Friendship Of 1940 'Treaty' Said Renewed

Pact Claimed Big Blow To Britain; Signed In Berlin

(By The United Press)

BERLIN, Jan. 10—A new German-Russian pact of friendship covering new problems which arose during the past year was signed today, authorized German quarters said.

The pact was said to have been signed at the foreign office here between 4 and 5 p. m. It was distinct from a commercial accord which has been under negotiation in Moscow for several months and signature of which is believed imminent.

Renews Old Pact

The new pact provides:

1. For formal renewal of the Russo-German friendship treaty which expired at the end of 1940.

2. For settlement of problems connected with the Russian occupation of the Baltic states, such as compensation to repatriated German property owners.

3. For final settlement of problems connected with establishing a border in Poland.

Disappointment To Churchill?

4. For increased economic exchanges.

Authorized German quarters said that while rumors of worsening Russo-German relations were rife "we have not slept but have used our time to further solidify mutual good relations."

"The pact will be a great disappointment to Churchill," it was said, "It truly is a great success for Germany."

Details of the agreement were expected to be made public tomorrow.

Fascist Force Shoved Back; Booty Taken

Central Albanian Stronghold Falls Under Greek Fire

(By The Associated Press)

SALONIKA, Greece, Jan. 10.—The fall of Klisura, Italian stronghold in central Albania, was officially announced today.

Klisura was one of two Fascist bases on the central front at which the Greek forces have been pounding for weeks in their drive on the important port of Valona.

Stands At Cross Roads

It lies about 15 miles east of Tepeleni, the other Italian stronghold on that front.

Klisura stands astride a cross road, one fork of which leads to Berat and Durazzo, while the other leads to Valona.

The Greeks have been aiming two drives at Valona, one on the central front, toward Klisura and Tepeleni, and the other up the Adriatic coast from Porto Edda and Chimara.

Advance Continued

Greek troops were reported also to have advanced a few miles beyond Klisura in the direction of Berati with the Italians in disorderly retreat.

Premier Gen. John Metaxas announced the taking of Klisura to the cabinet this morning and sent a telegram to the Greek forces.

Widespread Rejoicing

The announcement was a signal for widespread Greek rejoicing.

Church bells pealed throughout the country. Crowds gathered around general headquarters while King George and others appeared at windows.

The Greeks said they have not had time to count their prisoners nor the "large quantity" of materials of all kinds seized.

Tech Approved For Defense Training

Approval of Texas Technological college for participation in the $9,000,000 national defense training program was announced in a bulletin received this morning from the Federal Security agency, United States Office of Education, Washington.

Texas Tech was approved for a Production Engineering course. Other than the bulletin, no announcement of the approval has been received in the office of President Clifford B. Jones.

Subject to official announcement from Commissioner John W. Studebaker, plans will go forward for opening of the course in the immediate future, probably about Feb. 1.

Ordering of photographic equipment necessary for the instruction and of selection of the staff will await instructions, but formal applications may be filed by qualified persons wishing to take the course. Blanks may be obtained in the office of O. A. St. Clair, head professor of industrial engineering and engineering drawing. Ten must enroll before the course can be offered.

Murder Indictment Is Under Scrutiny

LAKE CHARLES, La., Jan. 10 (AP)—Hearing on a motion to quash a murder indictment against Annie Beatrice Henry will be held in district court here next Tuesday.

Her attorneys contend that the grand jury which returned the indictment was illegally constituted.

The woman was convicted last year of killing Joseph P. Calloway, Houston, salesman, and she was sentenced to hang, but the supreme court granted her a new trial.

Gas Warfare For Spring Offensive Being Forecast

(By The United Press)

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Ambassadors of several foreign nations have sent reports to their governments predicting developments which would be calculated to make 1941 the turning point of the war, it was learned today.

Foremost among the prophesies are:

That in 1941 Germany will make a desperate attempt to knock out Great Britain.

May Defeat Italy

That Britain stands a fair chance of forcing Italy to sue for peace this year.

That Japan is likely to time a drive for South Seas expansion to synchronize with a tremendous German spring offensive.

The prediction that Germany will make its supreme offensive effort this year is based on the belief that otherwise from 1942 onward Germany would lose ground.

Germany To Take Control

The prediction regarding Britain's chance to crush Italy is made with the realization that Germany would be prepared to assume full control in Italy.

Reliable informants say some influential members of the government share the views of the ambassadors.

Well informed quarters here believe it highly probable that Hitler this spring will start an aerial at-

Old And Tired And Innocent--He Only Wanted To Rest His Weary Body For A While But Law Puts Him Behind Bars

(By The United Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 — Joseph Levy is old and tired and innocent, but he's in jail and there is no legal way of getting him out for a week.

Two mistakes were made: The policeman who found Levy sitting on a park bench, resting during the course of a walk home from a synagogue, thought he was loitering, and the judge who sentenced him to 10 days in the work house thought he had pleaded guilty.

Speaks No English

Levy is 77, a Russian Jew. He has been in this country 50 years and retired two years ago as a cobbler, but speaks no English. He had never been in trouble before and didn't know why Patrolman Henry Adler arrested him, and the interpreter provided him in court either misunderstood or wasn't listening, and a plea of guilty was entered for him.

The jailer who later searched Levy found $18 in his pocket and wondered why he hadn't paid a fine instead of going to jail, but nobody had explained to Levy about a fine.

Is Reported Missing

Levy went to jail Wednesday. His blind, 80-year-old wife and his son-in-law and daughter reported him missing yesterday. Informed that he was safe — in jail — the family rushed to court with two lawyers. Magistrate Charles Hirsimaki, who had sentenced Levy, signed a release order as soon as the situation was explained. But the jail warden wouldn't let Levy out. There is an old law, designed to prevent political pressure on magistrates, which says that once a prisoner has been sentenced the magistrate can do nothing about it.

The lawyers decided the only recourse was an appeal to special sessions court. That takes eight days. Levy's term will be up by that time.

Outstanding Women For 1940 Listed

(By The United Press)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10.—Durward Howes, editor of "American Women," announced today his fifth annual selection of the 10 outstanding women of the year.

Howes, Los Angeles jeweler, journalist and champion of the achievements of youth, chose the following prominent women, emphasizing that he made no distinction among them:

Deanna Durbin, 19-year-old actress-singer.

Dorothy Thompson, newspaper columnist and radio commentator.

Patty Berg, professional golfer.

Belle Benchley, director of the San Diego, Calif., zoological garden.

Harriett Elliott, member of the national defense commission.

Mrs. Edith Graham Mayo, widow of the famous Dr. Charles Mayo.

Carson McCullers, author of "The Heart is a Lonely Hunter."

Georgia O'Keefe, outstanding artist.

Aurelia Reinhardt, president of Mills college.

Dana Suesse, prominent young composer.

Another Reason Why Italy Is Losing War

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10. (U.P.)—The Italians are losing the war because they are a musical people and "no man who has a song in his heart can kill," John Barbirolli, conductor of the New York Philharmonic orchestra, said today.

"Music is not confined to a select group in Italy," Barbirolli said. "People go down the streets in groups, singing. For every warminded Fascist there are a thousand singers. These people will lose the war."

Labor Warned By Congress

In Washington, congressmen warned labor that unless it made every effort to avoid strikes tying up defense production, a law prohibiting work stoppages would be sought.

Agree To Contract

More than 2,000 United Automobile Workers (CIO) ended a nine-day strike at the Fort Wayne, Ind., International Harvester company truck plant when they agreed to accept what was described as a compromise contract. Signing of the contract will return 3,200 employes to their jobs next Monday morning, producing trucks for the army and navy.

Settlement of that strike presumably prevented closing of the Springfield, Ohio, Harvester plant which had been threatened by the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee (CIO) because of failure to reach an agreement in the Fort Worth dispute. The Springfield plant builds trucks for the U. S. marine corps.

At East Farmingdale, N. Y., UAW officials announced last night a threatened strike against the Ranger Aircraft Engineering corp. be-

Dream Girl Of Future--"Miss Fashion Futures"--Married

By JOAN YOUNGER
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 — The dream girl of the future, who is "Miss Fashion Futures" is blond, blue eyed, 5 feet 10 inches tall, and Phi Beta Kappa, a crack rifle shot, and married.

That, according to the fashion group, backed up by 4,000 merchants from all over the country, is the streamlined type of tomorrow, personified by Josephine Caldwell, first chosen Miss Philadelphia, and last night voted Miss Fashion Futures at the super colossal style show of that name.

"Oh, it's wonderful!" Miss Caldwell said, running off the stage with her title and landing in the arms of her friends from Philadelphia. She was flustered, repeating over and over that she wanted to call "Gilbert." Gilbert, it turned out, is her husband, Gilbert Barron, an interne in Pennsylvania hospital.

Somewhat later, more composed and sitting in front of photographers, Miss Caldwell said that clothes really didn't

Youth Is Unhurt As Plane Crashes Here

First crash since opening of the civilian pilot training program for Texas Technological college students occurred this morning, causing several hundred dollars damage to the airplane but leaving the pilot, Melvin Clarence Robertson, 20, uninjured.

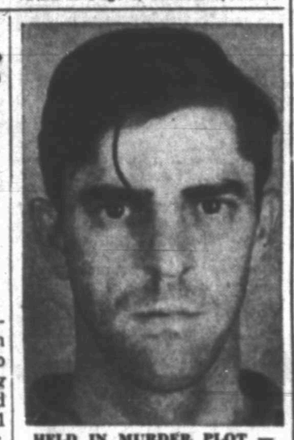

The crash happened when Robertson took off westward into the wind and across the highway from Municipal airport about 8 o'clock this morning and the plane stalled as he attempted to lift it over a highline. His motor was not functioning properly, probably due to a little ice formation in the carburetor, an airport official said.

The light plane went into a spiral, one wing hit the highline and caught fire from a spark from the line. The plane struck the ground west of the highway on the other wing. Both wings were damaged, the propellor was broken and the cowling was damaged. Merrill Kayser, manager of the airport, said the damage was estimated at $350 to $400. M. F. Dagley, one of the operators in the CAA program, owned the plane.

The youth attempted to turn parallel to the highline and it was then his plane went into the spiral.

Robertson, student of Elmer B. Phillips in the primary flight course, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Robertson of 2201 Sixth

Kansan Shoots Invalid Wife

(By The Associated Press)

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Jan. 10 — A railroad executive who said his invalid wife often "begged me to put her out of her misery" was arrested today after she was found in bed fatally wounded.

The husband, John E. Rockwell, 64, was charged with murdering his 62-year-old wife, Elizabeth, to whom he had been married for 39 years. Rockwell is secretary-treasurer of the Kansas City, Kaw Valley and Western railroad.

Relates Killing

"I believed her disease to be incurable and I could not stand watching her suffer any longer," Rockwell was quoted by T. P. Palmer, Wyandotte county deputy attorney, as relating.

"This morning I woke up, and, lying on my side, looked at her as she slept. I must have been desperate. I have worried so much lately. I hardly knew what I was doing. I reached under my pillow and quietly got my revolver.

"Without waking her I gently placed the muzzle against her head just behind the right ear and pulled the trigger. She moaned once and lay still. After that I don't know what happened until I saw the police in my room."

Congratulations To:

U. S. Is Urged To Join Axis

(By The United Press)

ROME, Jan. 10—Virginio Gayda suggested in the Giornale D'Italia today that the United States line up with the Axis powers, if only for commercial reasons.

He wrote that the Axis powers respect the independence of the United States and other American nations and he said that reciprocal respect would be expected by the Axis.

Two Leaders Accused

Accusing Prime Minister Winston Churchill and President Roosevelt of attempting to establish an Anglo-Saxon mandate over Europe, Gayda wrote:

"Such a mandate would not only destroy European civilization but would be against the very interests of the United States. If the United States could visualize European affairs with realistic eyes Washington would understand it is better for the United States to line up with the youthful nations in its own commercial interests instead of digging dangerous trenches against the totalitarians."

