

Worst Sandstorm In Years Sweeps Over This County

More Than Fifty Wind-Mills Damaged As Forty Mile Gale Hits Here

Other Damages

Church Attendance Falls Off As Housecleaning Holds Attention

Impelled by a high wind, which blew at a velocity of 40 miles an hour, one of the worst sandstorms in the past decade swept over this county and other points of the Panhandle, Saturday night and Sunday.

Dust, fine sand and silt covered the inside of practically every residence and business house over the entire county and slight damages were reported from the high winds.

Repair Windmills

Farmers were this week repairing their windmills, most of which were seriously damaged in the gale. Outhouses were blown over in many sections of the county and some homes sustained even more serious damages.

The top of Gerald Manzer's barn was damaged. Glass windows were blown in on the Collingsworth Motor Company. Damages were reported by the Kelley School, J. D. Wilson, Lee Portenberry, J. H. Ball and Mrs. Zelma Langford reported damages to their residences. Deacon Blanton's garage was also damaged. The greatest monetary loss, however, probably came in form of damaged windmills.

Churches reported a decided drop in attendance Sunday as many persons remained at home to "clean house." The sandstorm has been a common topic of conversation and housewives have been busy for the past three days cleaning out the sand and silt, which sifted in under doors, and around windows, and as some women reported "right through the wall."

Merchandise Covered

Business houses also suffered a like fate. Drug stores, and variety stores, probably facing the most difficult problem. In these lines, (Continued on Page 12)

Stovall Plans To Resume 4-H Club Work In County

John O. Stovall, county agent, this week announced plans for resuming 4-H Club work in this county as soon as the government programs on cotton and hogs were completed.

One of the objectives of the 4-H Club work in this county, as soon as it has been resumed will be the presentation of a beef show here next year.

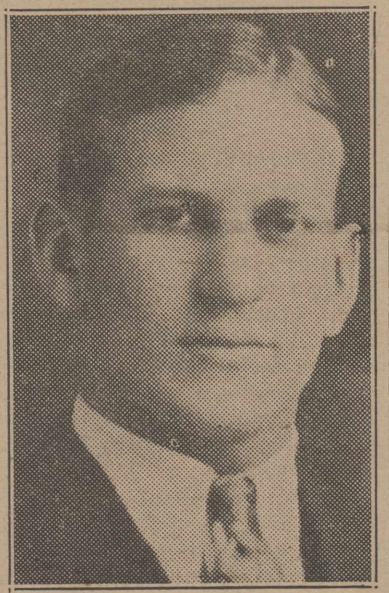

"I find unusual interest over the county in club work, despite the fact that it has been allowed to lapse during the past two years," Mr. Stovall said. "Jake Hess' son out on the Sitter's Ranch has three head of steers to show in the Amarillo Fat Stock show and they are good ones. I hope by this time next year to have the 4-H clubs again operating here and to sponsor a Baby Beef Show in Wellington."

Over One Hundred Persons Attend Goodwill Banquet At Dodsonville

More than a hundred persons attended the Methodist Goodwill banquet held last Friday night in the Jameson building at Dodsonville. Two men were also taken in connection with the theft of a set of chain harness, two bridles and a set of lines from J. L. Sanders, who lives just east of the town section.

Four boys were also cited as delinquents following complaints that they took horses—just for fun.

Size Of Class Cut Down When Several Drop Out At Last Minute

Listing 82 seniors who expect to graduate with the class this year, G. L. Farrar, superintendent, today said that several members had dropped from the class roll at the last minute.

One peculiarity of the list this year is the fact that it includes 41 girls and 41 boys, exactly the same number—a coincidence which is unusual in view of the fact that the girls usually outnumber the boys by a small percentage.

The senior list includes the following students: Barbara Aduddell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Aduddell; Norma Aduddell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. ## Work To Continue

Fire Board Will Continue Efforts To Maintain Good Record

"While other things have had some bearing, the work of Wellington's Fire Prevention Board is undoubtedly responsible for the city's good fire record which results in the elimination of the penalty," Mayor Deskins Wells declared. "This board, which was appointed last year, has carried on an educational campaign that has resulted in a tremendous improvement in the public attitude regarding fires," he stated. "In addition they have set forth the best means of preventing fires by pointing out the chief causes of fires, and this has undoubtedly helped. The men who constitute the board have rendered a very worthwhile service to the people of Wellington, and the City Council is grateful for their efforts."

MOTHER OF MONARCHS

When in 1764 Letitia Ramolino, a rather obscure Circassian girl, married Carlos Bonaparte, an assessor, at the age of 14, there was little in the occurrence to indicate the far-reaching influence that was to follow their union.

It was not particularly strange that 13 children were to be born to them, but it is remarkable that the 13, four were destined to become emperors or kings and two to become queens.

The most famous, of course, was Napoleon Bonaparte, who became emperor of France, and whose name fills more pages of history than that of any other mortal who ever lived. He was the second child.

Joseph, the eldest, became king of Spain; Jerome was king of Westphalia, and Louis was king of Holland. Of the daughters, Maria became queen of Naples, and Elisa became queen of Toscana.

Two other children held lesser rank, Lucien becoming prince of Canino, and Marie becoming duchess of Guastalla.

Thus Letitia Ramolino has become known to the world as "the mother of monarchs." It might be imagined, therefore, that hers was a happy life—but not so. She was often poverty-stricken and lived to see all her royal children shorn of their power. When she died at the age of 86 the great Napoleon had been dead 15 years; all her other children had lost their royal prerogatives, and while several survived her they had ceased to be factors in public affairs.

But in spite of all that, Letitia Ramolino gave to the world a progeny whose activities did more to change the course of events than of any other mother who ever lived.

THE LIFE SPARK

Studies in biology and bio-chemistry have developed many astounding facts, many of which have been of inestimable value to mankind, but the ultimate goal of such research is to find the secret of the life spark itself, and produce it from inert matter.

That this will some day be accomplished is the belief of many distinguished scientists, although this idea is flouted by those who hold to the traditional belief in the creation of all life by special acts of the supreme being.

Prof. William Lash Miller, ally known bio-chemist of the University of Toronto, has produced in his laboratory a component part of living matter, and his accomplishment is hailed as one of epochal importance by many fellow-scientists.

Just what significance may be attached to Prof. Miller's latest discovery is somewhat difficult for a layman to judge, but it appears that it may mark a most important step toward the solution of the age-old question: "What is life?"

DEEPEST WELLS

While aviators are breaking records for height, old men are breaking records for depth, with the further difference, however, that in the latter case the descent is made by drilling tools and pipes, instead of men themselves.

One of the deepest holes ever drilled into the earth, completed as an oil producer in Ragan County, Texas, reached a depth of 8,520 feet, or about one and five-eighths miles. It produced about 600 barrels of oil a day.

Other deep holes include one in Orange County, California, 8,201 feet, which was a failure; a gas well near Ligonier, Pa., 7,756, and a small producing oil well in the Rosecrans field of California, 7,591 feet deep.

Besides opening up a vast field for deeper drilling, the Texas well will make a contribution to education, the royalty of one-eighth of all the oil produced being owned by the University of Texas, which has already received more than ten million dollars from its oil land holdings.

When it is recalled that the first producing well in the United States, drilled near Titusville, Pa., in 1859, was only 34 feet deep, the amazing advance made by the industry since that time may be better appreciated.

