ARMY CHIEFS PREPARING TO ENTER GERMANY

Allied Commanders Take Necessary Precautions Against Huns' Refusal to Meet Demands.

Spend Week-End in Consultation With Lloyd George and Premier Briand on Reparations.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—On the virtual eve of the allied conference with the Germans on the reparations and disarmament questions the two principal allied military chiefs, Marshal Foch and Field Marshal Sir Henry Hughes Wilson, the British chief of staff, spent the week-end with Mr. Lloyd George and Premier Briand of France, and Lloyd George's country home.

The purpose of the consultation was to reduce to definite form the various proposals for the application of military and economic pressure sufficient to change the mind of Germany, should her government refuse the reparations terms of the allies.

This subject has been meditated upon deeply by both the French and the British general staffs, and especially in Paris, for several months past present by no means of the exchange of views as to what action could be taken and effectively continued for months, or even years, to compel Germany to meet what are considered her obligations.

French Want Quick Action.

While one aspect of the conference is a dramatic warning to Germany that the invasion of some parts of her territory may follow a refusal of compliance on her part, another is that the French government, which would have to supply most of the troops, desires to be in a position to act suddenly should the moment requiring action arrive.

The general plan, of which many collateral features require examination, is understood to provide for a northward movement by the Belgian troops, which would occupy Dortmund, while the French would reoccupy Frankfort, and penetrate the country beyond to a considerable depth, possibly as far as Munich, while a fleet would blockade the port of Hamburg. The declared object of these movements would be to enforce the military clauses of the treaty and secure the disarmament of the Bavarian Einwohnerwehr.

May Wait Till May.

The action taken would thus be based not upon the disputed economic demands, but upon the violated armament sections of the treaty. In these circumstances, the allies, it is pointed out, would not have to wait until after May 1, the date before which the allies must inform Germany how much she must pay in reparations and after which Germany, under the treaty, may argue her case before the reparations commission.

The German government has been notified that the principal points on the program to be discussed at the London conference during the coming week will be disarmament, the punishment of war criminals and reparations. Disarmament may be the first subject to be taken up, and Major General Von Seecht, the German chief of staff, and a number of the official delegation, is coming to London to answer the representations under this head.

Among the forms of economic pressure which might be applied to Germany now under discussion is the setting up of a new customs frontier to separate occupied Germany from the remainder of the empire. One of the perplexities to the conferees brought out by this proposition is the question as to what attitude the American government would take.

Mexico Railroad Strike Proved a Complete Failure

By Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 27.—Government officials declared today that the strike, begun Friday on the National railways, has proved a complete failure, as all trains were being operated on only slightly reduced schedules, and intimations were coming from the strikers that they would like to return to their places. Various official statements, including one from President Obregon, and another from Francisco Perez, national director of railways, asserted that the chief aim of the strikers, the tying up of all the federal operated railroads, had not been achieved. Clashes are reported from San Luis Potosi and Juarez, but these were asserted to have been of an unimportant nature.

Several thousand strikers and sympathizers, from more than a dozen trades unions, paraded this morning as a protest against the government's stand in the strike. One of the participants, said to be a widely known agitator, was loudly cheered when he entered the ranks bearing the red standard of the communist party of Mexico.

"NAW, THAT AINT HIM; I'LL BET HE AINT THE BOY," COST "BLEV" BOLIN, VILLAGE MARSHAL $26.000

By Associated Press.

HEYWORTH, Ill., Feb. 27.—The drooping red mustache of "Blev" Bolin, village marshal of Heyworth, dropped in sad disappointment today as he meditated over the greatest loss of his life—$26,000 in rewards offered for the recovery of $772,000 in liberty bonds and the arrest of William Dalton, 16-year-old Chicago bank robber, who was arrested in the town pool hall yesterday.

The marshall permitted his judgment to rob him of the rich reward, which had attracted the greatest crime experts in the country. He sat and watched Dalton play a game of pool with the village pool shark and refused to disturb him because he was convinced that Dalton was not the missing bank clerk.

"Naw, that ain't him; I'll bet $100 he ain't the boy," Bolin told Paul Draper, son of Jack Draper, the village constable. But that did not satisfy Draper, who sought his father to make the arrest. The $26,000 in rewards was paid over to the constable's son.

Young Draper, an overseas veteran, is an amateur detective and is taking a correspondence course in the art of catching criminals. He plans to spend the bulk of his fortune on his 326-acre homestead near Lewistown, Mont. He intends to give a share to his father, but the amount he intends to give James Dennis, who picked Dalton up on the road, bringing him into Heyworth in his motor car, was a subject that would set tongues to wagging in the village today.

Draper first said that he would present Dennis, a buddie of his in France, with $100, but the villagers declared that Draper "never would hear the last of it" if Dennis' share of the reward was not of more generous proportions.

The report to the navy department did not explain the manner in which the missing men were lost, whether due to the collision and the flooding of their vessel, or whether caried down when she sank.

The Woolsey was commanded by Commander H. C. Gearing Jr. She had a length of 310 feet, a breadth of 31 feet and a normal displacement of 1,154 tons. Her speed was rated at 35 miles and her normal complement was 16 officers and 116 men.

POLITICAL WAR IN SPAIN THREATENED

One Deputy Noted for Syndicalism, Attacked in Madrid; Other Disorders Occur.

Two Groups of Industrial Trades Unions Throw Kingdom Into Reign of Terror.

By Associated Press.

MADRID, Feb. 27.—The Madrid public was startled today by news of a terroist attack here upon Deputy Guerra Del Rio, noted for his pronounced views on syndicalism. His assailants fired upon, but did not injure him.

This attack has brought home to the people of the capital the reality of the struggle which is in progress between the two groups of industrial interests, which previously had been largely confined to Catalonia. The reports from Barcelona of outrages committed daily have been generally received with but distant interest in Madrid.

It is openly charged that the employers in Catalonia have undertaken a series of reprisals against the workers societies as a response to the frequent attacks upon members of the employers union. For this purpose they are alleged to have encouraged the formation of the free syndicate, as opposed to the united syndicate. In this new organization, in addition to workers who refuse to affiliate themselves with the non-political extremist trade union, which believes in directation, a large number of professional criminals are said to be members.

When an outrage is perpetrated against an employer or a free syndicate worker, immediate steps, it is declared, are taken by an inner committee of the syndicate to avenge the outrage. Most of these extreme elements belonging to both syndicates are known to each other through a system of espionage, and whenever the opposites meet, a serious encounter usually occurs.

PORTER, Ind., Feb. 27.—Between 30 and 40 persons were reported killed and an unknown number injured tonight when a westbound New York Central train crashed into a derailed eastbound Michigan Central train here in what railroad officials termtermed as one of the most disastrous wrecks in recent years.

Michigan Central officials placed the number of dead at more than 30, while unofficial reports made the death list as high as 50.

The tower man of the Michigan Central was arrested immediately after the wreck, officials saying they believed he had left a switch closed, causing the derailment of the eastbound train.

The Michigan Central train left Chicago at 5:05 p. m., bound for Toronto. It was cut in two by the eastbound flyer and both engines plunged down an embankment.

VACCINATION ORDINANCE TO BE ADOPTED

An ordinance requiring vaccination of children before they are permitted to continue in school will probably be brought before the council at their Monday night meeting, according to a statement by Mayor Cline Saturday, following the visit of a committee from the Alamo School Mothers Club, complaining about the enforcement of quarantine regulations, asking for the fumigation of public places, and like measures for the protection of public health.

Such an ordinance, it developed at the meeting, although generally supposed to be in existence, has never been adopted in Wichita Falls. Dr. M. M. Walker, city health officer, the mayor stated, had been asking that such an ordinance be passed, but other work by the council, and the uncertainty until recently of the validity of such an ordinance has prevented its passage.

Fumigation of public buildings, the health officer told the committee, had been definitely proved to be without practical value, the principal defense against disease being proper vaccination and inoculations against the various diseases.

Enforcement of quarantine regulations, he further declared, had always been left to the discretion of the physician attending cases which were put under quarantine.

Investigation of complaints of lack of co-operation from the city health officer from the Y. W. C. A., with reference to the travelers aid secretaries at the Union station, and from the city health officer to the effect that he was frequently called on trivial matters, will also figure at this meeting, according to a previous statement by the mayor. While the investigation will probably take place during a closed session, the mayor has stated that representatives of the press might be present.

I. C. C. Permit For Extension Is Expected

Action by the interstate commerce commission on the permit for extension of the Wichita Falls & Southern to Graham, South Bend, Eliasville, and Breckenridge is confidently expected here during the coming week, the commissioners having promised to place the matter close to the top of their docket, and dispose of it as quickly as possible.

No doubt of the issuance of the permit has been entertained here since the favorable recommendation of the Texas railroad commission, where the granting of the permit was unsuccessfully fought by four other railroads. Belief that the matter will be reached this week is strengthened, as there was believed to have been some possibility of the matter being reached before the end of last week, which they were apparently unable to do.

Confidence that there would be no delay was expressed by C. C. Huff, attorney for the road, who was in Washington on other business, during part of the past week.