Premier Benito Mussolini's own newspaper, Popolo D'Italia of Milan, said today that Spain, Hungary and Rumania eventually would enter the war on the side of the Axis.

"Lined up with the Axis against the same enemy are 90,000,000 Japanese," the newspaper said. "Spain, Rumania and Hungary are our barracks comrades while waiting to become our trench comrades. Altogether we form an invincible bloc."

Four Tech Directors Are To Be Chosen

Four directorate appointments for Texas Technological college are on the calendar for 1941, with three terms expiring and one vacancy already existing as result of death of Joe T. Sneed, jr., of Amarillo, who was chairman.

On alternate years, six-year terms of three directors expire. Scheduled for expiration Feb. 19 are the terms of Mrs. W. R. Potter of Bowie, Tomas G. Pollard of Tyler and James M. West of Houston, who succeeded Sneed as chairman.

Terms of Mark McGee of Fort Worth, Spencer A. Wells of Lubbock and L. L. Steele of Mexia are to expire in 1943, and terms of Milburn McCarty of Eastland and Charles C. Thompson of Colorado, in 1945. Mr. Sneed's term would not have expired until 1945.

New Clause In Bill; Powers "Unlimited"

Program To Make Nation Virtually Active Is Asked

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—After President Roosevelt urged quick action on his vast lease-lend program, administration leaders asked Congress today to give him sweeping powers to transfer American-made military equipment to Great Britain and other warring "democracies."

The president told his press conference just before the legislation was introduced in both houses of Congress that the powers which it gave him were needed to avoid delay.

Transfer Any Article

The bill would permit the chief executive, "when he deems it in the interest of national defense," to:

1. "Manufacture in arsenals, factories, and shipyards under their jurisdiction, or otherwise procure, any defense article for the government of any country whose defense the president deems vital to the defense of the United States.

2. "Sell, transfer, exchange, lease, lend, or otherwise dispose of, to any such government any defense article.

Repair Ships Here

3. "Test, inspect, prove, repair, outfit, recondition, or otherwise to place in good working order any defense article for any such government.

4. "Communicate to any such government any defense information pertaining to any defense article furnished to such government under paragraph (2) of this subsection.

5. "Release for export any defense article to any such government."

Example Given

A statement issued by congressional leaders said that the bill's provision permitting the president "to test, repair, outfit, or otherwise to place in good working order any defense article" meant that repairs could be made to defense articles whether manufactured in the United States or not.

"It could conceivably mean, for example," the statement said, "that the British battle cruiser Renown could be repaired in the Brooklyn navy yard if the president considered it in the interest of our national de-

Heiress Dies In Collision

(By The United Press)

FORT WORTH Jan. 10—Miss Alice Brooker 73-year-old heiress to one-seventh of a $1,000,000 estate, prided herself on her ability to drive her own automobile.

Today she is dead, the victim of an auto-train crash at a "death-gulch" crossing in the suburbs of Fort Worth, the scene of several similar crash fatalities. She was killed late yesterday when the Fort Worth and Denver Zephyr plowed into her car and carried the auto nearly 150 feet along the tracks and left it a heap of tangled metal.

Alone In Car

She was alone in her car. There were no other injuries.

The sister of J. N. Brooker, wealthy land-owner who died in 1930 also in a traffic accident, Miss Brooker received the last installment of her share of the will, valued at more than $1,000,000, last spring.

Heirs contested the will and kept it in court litigation for almost 10 years. The last distribution of real estate came early in 1940 when lists of approximately $41,000 in land holdings each were put in a capsule and drawn from a hat by a court attache. Heirs determined, in that way, who should receive the various pieces of property.

Funeral services will be held here Saturday. She will be buried here.

Reward Of $1,000 Is Claimed Here

The arrest and conviction of Leroy Hudson, negro now serving a two-year prison sentence for having set fire to the residence he occupied last summer, was the basis of a claim to a standing city arson reward of $1,000 presented for Grady Harrist, deputy sheriff, at the semi-monthly meeting of the city commission Thursday afternoon.

The commission also approved a budget of $35,290 for the operation of the city parks department during the fiscal year beginning next April 1 and was informed of plans of Broadway Church of Christ to build a $50,000 addition to the church next year.

Adopted In 1928

Harrist's claim was based on a city ordinance adopted in 1928 and amended in 1931 fixing the $1,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of any arsonist for such a crime committed in Lubbock. So far as officials could ascertain immediately, the ordinance still stands.

The supposed reason for the adoption of the ordinance, as related to members of the commission, was that it enabled the city to secure a reduction in the key fire insurance rate here.

Bradley Attends Meet

City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley, attending his first meeting of the commission since he was injured in an automobile accident six weeks ago, expressed the opinion that unless the ordinance has been changed, the reward must be paid. For its own protection, however, he added, the commission should require proof as to who is entitled to the reward. The city attorney and City Manager W. H. Rodgers were directed to investigate Harrist's claim and to report to the next meeting of the commission.

The city parks budget, as submitted by K. N. Clapp, chairman, and Mrs. Clark Mullican, member of the city parks board, is slightly more than the $34,140 budget of the past year, but is substantially less than the $42,059 actually spent. Expenditures of the past year have exceeded the budget, it was explained, because of $7,309 invested in land for two new park sites in the southern and southwestern parts of the city.

Building plans of the Broadway Church of Christ, located at Broadway and Avenue N, were outlined by B. Sherrod and J. C. Rigney, who asked the commission to close an east-west alley immediately west of the present church edifice. The city attorney was directed to prepare an ordinance granting the request.

To Build Next Year

Sherrod explained that the church has bought the two lots separated from the present building by the alley and expects to finish paying for them this year.

Next year, he continued, plans are to build the addition which will include a substantial enlargement of the church auditorium.

Members of the commission also heard plans for the erection of another structure—a $12,000 to $18,000 office building for South Plains Electric Cooperative, inc.

A letter from W. G. Newton, superintendent of the cooperative, explained that directors of his organization want to acquire a portion of a city-owned tract on Avenue H in the northern edge of the city as a site for the structure. It is desired, the letter said, to start work on the building as quickly as possible.

Hitch Said Possible

The possible hitch to granting the request, members of the commission said, is that a portion of the same tract has been offered as a site for a national guard armory which the city hopes to secure. Belief was expressed, however, that there is sufficient room on the land to meet requirements for both buildings. The city manager was directed to confer with officials of the cooperative. If a site satisfactory to them which does not prejudice Lubbock's chances of obtaining the armory can be located, as much as two acres will be made available to the cooperative at $100 per acre, members of the commission decided.

A petition bearing signatures of 37 persons residing east of the Santa Fe railway tracks was submitted asking that a crossing for pedestrians be opened across the rails on North Avenue G. Members of the committee who appeared with the petition were Mrs. W. L. Brady, 802 Sixth street, Mrs. H. B. Bowen, 508 Avenue G, and Mrs. Maude Curry, 517 Avenue G.

The Santa Fe recently completed an eight-foot fence on the east and north side of the tracts extending between the underpasses at Broadway and North Avenue H. Because of the fence, Mrs. Brady said, residents of that part of the city must walk far out of their way to reach the business district.

To Probe Request

Members of the commission gave assurance that the request will be investigated. They expressed the opinion, however, that the portion of Avenue G at that point belongs to the Santa Fe and that the city is without power to compel the railroad to open a crossing. Officials of the railway explained at the time plans for the fence were announced that it is intended solely as a safety measure.

Mrs. Margie Scott, assistant city bacteriologist, was directed to attend a short course arranged by the state department of health for Jan. 17-25 in Austin.

Increase from $90 to $100 per month in the wage of Luke Bundrant, city hall janitor, was approved. The commisssion also directed that he be given an assistant to be paid $50 per month as soon as the new police department building now under construction is completed.

Contract For Light Globes

The Santa Fe was authorized to lay paving 50 feet in width on Avenue E between Nineteenth and Twenty-third streets bordering the land purchased by the railroad recently for industrial development. Of the pavement, which is to conform to the city's specifications, 25 feet will be on railroad property and 25 feet will extend to the middle of the street. The Santa Fe is to pay the entire cost of the improvement.

Nunn Electric company was awarded the contract to supply General Electric light globes to the city for the next two years. The city buys about $2,500 worth of globes per year, the commission was informed. The contract probably will be handled through Wylie Drug store, officials said.

All members of the commission attended the Thursday meeting. They are Mayor Carl E. Slaton and Commissioners W. B. Price, W. G. McMillan, Hub Jones and Garland Newsom.

Dean Says Beauties Should Have Brains

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 10 (U.P.)—If Dean of Women Louise T. Greeley had her way, University of Wisconsin co-eds would need more than shapely curves to obtain recognition as "Badger Beauties."

She deplores the method of choosing a "beauty" section for the Badger, student yearbook, on the basis of pulchritude alone. Instead, she suggested substitution of a department of "representative women," chosen for their scholarship and campus activities.

"I have always felt beauty contests are commercial and provincial," the dean said. "In the minds of discriminating people, beauty contests are in a class with stock shows and bathing beauty judgings."

John Bendyk, Milwaukee, Wis., business manager of the yearbook, declined Mrs. Greeley's request to abolish the beauty contest this year, but said, "activities and grades will be considered as important as pulchritude" in picking "Badger Beauties."

Yearbook officials hope to get an off-campus board to make the final selection of beauties.

Allied Triumphs Shake Italy's African Empire

Entire Domain May Be Taken

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

The far citadels of Signor Mussolini's great African empire, of which he has been inordinately proud, are beginning to shake from the disaster which has overtaken his army of conquest in the Libyan desert.

While it would be rash to draw sweeping conclusions from the Allies' successes thus far, it is justifiable to say that their progress does in fact threaten the existence of Italy's whole African structure.

Carrying Out "Promise"

That means Libya, Ethiopia, Eritrea, Italian Somaliland, and British Somaliland which the Fascists captured last August when the British advisedly offered little resistance.

The rapidly multiplying signs bring vividly to mind a graphic passage in British Premier Churchill's recent appeal to the Italian people to throw Il Duce overboard. In citing the wages of continuing the conflict he said:

"Our armies are tearing and will tear your African empire to shreds and tatters."

Accounts For Balkan Moves

The danger undoubtedly exists that Churchill's dire prediction may be fulfilled. Because of this, and the striking Greco-British victories over the Fascists in Albania, London is beginning to buzz with talk of an offensive against Italy itself, with the idea of knocking Mussolini out of the war completely. Such an operation also would tend to checkmate Hitler's threatened invasion of Britain.

Recognition of these facts would account in part for the German activity in the Balkans. If the Allied menace to Italy continues to increase, Hitler undoubtedly will attempt to counter it in some manner.

Revolt Is Major Threat

In Africa, along with the rapid advance of the Allied forces into Libyan territory, comes the striking word that the native rebellion in the mountain fastnesses of wild Ethiopia is swelling.

The Ethiopian upheaval may easily produce a major catastrophe if it gets going full blast. Tragedy looks down from the rugged mountains onto the Italian cantonments and the many thousands of colonists whom Mussolini has sent into that primitive country. The Ethiopians are likely to exact terrible vengeance.

Little Emperor Haile Selassie reportedly is in the Egyptian Sudan himself, leading his people in the effort to regain the throne of the Lion of Judah. The British are giving him material and military aid.

Guerrilla Bands Formed

Many former chieftains, encouraged by the British, have been organizing companies of fighting men. Hundreds of guerrilla bands are said to be operating throughout the countryside, making sudden descents on Italian outposts or convoys.

In many places the Italians are fearful of moving without a heavy armed escort. Colonists must work their farms with rifles at hand, like our American forefathers in Indian days.

Should Ethiopia fall, along with Libya, then the Italian possessions clinging to these big territories might be expected to succumb quickly.

HOUSTON TAXES SOAR

HOUSTON (U.P.)—The cost of living in Houston is going up for property owners, showing a 22 per cent tax hike in a year. Houstonians paid $757,252 more in current city, school and library taxes during the first 11 months of 1940 than in the same period of 1939.