HONORARY DEGREES

Among the valuable public services that may be placed to the credit of Will Rogers, his debunking of honorary degrees is conspicuous and refreshing. When he was offered the honorary degree of Doctor of Humanities by Oklahoma City University, he gracefully declined the honor in a telegram which was both humorous and evidently sincere.

After explaining that the highest degree he would accept would be A. D. (Doctor of Applesauce) only if conferred by the kindergarten department of the Oolagah public school. Will added:

"What are you trying to do? Make a joke out of college degrees? They are in bad enough repute as it is, without trying to hand 'em around to comedians. The whole honorary degree thing is the 'hokey.' I got too much respect for people that work and earn 'em to see 'em handed around to every notorious character."

Collegiate degrees conferred as a result of conformance to curriculum requirements are generally futile enough. The honorary degree is not only futile, but positively amusing to anyone with a sense of humor approaching that of Will Rogers.

OUR PAST

By C. C. BISHOP

At about 10 o'clock in the morning of February 11, 1732, the first child of Augustine and Mary Washington was born on the old Washington homestead at what is now Wakefield, Virginia.

The baby was named George, supposedly after the guardian of his mother. If the old Julian calendar had never been changed, we would still celebrate Washington's birthday on February 11.

Master Hobby, sexton of the church, was his first teacher and it was understood that George should go to England for his education when he was a little older.

Because of his honesty and truthfulness were so well known, the amiable Parson Weems told the tale of the cherry tree which is now generally accepted as a pleasant fiction of the old story teller.

Boyhood ended for George Washington when he was but eleven years old, due to the death of his father and on his shoulders fell the duties of manhood.

It was out of the question that George should be educated in England, as his two half brothers had been.

He wanted to make a sailor and arrangements were partly made for him to secure an appointment as midshipman in the British Navy. This was opposed by his mother and it was his respect for her that he did not go to sea.

Washington never became an expert speller; grammar, likewise, was an annoyance to him throughout his life.

Lord Fairfax owned a vast estate west of the Blue Ridge Mountains; he commissioned the youthful George, then only sixteen, to survey this land.

In 1751 George accompanied his brother, Lawrence, to the Barbadoes, where he hoped to recuperate from the malady. This was George Washington's first and only trip outside his native land. Here he contracted smallpox and the scars of the disease ever after marred his face.

George's first sweetheart was Miss Mary Gary, and her father would not sanction a betrothal, because he did not think George could buy her even the kind of carriage she was used to.

It was on a business trip that George Washington stopped for a few minutes to visit a friend and met Mrs. Martha Dandridge Custis, widow of Colonel John Parke Custis, who had been a man of great wealth and prominence.

On his second visit with this lady, she agreed to become his wife on a promise of an early marriage—Washington was 27 years of age.

Washington made a very attractive looking country gentleman. He was six feet two inches tall and weighed one hundred and seventy-five pounds. He carried himself erectly and even a casual observer would have noticed what a powerful, muscular body he had. His hands and feet were rather large. Although he was not handsome, because of the pock marks on his face, Washington had a pleasing countenance. His head was well shaped, and his hair which was usually powdered and worn in a queue was light brown of an Auburn tint. He had penetrating blue-gray eyes and firm large mouth. In any description of him it must be emphasized that George Washington was neat in appearance.

Items of Interest In
The Panhandle

William Russell Clark, editor of the Memphis Democrat, has the following remarks to make concerning the musical comedy:

The musical comedy is not "high-brow." It makes no claim to such a doubtful title, but the claim is made for it that it is clean, high class, worth while. There is nothing vulgar or suggestive about it. Situations are developed without recourse to doubtful jokes. The comedy is not "slap-stick," but refined.

The Floyd County Hesperian: "A rather ironical joke was played on the ex-service men of the Texas National Guard and of the American Expeditionary Forces in the World War who live in this state, recently. An announcement went out to newspapers from the adjutant general's office in which it was told that the Texas Legislature had voted a medal to every one of these former defenders of the country. Those entitled to medals should get in touch with the adjutant general's office at Austin, it was stated. So, a good many thousand wrote in, some of them from Floyd County, and learned about medals from the adjutant general. The legislature 'voted' the ex-service men of the state a medal each, which the ex-service men could wear or keep among their souvenirs by paying a fee to the manufacturer. No provision has been made to pay for the medals with public funds."

The Donley County Leader: "Senator Long is sued for $500,000 in a damage suit for calling a man a liar and a thief. Governor Murray calls the state auditor a liar. A man charged with bond swindling in Kansas is shelved for 673 years according to a jury edict. Thirteen banks are robbed over the nation during the week and seven alleged robbers are now boarding at public expense. The United States Senate investigating committee has come out boldly against national robbery, and yet some folks think we are not getting anywhere."

The Canyon News: "The one question which will be paramount in the race for United States Senator and Governor of Texas this year will be the prohibition question. The question is being raised by the anti-prohibitionists, and will be kept in the fore-ground for the purpose of defeating some of the candidates in the race. Young Joe Bailey will make the race for the senate very largely upon the anti program; several candidates for governor will seek to make this the paramount issue. Politics will revert to the olden days."

The Clarendon News: "Within the past few weeks, there have been more gangsters killed by rival gangs, by officers, sentenced to life terms and in custody awaiting trial than in any other similar period in history, although it must be admitted that there have been more bad men for the officers to work on than in any other period. There is a general feeling getting round over the nation that drastic action must be taken to end racketeering, and bring to justice the 'bad man.' And many quiet unheralded local officers have been the means of arrest of these bandits, where famous officers and detectives have failed."

The Vernon Times: "We read by the papers where the Supreme Court of the United States has held that if you violated the law and the law was repealed before you got tried, they couldn't try you. That's nice. And some sap up in the Monkey House—pardon us, the House of Representatives at Washington—is going to ask the President to pardon all the boys doing time for violating the 18th Amendment."

Claude News: "Mr. Boliver, editor of the Hedley Informer, is dead. When we first edited the Claude News over seventeen years ago, Mr. Boliver was printer and editorial writer for Joe Warren, then owner and manager of the Clarendon News at Clarendon. At that time, we were always anxious to get the Clarendon News in order to read what Mr. Boliver wrote editorially. There was not a more able writer in the Panhandle. Mr. Boliver was a mighty good man, a splendid neighbor and one whom everybody liked. His going is mourned by not only his immediate family, but by the many friends he has in the Panhandle."

Chippewa is the name of a new potato developed by plant specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. It has yellow flesh and is a hybrid of northern and native South America potatoes and contains the growth-promoting Vitamin A.

People . . . Places . . . Philosophy

By Jimmie Gilentine

Any person who doubts the best story of this week must indeed be of a skeptical nature—or must have been out of town last Sunday.

Best Story Of The Week

Monday morning an old boy who lives near here, I won't use any names due to the personal nature of this story, found that he had lost his underwear. He knew that he had the B. V. D.'s Sunday—and was astonished to find that they were gone when he got up Monday morning, but since the red flannel season was almost over he dug out some of lighter quality and decided to take a bath before putting them on. All of the time as drawing up the water he was wondering where his underwear would be. Finally he crawled into the tub and after scrubbing for half an hour found that he not only had on his underwear—but found three pair of socks, which he had lost during the past week. They had all been covered over in the recent sandstorm.

