Frisco Freight Wreck.

Train No. 40, a northbound freight on the Frisco, was wrecked last Monday afternoon just out of Stephenville and abuot two hundred feet from the Bosque. At the point where the wreck occurred there was a small trestle and this was rebuilt before before trains could pass. Tuesday morning the northbound train went as far as the wreck and passengers and mail were transferred to this train and it returned to Brownwood, but express matter was not transferred and the first express came in on Tuesday evening. Seven cars were thrown into the ditch and three of the cars were mashed to splinters. The engine, tender and one car passed over the bridge safely and the front wheels of the caboose stopped on the approach to the bridge. These two incidents saved the loss of life of one or more persons that would undoubtedly have occurred had the engine or the caboose gone down.

Water Company Improvements.

J. R. St.Clair last week purchased from B. M. Utterback several acres of land directly in front of the water works power house which he expects to fence and transform into a beautiful park, plentifully supplied with shade trees, grass and gravelled walks. Mr. St.Clair hopes within a year or so to entirely revolutionize the appearance of the surroundings at the power house and make the entire property look and become a pleasure resort. There is to be something doing in the power house however, for in addition to other improvements he is having a large reservoir made additional to the stand pipe and which will hold more water than the stand pipe and he will also arrange to furnish lights for electric power every minute in the day, every day in the week and every week in the year. The new reservoir is to be povided with a new patent automatic pump which will be capable of forcing water from the reservoir into the mains for fire purposes with a pressure of more than 150 pounds to the square inch and the stream of water from the fire hose will be capable of breaking a plate glass front as though it was made of paper. The reservoir is to partake of the general beautifying process and will be so arranged as to simply appear as a fine pool of clear cool water with a fountain streaming from the center and apparently having no connection with the more serious question of fire fighting.

Cutting Affray near Stephenville.

Last Saturday afternoon Geo. Clark and Ben Douglass, both negroes, engaged in an affray in which the former was laid up for repairs as a result of a knife wound in his right leg. Douglass claims that he was passing along the street when, without any warning, Clark, armed with a big knife, somewhat smaller than a scythe blade, assaulted him, carving great gashes in the air entirely too close to his head to be pleasant. He dodged a vicious knife thrust that was intended to cause him to play the role of "leading man" in a funeral procession, and the knife missing its mark was driven into the fleshy part of his assailant's right leg, inflicting a wound that required the attention of a physician. —Erath Appeal, July 27th.

Sudden Death of Jerome Kearby.

Jerome C. Kearby, well known all over Texas as a lawyer and politician, died at Denton last Monday at the residence of his brother-in-law, Dr. J. P Blount, death occurring at 5 o'clock.

The epd came very suddenly from heart failure, though he had been in bad health for several months. Major and Mrs. Kearby had been visiting relatives at Denton for six or seven weeks. The remains were interred in Denton Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Mr. Kearby espoused the cause of populism and in 1896 was the candidate of that party for governor against Culberson, making a remarkably close race. He was twice the candidate of his party for congress in the Dallas district, being defeated the last time by Judge Abbott by less than 250 votes. He leaves a wife and two sons and two daughters, one of whom is the wife of J. W. Mitchell of Fort Worth and the other is Mrs. Gordon of Thurber.

MENTAL ACCURACY.

Greatly Improved by Leaving off Coffee.

The manager of an extensive creamery in Wisconsin states that while a regular coffee drinker, he found it injurious to his health and a hindrance to the performance of his business duties.

"I cannot say," he continues "that I ever used coffee to excess, but I know that it did me harm, especially during the past few years.

"It impaired my digestion, gave me a distressing sense of fullness in the region of the stomach, causing a most painful and disquieting palpitation of the heart, and what is worse, it muddled my mental faculties so as to seriously injure my business efficency.

"I concluded, about eight months ago, that something would have to be done. I quit the use of the old kind of coffee, short off, and began to drink Postum Food Coffee. The cook didn't make it right at first—she didn't boil it long enough, and I did not find it palatable and quit using it and went back to the old kind of coffee and to the stomach trouble again. Then my wife took the matter in hand, and by following the directions on the box faithfully she had me drinkig Postum for several days before I knew it. When I happened to remark that I was feeling much better than I had for a long time she told me that I had been drinking Postum and that accounted for it. Now we have no other kind of coffee on our table.

"My digestion has been perfectly restored, and with this improvement has come relief from the oppressive sense of fullness and palpitation of the heart that used to bother me so, and I noted such a gain in mental strength and acuteness that I can attend to my office work with ease and pleasure and without making the mistakes that were so annoying to me while I was using the old kind of coffee.

"Postum Food Coffee is the great table drink of the times, in my humble estimation." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

the state to John Howard, grandfather to Mr. White, under the original headright or better known as the colonization act of the Republic of Texas, under which colonists in locating in certain localities of Texas were granted the amount of land stated. The ten leagues in Grayson county was an original grant from the state of Coahuala, made to John Howard at the time when Texas was under Mexican rule. This grant was made to Mr. Howard in consideration of monies loaned to the Mexican government prior to the war with Texas and the land was granted in settlement of the obligation due. To perfect the title to these properties a certain length of time in years was permitted but the state of Texas allowed these lands to be taken up by homesteaders before the time limit had expired. This fact is of record in the land office at Austin, as well as the various grants for the land to John Howard. Mr. White expects to enforce his claims to the land in the courts and thinks that he will be able to secure a favorable verdict. The lands in San Augustine and Jefferson counties were granted to Mr. Howard by the Republic of Texas in consideration of services rendered by him in the war with Mexico and in these lands there is no contest except in the matter of proving the heirship. The heirs to all of this property are Mrs. Anne White, mother of Mr. S. B. White; Mrs. Harriett Stracener, both of Dublin, Mrs. Elizabeth Rogers of Oklahoma, the heirs of Leandor Howard at Stephenville and Mrs. Mary Stephens wife of "Uncle Billy" Stephens of near Dublin.

May Run for Representative.

J. M. R. Stephen of the Point Lookout community is being mentioned as a probable candidate for repesentative. "Uncle Jim Matt," as he is familiarly and widely known throughout Erath county was one of the first settlers of Erath and he has kept up with the advancement in this section and of the state in a manner that at once would recommend his candidacy to the voters in the event he should decide to aspire to legislative honors.

May Try for Gillespie's Job.

Hon. O. S. Lattimore of Ft. Worth is spoken of as a probable contestant for the seat of Congressman Gillespie. Mr. Lattimore is an Erath county product and is one of the brainiest members of the Ft. Worth bar. The race will be a battle royal should he enter.

T. Hammit, who formerly lived here, but recently of Hamilton county, is contemplating returning to this place.

WILSON.

Regular Correspondence.

July 25th.—Farmers are almost through with their work in this part of the country with the exception of putting up feed and grain. They are very anxious for a thrasher to come here. Crops are very good.

J. R. Carroll is erecting a new water tank.

H. B. Prater has bought a farm near Altman, where he expects to move some time in the future.

A revival meeting will begin here on Friday night before the fisrt Sunday in August. A successful meeting is being held at Fairview and everyone is requested to attend.

The singing here Sunday afternoon was well attended. Profs. Ross and Meridith were with us and a number from Purves and Lamkin. There will be no more singings here until the second Sunday in September on account of protracted meetings, etc.

R. A. Nelson is almost ready to begin work on his new residence.

Our gin men, Messrs. Dry and Onstott are busy repairing the gin at this place. They are going to put in another stand and be prepared to do first-class work.

DE LEON.

Regular Correspondence.

July 27th.—Mrs. A. E. Hampton and daughter have returned from Gorman.

Mr. Carpenter and daughter are visiting in Hico.

Misses Filen and Norvelle Pittman are visiting in Cisco.

A crowd of our people have gone on an excursion to Missisippi.

Mrs. D. C. Rogers and little daughter are visiting in Dublin.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Whaley of Sipe Springs spent Sunday here.

Last Friday night the Pacific Expres agent had sixteen boxes of C. O. D. whiskey put out on the platform to be returned and while they were waiting for the train one box was stolen. The officers were notified and Saturday George Hemp and George Parker were arrested and placed in jail at Comanche, charged with the theft.

POINT LOOKOUT.

Regular Correspondence.

July 23rd.—We had a fine rain on the 21st and prospects are good for more at this writing.

J. V. Stephen's son, Gerald, has the fever.

Fountain Johnson is making sorghum for the neighbors.

Miss Mamie Dawkins, whom we reported as having slow fever, is convalescent.

A. M. Mooney and family visited Mrs. J. Walter St.Clair and this scribe Sunday.

J. Walter St.Clair returned to Ft. Worth Saturday after arranging camps for his family. They are now in a nice tent near this scribe's for six or eight weeks.

