Wichita Attorney Sues Gas Company For Charging Over 50-Cent Rate

HARRIS ASKS $4.55 REFUND IN PETITION

50-Cent Rate Fixed by City Is Legal, Attorney Says in Plea

PREVIOUS VICTORY

Wichitan Seeks to Block 75-Cent Charge in Second Suit

Suit was filed against the Municipal Gas company Tuesday afternoon by Judge Harvey Harris in justice court of Judge O. L. Gibbs for $4.55 representing an alleged overcharge on consumption of gas at the plaintiff's residence during the period of Dec. 4 to Jan. 5, inclusive.

Present Rate Illegal, He Says

The petition filed by the plaintiff pleads that the bill rendered for the period named is based upon a rate of 75 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of gas, and that it should be computed upon a rate of 50 per 1,000 cubic feet in compliance with city ordinance No. 1047, passed by the city council last summer to become effective Oct. 1.

Judge Harris' pleading holds that the city's ordinance, reducing the gas rate from 75 to 50 cents, is valid and legal, and should be binding upon the defendant company. The $4.55 sought by the plaintiff in his suit represents the differential of 25 cents per 1,000 cubic feet upon his reported consumption between Dec. 4 and Jan. 5.

The suit filed Tuesday will be tried early in February before Judge Gibbs, it was indicated. It is the second brought against the Municipal Gas company during the past 60 days.

Wins Overcharge Suit

Judge Harris brought suit on Nov. 30 for the recovery of $3, alleged overcharge on consumption at his residence from about Oct. 5 to Nov. 6. In that action, he pleaded before a jury that the amount of gas for which he was billed could not have been consumed with the few heating units then in use at his home. He also argued that the family was absent during much of the period in question.

The jury awarded Judge Harris a judgment of $2.55 in the first action. The judgment recently was paid by the defendant company. The suit and its result received much attention both from the public and the press throughout the country.

Trial of Mayor For Vote Fraud Is Transferred

BEAUMONT, Texas, Jan. 12. (AP)—A change of venue was made today in the case of Mayor J. P. Logan, indicted on 28 counts charging him with paying poll taxes for others in a recent Port Arthur city election.

Judge R. L. Murray, on his own motion, transferred the case to Liberty county for trial. County Attorney Marvin Scurlock said he would make an attempt to have the trial set for the February term of court.

Defense attorneys devoted most of yesterday's hearing to the presentation of testimony from witnesses who expressed their belief Mayor Logan would not receive a fair trial in this county.

L. L. Abshire, one of the witnesses, testified to hearing an attempted political trade between Port Arthur factions whereby the prosecution of Logan would be dropped if the mayor and two commissioners would resign.

Last Services Held For Mrs. Sarah Berry

Final tribute was paid Mrs. Sarah Berry, 70, in funeral services held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. T. Roark, at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Rev. A. C. Turner of the South Side Baptist church, assisted by Rev. H. C. Hoesch, pastor of the First Evangelical church, officiated. Burial was in Riverside cemetery under the direction of Hines mortuary.

Mrs. Berry, a resident of Wichita Falls for the last 12 years, died Monday morning at the home of Mrs. Roark. Besides her daughter, she is survived by six grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Missing Texas Scientist Found in Hills

Suffering from exposure and an extreme nervous condition brought on by overwork in his laboratory, Dr. H. J. Muller, world-renowned University of Texas scientist was found Tuesday in the hills near Austin. He had disappeared Sunday morning.

Professor Found Suffering From Exposure in Hills Near Austin

AUSTIN, Jan. 12. (AP)—Dr. Hermann Joseph Muller, noted scientist and professor of zoology in the University of Texas, missing from his home for more than 48 hours, was found today in the hilly section west of Austin, suffering from exposure.

The professor, for whom a search was instituted yesterday when Mrs. Muller reported he had not been seen since Sunday at breakfast, was lying in a clump of weeds when two members of the governor's guards, headquarters troop of the 124th Texas cavalry, T. N. G., came upon him.

Dr. Muller's face and body bore scratches, and he was unable to speak coherently. At a hospital, physicians said he had suffered from the exposure of two nights and two days in the open, having apparently become lost and tramped aimlessly over the rocks along the Colorado river.

Dr. Muller was exposed to torrential rains which fell intermittently Sunday night and yesterday. Almost freezing temperatures also obtained during the time.

Found by Student

Will Nichol of Dallas and Dick Bruce of Austin, university students, members of the governor's guard, came upon the missing doctor while they, other members of the military organization and a citizens' posse under leadership of Sheriff Coley White, were conducting a systematic search for him.

After treatment Dr. Muller was partially aroused from a comatose condition, but he was unable to recall his movements since he left his home for the rough country where he usually found surcease from his laboratory experiments.

Attending physicians gave a theory that Dr. Muller overworked, had become lost in the underbrush during his tramp to the country and had wandered until exhausted and benumbed by exposure. He was approximately five miles from Austin.

Dr. Muller was awarded in 1928 a prize offered by the American Association for the Advance of Science annually for the most noteworthy achievement of the year. He has won national attention for his study and experiments in genetics.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (AP)—The senate tonight confirmed the nomination of Robert J. McMillan as United States judge for Western Texas.

ANNUAL BANK MEETINGS HELD

Financial Institutions Make Few Changes

Annual stockholders meetings and elections of the three Wichita Falls banks Tuesday afternoon brought only one change in the official personnel. Joseph A. Kell was added to the list of directors of the City National bank. Otherwise, all three institutions will go on in 1932 with the same officers and directors who served during the past year, both in the banks proper and in the affiliated finance companies.

The State Trust company election, also held Tuesday, put in V. A. Huff as director to take the place of Alvin Gardner now of Dallas. Otherwise the official roster is unchanged.

Kell Heads City National

In the City National bank, Frank Kell remains chairman of the board; J. T. Harrell, president; W. L. Robertson, vice president; C. E. Basham, vice president; Oral Jones, vice president and cashier; W. S. Abbot, assistant cashier and trust

Firestone Resigns as Head of Rubber Company

AKRON, Ohio, Jan. 12. (INS)—Harvey S. Firestone Sr., multimillionaire rubber magnate, this afternoon relinquished the presidency of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company which he founded and was elected chairman of the board of directors, a position which was created for him, at his request.

Succeeding Firestone as president will be J. W. Thomas, an employe of the company since 1908. Russell A. Firestone, 30-year-old son of the rubber manufacturer, was named a director. Other officers were re-elected.

Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes Resigns From U. S. Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (UP)—Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, America's foremost defender of liberty, retired from the supreme court today.

A few months ago he spoke of death plucking at his ear.

Today the 90-year-old jurist acknowledged his infirmities and sent a letter of resignation to President Hoover, closing what is perhaps the most remarkable public career of the United States judiciary.

The president accepted the resignation, which takes from public life the last of the civil war veterans, in a letter of tribute for his 70 years of public service. "I know of no American retiring from public service with such a sense of affection and devotion of the whole people," Mr. Hoover wrote.

Holmes' action leaves a divided court of eight justices, four of them known as Conservatives and four, including Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, Louis D. Brandeis, Harlan Fiske Stone, and Owen J. Roberts, constituting the new so-called Liberal majority which has created new and important laws in the last two years. The president is expected to name a new associate justice soon, as the court is in the middle of a busy session.

The only intimation that Holmes was on the verge of surrendering to the infirmities which he has fought for years came in the supreme court chamber yesterday. Despite an illness from lumbago from which he has been suffering,

FARRELL WILL RESIGN POST AS STEEL HEAD

Chief of World's Largest Corporation Will Quit In April

WANTS YOUNG MEN

President of U. S. Steel Has Been in Service For 50 Years

NEW YORK, Jan. 12. (UP)—James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, announced tonight that he was resigning as chief executive of the world's largest corporation, effective April 18.

Farrell announced that he notified the board of directors of his intention to resign and that the board had agreed.

"No successor has been appointed as yet," Farrell said.

His resignation will terminate 21 years as president of United States Steel. He was appointed president on Jan. 11, 1911, by the late J. P. Morgan.

His long service and age of 69 years were cited by Farrell in announcing his retirement.

Urges Young Men

"I firmly believe that the time has now arrived for my successor to be appointed in order to establish the management upon a more permanent foundation composed of younger men," Farrell said.

Farrell called reporters to his Fifth avenue home shortly before midnight. He had requested their presence by telephone, merely saying that he had a statement to give out. He was in evening clothes and his statement was in long hand. It had been written by James A. Jr., at his father's dictation.

Cites Service

The statement said:

"On April 1, I shall have been in the service of the United States Steel corporation and its predecessor companies for upwards of 50 years. For more than 21 years I have been president of the corporation, prior to which eight years I was president of United States Steel Products company. I firmly believe that the time has now arrived for my successor to be appointed in order to establish the management upon a more permanent foundation composed of younger men. I have therefore requested the board of directors to relieve me of my duties as president and they have consented to do so.

"My retirement as president will take place at the time of the annual meeting April 18. I have been asked to remain a member of the board of directors and have assured the board I shall be pleased to do so."

Adams Orders Navy To Release Murder Suspects To Civil Court

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (AP)—Secretary Adams today authorized Rear Admiral Stirling to surrender the Americans held in Honolulu on murder charges upon demand of civilian authorities.

HONOLULU, Jan. 12. (AP)—Conferees of the territorial senate and house of representatives today recommended that Gov. Lawrence M. Judd call a special session of the legislature to "act in matters brought to attention" of the lawmakers. A change in the Honolulu police system is expected to be considered if a special session is called.

ADMIRAL STIRLING REQUESTS SURRENDER

HONOLULU, Jan. 12. (AP)—Disclosure was made today that Rear Admiral Yates Stirling had requested authority yesterday from Secretary of the Navy Adams to surrender Lieut. Thomas H. Massie and two enlisted men to the circuit court here for trial on murder charges at the demand of the judge and that the navy secretary had not replied.

Together with Mrs. Granville Fortescue, society woman, Massie and the enlisted men, E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, are held in custody of naval officers at Pearl Harbor on charges of the sensational murder last Friday of Joseph Kahahawai, young Hawaiian accused of attacking Mrs. Massie.

Civil-Naval Agreement

When the accused persons were given into naval custody for safe keeping after being charged by city and county prosecutors with the slaying, it was announced Territorial Circuit Judge Christy and Rear Admiral Stirling had entered into an agreement whereby they would be produced in court on demand.

Enlisted men from nearby army and navy posts visited the city on leave last night for the first time since last Friday's sensational abduction and killing of Joseph Kahahawaiki.

No disturbances were reported. Shore patrols of military and naval police cooperated with civilian officers to insure order. Members of the navy and army police forces were assigned to each police patrol car. Most of the soldiers taking in the city were dressed in civilian clothes.

Session Planned

While United States Attorney General Mitchell took steps to carry out an investigation of the situation as ordered by the senate at Washington, a special territorial legislative committee went ahead with plans for an extra session of the law making body to deal with the matter.

Should a special session be called, it is expected legislation changing the office of the chief of police of Honolulu from an elective to an appointive position will be considered.

HONOLULU DRAWS OFFICIAL GAZES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (AP)—Crime-stirred Honolulu today drew the searching gazes of officials in every branch of government.

President Hoover at his regular cabinet meeting brought up the problem growing out of a reported series of attacks upon white women.

Then Attorney General Mitchell announced he would investigate under a senate mandate.

Simultaneously on capital hill criticism rang against procedure in the latest incident in the territory known over the world as the "Paradise of the Pacific."

A house committee agreed the territorial judge's charge to the jury that tried five men for attacking Mrs. Thomas H. Massie in Honolulu seemed a "thinly veiled instruction to acquit."

It was the murder of this accused man followed by the arrest of Mrs. Massie's mother, her husband and two other navy men, that brought the situation to a climax.

A proposal for a separate senate investigation made by Senator McKeller of Tennessee, is pending in the senate with early action expected.

The justice department investigation was begun with assistants to Mitchell perusing voluminous reports already available, including one made public today by the navy department.

The attorney general said "no doubt" he would send someone from Washington to make direct inquiry.

Air Squadron Forced Down by Weather

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 12. (AP)—Twenty attack planes of the third attack group on their way to their home station at Fort Crockett, Galveston, from the Miami air races, were forced to turn back and land at Menefee field shortly after noon today to await better weather.

The planes had passed over New Orleans but high winds and rain drove them down. They expect to leave tomorrow for Galveston.

Excavators Remove Bones From Cellar of Cincinnati Child-Slayer

CINCINNATI, Jan. 12. (AP)—Special investigators today dug up bones from the earthen floor of the tenement house cellar where last month 6-year-old Marian McLean was attacked and left to die by Charles Bischoff, 45, a cobbler.

The gruesome find was turned over to Sheriff Asa V. Butterfield, who left for Cleveland where he will submit them to experts to determine if they are human.

County Prosecutor R. N. Gorman, who ordered the excavation in Bischoff's cellar, said the discovery strengthened his belief the shoemaker may be responsible for the disappearance of two children about 12 years ago.

The bones were found less than an hour after the grand jury indicted Bischoff for first degree murder on two counts, both of which are punishable by death sentences. Bischoff confessed yesterday.

Only $250 Needed To Fill Lunch Fund

Public Subscriptions to Close in Two Days—Send In Your Gift; Total Reaches $1,129.50

Wichita Falls had placed nearly enough money in its school lunch fund Tuesday night to assure a warm luncheon for every needy child until the end of the school term.

After a careful survey by school officials of present and possible future needs, it was estimated that $250 more will provide for all. A little more than that amount may be necessary, or perhaps less, it was stated, but it was believed any additional money might be secured later by a brief appeal. The funds are being disbursed only after careful investigation by P.-T. A. leaders and school officials. Lester Jones at the Wichita State bank is acting as treasurer of the fund.