Questionnaires were mailed Thursday to 50 additional registrants under the national selective service act, according to J. W. Tarlton, clerk of Lubbock county draft board No. 1.

Room And Board For Students Now Less

Men students of Texas Technological college are paying less for room and board than last year, according to report Thursday by college authorities. Women students are paying about the same.

Average price of room and board for girls is $24.80, average price of rooms alone is $10 and average price of rooms with kitchen privileges is $9.14, 86 cents less than rooms alone, said Mrs. Eleanor M. Chitwood, assistant dean of women.

The men's housing report, compiled in the office of Dean of Men James G. Allen, shows: 355 boys who receive both room and board at the same place, not including those living in the dormitories on the campus, pay $8.382 a month or an average of $23.61, a decrease of $1.57 from last year's average and 69 cents from the 1938 fall semester average; 525 renting rooms but not receiving board at the same place pay $4,483 a month, an average of $8.54 a boy or 11 cents less than last year and 10 cents less than two years ago; 67 who live in light housekeeping apartments pay $8.46 a month or 24 cents less than last year; 145 living in bachelor apartments pay $1,261.52 a month, an average of $8.70 and an increase of 20 cents over last year.

The fastest thing you can do is to wink your eye, which takes an average of one-tenth of a second.

Better than a dozen hankies for opening STUFFY NOSTRILS

What's the use of soiling so many hankies, trying to blow mucus out of stopped-up nostrils? It only piles up the laundry bill. And remember, a lot of violent blowing only makes your nose more sore, red, unsightly, and it very often injures the delicate membranes.

A more economical and gentler way to relieve congestion in your nostrils due to a cold is to insert a little Mentholatum. This delightful ointment will soon break up congested mucus, relieve the smothery feeling, and permit you to breathe normally through the nose. It also relieves sniffling, sneezing, swelling, soreness, and redness.

Mentholatum helps in so many ways that you should always remember this: For Discomforts from Colds—Mentholatum. Link them together in your mind.

Uncle Sam's Modern Army Is Taking Training To The Classroom

Aptitude Tests Are Given Now

BY JOHN A. REICHMANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 — The young man who joins the army these days stands little chance of remaining a simple, rifle-carrying infantryman if he knows radio, the workings of a gasoline or diesel engine, or even if he can operate a typewriter with reasonable skill.

Almost any skill is being welcomed at centers where raw recruits are taken into the military machine and selected for the various branches of service. Every effort is made to avoid the wasteful World war practices in which a good mechanic was turned into a cook, or a typist into a blacksmith.

Carefully Studied

Every man taken into the service is carefully interviewed and all his past activities, including his hobbies, studied. His record is placed in a card index file for ready reference. He will, as far as possible, be put into the work for which he is most adapted or in which he is most interested.

Soldiering in the machine age at times resembles school days more than it does man-size occupations. Every school facility is being used to the utmost and new schools are being created.

Tank School At Fort Knox

At Fort Knox, Ky., headquarters of the armored force, a whole row of school buildings is being set up. In some classes, student soldiers—see a tank motor taken apart and assembled. It is not a simple matter of fixing parts, but of learning what makes the intricate machine go, and why.

In another class motorcycles are repaired and rebuilt. At another, young soldiers hammer away at typewriters, learning to become company clerks.

No Wasted Time

One section devotes itself to the intricacies of radio of the various types used in the armored force. Another works over the task of learning to send and receive messages in code.

While the army may lack the machines which these men are to operate, it is wasting no time in training soldiers to use them once they are available. Classes are expanding rapidly and ultimately will instruct as many as 800 men at a time. The lessons will be expounded by instructors talking to four classrooms at one time through a loudspeaker system.

More Instructors Needed

With their education completed, the most adept will be sent to their organizations to act as instructors. The others will return to their units to apply their training.

Training of aviation mechanics is proceeding at the same rapid pace at Chanute Field, Ill., a long established school.

Education is not confined to enlisted men. Even the generals are going to infantry, field artillery, cavalry and other schools for "refresher" courses. Reserve officers on active duty are pursuing the same course to fit them for the commands which they must sometime occupy.

Training Offered

In the 2d armored Division at Fort Benning, Ga., reserve officers on duty in each company take weekly turns commanding their unit, under the supervision of the regular army officer who is in actual command. They have months of actual training on their own responsibility in this way.

When, next spring, the division is divided to serve as the skeletons of new armored divisions, they will go to their commands fully imbued with the training needed to make efficient officers.

The army believes that it will do a better job than it did a generation ago in training officers and men for the World war.

Meador Funeral To Be Held At Matador

MATADOR, Jan. 10 (Special) — Funeral services are to be conducted this afternoon for Mrs. Martha Elisabeth Meador, 96, oldest resident of Motley county, who died at Plawn here Thursday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. D. Long. Mrs. Meador had resided in the county 50 years.

She was born March 2, 1844, in Lexington, Ky. In 1858 she moved with her parents to Fort Worth and in 1861 she was married to William Elsberry Meador, who was to become a captain of the so-called free-will rangers. He died in 1877 at Springtown. Six of the eight children born to Mr. and Mrs. Meador are living: R. E. Meador of Phoenix, Ariz., and J. E., Doug and Joe Meador, sons, and Mrs. Long and Mrs. G. W. Ratcliff, daughters, all of Matador.

Mrs. Meador belonged to the Christian faith for 68 years. For 25 years she had suffered poor health. Her death was caused by pneumonia.

City Officials Say:

Light Plant Needs New Generator

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of two informative articles presented by The Avalanche-Journal's City hall reporter in connection with the bond election scheduled for next Tuesday, January 14).

By H. I. KIEFER
Journal Staff Writer

PROPOSED bond issues totaling $290,000 are to be submitted to city election Tuesday. Of the bonds, $75,000 are intended for improvements to the city water department and $175,000 for the city electric plant.

This article relates to the proposed electric plant issue.

All of the $175,000 from that issue is intended to apply on the purchase of a new 3200-horsepower Diesel generating engine which, according to city officials, will increase the power production capacity of the plant 25 to 30 per cent.

The city commission already has authorized the purchase of the new engine from Nordburg Manufacturing company of Milwaukee on its bid of $190,100. That company has supplied the last several engines bought by the city. The new purchase contract, which was approved after competitive bids had been received, is conditioned upon approval of the bonds.

Part Payment From Revenues

The difference between the $190,100 cost of the engine and the $175,000 in bonds, if approved, will be paid out of revenues of the electric department.

Several factors are cited by city officials as making the purchase of the engine urgently advisable at this time.

One is that, even now, the company will require 14 months for delivery, which is about twice as long as has been necessary on engines previously bought. Another is the prospect, as reported to city officials from several sources, that units of that kind are almost certain to become increasingly difficult to obtain as the national defense program gains momentum.

Some Worry Felt

Even now, the prospect that the new engine cannot be operating for 14 months is making city officials a bit uncomfortable. If the increase in electricity in the next 14 months continues at the rate of the past 14 months, need for the new power that the engine can generate will exist by time it can be installed.

If there should be a sharp increase in the rate of demand, it likely would mean that too many of the present engines would have to be operated too continuously to provide a minimum margin of safety against emergencies, according to city officials.

EVIDENCE the increased demand for electricity has been the fact, as shown in city records, that the number of city electric meters has increased in slightly less than four years from 3,557 to 5,248. The increase has been spread more or less evenly over that period, ranging from approximately 300 to approximately 500 per year.

Records also show, according to officials, that not only has the number of users increased, but the average electrical requirements per patron has gained and is continuing to gain.

Optimistic Hopes Held

Members of the city commission also are of the opinion that the additional power generated by the new engine will more than pay for the cost of the unit within five, and probably within three years.

Profits from the electric plant which have gone into the city's general fund the past several years, as shown in official audits, have been: 1937—$155,747; 1938—$189,937; 1939—$228,149; and 1940—$275,052.

For the first eight months of the present fiscal year, which began last April 1, revenues have been $184,367 in spite of the fact that electricity rates were reduced recently. That revenue, as pointed out by city officials, is as much as would be produced if the city tax rate should be increased $1.25 on the $100 of assessed valuation.

ANOTHER reason also is given by city officials for calling a bond election at this time for the improvements which, they say, must be made in the near future to keep pace with a rate of growth even less than that Lubbock has enjoyed the last several years.

That reason is the prospect that a federal tax may be placed on city obligations, which now are tax exempt. Bond authorities predict that such a tax will mean an increase of at least one per cent, perhaps more, which the city would have to pay on bonds it issues.

One per cent on a $250,000 five-year issue would amount to $7,500—nearly enough to build the new city swimming pool that has been so long needed somewhere in the more westerly sections of the city.

Women and girls in a London clothing factory have volunteered to work overtime without pay to produce hospital clothing and comforts.

IN KEY WITH KEYS—Hildegarde, the former Milwaukee singer who believes in economizing about names, listens to the 40 different instrumental tones added to a piano by a new device. The vocal effects are entirely Hildegarde's own.

Texas Legislature, Which Convenes Tuesday, Faces Major Tasks

Ten Problems Are Set Forth

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 10.—To those awaiting Governor W. Lee O'Daniel's recommendations to the new legislature—and interest apparently is keen and widespread—it may be said that he already has outlined what he considers the major tasks for the session starting Tuesday.

A statement which the governor made last July 29, two days after his primary reelection, as well as his announcement for reelection April 4, are considered in the capital as significant.

In the written statement the governor named ten matters as "the major tasks which will face the next session of the Texas legislature."

"The most important task is to raise the money to pay the social security bill, including old age pensions, teacher retirement, aid for the indigent blind and aid for dependent children," he asserted.

Others Are Revealed

That was point No. 1.

The others:

(2) Make more money available to the public schools and more adequate provisions for institutions of higher learning.

(3) Provide adequate facilities in eleemosynary institutions so the insane may be taken out of jails.

(4) Provide for retiring "at least one-fourth of the existing general fund deficit each year" and submit a constitutional amendment forbidding future legislatures to make appropriations without providing "taxes in advance to pay the bill."

Effective Budget Control

(5) Establish an effective budget control with a director of the budget appointed by the governor.

(6) Make the state auditor appointive by the legislature instead of by the governor as now.

(7) Require that money in special funds insofar as possible be placed in the general treasury and paid out only as appropriated by the legislature.

(8) Improve efficiency by consolidating state departments.

(9) "On taxation I stated in my opening announcement that my personal preference would be to raise the money to pay the social security obligations with a general transaction tax levied on all established lines of business, but that if the legislature elected to pass some other type of tax bill which would adequately meet these obligations, I would approve the bill.

Taxes On Resources

"I recommend that the money to pay off the state deficit, to care for our public schools, our colleges and our eleemosynary institutions be raised by additional taxes on natural resources and other similar business taxes."

(10) Enact "other important matters of legislation upon which my position is well known . . ."

The governor said this was the program he submitted to the people and which the people approved.

In his announcement for a second term, Governor O'Daniel dealt in specific figures on financial requirements of the government, estimating that in excess of $50,000,000 a year in new revenue was needed.

Needs Are Detailed

He detailed the needs as: $7,500,000 for deficit retirement, $5,000,000 for the public schools, $2,500,000 for higher education, $5,000,000 for eleemosynary institutions and $35,000,000 or $40,000,000 for social security.

In the same address, he asserted a need for reorganizing administrative departments, establishing a merit system of selecting employes, curbing designing boards who want to utilize state jobs to build political machines. He recommended "reasonable increase in the truck load limit in Texas to 14,000 pounds or more."

WPA Rolls To Face Decline

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—A reduction in WPA employment to an average of 1,300,000 persons monthly in the next fiscal year is in prospect to meet a $400,000,000 budget slash.

Howard O. Hunter, acting commissioner, said at a press conference yesterday, however, that as many as 400,000 persons might be absorbed from WPA rolls by private industry in the next year.

Based On Budget Figures

Hunter's estimate of an average monthly employment of 1,300,000 was based on President Roosevelt's budget recommendation that $1,034,139,700 be appropriated for the agency during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1942, compared with $1,501,915,000 for the current year.