Point Lookout, for the first time, has been visited by some water melon raiders. J. V. Stephen has some early melons—the only ones in this section. On last Thursday and Saturday nights his melon patch was raided and all of the best melons carried off. While it is nothing uncommon for water melons to be stolen by boys, it is not right, and the law protects a man's property and it might be well enough to be careful. Go slow boys and not get into trouble.

Jasper Gompers, while waiting for a car at midnight in St. Louis, sat down on a barrel of tar and fell asleep. When he awoke he found the tar had softened and he had slowly sunk down into the sticky stuff until his feet, arms and head only were outside. He was chopped out with an axe.

A Jersey mosquito caused the death of a barber named Rosho Dorsoo at Harrison, N. J. The barber was shaving and a mosquito lit on his nose. The razor was directly under the barber's chin, and in making a slap to drive away the mosquito he cut a deep gash in his throat. A physician arrived too late to save him.

Francis J. Birdwell, a Boston ornithologist, climbed high up a tree at Rio Pecos, N. M. after a bird's nest. The rope he was using caught on a limb and when he slipped and fell, a loop bound him round the neck and he was slowly strangled to death. His bride of a month stood at the foot of the tree, but was unable to help him.

The first test of principal is honesty, the first test of honesty is whether or not one pays their debts when they can. When this is not done no more positive proof can be submitted that one is dishonest, unprincipled, devoid of religion and in general a worthless sort of character of no value to the present or coming generation.

The Spirit of Japan.

Nothing has been formulated more significant of the spirit of Japan—that marvelous influence which has made the workers in the shops and rice fields of Nippon perform such feats of valor on land and sea—than the simple phrases in the messages which have passed between the Mikado and his victorious admiral, those references to the protecting spirits of the imperial ancestors and to the virtue of the sovereign which are so puzzling to western readers. They are but the echoes of Shintoism, the "Path of the Gods," the native religion of the empire which has held its influence over the minds, hearts and lives of the Japanese, whether Buddhist, Christian or even agnostic. For Shintoism has remained through all the centuries of little more than a form of primitive ancestor worship, a cult which has never been displaced from the innermost recesses of the hearts of the people. Even the most modern of Japanese, while expressing his views in the language of the present day scientific agnosticism, lives to the ethical ideals which are the direct fruits of his training and all the traditions of Shinto; and he directs his life according to the conscious or unconscious belief, inherited from his fathers from the dawn of their history, in the presence about him of those who have departed. The daily rites of honor and endearment performed in every Japanese home when a member of the family is absent on a journey differ in no essential from those which are performed for the dead. His essential self is ever present, though no longer visible.

It will not be difficult to understand the tremendous influence on the lives of the living of such a faith as this, a belief which has operated to ingrian in the very souls of the Japanese the conviction that their acts effect not themselves alone, but all who bear their names, in the past or in the generations to come. From this has grown the feelings that disgrace is more to be dreaded than death for the latter is no more than the passing from one form of existence to another while the former affects the happiness and honor of one's ancestors. Thoughtless observers have called the Japanese fatalists, reckless of life, but no terms could more obscure the real explanation. Their whole training, the knowledge that in their hands rests the good name of all who have preceded and all who will come after them, the traditions of civalry—Bushido, the Path of the Samural—which have been enforced through centuries by the greatest of social forces, public opinion, have combined to make them ideal soldiers; they may fear death but they fear shame and dishonor more. Hence they gladly give themselves when loyalty and duty demand the sacrifice.—Philadelphia Ledger.

ACROSS COUNTRY.

The signs of the times point to an enormous increase of intelligent public interest in health: to a new generation with purer, stronger blood and therefore more active, braver brains and body. No physically robust, healthy person ever succumbed to grip, consumption, malaria or any other germ disease. But with a weakened system we all have to fight the germs of disease.

Our blood is often in a fertile condition for the growth of bacteria—the germs of disease—because our stomach is disordered or our liver is torpid—in either case our blood does not get the proper nourishment. A torpid liver means a stagnation of the blood and an accumulation of poisons which furnishes a weak spot for bacteria to enter.

To enrich the blood and increase the red blood corpuscles, Dr. Pierce years ago found a vegetable compound, which he called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, that would quickly cure the bad symptoms by increasing the red blood corpuscles and thereby feeding the nerves on rich blood. This "Medical Discovery" also acts upon the digestion and assimilation of food, so that the blood gets its proper elements from the products of digestion. Feed the lungs, stomach and heart on rich red blood and you have surely a healthy body which will throw off the germs of disease which lurk everywhere. Get at your nature's very root and spring. A medicine made entirely from botanical extracts and which does not contain alcohol is the safest. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery contains neither alcohol nor narcotics.

Ruth, the little daughter of E. N. Dewey of Agenewville, Va., was seriously ill of cholera infantum last summer. "We gave her up and did not expect her to live from one hour to another," he says. "I happened to think of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and got a bottle of it from the store. In five hours I saw a change for the better. We kept on giving it and before she had taken the half of one small bottle she was well." This remedy is for sale by Overton Drug Co.

Dowie's Settlement in Mexico.

No hogs, no mules, no oysters, no whiskey, but more or less of everything else is a brief statement of the principles that are to govern John Alexander Dowie's colonization scheme in the state of Tamaulipas, Mexico.

The hog, says Dowie, is the scavenger of the land, just as the oyster is the scavenger of the sea. The mule, he declares, is a creature of the devil, "an evil nenenity"—a creature, in fact, something like the man without a country. And as for liquor, John Alexander says it is bad for any country.

Therefore, mules, hogs, oysters and whiskey are barred from the precincts of the Dowie colony.

Dowie's colonization plans have a satisfying vastness about them. This queer old man seems to have hypnotized the Mexican government into granting him more valuable concessions than any other individual has ever acquired. He is on close terms with President Diaz and from one end of Mexico to the other he is hailed as a great man. Briefly summarized, Dowie's plans include the building of seven cities, the construction of a network of railroads, the irrigation of an extensive region by a peculiar method, and the general development of two million acres of land. The chief city will be called Eden, and it is to be built first. No attempt will be made to start the other six cities until after Eden is fully established. Various experiments in city building will be made during the early days of Eden, and when comparative perfection has been reached Eden will be taken as a model from which to pattern the other six cities.

So far as possible, without conflicting with the Mexican government, Dowie will set up a code of laws of his own for the regulation of his cities and his colony.

The state of Tamaulipas, in which is located the two million acre concession granted to Dowie on the Gulf coast of Mexico, is well toward the southern end of the republic. Immense oyster beds fringe the shores and there is every natural fertility for the manufacture of equila and other Mexican intoxicants, but as oysters and whiskey are on the prohibited list, no attention will be paid to these resources.

Although the whole tract of two million acres will be fenced, there will be no division between the cities and free intercourse and interchange of products are contemplated. This, Dowie believes, will carry through the commonwealth the altruistic idea with which he is imbued in the founding of his cities.

One of the most important improvements contemplated by the prophet is the watering of barren tracts by tunneling into four extinct volcanoes situated on his land. These volcanoes are filled with water in some cases to a depth of one thousand feet and the old man believes that a tunnel driven into the sides of them will furnish ample power for machinery, and the water used can be carried in flumes into the valleys, where it can be spread over the acreage for irrigation purposes.

The Governor.

By Gov. Bob Taylor in his Magazine.

A good woman is the embodiment of man's dream of the beautiful: a mean one is a perpetual nightmare. They are the two extremes of melody and discord, of wine and vinegar, of violet and volcano in every station in life. All men stand with uncovered heads in the presence of a good woman. Her prudence and modesty, her gentleness and purity, are her shields from the low and vulgar: they are the heralds of her virtue and innocence; they charm in her voice, they beam in her eyes, they are eloquent in her actions and mingle and shine in the graces of her life. She is the governor of every happy home and her throne is built of human hearts.

A mean woman revels in strife and in the anguish of those around her. She delights in the abuse of others and in mysterious actions that breed suspicion. Treason lurks in her very eyes, the tracks of treachery are in her every smile and her bosom cloaks a dagger.

A good woman often weeps and her soul is sometimes tossed with righteous indignation; but she knows how to pity and to forgive. Sometimes she is compelled to combat a wicked and self-willed husband, and to suffer the stings of his tyranny and injustice; but when her virtues and goodness assert themselves and the governor stamps her foot and demands her rights she can always subdue him and lead him like a lamb.

But let a mean woman be installed as governor of the household and on the slightest provocation her eyes will flame with fury, an ashy pallor will mantle her funnel face and she will roar like an approaching cyclone; forked lightnings will leap from her frenzied tongue and strike everybody and everything for miles and miles around; her shivering husband is usually the victim, whether guilty or innocent.

the heavens clear,
But skin and hair in the atmosphere.

