Texas Harvest Outlook Good

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Sept. 13. — Better than expected Texas crop yields except for citrus fruit were predicted today by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Its general crop report said unusually good weather conditions would increase the output of cotton, corn, sorghum, hay, sweet potatoes and peanuts.

Production of all but corn will run ahead of the 10-year (1938-47) average. Citrus fruit was badly hurt by last winter's severe weather, the USDA noted.

Production of peaches and pears is at near-record levels. Although considerably below last year's unusually large crop, this year's pecan crop is expected to be better than avearge.

Cotton Crop Boosted

The cotton crop was estimated at 5,000,000 bales, 11 per cent above the forecast last month. The yield per acre at 233 pounds would be the highest since 1898. Total production would be the highest since 1937 and the third highest in the last 20 years. The 10-year (1937-1948) average was 2,722,000 bales and the 1948 crop was 3,150,000 bales.

Corn yields are turning out well in all areas. The yield per acre at 22 bushels would be the highest since 1919, comparing with the average of about 16 bushels. Acreage is at a very low level, but about half is in hybrids. Production at nearly 55 million bushels is about 23 per cent above that of 1949 but substantially below the 68 million bushel average.

Sorghum Yield Boosted

The forecast of sorghums for grain was 71,380,000 bushels, an increase of about 3½ million bushels, or one bushel per acre, from August 1. The yield per acre, at 20 bushels, would be the highest since 1948 and would compare with about 17 bushels average. The 1948 production was 76,434,000 bushels and the average about 58½ million bushels. Harvest progressed rapidly during the latter part of August and was well advanced in all areas expect the high plains where combining will not get under way for several weeks. Production of rice was unchanged from the August 1 forecast. Combining of early varieties was general but interrupted by showers.

Peanuts were turning out somewhat better than was expected a month ago, as harvset got underway in all areas. The September forecast of 314,600,000 pounds compares with 300,300,000 pounds indicated a month ago. The 1948 crop was 300 million pounds and the average about 266 million. The yield per acre at 550 pounds would be the highest since 1940, and comparaes with 400 pounds last year and 545 pounds the average.

Daily Negotiations To Continue In Attempt To End Rail Dispute

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 13 (AP) — Negotiators for both sides agreed today to meet daily until a settlement is reached in a five day old strike that has stopped operations of the Missouri Pacific railroad.

The decision was made at a two-hour conference this afternoon. Another meeting was scheduled for 1 p.m. (CST) tomorrow. Eight union officers and four company representatives attended today's session.

The strike by 5,000 engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen has affected industry operations in the ten states served by the carrier. Some 20,000 non-operating employes of Missouri Pacific have been laid off.

Fair Boosters Make First Tour In Area

By EMMETT SHOCKLEY
Avalanche Staff Writer

THIS year's first trip boosting the 32nd annual Panhandle-South Plains fair was made Tuesday with the boosters visiting communities in six counties south of Lubbock during the day.

More than two dozen Lubbock businessmen, hampered by chilling rains and inclement weather which forced them to abandon some of their plans, distributed favors and fair reminders to school children and to small crowds which gathered in towns where precipitation was not heavy at the time.

Forced to carry the distribution of favors into classrooms and business houses after the rains began at Tahoka shortly after 10 a.m., the good will ambassadors nevertheless managed to distribute to the youngsters and their elders approximately 20,000 fair tickets, 6,500 rulers, 4,000 balloons, 4,000 copies of this year's first edition of the "Fair News," and many other favors.

Two Buses Carry Boosters

The men left in two chartered buses from in front of the Chamber of Commerce building shortly after 7 a.m., and returned about 5 p.m. Baldridge bakery supplied a sound truck for the trip.

Homer Hensley, as chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Good Neighbor committee, directed the trip. George A. Bond, assistant manager of the Chamber of Commerce, supervised the distribution of favors.

The first stop at Slaton at 8 a.m. attracted a good-sized crowd of youngsters on their way to school. After a short stop at Southland, they reached Post at 8:30 a.m. where they distributed fair reminders to high school students between classes.

After stopping by the elementary school in Tahoka, where the children filed outside like little ladies and gentlemen, only to break ranks and turn things topsy

GOP Takes Lead In Pennsylvania

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 13. (AP) —A Democratic Gold Star mother backed by President Truman appeared tonight to be losing to a Republican Navy veteran in their fight for the congressional seat vacated by the plane crash death of her son.

Heavy inroads into Democratic territory put lawyer John P. Saylor far ahead of motherly Mrs. Robert L. Coffey, sr., as the vote count passed the 80,000 mark, more than half the expected ballots. There was no statement from either candidate, however.

GOP Make Inroads

The tabulation from 117 of 325 precincts in the special precincts in the special 26th District election:

Saylor 29,897.
Coffey 20,236.

The 44-year-old Saylor led in normally Democratic Cambria (Johnstown) county with 79 of 176 precincts giving him a vote of 19,526 to the 55-year-old Mrs. Coffey's 15,542.

Lawyer Saylor and Mrs. Coffey are contesting for the congressional seat left vacant by the plane crash death of Mrs. Coffey's son, Rep. Robert L. Coffey, jr.

First Test Of "Fair Deal"

The election is the first grass roots test of President Truman's "fair deal" since the 1948 Democratic upswing. It was held in conjunction with statewide Democratic and Republican primaries.

Overcast skies and intermittent drizzle helped keep down the turnout. Election officials predicted less than 60 per cent of the 154,280 elegible voters cast their ballots. Polls closed at 7 p. m. (CST).

The candidates—aided by an influx of top-drawer political tacticians — drew their campaign strategy clearly along party lines while party heads watched the outcome for signs of what's ahead in the 1950 congressional elections.

TYPHOON IS WATCHED

TOKYO, Wednesday, Sept. 14. (AP)—A tropical storm east of Formosa developed suddenly today into a typhoon with winds of 105 miles an hour. Far East Air Force weather observers said the typhoon probably would hit the northern tip of the big island within 24 hours and sweep on to the China mainland.

U. S., Britain Map Policy On Red China

By EDWARD E. BOMAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 — Secretary of State Acheson and Foreign Secretary Bevin reported today that the United States and Britain are close together on plans for dealing with pressing problems in the Orient and the Middle East.

The top diplomatic officials disclosed this in a guardedly worded joint statement after a conference. Their meeting marked the start of an attempt to bring the two governments together on a common policy toward Communist China and on other urgent political issues.

The initial session lasted nearly three hours.

Japan Peace Treaty Discussed

Acheson and Bevin also took up the current effort led by the United Nations to work out a lasting Palestine settlement and to develop the economy of Middle Eastern countries.

The meeting was the first of a series of closed-door conferences on political issues, with particular emphasis on the situation resulting from the Communist sweep in China.

Also up for discussion and a likely decision is the question whether to go ahead on a peace treaty with Japan, with Soviet Russia excluded if need be.

Prompt Action Urged

Bevin was represented in advance as contending there should be no further delay in the two-year deadlock resulting from Russia's demand that the Allied big powers alone should dictate the treaty. The United States wants smaller countries which actually fought Japan to have a part in the peace conference.

The survey of cold war political problems followed the close yesterday of five-day talks on Britain's dollar crisis. Ahead for both Acheson and Bevin are Saturday's meeting to organize a permanent council for the 12-nation North Atlantic pact, and the opening next week in New York of the United Nations General Assembly.

On the question whether to extend diplomatic recognition to any national regime set up by the Chinese Communists, both Acheson and Bevin have indicated they feel the United States and Britain should act cautiously so as to

Bond On Fugitive Charge Set Here

Robert L. Hagan, 34, of the Avinger addition, arrested Tuesday for New Mexico officials on a fugitive warrant issued here, was placed under $2,500 bond in an examining trial held before Justice of the Peace D. W. Robertson last night.

The warrant issued here was based on a warrant charging theft telegraphed to Lubbock Monday by Sheriff Burt Jennings of Tucumcari, N.M. Bond was made returnable before Robertson in 15 days.

Hagan's arrest came after officials here had traced ownership of a car allegedly involved in theft of money from a liquor store in San Jon, N.M., to him.

Search To Be Renewed

West Texas and New Mexico officers were alerted for the 1948 black Chrysler New Yorker traced to Hagan Monday after the proprietor of the liquor store complained that he had missed $1,730 from his establishment after the driver of the car, posing as a federal inspector had left the store.

Both Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Green, owners of the store, identified Hagan's car as the vehicle driven by the "inspector." Both stated, however, that Hagan was not the man who had "looked at the books," and admitted that they had never seen him before.

Sheriff Jennings indicated to newsmen after failure of Mr. and Mrs. Green to identify Hagan that the intensive search for the "inspector" would be renewed.

Garagemen Testify

Testimony of two Clovis, N.M., garagemen placed Hagan in that city from 2 p.m. Monday until approximately 8:30 p.m. in the company of another man. One of the witnesses, Walter Powers, told the court that he had seen both men together and that Hagan's companion had said that Hagan would pick up the car following necessary repairs. The other mechanic, Leslie Caroland, said that he had not seen Hagan's companion.

Powers told the court under questioning that the bill for repair work, about $120, had been paid with $10 bills taken from a large roll of money. He said the suspect had an equally large roll of $20 bills in another pocket, and some $1 bills in his shirt pocket.

Some Downtown Areas To Be Marked For New Traffic Setup

Commission Plans Parallel Parking For Parts Of City

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche Staff Writer

MEMBERS of the city commission approved the "principle" of parallel parking in downtown Lubbock after a hectic all-day meeting Tuesday devoted almost entirely to discussions of city traffic problems.

They set another special meeting for 11 a.m. Thursday to consider specific streets on which such parking will be required. Indications were these will include most of the thoroughfares in and closely adjacent to the central business district.

Street Lighting Ordered

Other actions taken during the special meeting included:

1. Parking meters were ordered installed in front of and around the city hall. Meters immediately in front of the building will be the 20-minute variety. Others will allow one-hour parking.

2. Bids were called for Oct. 13 on new street lighting, including dispersal system thoroughfares, expected to cost about $52,000.

3. Several thoroughfares were designated as through streets at which stops will be required before entry. These are Eighth from H to College; Fifteenth from Texas to College; Twenty-second from Q to Adams; and Adams, Jackson, Tyler and Avenue V each from 19th to 34th.

4. Eight new traffic lights were ordered installed and the replacement of single-vision lights by double-vision types at 12 downtown intersections were approved.

Parking Issue Discussed

Most of the discussions of the special meeting were devoted to parallel parking and the resolution proposing this system traveled a bumpy and uncertain road.

Commissioner E. K. Hufstedler was the most vigorous advocate of the parallel parking system, declaring he believed it desirable for the entire city as a means of speeding traffic and promoting safety.

During the morning session he proposed as a resolution that such parking be ordered for all of "downtown Lubbock," explaining that he meant the central business district.

Commission Splits

After considerable discussion, Commissioner Clarence Whiteside seconded the resolution and Mayor W. H. Rodgers voted for it.

Commissioners W. B. Price and John Spikes voted against it. Both said they believed parallel parking desirable for many streets—particularly for East Broadway. But, they said, they wanted to know exactly what streets would be affected before they voted for the proposal.

The commission recessed at noon with the announcement the meeting would be resumed during the afternoon to decide what areas would be incorporated in the parallel parking area.

When they returned, Whiteside, in particular, expressed doubts as to the wisdom of the resolution adopted during the forenoon.

Hufstedler finally offered another resolution proposing to rescind the one adopted during the forenoon.

"But I still am for parallel parking," Hufstedler declared.

There was silence for several seconds after he had proposed to rescind the earlier resolution.

"Anybody want to second this resolution?" Mayor Rodgers finally asked.

There was no second, so the original resolution remained in effect.

Subsequent discussions led to the agreement to take the matter up again Thursday and, at that time, to designate the specific streets on which parallel parking is to be required.

City Manager Steve Matthews said parking meters will be shifted block-by-block on the streets changed from angle to parallel parking. He estimated the shifts

One Feared Killed, Four Hurt In Mine Mishap In Oklahoma

(By The Associated Press)

McALESTER, Okla., Sept. 13.—One man was believed killed and four others hurt tonight in a cave-in at the Lone Star Steel company's carbon mine Number 5 east of McAlester.

Company officials said the mine entrance was not blocked by the cave-in and the 135 workers in the mine at the time of the accident were being brought to the surface.

McAlester is about 130 miles southeast of Oklahoma City.

The company asked that three ambulances be sent from McAlester to the mine. No other details were available.

Tech Student Injured In Hit-Run Mishap

An intensive police search late Tuesday failed to locate a hit-run driver whose car struck and slightly injured a Tech student in 200 block North College about 8:45 p. m.

The victim, George Medford Lambert, 18, of 2513 Maple, was reported resting in St. Mary's hospital early this morning. His injuries were described as bruises of the back and legs. X-rays failed to reveal internal injuries.

Highway patrolmen who questioned the youth later said he was walking north on the west side of College Ave., when the car, driving north on the wrong side of the street struck him, knocking him to the ground. A witness to the accident told police the car had then turned west on North Third.

The youth was taken to the hospital by McDonald Funeral home ambulance.

Denver City Woman Injured When Car Crashes Into Truck

MATADOR, Sept. 13. (Special)—Mrs. B. G. Moore, 67, of Denver City, remained in Traweek hospital here tonight after receiving injuries in a car-truck accident on the edge of the Caprock, 12 miles west of Matador, about 3 p. m. today.

Mrs. Moore was not seriously injured in the accident. Hospital authorities said late tonight that she received painful bruises, but that she apparently had no serious internal injuries.

Mrs. Moore was a passenger in a 1948 Dodge automobile driven by her son, Noel Moore, 36, of Lockney. They were driving toward Floydada from Matador, where Mrs. Moore had visited with a daughter, Mrs. Lewis Poteet. They were driving in heavy rain when Moore failed to see a heavily-loaded gravel truck ahead and crashed into the back of the vehicle, an investigating officer said.

Driver of the truck, Joseph Couch, 47, of Plainview, was not injured. The truck was not badly damaged, but the top of the automobile was torn off. Moore, driver of the automobile, was not injured. Deputy Sheriff Jinx Wilson of Motley county investigated the accident.

Mahon To Speak At Farm Bureau Meet Here Today

CONGRESSMAN George Mahon will appear in Lubbock today as principal speaker for a Farm Bureau federation meeting which opens at 10 a.m. in the main ballroom of Hotel Lubbock for farmers from 11 counties in the area. The meeting will cover the southern half of district 2 of the bureau.

Mahon's speech on agricultural problems is scheduled for 11 a.m. Farm bureau officials announced that the meeting will be open to the general public.

An address by Walter Hammond of Tye, president of the Texas Farm Bureau federation, is scheduled for 2 p.m.

Mahon appeared at a similar meeting held for the northern half of the Farm Bureau's District 2 held Tuesday in the Plainview city auditorium. On Thursday he attends another Farm bureau meeting to be held at the Settles hotel in Big Spring.

More than 300 Farm bureau members from counties in the southern half of District 2 are expected to attend the all-day business session, which will conclude with the selection of a bi-district queen who will represent the area at the state bureau convention to be held in Dallas this fall.

Bill Tilson of Meadow, District 2 director, will preside at the meeting which will be opened by Glenn T. Hackney, president of the Lubbock County Farm Bureau.

Lubbock county queen candidate will be Miss Mary Helen Bruce, freshman at Texas Tech and resident of the Cooper community, 10 miles south of Lubbock.

The contest winner will compete with 20 to 25 other Farm bureau queens at the state convention for a trip to the national convention in Chicago as Texas representative.

Farmers Facing Crisis

No luncheon is planned in connection with the meeting here today, but officers of the Lubbock county organization will be hosts to Mahon and state Farm bureau officials at a private luncheon.

County officers are Hackney; A. B. Allen, vice president; M. H. Kinard, secretary-treasurer; and Walter Y. Wells, service agent.

On the business side of the ledger, Farm bureau members will lay plans for a membership campaign.

At Plainview, Mahon told more

Lewis Threatens Mine Shutdown

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13. (INS)—John L. Lewis today issued a veiled threat to close down all coal mines whose operators have been with-holding payments to the United Mine Workers welfare fund.

The miners' boss made the threat in an angrily-worded letter to James D. Francis, president of the Island Creek Coal Co., of Huntington, W. Va., whom he accused of defaulting on payments since July 1.

In his bristling language, Lewis gave Francis until Wednesday to answer his blunt question or "will you or will you hot remit?"

Threat Is Made

Lewis declared that the "daily default" by Francis' companies and others asosciated with him "becomes increasingly important to the dependent women of the industry, and the blind, the lame and the halt, who are its tragic victims."

Then the bushy-browed UMW chief delivered his threat in this sentence:

"A continuation of your policy of default and smash may cause reactions deterrent to the constructive progress of the industry."

Some operators have been withholding the 20-cent-a-ton royalty payments to the welfare funds on

Securities Gain $1 Billion In Value On Stock Market Rise

NEW YORK, Sept. 13. (AP)—A sweeping advance in the stock market today added $1,000,000,000 to the quoted value of securities and pushed average prices to within a short distance of the highest point of the year.

The broad advance was Wall Street's reaction to the management-labor truce in the steel industry and to satisfaction over the frank discussion of plans for increasing international trade at conferences in Washington.

Large Areas At Airport To Be Available For Storage Of Cotton

LARGE areas at Lubbock Municipal airport will be made available for the storage of the 1949 cotton crop if needed, Mayor W. H. Rodgers announced Tuesday.

His announcement on behalf of the city commission took cognizance of the expectation among cotton men that the storage problem for the area's virtually assured record crop may be a serious one.

No estimates were available immediately as to how many bales could be stored at the airport, but officials agreed there is enough room for a substantial portion of the prospective crop, now estimated at approximately 1,400,000 bales.

Practically all the available storage would be outdoors, officials said. But large areas are surfaced either with concrete or asphalt and are within 500 feet or less of fire plugs. Other areas even larger are less desirable but can be used if the need becomes acute, the mayor said.

The announcement that storage areas are available followed a proposal by the West Texas

Slav Leaders Accuse Russia Of Endangering Peace In Balkans

By KINGSBURY SMITH
INS Staff Correspondent

BELGRADE, Sept. 13. — Yugoslav leaders for the first time accused Russia of endangering Balkan peace tonight and charged that Moscow tried to dictate "every step" of Yugoslav foreign policy.

In the worsening struggle between Belgrade and the Moscow-led Cominform the Yugoslav government also took these steps:

1. It rejected flatly the recent Polish note accusing Yugoslavia of espionage and destruction of the 1946 mutual aid pact.

2. It put on trial nine persons charged with being anti-Tito fifth columnists.

Moshe Pijade, vice president of the Yugoslav presidium, declared in the Communist organ Borba that Yugoslavia would welcome the raising of the question of the Greek civil war at the UN General Assembly beginning Sept. 20 in New York.

The veteran Communist leader declared Moscow was lying in saying Yugoslavia plotted with Greece to divide Albania.

Pijade charged that the Cominform planned the "liquidation" of the Greek guerrilla war for 10 months, then tried to camouflage

Three-Inch Fall Is Reported At Seminole

By TOM DAVIS
Avalanche Staff Writer

THE South Plains was just one big mud pie late Tuesday night after the heaviest general rains of the season spread an average of one inch of moisture over the area with all-day showers that continued with drizzles early this morning.

No point on the South Plains got by without some moisture, and rain estimates ran as high as three inches at Seminole and two inches at Plainview. Few points reported less than an inch from the slow, steady showers that moved in early Tuesday on the heels of the first real cold front of the season—a cold front described as the earliest real fall weather on the Panhandle-Plains in more than 50 years.

Break In Weather Seen

The Lubbock Weather bureau station said drizzles and misting conditions should clear around noon today or shortly after, with skies becoming partly cloudy.

Rural roads without hard surfacing were a mess almost without exception over the Plains, and many schools cancelled bus runs on all but hard surface roads.

Most farmers were not too happy as they viewed their fields standing in water. Farmers are ready for a few weeks of dry weather to bring their cotton crops to maturity.

Mercury Hits 50 Here

With the rain and cold front came chilly temperatures over the Plains. In Lubbock, the lowest Tuesday reading was 50 degrees, which came during the noon hour. Twisting the usual pattern around, the highest Tuesday reading was 71 degrees at 12:30 a.m., just before the cold front moved in.

Although the weather forecast called for warmer temperatures today—in the high or middle 60's—the cool snap is expected to assert itself again in the pre-dawn hours of Thursday with a low reading in the middle or low 40's. Low this morning was predicted in the high 40's.

The first real return to warmth is not expected until Thursday afternoon, the Weather bureau said, when the mercury should reach near 80 degrees.

Meanwhile, a new cold air mass was reported in Canada and Weather bureau officials in Chicago said it may move in on the Most of mid-America started thinking about topcoats Tuesday.

It was that kind of weather—a bit cool, but nice. And more of it was expected for the next day or so.

It was raincoat weather in spots along the eastern seaboard, and in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, and Colorado. But it may dry up Wednesday.

Gulf and Pacific coast states were generally warm and pleasant, and had more of the same in sight.

The chilliness in the nation's mid-section was caused by a cold air mass from northwest Canada. An even larger mass still is moseying around in central Canada. Parts of it may move down later this week.

The cold air which drifted down Monday through the mountain states spread over the Mississippi valley and Great Lakes Tuesday, and headed southeastward. Light to moderate frost was forecast for Tuesday night in parts of Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

By Tuesday night the cold air had dipped into Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas. Temperatures fell 15 to 20 degrees in its wake. It is expected to reach New York, Washington, Philadelphia and the Carolinas Wednesday.

