedy and Congress that the civil rights acts of 1957 and 1960 have helped some Negroes reach the polls but that new and broader laws are needed to hasten voting equality.

Former Officer's Painting Rejected

CHELMSFORD, England (UPI) — Former Policeman Harry St. John's painting of a policeman for a recruiting poster was turned down because it's too "realistic — it captures the loneliness of a country constable too well."

Gas Stations Rise

NEW YORK (UPI) — There is one service station for every 327 motor vehicles registered in the U.S., according to Oil Facts Magazine. Ten years ago there was one station for every 226 vehicles.

Rebuilding Starts In Corpus Christi

CORPUS CHRISTI (UPI)—Corpus Christi is down but not out.

The city has started the monumental task of cleaning up after Hurricane Carla's devastating punch. While damage estimates to Corpus Christi and Nueces County ranged as high as $10.5 million, City Manager Herbert Whitney predicted that no more than two days would be required to restore full utility service.

North Beach damage was heavier than any other single section of the Corpus Christi region.

"There was a great deal of trash and debris washed around the streets and we don't know what conditions are inside privately owned motels and business buildings," Whitney said.

No serious personal injuries were recorded. Grim-faced National Guardsmen have seen to it that there has been no looting.

"We figure our Padre Island park is a total loss," he said. "We had 22 cabanas, several offices and some restaurants out there."

He said a county - owned Ocean Drive bridge was washed out, blocking traffic to the north gate of the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station and to the University of Corpus Christi. The washed out span was swept three miles down Oso creek, he said.

"We're not sure yet about our four ferry landings to Aransas Pass and we don't know how badly the Ocean Drive road is damaged," Whiteney said. "Our Nueces County causeway to Padre Island appears to have been damaged severely — we're not even able to get up to it yet."

Private Company Flies Kennedy Family Airplane

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House:

Among the recent arrivals at Hyannis Port, Mass., aboard the Kennedy family plane, the Caroline, was Porfirio Rubirosa, the Dominican Republic diplomat — sportsman widely regarded as a charming activist in certain layers of society.

Rubirosa and his stunningly beautiful young wife got a ride on the Kennedy family plane from New York. They were on Cape Cod to visit Morton Downey, the oldtime radio star who is a good friend and neighbor of the President's father, former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy.

The Caroline no longer is used by the President who has plenty of government aircraft at his disposal. The family plane is owned and operated by a private Kennedy corporation, Kenair. Along with Rubirosa, Carroll Rosenbloom, owner of the Baltimore Colts professional football team, flew from New York to Cape Cod last Friday night. Rosenbloom frequently visits the President's father in Hyannis Port and Palm Beach.

A New Jersey dentist, Dr. Robert L. Betts of Rockaway, has what amounts to a running quarrel with President Kennedy. It all began last Jan. 30 when in a message to Congress the Chief Executive referred to "doctors and dentists".

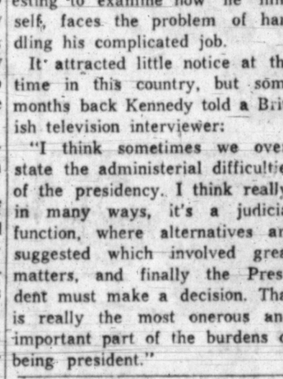

This had an effect on Dr. Betts much like his drill must invigorate some of his patients. He fired off a message to Kennedy saying "doctors of medicine and dentisty, but please not 'doctors and dentists'." Betts claimed the President's choice of words implied "a dentist is not a doctor of dentistry."

As the President faces a daily diet of international crisis and stern decision, it may be interesting to examine how he himself, faces the problem of handling his complicated job.

It attracted little notice at the time in this country, but some months back Kennedy told a British television interviewer:

"I think sometimes we overstate the administerial difficulties of the presidency. I think really, in many ways, it's a judicial function, where alternatives are suggested which involved great matters, and finally the President must make a decision. That is really the most onerous and important part of the burdens of being president."

U.S. Orbit Of Man This Year In Doubt

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)— The United States still holds a slim chance of sending a man into orbit around earth this year, but the astronaut will have to wait until a baby chimpanzee proves it is safe.

Project Mercury scientists, flushed with the success of Wednesday's orbit and recovery of a "robot astronaut," plan to send the small ape on a 75,000-mile space voyage three times around earth inside a bell-shaped capsule.

Plans for the orbital chimp shot, which could come within six to eight weeks, represented an apparent victory by Mercury's scientists in a reported behind-the-scenes struggle with administration leaders over the next step in the man-in-space program.

Sources said "some top people," including congressmen on key committees, had pressed Mercury chiefs to forget the chimp shot and go straight to a manned orbital flight. Space Agency head James E. Webb denied his agency was under heavy pressure.

Scientists insisted another unmanned orbital flight was necessary to test certain improvements such as a new escape hatch, modifications in communications equipment and a few other "small changes."

Webb said President Kennedy had called the manned flight program "urgent," but had insisted it be carried out with "minimum risks." The success of the robot "Strengthens our hope for a manned flight before the end of this year," Webb said.

But the test Wednesday and the planned chimpanzee launching, even if successful, cannot guarantee America will be able this year to match the exploits of Russian spacemen Yuri Gagarin and Gherman Titov.

Lions Seeking To Assist Area Blind Persons

Members of the Pampa Lions Club announced today they are seeking information on anyone in the Pampa area who is blind and needs help.

Members said a school for the blind is located at Kerrville where a fully trained staff will assist each individual in the use of a trained seeing eye dog and in other services.

If anyone knows of a person in the Pampa area who is blind and needs help they are urged to contact the following members of the Lions club: Dr. Harboard Cox, Frank Culberson, Oscar Huff, H. C. Scegg, R. R. Watson or Ray Wilson.

Tilt of the Leaning Tower of Pisa, Italy, has been increasing at a rate of about .039-of-an-inch each year.

ATTEND CLINIC MEET — Shriners recently met to discuss plans for further assistance in the clinic research program at Hereford relating to crippled children. Attending the meeting were, left to right, Lew Turpin, secretary of the Oasis Shrine Club in Pampa, Harry Bennett, president; Dr. L. B. Barnett, Hereford; William Gassaway, president of the Amacan Shrine Club; R. E. Burton, vice president of the Pampa Shrine Club and Dick Stowers, president of the Pampa Shrine Club.

Shriners To Promote Research Clinic Work

Dr. L. B. Barnett, a former Pampan and chemist with Cabot Carbon Co. in 1938 and 1939, was the featured speaker on the recent Pampa Shrine Club program.

The club met in a special meeting Friday night at Poole's Steak House to meet with Shriners from Amarillo and Hereford. The meeting was relative to enlarging the research work on bone structure which is now underway in Hereford. Dr. Barnett is now a practicing physician in Hereford and heads the work of research and diagnostic clinics there.

The recent research conducted in Hereford by the Research Institute has discovered that people who are natives of the area, have a faster bone-healing ability than other people from many parts of the world. It has been found that their bones heal from 25 per cent to 50 per cent faster. The Research Institute has operated as a non-provit organization under the supervision of the three medical colleges in Texas. More than $50,000 worth of laboratory equipment has been purchased by Hereford Shriners and their fellow townsmen.

The Hereford Shrine Club has also operated a crippled children's clinic once a year for six years. There have been over 800 children examined in these clinics. Shrine clubs and units throughout the area are now trying to help in these two Hereford projects.

Last May 20, 285 children were examined by a staff of 28 medical specialists from Amarillo, Lubbock, Houston, Galveston and Denver, Colo. These specialists diagnose cases in speech defects, neurology, eye, ear, nose and throat ailments, plastic surgery, orthopedic, and heart and lung diseases. There were children from all over the Panhandle area, Houston area, New Mexico and several other states. After the clinic is over, the doctors write letters to their patient's parents giving advice on treatment and helping the children to enter various Shrine and Scottish Rite Hospitals which specialize in the care of crippled children. Pictures taken of this year's clinic were shown by Harry Bennett, president of the Oasis Shrine Club in Hereford.

Dr. Bennett was introduced by W. T. Gassaway, president of the Amacan Shrine Club in Amarillo. The group from Hereford and Amarillo were accompanied by the Amarillo Drum and Bugle Corp.

A report of the work with crippled children in Pampa was given by Roy Kay, cho-chairman of the Shrine crippled childrens work in the Pampa area. This work in Pampa is financed by the barbeques which the Pampa Shrine Club serves for various organizations. The dates of future barbeques were given by Truman Attaway. The meeting was presided over by Richard Stowers, president of the Pampa Shrine Club.

Much interest in this clinic has been shown by Galloway Calhoun of Tyler, chairman of the Board of Trustees, Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children. He attended the clinic this year and plans to be back with his staff of medical advisors next year, Stowers said.

Imaginative Food Choices Can Help Provide Quick, Nutrious Breakfasts

Most families look forward to Saturday or Sunday breakfasts when there's plenty of time for preparing and sitting down together to eat the meal, but Monday through Friday in many homes is a different matter. Homemakers know the basis for an adequate breakfast — a vitamin C-rich fruit or juice such as oranges, grapefruit, tomatoes or melons, ready-to-eat cereal with milk, bread and milk or coffee.

Because these elements are so easy to put together from a predictable selection of foods, it's not difficult to let the breakfasts you serve slip into a rut. Yet by imaginative food choices you can serve quick, nutrient - rich breakfasts that are a great deal more interesting.

Just one new touch on the breakfast table for "September — Better Breakfast Month," can make a big difference. It might be a chunk of comb honey to add its goodness to buttery English muffins, toast or speedy refrigerator biscuits. The cafe au lait Europeans enjoy in the morning is a pleasant and nourishing accompaniment to the sort of breakfasts to which we are accustomed. Make it by pouring equal parts of strong coffee and frothy hot milk into generous-sized breakfast coffee cups.

Corned beef hash, especially when sliced and baked with a crisp corn flake crumbs coating, is another enjoyable addition to the basic cereal breakfast. Or, if your family likes French toast, try orange French Toast rounds served plain or with warm maple-blended syrup.

