FDR OPENS DRIVE TO ELECT LIBERALS

OHIO SENATOR GETS OKAY IN FIRST ADDRESS

By JOSEPH H. SHORT.

MARIETTA, Ohio, July 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt stepped into the Ohio Democratic primary today with a word of praise for Senator Robert J. Bulkley.

Bulkley, candidate for re-nomination, was the only individual mentioned by the President in his first address of a transcontinental speaking tour—except in his introduction.

Introduced by former Governor George White, Bulkley's opponent, to a crowd celebrating the 150th anniversary of the settling of the Northwest Territory, the chief executive said:

Governor Davey, Senator Bulkley, Chairman White—

Later in the body of his speech, the President said:

"The cavalry captain who protected the log cabins of the north-west is now supplanted by legislators, like Senator Bulkley, toiling over the drafting of statutes and over the efficiency of government machinery to administer them so that protection and help of government can be extended to the full."

The President thus exerted at the outset of his journey across the nation to California his previously declared right to intervene in primaries.

Bulkley favored Mr. Roosevelt's court reorganization plan and voted for final passage of the President's executive reorganization measure.

People, four and five deep, pressed against the ropes which blocked off the speaker's stand in a park.

'RUSSIAN ROULETTE' FATAL TO BOSTONIAN

BOSTON, July 8 (AP)—A pistol trick that never failed in two years of testing missed the first time—and the last—yesterday for Paul Grassano, 20.

Exhibiting the trick anew for two friends who often had exclaimed at its dangers in the past, Grassano was shot to death in an automobile parked at a refreshment stand.

Officers called the pistol trick a variation of "Russian roulette," a bizarre thrill stunt which was given wide attention in the death of a University of Texas student at Austin last year.

"Russian roulette," they said, "gives the player the chance against five. With one chamber of its cylinder unloaded, a six-shooter is twirled and the hammer released. The object is to snap the hammer on the empty chamber."

The bullet that killed Grassano struck the cylinder of the .38 caliber revolver stopped on the wrong chamber, struck him at the left side of the nose and ranged through his head.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by Justice of the Peace W. C. Ragan.

MARLAND AND THOMAS VIE FOR FDR APPROVAL

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 8 (AP)—Two avowed new dealers battling for the United States senatorial nomination in Oklahoma's primary prepared to greet President Roosevelt at McAlester, Okla., where the chief executive reaches this state for an address here tomorrow evening.

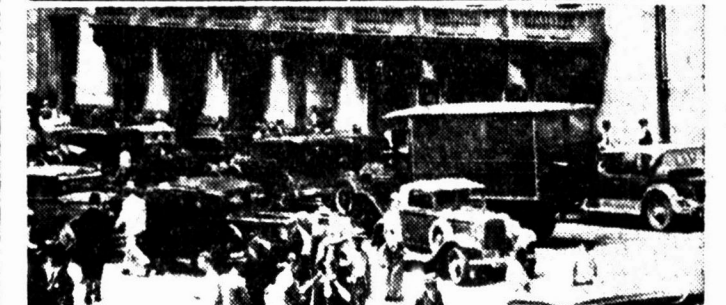

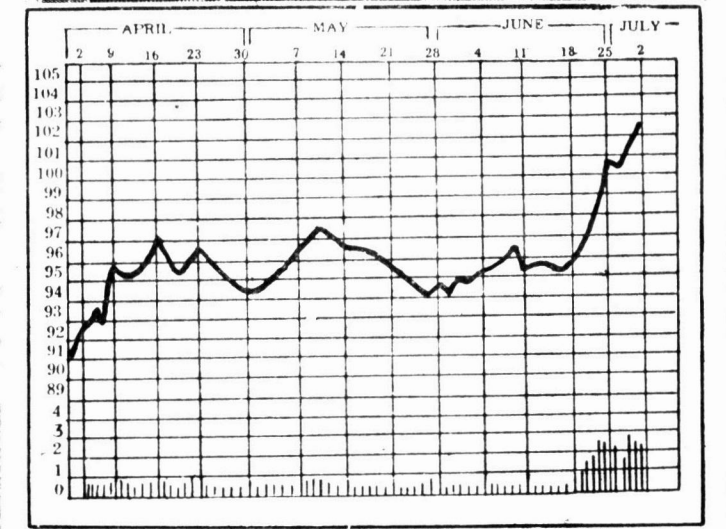

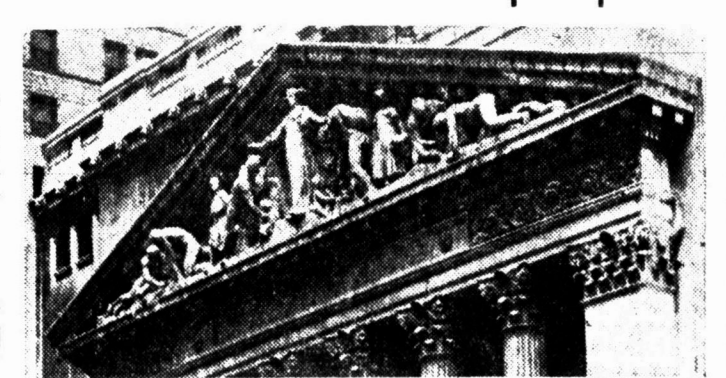

Governor E. W. Marland and Senator Elmer Thomas—the latter expecting an endorsement or a pat on the back from Mr. Roosevelt—will lead the train and accompany the President here, but there was nothing fraternal about the candidates' projected meeting on a McAlester station platform.

Marland, in a radio address last night, asserted that arrangements for his fairground address had been made so that "Senator Thomas will get the most reflected glory from the President's visit."

I HEARD - - -

That Ray Shifflett had to land at the local airport last night when chased all over the south plains by rain and hail. Ray, flying his trimotor 10-passenger Stinson U monoplane, has decided to stay in Pampa over the week-end. He was enroute home from Stamford when he ran into the terrific storm.

How Stocks Took Leap Upward

Is this the beginning of another bull market or just a flash in the pan? Economists, stock exchange operators and business leaders debated that question as stock prices moved an almost uninterrupted surge upward during a two-week period. The chart above, based on an index of 100 representative securities based on the New York Stock Exchange, shows exactly how the "bull" price line" wriggled steadily but slowly upward starting in early spring, then zoomed dizzily and sensationally to new highs between June 18 and July 2. From 91 at the beginning of April, a peak of 102 was reached at the beginning of July. The short vertical lines at the bottom of the chart, representing daily sales in millions, also show the sudden skyrocketing effect of the bull influence.

ARABS KILLED SHUTDOWNS TO IN JERUSALEM BE CONSIDERED

JERUSALEM, July 8 (AP)—A bomb blast at Jerusalem's busy Jaffa gate today killed four Arabs and wounded 36 in a new outbreak of deadly terrorism which Great Britain is trying to crush with warships and troop reinforcements.

The bomb tore apart a bus in the crowded Arab bus station and a vegetable market in the shadow of David's tower.

The vehicle was filled with Arab countryfolk about to leave for Hebron. Its bloodstained and twisted framework was scattered in a road-way filled with smoke-stricken humanity.

Troops of the Scottish black watch regiment with fixed bayonets clearing the square and started hunting for the bomb thrower.

One Jew surrounded by an enraged Arab mob was rescued by police and hustled to safety.

About the same time a general strike broke out in Amman, in neighboring Transjordan as riots in sympathy with Palestine Arabs, vice.

NEVILL'S EXPEDITION SAFE ON COLORADO

LEES FERRY, July 8 (AP)—Out of dangerous water, the expedition Nevill's expedition was reported 20 miles up the Colorado river from here today ready to surge into Lee's Ferry and their first contact with civilization in 18 dramatic days.

Fears for the six-member scientific expedition ended last night when two coast guard ships reported sighting the group, apparently making camp along the flood-tide stream.

The fliers, R. W. Fendley and J. L. Riggs, reporting to their commanding officer in El Paso, said they dropped notes to the party and that the six adventures signaled that they needed no help.

Gray County To Send Large Delegation To Col. Thompson Rally

DR. ECKENER POKES FUN AT HAROLD ICKES

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, July 8 (AP)—Dr. Hugo Eckener veteran German airship commander today ridiculed Secretary Harold Ickes' ban on export of helium to Germany.

"One Eckener intimated that the United States Secretary of the Interior's veto of a munitions board decision which would have permitted helium export was the result of American politics."

Speaking at the opening of a new Zeppelin museum here, the German airship commander today ridiculed Secretary Harold Ickes' ban on export of helium to Germany.

"There will be plenty of seats in the auditorium lawn. Front row seats will be reserved for the older folk."

The speech in Amarillo tomorrow night will be Thompson's first major campaign speech in the Panhandle and will be broadcast over KQNC.

Mei Davis and E. J. Dunigan are in charge here of arrangements for sending a delegation to attend the rally.

