Timing is important to just about any type of endeavor known to man, and probably nobody takes advantage of it in better fashion than the people who put out seed catalogs.

We got a couple of them just before the big spell of cold weather hit this week. And if anything enhances the colorful pictures of fruits, vegetables, flowers and shrubs more than a howling norther with blowing sleet and snow outside, it hasn't been discovered.

Strawberries never look better than those pictured in full color in a seed catalog and viewed from the fireside. The same is true of apples, peaches, plums and even squash.

It makes you want to grab a hand full of hoes, rakes and spades and get a garden started. Fortunately, this enthusiasm subsides as the weather moderates later in the season, especially for the experienced seed catalog readers. The seasoned hand knows that the fruit and vegetables never quite reach catalog perfection in natural life, even if they are pampered past drouth and sandstorm. But what a pleasant sight they are from the catalog pages while a norther howls outside.

Another group that takes advantage of the same conditions are the people in the travel bureau of the State of Hawaii. This is a favorite season for them to distribute tantalizing literature showing sun-drenched beaches, liberally sprinkled with bikinis.

But here again, the experienced veteran is content to merely scan the literature. Further action has been known to fracture some sturdy bank accounts.

Aileen Plant In Operation Here

The first products began moving out of the Snyder plant of Aileen, Inc., this morning.

Larry Foster, plant manager, was on hand to greet the first workers at the plant, which is located in temporary quarters at the former Katherine Ryan School here.

The plant here, primarily a stitching operation, will put garments together which have been pre-cut at Abilene. After they are stitched in the Snyder plant, they will be returned to Abilene for shipping to outlets throughout the country.

Aileen, Inc., will employ approximately 100 persons while it is in operation in its temporary facilities. Company officials have indicated that they hope to begin plans promptly on a permanent plant building. It will require a substantial increase in personnel.

Aileen, Inc., is one of the best known manufacturers of women's and childrens wear and is expanding its operations in West Texas, including addition of the Snyder plant as well as considerable expansion of its Abilene complex, including addition of a spinning operation.

Decision to establish the plant in Snyder was made following an extensive labor survey conducted here last November by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce. Temporary plant facilities were arranged through the Scurry County Industrial Foundation which also will provide a site for the firm's permanent plant.

Cold Numbs Texas

Skies cleared and the thermometer plunged lower in Snyder early today as bitter cold numbed the entire state.

The reading here dropped to 10 degrees following a high of only 25 degrees Tuesday.

Thermometers dipped to one degree below zero at Marfa in Southwest Texas, and to one aboye zero at Amarillo in the Panhandle.

A light covering of snow and sleet was disappearing in the Snyder area and travel conditions were improving througout the area.

Freezing weather spread all the way to the upper Texas Coast and to the Coastal Bend.

State patrolmen said one of the most hazardous stretches of highway this morning was U.S. 290 through Junction, Sonora, and Ozona. There were some treacherous patches of ice on many other roads.

At least one death was blamed on the weather at Amarillo, where Glen Ray Kirkland, 2, was asphyxiated as he slept with his family in a home warmed by an open flame heater. His parents, two brothers and a sister were taken to a hospital in serious condition.

Mostly cloudy skies and a little warming were promised throughout the state, but another frigid night was in prospect.

Astronaut Is Hospitalized

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Apollo 16 astronaut Charles M. Duke Jr. is hospitalized with bacterial pneumonia, but he is expected to fly to the moon on schedule in March.

Duke complained of a cold and bad cough Tuesday and was admitted to nearby Patrick Air Force Base hospital.

OF AEROSPACE WORKERS

Labor Contract Veto Reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board was reported today to have vetoed its first labor contract by rejecting by a 9-5 vote a 12 per cent raise for aerospace workers.

An informed source said the board did not roll back the raise to any specific figure. Rather, the source said, it simply turned down a motion by the five labor members to approve the raise.

The board recessed after the vote, leaving open the possibility that it might later set some standard to guide labor and management in renegotiating the matter.

The two unions involved, the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists and the United Auto Workers, have scheduled a strategy session of more than 300 plant negotiators and union representatives for next Saturday in St. Louis. An IAM spokesman said any decision on how to proceed would emerge from that meeting.

The vote was reported to be 9-5 with business members and four public members combining against the labor members. Chairman George H. Boldt, one of the public members, was said to have abstained.

The reported rejection of the 12 per cent raise came after the board debated for a third full day Tuesday about how much to cut it back. The public and business members of the board, reportedly all opposed to the full 12 per cent raise, were unable Tuesday to agree on any specific figure, or even on whether the board has the power to cut raises to a specific figure.

United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock and President Floyd E. Smith of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists, whose union members' raises are at stake, questioned whether the board could legally do more than veto an unacceptable contract.

"I personally believe the board has only the power to say yes or no," said Woodcock, a labor member of the board.

"I raise the same question," said Smith, also a member.

Public member William G. Caples, president of Kenyon College in Ohio, said the board has only a veto power. But Caples said he thinks the board can set standards to guide labor and management in revising any rejected contract to gain acceptance.

Prisoner Release Terms Hardened

HONG KONG (AP) — North Vietnam appeared today to harden its terms for the release of U.S. prisoners.

Hanoi said the United States must abandon its policy of Vietnamizing the war to obtain the prisoners' freedom.

An end to Vietnamization has always been implicit among Communist demands for a final solution in Vietnam. But this is the first time it has linked it with the prisoner issue.

Previously, the Communists at the Paris peace talks had linked a timetable for a U.S. forces withdrawal to the overthrow of President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam.

An end to Vietnamization, the process of training South Vietnamese forces so South Vietnam can defend itself, would, at this stage probably mean the fall of Thieu. President Nixon repeatedly has emphasized the importance of Vietnamization to his withdrawal plans.

CRMWD To Set Fixed Charges

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District will meet in Big Spring at 10 a.m. Jan. 11 to consider fixed charges to the member cities for 1972.

Under terms of the trust indenture, the district establishes fixed charges which, together with a per thousand gallon of water charge, will raise sufficient revenue for operation of the system and retirement of the outstanding bonded indebtedness.

The rate per thousand gallons of water is determined by the fixed charge, plus six cents per thousand gallons to the member cities. Rates of other municipalities generally are geared to those of the member cities.

Records Set By Snyder Banks

Snyder banks set records in both deposits and loans in their yearend statements of condition which were reported today.

The reports, which were announced in response for calls from regulatory agencies, showed deposits totalling $40,997,203.62 as of the close of business for the year 1971, which this time meant Dec. 30 since banks were closed for a holiday on Dec. 31.

This eclipsed the all-time record which had been set on April 20, 1971, when the total was $38,658,258.41 and amounted to a gain of almost $3 million over the yearend statement of 1970 when the total was $38,047,170.36, which at that time was the record high.

Thus, bank deposits here have set records three times in a year.