CORN-CRISPED CORNED BEEF HASH

2 cups corn flakes or ½ cup packaged corn flake crumbs
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 15½-ounce can chilled corned beef hash
¼ cup undiluted evaporated milk

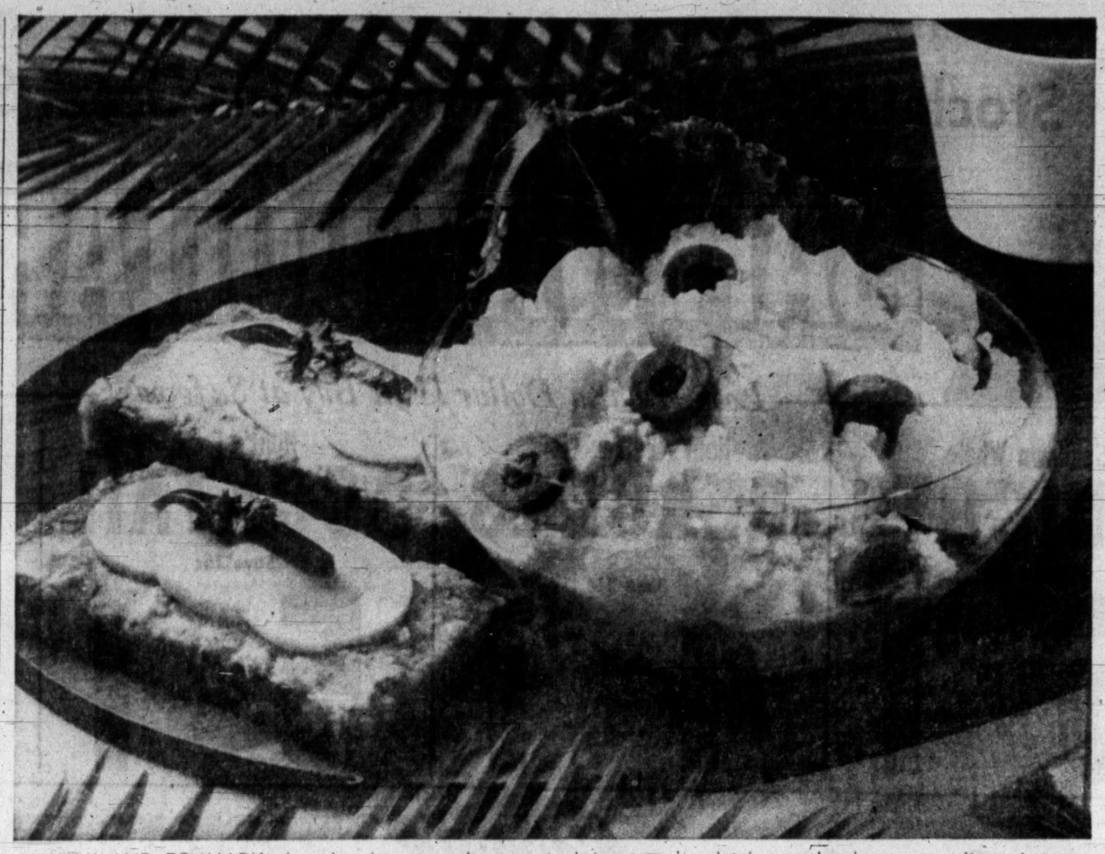

If using corn flakes, crush into fine crumbs. Combine corn flake crumbs, salt and pepper. Cut corned beef hash into ½-inch slices. Dip slices in evaporated milk, then roll in corn flake crumbs mixture. Place slices in aluminum foil-lined shallow baking pan. Do not crowd. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 20 minutes. Serve hot.

Yield: 4 or more servings

ORANGE FRENCH TOAST ROUNDS

If using corn flakes, crush into fine crumbs. Remove crusts from bread slices, cutting one large round from each slice. Combine eggs, salt and orange juice; beat well. Dip bread rounds in egg mixture, then in corn flake crumbs. Brown on both sides in heated shortening. Sift confectioners' sugar over toast rounds and serve at once.

Yield: 4 servings, 2 rounds each

Lunch Box Tricks Help Slim Fatties

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lunch at school needn't be a time of torture for weight-watching adolescents.

It can and should be a fun meal that nourishes as well as slims.

From a firm making low calorie salad dressings come these suggestions for de - calorizing and glamorizing the school lunch box:

—Make each lunch box menu a full meal of several courses. A varied menu seems lavish and the appetite easily is fooled by the appearance of things. In addition to a sandwich, include such extras as hot soup — boullion or tomato, a crisp salad of raw carrots, celery, radishes, green pepper strips and cherry tomatoes, fresh fruit or even some low calorie sweets for dessert.

—Use different types of bread to keep the sandwiches interesting. Thin slices, of course. Remove the crusts. Plump crisp rolls are dieters' aids. Scoop out the doughy centers and use the shells for sandwiches.

—Spread the bread with low calorie salad dreessing, either mild French or garlicy Italian-style.

—Make the filling bulky. Lettuce, tomato or cucumber slices, watercress, chicory, or pickle strips plump up a sliced meat, poultry or egg sandwich.

—Cut the sandwiches into small varied shapes — triangles, strips and rounds.

—A bit of licorice, a couple of gumdrops or some hard candies can substitute for the butter creams, fudges or caramel deserts which would wreck the calorie budget.

New, Surprise Luncheon Colorful, Low-Caloried

Want to serve a show - off luncheon that has the added advantage of being low calorie? If so, New Surprise Salad and Danish-Open-faced Sandwiches are sure to be a hit.

NEW SURPRISE SALAD

Just spoon Cottage Cheese on Crisp Salad Greens and top with Dole Spiced Pineapple Chunks and Sliced Pimiento Stuffed Olives. The spiciness of New Spiced Pneapple Chunks and the saltiness of stuffed green olives make for a refreshing, colorful, and delightful taste surprise. This flavor combination may be tasted dubiously, but without a doubt, it'll be praised with excitement.

Tips for figuring ingredient amounts for luncheon salads or smaller dinner salads: allow ½ to 1 cup of Cottage Cheese and 3 or 4 stuffed Olives, sliced, per salad. One can (13½ ox. Spiced Pineapple Chunks is plenty for 4 to 6 salads.

Be lavish with colorful Open-faced Sandwich Combinations — use your imagination — here's a start: lightly butter sandwich bread with softened butter. Spread with deviled ham and arrange slices of hard cooked egg, pimiento strips and a bit of parsley on top. If you plan to cut sandwiches, do so now, then place on a cool rack. Chill for about 20 minutes in refrigerator or 10 minutes in freezer (important — so glaze will take hold). Place rack over a tray (to catch drips), then carefully pour or spoon slightly thickened geletin mixture over sandwiches. Immediately chill until set — about 30 minutes in refrigerator. The glaze keeps these festive Danish-inspired sandwiches bright and fresh looking.

DANISH SANDWICH GLAZE

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
1 cup boiling water
2 tablespoons vinegar
½ teaspoon onion salt
1 teaspoon seasoned salt

Soften gelatin in ½ cup cold water. Add spices to boiling water, then stir in softened gelatin. Ready when cool and slightly thickened. Makes enough glaze for 6 to 8 slices of bread.

Sweet Molasses Perfect Foil For Tart Food

If you have never before combined lemo nwith unsulphured molasses, you are in for a pleasant surprisel Sweet molasses is a perfect foil for a tart food. In fact, molasses and fruit are autumn-bright additions to the family bright additions to the family menus.

LEMON MOLASSES FLUFF

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
2-3 cup sugar, divided
⅛ teaspoon salt
¾ cup water
6 tablespoons lemon juice, divided
¼ cup unsulphured molasses
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
¾ cup ice water
¾ cup nonfat dry milk crystals

Combine the unflavored gelatin, 1-3 cup of the sugar, and the salt in saucepan. Stir in water, ¼ cup of the lemon juice, and the unsulphured molasses. Place over low heat, stirring constantly until gelatin is dissolved. Remove from heat; stir in lemon rind. Chill until mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg white. While mixture is chilling, combine ice water and non-fat dry milk crystals in a mixing bowl. Beat until soft peaks form (about 4 minutes). Add the remaining 2 tablespoons lemon juice and continue beating until stiff peaks form about 4 minutes longer). Beat in remaining 1-3 cup sugar. Fold in gelatin mixture. Spoon into serving dishes.

Yield: 8 servings.

Children Returning To School Need An Adequate Breakfast Every Day

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

With the reopening of school, parents are faced with the problem of getting their children to eat an adequate breakfast every morning. From medical studies, from educators and dietiticians, comes evidence that children who rush off to school without breakfast are often mentally tired, inattentive and restive by noontime. In fact, worried by the increasing tendency of school children to neglect breakfast, educators, public health authorities, the medical profession and others interested in the welfare of our young citizens are backing the Better Breakfasts drive which starts today.

All authorities say that breakfast should provide from 1-3 to ¼ of the day's total food requirements. A breakfast of fruit, cereal, toast, butter or margarine and milk will provide good nourishment, well-balanced. For more protein, add an egg, a slice of ham or other meat, or an omelet.

Some hints on improving breakfast habits of school children: Get them up a little earlier so they won't have to rush through breakfast. If possible, arrange for at least one other member of the family to sit down with them. Plan breakfast the night before and lay the table attractively.

Walter Rogers Reports

Alanreed Resident's Ode To Liberty Impressive

Several days ago I inserted an item in the Congressional Record which I think will be of interest to many people in our District. With your permission, I am going to reprint it here as my newsletter for this week.

Extension of Remarks of HON. WALTER ROGERS of Texas

In the House of Representatives

Mr. Speaker, I was recently honored by a visit from an old friend of mine from Alanreed, Texas. Alanreed is located on Highway 66 in the southern part of Gray County, Texas. Just north of Alanreed my good friend, Paul M. Bruce, has long maintained a nursery. He has dedicated his life to the soil and the things that God makes to grow. His wonderful work is well known through the Panhandle of Texas and the southwest.