ICKES' AUTHORITY TO BAR TYLER MAN UPHELD

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—Justice Jennings Bailey has upheld in federal district court Secretary Ickes' authority to bar John D. Glass, a Tyler, Texas, attorney, from appearing before the federal trade board.

The interior department refused on October 19, 1937, to permit Glass, a former investigator in its petroleum division to represent Edward Brewer before the board.

The board is charged with the enforcement of the Commerce act, which prohibits interstate shipment of oil produced in violation of state laws.

The department contended a regulation issued by Ickes in 1933 prohibits any employee from appearing before the department for two years after his resignation.

Glass, who resigned from the department on October 3, 1937, argued the regulation was unjust.

Justice Bailey held Ickes had the power to make the regulation and that it was reasonable.

Even if the board were not a unit of the department, Bailey added, Ickes still would have the right to determine what persons should be allowed to appear before it.

They had said that the voyage would not be concluded here because of river conditions but decided to continue the trip after a four-mile portage around low water.

Many More Pampans Visit Exhibit of Henshaw Paintings

The beauty in the works of Glen Cooper Henshaw which are being shown here by Miss Lorene McClintock, is apparent to the many Pampans art lovers who have visited the exhibit at 117 South Russell street.

Among the most accomplished works being shown in the group of 19 paintings by Miss McClintock are Mr. Henshaw's pastels and water colors. A large picture of a Venice street scene at night and a portrait of a small girl are included in the most outstanding work of the collection.

He may be said to follow the Impressionist tradition of Turner and Whistler, especially in his Venetian palaces and churches in his night scenes of New York and Chicago. He does not define; he suggests. With a few short strokes of the brush he has been able to capture a fleeting moment in the life of his sitters, a Boston Transcript critic has pointed out.

Speaking of the Henshaw portraits, Carlisle Burrows in New York Herald-Tribune has said, "Mr. Henshaw has the feeling and sharp sense of imagery of the great masters. There is occasionally something Whistlerian about his landscapes and about some of his portraits."

An invitation has been extended to all Pampans to attend the art exhibit while it is being shown here.

Officers Named By Nimble-Thimble Club at Meeting

New officers were elected at the meeting of the Nimble-Thimble club in the home of Mrs. David Rife recently.

Those selected were Misses T. A. Goldsmith, president; Alice Bartz, vice-president; Raymond Walker, reporter; and A. M. Nash, secretary-treasurer.

An ice cream course was served to Misses T. A. Goldsmith, Alice Bartz, Addie Bartz, Rita A. M. Nash, Raymond Walker and one visitor Mrs. A. J. Gardner.

A picnic was enjoyed Wednesday evening by the members with their husbands and children.

Reports on Camp Made at Meeting Of Girl Scouts

Eighteen Girl Scouts were present at the regular meeting of troop four on Wednesday afternoon at the little house.

Mr. D. A. Caldwell, one of the leaders, was back with the group after an extended illness.

Reports were made by three Scout girls, who, during the summer, had been on camp. They had been with the troop with several camp songs.

Scouts working on my troop badge gave reports on Hawaii and the Virginia reel was taught to Scouts working on one of the second class tests.

GIRL RESCUED IN JUMP FROM 6TH FLOOR LEDGE

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—With a leather-lunged fire lieutenant shouting instructions, blonde Muriel Strong, 24, dropped from a sixth floor hotel window into a life net early today.

Her left leg was broken as she crashed into an open French window in her plunge, but her condition was reported not serious.

Detective Charles McGowan said she had exclaimed "My God" as she fell from the window.

"Don't hold him," she moaned to McGowan. "I just jumped."

Many of the witnesses of the spectacular rescue coupled Smith with the firemen in credit for saving the girl's life. The Los Angeles man held her dangling by her wrists while the firemen hurried with the life net.

Smith told police he was a naval supplies salesman.

Smith said he was in New York on a business trip and last night met Miss Strong in the bar of the hotel. They quarreled, he said, and he left her and went to his room.

Some time later, he said, she came to his room. He let her in and then went back to bed while she sat on the window sill and continued the argument. Then, he asserted, she started out the window, screaming.

Smith said he jumped out of bed and grabbed her wrists, but was unable to pull her back.

International Sunday School Lesson

Text: Joshua 14:6-15
By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

Caleb shared with Joshua the distinction of having the courage and faith to believe that determined Israelites could conquer the Promised Land. The rewards of heroic conduct and of true character are not always evident in this life. Men serve in sacrifice and the evidence of what they have done often does not appear until after they have gone.

But it is a satisfaction to realize that the reward came in Caleb's case, and that a fitting portion of the Promised Land was given to Caleb for his inheritance.

The reward had come to Caleb when he had not many remaining years on earth, for he was now, as he says in a statement of the lesson 85 years old. Is his statement that he was then as strong as in the day that Moses sent him justifying, or is it the boast of an old man who does not realize how much he has aged?

We can hardly believe that his physical strength was what it had been 45 years before, but it is easy to believe that his moral vision and his moral fiber had not weakened, and that the old man was realizing the heritage of a well-spent life which had been attained in everything to strength and courage and righteousness. The possession of Hebrews, the part of the land allotted to Caleb was not altogether a matter of ease. It meant the obligation to hold it and to defend it. In this, Caleb was evidently successful, for we have the record in the closing words of the lesson that "the land had rest from war."

The moral lessons of this ancient story for our time are not difficult to appraise.

There is, of course, the question of the moral right of one people to conquer a land and to expel another people by force of might—a question that has not very seriously arisen until comparatively modern times. The story of history is, in the main, the story of conquest and settlement, with those who showed capacity for settlement as well as conquest triumphing in the end.

But apart from this deeper question of the right of conquest is the lesson that determined courage and faith with moral vigor can conquer any obstacle. The man who is truly righteous need not fear the giants of evil. Formidable enemies can be dispersed and conquered by moral will and heroism.

But there is the further lesson that the goals of life are not in triumph over enemies, but in the attainment and preservation of peace. It was the spirit in which the Israelites possessed the land that has made their place in history significant.

Joshua and Caleb are heroic types for today. The story of what they did is not didactic and inspiring, but to action all to whom "promised lands" open up in characters to be attained and tasks to be achieved.

KEEP CORDS CAREFULLY
A little ordinary care in storing electric cords prolongs their usefulness. Fabric covered cords should not be allowed to become dusty, twisted, damp or worn from coming in contact with sharp surfaces. Hang them straight or in wide loops over a rounded peg. Rubber cords do not twist easily and are more suitable for use in rooms where there is danger that contact with water might cause a short circuit.

It keeps everything in perfect condition until she wants to use it, lets her buy quantity, and therefore makes shopping necessary only once or twice a week. And it makes all the ice she needs for cooling drinks.

You'll enjoy the summer a lot more if you have a modern electric refrigerator. Not only because you can have delicious ices and frozen salads, and dozens of crystal clear ice cubes for cold beverages, but because it will do for you all the things mentioned above, as well as save money on your food. When you buy your refrigerator out of income it practically pays for itself, because it saves money in so many ways. Come in now and get ready for summer by choosing the refrigerator that best meets your needs.

SALE OF CORPORATIONS

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission recommended that Congress prohibit large corporations from purchasing the stock, or assets, or competing firms.

The commission's proposal ordinarily would not apply to small corporations, or less than 10 per cent of the output of an entire industry. It would apply to small firms only when creation of a monopoly was threatened.

The suggestion grew out of a two-year investigation of the farm implement industry in which the commission said it found evidence of "serious monopolistic conditions." Commission members suggested that the result of their inquiry might serve as a guide for the government's study of monopolies.

The commission cited the following as among factors indicating monopolistic conditions in the farm implement industry:

1. The dominant position of International Harvester Company.

2. A large advance in farm machinery prices as compared with the prices of other manufactured products "since the origin of the International Harvester Company."

3. A high degree of rigidity in farm machinery prices during the depression.

4. "Profits of the International Harvester Company."

The commission reported that the farm machinery business largely is dominated by the following companies:

International Harvester Company, Deere & Company, J. I. Case Company, Oliver Farm Equipment Company, Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company, Minneapolis-Moline Power Implement Company, and Massey-Harris Company, Inc.

CHILDERS AND RECKNAGLE PLAY FOR TENNIS TITLE TODAY

HUGH STENNIS DEFEATED IN SEMI-FINALS

Leo Recknagle and Bob Childers will face each other across the net at 5 o'clock this afternoon in the final match of the men's singles division of the Pampa Daily News-Summer Recreation program tennis tournament. Play will be at Central Park.

Childers went into the finals after a hard-fought match with Hugh Stennis. Childers took two sets, 6-3, 10-8, on Tuesday. Yesterday afternoon the pair resumed play with Stennis taking the first set 6-3. Childers, however, made a nice comeback to take the deciding set 6-3.

