MRS. PANKHURST DENIED PERMISSION TO LAND

DEPORTATION FOR MRS. PANKHURST

MILITANT SUFFRAGETTE LEADER
NOT PERMITTED TO LAND
IN UNITED STATES

AN APPEAL IS TO BE FILED

Conviction for Acts Involving Moral Turpitude Abroad Grounds for Militant's Exclusion

By Associated Press.
New York, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, foremost of English militant suffragettes, who reached America today on the liner Provance, to appeal for the sympathy and support of the American people in the "revolution" for which she says she is fighting, is a prisoner tonight at Ellis Island under order of deportation awaiting the issue of an appeal which is expected to be decided tomorrow at Washington.

Miss Rheta Childs Borz, another militant, was voluntarily detained, that she might be with the leader. Mrs. Pankhurst was detained by an immigration inspector on her arrival here, and was at once taken before a special board of inquiry which after examining her for an hour, decided, because she had been convicted abroad for acts involving moral turpitude, she was an undesirable alien. The board therefore, ordered her exclusion. An appeal immediately was entered and immigration Commissioner Camanetti is to hear argument on her case tomorrow in Washington.

Confident of Release
Mrs. Pankhurst's representative expressed confidence that the "militant" would be released under bond for three weeks so she might fill her speaking engagements here. She had tonight still another recourse under consideration.

"Of course, even if the appeal fails, we still have the habeas corpus proceeding," she said.

Mrs. Pankhurst was on the point of starting a "hunger strike" when she heard that the deportation order was issued, but on learning that a speedy decision of the appeal was probable, she broke the fast and swallowed with evident relief a chicken sandwich and a pot of tea.

"I have great faith in the American people's sense of justice and fair play, and I know they want to give me a chance to defend the movement which has been so misrepresented. There is no doubt that my detention is unjust," Mrs. Pankhurst declared.

Mrs. Pankhurst's indignation. Three things in her examination seemed particularly to arouse the militant's indignation. One was that she was accused of moral turpitude; another, that the proceedings were in secret, and the third, that her "political opponents" in England had, in her belief, furnished much of the material used by the special board in questions put to her.

Her examiners were courteous "more or less," she admitted.

VICTORY HERALDED BY HEAD OF VANQUISHED

Mexican Rebels Display Head of Federal General from End of a Pole

By Associated Press.
Douglas, Ariz., Oct. 18.—The ancient system of heralding victory by making public demonstrations with the heads of the conquered was revived at Puerto Simoleon at the time of occupation by the rebels two weeks ago according to stories told here today by travelers. After the invasion of Puerto, Yaqui Indians pursued the retreating federals and captured, among others, Prefecto Torres, a federal commander, who is said, threatened to execute any constitutionalists he caught.

The Indians put Torres to death and returned with his head, parading it about the streets on a pole.

U.S. No Longer Factor In World's Commerce In Beef

By Associated Press.
Washington, Oct. 18.—Exit American cattle and beef as a factor in world commerce. This virtually, is the declaration of the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce which announced today that such exports had dropped in less than a decade to a starting extent. In 1904, the bureau's statisticians found this country sent cattle and beef abroad to the value of more than $4,000,000 during the eight months ending with August. In the corresponding eight months of this year, a scant million dollars in such products have gone to the larders of the people of other lands.

CLAPP'S BILL PASSES SENATE

WOULD PROHIBIT SENDING CAMPAIGN FUNDS FROM ONE STATE TO ANOTHER

MEASURE UP TO HOUSE

Believed Measure Would Curtail Soliciting of Campaign Funds in Money Centers

By Associated Press.
Washington, Oct. 18.—The first direct result of the congressional investigation of campaign expenditures came today when the Senate without debate, passed Senator Clapp's bill prohibiting the sending of campaign funds from one state to another. If the House approves the measure, it will put a rigid limitation, not only upon the activities of general political interests, but also upon the work of such organizations as the National Association of Manufacturers, the American Federation of Labor and the National Association of Women's Suffrage.

The bill prohibits the carrying or sending of funds from one state to another to be used in the election of presidents, vice presidents, presidential electors or congressmen.

In previous discussions in the Senate, it was made clear the purpose of the bill was to prevent financing of campaign in a secret manner by organizations or individuals who did not come directly under the campaign publicity laws. The proposed new law would not prohibit the present work of the national political committees so long as they make public reports of all contributions received and expended. Practically all national committees send contributions to the state committees of their parties during a national election. It is believed the measure would curtail soliciting of campaign funds in money centers and greatly curb general campaign activities on the part of persons or organizations that might be indirectly interested in the outcome of elections.

SUPPLEMENTARY BRIEF IN BEHALF OF THAW

Alleged he is Detained Under a Defective Requisition—No Indictment

By Associated Press.
Concord, N. H., Oct. 18.—In a supplementary brief on behalf of Harry K. Thaw, filed today by his counsel with Governor Feltner, it is declared that Thaw has been detained under arrest nearly six weeks on a defective requisition petition, supported by the allegation of an indictment which never existed and during all that time no indictment has been obtained. The brief questions whether the requisition for Thaw's extradition is made in good faith and whether New York demands Thaw's return for the purpose of trying him for conspiracy or for the purpose of incarcerating him in the Matteawan Hospital for the Insane.

SULZER MAKES A SPEECH

Letter From Roosevelt Read—Ex-Governor Recieves Flattering Offers for Lectures

By Associated Press.
Albany, N. Y., Oct. 18.—There was red fire, oratory and music by a brass band at the executive mansion tonight when several hundred admirers of William Sulzer called to present him with a loving cup. Rain fell while the marchers were en route to the mansion. Sulzer started to shake hands with all his callers but never completed the task. They crowded around him and refused to move.

Someone said a few words of consolation to him, only to be interrupted by Mrs. Sulzer.

"The action of the court is the least of our troubles," she said. The crowd began to cheer.

"We'll have you back next year, Bill," one man yelled. Another enthusiast cried:

"Hurrah for the next president of the United States," whereupon there was much cheering.

Murphy's Name Brings Hisses.
Chester C. Platt, Sulzer's secretary, read a speech, assuring Sulzer that he had been removed because he would not obey the bosses. Mention of the name of Charles F. Murphy brought hisses.

"Lynch him," shouted one man, at the mention of the name of an assemblyman.

The cup presented Sulzer was inscribed "To William Sulzer, a victim of corrupt bossism, October 17, 1913."

Sulzer in a speech said:
"Had I obeyed the bosses instead of my oath of office I would still be the governor and the organization would be patting me on the back and telling the people that I was a second Andrew Jackson. My condemnation by the boss is intended to serve as a warning and a lesson to all who may follow me. Of what will happen to them if they do not obey orders, but I believe my fate will have a good effect in the end and do more than any single thing I could do to forever destroy the terror of bossism in the State of New York."

Roosevelt's Letter Made Public.
A letter which Col. Roosevelt wrote Sulzer October 3 last was given out. It was in response to one from Sulzer telling Roosevelt that on advice of counsel, Sulzer could not permit a letter he wrote the former president regarding the impeachment to be made public. The letter said:

"I thank you for your letter, and I am sorry that I have to leave before your defense is made public. I wish it had been possible for you to write me the letter of which you wrote, giving me the definite facts as to the effort by Mr. Murphy to bend you to his interests, against the cause of honesty and decency in popular government and the promise of immunity to you from impeachment if you would cease your attacks on the men who have been guilty of misconduct in public office, and if you would cease demands for direct primaries."

Flattering Offers To Sulzer.
Platt also gave out copies of several telegrams Sulzer had received offering him lectures. A Kansas City man bid $10,000 for one lecture; a New Yorker bid $20,000 for ten lectures; another New Yorker $50,000 for fifty, and a Chicago promoter topped the list with $100,000 for a season. As yet Sulzer has closed no contracts. This was the last night Sulzer occupied the executive mansion. He will leave tomorrow for Cooperstown, where he will spend a few days and from there he will go to the mountains, probably returning to New York City.

STATE FAIR IS OPENED AT DALLAS

Twenty-Eighth Annual Exposition Formally Opened by Acting Governor Mayes

IMPRESSIVE SCENE OF JOY WITNESSED

Mother Presented With Children Whom She Believed Lost on the Volturno

By Associated Press.
Dallas, Texas, Oct. 18.—The State Fair of Texas swung open its gates for its twenty-eighth annual exposition here today. The opening address was delivered by Acting Governor Will H. Mayes, following a civic parade, in which he rode with his official staff and members of the supreme court of Texas.

There were brief addresses by Mayor Holland and President Eckford of the Fair Association. The first day given up for lost, brought tears to the eyes of the immigration officers.

Mrs. Polack was the last woman to leave the Volturno. Believing her three children were in the boat, she attempted to spring into the water when she found they were not there. In New York, for the first time, she learned that the children were saved by a boat from the Kroonland. They were at the dock with their father when she arrived.

HUERTA'S RESIGNATION RUMORS NOT CONFIRMED

RUMORS REACHED WASHINGTON

WERE SO PERSISTENT THAT SHAUGHNESSY WAS WIRED
FOR INFORMATION

REPORT IS NOT CREDITED

Washington Official Could Not Conceive That Such Action Could Be in Sincerity

By Associated Press.
Washington, Oct. 18.—Throughout the day, officials heard various reports and rumors that Provisional President Huerta of Mexico had resigned or intended to do so, that he had secretly left the capital and that General Blanquet would succeed. The state department received so many inquiries that it called Charge O'Shaughnessy for information. The receipt this afternoon of the positive statement from Mexico City that Huerta did not intend to resign somewhat clarified the situation, so administration officials were in hopes that the elimination of Huerta might eventually materialize.

Report Not Credited.
There has been little disposition at any time, however, to credit the report that Huerta actually had submitted his resignation to his cabinet and that it was refused because no successor able to cope with the situation could be found. Officials here declared it inconceivable that Huerta should submit his resignation to a cabinet he had just dismissed and that the state congress had designated in his stead a military governor, General Hernandez.

Comparatively few Americans are left in Torreon and vicinity, and the difficulty of getting foreigners out of danger in places where they were completely cut off from communication appears to have passed.