In recent months, he came to New York to visit his brother and decided to come by the Nation's Capital for a visit. While so doing, he struck up a conversation with a gentleman by the name of Johnny Walker of Scranton, Pennsylvania. Mr. Walker very kindly brought him by my office, as he was well acquainted and familiar with Washington.

Subsequently Mr. Bruce wrote to Johnny Walker thanking him for his courtesies and enclosing in that letter his thoughts as he viewed the Statue of Liberty. Mr. Walker was so deeply impressed with these two documents that he forwarded them to his Congressman, the Honorable William W. Cranton of the 10th District of Pennsylvania. Congressman Scranton very kindly forwarded these documents to me, and I am taking the liberty of inserting them in the Record. I think that the statements of Paul M. Bruce, of Alanreed, Texas, should be read by very American, and I hope that this will be possible. The letter from Mr. Bruce I insert first and his "Ode to the Statue of Liberty" immediately following:

August 12, 1961

Dear Johnny Walker: I don't have words to express my thanks to you for being so very nice to me in the District of Columbia.

My Representative, Walter Rogers, was wonderful, also seeing that I was well cared for while in the District of Columbia. I saw many beautiful sights. God has made us a wonderful nation. When I left Walter's office, I was just a little lost. A very nice lady started past me. She said, "Aren't you a little lost here in the District of Columbia? I might help you." "Sure," I said. "I would like to get out in the open." She was from New Mexico. I never have had so many wonderful experiences in all my life. Every time I needed help, someone was right there to help the Texan. I hope I can be helpful to others as they were to me.

I am enclosing my version of the Statue of Liberty as I promised.

I will never forget how nice you were to me.

I wish you success in your every endeavor. Best wishes always.

Love,
Paul M. Bruce

"Ode to Statue of Liberty"
(By Paul Bruce, Alanreed, Texas)

I fell in love with her—the Statue of Liberty.

We boarded a helicopter at Idlewild Airport near New York City. It was a beautiful evening. A fine old gentleman sat beside me. He was born in New York City and he began to tell me about the different beautiful sights. "I hope the pilot flies us by the Statue of Liberty." "Wonderful," I said. We could see her at a distance. The pilot headed our plane directly toward her; we passed just above and to my side. I was next to the window as we faced her. She is the most beautiful statue I have ever seen. Standing there in the harbor, facing the ocean, calm, beautiful, poised and serene. That's when I fell in love with her. I waved my hand and blew a kiss to her. Something was telling me she understood. It all happened so quickly, she didn't have time to wave or smile back at me. Then I began to realize what she really meant to me — liberty, freedom, love, and the pursuit of happiness. In fact, everything, all the virtues of life. Man has no greater gifts than these except eternal life in heaven with his Maker. She stands there in the harbor, facing the ocean, to welcome the weary traveler on his long voyage home across the deep blue sea, or the one seeking a new home on her beautiful and peaceful shores.

We pray to our God in whom we trust, that she will always remain there, beautiful, serene and unmatched, as she stands today and that the peoples of the world will fall in love with her as I have. Please do.

I am wondering if all who have gazed upon her lovely face fully realize what she means to them and what she stands for — let's not forget. We are truly indebted to all who had a part in erecting this beautiful Statue of Liberty. I pray that all who view her or learn of her wonderful ways will fall in love with her as I have. Although I live many miles from her, I will always love her and cherish the memory of her. Won't you?

Everyone in the United States of America that's old enough has heard about her. She is cherished and loved by millions, and not enough millions have looked into her beautiful face — still not enough. You should see her. To see is to appreciate her more.

Her name is Liberty because she stands for every principle that we know as a free, liberty loving people and Nation. We should do our very best to live the principles of life she stands for. Liberty has cost us much since the birth of our Nation. Let's be brave and not cowards. Let's preserve it, love and keep it. God gave it to us because he loved us.

Let's love and trust Him more. He is the giver of all our blessings. Won't you love Him more? Let Him be your first love.

Dear Abby...

Should Be Flattered To Eat In Kitchen!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I am small, but I have a question to ask. Don't you think a woman who claims to be a good friend should entertain her "good friends" in her living room? Whenever I visit this person she leads me right to the kitchen!

She puts the coffee pot on and we sit there all during my stay. She has a lovely home, a beautiful coffee service and gorgeous dishes, but all I ever see is her kitchen and her everyday dishes. Am I wrong?

INSULTED

DEAR INSULTED: No. Your friend was wrong to assume that you were a person with whom she could be herself without fuss or frills. You should feel flattered, not insulted.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to points out to MRS. CITIZEN, who thinks our country is going to the dogs because our teen-age girls try to look older, that this is not nearly so offensive as some of our big, fat, gray-haired old women who appear in public with bare backs, skin-tight Capri pants, and shorts so short they disappear when the women sit down. When mothers (and grandmothers) start dressing their age, perhaps our teen-agers will have an example worth following.

C. S. M.

DEAR ABBY: What's wrong with our Daddy? Our mother passed away last April. After the funeral I went back home, as I am married. My brother went back to college. When we came back, almost six months later, we found all of Mamma's clothes, shoes, hats, and purses just like she was on a visit somewhere and was coming back to wear them. We would feel better if Daddy cleaned out the drawers and closets and got rid of these sad reminders. Should we tell Daddy to do this? He feels bad enough, and we hate to make him feel worse.

JEAN AND JOE

DEAR JEAN AND JOE: For the moment don't say anything. Your Daddy might decide soon himself that he wants to get rid of the reminders. If a year passes, and nothing is moved, suggest Mamma's room be painted another color, and her things given to someone who can get some good use out of them. If he resists your suggestions — don't press it.

"Are things rough?" Let Abby help you solve your problem. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and send to Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Price Is Right

One autumn solution to the small wrap problem lies in a little fake broadtail jacket that's budget-priced. Some have collars of bunny fur and others are trimmed in braid just like the real thing.

A mother who makes believe with her children often has the upper hand. If children hate to have their ears washed, get them to pretend their ears are rooms needing careful cleaning. They'll have more fun when it's bath-time. Of course, there is also a magic word to use. It's "march."

Lack Of Hearing For Gen. Walker Found Puzzling

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It was not by mere chance that Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker was deprived of his day in court along with his command in Germany.

Depriving Walker of his command in Germany was a simple matter for the Pentagon. He was ordered home and then ordered back to Germany in an obscure and subordinate position. That was that. Moreover, that is the Army way, sustained by tradition and Army regulations.

But where is the tradition behind depriving a man of his day in court? Walker was busted from command on charges of forbidden political activity and of improper methods of indoctrinating his troops against communism. These charges are in general terms.

Maj. Gen. Robert H. McCaw, acting judge advocate general of the Army, reported in more precise terms to his superiors that Walker was accused of:

Violating the Hatch Act which forbids certain political activity to persons in the federal service.

Violating another federal statute which parallels the Hatch Act.

Thus, Gen. Walker stands charged with a criminal act which has neither been proved nor disproved—nor even is likely to be—in a court of law. Gen. McCaw reported in part:

"Although the Hatch Act is not a criminal statue, Gen. Walker did violate a criminal federal statute which parallels the Hatch Act and imposes criminal penalties for interfering with or affecting elections."

A fair question is this: If Gen Walker committed a criminal act, why was he not indicted and tried? Gen. McCaw had an answer for that. McCaw's answer seems to be that he did not believe the charge could be proved. This is what he reported:

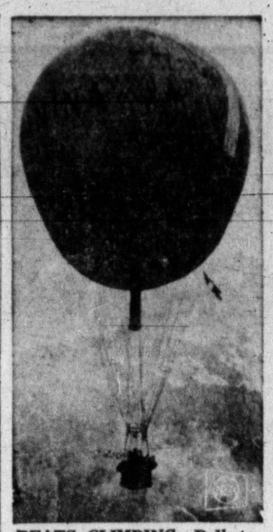

"Although the file does, as stated above, contain an overall indication of Hatch Act and related violations, the detailed evidence in this respect is not developed, and it is noticed that many of the witnesses, at the time of the investigation, (last spring) were already claiming recollection difficulties.

"It is obvious that any trail for such violations would be a most difficult and prolonged undertaking, fraught with intense and emotional publicity, certainly unfavorable to the government at least in part.

"A conviction would by no means be a certain result, and even if a conviction were obtained the sentence would probably amount to no more than a reprimand in view of Gen. Walker's brilliant combat record and sincerity of purpose in attempting to fight communism."

When McCaw wrote that a trial of Gen. Walker would be long, difficult, intense, a focus of emotional publicity and unfavorable to the government, he probably was right. But how about charging a man in one paragraph with having committed a criminal act and in another conceding that the charge cannot be proved?

"Gen. Walker," said McCaw, "did violate a criminal statute."

College Meet Slated Monday

An organization meeting for college extension courses from West Texas State College will be held Monday, Sept. 18, at 7 p.m. in the Pampa Junior High School Cafeteria it was announced today by Chamber of Commerce officials.

All persons who are interested in the extension courses are urged to be present, since this will be the only meeting scheduled, officails said.

Huelyn Laycock, public relations director of West Texas State College, Canyon, said that courses will be provided when 20 students are available and an instructor can be obtained.

Top Pops

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Brenda Lee, Elvis Presley and the Everly Brothers have been named top female, male and group, respectively, in the annual "Top Pop Poll" conducted by Teen Magazine.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Notes from the foreign news cables:

Danger Point:

The Communists may be letting themselves in for another explosion in East Germany such as occurred on June 17, 1953, because of increased work quotas. The Communists recently have been calling upon workers voluntarily to work longer hours at the same pay to "support the Communist fight against West German aggressors." The next step could be a general increase in work norms. These, plus a threatened food shortage, plus generally increased Communist pressures in sealed-off East Germany could explode into open rioting. Daring East Germans already are giving Communist functionaries trouble in public meetings with their open opposition.

