Gold Medallion Award

Pitman Is Recognized For Service To Agriculture

John Douglas Pitman, president of Pitman Grain Company of Hereford and active civic leader, was cited for "Meritorious Service To Agriculture" Saturday night during the annual Federal Land Bank banquet held at the Hereford High School Cafeteria.

The award is a Gold Medallion, authorized by Congress and the President of the United States and given to Pitman by the Federal Land Bank of Houston. The presentation was made by E. G. Shuart II of Dalhart, a director of the Houston Land Bank. Pitman, a resident of Hereford all his life, took over active management of Pitman Grain Company after the death of his father, J. A. Pitman, in 1959.

In making the presentation, Shuart said that Pitman Grain Company has vigorously supported agriculture for over 40 years beginning with the elder Mr. Pitman and continuing since John Douglas Pitman took over active management of the business.

John Douglas Pitman has never failed to purchase livestock at the annual Junior Livestock Show, he said, and has consistently paid the highest price. He has continually supported financially the program at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch, the Halfway Experimental Station and their every move to better agriculture.

He actively supports the United Fund of Deaf Smith County, having served as fund drive chairman; he has been active with the CROP program, helping to organize it in the county and has served as chairman; he has supplied monetary and leadership assistance to the Labor Camp; has been active with the Grain Sorghum Producers Association of which he helped to organize and has served as a director; he is a director of the Panhandle Grain Dealers Association; director of the First National Bank of Hereford; active in FFA and 4-H work; a member of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce; a member of the Deaf Smith County Hospital Board; has vigorously supported with time and money, the American Legion baseball program; is a member and Elder of the First Presbyterian Church; a member of the Texas Bar Association and of the High Plains Water District which he helped to promote and organize.

Pitman, who is 41 years of age, has a unique personality which puts everyone at ease, and he visits on the same level with bank presidents, governors or field hands.

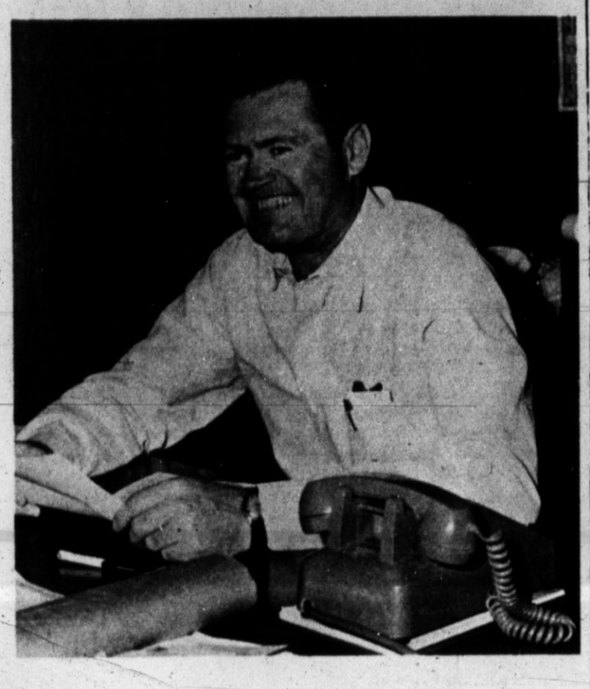

Pitman is a graduate of Texas University and holds a law degree from that institution. He is president and active manager of the largest country elevator in the world with a storage capacity of 12,920,000 bushels.

Pitman, his wife and four children live at 515 Long St. in Hereford.

The award came at the conclusion of the 50th Anniversary banquet of the Federal Land Bank Association. Ira Scott, president of the local organization presided.

The establishment of the Federal Land Bank of Houston on April 3, 1917, marked the beginning of this farmer-owned credit system. A total of 265 members make up the local association, and own all the stock.

Hereford Doctors Get Deferments

Dr. Howard R. Johnson and Dr. Noble Ballard of Hereford received a telephone message from Washington, D. C. Thursday afternoon telling them that their call to active duty has been deferred.

The two Hereford physicians were put on call about a month ago because they could not meet the Army's requirements for attending monthly meetings. Both men are Lieutenants in the United States Army Medical Reserve.

Early last month, Johnson and Ballard has received orders that they would leave before January 1, unless action was taken by the Selective Service Board of Review. The Army had declared the reservists as delinquents because they had not attended a meeting each month.

However, Hereford citizens had a different idea and they weren't about to let their much-needed doctors go without a fight. Petitions were circulated throughout Deaf Smith, Parmer, Oldham and Castro counties to keep the two men, and approximately 12,000 persons signed, asking that they be deferred.

In order for the doctors to be able to meet the requirements, the Air Force Reserves in Clovis has found an opening for them to attend meetings there. A written statement from St. Louis concerning the deferment is expected to arrive within the next two weeks.

Hereford and the surrounding area has had a shortage of physicians for many months and residents here felt the loss of Ballard and Johnson would seriously endanger the city.

Both of the physicians are housed at the Hereford Medical Clinic.

Agency Acts On Adult Education

Approval on three of the Adult Education Classes currently being held at Hereford High School were approved Friday morning by the Texas Education Agency.

Bob Holman, assistant superintendent in charge of curriculum, was notified that bookkeeping, shorthand and typing had been approved for financing by the agency and certification is expected soon on the other four night courses which are being held.

Final enrollment figures in the program show that there are 35 persons attending bookkeeping classes, 12 students in shorthand and 37 in typing. There also are 33 taking Conversational Spanish, 20 in auto mechanics, 12 in care and maintenance of farm machinery, and 17 in welding.

The typing class is being taught by Elizabeth Wills; bookkeeping teacher is Joe Smith; Joe Andrews is teaching care and Maintenance of Farm Machinery; John Smith is giving instruction in welding; Ilene Young is teaching Conversational Spanish, Joyce Wartes is teaching shorthand, and William McDowell is instructing auto mechanics.

Holman emphasized that related courses still can be started at any time if enough interest is shown. "As long as we can show that the course improves the skill or ability of a person on his present job or will help the unemployed person find a position, we can offer a course."

Also, courses may be started which are strictly for enjoyment, such as art, physical education, amateur radio communications and crafts. However, tuition on those pleasure courses are not certified by the Texas Education Agency and no funds are paid the school.

"We haven't had any trouble finding teachers for these courses," added Holman, "it's a matter of finding the students. The instructors and facilities are here; it's up to the people to take advantage of them."

Important UF Meeting Is Set

Deaf Smith County United Fund workers, still short of their goal of $32,465 for this year's campaign, have called for an emergency meeting at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Hereford State Bank.

All persons participating in the campaign are urged to attend the meeting to map plans for finishing the drive. By Thursday, a total of $25,900 had been collected.

Driving Laws Are Detailed By DPS

By PAT SPRUGEON
Staff Writer

Deaf Smith County residents, as well as those all over the state, face numerous changes in driver licensing laws voted in by the state legislature earlier this year. In preparation for these changes, which will be effective Jan. 1, the local Department of Public Safety outlined and clarified some points for the Brand.

Photographic equipment will be added to the local driver licensing office, as well as a clerk, Mrs. Dorothy Tisdale, who will be in charge of administering eye examinations, supervising written tests, and making photos of applicants for licenses.

The office, formerly open on Monday and Friday only, will remain open five days each week with the initiation of the licensing changes. Actual driving tests, however, will still be administered two days of the week.

Jim Ward, local DPS patrolman who administers written and driving tests at the Hereford office, called attention to several changes in the licensing laws and pointed out that a law already in effect since the latter part of August sets age limits for operator licensing at 18, with some exceptions.

Drivers aged 15 may be licensed, after first having had a course in drivers education, with the restriction of having a licensed driver ride in the front seat. Drivers aged 16 may be tested to have this restriction removed, provided he has had driver education training.

All minors will be issued provisional licenses only clearly designated, which will be good for the length of time from the granting of the license to the applicant's 21st birthday. At that time a regular operator's license will be granted. Ward pointed out that only two moving traffic violations would result in automatic revocation of these provisional licenses.

Another new innovation in the law pointed out by Ward is the fact that all original applicants for licensing must present a birth certificate at the time of application. Drivers having old licenses renewed need not present the certificate.

Color photos of the driver will be added to all licenses issued after Jan. 1, and the licenses will be laminated between layers of plastic. Cost of the new licenses will remain the same, Ward emphasized, the only difference being in the length of time for which the licenses are renewed.

Present licenses with numbers ending evenly, for example, 40, 66, 92, multiples of two, will be renewed for four-year periods at double the cost of the old two-year type licenses. Numbers ending unevenly, such as 31, 63, 49, etc., will be renewed for two years at the same cost as previous operator licenses.

Commercial and chauffeur licenses will also follow this pattern, with even-numbered present licenses renewed for a term of two years, and odd numbered licenses for a period of one year.

At the expiration of the first license renewal under the new changes, all operators licenses will thereafter be renewed for the maximum length of time, which is four years, with commercial and chauffeurs being renewed for two years.

Drivers are cautioned that they do not have to have their picture made immediately after the first of the year for the new licenses. To do so would, in effect, cancel the remaining time on their present license and cause renewal to be made earlier than needed. Drivers should wait until the normal renewal date indicated on their present license to have the picture made for the new license.

Any advances in grade from operator to commercial or commercial to chauffeur will require a new driving test in a commercial type vehicle, Ward pointed out. Advancement from operator to commercial licenses will require both written and driving tests, while advancement from commercial to chauffeur will require only the driving test.

Motorcycle drivers are receiving a share of attention in the changes, also, Ward says. These drivers will be tested and approved and their licenses stamped with an approval for motorcycle operation.

Emphasis is also being placed on helmets, which are now required for cycle drivers. Prospective purchasers of helmets are urged to check with DPS officers on specifications for these helmets before they are purchased, Ward said. Many types of headgear are available.

Signatures Being Sought For Calling Bond Election

Petitions have been placed in each of the two Hereford banks, each doctor's office and the hospital for the signatures of persons interested in helping call a $130,000 bond election to be used for improvements to Deaf Smith County Hospital.

A counterpart of the petition which was placed in the County Clerk's office has already been completed and signed by at least 40 persons, according to Wayne Thomas, a member of the hospital's board.

Signatures of 400 persons are required on the petition in order to call the bond issue, says Thomas. These signatures must be those of residents who own and pay taxes on real estate and personal property located in the county, according to Thomas.

Improvements to the hospital which will be financed by the bond issue, if held, include a new X-Ray department large enough to accomodate a 500 Milliamp x-ray machine; a 500 MA X-Ray machine complete with image intensifier and spot device, and a Rapid Processor (Developer) for x-ray film to be used with both the new and old x-ray machines.

Also requested by the hospital managers are two new boilers and pumps large enough for one unit to heat the hospital premises should the other boiler break down. Also, 1380 sq. ft. of additional warehouse space is requested, along with new lighting for the Children's wing and the semi-private area.

The managers of the hospital have eliminated items from the request that would be desirable for the hospital but not absolutely necessary at this time.

Costs of the new equipment are bidded at $40,000 for the proposed new x-ray department; $28,600 for the x-ray machine; $9,000 for the rapid processor; $25,000 for the boilers: $10,187 for additional warehouse space and $5,397.60 for the new lighting.

Contingencies and architects fees are set at $10,550, making a total of $127,684.60 for the improvements.

Demons Turn Errors Into Touchdowns For Crown

A fumbled punt, a blocked kick and a 40-yard run through the entire Hereford team gave the Dumas Demons a 20-6 victory and their seventh straight District 1-AAA title Friday night in Whiteface Stadium.

The score belies the valiant effort put up by a Whiteface team which was much lighter, had less speed and less experience than the Demons. The game was up for grabs until the final three minutes.

From the onset, it was apparent that both teams were there to play rock-em, sock-em football. The squads butted heads throughout the first quarter, with the deepest penetration coming by Dumas when they tried a field goal from the 23. It was wide.

With five minutes to go in the first half, the Demons got their first break as a punt was fumbled and Dumas recovered on the Herd 34. Sensational Halfback Steve Burks scored from the 23 with 3:37 left in the first half to give the Demons a 6-0 lead. Burks' kick for the extra point was no good.

The next important break in the game also went to the Demons, when they blocked a Hereford punt on the Whiteface seven. Burks took the ball over again, this time with 3:01 left in the third period. His kick again was no good and the Whitefaces still had an opportunity.

Halfback Gary Goodin put a fire under the downcast fans and his teammates as he took the ensuing kickoff and fought his way 37 yards back to the Dumas 48. The fire was snuffed out, however, when a Hereford pass was batted up and intercepted by the Demons deep in their own territory.

Not giving up, Sophomore Tackle Rodney Dearing slammed into Demon Quarterback Glen Bonner just as he tried to pass, and Bobby Burwick nabbed off the wobbly aerial. On sheer power, Burwick plowed 37 yards to midfield. A 15-yard penalty against Dumas aided the drive and put the ball on the Demon 21.

From that point, Quarterback Sid Shaw passed to End Lenny Petree, who held onto the ball although he was engulfed by Demons. The play went to the Demon 3, with Burwick scoring from that point two plays later. With 7:34 left in the game, the extra point kick by Jim Loerwald was blocked and the Demons still led 12-6.

The Herd held the Demons on the ensuing series of plays, forcing them to punt. Not able to take advantage of the opportunity, however, they were unable to move and had to kick. Just when it appeared the Whitefaces would get another crack at the ball with the score still 12-6, Bonner took off around right end with the ball on his hip, cut back through the middle of the line and raced 40 yards to put the game out of reach. The tally came with 3:09 left to play. Just to be sure, the Demons ran for the extra points to give them a 20-6 lead.

The Whitefaces almost connected for a score on their last series of downs, as Shaw passed to Petree. The glue-fingered end latched onto the ball, but before he could claim permanent possession the pigskin was wrestled away by a Demon.

Final statistics showed the Demons picking up 17 first downs while holding Hereford to 8; Dumas getting 274 yards rushing and Hereford 107; the Demons connecting on 6 of 11 passes for 59 yards and Hereford connecting on 4 of 9 for 42 yards, and Dumas being penalized three times for 35 yards and Hereford 2 times for 20 yards.

Dumas lost one fumble and Hereford two, while the Herd intercepted two passes and Dumas swiped one.