On January 3, WPA employed 1,880,000 persons.

Hunter also disclosed that defense projects would be given preference. He said that emphasis would be placed in the future on work at airports and roads leading to army camps. As these roads are in many cases unbecessary except as they lead up to camp sites, the WPA, Hunter said, is expected to bear the entire cost. This may mean a further reduction in employment later on as funds become depleted.

It was estimated that 600,000 persons would be employed on roads, airports and camps by May of this year.

Strike Threats

cause of wage increase demands had been deferred 48 hours by request of a representative of the national defense commission. The plant has been making airplane engines for the U. S. government and a strike there would make idle 212 workers.

Workers in the Chevrolet plant of the General Motors corp. at Flint, Mich., announced they had approved a strike vote 10 to 1 in protest against alleged violations by the corporation of certain provisions of the union - corporation grievance procedure. Cary Swanson, regional director of the UAW-CIO, said the results of the vote would be forwarded to the international executive board which is authorized to designate further action.

Outbreak Is Feared

At Springfield, Ill., officials of local 7469 of the United Mine Workers of America (CIO) urged that a strike be called at Mine B unless company executives recognized the local as collective bargaining agent for the 300 men employed. U. S. Dist. Atty. Howard Doyle said after a recent survey of the controversy that he feared an outbreak of open warfare at the mine unless a jurisdictional dispute between the CIO union and the rival AFL progressive mine workers was settled. The AFL union has been recognized as bargaining agent for the mine.

The Chicago city council ratified its 1941 budget approving pay cuts which will save an estimated $1,000,000, thus ending a dispute with city workers that had caused a five and one-half hour strike of 4,000 workers which held up some municipal services temporarily. An agreement signed before the council acted provided for a sliding scale of wage cuts for salaries in brackets over $3,000 and provided for arbitration of all wage disputes by a joint union and city committee.

Besides being elected to Phi Beta Kappa national scholastic honorary fraternity, in her junior year at Pennsylvania college, Miss Caldwell was president of her class (1940) and president of her sorority (Kappa Kappa Gamma). Her srports, she said, were swimming and shooting.

Second choice for the title of "fresh, well scrubbed, ideal girl of the future" was Margeret Hayes, a pert, red haired Hollywood actress who is not married. However, her heart, the gossip writers say, belongs to Jeffrey Lynn, the movie star.

Miss Hayes, also posing for photographers, revealed that her name used to be Dana Dale. Asked whether or not she favored the new styles forecast by the show, she said:

"Well, I don't like the soft shoulders. And I don't like the shorter skirts. And I can't wear the brilliant red accessories. Besides, I design most of my own clothes myself."

As for being the "fresh, well-scrubbed ideal girl of the future," Miss Hayes said it was a good thing she wasn't elected. She wasn't well scrubbed, she explained, because her skin was so sensitive it didn't take to soap and water.

Channel Ports Bomb Targets

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 10 — British bombers pummelled cross-channel targets along the French coast today with a large-scale daylight assault in a continuation of night raids against Germany's industrial Ruhr valley and Nazi invasion ports.

So great was today's attack that that repercussion of exploding bombs shook the southeast English coast, 20 to 30 miles on this side of the channel.

Attack After Noon

The RAF began the attack shortly after noon and a little later a large formation of twin-motored British bombers came roaring back from the direction of the German-occupied port of Boulogne. A strong force of fighters hovered protectively around the homing bombers.

An oil plant at Gelsenkirchen and other objectives were hit in a concentrated attack by British bombing planes on the industrial Ruhr region in western Germany during the night an official announcement said.

The last time the RAF was reported to have attacked Gelsenkirchen was Nov. 7 during a heavy autumn air offensive against the Ruhr.

Attacks also were made last night on docks at Brest and oil targets at Rotterdam, the announcement said.

Speed Is Plea By Roosevelt

fense to do so."

The measure authorizes the appropriation of funds in such amounts as may be necessary to carry out its provisions. Estimates of eventual cost have reached $10,000,000,000, and Senator Barkley (D-Ky), the majority leader, has estimated that from $2,000,000,000 to $5,000,000,000 may be appropriated this year.

The government, Barkley explained, would order for foreign governments "only those materials which our army and navy could use."

"It should eliminate double assembly lines in our factories, and should help to standardize our war materials among the democracies."

Labor Not Touched Upon

Barkley said the measure contained no waiver of the wage-hour law, the Walsh-Healey public contracts act or the Wagner labor relations act.

Mr. Roosevelt, besides discussing the aid-to-Britain legislation, announced that he had signed a proclamation requiring copper, brass, bronze, zinc, nickel, and potash to be exported only under export licenses, effective Feb. 3. These materials, he said, are needed for American defense.

Power Said Necessary

Discussing the proposal at a press conference just before it was to be introduced in Congress, the president said he did not necessarily want the power apparently given in the bill, but that somebody has to have it so that quick action can be taken.

He told reporters that Latin American nations, as well as "democracies" at war, could be benefited by the lease-lending plan if it were found necessary.

Doesn't Affect Acts

Asked whether the British aid bill would have the effect of repealing the neutrality act ban against loans to belligerents and the Johnson act prohibition against credits to World war debt defaulters, Mr. Roosevelt replied in the negative.

But he added that the language employed in the proposal, namely, that equipment loans could be made "notwithstanding" any prior acts was the usual phrase in legislation and was required to avoid conflict of laws.

If there is any conflict, the president said, the later law supersedes the prior law.

Evades Destroyer Lending

Asked whether the bill would permit lending of destroyers, Mr. Roosevelt said no one had suggested that and there was no reason to discuss it now.

He said he thought speed was a great essential in enacting the new law because it related primarily to the placing of new orders in this country which would require many months before a start could be made to fill them.

Every week that goes by without action, he said, means a week's delay in the appropriations to come later, and a similar delay in placing orders, delivering them, and all down the line in the transaction.

No Pushing Anybody

The bill would merely authorize expenditures to carry out the program, he made plain, saying the government could not do a single thing until appropriations were made.

He did not want to push anybody, he said, but he thought that time gained now meant time gained at the other end.

No figure has yet been set on appropriations to be sought, Mr. Roosevelt continued, but added that they would be in two parts, as he recommended in his domestic defense budget—cash needed immediately and authorization to make future contracts.

Plan Further Explained

Explaining the decision to draft an all-inclusive bill, the president said that otherwise if a nation needed five airplanes, a specific bill would have to be rushed through, and this would have to be followed as each request arose.

If democracy is to survive, he emphasized, legalized speed would be needed.

The president said that 99 per cent of the program would apply to future needs, but that the United States might want to swap off five old planes today as against deliveries of new planes which this country knew would be made two weeks hence.

Records of the loans, he said, would be kept and double-checked. In response to a question, he explained collateral of some kind might be sought in some instances.

U. S. Commissioner Sam Dazzo, an attorney, noticed the clock was stopped.

"Pshaw," he volunteered, "I'll fix it."

He did — in a few minutes' tinkering and today the U. S. district attorney said it was still running as well as ever—minus the parts which still are en route to the factory.

Zinc Refinery Will Be Built In Texas

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—Officials of American Smelting & Refining Co said today they intended soon to start constructing a large electrolytic zinc refining plant in Texas.

They said the plant, with capacity of from 2,000 to 2,500 tons a month, probably would be situated on the gulf coast although the site had not been chosen. It was expected to go into operation in about a year.

Metals industry experts estimated that, with the completion of the new plant, the nation's zinc refining capacity would reach about 900,000 tons a year. The national output last year was about 589,000 tons.

Car Strikes Youth

Roy Hillin, Crosby county deputy sheriff, asked Lubbock authorities to be on lookout for a 25-year-old negro who had broken jail there.

Police said they had made no progress "worth mentioning" in their search for a hit-and-run driver who late Thursday struck 10-year-old Bishop Wadsworth from his bicycle in 1400-block Avenue Q, but that they had supplied descriptions of the suspected vehicle to officials and asked them to investigate carefully.

Doctor Gives Chase

The child, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Wadsworth of 1917 Sixteenth street was only slightly injured.

Dr. Gerald S. Smith, physician of the Lubbock sanitarium staff, saw the accident and gave chase. Driver of the black panel truck turned east up an alley in 1300-block Avenue Q, turned north again and outdistanced the physician to Thirteenth street.

Boy Is Treated

Witnesses were unable to say whether the offender turned east or west at Thirteenth.

A Rix ambulance was sent to the scene and Dr. Smith returned. The boy was given emergency treatment by Dr. Smith at Gladys Moore's Beauty service, at 1413 Avenue Q.

The offense was reported to police by Miss Retha Honea.

At the Wadsworth residence it was reported Bishop suffered a sprained ankle and body bruises. His bicycle was almost demolished.

M. K. Summers of Silverton reported theft of four tires, but Paul Walker of 2322 Sixth street found a tire and wheel in front of George M. Hunt school.

tack on Britain which will make previous attacks appear negligible. At least three leading ambassadors claim information that, while Britain is now accustomed to raids by several hundred German airplanes, in the spring several thousand will be flung against it simultaneously.

Several embassies forecast that Hitler's spring offensive will introduce gas warfare.

Would Sacrifice Million

Most embassies agree that Hitler would be willing to sacrifice 1,000,000 troops for a successful invasion of Britain. But they continue to doubt that he would make the attempt unless he could first gravely disable the Royal Air Force and British industry and communications.

Diplomats believe that an intensified German submarine and surface campaign against British shipping will accompany the offensive.

They believe that expanding United States aid to Britain will force Hitler to make his great attempt this year.

Foreign embassies reckon strongly on the possibility that Italy may be eliminated this year.

Collapse Is Seen

They admit the distinction between the two main Italian theaters of war. They foresee the complete collapse of Italian rule in Libya and Ethiopia before this summer. While weighing the chances of Greece and Britain to expel Italy from Albania they recognize that though German aid to Italy in Africa would be extremely difficult, Germany could aid Italy by an attack on Greece through Bulgaria.

Russia and secondarily Turkey, remain problems. There is no sign of Russian or Turkish assent to a German invasion of Bulgaria and Greece which would bring the Dardanelles within Hitler's grasp.

An Englishman sought as early as 1804 to induce the British navy to build submarines. He wanted to use them against Napoleon.

Texas Tech Offered September Game With Baylor; Officials Welcome Chance

Date Conflicts With Duquesne 'Arrangement'

Texas Tech officials today will get in touch with Duquesne university officials in an effort to cancel a tentatively scheduled game next fall between the Texas Tech Red Raiders and the Pittsburgh school.

The game is slated for next Sept. 27, and last night Baylor university offered to schedule a game with Tech on that date. It is understood that contracts for the Duquesne-Tech game have not yet been signed.

Wolf Makes Offer

Announcement of the offer came last night from W. L. Stangel, chairman of the Tech Athletic council. Stangel phoned from San Antonio, where he has been for the last two days. The Baylor proposition was transmitted to Stangel by Ralph Wolf, director of athletics at Baylor university.

Stangel said that Wolf suggested Sept. 27 as date for the game and that Baylor waited with anxiety the reply of Tech officials.

Decide Site Later

If Tech plays the Bears, place for the game will be decided later.

Commenting on Stangel's announcement late last night, Dr. Clifford B. Jones, president of Texas Tech, said:

"This is a most interesting and gratifying piece of news, and is very, very significant. I deeply appreciate the offer, and am most grateful."

The 1941 Texas Tech schedule, recently announced, with reservations, by P. W. Cawthon, named Duquesne as a September 27 opponent, the game to be played at Pittsburgh. It was believed, however, that the Duquesne proposition might be one of the "reservations," it being indicated at the time that a definite "deal" had not been made, but that in all likelihood Tech would open the season with the Dukes.

In his announcement, Stangel said that Wolf of Baylor had told him "we want to play your team if you are not committed already for the September 27 date."

Played Five Games

Texas Tech and Baylor have enjoyed a pleasant rivalry in earlier years, but the teams have not met since 1934 when they ended an almost unbroken series of five games.

