Mortar Shot Kills Texan In Viet War

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A Vietnamese mortar barrage meant for the Communist Viet Cong killed a U.S. Army captain Sunday night and wounded another American, reliable sources reported today.

The captain was the 220th American to die in combat in Viet Nam since 1961.

He was identified in Washington as Capt. Agriverto A. Garcia, 31, of Laredo, Tex.

Two Vietnamese officers were killed in the misdirected barrage and six other Vietnamese wounded, the sources said.

The rounds reportedly fell on the government unit as it waited in an ambush laid for the Viet Cong near Duc Hoa, about 18 miles northwest of Saigon.

The two Americans were with about 60 Vietnamese infantry troops on a night patrol.

MORTAR FIRE

The sources said the unit called for the mortar fire on a suspected Viet Cong emplacement. At least one round fell on the unit.

An investigation was being made.

"It was terribly sad," said another American adviser, "but it was just one of those things that can happen. It was night, and it is always more dangerous then. But we will continue with these operations."

A U.S. spokesman announced two other U.S. Army officers were wounded by shell fragments while piloting an armed helicopter against Viet Cong positions southeast of Saigon.

A U.S. Army enlisted man was slightly wounded while assisting in clearing a booby-trapped area 100 miles west of Saigon.

SHOW OF FORCE

In Saigon, opponents of South Viet Nam's new civilian government made plans for further demonstrations despite a government show of force that checked them Sunday.

Truckloads of unarmed troops discouraged dissident troops who had gathered to march through the streets. When police appeared with clubs, the demonstrators dispersed.

Leaders of religious, political and student groups opposing the government said they would demonstrate later in the week.

Premier Tran Van Huong had warned in an appeal for unity that the government would use force if necessary to put down demonstrations.

Decades Lay Behind Trial In Death Case

CELINA, Tenn. (AP) — An Indianapolis handy man goes on trial for murder today, climaxing a search by the victim's son that covered nearly two decades and 100,000 miles.

Grover Jones is charged with second-degree murder in the death of Newt Lee, run over by a car in front of his home at Moss, Tenn., Dec. 31, 1944.

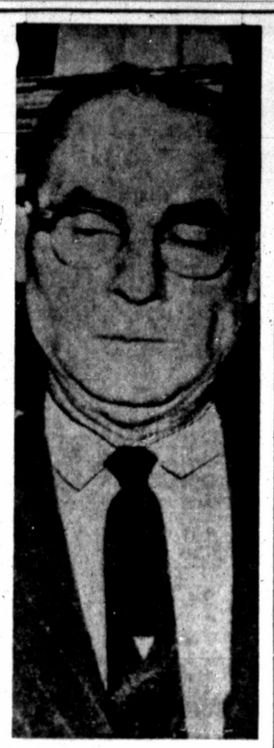

Welby Lee, now 51, of nearby Tompkinsville, Ky., vowed the night his father died he would not rest until he found the driver.

The quest began with a description by the elder Lee's granddaughter of the death car and a man who walked back to look at the victim. A broken number guard was found in a ditch near the body.

For 10 years Lee spent most of his time "trying to prove the wrong boys did it." He finally quit this tack, he said, "Because I didn't want to arrest an innocent man."

Lee said a relative of Jones tipped him in January 1962, that Jones was in the area at the time of his father's death and he turned his search in a new direction.

After his arrest in Indianapolis, Jones waived extradition to Tennessee, but his attorneys later argued he was illiterate and didn't know what he was signing. Last December, however, his counsel said Jones would surrender to authorities here.

Police Say Ex-Dancer Been Slowly Poisoned

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Vanda Hoff Unger, 66, once a widely known dancer and a former wife of bandleader Paul Whiteman, sipped coffee at a convalescent hospital in San Francisco for more than a year.

One day last August, a nurse noticed a visitor pour something into the wealthy patient's coffee cup. The nurse took a test sample to a doctor at the hospital who had it analyzed.

A POISON

The analysis showed that the liquid contained carbon tetrachloride—a poison that has a damaging effect on the liver. Mrs. Unger had entered the hospital in the summer of 1963 suffering from a liver ailment.

Inspector Donald J. Willett of the San Francisco Police Department said Sunday Mrs. Unger had been slowly poisoned for more than a year. Since the poisoning plot was discovered, Police said, Mrs. Unger has almost completely recovered.

Police said they are looking for the dancer's nephew, William Cootes Jr., 30, on a warrant charging him with putting poison in food or drink.

DISAPPEARS

Cootes disappeared shortly before the warrant was issued, police said. Mrs. Unger told police that Cootes was the conservator of her estate and that she had discovered $28,000 was missing. She had asked for a full accounting from him.

Mrs. Unger was a noted dancer in the 1920s and 30s. She married Whiteman in 1922. They were divorced in 1931.

Agency Ups Forecast On Cotton Crop

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department estimated this year's cotton crop today at 15,444,000 bales, an increase of 1.1 per cent from the October forecast. The Texas crop was set at 4,200,000 bales.

The crop was put at 15,274,000 bales a month ago. This compared with last year's production of 15,327,000 and with the 1958-62 average of 13,905,000.

The crop is grown under a control program, supposed to prevent overproduction. It exceeds forecasts of market needs of 14.8 million bales. Any extra cotton would move into reserve and surplus stocks totaling 12.1 million bales.

The yield of cotton per harvested acre was estimated at 528 pounds compared with 516 pounds last year and 454 for the five-year average. The Texas yield was 355.

The production of cottonseed was indicated at 6,372,000 tons compared with 6,197,000 last year.

The Census Bureau said 9,073,303 bales had been ginned to Nov. 1 compared with 10,061,660 last year.

Production by states included: Arkansas 1,590,000; Louisiana 590,000; Oklahoma 320,000; and New Mexico 260,000.

Sentencing Of Ex-Mayor Stalled

HOUSTON (AP)—U.S. Dist. Judge Ben Connally delayed today sentencing until Nov. 16 of former Pasadena Mayor Sam Hoover, convicted on four counts of failure to report income.

Joe Reynolds, lawyer for Hoover, has filed several motions.

Hoover, 57, was convicted last month of failing to report income for 1957-60.

Hoover is under a 60-year sentence from a state court last August. He was convicted of being an accomplice in the torture-robbery of a Houston couple last March. He is appealing that sentence.

Johnson Waits For McNamara

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson meets today with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara as he pushes his campaign to keep next year's federal budget under $100 billion.

McNamara was invited to be Johnson's guest at the 400-acre LBJ Ranch to discuss Pentagon budgeting that will be crucial to the over-all federal spending plan destined for delivery to Congress in January.

Flying west from Washington with McNamara was Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus Vance.

HILL COUNTRY

McNamara, coming to the Texas hill country without any formal agenda for his talks with Johnson, was to arrive late today. He will be an overnight guest at the ranch where the President has been relaxing since the Nov. 3 election.

McNamara will be joined here Tuesday by Secretary of State Dean Rusk. The President and the two key Cabinet members will jointly canvass some of the global military and diplomatic problems.

Johnson, for the second year in a row, is hopeful of keeping the federal budget from exceeding $100 billion.

DECISIVE IMPACT

Pentagon outlays, accounting for about half of all federal spending, will have a decisive impact on whether or not he achieves his goal for the fiscal year that begins next July 1.

The President, who will entertain President-elect Gustavo Diaz Ordaz of Mexico Thursday and Friday on his home acres, intends to spend the entire week at his ranch.

Comes In On Wing, Prayer

DALLAS (AP) —"Somebody said 'Lookee there,' and then, wham!" James Ainsworth explained. A plane had just clipped his truck.

Glass showered Ainsworth and two other men in the truck as the left landing gear was ripped from a four-place, single engine Beechcraft approaching an air strip.

At that moment, pilot Jim Cox, 25, gave the plane full throttle. It brushed the muddy strip of the Highland Park Airport and bounced into the air again.

With Cox were his wife, Glenda, 24, their 13-month-old daughter, Gina, and Mrs. Cox's aunt, Mrs. Eula Soring, 55, of San Angelo.

Cox circled the field, radioing the airport manager and plane owner, Bert Corry. Then he flew low so Corry could inspect the damage. Corry advised the pilot how to land.

For 30 minutes the plane circled the field to consume fuel. Mrs. Cox and her aunt began praying aloud, and packed clothes and pillows around themselves for protection.

"I told him to bring her in with a little power, and to keep the right wing down and to hold the nose up," Corry said. "He did a beautiful job."

The plane skidded across the muddy field. The left wing dipped, the propeller bit into earth and the craft lurched to a halt.

No one was hurt.

Mrs. Soring, among others, "I wasn't scared once we hit the di-" she said.

Five Biology Texts Fought

AUSTIN (AP) — A group of Texans who say some proposed public school biology textbooks are atheistic carried their protests today to the State Board of Eduaction.

Eleven persons, two of them ministers, asked the board to overrule approval by the State Textbook Committee and State Education Commissioner J. W. Edgar of five biology textbooks proposed for use in September.

In other action, the board voted 13-5 to approve a proposal for a Galveston County junior college. Attempts to establish a junior college for the Gulf Coast country failed in 1937 and 1958. The board action clears the way for Galveston County to hold elections that would authorize establishment and financing of the proposed institution.

The board session opened with a protest by Penrose Metcalfe of San Angelo against allowing three hours today for textbook appeals.

Metcalfe contended the arguments would be repetitious because all were heard by the textbook committee. However, Metcalfe did not seek a vote on the matter.

Union Red Ruling Due

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to rule on constitutionality of a federal law barring Communists from serving as officials of a labor union.

The ruling was asked by the Justice Department in an appeal from a decision by the U. S. Circuit Court in San Francisco. The Circuit Court said the law constituted an invalid restraint upon freedom of association protected by the Constitution's First Amendment.

With this holding, the Circuit Court overturned conviction of Archie Brown, who was indicted on a charge that he served as a member of the executive board of Local 10, San Francisco, of the International Longshoremen's Union while a member of the Communist party. Brown had been sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

The indictment charged Brown served as a member of the local board from October 1959 up to the date of the indictment on May 24, 1961. The indictment was under a section of the Labor Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959. In ruling the section invalid the Circuit Court divided 5-3.

MANILA (AP) — The toll of dead from two Sunday highway accidents rose to 22 today. About 90 persons were injured in the separate incidents.

Twelve lumber workers were killed and 27 injured when their bus veered off a highway and plunged into a deep ravine in Sorsogon Province, southeast Luzon Island, Philippine News Service reported.

Ten persons perished and about 60 were injured in a collision between a bus and a passenger car on a highway in Laguna Province, southeast of Manila, provincial police said.

Jewel Alert False Alarm

LONDON (AP) — Police surrounded the Tower of London today when the alarm system went off in the part housing the crown jewels.

It turned out to be a false alarm.

Laborites Push Survival Battle

Margin Slim In Skirmish With Tories

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson and his Labor government pitched into their first battle for survival today against a Conservative assault on steel nationalization.

Wilson's slender majority was expected to hold up in the first House of Commons vote and again Tuesday when the House votes on a Conservative motion of no confidence in Wilson's entire program. Defeat on either would force the government to resign and call a new election.

SLIM MARGIN

The Labor party won the Oct. 15 general election with a margin of only five Commons seats over the Conservative and Liberal opposition. This was temporarily cut to four Sunday night when Laborite Brian O'Malley entered a hospital for an emergency appendectomy.

Two other ailing Laborites announced they would be on hand for the vote. Frank McLeavy, 65, said he would come from his hospital bed, and Sir Geoffrey de Greitas, 59, said he would hobble in carpet slippers to ease a foot injury from a car accident.

WATER IT DOWN

Most interest will center on the votes of two right-wing Labor members, Woodrow Wyatt and Desmond Donnelly. They have suggested Wilson should ditch steel nationalization or water it down to get the support of the nine Liberal members.

The Liberals oppose outright nationalization but said they would favor the government buying an interest in some branches of the industry.

Wilson may adopt the latter course. He is committed only to "necessary public ownership" of the industry.

NOT YET KNOWN

This, however, will not be known until his steel bill is published, perhaps next spring. The debate today was on a Conservative amendment regretting steel nationalization and calling it "irrelevant to the modernization of Britain and damaging to the national economy."

In Tune With The Army

Seventh-grader Debbie Greenberg gets help from her mother, Mrs. Rona Greenberg, in making a drink in their Westbury, N.Y., home after Debbie received official word from the U.S. Army that she was right in a discussion with her teacher. Debbie wrote in a quiz that the official Army song is "The Caisson Song," but her teacher said it was "The Ballad of Rodger Young." Debbie wrote to the Pentagon and received a copy of her song and a letter from an Army general saying that she was correct. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Seventh Grade Girl Proves To Be In Tune With Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — This may jolt her teacher, but 7th grader Debbie Greenberg is right about the official Army song.

Debbie and her teacher had a difference of opinion on this question recently.

She contended the Army's tune is the "Caisson Song." He insisted it is "The Ballad of Rodger Young."

Debbie knew it is hard to win an argument with a teacher unless you have some evidence on your side.

So she went to the source, writing a letter from her home at Westbury, N.Y., to "United States Army, c-o the Pentagon Building, Washington, D.C."

"ASK FAVOR"

"I know you are very busy and cannot be bothered with heavy nonsense, but I have an important favor to ask you," she started out.

Then Debbie told about her discussion with her teacher:

"I had to name four service songs. I named the Navy's (no offense), the Air Force's, the Marines', then I named the Caisson Song for the Army.

"He so sweetly said no. After this response my heart sank to the bottom of my stomach. I argued in a polite way that I was right. He thinks the Army song is 'Rodger Young.'"

Almost plaintively, Debbie said she had consulted every library and reference source — "I have even stopped every kind of serviceman on the street."

"MEANS A LOT"

"I hate to bother you men in Washington," she apologized, "but this means a lot to me. I am not trying to show my teacher up, all I am interested in is the Army song.

"If you are too busy to write back, maybe you could have one of the soldiers in a remote section of the world answer me."

After signing the letter, Debbie added as a P.S.": "You're very sweet. Thanks a million."

Maybe it was the P.S. that did it.

Anyway, the matter came to the attention of a general who wrote back a "Dear Debbie" letter confirming that "our song is 'The Army Goes Rolling Along' and it is based on the old Caisson Song."

Texas Crisp Air Remains

By The Associated Press

Crisply cool to mild air enveloped Texas under generally clear skies today.

Forecasts promised the same brand of autumn weather tonight and Tuesday.

Early morning temperature readings ranged from 47 degrees at El Paso at the far western reaches of the state to 65 at Galveston and Laredo. Most temperatures were in the 50s.

Racial Focus Is Back On Juries

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court appeared today to take a new position on consideration of race in selection of juries.

It declined to review, and thus let stand, a lower court decision in a Louisiana case that purposeful inclusion of Negroes in a list from which grand jurors were drawn violated the constitutional rights of a Negro later convicted of raping a white woman.

The high court has held in the past that deliberate exclusion of Negroes from juries is unconstitutional.

While the action today came in a brief order, without comment, the court presumably saw as correct the lower court's ruling that deliberate inclusion of Negroes is also unconstitutional.

The case involved Woodman J. Collins, Negro of Iowa, La., who was sentenced to execution on conviction of rape of Gladys E. Vatis of Texas City, Tex.

Testimony was given that Collins smashed the window of the car of Mrs. Vatis, drove her to a field near Lake Charles, La., and left her in a ditch after the attack.

Louisiana's Supreme Court upheld the conviction in February 1962, and the U. S. Supreme Court upheld the conviction in February 1962, and the U. S. Supreme Court on Oct. 8, 1962, refused to review the trial of Collins.

His counsel then began habeas corpus proceedings in lower federal courts and won a ruling by the U. S. Circuit Court in New Orleans that Collins had been denied equal protection of law because of purposeful inclusion of Negroes on the grand jury list. Seven white persons and five Negroes constituted the grand jury in the case.

Atty. Gen. Jack P. F. Gremillion of Louisiana appealed to the highest tribunal to review and reverse the Circuit Court decision. The appeal said jury commissioners had intentionally sought to list members of both races "so as to achieve a reasonably representative cross-section of the population of the community."

Dawson Highway Work To Begin

LAMESA (SC)—A $1,069,000 highway construction project is scheduled to get under way here this week.

According to Al W. Partain, senior resident engineer of the State Highway Department, the project will include the construction of a 4 - lane divided highway from Loop 218 south of Lamesa to the Martin County line at Ackerly. The "Y" intersection of US 87-180 will be eliminated through the construction of a bridge at the present site, according to Partain.

North and southbound traffic on US 87 will go under the bridge, while east and west bound traffic on US 180 will travel over the span.

The project also includes reconstruction of the old pavement from Lamesa to the "Y", including about 3,560 feet of curb and gutter. Motorists traveling from Lamesa to Snyder will go south on an access road west of the divided highway, then get on US 180 via the bridge.

The contract calls for completion within about 360 working days, and department personnel pointed out that it would be 18 months to two years before the work is completed.