The veteran Recknagle won his semi-final match Tuesday afternoon and has been resting for an anticipated tough battle with the youthful Childers.

Whitcombe Wins British Open

SANDWICH, Eng., July 8. (AP)—Battling one of the worst gaes in the history of the tournament, Reginald Whitcombe, veteran professional, posted a 72-hole total of 295 today and appeared to have clinched the British open golf championship.

Rounding the Royal St. George's course in 75 in the third round this morning, Whitcombe took the lead while most of the field was blown away by the wind.

Whitcombe, who also led last year at the end of 54 holes, finished with a 78 this afternoon. His 72-hole total thus was made up: 71-71-75-78.

Whitcombe, beaten out by Henry Cotton last year by two strokes, led Dick Burton by one stroke and Jim Adams by two after 54-holes with the rest of the field apparently out of the running.

Of the 37 players who started the final day's two rounds, only nine broke 80 in the third round. Whitcombe and Alf Padgham, the 1936 champion, were the leaders with 75's.

Three Clubs Lose To Minor Teams

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—At least three big league ball clubs were glad today to be back in the comparatively safe surroundings of regular league competition.

All three, the Brooklyn Dodgers, Philadelphia Athletics, and Phillies, stopped off yesterday after the all-star game to entertain the small-town customers and pick up a few exhibition game dollars. The results were sad and as follows:

The A's were shut out, 4-0, on five hits by Jimmy Skeleton on a Pitman, N. J., semi-pro team, who fanned ten; the Phils were turned back 2-1, by Lester Hickie of a Tremont, Pa., semi-pro club, who gave them two hits and drove in the winning run; the Dodgers lost, 3-2, to their Elmira eastern league "farm hands," being held for four hits, one a triple by Coach Babe Ruth.

King and Jewelers Win League Softball Games

King Oil and the Diamond Shop went on batting spree last night to win league softball games at Recreation park. King swamped Cities Service 11 to 2 in an industrial league game while the Diamond Shop topped the Jaycees 13 to 3.

J. Dewey, new King hurler, kept the gasmen guessing most of the way, while Muncy threw several home run balls which, connected with errors, cost him the game. Sheridan, King-catcher, was hit on the face with a foul tip and forced to retire in favor of Glen Moore. Mangell was behind the plate for the gasmen.

E. Smith, Haddock and Claude Heiskell made home runs for King. Emier hurled nice ball for the jewelers being nickered for only five hits and issuing only one walk. H. Stephen was behind the plate. Spears led the Diamond Shop at bat off Burleson with four straight hits as his teammates added nine more. Hall was behind the plate for the clubmen.

This evening at 6 o'clock at Cabot diamond the Diamond Shop and King Oil will clash in an exhibition tussle.

The scheduled game between the Christians and Mack & Paul Barbers at 9:30 tonight has been postponed because of a death in the family of one of the Mack & Paul players. In its place, the Jaycees and Pampa News will meet in a postponed league game. All players of both teams are urged to be at the park at that time.

League schedule for tonight, all games at Recreation park, follow:
6 p. m.—Gulf-Cooper vs. Supply Boys.
8:15—Stanford vs. Danciger.
9:30—Pampa News vs. Jaycees.

own wrathful 10-1 plastering of Shreveport combined with a few more set backs for the Oilers like the 6-0 blanking handed them by the Oklahoma City Indians.

The Sports, playing last night under Hal Northern as temporary manager because of the illness from an eye infection of Skipper Claude Johnson, tossed in seven errors to add to a barrage of 15 Exorster hits as the latter drove Frank Sansosti from the mound in the second, and continued the attack on Wagner.

Oklahoma City, chalking up a clean sweep of a series, bunched eleven hits neatly behind the six-hitter pitching of Jack Brillhart in defeating the Tulsans.

Meanwhile, Fort Worth ruined what would have been the seventh straight Dallas victory by downing the Steers 6-1, and the Houston Buffs and San Antonio Missions split a double bill by identical scores of 4-1, leaving the Missions a game ahead of the Buffs in standings.

SEVERAL BIG LEAGUE PILOTS MAY GET GATE

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

This is the time of year when tomatoes get ripe enough for good throwing from the stands, and Major league managers start wondering whether they'll be reading the "help wanted" columns by autumn.

As the big leagues picked up their pennant races today, after their three-day all-star layoff, there were the usual few pilots about when speculation already had arisen.

For the first time in the memory of the oldest inhabitant, however, there isn't the hue and cry that usually results in the roof falling in on the incumbent at Cleveland. Oscar Vitt has injected such huge gobs of fight into the once easy-going Indians that the folks along that particular section of Lake Erie actually are rooting for him this late in the season.

On the other hand, you have fellows like Bolling Bolly Grimes, Jelly Cholly Grimm and Peaceful Pie Traynor, who annually, from about this time on, are reported on the skids.

Grimes, it is known, hasn't met with the absolute approval of the powers that be in Brooklyn—notably boss man Larry (the Houdini) MacPhail. Up to a month or so ago, about everyone from Judge Landis down to the Phillies' bat-boy was reported in line for the Dodger leadership.

Then, along came Ruth. And now, it's generally accepted that the Babe will be handling the reins by not later than the start of next season.

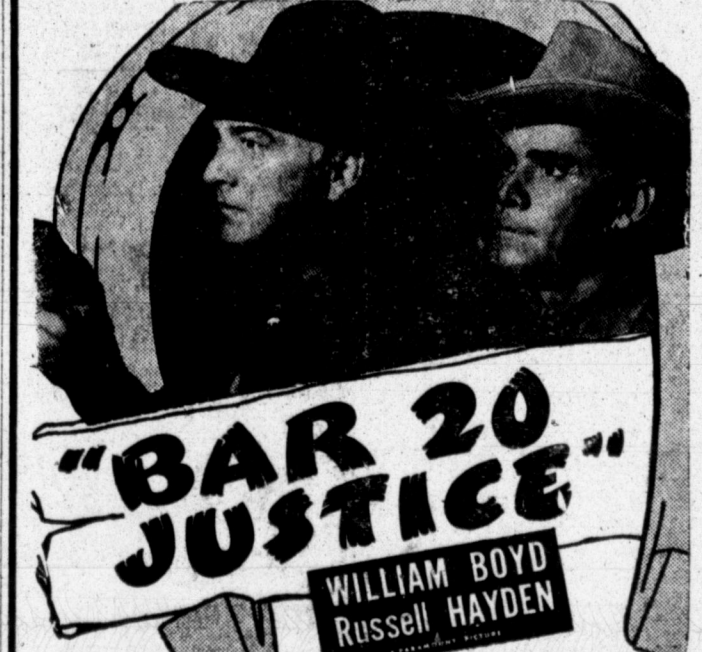

Whenever you think of managerial shifts you somehow think of Grimm. For two seasons now, they've been saying that Jolly Cholly and his bat-boy are on the way out of the Chicago Cubs' dugout.

Last winter the Cubs acquired Tony Lazzeri as utility infielder and assistant in brains to Grimm and Gabby Hartnett. Immediately the word went out that come another year and old "Poon" "En" Opp would be the boss. And unless the Cubs show a lot more down this season's stretch than they have to date, the idea isn't as far-fetched as it sounds.

Another involved in talk of the old "Heaven-O" is Traynor. With a club, containing more individual class than any other outfit in the league, the Pirates have advanced exactly nowhere for years. This may be the season, for they're red hot right now, but if they do their regular falling asleep in the late weeks, there's the possibility that Pittsburgh may put on a "new faces" act, comes next April.

Clarendon and Memphis Golfers Hard To Beat

Pampa golfers will face probably their stiffest competition of the year Sunday afternoon, when they invade Clarendon for a friendly match with the combined forces of Clarendon and Memphis where some of the best golfers in the Panhandle reside.

At least 35 matches will be scheduled. Up to last night only 22 local players had signed to make the trip. D. J. Love, club professional, urges his hotshots to register with him at the Pampa country club.

Play will begin over the tough Clarendon course at 1 o'clock. The course, according to Jim Richesin who played it a couple of weeks ago, is in excellent condition.

Signed to represent the Pampa Country club are John Austin, city champion, Reg Greenhaw, runner-up, Grover Austin, runner-up in the Greenbelt and Hillcrest tournaments, Ken Brown, Jim Richesin, Fred Newsome, George Clemmons, Mark Heath, John LaPrade, W. E. Mitchell, Blain McGurey, Paul Swathorne, Haskell Maguire, Art Swathorne, Jim Hatfield, Gene Green, Dick Kilgore, Chinch Barrett, Charlie Thut, Grover Austin, Sr., E. W. Voss, C. P. Conover.

Two other pitching prospects have poked their heads above the brush. One is Manuel Salvo, husky right-handed fireball artist of San Diego, Lou Tost, Hollywood lefthander, is the other.