Subscriptions Close Thursday

In view of the generous response received so far in the public appeal for funds, The Record News and Daily Times will close the public subscriptions at the end of the day Thursday. It is hoped that the $250 additional believed needed will be secured, and those who wish to make a contribution to help needy and deserving children are asked to send in their contributions at once. Final acknowledgment of subscriptions and statement of the amount collected will be made in Friday's paper. These newspapers will appreciate it if their readers will make their gifts within the next two days.

The fund took another substantial climb Tuesday, $131 being received during the day to bring the total collected to $1,129.50. Gifts included a $50 contribution from Mack Taylor and $50 from a Wichita Falls man who asked that his name be withheld. Among other contributions to the fund were $10 gifts from Zaidee V. Smith and the New Century Junior club, and $5 from the Allied Printing Trades council.

Five Cents Buys Luncheon

Five cents will buy a warm luncheon for some child who otherwise would go without food for from eight to 12 hours. Through the generosity of the Lehrack-Ferguson Dairy Products company, a bottle of milk is given each child with his luncheon. Contributions may be sent to The Record News and Daily Times, or handed to Mr. Jones at the Wichita State bank.

The following contributions were received Tuesday:

Mack Taylor	$ 50.00

LAVAL AND HIS CABINET QUIT

Entire French Ministry Tenders Resignation

PARIS, Jan. 12. (AP)—Premier Perre Laval took all his ministers to Elysee palace this evening and presented their collective resignation to President Doumer. He had been in office 10 days short of a year.

The ministry decided to resign after the radical Socialist group of the chamber of deputies, numbering 100, had refused the premier's offer to make their leader, Edouard Herriot, the successor to Aristide Briand as foreign minister, and to give the group as a whole representation in a new government according to its numerical importance.

The cabinet crisis came to a head as the chamber of deputies convened for its first session in 1932. A demonstration by Communists, in the course of which 2,800 persons were arrested outside the chamber, marked the resumption of legislative activity.

The demonstrators were taken to police stations where their papers were examined and those provided with proper documents were released. A number of foreigners whose right to stay in France was considered doubtful were held for court.

Premier Laval had hoped that in inviting the radical Socialists into his government he might enlarge the representation of the political parties and form a new cabinet more widely reflective of all shades of opinion.

usual nomination committee report and hailed into office by the unanimous insistence of the board.

J. S. Hargett was elected first vice president; Jack Barnard, second vice president, and Oral Jones, treasurer.

John Boswell was re-elected active vice president, manager and secretary for the year to come.

Thirteen members of the board and ex-officio leaders of the organization assembled at the Wichita club for the dinner which marked the breaking up of the old official roster and the installation of the new. J. L. Jackson Jr., retiring president, presided until Mr. Kelly was hailed into the chair.

The new president was authorized to appoint the 20 standing committees which form the basis of the organization's work and the new year's program was under way.

Active Leader

Mr. Kelly has been one of the most active and significant leaders in Wichita Falls civic affairs since he came here from Dallas 13 years ago. A native Texan, but a sojourner in California and other places before he settled in Wichita Falls, Mr. Kelly had been associated with mining, with the Texas-Pacific railroad and with the moving picture industry. He came here from Dallas in 1919 as office manager for the electric company.

Immediately he took his place in the life of the community, assuming leadership in every project for the welfare of the section and giving generously of his time and work in behalf of civic organizations and developmental movements.

YOUNG LAWYERS GIVEN ADVICE

Chief Justice Lester Talks to New Barristers

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 12. (UP)—Fifty-three young attorneys were urged today to become "ambassadors of justice" by Chief Justice E. F. Lester of the state supreme court.

Justice Lester administered the oath of the state bar of Oklahoma to the successful applicants in the supreme court room. There were three absentees of the 56 who passed the examination from a class of 79.

"Follow the ethics of your profession and look back in later years to an honorable life," Justice Lester said. "You should make every effort to promote the welfare of society."

He scored attorneys who appeal cases merely to delay.

"I know attorneys who appeal cases from lower courts when they have no defense. Their appeals are merely to delay the true end of justice."

Judge James I. Phelps, former supreme court justice, moved admission of the class to the bar. As A. W. Rigsby, bar secretary, called their names the new attorneys filed within the rail to take the oath.

While in the penitentiary, Brock became deeply interested in prison welfare work.

OLIVER HOLMES LEAVES BENCH

Aged Jurist Ends Long Period of Service

Holmes volunteered to come to court to make up the quorum of six members necessary for it to transact business. Chief Justice Hughes had to assist him up the low, carpeted steps of the court's dais.

"I'm not coming to work tomorrow," was all he said to court attaches, who never dreamed that this meant his final relinquishment of the legal career which has been his entire life.

But when the court convened at noon today, Holmes remained in his old-fashioned brick house at 1720 Eye street, and just as the court met, a White House attache gave out two letters which marked the end of "Mr. Justice Holmes,"—the fighting Holmes who termed the supreme court a "storm-center," who once expressed an opinion that the nation would go on even if the court had not the power to declare laws of congress unconstitutional, and who fought to the very end of his physical power, saying:

"The work never is done while the power to work remains."

Son of Author

Holmes, the son of the famous author of "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table," has unique records as the oldest man ever to sit on the supreme court bench, and 29 years of continuous service on state and federal supreme courts. A native of Boston, he was thrice wounded in the civil war, and after a period of legal research and practice he was named to the Massachusetts supreme judicial bench in 1882. In the 1899 he was made state chief justice, and three years later, Trust-Busting Theodore Roosevelt selected him as the independent fearless legalist for a federal supreme court vacancy.

He was fearless, to the point where he ruled against Roosevelt's own ideas in the Northern Securities case, thereby causing a break with the president which took years to heal. In his 29 years on the highest federal court, Holmes has participated in more than one-third of the total number of legal cases handled in the court's 142 years.

Holmes' Philosophy

His philosophy of life and death was perhaps best expressed in a short radio speech on his last birthday. He said:

"To express one's feelings as the end draws near is too intimate a task. But I may mention one thought that comes to me as a listener in. The riders in a race do not stop short when they reach the goal. There is a little finishing canter before coming to a standstill. There is time to hear the kind voices of friends and to say to oneself; the work is done. But just as one says that, the answer comes: The race is over, but the work never is done while the power to work remains. The canter that brings you to a standstill need not be only coming to rest. It cannot be, while you still live. For to live is to function. That is all there is to living.

"And so I end with a line from a Latin poet who uttered the message more than 1,500 years ago:

"'Death plucks my ear and says' 'live, I am coming.'"

His long life is ascribed partly to his remarkably strong physique, to the care which his late wife took of him, and once by Holmes himself to the fact that he never took exercise.

Negro's Trial for Murder Set Jan. 25

Harrison Derouen, negro, will go on trial Jan. 25 for the alleged murder of his mother-in-law, Martha Simmons, before Judge Allan D. Montgomery in the 30th district court, it was announced Tuesday.

The negro woman was found on Bonner street near midnight on Dec. 27, unconscious and with two wounds on the head. She lay near a house which she owned, and in which she had been visiting her married daughter, wife of the defendant, until shortly before the attack was made.

Harry Bunnenberg and H. W. Fillmore were appointed as attorneys for the defense. A special venire of 75 men was drawn for the trial.

Youth Fined $25 in Stabbing of Girl

Four convictions on misdemeanor charges were obtained in the county court at law Tuesday before Judge Irvin J. Vogel by the state.

A youth charged with having stabbed a girl, inflicting only slight injuries, was fined $25 and costs by the court on a charge of aggravated assault.

Another defendant, charged with drunkenness, was convicted by a jury and fined $1 and costs. Two men, entering pleas of guilty to charges of swindling by check, were sentenced to 30 days each in the Wichita county jail.

Taking of testimony was completed Tuesday afternoon in the trial of a woman charged with vagrancy. The case will be given to tthe jury Wednesday morning.

'Dead Man' Appears in Court To Refute Tom Heflin's Charge

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 12.(AP)—A "dead man" came back today to testify for Senator John H. Bankhead, whose election in 1930 is contested by his predecessor, J. Thomas Heflin.

A Heflin witness testified at hearings conducted by a commissioner for the senate elections subcommittee last week that the name of John W. Moore appeared on an absentee ballot in the election, although he had been dead some time.

Mr. Moore came forth in the flesh at the opening of Bankhead's rebuttal testimony this morning and proclaimed he is "very much alive."

He said he knew of no other resident of Shelby county with the same name.

Testimony that he died four years ago was given by Thomas W. Renhart, a relative.

Friberg News

Special to The Record News.

FRIBERG, Texas, Jan. 13.—Mrs. C. A. Paulson was a charming hostess to the members of the Methodist Ladies Aid society at her home Thursday afternoon. Mrs. J. O. Lamb, vice president, conducted the meeting in the absence of the president, bringing the group to order with the song, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." Mrs. Jennie Jenne lead in prayer and Mrs. Lamb read the Scripture lesson.

It was voted to hold a special meeting of the society for the discussion of financial plans on Thursday afternoon, Jan. 14, at the Ben Greer home.

Following the business session, Mrs. Jennie Jenne, on behalf of the members, presented the pastor's wife, Mrs. A. F. Hensel, with a beautiful hand-made quilt, the blocks of which were made by each member. Mrs. Hensel expressed her thanks very graciously. At the close of the afternoon the hostess served a refreshment plate to the following: Mesdames J. O. Lamb, Ben Greer, Nellie B. Stewart, Fred Greer, C. A. Andree, Elmer Byman, Jennie Jenne, Charles W. Hullend, A. F. Hensel and Miss Tootsie Paulson; Rev. A. F. Hensel, Harold Hensel and the hostess, Mesdames C. A. Paulson.

The Parent-Teacher association held its regular monthly meeting in the school auditorium on last Friday evening. The meeting had been postponed from the week before because of the new year holiday. Mrs. A. F. Hensel, president, presided during the session when it was voted to include the spring clinic for school children in this year's plans as usual. It was also voted to help the Boy Scouts secure a new charter for that organization, on the expiration of the present charter in February by holding a benefit entertainment at an early date. The P.-T. A. has sponsored the Boy Scout movement in the community since their organization two years ago. There were 11 members present at the meeting Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lovell and family moved from this community during the past week to a farm near Iowa Park, where they will make their home. Mr. and Mrs. Lovell were among the early settlers in this community, having lived on this farm for the past 40 years. Recently a group of their old friends and relatives surprised them at their home during the evening.

Fire caused by a mouse chewing matches left in the pocket of a sweater that was hanging on the wall at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Greer Saturday evening was prevented from doing serious damage by being discovered just in the nick of time. The sweater had been completely destroyed when the occupants of the house were attracted by the flames.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Mount and small sons of Wichita Falls were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bishop and family Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Ethel Bryan is much improved following a week's illness.

president of the Rotary club, a director in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, member of the executive board and publicity chairman for the Wichita Valley Development association.

One of his outstanding services to Wichita Falls came in 1928-29 when he headed the Community chest over a two-year period. In 1927 he was advertising chairman for the chest organization.

For his personal service in 1929, Mr. Kelly was awarded the Advertising club's cup as one of the two most useful citizens during that year. The award, made in January, 1930, inaugurated the custom of recognition for community service. Frank Kell received the other of the two original cups.

A cold does 3 things

"Pape's" stops them all

A cold always affects you in at least three ways. Air passages are inflamed and irritated. Perspiration is checked Bowels are clogged with acid wastes from the mucous discharge. So doctors say you must do three things to be rid of a cold.

Pape's Cold Compound does all three! It reduces inflammation and swelling of the mucous membrane; it induces perspiration; opens the bowels. Chew one of these pleasant tablets and see how quickly nasal discharge stops; head clears; breathing becomes easy. See how that achy, feverish, weak feeling disappears. And "Pape's" doesn't stop with killing cold germs. It activates bowels and removes germs and acid wastes from the system. All drug stores—35c. Just remember "Pape's."—Adv.

Federated Mission Reports Show Work Of Day Nursery

Election of the slate of officers nominated at the last executive board meeting of the Federated Missionary society and reports from all officers and chairmen, featured the meeting of the group held Tuesday afternoon at the Highland Heights Christian church with Mrs. S. E. Trevathan, president, in the chair. The meeting was opened with a singsong and the inspiring devotional talk on "Our Record" was given by Rev. J. E. Montgomery, pastor of the church. Rev. Mr. Montgomery stressed the lives of people as their real records and said that impressions made by daily lives were never completely destroyed. The work of the Federated Missionary society was emphasized as a record that would make a lasting impression on the children of the day nursery.

Mrs. Fred T. Datson, superintendent of the day nursery made an outstanding report; she gave comparative figures showing the growth of the work of that home, saying that in 1929 there were 15,579 children cared for; in 1930, there were 16,632 and in 1931, 18,931. Mrs. Datson stressed the day nursery as a home rather than an institution and gave incidents of mothers appreciating it in that light. According to her report, there were as many as 106 children cared for in one day during December, in which month, the average was 92. There were 137 children clothed in that month. Mrs. Datson was very gracious in her thanks to all the church groups who responded to the call of an empty pantry early in December.

Zenobia Trimble, superintendent of the colored day nursery told of the work done there, stating they were endeavoring to teach the children to care for themselves and they were being fed at less than 4 cents per meal. According to her report, 15 children daily are being taken care of and during the year, there were 4,533 enrolled. A Christmas tree was arranged for 150 children and Christmas was provided for 60 families.