The chasm of calamity which many an unweary lover falls in the leap of matrimony is his ignorance of the woman who takes this leap with him. She conjures him into the belief that she is an angel of light and worthy to govern the world, when in reality she is a ferocious feline from away back, a pussy of despair from the night's Plutonian shore.

Many a good woman, on the other hand, is deceived and cajoled by her suitor into the faith that he is a saint on earth, a sweet spirit of prayer, and fit only for the companionship of the seraphim and cherubim, when, in fact, he is a carrion crow from far away, a beautiful buzzard from Paradise Bay. Happiness follows in the footsteps of a good woman as the flowers follow in the footsteps of June; and laughter hand in hand with tears greets her every day. All the pure and beautiful ideals of the heart, all the sacred and tender emotions of the soul are her priceless jewels. Her willing sacrifice and she prays in the morning to the event blessings upon her lips and the light of peace and joy in her shining face. She is the star that eclipses the sun and dispels the darkness of the cloud. But it is hard to tell results in the Monte Carlo of life when who ventures there is playing a hazardous game and should not play high, for it is surely a game of chance. Sometimes her ace trumps, also, sometimes cold infatuation often stacks the cards. The intoxication of overweening confidence sometimes dims the lover's eyes and even what seems a sure winning hand may quickly lose the game. But blessed is the player in the perilous game of matrimony who wins a good woman for his wife. The richest stake ever won by man in the world. She is the handiwork of the Lord, establishing his kingdom in the home and linking earth to heaven every day.

Without her, nations wane and civilizations crumble: without her, all the suns and moons would darken and all life would hope forget to shine; without her, charity would lose its sweetness and its tenderness and sentiment its life; without her, the genius of Phidias and Praxiteles might have glorified the marble; without her, and Angelo never would have painted in immortal colors; Burns never would have written his sweet lyrics of love, and the dream of Shakespeare never would have blossomed into song; without her, home, happiness and family ties would be mockeries and the Christian religion itself would perish among the lost shipers.

1 Dollar Saved Represents 10 Dollars Earned.

The average man does not save and exceed ten per cent of his income. He must spend nine dollars to make his expenses for every dollar saved. This being the case he cannot be too careful about unnecessary expenditures. It often a few cents properly expended like buying seeds for his garden will save several dollars outlay for vegetables. It is the same in buying Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It costs but a few cents to buy a bottle of it in the house and saves a doctor's bill of several dollars. For sale by Overton Drug Co.

Alphabet Engraved on a Pin Head.

The limit of the engraver's art was believed to be reached when the Lord's prayer was inscribed on a silver dollar. About a year ago a Philadelphia bank note expert astonished the in engraving the entire Roman alphabet on the head of a pin. This feat Clarence K. Young, a skilled government employee of "Uncle Sam," has put two alphabets, a capital and a name on the head of a pin measuring five one-thousandths of an inch in diameter. The second alphabet is on the under side of the pin head.

B. F. Russell owns the most peculiar hen in Texas, and he is very proud of her. Unlike the ordinary hen she did not select a quiet, secluded spot in whch to make her nest. When ready to lay she flies up to her roost, some twelve feet from the ground, and here lays her egg. It drops to the dusty floor, but does not always break. She has already laid her allotted number of eggs, and is "broody." She sits on the ridge pole up in the hen house all day long, twelve feet from the ground and when approached she "fuzzes up" like all good hens do when the maternal instinct has taken possession of them. What she expects to hatch out of that ridge pole we do not know unless it is a litter of railroad ties or a cord of wood. Perhaps Mr. Russell expects this hen to hatch out for him his supply of winter wood.—Stephenville Tribune.

Messrs. A. Q. Jordan and J. J. Roger of the Altman country were in Dublin Tuesday looking after the purchase of lumber for the building of a new school building in the Altman community, which building is to be 34x48 feet in size and two stories in height. Both gentlemen have been greatly appreciated readers of the Progress for many years and they called to pay their respects and take a look at the quantity of new machinery in the Progress office, including our type-setting machine. Mr. Rogers took occasion to say that he thinks the Progress the best country newspaper he ever saw and that he would not be without it for any reasonable sum. They left for Hico on the evening train Monday.

A. Q. Jordan of the Altman country was a brief but pleasant caller on the Progress Monday afternoon. Mr. Jordan is a prosperous farmer of that section and at one time entered county politics sufficiently to make a race that came near landing him as sheriff of that county. It was one of the years that proved disastrous to the populists and Mr. Jordan went down in the general defeat but with colors still flying. His defeat in a political way failed to daunt Mr. Jordan and he has since gone on serenely with his farming operations and has been one of the farmers who make the business pay.

The city and school assessment for the present year is now complete and ready to prepare rolls from. The misplacement of several renditions caused the assessor to go to Stephenville and check from the county renditions taken by his force. Anycne not yet reached should report same at once.—W. A. Trout, assessor.

Crescent C. Stewart, foreman in the job printing department at the Bulletin office in Brownwood, was here several hours last Sunday on his return from a vacation of several days at his old home in Hamilton. Mr. Stewart was editor of the Hamilton-Journal for a number of years.

There are yet probably a considerable number of parties who desire to transfer their children from one school district to another. The time is now short for them to do so, as no transfers can be made after the first of August.

Reunion Forecasts.

The seventeenth annual reunion of Erath and Comanche Ex-Confederate Association will be held in Dublin, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, August 2nd, 3rd and 4th.

The soldiers meeting will be called to order at 10 a. m. on the morning of the first day. Business meeting of the association will be held each afternoon.

Plenty of entertainment has been provided for young and old and every one should be able to enjcy themselves.

A bloodless bull fight, said to be a very thirilling yet not a brutal entertainment, will be given each day.

Ice-water, fuel, lights and good camping grounds upon which plenty of fine grass is growing, is free to everybody.

Police protection will be ample and it is reasonable to suppose that the crowds will be equally as orderly as heretofore.

The Weatherford regimental band of twenty-five instruments will discourse sweet strains of music for the the three days.

Three days of base ball games between Dublin, Brownwood, San Angelo and Ballinger, which compose the west Texas league teams.

The railroads have announced very low rates for the occasion and the permits issued to transfer and hack lines from town to the grounds have been limited to a charge of ten cents for a one-way trip.

Congressman O. W. Gillespie, Judge C. K. Bell, Hon. O. S. Lattimore and Judge Cummings of Ft. Worth, Rev. Chas. E. Brown of Cleburne and Prof. J. D. Standifer of Stephenville will be among the speakers.

Balloon ascension and parachute leap on Wednesday and Friday afternoons. From the balloon will dangle a cannon and at a height of four thousand feet the aeronaut will be shot out of this cannon for a leap of three hundred feet before the parachute is loosed from the balloon.

Head Blown off With Dynamite.

John Reed, aged about fifty years, met death in a horrible manner last Monday evening near his home on Falls creek, says the Hico News of last week.

He had been in the habit of dynamiting fish and on that fateful day had gone to the creek with some dynamite with the intention of killing a few of the finny tribe. From reports it seems that he was standing near the banks of the creek and had raised the explosive above his head with the intention of casting it in the water.

In bringing his hand down the dynamite struck the limb of a bush and exploded, the top of his head catching the full force. His head was horribly mangled, one hand was burned and a burned strip of flesh was across the front part of his body from the left shoulder to right hip.

Dr. W. E. Hubbert, who was called, said he looked as though lightning had burned his flesh. The explosion was heard at the house and members of the family rushed down to the creek. He was found lying on his right side, in the condition stated above, was removed to the house and lived about three hours.

Dr. Hubbert was summoned and reached the injured man about 10:30 o'clock. His case of course was hopeless and death resulted in just a few minutes after the doctor reached him.

Mr. Reed leaves a wife and five children, all grown, who have the sympathy of the entire community.

Erath Grand Jury Report.

The report of the recent grand jury submitted last week to the district judge shows the jury to have examined 417 witnesses and found seven felony and ninety misdemeanor bills. From the report we publish the following.

"More than half of our time has been spent investigating misdemeanor violations of the law in the Dublin precinct, and a very large per cent. of the bills that we have found are for infractions of the law committed in that precinct. But we are informed and know the fact to be, that Mr. Jesse G. Conner, the justice of the peace of the Dublin precinct has been sick and confined to his bed for several weeks, and even months, prior to the convening of the grand jury, and wholly unable to attend to his official duties, and hence it is impossible for him to keep up his court work and attend to the violators that are within his jurisdiction.

"We have made an honest effort to diligently inquire into and true presentment make of all violations of the law. We have tried to find no bill except where the proof is abundant to sustain conviction.