Farm Revolt:

The chances are at least even that France's farmers will be out before the end of the year blocking the main roads of the country with hundreds of tractors, or jamming traffic in provincial towns with farm carts. Farmers are dissatisfied with farm prices and impatient with the way the government is handling the problem. President De Baulle has told them they are in the midst of an evolution and that it takes time.

Labor Shortage:

A new stream of foreign workers is expected to start flowing into West Germany soon as result of arrangements with other nations within the common market community. The foreign labor force in West Germany already totals more than a half million and there are five jobs waiting for every person without work.

Laos Settlement?

Soviet Premier Khrushchev may be right in predicting settlement soon of the situation in Laos. But the 14-nation conference on Laos which has been working on the problem in Geneva for the last four months just now is finishing up its first round bargaining. More than 30 articles on which East and West flatly disagreed have been shelved.

Direct Appeal:

The Soviet Union is expected to increase its direct appeals to citizens of foreign countries in an attempt to justify its nuclear tests. Eastern bloc radio stations have begun broadcasting that the Soviet decision to resume nuclear testing was directed only "against war-mongers, not against West German miners, French peasants or British businessmen." This line of action probably will continue with further appeals to foreign workers in Germany to leave the country because war would result in the destruction of West Germany.

Governor Commends Storm Rescue Work

LIBERTY, Tex. (UPI)— Gov. Price Daniel today praised "everybody in the state from the Civil Defense folks in my office to the people themselves" for rescue work and said he would make a personal inspection of hurricane damage as soon as the storm passes.

Daniel diclosed from his ranch that he talked by telephone Monday to Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson to discuss plans to expedite receipt of federal aid of coastal areas stricken by the winds and waters of the hurricane.

The governor said he and his wife rode out the 60-mile-an-hour winds of the storm at Liberty with candles and lanterns. Daniel said no windows in his home had been broken yet but winds and rains were still heavy.

He talked to United Press International in Houston by telephone.

"I will make a personal inspection of the hurricane areas just as soon as the storm passes," Daniel said.

"I am in touch with Civil Defense headquarters in Austin by radio and keeping informed on the developments."

Pajama Purchase Proves A Success

CULLMAN, Ala. (UPI) — Pajamas proved a good investment for St. Bernard's Abbey.

The abbey reported that a recent unnamed weekend visitor was outfitted from the monastery wardrobe when he turned up without sleepwear. The abbey received a note of thanks — and a check for $50.

Power Systems Growth In U.S. Found Startling

NEW YORK (UPI)—In disclosing industry plans for new electric power transmission facilities and inter-connecting systems, the Edison Electric Institute came up with some startling figures on how American's use of electricity has grown and how much it is expected to grow.

Concerning itself with the privately, or investor, owned companies, the institute said that about four-fifths of the nation's electric power customers are served by these, and the remaining one fifth by government - financed power suppliers. About three-fourths of the power plant capacity is furnished by the companies, the balance by government - financed power suppliers.

Reporting at a meeting here on the progress of a two-year study in enlargement of power systems, Philip A. Flegler, president of the institute, said that electric companies have been spending about $3.2 billion a year for new plant and equipment, equivalent to 10 per cent of new construction for all American business.

Foreign Aid Cash Voted By Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI)— President Kennedy won a major victory today when the Senate appropriations committee voted to give him $4,196,600,000 in actual cash for the foreign aid program.

The committee restored all but $63 million of the $596 million trimmed by the House from the $4,253,500,000 program authorized by the Congress earlier.

It then approved its version of the bill by voice vote. This cleared the way for Senate action on the measure and moved Congress one step closer to adjournment.

The administration was counting heavily on some GOP support to push the committee bill to final passage.

Visitors Unwanted In Hurricane Area

AUSTIN (UPI)— The Texas Department of Public Safety today urged curious persons to stay away from the areas stricken by Hurricane Carla.

The DPS also urged evacuees to remain out of the areas until they receive word from local officials that conditions are right for their return.

The DPS said road blocks are being erected to keep sightseers out of the ravaged areas. The roads must be kept clear for priority traffic, the DPS said.

MEXICO CITY (UPI)— The government-owned petroleum industry (Pemex) has boosted national economy by more than $500 million this year, company officials announced Tuesday.

The officials said the money came principally from the sale of 115 million barrels of crude oil. It was reported to be 10 per cent higher than the same period last year.

Populace Ignores Air Alarm Alert

CONSHOHOCKEN, Pa. (UPI)— Sirens screamed the "yellow" air raid alert, warning that enemy aircraft were two hours away but it had no effect.

Police said no one took shelter, traffic flowed smoothly, no civil defense volunteers reported for duty and there wasn't even a telephone inquiry about the siren.

Electrical workmen accidentally triggered the warning system.

Rural Carriers Will Distribute Acreage Cards

Postmaster O. K. Gaylor announced today that Rural Mail Carriers will begin distributing 1961 Acreage Survey Cards to patrons on their routes today.

The Post Office and U.S. Agriculture Departments cooperatively make this survey each year. These reports, directly from farmers, are the basis for official estimates for Texas acreage of all crops harvested in 1961.

To be sure this community is well represented in the survey, Postmaster Gaylor urges each patron receiving a card to fill it out and return it to his mailbox.

Rural mail carriers working on this project are: Ira E. Byars, Route One, Clarence W. Coffin, Route Two, Mrs. Verson T. Alexander, Star Route two, Coleman Huffman, Star Route 3, D. E. Bradford, Star Route four.

Reds Win, Stretch Loop Lead, As Bucs Stop Bums

Joey Jay Cops Victory No. 20

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Joey Jay, who complained that he never knew his status during his career with the Milwaukee Braves, has achieved the 20-victory status symbol coveted by every major league picture in his first season with the Cincinnati Reds.

And, along with it, the 26-year-old, 225-pound right hander from Middletown, Conn., has pitched the Reds to the threshhold of their first National League pennant since 1940.

Jay, who never won more than nine games in any single season with the Braves, scored his 20th victory of this season Wednesday night when he pitched the Reds to a 1-0 win over his former teammates. Jay allowed only four hits and got the run he needed when Darrell Johnson, Eddie Kasko and Vada Pinson singled in the fifth inning.

Jay is the first 20-game winner of the National League season and the first the Reds have had since Ewell Blackwell had a 22-8 record in 1947. Whitey Ford of the New York Yankees and Frank Lary of the Detroit Tigers are the other pitchers who've reached the 20-mark this season. Milwaukee's Warren Spahn has 19 victories.

It was Jay's fourth straight victory over the Braves and it boosted the Reds' first-place lead to 5½ games over the Los Angeles Dodgers, who suffered an 8-2 loss to the Pittsburgh Pirates. The San Francisco Giants beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 8-2, in the other NL game.

In the American League, the first-place New York Yankees were rained out, the Detroit Tigers whipped the Kansas City A's, 8-0, the Cleveland Indians downed the Baltimore Orioles, 5-0, and the Washington Senators defeated the Boston Red Sox, 4-2.

The Pirates dealt a mortal blow to the Dodgers' pennant hopes with a 20-hit attack that included two homers by Bill Mazeroski and one by Dick Stuart. Mazeroski and Stuart each homered in a six-run eighth-inning outburst that clinched the victory and gave lefty Harvey Haddix his ninth win. The loss left the Dodgers eight games behind in the won column and three behind in the lost column with only 16 games left to play.

Jim Bunning pitched a five-hitter and Rocky Colavito and Norm Cash homered for the Tigers, who tagged Jim Archer with his 13th defeat. Colavito's 42nd homer of the season equalled his previous high for a single season.

Miami Plays White Deer "B" Tonight

MIAMI (Spl) — The Miami Warriors, fresh from a rousing victory over the Turpin, Okla. Cardinals, journeys to White Deer tonight to play the White Deer Bucks "B" team in an eleven man game at 7 p.m.

Coach Bill Hines' Warriors recorded their 37th triumph in the last 41 games with a 46-12 thumping of Turpin Friday night.

Miami will have a decisive weight advantage over the young Bucks but the Warriors, an eight man grid team, may be stepping out of their class in the 11 - man contest.

Halfbacks Jim Flowers and Mickey Kivlehen scored six touchdowns between them against the Cardinals and they are expected to lead the vicious Miami ground game against White Deer.

The remainder of the starting Miami line-up will have Scotty Daugherty at quarterback, Mark Arrington and Tim Flowers at the ends; tackles Jimmy Gill and Keith Locke; guards Harold Coffee and Joe Wayne Holland; center Don McLaughlin and fullback Roy Bean.

Nicklaus, Carr Advances In Amateur Link Tourney

By United Press International

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) —Jack Nicklaus, a scientific shotmaker with booming drives, and Ireland's brilliant Joe Carr were the only recognized stars among a crop of giant-killers for the fifth round of the 61st annual National Amateur golf championships today.

If the double 18-hole action is anything like Wednesday, the ex-champ from Columbus, Ohio, and the three-time British Amateur king will find themselves on the sidelines, too. Already there are some guys named Patton, Ward and Coe, plus a few other lesser stars.

Nicklaus faced John Humm of Rockville Center, N. Y., while Carr took the tee against Tom Courtney, 21-year-old San Diego State college belter who ousted U. S. Walker Cupper Dr. Bud Taylor.

Besides Courtney, the upset crowd included:

Gene Francis, 23-year-old insurance broker from East Williston, N. Y., who was a star at Purdue University. He knocked out two-time winner Charley Coe of Oklahoma City, 1-up, and then crushed Minneapolis's Tom Hoak, 6 and 5.

Dud Wysong, 22, McKinney, Tex., a semifinalist two years ago. He eliminated another two-time king, E. Harvie Ward, 4 and 3, and upset Scot star Ronnie Shade, 3 and 2.

And, handsome Dick Sikes, 21-year-old University of Arkansas "genius putter," who is the current U. S. Public Links champion. He won by a 4 and 2 margin over lumberman Billy Joe Patton who earlier had ousted defending champion Deane Beman.