SLIM-LINE FROCK OF CANTON CREPE

It is not surprising that women will cling to the straight line frocks when they are so extremely youthful looking. This smart little frock designed for early spring wear in a charming model of navy blue Canton crepe. The straight, slim-line effect is accentuated by beading which extends from the collar to the hip line.

SOLONS ENTER CLOSING DAYS; CALENDAR FULL

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Feb. 27.—With only two more weeks of the regular session, the Thirty-seventh legislature will have before it this week a number of the most important measures of the session. The house has already adopted a resolution to adjourn sine die on March 12 and it is understood that the senate will concur in the resolution. Also the governor has not made any definite announcement in which to whether he will call a special session immediately on adjournment of the present session. Opinions differ as to this matter. Many legislators believe that he will call it immediately while others are of the opinion that he will allow the legislators to return home and then call the special session. However, he has informed members that he prefers to call it immediately on adjournment of the present session.

The bill by Johnson of Ellis proposing to give the governor power in removing inefficient officers in Texas comes before the house either tomorrow or Tuesday. This bill has been modified by amendments and it is understood that the opposition that was so keen at its introduction has diminished greatly because of these amendments. Nevertheless, house leaders say that it will be opposed strennously. Others say it will be supported just as strenuously. Both sides agree that it will be the cause of much debate.

Also the senate bill by Senator Dudley of El Paso restricting allens from acquiring land in Texas, the bill that is directed at anti-Japanese land ownership, is on the calendar of the house. This bill passed the senate with little opposition and has been reported favorably by the house committee on state affairs. Pope of Nueces and Laird of Angelina have announced that they will offer amendments making the provisions of the bill more stringent.

The repeal of the suspended sentence law as proposed in a bill by Binkley of Young is set for Tuesday afternoon in the house. It came up Saturday afternoon but as a bare quorum was present, consideration was postponed. The repeal of this law has been recommended by the governor.

The senate has Senator McNealus' boxing bill for tomorrow. The author has announced that he will amend the bill so that it will not interfere with the present anti-prize fight law on the statute books. Also the reports of two senate investigating committees are expected this week, that of the senate penitentiary investigating committee and the committee investigating charges of hazing freshmen students at the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas.

All in all, members of both branches have expressed the opinion that the coming week will see a great portion of the mass of pending business taken up and disposed of and clear the way for action on the appropriation bills.

WEDNESDAY WILL BE DAY OF PRAYER IN BAPTIST DRIVE

Promoting the interests of the spring round-up campaign to raise $75,000,000 for educational and missionary work, Wednesday will be observed by all Baptists of the state as "Prayer Wednesday," on which day special prayers for the success of the campaign will be made, according to the Rev. O. L. Powers, pastor of the First Baptist church. A special meeting of the Panhandle section of the campaign will be held Tuesday in the interests of the work the Rev. Mr. Powers said.

The Rev. Mr. Powers announced that he will leave March 7 to conduct a revival meeting at Sherman. An evangelistic service will commence at the First Baptist church of Wichita Falls on the first Sunday in April, according to the announcement of the pastor.

TWO SMALL FIRES CALL FIREMEN OUT

Two small fires called out the fire equipment from station No. 1 Sunday morning and afternoon. The morning fire was at a negro rooming house at 205 Humphries street, owned by Ernest Goodwin. The fire, which is thought to have originated from throwing gasoline by mistake into a stove, did practically no damage.

Small boys playing with matches are said to have set fire to some rubbish near several bales of cotton on Twentieth street, a short distance west of the electric light plant, Sunday afternoon. The fire was put out with slight damage to a couple bales of the cotton.

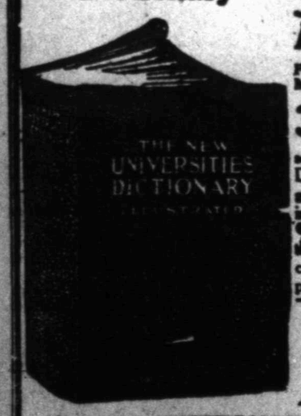

FAMOUS CLOCK "STRIKES"

BRAINTREE, Mass., Feb. 27.—Braintree's famous clock, for which Mrs. Mary F. White donated $3,000 in her will filed in the Dedham court recently, went on strike following the announcement that the money was to be used for the repair of the clock, "that it may keep good time."

The clock reposes in the tower of the First Congregational church in Braintree.

LIBERIA WILL SELL AMERICA BASE FOR NAVY

By Associated Press.

MADRID, Feb. 28.—Reports are in circulation here today that Liberia will concede to the United States a naval base on the western coast of Africa, in return for a loan which C. D. King, president of the little republic, has gone to America to negotiate. In commenting on the subject the Nuevo Mundo speculates on the position of Spanish colonies along the African coast, if such a project should be carried out.

The newspaper argues that an American loan would be the first step towards the establishment of the United States on African soil and suggests that, owing to their perilous position, Spanish Guinea, Rio de Oro and Fernando Po might be sold with advantage to the United States.

As an alternative to such a sale, the newspaper says it might be well to ask where the rumored American-Liberian agreement was leading, because "Spanish possessions there would be indefensible if an American naval base should be established in Liberia, and Spain would maintain her sovereignty only with the permission of Washington."

League to Be Great Blunder Speaker Says

The League of Nations will be the greatest blunder ever committed by the nations of the earth and was forecasted thousands of years ago and can be pointed out to you in the scriptures, declared The Rev. Charles Boyd, speaker for the International Bible Students Association in a lecture, Sunday afternoon at the Wichita theater.

Calling the period between the years 1914 and 1925 the "day of the Lord's wrath," during which time Christ will be in conflict with the Devil and will succeed in conquering him in the year 1925 the speaker declared that the 1,000 year period during which Christ shall rule the earth, as mentioned in the Bible, began in the year 1914. He declared that the Bible forecasted the conflict between the nations to be followed by a period of pestilence and famine, greater than any in the history of the world and that this period is now at hand and we are living in the beginning of the "thousand year reign of Christ on Earth."

The period of trouble, pestilence and famine, will end in the year 1925 when the complete overthrow of the Devil will be completed, and the beginning of the peace and comfort of Christ's kingdom will be noticed, the speaker declared.

He asserted that there will be two classes of salvation at the end of the present world. Of these he said that 144,000 will receive the great salvation and be ascended to a home with the Father in Heaven, while 20,736,000,000 will receive the common salvation and everlasting life on earth, where pain, litigation and sin is unknown.

Since the period of Christ's rule has commenced, said the speaker, those now on earth who do not commit wilful sin will be granted life everlasting and will live to see the resurrection of those already dead, when they are summoned to face the bar of judgement for their sins.

TACTILISM IS MODERN ART DESIGNED MERELY TO TOUCH

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—A sense of touch is a wonderful thing!

Certain artists have made a new discovery about "touch" and as usual in great finds its newness is disputed by authorities.

To participate immediately in the spirit of the newest thing in art, in short, to get in touch with it, stand on your tiptoes before the ancestral portraits in your dining salon, or before the butcher's calendar that hangs in your kitchenette.

Brush your fingertips lightly over the canvass cheek of great-grandpa and see if you get the idea that your ancestor is present in the room.

Not at all. Neither does the idea work with the lady of the calendar smilingly chewing cherries.

Now try the same touch on the chocolate-colored plaster Moor's head that you bought at your back door—if you have one—from a soft-voiced peddler.

What Tactism Is and Does.

Alas, the touch dispels even the ferocious look he always had. It feels, not like a Moor's head, but like a clammy bit of soap.

The reason is that neither the plaster head nor the portrait have "tactile" values.

"Tactilism" is a phase of modern art which has to do with the sense of touch.

When Marinetti, head of the Futurist movement in Paris, remarked recently that he discovered "tactilism" about ten years ago—he and none other—Francois Picabia, literary seditionist, arose to inform the globe that Maginetti was a most mistaken man.

Miss Clifford Williams, an American, according to Picabia, discovered first the quality of the sense of touch as applied to art. Five years ago in New York city she made a statue called "Touch" which was meant to be touched and not looked at.

Miss Williams is not to be found at present nor is her work to be seen or touched. But Marius De Zayas, co-oworker with Picabia, and connoisseur of modern and primitive was prevailed upon to discuss "Tactilism" with the writer.

"Tactilism' in art is the sensorial quality of the thing," he explained. "It is as old as the primitives, who produced their emotions in work that had this tactile value."

Mr. De Zayas showed the a head molded out of brass, the face smooth and simply treated, detail eliminated as much as possible. The area which on a human head is covered with hair was found to have a different texture from the rest of the brass. To the eye this part of the surface was black in contrast to the greenish brass of the face and of rough aspect.

"Tact is an example of tactilism" Mr. De Zayas explained. "All races have made art objects pleasant to the touch. Tactilism is not ten years old or five, but thousands of years of age.

"In Brancusi's 'Head of Child' the touching of the surface reveals a feeling of great tenderness of texture.

In spite of these early examples another artist says the act of the sense of touch is not old, but new—as new as our intensely sophisticated civilization. This is Man Ray, painter, sculptor and a thorough modern.