State department advices from elsewhere reported that the governor of the State of Colima had resigned and that the state congress had designated in his stead a military governor, General Hernandez.

Comparatively few Americans are left in Torreon and vicinity, and the difficulty of getting foreigners out of danger in places where they were completely cut off from communication appears to have passed.

MORE TALK FROM HENRY LANE WILSON

Ambassador to Mexico Whose Resignation Was Accepted Criticizes Administration

By Associated Press.
Spokane, Wash., Oct. 18.—"The government of Provisional President Huerta is just as legal as the government of Roosevelt when he succeeded to the presidency, after the assassination of President McKinley," declared Henry Lane Wilson, former United States ambassador to Mexico in an address on the Mexican situation at a banquet tendered him here last night.

"President Wilson could recognize Huerta and still save his face," as he has been trying to do," said Mr. Wilson, "if President Wilson does not get behind the Huerta government, chaos is going to come and we will have to go down and take care of the country. We would have to supervise the election and then the president would be labeled 'the gringo' president. As soon as our soldiers had left the Mexicans would get out their knives and we would have to go back again. That would mean controlling the country and all the countries to the Panama Canal."

Discussing the Madero regime, Mr. Wilson said eighty-four Americans had been killed in Mexico and not one murderer had been punished. He said six months prior to the overthrow of Madero the entire country wanted it, yet the death of the two Maderos seems to have agitated the United States government more than the murder of the Americans.

Wilson said that a troop train proceeding to Torreon had been blown up, he explained.

"More lies; nothing of the kind has occurred."

In the opinion of President Huerta, the sensational rumors have originated with enemies of the administration at the capital and elsewhere for the effect that they would have with the constitutionalists. General Huerta is working fifteen to eighteen hours daily, sleeping at odd times when fatigue overtakes him.

By Associated Press.
Mexico City, Oct. 18.—The rumor of President Huerta's resignation and flight caused a sensation in the capital. Many believed it, finding circumstances to bolster up the story, such as the departure of several individuals close to the president and difficulty in founding any permanent minister.

Few remembered having seen Gen. Huerta for a day or two. In connection with the resignation, (Continued on Page 5)

It means emancipation from clothes dissatisfaction. Read this important document for the sake of your appearance—and your purse.

You can claim anything that you're able to write in an advertisement, but in this age and generation you must make good every statement or quit advertising, for the simple reason that exaggeration or false statement invariably defeats their own ends. Talk isn't cheap in the advertising columns of this paper, and we will not trifle it with high-sounding adjectives that mean less than nothing when boiled out. We claim to every man in this town our ability to save him money—there's a flat statement of fact stripped bare as a plucked goose. These three live Globe stores are the largest cash purchasers of high-grade clothing. We figure on volume, the profit on our individual sales is so small that the little fellow hasn't a chance to duplicate the values we give. We do not quarrel with any man who is compelled to charge $5.00 to $10.00 more for a suit than we do, in order to make a living, but we do think that any man is foolish who gives up extra money unnecessarily. Buy your fall suit here and save that extra $5.00 or $10.00. That's why our business keeps on growing and growing and why the larger it grows the better values we give. BULL MOVEMENT IS FORECASTED

Good Tone in Cotton Market Despite Unfavorable Attitude of English Market

By Associated Press.
New Orleans, Oct. 18.—This week the cotton market saw what appeared to be the finish of the wide reaction after the long continued advance of the early fall and the beginning of a new bull movement. At the end of the week, it was rumored that prominent local traders had left for New York, and this was taken to be significant in connection with developments concerning the spot division in the future market.

The net results of the week were an advance of twenty-one to twenty-five points. The high prices were made on Friday and the low prices on Wednesday. At the highest the trading months were thirty-three to thirty-seven points over last week's close; at the lowest, they were twenty-four to twenty-seven points under. Up to the middle of the week the reaction downward still on, but a change for the worse in weather conditions gave the bull the upper hand. Buying of a strong character made its appearance and was supplemented by rather general short covering. Those who took the long side were quick to realize profits and their selling for this purpose checked upward movements. The close of the week, however, was with a very good tone in spite of the unfavorable attitude of the English market.

In the spot department, prices made no change, middling closing at 3.16 against the same prices last week and 10.31 this week. Last year's sales on the spot amounted to 5352 bales against 1799 last week and 2015 this week last year.

GEN. FELIX DIAZ REACHES HAVANA

Threatened Attempt to Assassinate Him Fails to Develop—Will Proceed to Mexico

By Associated Press.
Havana, Oct. 18.—General Felix Diaz arrived here today from Europe. He was greeted on his steamer by Senor de la Garza, recently appointed Mexican consul general at Paris. Garza tried to persuade Diaz to discontinue his journey to Mexico. Gen. Diaz refused to listen. He told the Associated Press that he would proceed to Mexico and had no intention of abandoning his presidential aspirations. He said he was fully convinced that the election would take place October 26.

He refused to express any opinion on other aspects of Mexican affairs. Because of rumors that an attempt would be made by Mexican conspirators to assassinate General Diaz in Havana, a strong force of police went aboard his vessel immediately on her arrival. The steamer will continue her journey tomorrow.

PORFIRIO DIAZ, FORMER MASTER OF MEXICO, RETURNING TO HELP HIS NEPHEW, FELIX, WIN PRESIDENCY

Mexico City, Oct. 18.—The Mexican republic awaits with keen interest the arrival of General Porfirio Diaz, former dictator, who was exiled from the country two years ago and has been in many parts of the world since. When the report was received that he had sailed from Spain for Mexico the news was not unexpected, but it was nevertheless alarming in certain quarters. It was taken to mean that the former president would attempt to regain his old hold over the affairs of the republic through the medium of his nephew, Felix Diaz, if the latter was elected president at the October elections. His arrival will be an important event in the present disturbed history of the country and may have international significance because of the attitude of the United States.

Scheme Said To Be On Foot To Place Lower Prices Upon Broadway's Productions

New York, Oct. 18.—The "moral" end of Broadway is pretty safe and sane, despite the frantic assertions of its detractors. The avalanche of red light plays that threatened to engulf the theatrical Main street and all the drama into white slavery is lying of its own weight. As fast as the red light plays have bobbed up their heads, they have been swatted unmercifully by public opinion.

Most of them have died a born-in and such of them as survived at all, have accomplished the feat through the ruthless pruning and sweeping reform. "Today," the latest of the ill-smelling offerings, met its fate at the new Forty-eighth Street Theater, a playhouse the management of which should have taken warning from "The Smoldering Fire," which had a run of one night. "Today" was not enough to brag about. There was no excuse whatever for "Today." Even charitable-minded critics, with microscopes could find no semblance of a moral lesson in the piece.

A beautiful young wife, reared in poverty, and spoiled by the luxury of her silly husband—heaped upon her while he was prosperous, chafed bitterly at the straightened circumstances in which she found herself when her husband failed. Though the part in which they lived with his ruin was better in every way than the wife's girlhood home, she constantly complained. A former society friend, also in straightened circumstances, told the young wife how she could make money for herself by visiting a Riverside Drive flat. "Today" differed from "The Lure" and "The Fight," in that its lurid third act was in a gilded flat instead of a red-light resort. The wronged husband, becoming the agent of the apartment house, his wife frequently sees her picture on the table when he goes to collect the rent.

He obtains an appointment with his wife, and when he meets her, desires to kill her. He is prevented by the

GROSSER KURFURST

The Grosser Kurfurst of the North German Lloyd line was due to arrive in New York with the first of the rescued passengers from the Uranium liner. Voltorno, which was burned in mid-Atlantic. This ship rescued the greatest number of the 533 who were saved. She had on board 106 saved passengers. The Carmania, which was the first and largest liner to answer the "S. O. S." signals calling for instant help, carried only one saved passenger to England. William Seddon, chief wireless operator of the Voltorno, was one of the heroes of the sea tragedy. He stuck to his post to the last, despite the approaching flames, sending the signals for help. Miss Van Kruger, chief stewardess and H. G. Lang, assistant purser, were reported to have aided in the work of helping the passengers.

pleas of his aged father and mother, who arrive in the nick of time. The wife is left weeping in the flat. The play is not even logical. It would be absurd for a fashionable woman to leave her photograph lying around such a flat. . . the woman who kept the resort knew the husband, she would not have arranged the meeting and if she did not know him, how came it that she summoned his father and mother? The play was first produced at a Yiddish theater on the East Side and then George Broadhurst brushed it up for Broadway.

The New Forty-eighth Street Theater, by the way, is having a hard time of it. The playhouse was opened with "Kiss Me Quick" a farce by Bartholomew, which was so far from successful that it was forced to take to the suburbs, Brooklyn, Harlem and the Bronx after a few weeks. Then came "The Smoldering Flame," a worked-over version of "Deborah" that Canada suppressed a year ago. It flickered one night and then went out. Its theme, too, was inexcusable. The heroine had the mother-instinct but no husband. Undaunted, she satisfied her instinct, and then took up a whole act defending her conduct with talk.

"The Lure" and "The Fight" after sessions with the police and grand jury were turned down and their objectionable lines and settings were cut out. Both continue to enjoy good runs.

Two dollar shows for $1 is the idea that just now is buzzing around Broadway. James K. Hackett is said to be revolving a scheme to obtain a Broadway theater and put on some of his former successes at $1 a head. Should the venture succeed, he would then put on some brand-new productions at that figure. Since J. J. Rosenthal came to Broadway out of the West with his one-dollar show idea, other managers have had their eye on him, and it is predicted that if any one-dollar venture makes good all the other managers will try it. Rosenthal's "Candy Shop," a musical comedy, is playing throughout the West at $1 and is said to be playing to capacity every night. It succeeded beyond expectations at the Tabor Grand Theater, Denver, and will be put on at $1 a seat in Anderson Gaiety Theater, San Francisco.