World Bank President Questions Wisdom Of U. S. Tariff Policies

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

While the international financial conferees in Washington have been working around the fringes of the tariff issue, Eugene Black, president of the world bank, has brought it boldly into the open.

The tri-power communique on results of the "dollar crisis" discussions restates as American policy the intention to revise tariffs to meet developing needs.

But Black, as I read his statement at the opening of the bank and monetary fund meeting, says the days of American tariffs are over. American policy, he says, is "basically inconsistent with its position as the great creditor nation of the world." He suggests a halt to the policy of encouraging the production of goods for the home market which could be more economically imported.

It's an idea which has been nibbling away at the minds of students of economics for years. The United States has gradually been doing something about it through the reciprocal trade treaties, and has been very insistent that Europeans do something about it to make the Marshall plan fully effective.

There has always been an argument as to whether protection of an industry because it is located in the United States and employs Americans is truly economical, as compared with letting the people buy cheaper from abroad where that is possible, thus sending dollars to create markets for other products in which America excels.

In the early postwar years there was a developing school of thought that the ultimate solution would lie in free competition, with each area or national unit producing what it produces best with less emphasis on self-sufficiency.

Against this is always to be balanced, of course, the fact that war has not been abolished, and that a nation must keep its mind on its supplies of vital materials.

ROTC Program Will Be Explained Today

Freshman male students at Texas Technological college interested in military science will assemble at 8 a. m. today for an explanation of the ROTC program, Col. R. P. Riordan reminded Tuesday afternoon.

Some 700 men are expected to be included in this year's cadet corps at Tech. Of that number 200 will be sophomores and 300 upperclassmen plus whatever number of freshmen sign up.

Cadet leaders themselves will be in charge of all ROTC activities this year, Col. Riordan revealed. In the past, the Army staff at the college has directed all maneuvers.

"We will take every advantage that may be offered in the way of using supplies and equipment of the new air base here," Col. Riordan continued. He said that instructional tours for machinists and other ROTC members will probably be made this school term.

Between 150 and 300 freshmen students are expected to take advantage of the ROTC program, which allows a commission in the army at the close of college training if the cadet wishes one. The number of new students will be added to the present 500-strong force to make up the Tech group.

Quartermaster Group Here To Meet Each Tuesday Night

Members of the 912th Quartermaster Depot Supply company, a unit of the Organized Reserve corps, now meet at 8 p.m. each Tuesday in the Naval Reserve armory on the Texas Tech campus, Major Harry C. Bowdle, commanding officer, announced Tuesday.

This unit, organized only a few months ago, now has 16 members, including five commissioned officers and 11 enlisted men. As it does not possess the status of a fully-organized unit, only the first and third Tuesdays of each month are approved as pay periods.

If its recent growth continues, however, the 912th Quartermaster SD company will soon achieve a rating entitling members to pay for every meeting attended.

Courses of study and training programs are presented at unit meetings by local officers.

Subject matter includes the new Manual of the Court Martial, map reading, administration, new Army developments and supply procedure.

Men eligible to join the Organized Reserves are invited to contact the 912 Quartermaster SD company, phone 7574. A full complement of men and officers is the immediate goal of the unit.

Information concerning this organization, and all other local Organized Reserve corps units, may be obtained from Major James Samsel, ORC instructor with offices in the Cotton Exchange building.

DIVIDEND IS VOTED

DALLAS, Sept. 13 (AP) — Texas and Pacific Railroad Co. directors voted today a $1 dividend on common stock and 1¼ per cent on preferred. The same dividends were paid last quarter. The board also bought seven 1,500-horsepower diesel-electric switch locomotives.

Utah Jailbreaker Is Captured At Borger

BORGER, Sept. 13 (AP) A Vernal, Utah, jailbreaker was arrested here early today.

Police identified him as Otis Woodring, 24, of Snyder, Okla.

They said he broke jail at Vernal on Sept. 1. At that time he was held on charges of robbing and kidnaping Alden Merrell, a Vernal service station attendant.

Woodring was picked up here at 1:40 a.m. on a tip relayed from Amarillo. Patrolmen Homer Whisnand and Hoyt Gossett of Borger made the arrest.

"All I want to know is how did you find me so fast," the officers quoted him as saying.

He offered no resistance. Officers said he carried a .25 caliber pistol. They also found burglary tools and a Utah auto license in the pickup truck he was driving.

Texas Rangers took charge of him.

Sheriff Evertt Hale of Lawton, Okla., asked Texas officers to question the man about a burglary and two car thefts committed in Lawton last May 26.

Motorist Unperturbed After Train Strikes, Drags Auto

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 13 (INS) — Some people aren't easily excited. Take Louis de Large, for instance.

Today in Paterson an Eire railroad train came screeching to a stop when the horrified conductor discovered an auto had been hit at the Midvale crossing.

He ran out to look for the victims. All he found was an auto bumper and a license plate.

Police checked the license and called De Large. The latter said, sure, he knew about the accident. The train had dragged his car, carrying his wife and two friends, for 25 feet.

Nobody had been hurt, De Large said, so he drove home.

Ten More Names Are Filed For State Board Of Education Posts

AUSTIN, Sept. 13. (AP)—Ten more persons have filed petitions as candidates for the 21-man state board of education.

Petitions filed with the Secretary of State today included that of a negro Methodist minister, the Rev. P. E. Womack of Austin. He was the second entry from the 10th Congressional district.

The other candidate from that district is Eugene Clyde Weafer, 36, of Caldwell. Paul Bolton of Austin, radio news commentator, has announced he will seek the post.

Candidates Are Named

Deadline for filing is next Monday, Sept. 19. Thus far there have been no official entries from six of the 21 congressional districts, Nos. 9, 12, 14, 18, 20 and 21.

Latest candidates, by districts, include the following:

District 1, Leon Coker, 46, of Naples. Entered by petition filed by Kermit Womack of Naples.

District 4, Paul Mathews, 45, of Greenville. Petition filed on his behalf by J. A. Anderson, superintendent of Greenville Public schools.

District 7, Emerson Stone, 55, of Jacksonville. Cherokee county school superintendent Robert L. Banks submitted the petition.

District 11, Leslie Huff, 40, of Waco. Petition entered by Irby B. Carruth, Waco superintendent of schools.

District 13, R. B. Anderson, 39, Vernon, on petition of more than 300 persons.

District 16, A. H. Dennison, 57, Odessa.

District 17, Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins, 54, Eastland, a member of the present appointive state school board. Her petition carried the endorsement of Carl Elliott, Eastland county school superintendent.

District 19, E. H. Boulter, Lubbock, 55. A petition of 360 names was filed for him by P. L. Vardy, jr., superintendent of the Slaton Public schools.

The petition on behalf of Womack, the negro candidate in district 10, included names of Anglo Americans, negroes, and Latin Americans.

Womack is 58. He was born near Fairfield, Freestone county. A graduate of Paul Quinn college, Waco, he was a trustee of that school for 12 years. He was considered for the presidency of the newly established Texas State university for negroes.

Youth Confesses Attack On His Michigan Playmate

PORT HURON, Mich., Sept. 13. (U.P.)— An 11-year-old boy who stabbed, beat and attempted to garrot a younger playmate, told his victim "God wants you to die," authorities said today.

John Schiller, son of a factory worker, confessed the attack on Michael Lyon, 4, last Thursday when the tyke pointed him out at school yesterday.

"He's the one . . . he's the one that beat me," Michael cried when authorities took him to school to identify his attacker.

Michael was found wandering aimlessly in a vacant lot with a rope still twisted around his throat and blood running from 26 stab wounds. All he could say before he collapsed was "the boys did it."

Later he told police that the fifth grade student gave him a ride on his bicycle. Schiller took him to a vacant lot, Michael said, where the older boy said "God wants you to die."

Then he slashed the four-year-old 26 times with a pocket knife, choked him with his hands and beat him with a stick, police said.

Schiller confessed pulling a rope tightly around Michael's neck in an attempt to strangle him. He refused in court to give a reason for the attack. Judge Clair Black said, and would not confirm that he told his playmate that God wanted him to die.

WINS LUCKY BALE—Mrs. Dick Taylor of 3501 Twenty-ninth street, is shown above as she accepted a check for $118.32 from Jimmy Cochran of Cochran Bros., cotton merchants, who bought the first 1949 bale of Lubbock County cotton. Mrs. Taylor was awarded the bale in a contest at the opening of Womble Olds' new Oldsmobile plant on Nineteenth street Sunday. Owner of the new plant, had originally bought the bale at a public auction here from grower Weldon Boyd of near Idalou, paying the latter $3.30 a pound—highest ever paid in such an auction in the U. S. After displaying the bale at the new Oldsmobile plant for several days Womble then gave it away. In the picture above, left to right, are Thelbert Miller, Agriculture Committee chairman of the Lubbock Jaycees; Walter Vandiver, associated with Cochran Bros.; Jimmy Cochran, Mrs. Taylor and Womble. Warden Confident Escapee Will Return

Honor-Bound Felon Believed Hitchhiking Back To Prison

SEATTLE, Sept. 13 (INS) — An honor-bound man who said he was an escaped felon was believed racing against time tonight to "thumb" his way back to Utah state prison before 9 a.m. Wednesday.

The self-described repentant convict said he was Allen J. Carbis, 42, who, as a trusty, walked out of the Salt Lake City institution Sept. 1.

Late Sunday night, he said he was hitting the road back from Seattle with $2 in his pocket and the expressed "faith" of Warden Mason W. Hill to spur him along the 927-mile route.

Warden Voices Confidence

Warden Hill voiced his confidence in the man during a telephone conversation arranged by a Seattle newspaper. The man said:

"I'm ready to come home, warden. I'm sorry I let you down. Now I want to prove I'm a right guy. I'm hitchhiking, but I'll be back in two or three days."

Warden Hill told him:

"All right, Allen. I'll give you a chance to get back here (Salt Lake City) under your own power."

Later, Hill told International News Service:

"If the man is Carbis, then it is all right with me if he wants to return alone.

"Perhaps I should have notified Seattle police, but I believe an escapee who is willing to come back and surrender voluntarily should have that chance.

Convictions Admitted

"I took his word. I'll give him until 9 a.m. Wednesday before my face starts getting red."

The man, who walked into a Seattle newspaper office, admitted he had two previous convictions for robbery, was a parole violator and previously had escaped from the Utah prison. He said:

"They convicted me of being an habitual criminal. Then, later, the habitual criminal act was repealed in Utah. So I don't know how long I have to serve."

Was Repairing Plumbing

Warden Hill said a convict named Carbis was serving a 1 to 20 year term when he escaped while serving as a trusty. He said Carbis was convicted of forgery in 1942.

When the self-identified felon reached the warden by telephone, his first words were:

"Warden, do you need a good plumber?"

The warden replied:

"I can always use a good plumber."

Tonight, Warden Hill said:

"I hope he gets here."

Carbis was repairing plumbing in the warden's quarters when he escaped.

Negro Methodist Minister Seeks Education Board Post

AUSTIN, Sept. 13. (AP)—A Negro Methodist minister today filed his petition as candidate for the state board of education from the 10th Congressional district.

He was the Rev. P. E. Womack of Austin, whose petition with 210 signatures included the names of Anglo Americans, Negroes and Latin Americans.

Womack, 58, is a graduate of Paul Quinn college, Waco. He served for 12 years as a trustee of that institution, and was considered for the presidency of the newly-established Texas State university for Negroes.

Womack said he would conduct a "prayerful campaign" throughout the Tenth district, including Travis and a tier of central and south central Texas counties.

Sleeping Driver Crushed To Death When Truck Is Moved

HOUSTON, Sept. 13. (AP)—A truck driver went to sleep this afternoon under his truck and was crushed to death when another driver moved the vehicle to have it loaded.

He was William M. Julian, 49, driver for the Southwest Oilfield Transportation company.

Accident investigator J. H. Sullins said Julian went to sleep while his truck was parked at the Manchester Terminal corporation on the Houston ship channel.

Czech Catholics Set Up Secret Network

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 13 (AP)—Roman Catholics have organized an underground communications network and the Communist government has arrested 15 priests in an effort to smash it, church and diplomatic officials said tonight.

The informants said the church had been compelled to set up some kind of system to keep contact between priests and their bishops. They said the network was not for political purposes.

The government has banned circulation of pastoral letters, closed down the church press, confiscated printing equipment and made Archbishop Josef Beran a virtual prisoner in his Prague palace, depriving Catholic administrators of normal means of communicating with the priests.

"There's no doubt about it," said one informant, that the arrests of 15 priests in the last two weeks were for the purpose of smashing the secret network.

As proof that the system is still working, however, it was pointed out that parish priests still are sending in declarations to the government that they would rather go to jail than obey a new church control bill which the Communists propose to enact.

Church sources say more than 70 per cent of the priests—or about 4,900—have already notified the government of their concerned stand.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

"A GOSSIP talks about others; a bore talks about himself and a brilliant fellow talks about you."

EMERGENCY DRIVE

FOR the first time in the 11 year history of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, it has been found necessary to appeal for funds between the March of Dimes drives.

Polio thus far this year shows an increase of 84 per cent over the same period last year. Already the National Foundation has sent almost six million in epidemic emergency aid to chapters in 41 states and Alaska. This, however, is only a start. Millions of dollars must be sent into epidemic areas for months to come. Every child and adult, too, stricken with polio must be given all of the treatment that medical skill can provide. The crippling after-effects of the disease must be held down to the lowest degree possible.

SPEAKING of Lubbock's part in helping to raise money for the polio fund, we endorse the idea of the symposium to be presented by three Lubbock ministers Oct. 6, under sponsorship of the Lubbock Exchange club, with proceeds above expenses to go to the fund.

The ministers, who will discuss conditions overseas as they observed them during recent travels, are Rabbi Julius Kerman of Congregation Shaareth Israel; Dr. M. Norvel Young of the Broadway Church of Christ and Rev. William F. Blakeslee of St. Elizabeth's Catholic church.

Although the Woman's Angle is not of the faith of any of these gentleman, she is certainly going to the program, which will be directed by Chas. A. Guy, editor and publisher of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal. We admire and respect all of the speakers; in fact consider them to be good friends.

Their collections of opinions will be well worth hearing we believe and incidentally you note it is an excellent experiment in interfaith.

STYLE TIPS

HOW to look like a million on a secretary's salary is explained by a noted designer. Here are her tips:

1. Buy simple, well-cut suits of neutral color and wrinkle-resistant fabrics.

2. Vary them with colorful accessories—scarfs and blouses are easiest.

3. Select a simple hat that will go with a change of band or trimming. A sailor or poke bonnet is safe, since they may be dressed up or down by the addition of veil or flowers.

4. Don't try to buy gloves to match each outfit. Wear plain, white cotton ones with everything. They are always correct and easy to keep clean.

IN THE MAIL

DEAR MARGARET TURNER: A few mornings ago I read in your column about certain saleswomen. I hope you write more on the subject.

Not long ago I moved here from a large city. Of course in larger cities saleswomen have to be respectful to would be customers or they would soon be out of a job. I have noticed so many times when you walk up to a counter in some Lubbock stores, the saleswoman looks at you with a bored expression as if to say, "Well, what do you want and why are you bothering me?"

I am certainly not an old fuddy duddy, but it seems to me that some of the store managers would take a look see at some of their employes and note the impudent attitude some of them take toward customers.

Sometimes I walk in and leave again; resolved I'll never go in the store again.

Yours very sincerely,
Mrs. M. (name withheld on request.)

THIS little argument that seems underway in our column on attitude of some Lubbock salespeople certainly is not considered an indictment against everyone. If you are employed by a store and are doing your best and chance to read this, you'll just pass over it. If you happen to be one of the clerks who has inspired the several letters that have come our way in the last week, perhaps you'll do a little thinking and perhaps make a few changes.

Lubbock is growing by leaps and bounds. As an old timer and one who is very proud of Lubbock, we find ourself wishing that everyone would do all he can, in whatever walk of life, to make these newcomers feel at home and glad they have cast their lot with us.

Fall Season Opened By Women's Groups

The season for four clubs was opened Tuesday at a tea and three luncheons. Varied programs, including musical numbers and a book review, were presented for the groups.

MARQUAND BOOK IS REVIEWED

"Expanding Horizons," program topic for the year for Lubbock Woman's Forum, was initiated at a Tuesday luncheon meeting at Hilton hotel when Mrs. Ivy Savage, a guest, reviewed John P. Marquand's book, "The Point of No Return," one of the top best sellers since last March.

Mrs. Savage, basing her review on the finely drawn word portraits of the main characters of the book, stated that the novel is clean, wholesome, interesting and thought provoking. It's the story of a young business man whose decisions finally reached the point of no return. The reviewer was introduced by Mrs. D. M. Beach, program leader for the day.

Marquand, a former Saturday Evening Post writer and a Harvard graduate, has written eight novels and has been a Pulitzer prize winner. Mrs. Savage quoted him as saying, "The business of being a writer is the loneliest occupation in the world."

The luncheon hostesses, Mesdames D. D. Webster, Alfred Crosby, Douglas Parker and W. B. Rushing, decorated the table with an arrangement of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums from which appeared brown satin streamers extending the length of the table. At the streamer points were nosegays of yellow chrysanthemums.

Mrs. J. B. McCauley, jr., club president, presented greetings and Mrs. Clarence Whiteside offered the invocation. Club yearbooks designated the places of the 40 persons attending.

SOUTHERN TEA AT RUSH HOME

Familiar Southern aires were presented by two musicians, Mrs. Joe Kelly and Mrs. Frank Goodwin, for Sorosis club Tuesday afternoon at a Southern tea given in the home of Mrs. Rufus Rush, Rushland Park.

Mrs. Rush and her co-hostess, Mrs. C. H. Smith, greeted their guests in costumes of the early South. The club president, Mrs. R. S. Williams, spoke briefly.

Club colors of yellow and white were used in flower decorations and table appointments. Twenty-one memebrs and one guest, Mrs. W. A. Robinson of Comanche, attended.

DO YOU HATE GOING THROUGH 'CHANGE of LIFE'?

So many women between the ages of 38 and 52 have good reason to hate 'change of life' — the time when fertility ebbs away — when embarrassing symptoms of this nature may betray your age!

If this functional period makes you suffer from hot flushes or makes you feel so weak, nervous, restless, hard to live and work with — try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. Women by the thousands have reported remarkable benefits. No other medicine of this type for women has such a long record of success.

'Stubborn Fruit and Jelly Stains Disappear Like Magic With Hi-lex!'

Says Mrs. Robert Smyth

"I've never had a failure when I use Hi-lex Bleach to remove stains from my white cottons and linens. And the new Hi-lex containing ingredient "X" works much quicker yet safer than before.

"Here's how I use Hi-lex for best results on such stains as Scorch, Berry, Coffee, Mildew, Medicine and similar discolorations:

"First rinse fabric well, then soak about 15 minutes in a solution of 2 tablespoons Hi-lex to a quart of water. If the stain is stubborn, add a little vinegar. Rinse well in clear water."

Hi-lex Now Improved with Ingredient X

NEVADA SOLON BLASTS POLICIES

Senate Agrees To Begin Voting On Trade Pact Bill Thursday

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13. (AP)—The Senate agreed today to begin voting Thursday (3 p.m. CST) on amendments to the reciprocal trade agreemnts bill.

The agreement was reached at the close of a day in which the Senate heard a bitter attack on the administration's trade policies by Senator Malone (R-Nev.).

The reciprocal trade measure is frequently described as the keystone of those policies. Under it, the President, without reference to Congress, can negotiate mutual tariff-cutting agreements with other countries, lowering U. S. import duties as much as 50 per cent below the 1945 rates.

"Peril Point" Opposed

The Senate agreement to start voting Thursday caused administration leaders to abandon plans for a night session tonight.

They are marshalling their forces to try to defeat a "peril point" amendment which Republican senators want to attach to the bill. If, in negotiating trade agreements with another country, the President arranged to cut below a level which the tariff commission held would imperil American producers, he would have to explain to Congress.

James G. Patton, president of the National Farmers union, charged that the Republicans are trying to put President Truman "on the spot" by that amendment.

In a letter to Senate Democratic leader Lucas, Patton said the peril point provision would serve no useful purpose and on the other hand would impose a serious handicap to the smooth functioning of the trade agreement program.

The Republican 80th Congress wrote a peril point provision into the old trade law which expired last June.

Bell County Rancher Speaks At Optimist Club Meeting

Col. Joel I. McGregor, former Army officer and now a Bell county rancher, Tuesday appealed to members of the Optimist club to be "thinking, patriotic Texans."

Speaking at a luncheon meeting at Hotel Lubbock, Colonel McGregor outlined a program sponsored by the Texas Rural Roads association to improve rural roads, to aid in soil conservation, to provide flood control and water conservation and to establish funds for maintenance and construction of all state owned buildings.

"Lets leave our children and grandchildren a state to be proud of even after it has been exploited," he concluded.

Judge Walter Davies introduced Colonel McGregor. G. C. Stewart presided and J. H. Cox gave the invocation.

Art Young announced the club will sponsor ticket sales and will provide ushers for the Little Theater plays this year.

Anniversary Observance Is In Honor Of Two Couples

CROSBYTON, Sept. 13 (Special)—An open house was given Sunday to honor Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Williams on their Golden Wedding anniversary and their daughter, Mrs. J. W. Hinson, and her husband, on their Silver anniversary. Guests called from 2:30 until 5:30 o'clock at the Williams home.

