Excitement is growing rapidly in one of the major segments of the American economy — a segment that is truly American and one that typifies the long - heralded "American Standard of Living."

The time is at hand for the public introduction of 1969 automobiles.

Like fashions in wearing apparel, the "season" for new automobiles does not follow the calendar exactly. Many American motorists will be driving 1969 model cars long before the New Year arrives on the calendar.

As for the "segments" of American life and economy, have you ever considered how many of them are identified with geographic locations, or more specifically, with certain cities?

The automobile industry has spread its factories to many areas, but the city of Detroit still lays claim to the title of automobile capital. In fact, many trade journals and even the public news media often use "Detroit" and "Automobile Industry" synonymously.

Then there's the motion picture industry which now is scattered over the globe. But the name "Hollywood" still is something of a synonym for "Movie Capital."

Meat - packing and livestock markets also are spread over wide areas these days, but the original big one is Chicago, with such competitors as Fort Worth and Kansas Cty putting in their bid.

These "titles" were earned in earlier days and it is more difficult now for a city or town to become nationally known for its association with a product or an industry.

Mostly, people from other regions remember us only for what they saw here, or how they were treated, when they passed on the highway or made a brief stop during a long journey.

The Snyder Tiger Booster Club (formerly the Quarterback Club) already has its banquet speaker lined up for next winter, but the date for the event will not be known for several weeks. The speaker will be Gene Stallings of Texas A&M University, and when the locals got his commitment to appear here they agreed to let him name the date.

MAJOR ATTACK COMING?

Terrorists Renew Attacks On Saigon

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Seven terrorist attacks in Saigon within 24 hours raised fears today that the enemy command is beginning a new wave of terrorism.

American servicemen were advised to stay off the streets during the night and to carry their weapons with them at all times. But U.S. officers said they did not foresee an imminent attack on Saigon.

Police said the terrorists were trying to frighten their victims into turning against the South Vietnamese government.

Intelligence reports have said that a terror campaign would be a prelude to and a key part of any major attack on Saigon, which presumably remains the ultimate goal of any third offensive by the enemy.

In the most serious of the new incidents, a bomb exploded in an unoccupied office in Cholon, the Chinese section of Saigon, injuring a woman and two schoolchildren in a schoolyard next door.

Damage to the building was light.

The office belonged to the Association of Chinese Regional Administrative Groups, a group of Vietnamese civic leaders of Chinese origin which backs and is supported by the government.

Also on Friday night, a Vietnamese ward chief was shot and critically wounded in the dock area of Saigon by a woman about 20, police said. She escaped.

Police said a power transformer station was slightly damaged Friday afternoon when a bomb exploded next to it.

The other incidents involved grenades tossed at ward chiefs and government facilities with only a few casualties and minor damage reported. One terrorist tried to blow up a U.S. Navy truck with a booby trap, but it was discovered in time and defused.

In addition, an enemy 100-pound rocket slammed into the southern edge of Saigon around midnight, killing one Vietnamese woman and wounding 11 other persons, including eight children.

In the Mekong Delta, Viet Cong troops carrying flame throwers attacked a government outpost 25 miles west of the provincial capital of My Tho, after hitting it with mortars.

Four South Vietnamese soldiers were reported killed and 28 wounded. Five civilians also were wounded. Enemy casualties were put at 37 killed.

Enemy troops also assaulted a U.S. artillery base supporting the Duc Lap Special Forces camp along the Cambodian border and broke through the perimeter during pre-dawm darkness. They were driven out during a one-hour fight a U.S. spokesman said.

Reinforcements from the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade swept the area at first light today and found the bodies of 15 North Vietnemese soldiers. U.S. casualties were reported light.

A few miles away, U.S. 11th Light Infantry Brigade forces reported killing 10 enemy troops while suffering one dead and one wounded.

Near Quang Ngai City, 325 miles northeast of Saigon, a small reconnaissance team from the U.S. Americal Division ran into more than 100 North Vietnamese troops in well-fortified positions, touching off a battle that raged until early today. Reinforcements poured into help the Americans and tactical fighter-bombers and artillery also gave support.

Ten U.S. troops were reported killed and seven wounded.

Enemy casualties were not known.

Soviets Apply New Pressure

PRAGUE (AP) — A top Soviet diplomatic trouble shooter was in Prague for political talks today as the Soviet press complained that Czechoslovak liberals are still not steering close enough to the Moscow line.

First Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov, who arrived Friday, began meeting immediately with Czechoslovak President Ludvik Svoboda. Their discussions were described as "a frank and comradely exchange" on relations between the two countries. In Communist terminology, "frank" means they disagreed.

The government-controlled Soviet press has made plain the Kremlin's displeasure at what it considers the Czechoslovaks' lack of speed in carrying out their part of the Moscow accord —a clampdown on liberalization. In return, Soviet occupation forces are to leave when the situation "normalizes."

The Soviet news agency Tass said Friday the "appearance of normalization" would not be enough.

Tass said Soviet troops cannot be withdrawn from Czechoslovakia until conditions are "created which would exclude the possibility of actions by counterrevolutionary forces."

It said there are still forces operating in Czechoslovakia "which would like to replace the struggle against counterrevolution by some measures creating the appearance of normalization of the situation."

Tass did give its approval of the Czechoslovak Interior Ministry's order for two non-Communist political groups active in the liberalization movement to disband.

While Svoboda talked with Kuznetsov, Dubcek presided over a meeting of the newly installed 21-man Czechoslovak Communist party presidium that called for "completely open and direct negotiations about all questions which make it difficult to implement the Moscow agreement."

The Czechoslovaks have been trying to save as much as possible of their liberalization program while trying to keep to the agreement.

Western observers in Prague say that having failed to establish a political base here, the Soviets are faced with posing a military government on Czechoslovakia or applying new pressures, perhaps drastic ones.

In response to Soviet pressures, the Czechoslovaks already have removed some liberal leaders under fire from Moscow including party secretary Cestmir Cisar.

Pueblo Case Settlement Said Likely

SEOUL (AP) — A South Korean newspaper said today U.S. and North Korean negotiators are likely to settle the Pueblo case by Monday, and the North Koreans announced they will have "important reports" Sunday.

Quoting unidentified sources, the newspaper Chosun Ilbo said the negotiators met Aug. 29 and discussed a draft letter of the apology the North Koreans have demanded from the United States.

The North Koreans claim the U.S. intelligence-gathering ship Pueblo was intruding in their territorial waters when they seized it Jan. 23. They have demanded an apology as a condition for release of the 82 crewmen.

Chosun Ilbo said the U.S. side made some concessions at the last meeting but also suggested amendments to the draft proposed by the North Koreans. It sad another meeting is scheduled at the truce village of Panmunjom, at which the North Koreans are expected to react.

The North Koreans' official news agency did not say what the special reports Sunday would concern. Sunday is the 20th anniversary of the establishment of the North Korean Peoples Republic. There has been speculation this might be the date for a break in the Pueblo case.

Search Launched For Fishing Boat Crew

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — Crewmen of the fishing boat Sally B radioed Friday night that their craft was sinking and they were abandoning it.

The message was picked up by another boat in the area, launching a Coast Guard search.

The crewmen are being sought about 60 miles southeast of Galveston.

The Sally B was based at Sabine Pass. The number of crewmen was not known but such vessels usually carry three men.

