President Brings Campaign To Texas

ABOARD TRUMAN CAMPAIGN TRAIN — (AP) — President Truman campaigned Saturday night into a territory where States' Rights Democrats are on the ticket but ignored for the time being a challenge by their presidential candidate that he "not duck" civil rights issues.

As his train rolled through West Texas the President received but had "no comment" on a telegraphic challenge from Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina.

Thurmond asked the chief executive and Democratic presidential candidate to discuss during his bid for Texas' 23 electoral votes such issues as fair employment practices, racial segregation and tidelands oil.

The President's campaign train had entered Texas at El Paso. There in a speech he interpreted the written word of Rep. Dondero (R-Mich) as meaning Republicans in Congress want to put control of electric power in the hands of "hijackers."

That, he said, is "so they can stick you with high prices."

The El Paso entrance marked the start of a four-day campaign in Texas. Presidential Secretary Charles Ross said the telegram from Thurmond was received by the President at El Paso.

Speaks At Sierra Blanca

Truman made no mention of civil rights in the El Paso speech.

In midafternoon Truman spoke again to a trainside crowd at Sierra Blanca, where some of the audience were mounted on prancing horses. But he merely thanked the people for coming out and didn't get into campaign issues at all.

John Wood of the State Police estimated the turnout at about 3,000.

The President's speech at El Paso was his first campaign appearance in the traditionally solid South and in the territory where States' Rights Democrats have rebelled against his civil rights stand.

The President had no major speeches billed for the state Sunday and the schedule called only for a breakfast at Uvalde with former Vice President John Nance Garner and some meetings with party leaders and officials at a San Antonio hotel.

But before he gets out of the state Tuesday morning, he makes 23 stops and something like 17 speeches.

Flyers Will Try To Break Record Hung Up In 1934

FORT WORTH—(AP)—An endurance flight aimed at breaking the world's record of 721 hours which has stood 14 years will be sponsored by the Texas Private Flyers Association.

Two Dallas members of the association, Pred Vinmont and Bert Simons, will fly a specially-adapted Luscombe four-seater single engine plane. They hope to stay in the air at least 1,500 hours, double the previous record, or "as long as we can." The present record was set in 1934 by Al and Fred Key of Meridian, Miss.

Midland Alternate Field

The plane, the "Texas Flier," has been equipped with a bomb-bay opening through which it can be re-fueled from a convertible car while in mid-air.

Vinmont, who is 35, was one of the first pilots to fly the jet-propelled P-80 and during his wartime service in the Air Force flew almost every type plane the Air Force had.

Simons, 30, flew with both the RCAF and the U. S. Air Force. He has flown more than 2,700 hours in American and Canadian military aircraft and in civilian planes.

The flight will be out of Dallas and most pick-ups will be made there. Midland has been selected as an alternate field in case Dallas becomes weathered in during the long flight.

ANOTHER CLAIM

LONDON —(AP)— The Soviet news agency Tass, said in an "authorized" statement Sunday the Berlin situation had arisen as a result of violation by the United States, Britain and France of the Potsdam decisions.

Final Plans Readied For Annual County Fair Opening Thursday

Final preparations for the biggest, most elaborate and varied Midland County Fair in history will get underway Monday as carpenters begin erecting booths in the American Legion Hall, the City-County Auditorium, and livestock pens in front of the Legion Hall.

Beginning Tuesday, the 200 block of South Colorado Street will be closed until after the fair, which starts Thursday and continues through Saturday.

At the office of the Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the fair, Assistant Manager DeWayne Davis said Saturday at least 500, and probably close to 1,000 Midlanders have contributed cash or labor or both to make this year's event an unprecedented success.

Farm And Ranch

Products of farms and ranches will receive special prominence throughout the fair. Dozens of agricultural exhibits are planned to demonstrate the fertility of Midland County land and the ability of Midland County farm and ranch families.

Charles Reeder, manager of Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber Company, will be in charge of construction work on livestock pens. Don Thompson, manager of the A&L Housing and Lumber Company, will supervise carpentry work in the City-County Auditorium. Gordon Holcomb, manager of the Burton-Lingo Company will direct construction of booths in the American Legion Hall.

Russia Urges Limitations Of Armed Forces

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

PARIS —(AP)— Russia's fiery Andrei Y. Vishinsky Saturday urged the five great powers to scrap a third of their land, sea and air forces and demanded a ban on the atomic bomb.

The Soviet deputy foreign minister told the United Nations General Assembly in a rapid-fire, 50-minute speech that a group of leaders in the Western bloc are mapping an atomic war against Russia. He blasted the United States as leading a "wild armaments race" and seeking to dominate the world.

Western Power delegates, particularly those of the United States, tagged his speech "old stuff." British Minister of State Hector McNeil called it "warmed-over hash."

For the second straight year the former Soviet prosecutor singled out Defense Secretary James V. Forrestal in his vehement attack against the West. He said Forrestal is a leader in the group of men laying "flashy colored plans" for using the atomic bomb to destroy such Soviet cities as Moscow, Leningrad, Kiev, Kharkov and Odessa.

U. S. Welcomes Proposal

The general feeling of delegates, as expressed to newsmen, was that Vishinsky's policy speech to the 58-nation Assembly was merely a warmed-over version of the arms limitation demand put forward in the 1946 assembly by Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and Vishinsky's own attack of last year on what he called warmongers.

"We feel keen disappointment that Vishinsky failed to meet Secretary of State Marshall's calm, conciliatory address of last Thursday," an American official said. "His address was essentially an attack on the UN program over the past two years. We didn't hear a single word favorable to the UN."

The United States delegation later issued a statement welcoming Vishinsky's emphasis on arms limitation and offering to proceed toward implementing such a program within the UN machinery.

Vishinsky called on the Assembly to set up "within the framework of the Security Council" an international control body to carry out reduction of armaments and armed forces of the United States, Russia, Britain, France and China. His proposed one-third slash would be put into effect within one year.

Veto Power Noted

Delegates immediately noted that the phrase "within the framework of the Security Council" would give Russia a veto on the control body's decisions.

Vishinsky said the United States plans to spend billions of dollars in the military budget in the next five years. He added sarcastically:

"This is the United States five-year plan, gentlemen."

Slav delegates in the Assembly applauded when Vishinsky rapped the United States position on atomic energy and again when he said Russia will continue to stand guard for peace among nations.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin was the only notable absentee. Marshall sat poker - faced throughout.

Uvalde Agog Preparing For Truman Visit

UVALDE —(AP)— Four or five high school bands, 3,000 goats and most of Uvalde's 13,000 population completed preparations Saturday to welcome President Harry S. Truman at dawn Sunday.

The bands were under advance orders not to start playing before 6:30 a. m.

The President doesn't want them to play before then. His train arrives at 6 o'clock but he doesn't plan to get off the train until 6:50 explained W. A. (Bill) Kessler, Uvalde County Democratic Executive Committee chairman.

Breakfast With Garner

Former Vice President John Nance Garner at whose home President Truman, his wife and daughter Margaret will eat breakfast, left the matter of speech making up to the President.

It will be entirely up to the President's wishes what appearances and talks he makes, said Garner. He invited people interested in seeing the nation's leader to gather in the large front yard of the Garner residence between 7:30 and 8 a. m. Sunday.

Garner is suffering from an attack of gout which has kept him virtually immobilized in his chair for several days.

President Truman's acceptance of the invitation to breakfast here Sunday morning caused the city to rush completion of part of its paving program in North Uvalde.

Asphalt was poured only Saturday on some of the streets to assure Truman a smooth ride during the two-mile drive from the depot to Garner's home.

Air Force Hints At Near 1000-Mile Speed By Plane

NEW YORK —(AP)— An official inkling was given by the United States Saturday that its X-1 rocket-driven research plane apparently has hurtled through the air between 860 and 1000 miles an hour.

Air Secretary Symington gave a hint of the speed attained by the knife-winged little plane in an Air Force Association speech.

Enumerating achievements by the Air Force during the last year, he mentioned laconically "an airplane flying hundreds of miles faster than the speed of sound, which is 760 miles per hour at sea level."

This is all he had to say on that matter, but it was the first official suggestion of the speeds being reached by the "Flying Research Laboratory."

Hitched Beneath B-29

The original design called for the X-1 to reach a speed of 1100 miles an hour at 40,000 feet altitude and 1700 miles and hour at 80,000 feet.

Hitched beneath a B-29, the X-1 is carried aloft and then released when 25,000 feet or higher up.

The pilot has about enough fuel for two and one half minutes at top speed, then glides down between 300 and 400 miles an hour and lands at a speed of 160 miles an hour.

So far as is known, there are only two X-1 type planes in operation by the government, one by the Air Force and the other by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

Five other X-1 models are on order and a new and drastically different design, the X-4, is awaiting trial flight.

Notice Of Soviet Maneuvers Fails To Slow Airlift

BERLIN —(AP)— The Russians posted notice Saturday they would hold maneuvers across the Western airlift lanes, but U. S. fliers on the aerial supply highway said they failed to spot any Soviet planes.

The Russians said Saturday morning formation flying would be practiced in an area extending across all the American-British-French air corridors to blockaded Berlin. They did not say when the flights would occur. Usually little advance notice is given.

Capt. Vincent Gookin, U. S. air safety officer, said at the end of the day that no such maneuvers were reported by flyers who carried another 3725 tons of supplies.

War of Nerves

Lt. Col. B. E. Steadman of the American Military Government's Armed Forces Division, said, "At any rate, we're not worried and if they stay above 10,000 feet we don't care how many planes they have in the air around here."

Four-power flight rules require such planes to fly above 10,000 feet. The Soviet announcement did not mention at what altitude the flights were planned.

School Trustees Issue Traffic Safety Appeal

The Board of Education of the Midland Independent School District Saturday joined the City Council in its traffic safety campaign by appealing to individuals and organizations to practice, preach and teach traffic safety as a means of reducing street and highway accidents.

The appeal, a paid advertisement in this issue of The Reporter-Telegram, was signed by V. C. Maley, president of the school board; P. F. Bridgewater, vice president; George T. Abell, secretary; and Mrs. W. H. Gilmore, R. W. Hamilton, L. G. Mackey and D. W. McDonald, trustees.

"We urge every organization and every citizen to join in a concerted effort to reduce traffic accidents that too often involve our young people, our boys and girls of school age," the statement said.

"Throughout our schools we seek to stress safety, and the importance of conforming with safe practices and the rules and regulations designed to prevent accidents.

Proper Training

"In regard to our young people, we hope that all parents will realize their responsibilities in training their children to drive carefully and show proper courtesy to all others who must use our streets and highways. Your schools can and will help, but cannot take over all the responsibilities that are properly the duty of parents and the home," the statement continued.

The trustees stressed the importance of self-government on an individual basis as the only logical approach to the traffic problem.

"Please help us teach our boys and girls the importance of driving sanely at all times," was the final plea.

H. P. Hays Dies At Farm Home; Funeral Scheduled Sunday

Hershel Preston Hays, 35, a Midland County resident for 10 years, died Friday night at his farm home in the Greenwood Community after a long illness.

He was born June 22, 1913, at Mineola, Texas.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Sunday in the Ellis Funeral Home Chapel with Mickey Jones, evangelist of the Assembly of God Church, officiating. Interment will be in the Greenwood Cemetery.

Survivors include the widow; two sons, Roy and Charlie Hays of Midland; the parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Hays of Midland; the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dale of Midland; three brothers, Wylie O., Howard Lee and Billy Hays, all of Midland, and three sisters, Mrs. Alma McMillan of Tahoka, Mrs. Charles Aldridge of Meadow, and Mrs. Velma Moore of O'Donnell.

Building Of Extra Floors, 500 Homes To Start January 1

Plans were announced Saturday for expanding the new McClintic Building to 14 full floors and also for the construction of 500 more homes in Midland.

Ralph Geisler, manager of the building and also manager of the Petroleum Building, said the owners of the McClintic Building had authorized him to announce that they plan January 1 to start construction of eight more floors, making it a 14-story building. The basement and first six floors of the structure are nearing completion and will be occupied by tenants before October 31.

Nathan Wohlfeld of Dallas, the contractor, has been instructed not to remove his equipment from Midland at the conclusion of his contract for the first six floors as the structure will be carried to its full capacity. Basement and foundation were designed for a 14-story building. It will be one of the most efficient, modern office building in the Southwest. Wohlfeld has agreed to keep his equipment in Midland. Owners of the building hope the new construction can be started about January 1.

Housing Project

Ivan Bickelhaupt, vice president of the Byrne Organization, Inc., Washington, D. C., who recently spent two days in Midland, has informed Geisler that his company, about January 1, plans to start the construction of 500 new houses here of the two and three bedroom types.

Bickelhaupt told Geisler he had recommended the project to his organization if suitable land sites can be found and obtained at reasonable prices. The proposed houses will have from 1,000 to 1,200 square feet of floor space.

Bickelhaupt was in charge of Navy housing during World War II and ranked as a captain, in the Bureau of Yards and Docks.

Ready For Occupants

Geisler said all six floors of the McClintic Building, as now constructed, and the basement will be ready for occupants next month.

The Tidewater Associated Oil Companies and the Sinclair-Prairie Oil Company are scheduled to occupy the second floor before Saturday.

The Plymouth Oil Company, the Standard Oil Company of Texas, the Carl B. King Drilling Company, and King, Warren and Dye will occupy the third floor also before Saturday night.

All space on the first six floors has been rented and before November 1, all tenants expect to be in their new quarters. The contractor will complete the six-story office building in 54 weeks, as excavation started Sept. 16, 1947.

Senate Feud Climax Due In October

By The Associated Press

The court battle between Rep. Lyndon Johnson and former Gov. Coke Stevenson for the Democratic U. S. senatorial nomination rushed Saturday toward an early October climax with these developments:

1. Federal District Judge Whitfield Davidson set October 2 as the date for a final hearing on a temporary injunction which is keeping the name of Johnson, the certified party nominee, from the ballot for the November 2 general election. He ordered two investigators to probe Stevenson's charges of fraud in three South Texas counties in the August 28 runoff primary and report back to him October 2.

2. Johnson applied to the U. S. Circuit Court in New Orleans for a writ of prohibition to knock out the temporary injunction, granted by Judge Davidson Wednesday.

Appeal Hearing October 4

Judge J. C. Hutcheson, Jr., presiding officer of the Circuit Court, refused Friday at Houston to interfere with Judge Davidson's order. Although Johnson's attorneys protested that the October 4 date would be too late, Judge Hutcheson said the full court would hear Johnson's appeal at that time.

Judge Davidson has said that should the investigation fail to find evidence of fraud, he would dissolve the temporary injunction. Such action would eliminate the need for a hearing by the higher court.

Secrecy Shrouds Soviet Reply To Western Demands

PARIS —(AP)— Russia Saturday night answered the Western Powers' demand for a clear-cut statement on the Berlin crisis.

The French Foreign Ministry immediately called a huddle of the Western Powers foreign ministers to consider the reply, but said later the meeting had been called off. No reason was given but it was believed some of the ministers wanted more time to study Moscow's note.

Informants from all three Western Powers said there would be no statement Saturday night or any disclosure on the contents of the Soviet note. Earlier the U. S. Embassy said it had planned to hold a news conference or issue a statement.

Earlier Than Expected

Members of the American, French and British delegations were surprised over the speed of the reply They had not expected to hear from Moscow before early next week.

The Soviet reply was delivered to the Foreign Ministry in Paris by Ambassador Alexandre Bogomolov and to the British Foreign Office in London by the Soviet envoy to Britain.

Atom Report To Name Truman, Roosevelt, Clark, Says Official

WASHINGTON —(AP) —An official close to the House Un-American Activities Committee said Saturday its forthcoming report on atomic espionage "will shock the public."

It will state, the official declared, that Presidents Roosevelt and Truman and Attorney General Tom C. Clark "had all the facts" on a Russian spy ring that got atomic bomb secrets but did nothing about it.

The official, who declined use of his name, said the report will assert that Roosevelt, Truman and Clark knew that "Soviet agents in a complete professional spy ring, working with amateurs" successfully obtained American atomic secrets.

Should Practice What They Preach

ABOARD TRUMAN'S TRAIN IN TEXAS. —(AP)— U. S. Attorney General Tom Clark Saturday told reporters the state courts ought to settle the scrap between Lyndon Johnson and former Gov. Coke Stevenson.

"They talk about states' rights," Clark said. "We think they should practice what they preach."

Prospector In Midland Tests Ellenburger Top

Gulf Oil Corporation No. 1-E Bryant, Central Midland County wildcat, 14 miles south of the city of Midland, has entered the Ellenburger, and was taking a drillstem test in the top of that horizon.

Operator representatives have not definitely verified the report that the No. 1-E Bryant is in the Ellenburger. However, that information is from informed sources, and is considered to be correct.

No definite top of that formation has been called. Total depth is at 13,186 feet. It is thought that the formation has been penetrated at least 15 feet, and possibly a little deeper.

The exploration was scheduled to take the drillstem test late Saturday, or early Sunday.

Tide Water To Drill Wildcat In NW Dawson

Tide Water Associated Oil Company has filed an application with the Railroad Commission of Texas, requesting a permit to start drilling immediately at its No. 1 Everett Turner, as a 5,200-foot wildcat in extreme Northwest Dawson County.

The prospector will be 660 feet from north and east lines of south half of section 2, block C-39, psl survey. That puts it one and one-half miles northwest of the town of Welch.

The 5,200-foot destination is calculated to take the venture into the San Andres-Permian formation.

Tex Harvey No. 1 Floyd Tests In Pennsylvanian

Tex Harvey Oil Company No. 1 L. B. Floyd, in East Midland County, 14 miles southeast of Midland, and 660 feet from south and east lines of the northeast quarter of section 16, block 37, TP survey, T-3-S, took a two-hour drillstem test at 9,365-9,516 feet in a lime and shale section in the Pennsylvanian.

There was a blow of gas at the surface for a part of the test period. Recovery was 140 feet of drilling mud, with no shows of oil, gas or water. The prospector is to drill ahead. It is contracted to dig to the Ellenburger which is expected around 13,000 feet.

Esperado To Complete Central Andrews Wildcat

Esperado Mining Company No. 1 J. E. Parker, Central Andrews County wildcat, two miles northwest of the two-well Parker field, and 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 2, block A-43, psl survey, is preparing to take official Railroad Commission potential test and complete as a new discovery from the San Andres-Permian lime.

This prospector treated the pay section between 4,650 feet and the plugged back total depth of 4,705 feet with 5,000 gallons of acid, in one shot.

The acid residue and load was flowed out, and during a three-day period after the injection the well swabbed at the rate of three to four barrels of oil per hour.

Operators installed a pump last week, and in three days of producing on the lift it averaged around 75 barrels of oil per day, with no water.

This new discovery is on a spread of acreage worked up by Don M. Oliver and Fred F. Kotyza, both of Midland.

They turned it to Esperada, to drill, and retained an interest in some of the leases, and an over-ride on the well.

Upton Prospect Prepares To Re-Test Lower Zones

Wilshire Oil Company No. 1 McElroy, West-Central Upton County prospective discovery from the lower Permian, is preparing to re-acidize and re-test the intervals at 9,650-9,700 feet, and at 9,715-70 feet.

Those sections had swabbed at the rate of one barrel of oil per hour for six hours, after a 500-gallon shot of mud acid. During a 12-hour shutin, following the six hours of swabbing, the hole filled up with 5,700 feet of fluid—which was 95 per cent oil, and swabbing would not lower that column of fluid.

After those developments the section at 8,020-25 feet was perforated and tested by swabbing—primarily to check on the cement back of the pipe. Then a cement squeeze was run through perforations at 7,690 feet.

Cemented Off Above Pay

Operator was to drill out the residue from the squeeze job from inside the casing, and then re-acidize and re-test on the 9,650-9,700 foot, and the 9,715-70-foot zones. That activity should be underway by early Sunday.

This possible new discovery is 660 feet from north and east lines of the southwest quarter of section 148, block E, CCSD&RGNG survey, and five miles east of the shallow McElroy field.

Porosity Logged At NW Scurry Venture

Standard Oil Company of Texas No. 1 Brown, in Northwest Scurry County, nine miles northwest of Snyder, and 1,880 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 440, block 97, H&TC survey, logged some porosity in the lower Permian lime, and was running a drillstem test at 4,300-85 feet, to check that horizon.

The samples from the interval being investigated did not show any signs of oil or gas. This wildcat is slated to drill to about 8,000 feet to explore the Ellenburger.

Stuck Drill Pipe Holds Up Reagan Prospector

Plymouth Oil Company No. 1-46 Elliott, West-Central Reagan County wildcat, one and one-quarter miles northeast of the opener of the Benedum-Ellenburger field, in East-Central Upton County, was bottomed at 10,618 feet, in an unidentified lime and chert formation, and was trying to loosen and recover stuck drill pipe.

At the time the tools were stuck operator was in process of circulating and conditioning the hole, to get it in shape to run 7-inch casing to 11,590 feet, so the oil and gas yielding ability of the section from 11,590 feet to 11,618 feet, could be tested.

Had Some Petroleum

That zone has blown out considerable gas and some distillate.

The sticking of the drill pipe is thought to have been caused by caving in the upper section of the hole.

The project is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 46, block Y, MK&T survey. If it fails to develop commercial production from the interval which is to be tested as soon as the pipe is run, it will be drilled deeper.

Sun 2 Walker Runs DST In Jameson-Ellenburger

In the Jameson area of Northwest Coke County, Sun Oil Company No. 2 J. B. Walker, ran a one-hour drillstem test in the Ellenburger at 7,142-68 feet.

Recovery was 45 feet of salty, gas cut drilling mud, and 180 feet of salt water. There were no shows of oil.

The project is shutdown, waiting for orders. It is 660 feet from west and 660 feet from southwest lines of the Brockhuysen survey No. 525.

Shafter Lake Wildcat Gets Sulphur Water

Sinclair No. 4-154 University, on 2-154 University, Ellenburger wildcat in the Shafter Lake field of North-Central Andrews County, about 12 miles north and west of the town of Andrews, and 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 24, block 13, University ran a two-hour and 20-minute drillstem test in the Fusselman section of the Silurian at 10,645-741 feet.

Recovery was 2,850 feet of sulphur water. There were no shows of oil or gas. The prospector is drilling ahead.

A tentative, unofficial top of the Fusselman was picked by some geologists to be at 10,660 feet. Elevation is 3,211 feet.

More Oil In Clear Fork

Sinclair No. 5-154 University, on the northeast side of the Shafter Lake field, and 660 feet from north and 1,985 feet from east lines of section 24, block 13, University survey, showed more oil in the Clear Fork of the Permian in a drillstem test at 6,830-6,900 feet.

The tester was open two hours. Recovery was 1,590 feet of 26.7 gravity oil and 180 feet of oil and gas cut drilling fluid. It is making more hole.

Pay sections so far proven productive in the Shafter Lake regions are the Wolfcamp zone of the lower Permian, and the Devonian.

1 Scharbauer Restores Circulation; To Deepen

The Texas Company No. 1 Scharbauer, one mile south of Midland Air Terminal, in West Midland County, and 660 feet from south and west lines of section 20, block 40, TP survey, T-2-S, was still bottomed at 11,769 feet in a Pennsylvanian lime and shale section, and was mixing mud.

