Tear Gas, Gunfire Halts Bombay Riot

Laborers Protest Deaths Of 23 'Peaceful Liberators'

BOMBAY — UP — Indian police Tuesday used tear gas bombs and fired warning shots over the heads of huge rioting mobs demonstrating throughout Bombay in protest of the deaths Monday of 23 "peaceful liberators" who attempted to march into Portuguese Goa.

Bombay police said the situation was "getting out of hand" as tens of thousands of laborers left their jobs and joined the growing throngs of demonstrators.

Gunfire and tear gas were used twice during the morning to keep the angry mobs under control.

Stall Bus Service
The rioters stalled all bus services in the city and stoned the empty and idled buses. All trains also were forced to a standstill and Bombay was virtually paralyzed as demonstrators ranged the streets forcing shops and stores to close.

The demonstrations began early Tuesday when mobs began assembling in front of the Portuguese consulate to protest the action of Portuguese border guards in Goa who fired on the unarmed "liberation marchers" who attempted to enter the Portuguese enclave on India's west coast.

Authorities ordered 600 police to protect the Portuguese consulate while a dispatch from Goa said authorities there were rushing reinforcements to the Indian border against Indian demonstrators "using arms."

Charge of Brutality
In New Delhi, Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru said the Indian victims of Monday's clashes which took at least 23 lives were "fired at by Portuguese authorities seated on chairs." He accused Portuguese police of being "brutal and uncivilized."

Nehru declared "this kind of action has no argument" and warned that the "Goa story will not end until our object is achieved"—the union of the 400-year-old Portuguese enclave with the Indian government.

At the same time United Press correspondent James Berry reported from Goa that police rushed reinforcements to two points along the jungle border between India and Goa after receiving reports the Indians were using arms.

The peaceful invasion of Goa was being carried out by "Gyagrahitis"—believers in peaceful resistance — and Tuesday's report was the first that any of them were armed. Nehru, in a speech before parliament, emphasized their peaceful nature.

Police Halt Anti-Peron Demonstration

BUENOS AIRES — UP — Federal police guarded Tuesday against a possible new wave of demonstrations against the government of President Juan D. Peron.

In Buenos Aires Monday night, police used tear gas to break up an anti-Peron demonstration virtually on the doorstep of the presidential palace. Clashes also were reported in Cordoba.

Street battles flared even while police were rounding up members of an alleged conspiracy to assassinate Peron. According to a possible new wave of demonstrations against the government of President Juan D. Peron.

In the general confusion expected to follow the attacks, Peron was to be assassinated. Also marked for death according to police, was army minister Gen. Franklin Lucreo who commanded Argentine security forces that crushed the Navy-led revolt two months ago.

Stolen Ammo Is Recovered

LONDON — UP — Scotland Yard Tuesday announced the recovery of "the bulk of not all" arms and ammunition stolen Saturday's daring raid by members of the Irish Republican army on Arborfield Barracks, near London.

Detectives recovered the loot in a building in London's Caledonia Road area.

The case was broken early Tuesday by detectives who had been keeping watch on a vacant store building.

"We have recovered the bulk, if not all, of the weapons and ammunition stolen in the Arborfield raid," a Scotland Yard spokesman said.

Britain had been seriously alarmed by two daring raids within 48 hours on British barracks and arsenals and British police warned that the outlawed IRA apparently was attempting to stockpile arms for a large-scale future attempt to end the partition of Ireland.

The recovered arms were found packed in a number of wooden cases inside the vacant shop.

Twelve detectives of Scotland Yard's special branch entered the store and seized the arms which, they said, apparently was prepared for shipment elsewhere.

It's twice as easy to get in wrong when you think you're always right.

An Illinois restaurant employe was arrested for carrying a small axe and a blackjack. Gosh, you have to do something with some of the steaks these days.

Radiation Meet Opens In Geneva

By WILLIAM C. SEXTON
GENEVA — UP — The United States announced Tuesday that President Eisenhower wants another atoms-for-peace conference to carry on "the great beginning" in international atomic cooperation.

Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, said the President had authorized him to express the United States' hope that the work begun here will continue.

"I've just received a message from him (Mr. Eisenhower) authorizing me to state that it is his hope that a second conference will be convened at a later date," Strauss told the American Club of Geneva in an informal luncheon address.

Interval Indicated
"The interval between the conferences," Strauss said, "might be as much as two or three years and will, of course, be gauged to allow for a significant accumulation of new scientific knowledge."

Some 200 American residents of Geneva, conference delegates and newsmen heard the United States call for another atoms-for-peace meeting.

It was the first such proposal by any of the 72 governments represented at the first atoms-for-peace congress. But many delegates have expressed the private belief that progress made here has been such that the conference should continue.

Strauss said the President "is highly gratified" at the results of the 12-day session.

Biologists, Physicians Meet
World famous biologists and physicians were meeting in Geneva Tuesday, at the request of the United Nations, to study the effects of atomic radiation on future generations of humanity.

The urgent conference was called by the UN World Health Organization (WHO) after scientists repeatedly told the atoms-for-peace conference of the dangers ahead through exposure to radiation.

The problem began occupying the attention of the world when the United States and Soviet Russia tested atomic and hydrogen

U.S. Sets Plan To Abolish Truce Umpires

By WILLIAM GALBRAITH
WASHINGTON — UP — The United States has come up with a two-stage plan which eventually would abolish the Korean Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission, informed sources said Tuesday.

South Korea has branded Czech and Polish members of the armistice inspection teams as spies and demanded they leave Republic of Korea territory. Violent riots against the Communist members of the commission have threatened to undermine the armistice.

The U.S. plan, in its first stage, would cut down on freedom of movement of Communist and other truce inspectors but would not bar them immediately from South Korean territory. However, the United States hopes that after some months of the first stage all nations concerned would decide the commission no longer is worth maintaining and agree to abolish it.

The plan must be accepted by many nations concerned, including the United Nations' Korean allies, the Communists, Sweden and Switzerland — the other two nations on the commission — and South Korea. There is little chance it can win such wide acceptance unless South Korea stops its riotous efforts to force Red truce inspectors out of its territory.

The United States, meantime, saw little hope that progress toward reunification of Korea can be made soon despite renewed Communist calls for a Far Eastern conference to consider the Korean problem. Red Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai issued such an appeal Monday in a radio broadcast.

Final Shot Clinic Slated Wednesday

The final Salk-polio vaccine make-up clinic for the summer will be held tomorrow from 8:30 a.m. in Highland General Hospital.

The second shipment of vaccine arrived by plane in Amarillo July 21, where it was picked up by Ray Evans, treasurer of Gray County Foundation, beginning the program of second polio shots for first and second grade youngsters.

To date about 619 persons have received their second shots in Gray County.

Committee members are: Floyd Imel, Irvin Cole, R. E. McKernan, Mrs. Inez Carter, Mrs. Rufe Jordan, and E. C. Sidwell.

Bridge Over Rio Grande Is Saved

By UNITED PRESS
Mexican officials dynamited approaches to the low-level truck bridge over the Rio Grande at Laredo Monday night to save the bridge and said Tuesday the attempt was successful.

The Rio Grande, fed by up stream rains, crested during the night at its highest level since last year's disastrous flood that washed out the permanent bridge over the river at Laredo.

The temporary, pontoon bridge used by passenger cars was closed to vehicular traffic from 10 p.m. Monday night to 5:30 a.m. Tuesday because of the flood danger.