BEGIN CONSTRUCTION — Employes of the Bill Miles Foundation Co. and Snyder Jaycees began work last week on foundations for houses that will replace ones that were destroyed in a tornado west of Hermleigh last May. The Jaycees raised over $5,000 in a recent "radio-thon" to aid the storm victims and still are accepting contributions at both local banks.

Can Texas Schools Become Nation's Leaders By 1980?

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN (AP) — With a war cry of "4 per cent for educational excellence," a blue ribbon governor's committee laid out an expensive plan Saturday to lift Texas' schools to national leadership by 1980.

The willingness of legislators and local governments to raise new taxes and to break away from two decades of state school policies will decide whether the plan becomes a reality.

State costs alone would increase from $840 million during the 1968-69 year to $2.1 billion in 1978-79 if the committee's views become law.

Headed by Leon Jaworski, a Houston lawyer who was a prosecutor at the Nuremburg war crimes trials after World War II, the 15-member committee was appointed by Gov. John Connally in January of 1966.

Among the committee's major recommendations were higher salaries and more rewarding careers for teachers, reorganization of school systems and a total revamping of public school finances.

The report is shot through with criticisms of the present system of education, speaking of unequal local tax burdens, inadequate rural programs, lack of vocational courses and high dropout rates.

A leveling off in the school-age population during the 1970s gives Texas a golden opportunity, the committee said.

"In the next decade, Texas has a once-in-a-century chance to reach for educational excellence," the report said."...The Governor's Committee on Public School Education proposes that Texas reach for the goal of national leadership by 1980 in educational aspiration, commitment and achievement through a definite long-range plan from 1969-70 through 1978-79."

The plan can be financed, it said, by dedicating about 4 per cent of total projected income in the state.

"That commitment would place Texas among the national leaders in effort without exceeding the level of taxation in other major states," the committee declared.

"A combination of local property taxes and state taxes on sales and-or income can distribute the burden of 4 per cent for educational excellence' without undue strain on either individuals or business."

No specific state tax recommendation was made, although

Newcomers May Apply For Ballots

Voters who have lived in Texas less than a year must apply for a ballot during a 15-day period which began Friday, Sept. 6, if they want to vote for President and Vice President in the coming general election, according to an announcement by Mrs. Beverly Ainsworth, county clerk. Applicants must appear in person at the county clerk's office, she said.

This will be the first time that persons having less than a year's residence in the state will be able to vote in a presidential election. A law passed by the Texas Legislature last year permits a voter who moved to Texas from some other state less than a year before general election day to vote for President and Vice President, but for no other offices, if he will have lived in Texas at east 60 days on election day. In order to vote, he must possess all the qualifications required of electors under Texas law except the ordinary residence requirements, and it must also be shown that he was either a qualified elector in another state immediately before his removal to Texas or that he would have been eligible to vote in the presidential election in the state where he formerly lived if he had remained there until election day.

Mrs. Ainsworth said that a person who had been issued a voter registration certificate, voter identification card, or

Standoff Shaping For Farm Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fate of the administration's farm bill this year may hinge on the food stamp program.

A standoff is developing between urban lawmakers who dislike the Soil Bank provisions of the farm bill and rural congressmen who prefer commodity distribution to a food stamp program.

Each side needs the support of the other to pass the urban-favored food stamp program and the rural-favored farm bill.

The farm bill must be worked out by Senate-House conferees. Both sides agree that the food stamp bill will have to be considered at the same time, if not as a part of the farm legislation.

Rep. Leonor Sullivan, D-Mo., is both a strong food stamp backer and a critic of the soil bank provision of the farm bill.

"Many of us find it hard to understand the value of a bill that would allow a dentist or wealthy lawyer to buy a farm and earn thousands of dollars for simply not farming," she says.

Mrs. Sullivan wants the conferees at least to retain a house-passed provision limiting soil bank payments to $20,000 per farm owner. The Senate version of the farm bill does not contain this provision.

She even advocates a stricter limitation of $5,000 per owner— an idea that rural-oriented lawmakers don't like.

Mrs. Sullivan, representing a high density area of St. Louis, advocates a four-year authorization for the food stamp program with open-end financing according to projected annual need.

The Department of Agriculture likes this idea.

But Mrs. Sullivan's critics say she is merely trying to take the annual need for authorization out of the hands of the House Agriculture Committee, which is predominantly rural in make-up. Committee members have ranged from cool to hostile toward food stamps.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a 45-year-old father who makes his sons (ages 10 and 13) beg for their weekly allowance of 50 cents? If they forget to ask for it on Sunday night, he refuses to give it to them all week.

I, too, get an allowance for household expenses. It's been the same for 10 years, and is never enough at today's prices, but he refuses to give me one cent more. (He always carries at least $300 on him.) He keeps telling me to live "within my means" and to quit trying to take him for all he's worth.

Abby, he runs several successful businesses, and when I occasionally work at one of his offices, I never see the money. It goes toward a 3-week summer vacation the children and I take. (He's too "busy" to go with us.)

Even his workmen bring home more money to their wives than he gives me. I've seen the checks being written out by his bookkeeper. I don't drink, smoke, gamble or flirt. I am getting a nice case of "nerves" from his stinginess. After 15 years of marriage, do you see any solution for me?

UNHAPPY IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR UNHAPPY: A man who reduces his wife and children to "beggars' simply because he controls the purse strings, ought to have someone tell him about: (1) The cost of psychiatric treatment, should his wife's case of 'nerves" become serious. (2) The community porperty law in California.

DEAR ABBY: Whoever said that boys like good girls is crazy.

I went out with a boy one night and he made advances. I told him where to get off. He didn't get mad, but he never asked me out again, and he was the one boy I really wanted to date.

Please don't say that a boy who would pull something like that isn't "nice." I haven't met a boy yet who doesn't take a girl out for what he can get. Because of this, a boy hardly ever asks me out twice. I am beginning to wonder about this good girl stuff. What does it prove?

GOOD AND LONELY

DEAR GOOD: "Nice" boys still want "good" girls, and don't let anyone tell you they don't. The boys who drop you because you're "good" are only boys. Stay good, and one day a MAN will come along and make the waiting worthwhile.

DEAR ABBY: It says in the Bible "Stolen waters are sweet and bread eaten in secret is pleasant." (Proberbs, Chapter IX, Verse 17.) Could this be the reason my husband has strayed?

HEARTBROKEN

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: Since you have quoted Verse 17 of Chapter IX in the Book of Proverbs as a possible clew to your husband's behavior, give some attention, please, to the four preceding verses of the same book: "A foolish woman is noisy; she is wanton and knows no shame; she sits at the door of her house; she takes a seat on the high places of the town, calling to those who pass by, who are going straight on their way, 'Whoever is simple, let him turn in here'." Verse 17, as you quote it, then follows. Does this tell you something?

the committee presented potential revenue from a variety of sources. The committee said some combination of sales, income and natural resources taxes would raise enough money without raising the level of taxation above that of other major states.

An immediate $667 per year pay raise for beginning bachelor's degree teachers and a $918 raise for beginning teachers with a master's degree was recommended for the 1969-70 school year, with larger increases for experienced teachers. Additional raises are recommended for 1970-71.

Ultimately, the plan calls for annual raises of 5 per cent during the first five years of a teacher's career, and 2½ per cent for each of the next five years.

Under the plan, state-supported programs would cost $2.16 billion the first two years (1969-71), or $503 million more than the total state cost of public schools during the 1967-69 period.