This project had recently lost circulation, but it has been restored, and operator will resume drilling shortly.

Deep Scurry Venture To Plug Back And Test

Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1 Winston, three and one-half miles southwest of Snyder, in South-Central Scurry County, and 330 feet from north and west lines of tract 72, Kirkland & Fields survey No. 37, swabbed 11 hours on perforations in the top of the Ellenburger at 7,840-52 feet.

Recovery was one barrel of oil and 11 barrels of salt water.

Those perforations are to be squeezed off and three sections up the hole in the Pennsylvanian, which have shown for possible production on drillstem tests, will be investigated, through casing perforations.

Interested observers think this prospector has a fair chance of making an oil well and a new discovery from the Pennsylvanian shows.

Magnolia No. 1-A TXL Gets Formation Change

The formation being penetrated by Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1-A TXL, North-Central Upton County prospect, has shifted from lime and shale to lime and chert. As yet, operator is undecided as to what the change indicates.

Drilling was continuing below 10,376 feet, still in the Pennsylvanian so far as is known.

This possible new oil discovery is south of Midland about 30 miles, and 660 feet from north and west lines of section 31, block 40, TP survey.

It is slated to continue to between 12,500 and 13,500 feet for a test into the Ellenburger, unless profitable oil production develops at a lesser depth.

In East-Central Upton, Richardson & Bass was going ahead toward the Ellenburger with its No. 1 Neal. It was boring ahead from 11,832 feet in Devonian lime and chert.

Location is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 9, block Y, TCRR survey, seven miles northwest of the Benedum-Ellenburger field.

Having plugged back into the top zone of the Ellenburger at 11,880 feet, Republic Natural No. 1-E-A Barnett was swabbing out after a 250-gallon acid treatment at 11,585-673 feet.

Sole recovery from the formation was some slightly gas-cut drilling mud. There were no oil or water signs.

No. 1 Dixon Sets Pipe; Other Flankers Deepen

Slick-Urschel Oil Company was running 9 5/8th inch intermediate casing to 6,229 feet, total depth, at its No. 1 Dixon, 660 feet out of the northwest corner of the west half of the west half of section 3, block 4 1/2, C. Bendle survey.

This is an extension effort to the Benedum field, in East Upton County.

Located in the same territory, Slick-Urschel No. 1-B Gordon, 660 feet from the south and east lines of the northwest quarter of section 47, block Y, TCRR survey, was being held up at 4,130 feet. Operator was conditioning mud in an attempt to regain lost circulation.

Plymouth Oil Company No. 1-47 Gordon was below 4,843 feet, drilling lime and shale. It is 660 feet from the south and east lines of section 47, block Y, TCRR survey, flanking the Benedum.

Plymouth's other outpost in that immediate territory, the No. 1-48 Elliott, was boring ahead from 4,882 feet in lime and shale. The drillsite is situated 660 feet from the south and east lines of section 48, block Y, CCSD&RGNG survey.

Offsetting the Benedum pool on the southeast approximately one and three-quarter miles, Plymouth No. 1-2 Dixon had made 7,230 feet of hole and was deepening through shale and lime toward its destination, the Ellenburger.

TEXAS OIL ROUNDUP—

Economists Keep Ears Open For West Coast Strike News

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON —(AP)— Oil industry economists and statisticians, rather accustomed to eight months of optimism, are keeping a nervous ear open for news from the West Coast.

Some experts fear the refinery strike affecting five Western states, if prolonged, easily could disrupt the delicately balanced supply-demand situation.

The fears are not for the immediate future, oil officials reporting that supplies for motorists in California still are 75 per cent normal.

Max W. Ball, director of the Interior Department's Oil and Gas Division, said "anything such as having to send extra supplies to the West Coast, a Winter worse than last year, curtailment of overseas supplies, strikes and major disaster or an unexpected increase in the military demand could throw the balance the wrong way."

Crude Production Drops

The American Petroleum Institute reports crude production for the week ended September 18 dropped another 51,700 barrels daily, a direct result of the West Coast strike.

Daily production for the week averaged 5,294,350 barrels, as compared with 5,199,900 a year earlier.

Just before the strike began, the nation's daily average passed the 5,500,000 mark.

Meanwhile, officials of the national security resources board revealed a study is under way on a proposal that states require oil companies to cut production in order to conserve oil supplies for use in case of a national emergency.

In return, the companies would be compensated for losses through price increases. Immunity from prosecution under anti-trust laws would be granted.

INTERNATIONAL

The State Department has rejected permit requests for shipment of $9,500,000 in oil machinery ordered by Romania's Communist government . . . Crude oil production in Saudi Arabia during August amounted to 13,110,349 barrels, a daily average of 442,914 barrels as compared with a daily average of 353,188 the first eight months of the year.

PETRO-CHEMICALS

Purchased from the War Assets Administration at approximately $1,400,000, the site is expected to receive between $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 in chemical plant investments within four to five years.

Standard Oil of Indiana has signed a 15-year contract with the Whiting, Ind., Carbide and Chemicals Corporation, agreeing to supply approximately $75,000,000 in hydrocarbon gas for use in production of chemicals.

STATE NOTES

Florida — Humble Oil's Collier County wildcat recovered 860 feet of 20.4 gravity crude on a drillstem test, indicating the state's second oil producing area.

Pennsylvania—John F. Buckwalter, Bradford petroleum engineer, estimates the Bradford field in the next 30 years will produce 194,000,000 barrels of oil.

Utah—Equity Oil Company reports the state's first commercial oil well is producing 155 barrels daily, the well being 40 miles west of the producing oil field at Rangely, Colo.

Kansas—A state potential of 1,061 barrels daily has been established for Shallow Water Refining Company's Gobleman No. 5 well, reportedly the first well ever to produce over 1,000 barrels daily in Southwest Kansas.

Texas—A new oil field was indicated on the upper Gulf Coast as Lloyd H. Smith-McCay Donkin, Houston, finaled their No. 1 J. C. Allen wildcat, six miles southeast of El Campo, at 171 barrels.

Wranglers To Meet Tuesday

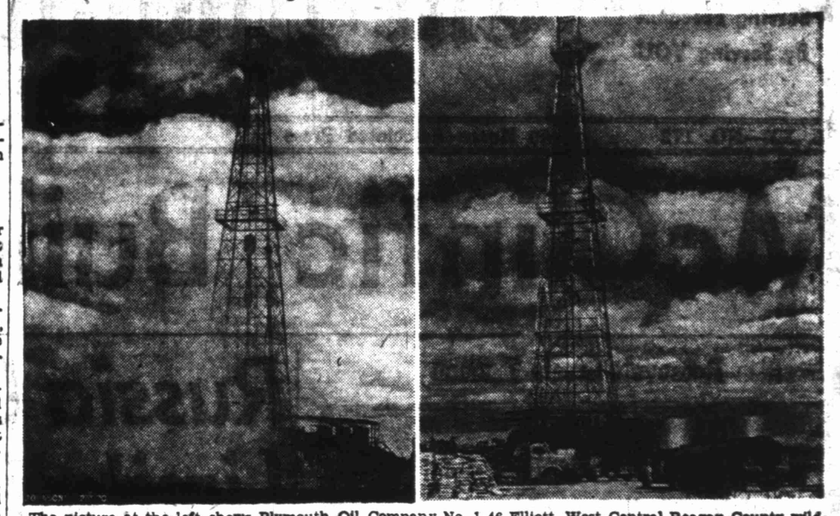

A "Top Wrangler" of the month will be named and plans for an intensive Chamber of Commerce membership campaign will be mapped at a "chuckwagon" breakfast of the Midland Wranglers Club at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday in the Private Dining Room of Hotel Scharbauer, Foreman Bill Collyns said Saturday.

Collyns urged Wranglers to report on all prospect cards before Monday night. Chamber of Commerce Manager Delbert Downing said "Top Wrangler" tabulations will be made Monday night.

—Dr. Rupert N. Richardson, president of Hardin-Simmons University at Abilene, announced Saturday the presentation of a three-story girls' dormitory from the American petroleum industry to the institution in tribute to the late Judge J. C. Hunter.

—Dr. Richardson said the gift would be formally accepted October 13 at a ceremony on the campus.

—Judge Hunter, a prominent Abilene church and civic leader and an independent oil operator, was, at the time of his death, November 11, 1945, president of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, an organization which operates throughout the middle portion of the United States.

—Judge Hunter was chairman of the Hardin-Simmons board of trustees of which he had been a member for 16 years.

Carries Out Vision

—"This gift from the nation's oil men whom Judge Hunter served so well carries through part of the university's building program which he envisioned while serving as chairman of our board of trustees," Dr. Richardson said.

—One of the main objectives of Judge Hunter's building program was the construction of a girls' dormitory, Dr. Richardson said. Judge Hunter died before the building was completed. Death came while he was returning to Abilene from a wartime oil meeting in Washington where he served four years on the Petroleum Industry War Council.

—The building, which will be called Hunter Memorial Hall, was completed recently but the gift, subscribed to by major and independent oil operators alike, will pay for the structure, Dr. Richardson said. The building was originally financed through a bank loan which will be retired by the cash contribution.

—Trustees of the memorial fund, Frank M. Porter, Oklahoma City, president of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, and W. R. Boyd, Jr., New York, president of the American Petroleum Institute, notified Dr. Richardson of the gift.

Widespread Subscriptions

—The notification from the memorial trustees said, in part:

—"Oil men of the nation subscribed generously to this fund honoring the beloved Judge Hunter. The trustees of the fund were directed to select an appropriate memorial. We have chosen Hardin-Simmons University as a recipient of this memorial because of the great regard Judge Hunter had for the work being done there. We, his friends, know that Judge Hunter had an everlasting interest in the school's expanded influence in the education of future generations of American citizens."

—Commenting on the gift, Dr. Richardson said: "Although our school has benefited in numerous ways from the generosity of individual oil and cattle men, I know of no other instance in Texas education when so many men so widely scattered have joined in a memorial of this kind."

6,500 MILES OF PIPE LINES BUILT IN LAST 12 MONTHS

—Oil and gas pipe lines completed in the United States during the current year would stretch twice across the continent and an equal mileage is now under construction, The Oil and Gas Journal reports in its annual pipe line issue, which was published last week at Tulsa.

—To meet the growing demand for fuels the industry completed and put into use during the past 12 months 2,400 miles of crude oil pipe lines, 2,100 miles of lines to carry refined petroleum products, and 2,000 miles of natural gas lines. This total of 6,500 miles is all long-distance transmission lines and does not include thousands of miles of gathering and gas distribution lines.

—Projects currently under way in this country total 1,300 miles of crude oil lines, 1,200 miles of products lines, and 2,500 miles of natural gas lines. In addition, the Journal's survey shows, oil and gas companies have announced that within the next two or three years, or as soon as materials become available, they will start work on projects totaling 5,000 miles of crude lines, 1,000 miles of products lines, and 19,000 miles of natural gas lines.

—Nor is this trend confined to the United States. In foreign countries, the Journal says, 240 miles of pipe line was completed this year, 4,500 miles is now under construction, and 7,500 miles announced for early starting. These totals would be higher were it not for the difficulty of obtaining steel for foreign construction.

USGS EXECUTIVE TO SPEAK FOR WTGS ON OCTOBER 11

—Gerald FitzGerald, of Washington, D. C., chief of the Topographic Branch of the U. S. Geological Society, will address the West Texas Geological Society at 8 p. m., October 11. The program will be in the district courtroom of the Midland courthouse.

—He will speak on "Modern Mapping Methods."

—FitzGerald joined the Geological Survey in 1917, and has been with that organization practically all the time since then. He has handled a wide variety of surveying and mapping assignments in the United States, the West Indies and Alaska.

Under AAPG Auspices

—He was commissioned in the Air Corps in 1942, and commanded the Aeronautical Chart Service from 1943 until relieved of active duty in November 1945. He was released as a colonel.

—At the end of his military service he returned to the Geological Survey, and was appointed chief of the Topographic Branch on May 22, 1947.

—FitzGerald's appearance in Midland will be under the auspices of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, of which the West Texas society is an affiliate.

THREE IMPORTANT GROUPS TO MEET DURING OCTOBER

—Annual meetings of three important organizations of the petroleum industry are to be held in Texas during the first half of October.

—The Petroleum Division of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers convene in Dallas, October 4, 5 and 6.

—This affair will offer the most ambitious program ever attempted by the division. It will present more than double the number of technical papers usually scheduled for such meetings.

—Attendance is expected to be record-breaking, and will be drawn from all parts of the United States and from some foreign countries.

—Midland and the West Texas regions, through the Permian Basin section of the AIME, will have a large representation at the gathering.

—The eighth annual convention of the American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors is to be in Houston, October 11, 12 and 13.

—A large group of men in that end of the oil business in West Texas and Southeast New Mexico will be in Houston for those sessions.

Interesting Program Planned

—The Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association's 1948 meeting is to be in Fort Worth, October 14 and 15.

—Fort Worth oil men are making elaborate arrangements for that gathering. A program of interest to every person in Texas who is in the oil business, or who has any dealings with any branch of the industry is being planned.

WTGS FIELD CONFERENCE ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETE

—Committees have been appointed and arrangements completed for a field conference in the Big Bend region of West Texas sponsored by the West Texas Geological Society. The meet is scheduled for October 29, 30 and 31.

—Ronald K. DeFord of Austin, and formerly of Midland, is general chairman for the conference. The hotel committee consists of Nugent T. Brasher, chairman, Charles F. Henderson, Charles R. Barr, and Harold L. Huffman.

—All hotel reservations must be made through the hotel committee, care of Nugent T. Brasher, P. O. Box 1540, Midland. As hotel facilities are limited, participants should select and designate roommates.

Registration On October 29

—Registration will be under the direction of Clyde W. Turner, and Jane Marie Johnson, who compose the registration committee, at Marfa, on the night of October 29. Turner is secretary of the WTGS. Miss Johnson is treasurer.

—Berte R. Haigh is chairman of the public address committee. He is to be aided by Jerald H. Bartley.

—The specific areas to be studied in the conference are Green Valley, Solitario, Limpia Canyon, and the Barilla Mountains. Purpose of this meeting is to study Upper Cretaceous and Tertiary rocks.

—The Texas Bureau of Economic Geology made the geological studies for this conference.

First Day Studying Valleys

—Program for the first day is to be a Green Valley and Paradise Valley study, led by S. S. Goldich, professor at the University of Minnesota, and Clay Seward, of the Texas Bureau of Economic Geology.

—Goldich is also to assist in leading the Solitario area study, slated for the second day. Dr. John T. Lonsdale, director of Texas Bureau of Economic Geology, and Ronald K. DeFord, professor of geology at the University of Texas, are additional leaders for this expedition.

Eifler Directs Third Day

—The third day takes in the study of the Davis and Barillo Mountains, to be directed by G. K. Eifler, professor of geology at the University of Texas.

—Roads throughout the Big Bend region have recently been improved. However, the use of shorter wheelbase cars such as Fords, Chevrolets, and Plymouths is recommended. Drinking water is to be supplied by individual participants.

—The guide books are being published by the West Texas Electrical Log Service under the supervision of Max David, of Midland, and H. Lee Pierce, of Dallas.

—Additional information may be obtained by calling C. H. Atchison, chairman of the publicity committee, or his committeeman, Howard E. Davis, both at Honolulu Oil Corporation, phone 2880, in Midland.

Texas Construction Goes Over $12,000,000

AUSTIN—(AP)—Texas construction, spurred by non-residential awards, tipped over the 12-million dollar mark last week.

The Texas Contractor, trade publication, reported the week's non-residential awards at $7,418,427, residential awards at $3,542,890, and engineering awards at $1,239,889 for an overall total of $12,201,206.

PARDONS BOARD WILL NOT OPPOSE HILL EXECUTION

AUSTIN —(AP)— The State Board of Pardons and Paroles said Saturday it will not interfere in the scheduled execution of Andrew Hill, October 3.

Hill, 22, is under death sentence for murder in the November 8 slaying of R. F. Talley, a police officer, on a highway west of Texarkana.

Britain's Hasty Rearming Brings Shock To Public

Dr. Cyril Garbett, archbishop of York, summed it up in a speech in the House of Lords:

"This country has had a great shock in the last few days because for the first time it was realized there is a possibility of war."

Some veterans of the 1939-45 fighting, reminded by Defense Minister A. V. Alexander that they were still subject to instant recall to service, said they were getting their uniforms cleaned and pressed.

20,000 Volunteers

The Royal Air Force issued a call for 20,000 air defense volunteers for manning radar instruments and other devices for spotting planes and sighting anti-aircraft guns. The Air Ministry said eight more centers for RAF Volunteer Reserves will be opened by October 1 to take in veteran ground crewmen.

There is an unmistakable change in the atmosphere.

In less than two weeks, this country has been told that demobilization of the armed forces is to be slowed; the Army, Navy and Air Forces are to be strengthened with both men and materiel; production of weapons is to be greatly increased; civilian defenses are to be brought to a state of instant readiness.

Firemen Rush To False Alarm; Collect Fine

The two trucks roared to Al Goff's hamburger stand. No blaze. The guilty party turned out to be Goff's young son.

Fine for the offense was collected on the spot. It was 23 hamburgers and 46 bottles of soda pop for the 23 firemen who made the run.

Midlander's Mother Dies In Georgia

Mrs. Emma Jean Eubanks, 86, mother of Ed P. Eubanks of Midland, died Saturday afternoon at her home in Conyers, Ga., according to information received here. The Midland man was at his mother's bedside when she died.

Mrs. Eubanks is survived by her husband, whom she married 67 years ago.

Funeral services are to be held Sunday afternoon in Conyers.

Navy Schedules Aptitude Tests

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Navy announced Saturday aptitude tests will be given December 11 to candidates for 2,300 college scholarships under the Naval Reserve Officers Training Program.

Applications for the tests must be submitted by November 15. Male high school seniors and graduates between ages 17 and 21 may apply.

VANDERVOORT ATTENDS ANGELO SALES MEETING

C. R. Vandervoort of Midland, district sales representative for Pioneer Air Lines, will go to San Angelo Sunday to attend a three-day sales campaign in that city. Fourteen other sales representatives also will attend the session.

Similar meetings have been held in Dallas, Houston, Albuquerque and Lubbock.

Four Wildcats In Lea And One In Eddy Are Spotted

HOBBS, N. M.—Locations for four new wildcat petroleum prospectors in Lea County, and for one similar venture in Eddy County, have been reported for immediate drilling.

E. J. McCurdy and The McElroy Ranch Company No. 2 Barton is to be a 4,200-foot rotary project in West-Central Lea County, almost on the east line of Eddy County.

It is located 330 feet from south and 2,310 feet from east lines of section 30-18s-32e. It is due to drill into the San Andres-Permian lime.

In Central-South Lea

York & Harper, Inc., of Midland, No. 1 Kelly is in Central-South Lea County, between the Tonto and the Salt Lake fields. It is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 27-19s-33e.

Cable tools will be used to drill the venture to around 3,500 feet to explore into the upper Permian formations.

Uscan Drilling Company No. 1 State, eight miles south of the West Lovington field, in Central Lea County, is contracted to be a 5,300-foot prospector to explore into the San Andres-Permian formation.

The location is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 11-18s-36e. Rotary tools are to be used.

A 12,500-Foot Venture

Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1 Cox-Federal is to be a 12,500-foot wildcat in the extreme northeast corner of Lea County. It is situated 660 feet from south and west lines of section 1-9s-38e.

That puts it four and one-half miles north and one and one-half miles east of the discovery for flowing production from the Devonian, to open the Crossroads field.

The Magnolia deep prospector is due to dig until it finds and tests that formation.

Shallow Prospector

In Central Eddy County, a few miles southwest of the Russell field, and between that producing area and the city of Carlsbad, Carper Drilling Company of Artesia, is to dig a 1,000-foot wildcat at its No. 1 Spencer.

It will be located 990 feet from south and 330 feet from west lines of section 27-20s-28e. Cable tools will be used. Operations are to start in the near future.

Barnsdall Oil Company No. 1-A State, in the East-Central Chaves County panhandle, and 660 feet from north and east lines of section 23-8s-32e, had penetrated below 10,564 feet in lime, sand and shale, in the basal Pennsylvanian, and was continuing.

This exploration is due to go to around 13,000 feet—if necessary—to test into the Devonian.

Crossroads Flankers

In extreme Northeast Lea County, the four flankers to the discovery—and up to now the only producer in the Crossroads field—are all boring on down.

Those ventures are:

Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1-C Santa Fe-Pacific, 660 feet from south and west lines of section 26-9s-38e, had reached 8,815 feet, in lime, and was continuing.

Skelly Oil Company No. 1 Sawyer, 660 feet from north and east lines of section 33-9s-38e, had penetrated below 9,952 feet in lime and shale and was making more hole.

Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation No. 1-B U. D. Sawyer, 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 34-9s-34e, was drilling ahead below 10,247 feet in dry lime and shale.

Mid-Continent No. 1 Dekie Sawyer, 1,980 feet from west and south lines of section 27-9s-36e, was boring ahead under 9,230 feet in lime.

This prospector ran a 30-minute drillstem test in the Wolfcamp section of the lower Permian at 9,030-9,100 feet. Recovery was 30 feet of drilling mud. There were no shows of oil, gas or water.

Each of the four above listed ventures is due to drill to about 12,500 feet to explore into the Devonian.

Deep Wildcats Continue

In East-Central Lea County, about three miles west of the northwest side of the old, shallow Hobbs field, Phillips Petroleum Company No. 1 Shipp, 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 20-18s-37e, had progressed below 5,770 feet in dry shale. This project is contracted to 10,000 feet. It is drilling ahead.

Stanolind Oil & Gas Company, et al, No. 1-U State, six and one-half miles south of the city of Hobbs, and four and one-half miles south of the Hobbs pool, had reached 6,735 feet in lime, and was making more hole.

This wildcat is contracted to 12,000 feet to explore into the Ellenburger. It is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 2-20s-38e.

San Andres Show Fizzled

Tide Water Associated Oil Company No. 2-S State, inside the proven limits for production from the Drinkard pay of the lower Permian in the Eunice area of East-Central Lea County, and 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 15-21s-37e, encountered a show of flowing oil in the San Andres-Permian lime between 3,970 feet and 4,025 feet—but the show proved to be just a flash.

The San Andres is not producing any of the wells so far completed in the Eunice region.

When drilling had reached 3,980 feet, in lime, oil started showing on the mud pits. While operator was mixing mud for a period of eight hours, the oil filled a reserve mud pit.

In a subsequent ten-hour period the section flowed 86 barrels of oil. During one 40-minutes of the ten hours the well made a 21-barrel head of oil.

Made Only Water

A drillstem test was run at 3,970-4,025 feet. Gas showed at the surface in one minute, and a good blow continued for ten minutes. The gas then gradually decreased to zero by the end of the four and one-half hours the tester was open.

Recovery, when the drill pipe was pulled, was 210 feet of sulphur water, with no signs of oil. Interested observers calculated that the oil which did develop prior to the drillstem test was produced on account of some freakish condition, or that it came from an upper horizon.

