PEANUT HARVEST

A row of upturned peanuts lies roots to the wind Saturday (above) on John Coffee's patch north of Quail. Peanuts are first dug up and overturned. Then they're harvested and dumped into a truck (lower left) to be hauled to Carnegie, Oklahoma for processing. Then the peanut plant is baled into hay (lower right).

Voters Determine 7 Amendments

Collingsworth voters will go to the polls Tuesday, Nov. 3, to vote on 7 proposed Amendments to the Texas Constitution.

So far, there has been little interest, and Monday at 5 p.m. only four absentee ballots had been cast.

Poling places and election judges were announced Monday by Helen Gollihugh, county clerk.

The deadline for casting absentee ballots by personal appearance is Friday, Oct. 30 that is also the deadline for mailing ballots to individuals to be cast by mail, and these must be returned to Mrs. Gollihugh's office by election day, Tuesday, Nov. 3.

She reminded that her office will be open through the noon hours until the final date, Friday, Oct. 30 at 5 p.m.

This gives the hours of absentee voting 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Voting places, with the election judge and the commissioners precinct in which it is located, include:

Voting Box No. 1. Wellington High School, John Coffee, judge; Precinct 1.

No. 2, Dodson American Legion, Olan Farris, Judge, Precinct 1.

Treadmill For HospitalSought

A fund has been started for the installation of a treadmill in Collingsworth General Hospital, and the support of the community is sought in completing this fund, Dr. Prasanna K.N. Kumar announced Tuesday.

A $500 anonymous donation started the treadmill fund. Its total cost will be approximately $3,000.

The treadmill will be used primarily in giving stress tests for those with possible heart problems and with those recovering from heart attacks, it was explained.

It will not replace any equipment or treatment currently in use, but it is an additional tool by which the attending physician can determine if a patient with a heart or chest pain is having a heart attack.

For the patient recovering from a heart attack, the stress test determines if he

Bill Beall Named Head Of Bank in Amarillo

Bill Beall, president of Wellington State Bank five and one-half years, announced Tuesday, Oct. 27, that he has submitted his resignation to the board of directors in order to join an Amarillo bank.

He will take over the duties of president and chief executive officer of Western National Bank on December 1.

"My wife and I leave with some regret because of the friends we have made," Beall said in making the announcement.

Beall has led the Wellington State Bank through a period of aggressive work marking expansion and growth in both Wellington and the county.

Wellington State Bank was largely responsible for Wellington Industries, Inc., the county's major industry, locating here.

Beall considers the building programs of Wellington churches another major accomplishment of the bank during his tenure. "We financed the total building program of First United Methodist Church," he said. That complex is now valued at $1 million. The bank was deeply involved in First Baptist Church building and rebuilding program, as well as in building and remodeling work of other churches.

Wellington Country Club Golf Course, a milestone for the community, Beall believes, and the bank has been heavily involved in that

Rockets-Irish Play Traditional Game

Wellington Skyrockets host the Shamrock Irish Friday night, Oct. 30, at Powell Field. Game time will be 7:30 p.m.

Shamrock lost its first two district games, 26-0 to Clarendon and last week a 10-6 game to Canadian.

On the other hand, Wellington coaches who saw the Irish against Childress Bobcats consider Shamrock "a real good football team."

"They are a large team and they do a lot of things well," said Head Coach James Williams.

"Their quarterback is a real good passer and their running backs are OK. Their line averages probably over 200 pounds per man and their backs will average 170 to 175."

"Again, they are in a situation they can try almost anything for they are virtually out of the district race. They can try to knock off the leaders."

The Wellington-Shamrock rivalry goes back at least 50 years, possibly more, and there have been few years in that time that there has not been a game between the two.

In fact, there are some, who will say that on occasion the final action came after the last whistle blew, between players long out of high school, at confrontations in the vicinity of Lutie.

"They have always played us hard, and it is real important to us that we play well. We are still in the district race," declared Coach Williams.

Shamrock key players include quarterback Chris Darrow, 5-10, 162 pounds, a senior; fullback Scott Barefoot, 5-9, 146, senior;

Wellington PTO Carnival Oct. 31

Spooks and goblins will wander the halls of Wellington Elementary School Saturday, Oct. 31, as the Wellington PTO stages its annual carnival. Events will be centered in the cafeteria and hours will be 6:30 to 9:30.

There will be a pumpkin carving contest, and this is one of the events in which adults as well as youngsters have an opportunity to show their skill. Another highlight will be the costume contest.

This is the one fund raising event of the year held by PTO and all proceeds go to school improvements.

Those entering the pumpkin carving contest should have their entries at the school by 6:30 to be judged. Divisions will include adult, high school, junior high, and two elementary divisions, one for kindergarten through second grade and the other for grades three through 5.

The costume contest will be different this year. Anonymous judges will wander through the crowd, observing everyone in costume, and three of these will be judged winners. First, second and third place prizes will be given.

All the familiar games, most of them for the children, will be back this year. Included will be a cake walk, go fishing, color wheel, pumpkin toss, the famous spook house, bowling and others.

Donna Holt Selected for Regional Teenager Pageant

Donna Holt of Dodson is the second Collingsworth County girl to be selected as a finalist in the annual 1982 Miss Northern Texas National Teen-Ager Pageant to be held at Clarendon College May 14 through 16.

This pageant is the official regional finals to the Miss Texas National Teen-Ager Pageant to be held in June.

Donna is 15 years old and the daughter of Mrs. Aletta Whorton of Dodson.

She is being sponsored by Wellington Florist, Lewis Grocery, Wellington State Bank, Owens & Scott's Thriftway, and C&H Pharmacy.

She attends Wellington High School, where she participates in Future Homemakers of America chapter and other school activities.

DONNA HOLT

Like the other contestants, Donna will be requested to participate in the volunteer community service program of the National Teen-Ager Pageant. This program teaches teen-agers to share and to participate in school and civic affairs. A mini-modeling course will be given during the weekend of the pageant.

Each contestant will have a choice of either reciting a 100-word essay on "What's Right About America" or a two-minute talent presentation. If Donna chooses the latter, it is likely she will draw on one of her hobbies, which are art and singing.

Winner of the Miss Northern Texas National Teen-Ager Pageant will receive a cash scholarship, other prizes and will be fully sponsored to compete in the Miss Texas National Teen-Ager Pageant to be held at Texas Christian University at Ft. Worth.

Contestants will be judged on scholastic achievement, leadership, poise-personality and appearance.

Band Boosters Give Carpet

Laying of new carpet in the band hall of Wellington High School was completed Monday, Oct. 26, made possible by a $2,548 contribution from the Band Boosters Club.