We find that the local option law against the sale of intoxicating liquors is well inforced in every part of the county. There are some occasional violations of this law in Stephenville, but on the whole it is well enforced there. In Dublin viclations of the local option law are more frequent. But these violations in Dublin are confined to about three persons, and we believe that when the courts finally dispose of the indictments we have found against these persons they will be ready to quit, and there will be few if any violations of the local option law in Dublin.

"We find one alarming condition that seems to have fastened itself upon us. It is the all too frequent and almost universal custom of young boys and young girls riding in buggies—a boy and a girl together and alone. They are both frequently under twenty years of age; out at any and all times of the night, going anywhere and everywhere. This is permitted by parents who ought to know better. Our observation from our work on the inside of the grand jury room, is that out of these conditions come seduction cases, ruined lives and shadowed homes. The home and fireside must be kept forever pure. If it is, then all is well; if not, then all is gone. All parents should do their best to keep their homes, their boys and their girls clean and pure."

Example Worthy of Emulation.

It is impossible to estimate the value of some men. Thus the case of Mark Stewart is a striking example. When he married, his father-in-law, himself a thrifty, energetic farmer, imagined his daughter had made a very grave mistake, and he got very wrathy. Mark was not very much perturbed, however. To a friend he replied: "Well, some day the old gentleman will wake up and find I'm a pretty fair son-in-law." He then went to work to carve out a future. He didn't have time to fish and idle around, but put in telling strokes in the cotton and corn fields. Last week he marketed a portion of his own cotton and ten bales belonging to Mrs. Ben Stone, receiving therefor $2,450.

Few young men, in so short a time, have accomplished as much as Mark Stewart. His is an example worthy of emulation. It was fortunate, however, that he cast his lot in a county where the soil responds so liberally to individual effort.—Tribune.

Took Carbolic Acid.

Last Saturday evening about dark Mrs. Will Warnskjold in a fit of despondency, attempted to take her own life by swallowing about a half ounce of carbolic acid. Her husband was in an adjoining room and as soon as she took it she told him what she had done and her intention to kill herself. He at once ran to a neighbors and sent for Dr. Bolding, who arrived about twenty minutes later and administered an antidote for the poison. As stated, despondency is the cause assigned for the rash deed. She is now about well.—Hamilton Herald, July 19th.

G. W. Phillips, a prominent merchant and planter of Clarence, Alabama, arrived Thursday of last week on a prospecting trip and incidently cn a visit to A. C. Garrett of the Harbin country. He was accompanied by his brother J. P. Phillips. Both gentlemen are well pleased with this section.

BUSINESS WOMEN.

A Lunch Fit For a King.

An active and successful young lady tells her food experience:

"Some three years ago I suffered from nervous prostration, induced by continuous brain strain and improper food, added to a great grief.

I was ordered to give up my work, as there was great danger of my mind failing me altogether. My stomach was in bad condition (nervous dyspepsia, I think now) and when Grape-Nuts food was recommended to me, I had no faith in it. However, I tried it, and soon found a marked improvement in my condition as the result. I had been troubled with deathly faint spells and had been compelled to use a stimulant to revive me. I found, however, that by eating Grape-Nuts at such times I was relieved as satisfactorily as by the use of stimulants, and suffered no bad effects, which was a great gain. As to my other trouble—nervous prostration, dyperpsia, etc.—the Grape-Nut diet soon cured me.

"I wish especially to call the attention of office girls to the great benefit I derived from the use of Grape-Nuts as a noon luncheon. I was thoroughly tired of cheap restaurants and ordinary luncheons, and so made the experiment of taking a package of Grape-Nuts with me, and then slipping out at noon and getting a nickel's worth of sweet cream to add to it. I found that this simple dish, finished off with an apple, peach, orange or a bunch of grapes made a lunch fit for a king, and one that agreed with me perfectly.

"I throve so on my Grape-Nuts diet that I did not have to give up my work at all, and in the two years have had only four lost days charged up against me.

"Let me add that your suggestions in the little book 'Road to Wellville,' are, in my opinion, invaluable, especially to women." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"The Road to Wellville" in each package.

The Diamond Cure.

The latest news from Paris is that they have discovered a diamond cure for consumption. If you fear consumptionfor pneumonia it will, however, be best for you to take that great remedy mentioned by W. T. McGee of Vanleer, Tenn. "I had a cough for for fourteen years. Nothing helped me until I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which gave instant relief and effected a permanent cure, for throat and lung troubles. At Overton Drug Co; price 50c and $1.00, guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

STEPHENVILLE.

From the Tribune.

July 21st.—Judge Lee Young is shortly to build a new residence in the west part of town, the material for which will be solid cement blocks. It is to cost about nine thousand dollars. Dr. Naylor will also build a residence to cost $5,000.

A street sprinkler has at last been put into service in Stephenville.

Judge Cooper of Harbin plead guilty Thursday to carrying a pistol and was fined $25.

Ed Pemberton has sold his residence to Esquire Watson for $1,500. Ed will move to the plains.

A. Houston was buried at Liberty Monday. He was about sixty-eight years old and died from the effects of a cancer.

Jake Mefford has five acres of mixed millet and sorghum already cut which will turn out over 500 bales.

Major Baldwin sold his valuable buggy horse on Thursday a short time after he ran away, receiving $50 for him. He was worth $125 before he made his wild charge down the pavement.

There is a unique stone cellar on the "Uncle" George Carter farm. It is built of stone, arched overhead and consists of one large room and three alcoves built in the side walls, each being neatly arched overhead.

The case of Willard Chamberlain came before Justice Long Saturday, and the jury gave a verdict of guilty, assessing a fine of ten dollars. Mr. Chamberlain will appeal from the decision of the lower court. Total cost of suit to date $74.40.

W. M. Carter, south of the city, has eight acres of cane which he will convert into syrup. Besides this he will make four hundred bushels of seed on the patch, which are already sold at seventy-five cents. There will be four hundred gallons of syrup.

It is probable that a new bank will be started in Stehpenville at some time in the near future. Several gentlemen with the necessary cash are willing to back the new enterprise and enough capital has aleady been offered to make the proposition a tempting one.

Tom Coker is very much like a rubber ball, for he fell from the roof of the oil mill at Stephenville last week, a distance of twenty-two feet, and in less that two hours was walking around apparantly as sound as ever. He was coal-tarring the roof at the time of the accident.

Bob Fanning now owns the Boon Lane place—one of the best improved farms in the county. J. H. Cage bought the two hundred acres for eight thousand dollars several weeks ago, paying one thousand dollars cash and seven thousand dollars on forty years time at five per cent. He has now cashed in with a neat little profit of one thousand dollars, Fanning paying nine thousand dollars for the place.

BROWNWOOD.

From the Bulletin.

July 26th.—Mayor Bencini has vetoed the action of the city council in contracting for a rock crusher at a cost of $1800 to be paid for at the rate of $400 a year. Mr. Bencini says the city cannot afford the money for the purchase unless the citizens will agree to pay for the work it does in front of their respective properties.

The city council has finally let the contract for numbering the houses in Brownwood and as soon as it is done an effort will be made to secure free city mail delivery.

CURE FOR HAY FEVER.

Overton Drug Co. Say Hyomei Will Give Relief—Sold Under Guarantee.

Overton Drug Co. wish us to announce that when Hyomei is used as a preventive, or a cure, there will be no hay fever. They advise daily treatment with Hyomei for two or three weeks before the usual time for the annual appearance of hay fever. If this is done, the attack will be prevented. However, if the preventive treatment is not started soon enough and the disease makes its appearance use Hyomei six or seven times daily, and relief will be given at once.

There is no stomach dosing when Hyomei is used. Breathed through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, its medicated air reaches the minutest air cells, killing all germs and soothing and healing the irritated mucous membrane.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1, extra bottles 50 cents. It is the only treatment for hay fever sold by Overton Drug Co. under a guarantee to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.

That property about Dublin is being held far below its real value is often demonstrated by the readiness displayed by outsiders to secure land at what we term "boom prices." A twenty acre tract in the southwest part of town sold last Wednesday for $57 an acre and we understand the party purchasing same intends to devote the land to truck gardening along modern lines. Dublin is attracting wide-spread attention both in the line of fruit and vegetables, and parties visiting other sections first usually decide to locate here after a thorough investigation. We welcome the industrious farmer. What Erath county needs is more twenty acre farmers.

Messrs. J. T. Grogan and T. B. Lewis of the Lowell country were here yesterday and day before after repairs for their thresher, which has been at work near Highland. They were delayed several days by necessity of ordering a new piece for the machine from Dallas and this was tied up in the wreck on the Frisco.