The project is making new hole below 4,156 feet and will continue to around 6,550 feet to test into the Drinkard pay. That zone is making oil in wells on all sides of the No. 2-S State.

Sixty-six of the elements found on earth have been located in the sun.

Sure It's Messy Business

We are moved to chide some members of our profession for what is clearly a case of rank discrimination. We refer to the half-dozen brief paragraphs with which the press associations dismissed the egging, fruiting and vegetabling of Brazilla Carroll Reece and Roy Acuff at Kingsport, Tenn.

Both men are Republicans, and campaigning for high office. Reece, former GOP national chairman, wants to be a senator. Acuff is running for governor. As Republicans in Dixie they are as much representatives of a foreign ideology as Henry Wallace. We gather, from the brief report out of Kingsport, that they drew a bigger volley than the third party candidate ever did. But look at the difference in press coverage.

It might be argued that Wallace is running for President, while Reece and Acuff have their sights set a trifle lower. But there are two of them to one of Henry. Besides, they are native sons of Tennessee.

* * *

Even though their fellow Tennesseans feel unkindly enough toward them to pelt them with assorted comestibles, you would think the press association editors might have understood state pride well enough to let the story run. How are people in Tennessee going to feel when they look at out-of-state papers and see the meager space given to the Reece-Acuff reception? It's likely to set egg-throwing back 20 years in the Volunteer State.

Even among outsiders, the bare, unadorned outline of the story is bound to raise doubt and confusion in many minds. After the play-by-play account of the Wallace eggings, including who hollered what to who and what was hollered back, it's a pity we can't know just what was going on here.

We are told only that Acuff was speaking at the time. But what was he saying? This question becomes doubly pertinent when it is recalled that Acuff gained his greatest fame not as a politician or civil servant, but as a singer of hillbilly songs.

Did the audience object to his political presumptiousness or his past performances? Was he threatening to abolish Tennessee's poll tax or to sing "Wabash Cannon Ball?" These things should have been found out and published in the interests of competent journalism.

* * *

There was once a troupe of performers, of ancient but fragrant memory, called the Cherry Sisters. Their billing used to read, "Favorably Known as the Worst Act in Vaudeville." And the story has it that they performed with a netting between them and the audience to protect themselves from the fate that befell Wallace, Acuff and Reece.

The sisters once granted an interview in which they uttered this deathless denial: "We never used no net." But the legend persists that they did. And no one we ever talked to who had caught the Cherry Sisters' act ever felt that any civil rights were being defiled when some audience members came in with a hard overhand pitch instead of applause.

So we think that all concerned were guilty of a grievous journalistic shortcoming in failing to give the country the whole story out of Kingsport. Were the eggs and vegetables another unworthy denial of the right of free speech? Or were they, perhaps, an instinctive and legitimate gesture of self-defense against the threat of mountain music?

An Illinois teacher finds there are 468 words in the English language meaning "love." Almost as numerous as grounds for divorce.

Texas And Pacific May Add Trains Through Midland On Trial Basis

The Midland Chamber of Commerce Saturday adopted a resolution favoring the contemplated addition by the Texas and Pacific Railway Company of two additional trains through Midland on an experimental basis and promising not to oppose removal of the extra trains if the experiment proves financially unsuccessful.

Officials of the railroad advised civic leaders they may put on additional Westbound and an Eastbound passenger trains which will give Westbound passengers better connections with Southern Pacific trains at El Paso to the West Coast.

If the new trains are added, they will pass through Midland about midnight—that is, they will meet here or somewhere near here, according to schedules now under consideration.

Officials of the railroad want assurance, however, that if the trains are placed in operation and prove financially unsuccessful they may be removed without opposition.

If the new trains are added, Train 7, which now passes through Midland Westbound at 7:13 a. m., will turn back at Monahans instead of continuing to El Paso. It will pass through Midland Eastbound as Train 8 at 9 p. m. en route to St. Louis.

C of C Resolution

Following is the resolution adopted by the Chamber of Commerce, and which city and county officials also have promised to endorse:

"WHEREAS, The Texas and Pacific Railway Company presently operates its Passenger Trains Nos. 1, 2, 7 and 8 through the City of Midland and said company is desirous of determining whether it can better serve said city and the surrounding area through the addition of two passenger trains to be known as Trains Nos. 5 and 6: and

"WHEREAS, it is the desire of the Midland Chamber of Commerce that The Texas and Pacific Railway Company inaugurate Trains Nos. 5 and 6 on an experimental basis and said organization proposes to cooperate fully in such experiment;

"NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Midland Chamber of Commerce pledges that it will cooperate with The Texas and Pacific Railway Company in the inauguration of and operation of Passenger Trains Nos. 5 and 6 and in promoting the use of said trains by the citizenry of Midland.

"BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that in the event The Texas and Pacific Railway Company's experiment with the operation of Trains Nos. 5 and 6 proves to be a financial loss, or in the event changes in operating schedules or other conditions render the continued operation of Trains 5 and 6 undesirable or unnecessary, or results in a substantial duplication of service, then, and in any of those events, the Midland Chamber of Commerce will not protest the discontinuance of said Trains Nos. 5 and 6 and will cooperate with The Texas and Pacific Railway Company in securing permission for such discontinuance from any regulatory body having jurisdiction in the premises."

Peron Shakes Up Argentine Cabinet

BUENOS AIRES—(AP)—President Juan Peron moved to strengthen his cabinet Saturday 24 hours after police had announced uncovering of a plot to assassinate him and his wife and overthrow the government.

The president accepted the resignation of the Navy Minister, Rear Adm. Fidel Anadon, one of his top-ranking advisors. In the absence of Foreign Minister Juan Bramuglia at the UN Assembly in Paris, Anadon also has been acting foreign minister.

Buenos Aires Quiet

Anadon publicly denied the incident was connected with the investigation of the alleged assassination plot. He reiterated friendship for the president and support of his government.

Informed sources said Anadon may have stepped down in order to avoid embarrassment over the fact that two of the 17 persons arrested in Argentina in connection with the alleged plot are Navy chaplains.

Buenos Aires was quiet Saturday after hearing Peron personally denounce John Griffith, former cultural attache at the U. S. Embassy, as instigator of the assassination plot allegedly set for next Columbus Day, October 12.

Mrs. Roosevelt Urges Support Of UN

NEW YORK—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt Saturday urged Americans to "prevent the colossal tragedy of a new atomic war" by supporting the United Nations.

Mrs. Roosevelt's appeal was in a letter sent by the American Association for the UN to 65,000 persons.

CAUTION, prudence, reason, all left him in a rising terror of losing her forever. Moving instinctively on the split second, as he had done a hundred times in his life before, he lunged across the room and knocked the gun on to the floor by sweeping his hand through hers—so that she was left staring at her empty fingers and at the gun where it lay on the carpet at the edge of the bed.

"Hilary!" she whispered, and her feverish eyes searched the room again minutely, without success.

"I had to stop you," he said apologetically. "There is some sort of pattern. Don't ever meddle with it."

"Hilary, wherever you are, you've got to hear me! You've got to come back and help me!"

"I did come back," he said.

"Don't let them do this to me! Don't let them take me away! I'm safe here with you—I'm afraid to go—"

"I know, sweetheart—I know."

"Afraid, afraid, Hilary, can't you hear? Dreadful things can't happen to me here—please let me stay!"

"Not like that, Sabrina—that won't help."

"You don't answer," she said hopelessly, and put both hands to her throbbing temples. "I can't hear you. You won't help me. What shall I do?"

* * *

AUNT EFFIE'S voice, too bright, too brisk, too firmly implying that all was right with the world, floated up the stairs.

"Sabrina! We're waiting!"

"What shall I do?" she said again, between her hands.

There was no answer he could give but silence. He withdrew backwards to the window seat, moving with infinite care, and sat down there patiently striving now to eradicate himself from her consciousness after that one moment's reckless contact. He had done all he could, he did not dare do more.

She gazed about her a moment longer forlornly. She went to the desk and picked up his little brown pipe with caressing fingers.

"Could I take this with me?" she asked, and waited hopelessly for his reply. "Hilary—please?"

But he sat very still on the window seat, cutting himself off from her deliberately.

"Sabrina! Your father's in a hurry!"

A docile automaton, she collected her hat and coat and bag at Aunt Effie's bidding and went down to where the car was waiting outside the front door. Bareheaded, with her coat over her arm, she climbed obediently into the rumble seat with the suitcases. heard Aunt Effie making bright farewells to Mrs. Pilton, heard minute directions given by her father regarding the despatch of his luggage to the lodgings in Wells, heard her own voice asking Mrs. Pilton to please be kind to Muffin.

* * *

THE big black limousine driven by a uniformed chauffeur was coming from the left, much too fast for so narrow a lane. Aunt Effie's wide and always uncertain turn out of the gate to the left covered much more than her half of the road, just where the branches of the old oak overhung the hedge. There was a blast of the limousine's horn, a grinding of brakes, a thudding crash, and then a sharp, snapped-off scream.

The nose of the big limousine was jammed into the side of the smaller car, which was tilted at a crazy angle with two wheels clear of the ground. The chauffeur, who was merely shaken up a little and whose glass was all intact, jumped out and ran, white-faced, to where Sabrina had been thrown clear, into the ditch.

She lay very still, face down. As he turned her over and raised her in his arms, Mrs. Pilton came running down the drive, and Father limped towards them; dabbing with his handkerchief at a long cut in his cheek from the broken windscreen. Aunt Effie had quietly fainted behind the wheel.

Father stood staring down at the chauffeur's quiet burden.

"She was in the back," he was saying in a dazed, apologetic sort of way. "There was nothing for her to hold to—she must have been shot out on her head. Is she all right?" He peered suddenly into the man's rigid face, in growing apprehension. "Is she all right?" he insisted.

"I—don't know," said the chauffeur between stiff lips. "I—can't be sure."

"Hilary—Hilary, where are you?" She had reached the second flight of stairs already, on her way to him. "Hilary, something's happened—I don't have to go, after all—"

Then she saw him.

* * *

A GENERATION from now, on a summer day, three village children will come along the lane and pause at the sagging gate of Nunc Farthing, gazing in at the riot of untended bloom which was once the herbaceous border. And one of them, a visiting cousin from the next county, will express a desire to pilfer such lovely flowers, all going to waste on an empty house where the window glass is latticed by uncut tendrils of Virginia creeper, where a top-floor shutter is flung wide to the sunlight, and the casement stands open in the June heat.

"Come away, Mildred, do!" the others will advise her in lowered tones, dragging her back from the weed-grown drive into the lane again. "We never go there—it's haunted!"

THE END

Hospital Bids To Be Opened Thursday

Construction and equipment bids for the 75-bed Midland Memorial Hospital will be opened and contracts awarded at 2 p. m. Thursday in the Midland County Courthouse, Dr. John B. Thomas, president, said Saturday.

Plans and specifications have been in the hands of interested contractors about 30 days.

E. R. Andres, hospital administrator, said bids are expected from eight general contractors. Four bids are indicated for elevators; 12 for plumbing, heating and ventilating; eight for electrical work; seven for sterilising equipment; four for kitchen equipment; four for laundry equipment, and four for case and cabinet work.

The four-story general hospital will be erected at the intersection of West Illinois Street and the Andrews Highway in West Midland.

Individuals, business firms and organizations pledged $750,000 for construction of the large and completely modern hospital which will serve residents of Midland and the Permian Basin. A government grant of $375,000 also was obtained to assist in financing the construction program.

Mobile X-Ray Unit Will Be Here This Week

Midland High School students will be given chest X-rays Tuesday when a mobile X-ray unit starts a four - day program of operation in the courthouse basement, F. H. McGuigan, general chairman, announced Saturday.

Others scheduled for group examinations are the food handlers, and students of the Latin American and Carver schools.

Individuals may make appointments for the free X-rays by telephoning the Midland County Tuberculosis Association. The unit will operate from Tuesday through Friday of this week, between 8:30 a.m. and 12 noon, and 1:30 and 4:30 p.m.

Officers of the association said there is no cost for the X-rays; less than five minutes of time is required, and it will not be necessary for the subject to undress.

Many Volunteers

The X-ray photographs will be sent to headquarters of the Tuberculosis Association for examination, and the subject will be notified directly if any chest disorders are shown.

Volunteers have responded to a request for clerical and laboratory assistants so the list of workers is complete, Mrs. F. R. Schenck, chairman of volunteers, said. Many individuals, as well as members of Parent-Teacher units, home demonstration clubs, Business and Professional Women's Club, PEO Chapter, Federated study clubs, Children's Service League and League of Women Voters will assist with the mobile unit services.

Large Group Attends Girl Scout Roundup

Two hundred girls from Midland Girl Scout and Brownie troops spent Saturday on the high school campus as they took part in the annual Girl Scout Roundup. Mrs. C. L. Snure and Mrs. L. H. Michaelson directed the play-day program.

Mrs. I. A. Searles led songs to start the program. Mrs. Vernon Bottoms assisted with registration, and Mrs. Robert Payne was in charge of serving milk which the Girl Scout Council provided to supplement the girls' picnic lunches.

Assisting with the day's activities were Mrs. C. E. Bissell, Mrs. James B. Cochran, Mrs. William Carter, and members of a Senior Scout troop, Dephane Tabor, Shirley Harrison, Wanda Burnside and June Haslip.

For the games the girls were divided into 10 teams each of Brownies and Intermediates. Each team was designated as a ranch crew and assigned a brand. The Jingle-bob team won first place for Brownies, and the S-Open A team for Intermediates.

West Texas Has Farm Labor Shortage

AUSTIN —(AP)— Sections of West and North Texas Saturday were reported temporarily short of farm labor.

The Texas Employment Commission blamed the shortages on the refusal of cotton pickers to follow directions of TEC farm crew members.

Henry LeBlanc, TEC farm placement section chief, said pickers have gone to certain sections in West Texas, creating surpluses there, instead of going to North Texas and other sections of West Texas as directed.

Biggest shortages in West Texas were at Littlefield and Childress, while Hillsboro, Waco and Fort Worth were hardest hit in the North and Northeast areas. Some 3,800 pickers were said needed in the North and 3,400 in the West.

'Smiling Man' Does Good Job Smoothing Way For President

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
(Peter Edson is on vacation)

WASHINGTON—President Truman's current political junkets around the country are now pretty efficient operations as far as arrangements and management go. They are in sharp contrast to the one he made out West last June which featured an address to an almost empty auditorium in Omaha, Neb.

The man mostly responsible for the difference is Oscar Chapman, undersecretary of interior and called the "smilingest man in Washington."

When the June junket started Oscar was sent straight to the West to start making plans for the President's arrival there. He had done the same thing for Roosevelt in 1940. The White House had asked local politicians along the way to handle the arrangements in the various cities through which the President was to pass. Right from the start this didn't work out very well. The local big shot who was asked to do the job would ignore other important. Democrats in the city and make great promises that the President would show up at functions which he obviously would never be able to attend.

The President became increasingly disgusted with the way things were going and the Omaha incident capped it. He immediately ordered that Chapman be made the exclusive "advance man" for the trip with sole authority to make arrangements.

Chapman proved up to the job. From then on, all along the journey, the crowds got bigger, ending up with a million people seeing the President in Los Angeles. Efficient arrangements apparently produce the biggest crowds.

Five Days Ahead

Chapman has found that exactly five days ahead of the President is the best timetable. When it's longer, the careful schedules he plans get fouled up. When it's shorter, the local politicians don't have time to handle their part of the arrangements. In one city where Chapman only happened to be three days ahead, the mayor hit the ceiling because he said the President's arrival didn't give him time to get his only swallow-tail coat back from the cleaners.

Even the seeming impromptu stops in the small cities along the way have to be carefully arranged. Chapman has to determine just who of the local big shots will be asked inside the parlor car for a quick chat with the President and who will be limited to a handshake outside. And then that list has to be checked and approved by the Secret Service. It frequently requires some delicate decisions.

About the highest favor which can be bestowed on a politician is to be asked to board the train and ride through his state on it. The man who is thus honored is expected to appear on the back platform each time the train stops for the President to say a few words. Chapman usually decides who this person is to be.

Ticklish And Tiring Job

It's obvious that Chapman's job is plenty ticklish and plenty exhausting. Regardless of local difficulties he encounters he's got to keep a set schedule. The President's party is on his tail and doesn't stop for anything. It just doesn't do to leave irate politicians in his wake who might vent their wrath by sabotaging the President's visit in some way.

Chapman has an easy manner and a quiet Southern drawl. He claims he was born under a tobacco plant in Halifax County, Va. He went to school with Virginia's present governor, William Tuck, in a one-room affair.

Sent to Colorado to recover from an illness contracted in World War I, Chapman's first venture into politics was in organizing a group of other veteran patients and capturing one of Denver's Democratic precincts in the party organization. Later he served as probation officer for Judge Ben Lindsey's famous juvenile court.

Chapman became a junior partner of the late Senator Edward P. Costigan and managed Costigan's first campaign for the Senate. Oscar was 35 when he first came to Washington in 1933 and President Roosevelt made him an assistant secretary of the interior. He got along well with his bombastic boss Harold Ickes and was boosted into his present position when Julius Krug was made secretary of interior.

Accident Victim

Tommy Earl Simmons, 18, who was killed accidently late Thursday in downtown McCamey when struck in the heart by a bullet from a .22 caliber automatic being unloaded by a high school friend, was a member of the McCamey High School Badger Band, and was a member of the school's senior class. Funeral services were held Friday afternoon in McCamey. The body was forwarded to Dublin, Texas, for interment Saturday. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Simmons of McCamey.

Alaska Tears Down Her 'Help Wanted' Posters

FAIRBANKS, ALASKA —(AP)— America's frontierland is tearing down its "Help Wanted" signs for the first Summer in eight years.

Alaska is caught between booms—and hopes the Alcaners will stay home. Daily job queries from the States are being answered "Maybe next year."

Here and at Anchorage—the territory's war boom cities—the usual late Summer roar of construction machines is but a rumble. Camps that have throbbed with activity as crews turned out for shifts in the long sunny days of northern Summers are emptying.

Milton Wade, manager of the Fairbanks office of the territorial employment service, sums it up with "no more men and women than needed in Alaska at present." His advice to anyone thinking of migrating northward this year is a terse warning: "Stay home—it will only mean grief."

Boomers Broke

The picture for jobs probably will shift again in 1949 and 1950. But meanwhile, Wade and his assistant, Merrill Weir, tell of the plight of hopeful 1948 newcomers.

Boomers are rolling over the Alcan highway in record numbers and can't find jobs. Most of them are broke on arrival. They are selling tires and luggage on the sidewalks of Anchorage and Fairbanks for gas to return home. They've glutted the used car market.

Many hundreds of men laid off suddenly at military construction projects are grumbling. They anticipated Summer-long work at good wages. Their problems go to Wade and Merrill. Neither can be of much help. There is an oversupply of skilled tradesmen and the cards of unemployed unskilled men and women are choking the office files.

Families planning to homestead are presenting Wade an unhappy chore.

Alaska wants homesteaders; needs more permanent settlers to stay and develop the territory. But very few of the young men and women arriving this Summer are prepared financially for the task. Others planned Summer jobs to help buy bacon and beans for the long Winter months ahead. Most are dumfounded when told they should have at least $5,000 to tide them through an initial settlement period.

Vanderbilt Falls Before Georgia Tech

NASHVILLE, TENN.—(AP)—Georgia Tech's dazzling aerial offensive clicked in the second and fourth quarters to give the Yellowjackets a 13-0 victory over Vanderbilt's Commodores here Saturday.

Vanderbilt's only scoring threats, in the first and final quarters, were spoiled by a fumble and an intercepted pass.

Baylor Smears Tulsa

WACO — (AP) — Baylor slashed over Tulsa 42-19 here Saturday night in an awesome show of versatile offensive power.

The Golden Bears recoiled from two stunning Tulsa thrusts that brought touchdowns in the first period and the first play of the second to administer their most one-sided defeat on the Hurricane in seven years of battling.

A crowd of 11,000 watched the Bears roar to two touchdowns in each of the second, third and fourth periods as the Golden Bear line whipped the Tulsa wall to a frazzle and fleet George Sims led a terrific assault on the ground and through the air.

Sims featured the Baylor attack with a 69-yard touchdown run with a Tulsa punt and a 15-yard scoring sprint with a pass in the second period.

Tulsa took the opening kickoff and paraded 71 yards to a touchdown mostly on the passing of Jim Finks and the running of Paul Barry, with a 15-yard roughing penalty against Baylor helping the Hurricane drive along. Barry circled end from the six-yard line for the score and Jim Ford converted.

Baylor Comes To Life

The next time Tulsa got the ball the Hurricanes swept to another touchdown, surging 83 yards for this one with Finks' passing again proving unstoppable by Baylor. Ford plowed guard for the touchdown but Jasper Flanakin blocked the try for point.

Then something happened to Baylor. The Bears began to outcharge Tulsa and to send the backs through guard and tackle on long, spinning runs while Adrian Burk connected with passes. Baylor got its first touchdown after Bentley Jones had partly blocked a punt on the Bear 37-yard line. Dudley Parker and Sims, the greatest runners in the Baylor backfield for the evening, and Frank Boydstun, a line-powering fullback, pushed down to the three-yard mark from where Boydstun went over. A 40-yard punt return by Sims set up another touchdown shortly afterward. A pass interference was called on the Tulsa three and Ben Hall rammed tackle for the score. Henry Dickerson kicked both extra points and Baylor never was behind again.

Sims Returns Punt

Sims took a punt back 69 yards for a touchdown early in the third period and Dickerson converted to give Baylor a 21-13 lead. It came after a Baylor drive with the kickoff had bogged down on the Tulsa 19.

Baylor got another touchdown as time ran out in the period. It came after Griffin had run a kick back to the Tulsa 39-yard line. Burk passed to Flanakin on the Tulsa five. Boydstun hit guard for one and Hall went across but Baylor was penalized 15 for holding. Burk then passed to Sims, who ran 15 for the touchdown. Dickerson converted and the score was Baylor 28, Tulsa 13.

Tarheels Get Revenge By Beating Longhorns 34-7

CHAPEL HILL, N. C.—(AP)—Rushing favored Texas off its feet with three touchdowns the first four times it got the ball, North Carolina sent the Longhorns down to a crushing 34-7 defeat Saturday.

Tailback Charlie Justice threw two touchdown passes and scored twice to engineer the triumph as Carl Snavely's Tarheels got even for last season when Texas handed them a 34-0 lacing.

With a big, fast-charging line rushing the Sugar Bowl champions' passer Paul Campbell time and time again, the North Carolinians simply overwhelmed the visitors.

They piled up a 21-0 lead before Texas was able to tally late in a themendous first period.

Justice started the fireworks. The 165-pound tailback set up the first score with a 38-yard punt return to the Texas 41. Justice handed off to wingback Johnny Clements who made 20 to the 21. Then Justice passed to big Art Weiner, a great pass catching end who took the ball on the eight and went over for the touchdown. End Bob Cox booted the first of four placements.

Fullback Tom Landry fumbled the next kickoff and Clements pounced on the ball on the Longhorn five. Fullback Hosea Rodgers picked up one yard and then Justice scooted over standing up. Cox's kick made it 14-0 after five minutes of play.