Loans also were at an all-time high at the close of business for 1971, totalling $19,043,827.67. The previous record for loans was $18,100,358.97 set on June 30, 1970. At the close of business in 1970, the loans totalled $18,022,244.40.

In the statements issued this morning at the close of business for 1971 West Texas State Bank listed deposits of $17,986,203.62 and loans of $7,282,723.90.

Snyder National Bank listed deposits of $23,011.040.14 and loans of $11,761,103.77.

Track Blocked By Train Derailment

Derailment — the bugbear of all railroad men — struck the Santa Fe Railway Co. freight train No. 501 in the east part of Snyder at 4:30 a.m. today, turning two cars over and knocking two others off the track.

A. L. Chambers, section foreman from Snyder, said a draw bar on one of the cars parted. The drabar hit the track and caused the derailment, he added. The 40-car train was enroute from Sweetwater to Amarillo when the mishap occurred.

The 24th and 25th cars from the engine overturned and the next two were knocked off the rails. The cars involved in the derailment included three "hopper" cars and one tank car. All of them were empty. Several other cars on the train were loaded with cement, furniture and feed, but none of the loaded cars was damaged.

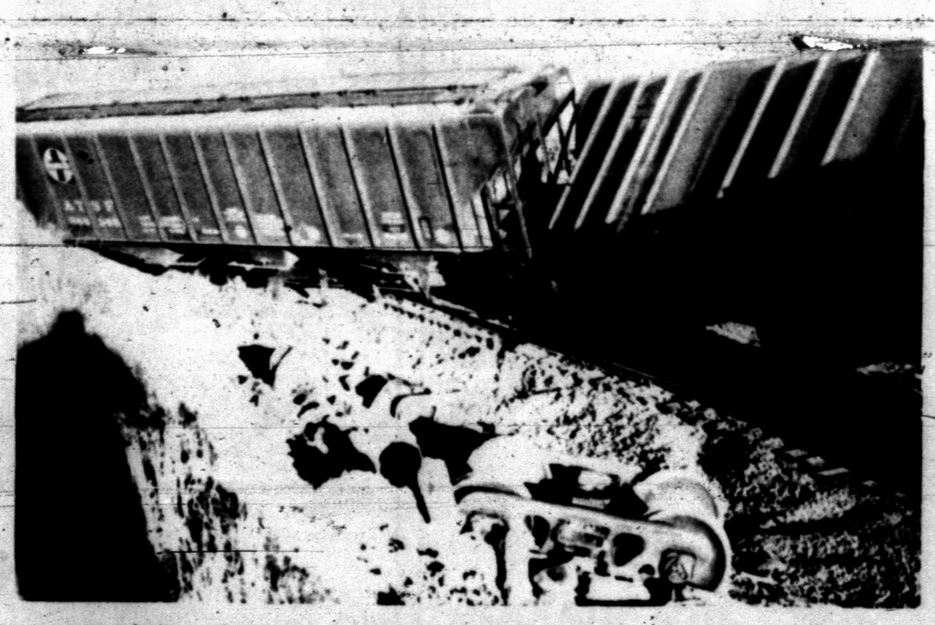

Avon Rushing, local agent for the Santa Fe, said a mechanical force from Slaton and the Snyder section men were called to the scene to begin repairs. The tracks were being cleared by a truck and bulldozer from Musslewhite Trucking Company of Snyder. Rushing said normal service should be restored to the line early this afternoon. There was no necessity to build a "shoo fly" around the crash scene.

Chambers said three 39-foot long rails would have to be replaced. Conductor of the train was Jud Thomas of Slaton. Nobody was injured.

"It's a good thing they slowed down while entering town," said Chambers, "or it could have been worse."

Fifteen of the cars were taken on to Slaton.

Included among other Santa Fe officials who came here in connection with the derailment are P. R. Buchanan, trainmaster from Slaton, and Joe Thompson, roadmaster from Lubbock.

KNOCKED OFF TRACK—These two hopper cars were knocked off the track during a derailment on the 1400 mile Santa Fe Railway Co. line in the east part of Snyder at 4:30 a.m. today. The derailment occurred on tracks that run parallel to the East Highway. Wheels from one of the cars can be seen in the foreground. Section men from Snyder and a mechanical force from Slaton began repairs immediately after the track was cleared. All of the cars involved in the derailment were empty, and nobody was injured.

TRAIN DERAILMENT—A tank car and hopper car overturned during a derailment of Santa Fe Railway Co. west-bound freight train No. 501 out of Sweetwater at 4:30 a.m. today, A Musslewhite Trucking Company winch truck (in background) was used to pull the cars from the track. Santa Fe officials expected normal service to be resumed on the line early this afternoon.

What does a secretary do with pornography?

By Abigail Van Buren

(c) 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Your reply to the secretary whose boss received pornographic mail was, in my opinion, shortsighted. The secretary's job is to assist her boss in his business duties, not to be forced to participate in his voyeurism.

Having had the same experience myself, I threw away the literature and photographs—choosing to believe that it was unsolicited mail rather than believe that the man I was expected to show respect for had thoughtlessly [or intentionally] subjected me to the trash that came in the mail addressed to him.

One day he asked me if that was all the mail there was because he had been expecting something else. It was then that I learned that he had actually sent for this pornography! I promptly admitted that some had come, but I had been throwing it away. He seemed shocked.

Then I asked him why he didn't have that stuff delivered to his home, and he replied, "My wife would be offended—she doesn't share my interest in voyeurism." I told him that I didn't either, and that I felt that I deserved no less consideration and respect than his wife.

This opened the door, conversationally, for him to tell me about his dreams and fantasies which involved me. It was apparent that he felt he was sharing with me an imagined experience which he thought I would find flattering. [People who get their kicks "watching," also enjoy talking about it.]

I quit my job, but the problem of what to tell prospective employers about why I left a top-paying job as secretary to the president of a well-known company plagued me, so once again, it is the woman who pays. Nuts to you, Abby! "HAPPIER IN MY NEW JOB"

DEAR ABBY: The first time I came across pornography, I was working for the president of a large corporation. He was a very proper gentleman and a very shy one. Some mail came, and I opened it routinely. When all the filth fell out, I didn't know whether to put it on my boss's desk with the rest of his mail, or not. After pondering about it all day, I tore it up into tiny pieces and buried them at the bottom of the wastepaper basket.

From that time on, if any mail came that looked as tho it might contain pornographic material, I opened it partially to make sure, and if my suspicions were correct, I would seal it back up again and leave it on my boss's desk UNOPENED with the rest of his mail.

Since my boss never instructed me to throw away any envelopes that looked like those containing pornography, I had to assume that he had sent for it.

Since all this stuff is put on his desk UNOPENED, at least I am spared the embarrassment of having my boss think that I had seen it, too. PROBLEM SOLVED

DEAR ABBY: The question about what a secretary should do when she has been instructed to open all her boss's mail and throw away the junk is a puzzling one—when her boss gets pornographic mail.