The relations with Baylor started in 1929, Baylor winning, 34 to 0. The teams did not meet in 1930, but picked up in 1931, Baylor winning, 32 to 0. The tide changed in 1932, and Tech won three consecutive games from the Bears, triumphing 14-2 in 1932, winning 13-0 in 1933 and 14-7 in 1934.

Cawthon To Philly

Regarding developments of other "situations" at Texas Tech, there was "nothing to report" yesterday or last night.

Cawthon, who, with Line Coach Dutchy Smith, Freshman Coach Berl Huffman and Graduate Manager of Athletics G. C. "Mule" Dowell, submitted his resignation as head coach to President Jones last Tuesday, planned to leave by plane today for Philadelphia and an interview with Bert Bell, owner-president of the professional Philadelphia Eagles.

Bell had invited Cawthon to visit the Philadelphia office, at the Eagles' expense, to discuss the coaching situation there, and urged Cawthon to come as quickly as possible. In order to leave today, Cawthon had to cancel two speaking engagements, one at Athens scheduled for tonight.

No Applications Announced

It was believed that Cawthon had been made a definite offer of a coaching job by Bell, and Cawthon has indicated he will accept. He has "several other irons in the fire," however, and has received invitations to visit at least four college campuses.

Meanwhile, the successors of Cawthon and Smith remained among the mysteries, nor were the names of any bona fide applicants for the posts made public.

All applications are to be submitted to and studied by the athletic council, and until Stangel returns, which probably will be today, no significant statements or even well-founded "rumors" are available. If any applications have been received, they probably remain unopened on Stangel's desk.

The council is to consider all applications, then make recommendations to President Jones and the board of directors.

The Retrenchment Begins

By Collier Parris

IT'S JUST LIKE we were telling 'em down at the silo, where a bunch of the boys were running in circles: You never know where your next football game is coming from!

We plead and threaten and beg for six years trying to get a game with Baylor—and all of a sudden Baylor just ups and tosses one in our laps. Let the bells ring out! Nice going, Mr. Ralph Wolf; you're a guy after our own hearts—but then you always have been.

Isn't it peculiarly significant that Texas Tech begins its football "retrenchment" program by opening negotiations for games with a Southwest conference school? Let's have some more of the same kind of "de-emphasizing!"

There are two schools of thought regarding the "significance" of Baylor's offer, but you'll pardon us if we don't go to either school just now. Some parties will hold that the recently resigned Texas Tech coach may have antagonized Southwest conference schools, through his many idiosyncrasies and probably unintentional gestures, to such an extent they did not choose to play his teams. On the other hand, it may be figured that Cawthon's teams were held in such high respect because of their ruggedness and winning potentialities that the big conference schools dared not make a practice of laying themselves open to possible humiliation.

Of course there is a shaky bridge or two to cross before the papers are signed for a Tech-Baylor game next September 27. Tech has an "understanding" with Duquesne university for a game on that date, and up to now it's the "biggest" game on the 1941 schedule.

The exact status of that "understanding" hasn't been explained to us yet but we were led to believe it was in the bag. Whether the date with the Dukes can be changed remains to be seen. It is certainly to be hoped that it can be changed, even at the cost of cancelling one of the other games, so that the Baylor offer may be accepted.

Can't think of anything that would help the local sitcheeashun much more than a season opener at Tech Stadium with a Southwest conference school.

THIS DEPARTMENT wishes to extend gobs of gratitude to the boys and girls who have been sympathetic and communicative during recent days. We wish we could publish all the letters we have received, but, blushingly, we ain't got the space. We are grateful for all the phone calls, too, and thank all of you who took the trouble.

Many of the letters were anonymous and couldn't be printed anyway, but nevertheless we thank "Axel," and "A Reader Of Your Sportometer," and "Regular Reader," and others for their letters and opinions. While the opinions do not always, and in every respect, jibe with our's, we sincerely appreciate the patronage.

Coach Cawthon, too, has been getting a lot of mail recently, bags full of it, and he has brought down several of the most interesting ones. Most of them are from his former "boys" here and at Austin college, all of commendatory nature, all hopeful that "Coacher" and Dutchy will find better and more lucrative jobs than they had here. There were a couple of nice letters to Pete from Ed "Big Robby" Robertson, one of the biggest "downtown quarterbacks" Tech ever had, who now resides in Dallas, and from W. T. Hanes, superintendent of Tahoka schools.

IT'S A DIRTY TRICK to pull on a good guy who has been head-over-heels in misery, and in the midst of strife, contention and touchy matters recently, yet who has found time to cooperate in his usual and highly appreciated manner with us and the paper.

But we just can't keep this story

Glovers Urged To Get Ready

Babe Hunt and Hugh Bundock are unhappy, because they don't have much work to do.

Hunt, the Texas heavyweight champion, and Bundock are in charge of the downtown gymnasium, 1016 Broadway, where ambitious young boxers are supposed to work out for the fifth annual Avalanche-Journal District Golden Gloves tournament.

Entries Urged

The gym opened Tuesday night, and so far, the attendance has been very light. Only about 15 boys turned out last night, and Hunt and Bundock are very anxious that many more turn out tonight and every night at 7 o'clock.

After hitting the fastest pace thus far the previous two days, entries dropped back to normal yesterday. Only four boys sent in their names.

Bell, Odam Enter

Harry Bell, formerly of Slaton and now of Shallowater, headed yesterday's group. Bell was bantamweight titlist in 1939, did not enter last season. This year he will fight in the featherweight class.

Others entered yesterday were Dale Odam, late of the Lubbock High football team, welterweight; J. D. Lester, middleweight; and Eugene Corsi, lightweight.

Twenty-Five Teams In Bowling Meet

Play will begin Sunday at 2 o'clock in the Lubbock City bowling tournament, Z. A. Kimbro, city bowling association secretary, said Thursday night.

Twenty-five teams entered before the deadline Thursday. Play will be concluded Sunday, Jan. 19. Champions will be determined in three classes.

Steers And Porkers To Tangle Tonight

AUSTIN, Jan. 10 (AP)—The University of Texas Longhorns, victors over favored Rice in the season's start, meet the giant Razorbacks of Arkansas here tonight in the opener of an important Southwest conference basketball series.

Arkansas, with its tallest team in history, is one of the so-called big three in the conference race—Rice, Texas and Arkansas.

The Razorbacks have six wins in seven starts, their only loss being to the strong Phillips Oilers.

McNEILL, RIGGS ADVANCE

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 10. (AP)—Don McNeill of Oklahoma City, national singles champion, and Bobby Riggs of Chicago, former national champion, headed into the quarter finals of the annual Dixie tennis tournament today and were rated favorites to meet for the title.

Crimsons Play Wildcat Five On Home Court

Seeking their 17th consecutive victory on the Texas Tech floor, the Tech Red Raiders tonight take the court for the opener of a two-game series with Abilene Christian college.

The game will begin at 8:30 o'clock, thirty minutes later than the usual starting time to allow fans who wish to attend the high school game between Lubbock and Amarillo.

In a preliminary game, the Tech Freshmen, who have won 33 straight games this year and last, will play.

Christians Have Lost Two

The current record for the Raiders is eight victories and four losses, for the Wildcats, no triumphs, two defeats.

Coach Bugs Morris' Abilene crew waited until this week to open their season, losing a pair of games to Southwest Texas State Teachers, 35-30 and 35-25.

Coach Berl Huffman will probably start his usual first five—Norman Volz and Bob Andis at the forwards, Jake Geron at center and Capt. J. B. White and Gabe Gilley at guards. Elvis Erwin and Byron Gilbreath will be held ready to go in at any time. In the game with New Mexico Aggies last Saturday, Erwin went in and did the scoring that erased an

Mangrum Leading Tourney; Ed Oliver Called By Draft

Second-Round Play On Today; Wind, Rain Handicaps

(By The United Press)

OAKLAND, Calif., Jan. 10—With only a brief—"I'll see you fellows later, I've got to be going"—to signalize his departure, Ed (Porky) Oliver, Wilmington, Del., golfer, became the first of this country's outstanding professional sports figures to be drafted into the army.

The draft caught Oliver, central figure in last year's stormy finish of the U. S. Open champion, just as he was about to tee off on the second nine of his opening round in the $5,000 Oakland Open golf tournament.

Reports Jan. 15

A messenger boy elbowed his way through the crowd and shoved a telegram into Oliver's hand. It ordered him to report to his draft board on Jan. 15 for military service.

Turning to his partners, Earl Fry and Johnny Revolta, Oliver shook hands with each.

Tech Gridders Are Honored

Marvin McKown, backfield star from Altus, Okla., was honored as the outstanding player on the Texas Tech freshman team at the annual football banquet of the Lubbock Lions club at the Hilton Thursday night.

Billy Hale, center from Amarillo; Maxey McKnight, halfback from Littlefield and Jack Everett, fullback from Texarkana, were honored as runners-up to McKown for the "outstanding" honor.

"Most Dependable"

McKown was presented with a complete outfit of clothing, the others with shirts.

J. W. Jackson, member of the club and golf coach at Tech, presented the awards, terming McKown "probably the most dependable man on the freshman team." Jackson was introduced as the "only coach left at Tech."

Coaches Praise Boys

Toastmaster H. C. Pender, member of the Tech athletic council, introduced Pete Cawthon, recently resigned coach at Tech, who with Russell T. "Dutchy" Smith and Berl Huffman, members of the coaching staff, and about 60 members of the varsity and freshman squads, were honor guests at the banquet.

Referring to his future plans, Cawthon said professional football appealed to him because there would be less interference.

Saying that he had "inferior material, but they were superior teams," Cawthon told of the growth and development he had observed in his "boys." He praised the Lions and other football fans of Lubbock and the area for their loyal support of the Red Raider teams.

Smith, line coach who resigned with Cawthon, said he had enjoyed working with the football players and added they had learned a lot of things outside of college classrooms that would be of use to them throughout life. He told of watching the boys on trains and in hotels, from coast to coast, and said that in no situation would the boys not be "perfectly at ease."

Smith praised the squads as "working boys" who earned their college education, and declared that more time is spent in coaching at Texas Tech than in any other school in Texas. Coaches, he added, helped the boys with their class work, and also in meeting problems of life and business. All of the boys will "go home as men," he said. "I take my hat off to no coaching staff in the United States for the kind of men we have turned out."

Sports "Expert" Thinks Nova Will Stop Comiskey, But The "Money" Rides The Irishman

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—If he is two-thirds the man he was back in the summer of 1939, Lou Nova should haul off and knock out young Pat Comiskey by about halfway of their 10-round brawl in Madison Square Garden tonight.

If Nova has recovered completely from the poison that ravaged his system and sent him to the hospital at the height of a promising heavyweight career, then it shouldn't take him quite that long to dispose of the New Jersey boy.

When he was going hell-bent toward a title match with Joe Louis two summer ago, Nova out-gamed Maxie Bear in an old-fashioned slugging match and cut Maxie up so that the referee stopped it in the 11th round.

Since then Baer walked out and blasted Comiskey into defeat in less than a round, just when Comiskey's New Jersey following thought he was ripe for a go at the championship. So, off those two fights, Nova must be rated an overwhelming choice over the tall, solemn boy he faces tonight.

The drawback lies in the fact that nobody—probably not even Nova, himself—knows whether the Alameda, Calif., fighter has recovered the health and the ruggedness that were his before the combination of Tony Galento's fists and septic poisoning made a physical wreck of him.

Since leaving the hospital Nova has had one so-called tune-up out on the coast, in which he knocked out Johnny Erjavec in five rounds. They say it was pretty terrible, proving only that Lou still could walk and talk after his 13-month lay-off.

In his workouts here Nova has impressed some and depressed others. He says he is in the pink again. The gamblers obviously don't think so, for most of them were making Comiskey a slight favorite at last reports.

First round games in two invitation high school basketball tournaments on the South Plains will be continued tonight.