North Carolina began a 57-yard drive that required seven plays. Rodgers and Justice teamed up on the pitching end with wingback Bill Flamisch and Weiner receiving. They put the ball on the two. Then Justice passed over the goal line to Cox.

Texas finally got into the act. Four plays, two of them Campbell passes, covered 71 yards for a score. The payoff was a Campbell pass to end Ben Procter for 35 yards.

The second period was scoreless, but the Tarheels added 13 points to their take in the final half.

Cleveland Flays Detroit To Keep Pace With Bosox

DETROIT —(AP)— The Cleveland Indians flayed five Detroit pitchers for 14 hits to whip the Tigers 9-3 Saturday and remain in a first place tie with Boston. The Red Sox kept pace with the Indians, knocking off the Yankees 7-2 in New York to drop the Bronxites out of the three way tie into third place, a game behind the leaders.

Santa Clara Upsets Sooners

SAN FRANCISCO —(AP)— Coming from behind with a 56-yard touchdown pass in the last period, the University of Santa Clara Broncs scored a 20-17 football upset over the University of Oklahoma Saturday.

In the first quarter the Sooners marched 60 yards to a score. Left halfback George Brewer went over from the three-yard line.

In the second quarter, Les Ming, a placekicking specialist whose name was not even on the program, booted a field goal from the 18-yard line.

The Broncos drove 58 yards to a touchdown in the third period, quarterback Sheridan scoring from 15 yards out on a reverse play.

B-Bronchos Drop B-Bulldogs 32-0

By TANNER LAINE

Odessa's "B" Bronchos overpowered Midland's "B" Bulldogs 32-0 Saturday night in Memorial Stadium here. The visitors made every break count and this coupled with their sheer drive and power was too much for the Midlanders.

Midland drove to the Odessa 11-yard line in the opening minutes after recovering a Broncho fumble on the Odessa 20. Passes and sweeps failed and the ball went over on the 11-yard marker. Odessa's quick kick was blocked and taken over by Midland on the Odessa 32. A pass from Reed Gilmore to Graham Mackey carried to the 24. Then three Midland passes fell incomplete, once when the intended Midland receiver fell flat all by himself over the goal line.

Then Odessa went to work. Bobby Jackson, halfback of the Bronchos, tore through a gaping hole and sprinted 69 yards for the opening score. Hughes place-kicked the extra point. Midland received and had time for one play before the quarter ended, Odessa 7, Midland 0.

Bolts Into Open

The Purple couldn't go and the Odessa Red could as the second quarter got underway. Midland fumbled on their own 25 and Odessa recovered. On the first play, Hughes bolted into the open and away to the touchdown land 25 yards downfield. Jackson kicked the extra point to make it 14-0.

The Midland boys fumbled on their own 35-yard line and Odessa gobbled it up. Pitch out plays and wide flanking carried Odessa to the Midland one-yard line. Hughes rammed over for a touchdown from that point. Jackson's kick was no good. It was 20-0 Odessa at the half.

The visitors got another touchdown in the third stanza. Barnes, substitute back, ran a punt back 70 yards for the tally. Jackson converted but his team was off side and on the second kick he missed. Score: Odessa 26, Midland 0.

Odessa made its final score in the fourth quarter. Jackson stiff-armed his way 18 yards to score standing up on a sweeper. The Bronchos drove 33 yards on this march. Jackson failed to get a point after kick and tried to run but was smothered. Score: Odessa 32, Midland 0.

Drive At Finish

Midland put on a drive at the finish. The Purple took over the kickoff on their own 10 and returned to their 18-yard line. With Gilmore and Brooks running or passing, Midland picked up two quick first downs. But the gun stopped the drive.

The Midland coaches poured 40 or 50 Bulldogs into the fray to no avail. Gilmore did heavy duty and turned in some good plays. Garvin intercepted an Odessa pass. Medart ran hard and picked up some yardage for the locals. Mackey snagged one nice pass. Brooks played a lot of backfield. Gilmore's punting was good.

But the Midland eleven was outmanned.

Mississippi State Smears Tennessee

KNOXVILLE, TENN.—(AP)—Tom (Shorty) McWilliams, a brilliant passing, kicking and running halfback, Saturday led Mississippi State to a smashing 21 to 6 victory over Tennessee.

The Maroons came from behind for touchdowns in the second, third and fourth quarters after Tennessee had marched 67 yards for its lone score in the first period.

Raiders Come From Behind To Down A&M

SAN ANTONIO — (AP) — Texas Tech's Red Raiders produced a powerful last half attack Saturday night to come from behind and defeat favored Texas A&M 20 to 14 before 20,860 fans in San Antonio's Alamo Stadium.

The defending Border Conference champions, outplayed badly during most of the first half, pushed across touchdowns in each of the final periods to overcome A&M's 14-to-7 half time lead.

A brilliantly-executed 90-yard touchdown pass on the final play of the second period appeared to have completely neutralized the effectiveness of the Raiders, both on offense and defense.

After tieing the score 14-14 on a 39-yard third-period drive, the Raiders moved 70 yards late in the final quarter for the game winning score.

Mustangs Batter Pitt, Win 33-14

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—The Mustangs of Southern Methodist University trampled Pittsburgh 33 to 14 Saturday on solid running and passing by Doak Walker and sharp passing by Gilbert Johnson.

Pitt pushed across two touchdowns on passes into the end zone in the final quarter.

SMU's Johnson rivaled Walker as the star performer. He threw nine passes, all completed, and accounted for a gain of 207 yards. Walker, the man the crowd of 31,400 wanted most to see, completed three out of four passes for 33 yards. He pitched one for SMU's first touchdown. Walker also caught a touchdown pass and ran 76 yards for a third score on a punt return.

SMU scored at the end of the first quarter when Walker threw a 13-yard pass to Raleigh Blakely in the end zone. The next SMU score came in the second period, with Johnson standing on his own 40 and tossing to Walker, who ran from the Pitt 30 to the goal line. The half ended with SMU leading 14 to 0.

Johnson Connects

In the third quarter, Walker caught a Pitt punt on his own 26 and tore across the goal line without being touched.

An SMU fumble led to a Pitt touchdown in the fourth quarter. After the bobble, Cecconi threw a pass from the SMU 20 to Bill Bruno in the end zone. SMU then marked up two touchdowns, one on Johnson's 40-yard pass to Blakely and one on Johnson's pass to Kyle Rote. Rote caught that pass on the Pitt 41, evaded one tackler and ran for a score. In the final two minutes, Pitt got its second tally on Lee's 13-yard pass to end Bill McPeak in the end zone.

Owls Roll Over Bearkats 46-0

HOUSTON —(AP)— Jess Neely's Rice Owls, flying high in the last half, lashed a stubborn Sam Houston Bearkat team 46 to 0 to inaugurate the 1948 season before 22,000 spectators at Rice Stadium Saturday night.

The Bearkats, who were no match for the Owls in manpower, were tenacious in the first half, holding the feathered flock to two touchdowns before intermission. One score came on the heels of an intercepted pass, the other one a 65-yard punt return by John Kelly.

But the Owls, rolling by land and air, took complete charge in the last half to score almost at will, accounting for 14 points in the third period and 18 in the last one.

Frogs Strike Fast To Down Sooner Aggies

STILLWATER, OKLA. — (AP) — Texas Christian converted two fumbles and an intercepted pass into three touchdowns in a blazing three minutes of football in the second period to defeat Oklahoma A&M 21-14 here Saturday.

A sun-baked crowd of 25,000 persons watched Texas Christian win its first game from the Aggies in the last five starts.

It was three breaks in that startling second period that assured TCU victory.

It first counter came with six minutes gone in the period after Douglas Brightwell smothered a fumble by Ken Aldridge on the Aggie 46. Nine plays later, Lindy Berry cut over right end to score standing up. Homer Ludiker kicked the extra point, the first of three, and that tied the score 7-7.

With seven minutes left in the second frame, Hubert Goff fell on top of Bill Grimes' fumble on the Aggie 20. Three plays later Captain Pete Stout tossed over the goal to Morris Bailey.

The Aggies passing combination of Cook to Grimes clicked for a touchdown after four minutes of play. Taking the ball on the Aggie 43, Cook hit Grimes for 11 yards and then repeated for 46 yards to the goal. Hartman placekicked the extra point.

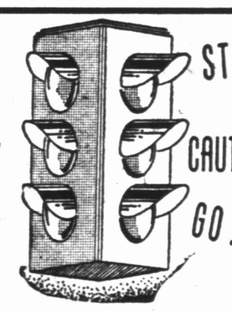

The Oklahomans scored their last touchdown on the second play of the fourth quarter, Hartman passing to Jim Long for a 14-yard touchdown play.

Tulane Upsets Crimson Tide 21-14

NEW ORLEANS —(AP)— Tulane's Green Wave upset Alabama's Crimson Tide 21-14 here Saturday, thanks mainly to the passing of quarterback Joe Ernst and most of the breaks of the game.

Ernst, a New Orleans boy, pitched for one Tulane touchdown and most of the yardage needed for the other two.

Irish Luck Works Overtime To Beat Purdue 28 To 27

SOUTH BEND, IND. —(AP)— The luck of the Irish worked overtime Saturday as desperately pressed Notre Dame outlasted Purdue's Boilermakers 28-27.

The Boilermakers, boomed as the Big Nine's next Rose Bowl candidate, battled the Irish all over the turf and had the defending national champions behind 13-12 in the third period. That was the first time Notre Dame had trailed anybody since its last defeat, 19 games ago, when the Irish lost to Great Lakes 39-7.

The Irish dissipated a 12 - 0 lead which they fashioned early in the second period and it took some story-book antics to squelch a splendid Purdue team after that, including:

of a punt by sturdy Johnny Panof a punt by stucy Johnny Panelli in the third period when Notre Dame was trailing.

2. A 23-year field goal from a difficult angle by Steve Oracko for a 21-13 Irish lead.

DeMoss Hurls Strikes

3. A 78-yard payoff scamper by a fishing Irishman named Al Zmijewski, an unknown reserve tackle, with an interception of a Bob DeMoss pass in the fourth quarter, after Purdue had slashed Notre Dame's lead to 21-20.

And 4—Oracko's upright-splitting placement try following Zmijewski's touchdown. Bootin' Steve had missed his point tries after Notre Dame's first three touchdowns.

Purdue's fourth and final touchdown came even as the closing gun sounded, on a six-yard pass from DeMoss, a brilliant quarterback, to end Harley Jeffrey.

Lawly Navy Bows To California 21-7

BALTIMORE —(AP)— Navy, winner of only two football games in the last two years, was defeated by California 21-7 Saturday to open the season under its new civilian coach, George Sauer of Kansas.

Navy started smartly, scoring in 13 plays on an 82-yeard drive after the kickoff. But California came back relentlessly, tying the game at 7-7 in the second period and rolling ahead in the last half.

DOWN SPORTS LANE

with TANNER LAINE

Before the brilliantly-played Shaughnessy playoff games of the Longhorn League are put into the files and record books, we would like to comment on the speed in which the Vernon series was played and the high caliber play of the entire series.

One eleven-inning Indian-Duster battle was unreeled in 1:55. A nine-inning fracas was played in 1:35. Here are the times of the Midland-Vernon series in order: 1:48, 1:35, 2:00 (11 innings), 1:55 (11 innings), 2:01, 1:45 and 1:55.

The Midland-Odessa series was not so fast. Here are times in order: 2:18, 2:30, 2:23 (10 innings), and 1:48.

Attesting the closeness of Midland and Vernon power, there were 45 whole scoreless innings in the series of seven games. There were 106 half scoreless innings in this series and that doesn't include "x" innings not used in the last frames.

In the Midland-Odessa series of four games, there were 14 whole scoreless innings and 49 half scoreless frames. This half figures does not include "x" innings not used.

The total number of scoreless innings for 11 games of playoff was 59 and the half scoreless innings total was 155. Here are the half scoreless innings by each team: Odessa 30, Vernon 55 and Midland 70.

—SL—

Lou Boudreau once wisecracked that Cleveland's pitching rotation was "Feller, Lemon and two days of rain." For the Braves you could substitute the names of Sain and Spahn.—Imagine what the third game of a Cleveland-Boston World Series—with no rain—would be like.

—SL—

In our entire American sports curriculum, there is nothing to match the World Series. It is a succession of dramatic episodes, one tied into the other, sustaining interest and crowding the tensions of one day upon those of the following afternoon, until we come, now and then, to that super-thriller, the seventh game. Or, as has been the case so often, with the Yankees, the chance to win this day and make it four in a row.

Tensions? Not exactly those of a surgeon removing an appendix. But for the fun of life, nerve wracking enough.

Incidently there never has been a no-hitter pitched in this classic. That covers a period of 251 World Series games since the Red Sox challenged the Pirates in 1901. There have been three one-hitters and nine contests in which pitchers allowed only two blows.

All of which brings up this matter of World Series tensions. The players in this classic try to give the impression that it is just run-of-the-mine stuff, that they are able to take the inter-league series in stride. "Oh, one game is like another," some of the players will tell you. "What's the difference between a July 4 doubleheader in Brooklyn, and an October 4 contest in a World Series?"

World Series tensions? Ask Floyd Bevens, righthander of the Yankees, about them. Bevens has a distinction which no other classic hurler has attained. Going through the ninth inning of the fourth game of the 1947 competition between the Yankees and the Dodgers, at Ebbets Field, Floyd had a no hitter and a 2 to 1 lead. The Bombers were ahead in the series, two games to one. Brooklyn had to win, or face immediate extinction.

Two out in the ninth. Still a no-hitter. To be sure, Bevens had allowed ten bases on balls. But most of those stemmed from his situation—pitching no-hit ball, pitching in as tight a scrap as any World Series hurler had found himself. He could not afford to make a mis-step. Two out in the ninth, with Cookie Lavagetto up as a pinch hitter. Bevens had in his graps the first and only no-hitter in World Series history. But Lavagetto rifled the pitch to the right field wall, for two bases. The game was over.

The professional at the Clarkston, Wash., Country Club—Joe Durgan—was teaching a pupil how to swing a golf club.

"Do it like this," said Durgan as he swung.

The amazed pro saw his ball drop for a hole-in-one on the 245-yard No. 7. That hadn't happened to Durgan in his 17 years of playing and teaching.

Amarillo Sandies Whip Abilene 14-0

ABILENE — The powerful Amarillo Sandies struck twice in the first quarter here Friday night to beat the Abilene Eagles 14-0.

Amarillo scored on its second play from scrimmage, McNeil passed 23 yards to Garner standing on the goal line. Hudgins kicked point.

The big North Plains boys struck again soon. Taking over after a punt to their own 46, they ambled to another tally. McNeil uncorked a 15-yard heave to Garner complete to the one-yard line of Abilene. Davis inched over, and Hudgins converted.

Cubs Rally To Nip St. Louis Cards 3-2

CHICAGO —(AP)— Rallying for three runs in the last of the ninth, the Chicago Cubs Saturday drove the St. Louis Cardinals back into a tie with Brooklyn for second place in the National League as they defeated the Redbirds 3 to 2.

Not All Is Play

CHICAGO —(AP)— An apparent heart attack caused the death of Stanley Mauldin, star tackle for the Chicago Cardinals, two hours after the Cardinals defeated the Philadelphia Eagles 21 to 14 Friday night.

Mauldin, 27, father of a five-year-old son, collapsed after taking a shower, sank into a coma and died without regaining consciousness despite efforts of specialists to revive him.

Mauldin, a six foot 2 inch Texan, formerly was a star with the Texas Longhorns. He was born at Amarillo.

Chesnes Notches Win As Bucs Down Reds

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— Rookie Bob Chesnes notched his 14th pitching win of the season against five losses Saturday as the Pittsburgh Pirates routed the Cincinnati Reds 16 to 6. The Pirates hopped on three Cincinnati hurlers for 20 hits while Chesnes yielded 10.

Bobcats Bruise Mountaineers 32-0

MINERAL WELLS — San Angelo's Bobcats continued to display power-house tactics here Friday night as they steamrolled to a 32-0 win over the hapless Mineral Wells Mountaineers.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Bobcat jauggernaut began to roll in the second frame.

The Mountaineers could never get a sustained drive going against the Bobcats. Their closest approach to the Bobcat goal came in the second quarter when they finally reached the San Angelo 47 before they had to kick.

Mustangs Dump Brownwood 26-0

SWEETWATER — Sweetwater's heretofore unheralded Mustangs threw the topsy-turvy Texas schoolboy football race into a more unpredictable scramble than ever here Friday night by stunning the highly-rated Brownwood Lions in a non-conference game 26 to 0.

The victory stamped the Ponies as a definite contender in the District 3-AA chase and a force to be reckoned with in state circles.

The Mustangs punched over a touchdown in just eight plays in the opening period and added three more in the last quarter to route the Brownwood club which only last week had pulled a surprise itself by dumping top-ranked Kerrville 12 to 0.

Broncs Slaughter El Paso By 41-14

The Bronchos' scoring was widely distributed, Jimmy Patterson, Sonny Mobley, Paul Erwin, Howard Dye and T. W. Harvey crossing the double-stripe for Odessa.

Amanda Garcia passed to Julian Horowitz for the first El Paso score in the second quarter and Garcia turned in a neat 40-yard jaunt in the last stanza for the final Tiger score.

Texas Pros Win Second Straight Over Oklahomans

TULSA, OKLA. — (AP) — Texas professional golfers completed their second straight triumph over representatives of the Oklahoma PGA Saturday in singles play.

The Texans piled up a 16-10 point score which, adding their 8-5 margin in Friday's best ball doubles, gave them a two-day total of 24-15.

Victory in single was worth one point. Halved matches counted one-half points. Players did not report their match play scores.

In the top matches, Lloyd Wadkins of Odessa, defeated Jimmie Gauntt, Oklahoma open champion from Oklahoma City and Fort Worth's Ray Gafford downed Morrie Gravatt, Tulsa, Oklahoma PGA titleholder.

Non-state members of the Oklahoma team accounted for two and one-half points. Clarence Clark, Hutchinson, Kans., defeated Frank Champ, Lake Charles, La., and Joe Durham, Fort Smith, Ark., beat Morgan Hampton, Abilene.

Other results included:

C. W. Hogan, Lamesa, Texas, defeated Ed McEligott, Enid, Okla.

U. C. Ferguson, Oklahoma City, defeated H. T. (Shorty) Hornbuckle, Odessa, Texas.

Frank Ward, Kerrville, Texas, defeated W. L. Rawlinson, Muskogee.

Austin Rips Purple 28-6

EL PASO—Austin High's Panthers of El Paso stormed over the Midland Bulldogs 28-6 here Friday night in McKee Stadium before 6,500 fans. The bulky El Pasoans tossed a potent passing attack at the visitors, who couldn't seem to put up an aerial defense.

The Panthers quickly recovered from a jittery start, took a 7-0 edge in the first quarter, staved off Midland in the third and then counted two TDs on their own, in the third and added another in the fourth quarter.

Midland's lone tally came in the fourth stanza and late. Cecil Stephens heaved a desperation pass to Larry Buckingham good for 50 yards and ending up on the Austin one-yard line. From there, Bill Little dived over center for the score. Buckingham's place-kick for extra point was blocked.

The Bulldogs held the Panthers for downs at the opening of the game and then drove to the Austin 14-yard line through gaping holes, but a penalty halted the drive.

Starts The Scoring

Rosie Gutierrez started the Panthers on the victory road in the initial period when he dived over from the four-yard line after Billy Walsh set it up with a 42-yard sprint.

After Austin stopped the Midland drive in the third, Gutierrez set sail on a long sprint that put Austin in scoring range. Buster Lehman passed to Rudy Burrola on the Midland two and Gutierrez crossed on the next play.

Other Panther tallies came on long aerials. In the third Lehman found Rene Rosas in the clear with a 22-yard pitch while in the fourth Walter Baker hit Noel McCormick for 30 yards and the final counter.

Fred Edens place-kicked all extra points for Austin.

BRANNAN ACCUSES DEWEY OF DOUBLE TALK

BRIDGETON, N. J.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Brannan Saturday accused Thomas E. Dewey of "double talk" on farm price supports. Dewey says he approved of them Brannan said, while "he has neither stopped nor repudiated the attacks of his fellow Republicans on this program."

Porkers Roll Up 46-7 Score On East Texas State

FAYETTEVILLE, ARK. — (AP) — Leon (Muscles) Campbell and a fleet of other fast, powerful backs drove an Arkansas Razorback steam roller over East Texas State College 46-7 here Saturday.

Arkansas completed eight of 11 passes for 113 yards, but depended primarily on a rushing attack which netted 356 yards.

Campbell, a 190-pound fullback who can run the length of the field in ten seconds, outshone even the sparkling Clyde Scott, his running mate, as he scored twice and netted 125 yards on 19 carries.

For the second straight week Scott ran brilliantly to set up touchdowns but didn't score them himself. And, also for the second straight week, he returned a punt all the way, this time for 80 yards, only to have his feat nullified by a penalty.

East Texas Scores

East Texas' touchdown was made in the third quarter on a pass from Bob Griffin to Bud Saunders which caught the Arkansas secondary napping and was good for 50 yards. The Lions offered no other threat.

Geno Mazzanti, who spelled Campbell at fullback, drove for two Arkansas touchdown and Ray Parks ran for another. Forward passes from Parks to J. D. Smith and Gordon Long to Ross Pritchard accounted for the other Razorback tallies.

Army Smears Villanova 28 - 0

The Cadets scored twice by land and twice by air while operating with separate units for offense and defense.

Full of confidence after dropping Texas A&M a week ago, Villanova's Wildcat played their hosts on even terms for a few early minutes, but it was all Army the rest of the way.

Army drove 60 yards for its first touchdown, Winfield Scott ending the march by skirting left end for four yards and the counter in the second period. The second score came in the third frame on an Arnold Galiffa pass from the four to Dan Foldberg.

The Cadets zoomed 64 yards in seven plays in the last quarter with Stuart circling end for 19 yards and the third score. The last six pointer was scored on Bull Gustafson's flat pass to Cain from one yard out. Jack MacMull took care of all four extra points.

Giant Win Delays Braves' Flag Claim

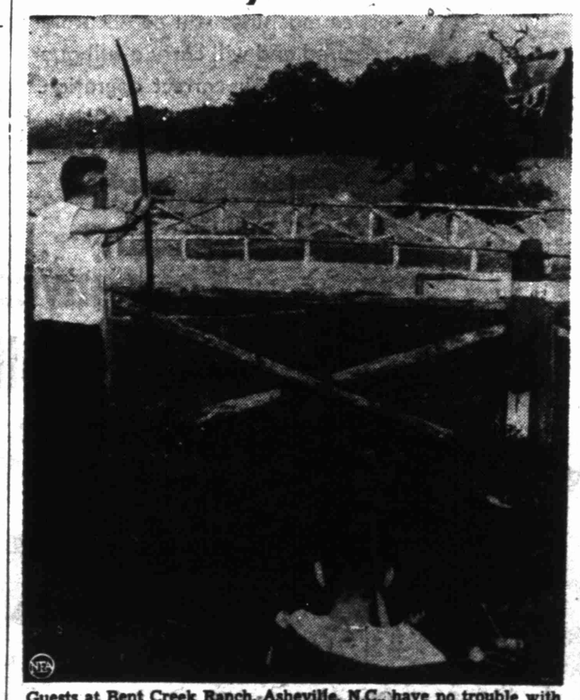

BOSTON — (AP) — The relaxed New York Giants prevented the Boston Braves from clinching the National League pennant Saturday by shading them 3-2 behind right-hander Sheldon Jones.