Carpeting the room, which has never had carpet before, will give better accoustical qualities, the club has been told, according to Howard Murdock, president.

The beige carpeting is of a commercial quality, he added.

Funds for the project came from a variety of sources and was available at the beginning of the current school year.

The Band Boosters did not buy any new instruments this year, as it usually does, making the carpet puchase available.

Funds are raised each year by operation of the concession stand at athletic events and by a variety of other enterprises.

Norwood PTO Festival Sat.

Samnorwood PTO Harvest Festival and Turkey Dinner will be Saturday, Oct. 31, at the Samnorwood School. The turkey dinner will be in the school cafeteria, from 5 to 7:30 p.m. The climax comes with the coronation of the 1981 School Queen.

Tickets are kindergarten thru 6th grade $1.50; 7th thru adults, $3.50 and preschoolers free.

The overall theme this year is "Wizard of Oz." There will be a costume judging contest at 8 p.m. in the gym then the queen coronation follows this. This is under the direction of Jo Rita Henard.

Chairman of the turkey dinner is Edith Brown.

Two door prizes will be given away at the dinner. Tickets are available from any PTO member or at the door.

The coronation will begin at 8 p.m. with a costume contest for pre-school children. Announcement of the 1981 queen and introduction of her attendants will come imediately afterward.

The queen from each of the three school divisions -- high school, junior high and grade school -- will be chosen from nominees

Up front are Jeff Clark, 5-10, 215 poun guard and defensive end, a senior; tackle Doug Smith, 6-1, 222, a senior; Brad Hensley, 5-11, 210, tackle, a sophomore; and tight end Ron Bond, 5-10, 185, senior.

"Again we will be outweighed quite a bit in the line, and it's going to be a matter of whether we can block them or not," said Williams.

There will be a food concession, featuring sandwiches, frito pie, hot dogs, deserts, coffee and home made ice cream.

Funds raised this year will go toward placing display cabinets in each of the elementary school rooms. All of this cannot be done this year, but eventually, there will be a cabinet in every room.

endeavor.

Aggressively involved in the oil and gas leasing and exploration program in progress here for a year and a half, Beall believes remarkable progress will be shown in this area within the next six months. "I think you will see some drilling by the last of November," he said.

Home and business building and remodeling projects have been another involvement.

Included in this is the Wellington State's own renovation and modernization program. WSB has acquired property to the north and east of its building and added an additional drive-in banking facility, enlarging this from one to two drive-in windows.

Active in civic work, Beall has served as president of both Kiwanis Club and Methodist Men. He was on the official board of the church and currently is a member of its board of trustees.

He is the Collingsworth County member of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce board of directors. A 32nd Degree Mason, a member of the Shrine and a member of Collingsworth County Chamber of Commerce.

His wife, Joan Beall, likewise has been involved in Wellington's civic and social activities. She is the immediate past president of 1924 Study Club and is active in United Methodist Women. She is a member of Willow Creek Women's Golf Association and sings in the choir of First Methodist Church.

The Beall's have two children, Jelaine Workman and Rex Beall, both of Amarillo. Their grandchildren are Stephanie Workman and Mitchell Workman.

A native of Wellington, Beall graduated from Amarillo High School and entered his career in finance there when he began work for Southwestern Investment Co. in 1958.

He moved to Perryton in August 1962 and was with First National Bank, and in May 1973 he became president of Western National Bank in Duncanville. He joined Wellington State Bank in May 1976. Beall has been deeply involved in civic work in all those communities.

Teenie Powell Catches the Important Ones at LCC

LUBBOCK – Robert Powell has established himself as one of the top receivers ever to wear a Lubbock Christian College uniform, despite the fact he's a sophomore (freshman in eligibility).

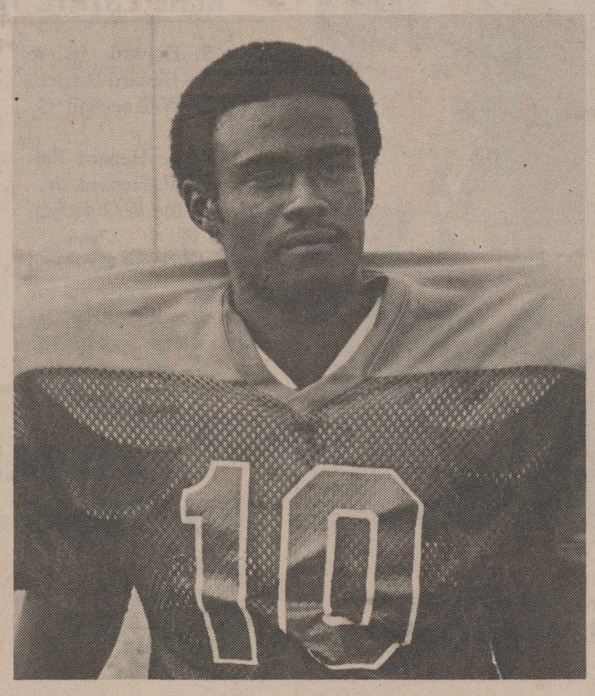
Powell, through 6 games, has caught 16 passes for 186 yards, or 11.6 yards per reception.

Twice he's broken the school record for catches in a game, with five for 75 yards against Sul Ross State and six for 71 yards last weekend against Austin College. Included in those six grabs was one for 39 yards, his longest of the year. He has also caught passes in six consecutive games which is a school record.

In addition, five times he's run the end round and has 20 yards to show for his effort there.

He's also returned two punts for 5 yards and 2 kickoffs for 34 yards.

His total of 16 receptions is just one away from both the single-season and career mark of 16, set by Joe Green in 1979--LCC's first year to have football.



ROBERT POWELL

Powell, and Lynn Thompson of Clarendon, have accumulated 308 of LCC's 523 passing yards this season.

Powell is a 5-9, 160-pounder and the son of the Robert Powell, Sr.'s of 400 Galveston in Wellington.

The 1980 Wellington HS grad attended Clarendon JC one semester before transfering to LCC to play football. He's a physical education major who also plans to run track next spring.

Grover Cleveland's 1886 wedding to Frances Folsom was the first White House wedding of a president.

"The Story of the Kelly Gant" an Australian film from 1906, was the first to run over one hour.

District 4-H Banquet Slated

The Panhandle District 4-H Gold Star Banquet will be held Saturday, Nov. 7, to honor the 1981 Gold Star Award recipients from the Panhandle counties.

Participating from Collingsworth County will be Lesa White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P.J. White and Stan Tate, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudie Tate, who received the 4-H Gold Star at the awards banquet Saturday night. They will be accompanied by Extension Agent Don Reeves and Mrs. Reeves and their parents.