May Ray Says It Is Modern.

"The primitives were not conscious of the tactile qualities of their work. They couldn't analyze it," declared Man Ray.

"Tactilism distinctly belongs to this age. We must claim it. It is a sophisticated age—well, that is our fate and we must correct it. But we can be simple as well as sophisticated.

"Tactilism is making a thing tangible instead of merely giving the illusion of reality.

A vase has the tactile quality. A picture has not.

"I want to eliminate the material, show the idea. Instead of giving the illusion we can by tactile qualities give the real thing."

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—In the further depression of quoted values last week the securities market conformed to the more pronounced depreciation registered by foodstuffs, cotton and numerous other staples which comprise the bulk of the world's trade. There were occasional indications of greater stability in the money market and in the inquiry for investment issues, but these were overshadowed by the diminished earnings of railroads and industrial companies and fresh signs of labor disturbances.

The policy of retrenchment instituted by the railway companies has reduced the working forces of the country's transportation systems to a level below the average of the year immediately preceding the world war.

Crude and refined oils were in process of further price readjustment and various projects which aimed at an expansion of the oil industry have been abandoned, or at least indefinitely deferred, because of unfavorable financial conditions.

Shares of the many shipping companies having oil connections suffered in the week's reversal.

Forecasts of the country's foreign trade for the month now ended offered little ground for optimism. Extensive shipments of grains and cotton are expected, however ,to effect some improvement over January exports, which disclosed a shrinkage of more than $66,000,000.

The fate of various international underwritings now under consideration were hinged on the resuks arrived at in London.

Steel market conditions are practically unchanged. Scattered orders tended to cause more hopeful feeling occasionally, but, on the whole, the market was dull and weak.

Pig iron reflects conditions in the steel markets, and the tone is weak.

Copper was easier and the demand quiet. January exports were the largest in six months and foreign buying has been one of the most encouraging features.

Lead was easier, reflecting declines.

Tin is shaded another quarter cent by independent dealers, due to weakness in London.

Zinc was dull and easier.

Antimony, quiet and steady.

Isbell Will Appear Before Commissioners

A request for the resignation of J. S. Isbell, county engineer, and a discussion of possible means of disposing of the remainder of the county bonds voted for road improvement will be two of the important matters coming before the county commissioner's court at the regular weekly meeting this morning.

Although not confirmed by members of the commissioner's court, it is known that it also may be called to act again on the resignation of John Davenport, county attorney. It is known that the resignaion of Mr. Davenport was sent to Judge J. P. Jones the first of the week but it is understood that at the request of certain commissioners it has been withdrawal again.

Mr. Davenport presented his resignation several weeks ago but due to the fact that commissioner's who could not agree on his successor it was withdrawn at their request. It is known that members of the court are unanimous in desiring Mr. Davenport to remain in office at this time.

County engineer Isbell will appear before the court this morning to answer questions concerning his connection with the original Potts and Prentice road contract. His resignation was requested at the last meeting of the commissioners by two members on the ground that he was responsible for certain objectionable features to the former contract with the firm of Potts and Prentice.

Mr. Isbell who was out of the city at the last meeting, said on his return that while he had written the former contract he had done so after the commissioner's court had agreed to a tentative contract incorporating all features adopted in the final contract which was also discussed in detail by the commissioners before final ratification.

The members who have expressed themselves as in favor of the resignation of Mr. Isbell were not members of the court at the time the original contract was made.

PEOPLE BUY WHAT THEY WANT.

"Made in Germany." Two years ago those three words were anathema to Americans. A few days ago those who bought or received valentines, and that was pretty much every one, saw them plainly stamped on nearly all of them.

They were of the kind, in production, in which Germany excels. They were of the same excellence as in pre-war days. They had not deteriorated, but rather improved in design and workmanship. They sold at pre-war price.

Valentines are but a straw on the trade waters, but they show which way the currents come and go. These "Made in Germany" show that the Germans have not lost their painstaknig diligence, their pride of workmanship, their art in industry.

They are not the only German specialty which has returned to the American market. Last Christmas many, if not most, of the decorations for Christmas trees and of the toys and dolls which were found in the stores were from that source.

They did not need to be labeled. They were distinctively of German excellence. They showed that those people had turned from war products to the family industrial interitance. They have gone back to production of the things distinctively German, which bear the stamp of the generations of training and into which they put so much of themselves.

This country may impose tariffs, but tariffs alone do not result in imparting beauty, real artistry, care in minute details and all that makes quality. The war imposed an impassable tariff. Yet in six years other workmen did not produce German specialties marked with German excellence.

But beyond this the greater significance lies in the fact that already human nature, rather than forgivenes of sins, has asserted itself in ignoring the "Made in Germany" stamp. It but proves that people buy what they want. They buy for price and quality.

Whether the product comes from one spot in the world or another makes little difference. In buying we all ignore our prejudices, even hatreds. The most difficult of all weapons to use in a sustained offensive is the trade boycott.—Washington Herald. (Ind.)

PHYLLIS AND HER MEERSCHAUM.

Ladies who have been interviewed do not manifest any enthusiasm over the suggestion of Dean Joseph Johnson of New York university, that if the gentler sex must smoke, a pipe is the most sensible thing they could choose. Dean Johnson believes it would not be so repulsive a thing to behold Phyllis coloring a meerschaum or that worthy matron, her mamma, ruminating in nicotine luxury with an amber tipped briar root between her rosy lips, "provided she chooses the time and the place."

The time, the place and the girl are of as much significance in this matter of using tobacco as in other and more sentimental affairs of life. Phyllis laying aside her meerschaum when Harold makes an afternoon call might alarm his fluttering heart. Mamma going forth into the garden to enjoy her early morning pipe might astonish more censorious neighbors than the half awakened birds. Yet there was a time when the ladies of the First Families of Virginia, after they had passed a certain age, found solace in the indigenous corncob filled with native leaf.

Georgraphy today robs the pipe and the cigar of all their incongruity in feminine mouths. If an old Irish peasant woman derives comfort from her "cutty," did not the beautiful Empress Elizabeth of Austria, when she hunted with the Kildare hounds year after year in Ireland, smoke strong cigars after dinner? She made no concealment of her indulgence, and her beauty was not one whit the less ravishing on account of it while she appeared as a divinity in the ballroom or a priestess of Diana in the hunting field.

To the south of the United States, the ladies of Brazil prefer their cigars strong. So does a celebrated American poetess of the present day, who in that respect imitates the famous French novelist, Madame Dudevart, better known as Georges Sand. Still, the precedents for the feminine pipe in polite society are not numerous. The cigarette has taken hold in the boudoirs of Philadelphia and other American cities. Perhaps its use among debutantes and matrons is less widespread than is reputed.

The meerschaum propagandist, Dean Johnson, seems to see the danger from the cigarette in the practice of inhaling nico tine, which is exceptional in smoking a pipe. Hence his recommendation of the latter. But the man who smokes cigarettes regards the girl who does likewise as a rank pretender, the merest amateur and her smoking as amiable bravado. In most cases she has no real liking for tobacco. Her fad is but a passing fancy and does her no harm. But if Phyllis should ever wish to experiment with a pipe she needs to be careful about the time and the place, and she should make sure that she is a good sailor.—Philadelphia Bulletin. (Ind. Rep.)

Editorial Digest

AN S. O. S. FROM ELLIS ISLAND.

When it was discovered that, despite the restrictions of Ellis Island, typhus germs from Europe were slipping past the immigration officials, a new discussion of the immigration problem began in the columns of the country's newspapers. Many voices are now being raised in bitter denunciation of congressional "delay," which is permititng the Old World to pour into our gates unhindered while the legislators discuss future policies. By no means all the writers are in favor of permanent exclusion, and there is little agreement as to what the basis of restriction shall be.

While many newspapers grant that the Johnson bill, a temporary measure, is far from perfect, they regret its rejection at this time, as the Indianapolis News (independent) puts it, "while the senate is pettifogging with percentages" steamships "loaded with immigrants, and also with typhus, smallpox and the bubonic plague," are steaming toward our ports. Ironically it adds, "Perhaps, as has been suggested, the senate may consent to deal with disease, as well as disease victims, on the percentage basis. Certainly it is deeply impressed with, to quote Disraeli, 'the sweet simplicity of 5 per cent.'" Thus preferring to "fiddle and talk" the legislators are rejecting "one of the great lessons of the war," declares the Tacoma News Tribune (independent). As the aliens crowd into our city slums, the paper continues, "Bolshevism, radicalism and unrest" increase "while our vast fields and prairies are calling for workers to till them."

Already the opponents of "restrictive legislation" have been able to accomplish their "immediate purpose" because of this delay, says the Charleston News and Courier (democrat). Public opinion may be sufficiently awakened, it suggests, by the presence of typhus, to demand action, but, unless it is, "we are going to denationalize the country and alter disastrously the character of the American people." Delay, in this case, the Washington Post (independent) points out, "is as effective as open opposition" and "until effective machinery" for keeping out those foreigners "imbued with Bolshevism and anarchy" has been created the situation "presents another good reason for putting up the bars against immigration."