I know many competent secretaries who have had this problem, and you have no idea how many of them, right or wrong, destroy pornography to avoid embarrassment to themselves and their bosses.

If the bosses WANT to receive this type of literature [which is their privilege] why can't they arrange to have it sent to a post office box, or elsewhere, to spare their secretaries possible embarrassment?

If they don't want any part of it, why don't they instruct their secretaries to throw it away? Maybe we could hear from some of the bosses on this subject?

SLIGHTLY PUZZLED

Organized Crime Slips Into State

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Organized crime has slipped into Texas on several fronts, including narcotics, securities swindlings and gambling, a crime expert says.

Joe Phillips, chief counsel of the U.S. House Select Committee on Crime, also says the Mexican border presents special problems in fighting organized crime.

There is "tentative evidence" that recent gangland-style slayings in the Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, area across the Rio Grande from Laredo are part of a battle over narcotics smuggling into the United States, Phillips said here Tuesday.

He told a news conference that the ease in crossing the Mexican border plays a part in organized crime activities.

"People of an extremely dangerous nature are coming across the border to murder someone and then going back across," he said.

He also warned that action by the Justice Department to reduce the production of amphetamines by 40 per cent can be expected to produce an increased illegal flow of such narcotics from Mexico.

Here to meet with a special county grand jury on organized crime, Phillips also warned of so-called mob elements in the heart of Texas.

Three Mishaps Are Reported

City Police investigated one motor vehicle mishap this morning and two yesterday. All of them involved minor damage.

This mishap this morning occurred on the parking lot at the Beacon Lodge at 10:10 a.m. Involved were the 1968 Model Pontiac of Lottie M. Patterson, 1607½ Twenty-eighth Street, and the 1963 Model Rambler of Yvonne A. Everts, 3112 Avenue C. Officer Homer Dill investigated this collision.

Farmers' Signups Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department policy makers will have an opportunity to look over a special survey report on spring plantings before they start enrolling farmers in 1972 programs for feed grain, wheat and cotton.

Farmers signups in the crop program were scheduled to begin Jan. 17 at county offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and continue through Feb. 25.

But now, officials said Tuesday, the signup will be delayed more than two weeks. It will begin on Feb. 3 and continue through March 10.

Meantime, the USDA plans to issue a Jan. 27 report which will show how many acres farmers in key states intend to plant this spring to 1972 crops of corn, spring wheat, oats, barley, soybeans, cotton and flax.

Plane Crash Survivor Found Floating On Raft

LIMA, Peru (AP) — A 17-year-old girl survived an airliner crash in the Peruvian jungle on Christmas Eve, wandered for days in the tropical rain forest, swam across flooded areas and waded through swamps, then built a raft that carried her to a woodcutters' camp.

Juliane Koepcke, the daughter of two noted German-born ornithologists, was brought to the jungle colony of Tournavista Tuesday by two woodcutters who found her semiconscious, floating down the Pachitea River aboard the log and vine raft. From there she was flown to a U.S. missionary center at Pucallpa, 500 miles northeast of Lima, and reunited with her father.

Her mother is missing in the crash.

Juliane's father, Dr. Hans Koepcke, and her mother had lived in Peru for more than 20 years and were the leading authorities on Peruvian birds.

The girl was reported suffering from hunger, exhaustion, cuts and bruises, but she seemed to be in fair shape. She had made many trips in the jungle with her parents, and the couple she lived with while attending high school in Lima.

So far she is the only survivor of 92 persons who were aboard an Electra turboprop that crashed 12 days ago on a flight from Lima to Pucallpa and Iquitos. Aerial and ground searchers redoubled their efforts today, seeking the wreckage, but officials said there was no indication the girl saw any other survivors.

The plane was operated by a Peruvian airline, Lineas Aereas Nacionales, and five U.S. citizens from the missionary center at Pucallpa were among the passengers.

Amanda de Pina, a nurse at a medical post in Tournavista, said Juliane had only a partial memory of the crash and her harrowing 10-day trek through the jungle. She remembered looking out the window and seeing an engine afire, then the airliner lurched and she suddenly found herself flying through the air.

The next thing the girl remembered, the nurse said, was waking up amid the wreckage, still strapped to her seat and covered by the bodies of three or four other passengers.

Freeing herself from the seat and bodies, the terrified girl ran from the scene, stopping only to pick up a Christmas cake which she had been bringing to her father.

Suffering from a number of cuts, the girl walked for several days following a stream, sometimes swimming across flooded areas and wading through swamps.

The cake lasted three days. After that Juliane ate nothing, the nurse said.

Finally she arrived at the Pachitea River, a tributary of the Amazon. There the young survivor built a crude raft of logs tied together with vines and launched it into the current.

It was not immediately known how many days Juliane spent aboard the raft, but the woodcutters—Amado Pereyra and Marcio Ribera—reported that she was scarcely able to identify herself when she reached their camp Monday.

Notices On Auto Tags Are Out

License plate renewal notices are being mailed out from Austin, according to an announcement by Don Adams, Scurry County tax assessor-collector.

He asked local residents who wish to mail in their applications to check the renewal notices for accuracy before they mail them in. When you mail in your application, you should also include $1 for each set of tags to handle mailing costs, and the amount of the registration fee, which will be printed on the renewal notice.

If you mail in your application for tags, then the county tax office will mail back your tags after Feb. 1.

Persons who wish to apply for the licenses in person are asked to wait until after Feb. 1 and then bring their renewal notices with them. If you don't get a renewal notice, you should come by the office in person and bring your car title and license receipt with you.

"If you no longer own the vehicle described in the renewal notice, then destroy the notice," Adams suggested.

Adams said the tax office issued about 14,000 license plates last year, including 8,500 to 9,000 for passenger cars.

Promoters Missed Unseen Pants

NEW YORK (AP) — Walter Cronkite says the fashion promoters who voted him one of the nation's best dressed men didn't know about the pants he wears as anchor man for his nightly television news program on CBS.

"So far as I know, this distinction was earned entirely by straightening my tie and putting on a jacket just before the TV camera turns on every night," Cronkite said Tuesday in a daily essay on CBS Radio.

Cronkite said the citation from the Fashion Foundation of America credited him with banishing the "baggy-tweed reporter concept," but he protested: "What they don't know, of course, is that my unseen pants still fall in that category."

Library Grants Distributed

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Grants totaling $1,514,400 were distributed to 158 Texas libraries from funds allocated to Texas in 1971 under the federal library Services and Construction Act.

Distribution was announced by Dr. Dorman H. Winfrey, director of the Texas State Library, the state agency that administers the program.

In order to receive grants, libraries must meet criteria for local support, Winfrey stressed. In 1970, the last year for which data are available, local funds for public library service amounted to slightly more than $20 million.