Last year I suggested that we might start a huge industry in this county by taking sheets of fifty paper out in a sandstorm and by holding them up, manufacture sandpaper. I am more than ever convinced that this could become a thriving industrial point.

Mighty Fine Place After All

But with all of its sandstorms, Collingsworth County is a mighty fine place to live. Sometimes we may think that we are not so happy as we might be, but after all there are hundreds and thousands of persons in the slums of the big cities who never had the chance the children of this county have—and there are millions of persons over the world who would gladly trade places with the most humble of people here, who are privileged with breathing fresh air, eating fresh vegetables, milk and butter.

Once even in such a small city as Dallas I saw people, half-naked and on the verge of starvation, gleaming their livelihood from the garbage cans of the city—and that was back in the good old days of 1928 and 1929.

Something About Gangsters

Not long ago I heard a missionary "mother" from the seamen's institute, broadcasting messages to sailors on the high seas. She informed one of them that his mother was dead, another that his wife was dangerously ill, each of the score of messages carrying a version which tore at their heartstrings. Did you ever stop to think why gangsters only thrive in cities? The reason is because people in the country and in little towns have too many friends. If you received word that you were to be "put on the spot"—you would have real, true friends, neighbors and kindred to whom you could impart the message. Then, if you were "put on the spot"—a certain gangster would be in for some trouble.

They have bigger police forces in the cities and better, more modern means of combating crime, but the gangster would rather work against these forces of civilization than that ever-present human force of real, true friendship, found in the rural community.

On Eating

The other day Mrs. Floyd Morton made a chocolate cake and brought it up to our house. It was such a fine cake that I ate three big slices—and as a result got the stomach ache. Well Sir, that made me think about when I used to be a Boy Scout. Then I could eat a half cake and never think about taking the stomach ache. . . . all because I was so interested in Scouting that I took setting up exercises every morning and kept in perfect physical condition. I think that they are going to start up the Scouts again—and I know I am going to start taking those exercises again. I used to be a champion waffle eater. One time I ate 13 waffles—and never thought of having the stomach ache. I admit I didn't want any more waffles for a long time—and Keith Pigg, who ate only 12 and lost to me, didn't want any either.

Right now I will bet that I couldn't even eat 13 waffles and that I would sure have the stomach ache when I got through. Still, there isn't any sense in a good waffle eater, like I used to be, letting himself deviate into the middle class.

A Real Contest

As soon as I take my exercises awhile I think that I will promote a "Cornbread-Buttermilk" eating contest. There is some real, nourishing, appetizing food—and anybody could be proud to hold the championship title for this event. Waffles are alright in their own class, but nothing like cornbread and buttermilk. If anyone thinks they are a pretty fair cornbread and buttermilk eater and will let me know, I think that I will hold such a contest. I would hold a contest on eating Pinto "red" beans, but that would be taking unfair advantage of anyone else who might enter—as I would undoubtedly win such a contest without effort—and I want the other entrant to have at least a fair chance.

Humble Company To Drill Tests On Smith Ranch

Locations Designated And Sites Arranged In Early Preliminaries

Other Leases

New Road Into Ranch To Begin Five Miles North
Present Newlin Road

With preliminary work already completed, the Humble Oil Company has contracted with B. P. Smith Land and Cattle Company to drill a test well on the lands of this company, located midway between here and Childress, according to the announcement of Jack Smith, manager of the ranch. The company was said to have also leased the Smith ranch lands and a large acreage from other land owners adjoining the Smith lands.

Stake Out Slush Pits

The company having made the location has staked out the slush pits, which are to be of concrete, also the location of the tool house, warehouse and other small buildings which will be needed for the work. A rotary rig is to be used, and while no statement as to the size of the hole was made, it is believed that at least the first pipe will be of 16-inch diameter. This, or a larger pipe, will be necessary to carry the drill to a depth of 6,000 feet.

Location Is Made

The site of the test is near the east line of section 27, block 9, Houston and Great Northern Railway company survey. There are about 40,000 acres of land in the Smith ranch, with two or three other large land owners connecting with this ranch. Having located the position for the test, materials are being received for the work, two or three carloads being on sidetracks at Childress and Smithdale, the latter point being on the Denver Northern railway, and north of Red river. The test will be known officially as Humble-B. P. Smith Land and Cattle Company No. 1.

The test is approximately one mile from the tests made by the Marland and Continental Oil companies, which were on section 14 of the same block and survey. The Humble company is to go 6,000 feet, unless oil in paying quantities is found before that depth is reached.

A road leading from highway 4 has been located through the Smith pasture. The road will be about four miles in length and will begin about five miles north of the Newlin-Hollis road through the Smith property. It was stated that new rigs and machinery would be shipped to the location of the test, possibly the greater part coming over the Fort Worth and Denver railway.

Do You Know?

That one of the greatest difficulties and dangers of a logging drive is a jam? These jams are caused when logs become wedged against rocks or other obstructions. Other logs pile up behind until finally a barrier is caused by the piling up of thousands of logs in this fashion and the whole drive is held up. Sometimes the jam can be broken by the removal of the key logs by manual labor, but more often high explosives have to be used. The photograph shows a log jam being dynamited in northern Quebec.

Selections From McGUFFEY'S Fifth Eclectic Reader

A BOY ON A FARM

1. Say what you will about the general usefulness of boys, it is my impression that a farm without a boy would very soon come to grief. What the boy does is the life of the farm. He is the factotum, always in demand, always expected to do the thousand indispensable things that nobody else will do. Upon him fall all the odds and ends, the most difficult things.

2. After every body else is through, he has to finish up. His work is like a woman's, perpetually waiting on others. Every body knows how much easier it is to eat a good dinner than it is to wash the dishes afterwards. Consider what a boy on a farm is required to do; things that must be done, or life would actually stop.

3. It is understood, in the first place, that he is to do all the errands, to go to the store, to the post-office, and to carry all sorts of messages. If he had as many legs as a centipede, they would tire before night. His two short limbs seem to him entirely inadequate to the task. He would like to have as many legs as a wheel has spokes, and rotate about in the same way.

4. This he sometimes tries to do; and the people who have seen him "turning cart-wheels" along the side of the road, have supposed that he was amusing himself and idling his time; he was only trying to invent a new mode of locomotion, so that he could economize his legs and do his errands with greater dispatch.

5. He practices standing on his head, in order to accustom himself to any position. Leap-frog is one of his methods of getting over the ground quickly. He would willingly go an errand any distance if he could leap-frog it with a few other boys.

6. He has a natural genius for combining pleasure with business.

Increase Is Seen In Sale Of Texas Horses And Mules

Stockyard Sales Rise Over
State While Nation Also Showed Increase

With a 30 per cent increase in receipts of horses and mules at public stockyards alone and considerable marketing of work stock in Texas through other channels Texas' income from work stock sales in 1933 is estimated at more than $3,500,000 against about $1,000,000 in 1932, according to data compiled by The News agricultural department. Added to the heavier volume of marketing of work stock was a 57 per cent rise in price of farm horses and about 45 per cent in mule prices as compared with 1932.

Receipts of horses and mules at Fort Worth, San Antonio and El Paso stockyards totaled 32,719 animals against 25,208 in 1932, reports the Bureau of Agriculture Economics. Farm prices averaged about $70 per head for mules last year against $50 in 1932 and $47 for horses against $30. Fort Worth receipts were 23,276 animals against 16,730 in 1932, San Antonio 6,279 against 5,241 and El Paso 3,164 against 3,237. No separate figures for horses and mules are given by the bureau.