Not permanent exclusion, however, is the present demand, urges the Grand Rapids Herald (republican), but a "permanent policy," selection and sifting. Meanwhile as "parlor theorists" argue percentages "but refuse to stem the submerging tides" of undesirables while they "perfect the arithmetic," aliens flow in "in greater floods than ever before." The Minneapolis Journal (independent republican), largely in agreement with this viewpoint, explains that "a temporary cessation of immigration would not only be of benefit toward framing a permanent policy, but would aid in restoring economic balance" as well.

Discussion of the methods by which the problem can be solved has brought forth a number of diverging views, but the selection at the home ports is urged by many. Says the Wilmington (North Carolina) Star (democrat):

"The whole process would be simplified by the establishment of American immigration bureaus at suitable European points, with provision for the most thorough examination of prospective immigrants, not only as to health, but with respect to whatever qualifications may be set up by the American government."

The importance of selection on the other side is emphasized by the Cleveland Plain Dealer (independent democrat), when it points to the "expense and unhappiness involved in turning back" the undesirable. Foreign governments, it adds, "are now said to be willing to co-operate with the United States in such an undertaking." This arrangement, the Houston Post (democrat) continues, would furthermore disseminate "a wider knowledge of the requirements for admission and all immigration would be along more orderly and systematic lines."

DINNER STORIES

Little Bessie, aged five, after calling her mother several times during the night and receiving no reply, said "Mother, are you really asleep or are you just p'tending you're a telephone girl?"

The precocious infant had just returned from his first day at school, registering intense ennui. The anxious family gathered around.

"Donald," asked his mother, "what did you learn today?"

"Nothing."

"What, nothing at all?"

"Nope; there was a woman there who wanted to know how to spell cat, so I told her. That's all."

Two dentists were talking "shop." One remarked:

"My treatment is so painless that it often happens that my patients fall asleep while I am attending to their teeth."

The other dentist gave a depreciating shrug of his shoulders.

"Pooh, pooh, my dear man! That is nothing!" he cried. "You should see my place with all the latest improvements. Why, my patients nearly always ask me to send a message to fetch a photographer so that they can be photographed with the expression of gladness which my dental treatment alone can give them."

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

A LITTLE SLICE O' LIFE

The other day a Scotchman
Went into the lobby of a
Downtown office building and
Under his arm he had a bundle.
He approached one of the elevator
Operators and said: "If you
Will pass the word along to the
Laddies upstairs that there is
A Scotchman down here who has
Some good Scotch to sell,
I will be much obliged."
Then he stood around for a while
And word of the mysterious
Victor trickled through the Building and soon reached its Most remote corners. News of that Sort seems to spread fast.
In the meantime the Scotchman
Had been escorted to a secluded
Place back of the elevators
Men began to come downstairs
And down the elevators
And they came very hurriedly.
When he had gathered a large
Audience, the Scotchman said:
"Now, lads, I have here some
Verra fine, verra fine Scotch
I have just brought over.
Verra fine Scotch tweeds and
Scotch plaids—verra——"
It is not known what happened to
The Scotchman, but it's believed
The police arrived in time
To save his life.

"Why not another legal holiday?" asks W. R. "Why not celebrate the first of the month and call it Rent Hog Day?" Well, why not.

WE'RE GLAD TO HEAR KISSING IS O. K.

Kissing is a "wonderful delightful osculatory exercise," according to the Rev. Harry L. Bowlby, of blue law fame. He recommended the practice in the course of an address in which he denied the Lord's Day Alliance was opposed to kissing on Sunday.

But it's kinda silly, at that.

The Fords are not responsible for everything. A Long Island man received a broken wrist the other day while cranking an ice cream freezer.

THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPEN.

Lady escaping from hotel fire in a cheap, plain robe de nuit.

Driver admitting he might possibly be to blame for auto accident.

Butcher advising customer to take the "cheaper cuts of beef."

Lawyer telling prospective client that his case will be easy to win.

Society bride being acclaimed as plain and unaccomplished.

Banquet speaker blushing when toastmaster refers to him as a brilliant and an illustrous citizen.

Man worrying about the same thing he was worrying about a year ago.

Man fooling somebody by putting a Rolls-Royce hood on his Ford.

While the courts are trying to find out whether Mary's divorce was legal and whether she and Doug are regularly married, the press stuff isn't costing either one of them a cent.

Now that we are doing everything by legislation, why not pass a law forbidding typhus from breaking out in any section of the country?

Just to prove the irony of fate, February, the shortest month in the year, comes just before the income tax.

The income tax offers us another way to reduce.

IGNORANT ESSAYS

By J. P. McEVOY

ON PROPHESYING FUTURE EVENTS.

A great deal of mystery has been thrown about prophets and seers and soothsayers in the past. They would lead you to believe—these ancient historians—that one who could prophesy future events was not an ordinary person at all; that the gift of prophecy was something almost supernatural. But that is all foolishness. Anybody can prophesy. You can, I can. That makes it unanimous.

For instance, I can tell you without the slightest hesitation that the vernal equinox will occur this year in March; that Easter Sunday will fall on March 27, and Yom-Kippur on October 12; that the baseball teams will go South to train in the spring and will play the world series in the fall; that Independence day will be celebrated on July 4, and that at least 14,000 orators will speak of Bunker Hill and the spirit of '76, and will refer patronizingly to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" as if they invented all three, or at least two of them.

I further prophesy that it will be hot this summer and that some days will be hotter than others, while still others will be cooler; that women will wear summer furs and men will think it looks foolish, but it won't make any difference; there will be at least 1,475 golf balls lost; Chic Evans will win 20 or 30 tournaments; "Babe" Ruth will knock at least 25 homers; pictures of bathing girls will appear on covers of various magazines; Labor day will fall in September, Hallowe'en in October and Thanksgiving in November, while Christmas will occur on the 25th of December. I would like to have you clip this out and check up on me.

If you still doubt that the future is an open book to me, I shall continue: On the 14th day of March you will remember that you haven't filed your income tax return and will make a wild scramble, barely getting under the wire by the 15th. In June you will get a lot of invitations to weddings and you will have to buy numberless presents; on July 21 at least three people will ask you if it is hot enough for you, and on December 6 the same people will ask if it is cold enough.

Applying these principles of prophecy to your own experience, you can see that being a prophet is simplicity itself. Are you going to buy a warship this year? You can look forward into the future and prophesy exactly that you are not and you can even name the day and hour on which you won't. When you send your suit out to be pressed and the fellow tells you he will have it back next Wednesday, you can foresee clearly that he won't. If this is not prophecy, tell me what is.

I can even prophesy that once you start reading this essay you will read it clear down to here. Was I right?

Munger No. 14 Shows for 100 To 150 Barrels

The Kemp-Munger-Allen Oil company's No. 14 Munger, block 30, was drilled into the sand Saturday, and is showing up for a 100 to 150-barrel producer. This well completes the company's drilling program for the present, it is understood.

This well is the last one to be completed on the east side of the north Kemp-Munger-Allen pool, none others being reported drilling here at this time.

LEGION WILL MAKE CAMPAIGN FOR MEMBERS

Deciding upon a campaign to obtain 500 members for Pat Carrigan post, American legion, and make it one of the livest organizations in the city within the next two weeks, two teams under the leadership of Dr. J. T. Strong and D. M. Perkins, consisting of the active membership, were appointed at the meeting held Saturday night at the city council room, to bring every former service man in Wichita county into the post.

Dr. Strong's team was designated No. 1, and Mr. Perkins' No. 2, and, by vote of all present, the team members were instructed to accept no excuses from any ex-service man, and were ordered to bring every man who wore the uniform, with the exception of conscientious objectors and "bob tails," to the next meeting.

Following the report of John Gould that a committee of twelve women, eligible for membership in a woman's auxiliary, had been selected, he was authorized to call a meeting of the committee and proceed with actual organization. Mr. Gould announced that he expects to call the meeting immediately and to have an auxiliary in the process of organization before the next meeting of the post.

To Wear Poppies.

On the motion of J. B. Hatchitt, post commander, May 30 was designated as a day for commemoration of the comrades who lost their lives in the war, and it was voted that each American legion man on that day will wear a red roppy, officially adopted by the national convention at its last session as the memorial flower of the American legion.

At the request of the "poppy lady of France," the P. B. M. store announced that silken poppies will be placed on sale at one of their counters at 10 cents each, the entire proceeds to be given toward the relief of starving children of Europe.

Following the reading of the letter from the Frenchwoman, the legion voted an expression of appreciation and indorsement of the action of the P. B. M. Co. for readily taking hold of the movement, and asked that 500 poppies be ordered for the legion.

Members said that schools, churches and various civic organizations will be asked to co-operate with the move in an effort to pin a red poppy on every person in Wichita Falls on May 30.

After Meeting Plans.

C. A. Winfrey was appointed a committee of one to select and recommend a permanent hall for the local post.

Dr. J. T. Strong announced a meeting of members of his team at his office, 707 City National Bank building from 11 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. today, and D. M. Perkins called for a meeting of his team at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening in the same office.