Hostesses were Mesdames Taylor Lowrie, G. C. Nickson, J. M. Campbell and John Harvey.

The table was covered with a cloth crocheted by Mrs. O. B. Williams of Lubbock, a daughter-in-law. It was centered with a double wedding cake, one ring being centered with golden ornaments and yellow confection roses and lilies of the valley; the other, silver ornaments and silver leaves and white confection roses and lilies of the valley.

The table was an antique which Mr. and Mrs. Williams have used since they began housekeeping.

Rev. Loyd Hamilton spoke during the afternoon.

Biographical Sketches

Mr. Williams was born Jan. 28, 1875, in Oconee county, Ga., and Mrs. Williams was born Nov. 23, 1883, in Coryell county, where the couple was married Sept. 10, 1899. They are parents of six children: O. B. Williams of Lubbock, Mrs. Hinson, C. R. (Red) Williams of Crosbyton, T. R. Williams of Portales, N. M., Marvin Williams of Pecos, Mrs. Jack Marsh of Crosbyton. There are a number of grandchildren.

Mr. Hinson was born June 1, 1898 and his wife was born May 29, 1902. They are natives of Coryell county, and were married Sept. 10, 1924. They are parents of one daughter, Mrs. Lee Rox Cox of Lubbock.

Out-of-town guests for the reception were Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Heathington, Ralls; Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Coffee and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Roy Cox, Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Williams, Jamesboro; Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Williams, Comanche; Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Nationalist General Appeals For U. S. Aid

CANTON, Sept. 13. (AP) — Gen. Pai Chung-Hsi today appealed for U. S. aid as the storm of a new Communist offensive threatened to break momentarily over his armies defending South China.

Red armies were concentrating on the front 140 miles northeast of Canton. Pai and even some foreign observers expressed confidence that the Nationalists could hold the line.

"The quicker aid comes the less will be needed," Pai told a news conference. "The longer aid is delayed the more will be needed, and even then there will be a qustion whether it will be effective."

Pai argued it would be shortsighted if help was withheld because of a dislike for the present rulers of China. (The State department in its white paper wrote off the Nationalist regime as a failure but a bill allowing President Truman to spend $75,000,000 to aid China is pending in the Senate.

AIR FORCE IS MAJOR TARGET

Navy Fight Against Unification Program Again Flares Into Open

BY CHARLES CORDDRY
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13—The Navy's long-smouldering fight against unification of the armed forces, once publicly squelched by President Truman, appeared today to be flaring again into the open.

The latest turn in the "battle of the B-36" carried the clear implication that Navy officers, who sparked a congressional investigation of the big Air Force bomber, actually were shooting at the Air Force itself and at the two-year-old law that put the Army, Navy and Air Force under a single defense establishment.

Officers Defend Stand

Under unification they failed to get either the war role they wanted for the Navy or the number of airplanes they thought they needed to carry out that role. This is exactly what they had feared would happen if the services were joined.

It was increasingly obvious that Capt. John G. Crommelin was speaking the private sentiments of much of the Navy brass when he risked his career to charge in a statement that the Air Force is overselling its case to a point that threatens the Navy with extinction.

Some high-ranking officers even came to his support publicly. Adm. William F. (Bull) Halsey, retired wartime commander of the Third fleet, said he felt "very strongly" that Crommelin "is attempting to do something for the good of the country."

Rear Adm. Austin K. Doyle, who heads the Naval air training program, called Crommelin one of the greatest naval aviators of all time and said that when Crommelin speaks, "the American people should listen to him."

Adm. Louis E. Denfeld, chief of naval operations, was reported by a reliable source to have intervened personally to prevent Under-Secretary of the Navy Dan A. Kimball from suspending Crommelin on the spot.

Crommelin, a former carrier commander, said he helped start the row over the Air Force B-36. He did so, he said, in an effort to focus Congress' attention on a "dangerous" and growing "concentration of power" in the unified Defense department.

Navy's Chances Hurt

He said the Navy's representative on the powerful joint chiefs of staff is outvoted by his Army and Air Force opposites who may, he said, have a "landlocked" defense outlook. Crommelin is one of many officers on the staff of the joint chiefs.

The House investigation that stemmed from an "anonymous" attack on the B-36 procurement program—an attack admittedly drafted by Cedric R. Worth, an assistant to Undersecretary Kimball—never got much further than tracking down Worth and finding his charges false.

The hearings are due to resume on Oct. 5. The new barrage against the Air Force and unification generally may result in a much broader inquiry. However, a source close to the House investigating group said the B-36 fiasco hurt the Navy's prospects in any further investigation.

Midland Man Drives Five Miles With Cut Throat To Save Life

HILLSBORO, Sept. 13. (AP)—With his throat sliced from ear to ear, a Midland, man saved his own life by driving five miles to a hospital, officers reported today.

The condition of James Moore, 21, of Midland was reported as serious at a Hillsboro hospital, but doctors said he would recover.

According to officers, here is what happened:

Moore, visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Moore of Files Valley, Hill county, went to a tavern at West, Tex., last night.

A man asked him for a ride to Hillsboro and Moore gave him a lift.

Five miles south of Hillsboro, on Highway 77, the man used a knife to cut Moore's throat. The man then ran away.

Bleeding profusely, Moore sped to a hospital here.

"He showed amazing stamina," said a doctor. "I don't see how he did it. He lost a great deal of blood."

The juglar vein was laid bare but not severed. Moore's windpipe was nicked, but not penetrated.

"He saved his own life by getting to a hospital," the doctor said.

Moore was unable to talk to Sheriff Charlie Garrison. Garrison went to Moore's bloody car and found it contained some cans of beer—still cold.

Sheriff Garrison concluded that Moore could not have driven far. He made the rounds of taverns and eWst, learned the identity of the West, learned the identity of the Whitney, Tex., today.

The man made a full confession, the sheriff said.

District Extension Agent To Check Boll Worm Situation

MORTON, Sept. 13 (Special) — Guy Carpenter, district extension entomologist, will be in Cochran county Thursday, Sept. 15, to check the boll worm situation with County Agent Homer E. Thompson.

Some pictures will be made both of harmful and helpful insects to be shown at a later meeting which farmers can attend.

County Agent Thompson points out that a heavy infestation of boll worms can do serious damage within three days. This applies not only to the production but it lowers the cotton grade. Farmers should check five or six stalks in at least five or six different places in the field. One or two boll worms per stalk is more than serious. The application of 10% DDT should then be begun immediately if weather is dry.

Non-Veterans May Join Reserve Corps

Men without prior military service now may enlist in the Army reserves for assignment to local Reserve corps units, Major James Samsel, local Reserve corps instructor, announced Tuesday.

In addition, Samsel said, 17-year-olds now may enlist in the reserves for assignment here, providing they present a certificate of parents' consent. Enlistees between 18 and 21 must present a birth certificate to establish age, he added.

These enlistees will be eligible for assignment to the 411th Transportation Truck battalion, which has an authorized strength of 11 commissioned officers and 232 enlisted men.

Capt. C. T. Forrester, commanding officer of the battalion, pointed out Tuesday that previous-service military men also may be enlisted in the grade held at time of discharge from active service.

This applies equally to Navy and Marine corps veterans, but these men must present their discharges so that an equivalent grade may be obtained from higher headquarters, Forrester said.

Courses of study and training schedules by lectures, conferences and demonstrations will be presented by local officers.

Subject matter includes the new Manual of the Court Martial, map reading, driver training, maintenance, loading, and new weapons development.

Men interested in joining the Organized Reserves should contact the local ORC office in the Cotton Exchange building, phone 7574.

Lubbock Minister Discusses Observations Made During Summer Tour Of Europe And Near East

BY BILL CLARK
Avalanche Staff Writer

"If our democracy is going to take its place as a leader, we are going to have to go in and influence the thought of the people in Europe, and I don't know any way to do it except through the press and missionary work."

That was one of several pointed observations made by Dr. M. Norvel Young, minister of Broadway Church of Christ, who is back on the job after a summer-long tour of Europe during which he witnessed first-hand the missionary work being done by his church in Germany and Italy.

He was accompanied by Mrs. Young and by his mother, Mrs. M. N. Young, sr., and Dr. and Mrs. Batsell Baxter of Memphis, Tenn.

"We have paid the price for an unconditional victory (in Germany and Italy) and then, I feel, we have failed to get through the government to the people. We have been too timid. We have been misled into thinking we can appoint a few people in government and eradicate a whole era of fascist education, under which the young persons of those countries have been brought up."

Dr. Young had an opportunity to study conditions in Europe more thoroughly than the average traveler, since he and his party stayed longer.

Fascism Returning

Briefly, some of the conditions he found were these:

He found England "very much changed" since a prior visit 12 years ago, with the people living as austerely as anywhere in Europe.

He found some "persecution" of Church of Christ missionaries in Belgium and Italy.

He found a resurgence of Fascism in Italy, where people are saying the Fascists did not allow such conditions as now exist there.

Poverty was at its worst in Egypt, with beggars far more numerous there than elsewhere.

Inflation seemed to be worst in Israel, where the party found living conditions most expensive.

And everywhere, Texas was a familiar name.

Dr. Young and his party flew to England, where they spent several days. They picked up an automobile there, and their European travels were by automobile, although they did not take the car to Egypt and Israel.

They found the English worse off economically than most other places in Europe. They visited Stratford-on-Avon, Birmingham, the English lake country, Edinburgh, Newcastle, York, Cambridge and other points of interest.

Dr. Young Lectures

They then went to Holland, visiting Amsterdam and Haarlem, where a mission is supported by the Abilene church. They then went on to Belgium, stopping at Brussels and Liege, where a mission has been established by the Church of Christ. They continued their journey then to France, Switzerland and Germany, where they spent some two weeks.

They visited the 24 workers in missions in Frankfort, Munich and Heidelberg. They visited with Mr. and Mrs. Otis Gatewood, former Lubbock residents who are now at Frankfort.

Dr. Young lectured on alternate nights, with Dr. Baxter lecturing alternately. The lectures were in English, but resumes were given in German. All missionary instruction is conducted in German.

The Gatewoods have adopted a little German girl and both Mr. and Mrs. Gatewood look well, Dr. Young said. They have made a home out of a former barracks building obtained from the Army. The Gatewoods later flew to Jerusalem to meet Dr. Young and his party for a Palestine tour.

The Lubbock minister found response to the missionary work "excellent" and cooperation on the part of the Germans good. He became acquainted with the head of relief work in Frankfort and with the Mayor of Munich.

Visited The Vatican

Dr. and Mrs. Young were also fortunate enough to go to Berlin on a day when they were able to get into the Russian zone on a guided tour. While in Berlin they met a Lubbock man, Lt. C. T. Potts, who took them to lunch.

From Germany the Youngs and their party went through Austria by way of Innsbruck to Italy. Their itinerary in Italy included Florence and Pisa en route to Rome.

In Rome they visited the Vatican and saw Pope Pius XII at a public appearance. They did not talk to him, however.

"We were very much impressed with the size of St. Peter's and the large dome into which the Washington monument would almost fit," Dr. Young said.

They also viewed the Codex Vaticanus, which is displayed in the Vatican.

While at Rome the Youngs visited the Frascati Orphans home, which the church purchased as an orphanage for $40,000. They found it a beautiful place, a villa formerly called "Villa Esperanza" (Hopeful Villa), about 12 miles from Rome.

The missionaries there were having difficulty obtaining Italian-language Bibles. They were unable to purchase them in Italy and were unable to import them from the United States.

Religious Demonstrations

They found some antagonism also. Many religious "parades" had been staged in front of the mission, and anonymous notes inviting them to leave had been received.

There were other exasperating incidents, too, Dr. Young said he was told. An application for authority to operate the orphans home was mislaid for months. A source of water supply was cut off and the church was put to a great deal of expense piping water from a nearby village.

At present there are 12 or 15 children at Frascati, but preparations are being made for 50 this fall.

Proceeding to Naples, they climbed Mount Veisuvius. That, famous volcano had changed, too, since his previous visit to Italy, Dr. Young found. Recent eruptions had changed the appearance of the mountain.

From Naples they took a boat to Beirut, then to Egypt. There they found poverty is rampant, and they were constantly accosted by beggars and would-be "guides."

They had some difficulty in leaving Egypt when officials found their destination was Israel.

Flew To Israel

"One man told us there are 22,000,000 persons in Egypt," Dr. Young said. "Of these, three million are said to 'live', and the other 19 million merely 'exist.'"

Finally, they had to book air passage to Cyprus, and from Cyprus they flew to Israel.

"Tel Aviv was disappointing to me," Dr. Young said. He found that it has grown rapidly, but it is not built on modern lines. Streets are narrow, although many buildings are modern.

They hired a 1941 model Plymouth and a driver for two days for $120. They saw many of the historic and Biblical places of Palestine, including most of Jerusalem. From the Church of Domitian they were even able to see much of the walled portion of Jerusalem which is under the rule of Transjordan.

As for Texas, it seemed to be a password wherever the party went.

Dr. Young recalled one elevator boy in a Madrid hotel who learned they were from Texas and nearly "went up into the clouds" with excitement. After that, whenever they boarded the elevator, the young man tried out some of his new English words on them.

Man Discovers His Spree Was Made On Counterfeit Money

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 13 (INS) — Vinal J. Elmdorf, 55-year-old Navy vet, thought Lady Luck was surely on his side when he found $150 hidden behind a wash basin in an Eighth Street hotel where he was repairing some plumbing.

Elmdorf resigned his membership in Alcoholic Anonymous for one night and toured main street bars, setting them up for everyone.

But the next day when he woke up in his Sawtelle soldiers home room and looked at his few remaining bills, he saw that they looked "funny."

He showed them to the soldiers home officials who in turn showed them to other people—and today Elmdorf was arrested by secret service agents on charges of passing and possession of counterfiet money.

Fred O. Wasson, head of the Secret Service in Los Angeles, said that the money had been printed by a counterfeiter named Henry Peters who was convicted in 1934. Nearly 12 years afterwards his plates were found in the hotel room and agents surmised that he hid the $150 sometime before his arrest.

Tech Alumni Meet Is Set At San Antonio

Reservations are now being accepted in the Tech ex-students office for the annual alumni luncheon at San Antonio's Hotel Gunter Sept. 24, preceding the Tech-Texas A. and M. football game.

Gov. Allan Shivers will be principal speaker at the luncheon, which will honor Tech's board of directors. Tickets for the affair are $2.50 each and must be obtained before noon, Sept. 23, D. M. McElroy, ex-students head, revealed.

A three-room suite in the Gunter will be open Friday night through Saturday night as an "open house" to all Tech alumni. "It's just an old-fashioned get-together," Tom Pettit, president of the San Antonio chapter of the ex-students association, told McElroy.

The San Antonio chapter has a block of seats for the Tech- A and M football game which may be obtained by exes by writing Pettit at 206 East Ashby, San Antonio, and enclosing $3.

Harris Grand Jury Probe Of Farmers Market Delayed

HOUSTON, Sept. 13. (AP)— The Harris county grand jury rested today, allowing a 24-hour lull in the investigation of an alleged scandal at Houston's farmers market.

Twenty-one witnesses testified yesterday, including reporter Jack Donahue of the Houston Press. Donahue first let the public know about farmers market operations six week ago when he posed as a farmer.

The jury has particular interest in the administration of J. E. (Jake) Murray as market master, and in the alleged practices of Attorney C. R. Goslin in charging merchants "extra" fees.

Murray has already been fired by mayor pro tem Tom Needham, and Goslin is being investigated by the Houston Bar association.

The jury probe will be resumed Wednesday.

Louisiana Man Is Crushed By Earth Moving Machine

TEXARKANA, Sept. 13 (AP) — Melvin G. Reynolds, 24, Colfax, La., was crushed fatally by an earth moving machine at the Texarkana damsite early today.

He was a construction company employe. A spokesman for the U.S. corps of engineers said Reynolds was directing the earthmovers into position for loading operations, when one backed up and trapped him against another.

The accident occurred at 1 a.m., under floodlights as around-the-clock work went on at the damsite, five miles south of the city. Reynolds died five hours later at a hospital.

Furious Lefts, Rights Give Henderson Kayo Over O'Neal

James Decisions Amarillo's Brown

By JOE KELLY
Avalanche Sports Editor

Bill Henderson unleashed a furious left and right hand attack on Jeep O'Neal of Oklahoma City, Okla., last night at Sled Allen's arena, knocking out his opponent at 1:35 of the fifth round after having O'Neal in trouble all through the fourth stanza.

O'Neal countered for three rounds with a flicking left and an occasional right that bounced harmlessly off the gloves and forehead of the Levelland Larruper. But Henderson, once he smelled blood, turned savage. He threw caution to the winds and hammered in with flurries of lefts and rights that had O'Neal down four times in the fourth and twice in the second, the final for the last time.

Gene James Wins

Three other fights featured the card, which was unreeled before a packed house of over 1,200 fans who braved rain and chill to witness another professional card.

Gene James received a unanimous decision over Dickie Brown of Amarillo in a six round heavyweight bout that went the limit.

Leonard Duncan of Hale Center chilled Jimmie Boggs of Amarillo in a scheduled six round middleweight scrap, the knockout coming at 1:45 of the first heat.

Bill Buck of Lubbock scored a second round Technical Knockout over J. R. Rose of Oklahoma City. The latter was unable to answer the bell for the third round of a scheduled four rounder.

James had his hands full with Brown, who displayed a wicked right hook that caused James trouble on several occasions. The big Lubbock boy, who beat Brown when both were Golden Glovers, never was able to get the range. He battered the Amarilloan at close range, but Brown had the best of it at a distance.

Decision Booed

The decision, roundly booed, resulted in the two being matched for an eight round fight on Sept. 26, if possible. James shoved and mauled Brown, opening a cut over Brown's left eye, and aiming for the body with in-fighting. But Brown, tougher than a boot, came strongly in the final three rounds to fight James to a standstill.

Buck, in the night's opener, slugged Rose with both hands to hammer him into a pulp, even though the visiting fighter rallied to dish out his share of punishment. Rose was all in after the second round, when he could do little but retreat, turning to throw a right that landed, although weakly.

Duncan Looks Better

Duncan displayed so much improvement over his form in the Plainview fight, when he made his debut, that he was hardly recognizable as the same fighter. He came out cautiously, exchanged a few harmless blows and then landed a right flush on Boggs' face.

Having found the range, Duncan crashed two more rights to the face. His fourth, a triphammer blow, caught Boggs flush on the jaw and the Amarillo fighter sank to the mat.

Action speeded up in the second canto, with Henderson going after the midsection, which O'Neal apparently didn't like. O'Neal continued to throw a good left jab and an occasional right that did no damage.

In the third round, Henderson speeded up action, going after O'Neal's body with a reaching left and a smashing right that all too often found the mark. Henderson had O'Neal on the ropes two or three times and was hitting hard with a strong right that was a little off.

Fourth Hurts O'Neal

It was the fourth round that weakened O'Neal the most. Henderson flashed his body attack and when the Oklahoman covered, Henderson smashed solid lefts and rights to the face. O'Neal went down four times during the round. The first time he slipped, the second time he took a left to the jaw, the third time he went down from a flurry of lefts and rights and the final time it was the same story.

Henderson came out fast for the fifth round, opening up with a two-fisted attack. He looked like a madman in the ring, knowing that victory was within his grasp. O'Neal made one mistake. He tried to fight Henderson the same way and came out the loser. Henderson was landing four blows for every one he took and each carried more sting.

HENDERSON CONNECTS—Bill Henderson, right, Levelland lightweight, bounces a right off the head of Jeep O'Neal, Oklahoma City in the fourth round of last night's main event in the boxing show at Sled Allen's arena. Henderson went on to batter the Oklahoman mercilessly through the rest of the fight before scoring a knockout in 1 minute 35 seconds of the fifth round. (Staff Photo Bq Choc Hutcheson).

Indians Defeat Tulsa In Opener

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 13. (AP)—Oklahoma City buried a regular season jinx tonight, edging Tulsa 5-4 in the opener of their Texas league playoff semifinals.

Lefty Al Olsen weathered frequent Tulsa hitting streaks in the latter innings to maintain the Tribe's lead until the close.

Oklahoma City took an early 4-0 margin by rapping Tulsa starter Jim Avrea sharply for two runs apiece in the second and third frames.

The Oilers raillied gamely to narrow Oklahoma City's lead and in the ninth had the tie run on third base when pinch hitter Walt Wrona grounded to end the game.

Indian double plays twice cut down Tulsa scoring chances. Al Boresh relieved Avrea in the fourth, giving up what proved to be the winning run in the seventh. The Indians did it on two singles and a stolen base after two were out. Dav Jolly shutout Oklahoma City in the last two stanzas.

Before the game it was announced that spare outfielder Steve Filipowicz was indefinitely suspended for jumping the Tulsa club, Filipowicz, who reportedly had an argument with manager Al Vincent, failed to show up for tonight's contest.

Dummy Scrimmage Held In Rain And Mud

Two Practice Sessions Remain Before Lubbock-Childress Tilt

Only two practice sessions remain before the Childress Bobcat and Lubbock Westerner football game Friday, and a soggy Chapman field may slow down the workout today and tomorrow.

Game time at Jones Stadium is 8 p. m., and reserve seat tickets may be bought prior to that time at the athletic office at Lubbock High school, E. J. Lowrey, athletic business manager said earlier. Early ticket buyers will get the better seats.