Wagenhals & Kemper, famous in years gone by for putting on some of the most successful plays seen on Broadway, will get back into the producing game on Monday, when their newest play, "After Five," will have its premiere. After a week in the dog towns it will be seen at the Fulton Theater here. Several years ago Wagenhals & Kemper quit producing. They gave up their theaters and devoted their attention to selling the rights to their old successes. From play producers, they became play brokers, but this did not satisfy the veteran managers and it was no surprise to theatrical people and players when they announced early in the season that they would buck the old game again. The rehearsals of "After Five" caused a ripple of excitement on the Rialto. Forrest Winant, playing a leading part in "The Family Cupboard," quietly rehearsed a role in the Wagenhals & Kemper show. Last week he gave his notice to William A. Brady, but Brady refused to let him go, claiming he held Winant's contract. Wagenhals &

Kemper likewise showed a contract. Winant cast the deciding vote and went with the new play.

Wichita Falls, Texas, Oct. 19, 1913

Acting Governor Mays pushed the bill which started the great Dallas
Fair off yesterday.

Who would have thought the State of Texas could struggle along as well as she has, with O. B. Colquhoun away visiting Panama and Cuba?

Each convict in the Texas penitentiary costs the state $200 a year,
while in some states, in Minnesota, for instance, each convict earns the state a net profit of $250 a year.

Dallas has been fussing several weeks about a "religious census." If the preachers and Sunday school superintendents (and State Press) would all meet somewhere and register, the job would be over and there need be no great amount of fussing about it or inconvenience to anybody.—Mt. Pleasant Times-Review.

They tied the can to Sulzer, not for being guilty of "high crimes and misdemors" but for not toting fair with the gang, and when the deposed governor likens his treatment to a "political lynching" he seems to forget that even a lynching may have some elements of justice about it.

Wichita Falls issued about $1,000,000 in building permits during the first year of the ordinance was in effect. This is an average of about $90,000 a month, close to $3000 per day. It doesn't include thousands and thousands of dollars spent just outside of the city limits in the factory district, and it doesn't include a great many buildings that were built and for which no permit was taken out. But it's ahead of towns in Texas that have three or four times Wichita Falls' population, at that.

If it is true, as is asserted so often, that the "higher" educational institutions of the state are suffering on account of insufficient appropriations to maintain and support them as they should be, there is a reason for it. The school teachers are trying to play too much politics. It is perhaps all right to leave to their judgment the selection of a candidate for state school superintendent, and they are generally accorded this courtesy. It is a matter upon which they are in a far better position to pass upon than the rest of us. But that is as far as they, as an organized body, should divulge into the political game. When they go further and endorse other candidates for state officers, and the candidates they endorse are elected, they fare all right. But in the event the candidates they, as an organization, endorse fail of election, then the state educational institutions suffer. It may be wrong, but it is true nevertheless.
Therefore, it is best on the whole to keep the schools out of politics.

The advertiser who, in writing his ads, does what he says he will do, can well afford to advertise. On the other hand, the fellow who can't meet his competitors' prices prefers not to advertise at all, and that is his affair.
He will get some business but not much from people who keep their eyes peeled as to prices by reading the newspaper ads. It stands to reason that a merchant who advertises constantly and persistently is going to sell more goods than the fellow who sits down and waits for the trade to back up to him, and it does stand to reason that the fellow who can manage to sell more goods by advertisement can sell them for a less profit, even after paying for the advertising. Only in very rare instances does this plan fail. Where one merchant who advertises persistently fails, there are a dozen who do not advertise. The observant man knows this is true a gospel, and the observant man generally patronizes the merchants who advertise; the live-wire kind.

When the leaders of the Farmers Union line up with the corporations, barter their prestige and influence in consideration of free transportation to their different Farmers meetings, it is the beginning of the end of their usefulness, and the destruction of the end of their usefulness, and the destruction of the Union, as every organization has heretofore gone the same way. When you see it published abroad that in every controversy that the corporations are having the Farmers Union through some attorney, or leader, is taking sides with them, it is then time for the Farmers Union to look about for a new set of leaders, or sing the Long Metre doxology and be dismissed forever.—Free Lance (Dallas).

The farmers are in the majority in Texas, and the office-seekers and those who are always seeking special favors are fully aware of this fact. For a newspaper man to sell advertising and take in exchange for it railroad transportation was looked upon as something awful. Perhaps it was wrong.
For the sake of the argument, this paper is ready to admit that the practice did have a tendency to cause newspapers to be just a little bit too friendly or partial to the railroad. But now that it has been abolished the Times is glad of it. But under what sort of obligations are the railroads to the farmers that they are so willing and ready to furnish them with free transportation to any and all of their va-cuous meetings?

ed rebuff, these two elements play their important part in the heart of the amiable president of the Mexicans as he looks northward.—Dallas Times-

Record of Spiritualistic Seances In-

—A Remarkable Case

By Associated Press.
Murfreesboro, Ark., Oct. 18.—A jury in the circuit court here this afternoon declared insane T. T. Turner, the aged Glenwood man who on September 18 attempted to end his life in his home in Glenwood, together with his wife and adopted daughter, Miss Rhodie Carter. Mrs. Turner and Miss Carter died. As soon as possible, Turner will be committed to the state insane asylum.

Attorneys for J. G. Farrell the blind Glenwood man who yesterday was declared guilty of second degree murder for having encouraged the suicide pact, declared today that they will demand a new trial. Turner was a witness against Farrell and his lawyers say the fact that Turner has been declared insane disqualifies him as a witness.

In declaring Turner insane the jurors were influenced by a 151-page record that Turner kept of the spiritualistic seances held in his home, at which Farrell acted as medium. The record declares that Turner received spirit messages from his dead adopted son, Robert Ingersoll Turner, who as a spirit urged the Turners and Miss Carter to attain the peace and quiet of the spirit world by ending their lives.

Boston, Oct. 18.—"The atrocities in the Balkan war of which we read are all true in principle," said Professor Rushnell Hart of Harvard before the ciation today. Professor Hart who spent last summer in the Balkans continued:

"It will be hard to put an end to these atrocities, because the people tilities are not yet ended and I should not be surprised if they break out again in a few years. There never

Joplin, Mo., Oct. 18.—Walter John-ment at his home in Coffeyville, Kansas, to pitch against Christy Mathew-son in Joplin when the New York Nationals and the Chicago Americans play here October 27.

HOW ABOUT OUR CIVIC PRIDE?

As one who has felt no little interest in the progress of Wichita Falls, the writer wonders if the citizens of this enterprising city are losing their well earned civic pride? The sidewalks all over the city are largely being allowed to overgrow with grass and this could easily be remedied if each man would take care of his own sidewalk. The continued rains this season have of course made the grass and weeds worse than usual, but even if they cannot be all mowed down conveniently, still it is a very easy matter to spade them off the edge of the walks and by a small effort add greatly to the service of the walks and the general appearance of the city. I have been wondering why the Civic League has not taken up this matter, and hope they will make an extra effort toward a campaign along these lines of "A Cleaner City."

WILSON, MISCHIEF MAKER.

Let us hasten to say, right here in the first sentence, that we refer to Henry Lane Wilson, former ambassador to Mexico, and not to our president. Dispatches from Washington state that the ambassador's resignation went into effect Tuesday, October 14. We believe the Mexican situation would not be so tense now, if Wilson had resigned before Huerta became provisional president. It was the American ambassador's congratulatory speech to Huerta which European nations interpreted as forecasting recognition by the United States. This interpretation caused powerful countries across the Atlantic, notably England and Germany, to recognize Huerta. This recognition strengthened Huerta's hold on the presidential position and doubtless has encouraged him to take his recent bold stand. But for the ambassador's ill-advised utterances, European nations would have waited developments and the election of October 26 might be reasonably looked forward to as one that will restore stable conditions in Mexico.

Furthermore, Huerta doubtless bought Wilson's felicitous phrases orcasated recognition by Uncle Sam.
"Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned," says the poet, but a man who has been "turned down" can be equally fu-gious. The position of our president, following the ambassador's stand, must have been like a dash of cold water in Huerta's surprised face. We can imagine his stamping foot in rage and saying pretty things in soft Castilian sentences, when he received from Woodrow Wilson what he must have interpreted as a stern rebuff.

"The fox that cannot reach the grapes can console himself by saying they are sour, anyhow. The fox that has been torn away, is not likely to be in any such philosophic mood. In arriving at Huerta's true attitude towards the United States, one must not overlook the human equation. Keen dis-

FORTY-TWO GUARDS ON WAY TO

ENGINEER SAW THE SMOKE

Stopped Train Just in Front of Explosion That Would Have Demol-

By Associated Press.
Calumet, Mich., Oct. 18.—Detectives were working today on clues in connection with an attempt at Copper City in the copper strike district this morning to blow up a Keweenaw Central passenger train which was carrying forty-two mine guards to the Mulhew mine and eighteen passengers to various Kenewenaw county points. The officers have a description of a man who is said to have lighted the fuse to a charge of dynamite which exploded and tore a section of the second section just as Engineer Cook who had seen the smoking fuse, stopped his train a short distance from the spot.

So great was the force of the explosion that a piece of shattered rail was blown through the window of a house a block from the scene. Mounted troops drove back several hundred strikers who surrounded the train and the guards were escorted to Mulhew.

As the Copper City affair was interfered with transportation of mail,
it will be made the subject of a report to the postoffice department and it is said a federal investigation may be made.

SOCIAL REGENERATION

Licentious and Immoral Dances Alike in Vice District and Homes of Wealthy Declares Dean

By Associated Press.
New York, Oct. 18.—"Segregation does not segregate; regulation does not regulate, but rather gives a false security. Absolute abolition is the ideal," the Rev. Dr. W. T. Sumner, dean of the cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul of Chicago, declared on commercialized vice in an address at a social service mass meeting here tonight. Not commercial organization, nor city clubs, nor social settlements are to be the ones to suppress vice, but the church must undertake the work, he said. Dr. Sumner said his cathedral was located "in the most vicious, poverty-stricken and immoral district in Chicago."