It remained open to pedestrian traffic and was not damaged.

Officials said the approaches to the truck bridge were badly damaged on both sides and will take several days to rebuild. But they said Mexico's prompt dynamiting of the approaches on its side saved the structure of the bridge itself.

A permanent replacement for the washed out bridge is under construction.

A total of 14 inches of rain fell at Laredo late Monday, and Laredo was the only point in the state reporting moisture except Galveston, where 80 inches fell during the night.

Forecasters said there may be a few widely scattered thunderstorms in the southern and western sections of the state through Wednesday, but mostly in the afternoons.

Otherwise the state will continue fair and warm. There were no 100-degree temperatures reported in Texas Monday. The highest temperature was 97 degrees at Laredo and Cotulla.

Low temperatures early Friday ranged from 60 degrees at Lubbock to 78 at Corpus Christi.

City To Enforce Weed Cutting Law

The city commissioners this morning reviewed an old ordinance having to do with the cutting of weeds in the city limits.

The ordinance, passed in 1926, was discovered by Ed Vicarz, city secretary, and saved the city the expense of passing another ordinance. The commissioners decided to enforce it if necessary.

The ordinance provides that the city manager will notify any property owner with excessive weed growth, 10 inches or over on city lots, of the necessity of destroying them. If the weeds are not destroyed within 10 days following the notice, the city will mow them and file a lien on the lot.

The ordinance also provides for a $50 fine for failure to destroy the weeds.

Mayor Lynn Boyd expressed a desire that citizens of Pampa will cut the weeds on their own and not necessitate the enforcement of the ordinance.

The commissioners approved the conducting of a traffic count at

Army To Build Radar Stations In Arctic

WASHINGTON — UP — The Army announced Tuesday that 3,000 troops are pushing toward the Arctic frontier with enough building material to construct more than 50 radar stations and other sites on the continent's air raid warning net.

The announcement, giving the first indication of the number of locations planned for the distant early warning (DEW) line, said the specially trained troops will unload more than 200,000 tons of construction material and supplies along the largely unexplored high Arctic coast line.

The DEW line is a joint U.S.-Canadian venture, being financed by this country, designed to provide four to six hours warning of approaching enemy bombers attacks along the polar approaches to North America.

Seven radar stations already are operating in the American segment of the line along the north coast of Alaska. Others are functioning in Greenland at the opposite end of the net which is approximately 3,000 miles long. Work now is beginning to fill in the large gap across the top of Canada.

The Army said it has two task forces in the shipping operation, which must be completed by late September before polar ice makes further navigation impossible.

One force left Seattle last month and soon will pass Point Barrow, Alaska, headed toward Canada's central Arctic areas. The other force, broken into two groups, is operating along the coast of Baffin island and northeastern Canada, having sailed from Norfolk, Va.

The Navy, in a recent announcement, described the northern movement as the largest Arctic operations ever staged. The operation involves 117 ships carrying supplies for the DEW line as well as Alaska and Greenland air bases.

City To Enforce Weed Cutting Law

"You know how it is when a guy is drunk," Smith told Detective Lt. Roy Tangye. "I didn't mean to kill her."

"I came home half drunk and told her I was going to Denver and get a job. She told me I wasn't going. I picked up my clothes and left the house."

Pampa Bank Buys Hospital Bonds

First National Bank of Pampa and First Southwest Co. of Dallas were low bidders on the Highland General Hospital bonds as result of action taken in County Commissioners Court yesterday.

The two firms, bidding together, made a low bid of 2.1396 per cent interest.

The bonds will mature in 1965. A total of 11 bids were made on the bonds. Most of the bids represented two or three firms.

Contracts on the construction will be let as soon as the architects draw up the plans for the hospital addition.

If it comes from a Hardware Store, we have it Lewis Hardware.

Air Observer Hurt in Crash

TORRANCE, Calif. —UP— Lt. Myrtle Kirby, 27-year-old Civil Air Patrol observer injured in a plane crash, was flown to Brooks hospital in San Antonio, Tex., Monday for treatment of third degree burns. Doctors here said she had a "fair chance of surviving."

A team of medical experts placed the critically injured mother of two children into an aluminum tank designed for burn victims. The tank was flown here earlier from San Antonio in a "race against death" after Mrs. Kirby sustained burns over 90 per cent of her body.

Mrs. Kirby and Maj. Davis C. Cochran, 27, pilot, crashed Saturday on the lawn of the Torrance fire station after their plane apparently hit a downdraft about 100 feet from the ground.

Pampa Boy Completes Auction School

Col. David Miller, 17, a Junior in Pampa High School, graduated from the Reich American School of auctioneering at Mason City, Iowa, Saturday.

Miller, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lee Miller, 4 miles west of town on the Berger Highway, completed a course of study in general sales, livestock judging, voice and oratory and was granted a diploma entitling him to the privileges of being a qualified auctioneer.

Miller, who says that he is "available" any time, will sell anything of value including livestock, general farm sales, real estate or anything else.

Miller was one of 101 people attending school who graduated last Saturday. The people represent 28 states in the U.S. and six there from Canada. The class included one woman.

Miller says, "I would be very happy to get any charity sales for churches or other organizations... free of charge."

GOP Opens Election Campaign

WASHINGTON —UP— The Republican party has kicked off the 1956 presidential election campaign a year early in the "greatest ever" drive to get out the Republican vote.

The GOP national committee said Sunday five party strategists have sent letters to 10,000 rank and file workers to shoot for these goals for 1956:

Election of a GOP president; election of a Republican House and Senate; a "resurgence" of Republican strength in local and state elections and "an all-out effort to broaden the base of the Republican party."

A seven-point organization program called for two party leaders to attend a "campaign school" there next month and then return home to pass on the fine points of election-year strategy to local party officials.

The GOP committee described the organization program as "the greatest ever attempted at the national level a year in advance of the presidential election."

Princess Anne Five Years Old

ABERDEEN, Scotland —UP— Princess Anne was five years old Monday but public attention bypassed the occasion to focus on a more important birthday next Sunday, that of Princess Margaret.

Princess Margaret, the world's most eligible bachelor girl, becomes 25 on that date and will be old enough to marry without the royal consent of her sister, the queen.

Princess Anne, a flaxen-haired child who likes to steal the show whenever she appears in public with her parents, will have her fifth birthday party at nearby Balmoral Castle.

New FHA Loan Plan Discussed

James Gouley, area supervisor of Farmers Home Administration, led an informal discussion of the great plains emergency loan yesterday in the District Court room at 2 p.m. The loan went into effect Aug. 1 on an optional basis, and is expected to replace previous loans of this type in the Panhandle by Nov. 1. It covers anything needed in farming, ranching, or readjustment of farm operation.

Limit of the loan is determined by value of the security, which is appraised on current market values. An appraisal of the land is made by the area supervisor. An interest rate of 3 per cent has been in effect since July 1. Payment is set up for once or twice a year.

Any farmer or rancher is eligible for the loan without sufficient security to qualify for a regular loan, or who has exhausted his resources or had crop failures. The regular production loans will bear 5 per cent interest, which is fixed by law; real estate loans on family-sized farms are 4 1/2 per cent, and the special emergency loans will be at 3 per cent. Applications for the expanded emergency loan may be made through the area supervisor's office in Clarendon or at the District Court room on Thursdays at 10 a.m.