The grants range in size from $129,500 to Houston Public Library, which serves nearly a million and a quarter people, to grants for $1,500 to a number of libraries serving a few thousand. In no case did a grant total more than 20 per cent of the local funds. A number of libraries which did not qualify for cash grants will receive books from the extension loan collection.

Italian Restaurant Has A Homey Touch

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer

Two affable brothers from Italy have busied themselves over the past 16 years running a cozy little bistro in New York that seems more like a social club than a restaurant.

When I dropped into La Strada East on Third Ave., and 22nd Street a couple of weeks ago, I was struck by the intimate atmosphere of the restaurant which seats only 50 persons.

Patrons table hop to chat with friends or stop to exchange pleasantries with Frank De Rose who runs the bar. His brother, Louis, presides over the kitchen.

The brothers describe their cuisine as Italian with continental overtones and it runs heavily to seafood.

Louis De Rose started learning the rudiments of cooking when he was only 10, helping out in a restaurant his family operated in Calabria, Italy.

By the time he was 13 and had arrived in America, Louis could whip up a pretty good meal and had already created a number of recipes of his own. But school kept him busy in his new homeland and his culinary activities were limited for the next few years to weekends and summer vacations working in a restaurant run by his brother-in-law.

After he graduated from school, Louis began working in some of New York's restaurants, first as an assistant cook and then as head chef.

In 1955, Louis and brother Frank opened La Strada East and word soon got around that here was a place where one could get good Italian food, with an accent on pasta.

Most American pasta is produced in factories controlled by Americans of Italian descent, so our domestic products usually are as good as those of Italy. But unfortunately many restaurants here, including some Italian ones, serve what could be a fine pasta dish improperly drained with a watery tomato sauce atop.

This is not a failing of La Strada which is noted for its specialty of seafood and an oversize macaroni known as ziti.

ZITI A LA STRADA

1 pound ziti
10 large cherrystone clams raw
½ pound lobster meat fresh or frozen
½ pound cooked shrimp
1 cup olive oil
4 cloves garlic
1 medium can Italian tomatoes
salt, pepper, oregano, chopped parsley

Brown 2 cloves crushed garlic in pan in ½ cup olive oil. Add lobster, clams, shrimp. Cook ziti in pot of boiling water until half-done. Add ziti to seafood and steam 5 minutes on low flame with pan covered. Two minutes before completion add 2 dippers sauce.

SAUCE: Brown 2 cloves crushed garlic in pan with rest of olive oil. Add tomatoes and cook 20 minutes on low fire. Five minutes before done add salt, papper, oregano and parsley. Serves 5. Good with a chilled Soave Bolla.

Corporate Prospectus To Be Examined By SEC

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Soon to be examined by the securities and Exchange Commission is a corporate prospectus that in all probability will contain the warning: "These securities involve the highest degree of risk."

Investors in risky enterprises generally are enticed by the prospects of profits or dividends. But, rather than distributing its profits, this company intends to plow them right back into product development.

Financial dividends will be modest. There will be no extras of any kind. In fact, the greatest reward for those who risk their money will be satisfaction, because the company's product is so good.

Nevertheless, the founders are concerned that demand for the stock could cause its price to soar, bringing it to be labeled, embarassingly, a glamor stock. "That could be a serious image problem," they say.

A traditional assessment of such a company would have to be negative. Its proponents would be considered naive, its future would be deemed almost without hope. And that is just what many people thought at first.

Now that The Public Equity Corp. is about to enter registration, the attitudes are changing. Rather than being visionaries, as first thought, the founders are seen to be men of knowledge, business acumen and level-headedness.

If the company does succeed in going public, and selling 2.5 million shares at $10 each, it will mark a milestone in the development of capitalism—a public corporation that lives off correcting the sins of capitalism.

It assumes that the abuses of the system—the faulty products, fraud, pollution, human misery—are best corrected by legal challenges from an equally powerful corporate counterforce that would file class action, triple-damage suits.

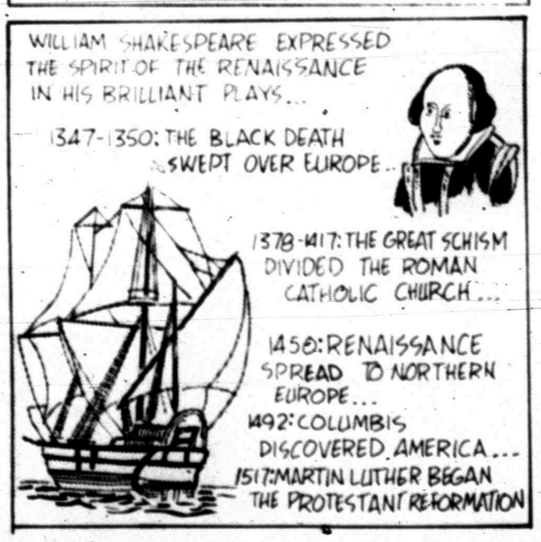

Thomas Mechling, fomer Democratic senatorial nominee from Nevada, public affairs consultant, public relations man—for the National Association of Manufacturers—is largely responsible for bringing the idea to its present stage.

It will be the public, however, which determines the future, and so the most critical time for the embryo corporation will occur in late spring or summer, when shares likely will go on sale.

Nobody can really say at this time how strongly or weakly the public will support the offering. Investors generally have managed in the past to separate their moral convictions from their investment goals.

Oldtime Wall Streeters say any hot new issue is fueled by hopes if not greed for profit. A new corporation offering only public good will not satisfy private yearnings.

Junior Editors Quiz on THE RENAISSANCE

QUESTION: What was the Renaissance?

ANSWER: The word renaissance is the French word for "rebirth." This period of rebirth took place in Europe between the 14th and 16th centuries. The era has been hailed as the beginning of modern times. During the Renaissance, there was a great revival of interest in art, music, literature and science. A great concern with the culture of Rome and Greece developed and showed itself in the arts. This was influenced by the fall of Constantinople in 1453, at which time many Greek and Roman manuscripts were salvaged and added to the knowledge of the classics in Europe.

A new school of thought known as humanism emerged. People became more interested in this world and less concerned about life in the hereafter. This paved the way for a revolt against the Roman Catholic Church and the establishment of the Protestant religion.

Nationalism became an important force in Europe. There was considerable business transacted and people began to use coined money. The Renaissance started in Italy and spread to the other countries of Europe. Petrach and Boccacio were noted writers of the era in Italy, and Rabelais and Montaigne in France.

The printing press was invented in this era and helped to diffuse knowledge. Many brilliant artists worked in this age, such as Leonardo da Vinci, Michaelangelo, Raphael, Botticelli, Cellini and others. The Renaissance was also the age of exploration and discovery, with Spain and Portugal leading in this activity.

Facts Arrive In Mail

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

A pilot car has been delivered in Japan that won't let itself be driven by drunken drivers. A device built into the steering wheel sniffs a driver's breath. If the driver has drunk too much, the device automatically stops the car's engine.

