State Senate Sets March 15 As Final Adjournment Date

House Likely To Oppose Short Term Plan; Simple Inauguration Ceremony Set Today

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 18 — Although it was one week old today the general session of the legislature had a proposal—formally approved by the Senate—to adjourn finally next March 15.

The resolution limiting the session to 60 days will reach the House tomorrow although the inauguration of Governor Coke R. Stevenson and Lieut.-Gov. John Lee Smith might block immediate consideration.

Senate proponents of the resolution by Senator Allan Shivers of Port Arthur contended a March 15 deadline would give the lawmakers impetus to conclude work early and go home.

Democracy Can Work

"By adjourning early we can show the people that democracy can work. We can win back the confidence of the people," said Sen. Weaver Moore of Houston.

Opponents declared a 60-day meeting would defeat orderly consideration of major legislation.

The resolution, needing House approval to become effective, was approved, 17 to 8.

A favorable reception in the House was not anticipated. Many members declared that the time is not right to set a limit on the session's length because organizational work is not as yet completed.

Until standing committees are named by presiding officers of either branch, the real legislative processes cannot start.

Brief Sessions

Both branches held brief sessions — the House working long enough to kill a resolution creating a speciall committee to study and recommend remedial legislation for the state's election statutes and to hear an address by George Butler of Houston, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee.

Interest centered on tomorrow's inaugural ceremonies which were streamlined and stripped of social activities to fit the mood of a wartime session, the first in 25 years.

The brief ceremonies will begin before a joint session in the House chamber at 11:30 a. m.

Governor Stevenson's oath of office will be administered by Chief Justice James P. Alexander of the state Supreme court and Lieut. Gov. Smith will be administered the oath by Associate Justice Clyde Grissom of the Eastland court of civil appeals.

Each officer will make a brief address which will be broadcast.

Tough Job For Demos Is Seen

Texas Group Maps Plans For Party

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Jan. 18.—George Butler of Houston, the executive head of the Democratic party in Texas commented at the state executive committee meeting today that the new national chairman had a "tough job ahead of him" after suggesting that grass roots party members might be better qualified to select leaders than "officialdom in Washington."

WALKER HEADS DEMOS

CHICAGO, Jan. 18 (AP) — Frank Comeford Walker, the new 56-year-old Democratic national chairman, is one of the most tight-lipped and retiring members of President Roosevelt's cabinet but for many years has been his close personal and political intimate.

Back in 1928 he made a $10,000 contribution to Mr. Roosevelt's campaign fund for election as governor of New York, then later gave another $10,000 to start the Roosevelt presidential campaign fund of 1932.

Walker has the reputation in Washington of never making a speech, seldom holding a press conference or giving an interview.

"All discussions indicate that some federal office holder who has been living in Washington and is already tied down with administerial duties will be selected for the position," he said in his address before the committee's first meeting since its appointment.

Tough Job Ahead

"Since preparing this talk, I have been informed that Postmaster General Frank C. Walker has been elected chairman of the National committee. That makes my remarks untimely. I have great respect for Mr. Walker and wish him success. He has a tough job ahead of him."

Butler's speech and comments by members on it were devoted mostly to an examination of why the party had lost ground, and what it may do to regain it.

The committee passed three resolutions including one by a 17 to 8 vote condemning strikes "whether by employes or employers, during the period of the war regardless of reasons."

This touched off a discussion led by committeemen E. M. Davis of Brownwood, who offered the resolution, and John Laird of Lufkin, who advocated letting the

17-Year-Olds Now Can Enter Reserves

BOSTON, Jan. 18. (AP)—Authorization for the enlistment of 17-year-old qualified American citizens in the Army reserves—to be called into service within six months after they reach their 18th birthday — was announced today by Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles of the First service command.

General Miles declared that the new Army policy permitted youths, who are physically fit and can present the written consent of their parents, to enlist either in the Army enlisted reserve corps, unassigned, or—if they qualify—to enlist as aviation cadets in the air corps enlisted reserve.

Army recruiting officials said this was the first time within a generation that the Army has permitted the actual enlistment of boys before they reach the age of 18.

TWO NAZI WINTERS IN RUSSIA — With the RAF raining explosives on Berlin, and the Russians rapidly pushing back and annihilating his men and strategic positions all along the Soviet front, Hitler must be sleeping fitfully, if at all. His second winter in Russia finds him on the defensive—again, after his troops pushed almost to Moscow in the summer of 1941. He was pushed back last winter, but forged ahead in the summer, especially in the south, reaching Stalingrad and getting in sight of the Caucasus oil fields. He is now being driven back again, many divisions of his crack troops trapped before Stalingrad and being mopped up and many others facing entrapment in the Caucasus, as the Reds lunge forward on all fronts, menacing Rostov, the Caucasian gateway, and Kharkov, the Ukraine steel capital. The Reds announced Monday the Nazis had lifted the 17-month siege of Leningrad after a devastating Russian offensive in that area. Black areas indicate territory regained this winter by the Reds. Two Strongpoints Of Japs Fall And Cargo Ship Sunk

8,000-Ton Vessel Blasted By Two Bomb Hits, Sending It Down In Eight Minutes

By TOM YARBROUGH
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Tuesday, Jan. 19 — Allied ground forces pressing in from the the west Monday destroyed two strong Japanese positions that protected Sanananda point, while other troops on the east moved forward with artillery.

On the west side General MacArthur's men took Cape Killerton, a mile and a half up the coast from Sanananda, and then proceeded against Wye point, 700 yards farther along. There they encountered stiff resistance but overcame it.

The communique sized up the situation as a cotinuation of "general liquidation."

Cargo Ship Sunk

Patrol activity in the vicinity of Mubo near Salamaua accounted for the 40 Japanese casualties.

A bomber on reconnaissance over the Mismarck sea west of New Ireland had good fortune in finding an 8,000 ton Jap cargo ship. The bomber planted two direct hits that set the ship ablaze and it sank in eight minutes.

Two formations of bombers and fighters, which the communique rated as large, hit Lae again in two separate daylight attacks, desroying one fighter on the ground and starting fires among supplies and installations that were visible for at least 25 miles. Two large formations of medium bombers and long range fighters participated in the attack. A grounded Japanese fighter was destroyed and cannon and machinegun fire raked piles of supplies.

Allied heavy bombers made a night raid on the enemy base at Rabaul, New Britain, dropping bombs on shipping in the harbor. Searchlight activity prevented observation of results.

HEAVY BOMBING ATTACKS CONTINUE IN SOLOMONS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18. (AP) — Heavy bombing attacks on Japanese bases in the northwestern Solomon islands were reported today by the Navy which said that one bombing raid, on the island of Ballale, started fires visible for 50 miles.

As both Army and Navy bombers blasted the Jap positions 300 miles distant, ground troops on Guadalcanal island mopped up pockets of enemy resistance in newly conquered areas on the flanks of the American positions

A total of 150 Japanese were killed in a single day's fighting last Saturday and "a number" were taken prisoner, the Navy reported. Their equipment was destroyed.

This was virtually the first report to come out of the island indicating that any substantial group of Japanese had been captured. Usually they have preferred death.

The bombing raids, carried out Friday night and Saturday, were a continuation of heavy fighting which broke out early Friday when Jap destroyers with aerial escorts sought to deliver supplies, and possibly reinforcements, to the enemy forces on Guadalcanal.

Army Flying Fortresses bombed the Kahili airport on the southeastern end of Bougainville island, near Buin, Friday night, and started two large fires. Later that night, the Navy's familiar Catalina patrol bombers started additional fires with another raid on Kahili. Catalinas also attacked the enemy base at Munda, on New Georgia island.

Germans Routed, Long Blockade Of City Broken

Important Gains Claimed All Along Snow-Swept Front

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 18—The 17-month-old German siege of Leningrad Russia's second largest city, was lifted today by a triumphant Red Army that blasted its way through eight miles of solid Nazi defenses, killed 13,000 Germans, and routed four divisions, a special Soviet communique announced tonight.

Breaking the blockade of Leningrad brings relief to 3,000,000 persons and also releases the Nazi grip on the flow of Soviet armaments and other industrial facilities in the big city on the Gulf of Finland. Observers also foresaw a new turn in the entire war because Leningrad is a springboard for reconquest of the Baltic states.

Blow To Nazi Morale

This great news, announced in a Moscow broadcast heard here by the Soviet monitor, was a further damaging blow to German morale because Leningrad had been in a powerful Nazi vice since Aug. 21, 1941.

"After seven days fighting the troops of the Volkhov and Leningrad fronts united on Jan. 18 and so broke the blockade of Leningrad's," said the communique.

But this wasn't the whole Russian story. Moscow announced important gains all along the snow-covered front, extending clear into the Caucasus.

Other Red armies gained in the advance on Kharkov, steel city in the Ukraine, with Russian vanguards less than 118 miles from that city.

Fight Into Kamensk

Russian troops also fought their way into Kamensk, railway point only 85 miles north of Rostov, and poured across the Donets river below that city on the most feasible route toward Rostov whose capture would bag all the Nazi armies in the Caucasus.

In the Caucasus they crossed the Manych river and seized Divnoye, rail terminal of a line that winds across the central area to Kropotkin on the Rostov-Baku railway.

Cherkessk in the north Caucasus likewise was captured, the special communique said.

The drive south of Voronezh was said to have routed the fourth Italian Army corps in capturing the rail station of Kamenka.

Some 31,000 prisoners already have been captured on the Voronezh offensive including 22,000 Hungarians, 7,000 Italians and 2,000 Germans.

Berlin Battered By RAF Bombers

Britain Says Raid Worth Heavy Cost

By EDWARD D. BALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Berlin was battered for the second successive time last night by a strong RAF force which dropped hundreds of tons of the biggest bombs the world has ever known and set great fires in Hitler's capital with periods 100,000 incendiaries.

The loss of 22 big bombers, compared with one the night before, was a heavy price to pay for any raid but British observers said it was not prohibitive in view of the large number of aircraft attacking the very nerve center of the German war machine.

"A great load of bombs was dropped and, by the end of the attack, large fires were burning," the air ministry said.

ANOTHER COLOGNE?

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 18 (AP) — The Berlin newspaper Nachtausgabe was quoted tonight as stating that Berlin after two heavy raids by British bombers presented "the same view" as the heavily-battered German cities of Cologne, Bremen, Emden, Duesseldorf, Essen and Wilhelmshaven, "but on a smaller scale."

The Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter reported the quotation in a dispatch from the German capital. The cities mentioned are the most heavily-bombed in all Germany. They have been hit repeatedly, however, while Berlin has only been struck twice after a 14-month interval. In view of this, Nachtausgabe's comparison was significant as to the damage done Berlin.

Brief London Alert

A brief night alert sounded again in London tonight when a few Axis planes crossed the coast and headed up the Thames. Some were driven back quickly and those which approached the capital environs caused only "trifling" damage. Crowds scurried to the shelters however and stayed there after the all-clear, expecting another alert. Slight gunfire was heard.

Two air raid alarms at Bern and Basel in Switzerland 40 minutes apart beginning shortly after 11 p.m. (6 p.m., e.w.t) tonight hinted to observers that the RAF was shifting its blows at a lightning pace and was now giving Italy a taste of what Berlin took over the week-end.

Britain-based bombers last struck Italy the night of Dec. 11 when the giant Fiat works at Turin was blasted.

Meanwhile two southeast coast areas in England were bombed tonight in retaliatory raids in which the German airmen broke through one of the fiercest barrages residents had ever heard.

The Berlin radio said 82 persons were killed in Berlin in the two RAF raids, 50 of them prisoners of war.

One southeast England town was divebombed in the clear moonlight and suffered considerable damage.

Court Upholds AMA Conviction

Restraint Of Trade Said Not An Issue

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The Supreme court today upheld the conviction of the American Medical association and the District of Columbia Medical society on charges that they sought to hamstring a cooperative group health plan and thereby violated the Sherman anti-trust act.

The medical associations were fined $2,500 and $1,500, respectively, on charges that they conspired to "restain trade" by influencing physicians and hospitals to boycott Group Health Association, Inc., a cooperative organization of 3,300 government employes in the District of Columbia. Group Health was set up to provide medical care and hospitazilation for its members on a prepayment plan. The decision noted that such a plan "was contrary to the code of ethics" of the AMA.

Advantage To Others

Miss Edith Rockwood, Labor department employe who is president of Group Health, commented that "the decision will be advantageous to all groups in the United States that are planning for medical care."

The court's vote was 6 to 0. Justices Murphy and Jackson, former attorneys general, did not participate.

The opinion, written by Justice Roberts, was devoted chiefly to legal technicalities. It found that the court did not need to consider or decide the question of principal interest to laymen raised

Two Slain, Four Others Injured

(By The Associated Press)

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Jan. 18—Two persons were killed and four others critically wounded by a 23-year-old man here tonight, Police Captain Monroe Young reported.

The man was taken to a hospital in a serious condition after cutting his own throat with a knife.

The dead were listed by Young as:

Mrs. Jewell Birmingham, about 20.

Mrs. Melly Williams, about 55, San Angelo, Texas, Mrs. Birmingham's mother who was visiting her.

The wounded were:

Willie Williams, 17 year old son of Mrs. Williams, who also was visiting; Bessie Mae Williams, 5, Mrs. Williams' daughter; Evelyn Pearlin Birmingham, 5.

Mrs. Birmingham, Young said, was shot in the chest in the front yard of her home. Mrs. Williams rushed out after she had heard the gunfire and she was shot in the head, Young said.

Young said the man then went into the house where he shot young Williams. Williams, his his right arm mangled by the shot, took the gun from the man, the police captain related.

During this struggle, Young said, the gun was discharged, wounding the five-year-old girls. He said the Birmingham girl was in a serious condition.

Three other children in the house were uninjured. They were Billie Ann Birmingham, 3, and Marie Emogene Williams, 8, who protected James Michael Birmingham, 16-months-old child, by lying across the bed and placing the baby under her.

An Elusive Half But It's Finally Dug Up

AURORA, Ill., Jan. 18 (AP)— A passenger spied a purse on the floor of a bus and turned it over, unopened ,to the driver.

The driver peeked inside, whistled softly and turned it over to his supervisor, Edward Thompson. A few minutes later a hotel cashier telephoned and asked in a worried voice whether a purse had been found. She arrived at the bus depot posthaste.

She and Thompson took out the bills it contained. They counted up to one thousand six hundred and thirty-seven dollars and were ready to stop when the girl protested:

"But there was a 50-cent piece in it, too."

They looked again. The half buck was intact in a fold.

McEachern Faces Murder Charge

Five Men Held In Prisoner Slaying

(By The United Press)

RICHMOND, Jan. 18.—Murder charges have been filed against five convicts accused of killing Leo Giordenella, 22, of Houston, at the Harlem prison farm near here, County Attorney George Roane said today.

Roan revealed that Giordenella, who was serving 10 years for burglary, was killed early Saturday morning by fellow prisoners who resented the careful watch he kept on them as a building tender — a convict with a good record appointed by prison officials to keep order in his particular section.

McEachern One Of Five

Charged with murder, Roane said, were Claude A. Williams of Dallas, Clyde Armstrong of Fort Worth, Robert McEachern of Lubbock, Robert McClary of Austin, and Richard Williams of Dallas.

The murder charges will be referred to the next Fort Bend county grand jury which will meet March 15.

Roane said that Giordenella was killed by a crude dirk as he was washing his hands. He was stabbed 11 times.