The score:

PERMIAN BASIN ROUNDUP—

Seminole, Andrews Keep Records: Crane Rambles

Two powers of the Permian Basin —Seminole and Andrews—came through with victories Friday. The Indians of Seminole topped Pecos 14-0 and Andrews rapped Wink 21-14.

Other scores around the Basin were: Crane blasted Ozona 45-19; Big Lake nudged Iraan 12-0; Alpine bested Sanderson 14-6.

Seminole Indians Batter Pecos 14-0

SEMINOLE — The Seminole Indians outclassed the Pecos Eagles in a District 5-A football contest here Friday night to win by a 14-0 score.

The Indian's first touchdown came when Bobo crashed over from the seven-yard line in the initial period. The attempt for extra point was good.

In the third quarter McReynolds, Indian back, went over for the other counter and the conversion try was successful.

Crane Overpowers Ozona Lions 45-19

CRANE — Coach Bill Haralson's Golden Cranes swamped Ozona here Friday night 45-19 in a free-scoring contest.

John Clark, halfback, grabbed the opening kickoff and ran it back 80 yards for a Crane TD. He booted the point.

J. G. Hufstedler, quarterback, put Ozona even with a 50-yard pass play.

Both elevens tabbed second touchdowns and then the war really began. Crane took a 25-13 lead and continued to ramble. Featured in this scoring parade were Jimmy Neal Stacy, Bill Teague, Dan Hickey, Marlowe, Bud Hoover and others.

Ozona led in first down 6-4. Crane completed two of nine passes and Ozona five of 16.

Black Indians Card Two Tilts

The Midland Black Indians will play the Hobbs, N. M. Wildcats at 3:30 p. m. Sunday in Indian Park. Monday night the Tribe will take on the Amarillo Red Sox here.

Friday night in Lubbock, the Black Indians went down 4-2 under the Lubbock Black Hubbers. John Hall, Midland ace, was nicked for his third loss of the season. Big Tucker hit a homer for Midland with one mate aboard.

Arizona, admitted to statehood in 1912, was the last state to enter the Union.

Carver Hornets Lose Game 26-0

Standouts, even in defeat, for the Midland Carver School Hornets in a recent negro football game at San Angelo were Oliver Lee, J. Banks, Shaw, Jones in the line and W. Taylor, Storms, Bill Lee in backfield.

Carver lost to San Angelo's Leopards 26-0.

The Leopards scored 20 points in the first half while the Hornets were only able to get inside the Leopard 10-yard line three times.

After the half-time rest, the Hornets perked up and played deep in Leopard territory. A pass miscue gave the Leopards another score, however.

Tradition Backed American Colonial Home

© HOUSING PLAN SERVICE, Inc. 1810 NOV. '47

THE ZENITH - FIRST FLOOR

THE ZENITH - SECOND FLOOR PLAN

A thoroughbred, with generations of American Colonial tradition behind it, is the best description of the Zenith, the charming and eye-appealing house shown above. It offers a five-room home on the first floor, complete with living room, dining room kitchen, two bedrooms and bath. Two more bedrooms and a bath may be added upstairs. Every room is well proportioned and of good livable size. The main portion of the house is almost square, which facilitates economical construction. The garage is attached to the house by an open porch which serves as a covered way from house to garage in bad weather. The roof dormers, the small paned windows, the homey front entrance, the wide painted shingles, are all authentic items of true Colonial.

Community Theater Concludes One Play; Plans For Another

The closing performance of "The Man Who Came to Dinner," first Fall production of the Midland Community Theater, was played to a large and laughing audience Saturday night, as were the two preceding presentations.

Leon Valdes headed the cast of the Hart-Kaufman comedy, which was directed by Art Cole. It was presented in the City-County Auditorium.

The Community Theater already has announced that its next production will be its annual minstrel-revue presented in cooperation with the Kiwanis Club. October 20 to 23 will be the dates of the minstrel, which this year will be titled "Runnin' Higher." Specialty numbers and players now are being selected.

Colleges To Cooperate On Mutual Problems

SAN ANTONIO—(AP)—Official cooperation between Texas Technological College at Lubbock and Texas A&M College was in the making Saturday with the appointment by Tech directors of a committee to work with A&M directors on "problems of mutual interest."

President D. M. Wiggins of Tech, said the directors of the Lubbock College feel that cooperation with A&M is needed. The two schools offer a curriculum that is similar in many ways. Tech has a fine agricultural department.

On the special committee for the Tech Board of Directors are C. E. Weymouth of Amarillo, Pat Mayse of Paris and Charlie Woolridge of Dallas.

Basic Standardization Of Part Sizes Designed To Reduce Housing Costs

Industry Engineered homes, which represent a new concept of home building designed to reduce housing costs, have the advantage of basic standardization of part sizes while retaining ample individuality in appearance, according to building experts.

They point out that besides the innumerable architectural designs and interior arrangements which can be affected, further distinctiveness is offered by the wide choice of materials that are adaptable to use in such homes. In that respect, Industry Engineered homes differ little from those of conventional construction.

For example, among the modern building materials particularly well suited to such houses are asbestos cement products, the experts say. Employed on an increasingly large scale in recent home building, such products combine attractiveness and economy with fireproof and weather-resistant qualities.

One Or More Units

Industry Engineered homes consist of one or more "livable units" each measuring 16x24 feet. A home owner can build one unit initially and add others as his budget permits. Units may be arranged in one or two stories, in L shapes, inverted L's, or in various other designs to suit the builder's preference. The sizes of materials used are in multiples of four—both in feet and inches.

This standardization of sizes is the basis of the entire plan, which is being advanced by leaders of the building industry. By means of such standardization they hope to reduce materially the on-site expense of cutting, fitting and assembling of materials. Wherever possible, items are pre-assembled. Standardization of sizes also is expected to cut costs by permitting more extensive mass production of windows, doors, framing lumber and so on, as well as to effect substantial economies in distribution and inventories. Manufacturers of building materials are being urged to cooperate with the program by conforming to 4-foot, 4-inch multiples in product sizes.

Green Winter Lawn Brightens Home

COLLEGE STATION — A green Winter lawn brightens the home grounds. It stands out in lush greenness against the bare, brown background of Winter. It catches the eye of passers-by, and makes them say, "That family grows green grass in the Wintertime."

Italian rye grass makes a good Winter lawn. It's easy to grow, and does not injure Bermuda or any of the other Summer grasses. It takes up in the Fall where the Summer grasses leave off, and dies out in the Spring when they are ready to start in again.

This grass is well-known among stockmen as a good Winter pasture grass, and can be bought from seed stores, seed companies and nurseries.

This is the time of year for the people in North and West Texas to seed Italian rye. Around the first of October is the best seeding time for Central Texas, and those further South should wait two weeks or a month later. Seeding rate for this grass is a pound and a half to two pounds for every thousand square feet of lawn area.

Unused Attics May Be Converted Into Attractive Bedrooms

As thousands of home owners have discovered during the housing shortage of the past several years, unused attics frequently can be converted into attractive bedrooms at comparatively small cost.

Often such a transformation solves an acute space problem for a large family or enables a home owner to rent out one or more rooms for extra income.

Experts in remodeling point out that an important requisite of a serviceable, attractive attic room is good flooring. A clean, glistening floor of sturdy oak, for example, lends an atmosphere of charm and coziness which can help make such a room one of the most attractive in the house. Long-lasting and easy to keep clean, oak floors possess a distinctive natural beauty of grain and color.

Simple Shelves Solve Kitchen Storage Problem

In many kitchens, it is almost impossible to find storage space for all the utensils and equipment needed for the preparation, cooking and serving of those three meals a day. This problem can often be solved — and inexpensively, too, by installing a few simple, open shelves. A strategic location of the shelves will double the kitchen's convenience and, when painted to blend with the color scheme, the shelves are most attractive.

Open Shelves Near Range

To keep cooking utensils within reach of the range, put up a series of open shelves at one side of the range. Vary the spaces between the shelves to suit the sizes of the utensils which are to be stored on them. For example, the shelf at the bottom may be used for large kettles and sauce pots. The next shelf might be a shallow one for frying pans. A vertical, partitioned rack installed on one shelf is convenient for keeping pan covers and shallow baking pans in easy-to-reach position.

Shelves also can solve storage problems in other areas of the kitchen. Shelves under the sink are handy for dishwashing supplies and equipment. Here it's a good idea to use a fronting of plywood doors to shut off the view of the miscellaneous items which are difficult to arrange attractively.

English walnuts cannot be grown to maturity in England, due to the short growing season.

Questions and Answers

Q—For what practice are the Jivaro Indians noted?

A—This tribe is famous for its tsantsas or shrunken human head trophies. The head is skillfully skinned and shrunk to about the size of an orange. The victor wears his tsantsa suspended by a cord around his neck, and is supposed thereby to possess certain supernatural powers.

• • •

Q—In speaking of the people of Mexico, what is meant by peons?

A—Members of the laboring class often of mixed blood.

• • •

Q—What city has the most radio stations?

A—Havana has 33 radio stations, more than any other city in the world.

• • •

A—The coastal temperature rarely falls below zero and rises to 80 degrees in the Summer. In the interior there is a difference of 150 degrees between Winter and Summer temperatures; in some parts 60 below in Winter and 90 above in Summer.

• • •

Q—Can fleas really be trained?

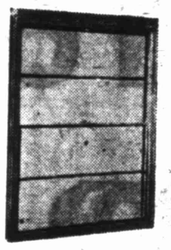

A—This is a disputed question. Probably no insect is susceptible of any appreciable degree of training or education. Most of the antics that these tiny insects go through in flea circuses are the result of their natural efforts to escape or are due to the ingenious devices and methods of the trainer.

Traffic Safety Campaigns Paid Off In 1947

During 1947, 32,300 persons were killed in motor vehicle accidents in the U. S.—three per cent less than in 1946 although traffic volume was 10 per cent greater. Map, from data compiled by the National Safety Council, shows 1947 death rates per 100,000 population.

will be a display of articles made by elderly women. Each article must have been made after the exhibitor reached 65 years of age. A special tribute to exhibitions in this division will be a tea to be given in their honor in the Blue Room of the Scharbauer Coffee Shop from 3:30 to 4 p. m. Thursday. After that, the ladies will ride in the fair parade, which begins at 4:30. A Rolls-Royce and a Packard limousine will be at the ladies' service during the parade.

A variety of free entertainment events will be staged each evening of the fair.

The exhibits and all entertainment events are free, the Chamber of Commerce emphasized. Only at a soft drink concession to be operated by Midland County 4-H Club Girls will fair visitors have an opportunity to spend money.

Thurmond Asks Truman To Talk On Six Issues

JACKSON, MISS. —(AP)— Gov J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, States' Rights Democratic candidate for president, said Saturday he had telegraphed President Truman, suggesting that he discuss six subjects in his campaign trip through Texas.

Thurmond's telegram said "I sincerely trust that you will not duck any of these issues while in the South."

The topics:

"First — The Philadelphia platform, including the plank calling for a new FEPC.

"Second—Whether or not the prominent Texas Congressman Wright Patman was correct when he stated at the Texas Democratic Convention that he would guarantee the FEPC bill would not pass if a Democratic Congress and president were elected. If you and a Democratic Congress are elected, will the FEPC become law or not?

Segregation Bans

"Third—Your executive orders of July 26, 1948, ending segregation in government jobs and breaking down the segregation pattern in the Armed Forces against the advice and judgment of military leaders who have the responsibility for the morale of the Armed Forces and the safety of the nation.

"Fourth — Your whole so-called 'civil rights' program calling for the end of segregation in the schools and the forced mingling of the races in public facilities.

"Fifth—The amazing parallel between the ideology and administrative provisions of the proposed FEPC bill which you support, and the Communistic Russian all-races law promulgated by Stalin.

"Sixth—Your veto of the act of Congress confirming the title of the states, including Texas, to their submerged coastal lands, including oil lands of the Texas coast which belong to the school children of Texas."

Texas Leads Post-War Industrial Building Over United States

WASHINGTON —(AP)— An eight-state mid-Western region is listed as surpassing all others in major new industrial construction during the first three postwar years. In it 792 plants worth more than $548,700,000 have been built.

This report came from an organization called the Territorial Information Department, representing four private mid-Western utilities.

The study covers the period from July, 1945, through June, 1948. Figures are based on construction contracts awarded for factories or plant additions costing $100,00 or more.

The states included in the central region are Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Ohio and Wisconsin.

Strong as the central states were in their showing as a group, none managed to take first place individually in the nation. Top honors went to Texas, with 309 plants at a cost of $258,700,000. California was listed with 300 new establishments worth $167,400,000 to run second in dollar volume and first in number of plants.

That's where the Midland County Fair will be held September 30 through October 2. Exhibits also will be displayed in the City-County Auditorium, corner Missouri and Colorado Streets.

DeWayne Davis, assistant manager of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, has asked us to emphasize this location. Despite the publicity already given the fair and its site, the C. of C. office continues to receive numerous requests for information regarding the location.

The street in front of the Legion Hall will be roped off to enclose exhibits and activities that cannot be housed in the Hall.

Cattle receipts at Midland Livestock Auction Thursday totaled 450 head. The market was a shade weaker on practically all classes as compared to the previous week.

Fat calves and yearlings sold at $24 to $27 per hundredweight, with medium offerings going at $21.50 to $24. Fat cows brought $18 to $21, medium ones $16.50 to $18. Canners and cutters sold at $13 to $16.50, fat bulls $19 to $21, medium bulls $17.-50 to $19.

Stocker steers calves and yearlings cleared at $24 to $23, with comparable heifers at $21 to $26. Three loads of stocker cows sold at $17.50, and three loads of good cows and calves brought $205 per pair.

One of the rules for exhibiting individual stalks of cotton in the coming Midland County Fair, (September 30 through October 2) is that each stalk "must be fitted neatly into a cardboard box."

This is going to present quite a problem for Farmer Merwin Haag. He has an irrigated field in which some of his best cotton stalks are as much as seven feet high. Also, according to Midlanders who've seen his crop recently, some stalks in the field have more than 100 boles of cotton.

Some observers are predicting Haag will get two bales per acre from this irrigated field if favorable weather continues.

Along with cars, floats, and other displays, horsemen are being urged to participate in the County Fair Parade, Thursday, September 30.

Everybody who has a horse or who can borrow one is welcome to ride in this event.

Horsemen will assemble at the High School at 4 p.m.; the parade begins at 4:30. Steve Laminack is chairman of the parade committee; other members are Frank Hawk and Dick McKnight.

Sam Preston and Bob Preston, Jr., were in Kansas and Oklahoma last week, shipping cattle which they've had on pasture there this Summer.

The Texas Weekly Crop Report from the Department of Agriculture for the week ending September 20 said:

"Adequate Fall range and pasture feed was virtually assured in most Southern, South-Central and all Coastal counties as rains and showers added further to moisture reserves.

"Except for limited local areas, however, all other parts of the state needed general rains. Benefits from the scattered showers over the Northern half of the state a week ago were generally dissipated. In the Northern Panhandle counties, where rains came earlier, a generally good supply of range grass was curing. Livestock were gaining flesh in the South on new green feed but were just holding their own or losing weight in the Northern two-thirds of the state. Volume marketing of cattle, sheep and lambs was about normal for this season of the year. Marketing of shorn goats from the Edwards Plateau continued unusually heavy."

Dewey, Truman Campaign Routes Diverge Widely

By The Associated Press

Governor Dewey delivered his prescription against inflation Saturday, while President Truman ripped into the Republicans on the public power issue.

The Republican and Democratic presidential nominees had a few things in common at the end of a week's cross-country barnstorming: souvenir sombreros, an intimate acquaintance with trainside dust and cinders, and an urgent desire to sit in the White House the next four years.

Otherwise, they were as far apart as their campaign trains—Dewey's in California and the President's special in Texas.

Dewey's anti-inflation speech at San Francisco Saturday night was billed as a major effort. Its keynote was "a great upsurge of production."

The New Yorker charged that the Democratic Administration for years has been "deliberately discouraging production and trying to raise prices."

Dewey's recommendations included a courageous administration, elimination of unnecessary government spending, reduction of the national debt, and support of "the American system of free opportunity."

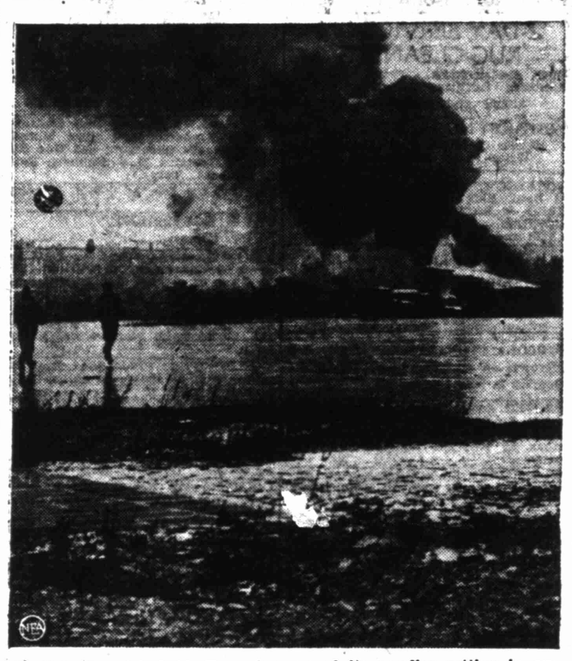

Truman traveled through parts of Arizona, New Mexico and Texas Saturday, heading eastward after his visit to California. He brought up the public power issue in a speech at El Paso.

He quoted Rep. Dondero (R-Mich) as having written in a magazine that Republican candidates are ready to join a move to cut down on the sale of low-cost power through public agencies. Dondero is chairman of the House Committee on Public Works.

Truman himself has called for an expansion of public power facilities. Dondero could not be reached immediately for comment.

At Lordsburg, N. M., the President had lambasted the 80th Congress once again, declaring it "tried to cut the throat of the West."

Germany Air Lift Fliers Earn Thanks Of Berlin

Berlin's Templehof Air Base, because of its peculiar setting in an apartment house district, makes the landing of big planes difficult. This C-54 Skymaster cracked up when the pilot overshot the field.

Grayson finds the Germans to be deeply appreciative for the food and other essentials flown to them in Berlin. Here a tiny fraulein expresses her thanks to a U. S. pilot with a bouquet of flowers.

By HARRY GRAYSON

BERLIN —(NEA)— Flying over the pock-marked, blockaded city of Berlin the 72-ton C-54 Skymaster entered the Tempelhof Air Base traffic pattern.

On the final approach leg the plane dropped 500 feet at a 70-degree angle to clear 100-foot-high, bombed out apartment houses standing right next to the field.

Captain Young, a neat little man from Pittsburgh, set the ship down ever so lightly smack dab at the end of the steel mat—with 10 tons of coal and me.

"Paint job. Congratulations, Captain," I said.

"Nothing to it," he replied. "We've made this trip so often the plane knows where to go."

The men flying the 200 C-54s and C-47s and one huge C-74 from Frankfurt's Rhine-Main and Wiesbaden 24 hours a day swung into the air lift in the typical American way.

The German people deeply appreciate the food and other essentials being flown to them.

Col. H. W. Dorr, commanding officer of Templehof Air Base, gets many letters daily.

"My dear Mr. Commandant," they are addressed, "Please don't leave Berlin."

Gifts offered the flyers range from doilies to valuable jewelry, include assorted family mementos of every size, shape and color. Ash trays, brooches, books, chinaware, cigarette cases, carved jade, dogs, hand-carved amber prayer beads, jewel boxes, Jensen silver, Ming Dynasty vases, paper dolls, pictures, paintings, Rosenthal porcelain and stuffed dolls have been sent in.

Most Valuable Possession

It frequently is explained that the gift is the most valuable thing the donor possesses. "Please give it to one of the air pilots. They must not think we are unthankful of what they are doing for us."

When two Americans were killed in a crack-up, floral wreaths poured in. "You met death so we might continue to live in freedom," notes read.

All but the most inexpensive gifts are returned, only the simple signifying ones kept. With gifts returned goes a letter from Colonel Dorr.

"Dear Sir (or Madame):

"We received your letter and gracious and generous gift. We want to express our thanks for the (article) and all the good wishes of our pilots. Every day we are receiving flowers and letters from the people of Berlin. These greetings from the thankful population mean very much to us.

"The pilots of the U. S. Air Forces are doing their fine job because it is their duty to help whenever peoples are in need throughout the world. They would not accept any reward for their effort to furnish the besieged city of Berlin with food and coal. It is part of their job as soldiers. Each one of our pilots is doing his best to help. It would be hard to choose one of them as the lucky recipient of your present.

"Your letter of appreciation means just as much to us as your fine gift. We feel it would not be just to keep it and we want you to understand our sincerity in returning it. However, we will not forget your good intentions."

In the suburb of Neukolin near Templehof, people are raising a fund of the new Western Deutsche marks with which to purchase engraved plaques for each pilot.

But giving the American flyers their biggest kick are little barefoot girls walking up to them with floral bouquets, and "Thank you so much, Mr. Pilot."

Possibility Of House-Elected President Cited

By OLIVER W. DeWOLF

WASHINGTON —(AP)— You've probably heard a lot of talk in this election-year about the possibility a President may be elected by the House of Representatives. This would happen only if none of the presidential candidates received a majority, 266, of the 531 Electoral College votes cast by the 48 states in December.

Then the House would be required under the Constitution to select a President from the three top candidates. The election would be held in January. Each state delegation would have one vote.

The last time the House elected a President was in 1824. Then the electoral vote totaled only 261, divided among 24 states, and four candidates—John Quincy Adams, Andrew Jackson, Henry Clay and William Crawford.

The 12th Amendment, passed in 1804, governed the election. But within its framework the House established some rules for procedure. The rules passed by the House in 1825 were not binding on succeeding Congresses. But they did establish a precedent and shed some light on how the House would set about the job of naming a Chief Executive.

They required that a member or members from at least two-thirds of the states be present for the balloting. The rule governing the actual balloting was elaborate. House members were grouped together by states, with a ballot box before each group. Each House member present then voted his choice for President, and the ballot was placed in the box provided for his state.

Written In Duplicate

After each state had counted its vote the result was written out in duplicate. The rule provided that if any one of the three candidates received a majority of the state's vote, then his name was to be written on both slips. If no candidate received a majority, then the word "divided" was to be written on them.

After the states had voted the clerk of the House was to call the roll. As the name of each state was called, the sergeant-at-arms presented two ballot boxes to the named delegation, one for the original ballot and one for the duplicate. These boxes were then to be placed on separate tables and counted by tellers representing each of the voting states.