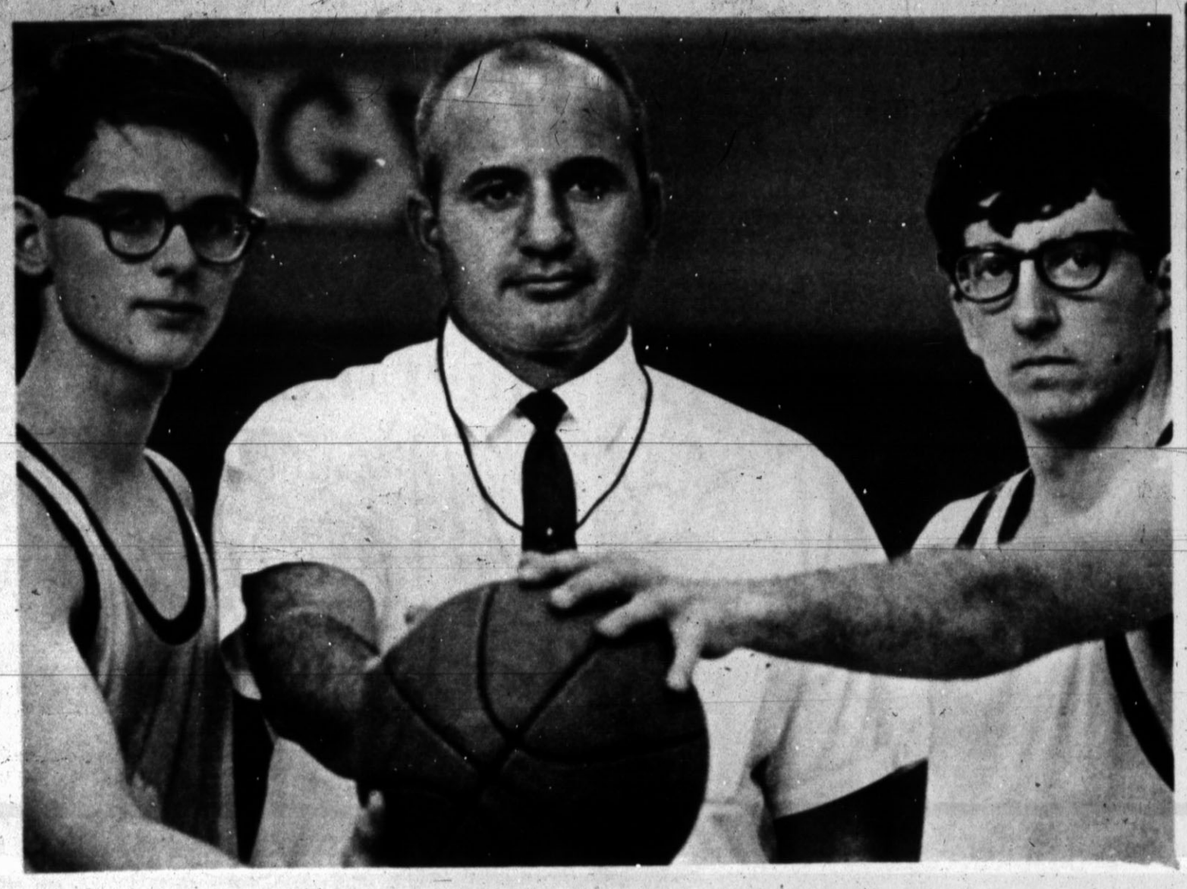

An overflow crowd attended the battle, which was spiced by several controversial calls against both teams.

Thus, the team which was picked by the experts to finish near the bottom in District 1-AAA competition and have a losing season wound up the year with a 6-4 record. They were 3-2 in conference action. A full report on the season will be in Thursday's Brand.

Laws . . .

but not all meet DPS requirements, and drivers using substandard helmets may be ticketed as though they were using no helmet at all.

Ward outlined several facts and fancies regarding the law changes which have been the cause of much confusion:

FACT: There will be no more renewing of licenses through the mail except, for example, those persons out of state in the military services.

FACT: All other applicants for renewal must make an appearance in person at a local driver license office to be photographed by a clerk or patrolman.

FACT: All licensed drivers must pass the state minimum standard eye examination using the Snelling chart. If an applicant has doubt about his vision, it may save him time to check with his doctor or optometrist prior to visiting the DPS office.

FICTION: It is not true that all persons who hold a valid driving license must take another written and driving test. The patrolman may require some persons to be re-tested if there is some doubt about an applicant's ability to operate a motor vehicle safely or properly. These persons may be required to take both written and road tests again.

These explanations were outlined by Ward in an effort to clear any misunderstandings or confusion regarding the recent changes and those to go into effect the first of the year.

CHANGE IN SCHEDULE

The district office of the Social Security Administration, located in Amarillo, has announced that they now will be open until 6:30 p.m. on Thursdays.

Dogies Complete Sweep Of La Plata

Stanton romped over La Plata Thursday night 34-0, as the two Junior Highs finished their seasons in what had been predicted as a toss-up.

Stanton lead La Plata 12-0 at half-time, and came back in the third and fourth quarters to add another 22 points.

Scoring for Stanton were: Ricky Ward, Ken Laing, (who recovered a punt in the end zone), Gary Lemons, Daina Rush and Harold Schmucker. Both coaches noted that their teams put in a "good team effort."

Santon finished the season with a 5-4 mark, and La Plata had a 5-3 season record. In the Hi-Plains conference, both teams finished 3-2.

Alex Glass of La Plata said, "We played as good as we could but they just beat us. It was a good effort on the part of our boys."

The victory completed a sweep for Stanton in this year's series, as the Dogies beat La Plata's seventh and eighth grade teams last week.

Concerning Veterans

EDITORS NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q — I work full time and plan to enroll in a correspondence course in radio and television repairing under the G. I. Bill. What will my monthly payments be?

A — Assuming that you qualify as a veteran for benefits under the Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act of 1966, administered by the Veterans Administration, you will be paid only the actual cost of the correspondence course. The educational assistance allowance for an approved program of education pursued exclusively by correspondence will be computed on the basis of the established charge paid by nonveterans for the same course of courses. The allowance will be paid quarterly based on the lessons completed by the veteran and serviced and certified by the school. You can obtain information and assistance concerning the correspondence course in which you are interested from your nearest VA office.

Q — I was honorably discharged from the Armed Forces recently after serving 2-½ years on active duty in the Navy. Am rights with the company for which I worked at the itme I entered service?

A — Yes, if the job you left when entering active duty was not temporary. You would be entitled to restoration in the position which you would have attained had you not been absent, including all benefits which would have accrued by your seniority. You should contact the Office of Veterans Re-employment Rights, U. S. Department of Labor, in the closest of the following cities: Atlanta, Boston, Chambersburg, Pa., Cleveland, Chicago, Dallas, New York, Kansas City or San Francisco.

Q — I am receiving a pension under the new position law for (nonservice-connected) severe emphysema. Recently I suffered a heart attack and was rushed to a local hospital for emergency care. Will the VA pay for this hosptial care?

A — No. The Veterans Administration is not authorized to pay for hospital care in a private hospital for conditions not related to military service. However, there is an additional pension benefit available if your combined disabilities are so severe that they confine you essentially to your home or require the assistance of an aid and attendant. This additional pension may help to pay for your hospital care. Contact your nearest VA office for information and assistance in obtaining this pension.

CHANGING CONCEPTS

NEW YORK—Church formulations of doctrine change as man's religious awareness and modes of expression develop, says Catholic philosopher Rosario Scarpati.

In a new book, "Hope or Hindrance?", published by Sheed and Ward, he says the church is "the consciousness of the world" and its destiny, and thus "changes with the world," but "only the church changes profoundly because it has an identity, while the world changes because it is groping for its identity without ever fully discovering it."

Injuries And Damage Minor In Collision

Two persons were slightly injured Thursday in a collision on N. 25 Mile Avenue which cuased only minor damages to the two cars involved.

Ila Burnel Drye, a passenger in a 1961 Rambler driven by Eugene Drye, 230 N. 25 Mile Ave., was taken to Deaf Smith County Hospital where she was checked and released.

Isabel Romo, a passenger in a 1963 Chevrolet driven by Leonard Lubamo Romo, 605 Blevins sustained minor injuries but was not taken to the hospital.

Damages to the Chevrolet were estimated at $50, and damage to the Rambler was set at $100 by investigating officers.

Both cars were traveling north on 25 Mile Ave., acording to police reports. One car attempted to pull into a drive way off the street, and the car following struck the other in the rear.

One ticket for following too closely was issued as a result of the 8:05 p. m. collision.

BIBLICAL DISCREPANCIES

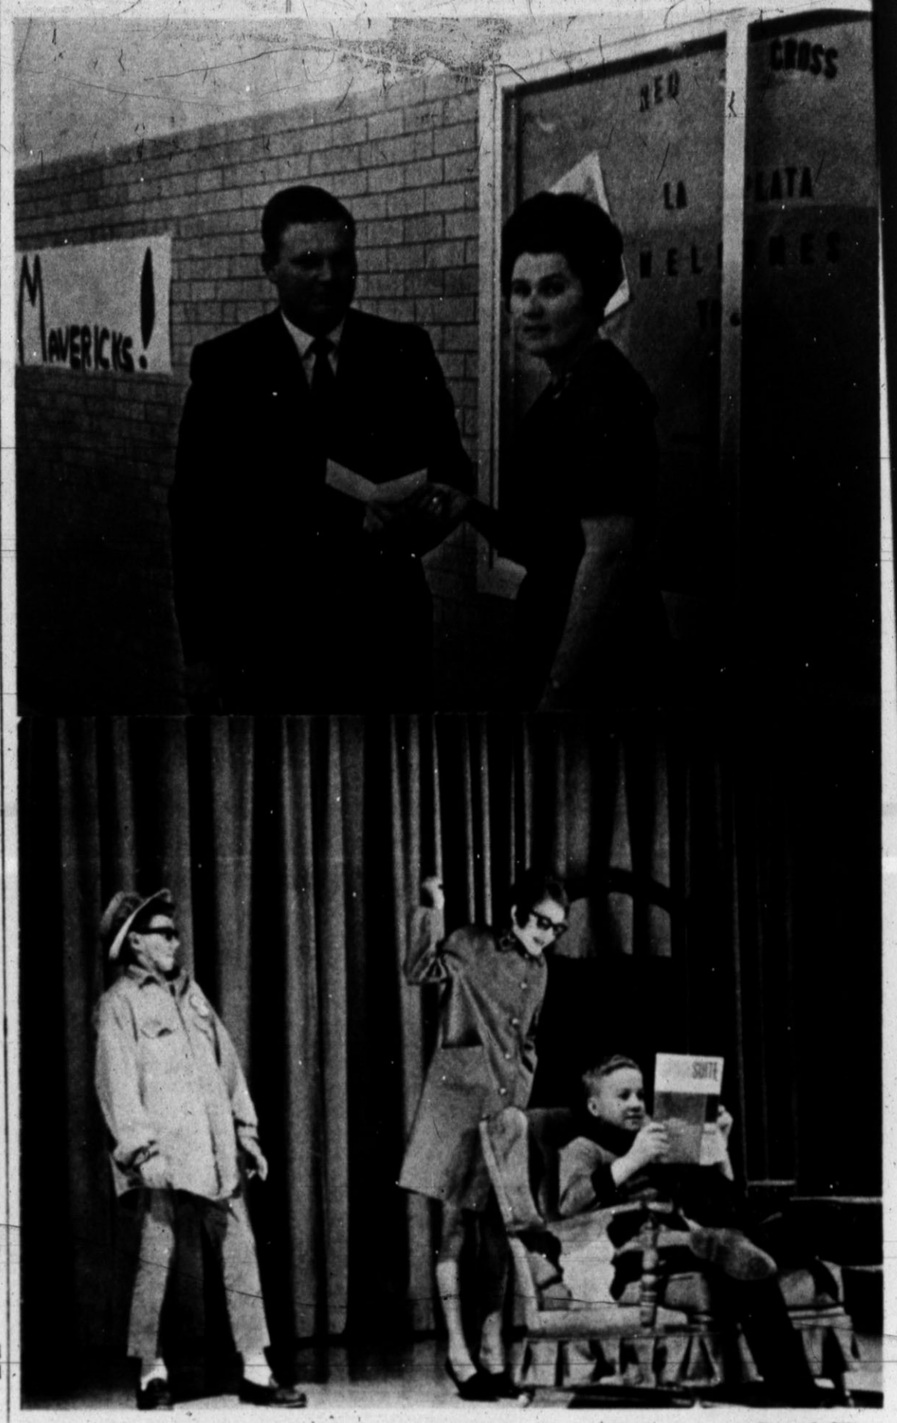

MINNEAPOLIS—In the Biblical account of the flood, Genesis 7:4 says it lasted 61 days, while Genesis 8:13 says a year and 10 days.

This is among the many factual items cited by Dr. Claus Westermann in a new book, "Handbook of the Old Testament," published by Augsburg. The flood story discrepancies, he notes, also include references in Genesis 6:19 to a pair of every animal being taken into the ark, while Genesis 7:2 refers to seven pairs of every clean animal and two pairs of every unclean animal.

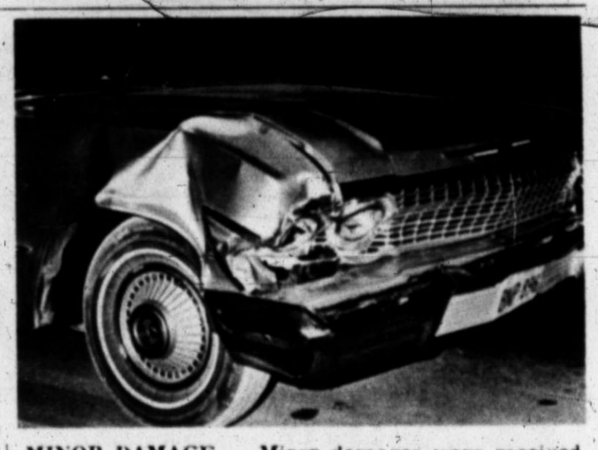

'KING' COLE RECORDS STILL SELL

HOLLYWOOD—The long-playing records of Nat "King" Cole have sold near 4 million copies and singles have sold nearly 200,000 copies, since his death on Feb. 15, 1965.