The rival teams were announced as follows:

Dr. J. T. Strong, captain; J. B. Hatchitt, W. W. Cotnam, John W. Naylor, C. A. Winfrey, D. D. Dennis, Pete Anagos, M. E. Flack, J. W. Maddrey, E. M. Baker, H. McClung, M. S. McAbee, J. W. Sinclair Crude Producers Are In Local Field

With the receipt of letters by producers in this territory asking that in future division orders, formerly made out to the Sinclair Oil & Gas Co., in future be made out of the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company, marked the entery of this organization, recently granted a permit to do business in Texas, into the local field.

Separate offices have been opened for the company on the seventh floor of the Bob Waggoner building, half of which is occupied by the offices of the Sinclair Oil & Gas Co.

Although no statement as to the part played by the new company could be obtained from local officials, it is presumed by the changing of the form of the division orders that the company is one of the Sinclair reorganizations, probably to divorce the purchasing department from the producing department, as in the case with many of the other companies.

Don O. Long, chief of the Sinclair Wichita Falls office, was named as agent in Texas for the new subsidiary in the permit. W. R. Capron, Mr. Long's assistant in the Sinclair offices here, was in charge of the office of the new subsidiary, which is expected to be the principal Texas office.

'RANGER' READY FOR DISTRIBUTION

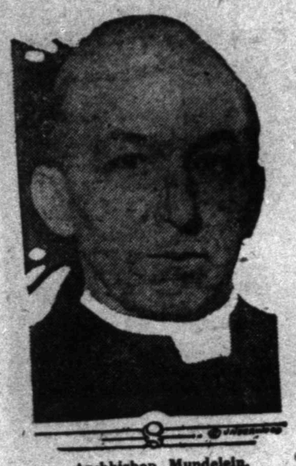

The February number of the Ranger, monthly publication of the local high school, will be ready for distribution Monday afternoon, the editor, Donald Cook, has announced. An unusual amount of effort was put forth by each member of the staff to make this one of the best issues of the year. Loyalty to all institutions of both city and school is the aim of this magazine, according to the editor.

Considerable talent is shown in the development of several of the divisions of the publications. Among these is the literary department and the poets corner. An interesting feature of this month's number is "Who's Who in the Faculty," which presents a short sketch of the school careers of several members of the faculty, and an expression of appreciation by the students for the work which these individual members have done. It is the hope of the staff to make this local publication one of the best in the state.

English girls who have been smoking nonchalantly for some time, have taken to inventing new fads connected with the use of the "weed." The latest novelty is the "tobacco tuba," a long tubular holder so named because of its resemblance to the musical instrument. The girls find they can smoke with a tuba for a holder without staining or burning their tongues. They carry the holder in a large handbag. Wonder where mere man would carry one of the things.

President-elect Harding's selection of Harry M. Daugherty for the office of attorney general in his cabinet is in accordance with political and the conjectures of political prophets. But it was neither of these influences which caused Harding to name him to the post. Daugherty has been a warm personal friend and a political adviser of Harding for twenty-five years. His arrest was not so sensational.

If the camera does not lie, it means that business is pretty brisk in New England, for this is a group of shoppers on Tremont street. It does not look much like "depression," does it? ALL SPUDDERS EXPECTED BY NEXT MONDAY

Only one more week, seven days, and the Spudders will be seen cavorting in Athletite Park. The crack of the bat; the spat on the ball as it drops into some waiting "rookie's" gloved hands, the pitchers and catchers working over in one corner of the field, Walter Salm watching some likely looking youngster and giving bits of advice to others—all this in view in one short week will undoubtedly gladden the fans heart with the knowledge that baseball season is once again almost upon them.

According to orders sent out to the Salm crew, the majority of aspirants for Spudder berths will arrive Saturday and Sunday, ready for practice which is supposed to begin Monday afternoon. The issuing of uniforms and attending details relative to getting the youngsters settled in living quarter will take up most of Monday and it is doubted whether Salm will hold practice until the following day. No doubt there will be big crowds of fans in the grandstand, Tuesday afternoon, to look the youngsters over and to greet the favorites of last season.

Spudders Should Be Good

Getting started on the long grind to Pennantville is perhaps the hardest proposition Salm will have to face this year. With the gang of youngsters he has collected during the off season and the dozen or so regulars, the Skipper will have his hands full in keeping track of all of them. At least 45 players are expected to report March 7 with the possibility of some eight or ten more drifting in during the week. Although it has been claimed at various times during the last two months that Salm would need a first sacker, a third baseman, a pitcher, a catcher and perhaps an outfielder this year, there is little doubt but Walt will be able to place a classy team in the field when the barrier goes down, April 15, for with the large assembly of youngsters and plenty of veterans, Salm should be able to select an excellent and well balanced team.

Polo Players Lacking

Candidates for the Wichita Polo Club were lacking sadly, Sunday afternoon, for although a large crowd appeared to watch the practice game, none of them cared to mount and try a period or two. Several asked for a loan of ponies, but after riding across the fields, returned their mounts. The warm weather perhaps was too much for them, after gazing on the perspiring ponies and players those who thought they would like to try, thought better of it later. The failure of several regular players to appear on the field was somewhat disappointing to the crowd who expected to see a regulation game. However, several periods were played by those who were present, spectators being mollified somewhat by the strenuous play and the good riding evinced by those in uniform. Cecil Wilfong, Dr. Fletcher, Al Nixon, H. D. Hemphill and Mitchell were those on the field.

Tennis Players Out

Tennis enthusiasts were out in force, Sunday afternoon, as many of the private and public courts were populated by the young people of the city, who play the game. Although not stopping to ask scores, etc., some lively battles were noticed while trudging through the city. It is supposed the spring weather caused the revival of interest in the game for if ever there was a good day to play the racket sport, it was Sunday afternoon. Several "pick-up," baseball teams were in action, also. Out towards Call Field, an improvised diamond held perhaps a score of enthusiastic players, while in several places in and around the city youngsters and grownups were seen "warming up" getting the winter stiffness worked out.

BLUES LEAVE FOR SPRING TRAINING

By Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 27.—Seven members and Manager Otto Knabe of the local American association club will depart tomorrow for their spring training ground at Monroe, La.

"Dutch" Zwilling, outfielder, obtained recently from Indianapolis, will be among these men. The remainder of the Blues will report later at the training camp, it is announced.

WHO SAID THE ENGLISH WERE WITHOUT HUMOR?

LONDON, Feb. 27.—The latest and most "pat" paragraph on the heavyweight championship of the world contest appears in the Star, and is as follows:

"Perhaps Carpentier and Dempsey could be induced to meet if they were offered the Germany indemnity; and as that will take over 40 years to get, they would have plenty of time to fix a date."

MANY MEMBERS OF CHAMPION REDS HAVE DEPARTED

Eleven gone, and more going. That's the situation in Redville, where Pat Moran's former world's champions are getting away for the southland. A dozen, lacking one, of the twenty-three players Moran guided to the National league and world's championships in 1919 have left the ranks of Moran. Greasy Neale, Jimmy Ring and Walter Reuther have been traded to other National league clubs. Sherwood Magee and Roy Mitchell were released. Slim Sallee was allowed to go back to his old town and the Giants via the waiver route. Morris Rath, Henry Schreiber, Jimmy Smith and Catcher Allen are back in the minors.

DE PALMA WINS AUTO CLASSIC IN LOS ANGELES

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 27.—Ralph DePalma won the fifty-mile final automobile race here today in 27 minutes and 56 seconds, an average speed of 107.3 miles an hour, said to be a record for automobiles of 183 inches displacement.

Tommy Milton was second; Roscoe Sarles, third; Jimmy Murphy, fourth; Ira Vail, fifth, and Miller, sixth.

De Palma won the first heat of 25 miles from a field of nine and the fifth and final heat of 50 miles from six.

Sarles won the second heat of 25 miles in 13 minutes and 59 seconds, an average speed of 108.7 miles an hour. Sarles' times was said to be a record for the distance.

Murphy won the third heat of 25 miles in 14 minutes 27.41 seconds.

Milton took the fourth heat of 25 miles in 14 minutes 22 3-5 seconds.

De Palma rolled up a total of 180 points, counting in the national championship competition for 1921. Milton secured 100 points, Sarles 75 and Murphy 45.

The prize money was divided on the basis of rank in both preliminary and final heats. Because of this arrangement, Milton, who raced in every heat, took the largest share, his total being $4,175. De Palma, whose victory in the first heat barred him from the other preliminaries, received $4,000.

NEW AGREEMENT UP FOR ACTION BEFORE COUNCIL

The discussion of a new agreement to be placed before the contractors of this city by the Building and Trades council in the near future was, outside of the regular business routine, the only thing of importance taken up by that organization at the regular weekly meeting at the Labor Temple Sunday afternoon.

According to Jack Prather, chairman of the council, the assembled delegates from the various locals discussed the new agreement and then voted to accept it. It is understood that definite action will be taken in presenting this agreement within the next few days.