Nicklaus easily disposed of New York's William Edwards under cloudy morning skies and clashed in a power contest in the afternoon sunshine against big David Smith, Gastonia N. C. Nicklaus, who has charted the tortuous Pebble Beach layout and memorized landmarks along the fairways to better judge the distance for his shots, dumped Smith, 2 and 1, and was eight under par in the tourney.

Cokes, Gonzales Bout Set Today

DALLAS (UPI) — Thursday's fight between Curtis Cokes and Manuel Gonzales for the Texas welterweight title is scheduled for only 10 rounds.

The Dallas bout was expected to be over the customary 12 rounds set for a title fight. But the State Boxing Commissioner ruled that 10 rounds was enough after Gonzales said he preferred 10 rounds instead of 12.

Gonzales defeated the Dallas-based Cokes in 1959.

Cokes vaulted into the boxing limelight when he upset Louis Rodriguez, the top contender for the welterweight crown. Cokes is ranked No. 7 in the welterweight division by the National Boxing Association.

The match was arranged after Cokes' rematch with Rodriguez was postponed until Sept. 28.

Utah State Picked Over Texas Western

By United Press International

Ten games will be played this weekend in Texas collegiate football and the top scrap sends Hardin-Simmons north to battle the Tulsa Hurricane.

Another top game will find Texas Western at Logan, Utah to meet Utah State. In both games, the Texas teams will be the underdogs.

In the Lone Star Conference, six of the eight teams will be in action with Sul Ross sitting out this week and Lamar Tech holding off until Sept. 23 for its opener.

Defending champion Texas A&I hosts Corpus Christi at Kingsville and will be favored to romp home. Rebuilding Southwest Texas is the underdog against Texas Wesleyan at Seguin.

The other four games, also all at night, are rated even.

East Texas State entertains independent Abilene Christian at Commerce, S. F. Austin plays Northwest Louisiana at neutral Shreveport, La., Sam Houston hosts Louisiana College at Huntsville and Howard Payne travels to Abilene to meet McMurry.

In other games, Austin College plays Southeastern Oklahoma in their annual Texoma Bowl get together at neutral Denison, Arlington State journeys to Hattiesburg, Miss., to meet tough Mississippi Southern and Tarleton State plays its first game in the senior college ranks with a contest against Southwestern Oklahoma at Weatherford, Okla.

In another tilt involving a Border Conference entry, New Mexico State hosts Arizona State College of Flagstaff at Las Cruses, N.M.

In last week's games, Sul Ross of the Lone Star Conference nipped New Mexico Western, 12-7, and McMurry defeated Texas Lutheran, 6-0, in a battle among independents.

Golf Tournament Opens In Seattle

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—Most of the nation's best professional golfers start swinging today for the $25,000 pot of gold offered in the Greater Seattle Open golf tournament.

Approximately half the field of more than a hundred pros had a chance to dust off par on the 6,328-yard, par-70 Broadmoor Golf Club course in Wednesday's $5,000 pro-amateur preliminary. But only 21 of them broke par on the picturesque course with its narrow fairways and well-trapped greens.

Gary Player — currently leading in the money race this year with $61,115 — joined six other par-busters in scoring a neat, four-under 66.

Other 66 shooters were Phil Rodgers, La. Jolla, Calif.; Miller Barber, El Dorado, Ark.; Jerry Magee, Toronto, Ont.; Al Geiberger, Santa Barbara, Calif.; Jerry Barber, Los Angeles, and Art Wall Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa.

The American Liberty Bell was cracked while tolling for the funeral of Chief Justice John Marshall in 1835.

CAPRI—SUNDAY

Filly Takes 1st Victory

By United Press International

Mrs. Whitney Stone's Shimmy Dancer stole the spotlight from such prominent fillies as Primonetta, Funloving and My Portrait Wednesday while romping to a surprise victory in the $28,850 Gazelle Handicap at Belmont Park.

It was only the first stakes victory of her career for Shimmy Dancer and her third victory of the year. Generally overlooked by the midweek crowd of 18,116, Shimmy Dancer returned $26.30 to win.

My Portrait, upset winner over Primonetta in the Monmouth Oaks, was two and one-half lengths behind Shimmy Dancer and the popular Funloving was a nose farther back in third.

Primonetta, probably the nation's leading 3-year-old filly, was sent off the 1-2 favorite but after taking the lead at the quarter pole she tired badly and fell back to fifth. It was only the second defeat of her career.

Shimmy Dancer, a daughter of Native Dancer, was given a good ride by Manuel Ycaza and negotiated the mile and one-eighth in 1:49.

Loil Roil ($21.60) captured the $10,000 feature allowance test at Hawthorne, outrunning Crimson Satan and Put Off. Loil Roil, ridden by Sid Le Jeune, was clocked in a slow 1:13 for the six furlongs.

Bay Meadows opened its season in San Mateo, Calif., with Revel, the top sprinter in the west, edging Fighting Indian by a neck in the feature. Revel, the odds-on favorite, completed the six furlongs in 1:09 4-5 and returned $3.40 to win.

Miche Lea led all the way to win the feature at Atlantic City and Grand Passion ($8.40) won at Lincoln Downs.

Scout Reports Phillips Down

A scout report on the Phillips Blackhawks and a film on the Pampa-Bel Aire game highlighted the weekly Quarterback Club meeting Wednesday night.

Coach Deck Woldt, who scouted the once powerful Blackhawks in their 14-12 loss to Odessa Ector, reported that the AAA club isn't as strong as they have been in the past.

"Phillips isn't as big as they have been before and they aren't as fast as usual," stated Woldt. He added, "But they are an experienced team with an all senior line-up except for fullback Bill Stiles."

Coach Joe Means' crew has four returning starters from the 1960 club that tied for second place honors in the rugged district 1-AAA race. Headed by Jackie Gray, one of the top all round performers in the state, at quarterback the Hawks are still described as dangerous. Gray, incidentally, scored one of Phillips' touchdown against Ector on a 69 yard punt return.

Ends Bill Shannon and Ken Hunt provides experience in the line. Hunt is described as the team's best pass receiver. "Guard Delmar Baldwin, 190 pounds senior, is probably their best lineman," said Woldt.

Phillips runs a basic balance line with a slot man formation but the Blackhawks offense against Ector consisted mostly of an unbalanced line with many different variations. The Blackhawks average only 164 pounds with Shannon, Baldwin and tackle Delton Waits the big boys.

Football fans will have a big surprise in store for them Friday night as the Quarterback Club plans to have a surprise performance to entertain the spectators before the game.

Another treat for Pampans, will be a 10 minute scrimmage, beginning at 6:30 p.m. between the Robert E. Lee Junior High 7th and 8th grade teams against the same teams from Pampa Junior High. Both junior high schools will have their bands present to entertain during the scrimmages.

Tickets will go on sale at 6 p.m. at the gate for the regular game and the pre-game attractions.

McLean Retains Unbeaten Mark

Coach Darrell Davis' McLean Tigers is the only undefeated team in district 2-A after just two weeks of competition.

The McLean juggernaut rolled over Wheeler 42-16 for their second straight victory Friday night. The Clarendon Bronchos and the Memphis Cyclones broke into the win column for the first time this fall by identical 36-0 scores over Silverton and Estelline respectively.

Lefors was dropped from the unbeaten ranks by Shamrock 6-0 while Canadian, too, lost its first game of the budding young grid campaign to White Deer 19-0.

Quarterback Ken Willingham, halfback Jim Watson and fullback George Patton led an awesome offense against the smaller class B Wheeler Mustangs.

Top game in the district Friday night pits Lefors against the state's third ranked class A club White Deer at Lefors. McLean plays host to always tough Groom, Clarendon is at home against winless and scoreless Panhandle, Canadian hosts Shamrock and Memphis clashes with Wellington's Skyrockets.

Rookie Fullback Stars For Aggies

By United Press International

Can sophomore fullback Jerry Rogers be that good?

Glowing reports have been coming from the Texas A&M training camp that Rogers may take the fullback job away from veterans LeeRoy Caffey and Sam Byer.

Even Aggie coach Jim Myers admitted Wednesday that the upstart from Corpus Christi is looking good. If that is the case, Cadet foes this autumn are in for some bruising Saturday afternoons, because Byer and Caffey are rated among the best in the Southwest Conference.

"Rogers was the standout, both on offense and defense," Myers said after watching Wednesday's workout. There was no comment from Byer and Caffey on what they thought of Rogers' performance.

George McKinney, Arkansas' regular quarterback, missed the Razorback practice Wednesday with influenza. He was not expected to be out long.

Coach Frank Broyles said several other members of the club had flu. The Razorbacks were forced inside by Hurricane Carla's dying gasp where they worked an hour and 15 minutes on signal drills and polishing their attack.

The University of Texas Longhorns whipped through two crisp workouts, and quarterback Johnny Genung took over the first unit quarterbacking spot from Mike Cotten.

Running with Genung in the first unit backfield were halfbacks James Saxton and Jack Collins and fullback Ray Poage.

Four players missed the workout because of injuries. They were soph quarterback Duke Carlisle, sprained ankle; guard George Bass, injured knee; fullback John Allen Cook, pulled thigh muscle, and halfback Bobby Nunis, fractured face bone.

The Baylor Bears play their Green and White intra-squad game tonight and had a light workout Wednesday.

Coach Bill Meek was still pleased with the progress of his Southern Methodist team. He praised the running of Doyce Walker, Tommy Brennan, Billy Gannon, Tom Sherwin and Lewis Albright in Wednesday's workout. He also complimented quarterbacks Harold Morgan, Jerry Rhome and Roger Braugh for their sharp passing.

Texas Christian and Rice worked on defense and Texas Tech touched on all points of the game in other workouts around the conference.

Houston Gains Playoff Finals

By United Press International

The Houston Buffs, a fourth-place finisher in the regular season, blasted their way into the final round of the American Association playoffs Wednesday night.

The surging Buffs whitewashed champion Indianapolis 6-0 to win their semifinal playoff four games to one. Denver kept its Little World Series hopes alive with a 5-3 win over Louisville.