"Turn away from that district for a moment," he said, "and I'll take you to the part of Chicago where live people of wealth and presumably of culture and refinement, and what do I see? I find in their drawing rooms the same licentious, immoral, fantastically named dances that I have just left in the immoral resorts of my district. The police check these dances in the dance halls of the poor; what but a social regeneration can check them in the halls of the rich?"

About two months ago Tom Stirman an old time resident of Wichita Falls, suffered the fracture of both bones of one of his legs just above the ankle in a runaway in Oklahoma. The broken bones were set but for some reason they never knit together and instead of getting better Mr. Stirman was becoming worse. Friday Doctors Miller, Bennett and Coons reset the broken bones. Before doing so they found it necessary to cut away some of the ends of the bones. It is believed Mr. Stirman will recover the use of his leg as a result of the operation. 36 tfc

Balloon Ascension Friday Night—The first of a series of advertisements balloons was sent up promptly at 7:30 o'clock Friday night from the roof of the Wichita Hardware Co. stores at 804-806 Ohio Avenue. To this balloon was attached an envelope containing an order for $5.00 worth of stores if returned within four days from date. The balloon ascended to a height of several thousand feet and went in a southern direction. There was quite a stiff breeze and it was soon out of sight. The second balloon will be sent up next Friday night if the weather will permit.

WHEN THE CROW WASHED

SIDNEY FARON awoke from a bad dream. Again he was stranded in the intolerable heat, the depressing strangeness, the bustle and clamor of a little Western town. It was evening, and he sat with Carl Perrin at a table surrounded with rough men. The smoke-blackened lamps guttered in the sand-sharpened wind, filling the room with a sickening odor. Myriads of whirling insects smote his perspiring face. He heard Perrin's high, excited voice; his insolent, boyish sneers; his arbitrary denials when luck continued against him. There were taunts, warnings, an overturned table, a quick gunshot, and he had dragged his companion away in his arms—all but dead.

It was an episode in the one year of his sojourn with the unwashed that he had tried mightily hard to forget. With his marriage to Hope Perrin a week off, he had thought it buried in oblivion, but something in Carl's white, strained face when he hinted at business reverses; in his queer silence, and sudden return to the city after an hour with his uncle, old Neeser, Perrin, in the library, lingered, with a week-end visitor unpleasantly, and finally uncovered the nagging darkness in a breathless, vivid dream.

Sitting up in bed, Faron wiped the cold sweat from his face. It was very still in the great house, set back in its field of clipped grass and roses; only the dream-remembered man, awake, at this uncanny hour, or still—was there the shudder of an upward sliding window; a cautious footfall on the library's tiled floor! Intensely nervous from the nearness of his nightmare, he stopped breathing and listened. Yes, he was sure of it—some night prowler, secure in the heavy silence, or was it again he shuddered at the recurrence of his dream, and urged by uneasy forebodings, arose and hastily dressed. Taking a revolver from the dresser drawer, he opened his door into the long hall, where small details stood out suddenly in his overwrought mind—the flapping of a filmy curtain in the soft wind; the wheezing cough of old "Neeser" Perrin, as he turned in his unsuspecting sleep; the pale line of light under Hope's door; the cautious rustle and stir in the room below.

Light-shod, Faron slipped down the long stairway into the wide, court-like hall. Rare moonlight streamed from a colored window high up, and from glass doors opening into front and rear gardens. Night voices whirled in the great, brick fireplace, opposite the bar of light marking the all but closed library-door, and toward the light the man silently moved, glimpsing through the aperture an open window and safe, and the thin, boyish figure of Carl Perrin, stooping over a little tin trunk. Quietly he entered the room and laid his weapon on the table's edge.

"Put that away, Carl," he said evenly. Cornered, and wild with anger, Perrin turned a ghastly face upon him. "Close the window and sit down," Faron continued. "We'll see what can be done. I didn't know it was—was so bad!"

The thwarted man glared tensely at the shining weapon and then at Faron's calm face. "It's none of your business, anyway, Sid," he breathed heavily, closing the safe-door, with shaking hands; "and it's mighty little of you to butt in; but of course you don't care—you'd as lief see me behind the bars as not!"

"Would I, Carl?" reminded Faron; "remember that in less than a week you will be my brother, too!"

A sudden quivering came upon the younger man. "Yes, I know," he whispered, dropping into a chair and laying his face in his hands—"a thief or a prison-bird for a brother; but, good Lord, Sidney, what am I to do?"

"Tell me," insisted Faron, "just what you intended to do."

"I appropriated five thousand dollars that must be back in the vaults before nine this very day, or—the speaker stopped and looked wildly around the room. He clenched his hand and struck his knee savagely. "Neeser Perrin is an old-fashioned crank; a self-righteous money-grabber, and I hope he dies in poverty!" He said at last. "I knew he would have the cash here—he is careless that way, and I could have taken it without telling any more lies about the mine; but, good Lord, Sidney, I didn't want to steal. I told him as straight a story as I could, and the questions he asked made me wild; the advice he offered turned me sick. Said he could keep my position for me and get me a raise if I'd agree to buckle down a little harder. Heavens, doesn't he know I wasn't made to dig and grind like a section-hand! He wouldn't give me a cent of money, so I knew what I had to do. I hid out till I was sure the house was dead asleep. I planned it to look like a clever burglary, intending to come back while the excitement was on and be as much surprised as any one."

"I believed I had the grit to carry it through. When prison stares a man in the face he can do things, Sidney, and it isn't as if the old man needed the money. It would be making good use of what is lying idle. Imagine Hope's life with a brother in the pen!"

"I can't imagine it, Carl," said Faron thoughtfully. He took a long look at the pale, excited, and almost, he thought, at the five years I have been keeping away, I have only laid up a beggarly pittance for a family man, as some would look at it; but Hope insisted that it was enough—more than enough. I think she said; and—well, it is sufficient to get you out of the hole, anyway. There is an adage that blood is thicker than water. You are her brother—a blood-tie that nothing can alter; I believe I am serving her best by keeping disgrace away from you. I am partly responsible for this, anyway; I am the older, and what was just a bad chapter in my life has proved nearly the whole show for you; but, perhaps this will atone. Wait till I write her a line and I'll go with you and see you through. Of course, she and I can't—can't be married after all; but, I believe if she were choosing between the two of us, she could not advise me otherwise."

Mechanically, Faron wrote a page, folded and inclosed it without reading, addressing it to his betrothed. "You are mighty good, Sid," faltered the other, watching him eagerly.

"Something like the crow that washed," laughed Faron, oddly, turning to the door. "Better turn off the light and go outside," he added. "I'll be with you in a jiffy." He opened the door with a startled exclamation. He was face to face with Hope Perrin.

"Please wait, Sidney," she said quietly, shutting the door and standing with her back against it. "I am late at the conference, but having listened at the door, it will not be necessary to rehearse the matter. I just want a voice in what concerns me—that is all."

Embarrassed beyond speaking, the man stood staring at the white-faced girl, whose tumbled masses of pale daffodil hair shone nimbus-like above her excited, darkly bright eyes. So tall and slim she looked, so appealing yet formidable in her insistence, that Faron's throat tightened at what was before him.

"Years for you. Come, give me the letter."

Without looking at her brother, who was staring miserably, she reached forth her hand and Faron laid the envelope in it. There was intense silence after the scrawl had been ripped open and cracked in its folds on the girl's palm. She read it calmly, biting her lip to keep back the sob that tore at her throat, finally throwing up her head bravely. "Very nice and sentimental, Sidney," she commented. "As a man sows, and so forth; but I'd like to know who decreed that his promised wife should reap the whirlwind!"

"Hope, you don't understand this," began Faron whitely.

"Don't I? I heard every word you and Carl said. Did you think you were the only one prowling about with a heavy heart. I can well understand Carl's troubles; but listen, Sidney, that is all nonsense about you being responsible for his sins. Carl was twenty-one when you and he went away to make your fortunes—but five years younger than you. He looked the child, but really knew as much of the world as you did; and, anyway, Sidney, men of that age should be a law unto themselves, whatever dreamers and sentimentalists may say. And now you—you who have worked like a dog for five self-denying years; who have gone shabby to send me presents; who have boarded at cheap restaurants to save for—was it to save for Carl, or me?"

"But, dear," the man insisted gently, "this is for you—you can't know all or—"

"I do. Oh, I do!" she cried breaking into tears and turning her face into her banded arm against the door; "but you are leaving me forever without a spoken word; and Carl, to be sure my brother, but who has never denied himself one luxury or indulgence that his money or mine—for I had a pittance of my own—could buy; who has gone his own way regardless of uncle's kindness and my heart-aches, was letting you do it. Oh, a nice pair, you are!"

"Don't, grille," murmured Faron huskily, drawing her to his shoulders; "if you only knew what this costs me—"

"Am I blind?" she cried, lifting her wet eyes; "but you cannot do this to me unless you let me help you bear it?"

"And you let him?" The old man's probing eyes blinked rapidly as he took in Hope's pallor; the strained attention of her eyes. "You agreed, in view of Carl's incapacity, and the hard knocks Faron has undergone to make a home for you, that it is best for him, a week before your marriage to turn over his savings to such a financier, for any purpose whatever! Hope, I've been mistaken in you. Look here, if you allow this thing after I have been kept in the dark, and have refused to blindly sanction any more of Carl's loose dealings, I'll not even go for my brother's child. I thought you had some sense. I have been proud of you, Hope, of your independence, your love of untrammelled, and truth; but I'm done with you now. If you think you can still have a home with me, or that I will help you a penny after tonight, you're mistaken. You can leave my house in the morning!"

The old man glared triumphantly at the white-faced trio, and with a last, queer, compelling look at his nephew, turned to leave the room. Then a sudden crash broke the awkward silliness as Carl Perrin, struggling out of the chair in which he crouched, overturned it with a nervous hand.

"Uncle Neeser," he gasped, with the first manly effort of his life; "don't go. I'll tell you all. You can send me to prison—I deserve it; but I've found misery enough in crookedness. I've made a mess of it for everybody. It is better to dig; and, whatever comes, I'll live in the open from now on!"

Swiftly, for his years, old Neeser Perrin turned to the nephew that to him was still but a child, and a little close by a trembling voice said, "Come with your Uncle Neeser."