EARLY SEASON FOR CATCHING SALMON

PORTLAND, Me., Feb. 27.—The first salmon of the season, a six pounder, has been caught at Sebago Lake by Carleton D. Martin, of East Sebago, through the ice, breaking records for early fishing. The smelt run along the west shore is unprecedented.

At Bath fishermen report lobsters are plentiful and a harbinger of early spring. Large catches have been made. In eastern Maine, grass fires are numerous in sections where a foot of snow covered the ground at this time last year.

LAND DISPUTE DECISION MAY BE MADE TODAY

Expectation that the Supreme court of the United States would today, their first opinion date in some time, be ready to hand down a decision on the state boundary litigation, involving Wichita county oil land in the bed of Red river, and confidence that the opinion, when it does come, will be favorable to Texas claimants, has prevailed in circles for some time past, as recently reflected by the activity of affected claimants in a recent conference.

Belief that the decision would come today is based on the statement by the court at the time the case, or first phase of it, came up for a hearing late last year, that the case would be handled with all possible expedition, and an opinion handed down as quickly as possible. This opinion date will be about the first to come since that time after the elapse of sufficient time for consideration of the case and the preparation of an opinion.

The court at this time heard only one phase of the question—whether or not the Greer county decision fixed the south bank of the stream of Red river as the northern boundary of Texas, and if not, whether or not the boundary is the center of the stream or the south bank.

If the decision in this phase is favorable to Texas, it will mean the end of the suit.

If the decision goes against Texas, and the claimants under Texas titles, the much more complicated question of what in fact constitutes the south bank, will be the next in order.

The Texans, in this event, are expected to claim the south bank as the south of the runing stream, or if not that, the end of the sand flat or line of vegetation.

The State of Oklahoma will contend that the two bluffs on each side of the river, a mile or more away on each side of the actual stream, mark the bed of the stream, and that the bluff on the Texas side constitutes the south bank. This claim is the one which involves the patented lands lying on the Texas side, and inside the line of vegetation.

The government, in intervening, claims these patented lands on one count under the provisions in the treaty with Spain in 1819, which gave the islands in the river to the United States, declaring that in 1819 the stream of Red river ran under the Texas bluff and south of these patented lands, making the land in question islands.

This they are expected to attempt to support by much expert testimony. This ingeneous thory will also explain the presence of trees on this teritory which are shown to be much older than the Treaty of 1918, and to have been large trees at that time.

Operators base their belief on winning the first phase of the question on the case which was made in their favor at the hearing last year.

First, the Greer county decision, or that part of it declaring the south bank of the boundary line of Texas, was attacked as "obiter dicta"—as a part of the decision which did not figure in the case, and consequently as not expressing the opinion of the court but only the private opinion of the justice handing down this decision.

The case on the middle of the stream as the boundary is based principally on the language in the Treaty of 1819 with Spain, which, while swinging the boundary around into Red river, fixing it as following the "course of that stream,"—always in common law the middle of the stream—and on the fact that such has for nearly a hundred years been regarded as the boundary by Texas, Oklahoma and the various courts and agencies of the Federal government.

Epworth League Host to Meeting Of Other Bodies

The Epworth league of the First Methodist church, corner of Lamar and Seventh streets, was host Sunday night at a joint meeting of all the young people's societies of the city. The meeting was attended by 500 young people from the several churches in the city.

Earl A. Wyatt, president of the First Methodist church, presided at the joint program. Mrs. E. S. Goodner of the Central Presbyterian church spoke on the subject of "India's Religions" and M. T. Waggoner of the Floral Heights M. E. church on "India's Famines." Arch Dawson of the First Baptist church gave a brief outline of the lesson.

The service opened with a prayer by J. W. Thorne of the First M. E. church, South, followed by a piano solo, "A Prayer to the Virgin," by Miss Gertrude Bauch of the First Presbyterian church. The program was closed with a prayer by R. C. Carey of the First Methodist church.

TEXAS A. & M. SURE THEY WILL BE CHAMPIONS

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Feb. 27.—The prospects for another Southwest conference championship in basketball at the Farmers' camp was made considerably brighter by the defeat of Texas, her only contender at the hands of Rice institute Thursday night.

As the matter now stands, the Farmers have lost one game, Texas four, and Baylor four. The Longhorns play a total of 14 conference games this season, while the Farmers and Baylor play 12 each. The Farmers have four more conference games to play, two with Texas at Austin and two with the Mustangs at Dallas. If they win 50 per cent of these games, the title will be theirs, since both Texas university and Baylor have already lost four games each, while the Farmers have dropped only one. Baylor has completed all her conference games and finishes the season with eight wins and four losses, with a conference standing of .666. The Longhorns have also played 12 conference games to date, with eight wins and four losses, giving them a standing of .666, but with two more games to play with the Farmers. Should the Longhorns cop both of these games, it would give them a standing of .713, but this would not be enough to win over the Farmers, provided, of course, they win from S. M. U. at Dallas, which would give them nine wins out of 12 games played, or a percentage of .750 in the Southwest conference.

Panthers Have Pennant Dream

The Fort Worth Panthers start their initial spring practice today afternoon, just about a week sooner than the Spudders. According to Pop Boone of the Fort Worth Record, Pop, in expressing confidence of the Fort Worth ball team, in his initial spring style, says:

"Old Man Baseball made a drilling report to me yesterday afternoon. He said Pennant No. 2. on the Panther park in the North Main street section is down to the pay sand and is only a shade below the top off the ground. Yesterday morning at 11 o'clock indications are that it will be a big brother to Pennant No. 1, which came in about this time last year and which proved such a big producer.

"This report will be joy to the hearts of about 20,000 stockholders in the Panther company, who have been looking for or less for No. 2 well.

"At least a hundred candidates for jobs on the Fort Worth entry in the Texas league scramble are expected to and at Panther park at Tuesday morning, Jake Atz, skipper of the sailed into town early Jake says he'll have 'em out in a while, in middle of that at its hottest stage.

THE GRAND OLD MAN.

Hans Wagner stuck around a long, long time—
He saw a flock of players come and go—
The Flying Dutchman lasted on and on,
A never-rusting feature of the show.
And yes, despite the many years he played,
Another star saw more of bat and ball—
An old player dims big Wagner's fame—
For Anson lasted longest of them all!

Nap Lajoie, for more than twenty years,
Collected base hits in his own sweet style—
The mighty Frenchman knew the way to smite,
And loved to send the leather half a mile.
The Frenchman was a marvel—yet at last
He heard the summons—heard retirement's call—
Some years of steady service less than Uncle knew—
For Anson lasted longest of them all.

Cy Young for over twenty seasons shot his speed;
The crafty Mathewson held pitching reign
For sixteen years—and Cyrus Cobb has stuck
Through the hot work of many a long campaign.
They come and go—but one name still remains—
One matchless record in the game of ball—
They came, and went—and lasted while they could—
But Anson lasted longest of them all!

NEW YORK SAYS BAKER NOT SOLD TO WASHINGTON

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Reports from Cincinnati that Frank ("Homerun") Baker had been sold to the Washington American league club were denied here tonight by Edward Barrow, business manager of the New York Americans. Mr. Barrow said that, aside from a few minor details, Baker's contract with New York was ready to be signed and he is to join the club at the Shreveport training camp next Sunday.

Baker did not play baseball last year on account of the death of his wife. Mr. Barrow said the New York club had announced they would consider a trade for Baker if a first-class outfielder was given in exchange, but the Washington club had none to offer. He said an offer of $25,000 and two mediocre players from Washington had been refused.

JOSE R. CAPABLANCA

Jose Capablanca, Cuban chess wonder and greatest of the chess experts on the Western hemisphere, is going to match his skill against the greatest Eastern hemisphere experts on March 10 for the chess championship of the world. The match is to be staged in Havana. Emanuel Lasker is the man he's to meet.

Capablanca is a youngster, as chess masters go. He is 30. But he has vanquished all opponents on the American continent quite handily. Lasker is a German and is 52. He has been recognized as champion of all Europe since he defeated Wilhelm Steinitz in 1893.

Capablanca has met the veteran player before. When 18 years of age the Cuban played Lasker in Petrograd in a two-game match, but the best the youngster could do was to draw in one game, losing the first.

The men will play for a $20,000 purse. Lasker will receive $11,000 and Capablanca $9,000. Lasker, because of his greater experience and previous play, is regarded as the favorite, but Americans are pulling for Capablanca to bring the world chess title to this side of the water.

DOES WILSON WANT MONTE CRISTO ISLE?

PARIS, Feb. 27.—Reports received in Paris say that President Wilson has asked the King of Italy to sell him the island of Monte Cristo situated between Corsican and the western coast of Italy. The newspaper reports further state that President Wilson chose this spot on account of its isolated position, where he could quietly settle down and write a book of his memoirs. King Victor Emmanuel owns the only house on the island and it was there that Dante sought the treasures of the Abbe Faria.

LABOR TAKES UP FIGHT FOR RUSS UNIONS

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Organized labor throughout the world, especially in the United States, is urged to protest the "ruthless persecution and slaughter of labor unionists" in soviet Russia in an appeal issued for tonight by the American Federation of Labor.