Tuesday's session was held in the rain and mud, and a dummy scrimmage session was run, the hard contact work being discontinued because of the danger of injuries.

The boys looked good despite the condition of the ball and field, and handoffs and faking on the plays was done with precision.

Defense Stressed

Play practices and defensive assignments were stressed, and Coach Pat Pattison said late yesterday that the defensive would come in for lots of attention the next two days.

The Childress team is reported to be an inexperienced team, with new men slated to see lots of action in every game. The loss of Mack Darron, an all-district candidate through ineligibility gave the Bobcats a severe blow.

Don Ezell, a former Texas Christian university gridder, is in his second season at the helm of the Childress squad and has not been too optimistic about the team's chances until the middle of the season when the boys have been able to develop into a team.

The six lettermen on the squad are in the line, and all four backfield men are graduates of the "B" team or sophomores.

The Childress offensive attack is likely to be mainly passing, with Joe Powell, lanky 160-pounder, throwing the ball.

Coach Pattison is expected to send a strong ground attack against Childress, with Halfbacks Wayne Stroud and Charlie Williams, and Fullback Malcolm Young carrying a large part of the load.

Stroud was not working out Tuesday, having developed a cold and slight throat infection last weekend, but he will probably be ready Friday.

If not, either Mack Taylor or Morris Turner could step into the lineup on a moment's notice.

LONGHORN PLAYOFFS

BIG SPRING, Sept. 13 (AP)—A playoff game between Big Spring and San Angelo of the Longhorn league, scheduled here tonight, was postponed because of wet grounds. The teams were to meet in the preliminary Shaughnessy playoffs. Vernon is to meet Midland at Midland.

Good Men In Every Position

Horned Frogs Seen As Powerhouse Team

FORT WORTH, Sept. 13.—Texas Christian is coming up with a powerhouse football team. It could write the best Horned Frog record since the glorious days of 1938 when the Christians were undefeated and untied.

It has more speed than any T.C.U. eleven in a decade. It has top-flight passing, running and kicking.

The pay-off is the reticence of Coach Leo (Dutch) Meyer. Usually Meyer talks freely about his prospects, points out the strength and weaknesses, predicts what the team will do. This time he only comments on the fact that the Frogs will have better passing and more speed in their running.

But the squad speaks for itself. Rough scrimmage sessions—game conditions on Saturdays—reveal that the Frogs are very deep in good men at every position.

Seven ends, four tackles, six guards, two centers, four fullbacks, five halfbacks and one quarterback are lettermen. And there is no weakness at quarterback although it has but a single veteran.

It happens that that veteran is Lindy Berry, one of the busiest and most effective men in the nation's football. Berry was a star last year and he has improved over that—he's a good bet for All-America.

Berry is a better passer. His anticipation has improved and he has better receivers. He runs like a rabbit and hits like a truck. He is a fine field general—and in that he also has improved over last season.

Behind Berry is one of the best prospects Texas Christian ever had. The lad's name is Dan Wilde and while he's a junior in classification, he's a sophomore in football. He has three varsity seasons ahead. Wilde was held out of varsity play last year for that purpose.

The young man from Graham is going to be one of the best runners in the league. He is fast and shifty and hard to bring down. He also can pass and punt. Meyer thinks he will be one of the all-time conference greats before he finishes out his string.

Munger Outduels Koslo To Give Cards 1-0 Shutout Over Giants

Brooklyn Defeats Cincinnati, 6 To 3

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 13. (AP)— Red Munger was in top shape as he bested Dave Koslo in a pitchers' duel tonight, giving the St. Louis Cardinals a 1 to 0 triumph over the New York Giants. Munger allowed but one hit. He also walked a man — facing 28 Giants altogether.

DODGERS RALLY TO DROP CINCINNATI REDS, 6 TO 3

CINCINNATI, Sept. 13. (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers exploded for three runs in the tenth inning tonight, highlighted by Jackie Robinson's two-run triple, to defeat the Cincinnati Reds 6-3. The victory enabled the runner-up Brooks to remain a game and a half behind the victorious, league-leading St. Louis Cardinals.

KINER HOMERS TO GIVE BUCS 11-6 WIN OVER PHILS

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 13. (AP)—Ralph Kiner, husky Pittsburgh outfielder, tied a major league record of four grand slam home runs in one season tonight as the Pirates beat Philadelphia's Phillies 11-6.

Kiner smashed his 47th and 48th homers of the year on consecutive appearances in the first and second innings. His clout in the first coming with the sacks loaded, tied the mark of four grand slamers in one year, held by six players, including the late Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig.

Lubbock Pioneers To Begin Play Thursday

The Lubbock Pioneers will begin their nine-game football schedule at Chapman field Thursday night against Frenship school of Wolfforth in a game to be played at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets for the game will be on sale for 25 and 50 cents, tax included.

On the Pioneer schedule this season are Wolfforth, Meadow, Plainview, Littlefield, Levelland, Ropes and Petersburg, with two games scheduled with Plainview and Littlefield.

Last year the Pioneers won but one game, lost five and tied one, but this year a better season is predicted. Larger, more experienced sophomores are on the team this year, and the squad thus far has appeared to be better in every department.

Farwell Is 'Dark Horse' Of 3-B

Louis Purvis Steers' Mentor

FARWELL, Sept. 13 (Special)—A rank newcomer is a real "dark horse" threat in District 3-B football this fall.

Farwell's Steers, under Coach Louis Purvis, are in their first season in the 3-B circuit, and only their second year of 11-man football. But already they show signs of putting up a real fight for title honors.

In 1948, playing an "open" schedule of 10 non-district games, the Steers won nine tilts while losing only to Vega, a team which they had beaten earlier in the season.

This year they got off to a good start with a convincing 24-6 triumph over Melrose, N. M., and now they're all set for a tough nine-game conference slate.

Face Friona First

Friona's powerful Chiefs, who come here Friday night, are first on the list, after which Farwell engages Whitharral, Hale Center, Dimmitt, Spade, Olton, Amherst, Anton and Springlake in the order named.

The Steers' weight averages, 155 in the line and 140 in the backfield, are up to usual Class B standards, but the squad is extremely short of reserves. Against Melrose, however, several sophomores came through with standout performances which indicated that they may satisfactorily fill several existing gaps.

In the Melrose game, Fullback Beryle Nix and Halfbacks Jerry Pool and Jessie Coburn turned in sparkling offensive work which indicated that they probably will bear the brunt of the Steer attack this fall.

Schedule And Roster

The remaining Farwell schedule includes Sept. 16, Friona at Farwell; Sept. 23, Whitharral at Farwell; Sepjt. 30, Farwell at Hale Center; Oct. 7, Farwell at Dimmitt; Oct. 14, Spade at Farwell; Oct. 21, Olton at Farwell; Oct. 28, Farwell at Amherst; Nov. 4, Farwell at Anton; Nov. 11, Farwell at Springlake. All games are conference affairs.

The Steer roster, with weights, includes:

ENDS—Bobby Poteet, 160, and Donald Ford, 175.
TACKLES—Pete Hughes, 137, and Bobby Dollar, 175.
GUARDS—Troy McKillip, 153, and Gerald Norton, 140.
CENTER—John Christian, 150.
QUARTERBACK — Melvin Terry, 140.
HALFBACKS—Jerry Pool, 137, and Jessie Coburn, 140.
FULLBACK—Beryle Nix.
LINE RESERVES—Donald Joe Pipkin, 150; Rex Pool, 140; Gerald Curtis, 150; Leon London, 155.
BACKFIELD RESERVES — Alvin Jordon, 140; Sonny Spurlin, 130; Bob Geries, 135; Dennis Raney, 135; Harold Dosher, 130; and Cary Joe Magness, 150.

Federal Judge Dismisses Houston's Wrestling Suit

HOUSTON, Sept. 13 (AP) — Federal Judge T. M. Kennerly today dismissed a damage suit alleging that Houston's wrestling profession has become an interstate commerce problem.

Wrestler Sterling (Dizzy) Davis on July 20 filed suit against promoter Morris Sigel, asking $143,000 in damages and alleging violation of the Sherman Antitrust Act. A short time earlier the State Labor and Boxing Commissioner had declined to issue Davis a promoter's license.

The court petition alleged Sigel's wrestling activities have become an interstate affair in that his operations bulge into Louisiana.

Kennerly said his court lacks jurisdiction over the case.

Red Sox Keep Flag Hopes Alive With 7-4 Victory Over Tigers

BOSTON, Sept. 13. (INS)—The Red Sox kept their American league pennant hopes alive today as they came from behind twice to chalk up a 7 to 4 victory over the Detroit Tigers. Detroit had won ten in a row and 18 of their previous 20 starts.

The triumph lifted the Sox to within 2½ games of the New York Yankees, who were rained out of a doubleheader, and knocked the Tigers six games below the top.

The McCarthymen pounded Art Houtteman and Ted Gray for 16 hits, while Jack Kramer and Mel Parnell were limiting the Tigers to nine safeties. Kramer was the winner although lifted for a pinch hitter in the sixth.

The Tigers bunched four singles and a walk for their three runs in the opening frame. The Sox came in to knot the count when Al Zarilla hit a bases-filled double.

A walk and singles by Hoot Evers and Aaron Robinson put the Tigers in front in the sixth.

The Sox went ahead in their half on Billy Goodman's single, Lou Stringer's double, a single by Birdie Tebbetts and a long fly by pinch-hitter Tom Wright.

Zarilla tripled and scored on Goodman's fourth straight single for the sixth Sox run in the seventh. Tebbetts walked and scored on John Pesky's third single to account for the final Boston run in the eighth.

CUSTOMS OFFICER DIES

BILOXI, Miss., Sept. 13 (AP)—John J. Kennedy, 74, U. S. controller of customs in New Orleans, died here today. He had been ill only a short time.

Mexico's Federal District was reported "being invaded by a cockroach plague."

Gulf Coast Conference Will Onen With Four Saturday Games

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 13 (AP) — After last week's half start, the Gulf Coast Intercollegiate Conference really starts rolling this weekend. Four teams—the complete membership of Texas' newest athletic alignment—see action in Saturday night games.

University of Houston meets William and Mary, the great Southern Conference eleven, at Houston; North Texas, winner last week, puts its undefeated record on the line at Abilene against Hardin-Simmons; Trinity university meets Will Walls' fine Corpus Christi U. juggernaut at San Antonio's Alamo Stadium; and Hardin, also a winner last week, meets Daniel Baker at Wichita Falls.

At the Greeks' request, American contractors have built seven airfields there.

Rain Slows Up Raider Practice

An unsatisfactory drill marked Texas Tech's second appearance of the week on the practice field, a cold north wind and slanting rain all but driving the Red Raiders off will little or no practice.

Coach Dell Morgan finally released his charges before 6 p.m. when heavy rain began pouring down. He had planned a tough scrimmage for the players, but called it off under the circumstances. "We wouldn't have been able to accomplish anything," he declared. "It's too wet and cold. Let's see. If this storm travels a little better than 60 miles a day, it ought to hit Austin about Saturday."

It was a hopeful, wishful thought. Coach Morgan welcomed Monday's heat, explaining that the heat was more like conditions the Raiders would meet in Austin. He was far from happy with the cold front that has only a slim chance of getting to Austin.

What practice there was was held down to intense offensive drill with emphasis on blocking in the line, which did not show up well in the Abilene Christian college game Saturday. Two squads worked in the shadow of Jones stadium, a heavy, soggy gridiron ruling out use of the playing field.

After the drill, players were informed that there would be a chalk talk in the stadium and, with a lap around the field, the shortest practice of the year was held.

Morley Jennings, Tech athletic director, said that tickets for the Tech-Texas game this week were plentiful, but must be purchased not later than Thursday at 6 p.m. Unsold tickets will be returned to Austin Friday morning.

Coach Allie White, who was scheduled to meet his freshmen charges for the second time yesterday afternoon, took one look at the weather and called off practice. The first year men are supposed to report today for the second time.

SPORTS Slants

BY CHOC HUTCHESON

Chiefly because I have been preoccupied with coverage of area schoolboy football, I have spent absolutely no time this fall viewing Texas Tech grid workouts. Hence, I lay no claim whatsoever to being an authority on the 1949 Red Raiders.

Speaking, however, simply as a fellow who saw Tech against Abilene Christian college Saturday night, I have my own personal fears as to what might happen this coming Saturday afternoon in Austin's Memorial stadium.

The Raiders, you know, take on Blair Cherry's University of Texas Longhorns this weekend. Someone is going to get chopped down, and—judging strictly from the Tech-ACC game—I doubt that it will be the "Cherry tree" that falls.

Frankly, I feel that if Coach Dell Morgan's Raiders don't improve on their ACC showing, they are apt to lose the ball game, their self-confidence and perhaps even their uniforms when they visit Austin.

Against outmanned ACC, the Techsans made numerous mistakes which—if repeated—will result in Longhorn touchdowns this weekend. Of course, there are some observers who maintain that Tech was playing "under wraps" against the Christians. Personally, I thought that the Raiders, while they doubtless didn't use their full repertoire of plays, had to dig pretty deep to win what should have been a pushover ball game.

It may prove quite fortunate that the Matadors "got the bad one out of their system" against an outclassed team like ACC. Now, let us all hope, they will buckle down and play first-class ball against Texas.

If they don't, they're probably in for a most embarrassing Saturday afternoon.

The new Cooper High school football stadium will be dedicated Sept. 29, when the Pirates entertain Southland in a non-conference game . . . Don Allen, Lubbock Bluebonnet - Sunbeam shortstop, rates a doff of the derby for his selection to the National Softball Congress "All-American" team, chosen at the end of the recent national tourney at Greeley, Colo. Allen earlier had been named to the all-Texas team at Stamford . . . Jim Joe Rieger of the Bluebonnet club gained the distinction of clouting two of the longest balls ever hit at the Greeley field. One, which dropped for a homer, went 320 feet in the air, while the other, which was caught, was for 335 feet. No player ever has hit a roundtripper over the Greeley fence, which is 340 feet from home plate at all points . . . Hanford, Calif., won the NSC tournament Sunday night by beating Somerton, Ariz., 4-1, while the Bluebonnet team finished seventh. Average attendance for the eight nights of the meet was above the 2,000 mark.

Everyone concerned deserves commendation for the fact that there probably was less drinking (of intoxicating liquors) at the Tech-ACC game than at any game here during the last decade. Let's hope the situation remains that way throughout the season, both at Raider and Westerner tilts . . . Dave Loyd and Jesse Collard, pitchers, had important roles in helping Wolfforth's Wolves to the Cotton Belt league championship. Loyd won five and lost one over the season, while Collard finished with a 4-2 record . . . Many thanks to area coaches and fans who reported last week's schoolboy grid games. Reports were received—and published—on all games involving South Plains teams . . . Qualified observers say that despite that 21-0 loss to powerful Kress, the Ropesville Eagles will be one of the top teams in District 4-B . . . There was nothing unusual about the manner in which Port Arthur spilled Odessa, 27-13, Saturday night. The Jackets simply used straightaway power, featuring superb blocking and tackling . . . The first weekly Dallas Morning News schoolboy grid poll has Port Arthur on top, followed by Austin, Denison, Lubbock, Abilene, Temple, Marshall, Texarkana and Pampa (tied), and Jeff Davis (Houston) in that order.

Port Arthur Tops High School Poll

DALLAS, Sept. 13. (U.P.)—The Port Arthur Yellow Jackets today were on familiar ground—top spot in the schoolboy football poll.

Texas sports writers casting ballots in the weekly poll conducted by the Dallas Morning News gave the Yellow Jackets the No. 1 spot this week following Port Arthur's upset of Odessa last weekend.

Last year the Jackets dominated the poll for 13 consecutive weeks.

Austin High ranked second in the first 1949 poll after beating San Antonio Jefferson in its first outing.

Among the top 10 in the newspaper poll were some teams which have not played a game. Their prestige may suffer by next week, when their season openers are behind them.

Of the 30 teams nominated for place in the top 10 were five who got first place votes. Besides Port Arthur they were Lubbock, Houston Jeff Davis, Amarillo and Texarkana.

The top 10 and their point totals:

Port Arthur 153, Austin 126, Denison 84, Lubbock 72, Abilene 68, Temple 59, Marshall 53, Texarkana and Pampa 46 (tie), Houston Jeff Davis 33.

Tony Leswick, Ranger left wing, has played 156 consecutive hockey games since 1946.

Martin To Meet O'Dowdy Tonight

Back for his second ring performance since returning to the local area is Pat O'Dowdy, Big Spring grappler, and tonight he meets Wayne Martin of Tulsa, Okla., in the main event at Sled Allen's arena.

O'Dowdy is well known to Lubbock wrestling fans, and in Martin he has an opponent who goes back to his college days.

Martin was a former Oklahoma university amateur who has gone a long way since leaving school, and when O'Dowdy was in school at Weatherford, Okla., the two represented their separate schools' wrestling teams. Martin and O'Dowdy met in several matches, and there is still that feeling of rivalry between them.

Bill Brooks makes his first appearance in Lubbock wrestling circles against Billy Sandow, who battled Vic Weber to a draw last Wednesday. From Seattle, Wash., Brooks is an old timer with experience and a reputation for hustling and aggressiveness. Sandow will be out for a win as he wishes to climb into the main event bracket and the bigger money, as well as to greet the newcomer in a proper manner, by introducing him to the Texas style wrestling.

Gorilla Pogi will take on a member of the Detton clan in the preliminary when he swaps holds with Glen Detton in the 20-minute opener.

Age, experience and strength competes youth and ambition in this match, and it will be interesting to watch the old master demonstrate his ability as he tries to give the younger Detton a wrestling lesson.

Matches begin at 8:30 p. m., and tickets will be on sale from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. at the arena.

Meadowbrook Lady Golfers Will Meet

Members of Meadowbrook Wommen's Golf association will meet today at the Mackenzie State park house for their regular business session and luncheon.

Last Sunday, 40 golfers took part in Scotch foursome play staged by the association.

Four teams tied for low gross honors. These were Mrs. Billy Lee and Paul Jones, Mrs. Fred Hinson and Manson Allen, Mrs. Clarence Nance and Jack Trammel, and Mrs. Frank Kuich and Marvin Thomas.

Mrs. Paul Jones and Fred Hinson posted a 69 for low net. Mrs. Houston Trammel and Clarence Nance were second with 76, while Mrs. Jake Knight and Johnny Williams tied Mrs. Gene Herriage and A. B. Holton for third at 77.

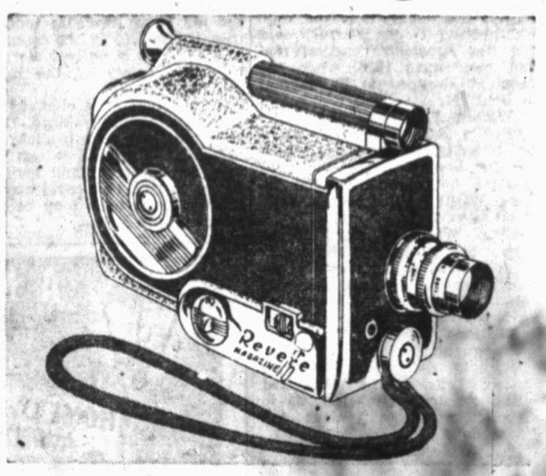

High net went to Mrs. Jack Trammel and Andy Andrews.

In the nine-hole foursomes, low honors were won by Mrs. Harold Bolinger and Ted Benhoff.

Parallel Parking Is Planned Here

for the entire business district could be completed within less than 30 days.

Parallel parking, however, will be required in each block as soon as parking meters have been rearranged and spaces have been marked.

Will Reduce Spaces

The city manager estimated the change would reduce the downtown street parking places now available by about 250.

Hufstedler argued, however, that the increased width for movement of vehicles would speed traffic and enhance safety.

Street Lighting Plans

The thoroughfares included in the street lighting program for which bids were called follow:

Mercury-vapor lights — Avenue A from Broadway to Nineteenth; College avenue from Fourth to Nineteenth; Nineteenth from Texas to Tyler and Texas from Nineteenth to Thirtieth. The arrangement of these lights was not determined, but they probably will be about 150 feet apart.

Residence streets — about 150 new lights, but with the specific stipulation that the standards are to be of metal. The 150 lights supported by wooden poles installed during the past three months are to be replaced as soon as practical. Members of the commission agreed the poles are unsightly and have caused many complaints.

To Be Of Two Types

The new traffic lights ordered installed are to be of two types.

One is known as the magnetic-push button. When a car passes over a magnet a short distance from the intersection, it will activate an electric current which will cause the light to change. Or, when pedestrians wish to cross a street, they can get a green light merely by pressing a button in a pole at the curb.

This type will be installed at the following intersections:

Nineteenth at P, V and X; Broadway at U and Main at Avenue W.

New lights of the usual type were authorized at Seventeenth and A, Fourth and College, and Eighth and College. The one at Fourth and College, Matthews said, will be operated during rush periods only, such as football and basketball games.

Double Vision Lights

Double-vision lights were ordered for the following intersections: Avenue H at Main and Broadway; Texas avenue at Tenth, Main, Broadway and Thirteenth, and Avenues J and K at Broadway and Thirteenth.

The commission and city manager also agreed that strict enforcement should be ordered of the ordinance which forbids the parking of any truck, van or other vehicle so that it protrudes more than 20 feet into any street. It is common practice, they said, for such vehicles to be parked for loading or unloading so that an entire street is blocked.