The contract was awarded to the San Antonio firm of W. J. Seldon Co.

The highway route will be zoned for a 45-mile an hour maximum speed during construction. The total distance of new road will be 19 miles. Each side of the roadway will be about 44 feet in width. As an added safety measure, all trees or other obstructions within 10 feet of the shoulder line will be removed.

Mitchell Deer Permits Due

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Royis Tucker of Big Spring, game warden for Mitchell County, announced Thursday that he expected to issue about 300 permits to shoot antlerless deer to landowners in the south and southeast part of Mitchell County.

The permits will be issued from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Thursday at the Mitchell County courthouse, Tucker said, emphasizing that any landowner who sends an agent to pick up the permits should send written authority with the agent.

Tucker said that the Spade Ranch would get about 200 of the permits, with the others scattered among other landowners in the area. Hunters, in turn, will get the antlerless deer permit from the landowner.

Tucker said that the deer season in Mitchell County will run Saturday through Dec. 31. Hunters will be allowed two bucks and with a permit, an antlerless deer.

Rains Drench West Coast

By The Associated Press

Steady rains continued to soak much of the Pacific Coast this morning while a prolonged drouth in the nation's midsection created forest fire dangers in some sections and severe farming conditions in others.

On the West Coast, rain this morning brought the 24-hour total to 2½ inches at Eureka, Calif., and almost two inches at Ukiah, just north of San Francisco.

Lack of precipitation threatens Colorado farmers with a $100-million loss to their winter wheat crop, and an extended dry period has brought an extreme fire danger to wooded areas in the Ohio River valley.

Fog settled in spots through the Great Lakes region Sunday night and early this morning, interrupting air travel at a number of cities, including Grand Rapids, Mich., Wausau, Wis., and Columbus, Ohio.

Much of the nation enjoyed pleasantly mild weather, with midnight temperatures in the northern plains as high as the 50s.

Judge Grants Continuance In McDonald Murder Case

STANTON—Daniel Odell McDonald, 19, today won a continuance to Jan. 25 of his scheduled trial for murder in 118th District Court.

Judge Ralph Caton granted a defense motion, over the objections of the state, resetting the trial for the last Monday in January. The defense intends to offer a defense based on insanity, the motion indicated, and the additional time asked was to raise money to pay competent psychiatrists to check the young defendant.

A special venire of 125 had been called for duty Monday in the court. One hundred and eight of the 125 showed up. Judge Caton, in announcing the continuance, advised the jurors they would be recalled Jan. 25 for duty. He also said that those who had been excused on this occasion will also have to report.

McDonald, dressed in a clean white shirt and neatly pressed slacks, sat quietly at the counsel table with his attorneys, George Thomas and John Ferguson, during the brief hearing this morning. He showed little interest in the proceedings and paid no attention to the veniremen who filled most of the seats in the court.

He is accused of the June 12 murder of 82-year-old Mrs. W. S. McDonald, his grandmother.

Thomas, who with Ferguson, was appointed by the court to defend the youth, told Judge Caton that it was "obvious the defense would have to go into the mental status of the defendant." He also said that he and his associate had not had time to prepare a defense. He called the court's attention to an earlier motion presented Oct. 29 in which he had asked the state to provide funds to hire competent psychiatrists to examine the youth. The court had denied that request.

"We need more time," said Thomas, "to try and find the funds to employ the mental experts we need to properly present our defense in this case.

"We will seek such funds diligently and, if they are not forthcoming from other sources, we will provide the money ourselves."

Gil Jones, district attorney, said he felt the defense has had ample time to prepare the case and that the state was ready to go to trial.

As to the defense request for psychiatric examination, Jones said:

"The state has had competent psychiatrists examine this defendant and the report of these doctors has been given to the defense attorneys. There is no need for further mental examination of this defendant."

The state psychiatrists held that McDonald is sane, Jones said.

McDonald was arrested on the morning of June 13 a few hours after his grandmother, who operated a small store and motel, was found suffocated and raped.

At the time, McDonald, who has spent most of his life in Stanton, was home on leave from Fort Carson, Colo., where he was serving in the U.S. Army.

Officers said that $173 taken from the cash register at the McDonald store had been recovered, and that the defendant made a statement relative to the case.

He is being held in the Martin County jail without bond.

Continuance of the case to Jan. 25 will pose two problems for the state.

Jones will no longer be district attorney on that date. His successor will be Wayne Burns, presently Howard County attorney.

It will be the responsibility of Burns to prosecute the case.

It is also pointed out that the date selected falls on the same date the Howard County Grand Jury will be called into session for the January term.

Some change may have to be made in the date since Burns and Judge Caton will both be required in Howard County while the grand jury is meeting.

Final Steps On Sewage Line Due

Final steps prior to construction of two major water and sewer improvement projects are among items to go before the city commission at 7 p.m. Tuesday, with the sale of some $460,000 in water and sewer system revenue bonds.

The bonds are for the construction of the Beals Branch sewer line and water storage and pumping facilities planned for Scenic Mountain.

Both are among later projects of the city's Master Plan, with $370,000 allotted for the Beals Branch line and $90,000 for the water reservoir and connected facilities. All bids have not been received on the Beals Branch line, with lift station equipment still to be contracted.

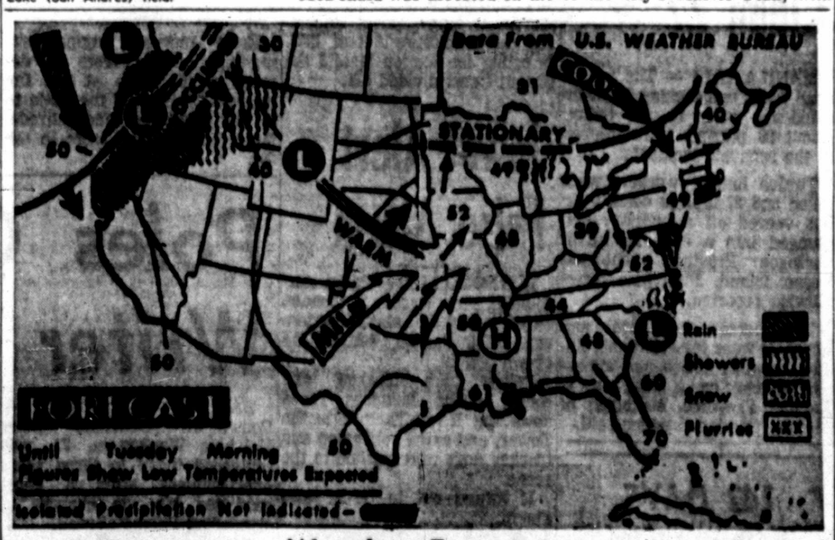

The full cost of the line will top the bond allotment by some $80,000, with the additional funds to be taken from money remaining from sewage treatment plant funds not used in its construction.

The Beals Branch line will be a relief line for present sewage facilities and is also planned for additional future needs. The water reservoir will be of one-million gallon capacity.

A representative of the First National Bank of Dallas, Thad Keenan, is expected to discuss the bond sales with the commission Tuesday night.

Other items on the commission agenda include a recommendation from the parks and recreation board concerning an overnight camping area in City Park, bids for a station wagon for the fire department, and recommendations from the planning and zoning commission, which will meet at 5:15 p.m. Tuesday in city hall.

Two final readings are also scheduled on previously-okayed ordinances, including a zone change from one-family to retail for a tract at the northeast portion of the intersection of IS 20 and US 87 and an annexation of three acres of property adjacent to the Muir Heights Addition.

Weather Forecast

Showers are expected Monday night over the upper Lakes, southern Florida and the northern and central Pacific coast to the Rockies. Cooler air will prevail from the northern Plains to the Great Lakes. A warming trend is foreacst for the lower and middle Mississippi valley and to the Ohio valley. (AP WIREPHOTO MAP)

Fanfare Launches Teenager Pageant

DALLAS (AP)—Fifty-two talented teens are the center of a lot of hullabaloo this week in the Miss Teenage America pageant.

The nation will see the girls in an hour and a half CBS telecast Friday night when Miss Teenage America, 1965, will be chosen.

(Another story on Page 7-A)

The girls, 13 to 17, got their first taste of the Dallas fanfare when they arrived Saturday. Bands played as they entered the downtown pageant hotel, and Dallas leaders attended a banquet in their honor.

Sunday was an example of the tight schedule: Up at 7 a.m. to practice the talent numbers, church, lunch, an afternoon of fun at Six Flags over Texas, a nearby amusement center, and at 8 p.m. the first of many rehearsals for Friday's telecast.

The tension increases as the week progresses.

As in past years, the outgoing teen queen gives a slumber party for the contestants.

This year's queen, Jeanine Zavrel of Falls Church, Va., will remind the girls that the winner receives a clothes wardrobe, a car, shares of stock in a soft drink company, and a $10,000 college scholarship.

BUDGET LIFE

Being the most publicized teenager also means budgeting one's personal life around public appearances, speaking easily to groups, and traveling on little notice.

The contestants are as varied as American youth itself. Some are cute, others beautiful. Most are talented with personality-plus, but some are poised through their nervousness. Others chatter incessantly and are whirls of energy.

The winner will be the judges' choice of the most talented, poised, well-groomed and well-rounded girl. Beauty—and bathing suits—aren't the measuring sticks here.

Four Injured In Accident

Four persons were taken to hospitals Sunday after a car struck a utility pole at the intersection of West Third and Brown Streets, with extensive damage reported to the vehicle.

All were passengers in the car at the time. David Gianesin and Michael Halverson, both of Webb AFB, were taken to the base hospital for treatment. Gianesin was the driver of the vehicle, according to police. Extent of the injuries had not been reported this morning.

Linda Flores was taken to Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital and Gloria Marquez to Howard County Hospital Foundation. Both were reported in good condition today.

Three other minor collisions were reported Sunday. A vehicle driven by J. Rivers, 508 NW 4th, struck a parked car, owned by Mrs. Virginia Garcia, 410 NW 10th, in the 700 block of North Aylford. Two other collisions were at the north service road of IS 20 and US 87, cars driven by Andrew J. Rowan, State Hospital employe, and Ollin A. Brock, 3913 Hamilton, and at the 200 block of Gregg Street, Gregorio C. Villa, 300 NW 7th, and T. H. Grimes, Denver City.

Police Academy Receives Notice

The recently-completed Southwest Academy for Law Enforcement Officers at Howard County Junior College has received feature coverage in the October issue of Texas Town and City, a magazine published monthly by the Texas Municipal League. The article details how the school was conducted, with a picture of the opening session.

The school was conducted for four weeks during September and October as a cooperative effort by the police training division of Texas A&M University, HCJC and the Big Spring Police Department. The article emphasizes that this was the first time the police training has been provided in the West Texas area.

Plans have been made for three sessions each year of the academy.

Butler said it was planned to combine Dallas-Fort Worth in the Texas League if the commissioner of baseball ruled the territory could be protected in that way since Dallas - Fort Worth want in the major leagues.

Celtics Annex 10th Straight

By The Associated Press

The Boston Celties' championship express hasn't been derailed yet and with 10 straight victories it's headed straight for Recordville.

The Celtics won their ninth and 10th over the weekend and are now just five shy of the record for consecutive victories at the start of the season. The mark is 15 set by Washington in 1948.

Cincinnati, struggling along without Oscar Robertson, was the Celtics' latest victim 106-103 Sunday but the Royals threw quite a scare into the Celts before going down.

Baker Suit Said Settled

NEW YORK (AP) — Newsweek magazine says an attorney for Bobby Baker, former secretary to the Senate Democratic majority, agreed Oct. 5 to an out-of-court settlement of a suit, with the proviso that it be kept secret until after the election.

The magazine, in its Nov. 16 issue, said Sunday night it has agreed to settle a $300,000 suit — brought by Ralph Hill president of the Capitol Vending Co. — for $30,000.

Hill's suit charged that Baker used influence to keep a vending machine contract from his company. The suit led to a Senate investigation of Baker's business activities. Baker, who also was head of the Serv-U Corp., resigned his Senate post after his business activities came under fire.

Newsweek said the agreement was kept secret because "Republicans would have given their eyeteeth to know about it."

The Newsweek account says Baker's attorney, Edward Bennett Williams, and Hill's lawyer, David Carliner, made the deal in a washroom after meeting to take depositions in the Washington building where Carliner has his office.

The settlement carried with it, Newsweek said, "the ironclad stipulation that if it leaked to newspapers before Nov. 4 the deal was off."

The Senate is scheduled to resume the Baker investigation Dec. 1.

Surplus Store Is Burglarized

Police were investigating today a burglary of the Army Surplus Store, 213 Main, in which a considerable assortment of clothing, shoes and several blankets were reported missing.

The owner of the store, Phillip Prager, said this morning he had not completed an estimate of the value of the goods taken. Someone apparently entered the building by opening a window on the roof during the night, officers said.

Moms Push For Boycott

CHICAGO (AP) — A group of mothers has called for a school boycott to protest the use of apartments for classrooms in a huge housing development on Chicago's South Side.

The boycott is to begin Nov. 23 and continue indefinitely.

The mothers live in the Robert R. Taylor Homes, in a populous Negro district. About 29,000 persons, more than half of them on relief, are jammed into 4,300 living units.

Because of a lack of space in nearby schools, the Chicago Board of Education set up first- to third-grade classrooms in 86 first-floor apartments scattered throughout the project two years ago.

CHILDREN POOR

"The children shouldn't be going to school downstairs from where they live," said Violet Williams, 27, leader of the Tenants Committee for Better Education and mother of two girls.

"These children are poor," she said. "They should have the best education possible and instead they get the worst.

"The children never get any contact with the outside world — they never even leave the grounds of the project. To go to school, they just leave one apartment and go to another."

The classrooms were set up, Mrs. Williams said, when the latest units in the development opened in December 1962.

"They were supposed to be only temporary and now the school board is asking for a new lease," she said. "We intend to empty the classrooms if we have to."

GRIEVANCES

The tenants committee filed 14 grievances with the Chicago Board of Education last week.

The tenants committee staged a one-day boycott two weeks ago that pulled nearly 70 per cent of the 3,745 students in the apartment-classrooms out of school. Aided by civil rights groups, the mothers operated two "freedom schools" at nearby churches.

"The purpose (of the boycott)," said Mrs. Williams, "is to force the board not to renew the lease. We want the children bused to vacant classrooms in other parts of the city.

"It costs $113,000 a year to rent the apartments," she said. "They could bus them for much less.

"The issue," she said, "is whether or not parents have to send their kids to segregated and inferior schools."

Long-Pending Purchase By Sinclair Made

HOUSTON (AP) — The Sinclair Oil Corp. reports the long-pending sale of the Texas Gulf Producing Co. to Sinclair firm has been cleared.

The transaction involved a reported $260 million.

Stockholders approved the sale of Texas Gulf Producing last May, but the deal was delayed, pending approval of the Libyan government.

Texas Gulf Producing owns the Libyan-American Oil Co., which includes Libyan properties owned jointly with W. R. Grace & Co. and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

STOCK TRANSFER

In a telegram, officials of Sinclair and Texas Gulf said:

"The Libyan government has approved the transfer of the stock of Libyan-American Oil Co. by the Texas Gulf Producing Co. to Sinclair International Oil Co., a subsidiary of the Sinclair Oil Corp."

Texas Gulf Producing has 10,000 stockholders and operates in 10 states, mostly southwestern, and has oil holdings in Libya, North Africa and Peru.

The announcement was made Sunday by E. L. Steiniger, chairman of Sinclair, and Lawrence Reed, president of Texas Gulf Producing, and officials of the other companies.

SALES ASSETS

Steiniger and Reed said following completion of "procedural requirements," they expect the sales of assets of Texas Gulf Producing to Sinclair's subsidiaries to be completed by early December.

Officials estimated the total amount available for liquidation distributions will be about $62 per share, in addition to the initial liquidating distribution of $1 per share paid last June.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—Your partner has opened with one spade and you hold:
♠J1043 ♡Q106 ◇K84 ♣754
What is your response?

A.—One no trump. While this hand ostensibly contains seven points in support of spades, one point must be subtracted for even distribution when contemplating a raise. You, therefore, have no choice but to respond with one no trump.

Q. 2—Your partner has opened with one no trump and you hold:
♠A43 ♡QJ7 ◇J432 ♣AQ6
What is your response?

A.—Three no trump. You have a point count of 14 which added to partner's maximum of 18 would at best reach a total of 32, not quite enough for slam.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠Q7 ♡A96532 ◇K9 ♣A75
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♡	Pass
4 ♡	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—With this powerful holding, you are concerned merely with the question of whether the hand should reach six or seven. You have better than an opening bid, facing partner who has opened the bidding and jumped. You may inquire for aces and kings by a bid of four no trump or, if you prefer the direct method, bid five clubs, showing the ace, and await partner's reactions.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠KJ7 ♡KQ6 ◇1074 ♣AJ63
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ◇	Pass
1 NT	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Despite the fact that your hand is evenly balanced, and that all suits are safely accounted for, you should not persist further with your no trump ideas. Partner has described a hand that contains six diamonds and five spades and is, therefore, unsuitable for no trump play. You have a splendid support for a five card spade suit and should raise to four.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♡KJ43 ◇Q10953 ♣A1042
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ◇	1 ♠

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. This hand has definite slam possibilities. Unless you make this strong bid, you will find it difficult to persuade partner of your enormous strength, for he will labor constantly under the impression created by your previous pass.