Reports Given

Reports were given by all chairmen. Mrs. W. H. Downing's report, given by Mrs. Q. B. Lee, stated that services had been held at the juvenile jail for 909 people during the past year and there had been 70 conversions. Mrs. A. Horwitz announced 802 paid members. Mrs. J. A. Kemp, reporting on the kindergarten, emphasized the fundamental work being done there. Mrs. M. C. Batey, story hour chairman, told of the Saturday afternoon story hour and said that the Junior Forum social service committee, Mrs. Jess McLarry chairman, had undertaken this work. Mrs. J. Lem Keevil reported that the ministerial alliance would cooperate in the future in services there. Announcement was made of the annual luncheon which will be held at the Woman's Forum clubhouse, Tuesday, Jan. 26, at 12 o'clock and it was stated that the price this season would be only 40 cents. Mrs. Irvin J. Vogel, 2-5228, will take reservations.

Officers Presented

The report of the nominating committee was accepted and officers for the coming year will include Mrs. S. E. Trevathan, president; Mrs. Floyd Randel, first vice president; Mrs. Cohen, second vice president; Mrs. Carter McGregor, third vice president; Mrs. W. M. Mitchel, secretary; Mrs. J. R. McKinney, corresponding secretary; Mrs. O. T. Alles, treasurer; Mrs. W. W. Cook, publicity; Mrs. A. B. Maples, investigation; Mrs. J. A. Kemp, kindergarten; Mrs. Horrace Robbins, parliamentarian; Mrs. J. Lem Keevil, county farm; Mrs. M. C. Batey, story hour; Mrs. R. O. Harvey, emergency.

Members of the Highland Heights Woman's Christian council served refreshments to approximately 200 who were present. Mrs. S. E. Trevathan presented Mrs. Frank Creighton, president of the council, who greeted the audience with a delightful talk.

My dear—you have no idea how shocked I was . . !"

"YOU know I spent the week-end with Helen. Someone really ought to speak to her. She's such a nice girl, and she's perfectly fastidious about everything else. But she wears her underthings a second day—and everybody perspires a little. Why does she run the risk of offending?"

Personal daintiness! The subject of whispered comment, veiled hints. Lose it and you lose all chance of social acceptance.

Fresh lingerie each day is absolutely essential to daintiness. All day long underthings absorb perspiration. A daily change is even more important than a daily bath. And it's so easy to wear fresh lingerie every day. For Lux removes every trace of perspiration, yet protects colors and fabrics. And it takes four minutes or less. Wash underthings and stockings in Lux diamonds, after each wearing.

Underthings absorb perspiration. Avoid offending . . .

Protect daintiness this 4-minute way

1 Wash this 4-minute way: 1 tablespoon of Lux diamonds does 1 day's undies. Dip up and down, rinse twice, squeeze in bath towel, shake out. Then they're fresh and sweet!

2 Wash after each wearing, for perspiration acids left in silk fade colors and rot threads. With Lux it takes only a few minutes—less time than it takes to wash your face and hands.

3 Never rub dainty lingerie with cake soap. Rubbing tends to streak colors and weaken fabrics. Tests show Lux removes perspiration acids completely—yet leaves colors sparkling, like new. Anything safe in water alone is just as safe in Lux.

Your Hands—they deserve gentle care, too. Use Lux in the dishpan . . . costs little . . . keeps hands white and smooth . . .

VERNON LAYS PLAN FOR YEAR

Proposed Undertakings for 1932 Cover Wide Field

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Jan. 12.—Firm conviction that Vernon would hold its place in North Texas and rise to even greater achievements was expressed by speakers here Tuesday night at the chamber of commerce annual banquet.

Many out of town visitors were present for the meeting, which included in its order of business the election of five new members to the board of directors, which will meet Thursday morning to elect a successor to Jess L. Showers, retiring president, and to choose other officers of the organization.

New Directors

New directors, who assume places on the board immediately, are F. E. Eggleston, Aubrey L. Lockett, E. O. Youngblood, J. A. Huber and Hub Colley.

Following a program of entertainment provided by strictly Vernon talent, addresses were made by Les K. Johnson, president of the Herring National bank, and Ray H. Nichols, Vernon publisher. Both talks were full of philosophical humor.

After the retiring president had made his annual report, in which he announced the 1932 budget had been set at $8,860 and outlined the 1932 program of work, the membership heard the results of a vote on two constitutional amendments, both of which were passed.

Organization Rules

The amendments provide that the election of the secretary be held in October instead of January, and that no retiring director be eligible to serve on the board until he has been off the board for a period of not less than one year.

L. A. Wilson, secretary, spoke briefly and paid tribute to Mr. Showers and his work during 1931 as president. He asked for the continued support of the chamber membership.

33 Guests Present

Guests at the banquet numbered 33, and represented Seymour, Iowa Park, Quanah, Archer City, Electra, Crowell, Oklaunion, Chillicothe, Fort Worth, Rock Crossing and Wichita Falls.

Representatives of each town brought greetings from their communities. A telegram was read from John Boswell, secretary of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, and one from Grady Shipp, former secretary of the Vernon chamber and now secretary of the Plainview chamber.

Mr. Showers, whose successor as president will be named at a meeting of directors, Wednesday morning, will continue as a member of the board. Retiring directors are George H. Wilson Jr., F. L. Massie, M. K. Berry, J. B. Lawson and C. Fred Russell. Holdover members are Cy Long, E. H. Pigg, T. Edgar Johnson, R. M. Fielder, Ray H. Nichols, Jess L. Showers, Dr. T. A. King, Will I. Stephens, W. N. Martin and Ed L. Gossett.

Five Major Projects

The 1932 program of work as presented at the banquet includes five major projects of agriculture, industrial development, trade development, civic activities, highways and transportation.

The 1931 review offered by Mr. Showers emphasized the agricultural phase of the work as the basic industry of Wilbarger county.

Program lights on the back of each seat, have been installed in a New York theater.

Wichita Physicians View Operations After Address by Dallas Expert

Visiting Medics From Mineral Wells And Archer City Also Give Papers at Meeting

In connection with the monthly meeting of the Wichita County Medical society Tuesday night, Dr. John O. McReynolds of Dallas, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, removed cataracts from the eyes of two patients at the Wichita General hospital in demonstration of his address earlier in the evening.

Cataracts Removed

A 19-year-old boy and an 85-year-old man were the patients. Specialists in Wichita Falls and from neighboring cities looked on while Dr. McReynolds demonstrated the Barroquer method of cataract extraction. Fred Johnson, 302 Tyler street, was the youthful patient; Henry Tulley, Seymour, the elderly one.

Sixty members and guests of the society gathered at the Wichita club to attend the first meeting of the year. Dr. McReynolds and a group of specialists retired to the hospital immediately after his address. Dr. C. R. Hartsook, Dr. O. W. Wilson, and Dr. J. B. Nail discussed the lecture.

The second speaker was Dr. J. E. Johnson, Mineral Wells, who read a clinical study and classification of thyroid dysfunction.

Dr. Johnson said persons suffering from an over-secretion of the thyroid gland are restless, nervous, irritable, suffer from increased blood pressure, higher temperatures, increased blood supply, weakened muscles and a rapid heart. The hyper-thyroid state brings protruding eyes, trembling fingers, a sharp appetite and greater food consumption, along with loss of weight, the speaker went on.

On the other hand, a lack of the thyroid secretion produces increase in weight, a slow pulse, cold, sluggishness, a poor appetite, and an enlargement of the gland, Dr. Johnson said.

His paper was discussed by Dr. A. F. Leach, Dr. L. B. Holland, and Dr. Maud Lindsey.

Treatment of Children

Dr. Paul Conner, Archer City, concluded the evening's discussion with a paper on diarrhea in children. He classified diarrhea as mechanical, infectious, fermentative and protelytic. Indigestible food will cause the mechanical type; bacteria and infectious; too much carbohydrates in milk or other food, the fermentative; and too much protein the protelytic, the physician said.

His chief discussion was given to the fermentative type, its causes and cures, as the most common variety of the illness. Secondary diarrheas were described as respiratory, due to flu and colds; and mastoidical, due to a mastoil infection.

The condition leads to dehydration, emaciation, and finally to coma in children, Dr. Conner concluded.

Dr. D. C. Peterson, member of the state board of health, declared thousands of babies die every year from diarrhea and that in 1930, 2,064 children were claimed by the disease.

The paper was discussed by Dr. H. P. Ledford and Dr. Wallace J. Masters.

Couple Finds Oklahoma Marriage Permit Not Good in Texas

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 12.—A Burkburnett couple who came to Electra to be married recently, left much wiser. They had secured a license, properly signed but were surprised when the justice of the peace, W. H. Coffman, refused to marry them. At least they learned that if you are issued a marriage license in Oklahoma, you have to be married in Oklahoma!

Very few Electra couples have been married in their own home town during the past two years. The Texas marriage law which has been enforced more than two years has caused most of the couples to go to neighboring Oklahoma communities. Records of Judge Coffman show that he has performed only one ceremony since the law went into effect.

MILK PRICES TAKE SLUMP

New Schedule Placed at Seven Cents Quart

Bottle milk is at an extremely low price here, following the reduction of prices a few days ago by several major milk retailers.

Tuesday milk was selling at seven cents per quart, the price having steadily declined from 11 cents in about two weeks. The first reduction was from 11 cents to 10 cents, and was followed a few days later by a second decline to nine cents. The present price of seven cents has prevailed now for several days.

Firms announcing the 7-cent price were the Chapman dairy and the Lehrack-Ferguson Dairy Products company. An official of the Southwest Dairy Products company said that his company had reduced prices, but declined to say what is the present price.

The Chapman dairy said that it was paying $1.10 for grade A whole milk, four per cent, with a two-cent differential above or below that quality. Officials of the Lehrack-Ferguson plant said that it was paying $1.60 for grade A whole milk, with a three-cent differential for qualities above or below four per cent. The Southwest company said it did not wish to state a price.

STORM STRIKES IN MISSISSIPPI

Four Ambulances Kept Busy Removing Injured

ABERDEEN, Miss., Jan. 12. (AP)—One white woman was killed and approximately 100 persons, most of them white, were injured today when a tornado struck New Hamilton, a community on the Frisco railroad, nine miles south of here.

Three hours after the tornado struck Aberdeen hospitals were crowded and four ambulances were continuing to bring injured into the town.

The dead woman was Mrs. Frank Simmons.

New Hamilton's population is composed mostly of white persons and reports reaching here said virtually every resident of the community received at least minor injuries.

Hospital attendants here said many of the injured already brought in were critically hurt.

GALE DAMAGES BOULDER CITY

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 12. (AP)—A gale of 80 miles an hour whipped through Boulder canyon near Las Vegas, Nev., today as a blizzard came lashing down from the Canadian rockies.

The wind roared off the desert into the canyon, unroofing houses and garages and blowing tents away. Most damage was done in Boulder City, government headquarters for workers employed on the Hoover dam.

One carpenter working on a garage was reported missing after his fellow workers scampered to safety when the partly built structure tumbled before the gale.

Students in a school room at Las Vegas were cut by flying glass.

The blizzard spread over the Rocky mountain region and served notice of its descent upon the plains states by tomorrow. Eight inches of snow fell at Tahoe City, Calif.

Montana temperatures dropped abruptly and readings in the northern mountains were expected to reach five to 10 below zero overnight.

At Helena, Mont., the mercury plunged to zero at 2 p. m. today, from yesterday's high of 56. The barometer reading at Cheyenne was 28.86, a new record low.

In Denver, the barometer was falling fast but the weather was bright and springlike late this afternoon.

Inquest Ordered in Infant's Death; Severed Head Found in Paper Sack

An inquest probably will be held Wednesday or Thursday to inquire into the death of a newborn infant whose severed head was found in a load of trash early Tuesday afternoon by W. J. Woods, operator of the trash wagon, according to Mike Anglin, assistant district attorney who was active Tuesday in investigation of the case.

District Attorney Sam B. Spence, Mr. Anglin, and members of the sheriff's force launched an investigation of the affair immediately after Mr. Woods had driven to the courthouse to report his discovery. The baby's head had been placed in a paper sack. Attracted by the bloody condition of the paper, the driver tore open the sack, uncovering one side of the face and an ear.

Inspection of the infant's head by Drs. M. A. Beckman and J. A. Heyman resulted in the conclusion that the child probably had been born alive, according to the district attorney. Investigation officers expressed belief that the baby had been killed and dismembered in order to expedite secret disposition of its body.

The perfectly-formed head apparently had been severed with a knife applied at the base of the skull, and brought forward just below the ears.

Plane Battles Elements in Flight To Rush Aid to Pneumonia Patient

TUCSON, Ariz., Jan. 12. (AP)—Miss Alice Hilliard, step-daughter of Robert Bingham, Louisville, Ky., newspaper publisher, was withstanding, apparently successfully, an attack of pneumonia in a hospital here tonight while an airplane was en route from New York with an oxygen "breathing chamber" for the patient.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 12. (AP)—Thick, low-lying fog banks, blanketing their air trials between Columbus and the Mississippi river, tonight threatened to frustate a desperate attempt of two pilots to aid a pneumonia patient at Tucson, Ariz.

Battling rain, a low ceiling and poor visibility from New York they were forced down here late today with but a bare fourth of their 2,200-mile flight to Tucson completed.

Their plane carries a portable oxygen chamber, or artificial lung, for treatment of Miss Alice Hilliard, step-daughter of R. W. Bingham, publisher of the Louisville Courier Journal and Times, who is ill in a Tucson hospital.

Mr. Bingham late today was quoted in news dispatches from Tucson as saying Miss Hillard had rallied strongly and the oxygen chamber might not be needed.

Pilots Stuart Reiss and Chester Pickup, taking off from New York under floodlights this morning, were twice forced down as they bucked storms and low ceilings over Pennsylvania.

Bad weather forced their plane down east of Bellefonte, Pa., and a dwindling fuel supply grounded them again at McKeesport, Pa.

They landed her at 4:30 p. m. E. S. T., far behind schedule, as they had hoped to reach Tucson late tonight.

The large steel chamber, representing the latest in "breathing machines" is loaded into the six place plane from which everything has been stripped but the pilots' seats.