The release, on Oct. 30 this year, of "The Beautiful Ballads" is the eighth Cole album marketed since his death. In those eight albums, approximately one third of the material had not been released on records during Cole's lifetime.

MINOR DAMAGE — Minor damages were received by two cars, this 1963 Chevrolet and a 1961 Rambler in a collision occuring at 8:05 p.m. Thursday on north 25 Mile Ave. Slight injuries were suffered by a passenger of each outo.

The story of P. K. Wrigley and THE LOCOMOTIVE

One day P. K. Wrigley was riding on a train with a friend and the conversation turned to the chewing gum business. The friend, who had an eye for saving a penny, suggested now that Wrigley chewing gum was so well known and had such a large distribution that it might be wise to dispense with the advertising, save that expense and make that much additional profit.

"I could ask the conductor of this train the same question," replied the financial genius, "This train is now going 60 miles per hour, so why not disconnect the engine? Advertising in merchandising is what a locomotive is to a train. It is the power which keeps it going."

According to Wick Fowler in the Denton Record-Chronicle, the cost of living index is going out of sight this winter, now that the deer season has been extended two days.

And Emmett Milburn who calls himself the old hot-rod trader, figures to get his Thanksgiving turkey the hard way. He's going down to Menard Thursday to hunt the wild fowl. He'll probably come home with the Turk — but just in case he doesn't, I'll volunteer to buy him a hamburger when he gets home.

Emmett has a trailer house down at Menard and goes down almost every year to do a little hunting. He enjoys it about as much as anyone we know.

It hardly seems possible that Christmas should be so near, but we understand that Christmas decorations will be going up next weekend. Actually, there are only 29 shopping days until Christmas.

—HB—

The Hereford Whitefaces came through with flying colors Friday night and played one of the best games of the season. Although they lost to the powerful Dumas Demons, we think they demonstrated the spirit that it takes to mold a fine ball club. We also believe that our coaching staff is the best that we have had in years and with this combination, you can bet that the Hereford team will be hard to beat in following years.

—HB—

Interest in the Texas-Texas A&M game coming Thursday is at a fever pitch, with Aggies scouring the countryside trying to find tickets for the tift. We're betting it will be a game that will be remembered for years to come.

—HB—

And speaking of Aggies, the following editorial was clipped from the Cross Plains Review, Jack Scott, Editor. We think it is worth reprinting here.

"Bad jokes about Texas A&M are losing popularity. It's not because of any improvement in the Aggie image brought about by a battery of public relations men. It's all due to a custom that is as much a part of the school's tradition as Revillle or the Ross Volunteers.

"Aggies are not allowed to wear their hair long, like girls, and as a result hippies are not attracted to the campus. The student body therefore becomes what the average American's idea of collegians should be, the kind of young men who still respect the flag, carry their cards with honor and with duty calls join others of their kind in such faraway places as Vietnam.

"Texas A&M provided America's fighting men with more officers during World War II than did West Point.

"Hail to the Texas Aggies, this from one of their newest converts. — Jack Scott, The Cross Plains Review."

—HB—

And hail to Jack Scott for his kind remarks.

—HB—

Our congratulations to John Douglas Pitman, who was honored last night during the Federal Land Bank banquet. John Douglas has been a real supporter of our community and has contributed more than his share in making Hereford and Deaf Smith County one of the leading areas in the nation.

He's not the type of man who seeks recognition for his good deeds, and perhaps because of this many people do not know of the many things he has done. But it is men like John Douglas who keep the community moving ahead. Hereford is fortunate to have many men like John Douglas — and we think this is the key to our phenominal growth over the years.

It's sad, but true, that a tax hike will take more out of you than a Boy Scout hike.

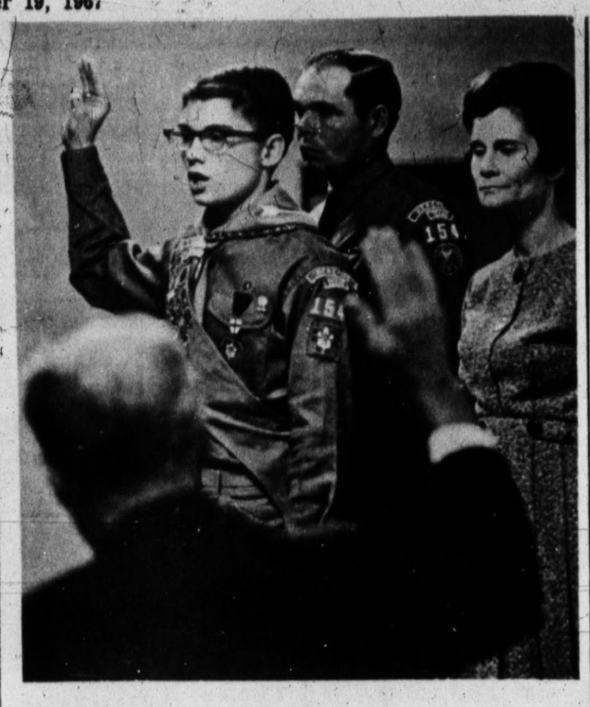

—HB—

By the way, Hereford is going to be facing many issues in the coming months that may tax all our present facilities and you can bet that a tax boost of some kind will be forthcoming. And this may not be popular, but we must remember that any city that is growing is faced with a like situation. Certainly, the increased revenue from new homes and new businesses will add must money to the till, but money for sewer improvements, street improvements, street improvements, new schools, new roads and new developments is always spent before the revenue begins rolling in. And this is what generally gets our governmental agencies in a bind, forcing them to raise more money.

It's a hard situation, but one that we will always have to face. And one thing you might remember — particularly if you're in the age group that no longer has children in school — someone like yourself helped to educate you and your children. Few people actually pay enough taxes during the years their children are being educated to offset the cost of that education. It takes the help of everyone.

—HB—

We suppose it's human nature to complain about taxes, but the tax we pay on the local level is the biggest bargain we will ever get. We hope the situation remains such that we will always be able to handle our local government from the local level.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Splitting Heirs

The contesting of a will is one of the more exciting forms of courtroom melodrama. To the spectator, and to the newspaper reader, it may offer scandal, emotion, and suspense.

But to those who are involved in a will contest, the experience may be both grim and sorrowful. All too often, a court battle over the estate of a deceased has split once-devoted families into bitter enemies.

The reason is that the issues in such a battle ("undue influence"? "mental incompetence"?) are usually issues that touch the very vitals of family life.

Did Father love one daughter more than the other? Did a son pamper him in his old age out of kindness, or out of a secret mercenary motive? Was his brother just a friendly adviser, or a financial master?

Obviously a will contest is worth preventing, if only to avoid washing the family's dirty linen in court.

The best way is to take certain precautions at the time the will is written — precautions which a skilled lawyer can tailor to fit the individual situation.

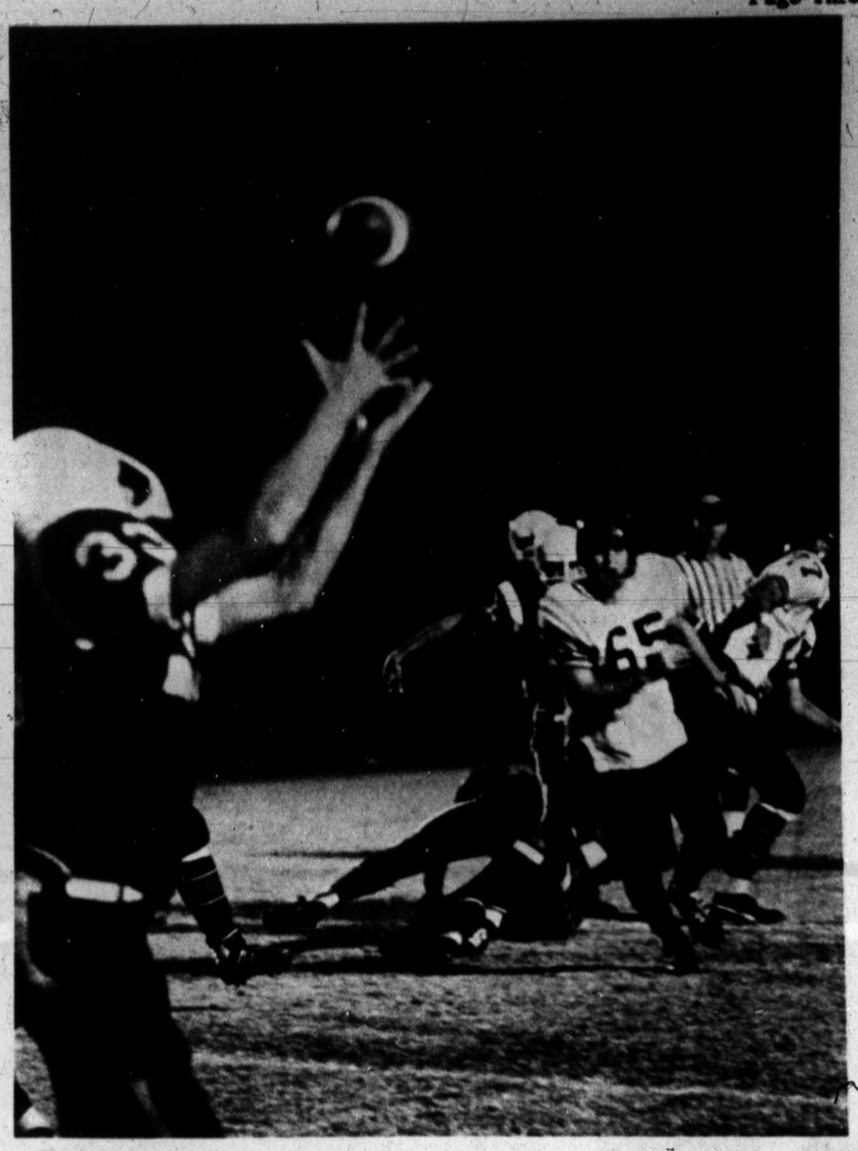

For example, it may be wise to avoid making unusual, "unnatural" bequests. Thus, a will that left more to a man's stepchildren than to his own children not only led to a court fight but also helped convince a jury that the man was incompetent when he made the will.

Another precaution may be to include explanations along with the terms of the will. Suppose a man wants to favor a daughter over a son. He may defuse the son's resentment by explaining that, while he loves them both alike, he fears that the daughter will need more financial help.

Still another possible precaution, when there might be a question of the person's mental competence, is to have evidence prepared—just in case. Medical examinations, extra witnesses, perhaps even tape recordings or movies may, by showing soundness of mind, some day discourage a will contest.

One fact cannot be escaped: the maker of the will won't be around when the will comes up for probate. Nevertheless, his care and foresight may still be the means of preserving harmony among his heirs.

To them, this can be the most important, and kindest, bequest of all.

NEW YORK — W. R. Grace & Co.'s Agricultural Products Division announce plans for the construction of a feed supplement mill at Billings, Mont. Construction of the 30,000-ton per year plant will begin this month with completion slated for mid-1968.

The new facility will offer range and feedlot feed supplement products under the Farr Better Feed trademark directly from mill to customers within a 250-mile radius of Billings. Farr currently provides quality products and extensive nutritional and technological support to customers from plants located at Lucerne, Colo.; Hereford and Garden City, Kan.

R. M. Davidson has been named Montana regional manager with responsibility for the Billings mill, Mr. Davidson, a native of the state of Montana and a former resident of Billings, has been associated with Farr Better Feeds since 1966.

Billings was chosen as the site for Grace's new feed plant because of its central location in the fertile Yellowstone Valley which produces the major portion of Montana's total beef population as well as abundant crops which serve as sources of grain and roughage feeds for cattle. The Industrial Development Commission at the Billings Chamber of Commerce was instrumental in Grace's decision to build its facility at the designated site.

The proposed plant will be fully automated in accordance with a basic design successfully installed at the company's HEREford and Garden city plans by the M-E-C Company of Neodesha, Kans. M-E-C will have similar responsibility including the construction fot eh Montana mill. The new plant's design allows for a doubling of capacity to meet new market requirements.

Cut soft folls into slices that are about 1 ½ inches thick. Spread thecut surfaces generously with butter and toast under the broiler. These tidbits are delicious with soup or salads.

Marlin was undefeated. Mayhew wanted to play Anson will forever be the Class B champion of Texas schoolboy football. Today it is Class AA and couldn't defend its title even if the occasion arose.

No two parts of the human body are so closely related and dependent upon one another as the heart and brain, says Dr. Daniel E. Schneider in his book Psychoanalysis of Heart Attack. He is the well known author of The Image of the Heart.

His latest book, written in a bold new vein, shows intensive study and analysis of case histories. He deals with both the physical heart and the spiritual heart (brain connection) and conditions that might cause a heart attack.

He includes literature to show the past vague approach to this subject written by Shakespeare, Poe and Stevenson. The works of some of the earlier novelists are also included. The doctor uses Lady Macbeth's madness and Poe's raven poem as examples.

Critics consider this writing a rare and interesting approach and a major contribution toward heart disease. Since this disease is one of America's greatest killers it behooves us all, in self defense, to learn as much about it as we can. The book is written so as to appeal to both doctors and the layman.

Through case analysis and reoccuring dreams of pateints he makes fascinating reports and gives conclusions. The doctor also gives new interpretations of various phrases of our civilization, past and present, of some of the oddities found in people and their personality developments.

Another book of special interest for women is by Sherwin A. Kaufman M: D. entitled The Ageless Woman. Facts are given to aid and encourage them in longevity, youth and beauth. It is slanted particularily toward the woman of middle age or nearing that mark. The book eals with both the physical and emotional phases. An unexpected addition is the cultural and anthropological data which is given to show that none of woman's present problems are new to society.

TED PICKED BOSO X

RALEIGH, N. C. — Guests at last winter's hot stove league banquet here must have thought Ted Williams was kidding. He picked the Boston Red Sox to win the 1967 American League pennant.

It was something the fans here wanted to hear, especially since the Bosox star left fielder, Carl Yastrzemski, began his organized baseball career here as a shortstop in 1959. Yaz hit .377 that season to lead the Carolina League in hitting.