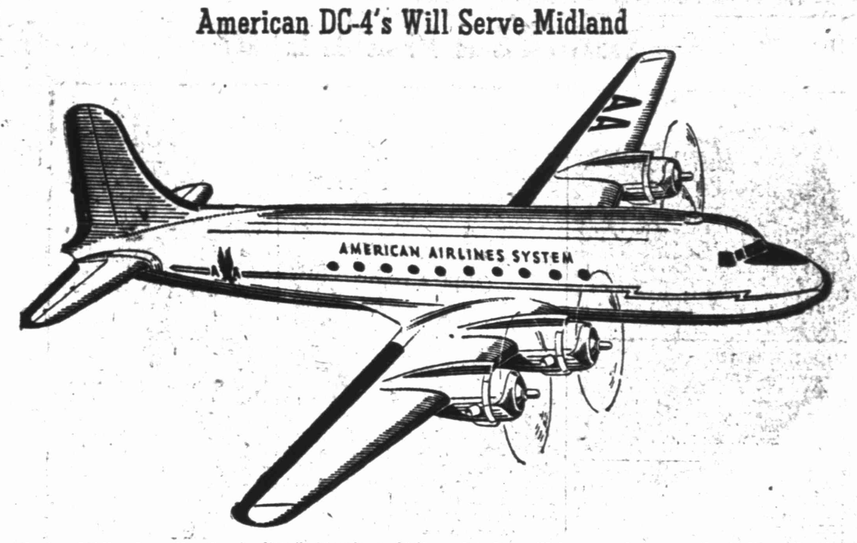

It so happened that in 1824 only one ballot was necessary. Adams received 13 votes, Jackson seven and Crawford four. The speaker of the House proclaimed Adams President. Had no candidate received a majority on the first ballot, the voting would have continued until one did.

The Daily National Intelligencer of Washington commented at length editorially on the conduct of the election. It noted the "deliberation and calmness" which characterized the conduct "of the members of the House; the order and regularity" of the proceedings, and the "forebearance on the part of the victors, and the sober resignation of the vanquished friends of the several candidates, on the result being ascertained."

In 1837, when Martin Van Buren was elected President by the Electoral College, none of the four vice presidential candidates received the required majority.

In conformance with the Constitution, the Senate then had to choose between the two top candidates—Richard M. Johnson and Francis Granger. The procedure differed radically from that followed by the House in naming Adams. The secretary of the Senate called the names of the senators in alphabetical order, with each senator voting his choice. Johnson received a majority and was declared elected.

American DC-4's Will Serve Midland

Placing Midland on the "main line," American Airlines Sunday will inaugurate a new through service to Los Angeles and New York when one of its big four-engine DC4 Flagships lands at Midland Air Terminal on the initial flight of the new schedule. The new DC-4 flights will mean improved air service for Midland and area passengers by providing fast through service to the East and West Coast. Passenger capacity of the DC-4 is 50 persons, with a crew of four including a captain, first officer and two stewardesses. The average cruising speed is 220 miles per hour. The DC-4 is equipped with four R-2000-13 Pratt and Whitney engines which develop 1,450 horse power each for takeoff at 2,700 RPM. The wing span is 117 feet and six inches; overall length, 92 feet 11 inches; height of tail from ground, 27 feet seven inches; cabin head room, over seven feet. The new Westbound flight will depart Midland at 8:20 p. m., and the Eastbound at 11:35 p. m.

Reds Will Quit Use Of Force When Goals Made

AMSTERDAM —(AP)— Communism will abandon use of force when it has gained its ends, Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr, a consultant of the World Council of Churches, said.

Niebuhr, a minister of the Evangelical and Reformed church and a member of the faculty of Union Theological seminary, New York, was reporting on the deliberations of a council group on "The Church and the Disorder of Society."

He said there was a "remarkable degree of consensus" in the group, which will make recommendations to the council, that the church could not take a "negative attitude" to Communism.

Attitude Defined

This attitude, he remarked, was taken "in view of the fact that this Communistic revolt expresses the discontent of vast masses of insecure people, and that we ourselves as churches everywhere had to recognize our involvement in injustices and insecurities which Communism seeks or promises to cure."

Doctor Niebuhr said he proposed to the group that it should regard Communism as "both better and worse than Fascism on the basis that Communism was a Christian heresy and Fascism and Nazism were anti-Christian paganism."

"That is," he said, "Fascism and Nazism are systems which use their power to raise the nation and are a self-justifying force in society. Communism is morally utopian—it believes in universal justice and truth.

"This is the Christian element in it, but out of this utopianism is extracts provisional dictatorships which claim to be provisional but are like any dictatorship.

"At best it will ultimately abolish force, but provisionally it uses it as fanatically as the others do."

He Was Robbed, Hypnotism Or Not

WHITTIER, CAL.—(AP)—The eyes had it for Sam Lipscomb.

Lipscomb, 60, flood control watchman, told police a car containing a man and a woman drove up while he was on duty. The woman, dressed in Gypsy garb, engaged him in conversation, said Lipscomb. The man just stared.

The watchman reported he "came to" in his shack 12 hours later, his wallet and $42 gone.

FAMOUS CONDUCTOR HAS DISPLACED SPINE

Canine Criminal

Be careful, he's dangerous! He and two pals are accused of attacking Patrolman Raymond E. Ray in San Francisco. The policeman says the dogs' owner, John J. Gillman, ordered them to attack him. Ray had tried to arrest Gillam. The other two dogs escaped, but this one is a closely guarded prisoner.

Small Boys Should Mention Presidential Visits Ahead Of Time

CHICAGO—(AP)—A cat can look at a queen, and a little boy ought to be able to look at a president.

But he ought to tell his mother.

Frank Boss, 7, heard that President Truman's train was to pass through Chicago. He loaded up on 10 sticks of chewing gum and set out for the railroad tracks.

His absence was soon noted, and neighbors, police and firemen began a search. A street excavation that had been filled during the day was dug up in the fear that Frank might have fallen in. Frank's parents became more and more anxious.

He almost accomplished his purpose. The President's train passed through Chicago at 3:15 a. m.

Taft-Hartley Act Proves Sharp Weapon In Halting Walkouts

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The National Labor Relations Board, making use of its sharpest weapon under the 13-months-old Taft-Hartley Act, has obtained 19 injunctions, a survey showed Saturday.

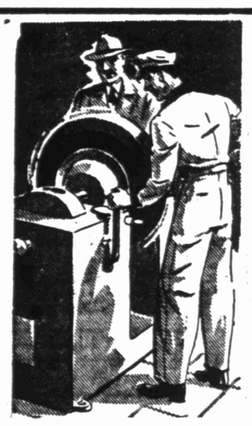

It sought 31 injunctions altogether, with all but six of them mandatory procedure under the law.

In the first 13 months under the new labor law the board's general counsel, Robert N. Denham, has sought injunctions against unions 29 times and against employers twice.

Of the total of 31 petitions, the courts granted 18 of those against unions and one against the employer.

These injunctions were to halt secondary boycotts, certain types of sympathy strikes, and strikes over board certification of bargaining agents.

'Operation Vittles'

This diagram shows how the U. S. Air Force air lift to Berlin works. U. S. planes leave from three bases—Rhein Main and Wiesboden Air Force bases near Frankfurt and the RAF base at Fassberg. Planes from U. S. bases fly to Berlin along the lower corridor and return by the center one. Planes from the British base fly along the top corridor and return via the center corridor. Planes fly in five "layers," the lowest 5000 feet up, with 500 feet between each layer. Planes travel with 15 minutes headway.

At a cost of a million and a half dollars a week "Operation Vittles" is giving the world—including Moscow—a practical demonstration of what the democracies' air power can do. To supply Berlin with food, coal and other vital supplies blockaded by the Russians, they are laying down the greatest volume of cargo ever hauled by plane. In 651 flights, U. S. planes hauled 5,572 tons of coal to Berlin, with the British planes adding 244 flights. On August 31, the tonnage flown to Berlin by USAF planes exceeded by five tons the average daily total tonnage of the 18 major airlines in the U. S. On September 15 alone, 3,936 tons were carried. Diagram of the operation, above, indicates planes flying on 15-minute headway. Actually, by staggering planes in the five altitude layers, a plane takes off and lands every three minutes. "Operation Vittles" will set further records, the plane pool having been increased by the addition of huge C-82 "Flying Box Cars."

City Paves With Good Intentions—They Do Their Own

Living on a Cincinnati, O., street that was full of dangerous ruts and holes, a dozen families, tired of waiting for civic action, pitch in to do their own road repair work. They borrowed tools and bought enough black-top to patch up the "undedicated" thoroughfare. Some of the ruts were eight to ten inches deep.

Thief Fires BulletAnd Paves Way For Hopeless Cripples

NEW YORK —(NEA)— A soft lead bullet from the gun of a fleeing cattle thief has made happy, useful citizens out of thousands who, otherwise, might have spent their lives as miserable cripples.

The bullet was fired 40 years ago down in the Rio Grande country. It smashed the bone in Earle Daniel's lower leg. To stop infection, Daniel himself cut off the leg three inches below the knee and then rode 12 miles to the nearest doctor.

"I was just 20 then," Daniel says. "I was haunted by the fear of having to sell pencils, or hold a tin cup on a street corner. As soon as I was able, I went to Minnesota and got a wooden leg. It was pretty crude. The knee joint consisted of a steel pin that served as a hinge between two pieces of iron. That leg created so much friction heat that by three o'clock on a work day I'd be gritting my teeth with pain, and hunting for the nearest nail keg to sit on."

Besides getting his very unpleasant wooden leg, Daniel got a job as apprentice to the man who made them. Since that day he has devoted himself to constant improvement in the making, fitting and repairing of artificial limbs of all sorts, the diagnosing and cure of stumps that hurt, stumps that ooze, stumps that jar almost unbearably in their sockets.

And now he has joined up with another man who is devoting his life to the rehabilitation of handicapped men and women—to the hard but rewarding job of taking folks, who think they have nothing left to live for, and making the years stretch out long, happy and productive.

This other man is Dr. Howard A. Rusk, professor and chairman of the Department of Rehabilitation and Physical Medicine at New York University - Bellevue Medical Center.

Doctor Rusk practiced internal medicine in St. Louis for 17 years until the war came along and he accepted a commission in the medical service of the Air Corps. He became Chief of Medical Service at the AAF's hospital at Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

There he noticed that patients were staying in hospital longer than civilians, who had homes to which they could return while they were convalescing. Long after they might have been building themselves up mentally and physically, they just sat around reading, playing cards or dominoes or —worse—just moping.

So Doctor Rusk ordered two innovations. First he tried to bring to the hospital some simple equipment each patient could use to improve himself in his AAF job. And second, as soon as a patient was physically able he was started on a system of exercises, easy and simple at first but gradually getting harder and more complicated.

Men began getting out of hospital faster, getting back with their own units instead of being pushed into some uninteresting backwash. Major - General David N. W. Grant, AAF air surgeon, heard how 600 pneumonia cases were back on the job in 30 days after Doctor Rusk's treatment, compared with the 45-day average for most Air Force pneumonia cases.

After the war Doctor Rusk set up at Bellevue Hospital in this city a program for civilians similar to what he had been using for Air Force members. But Bellevue is a free city hospital. It can not legally accept patients from outside the five boroughs, and Doctor Rusk did not believe that his treatment should be confined to New York's eight millions. So now New York University has taken over what used to be a city magistrate's court, trying drunks and street walkers and their like. There Doctor Rusk, with Dr. Donald M. Covalt as assistant director and Earle Daniel as head of the prosthetic service, is treating the handicapped from all over the world.

Married In Church Rites

Mrs. Gene Essary is the former Dorothy Ramsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lynch. Her wedding was solemnized in the First Methodist Church here on September 17 with the Rev. Howard Hollowell officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Essary are living at 705 North Fort Worth Street.

Ladies Golf Association Meets For Games, Luncheon And Bridge

Winners in the Ladies Golf Tournament which ended last weekend at the Midland Country Club were introduced and applauded at the luncheon of the Ladies Golf Association in the club's small dining room Friday. Mrs. Essie Stafford, the new champion, and several other winners were present.

Mrs. Vann Ligon, golf chairman in the association, made the introductions and also announced the winners in Friday morning golf games, Mrs. Clifford Cool, Mrs. Charlie Green, Mrs. Johnson Phillips, and Mrs. Duncan Aldridge. Twenty women of the association played golf before the luncheon.

Mrs. Payton Anderson and Mrs. R. B. Schabarum were hostesses. The luncheon table was centered with berried pyracantha sprays set thickly with growing sansevieria in a copper container. More of the pyracantha circled the base. Smaller arrangements of the same plants with ivy leaves were placed at either end of the U-shaped table.

Members present were Mrs. Bert Goodman, Mrs. W. D. Lane, Mrs. W. C. Murphy, Mrs. A. Knickerbocker, Mrs. J. C. Velvin, Mrs. A. Clevenger, Mrs. Fred Kotyza, Mrs. J. K. Shower Is Given For Flo Hayes

Three girls who share a home at 301 East Ohio Street entertained Saturday morning for a fourth, Flo Hayes, who is to be married October 9 to Clark Locke. The hostesses were Marjorie Osborn, Emy Lou Harris, and Lou VanLandingham.

They presented corsages of pastel-colored chrysanthemums to Miss Hayes and to her fiance's mother, Mrs. H. Locke of Houston. Guests brought gifts of lingerie to the bride-elect.

Cokes were served from the dining room table which was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a large tray which held the bottled drinks surrounded by nosegays of American beauty rosebuds. On one side the nosegays were arranged to spell "Flo."

Guests were Mrs. H. G. Brewer, Mrs. J. S. Noland, Mrs. D. P. Caruthers, Mrs. DeAlva Brewer, Mrs. Robert Wheeler, Mrs. J. W. Luckett, Mrs. Ruth Sterling, Pat Miles, Jo Boyd, Betty Gardner, Barbara Huyck, Myrtle Brown, Pat Lively, Jean Schooler, Marie Branham, Edith Louellan, Sue Caruthers, and Anna Belle Walker.

Wedding Of Two Former Midland Residents Read

Friends in Midland have learned of the marriage of two former residents, Frankie Williams of Palestine and Paul N. Colliston of Kermit, who will live in Kermit after their return this week from a trip to Santa Fe, N. M.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Williams of Palestine, taught in the John M. Cowden Junior High School here last year, and Colliston, a geologist with the Phillips Oil Company in Midland before World War II, returned from military service to live here about a year before going to Kermit.

They were married in the Broadway Baptist Church at Fort Worth on September 17, in a ceremony read by the Rev. Guy E. Moore. The bride wore a suit of Druid grey wool with the blouse in pink quartz shade and accessories in grey to match the suit. Her corsage was of orchids.

She is a graduate of Palestine High School and attended Sam Houston State College and the University of Texas. Colliston, the son of Mrs. Hattie Colliston of Los Angeles, was graduated from high school in Springfield, Mass., and from the New Mexico School of Mines. He served in the Army five years with the rank of lieutenant colonel during the war.

Officers Elected By Sub-Deb Pledges

Pledges of the Sub-Deb Club elected officers and planned activities at a meeting Thursday in the home of Jane Beakey. Marian Sevier was chosen as president.

Models For Style Revue

A preview of styles for 1949 will be given at the Beta Sigma Phi's "Club '49" Monday night, when fashions for men and women from Midland shops will be modeled in a night club setting.

The style revue will be presented in the American Legion Hall starting at 8 p. m. All three Midland chapters of the sorority are cooperating to stage the show. Since men's clothing is to be modeled, men as well as women are invited as spectators.

Night club atmosphere will be created in the seating arrangement at tables for four or eight, the parade of models from the stage through the audience, the stage entertainment at intermission, and the presence of cigarette girls to serve cigarettes and soft drinks at the tables.

Members To Model

Jones, one of the Beta Sigma Phi members who will model in the sorority style show in the American Legion Hall Monday night, is wearing the ensemble from Everybody's which she will show then. The suit is a brown tweed, bag and shoes brown kid, and the hat a Kelly green felt. Mrs. Jones, a hazel-eyed ash blonde, is secretary of the Xi Theta Chapter of the sorority, is a housewife and a long-time resident of Midland.

DYT Club Plans Party At Park For Families

Plans for entertaining their families with a wiener roast at Cloverdale Park Thursday were made by members of the DYT Sewing Circle meeting in the home of Mrs. Roy McKee Friday.

The outdoor supper was planned as the group sewed. A guest, Mrs. Glenn Shoemaker, was present with Mrs. E. M. Watkins, Mrs. E. P. Birkhead, Mrs. John Sewell, Mrs. Tommy Henderson, Mrs. A. E. Houck, and Mrs. J. P. Carson, Jr.

Engaged Girl Is Honored

Miss Billie McKee, who is to be married to William W. Springer on October 8, was honored with a late afternoon tea and shower Saturday in the home of Mrs. G. W. Brenneman, 611 North Pecos Stret.

Hostesses with Mrs. Brenneman were Mrs. J. P. Carson, Mrs. Roy McKee, and Mrs. J. C. Miles. Yellow and white flowers decorated the rooms.

Mrs. Brenneman greeted guests at the door and presented the honoree and her mother, Mrs. A. F. McKee, and her fiance's mother, Mrs. J. E. Springer. Betty Springer had charge of the bride's book where each was asked to register.

Special Music

Mrs. J. P. Carson, Jr., pianist, played through the tea hours. Rosemary Johnson and Lavilla Tuggle were in the room where the gifts were displayed.

At the tea table were Mrs. Bill Wyche and two aunts of the bride-elect, Mrs. Bill Munerlyn of Seminole and Mrs. Frank Taylor of Hobbs, N. M. Mrs. E. P. Birkhead, Mrs. Herbert Collings, and Mrs. B. H. Spaw also assisted in the dining room.

Yellow button chrysanthemums made the centerpiece for the tea table, which was covered with a Chinese linen-and-lace cloth. A silver tea service was used, and yellow candles in silver holders lighted the table.

Teen-Age Study To Feature High School P-TA Meet

The opening meeting for this term of the Midland High School Parent-Teacher Association will be held at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in the school auditorium with faculty members as guests.

Frank Monroe, superintendent of schools, will speak on the subject, "What Parents Want for Their Children From the School," drawing on reports from conferences held in Texas this Summer and studies of national leaders of youth organizations.

Faculty members will be introduced by Charles Mathews, principal, and Miss Elizabeth Cope, music instructor, will present a program from her department.

The year's theme of the association is "Meeting the Needs of Our Teen Agers." Nationally, September is designated as Youth Month, stressing parent and family life education, and the enlivened consideration of youth on the part of parents, schools, churches, and communities.

Mrs. J. J. Black, president of the association, urges parents of high school students to attend the meetings this year, with the reminder that it is up to parents to cooperate with the schools, churches, and community in guidance of Midland boys and girls.

Let Indoor Exercise Keep Benefits To Figure Gained With Sports In Summer

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

When cool weather sends your golf clubs, swim suit or tennis rackets into storage, plan to carry indoors the exercise which has kept you in shape. Otherwise, you will lose the figure benefits gained from your Summer sport.

Muscles tightened and toned by an outdoor sport are easy to keep that way with simple calisthenics taken indoors.

A keep-in-condition routine is less likely to become tedious, according to experts, if you will include a variety of exercises and will perform each one 10 times rather than concentrating on two or three for longer periods of time.

Best plan, of course, is to sign up for regular workouts at a local gymnasium. The variety of exercise equipment offered permits you to zip through a routine with little risk of boredom.

If there is no gym available you can rig up what passes for an exercise bar in your own home. Hang a pole to span a doorway opening, and place it within reaching distance of upstretched hands.

When that's all set, make these two bar-exercises a regular routine. For the first, stand erect with feet together, and grip the bar with your hands. Now, raise left leg and bring the knee as close as possible to your chest. Lower that leg, and raise the other. Continue this high-stepping stationary march to a count of 10.

You swing into the second exercise from the same original position as you took for the first. For this one, however, you bend both knees and raise feet as high from the floor as you can. Now, alternately raise and lower feet to a count of 10.

Classical Ballet—

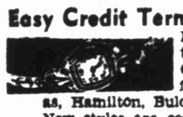

Little girls love ballet Aside from the poetic expression it affords them, it develops poise and grace so essential to social success. THE BIENVENUE SCHOOL OF DANCING, 210 West Louisiana, teaches classical ballet. Miss Bienvenue, the instructor, was once a pupil of A. Kotchestousky, who is a member of the Imperial Ballet of Moscow. The Imperial Ballet came to this country as the Ballet Russe. Miss Bienvenue danced with The Rose Festival in Tyler and The Houston Symphony.

"Dairy Queen"—

A gentleman has come lately and established a new business in our city. He calls it the "Dairy Queen." Words are inadequate to tell you about "Dairy Queen" as it is not ice cream nor is it frozen custard. It is made by a special mix. So, we suggest you stop by the factory on West Highway and get a large cone. Watch the machine spin out this satiny mix that is better than ice cream.

Easy Credit Terms At Kruger's—

Bettis-Miller Rites Read In South Dakota

RANKIN—Guila Bettis, formerly of Rankin and Crane, and James W. Miller of Dupree, S. D., formerly of Snyder, were married August 30

Mrs. J. W. Miller

in the First Methodist Church of Rapids City, S. D.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Jack Young of Crane and L. W. Bettis of Brownwood. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Nix of Rankin. She graduated from Rankin High School, and attended John Tarleton College, Stephenville, and Our Lady of the Lake College, San Antonio.

Mrs. Miller is well-known in West Texas rodeo circles, having participated in numerous Cowgirl Sponsor contests. She is a former prize winner in cowgirl events at the World Championship Midland Rodeos.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Miller of Dupree. He graduated from Snyder High School, and attended Texas Tech, Lubbock, and John Tarleton College. He is engaged in the ranching business in South Dakota, where the newlyweds will make their home.

Musk-balls, spherical boxes containing strong smelling scents, were worn by early Europeans to overcome the odor of crowds.

Mayo-Trained Surgeon Joins Medical Staff Of Midland Hospital

Western Clinic-Hospital of Midland announced Saturday the association of Thomas J. Melton, Jr., M. D., who will engage in the general practice of surgery.

Doctor Melton completed his premedical training at the University of Texas and Tulane University where he earned his bachelor of science degree and his doctor of medicine degree.

After completing a year's internship at Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh, Pa., he specialized in general and orthopedic surgery and was admitted as resident surgeon to the Eitel Hospital in Minneapolis. A year later he was accepted for further advance training in general surgery at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. He spent three and one-half years there, completing his fellowship, and received a master of science degree in surgery from the University of Minnesota.

Family To Move Here

Mrs. Melton and their son and two daughters are visiting in Fort Worth with Doctor Melton's parents and will join Doctor Melton here as soon as housing facilities are obtained. They are members of the Presbyterian Church

Since 1946, Doctor Melton has been engaged in the private practice of surgery in Chicago, where he was also assistant chief surgeon for the U. S. Steel Corporation and its subsidiaries in that area, and assistant chief surgeon for the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern Railway Company of Chicago.

He is a member of the American Medical Association and of the state medical associations of Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Minnesota and Illinois. He is also a member of the Chicago Medical Society, the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States, the American Association of Railway Surgeons, and the Mayo Clinic Foundation Alumni Association.

EAT PLENTY AND TAKE OFF UGLY FAT

Many people have reported amazing results with this home recipe. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your druggist and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic, from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back.