Death Claims Former Wichita Woman at Tyler

FORMER 'PUG' NAMED MAYOR

Ed McCloskey Lays Down Four-Point Program

By JAMES A. SULLIVAN

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 12. (UP)—Eddie McCloskey, the red-haired prize fighter who has just become mayor of Johnstown, took time off from his pants pressing establishment today to lay down a four-point executive program for the city.

The program:

"Find work for the city's unemployed through a sidewalk building campaign.

"Enforce prohibition so strictly that everybody will be glad to repeal the law and get good beer back.

"Abolish the chamber of commerce. It keeps new industries out of town.

"Organize an unemployment caravan to march to the Democratic and Republican national conventions to make sure the people have a say in naming the man who is to be their president."

National Plan

McCloskey, a dynamic individual of 41, rubbed his cauliflower left ear meditatively, and said he hoped the sidewalk building program could be made a national project.

He intends to seek an interview with President Hoover, he said, in an effort to put the sidewalk building campaign on a national basis.

"Building sidewalks requires more workers than any other form of construction," he said. "Machines can't be used in setting curbing or laying walks. You need hand labor and lots of it for that kind of work. The nation needs more work of this type and less machinery."

Fights "Interests"

McCloskey was elected to office by fighting the "interests" as represented by the Bethlehem Steel company and other big Johnstown industries.

The plan he will suggest to President Hoover is this:

"Let the national government give a dollar, the state another and the municipality a third. Put them all with a fourth dollar furnished by the property owner and start building sidewalks from Maine to California, and Texas to Ontario. This will give every man out of work a job in his own home town and end this thing they call depression."

McCloskey revealed he is having a song written that will be called "The Sidewalks of America." It will be used as the theme song of the sidewalk building campaign."

Police Hold Suspect In Hijacking Here

A suspect in one of a series of recent hijackings here was tentatively identified by his victim after an inspection at the police station Tuesday. Police Chief Dick Morris is hoping to arrest a second suspect within the next few days so that the identification can be made complete by comparison of the two men in size and voice.

The identification Tuesday was most positive when the suspect's voice was heard, his size observed and his clothing noted.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

For coughs due to colds, the best remedy that money could buy can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Night Coughing Quickly Stopped

In a few minutes after taking Thoxine, a doctor's famous prescription, your cough stops. It acts on a new principle—relieves throat irritation and goes direct to the internal cause not reached by ordinary cough remedies.

Most coughs are caused by an irritated throat. Thoxine stops these at once. Safe for the whole family—guaranteed no dope. Money back if not satisfied. 35c. At your druggist.—Adv.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Down where Speaker Jack Garner lives they know quite a lot about bees.

JOHN N. GARNER

It is claimed by Mr. Garner's home folks that more honey is produced there and thereabouts in Texas than from any other like amount of territory in the world.

But those bees favored by the Garner constituency are ordinary, run - of-the-home, hard-working bees. Their buzz means honey. The presidential bee, of the purely buzzing type, is unknown.

Which underscores the promptness with which Mr. Garner, writing his old friend, Pat O'Keefe, back home, and swatted the presidential bee.

"There are no presidential bees buzzing about my office," Garner wrote O'Keefe on the heels of the radio nomination of Garner for White House honors by his one time congressional colleague, William Randolph Hearst.

Embarrassing Garner

That radio nomination came at an embarrassing moment for Garner—just installed as speaker by virtue of a four-vote Democratic house majority.

It took all his own personal popularity, congressional experience, tact and just plain horse-sense to induce the appearance of party solidarity with which house Democrats started off on the session.

It was necessary for some seniors to sacrifice claims to committee preferments. Garner was a mainspring of all the harmony moves.

And he was getting away with it—no doubt because the Democrats think they see even brighter days for them just ahead—when Mr. Hearst heaved that potential monkey wrench.

For that is what his "nominate Garner" speech could easily have become for Garner himself, complimentary as it seemed.

Let any one of a number of house Democrats get the notion that Garner took it seriously and was in fact angling for the presidential nomination next June and his grip of the situation in the house might be vitally weakened.

Probably sulphurous remarks would through his mind as he listened in on that particular broadcast.

His Job Suits Him

No politician would be apt to refuse the presidency. Garner is no exception. Yet he is a practical and experienced politician, and very well satisfied where he is as speaker, a job into which he fits by training and habit.

Short of actual draft by his party he probably would not step out of that even to be vice president.

All of which no doubt accounts for the Garner "swat the bee" letter to O'Keefe.

It might well prove more dangerous to Texas Jack's confident hope of several terms as speaker than to the presidential nomination ambitions of any one else.

Poultry Expert to Give Frederick Demonstration

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Jan. 12.—Ira J. Holler, extension poultryman from Oklahoma A. & M. college at Stillwater, will be in Frederick Saturday, Jan. 18, to demonstrate the growing of baby chicks and poultry judging.

All 4-H club poultry members, coaches and club officers are asked to be at the meeting, which will be a training school for those learning to judge their birds. Each person attending is asked to bring four pullets, four roosters, or both, for Mr. Holler's inspection.

L. H. Beaty and Mrs. Susan B. Gray, county agent and home demonstration agent, hope to produce several good poultry judges from Tillman club members, to enter in the state poultry show next year.

Speaking of Oil Practices

UNDER the dome of the magnificent new courthouse of Travis county the lawyers are called to arms in the trial of the suits and the preliminaries are being arranged for one of the legal battles of the ages. Atty. Gen. James V. Allred charged in his ouster suits that the defendants, under the guise of complying with a so-called code of practices and with the purported approval of the Federal Trade commission have been engaged since Nov. 20, 1929, on a systematic program of acquiring all independent filling stations in Texas, fixing the price of gasoline and other petroleum products, fixing the price of filling station equipment, lessening and eliminating competition between themselves and generally dominating the marketing branch of the oil industry. It is said that the defense will set up the plea that the anti-trust laws of Texas are unconstitutional and should be declared invalid and tossed in the basket or container for the reception of scraps of paper. Second, that the code of practices which guided the defendant companies had the approval of the Federal Trade commission functioning on the banks of the Potomac river. There is going to be a lot of copy furnished the busy newspaper chroniclers of events, and those who are behind the scenes predict that the supreme court of the United States may have the last word. This is a swiftly moving age and the daily happenings of news value should interest the people as well as those who are engaged in making a living or making money in the petroleum world.

Back-Hand Support

IF SPEAKER GARNER'S fancy is still tickled at the mention of his name in a speech, or the appearance of his name in type, then William Randolph Hearst may be pleasing the sturdy warrior of the Rio Grande.

Otherwise the Hearst "Garner for president" crusade doesn't mean much.

Mr. Hearst has led too many crusades, has championed too many causes, has discovered too many candidates and met too many defeats, to contribute to what seems to be quite a substantial Democratic movement for Garner's nomination.

Just now, Hearst, as the personal exponent of a wine and beer program to lift the nation out of economic distress, is in the odd position of championing for president a man from one of the dryest of the dry states, a leader from a state that would remain bone-dry in constitution and law if the 18th amendment were repealed.

Mr. Hearst's speeches and arguments for Speaker Garner smack of spite attacks upon President Hoover, his choice four years ago.

The Garner movement may affect Democratic action in many states. Texas would be honored in Garner's nomination. Texans believe no abler leader could be found anywhere.

But we doubt that Mr. Garner is being helped any by the backfire efforts of William Randolph Hearst to strike at others by championing him.

A Roosevelt Message to the People

FACING a Republican legislature, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt shot a message to the people of New York as well as to the people of all America that was well worth the while, the time, and the place. A very intelligent synopsis of the message was carried to all the newspapers of the country by the busy wires. Organization time is on. Democrats the country over are preparing for action. Roosevelt is away out in front. Ritchie is beating down the political bushes. Newton D. Baker is going abroad for his health, but will return when the daisies are blooming in May. Favorite sons are bobbing up everywhere. They are ever bobbing up in presidential election years. "The Gentleman at the Key Hole," a valued contributor to Collier's Weekly, tells the readers of this periodical that Garner of Texas is the boss of the whole Democratic show in Washington and the wisest Democrat under the big dome. Moreover he says that the Texan would be very much out of place in the senate but his ability and experience makes him the master of the house.

Japan Master of a Vast Territory

JAPAN is the master of a vast territory in Manchuria. Its victorious warrior chief with an army of 30,000 controls all Manchuria north of the Great Wall of China. Indeed the Chinese offered no resistance and its soldiers are on the run toward the south. It is said not since the world war has so efficient a body of troops as the Japs been in the field. They swept all before them, while their fleets of airplanes battered down all resistance, this in advance of the regular troops. Japan is the master, having made conquest of Manchurian territory equal to the eastern United States. Now what will be the militaristic developments of the new year in the Orient? Soviet Russia is not looking for war in the Far East and China appears to be helpless.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Every time I see a billposter to "Frankenstein" I giggle, thinking of the simile, "As surprised and startled as a newspaper editor who looks up the word 'Monster' in the dictionary for the first time!" . . . So Judge Dunn of Maryland considers ladies of the stage "women of more or less easy virtue?" . . . Really? . . . Hell! I could name Judge Dunn five judges of more or less easy virtue to every actress he can name . . . Wonder whatever became of Crater, anyway? . . . And the girl he left in Polyclinic so ill? . . . And is she able to walk now—if ever? . . . Sure! The traffic congestion in town is caused by all those judges running for trains . . . That Ripley plan to back that book still fascinates me . . . The one about beating horse races every time . . . Wonder if he has taken that suggestion to name the book "Horse-Sense" . . . Horse-sense because you never hear of a horse betting on a human being! . . . Anything for a laugh, of course . . . I've lost my alleged friends joining in the fun—or "ribbing" as they call it . . . To "rib a guy" is to tease him into an embarrassing sitch-ee-ay-shun . . . So the mob used me to put it over and the rags fell . . . Now poor Russ Columbo is the bait . . . His pals promoted a gal with a Swedish dialect to keep phoning him . . . She told Russ: "I luff you so motch, I Garbo. Don't told nobody—I vuss by you place vare you sink and vuss so trilled!" . . . And spurious pash notes were sent to Russ signed "Greta" . . . He spent a young fortune on posies for her . . . And some papers went for it, too; so Columbo lost nothing but his dignity.

That dope on some Des Moines sheet sure got his wordage garbled to fill a paragraph . . . He reports that I was angry with a Des Moines reader over the line: "New York is the diamond stickpin on the shirt front of America," and that the reader said: "Don't you mean it's the gravy spot?" . . . The sap writing the column (I wish I knew what paper it was—I only got a clip) has his followers believe that I got very vexed and called Des Moines people "yaps" . . . There's one clunk who probably won't get to first base with such reportorial inaccuracy . . . As a matter of fact, I wasn't vexed, nor am I, and if anybody can take a rap better than I can—and print it before the other guy does—when it is possible—I'd like to meet him . . . But I am weary of the ham who does it purposely, hoping that I will "come back at him" and thus make him better known . . . That's an old trick . . . I did it myself once upon a time . . . And I thought at the time I was cute, too . . . And that "I'd show 'em, by golly!" . . . Now, when I see that hooey in my files I wish I could destroy the evidence . . . And there are so many other stupied things I've written and accepted from others that I wish I could cover up . . . Oh, well, Maybe Satan will forgive me and let me tend a furnace where I can sizzle "Lovely People," and stick my pitchfork in certain places where it is most uncomfortable.

I wish those college newspapers wouldn't interview me . . . I never know what to tell them . . . I could fake it, I know, but that's too hard . . . That Yale news reporter, for instance . . . "What do I think of college education?" . . . "I don't know." I truthfully told him. "I never had any" . . . "You didn't?" he exclaimed . . . "Nope, I didn't!" I said . . . "Well," he said, "then what do you think of schools of journalism?" . . . Now, what could I say? . . . If I said they were fine—how do I know that they are? . . . So I said they were fine so he would change the subject . . . Then he said: "What do you think of college men?" . . . So I told him they were all right, but when I was a song-and-dance man they frightened me at New Haven and Ann Arbor and at Champagne, Ill., by swiping the gal off my arm, although they returned her to the hotel safe, but not so sound, hours later . . . When I could have dismissed it all in two sentences and told him truthfully that college men, sober or dizzy, were always nuisances in night clubs, for with that "cut-in" stuff free-for-alls were always started, and they never wound up on the winning side yet . . . In fewer words, 10 outta 10 college boys invariably act half their age . . . Wonder if it is true? . . . I mean that that fooey hooey actually pays contributors with small change, theater passes and free meals at the expense of the sin-salons?

Coming across the old editorial from the nimble pen of Dr. Frank Crane interrupted my routine longer than I wanted . . . He was my favorite word-juggler when he was putting pieces in the paper . . . I cannot recall one of his pieces that didn't hold my eye and interest me . . . That clipping, frixample, called "A Colyumist of Other Days" . . . Even Dr. Crane spelled it "colyumist," making it simpler for readers to pronounce it . . . The Dr. observed that it is a poor newspaper these days (and that was away back) that does not employ a colyumist . . . That is, somebody who shall say short and pithy things—or at least try . . . Dr. Crane said that it may be a comfort to the rest of us to know that La Rochefoucauld of France was a fine colyumist and that his sayings still live today . . . That the French wit "outsat the Smart Set" . . . I'll say he did—and his wit still appears in, oh, so many columns, credited to everybody but La Roche . . . Bob Quillen, another of my pets in the colyuming racket, said it this way: "Cast your paragraphs upon the waters and see them come back credited to somebody else!" . . . Yeah? . . . Not when I catch the echoes doing it . . . La Roche's nimble cracks that I like best are: "We often pardon those who weary us, but we cannot pardon those whom we weary"; "Our envy always outlives the happiness of those we envy," and, "There are few virtuous women who are not sometimes weary of their profession" . . . Oh, if I only had more time to read! . . . And be refreshed . . . And amount to something worth-while . . . Wonder how red that Radioracle's face will get when he matches that signature with mine?