Class B Formerly Had State Playoffs

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
AP —SPORTS WRITER

It was all unofficial but back in 1926 Texas high school football had a Class B state champon. There has been some agitation through the years to have an official race. Obviously, however, this may never come about.

Class B schools have enrollment of 114 or less and always have had a manpower problem. Some don't have enough players for 11-man football and have to drop back to Six and Eight-Man.

There are now four state playoffs — Classes AAAA, AAA, AA and A. The latter is for schools 115 to 225. There is no manpower difficulties in the top three classes but Class A has it and Class B has it even mo and Class B has it even more.

Actually, there is a strong possibility that Class A eventually will eliminate a state championship race because the schools are decreasing due to consolidations. Consolidations also are taking a toll in Class B.

While manpower is the major problem for the Class B's, the financial aspects also must be considered. Many of the Class B. schools don't have the gates to pay expenses of the regular campaign much less for travel over the State in the playoffs.

R. J. Kidd, director of the Texas Interscholastic League, says there are Class B schools that won't clear $100 per game. The school board has to pick up the deficits.

The plan for a Class B state has been submitted to a referendum because there are not want it, say Interscholastic League officials.

The League operates through what is known as the Advisory Council. This group is made up of school administrators in all classes. It meets each year to consider what, if any, changes are to be made.

The Class B state championship idea has been considered by the Council a couple of times in the past several years. "Not educationally sound," said the schoolmen. Six of the 22 members of the Council are from Class B schools. Only one of the B men favored a state playoff.

If ever enough come to the support of a B playoff, it will be submitted to a vote. But that seems far away.

While there once was a B state championship game, it did not find its way into Interscholastic League records.

Eck Curtis, one of the early coaches now retired, instigated it. Curtis had an undefeated team at Anson when the smaller schools had been forbidden to compete with the best. In fact, it was 1926 when such schools as Anson, Itasca, Lorena, et all, were told they could no contest for the state championship. Previously, all had been in one class.

But Curtis read the League rule that said Class B schools played to bi-district championships (now they go to regional titles) but did not specificially say they could not play behond that.

Dewey Mayhew, who was to become one of the state's great coaches at Abilene, was handling Marlin that year. And since it couldn't play such schools as Waco of its area because the latter was considered too large,

THE FAMILY LAWYER

The Catch-All Crime

Sassing a policeman. Using obscene language in a church. Clanging a school bell in the dead of night.

Each of these acts, even though different in nature, has at one time or another been held to be the same offense: "breach of the peace."

In fact, every crime used to be described as a breach of the peace. Gradually, over the years, emphasis has shifted to the special categories of crime, like "murder" or "arson" or "theft."

But it is still true today that, when an act does not fit into a special category, it may nevertheless be punishable under the general heading of breach of the peace —the catch-all crime.

Being only a misdemeanor, breach of the peace is often thought of as a pretty minor matter. True, the penalty is minor. But basic constitutional issues may be involved.

Such as: When does a lawful demonstration turn into an unlawful breach of the peace? When does lawful persuasion turn into an unlawful breach of the peace?

In one case, a member of a religious sect offended two pedestrians in the street by trying to sell them his controversial literature.

However, when charged with a breach of the peace, he was exonerated on the ground that he had used no force and had gone away when rebuffed. The court said the preaching of religious doctrine is given broad leeway under the First Amendment.

But in another case, religious zealots invaded a hotel on a Sunday morning, pounded on various doors, and insisted on talking to people who wanted only to sleep.

This time, the court decided that persuasion had gone too far. Finding the defendants guilty of a breach of the peace, the court said:

"We are aware of no decision that freedom of religion carries with it a freedom to disturb the peace of others in the manner shown here."

In short, breach of the peace marks out a vital boundary between one man's liberty and another man's tranquillity. It is society's device for guarding "that invisible sense of security for which all governments are instituted."

Basketball Season Begins Tuesday

Basketball at Hereford High School will get underway next Tuesday at 6:15 p. m. when the 'B" team cagers meet the Dimmitt Bobcats in Dimmitt. The varsity game will follow at 8 p. m.

The two local junior high schools will get into basketball action on Nov. 30, when Stanton plays Gattis Junior High and La Plata meets Marshal Junior High, both in Clovis, N. M.

Practice sessions for the varsity and 'B" team have been going on since Oct. 15, but several boys still were participating in football. Head Coach Cuby Kitchens said Friday that 12 players are still involved in football, five of those boys being varsity players. Some 30 boys have signed up for basketball.

Jim Childers will be the only starter on the varsity back from last year's action. Childers is expected to be the tallest player, standing 6'4". Other seniors returning include David Kelly, Sid Shaw, Barry Johnson, Bobby Burwick, and Glenn Thomas. All but Burwick and Thomas are lettermen.

Average height of the team at full strength will be about 6'1".

Kitchens said the workouts have been going very well considering the height of the boys working out. 'We are a little inexperienced," said Kitchens, "Most of the boys are sophomores, or straight from junior high." The coach added that the 'hustling" was real fine, and the boys are doing a good job so far.

Hereford will have a 'Pretty strong schedule," as Coach Kitchens puts it. The cagers will face six AAAA schools before the end of their non-conference season. Also a new school, Brownfield, has been added to the list of Hereford's opponents. The Whitefaces had a 9-15 record last year.

The "B" team will have Santry Rush Pery Mays and Willie Holmes as forwards, with Paul Henson and Scott Neville as guards. The squad finished their football season a week earlier than the varsity, and have been working out since then.

Kitchens noted that starting times of "B" team games would be 6:15 and varsity play would get underway at 8 p. m.

As yet, the junior high teams have not started practicing, although La Plata plans to start Monday. Both will play at Clovis November 30. Game time is 5 p. m.

According to coaches at the junior high schools, about 20 boys from each class have signed up to play basketball.

Hereford's first home game will be with Palo Duro, on November 28.

Auction Farce Is Program For Kiwanians

Johnny Cornelius, Tony Malouf and Karl French were special guests Thursday at the regular noon meeting of the Kiwanis Club, which had a surprise program as the highlight of the meeting.

The three boys are captains of the Hereford High School football team, and were congratulated for their efforts during the season and given club encouragement for the game with Dumas.

Donning stetson hats, John Gilliland and program chairman Bobby Owens acted as auctioneers and, taking turns about, sold items "mysteriously acquired" to highest bidders in the audience. Items sold for outrageous prices included a doll reportedly having belonged to one Kiwanian, a football, a pair of men's overalls which had been washed "one time only," a summer straw hat which was much used, Perry Ray's barbering license, a pharmaceutical class ring belonging to Jim Arney, and other equally surprising and funny items.

Owners of the items were high bidders, but they did not always buy the items. Some were sold to other sharp shoppers who outbidded the owners. The program was climaxed by the auctioning of a sportscoat and white tie belonging to Bobby Owens by members Clint Formby and Dean Herring. Owens was not only top bidders for the items, but raised his own bid, and laughingly mentioned while making out his check that while the other bidders had received "good buys," he had not.

The auction was held in an effort to raise funds to be used to purchase gifts for the ladies when the club holds its Ladies Night soon.

Funeral Is Held In Chapel Here

Funeral services for William Menter, 53, of Route 5, who died in a local hospital Friday after a long illness, were conducted in Rose Chapel of Gilliland Funeral Home Saturday afternoon by C. W. Allen, a Church of Christ minister.

Born Jan. 28, 1914, in Paris, Tex., Mr. Mentor came to this county in 1957 from Amarillo and was employed as a service station attendant. He married Febie Jones at Clovis, N. M., in 1958. He was a member of the Church of Christ.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by five stepchildren and four half-brothers.

SET RIDING RECORD

DENVER — Don Lewis, 29-year-old jockey from El Paso, Tex., rode 84 winners at Centennial Track last summer breaking a record that was set 10 years ago at the track.

SOLD! TO THE HIGHEST BIDDER — John Gilliland and Bobby Owens, Kiwanians and auctioneers, in that order, sell a football to the highest bidder in a program which raised money for the Kiwanis Club through the auctioning of items surreptitiously obtained by the men. Owners of the items were high bidders.

20 Wrecks Occur During October

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 20 accidents on rural highways in Deaf Smith County during the month of October, according to Sergeant W. E. Wells, Highway Patrol Supervisor of the area.

These crashes resulted in one person killed, seven persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $13,200.

The rural accident summary for this county during the first ten months of 1967 shows a total of 95 accidents resulting in four persons killed, 43 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $78,140.

The last two days of October have proved that winter is here. Your vehicle needs winterizing. Get the jump on bad weather by having your vehicle safety inspected by an authorized garage to help assure safe mechanical performance in the months ahead. Then check to see that antifreeze has been installed in your radiator; also, snow tires or tire chains and ice scraper are handy, for "Today's inspection is tomorrow's protection."

(1) Slow down and leave more space between cars.

(2) Keep windows clear — turn on lights to help others.

(3) Drive extra slow on turns intersections, and crest of hills

(4) When braking, pump to avoid locking wheels in skid

County Hospital Large Donor In Recruiting Drive

Deaf Smith County Hospital and the hospital Medical staff was a major donor through the Texas Hospital Education and Research Foundation to aid in an expanded effort among Texas professional and paramedical career fields to recruit more youth into related fields.

The recruitment effort was unanimously endorsed by member hospitals of the Texas Hospital Association, when that body's House of Delegates adopted a minimum Health Careers Program budget of $200,000 per annum for at least the next five years.

This action, in effect, raised membership dues by 50 per cent to match those funds that had previously been made available to the THA and Research Foundation's program by philanthropic donors, individual hospitals and the Association.

More funds will still be required from individuals and organizations, as well as industry, to recruit enough young people into the health career area to assure adequate staffing of the state's medical facilities in the months and years ahead, according to Gordon Epperson, THA president.

In taking the action to provide funds for the careers program, the House of Delegates also took note of the many hospitals throughout the state that have, through the years, provided training facilities and instruction, from their own funds, to train nurses and technicians who are now employed in the state.

"Certainly these hospitals are to be commended for their dedication and effort to train personnel for their own facility and their neighbors," Epperson said

The local hospital is among hundreds of medical and industrial donors from numerous Texas cities aiding in the recruitment and training efforts.

Food Sampled, Recipes Exchanged At Meeting

A tasting table and recipe exchange featured the meeting of Young Homemakers of Texas Thursday afternoon in the high school homemaking rooms, where Mrs. Larry Dobbs and Ms. Tommy Harbin were hostesses.

A variety of food was ready for sampling, as each member brought her favorite dish and the recipe for it.

Mrs. Raymond Gerk gave the program, a demonstration of decoupage and a display of wall hangings made by the process.

Pictures and such documents as copies of the U.S. Constitution and the hand-written version of the Star-Spangled Banner had been used by Mrs. Gerk in attractive arrangements, mounted on wood and finished in a lasting antique effect. She explained steps in peparing wood, placing pictures and applying the finish.

Final arrangements were made for a bake sale to be held at Coopers Market Wednesday, featuring food for the Thanksgiving dinner. Announcement was made that sale of pecans to benefit the club treasury is beginning.

Long Teaching Career Honored

A Sunday School teacher in Baptist Churches for more than 50 years, Mrs. A.L. Manjeot will be honored at a reception in her home, 303 Westhaven, this afternoon when members of First Baptist Kings Daughters Class are hostesses.

Mrs. Manjeot has taught that class of women since 1960. Her father, the late Ben S. Howton, was a pioneer Baptist preacher who worked in rural churches of this area many years, and Gladys Howton began teaching children's classes by the time she was in high school.

The family moved here in 1915 and Gladys finished high school in Hereford. She was employed several years as deputy district and county clerk, and in that capacity issued her own marriage license in 1921, when she married Arthur Lloyd Manjeot.

He had come here from Kansas and they went to live in that state a few years before returning to Hereford. Another move was made in 1931, when they went to Elida, N.M. and resided until 1939.

The Manjeots have a son, Lt. Col. Lloyd H. Manjeot, who is stationed now in Okinawa, and two grandchildren, Beverly Gail and Lloyd Jr.

Wherever she lived, Gladys Manjeot was active in churches, especially in work with youth. There was no Baptist church in Wichita, Kan. when that was her home, so she taught in the Christian Sunday School.

In addition to work in Sunday School, she organized the Sunbeams, Girls Auxiliary and Young Women's Auxiliary in the Hereford church and has served in district and state youth and Women's Missionary Union offices.

She has spoken in youth assemblies and camps, and remembers one occasion when she talked to almost 900 young people in a camp at Ceta Glen. As state young people's leader she wrote pageants, plays and other program material. She has also written a history of Hereford First Baptist Church.

The same type of work in the church at Elida occupied her while she lived there, and she started a town library there.

In addition to serving her church, she has been active in Federated Women's Clubs, Garden Clubs, Order of Eastern Star and on various civic committees.

Receiving guests with her at the reception this afternoon will be Mrs. James D. Gouldy, president of Kings Daughters Class, Mrs. G.S. Wheeler and Mrs. Otis Lee. Mmes. Alma Scott, J.R. Lee and Mrs. Jo Steele Lively of Lubbock. Alma Scott, J. R. Burwick and Bonnie Duke will be at the guest register.

Mrs. Charles Laing and Mrs. Jimmie Gillentine, who was president of the first adult class Mrs. Manjeot taught, will pour tea in turn.

Table appointments will be those sent to Mrs. Manjeot by her son from his vairous posts, an Army-Navy cloth from Hong-Kong, silverware from Germany, a flower container from Okinawa to hold pink and lavendar blossoms. Flowers from her garden will decorate the entire house.

All active members of the hostess class will be in the houseparty.

Mrs. A. L. Manjeot

All-Day Session Looks To Show

A full day of activity by Bud-To-Blossom Garden Club members began Friday morning with dirt-gardener tasks of preparing peony beds at Community Center for the winter.

Mrs. Ernest Kendall is chairman of that project, one undertaken by the club for city beautification. Mrs. Hubert Stoerner and Mrs. Herbet Bruns were hostesses for the day, all spent at Community Center.

The program was in preparation for the club's participation in the flower show, Magic of Christmas, to be staged in Sugarland Mall Dec. 2 jointly with Hereford Garden Club and the Hereford Art Guild.