Two-hour parking meters were ordered installed on both sides of Avenue J between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets.

McGhee's Cleaners at 2119 Nineteenth was granted a loading zone.

Parallel parking was ordered in front of Sears Roebuck on Thirteenth street.

Cotton Storage

Compress and Warehouse company to lease sufficient land from the city to store approximately 40,000 bales at $250 a month.

Offer Is Rejected

City officials said the offer was rejected for two reasons.

One was their expressed conviction that the offer, amounting to less than 1 cent a bale per month, was too small.

The other was the feeling that publicity for the fact that the space is available should be given before it is leased to anyone.

The mayor emphasized, however, that the principal interest of officials in the matter is to render a service rather than to make money.

Those interested in the possibilities of storage at the airport are being advised to consult City Manager Steve Matthews or Airport Manager Ed Colby, who will refer inquiries to the city commission.

State Crop Outlook

placed at 5,500,000 bushels, with a yield per acre of 100 bushels, compared with 95 a month ago. East Texas sweet potatoes were yielding exceptionally well, and digging of commercial acreage was in full swing. The broomcorn crop at 9,500 tons is the largest since 1935, and is about double the average. Production of all hay (excluding sorghum forage) was indicated at 1,508,000 tons, an increase from last month of 68,000 tons. Yields have turned out well in all areas. The pecan forecast at 36,000,000 pounds was unchanged from a month ago. Short production is indicated in south central and west central counties, with a better crop indicated in north central and some northeast counties. The condition is spotted in nearly all areas.

The British, with much heavier trade stakes in China than the United States, have been represented as favoring prompt formal relations with the Communists, but authoritative diplomatic sources said the two governments were actually not far apart in their views.

The Philippines will establish rice and corn seed farms to increase crop yields.

Mud Blamed For Low Attendance At Road Improvement Meet

PLAINVIEW, Sept. 13. (Special) Muddy roads partially bogged down a meeting here tonight designed to improve farm roads.

With Col. Joel I. McGregor of Temple, vice president of the Texas Rural Roads association, as principal speaker, some 40 farm and civic leaders assembled here for the organization of a county unit seeking better farm byways.

Deciding to call another meeting Thursday, Sept. 22, those present elected Glenn Reagan, Abernathy, as president of the county unit and Emmett Thornton, Plainview, treasurer, but left further business for the next session.

New Tax Sought

Tonight's meeting was in line with similar conferences now being held all over the state for the organization of an association to fight for paved roads and other permanent improvements to be financed from a proposed tax on natural resources.

"This state needs a severance tax to preserve for future generations a few benefits from our fast disappearing natural resources," Col. McGregor told the group.

High enthusiasm in the movement was expressed by those who attended tonight's session. Plans will be begun Wednesday to turn out a much larger crowd for the Sept. 22 meeting, at which Walter C. Foote, district head of the association, will speak.

The rural roads association is a non-profit organization begun a year ago to fight for permanent improvements which would be made from taxes on natural resources. Only negligible taxes have ever been levied in Texas on such products, association officials declared.

The third meeting of the association in this area is slated at Floydada Wednesday night and another at Crosbyton Thursday night.

Fair Boosters

turvy chasing balloons and swamping the boosters for rulers. The rain started before the caravan could get into the business district.

At O'Donnell, the men split and went to different classrooms to distribute the articles, as it was raining too hard for children to go outside. The same held true for the Lamesa and Seminole schools. The group had lunch at Lamesa.

Schools had let out at Seagraves by the time the boosters arrived there at 3:20 p.m. At Brownfield, the rain was so heavy, the boosters had to pass through without stopping. Last stop before reaching Lubbock was Ropesville.

Those making the trip were John Vickers, C. W. Ratliff, Bob Gregory, Arch Rambeau, Bill Becker, Jack Gailey, I. M. Robinson, Joe Bob Johnston, Maurice LeFan, L. W. Rampy, J. C. Stansell, jr., C. W. Tolin, George Warner, Bill Honey, B. W. Snell, E. D. Allison, W. C. Rutledge, L. C. Parchman, F. H. Myrick, M. H. Adkisson, W. S. Anglin, Cecil Sanders, Seth Bertram, Homer Hensley, George Bond, Jack Blankenship, J. H. English, and E. Z. Hogan.

Another booster trip is planned for Thursday of which Gordon Thompson and John W. McKee are co-chairmen. The itinerary is as follows:

Shallowater, 7:50 to 8:05 a.m.; Anton, 8:30 to 8:50; Littlefield, 9:10 to 9:45; Amherst, 10 to 10:30; Sudan, 10:45 to 11:15; Muleshoe, 11:40 a.m. to 12:10 p.m.; Farwell, 12:35 to 12:50; Clovis, for lunch, 1 to 2:30; Portales, 3 to 3:30; return to Lubbock, 6:30 p.m.

Two more booster trips will be taken next week on Tuesday and Thursday.

Stevenson Prober Is Heard By Grand Jury

ALICE, Sept. 13 (AP) — A widening inquiry into the Aug. 28 1948, primary in Jim Wells county was indicated late today, after a special grand jury had conferred during most of the day with a former FBI agent.

Kellis Dibrell of San Antonio, former FBI agent and a special investigator for Coke R. Stevenson in a vote inquiry here last September, spent almost four hours with a grand jury here today. Before entering the grand jury room he told reporters that he had "new" evidence" concerning the Aug. 28 primary, but declined to discuss it.

J. C. McGill of Alice, foreman of the grand jury late in the afternoon signed subpoenaes for the appearance of seven witnesses, three of them for individuals prominently identified with the Aug. 28 primary. McGill then recessed the grand jury until 10 a.m. Thursday.

Subpoenaed to appear Thursday are B. F. (Tom) Donald, secretary of the county executive committee during the August primary and cashier of the Texas State Bank of Alice whose president is George B. Parr of San Diego; Clarence Martens, chairman of the county executive committee during the election; Luis Salas, presiding judge of Box 13 at Alice where Stevenson charged last September that 200 "fradulent" votes had been added after the polls closed in favor of his senatorial opponent, Lyndon B Johnson; Eujenio Soliz and Enriquietta Acero, neither of who were otherwise identified by local observers today.

COLLEGE GOES MEDIEVAL

PROVIDENCE, R. I., (U.P.)— Brown university will build a medieval-like moat around its $2,000,000 dormitory quadrangle to protect students from thieves. Campus policemen will guard the three bridges around the moat and thus, it is hoped, prevent thieves from getting their usual $30,000 yearly in loot.

City Civil Service Group Meets Today

The Lubbock Civil Service commission will hold a special called meeting at 1:30 p.m. today in city hall to hear cases turned over to the group by the city commission for investigation, Marion Sanford, commission chairman announced Tuesday.

The commission, composed of Sanford, Alex McDonald and Doyle A. Justice, plans to review at least four cases involving complaints about the Lubbock Police department. Among these cases, Sanford revealed, will be that of Lonnie Johnson who was arrested for reckless driving several weeks ago. Johnson later alleged police irregularities.

"Johnson has been invited to appear before the board and air his complaints and has promised to attend. Any other having complaints before the commission have been asked to appear also," Sanford said.

The city policemen charged in the cases will be present when the commission meets today.

"We will try to complete our investigations this afternoon," the civil service chairman said. "But if we are unable to do so, we will continue until a satisfactory conclusion is reached."

The meeting, by law, is open to the public.

Monday said the unidentified man still sought had posed as a federal whiskey inspector and had stolen the money during the time he was supposedly auditing the books of the liquor store.

The smooth-talking operator wangled his way into confidence of the store owner, Sheriff Jennings was informed.

The man was said to have entered the place and to have "gone through a lot of legal-like motions in a friendly but official-like voice."

The visiting "inspector" was given the run of the place and even drove the owner to Tucumcari to pick up money for cashing payroll checks.

Returning to San Jon, the store owner placed the cash in a drawer.

The "inspector" then set up in a back room, a bottle of whisky at his elbow, and prepared to "audit" the books.

The owner and his wife went to the front of the store to wait on customers.

The man went out to lunch shortly before noon, and never came back, the store owners said. The theft was discovered about 3 p.m. when Green went to the drawer to change some money.

The money was made up of $130 in $1 bills, $100 in $5 bills, $500 in $10 bills, and $1,000 in $20 bills.

Hagan, arresting officers said, had approximately $400 in $10 and $20 bills when arrested.

But, it was said, it is not unusual for Hagan to "carry money like that."

FBI records show that Hagan was sentenced in 1935 to a year and a half in the New Mexico state prison for larceny; two years in Huntsville state prison in 1936 from Seymour, and two years in each of two charges, burglary and swindling, May 26, 1939, from Levelland.

There are numerous misdemeanor investigations reflected in his record, officials said.

Officials said the automobile described in the New Mexico broadcasts matched that owned by Hagan.

The car, they said, was taken to a shop early Monday afternoon in Clovis, N. M., for repair of a "burned-out rod."

A fugitive warrant will be filed here when the telegraphic warrant arrives from New Mexico, the sheriff's department said.

New Mexico officials who accompanied the witnesses to Lubbock were Jennings, R. F. Rowley, district attorney for the district having jurisdiction over Quay county where the theft was reported, Victor Breen, assistant district attorney and Curry county Sheriff Val Baumgart, of Clovis.

The 15-day period during which Hagan's bond is in effect will allow New Mexico authorities time in which to make the necessary appeal to the governor of Texas for the defendant's extradition to New Mexico, it was pointed out by officials here.

Thirty Persons Attend Music Educators' Club Meeting

About 30 members of the Music Educators' club attended a regular monthly business meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Adair Music company. Dr. Gene Hemmle, head of Texas Technological college music department, addressed the meeting on "The Rhythm of Musical Growth."

Among those attending the meeting were the faculty members of the Tech music department and all of Lubbock's public school music teachers.

A club constitution was presented at the meeting and will be adopted at the next gathering. Meetings were scheduled to be held monthly.

Mrs. Eloise Elliott, president of the organization and coordinator of vocal music in Lubbock's public schools, presided over the meeting.

Prior to Dr. Hemmle's address, the club was entertained by Robert J. Pipkin accompanied by Mrs. Pipkin and vocal selections by Mrs. Sue Lovett accompanied by Miss Webster. The address was followed by a social hour and get-acquainted meeting.

PHONE BILL OKAYED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13. (AP)— A bill letting the Rural Electrification administration loan money for expanding rural telephone service was approved by the Senate Agriculture committee today. The House has passed a rural telephone bill. The Senate bill differs somewhat. If the Senate adopts it there will have to be a conference committee to iron out differences.

NEWS BRIEFS

Boys club members and their guests will see a free movie, "Ghost Town Law" tonight at the club beginning at 7:30 p. m. A cartoon and short subject will be shown, and everyone is invited to attend. Boys club pictures from January through May averaged 168 persons each night. Appearing in the western thriller tonight will be Buck Jones, Tim McCoy and Raymond Hatton.

Eight women paid fines of $25 each and were released by city police following their pleas of guilty to charges of prostitution Tuesday night. The women were arrested earlier in two downtown hotels.

City patrolmen A. E. Sherrell and James D. Atchison Tuesday afternoon arrested Lonnus Bibbs, 34, of Lubbock route 1, who had been charged earlier with burglary of a concession stand in the county courthouse. Ironically, Bibb was arrested in the men's wash room of the courthouse, the officers said. A quantity of cigarets was taken in the burglary which was reported Monday, investigators were told.

Intruders who broke into the Coca-Cola Bottling company at 1615 Texas early Tuesday night apparently left without taking anything, F. D. Lindsey, manager of the firm, told police. Entry was gained, officials said, through a broken window near the top of the building, and exit apparently made through the same opening, it was believed.

than 500 farmers from nine counties that an approaching crisis in American agriculture will require the best thought and effort of the producers themselves if stability and progress are to be achieved.

"We are approaching a crisis in American agriculture," Mahon said, "principally for the reason that the great domestic and foreign demands of the war years have receded and we are confronted with large surpluses on all fronts. Moreover, needy areas abroad, though producing more now than during the war years, lack the dollars to buy our commodities.

"At this time, the Commodity Credit corporation, a government institution and one of the largest business operations in the world, has on hand 2½ billion dollars worth of commodities, ranging all the way from cotton and wheat to dried prunes and raisins."

Commodities Are Listed

Mahon listed the commodities which the government now owns, including: cotton, 3,790,000 bales worth $596 million; corn, 500 million bushels worth $760 million; wheat, 186 million bushels worth $440 million; barley, 26 million bushels worth $37 million; grain sorghum, 15 million bushels worth $23 million.

Beans, 500 million pounds worth $41 million; butter, 63 million pounds worth $40 million; dried milk, 146 million pounds worth $18 million; dried eggs, 68 million pounds worth $90 million; cheese, five million pounds worth $2 million; raisins and prunes, 36 million pounds worth $3 million; flax seed, 16 million bushels worth $108 million; linseed oil, 394 million pounds worth $110 million; and resin, 211 million pounds worth $17 million.

"We have had considerable population increases in the United States . . . but it stands out like a sore thumb that farm production is now about 140 per cent of prewar production," Mahon said.

Must Have Cooperation

"Manufacturers quit building tractors and mousetraps if the market disappears, but there are so many millions of individuals who produce agricultural crops that no practical way has been found to accommodate production to demand, except through the device of a control program, approved by producers and administered by the federal government.

"Nobody particularly likes a government program, but there is great difficulty in trying to find an alternative. It is clear that a farm program will not succeed if it is merely a 'government' program; it can succeed only if it is the 'farmers' program."

Mahon pointed out good signs for farmers. In the early 1930's most farmers were heavily in debt. Now farmers come nearer owning their own businesses than any other business group, he said.

90 Per Cent Predicted

Looking at the farm program through the eyes of the cotton farmer, Mahon predicted that Congress will approve 90 per cent support prices for both wheat and cotton.

"Unfortunately, there is not a similar hope for grain sorghum, oats, barley, rye and other crops which are not produced nationwide on a large scale like cotton and wheat, though we have steadfastly sought a 90 percent of parity support price on grain sorghum."

"The cotton farmer is confronted with the problem of whether or not to vote for quotas when that vote takes place prior to Dec. 15 this year. If quotas are not voted, there will not be a support price on cotton in 1950. If quotas are voted, and this is generally anticipated, the average producer of cotton who has producing cotton for four or five years or more will be permitted to plant a certain percentage of his cultivated land to cotton.

This percentage on the South Plains during the cotton control program of the late 1930's ranged from about 20 to 35 per cent of the cotton producers' cultivated acres, varying by counties. The chances are that the percentages will be lower in 1950 than they were before the war as the national acreage will be lower.

"Cotton plantings this year approximate 26 million acres. A 21-million acreage is planned for next year. The American cotton carry-over on Aug. 1 was 5 million bales. The estimated carry-over on Aug. 1, 1950 is 8 million bales."

As for grain sorghums, Mahon explained that farmers received 78 per cent of parity during the year 1948. During 1949 growers of grain sorghum are to received about 72 per cent of parity on their grain.

"Of course, my position is that there should be a 90 per cent support price on grain sorghum. That would certainly be a great asset to our area, but the prospect for this sort of support is not good, particularly in view of the fact that we have never had a 90 per cent support program on grain sorghum."

Convicted Murderer Is Reported Insane

AUSTIN, Sept. 13 (AP) — A panel of seven state doctors and two consultants concluded today that Dr. Lloyd I. Ross of San Antonio continues to be insane after nearly three months treatment in the Austin state hospital.

Dr. Ross, slayer of four members of the Willard York family of San Antonio, was given the death sentence for killing Mrs. Gertrude York on a lonely Comal county road on May 25, 1947.

Subsequently, he escaped the electric chair when a jury in 22nd District court at La Grange adjudged him insane. Dr. Ross was committed to the Austin state hospital June 17.

Dr. A. T. Hanretta, superintendent of the hospital, said tonight he would make a formal report on Dr. Ross' current condition to the district court, as required by law.

He said it would show that the surgeon, a Harvard honor graduate, continued to suffer from a paranoid condition complicated by rheumatic brain disease.

Dr. Hanretta said Dr. Ross was examined by a group of six staff doctors and Dr. H. F. Bolding, assistant superintendent of the hospital today. The report of the staff study plus Dr. Hanretta's report and that of two consultants will be forwarded immediately to District Judge J. R. Fuchs at La Grange. The law requires such report within 90 days of commitment.

Top Level Communist Meeting Held In U. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13. (AP)—A "top layer" meeting of Communist officials, including three representatives from Moscow, was held recently at Beacon, N. Y., to discuss the "party line," senators have been informed.

The informant was identified by the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on immigration as Maurice Malkin, Brooklyn, N. Y., a self-acknowledged former Communist official in this country. The committee released tonight roughly one-third of his testimony which had been given behind closed doors last week.

Malkin, who said he is employed "on and off" by the Immigration and Naturalization service as "an expert witness" in deportation hearings, told the committee the Communist party and Moscow now are "concentrating a great deal on the United Nations."

He also reeled off under questioning by the committee staff the names of a number of persons whom he identified either as Communists or fellow travelers.

Malkin said he did not know either the names nor the whereabouts of the three "agents of the Comintern" who, he said, attended the Beacon meeting "just a few weeks ago."

Demos Shelve Oleo Tax Repeal Measure

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13. (AP)— Senate Democratic leaders today shelved until January the question of repealing oleomargarine taxes.

Senator Lucas (D-Ill.), announced after a party policy committee meeting that there was unanimous agreement that the issue should not be brought up in the Senate until the next session of Congress.

The House has voted to repeal the taxes — 10 cents a pound on colored oleomargarine and one-fourth cent a pound on uncolored.

Lucas said the oleomargarine repealer will be one of the first measures taken up in the January session.

Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.), author of a repeal bill, said the proposed timing suited him.

Rains Cover Area

heels of the cold blast which brought snow and freezing weather to a wide part of the Midwest.

Tuesday's general rains were caused by the cold air mass from the north running under warm, moist air from the Gulf of Mexico, the bureau said.

Total rainfall at the Weather station five miles north of Lubbock was .80 at midnight, but over Lubbock thundershowers ran the city estimates up to more than an inch.

This brought the total for the month to 4.01 inches, and for the year to 26.69 inches as compared with an average of 19.15 inches for an entire year.

Meanwhile H. C. Winburn at Amarillo said this was the earliest cool snap that area had since 1898 when the mercury dropped to 37 degrees on Sept. 11.

Here is how the Tuesday rains shaped up over the Plains at a late hour last night, with rain, drizzles or mist continuing at most points:

Fall Is General

Seminole—Rain began at 5 a.m. with estimated 2.50 to 3 inches, drizzles continuing.

Seagraves—Off-and-on rain all day since 6:30 a. m., with estimated total of one inch and still drizzling.

Denver City—Still misting after 10 p. m. after estimated one inch slow, steady rain since 5 a. m.

Plains — Estimated 1.50 with drizzles continuing.

Brownfield—Almost continuous rain all day, with estimated total of one inch.

Meadow — Measured 1.75 in gauge a mile from town, with sprinkling rain continuing.

Ropesville — Estimated total of 1.50.

Lamesa—More than one inch at 7 p. m., with rain continuing after 10:30 p. m.

Heavy At Morton

O'Donnell — Estimated total of .75.

Tahoka — Estimated total of more than one inch.

Pleasant Valley—Total between .50 and .75.

Slaton—One inch total.

Post—Two inches or more estimated, heavier west of Post.

Muleshoe—Measured total of .57.

Morton—Measured 1.35 between 9:45 a.m. and 3 p.m., with additional afternoon and night rain pushing total near 2-inch mark, drizzles continuing.

Sudan — Estimated 2 inches, sprinkle continuing.

Littlefield — Drizzle continuing after estimated total of 1.50 to 2 inches.

Anton—Inch or more, still drizzling; Shallowater—Inch or more, rain continuing; Levelland—Measured .75, misting at 10:30 p.m.; Plainview—Estimated two inches, still drizzling; Ralls—Total of .81, light drizzle continuing.

Abernathy—.30 and continuing; Hale Center—Slow, all-day rain estimated at .75; Petersburg—.64, still drizzling; Floydada—One inch total from series of sharp rains; Matador—.25 with rain continuing; Crosbyton—Slightly over one inch; Lorenzo — Estimated .75; Dickens—Steady since 1 p.m., inch or more and continuing; Spur—Total .61 with slow drizzle continuing; Snyder and Scurry county—Inch between 1 and 2:30 p.m., with rain continuing.

A brisk north breeze, the tailend of a frosty spell that blew out of the Canadian rockies, knocked the props from under the temperature over two-thirds of Texas during the day, the Associated Press said.

New Cold Blast Seen

"The front itself is pretty well shot by now," a forecaster said Tuesday night, "but some cool weather will sneak on down into South Texas."

But as the front began to weaken, the Weather bureau said an even larger cold air mass was moseying around in central Canada. There was a chance parts of it would drift south later this week—like the current cold wave that brought snow and sub-freezing temperatures to Montana and Wyoming before putting a nip in Texas' air.

The Associated Press gave the following picture over the rest of the state Tuesday:

Amarillo had a high temperature of 59 after that Panhandle city and Dalhart shivered in 48-degree weather during the day. Weatherman H. C. Winburn said this was Amarillo's earliest real cool snap since 1898, when the mercury dropped to 37 degrees on Sept. 11.

Wichita Falls Also Shivers

Wichita Falls' minimum of 56 just two degrees above the record low for Sept. 13. The temperature fell overnight from 100 degrees, Wichita Falls' hottest Sept. 12 on record.