Egyptians are among the world's top movie-goers. They attend an average of 19 films a year, compared with seven times for the average American.

Supermarkets are becoming more like department stores than the simple grocery stores of yesteryear. Of the 8,500 items stocked by a typical supermarket, 38 per cent were non-edible and ranged from hair sprays and medicines to rawhide bones for dogs.

Know your language: What is the origin of "bungalow"? India is the home of bungalows, one story houses with verandas. Our word for them comes from the Hindi "bangla," which means "belonging to Bengal."

How calm do we want to get? Americans now swallow 200 million prescriptions a year for psychoactive drugs designed to alleviate their anxiety, frustration, agitation, or mental depression.

Ancient barrier: How long was the Great Wall of China? Well, if it were built in the United States, says the National Geographic Society, it would stretch from Washington, D. C., southward and westward clear across Texas into New Mexico.

The mind at sleep: Don't scorn dreams as useless phantasies of the unconscious mind. Coleridge wrote his famous poem "Kubla Khan" and Elias Howe solved the problem of making a workable sewing machine as the result of vivid dreams.

Exit lines: "If I had strength to hold a pen, I would write down how easy and pleasant a thing it is to die," said famed Dr. William Hunter. "Why weep you?" said King Louis XIV on his deathbed. "Did you think I should live forever? I thought dying would be harder."

Sandra Loses Fight For Life

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Sandra Bobbitt, whose struggle against a rare respiratory ailment prompted donations totaling nearly $10,000, died late Tuesday night, a hospital spokesman said.

The young woman had been under treatment here since late August for an affliction which frequently caused her to stop breathing while asleep.

Miss Bobbitt, 25, of San Antonio died at 11:30 p.m., the hospital spokesman reported.

He said death was "not anticipated," adding that doctors had been trying to prepare her for a planned trip to New Haven, Conn., for surgery to implant a special device that could correct her breathing difficulties.

When news accounts of Miss Bobbitt's illness appeared shortly before the Christmas holidays, donations poured into Bexar County Hospital. Doctors said Yale University Medical Center at New Haven could perform the necessary surgery free of charge but could not pay the $1,500 cost of the special device.

The hospital spokesman said the cause of death was not determined at once.

The original name of the bass was barse.

"Cotton" Moffett Dies At 76

VERNON, Tex. (AP) — The state solon whose vigorous efforts in behalf of the Texas cotton industry earned him his nickname is dead at the age of 76.

Retired Sen. George "Cotton" Moffett collapsed as he entered the post office Tuesday, apparently the victim of a heart attack.

Moffett served 34 years in the state legislature, first as a state representative and then as the senator from the 23rd Senatorial District in 1939 until 1964.

He sponsored legislation that made Midwestern University a four-year, state-supported school and was on the Wichita Falls institution's board of regents when he died.

Moffett was closely identified with livestock and other agricultural legislation. He also spoke for oil, gas and veterans interests.

His senatorial district included Hardeman, Wichita, Cottle, Foard, King, Knox, Baylor, Archer, Throckmorton, Young and Dickens counties.

Survivors include his widow, Ruth; son, Frank Moffett; and a daughter, Joy Moffett Angel of San Angelo.

Robertson Is Top Defender

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Isiah Robertson wasn't on the National Football League's statistical charts—but the Los Angeles Rams' outside linebacker was all over enemy quarterbacks, receivers and running backs.

That blitzing, fumble-forcing and pass-wrecking game which he played throughout the year earned Robertson the runaway selection today as The Associated Press Defensive Rookie of the Year.

The 6-foot-3, 225-pounder from Southern University in Baton Rouge, La., a first-round pick on a draft choice obtained from the Washington Redskins, garnered 37 of the 60 votes by a nationwide panel of sports writers and sports broadcasters.

His closest challenger was the American Conference's top vote-getter, linebacker Phil Villapiano of the Oakland Raiders with seven, followed by defensive backs Tom Hayes of Atlanta with five and Clarence Scott of Cleveland with four, defensive back Jack Tatum of Oakland and defensive tackle Julius Adams of New England with three votes apiece and defensive back Jack Ham of Pittsburgh with one.

"Isiah could be all-pro in his rookie year," teammate David "Deacon" Jones said early in the season. "He has great speed and potential. He's the best No. 1 choice I've seen since I've been with the Rams," the 11-year defensive end added.

It took a while for Robertson to get going, linebacker coach Tom Catlin said. "Isiah wasted six weeks this summer. He spent three in the College All-Star camp and, when he got here, he just wasn't putting out—he was sleepwalking."

He didn't even start the Rams' first two games, playing behind veteran John Perigine. "If you're not a starter when the regular season begins," Coach Tommy Prothro said, "usually there are only two ways you can get to play—if there's an injury or your No. 1 man plays badly. You simply don't have much of a chance to prove yourself in practice by that time."

Robertson got his chance when Pergine suffered a hyperextended elbow and he caught fire immediately, intercepting a pass in that game and the next two and showing great speed and lateral pursuit that prompted Catlin to revise his earlier comments.

"I've said many times there isn't anything this kid can't do."

Oiler Coach Believes In Hard-Hitting

HOUSTON C(AP) — Jackie Simpson, the Houston Oilers' new defensive coordinator, says you can't beat people by trying to fool them—and he certainly doesn't plan to be foolish.

"You can't be a championship team by trying to fool people every week," said Simpson, who Tuesday became the first assistant named to the Oiler staff by new head coach Bill Peterson.

"I don't believe in over-complicating," Simpson said. "It's execution that wins games for you—hitting harder, tackling better and pursuing better."

Simpson, who has been a defensive coach with the San Diego Chargers the past five years, said some teams try to use too many defenses.

"Some teams try to run every defense that is known to man," Simpson said. "And they wind up being master of none of them. Most teams play about five different coverages and that's what we'll do."

Simpson said his defense would also run about five different fronts with stunts off each.

"I have certain ideas I'd like to carry out but I don't think it will be anything new," Simpson said.

Simpson, who spent four years playing in Canada and four years as a linebacker at Oakland before entering coaching, was already on the job watching films when announcement of his appointment was made.

"I personally feel we have seven good athletes in the secondary," Simpson said. "I haven't seen too much of the front four, but I know (Mike) Tilleman is a good one and so is Elvin Bethea.

"The secondary has played together just long enough to be able to work together. About all I have to do is get them together and show them what we want done."

Simpson, 35, played offensive guard at Ole Miss before going to the CFL. "They kept telling me I was too small to play in the NFL," Simpson said. "But the money was better up there too."

Simpson got acquainted with Peterson during his coaching days at San Diego when Peterson was head coach at Florida State.

Porkers Lose, Ponies Win

By The Associated Press

It was close but no cigar for the Arkansas Razorbacks Tuesday night, while Southern Methodist should award a prize cigar to benchwarmer Rick Ballik in its victory over the Oklahoma Sooners.