Dave Gusti scattered 10 hits while pitching Houston to its series-clinching shutout win. The Buffs jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the first two innings and put the game on ice when Pidge Browne and Jack Waters hit eighth-inning homers.

Sandy Amoros led Denver to its victory over Louisville with a triple and two singles. Only 141 fans watched the game, played in damp, 40-degree weather. Ed Donnelly limited Louisville to eight hits, but the Colonels still hold a three-to-two lead in the series.

Louisville plays at Denver tonight in the sixth game of the series.

Moyer To Fight Sugar Robinson

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Denny Moyer "stayed in close" and it's getting the Portland middleweight a fight with Sugar Ray Robinson.

Moyer used that strategy to score a unanimous 10-round decision over Dulio Nunez of New York in a nationally televised fight here Saturday night.

He was signed immediately to meet Robinson in New York's Madison Square Garden Oct. 21. Garden matchmaker Teddy Brenner announced the signing.

Jess Neely Says Rice To Be Tough

By United Press International

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—This is the year 1961 A.D. and in the hurly-burly Southwest Conference football realm that fact carries an ominous import to the seven rivals of the Rice University Owls.

Even Rice coach Jess Neely, the taciturn dean of league coaches, admits that "never have we had more boys ready to play." Experience has tought Neely's rivals to pay attention when the drawling veteran offers any kind of optimism in pre-season talks.

Actually, the University of Texas Longhorns generally are rated as the team to beat. And both defending champion Arkansas and baleful Baylor, without a championship for three and a half decades, are deep in talent and figure to push Rice and Texas for the laurels.

Even Texas A&M coaches and backers are optimistic over the agile Aggies' chances in what promises to be the wildest scramble since the conference was launched in 1915. Only Texas Christian, Texas Tech and Southern Methodist seem out of contention.

The date 1961 figures in this way: Neely's Rice teams have set up their own cycle of winning a championship every four years, usually when someone else is favored to cop the bunting. The Owls turned the trick in 1949, again in 1953 and again in 1957. Now it is 1961.

Neely, who is starting his 22nd season at Rice, says "there are more good teams in the league this year than any time in my history." And, the other coaches, with only Texas Tech's J. T. King being new on the job, echo Neely's feelings.

Texas will have an inexperienced interior line but the material at hand will be salty enough apparently with the aid of some promising sophomores and last year's backfield returning intact.

Arkansas shapes up as a better offensive outfit than the one which won the crown a year ago, but eight of the 11 links in the Razorbacks' defensive armor—the 1960 strongpoint—are gone by graduation.

A great potential first team keeps Baylor's hopes high for a break in the title drought dating back to 1924. But, lack of depth sobers those hopes, somewhat. Baylor, too, returns intact its "Ron-Ron-Ron" backfield of Ronnie Stanley, Ronnie Goodwin, Ronnie Bull ad Tommy Minter. Stanley and Bobby Ply offer a passing duo unexcelled probably in the nation, while the other three guys are all sub-10 second sprinters.

Give Texas A&M a quarterback who can hold his own reasonably well passing in order to keep the rival defenses honest and the Aggies could prove more than just troublesome to the rest of the league. There isn't a real standout on the team, but it has balance and depth and running power.

Almost everyone agrees with coach Abe Martin that his TCU team "has lots of weaknesses," but as usual—again in Martin's words, "the team may bend a lot, but it won't break."

Coaches King at Texas Tech and Bill Meek at SMU wish they could say the same. Neither figures to cut any capers.

King says "if I can't talk about sophomores, I can't talk," and Meek says his SMU team, which tied one, lost nine, "can't go any way but up."

Golfers Elected To Hall Of Fame

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI) — Lawson Little and Henry Picard, two of the brightest stars of the 1930s, have been elected to the PGA Hall of Fame, it was announced today by Lou Strong, president of the Professional Golfers' Association of America.

Little, 51, and Picard, 55, were chosen in a nationwide poll of PGA members. Election to the Hall of Fame is based on lifetime playing ability, and only those who are 50 years of age or older and who are retired from active national competition are eligible.

The election of Little and Picard brings to 28 the total number of players chosen to the PGA Hall of Fame since it was established in 1940.

The old city of Boston once was located on three hills: Beacon, Fort and Copp's.

Cubs Once Told Rog To Forget Baseball

By Uinted Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)— Heard in the dugouts:

The Chicago Cubs sure called the turn on Roger Maris.

Following his graduation from high school, Maris had a tryout at Wrigley Field where a Cub official advised him, "Forget about baseball, son. There's no future in it for you."

Easy come, easy go! Cincinnati catcher Jerry Zimmerman received a $77,000 bonus from the Boston Red Sox in 1952 but confesses the money is all gone now.

The Yankees were deeply disappointed recently when the Tigers got first baseman Vic Wertz from the Red Sox. They had claimed Wertz twice this season and each time they did, the waivers were withdrawn . . .

Pitcher Ray Herbert of the White Sox is a 90-shooter on the golf course. What's so hot about that? You try going around 18 holes, using nothing but a putter. That's right—in the rough, too!

Paul Richards would like someone with National League experience to manage the Houston Colts next season. Failing to get such a man, Richards may settle for Sherm Lollar, who is about at the end of his career with the White Sox . . .

Take a poll among the Yankees and you'll find out this is the way they vote:

Smartest—Tony Kubek.

Most desire—A tie between Yogi Berra and Mickey Mantle.

Best golfer—Ralph Terry.

When the Yankees are at home, Mantle lives in a Long Island apartment with Maris and Bob Cerv. Many of the residents in the neighborhood don't even recognize the M-M boys . . .

According to the scouts, the best looking prospect for major league stardom next year is first baseman-outfielder John (Boog) Powell of Rochester. He led the International League with 32 homers and will get a shot with the Orioles next spring . . .

Baseball players frequently claim baseball writers don't know a thing. Maybe they're right.

So how come that none of the players, even those with Cincinnati, picked the Reds to win the National League pennant in a preseason magazine poll last spring?

World Series Plans Being Considered

CHICAGO (UPI) — Representatives of the New York Yankees, Detroit Tigers, Cincinnati Reds and Los Angeles Dodgers met today with Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick to work out World Series plans.

Officials from the other major league clubs also were invited to attend the meeting.

The invitation to the Detroit club was considered little more than a formality since the Yankees have virtually clinched the American League pennant again. They were 11 games ahead of the Tigers with only 17 games to go and only a total collapse could open the door for Detroit.

Cincinnati, the National League pace-setter, was involved in a closer race with the Dodgers.

Milwaukee, 9½ games back of Cincinnati, was not invited to take part. Neither was the third-place club in the American League, the Baltimore Orioles, 14½ games behind the Yanks.

The Series will open in the home park of the American League champion, probably Yankee Stadium. To be determined at today's meeting was the playing dates, admission prices and naming of the 25 players from each team eligible to take part in the Series.

Panthers Sport Unbeaten Mark

The Follett Panthers own the only spotless record in district 1-B after two weeks of play.

Follett opened its 1961 grid season Thursday night by dumping the Laverne, Okla. "B" team 26-8. Defending champion and favorites once again, Groom, picked up its first win with a 12-0 blanking of class 1-A Panhandle. Claude also joined in the victory parade with a narrow 14-6 decision over the Vega Longhorns and Texline played Primero, Colo. to a scoreless tie in its first tilt.

Wheeler suffered its second straight defeat, losing to powerful McLean of district 2-A, 42-16.

Fullback Leroy Littlefield returned an intercepted pass 75 yards for the first Groom touchdown as the Tigers' tough defense stopped powerless Panhandle cold. The Tigers other score came on a 40 yard run in the third period by halfback Eldred James.

Coach Dwain Currie praised the defense as "the strongest point." He singled out tackles John Koetting and Wayne Kotara, guards Tom Waggoner and Jerry Snyder, defensive halfback Bill Ruthardt, and linebackers Littlefield and Wesley Cornett for their fine defensive play Friday night.

The Tigers, who lost 31-0 to third ranked White Deer in its opener, takes on another toughie Friday night when they journey to McLean to meet the unbeaten Tigers.

Other games find Boise City, Okla. at Texline, Wheeler at Erick, Okla., Happy at Claude and Keyes, Okla. at Follett.

Yanks' Sluggers Blanked By Rain

CHICAGO (UPI) —Rain prevented New York Yankee sluggers Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle from making any progress toward Babe Ruth's home run record for the second straight day but they'll have the opportunity to resume the chase in a doubleheader today.

The Yankees' scheduled game with the Chicago White Sox was halted Wednesday night in the New York half of the third inning with Maris at the plate. The Yankees led, 2-1, but neither Maris nor Mantle had contributed a hit to their attack.

Harnessing The Sun

Ever since the first cave man carried home a piece of burning wood snatched from a forest fire, mankind has utilized the energy of the sun in indirect ways. Indeed, modern civilization has been built entirely upon the unlocked power of the fossil fuels — coal and oil.

These fuels have been so plentiful that men have scarcely attempted to tap the sun directly. Pictures of houses heated and lighted by the sun appear in the tabloids occasionally and solar cells have become an indispensable source of power for earth satellites, yet the potentialities of solar energy remain a virtually unexplored domain.

To be sure, atomic energy undoubtedly will supplant the fossil fuels to an increasing extent in years to come. Large-scale use of the sun may never become a necessity for advanced nations.

For a large part of the world however, the sun may provide the means to make the difficult crossing from a society based on muscle power to one based on machines.

One answer may be found in a little metal box which, unlike Pandora's could free humanity from many of its woes.

This is the thermoelectric generator, a simple device which converts heat directly into electricity. Coupled with a solar reflector, it could provide a cheap, maintenance-free power source for a multitude of tasks that are still being accomplished by the sweat of men and animals.

Engineers at Westinghouse have built a prototype which delivers 50 watts, enough to run a water pump. A larger unit of 200 watts could draw water from a depth of 20 feet and irrigate four acres of land, or supply the personal needs of 1,200 people — a good - sized village. Next would come electric lighting and mechanization of village industries.