RADIATION

bombs and statemen expressed alarm that the atmosphere might become too polluted for safety.

Problem Becomes Acute
The problem became even more acute when scientists reported to the atoms conference here that tests with laboratory animals had shown the danger of mutation changes with the danger to humans a great question mark for the future.

Observers said the biologists and physicians were expected to use Tuesday's hastily-called meeting to call for a special new meeting of international scientists to go into the matter in detail.

Even the experts at Geneva disagreed as to the ultimate effect of radiation. Dr. T. G. Carter, a British Medical Research Council expert at the Harwell atomic station, noted there is no agreement on the nature and magnitude of the genetic danger.

Warns of Danger
Dr. William L. Russell, principal geneticist at Oak Ridge, Tenn., warned that the danger of atomic radiation on future generations may be greater than generally supposed.

Dr. Alexander Hollaender of Oak Ridge warned again Tuesday that man has plunged so swiftly into the atomic age he is years ahead of the safeguards he ought to be carrying with him — that the science of protecting humanity is years behind the study of atomic energy itself.

Soviet scientists attending the atoms for peace conference disclosed Tuesday that much of their know-how in the field of atoms-for-peace has been gleaned from reading western scientific publications.

Pair Charged With Murder

SINGAPORE — UP — A Chinese truck driver and an unemployed Indian youth were ordered held for trial Tuesday for the murder of Gene Symonds, United Press manager for southeast Asia who was killed in a riot May 12.

Magistrate Choo Singh ordered the truck driver Ong Ah Too and the unemployed Indian youth, Supiah Waw, held for trial after a Chinese deaf mute told how the Indian kicked Symonds repeatedly as he lay on the ground.

The two youths originally were charged with being members of an unlawful assembly which caused Symonds' death. The murder charge was preferred against them by Prosecutor H. B. Livingstone when the preliminary inquiry opened Monday.

The deaf mute, Lim Yan Ling, identified a picture of Symonds as the man who was assaulted and readily identified the Indian as the person who kicked him and then ran off with his wrist watch.

Industrial Production High

WASHINGTON — UP — The Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production hit a record high in July.

The board said the index reached 140. This was an advance of one point from June on a seasonally adjusted basis and a jump of 14 per cent above the index figure for a year ago.

July was the 11th straight month in which an advance was recorded. In another development on the economic front, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported new housing starts declined 11 per cent in July. The drop was principally due to a voluntary tightening up on mortgage money as a result of competition for loans of all types.

Autos To Feature Safety In Next Year's Models

BY REY W. BRUNE
DETROIT, Aug. 15 — UP — The automobile industry will be bearing down on promoting the safety features in the new cars when it starts selling its 1956 models in the next several months.

With cars less drastically revamped for 1956 than they were for the 1955 market, the new safety features will be one of the points the industry will be advertising the hardest.

The first signs of what is coming already are apparent. Chrysler Corporation, then Ford Motor Co. announced the addition of seat belts as extra-cost equipment in recent months. The industry heretofore had taken a hard stand against these.

But the increasing emphasis on automobile safety, plus the need to find selling point for 1956 models, is changing things.

Airman Wants Divorce From Re-Wed Wife

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — UP — Airman Daniel C. Schmidt conferred with a Sacramento attorney Monday and the attorney said "Schmidt definitely wants to file a divorce action" to separate him from his rewed wife, Una.

The attorney said he was investigating Schmidt's legal position. "He wants to divorce her," the attorney said. "He wants to file an action for divorce."

Schmidt met briefly in Nevada, City this weekend with Una, who said she married a Sierra lumberjack last September in the belief Schmidt was dead. The airman was one of 11 Americans held prisoner in a Chinese Communist prison camp. He returned Friday.

While no statements had been made following the meeting early Saturday morning, it was believed Una had refused to give up the logger in favor of Schmidt. At stake is the 25-year-old son Una bore Schmidt, Danny. The returning airman saw him for the first time Friday.

Following the meeting, both Schmidt and Una had disappeared. She had returned to her Sierra Nevada hideout, presumably with Alford D. Fine, the logger she said she married.

The attorney said he and Schmidt had discussed whether he should seek custody of the child but no decision had been reached. The attorney said he had been requested by Schmidt not to disclose Schmidt's residence in Sacramento.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Kirby, 1225 E. Francis, left Monday for New York City to visit their son, MAX, who will return with them for a vacation in Pampa.

Mrs. Fern Dawson, Girl Scout secretary, and Mrs. Marian Osborne, council assistant, returned to the GS office Monday after a month's vacation.

Miss Jill Jones of Odessa is visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Torvie, 1029 Charles.

The American Heritage group of the adult education classes will meet today at 8 p.m. in Lovett Memorial Library.

Warren W. Wilbur from Miami, Okla., will show pictures he made on a hunting trip to Alaska at the church-wide picnic of the First Baptist Church in Hobart Street Park today at 7 p.m. Mutt Farrer, another layman from Miami, will speak.

Harry Garrison, Hopkins principal, returned recently from the University of Texas where he has been training for administrative work. He was recommended for the administrative and supervisory course this summer by Bert Nuckols, county school superintendent.

All Will Offer Them
All major manufacturers can be expected to offer the safety belts in the new models. General Motors hasn't indicated yet what it will do, but Buick said last week it will be offering seat belts for people who want them. Other divisions are expected to do the same.

The new cars will have the new safety beam headlamps developed recently in a joint industry program. The new headlamps give more seeing power than headlamps have provided before.

The safety riding on the tubeless tires (made standard in 1955 models) will come in for additional promotion. Other moves to make cars easier to operate also will be talked up — power brakes, power steering, more glass area width to see around a car.

Jane Talk

By JANE KADINGO

Pampa News Women's Editor

DRESSES MAKE A RIGHT-ABOUT-FACE in fashion for fall that is almost phenomenal. In the midst of the biggest hue-and-cry for "casual" clothes, it is luxury and elegance that shine through most forcefully wherever dress collections are shown. It suggests the results of a quiet revolution against the inevitable letdown of all fashion when "casual" gets the grip on everything.

THIS HARDLY APPLIES to sportswear, where "casual" is only rightfully belongs, but has been given such a brilliant send-off this season.

In reviewing the fashion trends for the coming fall and winter season, the fashion editors of Women's Wear Daily and find that the whitening down of the silhouette is offset by elegant fabrics — satin, plain and brocade, metals, and velvets. Color families — browns, reds, violets and greens — not seen in a long time, are in the same scale of rich contribution.

But shaping of dresses is of first consideration, whether sheath or the full skirt. Long torso and princess are basic, whatever the skirt, and here and there the Empire asserts itself. Low bands, pockets and jewel ornamentation always make the neckline the focal point. In each type of dress — all-day, cocktail, and evening — sheaths have precedence; significantly, there are more narrow dresses for formal wear than last year.

In the formal category, hemlines are sometimes the headline, either in the ankle-or-above length of most formal dresses, or in the subtle ways of creating fullness without distorting the narrow torso. Daytime lengths are short, and some cocktail lengths are 10 inches from the floor.

The ensemble's predominance is a cue to the new elegance, often tuned up with fur, inside or out. Wrist-length sleeves and low-back bodices are the newest look in cocktail dresses and tunics are another expression of the more elegant look.