Fort Worth Ranks High

Fort Worth was the sixth ranking market in the United States last year in the number of work animals handled, outranked only East St. Louis with 69,026, Kansas City 46,455, Memphis 42,436 Atlanta 32,230 and Omaha with 31,294 work animals reported.

United States receipts of horses and mules showed an even greater gain over the previous year than in Texas with a net increase of 67 per cent consisting of a 51 per cent increase in horses and 110 per cent more mules handled. At prevailing farm prices these animals handled through public stockyards brought producers about $30,000,000 against only $14,250,000 in 1932. Mules brought slightly more than $15,000,000 against $5,800,000 in 1932 and horses some $14,500,000 against $8,500,000. These estimates include only sales through public stockyards.

Largest Since 1929

Work stock receipts at all United States stockyards were the largest in 1933 since 1929, totaling 403,644 animals against 241,437 in 1932, 253,580 in 1931, 346,167 in 1930 and 456,982 in 1929. Receipts were 21 per cent larger than the 1,283,32 average of 349,682 animals. Receipts of horses were 203,539 head against 146,392 in 1932 and the five-year average of 171,221 and mules receipts of 200,105 against 95,045 in 1932 and the average of 178,461.

MY FAVORITE RECIPE

Nesselrode Pudding

By Mrs. S. R. Pinkston

If you are not fortunate enough to get one of the cook books put out by the members of the Domestic Science Club you will be delighted to have this recipe which appears in that book. This is a favorite recipe of Mrs. S. R. Pinkston, which she has used for many years.

2 cups sweet milk
1 cup sugar
5 egg yolks.
Cook until it thickens.
1 package of gelatin dissolved in 1 1/4 cup cold water
1 cup raisins or dates
1 cup chopped nuts
1 cup cherries
1 box vanilla wafers, crushed
5 egg whites stiffly beaten.

When egg and milk mixture is cool, add other ingredients and put in cool place to set.

Leader Suggests Menu For Easter Dinner

In planning your Easter Dinner you'll probably choose one of the two meats that tradition associates with the day—a succulent whole boiled or baked ham or a tender, juicy leg of lamb. Upon your choice depends the selection of the balance of your menu, of course. Here is a menu that features baked ham as its high note.

Chilled Tomato Juice
Green Onions and Radishes
Whole baked ham Diced Potatoes
Sweet Potato Surprise
Baked Spinach Pear Salad
Finger Rolls Apricot Fluff

Coffee
Sweet Potato Surprise
2 cups diced sweet potatoes
1 egg, beaten
Dash of pepper
8 marshmallows
1-2 teaspoon salt.
1-2 cup crushed cornflakes.

Boil and peel potatoes, put through ricer. When partly cool add egg, salt and pepper. If the mixture is too dry add a little milk. Flour hands if necessary. Form 8 round balls with marshmallows hidden inside. Roll in corn flakes. Fry in hot fat until brown. Drain on soft paper.

Baked Spinach
Boil and chop spinach rather fine. Season to taste. To 2 cups of this (about 1 1/2 pounds of uncooked spinach) and well-beaten eggs and white sauce made from 1-4 cup butter, 1-4 cup milk and 1 tablespoon flour. Place in a baking dish and cover. Place the pan in a dish of hot water and bake in a moderate oven for about 30 minutes.

Pear Salad
For each individual salad take 1-2 canned or fresh peeled pear and nest in a bed of lettuce, with the center of the pear slice up. In the center place a ball of cream or cottage cheese mixed with finely chopped nuts and chopped maraschino cherry. Garnish with creamy mayonnaise and a dash of paprika.

Finger Rolls
6 to 6 1/2 cups flour sifted
2 cakes compressed yeast
2 cups milk (scalded and cooled)
3 teaspoons salt
1-4 cup shortening
1-4 cup sugar
2 eggs.

Dissolve yeast in lukewarm milk and stir well. Add sugar, beaten eggs, salt and half of the flour. Mix well and add the melted butter. Beat thoroughly. Add balance of the flour or enough to make a soft dough. Turn out on floured board, knead into a smooth dough. Place in a well-greased bowl. Cover, and let rise to double bulk. Knead down and let rise 45 minutes. More yeast may be added to hasten the process. Pinch off pieces of dough about the size of a small egg. Roll each piece between palms of hands until round. Then roll with hand on board until 2 1/2 inches long. Place 1 inch apart on well-greased pan. Brush with melted butter and let rise until double in bulk. Bake 20 to 25 minutes in moderate oven. When done brush top with milk or melted butter.

Apricot Fluff

Make or buy a sponge cake, and cut it into thin slices, enough to line a deep glass bowl, sides and bottom. Drain canned apricots and chop them fine. Whip 2 cups of cream, sweeten and flavor with almond extract to taste. Beat the white of an egg stiff and add to the cream. Then fold in the apricots and pile the mixture into the cake-lined bowl. Decorate with sliced apricots. Chill for an hour in the refrigerator. Don't have the fruit too juicy.

Lubbock Division

The Lubbock Division would embrace the counties of Bailey, Borden, Cochran, Crosby, Dawson, Dickens, Floyd, Gaines, Garza, Hale, Hockley, Kent, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Motley, Scurry, Terry and Yoakum.

The San Angelo Division would take in the counties of Brown, Coke, Coleman, Concho, Crockett, Glasscock, Irion, Menard, Mills, Reagan, Runnels, Scheicher, Sterling, Sutton and Tom Green.

Tech Scientific Party To Brave Wilds Of Mexico

LUBBOCK, Tex.—Texas Technological College, through its director of archaeological research, Dr. William Curry Holden, this week announced formation of its first scientific expedition of major importance—that of studying the hitherto barely investigated Yaqui Indians of Sonora, Mexico.

The expedition, composed of a group of scientists and one newspaperman, will leave Lubbock on March 1, bound 350 miles past the United States-Mexican border into the barely civilized Rio Yaqui section, heretofore touched only by Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, curator of famed Smithsonian Institution, of Washington, D. C., in 1902. There has been no research work in the area since Doctor Hrdlicka's limited study and the probes expect to find at their goal what amounts to a virgin scientific field in which to work.

In addition to a physical anthropologist, yet unnamed but to come either from Harvard University or from Smithsonian Institute, the party is thus far made up of five men. Doctor Holden, who will be chief of the expedition, will do archaeological and ethnological research; Dr. Charles J. Wagner, chief of staff of West Texas Hospital at Lubbock, will study Yaqui disease and do medical and physical research; Dr. R. A. Studhalter, Tech professor of botany, will do ethnobotanical research and Chas. A. Guy, editor of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, will aid in keeping records and in writing complete reports to scientific organizations upon the party's return. Bennie McWilliams, Tech College senior, will act as interpreter and assistant archaeologist.

The party will travel by car and truck and will spend six weeks on the journey. Doctor Holden has obtained permission from the Mexican government to penetrate to eight unconquered Yaqui villages and has made contact, through interned Yaquis at Tucson, Ariz., to get precious admission into Rio Yaqui territory. Since the day of the Spanish Conquistadores and throughout subsequent Mexican administrations, Yaquis have remained semi-savage and unconquered, frequently taking arms against all authority other than their own primitive tribal rule.