Q. 6—Partner opens with one heart and you hold:
♠K1076 ◇AJ106 ♣Q9763
What is your response?

A.—Two clubs. It would be poor tactics to respond with one spade for the sake of keeping the bidding low. Actually, it would have just the opposite effect. Partner will probably say two hearts, in which case you have to bid three of some suit. If you respond with two clubs, and partner says two hearts, you are in position to make the economical bid of two spades, with the added advantage of informing partner that you have five clubs and four spades.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠Q75 ♡K4 ◇AJ10632 ♣93
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 ♡	2 ◇	Pass	2 NT
Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner's bid of two no trump is an aggressive step inasmuch as he was not invited to participate in the bidding. Your overall is of a type that will produce a considerable number of tricks at no trump and a raise to three is recommended.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠K76 ♡K942 ◇AK ♣QJ94
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—A direct jump to three no trump is our preference. This describes a hand, which is about the equal of an opening one no trump bid.

Laotian Kills Red General, Defects

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The royal Laotian army said today a defecting Pathet Lao commander killed a Communist Viet Minh general before coming over to the rightist side.

An army spokesman said the defector, Boun Hieng, a battalion commander, tried to capture the general, identified only as Tuong, apparently to bring him along as proof that Communist North Viet Nam's Viet Minh troops are aiding the Communist Pathet Lao. When Tuong's aides put up a fight, Boun shot the general and fled.

Schools Closed While Teachers Mull Defeat

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Schools in several towns were closed today while teachers took a "professional day" to consider the effect of the defeat last Tuesday of four state school questions, one involving a substantial pay increase for teachers.

Teachers at Midwest City, an Oklahoma City suburb, were the first to say they would not teach today. The Tulsa Classroom Association, representing some 2,500 teachers, soon joined the walkout.

Since then, teachers in Dell City, Choctaw, Sapulpa, and Bartlesville agreed to participate.

School leaders say the day will be made up later in the year.

At Midwest City, teachers will discuss the school situation during an all-day meeting in the high school auditorium.

The Midwest City Classroom Teachers Association invited state legislative leaders and Gov. Henry Bellmon to attend.

Johnson Asserts GOP Role Vital

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says he is very proud of the work done in his administration by many Republicans and he thinks the GOP has a vital role to play in the American system.

In an exclusive, copyright interview today in U.S. News & World Report, the President was asked how he viewed the Republican party's present role.

He replied:

"I certainly feel that the Republican party has an important and vital role to fill in our system and in the making of our national policies.

"I am very proud of the contributions made to the administration by so many outstanding good Republicans and good Americans, such as Secretaries McNamara and Dillon (Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon), CIA Director John McCone, Special Assistant for National Security Affairs McGeorge Bundy, and distinguished Republican business-community leaders such as John McCloy and Robert Anderson.

"I was very proud during the campaign to have the active support of four former members of the Cabinet under President Eisenhower.

"I anticipate that some of those Republicans who supported us during the campaign will resume an active role in leading the Republican party on a constructive course to maintain the bipartisanship in government which is so essential to America's success in all fields."

Asked how he interpreted the vote in last Tuesday's election, he said, "I believe the mandate is for responsible, constructive and progressive programs to meet the problems of America's agenda."

As for his wide margin of victory, he said, "I believe it will strengthen the country's hand. . . . America's role and influence for peace and freedom in the times to come will be strengthened by the unity and agreement demonstrated by our elections."

Style Notable New Car Trait

DETROIT (AP) — Now that all the 1965 car models are on display, it seems apparent that this is the year of the stylist.

Most of the 343 new offerings of the U.S. auto industry have important engineering changes too, but it is the eye-catching appearance of the new cars which is credited with drawing customers into dealer showrooms.

The vast majority of the new models have far more than a mere face-lifting this year.

General Motors cars feature softer, curving lines and a racy look. The influence of Buick's Riviera, one of the style leaders in recent years, is strong in the whole GM line.

CRISP LINES

Ford generally features sharp, crisp lines in its 1965 offerings while lines of Chrysler and American Motors have a bit more sweep and roundness.

A large portion of the styling changes center on the standard-sized cars which generally make up about 60 per cent of registrations. There are new bodies for Chrysler, Dodge and Plymouth, for Ford and Mercury and each of the General Motors divisions.

Among the smaller cars, Corvair has been restyled for the first time and offers hardtops instead of center post sedans. Rambler Ambassadors have been completely redesigned and have a four-inch increase in wheelbase this year, moving into what is generally known as the intermediates.

Miss Louise Gossett Marries J.E. Lilly

Miss Anita Louise Gossett and James Emmitt Lilly exchanged wedding vows Sunday afternoon in the Coahoma Church of Christ with the minister, Herbert Love, reading the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Gossett, 408 Austin, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Lilly, 2113 E. 10th, Odessa.

A chorale group furnished the wedding music. The singers were Miss LaFern Knowlton, Miss Fern Knowlton, Mrs. Kenneth Roach, Mrs. Vernell Benge, Mrs. Leon Pettit, Jack Alderton, Kenneth Roach, Darrell Shortes and Leon Pettit. They sang "I'll Walk Beside You," "Whither Thou Goest," "The Wedding Prayer," and "Be With Us, Lord." Also, they sang the processional and recessional.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown styled with a bell skirt of lace over satin and a fitted bodice. Petal point lace sleeves and a scalloped neckline completed the design. Her fingertip length veil cascaded from a pearl tiara, and she wore a pearl necklace for the traditional 'old' item. Also, she wore new pearl earrings and carried a borrowed handkerchief.

The wedding bouquet of white and blue carnations was adorned with streamers and carried atop a white Bible, a gift of the bride's sister, Mrs. Jimmy Irving, of Big Sandy.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Ray Coates, Coahoma, was matron of honor and wore a gown of ice blue taffeta and a net headband. She carried a white carnation bouquet tied with blue ribbon. Miss Jeanine Lilly, Odessa, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Lela Neil, Big Spring, were bridesmaids. Their full-skirted frocks of ice blue taffeta were styled with fitted bodices and scalloped necklines. They carried white carnation bouquets accented with blue, and wore net headdresses.

Marilyn Neil, Big Spring, was the flower girl and wore a dress matching the bridesmaids' gowns and a bow headdress. She carried a white basket of rose petals. Wayne Lilly, Odessa, brother of the bridegroom, presented the wedding rings at the altar.

Jerry Irvine, Odessa, was best man, and ushers were Ray Coates, Coahoma, and Dick Lockett, Odessa, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

For a honeymoon trip to an undisclosed destination, the bride wore a red suit with a blouse of white lace over satin and a white carnation corsage. Her accessories were in red and white. Following the wedding trip the couple will make a home in Big Spring.

The bride attended Big Spring and Coahoma schools and is a graduate of the American School of Chicago and the Commercial College in Midland. He attended Permian High School in Odessa.

RECEPTION

The bridal couple and the parents received guests at a reception held in the activity room at Coahoma High School.

The bride's table was covered with lace over blue linen, and white wedding bells entwined with pink and white flowers formed the centerpiece. The four-tiered wedding cake was accented in blue and topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Judy and Sandra Hiser, Big Sandy, had charge of the register. House party members were Mrs. Jimmy Irving, Big Sandy, sister of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Chapman, Lubbock, sister and brother-in-law of the bride; Mrs. Dick Lockett, Odessa, sister of the bridegroom; and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lilly, Sand Springs, grandparents of the bridegroom.

Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Logan, Mr. and Mrs. Noble Blanton and Arnold Almand, all of Midland, and Mrs. Julia Bryce, Odessa, grandmother of the bridegroom.

Dancers Fill Cosden Ballroom For Annual Policemen's Ball

By JO BRIGHT

Almost 400 dancers crowded the ballroom at Cosden Country Club Saturday evening for the second annual Policemen's Ball. Beginning at 9 p.m., music was by the George Atwood Orchestra until 1 a.m. when the dance ended with a buffet breakfast being served in the ballroom.

Police Chief E. J. Banks and Mrs. Banks, one of the host couples, were with a party of eight. Mrs. Banks was attired in a full-skirted dress of black with bracelet sleeves with which she wore jet jewelry. With them were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Crow, she in a slate and gold brocade sheath, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Boyd. Mrs. Boyd chose a black sheath with satin binding at the waist. Others at the table were Mr. and Mrs. Halvard T. Hansen. She wore a sleeveless two-piece dress of white wool.

At a nearby table were Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hull and their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Graham. With them were the Hull's niece, Mrs. Robert Myrick, and her husband. Mrs. Hull was wearing one of the new dance frocks of black crepe as she chatted with another member of the party, W. D. Berry.

Celebrates in another candlelit corner were Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Nicholson, Mr. and Mrs. Wally Slate, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Hurley and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Grimes. Mrs. Nicholson was in a white pleated silk sheath and Mrs. Slate was wearing a full-skirted dress of beige silk with pleats accenting the bodice. Joining them while her husband was busy with club details, was Mrs. W. E. Ramsey, in a full-skirted cocktail dress of blue and green print.

Across the room were Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Mel Stinson, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Ream and out-of-town guests, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Good. There, too, were Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Heith.

Visiting with friends were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lusk. She was attractive in a sheath of red wool worn with a silver necklace as she talked with Mrs. Bill Patton who wore light blue peau de soie.

Late arrivals were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Caton, she in a two-piece dress with a paisley print top, and they joined Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Spence. Pretty Mrs. Spence was wearing a two-piece cocktail dress with gold lame shell. In the same group were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Mellinger. Her brunette coloring was accented by the white brocade of her full-length dinner gown.

Others glimpsed during the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Fern Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Bill McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde McMahon Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Dave Brooks and Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Coppedge.

TO LECTURE ON FLOWERS

Mrs. Lona Ferrier, Fort Worth, will present an exhibit and lecture in San Angelo Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Municipal Auditorium. She is a national flower show judge, a pupil of the Sogetsu School of Modern Arranging and has a flower arranging teaching certificate from the University of Texas. Tickets are $1.

LGA Plans Room Decor

Completing the decor of the Bamboo Room was the topic highlight at the Ladies Golf Association luncheon held Friday at the Big Spring Country Club.

Mrs. Gil Gingold presided as Mrs. Bill Edwards, chairman of the house committee, presented recommendations for improvement of the club and its serving facilities.

Jack Watkins of The Goodhousekeeping Shop will work with Mrs. Zollie Boykin and committee members in planning the decorating of the Bamboo Room. Assisting will be Mrs. Hayden Griffith, Mrs. R. H. Miller and Mrs. Ty Allen. Shown were several hanging flower baskets which will be used in the room. Also, the association will purchase a tea cart for use in the club.

Mrs. Elmo Wasson announced that the Swartz-Wasson style show and dinner is scheduled Nov. 19 and that all tickets have been sold. She requested help with table decorations for the show.

Tentative plans were made for a tea and antique show to be held in January. On display will be treasured items belonging to members and possibly exhibits from antique dealers.

The Christmas party for children is scheduled in December.

Beige placemats were used at the T-shaped table which was centered with gold and bronze chrysanthemums arranged in a small pumpkin.

TV Program Comes From JFK's Book

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — John W. Davis won the Democratic presidential nomination on the 103rd ballot that hot summer of 1924, and Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama not only lost but also failed to win renomination to the Senate. He lost because he resolutely turned his back on the Ku Klux Klan, whose votes controlled the nomination.

That, in essence, was the story told in the first program of NBC's "Profiles in Courage" series Sunday night. Based on the best-selling book written by John F. Kennedy when he was still in the Senate, it promises to be an intelligent and entertaining addition to a season notably lacking in interesting dramatic fare.

AGAINST RIVAL

Underwood's oppostion to the secret organization was partly strategy to eliminate his rival William G. McAdoo, but more than that, it was personal conviction. The moment of climax in the drama came when Underwood was offered the necessary Klan votes of delegates — if he would promise not to make them a campaign issue.

"I think I'll go out and get some fresh air," was his response.

Sidney Blackmer played Sen. Underwood of Alabama with dignity and without heroics.

FIRST GOAL

Victor Jory, playing Underwood's hard-working and skillful manager, at one point quoted Homer Cummings: "The first function of a politician is to get himself elected. Everything else is a splendid redundancy."

Radio was there, too, and a reporter kept shouting the convention story into one of those big, old-time microphones. If the story had a weakness, it was this rather primitive way of keeping us informed of the background events.

All in all, however, it was an auspicious start. The welcome mat is certainly out for future programs.

Both Chicken In Alley Fight

CHICAGO (AP) — The sun was still low on the horizon as the two strutted toward each other in an alley.

For a second they stopped and glared. Then they lunged and the fight was on.

But not for long. They were both chicken. White Leghorn roosters to be exact.

Flying feathers and cheering brought police from a station across the street. The officers called for help.

Four squad cars screeched into the alley and surrounded the amateur gamecocks. One officer reached into the whirlpool of feathers. He withdrew his battered hand quickly. The crowd cheered.

Armed with snares from Chicago's Anticruelty Society, police finally stopped the battle. The crowd booed.

Nobody claimed the roosters. They were tucked safely away by the Anticruelty Society — out of sight of each other.

AF Chute Falls In Yard

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A parachute carrying an Air Force instrument package, believed to weigh more than 1,000 pounds, dropped into the front yard of the John Dale residence Sunday.

Air Force spokesmen in New Mexico said the parachute was dropped from a 1.6-million-cubic-foot helium balloon during a test flight.

The balloon was launched Friday. The instruments were designed to record pressure, humidity, temperature and other meteorological information.

Farm Asset Peak Noted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's farmers now use assets totaling a record high of at least $170 billion in the production of crops and livestock.

Five years earlier, these assets totaled $151 billion, down 11 per cent from the 1946 value. Much of this increase in capital used in farm production reflected advances in farm land values.

Reporting these facts today, the agriculture department said assets used per farm this year averaged $54,791 compared with $51,125 last year, $39,790 five years ago and $24,135 10 years ago.

Getting Shoulder Into Job

Bobby Griffin (42) of Big Spring leaves his feet to tackle Permian's Pat Brown (40) in last weekend's football game here. Brown has trouble holding the ball. Big Spring won the cliffhanger, 7-6, to stay in first place in District 2-AAAA standings. (Photo by Danny Valdes)

Friday Contest Contains Answer On Title Chance

Can determination and hard work keep the Big Spring Steers at a peak another week? The answer to that will come Friday when the Abilene Eagles come to town.

Win that one and the Steers will have a shot at a clear title in District 2-4A. Lose it and the Steers would have only an outside chance.

Abilene brings a team much like Big Spring, but overall the Eagles are said to be quicker. They also run a versatile attack, and Big Spring had about all the versatility it wanted Friday in edging Permian 7-6.

Yet the Steers came out of that crucial game in good physical condition with Skipper Sabatto's sprained ankle about the worst casualty. They face a week of hard work in preparation for the Eagles, a team that did them in handily last year.

Abilene uses the talents of Dennis Holt, senior, and Forrest Lane, junior, for its passing and option keepers, and both are capable performers. Downfield the man to watch is J. R. Edwards, who is the split end and a prime receiver.

The inside running game hasn't been too explosive, but Jack Yarborough, 185-pound senior fullback has carved out the yardage on traps when it meant the most.

Abilene still is a master at its old favorite, the country sweep, and Gary Biggs, heir to the Rusty Harris, is the outside speedster. It's either bottle him or get hurt plenty, said Coach Don Robbins. The Eagles also go in for lots of option keepers. In Randy Goldsmith, Abilene has one of the better kickers of the district, and in Edwards a long-distance kickoff man. Bobby Parkhill and George Miller give them power in the middle.

Steers Have Yardage Deficit, Up On Score

Big Spring fell behind slightly in statistics during the Odessa Permian game here Friday, but fans were more than willing to trade a 38-yard offensive deficit for a one-point advantage in the score.

One thing that hurt statistically was that Big Spring's longest gainer, that 74-yard TD run by Johnny Hughes, didn't get into the conventional records. It was on a punt return. Through eight games, Big Spring is training 174 yards on the ground but is ahead 136 yards in the air. As it developed Friday, Big Spring didn't have any business throwing the ball promiscuously against Permian. The punting average stayed at a respectable 37.7, which is 1.6 yards better than the opposition.

With his improving skill as a carrier, Benny Kirkland leads rushers but is only two yards ahead of Johnny Hughes. Wayne Nail easily has the most yardage and catches as a receiver, but Ricky Earle is only half a yard behind on average yardage.