Chase Of Nazis Nearing Tripoli

(By The Associated Press)

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 18.—The British Army in Liyba, driving Field Marshal Rommel wastward along a 70-mile-long front stretching inland from the coast, stood tonight less than 100 miles from Tripoli, the greatest colonial port left to Italy in all Africa but a port now so scarred by Allied bombing that it is no longer considered a major enemy base.

General Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's renewed offensive, which had rolled about a hundred miles since the destruction of Rommel's main line at Buerat El Hsun, was going forward along the coast and from the vicinity of Beni Ulid inland. Thus on his left, Montgomery was cutting straight across the Tripolitanian hump, and before him the Allied air force beat at the retreating Axis forces with powerful effect. Dems Claim Attacks On Flynn Indirect Slaps At War Chief

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—The Democratic national committee charged today that recent attacks on Edward J. Flynn, who has been nominated as minister to Australia, were carried out by enemies of President Roosevelt who "dare not directly attack the commander-in-chief of our forces in the midst of a war."

The committee stepped into the controversy over Flynn's appointment to the diplomatic service and gave him a vote of "complete confidence" after Flynn had resigned as the committee's chairman and Postmaster General Frank C. Walker had been chosen as his successor.

A resolution, approved unanimously by the group, asserted enemies of the President were attempting to break down the respect of the American people for him, and added:

"Whereas, they dare not directly attack the commander-in-chief of our forces in the midst of war, they are seeking by indirection, subterfuge and chicanery to accomplish their purpose by a campaign of falsehood, detraction and vicious newspaper propaganda directed against the leader of the President's party during the past two years, by implying deceit and evil motives on the part of the

Icy Wave Grips Texas, With Mercury Near Zero In Area

The most of Texas last night was in the grip of the winter's coldest norther, with the temperature at South Plains and Panhandle points flirting around the zero mark, and in a few instances hitting sub-zero readings.

Lubbock recorded a four above zero at midnight after showing nine above at 7 o'clock and 16 above as the maximum reading for Monday.

The weather bureau recorded a four below zero at Pampa, coldest spot in the state. A late reading at Amarillo was one below.

13 At Dallas

At Dallas the mercury dropped to 13 degrees and was expected to reach a point between five and ten degrees by morning. Freezing temperatures ranged south of Austin, where the thermometer said 31 degrees.

Other readings last night included: Abilene 11, Wichita Falls 6, Big Spring 14, Wink 20, Sulphur Springs 15, Texarkana 22, Fort Worth 12, Clarendon 2.

It was still above the freezing mark along the coast. Galveston's temperature was 47.

Amarillo, noted for its cold weather, had its lowest noon temperature in 10 years. The noon reading in the Panhandle city was three above. There was intermittent snow all over the Panhandle.

RAF Raids Berlin—Here's The Story

EDITOR'S NOTE: (Months of effort by American, British, and dominions newspapermen to accompany Royal Air force bombers on their raids on Germany, culminated Saturday night when six reporters rode over Berlin. Chosen by lot, the New York Times' correspondent, James MacDonald, represented the American press, and his description of the raid on the Nazi capital follows:)

By JAMES MacDONALD
New York Times Correspondent
(Distributed by United Press)

AN RAF BOMBER STATION Somewhere In England, Jan. 17.—I heard the impersonal voice of Canadian Warrant Officer (navigator) Clayton Thompson saying: "You're now 90 miles from the target."

Hardly were the words out of his mouth than the ground gunners began sending shells up at us, splitting the sky with jagged flashes of light as they exploded. Either their aim was poor or "Skipper's" (the RAF sergeant pilot anonymous because of RAF regulations), piloting was excellent. They did not come near enough for us to hear the explosions above the noise of our motors.

"You're now nearing the target," said Clayton, as if he were reading some newspaper item he considered of general interest.

Saw Dummy Fires

Then I saw the sight I had heard about from many of my RAF friends: Dummy fires lit by the Germans on bogus landing fields, the imitation of freight yards, flimsy structures disguised as important buildings. These fires on the outskirts of Berlin were intended of course, to make raiding airmen think they were over the city and drop bombs on them. We ignored them.

A moment or two later, I saw the real thing. Waves of raiders that had taken off before us back in Britain had found the target, dropped their loads and made way for us new arrivals.

Below and slightly to the right, were several straight strings of lights, glowing like street lamps, which seemed to criss-cross each other at right angles. They were caused by incendiaries that had just burst. Here and there inside them were yellow fires glimmering in the clear moonlight like clusters of gold nuggets. Here and there also were angry red patches of flame where fires were going full blast, one giving off a long curtain of slate-colored smoke. The white lights of fresh incendiaries turned to yellow then red. Suddenly, there was a blinding flash, a great cone of light with its point on the ground and its ever-widening base reaching to the sky. Some "kite" had released a 4,0000-pound bomb. We were flying at too great a height to hear what must have been a colossal explosion. Immediately after the big bomb burst numerous small fires became immerged in one great seething cauldron in which the skeletons of buildings were clearly distinguishable. The fires were so bright they partially illuminated the bomb-aimer's compartment, silhouetting our bomb-aimer as he poised himself over his instruments, ready to aim.

"Our Turn To Bomb"

Prently it was our turn to bomb. We had been zig-zagging, diving, climbing and twisting our way through the enemy's frantic anti-aircraft fire. Now we leveled off on a straight course, directly across the target area. In the middle of it, the big Lancaster leaped up like a surprised animal: we had released our two-ton bomb. We tore on across the conflagration below, and none of us saw our bomb burst, but the crews in following planes did.

Once again we circled for a position in which to run across that target from another direction and drop the incendiaries. As we started this second "run," I heard above the din of our motors three dull thuds directly underneath us—like heavy weights being dropped on a padded floor. Three anti-aircraft shells had come uncomfortably close and some bursting fragments scratched the under parts of our plane but did not do any appreciable damage or harm.

Kindling The Fire

Having completed the second run, "Skipper" said over the intercom (intercommunication system) to the bomb aimer: "Johnny, there's one fire down there that seems to be dying down. Let's start it up again."

Once again we took aim and streaked across that steadily-growing blaze.

"Bombs gone," announced Johnny when we had gotten across.

"Okay," said "Skipper."

Exchanging places with the flight engineer, I sat beside the pilot, where I could get a really good view. Over my ear phones I heard him say: "Look at that one down on our right. It's going good."

Fire Going Good

I told him the right wing of the plane was in my way, thereupon he flipped the machine far over on its side, dipping the right wing out of my line of vision. He was right. The fire was "going good," and I couldn't help thinking of the fires I had seen in London during air raids and to picture what must be going on down below.

Unaccustomed to guaging bomb damage from the air, I cannot estimate how big an area was on fire while I was there, but it looked plenty big, and still more fires were to follow, because the raid was only at its half-way mark when we left the scene.

For many miles as we sped away from the Berlin district "Skipper" kept the plane diving and leaping upward, and weaving in and out. This is what is called "evasive tactics," designed to prevent ground spotters from making accurate observations of the plane's course and rendering it almost impossible for ground gunners to take sure aim.

Resembled A Blast Furnace

Looking back, I saw what resembled a blast furnace in the distance. Inquiring how far away we were, I was told 40 miles. On we went.

"How far now?" I asked.

"Sixty miles," said Clayton.

Homeward bound over Germany and German-occupied territory all hands kept a sharp lookout, for, although there wasn't any anti-aircraft fire there was still the danger that some enemy night fighters might be lying in wait for us. None appeared. But several time I heard members of the crew report sighting planes in the distance straight ahead or to the starboard, to port, or astern. In each case, after a brief, wary examination, it was found by the gunners, engineer or pilot that "they're our kites going home."

Descend To Low Level

Once over the sea again we descended to comparatively low level, where oxygen was no longer necessary.

"Who'll have some tea?" asked the flight engineer. There was an unanimous chorus of "I will."

Presently he was passing around thermos bottles of hot tea, cakes, chocolates and, most delicious of all, oranges.

Talk Back To Normal

By this time the conversation had reached a normal tenor, with minor chit-chat about this and that. I climbed up into the cockpit and stood behind the pilot. He was just telling me we'd "soon see the coastline of England" when something occurred that wasn't very funny at the time, but that provided us all with a chuckle afterward. Because at that moment we nearly had a mid-air collision in the darkness with another home-going bomber, and if our Dunkirk veteran had not spotted him in time to bank sharply and dive off to the right, neither he nor anyone else in either plane would have seen England or anywhere again.

We were back over home territory again, and in almost no time we had landed at the base.

More Cups Of Tea

There more cups of hot tea awaited us, and camp cooks were busy preparing breakfast of bacon and eggs that were really fresh ones.

But before sitting down to such luxuries crews had to report to intelligence officers, answering questions about results of their bombing, and whether they had seen other things that might be useful for future reference.

Only one bomber failed to return to Britain.

Later I was told by all members of the crew, who had ducked the anti-aircraft shells so well, that they were surprised at the anti-aircraft fire in the Berlin district. They said it was much lighter than they had anticipated and they wondered if the Germans had transferred many ack-ack guns and night fighters to other places in Europe.

Nazi Situation In Russia Desperate

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press War Analyst

The German situation in southern Russia appears to be becoming rapidly desperate on the basis of the latest Soviet communiques. From just south of Voronezh on the upper Don to a point east of Armavir in the north Caucasus the Russians are advancing stadily, regaining territory taken by the Germans at terrific cost and depriving them of important rail communications.

The position of the German army before Stalingrad seems hopeless, according to Russian information The battle of Stalingrad, one of the epics of this war, is likely to end in the annihilation or capture of the big army which Hitler boasted was certain to take the city.

Greatest Blow For Hitler

Of the 22 German divisions totaling between 200,000 and 300,000 men which started the siege, only about 50,000 to 70,000 are estimated to be left. These, having refused to surrender, are being wiped out. the Russians say.

If so, it is the gretatest blow Hitler has ever suffered. Not only has he undergone a staggering loss in men and material, but the elimination of this army will free a large Soviet force to join in the March on Rostov at the mouth of the Don.

The big German army in the Caucasus, especially that part of it east of Armavir and from Novorosisk on the Black sea coast to the Maikop oil fields, is gravely imperilled by the Russian drive for Rostov.

Reds Near Rostov

If Rostov falls to the Russians, this army will be cut off completely from lines of supply and will be in the same position as the army at Stalingrad. The latter had hoped to hold out until spring through air transport supply, but it doesn't appear to have worked. The problem of supplying an army spread over a much greater area in the Caucasus would be even more impracticable.

The Russians are so close to Rostov that they stand a chance to take it at the present rate of progress, before the German army in the Caucasus can extricate itself. North of Rostov, the Russian force which skirted the railroad junction of Millerovo is only 60 miles from the city. Now the Russians have taken Millerovo, where the railroad branches off and crosses the Donets to Voroshilovgrad and Stalino.

East of Rostov, the russians are driving rapidly westward from the Kalmuch steepes. To the southeast, they are nearing the railroad junction of Salsky, 100 miles from the city.

Kharkov Threatened

At the northern end of their 550-mile offensive line in southern Russia, the Red army is presenting a distinct threat to Kharkov, center of a network of railroads serving the Donets basin and the eastern Ukraine.

Te Russians still have a long, hard way to go to recover the Ukraine and threaten Germany itself through Poland, but Hitler evidently has considered the possibility.

Polish sources in London report that the Germans have built a heavily-fortified corridor 80 miles wide separating the eastern and western half of Poland. The Germans are also reported to be extending this line from southern Poland through Hungary to the Carpathians.

Such preparations suggest that Hitler envisages the possibility of having an eastern front this year or next on his own threshold.

Plans Incomplete For Duval Funeral

Arrangements for the funeral of Webb Duval, 54, Tahoka highway, Lubbock, who died at 2:40 p. m. Monday are pending at the Sanders Funeral home. The service will be held in Lubbock and the burial will be in the Lubbock cemetery. Mr. Duval was a carpenter, employed at the glider base of the South Plains Army Flying school.

He is survived by his widow; one son, Talmage, a student at Texas Technological college; and three brothers, Van B. Duval, of Brazoria, L. W. Duval, of Corsicana, and Henry Duval of Corpus Christi.

Tech Course Is On Religion's War Role

Japanese Shintoists, Italian Catholics, German Protestants, as well as Nazis, are allied in Axis battles against United Nations Confucianists, Taoists and Buddhists in China, Protestants and Roman Catholics in France, England, United States and South America, Mohammedans in Northern Africa, the Balkans and India, Hindus in India, Greek Orthodox Catholics and Communists in Russia and Jews in many counties.

Two questions confront wartime minds: (1) What causes peoples of these religions to fight, and to unite with peoples of other religions to fight against peoples of other religions? What attitudes should American soldiers have towards the religions of their allies and enemies? (2) After the war, what part will each religion play in writing the peace? Will it be a Christian peace? Will a World Federation of Nations involve a World Federation of Religions or a constitutional clause guaranteeing religious freedom? Are the major religious wars of the world yet to be fought?

At present, it is expected that Texas Tech students will have an opportunity to study wartime religious problems in comparative religion, Philosophy 436, offered next semester with hours to be arranged to fit schedules of enrollees. Dr. A. J. Bahm, associate professor of philosophy and sociology at the college, will teach the course.

SPAFS Activities To Be Discussed Today

This afternoon at 3 o'clock at the soldier recreation center, 1211 Thirteenth street, a general meeting of steering committees of auxiliaries at South Plains Army Flying school will be held to plan activities there for women, according to announcement Monday by Miss Leona Gelin, superintendent.

The steering committee, she explained, represents wives of soldiers at SPAFS. Bridge clubs and classes in such activities as reading, dancing, theatricals, knitting and the like have been suggested, Miss Gelin said. She reminded that wives of soldiers are especially invited to make use of the Center during afternoons.

Miss Gelin reported that 350 soldiers and more than 100 partners attended the weekly dance at the Center Saturday night. New records supplied by Allegro Music club furnished most of the music. Cookies were furnished by Senior High school Parent-Teacher association.

Week-end entertainment for negro soldiers included a "lucky night" party Saturday night and coffee and cake Sunday afternoon. Events this week include a stamp selling contest Thursday night, a grab-bag party Saturday night and a community sing Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. All events will be in Pleasure Garden.

Credit Facilities Are Available To Farmers

Farmers need not be hindered in production in 1943 for lack of operating funds or supplies, according to John E. Burch, rural rehabilitation supervisor here for the Farm Security administration.

"Banks and private credit institutions are expanding their credit facilities," he said, "and the federal government also has ample facilities to meet the farm and ranch producers' needs."

Farmers who lack the required security for negotiating private loans, but whose family labor and land could be put to fuller use in the war program are invited to contact the Farm Security office, federal building.

Funds are immediately available to small operators for the purchase of farming equipment, feed, seed, livestock, household needs, building repairs, land rental, clothing, necessary medical care, sanitation facilities, and many other needs.

"Farm security loans this year," Burch said, "are being directed especially to any small farmers who with such financing can become qualified as essential farm producers under the war-unit rating, by adding to their livestock or poultry, or by increasing their production of war-rated crops."

Sliced Bread Is Thing Of Past

Lubbock bread buyers, along with the rest of the nation Monday started slicing their own bread, which practice will continue until the war is won, unless regulations are changed.

Likewise indications are that they'll do their slicing under difficulties. The declaration attributed to officials of the War Production Board in Washington several days ago that "there are plenty of bread knives" does not apply to Lubbock.