Ballik, a sophomore guard, came off the bench in overtime to hit a perfect six-for-six free throws and the Mustangs took a 96-92 win in Dallas.

In Starkville, Miss., Arkansas lost a close one to Mississippi State 79-75 and incurred its ninth loss in non-conference play. The Razorbacks' 3-9 intersectional record is the worst of any SWC team.

With the SMU victory offsetting the Razorback defeat, the conference still has a mark of better than .500 per cent against non-conference opponents.

ROOKIE OF YEAR RELAXES — John Brockington, former Ohio State University football star now with Green Bay Packers, is shown relaxing in his Columbus apartment and playing with daughter Terry, 4, Tuesday after he was named by The Associated Press as the National Football League Offensive Rookie of the Year. Brockington is enrolled as an education student in winter term at Ohio State. (AP Wirephoto)

John Brockington Is Top Offensive Rookie

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "I did a good job but I still can improve," said John Brockington, named Tuesday as the NFL Offensive Rookie of the Year by The Associated Press after setting a first-year rushing record for Green Bay.

"I did a lot of learning this year about pro football in general, finding out what I can do," the husky 23-year-old Ohio State University senior added. "I want to try to get more yardage next year.

"I want to be a better man in the passing game. I want to help the Packers get back on top of the league."

Brockington's 1,105 yards rushing—he was the fourth rookie in pro history to gain 1,000 yards—was one of the few good things to happen to Green Bay this season. They ended with a 4-8-2 record, the worst since 1958 for the Packers.

Brockington, a 6-foot-1, 225-pounder was the overwhelming selection for offense rookie honors by a nationwide panel of sports writer and sportscasters. He amassed 43½ votes out of 60 cast. Jim Plunkett, quarterback for the New England Patriots, was runnerup with 14½ votes. The other two votes went to Vic Washington of the San Francisco 49ers and John Riggins of the New York Jets.

Brockington rushed for more than 100 yards in four different games, including a 142-yard effort on 30 carries in a 17-14 win over the Chicago Bears Nov. 7.

In the Dec. 12 game against the Bears at Green Bay he snapped the 1,000-yard mark.

"I got the least yards against Miami the next week," Brockington said. He couldn't recall what that distance was. Game records show he rushed for 73 yards agaist the Dolphins.

"Considering it was my first year in pro ball," he said, "I feel I did a good job, but I still can improve. I know that.

Brockington, married and the father of a 4-year-old daughter, said he still needs 20 hours of academic work to graduate and plans to spend the next two quarters at Ohio State. He's working on a degree in education and hopes some day to become a history teacher.

Green Bay acquired Brockington by getting an earlier draft pick in a deal that sent quarterback Don Horn to Denver for lineman Alden Roche.

Coach Dan Devine said that while the Packers knew Brockington was talented, his big year surprised them.

"I'd have to say he was a pleasant suprise, although we knew right away when we first looked at him in our spring camp in Arlington, Tex., that we had something special," Devine said.

Rice To Get Rice Job?

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Homer Rice, athletic director at North Carolina, will shortly be named head football coach and athletic director at Rice University, the Raleigh News and Observer said it had learned Tuesday night.

Bangladesh Refugees Are Returning Home

By DENNIS NEELD
Associated Press Writer

COMILLA, Bangladesh (AP) — Burdened with their bundles and small children, their blackened cooking pots and oil lamps and battered umbrellas, the refugees of Bangladesh are coming home.

They come in trucks and buses, in long processions of bicycle rickshaws.

At first, after the surrender of the Pakistani army last month, only the venturesome crossed from India to homes close to the border.

Now the trickle has become a stream. The Bangladesh government hopes to have all 10 million refugees home by April, in time to plant next season's rice.

Many return to homes burnt or ransacked. Peasant farmers have lost their few cattle and oxen, fishermen their nets and craftsmen their tools.

At a transit camp in Comilla, several thousand refugees rested among their bundles, awaiting transport to distant towns and villages. They lined up patiently for packets of cookies, cans of fish and milk, and rations of rice and molasses.

There were malaria pills for all who needed them but no other medical services.

An International Red Cross team arrived from Dacca in gleaming white jeeps to assess the refugees' health requirements.

Women with babies balanced on their hips gathered their other children around them and squeezed into crowded buses. Their menfolk collected tin trunks and rush mats and what little else they had salvaged and piled them precariously atop the buses.

For refugees with homes near Comilla, it was a rickshaw ride the rest of the way. Long lines of them straggled along the roads for miles around. The refugees traveling two and three to a vehicle with their chattels on their laps.

Some came back with chickens and even goats. One man carried the sign for his shop.

Rai Mohan Das is 45, a haggard, bearded Hindu who earned a living making cigarettes from local tobacco rolled in leaf. Until he fled to India last April, he lived with a score of relatives in the village of Keronkhal, a few miles from Comilla.

Now Das and his relatives were returning home. They left the rickshaws at the main road and made their way silently on foot through rice paddies and banana groves to the village.

They found their huts stripped bare, sheets of tin roofing ripped away and not a stick of furniture left.

Das looked around bleakly.

"We have suffered much," he said. "Now we are home and our lives begin again. We ask only for peace."

As he spoke, the cooking pots were being unpacked and the fires rekindled in Karonkhal and countless other villages in Bangladesh.

Three NY Banks Cut Prime Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — Three major New York banks cut their prime lending rates Tues. to 5 per cent from 5¼ per cent.

Bankers Trust Co., Chase Manhattan Bank and Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. announced they were reducing the minimum interest they charge their most credit-worthy corporate customers to keep it in line with short-term money rates. These rates had been falling recently.

The three banks followed the lead of Irving Trust Co., which announced a similar cut Friday, which went into effect Monday.

At present, most major banks still offer a prime rate of 5¼ per cent.

Fans Bid Farewell To Chevalier

PARIS (AP) — Friends and admirers bade adieu to Maurice Chevalier today at the simple funeral ceremonies the famed showman had requested.

Police feared as many as 30,000 persons might invade the village of Marnes la Coquette, on the western edge of Paris, but fewer than 1,000 assembled behind the metal barriers in the square before the tiny Church of Ste. Eugenie, which is 500 yards from Chevalier's luxurious home.

Inside the church were about 150 invited guests, including Princess Grace of Monaco, former boxing champion Georges Carpentier, and Cultural Minister Jacques Duhamel.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur K. Watson sent a large spray of carnations which was on display outside the church. He was represented at the funeral by Cultural Attache Russell Harris.

Chevalier, who created the image of the Parisian boulevardier with his tuxedo, straw hat and walking stick, died Saturday at 83 after three weeks under treatment for a kidney blockage. He requested that the funeral be simple and discreet.

One of the floral decorations was a straw hat made of yellow narcissus.