The banquet will be at the Hilton Inn, I 40 and Lakeside, at 6:30 p.m.

The guest speaker will be the Hon. Foster Whaley, of Pampa, State Representative from the 66th District, according to Sue Farris, District extension director.

Hosting the banquet are the 5 electric cooperatives serving the Panhandle, including Greenbelt Rural Electric Cooperative headquartered in Wellington.

The other electric cooperatives are Deaf Smith at Hereford, Rita Blanca at Dalhart, North Plains at Perryton, and Swisher County at Tulia.

The Gold Star awards are presented to 4-H'ers in each county. The purpose of this award is to recognize their outstanding achievement, leadership and contribution to the county 4-H program. This is the highest county award available to 4-H members and the donor is the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

At the district 1 banquet, the Gold Star certificates will be presented by Ms. Farris and Paul Gross, the District Extension Directors.

Intention to Drill Filed

An intention to drill has been filed with the Pampa Office of the Texas Railraod Commission by E.F. Troxell. The well will be the No. 1 Troxell A in section 13, block 17.

This is in the north edge of the county and almost due north of Wellington.

The well will be drilled 2300 feet from the north line and 1320 feet from the west line of the section. The proposed depth is 2500 feet.

Baptist Men at Belize Mission

Eight representatives of Baptist Churches, including five from Wellington, returned Oct. 9, from Belize, where they worked in a Larry Jones Crusade and with a missionary-farmer couple.

They were Dan Langford, Rev. Stanley Hughes, James Fields, Charles Hollingsworth and David Null of First Baptist, Wellington; Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hughes of Hartley, parents of Rev. Hughes; and Rev. Aaron Laverty of Borger.

First going about 70 miles south of Belize, the capital city of a small central American country by the same name, the group distributed wheat donated byWellington area residents, that was stored and bagged by Warrick's, Inc.

Back in Belize, they worked with the Jones Crusade.

"We witnessed to the people and told them how to be saved," said Langford. Belize is an English speaking country, formerly British Honduras, but more recently belonging to Guatamala, said Langford.

Belize won it's independence only two weeks before the Wellington group arrived.

It is known for its citrus fruits, avocados and corn, he continues

Belize is in a beautiful area, nevertheless, it is a city with open sewage, which goes into the canals where the ships come in, as well as into the ocean where the Belize is located, said Langford.

Group Here for Church Dedication

Mrs. Chester Fires was hostess to this group of relatives over the weekend:

Mrs. John Vaughan of Sherman; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lee of Electra; Michael, David and Robby John of Electra; Mrs. Mary Helen Sutton of Altus; Mrs. Ralph Love and Mrs. Bill Leslie all of Amarillo.

They were here especially to attend the dedication of the sanctuary of First United Methodist Church.

Hartman-Hortman Reunion Held at Sylvester, Georgia

BY MRS. J.C. HARTMAN

We left Wellington Monday, Sept. 28--Alma and Alfred Patterson, Jay and Don Hartman, and Shorty and Ruby Hartman of Lone Star--going to Roberta, Georgia, to a Hartman-Hortman Family Reunion on Oct. 4.

The Hartmans and Hortmans are descended from the same great-grandfather, but somewhere, somebody changed their name from Hartman to Hortman.

These Georgia Hortmans were unknown to the Wellington Hartmans until a few years ago when one of the Hartmans and one of the Hortmans began looking up their family tree and discovered that they were related.

We were pulling two trailers and two pickups with campers. The first night we spent beside Eufala Lake in Eastern, Oklahoma. Tuesday, we arrived in the Mountains of Wesley, Ark. A cousin, Leo and Bessie Hartman have a new home on top of a mountain, a lovely place. They joined us for the reunion.

We spent the next night beside the St. Francis River in the Southeast corner of Missouri.

Thursday, arriving in Nashville, Tenn. we found there wouldn't be a show at Opry Land until Friday night, so we had to move on. We visited Rock City at Chattanooga, Tenn.

Friday night, we were staying at a KOA Camp south of Atlanta, when at 2:30 a.m. the highway patrol awakened Shorty and Ruby and told them their grandson had been in a very serious car accident at Lubbock while on his way to work.

He was in intensive care unit and in critical condition. They kept in touch, but went on to the reunion. He stopped breathing Sunday morning but was revived. Shorty and Ruby left right after the reunion and returned to Lubbock.

Saturday was spent visiting with Walter Hortman and his family. The reunion Sunday was held in the fellowship hall of a Primitive Baptist Church. More than a hundred attended and we certainly enjoyed all that southern cooking.

Jim and Exia Perkins took us to a small Hortman family cemetery. Jay's and Alma's and Shorty's great grandmother's grave was there, as were many other family graves. Some of the dates on the markers went back as far as the 1830s.

Monday, we went a hundred miles south to Sylvester to visit a cousin, Vernon Hortman. We got there right at noon, so decided we had better eat a bite before driving the 6 miles to their new home in the country. But when we arrived at Vernon and Lavern's, they had a large dining table piled with food and all ready for us to sit down and eat. Guess what we did. We sat down and ate again. Oh, what misery.

We didn't tell them we had already eaten and hope they didn't find out. We helped gather pecans that evening to relieve our misery.

Vernon showed us his antique cars. He had three stolen a few days before the reunion and had found one in a nearby town.

Alma and Alfred left Vernon's to visit their daughter in New Iberia, La. Jay and I went to New Orleans, La. and did sightseeing. Leo and Bessie returned home by way of the Smokey Mountains.

Jay and I joined Alma and Alfred for a few days visit with the Jim Chanslors (Larita Patterson). Jim took us for a plane ride over that area and a trip to Avery Island, where Tabasco sauce is made.

Jay and I went home by Orange, Texas, and up through the pine woods of East Texas. Alma and Alfred went by way of Oklahoma to see their new great-grandson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bart Patterson, and grandson of the Virgil Pattersons.

One person I got to talking to at the reunion was a Mrs. H.L. McCarty. She said she had kin in Texas, and in our conversation, she told me her three uncles, her mother's brothers, were the Kings who started the King Ranch. She also lives at Sylvester, Ga., with a daughter. She was in her 80s but still in fairly good health.

Vernon gave us a big sack of those famous Georgia peanuts.

Four door prizes were given by the hosts. After they were drawn the film on The Texas 36th Division was shown.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Barton, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Scott of Childress, Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Odle, Tanna and Bill, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Henard, Mr. and Mrs. Don Jones, Mrs. Edna Bradley, Buster Hughs, Mrs. Donald Curry, Mrs. Jake Leach, Mrs. Estelle French, Mrs. Silvia Rodriquez, Ricky J. and Jessica, Sgt. Vernon Day, Rita Lowrie and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. Castillo, David and Sheila and Mr. and Mrs. Meadows.