No Bread Knives

If a single bread knife is obtainable here, a hurried search failed to locate it. Although most, if no all, local establishments which handle such knives have been trying to obtain supplies for weeks, none has succeeded. Furthermore, none expects to succeed.

"It is almost impossible to get knives of any kind—much less bread knives," the manager of one local department store remarked. "I guess we'll have to sharpen the old butcher knife."

Bakers and store managers emphasized that the ordinary knife used to slice bread should be sharp. Otherwise the bread loaf is likely to be gnawed and squeezed.

Local operators seemed as much mystified as ever as to the reasons behind the ban on sliced bread. They agreed that there will be no saving of manpower because the machine which does the slicing also does the wrapping. This machine is fed by hand—and still must be fed by hand if the loaf is to be wrapped. The only saving that can be achieved, they pointed out, will be on the sharpening and replacement of slicing knives.

"Don't quote me," remarked one operator, "but this looks to me like an attempt to sell more bread. Home slicing will get fewer slices and will result in more waste than when the bread is bakery sliced."

He pointed out that the ban on slicing resulted from a recommendation by the national baker's association.

Another reminder given in connection with new regulations was that most stores likely will carry smaller stocks of bread and other bakery products. Heretofore, bakers have picked up the products remaining unsold at the end of the day. This practice has been discontinued. The retailer does the worrying hereafter about the bakery products, including bread, which remains unsold. Consequently, most of them will carry smaller stocks.

Briefly, the above are the principal items respecting our Company which will be of interest to policyholders, stockholders and perhaps the general public.

The same facts will be brought out in a more detailed statement later to be published and mailed to all who are concerned.

We are pleased to announce that our business for the year 1942 was approximately—almost to the dollar—the same as for the year 1941. This should give encouragement to all life insurance men, and especially to those associated with the Great Southern.

It is also a pleasure to announce that our mortality for the year 1942 was not in excess of our mortality during the year 1941. This, we think, has a special bearing, in view of the present day circumstances.

We have at all times urged those who were called into war duty and defense duties—regardless of age, circumstances, and conditions—to respond to the call insofar as it was possible for them to do so.

Our Company has contributed liberally, both in men and money. Our contribution of manpower has gone both from our office force and from the ranks of our selling agents.

All who have gone from our Company into defense or war work of every kind or character have gone with our blessings—with our financial aid, and assurance of a place awaiting them upon their return from the Field of Victory.

MORNING THOUGHT

THERE are women who find it hard to say complimentary things about other women; indeed they have helped to acquire as an adjective for our sex the word "feline." Perhaps they are like little Betty Lou of radio fame who observed one evening recently, "I half like her and I half don't like her, but I think I half don't like her the most."

CHILDREN'S AUTHOR

WITH the death of Mrs. Laura E. Richards in Gardiner, Maine, the other day, a writer of delightful books was lost to the children of America. Mrs. Richards had the gay knack of always living in the present and was still writing in her 93rd year. Only last summer she published a poem dedicated to men and women of the USO. The latest of her 80 books, most of them for youngsters, was "What Shall Children Read?"

Mrs. Richards, daughter of Julia Ward Howe of "Battle Hymn of the Republic" fame, waited a long time for recognition. Her "Captain January," the story of a bluff, old Maine sea captain and a little girl, made the rounds to many publishers, but the author lived to see it sell 300,000 copies and see it become the subject for a Shirley Temple motion picture.

HAVE WORDS FOR IT

THERE are lots of small parties being given this winter, suppers for boys in the service on Army furlough; sailors with shore leave and Marines with a language all their own. The boys are used to serving themselves, so they are perfectly at home and at ease at a buffet supper. A "Come and Get It" supper is always warmly, friendly and you can enjoy the delightful informality of entertaining this way without expense, suspense or pretense.

The Marines have lusty and individual expressions for the things they eat. "Seagull" they will explain is nautical parlance for chicken; canned salmon sails under the head of "goldfish"; salad is "grass"; ketchup is "red lead"; coffee is "Joe" and coffee with cream and sugar is "Joe with side arms."

Engagement Of Miss Carrye Jo MeLoen To Lt. Wallace L. Devlin Is Revealed

Announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Carrye Jo McLoen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McLoen of Tyler, to Lt. Wallace L. Devlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Devlin of Denver, Colo., was made Friday at a luncheon given in the Chimayo room of the Hilton hotel by the bride-elect's mother.

The marriage will take place the latter part of January in Big Spring, where Lt. Devlin is stationed as a Bombardier Pilot. He is a graduate of Lubbock Army Flying school.

Fashioned of white carnations and white chrysanthemums in the shape of a ring, the floral centerpiece for the luncheon carried out the wedding-ring motif. The flowers were placed in a long white bowl. On two white satin ribbons were the names, "Connie and Rooney." Favors were corsages of yellow iris tied with gold ribbons.

Those present were Misses Helen Hale, Mary Ann Stephenson, Frances Lou Deen, Betty Rhea Caldwell, Fannie Dale Cheek, Mrs. R. L. Stephenson, and Mrs. McLoen.

Miss McLoen's mother and Miss Cheek will accompany her to Big Spring for the wedding ceremony the last of January.

Baked Bean Recipe Is Given By Agent

Suggestions for baking beans were given by Miss Clara Pratt, county home demonstration agent, for members of the Monroe club Friday afternoon when they met with Mrs. W. H. Emery.

All kinds of dried beans may be baked by this recipe, she said. Soak 1 quart beans overnight in cold water. Drain. Cover with 2 quarts fresh water. Cook slowly one to one and a half hours or until skins burst readily. When done, put beans in a large baking pan. Remove rind from one and one-half pounds salt pork, score in squares and bury in top of beans. Mix 1 tablespoon salt, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon mustard, 1-3 cup molasses, 1 cup boiling water and pour over beans, adding enough water to cover. Bake 6 to 8 hours at 250 degrees, F. in covered pan and add hot water as needed. Uncover during last hour.

Onions may be baked with the beans or may be added with tomato juice to give a different flavor the second and third day they are served, Miss Pratt suggested.

Mrs. A. L Faubion was elected council member to fill a vacancy.

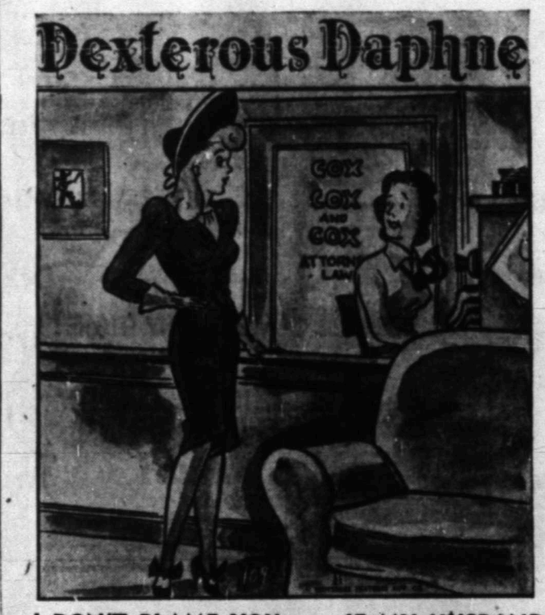

Those present were Mesdames Edgar Abney, Marshall Shipp, Haney Emery, guests, and Mesdames Pat Dunlap, John Harrell, E. J. Exum, J. H. Barnett, Faubion, E. W. Smith, members. The club will meet Feb. 11 with Mrs. Barnett.

Lillian Blakely Is Wed To R. L. Altman

LANETT, Ala., Jan. 18 (Special) In a service read in this city, Miss Lillian La Merle Blakely of Lanett and Robert Loyd Altman of Chanute Field, Ill., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Altman of Lubbock, were united in marriage. The service was read Jan. 5 in the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Blakely.

Rev. P. B. Baldridge of the First Baptist church read a ring ceremony.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W Blakely, received her education in the local public schools and Alabama Polytechnic Institute, later graduating from Draughon's Business college in Atlanta. She now holds a position the office of the Lanett Bleachery and Dye works.

Mr. Altman was graduated from Texas Technological college in 1940 in the textile engineering department. He served as vice-president of Phi Psi, honorary textile fraternity, for two years. He came here in Sept. 1940 and was connected with the Lanett Mill division of the West Point Manufacturing company until his enlistment in the Air Corps of the U. S. Army last January. He is to go to Officers Training school at Fort Sill, Okla., in the near future and Mrs. Altman plans to join him in Lawton.

Razors Are Collected For Men In Service

Usable razors to be sent to service men who lose their belongings in ship sinkings and other disasters are being collected by South Plains Navy Mothers club. A box has been placed at Cocanougher's cafeteria for the donations.

The club plans to send a large number of safety razor blades when they ship the razors. That necessary article is one men need greatly when they land at a port and often the demand is greater than the available supply, it was explained. The club members are of the opinion there are many razors laying unused in Lubbock bathroom lockers and they are asking that inventory be taken and the razors be left at the cafeteria.

HARVEST TO LINGER

SEMINOLE — Irene Stark of Seminole has been chosen for "Who's Who" in the 1942-1943 year book from McMurry college. Earl Brooks has been elected chief of the Seminole fire department. Farmers have been advised they have only a few more days in which to appeal for supplemental mileage rations. Gins are turning out more cotton than in 1941, and harvest will continue here until March.

FATALLY BURNED

SUDAN—James Warren, former Sudan man, lost his life a few days ago in Washington, D. C., where he was prominent in effecting rescue of a family of seven persons from a burning building. He received burns which proved fatal.

MORE INTEREST IN SPUDS

ANTON — Interest is growing among the farmers of Hockley county regarding the planting of more potatoes, according to Ed Hart, who has been campaigning for the spuds. Hart explains the government has set a good price on the crop, and their harvest early in the year might provide a handy cash income for farmers who care to make the gamble.

PREPARE FOR RATIONING

WHITEFACE—Cochran county rationing officials are studying the regulations for food rationing to begin soon with book number two, 5 thousand copies of which have been received.

POULTRY SHOW SET

SEAGRAVES—Future Farmers of the Seagraves chapter will sponsor their annual poultry show Saturday, Jan. 30, and which will be open to the public. Farm cash income continues to rise.

BEGINS TRAINING

DIMMITT—Pauline Elizabeth Patterson of Hart, Castro county, has begun WAAC training at Ft. Des Moines. Castro county quota of WAACs for the quarter is three. The local bank has over a half a million dollars in deposits.

PEARCY IS HOCKLEY AUDITOR

LEVELLAND — J. Warren Pearcy has begun his new duties as county auditor, under appointment of District Judge Daniel A. Blair. Proper ways to kill, cut, and can a beef were demonstrated here Thursday by extension service leaders and Roy W. Snyder, animal industries specialist. Several hundred more bales of cotton remain to be ginned. County commissioners say there will be some "cruel" economy in public funds this year. County Attorney Sam Davidson says he is satisfied with his salary of $3,000 a year, and will leave off the fees this year. County Extension Agent Harvey Pool has been one of the busiest men in the county for several weeks. Not so many mortgages being filed with the county clerk this year. Due to mileage rationing, local merchants are expecting more home trade, they say.

IN TERRELL HOME

First Baptist T. E. L. class will have a cabinet meeting this afternoon at 3 o'clock with Mrs. B. T. Terrell, 240 Thirteenth street.

Installment Tax Plan Is Pressed

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-NY), calling for early consideration of pay-as-you-go tax legislation, said today that such a system would benefit both the treasury and the taxpayer.

Reed is a member of the House Ways and Means committee which initiates tax legislation. In a statement prepared for delivery on the House, Reed predicted that widespread interest in putting taxes on a current basis would lead to early consideration of all such proposals by the ways and means committee.

Benefits Listed

The benefits to the government and taxpayers of such systems, he said would be:

To the government — Revenue would be brought into the Treasury as income is earned instead of a year later; fewer delinquencies.

To the taxpayer—Removal of tax debt which constantly hangs over him under the present system; taxes would be based on and paid out of current income, thus eliminating the burden of taxation to be paid after he dies or loses his job or ceases to have income as large as in the previous year.

Will Be Serious Job

Reed said the government's tax collection job will be very serious when the war boom ends and the Treasury "tries to collect the last year's income taxes from millions of persons who will then be without jobs and be unable to discharge their tax liability."

He also said the present system of deferred collections works a particular hardship on men who go into the armed services and have to pay a substantial tax on their past year's civilian income out of army pay.

Reed warned those who are pressing for pay-as-you-go tax collection that they should not be misled to believe that they will escape payment of any income tax this year. He pointed out that payments would be made as usual—there would be no "holiday"—but that they would be credited to this year's liability rather than that of last year.

Reed's statement came amidst growing indications that Congress might write its own pay-as-you-go tax legislation and not wait for Treasury recommendations.

the House create a committee for a study of general and primary election laws for the purposes of rewriting them.

His resolution, which finally was tabled, 70-47, cited a "growing evasion and abuse" of these statutes in past years.

Rep. Sam Hanna of Dallas opposed the resolution, declaring the Senate had already named a committee for the same purpose and needless duplication of expense might result with creation of a House committee.

Cato lost in another attempt to create a general House investigating committee in the interest of "clean government."

The Senate has a standing investigating committee.

More Senate Bills

More bills were introduced in the Senate, including those by Senators:

A. M. Aikin, jr., of Paris appropriating $8,444,000 each year of the next biennium for rural school aid. The appropriation is the same as that for each year of the current biennium.

R. C. Lanning of Jacksboro appropriating $147,145 to recondition the Confederate veteran's home in Austin for housing the senile insane and to make additional room in state hospitals for insane now housed in jails for want of space.

H. L. Winfield of Fort Stockton codifying and simplifying the state banking laws.

Usury Law Violators

Moore of Houston empowering county and district attorneys and the attorney general to sue for injunction against habitual violators of the usury laws and permitting district courts to enjoin charging, collecting or receiving interest in excess of that allowed by law.

In a statement Rep. Gordon Davis of Waco emphasized that a bill he introduced levying a 1-cent per gallon processing tax on gasoline repealed the present 4-cent per gallon excise tax on motor fuel.

Davis said further the measure would refund the 1-cent tax on gasoline purchases for farm use.

College Presidents Meet Control Board

AUSTIN, Jan. 18. (AP) — The council of presidents of Texas' state-supported colleges, meeting today with the board of control on proposed revision of budgets, decided to postpone final action until February, it was announced by Dr. L. H. Hubbard, council president who is also president of the Texas State Teachers college for women at Denton.

The council conferred with the board after findings by the latter revealed attendance at the state-supported schools had declined approximately 25 per cent.

Dr. Hubbard said a committee was chosen and had made recommendations to the council on steps to be taken before the February meeting, which also will be held in Austin.

College presidents attending included: Dr. Clifford B. Jones, Texas Technological college, Lubbock; Dr. D. M. Wiggins, College of Mines, El Paso.

Wildcat Strike Now Up To FDR

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The White House late today took under advisement the wildcat strike in Pennsylvania anthracite coal mines, a step which in the past usually has been a prelude to government seizure of properties involved.

Seven members of the War Labor board brought to the White House their report on the case, laid it before Presidential Secretary Marvin McIntyre, and talked it over for 45 minutes with the secretary and the economic stabilization director, James F. Brynes.

Afterward McIntyre told reporters:

"It's been taken under advisement."