House plants, to which a major section of the show will be devoted, were studied in the morning. Mrs. R. N. Yarbro spoke of fragrant and unusual plants to be grown in homes, naming in the latter category the Venus' flytrap which catches insects on its leaves, and aloe vera, which has medicinal properties.

Mrs. Sam Long discussed ways to display house plants effectively.

After a salad luncheon, the afternoon was spent in making Christmas arrangements and criticizing a group which had previously been made by a group of members.

Mrs. Bill Gentry told of the use of mechanics in arranging evergreen branches and other plant material for Christmas decoration in the home.

This section of the program was also preparatory to the flower show. Mrs. Bill Nelson, co-chairman of the show, was in charge of the workshop period.

Mrs. Bruce T. Brown, Bud-to-Blossom president, is ex-officio show chairman with Mrs. Ray Johnson of Hereford Garden Club.

Guests of the club Friday were Mmes. Lloyd Neville, Ross Cooley, Gene Parsley and Weldon Stephan. Other members present were Mmes. Lloyd Sharp, Delmo Williams, G.S. Wheeler, Robinson and Louis Orleans.

Casa de Amigos

By Keith Schroyer

During the last few weeks, some of the basic differences between migrant and non-migrant children in the areas of home life, educational opportunities, health, and English usuage have been discussed. It was mentioned how these differences often result in different learning levels among the children and almost always cause the migrant child to drop out of school.

It was also explained how home enviornment coupled with educational deficiency from the earliest years, prevent, to a great extent, attempts by the child to move out of this situation.

More than likely, many of you have been in contact with children and adults from just such an environment. In some cases, jobs have been offered, educations made available, and opportunities presented only to find a lack of enthusiasm and desire on the part of the intended recipient. Such a response is usually written off as laziness. In some cases this is probably true. But in many other cases, laziness is not the answer.

Instead this lack of enthusiasm is an example of lost hope. A person who has never succeeded soon stops believing he can succeed. Why try something when it will not work out! Why invite another failure! These are the questions going through his mind.

The same thing goes for the child that is failing in school. The answer is not that the children of migrants are all unable to learn as a result of heredity. There is another answer.

A child will never learn unless the incentive to learn is present. There is no incentive if the child sees no point to education or does not believe it will help him.

The man or child living in poverty is living in a world very different from the world we live in. A part of this world is a different concept of himself.

A person must have a sense of worth and dignity. He must find what he feels to be a meaningful place in the society in which he lives. Think for a moment about a young man who sees before him a life of poverty, believing that no effort on his part can break the cycle. He has little opportunity to sustain life decently and little hope that hard work will pay of.

Among the ideals upon which our society is based, are that every person has a right to the dignity of his humanity, every child should have the opportunity to learn and then find work which is rewarding. These ideals are not a part of the young man's world.

The development of this concept of himself and the world around him, is one of the most damaging effects poverty can have on a person.

To successfully help someone move out of this situation requires more than opening up new opportunities. It requires motivation, and this is very difficult to accomplish. You are fighting a life time of experiences when you attempt to change a persons concept of himself and his potential. This has never been an easy task. It requires time, patience, and concern. But more than this, it requires a close personal contact on a one to one basis; a friendship.

This job is best done by people in the community rather than by volunteers at the Casa de Amigos who are small in number and here for only a short time. Until the concerned citizens of a community demonstrate their concern through personal contact with the poor, the problem will exist.

Rites Held For Former Resident

Ben M. Sudduth, 83, former resident of this area, died last Monday in a Mansfield hospital. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon in First Baptist Church at Mansfield, and burial was in the Mansfield Cemetery.

He is survived by his wife, two sons, two daughters, 12 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The Sudduths moved to Mansfield about eight years ago from this area where they farmed most of the time. They also operated a laundry business in Hereford and Mr. Sudduth was in real estate business.

Their last residence here was about four miles south of town. The Sudduths were active in Frio Baptist Church and community activities. Among local relatives is Oscar Easley, nephew of Mrs. Sudduth.

Letter To The Editor

I enjoyed the opportunity to visit with you the other night at Hereford.

I have just read your account of my talk in The Hereford Brand. I want you to know that I think this was the best job of reporting one of my talks I have ever read.

More often I cringe at the reports, even though the writer may have been a political friend Sometimes I do not even recognize the quotations when they put words into my mouth or when they are taken out of context. Still worse are those which misplace the emphasis. Your story conveyed exactly the message I hoped to present. Thank you for such a good job and for being able to come to the meeting.

Sincerely,
H. M. Baggarly

Talk of Texas

By JACK MAGUIRE

FIRST THANKSGIVING — Texas celebrated its first official Thanksgiving Day in 1849 — 15 years before President Lincoln proclaimed a national day of thanks.

George T. Woods, second governor of Texas, proclaimed the first Thursday in December "as a day of thanksgiving to Almighty God". Later, when President Lincoln set the last Thursday in November as the nation's first official Thanksgiving Day, Texas governors changed their proclamations to conform.

Governor Woods' original proclamation fo the first Thanksgiving is in the State Archives at Austin.

IT'S THE LAW — For many years, Lubbock levied an annual ocupation tax on its citizens that increases as the morality of their business or profesional activity seemed to decrease.

Lawyers ,for example ,paid only $5 annually for the privilege of practicing ,but fortune tellers were nicked for $10. Bankers and brokers paid $50 per year, and a circus was charged $250 for each performance. Any promoter that wanted to stage a fight between animals could do so without fear of the law, but it cost him a tax of $500.

• • • •

POET'S CORNER — Longefellow and Emerson are adjoining stations on the Southern Pacific's main line through the Trans-Pecos area of West Texas.

• • • •

WHITE GOLD — Cotton not only is Texas' oldest cash crop, but it has been worth an estimated $29 billion to the state's farmers.

Cabeza de Vaca found the Indians cultivating a native variety in 1530, and Spanish missionaries in the 1700's put a cotton patch alongside most of their chapels.

Cotton became the state's number one crop in 1821 when Colonel J. E. Groce produced 100 bales at his Hempstead plantation, hauled it by ox cart to Harisburg and shipped it to market in New Orleans.

• • • •

CLEANLINESS NOT REQUIRED — Apparently there was nothing in the regulations at early Texas Army posts that required troops to wash.

In a report on Fort Duncan, near Eagle Pass, W. R. Steinmentz, the assitant urgeon, wrote in 1875:

"There are no regular requirements in regard to bathing except for the prisoners, who are required to bathe in the (Rio Grande) river every Sunday morning when the weather permits."

When — or if — the troops bathed is not reported.

TRAVELING TEXAS — Roma, in Starr County, looks nothing like the Italian city for which it was named in 1768.

It does, however, look like a village common to the interior of Mexico. As a result, it is often used as an outdoor movie set. All of the exterior shots in the movie, "Vive Zapata," were all made in Roma.

She Ignores Schedule

By SUE COLEMAN

A household schedule, with each task done at its allotted time, is an excellent thing, Mrs. Gene McWhirter grants you, but not for her. She learned a good many years ago that the household of a law enforcement officer can't be operated on any sort of routine.

PLANNING AHEAD for recreation as well as for work often is disappointing, says the wife of a Deaf Smith County deputy sheriff who came to his job here late in the summer. So she has found it best to take whatever offers of family entertainment on the spur of the moment instead of making long-range plans.

Meals are served at the McWhirter home, 825 Brevard, on somewhat that same plan and housework is done whenever it is convenient.

Since the son, 10-year-old Ricky, is in school his meals, homework and sleeping hours have their own schedule, but Mr. and Mrs. McWhirter adjust their plans to fit his work, and he is on call "as long as he can be reached".

HIS FAMILY moved to Hereford Sept. 24 after McWhirter began work with the sheriff's department in August. He is regularly on night duty and so sleeps in the daytime.

Usually he has breakfast while Mrs. McWhirter is eating lunch and Ricky lunches at school; the evening meal is the only one the family atempts to have together, and that isn't always possible.

Irregular hours is an inconvenience that the lawman's wife has become accustomed to, but it has bothered her less than the danger which is inherent in his job.

"The first two or three years I was worried all the time" she says, "but I have learned to live with the idea I might be in danger — it's no worse than a lot of other jobs where a worker could easily be hurt"!

THE McWHIRTERS came here from Lacy-Lakeview, near Waco, where both had lived almost all their lives. He has been in law enforcement work nine years, and was chief of police at Lacy-Lakeview before the move to Hereford.

Slender, brown-haired Mrs. McWhirter grew up as Ruth Truehitt in the town where she was born. She was one of the teenage brides who left school to be married.

She has worked at times outside her home, several years for International Paper Co. and for a bakery, but at present devotes all her time to household interests. She and her husband both like sports and enjoy bowling, although they are limited in time.

"NOW THAT RICKY is big enough to want to go to sports events, I often go with him", she adds. She has been a member of bowling leagues in her home town.

Painting is another hobby which interests her, although she says she "only dabbles for enjoyment". She gives her husband credit for being the best artist, saying that he draws well although he doesn't paint.

The other place which has been home to the McWhirters since their marriage is Snyder. They lived there two years, several years after that West Texas city enjoyed a spurt of growth during an oil boom in the area.

Beginning to get acquainted with her neighbors as well as other members of the sheriff's staff and their families, the Central Texan believes she is going to find Hereford a pleasant place to live.

Mrs. Gene McWhirter

Hereford Swings As The Pendulums Do!

Clocks make a fascinating collection and these particular clocks are right out of the 19th century. Bought by Kenneth M. Cowan for his private collection, these clocks are all 100 years old or over and show some brilliant designs. Such as this beautiful French timepiece of bronze set on black marble. The French were great ones in the use of marble as most of their clocks are either placed on a base of marble or made completely in marble.