"find" of the season, one destined to star in the big leagues before he reaches his majority.

Hutchinson is a righthander with a fast ball.

He pitched semi-pro ball last year. Scouts buzzed in from far and wide. His father, a Seattle doctor, decided to spot the boy close to home.

This far Hutchinson has won 13 and lost 6 games. He's pitched four shutouts and fanned 74 in 163 1-3 innings.

Sports Roundup
By EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—Max Schmeling, who collected approximately $177,000 for fighting Joe Louis, took around $100,000 of same back to Germany. The rest went for income taxes, debts, expenses, etc. Art Cohn, sharp-tongued sports editor of the Oakland (Cal.) Tribune, was unkind enough to say that Max was paid off in marks—the black and blue kind. Ouch. Larry MacPhail, the barnum of the Brooklyn Dodgers, estimates the club will clear $200,000 this year, what with night baseball and Babe Ruth's appearances on the road. Reports that Lefty Gomez and good-looking June O' Dea may reconcile brought cheers along the great white way, where both are popular. Bob Olin, former light-heavyweight champion, is training hard for a comeback. The Roosevelt

FLUNKING BEES

It's a safe bet that the nation's school children confined their newspaper reading to the comic page during the recent New York convention of the National Education Association, and that's a shame—in a way.

There was one news story out of the convention that would have brightened a rainy afternoon for many and many a lad. Some of the convention's delegates—school teachers, of course—held a couple of word bees. One was a spelling bee, the other a pronunciation bee.

The 30 teachers who embarked on the spelling bee floundered and sang in 20 minutes flat. The last five to remain standing were awarded dictionaries. But this was a session of dazzling brilliance compared to the pronunciation bee. Of the 10 who entered this contest, 10 flunked.

A Harvard professor made quite an impassioned plea the other day for American students to adopt "the skeptical attitude," as a habit of mind. He won't have to do any more urging along this line.

Maybe you'd better burn this after you've read it. Maybe you'd better burn this after you've read it, just for the sake of preserving cordial student-teacher relations in your local classrooms.

THE YOUNG IDEA

Some student of human behavior might produce an illuminating work if he set his hand to the task of determining whether man gets more democratic or less as he grows older.

Ve- young children, somebody has observed, are natural snobs. In most American high schools a pretty vigorous war on caste-consciousness is being waged by teachers and administrators these days.

A recently published study of student activities in colleges goes into the subject of social relations. It finds a sad disparity between the amount of democratic principle taught in the classroom and the amount of democratic conduct practiced on the campus.

Clique-ism is frowned on—and embraced. The scramble among the students for social kudos rivals the scramble for passing marks. Caste lines are rigid.

Which may or may not be why more adults don't themselves carry out the democratic principles to which they pay continual lip-service.

WHAT! NO CIRCUS?

Can it be possible that the circus—the Greatest Show on Earth, of course—has turned back to its winter quarters because of a disagreement over little things like profits and wages? The news taxes credulity. Who ever heard of a circus in winter quarters in the summer? Say it isn't so. The circus can't turn its back like that on the boys of America. If Dexter Fellowes were here he'd have done something about that strike in Scranton before the trek back to Sarasota began. Congress has gone home, but couldn't a special session be called? Or the League of Nations? The mirth of a nation is at stake. Human rights of millions of boys—and their fathers, grandfathers and uncles—are in jeopardy. They might get along without bread, but not without the circus.

MILK GETS ITS SONG.

(Rockford Register-Republic.)
England has been having a rapid increase in the number of what is called milk bars. These institutions sell milk, milk shakes, ice cream, and other concoctions with a milk background. The development has been encouraged by the milk marketing board, which is endeavoring to help British dairymen solve the problem of what to do with the milk surplus, one of several problems that afflict our own troubled dairy industry.

This British board is now promoting mobile milk cans such as can be transported by automobile or bicycle. They have been going into service at race meets and at seaside resorts. The expansion of milk service led the Manchester Guardian to con-

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Pampa News Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 8.—A dozen state primary elections have been held and as far as party nominations are concerned, the "ins" are staying in and the "outs" are staying out.

If this sort of thing keeps up, President Roosevelt won't be able to eliminate any of the officeholders whom he seeks to purge from the Democratic party and the anti-New Dealers won't purge any of the Roosevelt sympathizers whom the President intends to defend.

Seven senators, five Democrats and two Republicans, have faced the voters and all have been re-nominated except elderly Senator Hitchcock of South Dakota, who had been appointed to fill a vacancy only last year. Even more extraordinary is the fact that nearly 130 House members have run for re-nomination, of whom only three have failed to get it.

Worth watching in the July primaries will be the fate of Senator Elmer Thomas in Oklahoma on the 13th, of Congressman Jerry J. O'Connor in Montana on the 19th and of Congressman Maury Maverick in San Antonio, Texas, on the

Tex's Topics

If you think Lewis Goodrich, of Shamrock, the Panhandle candidate for Attorney General of Texas, isn't doing some tall talking around the state to see the people—you're mistaken. . . . I was talking with Mrs. Goodrich yesterday. . . . He's going on all eight, and there's no stopping him until the ballots eight, and there's no stopping him until the ballots himself in the run-off, says Mrs. Goodrich, who has been accompanying him on his trip down state. . . . If West Texas and the Panhandle will just get in there and vote solidly for Goodrich on primary day, he's a dead-chinch to be in the run-off.

And, that calls to mind a thought. . . . Why shouldn't every last one of us up here in the Panhandle support Panhandle candidates. . . . If we knew that some of them had robbed banks or committed murder, or something—that would be different. . . . I am not a politician and I don't know beans about politics. . . . But, it does seem to make sense that if we had Ernest Thompson, a Panhandle resident for governor; Lewis Goodrich, a Panhandle resident for attorney general, and Morris Browning, a Panhandle resident, as land commissioner—that the Panhandle ought to get along pretty well in the matter of consideration down at the state capital—with the aid of Gene Worley, a Panhandle resident; Max Boyer, a Panhandle resident; Jack Little, a Panhandle resident; Lon Alexander, a Panhandle resident, and Clint Small, a Panhandle resident.

They're every last one of them Panhandle boys, and it is only natural that they should have the Panhandle's interests at heart. . . . I don't believe any of them has robbed a bank or committed murder. . . . It seems to me that petty dislikes should be set aside for a unified effort to cast ballots for Lewis, Thompson, Browning, and the others who are bound to give the Panhandle a break when they get into office. . . . I don't know anything about it myself, but the boys who know their way around at Austin say that the Panhandle country is considered by seven-eighths of the state officials as a sort of necessary evil or foreign country. . . . Candidates who are not Panhandle residents come thru here on a sight-seeing tour every campaign-time, and then they lose all interest in the Panhandle until next campaign time.

It seems that it is loyalty to the Panhandle that prompts a lot of folk to express this same opinion that we ought to vote for and support Panhandle candidates as long as their records are clean, and they have been doing right by the Panhandle. . . . I can see of no better way to get recognition for the Panhandle down at Austin. . . . Can you? . . . If you can, maybe I'll change my mind about the whole thing. . . . Why not write a letter and get on the "Panhandle for Panhandle Candidates" band wagon? . . . I don't believe I'm wrong about this, but if I am, I hope somebody will point out to me just how there could be any mistake in going to bat for your own folk. . . . If Panhandle voters will vote solidly for their own on July 23, we may be able to get this section of the state back into the map of Texas.

Yesteryear In Pampa

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Prof. John B. Hessey took the oath of office as superintendent of Gray county.

Paving operations, which were to have commenced on North Ballard street, were held up for a few days because of rain and a broken crane.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Roberts county was attached to Gray for signing of contracts to retire cotton acreage, it was announced by Ralph Thomas, county agent.

Pampa's first Dollar Day in nearly a year presented values which were not likely to be available again for many months.

duct a competition recently for the writing of a drinking song suitable for singing at milk bars. A verse of the prize winner reads:

"Here's to the Jersey so dainty and slight,
And here's to the Shorthorn and Ayrshire;
Here's to the Galloway, belted with white,
And here's to the herds of each fair shire!
Give them a rouse!
Long may they browse!

Fill up your glasses and drink to our cows"
A drinking song may not be necessary to a milk bar, though there is no reason why saloon bars should have all the good drinking songs. We can't see ourselves breaking into hymnology in an ice cream parlor over a second malted milk. But it is entirely proper for the British to try to get their people hilarious over a bottle of milk.

23d. All three are administration men.
Thomas is opposed by Congressman Gomer Smith, a wild man when it comes to promising the voters, and by Gov. E. W. Marland. Twenty-nine-year-old O'Connell, whose progressivism has carried him into Jersey City in defiance of Frank Hague, to Tom Mooney's cell and to Loyalist Spain, is opposed by Gene Burris, candidate of Senator Burton K. Wheeler and a WPA official. O'Connell has been attacked as a radical and for criticizing Wheeler's anti-administration attacks. He has stressed the issue of Wheeler versus Roosevelt in his own campaign.