School districts with small student bodies were found to be inefficient, costly and unlikely to offer a wide enough range of programs. Some are "property tax havens," the committee said, and most of those with fewer than 1,000 students do not pay their teachers more than the state-supported minimum salary.

"The restricted programs, lower salaries, reduced effort and lower teacher qualifications of many small districts often combine to limit student development; their seniors tend to score lower on tests of educational development," the report stated.

Consequently, the committee recommended that every school district, with certain exceptions, should have at least 2,600 pupils attending in a 12-grade system. Countywide (or larger) districts would be allowed to continue as independent systems with a minimum of 1,600 pupils.

Certain 'sparse area districts' covering a county or even larger area would be allowed to operate with less than 1,600 pupils under a special program.

The state would provide extra financial help to sparse districts, which the committee said would include no more than 75,000 pupils statewide.

A map realigning school districts—subject to approval by the Legislature and State Board of Education—will be issued later. A final statewide school district reorganiation plan should be issued by June 1, 1971, the committee said.

Also recommended was an optional plan allowing districts with more than 50,000 pupils to decentralize into two or more "community educational systems" with at least 10,000 pupils each.

Community systems would have their own boards but would be operated under policies established by the board of the parent school district. Extra state aid would be available to districts that decentralize.

The committee recommended phasing out county school administrations, which exist in 141 counties, for an estimated state saving of $3 million per year. Also recommended was redistricting of the State Board of Education to provide one member for each of the 23 congressional districts. The present 21 members represent congressional districts as they existed in 1949, based on the 1930 census.

Shows Slides Of Holy Land

Dr. A. B. Lightfoot, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will present a visual sermon Sunday evening beginning at 7 on "Baalbeck, Glory of This World." This will be a presentation of slides taken while on his recent trip to the Holy Land.

Baalback, the "Baalath" of the Bible, famous 1300 years before Christ, is also called City of the Sun. Baalbeck persists to be the show place of Lebanon with the tallest columns ever built, the largest stone blocks ever used, and the boldest architectural engineering feat ever handled. Neither the fiercest passions of men nor the decay of centuries has been able to erase this story in stone.

The Temple of Bacchus is a masterpiece of Roman architecture and is credited to be one of the most beautiful and the best preserved Corinthians temples of antiquity. Not even Rome can boast of anything like it. It is smaller than the Temple of Jupiter, from which it was inspired, but is greater in area than the Parthenon in Athens. It is built of the finest limestone, engraved with the most exquisite designs of scrolls.

The public is invited.

Among guests were Hugh Fairly, who later signed as a member, Johnny Starnes, and Charles Green.

A committee was formed to represent the Jaycees at the joint meeting of the civic clubs Wednesday, Sept. 11.

Smith Speaks In Harlingen

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — "I believe we can and will win by a gratifying majority," Lt. Gov. Preston Smith told Lower Rio Grande Valley Democratic party leaders Friday.

Speaking at one of a series of meetings with delegates to the party's state convention, Smith said there are "challenging days ahead" before the November election.

One of the purposes of the meeting was to discuss the party's platform. Smith is opposed in the gubernatorial election by Republican Paul Eggers of Wichita Falls.

"We must express ourselves loud and clear on law and order, education, water conservation, the development of industry and tourism, aid to the cities and other vital areas," Smith said.

Contract Let For Bridge Construction

County Commissioners have awarded a contract for construction of a bridge over Bluff Creek in Precinct 3 to J. H. Strain & Sons, Inc. of Tye. In awarding the contract, commissioners accepted the apparent low bid of $12,715.72.

In other action, the commissioners called for bids for construction of two buildings at Winston Field. Each of the two structures will contain five "T-hangars" each. Bids are to be opened Sept. 30.

Commissioners also passed a resolution endorsing the transfer of the general offices of the Roscoe, Snyder and Pacific Railway Company to Snyder. Passed and adopted unanimously, the complete text follows:

"Resolved that the Commissioners Court of Scurry County, Texas heartily endorses the transfer of the general offices of the Roscoe, Snyder and Pacific Railway Company to the City of Snyder, Texas; and pledges its full cooperation to such railroad in connection with the relocation of its general offices as well as its future operations; and the Commissioners Court of Scurry County, Texas, respectfully requests that the relocation of such offices be approved by the Railroad Commission of Texas."

BALLOTS

other document showing that he was a registered voter in the state from which he moved should take this document with him when he goes to the county clerk's office to apply for a ballot. If he does not have written proof of his registration, it will be necessary for the clerk to obtain verification of his voting elegibility from the voter registrar or other appropriate election official at the place of his former residence before he will be accepted for voting.

Applications must be filed with the clerk by 5 p.m. Friday, Sept. 20. However, the voters will not actually vote until the period of Oct. 21 - Nov. 1, when they will return to the clerk's office and cast their ballots. The county clerk said that each applicant will be given written notice informing him whether his application has been accepted after the clerk receives a reply from the voter registrar in the state of former residence.

Persons voting in the presidential election under this special procedure need not be registered as voters in the county where they now live.

Mrs. Ainsworth emphasized that this voting procedure applies only to persons who will have lived in Texas less than a year on election day.

TRAIL TO MARKED TREE, By Roy Swank (Naylor, $4.95)

It is somewhat unexpected to find that some land in Northeast Arkansas remained virtually virgin as late as World War I.

The area is on the route from Tennessee to Texas during the great migration around the time of the Civil War. Traveler dropouts seemingly should have populated this fine farm land.

But there it was, Marked Tree, a settlement surrounded by little except trees, swamps and creeks. That is the way the Seank brothers, Roy and Will, found it in 1919 and they tackled it like pioneers.

The brothers found themselves forced to proceed in the same manner that frontiersmen everywhere in American have done and it is in this little bit of detailed history, universal to the nation, that the significance lies.

Their objective was to cut the trees, pull the stumps, plow the root-filled ground, and plant. Meanwhile, they must build cabins and otherwise sustain themselves. And there were no roads.

Eventually the land became a farm and with that the brothers, their creation finished, seemed to lose interest. Roy became a schoolteacher and his story of the troubles of teaching in rural Arkansas at that time make you wonder how America ever learned to read and write.

The brothers eventually rented the farm, Will took a state job and Roy returned to Ohio from where the brothers came. —The AP

DELANO, The Story of the California Grape Strike, By John Gregory Dunne (Farr,) Straus and Giroux, $1.95)

The Delano, Calif., grape strike has tremendous significance for the Southwest since the United Farm workers Organizing Committee has spread itself beyond California.

Particularly it was the same union offshoot that organized the farm strike and demonstrations in the Rio Grande Valley of Texas.

"Delano" is a book that apparently has been around about a year but it is as valid now as earlier.

The immediate question about any book on labor is: Is it slated and if so which way?

John Gregory Dunne, the author, obviously admires Cesar Chavez, the moving force behind the organization. And he uses a few color words that lead you to believe early in the book that it is going to be a hatchet job on the farmers.

But deeper in the book you find that Dunne does strike at the organization here and there and does present the growers' viewpoint in places. It even quotes Chavez that there can be evil on both sides of the dispute.

But mainly it is designed to tell the story of the migrant workers' attempts to raise their wages and improve living conditions. And there is nothing wrong with telling one side of a story if the reader knows what the author is trying to tell.

Chevez is the main figure, a man with a mission who here and there has gained his goal.