Declines Comment

William H. Davis, War Labor board chairman, was asked whether the report carried any recommendations He declined to say, remarking only:

"In accordance with the usual procedure, the War Labor board has just delivered to the secretary to the President its report on the anthracite coal case."

Reports by the War Labor board have been the basis on which President Roosevelt has ordered the government to take over the plants of six private companies involved in labor or management troubles.

The board members, in addition to Davis, who went to the White House today, were George W. Taylor and Wayne Morse, representing the public, Van Bittner and Robert Watt, labor representatives, and Cyrus Cling and George Mead, representing employers.

hands in Montgomery's long march towrd Tunisia and the rendezvous with Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's North African forces.

Ground Action Light

(Ground action in Tunisia again was virtually at a standstill because of rain, and air activity also was light. Allied headquarters announced that small Allied bomber forces had attacked road and railway transport moving from the Axis-held supply ports and reported the destructionu of three German planes and the loss of two Allied craft.'

General Montgomery's rapid advance in the last section of Tripolitania held by the Axis was overrunning resistance which in some areas was fairly heavy—pockets of artillery batteries, machine-gun nests and mine fields. Horeover, he had put behind him one of the major obstacles in the field of his offensive, the Wadi Sofeggin, or Valley of Bad Lands.

British headquarters here disclosed that the Allied air force attached to the Eighth Army had gone into the Tunisian theater to support the Allied operations there, in addition to keeping Rommel's retreat under punishing fire. It was announced that two enemy ships were successfully attacked by planes off eastern Tunisia and that Axis transport on the road westward from Tripoli to the Tunisian port of Sfax had been effectively assaulted.

"If, as we hold, the indictment charges a single conspiracy to restrain and obstruct this business it charges a conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce within the statute. . . Eighteen individual defendants had been acquitted by the jury in the lower court.

President in appointing a valued, capable and loyal friend to an important diplomatic post to which that friend is eminently qualified by his personal qualiies and his honest, efficient performance in public office."

The party leaders came to Flynn's support as he prepared to go to Washington for a hearing by the Senate Foreign Relations committee on his fitness for the diplomatic post. Flynn's appointment by President Roosevelt has been criticized by some Republicans in and out of the Senate. One of the critics, Senator Bridges (Rep. N. H.) referred specifically to an investigation by a Bronx grand jury into charges that a court yard in Flynn's estate had been paved with New York materials and labor. The jurors exonerated Flynn.

Slaughter Adds Two New Wells

The completion of two producers on the southwestern Hockley county side of the Slaughter field and continued testing of northwestern Gaines county's new pool opener led South Plains oil Developments as the week opened.

The Shell Oil company's No. 1 D. N. Leaverton, deep Permian discovery well in northwestern Gaines, flowed and swabbed 273 barrels in the last 48 hours. The oil was diluted on the average by 8 per cent water. It flowed 10 hours and was swabbed the rest of the time. During the last 8 hours, it swabbed oil at the average rate of 8 barrels per hour. With only 1 per cent water dilution, swabbing continued, with the fluid level 2,500 feet from the surface. The strike, located in Section 458, Block G, CCSD and RGNG survey, four miles southwest of the Wasson field, is bottomed at 7,772 feet in dolomite and has been acidized with 6,500 gallons in the open hole below 7,480 feet.

Mallet Well Flows

The Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 18-D Mallet Land and Cattle company, new Hockley oiler, flowed 1,285.36 barrels of 32.2 gravity crude per day, with a gas-oil ratio of 625-1, after acidization with 10,000 gallons in pay lime from 4,900 to 4,995 feet, total depth.

The other new Slaughter producer, E. Constantin, Jr., Dallas, No. 1 Ted B. Smith, also was acidized with 10,000 gallons and flowed 336.72 barrels daily. The oil tested 32.2-gravity, and the gas-oil ratio was 975-1. Lime pay was found from 4,860 feet to 4,948 feet total depth.

The Barnsdall Oil company's No. 1 H. D. Heath, northeast central Yoakum county wildcat six miles northeast of Plains, is drilling, unchanged at 5,305 feet in hard lime. It will be taken to 7,500 feet for a test of the deep permian in the event the Wasson and Slaughter pay horizons prove barren.

The DeKalb Agricultural association, Inc., Lubbock, No. 1 A. C. Means estate, northern Andrews county wildcat three miles southwest of the Wasson field, is drilling below 4,192 feet in anhydrite and lime. Some geologists have picked top of the Yates sand at 3,230 feet.

Soviet Triumph

ress on the south shore of Lake Ladoga about 25 miles east of Leningrad, was among a dozen localities stormed and captured by Russia's winter-hardened troops.

The Russians hit it from three directions, fighting their way through 14 kilometers—8.6 miles—of mine fields, barbed wire, steel and concrete pillboxes. One Red column fought eastward from Leningrad along the west bank of the Neva river; another struck west along Lake Ladoga; and a third group crossed the Volkhov river to strike from the south.

Railway Recaptured

Schluesselburg had been under sporadic Red Army attack since the fall of 1941. By capturing it the Russians regained a railway running from Leningrad through Schluesselburg to connect with a line to Moscow, and another to Murmansk in the far north. Murmansk is the chief Arctic port for American and British supplies to Russia.

In their long unsuccessful effort to take Leningrad the Germans have lost scores of thousands of men, the Russians said. Hitler ordered the city taken by storm in August, 1941, and the Germans hurled 300,000 men against the big industrial city. The Nazi waves broke under stoic resistance directed by Marshall Klementi Voroshilov, but the siege has continued ever since.

The Russians have managed to fly supplies into the city and also open communications across Lake Ladoga—small boat convoys in the summer and railway tracks laid across the ice in winter.

"It is necessary to bear in mind," the Russian communique said of the lifting of the siege, "that during many months of blockade of Leningrad the Germans converted their positions on the approaches to the town into a mighty fortified area with a network system of solidly constructed concrete and other erections with large numbers of anti-tank and anti-infantry obstacles."

Many Nazis Routed

Breaking through this bristling enemy belt the Russians said they captured more than 1,260 prisoners and routed the 227th, 96th, 170th, and 61st Nazi infantry divisions as well as three regiments of other divisions.

In this week of savage fighting in piercing cold the Russians said their 'god of war" their artillery, demolished 470 enemy fortified centers and dugouts, 25 strongly defended observation posts, and silenced 172 artillery and mortar batteries. Among the booty captured were 222 guns, 178 mortars, 512 machineguns, 5,020 rifles, 26 tanks, 17,300 grenades, 72 radio transmitting stations, 1,050 horses, 880 carts, 40 various supply dumps, 36,000 mines, 150 trucks, 22,000 shells, and 2,200,000 cartridge.

The break-through was carried out by Leningrad forces commanded by Col. Gen. Leonid Govorov, who was elevated to his present rank a few days ago, and Volkhov front troops commanded by Gen. Kirkill A. Meretskov.

Ever since the early days of the German offensive in Russia in 1941, Nazi propagandists consistently have maintained that Leningrad was a "doomed city," that it was going to suffer the fate of Warsaw, Rotterdam and Paris, that it was useless for the Russians to continue their defense.

The Germans even rushed American reporters to Finland in the early days of siege, telling them they could enter the city with the Nazi armies.

Flynn Trial Proceeds, With One Woman Juror Dismissed

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 18—Prosecution and defense agreed today to proceed with Errol Flynn's trial on three counts of Statutory rape, with only one of two jurors accused by the state of fraud and deceit excused from duty.

She is Miss Elaine Forbes, secretary to an executive of a radio network. Miss Forbes was quoted in one affadavit by a prospective jurror as having said she would convict the actor, hero of many a romantic movie adventure.

Other Affidavits

But affidavits by two other women, both excused from duty on the jury under peremptory challenges, quoted her as saying she would acquit him.

Still on the jury was Mrs. Lorene Boehm, attractive young wife of an industrial engineer. An affidavit against her had quoted her as saying "I'm for Flynn in a big way."

Judge Leslie Still, returning to the bench after a morning spent in his chambers with opposing counsel, instructed Miss Forbes to step from the jury box, to be replaced by Mrs. Alice M. Chalfant, a housewife.

Agreed By Attorneys

Then, in her presence, he informed the jury that attorneys had stipulated to her being excused, commenting:

"Further, I want you to understand that we have been discussing matters of no concern to jurors. There has been no adjudication of the qualifications of any juror.

"You are to disregard entirely any occurrence here. There is to be no inference or implication that either side has exercised any unfair influence. You are to proceed as if this had never happened."

The decision climaxed a morning of complicated legal maneuvering, to wit:

Once In Jeopardy

Defense Attorney Jerry Giesler, opposing the state's mistrial motion, had indicated he would contend that Flynn had been once in jeopardy—since the trial had been in progress a full week — and therefore could not face the charges again if the current proceedings were halted.

He offered, however, to stipulate to Miss Forbes' removal. This Deputy District Attorney Thomas Cochran announced was unacceptable. But after less than a half-hour of discussions in the judge's chambers this afternoon, the stipulation was agreed to.

Fortress Crew Braves Heavy Jap Fire To Deliver Supplies To Stranded Infantrymen

By OLEN CLEMENTS
Associated Press Writer

GUADALCANAL, Jan. 12. (Delayed) — A Flying Fortress crew today braved heavy Japanese fire to take food, water and ammunition to 20 American infantrymen who captured an important hill on Guadalcanal so far ahead of schedule they had outdistanced their supplies.

The men had been without food and water for two days.

They were scheduled to take the hill in eight days, but they went in with machine guns blazing and after two and a half days of bitter fighting had the objective in hand. But they were surrounded by Japs.

Parachutes Rigged

The only way supplies could be sent to the Americans by land was by an uncertain two-day trip through the jungle.

In desperation, the infantry commander went to Capt. W. H. Rathbun of Waterloo, Iowa, the Fortress pilot, and asked if he would undertake a dangerous mission.

Rathbun's crew was due to leave in a few minutes for a rest after days of flying in the Guadalcanal area, but they volunteered to deliver the supplies to the surrounded infantrymen first.

Parachute specialists rigged up food, water and ammunition in baskets with chutes attached. Rathbun's crew then loaded the supplies in the ship's Bomb Bay and took off.

It was only a five mile flight to the American position, but the bomber had to go directly over the Japs at 150 feet and then fly almost uphill to drop the supplies beyond the reach of the enemy.

"Direct Hits"

The first time over, the bomber zoomed low and away, and almost instantaneously the pilot and co-pilot, Lieut. C. H. McConnell, Glendale, Calif., saw the Americans standing on top of the hill waving their hats.

Jap bullets whizzed all around the bomber as it skimmed the tree tops.

Sergeant A. E. Caird, Deer River, N. Y., the bombardier, sighted and dropped the baskets just as he would bombs. In the words of Lieut. E. C. Hecley, De Kalb, Tex., the navigator, "he put them right in their laps."

Two Yanks Use Leave For Visit To Front

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN NEW GUINEA, Jan. 16 (Delayed) (AP)—Two men from the U. S. Army airforce's service depot in the Port Moresby area arrived at Huggins Roadblock late this afternoon on a busman's holiday.

They were Sergt' Maston H. Clay jr., of Shamrock, Tex., and Corp. R. K. Lightbody of Freeport, Pa. Having been given a few days' leave, they decided it would be a good idea to see what the land fighting front looked like.

They had only two regrets: "We seem to be dressed in the wrong clothes," said Clay, surveying their sweaty but conspicuous suntans in the midst of junle green: "The plane we came over the mountains on had engine trouble just after the takeoff and had to return, so we missed the big 9 o'clock push—but perhaps they'll have another tomorrow," said Lightbody.

Girl Of Best-Seller Book Is Identified

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 18. (AP)—Peggy, that "fine, nervy girl" of the best-seller war book "They Were Expendable," was identified today as Lieut. Beulah Greenwalt of the Army Nurse corps.

Mrs. Jason R. King of St. Louis made the identification in the Post-Dispatch, explaining that Lieutenant Greenwalt, whose gallant nursing on Bataan and Corregidor was eulogized by author W. L. White and his naval narrators, was her sister.

Mrs. King said she had received from Lieut. Robert B. Kelly, second in command of the motor torpedo boat squadron which evacuated General MacArthur from the Philippines, an identifying letter.

ARMY TO BUY JUICES

WESLACO, Jan. 18. (AP)—Army purchases of canned Texas citrus juice, due to get under way during the coming week, will total $7,000,000 this year, Executive Secretary James H. Burch of the South Texas Canners assn. estimates.

counties for car thefts and burgluary. He was released last March after having served three years for burglaries in a number of South Plains counties.

McEachern, while awaiting shipment to the penitentiary in the latter case, escaped from Lubbock county jail on Sept. 27, somehow managing to get into the elevator while the prisoners were being fed that morning and made his way out of the jail six hours later when the prisoners again were being fed.

Recaptured Near Lorenzo

He was recaptured on Sept. 30 in a box car near Lorenzo stock yards, telling officers that he had hidden for some time in a storm sewer near the Santa Fe tracks immediately after the break. He was taken into custody by deputies Parum Posey and Grady Harrist.

Several weeks previously he had broken from custody of a Hockley county deputy sheriff but was soon recaptured—pulled from under a trailer house in the deputy's own yard. Earlier he had evaded several cars of officers in a chase over Lubbock and Lub county streets and roads. Overtaken, he leaped from the stolen car he was driving and escaped into a field.

Brown Confirmed As New Chief Of OPA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18. (AP) — The Senate unanimously approved today President Roosevelt's appointment of Prentiss M. Brown as price administrator and the former Michigan senator declared that he would do his best to alleviate, as far as he was able, the wartime "hardships we all must suffer."

Brown prepared to take over immediately as successor to Leon Henderson, resigned.

Chairman Wagner (D-NY) brought the Brown appointment before the Senate with the statement that it had been unanimously approved by the banking committee. When he urged immediate consideration, minority leader McNary of Oregon said that because he was informed the administration was anxious to have Brown assume his duties as soon as possible, Republicans would not stand on their technical right to force at least one day's delay.

Oklahoma Gives Up Claim On Fugitive

OAKLAND, Calif., Jan. 18 (AP)—John D. (Bud) Lambert, 31, who served three years in Oklahoma's McAlester prison for stealing a pig ten years ago, was a free man again today.

Lambert, a shipyard worker here, was taken in custody last week on a warrant from Oklahoma. Authorities there said they wanted him as a fugitive; that he still had six months to serve in prison for the theft of the shoat.

Today Warden Fred Hunt of the Oklahoma prison telegraphed Oakland police that he believed it inadvisable "at this time" to return Lambert "due to the shortage of transportation." An Oakland police official commented that in any event he was certain an attempt by Oklahoma to extradite Lambert, married and father of four, would have been unsuccessful.

Treason Trials Urged For Six Americans

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18. (AP) — Rep. Celler (D-NY) today urged treason trials for six Americans who, he said, were broadcasting Fascist propaganda from Germany and Italy.

Celler offered a resolution to provide military arraignment in absentia, of Constance Drexel, Fred Kaltenbach, Douglas Chandler, Janes Anderson, Ezra Pound and Robert H. Best.

Solon's Charge On FDR Flayed

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Rep. William P. Lambertson, R., Kan., said on the House floor today that a "distinguished American" told him that President Roosevelt ordered his oldest son, Lieut. Col. James Roosevelt of the Marine corps, withdrawn from action on Guadalcanal last fall.