THIS IS THE YEAR of the slim silhouette in cost fashions all across the board—40 per cent as a modest estimate. Narrow cheaters, fields and tunics are everywhere, outstanding in luxury woolens (smooth as well as deep pile fabrics) and in a roundup of the handsome tweeds of the decade. Trimmings are almost extinct except for an occasional collar faced in satin or jewel-toned velvet.

The "A" line influence is a big fashion factor. It offers a compromise between slim and full. Spreading the "A" from narrow shoulders to widened hemline, the shape is accentuated by pyramids of buttons, contrast inserts or graduated pockets.

The fall coat and suit story in its most important fashion aspect develops a strong chapter on the costume theme. Coming so prominently into the coat and suit picture, it projects the short, three-quarter or full-length coat, coordinated with dress, or torso sweater and skirt.

Fabric plays its greatest supporting role in coats this fall. Stores will stock a vast assortment of tweeds, that look rustic but have city qualifications in their deep colorings and general urban appearance. Hopsack weaves, straw mat, basket weave and spongy sponge effects, as well as fat nubs and rope-like yarns mingle color with black in a new "darkened color" line-up. The new interest in lawny tones, green amethyst, dark red and all the blues is vitalized this fall by intermingling of black nubs, yokes or overlays.

As an alternative to tweeds, velvet coatings with their deep soft surface are entering the fashion arena for costumes as well as coats. It is no surprise currently to see velvet combined with color-matched fur linings, with tweeds for reversible styles or paired with sheer worsted, dyed-to-match suits for the important costume fashion.

No one can overlook the huge family of fur-like fabrics of Orlon-dynal pile fabrics. Their teaming with tweeds and their excellent variations of costume styling allow them to share effectively on the big stage already set for urban-suburban fashions.

Police State Coming?

Some people find comfort in knowing that their government has a dossier on them covering their every action. We do not. A recent story by the United Press, dateline Washington, D. C., revealed that it's a sluggard indeed who isn't listed, fingerprinted and catalogued in any one of half a dozen federal offices. This is a little too much like prying into privacy to please us as we read the Constitution of the United States and note that Amendment Number IV in our Bill of Rights specifically rules against such practice. It says there: "The right of the people to be secure in their persons against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated. . . . We think that all this statistical wool-gathering for our obvious protection has already passed the bounds of normal decency. We can't get enthusiastic about the recent rash of instances in New York City in which private telephone conversations were monitored, tape recorded and assembled. Just because we are a big grown up nation is no reason why we must all undress and dress in public. Of course we are told, and there is considerable truth in the telling, that we are faced with the internal as well as external threat of Communism. But the crowded files in Washington which tabulate the goings and comings as well as the incomes and investments of otherwise free men are a blight upon the land of the free. We are not, here, endorsing the abandonment of criminal information. We are, instead, reminding the men in power that the vast numbers of Americans are neither criminal nor do they tend toward criminal activity. Extensive files on their activities is wrong. In this country we are free . . . naturally . . . and are presumed innocent until proven guilty. Further, with the infiltration which has occurred and is occurring in our nation's capital, we shudder to think what would happen and is happening to much of that information when and if it is siphoned off and sent to dictators of foreign countries who are casting covetous eyes on everything American. In the final analysis, there is no substitute for freedom. Why should we advocate any activity which, in the wrong hands, can serve to enslave the innocent? We protest the cataloguing of information merely on the assumption that it is "good" for the federal government to know as much about each of us as can be ascertained. This is the way of the police state of Hitler and Stalin. And a police state, even if headed by an American, would be an abomination not to be endured or condoned.

RE-STUDY SOCIAL SECURITY

(Christian Economics)

The term Social Security as we know it today should really be called Social Insecurity, for that is just what it is. There is absolutely nothing back of it but the willingness, if such there will be, of the American taxpayers of the future to pay in taxes the amount necessary to meet the obligations of the Social Security System. It is not a funded program in the usual sense, as all of the billions of Social Security dollars that have been poured into the Federal Treasury from employers and employees have been spent as soon as received to help meet the ordinary daily running expense of the Federal Government.

Taxpayers Carry the Load

Social Security funds are represented by bonds of the United States Government, which do not represent cash and are simply a promise to pay. As the only source from which the Federal Government can get the cash with which to meet its Social Security obligations is the American taxpayer, it follows that under the present program, future taxpayers will have to carry the load of accumulated Social Security benefits.

When our people were told that thrift was all wrong, that the way to prosperity was to spend, spend, spend, and were promised that when old age came along and gainful occupation was no longer possible the Government would take care of them, more was done to undermine the moral fiber of our people than anything that had happened in all the previous history of our country.

Are we as a people so bereft of power to think and to reason that we cannot see the fraud in our present Social Security program? Must we follow the politician blindly when he says that the Federal Government will provide security for all of us in our old age? Where do you think the Federal Government will get the money to provide security for us when we need it? The government has only one source for money, and that is from folks like you and me. It gets it from us in the form of taxes.

Personal Responsibility

It seems clear that the sooner the people of the United States face up to this unpleasant situation the sooner will it be corrected. We might even show the good sense to get back to the ways of the old days when thrift was considered a virtue, when folks saved to provide for their old age and when families felt their obligation to take care of their own and were proud to do it—when, in fact, a feeling of personal responsibility was general.

Conclusion Of "How Can Europe Survive?"

Here is the conclusion of Hans F. Sennholz' book "How Can Europe Survive?" as published by the D. Van Nostrand Co., Inc., New York. Would that every person who wants to understand what causes prosperity would read this book.

Here is the conclusion: "Our interventionist age is an age of international conflict.

"Governments motivated by socialist and interventionist ideas conduct policies of 'welfare' and protection through tariffs, licenses, quotas, exchange controls, and many other welfare measures, all of which promote economic nationalism. Foreign trade becomes increasingly political. Changing political conditions and positions of powerful pressure groups in the national parliaments determine foreign trade and the opening or closing of foreign markets. But through intervention a government hurts not only the vital interests of its own people, but also those foreign nations that take part in the world cooperation and division of labor. Thus, international conflicts arise. Agricultural and industrial protectionism, for example, lead to restriction of imports which cause domestic prices to rise and depress world market prices. Since nearly all governments resort to such policies for the sake of domestic protection or retaliation against foreign policies of protection, world trade is in a state of perpetual readjustment and world relations become increasingly erratic and chaotic.

"Mankind is yearning for international cooperation and peace. Men dream of a united Europe as an assurance of the preservation of Western civilization. Many efforts of unification are initiated by prominent statesmen and intellectual leaders and some gain public support. Governments adopt the suggestions and endeavor to realize them. Institutions are set up for the purpose of facilitating unification plans. But again and again the numerous discussions and top-level programs for unification prove fruitless and in vain. For some mysterious reason the obstacles to true unification seem insurmountable.

"What is the reason for this failure? Why do the institutions set up for the purpose of unification fail so dismally in their objective? Why can the dream of European unification with its substantial public support not be realized? The answer is simple. Socialism and the welfare state irreconcilably conflict with the principle of unification. Where there are policies of government welfare, there can be no interstate unification. And where people wish to unite, there can be no government interferences with the market economy. This is the crux of the problem of unification.

"The principle of central planning and public welfare requires government to maintain wage rates by limiting the labor supply through immigration laws and other institutional restrictions. The principle of unification, however, assumes free mobility of labor that brings about equalization of labor productivity and wage rates.