Delta Plane Checked Out

HOUSTON (AP) — Aircrews of Delta Air Lines who flew a plane which contained a leaking shipment of radioactive medical isotopes on a flight last weekend have been checked and found free of radioactive contamination, a Delta official said Tuesday.

Benton G. Wells, district director for Delta here, announced the results of the tests conducted at M.D. Anderson Hospital & Tumor Institute here.

He said the company had been advised by officials of the Atomic Energy Commission that there was no danger to any passengers or employes involved with the air shipment from New York to Houston.

The plane, a 96-passenger Convair 880, was in Houston about four hours, then made eight passengers stops in five states before the leak was discovered.

States Pouring Funds Into Higher Education

By WILLIAM J. WAUGH
AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A national survey shows states are pouring more money into higher education, but that most of it is going to small colleges rather than major state universities.

The survey of the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges released today shows the 50 states have raised appropriations to higher education by 24 per cent in the 1971-72 school year.

But, it shows, of the 94 major universities included, 71 received increases less than the percentage of increase for the state higher education system as a whole.

Fifty-four of the major schools received budget increases of below 10 per cent, an amount the association insists is the bare minimum to maintain current operating levels.

The largest increases over previous budgets went to the two-year schools and state colleges.

The survey was analyzed by Dr. M.M. Chambers, University of Indiana professor.

Chambers reported that the states' failure to supply required budget increases has caused cuts in staff, maintenance, student services and other activities at many large state schools.

As an example, he said, the University of California will cut more than 500 teachers, researchers and staff personnel. Colorado State University already has dropped 75 staff members, and Washington State University has pared 171 teaching positions.

The study ranks the 50 states according to per-capita appropriations for higher education costs. Hawaii, with a per-person assessment of $81.12, ranks first, and New Hampshire, with $17.06, is last.

Other top-ranked states include Alaska with $68.42; Washington with $56.28; Wyoming with $54.35, and Arizona with $53.61.

Arkansas, New Jersey and Massachusetts join New Hampshire with per-capita appropriations below $30.

Chambers predicted that the need to increase funding will continue for at least a decade because of rising enrollments, a growing need for more education for each person, and the rising number of women, poor people and minority races demanding advanced education.

Tower Discounts Reports

ALPINE, Tex. (AP) — The "assumption always was" that Treasury Secretary John Connally would leave his post at the end of President Nixon's current term, Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said Tuesday.

"I expect him to remain as secretary through this year," commented Tower, who is making a tour of speaking engagements in Southwest Texas.

Tower also discounted speculation that Connally, a Democrat, will be the President's running mate in the 1972 elections.

He said any such possibility was "nipped in the bud" Sunday night in a television interview of the President, who expressed confidence in Vice President Agnew at that time.

Like the President, Tower must also run for re-election this year, and he appeared unconcerned in Alpine in regard to reports former U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough may be his November opponent.

"I don't know what Sen. Yarborough's plans are, but I made up my mind long ago to conduct my campaign in a certain way, no matter who ran against me," Tower remarked.

John Wayne Top Box Office Star

NEW YORK (AP) — John Wayne has been chosen the No. 1 boxoffice star of 1971 in a mail poll conducted by Motion Picture Herald, a movie industry trade publication.

The survey asks theater owners to list 10 top money-making stars for the year.

Wayne was followed, in order, by Clint Eastwood, Paul Newman, Steve McQueen, George C. Scott, Dustin Hoffman, Walter Matthau, Ali McGraw—the only actress among the top 10—Sean Connery and Lee Marvin.

Outlook Favorable For Optometrist

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: I am a sophomore in college and wonder what the prospects are for a woman to become an optometrist? Are there many now? What are the educational requirements? -- E.M.D., Austin, Tex.

An optometrist (Doctor of Optometry) examines the eyes and related structures to determine the presence of vision problems, eye diseases, or other abnormalities. This eye specialist prescribes and adapts lenses, contact lenses, or other optical aids. An optometrist may use visual training aids, when indicated, to preserve, restore or enhance maximum efficiency of vision.

An optometrist does not prescribe drugs or practice surgery, as does an ophthalmologist. (An ophthalmologist is a physician specializing in eye care.)

At present, only about 2.5 percent of the nearly 18,000 optometrists in the American Optometric Association (AOA – the professional organization) are women. This percentage is likely to go up in future years because optometry is a particularly attractive career for women. Some advantages:

The hours are regular and can be flexible for the woman with a family. The work is not physically demanding. There are no emergency calls in the middle of the night. The income is good. (Recent AOA statistics show $11,000 after expenses during the first year of practice; $25,000 and up after the practice has been established. About 90 percent of optometrists are in private practice.)

Several reasons why the outlook is favorable for optometrists: An increase in older citizens, the recognition of the need for good vision in the learning development of children and a larger population of white-collar workers.

To become a Doctor of Optometry, a minimum of 6 years beyond high school is required. The 4-year professional program must be preceded by at least 2 years of preoptometric study at an accredited college, university, or 2-year community or junior college. English, math, physics, chemistry, and biology are a few of the courses required in the preoptometric study. Currently, there are 12 optometric schools and colleges in the U.S.

FOR MORE INFORMATION. The American Optometric Association will send you free career literature. To request, send a postcard to Joyce Lain Kennedy at this newspaper, asking for "AOA." Allow several weeks for delivery.

Dear Joyce: I am a man who would like information about optical dispensing. What training is required and where can it be obtained? What is the difference, if any, between an optician and a dispensing optician? -- R.M.J., Seattle, Wash.

An optician does not examine or prescribe for the eyes. Instead, he fills the prescriptions of ophthalmologists and optometrists by fabricating glasses and contact lenses. He (or she) learns through apprenticeship or informal on-the-job training, vocational schools or at 2-year community or junior colleges. Optician is the broad title for all types of opticians. The optical mechanic (also called an optical lab technician) actually makes the glasses and lenses. The dispensing optician works with customers, making certain that the glasses follow the prescription and fit properly. For career details, write to: Guild of Prescription Opticians, 1250 Connecticut Ave. NW, Washington, D.C. 20036.

TURNS TAIL TO WIND — Tumbleweeds blown into a fence corner by northerly gusts nearing 40 m.p.h. afford a windbreak for a horse near Wichita Falls. Chill factor was about 30 below zero Tuesday morning as light snow and sleet made weather unfit for man or horse. (AP Wirephoto)

United States, Brazil Operating A Hot Line

BRASILIA (AP) — The United States and Brazil are operating a hot line and taking other steps to prevent the fishing war on the west coast of South America from spreading east.

The communications link gives Brazilian officials rapid access to U.S. officials in Brazil, and they in turn can report instantly to Washington.

At the same time—despite public denials—the two governments are looking the other way when potential incidents arise.

The tacit agreement reflects U.S. and Brazilian desire not to let stray fishing boats or occasional passage by U.S. warships and planes disturb one of the most solid alliances the United States has in Latin America.