At Idalou, the Cooper team will meet the host Idalou squad in the featured game of an eight-tilt card. The game will count both as a tournament game and as a Lubbock county league game.

At Meadow, Grassland will play Oklahoma Lane, Sundown will meet Meadow 'B' and Pettit will battle Union in the South Plains girls tournament.

Yesterday's scores: At Idalou—Petersburg boys 20, Roosevelt 19; Petersburg girls 8, Roosevelt 19, New Home girls 17, Southland 13; New Home boys 29, Southland 27.

At Meadow—Ropes 25, Wellman 23; Meadow 30, Loop 12; Whiteface won by forfeit from New Home.

Tilt Starts In Local Gym At 7:15 O'Clock

Opening the Big Five basketball season with a renewal of an ancient athletic rivalry, the Lubbock Westerners and the Amarillo Sandies meet tonight at the high school gymnasium.

The game will start at 7:15 o'clock, and will be over in plenty of time for the fans to get out to the Tech gymnasium to see the Texas Tech-Abilene Christian game. In a preliminary game starting at 6:15 o'clock, the reserves of the two schools will play.

The game is first of the season for the Westerners, who last season tied for the Big Five championship and won the District Three title. It will be the third game for the Sandies, who have won their first two starts without trouble.

Will Alternate Teams

Amarillo beat Canadian, 29-10, and Canyon, 36-13, in other games this season.

Coach Goober Keyes of the Westerners has two complete teams that will probably alternate in the varsity game. On the first, or rather the probable starting, team are Bob McKinnon and Roland Nabors, the only two veterans from the 1940 team. Nabors plays center, McKinnon teams with Carl Sanders at forward. J. A. Blackwell and Milner Thorne, a couple of football ends, play the guards.

The second team consists of J. D. Milner at center; Max Walthall and Hubert Bechtol at forwards and Francis Bearden and Lyonel Lindsey at guards. DeWitt Moore also plays with this group.

The two teams may not properly be called the "first" and "second" teams, because not even Coach Keyes has any idea which of his boys is best. Keyes plans to use the two groups as units for tonight's games, but may shift them around a bit

Free French Forces Claimed Powerful Factor In War's Outcome

North African Army Is Check

BY TAYLOR HENRY
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 — The Free French movement, which daily is looking larger in British calculations of what it will take to beat Germany, has turned out to be one of the Churchill government's biggest headaches.

The cure for the headache may lie in the possibility of reconciliation between General Charles de Gaulle, present leader of the Free French movement, and General Maxime Weygand, French commander in chief of North Africa and de Gaulle's long time superior officer.

Commands Large Following

The British frankly admit they are wooing Weygand.

They want him because they want support of the North African colonies and the troops there which Weygand controls. They want him because next to the aged Marshal Petain, Weygand probably is the most respected French leader today and would command a large following in German-occupied and unoccupied France as well as the colonies.

But the British have built up de Gaulle as the recognized leader of the free French movement. Weygand, as the commander-in-chief who advised the French government to ask Germany for an armistice, has been criticized both by supporters of de Gaulle and by British officials.

Negotiations Under Way

For some weeks, delicate negotiations have been underway behind the scenes in London seeking a formula that will save face for both leaders and permit them to work in harmony.

The British apparently feel that once such a formula has been found, the task of converting Weygand to the free French cause will be half done.

De Gaulle is naturally reluctant to turn over the movement which he founded to a man he has never liked and whose orders he defied when he refused to accept France's surrender.

All Frenchmen Welcome

This feeling, neutral diplomatic circles in London believe, was behind de Gaulle's Dec. 3 statement when in an interview at which Weygand's North African position was discussed, the Free French leader said his movement would welcome "any French general."

"All Frenchmen whoever they are," de Gaulle added, "who can contribute anything, will be welcome. There is no exclusion, no exception."

The possibility, however, that de Gaulle's feelings might be changing was seen in a broadcast he made to North Africa Dec. 28.

In the radio speech, believed to have been directed at Weygand, de Gaulle said:

No. 1 Mystery Man

"All French leaders, whatever may have been their mistakes, who will draw the sword which they have sheathed, shall find us by their side without excluding anyone and without any thought of ambition."

Weygand still is the war's No. 1 mystery man but the British believe two factors are pushing him toward the Free French movement:

1. The British success in Italy's colony of Libya which borders the French North African possessions controlled by Weygand.
2. Increasing German pressure on the Vichy government.

Still Effective Force

Neutral observers consider it likely any decision Weygand may make will be influenced greatly by the success of the British armies driving through Libya towards the generalissimo's Tunisian border.

In North Africa Weygand has a well trained native army. Although lacking in white troops, some equipment and food reserves necessary for a long campaign, it is still considered by the British as an effective fighting force.

British sources point out this army could be supplied from the sea, using convoys protected by the British fleet, even more easily than Britain has been able to supply her own forces in Egypt.

Might Gain U. S. Help

These soufrces also hint that should Weygand join up, the United States might consider the majority of the French forces were on Britain's side and release a part of Prence's frozen gold reserves in the United States to his armies for buying supplies.

There is little question of Weygand's personal loyalty to the aged Marshal Phillipe Petain.

Many observers are convinced that Petain sent Weygand to North Africa and is keeping him there as commander of an independent army to offset German pressure for greater concessions from the Vichy government in the war against France's former ally, England.

Want Status Quo

Should the pressure become overpowering, as the British hope it will, Weygand then would have an excuse to repudiate the armistice settlement and join the Free French forces.

The British are even reasonably satisfied with the position as it stands today.

They argue that even if Weygand maintains his present bargaining position and does not come out openly as an ally, he is acting as a brake on Germany.

The British want that part of France which is still neutral in name to stay that way in order to prevent the French fleet and French industry from being turned against England.

about Dr. Clifford B. Jones, president of Texas Tech, to ourselves.

The Tech president is one of the most correct, polite, generous, observing and patient men you ever saw. He answers his mail promptly and finds time to deal with even the most obscure and unimportant of matters brought to his attention. He even answers Christmas cards and greetings, and he must get a lot of them.

So it was not at all surprising that he should answer Pinkey Lowrey's Christmas greeting.

Now Pinkey, the business manager of Lubbock High school, submitted a novel greeting card this Christmas. It was in the form, shape and color of a reserved seat ticket for a football game, tickets being on Pinkey's mind a lot of times. He employed the State championship theme, and printed across the front of the ticket was "Sandies vs. Wildcats," in prominent type, with the date and time of the Amarillo-Temple game, and bearing Lowrey's official signature.

President Jones received one of these, a few days before Christmas, and immediately wrote Pinkey a letter. In his most suave manner and language—and it is plenty suave and neat and correct—Dr. Jones thanked Lowrey from the bottom of his heart for the ticket to the state championship game, and lamented, in his best and most serious lament, that previous engagements and matters of important business would prevent him from using the ticket. He could not find it feasible nor even possible to attend the game.

Evidently the good president failed to read all of the "ticket," which also indicated "Fireside seat, 50-yard line, Your home, Station KFYO," in referring to section, row and seat numbers.

Dutchy Smith came close to pulling the same boner. He glanced at his "ticket" from Pinkey, got excited and announced that "by gosh, I'm gonna see that game. I've been wanting a ticket." And was the top of his head red when the boys in the office advised him to "read the rest of it."

Cowboys Lose First Contest, 30 To 10

The Lubbock Junior High Cowboys, up against a taller, more experienced team, lost their season's opener yesterday, to Levelland, 30-10.

Taylor, center for the invaders, hit 16 points for scoring honors. Hollis Walker, Lubbock guard, was the only Cowboy able to hit against the visitors, scoring six points. Malcolm Garrett and Billy Cope each scored two.

The Cowboys will play Frenship here next Thursday.

that," he said of his draft number. "I'll see you fellows later, I've got to be going."

Was Disqualified

And before the gallery was aware of his dramatic exit, he had changed his clothing, tossed his bags in his automobile and headed east without bothering to turn in his card, which incidentally, included a birdie 3 on the ninth.

Oliver, who is 24 and weighs 222 pounds, had tied for the Open championship in 1940 with Lawson Little and Gene Sarasen at 287 but all he got was the title of "golf's No. 1 hard luck man." He was disqualified, along with his partners, Dutch Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., and Johnny Bulla of Chicago, for teeing off 15 minutes before their time.

McSpaden, Harrison Next

He won the St. Paul, the Bing Crosby and Phoenix Open tournaments during the winter.

Lloyd Mangrum led the way for the remaining golfers into the second round with a three-under-par 67 for the first 18 holes of the 6,000 yard course. He scored a 33 on the outgoing nine and 34 coming home, including birdies on the fifth, ninth and 14 holes.

Harold McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., and Harrison had 68's. Mike Demassey of San Luis Obispo, Cal.; Jimmy Demaret of Houston, defending titleholder and Jimmy Thomson of Chicopee, Mass., were bracketed at 69.

Bulla, winner of the Los Angeles $10,000 Open, was down among the 76's but safely made the second round. Other favorites to slip were Sam Byrd of Philadelphia, Byron Nelson of Ridgewood, N. J.; Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill.; Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill.; and Ben Hogan, White Plains, N. Y., all of whom scored 74's.

Reports that the Italians at Bardia had 100 tanks may explain their surrender to the British.

It must be extremely difficult for an army—even an Italian army—to make its get-away hampered by 100 tanks!

YOU know, there's a lot of talk going around—and some of it pretty loose talk, too—about this matter of all out, free-for-nothing aid to Great Britain.

Some of our very best citizens, perhaps without realizing it, look with suspicion on—and question the patriotism of—old friends who for one reason or another refuse to join in the loud, if not general, cry that we should forget everything else and, without looking to right or left, go overboard for the empire headquartered across the North Atlantic.

It is a good time, The Plainsman thinks, to take—as Al Smith would say—"a look at the record." It's a good time to sit down together as neighbors and, dispassionately and without the fanfare of propaganda, talk the thing over.

The fact is, many Americans, even if they don't say so in public for fear of being howled down as a "Hitler lover," aren't in favor of giving the British everything they ask for.

Many of us in private life, as well as numerous members of the so-called "Isolationist bloc" in Congress, would join in the call for absolutely free aid to Great Britain if it were actually known and proven that John Bull has exhausted all of his own resources and really has to have our all out help to keep from perishing.

But many are not convinced that Cousin John is as badly off as his emissaries to our shores would have us believe he is. And if he really is nearing the end of his rope, they want to know "how come?"

In spite of the finest propaganda barrage the world has ever seen; despite the fact that many of the most popular—and most powerful—men in our country are calling for more and more gift aid to Britain, a great many of our people persist in thinking for themselves and through that thinkin' stubbornly refuse to be stampeded.

The people who persist in thinking for themselves take stock of Germany, take an inventory of the British Empire—and then wonder why Britain can't afford to pay for its own war and Germany can.

The British Empire, they remember, is a quite far-flung affair. They remember that the British have always boasted, proudly, "the sun never sets on the Union Jack"—which means that the sun never sets on rubber, on tin, on lumber, on coal, on diamonds, on gold, on oil, on shipping, on factories—in fact on everything valuable under the canopy of heaven, owned by the British Empire.

England, they remember, is rich—has been rich ever since the advent of what we know as the "modern age." The United States is rich, too, but it is not as rich as England. In fact, England could "buy and sell us," as the saying goes, many times over.

ON the other hand, our thinking people remember Germany prior to the present conflict—stripped of her colonies; until a few years ago stripped of her coal and her own "Pittsburgh area" for manufacturing; stripped of practically everything except what was contained within her European borders.

And these thinking people wonder why Germany can pay for the prosecution of her part of the war while England cannot—or, at least, says she cannot.

It doesn't make sense to these people who are thinking.

The fact that the totalitarian form of government is super-efficient, while the British form of government, like our own, is too often terribly inefficient, does not answer the whole question.

It does, to be sure, answer the question of why Germany was so much better prepared for war at the opening of hostilities.

It explains why Germany's war efforts in behind-the-lines manufacture of planes and tanks and ships and munitions and all the materiel of war continue to outstrip the behind-the-lines efforts of the British.