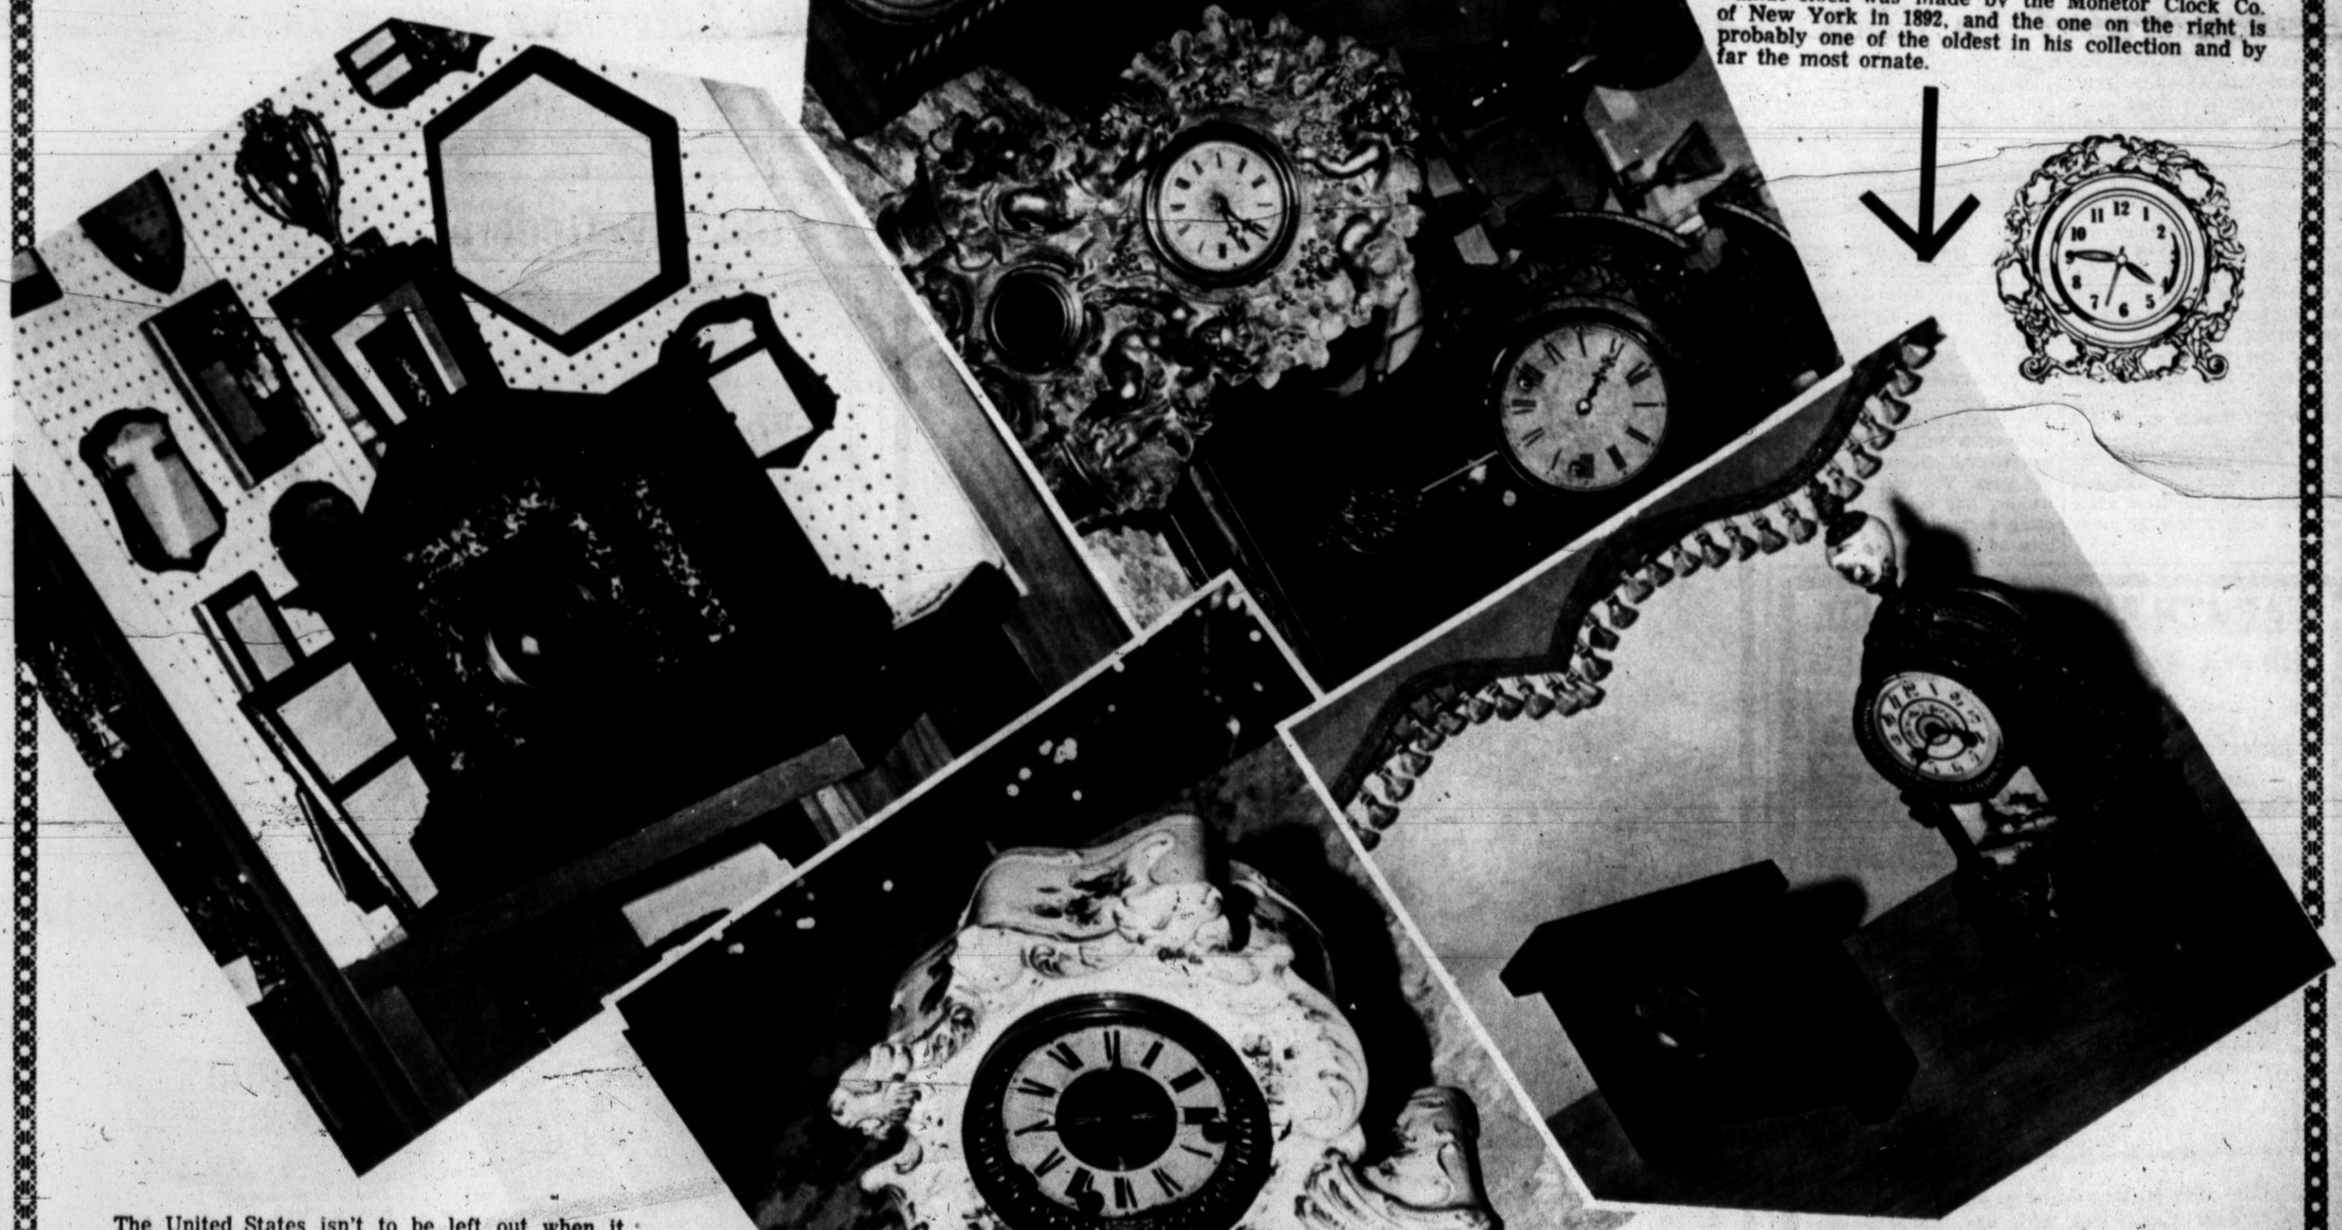

Little girls in bronze amuse themselves butterfly hunting as they stand on a light colored marble base. The legs supporting the clock are cast in Finiel brass.

This pink and black marble clock weighs at least 125 pounds and out does them all with its exposed excapement. It also is French.

The three clocks situated on the table are also American structures. Made in 1852 of all Pewter, and set off with Cherabs, (middle) is a true relic of American history. To the right is a beautiful clock made out of Walnut wood and decorated with leaf designs. Left-An Ingrahan made in 1869 out of laminated wood.

A French walnut clock and a pink and green china clock decorate the home of the Cowan's. The walnut clock was made by the Monetor Clock Co. of New York in 1892, and the one on the right is probably one of the oldest in his collection and by far the most ornate.

The United States isn't to be left out when it comes to master pieces as you can see from this stunning china piece with lions head design surrounded with green trim. The clock has a Roman Numeral Dial and is an Anconia.

Christmas Gift Ideas Shared By Speaker To Hereford Study Club

Central idea of Christmas, said Mrs. T. E. Braddy as she spoke to Hereford Study Club Thursday evening on the subject, Christmas Ideas, is embodied in the quotation, "God so loved the world that he gave. ."

Giving is still the test of the true Christmas spirit, the speaker continued, and worth of the the gift is measured by the thought which goes unto it, rather than its cost.

She showed a number of simple, attractive gifts and decorative pieces which she and her daughter, Mrs. Lisle Patton, had made. A cholorful jar to fill with homemade cookies and a beautiful rose candle were among the gift items. A unique decoration was made with computer cards folded and sprayed with paint to resemble leaves.

Each one at the meeting was given typed instructions for making the articles shown, also a Christmas cookbook which Mrs. Braddy made with her own favorite recipes.

Mrs. Labry Ballard and Mrs. J. W. Witherspoon were hostesses in the Ballard home. Christmas party plans were outlined by Mrs. N. D. Bartlett, hostess chairman. The party and gift exchange will be at Pioneer Gas Flame Room at 7:30 p. m. Dec. 14.

Techniques Of Making Holiday Decorations Demonstrated To Club

Toy soldiers and a drum were accessories used with Christmas greenery in a doors swag, one of the decorative pieces made by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lankford in a demonstration for L'Allegra Study Club Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Don Zimmerman was hostess at the Lankford Flower Shop. A Christmas card holder, a wreath made with a straw hat and pine cones, table decoration both formal and casual, were among the home decorations made during the seasonable program.

Bows and flowers made of a new burlap ribbon were also shown. Club members were instructed in making corsages, and each made one from white mums to wear during the meeting.

Mrs. Don Chaney was welcomed as a new member. The business period featured reports on the recent benefit luncheon given by the club to raise funds for its welfare project. Approximately 300 persons attended the annual luncheon, at Communtiy Center.

Mmes. Dennis Lomas, Bill Warrick, Bud Snyder, J. H. McCrary, Hazen Woods, Sam Lelly, Danny Martin, Cameon Gault Jimmy Conkwright, Buddy Bloomer and Noble Ballard were other members present.

To give a rolled shoulder of lamb extra zest, before roasting insert small slivers of garlic in the meat. You can do this by making tiny cuts in the lamb, using a small sharp knife, and then adding the garlic.

Circle And Guild Meet Jointly At St. Anthony's For Program

A guest speaker and guest moderator presented the program for the Antonion Circle of St. Anthony's Church Thursday, when Guild members of the church met jointly with the Circle. Christmas plans were made in the business session.

Mrs. John Nishimuta was introduced by Mrs. Teddy Fangman to demonstrate gift items made with papier mache. She showed unusual articles made by herself and several others, and explained the process of work with papier mache.

She also told how to mount pictures, maps or papers on wood and varnish them for an antique finish, a process called decoupage. Mrs. Fangman presented the speaker a gift.

Brother John Poncia, S. A., was introduced by Mrs. Paul Zinser, president, as guest moderator. He spoke on new responsibilities of leadership given lay people in the Catholic Church, urging acceptance of the changes and self-examination, saying "Before we can renew the church we must re-[illegible]."

Mrs. Kenneth Walterscheid, delegate, reported on the recent DCCW convention at Plainview; Mmes. Louis Orleans, Jonny Cloud, Elmer Reinart and Ed Loerwald added brief comments.

Announcement was made that women of St. Anthony's Church will cooperate in a rummage sale to be held by United Church Women's meetings and women of Hereford Nov. 25. Members were urged to attend United Church Women's meeting and plans were made to invite the group to St. Anthony's for a meeting soon.

Next circle meeting will be the annual Christmas party with all women of the parish invited. Also, the Circle will give a Christmas party at Kings Manor and any others who wish to help as hostesses are asked to notify the chairman, Mrs. Kenneth Walterscheid. Christmas cards are to be sent to men in service from St. Anthony's parish.

Refreshments in Thanksgiving theme were served to 54 members and guests by Mmes. Joe Frank Huckert, Boyd Foster, Donald Paetzold and Dick Zinser, hostesses. Mrs. C.J. Berend, a Guild member, received the door prize.

Thanksgiving Is Old Rite

By Mrs. Argen Draper
Home Demonstration Agent

Thanksgiving Day has a long and unique history. Days set apart for special thanksgiving to the Lord were known to the Israelites and are mentioned throughout the Bible.

THE FIRST THANKSGIVING Day held in North America was conducted by an English minister named Walfall, in the year 1578, on the shores of Newfoundland. This minister accompanied the expedition which brought the first English colony to settle on the North American shores.

The earliest record of any observance of a similar service within the present territory of the United States was held by the Popham Colony settled on the coast of fMaine in August, 1607. The first Thanksgiving on the shores of Newfoundland and Maine only consumed a few hours and did not color the whole day.

REAL ORIGIN of Thanksgiving as a day specially set apart for prayer and rejoicing must be attributed to Governor Bradford, the first governor of Massachusetts Colony.

In gratitude for the plenteous harvest of 1621, following a period of great depression, Governor Bradford proclaimed a day of thanksgiving to be observed on December 13 of that year.

Four men were sent out in search of game. Here early in history the turkey made his appearance; the housewives made all the goodies possible from their limited supply of foods.

AT THE DAWN of this first Thanksgiving Day, one of the cannons that crowned the hill-top of this smally colony thundered forth a salute. Colonists marched to the meeting house and gave solemn and sincere thanks for their blessings.

During the celebration, 90 friendly Indians appeared bringing an additional feast of vension. This day of thanksgiving was lengthened into three.

Thanksgiving Day is celebrated differently in different parts of our country, but the spirit of harvest is still the reason for all people to thank God for blessings. Gene Fooks says: "Let's add thanksliving to thanksgiving."

MANY GOOD WISHES for a fine Thanksgiving Day.

LET US GIVE THANKS
Garnett Ann Schultz

Let us give thanks for this wonderful day,
For the gift of life and the hope to pray,
The heavens fair and the earth so sweet,
The friends so dear that we chance to meet.
Let us give thanks for the sunshine bright,
The light of dawn and the stars at night,
The springtime rain and the summer breeze,
The mountains, the streams and the spreading trees.
Let us give thanks for these blessings rare,
For a family dear and the love we share,
The little ones and the smiles they bring,
Such a goodly portion of everything.
Let us give thanks in a humble way
With a peace in our hearts as we kneel to pray;
Our eyes and our souls ever looking above. . .
Let us give thanks to our God of love!

Present Generation Lacks Initiative

We get confused from time to time when we attempt to analize world and national conditions, and we presume the feeling is universal. So far, at least, no one seems to have come up with an adequate answer.

Currently, Hereford is establishing a series of adult courses in an effort to train people for gainful employment. This is a worthwhile project, which some people believe affords an answer to many of our national unemployment and service problems. Without doubt, it is a step in the right direction.

At the same time, we wonder if some of our troubles do not have deeper roots? Take shoe shines, for instance. Hereford has two — maybe three places — where one can get his shoes shined and the cost is now generally 40 cents. Back a few years ago, when shines were a dime, there were dozens of places which offered them, and many youngsters set up thir own places on Saturday's to accrue enough spending money for the coming week.

Nor is the problem peculiar to Hereford. In such a congested place as the Amarillo airport, for instance, there is one shine boy and he is frequently not on the job. It is equally difficult to get a shine in the cities where thousands and thousands of people are drawing unemployment because they canot find a job.

While we admit that shining shoes is definitely an art, we also feel that it can be learned rapidly, and that a fellow who honestly wants to work would, and could, learn the trade within a brief period. Our point is that ability, though important, is not always the prime factor; more important, still what happened to our initiative? To that Yankee ingenuity for which this nation became so famous?

Are we, as a people, to follow in the steps of many other nations and do only the things which we are told to do by officials and leaders? Has our initiative disappeared with the frontiers of our great land? Or, perhaps, will someone invent a highly efficient mechanical gadget which will shine shoes for five or ten cents, and eliminate the need for shine boys?

Yes, things are changing and, whether it is god or bad, the greatest change of all seems to be within ourselves.

The Promised Land Isn't So Wonderful

I'M A NEGRO HACK DRIVER in Chicago, homesick for Yazoo City, Miss.

Paul Harvey hailed my cab the other evening at the airport. He's been where I'd lived, and we got to talking and he asked me to write it out.

I grew up and married in Mississippi. All I knew about the world beyond the river was what I'd learned in school and seen in movies or been told by outside preachers who sometimes came to our church.

And no matter how poorly the cotton crop or how scant the peanuts or how tedious my post office job back home, we always had a dream to live with. Someday we'd make it north. Someday there'd be plenty for us and equality for our kids.

Someday we'd pick up and head north to where wages are $5 an hour and everybody shares everything together and sits together and there's no difference.

WELL, HERE I AM in the Promised Land. But wages are not $5 an hour. I average $2 — before deductions.