Lambertson last Thursday asked whether two of the president's sons had been ordered away from the battlefronts and House Democratic leader John W. McCormick of Massachusetts denounced the implication.

Spent Christmas At Home

"I am not attacking the military record of the Roosevelt boys," Lambertson said today. "I think they were humiliated by the orders that brought them out."

He said James Roosevelt was "back in this country a week after he was reported leading his Marines on Guadalcanal" and that Franklin Roosevelt, jr., was reported back from the north African front in early December and "spent Christmas at the White House."

"The technique of the second son in leaving the battlefront was the same as the first," Lambertson said.

Lambertson said he was "on the spot" because McCormick had "chosen to discuss me as a common liar."

He said he was confident no one could shake the word of the "distinguished American" who, he said, told him the "commander-in-chief ordered James out of Guadalcanal."

Rep. Gore, D., Tenn., accused Lambertson of "stabbing at the heart of unity."

"I must brand his insinuations the nastiest below-the-belt disservice yet uttered in this House," Gore said. "He says he is on the spot. I say he is on the altar of shame before the country and the Congress."

Gore defended the military records of the president's sons and said they had rendered "distinguished service."

Last Christmas the White House announced that none of the president's sons all of whom are in the armed services, would spend the holidays there. The family of Franklin Roosevelt, a naval lieutenant, were guests of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

state party's platform expression stand without amplifiaction.

Other Resolutions

The other resolutions opposed "creation of regions and ignoring of state lines in administering federal affairs" and reaffirmed the platform in urging rigid economy in government.

The body also approved the appointment of a legislative committee to push platform-advocated matters before the legislature and to study complete revision of the election laws, which were characterized as inconsistent and difficult of enforcement.

Chief loss of strength by the Democrats was in state and local offices, Butler reminded the party's leaders.

By asking a series of questions, he suggested the answer to why ground was lost might be fear of the loss of constitutional government, fear of destruction of the American way of life, fear that bureaucrats, "not elected by the people, not responsible to the people, have gained too much control over the government of the people", fear of regimentation, lack of confidence in party leadership.

Butler suggested that the national party "might do well to look for advice in rebuilding of the confidence of the American people" by looking to such men as Governor Coke Stevenson for advice.

Silverton Navy Flier Missing After Crash

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 18. (AP)—The Fifth naval district announced today that Ensign Roy L. Lee, J.S.N.R., of Silverton, Tex., had been missing since his Navy land plane crashed into the sea on Jan. 15 near Oregon Inlet, N. C.

An unsuccessful search was conducted for the pilot after it was reported he had bailed out of the plane before it struck the water.

Ensign Lee's mother, Mrs. George W. Lee, of Silverton, has been notified that he is missing.

UNION VOTE ORDERED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18. (U.P.)—The National Labor Relations board today directed the Murray company of Dallas to hold an election within 30 days to determine whether employes wished to be represented by the International Association of Machinists or by the United Steelworkers of America, C.I.O., for the prpose of collective bargaining.

Berlin Battered

vastative one-two stab at Berlin was part of a softening process behind the Nazi lines for the opening this year of a second front on the continent. German night fighters which had been concentrated in the Ruhr to combat persistent British attacks there apparently were shifted hastily back to Berlin and accounted for the heavier price the RAF paid.

While the explosives and fire bombs were chewing up the Reich capital, the Germans flew over London in two comparatively weak retaliatory raids.

"Some damage was done, but it was nowhere on a large scale nad mainly was confined to houses," a communique said. Ten of some 60 raiders were destroyed, four by one night fighter squadron which set a new record.

Luftwaffe Waning

London's millions were relieved to realize that the power of the luftwaffe in western Europe had withered appreciably since the harrowing days of 1940-41.

At least 12 were killed in London, the hardest hit area being a row of two-story workers' apartments. One victim was a baby whose body was hurled 250 yards to the top of a three-story house.

Under a low cloud cover a strong force of Allied planes roared out over the channel shortly before dusk today in the direction of Boulogne.

Heavy explosions were heard from France for more time afterward by watchers at Folkestone. Some buildings there shook.

British pilots said that the ground fire at Berlin apparently was no heavier than on Saturday night but that the German defenses, particularly the night fighters, were helped by bright moonlight and a clear sky. The bombers had approached Berlin through clouds all across Europe the night before.

Nazis Minimise Damage

German accounts insisted that "disaster" befell the British planes and asserted that few reached the capital. The Berlin radio admitted, however, that fire damage was heavy and, significantly, termed the attack "a terror raid."

While the opposing heavy bombers were hitting at Berlin and London, smaller Bostons, Whirlwinds and Hurricanes kept up a 13-hour patrol over parts of France, Belgium and Holland shooting up railways, canal traffic and trucks.

The Germans making their first serious incursion to London in 18 months found the capital more heavily defended than ever before. Secret new anti-aircraft devices were used and a veritable steel curtain was thrown up. Flashes from guns dulled out the moon and shrapnel clattered to the pavement like hail. Some Londoners were killed by shells which failed to explode aloft.

Sweden Is Warned Of Possible Attack

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 18 (AP) — Prime Minister Per Albin Hansson warned Sweden in a speech today of a possible attack against her.

He warned against the possibility of false orders being issued and said if an attack came, everyone would have to help in defending the country.

WILL FIGHT INVASION

The Stockholm correspondent of the American-Swedish news exchange said in New York that Hansson was addressing the Swedish parliament and declared Sweden's "unshakable" intent to fight if invaded.

"Beyond any doubt we will defend ourselves," he said. "This has already been explained in orders to all subordinate military commanders. Similar instructions are being distributed to civil authorities."

His caution against false orders recalled the employment of such treachery in next-door Norway.

Relative Of General Lee To Launch Ship

HOUSTON, Jan. 18. (AP)—A descendant of the Confederate general Robert E. Lee will observe his birthday tomorrow by launching a destroyer escort vessel at the Brown Shipbuilding company yards here, the Eighth Naval dispatch announced today.

Chosen as sponsor of the USS Otterstetter, Mrs. Miles P. Refo, jr., of New Orleans, the mother of three sons in the naval service, is a great grand-daughter of General Henry Lee, the Lighthorse Harry Lee of the Revolutionary army. Her grandfather was Charles Carter Lee, the elder brother of the Confederate general.

Second Performance Of Musical Comedy Well Received Here

"Anything Can Happen," Lubbock Army Flying school's gift to the people of Lubbock, brought dwon the house last night in Lubbock High school Auditorium as the soldiers, ably assisted by ten beautiful Lubbock girls, presented the last of two performances.

The soldiers' version of "Helzapoppin," directed by Pvt. Burt Levi, can definitely be called a success as the original music and comedy scored a great hit with its second capacity audience. Cpl. Al Kaplin drew enormous applause with two comedy scenes. In the best of the pair, Kaplin used a clever falsetto voice in singing "Strip Polka," as he "stripped."

Five original songs, written by Levi, Pvt. Dudley Henriques, and Eddie Carney are well worth nationwide popularity. They were "Nightfall," "Let's Stay Up Till Reveille," "Jeeperoo Jive," "Air Corps Waltz," and "G. I. Blues."

Miss Eleanor Hertz, civilian employe at the base excellently sang two solos, "Lonesome In Your Arms," and "Nobody Make A Pass At Me," as she replaced Mrs. Brunette Harper, whose illness kept her from sharing the singing spotlight with Cpl. Sam Carson.

Levi pulled one clever gag after another as master of ceremonies, and the band, under the direction of Sgt. Bill Harrod, was the leading asset to the show for the second performance in a row. Gags presented by members of the cast, planted in the audience, kept the crowd on edge. Miss Betty Rhea Caldwell pleased the audience in a mock ballet nad her part with Pvt. Andrew Martin in the waltz.

Stock Losses Feared

Electra feared livestock losses and frozen oil field pipes as the thermometer fell from 23 above zero at 11 a. m. to 11 degrees at 5 p. m.

The highest temperature at Fort Worth was 32 at 4 p. m. today after an early morning low of 19, and by 6 p. m. the mercury was down to 29.

Snow was reported at Clarendon, Quanah and Borger.

Other temperatures, the weather bureau reported, were: Quanah 13, Clarendon 5, Gainesville 26, Waco 34, San Antonio 46, Brownsville 54, Beaumont 47, Houston 45, El Paso 54, Laredo 49.

The 11 degrees at Abilene was the lowest since Feb. 8, 1942. Austin's 29 degrees at 9:30 a. m. was the coldest for the capital this winter.

The harvest was reported 90 per cent finished in this area Small damage was reported possible to grain sorghums in the field. Unusual precautions were taken by livestock growers, who had ample feed and water.

The cold wave brought 47-degree weather to the valley Monday morning but no crop damage was reported.

High Court Refuses Stock Case Review

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18. (AP)—The Supreme court refused today to review a decision holding that a federal district court lacked jurisdiction to pass on a suit by a stockholder of the electric band and share company seeking to enjoin the Securities commission from preventing the company from purchasing its own preferred stock.

A suit by Samuel Okin of New York, owner of 9,000 shares, was dismissed by the federal district court at New York and the decision was upheld by the circuit court there.

Reds Profit From German Strategy

By EDDIE GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE RE DARMY Southeast of Rostov (Via Moscow), Jan. 17—The young but strong Russian army fighting back so fiercely and confidently, driving the best of the German troops before it, is an army that has learned much—and, oddly, learned a lot from its enemy.

At the moment all along this front the operation is one of beautifully-timed encirclements.

There is no secret about the Red army tactics which have put the Germans on the run.

Use Fast-Moving Units

The Russians scout and then begin their encirclements with fast-moving units which include airplanes, air sledges which can go better than 100 miles an hour, calvary and motorized infantry.

When artillery is needed to blast the Germans from their positions they have plenty of it—and it is plenty big.

The Russians assert that their medium tank, called the 34, is the best medium tank in the world.

Use Many Sleds

They also have sleds, the horse-drawn variety, by the thousands. When the snow gets deep they are vital to battle operations. But I have yet to see the Germans using any of them.

The commanders one talks with impress one with their great confidence in victory. This was apparent when I visited the front last winter as the Russians then had the Germans on the run—but it definitely was not on this scale.

Don't Laugh At Nazis

They are not laughing at the Germans, however. They still pay them considerable tribute as fighters. But the commanders all say Hitler won't come bounding back next summer. The present weather, they assert, should be ideal for the German armored forces and motorized units.

Every soldier and officer I talked with possessed a deep, almost religious faith, in Premier Stalin's direction of the war. They gave him full credit for everything.

It also gives an American a thrill up here to know that most of the food for the Red Army is hauled up over great distances by United States made trucks.

Much Interest Shown In Extension Courses

Director J. F. McDonald of the division of extension at Texas Technological college said yesterday he had received 70 letters from officers and enlisted men in 21 states and one from a Brazilian requesting information concerning correspondence courses offered at Tech in affiliating with the Army Institute training program.

McDonald attributed an increase in interest to issue in December of an attractive 40-page catalog of the Institute by the War department. The catalog gives full information about the training plan, list of cooperating institutions and courses they offer, and the advantages of taking correspondence work while in service. The catalogs will be distributed in high schools, colleges, universities, libraries, and army, navy, marine, and coast guard posts, induction centers, training centers and bases in the country.

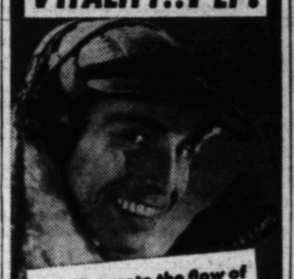

Tech ranks first among cooperating institutions in the Southwest in number of courses offered in the plan, McDonald added, and was one of the first to affiliate itself after War department approval of the Institute in July, 1942. It now is offering 135 courses to men in the armed services, and has 16 pending approval in Washington.

Officer Impressed By Mexican Troops

MONTERRY, Mexico, Jan. 18. (AP)—Brig. Gen. W. Augur of Fort McIntosh, Texas, watched 68 battalions of civilian army reserves march yesterday, then said it would be a pleasure to fight beside Mexicans on a battlefield.

General Augur, here upon the invitation of Gen. Eulogio Ortiz, commander of the seventh military zone, reviewed maneuvers of the reserves, then attended graduation ceremonies at a military academy.

Longhorns Remain Unbeaten In SWC

Steers Face Frogs In Crucial Tilt At Austin Tonight

By RICHARD WEST
Associated Press Sports Writer

This being 1943—an odd year—the Texas Longhorns are sensing another Southwest conference basketball championship.

Not in many a moon has a Texas team won a title in an even year. Twice since 1930 they've topped the basketball crown and both were in odd years—1933 and 1939.

Today with one-third of the '43 season completed they lead the pack with four wins and no losses.

And like the other two Longhorn champions, a pair of spark plugs are pouring 'em through the baskets to make the Steers favorites.

Jumpin' Johnny Hargis, center, leading conference scorer with 62 points, and Buck Overall, all-American junior college transfer who is third with 50, are pacing the Texas attack.

In 1933 the high-scoring Texas duo was Jack Gray and Ed Price and in 1939 Bobby Moers and Dran Spears—one of the finest pairs of guards in conference history.

Must Play TCU

Hargis and Overall led the Steers to two wins last week—40-37 over Southern Methodist and 54-45 over the Texas Aggies.

This week, however, the Longhorns face their severest test when they play the pre-season favorites, Texas Christian, at Austin Tuesday night.

TCU, despite an early loss to the Aggies, is still very much in the running with three wins out of four games. Last week they beat Rice 27-23 and SMU 49-43.

Arkansas, always the team to beat in basketball, was upset Saturday night by Rice's Owls 41-37 due to some fancy shooting by Bill Closs, Owl center, who made 24 points. The Hogs beat the Owls handily the preceding night 52-35.

Uphill Battle For Hogs

The razorbacks now face an uphill battle for the crown. They must play Texas two games in Austin and TCU two games in Fort Worth, and The Longhorns are always bad medicine for Arkansas.

Since the two have been playing each other they have split 38 games. The Porkers hold a comfortable margin over the rest of the circuit in all-time play.

Other results last week included a convincing 66-58 win by Baylor over the Aggies.

This week's schedule:

Tuesday — Southern Methodist vs. Baylor at Dallas; Texas vs. Texas Christian at Austin.

Wednesday—Rice vs. Texas Aggies at Houston.

Saturday—Southern Methodist vs. Texas Christian at Dallas; Baylor vs. Rice at Waco.

COACH ROLFE—Red Rolfe, for eight years regular third baseman for the New York Yankees, will train in the north this spring, too, but not with the Yanks. Rolfe will be at Yale, where he is to coach baseball He is now directing the Eli basketball team.

Florida Pro Advocates "Living Room Golf"

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 18. (AP)—Does the gas ban keep you from the golf course?

Then wham away in your own living room, advises Willie MacFarlane, former Open champion, now winter professional at Miami Shores course here.

Afraid lack of practice will spoil your timing and follow-through?

Walk around with a golf club in your hand, says the genial Scot. It's the feel of the stick, not the actual swing, that counts.

That living room golf he advocates really works. He demonstrated by smashing a few against the wall of the club house lounge, and he didn't pull his punch. Try it yourself — with a felt ball, of course.

The only hazard, Mac says, is your wife's concern for her rug.

DYKES DOING WELL

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 18. (AP)—Jimmy Dykes, manager of Chicago's White Sox, was operated upon today at Cedars of Lebanon hospital for a gall bladder ailment. Attendants said his condition was "very good."