Advance investigation made by Doctor Holden indicates that a part of the Yaqui people remains, in 1934, greatly similar to its status in 1300.

House Votes $1,000 Reward For Clyde Barrow; $500 Placed On Pals

AUSTIN, Feb. 16.—Escapades of Clyde Barrow, noted Southwest desperado, and advisability of offering a reward for his capture "dead or alive," occupied the House of the Texas Legislature for more than an hour today.

The House finally voted to eliminate the "dead or alive" provision of a bill offering a reward of $1,000 for Barrow's capture after long debate in which Barrow was classified as a "human rat," and one who "has placed himself beyond the pale of legal procedure."

The bill also would authorize payments of $500 reward for capture of Raymond Hamilton, and $500 for Joe Palmer. Hamilton is reputed to be Barrow's partner in crime, while Palmer is under indictment for the murder of a state penitentiary guard, shot down in an armed delivery at a prison farm. The delivery allegedly was planned by Barrow to effect Hamilton's release.

Called "Dangerous Rattlesnake"

"Barrow is the most dangerous rattlesnake alive today," Representative Gordon Burns of Huntsville, seat of the states penitentiary, said. "He and his gang have spread death all over the State. Like a bunch of mad dogs, they should be shot down."

One member proposed that the reward be doubled if Barrow was taken dead, and cut in half if he was captured alive.

"The spirit actuating this proposal is one of the mob, whether it is in the Legislature or in the street," Representative T. H. McGregor of Austin said. "The only difference is that the Legislature is doing it after cool reflection."

McGregor's plea was supported by Representative Harry N. Graves of Georgetown, recognized at one time as one of the most vigorous prosecuting Attorneys in the State.

Called Public Enemy

"It would be taking human life like Barrow has," Graves said. "I would be offering a reward for some to make a murderer of himself. We ought not to make a man a murderer. I could send Clyde Barrow to the electric chair and not lose a wink of sleep the night he died, but I want him to die by the law and not by through the law of the jungle."

"Barrow is a public enemy," Representative Joe Greathouse of Fort Worth said, while Representative Bullock Hyder of Denton asserted that "when we have come to the point where we are dealing with human rats and degenerations who have no regards for human life, there is only one thing to do, and that is to tell the peace officers to go out and erase his blot on the State's name."

Little Billie Worth, just 16 years old, is being regarded by experts as a strong possibility for the national tennis title among women, within a few years.

Austria Stands Between Germany And Italians

Situation Acute As Civil War Causes Both Nations To Seek Nation

The question of whether embattled Austria should become Nazi or Fascist stood at a point of decision this week with Germany on one side and Italy on the other shouting encouragement to their friends, according to Associated Press reports today.

Austrian Nazis, biding their time during last week's gory struggles between Fascist forces of the government and the Socialists, came into action with a demand that the government of Chancellor Dollfuss come to terms with them within eight days.

Speaking by radio from Munich, Theodore Mabicht, exiled Austria Nazi leader, said his party must be taken into the government.

Official reaction from the Dollfuss government was lacking as its leaders began a study of the ultimatum.

Paris regarded the affair as bringing to a "showdown" the struggle between Hitler and Mussolini for control in Austria.

Point To Declaration

Italian newspapers attacked Germany and pointed to the declaration of Saturday by Rome, France and Great Britain warning Germany that the Austrian independence must be preserved.

Deputy Ezio Garibaldi of Italy proposed a conference to settle the Austro-German matter.

A German and two Americans were arrested at Trieste with 350 bombs in their possession and the Nazi party at Trieste was ordered dissolved.

The peace of Europe "hung by a hair" last week. Vice Chancellor Emil Fey said in an oration at the funeral of police, soldier and Heimwehr (Fascist home guard) victims of the civil war.

These included 25 policemen, 17 Heimwehrmen (home guards), five Austrian soldiers and three Catholic storm troopers. More than 50 others killed on the government side already have been or are being buried in other parts of Austria.

Many secret burials of Socialist dead have taken place under cover of darkness in the last seven days.

Arlington Downs Will Give $10,000 To Winning Circle

FORT WORTH.—One hundred and fifty thousand dollars, featuring eight stake events, and heading the $10,000.00 Texas Derby, will be given the victor's circle during the forthcoming Spring meeting of the Texas Jockey Club at Arlington Downs, starting March 29, and holding the center of the spotlight until April 21, Texas Derby Day. This announcement by the Texas Jockey Club has been eagerly awaited by horsemen all over the nation, for it had been freely predicted that, following the tremendous success of its inaugural meeting last fall, when all attendance and betting records were shattered, the Texas Jockey Club would increase substantially the amount of stakes to feature its meetings in 1934. The Spring prize money shows an increase of $50,000.00 over the large sum thrown into the winner's circle last fall, and tops everything in the Southwest.

The Texas Derby for $10,000.00 added, by far the most important and richest stake event in the Southwest, will be run off on Saturday afternoon, April 21, the final day of the 21 days of racing. Patanne, Johnny Boeller's crack three year old, regarded as the outstanding youngster of the winter season in New Orleans, where he has been a consistent winner, and Hickory Lad, another New Orleans sensation, are regarded as sure starters in this event, which undoubtedly will include the leading three year olds of the nation, some of which will be preparing for the renewal of the Kentucky Derby.

Another tentative entry for the Texas Derby is Mata Hari, Charles Fischer's Chandler Farm candidate, which has already been installed a strong favorite for the Kentucky Derby in the winter book. The Texas Derby will be in over the nine furlongs route, which is the same distance as the Kentucky Derby, and the event is expected to serve as a conditioner for final prep for the subsequent classic in Louisville. Entries for the Texas Derby close March 5.

As Civil War Flamed Throughout Austria

New Deal Brings $162,000,000 In Federal Money

DALLAS.—Texas has realized more than $162,000,000 from federal funds released for relief and project work throughout the country under the Roosevelt Administration "new deal" program.

The estimate is considered a conservative one for the nation's largest state. At the same time the figure provides a bird's eye view of where the millions are going after President Roosevelt's request for 10 billion dollars for relief and project work.

A check by the United Press of the golden stream of federal benevolence being poured into this state revealed that more than $162,000,000 has been paid or is in the process of being paid by the government for relief and project work in Texas.

This figure does not represent the total of federal efforts in its war on depression. So extended and varied are the efforts that a comprehensive and conclusive survey virtually is impossible.

Regardless of the impossibility signs of imminent recovery are noted by observers throughout the entire state. The recovery generally is accredited to the stupendous outpouring of federal funds.

No particular part or section of the state is receiving a larger share than it actually requires. The Rio Grande Valley, the coastal regions, the interior waterways and ranch farms from West Texas to East Texas are sharing according to their calculated demands. The survey revealed approximate appropriations to Texas since the government's war on depression started as follows:

CWA and CWS Payrolls $15,900,000; relief and surplus commodities $19,000,000; cotton plow up checks, $43,000,000; $20. per bale interest in 752,000 bales adds and additional $15,042,340; Federal aid in State Highway program $24,000,000; Home and Farm Loan Corporation, $9,300,000; CWA projects $26,962,890; making a total of $162,204,890.

The above does not account for the funds expended for direct federal relief. The Civilian Conservation Corps camps in the state and out of the state with their absorption of youthful unemployed and purchases of materials for projects likewise are not included in the total.