CONVICTED BANKERS RECEIVE SENTENCE

By Associated Press.
Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 18.—E. L. Hendry of Lone Oak, Arkansas, and J. M. McDonald of Lakemba, Oklahoma, convicted of conspiracy to use the mails to defraud, were each sentenced today in federal court to serve three years in the federal prison at Atlanta and to pay fines of $1,000. Notice of appeal to the United States court of appeals was given.

Hendry was director and McDonald president of the American Trust company, a Memphis institution which closed its doors about a year ago. Its capital was $500,000, $200,000 of which the government charged had been issued to promoters but that none of the money had been paid. The trust company was allied with a chain of night and day banks located in Memphis, Oklahoma City and other places which have been subject to scrutiny by the federal authorities in connection with stock selling and other operations connected with banking which the government alleged were fraudulently carried on through the use of the mail.

As a result of the encounter, forty-two wounded federalists were brought to Piedras Negras this morning. The constitutionalist loss in killed and wounded was about thirty-five.

Under the impression that the constitutionalists had been abandoned, the federalists made a rush for them but were met by a murderous volley. Two other attempts to take the works failed before the federalists withdrew.

By Associated Press.

NIMRODS IN QUANDRY OVER FEDERAL LAW

Few Bold Enough to Take Chance that Duck Shooting Now Is Proscribed

Restrained by a doubt and a half conviction that the open season does not begin until November 1st and impelled by the honking of the low-flying waterfowl and a hope that the federal game law permits the shooting of wild ducks and geese after October 1, Wichita Falls nimrods are in a state of exasperating irresolution.

Some have opted up their fowling guns only to lose courage at the last moment and determine not to take any chances of going against Uncle Sam's decrees, and have postponed their hunting trip until they learn something definite concerning the exact dates of the open season as prescribed by the federal game law, while others have quietly gone out and killed a bag of ducks.

In the meantime letters and telegrams have been sent to the department of agriculture to learn just what the law means. This is fine duck shooting weather and it is hoped to learn definitely concerning the provisions of the law before the ducks continue their migration southward.

At a mass meeting held in Dallas Friday the view that the federal law limits the open season from Nov. 1 to Feb. 1 was evidently accepted, without question. At that meeting a protest against the change in the law from an open season from Oct. 1 to Jan. 1st was voiced. Telegrams and letters to Texas senators, congressmen and department of agriculture officials urging a change in the law were ordered sent.

The following message was sent to Hon. David F. Houston, secretary of agriculture, at Washington:

"The recent ruling of the department of agriculture changing the open season on ducks from Oct. 1 to Nov. 1 will work a great hardship upon North Texas and the citizens of North Texas, in mass meeting assembled at Dallas today, passed a resolution respectfully urging you to restore the date of the open season as originally published in circular ninety-two, beginning Oct. 1. An

IMMEDIATE RULING TO THIS EFFECT WILL BE APPRECIATED BY ALL OF NORTH TEXAS

Signed by J. M. Miller, chairman; George Aldredge, secretary. The following message, which was signed by J. H. Miller as chairman, George Aldredge as secretary, M. L. Buckner, Will Holford and Marvin Cullum, was sent to Hon. W. G. Sterett, at Port Lavaca, Texas:

"At a mass meeting of the citizens of North Texas, held at Dallas today, a resolution was passed that Hon. D. F. Houston, secretary of agriculture, be asked by wire to restore the open season on ducks as originally published in circular ninety-two, and also to wire you asking your co-operation and requesting you to wire Secretary Houston endorsing our action. The resolution has been wired Secretary Houston."

Manager Sweeten arranged a program of diversified pictures of much merit and at night this was augmented with a program of popular and classical music by Katz orchestra and songs by the Wichita quartette, composed of Harry Wright, B. A. Hill, Chan Jonte and C. R. VanVoy. This feature was especially delightful and received much enthusiastic applause.

INDIVIDUALISM

Did you ever stop to think what it was that made your friend Jones or who ever it happened to be, the kind of a character he was. Every time you think of him you remember some distinct characteristic.

What is it? You don't know and you never will, unless the Creator gives you a better vision in the next world, but the human brain is such a wonderful thing that it looks and at once perceives the varied characteristics that go to make up the different individual.

No other business calls for individualism like the one in which we are engaged. Our customers seek oftentimes to reflect the most marked characteristics, and we thus record history for future generations to consider.

We always try to reflect the life of the individual, as near as possible, using marble, granite or bronze and the English language.

GERMAN WIFE IS UPHELD BY LAWS

COURTS DECIDE SHE IS ENTITLED ALLOWANCE FOR HOME EXPENSES

OTHER NEWS FROM BERLIN

Germany is Now Richest Nation in Europe, According to Latest Figures Compiled

By Associated Press.
Berlin, Oct. 18.—One German housewife at least has proved that she has a legal right to the regular weekly allowance which her husband is accustomed to make for housekeeping expenses. If he fails to provide her with an allowance sufficient to conduct the household in a manner suitable to the family's station in life, she may proceed against him at law and the court will grant an interlocutory decree, under which, if necessary, a recalcitrant husband's wages may be garnished.

The foregoing rule of law has just been laid down by the supreme provincial court of Brunswick. The court ruled further that the allowance must be paid in advance for a period of not less than one week. The probable expenses of the house can not be properly estimated through calculations based upon a shorter period, said the court, and the wife is to be considered the husband's agent within a provision of the imperial civil code which prescribes that when an agent is commissioned to do something requiring a money outlay, the money thus required to be paid out must be advanced.

The husband cannot escape his obligations to advance the cash by opening a line of credit at various shops for his wife. She must be in a position to buy where she can buy at the greatest advantage and must have the money necessary to enable her to do this.

The case that a man may have a spendthrift wife is provided for in the civil code. His remedy, in case the wife misuses her so-called power of the keys is to take her housekeeping into his own hands.

Now Richest Country.
Germany is now the richest country in Europe, with an aggregate wealth of about $74,000,000,000 and an annual income for its people of about $9,524,000,000. Such are the conclusions of Dr. Karl Heiderich, a director of the Deutsche Bank and one of the most eminent financial authorities of Germany. He finds that the national wealth of Germany is greater than that of Great Britain or France, as estimated by the economists of those countries, although the latter have a greater wealth per head of the population. He estimates the wealth of the average German at between $1,074 and $1,190, compared with an English estimate of $1,214 for England, and a French estimate for France of $1,405 and with the estimate of the census bureau for the United States of $1,130.

In earning or income capacity, however, the average German lies between the Englishman and the Frenchman, the German income being estimated at $137, the French (by the French authority) at $122, while the Briton is far in the lead with an income of $194.

One of the most striking features of Dr. Heiderich's calculations, however, is the tremendous growth in the earning capacity of the German people, which may soon bring the nation to the same position of financial predominance in Europe as it now possesses in military power. He estimates the annual income of the German nation about 1895 at between $5,250,000,000 to $6,000,000,000; at present, eighteen years later, it has grown, he estimates, to $9,524,000,000 and he claims that if the annual savings of the people and the latent growth of land and other values be combined, a total addition to the national wealth of about $2,380,000,000 is registered every year.

More Court Room Shootings.
The slaying of Captain von Westrich, by Professor Heinrich Mass, the painter, during court of honor proceedings on September 16, has now been followed by two more shooting affairs, in a court room, one of these also before a court of honor. No one was injured in the latter case, but in the other referred to, two persons were wounded and the shooter killed himself.

Dr. Arndt of Paderborn had been engaged by a brother physician to represent him during his vacation. At the last minute, Arndt demanded more money for his services than had been agreed upon and the other doctor had to accede. During his absence, Arndt severely criticized his absent colleague before the latter's patients and advised one to sue the absent physician for malpractice. Arndt was called before a court of honor of his profession, a peculiarly German institution, and fined $75 for false and unprofessional conduct. He thereupon drew a revolver and opened fire. The presiding judge ducked beneath his desk, an example followed by every one else in the room and Arndt's six shots went wild. He was overpowered and an investigation into his sanity will be made.

The other courtroom shooting took place during a suit of trifling importance at Hamburg. The defendant, a hotel keeper, opened fire from a revolver without warning, severely wounding two adverse witnesses and then blew out his own brains.

Rockport.—A corps of surveyors and engineers engaged in the work of surveying the proposed line of the Central Railway of Texas from Quanah to this point have just completed their task. According to statements of the officials of the proposed line, the necessary financial backing has been secured, and actual construction work will be under way in a short time.

ANOTHER IN 30 PLAYERS SERIES TUESDAY NIGHT

Henry E. Dixey Will be Seen in Chelsea 7750 at the New Majestic

A feature attraction at the New Majestic this week will be another of the Thirty Famous Players Series, Henry E. Dixey's characterization of Detective Kirby in Chelsea 7750. This will be shown Tuesday night.

In the role of an able and eminent detective, Mr. Dixey is provided with a strong part and the battle of wits which occurs between him and the gang of counterfeiters whose trail he follows is as intensely interesting as a genuine detective mystery. A dictagraph plays an important part in the story and is instrumental in fixing the certainty of the counterfeiters' guilt.

There is a strong human note when Prof. Grimbale, the master mind of the criminals whose son—Detective Kirby has succeeded in jailing for twenty years, sets the detective's daughter in his power and threatens to repay her for the long sentence meted out to the son. It is here that the dictagraph is called into play, surreptitiously and skillfully. The detective's daughter, portrayed by Laura Sawyer, manages to lift the receiver of the telephone in the counterfeiters' den and while she argues her innocence shouts her father's number into the receiver, then by means of a signal code of pencil taps she communicates to her father that she is in danger, but before she can inform him of the address the receiver is discovered and removed from the hook and she is abruptly shut off by the professor.

A series of heartbreaking efforts on the part of the detective to discover her whereabouts ensues culminating in a complete and thrilling victory over the criminals.