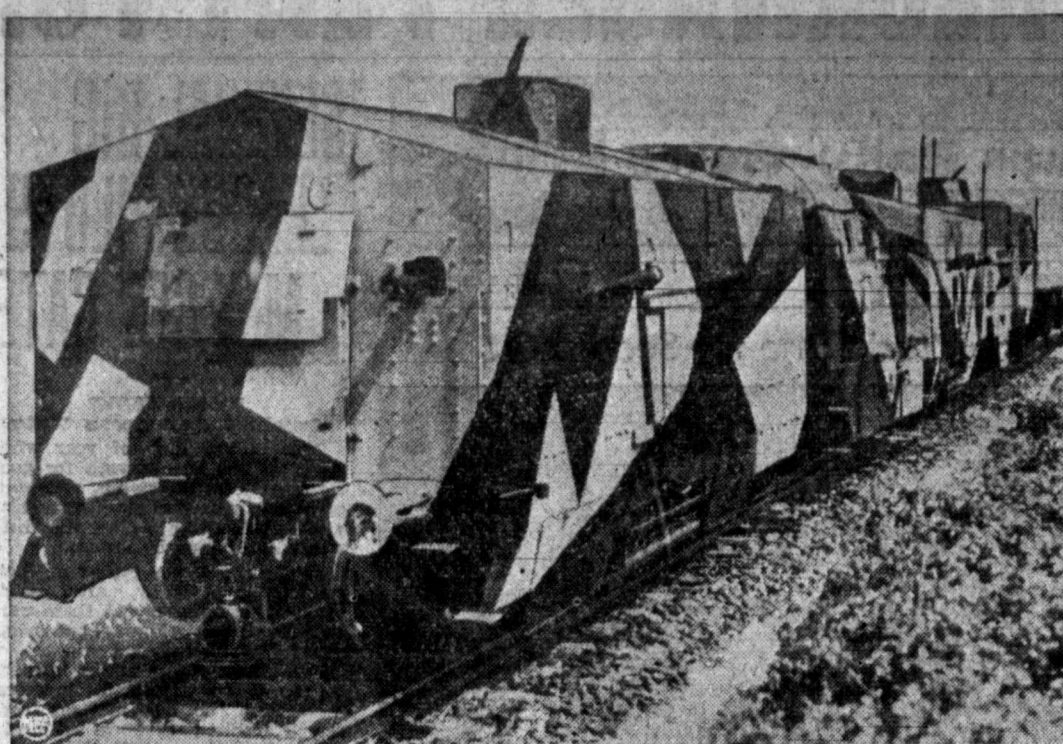

Maverick, nationally celebrated as the outstanding House progressive leader, is opposed by Assistant District Attorney Paul Kliday. Chief issues used against him have been his alleged "radicalism," the fact that he has been a Russian Embassy guest and his vote for the anti-lunching bill. Groups which never have been able to influence Maverick are spending large sums against him and Maverick is a poor man. Although he has been independent enough often to defy the administration, friends of Roosevelt are helping him as much as they can. A. F. of L. President William Green has given support to Kliday, whereas Labor's Non-Partisan League and the C. I. O. are behind Maverick.

To date progressive candidates have been doing very well in the primaries, as witnesses the renominations of all the Minnesota Farmer-Labor congressmen. But nomination is not equivalent to election except in the South and most primaries are still to come. Several outstanding progressive congressmen have been roundly attacked by Roman Catholic priests because they have expressed sympathy for the Spanish Republic. Some of those with large Catholic constituencies are worried.

A far cry from the familiar "40 and 8" boxcars of the World War is this completely modern troop transport train pictured above. The train bristles with armament, including an anti-aircraft gun in a turret atop each car.

How's Your Health?

By IAGO GILDSTON, M. D.

GOOD FOOD AND PLENTY OF IT

So much emphasis has been placed of late on the qualitative value of food that we are likely to overlook the quantitative aspect.

It is of course, vital that one's diet should contain an adequate amount of vitamins and mineral salts, but we must not overlook its contents in terms of calories and of proteins, fats and carbohydrates. In other words, an abundant diet is as essential as a diet of first class quality.

Experience in treating a number of diseases has taught us the importance of seeing that the patient eats enough food.

Not long ago a typhoid patient used to receive little more than broth and milk. Today, though no specific treatment for typhoid is yet available, the patient fares much better because he is fed more generously.

Suffers from Bright's disease, too, used to be seriously restricted in their protein intake. But today it is known that this type of patient does much better when he is fed an adequate amount of protein food.

The same modification in treatment has been applied to patients suffering from high blood pressure of unknown cause and from hardening of the kidney.

The value of the more abundant diet, however, is seen not only in the treatment of diseases but also in their prevention. Thus it is found that resistance to infection, as well as growth and development, is favored by an abundant and adequate diet.

It is of course not true that adding foods or vitamins to an already adequate diet will increase one's resistance to infection. But it is true that when the diet is lacking in protective elements and is quantitatively inadequate, the individual becomes more susceptible to infection.

Those who consume a restricted diet are frequently subject to vague ill health.

Lack of appetite, digestive disorders and vague pains and discomforts not due to organic diseases are found frequently among women who eat too sparingly in order to be stylish.

Fed faddists who are fidgety about the foods they eat are frequently faddists because they are faddists. This vicious circle could be broken by the courage to eat enough food of the right kind.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM

The following interesting and entertaining letter concerning pets is gladly published in this space today.

The Roving Reporter.

After reading your very interesting article about your friends presenting you with the horned toad, I want to tell you about two horned leads I found in my rose garden last summer.

When I first noticed them, I could hardly walk in the garden without stepping on them so finally I got to picking them up in my hands and cuddling them in my arms. They seemed to respond to my caresses, would nestle on my shoulder, or follow me all over the place. Would follow on into the house if the door was left open.

I would put them in a chair or table and they would stay there for hours, as long as I was in the room, but the minute I left the room there was a mad scrambling of claws and feet, till they finally tumbled to the floor and started in search of me.

I named them "Wynken and Eynken" and I kept them adorned with blue and pink ribbons around their necks. I could drive them or lead them with the ribbon leashes. But they finally disappeared. I grieved and hunted for my lost pets but could never find them.

Liked by Horse

I could fill the pages of books with stories of my strange pets. For instance the time the vicious horse saved my life. This horse would fight and kick almost anyone who came near him but would follow me around like a lamb, and the peculiar coincidence when the little yellow canary sang for three days in a tree just outside my window.

At various times in my life my collection of "non-descript pets" resembled a good sized zoo much to the delight of my brothers and friends and the consternation of the other members of the family.

About the most uncanny pet I ever had was a young crow that was given to me by some boys. This creature was horribly ugly, did not have a feather on him and did not seem to like my affection, would bite and fight me when I would try to feed him. I named him "Amos" and needless to say I was glad to give "Amos" his freedom just as soon as he got old enough to take care of himself.

Most Died of Grief

But most of all, I want to pay homage to the noble traits of some of the dogs I have owned and loved. One could sing and dance with the radio and "candy" at the golf links and another dog could read when he had his "specs" on, of course—ha! I once had to leave my dog at home with mother, while I went to school, and he howled, cried and refused to eat, and finally died. The expression in the dogs eyes when I left will haunt me as long as I live. When mother would write me about my dog grieving for me I almost went into decline myself.

Not long ago a very dear friend of mine gave me a little, wooly puppy. It was a sooty, black color and had rosy curls all over its body. The puppy had the most expressive and sweetest eyes I have ever seen in a dumb animal. Some mean boys shot it with a "bean shooter," causing it to become paralyzed in its back.

Suggests Name for Frog
I don't think I will ever own another dog as I have grieved and suffered with desolate heart-break over the tragic ending of some of my most cherished affectionate and faithful "pals," my canine pets.

If you have not already named your little frog, I would suggest that you name it "Betty Lou." Do you not think that would be an appropriate name?

Please pardon this letter, but I simply could not resist the temptation to tell you about my frogs. I enjoy your column and will sign myself.

AN ARDENT FAN.

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

Robbin Coons, our Hollywood columnist, is in New York for two weeks to see what movie activities are like in the east.

NEW YORK—Now I know why movie people come to New York. In this biggest, noisiest, rushing-out-of-American cities, they can find peace and quiet. They can get away from it all.

If you're a movie star and you're a press agent or both, then you also can get INTO it all. If your P. A. heralds your coming loudly enough, you may be met by a couple of photographers at the Grand Central. And if you're a glamor boy and they shush-shush your sailing loudly enough, you may even find a couple of autograph-hunting girls under your bunk when the ship pulls out.