It contrasts with the strained relations the United States has on the Pacific coast with Ecuador and Peru, which have resumed seizing U.S. tuna boats with the start of the fishing season.

The understanding, as it is described by some U.S. officials, emerged from a deadlock between Brazil and the United States in fishing talks last year.

The United States, which recognizes a territorial limitof only 12 miles for fishing, has refused to give in to Brazil's insistence on the 200-mile jurisdiction that Ecuador and Peru also claim. More talks are scheduled before the start of the shrimp and lobster fishing season in March.

U.S. officials appear optimistic about reaching an agreement that will avoid reference to the 200-mile limit and mention only "conservation" aspects of fishing control. Brazil has said it "will not move one centimeter" in its demands for recognition of the limit, but last year Brazil and several other nations agreed on temporary shrimping arrangements using the conservation approach.

Since the stalemate, the United States and Brazil have been doing their best to avoid incidents.

One Florida boat claimed the Brazilian navy shot at it and chased it out of the 200-mile zone, but there was much confusion surrounding the incident and it was never clear what really happened.

Later, according to fishing industry sources, U.S. shrimpers began studying ways to avoid casting in the area, especially in large numbers. There have been none of the confrontations which have cost the U.S. tuna industry more than $3 million in fines for operating in waters claimed by other Latin-American nations.

Guns Come Off Medical 'Copters

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Army is taking the guns off all its medical evacuation helicopters in Vietnam, painting most of them white and putting out millions of leaflets and posters appealing to the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese not to shoot at them.

The deadline for removing the guns is Friday. The only unit that still has them is the 3rd Brigade of the 1st Al. Cavalry Division. Four of its six medical evacuation helicopters still have guns, but spokesmen said they would be disarmed by Friday.

The bulk of the evacuation helicopters are operated by the Army's Medical Command, which has 48 assigned throughout Vietnam. So far, 13 of these have been painted white and the entire fleet is to be changed over from the olive drab which are marked only with red crosses.

The U.S. Command initially announced that all medical evacuation helicopters in Vietnam would be painted white with red crosses. Later it said it was urging individual combat units to paint their medical helicopters white, but the decision was left to the unit commanders.

Such individual units as the 3rd Brigade, which operates in the Saigon region, and the 101st Airborne Division in the northern part of the country have only a handful of their own medical evacuation helicopters.

The new test program aimed at reducing aircraft losses and casualties was begun Oct. 1. The idea of painting the helicopters white was to make it easier for the enemy to recognize them as medical and not combat helicopters.

The Army said that millions of leaflets have been dropped in the countryside and 50,000 posters have been distributed and tacked up in villages and hamlets.

The messages stress the mercy mission of the medical helicopters, that they are unarmed and that they will pick up both friend and foe. They ask the enemy to refrain from shooting at the white aircraft.

The messages also urge the Viet Cong not to fire on olive drab helicopters marked with red crosses. An evaluation team is keeping records on all of the air ambulances to get some idea whether the noncombatant status of the white helicopters is being respected by the enemy.

Closure Of Oyster Beds Is Sought

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Dr. Andrew E. Hedmeg, state health officer, says that because of pollution in Lake Borgne he will seek immediate closure of its oyster beds to protect Louisiana's oyster industry.

"If some action is not taken in this situation, then the total state oyster industry is in jeopardy," he said in an interview Tuesday. "This means the oysters would lack federal certification and a prohibition would be placed on Louisiana oysters being shipped out of the state."

State Sen. Samuel B. Nunez Jr. of Chalmette warned the St. Bernard Parish Police Jury earlier in the day that such a move was imminent. The police jury decided to meet Thursday night to consider the possibility of filing suit against the City of New Orleans and its Sewerage and Water Board for alleged pollution of the lake and damage to the parish's oyster beds.

Nunez said closure of the lake would destroy the livelihood of 40 to 50 St. Bernard Parish oystermen and deal a serious blow to the $15 million oyster industry.

Dr. Hedmeg said the pollution was on the western shore of the lake but he declined to say who was responsible except that some was coming from Orleans Parish.

"We are going to make extensive tests that will enable us to pinpoint the problem and then hopefully we can correct it," he said.

Former Penn Chairman, Associates Are Charged

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A former Penn Central finance chairman, David C. Bevan, and two of his business associates have been accused of conspiring to divert more than $21 million from the railroad's treasury for themselves and others.

Dist. Atty. Arlen Specter, who obtained the arrest warrants on criminal charges that resulted from a year-long probe of Penn Central's financial activities, said the three men are expected to surrender here Thursday morning for arraignment.

The warrants said Bevan conspired with Wall Street broker Charles J. Hodge and retired Air Force Gen. Albert Lassiter and "substantially drained the resources of the Penn Central, contributing to its bankruptcy in June 1970."

The railroad, the nation's largest, is now undergoing reorganization under the supervision of U.S. District Court.

The Penn Central itself, in a lawsuit filed last April, has accused Bevan, Hodge and former railroad Treasurer William R. Gerstnecker of conspiring for "personal profit, gain and unjust enrichment," and said monetary damage was at least $66 million.

The 57-page complaint filed Tuesday by Specter accused Bevan, Hodge and Lassiter of joining together to cheat and defraud the railroad.

It alleged two major schemes:

—A plan to establish a worldwide air freight and passenger system to ultimately benefit a travel agency which they, their relatives and friends privately owned.

—"Manipulating over $85 million in Penn Central investments" to benefit Penphil, a private investment club formed by Bevan and Hodge, who was the railroad's chief investment adviser.

Bevan, in a statement released by his lawyer, called the allegations "incredible" and "a grave mistake." He demanded an immediate trial "so that I can at least be vindicated."

"I have been the scapegoat long enough," Bevan said, referring to the Penn Central's collapse.

Bevan was fired from his $132,000-a-year job two weeks before the railroad filed for reorganization on June 8, 1970.

Lassiter said at his home in Beverly Hills, Calif., "Someone has engineered this whole thing. In the final analysis, we are going to be vindicated."

At Hodges' home in Boca Raton, Fla., his wife said her husband's attorney had instructed him not to comment.

CAF Gets Mosquito

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — There's supposed to be only two such birds flying in the world, and the Confederate Air Force has latched onto one of them.

The CAF, a rebel band of wealthy World War II aircraft collectors, has acquired a British DeHaviland Mosquito bomber and will display it at Rebel Field in Harlingen.

The Mosquito, a twin-engined aircraft constructed primarily of wood, arrived at its new nesting place Sunday after a trans-Atlantic flight which consisted of five fueling stops.

Ed Jurist of Nyack, N.Y. and Dwayne Egli of Harlingen put the craft down in France Spain, the Azores, Newfoundland and New York. They used 3,400 gallons of fuel between England and Harlingen.

The CAF is a group allegedly organized by its mythical leader, Col. Jethro Culpepper——a tongue-in-cheek outburst against the "union" military establishment which refused to save World War II aircraft.