In Chicago we got a walk-up in a dingy South Side apartment house. The big city doesn't segregate you because you're black; it segregates you because you're you.

So I moved from the back of a bus to the front of a cab.

BACK HOME we had a patch of green to play on and a patch of blue to breathe in.

Weather like everybody wants, we had.

We rarely locked our doors in Yazoo City. We were never afraid. Here we lock ourselves in and we've still afraid.

Chicago Negroes don't get it when I tell them how we had better schools and churches in the South than here, how poor folks down there eat better than most anybody up here, how we always had the camelias and azaleas and magnolias in the yard.

I can't afford flowers now, even one at a time. Besides, cut flowers wilt. I don't blame 'em.

I WENT HOME for a family funeral last month and the kinsfolk still live with the dream. I asked them to keep it. Live with that dream. Everybody ought to have one dream.

"Don't wake up," I said.

They tell me we got self-respect up here, but I don't feel it.

And our two just out of grade school got no creek to fish in and no yard to play in and from somewhere they're pickin' up more resentment and ugly hate than I ever remember.

I can't explain to anybody, even my own kids, who've never lived with our Southern ways about the way white people back home call me "Jesse" with more respect than people up here call me "Mister."

WHY DON'T I MOVE the family back to the South again? I may. We talked about it.

But Mississippi can't be the same again. We can have the green and the blue again. And the good cookin' and the "Morning,' Jesse, how's your family?" — we could return to that.

But we can't get our dream back; it's gone. And that's bad. Everybody ought to have a dream.

Striving To Improve

The newspaper business is peculiar in as much as it to some extent reflects the tempo of the community and the people it serves. Consequently, we were delighted and most appreciative of the large turnout at The Brand's open house last Sunday.

A large percent of those who went through the plant expressed amazement at some of the difficulties involved in publishing a newspaper; others said we should have had an open house long, long ago. All of which sounds as if we are very poor on public relations — and we canot conscientiously refute the indictment.

Meanwhile, we do agree with our visitors in that we finally have sufficient room in which to work, modern surroundings, and first class equipment. Furthermore, we expect these things to place us in a position to produce a truly outstanding newspaper, which the community certainly deserves.

Thanks to everyone for your consideration and tolerence. We hope to improve from time to time — even in the public relations department.

Nepotism In Federal Service May Be Nixed By Congress

By BERT MILLS

Washington, D. C. — Congress seems likely to pass legislation this year to outlaw nepotism in the Federal Service, this ending the time-honored practice of government officials appointing relatives to jobs.

Many states have laws against nepotism. Some of them date back to the depression when jobs were scarce and state legislatures found it necessary to spread employment in state positions by imposing a limit of one to a family. Several of these state laws have been repealed or amended when found too harsh in their application.

The Federal Government has never had an anti-nepotism statute, or history would have been changed in a number of respects. As Sen. Ralph Yarborough (D., Tex.) pointed out at a recent hearing, there are plenty of examples at the highest level, since Revolutionary War days

General George Washington named a stepson as an aide, only to have him killed at Yorktown. Abraham Lincoln's son served on the staff of General Ulysses S. Grant in the Civil War, while General Robert E. Lee's staff included two sons and a nephew.

More recently, President Franklin D. Roosevelt's son served on FDR's White House staff, President John F. Kennedy named a brother to his Cabinet and a brother-in-law as poverty boss. A son of President Dwight D. Eisenhower served on the White House staff and a brother was named an Ambassador. When Lyndon B. Johnson was a Senator, his brother ran his office.

Target is Postal Jobs

Sponsor of the anti-nepotism legislation is Rep. Neal Smith (D., Iowa). For six years he has been sponsoring such a bill and not even been able to get a hearing. However, one October evening he saw his chance to put across his plan as a floor amendment to a bill raising the pay of all U. S. workers.

The hour was late and attendance was sparse on the House floor. Rep. Smith explained his principal target was the post Office. "Many Postmasters in smaller offices," he said, "will not take a permanent clerk unless their wife is on the eligible list. They have ways to maneuver to hire their relatives on a temporary basis periodically until the list permits them to do what they want."

To the surprise of most observers who have seen Congressional ethics groups duck the nepotism issue, the Smith amendment carried after a debate lasting only a few minutes, and with only three House members participating. The standing vote was 49-33, with more than four-fifths of the membership absent and not voting.

Under such circumstances, the amendment was not given much chance of survival in the Senate. However, Civil Service Commission Chairman John Macy testified before the Senate Committee on Post Office and Civil Service that he agrees with the objective of the Smith plan and complained only that it was "too all-embracing."

That Senate committee has

THE BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed grass farm offers us a business proposition this week which we'll have to decline.

Dear editar:

Why don't you and me go into the public opinion poll business?

I got this idea last night while I was looking over a copy of the daily newspaper which my dog dragged into the yard yesterday afternoon and left there un-torn, didn't like the taste of it, I guess, although I don't know why, you ought to see some of the bones he chews on.

At any rate, over on an inside page there was the result of the latest Gallup Poll. After surveying people clear across the nation, the Poll discovered that the "most urgent problem facing the average man and his family today is money." Of all family problems, it found, "the high cost of living overshadows all other worries of the American people today."

This is the reason you and me ought to start our own public opinion poll. I could have discovered the same results without interviewing a single person or using even a 5-cent stamp, and if you can sell the poll to other newspapers, everything we take in will be net profit, and I can sure use my part to help meet the high cost of living. You bought any tractor parts lately? Been to the hospital? Replaced a picture tube? Fed a growing boy? Bought any dog food?

There are some things a man just knows automatically, and one of them is that regardless of how much he earns, his family is always one jump ahead in needing a little more. Every time he gets into a new income bracket, he discovers his family has been there for months already.

Another thing about this poll we ought to start is that we could use it over and over. Not only is it true that the average consumer is in an economic squeeze today, he was in one yesterday, last year, ten years ago, and most likely will be in one ten years from now. By the time you own one car, your family needs two, and when you swing that, color television comes in and the family next soor has a speedboat.

Let' get this poll going. My tractor is missing out and my t. v. set is flickering.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Poor Brown Votes: Will They Count In 1968?

The Governor's Mansion on Colorado Street in Austin is indeed a stately residence for Texas' highest official. It does have a major drawback in its architecture, however; the Mexican influence is nil, even as far south as Austin. Mexican architecture is reflected in none of the state's office buildings and really nowhere on the grounds. The Mexican influence is not seen attitudes, and it is not reflected in language.

About one-fourth of Texas' population is separated from the Anglos by skin tone, language, and socio-economic status. Mexican-Americans constitute the major part of this group, and their history in Texas dates father back than that of the Anglo.

To many of these Mexican-Americans, John Connally is not the man for the governor's job. Likely as not, they greeted his refusal of a fourth term with some joy. When Connally was in El Paso, he was greeted with boos, hisses, and derogatory remarks. Texas' notorious liberal senator, Ralph Yarborough, received a warm welcome at the same occasion.

Time is making its effect as year after year, the Mexican-American population climbs even higher on the ladder of education and the ladder of politics.

Maybe the Mexican-American has been a little slow, but that doesn't mean he's stupid or that he isn't susceptible to being offended. When the Mexican-American asked for attention on the matter of the minimum wage, the governor rebuked him. Not only has the governor publicly refused to listen to him, but our Anglo citizenry has shown disgust for his religion, his language, and his typical lowly birth. The only time we seem to take a positive interest in Mexican culture is when we can bring tourists to the state through such projects as Hemisfair.

With John Connally out of the goveror's race, Mexican-Americans may stand some chance of getting into a better political situation. Any change that would bring more responsiveness to the needs of this minority group would be in the realm of progress.

Hopefully, more voters from the lower socio-economic groups will gather at the polls in November of 1968. It doesn't cost a cent now to vote, and agitation in the Valley has stirred some to active interests in determining policy of the State of Texas.

It wouldn't hurt us to elect a Mexican governor, who perhaps was also a Roman Catholic and a liberal. And it wouldn't hurt our youngsters to acquire fluent Spanish vocabularies while they are still in grade school. At least the youngsters could be on speaking terms with this less favored population group.

—Larry Fuhrmann

50 YEARS AGO

At a meeting of the ministers of the various churches last Monday afternoon, in the study of the Rev. J. E. McClurkin, it was decided to hold a joint Thanksgiving Service next Thursday November 28 in the big Christian Church, the sermon to be preached by Rev. McClurkin.

At first, the hour was set for ten o'clock in the forenoon but later it was learned that the schools would not let out Thursday morning owing to the loss of valuable time from the "flu," and for that reason it was determined to hold the services at 7:00 in the evening.

The closing days of the War Work campaign were marked with the same intense interest and determined purpose that have characterized the work from the beginning. Never until the last hour of the last day was there the slightest cessation in the efforts of the workers even though it was known by daylight of the opening day the county had passed its original quota and had reached its later goal of $6000. the work went on day after day with men, women, boys and girls, willing, eager, anxious, and each day from all over the county came encouraging reports and a steady stream of pledges until the daily final summing up Monday evening showed a total of $8500, an amount exceeding the most sanguine hopes of the workers, and the term includes practically every man and woman, boy and girl in Deaf Smith County.

Publicity for the Hereford potato industry was received recently when Hereford potatoes were featured on the menu at a regular Wednesday luncheon of the Texas delegation in the Speaker's Dining Room, Washington, D. C.

The potatoes were sent to Congressman Gene Worley by Bob Thompson, president of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce, after Worley had mentioned the subject to Miss Sadie Lee Oliver, county home demonstration agent.

In the last game of the home season, the Hereford Whitefaces will meet the Chiefs of Friona tomorrow night after a two week lay off period, during which games with White Deer and Dalhart were cancelled.

The White Deer game, non-conference, was cancelled because of bad weather, and the Dalhart Wolves, whose season has been a run of straight losses, forfeited their conference contest.

Friona, which has had a poor season, will be out to improve their conference record in the game on the Whiteface field, and Hereford fans feel that the Whitefaces may have suffered from lack of competition in the past two weeks. However, the local boys are out to keep their leading conference record, and hope to go into the final game with Tulia Nov. 6 unscored upon.

Water Laws Listed

The Texas Water Rights Commission announced Thursday that it has begun distribution of reporting forms required by the Water Rights Adjudication Act of 1967.

Persons using public surface water in Texas for any purpose other than for domestic or livestock uses without a permit are required by recent legislative action to file a sworn statement with the Texas Water Rights Commission for recognition of their claim. This must be done no later than September 1, 1969.

The Water Rights Adjudication Act, effective August 28, 1967, provides that all claims of water rights must be recorded with the Water Rights Commission. These claims must be valid under existing law and will be limited to actual use. All water rights are to be adjudicated and administered by the Commission "to the end that the surface water resources of the State may be put to their greatest beneficial use," to quote the new law.

This Act will not affect users of ground water. Users of surface water for domestic or livestock purposes only also will not be affected. The new law applies to and may limit claims to riparian waters, waters diverted or impounded for use other than for domestic and livestock purposes, ". . . claims to water rights under the Irrigation Acts of 1889 and 1895 which were not filed with the State Board of Water Engineers in accordance with the Irrigation Act of 1913, as amended. . ." and all other claims to water rights for which permits or certified filings have not been granted.

Only the maximum volume of water beneficially used by claimants during any one year from 1963 to 1967, inclusive, will be recognized under the new law. If an individual has expanded his water application facilities prior to this Act but has not fully used the facilities, the volume used without waste from 1963 to 1970, inclusive, will be recognized. These individuals will need to file an additional sworn statement on or before July 1, 1971 to include the additional two years.

Water authorities have explained there will never be enough water in Texas for each individual to have an equal share. Therefore, available public waters must be appropriated to individuals based on priority, necessity and legal right. The Water Rights Adjudication Act is designed to protect the rightful users of public waters from waste and unlawful users.

The Act empowers the Commission to adjudicate water rights in the State. Adjudication of a stream may be initiated upon the Commission's own motion, by a petition signed by ten or more claimants of water rights on the same stream, or upon a petition by the Texas Water Development Board.

The new law contains detailed procedures to insure due process and notice. Judicial review of the Commission's final determiniation is mandatory.

The eventual determination in every water right adjudication will be final. The Water Rights Adjudication Act provides, "Except for domestic and livestock purposes or rights subsequently acquired by permit, no water rights shall be recognized in the adjudicated stream or segment unless included in the final decree."

Upon final determination of water rights on a stream, the Commission will issue a certificate of adjudication to each person found to have a water right. All permits for unappropriated water granted after a stream is adjudicated will be administered in the same manner as an adjudicated right.

During drought periods, especially on larger streams, it will be necessary to closely supervise all rights. The Commission will divide the State into water divisions and appoint watermasters to regulate stream flow and water usage. Any person dissatisfied with the actions of a watermaster may appeal to the Commission and then to the courts.

The watermaster and necessary assistants will be paid by the Commission which in turn will be reimbursed by the holders of water rights.

Water users on non-adjudicat- written agreement with the ed streams may enter into a Commission for administration of the stream flow and a special watermaster will be assigned.

The Water Rights Adjudication Act involevs three basic premises. The Act provides for up ter right claims in the State, for the adjudication of these rights on streams upon filing of necessary petitions, and for the administration of adjudicated rights during times of water shortage to insure that rights and priorities are protected.

The Recording Forms may be obtained free of charge from the Texas Water Rights Commission P. O. Box 12396, Capital Station, Austin, Texas 78711.

Dimmitt Chruch To Be Built

DIMMITT-Construction of a $663,000 First Baptist Church was authorized last Sunday by members of the congregation to be built in west Dimmitt.

The congregation authorized a $250,000 capital fund program to get the project underway with the remainder of the money will be supplied by church bonds.

The new church will be built on a 10-acre plot bordering Twelfth Street and Circle Drive, just east of Dimmitt High School. The large, Colonial style building should be completed in 1½ to two years, according to church leaders, who say that final planning will require eight to nine months and consturction will require ten months.

Leading the church's capital fund campaign will be Rev. Leonard Hartley, pastor of Odessa's Sherwood Baptist Church. A. B. Culberson of Ft. Worth will be bonding agents, and McMurtry and Craig of Lubbock are architects of the project.

The 754-member First Baptist Church congregation must raise the quarter of a million dollars before bonds can be sold to finance the remainder.