All of West and North Texas were cooled off during the day.

The New Orleans Weather bureau issued small craft warnings Tuesday night for the stretch of Gulf coast from Lake Charles, La., to Port O'Connor, Tex.

The warning said:

"Rapidly rising pressure over northern Texas moving southward will cause northerly winds 25 to 32 miles per hour tonight and Wednesday."

Wide Section Hit

Rains dotted a large section of West Texas during the day, and some rain fell in the central and eastern parts of the state.

Clouds were low and rain was falling Tuesday night at Big Spring, Lubbock, Childress, Clarendon, Wichita Falls, Midland and Abilene. Guadalupe Pass, a Civil Aeronautics administration communications station in West Texas, was fogbound.

Laredo in deep South Texas had a 101-degree maximum. And it was 99 at Alice and 96 at San Antonio.

As the cool weather slipped South, Austin's temperature dropped from a morning maximum of 95 to 81 as night fell.

Dallas' top morning temperature was 84 but by noon it dropped to 64. Other readings included: Fort Worth 60, Mineral Wells 68, Abilene 60, Midland 55, Guadalupe Pass 63, and Sweetwater 58.

The day when ships will be propelled by a small quantity of uranium is drawing nearer.

Steel Companies Okay New Talks

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 13 (AP)— Big Steel agreed today to resume bargaining with the CIO United Steelworkers without committing itself on the presidential board's formula for peace in America's basic industry.

The giant United States Steel corporation joined Jones and Laughlin and Republic in consenting to negotiating anew. U. S. Steel is the industry's bellwether. Its action usually means the others will fall in line.

Asked if U. S. Steel's step meant acceptance of the presidential board recommendations, a spokesman replied:

"I wouldn't think so."

U. S. Steel Ready

Big Steel's move came several hours after President Truman applauded developments in the steel situation. The strike truce expiring at midnight had been extended 11 days until Sept. 25 at Mr. Truman's request and U. S. Steel's production had returned to normal.

Approving the truce extension, the steelworkers also quit their fight for a fourth round pay boost and accepted the presidential board's offer of a 10-cent hourly package covering only company paid insurance and pensions. USW wanted 12½ cents added to the $1.65 hourly wage of the industry.

Twenty-four hours later, President Benjamin F. Fairless of U.S. Steel sent this telegram to CIO and steelworker chieftain Philip Murray:

"Referring to last paragraph of your telegram of yesterday to President Truman as published in today's newspapers, representatives of U. S. Steel are ready to resume collective bargaining conferences with representatives of your union at such times and place as may be mutually agreed upon for the purpose of attempting to arrive at some mutually satisfactory understanding.

Principle Favored

"We will communicate with you about the time and place of the next meeting."

Murray had advised Mr. Truman of his union's decision to drop demands for increased wages "with regret" and to accept the fact finders recommendations. The last sentence of Murray's message called for immediate resumption of bargaining conferences aimed at "attempting to conclude mutually satisfactory agreements prior to 12:01 a.m. September 25."

Republic was first to reply after the union made its stand. It favored the principle of social insurance and pensions for employes but felt that both the company and workers should contribute.

J. and L. said it is prepared to undertake at once a joint study of pensions with the steelworkers "in anticipation of bargaining on this subject beginning March 1 next."

Hiland G. Batcheller, president of Allegheny Ludlum Steel corporation, said non-contributory social insurance and pensions for steelworkers is definitely socialistic.

Air Search Planned For Missing Texans

AMARILLO, Sept. 13 (AP) — A CAA search and rescue plane left Denver today for Wichita, Kan., from where it will take off tomorrow morning in a search for a private plane missing since last Thursday.

Aboard the missing plane are William B. Cline, Amarillo, and J. W. McBrayer, White Deer. The two were last heard from when they took off at 4 p.m. Thursday from Hays, Kan. ostensibly bound for Amarillo on the last leg of a flight from Cleveland, Ohio.

Two other planes, an Army C-82 and an FA-10, are to take off from Denver tomorrow morning to join in the search between Wichita and Oklahoma City in the Ponca City area. It is possible other private planes may take to the air from Amarillo tomorrow morning to join in the search, although there is no real alarm yet over the safety of the missing men.

They might have changed their plans at the last minute. It was explained here by a brother, R. C. Cline. He also said it was possible the missing plane had been forced to land in a rural area and the two passengers may be at an isolated farm house.

its action by asserting Yugoslavia betrayed the rebels.

Deputy Foreign Minister Ales Bebler declared Russia once demanded that every step of Yugoslavia's foreign policy—"however slight"—should have previous Soviet sanction.

"The time has not come yet," he wrote in the Communist Review, organ of the party's central committee, "to tell all that has happened in the political sphere between Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union."

Bebler did charge Russia in these words:

"The Soviet government took steps in foreign policy which affected Yugoslavia, not only without consulting the Yugoslav government but without notifying it of its intention to take this or that step.

"One example was Soviet acceptance at the 1946 foreign ministers' conference of a French proposal for the demarcation line between Yugoslavia and Italy.

Yugoslavia Ignored

"The Soviet delegation acted without breathing a word about its intention to the Yugoslav delegation which was present and in daily contact with the Soviet delegation."

A Yugoslav foreign office spokesman said the Polish note of last Thursday was returned in Warsaw without a reply because of "its insulting tone and entirely fabricated inventions."

Western diplomats speculated the Polish note was aimed at building up a situation whereby Poland could break diplomatic relations with Yugoslavia.

(Moscow radio quoted a newspaper of a Yugoslav exile group in Czechoslovakia as saying several "Tito criminals" have been executed by guerrillas inside Yugoslavia.)

Six of the nine persons put on trial at Novi Sad in Yugoslavia are Hungarian. The other three are Yugoslav nationals accused of giving the fifth columnists asylum. All face the death penalty.

Lewis Threatens

grounds that no contract now exists with the UMW.

The issue between Lewis and Francis, considered the leader of the southern operators, is expected to come to a head Wednesday at Bluefield, W. Va., when the UMW and the Southern Coal Producers association resumes contract negotiations.

The previous contract expired on June 30. UMW negotiations with the northern operators are scheduled to resume Thursday at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

The union leader contended that the action of Francis and other operators was "bleeding it (the fund) white" and termed the withholding of payments a "mad and vengeful attack on the existence of the fund."

Production Hike Claimed

Lewis, in blaming Francis for encouraging other operators to withhold payments, said:

"The policy of default and smash is, of course, your own brain child. Your agile mind conceived it and your influence has regimented the support from participating coal operators. In consequence, I assume that you can also abandon the policy if it pleases you to do so. Therefore, I write you this letter of inquiry and would be happy if you would telegraph me tomorrow in response to the following interrogatory:

"Will you or will you not remit?"

The fund is collected from an assessment levied on each ton of coal mined. Lewis said that under the three-day work week he ordered earlier this year, "per man per day" production has increased 19 per cent over 1948.

Recent hearings before a Senate committee brought forth testimony that expenditures from the fund are exceeding income and that it may incure a deficit if the present rate is maintained.

Savings up to 75 per cent on finishing the inside walls and ceilings of a new house are possible with a new coating that takes the place of plaster, paint, and wall paper.

Marshall Plan Nations Told To Devalue Money To Avert Chaos

By FREDERIC TUTTLE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Dollar short Marshall plan countries, including Great Britain, were strongly advised today to devalue their currency to "avert threatened economic chaos."

The International Bank and Monetary fund offered these suggestions in a series of reports and speeches made to the fourth annual meeting of the two leading world finance agencies.

President Truman in an informal speech to the meeting urged international financial co-operation as a way toward peace. Mr. Truman said "we must exchange on a world basis the services and the goods of all the countries among themselves."

At the same time, bank president Eugene R. Black urged the United States, in the interests of improving the dollar problem, to:

1. Reveal to the 19 nations participating in the Marshall plan how much American aid they can expect to receive between now and mid-1952 when the program ends.

2. Remove restrictions on the use of foreign aid dollars so that each country "will have the opportunity to make the most economic use of the aid provided."

3. Lower tariff barriers and other restrictions which hamper trade between America and the free nations of Europe.

The American bank president also took occasion in a speech before the joint bank-fund meeting to slap countries for launching overly "ambitious" social programs which they cannot afford.

Not mentioning any country by name, Black asserted that increasing governmental costs stemming from such programs have hampered production in these countries.

He declared:

"Unfortunately . . . It has become apparent that many countries cannot now afford ambitious programs of social services without either reducing their living standards in other respects or cutting back their productivity investments designed to make possible a better standard of living in the future."

The fund issued a lengthy analysis of the dollar problem describing it as "an emergency situation" requiring devaluation in some countries and a general all-out attempt by others to boost sales to the United States.

U. S. Treasury Secretary Snyder told the meeting, attended by representatives of 48 nations, that "views expressed by the fund as a consultant are entitled to great respect."

Black declared in his address that "I do not underestimate either the complexities or the far-reaching consequences of such action (devaluation), but I fail to see how it can be avoided."

In its report, the fund made it clear that the drop in sales from Great Britain and other foreign aid countries to the U.S. "emphasized the urgency for their taking bold measures to improve their dollar position."

It warned that unless effective action is taken now some countries may continue to restrict and discriminate in their trading affairs resulting in the creation of "exclusive economic blocs."

Wall Street

STOCKS SURGE UPWARD

NEW YORK, Sept. 13. (AP)—Stock prices surged upward in one of the best advances of the year today in response to good news in the steel industry and international trade.

The market advanced on a broad front in heavy trading and reached a point only slightly below the highest of the year.

Steel shares led the forward movement and were among the most actively traded issues. Gains throughout the list were from fractions to more than 2 points. Some leaders extended their advance to 3.

Wall Street put a bullish interpretation to the strike truce agreement in steel.

Out of the international monetary and political conferences in Washington Wall Street also drew a lot of bullish courage. Traders liked the broad concessions made by the United States to boost British empire trade.

The market opened with a rush. Trading continued heavy for the entire day to pile up a total of 1,720,000 shares, best since March 30.

The Associated Press average jumped one point to 65.9 in the sharpest rise since June 15.

That puts the average only .3 of a point below the peak of the year.

Industrials made the biggest advance of 1.4 points and attained a new high for the year, the best since last November. Rails advanced 1.2 of a point and utilities were unchanged.

U. S. Steel was the most actively traded issue, up ¾ at 24. Bethlehem Steel, up 1⅜ at 29¼, also was high in the list.

Gold shares were alone as a group in resisting the tide. They were mostly unchanged to slightly lower. That backwardness was traced to the wet blanket thrown over proposals voiced in Washington to increase the price of gold above $35 an ounce.

Some stock going higher included Santa Fe up 3 at 93¾, Southern Pacific 1⅛ at 40¾, Youngstown Sheet and Tube 2¼ at 68¾, Chrysler 1¼ at 53½, Montgomery Ward 1 at 54, American Telephone ⅝ at 143⅜, Kennecott 1 at 46⅞, Du Pont 1⅛ at 53½, American Woolen 1⅛ at 25¼, Standard Oil (NJ) 1¼ at 71⅞, and Richfield Oil ¾ at 41⅝.

Curbs advanced. Higher were Creole Petroleum and Cities Service.

Rail bonds were higher. U. S. Government securities were lower.

Grain

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Sept. 13 (AP) — Wheat was independently strong at the board of trade today. Reports that the government had increased its buying price two to three cents over yesterday's basis for grain FOB Philadelphia led to buying.

Shipping houses led the buying in December wheat, while elevator houses with cash interests also were on the buying side. The shorts got in to cover after prices advanced.

At the finish wheat was ⅝ to 1⅝ higher than yesterday's close, September $2.08⅜-½. Corn was ⅝ higher to 1 cent lower, September $1.27⅞-⅞. Oats were ¼ higher to ¼ lower, September 69⅛.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP) — Cotton futures were moderately active today, with the price trend firm. The market started steady and continued to improve.

Textile mill buying, covering against export sales, and New Orleans demand were more than sufficient to absorb hedging and commission house selling.

The market also was bolstered by unfavorable weather reports from major sections of the cotton belt where rainy weather was hindering the picking of the new crop.

Futures closed 15 to 75 cents a bale higher than the previous close.

'Ole Schoolmates' To Meet At Hale Center

HALE CENTER, Sept. 13 (Special) — Hale Center's "Ole Schoolmates," who attended school in the years from 1895 through 1908, will hold their 16th annual reunion on the city hall park with a noon basket dinner Thursday, Sept. 15, Mrs. J. E. Cox, president, has announced.

The schoolmates this year have been requested to bring a brief autobiography to be included in a history being compiled about the school, Mrs. Silas Maggard, secretary, said.

Tulsa Oilman Inherits Mantle Of GOP Reins In Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 13 (U.P.) — The mantle of the late Lew Wentz, protector of the Republican party in Oklahoma, has fallen on a Tulsa oilman, Bailie W. Vinson.

Fifty-two-year old Vinson, who was a Democrat just two years ago, yesterday overwhelmed his opposition at the party's central committee meeting here.

He was "so excited and nervous" over his triumph that he couldn't make much of an acceptance speech to the delegates who elected him, but he promised he would help to build the GOP into a winning party in Oklahoma.

FLOWING PRODUCTION REPORTED

Gaines County Test Shows Oil; New Well Planned For Scurry

Ralph Lowe No. 1-B Cunningham, one-location south stepout from the discovery for flowing production from the Canyon lime of the Pennsylvanian on the northwest side of the Doss field in central-southwest Gaines county was flowing at the average rate of 16½ barrels of new oil per hour from perforated section between 8,840-8,951 feet in the Canyon lime.

That zone had been rather tight at the start, but it has been shot several times with both conventional and jet perforaters and has been given several acid shots.

No Water Shown

No water is being shown and the exploration appears to be due for completion soon as a good producer.

It is located 660 feet from north and east lines of the southwest quarter of section 4, block A-24, psl survey, and ten miles southwest of Seminole.

The Texas company No. 1 E. D. Harris, central-south Gaines county wildcat two miles east of the Robertson pool, had staining in samples in the middle Permian at 7,355-88 feet and a show of oil at 7,400-05 feet.

Operator is now drilling ahead below 7,406 feet in lime with this prospector which is contracted to drill to 7,500 feet.

The drillsite is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 17, block A9-22, psl survey and three miles south of the same company's No. 1 A. B. Wharton, completed Glorieta discovery two and one-quarter miles southeast of the Robertson field.

It is 12 and one-half miles southeast of Seminole.

Clear Fork Output Sought

Hiawatha Oil & Gas company is to try to develop production from the Clear Fork of the Permian on the southeast side of the Diamond M-Canyon field in southwest Scurry county, 12 miles southwest of Snyder.

Hiawatha No. 7 L. M. Wilson, located 330 feet from south and east lines of the southwest quarter of section 183, block 97, H&TC survey is to be drilled to 3,300 feet, starting at once, to test the Clear Fork.

This development is 330 feet south and the same distance east of Hiawatha No. 4 Wilson, a completed producer from the Canyon lime, from between 6,700 feet and 6,800 feet.

No. 4 Wilson and several other projects nearby, which have been completed from the Canyon have indicated possible production from the Clear Fork.

Snyder Well Completed

Sunray Oil corporation and others, have completed their No. 3-B R. B. Brown on the south side of the North Snyder field in north-central Scurry county as a natural flowing producer from the Canyon lime reef.

It flowed through a 32/64th-inch tubing choke for a 24-hour potential of 1,104 barrels of 44.2-gravity oil. Gas-oil ratio was 872-1. Flowing casing pressure was 475 pounds and the flowing tubing pressure was 500 pounds.

The production was from open hole between the five and one-half inch oil string cemented at 6,721 feet the total depth at 6,831 feet. Bop of the pay was 6,720 feet.

The new well is 660 feet from south and west lines of tract 13, section 20, block 1, J. P. Smith survey.

Scurry Oil Activity Shifts To New Area

SNYDER, Sept. 13. (Special) — Scurry county's newest hot-spot oil center is an area 12 miles north and slightly east of here where a group of Dallas and Las Vegas, Nev., sportsmen announced plans this afternoon for drilling an Ellenberger test.

The project will be the E. E. Wallace and others, located in the northeast corner of section 263, block 2, H & TCR survey.

Operators announced they plan to begin rotary drilling operations within the next 90 days.

The No. 1 Wallace will be a stepout from the Jessie Brown pool developed by Standard Oil company of Texas.

Sterilization laws are in effect in 25 of the 48 states.

California Police Jail Motorist And Pet Jackrabbit

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 13. (AP)— George F. Nudsen is in one cell and his rabbit is in another.

The 62-year-old motorist was sirened to the curb as officer Walker Soski noted him driving not unlike a rabbit runs from cover to cover.

In the car, besides a driver in an alcoholic haze, was a grey jackrabbit, wearing a collar and a grin.

Nudsen was jailed for drunken driving but he refused to give up his pet. Humane society people declined to take custody unless the owner would sign a release.

Finally the animal was turned over to humane officer B. E. Martenstein—with orders to jail it too.

NEGRO SUSPECT MOVED

PARIS, Sept. 13. (AP)— A 23-year-old negro, captured after an attack on a 29-year-old white woman, was moved from the Lamar county jail to an undisclosed place. Officers said the negro pushed the woman and her eight-year-old son aside on a residential street last night and grabbed her throat.

McAdoo Graduate Is Tops At McMurry

ABILENE, Sept. 13 (Special)— Highest sscholastic average in the history of McMurry college was attained by Hoyt Cole of McAdoo, a summer graduate, the registrar's office disclosed today.

Cole received only four grades —all "B"s—below "A" in his four years of college. A history major at McMurry, he plans to study toward a law degree at Southern Methodist university.

Following his graduation from Estelline High school in 1943, Cole worked one year with Pan-Tex Ordnance company and served two years in the Air Force. He entered McMurry in June, 1946.

Cole was a member of "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities," of Alpha Chi, national honor society; president of the senior class, and an officer in Ko Sari, social club; and the Christian Foundation.

He is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. J. P. Cole of McAdoo. His brother, Hardy, graduated from McMurry in 1945, and his sister, Mary John, will receive her bachelor's degree in 1950.

Court Clears Way For Vote On Annual Session Plan

Proposal's Foes Abandon Fight

BY BO BYERS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Sept. 13. — Texans will get to vote Nov. 8 on whether legislators should receive higher salaries and hold sessions every year.

Three Dallas county residents recently asked district Judge Jack Roberts to toss the proposed constitutional amendment off the ballot, but they withdrew their suit yesterday.

The state, represented by first assistant Attorney General Joe Greenhill then asked the court to dispose of the case today. The judge did so by refusing the Dallas men's request for a temporary injunction to keep the secretary of state from certifying the amendment to be put on the ballot.

Annual Sessions Provided

Here's what the controversial amendment would do:

1. Place state senators and representatives on a $3,600 annual salary basis. This would do away with the present system of paying $10 a day during the first 120 days of the regular session and $5 thereafter to session's end. State legislators now receive pay only while a session is going on.

2. Provide for regular legislative sessions every year instead of every other year.

3. Require the legislature to make appropriations for regular monthly expenses and salaries paid by the state for a period of not more than 12 months. Meeting every other year in the past, the legislature has made its general appropriations on a 24-month basis. Proponents of the amendment say past procedure has been unbusinesslike because economic conditions can not be forecast accurately 24 months in advance.

4. At the second regular session each legislature, on even-numbered years, there would be a limitation on the type of legislation that could be considered. General appropriations and proposed constitutional amendments could be submitted. Other measures could be taken up only by consent of four-fifths of the members of each house.

Opponents of the amendment say the state would spend more on an annual-session basis than the legislature now spends when it meets only on odd-numbered years.

Approval of the amendment possibly would lead to an election contest in view of arguments developed in the court case which Judge Roberts dismissed today.

The plaintiffs argued at the original hearing that not more than one issue should be contained in an amendment.

How, they asked, could a voter

LUBBOCK MORNING AVALANCHE

Lubbock, Texas, Wednesday, Sept. 14, 1949

Tech Freshmen Are Welcomed

Dr. D. M. Wiggins, Tech president, officially welcomed an estimated 1200 freshman students to the campus of Texas Technological college Tuesday night as the second day of a special orientation program for incoming students drew to a close.

Moving inside the college gymnasium because of wet weather, the assemblage heard President Wiggins explain life at Tech and welcome them on behalf of the entire faculty.

Conferences Scheduled

Individual conferences between student counselors and each student were scheduled for today, under a program established two years ago for the purpose of making new collegians "feel at home." Aid will be given in class schedules and other problems with which the individual might have to deal.

The orientation and counseling program will be concluded tonight with separate addresses by the dean of men and dean of women to their students. Women will assemble in the recreation hall and the men on the administration green, if the weather is permitting.

Official registration at the college gets underway tomorrow, continuing through Friday. A slight drop below last year's enrollment is expected this term, with most estimates placing the number between 5,500 and 6,000.

Class instruction will start at 8 a.m. Saturday, but additional registrants will be accepted through Sept. 22.

Condition Of Wreck Victims Reported As Satisfactory

The conditions of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Barton of Post route 1 and their 18-year-old daughter, Helen, who were injured when their automobile collided with a butane truck Monday afternoon near Southland, was described as satisfactory late Tuesday by attendants at Lubbock Memorial hospital.

The automobile, driven by Barton, was demolished after its collision with the truck driven by William Frank Tipton, 23, of Levelland highway. He was uninjured in the accident.