But as we from Hollywood understand it, all is peace and quiet in New York.

Meal Minus Mobs
If Robert Taylor walked into a restaurant in Hollywood, he would have at least a mild attack of writer's cramp before he reached his table. He would be slightly disarranged as to clothing, probably a bit flushed in the face, and a myriad of goggling eyes would follow with scientific interest each round-trip of his fork between plate and face.

In New York the other day Taylor walked into Toots Schorr's Tavern, sat down even as you and I, and finished the business of lunch quite undisturbed.

At the 21 club Hiram Sherman (comic hit of "The Shoemaker's Holiday") and Orson Welles (a real boy wonder to make Hollywood green-eyed) sat an hour or two the other day without once being ogled.

At first this kind aloofness seems to indicate that New Yorkers are merely blasé. But after a while you get the idea: New York believes in laissez-faire.

Some Get Theirs
Not that a star can't get mobbed in this old town. Mae West got hers at Loew's State, and Martha Raye at the Paramount, and Jimmy Cagney when he attended his sister's graduation at Hunter College. Clark Gable and Robert Taylor both have been pursued by hysterical women—so much so that Gable, back in the comparatively safe madhouse of Hollywood, swore off unnecessary trips east.

But generally if a P. A. wants that sort of thing, he'll advise where his people will be, and plant the persons who will lead the sheep to his star's slaughter.

The Capital Jigsaw
By HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN, July 8 (P)—It looks as though Gov. James V. Allred again will have to change the number of his private office phones because too many persons know it. Several times in his administration of three and a half years the governor has found it necessary to request a new number for the same reason.

The governor said at a press conference that the telephone problem again had become serious. While he was trying to talk to correspondents the telephone rang repeatedly. Finally he banged it down, remarking to his secretary Dero Cowley:

"I've got to have another number."

Then, looking sternly at Cowley, he complained it was "mighty funny how so many people learn my number." Cowley, grinning, replied he was "not guilty."

The governor went on to say that some time ago his secretaries, Edward Clark, now secretary of state, and Pat Moreland, now a member of the Unemployment Compensation Commission, obtained private numbers for their residence telephones.

"I got to where I was answering calls for 'Pat and Ed,'" the governor said. "Persons would telephone me to find the whereabouts of my secretaries."

"Finally I wrote a letter to the telephone company and signed Ed's name to it, instructing that 'my number be given to anyone who asked for it. That fixed him up.' Numbers not listed in the telephone directory are the defense, sometimes badly needed, of government officials who are called a great deal.

If they did not have such numbers, rest often would be impossible.

ABILITY-TO-PAY-TAX-THEORY A MOST DANGEROUS OPIATE Compared To Business.

To contend that each man should contribute to the GOVERNMENT in exact proportion to his ability is somewhat analogous to saying that every executive should contribute his share at every particular job in the business in exact proportion to his ability, even to doing the janitor work. It is easy to see that by carrying this principle to the extreme in individual business, we are violating the natural division of labor. We are organize to work for his nomination.

Now for the fourth. He is Karl Crowley, currently running for governor and before that solicitor for the postoffice department.

A paid advertisement in the Sherman Democrat said it was highly possible Crowley would be the Democratic nominee by 1940. The advertisement was signed by the Grayson County Karl Crowley campaign committee.

The unusual number of train wrecks in the last two months—wrecks in Missouri, Montana and Texas are recalled—brought interesting comment from a Texas labor leader as to the possible cause.

He said he wasn't offering his remarks as facts, but merely as his own surmises, without investigation as to what was wrong. Heavy rains, floods and washouts admittedly were the immediate causes of the wrecks; but, he said, he knew some railroads had been reducing the number of their track maintenance men, in some instances laying off other section crew because of straitened finances.

"Many maintenance men have twice as much ground to cover and simply can't get over it as thoroughly as they ought to," he said. "I don't know that this is the basis of the trouble, but I think it is contributory."

Most pedestrians killed in Texas traffic accidents meet death while crossing streets at places other than intersections, the Department of Public Safety reports.

In May a total of 32 pedestrians lost their lives, 10 while crossing streets between intersections. Five were killed while crossing an intersection where there was no signal, two while crossing at an intersection with a signal and one while crossing at an intersection against the signal.

Peace And Good Will Are Labored For

By BRUCE CATTON

We have come a lot of talking of late about the unfertilized frontier between the United States and Canada, and about the "century of peace" between the two nations. But mostly we haven't bothered to find out much about the background of this phenomenon; we seem to figure that Americans and Canadians are just naturally more virtuous than other peoples and that the peaceful friendship is the logical result of that fact.

A bit of this unknown background is being unfolded currently in a pleasant little celebration at an old windmill on the St. Lawrence river a mile east of Prescott, Ont.

It seems that in 1838 a band of some 300 Americans crossed the border, bent on destroying a garrison of British regulars at Fort Wellington, in the town of Prescott. Relations between Canada and England were somewhat strained at the time, and a considerable faction in Canada seeking independence; the Americans, for one reason or another, were out to see that the Canadian revolutionists got their wish.

So the invasion took place. It fizzled rapidly. The attack on Fort Wellington failed, the Americans established themselves in the old stone windmill, the Britishers laid siege to the place, and after a couple of days of fighting the Americans surrendered. A few of the leaders were hanged and the rest were imprisoned; and that was all there was to it.

All of this sounds very remote and unreal today. Even at the time it failed to make much of a stir, apparently; and it is worth recalling now only because it indicates that this much-talked-of peace between the two nations is something that had to be worked for.

That peace didn't grow out of the natural goodness of Americans and Canadians, and it didn't come because the two people never had anything to quarrel about.

Americans and Canadians were originally no more disposed to be chummy than any other folk. They had their rubies and they shed blood over them. The War of 1812 was caused in good part by an American desire to annex Canada, and as late as 1838 the antagonism flared up in this half-forgotten battle of the stone windmill.

Now a century of peace which is built on that kind of foundation really means something. It means that two nations which really try to live in peace can do so; that old hatreds, suspicions, jealousies really can be shelved, and that men of good will can silence the war-mongers if they actually make the effort.

Which, in a world that seems too tired to make the effort to live in peace, is something well worth remembering.

INTERNE TROUBLE

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE
COPYRIGHT, 1938, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

TRAN DEARBORN—heroine, student nurse. She runs into love and trouble when she meets DR. BOB BENCHLEY—hero, handsome young interne. He has trouble, too, keeping up with brilliant DR. STEPHEN SARGENT—head surgeon. Dr. Sargent's problem was something else again.

Yesterday, Tran blunders into the emergency operating room on her first day in the hospital and is ordered to stand by while the doctor needs the benefit of prayer!

CHAPTER II

WITH burning cheeks Tran fled down the corridor—away from those cruelly amused male voices in Emergency. For, although nothing was further from her ethical code than to eavesdrop, she had heard. Her resentment was entirely directed toward the homey, dark young interne who had snickered. As for Top Sarge, of course; no one would have thought of questioning his right to be caustic, any more than if it had been a law of nature. He was "Top Sarge." Nevertheless that "feather-brain" did rattle.

She had a good deal of difficulty in finding the rest of the demonstration group, because no one had considered it worth while to tell her beforehand just where they were going, or why.

It began to occur to her that by this time Miss Miller, the senior nurse in charge of the group, just might have missed her. And Miss Miller had an unpleasantly direct way of asking questions.

In the end, it was the homey young interne from Emergency who set her feet in the right path. He came clanking around a corner just as she hastily shut the door to a private room which she had opened by mistake.

There had been a rather unpleasant moment just after she had opened that door. The patient, a florid blond lady, had sat

"Well," he gasped. "If it isn't our little Utility again!"

old Sarge get you down. He's a good egg really; but with half the females in this hospital making passes at him, you can't blame him for getting a little scratchy when he finds a new one breathing down his neck.

"Really?" Tran said with delicate venom. "Well, I can't imagine any one pursuing him from personal motives—unless she was looking for a chance to put poison in his soup."

"You wait. In no time at all, you'll be swooning with adoration when he passes, like all the rest of them," said Dr. Benchley, grinning down at her, his hands still in his pockets.

Then as a door opened down the corridor, he said swiftly, "Listen, Agility, if Miller misses you and sends out a search party, you might as well turn in your apron."

For your information, I just passed her little flock going into K-6.

If Miller asks embarrassing questions, I'll called softly as she turned away, "the old one about having a nose bleed may work."

TRAN sped off down the corridor.

K-6 was the Women's Surgical ward.

By good luck the door stood open. Tran slid in like a slim gray wraith and joined the little group of aproned girls following Miss Miller's crisp white linen down the long room.

Miss Miller might have modeled for a Red Cross poster as the ideal nurse. She was erect and trim, blond and coolly lovely as a snow maiden, with quietly watchful blue eyes, slim, beautiful white hands, and an air of serene detachment which had won for her the nickname "the icicle."