The new church will be constructed of stone and brick with an auditorium capacity of 565. The building will have two wings which will house classrooms, pastors study, a fellowship hall and kitchen. Plans also call for a large paved parking lot.

now endorsed the amendment, with certain changes, which means final enactment is probable. The Senate unit even voted down a proposed limitation to exclude the President and Vice President. Also, the Senators decided to expand the definition of "relative" to sons-in-law and daughters-in-law, as well as husbands of ladies holding Federal office.

Chairman A. S. Mike Monroney (D., Okla.) confirmed that in its present form, the amendment would prevent President Johnson from appointing son-in-law Pat Nugent to the White House staff. Also, if Shirley Temple Black wins her Congressional race, she could not name her husband to assist her.

Current Office Holders Exempt

The Smith amendment would not be effective retroactively. Those holding Federal jobs to which they were appointed by a relative could continue to serve. But no elected or appointed public official of the U. S., outside the military, could give a government job to any close relative, even a first cousin.

The amendment would apply throughout the Federal service, including Capitol Hill, which is one of the main trouble spots. Of course, there would be nothing to prevent a Senator from persuading another Senator to hire his sister, perhaps on an exchange arrangement for a first cousin.

Thanksgiving

CENTRAL SCHOOL halls show a succession of Thanksgiving pictures, mounted on classroom doors. These youngsters point to the demure Pilgrims which were chosen to decorate their room.

YOUNG AND OLD look forward today to the holiday weekend and the day set aside to express gratitude for blessings large and small. Family gatherings, turkey dinners, worship hours and a recollection of the heritage which has come down from the first Thanksgiving, all are a part of the distinctive American holiday. Elementary schools of the city have taken on a look strongly suggestive of the day and the things for which it stands.

SHIRLEY SCHOOL cafeteria, like others in the city, serves a turkey dinner near Thanksgiving, and a couple of boys look with appreciative eyes at a big bird just taken from the freezer.

AIKMAN PUPILS in a third grade room know how to make a turkey of paper and cardboard, to add to drawings and posters with which they have decorated the walls.

Visting Bride-Elect Complimented With Tea

One of several elaborate parties of this weekend preceding weddings announced for the holidays, a tea at Hereford Country Club Wednesday honored Miss Margaret Ann Cowan of Austin, visiting here with the parents of her fiance, Jim Reinauer.

She and her grandmother, Mrs. Loretta Cowan, were house huests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Reinauer, Harrison Highway, for several days, leaving Friday for their home at Austin.

Reiving guests at the tea, Mrs. Reinauer presented her propective daughter-in-law and Mrs. Cowan. Two aunts of the bridegroom-to-be, Mrs. Fred Reinauer of Oklahoma City and Mrs. Ed Reinauer, were also in the receiving line.

Pretty Miss Cowan, who was celebrating her birthday Wednesday, was dressed in a costume suit of deep green tweed-weave with a cluster of red roses pinned on the lapel.

Her grandmother chose a red suit, the jacket with side fastening, and Mrs. Joe Reinauer also wore red, a straight-line dress with matching jacket. Both had red rose corsages.

Misses Cissy Reinauer and Turrentine invited callers to register.

Scarlet carmations with fern leaves filled a container at the base of each tall moss-green candle in a crystal and silver epergne centering the circular tea table. The table cover was of moss-green net, the full skirt falling to the floor.

Gifts to the bride-to-be were displayed on a long table, covered in red, across the end of the ballroom. The registry table, with a white plume pen in the center, had a green cover.

An out-of-city guest was Mrs. Tony Ward of Oklahoma City.

The visitors from Austin accompanied Mrs. Joe Reinauer, Mrs. Henry Sears and Mrs. Wheeler Sears to Amarillo for luncheon at the Gold Tree Restaur ant Tuesday, with women at-Feeders convention in that city.

Thursday they were taken for a tour of ranches and cropland in this county.

The Cowan-Reinauer wedding will take place Dec. 22 in Austin. Miss Cowan's parents are residing in Brussels, Belgium, where her army officer father is stationed. The bridegroom-elect an ensign in U. S. Naval service, is on duty in Pensacola, Fla.

Another thing about that inconvenient daylight saving time (yes, Oscar, I know it is not in effect now, but the results linger on) is the date for changing back to normal time.

IF WE've got to have the clock moved in summer, it would be much more logical to move it back about the first of September, or if it isn't a federal crime to use some old-fashioned time measures, on equinox, which used to come on Sept. 21 but now falls most anywhere around that date.

To me, the bad thing about making the change at the end of October is, by that time the days are getting enough shorter that it gets dark pretty early even by daylight time.

When we operated on regular time, that phenomenon had occurred so gradually that we were accustomed to earlier and earlier sundowns, and they seemed natural. But when the time suddenly takes a jump of an hour, six o'clock dusk is jarring and adjustment not easy.

IF THE CHANGE were made earlier in the fall, there would still be considerable daylight at the end of a day's work, and we would get used to the shorter evenings in the usual way.

Although it is of no concern to me, I can sympathize with mothers of school children who have to start them off before daylight in the early fall mornings. Changing the time in early September would take care of that, too.

Guess I won't write my congressman about this, considering that congressmen didn't pay any attention to all the protest over using daylight time in the first place.

IT'S BEEN A pleasure recently to meet two Mrs. Walsers that I'd known only by name before.

Mrs. C. R. Walser was at the Pioneer Club lunch Tuesday although she doesn't always attend, and is an associate rather than an active member now; Mrs. Don Walser was at the Madre Mia Club guest night program last week, one of the newer members of that group.

Now I'm going to ask one of them, or Mrs. Guy Walser, whom I already know, whether they are all related, and how. I know that some of the Walsers, at least, have lived hereabout a good many years.

Both Mrs. Easley, whose home is in Hobbs, N. M., and Mrs. Herring, of Clint, are listed in Who's Who In American Art. The exhibit will continue through Dec. 10.

At Panhandle, a sale to benefit the Panhandle Children's Home will be held from 1 to 6 p. m. at the Parish Hall. Items to be sold are from the collection of the late Mrs. Rose Gordon, who died Aug. 31 and left her treasures to the home.

Antiques described as priceless, including pictures, glassware, china, silver, ceramics and statuary, are in the collection gathered over many years in Mrs. Gordon's travels. She had made numerous other gifts to the home, which is directed by Sister M. Valentina to care for homeless children in need of love.

Optimists Plan Xmas Schedule

At the noon meeting of the Hereford Optimist Club Thursday, plans were laid for the annual Christmas tree sale and a Christmas party.

A committee was formed to unload the 1100 trees now in route to Hereford. The site of the Optimist tree sale is the same as last year, next door to Taylor and Sons food store on Park Avenue.

It was decided that next Thursday's meeting would be canceled, because of the Thanks giving holiday.

Plans for a Christmas party were also discussed, and Dec. 14 at 7:30 p. m. was the date set for the event.

She is a music major, a member of the marching and concert bands. Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion B. Yearwood of Hydro, farms there. Miss Langley Honored At Two Pretty Parties

Two of this weekend's several parties for brides-elect complimented Miss Suzanne Langley, here from Lubbock, where she is an instructor in the languages department at Texas Tech, visiting her parents, the Earnest Langleys.

Her marriage to Lt. Daniel George Wall of Reese Air Force Base is to be an event of Dec. 9.

A shower-tea Saturday afternoon in the Ansel McDowell home followed a luncheon at Hereford Country Club, where Mrs. William S. Dameron was hostess and the room decoration recalled Miss Langley's year of study in Austria to prepare for her work as teacher of German.

Mrs. McDowell greeted callers at her door and Miss Langley stood in the receiving line with her mother, her sister Barbara and Mrs. Lynton Allred.

Another sister, Carolyn, was at the guest register table, which held a five-branch crystal epergne with white pompom mums. Blue and green, colors chosen for the wedding, were accented in flower arrangements in the rooms.

Mrs. Ronnie Gray of Lubbock and Miss Camille Langley served tea in the dining room. The table, covered in white, was centered with a large cut-glass bowl of white roses and carnations, set on a gold-rimmed reflector. Gold-banded china was used with silver and crystal appointments.

Tinnin, Clinton West, J. C. Mc-

A special guest was the honoree's maternal grandmother, Mrs. H. E. Richter of Abernathy.

Hostesses with Mrs. McDowell were Mmes. Elmer Kimball, A. T. Mims, Norman Gray, Dale Cracken, Art Stoy, Paul Conaway, Troy Moore, Don Baugous.

Also Mmes. Neil Cooper, Lynton Allred, Howard Beasley, Calvin Edwards, Wayne Edwards, Bert Boomer, Jack Gilliland, Cecil Boyer, Dudley Bayne, Pete Caviness, Kenny Gearn and Orpha Click.

For the luncheon, walls of the Country Club dining room displayed travel posters with Austrian and German scenes, and window boxes gay with flowers and ribbon streamers.

Miniature Austrian houses decorated the table; place cards, menus and good wishes to the engaged couple were written in German. German dishes were served for lunch, climaxed with an elaborate torte with favors baked in it.

Miss Langley's younger sisters, Camille and Carolyn, and Mrs. Dameron's daughters, Kerri and Kimberly, were dressed in colorful Austrian peasant costumes.

Places were laid for the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Richter, Miss Barbara Langley, Mmes. Allred, Wayne Thomas, Mims, Kimball, Jimmie Gillentine, James Witherspoon, McDowell, Bayne, John Aikin and Hazen Woods.

GIFTS FOR SHARING — Stacked on chairs and the floor behind Mrs. M. L. Simpson and Mrs. Delmar Sigle are packages brought to this week's meeting of Pioneer Study Club to be sent to the Amarillo Veterans Hospital, ready for the annual Gift Shop in which patients select gifts to mail for Christmas to their families. Mrs. Simpson was in charge of this project, one of the Christmas sharing activities of the club. Mrs. Sigle is Pioneer president.

Doctor Is Guest Speaker To Club

Dr. Leta Boswell a physican associated with a Canyon clinic, was guest speaker to Bay View Study Club Thursday afternoon when Mrs. Francis Hardwick was hostess in her home.

The visitor spoke on new medical discoveries of especial interest to women. She discussed advances made in work with hormones and their effects on general well-being.

Importance of health examinations in keeping women well was stressed. Dr. Boswell mentioned that tuberculosis is still a dangerous disease, by no means completely conquered, and that no one should forego an annual checkup in this area.

Mrs. Jack Gililland introduced the speaker. Mrs. R. B. Miller presided for business and reminded members to bring to the next meeting, Dec. 7 their Christmas gifts for patients at the Wichita Falls State Hospital; this is a yearly project of Bay View Club.

Holiday cakes and coffee were served to those mentioned and Mmes. A. M. Jones, W. S. Kerr, Carl Perrin, J. W. Kirby, and Carl Swanson.

H.D. Recreation Workshop Held For Clubs Here

Games, songs and other entertainment for club meetings and family parties were practiced in a recreation workshop for Home Demonstration Club members of this county, at the Bull Barn recently.

Mrs. Viola Williams, recreation chairman for the county H. D. Council, Mrs. Elton Sorrells, workshop chairman, and Argen Draper, County H. D. Agent, conducted the session, attended by recreation chairmen and visitors from the clubs.

Games for various occasions, quiet or active, for various age groups and mixed ages, pencil games, songs and an inspirational ceremony with the theme, "Let There Be Light" were presented. Games with a Thanksgiving theme were learned for use at family parties which most clubs are giving during the holiday period.

"HOUSE OF FLOWERS"

NEW YORK — A revised version of "House of Flowers" is being prepared by Truman Capote.

The musical ran briefly on Broadway in 1955, but the man who wrote the story to a score by Harold Arlen feels that production got away from his original idea of "a simple thing."

Slated for the central role is Josephine Premice.

Shower Prelude To Friday Vows

A prelude to her wedding next Friday, a tea-shower honoring Miss Cynthia Knox was given in the home of Mrs.N. D. Bartlett Friday afternoon. Miss Knox and Keith Henderson are to be married in Central Church of Christ here.

Hostesses included Mmes. Lloyd McGee, Chester Wiggains, Maurice Tannahill, Richard Winget, Don Robinson, S. L. Garrison, Don Chaney, J. C. Reese, Wilbur Axe, Dale Young, Alvin Smith, Ed Wilson and Garland Solomon.

Greeted by Mrs. Bartlett, guests were received by the honoree; her mother, Mrs. Marvin Knox, and her fiance's mother, Mrs. Melvin M. Henderson.

Her wedding colors, moss green and gold, appeared in room decorations of autumn flowers. Moss green candles lighted the tea table, which was covered in white satin with a net overskirt. Touches of gold were used in the appointments.

Misses Glenda Sue Dillard and Daun Hopson alternated at the table and the book where callers registered during tea hours.

How good is State Farm's "good deal" in auto insurance?

JUST ADD UP THE FACTS:

FACT 1—State Farm paid $10,000,000 in dividends to Texas policyholders last year.

FACT 2—...three times greater than any other car insurer.

FACT 3—Eligible State Farm policyholders are getting back sixteen and two-thirds percent more in dividends than Texas' second place insurer.

Cotton Harvest Gains Momentum

The South Plains cotton harvest continued to gain momentum during the past week and the volume of samples received at the three USDA Classing Ofices was the highest for any week this season, according to W. K. Palmer, in charge of the USDA Cotton Classing Office in Lubbock.

Sample receipt increased to 22,000 daily at the three area classing office and are expected to continue to increase as the cotton harvest approaches peak activity.

The three South Plains offices classed 46,000 samples during the week ending Wednesday. The Lubbock Office classed 31,000 of this total, the Brownfield Office 12,000 and the Lamesa Ofice 3,000.

Through Wednesday the Lubbock Office had classed 83,000 samples of this year's crop, the Brownfield Office 39,000 and the Lamesa Office 10,000. This brought the total for the season for the three offices to 132,000. Through November 15th last year the three South Plains classing offices had classed 352,000 samples of the 1966 crop.

Cotton prices paid South Plains farmers, as reported by the Consumer and Marketing Service of the USDA, ranged from $3.25 per bale over the loan for high grade, short staple cotton to $75.00 per bale over the loan for high grade cotton Inch — 24.60 Middling 1-5-32-longer.