Lost 47 Pounds

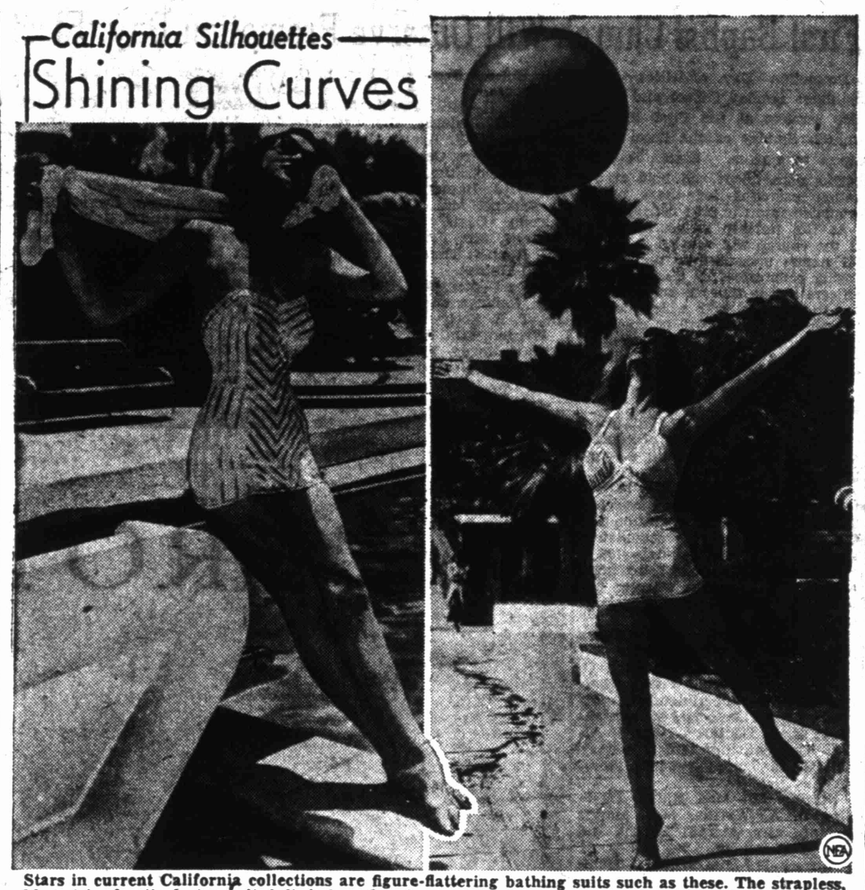

"When I commenced to take Barcentrate, I weighed 212 pounds. I now weigh 165. I lost 25 pounds on the first two bottles. I feel so much better after losing that weight. I think it is a wonderful medicine and thanks to Barcentrate."—Mrs. George Gregg, Chalmers Courts 4, Apt. 1, Austin, Texas.

Lost 20 Pounds

"I lost 20 pounds taking four bottles of Barcentrate and I feel fine."—H. M. Gates, 912 24th Street, Corpus Christi, Texas.

California Silhouettes

Shining Curves

Stars in current California collections are figure-flattering bathing suits such as these. The strapless, blue-striped satin lastex suit, left, is boned and wired to play up curves. One-piece, Empire-styled white sharkskin suit, right, molds silhouette with cleverly-placed gathers and criss-crossed bands.

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Fashion Editor

LOS ANGELES — Bathing suits created here in a land where there are probably more "body beautifuls" per square foot than any place in the world are designed to do as much for a girl as her friend, Mother Nature.

To find a suit in current collections which fails to flatter a figure would entail a long and discouraging search. Waistlines are trimmed, flanks are flattened and bosomy curves are ingeniously enhanced by clever designs and flattering materials.

This season fabrics cut a shine. To last year's metallics are added this year's fabulous-looking satins. One striped satin lastex suit shown cold, if a long skirt were added, make a ballroom entrance. This strapless suit in two tones of pastel blue is a Rose Mary Reid design with a sleek silhouette. Sleekness is offset by a flattering bustline, the curves of which are aided and abetted by both boning and wiring.

Mabs of Hollywood revives the Empire bustline for which strategic gathering and criss-crossed diaphragm bands are used to enhance curves. White sharkskin is a medium favored by this designer to interpret the Empire style in functional one-piece suits with halter straps.

Six T&P Employes Get 50-Year Service Pins

DALLAS—Six Texas & Pacific Railway employes who just turned the corner on 50 years of railroading were awarded diamond-studded service buttons Friday at a luncheon in Dallas. All but one of the half-century men, Thomas Harrell Jordan, a locomotive engineer who lives in Texarkana, was able to attend. He is ill.

Bayles Charlie Barton of El Paso was there. So was William A. Johnson, a pumper, who lives at Baird, and Edward J. Strehle, conductor, living at Gretna, La. Also William M. Tucker, who has been T&P agent at Mingus, Texas, since the starting gun of World War I, and Charles I. Saunderson of the T&P telegraph department in Dallas. All five were presented personally with their 50-year emblems by W. G. Vollmer, Texas & Pacific president.

J. B. Shoates, T&P director of public and employe relations, who presided at the luncheon, at which 10 other top executives also attended, said the six half-century veterans who received their diamond buttons swelled the T&P 50-year employe ranks to a total of 26 since service badges were inaugurated on the 76-year-old railroad in 1947.

AMAZED AT QUICK ACTION OF MERTOX

"For the past ten years I have been troubled with severe gas pains which seemed to press against my heart and made it difficult to breathe. I had a pain under my heart that was almost unbearable at times," writes Mrs. Alma Cummings of Waco.

"My food would not digest and soured on my stomach. I had bad dizzy spells and when these attacks occurred I felt all puffed up. My appetite has greatly improved and I can now eat lots of things that I couldn't eat before taking this wonderful medicine.

"Since taking Mertox I feel like a different person. It certainly is wonderful to get up in the morning and do a day's work, without that tired, worn-out feeling. I certainly was amazed at the quick action of this medicine."

Try to make a deposit in your popularity bank every day. You'll be sure to be the belle of the school year.

You don't become popular by wearing the most expensive clothes or by being the prettiest girl in the class or by dating the handsomest man. Popular girls always lead selfless lives. In lending a helping hand to less resourceful classmates, they build up a great store of friends and their stock goes up on the popularity chart.

What do they get out of it? Most of them find that the inner satisfaction of helping someone and winning friends is by far their biggest reward. Further, they find their own problems seem to melt away. Here are ways you can become popular by the unselfish route:

Be kind. Never hold up a girl to ridicule because she has a small wardrobe and smaller bank account or because her parents do not measure up to yours. She deserves the same chance as the wealthiest and most well-bred girl in school.

Be charitable. Don't engage in gossip about any of your school chums. Try to look behind the flaws to see the good. And don't try to use the "analytical" excuse. This is when Mary says of her best chum Betty, "I'm so crazy about Betty but I wish she wouldn't be such a drip on a party." If Mary is crazy about Betty, she doesn't point up her flaws to anyone else.

Be sweet. You will always get more with sugar than with vinegar. If someone is jealous of you and shows it, feel sorry for them. You always can win out by ignoring their attitude and being agreeable. This will serve to embarrass them into shelving their hate campaign or it will at least keep others off their bandwagon.

Be helpful. The Lord didn't give everybody a beautiful brain. Share yours with somebody else. You may save a dumb girl many unhappy moments by ironing out school problems which she cannot grasp in the classroom. If you are smarter than she, how can she ever be serious competition to you, anyway?

Be loyal. If a chum makes a mistake, stick by her. Don't let her down because the school pack has turned up its noses. That is the time when she needs your friendship more than ever.

Be generous. Penny - pinching, budget-minded people always look and act the part. You don't have to give away your last sou. But by sharing with others less fortunate than yourself you are buying happiness, something your miserly school friends can never purchase with their stuffed piggy-banks.

Be courageous. When you are right stick by your guns. Don't back down when the going looks tough. And, always be willing to admit it when you are wrong.

Be wise. Pick the right companions as bosom pals. But don't make enemies, even of those who don't measure up to your expectations.

Be studious. You are at school to study so don't use up your family's hard-earned cash by flitting your time away. You'll lose the respect of your more serious minded friends if you do.

Maybe this is the job for you!

This versatile costume, which is neither coat nor dress but subs for either and combines the virtues of both, is an important fashion in New York designers' collections.

Adele Simpson introduces a "trotter" series in seal brown, evergreen green and gray chiffon broadcloth. All that keeps these dresses out of the coat category is the lack of a lining. Aiding and abetting the dress, right, to put its masquerade across—it's a handsome gray front-buttoned dress of broadcloth tied in with a cord belt—is a squirrel tippet which loops around the neck like a luxurious fur collar.

New 4-H Girls Club Is Organized Here

A new Midland County 4-H Girls Club was organized Friday at the John M. Cowden Junior High School, Nettie B. Messick, home demonstration agent, announced.

Carolyn Gray was elected president, and Pat Riley was named vice president. The club will meet the second and fourth Friday of each month. At the next meeting, a secretary will be elected, a name for the club will be chosen, and members will piece a block for a "friendship quilt" to be shown at the annual Harvest Banquet in November.

IF STOMACH BALKS DUE TO GAS AND BLOAT

Help Get Food Digested to Relieve Yourself of This Nervous Distress

Do you feel all puffed-up and miserable after every meal, taste sour, bitter food? If so, here is how you may get blessed relief in helping your stomach do the job—it should be doing—in the digestion of its food.

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

WE the WOMEN

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

Tip to young housekeepers:

Here are a few easy ways to make the man you married think you are a truly remarkable woman.

Never trust telephone messages to memory. Saying off-handedly to a husband "A Mr. Green—or maybe it was Brown—called you" is not the way to relay a telephone message. Take notes on a scratch pad, kept always beside the telephone, and hand the message over with all important facts in writing.

Have plenty of ash trays scattered around the house, and don't forget to put them back where they belong the minute you've finished emptying them.

On your emergency shelf in the cupboard have always the makings of a simple meal and a variety of ready-to-serve refreshments. A man never feels as hospitable as when he offers a spur-of-the-moment invitation, and he can't make such gestures unless he knows you can always whip up something for the unexpected guest.

If you read the newspaper first, keep it in order. No man wants to have to hunt for the sports page or for the funnies.

Give him one little corner of the house where you don't "straighten up" after him, a place where he can lay something down and go back later and find it.

Credit Course Graduates Get Certificates

Forty-two owners and representatives of Midland business firms received certificates at the final class period of the Retail Credit Procedures Course here Friday night. The 10-hour course, which opened last Monday night, was held under the sponsorship of the Retail Merchants Association, the Distributive Education Department of the Midland High School, and the Chamber of Commerce. Attendance on various nights of the course passed the 50 mark.

Sterling S. Speake of Austin, instructor in Retail Credit Procedures from the University of Texas, Division of Extension, conducted the course.

"Charge it, please," will be the increasing demand of customers of Midland merchants, according to Speake, who said the time is approaching when more and more persons will be asking for credit. Merchants should waste little time in getting their credit departments in order to take care of the charge business properly and profitably.

Speake said Midland has been very fortunate in having good steady business, with credit accounts causing a minimum of worry. However, as the credit trend continues to increase over the state, it is likely to e[illegible] merchants in the near future, he said. The instructor pointed out that collections over the state are declining, and merchants now should attach more importance to the opening of a credit account.

Tickets On Sale For Concert Of Navy Band Here

Tickets for the Midland appearance of the United States Navy Band October 11 are on sale by members of the Midland Lions Club, sponsoring organization, with an excellent response reported. James L. Daugherty is general chairman in charge of arrangements.

Two concerts will be presented here by the "World's Finest Band," a matinee for students and an evening performance for adults. Both concerts will be held in the new Memorial Stadium in West Midland. Student tickets, afternoon performance only, are priced at 30 cents, and adult tickets for either afternoon or night performances are $1.20, including tax. There will be no reserved seats.

Sponsors predict one of the largest crowds ever to attend an event here will be on hand to see and hear the Navy Band which is on a concert tour across the nation. The stop here will be one of a few in Texas. Hundreds of visitors from over the Permian Basin are expected to join Midlanders in attending the special attraction.

Hotel Man Wants To Show Movie Here To 'Honest John' Club

Have you ever heard of the Honest John Club of Midland? No? Well, it seems a man from Colorado is coming here to entertain the club with moving pictures.

Delbert Downing, Chamber of Commerce manager, has received a letter addressed to "The President, Honest John Club, Midland, Texas." The letter, from a public relations man connected with a large Colorado resort hotel, informs the president of the club that the writer will be here soon with color movies of Colorado scenery. The idea is to encourage members of the club to vacation at the hotel.

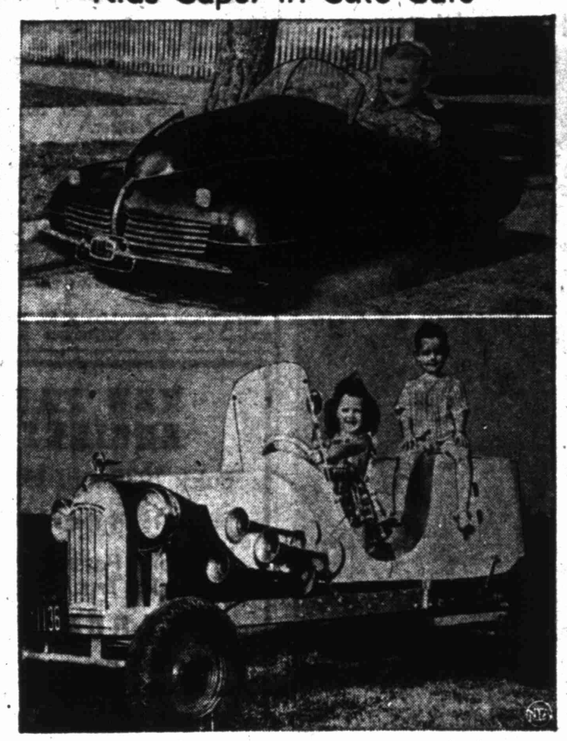

Downing said the Coloradoan probably read about "Honest John" in a recent American Magazine story on Midland. In that story, it was related that Midlanders played Honest John to see who gets to pay the coffee or dinner check in cafes.

The game Honest John is played in this way: someone secretly writes a letter of the alphabet on a piece of paper. Then members of the group recite the alphabet, starting with any letter selected by a person other than the one who wrote the unlucky letter on the paper. The person who calls out that letter has to pay the check.

Downing said Saturday he hadn't been able to figure out how the Coloradoan is going to show his advertising movie to five or six men sitting around a table having their coffee or lunch.

Kids Caper in Cute Cars

Car-crazy America is even building tiny working replicas for its children. Barbara Jean Garrison, four, top, prepares for a spin in the streamlined job her father built for her in Long Beach, Calif. Made of discarded parts costing $40, it's powered by a six-volt battery connected to an automobile starter. The one below, belonging to Jimmy, three, and Sonya Baker, four, of Nacogdoches, Texas, was made by their grandfather, Dr. M. M. Baker. He spent $382 on the car, which attains speeds up to 30 miles an hour.

Circus Aerialist Hurt In Fall At Austin

She was identified as Barbara Beale, part of a troupe imported from London. She fell between 30 and 40 feet to the ground after the rope broke, while an audience of almost 2,000 watched.

An early examination showed a broken leg and shock. Miss Beale was being X-rayed to determine if there were other injuries.

A circus spokesman said the girl was part of an act known as "The Spanish Web." She was hanging by her feet when the rope broke.

Fire Destroys Berry Residence At McCamey

McCAMEY—The residence of Mrs. Peggy Berry in East McCamey was destroyed by fire early Saturday, with only a few pieces of furniture being saved.

The blaze was discovered about 3:15 a. m., and members of the McCamey Volunteer Fire Department battled the fire several hours.

Malcolm Reimers, fire marshal, said the cause of the fire was undetermined. He estimated the loss at $7,000.

Unofficial Press Card Gets Aggie In Olympics

COLLEGE STATION, TEXAS.—(AP)—The press cards issued to reporters for the Battalion, student daily newspaper of Texas A&M, is a gaudy little thing in maroon and white.

But Bob "Sack" Spoede, '20, senior from San Antonio, used it to good advantage in London during a recent European tour. He flashed the gaudy pocket-size card at the world Olympics—and the gate attendant looked, and said "Go ahead."

Social Situations

SITUATION: When you are in a group your wife has been smoking and lighting her own cigarets and then another woman in the group takes out a cigaret.

WRONG WAY: Jump to light it for her, even though you have made no move to extend your wife the same courtesy.

RIGHT WAY: Let her light her own. (It is rather insulting to a wife to have her husband allow her to wait on herself and yet jump to wait on other women.)

Calcutta, capital of Bengal, India, has a population of more than 1,350,000.

Some Calves and a Shinn Make Pretty Pictures

If you're interested in calves, you might like the one at left, above—no, not THAT one—the four-footed one. It's a pedigreed Jersey calf, named Annabelle, and is an entry in the Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona, Calif. The other calf belongs to comely Gwen De Voli, Princess of the Livestock. Maybe you're not interested in calves. For you we present Diana Shinn, at right, San Francisco night club dancer, leading contestant for the title of Queen of the forthcoming Portola Festival. The festival celebrates the third discovery of San Francisco Bay by Don Gaspar de Portola in 1769.

Stanton Auxiliary Installs Officers

STANTON — Mamie McDurmond was installed as president of the Stanton American Legion Auxiliary at a meeting in the American Legion Hall Monday night. The outgoing president, Mrs. Leo Turner, was installation officer.

Other officers installed were Doris Brewer, first vice president; Mrs. George Davis, second vice president; Mrs. Mary Ruth Hall, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. J. D. Renfro, historian; Mrs. Margaret Hauber, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. Mary Brothers, chaplain; Mrs. Zelda Bennett, reporter, and Mrs. Helen Houston, pianist.

Mrs. Bland Cross, Mrs. E. W. Ross and Mrs. Sam Wilkerson were named on a committee to arrange details preparatory to staging a play October 21.

The group voted to enter a float in the Martin County Fair parade and to sell poppies November 11.

Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Renfro were named on a committee to visit the sick.

Present were Mrs. Brothers, Mrs. Cross, Mrs. Dee Rogers, Mrs. Hauber, Mrs. Crystal Webb, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Wilkerson, Mrs. Renfro, Mrs. Davis, Miss McDurmond, Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Bennett.

It is assault, if you strike and miss, but it's assault and battery if you strike and hit.

CRIME DOESN'T PAY

ELDORADO, ILL.—(AP)— Experimentally, the city of Eldorado fixed a five cent fine on each motorist who either failed to deposit a nickel in their parking meters or upon overtime violators. The violators were even permitted to pay the nickel fine in any handy meter and not be hailed into city hall. Revenue fell off one-third during the two-week trial. So the city council voted to get tough with violators—and fine 'em two bits.

BARBED WIRE STOPS POLISH BOARS

POZNAN, POLAND—(AP)— Barbed wire defenses are going up again in Poland. But this time they are directed against wild boars, not Germans.

The boars have been causing widespread damage to crops in Western Poland, pushing their way through wooden fences. Now the government is aiding peasants to erect barbed wire barriers.

Expecting a Baby?

MOTHER'S FRIEND, an exquisitely prepared emollient, is useful in all conditions where a bland, mild anodyne massage medium in skin lubrication is desired. One condition in which women for more than 70 years have used it is an application for massaging the body during pregnancy... it helps keep the skin soft and pliable... thus avoiding unnecessary discomfort due to dryness and tightness. It refreshes and tones the skin. An ideal massage application for the numb, tingling or burning sensations of the skin... for the tired back muscles or cramp-like pains in the legs. Quickly absorbed. Delightful to use. Highly praised by users, many doctors and nurses. Millions of bottles sold. Just ask any druggist for Mother's Friend—the skin emollient and lubricant. Do try it.

An installation tea for the Margie Schumate Young Women's Auxiliary and the new High School YWA of the First Baptist Church will begin at 7:30 p. m. in the church.

Yet he died, not in battle, but in bed... felled by a deadly dart 1/10,000th of an inch long—the tubercle bacillus.

Today we know. But ignorance and indifference still account for most of the 50,000 people who are killed by tuberculosis each year.

Remember, too, that TB is contagious. A person who has TB can spread it to other members of his family.

You can find out whether or not you have TB by having your chest X-rayed.

California Resort Fashions Stress Practical Glamor

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Fashion Writer

LOS ANGELES—(NEA—Trend-setting bets on the kind of clothes Miss and Mrs. America will want to wear next Spring and Summer are placed on new dark-dye cottons by California designers.

What women aware of the shrinking dollar will bless is the union of functional design and new-look glamor, two fashion ideas which are happily wedded in resort collections previewed here.

Glamorized to the last button hole are cotton casuals of dirt-dodging colors which are designed to play two wardrobe roles or to unbutton when the inevitable wash day rolls around and lie on an ironing board as flat as a handkerchief.

Case in point is sleek peddle pushers of navy blue poplin, the legs of which are as bedecked as a bull fighter's with files of buttons. These buttons, however, open up the glamor-pants from cuff to waistband for easier ironing. Designer Tabak teams the peddle pushers with a saucy midriff top of navy-and-white-striped cotton poplin which flattens out from a waistband drawstring for easier laundering.

As functionally designed are sun or patio dresses with wrap-around skirts that release a cascade of new-look drapery. Instead of reaping Blue Monday curses, these skirts which open up for easier ironing are certain to be blessed. One style which typifies the use of dark-dye colors combines a skirt of maroon-and-gray print with a brief bare-topped bodice of solid maroon. A removable bolero of matching print is used to turn this dress into a dashing and practical ensemble.

Cover-up boleros of this type, which enable sun-inviting frocks to double as daytime duds, appear frequently in resort collections. Designer Joseph Zukin makes a match between chic and practicality with a bare-topped sun dress of brown-and-navy cotton which may be covered up for other wardrobe purposes with a butcher linen bolero of navy blue.

Interest Shown In Legion-Auxiliary Polio Fund Benefit

Calls for tickets already have been received by the American Legion and Auxiliary from prospective guests at the party which the two organizations will sponsor October 4 to benefit the Legion polio fund, although tickets will not be available until Monday.

Announcement of the party plans has brought a generous response, officers of the sponsoring groups say, both from Midland residents who want to buy tickets and from merchants who are donating prizes.

The growing list of prizes now includes an electric blanket from Barrow Furniture Company, an electric toaster from Kruger Jewelry, an alligator wallet from S&Q Clothiers, a wool blanket from Dunlap's, a sweater and scarf from the Fashion Salon, a brief case from Smith's Men's Store, a wool auto blanket from United, a purse from the Economy Shop, bath powder from Tull's Drug, a leather wallet from Franklin's, and a gold ash tray from Hughes Jewelry.

Proceeds of the party will be used to aid "Spec" DeVore, Midland youngster who recently was stricken with polio.

Teacher Shortage Is Acute In Texas

AUSTIN—Texas colleges and universities are training only a small portion as many teachers as there is a demand for in the state's public schools.

Superintendents found extreme difficulty in many instances in filling vacancies with college-trained teachers, the Texas State Teachers Association announced here Saturday after making a survey of 13 institutions in the state which train teachers.

Requests for teachers made to teachers colleges, denominational and other colleges for the present school year totaled 12,727. Only 1,068 placements were possible, according to Charles H. Tennyson, public relations director of the association.