"Let the soviet savages know what labor of the civilized world thinks of their bestial system," the appeal declares. "Let every labor organization in the country respond."

The statement declared that after "tricking" labor into supporting the soviet regmie, Trotzky and Lenine, its leaders, began "carrying out threats of extermination of the leaders of labor and peasant parties and also of the so-called hostages."

"The offense of labor unionists was very clear," said the appeal. They are fundamentally opposed to the so-called government set up by Lenine and his handful of associate dictators. As far as possible under that ruthless tyranny organized labor of Russia is everywhere in a state of full revolt. The organized workers are doing what they can to reach the hearts and minds of the laboring humanity in all countries, but they are working against overwhelming obstacles—refusal of the bread card, which means immediate starvation for their families, the firing squad, death by torture in prisons. It is difficult for them even to speak and a decree especially forbidding speeches at labor union meetings has been issued."

The appeal cites at length a list of charges against the soviet regime, declaring that it has established a system of "slavery, made long hours and Sunday work compulsory and has forbidden strikes."

"There has probably never been in modern times or in any country," the statement concludes, "a more ruthless persecution and slaughter of labor unionists than that which is now taking place in what the Norwegian labor party calls "barbarous soviet Russia." Things have gone so far that M. Merrsheim, secretary of the largest French labor union (the metal workers) although an ultra pacifist and revolutionary syndicalist himself, has issued an appeal to organized labor of the world to rise its voice in protest. This appeal deserves a response in every country of the world and especially in the United States."

CONGRESS ON HOME STRETCH OF MEETING

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Congress enters tomorrow on the home stretch drive toward adjournment Friday the fourteen regular money bills have priation bills and a scramble for the tape on the part of the scores of other measures. Night sessions are in order with an all night finale, as usual, preceding inauguration day.

All of the appropriation measures except the naval budget are expected to go through although only seven of ures, the army, agricultural sundry been completed, and just two have been signed so far by President Wilson.

The chief executive will be at the capital the forenoon of March 4 for actions on eleventh hour measures.

Five of the appropriation measures, the army, agricultural Sundry civil legislative and fortifications, are in conference, but agreements expected.

A big fight is expected over the army bill due to the senate's increase of the regular army to 175,000 men against 150,000 fixed by the house.

The question of free seeds and of a $5,000,000 loan to farmers in drouth stricken regions of the west are tying up the agricultural bill. The senate and house are deadlocked on the Sundry civil measure over the $10,000,000 Muscle Shoals power amendment of the senate and over the $18,600,000 appropriation for soldier hospitals. The house probably will vote tomorrow in an attempt to clear this deadlock. The controversy as to the agricultural bill revolves largely about the provision for purchase by the treasury of $200,000,000 of farm loan bonds proposed by the senate. The house will vote Tuesday on the provision.

Little legislation except the appropriation bills is expected to get through the final jam in the Fordney emergency tariff bill which comes up tomorrow in the senate for final action with the transmission to President Wilson in prospect. It is one measure in a four cornered fight for precedence in the senate. The other three bills behind which pressure is planned are:

The war time laws repeal resolution; the soldiers bonus measure and the navy appropriation budget. The last is expected to bring a renewal of disarmament debate which promises to so delay action as to thwart passage of the measure.

SMITH CASTS ANOTHER HAT IN POLITICS

A petition calling for the placing of the name of William L. Smith on the list of candidates for the office of city commissioner in the coming election of April 5 was filed Saturday at the office of City Clerk Thorburn. The petition asks that Mr. Smith be considered a candidate for the office headed No. 1.

Asking for that position on the ballot adds Mr. Smith to the list of candidates opposing Police Commissioner Bralley, who has announced himself as a candidate for re-election, but whose petition has not yet been filed. The petitions of R. L. Yates, George Hodgins and C. J. Arrington have already been filed with the office of the city clerk and their acceptance received.

Mr. Smith is foreman at the Wichita Falls planing mill. It is not known on what issues he will make his campaign. His petition contained over 100 signatures.

The petition of Dr. J. F. Reed as a candidate under the heading No. 2 was also filed Saturday with the city clerk. As previously announced, Dr. Reed will be a candidate against M. O. McDowell, city sanitary commissioner, who has announced that he will run for re-election, but whose petition has as yet not been filed.

With the election less than five weeks away, the campaign for various city commissioner offices has begun to assume definite form, with a probability that the end of the present week will see all candidates with their petitions and acceptances filed.

Based on the announcements made up to Saturday night, R. E. Shepherd, present finance commissioner, will be the only candidate without opposition. Rumors are current to the effect that a candidate against Shepherd will be announced this week. It is known that efforts are being made by the friends of two business men to have them announce for the office.

The campaign for place No. 1 will narrow down to two candidates, in the opinion of a large number of local business and professional men. It is believed that the opposition to the present commissioner, Bralley, will be centered in one candidate. Asked concerning the rumor that he and another candidate would withdraw in favor of a third in opposition to Commissioner Bralley, R. L. Yates stated Saturday that he had no intention of withdrawing from the race. It is understood that a similar attitude has been expressed by the other candidates.

WATCHFUL EYES OF POLICE HERE PREVENT CRIME

Belief that the constant watchfulness of an earnest and zealous and efficient police force, backed by the co-operation of a progressive set of business men, is largely responsible for the remarkably low record of criminal acts in Wichita Falls uring a period of time when other cities seem to be overwhelmed with the activities of organized gangs of criminals, was expressed Sunday by Police Commissioner Bralley.

The commissioner declared that he had found merchants always willing to bear any expense asked of them in tracking down criminals who commit unlawful acts here and then leave town and that the ready willingness of the press to champion the cause of the right and to herald the penalties inflicted on wrong doers, gave the news to the ousiders that immediate prosecution faced any criminals who might attempt to operate in Wichita Falls, served to help in keeping them away.

Plain clothes and uniformed officers meet every incoming train, according to Commissioner Bralley, and as criminals are usually known to some of them, few ever land here without being detected before they have time to get to work.

In this connection Mr. Bralley asserted that he and Police Chief Huff have so arranged their patrol schedules that they have the largest force at work during the hours between late evening and daylight. It is at these hours that the majority of the criminal class are most active, according to the records of detectives, and they, believing in the old adage, "that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," attempt to prevent the outbreak of criminal activities by keeping on the job.

Concerning the personnel of the working force, Mr. Bralley declared that in his opinion they were as fine and upstanding a bunch of citizens as he had ever seen on any police force, and one of which the city council well feel proud to have represent it as officers of the law.

Of the 43 on the force, the commissioner said that he was reliably informed that 20 owned their own homes and that with the exception of Chief of Detectives W. A. Boyd and two or three ex-soldiers on the force the others were all long-time residents of the city.

Ten of the policemen are honorably discharged soldiers, several of whom saw service in the front line trenches, according to army records, which they presented the commissioner when they made application for their positions.

Income Tax Filing Aid Available

Directions to income tax payers, giving instructions concerning filing their returns and methods of getting assistance, were issued by Scott Reed, collector of internal revenue for the Second district of Texas, with headquarters at Dallas, as follows:

"With the approach of March 15, taxpayers are advised not to delay in the preparation and filing of their income tax returns for the year 1920. To avoid penalties, the returns must be in the hands of a collector or a deputy collector of internal revenue on or before midnight of that date.

"Revenue officers have been assigned to assist taxpayers in correctly making out the forms, and are located at the following places on the following dates:

"March 1 to 15, Federal building, Wichita Falls.

"March 1, 2, 3, Continental State bank, Petrolia.

"March 3, 4, 5, American State bank, Burkburnett.

"March 7, 8, 9, First National bank, Iowa Park.

"March 7 to 15, inclusive, postoffice, Vernon.

"March 14, 15, First National bank, Electra.

"This service is offered without cost to the public.

On page 1 of the income tax forms is the following: 'If you need assistance, go to a deputy collector or to the collector's office, but first read instructions and fill out your sheet, front and back in pencil as well as you can.'

"Much time can be saved both the government officers and the taxpayer if, before seeking aid, the taxpayer will follow this injunction. For example, blank spaces are provided for the following questions: 'Are you a citizen of the United States?' 'If not, are you a resident of the United States?' 'Did you file a return for 1919?' 'If so, what address was given on that return?' 'Were you married and living with wife or husband on the last day of your taxable period?' 'How many persons under 18 (or, if over 18, incapable of self-support because of mental or physical defects) were receiving their chief support from you on the last date of your taxable period?'

"Questions such as these should not await inquiry from revenue officers assisting in making out the forms.

Returns are required of every married couple whose net income and that of dependent children for the year was more than $2,000 or more and from every and for every single person and for every married person not living with wife or husband whose net income was $1,000 or more.

"The exemptions are $2,000 for married persons and heads of families and $1,000 for single persons or married persons not living with wife or husband, and are determined by the taxpayer's status on the last day of the taxable year, December 31, 1920.

"Husband and wife may make a combined return of their joint net income, if less than $5,000. If the income of either exceeds $5,000, separate returns should be filed for the purpose of computing correctly the surtax which applies only to incomes in excess of that amount.