But it does not explain what has happened to the fabulous wealth and to all the varied resources of the British Empire which, we are supposed to believe, have vanished, overnight.

FOR instance: the people of the United States of America—whom Britain is this very day asking to pay, or help pay, for her war—use more rubber than the people of any other country in the world. In fact, we probably use more rubber than all the rest of the world combined.

Within the confines of the British Empire—in that part of it on which the sun is shining when it's dark in London—is most of the rubber of the world; and for years the British have "pegged" the price of rubber to suit themselves.

If Britain needs guns and tanks and planes and ships and bullets today, why can't Britain, in return, give us rubber in return? If we can't go get it now; and if England can't give it to us now, we can take an IOU. But those who want us to advance those guns and tanks and planes and ships and bullets don't say anything about an IOU. All they do is say that "after the war is over, we'll get paid back!"

That's what we were told during the last war.

* * *

Rubber is not the only great resource of Britain's which we cannot match within our own borders or possessions.

We can take IOU's on some of them, too, if we can't go get them and England can't bring them to us.

England has some more islands near our shores or possessions that we perhaps could use for air and naval bases. How about a deed to a little of Britain's surplus real estate that would be worth something to us? Not the kind we got in exchange for the 50 destroyers, for which we now have to pay British landowners millions of dollars in damages, but some good, debt free real estate.

In short, how about Britain continuing to pay us something for our materials, raw and refined, until the time when we know she's down to rock bottom after which we'll then carry the whole load?

THAT'S The Plainsman's ticket the way things stack up now.

No man would consider it necessary to pay the doctor and hospital bills of a sick friend if the friend had more money than he did.

Uncle Sam is England's friend and England is sick. But England still has more of the world's goods than Uncle Sam.

Until England can't pay her bills, let's conserve our money and materials so if the day ever comes when England can't pay, we'll be in shape to carry our own load—and hers to, if that is necessary to our national safety or wellbeing.

Can anybody question the sanity—or the fairness—of this idea?

Magic Spring

BY ALLEN EPPES

(Copyright, 1941, For The Journal.)

Chapter One
The Legacy

For several days David had been far too busy to realize that spring had come dancing over the hills. What with seeing that Aunt Julia was laid to rest in the old Wiley burial plot, discussing her somewhat mixed-up affairs with the family lawyer, and digging into his new job with The Powers Lumber Company, he just hadn't taken time to notice how the whole wide world had suddenly come to life.

But now, all at once, he was conscious of what was taking place. He had glanced out of the window while listening to the lawyer read Aunt Julia's funny little will, and there it was! Spring! Just outside Mr. Seawell's office. Spring, in all her loveliness, wearing a gown of pastel shades, trimmed with silver. Springtime, and love, and a certain young man forgetting legal matters to think of a girl named Polly Jenkins.

Polly—and spring—and—

"Well, Davey," the lawyer said, "you don't seem very excited."

"No sir," said David, startled out of his reverie. "I dont reckon I do."

"But you understand, don't you, that your aunt has left you the old Inn and all the land around it?"

"Yes, sir, I understand," David said somewhat dully. "I was afraid she'd do that."

"Afraid?"

"Yes, sir." David leaned forward, his young face now troubled. "The Inn's been a burden on Aunt Julia's hands for years, and now it looks like I'm going to have it a burden on mine. Gosh, Mr. Seawell, you know as well as I do that nobody's ever been able to do anything with 'Freddy's Folly'—that wild dream of Uncle Fred's."

"'Freddys Folly,'" said the lawyer, chuckling. "Just the name for it." Then, relaxing, he grew reminiscent, just as David had been sure he would do, just as Aunt Julia had been in the habit of doing. "I collect Freds crazy enthusiasm, how he went around trying to get folks to buy stock in his hare-brained scheme to make Ardendale another Saratoga or Carlsbad, how he pretty near hounded the life out of me until I shook him good one day, and told him to stop having pipe-dreams, and do something practical."

"But he didn't," said David, "I know. I was pretty much of a kid, but I remember. Then Aunt Julia told me a lot about it. She even sold her jewelry and most of the family silver in order to help Uncle Fred carry out his plans, since nobody else had any faith in him."

"Yes, that's right," Mr. Seawell said. He removed his steel-rimmed glasses and began polishing them. "Fred sat right there where you are sitting now, and told me that he was sure the spring out where he later built the Inn had medical properties. He even said he couldn't for the life of him see why Ardendale oughtn't to woo a lot of folks away from other health resorts—folks who were forever traipsing off to Europe to drink mineral water or bathe in it."

The glasses went back on the lawyer's nose. He sighed. "Oh, well, Davey, I reckon everybody can't be steady, in-the-rut folks, like you and me."

"No sir," said David. "I reckon they really can't."

He got up suddenly and walked over to where he could look down into Main Street. And as he stood there, gazing down upon the street which Frederick James Wiley had once pictured a thoroughfare of wealth and color and gaiety, he remembered something his Aunt Julia had said to him just before she died.

The Promise

She had looked up at him from the old walnut bedstead with its ornately carved acorns and leaves, and motioned for him to come a little closer.

"Davey, honey," she had said very softly "I want you to promise me something."

"Yes, Aunt Julia," he had replied, taking one of her thin hands between both of his. "What is it?"

"I want you to promise me you'll marry Polly Jenkins just as soon as I'm gone. It's not fair to yourself nor to Polly for you to keep putting off marrying."

"But, Aunt Julia, I—I—"

"No let me finish," Aunt Julia said. "So far's I know, I'm the last of your dependent relatives, but I'm not too sure. You go straight to Polly and tell her there aren't going to be any more delays—Promise me, Davey?"

"All right, Aunt Julia," he had said. "I promise."

"That's a good boy, Davey. You've been mighty sweet to me, an old relative-in-law, and—"

"There, there, honey," he soothed. "Now you must try to get some sleep."

How clearly it all came back to him: that scene in his aunt's bedroom; that promise he had made her. Good old Aunt Julia! She had understood how things were with him and Polly; how if he didn't have a responsibility in the form of a dependent relative, Polly had one.

Matters had been like that ever since he had been forced to leave college, ever since Polly had given up her plans to be designer and had taken a job as cashier in Ye Olde Southern Tea Room. On and on. Week after week. Month after month. Year after year.

But now, with Polly making a small salary, and him all set to go places with the lumber people, things were beginning to look a little brighter. Maybe Aunt Julia had the right idea. Maybe he oughtn't to put off marrying any longer. Maybe he and Polly were going to get a break after all. Maybe they were just about to turn that much-talked-of corner, around which Prosperity was supposed to be waiting.

Again the lawyer broke in upon his reverie.

"You mustn't let the old Inn get you down," Mr. Seawell was now saying. "I'll admit it sure does look like you've had a white elephant of a house dumped down on you instead of a relative, but—"

"I'm not down," said David. He faced the lawyer, a new light in his eyes. "I'll manage somehow, Polly and I."

"That's the spirit, my boy!" said Mr. Seawell. "Do you mind if I make a suggestion?"

"No sir. Of course not."

"Then if I were you," the lawyer said, "I'd go straight to Polly Jenkins this very minute, and tell her that—"

"That's just what I'm going to do!" David laughed.

He hurried out.

Into Spring

He ran down the flight of worn stairs that led from the second floor of the dilapidated office building, and out into the street. There he came to a sudden stop, and caught his breath. It was almost as though spring had miraculously assumed the form of a beautiful young woman, and was smiling at him.

THE STATE REORGANIZATION BILL

No matter how much merit it might possess—and it seems to possess considerable—one must be an optimist indeed to be hopeful of passage in the approaching legislative session of the state government reorganization measure sponsored by the West Texas, East Texas and South Texas Chambers of Commerce.

The fact that our system of state government is outrageously inefficient, extravagant and wasteful is something that cannot be reasonably disputed. Any private business on earth would be bankrupt before it started if it were forced to follow the same plan of operation. Therefore, the chief fault of expense in government may not be so much the people who operate it as it is the system that must be used. It is a system of such enormous size and of such intricacy of operation that the legislature is likely to study a long time before it decides to throw it—inefficient though it may be—out of the window and substitute for it a completely new and radically different plan.

However, the chief obstacle to passage of the proposed measure is the violent opposition it is certain to encounter. Those who have jobs—and many of them have jobs because of the influence they wield—in the more than 100 government divisions which would be eliminated or consolidated under the measure aren't going to surrender them without a fight which they can maneuver to prolong over a long period of time even if they finally lose.

Still, though the measure may not be passed in this legislative session, it may start the ball rolling toward reforms which will make for greater economy and increase efficiency in government.

Today's Thought

The placing of a ring on the third finger of the bride's left hand (during the wedding ceremony) originated with the Romans. They believed that there was a small artery from that finger to the heart. (Thus, the wedding ring was the emblem of hearts united. Oh, dear!) . . . A colorful marriage was this one in April, 1884 . . . Rev. White married Henry Black, Esq., of Orange county to the widow Elizabeth Grey of Green county, daughter of H. Brown of Bluehill, Maine. (If you wanna argue about its authenticity see D. Amsworth's "Curiosities of Matrimony.")

When a rooster crows it's in three-quarter time . . . P. S. Lambros, editor of The Greek Star, sent a letter to a Chicago editor last month in which he said the Greeks had a word for Blitzkrieg. It means, he said, Blitz-Greek. (Thanks for the ad.) . . . On New Year's Eve, readers witnessed this silent Romeo and Juliet scene. A man waving an unobtrusive handkerchief (in front of the Women's Detention pen on Greenwich St.) and the return answer from an upper tier.

EDWARD JOHNSON, of the Met Opera House, has just engaged Josephine Tumminia for that august institution. Josie is remembered by some of us as a honey of a swing-singer. If you doubt it, buy Decca Recording 29000, in which she toys with Blue Danube and The Wren—Jimmy Dorsey's crew accompanying. This platter was made 4 years ago. (Shades of Jenny Lind, Melba, et al!)

Reds, Nazis, Crooked Politics Will Go Under U. S. Microscope

Investigations Expected To Feature Congress

By BRUCE CATTON
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—An important part of Congress's job has always been its power to investigate. That power is due to be exercised in several important fields by the new Congress.

Catton

Most famous of all recent congressional inquiries, of course, has been the Dies committee's investigation of un-American activities.

Congressman Martin Dies, chairman of this committee, insists that its study of fifth column activities is now more than ever vital to the nation's safety. He is asking for $1,000,000 to enable the committee to continue its work on a large scale.

Whether Congress will give him that much is an open question; but that it will vote to continue the committee's existence, and will give it a considerable sum of money to work with, seems highly probable. By centering more attention on Nazi and Fascist activities Dies has calmed many of the fears which congressional liberals used to have of him, and his long fight with the administration has—for the moment at least—been harmonized.

Tie-Ups To Be Scanned

Even more important than this investigation may be the one which Senator Wheeler and a Senate subcommittee are about to launch into trade and patent agreements between United States and German industrialists.

The anti-trust division of the Department of Justice uncovered some sensational material in this field last winter. Nearly a year ago Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold warned defense chiefs that some of the agreements his men were uncovering pointed to the the existence of price-fixing controls and limitations on production which might seriously impair the nation's effort to re-arm. Wheeler got interested in the matter, got the Senate to approve an inquiry, and is preparing to dig deeply into the things Arnold was talking about. Insiders predict some startling finds may be made.

During the fall a good deal of sentiment developed in Congress for an investigation of the Civil Aeronautics board. The old Civil Aeronautics authority was thoroughly shaken up by a presidential reorganization order last summer, the Air Safety board was abolished, and the surviving bureau was put back into the Department of Commerce. Bitter opposition was expressed in Congress at the time; the fact that three major airline disasters occurred during the fall drew charges that the reorganization had been detrimental to the government's air safety program. Senator McCarran of Nevada may demand an inquiry. The administration would oppose such a move, and might succeed in blocking it.

A Look At Elections

Another investigation that may develop would center around the 1940 election campaign.