Final Two Programs Are Set Thursday And Friday

Field Days For Farmers Slated

Field days for area farmers will be held Thursday and Friday at the Agricultural Experiment station east of Lubbock, closing out a series of three such events this month.

Lubbock county farmers who had a special day set aside last Friday are invited to attend the two field days this week, since rainy weather prevented field inspection at the first session.

The day will open at 9:30 a.m., and farmers who plan to stay past the noon hour should bring sack lunches. Free drinks will be provided, compliments of Lubbock banks and cotton oil mills.

Thursday has been set aside for farmers of Lynn, Crosby, Hockley Garza, Lamb and Hale counties, while the Friday program is primarily for farmers from Parmer, Swisher, Floyd, Dawson, Gaines, Terry, Yoakum and Bailey counties.

Discussions and demonstrations will center around field crops. Farmers will have an opportunity to observe the variety of tests of cotton and grain sorghums under dry land and irrigated conditions.

New storm proof varieties of cotton and five or six new varieties of grain sorghum that are showing promise also will be shown.

To Discuss Defoliation

No regular display of farm machinery is planned, Don L. Jones, superintendent of the Experiment station here, has announced, but two types of cotton choppers will be demonstrated. A combination rotary hoe and go-devil also will be shown.

Farmers also will be shown a block of cotton that has been chopped with a mechanical chopper.

A third discussion will be conducted on the use of fertilizers and legumes in rotation, and farmers will have an opportunity to see the result of several years of experimental work to determine the best rate of planting for grain sorghums.

Another demonstration and discussion will be held on the results and value of defoliation. Cotton insects and their control will be discussed. Cotton showing typical damage from 2, 4D will be on display.

A full discussion will be held on the disease known as "angular leaf spot," which has developed some prominence on the South Plains.

Farmers also may observe varieties of corn hybrids now growing in plots at the station.

Jones will direct the general program. Rex Colwick will be in charge of demonstrations of farm implements and irrigation. Others on the program are Ernest Thaxton, corn hybrids and defoliation; R. F. Karper, grain sorghums; John Box, cotton varieties; and Harold Frost, dew forecasting by the Lubbock Weather Bureau station.

DAWSON EVENT SLATED OCT. 9-15

Beards, Hoop Skirts Ordered As Lamesa Plans Annual Fair

LAMESA, Sept. 13. (Special)— Barbers here may get restless from lack of work between now and Oct. 16.

Mayor Sam Richardson has issued a proclamation calling for all men to wear "hirsute adornments on their physiognomies" (whiskers on the face) until that time as residents prepare for celebration of the annual Dawson County Fair, Oct. 9-15.

The proclamation ordered women residents to don hoop skirts and sunbonnets, and dubbed the females "sisters of the swish."

Men are expected to wear western regalia, including jeans, boots, colorful shirts and bandanas. They, with their wiskers, will be called "brothers of the bush."

To Enforce 'Order'

Mayor Richardson said special deputies would be assigned to the enforcement of the regulations, and said that failure to comply would bring "extreme and terrifying penalties."

Men or women not wishing to join their respective groups may escape punishment by purchasing a "paleface certificate" at the city hall.

Highlight of the fair will be a pageant entitled "Boom Town," a historic panorama of 14 scenes depicting early days of Lamesa and the surrounding territory. A Hollywood producer heads the show which will include a cast of 500 local persons.

A contest is underway to select "Queen of the South Plains," who will be crowned in a spectacular coronation scene during the pageant.

The queen must be between the ages of 16 and 26. The winner will wear a lavish coronation costume made in Hollywood, show officials announced.

Wolfforth Lions Club Is Presented Charter

WOLFFORTH, Sept. 13. (Special) — The 33 members and about 100 guests of the Wolfforth Lions club attended a charter meeting here at 8:15 p.m. Monday in the Frenship school cafeteria.

An invocation by Rev. O. A. McBrayer, pastor of the First Methodist church here, began the program. An introduction of visitors from Lubbock, Borger, Crosbyton, New Deal, Idalou and Brownfield followed.

After a selection by the Borger sextet, the charter was presented to E. A. Deering, president of the club, by Curtis A. Cryer, district governor of Lions clubs.

An address on "Lionism" was given by Cryer.

The hall was decorated by Lions Herb Henderson and C. P. Young, jr.

The presiding officer was Jack Griggs, president of the Brownfield organization. Other officials present were D. A. Edwards, Crosbyton, district deputy governor; Floyd Whitney, of Idalou, president; and Groves Denman, Lubbock Lions club president.

The meeting was closed with benediction by Rev. J. P. Murphey.

C. C. Reynolds, Of Morton, Dies

MORTON, Sept. 13. (Special)— C. C. Reynolds, 47, one of Morton's most active civic and business leaders, died in his home about 10 a. m. today after an illnes of several weeks.

Services are to be read at 3 p. m. Wednesday in the First Baptist church of Morton. Rev. W. C. Wright, pastor, and Rev. K. L. Bullard of Gilmer, former pastor of the Morton Missionary Baptist church, are to officiate. Interment will be in Morton cemetery under direction of Singleton Funeral home of Morton.

Active In Civic Affairs

Mr. Reynolds, owner of Morton Motor company and other business properties here, came to Morton from Shallowater in 1934. He was a member of the Baptist church and of the Masonic lodge and was a director of the Morton Chamber of Commerce. He was a former member of the Lions club of Morton.

Mr. Reynolds had been active in other civic projects during his residence here.

He returned to his home last week from Baylor hospital in Dallas, where he had been receiving treatment for a malignant ailment. His condition had been critical for about two weeks before his death.

Survivors include the wife: one son, J. C. Reynolds; and a granddaughter, Pamela, all of Morton; three sisters, Mrs. J. M. Alexander of Morton, Mrs. E. J. Posey of Mt. Pleasant, and Mrs. Bob Bluhm of Big Spring; a brother, Seaman Reynolds of Spur.

Pallbearers will be Paul Goodman, James St. Clair, W. W. Williamson, Joe Nicewarmer, Roy Hill, and Roy Allsup.

Expensive Passenger Bites Welcoming Member At Denver

DENVER, Sept. 13. (INS)—An expensive passenger arrived in Denver today aboard a United Airlines cargoliner—and promptly bit one member of the two-man welcoming committee.

Robert V. Menary, president of the Cheyenne mountain zoo at Colorado Springs, and George Manzer, superintendent, were on hand to greet the new arrival—a $5,000, two-year-old gorilla named Philip. He was donated to the zoo by Louis B. Maytag, washing machine tycoon.

Philip is just a baby of 40 pounds. He is playful, but somewhat careless, as Menary learned when Philip nipped him on the hand.

Later Philip will grow up to about 800 pounds and will be a fit playmate for no one, except possibly another gorilla.

ANNOUNCES DIVORCE PLANS—Mrs. Faye Emerson Roosevelt, has announced she plans a divorce from the second son of the late president. Her written statement said they "have been separate for some time" and added they parted on "friendly terms." (AP Wirephoto.)

SYMPOSIUM IS OPEN TO PUBLIC

Three Lubbock Ministers Will Discuss Overseas Trips Oct. 6

A symposium at which the general public may hear three Lubbock ministers discuss overseas conditions will be conducted at 8 p.m. Oct. 6 in Senior High school auditorium.

All proceeds of the event above a small amount of expense will go to the national polio epidemic emergency fund which will be used to aid polio victims in the worst epidemic n history of the United States.

Guy To Be Moderator

The ministers are Rabbi Julius Kerman, of Congregation Shaareth Israel; Dr. M. Norvel Young, minister of Broadway Church of Christ, and Rev. Wm. F. Blakeslee, pastor of St. Elizabeth's Catholic church.

Chas. A. Guy, editor of The Avalanche-Journal, will be moderator for the symposium.

Dr. and Mrs. Young returned to Lubbock Saturday, after going by Nashville, Tenn., to get their children, following three months' trip to England, Scotland, Holland, Belgium, France, Switzerland, Germany, Austria, Italy, Egypt, Palestine, the Island of Cyrpus, Spain and Portugal.

Returned In August

Rev. Blakeslee returned in late August from a tour of France, Italy, Switzerland, England and Ireland.

Rabbi Kerman also returned in late August. He spent most of his time abroad in Israel, remaining there eight weeks. En route to Israel, he visited briefly in Paris and Rome. On his return he spent a week in Switzerland, two days in Iceland and a few hours in Ireland.

Editor Guy visited Germany, Italy, Austria, France and the Free State of Trieste in late 1947. He

Girlstown Ceremony Delayed By Weather

Laying of the cornerstone of the residence at Girlstown, U. S. A., which was scheduled for Tuesday afternoon, has been postponed until Thursday, Oct. 13.

Ceremonies are set for 2 p. m. on that day.

The ceremonies were postponed Tuesday because of inclement weather. It was said that the cornerstone, which is being donated by the South Plains Monument Co. of Lubbock, would not set well if laid in damp weather.

It was announced that a gift of 2,000 bricks has been given for use in construction of the Girlstown residence by Western Brick and Supply Co. of Lubbock.

BURNS PROVE FATAL

DENISON, Sept. 13. (AP)— Burns suffered while helping her son start the family car proved fatal today for Mrs. Lillie Mae Haning, 47. She suffered burns yesterday while pouring gasoline into the carburetor. The gasoline was ignited when her son, Charles Robert, 14, stepped on the starter.

YEAR'S BUDGET AND CONTRACT IS UNDER STUDY

New Director Of State Board For Hospitals And Special Schools Runs Into Immediate Problems

By MAC ROY RASOR
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Sept. 13.—The new director of the State Board for Hospitals and Special schools today ran into the first headache on his new job before it was one-day old.

Moyne Kelly, superintendent of the Corsicana State Orphan's home, spent the entire day with the board pondering problems and policy. He was named to the directorship yesterday.

Two of the problems were a contract complaint and the job of preparing year-long budgets for each of the 22 hospitals and eleemosynary institutions under the board's supervision.

To Draw Up Budgets

The board directed Kelly to draw up budgets along the patterns of the fiscal year just ended but adding salary increases granted by the legislature. The budgets would be subject to board approval.

The action followed Kelly's advice to the board that one of their immediate jobs was preparation of the institutional budgets to remove "unrest" at the institutions resulting from supervision passing from the former governing board of control to the new board Sept. 1.

The complaint was registered by Senator Jimmy Phillips of Angleton who inquired into the recent letting of a contract to an Austin funeral home for burial of state wards who die at Austin institutions.

Phillips said he understood that four homes entered identichl bids offering to handle the burials without charge to the state.

"I don't know why anybody wants to fight for business for 'nothing' but the three homes that were left out aren't very happy about it," Phillips told the board and Kelly.

Phillips suggested that the business should have been divided among the tying bidders instead of one arbitrarily being chosen.

Board Chairman Claud Gilmer of Rock Springs took the blame.

Gilmer told Phillips that then-acting director Dr. James W. Scarborough had awarded the contract but would not have done so had he (Gilmer) objected.

Midland Luekemia Victim Is Given 'Early' Birthday Party

MIDLAND, Sept. 13 (AP) — They gave little Jimmy Spiva a birthday party Sunday, though his birthday is still two months away.

Jimmy has leukemia, and that is a big word for a six-year-old to understand.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Spiva, decided to move up the party from November 1 . . . Jimmy's birthday . . . when they were told Jimmy had an incurable disease.

Jimmy doesn't know his condition. He continues to play cowboy and other things little West Texas boys like to play.

The early birthday party was the only break in the usual routine in the Spiva home at Terminal, 10 miles west of Midland.

Jimmy's father and mother want him to remember it that way.

The lad has two brothers, one older and one younger than he is. His father is a paint contractor.

They said Jimmy had a swell time Sunday.

Deputy Sheriff Is Taken To Belton

BELTON, Sept. 13 (AP) — Former Deputy Sheriff Sam Smithwick was placed in jail here today to await trial for the slaying of radio commentator W. H. (Bill) Mason.

He was brought here from Alice by Sheriff H. T. Sain of Jim Wells county, Deputy Sheriff Charlie Brand and Texas Ranger Ben Krueger.

Sheriff E. T. Ray of Bell county took charge of him after he had been given his lunch in a Belton cafe.

Smithwick was brought here after his case was transferred from Jim Wells county. District Judge Wesley Dice, who will preside, said Smithwick probably will be tried in January.

Smithwick had been held in the Alice jail since Mason was shot to death July 29.

REGISTRATION IS STARTED

AUSTIN, Sept. 13 (AP) — Fall term registration started today at the University of Texas, with a final enrollment of 15,500 expected. This would be around two thousand students short of 1947's postwar peak of 17,400.

AGENCY TO AVERAGE PRICES

USDA Announces Change In Hog Price Support Program

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—The Agriculture department announced a change in its hog price support program today aimed at relieving the government of responsibility of maintaining fixed minimum price floors for individual markets.

Under the change, the government will attempt to keep national average prices at the farm and in major producing areas from dropping below support levels required by law.

The new method goes into effect now for a period ending March 31. The support price for hogs is 90 per cent of the parity price. Parity is a price computed as giving farmers a fair return in terms of purchasing power.

Prices To Be Averaged

Under the old support program, the government was committed to maintain prices at set figures for individual markets.

Under the new plan, no support action will be taken in any individual market as long as prices nationally average the support level or above.

This change was announced at the start of the heavy marketing season that is expected to bring a drop in hog prices. Hog production for fall and winter slaughter is 15 per cent greater than a year ago. Secretary Brannan and department economists have predicted that prices may drop to or below support levels later in the fall and winter.

The only practical way of supporting hogs, they said, is through the purchase of pork products. The government will buy pork only from packers operating under federal inspection.

Weekly Guides Set

Support prices—on a national average farm price basis—will be set for each month. They will be announced early in October. The support prices will be highest at the start of the fall-winter season and lowest in the middle—that is in December and January — and will rise again toward the end of the season. This difference reflects the normal marketing pattern.

In addition to the monthly support level, the department will announce weekly price support guides. These guides will indicate the level at which actual prices on seven major mid-western hog markets should average out each week in order to assure the national support level for the month. These weekly guides will not be considered specific support commitments.

The guides for the seven-market average in September will be $18.50 for 100 pounds for good and choice barrow and guilt butcher hogs until September 24, and $18.25 for the remainder of the month. The weekly guides will drop about 40 cents for 100 pounds each week during October and November.

These drops would bring the seven-market average down to about $14.85 by December 1.

The seven markets to be used in determining the weekly guide are Chicago, St. Louis national stock yards, South St. Paul, Sioux City, Omaha, Kansas City and South St. Joseph.

RENT GOUGERS:

They Hurt Our City

LOCAL landlords who may be attempting to gouge on the strength of the reactivation of Lubbock Air Force base are imperiling the permanence of a most important asset to this City and area.

The Air Force, like the other military services, tries to keep its personnel satisfied for sake of the morale which is most important to efficiency. The high command does not ignore evidences of widespread discontent among the people who are assigned to its facilities.

The base with a personnel which feels it is being treated fairly in the community of its location ordinarily can be sure of favorable consideration when expansions and improvements are being considered. The facility with an unhappy personnel usually is at a disadvantage at such times. If the grievances are aggravated and if the high command feels they are justified, the facility where the condition exists is likely to be the first to feel the effects of any retrenchment programs.

Referring specifically to LAFB, its size, expansions, importance and permanence almost certainly will be reflected in some degree by the satisfaction or dissatisfaction of the people stationed here with the way they are treated in Lubbock. This attitude conceivably could mean the difference between the continuance or discontinuance of the base.

Few things can do more to cause worse resentment than unfair treatment as to rentals — and most of the personnel have to rent because they are not rich and also because they are subject to transfer on short notice. The very nature of their duties, without considering their financial limitations as salaried people, makes it impractical with them to comply with demands, which some have reported, that they pay six to 14 months rent in advance, or that they buy shoddy furniture at fantastic prices to get a place to live.

A permanent and expanding LAFB can keep a great many rental units filled profitably. A sharply reduced personnel or discontinuance of the base almost certainly would mean vacant places, lower rents, reduced property values and a brake upon Lubbock growth.

No one could want things like this to happen. It will add to the assurance that they won't happen if rent levels and requirements are kept within reason. The landlord, who does otherwise is risking financial injury not only to himself, but to the entire community.

Help Wanted

ELECTIONS of prime importance to Texans — the first of their kind in the State — are scheduled Nov. 8. when the voters of each of the 21 congressional districts will name their representative on the newly authorized State Board of Education.

This board, created under the Gilmer-Aikin act, will shape the basic public educational policies of the State. It will have broader authority in that field than ever has been entrusted to any individual or group. The importance of capable, well-qualified, members of unimpeachable integrity is to evident for discussion.

This, therefore, merely is the suggestion that voters in each district study carefully the qualifications of those who may offer themselves as candidates, doing what they can to encourage capable men or women to enter the race. In the discharge of their duty, responsibility and privilege as voting citizens, they will be called upon to fill few positions of greater importance to the present and future of their State.

"Russian scientists discovered evolution before Darwin did," says the Moscow press. If so, they must have discovered it outside Russia.

A teacher of English says that "Hell, no!" isn't good English. Maybe not, but in ever so many cases it's a good answer.

(THE STORY: Until Barry Bainbridge's millions saves the life of Gaynel Teare's younger sister Pat, Gaynel could not feel that she was enough in love with Barry to accept his proposal of marriage. Then came Pat's emergency operation and Gaynel found herself in debt to Barry. She promises to repay Barry, and tells herself that she will give Barry the answer he wants. However, Fritz shows up one evening at Gaynel's home in Detroit and they go on an evening's pleasure excursion into Canada. Fritz tells Gaynel that he has a chance on a very good job and he is about to tell her "the real reason" for the trip tonight.)

XXI

THE stop at customs was brief.

The entry permits were surrendered—for Fritz hadn't lost his this time—and soon they were on their way again.

"Such a contrast with last time," Fritz said with a sigh. " You are wonderful as a passport."

"Why can't you call me something nice," Gaynell asked. "First I'm your maiden aunt, and next I'm your passport. I deserve better treatment."

"That's just what you're going to get," Fritz said. "The time has come, Madome, to give you that fourth reason. . . Heavens! What's that?" He had started to put one arm around the top of the seat again, but now he leaned forward, his face screwed up into a perplexed knot as he listened to the sounds emitting from Jaloppee.

"What's what?" Gaynell wished he would keep on without so many interruptions. She could not hear anything different; Jaloppee's rattles sounded the same to her. Then even her inexperienced ear caught a new sputtering. Jaloppee gave forth one more groan and settled in her tracks.

Gaynel said, "What on earth did you stop for? Don't you know you aren't allowed to stop in the tunnel?" Even you can't expect to get away with that."

"I told you Jaloppee has temperament." Fritz actually looked proud of the fact. "She does as she pleases. No mere tunnel can give orders to her."

"You mean she won't go?"

"Not until she gets good and ready. Not even then, unless my guess is wrong, from that last groan she gave . . ."

"Fritz, please talk sense!"

"Well, my love," he was getting out of the seat now, preparing to have a look, "me-thinks the differential fell out, the universal broke, the driveshaft has given way . . . "

"Nothing more?" Gaynell's tone was slightly ironic. "Or are they all one and the same thing?" It looked as though the car was indeed ready for that pasture or junk heap.

"NOTHING more." Fritz came around from the back of the car, his inspection completed. "They amount to the same answer. We're stuck. We no can go."

"What'll we do?" Only one other car had passed them in the tunnel. It was late, and cars passed few and far between.

"Sit." Fritz replied, climbing back in to do just that again. "Continue our delightful conversation. Until some kind soul comes along. Let's see now," he scratched his head, "where were we?"

"But we might have to sit here the rest of the night!"

"What if we did? This seems to me an ideal spot." Fritz looked around with satisfaction. "Secluded. Exclusive. Lights dim."

"Frederick Fitzroy Freyman, aren't you going to do something?"

"I certainly am," he said. And did it without any further delay.

"Oh . . . " Gaynel gasped, after it was over. For he had kissed her again. Like that other time in The Goat's Nest. Yet not like it, either. For this time it had been even more wonderful, more undoing. The world had stopped. Taken on new meaning. She knew now what had been the matter with her. This was the world. This was life. This was love.

"THIS is the fourth reason," Fritz said. He could look at her now like that and she would never try to escape. "The real reason I brought you along on this jaunt. To tell you I'm nuts about you, my sweet. So nutty I'm going to marry you, now that I'm going to have a job so that I can. That's what I've been trying to tell you, in my roundabout way. Remember I gave my word to the policeman that I'd be good to you. . . "

"And I promised to call him if you weren't," Gaynel said softly. This was that moon she had wanted to reach. So much so that neither of them heard another car approaching, or realized it had drawn up beside them, until the driver spoke and brought them down to earth.

"Need a lift?" he asked. "Or is this a sparking spot I hadn't heard of?" Out of gas? Got a flat?"

"This is heaven." Fritz said. "Didn't you know? We don't need any help. Unless you'd report us at the other end of the line, like a good fellow, and suggest they send a wrecker to haul us in."

"Glad to be of service," the man said. He started up again. "I'll tell 'em not to be in too big a hurry," he added with a laugh.

"This isn't as ideal a spot as I thought," Fritz said. "But there should be time for one more kiss and for you to tell me how soon we can get married, my love. I wish we could build our nest right here in this tunnel. Let me hear you say you love me, gorgeous, the same as I love you."

"I love you," Gaynel said, since there was no denial and since nothing else mattered just then.

"Say it again!" Fritz insisted. "It sounds like music, baby. And prove it again, too. Put your arms around me sweet."