Excelsior Club Continues Study of Contemporary Artists

Miss Bonnie Willis was hostess when Excelsior Club members met Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 21, for a study of the works of illustrator J.C. Leyendecker and the paintings of Amado Maurillo Pena, Jr.

Mrs. Robert Barjenbruch was the program speaker.

Although the name of J.C. Leyendecker is seldom recognized, he was the illustrator whose commercial assignments brought recognition to products as diverse as Arrow Shirts and Overland Cars, Mrs. Barjenbruch told the club. But better remembered are the covers of The Saturday Evening Post, which appeared over a 50-year period, and the World War II posters.

Beyond that, he was the idol of Norman Rockwell.

"Leyendecker brought to commercial art a new thoroughness in advance preparation. Even the smallest brushstroke was studied before he began the painting. His technique was a decided lift for the whole of magazine illustration in America. Still he had no immitators; his style remained unique," said Mrs. Barjenbruch.

Turning her discussion to Texas Amado Pena, Mrs. Barjenbruch reviewed an article by Judy Spurgin which appeared in the new Texas magazine, Ultra. He is a contemporary artist who is swiftly finding recognition and stature, for the right reasons. "His work is original, fresh, communicative, emotionally potent and constantly changing and evolving, she quoted. Unlike many artists who find a popular style and opt for safety and sales, Pena continues to explore his medium, vary his technique and alter his subject matter.

A native of Laredo and long-time Texas school teacher, Pena is now painting full time.

His Chicano heritage has been important personally and his renderings of Chicano life and the softer Chicano-American Indian images are a medium for his search for just the right expression, just the right medium, just the right colors to portray his particular perspective.

Mrs. Russell Yates, president, directed the business meeting.

A dessert plate was served to Dorothy Robertson, Mrs. Yates, Hattie D. Wells, Marie Shadid, Mrs. Barjenbruch, Mrs. Melvin Kiker, Mrs. E.F. Bartlett, Rose Shadid and the hostess, Miss Willis.

Brothers, Sisters of Johnson Family Hold Reunion

Eight brothers and sisters of the W.W. Johnson Family met in Wellington October 22 and 23 for a reunion. The oldest member, Mrs. Eunice Wilson, is deceased.

The two days were spent visiting, reminiscing with the family photo albums, and recording conversations to be played at a future time.

The family lived in the Salt Fork Community and were members of the Methodist Church. That church is now a part of the First United Methodist Church of Wellington and a highlight of this reunion was a tour of the new fellowship hall and church facilities of the First Church.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Johnson of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. R.B. Johnson of Fremont, Nebraska, Ruby Riley of Pampa, Alma Wilson of Amarillo, Isla Mae Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Hezze (Golda) Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Fred (Willie) Cummings, and Mr. and Mrs. Barney (Esta) Glenn of Wellington.

Club Hears Inspirational Talk by Mrs. Ben Wilhelm

Belles Lettres Club met Tuesday, Oct. 20, when Mrs. Howard Riggs was hostess.

Mrs. Ben Wilhelm was the guest speaker, giving an inspirational talk.

She first told the story of Eddie Rickenbacker, and of his experiences in World War II, when the plane in which he was flying ran out of gas and had to be ditched in the Pacific Ocean, with the crew taking to life rafts. One crew member, Johnny Bartek, retained his New Testament, which he began reading. Gradually, Mrs. Milhelm told the group, all the men joined in or listened to the reading of the scripture.

"This led all of them to have more courage and keep up their faith, the speaker said.

One member of this group was a Collingsworth County man, Capt. Bill Cherry.

The American Bible Society was so impressed with the results of their experience that they were able to put New Testaments and the 10 Commandments on every life raft.

The remainder of Mrs. Wilhelm's talk concerned each individual's need for the Bible.

Mrs. Charles Cason, Sr., president, was in charge of the meeting and Mrs. R.R. Hightower led the collect. Mrs. Riggs was program chairman and introduced Mrs. Wilhelm.

Present were Mrs. E.F. Bartlett, Mrs. Bryan Denley, Mrs. A.B. Clark, Mrs. Earl Alexander, Mrs. F.A. Hatch, Mrs. Bill Harbin, Mrs. Hightower, Mrs. Cason, Mrs. Wilhelm and the hostess, Mrs. Riggs.

Constitutional Amendments

Texas voters will vote up or down seven Constitutional Amendments next Tuesday. A brief explanation of each of the proposed amendments and the arguments for and against each amendment are presented to the right on this page. The pro and con arguments are prepared by the Texas Legislative Council. The Council is made up of the Lieutenant Governor, the Speaker of the House, 5 senators and 10 representatives.

We talked to State Representative Foster Whaley this week to get his ideas on the amendments, since he had heard hours of discussion on each of them during the legislative session earlier this year.

Whaley said that he favored all of the amendments, and his comments on each follow:

No. 1 : "I can't see where this amendment would help or hurt anyone in this legislative district. Primarily, it's cut out to help these economically distressed areas. Since it would be a local option, I would have no objection if they can use it in some other areas. I will probably vote for it."

No. 2: "I co-signed that bill. About 25 people have bad titles to their property. They've paid taxes on the land for about 50 years, but technically it still belongs to the state, and this amendment will allow the state to correct the titles."

No. 3: "I think we ought to have this in order to handle the block grants that will be coming down from Washington. Safeguards are built in and I don't see anything wrong with it myself."

No. 4: "I think this water fund is really important It's a rainy-day fund that will help anybody that has a water problem. We may have a serious water shortage in major cities in Texas within a decade.

No. 5: "Only 50 of the 1,050 school districts in Texas now tax cattle and there are many problems in rendering those cattle. Texas is the only major cattle-feeding state that taxes cattle. This passed 143 to 0 on the floor of the house."

No. 6: "This will phase in the pain of the Peveto bill. Surveys show the tax burden has shifted to homeowners and this will give some temporary relief."

No. 7: "The veterans land fund pays its own way, and this simply authorizes it to raise its interest rates and issue an additional $250 million in bonds."

---Henry Wells

FROM HIS WORD...

"In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God." (Jn. 1:1) "So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the Word of God." (Rom. 10:17) "Of his own will begat he us with the word of truth, that we should be a kind of first fruits of His creatures." (Ja. 1:18) And "being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God, which liveth and abideth forever." (I Pet. 1:23)

If we do not hold to the Word of God, we in effect do not hold to Jesus Christ, nor do we have the truth in us. We find ourselves in the same position that the early church did, as Paul related in I Timothy 4:16; "take heed unto thyself, and unto the doctrine; continue in them: for in doing this thou shalt both save thyself, and them that hear thee." This same teaching was given about steadfastness in Acts 2:42 on the day of Pentecost in A.D. 33. There is no salvation in denominations of men; it is through Christ Jesus the Word of God and His blood that we have our redemption.