Cox & Steely of Dublin have bought the S. P. Hale laundry and are here today to take charge, says the Brownwood Bulletin of last week. The gentlemen are experienced in the laundry business and they expect to make the laundry one of the best in the state.

Joe Hood made a trip to Kingston in Hunt county on the eighteenth to return with his wife and children, who had been visiting with relatives at that point. They returned Monday on the Record train. Mr. Hood says that all crops are drowned out in east Texas.

Rev. W. M. Layne, pastor of the Methodist church at De Leon, was here Tuesday. He will begin a revival meeting at the tabernacle in De Leon on August 6th, in which he will be assisted by Rev. Kiker of Dublin. The meeting will continue for ten days.

Last Monday near Pigeon John Fiddler, a young man who resides at Stephenville, was very seriously injured by the falling of a heavy timber from a well drilling machine. The young man was struck on the head and rendered unconscious from the blow.

J. H. Ray and family of Greer county, Oklahoma, passed through Dublin Tuesday on a visit to their old home on Spring Creek in Bosque county. Mr. Ray reports flourishing conditions at his Oklahoma home and says all crops are very fine there.

Miss Annie Waldo is visiting in Stephenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham of near Selden were trading in Dublin Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Harris returned last week from a month's stay at Eureka Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett W. Saunders of Dallas are in the city, guests of their sister, Mrs. Joe Gaines.

Mrs. A. A. Hartgrove has returned from a sojourn of several weeks at the Hartgrove Concho county ranch.

Lee Matthis is in the Lingleville country for a couple of months outing. He resides in or near Dalhart, Texas.

Miss Mattie Dodson, who has been employed by J. H. Wilder as stenographer, will leave Saturday morning for a few weeks visit her parents.

Estey Whitacre of the Lingleville country recently went to Canyon city to visit with his uncle, Gus Matthis, and incidentally attend the cow boys reunion there.

Mrs. M. E. Preston returned Saturday from a visit of a month with her sister, Mrs. Emma Reid, of Goldthwaite. Mrs. Reid and her daughter, Miss Pearl, returned with her to spend a fortnight or more.

Joe M. Higginbotham of Dublin, who has been visiting for ten days in Coleman, spent last night in the city en route home. He was in hands of friends here and spent the time very pleasantly.—Brownwood Daily Bulletin, July 26th.

J. V. Spratling, postal clerk on the Frisco from Ft. Worth to Brady, was a caller on the Progress Saturday while spending a few hours here waiting for his train. He had been on a vacation of several days at the home of his parents at Gorman.

John Tarleton College catalogues are now ready for distributon. Persons interested in college matters write Prof. E. E. Bramletee, Stephenville, Texas, and one will be sent them immediately. 11-2t.

Mrs. L. F. Shipman, wife of W. M. Shipman, died very suddenly from heart failure at the family home in this city at 1:15 o'clock yesteday morning. For some three weeks past Mrs. Shipman had been ill but she had so far recovered that she was able to sit up in a chair, which she was doing when the attack of heart failure came and she fell over and expired. The deceased was about sixty-three years of age and had resided with her husband in Dublin since December last, at which time the family moved to this place from Bluff Dale, where they had resided for fifteen years. She was a faithful and consistent member of the Christian church. Beside the husband she leaves six children, the youngest about sixteen years of age and the eldest thirty-six. Burial will take place at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Jones school house cemetery.

Mrs. Carrie Durham, representing the Texas Children's Home society of Ft. Worth was here Tuesday in the interest of the board and while here appointed three members of an advisory committee for Erath county to work in unison with the organization at Ft. Worth. An adivisory committee is to be appointed in each county in Texas and it is expected to make the county judge of each county, the chairman of the board for his respective county. While here Mrs. Durham designated Mrs. R. W. Higginbotham, Mrs. E. S. Davis and Miss Emma Perry as Dublin members of the advisory board for this county and this board of seven will be completed by the appointment of three ladies at Stephenville and the county judge to act as chairman and making the seventh member. The society is an organization founded by Rev. I. Z. T. Morris at Fort Worth with the object of taking orphaned children from all parts of Texas and placing them in good homes. The work is a most noble one and Rev. Morris' efforts have met with such success that he has during the past few years probably placed as many as a thousand children.

A little boy was trying to ring a door bell but could not reach it. A minister, passing by, walked up to the door and said:

"Here, my boy, let me ring that bell for you."

"All right; will you mister?" said the boy, his face all in a grin. The minister rang the bell.

"Now, run like the devil, mister," said the boy as he took to his heels.

"You will observe," said the professor, "the higher the altitude attained the colder the temperature becomes."

"But isn't it warmer near the top of the mountains than it is in the valley?" asked the youth at the foot of the class.

"Certainly not," replied the professor. "Why do you think it would be?"

"Oh," answered the youngster, "I thought perhaps the atmosphere was heated by the mountain ranges."

A certain southern railroad was in a wretched condition and the trains were consequently run at a phenomenally low rate of speed. When the conductor was punching his ticket, Artemus Ward, who was one of the passengers remarked:

Does this railroad company allow passengers to give it advice, if they do so in a respectful manner?"

The conductor replied in gruff tones that he guessed so.

"Wel," Artemus went on, "it occurred to me that it would be well to detach the cowcatcher from the front of the engine and hitch it to the rear of the train; for, you see, we are not so liable to overtake a cow, but what's to prevent a cow from strolling into this car and biting a passenger?"

Out on the veranda of a little Kentucky hotel several "colonels" were sipping mint juleps and telling yarns about the weather.

"When Ah was up in the mountains, sah," said a lanky old gentleman, "It began to rain one aftahnoon, and before thaw shower was ovah thaw was fish all ovah thaw ground. Bass, trout and carp fell right out of thaw clouds, sah."

The old gentleman, who was rather corpulent placed his glass on the table and said:

"Cunnel, that thah was a pretty good yahn, but it don't tech thaw experience I had fohty miles south of Frankfort. Why, sah, it began to rain thah one day and fish came down by thah ton. But that isn't thah strangest of it. A thundah stohm arose, the lightnin' struck thah field, fried thaw fish just as nice as if they were fried in yough own kitchen an—"

But the other "colonels" fled.—Detroit Tribune.

Hard Working Newspaper Men.

Mark Twain once said that his average daily output of writing when he works is eighteen hundred words a day. That is about the average day's work of the newspaper writer on a large daily paper, day in and day out, seven days a week. In the course of a year this amounts to 657,000 words. The ordinary novel contains about one hundred thousand words. The newspaper man writes enough to make a novel of the best selling type every two months, with plenty left over at the end of the year to make another book of very respectable size. Let us suppose that he works at the business forty years: he has written 26,280,000 words, or 240 books. Not even Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth could beat that, and yet there are those who imagine that journalism is an easy job.—Portland Oregonian.

Constable's Sale.

State of Texas, County of Erath.

By virtue of a certain execution issued out of the honorable county court of Erath county on the 29th day of May 1905, by John W. Frey county clerk of said court against Mrs. R. A. Adams for the sum of $62.94 and costs of suit, in cause No. 696 in said court, styled Mrs. R. A. Adams versus the Texas Central Ry Co. and placed in my hands for service, I, J. W. Fulkerson, constable of precinct number two, Erath county Texas, did, on the 10th day of June 1905, levy on certain real estate, situated in Dublin, Erath county, described as follows, to wit: ¼ of an acre of land in the Bishop addition to the town of Dublin described as follows: Beginning 54 feet N. 74 degrees W from N W corner of a survey belonging to the Texas Central Ry. Co. for N. E. of this lot, thence S 16 degrees W to, thence N 74 degrees W to the center of Resleys creek, thence up the center of Resleys creek to the south boundary line of Elm street, thence S 74 degrees E along said south boundry line of Elm street to place of beginning and levied upon as the property of said Mrs. R. A. Adams and on Tuesday, the first day of August 1905, at the court house door of Erath county, in the city of Stephenville, Texas, between the hours of ten a. m. and four p. m. I will sell said property at public vendue, for cash, to the highest bidder, as the property of said Mrs. R. A. Adams, by virtue of said levy and said execution, and in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication in the English language once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceeding said day of sale, in the Dublin Progress, a newspaper published in Erath county.

Witness my hand, this 6th day of July, 1905.

Judge Robinson on Populism.

In a recent issue of the Comanche Exponent appeared the following letter from Judge W. M. Robinson, former county judge of Comanche county:

"In connection with an interview of J. P. Dingler advising populists to be in readiness to align with the old party which promises the most toward reform principles, published in your issue of June 30th, you say in a note, 'The editor of the Exponent would be pleased to hear from populists in this county as to what they think is the best course for populists to pursue under present political conditions. Make remarks as short and as much to the point as possible.'