There were moments of silence before Fritz spoke again. "And by the way, Gay, I'm asking you to marry me, or rather telling you—in case my English isn't straight enough."

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

IF a good fairy came along and told you that you could be anybody you wanted to be, for whom would you exchange your present self?

BRANDEIS

That is the question an interviewer asked a number of women the other day.

He picked his subjects at random, some on New York's Fifth swank Park avenue, some in the crowded sections where what is called "the middle class" lives.

A few hedged, played coy, or refused to answer.

But when the reporter explained that no names would be used in his survey, all were pretty nice about it and told him who they would like to be, rather than themselves, and why.

A few wanted to be Princess Aly Khan, nee Rita Hayworth. One wanted to be Mrs. Truman, one Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

Some of the women would ask the good fairy to make them famous movie stars, glamorous models, rich widows, millionaire's daughters.

But of all the women asked, one stood out as completely original.

She was not a rich woman. She wasn't even well-to-do.

She was a nice, clean-cut American housewife in her early thirties, just coming out of a chain store, where she apparently had done her marketing for the day.

When the fellow asked her his question she answered without a moment's hesitation:

"If I had my choice I'd like to be my four-year-old daughter."

He asked her why.

"Oh, there are so many reasons," she said.

"First of all, she has her youth. She is starting in life with a clean slate, and she has all the opportunities in the world to make of herself whatever she wants to be.

"She has two parents who love her and are helping her all they can.

"She has a good father who idodreams and ambitions many of which have not come true, but who wants to help her daughter to make hers come true.

'She has a good father who idolizes her and who will do everything in his power to spare her the disappointments he and her mother have had.

"She is living in an age where women have more and more opportunities and where the whole world lies open to her to do and to be whatever she wants to be and to do."

She paused for a moment.

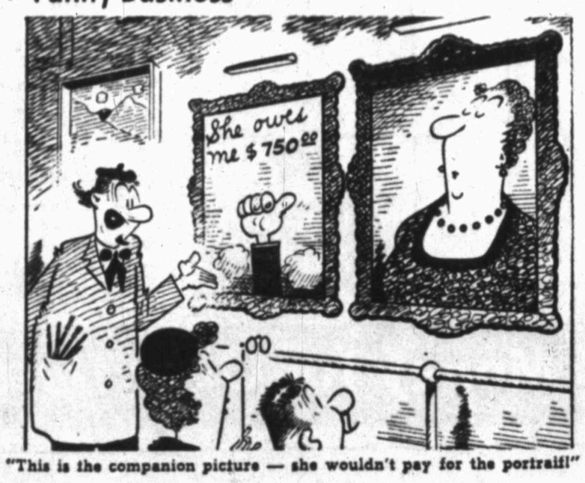

Then she went on:

"Come to think of it, I wouldn't really want to be anything but what I am.

"Because in that little daughter's happiness I find my own. What more do I need?"

What would YOU tell the good fairy if she asked YOU?

PEOPLE CHOSE PATH

British Still Free

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—C. W. L. of Pomona, Cal., wants to know "the difference between the present Socialist government in England and Hitler's Nazi (National Socialist) government in Germany.

"I do not mean the persecution of the Jews, which was not an inherent part of the Nazi form of government. But in some ways England seems to have gone even further than did the Germans in denying personal liberty."

Answer: I think that the persecution of the Jews shows clearly the vast difference. Under Der Fuehrer's theory of Teutonic racial superiority, the attack on the Jews was an integral part of the Nazi form and philosophy of rule.

DIFFERENCE: Regardless of one's attitude toward Britain's Labor government, it did come to office by vote of the people. Hitler rose to power, first by appointment of Hindenburg, and subsequently by duress and violence. There was never any chance to vote him out of office after he became head of the state, whereas the Attlee-Bevin Ministry may be overturned in the 1950 election.

TUCKER

Rightly or wrongly, Britain has turned to nationalization and socialization in an effort to preserve its economic and social system. Hitler sought world conquest. This difference in purpose—objective—seems to place the two systems in altogether separate categories.

An Englishman still has the right to vote as he wishes, to strike and not to work. No German during the Nazi regime enjoyed those prerogatives.

There is also the fact that owners of nationalized industries have been compensated for their property by issue of government bonds. Hitler seized property and eventually laughed at the owners. Moreover, men like Goebbels and Goering gobbled these plants and became millionaires.

COMPLAINT: C.W.L. is correct in his implied suggestion that Labor Party members themselves are not altogether happy over the immediate and everyday effect of their experiment. But that fact serves to sharpen the difference between British and Nazi Socialism.

The workers feel neglected because, now that their union leaders have become statesmen, they do not and cannot give the same interest and devotion to the bread-and-butter problems of their card-holding friends. And the current crisis may became so desperate that a Labor government may eventually have to enact laws against the right to strike. That is happening in France. With respect to certain key industries—coal, for instance—it has happened here.

The people who elected the Attlee-Bevin Ministry also have another complaint. They had been led to believe that each individual would actually own a piece of property when the government took over. Actually, they see virtually no change in their condition save that life has become even more austere. Thus they feel cheated.

COMPLACENT: Interestingly enough, despite all this concern over the unmerry isle's difficulties, I find my British friends—London and Manchester newspaper correspondents, visiting M.P.'s and government officials and just plain Britishers— to be grimly complacent. Their confidence that England, as in the past, will emerge successfully from her present trials recalls Kipling's lines about a critic of an older day:

If England was as England seems,
And not the England of our dreams,
But only brass, putty and paint,
'Ow quick we'd drop 'er. But she aint!

I never remember reading or hearing any Nazi of the Hitler period express such heroworship for the fatherland.

LOAN: "What is the difference," asks I.N.P. of Bellingham, Wash., "between Harry Vaughan using his influence as a friend of President Truman to get favors for his friends and the intercession of President Roosevelt to get a $200,000 loan for Son Elliott from John Hartford, A & P president, who was threatened with a federal indictment at the time?

"I am not condoning Vaughan, but here it seems was a much more direct use of influence by the White House than in the present instance. Why was there no investigation into the matter, and did Elliott ever repay the loan? Wasn't it finally wiped off the books by the intervention of Jesse Jones through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation?"

TAWDRY: Answer: The only difference is one of degree, and I think the Roosevelt-Hartford transaction far more blameworthy than General Vaughan's role as Mr. Fixit. So far there is no suggestion that the nonmilitary aide profited personally, whereas young Roosevelt most certainly did.

The very pettiness of Vaughan's operations, however, seems to nauseate people more than did the Hartford tap. Even in the field of gentle grafting, Americans like things done in a large and grandoise way. Cheap stuff they cannot abide. There is something picaresque and dramatic in stealing a Teapot Dome, but getting a deep freeze for free in a perfumery deal is rather tawdry.

The Hartford matter was thoroughly investigated and aired—by the press. Yes, Mr. Jones did settle for $4,000, or on a basis of two cents on the dollar. But, as I understand it, he paid the money out of his own pocket, and I have heard of no effort to repay him. I hope to see him soon, and shall try to check.

The City Mail Carriers association and the women's auxiliary to the association met Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Norman, 1619 Nineteenth, in business sessions.

Visitors and members of the organizations attending were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Potts, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Thaxton, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Young, Mr. and Mrs. John Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McLorain, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Sides, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Tate, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Carroll and E. D. Farris.

Believe It Or Not -

MORE SMALL AIRPORTS NEEDED

Private Plane Program Lagging

By SEN. MARGARET CHASE SMITH
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — If our 1945 expectations of postwar aviation development had come true the skies would be filled with airplanes. Why haven't these expectations come true?

First, there just aren't enough little airfields to handle small private planes on a basis approaching that of automobiles. There are plenty of excellent highways for automobiles, but there are comparatively few small airfields for private planes. Most of the fields are commercial and municipal airports. Private planes don't stand much of a chance at these sprawling layouts. And you can't fly a plane unless you have an airport to take off from and land at.

SEN. SMITH

Expense Is Factor

Another deterrent to filling our skies with planes is that while almost anyone can drive a car after a few, inexpensive lessons, becoming a licensed airplane pilot requires extensive training. Even after a student soloes, he must get in 30 more hours of piloting at a cost of $500 or more. And that is just the beginning. This means that flying is almost a rich man's hobby.

The Federal government has certainly emphasized assistance to the commercial airlines with mail subsidies and municipal airport aid programs. Commercial airlines have become an extremely important necessity to our daily business and national economy. But commercial airlines cannot offer the real hope for mass expansion of flying. That hope can noly be in private planes.

MOST of our transportation today is in privately owned cars rather than on trains and buses and airplanes. It is obvious that most of our air transportation in the future must come in privately owned small planes. Until that time we will still live in an automobile age instead of the air age of which we so loosely boast.

We got the low-priced, high-utility automobile only because of the mass demand that was created for it. And that demand came only after opportunity to use the cars was expanded through improvement of our roads.

To do the same for small airplanes, we must have more small airfields. Both the federal government and individual people on the local level hold the key in this respect. I believe the federal aid airport program should be continued and expanded to give little airfields more of a boost. Existing fields must be supported first, but new fields should be encouraged because each new landing area adds to the utility of private planes and creates new business that other airports share.

Local Work Needed

But much can be done at the local level. Towns without airports need not wait to build. If there is sufficient civic interest and teamwork, the job can be started by the home town. The more the local interest, the more people will learn to fly, and as the number of flying students increase so will the cost of learning to fly decrease.

Although women comprise half the population and far more than half the purchasing power of our country, only five per cent of our civilion pilots are women. Private flying should be an interesting challenge to them. A full scale aviation development is dependent upon them.

WE won't have a "roadable" plane in mass volume which can take off and land in a limited space and drive from the airport to final destination until we have more small airfields in sustained operation. No less a personage than Air Secretary Symington has said, "The grass airfields of America, maintained by local enterprise, are an important element of American air supremacy. Their existence and support by the community are tangible evidence of the understanding of the position of air power to the American way of life."

I hope that we will back up our talk with more private-plane flying.

Cuspidor Issue Is Raised At San Antonio Commission Meet

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 13. (AP)—The city council today discussed gaboons, specifically, the polished brass spittoons which for years have decorated the council chambers occupying a place beside each commissioner's desk.

The discussion came about when Mayor Jack White, hotel owner, suggested that the gaboons should go.

He said that they were "unsightly."

Everybody agreed, except streets Com. James W. Knight.

"I want my spittoon to rest my foot on," he said.

"We'll get you a brick," the mayor said, adding, "We used to have them in hotels, but they've all been taken out."

"This is not a hotel" Knight said tartly, "and I'm going to keep my spittoon."

Ed Appling, the head city hall janitor came in after the council session ended, and gathered up the gaboons and carted them off to the basement.

"Mr. Knight can have his if he wants it back," he said.

Graham Resident Is Shot By Dog In Freak Accident

FORT WORTH, Sept. 13. (U.P.)—John Schlittler of Graham, Texas, was shot by his dog.

The 16-year-old lad was in the hospital here today with a gunshot wound in his arm. He was at his home Friday with the gun laying across a chair when the dog first sniffed at the weapon and then stuck a paw in the trigger grip.

When the smoke cleared, Schlittler was wounded. The dog was under the bed.

New Taxes May Not Be Needed By State

HOUSTON, Sept. 13. (AP)—Governor Allan Shivers last night advised a group of Houston businessmen he hopes the January special session of the state legislature will not have to adopt a new tax program.

He said the special session will concentrate on emergency financing of state institutions and that he has asked heads of the institutions to restudy their financial needs.

Possible decreases in institutional appropriation requests may make new taxes unnecessary, he said, in that current indications are that the state's general fund income will be higher than previously estimated.

Shivers spoke at a dinner given in his honor by Jesse Jones, publisher of the Houston Chronicle. Details of the dinner were not released until this afternoon.

Stove Theft And Cold Wave Coincide

It was "fitting," police said, that the season's first stove theft report should have been made Tuesday.

The thermometer had sagged to 52 degrees about the time Mrs. Wilbur Dean of 2803 North Fifth made the complaint.

Mrs. Dean said the stove, valued at $150, was taken from 2815 North Seventh.

Houston Police Force Claimed Lagging Behind City's Growth

HOUSTON, Sept. 13. (AP)— Police Chief B. W. Payne today said Houston is growing like a giant in population but its police department is not matching the pace.

He said there have been 7,933 cases of murder, robbery, burglary, and auto theft, among others, here this year, compared to 6,883 last year.

Property stolen the first eight months of 1949, he said, totaled $987,679, compared to $703,747 last year. Stolen property recovered this year was valued at $632,710, compared to $481,893.

"We'll have to do the best we can with what we've got," Payne said in explaining his department's problems. "I don't know what we'll do when and if the city annexes new territories."

He said he understands new areas will be annexed late this year.

"That will make the situation worse," he added. "I've made a demand for eight or 10 more school officers but I doubt if I will get them this year."

SIMPLE EXPLANATIONS NEEDED

Many News Stories Of Major Importance Unread By Public

BY BOB CONSIDINE
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 13. — Reporters always have sure cures for the ills of editors. Usually the panaceas boil down to "why don't you use my stuff, if you really want to put your sheets over?" which is ending a sentence with a preposition.

Out of the goodness of a simple heart, I am herewith handing to the editors of America an idea, and I might add that the only editor I've ever known who was remotely interested in it was the late, great and resourceful Cissie Patterson.

Vital Stories Skimmed

Seems to me (and this may offend a lot of people) that much of the news in today's papers eludes the reading public. I don't mean the vital statistics of death, disaster, weather and who was seen with who at the El Storko.

I mean the potent and usually highly opaque stories that have to do with war, peace, U. N., our dignified dependents, the value of their money, the need of them in case of conflict, the major questions confronting Congress and your state legislatures.

This is the stuff that, by and large, is skimmed by the reading public or listened to, on the air, with the tin ear that the public tends to cup toward commercials.

It is of some other realm. It is a play whose characters are people who deal in big words and dense gestures that seem to have no relationship with the average man's breadwinning and his way of life. A man trying to keep from becoming ten dollars overdrawn at the bank — a condition which most of America seems to be facing today — simply cannot comprehend it, flings it into that nether-land populated by the characters in Alice in Wonderland.

But our grants to Europe, our promises to U. N., our involvement in many countries which (to most of us) remain only pink, purple and yellow blotches on a map, affect us deeply, and will alter and control the lives of our children and our grandchildren — and their grandchildren. Whether we know it or not, we are paying for the opening of new courses in history, clearing new vistas, penetrating forests of diplomacy undreamt of only a few years ago.

So my idea is this: Explain tough stories to the people. Seems to me that the least-read article in each day's paper is the story of what happened in U. N. the previous day. Most editors play it near the front of the paper because they sense that it is important and do not wish to appear gauche or insular by putting it back among the goitre cures. But their readers don't grasp it instantly and, because of that resitation, don't read it — though what is happening in a place named Lake Success might very well change their lives.

My hunch is that we need inserts of boxes fitted into the body of difficult news stories and headed, "What this means to you."

If Mr. Truman makes a speech saying that he will tolerate nothing less of Congress than full endorsement of the Atlantic pact or this or that, why not plump into the middle of the piece a little notation (in agate) to the effect that all of the above and below abracadabra means that you will pay 10, or 15, or 30 per cent more tax next year? Or the year after.

When Secretary of Defense Johnson demands that congressmen and others stop using military planes for junketing, let's have a little box or something in there stating that if junketing is stopped you — as the average bloke — will have three cents or three dollars or three hundred more to spend on your kids and mother-in-law next year.

If there's a piece about a new type A-bomb, which nobody in this country (more or less) can understand, let's have a little insert to the effect that there aren't many scientific secrets and that if Russia, let's say, get just that type, it will be able to atomize New York from the Bowery to the Yankee stadium, which might include — to the horror of the politburo — that great American, Paul Robeson.

I realize that a certain amount of prejudice and editorializing might inevitably enter into this little inserted tid-bit, bringing down the language of the gods to the jargon of the average working stiff. But I still believe that editors should take a chance, now and then, though we know of no organization which supplies capsule significance.

The syndicates have done the next best thing by hiring columnists, most of whom write from two days to a week behind the news, and radio is little better off.

I want my vitamins with the main course.

Lubbock Landlord Says His Tenant Must Have Children

". . . And the tenant must have at least one small baby or small children of some kind."

Lt. Reed T. Peter, housing officer at Lubbock Air Force Base, took the phone away from his ear and looked at it. Was he hearing things?

But no, he had heard correctly and the headache of finding housing for LAFB families was thus reduced one unit.

B. M. Wells, of 314 Paris avenue, was the landlord who stipulated that his tenants must have children.

Mr. Wells, paralyzed on one side, explained, "I just like to have little children around me." The house will rent for about $45 a month.

Meanwhile, calls offering housing accomodations were coming in nicely, but many more are needed, Lt. Peter said.

"We have another large group of Air Force people coming in tomorrow, and we must find housing for them too," he added.

Constable Requests $4,000 To Defray Raiding Expenses

HOUSTON, Sept. 13. (AP)— Raidin' Dale Richardson wants Harris county to give him $4,000 to keep up his raids on marble tables. Three persons want $7,500 from Dale and two others for nine tables he seized.

The La Porte constable was named a defendant yesterday in a $7,500 suit charging he illegally seized nine marble tables.

The suit was filed with District Clerk J. W. Mills by Attorney Rex Poston, acting for three Harris county residents who charge tables were taken from their places of business without warrant or legal right.

Richardson last week seized 70 one-ball machines.

Asks Commission For Money

The Bekins Van and Storage company and the Maryland Casualty company were named defendants with the cowboy booted Constable in the suit.

The casualty company bonded the constable and Richardson stored the seized machines at the storage company.

Plaintiffs in the suit are J. W. French, grocery store owner; Fred Barrow, and George Schmidt, cafe owners.

They seek $700 exemplary damages for each plaintiff and actual damages of $600 for each of the nine tables or return of the tables undamaged.

Dale said he would ask the county commissioners for $4,000 to cover expenses of last week's raid and anticipated expenses of future raids.

Some of the commissioners told reporters there is no money available for such requests.

"If I get the money or not I've still got around $60,000 worth of those gambling marble tables," Dale told reporters.

"But I need about $4,000 to keep up the raidin'. If the commissioners don't let me have it, I'm sunk. I'm already in the hole about $400 and I just started."

"If no money is given me," he added, "I'll just have to continue my raidin' piecemeal, borrowing a friend's pickup truck."

cast his ballot if he favored one part of his amendment but disliked another part. For instance, the voter might support the idea of annual salaries but oppose the proposition of annual sessions. How could he cast a single "for" or "against" vote on the entire proposal?

Funeral Services Set Today For O'Donnell Crash Victim

O'DONNELL, Sept. 13. (Special) —Funeral services for William Clary Putman, 51, of the Draw community, who was killed in a truck-car accident with James W. Hunter, 23, of Lubbock Sunday night nine miles south of Tahoka, will be held at 3 p. m. Wednesday at the O'Donnell Baptist church. Rev. Thomas Allman, of Hubbard, will officiate and burial will be in O'Donnell cemetery under direction of the Stanley Funeral home of Tahoka.

Funeral services for Hunter, who lived at 204 Uvalde in Lubbock, will be held at 10 a. m. Wednesday at the Lubbock Central Baptist church. Burial will be in Tech Memorial cemetery. Stanley Funeral home also will direct burial.

Putman is survived by his wife, Jane; two daughters, Mrs. Doris Burdett, Draw; and Mrs. Oudia Nicholas, Monahans; a son, W. C., of near Lubbock; his mother, Mrs. W. H. Putman, O'Donnell; four brothers, C. A., Highland; Odus, Stanford; J. D., Grandview; and Taft, Dallas; and a sister, Mrs. Effie Bazar, O'Donnell.

Ministers To Discuss

was one of 14 editors who went overseas to inspect occupation zones as guests of the Department of the Army and General Eisenhower, then Chief of Staff.

Club Directs Drive

Announcement of plans for the symposium was made by M. B. Hilburn, jr., president of Lubbock Exchange club, which was designated by Lubbock county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to direct the polio emergency epidemic drive.

Donations to the drive may be mailed to Polio, Lubbock postoffice.

The symposium is the only means of raising funds in the drive planned other than through mailed contributions.

Expenses related to the symposium probably will not amount to more than $40 for use of the auditorium and printing of tickets, said Hilburn. All money received from ticket sales above the small amount of expenses will be sent to the national polio epidemic fund for dispersal to chapters which have exhausted or will exhaust their funds in aiding polio victims.

Price of admission has not yet been set.

Members Of Mexican Leftists Party Arrested For Sedition

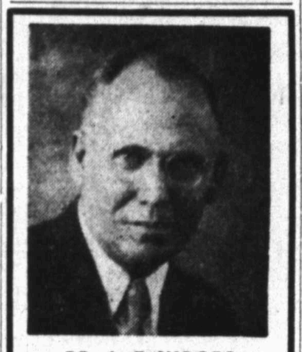

HERMOSILLO, Mexico., Sept. 13 (U.P.) — Police today held 59 members of a leftist political party which set up its own state "government" two weeks ago.

Top leaders of the Popular Party (PP) which installed Jacinto Lopez as "governor" first in a park and then in a funeral parlor have still not been caught, police said.

Although the 59 men held are liable to trial on charges of sedition, they will probably be released with a warning against repeating their agitation, reliable sources said.

The state government of Gov. Ignacio Soto, who was inaugurated the same day Lopez became "governor," is functioning normally.