Miss Miller was not a regular nursing instructor; but as a nurse, she was recognized as tops. Rumor had it that she was Dr. Stephen Sargent's favorite nurse—a rumor, Tran knew, which gave her enormous prestige throughout the hospital.

Now, "the icicle's" cool, quiet voice was explaining the organization and management of the long white ward through which they were passing.

Meanwhile, on either side of the long aisle, the ward nurses—some graduates in their trim white uniforms, caps and white shoes, and a sprinkling of student nurses in gray striped dresses and white bibbed aprons—lined up at repression of grave, respectful attention. Had Miss Miller missed her?

SHE was not long left in doubt. When it was over, and Miss Miller had marched her double line of gray-clad girls back to their quarters, she summoned Tran with a lifted eyebrow and a backward inclination of her smooth blond head. The rest fled away with carefully restrained glances of curiosity and pity which were by no means lost upon Tran.

She had been seen then.

"The icicle" began crisply, "Now it's no use wasting my time with the one about stopping to tie your shoelace and getting lost. No," she went on as Tran half opened her lips, "nor the bromide about having had the nose bleed, either. They both grew whiskers years ago. Besides, I'm not even going to ask you where you've been. Because I know."

"I'm sorry," Tran began.

But Miss Miller raised a slim hand for silence.

"I should prefer," she went on, "to let the matter rest between us. After all, it's no credit to me to have girls in my charge openly defiant of discipline. But unfortunately I am not the only one who saw you follow Dr. Sargent into Emergency. . . . I'm not even asking you why you did it. You can explain that to the Director of Nursing. I have repeatedly noticed in your attitude a tendency to frivolity which has no place in the nursing profession."

Miss Miller was one of Tran's superiors who had frequently found those uncontrollably dancing eyes of hers vaguely disconcerting. . . . "I might warn you," she went on, "that you will find anything in Miss Armstrong's displeasure that you can laugh off."

It was just after Tran had finished dissecting a particularly juicy and loathsome frog in the zoology laboratory next day and had gone to her room to clean up that the summons from Miss Armstrong came.

GLOOMY DANE EXPECTED BARBARA TO BE SUBMISSIVE AND HUMBLE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer

NEW YORK, July 8.—The tempestuous clash in London between our own five-and-ten Babs Hutton and her aristocratic but gloomy Dane provides a fine commentary on the European tradition that a man is ruler of his wife and home by divine right.

Even in Democratic England man's supremacy has been acknowledged (very generally speaking, though with some exceptions), since the days of the prehistoric pit down man of Sussex who dragged his bride-to-be to his cave by the hair, and no questions asked.

I have known an English Count to rule, not so long ago, that a husband was within his rights in chastising his wife if she was naughty. It is only in very recent years that a woman could get a divorce on the same grounds as her husband. She couldn't divorce him for unfaithfulness, because that was his right.

Count Haugwitz-Reventlow's mistake was in thinking that Yankee girls are as submissive as are many of their European sisters. It would seem from the court testimony that he committed a double fault by trying to restrain on a girl who not only had all the spirit of young America, but was equipped with forty million dollars worth of special prerogatives besides.

The cold truth is that marriages between American women and Europeans frequently are failures because the man expects too much submissiveness from the wife. An American man may get along with a foreign wife, since he expects to give her a fifty-fifty break. But it usually doesn't work the other way.

There was considerable debate over this point when young Lord Northesk, of England, separated from his wife, the beautiful Jessica Browne, whose face and figure once were among the decorative assets of the late Mr. Flo Ziegfeld's follies.

His Lordship's reason for the rupture was interesting. He was quoted as saying that in England the man is boss of the house, while in America the woman rules. Therefore, he had come to the conclusion that marriages between Americans and English were a mistake.

SECOND CHAPLIN-DAY WEDDING TO BE HELD

LOS ANGELES, July 8 (P)—Two film colony honeymooners—Lita Grey Chaplin and Arthur P. Day Jr.—marched back toward the marriage altar today.

Their wedding last Tuesday in a Catholic church at Manhattan Beach created a legal question, they admitted, but nothing that another ceremony today wouldn't answer.

Mrs. Day, former wife of Comedian Charlie Chaplin, became the bride of her theatrical agent before her divorce from her second husband, Henry Aguirre Jr., was final.

The unexpected news reached her yesterday at a honeymoon suite in a Catalina Island hotel.

As explained to the startled couple, the Aguirre divorce was granted on July 1, 1937, but not entered on court records until six days later. Therefore it couldn't become final until a full year had elapsed from the latter date.

The Days said they wished to repeat their marriage vows at St. Catherine's Church on Catalina Island, then fly back to the mainland for a civil ceremony.

Arizona is the fifth largest state and 65 per cent of its area is held by the federal government as forest reserves or Indian reservations and parks and monuments.

CONSUL SAYS DEPUTY DREW GUN ON HIM

HOUSTON, July 8 (AP)—Luis L. Duplan, Mexican consul here, today asked the Mexican Embassy in Washington to obtain guarantees of protection for him after he asserted that he had been threatened yesterday at Rosenberg, Texas, where he had gone to investigate complaints of a Mexican sharecropper.

Duplan said he was threatened by Deputy Sheriff C. A. McKennon of Fort Bend county and that he filed charges of disturbing the peace against the deputy after McKennon assertedly had drawn a gun.

The consul said he planned to prosecute "to the fullest extent" the charges against McKennon after Justice of the Peace T. J. Hicks of Rosenberg had accused the consul of spreading "propaganda."

Duplan said he went to McKennon's farm in response to a plea from Memesio Perales, Mexican national that McKennon was threatening to put him off the farm before the cotton crop he had helped cultivate was gathered.

Duplan said he asked the Embassy to obtain guarantees from United States authorities "in accordance with international law in order that I may be able to fulfill my duties as consul of Mexico." The consul also wired the Mexican consul general in San Antonio and asked him to protest to Governor James V. Allred.

Justice of the Peace Hicks at Rosenberg said today he had not issued a warrant for the arrest of McKennon.

"He is in my office now," he said. "It is not necessary to arrest him. He is a deputy sheriff of this county."

Informed that consul Duplan was wiring to Washington, the Justice of the Peace said:

"He's spreading propaganda about something of which he knows nothing. There's no use to wire Washington to get them to tell us how to run our county. I never heard of Washington interfering with a little charge of disturbing the peace. If Mr. Duplan wants to prosecute this case, he'd better come on down here. We're ready."

'FATHER OF VOCATIONAL EDUCATION' IS DEAD

SAN ANTONIO, July 8 (AP)—Dr. Charles Ricketson Allen, 75, pioneer in the field of vocational education, will be buried at Matagorda after funeral services here today.

Known as the "father of vocational education in America," Dr. Allen at the time of his death yesterday was an instructor in St. Mary's University here. He suffered a heart attack Monday after returning from a trip to Daytona Beach, Fla.

As personnel director for the Emergency Fleet Corporation during the World War, he won nationwide fame in the vocational education field by his swift training of more than 100,000 workmen to skill in various ship-building trades. A native of New Bedford, Mass., Dr. Allen was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology where he majored in electrical engineering, and for several years worked as an electrical engineer.

He was survived by his widow, Mrs. Ada Talbot Rath Allen.

CAT GIVEN AWARD FOR RESCUING HER KITTEN

ALBANY, N. Y., July 8 (AP)—Whitey, a Buffalo, N. Y., cat that dashed into a burning barn to rescue its kitten, has been awarded a certificate of merit by the American Humane Association.

"This mother cat risked her life last June 22, dodged between the legs of firemen playing water on a burning barn, and returned triumphantly with her week-old kitten in her mouth," Eric H. Hansen, general manager of the association, said today. "Our medal awards committee decided she deserved a certificate."

Great Balls of Fire! Oil Blaze Threatens Town

Two huge balls of smoke and fire are pictured clearly above as they swirled upward in a spectacular oil blaze that threatened the whole town of Palm City, Calif. Fire trucks from five communities fought the distributing plant fire. Thousands of gallons of oil and gasoline burned and the storage tanks shown at left in the photo were barely saved.

MANY THINGS OF INTEREST IN News For Farmers

VEGETABLES NEED RAIN

Vegetable crops in general made slow progress during the early part of June.

Cold weather in New Jersey has retarded the season, and the strawberry harvest is unusually short because of excessive rainfall. The Bureau of Agricultural Economics announced.

In Delaware and Maryland, the bureau's report said, weather has been too cool for normal growth of plants, and rain is needed in some sections.

Potato yields on the eastern shore of Virginia are falling below earlier expectations.

Rain is needed in most truck crop areas. Heavy rains in North and South Carolina, on the other hand, have caused some damage to vegetables and have interfered with potato digging in North Carolina.