Contracts amounting to $16,885,528 of federal-state highways already have been made from the allotment figure of $24,000,000, the survey showed.

In the home and farm loan corporation table, the figures include only $5,740 loans. It is decidedly obvious with the applications for loans being filed and approved constantly a definite figure is impossible.

Activities of the Federal Farm Bank, which has been in existence for 17 years, are not included. The bank itself takes its money from the emergency funds and has issued 59,938 loans amounting to $166,000,000 as of December 31. The estimated farm loans from the bank for January was $15,000,000, with $5,700,000 from the land bank commissioner and the remainder from the land bank.

Besides these funds, thousands of dollars are expended in a gigantic corn-hog reduction program with benefit payments to farmers now under way.

Already thousands of farmers have received federal money for participation in the cotton acreage reduction program. No accurate estimate of the total involved could be made by officials.

For results and effects of the programs, one merely has to note the market prices for cotton before and after. When Roosevelt assumed presidential duties, cotton was quoted at New Orleans at 5.75 cents per pound. Today it is quoted as high as 12 cents.

Business and financial statisticians within the state generally credit the improved business charts to this vast flow of credit and money. The system used reaches all channels of trade by giving employment to thousands of workmen in every line.

In addition to the numerous agencies working to restore prosperity to a reasonable soundness, other agencies as well effective in their programs are seeking to liquidate the hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of frozen assets in agricultural communities. Directing this mammoth enterprise is the Reconstruction Finance Corporation which has woven its tentacles into the security of the program as a tree extends its roots firmly into the soil.

Largely through the efforts of this agency funds constantly are being made available to resuscitate banks dealt knockout blows during the depression to a solvent status.

Sam. H. Bowles Is Buried Here On February 21

Funeral services for Sam H. Bowles, 81, were held from the Buck Creek Church with Rev. W. S. Crawford officiating.

Mr. Bowles died Tuesday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Vernon. He had only resided in this county for three years and was 81 years, 10 months and four days of age, having been born April 16, 1852. He was born near Macon, Georgia. He resided in Georgia during the days of his youth and later moved to Arkansas, where he lived a number of years before moving to Grapevine, Texas. At Grapevine he married Miss Mallie Thomas, who passed away in 1907. To this union was born two children, Mary Bowles, now of Dallas, and Mrs. C. B. Vernon of this county.

Mr. Bowles made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Vernon for the past three years. "Grandpa," as he was affectionately known to his many friends, was converted and joined the Baptist church at the age of 16 years. He has held to this faith throughout his life. He was of a kind and cheerful character and often stated that the happiest moments of his life were when he listened, in the house of the Lord, to the preaching of the Gospel.

He is survived by his two daughters, Mrs. Vernon and Miss Bowles; a sister, Mrs. Texie McKey of Mineral Springs, Ark.; a granddaughter, Frances Vernon; P. H. Thomas and W. E. Thomas, brothers-in-law.

Pall bearers were Carl Vincent, J. F. Ogletree, Punk Hartman, J. B. Goodnight, Wren Hartman and John Atkinson. Honorary pall bearers: G. K. Patterson, Buck Ogletree, Tom Sampley, J. D. Boyles, Grady Boyles, P. C. Cummings, Mr. Cantrel, J. D. Conn, L. A. Brown, J. F. Skaggs, J. H. Atkins and J. K. Parker.

Interment was made in the Wellington Cemetery by Ellis Funeral Home.

Marjorie Kiser of Dayton, O., was named winner of a contest to find the most attractive co-ed at Ohio State University.

Clarendon Lions Plan Marker For City's Old Site

CLARENDON, Tex.—The Clarendon Lions club has started a movement to erect a permanent marker on the site of "Old Clarendon," which was located at a point about four miles north of the present city. The old town was probably the first white settlement in the Panhandle. Today nothing remains there except a fast-fading cemetery, according to President N. D. Nored of the Lions club.

As a historic feature, the club is planning to put an iron fence around the old graveyard," he said. "This will be in addition to some kind of permanent marker. It is thought the cemetery was on ground that was decided for that purpose, so it will be easy to set it aside."

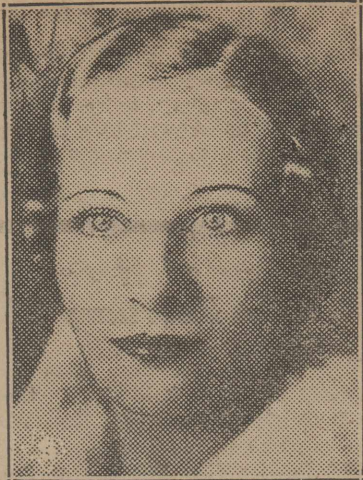

The old graveyard today is in the center of a pasture. W. H. Patrick, president of the First National Bank of Clarendon, recalls that one Lon Wakefield, driver of a mail hack from Clarendon to Quitaque in the early eighties, is buried there. Wakefield was killed by one Bob Adams who afterwards was sentenced to 50 years in prison for murder.

School Finances Reported To Be In Good Shape

AUSTIN, Tex.—L. A. Woods, Superintendent of Schools, last week mailed warrants to pay $3 of the per capita State apportionment, a total of $4,727,049 for the 1,575,683 children of sub-scholastic age. Previously $1 a child has been paid, making $4 of the $16 apportioned by the Board of Education.

Encouraging to the schools was a forecast by Woods that the finances indicated that $10 a child will have been paid by June 1, compared with $8 last year. Furthermore, he said, the income in sight shows an expectation that last year's deficit will have been paid and that only $2 will be due on this year's apportionment September 1, the beginning of the next fiscal and scholastic period. Last September 1 the fund was in arrears $5 on the preceding year, and that had to be paid before any of the current year's apportionment was available.

From September 1, 1933 to February 10, 1934, the available school fund receipts were $12,598,537 from the following sources: Gasoline tax $3,781,372, cigarette tax $2,693,833, from Tax Collectors $3,462,517, beer tax $149,490 and receipts and interest on school fund notes and bonds $2,511,326.

Mother Freezes In Effort To Carry Medicine To Baby

ELKINS, W. Va.—In near zero weather Mrs. T. C. Leary, 38, trudged nine miles from her Cheat Mountain home in Elkins to get medicine for one of her five children.

Shortly after she started back a swirling snowstorm burst upon her and the temperature began falling below the zero mark.

She plodded on, stopping for rest at the dwelling of Mr. and Mrs. John Rhodes, mountain neighbors, three miles from her own home. They urged her to remain, but she said she had to get the medicine home for her sick child.

Out she went into the storm, with night coming on, but she never reached home.

A searching party, headed by her husband, followed a trail blazed by shreds of clothing on the brambles, found Mrs. Leary frozen to death, a half mile from home.

The trail showed she had walked in circles in the blinding snowstorm, had dropped from a ledge into a shallow gulley and stumbled, almost barefooted and with clothing tattered, into the branches of a fallen tree.

"Road To Ruin"- Juvenile Delinquency Story

When Ben B. Lindsey as Juvenile Judge in Denver was trying to awaken the public to the terrible facts of Juvenile Delinquency he was a target for all kinds of attacks. Clergymen thundered at him; politicians threatened him; scandal mongers assailed him "Liar charlatan, notoriety seeker," they shouted, "It couldn't happen to MY girl."