Three More GG Boxers Enter

Touch Of 'Friendly Rivalry' Is Added

A hue of friendly rivalry was added to Lubbock's 1943 district Golden Gloves tournament, set for Jan. 29-30 at Texas Tech gymnasium, yesterday with the entrance of John R. Bigham of Lubbock into the bantamweight class.

Bigham, who entered three Gloves preliminary tournaments in this area last year and won seven of his eight fights, said in a note accompanying his entry blank, "I'm just a little heavy for the bantam class right now, but I'm training daily and by January 29 I'll be ready for anyone in the 118-pound division — including Derwood McClintock, who is a good friend of mine."

Bigham listed his weight as 120 pounds—just two over the bantamweight limit. He should have little trouble in making the division, since tourney officials have announced that a one-pound allowance will be made in each class.

Joe New Enters

Two more entries were received yesterday — one from a heavyweight and the other from a lightweight, making the seventh 135-pounder to enter the tournament.

The latest addition to the heavyweight division is Joe New, of Lubbock, who won the Class A, or novice, title in the heavyweight class of last year's Golden Gloves tournament here. New is the second heavyweight to enter this year's event, although several entrants in the no-limit division are expected from the local Army flying schools.

Dorwyn D. Shaver of Baileyboro is the new lightweight entrant. At present, he is three pounds over the lightweight standard at 138 pounds, but he should have little difficulty in getting down by tourneytime.

Yesterday's three entries brought the tournament's total to 31, with the flying schol teams yet to come.

Hank Greenberg Still On Inspection Tour

WACO, Jan. 18 (AP)—Lt. Henry Greenberg—Hank to those who follow baseball—says the Army Air force cadets are in as good physical condition as those tough paratroops.

Now assigned to the Army Air forces flying trianing command in the physical training department, Greenberg, the former star first baseman of Detroit's Tigers, also reports that the program is liked so well by the participants the problem is getting them not to overdo it.

Hank visited the Blackland Army flying school here as part of his duties. His headquarters are at Fort Worth but he describes his job as "a sort of continuous inspection trip all over the Gulf coast, west coast and southeast training centers." He has been in this work for the past five months.

Jack Gray's Sailors Looking For New Fields To Conquer

(By The Associated Press)

CORPUS CHRISTI, Jan. 18.—Jack Gray figures he may have to start offering prizes to obtain competition for his Corpus Christi Naval air station basketball team.

The Comets already have cleaned up the best offered in this area, including Texas, current leader of the Southwest conference, and they'd like to know how come they're ranked only third nationally among the service teams.

In six games the NAS boys have averaged 57 points while holding the opposition to 37 and to quote Gray: "Some of the teams we've played could have been beaten by 80 points."

Included in the wreckage left by the rampaging Comets are Texas Christian, Texas A. and M. and Rice, while service teams have been just gentle breezes.

Beg For Games

But with college schedules filled and transportation what it is, the Comets have been forced to practically beg at back doors for games.

Gray's trio of point makers—all-America Bob Kinney of Rice, John Dick of Oregon and Billy Dewell of Southern Methodist—probably have had something to do with the inability to obtain games. These three have made 232 points with the 6-foot-6 Kinney leading with 117.

In fact, Kinney, rated all-time all-Southwest conference, is having an even better season than in 1942 when he led Rice to a tie for the championship. His game average is three and one-half points above the 16 of last year.

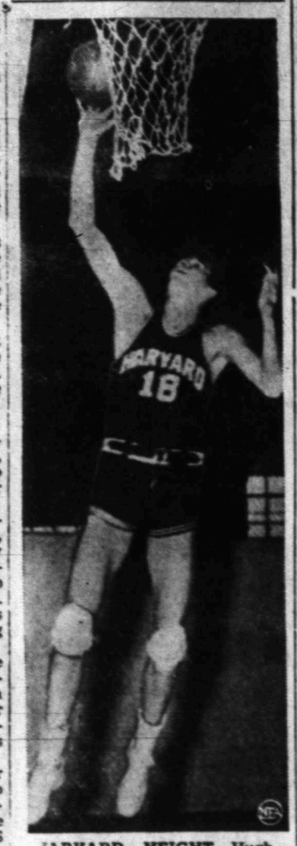

"My boys are growing stale for lack of work", moans Gray, who would like to play St. Mary's preflight and Camp Grant, Ill., the two teams ranked ahead of NOAS in service ratings.

"I know we could knock either of those teams off if we could only meet them" Gray declared.

Scribes Say Williams 'Player Of The Year'

NEW YORK, Jan. 18. (AP)—The New York chapter of the Baseball Writers association of America has chosen Ted Williams, former outfielder of the Boston Red Sox and now a Naval aviation cadet, as the "player of the year" for 1942 and will award him a plaque at their 20th annual dinner here on Feb. 7, it was announced today.

Williams was American league batting champion for the second straight year, as well as leader in home runs, total bases, runs scored and runs batted in and becomes the 13th recipient of the award. Bill Terry of the New York Giants received the initial plaque in 1931. Outfielder Joe DiMaggio, of the New York Yankees, won the 1941 award.

HARVARD HEIGHT—Hugh Hyde, at six-feet-four, is the tallest man on Harvard's basketball team—and also one of the best. Rebound tap-ins are Hyde's specialty.

Detroit Offers Athletic Directorship To Brazil

DETROIT, Jan. 18. (AP)—Lloyd Brazil, former all-American football star, was offered the post of athletic director of the University of Detroit today to succeed Charles E. (Gus) Dorais, but did not immediately announce whether he will accept the position.

The university athletic board met yesterday and after considering the qualifications of three candidates decided on Brazil. Dorais resigned recently to become coach of the Detroit Lions' professional football club.

At present, Brazil is the university's graduate manager of athletics, backfield football coach and head basketball coach.

Dorias was both head football coach and athletic director during his 18 years at the university. Whether these duties will continue to be combined is a matter for the new athletic director to decide, according to the Rev. A. H. Poetker, executive dean.

Committee Seeks Travel Solution

Continuation Of All Athletics Is Goal

(By The Associated Press)

ORANGE, Jan. 18.—Continuation of the program of competitive sports in which 50,000 boys participate annually in this state will be the objective of a committee named today by president J. W. Edgar of the Texas association of school administrators.

The committee, headed by H. D. Fillers of Wichita Falls, is made up of school superintendents who will ask state and national officials for a solution to the transportation problem which threatens to materially curtail the program as things now stand.

Edgar, superintendent of Orange schools, explained that the association was making its plans in line with the Texas Interscholastic league to call for limited participation in competitive sports but to leave the program big enough that all could be carried on.

Hope For Travel Solution

Edgar pointed out that prime factors in continuation of the Interscholastic league program in wartime would be solution of the transportation problem, retention of coaching personnel in the schools and broadening of the present athletic setup to include a greater percentage of boys in competitive training.

The association president said Army and Navy physical fitness officials wanted competitive athletics continued as a prerequisite to successful military service.

On the committee with Fillers are Bruce Shulkey, assistant superintendent at Fort Worth; Charles M. Rogers, superintendent at Amarillo; John F. Bailey, superintndent at Breckenridge, and Frank L. Williams, superintendent at Mexia.

At Wichita Falls, Fillers said he had already started correspondence to determine the earliest date for a meeting of the committee.

Creighton Basketball Coach Lauds Intersectional Games

By CHIP ROYAL
Associated Press Sports Writer

OMAHA, Jan. 18. — He's only five-feet-five, weighing 155, but he packs a lot of athletic dynamite under his small frame, this Eddie Hickey, the basketball coach of Creighton university.

Watching the Nebraskan mite order the six-footers around during their Saturday night victory over Oklahoma A&M, spectators were impressed by the way he handled his men—who, incidentally, are currently ranked as the best college quintet in the nation by Dick Dunkel, the handicapping expert.

Talking ot Hickey, one can quickly understand why his men respect his words. He is one of the greatest boosters that basketball, or players, or a sports audience ever had. He is interested in doing only one thing—doing his best to keep sports on a high plane.

Commends Officiating

Recently, there have been stories that eastern and western basketball don't mix, that the game is too professional in the east, but the Bluejay mentor doesn't agree.

"Basketball has made great strides in the last few years, and it can thank those New York games for it," Hickey declares. "The intersectional clashes have done more to improve the game than all the rule changing and talk will ever do."

The Nebraskan commended the style of ifficiating here in the east and said he liked the rugged, offensive style of play—although his team used a tight defense to nip Long Island university in a recent Madison Square Garden encounter, 31-30.

Likes Eastern Game

"The New York teams I have seen all operate with major efficiency that is a pleasure to watch. The spectators interest is enhanced by the terrific off-the-board game, and I doubt if any other section of the country can match the marvelous ball-handling, the fast cutting and the exceptional ability in set-court shooting.

"Some of the coaches have been yelling for standardization of play," continued Hickey, "and these intersectional games are the best medium I know for doing that. We have introduced several features of the eastern game in the west, and we intend to try more of them. In turn, the teams in the east have picked up a few of our tricks, including the one-handed shot, and they're doing all right."

Crowd Or No Crowd--- Derby Will Be Run

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 18. (AP)—The 69th Kentucky Derby will be run here May 1 and the winner will get a major part of the usual $75,000 purse, a gold cup and the traditional wreath of roses but the crowd likely will be made up of street-car riding residents of this area.

Col. Matt J. Winn, the Derby impressario at Churchill Downs, said today "unless the government bans horse racing, which is quite unlikely, the Derby will be run on the scheduled date, even if only two horses go to the post and even if the crowd does not exceed a half dozen persons."

The crowd undoubtedly will be affected by, such war-time restrictions as gasoline rationing, curtailment of civilian travel on trains and planes and the ban against use of taxicabs and extra buses to transport fans to sports events. However, Louisville and its neighboring communities in Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio have a population well in excess of 500,000 and most everybody in this section usually sees the Derby if he can make it.

Please help clear the LONG DISTANCE lines for war calls
MAKE FEWER AND SHORTER CALLS
Every morning, Army and Navy men and government officials must put through thousands of long distance war calls that help to move troops, procure supplies ... and direct the fighting.
Every afternoon those same Army, Navy and government men, and men who make calls that help produce tanks, airplanes, ships and shells, must complete the day's wartime business.
Every evening after 7 p.m., the boys call home, telephoning in the few hours they have free. You know we can't get material to build more lines just now, and we know you will be glad to help make the most of what lines we have. So ...
Morning, afternoon and evening, by making as few long distance calls as possible, and by keeping them short, you can help to speed the nation's business of winning this war. Thank you!
War calls come first!

With Your Cooperation, We got 'em home & back for the holidays
Thanks to you, a most critical period in wartime but transportation has been passed with flying colors.
Just before Christmas ... during the fall of the year, you were reminded that bus travel was not rationed and that the prospects of rationing was not even being considered. You were told also, when you wanted to travel, Texas-New Mexico and Oklahoma Coaches stood ready to serve you as in the past. As a result of your cooperation ... arranging your trips for mid-week, etc., thousands of men and women in uniform were able to go home by bus for holiday leaves and furloughs. While helping members of the armed forces, you also made it possible for agricultural workers in this territory to remain on the job until it was done before returning home.
Texas-New Mexico and Oklahoma Coaches will make every effort to see that the service you count on is available when you need it during 1943.
Due to the heavy passenger traffic on all lines, we are compelled to limit all baggage to one piece for each paid fare. May we have your cooperation!

Letters To The Editor From Readers

THE MINOR PARTY

Editor, The Avalanche:

Sir, the elephant is on the march again! With the off year election gains neatly tucked away, he is out for greener pastures. It is fine to see two major parties back contesting for the highest office under the American Flag. But a contest it will be! From what we read, it would appear there is a grand rush across party lines. The careful observer, however, is not going to be stampeded to the GOP by a small win followed by a flood of propaganda with a mixture of hate columns, sniping editorials, etc. Much water will run under the bridge by the summer or fall of 1944.

Truly, the unanimity with which Mr. Spangler was chosen was synthetic. It is not likely that a middle of the road course can be followed, either a liberal will be chosen or else there will be trouble in camp. It will be remembered that Harrison Spangler managed Alf Landon's campaign in 1936 in Chicago, he backed Taft in 1940, and he is well-trained in the old school. He leans towards the isolationist and probably would be highly pleased to see John W. Bricker get the nomination. However, Bricker, with his third term, and no doubt a good record on economy for the state of Ohio, would not be acceptable to Mr. Willkie and his crowd. A man without experience or training in National Affairs and without any conception of international affairs, could hardly be expected to satisfy a progressive, internationally minded, group who expect to not only point the way for this nation, but to lead the nations of the world in the Democratic way of life. Mr. Bricker might suffer the fate as one of Alf Landon did in 1936.

This man Willkie must be considered in any deal the GOP cooks up, and if some of those old heads will listen he will point the way to a brighter day for the Grand Old Party. It will not be backward to the old Laissez-Faire system, nor will it be to an all-embracing state, but instead to a new progressive type of government which will find favor, not only with the American people, but those in many lands beyond the seas. Herein lies the hope of the Republicans for 1944, and as yet, it is only hope.

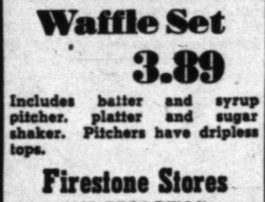

Respectfully,
B. T. Rucker
Shallowater.

Weekend Enrollment In WAAC Totals 29

Enrolled in Lubbock as WAAC's in the Palo Duro platoon were 29 women of the Panhandle-West Texas area.

The group examined here Sunday will spearhead the new contingent being formed from West Texas counties. Six of the 29 women are school teachers. One woman is a negress, the first of her race so far to hurdle the stiff mental tests required in examinations here. A large proportion of the women enrolled have sons, husbands, and fathers in the service already, they reported.

Among the enrollees are:

Hallie E. Payne, Viva L. Buchaults, Esther Bearden, Perryton.

Wyvonne Foster, Lorna M Bennett, Thelma C. Royal, Lorene E. Wagnen, Gertrude Parker, negress, Amarillo.

Helen Jane McLain, Lorraine C. Weaver, Lubbock.

Corpus Christi Crowded

A recent survey by the Commerce department showed there was a gross vacancy rate of 1 per cent during the early part of November among housing units in Corpus Christi. Over-crowded dwelling units— those housing more than one and one-half persons a room—made up about 17 per cent of the housing in the city; these units had only 11 per cent of all the rooms in Corpus, but were occupied by 27 per cent of its population.

OUR PLEDGE

WE pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands; One Nation, Indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

The Russian Situation

DESPITE the fact that nearly all dispatches from Russian fighting fronts during recent weeks have seemed favorable, the situation there does not support undue optimism among the United Nations.

Even though day to day gains have been claimed since the beginning of winter in the heavily censored reports from Moscow, any supposition that the Reds now have the Nazis on the run and that an Axis collapse is to be expected is without justification of fact.

The obvious fact of the business—a fact apparent from a casual examination of the map—is that the Reds regained only a small fractional part of the territory lost to the Nazis during the past summer. Unless the Russians can make substantially more progress before next May than they already have made, their prospects during the summer of 1943 are not bright.

Scenes of some of the most furious fighting at the beginning of last summer included the vicinities of the Russian city of Knarkov and the Crimean peninsual in the Black sea. When winter came, the scene of most violent actions had shifted to the streets of Stalingrad, which is more than 500 miles almost due east of Kharkov, and, the Caucasus mountains. During the summer the Nazis pushed their front forward some 500 miles in Southern Russia and, in some instances, their advances were considerable further.