"The teaching profession must, in some way, be made more attractive or our school systems will suffer even more than they now are," Tennyson said.

"It is quite likely members of the profession could help by 'selling' their students upon the desirability of teaching as a life work and of the opportunity to serve."

The Texas schools have a shortage of more than 11,000 qualified teachers this year. The greatest demand is in the grade schools.

DYNAFLOW

AGAIN and again we are asked, "What's so different about Dynaflow Drive*?"

Again and again we say: "Dynaflow is a completely new way of delivering power from engine to rear wheels.

"Spinning oil takes the place of the clutch. And low. And second. And high.

And every time they come back saying, "Why don't you tell us these things? Why, it's wonderful! It's marvelous! So smooth – so easy – so trigger-quick!

"Why don't you say it's out of this world?"

But it seems you've got to see for yourself – get the wonderful feel and freedom of Dynaflow – to realize that there just isn't anything quite like Dynaflow.

What's different about DYNAFLOW DRIVE?
To an efficient new pump (left above), Buick engineers have added a true turbine (right) and an ingenious new supercharging assembly (in hand) which produce a torque-boosting action in starting and accelerating. The result is the first device on any American passenger car which employs liquid to fill the function of both the clutch and the usual low, second and high gears. The clutch pedal is eliminated and a simple control gives you manual selection of power ranges and direction.

Women Around World Want More Independence, Foreign Visitors Tell Voting U. S. Sisters

NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK — Votes for women, the suffragette cry which was buried 28 years ago by the 19th amendment, rolls off feminine tongues again in the U. S.

This time the plea comes from women visitors to the U. S. from other lands. Here from 26 foreign countries are women who tell of their countrywomen's strong taste, whetted by a sampling while their men were at war, for political, social and economic independence.

Problems like these, as well as the more urgent need to rebuild home and family life and to elevate health and living standards, are up for study and discussion at a Y. W. C. A.-sponsored international Study Conference.

This round-the-world cry for social and economic independence was started by the women, their leaders say, when the manpower shortage catapulted the sheltered female into business and industry. Now, the girls are making as much trouble for their menfolk as U. S. suffragettes did years ago.

In Belgium, for example, Miss Nelly Huberti of Brussels says, "Women won the right to vote this year. Not willing to stop there, the ladies are proposing legislation which would give married women the same legal rights as their husbands enjoy — such as signing checks and transacting business deals, for example."

Better education is more important than suffrage to Lebanese women, says Y. W. representative Miss Selwa Zughaib. "We don't have the right to vote but we don't want it until we have a larger percentage of educated women. Getting an education is still too expensive for most women."

In Chile, however, where women can have a top-notch college education at low cost, the ladies are whooping it up for the ballot. Miss Alicia Marin of Santiago says organized women's groups are actively enlisting support of all women to go after the vote.

More important to the Chinese woman than the ballot, says Miss Christine Chen of Shanghai, is to find ways and means to prevent crushing inflation from wrecking homes. Toward that end, day nurseries are being organized where children of working mothers can be given the proper care. "We make intensive studies of nutrition to find low-cost foods to substitute for high-priced ones — soy bean milk instead of cow's milk, for example," says this Y. W. worker.

Raising the standard of living for the average family is the job ahead for the women of Siam, says their representative, Miss Kua Saligupta. She cites as constructive steps taken the organization of classes in modern methods of cooking, sewing and good housekeeping.

"In Japan, women are very happy that they have been given equal opportunities with men for work. Our problem now is to fit ourselves for more important jobs with professional training in universities," Miss Shizue Hikaru of Tokyo explains.

Miss Angel Kafavian of Istanbul cites the social welfare problem created by the rapid increase in the number of married working women, due to the swift rise of industry in Turkey. "Women like the social independence as well as the financial independence which working gives them. Home life is being affected; children of many mothers are left to shift for themselves. Day nurseries have been set up in some factories to care for the children. But mothers must be made to realize that their first responsibility is to the home and their children."

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON—

Congressman's Wife Writes European Travels Account

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Since the war more and more congressional wives are joining their husbands on overseas excursions.

Senator Tom Connally of Marlin and Rep. W. R. (Bob) Poage of Waco along with Senator Carl Hatch of New Mexico, were chosen the southwestern delegates to the Interparliamentary Union meeting in Rome. The wives of the Texas legislators went with them.

Mrs. Frances Cotton Poage, formerly of Eastland and one clerk of the Texas state senate finance committee, sat down at a typewriter September 13, in the American embassy in Rome and wrote back an account of their travels in Germany, France, Switzerland and elsewhere after arriving in Europe by boat the latter part of August.

Excerpts from the letter follow:

"Next morning we left (Frankfurt) by daylight, and drove thru the Rhine Castle country to the Dutch border. It was a beautiful day, and the Rhine was pretty, and all the castles were interesting, but when we got into Cologne, I was sick at my stomach at the ruins.

"It is the worst destroyed of all the German cities, they say, much, much worse than Berlin. There were thousands of people going in and out of the big cathedral, which was the only thing left standing, and you don't see any place for all the people to live, yet they are there somewhere. x x x

Nothing Else To See

"In Paris when I stood on the same balcony that Marie Antoinette and her children had stood on before they were taken away from Versailles to be executed, I felt that there was nothing else for me to see . . . but, in Rome, when you see the burial place of Peter and Paul, and stand in buildings more than 2,000 years old—and see the spot where Brutus stabbed Caesar—to say nothing of the Sistine Chapel, where the ceiling depicts the creation of man, —you realize that this is indeed the Old World, and that our country is sure new. x x x

"Lawrence Westbrook is over here on business, and is here often, it seems. We had dinner with him one night and his Rome representative who had been a prisoner of the English for four years,—a member of the old Roman aristocracy, incidentally,—and he sure gave the English heck, which made me wonder if they liked America any better . . . I think they all want what we have to give them, but my impression is that they don't care a hoot about us,—and even the Embassy staff tell you that they laugh at us behind our backs every time an American gives them a tip. We have all been warned that the hotels charge you about 22 per cent for service, and that we can either give tips or not, as we like. But, of course everybody does it.

"Next to the language, the money is the most difficult. It is big enough in size to paper your house, but amounts to so very little for its size. And, things are tremendously expensive, too. x x x

"It was wonderful to hear from you, and I hope the Texas heat has subsided by now . . . It is gonna be hard for us, after being cool everywhere,—except Italy . . .

"But, if I can just get back where I can talke to people, and get some clean clothes, I think I can take anything in the good old U. S. A. x x x I shall have to come home and study Roman history for six months in order to appreciate what I have seen."

Conductors Treasure Their Ticket Punches

AMARILLO —(AP)— What the branding iron is to the cowboy, the ticket punch is to the train conductor. Each leaves its indelible brand, as distinctive as a fingerprint.

And veteran conductors like Ira M Judd, Frank Cooper and Josh Kelly grow to love their shiny ticket perferators like a policeman loves his badge. They are employed by the Rock Island, Santa Fe and Fort Worth and Denver railroads respectively.

When they snip passengers' tickets, they actually affix their signatures to them. For the design of the punch is recorded in the office of the railroad. And each is different.

Such conductors treasure their punches. Frequently, when they retire, they request their punches as souvenirs. Often, punches are handed down from father to son.

During their many years with the three railroads serving this area, Judd, Cooper and Kelly have seen many improvements in railroads. But their ancient ticket punches continue to perform the same old job—restricting passengers to one ride per ticket.

Junior Class Elects Neil Stovall President

Named to serve with Stovall were R. S. Higgins, vice president; Betty Bennett, secretary; Bobby Free, treasurer; Anita Shankle, reporter; Peggy Ross, reporter; Beeky Bently, annual representative, and John Dale Kelly, business manager.

Selected to serve with Kelly on the business committee were Billie Corlile, Miss Shankle, Free and Alta Coggins.

Social Situations

SITUATION: You want to take a neighbor's child some place in your car.

WRONG WAY: Tell him to run home and ask his mother if he can go with you.

RIGHT WAY: Ask his mother yourself, before mentioning the matter to the child to avoid putting the mother in the place where she might have to disappoint the child.

Pipe Shortage Is Block To Vast Gas Network Expansion Program

By FRED J. ZUSY

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The natural gas industry, with a quarter-million miles of pipeline, is in the midst of its greatest expansion.

A shortage of steel pipe—pipe about 24 to 30 inches across—is the chief obstacle to linking even more scores of cities, some a thousand or more miles away, with the fields in the southwest that supply most of the gas.

Natural gas is not only a valued fuel, it is a chemical raw material out of which plastic, ammonia alcohol and other items can be made —including the carbon black which make the ink on this page.

It was not until a quarter of a century ago that developments in pipe making made it practical to carry the gas in metal tubes two-feet wide to cities up to 1,800 miles away.

Construction Program

In the 12 months ending last June 30 the Federal Power Commission authorized construction of 8,468 miles of line at an estimated cost of $519,000,000.

One of the largest was a 1,840-mile line from Texas to 132nd street in New York City through which the Trans-Continental Gas Pipe Line Company, Inc., proposes to supply 340,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily to utilities in New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

The year before the commission authorized 5,369 miles. James V. O'Connor, chief of the division of gas certificates, says he sees no stopping the expansion trend in the immediate future.

New Discoveries

The American Gas Association and the American Petroleum Institute estimated that as of the first year there were 166 trillion cubic feet.

If last year's rate of consumption —5.6 trillion cubic feet—continues, that would be enough for nearly 30 years.

Of course the use of natural gas has been increasing, but new sources are being located too. Last year 11 trillion cubic feet were added to our reserves.

Most of the gas is found in Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas and California.

Between 1928 and 1930 pipelines fingered out to Wichita, Denver, Chicago, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Detroit. Some went west to California.

The depression stopped the expansion. By 1937 it was on again. War interfered. The end of the war saw the start of today's boom.

Why do so many people want natural gas?

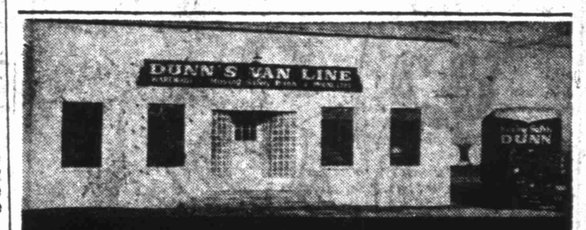

For one thing it's not only cheaper than coal or oil now in most places, but it's a good deal cheaper than manufactured gas.

In spite of all the publicity given natural gas and oil, they comprise only about one per cent of heating fuels in the country. Ninety-nine per cent of our reserves is in the form of coal.

Ten years ago gas sold in Texas for as low as 11 1/2 cents a thousand cubic feet. Now up to 81/2 cents is offered. It may go higher.

Governor Proclaims NEPH Week

Gov. Beauford H. Jester signs a proclamation calling for Texans to endorse National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week, which has been designated by Congress as October 3-9. A Midland committee consisting of Commanders Irby Dyer of the VFW, Q. M. Shelton of the American Legion, and Ben Stanley of the DAV will work with the office of the Texas Employment Commission here in observing the period.

The oil industry is trying to add ...faster than you can subtract

1. Scientists study the tiny shells and other fossils brought up by drillers from the depths of the wells which they are drilling. A close study of these fossils tells them the age of rocks in which the bit is drilling, and enables them to suggest to production men how close they are to possible oil-bearing rocks.

So far we've kept up with you. You're subtracting oil from available supplies at the rate of two billion barrels a year, and the industry is supplying your demand. Never before have you needed as much oil as you're asking for today—for fuel, for industry, for transportation. And never before has the oil industry supplied you with so much oil.

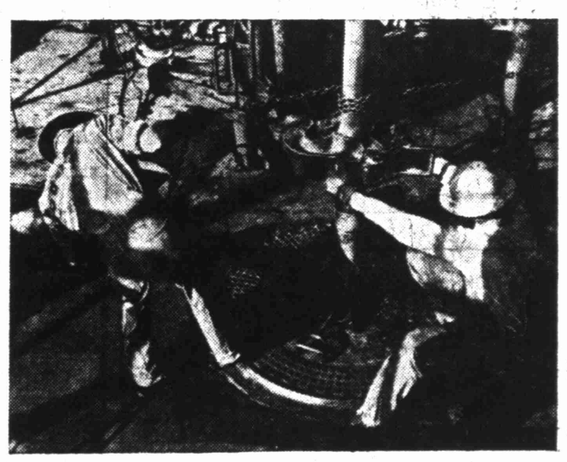

To continue to supply you, the oil industry probably will drill 40,000 wells in 1948. Of this number, about 7,000 will be wildcat wells, drilled in an effort to find more oil for your increasing needs. Of these wildcats, about 85% probably will be dry holes; the others will discover new sources of oil production, will add to the oil you're subtracting in larger quantities every day.

Only an efficient industry, using every possible scientific advantage, could so well meet the challenge of today's record demand for oil. The oil industry is doing everything that possibly can be done to add oil faster than you can subtract it; everything that can be done to find more oil, produce more oil, transport more oil, refine more oil.

You can help this effort by making your personal demands for petroleum products reasonable and by cooperating with programs designed to conserve oil products.

2. Physicists devised this complex apparatus. It duplicates, for scientific purposes, the conditions in the oil-bearing rocks of a developed oil field. From a study of these, the engineers can tell approximately how much oil can be produced, how rapidly it should be produced to secure the maximum amount of oil, even how close the wells should be to each other.

3. To find oil, you have to drill a well. In the first six months of 1948, Humble drilled 59 exploratory wells to discover 17 new producing areas. Even more exploratory wells will be drilled in the last half of this year, including several on submerged lands in the Gulf of Mexico.

Girl Scouts To Help Children's Service League

Further assistance from Midland Girl Scouts was volunteered to the Child Service League in its meeting Friday afternoon, when members sorted clothing donated for the use of school children.

The Girl Scouts already had volunteered to call for clothing which Midland residents wish to contribute, and it was announced Friday they also will mend the garments which need repair.

Need for more clothing, especially dresses for girls from six to eight years of age and trousers for boys from six to ten, was reported by the league members. Anyone who will donate wearable clothing suitable for school children, and who wishes a Girl Scout to call for it, is asked to notify Mrs. Robert Payne at telephone No. 2097-W.

Committee Named

After sorting clothing at the league work room, members went to the home of Mrs. C. H. Ervin, 611 North Loraine Street, for a business meeting. Mrs. Vaughn Maley, president, appointed Mrs. W. A. Waldschmidt, Mrs. W. T. Schneider, Mrs. Cooper Hyde, Mrs. T. S. Jones, Mrs. John M. Hills, Mrs. Alan Leeper, and Mrs. Ralph Fitting as a committee to draft a new constitution and by-laws to fit the expanded activities of the league.

Mrs. Lee Flood will be hostess to the league at its next meeting, October 8.

Mrs. John Casebeer of Fort Stockton was a guest, and members present in addition to those named on the committee were Mrs. Walter Collins, Mrs. Robert Fitting, Mrs. Robert Dewey, Mrs. L. S. Page, and Mrs. H. L. Beckmann.

Mrs. Frederick said that the final contract is seven spades, with South the declarer, and West opens the king of clubs. Before reading my solution, I suggest that you lay the cards out and go to work on the problem yourself.

On the opening lead of the king of clubs you play the four of diamonds from dummy, and win the trick in your hand with the ace of clubs. You cannot try to cash the ace of hearts, or it will be ruffed, so you lead the deuce of spades and win it in dummy with the jack.

Then trump the six of diamonds with the three of spades, and lead the five of spades to dummy's queen. Trump the jack of diamonds with the seven of spades, lead the ten of spades to dummy's king, cash the ace of spades and discard the ace of hearts from your hand. Then cash the ace of diamonds and discard the king of hearts.

Now you have picked up all of West's trumps, and all five of dummy's hearts are good.

THEY KEPT THE FISH IN THE BEDROOM

SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA — (AP) — An Australian farming family returning to their home at Lismore (New South Wales, Australia) after recent heavy floods found their dinner flapping around in a puddle in the best bedroom. Two seven-pound mullet had swum in with the flood waters and been trapped. After returning, the family had to kill 42 "squatting" snakes. On a third farm, the owner and his two sons killed 122 snakes in the house and its immediate neighborhood.

By the time of the Declaration of Independence, the American colonies already had 10 colleges, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

TEXAS TODAY—

Texans Will Have To Talk Louder, Faster Should Alaska Become State

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
Associated Press Staff

Should Alaska boom as the 49th star in the nation's flag, Texas boosters will have to talk faster and louder.

One fifth as large as the United States, it would be the biggest state. And 100,000 Alaskans are rarin' to sell it the best.

They beam fondly on the bar-rowded streets of their isolated frontier towns; they gasp with delight at their magnicident scenery; they revel in the odiferous operations of their great canneries and the rich output of their gold mines.

They are aggressive, sturdy, confident and happy with their lot. They catch fish wherever they drop a line and when they are big enough to lift a gun and pull a trigger they get their limit in deer. They shrug off the idea of isolation and go by air. The per capita use of planes in Alaska is 70 times that of the states. Many natives to whom planes are an old story have never seen an automobile.

Some of the best Alaska boosters have had previous training in Texas. Gene and Ray Reagan, who operate a frozen food plant at Ketchikan, used to live in Corpus Christi.

"A man really lives when he lives in Alaska," said Gene. "It's the land of opportunity and were I a young man again I could make a million here."

Ketchikan, 662 miles north of Seattle, is built on the southwestern shore of Revillagigedo Island in southeastern Alaska. Incorporated in 1900, it now has a population of 6,000 and is the salmon canning capital of the world. It is situated on the famed inside passage, an intricate system of narrow, protected waterways hundreds of miles in length and flanked with rugged mountains and rocky cliffs that rise steeply from the water's edge.

Ketchikan nestles on evergreen hillsides, shadowed by snow-capped peaks a setting similar to other coastal towns such as Juneau, Valdez and Seward. Juneau and Ketchikan are among the most modern of Alaskan cities, boasting paved streets, movies and comfortable hotels.

Southeastern Alaska is warmed by the Japanese Current. It seldom freezes at Ketchikan and the summers are pleasantly cool. But how it does rain—150 inches per year and more.

"It doesn't bother us," Gene Reagan smiled. "We all have raincoats."

What about wages?

"Very little higher than they are in the states," Reagan said. "Considering the prices, they should be much higher."

•••

Prices are high, Alaskans complain, because of high freight charges from the United States. Only American ships are allowed, by law, to haul Alaskan freight.

Eugene Lanier, mayor of Seward, had just bought a new Packard, a light model. By the time it reached Alaska (though he bought it at list price) it cost him almost $4,000.

"It would have been cheaper," said Lanier, "to ship it to Australia. What Alaska needs most is foreign steamship competition. The American monopoly is holding us back."

Alaska raises only two per cent of its own food and the imported groceries come high. Some items from a small cafe menu in Seward: boiled short ribs, $1.45; chili and beans, .85; tuna fish salad, $1.50; milk per glass, .25; sliced tomatoes, $1; sliced cucumber, $1; cottage cheese, $1.

At Valdes, on the coast north of Seward, we watched a ship unload canteloupes. The canteloupes were in poor shape and small. A couple of weeks before we had bought larger and finer specimens on the town square at Cameron, Texas, four for 25 cents.

The canteloupes from the ship were hurried to a grocery store where customers were waiting. We watched an Indian trapper buy two of them. They were overripe and had brown soft spots.

"Dollar and a half for the two," he said.

We told him you could buy them four for a quarter in Texas.

"Where is that?" he asked.

•••

Land of opportunity?

"Not for heavy industry," said Charles Foster, salesmanager for a big Madison, Wisc., tool company.

Land of opportunity?

"Perhaps the land of opportunity for trapping, mining, and the fish canning industry," said Frank F. Stevens, Waco, Texas, lumberman on a northern vacation, "and Alaskan trees are fine for newsprint. The scenery is great and the hunting and fishing would be hard to beat. But the opportunities certainly are limited. I wouldn't advise young Texans to trade Texas for Alaska."

L. J. Terry, formerly of Lubbock and Wichita Falls, made the trade a year ago. He runs a shoe repair shop in Seward. Mrs. Terry is still in Wichita Falls and plans to join him soon.

"I think its swell up here," said Terry. "I moved because I couldn't stand the cold Wichita Falls climate. It went to 18 below zero one Winter I spent there. Up here it only gets about three below."

Personnel Conference Scheduled At Austin

AUSTIN—The tenth annual meeting of the Texas Personnel Conference, designed to serve Texans in business, industry, education and government, is scheduled at the University of Texas November 4 and 5.

A special feature will be a Taft-Hartley Act panel discussion.

There are 31,170,000 telephones serving the 140,000,000 residents of the United States.

SP's Sunset Limited Orders New Trains

PHILADELPHIA—A new 90-car fleet of crack Southern Pacific Line "Sunset Limited" passenger trains, running in daily service between New Orleans and Los Angeles, will be equipped with anti-friction journal bearings, it was announced here.

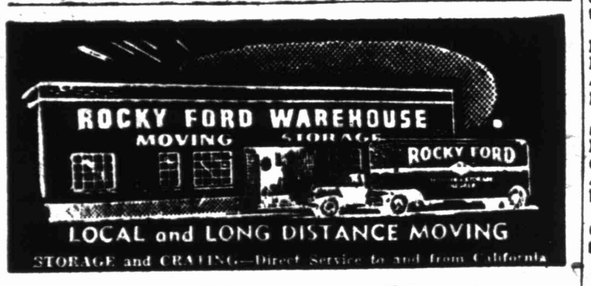

Richard H. DeMott, vice president of SKF Industries, Inc., announced receipt of the order which he described as one of the largest to be placed for a single fleet of mainline trains since the end of the war. The fleet will consist of five completely new trains, each having 15 stainless steel cars.

BACK FROM EASTERN TRIP

Mrs. Louis C. Ayres has returned from a vacation trip to Pennsylvania. She joined her daughter, Mrs. D. O. Crookham, and Mr. Crookham at Austin and they visited his parents in Aliquippa, Pa. On a trip to Pittsburgh they saw the current stage success, "A Streetcar Named Desire."

ANOTHER URGENT APPEAL TO MIDLAND CITIZENS . . .

FELLOW CITIZENS:

The Board of Education and the Administrative Staff of the Midland Public Schools wish to indicate their full support of the appeal recently made by the City Council for assistance in reducing traffic accidents in Midland. We urge every organization and every citizen to join in a concerted effort to reduce these accidents that too often involve our young people; our boys and girls of school age.

Throughout our schools we seek to stress safety, and the importance of conforming with safe practices and the rules and regulations designed to prevent accidents. We want to support the program of the City Council in every way possible. We are, of course, especially interested in the proper training of the young people in citizenship, and their responsibility as citizens to help secure the compliance of all to the few simple regulations promulgated by the Council for our mutual safety and well being.

The appeal of the City Council pointed out the only logical approach to our problem; that is, self-government on an individual basis. In regard to our young people we hope that every parent will realize their responsibilities in training their children to drive carefully and show proper courtesy to all others who must use our streets and highways. Your schools can and will help, but cannot take over all the responsibilities that are properly the duty of parents and the home.

Please help us teach our boys and girls the importance of driving sanely at all times.