The 8-game figures follow:

Runnels eighth graders swamped Snyder Travis Saturday evening, but after battling tit-for-tat during three quarters, the Runnels ninth graders faded in the fourth.

Runnels eighth graders won their tilt 34-8, while the ninth graders got beat by Snyder 28-14.

Snyder's ground game was too much for the ninth graders. Travis went in in two plays to score from 78 yards out, the last going for 50 yards, but Biffle climaxed a 70-yard drive by Runnels, going in from the 18 to tie it at 8-8, thanks to Joe Mendoza's plunge for the conversion.

In the second, Snyder broke off tackle for a 68 TD scamper. Runnels returned the second half kickoff to the 49-yard line and in 10 plays tied it at 14-14. Biffle rammed in from the three. A penalty followed by a weak punt gave Snyder the ball on the Runnels 31, and in seven plays Snyder had the score and conversion. Then Travis put on frosting with a 45-scoring play in the closing minutes.

The eighth graders, with John Patton pitching devastating strikes, overwhelmed Travis. In the first Roy Lee Warren broke off tackle for 40 yards and score, but the extra point was missed. John Patton quickly tossed a 25-yard scoring pass to Terry Marshall and then Warren got the extra points to lead 14-0.

Runnels trapped Snyder in the end zone for a safety early in the second, then Patton heaved a 37-yard TD toss to Mike Nobles, and Nobles ran over for the extra points to give a 24-0 lead at halftime.

Patton opened the third with a 22-yard pass that Melvin Johnson caught for a score, and Warren added extra points for a 32-0 lead. Midway in the quarter Runnels reserves took over and again trapped a Travis back in the end zone after a bad snap from the center. Snyder scored in the fourth against the reserves.

Mickey Wright Shoots Record

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP)—"I can quit happy now," said Mickey Wright, the blonde queen of women's golf, when she shot a record 62 for 18 holes on the way to first money in the Tall City Open.

She didn't mean she was going to quit, of course, because she has some burning ambitions yet unfilled, like setting a record stroke average of 72.00.

Miss Wright was in hot pursuit of that stroke record Sunday when she shot a 207 for 54 holes, tied Sherry Wheeler for first place, then won a sudden death playoff and first money of $1,350.

Miss Wright bettered the women's record for 18 holes by two strokes with that blazing 6-under-par 62 in the closing round.

Miss Wright, who plays out of Dallas, ran her winnings for the year to 10 tournaments and $26,365. She is only three tournaments and $5,235 away from the record of 13 tournament victories and $31,600 won last year when she also set a stroke average of 72.81.

V For Victory

These Coahoma Bulldogs were all smiles Saturday night, and with good cause. Coahoma had just overpowered Aspermont to win the district championship. With smiles enough for all the team, are Marshall Williams (18), front; Travis Reid, Lawrence Lepard (50), Dwayne Allen (11), center; and Ted Clearley, Eddie McHugh (20), and Eddie Wolski (70). The title breaks an 11-year drouth for Coahoma. (Photo by Danny Valdes)

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

An observer close to the school insists this is happening in an area community:

The team's football linemen occasionally stand aside and let the opposition zero in on their star back.

Seems the back has expressed anything but admiration for the manner in which the linemen pursue their duties and the boys in the primary are simply retaliating with deeds rather than conversation.

A fellow can get uncoupled that way.

* * *

That Odessa Permian B team which meets the Big Spring reserves here next weekend has been mopping up the earth with the opposition.

Alan Moravcik, the Panthers' star quarterback, has a younger brother on the team who is very talented. Sophomore Ricky McNerlin will be at the controls for Permian and he operates a 'tight ship.'

They simply try to blow the opposition off the field.

* * *

The rumor is bouncing around that Jess Neely will at long last accept retirement as head football coach at Rice University after this season and check the job to his trusted assistant, Bo Hagan.

Hagan quarterbacked the University of South Carolina team 14 years ago. He's a native of Savannah, Ga., and was at Georgia Tech and SMU before moving to Rice eight years ago. He can still set a fast pace while demonstrating techniques to his charges.

* * *

The University of Arkansas could be a mite hard to contain in football next year. The Porkers lose only six of their first 22 players via graduation.

* * *

Ray (Shorty) Snyder, one of the city's patriarchal sports zealots, wrote Abe Martin, the TCU mentor, recently and mentioned that he still prized an often consulted a football manual dedicated to TCU's great 1938 squad—often projected as the finest Frog team in history.

(That was the team which boasted such greats as Davey O'Brien, I. B. Hale, Ki Aldrich, Allie White, Don Looney and others).

Martin evidently reasoned Snyder's penchant for reminiscing about the TCU teams of that glorious age provided an elixir, because he wrote back and appealed to Shorty not to put away the book again.

Shorty resided in Ranger at the time and knew the then head coach of the Frogs, Dutch Meyer, and several of his boys quite well. He never attended TCU but was one of the best boosters the school ever had.

* * *

Bobby Dodd, veteran coach at Georgia Tech, exposed the fact recently that he turned down an offer to become the University of Texas head coach seven years ago that would have earned him $1 million, after taxes.

The offer came fro ma Texas multi-millionaire, who was representing a group of millionaires. Dodd declined the offer from the start but the Texan wouldn't take "no" for an answer. He called Dodd for ten straight nights.

He recommended that the Texas group approach Darrell Royal, knowing they couldn't approach Bud Wilkinson or Frank Broyles.

Dodd says he might have nibbled at the bait if he hadn't been 50 years old, hadn't already made his bed and hadn't been so reluctant to prove himself all over again to the Texans.

Green Bay Hangs Up 30-7 Victory

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Sometimes you just keep trying to get better vision, and you take a step and there it is—a wide-open field ahead."

Quarterback Bart Starr of Green Bay was talking about his rare running which helped the Packers to a 30-7 victory over Detroit Sunday.

But Starr could just as easily have been referring to what the Packers' triumph might have given the Baltimore Colts in the National Football League's Western Conference — a wide-open field ahead.

The Colts crushed the defending champion Chicago Bears 40-24 for their eighth straight victory and opened up a 2½-game lead over the Lions and the Los Angeles Rams.

The Packers' latest victory enabled them to put together their first two-game winning streak of the season.

Starr's running, an unusual sight, had something to do with the triumph. The veteran passer picked apart the league's toughest line for 40 yards in three carries. Two of those dashes helped Green Bay to a touchdown the first time it had the ball.

Asked about his running, Starr — not yet about to challenge Jimmy Brown — explained:

"When they put that much pressure on you, you have to run. I was scared to death. We're not out there to run, but those things happen."

In other games, Cleveland dumped Washington 34-24, St. Louis outlasted Pittsburgh 34-30, Dallas dumped New York 31-21, Los Angeles got by Philadelphia 20-10 and Minnesota bounced San Francisco 24-7.

The Colts, who mauled the Bears 52-0 earlier in the season, tallied 16 points before Chicago scored. Three field goals by Lou Michaels followed a two-yard touchdown smash by Lenny Moore. That score gave Moore an NFL record of 12 consecutive games in which he has scored a touchdown.

Cleveland's Brown recorded his 100th touchdown and passed for another as the Browns maintained their two-game lead in the Eastern Conference. Sonny Jurgensen tossed three scoring passes for Washington, two to Bobby Mitchell.

Los Angeles moved into a second-place tie with the Lions in the west by holding Philadelphia to one touchdown — King Hill's 24-yard pass to Ollie Matson. Les Josephson set up the Rams' first score with a 75-yard run to the Eagle 11.

Rote, In Relief, Bails Out Hadl

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Is Tobin Rote, a premier starting quarterback for 15 professional seasons, trying to upstage young Daryle Lamonica as an American Football League super-sub?

Rote, who lost his San Diego starting job four weeks ago to three-year pro John Hadl, bailed out Hadl and the Chargers Sunday with a second-half passing barrage that overhauled stubborn Denver 31-20.

The 36-year-old veteran of three pro leagues — American, National and Canadian — fired two touchdown passes in the second half, carrying the Chargers to their sixth straight victory.

The comeback route almost had become the private domain of Lamonica, Buffalo's sophomore signal-caller, but the Bills' relief pitcher had to settle for a standoff with Rote Sunday despite another clutch performance.

Lamonica came off the bench and directed the Bills to their ninth straight triumph, a 20-7 uphill decision over New York, before a record AFL crowd of 60,300 paid at Shea Stadium. It was the sixth time this season that the Bills, only unbeaten pro club, had come from behind to win with the 23-year-old Notre Dame alumnus in command.

Lamonica passed 80 yards to Glenn Bass for a touchdown and set up two field goals by Pete Goglak, enabling the Bills to hold their 2½ - game Eastern Division lead while virtually killing the Jets' title chances. The Boston Patriots, who nipped Houston 25-24 Friday night on Gino Cappelletti's last second 42-yard field goal, are second in the East with a 6-2-1 record and New York is third at 4-3-1.

Another sub quarterback, Kansas City rookie Pete Beathard, made his season debut Sunday in the Chiefs' 42-7 romp over Oakland. After starter Len Dawson had riddled the Raiders with four touchdown passes, Beathard came on, ran for 48 yards in two carries and then threw his first pass. It was intercepted.

The runaway victory pulled the Chiefs even for the year at 4-4-1. They trail defending champion San Diego, 6-2-1, in the Western Division race.

Horse Of Year Title On Line

By The Associated Press

This will be a memorable week in thoroughbred horse racing.

Kelso and Gun Bow meet again on Wednesday in the $150,000 Washington, D.C., International at Laurel. Saturday the $300,000 Garden State Stakes for 2-year-olds will be run at Garden State.

Horse-of-the-Year honors likely will be determined by the International providing one of the foreign entries doesn't beat both Kelso and Gun Bow. This will be their fifth meeting. They split the first four and in their last get-together Gun Bow won by the slimmest of noses.

Since then Kelso has become the richest horse in the world with earnings of $1,803,362 while Gun Bow was beaten by Turbo Jet II. They are expected to dominate the 1½ miles of the International over Laurel's grass course.

With the absence of Bold Lad, the Garden State, the so-called Golden Gallop, shapes up as a wide-open affair. Hempen, Sadair and Royal Gunner are rated highly, but Eurasian, Selair, Time Tested, Hail To All, Cornish Prince and Waza Ours are not to be overlooked in the 1 1-16-mile test.

TEXAS IS SECOND

Arkansas Needs One More Win For Title

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

Just scoring on Arkansas has become a major accomplishment in Southwest Conference football.

That kind of defense, plus a most versatile offense, will make Arkansas a valued Cotton Bowl host team, too.

Cotton Bowl folks are delighted with the prospect of having Arkansas to uphold the region and almost everyone is anticipating that it will become a fact next Saturday when Arkansas hosts lowly Southern Methodist.

All Arkansas has to do to get into the Cotton Bowl is beat an SMU team that is in the conference cellar without a conference victory. Texas A&M ended its losing streak at seven straight when it beat the Methodists 23-0 Saturday. SMU now has lost four in a row.

Arkansas, meanwhile, was registering its third straight shutout by blasting defense-minded Rice 21-0.

It was Arkansas' eighth straight triumph of the season and may boost the Razorbacks in the national ratings where they now rest at No. 4.

Texas stayed in the conference race by beating Baylor 20-14 in a thrilling finish and the Longhorns are only one game back of Arkansas. Should the Razorbacks lose a game, Texas could tie Arkansas for the championship. However, in that event Arkansas still would be the Cotton Bowl host team by virtue of having defeated Texas.

Cotton Bowlers Eye Six Teams

DALLAS (AP)—Six teams are on the list of the Cotton Bowl although some of them have losses on their records.

Felix R. McKnight, selection chairman of the Jan. 1 post-season game, said there weren't likely to be many undefeated, untied teams left at the finish anyway and that the Cotton Bowl wasn't going to hold a loss against the teams listed as prospects, considering the balance of college football.

NOTRE DAME VS. ALABAMA

Prize Match Depending On Outcome This Week

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Notre Dame vs. Alabama — this is beginning to look like the prize post-season bowl package, but the question is: Who's going to get it?

Sponsors of both the Orange and Sugar bowls are drooling at the mouth just thinking about such a pairing but realize a lot of intricate pieces first must be fitted into the jigsaw to make it possible.

Both Notre Dame and Alabama face perhaps their most critical tests this week. The Irish are host to a rebounding Michigan State team which hasn't lost to the South Benders in 10 years. Alabama goes against a tough and bitter rival, Georgia Tech, at Atlanta.

If the two survive, they might well finish 1-2 in the national standings. Notre Dame sources have indicated the Irish might abandon their long-time anti-bowl policy if a national title situation came about.

The Orange and Sugar bowls apparently are the only ones with a chance of landing such a glamor game. They have no strings, whereas both the Rose and Cotton bowls are bound by conference commitments.

Notre Dame and Alabama saw their hopes for a national title strengthened Saturday when second-ranked Ohio State absorbed a staggering 27-0 beating at the hands of Penn State, a team that had lost four games.

Four other members of the Top Ten — Georgia Tech, Louisiana State, Florida and Purdue — also lost, narrowing the list of championship candidates and hot bowl prospects.

Only five major teams were left with unbeaten and untied records. Besides Notre Dame and Alabama, these include Arkansas, Nebraska and Princeton.

The top-ranked Fighting Irish, 17-point favorites, had a close call against big, powerful Pittsburgh and won by the margin of Joe Azzaro's 30-yard field goal in the second period 17-15. Pitt was stopped at the Notre Dame 16 late in the game.

Penn State, beaten by Syracuse, completely crushed Ohio State, limiting the Buckeyes to five first downs and 63 yards. The Nittany Lions scored in every period.

Third-ranked Alabama won its eighth straight game in beating eighth-rated Louisiana State 17-9. Arkansas, No. 4, overpowered Rice in the rain 21-0. Nebraska, No. 5, moved toward the Big Eight title by edging Kansas 14-7.

Catholic World Mourns Rummel

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Over half a million Roman Catholics today mourned the death of their archbishop, Joseph Francis Rummel, a champion of racial equality in the South's largest archdiocese.

Church bells sounded through the city that Rummel, 88, nearly blind and almost deaf in his last years, had served since 1935 — longer than any other prelate.

Churches draped their entrances in black and white.

The German-born Rummel, who integrated parochial schools in 1962 and then excommunicated three segregationists who vigorously opposed his order, died Sunday.

CHOSE MOTTO

Rummel — who chose for his archbishop's motto the words "to lay down my life for my sheep" — closed out his days as a figure of controversy.

Pro - segregationist Citizens Council meetings booed his name. One parent rose at a parent-teachers meeting to call him a "Yankee."

In Rome, New Orleans Archbishop John Patrick Cody, who succeeds Rummel, said in recent audiences Pope Paul VI had twice asked about Archbishop Rummel and called him a "great, great churchman."

"He will go down in history," Archbishop Cody said, "as one who fought for the rights and dignity of all people. Opposed and even reviled for upholding the standard of Christ and His Church, he (Rummel) continued on, serene in the strength of heavenly right."

REQUIM MASS

Archbishop Cody is flying from Rome to celebrate a pontifical Mass of Requiem Wednesday.

Rummel, a graying, bespectacled man who walked with a cane, had been hospitalized with pneumonia Saturday. An earlier siege of pneumonia that followed a broken arm and leg had weakened his health in 1960.

The ninth archbishop of the 114-year-old archdiocese — an area spanning 10 south Louisiana parishes with 591,816 Catholics — Rummel will be buried in historic St. Louis Cathedral, an old city landmark.

Six other archbishops are entombed in its sanctuary.

Teenage Contestants Face Talent Judging

DALLAS (AP) — Chaperones, most of them proud mamas, of the 52 Miss Teenage America candidates, have been given some straight and candid advice: "Relax, keep your perspective, and don't be pushy.

"This is the moment of truth, ladies—and I hope it will be the only one," they were told by Charles Meeker, executive director of the Teenage America pageant, as the week's activities intensified toward the Friday night national telecast.

Tonight the girls were to have two minutes each to show off their talent before the judges. The 1965 queen, to be crowned on the hour-and-a-half CBS program Friday, will be chosen on talent, poise and appearance, and personality.

As in the three previous pageants, some chaperones are more nervous than their charges.

Meeker told them bluntly in a closed door session Sunday that the pageant was "not being conducted for the chaperones" and that they would be tired, with frayed nerves, by showtime.

He noted wryly that before Friday someone would undoubtedly have complained that their girl was not judged fairly; he said someone might be upset enough to consider circulating a petition among mothers of the 42 girls who didn't make the semi-finals.

The judging is done by teams of persons who evaluate the candidates separately, Meeker said, and the totaling of judges' scores is done mathematically, with no chance for favoritism.

He mentioned that the winner gets a clothes wardrobe, a new car and a $10,000 four-year scholarship. But all the contestants carry away friendships that form "a really meaningful event in their lives."

"You're the key: When you see her too tired, make her sleep," he said. "It's amazing the energy these kids have. Two minutes after, the question is 'what's up next?'"