But organizing farm workers is, as the book quotes one principal, "like fighting on a constantly disintegrating bed of sand" because of the necessarily migrant nature of the union prospects.

The book is very revealing about how the workers were organized, how they picketed, how they got some contracts and the infighting on both sides.

The farm workers originally formed an independent union. But to win one strike they joined the AFL-CIO and became an organizing committee.

This, in the view of one observer, turned the organization from its original motivating force of being a social movement into a classic labor union. At least this rid the movement of many of its pinko supporters and oddball fringe.

But the farm workers' organization has not lost its force, as an occasional instance of action proves.—The AP

PAPA DIDN'T SPARE THE ROD, By Jerry Lackey (Naylor, $3.05)

Jerry Lackey of San Angelo, Tex., is editor of the Sheep and Goat Raiser magazine after considerable Texas newspaper experience. Author of numerous general interest articles, he now is the writer of a book on the Hill Country.

Lackey's book is about farm and ranch life in Kimble County where he grew up.

It largely is a series of sketches of people and their actions, many of them about his family. It proves again that children everywhere possess imagination.

The stories are done lightly and concisely.—The AP

ADVANCES IN WATER QUALITY IMPROVEMENT, Edited by Earnest F. Gloyna and W. Wesley Eckenfelder Jr. (University of Texas Press, $15)

"Advances in Water Quality Improvement" consists of a series of papers presented at a University of Texas symposium at the University of Texas.

The book largely concerns how to remove pollutants from water and to otherwise improve it.

The papers are highly technical but should prove invaluable for those in this field and those with sufficient scientific knowledge to appreciate it.—The AP

Chocolate Squares

½ cup unsifted regular flour (stir to aerate before measuring)
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ pound (1 stick) butter
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 large eggs
1 can (5½ ounces) chocolate syrup

BETTER THAN A DREAM

Bogota Like A Paradise

Many have dreamed of vacations to paradise - like islands, but after a visit to Colombia, South America, Becky Lewallen said, "It was better than a dream. And Bogota is like a paradise because the semi-tropical vegetation and flowers, including wild orchids, are in bloom the year round."

Miss Lewallen, a graduate of Texas Tech, teaches at Randal Elementary in Brownfield. She is the daughter of Mrs. W. P. Lewallen, 316 29th.

Bogota, Colombia attracted Miss Lewallen because her finance, Greg Obregon, is head of credits in the International Department for the Bank of Bogota. Obregon is also a graduate of Texas Tech, where he and Miss Lewallen met.

"The only thing that kept Bogota from being a paradise was the rain. It rained almost every day," Miss Lewallen said. Although Colombia is in the tropics, Bogota has a fall climate all year long because it is situated in the mountains at 8,600 feet above sea level.

Bogota is a trade and commerical center for Colombia with a population of two million. Most of the inhabitants are descendants of the Spaniards who conquered the Chibcha Indians in 1536. Bogota was derived from the name of the Chibcha chief, Bocata. Today visitors can see much of the handiwork of the Chibcha's, commonly called "Chip Chip," in museums. One of these is the Gold Museum which contains all kinds of golden relics made by these Indians.

"Downtown Bogota is much like New York City with its tall buildings, small shops and crowded streets," Miss Lewallen said. Most of the buildings and new houses reflect very modern architecture. Being a center of art and learning, Bogota is often called the Athens of America.

In spite of this modern look, it is not unusual to see mules in the downtown streets with loads of wood. Mules and oxen can also be found on the farms. Knowledge of agriculture is small there and they do not have the equipment we have here. In many cases, however, modern equipment would not be usable as much cultivated land is on mountain slopes.

"There is a definite Latin atmosphere present there, too. No one is ever in a hurry," Miss Lewallen observed. The working day is from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., but this allows two hours for lunch. Twenty - five national and religious holidays are also observed during the year. An extra holiday was taken during Miss Lewallen's visit when Pope Paul visited Bogota and South America.

The highlight of Miss Lewallen's vacation came early one morning as she was awakened by commotion outside her window. She was just about to decide it was burglers when they began to sing. It was just a group her fiance had hired to serenade her in accordance with the old custom.

Catholism beng the dominant religion, there are many beautiful churches and cathedrals. One of the most beautiful and unusual is the Zipaquira, the Salt Cathedral. Carved out of an old salt mine outside of Bogota, it is so immense that many drive into it in their car.

Most of the cars in Bogota are old American made ones. There is a 300 per cent duty on automobiles imported, so most people can only afford the older models and must drive them for many years.

"Traffic is very bad, since they don't know how to drive," Miss Lewallen said. Pedestrians are a problem because they cross the busy streets anywhere they decide to. There is a policeman standing on a stool in the street intersections directing the traffic, like in many European cities.

"The bad thing is the people don't even look at him, much less obey his signals," Miss Lewallen commented.

Naturally there are many differences between Colombia and the U. S. Colombia uses the peso instead of the dollar. There are 16.4 pesos to our dollar. In Colombia miles are kilometers, pounds are kilos and the farenheit thermometer is used instead of the centigrade thermometer.

"And they have the strongest coffee you have ever tasted in your life," Miss Lewallen added.

After the ordinary vacation one can say it's always good to come home. But after a trip to paradise - like Colombia one can only dream of returning.

Blaze Sweeps Star Telegram Press Room

FORT WORTH (AP)—An early morning fire swept through the press room of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram early today, causing considerable damage to two of the three presses.

No employe was hurt in the blaze but two firemen were overcome by smoke fighting the fire.

The blaze started as the paper started to print its city edition. Editor Jack Butler said only the state circulation subscribers of the paper would receive a paper today.

He said electricians were working to get power back into the press room and it was hoped that a regular Sunday edition might be printed.

"We hope we can get out an almost complete paper for Sunday, but that is just a hope. We don't know that we can, but we will try," he said.

Firemen said they received the first alarm at 2:45 a.m. today and a second alarm was turned in 14 minutes later.

An employe said the fire was all but out in an hour and a half but firemen were still checking other areas of the building an hour later.

Butler said the main problem today was to restore power to the press and composing room and the editorial offices of the paper.

Butler said the cause of the fire had not been determined. No damage estimate has been made but a fire official said he felt it would be "a pretty heavy loss."

Czech Press Tests Limits Of Censors

By HANNS NEUERBOURG
Associated Press Writer

PRAGUE (AP) — Despite Soviet-imposed censorship, Czechoslovak newsmen so far seem to be finding some leeway. And when newspaper refers now to "past happenings" and "foreign troops," the reader gets the message.

Under the new style, nine Czechoslovaks killed in Kosice after the invasion Aug. 20 "lost their lives with the arrival of foreign troops."

References to the "cruel reality" of the occupation can be found even in Rude Pravo, the official Communist party newspaper. When a Soviet booby trap mine is found in the Prague Radio building, the paper says ironically that the device was "obviously forgotten."

The invasion by troops of the Soviet Union and four hard-line allies resulted in an end to six months of official press freedom decreed by the liberal Communist leadership of Alexander Dubcek.

When occupation troops left news offices, editors made their way back to work through scattered files, ransacked desks and ripped out teletype cords. Radio, television, the national news agency CTK nd five of Prague's eight daily newspapers were back in operation by Friday.

They faced censorship rules issued by the Prague government in accordance with the Moscow agreement, which demanded a lid on liberalization in exchange for withdrawal of Soviet troops when the situation "normalizes."