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE FASTEST SAILING VESSEL—The American clipper ship Dreadnaught hold the distinction of having made the fastest passage across the Atlantic ocean under sail. Nine days and 17 hours after leaving New York she cleared Fastnet lighthouse, which is offshore from Cape Clear, Ireland. This record has never been equaled before or since.

The Dreadnaught was 1,413 tons, 210 feet long, 40 feet at the beam, and had a draught of 26 feet. Finding this ship could carry extensive sail without strain, Captain Samuels drove her consistently for 10 years, establishing an enviable record for steady and reliable service.

CHAPTER LVII

And Stephen had promised Jan that if things looked bad, looked dangerous, he would let her take the stand and tell her story.

"It is my fault, this thing," she said passionately. "I have kept still because Ace wanted it so much. I will keep still, because I do not want to shame him. But I couldn't live if I kept silent and—anything happened to Ace. Why, I would say anything, tell anything—what would it matter? You see, I must do it if there's a even a little chance that he might—Promise me daddy."

He had given both promises. He stood between them. To keep them both, he must find some way out between them. And it was dawning upon him that that there was another person besides Jan who might serve as the guilty party in this affair.

The tumbler of whisky he had drunk just before they left the house pounded in his veins with a strong courage. But behind it Stephen Ashe heard the distant shouts of fear.

He was coming into the courtroom for the first time in many years, when he had thought he would never go again. He had thought he was through, and now he was going up against the stiffest fight of his career. For Jan. For the boy she loved.

He stared across these years at the infallible, indomitable, victorious Stephen Ashe, so young and proud and glorious. Oh, God, if there were only that Stephen Ashe here to defend Jan's life and love and honor!

At the thought of her need, something in him flamed high. He could do it. He would do it. The old fire, the old cunning, the old genius were there still. They must be strong for one more flare before the end. He would call for that last spurt if it killed him.

Looking down, he saw his hand on his knee. That old, withered hand. It was shaking a little. If he could stop that—it would prove, it would show. He pulled himself up by his boot straps for the effort. Couldn't have that. Couldn't go into the courtroom with his hands shaking.

And that hand he held out to Jan was steady.

He took hers, and held it hard. They smiled at each other, a gay, steadfast, terribly sad smile. Their eyes held a long moment, and then they turned, shoulder to shoulder, hand in hand, to face the waiting hours.

It was cold and clear that opening day of the Wilfong trial, with a great wind racing up and down the streets. A cutting wind climbing the hills making the dust spin above the cobblestones, and rushing headlong down again. But it could not blow away the crowds packed solid in the little park, or the black border of them along the sidewalks, hemming it in, or the queues that vanished around the corner into Chinatown.

The dawn had found the little park thus black with people. And the broad staircase of the courthouse, with its stately sweep to the right, to the left, had supported its mob with a contemptuous dignity since midnight. While the fat old woman in the corner seat of the front row of the courtroom had actually been there since dinner time of the night before. Slept there, she had, for the bailiff had an aversion to throwing old ladies out, and not otherwise could he have persuaded her from that choice seat. Time did not drag for her. She had her knitting. Of what was she reminiscent, that old woman with her knitting? Oh, yes! Fishwives at the foot of the guillotine.

Eyes. Eyes everywhere. The faces in the square. The faces on the stairway. The faces in the big, jammed courtroom. Avid, curious, shameful eyes, atop craning necks.

"It is my fault, this thing," she said, passionately. "I have kept still because Ace wanted it so much."

The woman with the baby, nursing it untidily, unbeautifully—and yet with a beauty of which nothing can rob that divine picture. The old man, falling asleep and jerking upright with a gurgling noise. The pimpled boy with furtive eyes and a nasty mouth that tells tales upon him silently. The indecently clad flapper, chewing gum behind the sign board that is her face; at least nothing but a sign-board is ever done so garishly in white and black and scarlet. The eternal, inevitable spectators of a murder trial.

They were all there, and the sweating reporters in the elevated press box upon the judge's left would write the eternal, inevitable little paragraphs about them under some such heading as "Sidelights on the Trial."

But the atmosphere of that courtroom was far from drab. There were a great many women and San Francisco women are the best dressed in the world. Little groups of them like the display window at a florist's. Mrs. Jerry Kress and Aileen, and the cabaret singer with whom Bill Wilfong was in love. And half a dozen of Mrs. Joliffe's friends from Burlingame, elegant and haughty. And, across the aisle, older, heavier women in rich furs, who belonged to Mrs. Sutro's social following. A motley crew. The underworld—and the aristocrats. Odd, how they turn up side by side!

Narrow the focus. Pull down the spotlight.

Inside the railing, on one side, Mrs. Sutro and Metha and Agatha Gracey, all in black. Black is very becoming to Metha, and she is thinner, so she looks quite a beauty. But black is a trying color for Agatha; it brings out the sallowness of her skin. With them, the brittle, upright figure of Abbott Sutro, whose name is a power in the land.

And on the other side, Mrs. Herbert Joliffe of Burlingame, her head high, hed disdain nailed to her face. Mac, his anxious eyes ever on the door. Bill Wilfong and Gwennie. People saw Gwennie and then they glanced away quickly. She looked sick. Under the rouge, there was a greenish tinge to Gwennie's face.

The district attorney came in. He was prosecuting this case very much in person. A heavy-set man, built squarely, it would seem from brick. For brick was the hue of his countenance and his hair, while his jaw had the contour as well as the color of a brick. Second generation of San Francisco Irish was Dolan, and his brother had once been middleweight champion of the world—still would be, no doubt, but for a regrettable tendency, to hit below the belt. It was the same tendency perhaps that made some people say Mr. Dolan was a persecutor instead of a prosecutor.

With Mr. Dolan came a formidable staff of lieutenants and second lieutenants and sergeants, bearing books and papers in aggressive array. Wherever the preponderance of the evidence might rest, the preponderance of the lawyers was certainly on the side of the prosecution; for whom had Ace Wilfong to oppose this battery of legal talent save poor old broken-down Steve Ashe, Bill Wilfong writhed as he watched them settle behind the counsel table.

The judge swept from his chambers and onto the bench. Judge Moore was sitting in Seventeen, as he had been for many a year. The newspaper boys called him Santa Claus, for the beard on his chin was as white as the snow, and he had a round face and a little round belly. There the resemblance ended. Fair and impartial in the conduct of a trial, he was an able jurist, but he plastered them heavily with sentences.

"Department Seventeen of the Superior court now in session," shouted the clerk, and rapped heavily on his desk.

The courtroom rose under his glare. And there was an unprecedented tinkling and clatter, because the many ladies present did not know courtroom etiquette and, suddenly rising like that, their vanity-cases went to the floor.

Maillard, dressed in white with a Phrygian cap and the tri-color, on the high altar, installing her as the goddess of reason. BUFFALOS TO STAY IN TEXAS

Dallas Group Buys Paper on Goodnight Herd

Preservation of the famous Goodnight ranch buffalo herd, endangered when the ranch went under the hammer, was assured when a group of Dallas business men took up the livestock mortgage held by the City National bank here, it was announced Tuesday.

The assurance came from A. C. Nicholson, Dallas, official of the Great Southern Life Insurance company which last week foreclosed its mortgage on the ranch proper. He with several other Dallas men acquired the herd by paying the mortgage held by the bank here.

In an Associated Press dispatch from Dallas, Nicholson was quoted as saying arrangements had been made with the insurance company to allow the herd to graze over the 3,000-acre ranch until another preserve can be found.

Names of the purchasers of the herd were not revealed. Their leaders announced that the famous and characteristic animals, closely linked with early Texas history would not be allowed to leave the state.

Efforts to save the buffalo from sale, scattering, and slaughter began several months ago when the sale of the properties appeared inevitable. The last legislature authorized purchase of the herd, started half a century ago, by the state if citizens would obtain land for a refuge. Efforts to get the land have so far been unsuccessful.

Two midget airplanes constitute the operating equipment of an aerial express service for cities of the San Francisco bay district.

Goodnight Herd to Remain in Texas

Here's a portion of the buffalo herd at the famous Goodnight ranch, near Palo Duro canyon in Texas' Panhandle. This last herd of buffalo on the open range in Texas, was saved from probable extinction when officials of an insurance company, which acquired the ranch and herd, announced that the buffalo would be allowed to graze their present range until another preserve can be secured.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Jan. 12.—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a house belonging to Josh Lamb, located on North Seventh street about 2 a. m. Monday. The house was vacant at the time except for a man who was sleeping there. The fire had a good headway before it was discovered.

RECEIVER FOR LONG-BELL UP

Bondholder Files Petition At Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 12. (AP)—A federal receivership was asked today for various Long-Bell companies in a petition filed today by five attorneys who named as their client William G. Hutson Jr., said to be a Long-Bell bondholder living in Kansas.

The attorneys were Roscoe C. Patterson, United States senator; Floyd E. Jacobs, Charles P. Woodbury, M. J. Henderson, and Phineas Rosenberg.

The companies for which a receiver is sought are:

Long-Bell Lumber corporation; Long-Bell Lumber company; Long-Bell Sales corporation; Longview Suburn company; Longview Dredging and Construction company; Long-Bell Service States, Inc.; Sibley, Lake Visteneau and Southern Railway company; Longview Public Service company; Longview Memorial park; Longview Loan and Investment company; Longview Concrete Pipe company; Longview Ferry company; Weed Logging Railroad company; Longview, Portland and Northern Railway company; Longview Stevedoring company; Louisiana and Pacific Railway company; Mississippi Eastern Railway company; The Longview company; Long-Bell Farm Land corporation.

The petition alleges that the Long-Bell Lumber company has failed to maintain the sinking fund ratio set forth in its mortgages and that preference has been shown in meeting its obligations.

In a statement Sunday, Mr. Long announced outstanding bonds of $20,000,000 and other indebtedness of $22,000,000 against the lumber company. He suggested formation of a bondholders' committee under leadership of Halsey, Stuart & Co., of Chicago, the syndicate that originally sold the Long-Bell issue of bonds, to accept deposit of securities of the $85,000,000 corporation.

No dividends have been declared by the company since 1927, he said.

The request for a receivership was referred to Judge Merrill E. Otis, who today was holding court at Joplin.

Olympics Present Strong Influence Upon New Styles

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12. (AP)—The influence of the Olympic games is strong in style offerings presented by Hollywood and Los Angeles apparel manufacturers in a three-day fashion review.

Buyers drawn here, partly by motion pictures depicting the latest modes, from the United States, Japan, Australia and European countries, said for variety and quality the style show rivals those of Paris.

Olympic blue is the predominant color, with pastel hues next in favor. The prints of athletes who will compete here next summer are seen on sport togs and informal spring outfits.

An ultra new Olympic hat has a tilt roll brim with a cockade of colors representing the teams which will enter the Olympiad.

Health and Diet Advice

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"
By DR. FRANK McCOY

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

(Copyright, 1932, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

A Balanced Diet

In preparing a well-balanced diet it is not necessary to measure the exact amounts of these substances with a scale or spoon, for the body has considerable latitude and can store, discard or select the elements it needs, provided they occur in the diet in sufficient quantities.

The most common error in the ordinary diet consists in using too much of the refined starches and sugars. A diet over-balanced with acid-producing foods usually causes acidosis and may lead to such diseases as diabetes, nephritis and rheumatism. One with too much candy, pastries and fats often brings on pimples and acne. A diet lacking in iron and other minerals may bring on anemia. One which lacks calcium will not supply materials which are needed for good teeth and bones. Lack of iodine in the diet causes goitre in some cases. A diet which lacks cellulose or bulk finally leads to chronic constipation which is the foundation for so many illnesses. It is always important that the diet has sufficient protein to rebuild the worn-out tissues. Children, especially, need a balanced diet while growing, in order to build strong, healthy bodies and keep well. However, it is also necessary that the "grown-ups" secure a diet that is properly balanced in order to carry on the complex functions of the body and to renew the worn out parts.

Here are some suggestions to help you in selecting the proper amount of the best foods.

Amount of Protein Foods

The nitrogenous material contained in protein foods, together with their salts and vitamins, supply most of the tissue-building material in the body. The over-use of these foods has led to the exaggerated statements in favor of vegetarianism. However, there is no reason why the abuses in their use should induce anyone to prohibit them entirely. Temperance in the use of proteins as with all other foods is an important thing to be taken into consideration.

Most adults should have a daily intake of enough to supply nitrogenous material equal to that contained in one or two eggs and about one-fourth of a pound of meat, fish or fowl. Those doing hard muscular labor may use as much as a half pound of meat daily besides one or two eggs. As sedentary workery do not use up much muscular tissue, it is wise for them to keep their limit of protein to about the minimum of one egg and one-fourth of a pound of meat daily.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Distended Navel in Baby

Question—Mrs. Fern Y. writes: "My 13-month-old boy is rather a large child, and it seems to me his navel sticks out too much. I told the doctor about it and he said nature would take care of it. Is it possible to keep adhesive tape, with a wad over the naval, on him?"

Answer—A small weight or support is a good way of remedying a distended navel in a baby. This support can be easily improvised by putting a five cent piece on top of a dime, and then putting a 50-cent piece on top of the nickel; wrap these three coins in gauze and put this weight against the navel. The small coin should be at the bottom. You could use adhesive tape to keep this in place. I think you will find this condition improved in a short time if it is properly supported.

Milk Diet for Lead Poisoning

Question—Vicky U. asks: "Do you think it likely that a man who has once had an attack of lead poisoning would have a recurring attack, even though he no longer is exposed to lead in any form in his present work?"