Pro, Con Arguments on Constitutional Amendments

AMENDMENT NO. 1

Senate Joint Resolution 8, proposing a constitutional amendment authorizing cities, towns, and other taxing units to encourage the improvement, development, or redevelopment of certain areas through property tax relief and through the issuance of bonds and notes.

AGRUMENTS

FOR:

1. The authority to grant exemptions from property taxation would enable cities or town to provide incentives for rebuilding economically distressed areas. Employment would increase because of commercial or industrial expansion in the distressed areas or residential areas would be stablized as a result of completed improvements or repairs to residential property. Employment in distressed areas might further increase if future federal legislation establishes enterprise zones, since Texas cities or towns would be in a position to designate certain distressed areas as enterprise zones under the federal legislation.

2. Property tax exemptions and tax increment financing would provide municipal governments with flexible, effective incentives for redevelopment of property. Redeveloped property would have higher taxable value and the increase in the tax base of the municipality and other taxing units would create higher property taxes that would eventually be available to finance general services of the municipality and other taxing units.

3. Conventional interest rates are currently high and the federal government is reducing federal tax incentives and other subsidies for deteriorating urban areas. Tax exempt tax increment bonds or notes would be issued at lower interest rates than private bonds or notes. The availability of development capital at lower interest rates and exemptions from property taxation would combine to make development and construction by private businesses profitable in these urban areas. Without these financial incentives, growth in the private sector would not occur to the extent necessary to offset the decrease in federal financial assistance and the impact on the economy caused by high interest rates.

AGAINST:

1. The exemption from property taxation would not be limited to just commercial or industrial property or restricted to a percentage of the value of the economically distressed property or property qualifying for certain federal assistance. Cities or towns would be able to remove from their tax rolls a substantial amount of the value of all taxable property and thereby place the cost of redevelopment on owners of the taxable property remaining on the rolls.

2. A city or town would be able to use the tax increments of other taxing units as well as its own tax increments to finance redevelopment in reinvestment zones. Tax increments in property tax revenues of school districts or other taxing units used to finance municipal redevelopment would not be available for school district purposes or to pay for services of other taxing units until termination of the reinvestment zone.

3. Tax increment financing would not be limited to use by small businesses or for development of manufacturing or industrial property. Large national corporations engaged in commercial activity would be able to use the proceeds of tax increment bonds or notes to construct hotels, motels, restaurants, or other wholesale or retail sales facilities. Tax increment bonds or notes would be tax exempt and would be marketed at lower interest rates than conventional private bonds or notes. Construction of commercial facilities for large national corporations would be subsidized to the extent of the difference between the interest rate on the tax increment bonds or notes and the rate on conventional bonds or notes issued to finance private construction.

AMENDMENT NO. 2

House Joint Resolution 117, proposing a constitutional amendment to authorize the commissioner of the General Land Office to issue patents for certain public free school fund land held in good faith under color of title for at least 50 years as of November 15, 1981.

ARGUMENTS

FOR:

1. The individuals with title problems that are proposed to be remedied by this amendment purchased lands in good faith and have paid the taxes on them for a long period of time. The state neither claimed nor inspected these lands until 1966. The state issued claims to the lands in 1978. The amendment provides a simple way for the state to correct an inequitable situation.

2. The conditions required for obtaining title under this amendment will prevent unworthy applicants from receiving titles.

AGAINST:

1. The land in question is currently dedicated to the permanent school fund. Under the current constitution, land may not be given from a constitutional fund without just compensation to the state. To resolve the title problems of these individuals in the manner prescribed by the amendment would effectively be making a gift of the lands.

2. The proposed amendment discriminates unfairly. It prescribes rigid eligibility requirements that would apply to only a small class of landholders, excluding other landholders in similar, but not identical, circumstances who may be just as worthy of relief.

AMENDMENT NO. 3

House Joint Resolution 38, proposing a constitutional amendment to allow the legislature to grant to a state finance management committee the power to manage the expenditure of certain appropriated funds.

ARGUMENTS

FOR:

1. With no central authority for budget management, the state spends over $10 billion a year of the taxpayers' money. By giving a committee of elected officials the power to oversee expenditures, unnecessary spending could be cut and increased efficiency could be brought to agency programs. In addition, eliminating current fragmented budget management authority could help stop the rising cost of state government.

2. Currently, agencies submit budget estimates at least 13 months before the beginning of the fiscal bienniumm. This is 38 months before the end of the biennium, during which time emergencies may arise and circumstances may change. The amendment would provide much-needed flexibility in responding to unanticipated expenses.

3. In the fiscal 1982 federal budget, some categorical grants to the states have been changed to block grants. The increased discretion allowed to the state in the use of these funds should not be left entirely in the control of unelected agency officials. The committee would have the authority, under contingent rider to the current General Appropriations Act, to manage certain federal block grants without further action by the legislature.

AGAINST:

1. Fiscal management is an administrative function that should be performed by persons who have responsibility for program operations. This amendment would allow political concerns to invade what should be professional administrative decisions. Since committee members run for reelection, politics could be the main basis for determining fiscal management policies.

2. The committee's power could be used to harass agencies that are out of favor with the committee. Since the committee's power is to important and extensive, it would be easy to circumvent more lative intent and change state policy. The power becomes even more important with the state's receipt of federal block grants and could result in the committee and not the legislature determining a large part of budget priorities.

3. The theory behind the principle of separation of powers is undermined by having a joint executive-legislative committee decide state fiscal policy. The amendment would allow members of one branch to assume some of the powers of another branch. The potential for mutual backscratching between some of the most powerful figures in each governmental branch far outweighs the advantage of having a central budget management authority.

AMENDMENT NO. 4

House Joint Resolution 6, proposing a constitutional amendment to dedicate excess state revenue to certain special funds, to authorize state guarantee of certain local government obligations, and to increase the allowable interest rate on certain bonds.

ARGUMENTS

FOR:

1. An adequate, clean, and controlled water supply has been a key ingredient in making Texas a good place to live and work and in providing a strong, growing, and varied economy in a time of economic crisis in the rest of the nation. The dedication of a portion of the state's excess tax revenue is vital to assure that necessary money will be available to state and local government to continue to provide such a water supply and thus protect the well-being of the state's people and its economy.

2. The creation of a water bond guaranty program and pledging up to $500 million of the state's credit to guarantee local government bonds will allow the local governments to borrow money at lower interest rates to fund water projects while at the same time not actually tying up state money in water projects or setting aside state money in a fund so that it cannot be spent for other purposes.