WINDOW GLASS PLANT TO OPEN OCTOBER 27

Fires Have Been Lighted and Plant Will Start Operations With Force of 200 Men

Monday, October 27 has been set aside as the date for the reopening of the window glass factory and the company hopes to resume operations on that date with its full shift of two hundred men. The fires have been lit in the furnaces for two weeks, it requiring about three weeks to get the matter heated sufficiently. It is estimated that about half of the company's two hundred employees have already returned and most of the others are probably on the way, so that there will be a full shift here when the plant resumes its work.

The bottle factory, which it was announced would reopen this month, will not do so and is expected to remain closed for several weeks longer at least.

FIND HONEST WORK FOR WOMEN OF TENDERLOIN

Passing of "Barbary Coast" in San Francisco Attended By Unusual Work By Cruisers

San Francisco, Oct. 18.—When the San Francisco reformers who closed up the Barbary coast, started on their campaign of purification a few weeks ago, they thought of an unusual thing and they planned to take care of the hundreds of women who had been making their living in the local tenderloin, and who would be "thrown out of work" when the tenderloin closed.

Accordingly a few individuals who had been prominently identified with the movement which finally forced the police commissioners to "put the lid in the coast" made the rounds of members of women's clubs, church societies and other organizations to whom demand the police commissioners had bowed, asking positions for such of the denizens of the district who might want honest work at fair wages.

Then the women were visited and asked what they were willing to do. Of the 300 women whose answers were made public by investigators, twenty-nine elected to continue in the old life either in San Francisco or elsewhere; thirty were undecided what to do; twenty said they intended to leave the city; one announced she was going to enter an old ladies' home; eleven were willing to do anything; twenty-six said they would do "most anything that paid a living wage;" sixteen declared they would return to their former homes and the others expressed preference for occupations as follows:

Domestics, 37; entertainers 22; dancers, 21; chambermaids 11; telephone operators 7; boarding house keepers 2; manicurists 1; dressmakers 3; saleswomen 20; bookkeepers 6; chorus girl 1; laundresses 2; waitresses 10; ladies' companions 2; actresses 4; stenographers 2; music teacher 1; masseuse 1; cooks 6; factory workers 2; shooting gallery attendant 1; cannery worker 1; nurses 3; seamstresses 3.

For all those who wanted what the investigators considered suitable places, provision was made before October 1, when Barbary coast resorts were compelled to close. In all but one or two cases so far, the women are doing good work in their new positions.

Notice.
On account of recent fire, I have moved into the office with Dr. Hale, over Morris drug store. My telephone number will be the same as before.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

The State of Texas. To the Sheriff or any Constable of Wichita county: Greeting: You are hereby commanded to summon Bessie Jackson by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the district court of Wichita County, to be held at the Court House thereof, in Wichita Falls, Texas, on the first Monday in December, A. D. 1913, the same being the first Monday in December, A. D. 1913, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 10th day of October, A. D. 1913, in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court No. 4750, wherein Mack Jackson is plaintiff and Bessie Jackson is defendant, and said petition alleging that on or about the 8th day of December, 1908, in Denton County, Texas, plaintiff and defendant were lawfully married to each other and lived together about one and a half years when defendant left plaintiff without cause on his part; that after about 3 or 4 weeks plaintiff persuaded defendant to return and live with him. That plaintiff and defendant lived together as man and wife until about March 6th, 1910, when defendant, without any cause on part of plaintiff abandoned plaintiff, since which time they have not lived together as husband and wife, and plaintiff has not heard from defendant since June, 1910. That by reason of the three years abandonment of plaintiff by defendant their further living together has been rendered insupportable.

Wherefore plaintiff prays that defendant be cited in terms of law to appear at the next regular term of this court and answer herein, for judgment dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between plaintiff and defendant, cost of suit and general and special relief, etc.

Herein full not but have before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the Seal of said Court at office in Wichita Falls, this 11th day of October, A. D. 1913.

A. F. KERR, Clerk, District Court, Wichita County, Texas. 36-42-48-54.

BARRET'S LIBERTY OF SHORT DURATION

Acquitted of Theft Charge in Morning He Lands Back in Jail in Afternoon

In celebration of his acquittal on a charge of theft Saturday morning in the county court, Paul Barrett who had been incarcerated several months in the county jail, immediately upon regaining his liberty proceeded to appear an unsatisfied thirst that had been accumulating during his imprisonment and landed back in jail Saturday afternoon.

That Barrett had lost no time is indicated by the fact that he was not released until about 11 o'clock, and when Deputy Sheriff Carnes found him at 2 o'clock he was thoroughly saturated with the idea of painting the town red. Barrett was brought here from Burk Burnett. His trial had been postponed several times on account of the absence of some of the state's witnesses. Some of these failed to appear yesterday but the trial proceeded without them.

RECORDS BROKEN
AT JAR PLANT

OVER SIX HUNDRED GROSS OF JARS DAY BEING TURNED OUT AT PLANT HERE

THE SECOND WAREHOUSE

Work Started on Another Big Warehouse and Zinc Rolling Mill Will be Started Soon

Another of the big 50x500 warehouses will be a part of Ball Brothers plant will be started this week and work will also begin shortly on the zinc rolling mill, where the raw material for the jars caps is handled. The cap factory is completed, except for the laying of the concrete floor, and the installation of the machinery will begin within the next few days.

The warehouse is the second one for this plant and will be followed by a third, in accordance with the original plans. Two members of the firm of Ball Brothers were here recently and approved plans for this work.

The jar plant is running at a capacity now that is said to be record breaking, a matter of much price with T. B. Smock, who is superintendent of general manager, or something like that, for Ball Brothers here. A total of about six hundred gross of jars a day—over 30,000 separate jars—is now being turned out, and this from fifteen to twenty per cent above what had been expected of the plant.

One of the individual machines recently turned out 11,500 pint jars in twelve hours, which is a record breaker for such a machine.

The new warehouse, zinc rolling mill and jar plant are all parts of the plant which will be completed this winter. The new warehouse will probably receive first attention.

DAMAGE IN WILBARGER
COUNTY BY HAIL STORM.

(Vernon Record)

The heavy rain and hail storm of Wednesday night of last week proved the greatest calamity that has come to this county in many years. Commencing soon after midnight, the wind, rain and hail combined their forces and wrought great destruction to crops in practically all the territory directly west and slightly southwest of Vernon from a point about three miles west all the way to beyond Rayland. As a rule, the heaviest hail was confined to a strip from two to four miles wide, and in this path, practically all crops were completely destroyed, and the ground swept clean. In addition to this belt, Farmers Valley on the north side of Pease River sustained heavy loss, in some localities the destruction being complete. Outside of the belts named, the hail was lighter and while more or less damage was wrought, yet the people thus dealt with feel that they were indeed fortunate. In many instances, the storm will be the means of the wheat acreage being decidedly increased, as scores of cotton fields will never be picked again this year and the only hope for the farmers is to provide plenty of winter pasture. The Record has been over the greater part of the district affected and talked with others who have seen it and from the information at hand, the county lost at least 1,000 bales of cotton and thousands of dollars worth of feed. The total loss will probably aggregate $100,000.

The Worth Oil Company got a 125 barrel producer on the Merrens at Burk Burnett just in time for it to serve as a wedding present for S. J. Reasley who committed matrimony at Denver early in the week. He passed through here Thursday night with his bride. The Merrens well in the 1500 foot sand and was showing for about 125 barrels.

ARGENTINE CORN
TO HELP TEXANS

WICHITA-MILL AND ELEVATOR IS IMPORTING 250,000 BUSHELS FROM THAT COUNTRY

TARIFF NOW REMOVED

Importation Expected to Check Soaring Price and Give Relief to Live Stock Raisers

A cargo of 250,000 bushels of corn from the Argentine Republic will reach Galveston shortly, being imported by the Wichita Mill & Elevator Company to relieve the situation in Texas due to the scarcity of corn in this State. This corn is the first to be imported under the new tariff bill, which removes the duty on corn and will, it is said, permit a price of four cents under that no worse for corn in the Southwest.

W. M. Triddy of the mill company returned yesterday from New Orleans where he has been closing the trade for the corn, and it is expected that other importations will follow.

The corn crop in Texas was very short this year, on account of dry weather and this fall prices soared to almost unheard of figures. With the corn imported from Argentina, the local company expects to be able to sell at four cents under the price asked for Texas corn and in this way to relieve the situation so far as the consumer is concerned.

Such importations were unprofitable in short crop years heretofore on account of the tariff. When it became practically certain that the Underwood-Simmons bill would remove the tariff on corn, the Wichita Mill & Elevator Company began negotiations for a supply from Argentina, and the 250,000 bushel consignment is the first to be received.

SHOW NO FAVORS
TO SON OF KING

IS TREATED ALMOST LIKE ANY OTHER BOY WHILE STUDENT AT ETON

NOT REQUIRED TO "FAG"

England is Already Getting Considerably Interested in Coming Lipton Yacht Races

By Associated Press.
London, Oct. 18.—Prince Henry, King George's third son, is now a student at Eton, and it is said that he will be treated like any other boy except for "fagging." Prince Arthur of Connaught, it will be remembered, was "fag" to one of the Astors and from this it is assumed by some that Prince Henry will have to adhere to custom and run messages and do other menial tasks for some lucky boy who has served his term at the same thing. Eton, of course, is democratic and a nickname will certainly be found for Prince Henry, as there was for Prince Albert when he entered the naval academy at Osborne. The latter was known as "the lobster" although not with the same meaning as that term is used in America.

The style of clothing that Eton demands of her scholars has already been adopted by the Prince. His first day was occupied in buying his first "silk hat" or "topper" as the Etonians term it, and he duly appeared in the tailless Eton jacket, broad collar and trousers turned up at the bottom. The last button of his waistcoat was of course unbuttoned, as no Etonian much less a new boy, would dare appear with the lower button buttoned.

There are many other things besides his lessons that Prince Henry will have to learn before he becomes an accomplished boy of Eton. On no account must he, until he has served his apprenticeship, indulge in the frivolity of a fancy waistcoat or rolled up umbrella, wear brown shoes or walk arm in arm with a fellow voyager along the "High."