Answer—If you are no longer engaged in an occupation where you are exposed to lead you will probably not have a further attack. It would be a good plan to take a short orange fast followed by the milk diet in order to cleanse your systems of any toxins which may remain, as lead may remain in the system a long time.

What Foods After Operation

Question—L. writes: "I have recently undergone an operation for the removal of a stone in the bladder. Would be grateful if you would advise me as to a diet to guard against a recurrence of this trouble."

Answer—No special diet is needed except to cut down the quantity of food, use good combinations, and then exercise enough so the body will use up the food elements.

Nocona Firm Enjoys Good Business in 1931

Special to The Record News.

NOCONA, Texas, Jan. 12.—According to reports from the Nocona Boot company, manufacturers of boots, shoes, bridle bits and spurs, it had as good business during 1931 as in 1930. A still better year in 1932 is expected.

The company made no cut in wages and the quality of its products has been maintained at a high standard. Officials attribute the success to the cooperation, influence and encouragement of Nocona friends and the town as a whole.

The factory was started on a much smaller scale in 1925, by J. L. Stelzer and Gene Keller and has since grown to nation-wide proportions.

The latest article added to the line is a patented polo bit that is rapidly becoming popular.

GRAHAM, Texas, Jan. 12.—Graham has launched a cleanup campaign for the city. The united charities is using a large amount of the funds subscribed in giving work to the unemployed. They are given staple groceries for their labor. City Marshal John Dowdle has a large force of men at work going into every nook and corner of the business section of the city, cleaning out all rubbish, burning it and hauling it away. According to the officials in charge the work will continue until the city has been thoroughly cleaned up. This plan is meeting the hearty approval of the citizens of Graham.

ED GREENWOOD ELECTED CAPTAIN OF 1932 COYOTE TEAM

LEADER NAMED AT BANQUET

School Head Outlines New Atheltic Program

The Wichita Falls High school last night officially closed the books on the 1931 football campaign and through its spokesman at the annual gridiron banquet pledged itself to build on the ruins of the past an athletic situation of which both city and school can be proud.

Twenty-one players and two student managers who lettered the past season laid one of the cornerstones of the projected athletic edifice in electing Ed Greenwood, rangy right end, to captain the 1932 Coyotes. Greenwood succeeds Bennett Withrow, whose eligibility for high school football ended at the close of last season.

Greenwood the past season earned his second letter in football under Coach Holton, and will play his final year of football in the next campaign. Last season he teamed with Malcolm Mauldin, right guard, in presenting a tough spot for opposing backs on the right side of the Coyote line, and received honorable mention for an end berth on the all-district team. Although the vote on the captaincy was by secret ballot, it was understood Greenwood's election was almost unanimous.

Dinsmore Speaks

The election of the Coyote captain came toward the close of one of the most enthusiastic football banquets here in several years, and after a gathering of 122 players and grown-ups had heard the message of clean athletics in addresses by B. M. Dinsmore, superintendent of schools at Electra, H. D. Fillers, local superintendent, Coach Barry Holton, and other prominent speakers. The banquet was held at the Womans Forum.

In an address brief but fraught with significance, Superintendent Fillers, in his first year as head of the Wichita Falls school system, heralded a new era in high school football for this city when he reviewed steps already taken and plans in the making for what he described as "an athletic program fundamentally sound and leading to a definite goal."

Reminding his hearers that work has already started on a fine football stadium, Mr. Fillers declared "We must now get a football team that will measure up to that stadium. I don't think you can ride a stick horse in athletics; I think you've got to win some games!"

Mr. Dinsmore of Electra, introduced by Carter McGregor as "a gentleman, a scholar and a good sport," was the principal speaker of the evening. The head of a school system that has turned out some of Northwest Texas' finest football teams, and in other years a coach himself, Mr. Dinsmore devoted the greater part of his address to a review of the benefits to be derived from a clean system of athletics in schools. He spiced his talk with numerous entertaining incidents from his own experience in the school room and on the fields of contest.

Wichita Congratulated

Athletics in the schools, he said, has been set up in an effort to offset certain phases of our civilization. He pointed out that $3,000,000,000 was spent in the United States last year by persons seeking health, and asserted that clean wholesome games in the public schools could easily reduce such expenditure. In addition to health protection, school men the nation over are backing athletic programs because they develop the proper ideals, and develop self-control in the individual, Mr. Dinsmore said.

Mr. Dinsmore congratulated the Wichita Falls High school team on its showing last season. "When I saw the spirit of your players and the spirit of the town as this banquet gathering assembled tonight, I understood why the Coyotes beat us last year," he said.

Statistics concerning members of the A squad were presented by Howard Bunch, of the high school faculty. His report showed that among the 35 boys on the A squad, only one man was declared ineligible during the late football season. Of absences from classes there was a percentage of 1.71, and of tardiness, 4.49 per cent, the report said. Of the 35 boys, only two were from cities other than Wichita Falls, and one of the latter had lived in this city two years. The other moved here from Fort Worth prior to the opening of the football season. The average age of the players was given as 17 years and two months.

Scholastic averages, Mr. Bunch said, proved that the football player ranked ahead of other pupils in his studies. Mr. Bunch concluded with the declaration that letters from school officials in Vernon, Electra, Quanah and other cities in the district praised members of the Coyote squad as being "good citizens."

Withrow Lauds Holton

Bennett Withrow, stepping out of the saddle after four great years of football here, lauded Coach Holton in a brief address.

"It was a privilege to lead Coach Holton's team to it's 50-50 record the past season, which was the most successful in recent Wichita Falls High school history," Benny said. "I believe Coach Holton deserves a world of credit not only for his last year's record, but for what he has done during his three years here. When he came here in 1929 his Notre Dame system was new to us players, and we accomplished little. The next year, with only one letter man returning, we showed some improvement, but still failed to be a winner. This year we came out even. Give Coach Holton 12 men of at least a year's experience next year and he will give you a state championship team."

Coach Holton later made a brief talk. "I think the team last year was the finest I have had in Wichita Falls from the standpoint of doing what they should do," he said. "When I came here there was a world of truancy, and failing. It has been my good fortune and pleasure to try to remedy that situation. It has been said that there was only one ineligible man on the squad. That is the finest compliment I can pay this team. With such a fine spirit, the winning of games will take care of itself."

More Cooperation Promised

W. L. Robertson, member of the school board, reviewed the splendid cooperation shown by the citizens of Wichita Falls last year, and promised that in 1932 there would be even more citizens backing the high school team.

Grover Bullington and Dr. O. T. Kimbrough, untiring workers on the stadium project, made brief addresses, as did Bill Morris and Charles Lindsey, assistant coaches, and Mrs. William E. Huff.

J. Wilkie Talbert, whose "toastmastering" at high school football banquets has become an institution here, was on the job in high gear. Honor guests at the banquet in addition to the letter men included members of the board of education, Coyote team physicians, and the coaching staff. The Rev. J. E. Montgomery, pastor of the Floral Heights Christian church, asked the invocation.

Departing from a long-standing custom, school officials allowed the football players to bring their girl friends to the banquet. After the feast there was a dance.

Babe Ruth hauled 225 pounds of bulk into a New York gym. His idea was to get in shape for a serious talk with Col. Jacob Ruppert of the New York Yankees over a renewal of his $80,000 a year contract.

The Bam weighed less than he has since his winter gym lessons started. He was especially proud of the fact his chest measured 48 inches against a 38-inch waistline.

Back in 1925, when Babe had "the stomach-ache heard around the sports world," he first started his winter gymnastics. Then he had 256 pounds of bulk, and a midriff that outmeasured his chest four and one half inches. A fine 1931 season, and his present good condition, brought from Babe: "I'm going after a two-year contract at $80,000 per."

Moving from the gym over to Madison Square Garden, the cameraman picked up Roman Najuch, Czecho-Slovakian veteran, and Hans Nusslein, youthful German star, who arrived in America recently to join Jack Curley's professional tennis show.

The pair gave Bill Tilden and Frank T. Hunter, former American Davis cup combination, a great battle in a Garden exhibition.

In New Orleans, citizens turned out by the thousands to welcome home the Tulane Green Wave, defeated 21-12 after the toughest sort of battle, at Pasadena, Calif., by the powerful University of Southern California Trojans.

Center of attention was the car that piloted "Wop" Glover, four-sports star, through the throng. Glover, little considered in pre-game speculation, scored one touchdown and got off a spectacular 58-yard as part of his share.

The Norwegian winter Olympics team, in natty ski caps, double breasted coats and knickers, arrived in New York met numerous Norwegian-Americans and hustled on to Lake Placid to start training for the international meet Feb. 4-13. Capt. Ingwald C. E. Smith-Kielland and Capt. Olaf Helset, both thought the team's chance excellent to retain the championship, won in each of the two previous winter Olympic games.

From winter Olympics to the vaudeville stage is a far cry, but it's no further than the jump from baseball. That's one Al Mamaux, manager of the Newark Bears, negotiated. Mamaux, one time leading song bird of the big leagues, was found recently in a New York theater—taking a regular turn as a song and dance man.

The RAMBLER'S CORNER

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Today's Pome

When winter bares its chilly wares
And radiators freeze,
When guests at social functions take
Time out to snort and sneeze.

When ice caps crown the fireplugs
And the night patrolmen swear
Because they haven't heavier
Topcoats and underwear.

When pens of poets clog with snow
And minstrels' pipes are frozen,
And busted water mains give work
To plumbers by the dozen.

When boulevards are glassed with ice
And accidentally
Our citizens bruise divers parts
Of their anatomy.

The Rambler hugs the fireplace,
Lights his pipe and takes a snooze,
And whiles away the hours reading
Winter baseball news.

Which Is, Mainly, as Follows

We would go on in rhyme to tell you what the most outstanding winter baseball news is, but you know it anyway, and anyhow this particular news does not come within the poet's jurisdiction. It's cold business.

We refer, of course, to the manner in which the majors are whacking large lumps off the salaries of their stars. When the Giants Monday told Bill Terry to take a 40 per cent reduction in salary or get out of organized baseball, they reflected the attitude of practically all the baseball owners. Most of them do not intend to renew contracts calling for topheavy salaries. They intend to make money off their clubs, and they realize they cannot do this by paying pre-depression salaries.

The wise player will accept his reduction in salary and continue giving the best that is in him. If the outstanding stars who are most affected by the cuts start holding out, it will be a sure sign they need some heavy skull sessions in modern day economies.

Most of the groaning ones, we expect, will have sense enough to look about them, take stock of present conditions, accept the wage cut and go to work wholeheartedly. But there will be a few who will continue to groan all through the season. These are a nuisance on any club. Wichita Falls had one outstanding example of this type of player. He is gone, to play here no more, and his absence, from present indications, will not be the occasion for general gloom among the fans.

The Spudder Rookie Crop

Whatever may be said of the quality of the crop of rookies booked for tryouts with the Spudders this spring, it is not lacking in quantity. The tireless scouts of the Browns, foraging in the fruitful pastures where the hoe handle and the sandlot are closely allied, have signed a total of 18 recruits so far, and according to Secretary Airey, the scouts have just started to work.

Of the 18, half are pitchers. We'll probably need about nine more. That'll give us 18 rookie twirlers from which to pick four or five men capable of distinguishing a home plate from those manufactured in a boiler factory.

The six pitchers held over from last year, although deserving of some credit, do not represent a sterling nucleus of slabsters around which any outstanding mound corps can be built. Lester White undoubtedly is the best in the lot. Forest Pressnell was somewhat of a disappointment last season, but may stage a comeback. Howard Taylor, optioned toward the close of last season to the Brewers, is at least a highly intelligent student of the art. Dick Florrid and Fred Vincent belong to the so-so class, but under proper management may turn out to be real aces. Skipper Williams, we believe, did not give these men enough work the past two seasons. If Hank Severeid lets 'em loose, and they can stand the gaff, we may see real development in each of them. Roland Flinn had a pretty fair year with San Antonio last season, but at critical stages showed a disconcerting wildness. He should be better this year.

The most cheerful news concerning the herd of rookies is that there are three left-handers among 'em. The one reputed the best, as you know, is Floyd Iseksite, the big fellow from the semi-pro Timber league of the far northwest. His performance under the northern lights, we are told, is summed up as 19 victories and two losses. We hope he's all that he's cracked up to be. But he has a long row to hoe. First he must convince us that winning 19 games in a country so near the arctic circle means so much; and second, he must teach us to pronounce his name.

Harry Saller, bull pen artist of the Browns last year, who hails from the University of Colorado; and Doyle Taylor, the likeable chap who tried and failed here last spring, are the other two left-handers. From the three, our Spudders hope to outfit the 1932 pitching staff with one or two wrong-handers, something the club needed badly last season. And then, the scouts may find some more southpaws along the line before March turns the corner. Let's hope they run on to another Hal Wiltse!

Graham Swamps Benger, 41 to 14

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, Jan. 12.—The Graham Steers swamped Benger, 41 to 14, here this afternoon in a conference basket ball game. The two teams are included in the race for championship honors in south Young county.

The Steers led by only one point, 15 to 14, at the half, but in the closing stanza they pulled away from their foes while great defensive play prevented the Benger lads from registering another point. Holcomb of Graham sank six field goals and two free shots to lead the scoring for the day with 14 points.

Golfers Gather At Agua Caliente

By WILLIAM WARNE

AGUA CALIENTE, Lower Calif., Mexico, Jan. 12 (AP)—The knickered clan gathered here today for the Agua Caliente open which begins tomorrow and closes Saturday with the division of $15,000, golf's richest stake.

But no sooner had the 101 professionals and 27 amateurs who are entered begun to arrive from Los Angeles, where many of them played in the Los Angeles open, than the weather man pulled a storm out of his hat and threatened them with postponement.

A light rain sent tournament officials out to poke the greens and fairways. They returned in half an hour under a clearing sky, and reported it was all for the best and the greens had been improved.