3. The creation of state bond retirement funds to pay bonds issued by the state for various purposes will allow the state to more quickly accumulate money to pay those bonds and will simultaneously make available money designated to pay those bonds for use for other purposes.

4. Current interest rate limitations in the constitution coupled with the period of very high interest rates presently being experienced has made it difficult or impossible to issue bonds to fund water programs, park development, the veterans' land program and the state student loan program. These programs are vitally needed. The interest rate that may be paid on constitutional state bonds must be raised so that the bonds may be sold and the funds for these programs provided.

5. The approaching water shortage in the United States is now one of the most discussed and most difficult to solve problems to be faced in the 1980's. Unless steps are taken now to construct projects to provide the necessary water supply for future years Texas will face a water shortage problem in the next few years that will rival the oil and gas shortage problem of the 1970's. The adoption of this broad-based water funding proposal will provide the funding to construct these projects and will assure that Texas will not face difficult social and economic problems in the future as a result of water shortages.

AGAINST:

1. Economic uncertainty has been for the last several years and will continue to be for some time in the future, the major problem to be faced by this state as well as the United States and the rest of the world. The state should not embark on a financing program as proposed by this amendment that will tie up funds for specific purposes and will not allow the state to maintain financial flexibility to meet problems as they arise.

2. The state has already created too many dedicated funds. The ability to create a water fund and other funds proposed by the constitutional amendment will only lead to the creation of more dedicated funds. Such a situation will reduce the ability of the state in future years to easily respond to its needs without imposing new taxes and facing financial crisis.

3. Before the state embarks on programs based on the proposals in this constitutional amendment, more research should be done and study should be given to the state's priorities for funding and to alternative funding sources to assure that state money will be spent to fulfill the greatest needs of the state in the most economically feasible manner.

4. The proposed amendment is so broad that it has the effect of making unknown amounts of money available for numerous unknown purposes. If state money is to be made available for water or any other purposes, the amounts to be dedicated should be specifically stated so that some limitation is placed on those amounts and the purposes for use of the money should be specifically defined so that money will be spent only for programs and projects that are necessary.

AMENDMENT NO. 5

House Joint Resolution 49, proposing a constitutional amendment providing for the inclusion of livestock and poultry with farm products as exempt from taxation.

ARGUMENTS

FOR:

1. Under the present Texas Constitution, only agricultural crops or their by-products are exempt from taxation as farm products. Livestock and poultry in the hands of the producer are not exempt. As a result, producers of soybean, wheat, or other crops may exempt their crops from property taxes while producers of cattle, sheep, pigs, goats, or poultry must pay property taxes on their livestock or poultry. Adoption of the amendment would result in all agricultural producers being treated alike for purposes of taxation.

2. At the present time, Texas has an important cattle feedlot and slaughtering industry. Approximately 80 percent of the cattle slaughtered in Texas have been fattened in Texas feedlots. The Texas feedlot industry is at a competitive disadvantage to similar industry in other major feedlot states because those states allow either an absolute or partial exemption of cattle from property taxation. Texas feedlots, for the most part, are located in only a few taxing units, and it has been estimated that less than one percent of the total property taxes generated statewide would be lost if livestock and poultry were removed from the tax rolls. Adoption of the amendment would place the Texas feedlot industry on an equal basis with similar industry in other states.

3. Livestock and poultry are often difficult to locate and value for purposes of taxation. Some taxing units have incurred administrative costs in the location or valuation of livestock or poultry disproportionate to the revenue generated by property taxation of the livestock or poultry. Adoption of the amendment would eliminate the administrative difficulties of these taxing units.

AGAINST:

1. Taxation of livestock and poultry has generated some revenue to provide public services. In 1979, property taxation of livestock and poultry by taxing units in Texas generated approximately 6 million dollars. Adoption of the amendment would eliminate this property tax revenue, which could be a hardship on local governments where a large number of cattle feedlots are located.

2. Exemption of one particular class of property from taxation favors one group of property owners over others. Adoption of the amendment would favor producers of livestock and poultry over other taxpayers, such as commercial businesses or homeowners.

AMENDMENT NO. 6

House Joint Resolution 81, proposing a constitutional amendment to authorize certain property tax relief for owners of residence homesteads and to change certain property tax administrative procedures.

ARGUMENTS

In both the "for" and "against" arguments, the first two arguments relate to the optional residence homestead exemption and the third relates to the content of notices of reappraisal.

for;

1. A shift in the local property tax burden from business property to residential property is likely to occur as a result of reappraisal. Adoption of the proposed amendment would authorize political subdivisions to offset the shift in the tax burden and the resulting higher residential taxes by offering to owners of residences a percentage exemption from property taxation.

2. Higher property taxes on residences along with the inflationary rise in the value of real estate make it increasingly difficult for individuals with fixed or low incomes to become and remain homeowners. Adoption of the proposed amendment would enhance the chances of buying and keeping a home.

3. Elimination of the present notice requirement would lessen the possibility that property owners would be misinformed or misled about the effect of reappraised value on their property taxes for the current year. Instead of giving notice of the amount of property taxes that would be imposed using the tax rate for the preceding year, political subdivisions would include in reappraisal notices a reasonable estimate of property taxes that would result from reappraised value if the total amount of property taxes is not increased above the amount for the preceding year. A flexible standard based on reasonableness would allow political subdivisions freedom to give notice of the amount of property taxes most likely to be imposed for the current year as a result of reappraised value.

AGAINST:

1. A shift in the tax burden to residences is not likely to occur in political subdivisions that have in the past appraised residences at the same percentage and as frequently as other property. Adoption of the proposed amendment may result in political subdivisions extending unnecessary tax relief to owners of residences and shifting more of the tax burden to owners of businesses.

2. The percentage exemption authorized by the

J.O. Pickering Dies Oct. 1 At Austin

James O. Pickering, 71, of 555 Tinton Ave., Eatontown, N.J., died Oct. 1, in Austin, where he and his wife were visiting.

He was on extended sick leave from the U.S. Army Signal Corps at Fort Monmouth.

Mrs. Pickering is the former Eunice Bird, who grew up here and graduated from Wellington High School. The couple has visited here a number of times since she left.

Born at Kilgore, Mr. Pickering was graduated from the University of Texas with a degree in electrical engineering. He was employed as a civil engineer by the State of Texas until moving to New Jersey in 1940 to work at the Signal Corps labs.

He taught on a part-time basis at Monmouth College in the early 1940s and was a charter member of the Monmouth Regional Board of Education, serving 8 years. He was also involved with Cub Scouts, the Tinton Falls Fair and Tinton Falls Historical Society. He was a member of the Church of Christ.