"Now, I cannot advise what is the best course to pursue. This is a subject that every populist must take an interest in, and I think it would be well to have the advise of democrats and republicans also. Before giving my advise as to the best course to pursue, it would be necessary to discuss the political conditions; for, if we do not agree as to conditions, we could not unite in adopting the proper course to pursue. But if there were no other reasons the editor's note would enjoin us from going into a discussion of existing political conditions.

"It appears from the interview of Mr. Dingler, that he has some faith that there is a probability of getting some reform through the democratic and republican parties and he thinks that populists should align with the one which promises the most for reform. Everyone, I presume, is to decide for himself which party makes the most promises. This course would certainly distribute the populists between the two old parties and set them to working against each other. Of course, in a short interview Mr. Dingler could not give all the reasons why he thinks there is likely to be a chance to get reform through the old parties. Now, as I see the situation, I would advise that no populist align himself with either of the old parties with the expectation that he will ever get populist demands carried out or that he will be of any help in the promotion of reform. I am so thoroughly convinced that it is not possible to get reform through either of the old parties, that if I had positive knowledge that the moon would fall on Comanche county the moment the democratic or republican party enacted a law for the purpose of carrying out any demand, I would not loose a minute's sleep, nor attempt to move my family from the county on that account.

"Let populists have nothing to do with Mr. Bryan's primary pledge which is sent out to catch them. You can do no good for yourselves or others by breaking away one at a time. Hold together, and if at the proper time it is thought best not to put out a ticket, the party can remain dormant, and whenever the right time comes it can be quicky called to action with increased armor. The populist party has frightened the political bosses so badly that they will be afraid of its ghost, even though it be dead, so long as it remains unburied. But if the populist soldiers decide to walk into the ranks of a foreign army and bury their own party, bossism would immediately assume control. The men who founded the government and delivered this vast and magnificent country free from king craft to their descendants are admired in every civilized country and every one rejoices to make a pilgrimage to their sacred tomts. But the tentacles of monopoly are now so rapidly winding about the people, and reducing them to such a hopeless system of slavery that our grandchildren will never want to visit the tomb of any political leader who controls the government of our time. If the mothers could understand that their husbands by apathy and prejudice were helping to place bands upon their innocent and beautiful children, chains that no power can ever remove, they would lash their husbands out of the old parties, if they had to use a black snake to get them out. At this moment the large and populous state of Kansas, which reaches almost to the borders of our own state, is ready to fall upon her knees in order to get a compromise with one man, a non resident, who has invaded the state and practically taken control of the natural reservoirs of oil that nature has collected for the benefit of the people. But it is useless to speak of one state when the same system is operated in every state of the union, and extends to the production and distribution of every staple article. —W. M. Robinson."

A QUEER FISH.

The New Scarce Dugong Is the Mermaid of Fabled Lore.

The strangest of all strange fish must surely be the manatee and the dugong. The latter is the mermaid of fabled lore. The dugong live in flocks along the shores of the Indian ocean, the Red sea and the gulf of Manaar, where they browse on seaweed and river vegetation. They are very affectionate in disposition, and especially is this shown in the love of the mother for her offspring, which is much stronger than the instinct of self preservation. Neither will the male leave the female if she be attacked, and instances are on record where the companions of the manatee gathered round and made an effort to withdraw the deadly harpoon. It is supposed that the rude approach to the human outline observed in the shape of the head of the dugong, the attitude of the mother in clasping her young to her breast with one flipper while swimming with the other, holding both above water, and suddenly diving and showing her fishlike tail when alarmed, gave rise to the mermaid myth, first told by the Arab seamen. Jules Verne gives a thrilling description of the capture of a dugong in the Red sea, when its flesh was desired as food. Naturalists tell us that the flesh of the manatee and the dugong much resembles well fatted pork, of pleasant flavor, and is highly esteemed as food. For this reason they were much hunted and are fast becoming extinct.—Field and Stream.

TRICKY BRAIN CELL.

What Happens When We Know a Name Which Escapes Us.

The anatomy of the nervous system and consequently its physiology was regarded in the past as very simple. Cayal showed that the specific brain cell is an independent unit provided with multiple processes, by means of which it is capable of acting not through one nerve alone, but several. This independent brain unit or cell is called a neuron.

A simple illustration of how the neuron works is furnished by our not infrequent hunt for a name or an idea which we know we possess. We feel that the name is there, but we cannot recall it. We get various names near it, beginning even with the same letter or the same vowel sound, yet only after minutes or even hours does it actually occur to us.

What is supposed to happen is that the particular cell of intellection which we are using throws out its process among the cells of memory for names, and, though this process is brought in connection with cells containing similar names, it is only after a more or less prolonged search that it hits on the right one. It is as if the telephone operator in the central office felt around blindly for the connection wanted and only after putting the plug into various holes eventually struck the proper one.—Dr. Joseph Walsh in Booklovers Magazine.

The Blind Man's Ears.

The degree to which the remaining senses can be trained when the sight is lost was illustrated the other morning by two blind men from a home for the blind. The men came from opposite directions, and as they approached each other a man standing on the corner was surprised to hear one of the blind men say: "Hello, Ed! What are you doing out this morning?" When the blind man was asked how he had known the other with a distance of five yards between them he answered: "By the sound of his cane, of course. I can tell at the distance of half a square the tap of the cane of any man in the home."—Philadelphia Record.

Grief and White Hair.

The mustaches of Henry III. of Navarre are reported to have become partially white in a few hours after hearing of the concession of the edict of Nemours. The hair of an English banker, owing to reverses in business, became gray in three days, according to the Encyclopedia Metropolitan. According to the same authority, a man about forty years old, who at his marriage had a dark head of hair, "on his return from his wedding trip had his hair turn so completely snow white, even to his eyebrows, that his friends almost doubted his identity."

Stings of Animals Are Similar.

In the examination of the poisonous machinery of insects and reptiles it is apparent that the destructive principle is the same in all and that the fang in all possesses a hollow through which the poison flows into the wound the moment the incision is made. The sting of the scorpion is precisely like the fang of the rattlesnake and performs its deadly work on the same mechanical principles.

A Good Precedent.

"My dear," said Mrs. Mildly as she dusted Mr. Mildly's table, "this would be a great deal cleaner world if there were not any men in it."

"If there were not," retorted Mr. Mildly, "the women would do exactly as the Lord did—hunt around for enough dirt to make a man out of."—Collier's.

More Satisfactory.

"Why don't you try to make a name that will be respected by future generations?"

"My dear sir," answered Mr. Dustin Stax, "my vainity does not go so far. I am content to make a fortune that is respected by the present generation."—Washington Star.

MULLIGAN'S ANTICS.

They Excited Casey's Curiosity and He Got an Explanation.

Casey and Mulligan lived in adjoining tenements. Casey was looking out of his front window one afternoon when he saw Mulligan go through the street door on the run. In a few moments he returned, still running. On the next night Casey saw Mulligan repeat the performance. Casey told his wife there must be sickness in the Mulligan household, but Mrs. Casey said no. On the third day Casey again saw Mulligan dash out of the door and return on the run. On the fourth night Casey saw Mulligan leave the house with a skipping rope and go down the street skipping the rope. When he returned he was still skipping the rope. This was the last straw to Casey's already overburdened curiosity. He watched and when Mulligan was out went to his home.

"Is there anythin' I can do for you, Mrs. Mulligan?" he asked her. "What for?" asked Mrs. Mulligan. "Shure, and your husband has gone daft," said Casey. "I seen him run out of the house and run back ag'in three nights and the fourth go out skippin' a rope." "Oh, that's nothin'," said Mrs. Mulligan. "The doctor was here last week, Mike bein' by way of ailin', and gave him four pills. 'Take three runnin' and skip the fourth,' sez he, 'and that's what Mike has been doin'."—New York Tribune.

SPEED OF A RATTLER.

Why It Is Easy to Shoot Off the Head of One of These Snakes.

In this wide world there are several things that are swifter than a rattlesnake, writes A. W. Rolker in Pearson's, but they can probably be counted on the fingers of one hand. One of these things is a bullet, whereby hangs the explanation why it is easy to shoot the head off a rattle, although a marksman finds it difficult to place a bullet along the fat seven foot line between the neck of the reptile and the tip of its tail.

It has long been regarded as a curious coincidence that even the man not famed for accuracy has had no trouble in blowing the head off a diamond back. In the diamond back country only one explanation is offered for this—it is the snake and not the man that does the aiming.

At close quarters the instant the muzzle of a six shooter is thrust toward a rattlesnake the infallible eye catches the range, and in the fraction of a twinkle the deadly head has aligned itself. As the gun roars and darts its tongue of flame the head of the creature is torn clean as if severed with a knife, and the viper lies writhing, emitting a defiant rattle even as its grim, relentless heart ceases its beat.