Senior engineer Kurt Katz stressed that the simplicity of the generator would make it ideal for areas with low levels of technical experience.

Another device is a piston engine, built by Batelle Memorial Institute, using a combination of sun and air for power. Its virtues are also its low cost and simplicity.

The sun's rays are focused by a mirror through a quartz dome on top of the cylinder to heat the air inside. The expanding air forces the piston down to turn the crankshaft.

When it is recalled that most of the so-called underdeveloped countries lie in zones of abundant sunshine, the potential liberation of human energy from age-old drudgery is an exciting prospect. The harnessing of the sun could bring about this liberation in a sudden and dramatic fashion.

Vain Hope

Those who seek truth are always ready to have their ideas challenged by intelligent questions. Those who seek only to sustain their own lofty concepts fear questions which might undermine a position taken in hope, but untenable on other grounds.

Thurmond And The Post

Earlier this month, the Washington Post cut loose with a bit of a blast against Democratic Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina. It seems the senator, who is a pretty good sort, got himself worked up over the obvious reluctance of the highest brass in the military to permit the dissemination of anti - communist information, and we can't say that we blame the senator.

But the Post, in commenting, took especial note of the senator's linking of communism and socialism as two maladies with but a single objective. According to the Post, the senator was most grieviously in error. Indeed, the Post, which is notable for its pro-socialist stand in numerous instances, wanted to go on the record as showing that there is a profound difference between socialism and communism. For the Post wants it known without quibble that it is anti-communist, but favorable to socialist ideas.

As we have commented before in this space, this is a distinction without a difference. We're going to have to side with the senator at this juncture.

Socialism is, in fact, the matrix of the entire collectivist entente, with communism supplying what is nominally the left wing of the phalanx. The distinction is that socialism seeks to obtain by popular majorities what communism hopes to attain by any method it can devise and not excluding popular majorities. So, a large share of the time there isn't even a whisker of difference between the two ideologies.

Both have the same objective in mind, the destruction or at least the impairment of the right of men to own property individually.

The Post seeks to make hay out of the fact that a number of socialist parties in various countries are presently cooperating with the United States in its opposition to Moscow. This may be true. But it is only fair to observe that the socialist parties of various other nations have no reason NOT to cooperate with our own administration which is, itself, so largely socialistic.

The claim of "anti-communism" when examined, turns out in virtually all cases to be simple anti-Russianism or anti - Moscowism and has little to do with the doctrine toward which socialist and communist are both assiduously working.

Having delivered ourselves of the above observation we are constrained to continue. For Senator Thurmond, having made an excellent point about the similarity if not the identity of the two movements, was not content to leave it that way.

Instead, he got himself off a letter to the editor r the Post in which he characterized both socialism and communism as international movements which can best be opposed, as he put it, by strong nationalism. And here the good man from South Carolina comes to grief.

For a careful analysis of both communism and socialism shows that its roots go down rather firmly in every community as well as every nation and that the virus is a home-grown affair, seeking to do away with private ownership anywhere and everywhere.

Nationalism, if it goes beyond love of country and becomes devotion to government (the two things are not even remotely similar), can become the principal reason for national socialism, of which we have a strong dose in this nation right now. So closely do nationalism and socialism parallel that the British, when adopting a socialist system during the days of Clement Attlee, proclaimed that they had "nationalized" certain major industries, when they meant to convey the thought that these industries had been "socialized." The honest sons of Britain could see no distinct difference between the two . . . nor is there.

Any program which enlarges government will further both socilist and communist cause. And the government can be as tiny as a country board, or as local as a city commission or a school board.

Thus is not in the least to imply that any of these agencies in America are pro-Russian, for they are not. But it is to say that Senator Thurmond, having made a good point, lost ground by his failure to recognize the essential local character of all socialism and communism.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK — No one possibly can find major fault with the aims of the United States as expressed at the recent economic conference which resulted in the Punta del Este Agreement and the letting of fresh air and new thinking into the Latin American problem as it exists for us. And much of which we created through the years by use of a frailty in human nature — stupidity I think it is called.

Nonetheless, and no matter how sagacious and decent the accomplishments in bringing us closer to our neighbors in Latin America, I think the Punta del Este conference overlooked something terribly important. Or we did. It is the matter of mail to and from Latin America. I'd suggest to President Kennedy that we spend at least a million dollars right there (after all, one million when you are playing with 20 billion isn't much) and try to bring things to taw.

This sounds like a personal disturbance? It certainly is. A lady to whom I've been married for just about 18 years went into Latin America more than two weeks ago, has written to me several times, as returning friends have testified, yet not one postcard or letter has come from Colombia, Peru or Chile. I know this girl: she doesn't stint on stamps. If the airmail rate is 15 cents for half an ounce she automatically assumes that her letter must weigh four ounces, and then puts on $1.20 worth of stamps just to make sure the government of the country she is visiting doesn't get angry at her. When we were in Mexico, her letters went out to the United States so paved with stamps that the address often was lost in the mass of color.

When we were about to depart for Trinidad, a diplomat we know said that Trinidad, of course, was a British island, that they were great sticklers for getting the mail out on time and took an unhappy view of guests who overstamped their mail. They didn't like making that extra money. But he warned about South America. It is not that they count the amount of stamps so much, he said, it is just that often they forget to take the mail to the airport and, frequently, having forgotten for a few days, become self-conscious over their lapse and decide to forget about it altogether. This sounded like a cynical estimation and we said we didn't believe it.

Now I believe it. She is getting my mail with fair regularity, and that I choose to believe is because I brandish embassies on the envelope. The letters go out with her name and the Theater Guild designation in upper and lower case letters, but then comes this:

C-o CULTURAL ATTACHE,
THE AMERICAN EMBASSY,
Buenos Aires,
ARGENTINA.

With a straight line of enforcement under THE AMERICAN EMBASSY and under ARGENTINA. The Cultural Attache just goes along for the ride, because many Latins like titles. Letters so addressed go through like rockets into space. It doesn't even seem to matter if some stamps fall off on the way. In a matter of hours after they are dropped into a box in New York, they jet into Buenos Aires, Santiago, Lima, Bogota, Rio or anywhere else and forthwith are taken by what I choose to think is personal courier to the front door of the designated embassy.

The reverse, alas, does not work as well. Will the gentleman signatories to the Punta del Este document please think not only in terms of improved agriculture, sped-up literacy and fortified economics, but give a thought as well to the mails? From a country which can be reached in relative hours by jet, I don't understand why mail takes 17 days.

Sorry. It just turned 18.

Neutral Nations Show Foreign Aid Influence

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — From the American point of view, the speeches, votes and resolutions of the two-dozen so-called neutral or "nonaligned" countries in the Belgrade, Yugoslavia, conference can be viewed as reflections on the amounts of aid each new nation has received from the United States and from Soviet Russia.

A tabulation of all U.S. foreign aid given to 23 of these underdeveloped nations from 1946 through 1961 reveals a total of $8.2 billion. Of this, $7.3 billion has been economic aid. One - eighth of the total, or nearly $900 million, has been military aid given to seven of these countries.

Total U.S.S.R. aid given to 17 of these countries from 1955 through 1960, latest figures available, is estimated by the U.S. State Department at $3.6 billion.

There is no precise breakdown on kinds of aid. But for all their foreign aid programs, the average has been about one - fourth military, three - fourths economic.

The two countries that have received the most U.S. aid are India and Yugoslavia. India has received over $3 billion, compared with $946 million from U.S.S.R Yugoslavia also got the most U.S. military aid — $694 million.

Other countries that have received more American aid than Russia are Cambodia, Ceylon, Ethiopia and Tunisia. Countries that have received no Russian aid at all are the Congo, Lebanon, Morocco, Saudi Arabi, Somali, and Sudan.

Countries that have received more Russian aid than American are Afghanistan, Cuba, Ghana, Guinea, Iraq, Mali, Yemen and the United Arab Republic. Next to India, UAR has received the most Russian aid, $788 million compared to $438 million from the United States.

Two countries have received about equal U.S. and U.S.S.R. aid —Burma at over $90 million, Nepal at over $40 million.

The rebel government of Algeria has received no open aid from either America or Russia. But Communist arms have reportedly been smuggled to the rebels. Some U.S. aid to France went to the colonial government of Algeria for its defense.

The United States has consistently maintained it is in no race with the Soviet Union to see which side can give away the most aid. But Russian aid has been given on a highly selective basis where it would do the Communist cause the most good and the free world most harm.

There has never been any American contention that foreign aid has been given with expectations of unquestioning support for U.S. foreign policies. But it does sit hard with American congressmen and taxpayers to have a leader like Nehru — whose country is receiving most substantial aid for his five - year plans from a consortium of free world nations — support Communist causes and oppose the interests of the Western powers over questions like the Berlin crisis.

One of the most significant facts about the Belgrade conference of these countries is that there was no item on its agenda for debate of a question like, "The Problem of World Communism." It is swept under the table although four of the conference leaders — Presidents Tito of Yugoslavia, Sukarno of Indonesia, Nasser of UAR and Prime Minister Nehru — have had plenty of trouble from both the international and domestic varieties of communism.

The Belgrade conference did have on its agenda questions like, "The Struggle Against Imperialism and Colonialism." That gave the new leaders plenty of opportunity to beat the Western powers over the head, oratorically, and glorify their own roles.

This is why the Russians are again making a big pitch to bring up in the forthcoming U.N. General Assembly their resolution for granting immediate independence to all colonial peoples.

The Communists apparently hoped this will bring them support from the meeting at Belgrade.

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. HAROLD T. HYMAN

Here are some facts about your eyesight that might be worth your serious consideration, especially if you are 40 or over:

An estimated million persons in the United States have serious eye ailments without noticing any trouble.

In every large survey of persons over 40, two out of every hundred have chronic glaucoma. In homes for the elderly, this figure rises to six in a hundred.

Every year about 4,000 of us go blind from glaucoma. In almost every instance, the vision might have been preserved and controlled by early discovery and faithful treatment.