Gifts in his memory are to be made to Northeastern Christian College, 18160 Montgomery Avenue, Villanova, Pa., where he was a member of the President's Board of Counselors.

proposed amendment is based on homeownership and not solely on the financial need of homeowners. Adoption of the proposed amendment may result in some financially able homeowners receiving property tax relief that they do not need.

3. The present notice requirement does provide to property owners some additional information about the effects of reappraised value on property taxes and, in those cases where political subdivisions do not reduce the tax rate for the preceding year, the information may accurately inform property owners of the effect of reappraised value. A flexible standard based on reasonableness, rather than a standard tied to a certain tax rate such as the rate for the preceding year, may be misused by some political subdivisions to avoid accurately informing property owners about the probable effect of reappraised value on property taxes.

AMENDMENT NO. 7

House Joint Resolution 4, proposing a constitutional amendment to authorize the issuance of additional bonds or obligations of the state for the veterans' land fund and to increase the maximum interest rate allowable on those bonds and obligations.

ARGUMENTS

FOR:

1. The people of Texas have previously seen fit to allow Texans who have served in the armed forces of the United States the benefit of purchasing land through the veterans' land program. In order to continue this program and to extend its benefits to those veterans who were eligible under the program but for whom money was unavailable for a loan because of the fund's depletion, authorization for the additional bonds or obligations should be approved.

2. If the maximum interest rate allowable on bonds and obligations issued by the Veterans' Land Board is not increased the bonds and obligations will be unmarketable and the Veterans' Land Board will be unable to continue the program.

against;

1. The federal government already provides generous benefits for veterans, and compensation of veterans is a federal rather than a state responsibility. Extension of the program should no longer be necessary as there has been sufficient time since the Vietnamese conflict for all those who desire land to make application and obtain loans through the veterans' land program and other loan programs available through federal and private institutions.

2. Increasing the maximum interest rate allowable on bonds and obligations authorized for the program would mean that the program would be paying more for the money it borrows through the issuance of bonds and obligations and a smaller percentage of money raised by the program would be available for loans to veterans.

County Heart Association Receives Certificate

John Brown, president of the Collingsworth County Division of the American Heart Association, received the Regional Program Award for Outstanding Divisional Program in the state of Texas at a leadership workshop at Amarillo this month.

With their participation in CPR and the Physical Fittness through Jump Rope, John Brown, Marshall Peters, and Geney Gully are resposible for the county receiving the award.

Brown and Peters introduced the CPR program into the Schools this past year and Mrs. Gulley along with co-workers implemented the Jump Rope for fittness.

"It is important that citizens know CPR. There were 108,018 deaths in the State of Texas in 1980, of these 50,176 died of Cardiovascular related diseases. 10,956 of these deaths were of people of under 65 years of age. If citizen CPR is performed on the heart attack victim immediately and kept up until Emergency Medical assistance arrives there is a good chance the victim will survive, Brown said.

Physical Fittness is important to a healthy cardiovascular system.

The 50-year Masonic Service Award is a gift of the Grand Lodge of Texas.

After members paid tribute to Swift, the lodge was closed and refreshments were served.

County Steers Place High at State Fair

Three Collingsworth 4-H calves placed high in the State Fair of Texas, held through last week in Dallas.

Patricia Fourmentin's Hereford steer placed 4th in the middleweight class of the Hereford division, the highest placing for the county group.

Stan Tate's Angus was 7th in the heavyweight division for that breed.

Barry Long, exhibiting a black baldie, ranked in the blue ribbon group.

"I thought our steers placed real well," declared Extension Agent Don Reeves. "There were plenty of good steers at Dallas and probably the top end of the steers was better than last year."

The three Collingsworth County steers were sold in the annual State Fair steer sale.

Patricia's 1050 pound steer sold for $1.25, while the other steers brought 89 cents. Tate's entry weighed 1060 pounds and Long's 1040.

This year's prices were down somewhat from last year, Reeves said, just as the price of cattle in general is down.

The next appearance of Collingsworth County calves will be at their home show in January.

"I think we have a pretty good set of steers, but I don't know if we have one steer away ahead of the others. They're doing pretty good."

Education Classes to Begin Monday

The adult basic education classes will begin Monday, Nov. 2, at Wellington High School, with classes from 7 to 10 p.m.

Anyone who is 17 years or older and who is not enrolled in high school is eligible to take the courses, which are offered to prepare the individual to take the GED examination.

Mrs. Lonnie Roberson will be the teacher for this program, with Mrs. Ruby Williams assisting her.

Those wanting further information may call Wellington High School, 447-2527.

A letter to the personnel of Collingsworth General Hospital...

I just recently spent seven days in the hospital on account of bad kidneys, and I want to take this opportunity to thank all of the personnel in the hospital for being so nice and giving such good service. Everyone was so nice and courteous. I never saw a frown while I was there. And the food was good and the cooks were nice, too.

I had room 124 right next to the office and one night about 3 a.m. I thought I would be smart and go to the bathroom by myself. I was just about ready to leave the bathroom when I backed up and fell head over heels right into the bathtub. I didn't hurt anything but it sure made a lot of noise.

It wasn't but two seconds before Evelyn Gragson and two other nurses were pulling me out of the tub. (I got a good chewing out, which I needed, but the nurses were all kind of smiling while they were chewing.)

I wish there was something good that I could do for the hospital...oh, I know...I just won't gripe when I pay my taxes.

KEITH DAVIS AND BONNIE

Davis, in Chianina Business, Has a Regional Show Winner

Keith Davis, who was showing 4-H Club calves by the time he could handle them, has entered the Chianina cattle business dead serious, and this fall one of his heifers, Bonnie 280, has come home with two placings in major shows.

Her initial competition brought a fourth place in her class at the West Texas Fair at Abilene. Then Bonnie placed third in her class, where she was the youngest entry, at the Southwest Regional Chianina Show in Dallas.

Big and gentle, the 11 months old heifer already weighs 875 pounds. Although she is white, she is of three-fourths Chianina and one-fourth Angus breeding, a cross that most commercial breeders want.

Davis calls them "the largest cattle in the world."

"The bulls can be up to six feet tall at the shoulders and hips, and the females about five and one-half feet tall," says Davis.

Yet their birth weight is only 75 to 80 pounds. "That's one thing the breed is known for. They can cross-breed with smaller cows without large birth weight and they grow off real fast."

The Chianina breed originated in Italy as a beef and draft animal. The first Chianians were brought to the United States in 1972, Davis says--less than a decade ago. Bulls had to be brought in through Canada, due to U.S. quarantine laws.