Above all, Meeker said, "we need from you a continuing awareness that we are not in a win-lose contest."

"The more you keep your candidate's perspective in line, the better girl you'll have when you leave here Saturday. If she leaves in abject defeat, then it's a defeat for us both, you the chaperone and me, representing Teenage America."

New Japan Cabinet In

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's new Premier Eisaku Sato completed formation of his Cabinet tonight. Official sources said he retained all the ministers in the government of his predecessor, ailing Hayato Ikeda.

The new government is expected to carry on Ikeda's firmly pro-Western foreign policy.

Sato, 63, an economic expert, formed his Cabinet a few hours after Parliament elected him to succeed Ikeda. After four years in office, Ikeda resigned because of a throat tumor. Both he and Sato are members of the ruling Liberal Democratic party.

Missionaries Held In Congo Hunted

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Helicopters ranged over rebel terrain in the northwest Congo today seeking 29 kidnaped German missionaries. They included Martin Bormann Jr., son of Hitler's deputy.

White mercenary soldiers who captured the town of Ikela less than 200 miles south of Stanleyville, the rebel capital, said villagers believed the Communist-backed insurgents originally planned to kill the missionaries.

Romney Blasts At Nixon For Criticism Of Rocky

RICHARD NIXON

By JOE F. KANE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan Gov. George Romney has criticized Richard M. Nixon for his criticism of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

And to fellow Republicans who have been criticizing defeated GOP presidential candidate Barry Goldwater and calling for new party leadership, Romney had this to say as barbs continued to ricochet around the GOP:

"I think that Sen. Goldwater has demonstrated in the past his concern about the Republican party as a whole and I think it's premature to assume it's going to be necessary to find some way around Sen. Goldwater."

BIG WINNER

Romney, who had declined to endorse Goldwater's candidacy, was a big winner last Tuesday in his bid for re-election as governor — a victory that has stirred some speculation that he might be a future Republican presidential nominee possibility.

He repeated in a WJR radio interview in Detroit Sunday that he took his Goldwater stand because of "basic principle differences" with the Arizonan. He said he respected Goldwater as an individual.

As for Nixon, Romney said: "When you're trying to unify something, you don't begin to say things that will create greater feeling and division. You undertake to include those who are in a position to make a contribution."

STIRS THINGS

The Nixon - Rockefeller exchange had stirred things up in the Republican camp last week. Nixon charged that Rockefeller was a "divider," had not backed Goldwater as Nixon had and had gotten "his pound of flesh." Rockefeller fired back that Nixon was a poor loser" and "peevish" in his remarks.

A fellow New York Republican — Sen. Jacob K. Javits — spoke up Sunday night on the Nixon-Rockefeller clash. He told newsmen "I would hope that there would be a full moratorium on all personality clashes."

His comments came as an Associated Press survey showed that many influential leaders in the Republican party were looking to the former vice president to take a leading role in rebuilding the GOP.

Yeman Truce Halts Fighting

SANA, Yemen (AP) — Both sides in Yemen's civil war were observing a cease-fire today after more than two years of fighting, reports from the Red Sea nation said.

President Abdullah Al-Sallal said the cease-fire went into effect Sunday 12 hours early. Al-Sallal's Republicans, who depend mostly on Egyptian troops, and the royalists agreed to it last week.

The royalist prime minister, Prince Hassan, said in a broadcast his side agreed to the cease-fire "for a limited time to see if the Egyptians are seriously intending to withdraw from Yemen." The royalist foreign minister, Ahmed Shami, said the royalists would never agree to replace the deposed ruler, Imam Mohammed Al-Badr.

Building A-Bomb Rejected In India

GUNTUR, India (AP) — The ruling Congress party has rejected proposals that India build its own atom bomb to offset Red China's new nuclear power.

The party's governing committee supported Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri Sunday after he told it entry into a nuclear arms race with Peking would be a "gross betrayal" of the principles of nonviolence espoused by Mohandas K. Gandhi and Jawaharlal Nehru.

Dallas Woman Shot In Bed

DALLAS (AP) — An ailing Negro woman was shot in her bed at Parkland Hospital Sunday night by a man who surrendered to officers, police said.

Willie Mae Reed, 27, suffering an internal infection, was wounded by a bullet in the chest. She was taken to surgery in critical condition.

Deputy Sheriff C. F. Beddingfield said a Negro man, 29, handed over a pistol after the shooting.

Beddingfield said the man told him he shot the woman for personal reasons.

The woman was alone. Nurses kept patients in nearby rooms calm.

Britain Arbiter In Border Dispute

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Great Britain has been designated arbiter of the border dispute between Argentina and Chile over 270 square miles in the Andres.

Foreign Minister Miguel Angel Zavala Ortiz, just back from conferences with the Chilean foreign minister, said the decision to submit the dispute to arbitration was a decisive step.

Matchmakers Eyeing Potential Of Princess

LONDON (AP) — Britain's blonde princess Anne is well on her way to becoming one of the world's most eligible young women.

True, she will not be 15 until next Aug. 15, but already the matchmakers are dropping her name and speculating on what the romantic future holds for the onetime tomboy of Buckingham Palace.

Anne has plenty of competition, for in present day Europe there is a plethora of unmarried princesses and they far outnumber the princes.

FOURTH IN LINE

While Queen Elizabeth II's only daughter is but fourth in line of succession to the throne — coming behind her brothers, the Princes Charles, Andrew and Edward — Europe has three crown princesses of marriagable age and dozens of just plain princesses.

The crown princesses are: Beatrix, 26, of the Netherlands; Margrethe, 24, of Denmark, and Irene, 22, of Greece.

Princess Irene's chances of gaining the throne may be almost as remote as Anne's. Her brother, King Constantine, in September took as his bride and queen, 18-year-old Anne-Marie of Denmark, youngest daughter of King Frederik IX. Children born to them will come before Irene in the royal succession.

It was at the marriage of Constantine and the Danish princess that the would-be-matchmakers went to work on Anne of Great Britain, who was a bridesmaid at the Athens wedding.

GREEK CAPITAL

While a great concentration of kings, queens, princes and princesses was taking place at the Greek capital, the big Stockholm newspaper Expressen said:

"It would be ideal to have a queen like Anne at Carl Gustav's side . . . The British monarchy would receive a stimulus should Princess Anne marry a king-to-be."

Prince Carl Gustav, 18, is heir to the Swedish throne.

Princess Anne Elizabeth Alice Louise is growing up all right. At the tender age of 14 she's a veteran around the marriage altar.

Panel Strength Aim Of Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Farmers Union, backer of strong federal farm programs and supporter of President Johnson in the recent election, is pressing Democratic leaders to increase the strength of Midwestern and Rocky Mountain areas on the House agriculture committee.

Of the present 21 Democrats on this committee, only three are from these areas. The South dominates the Democratic membership.

The fact that Democrats unseated many Republican congressmen in this great Midwestern farm belt is the basis for the farm union's demand.

Most of the Midwestern farm area's representation on the present House agriculture committee is made up of Republicans who have opposed administration farm proposals. A number of these members were defeated in last week's election.

Because of reduced Republican strength in the House, the new agriculture committee is expected to have 24 members instead of the present 21 with the Republican membership being reduced from 14 to 11.

Certainly, such a changed lineup could be expected to make it easier for the administration to get farm legislation. The chairman of the committee will continue to be Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C.

A Devotional For The Day

Ye shall out with joy, and be led forth with peace. (Isaiah 55:12)

PRAYER: Dear Father, we thank Thee for all joys that are ours. We pray that our hearts may be filled with Thy spirit, so that we may serve to bring joy to others. May our laughter be kind. Help us, if ever we are tired or heartsore, to claim Thy restoring peace; through Jesus Christ. Amen.

Special Sessions

State senators and representatives may as well resign themselves to a regular session and perhaps two special sessions next year. The legislative "in-basket" is already pressed down and running over.

A hint of what is in store for them came the other day when Gov. John Connally joined other state officials in petitioning a three-judge federal court in Houston to give the state more time to act on congressional redistricting. Earlier the court set next Aug. 1 as the deadline for reshuffling congressional districts on the basis of "population only." The court has been asked to extend the deadline to Jan. 1, 1966.

The same federal court has under consideration a suit to require state senatorial and representative districts to be created to reflect the population only concept. In due course the court is expected to order the state to undertake this additional chore.

Perhaps the full regular session will be taken up with taxing and spending — for teachers' pay, primary, secondary and higher education, and other problems. After that one special session each may be needed for congressional and legislative redistricting.

The 59th Legislature convening in January may not have time for any fun in 1965.

Too, Too Long

It has been said off and on for a long, long time that U. S. presidential campaigns take a long, long time—too long. The truth of this observation never was more apparent than it was this year.

There are a couple of good reasons for this. One was the nature of the campaign itself. There was a minimum, this time, of substantive debate on the issues of the day. There was a great deal of harping on a few themes, and toward the end everyone had a feeling that everything had been said a number of times before.

Another reason why the length of the campaign was so unusually apparent this time around was that the British also held an election. Over there the candidates started later and quit earlier, and the balloting was done in mid-October. Those seeking office were not worn down to the nub by physical and mental exhaustion; the voters were not oppressed by boredom.

The British system probably would not be ideal for America. But never has it been so clear that something needs to be done about shortening the ordeal. Our system works, somehow, but it seems unduly hard on both candidates and the people.

Compatability Isn't Everything

This and that:

An American psycho-therapist contends that anyone who wants to marry should first have his head examined. Examined by a psychiatrist, that is.

The professional man insists that an engaged couple should be required to get a "license for compatibility" from a psychiatrist before the courts would permit them to tie the knot.

Who says a little incompatibility wrecks a family? A lot of couples regard themselves as happy despite their occasional bickering or perhaps because of it.

"A little while and I will be gone from among you, whither I cannot tell. From nowhere we come, into nowhere we go. What is life? It is a flash of a firefly in the night. Landslides Often Are Reversed

WASHINGTON — How long do "landslide" political victories last? History tells us that they have often been wiped out in less than two years.

The headlines of the last several days have proclaimed that President Johnson has won in the biggest landslide since 1936. But it so happens that two years later — in 1938 — Mr. Roosevelt suffered a set-back in the congressional elections. Republican strength in the House almost doubled, rising from 89 to 164, and the number of Republicans in the Senate increased by seven.

BUT THIS wasn't the only instance. In the 1920 election Warren Harding, Republican, swamped James M. Cox, Democrat, and received the biggest popular majority which had been registered up to that time by any President. He got 60.4 per cent of the total vote. But two years later, in 1922, the Republicans lost 76 seats in the House of Representatives and 8 seats in the Senate, retaining only a narrow majority.

Herbert Hoover won by a landslide in 1928 — with 58 per cent of the popular vote and all but 87 of the electoral votes. Yet in 1930 the Republicans lost the House of Representatives and barely held the Senate.

PRESIDENT FRANKLIN D. Roosevelt won in 1936 by the biggest landslide of electoral votes any candidate has ever received, exceeding even that which President Johnson got last week. The Democratic majority in both the House and Senate was the largest ever attained by either party, but it balked at FDR's plan in 1937 to "pack" the Supreme Court.

General Eisenhower won by a landslide of electoral votes in both 1952 and 1956. But after his first two years, his party did not have a majority in Congress during the remaining six years he was in office.

WHY, IT MAY be asked, does a President win by a landslide vote and yet fail to carry Congress, or suffer considerable losses in both Houses two years after a landslide victory? Often a business recession is primarily responsible. This was the case in 1922, 1930, 1933, and 1958.

Elections for members of Congress at the same time a President is chosen are not likely to be related to specific issues in the way they usually are in mid-term congressional elections. An example of what happens when concrete issues are placed before the voters occurred in California. Thus, while President Johnson sponsored the civil rights legislation and carried California by a large majority, the people in the Golden State voted in a referendum for an amendment to the state constitution to repeal a housing law which had interfered with the right of the individual to sell or rent his property to whomever he pleased. The people expressed disapproval of the law by passing the amendment.

IN AKRON, OHIO, too, the people voted against a local ordinance which attempted to regulate the sale of their property in the same way. There doutless will be plenty of issues developing in the next two years which will be fought out in the congressional campaigns of 1966.

If the Republican party remains a party of opposition instead of acquiescence, it may repeat the experience of the past when the party out of power has made substantial gains in Congress in the election held two years after a landslide victory by the other party in a presidential election. Quarrels inside the Republican party will be confusing for a while, and will interfere with attempts to unify. But, in the long run, sensible politicians will appraise public opinion. If they find it is opposed to the administration, they will join in the protest instead of adopting what has been called the "me-too" policy — namely, acceptance of the doctrines of the dominant party.

Frustrations Of Money Control

WASHINGTON—In one November out of four, the most frustrated men in public life are the members of the defeated national ticket, but year in and out the most thwarted persons you'll ever find are represented by two melancholy statues which guard the front and back entrances of the Treasury Department. These statues, one of Hamilton and one of Gallatin, stand for the everlasting impossibility of running a democratic nation on anything that resembles fiscal sanity and responsibility.

NOVEMBER in Washington is less often an election season than it is the seventh-inning stretch for ink-stained and mostly invisible wretches who labor to shape the national budget for presentation to the returning Congress.

THE ARITHMETIC of each budget is somewhat altered year by year, but the more the figures change, the more the non-attainment of sanity and responsibility remain the same. And the more futile becomes the sentry duty of those famous financiers—one of whom was Secretary of Treasury under George Washington, the first conservative in the presidency, and the other under Thomas Jefferson, the first of the liberal Presidents.

The problems of both the secretaries have not changed, and the solutions have not arrived. Hamilton's theory of Federal money management was thrifty and forthright—let Congress give the President a lump sum, subject to an accounting at the end of each year. Why not? Who could be more trustworthy than Washington? And if the Republic continued to elevate men of conscience and ability to the presidency, the same principle would apply to succeeding chief magistrates. Hamilton went to work as "agent and advisor" to Congress. He told that body how much money was needed and why, and in 1789 the House Ways and Means Committee assented to his essential requests. But it was the beginning of presidential demands for an open-end public purse.

GALLATIN'S liberalism told him that the popularly-elected branch of Congress ought to control not only the appropriation of money but its expenditure.

From his position on Ways and Means in 1795 Gallatin attacked the lump sum, no strings handling of the Federal budget. All funds, he believed, must be "solely applied" to itemized "objects."

Had the best of both systems prevailed, we might have today the separation of powers as intended by the Constitution. But galloping liberalism by Andrew Jackson's time had brought the presidency down to the level of "the common man," which is considerably below the standards of the early Republic. And the creeping use of the Constitution's welfare clause enshrined the fallacy that public money is "everybody's" money.

TODAY there's a sound case for stating that neither Hamilton's idea of executive responsibility nor Gallatin's theory of Congressional responsibility have a controlling restraint over Federal spending. Some 35 items in the 1964 Budget have been identified as entailing obligations far into the future. Fully 42 per cent of the new funds asked by the 1964 Budget are beyond any effective annual accounting.

We think of Defense spending as being inviolate, but military spending is still less than half of the annual output. An agency such as the Health-Education-Welfare Department has about $16 billion of its $23 billion locked into trust funds that are permanent, indefinite and untouchable.

POOR HAMILTON would not dare hand any President the lump sum of close to $100 billion to spend. And poor Gallatin could not assemble a Congressional committee that would dare to cancel obligations which are owed to hundreds of banks, thousands of industries and millions of farmers, pensioners, research institutions and employes.

The two classic methods of governmental management are so mongrelized that both have lost their identity.

New Cabinet Department?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once again it looks as though Congress might do something for President Johnson that it didn't do for President John F. Kennedy.

The word at the Capitol today was that Johnson, if he asks for it, can get congressional approval of a new Cabinet department to handle urban affairs and housing.

Congress had refused to go along with Kennedy's plan for the department. Similarly, it didn't pass the civil rights law he asked, nor a Social Security link for medical care for the aged.

But Johnson got the civil rights bill through this year, and is all set to push in the new Congress for medical care. He may not have to work nearly so hard to get the new Cabinet department for urban affairs.

President Kennedy twice tried to get Congress to let him wrap up city affairs and housing in one department. First, a proposed law got blocked in a House committee. Then, when he sent his plan to Congress in the form of a government reorganization, the House vetoed it.

HOWEVER, A good many of those who voted against Kennedy's plan were defeated for reelection Tuesday. The Democratic majority in the House was increased by approximately 40 seats, a formidable bloc.

One of the reasons Kennedy lost was that he announced beforehand that if Congress approved the new department, he would pick a Negro to head it. This displeased many Southerners and set off Republican protests that Kennedy was injecting the racial issue.

The Negro then in line for the job was Robert C. Weaver, federal housing and home finance administrator. Whether Johnson would appoint him remains to be seen.

Weaver has called for creation of the new department as "symbolic recognition of the right of the 73 per cent of the people of the nation living in urban areas to be represented at the Cabinet level."