While glaucoma accounts for 14 to 15 per cent of blindness in the United States, it is only second to cataract as a causative condition. Blindness from cataract also is amenable to treatment when discovered early and remedied by operative surgery.

Further down on the list of causes for blindness is inflammation of the nerve for vision, usually a result of chemical injury (retrobulbar optic neuritis). This too is preventable if diagnosed early and treated faithfully.

With this information at hand, most of it prepared by the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness of the National Institute of Health in Bethesda, Md., perhaps you'd like to know something of these conditions and what you can do to preserve one of your most cherished and valuable possessions.

Glaucoma is the name given a condition that is characterized by increased pressure of the fluids that are normally present within the eyeball. This pressure (intraocular tension) is easily and painlessly measured by the eye specialist (ophthalmologist). After a drop of a local anesthetic solution is placed in your eye, the reading is made by gently pressing a measuring instrument (tonometer) on the eyeball. That's all there is to it.

This simple measurement, made in a few seconds, may prove the means for saving your vision often without the need for any surgery.

In another column, we'll consider cataracts and inflammations of the optic nerve.

No Dishwashing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Did you eyer have an urge when washing dishes at home to toss the dirty plates out the window?

That's exactly what happens after every luncheon buffet served on the sun deck on Matson Lines cruises to Hawaii and the South Pacific.

The plates and cups are plastic. Once used, over they go!

Hankerings

By HENRY McLEMORE

ROME, Italy — Among the things to be considered before yielding to the Russian threat is the kind of world it would be under Communism.

It would be the most ungracious of all worlds, to be sure.

With Khrushchev as head of the world state, kindliness, tact, consideration for others, gentleness, sensitivity, and plain every day decency would disappear.

There never has been a ruder statesman than the bull - chested, wrestler - necked, flushed - faced Khrushchev. He either has a gift for the insult, the unkind word, or else he has taken a graduate course in the subject, as well as sneaked off evenings to attend night school.

He never drops his ill manners for long. He can endure a smile, a cordial word now and then, but he invariably follows these moments of good breeding for the studied insult, the barbed word, the derogatory remark.

His latest exhibition of calculated impoliteness came on a visit to the French Trade Fair in Moscow. He laughed at the French exhibition of paintings, pointing to a Picasso with a "what's that thing, there?" aside — and his asides can always be heard for fifty yards.

He made a mocking remark about the French national motto of "Liberte, egalite, fraternite," and had belittling things to say about French agriculture.

This was what was termed in the Russian press as a "goodwill tour," by Khrushchev. He, of course, made his usual talk about good and cordial relations between France and Russia, and how they had fought Hitler side by side, which is as standard with him as a song at a business club luncheon.

Over the years Khrushchev has made, in addition to his threat to blow the world out of existence with nuclear bombs, insulting remarks about all countries, all people, and nearly all leaders of people.

He has acted like a hysterical child in the United Nations hall, called President Eisenhower a mental incompetent, and had unpleasant words with nine - tenths of his hosts when on his travels.

He has praise only for Russia and those countries which have bowed to him. And he is scant with that. Heaven only knows—rather, the interpreters only know—what he has called the poor souls who run his satellite countries for him.

What a miserable place the world would be with even the small courtesies swept away. No trying to make a fellow human being a bit cheerier, no forgiving, no encouraging or kind words. Blunt, hard, ruthless, all the time. It wouldn't be too long before all the tiny nicenesses which lubricate the job of living would be gone and forgotten.

Men are inclined to follow the behavior of their leader, and what a wonderful example Khrushchev would set for all of us.

The meaner we were the more he'd like it, the higher we'd stand in his favor.

We'd get demerits for kindness, demerits for a gentle, thoughtful act.

And think of this when considering the advisability of giving in to Russia: what it would be like to have to have a picture of the man hanging on every wall of your home, there to look down upon you all your waking hours. And your sleeping ones as well.

It gives me the horrors.

Pegler Says:

Early Day St. Louis Ring Events Recalled

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

ST. LOUIS — Long, long ago, I covered fights here at a rickety plant which had a platform floor over a forgotten pool for swimming. It was called the Future City A.C., and the proprietor was a little fellow with pink hair named Brooklyn Tommy Sullivan. He was faintly renowned because he had outpointed the great Abe Attell.

For the main event each Friday night he introduced a new set of gloves. The others were all hand-me-downs until the horsehair broke through and cut the fighters around the eyes. Our referee, Harry Sharpe, had fought Frank Crosby, seventy-seven rounds in five hours in rain, sleet and, finally snow, at Nameoki, Ill., back of East St. Louis, in 1893. Prize-fighting was very, very illegal in that weirdly prim but savage frontier so soon after the tumult of the Quantrill and James layouts. Therefore, the boys had to go over the river for their fights and their following straggled after them.

Sharpe was a linotype man on the Globe-Democrat, a slender fellow with a profile that would have done big business in Hollywood some years later. As a referee, he sifted hither and yon as silent and willowy as smoke from a cigarette. He ran his fights, even with the toughtest, who included the Mexican Kid and Harry Trendall, a Kerry patch Irisher, with no more coercion than a pat on the shoulder. The Mexican Kid drifted up and down, working on the railroads and as a proter in saloons. He fought on the Negro cards which were promoted by a portly waiter from the Laclede Hotel named Sam Dixon. We had a good Negro lightweight named Young and another named the Alligator Kid.

Jimmy Bronson, who later handled boxing in the AEF and worked Gene Tunney's corner in both Dempsey fights, was running a club in Joplin and he often came to St. Louis with a heavyweight named Joe Cox who had chased Jess Willard over the ropes, up the aisle and, in the Bunyanesque lore of the time and place, all the way back to Pottawatomie, Kan. Bronson said the Mexican Kid could lick any other lightweight in the world. He always had a bucket of beer in his corner and between rounds would poke his head inside and heave away. His friends would whip across the alley to the saloon and put a fresh head on the bucket when he had drunk it down. Long afterward I heard that somebody knifed him dead in the saloon.

Being in St. Louis again I phoned John M. Wray, who in those days wrote a genteel sport column for the Post-Dispatch. John was "educated," a great distinction, and he wrote dignified prose about Miller Huggins, Ty Cobb and the fighters.

This time he told me he was stone blind, but that Mrs. Wray could see, and so things might be worse. He is 88 and Mrs. Wary not much younger, but they are healthy and happier than most people of whatever age. He can't even watch the fights, bad though they are, or the ballgames on the teevy.

I brought up Harry Sharpe's name and Wray said: "He was a fine sportsman and gentleman. He wrote fights for the Post-Dispatch but continued to work at the Globe-Democrat. There were no official decisions in the ring, but Harry wrote his decisions for me next day and bets were paid off on his judgment.

"One night at the Coliseum, he worked a wrestling show and one of the elephants grabbed the other by the hair and dragged him around in the prevailing spirit of mockery and fun. But some of the public took those things very seriously and when Harry was walking up the aisle someone slugged him with a heavy walking stick. His jaw was smashed and it was about a year before he could be about again.

"He was 79 when he died. We often discussed a fight in Illinois and wagged our heads. Darkness fell and the promoters turned on the headlight of a locomotive which had run the crowd from St. Louis over to the field where the ring was cleared. A year later, Harry was sentenced to eleven months in jail and fined $500, which was his share of the money.

"The referee wore out and quit long before the fight ended and the boys finished without a referee.

"I am glad you called me, Peg. It has been a long time, hasn't it?"

AFFORDING WAGE INCREASES

(Economic Intelligence U.S. Chamber)

A union official of the UAW argued last month hat the Ford Motor Company "could afford" to give a large wage-fringe increase without raising prices. He also argued that this rise will create purchasing power and more prosperity for all.

This is the same refrain which we have heard during every contract negotiation for two decades. Even if there were some truth in this pleading, the argument is largely anti-social.

Such a wage increase does not create more purchasing power; it transfers income, from A to B. Applying the same plea to all industry means that ploughed - back earnings to create more and better jobs will be reduced and-or some 15 million shareholders will get less purchasing power.

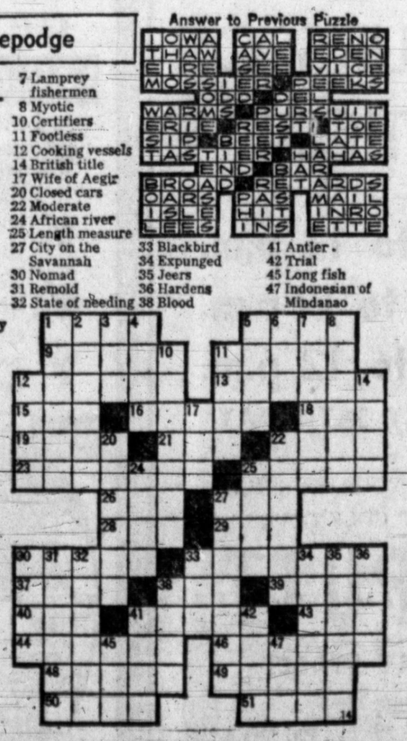

The purchasing power argument, so narrowly conceived, is basically false. If Ford, or any other enterprise, makes good earnings over the years, the almost inevitable decision of the management is to expand to do still better. Such expansion raises output; prices then tend to fall. Unit and perhaps total profits will fall.

But much more important, at the lower prices all buyers can buy more of the output, or spend their income for other goods and services. A wage increase, not needed to hold or attract an adequate labor force, may raise the purchasing power for the recipients; but a price reduction would increase the purchasing power of all workers, retired people, those living on fixed and lagging income—all buyers.

The special pleading purchasing power argument is highly self-serving and bad economics. Why this is so was developed in the National Chamber's pioneering study, Productivity and Wage Settlements (50 cents).

matter of Fact

If you want a pet to grow old with, get a cat. Cats sometimes live 30 years. This compares with 18 to 20 years for terriers and 15 to 18 years for large rabbits. And cats keep their youthful bounce to the end. One of the oldest cats on record, a female who died at 31, was still having kittens at 26.