Yet Judge Lindsey was telling the truth—always. And he was helping, shielding, saving, the daughters of some of the very people who so bitterly attacked him. It could and it did happen to their daughters, and it can happen to almost any man's child unless the parents can be awakened to the danger that confronts the youth of today. "The Road to Ruin" which opens at the Ritz Theatre Wednesday, is a very frank and straightforward presentation of the facts of Juvenile Delinquency and affords serious food for thought for all parents as well as containing a tremendous warning to all the younger people.

Juvenile Delinquency is one of the great developments of present-day America that the public must take cognizance of. It is a problem that threatens the future if not the family. Changing living conditions, changing moral standards, unavoidable unhealthy contacts, coupled with growing parental neglect, have combined to produce a mental attitude in the rising generation that is causing the authorities and thinkers of the Nation grave concern.

Helen Foster and Glenn Boles

In "The Road To Ruin," which comes to the Ritz Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, this problem is dealt with frankly and fearlessly, and the inevitable disastrous consequences of youthful folly and parental negligence is most forcibly shown. As Ann Dixon, the innocent and trusting school girl, exotic Helen Foster, gives a performance that has seldom been equalled on the screen. Others of special note in the cast are, Nell O'Day, Glen Boles, Paul Page, Virginia True Boardman, Richard Tucker and Mae Busch.

Raymond Young carrying a razor strap and other shaving accessories into the Barber Shop.

Fred Taylor having a time trying to close the outside door in the strong wind.

Heart Disease Is Enemy Number 1

AUSTIN, Tex.—Public Enemy Number One is Heart Disease, according to Dr. John W. Brown, State health officer. This disease kills over 7200 people each year in Texas and the worst part of this is that the number is increasing each year.

While it must be admitted that the deaths attributed to heart failures are increasing, the fact remains that when a person complains of his heart, organic disease infrequently exists. Organic heart disease causes shortness of breath, swelling of hands and feet and a cough. Usually these signs do not convey to the patient's mind even the suggestion that he has heart disease.

So-called functional heart disease is usually traced to these sources, namely, nervousness, infections from another part of the body such as teeth or tonsils, to a disturbed function of the thyroid gland, to influenza and so on; and to the effects of the excessive use of tobacco, coffee or tea.

In cases where there is a disturbed heart action due to focal infection the source of which is located, the infective cause (when possible is removed, as in the case of diseased tonsils and teeth. The heart, possessing remarkable recuperative ability, once the poisoning agent is definitely eliminated, in time becomes normal once again.

"In The Lead"

Beck's DIDACTICS

By H. D. W.

I sometimes wonder why men in important positions cannot appreciate the romance to be found in a simple life. Saturday night I went to see "The World Changes." It was an epic picture based on the lives of pioneer Dakota wheat farmers and their descendants. In short, it was a story of the rise of one generation from the farm, and the return of the third generation to the same farm. Although it did not preach, it was a striking sermon on the beauty and satisfaction inherent in a simple life, and at the same time debunked quite roundly the tinsel and misery too often found in pretentious living. Why can't we have more pictures like that. If the movie magnates knew the tremendous appeal that such a romance has for people at this time, they could improve their business. It looks like the box office pull of the home spun philosophy and humor of Will Rogers would put them wise.

I ask myself the same question concerning the magazine stories. People are tired of sex, gin and easy money. Such things may make interesting reading occasionally, but they don't sit so well as a steady diet. Especially is this true when people are trying to grope their way back to national sanity in the midst of a world that is filled with unrest and dissension. After all the abiding literature has been based on truth, and the beauty of simple living is just as true today as it has ever been. Can you, on short notice, think of any writing lovelier than "The Book of Ruth?" The works of Dickens, Thackeray, Tolstoy, Longfellow, Emerson and Mark Twain still live. All of these, as well as any number of others that you might mention, were exploiters of the romance of simple lives.

And while I am talking about the lack of foresight of the men who furnish us with entertainment, there is another thing I would like to say. Too often we think of interesting living having its setting in some far away place. It can take place in distant lands, of course, but we need to remember that Collingsworth County can be the setting just as well. To me there is adventure in the life of a young farmer, who sets out with little and builds a sustaining farm. There could be beauty, provided the intelligence and feeling were there, in the life that such a young man and his wife would live in developing their land and raising their children. To me there is romance in a young merchant founding a business on new ideas or old ideas better applied, and rising to success. There are all of these things for a mother who rears a family of children who reflect credit on her motherhood. Such a task is worthy of any artist's pen, and yet the thing is being done right here in our own community all the time.

The sandstorm Saturday and Sunday will bring comparisons with those of other years, but a good sandstorm reminds me of

Depression, French Temperament Lie Behind Modern Paris Riots

Heavy taxes, a national reluctance to cut down the cost of living, indignation over graft in high circles, and the Gallic temperament—these are some of the prime factors behind the Paris riots of 1934, revolt of the 18th and 19th centuries.

The most important reason, perhaps, is the French temperament. The typical Frenchman does not brood silently over his troubles. He must vent his emotions in some way, violently if necessary.

Recently a French government official said, in effect: "If thousands of Frenchmen were jobless, they would not sit around in parks and wait for better times, like the British do. There would be trouble and plenty of it."

The depression helped a lot. France tried to ignore it. There was, until recently, little of the harsh economy practiced in other nations. But hard times had to make themselves felt, and did.

Tripled gasoline tax, boosting the price of 62 cents a gallon, brought on a taxi strike which froze Paris transportation. Two hundred thousand miners were disgruntled over their two days' work a week.

Farmers, hit by high prices of tariff-protected wheat. Civil servants rebelled against pay cuts. With gold fleeing abroad, the populace lost confidence and began hoarding.

All this the French, in the way of common people the world over, blamed on their government. France seethed with discontent, but little occurred in the way of boyhood days. I dislike the sand and grit as much as anyone, but the sound of the wind wailing and roaring always has and still does awaken a strange sense of exultation in my breast. And a good hard rainstorm affects me the same way. Somewhere in my Irish, English and Dutch forbears there must have been seafaring folk, for a storm seems to tell me in my heart that something ought to come to life that I have never known in my mind or experienced with my flesh. The idea first came to me in 1924, when I had the same feeling as I watched, for my first time, wind driven waves pound the shores of a beach near Norfolk. This particular emotion is a little difficult to express, but it is at the same time a fierce glow of pride and a strange and nameless longing.

Since I am on this trend I will tell you about a little incident, but violence until after the Bayonne affair.

Serge Alexandre Stavisky, a swindler with a long and unsavory record, somehow became connected with the Bayonne municipal pawnshop. When he shot himself recently, after being trapped by police for defrauding the French public of nearly $40,000,000, the people suspected that high government officials were involved in the swindle. This was the last straw.

Mobs, singing the Marseillaise, began parading the boulevards. Facists, Royalists, and Socialists, seeing their chance, joined the demonstration. Police and troops tried to clear the Place de la Concorde and rioting resulted.

To save his Republic, Gaston Doumergue, 71, France's beloved "grand old man," was called to organize a new cabinet. Settling cabinet crises was no novelty to Doumergue; he straightened out 15 of them in his six-year regime as president from 1925 to 1931.

And backstage, waiting for their cues, were Maxime Weygand and the Duc de Guise. Weygand, favorite and "spiritual son" of Marshal Foch, and head of the French army, was the "mailed fist" to be called on as a last resort to prevent revolution.