Davis has bought 9 heifers from Charles Burke, a major breeder at Groom. Seven are ½ Chianina and Angus, two are¾ Chianina.

Most commercial cattlemen who are opting for Chianina blood in their herds prefer bulls that are three-fourths Chianina and one-fourth Angus.

One bull of that mixture in the Burke herd weighed 1600 pounds at one year, a record for yearling calves in the U.S., says Davis.

Using artificial insemination, Davis will breed his heifers to Pure Black, a bull owned by the Black Champ Farms at Waxahachie, which is of 15/16 black Chianina, 1/16 Angus breeding.

"One reason for crossing with Angus is to bring in the qualities of maturity and marbeling of the meat found in the Angus breed," Davis points out.

In price, these bulls bow to no one. Davis said that at Dallas one half interest in Big Tex, a 7/8 Chianina, sold for $50,000 by private treaty. There are Bulls in the U.S. that have sold for as much as $500,000, he says.

"They're going to be the future cattle in the cattle industry," Davis insists.

LET'S KEEP THE WATER RUNNING IN TEXAS!

In cities and towns all across Texas, local water problems are threatening to erupt into one enormous statewide crisis. Countless communities are facing growing water supply, water treatment, sewage treatment and flood control problems estimated to cost a staggering $50 billion over the next 25 years. To make matters worse, federal funds for water projects have recently been slashed.

But on November 3, Texans have the opportunity to adopt a plan, already passed by two-thirds of the Legislature, which would harness a portion of our state's budget surplus to help shoulder that heavy local burden.

The plan is proposed Constitutional Amendment No. 4.

Passage of Amendment No. 4 would:

- Make possible the sale of more than $200 million in authorized and urgently needed state bonds to address a backlog of needed projects.
- Create a loan guaranty program to enable local communities to save millions of dollars in issuing future bonds.
- Begin to build a "nest egg" for the future from a part of the state's budget surplus to assist local governments in financing future water and sewage projects.

Texas' water needs must be met, either now or in the future. We can act now, and save money . . . or pay the higher price later for our neglect, with possible increased taxes. Sensible action now makes much more sense for Texas.

Skyrockets Deflate Cyclone, 12-0

The Wellington Skyrockets downed Memphis 12-0 there Friday, in the second district game of the season to give the Rockets a 2-0 district standing.

But before the final whistle blew, Rocket fans relived memories of previous years' district hopes that died between the Memphis 5 yard line and the goal line.

During Wellington's initial possession, Memphis recovered a Rocket fumble at the Wellington 25. But four plays later Memphis fumbled back and Brent Long recovered for the Rockets at their own 32. The Rockets ground out the 68 yards to the goal in 10 plays that finally saw Tim Harris score from the 3 with 4:22 to play in the first quarter. Tito Nevarez kick fell off to the side and the score stood at 6-0, and it looked as if the Rockets might have it their way all evening.

Kenneth Warren intercepted a Memphis pass and returned it to the Memphis 14. But the Rockets died at the 3 yard line when Bruce Alexander's pass was intercepted by Cyclone Rickey Mackey.

The Rockets were at Memphis' 20 yard line next when they coughed up the ball and Mackey recovered. And later the Rockets made it to the Memphis 23 before they stalled on a fourth and 2 situation.

Memphis came back to a fourth and 2 themselves, this time on the Rocket's 34, and Wade Williams, Otis Lewis and other Rocket defenders put the stops on that effort.

Wellington fumbled to Memphis once more before halftime, but three passes netted the Cyclone minus 1 yard on this attempt.

Shane Cobb grabbed the ensuing punt at his own 30 and raced the right sideline with Memphis defenders falling like bowling pins in a picture-perfect punt return for 70 yards across the goal line. But the picture turned out to be less than perfect--a clipping penalty brought the ball back to the Rocket 22 and the Rockets went into halftime clinging to a 6 point lead.

The teams traded punts until Wade Williams intercepted a Memphis pass at the Rocket 30. But a couple of plays later Wellington fumbled the ball back to Memphis. On fourth and 9 from the 29 the Cyclone attempted a field goal, but Rand Johnson blocked the attempt.

A midfield punt play by the Rockets turned the ball over to Memphis at the 50 when Memphis' defense broke the Rocket punt protection and Shane Cobb had to run the ball. But Kenneth Warren nailed Memphis next possession with a one-handed interception, and this time the Rockets moved the ball to Memphis one yard line.

But the Rockets ran into trouble again as snap from center sailed over the holder's head on a fourth down field goal attempt. A penalty gave the Rockets another try, but they still couldn't hit paydirt and Memphis took over on their 1 yard line.

Memphis had moved the ball out to their 17 when Tim Harris intercepted a Cyclone pass and ran it into the end zone with just 21 seconds to play. Bruce Alexander's extra point run fell shy and the Rockets walked away with a 12-0 win.

Tito Nevarez, 62, and Rand Johnson, 52, lead the blocking for Kenneth Warren, 43, against Memphis Friday, Oct. 23.

8th Graders Lose to Memphis

Wellington 8th Grade lost to Memphis 8th Grade 22-8 at Memphis Thursday, Oct. 22, although a second half stiffened defense stopped further scoring by their opponents.

Wellington's score came in the second quarter on a two yard run by Michael Mackey, after Johnny Nash and Chuck Brown had moved the ball downfield on a series of runs. Brown made the two point conversion.

One Memphis touchdown came on an interception of a pass and the others were run in.

7th Drops Memphis Game

A Wellington 7th grade team, although improved in recent weeks, lost their Thursday night game to Memphis 7th grade 14-6.

Memphis scored with 8 seconds left in the first half on a fullback pass which was slipped in despite Wellington's watchfulness.

Their other score came in the second half when a ball carrier broke into a long run.

Wellington's touchdown came with just two and a half minutes left in the game, with the ball near the Memphis goal line. Maugro Villanueva snatched it up and ran it over for the score. The try for extra point failed.

"For most of the game we contained them," said Coach Cliff Felix.

Memphis-Rocket JV's Battle 0-0

Wellington and Memphis Junior Varsity teams played to an 0-0 finish at Powell Field Thursday, Oct. 22.

The Skyrocket JV, however, had two scoring opportunities, Memphis only one, and much of the remainder of the game was played in midfield.

Memphis had one touchdown opportunity just before the half.

Wellington's first chance came as they moved the ball down to the Memphis three yard line, then on fourth down, the Cyclone JV defense held.

With 5 seconds left in the game, Darvin Nix ran a draw play to the Memphis one, then Joe Bill Munn tried a quarterback sneak. Game officials said he didn't get the ball over, but Wellington coaches, viewing the game film, say it looks like he did, according to Coach Curtis Smith.