All players who have taken part in the tournaments on the golden winter trail, were present and accounted for, even Horton Smith, who will not play because he suffered a broken wrist in an automobile accident in San Francisco, but who will act as chairman of the rules committee.

Clubs—	G.	W.	L.	Pct	Pts	Opts
First Christian	2	2	0	1.000	102	35
H. H. Christian	2	2	0	1.000	55	40

F. H. Presbyterians	3	0	2	.000	36	97
F. H. Methodist	2	0	2	.000	38	32

First Christian and Highland Heights Christian continued their dizzy pace as the leaders of the Sunday School Basket Ball league Tuesday night on the Floral Heights Presbyterian church court by defeating the Floral Heights Presbyterian and Floral Heights Methodist respectively while the scrappy little East Side Presbyterians were checking the advance of the Temple Israel five.

First Christians were very impressive in their 65 to 17 win in the opener over Floral Heights Presbyterians. East Side Presbyterian stopped Temple Israel 35 to 18 in the second game, while a last second shot by John Ross Haley gave Highland Heights Christian a 23 to 21 thriller over Floral Heights Methodist.

Janeway Outstanding

Outstanding for the night was Jim Janeway, First Christian scoring ace. Janeway played only three quarters of the game but this was enough to run up a grand total of 29 points. Tuesday night's scores gave Janeway a grand total of 49 points in the two games played thus far and a comfortable lead in the scoring column. Close on his heels was Noel Brashears, captain of the team, who ran up a total of 19 points on nine field goals and one free point. Shirley Donnell was the outstanding man in the Presbyterian attack with 10 of his mates' 17 points to his credit.

The East Side Presbyterian five showed the same brand of fight as they showed last week against the First Christian, and while three men shared honors in the scoring department for them, Dorsey was the leader with 13 points. Harry Baumgardner, the little Presbyterian flash, scored nine points while Smith accounted for seven. Captain Goldstucker with 12 points accounted for two-thirds of his team's points while the Presbyterians won by a 35 to 18 score.

John Ross Haley covered himself with glory in the nightcap, by far the most thrilling game played in the league thus far. With the score deadlocked at 21-all and only 10 seconds left to play, Haley looped one in from the side lines and gave Highland Heights Christian the 23 to 21 victory and a tie for first place honors. Olin Harvey, of the Methodists, was high point man with 10 points. Haley ranked second with eight and Creighton of the Christians ranked third with six points. In this last battle the two teams were never more than four points apart in the score at any time during the game.

Great Scoring Record

In the two games played to date the First Christians, led by Jim Janeway, have amassed 102 points against 35 for their opponents, for one of the greatest scoring records any team has ever made in a local cage race in many years. Although twice defeated, the wonderful defense of the Floral Heights Methodists can be seen in the fact that less points, only 35, has been scored against them than any other team.

Sharkey Starts Training in Boston

But He Doesn't Exactly Know What It's For

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyr., 1932, Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The terrible Sharkey man, who is periodically read out of the heavyweight championship party by infuriated sports scribes, and read right back into it again by these same scribes after they cool out a bit, has gone into what the boys call light training up in Boston.

The Sharkey man doesn't know exactly what he is training for at the moment, but he has a vague idea that it may be for a bout with Herr Max Schmeling next summer. Anyway, he is hitting the frosty New England roads o'mornings, and doing calisthenics in a gymnasium in the afternoon.

The Sharkey man always keeps himself in fairly good physical condition. In his private life he is all those things that managers claim for a thousand other gladiators, and which few of them actually are. He is a decent, home-loving guy. He sticks around his own fireside, playing with his kids. He engages in none of those practices calculated to make a bum of a fellow.

So when he starts training, Sharkey really hasn't far to go. That is to say, he has a good foundation to work on. If Sharkey loved fighting, or had a great letch for a pot of money, he could fight every month with little wear and tear on his physical structure because of the regularity of his manner of living, also because of his easy style of workmanship.

As it is, Sharkey fights so infrequently that he generally worries about the possibility of "blowing up." He told me that was his chief concern when he fought Walker, although I thought that was something for Walker to worry about more than Sharkey.

However, in his entire professional boxing career, Sharkey has fought comparatively few battles. He hasn't turned the 45 mark as yet in number of fights. Gene Tunney fought 68 battles before he stopped, and Dempsey has 79 recorded contests, and probably 20 times the number of rounds that Sharkey has crowded into his fighting life. Herr Max Schmeling has engaged in 53 scraps.

So, off the figures, the Sharkey man has been comparatively inactive across a stretch of nine years, the most inactive, in fact, of the first flight heavies. Stribling, Loughran, Paolino, Griffiths, Walker, Risko, Carnera and even Sharkey's own protege, Ernie Schaaf, have had anywhere from 10 to twice as many bouts as Sharkey.

By the way, that fellow Schaaf has turned out one of the few real good investments in heavyweight material. Johnny Buckley and Sharkey paid $12,500 cash for Ernie's contract, and since they have had him they have grossed $98,000 with him. Thus on a basis of 33⅓ per cent of his earnings, they are out, and still going. Schaaf is potentially one of the greatest money getters of the future.

Another great heavyweight investment was Jimmy Maloney, Sharkey's Boston rival for years. I hear James is in Miami studying to be a lawyer. "D. the E.," otherwise Dan'l Carroll, paid Johnny McGrath $10,000 for Maloney's contract in 1926, and thereafter Carroll grossed upwards of $500,000 with Maloney.

A heavyweight prospect is as precarious a gamble as a yearling race horse. Many a baby galloper has brought a big price at the Saratoga sales, and never got to the races. A Yonkers man paid old Mark Shaughnessy $15,000 for his contract on Jack McAuliffe, II, a grand looking heavyweight prospect back in 1923, but Jack never amounted to much thereafter.

A young heavy named Big Boy Rawson was knocking his opponents bowlegged up in Boston a couple of years ago, and his manager turned down $20,000 cash for him the same day Big Boy was flattened by an ordinary opponent. Only recently, Jack Hurley refused $25,000 for his contract on Charley Retzlaff who looked all right until he ran into Joe Sekyra. And I recall when Frank Churchill was begging Sekyra's manager to take $20,000 for all of Joe's contract, or $10,000 for just half of it.

But I seem to be drifting away from the Sharkey man.

He is rising 30. He hasn't a mark on him. While some of the experts think he has seen his best days, I think Sharkey can go on fighting for several years to come.

He would dearly love to win the heavyweight title, which is only natural. But sometimes he gets to brooding, and says it isn't in the cards for him to be champion. Sharkey seems to be something of a fatalist.

He is the luckiest fighter in history in the matter of opportunity. In the political intrigue that has crept into the boxing racket around New York, Sharkey has always turned up the key man.

He has an amazing hold upon many of the experts. When he has failed to knock out an opponent, he has generally been excused upon the ground that he wasn't trying, though his record shows that out of 45 fights he has knocked out but 13 opponents, the smallest percentage of knockouts of any of the leading heavies.

After his fight with Walker, some of his stauncheat friends among the experts dismissed him finally and forever as a heavyweight contender, but after thinking it over awhile they decided (again) that Sharkey must have been "carrying" Walker.

So they are back in his corner demanding hotly that Schmeling give him another match. Which is exactly what Schmeling is going to do, of course. I am in favor of the idea myself. And if Walker licks Schmeling, I am also in favor of Walker giving Sharkey another match.

Eddie Roush Quits Baseball

Independently wealthy, Roush accepted unconditional release rather than fill a utility role at a small salary. The veteran outfielder said he had enough money to retire. He does not plan to play ball again.

Accepting release, Roush told Sidney Weil, the Reds' president, the club needed younger players and he could help Manager Dan Howley by getting off the team.

Roush reached the peak of brilliance during the 1917-1924 seasons. He was the spark plug of the Reds' only world championship team in 1919 and led the National league in batting in 1917 and 1919. His greatest offensive year was 1921 when he batted .352.

A sensational defensive player, Roush never hit under .321 during 10 years with the Reds from 1918 to 1926. After four years with the New York Giants he returned last season and slumped to .271.

In 1927 Roush was traded to the Giants for George Kelly, first baseman, but remained out of baseball in 1930 as a result of salary differences with the Giants. He was handicapped last year by the layoff and slowed down in fielding as well as batting.

Baseball followers estimated Roush drew $200,000 salary since his major league career began in 1916. His salary last year was $15,000. Three active years with the Giants brought him $70,000.

Roush started professionally with Evansville, in 1912. He was a rising star in the outlaw Federal league when obtained from Indianapolis in that circuit by the Giants in 1916. John McGraw traded him that same season to the Reds where he won fame.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 12. (AP)—With cotton traders continuing to center their attention on political and financial developments at home and abroad, the market today was inactive and after advancing 3 to 8 points on trade buying and scattered demand through commission house, reacted before the close.

The March position advanced seven points to 6.57; reacted to 6.48 and closed at 6.49; a net loss of 1 point, while the general market closed barely steady at net one point higher to six points lower.

Reports from dry goods centers said demand was less active than Saturday and Monday owing to a firmer attitude of sellers. It was said, however, a fairly good business in progress. The New York cotton exchange estimated domestic consumption during December at 435,000 bales compared with 428,000 in November and 405,000 in December, 1930.

Liverpool cabled that the market there had been influenced by trade calling which absorbed liquidation and stated that the cloth demand was limited. Exports today 30,914 making 4,360,703 so far this season. Port receipts 39,624. U. S. port stocks 4,795,748.

Futures closed Barely steady, 1 point higher to 6 points lower. Spot steady; middling, 6.55.

Bonds Hold Steady on Market While Stocks Backslide Slowly

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Jan. 12. (US)—Bond prices today ruled steady, while stocks slipped back fractionally from their best levels of the present recovery. Speculative interests in stocks labored strenuously to attract public support to their campaign, though with little success. The many and vital developments bearing on momentous decisions which are impending for the markets induced a general air of watchful waiting in all markets.

News that the French cabinet had resigned impaired little influence to the securities market, though it was recognized that political developments in France currently have tremendous bearing on the entire complicated politico-financial crisis in Europe. The markets were closely observing fluctuations in the franc. It became more evident during the day that the railroad wage controversy is reaching a decision with the labor-management conferences scheduled to commence tomorrow. There will of course be bargaining on both sides to gain advantages, but the markets of late have become almost certain that some benefit will accrue for the railroads. Trading volume slowed down to 1,400,000 shares.

French developments exert tremendous influence on current economic events. Increasing depression within the nation is finally influencing with noticeable effect her political decisions with respect to international relations. The French economic position, as frequently commented upon here, is considerably less secure than surface indications have signified.

The all-important Lausanne conference on reparations, scheduled to be held within the next fortnight, may develop exceedingly significant pronouncements. Germany already has placed on record her contention that no more reparations are warranted. She has support in this stand in the experts' committee which recently backed Germany's claim that the reparations burden is too great.

Therefore, it is but reasonable to expect important public disclosures at the Lausanne meeting; events certainly are moving toward a climax, with respect to this all-important element in European conditions.

Some of the best-informed market interests maintain a watchfulwaiting attitude, rather than attempting to anticipate developments which are to be more heavily influenced by prejudice and politics than economics. It would be thoroughly satisfactory to have the markets remain calm during the immediate future rather than to become unduly elated or concerned over momentary developments. There were many exciting stories in Wall street concerning Franco-German activities, but these might be attributed mainly to the intense anxiety for spectacular happenings, so that decisions might be hurried.

Passage by the senate of the Reconstruction Finance corporation was a satisfactory development from Washington. Although the bill does not grand federal reserve rediscounting privileges to the corporation's debentures, which would have potentially created additional base for enormous credit expansion, the same result is achieved by the proviso that the treasury may buy these debentures or bonds. The treasury, of course, will be compelled to issue direct government issues in payment, and these issues of course are eligible for rediscounting.

Apparently the railroad labor leaders, who are to confer with the executives beginning Thursday, have been empowered to negotiate any necessary agreement on wages. This is important, since it suggests that the impending conference will reach a decision one way or the other without having to go back to the union members for approval.

A reduction in the federal reserve bill buying rate, effective tomorrow, was hailed by some as forecasting a lowering of the reserve bank rediscount rate. It is worthy of recalling in this connection the statement made by Governor Harrison, of the New York Reserve bank, that there now exists in the United States, under the gold standard, a base for 35 billion dollars of credit.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 11. (AP)—Augmented selling of southern hemisphere wheat in Europe had a crippling effect today on grain values here.

To cap the climax, it was announced the British wheat quota plan, restricting non-empire imports, had been approved at a London conference today between representatives of the British government and of English millers, merchants and farmers. Heretofore, the millers had fought the project as impracticable.

Wheat closed nervous, ¼@⅛c under yesterday's finish, corn also ¼@⅛c down, oats ⅛@⅛c off and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7 cents.

Accentuating bearish sentiment as to wheat was the fact Liverpool quotations were lower than yesterday and that Chicago wheat futures were at a premium over Liverpool, whereas usually prices here show discounts about equal to the freight rate difference. Notwithstanding assertions prices were well under the cost of wheat production and despite comparative strength shown at times by Wall street securities, wheat displayed a persistent disposition to sag. An outstanding feature meanwhile was that only 200,000 bushels of North American wheat had been taken today for overseas and that none of all of it was wheat from the United States.

Corn and oats values were at the mercy of scattered selling. Country offerings of corn were of fair volume and in excess of shipping purchases here.

Provisions were responsive to a sharp reduction of the hog marketing movement in the West.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, May 56@56⅛c, 56⅞@57c; July 55⅝@⅛c, 56⅝c; Sept. 57⅝c offers.