The rules prohibit everything that could be "considered as criticism" by the five occupying countries. But editors in Prague so far seem determined to keep testing the limits of these rules.

Casualties and damages resulting from the occupation and other bitter new facts of life are listed in line with the new policy of giving a "truthful though not necessarily complete" picture.

CAREER CORNER

By F. J. LAIN

WHAT IS THE FUTURE FOR DROPOUTS?

Miss Lain awards a new Mercury portable, courtesy of the Royal Typewriter Co., to Haynes Jones, Bristol, Tenn., for his question:

"What kind of future and career, if any, can two 16-year-old dropouts from high school look forward to? They are planning to quit school and get married."

A — Technically speaking, yours is not wholly a "career" question. Marriage, important as it is, does not qualify as a salaried occupation, and dropping out is generally a one-time proposition. While love and marriage don't fall within my area —

DROPPING OUT IS SOMETHING ELSE AGAIN — a definite factor in the job world. You know I've got to feel strongly on the subject, when every career I discuss — without exception — requires training and education in some degree. Usually, the better the job, the more interesting the work and the more preparation it requires. Speaking to potential D. O.'s, here's how it is:

SURE, QUITTING SCHOOL SCHOOL CAN SOLVE A PROBLEM. You won't have to do any more homework. You won't have to take all that static from those dumb teachers. You won't be stuck in a stupid classroom while the Wise-o's are getting the pick of the jobs in the neighborhood. Bringing home a paycheck every week. Maybe buying a car. And if you're a boy, the Army's going to get you anyway, so what's the percentage in wasting your last few months of freedom learning stuff you'll probably never use again?

AM I PLAYING YOUR SONG? Sounds good the first few times you hear it . . . trouble is, it gets old so soon. At first, it WILL be different and fun to kick the school routine but you can't afford to goof around too long. Got to get a job, and somehow it isn't as easy as it sounded when you and the kids were shooting the breeze.

STRANGE, BUT MOST OF THE JOBS AVAILABLE ARE HARD WORK. You're classified as "unskilled labor," in case you don't know it, and occupations such as these will be open to you: porter, maid, bellhop, car wash attendant, bus boy, migrant crop picker. On your feet all day long . . . doing odd jobs . . . and not working too steady, at that. (The unskilled worker is likely to be the first to go when business is bad.) You can take it when you're 16 and 17, but what about 10, 20 or 30 years from now?

YOU MAY EVEN HAVE RARE ABILITY — when properly trained — but few employers can afford to gamble on a question mark. Even the Army, which can hardly be classified as choosey, has this to say: You will have better chances in the service if you complete high school first. It will be easier to absorb military technical training, qualify for military educational opportunities, and advance in rank.

YOU MAY BE A BORN LOSER — YOU THINK. Maybe you want to quit school because you just aren't making it — you don't understand what's happening and your grades prove it. Providing your difficulties aren't temporary or minor, here's one case where it's better to switch than fight it. Try vocational high school where you can get practical, interesting training for good - paying jobs with solid futures.

RIGHT NOW, IT MAY SOUND LIKE A PUT- ON, but most people are plain unhappy unless they like their jobs. Figure it out, that's how they spend the majority of their time. If you don't have a rich aunt, think it over.

BE SELFISH. Stay in school. Take advantage of all the education, all the training you can get. You've heard about the World of the Future? That's where the gap between the trained and untrained will be wider than ever.

So before you volunteer for the short end of the stick by dropping out, by becoming unskilled labor, wait there may be a more interesting way to mess up your life.

STOCK MARKET GAME

Just Any Number Can Play

By PHIL THOMAS
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK AP — Once, it is reported, the great J. P. Morgan was asked to describe how the stock market works. With his typical brevity, the financier replied: "It fluctuates."

It still does.

And for some of the same reasons—economic—that caused ups and downs in Morgan's time. But there are new factors, mainly people, lots of them.

Once the market was primarily the province of a few. Now it is the money home of millions and millions of small investors with spare cash to spend, seeking status, seeking hedges against inflation, seeking the vicarious thrill of matching wits with the mighty of Wall Street.

They have brought to the market a new mass emotionalism which can cause ups and downs having nothing to do with economic factors.

"The market's a lot like the ocean," says Eldon Grimm, a senior vice president of Walston & Co., Inc., "Periods of optimism and pessimism come and go just like the tides."

A partner in a large, private Wall Street investment firm noted drily that "stock prices in themselves are meaningless. They are statistics representing people's emotions.

"Why does the price of a company's stock jump $50 or $100 in a week when the company itself hasn't changed? When its business outlook isn't any better than it was the week before? Probably because they heard something from someone somewhere."

Dr. Emanuel F. Hammer, a New York psychologist, pointed out that people often react to the stock market because of reasons unrelated to the market.

Hammer, a past president of the New York Society of Clinical Psychologists, said, "Say a person wakes up feeling good, finds money in the street and, then finds his boss has given him a raise. He assumes things are going great and decides to invest in the stock market.

"He acts as if these things are linked together and that the stock market will move in his favor—as if whatever forces move the market will be influenced by his lucky day even though thousands of other persons are speculating in the market that day. It's an egocentric interpretation—like a woman betting on a horse for no other reason than it has the same name as her grandchild. She is saying me, my grandchild and the fates will influence that horse to win, ignoring the fact that thousands of others are betting the horses that day and acting as if they don't have 'influences.'"

Many of the men close to the market generally agreed that human emotions play a strong part in the day-to-day activity that sends stock prices up and down.

"The thought has often been expressed that the study of the stock market is, indirectly, the study of human psychology," said Anthony W. Tabell, a senior vice president at Walston & Co. "It is of course, the study of man's behavior as a group rather than individually, but the collectivity of investors who cause the day-to-day fluctuations on securities exchanges displays a great many typical human emotions—hope, greed and fear being among the most common."

Some financial observers hold that as much as 85 per cent of the decisions to buy or sell stock shares are based on emotion, with the remaining 15 per cent based on statistics, such as a company's earnings, the state of the national economy, and interest rates.

Hope that the Vietnam war, for instance, might be nearing an end sent the market soaring this spring when President Johnson announced curtailment of the bombing of North Vietnam.

"Peace generally is regarded by investors as bullish," said Richard Scruggs, a Goodbody & Co. analyst. "War is bearish. War frightens people. And it implies a diversion of our national output away from the private sector and into the war effort."

Ralph A. Rotnem, an economist and senior vice president at Harris, Upham Co., said that when peace comes to Vietnam "it should be bullish. Within the 12 months after the end of the other three wars of the last 50 years, the gains were sharp —from 26 per cent to 36 per cent."

Joseph F. Dorsey, president of Argus Research Corp., has a theory that fear and greed play an active role in stock fluctuations.

"Extreme tops are caused by greed and extreme bottoms are caused by fear," he said. "In between the market reflects the expected earnings outlook and the expected business outlook."

The partner in the private investment firm has a mental fear-greed scale he uses to gauge the market.

"It's on a scale of 1 to 10." he said. "with fear at 1 and greed at 10. This gives you a crisis at each end and in between you try to make a living.

"Fear is a flight to the dollar. People see the market start to go down and they get afraid that they aren't going to lose just a little bit of the money they have invested but all of it. They cash in and that's why the market has a big drop.

"Greed is a flight away from the collar. People want to avoid inflation so they invest in the market. Prices start to rise and they get greedy. They pay more for stock than they should, assuming someone's going to pay them more for it than they laid out."

