

On The BEAM

J. W. KING, SR.

Those of you who do not get the evening edition of the Abilene Reporter-News should endeavor to get a copy of Friday evening, February 24. When you get a copy turn to the editorial page and read the syndicated column by William S. White, titled, "Shocked by CIA? WHY?"

I agree with Mr. White in almost every point he makes in his article. His opening sentence is "This nation faces a creeping crisis infinitely graver than a dozen Vietnams." In the next sentence he asks if constitutional government can long be maintained under the challenges of a tiny, bitter minority that seeks to drive this country from the field in the cold war.

Mr. White goes on to say "For at least two years now, a fragment overwhelmingly defeated in every democratic test, whether at the ballot box or in Congress, has become an ugly tail that wags a huge and sleeping dog."

Mr. White said a lot more that gives us cause for thought if nothing more. You must read the column to really understand what he is saying. Responsible citizens everywhere ought to rise up and demand that this cancerous growth be cut away before it destroys our country.

Some progress is being made on the low rent housing program. A soil tester was here last week testing the soil on lots selected for the project. How long it will be now before actual work on the houses is started is not known.

February has passed without giving us any appreciable moisture, maybe March will be better moisture-wise.

Fifty Countians Attend Cotton Production Meet Held Feb. 23

Fifty Mitchell County farmers and agri-business men attended a Cotton Production meeting held Feb. 23 at 7:30 p. m. in the Lone Wolf Electric Co-op Medallion Room. The meeting was planned by the Crops Sub-Committee of the Mitchell Co. Program Building Committee and was sponsored by the Agriculture Committee of Colorado City Chamber of Commerce, stated Bobby Lemons, Co. Agent.

Jim Valentine, Area Soil Scientist from Lubbock, discussed fertilizer. He discussed the soil test and its value in the recommendations of a fertilizer for your farm. Jim told that of the Mitchell Co. soils test at the South Plains Research and Extension Center, that 77 percent had less than 1 percent organic matter, and that 48 percent of the soils tested were low in phosphorus. Results of two dryland fertilizer demonstrations this year showed that fertilizing, according to the soil test, made 87 and 160 pounds more lint to the acre.

Dr. Rupert Palmer discussed the herbicide situation and told the group that herbicides are a tool to help producers cut cost of mechanical weed control as it is too expensive. Dr. Palmer told the group about the pre-plant herbicides, pre-emergence and about post-emergence. He stressed the use of directing the spray under the cotton leaves.

Lemon discussed the cotton situation and gave some tips on producing a high quality product using productive practices. The practices are a part of the Seven Step Cotton Program of Texas A&M University. They include:

1. Fit cotton into balanced farming.
2. Take care of your soil and water.
3. Variety selection.
4. Follow practical mechanization.
5. Control insects, diseases and weeds.
6. Harvest, handle and gin for high grade.
7. Sell for grade staple and quality.

Results of three variety demonstrations were reviewed and these results will be available from the Extension Office within the next 10 days, Lemons stated. The results are for one year only and compare not only the yield but the fibre properties of the variety.

Mrs. Leach read a letter from Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Kennedy, who are from Lorraine and now serving as missionaries in Nigeria, Africa. The Kennedys say their work there is now done amid a great crisis. Since Jan. 1966, Nigeria has been under military rule. Zaria, where they are living, in the very center of the trouble, and say they see mobs, who break into shops and homes and see killing in open day light of the Ibo tribe. They said it was tragic to see dead bodies lying in the streets, some gasoline-drenched bodies burning.

The Kennedy's two older children, Tommy, 13, and Carolyn 11, are away from home attending Hillcrest school, 150 miles northeast of them. Of course, it is hard for them to live apart, but no schools are nearer them.

They say, due to the crisis there now, they realize anew the urgency of their task of bringing the gospel to that people.