"The principle of central planning and public welfare requires government to raise costs of production for purposes of social welfare, security, and other social objectives. These measures depend for their effectiveness upon complementary trade and migration barriers. The principle of unification, however, requires government to abolish all barriers and refrain from raising costs of production so that the competitive position of domestic industries will not be endangered.

"The principle of central planning and public welfare requires government to protect depressed industries from foreign competition. Unification, however, presumes absence of protective barriers.

"The principle of central planning and public welfare requires government to expand credit, inflate the money supply, and control foreign exchange transactions. Unification, however, presumes stable and freely convertible currencies.

"The principle of central planning and public welfare requires government to control capital investments and capital movements. Emigration and 'flight' of capital are prohibited. Unification, however, presumes freedom of migration for capital.

"It is obvious that the welfare state is incompatible with interstate unification, which requires the European nations to make a momentous decision. They must choose between government welfare and interstate unification. They cannot have both.

"A realistic appraisal of Europe's problems and in particular the problem of unification cannot fail to fill us with deep pessimism. The majority of Europeans believe in socialism or the welfare state. And all European governments are committed to policies of interference with business. It is obvious that there can be no unification. But Communism is moving rapidly in its conquest of the world and its vanguards have reached the heart of Europe. The future of Western Europe is laid here and the ways of life which are the heritage of Western man are at stake. Unification is a matter of vital necessity. 'Unite or perish' is the watchword of Europe. Individual liberty or slavery is the choice."

Ike Called 'Luckiest' Man To Adorn The White House

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — "The Eisenhower is one of the luckiest, if not the very luckiest, men ever to sit in the White House."

This remark by a top White House aide reflects the ugly and not so secret fear of Republican politicians whenever they let themselves worry about the possibility that the White House will not run next year. Few men in American politics, as they review his career and think of 1956, have been so favored by fortune in his military and political career.

Things looked dark when he entered the White House as the first Republican Chief Executive in 20 years. The "cold war" with Russia was at its height, largely because of the Truman-Acheson "containment" and "encirclement" policies.

American and Communist forces were locked in battle in Korea, and the French were losing the war with Chinese Reds in Indo-China. There was danger that these local conflicts would explode into global war.

Although the threat of inflation had disappeared, the country was entering a deflationary spiral that might have developed into a serious "recession." Indeed, an Australian economist of considerable repute forecast another 1929 collapse. Moscow was expecting a crack-up of the "capitalist system."

The Republican Party was badly split between Eisenhower "liberals" and resentful Taft "conservatives," between foreign aiders and isolationists, between McCarthy "witch hunters" and his detractors.

All these factors combined to enable the Democrats to win Congress by a narrow margin and 27 Governorships in 1954. The opposition also scored heavy gains in state and municipal contests. They were referring to Eisenhower as a "one-term President."

Now, as the politicians prepare for the 1956 elections, Democrats generally concede that the twin issues of "peace and prosperity" make it impossible to defeat a re-nominated Eisenhower.

He stopped the fighting in Korea, although the settlement left the Reds in possession of the northern section. The British and French negotiated peace in Indo-China, although it was not altogether satisfactory. He dominated the Big Four Conference at Geneva, which may lead to better relations with Russia and China. There is a de-facto cease-fire over Formosa, and Geneva talks for liquidating that dispute.

I.L.O. House Organ Is Boost To David Morse

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

GENEVA — January issue of the ILO News, the official monthly journal of the International Labor Office, contained on page one two articles of personal ballyhoo for David A. Morse, the Hicogalorum of this socialist subsidiary of the United Nations. Morse is a veteran bureaucrat of the Roosevelt-Truman regime held over into the off-Republican Eisenhower extension. The two articles honor Mr. Morse with lavish recognition of the great efforts of his bureaucracy. One is headed "The ILO and Technical Assistance." It carries a Geneva dateline with a parenthetical attribution to ILO News, which is actually not a news service at all but Morse's publicity office in the same beautiful palace in a setting of beautiful gardens and lawns hard by a bathing beach. This says that in a year-end statement, Morse noted a trend toward "larger, long-range projects of technical assistance to the less developed countries. The story adds up to about three tabloid columns, mostly direct quote from Mr. Morse.

The middle of page one is occupied by a group news photo entitled "Press conference at which Director General Walter D. Reuther (facing newsman) informed Geneva press corps about the agenda for the ILO's first European regional conference."

Just beneath this picture is Morse's own New Year message to mankind. It says that after 36 years under the old League of Nations and the United Nations, "the basic problem" of ILO still is "to get the facts." "The ILO has certain facilities," he wrote, "which can be of substantial assistance in finding the truth upon which wise decisions may be laid. "I wish everyone a peaceful and prosperous New Year."

There is a small reprint from the Alfred Beason-Journal to the effect that the annual cost of Americans of the ILO is only .58 of one cent. Page two has a big group photo of the ILO "Governing Body" with Pius XII and a translation of the Apostolic Blessing. The ILO offers reprints on request. The "Governing Body" went to Rome for a conference with itself. An informal group shot shows J. Ernest Wilkins, a Chicago attorney, selected by Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell to succeed Spencer Miller, who had been fired from the job of Assistant Secretary of Labor. Miller was canned for exposing and trying to destroy the clandestine power of David Dubinsky's political stooge, Jay Lovestone, communist of the most brutal declared purposes, in the appointment of "labor attaches" in American embassies all over the world. Dubinsky and Lovestone have mysterious relations with the Central Intelligence Agency, now operated by Allen Dulles, which flopped wretchedly in its duty of obtaining information of all kinds about Soviet Russia. Lovestone quit the Kremlin to work for a Soviet America through his own party bearing his own name. Miller finally reported his knowledge of Lovestone's activities to the FBI. Wilkins has a son in the Department of Justice, Wilkins, a Negro, unwarily endorsed racism in employment and political preference when he said his own selection was an "honor" to his race. The "UN Anniversary Issue" of Morse's personal house-organ really went to town for hicogalorum. The top spread read "ILO marks UN's tenth anniversary." Director General sees much to be proud of, much still to be done if world ever is to have peace. Morse then swam out into space with an article under his name preceded by a note the blue ink authorizing reproduction of the great man's thoughts. He wrote that ten years "is a brief moment in the history of mankind's search for the 'good society.'"

There was a one-column cut of the hicogalorum's smiling visage and his message broke over to the last page with about four columns more. This issue contains a reminder, three columns long, that we pay less than one mill each year to support ILO's "Technical Assistance Program." There is also a photo and tribute to the late John G. Winant, Roosevelt's Ambassador to London, who helped draw the lines of demarcation in Germany after our victory which Truman and Eisenhower later solemnized at Potsdam. Winant killed himself. He served a term in Morse's job of hicogalorum of the ILO.

There is also a picture of Myrtille, the Secretary of Labor adorning a long article complaining that the American people knew little about ILO. These commentaries are my effort to remedy that defect. The ILO News publishes about 60,000 copies of each monthly issue in many languages. The press run for the anniversary number was 350,000.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

Each year a considerable number of correspondents ask for a discussion about the strange condition known as hives or urticaria. This is generally considered to be a form of allergy though it is certainly not related to the season as is hay fever, another well known allergic disorder.