"Adam Smith" in his recent book, "The Money Game", describes greed and fear as "the strongest emotions in the market place."

"In rising markets you can almost feel the greed tide begin. Usually it takes from six months to a year after the last market bottom to get started. The greed itch begins when you see stocks move that you don't own. Then friends of yours have a stock that has doubled; or, if you have one that has doubled, they have one that has tripled.

Junior Editors Quiz on EAGLES

QUESTION: How did the eagle become our national emblem?

ANSWER: The eagle is notable for its mastery of flight, keenness of vision and great strength. Since early times, eagles have been used to symbolize courage, dignity, loftiness of purpose. When the young nation of the U.S.A. decided it needed an impressive symbol, William Barton of Philadelphia suggested an eagle. His first design for a Great Seal incorporating the eagle was not approved by Congress. However, on June 20, 1782, Congress adopted Barton's revised design of a bald eagle with outspread wings, a shield on its breast, an olive branch in one foot and a sheaf of 13 arrows in the other. Soon, the bald eagle had become accepted as the symbol of the U.S.A. Benjamin Franklin objected to the eagle idea, suggesting that the wild turkey, found only in the New World, would be more typical. But the Founding Fathers wanted a symbol which would stand for something lofty, like the purpose of the bold new nation. The turkey was too matter-of-fact, too down-to-earth. So the eagle idea won out, and soon American eagles began to be used everywhere, such as on top of the mirror in our picture.

Cattlemen Enlist Aid Of Computer

FORT WORTH (AP) —The Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association has turned to a computer to combat the widespread theft of saddles.

Don C. King, general manager, said the key to operation is an IBM data processing system which helps get victims back onto their horses.

He said the system has also aided law enforcement officers in breaking up theft rings spanning Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

"We have a listing on nearly 800 saddles reported stolen during the past few months," King said. "Since our recovery system started last fall, we've had considerable success."

The system works through forms which include questions about the saddle ranging from the size and composition of the saddle horn to idenfication scars or paint marks.

The macague a type of monkey, has cheek pounches in which it stores leaves and fruits.

'HORNS, COUGARS SEEK NATIONAL CROWN

By BOB HOOBING
Written for
The Associated Press

Southern California still has its Orange Juice. But he is not likely to furnish the Trojans enough vitamins to repeat as national champions in college football's 100th year.

Probably the 1968 uniersity division king will come from among the Southeastern Conference winner. Purdue, Ohio State, Houston or Texas.

Independents Notre Dame and Miami, obviously ticketed for fine autumns, may have a shade too much schedule to reach the top rung.

O.J. "Orange Juice" Simpson, the 1967 sensation among ball carriers, is back for more at USC along with some other great talent. But it is hard under any circumstances for a team to succeed itself as national titlist.

At USC, much junior college and sophomore help will be needed to bolster 17 lettermen while flanker Jim Lawrence must prove he's healthy again. Seven defensive starters are gone. And the schedule ends in a spectacular stretch—Oregon State, UCLA and Notre Dame.

The fun begins next weekend. Georgia, the SEC darkhorse needing only to find a take-charge quarterback among its eye-popping 39 lettermen, meets defending champ Tennessee before national television cameras. The Vols, minus some glittering graduates and Olympic-minded Richmond Flowers, must rely on defense and kicking.

Prime candidates for SEC laurels are Alabama, Florida and Louisian State.

'Bama can take it all, proving in a good spring game it has a superior balanced attack compared to last year's reliance on the Ken Stabler-to-Dennis Homan bomb. The running is better, the great defenders are experienced and sophmores George Ranager, a receiver, and Phil Chaffin, a halfback, are exceptional.

Certainly no team will be better prepared than Bear Bryant's boys right down to the fact artificial turf has been installed on the practice field to get ready for Tennessee where such a surface is now on the stadium floor.

Behind big, swift fullback Larry Smith, Florida is ready and has an edge in the league schedule.

LSU has tough going outside and only four SEC games so must win them all to have a chance. But by November, the Tigers could be toughest of all: They have momentum from knocking off unbeaten Wyoming in the Sugar Bowl and are deep in able bodies.

Purdue, ninth-ranked trititlist in the Big Ten with Indiana and Minnesota last year, is a natural choice of the prognosticators. The Boilermakers have a super backfield of LeRoy Keyes, Mike Phipps and Perry Williams' not to mention soph John Bullock.

If Ohio State can cure a weak kicking game! watch the Buckeyes make the big move behind, perhaps, the best offensive tackle tandem in the land—Rufus Mayes and Dave Foley. What's more, the Bucks have one of the better schedules.

Michigan will offer the biggest surprises.

Indiana needs to shore up the middle of its defensive line and Minnesota likely will falter a little from sharing No. 1. Watch Illinois cause trouble.

Switching from the I formation to a wing-T far more balance, Texas is the chief threat to dethrone Texas A&M in the Southwest Conference. Steer backs Chris Gilbert, Bill Bradley and Ted Koy are joined by solid veterans and fine sophomores up from an unbeaten freshman club. A&M, working on a seven-game winning streak, is worried about its defensive line.

Houston's two-time national total offense leaders have another lightning attack sparked by Paul Gipson together with a sound defense. The slate is not quite as tough as when the Cougar went 7-3 in 1967 and the squad is more closely knit. Houston might even surprise itself this fall.

Notre Dame, which has won six straight, is worried about its defensive backs and ends. With Terry Hanratty, Jim Seymour, Jeff Zimmerman and Bob Gladieux there'll be no problem moving the ball. Oklahoma and Purdue provide a rugged 1-2 start.

All-American Ted Hendricks and friends give Miami a massie defense to go with a like schedule.

These three teams plus Florida State look like the class of the independents while improving George Tech, Southern Mississippi and West Texas State, powered by Gene "Mercury" Morris, bear watching.

Nebraska will challenge Oklahoma's supremacy in the Big Eight. The Sooners have great talent in quarterback Bob Warmack, tailback Steve Owens, wingback Eddie Hinton, guard Ken Mendenhall and safety Steve Barrett. But while they play the Irish, North Carolina State and Texas for outside foes, Nebraska draw Wyoming, Utah and Minnesota.

The Huskers could be fresher for the stretch run behind breakaway halfback Joe Orduna, 6-7 QB Frank Patrick and fullback Dick Davis.

Don't be surprised if Oregon State rides clear to the Rose Bowl on its 36 lettermen chasis. Fullback Bill Enyart and center John Didion could be the best in the land. The key date in the Pacific Eight will be Nov. 16—Beavers vs. Trojans in a rematch of USC's only loss of 1967.

Despite the loss of Gary Beban, UCLA's Tom Prothro figures he's got a classy underrated quarterback in Bill Bolden among 27 lettermen. But the schedule could be murder.

Look out for long-dormant Washington. California with 35 lettermen is a sleeper but will have to ignore campus upheaval and settle racial unrest on the squad before it can really bust out.

In the race for the Lambert Trophy in the East, defender Penn State has the best over-all squad starting with super tight end Ted Kwalic. Syracuse has the best defense and Army the better schedule and perhaps the most exciting offense. Nevertheless, Penn State will draw the most Lambert ballots come season's end.

The best of the rest:

Atlantic Coast Conference—Clemson again, dogged by bowl winner North Carolina State and unfamiliar Wake Forest.

Southern—East Carolina has too much Butch Colson, single wing and defense.