Since then the most that the Russians themselves claim to have regained is approximately 200 miles, and this in isolated spots only. Behind their lines they claim to have trapped a Nazi army of some 200,000 men in the Stalingrad area and are striving to cut off other large enemy forces in the Caucasus. Unless the Reds succeed in capturing or destroying these forces—an extremely difficult and uncertain task—they form the nucleus about which Nazi offensives will be built in the summer. In such case, the plight of Russia will be the most desperate since the war started.

Unfortunately, very little credence can be placed in Moscow dispatches. They seldom will admit reverses. Even when the Nazis were storming forward last summer, Russian's official war reports continued to stress minor successes. Only the fact that the armies surged forward day by day made it apparent that the Germans were in the process of gaining a series of major victories which continued without a single interruption until the repulse at Stalingrad.

Thus it is wise to take present dispatches from Moscow with more than a grain of salt.

But, even if they could be accepted at face value, the fact still would remain that the Reds thus far have accomplished little toward offsetting losses suffered during previous months. They stil have far to go before they will be justified in optimism when the Nazis start their summer drives.

Legal 'Crack-Down' Needed

A PROMISED early crack-down by the Federal Government on questionable gadgets and concoctions offered by motorists as gasoline savers, anti-freeze solutions and the like should be translated into action without delay

Actually, action against such small-time rackets should have been taken long ago. Perhaps nothing was done because they did little harm except to the purchaser's pocketbook and car, which made little difference then. It does make a difference now.

Seemingly, a sensible person would realize that if devices like miracle gasoline savers had merit, they quickly would become standard equipment. Any automobile that could produce substantially more mileage per gallon than another would instantly establish itself as a leader in a highly competitive field. It is common sense to recognize that the modern automobile gives a maximum of safe mileage for the gasoline used. Competition takes care of that.

Yet miracle gadgets long have been on the market. Fortunately, their sale has been limited. Precautions are needed to make sure that they do not reap a harvest when people might be easy victims for such frauds.

Chapter 22
Hunt For Gloria

For one numb moment, Clark stared at the gleaming brooch in the detective's fat hand. Then he heard himself saying with sick misery, "There's been some mistake."

"Yeah," the detective drawled grimly, "there has, brother. But it was intentional."

Clark followed the three down the hall. He couldn't argue about it. Suddenly his conversation with Gloria the day before was weighing on his mind. "Rita embezzle funds—ridiculous!" he had laughed at the idea. . . .

Rita was in the Manager's office, guarded by one of the hotel boys. She had changed her evening clothes for street-wear. She looked confused and frightened under the strong light of the desk.

"What's the matter?" she appealed to Clark.

For a miserable moment he returned her anxious gaze. Then she whispered to the Manager, "Why was I stopped and brought in here?"

It was the house detective who answered gruffly. "We'd like to ask you, Miss, where you were going when you tried to leave the hotel?"

"To meet a friend . . ." Her white face flushed as she added steadily with a tilt of her chin, "A friend I'd called to come up from Los Angeles whom I wanted to talk to before tomorrow morning. Why?"

The detective opened the door of the inner office and motioned out a frightened, black-haired little maid. He pointed to Rita while he watched the maid slowly. Is this the 'lady'?"

Clark's heart stood still as the girl raised dark, fearful eyes to scrutinize Rita. Then slowly she gulped, "Yeah."

Rita was on her feet now crying, "What is this? Am I what lady?"

The Manager's voice was cold now. "This is one of our chamber maids," he explained. "About one-thirty tonight she went up to the second floor to take some hot milk to an old lady who couldn't sleep. She told the desk clerk when she came down she'd seen a young lady in evening dress hurrying through the hall, looking 'scared and excited.' Twenty minutes later, Miss Cunningham called down to say her diamond brooch had disappeared from her dressing table while she was bathing. A few minutes later we found you at the side entrance. We have just searched your room." He held out his hand with the brooch.

Clark watched with hypnotic fascination as Rita's gaze moved slowly up from the brooch to the Manager's accusing eyes. "If you think I—" she began slowly in a small, hurt voice. Then, as she read his unspoken thoughts a laugh echoed up through her tight throat, "But I didn't! I assure you—I didn't take it . . ."

"Then why were you slipping around the halls at one-thirty? Why were you going out at two? And how did this happen to be in your bureau drawer?" the fat detective barked.

"Because I—"

Clark's harsh voice cut in suddenly. "Stop this third degree. Can't you see the girl's ill?"

"I've got to find out who the fence was she was meeting."

"I don't care who he was!" shouted Clark watching Rita's strained white face and clenching hands. "She's going to rest now."

But Rita was on her feet her eyes on Clark with a new tortured intensity. "You believe I—" Abruptly she went limp and slipped to the floor.

Clark carried her unconscious body up the stairs and laid it gently on her bed. The little chambermaid brought water, whispering fearfully, frightened black eyes fixed with guilt on Rita's face, "Is she dead?"

It was almost dawn when Gloria came into the room. Rita was sleeping. Clark was standing by the window staring out into the semi-darkness. Gloria went to stand beside him. Quietly she sobbed.

"I feel so—horribly responsible for all this!"

He patted her shoulder absently. "You needn't. Anyone would have sent for a detective."

"You think Rita did it?" She held her breath waiting for his answer.

"The evidence is against her at the moment," Clark said heavily. His mind was swinging back relentlessly to Rita's own words, "I think I've found a quick solution."

In her moment of triumph, Gloria's emotions were sensitized so keenly she could almost feel the thoughts of his tortured mind. "Dad used to believe time would cure Rita's father of his—queer business methods," she whispered. "But it never did." She could almost feel the vague hope dying in him. Her game was practically finished—she had won her most exciting campaign. Her petulant lovely lips curved in a smile as she pressed her face close against his lapel and sobbed afresh. "Take me back to Frisco—please, Clark dear." Her arms crept around his neck.

And, at that moment the door opened. A big, broad shouldered man stood for a minute silhouetted against the dim light of the hallway. Then he crossed to the bedside and bent to take one of Rita's slender wrists in his fingers. Clark frowned. "You're not the doctor I saw yesterday."

The big man gently lifted one of Rita's eyelids. "Rita called me yesterday." He straightened then, and gave Clark a long scrutiny. "You're Clark Pasquin," he said bluntly. "If this collapse of Rita's means what I'm afraid it does—nerve prostration—it's your fault."

Clark could only stare at the stranger in complete amazement. Gloria cried indignantly "Who are you?" What are you talking about?"

The broad-shouldered man turned to look hard at her. "You must be the Cunningham girl," he stated. "I was—unfortunately—delivering a baby when you were at that ranchers' meeting. My name is Doc Burrows — of Blossom Valley."

Clark slowly followed the doctor's accusing glare towards Gloria. But Gloria's eyes were fixed on the open door behind him, their pupils dilated with fear! Suddenly she ran to the door to disappear into the hall.

Doc and Clark were still peering stupidly after her, when a shrill cscream of terror split the morning stillness! With one accord they ran out into the hall. Gloria had disappeared as if swallowed up into a void!

Clark and Doc Burrows ran down the hall and into Gloria's room. It was empty. They took the stairs three at a time down to the lobby. The desk clerk was surprised at their urgent questions. No, he'd seen no one leave.

"But she went somewhere!" cried Clark. "She couldn't just disappear in that hall!"

Infected with their excitement, the clerk went with them back through the grey kitchen, the servants' quarters, even down into the store rooms. All was bare and empty, ominous.

Weldon Hudnall Is Prsioner Of Japs

A telegram from the adjutant general in Washington Sunday informe Mr. and Mrs. H. Hudnall of 1502 Avenue E that their son, Sgt. Weldon S. Hudnall, 21, is a prisoner of the Imperial Japanese government in the Philippines.

Sgt. Hudnall had been missing since the fall of Corregidor.

He had volunteered three years ago, from Lubbock, and was in the quartermaster corps, his parents said.

Until Sunday night, the parents had feared their son might have lost his life.

A letter follows, the telegram said.

Money, Cash Or Dollar, They're All At LAFS

If you're looking for Money, Cash or A. Dollar, the Lubbock Army Flying school has all three.

They are G. K. Cash of Post; B. A. Dollar of Erick, Oklahoma; C. A. Money of Portales, New Mexico. They have been at this advanced flying school for only a short time.

Also here are: John Law, from canton, Mississippi, a Corporal; a dental surgeon, Captain William J. Hurt, who doesn't. This is just a Sample (Aviation Cadet Arthur M. Sample of Mansfield, Louisiana) of the names of the men stationed here and who are helping to keep 'em flying.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

JAMES F. BYRNES holds one of the nation's thorniest assignments as economic stabilizer, but he is as gleeful as a boy at the alibi this appointment gives him to quit the Supreme Court.

Few days before he left the bench a friend met him trotting across Capitol plaza at a breakneck pace. "Where are you going so fast, Mister Justice?" said the acquaintance.

'You see that building over there?" queried the South Carolinian, pointing to the majestic white structure which houses the jurists. "Well, they walk on tiptoe and in black robes in that place and they whisper when they talk to you. Today I found myself tiptoeing and whispering, too. So I called up Ed Halsey and asked him to round up a few live beings in his office so that we could have an old-fashioned, loud-voiced gabfest." (Mr. Halsey is Secretary of the Senate.)

If Jimmie thought the Harlan Stone edifice was a lugubrious spot, he should have inhabited it before young William O. Douglas became a member. He is an excellent reconteur and has quite humanized the courtroom. Frequently in a session he will lean toward Justice Roberts, Jackson or Reed and speak a few words softly which will wreath their faces in smiles and sometimes produce a judicious guffaw.

COMPLAINTS: Democratic and Republican members on Capitol Hill were dumfounded when examination of war cost charts disclosed that the United States will expend more money than both the Allied and Axis belligerents. Astonishment is shared by the two Parties, by isolationists and internationalists.

Even the most enthusiastic pre-Pearl Harbor supporters of the administration's foreign policies declared that they would demand an explanation when War, Navy and lend-lease officials appear before appropriations committees to justify specific budget requests. They will utilize this revelation in their attack on naming Harry Hopkins lend-lease administrator, recalling that he had won a reputation as a "great spender" in peacetime.

Critics suspect that the fabulous amounts may be due to two reasons: 1. Funds are being scattered wastefully. 2. We have expanded on too grandiose and unbalanced a scale, investing cash where it will never be needed.

Another factor behind these complaints consists of reports that our boys abroad, especially in England, North Africa and the Solomons, are not receiving promised supplies of food or clothing. Everybody recognizes the transportation problems the United Nations face, but some of the tales of shortages have shocked legislators.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

CENSORSHIP has prevented the layman from realizing how strenuous is the race by all nations to fill the heavens with air transports. The one chance the Germans have of maintaining their isolated strong points in the Don basin—now that the Soviets have surrounded them—is to fly in supplies. Desperate tricks were tried to outwit the Stormoviks. Junker 52s capable of bearing two tons sneaked low through forest areas, hopped from cloud to cloud and used different routes at unexpected hours to fool Russian watchers.

Earlier in the season these stunts worked. But now that Muscovite pilots are familiar with the various ruses and the Nazis often must land on swampy terrain, the escapes are far less frequent. Arrival of aircraft last year gave beleaguered garrisons the courage to hold out. Failure this Winter may cause despair and quicker surrender.

The African stalemate has convinced British aeronautical experts that the Allies require thousands more of these winged cargo ships. The RAF is operating Wellington bombers—which should be plastering Axis cities—to bring up munitions. Specialists propose that the United States concentrate on making all the Fortress, Lancaster, Liberator and Stirling multi-motored giants and that English factories now building big planes be switched to freighters.

Very soon Uncle Sam will be constructing one carrier out of every three many-engined monsters produced—or approximately a thousand a month. Our soldiers could risk going almost anywhere with such support.

FREEDOM: Fresh reports reach underground contacts in New York that captive peoples overseas are giving the Germans and their traitor stooges a war of nerves. Hendrick Rogstad, the Quisling responsible for the execution of 30 Norwegian patriots, was aroused from slumber night after night by his telephone ringing. "This is Carl Nordrum," a voice would whisper. "Are you sleeping well, Hendrik?" The name would always be that of one of the victims of the firing squad. Finally in terror Rogstad ordered all public phone booths closed after dark. Even conscience-smitten Macbeth never was haunted by worse nightmares.

The Dutch plagued storm troopers in North Brabant by placing barber poles before any type of store. Nazis went around painting out the red bands because—as their own paper, the Zwarte Soldaat, admitted—the color scheme reminded them too much of the Stars and Stripes, the "flag of the American tyrants." In retaliation Netherlanders displayed red, white and blue articles in shop windows.

Psychological warfare in reverse took place in Sweden on Christmas Eve. Kindhearted folk in the neutral nation knew that their Danish neighbors would endure a blacked-out Yuletide with gloom more melancholy than from verbaten lamps. So they lit a huge bonfire on the west coast to cheer the residents of Helsingor just across the narrow waters of Oresund. After carol shad been sung the Swedish mayor on a loudspeaker broadcast good tidings of freedom for the Danes when peace on eath returns

SHELTER: The Germans have exposed their innermost convictions. They expect to be kicked out of North Africa—never to return. The give-away is revealed by the type of scorched earth policy they are applying in Tripoli. In the days when both sides advanced and retreated like fencers in a duel, Rommel abandoned installations intact on the theory that he could use them when his Afrika Korps again took the offensive.

But United States officers who have arrived in America from the British Eighth Army explain that the Axis is destroying everything in its path. This ruin helped to slow down General Montgomery's forward progress but since it demonstrates that the enemy knows he is licked, Allied troops take their slow marches in good spirit.

Formerly natives stayed behind to do business with their new conquerors but today they are afraid to remain in the ghost towns, so ruthless has been the devastation. Public buildings have been dynamited, wharves turned into scattered stones dangerous to navigation and roads studded with hidden mines. Wells have been poisoned, and booby traps of fountain pens and personal belongings purposely discarded explode in the fingers of curious Tommies.

The humble mud huts of local Egyptians have been looted of their meager food and leveled so none may ever again find shelter in them from the rain. This appalling pattern may be followed when the Nazis are finally forced back—mile by mile—from the civilized European cities which they have seized.

With Texans In Washington

By L. T. EASLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 — The new Congressional directory for the session which began Jan. 6 contains among other things biographies of the senators and representatives, either written by them or given their approval before publication.

Among Texans: Longest biographical sketch—that of Representative Wright Patman of Texarkana; shortest—that of Representative Milton West of Brownsville; most unusual—that of Representative Nat Patton of Crockett.

Patman's sketch runs 20 lines and fills a third of a page in the 872-page book; it reads, in part, as follows:

"Born near Hughes Springs, Cass county, Tex., August 6, 1893; has resided in Texas all his life, . . . married Miss Merle Connor, of Winnsboro, Tex., February 14, 1919, they have three children—Connor Wright, age 22 (first lieutenant, United States army, enlisted December 10, 1941), James Harold, age 20 (sergeant, Marine corps in South Pacific, enlisted December 18, 1941), and William Neff, age 15 (eagle scout attending Kemper Military School); served four years as a member of Texas legislature . . ."

West Sketch Is Brief

The West biographical sketch, in its entirety, follows:

"Milton H. West, Democrat, Brownsville, Tex."