An outbreak of hives usually comes out of the blue, appearing on the skin with intense itching and reddish swollen spots of various sizes. The itching generally involves not only the raised spots but the entire skin. Quite often the condition disappears almost as fast as it came on and sometimes lasts only a few hours. One of my children had an attack of this sort and I never did know what caused it.

IN MANY CASES, however, hives goes on for days or weeks and even sometimes turns into a chronic condition which does not disappear for months or years. This, of course, is the more troublesome variety. Hives may follow the eating of some food to which a person is sensitive. It can also develop after drug or serum has been given, after infection, exposure to heat, furs, insect bites, and many other things. In other words, it is not a single disease but is a peculiar reaction in a sensitive person. Urticaria differs from many other kinds of allergy in that a sensitive person does not always show a skin reaction when the offending substance is placed in contact with the skin. Often this failure of the skin to respond (a type of testing used in many allergies) makes diagnosis of the cause of hives particularly difficult.

FURTHERMORE, no one knows why red spots should appear on the skin as a sign of sensitiveness. It does not seem to serve any useful purpose! In spite of the common difficulty in piecing out the cause, treatment is most satisfactory when an accurate identification of the offending substance can be made.

Mac To Write Book About Climbing Tallest Something

By HENRY McLEMORE

To anyone who has visited a bookstore in the past five or six years it has been obvious that just about the surest way to make a lot of money is to climb a mountain and then write a book about it.

The non-fiction best-seller list is hardly ever without such a title such as "My Tussle with Mt. Tangador," or "The Ordeal of X-22," or "We Lost Our Lives But We Made It."

But with Everest scaled, and Tensing's beautiful story of conquest on the stands, books on mountain climbing are bound to lose their appeal. After all, the highest peak has been perched on, so why read about someone attaining the top of Nos. 2, 3 or 4?

But that doesn't mean that people have lost interest in climbing as climbing, and won't buy books about it. So I figure it's foolish to sit idly about and not climb something.

The first man out with a story of the tortures he endured in climbing the highest site, the tallest TV aerial or the loftiest neon sign, will reap a golden harvest. So sure am I of this that for days I have been making plans to climb the tallest something. But what? Well, I have narrowed the objects down to two out of a list that originally ran into the hundreds.

I can't decide between the tallest basketball player in the world and the tallest tree. The basketball player would be the more spectacular assault, no doubt about it. The planting of the American flag on the top of the head of the loftiest hoopster would be front page news all over the world.

But a basketball player is not stationary. I would no more than establish my base camp at about his knees when he would transfer to another school or turn professional. Or when I was all set to leave Camp 3 at his neck and make a dash for his summit, he might come down with mumps or measles or something. And there would be little or no glory in scaling a stretched-out basketball player. So my guess is that I'll settle for the tallest tree. That's more sensible, really, because I'll be able to make practice assaults on one of the trees in my back yard. We have several towering eucalyptuses (or is it eucalypt?) and they would serve to harden my muscles and test my equipment for the final attack on Tree No. 1, wherever it is.

Too, I'll be able to study the master tree-scaling technique of our cats. As a matter of fact I have been studying them for days and they seem to do best when Dilly, the bulldog, is hot on their tails. I don't know whether the International Climbing Association would recognize any record established by a human climber if he used a bulldog as an incentive, but I'll look into the matter.

I have already started writing my book. If you are at all familiar with best-sellers on mountain climbing, you know that the first three-fourths of them are devoted to early failures. A man who hasn't lost eight or ten tons in near-misses before he succeeds, needs't bother to write. He must suffer and suffer before he finally makes it, reap a golden harvest.

So sure am I of this that for days I have been making plans to climb the tallest something. But what? Well, I have narrowed the objects down to two out of a list that originally ran into the hundreds.

MARSHALL BRIDGES, the brilliant Negro lefty for the Amarillo Gold Sox, has a sore arm and may lose for the remainder of the season.

Bridges' arm more than likely was "ruined" when the Gold Sox were in town a week ago from last weekend.

You'll recall that the Gold Sox saved Bridges for the Oiler series, pegging him a full week before the series here.

This move possibly was very costly. Although Bridges defeated the Oilers his first time out, the Gold Sox pushed him into action the following day in an attempt to save another game but Bridges was treated harshly this time.

It was possible in this game that Bridges arm trouble began. He wasn't ready for overtime work after laying off so long. Bridges was asked by a teammate in the dugout following his relief appearance that saw the Oilers shell him from the mound in less than an inning how his arm felt: "It feels pretty tired," Marshall answered. He was rubbing his arm all the time as if it was hurting him.

It was in the next game that Bridges' arm was discovered to be actually hurt.

Had Bridges taken his regular turn prior to the Oiler series, his arm may be all right today.

Harry Gilstrap, sports editor for the Amarillo News, says Bridges would have been virtually a clinch to walk off with the strikeout title had he not come up with a sore arm.

Harry possibly didn't take into consideration that Bridges would have never caught the Oilers' Jack Venable in this department had Jack not gone on a 10-day suspension recently because of some personal business that needed attending to.

And with Jack out for this period, Bridges only led Venable by one whiff, 17-12, according to the last official averages.

It would have been a good battle down the wire for the strikeout title between Bridges, Venable and Bob Upton of Plainview had Bridges remained in action. But it wouldn't have been a clinch for Bridges.

Now it looks like Venable and Upton will battle it out for this title since Venable is now back in action.

Lou Gets Vote For Manager Of Year In AL

By CHARLES NETHAWAY

KANSAS CITY — UP — Arnold Johnson went to bat Tuesday for recognition of Lou Boudreau as "manager of the year" in the American League.

"Who has done a better job?" the owner of the Kansas City Athletics asked.

"Mike Higgins has had a good year at Boston," Johnson said, "but he can't take a lot of credit, since Boudreau had a hand in getting the Red Sox primed for a good season."

Johnson, who admits he has a lot to learn about baseball, also nominated the A's infield for honors.

"Show me a better infield," he said. "Would you trade any of our regulars?" he checked them off: Hector Lopez at third, Joe DeMaestri at short, Jim Finigan at second, and Vic Power at first.

Johnson said he's in the market for a left-handed hitting catcher and a top-grade centerfielder. He said he had been making explorations in both directions.

"I am a strong believer in the law of averages," he said. "It works in other businesses. We have signed close to 150 boys so far this year and we should sign some more before we're through. We may get 25 good prospects out of the lot."

Johnson said he preferred to spend $100,000 for a couple of dozen non-bonus players, rather than lay that much on the line for three or four "bonus babies."

"We hope to finish sixth," Johnson said. "There's no sense in crying over what we don't have. We just have to do what we can with what we have — and look to the future."

Johnson said he planned from the beginning to give Kansas City a contender in possibly three years. He showed no signs of wavering.

Roberts Nears 6th 20-Win Year In Row

BROOKLYN — UP — Pitcher Robin Roberts of the Philadelphia Phillies now is within one victory of his sixth straight 20-victory season.

Roberts' 5-2, 10-inning victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers Sunday gave him 19 wins against nine losses for the current season. In six previous full seasons with the Phillies, the righthander won 18, 20, 21, 23, 23, and 22 games.

White Deer Trainer To Attend Clinic

WHITE DEER — (Special) — Don "Pat" Powell, who will serve as manager and student trainer for the White Deer Bucks during the 1955 football season, will attend a clinic for trainers to be held in Fort Worth later this month, according to Head Football Coach Ois Holladay.