Missouri Valley—If newest member Memphis State can shake off Ole Miss and Tennessee at the start, it might dethrone North Texas State in their showdown.

Tulsa is ready to unleash flanker Joe Pistoia, called a Howard Twilley with 9.8 speed.

Ivy League—defender Yale, which should score more and stop less, can repeat only by turning back Cornell, Princeton and Dartmouth.

West Athletic Conference—Newcomer University of Texas at El Paso to upend 1967 winner Wyoming and everyone else's pick for 1968, Arizona State, UTP is loaded.

Mid-America—Miami of Ohio to surpass defending cochamps Ohio U. and Toledo.

A few key dates to remember: Oct. 12—Purdue vs. Ohio State. Oct. 19—Alabama vs. Tennessee. Nov. 2—Clemson vs. N.C. State. Nov. 9—LSU vs Alabama. Nov. 23—Oklahoma vs. Nebraska, USC vs. UCLA. Nov. 28—Texas A&M vs. Texas. Dec. 7—Penn State vs. Syracuse.

Surprise teams of the year—Kansas, Michigan, Arkansas, Auburn, Washington, Virginia, Pitt.

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—J. T. King is convinced Texas Tech will have its best team ever this season, but it's what King doesn't know that bothers him.

Will he find enough bodies to shore up an offensive line deflated by graduation? Will his defensive ends come through? Is there someone who will make the big play when the chips are down?

Tune in about the second week in October after the Red Raiders have been through the Southwest Conference version of the one-two punch. King may have some answers then.

King said the 1968 Raiders would be "the strongest squad physically and in depth that we've had" but adds real success depends on closing ranks in the line and at defensive end.

"I think one of the things we're worried about most is our inexperienced line and our defensive ends," King said.

The Raiders open Sept. 21 with a non-conference match against Cincinnati before hosting Texas.

King really won't know until then if he has successfully plugged the gaps left by veteran tackle Stan Edwards, end Larry Gilbert, guard Phil Tucker and center Jerry Turner.

The Raiders catch Colorado State for their third game before meeting the Aggies at College Station.

Tech's offensive line was not completely stripped Lou Breuer returns at tight end and third year starter Don King is back at guard.

But more help will be needed at guard from Dickie Grigg, moved from defensive tackle, and 269-pound Ronnie Sowell. And Jackie Booe must come through in place of Turner at center.

The problem at defensive end has already been half solved by Richard Campbell, who was a scholastic casualty last season.

During his year of inactivity, Campbell soared to 250 pounds but he reported to camp at a trim 211 and King already counts the 1966 starter as a plus.

A healthy George Cox also would give the defensive end situation a welcome boost. Cox is recovering from a knee injury but the joint has not been battle-tested.

Far from dwelling on the negative, King accentuates the positive with a steady stream of optimism. Mainly, they go in this order — fullback, the kicking game, and quarterback.

King really has a problem at fullback but it's a pleasant one. Should he start Jackie Stewart or Tony Butler.

Stewart is the returning starter. He averaged 6.1 yards per carry last season and gained a reputation as a vicious tackler. But Butler is faster and bigger and was named the outstanding player of spring training.

King has similar problems at quarterback but Joe Matulich is in the driver's seat as the season starts because of his proven ability. He engineered Tech to victories over Baylor and Arkansas last season.

But King also rates redshirt Tom Sawyer a close second. "This is the first time we've ever had two people so close," King said.

Without even blushing, King rates his kicking crew on par with any in the league. He speaks of Jerry Don Sanders and Kenny Vinyard.

Vinyard booted the long, high punts last year to help Tech rank third in the nation in punt defense last season. Vinyard also holds the Southwest Conference field goal record—a 55-yarder.

In the 1967 spring game, Sanders hit the upright with a field goal from 60 yards out.

As for Tech's third question mark, the individual who will become the big-play artist, King will have to wait on that too.

"We don't have a runner of the caliber of Chris Gilbert (Texas) and we may not have receivers like Bob Long (Texas A&M), but we've got good runners and good receivers," King said.

"But if we've got that one individual who can do something by himself, I just don't know yet. That's something you can't cover in practice."

Bengal Eleven Improving

MIDLAND — Although they were "outscored 5-2" by the Midland Bulldogs in a scrimmage here Friday night, the Snyder Tigers put up a scrappy fight against the heavier boys from a Class AAAA squad.

The only place where it appeared the Bulldogs hurt the Tigers was up the middle where they had a tremendous weight advantage. Still, the Tigers dug in and gave ground reluctantly. Delbert Hirst, a 153-pound guard, looked good blocking a Midland tackle who outweighed him by almost 100 pounds.

Snyder's varsity was able to move the ball well against Midland, both on the ground and through the air. Quarterback Lee McNair connected on several passes, including one scoring pass to Jerry January. Willis Harrison almost got loose after a long reception, and Joe Greer and a couple of ther lads proved they can catch the ball.

Perhaps the biggest surprise of the scrimmage was the way the Tigers were able to move the ball overland. Randy Levens zipped through the big Bulldog line on several nice gainers, including a couple for 10 yards or more. Mitch Rambin almost shook loose once on another nice gambol, and Efrain Cervantez contributed valuable yardage. David McGinnis looked good cracking through the middle of the line, getting yardage the hard way.

Snyder threatened a couple of times after deep drives. On one of these, McGinnis made a spirited run around his right end to about the one yard line. But a couple of penalties pushed the Tigers back and ended the threat. The other "TD" resulted from a quarterback sneak.

Defensively, the Tigers seemed to get tougher as the scrimmage went along. Midland had a hard time completing passes against the Snyder secondary.

Immediately after the scrimmage, Snyder Coach Wayne Tyrone said:

"We learned a lot tonight, and we saw several things we can work on during practice next week."

NFL Tilts Are Close

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The NFL opened its weekend exhibition schedule Friday with three games. The Minnesota Vikings held off New Orleans 20-17 at Shreveport, La., Chicago edged St. Louis 1-17 and Los Angeles edged San Francisco 21-20.

Los Angeles quarterback Roman Gabriel threw first half touchdown passes of 63, 23 and 14 yards and the Rams defense made it stand up in the face of a second half San Francisco rally.

The Vikings turned two fumble recoveries into touchdowns, both scored on runs of 1 and 16 yards by Billy Brown, then fought off a late New Orleans rally.

Mac Percival kicked field goals of 50, 22, 37 and 28 yards —the last with only 3:15 to go, in leading Chicago past St. Louis. Jim Hart hit Dave Williams with St. Louis touchdown passes of 10 and 29 yards.

Card Countdown Delayed

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Keep the champagne on ice, boys. The party's going to be a bit delayed.

St. Louis' pennant countdown was at nine and holding today after the Cardinals dropped both ends of a doubleheader to pursuing San Francisco Friday night.

The Giants beat Bob Gibson 3-2 in the opener and then Juan Marichal won his 25th game in the nightcap, hanging on for an 8-7 decision.

The sweep left the Giants 11½ games behind St. Louis and the Cardinals' magic number remained at nine for clinching a second straight National League flag.

Elsewhere in the NL Friday, Los Angeles swept a doubleheader from Cincinnati 6-4 and 8-6, Atlanta pounded Houston 7-1, Pittsburgh shaded New York 2-1 and Philadelphia topped Chicago 5-2.

In the American League, Chicago topped Baltimore 3-2 in 11 innings, Detroit whipped Minnesota 8-3 for Denny McLain's 28th victory, California stopped Boston 4-0 and Oakland trounced Cleveland 7-0. Washington's game at New York was rained out.