Most of the Mississippi tomato crop has moved to market. The quality was good, but prices to growers have been disappointing. Conditions are good in Arkansas; potato movement is still heavy, and the tomato harvest has begun. Harvesting of the North Texas onion crop is about completed. Good weather has prevailed in the vegetable growing areas of California, and crops made favorable progress.

Truck crops are in excellent condition in Colorado, and good yields are expected. Dry weather has damaged truck crops and berries in Washington and Oregon.

Cotton mills of the world were apparently somewhat less active in May than in April and probably 25 to 30 per cent less active than in the exceptionally favorable month of May last year, according to reports received by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

WHEAT LOANS

Approval of warehouses throughout the country to which farmers may deliver wheat in payment of premiums on their crop insurance policies is rapidly progressing. The insurance rate for each farm, the AAA announced, will represent a combination of yield and loss records for the individual farms for the period 1930 to 1935, adjusted to a ten year basis, and the county records for the same.

MILK PRODUCTION UP

Report that June milk production per cow was unusually high was followed by announcement of a dry skim milk buying plan by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation. Total milk production was reported 4 percent up over a year ago, due to larger herds and greater yields per cow.

Up to five million pounds of dry skim milk will be bought under the recently authorized AAA program and will be given to needy families through state relief agencies.

LOANS ON WOOL

Wool growers may obtain loans on wool from banks or loan concerns, in cooperation with the government's Commodity Credit Corp., by complying with certain detailed requirements—information about which can be obtained from the Commodity Credit Corp.

WHEAT RUST DEVELOPS

Stem rust increased quite rapidly on soft wheat during the week in northwestern Missouri and north-eastern Kansas where considerable damage is being done, according to the government.

PAULETTE REGISTERS AS MRS. CHARLES CHAPLIN

DEL MONTE, Calif., July 8 (AP)—Film actress Paulette Goddard and Charles Chaplin are to be teamed professionally again, and if Pebble Beach society is right, they are at last ready for the public to regard them as teamed maritally.

The actress, who for several years rumoredly has been married to Chaplin, has been here for ten days as Chaplin's house guest.

During "time out" from her drama lessons with Chaplin as coach, the actress has mingled in Pebble Beach society. Her new acquaintances, apparently with her consent, started calling her "Mrs. Chaplin."

Yesterday she registered as "Mrs. Charles Chaplin" in entering a tournament at the Cypress Point Golf Club. The social set accepted this as virtual confirmation of the long-standing rumors of her marriage to Chaplin. Incidentally, she tied with Harry Hunt of Pebble Beach for first place in the golf tournament.

BOYS FORCED TO GIVE UP

DALLAS, July 8 (AP)—Dean Tevis and his Beaumont Sea Scouts abandoned their journey up the Trinity from the Gulf today, baffled by low water and river pollution.

Wary of their 18-day, 487 mile battle with sand bars and log jams, the nine Sea Scouts and their leader, a newspaperman, left their boats at the Wilmer bridge southeast of Dallas this morning. They went to a local Scout camp to rest.

Tevis gave orders to lift the boats from the water when very low stages of the river here, coupled with pollution from city sewage, became a health threat to his crew, youths of from 14 to 18 years.

Facing serious threats to their health, the boys were disappointed because they were found necessary to abandon the cruise here. Tevis was in command of one boat, and the other's leader was Commodore B. M. Hatfield, veteran booster for Trinity river navigation.

Both praised their crews for courage and stamina in battling their way through log jams and other low-water obstructions.

Frequently the boats had to be lifted from the receding river and portaged across sand bars and tangles of limbs and debris. Their speed greatly reduced because of these obstacles, the expedition on eleven nights were unable to make contact with a supply truck carrying provisions. On these occasions, the boat crews utilized emergency rations. The crews slept along the banks of the stream.

The journey began at Trinity Bay near Beaumont June 22 and was abandoned approximately 60 miles short of the goal, Fort Worth. The boats were loaded on trucks here to be transported by highway to Fort Worth. The crew planned to leave tonight.

The Beaumont lads were bedraggled and weary as they disembarked. In sharp contrast were the natty uniforms of the local Sea Scout newcomers.

The two boats were "The Port of Beaumont" and "Beaumont Enterprise." The river cruise was sponsored by the Beaumont Port Commission, the Chamber of Commerce and the American Legion.

FREIGHT RATES NORTH TOO HIGH, SAYS TEXAN

FORT WORTH, July 8 (AP)—Senator Tom Connally (D-Tex.), commenting here last night on the proposed economic survey of conditions in the south, declared "it is well known that freight rates from the south to the north are much higher than similar rates from the north to the south."

Within a few days he will lay the rail rates and other matters before the National Economic Council for investigation by a group called together by the council earlier this week, Connally said.

The government, he asserted, is responsible for the rail rate situation "because such rates are sanctioned by the Interstate Commerce Commission."

"It is my hope that any survey of economic conditions in the south will include the thorough examination of powerful economic and business interests," Connally said.

He said he would bring to the council's attention the granting by the government of great protection to northern mills and factories by exorbitant tariffs while most of the products of the south cannot be or are not protected by similar advantages.

The Senator passed through Fort Worth to attend a cantaloupe festival at Grapevine.

Punchdrunk Boxer Held Under Glass

By EDDY GILMORE

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—Lieut. J. A. Millsbaugh of the naval medical corps has dealt the boxing business a scholastic wallop with a brand new treatise on punch drunkenness.

Punch drunkenness isn't a condition you get into from drinking punch, but a condition you get into from absorbing too many punches. Writing in the naval medical bulletin, Lieut. Millsbaugh proposes a new name for it—dementia pugilistica.

That's all right, Lieutenant, but you gave the boxing trade a verbal knockout with this punchy paragraph:

"Patently the etiology of dementia pugilistica is trauma."

After the budding heavyweight has waded through that bit of business on what might happen to him if he gets hit too much, the Lieutenant lashes out with:

"The Metacarpophalangeal articulations are usually hypertrophied. Socko!

If that doesn't frighten him into a neutral corner of his living room, how about some of the things the Lieutenant says are symptoms of dementia pugilistica?

"Scowling, snorting, blowing grime, crouching, and snarling off," he writes, "are commonly witnessed."

Finally, if the fighter wants to know the medical analysis of what happens to him when he comes to after being knocked out, he can get it toward the end of the treatise.

"Where is he? The defeated inquiries, simulating aggressive tactics."

Here, however, he'll probably take issue with Lieut. Millsbaugh, for the prize-fighting profession has long echoed with these words of the K. O. ed boxer:

"Where's he at, the big bum? Gimme a return match."

DALL'S PLEA FOR NEW TRIAL GRANTED TODAY

ALBANY, N. Y., July 8 (AP)—The plea of Curtis B. Dall, former son-in-law of President Roosevelt, for a new trial in a $250,000 libel suit

His Report Hit by Legion Fire

Denouncing the American Legion in a doctor's thesis as reactionary, Fascist and unpatriotic, Dr. William Gellerman, above, of Northwestern University, drew a bitter counter-attacks from Legion officials and stirred comment at the national convention of the National Educational Association in New York. The 41-year-old professor's study of the veterans' organization won for him a doctor of philosophy degree from Columbia University against Time Magazine, Inc., was granted today by the State Court of Appeals.

Dall claimed that he was libeled in an article appearing in the April 23, 1934, issue of the magazine, which he said indicated he shot himself in the White House in the presence of his estranged wife, the present Mrs. Anna Eleanor Roosevelt, and Mrs. Roosevelt.

Appended to the magazine article, however, was an explanation that the description of the shooting was imaginary and merely to show contrasting methods of news coverage. The Tribunal upheld an appellate division decision setting aside a verdict for the publisher.

JOBLESS NEED SSA NUMBERS FOR PAYMENTS

AMARILLO, July 8—Employees who fail to get social security account numbers and report them to their employers may have difficulty in obtaining unemployment benefits if they lose their jobs, B. H. Thompson, district supervisor of the Texas unemployment compensation commission, said today.

An employee working for an employer who is covered by the state unemployment compensation law is earning credit toward unemployment benefits to be paid to him if he loses his job. But the employee's benefits will be based on his wages which his employer reports to the unemployment compensation commission, and in reporting the employee's account number so as to identify clearly the person to whom the wages are to be credited.

In turn, an employee who loses his job and wants to make application for unemployment benefits must give his account number as identification of his wage account on which his benefits will be based.

Mr. Thompson said that the district supervisors had been asked by Orville S. Carpenter, chairman-director of the commission, to point out that while account numbers are issued by Social Security Board field offices in establishing social security accounts on which old-age insurance will be paid, the unemployment compensation commission uses the same numbers in maintain wage accounts for the payment of jobless benefits.

An employee can obtain an account number by calling personally at the Social Security Board field office, or by mailing an application form properly filled out to the field office.