Almost indefinite are the rules of Eton etiquette—where or when a fellow may smoke or drink (twice also), under what circumstances he may call a spade an agricultural implement or may walk going to Windsor (it is always the right-hand side), and the exact set of his topper on holidays and high days.

Coming Yacht Races.
There has been considerable discussion in yachting circles here over the report cabled from America that the boat which is to defend the America cup is to be built of bronze and to have silk sails. One of the Shamrock was built partly of bronze, and its advantage over steel in securing a fine polished surface below the waterline is well known. Some English naval architects, however, favor a patent alloy of aluminum as material for the hull of a fast racing yacht. A well built hull in England of this material was raced in Belgium last season and found to be equal to any steel boat in point of stability at about half the weight.

Charles E. Nicholson, who is to build the new Shamrock, however, does not favor it, so it is not likely to be used in Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge.

As to silk sails, English yachtmens believe they sag too much and that what the American defender will be supplied with is really "union silk" which is largely cotton. The sails of the Shamrock IV will be made by the firm that makes the sails for all the best English yachts. The cloth used by this firm is specially woven for

What Golf Costs.

It is estimated that nearly $30,000,000 is spent on golf in the United Kingdom every year, and that of this huge sum only a little less than half or $12,500,000 goes to the caddies.

The estimate has been made by a well known golf specialist, who after a careful census has traced the number of players in the country at roughly 250,000. Three quarters of a million players pay on an average $25 a year each in club subscriptions or a total of $6,250,000 which added to $250,000 for green fees, $6,250,000 for golf balls, $625,000 for clubs and the amount which it is calculated the caddies collect, makes the total mentioned. The estimate gives one ball a week to each player at a cost of fifty cents each.

Each golfer's expenses are placed at a trifle over $100 a year on the game alone, his railway fares or other means of reaching the links, and of course what he loses on his games not being computed.

Automobile licenses have been issued to the following during the past week: Dr. W. H. Walker, Wichita Falls, Imperial; Warren Wagner, Durk Burnett, Ford.

REVERIES OF A BACHELOR A DELIGHTFUL PERFORMANCE

The entertainment, "Reveries of a Bachelor," given Friday night at the Wichita Theatre by the Woman's Guild of the Good Shepherd, was a decidedly pretty affair. Mr. Haigler portrayed the bachelor in an exceedingly easy and realistic manner, and the pretty girls in their lovely and appropriate costumes formed a very pleasing picture. The show was singularly free from most of the drawbacks, which characterize amateur performances. It gave evidences of careful planning and training and was well carried out in every detail. The first reverie portrayed the bachelor's boyhood days and boyish loves and each one was equally good. Miss Evelyn Hawley gave a most acceptable reading of "Polly of the Circus." In his college days each representation was perfect, and at the close Mrs. Fred Thompson sang "The Rosary" in honor of her mother, Mrs. S. K. Gwynn gave an excellent interpretation of a classic Grecian dance. The bride party in the fourth and last reverie made a most charming picture and the last tableau with Miss Mable Simpson as mother, with Master Almond Gates and Misses Short and Blair gathered around her made a picture pleasing to the most critical eye. Miss Simpson sang "Make Believe" and a lullaby to the children both of which found much favor with the audience. At the conclusion Mrs. Thompson sang "Love's Old Sweet Song" and the entire cast passed through the stage. The Wichita Falls quartette was a very pleasing feature of the entertainment, singing appropriate selections throughout the evening from the wings.

HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS ENTERTAIN AT THE LAKE.

On Saturday evening Oct. 11, the lady members of the high school faculty who were here last year, Misses Childers, Blevins, Ball and Alder, were hostesses to the entire faculty at Lake Wichita. A big camp fire was built and the merry party broiled beefsteak and bacon and made coffee. A number of other good things had been provided and after supper had been eaten the picnicers sat around the camp fire, told stories and jokes, went boat riding and forgot, as one present expressed it, that they had ever taught school a day in their lives. The members of the faculty and their wives who were invited guests on this occasion were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Jones, Prof. and Mrs. Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Brant, Messrs. Hein, Vance and Elliott, Misses Hineley and Gordon.

MISS JULIA LATHROP NOT TO MAKE VISIT TO TEXAS.

The following clipping was sent to Mrs. J. W. Lee by Mrs. Chalmers W. Hutchison, president of the Texas Congress of Mothers:

Miss Julia Lathrop, chief of the Federation bureau of child welfare, has canceled all lecture dates in Texas. She was to have been one of the principal speakers at the state convention in Fort Worth of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parents-Teachers Associations.

Miss Lathrop gave as her reason for cancelling Texas dates the fact that her physician had ordered all speaking dates before Jan. 1, cut off. Mrs. Chalmers W. Hutchison said:

"I have just received a message from Mrs. W. B. Fall of Houston stating that Miss Lathrop would not visit Texas this year."

Before coming to Fort Worth, Miss Lathrop was scheduled to speak at the convention of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs in Corpus Christi. This convention will be held during the same week that the mothers meet in Fort Worth. Miss Lathrop also was to have spoken later in Dallas and in San Antonio.

Miss Lathrop's failure to come to Texas will be a cause of wholesale disappointment among Texas women.

The work of the Federal child welfare bureau as yet has not reached Texas as a general thing. This is the first year of the bureau's existence, and Texas women are not acquainted with the work proposed by the new department. They know only that the chief concern of Miss Lathrop and her staff at present seems to be the establishment of a uniform and effective system of birth and infant death registration throughout the United States.

SOCIETY PERSONALS

Mrs. L. A. Wallace and little daughter of Dallas, are in the city as the guests of Mrs. Wallace's sister, Mrs. D. J. White.

They know only that the chief concern of Miss Lathrop and her staff at present seems to be the establishment of a uniform and effective system of birth and infant death registration throughout the United States.

Mrs. C. W. Beavers left Friday night for Dallas, where she will meet her daughter, Miss Dorothy, who is a student in Trinity University.

Miss Kate Patterson of Henrietta, visited Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Patterson this week.

Mrs. Eppler who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. H. B. Patterson, has gone to Fort Worth.

Good many fields yet remain to be sown. Ten days of clear weather, however will see most of the wheat in the ground in this section. After that time it will be almost too late for wheat sowing.

If favorable conditions continue there will be a considerable demand for stock to keep the wheat eaten down and prevent it from jointing during the winter. Under similar conditions a number of years ago the farmers allowed the ranchmen to turn their cattle in on the wheat fields.

IMPORTANT ADDITION TO J. C. ZIEGLER MFG. CO.
Robert Pasch, former business manager of the O. K. Harry Steel Works of Dallas, largest manufacturers and originators of the Harry corrugated tanks, has associated himself financially with J. C. Ziegler of the above named firm. Mr. Pasch has an extensive and intimate knowledge of the business in which he is engaged and Mr. Ziegler is to be congratulated in securing a man who carries the highest credentials from the staunchest business house of Dallas. Mr. Pasch will have charge of the office, while Mr. Ziegler will devote his attention to the mechanical details and road work.

Those who have watched the growth of this firm's business from a very small beginning to its present pretentious proportions will foresee in this strong combination a means to the accomplishment of yet greater things that will add no little to the importance of Wichita Falls as a manufacturing center.

Many Innovations Planned For This Fall's Fashions

New York, Oct. 18.—New York has been much interested recently in the fall openings of the big shops. Most of the more important stores inject into this occasion more or less of a social element. Elaborate settings are prepared and invitations extended to patrons, either by letter or newspaper announcement, to attend at specified hours, when the costumes are displayed upon living models.

A round of the various exhibitions gives one a very good idea of the new modes which will be brought out in the metropolis. Of course, the more extreme styles are most conspicuous in displays of this kind, as they are bound to depend more or less upon the spectacular for their appeal. However, as modifications of these advance ideas will be seen throughout the country, a study of the costumes presented is very interesting.

Two distinct styles seem to be struggling for supremacy—clinging tailorlike upstanding frill at the front, which is most becoming.

The tiara and other types of Russian jewelry will, they tell us, be much worn at formal functions this season. Buckles, girdles, bracelets and other articles of jewelry in more general use are shown in the intricately wrought designs set with dark, semi-precious jewels characteristic of this semi-barbaric country.

The top boot is another extreme novelty which has recently been imported from Russia. This was shown at the fashion openings, not only in black but in different red and green leathers. Whether or not it will be taken up to any appreciable degree, it is impossible to say at this early day. One fact may unhesitatingly be stated however, and that is that we are to have a revival of fancy street footwear. The vogue of holsey of a contrasting color worn with pumps, which was noted during the summer, has been transferred to a call for shoes with vari-colored tops. Broche silk in gray, brown, terra cotta, blue and Russian green is being used in the uppers of shoes of dull and patent kid made by a prominent boot-maker.

In evening footwear, sandal effects are strong and slippers with novel trimmings. Our second illustration shows a little gold lace butterfly ornamenting the slipper and in the first the girl's black suede pump has a very smart finish in the form of a single crystal button. This picture shows the practical and popular sport-coat used as an evening wrap. It seems anomalous that a garment originally intended for outdoor, sporting events should now be worn with frilly evening garb, yet such is the case. Attending the theatres any evening, one notes numbers of young girls wearing these smart little coats over lace and chiffon gowns. Sometimes they are in strong colors, such as cerise, hunter's green and orange and very frequently also in white beargrass which is a new and attractive member of the chinchilla family. Bearcloth has a very high pile, or nap, but is supple to the final degree. It is warm and hangs in beautiful folds, and promises to be very popular.

Under her white coat, this young girl, whom we saw at the opening of a new play the other evening, is wearing a frock of broidered chiffon in old draperies which reveal the silhouette and the more bouffant effects recently imported from Paris, expressed in wired tunics, ruffles and panniers. Almost all the shops showed both, with a preponderance of draped styles.

A well known French dressmaker, whose cinematic pictures of his newest models have set the fashion world agog, evidenced in his coat suits a strong preference for draped styles and blouses of the Balkan type. In the evening gowns, shown in the pictures in the wonderfully beautiful gardens connected with his French establishment, the crinoline, as he called the hooped and suffled effects, was very much in evidence. Voluminous coats of velvet, cloth and regal furs also formed an important part of the impressions upon these films of fashion, which so interested his American audiences. In confirmation of the anticipated acceptance of shorter skirts, practically all of the skirts on his models were shown ankle length or shorter, both in suits and dancing dresses, even when the latter had trains.