The training clinic, sponsored by the Fort Worth Lions Club, will be held on the campus of Texas Christian University and will be conducted by Elmer Brown, T. C. U. Trainer. Brown, considered one of the leading trainers in the Southwest Conference recently served as official trainer for the All-Star Basketball and Football teams at the Annual Coaching School in San Antonio. He will lecture and demonstrate methods of care and prevention of athletic injuries.

Powell, a senior student of White Deer High School, has served as student trainer for the Bucks during the past four seasons. "He is the best, the most efficient manager I have seen or with whom I have worked," Coach Holladay said. "This week of specialized training will make him invaluable to our program."

Powell is the son of Mrs. Lorene Powell, and is active in many phases of scholastic life. He has been a member of the basketball, tennis, and track teams; has served on the Student Council; has been active in productions of the Speech Department; has served as class officer and has been selected as a senior officer for the coming year. Oiler Rally Falls Short; Clovis Wins Opener, 13-9

Teams Clash In Twinbill Tonight

CLOVIS, Aug. 16—Clovis choked off a late Pampa Oiler rally here Monday night to capture the opening game of a four-game series, 13-9.

The Oilers came up with four runs in the ninth inning that shelled starting pitcher Tom Gallagher from mound. Reubin Phillips was summoned to Gallagher's rescue with two away in the ninth and the Negro fastballer, after giving up a two-run single to Dub Graves, got Sonny Tims on a strikeout to end the game with the Oilers still five runs shy.

The two teams will meet in a doubleheader tonight. Red Dial (17-14) and Tom Pollet (17-5) will likely be the starting pitchers for the Oilers in the two games.

The Oilers and Pioneers will conclude the series tomorrow night with a single game.

Clovis jumped on starter Buddy Woods quickly in last night's game, scoring seven runs in the first two innings to take a lead that was never threatened.

Fred Jackson came on during a four-run Clovis rally in the second inning and pitched until the end when Curtis Hardaway came on and finished up.

The Oilers could come to catching up after Clovis jumped ahead, 7-0, in the first two innings was 7-3 in the third. The three runs in the third came on a walk to Pete Carmona, a triple by Graves, a walk to Tims and successive singles by Joe Fortin and Paul Halter.

After that, the Oilers increased their lead to 11-3 in the fifth with a four-run rally and costed in.

Jim Martin, who returned to the Oiler lineup after a three day absence due to an upset stomach, led the Oiler hitting with three hits in four trips.

In a pre-game announcement, Clovis released outfielder Rudy Tanner, a former Oiler, and pitcher Ron Shirley, Roger May, a veteran pitcher, signed a Pioneer contract.

Pampa Oilers Slate 'Neighbor Homestand'

This coming Oiler homestand will be labeled "Neighbor Homestand," according to the Pampa Oilers Community Baseball Association which held an emergency meeting yesterday.

The POCBA, in making the announcement of the Neighbor Homestand, says the plan is this:

"For every person holding a season ticket book to give their tickets to their neighbors who haven't been coming to Oiler games this season and pay the regular 50 cents admission price themselves."

"This is in no way compulsory, of course," says Dr. Brown, vice-president of the POCBA.

"We're only asking the fans who would do this to do so," Brown continued.

"The idea behind this is to get more people interested in professional baseball and the Oilers," Brown said.

The Oilers, the POCBA noted, have about 1,000-1,500 baseball fans who have been coming to the park pretty regularly this season.

But the Association believes that a lot more people would become interested in the Oilers if they attended a game or two. And by giving them a free ticket to the game these people who have been absent at the games this season would go and as a result may become interested in the Oilers and make a good fan in the future.

"We need some 2,000 and over crowds," Deck Woldt, Oiler business manager said.

The Oiler financial status isn't too rosy at the moment, Woldt reports, but the POCBA is optimistic that the fans will rally behind the "Neighbor Homestand" plan that will enable the club to end in the black for the 1955 campaign.

The POCBA announced yesterday that 4,000 tickets have been sold on the Station Wagon drawing.

The station wagon goal is to clear $10,000. This would enable club to repay in full the 46 men who went on a $10,000 note recently to see the Oilers through the season.

It's important that all fans buy as many tickets for the drawing as possible. No one is barred from donating to the Oilers for the station wagon drawing, not even the players themselves, POCBA says.

FANNING NEEDED—Larry Greenbaum, a Yankee Stadium bleacherite, found usual attire of shirt, socks and shoes too much during a hot afternoon contest. Greenbaum found his center field seat as warm as the American League race.

Sluggers Feature Yank, Bosox Wins

By UNITED PRESS

The sluggers have stolen the spotlight in the tense American League battle and knocked the old axiom that pitching pays off in a tight pennant race into a cocked hat.

It used to be that the experts singled out the contender with the strongest pitching staff and confidently predicted it would win out. And, more often than not, they proved correct.

But it's the boys "with the big bag" who are turning out to be the key men in the current four-team struggle.

The New York Yankees, for example, recaptured first place by a half game for the first time since July 27 Monday when they downed the last-place Baltimore Orioles 5-4 and 12-6. A ninth-inning home run by Hank Bauer gave them the winning margin in the opener while Mickey Mantle's 28th season career hit to victory in the nightcap.

Ted Gets 13th Grand Slam Homer At Boston, meanwhile, a pretty fair country hitter named Ted Williams hammered out the 13th grand slam homer of his career to lead the Boston Red Sox to an 8-4 triumph over the Washington Senators.

Pitching? Both Yankee starters failed to last through the sixth inning and Mel Parnell, Boston's starter, was knocked out in a four-run third inning after being presented with a 5-0 lead. The Yankees have gotten only one complete game from a pitcher in rolling to their six straight wins and the Red Sox have had one complete game in their last five contests.

Even the supposedly pitcher-rich Cleveland Indians have been relying on their sluggers. They've received only two complete efforts in 13 games this month. The third-place Chicago White Sox have had better luck with their pitchers — but even they have had only three complete games in 11 contests this month.

Bauer, who hit two homers in Sunday's sweep of the Orioles, connected for his 13th against Bill Wright to give rookie Johnny Kucks his eighth win in relief.

In the nightcap, Mantle hit a three-run fourth-inning homer batting left-handed and then blasted a solo round-tripper batting right-handed in the sixth.

Williams' homer, his 20th of the season, climaxed a six-run outburst during which Washington right-hander Ted Abernathy issued six walks — only two short of the record for an inning.

Williams, Kiner Tied Williams' homer tied him with Cleveland's Ralph Kiner for the lead in grand slams among active players. They're 10 short of Lou Gehrig's record.

The Indians and White Sox were the Monday "surprise" back into action against Detroit and Kansas while the Yankees and Red Sox begin a three-game series at Boston. So, for the next three days at least, the schedule favors both western teams.

In the only National League action, Warren Spahn pitched eighty hit ball and hit a single, triple and home run in leading the Milwaukee Braves to a 12-1 rout of the St. Louis Cardinals. Ed Mathews also homered as the Braves knocked out Willard Schmidt, who pitched a one-hitter against them in his last start.

The win was Spahn's 11th.

Monday's Star Warren Spahn of the Braves, who pitched eight-hit ball and hit a single, triple and homer in a 12-1 win over the Cardinals.