HERE is the reference to Patton:

"Nat Patton, Democrat, of Crockett, Tex., born in log cabin of humble farm parentage in Houston county, Tex., at a little village called Tadmore, 18 miles east of Crockett, the county seat, brothers and sisters still own old farm home."

The sketches of Representatives Martin Dies of Orange, Hatton W. Sumners of Dallas, and Joseph J. Mansfield of Columbus give, in addition to party affiliation and hometown, only mention of when they entered congress, requiring in all one and one-half lines each.

New Members Sketch

This is the biography of the lone new Texas member:

"O. Clark Fisher, Democrat, of San Angelo; born near Junction, Kimble County, Tex., November 22, 1903, attended the public schools at Junction, Tex., LL.B. degree, Baylor University, married, one daughter, Rhoda, born February 18, 1929; served as county attorney, Tom Green county, Tex., 1931-35; member of state house of representatives 1935-37; served as district attorney, fifty-first judicial district, 1937-43; elected to the seventh-eighth congress on November 3, 1942."

O'Daniel Changes Name

SENATOR O'Daniel's sketch in the directory of the 77th Congress had started off "Wilbert Lee O'Daniel, Democrat, of Fort Worth . . .";

Following of mention of place of birth and other facts, his biography says: "member of Christian church; engaged in flour milling and grain business, 1909 to 1938; was petitioned to run for the office of Governor of Texas by 54,499 Texas citizens and was elected governor in the 1938 first primary with 573,166 votes, a clear majority over 12 opponents, the first victory of this nature in the history of the state; . . ."

House Has 8 Johnsons

There are 8 Johnsons listed among members of the Touse—two are from Texas—Representatives Luther A. of Corsicana and Lyndon B. of Johnson City and Austin.

Beckworth Youngest

YOUNGEST man in Congress is East Texas Representative Lindley Beckworth, 29. He is beginning his fifth year in congress, having entered at 25, the minimum age, and as one of the three youngest men ever to serve in the House of Representatives. The youngest member of the 76th Congress, Beckworth lost the distinction during the past two years to Rep. Boggs (D-La), born Feb. 15, 1914, who did not return to Congress this year.

One of the oldest men in congress is Representative Mansfield, 81, veteran legislator from the Galveston area.

Washington Housing Scarce

Congressman O. C. Fisher of San Angelo, and his secretary, Grady Hill, are finally getting settled in their office suite in the old house office building. They couldn't move in for days because the congressman who previously had occupied the office didn't get out.

A former San Angelo newspaperman, Hill found out that tales about the housing shortage here have some foundation in fact. He and his wife looked for days for a place, found one apartment in Virginia finally and went to check schools to see if one in neighborhood for daughter, Jerry, 10. When they went to rent the place it already had been taken. A few days later they rented an apartment in Tacoma Park, Maryland, nearly 8 miles from the capitol. He says it takes one hour each way getting to work by public transportation — riding two buses and a street car.

SPECIALTIES IN DEMAND

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (AP)—Buyers liked rails, coppers, mail orders and specialties in today's stock market but gave many leaders a wide berth.

Favorites were taken in hand after a stumbling start. While the majority never got ahead more than fractions, there were scattered gains of a point or so. Most steels, motors and rubbers were under water at the close.

Further profit taking on the recent bulge to best levels in more than a year tended to offset investment demand to some extent. Business developments aided individual issues and the war news continued as a moderately bullish influence.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 42.7, which was the highest mark since Oct. 6, 1941, established last Saturday. Dealings slackened as trends turned indecisive. Transfers for the full proceedings totalled 708,280 shares against 999,250 Friday.

Among scattered tops posted for 1942-43 were those of Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, J. I. Case, Deere, American Can, General Electric and J. C. Penney. Advances were retained by Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Great Northern, Anaconda, Kennecott, Allied Chemical, Philip Morris, United Aircraft, Fajardo Sugar and Standard Oil (NJ).

On the losing end were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, Union Pacific, Westinghouse, U. S. Gypsum, Douglas Aircraft, American Airlines, Pan American Airways, Union Carbide and Johns-Manville.

Death Takes Pioneer Ranchcer, Ex-Ranger

ALPINE, Tex., Jan. 18. (AP)—Joe D. Jackson, 81, pioneer Brewster county rancher and Texas Ranger in the early days of desperadoes and cattle rustlers, died at his home here yesterday.

Jackson, a native of Bell county, was one of the few remaining early settlers of the Big Bend. He was widely known over the Southwest for his early-day efforts on behalf of the Cattle Raisers association—of which he was the first vice president — particularly in lowering railroad rates for producers.

He was instrumental in establishment of Sul Ross State Teachers college here and was known as the "father of the institution."

Principles Laid Down For Small Business

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18. (AP) — The Senate small business committee today laid down five basic principles which members said would be hailed as "five commandments" by the operators of small enterprises.

They were:

"Small business must be more effectively used in war production.

"Small business must be more effectively used in meeting essential civilian needs.

"Small business requires assistance in adjusting to certain war conditions.

"Small business needs better access to capital.

"If small business is to make its maximum contribution to American life, the federal government must improve its approach to small business problems."

The five points were set out in a report of the committee's activities, presented by the chairman, Senator Murray (D-Mont).

Buck Sets Two Lectures Today

At least two evidences late Monday pointed to Lubbock and South Plains interest in two lectures today in Lubbock by Frank Buck, famous explorer, author and hunter.

There were two requests for personal appearances elsewhere before or after Buck's lectures and motion picture programs; and, sponsors said, the sale of reserve seats was "especially gratifying."

As to additional appearances while here, a telegram from Buck explained that he would arrive from Abilene just before his first lecture in Lubbock and be forced to leave for Amarillo soon after his night program, so as travel slowly via tire rationing regulations and yet make his appointments on time.

As to the reserve seats, "there are some left," it was announced.

Offering dramatic accounts of his trips to all the out-of-the-way places of the earth, and a motion picture with members of the animal kingdom as a cast, Buck first will be presented in a matinee for school children at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon, and again at 8 o'clock for the public. Both programs are to be given in Lubbock Senior High school auditorium.

Tickets for school students are on sale at the offices of the various school principals, general admission tickets at Lubbock and Hilton hotels and at Texas Technological college.

Buck's appearance is sponsored by the Junior Welfare league and proceeds will go to maintain the league's Well Baby clinic.

Children's tickets are 25 cents each, general admission 55 cents and reserve seats $1.10.

Tyler Goes Several Hours Without Heat

TYLER, Jan. 18. (U.P.) — The heat was on in Tyler again today.

But for several decidedly uncomfortable hours late yesterday and last night more than half this city of 38,000 persons shivered in near freezing temperatures without any natural gas for fuel.

Officials said today that there were no reports of casualties or undue suffering because of the incident, however.

Yesterday afternoon pressure in the gas mains dwindled to practically nothing and investigators found a column of flame roaring 200 feet into the air eight miles east of town at a break in a trunk line serving the city.

Firemen surmised that a grass fire had ignited a minor leak in the line and that the heat from the fire had gradually grown in intensity until it cracked the pipe wide open.

The resultant drop in pressure left the more populous southern section of the town, including the city's three hospitals, practically without fuel until about midnight when the break was repaired.

Deaf Mutes Figure In Killing, Suicide

CROCKETT, Jan. 18. (AP)—Sheriff W. W. McConnel of Houston county said today a verdict of murder and suicide was returned by Justice of the Peace Penick in the fatal shooting of Arthur Childress, 43, and John Nelson, 67, two deaf mutes.

Applicant For Tires Wasn't Just Kidding

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 18. (U.P.) —Josep Francel pleaded with his rationing board that his need for new tires was a matter of "life or death." The board turned him down and told him to take a train to work. Francel is state executioner at Sing Sing prison.

German Luftwaffe Severely On Wane

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

The waning ability of Hitler's boasted luftwaffe to cope with growing Allied air power is emphasized by the RAF blows at Berlin.

Wholly aside from the military damage done, German morale must be severely shocked by the complete reversal of the air odds in the renewed "battle of the capitals." The attempts of Nazi propagandists to minimize the sustained British bombing attack over Germany and exaggerate the scope of sporadic retaliatory blows cannot long obscure the truth from the German masses.

KIRKE SIMPSON

Berlin, like London, is more of a psychological target than a strictly military objective. It is the nerve center of all Nazidom. The RAF's shift to that target from attrition blasting at Nazi industrial centers and communications bottle-necks has distinct war-of-nerves values.

The deluge of bombs and incendiaries fell on Berlin at a moment when things were obviously going ill for Axis armies in Russia and Africa. Rommel's Army again in retreat before onsurging British imperials in Tripolitania. The Axis foothold across the Mediterranean has shriveled another 80 miles or more. There is an ever growing danger that the boasted African corps will be trapped and destroyed before it effects a junction with Axis forces in northern Tunisia.

Red Reports Heartening

As for the situation in Russia, encouraging reports continue to pile up. The latest is that the Red Army forces have succeeded in lifting the siege of Leningrad, a siege which was first established in August, 1941.

Moreover, a Russian forward surge from the region of the upper Don river hints at even more ambitious Russian offensive objectives than have yet been revealed before Leningrad, Rostov or Stalingrad.

This Russian advance, south of Voronezh, has stabbed southeastward down the Voronezh-Kharkov railway to a point little more than 100 miles from Kharkov. It is headed toward the prime bottle-neck of Nazi communications in all southern Russia. The crossings of the Dnieper, southwest of Kharkov, apparently are not much more than 200 miles distant from the advanced elemement of the new Russian thrust below Voronezh.

Important Objectives

They were the objective of the ill-fated Russian spring offensive last year in the Kharkov region. Had Soviet forces managed to reach them, it must have shattered Hitler's summer offensive in the making. They were and still are more important than Kharkov itself strategically, but it is still too early to discern whether the new Russian southwestward lunge from the Don is actually the beginning of a stupendous effort at enemy encirclement designed to free the whole Donets basin, even threaten the rear of Nazi armies in the Crimea as well as at Rostov and in the Caucasus, or primarily a holding attack to prevent reinforcement of Nazi lines before Rostov.

It seems quite clear, however, that the Russian high command now is anticipating decisive developments in the Caucasus and at Rostov. For the first time in months of bitter defensive and offensive battles there, it has authorized American or other correspondents to visit the fighting fronts to see for themselves the havoc wrought against the foe.

The graphic eye-witness stories of such men as Eddy Gilmore of the Associated Press from the lower Don sector leave it no longer open to doubt that Hitler has already suffered his greatest defeat of the war at Russian hands.

Single Survivor Of Mission In Solomons Evacuated By Plane

(By The Associated Press)

GUADALCANAL, Solomon Islands, Dec. 12. (Delayed)—Sister Ednee Bonnett, sole survivor of a Marist mission served by two priests and three sisters, left the island yesterday by plane.

The 34th missionary to be evacuated since the marines landed, Sister Ednee had administered to the natives for 18 years.

She rode in an automobile yesterday for the first time. A jeep carried her over rutted muddy roads to the airport. The plane that took her to safety was the second one she had ever seen. The first was a Japanese Zero, which strafed the village in which she had taken refuge.

Mission Captured

Last September, she left the mission at Luruvatu to visit some outlying villages. On her way home she was stopped by the natives. They told her the mission had been captured and the two priests and the two other sisters were dead.

Natives then took her to their village. For three months, they nursed her through an illness which nearly took her life. On Thursday, she had gained enough strength to make the eight-mile trip on foot to the coast. A Navy chaplain, Lt. Frederick Gehring, U. S. N. R., 40 year old, whose official residence is St. Vincent's seminary, Germantown, Pa., met her and brought her to the American base in a schooner.

Oklahoma's Holdings In Texas To Be Sold

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 18. (AP)—Oklahoma took steps today to go out of the land business in Texas.

The State School Land commission authorized appraisals in preparation for sale of 14 tracts of which about 1,000 acres now lie within the Texas border. A remaining 500 acres are in Oklahoma.

Auctions will be held later in Texas county seat cities along the western Oklahoma border, said Woody Hunt, department sales manager.

The tracts represent farms on which the commission had loaned money before the western Oklahoma border was moved eastward about a mile, leaving the land in Texas. Foreclosures since have been obtained.

The sale was authorized by the last legislature. As it stands, Oklahoma is paying taxes to its neighboring state.

ADVERTISING MAN DIES

HOUSTON, Jan. 18. (AP)—Funeral services for H. Writ Steele, 68, prominent advertising man and civic leader, will be held at 4 p. m. today. Steele died early Sunday at his home.

Launchings Set For Texas-Built Ships

HOUSTON, Jan. 18. (U.P.) — The Consolidated Steel Corp., Ltd., of Orange, Tex., will launch two destroyer escort vessels, the U.S.S. Frederick C. Davis and the U.S.S. Douglas L. Howard, Jan. 24, Lieut. J. G. Brian Coyne, Navy public relations officer, announced today.

Sponsor of the U.S.S. Davis will be Mrs. Dorothy Robins, San Antonio, Tex. The vessel will be named in honor of Ensign Frederick Curtice Davis, U.S. Naval reserve, killed in action.

Mrs. Donald L. Thomas, Annapolis, Md., will sponsor the U.S.S. Howard, to be named for her father, the late Capt. Douglas Howard, U.S.N. Mrs. Thomas is the wife of Lieutenant Commander Thomas.

Bill On Telegraph Merger Plan Okayed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18. (AP)—The Senate interstate commerce committee unanimously approved today a bill permitting the merger of the Western Union and Postal Telegram companies.

In its report, the committee said the entire domestic telegraph industry was feeling seriously the effect of competition from the telephone, radio and airmail and urged that it be placed in a stronger position in order to aid in successful prosecution of the war.

Axis Torpedoes Give WAACS A Close Call

ALLIED NORTH AFRICAN HEADQUARTERS, Jan. 6.—(Delayed) (U.P.)—Five officers of the first group of WAACS to arrive in North Africa, were rescued after their ship was torpedoed en route and later caught fire in the Mediterranean, it was revealed today.

The five WAACS, all captains, were Louise Anderson, Denver, Colo.; Ruth Briggs, Westerly, R. I.; Alene Drezmal, White Bear Lake, St. Paul, Minn.; Mattiet Pinette, Fort Kent, Me., and Martha Rogers, New Albany, Miss.

Three of the officers—Captains Briggs, Pinette and Rogers—took to lifeboats after the attack with the other passengers. The other two, fearing there was no room for them in the lifeboats, stayed on deck, prepared for what they thought would be certain death.

Captains Anderson and Drezmal were rescued by a destroyer, that came alongside, and those in the lifeboats were picked up by a plane. The convoy proceeded to port, after the stricken vessel was towed away by a destroyer.

Two Die In Flames Which Destroy Home

ALVORD, Tex., Jan. 18 (U.P.)—Funeral arrangements were pending today for Mr. and Mrs. Ed Grundy, both about, 50, who were burned fatally yesterday when their farm home, three miles north of here, was destroyer by fire.

Neighbors said the flames had already enveloped the frame house by the time they reached the scene, preventing rescue efforts. The fire was termed accidental by investigating officers.

The Sanders Funeral home is in charge.

O'Daniel To Insist On Anti-Liquor Law

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18. (AP)—Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex) served notice upon the Senate today he would insist upon action at this session on legislation to outlaw the sale of intoxicants, including wines and beer, at or near Army and Navy camps and stations. The Texan criticized a recent publication of the Office of War Information which asserted drinking did not constitute a serious military problem.