There now remains little doubt of our wearing shorter gowns this winter, and while we cannot but regret the passing of the more graceful long skirt, to which we have become accustomed, shorter garments have hygienic and economic advantages, which no practical woman will overlook.

But returning to the fashion openings—one of them in particular, by its originality and cleverness of conception, and its artistic consideration of detail, merited special recognition. As a theme, the influence of Persian styles was chosen, and the printed programs contained appropriate parodies upon Omar made to fit the three tableaux, Morning, Noon and Night, in which the toilettes were shown. The setting was a Persian garden, and graceful girls in the robes of the new fashion posed in a quaint kiosk occupying the center stage.

We have already commented upon the richness of the materials used this season, but so emphatic is this feature of the new modes that we cannot but mention it again. Gowns of the type which we show in our second illustration appeared everywhere. This one is of heavy cream and black brocade, threaded with gold. The skirt has a clever drapery arrangement at the center front which brings it in closely at the feet. The upper part of the waist is of plain cream chiffon with half gold fringe finishing the sleeves at the elbow. The lower part of the waist is of the brocade and a girdle of black velvet tied directly at the front of the figure and ending in heavy black and gold tassels, gives an attractive and quite in harmony with it, is a little hat of antique gold lace. It is quite transparent, permitting the hair to be seen, and has a blue and rose. On her head appears a little black velvet hat of modified mushroom type, with a quaint little wreath of blue and rose flowers, and a black velvet bride under her chin. The bag, which she carries exemplifies an interesting development of fad for furs.

For every possible purpose the pelts of fur bearing animals are being employed. Fur buttons, fur buckles, fur ornaments and accessories in every form have been originated.

Another interesting fashion fact is the return to favor of ostrich. We see it on the millinery in the form of high, upstanding trimmings and bands about crown and brim.

"A Dollar's Worth for Every Dollar or Every Dollar Back"

"He who greases his wheels helps his oxen," is an old saying, but true. We help those who help us, and those who help us help themselves. Interesting store news for economical buyers. Our Policy: You, of course, are interested in buying the highest grade goods at the lowest possible prices. That's true economy. No consumer can be regarded as really successful until such a standard has been adopted. All guesswork must be eliminated in buying merchandise. The careful buyer does not take anyone's word for it that a piece of goods is of such a quality. Careful examination alone tells the tale. This examination must be critically and carefully conducted—price and quality can then be compared intelligently. Too many dealers buy goods because they are priced at so much. In other words, price, not quality, is the standard of value. Our purchases, however, are made on an entirely different basis. We judge the value of the merchandise by the quality. Then we make the right price. That's why we are able to offer you such excellent values.

WICHITA TRUCKS TO GO TO ITALY

ARRANGEMENTS BEING MADE TO SEND FIRST SHIPMENT ACROSS
THE ATLANTIC

LOCAL FACTORY BUSY

Export Business is Steadily Expanding—The Trucks in Use in Central and South America

Motor trucks made in Wichita Falls will soon be in use in Italy, and probably in other countries of the Old World, according to announcements made by the foreign sales department of the Wichita Falls Motor Company. A. G. Savelli, formerly of Milan, Italy, who is in charge of this department of the company here, not only expects to ship trucks soon to Italy, but even to India.

Wichita Falls trucks are already in use throughout the Western Hemisphere, there being a number sold in Central and South America and Porto Rico. As yet none have crossed the water, but there is every reason to believe that some will be shipped across the Atlantic very soon. Mr. Savelli is in correspondence with several European houses and generously offered to let The Times man read his correspondence, all of which was in foreign languages, only a few of which The Times man is familiar with.

General Manager Jack Culbertson said that the plant was running full capacity, but that it was still behind with its orders. Among the new cars now being turned out are three more moving picture overland trucks for a South Texas man. The local plant built two such trucks not long ago and they "took" so well that others were ordered. These machines are used to transport moving picture machines, films, tents, seats and all the paraphernalia of a traveling picture show. The plant has just delivered its ninth truck to the Magnolia Petroleum Company, for use in Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston. This concern is buying practically all of its delivery trucks in this State.

HENRIETTA TEAM WILL

PLAY HERE TOMORROW

Unable To Get Here Yesterday, But Will Try To Meet Locals at Austin School Monday

Another postponement of the Wichita Falls-Henrietta football game was made necessary yesterday when it was found to be impossible to get the Henrietta eleven together for the game here. Arrangements are being made to bring the team over Monday afternoon, in which case the game will be played at 4 o'clock on the Austin school grounds.

If Wichitans accord the high school eleven sufficient support by attending the games, it will be possible to bring a number of other outside teams here this fall, and it is hoped to have a large crowd out tomorrow for the game.

ENRICA DILLI WILL BE "ROBIN HOOD" PRIMA DONNA

Enrica Dilli, the prima donna with The de Koven Opera Company, which will play here, matinee and night, October 21, is making her first appearance in a light opera part as Maid Marian in "Robin Hood." Miss Dilli has had a career that falls to few women as young as she.

She was born Enrica Clay Dillon; after her father Henry Clay Dillon, who was one time congressman from California and supreme court justice of that state. Miss Dillon early showed evidence of the rare voice she possesses, and at nineteen she was sent abroad to study music, having completed her literary education at Mt. Holyoke College in Massachusetts. Shortly afterwards she made her debut at the Theatre Pergolesi in Rome, Italy, named for the famous composer. Her success was immediate and she was offered an engagement at the Duke's Theatre in Genoa. In the next few years she sang at La Scala in Milan, the most famous opera house in Italy and at the Carino, Nice, the Municipal Theatre in Tunis, the Khedive's own theatre in Cairo, the Reale Theatre, Madrid and the Royal Theatre, Malta.

During her appearance at the latter place she was decorated by the Duke of Connaught and became an English court singer by special appointment. This was for her admirable rendering of La Tosca, an opera which is a favorite with the Duke and Duchess of Connaught.

When the American fleet on their tour of the world visited Malta, a gala performance was given in Miss Dilli's honor and was under the patronage of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and their official household. She was warmly acclaimed by her fellow countrymen.

The last time that the late King Edward of England was in a theatre was when he heard Miss Dilli sing La Tosca on a visit to Malta. In the audience that night was the King, Queen Alexandra, the Dowager Empress of Russia, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and other royalty.

Miss Dilli is a loyal American, but assumed the name of Dilli when she first began to study, on account of the prejudice against Americans going into grand opera. Having made a success under that name she thinks it only right to continue it.

Her most successful engagement was at the grand opera in Paris, where she attracted the attention of Andreas Dippel, and last season was made a member of his Chicago Grand Opera Company singing the title role in Aida. Santuzza in Cavalleria Rusticana and Lenora in Il Trovatore, her first appearances in her native land. The calibre of Mr. de Koven's music in "Robin Hood" is well worth the efforts of the best vocalists and so Miss Dilli was glad to make the return, a five salary offered her and the long season, rather than the uncertainties of grand opera.

She is not married, except to her art, is possessed of a rare dramatic soprano of two and a half octaves, with each note of equal value, a commanding figure of true prima donna proportions; dark hair, big intelligent eyes and a nose—well shall we say that it suggests her sturdy Irish-American parentage.

Mr. de Koven has given her an unqualified endorsement to the effect that she is the best dramatic soprano who has ever sung in his or any company's light opera, and the management has surrounded her with other singers worthy of the association.

"THE ROSARY" TO BE PRESENTED MONDAY NIGHT

When Rowland A. Clifford's new play "The Rosary" comes to Wichita Falls tomorrow night, the discriminating public will be given an opportunity to see pictured before them a decided answer to the growing unrest and trepidation of our times. Not that "The Rosary" is a decision merely; it is more. It is a faithful picture of the misery and unhappiness that surely comes upon man who lacks faith in the supreme good and its inevitable triumphs, in our world.

A typical American family is taken as a fair example of every day conditions that obtain throughout the United States. The husband, a man immersed in business, the exacting business of Wall street and the Stock Exchange.

Little by little he has fallen away from the faith of his fathers, that faith that brought our Republic into being. He has replaced it by an agnostic attitude all too prevalent in our day and time. The wife believes, her confidence in an all wise, all providing god has not been shaken; and so when storm and stress comes, the man with no anchor is swept away by the storm of agony; the woman remains steadfast, moored by her faith to outlive the tempest.

Through all the heartbreaks and tears, through all the agony and anguish, clear and serene, moves the wonderful figure of a modern Catholic priest whose life has been dedicated to God and the service of his fellow men. It is his clear spiritual vision that sees through the web that has been woven about the two people whom he loves and it is his faith and God given power that sets them free. It is a wonderful preachment of faith's mighty power, of the saving grace of the good that lies all about us.

The tremendous story, powerful in its simplicity, is interwoven with the higher threads of sane humor, of the sort that one loves to take away from the theatre and muse over in idle moments.

SKETCH OF IOWA PARK VETERAN WHO DIED RECENTLY

(Iowa Park Herald)
Last Friday morning at 5:30 o'clock at his late home, Uncle John Hudson of this place died after several weeks of very severe suffering. No one was surprised at his death as it had been looked for some time. He had been in declining health for more than a year. He had lived until the 25th of December, he would have been 84 years old. He was, perhaps the oldest person in the community and was the oldest Mason in this part of the country. He was a Knight Templar Mason and took a great interest in the Masonic fraternity. In his earlier life he had a great mind having gotten up some very valuable patents. But like most men of that type, the other fellow got the money. The funeral services were held at the Methodist church, of which he was a member. The pastor, Bro. Johnson assisted by Bros. Morgan and McKenzie conducted the services for the church, after which the Eastern Star Chapter held a short service and then the Masons took charge and his body was laid to rest by their beautiful ceremony. He leaves a wife and a host of friends to mourn his loss.