"The tax may be paid in full at the time of filing the return, or in four equal installments, due on or before March 15, June 15, September 15 and December 15. Taxpayers are advised not to send tax through the mail.

"Checks and money orders should be drawn to the order of 'Collector of Internal Revenue.' The remittance and return should be mailed to Scott Reed, collector of internal revenue, Dallas, Texas."

SOCIAL SPIRIT OF "FIRST LADY" TO GUIDE SOCIETY AT CAPITAL

It is not the entertainments which make or mar the social life of the White House. They are always the same and never change or will be changed. To most of the guests, except those who are participating for the first time, they are mere endurance tests, as are the "drawing rooms" of the officialdom of other capitals. It is the social spirit which emanates from the first lady that pervades and uplifts the heaviness of life in the executive mansion. This cannot be put into words, but its influence is at once recognized.

Dolly Madison had it, so did Mrs. McKee, who brought dancing back to the old mansion. Mrs. Cleveland had the secret, too, but of all the later first ladies Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt possessed the social gift. She made the executive mansion habitable for the first time in many years. She also brought a rich new social life into it.

To infuse personal element is Mrs. Harding's job and those who know her say she will not fail.

Mrs. Harding knows her Washington very well indeed and has a general idea at least of what will be required of her in this way and must therefore be somewhat uneasy at the task confronting her—that of making herself and the White House circle a social influence which will really count.

She will no doubt make some such judicious selection in the choice of secretary. In a few instances the identity of the social mentor of presidents' wives has been kept a profound secret, the person acting in such capacity being unwilling to have it known that she was using her birthright as a means of increasing her income. It is only through these secretaries that the first ladies can be reached, and she protects the feminine head of the nation in every way. Oddly enough, the wives and other feminine members of the families of the chief executives have almost never "meddled in politics," and there are no known instances of a president's wife or feminine member of his household being party to any political intrigue, as she might easily be, and often is, in the official households of other countries.

Washington is going to be very gay next winter, or at least people are hoping that it will be. For so long the White House has been practically closed to social life, due to the exigencies of the war years and then of serious illness within its doors, that there is a craving for social manifestation in the "People's House" once more. Again are all the brides and bridegrooms from Bangor to Seattle planning to take their wedding trip to Washington and wear their new clothes at a White House reception, a card for which they will demand at the hands of their congressman from "back home," so that a little about the etiquette of the White House functions may, therefore, be timely.

The Long Reception Line.

On New Year's day the official social season of Washington, or rather of the United States, was inaugurated for many years by a great public reception at the White House. This function has been discontinued since President Taft's time, but Mr. and Mrs. Harding are being urged to revive it and will probably do so. Any one who has participated in these receptions will never forget them—the sight of the endless line of people patiently waiting hour after hour, often in blizzard weather, to shake hands with the president, and the scores of mothers held up their babies for the president's wife to caress; where old people tottered away cherishing a flower from the first lady's bouquet; of a fellow-townsman of the president boisterously greeting him as "Hank" or "Bill" for the edification of the line.

No matter how humble you were, on that day you were privileged to enter the executive mansion as an honored guest and shake hands with the president, greet his wife, the cabinet officers and their wives, as well as numbers of other dignitaries. This function was discontinued as being too great a tax on the strength of the official family, but it is probably less of a tax than those amenities attending on a campaign for office and the public bitterly resented its discontinuance.

There are three great receptions, the diplomatic, the congressional, the army and navy, as well as a number of state dinners which are obligatory social functions for the first lady. They differ from one another only in the glory of their menus.

'HIGH BROW' FARMERS TRY SPECIALIZING

Wichita Falls has some real "agriculturalists" and thoroughbred stock raisers in the persons of George Keith of the Wichita Produce company; Robert Elliott, plumbing contractor, and F. A. Ray of the Ray Sheet Metal works, all of whom have stock farms adjoining each other about six miles east of town. By agriculturalists we mean those "high brow" farmers, who read the Country Gentleman and everything like that.

All three of these stockmen are prominent in local businesses, who have spent a good deal in buying and equipping stock farms with pure bred cattle and hogs. George Keith has gone in for Hereford cattle and will ship six head of thoroughbreds to the fat stock show to be held this March in Fort Worth. He has at the present time 19 head of registered Herefords, including junior yearlings, senior calves and 2-year-olds.

Pure bred hogs are being also raised by these stockmen. Keith has the only pure Hereford hogs in the state, four in number. This breed is a cross of the Duroc and Chester White, and was introduced by R. V. Webber of La Platte, Mo., after years spent in developing the breed. These hogs are said to resemble the Hereford cattle in conformation and color.

Mr. Elliott is specializing in spotted China hogs, of which he has several very fine specimens. One of this breed, aged 14 months, weighs 485 pounds, and another, aged 16 months, tips the scales at 600 pounds. When fatted for the market these same hogs will weigh 800 pounds, it is said.

Duroc hogs are Mr. Ray's hobby and he has several very fine animals of this breed. In addition to the pure bred hogs, each of these stock raisers have a number of ordinary hogs, but they are making an effort to replace all of the inferior grade with thoroughbred varieties.

The help of the Chamber of Commerce is being asked by these men in securing the starting of a local "stock exchange" (not oil stock, but where cattlemen and hog raisers could meet and buy and sell in a common mart). Support of this proposal was promised informally by a representative of the Chamber of Commerce, who stated that body welcomed any encouragement of stock raising in this vicinity.

Scouts Thank J. A. Kemp for Park Donation

Following the gift of a park site to the Boy Scouts of Wichita Falls by J. A. Kemp the following letter of appreciation and thanks was prepared by troop 6, boy scouts.

"Troop 6, in voicing the sentiments of the boy scouts of the city, wishes to say in behalf of the scout movement that they are certainly grateful to Mr. Kemp's liberality in giving the scouts of the city a place on which to make a park.

"To know that such a man is behind the movement is a great incentive itself, by which to work and attain that high standard which is set by the scouts' ambition.

"The scouts are also grateful to Mr. W. S. Curlee for his assistance in the matter.

"They have always seemed to be in need of something like this to restore that old confidence and help build up the character of the fortunate boy, who has the opportunity to become a boy scout. They now feel certain that they are now and always will uphold their high ideals and principles in the present and future as they have been maintained in the past.

(Signed) JOE BASHARA, Troop Captain."

Some Things That Saving Implies.

Saving may mean self-denial, but it doesn't mean skimping. It doesn't mean not spending; it means spending wisely, and spending less than you earn. It means putting money aside for the time of need; it means letting your money earn more for you; it means forming a habit that is worth more than the money involved.

WEEKLY COTTON REVIEW.

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—The trend in prices in the cotton market this week was strongly downward and after the middle of the week new low levels were made session after session, with the lowest levels of the week and season on the close. Losses in the contract market amounted to 132 to 158 points. In the spot demand middling lost 125 points in the net results, closing at 11.50 cents a pound, against 40.25 this week last year.

The heaviness of the spot markets of the interior was the main reason for the slump. Spots led at the decline constantly and at the end of the week Fort Worth, Texas, in the extreme western belt, quoted middling at 10.65 cents a pounds, while Augusta, in the extreme eastern belt, quoted middling at 11 cents. In some instances banks were said to be advising holders to liquidate further as the only means of alleviating matters. A feature that caused much selling was the announcement that spots were being bought in Liverpool for shipment to this side. Two lots of cotton, one of a hundred bales and one of a thousand, were heard as being on their way across the Atlantic from Liverpool to be tendered against French contracts in the New York market.

First notice day for March on Wednesday went off better than expected, particularly so in view of the large amount of tenders, estimated at 10,000 bales in this market and 75,000 bales in the New York market.

Lowest prices of the week were reached following reports of serious rioting in Alexandria, and there was considerable selling on the closing on the fear that the market might open Monday on further unfavorable political news.

NEW YORK DRY GOODS.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Following the weakness in cotton and the continued lack of demand for future deliveries that will keep mills employed, the cotton goods markets in the primary division have been weaker. The jobbers are doing a steady business in small lots for immediate and nearby delivery and, in turn, they are reordering from mill agencies for prompt shipment. The scarcity of goods for immediate delivery is confined largely to the staple standard branded merchandise, but it is also true that many lines of wash fabrics and summer specialties are not in stock, although they are now being produced more freely. In mill channles there is further talk of curtailment of production, due to the wiping out of the profit margin on unfinished goods. Bleached and brown cottons, branded, are steady. Percales and prints are well sold for the next 30 days. Ginghams are selling steadily. Fine wash goods, printed and yarn dyed, are moving better each week from jobbers' stocks. White goods are steady. Yarn markets have weakened and prices are at the low point again.

Agents' prices are as follows:

Print cloths, 28-inch, 64x64's, 5⅝c; 64x60's, 5⅝c; 38½-inch 64x64's, 8c; brown sheetings, Southern standards, 11 to 11½c; tickings, 8-ounce, 20c; denims, 220's indigo, 17c; staple ginghams 13½c; dress ginghams, 15 and 17c; standard prints, 11c