Frank Linzy saved both victories against the Cards, rescuing Bob Bolin in the first game and Marichal in the nightcap.

Jesus Alou singled one run across and Jack Hiatt doubled for another as the Giants hopped on Gibson for a pair of runs in the fourth. Singles by Jim Hart and Hal Lanier produced the deciding run in the sixth.

It was only the second loss for Gibson, 20-7, in his last 20 starts and snapped his latest shutout string at two games and 22 innings.

The Dodgers came from behind twice to sweep the Reds.

In the opener, Jim Lefebvre's three-run homer helped Los Angeles wipe out a 4-0 Cincinnati lead and Ron Fairly's pinch double following Willie Davis' triple drove in the winning run in the seventh inning.

The Reds opened a 5-2 lead in the second game but LA rallied for five runs in the eighth inning to complete the sweep. Wes Parker's two-run single and a run-scoring single by Fairly were the key hits.

Steve Blass stopped the Mets on four hits with Roberto Clemente's fourth inning homer snapping a tie and giving Pittsburgh its victory. Clemente's 15th homer beat Jim McAndrew and gave Blass his 18th victory against five defeats.

Pat Jarvis scattered six hits and Atlanta rapped Houston with Felipe Alou driving in three runs. Alou's two-run single keyed a three-run Brave uprising in the second inning and he knocked in another run with a sacrifice fly in the fourth.

Johnny Briggs and Tony Taylor homered and Rick Wise won his ninth game on a six-hitter as the Phillies bested the Cubs. Briggs' leadoff homer in the ninth broke a 2-2 tie and started a three-run rally for the Phils.

Aerial Owls Have A Chance

By B. F. KELLUM

HOUSTON (AP)—Quarterback Robby Shelton is healthy and if he stays that way Rice University fans believe the Owls have a good chance to win the Southwest Conference football championship.

In an effort to avoid injury Shelton will pass more and run less this season.

Shelton, a 167-pound senior from Palacios, has been plagued with injuries the past two seasons but he feels he is fully recovered.

"I believe my knee is as good as ever and my right shoulder is probably stronger," he said.

Although head coach Bo Hagan feels his Owls are generally improved it is easily understood why he is concerned about Shelton's welfare. Only sophomores back up Shelton at the signal calling spot.

Rice has gone to a double width offense with two split ends, partly to cut down on some of Shelton's running but mainly because of better passing and receiving.

"The only way to restrict Shelton is to take some of the running plays out of the repertoire," said Hagan, beginning his second year as Rice head man. "That's what we have tried to do with our new formation. Now our opposition has a choice. They can put double or single coverage on our split ends. If it's single, we'll be throwing to them. If it's double, we'll be running inside."

"If you line up and try to beat a team running you have to have much superior personnel," he added. "If strength is anywhere near equal, you've got to throw. In college football today the offense has to neutralize the defense in some way."

Hagan said Shelton will be throwing 20 to 25 passes a game.

"He is throwing the ball better than ever," Hagan said.

Hagan called his receivers "The best since I have been here." Hagan has been on the Owl coaching staff since 1956.

"We have guys who can catch it and run with it after they catch it," he said.

With 54 catches last year returning Larry Davis missed by only three of matching Southern Methodist's Jerry Levias' conference leading total. Tailback Macon Hughes, who caught 19, and tight end Dan Van Winkle with 17 last year, also return. Sophomore Jack Faubion ras 9.8 speed, Steve Prichard was a starter as a sophomore. Dickie Phillips is a fine deep receiver and Ronnie Sollock, who backs up Phillips at split end, is a 9.9 sprinter.

In all Rice has 22 lettermen returning and although still short of manpower as compared to other Southwest Conference teams, Hagan feels the Owls are in better condition to withstand injuries this year.

Leland Winston, the biggest Owl at 240 pounds, and Gene Hinyard return at offensive tackle along with Frank Mandola at guard and lettermen Wayne Kennedy and Bobby Plaster at center. Sophomore Tommy Peel is expected to start at the other guard spot. Gene Taubert returns at fullback.

Steve Bradshaw and Gene Auldridge return at defensive tackles, Kent Ulm and Don Marsh are due to start at defensive ends and the top four starting guard candidates are lettermen Richard Pustka and Ken Lefner and sophomores Roger Roitsch and Tommy Counts.

Lettermen Pascual Piedfort, Randy Jinks and Joe Henderson patrol the secondary but they could be pushed by sophomores Chris Hale, Tommy Alexander, David Kaye and Bucky Alexander.

The biggest handicap on defense will be inexperience at linebacker where neither Don Johnson, Ken Pearson, Paul Strahan, nor Monte Hutchison has played a varsity down.

Shelton's backup men at quarterback are sophomores Dennis Alexander, Terry Lee English and Gary Thomas.

Hagan said there is a possibility the Owls could be improved at 18 of 22 positions.

"That would be nine on offense and nine on defense," he said.

Last year Hagan correctly predicted the Owls would improve their 2-8 record of 1966. They did with a 4-6 mark.

"If we can survive injuries we'll better last year's record," he said.

If he's right, the Owls could have their first winning season since 1963.

Shade Helps Livestock In Summer

Livestock perform much better during the hot summer months if they have shade. Cattle do not graze all of the time and during the heat of the day when they are not grazing shade is most beneficial. At the Woodward Experiment Station steers that had shade gained 20 more pounds per head than those that did not have shade.

When brush control is being carried out in pastures care should be taken to leave a few shade trees for livestock shade. These trees would also provide some protection for wildlife.

Getting good distribution of grazing over an entire pasture is another way to increase production from the rangeland. Adequate cross fencing with sufficient watering places and salting away from water are effective management "tools" which help in livestock distribution. These provide for more uniform use of forage allover a pasture.

Carson Balks At Delay Of TV Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Carson says he will not appear on the "Tonight" show on Monday because the National Broadcasting Co. is using some of his regular 90-minute TV time to televise a professional football game.

Carson said in a statement Friday: "My contract with NBC says that my show will begin at 11:30 p.m. and end at 1 a.m.

"Any changes are subject to mutual agreement and they are supposed to notify me of any proposed changes. But just this week I found out that somebody at NBC sold a football game for Monday night and they want me to cut down on my show. I won't do the show any night any more unless it starts at 11:30."

NBC declined comment on Carson's statement.

The American Football League telecast, between the Houston Oilers and the Kansas City Chiefs, will start at 9 p.m. EDT. The game is expected to run between 2½ and 3 hours and will be followed by a half-hour of news.

Ex-Convict Sentenced

BOONE, Iowa (AP) — An ex-convict from Beaumont, Tex., Hubert V. McClelland, 43, was sentenced to life imprisonment Friday on each of three murder charges stemming from a 1967 killing spree.

He pleaded guilty to the slayings of Mrs. Charles Schwad, 41, of Belle Plaine, Leland Skoog, 55, of Elberton and his son, Garith, 24.

Authorities said McClelland's auto collided with a car driven by Mrs. Schwab on a county road near Elberton. Skoog and his son came from their nearby farm to help.

Mrs. Schwab was shot dead and two 11-year-old girls in her car were forced to accompany the gunman as he took the two men to a shack n the next county where he killed them.

McClelland was captured in Cedar Rapids the next day. The two girls were found unharmed in the trunk of the car he was driving.