CONSTANT BIRDS.

Baldheaded Eagles and Golden Woodpeckers Mate but Once.

The married life of most birds could be taken for a model even by members of the human family. There is, for instance, the staid, dignified and homely baldheaded eagle, the glorious emblem of the American republic. He mates but once and lives with his one mate until he or she dies. If left a widower—even a young widower—the baldheaded eagle never mates again. He remains alone and disconsolate in the nest on the rock crag or in the branches of a tall pine that formed his domicile while his mate was alive. No other female eagle can tempt him to forsake his disconsolate life. With him, once a widower, always a widower.

The golden woodpeckers live in a happy married state, mating but once. If the male dies his mate's grief is lasting, and she lives a widowed bird the rest of her life. So, too, the male woodpecker never seeks another mate after the death of his own. He taps on a tree beside their nest day and night trying to recall her; then at length, discouraged and hopeless, he becomes silent and never recovers his gayety.—Chicago Tribune.

A Birdlime Tree.

There is in New Zealand a tree which proves fatal to birds in an altogether singular way. The seed vessels give off a sticky fluid, and many a fly finds itself imprisoned in the gummy stuff. These flies in their turn attract small birds, and they also get so covered with the fluid that they are unable to flutter. The fruit, too, is an object of desire, and birds come, as it were, glued to the ripe clusters which they proposed to eat. The wee birds cannot escape without help, so lie there a prey to other animals.

Degrees of Comparison.

On public occasions Count von Moltke was frequently called upon to propose the health of the Emperor William I. At small gatherings he would confine himself to the formula, "Long live the emperor!" On more important occasions he would say, "Long life to his majesty the emperor." At large public banquets the toast culminated in the words, "Long life to his majesty the emperor, our most gracious king and master."

Dismantling of Desdemona's Palace.

The famous palace of Desdemona in Venice is to be dismantled, and much of the furnishings and bric-a-brac and pictures are to be brought to the United States, says the New York Times. For years Robert Hargous inhabited this palace and entertained most lavishly. Mr. Hargous has been in ill health for some time and is in the Adirondacks spending the winter. Mrs. Sallie Hargous Elliott, his sister, is at Aiken, S. C., with her children, and neither she nor Mrs. George De Forest nor Mrs. Appleton care to live in the Venetian palace.

MEN'S MEETING.

At the city hall, Sunday, July 9th, a men's meeting was duly organized with Rev. Kiker as chairman and B. M. Utterback as secretary. An executive committee consisting of one layman from each church in Dublin to be appointed by the chairman and reported at next meeting.
Hon. R. B. Spencer, mayor of Dublin, tendered the city hall as a place for holding the meetings. It was accepted with a vote of thanks to the city officials. By a vote it was decided to hold a meeting once each month.

The next meeting will be held in the city hall Sunday, August 6th, at 4 p. m., and will be addressed by
Hon. O. S. Lattimore of Fort Worth.

A most earnest invitation is extended to the men of Dublin and surrounding country to attend all of these meetings. They are held for the mutual benefit of our men and boys. Do not fail to hear Hon. O.
S. Lattimore on August 6th, 4 p. m.
at city hall.

Love.

All men are kings, but love is King of kings. His imperial chariot, drawn by the cherubim and seraphim of laughter and songs, goes rumbling over the cobble stones of human hearts, and the sighing millions are his worshipers. Wealth bows its haughty head before his throne and pays penance with jewels and gold; labor bends the reverent knee and counts his beads of sweat; art chisels down the cold, white prison walls of shapeless marble and leads dumb beauty forth. Love is the only despot in this world against whose burdens we all delight to bear. His yoke is the twining of tender arms and the crack of his whip a guileless kiss.
Love is a regal anarchist; he climbs
the ladder of laughter and throws bombshells of mirth into the palace of the heart; he scales the harp-strings of song, and serenades the soul.—Bob Taylor.

While in Texas not long ago,
James Barton Adams, the author, fell in with an old cattleman who sang without end the praises of the Lone Star State. "You are not of the same opinion as regards Texas that Sheridan was," observed Adams.
"What opinion was that?" queried the cattleman. "Why, he said that if he owned a farm in Texas and one in hades he'd sell the one in Texas, as he would rather live in hades."
"No, I ain't of that opinion," observed the cattleman, thoughtfully,
"and I'll bet Sheridan has changed his mind by this time."

A union meeting has been held at Abilene, about ten counties being represented. It was decided by the Taylor county aggregation to erect two cotton warehouses in the county.

There will be a call meeting of the Central District Union to convene at Johnson school house on Saturday, July 29th. Reports will be received at that time from the warehouse committees regarding the proposed warehouse at Stephenville.—J. P. Jones, President.

At a meeting of Hood County Farmers Union at Granbury recently it was decided to erect a fine cotton gin, with sufficient capacity to handle all their cotton and to be located at some convenient place in Hood county. The gin is to be equipped with the very latest improved machinery. We are advised that the union desires to build this new gin at Granbury, provided the town wants it and will give sufficient encouragement.

These propositions coming from union leaders in different parts of the state to "Build cotton factories," "Build up the mercantile department of the union," "Establish Farmers Union colleges, Farmers Union gins," etc., will bring the Farmers Union to grief just as surely as they obtain any large degree of support. No wonder the outside world says, "The farmers won't stick," when no sooner do the farmers begin to come together in the interests of their special industry that certain interested leaders begin to lead them into all sorts of undertakings except farming.—Farmers Journal.

AN ADDRESS.

To the President and Members of the Erath County Farmers Union.

Dear Brethren: In reviewing the history, partial as it may be, of the efforts made by our organization for the betterment of the producing class—the farmer—it might be well to consider in this connection the complete evolution and revolution of the whole system prevalent among said people today, a system that has made the life of the mortgage and given the thrift and almost immortality to credit, the bane of all civilizations of the past; when, therefore, we remember the entire absence of any system designed to benefit or protect him who toils and who not only feeds but clothes the world and whose toil contributes to the happiness of all mankind, then will be seen the absolute necessity of unity of purpose, action and plan. Indeed, it would seem, perhaps, to be quite an easy task to bring about such condition or conditions as would insure to our mutual benefit but when we remember that the present system and the one under which we are now forced to operate is wholly responsible for the impoverished condition of our whole country and that this class have, do, and yet expect to feast upon the products of our toil, then it will seem that the solution may not be so easily reached, especially at one single bound nor in even one year's organized effort, and in the judgment of your committee the only solution commendable alike to ourselves and the membership of this great organization is the one yet to be found after the careful and discreet verdict of our membership has been given, after prudent re-survey of all that is absolutely essential to our welfare.

This, briefly is a partial view of some of the things necessary to us, and to particularize may be odious as it is said that comparisons are so; yet we shall risk the chance, if indeed, we shall be able to create anew the vivid impression of the necessity of organizing when the light of this great order dawned upon us. We certainly know that by co-operative action in withholding our cotton off a declining market we checked said decline when every bear speculator was predicting to the contrary.

By intelligent application of the power vested in us, by the dissemination of the principles now advocated by us, can we secure the beneficial results of our organization and those necessary to the maintenance of a virturous and happy home, not alone individually but collectively.

We reduced our acreage in cotton when it was heralded from the house tops to the contrary; in fact whenever the farmer seeks any measure for his own relief or supports any plan for his betterment or happiness, it will usually be found that ostacles are in the way that leads from the now impoverished condition that has long been the besetting sin of our whole sunny southland and is now under the hypnotic cry of "they won't stick" lulling, perhaps, some of our own people to sleep as does that of a gentle mother the innocent babe in her arms. The design in the one, however, not as potent for good as the other, the one the siren song of the blatant demagogue; the other the woolings of a loving parent; certainly it takes no argument for any and all to see and know the one course to pursue. In our own country we find that peace and harmony seems to prevail and that with one accord are the members of our organization striving to accomplish the purposes of our order; we believe, however, that there are hundreds of farmers in our country who should join us in this great movement and assist us in banishing the evil now incident to our avocation.

We, perhaps, may need to show them that the success of our principles depends not upon the action of any one but ourselves and that by intelligent co-operation and education we expect to reach the object of our organization when peace and happiness shall reign supreme around every hearthstone in this broad land of ours.

Trusts Control Currency.