The Senate campaign fund committee headed by Senator Gillette of Iowa will shortly report on the inquiries it made during and after the campaign. It has not yet drawn up its report, but it is highly possible that it will recommend a further Senate investigation—with the idea of formulating new legislation to strengthen the Hatch act and the corrupt practices act.

Possible also is a Senate investigation of the financial resources now available to Great Britain in the new world.

BIG EDITION STUMPS DOG

GRIDLEY, Calif. (U.P.)—W. H. Bettz, East Biggs, Calif., trained his dog to bring in the evening paper. So proficient was the dog that Bettz was concerned when his pet failed to return one evening. When he went to investigate he discovered that a 75-page special anniversary edition was to blame. The dog couldn't get it through the gate.

MOVE ONTO FARM

LITTLEFIELD—H. A. Matthews, formerly of Pampa, a oil well driller for 17 years, has moved to a farm 12 miles west of here, which he purchased. They have added a room and a sleeping porch to the house, and plan other improvements.

This Student Thinks Blitz Is Dachshund

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10 (U.P.)—Germantown Friends school conducts an information test every day to determine students' knowledge of the outside world. This year's examination revealed some interesting definitions. They were:

Blitzkrieg—a dachshund.

Ivory Tower—when a person is in love; also, a woman's neck.

Ideology—the study of idiots and the worship of idols to another.

Ferdinand the Bull—Don Quixote.

Skoda—Japanese building.

Author of Kitty Foyle—Darwin.

Ann Sheridan received two votes and Hedy Lamarr one as America's most prominent woman.

Only the female firefly carries a "lantern."

Dude College

took complete possession of him, and he had the wild urge to burst into singing. But he began whistling instead, although somewhat off key. He was still whistling—and still off key—when he jumped into his ancient little car and went rattling off toward the tearoom where Polly worked.

It was Saturday afternoon, and the lumber plant always closed down on Saturday afternoons. This meant that he had a few hours before him which he could use as he chose. And he chose to get Polly and take her for a ride.

She was probably just finishing up at the tearoom, and would soon be free herself. He had a lot to talk over with her, but the most important thing was his decision to lose no more time in carrying out his promise to Aunt Julia.

As he rode along he thought over different ways of telling her what was on his mind. "Honey, put on your old gray bonnet with the blue ribbon on it, and let's go get hitched." No, he grinned, that wouldn't do. It was too flippant. And Polly didn't like for people to be flippant about serious things. "Polly, dearest, you know that my heart is yours—and I want you to marry me right now!" That was a little better, but still not very thrilling; especially when a girl was like Polly, and thought romance and sentiment tremendously important.

Perhaps the best thing to do was to be just plain practical; that is, state facts straight from the shoulder, and leave romance and sentiment for a bit later, when there was a moon, and the air was filled with the fragrance of honey-suckle and rambler roses. "Look here, Polly, we've delayed long enough—so suppose you pack your duds, and come on—"

He got no further. His thoughts were shattered into a million fragments as a bright yellow roadster shot out of a side street, and he made a wild grab for the emergency brake.

"Well, what the!" he gasped.

The roadster also came to a sudden and grinding stop. The girl who had been driving it leaped out, and came charging at him.

David did not move. He just sat there staring at her.

She looked, he thought, rather like a magazine cover. Redheaded, slim, not too tall, not too short. And dressed like nobody's business; all in sport things, colorful and cool and lovely.

"Of all the crazy stunts I ever saw!" the girl began. "You nearly made me smash my car against that light post!"

"Listen," said David, forgetting what the girl looked like, "don't you start bawling me out! I was driving along, minding my own business, and you come tearing out of that side street like a—a—house afire!"

"Why——why—!" the girl began, and then stopped short. "Well, for Pete's sake, it's you!"

"Sure, its me," said David. "What did you expect?"

The girl began to laugh.

"David Wiley!" she said. "And what a handsome devil you've grown up to be." She came closer, held out her hand. "Dont you remember me? I'm Margo Powers."

"Gosh!" said David. He got out of his rickety little car and took the girls hand. "Gosh! When did you get home?"

"Last night," said Margo. "I've come home for the summer."

Loss Of Braids Is Feared By Draftees

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Jan. 10 (AP)—Mayor George Welsh has been asked to intercede for a tribe of Indians at Taos, N. M., so that when its members are conscripted they won't lose their long braids and their chance to go to the Happy Hunting Ground.

Welsh, who on visits to New Mexico became friendly with the Indians and invited them to visit here, received a letter from a rancher representing the tribe.

The letter sets forth that long hair is an essential part of the religion of the Taos tribe. Tribesmen are ready to serve their country, the letter said, but hope for special dispensation regarding army regulations which make the "bean shave" a part of the military scheme.

Hot Tip Proved To Be The Real Thing

CHICAGO, Jan. 10. (AP)—Detectives Thomas Edwards and Stanley Paukowski, grabbing a snack in a restaurant, perked up when they overheard a patron, using a coffee cup as though it were a microphone, drone these words:

"Call 178—calling car 178—go to fire at 10401 Avenue L. . . ."

They seized the "announcer," marched him to the address mentioned and—found a fire.

They said the man admitted starting not only that blaze but nine others in the past two years. Explained he: "I don't like dogs so I started the fires to smoke them out."

IN A BROWN STUDY—When old King Canute, he of the ancient tale, issued his famous cease-and-desist order to the waves, he didn't get to first base. Perhaps this sun-tanned lad has Canutish ideas, or maybe the ceaseless surf just fascinates him. He's two-and-a-half-year-old Billy Phillips, son of Mrs. Madeline Phillips of New York, and is pictured at Miami Beach, Fla.

Man Leaves Officer Holding Three Bags

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 10. (AP)—Special Officer H. S. Brown exchanged pistol shots with a fleeing man on Ohio State university campus today and the patrolman was left literally holding the bag—three of them, in fact, plus an overcoat. The bags contained cigars, tobacco, cigarets and five loaves of bread stolen from a grocery.

Italy Strikes Hard At Sea

(By The Associated Press)

ROME, Jan. 10 — Italian planes and naval units, striking hard in the war at sea, hit a British battleship with air bombs, sank two submarines and two freighters and torpedoed two other merchantment, the high command said today.

In addition the high command reported, Fascist warships "effectively bombed enemy coastal positions" in the Greek campaign.

The British battleship was not identified but the daily war bulletin said it was hit despite "violent anti-aircraft reaction" during an attack on a large naval formation in the eastern Mediterranean.

One of the two submarines sunk by torpedo boats was the 1,400-ton French Narval, the communique said, identifying her as a vessel "incorporated in forces serving England."

Two Are Torpedoed

Two merchant ships in convoy were reported torpedoed by an Italian submarine in the Mediterranean, while other submarines were said to have sunk the 2,883-ton Greek steamer Anastassia and the armed British steamer Shakespeare in the Atlantic.

Two Italian planes "failed to return" from the attack in which the British battleship was hit, the high command said, and one British plane was shot down.

HOLSTEINS SET HIGH AVERAGE

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — Fifteen registered Massachusetts State College Holstein cows produced enough milk during the past test-year to provide 65 families of four with four quarts of milk daily for the year. The average per cow was 13,690 pounds of milk.

Rabbits and rats are estimated to do an annual damage of $500,000,000 in England.

Soil Erosion Cost In Four States Noted

Flood Control Program Urged

(By The Associated Press)

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Jan. 10 — Soil erosion has already ruined for "further profitable crop production" in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas an area equivalent to 150,000 average-sized farms, Louis P. Merrill, Fort Worth, said in a speech prepared for delivery here today.

Merrill, regional conservator of the soil conservation service, said the area damaged in these four states — nearly 27,000,000 acres — was once capable of supporting 750,000 persons. He came here to address a four-state meeting called by the Arkansas State Flood Control commission.

Efforts Widespread

When the government passed the omnibus flood control act of 1936 "it marked a new era in the relation of the American people to their land and water resources," Merrill said.

The war department, he added, is constantly engaged in "downstream" flood control, while more and more farmers are organizing to stop erosion and runoff water "upstream."

In Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana farmers have formed 144 soil conservation districts providing for soil control treatments on 104,438,000 acres, Merrill said.

Lake Losses Noted

Illustrating the need for soil control to stop sedimentation of water reservoirs, Merrill said that Lake Waco on the Bosque river, built to supply Waco, Texas, with water, lost nearly 20 per cent of its storage capacity in the first six years after it was built, due to "silting."

In eleven months — from March 1935, to February, 1936, this lake lost 694,000,000 gallons of storage space, he added.

Likewise, Boomer lake at Stillwater, Oklahoma, lost 6 per cent of its storage capacity in ten years, Merrill declared.

Other Examples Given

The regional conservator also pointed to Lake Taneycomo at Branson, Missouri, and to Lake Booneville at Booneville, Arkansas, as examples of the rapid sedimentation of lakes built in unprotected watersheds.

Lake Taneycomo, in a watershed which Merrill said was typical of northwestern Arkansas, lost 46 per cent of its original storage in 22 years after it was constructed as a power development.

"Ten years and three months after Boomer lake was built at Stillwater, more than 6 percent of the storage capacity had been lost," the regional conservator reported. "In less than seven years, Lake Booneville had 2.77 percent of its original storage capacity depleted by sedimentation."

Benefits Are Listed

The benefits which Merrill said could be expected of a watershed flood control program include: (1) Eliminating what would otherwise be recurring minor floods; (2) decreasing the volume and velocity of surface run-off and thus reducing the crests of major floods; (3) reducing the siltation of reservoirs constructed for flood control and for other purposes; (4) minimizing the silting of stream channels; (5) supplementing in other ways the downstream work of the army engineers; (6) saving the soil for productive use — a major objective of conservation, even aside from the flood control aspects; (7) maintaining or even increasing farm income; (8) stopping or even reversing the downward trend in crop yields and capital value of farms, and (9) generally stabilizing agriculture and consequently benefiting industry and commerce in the watershed.

The United States gained 8,634,635 in population from 1930 to 1940.

Halsey's Band Will Play At Inaugural

One of the "official" bands at inauguration festivities for Governor O'Daniel Jan. 20 and 21 will be the Drug Store Cowboys of Hop Halsey, new legislative representative from the 119th district, according to announcement Thursday.

The Drug Store Cowboys will play at a dance at the Driskill hotel on the night of the inauguration. The band, which plays on a daily radio program over KFYO, will leave here Sunday Jan. 19 for Austin, it was said.

FLORIDA FIRST WITH SHRIMP

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (U.P.) — Nearly one-half of the nation's supply of fresh shrimp is produced in Florida waters, where as many as 300 boats operate at the height of the season, statistics reveal. Markets in the state handle more than 12,000,000 pounds annually.

Tenant Program For Area Is Discussed

The tenant purchase program of the Farm Security administration in six South Plains counties was discussed at a conference of supervisors and officials from Amarillo and Washington in Lubbock hotel here Thursday.

Rex Baxter, Amarillo, Texas director of FSA presided. Raymond O'Hara, farm management director and Henry Wilkinson, of the tenant-purchase division, attended and spoke, as did Kenneth Smith, with the Washington office of the tenant purchase division. He is formerly from Bonham.

Earl Wise and Marvin C. Wilson, rural rehabilitation district supervisors attended, as did county supervisors from Lamb, Hale, Floyd, Lynn, Dawson and Lubbock. The meeting lasted until late in the afternoon. Thomas G. Moore, manager of the Ropesville Farms project also attended.

Board Defers Youth Who Served In Navy

DETROIT, Jan. 10. (AP)—Local draft board No. 49 ruled today that men who had served in the navy might be deferred from service in the army under the national draft law.

The question came up with the drafting for army service of Warren Emery Braschwitz, 22, who recently completed a four-year stint in the navy. Braschwitz protested, though expressing willingness to serve in event of "emergency."

John T. Meier, board chairman, and other members said they had decided to grant deferment because of "sentiment in Congress" to change the law. The law makes no exception for men who have served in the navy or marines.