Some Born With Teeth

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

It has been found that about one of every 2,000 children is born with teeth. Since they are so loosely emplaced, some doctors take the teeth out to keep the child from swallowing them.

I have just been informed that a flea can lift 140 times its own weight, and if you were as comparatively strong as a flea, you could hoist a 10-ton truck.

The human eye at its ordinary strength can detect four million shades of color, science has found. It also has been found that men are about 20 times as likely as women to suffer from color blindness.

The unsleeping eye of science also has discovered that neither the tapeworm nor the hookworm has a heart.

The largest infant ever born in this world is the calf of a blue whale. At birth, the whale calf measures up to 25 feet long and weighs several tons. In contrast, a polar bear cub weighs about a pound upon emergence from its mother, and can be cuddled in a woman's hand.

History lesson: Can you name the only U.S. president who was inaugurated in two cities? George Washington was sworn first to national command in New York on April 30, 1789, and at the start of his second term in Philadelphia, Pa., on March 4, 1793.

The apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lawford in the swank Fifth Avenue hotel now is available, price: $3,200 a month — gas and electricity free. No extra charge for the elevator.

As a wry contrast to our present prosperity, it may not be out of place to point out that about 200 years ago milk sold for 9 cents a gallon, tobacco at a nickel a pound, and bread at two cents a loaf.

What price knowledge: U.S. educational authorities estimate that by 1973 it will cost a freshman $12,250 to get through a private college, or $8,000 to graduate from a state college.

Know your language: The word asbestos means in effect "the unburnable stone." The ancient Romans used napkins made of asbestos, and instead of washing them in water purified them by thrusting them into flame.

Quickies: Turtles have no "ears" but hear well. A car was stolen every 1½ minutes last year. We eat about 28 million sandwiches a day. If you get into an argument with a bear, don't try to outrun him —he may gallop up to 35 miles an hour.

It was Oliver Wendell Holmes who observed, "To be 70 years young is sometimes far more cheerful and hopeful than to be 40 years old."

False Alarm

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Firemen responded to a call on North Main Street but could not find the reported address or any nearby blaze.

When they returned to the station a telephone operator explained the false alarm. Seems that a person in Peabody, Kan., 40 miles away, tried to report a fire and in his excitement dialed into an automatic long distance circuit, and thus got the Wichita Fire Department by mistake.

Billy Graham

Now that my husband died I am all alone and frightened. Please help me. F.S.

You've forgotten Christ's promise, "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." (Matthew 28:20). Christ is knocking on your door. Open it. Invite Him in, and you'll never feel all alone again. This has been the experience of countless Christians. It can be yours today. Think of Him as there by your side. Open your Bible and read the Gospels again. The Good News is for you.

Pray that the Comforter will come, and He will. The living Christ is waiting to comfort you now. You are never alone if Jesus is with you. He came and suffered for you. He died and rose again so that He could always be near to bring you help. Listen to the promise He gave to you and to me: "I will not leave you comfortless, I will come to you:" (John 14:18). You can trust His word. Jesus is trying now to calm your fears. All you have to do is open your heart to Him.

Now look around you and see what you can do to help someone else. The world is full of lonely, burdened people, and the Lord is looking for loving hearts He can use to bless theirs.

Dropsy Can Result From Several Things

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My elderly father has dropsy. Thus far it is confined to his ankles. Could you tell me a little about it?—MRS. G. W.

Dropsy is the accumulation of excessive fluid in tissues of the body. The feet and ankles are most likely to show it first, but it can occur elsewhere. After all, the feet are farther from the heart, as well as below it, so any interference in circulation increases the problem. The blood stream must carry this extra fluid back to the heart and then to the kidneys to be filtered out.

The dropsy, or swelling, can result from kidney or liver diseases, from a gradually weakening heart, or from interference with free circulation of blood in the legs.

It is important to consult a doctor so he can find out which is responsible, because the right treatment for one may not be the right treatment for another.

Caught in an early stage, such as this case evidently is, dropsy usually responds to treatment.

If inadequate circulation is the cause, the swelling tends to appear or to become more severe toward the end of the day. Or the heart may be inefficient. Or both factors may be combined. Some degree of dilated or varicose veins is a possibility. (I have also known men to have swollen ankles from wearing socks that are too tight at the top.)

Where kidney disease is the cause, swelling is usually obvious in the morning as well as throughout the day and the loose tissues around the eyes may become puffy.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: I have diverticulosis and also an infected gall bladder. I sent 20 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for your booklet, "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You," and it proved a great help.

But what about an infected gall bladder? What does it signify, and is there danger of the infection spreading to other organs? My doctor has not suggested an operation. I am in my early 70's.—S. N.

Like diverticulosis, ailments of the gall bladder are very common. They do, however, deserve closer watchfulness by your physician.

Risk is not especially a problem of the infection spreading to other organs; rather, it is a question of how much the infection interferes with the gall bladder itself. Let's compare it to a sinus infection. It can be chronic yet sometimes not cause much trouble.

In view of your age, your doctor probably takes the position that he can afford to wait and see: if your gall bladder continues to function despite the infection, to let well enough alone. If you were younger, and if the infection showed signs of getting worse, then he might well take the opposite view and suggest surgery. In your case, my advice is to let your doctor do the worrying over whether to operate or not.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please write something about the itch of diabetes symptoms.—J.R.C.

Generalized itching of the skin can be a symptom of severe and uncontrolled diabetes.

More often, however, the itching occurs where there are folds in the skin, such as under the breast, or in the genital areas. In the latter case, sugar in the urine can be irritating, or there may be fungus infections of skin and genital tract — or perhaps both.

In any event, controlling the diabetes and thus lessening the sugar content of the urine usually brings relief.

So Who Is There Left?

WASHINGTON — Hubert H. Humphrey rides a horse with the quiet dignity of a divinity student caught in a raid on a kooch dance, but the suspicion grows that the only real class in a sorry crop is his.

Kennedy minumus now of New York is sometimes held to possess credentials that would raise him above the howling mediocrity of American politicians, but the hash he made of his campaign in New York should dispose of any such notion. It was faintly embarrassing to watch him campaign with Big Daddy; the image that kept occurring to this witness was one of a kid visiting a glue works with his pa, the owner.

IT IS INTERESTING to note that his initial act of office was to undertake to sweet-talk the Secretary of Defense into keeping the Brooklyn Navy Yard open. In this he may succeed, since merit seldom enters into the making of such decisions, but in any event it is not an act of statecraft that portends any major contributions to the arts of government. To this instant there is nothing in his record that suggests he is anything but an immensely wealthy young man who in the year 1964 became the world champion rider of presidential coattails.

REAL TALENT was hard to find these dismal months past. The wretched drudges at the press table tried to tell the truth about Sen. Barry Goldwater, and were roundly abused for their pains, but the truth of the matter is that the poor man spoke millions of words and said nothing.

It is sad to contemplate, but there is small comfort in the new-found responsibility of Republican leaders who are now privately conspiring to sack Goldwater and his hand-picked equerry, Dean Burch. These same men, with few exceptions, sat on their platitudes while the Goldwaterites drew their plan for disaster.

BIG DADDY is properly credited with fashioning an almost unprecedented personal triumph. Nothing approaching it has been seen since FDR and, or, Warren Harding. But a presidential campaign isn't the presidency, and delighting the hirams is a far cry from getting off the hook in South Viet Nam.

The President is now said to have made the tentative decision to do nothing in Southeast Asia except what he has been doing since he took office. If this is his decision, it is the counsel of despair. The Communist Chinese mean to drive the last hated platoon of round eyes off the mainland Asia, and they will do it in a short time unless bold and imaginative policies replace those now in being. Somehow the picture of Big Daddy as a global innovator just doesn't come through, although in fairness it needs to be pointed out that he has been, to date, cast in the role of a caretaker President.

BUT HHH, if he ever ascends to high office, might be quite a different story from all the rest. He is smart. Talky, but smart. And he works hard. So what if he can't ride a horse? Whatever Goldwater and Big Daddy think, horses have had their day.

More Theaters

NEW YORK (AP)—The operators of a summer tent theater in Indianapolis are planning to develop a circuit of 22 similar playhouses in the Middle West, the South and Puerto Rico.

The project is expected to take five years for completion.

Dear Abby

Those Busy Teenagers

DEAR ABBY: We have two teenage girls who read your column so maybe if you answered this in the paper it would help. Why can't they be in bed with their homework done and their clothes laid out by 11 o'clock on school nights? At 11:30 they are poking around, just starting to wash their hair, and I know all their homework isn't finished. The next morning it's a madhouse deciding what to wear. I have all I can do to get a bite of breakfast down them with all that rushing around. If you can solve this problem, you're a genius.

INADEQUATE MOM

DEAR MOM: If it's any comfort to you, your problem is shared by millions. The cause is lack of organization. Believe it or not, the busiest people in the world are teenagers. Their days are filled with school, sports, music lessons, dental appointments, social activities, clubs, homework, television and telephoning. They should put themselves on a FIRST-THINGS-FIRST schedule. After appointments which cannot be changed, their homework should be done. The most subtle thieves of time, television and telephoning, should be allowed only after the homework is finished. The selection of clothes, however, cannot be made the night before because according to the teen code, they must first see what the weather is like, and then check with friends to find out what THEY are wearing.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My fiance has a habit of sniffing. It does not bother me because I am very much in love with him, but it bothers my parents to distraction. They are constantly at me to tell him to quit sniffing. I have told him to please try to stop, but I know it is something he can't help. He has gone to all kinds of nose specialists and to allergists, too, and they all say it can't be helped. He has had this condition almost all his life, Abby. Is there anything I can do about it?

SNIFFER'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: Yes, tell your parents that HE has learned to live with it, and because you love him, you will, too. And since it can't be helped, you would appreciate their not mentioning it any more as THEIR nagging is more distracting than HIS sniffing.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I can remember my mother foolishly turning purple and green whenever some female looked at my father. I try to guard against that same sort of jealousy myself, knowing where my reactions stem from.

Tell me, how would you like it if your husband was confined to his bed for a few weeks and his office kept calling him with messages like, "Miss Anderson says to tell him she loves him." And, "When Gloria heard how sick he was, she just broke down and bawled."

Remarks like these just make my insides churn. Have I a legitimate gripe, or should I try to "understand"?

JUST HIS WIFE

Powell Tells Offer Rumor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., says he has heard a rumor that he might be offered appointment as secretary of labor.

The 55-year-old congressman told reporters Sunday night he had heard the report "from a perfect stranger in New York just before leaving" for San Francisco.

Powell said such an offer from President Johnson would require "an agonizing decision." The job is held by W. Willard Wirtz, an appointee of the late President John F. Kennedy.

W. Berliners Visit Kin In East Zone

BERLIN (AP) — Nearly 200,000 West Berliners passed through the wall over the weekend, bringing to a half million the number who have visited relatives in the Soviet sector since the Communists raised the barriers 11 days ago.

A Devotional For The Day

Ye shall out with joy, and be led forth with peace. (Isaiah 55:12)

PRAYER: Dear Father, we thank Thee for all joys that are ours. We pray that our hearts may be filled with Thy spirit, so that we may serve to bring joy to others. May our laughter be kind. Help us, if ever we are tired or heartsore, to claim Thy restoring peace; through Jesus Christ. Amen.

Special Sessions

State senators and representatives may as well resign themselves to a regular session and perhaps two special sessions next year. The legislative "in-basket" is already pressed down and running over.

A hint of what is in store for them came the other day when Gov. John Connally joined other state officials in petitioning a three-judge federal court in Houston to give the state more time to act on congressional redistricting. Earlier the court set next Aug. 1 as the deadline for reshuffling congressional districts on the basis of "population only." The court has been asked to extend the deadline to Jan. 1, 1966.

The same federal court has under consideration a suit to require state senatorial and representative districts to be created to reflect the population only concept. In due course the court is expected to order the state to undertake this additional chore.

Perhaps the full regular session will be taken up with taxing and spending — for teachers' pay, primary, secondary and higher education, and other problems. After that one special session each may be needed for congressional and legislative redistricting.

The 59th Legislature convening in January may not have time for any fun in 1965.

Too, Too Long

It has been said off and on for a long, long time that U. S. presidential campaigns take a long, long time—too long. The truth of this observation never was more apparent than it was this year.

There are a couple of good reasons for this. One was the nature of the campaign itself. There was a minimum, this time, of substantive debate on the issues of the day. There was a great deal of harping on a few themes, and toward the end everyone had a feeling that everything had been said a number of times before.

Another reason why the length of the campaign was so unusually apparent this time around was that the British also held an election. Over there the candidates started later and quit earlier, and the balloting was done in mid-October. Those seeking office were not worn down to the nub by physical and mental exhaustion; the voters were not oppressed by boredom.

The British system probably would not be ideal for America. But never has it been so clear that something needs to be done about shortening the ordeal. Our system works, somehow, but it seems unduly hard on both candidates and the people.

Compatability Isn't Everything

This and that:

An American psycho-therapist contends that anyone who wants to marry should first have his head examined. Examined by a psychiatrist, that is.

The professional man insists that an engaged couple should be required to get a "license for compatibility" from a psychiatrist before the courts would permit them to tie the knot.

Who says a little incompatibility wrecks a family? A lot of couples regard themselves as happy despite their occasional bickering or perhaps because of it.

"A little while and I will be gone from among you, whither I cannot tell. From nowhere we come, into nowhere we go. What is life? It is a flash of a firefly in the night. It is a breath of a buffalo in the winter time. It is as the little shadow that runs across the grass and loses itself in the sunset."

Landslides Often Are Reversed

WASHINGTON — How long do "landslide" political victories last? History tells us that they have often been wiped out in less than two years.

The headlines of the last several days have proclaimed that President Johnson has won in the biggest landslide since 1936. But it so happens that two years later — in 1938 — Mr. Roosevelt suffered a set-back in the congressional elections. Republican strength in the House almost doubled, rising from 89 to 164, and the number of Republicans in the Senate increased by seven.

BUT THIS wasn't the only instance. In the 1920 election Warren Harding, Republican, swamped James M. Cox, Democrat, and received the biggest popular majority which had been registered up to that time by any President. He got 60.4 per cent of the total vote. But two years later, in 1922, the Republicans lost 76 seats in the House of Representatives and 8 seats in the Senate, retaining only a narrow majority.

Herbert Hoover won by a landslide in 1928 — with 58 per cent of the popular vote and all but 87 of the electoral votes. Yet in 1930 the Republicans lost the House of Representatives and barely held the Senate.

PRESIDENT FRANKLIN D. Roosevelt won in 1936 by the biggest landslide of electoral votes any candidate has ever received, exceeding even that which President Johnson got last week. The Democratic majority in both the House and Senate was the largest ever attained by either party, but it balked at FDR's plan in 1937 to "pack" the Supreme Court.

General Eisenhower won by a landslide of electoral votes in both 1952 and 1956. But after his first two years, his party did not have a majority in Congress during the remaining six years he was in office.

WHY, IT MAY be asked, does a President win by a landslide vote and yet fail to carry Congress, or suffer considerable losses in both Houses two years after a landslide victory? Often a business recession is primarily responsible. This was the case in 1922, 1930, 1933, and 1958.

Elections for members of Congress at the same time a President is chosen are not likely to be related to specific issues in the way they usually are in mid-term congressional elections. An example of what happens when concrete issues are placed before the voters occurred in California. Thus, while President Johnson sponsored the civil rights legislation and carried California by a large majority, the people in the Golden State voted in a referendum for an amendment to the state constitution to repeal a housing law which had interfered with the right of the individual to sell or rent his property to whomever he pleased. The people expressed disapproval of the law by passing the amendment.

IN AKRON, OHIO, too, the people voted against a local ordinance which attempted to regulate the sale of their property in the same way. There doutless will be plenty of issues developing in the next two years which will be fought out in the congressional campaigns of 1966.

If the Republican party remains a party of opposition instead of acquiescence, it may repeat the experience of the past when the party out of power has made substantial gains in Congress in the election held two years after a landslide victory by the other party in a presidential election. Quarrels inside the Republican party will be confusing for a while, and will interfere with attempts to unify. But, in the long run, sensible politicians will appraise public opinion. If they find it is opposed to the administration, they will join in the protest instead of adopting what has been called the "me-too" policy — namely, acceptance of the doctrines of the dominant party.

Frustrations Of Money Control

WASHINGTON—In one November out of four, the most frustrated men in public life are the members of the defeated national ticket, but year in and out the most thwarted persons you'll ever find are represented by two melancholy statues which guard the front and back entrances of the Treasury Department. These statues, one of Hamilton and one of Gallatin, stand for the everlasting impossibility of running a democratic nation on anything that resembles fiscal sanity and responsibility.

NOVEMBER in Washington is less often an election season than it is the seventh-inning stretch for ink-stained and mostly invisible wretches who labor to shape the national budget for presentation to the returning Congress.