And the Duc de Guise, foremost pretender to the throne, awaited summons and coronation should his monarchists seize the nation's throttle.

before I do I will make a few general statements. I have never been afraid of storms, but I am generally rather a cowardly person. I never went into a football or basketball game but that my knees were trembling violently as the whistle blew. I can get out of the habit of making speeches for six months, and the same knee action will afflict me just before making a speech. After I got started it was different, but I have had to literally push myself into these things all my life. Since the storm of 1928 wrecked my house and half of my furniture while my wife was in it, I have been terribly uneasy for her safety every time a cloud came up. Since my daughter was born it has been worse, but once they are safe in a cellar my old confidence returns. And that gets me back to what I started to tell.

One time a good many years ago, a storm came up and Mama decided it was time to go to the cellar. She and two of my sisters began to get ready. I told them to go ahead—that I would come on down if it looked bad. That was a lie, for I never had the slightest intention of going to the cellar. That was about the time that Bill Godfrey and I had been taking a special course in Tarzan literature. I had conceived the notion that it would be a fine time to play Tarzan if a big storm came up. Just as the storm broke I took off my clothes, except a pair of shorts, and climbed out of a window onto a porch and from there to the roof. When the rain got hard and the wind high, something must have gone haywire in my head, for I sang and shouted and leaped around on the roof. I didn't know of Tarzan's jungle yell that the movies have made popular, or I would have tried that too. It was only when the hail started coming down in fair sized chunks that I realized I wasn't Tarzan at all, but just an old country boy acting crazy on the roof of his Mother's house. However, it was just about as vivid a twenty minutes as I have ever lived. —Some day I may write about train whistles, but that is another personal story and I won't bore you with it now.

For no reason at all I happened to think of Candler Hawkins. I have known in the past twenty years a good many men in various walks of life—some high and some low. But to my mind, Candler has the sanest viewpoint, the most serviceable mind and the most decent set of morals all nicely balanced of any man or boy I have ever known. He is the son of M. E. Hawkins, who was at one time during his lifetime pastor of the Methodist Church here. Candler is farming in Hall County, and he is making a success of it. But this success isn't the reason I mention him here. It is because of a character that I have known and admired for fifteen years.

Sometime soon I will have a shipment of rose bushes in. This year I intend to order old red and pink radiance roses. They do the best here. Anyone who wants to get some roses in time to plant this spring should get in touch with me now and let me know how many they want. A number of varieties do well here, but I am getting these primarily to interest new growers in rose culture, although I will sell them to anyone who orders in advance. Those who want other varieties can order them for themselves just about as cheap as I will sell them. Rose plants are cheap again this year compared to most things, but I do not intend to monkey with anything but sure fire bloomers. And I might add that even radiance roses won't bloom much here unless you literally soak them about once a week.

Judge Small, chairman of the board, said that its members were gratified to learn that the penalty had been taken off. "Half of one of our primary objectives has been achieved," he said, "but we do not intend to let up in our efforts to prevent fires in Wellington. We hope to continue the good fire record and eventually earn a fifteen per cent credit, which is possible if the good record is maintained long enough. We will continue to inspect all fires regardless of their size, and we ask the co-operation of the people in observing fire prevention methods."

Instructions State Local C. W. A. To Have Number Employees Reduced

That the C. W. A. quota for this county, as in other counties, will be reduced on February 22, was announced today by Miss Katherine Boverie, following the receipt of word from state headquarters. No definite instructions as to just how much or what portions of the local work would be cut have been received, Miss Boverie said, but she continued that her instructions stated that all persons with other resources and possible means of income should be eliminated from the local C. W. A. rolls.

During recent weeks the local C. W. A. office has been paying out approximately $5,000 in salaries to 496 persons, which is the maximum quota for this county.

Tech Experiments Show Lamb Costs

LUBBOCK, Tex.—Results of the first 30 day period of the lamb feeding test conducted by the Texas Technological College animal husbandry department show costs ranging from $2.54 to $3.86 per hundred pounds of gain, according to Prof. W. I. Stangel, head of the department.

"No definite conclusions are being drawn from results obtained thus far in this year's test," Stangel explained. "This is merely a progress report which will be supplemented as additional feeding periods are concluded."

Six lots of 20 each were divided from the 120 lambs placed on the experiment December 28, the first 30 days ending January 29. Lot One, which was fed milo head chops, cottonseed meal, and alfalfa hay, gained .55 pounds daily for each lamb on a consumption of 1.13 pounds of milo head chops, .13 pounds cottonseed meal, and 1.32 pounds of alfalfa hay. This produced 100 pounds of gain at a feeding cost of $3.86, including salt.

Lot Two, fed milo head chops, cottonseed meal, and sorghum silage, gained .44 of a pound daily, consuming 1.05 pounds milo head chops, .35 pounds cottonseed meal, and 2.4 pounds of sorghum silage at a cost of $3.28 per 100 pounds of gain.

Lot Three, fed the same as Lot Two except that each lamb received 4 ounce pulverized oyster shell daily, gained .45 pounds and consumed the same quantity of feed as Lot Two at a cost of $3.46 per 100 pounds of gain.

Lots Four, Five and Six, fed cottonseed meal and hulls, gained .54 pounds, .48 pounds, and .48 pounds respectively, and consumed daily .45 pounds cottonseed meal and 2.37 pounds cottonseed hulls. Costs per pound of gain for the lots were $2.54, $2.87, and $2.86.

The first three lots will be fed the same for the 90 day test. Lot Four, at the end of the first 30 days, has been changed to a ration of milo head chops, cottonseed meal, and cottonseed hulls.

Lot Five, at the end of 60 days, will be changed to a ration of milo head chops, cottonseed meal, and cottonseed hulls.

Lot Six will receive cottonseed meal and cottonseed hulls throughout the test.

interpretation of the question of planting roughness and will notify the local farmers as soon as an answer can be received.

"In the meantime those who have no conflict on their cotton acreage or find the Corn-Hog reduction profitable, may bring their data into the office here and we will assist them in making out their contracts."

In case roughage may be planted without conflicting with the Cotton Reduction program, Mr. Stovall also indicated that another series of community gatherings would be sponsored for the purpose of signing up the contracts.

Tabulated Cotton Acreage
Acreage on cotton reductions in this county is now being tabulated in the county agent's office and preparations are being made for the presentation of the county figures to the State Board of approval. No definite date has been set, as yet, for the consideration of the reduction figures of this county, however, but the figures will be presented as soon as possible.

I need the office and there is no use in trying to hide that fact, but I am asking for it because I know I am capable of handling the work that must be done in that office for the people who elect me. Your consideration of my candidacy will be appreciated and gratefully remembered, and I assure you that I will do my best to live up to your expectations in filling the duties of the office.

THE ARAB IN THE DESERT

Deserts are not all barren wastes. Nor are they all empty spaces. Some are inhabited by familiar and unfamiliar creatures, and others are the haunts of an invisible and invincible race. To the Arab there are communities of spirits in the desert—spirits, good and evil, to comfort or distress, to rescue or annihilate. That is why, in his travels he is a man of many moods, gay, pious, poetic, anecdotal, silent. That is why he sings, prays, recites poetry, tells of his exploits or makes his way through a maze of uncertainties in hushed apprehension.