Mackay Wins To Earn Title Shot

Popular Roger Mackay of Salt Lake City earned a right to challenge the World's Junior Heavyweight champion, Gentleman Ed Francis, last night when he defeated unpopular Mike (Liberace) Gallagher in the feature event of the weekly wrestling show at the Top of Texas Sportsman's Club arena.

Mackay won the first and third falls of last night's bout with Gallagher to gain the right for the title shot. It was revealed before the match that the winner would qualify for a shot at the title.

Mackay won the first fall in 7:55 minutes with a series of drop kicks and a body press. Gallagher came back in the second fall to even matters when he supplied a surfboard hold in 18:19 minutes.

Then Mackay won the bout by taking the third and deciding fall in 9:36 minutes with a scissor cradle.

The rowdiest match of the night came in the semi-final event that saw Salvador Flores defeat Frank Fakety, two falls to one. Fakety won the first fall but dropped the second and third.

Fakety, after losing the second and third falls, mixed it up with referee Maurice LaChapelle after each fall. Fakety and LaChapelle exchanged blows in the ring following the last two falls.

After the second fall, the fight continued outside the ring which finally wound up in front of Fakety's dressing quarters with fans streaming from the stands to watch the proceedings.

Fakety won the first fall with a body press in 7:29 minutes. Flores then won the second fall with an abdominal stretch in 4:39 and the third with a reverse crab in 8:58.

Frankie Murdock won the preliminary event in 15:02 minutes over Toro Perez.

The Dukes dropped the Hubbers by scores of 3 to 2 and 5 to 2, while El Paso edged Abilene 7 to 6. Clovis beat Pampa 13 to 9 and Amarillo took a 4 to 4 win over Plainview in 11 innings.

Johnny Merrill and rookie Chuck Lybeck pitched eight-filters to best Lubbock in both ends of the twin bill to enable the Dukes to move closer to the top of the league.

A three-run eighth inning highlighted by Alex Gonzalez' pinch-hit single pushed El Paso in front of Abilene. Frank Ramsey received credit for the Texas victory.

Clovis southpaw Tom Gallagher struck out 12 Oilers and was backed up by a 15-hit Pioneer attack on three Pampa pitchers.

Plainview came from behind twice to tie the score, but Amarillo emerged the winner after a three-run rally in the 11th inning. Rudy Schmidt took the loss.

Tuesday night's schedule finds Amarillo at Plainview, Pampa at Clovis, Lubbock at Albuquerque and Abilene at El Paso.

Scores by innings: First game Lubbock 000 100 100-2 8 0 Albuquerque 010 010 001-3 6 0 Uhlman and Christiano; Morrill and Choukaos.

JIM CRACKS

TWO OF PAMPA'S civic clubs

are in high cotton about now. The Pampa Kiwanis Club is all primed for a 25th Anniversary banquet which comes off a week from tonight, and the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce is apparently doing a rushing business selling screw-drivers.

Never let it be said that I am not a friend of the JayCees. Unless I am badly mistaken, I bought the first set of screw-drivers, and that started a rush on them at the News.

Bob Carmichael was in to buy an ad, and before he left the office he had sold four or five sets. We already know that advertising pays dividends, and here's a case where it paid off in advance.

IT'S A FEW days since the rodeo went into the history books, but still early enough for a post mortem.

Officials of the rodeo voted this year not to buy rain insurance, and a day or so before the show got underway, the sky had been dripping and on one particular day things looked dark indeed.

Red Wedgworth, asked if he wasn't sorry they passed up the insurance, was thinking at that time it might have been a bad guess.

Well, the rain came and washed out Friday night's performance, and a few days after rodeo I asked Wedgworth how much it cost 'em by not buying the insurance.

It turned out that the insurance wouldn't have paid off anyway. Seems you have to pick the hours of the day when you buy rain insurance, and the hours the Rodeo Association were considering were not the hours of the deluge which hit that Friday.

So, chalk up a good guess for the rodeo folks.

SHAMROCK'S CITIZENS deserve applause for having a good sense of humor in the face of what could have been considered an embarrassing situation.

You may recall the story of the slick-working confidence man who moved into Shamrock late one night, with a story of a dying mother-in-law in Dallas.

He worked his story so well that he got a business man out of bed to open a shop, got a minister to drive him around Shamrock while he cashed a couple of hot checks, got himself outfitted in finery at the local man's shop and talked his way into a free ride to Wichita, Falls in an ambulance where he disappeared, leaving Shamrock well taken.

The con-man was Glenn Scott Thornton, now living off the state for 2-9 years at Huntsville. He posed in Shamrock as "Pete Knight". Well, in last Thursday's edition of the Shamrock Texan a three-column picture showing a store dummy dressed up in the same finery Thompson walked off with, was printed on the front page. The dummy carried a card identifying it as "Pete Knight" and posing with the dummy were Shirley Draper, owner of the store and G. B. Stanley, the minister and Sheriff, Bus Dorman. That takes a good sense of humor in my book.

THE POET'S NOOK

Last week's bid for help in identifying a poem brought generous response from readers, and let me here first acknowledge all the kind letters and phone calls and express my thanks.

I had one phone call from a fellow who wanted to know if I was really serious about wanting to know the name of the poem, or "was I just trying to fill up space."

No, I was serious, I had forgotten the poem, and now that I have several copies of it, I see where I misquoted it badly in some places.

The name of the poem was "Envoi" by Rudyard Kipling. It is also known by its first line, "When Earth's Last Picture is Painted."

The first phone call was from Mrs. Herbert Carter of the Humble Camp.

Mrs. L. B. Paden called to say that the poem was one of her favorites. She recalled that it was required memory work while she was in school, and she didn't particularly care for it in those days, but she had grown to love it through the years.

The poem put Cecil Myatt to digging through some books, he called to say he wasn't able to find it and wondered if I had ever found the title.

Had a letter from Connie Stokes in Plainview which included the entire poem.

And a short note from E. J. Dasch with the title and author and the comment "It's a good poem."

From Follett, Mrs. Gladys Buchner wrote that she enjoys the book. Mrs. Buchner had a book of 100 poems published last year. The book is "My Garden."

Well, it seems that poetry lovers are with us more and more. But no one was able to give me the title to the puzzle in Poetry, and that's two weeks in a row that you have been stumped. You'd never get a seat on a TV panel at that rate.

The quotation last week was from Robert W. Service's "Spell of the Yukon." . . . shame on you. Well, try this one. . . no prize this time.

"Chained in the market-place he stood,

A man of giant frame,
Amid the gathering multitude
That thronged to hear his name—
All stern of look and strong of limb,

His dark eye on the ground;
And silent they gazed on him
As on a lion bound."

If you don't recognize that one, it should at least intrigue you enough to make you want to read the rest of it.

Washington All Quiet After 'Toughest' Session --- Rogers

All is quiet in Washington following the adjournment of the first session of the 84th Congress, according to Walter Rogers in his weekly letter to the people of the 18th District.

"The highly combustible and controversial issues, that faced the first session of the 84th Congress no doubt accounted for the general talk on both sides of the aisle that this was one of the history's toughest sessions," Roger writes.

"The tremendous pressure from both the extreme left and the extreme right was constant during the session, both in committee meetings and in House sessions. This builds up a tension and a strain on an individual that is not noticeable until it is relieved. It is probably the reason that so many members were on their way out of Washington within 24 hours after adjournment."

"The Rogers family would have been gone in the same amount of time, but it takes us about a week to gather the children up from around the neighborhood."