THE ARITHMETIC of each budget is somewhat altered year by year, but the more the figures change, the more the non-attainment of sanity and responsibility remain the same. And the more futile becomes the sentry duty of those famous financiers—one of whom was Secretary of Treasury under George Washington, the first conservative in the presidency, and the other under Thomas Jefferson, the first of the liberal Presidents.

The problems of both the secretaries have not changed, and the solutions have not arrived. Hamilton's theory of Federal money management was thrifty and forthright—let Congress give the President a lump sum, subject to an accounting at the end of each year. Why not? Who could be more trustworthy than Washington? And if the Republic continued to elevate men of conscience and ability to the presidency, the same principle would apply to succeeding chief magistrates. Hamilton went to work as "agent and advisor" to Congress. He told that body how much money was needed and why, and in 1789 the House Ways and Means Committee assented to his essential requests. But it was the beginning of presidential demands for an open-end public purse.

GALLATIN'S liberalism told him that the popularly-elected branch of Congress ought to control not only the appropriation of money but its expenditure.

From his position on Ways and Means in 1795 Gallatin attacked the lump sum, no strings handling of the Federal budget. All funds, he believed, must be "solely applied" to itemized "objects."

Had the best of both systems prevailed, we might have today the separation of powers as intended by the Constitution. But galloping liberalism by Andrew Jackson's time had brought the presidency down to the level of "the common man," which is considerably below the standards of the early Republic. And the creeping use of the Constitution's welfare clause enshrined the fallacy that public money is "everybody's" money.

TODAY there's a sound case for stating that neither Hamilton's idea of executive responsibility nor Gallatin's theory of Congressional responsibility have a controlling restraint over Federal spending. Some 35 items in the 1964 Budget have been identified as entailing obligations far into the future. Fully 42 per cent of the new funds asked by the 1964 Budget are beyond any effective annual accounting.

We think of Defense spending as being inviolate, but military spending is still less than half of the annual output. An agency such as the Health-Education-Welfare Department has about $16 billion of its $23 billion locked into trust funds that are permanent, indefinite and untouchable.

POOR HAMILTON would not dare hand any President the lump sum of close to $100 billion to spend. And poor Gallatin could not assemble a Congressional committee that would dare to cancel obligations which are owed to hundreds of banks, thousands of industries and millions of farmers, pensioners, research institutions and employes.

The two classic methods of governmental management are so mongrelized that both have lost their identity.

New Cabinet Department?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once again it looks as though Congress might do something for President Johnson that it didn't do for President John F. Kennedy.

The word at the Capitol today was that Johnson, if he asks for it, can get congressional approval of a new Cabinet department to handle urban affairs and housing.

Congress had refused to go along with Kennedy's plan for the department. Similarly, it didn't pass the civil rights law he asked, nor a Social Security link for medical care for the aged.

But Johnson got the civil rights bill through this year, and is all set to push in the new Congress for medical care. He may not have to work nearly so hard to get the new Cabinet department for urban affairs.

President Kennedy twice tried to get Congress to let him wrap up city affairs and housing in one department. First, a proposed law got blocked in a House committee. Then, when he sent his plan to Congress in the form of a government reorganization, the House vetoed it.

HOWEVER, A good many of those who voted against Kennedy's plan were defeated for reelection Tuesday. The Democratic majority in the House was increased by approximately 40 seats, a formidable bloc.

One of the reasons Kennedy lost was that he announced beforehand that if Congress approved the new department, he would pick a Negro to head it. This displeased many Southerners and set off Republican protests that Kennedy was injecting the racial issue.

The Negro then in line for the job was Robert C. Weaver, federal housing and home finance administrator. Whether Johnson would appoint him remains to be seen.

Weaver has called for creation of the new department as "symbolic recognition of the right of the 73 per cent of the people of the nation living in urban areas to be represented at the Cabinet level."

Some Born With Teeth

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

It has been found that about one of every 2,000 children is born with teeth. Since they are so loosely emplaced, some doctors take the teeth out to keep the child from swallowing them.

I have just been informed that a flea can lift 140 times its own weight, and if you were as comparatively strong as a flea, you could hoist a 10-ton truck.

The human eye at its ordinary strength can detect four million shades of color, science has found. It also has been found that men are about 20 times as likely as women to suffer from color blindness.

The unsleeping eye of science also has discovered that neither the tapeworm nor the hookworm has a heart.

The largest infant ever born in this world is the calf of a blue whale. At birth, the whale calf measures up to 25 feet long and weighs several tons. In contrast, a polar bear cub weighs about a pound upon emergence from its mother, and can be cuddled in a woman's hand.

History lesson: Can you name the only U.S. president who was inaugurated in two cities? George Washington was sworn first to national command in New York on April 30, 1789, and at the start of his second term in Philadelphia, Pa., on March 4, 1793.

The apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lawford in the swank Fifth Avenue hotel now is available, price: $3,200 a month — gas and electricity free. No extra charge for the elevator.

As a wry contrast to our present prosperity, it may not be out of place to point out that about 200 years ago milk sold for 9 cents a gallon, tobacco at a nickel a pound, and bread at two cents a loaf.

What price knowledge: U.S. educational authorities estimate that by 1973 it will cost a freshman $12,250 to get through a private college, or $8,000 to graduate from a state college.

Know your language: The word asbestos means in effect "the unburnable stone." The ancient Romans used napkins made of asbestos, and instead of washing them in water purified them by thrusting them into flame.

Quickies: Turtles have no "ears" but hear well. A car was stolen every 1½ minutes last year. We eat about 28 million sandwiches a day. If you get into an argument with a bear, don't try to outrun him —he may gallop up to 35 miles an hour.

It was Oliver Wendell Holmes who observed, "To be 70 years young is sometimes far more cheerful and hopeful than to be 40 years old."

False Alarm

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Firemen responded to a call on North Main Street but could not find the reported address or any nearby blaze.

When they returned to the station a telephone operator explained the false alarm. Seems that a person in Peabody, Kan., 40 miles away, tried to report a fire and in his excitement dialed into an automatic long distance circuit, and thus got the Wichita Fire Department by mistake.

Billy Graham

Now that my husband died I am all alone and frightened. Please help me. F.S.

You've forgotten Christ's promise, "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." (Matthew 28:30). Christ is knocking on your door. Open it. Invite Him in, and you'll never feel all alone again. This has been the experience of countless Christians. It can be yours today. Think of Him as there by your side. Open your Bible and read the Gospels again. The Good News is for you.

Pray that the Comforter will come, and He will. The living Christ is waiting to comfort you now. You are never alone if Jesus is with you. He came and suffered for you. He died and rose again so that He could always be near to bring you help. Listen to the promise He gave to you and to me: "I will not leave you comfortless, I will come to you." (John 14:18). You can trust His word. Jesus is trying now to calm your fears. All you have to do is open your heart to Him.

Now look around you and see what you can do to help someone else. The world is full of lonely, burdened people, and the Lord is looking for loving hearts He can use to bless theirs.

Dropsy Can Result From Several Things

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My elderly father has dropsy. Thus far it is confined to his ankles. Could you tell me a little about it?—MRS. G. W.

Dropsy is the accumulation of excessive fluid in tissues of the body. The feet and ankles are most likely to show it first, but it can occur elsewhere. After all, the feet are farther from the heart, as well as below it, so any interference in circulation increases the problem. The blood stream must carry this extra fluid back to the heart and then to the kidneys to be filtered out.

The dropsy, or swelling, can result from kidney or liver diseases, from a gradually weakening heart, or from interference with free circulation of blood in the legs.

It is important to consult a doctor so he can find out which is responsible, because the right treatment for one may not be the right treatment for another.

Caught in an early stage, such as this case evidently is, dropsy usually responds to treatment.

If inadequate circulation is the cause, the swelling tends to appear or to become more severe toward the end of the day. Or the heart may be inefficient. Or both factors may be combined. Some degree of dilated or varicose veins is a possibility. (I have also known men to have swollen ankles from wearing socks that are too tight at the top.)

Where kidney disease is the cause, swelling is usually obvious in the morning as well as throughout the day and the loose tissues around the eyes may become puffy.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: I have diverticulosis and also an infected gall bladder. I sent 20 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for your booklet, "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You," and it proved a great help.

But what about an infected gall bladder? What does it signify, and is there danger of the infection spreading to other organs? My doctor has not suggested an operation. I am in my early 70's.—S. N.

Like diverticulosis, ailments of the gall bladder are very common. They do, however, deserve closer watchfulness by your physician.

Risk is not especially a problem of the infection spreading to other organs; rather, it is a question of how much the infection interferes with the gall bladder itself. Let's compare it to a sinus infection. It can be chronic yet sometimes not cause much trouble.

In view of your age, your doctor probably takes the position that he can afford to wait and see; if your gall bladder continues to function despite the infection, to let well enough alone. If you were younger, and if the infection showed signs of getting worse, then he might well take the opposite view and suggest surgery. In your case, my advice is to let your doctor do the worrying over whether to operate or not.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please write something about the itch of diabetes symptoms.—J.R.C.

Generalized itching of the skin can be a symptom of severe and uncontrolled diabetes.

More often, however, the itching occurs where there are folds in the skin, such as under the breast, or in the genital areas. In the latter case, sugar in the urine can be irritating, or there may be fungus infections of skin and genital tract — or perhaps both.

In any event, controlling the diabetes and thus lessening the sugar content of the urine usually brings relief.

Richard Starnes

So Who Is There Left?

WASHINGTON — Hubert H. Humphrey rides a horse with the quiet dignity of a divinity student caught in a raid on a kooch dance, but the suspicion grows that the only real class in a sorry crop is his.

Kennedy minumus now of New York is sometimes held to possess credentials that would raise him above the howling mediocrity of American politicians, but the hash he made of his campaign in New York could dispose of any such notion. It was faintly embarrassing to watch him campaign with Big Daddy; the image that kept occurring to this witness was one of a kid visiting a glue works with his pa, the owner.

IT IS INTERESTING to note that his initial act of office was to undertake to sweet-talk the Secretary of Defense into keeping the Brooklyn Navy Yard open. In this he may succeed, since merit seldom enters into the making of such decisions, but in any event it is not an act of statecraft that portends any major contributions to the arts of government. To this instant there is nothing in his record that suggests he is anything but an immensely wealthy young man who in the year 1964 became the world champion rider of presidential coattails.

REAL TALENT was hard to find these dismal months past. The wretched drudges at the press table tried to tell the truth about Sen. Barry Goldwater, and were roundly abused for their pains, but the truth of the matter is that the poor man spoke millions of words and said nothing.

It is sad to contemplate, but there is small comfort in the new-found responsibility of Republican leaders who are now privately conspiring to sack Goldwater and his hand-picked equerry, Dean Burch. These same men, with few exceptions, sat on their platitudes while the Goldwaterites drew their plan for disaster.

BIG DADDY is properly credited with fashioning an almost unprecedented personal triumph. Nothing approaching it has been seen since FDR and, or, Warren Harding. But a presidential campaign isn't the presidency, and delighting the hirams is a far cry from getting off the hook in South Viet Nam.

The President is now said to have made the tentative decision to do nothing in Southeast Asia except what he has been doing since he took office. If this is his decision, it is the counsel of despair. The Communist Chinese mean to drive the last hated platoon of round eyes off the mainland Asia, and they will do it in a short time unless bold and imaginative policies replace those now in being. Somehow the picture of Big Daddy as a global innovator just doesn't come through, although in fairness it needs to be pointed out that he has been, to date, cast in the role of a caretaker President.

BUT HHH, if he ever ascends to high office, might be quite a different story from all the rest. He is smart. Talky, but smart. And he works hard. So what if he can't ride a horse? Whatever Goldwater and Big Daddy think, horses have had their day.

More Theaters

NEW YORK (AP)—The operators of a summer tent theater in Indianapolis are planning to develop a circuit of 22 similar playhouses in the Middle West, the South and Puerto Rico.

W. Taylor Wilson, one of the founders of the Avondale Playhouse, said the purpose is "to bring live theater to cities that don't have it."

The project is expected to take five years for completion.

Dear Abby

Those Busy Teenagers

DEAR ABBY: We have two teenage girls who read your column so maybe if you answered this in the paper it would help. Why can't they be in bed with their homework done and their clothes laid out by 11 o'clock on school nights? At 11:30 they are poking around, just starting to wash their hair, and I know all their homework isn't finished. The next morning it's a madhouse deciding what to wear. I have all I can do to get a bite of breakfast down them with all that rushing around. If you can solve this problem, you're a genius.

INADEQUATE MOM

DEAR MOM: If it's any comfort to you, your problem is shared by millions. The cause is lack of organization. Believe it or not, the busiest people in the world are teenagers. Their days are filled with school, sports, music lessons, dental appointments, social activities, clubs, homework, television and telephoning. They should put themselves on a FIRST-THINGS-FIRST schedule. After appointments which cannot be changed, their homework should be done. The most subtle thieves of time, television and telephoning, should be allowed only after the homework is finished. The selection of clothes, however, cannot be made the night before because according to the teen code, they must first see what the weather is like, and then check with friends to find out what THEY are wearing.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My fiance has a habit of sniffing. It does not bother me because I am very much in love with him, but it bothers my parents to distraction. They are constantly at me to tell him to quit sniffing. I have told him to please try to stop, but I know it is something he can't help. He has gone to all kinds of nose specialists and to allergists, too, and they all say it can't be helped. He has had this condition almost all his life, Abby. Is there anything I can do about it?

SNIFFER'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: Yes, tell your parents that HE has learned to live with it, and because you love him, you will, too. And since it can't be helped, you would appreciate their not mentioning it any more as THEIR nagging is more distracting than HIS sniffing.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I can remember my mother foolishly turning purple and green whenever some female looked at my father. I try to guard against that same sort of jealousy myself, knowing where my reactions stem from.

Tell me, how would you like it if your husband was confined to his bed for a few weeks and his office kept calling him with messages like, "Miss Anderson says to tell him she loves him." And, "When Gloria heard how sick he was, she just broke down and bawled."

Remarks like these just make my insides churn. Have I a legitimate gripe, or should I try to "understand"?

JUST HIS WIFE

DEAR JUST: Try to understand. And thank heavens for such a likable husband.

Powell Tells Offer Rumor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., says he has heard a rumor that he might be offered appointment as secretary of labor.

The 55-year-old congressman told reporters Sunday night he had heard the report "from a perfect stranger in New York just before leaving" for San Francisco.

Powell said such an offer from President Johnson would require "an agonizing decision." The job is held by W. Willard Wirtz, an appointee of the late President John F. Kennedy.

W. Berliners Visit Kin In East Zone

BERLIN (AP) — Nearly 200,000 West Berliners passed through the wall over the weekend, bringing to a half million the number who have visited relatives in the Soviet sector since the Communists raised the barriers 11 days ago.

Ex-Mouseketeer, Heir Honeymoon

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Former Walt Disney Mouseketeer Cheryl Holdridge honeymooned today with Lance Reventlow, heir to the Woolworth dime store fortune.

Miss Holdrige, 19, and Reventlow, 28, were wed Sunday in an elaborate double-ring ceremony that had only one hitch—the bride put the groom's ring on his right hand instead of his left.

600 GUESTS

Prompted by the minister, the Rev. Ronald Potter of Unity church, the nervous bride corrected the error.

Some 600 guests, including actor Cary Grant, crowded the Westwood Community Methodist church.

Missing were the groom's mother, Barbara Hutton, ill in Paris; and the bride's father, Brig. Gen. Herbert C. Holdrige, hospitalized in Washington, D.C.

But Miss Hutton gave the pair a $500,000 wedding gift—a five-bedroom, six-bath home on a 2½-acre site in nearby Benedict Canyon.

The couple will live there after a month-long Hawaiian honeymoon.

Among the 25 members of the wedding party were singer Jimmy Boyd; Tom Skouras of the theatrical family; Ronnie Burns, son of George Burns and the late Gracie Allen; and actress Susan Seaforth.

WED BEFORE

The marriage was the first for Miss Holdrige. Reventlow, a sports car racer and builder, formerly was wed to actress Jill St. John.

Reventlow, estranged from his father, Danish Count Curt von Haugwitz Reventlow, long has considered Grant his foster father.

Grant, like the count, was formerly married to Miss Hutton.

Solution Seen In 3 Killings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting Atty. Gen Nicholas Katzenbach predicts solution to the murder of three civil rights workers in Mississippi because "I believe that eventually we will get some evidence and some people will talk."

Katzenbach, interviewed Sunday on a Radio Press International program, agreed the government may have "information that would point toward some individual." But he said it "may not be quite what is required to present a case and secure an indictment."

The government has examined voting records in 67 or 68 counties in Mississippi, Katzenbach said, "and I could predict on the basis of those records that it's going to be likely there are going to be more voting suits."