Corn: May 39⅝@⅝c, 40⅝c; July 41¼@⅝c, 42c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Jan. 12. (US)—The question in wheat continues to be whether or not bullish news arrives on the scene before present holders get tired of their position above the world level. They are apparently banking on crop scares to bring world levels to domestic prices. Meanwhile the customary depressing effect of the southern hemisphere shipments is being ameliorated by prospects for improved foreign demand.

This week talk of a heavier movement of corn has been renewed. As yet the figures fail to show any such development and support continues in the market at the 40c level for May. For nearly two months there have been spasmodic indications of a real movement of corn, but so far it has failed to appear.

There is practically no snow covering in the entire area of the winter wheat belt east of the Mississippi and Missouri and the greater part of Kansas are also without protection. Growth has been abnormal because of the unusually mild temperatures. As a result the crop is reported as exceptionally susceptible to damage from severe temperatures should they develop.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Jan. 12. (AP)—An increased demand was reported on several lines of domestic wools today. Strictly combing 58, 60s territory wools showed the most general improvement although a better demand was noted on 48, 50s territory wool and on 64s and finer quality of both fleece and territory lines. A new development in the broadening demand was the movement of some moderate quantities of Ohio delaine wool. Prices on 64s and finer domestic wools were on the low side of recently quoted ranges and steady on lower grades.

FLOWING 375 BARRELS

The best completion reported from the Newcastle shallow pool in Young county for some time was brought in Tuesday when the United Producers No. 4 Larimore in the north 40 acres of west half of section 2246, T. E. & L. survey, came in flowing between 375 and 400 barrels. The well, a west offset to No. 3 Larimore, finished last week flowing 279 barrels, drilled eight feet of rich sand topped at 688 feet.

FALLS COUNTY LANDS

Perkins & Cullum No. 2 "Tipkin," located in the southeast corner of block 12, Falls county school lands in Archer county, was completed and placed on the pump rated at 150 barrels from the usual 1120-foot saturated lime.

LINDSAY DRILLING COMPANY

Lindsay Drilling company No. 1 L. F. Wilson, lease A, Chalk Hill pool in Archer county, is bailing a sand at 3614 feet and will probably shoot with 200 quarts in an effort to increase the output. The well was drilled jointly by the Deep Oil-Lindsay interests to a depth of 5700 feet in an effort to pick up if possible the Oklahoma City horizon but, after encountering several hundred feet of hard lime, was abandoned. The test is at present bailing and is producing between three and four barrels of oil an hour with a small amount of water. The hole was plugged back to 3690 feet, the bottom of the sand which is the second oil horizon picked up. At 2220 feet the Chalk Hill or 2200-foot sand was passed through in order to go to the 5000-foot contract depth. Progress on this test is being watched with interest as a commercial producer will be the means of adding a real deep sand to the many already producing in this district.

NORTHEAST OF OLD MACON

Kelly and others No. 1 A. P. Nichols, a 2500-foot test located in lot 1, block 39, A. T. N. C. L. survey, north Archer county, a wildcat, Tuesday night was drilling at a total depth of 2380 feet.

NORTH YOUNG COUNTY

F. Lewis and associates No. 1 M. L. Herring, located in the southeast corner of the Herring farm, south of Olney in section 168, T. E. & L. survey, Young county, has spudded in and is drilling 300 feet.

American Pottery Workers Perfect Pattern of Silver

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 12. (AP)—The wizardry of the ancient silver smith has been challenged by the American pottery worker.

A pattern of silver deposit on the most delicate of tinted pottery was displayed at the annual glass and pottery exposition.

Silver deposit on glass has long been on the market but until this year it had been considered impractical if not impossible on pottery. It is so new that the company exhibiting it has only "experimental" numbers. It is featured mostly in vases and other decorative pieces.

Almost as startling a feature of the exposition is the trend back to realistic rather than bizarre and futuristic designs in China. The old garden flowers in their natural pastel tints lead the way.

Mexico Debt Moratorium Extended to Jan. 1, 1934

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 12. (AP)—The Lamont-Montes Oca agreement of 1930 for a moratorium on Mexico's foreign debt has been extended to Jan. 1, 1934, adding another 18 months to the time limit originally fixed, President Ortiz Rubio has announced.

The announcement was made last night to a special session of the Mexican congress, called to ratify the extension agreement, which was made by the ministry of finance and a committee of international bankers in New York, the original agreement, signed in New York in 1930, called for expiration of the moratorium on July 25 of this year.

The president said the further postponement was negotiated because depleted national income had made repayments impossible, but that Mexico had agreed, subject to congressional ratification, to begin the payments on or before Jan. 1, 1934.

Sunset News

SUNSET, Texas, Jan. 12.—The farmers of this area experienced many distressing hardships during the past year, and are several jumps from satisfactory circumstances now, but many of them are better prepared to start a crop this year than they were for the beginning of the crop of the past season. Farmers were not alone in the suffering of disappointments, but, generally, they withstood the trying discouragements of the season as well as any other class of people here.

Bitter as these hardships have been, they are promoting plans for better and more substantial agricultural and business policies here in the future. Many farmers here have been forced to a close practice of economy and they are learning its real worth. They could not borrow money last year but at least the greater number had plenty to eat all year and made better crops than they did the year before. Many farmers here say they are done with the habit of borrowing money to spend while making a crop.

Closer attention is being given to crop diversification than was done in former years. Many are studying the grade of soil they aim to work and are planning for what they think may be the most profitable products to cultivate on it. Altogether, a large variety of farm and garden products will be planted and cultivated.

Absolute necessity caused great efforts to be made here last year toward the cultivation of a crop of vegetables and as a result many gardeners had plenty of fresh vegetables to eat during the summer and a surplus to put up for winter use. Quite a number have a supply of canned vegetables sufficient to last them until spring. Many women learned more last year about canning vegetables than they ever knew before.

It now appears that the distressing experience of the past several months are causing farmers here, men and women, to try to study out plans whereby they may become more progressive and prosperous in the future, and these efforts will result in the upbuilding of agricultural enterprises in this section of the country.

Representative John N. Garner is developing a pecan tree at his home at Uvalde, Texas, which he hopes will bear 12 varieties.

TWO CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE OPEN ANNUAL DRIVES TODAY

SENIORS SEEK 900 MEMBERS

Junior Division Sets Goal at 350 Workers

With members and money as their dual goal, both the Junior and senior chambers of commerce here will throw an elaborate organization into the field Wednesday morning to complete the annual membership drives before Saturday night.

The senior organization wants to keep its present 700 members and add 200 more to the list. The budget calls for $35,000.

The goals of the younger group are 350 members and $4,200 to meet the budget.

Both groups of workers, organized under C. H. Featherston and H. R. Cramer and general directors, will meet at 7:30 Wednesday morning for breakfast at the Wichita club. J. L. Jackson Jr., retiring president of the senior body, and his newly elected successor, will address the campaigners. The general chairman and the eight "majors" who will direct the smaller groups, will give instructions.

The first reports are expected to be made in a luncheon at the Wichita club at noon Wednesday.

In a plea for support in the drive, Chairman Featherston pointed out that both membership and money are necessary to carry out a constructive program of work during the year to come.

"I realize that some of our faithful supporters will be unable to pay this year" the chairman added. "That is all the more reason why those of us who have the money should do everything possible to meet this budget, definitely reduced from last year's demands."

Salvation Army Leaders Ready For Rally Here

Preparations are now being completed by the Salvation Army here for the entertainment of about 150 leaders in young peoples' work of the organization throughout Northwest Texas who are to hold a three-day congress here beginning Saturday, Jan. 16.

With three officers from national headquarters at Atlanta, Ga., and two from state headquarters in Dallas in charge, conferences will be held three times daily throughout the session. Services held on Saturday and Sunday will be open to the public. They will be conducted in the Salvation Army hall on Seventh street.

Alex M. Damon, lieutenant-commissioner; Mrs. Damon, and Sidney Cox, young people's secretary for the South, all from Atlanta, will be in charge of the congress. They will be assisted by Lieut. Col. David Main and Mrs. Main from Dallas.

Open air meetings to be held Saturday night will be preceded by a parade to be led by the local American Legion drum and bugle corps.

Abilene, Amarillo, Graham, Big Spring, Lubbock, Pampa, Plainview and Wichita Falls young people's corps are to participate in the three-days' convention.

City Teachers to Meet Thursday Night

A general teachers meeting, to be attended by instructors in the local public schools, will be held in the auditorium of the Zundelowitz Junior high school Thursday night, starting at 7 o'clock.

Dr. George P. Horst will be the main speaker. Music will be furnished by the orchestra of that school, directed by Miss Minnie T. Baker.

The following men were named for the chairmanship of the committees indicated: George D. Fox, finance; T. J. Waggoner Jr., troop organization; Rev. Finis A. Crutchfield, court of honor; H. D. Don Ross, scoutmaster of troop No. 12, was made deputy scout commissioner. Working in conjunction with J. L. McMahon, scout commissioner, Mr. Ross will be available for instruction of troops and for any other administrative aid needed by scoutmasters.

On Friday night, Jan. 15, all Boy Scouts of this city are to hold a get-together party in the basement of the First Presbyterian church at 7 o'clock.

Scoutmasters of Wichita Falls are to hold an over-night camp at Camp Ephraim Griffin, at Diversion lake, Saturday, it was announced. They will go out on their own schedules during the day, according to Frank B. Creighton, scout executive; and will return early Sunday morning to this city. Plans for the Boy Scout anniversary week program, for Feb. 7-14, will be formulated Saturday night at the camp, it was said.

Olney Physician Wins Instructed Verdict

Dr. George B. Hamilton, defendant, was given an instructed verdict in his favor late Monday afternoon by Judge Allan D. Montgomery in the 30th district court in the suit of J. R. Curington for $35,000 damages, it was learned Tuesday.

Transferred from Young county, the suit was based upon an alleged improper setting bones broken in an automobile accident Nov. 8, 1930. Boone & Duff of Wichita Falls; E. G. Thornton, Graham; Walter Nelson Jr., Wichita Falls, and Ralph Malone of Dallas were attorneys for the defendant.

Cook in the 78th district court.

BLUE CURTAIN PLAY THURSDAY

Junior College Group to Give Comedy

Light entertainment of pronounced appeal will be offered Thursday night at the Junior college auditorium when the Blue Curtain club players, directed by Miss Juanita Kinsey, will present the Nugent brothers' facetious comedy, "Kempie."

The play affords a cross-sectional view of the modern "younger generation," represented by a group of typical characters. Social entanglements of great complexity enmesh them; problems of apparently great import confront them; but the ingenuity and buoyancy of youth provide a solution for each amusing situation.

Fostering of dramatic work among the students of Wichita Falls Junior college is the prime objective of Thursday night's play, for all net proceeds are to be set aside for sending representatives to district meets.

In 1931, the Blue Curtain club players won first place in the state tournament. In each year of competition, the local organization has gained special recognition.

Thursday night's play is to begin at 8 o'clock. Tickets have been priced at 25 cents, and are on sale at Renfro's Drug store.

STUDENTS WIN HONORS

The Wichita Falls High school has the honor of receiving more awards than any other high school in the country except a high school of New York City in the recent George Washington essay contest staged throughout the United States by the Literary Digest.

A. F. Edwards, head of the history department in the high school and Junior college, made the announcement Tuesday after a general assembly program in which 10 awards of first and second prize medals were made to local students. The prize winners from Wichita Falls High school and Junior college and the places they held are as follows: Max Wooten, first, and Ida Faye Tims, second; Mary Elizabeth Smith, first, and Pauline Pistocco, second; Jack Campbell, first, and Cecil Burrows, second; Elmer Lee Fondren, first, and Theda Smith, second; Mary Sue Shankin, first, and Mary Sue Hansard, second.

A code of ethics for assembly conduct, as compiled of a student and teacher committee last spring, was read by T. F. Richardson, instructor. Mr. Richardson, who is sponsor of the local Hi-Y organization, reminded the students of the Older Boys conference to be held here. He said that the theme of some of the conferences this year will be "What Does God Expect of the Older Boys?" He also announced that Ben Marcus is chairman of the registration committee.

Hi-Y Meeting

Joe Witherspoon was elected "congressman" from Wichita Falls to represent the local older boys at the Older Boys' conference to be held here Jan. 29 and 30, when members of the Hi-Y met at the Highland Heights Christian church Monday in regular session.

As it is customary for each town to have a "congressman," the boys selected Joe Witherspoon.

Besides the election, an important feature of the meeting was a discussion of what will happen during the coming conference here by T. F. Richardson, sponsor of the Hi-Y club. Mr. Richardson at the beginning of the meeting led the boys in prayer. Later he appointed Ed Bebb, Sidney Covington and Nathan Chenault to act as a car committee, arranging for cars to carry visitors during the conference.

Ben Marcus, chairman of the registration committee, made a report, stating that more than half of the set quota of registrations has already been turned in.

Raymond Cyr entertained with several popular and semi-classical piano numbers. The boys together sang "Rock of Ages" and "Come Thou Almighty King."

"I was afraid Grandfather would be Shocked..

"HE'S rather a bossy old darling, and I didn't know how he'd like the idea of my smoking.

"The first time I lit a Chesterfield in front of him, he sniffed like an old war-horse... and I braced myself for trouble. But all he said was, 'That's good tobacco, Chickabiddy.'

"But I still think that if he hadn't been so impressed by the quality of Chesterfield, the old dear might have been less agreeable. Human nature is like that!

"Grandfather raised tobacco in his younger days, so he knows what's what. I don't, of course—but I do know that Chesterfields are milder. It's wonderful to be able to smoke whenever you want, with no fear you'll smoke too many.

"And it doesn't take a tobacco expert to prove that Chesterfield tobaccos are better. They taste better... that's proof enough. Never too sweet. No matter when I smoke them... or how many I smoke... they always taste exactly right.

"They must be absolutely pure... even to the paper which doesn't taste at all. In fact... as the ads say... 'They Satisfy!'"