"It is an essential part of the merry game which these captains are permitted to play that they shall always have in their hands the means alternately to inflate and contract the currency, at any given point, say, for example, New York," writes Alexander Del Mar in Watson's Magazine. "With the mints restricted to the coinage of metal for private persons, and the hands of the government tied to a fixed issue of greenbacks, while their own hands are free, the mischievous elasticity which they employ for the success of their operations is easily acquired by getting command of the principal banks of issue. The moment they press their fingers on this button the market immediately responds by throwing its stocks overboard; and the moment they release the button, up rise the stocks again. It is by means of this simple mechanism that the public has been plundered, and that it is now planned to plunder the companies. That there is no longer any art in the trained motorman's vocation is proved by the small wages he commands. The art is in providing the power and controlling the mechanism which drives the cars. In the Captains-of-Industry game the power it derived from the elastic bank issues: the mechanism consists of certain banks and insurance companies and the stock exchange. Given the power and mechanism which these establishments furnish, any bandit could work the game and have plenty of leisure to spare. The system is automatic."

Buy It Now.

Cut the Weeds.

If you'd see your city grow,
Cut the weeds.
Every day and hour or so,
Cut the weeds.
They've become so rank and tall,
That the trees near them look small
Cut them one—cut them all,
Cut the weeds.
To exterminate disease,
Cut the weeds,
If you'd purify the breeze,
Cut the weeds.
If your scythe the power lacks,
And your sickle "simply hacks,"
Get a corn knife—get an axe.
Cut the weeds.

Bent Her Double.

"I knew no one for four weeks, when I was sick with typhoid and kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Annie Hunter of Pittsburg, Pa., "and when I got better, although I had one of the best doctors I could get, I was bent double and had to rest my hands on my knees when I walked. From this terrible affliction I was rescued by Electric Bitters, which restored my health and strength and now I can walk as straight as ever. They are simply wonderful." Guaranteed to cure stomach, liver and kidney disorders; at Overton Drug Co; price 50 cents.

Suggestion to Teachers.

An exchange suggests the following plan to lady teachers as a preventative for tardiness: A school teacher who has a school nearby inaugurated it recently, offering a kiss to the first arrival at school each morning. The next morning at 5 o'clock three young men were seen roosting on the fence and by 6 o'clock all the boys of the school and two directors had put in an appearance.

RHEUMATISM
Bone or Back Pains, Swollen Joints, Itching, Burning Skin
CURED THROUGH THE BLOOD BY B.B.B.

There is Hope—The above pictures represent the before and after effect of Botanic Blood Balm (B.B.B.) on a most severe case of Rheumatism. It is no fancy picture—but a genuine case. It is simply wonderful the effect B. B. B. has on Rheumatics. It invigorates the blood, making it pure and rich, and destroying the active poison in the blood, which causes the awful symptoms of Rheumatism.
B. B. B. limbers the joints, straightens out the bent back and makes a perfect, lasting cure after all other remedies fail.

Leading Symptoms—Bone pains, sciatica or shooting pains up and down the legs aching back or shoulder blades, swollen joints or swollen muscles; difficulty in moving around so you have to use crutches; blood thin or skin pale; skin itches and burns; shifting pains; bad breath; sciatics, lumbago, gout, etc. Botanic Blood Balm (B.B.B.) will remove every symptom, giving quick relief from the first dose, and B. B. B. sends a rich, tingling flood of warm, rich, pure blood direct to the paralyzed nerves, bones and joints, giving warmth and strength just where it is needed, and in this way making a perfect, lasting cure of Rheumatism in all its forms.

Weak, Inactive Kidneys—One of the causes of Rheumatism is due to inactive kidneys and bladder. B. B. B. strengthens weak kidneys and bladder, draining off all diseased matter and all uric acid, so the urine flows freely and naturally.

Botanic Blood Balm (B.B.B.) is pleasant and safe to take. Thoroughly tested for 30 yrs. Composed of Pure Botanic Ingredients. Strengthens Weak Stomachs, cures Dyspepsia. Price $1 per large bottle. Take as directed. If not cured when right quantity is taken, money refunded. Sample Sent Free by writing Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. Modern Slaves in the South.

"So it happens," writes Thomas E. Watson in his magazine for July, "that the southern states are indeed what the New Yorker calls 'the provinces.'

"In every sense of the word they are 'provinces'—political and financial 'provinces'—ruled from the north, dominated by the northern politician and the northern financier.

"Belmont cracks his whip, J. P. Morgan issues his commands and they are obeyed.

"Politically they are obeyed; financially they are obeyed.

"The southern democrats will accept and vote for any platform whatsoever, any candidate whatsoever, which the Wall street millionaires, who finance the party, have decided upon.

"The legislatures of the southern states do not dare to pass any law against which our northern masters resolutely set their faces, and the humiliation of the situation is that our northern masters do not need to stir from their wall street offices.

"They issue their order to the lobbyist, to the politician, to the editor, and the covert threat always goes with the order:

"Do this, or off goes your head."

"The lobbyist knows he must defeat undesirable legislation or he loses his job—his salary, his unlimited right to issue free passes, his private car for himself, his family, his friend, his creatures in the legislature, his creature on the bench.

"The politician knows he must obstruct undesirable legislation for the campaign boodle necessary to his success will go to a luckier man.

"The editor knows that he must knock the life out of any bill to which his northern master objects or the subsidy which keeps his paper going will be withdrawn. The stock which the railroad subscribed through Mr. Tom and Mr. Dick and M. Harry will be so voted as to throw Mr. Editor out of his job. Or that issue of bonds, which Mr. Editor went north to dispose of to certain railroads, will be used to thrust Mr. Editor from a position in which he is no longer effective for the men who bought his bonds.

"What is to be the end of it all?

"There are two courses and but two:

"Cowardly submission which leads on and on and on to degradation, misery, poverty, serfdom; or the revolt of southern manhood to shake off the intolerable bonds, and to reassert true manliness, true independence and the reign of the law, founded upon equal and exact justice to all men."

TO AILING WOMEN.

A Little Sound Advice Will Help Many a Sufferer in Dublin.

No woman can be healthy and well if the kidneys are sick. Poisons that pass off in the urine when the kidneys are well are retained in the body when the kidneys are sick. Kidneys and bladder get inflamed and swollen, crowding the delicate female organs nearby and sometimes displacing them. This is the true cause of many bearing-down pains, lameness, backache, sideache, etc. Uric poisoning also causes headaches, dizzy spells, languor, nervousness and rheumatic pains.

When suffering so, try Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that cures sick kidneys. You will get better as the kidneys get better, and health will return when the kidenys are well. Let a Dublin woman tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. D. A. Hood of Dublin, Texas, says: "I have suffered for years with a weak back. Sometimes it would apparently get well but a cold or overexertion would lay me up again and I have been so bad that I could not dress myself. No medicine I used seemed to help me much and I grew steadily worse. Happening to see Doan's Kidney Pills advertised I went to the Overton Drug Co.'s store and got a box. I was astonished at the result for in a very short time I was free from the pain for the first time in months. I say without hesitation that I do not think there is a remedy for backache or kidney trouble in the world that is so good as Doan's Kidney Pills. They are the only thing that helped me and they did me more good than all the other remedies I ever used."

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Blaine Knew the Family.

A gentleman very prominent in Cambridge told this anecdote for the late Hon. James G. Blaine one night, not long after witnessing the event, says the Boston Herald.

Mr. Blaine, said he, had a peculiar gift for remembering names and faces, but this was the most amusing exhibition of his gift that I had ever witnessed. It was at a large reception in Washington. A gentleman of rather countrified appearance was introduced to Mr. Blaine as Mr. Mason.

"What!" exclaimed Mr. Blaine, "Mr. Mason of Poultney, Vermont?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Mason delighted at being definitely fixed geographically.

"The son of Stephen Mason?"

"Yes," delighted again to be genealogically placed.

"Ah, yes," said Blaine, "and he died in, let me see, in 1868, did he not? I remember—and he was buried in the little yard of the church. And his father was John Mason, who fought in the war of 1812. Ah yes."

It was so sympathetic and so historically correct, and the man's pleasure over having a distinct place in the statesman's mind was so evident that we coveted the ready memory and tact of the busy statesman who could so definitely place every one.

Yet this seemed exceptional, so after the man had passed on we said to the senator: "How could you remember all that? Did you ever know his father?"

He laughed and said: "No, I never saw him, but I had an old aunt who lived in Poultney, Vt., and several summers ago I spent a Sunday with her. The day was warm and I had difficulty in keeping awake. The window was open to the little graveyard, and every time I nodded I opened my eyes to see on a big stone whose reflected whiteness made me blink: 'Stephen Mason, died April 26th, 1868,' and beside it was another with 'John Mason, born 17, died 18—!'

"It never would have done to fall asleep; my aunt would never have forgiven me, so I memorized that, and I never hear the name Mason that I don't see that big white stone, and those big letters spelling out 'Stephen Mason.' No, I never saw the man or heard of him before."—Exchange.