Heads Tammany Hall

This is Mrs. Charlotte Spiegel, 40-year-old brunette, who has become the first woman to rule Tammany Hall, the Manhattan Democratic organization in New York City. She said she is "quite breathless" about heading the organization even though the job may last only a few weeks. She was put in the chief's chair by Edward N. Costikyan when he resigned. His resignation becomes effective Dec. 5. At that time the executive committee will elect a permanent successor. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Tammany Ruler Is N.Y. Woman

NEW YORK (AP)—A pretty, 40-year-old brunette has become the first woman to rule Tammany Hall.

Charlotte Spiegel, 100 pounds of political savvy, says she's "quite breathless" about heading the Manhattan Democratic organization, even though the job may last only a few weeks.

Mrs. Spiegel, wife of Judge Samuel A. Spiegel of Civil Court and mother of two teenage daughters, was put in the chief's chair by Edward N. Costikyan when he resigned Thursday as New York County party leader to devote full time to his law practice.

Costikyan's resignation won't become effective until Dec. 5. But he said he had asked Mrs. Spiegel—first woman elected as chairman of the Democratic County Committee's executive committee—to serve as acting leader until the executive committee elects a successor.

Mrs. Spiegel, a former school teacher with a master's degree in English, will have to spend much of her time talking with party district leaders on the telephone and in her Democratic clubhouse on the Lower East Side. She has been co-leader of her largely Puerto Rican district for nine years.

Mrs. Spiegel looks nothing like a politician. She's 5 feet 1, has a youthful figure and is quiet-spoken. Yet she's been close to politics since childhood when her uncle, Isidore Greenbaum, was an official of a Democratic club.

Campaigns Too Long?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential campaigns are nearly twice as long as they should be, says Vice President-elect Hubert H. Humphrey.

Humphrey said he believes that in the campaign just ended the people were ready to vote "at least two weeks before it was over."

He contended, in a taped interview televised Sunday by NBC, the traditional 10-weeks-plus campaign involves much replaying of old material and is a holdover from days of slower communications and transportation.

Humphrey said that perhaps with "a little bipartisan soul-searching" an understanding might be worked out to hold nominating conventions in September then have campaigns of about six weeks.

The interview was taped before he left for a vacation in the Virgin Islands.

Ted's Wife In Ireland

BOSTON (AP) — Mrs. Edward M. Kennedy, wife of the Democratic senator from Massachusetts, has flown to Ireland to participate in the opening of the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library exhibit in Dublin.

Mrs. Kennedy is to meet with President Eamon de Valera Wednesday.

She also will represent the Kennedy family when the exhibit opens in Germany at Frankfurt and West Berlin.

Malaysia Placed Under Air Alert

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — A 24-hour air alert was ordered in Malaysia tonight following reports that Indonesia may have dropped more paratroopers on the Malaysian mainland.

Prime Minister Abdul Rahman ordered intensive police and military investigation of a report that an unidentified plane dropped some 20 objects in the Kuala Lawang area about 30 miles southeast of Kuala Lum-

Classing Office Pace Steps Up

LAMESA (SC) — Activity at the Lamesa Cotton Classing office continued at a fast clip last week with 7,169 bales classed. Receipts boosted to 17,083 the number of bales classed for the season compared to 66,613 for the same period of 1963.

Sixty - six per cent of last week's samples were light spotted, 32 per cent were white, and only two per cent spotted grades. The largest percentage of cotton classed ranks middling light spot, 46 per cent. Micronaire readings were improving steadily with 99 per cent of bales classed rated 3.5 or higher.

Staple lengths: 40 per cent 29-32; 32 per cent 15-16; eight per cent, an inch or longer.

Five Born Blind Get Sight, See Zoo

ROME (AP) — Five brothers born blind saw the amazing wonderland of a zoo here for the first time. They were disappointed that elephants were so little, but delighted that monkeys were so human and lions so beautiful.

The Sicilian boys, ranging from 4 to 15 years old, saw for the first time two weeks ago after an operation removed cataracts with which they were born.

Paolo, 15, summed up the feeling about elephants. He pointed to a full-sized adult and asked:

"Where's his papa? This is just a little one."

The boys had guessed in advance that elephants would be "big as a house, and all white."

DULL COLOR

All five boys thought grey was a pretty dull color for an elephant.

The giraffe, however, was just as they had expected — "a sort of big goat with its neck stuck out."

They spent the most time in fascination before the cages of the lions and the monkeys.

"How beautiful!" cried 4-year-old Calogero as he gazed at the lions. "The color! I want to touch the color!"

Attendants brought the little boy a lion cub. He held it happily in his arms, after a careful look to see "if its claws have been trimmed."

TIGERS PACE

Tigers and leopards paced before the brothers.

"Just like cats, but bigger," the boys said unenthusiastically.

With the monkeys it was quite another matter.

"I never imagined they'd be so much like us," said Paolo as he watched the monkeys shell peanuts and pop them into their mouths. "They must have learned in school how to use their hands."

The other brothers, 9-year-old Giuseppe, 11-year-old Gioacchino and 13-year-old Carmelo, nodded in agreement when Paolo or Calogero spoke, but they were shy about talking.

The brothers were brought here Friday by their mother and father, Gaetano and Grazia Rotolo, from their home village of Campobello di Licata, near Caltanissetta, to see Rome and Pope Paul VI.

Annual MD Drive Slated Tuesday

LAMESA (SC)—Lamesa volunteer and regular firemen will conduct their annual fund drive on behalf of Muscular Dystrophy here Tuesday.

Two teams of firemen, trucks and wheelbarrows will start at the outskirts of the city early Tuesday, moving wheelbarrows one yard every time a 25-cent donation is received for the MD campaign. The object is to return men and equipment to the main Public Safety Building by nightfall.

U. S. Idle Cash Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional subcommittee has invited the government to come up with useful projects to put to work the $3 billion in U.S.-owned foreign currencies now idle.

The House Foreign Operations subcommittee said, for example, that the State Department shouldn't be too timid to ask for $3,000 a year to operate a fountain at the embassy in New Delhi — if the money is in otherwise unused rupees. The expensive fountain now is dry for lack of funds.

The subcommittee said in a report Sunday the government's stocks of local currencies received in return for some kinds of foreign aid is growing at a rate of $200 million a year. The funds can't be changed into dollars. Some, by agreement, must be used only for further foreign aid.

The report suggested unrestricted funds might be used for such things as schools for U.S. dependents overseas, language instruction, more travel, repairs, or publishing low-cost books in English.

Gay Hill P-TA Meets Tuesday

The Gay Hill P-TA will have its monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, preceded by the executive board meeting at 7.

Dr. Lynn Aynesworth, assistant superintendent, will be the speaker and Mrs. George Archer's fifth grade pupils will put on a program. Reports from Saturday's successful Fall Festival will be given at the meeting.

Reds Seen Trying To Mend Division

MOSCOW (AP) — Foreign Communist leaders who came to Moscow to celebrate the 47th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution stayed on today, apparently for Red unity meetings with the new Kremlin leadership.

Official secrecy enveloped the movements of Chinese Premier Chou En-lai and officials from 12 other Communist states but informed sources believed they were discussing problems that have split the Red camp.

NIKITA PLAN

Discussion was believed centered on the Kremlin's decision to proceed with ex-Premier Nikita Khrushchev's plan for a December meeting of Red representatives from 26 nations to prepare for a world Communist conference.

Khrushchev had called the meeting to set the stage for a showdown in his bitter dispute with the Chinese. The ousted premier's successors apparently hope to turn it into a harmony discussion.

Soviet party chief Leonid I Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin were reported giving a dinner tonight for heads of the visiting Red delegations.

COURTESY TALKS

Only brief courtesy talks have been reported officially since the Communist chiefs began arriving last week for the anniversary celebration. There were indications, however, that the visitors would stay at least through Tuesday.

French Communist party secretary Georges Marchais, who recently returned home from Moscow, said in Paris the new Soviet leaders told him they are not seeking any ideological compromise with Red China.

Marchais told party members, however, that the Kremlin is anxious to bridge certain differences. He did not specify what they were.

The Communist party paper Pravda in its account of the anniversary celebration omitted the part of Defense Minister Radion Y. Malinovsky's speech which attacked U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara.

Malinovsky told a Kremlin reception the Soviets "shall not do as the U.S. defense secretary who threatens to destroy the Soviet Union at any moment."

Following the attack, Kosygin went out of his way to talk with U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler. Diplomats felt that Kosygin was trying to take some of the sting out of Malinovsky's remark.

Sixth Grader At Red Fete

WASHINGTON (AP) — Guests at the Soviet Embassy's annual celebration of the Bolshevik revolution looked for Nikita Khrushchev's portrait on its accustomed wall. They saw instead a water color of a snowy mountain.

While Khrushchev's pictures presence was gone there was a surprise guest at the party, a sixth grader from St. Francis of Assissi School in Germantown, Pa.

Jeanne O'Callaghan, 11, had written the embassy for information to use in a school assignment. She received a suggestion that she come for it in person — and invitations to the celebration for herself and her mother.

Pakistan Election Deaths At 24

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — Four more people have been killed in clashes between rival factions in Pakistan's nationwide elections, police reported today. This brings the death toll to 24 since voting started Oct. 31.

The voters are choosing an electoral college to elect the president, Parliament and provincial legislatures.

Novelist Gets Merit Award

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Novelist Irving Wallace has received the George Washington Carver Memorial Institute Supreme Award of Merit for his "contribution to the betterment of race relations."

Wallace's novel "The Man" is the story of a Negro who becomes president of the United States.

The award was presented to Wallace Sunday during a centennial celebration of the birth of Carver, famed Negro scientist.

Rains Benefit Farms In Some State Areas

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Rains last week left some beneficial amounts of moisture. Pastures and grains will be helped most, said John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The favorable weather for plant growth, coupled with the rains, should further improve grazing prospects. Harvesting has been slowed.

Moisture in the Panhandle still is short. Irrigated wheat is making good growth. The grain sorghum harvest was picking up until showers came.

SOUTH PLAINS

South Plains cotton was making excellent progress with little hand harvesting noted. Machine harvesting is expected to begin within two weeks. More than 80 per cent of the sorghum was harvested. Moisture is short.

About half of the Rolling Plains has adequate moisture. Major activities are the cotton harvest and grain planting. Earlier grain is providing grazing. Growth has been good.

Rains will supply top moisture needed by grains in North Central Texas. These have been making about average growth. Generally the moisture situation was fairly good even before the most recent rains. Ranges were in good condition.

ARMY WORMS

Moisture prior to the Tuesday and Wednesday rains had been needed in much of Northeast Texas. Army worms were doing damage in spots. The cotton harvest was 90 per cent complete. The sweet potato harvest was on.

Livestock in far West Texas are improving. The cotton harvest was in full swing. Most calves and lambs have gone to market. Grains were growing with early grazing possible.

Late October rains helped pastures and grains and rains last week will bring more benefits to the West Central area. Harvesting of cotton and peanuts has slowed by the moisture. Grain planting is about complete. Early grains are providing some grazing. Ranges are improving. Ranchers are feeding deer.

Oil Operators Study Imports

CHICAGO (AP) — A top level group of oil operators, large and small, met today to study the effect of oil imports on the domestic industry.

A special task force on imports met in closed session prior to the afternoon opening of the 44th meeting of the American Petroleum Institute.

One official said today the objective is to explore the possibility of drafting an imports policy statement that would be acceptable to all members of the institute, including both major and independent producers and refiners.

DRAFT STATEMENT

There was pessimism, however, over prospects for success of such an objective in that a similar three-year effort to draft a policy statement on federal control of natural gas prices has been unsuccessful.

The imports task force is headed by Charles E. Spahr of Cleveland, president of the Standard Oil Co. (Ohio), but the group has had some membership changes in recent weeks.

W. K. Whiteford of Pittsburgh, board chairman of the Gulf Oil Corp., resigned from the group before making a New York City speech last week in which he gave general endorsement to the Interior Department's mandatory program to control oil imports. Whiteford said, however, refiners receiving import quotas should be required to refine the foreign oil received under such permits.

INLAND AREAS

Under the current program, refiners, particularly those in inland areas, can sell their quotas to other refiners, particularly to those located in coastal areas.

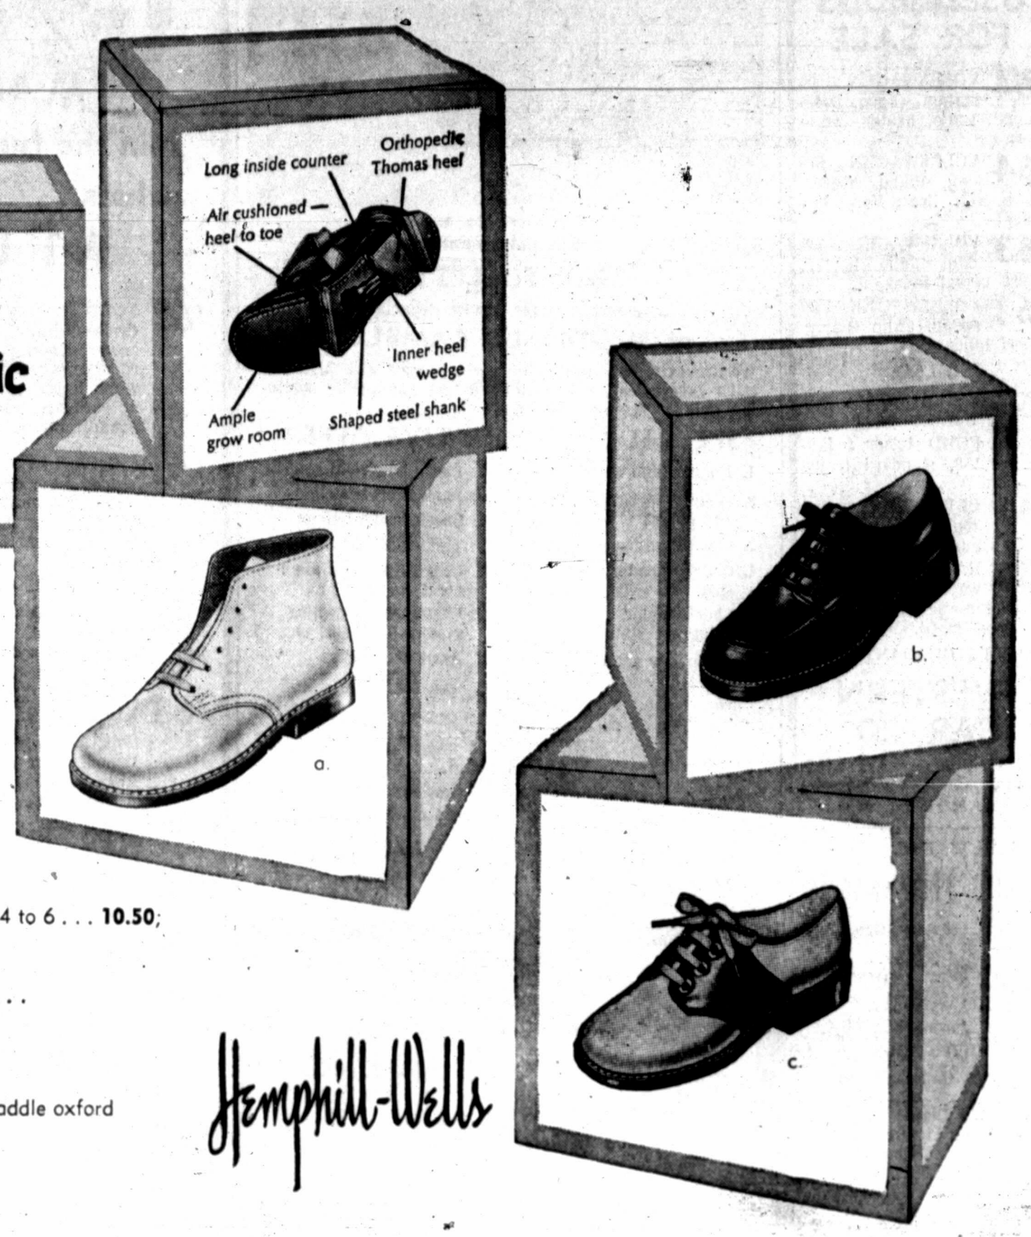

Whiteford made his New York speech shortly after M. J. Rathbone, chairman of the Standard Oil Co., New Jersey, told a Texas oil convention the same imports quota policy should apply to the entire nation. Interior's current program has different formulas for the west coast and for areas east of the Rocky Mountains.

Gulf and Jersey Standard are two of the largest importing firms.

Home Economics To Go Electronic?

WASHINGTON (AP) — So, what's new in home economics classes these days?

Well, there's Archimedes' principle, Ohm's law and photometric analysis, among other things — or at least there should be, says Prof. Florence Ehrenkranz of the University of Minnesota's School of Home Economics.

Prof. Ehrenkranz' concept of home economics is a far cry from the traditional preparation in nutrition, baby-care and family budgets.

She believes home ec students "need a background in physics —not a lip-service appreciation of the scientific method, but an understanding of the principles of physical scence."

This, she says, requires foundation work in college algebra and calculus, and "a course in statistics would be advantageous, although not essential."
